Letter to the Mentone community

Several years ago, a drive was started to get money and personnel to start an ambulance service. The response was very satisfactory.

We again are making a drive for personnel. This service has been available for over 6 years, but we need more people to be able to keep it running.

We are down to 10 licensed EMT's to run this service 7 days a week, 24 hours a day. Without the tremendous help we have been getting from helpers and drivers, we would have had to close down the service already. This is a plea for help.

We are planning to have a class offered in Mentone this fall but we need thirty people at least to have it. The approximate cost will be $50. This amount will be returned after passing the test and starting to work for the service. We need your help!

Would your organization have someone available to volunteer? If we are to keep this service available to the community we must have more people.

Anyone interested please contact Ed Lamar (353-7764) or Carol Boyer (353-7347) or any other EMT. Something has to be done and soon.

This is an earnest plea for your help.

Sincerely,

4-Way Ambulance Service
Carol Boyer, Secretary

Threatens suit for treatment

The Akron Town Board was charged with unfair treatment of a property owner during the board meeting last week when Larry Howard, owner of Howard Apartments, West Walnut St., Akron, appeared before the town trustees to protest his being charged for a water hydrant installed near his new apartments and being billed for part of the cost of improving the street in front of the apartments.

Howard said that even though he had agreed to at one time pay part of the cost, he did not feel he should be made to pay because people in other areas of town had had new water hydrants installed and the town had made street repairs on other streets. Howard advised the board that he had secured services of a lawyer and been advised to file suit against the town to recover the fees already paid, and keep from paying other charges.

P.S.I. revises Marble Hill construction estimates

Public Service Indiana announced a new cost estimate for its Marble Hill nuclear plant, rescheduled the in-service date for its second unit from December 1987 to June 1988 and announced that its quality assurance program and safety-related structures have been given a superior performance rating by the Nuclear Regulatory Commission.

The cost of the entire project is now estimated at $5.1 billion, an increase of $785 million, or 18 percent, over the previous estimate of $4.3 billion. The project is jointly owned by Public Service Indiana with an 83 percent interest and Wabash Valley Power Association with a 17 percent interest. The company's portion of the total project will increase from $3.55 billion to $4.2 billion.

Company Chairman Hugh A. Barker said that about 60 percent of the increase in the project cost was due to additional work, higher unit labor costs and more manpower needs caused by the increased complexity and scope of nuclear plant construction and quality control requirements. Total construction manning at peak periods in late 1983 and 1984, including approximately 800 Public Service Indiana personnel, is now estimated at 5,000 compared with the 1980 estimate of 3,500.

Barker noted that design changes and intensified quality assurance efforts had been made in order to meet all Nuclear Regulatory Commission Requirements. "Such changes inevitably mean we're investing more money and hiring more people," he said, "so it's especially gratifying to receive such a high rating from the commission." In a letter notifying the company of the rating, NRC Regional Administrator James G. Keppler said, "It is my view that the overall regulatory performance of Public Service Indiana has improved significantly...and is more than adequate to carry out an acceptable construction program. Management attention to the project has resulted in an effective organization, as well as effective management systems and procedures. A definite turnaround in performance has resulted."

"The other major factor, which accounts for about 40 percent of the increase is the cost of financing during the construction period," Barker said. "Continuing high borrowing costs during the construction period account for about 45 percent of the total cost of the project."

Barker also said that the six-month change in the in-service date of the second unit would enable the company to concentrate on completion of the first unit by December 1, 1986. As of June 30, 1982, Unit 1 was 38 percent complete and Unit 2 was 20 percent complete.

The company's total 1982-86 construction program, including Marble Hill and nuclear fuel requirements, is currently estimated at $3.6 billion compared with the 1981 estimate of $3.4 billion. The new estimate reflects cancellations or deferrals of other previously planned non-nuclear construction of approximately $220 million. Outside financing requirements for the same period, which include construction and nuclear fuel expenditures, are estimated at $2.0 billion, up $27 million from the 1981 estimate. Construction expenditures and outside financing requirements for the 1987-1991 period drop sharply with the completion of Marble Hill in 1988.

Revised load growth estimates were also announced by the company. It now expects winter peak demands for the 1982-83 period to grow at a rate of 3.7 percent annually and summer peaks to grow at a rate of 2.7 percent per year. The year-ago forecast estimated annual winter peak load growth at 4.1 percent and summer peak load growth at 3.5 percent. "These new load forecasts indicate that generating capacity other than that presently under construction will not be required until late in the 1990's," Barker said.

"Depending upon environmental and other factors, it is likely that the Marble Hill units will come into service somewhat ahead of need," Barker stated. "Demand for power has been growing much more slowly than it was when commitments for Marble Hill were made. If the state sees a drop in unemployment, a resurgence in housing and other economic improvements, demand for electricity will climb."

"But even if that growth does not come as soon as expected, our present studies indicate that the most economic choice for our customers is to continue building Marble Hill as expeditiously as possible," Barker said.

He also said that the completion of the Marble Hill units ahead of scheduled need would make power available for sale to other utilities on an interim basis; such sales would reduce needed rate increases when the Marble Hill units are placed in service.

Barker also said that the new cost of $2,240 per kilowatt is in line with many other nuclear projects around the country. "Even with the increased costs, the cost of Marble Hill power maintains an advantage over fossil-fueled power costs in the same time frame."

The company has submitted its revised load, construction and financing forecasts to National Economic Research Associates, a New York consulting firm. This firm will review the company's construction program and determine its effect on cost of capital and present and future rates for the Public Service Commission of Indiana. The study is expected to be completed by early October.

raise $265,583. The total amount to be raised through the tax levy is $1,966,826, for the four accounts.

Last year the school board proposed a budget which requested 3.83 tax rate and the state approved $3,279. The proposed budget for 1983 of $3,942.7, if approved would be an increase of eleven cents.

Bus Bids

In other business, board members directed Superintendent Baxter Paige to advertise for bids on nine school buses. Bids will be taken up until the date set for the next school board meeting which is Monday, August 16 at 7:30 p.m. in the high school lecture room.

Threatens suit

After considerable discussion, the board on a motion made by Trustee Vernon Waymire, decided to refund the $650 Howard had paid on the water hydrant and void the invoices issued for $800 for street repairs. The decision of the board was unanimous.

Ask to Vacate Alley

A request for permission to vacate an alley was made by Ken Wagenknecht during the meeting. The alley located in the Whittenburger Addition to the Town of Akron separates Lots 24, 25, 26 and 27 and Lots 20, 21, 22 and 23 and extends from Adams St. to Franklin St. Wagenknecht asked the alley be vacated so he can build a garage and needs some of the area from the alley to do so. He noted the alley had not been used for several years. Board president Ron Fenimore advised him that he would check with the town's attorney Jess Brown to find out the procedure required for making a vacation appeal.

Tree Lawn Responsibility

David Fulton inquired about some trees located on his tree lawn which are getting in bad condition and need to be topped or cut down. The board advised him that trees on the tree lawn are the responsibility of the property owners.

Ask For Action

Joe Day appeared before the town board again to inquire when Sparks would begin to lay the new sewer line which will service his trailer park. He reported considerable trouble with the old line and stated that if the new line isn't available soon, he might have to start hauling his sewer discharge out. The town board had agreed to lay a new sewer line on Water

St., which separates the trailer court, during last month's board meeting, if Day would pay some of the costs.

Other business

In other business the board discussed the problems with the ice cream truck which has been visiting town, in regard to having a peddlers license to permit him to peddle his ice cream. It was decided that he should be notified by the police that he would have to pay $5 per day to get a permit.

On a motion made by Charles Miller, the board decided to continue to pay Rick Ringle's salary while he is away at National Guard camp.

An open door was reported at the fire station and the police were to be asked to keep a close watch on the station to find out who is entering without permission and leaving the door open.

Discuss Police Car

The board discussed the condition of the current town police car. The mileage is high and it is starting to cost a lot to keep it repaired. Different ideas were discussed such as buying a used car, leasing arrangements, etc. President Fenimore and Police Chief Dave Kruger are to investigate the different options available and report them to the board.

Kruger mentioned the need for a holding pen to put stray dogs in until the county dog pound operator can come to Akron to pick them up. A motion was made by Miller that the police be authorized to secure the necessary material and build the shelter.

Receive Permit to Burn

Clerk Ernest Smith advised the board that they had received a variance or permit to burn the town's accumulation of brush, limbs, etc., at a site outside of town.

The permit expires June 1, 1983 and allows the town to burn four times per year. The Fulton County Health Department and the Fire Department must be notified prior to each time burning is done and report needs to be made after the end of the period summarizing the date, etc. of each burning.

President Fenimore advised the board that they had a tentative agreement with Bob Stout to rent an old gravel pit area on his farm to use for burning the accumulated brush. The price agreed upon was $20 per month starting with June 15, 1982 and continuing until terminated by either of the parties. A motion was made by Charles Miller that the agreement be accepted.

Clerk Smith reported on the bicycle auction conducted on June 26, 1982. One bicycle was purchased by Doug Kelly for $25, and the other was purchased by Robert Gray for $32.

Smith relayed a message to Dave Kruger and he was to pass it along to Officer Jim Spangle from Judy Hill, wherein she complimented the police on doing a good job and that she supported their efforts.

The next regular meeting of the board will be August 17, 7:30 p.m. in the town hall.

Dairy tips for August

Results from tests for protein and fat content and somatic cell counts are now being sent by teleprocessing from the Milk Testing Lab at Purdue to the Dairy Records Processing Center at Raleigh, NC. The pilot program with samples from one Supervisor will be expanded to all herds coming into the Central Lab as soon as possible. Lower time from test day until the reports are back in the dairy operator's hands for use will be one pay-off. Manual copying of numbers in the lab will be eliminated and more information will be available to help manage the lab operation. Nearly 3/4 of the cows on test now have protein content and somatic cell counts run each month on their milk samples.

The handwriting on the wall indicates the need to reduce production and increase consumption to reduce government support purchases. Are you doing your part by culling an extra cow or two? Do your support advertising with your check-off and by example? Do you consume milk and other real dairy products at home and when out to dinner?

The dairy cow continues to respond to TLC—tender, loving care. Take care of your cows and they will provide a good living for you.

Bible School date set

Vacation Bible School will be held at the Omega Community Church (off St. Rd. 14) on August 9th through the 13th from 9 a.m. to 11 a.m.

Classes will be available for pre-school through sixth grade.

There will be Bible and missionary stories, games, wood crafts, sno-cone refreshments, rock and frog jumping contest. Everyone is welcome to attend. Call 893-4297 for transportation.

TVHS pool schedule

The Tippecanoe Valley pool will be open Sunday 2-4 p.m.; Monday 7-9 p.m. and Thursday 7-9 p.m. during the month of August.

A good dinner in thirteenth century China could consist of some 150 separate dishes.

Balanced Budget Amendment

A number of intelligent politicians, columnists and political observers are now telling us a constitutional amendment to balance the budget is a dangerous remedy.

They say that in time of recession, when the government needs to hike unemployment benefits and prime the pump, so to speak, having to balance the budget would cause severe hardship. They say Congress won't abide by the amendment--and who will do what to punish members? There are many other arguments, and logical ones, that this approach won't work.

The answer to all these well-reasoned arguments is simple. It may well be that a constitutional amendment won't work or won't be followed by Congress. Nevertheless, the result can't be any worse than what we have had for the past twenty or thirty years.

It's certainly time to try something different and there is a chance the amendment would be accepted by each new Congress and that the politicians would spend within the country's limits. Also, if Congress is barred from spending more money in time of recession than the treasury collects, that will, of course hurt some. But that may be less harmful over the long run than continued overspending, which in time will produce severe inflation, a weak dollar and even higher interest rates.

In addition, Congress can, by a three-fifths vote, program a deficit under the proposed amendment--and one suspects Congress will not hesitate to utilize this "out." So one might say that the greatest danger in the balanced budget amendment now being considered in Congress, and likely to pass, is that the three-fifths vote "out" will make the limiting amendment meaningless.

The amendment therefore should be ratified by three-fourths of the states after congressional passage, and one suspects it will be--rather promptly. The American people want Congress to act responsibly; irresponsible spending has put the American people in hock by more than a trillion dollars. Interest on that debt now costs the taxpayers almost a hundred billion dollars a year--far more than the total of the entire federal budget thirty years ago!

The real danger is that this amendment (S.J. Res. 58) is not firm enough in limiting Congress, that it's designed to please the voter as something the politicians in Washington pass, for effect, and then continue to overspend, when and if they wish, by three-fifths votes.

August 6

In 1945, on August 6, the B-29 Enola Gay, piloted by Col. Paul Tibbets, flew to Hiroshima, Japan. It carried the first atom bomb used in war, dropped it on that city of 343,000. Sixty percent of the metropolis was devastated by the bomb.

Another was dropped two days later on Nagasaki; the two killed 70,000 people and made another 120,000 homeless, in addition to injuring many others. Japan sued for peace within days. The two atomic bombs proved the psychological and military shock that ended the war.

Much has since been written, here and abroad, about the supposed inhumanity of America in using the horrible weapon first. Their use probably saved hundreds of thousands of U.S. casualties by shortening the war.

Any U.S. president who had possessed the means to end the war and who did not use it to save American lives would have been widely condemned. There was no easy way out.

Our Children

Many Americans are dismayed at today's high level of violence and crime--the lack of kindness and compassion exhibited by many Americans.

Yet they allow their children to go to films which degrade every traditional virtue and moral standard. They allow them to spend hours and hours watching a cold-blooded, commercial television devoted primarily to selling, by attracting the largest possible audience with crime, shock, violence, etc.

Inevitably, children are influenced by this deluge. In this connection, the moral teachings of our churches are highly desirable in building character. And examples set by parents are equally important.

Salmonella

An illness which afflicts millions, mysteriously, is salmonella food poisoning.

In warm climates, pork is suspect and one should eat pork only well done. In recent years, however, poultry has been identified as the source of more salmonella food poisoning than pork.

Eggs are also known to be a carrier of the germ which causes the illness. Cracked eggs should be avoided and uncooked eggs should be washed. Avoid letting the white or yoke touch the outside shell of unwashed or uncooked eggs.

Also, wash one's hands after handling uncooked eggs or poultry. Avoid putting food to be eaten on a surface on which uncooked poultry has been cut or trimmed.

August, 1982

The last full month of summer, August, is today also the month in which most Americans return to school. A few years back, summer holidays invariably lasted until September. Now the last of August finds most high school and college students back at desks.

August, then, has a nostalgia as the last of summer, and as John Parrish, the veteran Appalachian Mountains writer says, August in the hills and mountains is summer passing, with autumn just beyond the hills.

In the deep south, August and September remain hot all month long. But for most of the country August is summer's last fling. It's time for canning and freezing, enjoying nature's garden pleasures, the year's harvest--and the last lazy, hazy days of summer, 1982.

Mystery: Why is slaw often served in minuscule paper cups--at full price?

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

To the Editor:

Grandchildren are Grand!

This week I have seven of my nine grandchildren at my house. It has been a full week. I have done most of the cooking. We had most of them bedded down on the front room floor. We forgot the time and stayed up til late, and we slept until 9 or 10 o'clock in the morning. My wife is on vacation. They took lots of days for outings. Vacation adults went to see "Annie" and "E.T."

We cooked a turkey, hamburgers, and ate lots of ham sandwiches. They went swimming, used the swings, visited old friends, and ate lots of water-melon.

It's been fun! Two of my granddaughters waited on me, bringing me the telephone, getting me my walker, putting the walker in the car, doing many other things. How nice to get such grand grandchildren.

Then I thought of how many grandparents are having grandchildren visit them this week. Mine came from Colorado and must go Thursday of this week. They've been fun, even to making chocolate for ice cream for Breakfast. They don't ride stick horses like we used to. They took several jogs. Some stayed at night at my son's house. I am sure they would have fared as well at home, but I am sure glad they shared these two weeks with us.

They are here and I am glad!
Garrett H. Phillips

The Race of Life

Jogging seems to be "The thing" today; but in addition to it are swimming, boating, bicycling, relay, and many other races which never seem to lose their popularity. All of these have things in common; such as enjoyment, physical fitness, and the desire to win; and how much better it is to participate or to be watching these rather than many of the corruptive movies today on TV.

Paul, the apostle, speaks of a real and better race-the spiritual one of "The Race of Life." He likens himself to an athlete running a race to get a prize (1 Cor. 9:24) and further says that there is a great company of witnesses (Heb. 12:1) watching us Christians for we are all participants in this very important race.

First, there is the laying of the ground work; and the sooner the athlete begins, the better are his chances for achievement. Likewise, did not the Lord God say, "Train up a child in the way he should go; and when he is old, he will not depart from it." (Prov. 22:6)

A coach is needed whom the athlete obeys. For the believers, the Coach is Jesus Christ. Training in the discipline of the body and of the mind is a necessity in all races) and positively, there is to be no drinking of intoxicating beverages. So it is with the child of God for "Wine is a mocker." (Prov. 20:1) Just as the racing entrant watches the food he eats, so does the Christian examine his spiritual food for this is a day of cultism, liberalism, atheism, and of those who do not believe in the inerrancy of the whole Bible nor correctly interpret it. (2 Tim. 2:15)

To be a winner, an athlete must practice and practice; so does the believer as he puts God's commandments to work. His exercise is in being a "doer of the Word and not a hearer only." (Jas. 1:22) He speaks the Word, prays the Word, shares the Word, and he witnesses continually to others and his life is the only Bible that some may ever read. As by training, the athlete grows in his skill; the Christian likewise grows spiritually from hearing, reading, and obeying the words of the Bible. (1 Peter 2:2 and Heb. 5:12)

A light-weight costume is worn by the swimmer, trackster, etc. and this is surely a great factor in helping to be a winner. A child of God likewise has a fight against the devil because the weight of sin holds down his feet; but this weight can be lifted for we are more than conquerors through Jesus Christ, who shed His blood so that our sins might be daily forgiven and removed, leaving the Christian ready to continue in "The Race of Life."

It is a beautiful sight to see the perfection of the various strokes in swimming and the rhythmic precision of boaters in a race; and in the rugged cross country event and the dangerous and breath-taking slalom and toboggan events, the participants need all their strength. Yet in all of these the athletes give all that they have. There is joy, too, in serving the Lord with all our love; and the beauties and wonders of His fellowship can never be fully expressed.

Now in any race event only one can win the first prize; but in the spiritual race, all can be winners. For those who willingly work for the Lord, there is a prize (1 Cor. 9:17) up in the heavenlies at the Bema Seat of Christ. Paul is running to receive a prize and he is temperate...he keeps under his body of pride, etc. so that he will not be a castaway (disapproved) of God when rewards are given out. (1 Cor. 9) Salvation is a free gift but we have freedom of choice to run "The Race of Life" and to work for the prize of Jesus Christ who will be at the finishing line to greet us. So we all need to get out on that race track and start running and keep on running, looking unto Jesus and that final goal (Heb. 12:1) so that like Paul, we, too, can be winners.

The other night about 11:15 P.M. a huge oak tree in our yard fell to our nightly storm. The tree was large enough to be almost 150 years old and had grown to a great height.

Since the yard is full of trees instead of grass, the giant old oak crashed down upon, and uprooted, stripped or busted a large hickory, a large oak, several dogwoods, and miscellaneous saplings.

We had noted recently an old and growing crevice in the lower trunk, so now it was time to have the tree taken down. The storm did it for us about as well as any woodsman could, but the clean-up became a mammoth task.

There are several stories here, like what a tree that old has lived through. It was a sapling when Gov. Wilson Lumpkin, of Athens, laid out the railroad system of Georgia, making the decision for Atlanta to become the transportation center of Georgia and all the Southeast. Atlanta was then a wilderness. The old oak survived the Battle of Atlanta, too.

But there are several other stories of lighter strain, two of which illustrate essentials that are meaningful to all of us. Like what makes us like we are, makes life more pleasing in one case, and wondrous in another.

The crash of its mighty fall waked and scared the neighbors, put out the lights and the evening TV news for us. Feeling about in the dark for flashlights is becoming more commonplace in our house.

As we neared the front, the windows and doors were covered with leaves and branches. Flashlight revealed the heavy wires snapped from the house and lying coiled in the driveway, telephone lines stretched and sagging, plus a large hickory and a large oak resting upon the roof. A scene which has often taken place in Georgia this Summer, but it was new to us.

We called Georgia Power's repair number at 11:30 P.M. to report the outage. A pleasant voice asked the necessary questions, saying they'd fix it as soon as they were able. We went to bed wondering about the freezer's contents, etc., and whether the next day would bring repairs.

Before we could go to sleep, there was a knock at the door by the Georgia Power repairman, a pleasant, friendly efficient young man in a large bucket truck. The time was 12:15 A.M., only 45 minutes after we'd reported the trouble.

He surveyed the damage quickly while I asked him if he could power-saw the trunk of one of the trees on the house so I could get it out of the garage next morning. It was the tree across his lines. He replied cheerfully that chain saws made lots of noise late at night, so he had one that never failed and never ran out of gas...it was a hand saw, and he was expert with it.

When we asked if he might give us some temporary repairs to restore power that night, expecting a crew the next day, he assured us he would complete full repairs before leaving and by himself.

When he finished clearing the tree from the wires, splicing the wires and their steel cable, making several roof visits in the process, then checked everything, he asked the time; it was only 45 minutes after he'd started, also still raining. Dynamite!

Gerald Skinner is a marvelous representative of his company. How pleasing today to experience his quick, personable, efficiency. In a time when too many things don't work as they should, Mr. Skinner proved he is a prideful and efficient workman. May his tribe increase and prosper.

The other story of the oak is the hive of bees that lived high above the ground in a hollow limb which was as large as most trees. Imagine their shocking experience falling from a great height to crash the ground and break open their home on two ends. Next morning they were very busy.

Imagine the intelligence which must guide these small, hard-working critters we cannot live without. For they assist in the necessary pollination of almost all plant life. If humans could organize as well as bees do for a task, the results could be amazing.

We invited a bee-keeper to remove them, if possible, to a new hive and retrieve the honey. When he arrived two days after the fall, they'd selected a new home and had removed most of the honey to it.

This man knew his bees. They have no idlers in a hive, work is allocated to all, some intelligence guides them in wisdom to decide when to raise a new queen, when to retire an old one, when to send out scouts for a new hive, when to do every task and how much. They anticipate the seasons; they know water will ruin their honey; they possess great wisdom for little creatures, and without them, mankind would not survive.

The bee-keeper said that if you study bees at all, you have to believe in God.

"What Good Are Friends If You Can't Use Them?"

LOUISA'S LETTER

Dear Louisa,

I am a girl sixteen years old and I have a problem. My mother opens my letters and reads them before I get them. I think this is awfully rude and I think my mother is just curious because there is nothing in the letters that I mind anyone seeing. If she asked me about them I wouldn't mind her reading them but I don't want anyone opening my mail. What do you think about this?
Sarah-Kan.

Answer:

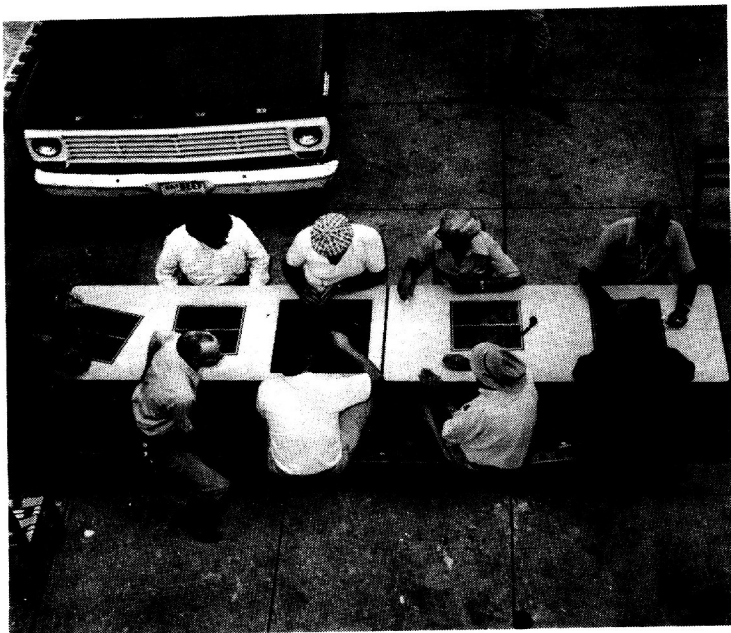

I think it is inexcusable to open another person's mail and I think your mother should stop doing that. Very often young people have their little secrets and jokes about things that are not serious but things that adults might consider silly and make fun of. So when some of them like a little privacy in their correspondence it may not be that they have anything to hide.

Of course, it is possible that your mother is afraid that smut peddlers may have your name on the list to send out lewd advertisements. Girls and boys who have not written to those horrible people do, at times, receive this kind of mail. But in that case your mother could warn you about it and explain what these people are and what their purpose is. And you should certainly let her see such mail so that she could report it to your postmaster.

TREES: More Than Just Lumber

You'll be surprised to learn that our trees provide more than just wood for our homes or fireplaces. For centuries, people saw trees only as lumber or firewood, then scientists came along and found many things could be made from the by-products and chemicals of trees.

The bark from a tree is a source of the chemical resin, a substance used in varnishes and plastics, waxes, vitamins, lacquers and used in control of ocean oil spills, keeping the size of the spill controlled. Bark is also used for mulches and soil conditioners. Toys sometimes are made from wood flour, by-products from a tree. Cellulose fillers are components of dinnerware, handles for cooking utensils and camera cases.

By-products from trees are used in cleaning compounds, insecticides, cosmetics, certain pharmaceuticals, photographic films and football helmets.

The usual uses people think of are construction, the manufacturing of paper and paper products and heat for homes.

The next time you look at a tree in your yard, think of all the wonderful things it does for you.

Senior citizens who use the Akron Nutritional Site for meals MUST call in their meal reservation the day BEFORE you plan to join the group for dinner. Call between the hours of 10 a.m.

Lamb & wool producers to vote on program extension

Lamb and wool producers will have an opportunity during an Aug. 16-27 referendum to vote on whether they want the American Sheep Producers Council, Inc., to continue its market promotion and improvement program on their behalf by entering a new agreement with the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Producers of lamb, wool, and mohair are eligible to vote. The referendum will be held at the Akron Nutritional Site, 407 S. West St., Akron, Ohio, from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. on August 16-17. The referendum was approved in 1978. It would authorize larger deductions from producer incentive payments. By approving it, producers would authorize deductions of up to 4 cents per pound on shorn wool and 20 cents per hundredweight on unshorn lambs marketed in 1982. Deduction rates from 1978 through 1981 were 2 1/2 cents and 12 1/2 cents, respectively, he said.

Rank also said the new agreement would provide for USDA to withhold part of any wool incentive payments that might be made to producers on 1983-85 marketing to finance the council's promotion activities.

He said deductions would be used by the council to finance advertising and sales promotion programs for wool and lamb, and programs to develop and disseminate information on product quality, production management and marketing improvement for wool and sheep.

County offices of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service will distribute copies of the agreement and ballots to sheep producers in each August. Producers may vote on ballots by mail or by returning them in person to the council office.

The Akron Nutrition meals are brought to us from the kitchen of the Rochester Nutrition Site, therefore, the cooks need to know in advance how many meals to prepare for the next day. Thank you. Akron Nutrition Site Mgr., Marilyn Stafford.

The blood pressure clinic will be held Thursday, Aug. 12 through the services of Ruth Bammerlin. Also, all August birthdays will be celebrated at this date. We want to thank Willis Higgins and Mary Krouse for the pickles and onions from their gardens, and thanks to Mary McKenzie for the tomatoes.

If you would like to be a volunteer for this program please call 893-7204.

Scheduled menus for the week of August 9-13 are:

Monday-Macaroni and Cheese with Ham, Spinach, 3-Bean Salad, Wheat Bread, Peaches, Milk.

Tuesday-Fried Chicken, Escaloped Potatoes, Tossed Salad, Brown Bread, Cranberry Sauce, Milk.

Wednesday-Breaded Pork Cutlet, Mixed Vegetables, Sweet Potatoes, White Bread, Pineapple Cheese, Milk.

Thursday-Salisbury Steak, Peas, Cole Slaw, Brown Bread, Jello, Milk.

Friday-Goulash, Green Beans, Brown Bread, Applesauce, Milk.

older for at least 30 consecutive days during 1981. Votes may be cast by individuals or by cooperatives. Members of cooperatives which cast votes would not be eligible to vote separately in the referendum. The agreement requires approval by two-thirds of the total volume of producers or two-thirds of the total volume of production represented by the referendum.

For more information, contact the American Sheep Producers Council, Inc., 1000 N. 1st St., Suite 100, Denver, CO 80202.

Hold July meeting

The Women's Fellowship of the Church of the Brethren met in the home of Paulene Ryman for the July meeting. The meeting was called to order by the president, Jean Nerer. Arlene Gearhart led devotions, her lesson centered on love and emotions. Edna Mae Shewman gave the secretary and treasurers reports, and a penny an inch waist measurement offering was taken.

A double baby shower was held for Justin Jordan, baby son of Robert and Glenda Jordan and Justin Glover, son of Paul and Alicia Glover. Mrs. Ryman decorated a cake with the words "Baby Justin," which she served with other delicious refreshments.

"Twenty five ladies, five children, and the two babies were present. Both grandmothers of the Glover baby, Mrs. Donald Hazlett, and Mrs. Ray Etzel, and Mrs. Clarence Mark, grandmother of the Jordan baby were present.

