Mark Skiles, Valley Assistant Principal

Skiles joins staff at Valley

Tippecanoe Valley High School once again has a full staff with the addition of a South Whitley resident as assistant principal. Mark Skiles comes to TVSC from Whitko High School, where he's served four years as a guidance counselor.

Skiles, originally from Dayton, OH, graduated from Grace College in 1972 and received a Master's degree from St. Francis, Fort Wayne, in 1974. He holds degrees in education and psychology. He worked as a social worker at Pierceton Middle School and Whitko High School between 1975 - 79, and then moved to the high school as a part-time teacher and part-time guidance counselor.

Part of Skile's duties at Whitko involving handling an "In-school" suspension room. Rather than suspending students from school, Whitko has a program whereby they're suspended to another room. In this capacity, Skiles acted as tutor for the suspended students as well as disciplinarian.

Although Skiles and his wife, Lisa (who teaches speech at Whitko) presently live in South Whitley, they hope to move within the corporation district in the near future.

TVSC Board appropriates additional funds...approves 1983 - 1984 budget

At a special meeting of the Tippecanoe Valley School Corporation Board, held Wednesday, July 27, trustees appropriated $42,000 from the Cumulative Building Fund to cover cost of boiler conversion at two of the schools.

These monies will be used to pay for converting one boiler at Burket

Elementary and two boilers at the high school into dual-fuel boilers. A water heater at the high school will also be converted. Trustees Richard Long, Fred McSherry, Cecil Miller, William Rogers and James Royers unanimously voted to approve the appropriation.

Board members also approved the budget recommended by Superintendent Baxter Paige. The estimate of local funds to be raised was: $1,150,933, general Fund; $394,338, Debt Services Fund; $254,449, CBF; and $199,903, Transportation Fund. Broken down for taxpayers, this would be: $2.30, General Fund; .79, Debt Services Fund; .50, CBF; and .40, Transportation Fund, or a total rate of 3.99. This is up .05 from the $3.94 proposed rate last year.

Paige cautioned members that the advertised rate wouldn't necessarily be the rate actually taxed, pointing out that last year's final rate dropped to 3.73. He explained, "In establishing a budget, there's a certain amount of guesswork, but the formula is pretty well laid out for you (referring to State forms)."

The five cent increase in the approved budget coincided with a board resolution for the Corporation to have permission to make up a $27,275 shortfall. Special legislation from the State permitted the board to do this, since State failure to meet its financial commitments to school corporations was responsible for the shortfall originally. The State has been behind in payments to all corporations since the beginning of 1983, and Paige warned this could become an annual problem.

Trustees approved the placement of seven educators. They are: Mark Skiles, Assistant High School Principal; Rebecca Smith, Mentone third grade; Sue Pyle, Mentone second grade; Kim Paige, Mentone first grade;

Ideal Shield

KANSAS CITY — A research technician at a packaging company here got tired of seeing his friends lying on oil-soaked blankets and newspapers while they repaired their cars.

The technician figured if he could produce something disposable that could absorb oil and yet keep the oil from soaking through, he'd have a product to sell.

The product he developed is called Auto-Matt. One side has a type of paper that is absorbent. The other side is plastic-coated to stop leaks onto the ground. Auto-Matt is produced by Seal-right Co., where the technician still works in the lab.

What's In a Name

TOKYO, Japan — If you want to be a "yokozuna" or "ozeki," you'd better learn to get a good grip on your opponent's "mawashi." The "mawashi," a heavy silken loin cloth, is the only attire worn by a sumo wrestler. Combatants grip the opponent's "mawashi" to achieve most of the 48 classic throws in the sport.

Columbus & August

Although it's generally recognized today that Columbus was not the first to discover America (the Scandinavians came hundreds of years earlier and maybe the Irish, too), the Italian's voyage opened up the New World. It was the most significant and meaningful.

On August 3, 1492, Columbus sailed from Palos, Spain, on that historic crossing. We celebrate Columbus Day in October, of course, when he finally reached the Caribbean. Columbus thought he was off the coast of India--and called the natives Indians.

Christoforo Colombo was born in 1451, day and month unknown, in Genoa, Italy, and changed his name to Christobal Colon when he entered the naval service of Spain. Americans Anglicized his name to Christopher Columbus.

Columbus carried with him ninety crewmen and thirty friends on that August 3 sailing and reached the island of Watling, which he named San Salvador.

All his discoveries--he made three other voyages to the New World--brought him no reward from Spain's monarchs, as promised. He died a poor man in 1506 in Spain.

Today there is dispute over where his remains are located. They were brought to Santo Domingo in 1542. When that island was ceded to France they were brought to Havana. When the United States defeated the Spanish in the 1898 war, the Spanish--they say--removed Columbus's remains to Seville.

In Santo Domingo they say the bones taken to Havana in 1796 were not those of Columbus. And in 1936, Santo Domingo placed Columbus' remains in a new urn--they say.

Latest On Church Membership

The latest figures on church membership in the United States reflect a striking change which has occurred in this country in the past century--concerning religious affiliation.

In the early years the nation was ninety percent Protestant. (Many had fled persecutions and discriminations, as Protestants, in European countries.)

By the turn of this century, the nation was still predominantly Protestant--though Italian emigrants were then entering by the millions.

About 1912, immigration laws were enacted to maintain the ethnic ratio or makeup of the nation. This had the indirect effect of slowing Latinization.

However, in the 1960's during Lyndon Johnson's tenure in the White House (and Dean Rusk's at the State Department), compromise immigration laws which sought to give each ethnic segment of the nation its proportionate, fair share of immigration quotas, were scrapped.

New laws opened the nation again to rapid racial and ethnic change, this time also from Asian countries, and this is reflected by the latest church membership figures:

Roman Catholic--51.2 million; Southern Baptist--13.8; United Methodist--9.5; Lutherans--2.9; Episcopal--2.8; Lutherans (Missouri Synod)--2.6; United Presbyterians--2.4; American Lutheran--2.3; Assemblies of God--1.8; United Church of Christ--1.7; Disciples of Christ--1.1; etc.

The doctor, who had just finished an elderly man's annual check-up, said with a laugh, "Well, old timer, I can't seem to find a thing wrong with you, but I recommend that you give up half your love life."

After a long pause, during which the patient appeared to be in very deep thought, he replied, "Doctor, which half do you recommend I give up, thinking about it--or talking about it?"

A proud parent called up the newspaper and reported the birth of twins. The girl at the desk didn't quite catch the message over the phone. "Will you repeat that?" she asked. "Not if I can help it," was the reply.

"Which way to the post office, boy?" "I don't know." "You don't know much, do you?" "No, but I ain't lost."

The salesman was stranded at a desolate farmhouse during a bad storm. He asked the farmer if he could put him up for the night. The farmer scratched his head. "The only way would be for you to sleep with the red-headed school teacher." The salesman was indignant and replied, "I'll have you understand, I'm a gentleman." The farmer smiled, "So is the school teacher."

Foreign Debt: Time Bomb

Or Manageable Matter?

By Babson's Reports Inc., Wellesley Hills, Mass., July 28, 1983. Debt piled up by developing nations is giving rise to fresh concern in world banking circles, finance ministries, and the U.S. Treasury. Yet the consensus of those most knowledgeable about such matters is that the fiscal problems of foreign governments can--and will--be managed. In their view, the resources of the central banks and of global lending agencies are amply able to take care of new crises.

They assume, of course, that world business will continue to expand steadily even though slowly and that inflationary pressures will be controlled. Their optimism arises from the relative aplomb with which earlier debt crises of Mexico and Brazil were handled via bailout loans and rescheduling. Their confidence is shared by a number of businessmen here and abroad and by investors in U.S. securities markets.

Flashing Yellow Lights

It must be conceded, however, that there is a group of international bankers, economists, and government officials in the U.S. and key foreign countries who don't agree with the consensus of optimism with regard to the debts of developing nations. These experts point out that Mexico, Brazil, and Venezuela will soon require large cash bailout loans to handle their old debt repayments and/or meet the requirements of the International Monetary Fund (IMF).

These three Latin American countries, plus some other nations, will need to borrow sizable sums between now and the end of '83, and such borrowing will place considerable strain on their resources and on world credit resources, especially including those of private lenders. Their demands for new loans will come at a time when loans will be hard to get as is even now the case. For banks in Europe and the U.S. have become more wary of all foreign loans. Indeed, a good many banks, both here and abroad, want out of the foreign lending business. One reason: They worry about what could happen if a sovereign nation were to default.

Sovereign Failure To Pay Up

Babson opinion is that the foreign debt situation is serious but that it would be more serious if the global economy had not shown firm signs of turnaround some months ago. Our view is that developing crises in debtor nations will be relieved, and possibly resolved, via timely and ample interventions by central banks and global lending agencies. Private lenders will still help too, though on a scale down from earlier commitments.

We think there's only small probability of sovereign nations failing to pay up. Such defaults are rare, partly because the penalty for default is harsh. A nation that doesn't kick in as promised under the terms of the loans it has negotiated could have its exports and assets abroad seized by creditors. And, of course, its default would effectively shut it off from bank or foreign government help. While such a default might not necessarily result in mass global bank failures, it could be a painfully serious development for U.S. banks involved and would weaken our whole domestic banking system.

What To Expect

The current shift of U.S. and other banks away from foreign lending will likely prove temporary, but it could well become more pronounced over the next few months, making it harder for developing countries to raise the $15 to 20 billion they need. Nearly half the three-quarters-of-a-trillion dollar debt of these nations is owed to private banks and there are more than 25 countries that are behind on their interest payments.

Yet a distinct though narrow consensus affirms that this huge debt is still manageable, that developing loan and cash flow emergencies can be eased and, in time, fully defused. They base their confidence on constraint cooperation, freer trade, and inflation control.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Dear Editor:

On behalf of the Cooperative Extension Service, I would like to express appreciation to all those who contributed to the success of the activities at the 1983 Fulton County 4-H Fair.

The 4-H members, adult leaders, parents, sponsoring committee members, and junior leaders all helped to make the 4-H activities and exhibits possible. Others who invested time, energy, and/or money toward the success of the Fair were: 4-H Livestock Buyers, 4-H Trophy Sponsors, department Chairman and assistants, livestock superintendents, livestock committees and assistants, Sale Committee members, 4-H Council members, R.S.V.P., night guards, P.C.A., O.D.C. clean up workers, and county veterinarians; with special thanks to the News Media.

A special commendation and thank you should be given to the 4-H Fairboard members who contributed many hours and much work during fair week and also throughout the year. To all these people we say thank you; without all of you, our successful Fair would not have been possible.

Sincerely,
Deb Whlader
 Extension Agent-Youth

Dear Editor:

In reply to the question(s) asked by "Name withheld by request" in the "Letters" Column of the July 27, 1983 issue of the News, I would like to proffer the following information:

The mileage given monthly in the newspaper is a matter of public record and is therefore made available to the public. For the month of June, this figures out to average 78.9 miles per day, or about 6.6 miles per hour based on an average of 12 hours per day driving. (The car is driven more at night than during the day, generally speaking.) To travel over each street within the corporate limits of Akron requires about 8 miles of driving with some backtracking due to street layout. Therefore your statement of "...driving around one corner...10 times every day?" is fairly close to accurate. However you must also include every other corner in town -- not just one.

If the intent of your letter was to inquire why the car is driven so many miles, what would your suggestion to our problem be? If we stay in the office, then we're asked "Why aren't you around the feed mill?" -- if we park at the feed mill "Why aren't you around the park?" -- if we're at the park, "Why aren't you around...?" So, logically the only way we can be in more than one place is to be continuously moving. As the police car moves, the mileage adds up. "Quod Erat Demonstrandum!" as my geometry teacher used to say.

This patrolling, by the way, is done at the request of the residents-of the Town of Akron and at the direction of the Akron Town Board.

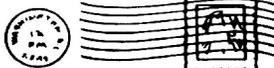

Should you like any further clarification to your letter, please feel free to stop in the Police Station and ask.

Sincerely,
David S. Kruger
 Marshal, Town of Akron

Our most sincere gratitude to everyone for the cards, flowers, visits, calls and most of all the prayers while we were both ill. Thanks so much and may God bless you all.

The Sullivans
 Harry and Grace

LOUISA'S LETTER

Dear Louisa,

My husband died several years ago and I was so grief stricken and disturbed that I rented out my home, furnished, and went to live with my sister in another city. I have many friends in this city and enjoy living here except for one thing. I feel cramped in my sister's home and everything is run there the way she wants it. I am a very sociable person and like to entertain but my sister works and likes to go to bed early and get up early.

We never have cross words with each other but we seemed to enjoy being together more when we lived apart.

I could rent a house here but the trouble is I signed a lease with the people who rented my house and they will be able to use my furniture for five years. I am comfortably well off. What would you suggest. J.H.-Tenn.

Answer:

I would look for a small furnished apartment and rent it until I could have my furniture for a larger house. It is hard for two women who have managed their own homes to live together and enjoy it and since you and your sister seem to enjoy different ways of life and are still on good terms, a move to an apartment seems to be the best answer to your problem. Louisa.

On Burns

As science marches along, we learn things our parents and our grandparents didn't know. That has been true for generations and is no cause for disrespect of earlier generations. They did their best with the knowledge available to them.

For years we have been told to apply salve or ointment or even butter to burned areas. Not recommended today. Rather, the first thing to do is to apply liberal portions of cold water--not ice.

Cold water might be applied for as long as thirty minutes in the case of serious burns. It is not applied to areas where clothing sticks to burned skin, however.

Worries

If currently worried about business problems, family problems, etc., remember that your worries are relative. Ten years from now, as the saying goes, you'll have forgotten all about your current worries, in nine of ten cases.

That alone is not sufficient comfort to totally allay one's worries, but one should also remember there are many who have greater, more critical problems. Anyone can look around and find many things for which to be thankful.

The experts tell us ninety percent of the possibilities we worry about never materialize. They also say we are unable to exercise any control over most of the other things. Most worry is thus wasted emotion.

On Sharks

Those who go to beaches this summer think seriously about sharks--mainly because of recent films about killer sharks.

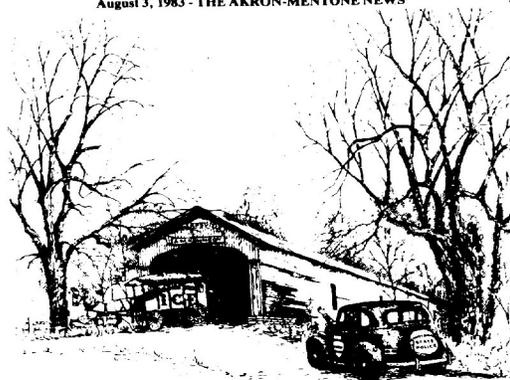

But an expert suspects there is some needless worry.

Dr. Carter Gilbert of the Florida State Museum says the danger of attacks by sharks is less than the danger faced on the highways.

He suggests swimmers in a group are safer than lone swimmers--especially in certain danger areas.

Danger areas include those where food is thrown into the water, where blood from cleaned fish is in the water, or where bright objects or erratic vibrations might attract sharks.

Gilbert says a shark couldn't have a vendetta against a boat (as in films). And many at beaches who think they have been bitten by a shark have, instead, been bitten by a barracuda.

This is the eighth of a 12-part series on the history of the Indiana State Police Department. This story deals with the department's scuba team.

It is said that some people will volunteer for anything and in 1960 there were 28 Troopers volunteering to train for the Department's scuba diving team. The Indiana State Police Department had the first scuba diving program in the state, and was one of the first in the country to adopt this program.

Fred Leete III, a reserve Coast Guard lieutenant and a diving expert, taught the first class during the summer of 1960, using the buddy system and training divers for each district. The week long session was conducted at Butler University and Geist Reservoir, both in Indianapolis.

Scheduled for the first four days were: half a day in the classroom and half a day in the pool. On Friday there were two hours of classwork, two hours in the pool, a two-hour exam and then, on Saturday, a full day of open water diving.