The June meeting was a picnic at the Akron park, with Vonda Ryman, Lana Bowser, and Kay Brouette as hostesses. Mrs. Bowser led the devotions.

Talma to get natural gas

Natural gas service should be available to the Talma community before the winter heating season, according to Dick Kitt, Northern Indiana Public Service Co. district manager.

Kitt said that about five miles of gas line is being installed in the area and about 150 new gas customers are expected to hook on to the natural gas lines. Several Talma residents have requested natural gas service for years. Kitt said, and a survey completed last year showed enough potential customers to warrant installing the gas lines.

Kitt said that Talma Fastener Corp. and several farmers with large grain dryers are among the biggest new customers to be added to the NIPSCO system. He said anyone interested in the project may get more information by contacting the engineering department at the local NIPSCO phone number.

30 enjoy picnic at Akron Town Lake

Thirty members and guests of the Fulton County Historical Society enjoyed a picnic at John and Dorothy Savage's home on Town Lake south of Akron July 27. Kate Jennens, Dick Drudge and Esther Fenstermaker served as hosts.

A report on the group's activities during the Round Barn Festival revealed that Thursday brought in much less sales and fewer visitors. It was suggested that FCHS not have a food tent on Thursday next year. This will be voted on at a later meeting.

Progress on the work getting the Trail of Courage Rendezvous site ready was reported. Bill Willard and two young men assigned to community service by the Probation Dept. built a new and larger shooting back-stop July 17. They moved two out-houses July 24. The out-houses were donated by Mrs. Oswald Palmer, Tiosa, and Willis Higgins, Akron.

Volunteers are needed to supervise the youths repairing the old booths that fell down during the winter.

Volunteers are also needed to teach a group of children colonial singing games and dances. FCHS has the tape recorded music and instruction book, and children are interested in learning. An instructor is needed.

Also a square dance caller is needed for Saturday night of the Trail of Courage.

Anyone interested in volunteering for the above is asked to call the museum office at 223-4436.

Bob Kuyoth and family have traveled about 3,000 miles this year to various rendezvous recruiting traditional craftsmen and buckskinners for the Trail of Courage Rendezvous.

Kuyoth found a person to be in charge of the Pioneer Fashion Show at the Trail of Courage. Judy Forbes of Indianapolis, author of a new book on pioneer French fashions, will organize and m.c. the Pioneer Fashion Show and Contest Sept. 18-19 at the Trail of Courage Rendezvous.

For the program at the meeting each person told of an interesting memory. These varied from memories of riding a school bus to memories of Germany Station, a town that no longer exists.

The next meeting will be Aug. 31 at the Civic Center Museum. Bill Baldwin will show his slides on Indiana historical sites. The hostesses will be Mary Jane Bowell, Florence Jefferies, June Miller, and Florence Miller.

Clark was thrown from the motorcycle and sustained abrasions to the head. The auto, driven by Timothy R. Mooney, 28, Rt. 1, Warsaw, was damaged less than $200. Damage to the motorcycle was estimated between $200 and $1,000.

Property Damage Accidents

Local police officers have investigated the following property damage accidents:

Two cars collided at the intersection of East Market Street and an alley west of Argonne Road. A car driven by Geneva R. Brumfield, 62, 216 South Argonne Rd., Warsaw, was pulling out of the alley and did not see an auto driven by Lynne R. Winn, 23, Warsaw, coming east on Market Street. The view from the alley apparently was obstructed by a parked vehicle. Winn's car sustained between $1,000 and $2,500 damage, while the Brumfield auto was damaged between $200 and $1,000.

James C. Jarrette, 33, of 1004 East Main St., Warsaw, stopped in an east-west alley, just east of Buffalo Street, and went inside the Buffalo Street Dry Cleaners to pick up clothes when his car was bumped by a van operated by Elsie E. Duffy, 33, of North Manchester. Duffy started to back out of a parking space in the alley. There was less than $200 damage to Jarrette's auto, according to Warsaw police.

A car belonging to Richard L. Westerman, 508 North Lake St., Warsaw, was parked in front of his home when it was struck by an unknown vehicle which left the scene. Westerman's auto sustained between $200 and $1,000 damage to the left rear.

Two vans collided at the intersection of South Lincoln and East Center streets. Steven F. Farmer, 27, Rt. 2, Warsaw, had gone through the intersection on a red light and tried to correct that by turning right. But he struck a van driven by John J. Burner, 40, Rt.

8, Warsaw, which had entered the intersection on a green light.

Farmer was cited for disregarding a traffic light and false registration. Damage to the Burner vehicle was estimated between $200 and $1,000. Farmer's van was damaged less than $200.

A car driven by Billy C. Little, 31, 211 West Jefferson St., Warsaw, was traveling in the alley behind Judd Cook Chevrolet, 216 North Lake St., Warsaw, when he sideswiped a vehicle which was parked in the alley. Little told police he thought he had room to go around the auto which is owned by Judd Cook Chevrolet. Damage to both autos was estimated at less than $200.

Tammy R. May, 21, 2005 East Jefferson St., Warsaw, was turning left from West Center Street when her car was struck in the rear by an auto driven by David E. Shaw, 26, 1822 Crescent Drive. Shaw was cited for driving at an unreasonable speed. May's car was damaged between $200 and $1,000. Damage to Shaw's auto was estimated between $1,000 and $2,500.

An auto driven by Paul L. Lindley, 57, Rt. 6, Warsaw, went off the road recently while traveling on County Rd. 300 East at County Rd. 750 North. Lindley's car went into a ditch and sustained between $1,000 and $2,500 damage.

Scott A. Sebo, 22, 117 North Miami St., Warsaw, apparently fell asleep at the wheel of his car and went off the road on Old Rd. 30 west of County Rd. 350 West. He struck a UTS telephone pole and a fence owned by Creighton Bros. Damage to his auto was listed as between $2,500 and $5,000. The fence sustained $150 damage and the pole was damaged at $250.

If you get rid of envy you will be surprised to see how nice people are in your community.

A canny Scot was engaged in an argument with the conductor as to whether the fare was to be five or ten cents. Finally the disgusted conductor picked up the Scot's suitcase and tossed it off the train just as they were crossing a long bridge. "Hoot, man," screamed Sandy, "first you try to rob me, and now you've drowned my little boy!"

A flashy character barged into a Miami saloon, demanded a double jig of Scotch, downed it in one gulp, planked a five-dollar bill on the bar, and walked out without another word.

The bartender folded the five-spot carefully, pocketed it, and remarked to the barflies, "Can you beat a phony like that? Laps up a double Scotch, leaves a five-dollar tip, and beats it without paying."

A Texas friend mailed us this item about a rich rancher who had died leaving a stable of 17 fine horses to three sons. The will provided 1/2 of the horses to go to his eldest son, 1/4 to the middle son, and 1/4 to his youngest.

Needless to say, the boys were disconcerted. For that matter, so were we. Then came word that a local Solomon at probate succeeded in effecting a proper division without mind you, converting the animals to horse-radish.

How to cope with arthritis

If your fingers are stiff and sore when you wake in the morning, it could be arthritis. This malady has tormented victims throughout history. There's evidence of arthritic damage in Egyptian mummies, and it's still around affecting people of all ages.

However, there are ways that modern medicine can help to relieve your pain and discomfort. The Department of Health and Human Services has a booklet that describes treatments for the varying kinds of arthritis. For your copy of How to Cope With Arthritis, send $1.75 to the Consumer Information Center, Department 155K, Pueblo, Colorado 81009.

Two of the most common forms of arthritis are rheumatoid and osteoarthritis. Rheumatoid arthritis is the most difficult to control and can do the most damage to the joints. The first signs usually are fatigue, muscular stiffness, and loss of appetite and weight.

Osteoarthritis is more common than rheumatoid arthritis, and as a rule, it is less damaging. Older people are its most frequent victims. Excessive or unusual wear of the joints is the main contributing factor. This often results from overweight, poor posture, injury, physical strain from one's occupation or recreation, or a combination of these factors. The common symptoms are pain and stiffness.

Coping with arthritis is not something you should do alone. It should be diagnosed and treated by a qualified physician. The doctor may prescribe medication, but, contrary to popular belief, there is no such thing as a special arthritis diet. However, it is important for the arthritic person to keep off extra pounds that can put a burden on weight-bearing joints.

While it is not clear that warm, dry climates, hot springs or mineral waters are more beneficial than proper care at home, regular exercise is important to the arthritis patient.

Physical therapy, given in a hospital or at home by a visiting therapist, can help patients unable or unwilling to exercise by themselves. The therapist may provide various forms of treatment with heat and massage. Patients learn how to safely exercise joints moving them through their full range of motion, and how to maintain correct posture.

To help the arthritis person perform the tasks of everyday living—dressing, eating, cooking, writing, etc.—there are numerous simple and inexpensive devices that can be very helpful and can make the difference between self-sufficiency and dependence. Long-handled combs, shoehorns, kitchen utensils, and heightened chairs and toilet seats are just a few examples of these.

Arthritic women can also buy specially designed clothes. They don't have buttons, snaps or hooks and are stylish as well as easier to manipulate with stiff, swollen joints.

From medication and exercise to self-help devices, there are many ways to cope with arthritis. For more information, send for How to Cope With Arthritis ($1.75).

You'll also receive a copy of the free Consumer Information Catalog. Published quarterly by the Consumer Information Center of the General Service Administration, the free Catalog lists over 200 selected free and moderately priced, useful federal consumer booklets.

JUNE FULLER

THE COUPON CLIPPER

Organization: The refunder's best friend

By June Fuller

DEAR COUPON CLIPPER — When the good weather finally arrived here in Illinois, I decided to get all my proofs of purchase in order.

Well, it took me almost three weeks to do it. While my daughter napped in the afternoon, I sorted all those box tops, labels, Universal Product Code symbols and proof-of-purchase seals.

It was a job, but well worth the effort. Now I know that I can find any proof in my collection.

But that's not all. During my clean-up I found enough proofs to complete more than $25 worth of refund offers!

Thank you for always reminding us that in couponing and refunding, one of the best friends we have is organization. — Karen R. Pecatonica, Ill.

DEAR KAREN — Thank you for giving me a good opportunity to mention "organization" one more time.

Anyone who wants to save a lot of money with coupons and refunds soon learns that one of the keys to success is being able to quickly file away a coupon or refund form or box top — and to find it again just as quickly.

There is no fun in spending 20 minutes fumbling through cartons of coupons or box tops to find the one you are looking for.

But, there is a great feeling of accomplishment if, when you find a new refund form, you are able to go to your collection of proofs of purchase and in just a few seconds find a box top or label that you can turn into refund cash.

It doesn't matter whether you file your proofs alphabetically or by product groups. It doesn't make a lot of difference whether you keep your coupons by expiration dates or by the name of the product.

The key is to use one of these systems and then stick with it. Consistency counts!

We're half way through the summer, but a good "spring cleaning" of your proof-of-purchase collection will almost always produce a bonus of refunds for which you didn't realize you had the required proofs.

So, I urge all my readers who haven't been through their box tops and labels in several months to do so now.

My Smart Shopper Award goes to Francis Peets of Crescent City, Calif., who writes:

"My mom and I work together on our refunding. She recently sent me the label from a jar of Welch's Grape Jelly along with the required refund form for the Welch's-Jif free bread offer."

"I purchased a jar of Jif using a 20-cent coupon and sent for the offer. A few weeks later I received two coupons, each good for a free loaf of bread. So, the $1.89 I spent for the Jif got me $1.50 worth of bread, and my total cost was only 39 cents."

"It really makes 'SENSE' to work with friends and family in order to save money."

Francis and other readers whose smart shopping experiences appear in my column receive a copy of The National Supermarket Shopper magazine.

Write to me in care of this newspaper.

Here's a refund form to write for: Jergens Soaps $3 Refund Form Request, P.O.

Box 4105, Department 05, Monticello, Minn. 55365. Requests for this form must be received by Sept. 17, 1982. This offer — worth $1, $2 or $3 — expires Nov. 31, 1982.

Here is this week's list of refund offers. Start looking for the required refund forms, which you can obtain at the supermarket, in newspaper and magazine advertisements and from trading with friends. Meanwhile, start collecting the needed proofs of purchase as detailed below. Remember, some offers are not available in all areas of the country.

Today's refund offers have a value of $14.79.

Squirrel hunting season

Squirrel hunting season opens August 15, 1982. Do you have a valid hunting license? Do you have permission to hunt your favorite woods? Visiting the woods before hunting to see what squirrels are cutting on will save time on opening morning. Squirrel reproduction and survival fluctuate with changing yields of heavy-seeded mast, particularly acorns. A variety of hardwood tree species is essential to a balanced habitat, but the abundance of oak, hickory, beech and black walnut determines carrying capacity.

Time to clean chimneys. During the hot summer most of our thoughts are far from winter and wood heating. However, chimney creosote accumulation from last winter can dry out and become highly inflammable. When this happens, the first fire of fall can cause chimney and home fires to occur. Insurance statistics have shown this to be true. Therefore, it is highly recommended that chimneys be cleaned before the first stove fire of autumn is lit.

Summer fish die-offs in ponds are from the same cause as in winter-oxygen shortage-but the mechanism may be more complex. If large numbers of fish are seen at the water surface gulping air at night or early in the morning you have a problem. Contact the district fisheries biologist as quickly as possible and get a copy of FNR 69 from your county extension office.

If your pond is turbid (muddy) most of the time, you may have an undesirable species in the pond. Bullhead catfish, carp, buffalo fish and other bottom feeders will keep a pond continually turbid making it difficult for sight-feeding species such as largemouth bass and bluegill to obtain food.

If it's really necessary to mow roadsides set mower height a minimum of ten inches above ground level. This will protect many small ground-dwelling species of wildlife such as rabbits, bobwhite, meadowlarks, and mallard and blue-winged teal ducks.

Smartness, rather than sincerity, is what ruins many friendships.

Study shows farm earnings down in 1981

Farm earnings in 1981 were down sharply from 1980, a study of records from more than 225 farms indicates, according to Purdue University agricultural economists.

Farmers in Purdue's record-keeping project averaged minus $11,211 labor income per operator in 1981 compared with a plus $26,122 in 1980. This was a drop of more than $37,000, the economists said. In addition, the real disposable income of farmers was reduced by 10 percent since farm families faced the same rate of inflation as everyone else.

This meant most farm families had to increase their borrowing to maintain family living expenses, the economists said. The result was additional financial pressure on farm families, particularly those already carrying a high level of debt.

Of the records studied, investment stayed about the same per farm, but rate earned on investment dropped from 4.9 percent in 1980 to 1 percent in 1981—the lowest level since 1959, economists reported. However, earnings varied greatly among farms, they noted.

Labor income was negative on all types of farms, according to the report. Crop farms had the best rate earned on investment, but when the amount of investment was charged at 5 percent to calculate labor income, they received the lowest labor income of the four types of farms.

The farms studied were divided into three sizes—small (under 386 tillable acres), medium (386 to 633 acres) and large (over 633 tillable acres). When earnings were measured as returns to capital invested, large farms did only slightly better than small farms.

Farms of similar enterprise and similar size were also analyzed, and the criteria for "keys to success" identified. The first of these is to have high yields. It was found that the high profit group of medium-sized farms had corn and soybean yields which averaged seven bushels per acre higher than the lower profit group.

The second key is to have high livestock efficiency. Again the high profit group of medium-sized farms received 31 cents more livestock returns per dollar of feed fed than the low profit group ($1.66 vs. $1.35), the economists said. The third key is to hold costs in line with production. The high profit medium-sized farms had lower power and machinery costs per acre by $20, compared to the low profit group.

In looking at the long trend, the economists noted that in the pre-1940s, cash expenses were less than 60 percent of cash receipts. Today, these expenses represent nearly 80 percent. In 1981 it took nearly four times as many assets per dollar of net farm income as it did 46 years ago, they reported. These factors increase the financial risks of farming and put more pressure on the operator in making capital purchase decisions.

Farming is a risky business where incomes fluctuate widely from one year to another, the economists said. It is misleading to judge how poor or well off farmers are by looking at only one year's income, they concluded.

Diet and cancer

Can diet affect a person's chance of developing cancer? A recent report released by the National Research Council of the National Academy of Sciences suggests so. But the report also warns that "it is not now possible, and may never be possible, to specify a diet that protects all people against all forms of cancer."

Prepared by the Committee on Diet, Nutrition and Cancer, the report contains interim dietary guidelines that may possibly reduce the risk of cancer.

"It's important that the public clearly understands what the report and guidelines state—and what they don't state," said National Dairy Council President M.F. Brink, Ph.D. "They don't state, for instance, that any food can cause or cure cancer. Nor do they state that we should eliminate any particular foods from our diet."

What the report does state, among other recommendations, is that Americans should include whole grain food products, fruits and vegetables in their daily diet while cutting back somewhat on total fat intake. The report, however, does not recommend that fat be eliminated from the diet.

"It's an essential nutrient," said Brink. "But too much of any nutrient, of course, can have harmful health effects. Take, for instance, vitamin A. The Research Council's report suggests that vitamin A may play a role in cancer prevention. But the report specifically recognizes that too much vitamin A is toxic and, thus, hazardous to your health."

"So the key is moderation. More isn't any better than less when it comes to balanced nutrition."

Brink also stressed that the National Cancer Institute has found no direct cause-effect relationship between nutrition and cancer in humans. But total diet, he added, may none the less play an indirect role in reducing the risk of cancer.

"A diet that provides you with adequate amounts of all the nutrients and energy you need is an important defense against cancer and other diseases," said Brink. "The Food and Nutrition Board of the National Research Council has emphasized this. So has National Dairy Council."

Brink said the best way to get the proper amounts of nutrients and energy needed for optimal health is by eating a variety of foods in moderation from the four basic food groups—milk, meat, fruits and vegetables, and grains.

There is nothing morally wrong about being poor.

Auto service contracts

Wouldn't it be nice to have health insurance for your new car? In a sense, you can. A good auto service contract can help protect your budget when your new car comes down with the "clanks."

To help you know how to shop for a good auto service contract, the Federal Trade Commission has a new factsheet. For a single free copy of Auto Service Contracts, write to the Consumer Information Center, Department 635K, Pueblo, Colorado 81009.

While all new cars come with a "free" warranty provided by the manufacturer, a service contract is different. It provides a specific time during which the service contractor agrees to repair or maintain your car for an agreed-upon price. You purchase it separately from the car and don't have to get service from the dealer either. You may be able to tailor the service contract to cover all repairs or to pay only for routine inspection and maintenance.

Your warranty coverage and your service contract coverage may overlap for a year or so if your car is brand new. If they do, you should compare the coverages and decide whether the additional expense for the added coverage of the service contract is worth it.

Before you decide on a service contract, read it carefully and be sure you understand it. Here are some questions to ask before you sign.

How long has the company been in business? Is the company insured? Is it part of a larger organization? If the company that offers the service contract goes out of business you will probably be unable to get your bills paid. If your dealer has a service company administer the contract, you should find out if that company will honor your contract if the dealer goes out of business.

Other points to consider include: Do you have to pay the bills and get reimbursed, or does the company cover the costs directly? What happens if your car breaks down out of town? Exactly what is covered and under what circumstances? If a particular repair is not listed in the contract, it is probably not covered. Just be sure you understand everything before you sign.

Then call the local Better Business Bureau or consumer office and ask if they have any complaints about the company and if past complaints have been successfully resolved.

When you order a copy of Auto Service Contracts (free) you'll also receive a copy of the Consumer Information Catalog free. Published quarterly by the Consumer Information Center of the General Service Administration, the free Catalog lists over 200 selected free and moderately priced federal consumer booklets.

USDA announces new requirements for farm storage

The U.S. Department of Agriculture will resume approval of new applications for Commodity Credit Corporation farm storage facility loans, up to a total of $40 million.

Secretary of Agriculture John R. Block said this will allow farmers to begin making their storage plans for the 1982 crops. Loan disbursement will begin after Oct. 1, he said.

No storage facility loan applications made since Feb. 8 have been approved "to permit the department to review program regulations in light of changes in the legislation authorizing the program," Block said.

Now that this review has been completed, Block said the following modified requirements will apply:

--storage needs of loan applicants will be based upon the availability of storage for one year's production of wheat, feed grains or rice produced on farms participating in the acreage reduction program for those crops. The production of rye, soybeans, dry edible beans, peanuts, sunflower seeds, high moisture forage and silage will not be considered.

--new CCC storage loans will be limited to $25,000 per farmer. Loans will be considered for one-year's storage needs and will be repayable in five years. Loans will be available for building new storage structures and for remodeling existing structures but not for electrical, handling, or drying equipment. Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation county committees may approve loans for up to seventy percent of the eligible cost items. Ineligible items which are an integral part of the structure must be paid in full before loan disbursement.

--an extended interim rule requesting comments on the new eligibility requirements will be published in the Federal Register. All comments from the public concerning the regulations will be considered before the department publishes the final rule.

Block said that producers with pending applications will be given the opportunity to revise them based upon the new program requirements.

Half-fee ruling effective August 1

Effective August 1, 1982, the Indiana Bureau of Motor Vehicles will once again implement the half fee schedule for Indiana license plates. This pertains only to license registration fees and will have no effect on the excise tax fees. There are two different types of half (½) fee schedules.

Passenger plates and recreational vehicle plates, both of which expire on a staggered monthly basis, will be half fee only if a vehicle is purchased after the individual's registration month.

The following types of plates are ALWAYS half fee, regardless of the vehicle purchase date, if the plate is purchased on, or after August 1: motorcycles, trailers, busses, trucks, farm trailers, farm trucks, tractors, antiques, redeclared weight, and semi-trailers (with the exception of two-year semi-trailer plates, which are always full fee.)

No Mycotoxin level in Indiana wheat

Recent reports that some wheat in Kansas, Iowa, Nebraska, and Missouri has been affected by head scab and may be toxic has caused Indiana growers mild concern.

But plant pathologists at Purdue University report that they have had no indications or reports of excessive mycotoxin levels in Indiana wheat. Head scab, also called wheat scab, was observed in the state this year, they said, but the disease levels were much lower than in the four states reporting problems.

Don Scott, Purdue extension plant pathologist, said wheat scab is caused by the fungus Gibberella zeae and is recognized by a greyish or pink appearance of the seed. Infected seeds are usually shriveled. Severely infected seeds are so lightweight that they are usually blown out the back of the combine, he said.

The fungus that causes wheat scab is the same one that causes Gibberella ear and stalk rot of corn, Scott noted. It can produce the same mycotoxins in wheat that it does in corn.

Selfishness is at the bottom of most human conflicts; you can't reform your neighbors, but you can work on yourself.

DAPPER DENIMS (OR, REPLAYING THE LEFTOVER BLUES)

When you find you've got a drawerful of outgrown or worn-out jeans, don't sing the blues... instead, recycle your "workman's clothes" so you'll recover some of the price you paid for them!

For example, anybody who's done any carpentry work at all knows how useful a good tool apron can be for keeping needed items separate and accessible. So take out those "dead" jeans, follow the easy steps below, and you'll soon have a handy-dandy, serviceable work apron. Here's how:

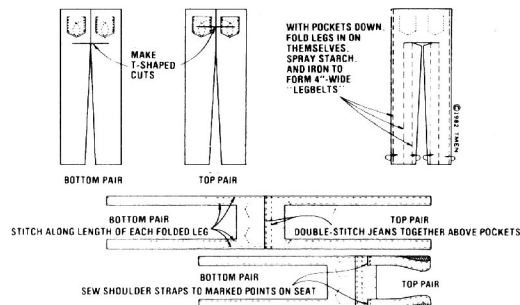

STEP 1: Cut the legs off a pair of old denims (save them to use when making the tote bag, which follows this pattern), as you would when making shorts. (See Fig. 1.)

STEP 2: Cut along the leg seams and remove the front half of the "shorts", but leave the waistband intact (Figs. 2 and 3). Also, remove (and save) the belt loops.

STEP 3: Hem the apron's edges and patch any holes that might exist in the former jeans' back pockets. Now, sew the ends of a couple of pairs of the previously removed belt loops together, tack them to one or both sides of the apron to provide hammer (or T-square) holders... and your tool apron is ready to wear! (See Fig. 4.)

When you've finished your denim tool carrier, you can use the leftover legs to make a handsome tote bag. Its finished size will depend on the flare of the pant's leg, of course, so today's ultra-slim designer-type jeans may be a bit too small to make this particular item useful for carrying larger loads.

If you've got two pairs of adult-sized jeans that still have "good" backsides, you have the makings for a homemade baby carrier. Just separate the backs of the pants from the fronts (leave the seams and waistband with the discarded fronts). Then cut away the cuffs or hems and spread the two jean backs out flat before making a T-shaped cut up each crotch. Make one T-cut approximately through the center of the pockets, and cut the other midway between the crotch and the bottom of the pockets.

Flip the denims, pockets down, fold each of the four legs in upon itself, and sew to create a 4"-wide "legbelt". Then double-stitch the two pieces together along the line above the pockets.

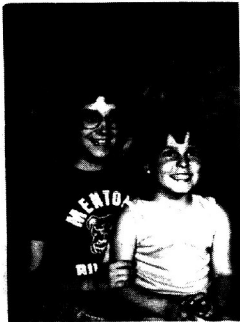

Tie the shorter pair of folded legs securely around your waist. Now, ask a friend to hold your baby so his or her belly is against your back and the feet are on either side of the sling seat. Bring the two remaining bands up over your shoulders and hold these so you can support the baby while your friend marks the spot where the shoulder straps meet the seat sling. Finally, remove the child and the pack, and sew the straps to the marked spots on the inside of the seat. What an inexpensive way to "step out with your baby"!

Agronomy tips for August

The preferred time for seeding new lawns is about mid-August. If you do not have water available for irrigation, seed in the dust and let rains bring up the grass. If water is available, keep the soil surface moist until seedlings are ready for their first mowing. Mulch improves germination and reduces the water requirement by 50 percent.

Blends of bluegrasses are preferred for overseeding, or seeding new lawns under favorable fall planting conditions. Use the newer disease-resistant varieties if they are available. Check with local suppliers.

Selective chemicals for killing existing crabgrass in lawns are available. Two applications, three to seven days apart, should be applied in early August. Irrigate as needed during application of herbicide to support growth of your existing lawn grass.

Irrigate your lawn between rains, using traveling sprinklers if available. Wet the soil as deep as practical, but avoid wasting water through surface runoff.

To check your lawn sprinkler output, space small tin cans across the sprinkler pattern. Let your sprinkler run one hour, then check depth of water in each can. Many home lawn sprinklers will deliver about one-half inch of water per hour.

If you are unable to irrigate, set your lawn mower high when you cut grass during hot, dry weather. High cutting promotes deeper roots; taller grass blades shade the soil, cooling it and slowly evaporation to conserve moisture.

New lawns are best installed during mid-to-late August and early fall. This gets them well established before winter and favors better turf the following year. Mulch lightly and irrigate, if possible.

Lawn weed control is best delayed until cool, fall months. This provides a clean lawn for the next season and removes young weeds that germinated during the wet periods of summer.

As many as 15 varieties of bluegrass might be purchased somewhere in Indiana in 1982. Delta and Merion are no longer the preferred varieties. Bonnieblue, Adelphi, Baron, Sydsport and others are newcomers to the field. Bristol, Glade and Ben Sun are new bluegrasses recommended for lawns with partial shade. Sod growers and lawn enthusiasts will blend three or four of the newer bluegrass varieties for a more disease-resistant turf.

As nights cool and weather changes in early fall, you can begin to improve your lawn with fertilization. A second application in fall, heavier than the spring application, will prepare the turf for winter and early spring.

Plastic pipe, low volume-low pressure sprinklers and automatic irrigation controls conserve water and make automatic lawn irrigation increasingly popular. Study irrigation brochures and folders and plan your system for uniform irrigation.

Mechanical removal of thatch from sod is possible with rented vertical thinners. If overseeding is needed, spread seed first and do all work on top of seed. This gets seed closer to moist soil and improves germination. If thatch cover is heavy, verti-thin and follow with a rotary mower and pick-up attachment to remove excess thatch. Then seed and rework the area with the verti-thinner to work seed into the soil. Then use a hose and hand water to slurry seed against the soil for better germination and establishment.

Need to start a new lawn this fall? If so, use Roundup (glyphosate) to kill all existing turf. Seed of new improved cultivars can be spread and raked or tilled into soil in 3-7 days.

Don't graze regrowth of green-chopped sorghum-sudan crosses until the plants are about 18 inches high. There is greater potential danger of poisoning livestock from these crosses than from ordinary sudans. They can be ten times higher in dhurrin, a forerunner of prussic acid, than ordinary sudangrass. Delayed growth because of drought stress may also cause this problem to be severe.

Order your fertilizer for late summer-seeded legumes or wheat on the basis of an up-to-date soil test. Fields should be tested every three to four years, especially if previous tests were low or very low.

Apply lime to fields now, when soil is firm, to avoid compaction. Pasture land and fields for fall-seeded wheat offer two good opportunities for applying lime in August.

Test your soil before preparing the seedbed for wheat this fall. If lime is needed, it can be spread on solid ground and will have time to dissolve before the legume seedlings start growing next spring. The soil test will show how much phosphorus and potassium to apply when seeding wheat.

Take soil samples now in hay and permanent pasture fields. Then apply needed fertilizer in September to assure healthy, vigorous plants that can withstand winter temperatures and start growth more quickly next spring.

Fields to be seeded to legumes in the spring of 1983 should be tested for lime now. Lime requires time to dissolve in the soil before it can benefit your seedlings. Limestone should be applied on wheat ground before seeding this fall, and on corn and soybean ground as soon as the crop is harvested this fall.

Seed rye as cover crop in corn fields starting in mid-August to prevent rust infection. Seedlings in tall corn can be made by airplane or highboy at the rate of one and one-half to two bushels of grain per acre.

Decide now from which field you will harvest corn silage. For maximum yields per acre, harvest between the dent and glaze stage of the ear.

For fall pasture, seed Arthur 71 Oasis.

For fall pasture, seed Arthur 71, Oasis, Abe, and new varieties Auburn, Caldwell and Sullivan wheat at two and one-half bushels per acre. These varieties are Hessian fly resistant. For wheat pasture, apply one-third more nitrogen than for grain.

Paoli, and Pike are recommended varieties of winter barley with sufficient winter hardiness to grow in the southern half of Indiana.

Seed reed canarygrass on wet areas in August. Reed canarygrass will withstand flooding that kills other grasses, and its firm seedbed will support tractors and other machinery. It also does well on droughty soil. Seed eight pounds of reed canarygrass on a well-prepared seedbed and fertilize with 200 to 300 pounds of complete fertilizer. Be sure that the seed being sown is of high germination, or increase the rate of seeding accordingly, depending upon the percent germination. Frequently, the percent germination of reed canarygrass is rather low.

Sorghum-sudan hybrid crosses should not be cut or grazed closer than eight inches for best recovery to produce fall regrowth.

Looking for a new home site? Remember to look carefully at the soil. During the summer, a site may appear dry even though it has high water table problems during wet seasons. A grayish-colored soil tends to drain poorly; a dark-brownish soil indicates good aeration and drainage.

Rural residents who plan to use septic tanks for effluent waste disposal should study soils carefully. Standard percolation tests will vary considerably with seasonal soil moisture levels. Ask your county Extension agent or Soil Conservation Service for information about the soils in the septic tank field.

George Clark has extended an invitation to everyone to submit a picture of the boys from this vicinity who are now serving in the armed forces of the Nation. The pictures will be placed on display in the store and an electric sign constructed of small bulbs forming a "V" will be installed above the display.

The Rev. Robert Yonkers, 30-year-old pastor of the Methodist Church at Etna Green narrowly escaped death Saturday evening while repairing a radio aerial. The aerial came in contact with a high tension line carrying 8,000 volts and was unconscious when found. He was soon revived. It was reported a fuse blowing saved the man's life.

Lyndes Latimer recently got possession of an old hand organ and it will be played at the band concert on next Tuesday evening, August 11. An organ of this type is a rarity and will likely be interesting to many of our band concert guests.

Dick Manwaring, who enlisted in the Air Corps recently, has been accepted and was sworn in last Wednesday. He is at home now and will remain here until called into active training.

Guss Judd, who is attending school at Bloomington, spent the weekend visiting his mother, Mrs. Kate Judd, and his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Rickel.

Miss Eunice Reed arrived in Mentone Friday after spending several weeks attending school in Colorado.

Mr. and Mrs. William Norris, and daughter, Mary, and granddaughter were visitors at the Claude Barkman home Sunday evening.

The regular season play for the Mentone Youth League has ended. However, other area teams expressed a desire to have games with each other for the remainder of the summer, and the Mentone Traveling Team was formed to meet neighboring teams. Members of the team are Rusty Waddle, Steve Fawley, Don Dickerhoff, Bud Hudson, Milton Hubart, Randy Hardesty, Bill Rush, Randy Alber and Gene Miller.

The Paul Rush family has moved to Syracuse and the Tom Alvey family is moving into the Rush home which they recently purchased.

Sp4 Karl Shepard left Sunday to return to Germany after having spent the past month at home.

Sp4 Jerry Flory, who has been stationed at Anka, Viet Nam arrived at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Flory of Tippecanoe, Wednesday night. Jerry is home on a 30 day furlough, and then will report to Fort Riley, Kansas.

Letter to Editor:

A tribute to Dr. Musselman.

We people of Akron and surrounding area are very fortunate. We had been praying for a good doctor to open an office in Akron, and now we have one of the best in Dr. Musselman. Not only is he a physician but a surgeon and a fine one. We have had minor or major surgery in hospitals in five different states and found no better surgeon. Dr. Musselman is knowledgeable, efficient, concerned and takes time to talk with the patient concerning their illness. Besides, we don't have to drive 10 to 30 miles to see a physician. We would recommend him to anyone. Let's help him in Akron.

A concerned citizen

Years ago, country folk believed that the seventh son in a family possessed unusual gifts.

Akron Police report

Akron police charged Darrel W. Manns, 33, Rt. 1, Akron, with having no bumper when it was part of the original equipment or improper bumper height at Rochester and Mishawaka Streets in Akron at 9:20 p.m. Saturday. He is to appear in County Court August 4.

We walk alone in the world. Friends, such as we desire, are dreams and fables.

NOTICE

The Akron Women's Club will be selling some items on the street on Saturday, August 7th from 9 a.m. until noon. There is no profit in this for the Women's Club, it is one of the services they do for the less fortunate and people of this community.

THANK YOU

I would like to thank the Akron Fire Department and the E.M.S. for their quick response also my relatives, friends and neighbors for the food, flowers, cards, prayers and visits while I was in the hospital and at home while I am recuperating from my accident. I would also like to thank the Rev. Malbone for his visits. It all meant so much.

School Board violations prompt suit

The Tippecanoe Valley Classroom Teachers' Association has filed an Unfair Labor Practice suit against the Tippecanoe Valley Board of School Trustees. The suit, which was filed with the Indiana Education Employment Relations Board, stems from the Board's blatant refusal to discuss budget appropriations with the teachers as is required by state law.

Indiana State Law obligates the school corporation, through its superintendent, to discuss various topics with the Teachers' Association. Both groups are required to meet, at reasonable times, to provide meaningful input, and to exchange points of view on the following topics: working conditions, curriculum development, textbook selection, teaching methods, selection and assignment of personnel, student discipline, class size and budget appropriations.

TVCTA President, Bernadean Howard, indicated that superintendent Paige made it very clear that he did not intend to discuss budget appropriations with T.V.C.T.A. Perhaps he's unaware of the law, nonetheless, in view of his statements, we have no alternative but to insure that our legal rights be upheld.

Receives Grand Champion honor

Books at Akron library

New books available at the Akron Carnegie Public Library are:

Thanksgiving by Terry Coleman--Filled with drama and historical detail - of the brutal Atlantic crossing, the bitter New England winters, the early settlements, the political and religious turmoil of America's first era - Thanksgiving wonderfully portrays the life led by the early colonists. The heart of the story is America - to which Wolsey comes. It is her story, and one of Thanksgiving.

Winter Of The White Seal by Marie Herbert--This story is the journal of young Jonathan Horn, stranded in the Antarctic from a sealing expedition early in the nineteenth century. In the course of the book, he describes the events that led to his being abandoned, the perils he undergoes and the methods he uses to survive in the face of the demands of nature. Best of all, he tells the story of his relationship with Scruff, the orphaned baby white seal he adopts and raises and who sustains him through periods of despair.

Marah by Jean Merrill--Marah was young, sprightly and beautiful but she was an orphan. None of this mattered to Miss Slaughter, her robust guardian, who ran both Marah and her East London Halfpenny Mission with an iron hand. And it hadn't really mattered to Marah - until the infamous Lord Malgrave entered her life, and in his careless way totally disrupted it. Full of spirited wit, this is a deliciously pointed story of an elfin and enchanting heroine.

Village Centenary by Miss Read--It's the one hundredth anniversary of Miss Read's school, which first admitted pupils in 1880. It was Miss Clare, who was a pupil and later a teacher there, who pointed out that such a centenary should be celebrated; and all Fairacre was quick to offer suggestions ranging from a tea party to a full-scale pageant. The centenary year unfolds with its hopes and fears, its memories and forecasts, its friendships and feuds and a lot of favorite characters return to delight and amuse in America's favorite English village.

Mentone takes bids on street repair

In a short business session last week, the Mentone Town Board members went over some changes to be made to the Mentone Cemetery regulations in connection with permanent placement of flower urns, trees or shrubs in the cemetery, hours the cemetery will be open and the phone number to use to call for information.

Dr. Van Gilder appeared and asked to read a copy of the Mentone zoning ordinance which shows where the sewers run on Jackson Street in the Town of Mentone. He noted he needs to do some patching of blacktop at his property and asked, when the town blacktops their streets, if there could be some way he could get the contractor to do some private work.

Steve Shand, Supt. of the Water Department, reported that the department is working with a rental machine from the City of Rochester, cleaning the sewers. He also said the water meters had been read, but several had to be estimated because of people not being home. He asked the board members for permission to purchase some dye tablets for the water department to be used for tracing of sewer lines. No decision was made by the board on the matter.

Police officer, Russel Hart, reported that the insurance companies have asked the Mentone Police Dept. for copies of accident reports and require invoices for the charges made for the service. He asked to have some invoices printed to serve as receipts. Board members suggested they use either letterheads or purchase blank statements at a store to serve as receipts.

Street Repair Bids

Dave Buckingham, representative of Jansma-Coursey, Etna Green, was present at the meeting but was told by President Frank Hardesty that the board had received no other bids on the street repair as yet, even though some other companies had made contact. There was no deadline for bids set in the legal advertisement of the work to be done on the streets. Hardesty told Buckingham that the board would call a special meeting if there was another bid received, during which the bids would be opened.

Other Business

Board member, Jim Miller, brought up the subject of the open septic tank at the Jim Lewis property, saying he had received complaints about it being open and about offensive odors. No action was taken.

During discussion about selling some of the town's used equipment, it was decided to sell a Wheel Horse mower along with a snowblade, to be offered for sale at $1,500 and an International pick up truck to be offered at $150.

Board members discussed with attorney Lee Bazini, the invoice from the Indiana State Board of Accounts in the amount of $934. for auditing, typing and processing the Mentone Water Department records. The audit covered a period of four years. Attorney Bazini is to write the state board and get a clarification of the charges made for the audit. Also questioned was the use of the Mentone Town Hall by the state's auditor to do auditing of records for other towns and businesses.

Sign Contract For Water Survey

The contract with Umbaugh Associates of Plymouth to go ahead with the water survey for the Town of Mentone was signed by board members, in preparation for increasing water rates for town patrons.

Special Budget Meetings

Meetings have been set for the public hearing on the budget for 1983 at the Town Hall on Monday August 23 at 7 p.m. and for the budget adoption meeting, August 30 at 7 p.m., same location. The next regular meeting of the board will be Monday, Sept. 6.

NIPSCO announces hiring freeze

Edmund A. Schroer, chairman, president and chief executive officer of Northern Indiana Public Service Company, announced August 4, 1982, a Company-wide hiring freeze, effective immediately.

In making the announcement, Schroer said, "Actions should not be interpreted as a policy of mass layoffs. The freeze is being implemented as part of our continuing effort to improve efficiency and productivity during a period of deepening recession and falling Company earnings."

The hiring freeze, which comes on the heels of last week's release of sharply lower three month and twelve month earnings for the period ended June 30, 1982, will remain in effect until written notice to the contrary.

NIPSCO Turns To CNG To Save Money.

That's good to know!

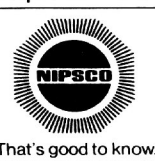

Many NIPSCO service vehicles are being modified to run on both gasoline and compressed natural gas (CNG).

This conversion will not only result in lower fuel costs, but also in reduced engine wear and maintenance.

Compressed natural gas burns very cleanly and it is also much safer than gasoline.

In time, these conversions will result in reduced operating and maintenance costs and help in decreasing our need for imported oil.

If you would like to know more about using compressed natural gas in fleet operations, contact the local NIPSCO Industrial-Commercial Gas Marketing department.

August, 1914

An August that changed the lives of most human beings on this earth was August, 1914. The war that erupted that month sixty-eight years ago ended a way of life, a style of living, an idealism that was partly romantic chivalry; it also introduced Communism to the world through Russia.

America, it's now known, went into that war against Germany largely on misinformation and propaganda. The famed liner Lusitania was indeed carrying contraband when torpedoed and sunk. And Germany had a valid claim to conduct unrestricted submarine warfare in view of the fact that the British Navy was starving the German people systematically with its worldwide blockade.

But the German Emperor (Kaiser) was a proud and pompous man, not effective in the field of public relations. American sympathy also went out to its mother country because of the common language and heritage.

But the question remains whether the defeat of Germany in 1918 produced anything good. The treaty of 1919 embittered Germany, made a new war certain and produced Adolf Hitler. Germany, to bring about Russia's surrender in 1917, helped Lenin to power and thus planted Communism in the western world.

Many believe the Kaiser's Germany, had it not been destroyed, would have been less troublesome than Russia's Communism. So the fabled war to end wars actually produced another greater war twenty-one years later--and few would argue today that it produced results worth the awful cost to the world.

CNN

According to reliable reports, Ted Turner's Cable News Network (a network designed to be different from the three New York-based networks) is being refused advertising by a number of major corporations.

Turner has called the output of the three New York-based television networks trash and worse. He's trying something different with Cable News Network and his superstation in Atlanta.

CNN's news is good and much improved in the past year; its programs in sports and films are often a refreshing change from the sterile, loud-mouth "Broadway" stuff beamed hour after hour on CBS, ABC and NBC.

It's, therefore, very much in the national interest that this fourth, innovative television network survive and offer an alternative, long needed. Millions of Americans have serious objections to the moral level of standard programming on the three New York-based networks.

Turner is an outsider competing against three powerful networks whose programming and news is too much alike to suit millions of Americans. One suspects there would be many in commercial television, in the so-called Big Apple, who would not be unhappy if CNN should fail.

Those advertisers refusing to include CNN in their advertising budgets are in effect siding with three broadcast corporations which have brought such a distasteful and unfortunate moral level TV programming into the American living room.

Any competitor who seeks to offer something on a higher moral level, in better taste, deserves support from viewers and American business. The public should know which corporations are boycotting CNN, and what their connections (in board memberships, corporate structure and the Old School Tie) are.

Old Company Sparkles with New Products

Kodak, Polaroid, Nikon, Canon. All household words, with well-earned reputations. But a manufacturer I'm now very impressed with is Ricoh.

Who is Ricoh? I doubt that you'll have to ask that question in another year. The company's American Marketing Director, Ray Ohannes, explains.

"In the past, Ricoh and icebergs have had something in common: size beneath the surface. Now, however, we are showing the American photo industry just how big a company we are, how deep our technological capabilities, and how extensive our photo product lineup."

Ohannes does not exaggerate. Ricoh is a Japanese firm that's been selling products in America for decades--and at very reasonable prices. Everything from its own brand cameras to cameras and photo equipment manufactured for Sears. Yet, until now, they've been one of the least known best selling firms on our shores. That's sure to change in the near future, especially in light of four new products the company is offering.

The first product to catch my eye was Ricoh's 500ME 35 mm rangefinder camera. It features automatic or manual exposure control, which a few RFs likewise do, multi-exposure capability, which a few RFs likewise do, and the capacity to accept an accessory motor winder, which darned few RFs likewise do. It's a spring-wound unit which quickly attaches to the camera baseplate to provide continuous sequence photography of up to 10 frames per winding.

Item number two is even more surprising. It's an underwater housing for either of two low-priced Ricoh cameras--the AD-1 or the AD-2. Made of tough plastic with an optical glass port, it lists for $162.50.

Now, the surprising part is not that Ricoh could make an underwater housing for two of its inexpensive 35 mm rangefinder cameras. Any manufacturer could. The amazing thing is that they would. It shows real concern for a very limited portion of the photographic market. If more manufacturers routinely provided underwater housings for their cameras, I suspect we'd all be taking underwater photographs . . . instead of drooling over the shots a select handful of photographers take.

Ricoh's third impressive offering is something camera manufacturers have been promising (and showing in mock-up or production-model-only versions) for years--an interchangeable autofocus lens. Now, autofocus lenses have been on the market for a couple of years, it's true. But never before an interchangeable lens for use with single lens reflex cameras. This one is a 50mm f/2 "normal" lens in popular Pentax K-mount, meaning it will fit without modification on any one of about a dozen popular camera brands. Focusing is from 39 inches to infinity, and there's a manual override switch for special requirements.

Item number four is the thing that impressed me least of all initially . . . but now intrigues me to no end. It's Ricoh's new solar-powered SLR, the XR-S.

Now, I know it sound like a gimmick. And that's what I thought. Who needs a solar-powered camera? But then I thought, who needs a solar-powered home? A solar-powered car? A solar-powered world?

According to Ricoh, the XR-S uses a two-phase power supply. A solar battery is used to recharge a storage battery, which supplies power to the camera when there's insufficient light to power the solar cell fully. Under normal conditions, the storage battery will last for five years, while the solar cell will live forever. That means a fully electronic SLR with mechanical-SLR reliability. And batteries that last up to five times longer than most present systems on the market.

Solar-powered cameras and auto-focus interchangeable lenses and inexpensive accessories--they had to hit the photo industry sometime. But from Ricoh?

Life is impeded by people who want the benefits without the accompanying obligations.

Dear Editor:

The old log cabin shelter in the Rochester City Park was originally built in Mill Race Park, now known as Lakeview Park. Hugh Barnhart and 12 other young men of the Chamber of Commerce went to a tamarack swamp between Athens and Akron and cut the small trees with which to construct the cabin. This was while Dr. Milo King was Mayor of Rochester, 1922-26, and he helped with the project of establishing a park and building a tourist camp there.

Henry A. Barnhart's History of Fulton County, published in 1923, lists the Mill Race Park and tourist camp as one of the recent achievements of Dr. King as Mayor, so evidently it was built about 1922.

Marty Jill Sheets grew up on East 9th Street, across the street from the park and recalls the log cabin shelter also. She and her brothers, Donald and Arthur Sheets, had a little rowboat named "Mickey," which they carried over their heads to the mill race to launch. The little boat was hand-made by their father, Clay Sheets, former Fulton County sheriff.

Mable Whittenberger (now Mrs. Ed McIntire) used to come visit her grandmother, who lived on Park Street, and Mable would play with Marty Jill and go for boat rides. They also would go ice skating on the mill race.

Sheets' house was where the Super Chief gas station is now, and this was then the city limits.

The log cabin was built across the race and about a block east of the Sheets' home. A wooden foot bridge stood east of the cabin. The bridge had a floor that curved up so that boats could go under it. But the Sheets' children were not allowed to go further east than the bridge as their parents would not let them go to the lake with their little boat.

The log cabin had a door on one side, just as it does now. Inside it had three tables that dropped down from the wall for picnics. The park caretaker fastened the tables up as this protected the windows. The cabin was kept locked because some picnic utensils were kept there.

Alvin Reed was the park caretaker for many years. His son, Myron Reed, recalls that not only the log cabin but also the refreshment stand at the south end of the City Park and the garage at the north end were moved from Mill Race Park. All three were originally built for tourists but only the cabin was made of logs; the other two are of sawed lumber.

It is believed that the log cabin and other buildings were moved to the present City Park (then known as the fairgrounds; at the time the fish hatchery was built, probably in 1933).

At that time the mill race ended at someplace near the present Flagpole. Originally the mill race extended from Lake Manitou to the north end of Rochester and flowed into Mill Creek. It was dug in about 1840 to bring water to power the factories in Rochester. After electricity came in the 1890's, parts of the mill race were filled in until all that is left today is the part along Lakeview Park and on to Lake Manitou.

I hear there are plans to fill in the Mill Race completely and end it forever. I am against this. I would like to see it filled with water again (not stagnant but flowing water) so that children could row, fish and skate on it again.

While we are preserving the log cabin shelter, why not preserve what is left of the Mill Race? Not many cities have a bit of history like this so conveniently located next to a park and therefore so easy to save.

What do other people think? Write to the editor and let your thoughts be known.

To the Editor:

Sunday Afternoon

I am sitting in the kitchen looking out the window. There is a pear tree loaded down with pears. There are fresh onions and tomato plants loaded with yellow blossoms. The grass is so green and the tree limbs are waving in the wind. Flowers in so many bright colors.

It's now 5:30 p.m. People are gathering in to the Little Chapel to worship and to hear a talk on Father's Day. There will be the honoring of fathers. All will sing "This is My Father's World." Mrs. Frances Garrett will sing. The Phillips ladies will sing. A professor from Ball State will sing. Then the speaker.

Then all will go to the yard of the Chapel where all will eat ham sandwiches, and homemade cake and homemade ice cream. It's been beautiful. Hours spent together. All nature has been beautiful and life has been good. God is in His holy temple. Let all the world keep silent before Him.

It's only 8 p.m. We get home to sleep and wait for the morning. A new day in Muncie. We will wait for another Sunday afternoon when all nature holds out its hands. We are thankful for everything. It's so beautiful. God is so good to us all.

Dear Sir:

The recent tragedy suffered by the Plymouth Fire Department has prompted me to end by procrastination of several years and proceed with this letter which has been on my long list of "things to do."

By virtue of my office as Clerk-Treasurer for the Town of Mentone, and Secretary of the Mentone & Tri-Township Fire Control Board, I am privileged to be more closely involved with our local volunteer fire unit than most of our citizens. Many times during the past six years I have watched these volunteers scurrying to their appointed assignments when duty called and have marveled at their dedication. I have also been present at the Board meetings where needs and problems are discussed and resolved, and I am indeed proud of the spirit of concern and cooperation evident among all parties involved.

I thank God for each and every member of our Volunteer Fire Department and will offer a silent prayer for their safety as I watch them fulfilling their commitment to our community and its citizens.

Sincerely,
Kate Whetstone

Dear Editor:

On behalf of the Cooperative Extension Service, I would like to express appreciation to all those who contributed to the success of the activities at the 1982 Fulton County 4-H Fair.

The 4-H members, adult leaders, parents, sponsoring committee members, and junior leaders all helped to make the 4-H activities and exhibits possible. Others who invested time, energy, and/or money toward the success of the Fair were: 4-H Livestock Buyers, 4-H Trophy Sponsors, department chairmen and assistants, livestock superintendents, livestock committees and assistants, sale committee members, 4-H Council members, R.S.V.P., night guards, P.C.A., clean up workers, and county veterinarians; with special thanks to the news media.

A special commendation and thank you should be given to the 4-H Fair Board members who contributed many hours and much work during fair week and also throughout the year.

To all these people we say thank you; without all of you, our successful fair would not have been possible.

Sincerely,

Harold Foster

What Normal Rockwell was to commercial and folk art in America, Harold Foster was to the world of comics. He was, by far, the best of all the artists in print media comics, in a class alone.

For over forty years Prince Valiant stood head and shoulders over anything else seen in the Sunday comics-as far as artwork, striking landscapes and historic reproduction are concerned. That was because of Harold Foster.

The comic strip continues in spite of Foster's recent death at age 89, and in fact had been continued for these past three years by an able successor, John Murphy. For that, many can be grateful.

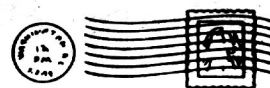

But a giant of American folk art passed from life's scene with the death of Foster. And those millions who enjoyed, every Sunday morning, the splendor of the era of knights, done in breathtaking beauty and detail, are forever indebted to a master artist, buried recently in Topeka, Kansas, born in Nova Scotia, in 1892!

LOUISA'S LETTER

Dear Louisa,

A new neighbor moved in next door to me and I always try to be friendly, so I called on her and invited her to come to see me. She has a parttime job and three small children who she leaves in the care of a hired girl. The children come over to my house not long after the mother leaves for work and are not called home until just before she returns. I think the girl sends them over because she doesn't wish to bother with them. They are nice little children and I hate to hurt their feelings but I haven't the time to watch over three children every morning. What must I do?
N.B.--Ala.

Answer:

The mother evidently does not know about this as she is paying the girl to take care of the children.

Why don't you talk to the girl before you do anything else and tell her that you will call the children when you have the time to entertain them.

Louisa.

Dear Louisa,

I married a divorced man and his former wife is still using his name. I am Mrs. Sam Smith (not my real name) and she goes by the same name. We live in the same town and it causes complications. Is it proper for her to use my husband's name?
S.S.--Ill.

Answer:

His ex-wife should use her maiden name in place of the Sam--in other words she should be known as Mrs. Sue Brown Smith.
Louisa.

How Much?

Senator Jesse Helms (R-NC) recently computed the cost of foreign aid since World War II and came up with a surprising conclusion. The American taxpayer has spent $2,304,257,000,000 to help foreigners.

Since the actual amount of dollars appropriated each year for foreign aid totals less--$286,467,000,000--one might ask how the larger figure is arrived at.

Simple. Since the federal government has had to borrow this money almost every year, which adds to the national debt, it has had to pay interest on it every year. If one figures the interest U.S. taxpayers are continuing to pay on the $286 billion appropriated, it comes to about $2.3 trillion!

Had foreign aid been held to about half, there would be no national debt today. This shows the real cost of borrowing money (and paying interest into infinity) for foreign aid.

The lightest common metal is magnesium.

THE RACE IS ON

Americans pride themselves on their competitive nature. Almost from birth, a child is taught to compete with his peers, and the element of competition remains with him throughout his life - in athletics, courtship and in his profession.

We feel that competition brings out the best in an individual, both physically and mentally. Thus we require some adjustment and guidance from the church in order to attain our highest spiritual development, which we must seek solely from within, without competition from any source.

Release new soft red winter wheat

Fillmore is the name of the latest soft red winter wheat variety released by the Indiana Agricultural Experiment Station at Purdue University and the Agricultural Research Service, U.S. Department of Agriculture.

High yielding and of intermediate maturity, the new variety has large heads and often fills three to four kernels per spikelet. The latter feature caused developers to name the new variety, Fillmore. The new wheat also has excellent milling and baking qualities.

The new variety will become available to certified seed dealers this fall and should be purchasable by farmers for fall planting in 1983.

Moderately resistant to the barley yellow dwarf virus and resistant to Septoria leaf blotch, leaf rust and powdery mildew, Fill-

Farm near West Lafayette and at other plots throughout the state. Researchers report that it has been superior to or similar in yield to Arthur-type varieties. It appears well adapted to the central areas of the eastern soft red winter wheat region of the United States.

The new variety is expected to excel when barley yellow dwarf disease is a problem. Although susceptible to powdery mildew in the seedling stage, it is resistant to it in the young and adult plant stages. It is also effective against the newer, prevalent races of the fungus which cause powdery mildew.

A mid-season variety, Fillmore heads about six days later than Arthur. Slightly shorter than 41-inch Arthur, its straw strength is excellent at both the pre-ripe and post-ripe stages.

More winterhardy than varieties Benhur and Hart, Fillmore is similar to Caldwell. It is less winterhardy than "Arthur-type" varieties and requires planting within two weeks following the Hessian fly-free date to minimize risk of winterkill, researchers say.

Fillmore is the twenty-third new wheat variety developed in the past 30 years by the Purdue-USDA small grain breeding team, which represents the Agricultural Experiment Station at Purdue and the agronomy and entomology research divisions at the USDA.

Breeders who participated in development of the new variety are F.L. Patterson, Lynn professor of agronomy at Purdue and project leader; H.W. Ohm, Department of Agronomy; G.E. Shaner and R.E. Finney, both of the Department of Botany and Plant Pathology; R.L. Gallun, J.E. Foster and J.J. Roberts, USDA researchers with the Department of Entomology and Agronomy; O.W. Luetkemeier, superintendent of the Agronomy Farm; and K.M. Day, research assistant in agronomy.

Indoor Pollution

To protect yourself against injury and to forestall a dangerous buildup of these indoor pollutants, follow these safety precautions.

Have all heating equipment checked out each season. Always leave garage windows and doors open when running an automobile inside the garage. If your garage is attached make sure the fumes are not drifting into the house. Never use a gas range or stove to heat a room. All fuel-burning heaters, including kerosene space heaters (outlawed in certain areas) should be vented to the outside. Use cleaning fluid and other chemicals in a well-ventilated area. Air out new permanent-press clothes before wearing. Air them again if they smell of chemicals after you have had them dry cleaned. Ventilate your home by opening a window or door for a few minutes each day. Burning charcoal gives off large amounts of carbon monoxide. Use barbecue grills outside only. Researchers have found that indoor air pollution, usually high in the winter months falls dramatically during the summer when windows stay open.

4-H'ers visit
wildlife preserve

Members of the Mentone United 4-H Club visited the wildlife preserve of Wayne Bessinger Wednesday, July 21. The 43-acre preserve is located in Marshall County near the Tippecanoe River.

The club members hiked through the preserve, following superhighway. The superhighway is a route which connects one part of the preserve with another. Although not usually for human use, the superhighway is designed especially for animals since it is the safest way for them to travel.

Bessinger spoke to the group on methods of preserving wildlife such as building birdhouses, planting feed plots, and planting trees.

Following the tour, the group conducted their regular business meeting in the Youth League Building.

It was announced that Penny Secrist, Shawnee Earl and Betty Smith were delegates to the Purdue Round-Up. At the Round-Up, Aimee Anglin was honored for her achievement record book in horse and pony project.

Results of the Share-the-Fun skit that was given at the Kosciusko County Farm Bureau meeting were recapped. Steve Lynch was announced as having participated in the county Tractor Operator's contest and will advance to district competition.

Block & Pecans

Most Americans may not know it but until recently pecans grew only in the U.S. southeast and southwest. They are a uniquely-American nut and only in recent years have the Israelis and others begun to grow pecans.