One week after the divers were certified they were put to test by a murder case. A Warrick County girl was slain and her dismembered body was thought to be in seven parts in the Ohio River. The Department had only enough equipment for four divers who, in spite of their inexperience, recovered all parts of the girl's body within nine hours.

A few days later the State Police divers were called upon to search 108 feet of water at Crooked Creek in northern Indiana to find the body of a missing man, and once again were successful.

Since then the team has been consistently active. Scuba diving Troopers have been summoned many times from road duty to dive into some cold, unfamiliar body of water to search for stolen articles, a murder weapon, or a drowning victim.

The Indiana State Police Department scuba team was the first to drop divers into the water from a helicopter. In 1961, the team was recognized by the International Skin Divers Association as one of the country's most outstanding diving teams.

The Department's diving school now has its own instructors, with classes conducted at the Indiana Law Enforcement Academy and other locations around the state. Open water diving is done in rivers, lakes and quarries.

The ninth part of the series will discuss the department's Laboratory Division.

LEGAL LAFFS

Thank you to all who remembered me with prayers, cards, visits, food and in any other way while I was in Ft. Wayne Parkview Hospital and on my return home.
 May God Bless you and keep you.

Here's Your Answer

by Pastor Dennis R. Pollock
New Testament
Baptist Church
Culver, Ind. 46511

Why do trials and temptations come into the life of the Christian?

Anyone who has been a Christian very long has experienced periods of doubt, depression, and testings. Contrary to some who teach that becoming a Christian will make you "healthy, wealthy, and wise" the Bible has much to say about the lifestyle that God's children will partake of this side of Heaven.

We must realize that our Lord Jesus never promised to take us out of tribulation but rather to be with us in and through them. See John 16:33 and Hebrews 13:5.

If what the scriptures says is true (and we believe it is) then we will find comfort in our distress only when we look at them through the eyes of our heavenly Father.

If you are trusting in the Lord Jesus for your hope of Heaven and have received by faith his work on the cross and believe in your heart that God raised him from the dead then you will rejoice to know that God has a great deal in store for you. However, those blessings are all going to come through channels that we seldom would expect, trials!

Our Brother James, in his epistle, encourages us with these words, "Consider it all joy, my brethren when you encounter various trials." Chapter 1, verse 2. Can you believe it? We are to receive the trials that come into our lives as an occasion for joy! How? We are given the answer in verses 3 and 4. "Knowing that the testing of our faith produces endurance. And let endurance have its perfect results, that you may be perfect, mature and complete lacking in nothing.

Can you see then dear Christian friend the "why" of trials? Our kind creator God is working out all the imperfections in our lives. Often he sends "Heavenly sandpaper" in the form of trials such as people, circumstances, and things to shape and polish us that we may be able to comfort others in like situations. II Cor. 1:3-4.

Teacher contract non-renewed

At a special meeting of the Tippecanoe Valley School Corporation, held Friday, July 29 at the Administration Building, trustees voted 5-0 to not renew contract of high school swim teacher, Dave Krieger.

Superintendent Baxter Paige, after two days of hearings earlier in the week, recommended Krieger's contract not be renewed, and newest board member James Royer made the following motion: "I move to cancel the indefinite contract of Dave Krieger based on findings of fact and conclusions of law which the board adopts by affixing signatures hereto and adopt by option A."

Board members passed the motion, noting that Krieger would receive notification of their reasons for termination, although they declined to publicly state those reasons.

Our attitude towards these trials should be one of excitement rather than depression and resentment knowing "that the trial of your faith is precious to God and that he does all things well. Take comfort dear friend, our God is doing a great work in every believer. That work is to "conform us" to his Son Christ Jesus. Romans 8:29.

Delworth receives Elks appointment

Honolulu, Hawaii - Judge John Delworth of Rochester, Indiana Lodge #2120 has been appointed by incoming Grand Exalted Ruler, Kenneth V. Cantoli of Hasbrouck Heights, New Jersey, to serve on the Elks Grand Lodge Judiciary Committee.

In being appointed a member of a Grand Lodge Committee from a nationwide membership of more than 1.6 million Elks, John Delworth is being singled out for a position of responsibility in the Fraternal Order because of his past dedicated service to his home Lodge and State Elks Association.

This appointment was made at the 119th Annual Convention of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks being held in Honolulu, July 24 - 28.

During 1982 the Elks set a record with more than $25 million donated to charities. This marks an increase of 12.5% over 1981's record of $22.2 million.

Since the Elks began record-keeping 102 years ago, more than $430 million has been contributed to charitable organizations. These figures reflect cash contributions, and do not include contributions of time, transportation, materials and expenses.

NIPSCO requests lower gas rates

Northern Indiana Public Service Company filed a notification of decreased gas costs with the Public Service Commission of Indiana totaling $12,295,502, which it proposes to pass on to its customers. The gas cost reduction is the result of new rates filed by four of NIPSCO's five pipeline suppliers with the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission (FERC).

Upon approval of the Commission, the new rates will lower the bill for the average NIPSCO residential customer using natural gas for homeheating and other purposes (1,501 therms annually) by $10.96 a year or about 91 cents a month.

An average residential customer using natural gas for purposes other than spaceheating (405 therms a year) will realize a reduction of $2.95 a year or about 25 cents a month.

The combined purchased gas and storage adjustment factor was reduced to 6.35 cents per therm from 7.08 cents per therm, the utility said.

To appear in concert

Dwight Elijah, whose sensitive, yet dynamic stylings of Christian song have inspired audiences throughout the country, will be presenting a sacred concert on August 9, Tuesday evening at the Mentone Christian Fellowship at 7:30 p.m.

Dwight Elijah embraces a solid commitment to the Lord Jesus Christ and when he is not "on the road" in concert or evangelistic services, he and his wife, Bernadette, and their two daughters, actively participate in their home church, West Shore Christian Fellowship of Muskegon, Michigan.

Although his first acclaim as a singer came through secular music at age 16 and continued in the "club" scene for seven years, Dwight's life took a sharp turn in 1980 when he realized that God was calling him to Christian commitment and a ministry of gospel music.

An experience of several months in the Chicago area trying to "get that break" which would launch a successful career in the gospel music field convinced him that the avenue to God's will for his life and ministry was not in the "Windy City." Returning to his home town of Muskegon he prayerfully sought to determine the Lord's guidance. Doors began to open in July of 1982 when several pastors heard him sing at a conference in Indianapolis, and expressed interest in having him visit their churches with his ministry of singing, sharing, and encouragement. Since that time Dwight has toured in Indiana, Missouri, Virginia and West Virginia, North Carolina, Wisconsin, Oklahoma, and Michigan.

Co-Pastors, Robert Morgan and Thomas Harman give a warm invitation for the public to attend this concert. The church is located on Prairie Street in Atwood, Indiana.

Go Ahead and Laugh

A joke is a joke, but a good hearty laugh according to medical authorities, is one of the best health treatments available.

Laughter eases tension, releases pent-up energy, provides exercise for little used facial and chest muscles. A deep breath gets you about 500 cubic centimeters of air. A deep laugh feeds more than 3,000 cubic centimeters of oxygen to body tissues at one gulp. Every 60 seconds of hearty laughter exposes the entire body to an extra dash of oxygen. With meals, laughter aids digestion by forcing the liver to produce more bile. It obscures headlines, blurs budget worries, obviates a daily 100 yard dash. So go ahead and laugh!

The Akron Nutrition Site needs volunteers for kitchen help, setting the tables and preparing the carry out meals. If you would like to be a volunteer, please call or stop in at the Akron Nutrition Site in the Akron Lions club building. Come and be a volunteer and let's keep this program in your home town. Thank you.

"THE SINS THAT ARE PAST"

In Chapter 3 of St. Paul's letter to the Romans he declares that God has set forth Christ as a satisfaction for man's sin and that redemption is obtained by faith in "His blood" or His payment for sin at Calvary, entirely apart from works, religious or otherwise (Rom. 3:21-26).

But in this same passage he states that the "remission" concerns the "sins that are past" (Ver. 25). What does he mean by this? Some have taught from this verse that when a sinner turns to God for salvation all his sins are forgiven up to that time and now that he is saved he is henceforth responsible for himself. But this would mean that God saves men by His grace only to turn them over again to their own weak and sinful natures. If this were the case, the converted sinner would be lost again the same day, for what Christian believer is wholly free from sin?

Paul rather looks back here at past ages and declares that we now know and proclaim that men like

Abel, Noah and Abraham, and also like Moses, David and Daniel (who lived under the Law) were actually saved by the redemption wrought by Christ, although Christ's death was still future to their day. In other words, Christ died, not only for the sins which we have committed, but also for the "sins which are past." The believers of past ages simply believed what God told them then, and God counted them righteous (Gen. 15:8) on the basis of Christ's coming payment for sin.

We have the same truth set forth in Hebrews 9:15, where we are told that Christ's death availed also "for the redemption of the transgressions that were under the first covenant," i.e., the Law.

How blessed we are to live at a time when God's plan of salvation has been fully revealed, and that we can now look to the Lord Jesus Christ and exclaim with Paul: "He loved me, and gave Himself for me!" (Gal. 2:20).

Address Unknown

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. — Contrary to popular belief, Abraham Lincoln did not write the Gettysburg Address on the back of an envelope while riding on a train to the battlefield. According to biographers, Lincoln wrote several drafts of the address on executive letterhead, at least a day before leaving for Gettysburg.

Earning Potential

WASHINGTON, D.C. — A man graduating from college will earn an average of $1.4 million during his lifetime, according to Census Bureau estimates. A male high school graduate will earn slightly more than a million dollars during his working career.

The earning potential for women still lags considerably, with the average college graduate expected to bring home less than $850,000. A female high school graduate can expect to earn a little over $630,000.

The Census Bureau attributes part of the difference between men and women to the average length of a working woman's career, which is shorter than a man's.

Wrong Size

LOUGHBOROUGH, England — Toilet seats are the wrong size, a recent study by the University of Technology here concluded after recruiting 205 persons to test new types of seats.

The subjects, who were naked from the waist down throughout the experiment, were able to adjust the height and angle by a device similar to one used in hospital beds. Both men and women rated the standard seat as being the most uncomfortable, with elongated seats the most preferred.

Travel With The Beach Boys

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. — The Beach boys were getting married last fall when their parents Paul and Wyvern Beach decided to give them a special send-off that would include their many friends from 10 states.

A fall wedding tour was organized so that guests could attend the wedding of Alice Berini and Bryan Beach in Winchester, Ky., then tour the Great Smoky Mountains in Tennessee for five days and attend the wedding of Joy Georges and Brad Beach in Knoxville. The time covered one full week, with all details explained in a six-page flyer published by the Beaches.

The newly formed Beach Travel Service had a motto for this one-time occasion: "We provide the sons and fun. You bring your honey and money." There were 300 guests at each wedding and 32 people made the full tour.

Clean Plastic

GREENVILLE, Ohio — In manufacturing plastic sheet, extreme cleanliness is essential when the end user is in the food, dairy, pharmaceutical or medical fields, reports Witt Plastics.

QUESTION-Experts believe that about half of the cocaine entering the U.S. is funneled through Miami, and that 40% comes into the country aboard private planes. Where does this illegally imported drug originate?
a) Cuba
b) Bolivia
c) Peru
d) Brazil

ANSWER-The cocaine trail to the U.S. begins 2,500 miles southwest of Florida on the eastern slopes of the Andes Mountains. The cash-crop cultivation of coca is divided primarily between Bolivia (86,000 acres) and Peru (123,000 acres). The DEA estimates that 23,000 Bolivian peasant families depend on the coca for their livelihoods, and that the crop generates nearly $1 billion a year for Peru, where the entire national budget is just over $5 billion. All but a small fraction of cocaine headed for the U.S. comes first to Columbia, generally as a gooey coca paste, for final refining into crystalline white cocaine.

New books at Akron Library

New books available to the public at the Akron Library are:

Morgette in the Yukon by G.G. Boyer--This is a rousing tale that blends steamship races, blizzards and a harrowing glacial flood with a tender and complex love story.

Nekkid Cowboy by Katie Breeze--This is narrated by a strong minded woman of 80-odd years who has seen a West Texas community move from the sharing spirit of the frontier to become an arena of conflicting ambitions.

Sumitra's Story by Rukshana Smith--Sumitra was eleven when the Patel family immigrated to England, forced to leave their comfortable home in Uganda by the new policy of Africanization. She could speak a little English, but all her knowledge of English life came from her school reader.

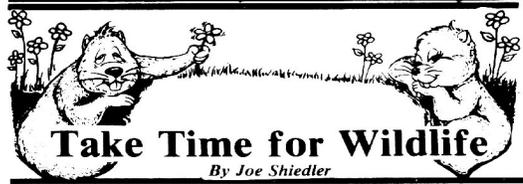

Suddenly Sumitra found herself the family representative and decision maker, as she filled in forms, talked to social workers and tried to explain to her bewildered parents and little sisters what was happening to them as they were swept into the immigration system.

Jeweled Path by Rosaland Lake--As the only daughter of Edmond Lindsey, eminent London jeweler, Irene Lindsey had inherited a passion for gemstones. Knowing her father's disposition, Irene is delighted when he approves her admission to a modern-thinking school of jewelry design. Here is a novel rich in history and radiant with love.

Tough Times Never Last, But Tough People Do by Robert H. Schuller--Schuller couples a dynamic faith with specific guidelines for managing your problems creatively, beginning with what could be the most important prayer you've ever prayed - the prayer for guidance to know when to hold on and when to let go.

Aunt Arle, A Foxfire Portrait edited by Linda Garland Page and Eliot Wigginton. Eliot Wigginton, founder and director of the Foxfire Fund, Inc. which has created the best selling Foxfire books (based on the people and places and "affairs of plain living" in Southern Appalachia) describes the talkative, wise, funny, and utterly charming lady - Aunt Arle.

A heavy dew is actually the portent of good weather. On cloudless nights the earth loses its heat more rapidly, and a heavier dew results.

Should Squirrel Season Be Lengthened?

Squirrel hunters are a unique breed. No other game hunter is spurred by hot weather to get motivated for an upcoming hunting season because no other game hunter has collected fine memories on muggy August mornings. And for some squirrel hunters, getting motivated includes directing questions to the Department of Natural Resources regarding current squirrel season regulations.

Like last year, the 1983 legal season for taking squirrels in Indiana will be split. The dates are August 15 - October 8, November 6 - November 12 and December 19 - December 31. As usual, the daily bag limit will be 5, possession limit 10.

There is a desire among some squirrel hunters to see an open season beginning August 15 and extending straight through the end of the calendar year. Some adjacent states offer such a season, and on most State Fish and Wildlife Areas the August 15 - December 31 season is used with no apparent negative impact on squirrel numbers. That is, nearly doubling the period when bushytails may be taken does not result in a harvest of more than the annual surplus.

There is no official proposal to have Indiana's squirrel season changed, but if the proposal surfaces, the Division of Fish and Wildlife will have no biological basis for rejecting it, because interest in squirrel hunting declines as other seasons open. Hunters simply spend less time pursuing squirrels when deer, rabbits, ducks, quail, pheasant, grouse and raccoons are legal game. But some hunters would like the freedom to take a squirrel, should the opportunity present itself, while hunting other game, and so are requesting the lengthened season.

With no biological basis for rejecting a proposal to extend the squirrel season, hunter reaction must be considered. If you are a deer bowhunter, for example, what is your reaction to the thought of having legal squirrel hunters in the woods with you? Does the idea boost your blood pressure or would you welcome the freedom to bag a fox squirrel from your tree stand? If you are a dedicated squirrel hunter, would you prefer more opportunity to hunt following leaf fall or are the current November and December seasons sufficient? Maybe you would vote for extending the season through December but holding off opening day until September to eliminate the occasional taking of lactating females?