The best thing about the American pecan is that it's so tasty that every year for many years all nuts have been sold at high prices--without regulation, controls or supports from the federal government.

The pecan crop and industry, then, has been a model of the American free enterprise system. Growers could easily sell their nuts, at good prices; shellers could and did sell their shelled product at good prices.

This is exactly the kind of marketing system that best exemplifies the philosophy of Ronald Reagan and his administration. No controls, no regulation from Washington. Success and sellouts every year. (By contract, almonds and walnuts are subject to federal regulation; the government has storage warehouses full of both.)

Ironically, there is now an effort being made--by the Reagan Administration--to begin federal regulation of the pecan industry. Certain large growers, and others, believe they can make more money if the industry is regulated by a joint board in Washington. The consumer will, of course, pay if they make more money with higher prices.

A not very ingenious idea among growers is to tax shellers; in other words, to make them pay for the regulation program--which shellers don't want, naturally enough, to do.

When news of this regulatory attempt reached certain members of Congress they protested vigorously. But for some reason the move within the Department of Agriculture was so committed even warnings and protests from one or two top White House advisors, and key senators, went unheeded. Secretary of Agriculture John Block avoided telephone calls from protesting senators and congressmen until he had announced the effort would be continued with several department hearings.

Interestingly, the department had just finished asking for views from the industry; opposition to the idea of regulating the pecan industry ran over four to one against the new tax and control effort.

What, then, is behind this unReagan-like effort to increase the regulatory power of the federal government where not needed or justified? Who seeks control of the industry, a new tax and, almost certainly, higher prices to the consumer?

Caution: Raccoon Roundworms

If I had to pick what was considered to be the most enlightening course of my college career I'd have to choose parasitology. It opened my eyes to a new and often complex world of hitchhiking organisms, some of which are far more common than any people realize.

Americans generally aren't too aware of potential parasitic infections so we don't always take precautions against them. My parasitology class left me somewhat paranoid and for a full two years I didn't think of eating a steak that wasn't well-burned; pickled fish was certain suicide and even breathing was a risk. In time, however, I forgot most of what I had learned and could again enjoy a bloody T-bone and resumed breathing with reckless abandon. We would all do well, though, to realize that there are reasonable precautions against specific parasites that all of us can and should take, and we can do so without sacrificing everything we enjoy or killing ourselves in the process.

A case in point is the raccoon roundworm, known to the scientific world as Baylisascaris procyonis. According to a recent study at Purdue these parasites are 1) common in urban and rural raccoons, 2) can often cause fatal central nervous system disease, 3) can cause visceral larva migrans (the migration of roundworm larvae in internal tissues) in domestic and wild animals and 4) pose a potential threat to human health in situations where humans may contact raccoon fecal contamination.

The worm's life cycle goes like this. The adult roundworm living in a raccoon sheds eggs which are passed in the raccoon's feces. The eggs are consumed accidentally by foraging animals and hatch into larvae. The infected animals die, are eaten by raccoons and the larvae develop into adult roundworms to complete the cycle.

Natural infections of this roundworm have been found in chickens, quail, rabbits, groundhogs and squirrels. In the laboratory, monkeys infected with raccoon roundworms eggs developed severe eye disease known as ocular larva migrans (OLM), which is caused by larvae migrating through the eyeball.

A recent medical journal reported two cases of OLM in humans (one from Ohio and one from Michigan). The cause of these infections was not determined, but in both cases the size of the larvae was the same size as raccoon roundworm larvae, and in one case the infected person had a pet raccoon.

About one-third of all raccoons carry this parasite, and the potential dangers in coming in contact with raccoons and raccoon feces should be recognized. It appears that outdoorsmen and people keeping raccoons as pets or for breeding purposes now have another health hazard with which to contend. Admittedly, most of us don't regularly eat lunch on logs that are obvious raccoon "latrines", but neither do we look upon raccoon droppings as being particularly dangerous to our health. Now that we've all been enlightened on the subject we should be able to keep the risk of being infected to a minimum by practicing a little common sense and sanitation. ****

Agricultural engineering tips

Many farm tractor accidents involve front-end loaders and August is a month when many of these accidents occur. If you are using a front-end loader on your farm, follow these recommended safety practices: keep the load low when moving, keep speed down, turn slowly, avoid rough or sloping surfaces, and keep the wheels wide. You can do these things and still upset the tractor if you fail to add additional weight to the rear end of the tractor.

Each year tractors upset while being used to pack silage in trench silos. This is a very dangerous practice and may result in death or serious injury to the operator. Unless the tractor is equipped with rollover protection this practice should be avoided. A crawler type tractor is much safer to use when packing silage.

Farm people are often involved in a wide variety of activities during the month of August. Some of them may be different than usual. If so, they will have some risks that are not present during the other months. So whether you will be attending the county fair, going on vacation, mowing weeds, remodeling the house or some other activity, it is a good idea to stop and look at the possible hazards involved and take proper action to avoid injury.

The grain auger is one of the most dangerous pieces of farm machinery, with only tractors and combines being involved in more farm accidents. So this harvest season be extremely careful when working around the auger's most dangerous areas, the intake and PTO shafts. Under no circumstances should you touch an auger that has come in contact with an overhead power line.

Safety with ladders. Falls contribute to a large number of serious injuries each year on Indiana's farms. One cause of falls is improper use of ladders. Using only well maintained, undamaged ladders is the first step in preventing unnecessary falls. Placing a ladder correctly is also important. The base of the ladder should be one-half foot out for every foot up. The base of the ladder should be secured if the surface is hard and smooth to prevent the ladder from slipping out from under you. Following these simple precautions will help you avoid a ladder accident on your farm.

Since Adam and Eve tilled the first garden women have been a major influence on their working husbands. Farm wives, especially, can make a significant contribution to the safety of their husband through careful attention to the following details: well rested and fed workers are less likely to tire as quickly; workers who take several short breaks during the day remain more alert; well maintained clothing is less likely to catch in machinery; and husbands who know their wives love and appreciate them are going to be more careful with everything they do.

During the last ten years nearly two dozen farm women have been killed as the result of farm accidents. The times have brought about significant changes in lifestyles and responsibilities that many farm women have assumed in the operation of the farm business. In a growing number of instances grandmothers, wives, mothers, and daughters are being called upon to assist in areas of the farm operation traditionally viewed as "men's work." In addition to their already taxing and challenging responsibilities in the home, more farm women are seen in the role of part-time truck drivers hauling grain, tractor drivers and even combine operators. These new roles, many of which are very hazardous, can result in tragedy if time is not taken for adequate instruction on proper and safe operation.

When planning new hog confinement buildings, be sure to pay special attention to the ventilation system. The design and location of intakes is especially important. In summer, provide a total fan capacity equal to 350 cfm per sow in farrowing. Provide 100 cfm per pig in finishing and 150 cfm per sow in gestation or open up vent doors equal to 1/2 of the sidewall area. Additional sprinkler cooling will help in finishing and gestation.

Dryeration and/or bin cooling in corn drying will cut drying costs roughly 10 to 20%, increase dryer throughput from 25 to 60% on ten point removal, and increase the finished product quality. There isn't one practice in a thousand in American industry or agriculture that can go faster while running more efficiently, and do a better job. Speed usually costs money and increases stress. Dryeration and bin cooling are one of those unique practices where, by making better, more intelligent use of the energy already being expended in the system, the total performance is sharply improved.

Any farmer with grain damage problems in handling should look at these delayed cooling and combination slow drying processes. Any farmer with high speed drying and high drying bills should incorporate such practices into his system. Obtain a copy of extension leaflet AE-108 entitled "Dryeration and Bin Cooling", from your county extension office. Ask about the CFM computer program that can help you estimate fan performance on dryeration and bin cooling.

Bin drying fans on deep beds of soybeans should run continuously night and day, rain or shine until binned soybeans reach 14 to 14 1/2% moisture content. Once the beans reach the 14 to 14 1/2% range, the fan operation should be shifted to roughly 9 a.m. in the morning to 10 p.m. at night on each good drying day. Running the fan into the evening hours or all night when the moisture content is above the 14 to 14 1/2% range, will partially cool the gain mass. Each 18 degrees Fahrenheit of temperature reduction cuts the potential mold activity in half. Running the fan during high humidity night hours or on a rainy day slightly rewets grain that has already dried. But this removes moisture from the air, and thereby renders it capable of doing some drying in the upper bin regions. The net effect is to do more drying in any given period of time than any system of on/off control, plus a reduction in the moisture spread between the bottom and top of the grain mass. Request a copy of AE-84, "Drying Soybeans with Heated and Unheated Air", and AE-106, "Fan Sizing and Application for Bin Drying and Aeration", from your county extension office. Ask them about the CFM computer program for estimating fan performance on any bin size-grain variety.

Farmers can save grain drying fuel costs this fall by planning to incorporate either bin cooling or dryeration with their high speed drying processes. To be most effective, these hot corn transfer systems need to have grain temperatures out of the dryer in the range of 120 to 140 degrees Fahrenheit. The bin cooling process involves transferring hot corn directly to the final storage bin where it is cooled with the bin drying fan. The moisture content when cooled may be such that additional drying is carried out in the bin. This requires adequate fan horsepower for the bushels and moisture content involved. The dryeration process involves transfer of hot corn to an intermediate cooling bin with the hot corn accumulated and allowed to steep in its own heat without any aeration cooling for a minimum of four hours and as much as ten to twelve hours. The grain, usually corn, is then cooled slowly over a minimum ten to twelve hour period so that the heat stored in the grain is almost completely utilized in evaporating additional moisture from the grain. A correctly operated system should give two to two and a half points of additional moisture removal following the steeping plus slow cooling process. The entire cycle for one dryeration batch should be accomplished in 24 hours including steeping, slow cooling and grain handling. Ask your county extension agent for a copy of extension leaflet AE-108 entitled "Dryeration and Bin Cooling." Also ask about the CFM computer program that will quickly estimate fan performance for any dryeration or bin aeration situation. Also ask about AE-106 dealing with fan sizing and application.

Keep the knives sharp on your forage harvesters and you will do away with most of the common trouble spots. Don't stretch the knife life between sharpenings. If your machine does not have a built-in sharpener, keep an extra set or two of sharp replacement knives on hand. Also, keep the knife clearance properly adjusted. Too much clearance wastes water power and gives a ragged cut.

The best protection against muskrat damage in a farm pond dam is to build the dam according to professional engineering specifications.

Gypsum may be used to help clear muddy water in farm ponds. Finely ground gypsum applied evenly at the rate of about 1,000 to 1,500 pounds per acre of water surface should do the job.

Buying A Home?

The United States has for decades been the only major western nation where one can build or buy a home at bargain prices.

If two are working, earning perhaps $35,000 a year, that means they can buy a nice home for twice their annual earnings. In no other modern industrial nation can this be done.

In Europe, one can expect to pay about double for comparable-sized homes. That's one reason so many Europeans have been buying American homes and land in recent years. In Germany and Scandinavia, a home might cost three times what a similar residence would cost in the U.S.

Building is also a slower process in Europe. The industry is heavily saddled with bureaucratic methods—in permits, permissions, and rigid rules of building. Workers enjoy more work breaks, slowdowns, and leisure.

In this country one crew comes in to roof the house and is gone in two days. Another does the dry wall work in days, another the ceilings, another the painting (now often spray-painting). These crews come in, go all-out and get out. In Europe fewer men do it slower.

Despite all these advantages, the home market in America today is slow. Most people borrow to build a home and few want to pay fourteen or fifteen percent over twenty or thirty years. That means they pay several times the price of the house.

So Americans today are waiting. What can they expect? The experts say now is a good time to buy—because prices have gone down or stayed where they are for more than a year. Today's is, then, a buyer's market for those with cash. The hitch is buyers who must use mortgages can't afford the high interest. They are thus reduced in number, by the recession in interest rates.

The experts also say when the present recession ends (after interest rates go down) the housing market will boom. Prices, they insist, will soar, because of pent-up demand. Millions who have been waiting until interest rates decline will be in the market. Since fewer homes have been built in recent years, demand will exceed supply.

That has been the history of the industry in the past. Thus the housing industry key is whether interest rates come down, as hoped, soon. The number of buyers is determined by interest rates. Overall economic recovery, if they decline, will be very much hastened by the housing boom.

New Celebs

In television news, a new breed has developed—news celebs. They're the big-name commentators who sit before camera and read the news. In the early days of TV, practically all of these commentators were newspaper veterans, serious reporters with experience.

Today the network system works differently. Others often gather the news. The celebs voice it. Many of the celebs today are still legitimate newsmen, but some are not. And some who were, now merely do the camera work.

That was the objection to the recent smear of General William Westmoreland. CBS did that on Sixty Minutes (not the first objectionable expose on that program). The magazine TV Guide blew the whistle on CBS, however, pointing out Mike Wallace didn't do the research and reporting work for the smear he mouthed.

Westmoreland's main accuser was a man on the CBS payroll, who had been making the charge since the seventies. And the case presented was distorted. Celeb Mike Wallace didn't seem to mind.

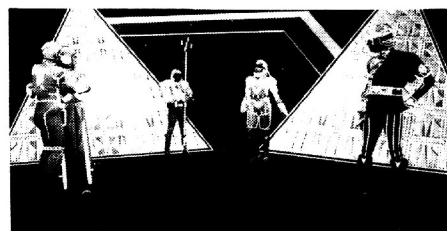

TV celebs are part actors (or actresses, a la Barbara Walters) and part newsmen. The public should be aware of this. There is a difference.

Softball was developed in 1887 in Chicago and was originally designed as an indoor game.

Dom DeLuise, Charles Durning and Jim Nabors co-star in this Technicolor production which is based on the hit stage play of the same name. The original soundtrack album is available on MCA Records and Tapes.

The Future of Minority Engineering

Do you want to be a part of the minority engineering force of the future? Your chances may be better, thanks to the efforts of a national organization that works for the minority engineering effort year 'round.

Since the National Action Council for Minorities in Engineering began in 1980, its goal has been to increase the number of high quality minority students graduating from engineering schools. To achieve that goal, the organization encourages students to consider engineering as a career. It motivates high school students to study mathematics and science and channels them to engineering schools. Through an incentive grants program, it also offers financial aid to engineering colleges for qualified minority students and links them to jobs in private industry through its summer employment program.

Engineers are vital to the future of our economy. As technically trained professionals they will be in demand to help find solutions to the challenges of productivity, defense and a better life for all citizens.

The Council is a coalition of top ranking corporate and government leaders, university and local pre-college program directors and many other workers in the engineering field.

If you'd like to help shape the priorities for the next decade of the minority engineering effort, write for free information to NACME, Three West 35th Street, Department C, New York, N.Y. 10001.

Although the first trains were not built till the 1800s, tracks were laid in the 1500s. They helped horses draw heavier loads than they could on ordinary roads.

INDIANA FARES COMPARABLY WELL

In recent weeks, the storm of comments surrounding the Governor's sobering announcement about Indiana's fiscal picture and subsequent remedial measures, has lacked one important element: perspective. Other midwestern states, subject to much of the same economic pressures as Indiana, are, in fact, in substantially worse fiscal shape.

Projected fiscal deficits in surrounding states range from $580 million to $1.3 billion. Illinois is the only Great Lakes state which is not facing a deficit, but it is at an expense of personal income taxes more than twice the amount Hoosiers pay. Overall each Illinois citizen pays $24 per $1,000 more in taxes than his Indiana neighbor.

Remedies taken by these states to deal with the shortfalls are nothing short of drastic. Michigan lifted its individual income tax by 21 percent. In addition to a state hiring freeze, such as the one Governor Orr announced for Indiana, Michigan laid off more than 8,000 state employees, and is still seeking to cancel a pay raise scheduled for Fiscal Year 82-83. If that cancellation is not achieved, more layoffs will be necessary.

In an effort to find new and innovative ways of raising additional money, Michigan has enacted what could be called the Pac Man tax: a new 4% entertainment tax on cable TV, sporting events, movies, theatre admissions, and video games.

While its fiscal boat is not quite as rocky, Ohio has nevertheless had to take many similar steps. Its legislature raised sales tax from 4% to 5%, and added a 25% surcharge on individual income tax. Welfare benefit increases to the tune of $70 million scheduled to take effect this year were cancelled in an additional effort to balance the budget.

Although this is just a midwestern listing, states throughout the U.S. have taken some, or all, of the same measures. The 1980's, with a troubled national economy, are difficult times for states. Indiana's fiscal problems, though serious, are manageable, and not unique.

NUCLEAR WASTE DISPOSAL SMALL BUT SERIOUS ISSUE

If all the low-level nuclear waste generated in Indiana were combined, it probably wouldn't fill the committee room in which legislators met to discuss its disposal, according to State Representative Steve L. Collins (R-Portage). The amount of the material doesn't diminish the seriousness of the issue, Collins observed.

A member of the special study committee created by the 1982 General Assembly, Collins met in Indianapolis to begin work on the matter of whether Indiana should manage the disposal of its own low-level waste (LLW) or join a compact of 16 states which would jointly establish sites and licensing requirements set by Congress in 1980.

Indiana generates about 5,000 cubic feet of LLW which is ordinary industrial or research waste that has been contaminated in some way with a radioactive substance. It is produced by hospitals, universities, research facilities, chemical and pharmaceutical firms and other industries.

ED BONDS: A GOOD TOOL

Both the pros and the cons of the current method of issuing economic development bonds were discussed at a legislative study committee meeting, and the consensus reached was that the good outweighed the bad.

As chairman of the committee on Economic Development Commissions, State Representative Steve Johnson (R-Kokomo) presided over testimony from the banking community—who purchase many of the bonds—and from Indiana mayors—who use the availability of the bonds as an economic development tool to entice business and industries to locate in their communities.

"The present statute governing the issuance of economic development bonds is very broad, allowing for almost exclusive local control," Johnson said. "It does mandate that bonds are only to be issued upon approval of a locally formed economic development commission, but it does not provide those commissions with any guidelines."

The result is some abuse. For example, in some communities, bonds have been used to set up retail establishments, such as fast food stores or grocery stores. "These entities are not generally thought of as economic development, and, in addition, would probably have been established without the use of economic development bonds," Johnson said.

On the flip side however, the positive benefits accruing from economic development bonds have been tremendous. William King, Chairman of the Board of the Second National Bank of Richmond, testified that "conservatively estimated, about 1,000 new jobs have been created in Richmond as a direct result of using economic development bonds."

Johnson noted, however, that the Richmond Economic Development Commission had voluntarily decided to limit bond issues almost exclusively to industrial concerns.

Despite that, King emphasized that the local control aspect of the current law was very important. "Some things are right for one community which are totally wrong for another," he said, and cited the example of a small town in northeast Indiana which used economic development bonds to finance a restaurant. Because of the restaurant, the town was able to attract a motel, which in turn, was the deciding factor in an industry locating there.

"Setting statewide guidelines delineating the kinds of projects which bonds could and could not be used for would be counterproductive, therefore," King said. Johnson said that the next meeting would be spent listening to testimony from Lt. Governor John Mutz and the academic community.

DRAINAGE CODE OBSOLETE, ALTERNATIVES EXPLORED

"The existing Indiana Drainage Code is old and should be rewritten to conform to local needs," said State Representative Norman Gerig (R-Auburn).

A member of the legislative drainage code study committee, Gerig met in Indianapolis recently to begin work in evaluating the drainage code and maintenance costs.

According to Gerig, the code was originally written in the early 1900's when the state's primary industry was agriculture. "With today's shift in population and the development of urban areas, the code has quickly become inflexible, complex and ambiguous," he said.

Funding for drainage maintenance is the biggest problem, according to Gerig. He said that about two-thirds of tillable Indiana farmland depends on proper drainage for maximum production and added that the need for proper drainage became evident last winter when the state experienced severe flooding.

Gerig noted that Michigan recently proposed a new drainage code. "Michigan has been studying this problem for a long time. I think it would pay us to take a look at their new code since much of their drainage problems are like ours," he said.

Michigan's code proposes to finance its drain maintenance with a combination of bonds and tax assessment. It also establishes a drain commission and engineer separate from the county board of commissioners and surveyor.

Currently in Indiana, the county commissioners double as the drainage board with the county surveyor responsible for 90% of the drainage work.

Representatives from the Association of Indiana Counties, the County Surveyor's Association and the Department of Natural Resources recommended alternate financing through either general obligation bonds, a temporary increase in maintenance assessment or placement of the cumulative fund above the tax freeze.

SUNSET COMMITTEE: CONSOLIDATE TO SAVE $$$

The amount of duplication and waste in the state's printing processes prompted State Representative Nelson Becker (R-Logansport) to say, "... if I'm ever reincarnated, I'd like to come back as a paper salesman in Indiana!"

Although the comment was facetious, the topic was not. A Sunset audit found at least 36 separate printing/duplicating shops in state government, and estimated that a consolidation would save more than half a million dollars.

Consolidation was the issue of the day, according to State Representative Phyllis Pond (R-Fort Wayne), another committee member. The committee heard further testimony that significant amounts of money could be saved if all state agencies combined their mail room functions and their data processing functions into a central location. Presently, mail room functions are scattered over 42 different locations, and data processing is fragmented into four major, and several minor, areas.

Most of the afternoon was devoted to discussing the data processing issue. "Apparently security is quite lax," Pond said. "We found that access to information is easily obtained, and could be either altered or destroyed."

Ed Creakbaum, Mentone's star hurler, proved his ability beyond a doubt Sunday when he pitched a no-hit, no-run game against the Colored Advertisers of Kokomo. He had 16 strikeouts to his credit and if it had not been for an error in the ninth inning, not a Kokomo player would have darkened first base.

Albert Tucker, while strolling along the riverbottom on the George Nellans farm Monday heard a noise that stopped him short in his tracks. Sure enough! It was a rattlesnake poised ready to strike. He didn't say how many shots it took to hit it in the head, but anyway he brought Mr. Rattler back to town as evidence. It had seven rattles and a button.

(Albert is looking around for another spot to hunt and stroll around now).

Debra was named grand champion in both construction and dress review and Joyce was named reserve champion in both divisions. Debra's skirt will be exhibited at the state fair.

Janet Goshert, also a member of the local club, was named construction winner in the senior dress review and will exhibit her dress at the state fair. Carmen Anglin was named in the honor group in the dress review and in construction.

The youth group, including eighteen youth with their adult advisors, left Monday, August 2nd and expected to be at the 1982 World's Fair on Tuesday the 3rd. On Wednesday and Thursday they were to travel through North and South Carolina to Florida and were to arrive at Miami Beach for the Youth Convention on Thursday afternoon.

They stayed at the Fontainebleau Hilton, which is also the site of the convention meetings, seminars, workshops and general services. The Hilton has over twelve hundred guest rooms, a complete shopping arcade, seven tennis courts and the largest swimming pool and garden area of any hotel in the east.

The actual Youth Convention started Thursday evening at 8 p.m. with a Keynote Service and was to continue through to Sunday morning with a closing service of Inspiration and Challenge.

The theme of the convention is: "Launch Out - To See - To Trust - To Do," based on Luke 5:1-11.

While on their way back to Indiana, the group spent Monday at Walt Disney World and traveled through Georgia, Tennessee and Kentucky on their return.

The group spent their nights at Church of God congregations to help keep the budget reasonable.

To help raise funds for the trip, the group initiated several projects starting with a "Slave Sale," where they were auctioned off to do four hours of labor. Since that time they have had three car washes, sponsored several pie and coffee socials on Sunday evenings and manned the pizza stand on the 5th of July. They also had a Free Car Wash, where they were sponsored by individuals and businesses in Akron for every car they washed. By far the largest fund raiser was the chocolate Easter Eggs that the youth sold last spring. Add to this several donations from individuals and everyone will have an idea of the work this trip involved. None of this would have been possible without the support of the church and the many businesses and people in Akron, and the Youth Group thanks them for their support.

While the group certainly had fun and enjoyed the sights along the way, their main goal was for spiritual growth, and towards this end, they are being supported in prayer by many people.

If you fail the first time, and make no correction for mistakes, there is no reason why you should not fail the second time.

DRUG QUIZ

by Curt Scarborough, Ph.D.
Used by permission; all rights reserved by DATE, St. Louis, Mo.

QUESTION - How long does an average marijuana "trip" last?

- 10 minutes
- 3 to 5 hours
- 30 minutes
- 8 hours

ANSWER - The effect of the drug depends on the potency of the THC, the user's personality, and the social setting. The effects of smoking marijuana often are similar in many respects to those of alcohol. The user will speak freely, daydream, and appear in a state of semi-sedation.

Generally, after 5 or 10 minutes, many users experience restlessness or anxiety. Speech becomes rapid, time appears to pass slowly, distances appear shortened, memory deteriorates, and concentration becomes difficult. Large amounts of marijuana may produce hallucinations after 20 to 25 minutes. The total effects of a marijuana trip can last from 3 to 5 hours.

JUNE FULLER

THE COUPON CLIPPER

It wasn't a check; it was a coupon

By June Fuller

DEAR COUPON CLIPPER - I sent for a $2 refund. When I received the check, I deposited it in my bank account.

At least I thought it was a check - until the bank sent it back to me. Across the face of it was stamped "not a cash item."

It was only then that I woke up to the fact that this refund was really a coupon that I was to redeem at the supermarket for $2 worth of groceries. In addition to having the $2 deducted from my bank account, the bank charged me a $2 fee for returning the coupon.

Now that this coupon has the notation from the bank stamped across the front in black ink, I hesitate to take it to the supermarket because if the store refused to redeem it, I hate to think of throwing it in the trash and hope you can suggest what to do. - Marilyn from Paducah, Ky.

DEAR MARILYN - Don't hesitate to take the coupon to the store and redeem it for the $2. After all, there is really nothing wrong with it.

If there is any question, just explain that you thought it was a check and deposited it. The cashier may chuckle, but you don't have a thing to be embarrassed about.

If the store won't accept the coupon, send it to the manufacturer's customer-relations department along with a note explaining the situation. Ask that the coupon be replaced with a new one. I'm sure that it would be.

Julia S. from Paradise, Calif., has a suggestion for getting more coupons:

"I have found a way to get more of the coupons that I never see in my area. I have eight traders who each buy an extra copy of their daily paper on coupon day and send me every coupon and form that's in it. I, in turn, send them everything in my newspaper. We hardly ever have the same coupons or refund forms, and it has worked out great!"

The Smart Shopping Award goes to Mary Aimmore of Fishkill, N.Y. She found Aunt Jemima Lite Syrup on sale for $1.39. After the store doubled her 50-cent coupon, she paid only 39 cents.

The store also had a special on Aunt Jemima Pancake Mix for 79 cents a box. She wound up paying just 49 cents once her 15-cent coupon was doubled.

"Then I went home and found an Aunt Jemima offer of a free bottle of Lite Syrup if I sent in the proofs from my two previous purchases," she says. "By the time I'm finished, I will have received the three items for nothing and made a 'home run' profit!"

Ms. Aimmore and other readers whose smart shopping tips appear in this column receive a free copy of the refunding magazine, the National Supermarket Shopper.

Write to me in care of this newspaper.

Here's a refund form to write for: Del Monte-Hawaiian Punch-Chun King, Del Monte Corp., Consumer Savings Jackpot, P.O. Box 3575, San Francisco, Calif. 94119. This offer - good for 50 cents to $7.50 in coupons and a $2.50 cash bonus - expires Oct. 31, 1982.

Here is this week's list of refund offers. Start looking for the required refund forms, which you can obtain at the supermarket, in newspaper and magazine advertisements and from trading with friends. Meanwhile, start collecting the needed proofs of purchase as detailed below. Remember, some offers are not available in all areas of the country.

In the eighteenth century, it was considered bad manners to leave a nightcap where it could be seen.

The Biblical maxim "Reap what you sow" continues to have meaning as more and more U.S. families return to their backyards to raise some of their own food.

Among the most popular crops for backyard growing is squash, including flavorful and versatile zucchini. Often served sauteed, stewed, stuffed and baked, or fried, Italian squash also makes a delicious pickle.

ZUCCHINI PICKLES are among the many recipes featured in the updated HEINZ GUIDE TO SUCCESSFUL PICKLING, considered a valuable source by home pickling enthusiasts. The novice or "blue-ribbon" winner will enjoy the 51 recipes which have been created and tested by the Heinz Home Economists. And tips and suggestions are included for "blue-ribbon" results.

The Heinz GUIDE is free along with a folder of pickling recipes from State Fair Blue Ribbon winners. Send a large, self-addressed envelope, affixed with 40¢ postage to: PICKLING BOOKLETS, HEINZ U.S.A., P.O. BOX 28, D-117, PITTSBURGH, PA. 15230.

ZUCCHINI PICKLES

- 4 cups Heinz Distilled White or Apple Cider Flavored Distilled Vinegar
- 2 cups granulated sugar
- ¼ cup pickling salt
- 2 teaspoons celery seed
- 2 teaspoons ground turmeric
- 1 teaspoon dry mustard
- 5 pounds zucchini (5 to 6 inch), unpeeled, cut into ¼-inch slices
- 1 quart thinly sliced onions (4-5 medium)

Combine first 6 ingredients in saucepan; bring to boil. Pour over zucchini and onions and let stand 1 hour; stir occasionally. In saucepot, bring mixture to a boil, then simmer 3 minutes. Continue simmering while quickly packing one clean, hot jar at a time. Fill to within ½ inch of top making sure vinegar solution covers vegetables. Cap each jar at once. Process 5 minutes in boiling-water bath. Makes 6-7 pints.

Fertilize Vegetables Mid-season

WEST LAFAYETTE, Ind.

Heavy spring and summer rains may have pushed nitrogen fertilizer out of reach of plant roots. Some plants are showing a lack of nitrogen and may not bear fruit as well as they could.

Julie Chamberlain, Extension horticulturist at Purdue University, says that nitrogen is essential to leaf growth, and leaves are needed by the plant to manufacture foods and produce fruits.

Usually plants get nitrogen from the breakdown of organic matter in the soil, from a yearly maintenance application of fertilizer and/or from nitrogen sidedressings. (Side dressing is fertilizer placed slightly to the side of the plant and lightly raked into the soil.) Until plants start fruiting or growing considerably, they receive sufficient nitrogen from the first two sources. However, later in the growing cycle, the demand of the plant for nitrogen often exceeds the supply and a sidedressing is needed. When heavy rains have occurred, nitrogen is leached from the soil and is unavailable to plants, thus the plants' need is even greater.

Vegetable crops vary in the amount of nitrogen sidedressing needed and the time of application. Chamberlain suggests using the following chart as a guide:

Recommended nitrogen sidedressings.

Crop	Amount of Side-Dressing (Pounds per 100-foot row*)		Time of Application (Sprinkle the nitrogen fertilizer in the row middles and water if rain is not likely)
	Ammonium Nitrate 33-0-0
Tomato	1		1) 1 to 2 weeks before first tomato ripens 2) 2 weeks after picking first ripe tomato 3) 1 month later
Cucumber, cantaloupe	1		1) 1 week after blossoming begins 2) 3 weeks later
Sweet corn	1		1) When plants are 8-10 inches tall 2) 1 week after tassels appear
Asparagus	2		Before growth begins in spring
Potato	1½		After tuber formation starts
Peas and beans	1		After heavy bloom and set of pods
Peppers, eggplants	1		After first fruit sets
Cabbage, cauliflower, broccoli	1		3 weeks after field transplanting
Spinach, kale, mustard and turnip greens	1		When plants are about one-third grown
Onions (mature)	1		1 to 2 weeks after bulb formation starts
Sweet potatoes, watermelons, carrots, beets, turnips parsnips, lettuce	None		Excessive amounts of nitrogen will reduce yields, or lower quality, or both. Side-dressings of nitrogen not needed.
Annual flowers	1		4 to 6 weeks after planting

* A pint of ammonium nitrate weighs approximately 1 pound.

 Other forms of nitrogen, such as urea and ammonium sulfate, may be used on an equivalent nitrogen basis.

SELL PRODUCE TO SUMMER CAMPERS

Even if you don't have a garden of your own, you can make some extra cash this summer by selling fruits and vegetables to campers in your area. In fact, two of our readers from Tennessee, Gail Palmer and her friend Carol Lea, recently netted nearly $35 a day by loading up their mini-pickup with produce from a local farmers' market and "hawking" it at nearby campgrounds.

The two entrepreneurs discovered that variety and quality are crucial to a successful fresh produce business. And a warm, welcoming attitude, which includes taking enough time to jabber a bit with buyers, will bring folks back to your food wagon for repeat orders. Timing is important, too: The partners found that late afternoon—from 3:00 p.m. until dark—was the best time to catch people at their "homes away from home".

Because they already had an in-town business of their own, the two women were a jump ahead of most people who might want to try a venture of this sort. All the legalities and technicalities—such as securing city and county licenses, and learning about liability insurance and sales tax requirements in the state—had already been dealt with. So, unless you're in a similar situation, you'll need to check with your city or county officials about the necessary paperwork.

Besides obtaining permission from the owners and managers to sell in their campgrounds, you'll have to gather some basic equipment before starting your business. A set of scales is a necessity, as are paper bags... especially if you sell by the pound. Gail and Carol found that the two most useful bag sizes were No. 6 (which holds about six pounds) and No. 16 (for the larger produce, such as cantaloupes or corn). You'll need to have change on hand, of course, and it can be carried in an inexpensive cloth carpenter's nail bag that's tied around the waist (our enterprising readers started each day with enough paper money to convert a $20 bill plus $10 worth of coins). Bushel baskets, used for display, can usually be purchased at the farmers' market. The women found that a cover for the back of their pickup helped keep the produce fresh in the hot summer sun... and some homemade outwardly tilted shelves helped to show off their wares.

Items that need little or no preparation sold best for the two peddlers: Peaches, grapes, bananas, apples, plums, cantaloupes, watermelons (in smaller sizes and already chilled), tomatoes, corn, and onions were popular. Also, regional foods, such as a local variety of honey, enticed vacationers.

When pricing your merchandise, first find out the costs for similar goods at local grocery stores and then try to sell for a little less. Gail and Carol's general policy was to double their money on items sold by the pound and to add a $1.00 markup on per-unit items such as watermelon or honey.

4-H'ers to participate at Indiana State Fair

Hoosier 4-H'ers by the thousands will participate or have projects on display at the 1982 Indiana State Fair in Indianapolis. The fair will open Aug. 18 and conclude Aug. 29.

Many 4-H youth will arrive on the fairgrounds prior to the opening day to attend the Boys and Girls State Fair Schools or to prepare displays and animals for show.

Judging of 4-H entries in the swine, beef cattle, sheep, horse, poultry, and rabbit classes will occupy much of the time the first three days. Naming of class champions and overall grand champions annually attracts wide interest. Selection of the Grand Champion wether and steer on Thursday and the barrow on Friday will highlight events during this period.

Climax of the livestock judging will come Monday evening, Aug. 23, with the annual Spotlite Sale in the Coliseum. At that time, the 15 top meat animals - five barrows, five wethers, and four steers, plus one beef carcass - will go on the auction block.

Meanwhile, many other 4-H activities will be taking place on the fairgrounds. One of the busiest sites will be the 4-H buildings in the northwest section of the grounds. Here fairgoers can view thousands of winning 4-H entries from county fairs throughout the state. These entries - representing the finest in some 40 projects areas - have been judged in statewide competition and awarded ribbons. These exhibits are open to public viewing throughout the fair.

Wednesday through Saturday, Aug. 18-21, 4-H and FFA youth also will be giving demonstrations in the auditorium of Exhibit Hall. And on Friday, Aug. 20, the 4-H English Horse Show will be held in the Coliseum.

4-H Adult Leaders Day will be observed at the fair on Saturday, Aug. 21 this year, and a special program will be conducted in the Farm Bureau Building, beginning at 9:30 a.m. This will honor all Hoosier 4-H volunteer leaders, especially those in attendance.

Adult 4-H leaders coming to the fair for the day will be given special recognition ribbons to wear, identifying them as honored guests. The program will include tributes by Cooperative Extension, State Fair and Farm Bureau officials as well as one by a member of the 4-H Youth Speakers' Bureau. The state 4-H chorus will sing several selections.

Bowen Center holds research

What do the citizens of our community see as mental health needs? There are many problems people experience in living, such as managing stress or creating a happy marriage and family. The Research Department of the Bowen Center has begun a project which will attempt to assess what the community sees as mental health problems and what services they would like to see provided.

The project, called needs assessment research, will cover all five counties which the Bowen Center serves. The primary goal of the project is to identify more clearly the mental health needs to better assure that existing programs meet those problems. The results will also be used for future program planning and development. Another goal is to strengthen communication and cooperation between the Bowen Center and other community agencies, and to assess awareness of existing services. Because the Bowen Center will not be able to meet all the needs suggested by county residents, the results of the surveys will be made available to other community agencies. These agencies in turn, will be able to act upon the needs according to their resources and priorities.

The project is scheduled to begin in August and will consist of four methods: person-to-person interviews, mail surveys, telephone surveys and group surveys to service clubs and professional organizations. All answers will be kept anonymous. Two hundred and fifty telephone surveys will be conducted in each county by trained volunteers from the county mental health associations. Citizens will be selected randomly from listings of telephone numbers. Their names will not be recorded. The telephone survey will be conducted the last week of August and first two weeks of September.

In total, the project will survey between 3,500-4,500 citizens. The success of the research depends upon the cooperation of community members. The Bowen Center asks that all those called by phone or reached by mail please answer the survey. The results will be an important contribution to providing better services to the community.

Long active in 4-H work, she recently returned from a three-week 4-H sponsored European trip. She entered eight calves in this year's fair. She showed her champion steer earlier in the week in the open class of the Elkhart Co. fair and was named champion of that show, also.

Gail Law was honored with a birthday party Thursday night at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Glen Law. The group enjoyed a cook-out, cake and homemade ice cream. Those celebrating were Cindy Listenfelt of Bourbon, Becky Kuntz of Tucson, Ariz., Rod Thomas of Etna Green, Susie and Greg Witham, Roger and Julia Moriarty and Janet Moriarty.

School Again

The freedom of summer for millions of youngsters is coming to an end, and the "necessary tragedy" of school approaches.

This, of course, is not the proper view. Many look forward to school, a healthy reaction. But the Huck Finns among us love freedom under summer skies. The end of vacation coincides nostalgically with the end of summer.

Fall, nevertheless, has its attractions—cooler weather, clear skies and landscapes, football, hunting, etc. That doesn't make the approaching end of summer less sad for children who enjoy it as their annual time of freedom.

It should be remembered, in this sorrow, that school makes vacation summers what they are. The time will come for most when a few weeks' vacation a year, if that, will be the annual hope.

Hay Fever

Those who have annual trouble with sniffles and sneezes in late summer and early fall should now prepare for the hay fever season. The ragweed climax is approaching.

The height of the season comes at slightly varying times in different parts of the country. In northern states, the peak of the pollen season comes in August and September. In southern states the peak is experienced slightly later.

As a general rule, most people can tolerate a pollen count of up to twenty-five grains of pollen in each cubic yard of air. However, some are bothered by a count of ten or fifteen, while a few can't tolerate a count of five, or less.

Hay fever is not a disturbance to be taken lightly, and millions suffer from its effects each year.

A remedy for many is allergy tests and injections, which can help a large percentage of sufferers.

In more recent years it has been found that many victims' attacks are caused by diet—even milk sometimes causes hay fever.

Anti-histamines alleviate the problem for most. Visits to the seashore where the pollen count is minimal, help. Air conditioning (with good filters) can help. Doctors have charts which show the average pollen count in various sections of the country, a useful guide, for evasion!

We wish to thank the King Memorial Home, Millers Merry Manor of Warsaw, Brother T.R. Jones who officiated the service, pallbearers, neighbors, friends who sent floral tributes and paid respects. We cannot express enough thanks to all who helped us through this most difficult time.

I would like to thank all my friends for all the cards, calls, visits and food brought in and most of all the prayers. Thanks to the Rev. and Mrs. Marken for their many visits during my stay in the hospital and while recuperating at home.

Maxine Holloway

I would like to thank those who came to the funeral home to pay their respects to Uncle Tom and also those who sent flowers. This was greatly appreciated by myself and the other nieces and nephews. May God bless you for it.

Fishing

For some people fishing isn't the rest or relaxation it should be. If fishing requires the same mad pace our daily routine requires, it provides little recreational value.

Successful fishing is the small boy who sits happily dangling a hook from a bank-taking it easy.

Or, it's the individual who finds relaxation, unburied, in dangling bait with quiet hope and pleasure, not frenzied frustration and push.

The 19th

In August, 1812, this country was at war with Britain. Captain Isaac Hull in the frigate Constitution sailed from Boston to demonstrate to the British that U.S. naval power was for real.

Largely contemptuous of the Americans, the British bet their regular warships could easily defeat American counterparts. On the 19th, some days out of Boston, Hull sighted the Guerriere, which opened fire at long range.

Holding his fire until very close, Hull quickly devastated his English opponent in a battle which cost the Royal Navy 300 killed and wounded.

That strikingly demonstrated to the world that America was a major sea power—with potent ships and well-trained crews—not to be taken lightly.

August 24

On August 24, 1572, the mass murders of Protestants began in France, on an order from King Charles IX, incited by Catherine de Medici.

Over 2,000 were killed in Paris alone, and many more all over France. The Reformation had begun in Germany earlier in the century and many of France's leading thinkers and intellectuals had joined the reform movement.

French Protestants, known as Huguenots, were persecuted and murdered on and off in France for centuries, many fleeing for their lives to America, often to Massachusetts, New York, Pennsylvania, Virginia and South Carolina.

The 24th, known for the festival of St. Bartholomew, thus reminds the world annually of the folly of religious intolerance and fanaticism—probably responsible for more killing in the world's history than any other thing.

LOUISA'S LETTER

Dear Louisa,

My husband died five years ago and my oldest child is fifteen. Recently I have been seeing a very nice man at social affairs but I have not had dates with anyone as I felt my children needed all my attention but now I realize that it will not be long before my two boys will be in college or interested in other people and I will be at home alone.

This man has asked me out for dinner and I accepted but my son doesn't like the idea of me dating anyone. This puts me in a quandary as I would like to mingle with grown people but I don't want to make my sons unhappy. I am thirty-seven years old. What do you think I should do?

Widow--Wis.

Answer:

You are a young woman and the idea of spending the rest of your life as a widow is not a very pleasant one. It is also true that it is much easier now for you to find a suitable companion for your remaining years than it will be five years hence.

I should accept this man's invitation if I were you and then I would invite him for dinner and have him meet the boys. They may find him good company and like him. Of course, there is a chance that you may not find him as interesting as you think he is or he may not have marriage on his mind.

However, it is nice to have a man as an escort to places, occasionally, and all adults should have some companionship with people of their own age.

It is not good for parents or children to be too possessive.

Louisa.

Paying the cost of our past

By R.L. Kohls

A couple of years ago, we were shocked by the news that Chrysler, one of the nation's largest and respected corporations, was on the economic ropes. The event was so unusual that the federal government extended a hand to help Chrysler survive.

Currently we read daily about bankruptcies and businesses in trouble. These include not only farmers and small firms but also some of the nation's corporate giants such as International Harvester.

It was generally concluded that Chrysler had made some pretty poor management decisions. However, today businesses seem to be in trouble not so much from mismanagement as from management that missed! The most common explanation give is the recession. Consumers aren't buying. Interest rates are abnormally high. But there have been recessions before without such widespread concern over potential business failures—especially among very large corporations. What makes this recession different?

A major difference is that, as an economy, finally we seem to be coming to grips with controlling inflation. For over a decade we had been operating with record high peacetime inflation. Each year throughout this period the only outlook was "tomorrow the prices will be higher."

Additionally, during these years the inflation-oriented monetary and fiscal policies resulted in record low real interest rates. In fact, when rising prices were considered, savers received practically nothing for their savings; borrowers paid practically nothing for their loans.

Under these circumstances the attitude developed to borrow and buy now because money is cheap and prices will be higher tomorrow. Consumers bought autos, household equipment and houses heavily on credit. Farmers extended themselves to buy extra equipment and land. Businesses borrowed heavily to make extra purchases. The idea was to "Leverage" as much as possible. This term, put simply, means "borrow as much as possible today and tomorrow when the price of my house, land, or equipment goes up, I can borrow more to help pay off my debts."

But in the past several months, underlying conditions have changed dramatically. The rate of inflation is down sharply. Prices no longer are automatically higher tomorrow. Interest rates are at record levels. Savers find saving worthwhile. Borrowers find money very expensive. The basic management challenge has changed from one of beating inflation to one of lowering costs and improving efficiency of operation. Management of many companies did not anticipate this turn in events. Plagued with slow sales, many once-strong operations find themselves short of needed cash to pay the high interest charges on their high debts.

There is a lesson in this. Inflation favors some and hurts others. It encourages business actions that in more stable times are unwise. When inflation is brought under control, different groups gain and lose.

Can we, as a nation, manage ourselves so that prices and money values remain more stable in the future? If so, businesses can again turn their attention to the problems of obtaining profitable and efficient production rather than those of protecting assets in inflationary times. The transition costs are real. But in the longer run we all stand to gain.

BUSINESS OUTLOOK

By Edward Thorlund

As predicted, two reductions in interest rates have taken place in recent weeks by the Federal Reserve Board and then by major banks.

The current outlook is for at least two more in the near future. By the end of September interest rates may well be down to 14 percent. If they go lower, that will probably be a very healthy sign.

If they go lower and stay there throughout the year, that will not only be a promising sign, but would almost surely stimulate the economy like nothing else could.

Yet Wall Street and the business world in general remain skeptical about the present trend downward. There has been so much talk about heavy federal borrowing pushing rates up again in the last months of the year, some corporations are standing pat, to see how far lower interest rates will go.

Only after they're satisfied lower rates are here to stay while will many corporation executives begin to implement recovery programs, expansions or new sales projects.

Meanwhile, inflation continues to cause concern. The annual rate is still much improved but the trend of recent months—up again—is being watched closely. It's a disappointment to the Reagan Administration.

There are those who feel only a White House decision to reduce the deficit—whatever the cost—will convince the business and world community long-term recovery is at hand. And that could include defense spending cuts.

The Administration now says the 1983 deficit will be $120 billion. But some estimates put the figure at $140 billion. That's too much government borrowing to enable interest rates to go down, in the view of many economists.

Correct answer - a.

Jasper Dorsey

Looking at the excellently done 1982 Football Yearbook of the University of Georgia, brings to memory the national championship of 1980 and the near miss of 1981.

Since the annual joust with the wild bunch from Clemson is almost within reach on Sept. 6, great excitement attends the preparations. Any game in which the adversaries consist of the National Champions of 1980 versus the National Champions of 1981 should be a spirited event.

The Dogs remember the embarrassment of losing last year in Clemson by 10 points, after nine expensive turnovers. The bitterness lingers, because had Georgia won that game they would have concluded the regular season undefeated, with the number one ranking for the nation instead of No. 2. Maybe even the Sugar Bowl might have been 33 seconds shorter, for if it had been, Georgia would've had two national championships back to back.

Moreover, because it's the first game for both teams and on national television, Labor Day night, there will be intense pressure on both coaching staffs and players.

Everyone knows that it takes a heap of talent, great coaching...plus good fortune for an undefeated season. Even alumni know it.

The coaching element is so important for reasons other than the teaching, training, discipline, strategy, tactics, et al. Coaching includes recruiting, that extremely critical element for success.

Vince Dooley put together last fall, his best-ever coaching staff, in the opinion of many. It should be even stronger this year for working together longer.

Furthermore, that staff, according to those who live by keeping close to the subject, did the finest job of any major college in recruiting for 1982. You can't start fall practice very much better than that.

Mr. Dooley, a modest and careful man, wishes to count chickens hatched rather than eggs in the nest, so he's correct as usual. But it's nice to start with the best setting of eggs. Coaches bet their careers on it.

Defensive Coordinator Bill Lewis gave us, in his first year, the best defense in the Conference. Nationally, his defense was ranked 2nd in rushing defense and 3rd in scoring defense. He is a superior recruiter, also.

George Haffner, the Offensive Coordinator, produced the top conference records in scoring, rushing offense and total offense. The national ranking was No. 2 in total offense. George is starting his 3rd season.

Bill Hartman, Jr., has been producing the nation's leading place-kickers for years. Last year with a freshman he replaced a consensus All-American without losing anything. His punters' hang-time, equally critical with distance, has always given the Dogs a superior weapon. He has no peer in his specialty and works for a dollar-a-year.

All-American, fullback and team Captain of the Dogs in 1937, in the State Sports Hall of Fame, Hartman has been Chairman of the Georgia Student Educational Fund since 1960, and was President of the Alumni Society. He even led the National Football League in passing for the Washington Redskins one year.

The rest of the staff is made up of future head coach potential, also.

Ray Goff, Director of Recruiting last fall, deserves exceptional recognition. Quarterback of 1975 Cotton Bowl and 1976 Sugar Bowl SEC Champions, SEC Player of the Year '76, Ray tried professional football during the exhibition season, before deciding he'd contribute more in coaching, then did the unthinkable...he gave the pro team their money back for his bonus and salary because he was leaving. A strongly motivated young man of principle.

Coaching makes a world of difference; so, in the opening game Georgia won't be at a disadvantage.

Then there's always the advantage of Vince's and Georgia's secret weapon...Barbara Dooley.

THE REPRIMAND, "GO CLEAN YOUR ROOM!" will be child's play when your young miscreant's room is floored with Italian ceramic tile. Spills and crayon marks are easily cleaned with soap and water, and active play won't mar the floor's brilliant shine. Italian ceramic tile will last long after the kids are college-bound.

ENERGY AUDITS PLUG IN POTENTIAL SAVINGS

Though the fee for home energy audits is as low as $15, many homeowners aren't taking advantage of them. A study by several utilities in Connecticut shows that homeowners who took the audit advice could save about 40 percent on oil and gas and about 25 percent on electricity.

OUR CHANGING EARTH

Through his ingenuity, man has devised machines literally capable of changing the face of the earth. In the space of relatively few years, man has changed what was once a wilderness in America to the most civilized nation in history.

In recent months, however, we have become acutely conscious of our reliance upon our natural resources and of the dangers inherent in abusing our environment. Perhaps it is time to reconsider our definition of "progress" and treat our God-given blessings with more respect.

Start With a Better Breakfast

Each day has a new beginning-breakfast and that is the logical place to begin improving the diet by adding fiber and eliminating saturated fats. Down with bacon and eggs, down with sugary doughnuts and pastries. Up with whole grain breads and cereals, skimmed or low-fat milk and fresh fruit. Eat the fruit don't just drink the juice. Try all the ready-to-eat cereals that are good sources of fiber. For new flavor mix several kinds together and add such extras as flaked coconut, uncooked oatmeal or wheat germ. Try new kinds of cooked cereals. For added flavor stir in granola, raisins, chopped figs or dates. Serve with yogurt, applesauce or maple syrup as a change from the usual milk. Make speckled pancakes - as soon as the batter is poured out on the griddle sprinkle over it any or all of the following bran cereal, granola, chopped nuts, blueberries or raspberries. Turn and cook the second side as usual. Pancakes like these don't need to be drowned in syrup. Top these with applesauce, cottage cheese, or with just a drizzle of honey. Proof that a "good" breakfast doesn't have to be boring.

Senior citizens who use the Akron Nutrition Site for meals must call in their meal reservations the day before you plan to join the group for dinner. Fisher to assist in state Demo voter registration Democratic State Chairman Jerry Miller has announced the appointment of Michael Bottorff of Indianapolis as Director of Democratic Voter Registration for the State of Indiana. She will coordinate all phases of the voter registration drive within the state and will be assisted by Violet Fisher (county chairperson) of Rochester who will be coordinating the voter registration efforts in Fulton County.

Bottorff stressed the importance of voter registration in the upcoming Fall election. "Making sure eligible voters are registered is our most important job this year," she said.

There are over one million unregistered voters in Indiana, and Bottorff emphasized that this election is extremely important to both the Nation and the State.

Our efforts to register voters is one of the most rewarding kinds of political action. The rewards are obvious. Every newly-registered voter adds to the voice of the community and to the strength of the Party. Voter registration and getting-out-the-vote are top priorities in 1982.

Door-to-door registration will end September 18 and all other registration will end October 4. Hoosiers not properly registered by October 4 will not be allowed to vote in the November 2 election.

Ind. State police report

The Indiana State Police at the Peru District announced the following end of the month report for July, 1982 on activities in Fulton County.

County troopers spent 1,100 hours on criminal investigations and patrol; patrolled 15,300 miles; investigated 5 accidents; made 82 arrests; issued 166 warnings; arrested 3 persons for driving while intoxicated; made 2 interrogation reports and assisted 87 motorists.

Lt. John D. Gaylor, Dist. 61 Commander, reports that five troopers were assigned to the county and were responsible for the above work. District 61 comprises of Cass, Fulton, Howard, Miami, Tipton, and Wabash counties. He reports there have been no fatalities in rural accidents in Fulton County during the six months in 1982, compared to two persons during the same period of 1981.

There were 14 persons who have lost their lives in traffic accidents in the six county district compared to 22 persons for the same period last year. This is a decrease of eight lives.

New three-way license granted

Eddie Smith, 365 East Main St., owner of The Silver Inn, Silver Lake was granted a new three-way liquor license Wednesday by the county Alcoholic Beverage Commission.

Commission members Oscar Werner, Warren Utery, Larry Manuel and Cecil Robb, from the state ABC all voted in favor of the license.

The Silver Inn had previously only had a beer and wine retail license and for the third time in two years, sought the addition of the liquor sales to that license.

Appearing with Smith before the commissioners were his attorney, Brooks Pinnick and twenty-two supporters, including Silver Lake Town Marshal Eddie Wright. Smith also brought a petition signed by 266 supporters.

The previous two times Smith had applied for the license, they had been denied apparently because remonstrators argued that one package store in town was enough. There is a package store owned by Herbert Ewing, next door to The Silver Inn.

Smith said The Silver Inn offers food while the package store does not, and said the addition of liquor would probably boost his food sales.

During testimony Wednesday, Marshal Wright said there had never been any problems with The Silver Inn and he felt some of the people who signed the petition of opposition were told their utility bills would increase if the three-way license was granted.

"How did you break your husband of that habit of staying out all night?"

"When he came home late one night, I called out 'Is that you, Ralph?'—and my husband's name is John."

"Mother," said Tommy, "is it correct to say 'water the horse' when he is thirsty?"

"Why, certainly, dear."

"Well, then," said Tommy, picking up a saucer, "I'm going to milk the cat."

Freshman: "May I kiss you?"

Co-ed: "Jeepers! Another amateur!"

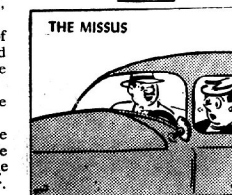

Someone just figured out what doctors scribble on prescription pads. It's a note to druggists: "I got my $5; he ought to be worth that much to you."

A ten-year-old boy rushed into the shop. "Father's being chased by a bull," he cried.

"What can I do about it?" asked the shopkeeper.

"Put some film in my camera," said the boy.

"Now press the button marked 'D' with the forefinger of your left hand."

THE COUPON CLIPPER

Trash seems like treasure to smart refunders

By June Fuller

DEAR COUPON CLIPPER - I was watching a commercial for Hefty trash bags the other day when I suddenly realized that I must have "refund fever."

As the woman on television opened up a box of trash bags and discarded the empty package, all I could think of was the proof of purchase she was throwing away. I guess this is a sign that I'm really hooked - and I love it! - Kathy P. from Whitehouse Station, N.J.

DEAR KATHY - Yes, you're hooked. If you would like a second opinion, ask any refunder.

Once you start paying attention to empty packages and consider trash to be treasure, you're one of us!

DEAR COUPON CLIPPER - I just started refunding six months ago and was really having a hard time accumulating all the proofs of purchase required by the offers.

I had just about decided that it just wasn't worth the trouble when I asked a friend for a Nestea label. She gladly peeled it off the jar and gave it to me.

A week later she gave me five more Nestea labels. She said that she had mentioned my request to some of her friends and relatives - even her hairdresser - and they had all saved the labels for me.

Needless to say, I was surprised, but very happily so. But what really got me "hooked" on refunding took place several weeks later. I saw this friend again and, much to my amazement, she gave me a mountain of empty boxes and labels. (Some had even been soaked off the jars!)

All the people she had originally spoken to had begun saving everything for me. Yes, even the hairdresser!

So, please encourage other readers that when all seems hopeless - don't give up! - Linda B. from Garden City, Kan.

DEAR LINDA - It's wonderful to have a friend who is so thoughtful.

Many people who have no interest in couponing and refunding don't mind saving coupons or proofs, if you ask them. But be sure to show your thanks with an occasional refund or gift offer. Here's a refund form to write for: $2 Kordite-Hefty Freezer Refund, P.O. Box 9976, Clinton, Iowa 52736. This offer expires Dec. 31, 1982.

Here is this week's list of refund offers. Start looking for the required refund forms, which you can obtain at the supermarket, in newspaper and magazine advertisements and from trading with friends. Meanwhile, start collecting the needed proofs of purchase as detailed below. Remember, some offers are not available in all areas of the country.

Shorthorn is top gainer

A Polled Shorthorn bull owned by Robert Lumpkin of Losantville is currently the top performer in the Indiana Beef Evaluation Program summer test, according to Larry A. Nelson, Purdue University extension animal scientist. The bull gained 4.86 pounds per day through 56 days of the performance test and had a test index of 124.0.

Fourteen of the 73 bulls gained at least four pounds per day for 56 days, Nelson said. Other high-indexing bulls for the period were a purebred Simmental, entered by Jerry Bornemann of Durand, Mich., with a test index of 122.2; a three-quarter Maine Anjou that indexed 121.5, owned by David Garriott of Scottsburg; and an Angus entered by Coffey Farm of Martinsville with a test index of 118.8.

"In the IBEP, bulls are indexed within each breed," Nelson explained. "Test index is computed by averaging a bull's daily gain and weight-per-day-of-age ratios. It tells what percentage above or below the breed average a bull's performance is in a single figure," he said.

This is the first spring-summer performance test conducted by IBEP at its new test station located at the Lynnwood-Purdue Ag Center, three miles east of Carmel. Nine get-of-sire groups of at least three bulls by the same sire are also being evaluated, Nelson said.

The 140-day performance test will end Oct. 1. An auction will follow at the station on Oct. 14. The animal scientist said that to be eligible for the auction, bulls must index in the top two-thirds of their breed and must pass the health, structural soundness and breeding soundness exams.