Your opinion on this matter is very important. It is the tendency of many sportsmen to keep quiet until laws are passed, then to become quite vocal in expressing dismay. Now is an early opportunity to let your views be known. Remember, it is just as important to express your support for a continuous, lengthened squirrel season as it is to let the Division know you are against such a season.

Please let your opinion be known by writing Joe Scheidler, division of Fish and Wildlife, Rt. 4, Box 47, Peru, IN 46970.

Beaver Dam Nursery School currently enrolling

The Beaver Dam Nursery School is currently enrolling 3, 4, and 5 year olds for the 1983-84 school year.

We would like to give you a brief look at our school. We focus on short units of study during the year which include: I Am A Special Person, Safety, Health, Fall, Indians, Being Thankful, Apples, Christmas, Valentine's Day, Spring, Birds, Farming and Animals.

A typical day includes such things as Sharing, when the children bring things from home to share, they learn to take turns and express themselves. Center Time, when the children are free to choose from many activities set up in the room. This time may look like "just play" but a great deal of learning takes place. Some favorites are the block corner, painting at the easel, dressing up, listening to records, play dough or playing a game. The art activities during this time are designed to develop creativity and self-confidence. Music, we learn singing games, action songs and finger plays. Snack Time, the children say a prayer before we eat and the child that brought the snack for the day shares it with the others. Sometimes we prepare our own snacks such as applesauce, popcorn, waffles, eggs, cookies, etc. Outside Play, when the weather permits we try to include outside playtime each day. Story Time is a restful time to share our favorite stories as well as learning good listening skills.

Field Trips during the year include such places as our local doctor's and dentist's offices, grocery store, veterinarian clinic, apple orchard, local farms and the Tree House Farm.

We try to provide time for parent visitations and a Grandparents Day before Thanksgiving. We also have speech and hearing screening provided by our local schools.

Our main goals during the year are to help each child develop a positive self-concept, achieve mental and physical skills commensurate with their ability and that they learn tolerance and respect of others. We try to achieve this through Christian love and guidance.

Anyone interested in enrolling may come to Beaver Dam United Methodist Church on August 9 from 7 - 9 p.m. or call Pam McFarland, 893-7049 or Debbie Gray, 893-7192.

FIRST AID AT YOUR FINGERTIPS

The practice of putting finger pressure at one or more of 115 pairs of G-Jo points on the body in order to disrupt pain signals through the nervous system is a technique which originated in the Orient thousands of years ago. There are only two vital rules for using G-Jo, both of which can easily be mastered with a little practice.

The first is to find the right pressure point. The specific spots may be a little difficult to locate at first, and you must use the tip of your thumb or forefinger to probe the area as deeply as you can. You'll know when you've hit a pressure point though. It will announce itself with a twinge of sensitivity much like that associated with a pinched nerve or a toothache.

The second requirement is to stimulate the pressure point properly. Massage the spot with a digging, goading motion... again, using the tip of the thumb or forefinger. Usually, 10 or 15 seconds of treatment is enough to unblock the right control point and relieve the problem completely or at least to ease substantially the discomfort. If the symptom returns, simply restimulate the point.

The primary G-Jo point to control problems of the head and neck is G-Jo No. 13. To locate this spot, push your left thumb and forefinger together until the fleshy mound appears between them on the top of the hand. Place the tip of your right thumb on top of the mound, then relax your left hand, keeping your right thumb in place. Now, reach beneath the webbing with your right index finger and place it in the left palm, make a pincher, and probe deeply with the tip of your thumb. You should immediately feel the characteristic twinge. (When using this or any G-Jo point, it makes no difference which side of the body you begin with... just be sure to stimulate both identically.)

Another major pressure point - G-Jo No. 4 - can be found approximately two inches above the most prominent crease of your wrist on the upper side of the forearm, in line with the middle finger, in a protected hollow between the lower arm bones. G-Jo No. 4 influences the hand, arm, and shoulder. Therefore, it's very effective in alleviating the pain of tennis elbow or tension in the neck and shoulders, as well as symptoms of hypoglycemia.

G-Jo No. 10 is a pressure spot that's sometimes taught in Western first aid courses as a means to control bleeding. The point is located directly beneath G-Jo No. 1 between the tendons on the underside of the lower forearm, in line with the middle finger. This is an important point for treating such diverse problems as menstrual cramps, seasickness, and hiccups... but its primary use is to control asthma and other problems of the chest area.

To locate G-Jo No. 7, simply measure the width of one hand directly above the bulge of the inner ankle. The tiny point lies just behind and almost touches the shinbone. It's actually between the shin and the calf. This spot is used to ease menstrual distress, nausea, and indigestion.

G-Jo No. 5 can be of special aid to lower back-pain sufferers. To locate it, simply probe the area behind the bulge of the outer ankle, just in front of the Achilles tendon. The point is found in the hollow—or soft, valleylike area—there, though it may be a little off-center.

Except in emergencies, it's best to wait about four hours after taking any drugs, medication, or alcohol to use G-Jo. And give yourself about half an hour after a hot bath, a full meal, or physical work or exercise. Also, pregnant women and folks who suffer chronic heart problems should shun regular use of acupressure.

Healthier Food

SAN FRANCISCO — The average American consumes about 1,500 pounds of food annually. Average food consumption has varied little during the past 20 years, according to Del Monte Corporation.

The company recently completed a study that shows 70 percent of consumers interviewed believe they are eating healthier foods now than a few years ago. This is reflected in sales of "natural" preservative-free foods, which have increased 550 percent since 1972.

WonderWorld

CORBY, England — Promoters of WonderWorld, the British version of Disneyland, say work on the project is expected to begin on a 1,000-acre former iron ore pit this summer and continue over the next decade or so. A bowl will be bulldozed out of the pit, and a massive roof erected over exhibits and rides centered on various themes.

How to make a decorative planter

By LIS KING

Decorative planters for the patio or porch are hard to come by. The standard wood, clay and plastic tubs available from garden centers are fine when they are abloom with flowers, but the rest of the time they don't contribute much to their surroundings.

The answer is custom-decorated planters of course and, if you are the slightest bit artistic and handy, you can create them yourself. Covering up one of those standard planters with ceramic mosaics is the best way of all.

For those tiny tiles are waterproof; they come in an unbelievable range of colors; they are mounted on mesh or paper backing for easy installation; and they can wrap around and follow the contours of most any pot, planter or tub.

Decoratively speaking, you might adorn your planter with a border, an over-all pattern, a monogram, your house number, stripes or art deco waves. Or you may just want to give it a smashing permanent color. Whatever your choice, ceramic mosaics will stand

You can tile over most materials, including wood, concrete, plaster and plastic, and you will find today's adhesives easy to work with.

Collectively, these adhesives are called thin-sets, but within this group there are different types, so consult your tile dealer on which one to use for your particular situation.

To tile the planter shown here, start with a large, round tub. Apply adhesive with a notched trowel, a small area at a time. Cut the sheets of mosaics to fit from top to bottom. Press firmly into place, with a slight twisting motion.

To make room for border design, cut out design in two rows toward the top. Fill in with tiles of contrasting color. Wait 24 hours or so. Apply grout with squeegee. Clean excess grout off the face of the tile. Plant with your favorite flowers or greenery, and enjoy.

According to the Tile Council of America, ceramic mosaics in wondrous colors are produced by American Olean Tile Co., Lone Star Ceramic Co. and Winburn Tile Manufacturing Co.

Check the "Tile — Ceramics" category in the telephone book to find retail outlets in your area. Outside of a notched trowel you are not likely to need special tools for a planter, but if you do need tile nippers or a tile cutter, they may be bought or rented from your ceramic tile dealer.

A detailed leaflet on tiling in general, and tiling of floors, walls and counters in particular, is available at 25 cents from the Tile Council of America, P.O. Box 2222, Princeton, NJ 08540.

Some words to the wise concerning wisdom teeth

Wisdom teeth, so-called because they occur in the mid-teens, supposedly the onset of the "age of wisdom," cause more trouble than any other teeth in the mouth.

In nine out of 10 persons, at least one wisdom tooth, technically called a third molar, is impacted — trapped beneath the gum line with no room to erupt. When this condition arises, doctors advise removing the tooth.

Current scientific data now reveals that impacted wisdom teeth are best removed before age 24. This discovery was made by a group of five Detroit oral and maxillofacial surgeons in a study of 15,000 third molar extractions.

"This is the first time that we can scientifically pinpoint a cut-off age for the most favorable removal time," explained Dr. Irwin Small, one of the five oral surgeons who contributed findings to the five year study — the largest one of its kind on record.

Of the 15,000 extractions used in the study, only slightly more than 10 percent had complications following removal of teeth — among the most important of the complications is numbness of the lip.

"What is significant here is that the occurrence of complications was four times higher among patients over 24 years of age." Dr. Small pointed out.

Oral surgeons agree it is wise to remove impacted third molars early, as they can cause infections and in rare cases, the formation of cysts. Partially erupted wisdom teeth often become decayed because their position makes them difficult to clean. This decay-causing bacteria housed in the wisdom teeth may also infect neighboring second molars.

According to Dr. Small, there are many proven reasons for early removal of impacted wisdom teeth including:

- In general, healing is a slower process as you get older;

- With age, roots attach more to bone;

- Because younger patients are less likely to have systemic diseases, surgery can be done more often on an outpatient basis rather than in the more costly hospital setting;

- To avoid infections and decay of the adjacent teeth.

Early removal of impacted wisdom teeth is recommended, preferably before age 24. But, as teens eagerly await the arrival of wisdom teeth, a word of caution is helpful.

Wisdom teeth can erupt fully and normally, and be useful. Under these conditions, there is no reason for removal.

The small letter "a" first appeared during the fourth century. It was a rounded letter used in place of a capital. By about 1500 it was seen in its present shape.

The first fan was made in 1886 by Schuyler S. Wheeler who placed a propeller on the end of a shaft which he turned with an electric motor.

Heavy teenage girls eat less than slender ones

Though many overweight teenage girls fall into the trap of skipping meals or, even worse, munching a candy bar as a substitute for a square meal, a study published in Journal of The American Dietetic Association indicates that the overweight girls actually consume much less food than their slender peers.

Results of the study of 100 high schoolers show that girls with poor eating habits weigh more than those with nutritionally sound diets, but take in almost one-half as many calories.

The group of heavy girls eat less food per day, taking in an average of 1,203 calories, while the group of lean teenagers consumes nearly 2,300 calories a day.

The 100 subjects were chosen from 276 teenagers in Ontario, Canada, who supplied researchers with 24-hour food records. Based on Canadian and U.S. dietary guidelines, researchers chose the top 50 with the most nutritionally balanced diets and the bottom 50 with the worst eating habits.

In surveying the two groups, bodily appearance was shown to play a major role in the way teenage girls eat. Unhappy with their looks, the heavy girls will plunge into undesirable weight loss plans that include skipping one or more meals a day.

Researchers also found that overweight girls spend nearly five more hours a day sitting or sleeping than did the thin teens.

"It's a vicious cycle," says study author Lorry A. Macdonald, of McMaster University in Hamilton, Ontario. "The heavier girls were trying to improve their looks, but because their caloric intake was low, they didn't have the energy for any kind of activity."

"The girls who were happy with their appearance are more active and just the volume of the food they eat allows them to get more nutrients."

To determine whether outside influences affect eating behavior, researchers surveyed the teens on their social class, family size, and whether their mothers are employed.

Responses indicated no significant differences between the two groups, leading the study's authors to conclude that the ways girls perceive their bodies affect how they eat, not the quality or quantity of food on the dinner table, or who prepares it.

CINCINNATI — More than 50 percent of Americans suffer from swelling, varicose veins, phlebitis or other problems resulting from poor circulation in the legs. These disorders have been around since biblical times.

Through the ages, compression of the lower extremities has been utilized for treatment, including plasters and linen roller bandages during Roman times, and laced leather dogskin stockings in the 1600s.

Today, doctors advocate a program of moderate exercise, good posture and hosiery designed to provide medically correct graduated compression to the legs to help leg muscles pump blood through the arteries, reports Futuro Support Hosiery.

Pictured is the newly remodeled and redecorated Deaton Funeral Home located in the former Sheetz Funeral Home in Akron. A combination Open House and "Thanks, Tuck" Day will be held on Sunday, August 14 from 2 to 4 p.m. (News Photo)

Deatons plan Open House, "Thanks, Tuck" Day

"We want to show everyone what we've done and at the same time express appreciation to Ralph Tucker," George Deaton says as plans are announced for a combination Open House and "Thanks, Tuck" day at Deaton Funeral Home from 2 - 4 p.m. Sunday, August 14.

Located in the former Sheetz Funeral Home on SR 14 in Akron, the newly remodeled and redecorated funeral home heralds a return to the community for Deaton and his wife, the former Jean Ann Walters, and the combination of two well-established mortuaries, Sheetz and Hauptert funeral homes.

The Deatons, 1956 graduates of Akron High School, have operated a funeral home in Bourbon for the past 18 years. Delighted to be back in their home town, they admit that as late as last Christmas they had no plans to return. The illness of Tom Hauptert, a long-time friend, changed all that, however, and in rapid succession they purchased first the Sheetz Funeral Home from Darrell King of Mentone and then the Hauptert Funeral Home. The latter will no longer be used for services, but Deaton Funeral Home in Bourbon will continue operation with the Deatons' daughter and son-in-law, Julie and Terry Clemens, living there and working in both towns.

Also helping the Deatons will be Tom Hauptert and Ralph Tucker, who has assisted local undertakers for the past 51 years. Both will be on hand for the open house along with their wives, Alma Hauptert and Imo Tucker.

"I think it's really remarkable that anyone has been as active as Ralph Tucker has been in helping with funeral services," Deaton said as he included "Thanks, Tuck" day with plans for the open house.

Tucker's role has always been that of unlicensed assistant-helping families, lining up cars, moving equipment. For many years, he was on call for ambulance service as well. Head usher at the Akron Church of God for 32 years where his sweet treats became a legend, Tucker estimates he has given nearly three and a half tons of candy to children and fellow ushers. He has also given a total of 319 silver dollars to area men leaving for service. Of these, all but three returned. Two men died and one, his former employer, Tom Hauptert, lost his coin.

Tucker recalls first helping L.P. Jefferies with a home embalming while he was still in high school. "That was the custom then," he recalls. "We embalmed them at home, had the viewing there and later took them to a church for services."

The 1939 Legislature ruled against home embalming, and funeral homes such as are known today evolved, according to Deaton.

Tucker's years of services included work for Ed Case, Charles Moyer and Tom Hauptert. It was during his years with Hauptert Funeral Home that Deaton became acquainted with him, although one of his fondest memories is of the Tuck who fixed all the kids' bikes for free at the Standard station with which he was affiliated for many years.

Refreshments will be served from a tent on the lawn Sunday and guests will be given tours of the remodeled funeral home and have time to share their own reminiscences with Ralph Tucker and Tom Hauptert.

Also present will be the Deatons' children, Jane, Jeff and Julie, and son-in-law Terry Clemens.

Mentone Town Board discusses drainage problems

At a regular meeting, held Monday, Aug. 1, members of the Mentone Town Board once again listened to residents complain about water drainage at their homes. After hearing complaints of Mrs. Linda Oden, trustee Frank Hardesty and Superintendent Steve Shand outlined what corrective measures had already been taken, but Oden insisted her problems were as bad as ever.

Trustee Jim Miller agreed Oden's drainage problems remain severe, despite efforts by the water department to clear the drainage lines. A discussion ensued as to the probability of the existence of a second drain in that area. Hardesty outlined the town's responsibility and what additional steps could be taken, but also pointed out where the property owner's responsibilities begin. President Wayne Tombaugh agreed with Hardesty's assessment.

Janice Ruchie, Rochester, attended the meeting to explain the purpose of the Occupational Development Center. Presently Mentone is covered by a five-county ODC, consisting of Fulton, Cass, Miami, Wabash and Kosciusko counties. Board members questioned Ruchie as to the "Speedy" program, and Ruchie offered her assistance in getting summer help for the town.