Nelson also noted that Oct. 21 and 22 are delivery dates for bulls being entered in the 1982 fall test. Bulls must have been born between Jan. 1 and April 30, 1982, to be eligible. Complete rules and entry forms are available now from Nelson, c/o Department of Animal Sciences, Purdue University, West Lafayette, IN 47907.

After trying for a long time, we are convinced that one of the hardest ways to do anything is to put it off.

USDA issues new rates

The U.S. Department of Agriculture recently issued a $5.02 per bushel preliminary loan and purchase rate for 1982-crop soybeans, the minimum permitted by law.

According to Everett Rank, administrator of USDA's Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, the loan rate is set by law at 75 percent of the simple average price received by farmers during the past five years, excluding the high and low years. That law also requires USDA to issue a preliminary loan and purchase rate not earlier than 30 days before Sept. 1, the beginning of the soybean marketing year.

Rank said USDA would issue a final 1982 soybean loan and purchase rate no later than Oct. 1, by which time USDA will have final figures on prices received by farmers for the 1981 crop.

Rank said all producers of 1982-crop soybeans will be eligible for loans and purchases since USDA does not require participation in production adjustment programs as a condition of eligibility for soybean farmers.

Soybeans are ineligible for any reserve programs or for storage payments, Rank said.

Tax school offered

As the children begin to prepare for school this month, perhaps it would be a good time for adults to consider furthering their education. One such opportunity is the 'Income Tax Preparation School' being offered by Worth Tax Service, according to Mrs. Beverly J. Worth, instructor.

During the 13½ week course, students will study all phases of income tax preparation and gain practical experience by doing homework on actual forms. Classes will begin August 30th, meet twice a week, and be available both morning and evening. The new tax laws are going to affect every taxpayer and knowledge gained in the income tax course will give you the tool needed to so arrange your affairs to pay lesser tax legally.

As instructor for the income tax school, Mrs. Beverly Worth is well qualified and experienced. With eighteen years of tax preparation experience and ten years of experience teaching income tax, you can expect to enjoy a very profitable course. Mrs. Worth has published both 'Income Tax Law for Ministers and Religious Workers,' and 'Professional Tax Record Book.' She is a member of the State and National Society of Public Accountants and the National Association of Enrolled Agents.

There will be job opportunities for those graduating, but students may feel free to use the training however they desire.

The registration fee includes textbooks, supplies and tax forms necessary for completion of the course. The school is accredited by the ICPPE. Registration brochures and further details may be obtained by contacting Worth Tax Service at 2128 E. Winona Ave., Lakeview Shopping Center, P. O. Box 725, Winona Lake, Indiana. Telephone 267-4687.

RECENT VISITORS AT BELL MUSEUM: Pictured here in the museum is a portion of a group of retirees who spend winters in Avon Park, Florida. Anyone who has not voted since May, 1980, will receive a card in the mail. This card can be signed and returned for automatic voter registration reinstatement.

Those cards returned "address unknown" or some similar response will be eliminated from the files. The total number of names purged will be known sometime in September.

A SIMPLE WATER TANK FOR SUMMER'S DRY SPELLS

Your garden, your animals, and your lawn could all likely benefit from an "emergency" reservoir during dry summer months. One of our readers, Ron Finley, who lives on a 1-1/4-acre mini-farm in Arkansas, told us how he built a 3' X 10', 1,762-gallon aboveground water tank for about $34. To duplicate Ron's creation, you'll need a 3' X 50' roll of 14-gauge, 2" X 4" welded wire... a roll of 3'-wide, 30-pound organic asphalt roofing felt... a 20' X 100' roll of 4-mil black Visqueen plastic... and some washed sand.

It's very important that the site upon which you build your tank is level, so you might have to take steps to guarantee a flat bed. First, mark off—using a central spike and a length of heavy cord—a circle of 10' diameter. Then stretch another cord between two pegs driven into the ground—opposite each other—at the circle's edge, and lay a carpenter's level along the string to determine how much the base might have to be reworked. By moving the pegs "around the clock" a few feet at a time, you'll eventually be able to find—and even out—the high and low spots on the earthen foundation.

Next, unroll the wire and cut enough of it to border your circle, making sure that the tank's joining ends overlap by a foot or so (just multiply the 10' diameter by 3.14 and add 12") to the result. When you make your cut, remove the vertical strand from both ends so that there are 2" horizontal "fingers" remaining at each border. Then stand the wire upright and position it, on your site, in as nearly perfect a circle as possible, bracing the material with wooden stakes every few feet around the perimeter to hold it in place. With that done, connect the overlapped loose ends by twisting the 2" free strands around the nearest vertical wires.

Now, line the wire "cage" with asphalt felt. If you want just one layer of protective wall (which should be adequate for most situations), cut enough material to allow a 12" overlap. (Be certain that the asphalt goes full circle and is snugged up firmly against the wire wall.)

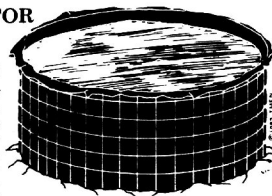

Next, push some earth up against the felt liner at its junction with the ground. Remove any sharp twigs or stones from within the circle, tamp the earth down, and broadcast a thin layer of sand over the entire area. Then cut out an 11' X 11' section of plastic and center it carefully inside the tank, smoothing it out from the middle and pleating it every so often around its edge. Slice off the excess at the corners so it dresses out at the same height all the way around the container, taking care not to damage the felt in the process.

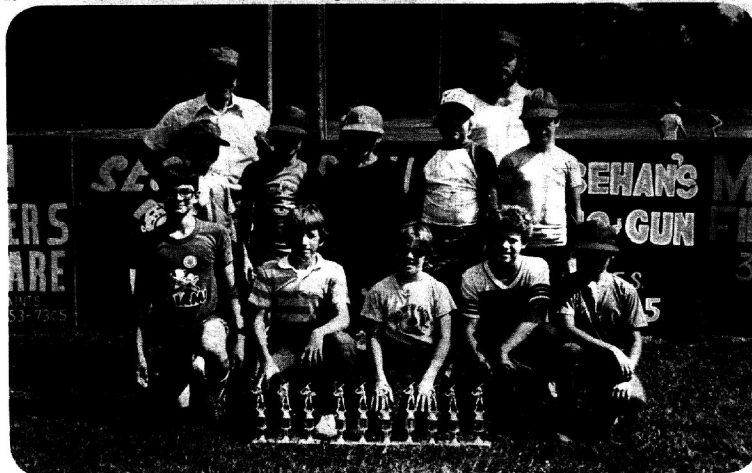

Cut a second piece of plastic—this one of full roll width and measuring 17' in length—and place it in the tank over the first section, again centering it as accurately as possible. Now, begin filling the tank, but before the water is an inch deep, go around the container and, working from the outside, carefully pull out any severe wrinkles from the bottom of the liner. When the water is two to three inches deep, push a couple of inches of soil against the outside wall of the tank and tamp it with moderate pressure... but don't force the felt wrapping away from the wall.

As the reservoir fills with liquid, pull the Visqueen plastic sides upward in order to keep the pleats that form in the plastic relatively vertical and smooth. Then, when the tank is nearly full, cut the liner material, leaving a 3" or 4" skirt above the top of the wall. To finish the job, merely fold this extra plastic border over the felt and tuck it between that asphalt skin and the wire wall for between two layers of felt, if you used more than one.

Catholic church scene of wedding

White silk roses, light blue orchids and navy blue forget-me-nots decorated the altar of the St. Joseph's Catholic Church for the Saturday, July 31, 1982 wedding uniting Bridget Jean Yoder and Timothy Michael Schwenk in marriage.

Father Richard Puetz officiated the double-ring ceremony which began at 2 p.m.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Eli Yoder, 506 W. Fifth St., Rochester, and Martha Schwenk, Rt. 5, Rochester.

Mike Williams, Fulton, was the soloist and Louise Moore, Rochester, played the organ.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, chose a gown of white organza with bishop sleeves. Flower appliques accented the sleeves and bodice. An overskirt with panels of Venice lace and a lace ruffle at the hemline completed the gown. The veil of illusion featured a full-length train with flower appliques. Her cap was accented with beaded pearls. She carried a cascade of white silk roses, pale blue orchids and navy blue forget-me-nots.

Donna Woods, Kewanna, was the honor attendant. Bridesmaids were Chris Burton, cousin of the bride, Chicago, Ill.; Chris Schwenk, sister of the groom, Rochester, and Lisa Horn, Rochester.

They wore light blue off-the-shoulder gowns with a three-inch lace accent at the neckline, fitted waistline and A-line skirt. They wore light blue hats with lace and ribbons and carried colonial bouquets of light blue and white miniature-carnations with navy blue forget-me-nots.

Nichole Miller, Argos, was the flowergirl, and Jeff Kuhn, Rochester, was the ringbearer. They are both cousins of the bride.

Best man was Michael Kern, Rochester. Groomsmen were Gary Brown, Rochester; Alan Schoen, Chicago, Ill., and Jeff Schwenk, brother of the groom, Chicago, Ill. Ushers were Ed Schwenk, North Manchester, and Rudy Schwenk, Indianapolis, both brothers of the groom.

A reception was conducted in the church hall after the ceremony with 250 guests attending.

The wedding cake was five-tiered with four cakes around the bottom. It was decorated with white and pink roses.

Those serving were Patty Thomas, Evelyn Pendley and Rhonda Lent, all of Rochester, and Bev Hiatt, cousin of the groom, Huntington.

The new Mrs. Schwenk is a 1977 graduate of Rochester High School and is employed by Kroger. Schwenk is a 1978 graduate of Tippecanoe Valley High and a 1982 graduate of Indiana University Business School, Bloomington. He is employed by Kroger.

They are now at home at Rt. 5, Box 494, Rochester.

Applications being taken for insurance on wheat

Wheat growers interested in All Risk insurance for their 1983 crops should contact their insurance agent as soon as possible, according to Francis Hudkins, Federal Crop Insurance Director.

Although the deadline to obtain wheat insurance isn't until September 30, Hudkins suggests that growers should begin making their plans now. Early consideration will provide additional time to develop a program of insurance coverage that best meets the individual policyholder's needs.

Farmers will find it useful to have their insurance arranged before they visit with their lender about production loans. Insurance helps to minimize the uncertainty involved in the year ahead cashflow projections that many lenders today require.

An early application, added Hudkins, allows additional time for growers to verify yield records that may enable them to qualify for increased protection.

Feverfew is a low, hardy plant with white daisy-like flowers. People once believed that it could drive away fever. Its name means to put fever to flight. It doesn't work.

Members of the Finnegan and Maurer families gathered with new-found friends and playmates for a group photo at the Esther Siveus farm last week. The two families visited from near Chicago, marking the first time any of them had been on a farm.

Kids from Chicago discover farm

Have you ever felt the rough tongue of a cow as it licked your hand? Have you felt how soft and silky baby pigs are when they are still in the "cute" stage? Have you ever played with a baby kitten? Have you ever awakened to the "sound of silence" in the morning?

What many people who live in rural areas take for granted, or "just know about," particularly with the Wabash County Fair in full swing, is a mystery to some youngsters, and adults.

For seven youngsters, brothers and sisters, cousins, nieces and nephews, and their mothers last week rural Indiana came to life. For the first time these youngsters from the Chicago suburbs discovered what a "farm" was and what "being neighborly" was all about.

"It's so peaceful here...it's great. I was fascinated to learn how milk is actually gotten from a cow, not from a carton..." These were some of the comments from 15-year-old Kelly Finnegan, Mt. Prospect, IL, who "lived" on a farm for the first time.

Last September, as a freshman, Kelly released a balloon with a tag bearing her name and address from her school, Sacred Heart of Mary girl's school in Rolling Meadows, IL, during the school's "Spirit Days." Several days later the balloon came to rest in a 20-acre hay field owned by Esther Siveus between Silver Lake and Akron. It was found by a neighbor, Oscar McCloughan, who was mowing weeds.

"He brought the balloon to the house, says Esther, "and I kept it for a while, finally getting around to answering the card in October."

That was the beginning of a friendship between the young high school girl and Esther which culminated in a visit last week by the Finnegan family, accompanied by cousins, nieces and nephews.

"This Spring we talked with each other on the telephone and made the arrangements for the visit," Esther continues, "and it has really been an experience."

Making the trip from north of Chicago were Kelly; her mother, Dorsi; her brother, Tommy, 12; Mrs. Finnegan's sister-in-law, Ginger Maurer from Wheaton, IL and her three children, Gigi, 12; Cathy, 10; and Megan, 5; and Mrs. Finnegan's niece, Michelle, 6; and nephew, Mel, 10, both of Park Ridge, IL. It was the first time any of them had visited a farm.

"They have seen Todd Huffman's Holstein milking operation, Devon Smith's hog operation and John Patrick's farrowing crate operation, Doris Harrold's Angus farm and pond and milking over "at Oscars (McCloughan)" reported Esther.

During the week the group also went to Luken's Lake for swimming, visited the Kosciusko County Fair, visited Tippecanoe Valley High School and stopped briefly at Amish Acres. On Aug. 3 they

Akron Town Board approves request

Volunteer Akron firemen John Zimmerman, Joe Day and Mike Gearhart attended the Akron Town Board meeting last week to make a request for new department equipment, for which Town Board President Ron Fenimore and Clerk Ernest Smith said there were no funds available.

Day asked that the town purchase two fire nozzles - 1 1/2" and 2" for the department which he estimated would cost $700. When told there were no funds available, he asked if the board had been informed of the new law passed by the state legislature, effective May 1, 1982, which allows any taxing body to add 20% of the total amount spent on fire protection the previous year on top of the set amount up in the budget for that fund for the next year when submitting the budget to the tax review board. Clerk Smith said they had not been informed of the new law.

Discussion centered on the use for the new nozzles, the amount of pressure and water capacity of the town's hydrants. Day informed the board that the were treated to a neighborhood potluck supper at the Silveus home and later in the week had a Weiner roast "in the woods."

Greeting the family on their arrival were two signs created by neighbor "Pudge" Patrick.

"It's so peaceful here, and so dark at night," said Mrs. Finnegan, and Kelly, describing her first impressions of the farm, said "The smells and sounds are so different. At home we live in a new subdivision with no trees... everywhere you look all you see are other houses. It's a real treat to hear insects and other "farm" sounds."

"I really enjoy the animals, and I was amazed to see all those pigs together in such a small space... and the smell!" she added.

Kelly is a dancer; 11 years of instruction so far in tap, ballet and jazz, and plans to pursue a career in dance, "hopefully opening a chain of dance studios," she adds. It's a career plan that doesn't include a farm, but perhaps, in the future...

The adults added that the sights and sounds have been a treat for them also, and the youngsters added another insight: "Last night," several commented, "we had a read dinner with pie, beans, coleslaw and corn right from here! It's really neat, you just go down to the basement and bring up a jar of beans!" When asked if they had been told of the work involved in getting those "home canned" foods into the basement, the answer was "not yet." Several of the neighbors had brought in food for the occasion, Esther explained.

The youngsters all brought sleeping bags and were divided off with the boys sleeping on the Silveus front porch, the girls in the living room and the adults in bedrooms. "The kids are having a ball," Mrs. Finnegan commented. "There was one occasion when Tommy went close to a cow to have his picture taken," she added. "The cow had it's head down eating grass, and Tommy had only seen pictures. He didn't know how big they really were. He walked up next to it and just then the cow raised its head, really towered over Tommy. It was funny..."

What are the impressions of the other youngsters? Here's a sampling:

Gigi: "Everything is so different. It's very quiet and peaceful. At home you always hear cars and airplanes roaring overhead when you wake up. The houses are back to back--there is so much space here, and you wake up to birds, and cows mooing...I love the animals..."

Cathy: "I like the pace of country life...I just like everything. It's a quiet place..."

Mel: "I love the animals, and the space, especially the baby pigs and the cows...and the kittens. I love to play with the kittens..."

Tommy: "We saw Amish Acres and took a tour, and I got to ride a horse! We've taken some long walks here and I have found places I didn't even know about. For breakfast we had eggs and toast and bacon, but after seeing those baby pigs I don't think I could ever kill one of them to eat..."

Megan: "I like the space to play and not have to worry about cars...this is a really big yard. We got to catch fireflies, and I want to catch a little turtle to take home. I love the cows when they 'mooooooooooo'..."

Michelle: "I liked playing badminton, and playing around, and the cows mooing. I found a little frog, but I didn't like it... Yuck!"

Ginger: "I think the hospitality has impressed me the most. These are very open, wonderful, warm people. The neighbors are genuinely interested and show concern for people. It's delightful. Esther didn't know us before we arrived, but she's been just like an old friend ever since we got here. I'd really like for her to come to Chicago sometime.

Esther added that she and Kelly exchanged Christmas presents last year and have been writing back and forth continuously. "I really took a chance inviting them down," she added, "The youngsters could have really been ornery, but instead they are the best behaved and most polite kids I've been around. They have been a real joy."

The return to Chicago was a time of sadness. New friends had been made, new experiences had been filled into memories and new sights and sounds would be retained for years.

For Thomas Finnegan, Kelly's father who is employed with the Chicago Board of Education and stayed home because he is currently involved in contract negotiations, the return was sure to be an experience. One suspects he "got an earful" of the "trip to the farm."

BOARD

reason the new fire truck was purchased was to meet pumping requirements, but there is no way the department can get the correct amount of pressure because they are using old hand me down nozzles from the two previous fire trucks and they are the wrong ones.

Zimmerman added that in case of a large fire in the city limits, there would only be a hope of containing the fire, but it would be difficult to put out with the present equipment.

Clerk Smith asked the volunteers why they don't ask the trustee for funds for equipment as he has $7,200 in his fire fund. Miller asked if the trustee is under "fire" the same as the town board has been. Day said the township truck has been paid for now, and Trustee Clair Ellis has spent all the money from the fire protection fund and also some from the general fund, for fire protection, a lot of it for insurance.

Discussion on the size of the fire station brought out the fact that it is impossible to work on the equipment while all the trucks are parked inside. President Fenimore said there was nothing wrong with the building, but Zimmerman suggested he look at the large crack on the east wall. Zimmerman also suggested the windows be covered with insulation and the back door sealed to save on heat this winter.

Zimmerman asked if it would be possible for the town to deed over the property donated to the town by Dr. Kenneth Hoff, to the volunteers for the purpose of building a new fire station. Fenimore said the property would be available to build on, with Dr. Hoff's approval, but it could not be deeded over as the deed was made out to the town of Akron. He said even if it could be, the volunteers would have to pay taxes on it.

Board member Miller said the only way a new station house could be built was by a lease-rental agreement, but Clerk Smith said there would be no source of money and no fund to pay the rental from as the fire department has no source of revenue.

Request Granted

Although the volunteers were told there were no funds available to purchase the nozzles they wanted, a motion by board member Vernon Waymire, carried giving them permission to purchase the equipment. No mention of where the money was coming from was made.

Trash Pickup

It was suggested during the meeting that the town could save money, since the tax rate is frozen, and funds are not available for many things which are needed by several departments by charging for trash pickup. It was also suggested that revenue sharing funds might better be used for other things than paying for mowing at the city park.

A suggestion was made that the town board could make it mandatory that tin cans and unburnables would be picked up on trash pickup day, making it mandatory that people burn their paper items, met with the comment that there would be trash left to blow around town, plus garbage, dumped. If the trash hauling were contracted outside, people would have to pay the charges and the town would have some additional funds, since they could sell the compactor truck and cut down on employee hours.

Handle Complaints

Board member Charles Miller, had the difference between mopeds and motorcycles explained to him by Chief Dave Kruger when Miller stated he had a complaint from a town resident that the police department had been picking on them, and Miller wanted to know the difference between the two vehicles. Among other differences, Kruger explained that a moped must have operable pedals.

A complaint from a patron about the weeds on a town lot needing mowed was discussed. Another patron complained that the town employees had removed one of her trash containers along with the ashes and she wanted them to replace the container. Waymire said he would take care of the problem.

Clerk Smith noted he had a letter from Jim Urshel, Wabash, who has four trash trucks, asking if he could give a bid on hauling town trash.

Violations of the Town Ordinance No. 16, resulting in overdue payments in the amount of $125 and $175 from two local businesses were discussed. The decision was made to contact the town's attorney to see if they could be taken to small claims court and collected.

An invitation was read, inviting the Akron Town Board, Chief of Police and Fire Chief to attend a meeting sponsored by the Fulton County Civil Defense on management of hazardous materials, Sept. 1, at the Station Haus in Rochester.

Other Business

The hearing for the petition to vacate the alley between Franklin and Adams and Water and Walnut Streets will be held Monday, Aug. 23, at the Town Hall, after the public hearing on the proposed budget.

A decision was made to send a check in the amount of $21 as the town's portion of the payment for fighting the rate increase proposed by Public Service Indiana and the Public Service Commission. The Association of Cities and Towns has hired two lawyers to file in their behalf and has asked members of the association to help foot the bill, with their portion of it figured on the population of the town. The increase in the amount of $124.7 million would be a 19% rate increase.

Clerk Smith stated that PSI asked and got an increase of 23% last year. He said if the rates increased, the electric rates for the Town of Akron would figure 38% higher, noting that it would take one-fourth of the tax dollar to pay for lighting.

Budget meetings for the 1983 budget were set for August 23rd for the public hearing and Aug. 30 for the formal adoption of the budget.

The next regular meeting of the board will be Tuesday, Sept. 21, 7:30 p.m. at Town Hall.

NIPSCO files new gas and electric rates

Northern Indiana Public Service Company has filed new gas and electric rates to conform to the rate increase orders granted August 11, 1982, by the Public Service Commission of Indiana.

The Commission approved the new rates Thursday, August 12, 1982. All gas and electric usage by customers after August 12 will be billed at the new rates.

Under the rate restructuring as ordered by the Commission, electric rates for residential customers will increase an average of about 10.5 percent, after updating the base rates for fuel costs. Commercial customer's rates will increase an average of 8.6 percent and industrial customer's rates will increase an average of 7.9 percent, after updating the fuel cost adjustment. Gas rate increases will amount to 5.8 percent for residential customers, 5.1 percent for commercial customers, and 3.3 percent for industrial customers.

The Public Service Commission order granted NIPSCO an increase in electric revenues of $63.3 million on an annual basis, including the first year amortization of Bailly Nuclear One. The gas rate increase amounted to $39.6 million. The Company had requested an across-the-board increase of $115.7 million (15.7 percent) in electric rates and an increase of $52.3 million (5.66 percent) in gas rates.

The new rates will increase the monthly electric bill of a residential customer using 500 kilowatt-hours a month about $4.24. Residential customers using 1,000 kilowatt-hours a month would realize an increase of about $7.93 a month. Of the above amounts approximately 60 cents of the $4.24 and $1.20 of the $7.93 results from the Bailly amortization allocated on a per kilowatt hour basis.

Gas rates for the average NIPSCO customer using natural gas for home-heating and other purposes (147,600 cubic feet a year) will increase about $3.11 a month. For those residential customers using natural gas for purposes other than spaceheating (39,800 cubic feet annually), the increase will be about 97 cents a month.

Steering committee to meet September 7th

The Trail of Courage steering committee will meet Sept. 7 at 7:30 p.m. in the Civic Center Museum, 7th and Pontiac, Rochester. All local persons planning to participate should attend. Clubs or groups planning to participate must send a delegate. This is a very important meeting to finalize plans for the Trail of Courage Rendezvous, which will be held Sept. 18-19, 1982. All interested persons are welcome to attend.

Unemployment claims

Unemployment insurance claims for the week ending August 14 decreased by 1,881 for a total of 94,034, the Indiana Employment Security Division reported. The comparable year-ago claims total was 62,911.

Harry McFarland, Division director, said initial claims last week had dropped slightly from the previous week because of fewer new layoffs. He added that there was no significant change in continued claims.

Chronic disease session set

Help yourself to better breathing! The Lutheran Hospital's upcoming pulmonary rehabilitation session will be held September 2-September 29 to help patients cope with chronic respiratory diseases such as emphysema, bronchitis and asthma.

Consisting of eight classes from 10 a.m. to 12:30 p.m., the session focuses on group activities to meet individual needs. Assisted by physicians, respiratory therapists, physical therapists, nurses, a Hospital chaplain and social workers, patients develop an understanding of their disease, receive therapy and learn practical home treatment procedures. Group counseling sessions are employed to help patients acquire a realistic acceptance of their disabilities.

The Pulmonary Rehabilitation program is under the direction of Thomas E. Hayhurst, M.D., a specialist in pulmonary disease. Candidates must be referred to this program by their primary physician.

The department handled 7 complaints and 6 dog complaints; made 1 motorist assist, 1 public assist and 5 county police assists, and 2 fire department assists. Officers handled one funeral procession.

The department investigated one attempted break-in; found 4 doors open on door check, made 2 title checks, and investigated 2 theft reports.

Senator Quayle opposes gymnasium funding bill

U.S. Senator Dan Quayle (R-Ind.) joined in cosponsoring an amendment to the debt limit bill which prohibits the use of funds for either furnishing or operating gymnasium facilities in the new Hart Senate Office Building.

Quayle commended Senate Majority Leader Howard Baker and Sen. Robert Stafford, Chairman of the Senate Building Commission, for drafting the amendment.

"We need to make clear to the taxpayers we will not dedicate taxpayer funds for such frivolous purposes," the Hoosier Senator said.

Quayle continued: "We already have erected our 'Taj Mahal' on Capitol Hill which we call the Hart Building and it cost $137 million. My position of opposing the Hart Building goes back to my service in the House of Representatives where I voted twice in 1978 and 1979 against appropriating millions of dollars for construction."

"I have not changed my position since coming to the Senate in 1981. Surely with the severe space limitations which confront the Congress, the Senate Building Commission should be able to better utilize the facilities for which we were asked to spend over $700,000 for gymnasium equipment."

Pollution is taking us to the cleaners.

About 80% of pollution is natural. That's what makes the Smoky Mountains smoky.

Only 20% of pollution is man-made. But to clean up that part is very expensive. That's a frustrating fact that electric utilities and their customers have to face.

"Scrubbers", to remove sulfur dioxide from coal, can add as much as 35% to plant construction and operating costs.

We are spending $95 million for such a system on our newest generating unit in Gibson County. That's nearly 1/4th of the unit's total cost! Because of the "scrubber" and inflation, that unit will cost 2 1/2 times what its twin cost us in 1979.

Up to now, we've spent more than $200 million to control pollution. We've also had to hire scores of people to handle the extra workload. And the cost of the equipment and manpower isn't the whole story—operating costs will add millions more in the years ahead.

So anyway you look at it, pollution control costs a bundle. And you pay for it in your monthly electric bill. There's no doubt pollution control is needed. But at Public Service Indiana, we work hard to control its substantial price tag as well.

When pollution takes us to the cleaners, it's tough on everyone.

Schoolltime

Millions of American youngsters are returning to school, a major social, emotional, educational and athletic event in their lives (and of parents).

American schools suffered serious lapses in the sixties and early seventies but a return to common sense and discipline seems to be returning in many areas. The hope is that the heavy burden on society--of children schooled in the sixties and seventies unable to read or do math, and undisciplined--will not be continued. (Some of today's unemployment is a result of our schools over-permissiveness in recent years, which produced graduates unqualified for jobs.)

With improvement in learning, discipline and in general atmosphere, many are feeling better about public schools, though many in recent years have also fled to private ones, and may not return. With less emphasis too, on long-distance busing, parents are more mollified.

Above all problems, parents can usually make school a positive, happy experience. They can participate in school affairs, speak positively about school's vital importance, stress the friendships and scholarship to be attained.

Parents should also outfit their children, when possible, with new school clothes, new shoes and good school bags. Parents should learn to know teachers and cooperate with programs and goals they pursue, consulting when necessary.

In short, parents can do much to make school's opening a happy, positive affair that children will look forward to. One can't overstress the psychological importance of this approach.

Media Bias

President Reagan made another complaint about media coverage of current issues recently when he noted that the tax-increase bill he was pushing was not primarily a tax-increase bill but primarily a loophole-closing bill.

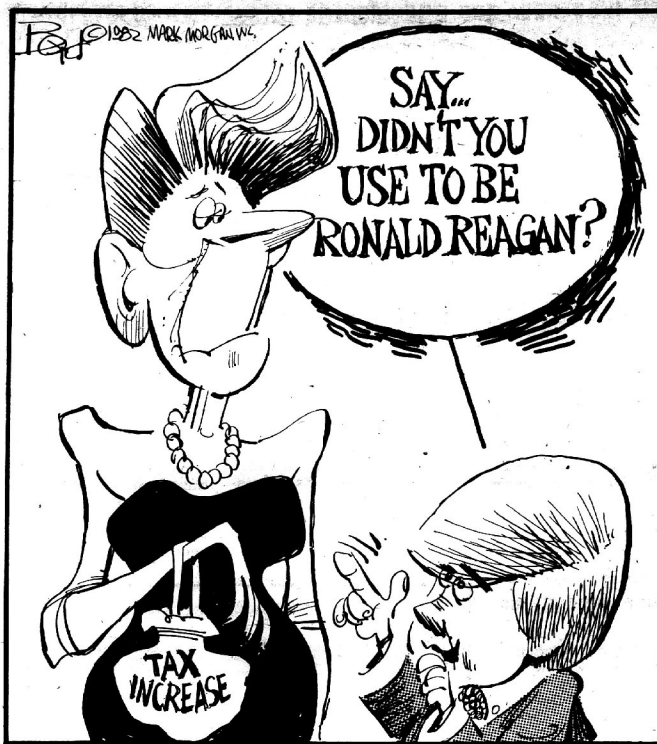

Mr. Reagan said that only seventeen percent of the approximately $100 billion tax increase bill would come from new taxes. Most of the money would come from loopholes which are to be closed in existing laws, and other modifications of current law, most of which hit the rich and big corporations.