Resident Jim Lewis attended the meeting to ask permission to take down two trees on his property, and permission was granted. Before the meeting was over, board members requested Lewis also take down a willow tree in the cemetery that creates prob-

Katie Morris, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Morris, was judged by three doctors at the Fulton County 4-H Club show in Rochester to be the healthiest girl in the county. Katie will represent Fulton County at the state meeting to be held at Purdue University next spring.

The store and barber shop owned and operated by Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Poulson at Beaver Dam, burned Sunday night. Cause of the fire is unknown, although it is believed that it was due to the electric wiring. The Poulsons made their home at the store, having bought the place and moved there from Mentone about a year ago. Mr. and Mrs. Poulson are staying at the J. A. Carter cottage at Beaver Dam Lake until they can make their plans for the future.

A bulletproof Packard, armed with a machine gun and the various other weapons of a young arsenal, drove into Akron last Thursday evening, accompanied by Sheriff Boyd Peterson, County Prosecutor, George Buchanan and a blue coated cop from Hammond. The occupants of the armored car were Steve Sumner, Ray Bryant and Fred Schutz, officers in the Milk-Wagon Driver's Union of Hammond. Their mission here was a friendly one. The armor and the bullet-proof car were merely a protection for themselves against Chicago gangster enemies with whom they are at war. Soon after their arrival, a semi-private meeting was held in the conference room at The State Bank. The purpose of the meeting was to discuss the situation in the local hauler-producer quarrel which has been going on here for some time.

Steve Sumner, 84 year old secretary-treasurer of the Milk-Wagon Driver's Union, was the stabilizing force of the visiting officials. Mr. Brooker of the Pure Milk Association, J. Elmer Landis, local secretary and A.A. Gast and several producers represented the local side of the squabble. The meeting ended with everyone feeling better and a decision to meet later in a smaller group to settle the matter.

All beauty parlor operators in Fulton and the surrounding counties will keep their shops open from eight until six o'clock each week day except Saturday. The hours on Saturday are nine to seven. ## viewpoint

Along with rider education, proper motorcycle licensing is one of the best countermeasures for reducing motorcycle accidents. A motorcycle licensing examiner is the last checkpoint before a new rider gets out on the highway. With effective licensing tests, the licensing examiner can spot a rider who does not possess the skills necessary to ride safely.

In the past, in many states, it was possible to obtain a motorcycle license by weaving through a few traffic cones and coming to a stop without losing control of the motorcycle. Other states had no licensing test at all.

After three years of research, the Motorcycle Safety Foundation developed a standardized motorcycle operator testing procedure. Research shows the test works. In comparison with an existing state test, the Motorcycle Operator Skill Test (MOST) showed a 15 percent reduction in accidents. When coupled with a rider training program, accidents were reduced 21 percent.

In the past, many states believed that no special license was necessary to operate a motorcycle. This is simply not true. Riding a motorcycle requires even more skill, coordination and alertness than driving a car. Thus, a special license is necessary to ensure that all riders possess needed skills for safety.

Standardized motorcycle licensing tests and procedures are the best way to ensure a qualified motorcyclist is riding the streets. The tests should include a written knowledge test which covers the rider's familiarity with the special rules and conditions necessary for safe cycling, as well as a skill test of the rider's actual ability on the motorcycle.

GOOD CITIZENSHIP

Orbiting Ant Farm Launches High School Students' Interest In Science

The first colony in space didn't consist of humans. It was a colony of carpenter ants, launched into orbit on the STS-7 space shuttle. The ants were the subjects in a high school science experiment designed by students who are part of a special program that came about because people in their community cared about helping them find careers in science and engineering.

A metal shop student at Camden High School in New Jersey clamps a metal plate into place inside the canister that carried "Ants in Space" experiment.

Called Orbit '81, the program started when Mr. I.K. Kessler, an executive vice president of RCA (now retired), offered to sponsor a NASA "getaway special" for Camden and Woodrow Wilson High Schools. The "getaway special" program leases leftover space in the shuttle's cargo bay for small, experimental payloads.

The program got off the ground in 1978, and elective science courses such as physics and chemistry have about 50 percent more students than they did two years ago.

RCA engineers came to the schools and lectured on topics such as technology and program management. Eventually, the students decided to send ants into space, to see if weightlessness affects the colony's social structure. ## Technology In Our Lives

Acoustics—Heard About The Advances?

Sound has traveled a long way since the first stereophonic radio program broadcast back in 1955. The program was titled "Sounds of Tomorrow," and listeners were advised to tune in on one station on AM and another station on FM and then arrange their sets about twelve feet apart with equal volume to obtain the stereophonic sound.

The science of acoustics has advanced a lot since then and today acoustical superiority is available for automobiles. A new line of car stereo speakers has been developed that integrates state-of-the-art technology with innovative construction concepts. Developed by Jensen Car Audio, the new speaker line, called the Series 3000, has been enhanced to maximize the fidelity and performance with any accompanying car stereo component.

The new speakers use a new speaker cone, molded from a new blend of polymer and cellulose called P23™. It provides excellent response, less distortion and cleaner sound. P23 resists aging, cracking, heat, humidity and water. They're also easy to install; for example, the three door speakers in this line have a mounting depth of only 1 and 7/8 inches, which allows them to be used in all cars from full-sized to sub-compact.

A line of speakers, it seems, that more and more drivers will be hearing about now and in the future.

Advertising For Disaster

WASHINGTON (Liberty Lobby News Service)—It's a sad fact that things sometimes go wrong in a person's life, who may need help to get back on his feet and into the daily grind again. That's why we have social programs like food stamps, which most of us agree are necessary to benefit the genuinely needy.

But do we need to advertise programs like food stamps? The state of Ohio seems to think so.

The Ohio Welfare Department has started a food stamp drive, which State Sen. Donald E. Lukens sharply criticizes:

"Some woolly-headed bureaucrats in the Ohio Department of Welfare must be out of their minds. Their latest scheme to waste taxpayers' money is the distribution of 50,000 corn and carrot shaped bookmarks that say in colorful print:

"Food Stamps Do Not Cost Anything—

"They are based on your income and resources."

"Can you actually believe that? Food stamps, these welfare administrators dare to say, don't cost us anything.

"Well, I have news for them: food stamps cost plenty. Federal government statistics reveal that by the start of the new fiscal year, the taxpayers of this nation—you and I—will be shelling out $10 billion annually for the food stamp program.

"No truly needy person should go hungry in this country, but we should question government programs that promote the use of various public assistance programs and advertise them as free of charge.

"When this happens, as it obviously has at the Ohio Department of Welfare, a kind of unreal view of the world unfolds. The image that government has all kinds of goodies to hand out—free—is incorrectly promoted with taxpayers' dollars: that welfare subsidies are the right of every person, those both able and unable to provide for themselves, and that government should try to increase the rolls on the public dole.

"This kind of view of American society not only destroys the work ethic but encourages government to devise new kinds of social welfare programs. And these programs are paid for by paper money, constantly being printed by government presses working throughout the country and printing around the clock.

"The current biennial budget in Ohio has about a 20 percent increase in various types of welfare subsidies. The federal budget, due mostly to social schemes drawn in the offices of the much larger Washington bureaucracy, is now approaching $50 billion.

"Where does it stop? We shouldn't condone this kind of promotion of welfare that the carrot and corn-shaped bookmarks represent. It's deception that plays on the minds of children and senior citizens—who are designated to get the bookmarks—and it plays for suckers the taxpayers of this country, who are tired of footing the bill for costly and ineffective programs."

Lukens feels the guy who dreamed up this proposal should be summarily fired, but when you work for the government . . . any government . . . it's tough to get the boot. Obviously, government employees should be concerned with saving taxpayers' money, not looking for additional ways to spend it.

But that's the crazy kind of society we have watched grow around us . . . and if we're smart, we'll do something about it before it's too late.

BUSINESS and the STOCK MARKET

by BABSON'S REPORTS INC.

Economy Enjoys Growing Strength

By Babson's Reports Inc., Wellesley Hills, Mass., August 4, 1983. In the latter part of July the government released its preliminary estimate of how the economy had fared during the second 1983 quarter. The report indicated that the value of goods and services produced (in terms of the 1972 dollar, to adjust for inflation) had scored a sharp advance. The nation's real Gross National Product spurred 8.7% over the reading for the first three months of the year, on a seasonally adjusted annual rate basis. This was a far greater advance than had been generally expected. Indeed, an earlier prediction that the real GNP would post a 6.6% growth for 1983's spring quarter had been deemed an overly generous expectation by many prominent economists, especially since the first quarter had only managed a 2.6% increment.

Improved Confidence Evidenced

The sterling business performance during the second three-month span of 1983 was no fluke. Sparked by a fresh upsurge of consumer spending, industrial production responded with distinct gains above seasonal norms. Also, with business inventories having been drawn down to very lean levels over the course of the preceding year or so, the healthier pace of consumer demand evoked a measure of business buying for restocking, with the result that the net rate of inventory liquidations during the period was slowed to a trickle. The step-up in consumer buying and the emergence of some forward buying evidenced much improved levels of public confidence.

Further Business Gains Ahead

The sparkling showing of the American economy during the past quarter may prove to be the high watermark for the year insofar as the quarterly rate of advance of the real GNP is concerned, but the trend of economic activity is expected to remain upward during the final two quarters of 1983. The staff of Babson's Reports has projected gains of a shade above the 6% mark for the third and fourth quarters in the real GNP. Industrial production is also expected to sustain its upward trend during this second half of 1983.

Economy Has Three Sources Of Strength

Consumer spending should remain an important source of vigor for business over the balance of the year. Inasmuch as the 10% third-stage federal income tax cut managed to escape attempts by some elements in Congress to scuttle, reduce, or delay the tax relief, and with the economy's stronger footing pre-saging increases in personal income from salaries and wages, consumers should continue to spend readily. Unless mortgage interest rates spurt ahead more strongly than now seems likely, new home building should be able to hold near current levels and thus provide a second source of support for economic activity.

A third sector of vitality appears to be shaping up. The persistent, and at times forceful, business inventory liquidation efforts of the past year or so finally appear to have run their course. The evidence of some forward buying to rebuild depleted stocks during the past quarter should spread during the final two quarters of 1983. Businessmen will not want to be caught short of supplies to meet the higher level of demand, particularly now that the economic advance is picking up momentum and appears likely to carry over into early 1984.

Some Worries To Linger

Prospects of mind-boggling federal budget deficits for some time to come will undoubtedly keep the general public wary about what lies ahead for inflation and interest rates, both of which are still pretty much restrained compared with their punishing highs around the turn of the decade. The Babson staff expects some upward movement on both fronts as 1983 progresses toward its terminus, but current indications do not point to an imminent return to levels which had been so repressive to business several years ago. More worrisome over the near term will be the difficult task of squeezing down the jobless rate.

The Way It Was

Grandma's Trunk

Grandma was really quite modern for her time, for she "worked out" in the city for a few years before she married Grandpa.

In the big store where she spent those years she learned a lot about styles and gathered housekeeping ideas that she brought back with her and which added color and interest to her new home.

She didn't have a car to go back and forth. Great Grandpa didn't have one either so he could not take her. So she had to ride on a train and carry her clothing in a trunk. A trunk big enough to contain an entire season's wardrobe, for she could not often come home.

The trunk had to be sturdy enough to ride in the baggage car and perhaps be handled with less than TLC. It had to be attractive enough to serve as a piece of furniture in Grandma's rented room, for she likely didn't have a very big closet and she never completely emptied the trunk, using it as a sort of extra bureau.

To make them sturdy, they were strengthened by wooden strips over the top and strong metal covered the frame. To make them pretty, the metal was enameled a shiny black and studded with tin medallions. Often the top, as on this one, was shiny brass.

Inside was a double tray that lifted out. Small articles could be put in this top part where they would be handy and free from wrinkling. Below was a large area where bulkier clothing could be stored. The inside was usually lined with an attractive paper.

After Grandma married Grandpa and had plenty of closet space, she gratefully turned the old trunk out to pasture. Most attics of old houses held such trunks, and often they were ill cared for and became homes for spiders and mice, which improved them not at all. It is rare to find one in vintage condition. Most of those seen at antique shows now have been painted and the insides are shabby or have been lined with modern paper or fabric, which spoils them as antiques.

If you have an old trunk, respect it and don't — a thousand times don't — modernize it. Keep it as Grandma kept it, to put her dreams in, then retire it to dream its own dreams.

Here's Your Answer

by Pastor Dennis R. Pollock
New Testament
Baptist Church
Culver, Ind. 46511

How should a person respond when they pray about a certain thing and their prayer is not answered?

God always answers our prayers. Sometimes the answer is "no," but they are always answered. I know very well what the question above is asking. You are trusting Christ Jesus as Lord and Savior and have taken a particular request before him in prayer. You believe with all your heart that what you ask is not against God but the thing for which you are praying just has not happened, what now?

Some would say you need only to ask of God one time and to ask more would show a lack of faith. What do the scriptures say?

First of all, we need to remember a few basic principles of prayer. Number One: God does not want us to pray a formula, that is repeating the same words over and over again. See Matthew 6:7 where the Lord Jesus speaks of "vain repetition." As we will see this verse does not discourage praying for someone or thing more than once but rather prohibits such phrases as "Jesus, Jesus, Jesus" or the like in our prayer. There is no set formula to pray.

Number Two: When we pray we must believe. In the Gospel of Mark, Chapter 11 and verse 24 we read, "therefore I say unto you, What things soever ye desire, when ye pray, believe that ye receive them, and ye shall have them." Our attitude should always be a sincere trust in God. We need also to be reminded that we are invited to pray. Hebrews 4:16 Let us therefore come boldly unto the throne of grace, that we may obtain mercy, and find grace to help in time of need."

Probably the best example of a prayer life would be that of Paul the Apostle. Here the Christian life was personified. Paul was a man of prayer from his first encounter with Christ till his last breath on earth. We are given in the Bible one example particularly when God said "no" to Paul's prayers even though he asked three times. Let Paul tell us in his

My Hero, The Horse

Henry Ford, 52 years ago, remarked: "These really are good times, but only a few know it." Well, among those that do know it is John Campbell whose money bag runneth over at The Meadowlands this season. The 28 year old horseman has already earned $3.75 million in 1983. If he keeps racing the rest of the year, John could become rich.

Actually, it's not too difficult to make it big in harness racing these days, if you have everything going for you: the right horse, the right driver, the right place at the right time. The Meadowlands during the week of August 1st certainly is the Land of Opportunity for anyone who wants to make it big. Six days of racing will provide $3.7 million in purses, almost as much as John Campbell has made, with the one million dollar Hambletonian Stake on Saturday. Hambletonian, the horse for whom the race is named, would have taken a hundred years to earn that kind of money.

Hambletonian, you know, is Big Daddy to all those trotters who'll be lining up behind the starting gate for this 58th renewal of his namesake race. Habletonian, himself, was not a race horse. He was an incurable romantic. Fathered over 1300 little horses and, in so doing, earned his owner William Rysdyk nearly a quarter million bucks in stud fees. How much would that be worth in today's economy? Multi-millions, I suppose. So let's forget about Hambletonian having to work a century to earn a million. He earned his keep in a quarter of the time.

Money in those days, I'm talking about 1865 and thereabouts, went a long way. William Rysdyk supported a bunch of people on the money received for Hambletonian's services. In the census taken that year Rysdyk listed his home in Chester, New York, as having a $10,000 value. (He placed a hundred thousand dollar value on Hambletonian!) His 55 acre farm was worth $5,500, a hundred an acre, and on that farm there lived some folks: Harmon Showers and his family. Harmon was 38 years old at the time, lived with his 35 year old wife, Celia, and their children in a $200 framed house. He was Hambletonian's caretaker and supported a big family on a caretaker's income.

The Rysdyks also had some kids plus a 21 year old niece, Emma Cowdry, from Illinois who lived with them. Add to the list a couple of teenage Showers children and an Irish gal, all of whom worked for the Rysdyks as servants, plus another fella, Rubin Marvin, a laborer. And finally, there was Guy Miller, brought down from "Chimney" (Chemung) County in 1854 when he was 17 to take full charge of Hambletonian. The horse is not only Big Daddy to trotters and pacers racing today, he was Big Daddy to the Rysdyk clan back then, too.

The residents of Chester looked upon him as their hero, also, and they became quite possessive of anything that related to the horse. A few years after his death, some of Hambletonian's admirers passed the hat to build a tribute to this nationally revered animal. Nothing happened for awhile but finally a towering granite marble monument was erected in Chester near the place where he had lived all his life. Before that happened, however, John Wallace came up with a suggestion that nearly got him lynched: "Build a lifesize bronze statue of Hambletonian and put it in New York City's Central Park." Wallace was a controversial figure in harness racing who came out with the Wallace Register, the first serious attempt to list the pedigrees of the American trotting horse. His suggestion of placing Hambletonian's statue in the Big Apple made him all the more controversial. One Chester resident summed up the feelings of all his neighbors: "Don't try to give Central Park what justly belongs to us and to our old hero, the greatest horse the world ever saw."

And so the pigeons of Central Park lost a statue.

own words, "And lest I should be exalted above measure through the abundance of the revelations, there was given to me a thorn in the flesh, the messenger of Satan to buffet me, lest I should be exalted above measure. For this thing I besought the Lord thrice, that it might depart from me. And he said unto me, My grace is sufficient for thee: for my strength is made perfect in weakness. Most gladly therefore will I rather glory in my infirmities, that the power of Christ may rest upon me." Notice God did not rebuke Paul for asking more than once but rather revealed His will for him. NEW VAC HAS ADJUSTABLE POWER

Consumers who want a vacuum cleaner powerful enough to remove embedded dirt from a thick carpet yet gentle enough to clean sheer curtains or fine upholstery fabrics can find both features in the new Vactronic electronic vacuum cleaner, reports The Eureka Company. By means of solid state electronics, the user can fine-tune the Vactronic's motor to the most effective level for each cleaning task. Its adjustable suction power can be increased up to 4.0 peak horsepower for heavy-duty vacuuming chores, or reduced to a fraction of that strength for delicate items.

According to the manufacturer, the Vactronic is also noticeably quieter than most other vacuum cleaners, and can even be used while talking on the telephone.

The Vactronic comes with a complete set of cleaning tools and has a suggested list price of $399.95.

PSC reduces NIPSCO request

The Public Service Commission of Indiana in its order issued recently reduced Northern Indiana Public Service Company's requested rate increase by $78.3 million or 32%.

NIPSCO requested an increase in revenues of $240 million or 29.6%. The Commission granted an increase of $161,684,000 million, which will provide a 20% increase in gross revenues.

The main area of reduction comes in the form of a reduced rate base. The utility asked that investments valued at $2 billion be included in its rate base. The Commission denied NIPSCO's investments in the SO2 System at Unit #11 at the D.H. Mitchell Generating Station of $10.8 million, a cash working capitol allowance of $35.8 million and the value of the excessive fuel inventory amounting to $57.7 million. The total rate base reduction was $121.6 million. Therefore, rate base authorized totals $1.9 billion.

The Commission found that the SO2 System at Mitchell was not used and useful, therefore should not be included in the rate base. Also, Petitioner failed to show that investor supplied cash working capitol was needed to pay day-to-day expenses, and for that reason an allowance for such was denied. Further, the Commission found that Petitioner has continued to maintain an excessive fuel inventory and for the third rate case in a row substantially reduced the amount NIPSCO requested in rate base for fuel inventory.

Additionally, the Commission allowed NIPSCO a rate of return of 10.39%, instead of the 11.23% the utility had proposed.

As a result of the Commission action, residential customers will experience an approximate 20% increase, and other customer class increases will range from 18.5% for small commercial customers to 19% for large industrial ones.

NIPSCO serves approximately 360,000 customers in 22 northwestern Indiana counties. NIPSCO was granted its last rate increase on August 11, 1982.

Smoking is the Number 1 risk factor for heart disease. The risk of heart attack is doubled in heavy cigarette smokers.

Fortunately, if you stop smoking, the risk decreases almost to the same level as for people who have never smoked.

If you have any questions about heart disease, see your doctor.

health hints

Many people would not rate acne as a serious health problem. The anxiety, embarrassment and alienation often associated with acne, however, are very real and serious problems to millions of young people.

Even when acne disappears on its own—as it usually does—it can leave behind unsightly blemishes that will not go away. For this reason, even mild cases of acne may warrant medical care.

Dermatologists—doctors who specialize in the care of the skin—emphasize that no form of acne is too mild or too severe to be helped by treatment. Dermatologists, when treating patients who have acne, take steps to reduce the rate at which sebum (natural oil) is produced, work to unblock the follicle pathway through which sebum flows to the skin's surface, to eliminate or reduce bacteria in the follicles and to reduce inflammation caused by the progression of the disease.

Dentures - Handle With Care

When is the most dangerous time in the life of dentures (sometimes called false teeth - but not by dentists)? The most dangerous period is when your dentures are out of your mouth!

Dentures should be handled carefully when they're out of your mouth. Dropping them even a few inches into a washbowl can break them. Hold your dentures over a towel or a basin half-filled with water. Then, should they slip from your hand, there will be a cushion to help prevent damage.

When dentures are out of your mouth for any length of time, they should be placed in water or a cleansing solution. If they become dry, they can warp. Dentures should NEVER be placed in hot water. Hot water can warp the plastic.

If your denture does break, do not try to put it together yourself. Solvents found in some glues can damage denture plastics and irritate your mouth. It is almost impossible to precisely align broken parts. If you try, the denture will fit poorly and be useless or, even worse, harmful. Go directly to your dentist for repair.

DRUG QUIZ

by Curt Scarborough, Ph.D. Used by permission; all rights reserved by DATE, St. Louis, Mo.

QUESTION-Which nation has the highest rate of drug abuse of any developed country on the globe?

- a) Germany
- b) Japan
- c) Soviet Union
- d) United States

ANSWER-West Germany has the most serious heroin problem among European nations, but the situation is worse in America. The Soviet Union has negligible drug problems, although it suffers heavily from alcoholism. Japan has the lowest illegal drug consumption of any developed nation.

Americans may flinch when they hear the United States described as a drug-happy society, but the facts are indisputable: Illicit drug use per capita in the U.S. exceeds that of any other industrial nation.

JUNE FULLER

THE COUPON CLIPPER

Wary minister eyes trasher

By June Fuller Here's a "trashing" story I thought you might enjoy.

As an invited guest of my daughter and her family, I attended a potluck dinner at their church. One long table displayed delicious homemade dishes, while at another, several ladies prepared and served beverages that included canned fruit drink. Being an avid refunder, I was immediately aware of the brand of fruit drink being used. It was a brand that had a refund I was working on and I needed several of those labels to complete the offer. I mentioned this to my daughter.

"I'll try to get them for you, Mom," she said, "but I'd prefer to wait a while, so it will be less conspicuous." I agreed.

A little later, after the crowd around the tables had thinned, my daughter, trying to appear as nonchalant as possible, made her way to the trash can behind the beverage table. By now, most of the fruit drink cans and their prized labels were sharing space in the trash can with everything from paper plates to coffee grounds. Nevertheless, she bent over it and was intently picking her way through it when her pastor, sporting a quizzical expression, appeared suddenly beside her.

In a soft-spoken and kindly minister's tone he said, "My dear, that's really not necessary. If you're still hungry, I'm sure we can find you something from the buffet table." - A.T., Batesville, Ark.

Dear A.T.: I hope that Mom came to the rescue and provided an explanation for an embarrassed daughter. Those of us who do some occasional trashing, remember the unusual experiences and amusing incidents long after we have forgotten the refunds that our "sport" produces. Thank you for a lovely letter.

Dear June: As an avid refunder for the past few years, I was disappointed that my husband, a bank vice-president, was not very enthusiastic about helping me save proofs of purchase. My 5-year-old son scolded him for throwing candy wrappers into the trash, and I feared that many valuable proofs would be lost if I didn't keep a close watch on my careless spouse.

This week, my fears were dispelled when my husband came home from work, removed two battery display cards from his briefcase and put them in my "to be sorted" bag. He told me his assistant had bought the batteries for a calculator and was going to throw the cards in the waste basket. He said he retrieved them saying: "Don't you realize that you're throwing away money?"

Needless to say, I was thrilled, and I can breathe easier now knowing that my husband, once indifferent about smart shopping, has finally seen the light.

MAKING FAMILY LIFE MORE FUN

Many families are finding that a really down-to-earth way to get together for fun is to get into an uplifting hobby.

One such is building and flying—model airplanes. Once regarded as an activity primarily for youngsters, the average age for a model aviator today is 37. The planes they fly can be scale models of full-size aircraft or original creations. They can be sailplanes, powered, or fly indoors or outdoors.

The Academy of Model Aeronautics has a membership of more than 86,000. It is a non-profit organization dedicated to serving the modelers and acts as liaison between members and government agencies. It also offers low cost insurance, publications, and other member benefits.

You can get free leaflets on the sport and the Academy by writing to The Academy of Model Aeronautics, Dept. NAPS, 1810 Samuel Morse Drive, Reston, VA 22090.

The Akron United Methodist Church is celebrating 80 years in the present church building on Sunday, August 14.

Hold the salt ...

If we say that someone is worth his salt — or is salt of the earth — we're paying that person a great compliment. That's because salt is valuable and versatile.

Salt helps cure meat and fish, helps inhibit bacterial growth in such foods as bacon and bread, forms brine for such foods as pickles and olives, and it enhances flavors.

But there's another side to salt. It has become clear that salt — or the sodium in salt — can contribute to hypertension (high blood pressure) and that restricting salt can help in lowering blood pressure.

It's estimated that more than 30 million Americans have hypertension. Hypertension increases the risk of stroke and coronary heart disease. Hypertension is caused by many things but sodium has been identified as one factor which can lead to it.

The Michigan Dept of Public Health says between 10 and 20% of the population are sodium-sensitive but it's impossible to predict which persons are and which aren't. Health officials report that persons with a family history of hypertension are more likely to develop it, that overweight people have higher incidences, and that blacks are twice as likely as whites to develop it. These people have been warned to restrict sodium intake.

That's not as easy as it might seem. Actually salt used at the table and in cooking contributes only about 1/3 of all salt consumed. The rest comes from food, especially processed foods. Cutting back on sodium requires some knowledge of the sodium content of foods.

Unfortunately, foods do not have their salt contents on the label. A company may list salt as an ingredient, but it need not list the amount of sodium.

The best suggestions for watching salt intake include:

- Read the label, even though quantities aren't listed, terms such as salt, sodium, or soda will tip you off to the presence of sodium.

- Don't use salt in cooking and remove the salt shaker from the table.

- Cook more from scratch and avoid convenience foods.

- Beware of prepared seasonings and flavorings. This doesn't mean you need get along without seasonings — herbs, spices, lemon juice, salt-free garlic and onion powders and home made catsup, mayonnaise and salad dressing can dress up foods very pleasantly.

Remember, the taste for salt is acquired and the threshold for salt goes down after a short time. In fact, once you go on a sodium-restricted diet, your taste buds adjust and often you can't go back to salty foods at all.

... or pour it on?

Excerpted from U.S. News

Okay. So doctors say that too much — whatever that means — salt is bad for lots of people. But anybody who says he doesn't find salt finger-lickin' good either has adjusted to a special medical necessity or is somewhat tasteless.

As one who'd hate to live without salt, I think it's time to remind its multiplying detractors that without salt millions of people wouldn't have been able to stay alive. I'll bet salt gets a bum rap in many cases of high blood pressure when more likely its bosses at home and in the office as well as multiple other irritants that are the culprits.

This pro-salt outpouring is prompted by Robert Farrar Capon's great column recently in the New York Times, from which I'll happily sprinkle these extracts upon that essential seasoning's maligners:

"Without salt we would not only have difficulty being well, we would not be here at all. All life came from the salt sea, and all our history has been salted as well. Salt's preservative properties made it a symbol of enduring compacts (the Old Testament records a 'covenant of salt'). Its necessity in climates without ice made it precious (salt was offered in sacrifices to God); its preciousness made it a measure of labor (he who earns a salary is worth his salt); its sovereign use as a seasoning — its ability to sharpen and deftly, to give balance and point to the taste of food — made it the perfect metaphor for all that is unmistakable in life (a salty character, a salacious dance); and to think of life without it was the very antithesis of wisdom (if salt loses its savor, it becomes, literally, foolish: The Greek is moranthe).

"Eating a meal that has had salt poured over everything on the plate is like reading a book with too many exclamation points: The punctuation becomes the message. Yet to cook without salt (save for sound and personal medical reasons), or to undersalt deliberately in the name of dietary chic is to omit from the music of cookery the indispensable bass line over which all other tastes and smells form their harmonies.

"Down with this trendy blaming of substances when the problem lies, obviously, in the dose!"

TVHS conducts survey

There has been a great deal of attention given to how education can be improved in the past few months. Suggestions have come from many individuals and committees and have been general enough to include many varieties of school corporations. In order to meet the needs of the students at Tippecanoe Valley High School a survey is being conducted by the Career Education and Counseling departments. The goals of this comprehensive survey are to gain knowledge of the job preparation skills businesses feel are necessary for a graduating senior; understanding those qualities which cause students to not be hired or lose their jobs; learn which job preparation skills will require increased or decreased emphasis over the next decade; and give employers a chance to make any other helpful comments. The compiled results should aid Valley students in being successful after graduation and help Valley teachers in revising curriculum. The results should also produce better candidates for future job openings.

The survey is to be completed by business, industry and agencies that employ 10 or more people. Any organization that has not received a survey and would be willing to complete a copy of the Business and Education Survey, please contact Sandra Carmichael in the Tippecanoe Valley Guidance and Counseling office at 353-7888 or 893-7221.

"Gladys," said the boss, "who told you that you could neglect your office duties because I gave you an occasional kiss and pat?" "My attorney," replied Gladys.

"What's the idea of doing your car up like that?" we asked. "It's for when I get hauled up before the judge for speeding," said our young-man-in-a-hurry. "You ought to hear the witnesses contradicting one another."

"Don't you know what I mean when I hold up my arm," hollered the traffic cop as an old lady was about to cross the street against the lights. "I ought to," she replied. "I was a school teacher for twenty-five years."

"Mind nagging me a little? I'm standing to fall asleep."

BARTLESVILLE, Okla. — A minor modification reduces by about 10 percent the amount of high density polyethylene needed to make the plastic gallon milk bottle so widely used throughout the country. Phillips Chemical developed the machinery modification for the dairy industry. It is one of the nation's major producers of the plastic. The modification distributes the plastic more efficiently while the bottle is being made, while still retaining the bottle's strength.

Pest of All Times
GREENSBORO, N.C. — Cockroaches have remained virtually unchanged from more than 300 million years ago, when they were the most prevalent creatures on earth. The cockroach has no natural enemies, and is extremely adaptable to various environments. A healthy female can produce thousands of offspring during her lifetime. Cockroaches are even immune to levels of radiation fatal to higher life forms, says the maker of Spectracide insecticides.

Some painful foot problems may be caused from tight socks rather than tight shoes. Loosen socks or hose over the toes before putting on shoes.

Clean your hood fan and vent over your stove several times a year to prevent fire and poor ventilation.

Insect stings (bee, wasps, hornets) can be fatal. Watch for symptoms such as respiratory difficulties, nausea, abdominal cramps and diarrhea.

In northern states, mid summer is the time of year to watch out for whitish mildew on foliage of flowers and plants. Avoid watering plants in late evening and check garden shops for a chemical control.