This is a valid point, one not stressed in most of media reporting on the administration's fight for the tax bill. What has been heard is that this is the biggest tax increase ever proposed. (Mr. Reagan says such claims are dishonest reporting.)

Most individuals and organizations devoted to news gathering try their best to be impartial and fair. But impartial studies of the media show that a heavy majority of the working press is Democrat, liberal and therefore philosophically opposed to policies now being championed by Mr. Reagan.

This is nothing new. But it's something Americans should be aware of, when they hear and read day after day and night after night that Mr. Reagan or his appointees care only for the rich, shape policies for their benefit only, etc.

Media bias, mostly in television, is a problem. The eighty or ninety percent of the working media opposed to conservatism are not capable of objectivity, describing and interpreting events. That should be kept in mind, even though most try to be objective.

BUSINESS OUTLOOK

By Edward Thorlund

President Reagan is--as this is written--in his most difficult legislative battle since he managed to defeat the Israeli lobby on the sale of AWACS aircraft to Saudi Arabia last year.

The president has faced, perhaps late, the fact that he must have sizeable revenue increases if his proposed federal budget deficits are not to wreck hoped-for recovery and the economy in general.

Thus he needs that approximately $100 billion over the next three years. He also needs to cut federal spending more. Unless he can do both, his administration faces huge deficits.

The tax-hike fight, which stimulated a revolt among some supply siders, was hard enough, even though the bill was mostly a tax on the rich and a closing of loopholes. But getting the next Congress, which presumably will include a greater Democrat margin in the lower house, to cut spending further, may be equally difficult.

Some reduction in social security increases, and other federal programs tied to automatic increases, is going to be necessary. Can Mr. Reagan propose this, and get it passed in 1983, and then be reelected in 1984?

Can any president today propose to reduce the costly benefit programs going to so many millions and succeed in getting reelected? There are some who believe that in today's political and media climate, no president can hope to be reelected.

Whether true or not, the tax increase bill was vitally important to the economy, and to Mr. Reagan's future, the first step of two tough corrective measures most economists agree are necessary to get the nation out of the economic doldrums.

Too many of today's smiles represent design.

Dear Louisa,

I am going to college in September and am I glad! No one will be there to tell me when to come in or where to go. It is the first time in my life that I will feel free. What do you think about that?

J.J.--Mich.

Answer:

My first thought when I read your letter was to feel very sorry for you for not having realized how very fortunate you were to have had parents who cared so much for you that they had tried to protect you in the past from pit falls that happen to so many youngsters.

I doubt if you will feel so free as you think you will be when you are on your own.

If you have been reared in a home where morals and good behavior were taught your conscience will still be with you and when you haven't someone there to take the responsibility for your decisions your conscience and your desires may have quite a struggle.

You will probably make some mistakes but let us hope that in the long run your good sense and the standards instilled in your upbringing will win out and that you will realize that being free to make your own decisions requires a new sense of responsibility on your part and does not mean license or indiscretion.

Freedom is a wonderful thing so I hope you will feel free to be courageous enough to face up to facts and free enough to distinguish between right and wrong--and free enough to avoid undesirable associates.

Lots of luck and best wishes for you as you step out into this very different environment from that in your past.

Louisa.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Sound Mind

A preacher came up to me in the hospital the other day. He called me by name, then told me his name. I know he had heard that I had lost my mind because of six strokes. Others have indicated that my mind is gone.

Good news. It isn't gone. I still write a hundred letters a month, letters to 13 papers, and I preached 30 times in the last month. I stay by myself while my wife works. I do not walk too good. My voice is not as good as it was five years ago, but people understand me. I still am pastor of a lovely church, which has a fine congregation. I have written in the last month a cookbook about "How to Live on $5 a Week Per Person." I am about to take another church which will demand lots of work and a good mind.

I am sorry that people think my mind is gone. God is good. So far my mind is in No. 1 shape. I do not know about tomorrow. I just live from day to day. I leave the tomorrow in God's hand. I enjoy every day. I still feed lots of people. Calls come in to preach. I am a happy man. I am here and I am glad!

Use Fluoride

A one-minute fluoride rinse of one's teeth, once a week, can help considerably to prevent tooth decay.

That's the word from the National Institute for Dental Research, which advises schools and health departments to institute this practice, especially in areas where fluoride is not yet added to drinking water.

Dentists and doctors can now prescribe pills to be added to drinking water. Most toothpastes contain flouride, which helps.

Tooth decay being one of the most costly and widespread health problems of children, a rinse added to these, can save money and prevent thirty-five to sixty percent of cavity formation.

The End

After seven years of fighting and hardship, the American colonies of Great Britain finally won agreement from the British king that they would thereafter be free.

It was on September 3, 1783, when negotiators finally signed a peace treaty ending the Revolutionary War. The first article of that agreement states:

"His Britannic Majesty acknowledges the said United States, viz. New Hampshire, Massachusetts Bay, Rhode Island and Providence Plantations, Connecticut, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland, Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina and Georgia to be free, independent and sovereign states..."

That the states were not sovereign, individually, as many believed, was established by the Civil War, with the victory of Union armies.

About Prayer

Differences over the question whether Americans should pray or not pray in public places are nothing new in this country. Even before the Revolution, at the First Continental Congress, the issue of prayer was in dispute.

After some debate the Congress elected a chaplain. But John Jay objected to opening the proceedings with a prayer, noting that there were men of different religions present. Samuel Adams countered that he could accept a prayer from any pious man, whatever his faith.

On the next day, the members' session was opened with a prayer and John Adams wrote to his wife that the effect was excellent. Both houses of Congress have long had chaplains, and most U.S. schools included some prayer or symbol of Christianity until recent years.

Jasper Dorsey

If you think there is great concern about sharply rising health costs, you are right.

And if you think that this concerns the major corporations of America, as well as us taxpayers, you're right again.

It's also becoming an increasing concern of those who provide this sky-high health care...like doctors, and hospital directors and trustees.

Moreover, when inflation has been greatly dampened from a high of about 20% to a low presently of about 4% for 1982, health costs are still feverishly rising.

Runaway medical costs are playing havoc with the federal budget because Medicare and Medicaid are seemingly out of control. TIME magazine reports that General Motors estimates its health care bill added about $370 to the cost of each GM car in 1981, because GM spent an average of $3,270 per employee on health insurance premiums.

Medicare and Medicaid costs leaped from $26 billion in 1976 to $56 billion in 1981. Prudential Insurance Co. of America, the nation's largest health insurer abruptly announced last December that it would stop issuing health insurance policies to individuals, because that company's medical coverage losses were $290 million for 1981 alone.

How come medical costs leaped 12.5% last year when almost everything else seemed to turn the corner of inflation?

The consensus is that the health industry as a whole does not yet have a sufficient incentive to grab control of these costs which seem out of control.

Because Blue Cross/Blue Shield and other insurance coverages provided by employers, plus Medicare, Medicaid and other charity, cover almost everyone...everyone perceives medical care as free, something they're entitled to.

Nobody asks the cost of anything, not even if two aspirin cost $2 when given in a hospital. To put it another way, nobody questions costs when someone else is paying the bill.

Here is where business is caught in a no-win disaster. It is the only insurance of any sort where business has given a blank check...on medical care. Look for organized pressure, extreme pressure on these costs, which have doubled in five years.

One of our family this year was seriously ill, confined in an excellent hospital for about two weeks. The bill was approximately $16,000. If you think that's exceptional you're mistaken.

Medical technology is advancing so rapidly, thereby adding more and more advanced and hugely expensive equipment for diagnosis and treatment.

Right now there is no heavy pressure to control costs except by the insurance companies and those employers who pay the bills. Wise doctors and hospital trustees are becoming concerned. They'll have to hurry a self-regulation. And maybe patients are going to need to start asking what things cost, or reap the whirlwind.

Among the most rapidly rising expenses is the average total cost per day for a hospital room. Some hospitals are addressing the problem, and Atlanta's Piedmont Hospital has held overall per day costs to $266 for the first six months of 1981, versus $230 in 1979.

Though not a low price, it is by comparison, for superb care and it is substantially lower than two other leading Atlanta hospitals where the same service costs $456 and $423 respectively.

Something must be done to control costs that are presently open-ended. It would be so much better if physicians did it, rather than our over-eager incompetents in Congress.

DAY'S CATCH

The fisherman is always happy to come home with a good day's catch. Although we think of fishing today as mostly a sport, in many countries it is the primary source of food and a necessity to life.

In our bountiful country, we often take our blessings for granted. Periodically, we should pause to count our blessings and give thanks for all that we have received.

Bill would end mandatory retirement

U.S. Senator Dan Quayle (R-Ind.) says just because a person is more than 70-years-old doesn't mean he or she shouldn't continue to work, if they want to and are able.

He introduced legislation eliminating the mandatory retirement age of 70 and extending protection against age discrimination to persons over 70.

Quayle, who is a member of the Senate Labor and Human Resources Committee, pointed to recent surveys indicating nine out of ten Americans oppose forced retirement because of age.

"I do not suggest that the aging process does not affect an individual's capabilities," he said. "But, no one should be forced to retire at a certain age without regard to their physical or mental condition."

He said, "Conditions which once justified encouraging early retirement of older workers are changing. Projections indicate we will have an increasingly older workforce." Quayle noted that an increasing number of jobs do not require great physical stress and take place in an office setting.

"Increasing opportunities for older workers is not only a matter of equity, but one of common sense in terms of labor market changes," the Senator said. "It also has the potential of providing relief for the hard-pressed Social Security system."

Quayle said the age distribution of the population is expected to shift dramatically in the early years of the 21st Century. "The number of older people in our society will increase and both the public and the private sectors will need to pay more attention to the concerns of older workers," he said.

The Quayle bill would also change the enforcement procedures for age discrimination cases. He has proposed eliminating the jury trial and liquidated damage provisions, replacing them with equitable relief provisions as found in other anti-discrimination statutes.

In the same bill, Quayle proposes an exemption for tenured teachers and professors so they could continue to be retired at age 65. He pointed out that tenure was intended to guarantee employment and the freedom to think, study, teach and write without fear of reprisal.

"A stipulated mandatory retirement age," Quayle said, "has the important advantage of allowing institutions to achieve the positive purposes which tenure provides while assuring advancement of new faculty members."

The Hoosier Senator said without the exemption, he fears colleges and universities will eliminate the tenure system.

Akron Nutrition Program

The success of this program can be attributed to the generous support of many volunteers dedicated to helping the aging. Yes it is work. They are to be admired. This community will stay great as long as there are big hearted people who give their time for others. What if we grow so selfish that we say no to community activities, church needs and school projects. Then we will fall victim to greed. I believe the Lord was a pattern for us to go about and do good. I want to pay tribute to my volunteers: Mary McKenzie, Elizabeth Sausaman, Geraldine Hill, Florence Kinley, Flossie Drudge, Ruth Bammerlin, Linda Riley, Mary Krouse, Flo and Paul White, Wayne and Donabelle Hoffman, Wade and Thelma Holloway, Betty Harris, Cheryl and Gary Gagnon and to all of you who have helped in any way to keep this program working.

A 15-horsepower outboard motor valued at $1,300 was stolen from the Red Horse Bait & Tackle Shop on State Rd. 15, Warsaw. The motor, owned by the Department of Natural Resources, was stolen from the boat while it was parked outside the shop.

A car stereo was taken from a car belonging to Joe Banks, Rt. 2, Warsaw.

The clerk at Center Quick Service, 801 East Center St., Warsaw reported the theft of gasoline. The car involved is believed to be a red Chevrolet.

A car containing approximately five gallons of gasoline was taken from a pontoon boat belonging to Jack W. Miller, 25 Sunset Drive, Warsaw. The boat was docked on Pike Lake in front of the Miller residence.

Mike E. Julian, 107 South Wood St., Warsaw, reported the theft of a tape case and 24 tapes valued at $150 from his parked outside his residence.

Property Damage Accidents

The following property damage accidents have been investigated by county police:

A U-haul trailer came loose and flipped over on U.S. 30, five miles west of Warsaw. The trailer was attached to a truck driven by Jeffrey A. Kerns, 24, of Bremen. Damage to the trailer was set between $200 and $1,000.

A car driven by Truman Yoder, 38, Rt. 3, Warsaw, went off U.S. 30 near County Rd. 250 East, striking a fence, after the driver was hit in the face by a projectile from the toy gun of his son.

There was $200 to $1,000 damage to the car as well as some damage to the fence, but no injuries.

Two cars collided near the fairgrounds when a vehicle driven by Elizabeth Kramer, 76, 1015 East Main St., Warsaw, pulled out of the parking lot, hitting a car driven by Richard VanOsdol, 27, Claypool.

There was $1,000 to $2,500 damage to Kramer's car and $200 to $1,000 damage to the other vehicle. The accident occurred at Smith and Maple streets.

A car driven by Jill Thallemer, 26, 303 Mineral Springs, Winona Lake was hit in the rear while attempting to turn by a car driven by Sharon Ritchie, Rt. 2, Claypool.

The accident happened at Buffalo Street and Winona Avenue. There was $200 to $1,000 damage to Thallemer's car and under $200 in damage to the other vehicle.

Vehicles driven by Colleen L. Boyer, 20, of Burket, and Harold E. Rose, 47, of Elkhart, collided on County Rd. 700 West, two miles south of Burket.

According to police, Rose started to turn left when his wife told him to turn right instead. When Rose started to turn right his auto collided with Boyer's vehicle which had started to pass on the right side at the intersection. Both vehicles had damage between $200 and $1,000.

A two-vehicle mishap on East Center damaged a car driven by Bonnie J. Bucher, 30, of 609 North Columbia St., Warsaw, and a pickup truck operated by Philip K. Steele, 24, of Mansfield, Ohio.

Bucher told city police she bent down to pick up a checkbook from the floor, and her car rolled forward and hit Steele's truck in the rear bumper. The auto had less than $200 damage. The truck, owned by Hand Industries, of 939

West Market St., Warsaw, had between $200 and $1,000 damage.

Auto driven by Andraj Reman, 22, of State Rd. 25 West, Warsaw, and Sharon A. Criswell, 34, of 311 South Columbia St., Warsaw, each had between $200 and $1,000 damage in a collision on East Winona Avenue.

Criswell turned her auto wide to the left prior to turning right into an alley. She turned at the time Reman was passing on the right side, according to police. The drivers disagreed as to whether Criswell had the right or left turn signals on.

Thyrza Jane Morrison, 29, and her husband, Sammy Aaron Morrison, 34, both of 215 South Wood St., Warsaw, were arrested following an accident in an alley in the 100 block of North Park Avenue.

Mrs. Morrison was charged with operating a motor vehicle while intoxicated and leaving the scene of a property damage accident. She was also ticketed for failure to duty at a property damage accident. Her husband was arrested for interfering with a police officer. They were both later released on their own recognizance.

A witness told city police the Morrison vehicle pulled through the intersection south on North Park Avenue. The vehicle collided with street department equipment and barricades. The auto stayed parked with four-way flashers on for a short time, then proceeded to travel on East Center Street.

The couple was arrested later at their home by City Police Sgt. Doug Brumfield. Damage to Morrison's auto was placed between $200 and $1,000. Barricades owned by the city of Warsaw were placed at less than $200.

Personal Injury Accidents

The following personal injury accidents were investigated by local and area law enforcement agencies:

Joan V. Snyder, 47, of Urbana, suffered an abrasion to her back area in a single-car accident on State Road 14, six miles east of Silver Lake.

The driver was traveling west on the highway when her auto went off the road on the north side and traveled 273 feet, according to County Patrolman Michael Hobbs. The vehicle rolled over and came to rest on its wheels in the eastbound lane. Auto damage was set between $1,000 and $2,500.

An accident shortly before 6 p.m. Sunday in the 300 block of South Grant Street resulted in minor head injuries to Mary E. Ceballos, 29, of 2509 East Center St., Warsaw.

She was a passenger in a car driven by Michael Anthony Finley, 25, of Hart Motel, Warsaw. Both Ceballos and another passenger stated Finley knew who lived at the home and when no one was at the residence he drove the auto through the yard and struck the porch. This caused the injury to Ceballos.

Damage was listed between $1,000 and $2,500 to the auto, owned by Smith Ford Lincoln Mercury. Less than $200 damage occurred to a porch lawn owned by Tamara Finley.

The driver, Finley, was booked at the county jail on charges of conversion, operating a motor vehicle while intoxicated and criminal recklessness. He was later released on his own recognizance. He was also cited for leaving the scene of a personal injury accident.

Finley was arrested for conversion involving an incident in which he allegedly failed to pay for the entire bill Sunday afternoon at Clara's Pizza King, 1039 East Winona Ave., Warsaw. Finley and his two companions only paid for $9 out of a total bill of $21.37, according to city police.

A one-car accident in Whitley County injured four people. The auto driven by Bruce Tillman, 21, Rt. 1, Claypool, failed to negotiate a curve on River Road just west of County Rd. 850 West and struck a tree. Tillman was in good condition at Kosciusko Community Hospital this morning with multiple lacerations.

Three passengers in the auto also were injured and taken to KCH. Linda Harris, 24, 202 Argonne Rd., Warsaw, was treated and released with severe bruises to her leg. Linda Taylor, 31, and Charlene Sexton, 18, no addresses available, both sustained minor injuries but were not treated at KCH.

The Indiana State Police at Fort Wayne investigated the accident.

Two cars collided at the intersection of Center and Lake streets when an auto driven by Lori Boleskey, 21, of 195 Gilliam Drive, Warsaw, turned in front of another car, driven by David S. Brown, 22, of 311 South Union St., Warsaw. Boleskey was cited for failure to yield the right-of-way. She was slightly injured in the accident, complaining of chest pain.

Damage to both autos was estimated at between $200 and $1,000 each.

Two persons were injured in an early morning accident on State Rd. 15, three miles north of Warsaw.

Lewis Adair, 26, of Grabbill, suffered facial fractures and Billy Joe Johnson, 20, of 1508 Chestnut St., Winona Lake, received minor bleeding on the face. They were treated at Kosciusko Community Hospital.

County Patrolman Richard Monk reported Adair's auto went off the road and hit a tree.

Melon diseases

As a melon grower, you are "blessed" with melon diseases for all types of summer weather. There are diseases for hot and muggy days, hot and wet days, cool and wet days, and desert-like days. Unless you take steps to prevent them, you never will be without!

When temperatures are high and air is humid, powdery mildew makes headway in the melon patch. This disease fungus overwinters in the South and its spores are blown northward with the warming days of spring. It is commonly seen in the Midwest in late summer, but showed up earlier than usual this year, says Richard Latin, research and Extension plant pathologist at Purdue University.

Powdery mildew fungus first causes white, powder-like spots on plants, especially on the upper and lower sides of leaves. The spots may enlarge and cover whole leaves. If infection is severe, leaves, petioles and young stems can be killed. Whitish to brown spots on the fruit harbor the reproductive structures for the fungus and reduce fruit quality and quantity.

To control the fungus spray with benomyl fungicide at two-week intervals, beginning at the first sign of the disease, Latin says. Early detection and treatment prevent severe losses.

If the weather progresses from humid to rainy, Alternaria leaf blight may infect plants and kill them rapidly from center leaves outward. The first symptom of infection is tan, watersoaked spots which develop a ringed appearance on the upper surfaces of leaves. These spots darken with age, may reach one-half inch in diameter and may cover large sections of leaves.

Prevention is the best cure for this disease. Healthy, cared-for, properly fertilized plants are less susceptible to damage. If Alternaria does infect your melons, weekly sprays of maneb fungicide will reduce spread by protecting healthy foliage, Latin says.

Warm, rainy weather also favors infection by downy mildew fungus. If the mottled leaves of mildew-infected melons are held in front of a light, tiny pinpoints of infection, each surrounded by a bright halo, become visible. If weather remains favorable, the disease progresses rapidly and can kill vines in a matter of days.

This disease is very difficult to control. Although early detection and timely sprays (maneb at 2 Tbsp./gal.) may help, dry weather is the only sure bet to slow the spread of downy mildew, says Latin.

State police ready for Labor Day weekend

As thoughts of the oncoming autumn and winter weather linger in the minds of travelers, many motorists will choose to make the most of this year's last summer weekends. For this reason the Labor Day weekend sets the scene for crowded, hazardous highways and thoroughfares. With this in mind, Superintendent John T. Shettle has announced that the Indiana State Police will once again participate in national Operation C.A.R.E. (Combined Accident Reduction Effort) during this holiday weekend in an attempt to make Indiana highways safer for travelers.

The C.A.R.E. program is a cooperative effort of state police agencies nationwide committed to accident reduction over busy holiday weekends. This Labor Day weekend will mark the sixth year that the Indiana State Police have put this program in operation on Hoosier highways.

The number of Troopers participating in Operation C.A.R.E. is expected to reach approximately 125 per day this year, as compared to last year's total of approximately 105 per weekend day. Troopers employed by this program are voluntarily working their days off and are paid through federal funds previously designated for the C.A.R.E. program.

From 6 p.m. September 3 to midnight September 6, Troopers will be patrolling the following C.A.R.E. highways: Interstate 64, 65, 69, 70, 74, 80, 90, 94, and 465 along with U.S. 31 from Tipton County to South Bend and SR 37 from Indianapolis to Bloomington.

According to the Traffic Safety Division of the Indiana Department of Highways, the number of traffic accident related deaths in Indiana during this holiday weekend is expected to reach 14. Fatalities on Indiana highways numbered 16 last year, none of which occurred on C.A.R.E. patrolled highways.

Superintendent Shettle cautions motorists to fasten seat belts and observe traffic laws. A united effort between the Indiana State Police and the citizens of Indiana will make this Labor Day weekend a safe and happy one for all.

Ald Station

Indiana State Police Superintendent John T. Shettle announced that I.N.C.E.R.T. (Indiana Council of Emergency Response Teams) will be aiding the Indiana State Police during this Labor Day Weekend.

Donuts, coffee, and cold drinks will be provided for any travelers who stop at one of these "safety breaks" organized in conjunction with the Indiana Department of Highways. Brochures concerning a variety of topics will also be available to motorists.

I.N.C.E.R.T. has been in operation for four years and the Indiana State Police Department recognizes the contribution this volunteer group makes toward helping travelers enjoy a safe holiday weekend.

Opryland adds Friday to fall schedule

Opryland U.S.A., Nashville's musical entertainment theme park, has added Fridays to its fall weekend schedule in September and October for a series of eight three-day weekends. Daily operation continues through Labor Day, and the season concludes on Oct. 31.

"Our fall tradition has been to be open on Saturdays and Sundays after Labor Day, but an experiment last spring with three-day weekends prompts us to offer Fridays this fall," said Julio Pierpaoli, the park's general manager.

"We anticipate fall Fridays to be quite enjoyable. We will have a full complement of our musical productions, including 'I Hear America Singing,' 'Country Music U.S.A.' and 'For me and My Gal.' The only large-cast show not presented on Fridays will be 'Showboat,' but it will be staged on Saturdays and Sundays."

In addition to Opryland's own musical productions, the park is planning a series of fall special events, with several set for Fridays. Plans being developed call for at least three country music concerts- featuring a contemporary artist, a more traditional artist and a crossover artist- a "big band" event, a rock concert and an event for school-age children.

Opryland will open at 2 p.m. on Fridays and at 10 a.m. on Saturdays and Sundays. One-day admission is $11.50 for everyone age four and older. A special Friday-Saturday ticket is $13.50, while a Saturday-Sunday ticket is $16. Children age three and younger are admitted free. For other information, call the Opryland Information Center at 615/889-6611.

Ask support for soil conservation program

Soil erosion is possibly the most serious long-range problem facing Indiana. "Efforts to reduce tillage on soybean stubble this fall should be encouraged," says Lt. Governor John Mutz, Indiana's Commissioner of Agriculture.

In the face of declining farm income and a reduction in Soil Conservation Service (SCS) staff, the Indiana Association of Conservation Districts, Inc., led by president Donald H. Strietmeier, has initiated a "No Fall Tillage on Soybean Stubble" campaign.

"These individuals have taken it upon themselves to take action about a problem that concerns us all," says Mutz. "and in doing so can save millions of dollars in the cost of cleaning drainage ways and in lost plant nutrients."

"Those farmers that adopt a no fall tillage program should be supported by the local community and recognized for their leadership and concern for the land," says Mutz.

Five and one-half million acres or approximately one-half of Indiana's cropland is subject to serious erosion if not adequately protected. No fall tillage can reduce soil erosion by two-thirds.

Fifteen to 35 percent of the most erosive type rainstorm occur between October 1 until April 1. If the soil is not tilled and the stubble that remains after harvest is left on the surface, erosive type rainstorms will not have as much impact on the soil.

Improve your woods by cutting firewood

The renewed use of wood for fuel is providing woodland owners an excellent opportunity to harvest firewood and to make improvement-cuttings at the same time, says W.L. Fix, Purdue University extension forester.

"Many stands of pole-size timber are overcrowded and could be thinned by weeding out defective and other low value trees," says Fix. "The thinning would give the remaining trees more growing space and result in their faster growth," he adds.

Trees that have very little value as timber are beech, honeylocust, hickory, and elm, the specialist continues. Weed species having no timber value include ironwood and blue beech. Yet all these species are common in Indiana woodlands and make excellent firewood.

Furthermore, the removal of tree tops and cull trees for firewood, after a timber harvest, improves both the appearance and productivity of the woodland, he says.

Additional information about selecting trees for firewood is available in the publication, "Improve Your Woodland by Cutting Firewood." The leaflet is free and can be obtained from Purdue's Department of Forestry and Natural Resources.

September - Indiana Energy Month

Preparing your car for winter could be your contribution to Indiana Energy Month in September.

Governor Robert Orr has proclaimed September 1982 as Indiana Energy Month to emphasize the importance of energy conservation in Hoosier lives.

Indiana State Police Superintendent John T. Shettle would like to recognize Indiana Energy Month by offering these winter maintenance tips for your car.

To make sure you are getting the most efficient use of your vehicle during the winter months; give it a tune-up. As well as: putting the proper weight of oil in the vehicle; clean air and fuel filters; check anti-freeze to insure its properly mixed to prevent freezing; check all hoses for holes and cracks; check the electrical system; check belts for cracks and proper tensions; make sure tires are properly inflated.

During the winter months motorists should keep the gas tank full to prevent condensation. Also during Indiana Energy Month put gas line de-icer in your vehicle's gas tank to eliminate any water that results from condensation. This needs to be done only once during the winter.

In addition to saving energy, you can save lives by driving safely and wearing a seat belt.

Oppose non-qualified teachers resolution

The Indiana State Teachers Association is opposing a resolution of the Teaching Training and Licensing commission which would expand license coverage to allow teachers to teach in grade levels for which they are not qualified. The item was adopted at the June meeting of the Commission.

The resolution is being reconsidered at the Commission meeting on Thursday, Aug. 19 in Monticello where an ISTA representative will testify against it. The Commission is a part of the State Board of Education.

"The ISTA must oppose the resolution which would expand the license coverage of Bulletin 400 teachers to allow teachers who have not met Bulletin 400 standards to teach in the junior high/middle school area," reads the text of testimony to be given by Barbara King, ISTA director of professional development.

Bulletin 400 is the state document outlining standards for certification of teachers affected by this resolution. King's testimony states the following:

"The uppermost reason ISTA opposes this resolution has to do with the question of standards. This Commission has taken an action which will result in the lowering of standards for Indiana's teachers."

"A teacher under Bulletin 400 entered a program either in elementary education or secondary education which best prepared him/her to teach at the level for which he/she was trained, and now that teacher will be allowed to teach at a grade level for which he/she has not been prepared. The ISTA opposes such actions."

"The ISTA's record on this matter is well documented and clearly shows that the Association has opposed the issuance of emergency licenses for teachers who do not meet all teacher certification requirements. In the 1981-82 school year over 800 sub-standard licenses were issued by the Commission and this practice continues to be of great concern to the Association. Through this resolution, the practice of issuing sub-standard licenses will be expanded. The ISTA favors higher rather than lower standards for teachers."

"At a time when the public seems to be very critical of schools and even the quality of teachers in the classroom, the Commission has chosen to lower standards for teachers. A recent poll of Indiana voters conducted by Market Opinion Research lists the issue of improving the quality of education as receiving the third highest rating on importance for the state government to take immediate action. Can the quality of education be improved by lowering standards of preparation for classroom teachers? The public is expecting improvement—not lessening of standards."

"In summation, the ISTA and the State Board of Education have always worked for quality education including quality schools and quality teachers. Let's not back down from the high standard of excellence that has been achieved in this state. The ISTA strongly encourages the Teacher Training and Licensing Commission members to reconsider their previous decision and to take action to retract this resolution."

Sheep producers who want January lambs should prepare their flock for the breeding season now, according to Jim Outhouse, Purdue University extension sheep specialist.

Keep ewes on a maintenance or sub-maintenance ration to prevent them from getting too fat, Outhouse advises. Before the breeding season begins, the ewes should be drenched with a recommended anthelmintic to reduce the internal parasitic load. Dirty wool tags should be trimmed from around the dock.

Ten to 14 days before the breeding season begins, ewes should be flushed daily with one-quarter pound of shelled corn per ewe.