Things My Patients Ask Me - Tension Headaches -

The author of this article, Dr. Siegfried J. Kra, is a specialist in internal medicine and a cardiologist. He is Associate Clinical Professor of Medicine at one of America's most famous medical schools and Director of Diagnostic Cardiology in New Haven. Dr. Kra's most recent book is Examine Your Doctor.

It can come with no warning or it can creep slowly up the back of the neck gripping the head in a tight vise.

You can wake up with it, lie awake at night with it, and walk around all day with it. It can come while stuck in a traffic jam, dealing with rowdy children, at a cocktail party. It is a tension headache and no one is immune.

Tension headache is associated with a myriad of causes. Usually, the person begins to feel emotional or physical stress brought on by anxiety caused by one of the above situations or from sitting in one position for long periods when driving or reading. This stress causes the muscles of the head, neck, and face to become tense leading to a dull, unremitting ache that can extend around the temples to the forehead like a tight band. It can also be felt on either side of the head, at the back of the neck or head, in the temples, or in the forehead. Other causes are depression, eyestrain, poor posture, overconsumption of caffeine, hangover, and so on.

Removing the stress does not immediately alleviate the headache, which can linger for hours after the stress factor is gone. Prevention is always good medicine so try not to sit in one place for too long. Get up and stretch if you can. Be sure your eyeglass or contact lens prescription is up-to-date, and use adequate light when reading or watching television. Keep your back and neck erect; don't slouch in the chair.

But once you've got the headache, one of the most effective and safest remedies is simple aspirin. In study after study on headaches, aspirin has not been outdone by any other over-the-counter pain reliever. If your headache persists over a few days, then by all means see your doctor.

For those who object to aspirin's bitter taste or burning sensation in the mouth or throat, the Bayer Company has added a micro-thin methylcellulose coating which eliminates these unpleasant effects and makes it much easier to swallow. Improved Bayer Aspirin dissolves in the stomach and not in the mouth or throat yet it's as fast and effective as ever. The coating also makes improved Bayer Aspirin more resistant to breakage, chipping, and dusting.

SPORTS SHORTS

One of the longest off-road races in the world is the grueling Baja 1,000 which runs from Ensenada to La Paz, Mexico. Last year's distance was an actual 985 miles run through deserts, mountains, and an occasional road. The event also marked the first win for a three-wheeled ATC.

Great performance on or off the track is given by a new high-performance three-wheeler. Built by Honda, the new ATC200X is a serious competition machine that features a five-speed transmission, manual clutch, large diameter air-adjustable front forks and large disc brakes front and rear.

The new three-wheeler includes a state-of-the-art rear suspension system with adjustable gas-charged shock, advanced steering geometry, and is capable of handling all types of terrain; from desert, to mud, to hard-packed snow.

The original tales of Mother Goose—before the nursery rhymes—were moral tales warning of the dangers of curiosity and trespassing.

PSYCHOLOGY

Many Americans are getting rid of their tensions in an extremely positive and healthful way—they've taken up a sport. Whether you prefer tennis, swimming, golf or basketball, psychologists say, working up a sweat is really one of the best ways to relax. Then, after you've finished exercising, you can refresh yourself with a tall glass of iced tea, with a wedge of lemon on the side. It can put you in a good mood that could very well last throughout your day.

Cooking Hints

On pasta and casseroles, in salads and toasted sandwiches, with bread and fruit or a glass of wine, cheese can fill a hundred chinks in your meal plans with satisfying nourishment. A new book called Betty Crocker's Kitchen Secrets, shares with cooks everywhere authoritative, up-to-date information on cheeses, plus dozens of other culinary hints in categories ranging from Beverages through Vegetables.

To cut Bleu or Roquefort cheese without crumbling, use a piece of dental floss or heavy thread. (To prevent cooked cheese from becoming stringy use low temperatures and avoid overcooking.) Add cheese in small pieces or shreds to casseroles for quick, even melting.

At Monday's regular meeting, Griffis and Tucker considered several items of business.

Discussion was given about a proposed use hearing on spending of Federal Revenue Sharing funds for repair of streets. No date has been set for the hearing.

The board had previously made decisions on preparing ordinances on such items as junk cars, parking and animals. The clerk-treasurer will be taking those ordinances to town attorney Max Reed for preparation.

The Way It Was

Grandpa's iron hitching post

This fancy black iron hitching post was Grandpa's pride and joy. Not everyone had such a handsome one mounted on a smooth wooden post outside the front gate where front-door visitors tied their horse while making a social call.

Grandpa had another post, not so fancy, inside the driveway near the back door where back-door visitors parked and came in the back way. These visitors were usually neighbors stopping with a bit of news or to deliver a package; or the salesman (peddler) with his pack of miscellaneous wares that were especially attractive to the ladies; or sometimes the minister when he came to dinner.

However, on these latter occasions, the minister's horse was usually treated to Sunday dinner too. Grandpa would send Uncle Willie out to unhitch and put him in the "guest" stable in the barn. There he would be given oats and hay and a fresh pail of water, and could spend the afternoon in conversation with Grandpa's horse. We must assume this conversation was not always amiable however, for if one listened he might hear "neigh, neigh," time and again.

Grandma's drop-in lady visitors used the front post. By the time they had maneuvered the buggy into the proper spot where a hitching strap could be tied into the ring in the iron horse's nose, Uncle Willie was already there to perform this chore for the visitor, assist her to alight from the buggy (1 little iron step between the buggy and the ground) and carry her reticule containing her sewing or a slip from her ivory geranium she was bringing to Grandma, or even some peppermint drops for Uncle

Sketch by Gladys Cooper

Willie, if he happened to be a favorite.

Out front the horse waited contentedly, his check rein loosened so he could nibble a bit of grass or turn around to bite away a bothersome bot fly that persisted in lighting on his back. Inside, the ladies visited and sipped tea and examined Grandma's house plants, which she insisted were nowhere as fine as her visitor's (she had examined them on her visit).

Checking the Seth Thomas mantle clock, the visitor said she must get back home to start supper, invited Grandma to call on her "real soon," and found Uncle Willie waiting to do his gentlemanly gestures in reverse. Snugly seated on the velvet cushions of the buggy, the fringed duster carefully arranged over her knees, the visitor started toward home in a gentle cloud of dust.

Once more Grandpa's fine iron hitching post had demonstrated the hospitality of the family in a most elegant way.

Domestic Oils Play Catch-Up

By Babson's Reports Inc., Wellesley Hills, Mass., August 11, 1983. Considering the major bull market that began last August, the response of the leading domestic integrated oils was nothing to write home about. Beset by an energy surplus and expectations of a price collapse it is little wonder that such issues as Atlantic Richfield and Phillips Petroleum lagged way behind for most of the uptrend.

While many number of experts predicted catastrophe because of the oil glut, once the price was cut to more realistic levels and analysts became convinced the $29-per-barrel price level would hold, the domestic integrated energy stocks began to play catch-up. In addition, although the domestics did not experience the psychological filip that occurred among the international oils once the Saudi pricing disadvantage was removed, that was more than counterbalanced by the importance to many investors of knowing that these companies operate in politically stable areas.

Downstream Rebound

The U.S. downstream segment went through a financial blood-bath in refining and marketing in the first quarter of 1983. Indications are that the second quarter recovered to better than break-even because the industry was able to institute product price increases as the economy began to recover. The third quarter may be flat to good depending on the pickup in consumption during the peak driving season. The fourth quarter should be good to excellent, contingent on the weather and the strength of economic recovery. For 1984, downstream activities should show continued cyclical improvement with the extent obviously depending on the U.S. economy continuing to expand as we believe it will.

Gain In Upstream Activities

Exploration and development, curtailed by uncertainties over OPEC pricing, should recover as product prices stabilize. These upstream activities will also benefit from lower drilling costs as companies get more bang for the buck per exploration dollar. Margins should also be aided by firmer crude oil pricing. Natural gas volume should gain from a stronger economic recovery and possibly a colder or more normal winter.

Short-Term Outlook Improving

Both upstream and downstream operations will be significantly boosted by the economic uptrend. While there is some pessimism expressed about the firmness of current crude price levels, OPEC price discipline has proved to be more solid than anyone expected. However, OPEC resolve will be tested as demand moves closer to the current 17.5-million-barrels-per-day ceiling and we expect any new production quotas to be shared equitably. We could even see some modest price increases if world economic recovery proves stronger than currently anticipated. Hence, as the economy and the stock market further improve, integrated domestic oils should continue to catch up to probably will not outpace the overall averages.

Happy School Days!

Vacation time is over and it is back to school again with all kinds of books, learnings, and activities; but there is another school which should never experience a vacation and this is the classroom of the Lord as we sit at his feet and learn of Him.

We have many classes in history; law in Leviticus; poetry in Job, Psalms, Proverbs, and Ecclesiastes; music or songs of praise in Psalms; writing courses in the epistles of Paul, Peter, James, and John; and so it goes. As the 66 books of the Bible are read and reread, the Holy Spirit gives new insights at each reading. "The Comforter, which is the Holy Ghost, whom the Father will send in My Name, He shall teach you all things..." (Jn. 14:26)

Receiving report cards is a way of recognition of school achievement and the believer who obeys God's commandments also has a time of rewards, "for whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap." (Gal. 6:7) A knowledge of the Bible and love shed abroad in our hearts (Rom. 5:5) constitute the best equipment for Christian work.

The aim of graduation is to prepare us to live in this world; whereas, studying the Bible not only prepares us for life now but also for life everlasting. A Christian should "study to shew himself approved unto God, a workman that needeth not to be ashamed, rightly dividing the Word of truth." (2 Tim. 2:15)

Joshua 1:8 tells us that He shall be prosperous and have good success as we meditate on the Bible day and night. "This book of the law shall not depart out of thy mouth; but thou shalt meditate therein day and night, that thou mayest observe to do according to all that is written therein for then thou shalt make thy way prosperous and then thou shalt have good success." Therefore, might your school days in the classroom of the Lord be most meaningful and happy ones!

More Stable Longer-Term Outlook

Crude oil pricing should be a more stable factor in future years as OPEC and non-OPEC producers alike take heed of the lessons of the past. Inflation and interest rates should also be more moderate, lessening the impact of demand swings for domestic integrated oils. If Washington can resist imposing new taxes on energy producers to curb deficits, this would remove one potential stumbling block for the industry. While continued conservation measures will probably mean that the domestics will be faced with a slow-growth consumption future, nevertheless, oil products will still remain one of the basic building blocks of our industrial society. Hence, major domestic integrated energy issues, such as Atlantic Richfield, Phillips Petroleum, and Standard Oil of Indiana, are still viable core holdings in any conservative diversified portfolio.

Here's Your Answer

by Pastor Dennis R. Pollock
New Testament
Baptist Church
Culver, Ind. 46511

What is the Church really all about?
To the great mass of people church is nothing more than a building where people who their very best go on Sunday morning to listen to a minister. I would like for us in the space alloted to examine what "Church" is all about.

First of all, may we from the Scriptures establish the true meaning of a "New Testament" Church. In the Greek text the word "Ekklesia" is used to express what our English translators rendered "Church." The word "Ekklesia" means "Called-out;" that is, a "Called-Out" people. Now in order to be called out you must have been in something. The thing that man is in is sin. This sin is the great divider between God and man. However, a significant thing has taken place for the believer in Christ Jesus. He, who was in this sin, has been, by the regenerating work of the Holy Spirit, brought to a new relationship with God. In the new position we have not only received pardon for sin, but have been placed in a spiritual union with the Lord Jesus.

To fully appreciate the privilege of this union lets look at how the Bible defines "Church."

The Church is known as: John 10:16. Fold-Under a loving tender care of the good Shepherd hearing His voice and following Him.

1 Corinthians 3:16. The Temple of God-The word "Temple" brings before us the thought of worship. God only gets worship today from those who are members of the Church.

Ephesians 1:22-23. The Body of Christ - The body is the vehicle by which a person expresses himself - thus the body of Christ is the unit through which the Lord Jesus chooses to express Himself to the world today.

1 Timothy 3:15. The Pillar and Ground of Truth - In the early days a pillar was also used to post public notices, it was a means of proclamation. The word "ground" means support - thus the Church is the unit which God has ordained

License Branch says check your insurance

In order for a person to buy a new plate or transfer their old plate, it is now necessary to contact your insurance company before going to the License Branch. Usually insurance companies change the policy number some and the branch needs to know the change.

The Bureau of Motor Vehicles is now spot-checking insurance companies and policy numbers. At a recent district meeting, we were told that out of 600,000 registrations checked, 5 to 6% of the insurance or policy numbers are wrong.

So be sure you have the proper insurance company and policy number before you go to the License Branch.

Harness racing at State Fair August 22

A very well blended combination of Grand Circuit, Indiana Trotting and Pacing Horse Association and Indiana Sires Stake harness racing will begin unfolding at the Indiana State Fair, 12:30, August 22.

It well could be the finest exhibition of harness racing in years as horsemen will bid for nearly a half million dollars in purses topped by an expected record Fox Stake purse of more than $180,000. The four-day, five-session extravaganza headed by Fair Director Bill Nash, will include 27 races. And a number of those promise to be recordsetting classics.

Adding to the glamour of the Fox Stake will be the return of the Indiana Sires Stake 2-year-old trot and 2-year-old pace, to be contested for nearly $22,000.

The Hoosier Futurities and the Horseman Stake and Horseman Futurities figure to attract some of the finest trotters and pacers the Grand Circuit has to offer. If weather holds record performances over a very quick mile clay oval easily could be had.

Hoosiers will be treated to a couple of the fastest mares in the state's history as well as the fastest Indiana gal driver.

Dr. Jim Bennett's (Indianapolis) Raven's Arrow (p4, 1:57 2f) Mike Ripley's (Monrovia) Shark Arrow (p4, 2:02.2h) and youthful Nancy Roby, who drove Shark Arrow to her 2:02.2 and 2:02.4 (still another record for two heats, 4:05.1) trips also will be among the drivers on the program.

Adding even more Hoosier flair to the program this year will be the possibility a trio of Indiana owned horses will be in the Fox Stake. Clarence Cunningham (Indianapolis) still has his Crackers filly eligible does Bill White (Carmel) with his fine Keystone Ore and Ray Smiley (Rochester) with his Windshield Wiper. Cunningham's is the only filly entry eligible from Hoosierland.

As always, the best of Hoosier drivers including Jerry Landess, Harold Barnes, Brett Wilfong, Dennis Petty, to name but a few, and the cream of the Grand Circuit including Glen Garnsey, Joe O'Brian, Billy Haughton, Tommy Haughton, Stanley Dancer, Howard Beissinger, Bill Herman, Hakan Wallner, Steve Waller, John Simpson Jr. will put in a sizzling appearance.

The Indiana Sires Stake returned to the State Fair following a strong bidding battle with Frankfurt. It will highlight the Monday, Aug. 22, afternoon program.

Then, a carefully planned mixture of Grand Circuit and ITPHA stakes action will erupt Thursday afternoon and night. Come Friday, Aug. 26, the 3-year-old Grand Circuit filly trotters will hook up in what should be a shocker. Both the filly trot and Horseman Futurity 3-year-old open pace figure to be the highlight of the day's program. Saturday, Aug. 27?

That should be a show in which the 1:54 track record set by French Chef in a Hoosier Futurity when he was just a 2-year-old could go. Considering the explosive crop of 2-year-olds on the loose this year it likely will take a time of less than 1:56 to get a check in the fox. And, some check that should be.

Saturday also will be the day when Hoosiers will get a first hand look at a number of the trotters that appeared in the Hambletonian Trot this year. It also will be the final prep for a number of these fine racing machines before going on to DuQuoin and the Half-million dollar plus trotting class a week later.

As has been the case in recent years, the State Fair Harness Department will take time out to honor persons who have helped the sport over the years.

The schedule:

August 22

2-year-old open race; 2-3-year-old open trot; Indiana Sires Stake 2-year-old pace; Indiana Sires Stake 2-year-old trot; 3-year-old filly pace; overnight trot; overnight pace; overnight pace.

According to Balloon Race Coordinator, James H. Davis, Director of Special Events, 35 balloons have already entered, topping last year's event when 30 balloons lifted off from the Grandstand infield, and more entrants are expected before the entry deadline, Monday, Aug. 15.

A Sobering Statistic

Today, 15 people will be killed or injured by drunk drivers in Indiana alone.

That's a number we won't live with.

Be Warned.

If an officer suspects you of driving while intoxicated, he will offer you a breathalyzer test. Take the test and fail, you lose your license for a minimum of 30 days and spend the night in jail.

Refuse the test and lose your license for a year.

And that's just for a first offense.

Indiana now has one of the toughest laws in the nation. Think twice before you drive intoxicated. It doesn't take much for us to take you in.

If you're in a drunken state, don't drive in this state!

"REST"

In Hebrews 1:3 we read how the Lord Jesus Christ, "when He had by Himself purged our sins, SAT DOWN on the right hand of the Majesty on High." The tenth chapter of the same book tells us why He sat down.

"Every priest, STAND-ETH, daily, ministering and offering oftentimes the same sacrifices, which can never take away sins: But this man [Christ] after He had offered one sacrifice for sins forever, SAT DOWN on the right hand of God...FOR BY ONE OFFERING HE EVER THEM THAT ARE SANCTIFIED." (Heb. 10:11-14).

There were several articles of furniture in the Old Testament tabernacle, but no chair. The priest could not sit down, for the work of redemption was not yet finished. His daily sacrifices only emphasized the fact that "it is not possible that the blood of bulls and of goats should take away sins" (Heb. 10:4).

But this Man [Christ Jesus] sat down, because by His death on Calvary—by that one offering—He paid for all our sins and "obtained eternal redemption for us."

This is why Paul, by divine inspiration, now insists that salvation is "by grace," that "it is the gift of God," received "by faith" and "not of works, lest any man should boast."

God has much for His people to do, but before we can do anything for Him we must learn to trust Him for our salvation, to rest in the finished work of Christ. God is satisfied with Christ's payment for sin and together the Father and the Son are depicted as seated in heaven because the work is done.

And now God would have us simply trust Him, entering into His rest.

"There remaineth therefore a REST unto the people of God; FOR HE THAT HAS ENTERED INTO HIS [GOD'S] REST, HE ALSO HATH CEASED FROM HIS OWN WORKS, AS GOD DID FROM HIS" (Heb. 4:9, 10).

Why cover crops

Over 13.5 million acres, 40% of Indiana's cropland, have enough slope to have serious erosion if special treatment is not applied, according to Stacy V. Odom, Conservation Agronomist, USDA, Soil Conservation Service. One of the special treatments available to farmers is winter cover crop seeding.

Winter covered soils have the potential for 55% less water runoff and 50% less soil even if spring plowed according to past research. If no-till rather than spring plowing is used on these winter covered fields, approximately 95% less soil erosion will occur. To put this into dollars and cents a field losing 10 tons per acre per year conventionally tilled is losing $60/acre/year based on soil value of $6 per ton. This soil value is based on the nutrients which are contained in one ton of an average mineral soil in Indiana. If that same field were cover cropped and no-tilled, soil loss would be reduced to .5 tons and nutrient value lost at less than $3. This net saving of $57/acre does not include the potential saving from reduced drainage sedimentation, cropland depression area sedimentation, decreased yields on field without cover crops due to less available nutrients, decreased soil tilth and much more. If a legume is used as cover, up to 100 pounds of available nitrogen may be produced for the following crop. The University of Kentucky has been researching the nitrogen benefits of cover crops.

Plans to seed cover crops need special attention if cover crops are to be successful. Most commonly used cover crops are rye or wheat. The rate of seeding depends on the method of seeding. If seeding is to be done after harvest, 1 1/2 bushels of rye or hessian fly resistant wheat per acre should be used and lightly disced in. If aerial seeding is done, 2-3 bushels per acre should be seeded. Aerial seeding needs to be done in corn as the leaves begin to drop but before September 30. Soybeans should be aerial seeded in late August as soybean leaves begin to yellow. Many farmers prefer aerial seeding because it allows them to concentrate on harvest only, thereby reducing common fall management pressures.

Many no-till farmers are finding less weed pressures in cover cropped fields as well as more available moisture in July and August.

If you feel cover crops may have a place in your cropping system, check with the local Soil Conservation Service office for free advice on cover crops and their potential for your farm.

Area bridal showers held

The Globe Trotters

Horsemen from all over the harness racing world flew into New York in early August. They arrive from places as far away as Macau, close by Hong Kong, Australians, New Zealanders, Central Europeans and Scandinavians came in. From England, too. They sat down with Canadians and Americans and together started to discuss things of mutual concern and interest—a part of a biennial happening called the World Trotting Conference. This was the eighth meeting of its kind, a sort of Standardbred summit. Missing were representatives from Russia where harness racing has been a popular sport since the Czarist era.

Those were the days in this country when a five cent beer got you a free lunch. Those were also the days when trotting was a year round sport in Russia, long before the Iron Curtain came ringing down. It was a peaceful time, not a war cloud in the sky. The Orloff trotter was Russia's only big gun and the government spent many a ruble getting their home-bred ready to race.

Count Orloff, ten decades before, had founded the breed so they named the horse after him. The Orloff was a healthy specimen. About 15 hands 2 inches high (that's 62 inches at the shoulder), he had strength, endurance and a good disposition, qualities that people would enjoy having. The horse fly in the ointment was this: the Orloff choked on the dust of American trotters. The Russians needed someone to teach them how to win at the races. Enter George J. Fuller.

Fuller was to take charge of a school for horse trainers to be set up at Krenevoi. He arrived in old St. Petersburg after a long, lonely trip across the Russian frontier.

George organized the trainer's school and quickly discovered three things: the military ran the government, the government ran the trotting races. And the horses ran on Tuesday, Thursday and Sunday. Sunday was the big day. Nobody had ever heard of the Blue Laws.

At first he had 25 pupils. It took them four years to graduate and get a diploma. With a diploma, a trainer of trotters in Russia could count on a good job. Some of the graduates remained in St. Petersburg where competition could best be described as unusual. First of all, the race course had two grandstands—one on each side of a two-thirds mile track. Here, the horses raced against time and not against one another. A couple of them would come on the track, one lining up at the quarter pole, the other at the three-quarters. A gong went off and each trotter started out.

Strings stretched across the track was broken by each horse's chest, starting an electric clock. Another string was stretched over the turf and when the trotter hit it the second time, the clock would stop. The track was then cleared and another set of horses made the scene. This went on until all had a chance. The horse and driver with the best time took home the rubles.

In Moscow, the surface of the track was red—symbolic of things to come. It was made of crushed brick and gravel, rolled until hard as asphalt. Cover that with sand and away they'd go. The grandstand was as big as a football field. Atop the grandstand were six lifesize bronze horses hitched to a Roman chariot, that held the driver. It is reported the Russians finally took down the horses, and many years later put up a statue of Stalin. They probably wished they had kept the horses.

Whatever became of George Fuller? Well, he tried his best to train the Orloff trotters to go faster than American horses. They were capable of "brushing"—going at fast speed for short distances. But they couldn't sustain that speed. And so George became known as the Fuller brush man.

Triple-Amputee Vietnam Vet elected to lead Disabled American Veterans

"Just let me die!" whispered the young soldier to his platoon sergeant seconds after a Viet Cong "booby trap" land mine mangled his body.

Unwilling to listen to such talk, the sergeant ordered Dennis A. Joyner to stop wishing for death, telling him he had much to live for. "Right then," the Vietnam combat vet says today, "my whole attitude turned around. I wanted to be a winner - to overcome any obstacle life put in my way."

After losing both legs and an arm, the Apollo, Pa., man found life's obstacles steep, but he came out a winner. Today, his fellow members of the three-quarter-million-member Disabled American Veterans (DAV) chose him to lead their organization through the coming year. The election took place at the DAV's national convention in Los Angeles.

Joyner fears his year at the DAV's helm will be one of the most difficult years in the history of veteran's affairs. "A full decade has passed since the signing of the Paris Peace Accords ended the Vietnam War," he commented. "And so many have forgotten that veterans' benefits are part of the cost of war, that our country has a moral obligation to those who spilled their blood or lost their health while defending us."

"Combine that forgetfulness with the demand for reduced government spending," he continued, "and you've got a real problem for veterans, particularly disabled vets."

In response, Joyner said, he'll work to increase membership in the DAV, a nonprofit association to which more than a third of all service-connected disabled veterans already belong. He's shooting for a million DAV members by 1985. And, Joyner stated, "The DAV needs to further increase its effectiveness in our nation's capital."

Joyner has served the DAV well at the national, state, and local levels. He was elected to several DAV national vice command offices prior to attaining the office of national commander. At the state level, he served as the DAV Department of Pennsylvania second and third junior vice commanders, and he was commander and chapter service officer of DAV Chapter 36 in his hometown of Vandergrift, Pa. In 1977, the triple amputee was selected as the DAV's national Outstanding Disabled Veteran of the Year.

Joyner, the fourth Vietnam veteran to hold a one-year term as DAV national commander, was wounded in June 1969 while patrolling the Mekong Delta in Vietnam as a member of the U.S. Army's 9th Infantry Division. His acts of bravery and devotion to duty earned him many citations, including the Bronze Star, the Purple Heart, Army Commendation Medal, Vietnam Service Badge, and Combat Infantry Badge.

In addition to serving the DAV, the combat veteran is active in civic and church activities. He is a member of the VFW, AMVETS, and American Legion and was appointed to serve on the Pennsylvania Vietnam Herbicide Commission by Pennsylvania Governor Richard L. Thornburgh.

Joyner served four years as the Westmoreland County Juvenile Service Center accountant and was fiscal manager for the Westmoreland County Courts in Greensburg, Pa. In 1979 he was appointed Westmoreland County court administrator, responsible for administration of the eight-judge court system and all court-related offices.

A board member of the Westmoreland County and Employment Training Administration, Joyner is also auditor for his congregation of the United Presbyterian Church.

A 1975 graduate of Robert Morris College, Pittsburgh, Pa., Joyner received his bachelor of arts degree in accounting. He also received an associate of arts degree from the Community College of Allegheny County in 1974.

Joyner lives in Apollo, Pa., with his wife, Donna. He is the father of two young sons, Dennis Jr., and Paul.

New drunk driving law to start

Steve Goldsmith, President of the Prosecuting Attorney's Association, and Dr. George Lukemeyer, President Elect of the Indiana State Medical Association, announced the beginning of a state wide public service campaign to educate the public about Indiana's new drunk driving legislation, effective September 1, 1983.

"If we pull you over, you had better be sober" is the message which will be conveyed on prime time television and radio, as well as newspapers and billboards.

"With an average of eighteen alcohol related fatalities and injuries per day on Indiana's highways, the scope of the problem is pervasive and demands immediate attention. The legislature responded with Senate Bill 171, legislation which promises uniform strict penalties to drinking drivers," Goldsmith said.

He added, "now our job is to announce the new legislation. It's success, which will be measured by fewer accidents, deaths, and injuries, depends upon public awareness of the increased possibility of arrest and the severity of punishment."

Lukemeyer explained that the medical community has been very concerned about the problem of drunk driving. "To translate our concern into action aimed at reducing accidents, we have joined our resources with those of the Prosecuting Attorney's Association. This is the first combined effort of its kind, and over one half million dollars will be spent in publicity and enforcement."

"The problem affects all of us, and the participating media should be complimented for their strong involvement. We hope that by educating the public about the consequences of drinking and driving, we will take significant steps toward reducing the number of drunk drivers," Goldsmith said.

"Ruling is easy, governing difficult."

Tippecanoe Valley board OK's new attendance policy

The first item on the agenda of the Monday, August 15 Tippecanoe Valley School Corporation School Board meeting was to approve $61,300.61 total claims. After Supt. Baxter Paige briefly went over the claims, Jim Royer, school board member, questioned the number of insurance policies held by TVSC, and Royer later made a motion to lump all policies together and therefor save money. Royer recommended that lines 1120 and 1121 be removed from claims due to the lumping together of insurance policies. The board unanimously approved with the Superintendent having the right to keep the policies enforced and keep paying at least 1/12 of the insurance cost until a holding committee has time to investigate the insurance matter. Royer then made a motion to approve the rest of the claims. The rest of the claims were approved.

Supt. Paige gave the financial report. On June 23, 1983 the net payroll was $55,413.78; on June 29, 1983 the net payroll was $10,227.43; and on August 5, 1983 the net payroll was $57,870.90. The payroll was then unanimously approved. The financial report listed the Akron Exchange State Bank account as having $9,817.45 and the Farmers State Bank account as having $17,210.05, leaving the total at $1,039,027.50.

The board announced that there would be a special school board meeting to Set Budget Adoption on August 25, 1983, 7:30 p.m., Administration Building. Paige announced the Building Trades House sale finalized, August 10, 1983. Ownership of Lot 29, Saner Addition, Akron went to Mr. Barr. Paige also asked permission to advertise for bids for the 1983-84 materials and supplies to be used for the Building Trades Home. It was unanimously approved by the board.

John Hill, new principal at TVHS submitted two proposals to the board regarding attendance procedures. The first proposal was to change the school board's policy on attendance and the second proposal being to place the new procedure in the student handbook in order for the policy to be enforced.

One of the major drawbacks according to Hill was that the attendance policy that TVSC has now only deals with high school attendance. Hill said there should be consistency throughout the corporation. Hill had three meetings with students, parents, and administrators prior to submitting the proposal to the board. Hill made five statements to the board concerning the school board's proposed attendance policy.

1. The principal may require a written note or telephone call from a parent or guardian for absence or tardiness.

2. A doctor's statement may be required to the request of the principal in case of prolonged or excessive absence.

3. Examples of acceptable excuses from school are:

a. illness of pupil.
b. death in the immediate family.

c. school sponsored trips.

d. other special situations approved by the principal.

4. Procedures concerning punctuality will be established by each building principal.

5. Medical and dental appointments should be made outside the school day if possible. Students are to be excused without penalty to keep a medical or dental appointment, the only requirements being the student be in attendance at some time during the same school day and the student is responsible for missed work.

The procedures a student will follow when the student is absent was stated by Hill. They are as follows:

1. The parent or guardian should telephone the school in the morning before 9:45 a.m. A representative of the school will attempt to make personal contact with parents of students who are not in school, and whose parents have not contacted the school by 9:45 a.m. in the morning of the student's absence.

2. The parent should send a written note with the student when they return to school. It should include the name of the student, the dates, and cause of absence and the signature of the parent.

3. Report to the principal's office for an admit slip.

4. Students who miss school for five consecutive days because of a communicable disease must present a doctor's slip.

5. Any student who misses more than five days in a semester will be required to obtain a statement from a doctor indicating that the student has received medical attention. On occasions where it is not possible or necessary to see a doctor, the parents are to make personal contact with the school administration or clarify the absence.

Supt. Paige encouraged board to seriously consider approval of the attendance policy changes. Pres. Richard Long stated that the previous policy gave students 16 free days a year. The policy was unanimously approved.

Hill also made one more announcement. This year, students will receive a sticker in order to park at the high school.

The board approved resignations of Barbara Ihnen and Joanne Wortinger. The board accepted a recommendation for Ronald Leichty as Mentone Elementary principal with a two-year contract. Leichty has been a principal the past four years in the South Montgomery School Corp.

Recommendations for new personnel were announced and Jim Royer said he would not vote on the issue and he recommended that all three new personnel recommendations be tabled until the board could have an executive meeting.

The board signed contracts for the bus drivers for the 1983-84 school year. There were four newcomers: Daniel Miller, Bus 28; Duane Hackworth, Bus 29; Evelyn Kuhn, Bus 30; and Aden Moore, Bus 33.