Handling of the rams is also important, Outhouse reminds. During periods of high temperature, rams should be completely shorn and allowed to be with the ewes only at night. Rams should also be flushed, he reminds.

One yearling or mature ram will be required for each 35 ewes, according to Outhouse.

Depot featured in Railroad magazine

Three pages of photos and history of the Fulton County Historical Society's depot museum in Rochester were printed in the summer 1982 issue of the Nickel Plate Railroad magazine, published by the Nickel Plate Historical and Technical Society, Fort Wayne.

The editor, Skip Sassmannshausen, came in April and took photos of the depot as it is today to take copies of the old photos of the depot. FCHS gave him a copy of the Quarterly which had a history of the depot and railroad. Sassmannshausen used these as the basis for writing the article.

Two free copies of the magazine were donated to FCHS museum. Persons who desire to obtain a copy should mail $2 per magazine to Nickel Plate Historical and Technical Society, 701 Greenlawn Ave., Fort Wayne, IN 46808.

Get well cards were signed for Blanche Walgamuth, Louise Bucher, and Bobby Walker.

Mrs. Neher served refreshments at the close of the meeting.

Free admission to Trail of Courage Rendezvous volunteer workers

Volunteer to Work and Get Free Admission to Rendezvous
Remember the way circuses used to give free tickets to those who helped water the elephants and erect the big top? In remembrance of those good old days and in recognition of the economic hard times today, the Fulton County Historical Society is offering free admission to the Trail of Courage Rendezvous to volunteer workers.

Any volunteer who works a four-hour shift for FCHS will receive a badge entitling him/her to free admission both days of the rendezvous. Workers must wear pioneer costumes.

Local participation in the seventh annual Trail of Courage Rendezvous is invited. The rendezvous will be Sept. 18-19 in Kern's pine woods on the Tippecanoe River at U.S. 31 and Olson Road, three miles north of Rochester.

Last year the Trail of Courage drew a crowd of about 8,000 and it is expected to be even higher this year. Since it began in 1976 to commemorate the courage of the Potawatomi Indians on the Trail of Death removal to Kansas in 1838, the rendezvous has become a major attraction in northern Indiana.

The Trail of Courage Rendezvous is a living history festival which includes a tipi village, muzzle-loading shooting and tomahawk throwing contests, Indian dances, period music, storyteller, 18th century puppet show, canoe landing and historic skit, cannon firing and drill, pioneer crafts and foods.

Only pre-1840 pioneer-era crafts, materials and foods are allowed. Pioneer costumes must be worn by all participants and booth workers.

Anyone interested in participating should contact FCHS at 223-4436 for suggestions on crafts or foods or pioneer skills contests. This is an opportunity for churches, clubs or individuals to make money and promote education in history.

Primitive booths are available for rent for $15. If a person demonstrates a pioneer craft and does not sell, there is no charge. Reservations should be sent in by Sept. 10 to Fulton County Historical Society, 7th and Pontiac, Rochester, IN 46975.

Shooters wishing to participate in the muzzle-loading contests should send $10 for the 10 contests. Open sight muzzle-loading guns using round ball ammunition and pre-1840 costume is required. Single contests are $1 each. An engraved pewter tankard will be awarded to the best over-all shooter. Prizes will be given to the first three places in each contest. Over $2,000 in prizes will be given.

The blank below can be used to reserve a booth or enter the shooting contests or apply for free admission as a volunteer.

A five-year old showed up at kindergarten one day dressed in faded blue jeans under a frilly petticoat and a beautiful ruffled party dress. Pinned to the dress was this note from the girl's mother: "I hope you don't think this was my idea!"

"Have you ever been troubled by diphtheria?"

"Only when I tried to spell it."

Mrs. Black: "Yesterday I almost got killed."

Mrs. Blue: "What happened?"

Mrs. Black: "I walked into an antique shop and asked, 'What's new.'"

Laurie: "The people next door must be very poor."

Mother: "How do you know, dear?"

Laurie: "They made such a fuss when their baby swallowed a dime."

Politician: "There are many ways, my friends, of making money. But there's only one honest way."

Opponent: "What's that?"

Politician: "I was pretty sure you wouldn't know!"

Aunt: "Well, Bobby, how do you like school?"

Bobby: "Closed, of course."

"It may have been my turtle. I brought it in with me."

Miss Mary Jean Kalmbacher, who recently enlisted in the Women's Auxiliary Army Corps, has been given instructions to report at the basic training center at Des Moines, Iowa for active duty Saturday.

Dale Kelley, principal of the Mentone Schools, announces that all children will report at the school on Sept. 4 at 8:25 a.m. for organization and book lists and that school proper will commence the day following Labor Day—September 8th.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Ernsberger have moved into their new house in the east part of town.

Mr. and Mrs. Lester Sheets, Mishawaka, were visitors in the Joseph A. Baker home Sunday. Mrs. Sheets and son Eldon, who is now in the Marines, formerly operated the grocery now owned by Mrs. Cochran in Mentone.

Now listen, boys! This thing's going a bit too far! Do you want those other baseball teams to think we don't know the meaning of the word "mercy"? No hits, no runs—22 to 0! That Smokehouse gang from Huntington played a good game but what could you expect with 22 hits against 22 strikeouts! And then to think Ed Creakbaum had the nerve to go out and hit three doubles and two triples.

Get acquainted with your woodland

The best way to get acquainted with your woodland is to make and use a tree measuring stick, advises W.L. Fix, Purdue University extension forester.

The tree stick can be used to classify trees by size groups and saw-timber volume, he says. By measuring the diameter of all trees of more than 5 inches in diameter, you can determine the number of pole and saw-timber trees of each species, Fix explains.

"The tree measuring stick can also be used to obtain the number of board feet of lumber in trees 12 inches in diameter or larger," the specialist continues. "This information is needed when a harvest or timber sale is planned."

Additional information may be obtained by grading each log in the tree at the time of measurement. By knowing the number of board feet of each species and each log grade, a stumpage value can be obtained. Simply refer to a Purdue Timber Price Report, says Fix.

Repeated measurements of sample plots (or if a small acreage, the entire woodland) can be made at intervals to obtain the rate of growth of individual trees or on a per acre basis, the forester says.

Blueprint forms for making tree measuring sticks and instruction leaflets are available without charge from County Extension Offices or by writing the Department of Forestry and Natural Resources, Purdue University, West Lafayette, IN 47907.

1982 Marketing guides

With prospects for large 1982 corn and soybean crops more positive every day, the crop price outlook is less bright for Hoosier grain farmers.

But hog prices remain strong, feeder cattle are steady, milk prices are holding, egg prices are expected to move upward, and turkey prices are steady to strong. Even fed cattle prices, although showing some weakness, are still averaging in the mid-$60s.

With this outlook, Purdue University extension agricultural economists had these suggestions for grain farmers:

If old crop corn is under a nine-month Commodity Credit Corporation loan, the best alternative appears entry into the 1981 Farmer Held Reserve. The big 1982 crop is expected to exert a downward price pressure; therefore, old crop corn not eligible for the 1981 Farmer Held Reserve should be sold.

The 1981 corn eligible for the government programs will be strongly attracted to the Farmer Held Reserve, the economists said. And the loan program is suggested for those without long term storage or where pricing flexibility must be maintained. Harvest price prospects are for corn to be around $2 a bushel.

A large corn and soybean crop, coupled with large carryover stocks, is expected to cause harvest basis to widen from present levels, the economists continued. For this reason, forward contracting of corn which must be sold at harvest is suggested.

As for soybeans, chances for a price rally on old crop beans appear to be small, economists said. Basis levels are now favorable, and continued favorable growing weather will likely drive future prices lower. On new crop beans, some forward pricing is now suggested, they said. With a large 1982 crop, harvest prices may be in the $5.25 per bushel range. Current pricing opportunities are 50 to 75 cents above this, they reminded.

Hog Prices to Remain High

With pork production down during the summer, hog prices should remain in the upper $50s and may push even higher. Slaughter has been about 6 percent lower this June and July than a year ago, and prospects are for slaughter to be down 12 percent in the September-November period. With feed prices low, profitable hog prices are foreseen through most of 1983.

Fed cattle prices are expected to weaken in early August because of larger fed cattle supplies and increasing cow slaughter, but prices should average in the mid-$60s per hundredweight during August and September. Feeder cattle prices should remain steady for 30 days then increase slightly, the economists said. Stronger feedlot demand, excellent pastures and large corn supplies should support higher feeder cattle prices this fall, they added.

Although milk production is running 3 percent above the same period a year ago, prices remain essentially the same as that period. The stability in price is due to price supports which should remain near their current level, adjusted seasonally, for the foreseeable future, they said.

Egg production is slightly under a year ago and is expected to drop further. Egg prices are seen rebounding strongly during the next two months. With turkeys, the price is expected to average near to somewhat higher than late July's 66 cents. Production drops are anticipated in the third and fourth quarter. High beef prices should also help keep turkey prices up, economists said.

Extension Homemakers meet

The Mentone Extension Homemakers Club met for their August 12th meeting with Mrs. Grace Sullivan. Mary Norris opened the meeting with the pledge to the flags and the creed. Blanche Whitmyre led the song of the month, "O Dear What Can The Matter Be." Devotions were given by Grace Sullivan with "Myself" and "Give Me Lord." Garden reports were given by club members.

Esther Sarber, health and safety leader, gave a report on 50 ways to reduce stress. The Citizenship report was on the Kosciuszko County shelter force by Grace Sullivan. A Cultural Arts report was given by Arma Eckert with the life of Judge Jessie Ausbach.

Olive Tucker was in charge of the business and gave a report on the president's council meeting. A thank you note was read from Betty Smith, a 4-H member. Eula Smith and Pearl Horn were thanked for booth set-up at the Warsaw Fair. Recipes are to be sent in for the Homemakers Cookbook and the fall luncheon will be October 27.

Olive Tucker and Pearl Horn gave the lesson on how postal inspectors protect consumers; how one can be protected from mail fraud; the schemes used to get money from the elderly; how diet ads are making money from lots of people; and medical quackery. Check to see where your money goes.

The meeting was closed by repeating the collect and the prayer song. An auction was then held. Arma Eckert won the door prize. Mary Norris will be hostess for the September meeting.

USDA requests comments on grain

Secretary of Agriculture John R. Block asked the public to comment by Aug. 26 on provisions of the 1983 feed grain program, the details of which must be announced by Nov. 15.

Block said he plans to announce the 1983 feed grain program well in advance of the Nov. 15 statutory deadline.

Block said the U.S. Department of Agriculture would like to receive as many comments as possible so it will have a broad range of public opinion about the program. He said he will study the public's opinion about the program. He said he will study the public's recommendations, as well as the most current data on U.S. and world crop conditions and crop supply and demand before he makes final decisions.

Specifically, USDA would like to receive comments on:

--loan and purchase prices, target prices and the national program acreage;

--whether to establish either an acreage reduction or set-aside program, and, if USDA establishes reductions for corn, oats, barley or sorghum, the levels of such reductions;

--provisions governing acreage devoted to conservation use;

--whether to establish a land diversion program and if such a program is established, a payment date for the diversion;

--offsetting and cross compliance requirements under acreage reduction program;

--methods for determining 1983 crop acreage bases;

--whether barley should be included for payment purposes; and --if malting barley is included in the 1983 program; whether it should be exempted from any acreage reduction program.

Block also asked for opinions on provisions for a farmer-owned grain reserve, commodity eligibility, premiums and discounts, the establishment of county loan rates and all other provisions necessary to carry out a loan and purchase program for feed grains.

Details of the program options USDA is considering are scheduled to appear in the July 27, Federal Register.

Comments should be sent to: Howard C. Williams, director, analysis division, USDA-ASCS, room 3741-S, P.O. Box 2415, Washington, D.C. 20013. The comments will be available for public inspection in room 3741 of USDA's South Building during regular business hours.

Reagan's Plea

The American people had good reason to heed President Reagan's eloquent plea for support of a compromise bill on tax revenue and spending cuts. That appeal was an astute political move by the president, who won much Democrat and independent support.

It was also the best bill Mr. Reagan could get from Congress. But real spending cuts were so reduced by the House, this part of the compromise bill was almost a hoax, as the Wall Street Journal claimed.

The tax reform included, however, was fair and overdue. And the revenue this reform and the increases will raise is very badly needed to reduce huge impending federal deficits. On balance, then, the bill deserved support, though it was a partial admission of failure and a major compromise of supply-side economics.

MAKE YOUR OWN TILES

Refractory companies, brickyards, and building suppliers usually sell dry bonding clay, which is an inexpensive and excellent tile material. For your "learning the ropes" first try, prepare about five gallons of commercial mix for the same amount of moistened field-dug clay) before tackling the following procedure.

The morning after your first clay mixing, pour off any water that's standing on the top of the bucket and spread a sheet of plastic or canvas on the ground in full sunlight. Now the fun starts! (If you're using backyard clay, you won't need to pour off anything.)

Reach down into the pail, scoop up the whole soft, gooey mess, and plop it onto the sheet. Smooth the material out with your hands and let it dry for several days. (A tip: Cleaning up is best done outdoors because clay clogs drains.)

While your "raw material" is lounging in the sunshine, you can prepare a place to work. Since this is a messy project, a table in the basement or garage would be best. You'll need a piece of plywood (at least 2' X 2', preferably even larger) covered with burlap, canvas, or an old sheet. A rolling pin, a table knife, a one-inch-wide wood slat, and a piece of string—two or three feet long—are all the tools you'll need.

When the clay has dried to the point that it's no longer sticky, bring it to your work area. Cut off a chunk about the size of a cabbage head and set it on the cloth-covered board.

Now, the material must be wedged. This is a process similar to kneading bread, except that it's aimed at eliminating—rather than adding—air. (Any "pockets" will expand when the clay is fired and can cause a tile to explode... so wedging is very important.) First, sprinkle about one-fourth cup of sand on the board... the grit will add strength as it works into your tile material.

Next, lift the clay up over your head and slam it down hard several times. Knead it by pushing it back and forth. Continue this operation for about five minutes, then cut the clay in half with the string. If the surface of the cut is smooth—revealing no air holes or crevices—you're ready to fashion some tiles.

Whack the two pieces back together and slap the clay down on the board a few more times. Then beat the clay with your fists until it's about 1" thick.

Flip it over and—keeping the pressure even—use your rolling pin to further flatten the "mud pastry"... as if you were making a pie crust. Periodically, lift the sheet and turn it upside down so that it doesn't get stuck to the board. After it's been rolled to a thickness of approximately 3/8", lift the "dough" one last time, set it down gently, and smooth it out with the rolling pin. Use your wood slat and a sharp knife to trim off the ragged edges, leaving a nice, even rectangle.

Tiles can be made in any shape or size that you wish, but usually the small (about one inch) squares are strongest. Use your wood slat and knife to cut the rectangle into a grid of squares.

It's best not to move your mini-ceramics for at least 24 hours. After that time has elapsed, though, you can take the tiles off the board and set them, face down, on a level, newspaper-covered surface. (Reversing the tiles helps them dry flat, so after yet another day, turn them back over to their original position.)

At this point, you can carve designs into the clay, but no matter how lovely your creations may be, they won't be permanent until they're fired. You can "cure" your handiwork in a fireplace, in a woodstove, or in an outdoor open pit. Even though these different methods are all relatively simple, they require more instruction than we have room for here. However, the free reprint mentioned at the end of this column gives you complete details for firing your creations.

Your homemade tiles can be used in any application where store-bought "ceramics" would normally be called for. To fasten them to walls or floors, purchase some grout at your local hardware store and follow the directions on the can. For outdoor use, lay them in a bed of sand.

For FREE additional information on making tiles and on THE MOTHER EARTH NEWS magazine, send your name and address and ask for Reprint No. 1033: "Make Your Own Tiles." Grain crop economics course to be offered

An agricultural economics course, "Grain Crop Economics with Computer Applications," will be offered on closed circuit television for the first time this fall in 12 Indiana communities, Purdue University's Department of Agricultural Economics has announced.

According to D. Howard Doster and Paul R. Robbins, course instructors, three hours of graduate or undergraduate credit may be earned for successful completion of the course—Ag Ec 596.

Through the Indiana Higher Education Telecommunication System, the course will be screened in Evansville, Fort Wayne, Indianapolis, Kokomo, Muncie, New Albany, Plymouth, Richmond, Terre Haute, Vincennes, Columbus, and West Lafayette.

Course times are: Saturdays, Aug. 28 and Dec. 11, from 8 a.m. until 4:30 p.m. and Wednesday evenings throughout September, Nov. 3 and 10, and Dec. 1, 8 and 15, from 7-10 p.m.

Lecture and discussion will take about two-thirds of each session with the remainder of the time becoming a workshop situation, led by an instructor at each site. Other agricultural economists, agricultural engineers and agronomists will appear as guest lecturers.

Doster and Robbins said the course should be especially beneficial to Extension Agents; vocational agricultural teachers; agricultural lenders; seed, fertilizer and chemical representatives; machinery and equipment dealers; professional farm managers; crop consultants; farm real estate appraisers or brokers; landlords or landladies; and farmers and their spouses. There are no prerequisites.

Guideline for free - reduced price school lunches set

Tippecanoe Valley Schools announced that due to current legislation by the U.S. Congress, a change has been made in the current income eligibility guidelines used to determine eligibility for free and reduced price meals for children unable to pay the full price of meals served under the National School Lunch and School Breakfast Programs.

Local school officials have adopted the following family size and income criteria for determining eligibility:

Income Eligibility Guidelines for Free and Reduced Price Meals

Family [Household] Size	For Free Meals Must be at or below Figures listed			For Reduced Price Meals Must be at or between figures listed
	Yearly	Monthly	Weekly	Yearly	Monthly	Weekly
1	$ 6,080	$ 507	$117	$ 8,660	$ 722	$167
2	8,090	674	156	11,510	959	221
3	10,090	841	194	14,360	1,197	276
4	12,090	1,008	233	17,210	1,434	331
5	14,090	1,174	271	20,050	1,671	386
6	16,090	1,341	309	22,900	1,908	440
7	18,100	1,508	348	25,750	2,146	495
8	20,100	1,675	387	28,600	2,383	550

For each additional member, add: $2,000 $167 $38 $2,850 $238 $55

Children from families whose income is at or below the levels shown are eligible for free or reduced price meals. In addition, there are no special hardship provisions.

Application forms are being distributed to all homes in a letter to parents. Additional copies are available in the principal's office in each school. The information provided on the application is confidential and will be used only for the purpose of determining eligibility. Applications may be submitted at any time during the year.

In certain cases foster children are also eligible for these benefits. If a family has foster children living with them and wishes to apply for such meals for them, they should contact the school.

Under the provisions of the policy each school principal will review applications and determine eligibility. If a parent is dissatisfied with the ruling of the official, he may wish to discuss the decision with the determining official on an informal basis.

If he wishes to make a formal appeal, he may make a request either orally or in writing to Mr. Baxter Paige, Box 338 Mentone, IN ph. 353-7741 for a hearing to appeal the decision. The policy contains an outline of the hearing procedures.

If a family member becomes unemployed or if family size or income changes, the family should contact the school to file a new application. Such changes may make the children of the family eligible for reduced price meals or for additional benefits such as free meals if the family income falls at or below the levels shown above.

In the operation of school nutrition programs, no child will be discriminated against because of race, color, national origin, religion, sex, handicap or age.

Each school and the office of the Superintendent has a copy of the complete policy, which may be reviewed by any interested party.

Discuss roof repair at Akron Jr. High Tippecanoe Valley School Board members heard a surprise request by one of their members after the board meeting last week, which resulted in re-opening the meeting after it had been adjourned.

Newly elected board member William Rogers made a motion that a new roof be installed before winter on the three-story structure section at the Akron Jr. High building. He said he had inspected the roofs along with some other people, and had received an estimate from a business acquaintance of his which was between $5,000 and $10,000. He refused to give the name of the person giving the estimate or the exact amount of the estimate because he said, if the board decided to let bids on the project, it would not be fair to have it known.

Rogers' motion for the new roof and the repair to the lower roofs was seconded by board member Cecil Miller. On an individual vote, Miller, Rogers and Richard Long voted to do the repairs with Long noting he was agreeable providing there was money available to do the work. Board members Shewman and Meredith both voted against the project saying there had not been enough investigation into the matter and they needed time.

Rogers said the estimate for the new roof included removing the old roofing, installing 7/8" insulation and flashings with the roofing material to be used having a fiberglass-asphalt finish. He said the person giving the estimate said he would give a one-year guarantee on the project.

Board member Cecil Miller asked that the maintenance people at the Akron School repair the roofs on the lower structures and added the drains were badly in need of cleaning because they had found a tree growing from one of them. Miller asked for a report from the Superintendent on the matter at the next meeting of the board.

Budget Hearing

The first part of the meeting was concerned with the public hearing on the 1983 budget which calls for a total of $4,411,451 in funds; a 3.8 percent increase over the 1982 budget. This includes a total of $3,339,932 in the general fund; $393,739 in Debt Service, $428,353 in the transportation fund and $249,427 in the cumulative building fund. The total amount to be raised by tax levied would be $1,966,826 by a proposed rate of $3.9427 per $100 assessed valuation.

The only question about the budget during the audience portion of the meeting came from Dr. Don Van Gilder, Mentone, who asked why the total on the corporation assessed valuation is different from the previous assessment. Superintendent Paige commented that the Site Board of accounts recommends that there be a "cushion" to work with.

Van Gilder also asked Paige if the money appropriated for the 9 new school buses was included on the investment portion of the financial report. Paige noted that it would show on the financial report for August which will be given at the September board meeting.

At the close of the budget hearing, the school board set Thursday, August 26 for the formal adoption of the 1983 budget.

Open Bus Bids

Most of the regular meeting was taken up by the opening of bids for the nine school buses. The bids will be let during the next regular meeting of the board, Monday, September 20.

Teacher Contracts

Status quo contracts will be signed the first day of school by Tippecanoe Valley Corporation due to delayed negotiations.

Board members approved teaching and extra-curricular assignments for the school year and signed the status quo contracts for teachers.

The following new personnel were hired and contracts were signed for: David Mussche, high school industrial arts; Laurel Smith, high school English; Susan Jones, temporary contract for 82-83 school year as substitute for Donna Welsh; Ann Chubb, elementary media; Sue Pyle, temporary contract for 82-83 as substitute for Pam Smith; Laura Foss, temporary contract for 82-83 for Jane Hunn; Jerry Jackson, Akron social studies.

Superintendent Paige noted that there are still two unfilled positions left to fill, but he thought they would be filled by the time school begins next week.

The board accepted the resignation of Betty Gambel, English teacher at the high school the last four years to accept a position at Valparaiso High School; granted maternity leave for Paula Wheeler who was resource teacher at Akron School and accepted the resignation of Rudy Gingle as head baseball coach at Valley.

Other business

The board granted a request by Jean Balmer to use the parking lot at the high school Saturday, Sept. 25 during St. Jude's Bike-a-thon with the provision that the space was not required for any school activity on that date.

Board members gave approval to Principal Jack Fisher to spend the Title I program money to retain the same program in remedial reading at the three elementary school buildings that was used last year. He stated they would have approximately $69,000 to use this year, which includes the grant of $62,500 and approximately $7,000 left in the fund from last year.

School hot lunch prices were approved by the board with the price for students being 75¢ per day, 40¢ for reduced price lunches, 20¢ for extra milk and $1.25 per day for adult lunches.

Approval was given to the Tippecanoe Valley Aquatic Club for continued use of the swimming pool at the high school. Approval had been given previously by superintendent of schools but formal approval of the school board had never been requested.

Approval was given to Forrest Kantner, sponsor of the F.F.A. to hold two fund raisers. The F.F.A. proposes to hold a Kiss A Pig Contest and a goat give-away to raise funds for their club and promote interest in athletic events at the high school.

Requests Denied

The request by Joy Gunter to transfer her son, Keith to Warsaw High School full time was denied by the board on the superintendent's recommendation. Permission for the student to attend Warsaw's machine shop class for half-a-day was given, but he is to attend regular class at Valley.

A request by Donna Martens to have her children transported from Sacred Heart School in Warsaw each afternoon on the special ed bus was denied because of a lack of space on the bus.

Principals Report

Corporation principals reported that maintenance work and the energy plant projects in Akron-Burket and Mentone Schools are progressing according to plan.

Pre-enrollment has started with Mentone Principal Jack Fisher reporting they had 10-12 new students enrolling the first day; Akron's Dan Kramer reported 250 students enrolled the first two days; Valley's Robert Myers reported enrollment seemed to be down by approximately 29 students.

Oliver England, Burket principal reported that the elementary centralized library would be completed with new shelving and carpeting and ready for school time.

Take Time for Wildlife

By Joe Scheidler
District Wildlife Biologist

In quest of bushytails

It was mid-August in the late 1960's. The first light of the new day found me with my dad's Springfield .22, pedaling a bicycle towards a small woodland at the outskirts of town. During the previous year I had steadily developed an urge to try my hand at a new sport, and this day was to put an end to my anticipation and replace it with full-fledged addiction.

I could take you to the spot today, and perhaps I could show you a particular tree, a sycamore, standing at the edge of a stream. I remember staring up into that tree and imagining a bushytail scampering across a broad lower limb. I turned away momentarily to relieve the strain on my neck, and when I looked back, there was a plump fox squirrel in the very spot I had imagined. I don't remember how many shots it took to claim my prize, but I do recall the Springfield being about as steady as an air hammer. I was so exhilarated at my success that I didn't even consider the possibility of being doubly blessed and raced home in a frenzy to prepare fresh game for the skillet.

What was to come in the months and years that followed were countless excursions in quest of bushytails, and lingering in my memory are dozens of vivid recollections of specific hunts, trees, shots and squirrels.

I find it not at all surprising that Hoosier sportsmen have made squirrels the most sought after game animal in the state. Nearly 200,000 hunters annually trek to Indiana woodlots and hinterlands and bag nearly one million squirrels. The game is usually abundant and offers a sporting challenge for the nimrod equipped with a .22 rifle or bow and arrow.

Squirrel hunters already know that the first of three squirrel seasons opened August 15 and will run through October 8. They already know that most bushytails may be found feeding on maple samaras, cherries and the seed pods of tulip poplar until the hickory nuts, acorns and walnuts are fully ripened. They already know about dew-laced spider webs, the sweet odor of moist, green woodlands and the exciting wildlife encounters that await those who slip among trees with the first rays of sunlight. They already know about the special bonds that form between friends or among families who hunt together, and the unique pleasures found in sifting through a storehouse of hunting memorabilia on a hot summers eve.

Who can question a squirrel hunter's motivation and enthusiasm? Who can blame him for being genuinely concerned with timberland destruction and poor timber management? Who can object to his disgust with irresponsible sportsmen who abuse hunting privileges and scar relationships between Hoosier landowners and all hunters?

Women naturally like to show off, and men provide a good audience.

THE COUPON CLIPPER

Here's a tip for organizing your coupons

By June Fuller

DEAR COUPON CLIPPER — I used to keep my coupons in envelopes organized by product categories, but I found that picking coupons out of the envelopes while I was in the store was too time-consuming.

Finally, I hit on the idea of putting my coupons into a three-ring notebook. My notebook is separated into sections that correspond with the aisles in the store; within each section I staple my coupons to plain notebook paper.

I have also taped an envelope to the inside cover. When I pick an item off the shelf, I place the coupon in the envelope so that it will be ready to give to the cashier.

My notebook enables me to carry hundreds of coupons. Sometimes there are as many as 20 to 30 overlapping coupons to a page.

I place the book in the children's seat of my shopping cart and leaf through it as I walk down the supermarket aisles. I never have to fumble with coupons or search through envelopes full of coupons.

One of the benefits of my system is that I always have my coupons with me in case the store has unadvertised specials or decides to double the value of coupons.

My system takes very little time. A half hour a week is enough to clip my coupons and staple them in the book.

Now, the fun part! In the beginning I was embarrassed when I brought my coupon book into the supermarket. But the initial shock has worn off and now people follow me around the store asking questions and watching how I operate my system. Even the store managers are eager to see what it's all about!

I am very happy to stop for a few moments show them how I have made my couponing a lot easier and more productive. I hope that this tip will also be useful to your many readers. — Hope DeGuglielmo from Neptune, N.J.

DEAR HOPE — Thank you for an excellent suggestion. I am setting up my own coupon book and will report the results in a future column.

My smart shopping award goes to Pat Gunderman of Englewood, Fla., who writes:

"The General Electric four-pack of light bulbs is usually $3.23, but one of our local grocery stores had it on sale for $1.66. The store also doubled my 25-cent coupon, which brought my cost down to $1.16.

"When I got home, I found a refund form that offered me a $1 refund in return for one four-pack proof of purchase. Couponing and refunding have really helped our family of five fight rising prices!"

Here's a refund form to write for: Rave Hair Care Center, P.O. Box 4021, Jefferson City, Mo. 65102. Send a self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request for this form. Requests must be received by Nov. 30, 1982. This offer expires Dec. 31, 1982.

Here is this week's list of refund offers. Start looking for the required refund forms, which you can obtain at the supermarket, in newspaper and magazine advertisements and from trading with friends. Meanwhile, start collecting the needed proofs of purchase as detailed below. Remember, some offers are not available in all areas of the country.

Today's refund offers have a value of $9.55.

Meat, Poultry, Seafood, Other Main Dishes (File 6)

— Armour Turkey Ham. Receive a $1 refund. Send the required refund form and two labels from Armour Star Turkey Ham or Armour Star Turkey Pastrami.