A member of the audience brought up the question of large enrollment at the kindergarten in Akron. The board said that they would look into it, but they had to wait to get Mentone's enrollment.

Bernadine Howard, Classroom Association President expressed regrets to the TVSC board that the TVSC teachers are entering another school year without negotiating a contract. Ms. Howard said, "We agreed not to use professional negotiators, but teachers need to be secure and happy in order to do their professional jobs. I don't feel you can do that when you're worried about your job security. I hope the board does everything in their power to prevent an ongoing situation."

At the close of the meeting, Royer suggested that someone should introduce the three new principals in the TVSC to the local towns and people. Supt. Paige recommended a tea for the new principals at the high school. A date will be announced at a later time.

Erie-Lackawanna grounds to be given to Indiana

The abandoned Erie-Lackawanna Railroad right-of-way will be given to the State of Indiana for recreation and natural resources. The strip of land, from Decatur through Huntington and ending at Hammond, was never meant to be commercialized according to L.B. Foster Co. of Pittsburgh. The company acquired the railroad line in 1975 through bankruptcy proceedings and salvaged steel rails and railroad ties.

The state may use the property

Exploded Phenoms

The world was waiting for the sunrise in 1903. It had been waiting a hundred years or more for this special moment. But it had never arrived. Suddenly, it was so close you could almost taste it. And then something terrible happened; the moment everyone had been waiting for now seemed far away once again. Just because of that man!

Light-harness horsemen - they differentiated between "light-harness horsemen" and those that drove "heavy-harnessed" horses in those days--were disappointed when C.K.G. Billings bought a trotter named Lou Dillon. Any other horse but that one. Lou Dillon was, hopefully, the special moment they had been waiting for. She was hailed as the coming two-minute trotter. And Billings was a matinee horseman who never raced his horses in professional events. Lou Dillon, they thought, would be lost to the tracks. She would never achieve her potential as a matinee performer.

Wrong.

C.K.G. may have been among the five richest men in the country at the time, but he was human, too. And what man wouldn't have enjoyed having the sport's first two minute trotter in his stable. Billings went for it.

After a few time trials which revealed the horse's great speed, her owner sent her back to the matinees. In one of them she hit the half in 59 seconds but tired and completed the mile in more time than expected. The critics jumped all over the trotter, calling her an "exploded phenom," a "morning glory," and all sorts of un-nice things. However, one week later in Readville, Massachusetts, Lou Dillon made 'em all eat their words. She romped around the track with the greatest of ease--and even the critics she did please. A harness horse had finally trotted a mile in two minutes. Thousands of newspapers, the following morning, headlined the story. The foreign press carried it in papers throughout the civilized world. (All the world wasn't civilized in 1903. Eighty years later, it still isn't.)

The event stirred the imagination of biologists, hereditarians and natural historians, all of whom tried to figure out what it took to achieve this sporting milestone--and just how fast would a harness horse be able to go in the future. (We still haven't answered that question.)

Lou Dillon busted another world's record a fortnight later--this time in Cleveland. Hitched to the same high wheel sulky pulled by Maud S. when she trotted to her 1885 record of 2:08 3/4, Lou Dillon lowered the mark to 2:05. But the National Trotting Association declared it illegal, saying the sulky had been tampered with--ball bearings had been inserted in the axles to aid Lou Dillon. It wasn't so. Nevertheless, the N.T.A. disallowed the record on the ground the mare had already made a faster mark pulling a low wheel bike sulky. So Maud S. remained in the record book as the queen of the high wheelers and Lou Dillon became the darling of bikes.

riding in London the week before and figured it was time to trade in HIS horse. He never returned to the western plains. He knew how difficult it was to shoot buffalo from a touring car.

Life's not all light and sunshine. Nor is it all joy and cheer. For each has his share of worries. His share of doubt and fear. Seems that life's just a pattern, like the patches on a quilt. And bits of shade and sunshine are the squares from which it's built. All the sunshine squares are pretty while the shadow ones are plain, but you know just how much brighter is the sunshine after rain. And you know that pretty patches simply never would be seen, were it not for all the plain ones sewn so neatly in between.

A big black kettle

Those of us who inherited one of Grandma's iron kettles usually consider it a "conversation" piece. It may sit by a desk and serve as a waste basket, or hold a choice collection of fruit, or be filled with autumn pine cones and bitter-sweet just for pretty.

But for Grandma it was not a topic for conversation, except perhaps to warn the kids not to knock it off the stove, for tough and heavy as it was, cast iron could be cracked easily and rendered useless.

Often these kettles had 3 small legs on the rounded bottom. If Grandma wanted to hurry things, she removed one of the round stove lids and set the kettle directly over the fire. And since the fire was usually of wood, there was no soot to blacken the bottom. If she wanted to slow down the cooking process, she set it on top of the lid and the legs not only raised it off the direct heat, but kept the food from burning. Then she could further control the temperature by moving the kettle to the back lid, or even completely off the heat onto the reservoir section.

We who depend on temperature gauges and minute-minders would make poor showing with this kettle that obeyed Grandma's every whim just as Grandma would have been bewildered by our pressure cookers and electronic ovens.

Certain foods were especially good cooked in these heavy kettles. The breakfast commode, cooked long and slow provided not only the morning meal, but Grandma put what was left over into a bread pan to cool and shape into a loaf. Then for supper she could slice and fry it gently in butter and serve it with a pitcher of the maple syrup Grandma and Uncle Willie had produced.

Soup was delicious made this slow way (our crock-pot?) and on Monday wash days it was usually brought out for stew. Grandma cut up the remainder of Sunday's beef roast, added the rest of the gravy, carrots and potatoes and onions and whatever other vegetables she had, and let it simmer away on the back of the stove while she was doing the washing.

At supper-time, with the evidences of her work put away, Grandma, slicked up in a fresh apron and with her hair net in place, ladled the contents of the kettle into her big ironstone tureen. She sliced homemade bread, dished up pickles, brought in the rest of the pie she had made on Saturday, and called, "Supper's ready."

And heard Grandma say, "Ma; however do you do it!"

Business and the Stock Market

by Babson's Reports, Inc.

The Growing Hospital Supply Industry

By Babson's Reports Inc., Wellesley Hills, Mass., August 16, 1983. Last year medical care costs increased 11%, three times the growth in the Consumer Price Index. Although the boost in the CPI in 1982 was the smallest in ten years, the expansion in medical costs was the third highest since 1935 and followed a 12.5% rise in 1981. Over the last decade health care's share of the Gross National Product has doubled from 5% to 10%, and hospital outlays account for an important percentage of total health care expenditures. The cost of health care in the United States now amounts to about $300 billion annually.

It is an obvious fact that people are making more use of doctors, physicians are providing more services, and hospitals are demanding more diagnostic tests for their patients. Hospitals now employ an average of two more people per patient than they did 25 years ago. In the future we expect that health care costs will continue to increase despite recent Administration efforts to reduce them. This is because people are living longer and require more medical care; technology is advancing rapidly, and the majority of people are more health-conscious than ever before.

An Exploding Market For Home Health Care

Because home health care costs a great deal less than hospital care, there is currently a boom going on in this area. And the foremost hospital supply companies are profitably serving this new growth industry. Formerly it was simply a matter of giving injections to bedridden patients or changing the dressings. Now, however, home health care also includes sophisticated services such as kidney dialysis, cancer chemotherapy, intravenous feeding, etc. Obviously, the vast majority of home health care patients are in the over-65 age bracket, and this is one of the fastest-growing age groups. Last year spending on home health care products and services totaled about $2 billion. Our projections are that by the year 1986 the market will rise to between $7 billion and $9 billion. Even hospitals are enlarging their role in home care. Although some have provided the service for many years, the number of nonprofit hospitals offering home care programs has jumped more than 600% since 1976. The average home care costs $50 compared with an average cost of more than $300 for a one-day stay in the hospital.

Hospital Supply Firms Faring Well

For the most part, hospital supply companies have experienced excellent gains in recent years due to the booming demand for medical services. In the future we anticipate continued good gains. Even last year, when so many industries and companies were hurt badly by the recession, the major hospital supply firms fared very well. For example, some of the leading companies that are regularly followed by the Research Department of Babson's Reports--Abbott Laboratories, American Hospital Supply, American Sterilizer, Becton Dickinson, Ipcor Corp., Johnson & Johnson, and Medtronic--all scored earnings gains over the previous years. Currently the Research Staff recommends that the stocks of those companies be maintained for further progress.

Other important hospital supply companies that experienced favorable results last year included Affiliated Hospital Products, C.R. Bard, and Baxter Travenol. Hospital supplies are also produced by many smaller firms that often manufacture one or more specialized items. Additionally, many of the large pharmaceutical firms cater to hospitals, nursing homes, etc. Thus, there is plenty of competition in this important industrial sector.

For those wishing to gain representation in the hospital supply industry, the Babson's Reports Research Department favors the conservative-grade stock of Abbott Laboratories. The company has a fine growth record and a very promising future.

It's Fun to be Retired
I am starting my 7th year being retired. It's fun! They told me to get a chair and sit down. I was advised to go hear dull preachers, to take it easy until the undertaker would undertake to take me under. Even my political party refused me a chance to sit on the election board after serving 50 years on the board. No one would give me a job...so I set out for myself. Now I am preaching at two fine little churches. I am president of a lovely little Bible School that gave away $5,000 worth of Testaments and Bibles last year, and gave away tons of clothes, beside giving out much, much food.

I started the "Wee Copper Company" that has brought in $100 a month. I have been guest preacher over 100 times. I have a nice little garden. I have counseled over 100 people a month. I have performed 60 weddings and 10 funerals last year. Many people call. I am writing a novel, have written 1,200 letters a month by longhand. I now have preached over 22,000 times.

I do not walk well but lots of people help me. I am not mad at anyone. A group plans to help me open several chapels where I can preach, to be called the Chapel Church denomination. I hope to start a newspaper at Wheeling. I hope to finish my cookbook, start a little company to help people, to enlarge my Wee Copper Co. I want to help more young men who want to preach. I want to take voice lessons, to make lots of new friends. I want to open a company to sell fried chicken legs.

I will never retire, unless I lose my mind. As of now, it is active and holding. I am here and I am glad!

Labor To The Glory Of God!
Labor Day comes on the first Monday in September and it became a national holiday in 1887. It is celebrated by parades, picnics, and by a day of rest.

Labor on this earth began when God cast Adam and Eve out of the Garden of Eden when they had sinned against God. The Bible says in Gen. 3:29: In the sweat of thy face shalt thou eat bread, till thou return unto the ground; for out of it was thou taken: for dust thou art, and unto dust shalt thou return." So, man had to go to work. In the Bible, the following people worked to the glory of God.

As she gleaned the fields, Ruth labored in love in trying to support her mother-in-law, Naomi, and herself; Lydia was a Christian and a conscientious business woman who sold her dyes to the glory of God; Dorcas served the Lord with her money and her needle by making garments for the poor and needy; and as a tent maker, Paul earned his way during the day and then preached the Gospel at night.

Are you laboring to the glory of the Lord? His command was to take the Gospel to all the world and many hungry souls are waiting to hear "The Story of Jesus." Take it to them so that what He said can be fulfilled. Jesus said, "I am the way (to heaven), the truth, and the life: no man cometh unto the Father, but by me." (Jn. 14:6) We carry the message through the Word of God which is the Bible; so we need to read it daily so that we can labor in the vineyards of the Lord.

The Bible and the Holy Spirit will tell you what to do; but "Whether therefore ye eat, or drink, or whatsoever ye do, do all to the glory of God." (1 Cor. 10:31)

What A Gold Crown?

You normally associate gold crowns with kings or queens. But the average person can have a gold crown also - not on his head but in his mouth. And it will probably be a lot more practical than the king's head piece.

Cast gold crowns cover the cusps (chewing surface) of back teeth entirely as well as three or more other surfaces. They fit over the remaining portion of a prepared tooth. Crowns are used to restore proper tooth form and contours for the correct biting function when much of the tooth is extensively damaged.

Gold is an ideal restorative material for use in reforming the shape and function of a tooth. In fact, of all restorative materials, gold is the strongest and most long-lasting. There are other reasons for the use of gold as well as long-life.

Gold can provide maximum resistance against the forces of chewing on tooth surfaces. Fluids in the mouth cannot affect gold. Gold will not shrink or expand once it has been cemented into the prepared surface. Breakage of the restoration is less likely.

Here's your answer

by Pastor Dennis R. Pollock
New Testament
Baptist Church
Culver, Ind. 46511

What does the Bible mean when it speaks of faith? "Faith" is a subject that is misunderstood not only by most Christians, but also by those outside of the Lord Jesus. God willing we will attempt to shed some light on this word, "faith." First of all, may we grasp the fact that no person is justified before God without "faith," look at what Romans 5:1 says, "Therefore being justified by 'faith,' we have peace with God through our Lord Jesus Christ." Again, in Hebrews 11:6, "but without 'faith' it is impossible to please Him (God) for he that cometh to God must believe that he is, and that he is, rewarder of them that diligently seek him." Here it will be beneficial to pause for the purpose of defining this word. We will never be able to understand a Biblical word by going to the English dictionary nor can we begin to comprehend it in modern usage, but we must go to the original language in which the Scriptures were written.

The word "Faith" in the New Testament is translated from the word "pistis" in the Greek and means, to be persuaded of, reliance on, assurance of, or generally a clinging to, or trusting in the words or work of another. Similarly, the word "believe" is derived from the same Greek word and here means not only to accept as a mental fact, but is a continual process of believing, trusting in and relying on.

How then may one receive this faith to please God and be justified with him? The key, God has given us is found in Ephesians 2:8, 9 "For by grace are ye saved through "faith;" and that not of yourselves: IT IS THE GIFT OF GOD: not of works, lest any man should boast." What is the gift God speaks of? It is "faith" by which we are justified "faith," by which we can only please God. This faith pleases God because it is given us in behalf of Christ. Philippians 1:29. It is not a work that we could do, nor a trait which we possess, but the free GIFT of God.

The result of this doctrine should effect us in such a way

NIPSCO requests lower gas rates

Northern Indiana Public Service Company filed a notification on August 17, 1983 of decreased gas costs with the Public Service Commission of Indiana totaling $8,489,610, which it proposes to pass on to its customers. The gas cost reduction is the result of reduced rates filed by four of NIPSCO's five pipeline suppliers with the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission (FERC).

NIPSCO said it expects gas rates this winter to be lower or about equal to those charged this spring, due primarily to lower wholesale gas prices charged by suppliers, keeping the Company's gas rates among the lowest in the U.S.

The utility said about 80 cents out of every dollar it receives from its customers goes to pay for purchased natural gas.

Upon approval by the Commission, the new rates will lower the bill for the average NIPSCO residential customer using natural gas for homeheating and other purposes (1,501 therms annually) by $6.01 a year or about 50 cents a month beginning September 1, 1983.

An average residential customer using natural gas for purposes other than spaceheating (405 therms a year) will realize a reduction of $1.62 a year or about 14 cents a month.

The combined purchased gas and storage adjustment factor was reduced to 5.95 cents per therm from 6.35 cents per therm, the utility said.

NIPSCO has now filed five consecutive reduced gas rate filings since April totaling $114,536,486, on an annual basis resulting from lowered gas costs and supplier refunds.

The annual cost for the average NIPSCO residential customer using gas for homeheating and other purposes has decreased from $749.53 at the beginning of 1983 to $713.35.

NIPSCO to pass on reduced rates

Northern Indiana Public Service Company filed a petition with the Public Service Commission of Indiana requesting permission to pass along to electric customers a $3,349,150 reduction in purchased power charges.

The decrease is the result of a revision of the rate tracking factor as filed in a previous petition.

If NIPSCO's petition is approved by the Public Service Commission of Indiana, the effect of this rate tracking factor will result in a residential customer of the utility using 500 kilowatt hours of electricity a month receiving a credit of about 56 cents per month for this service, for a three-month period, effective about August 24, 1983. A residential customer using 1,000 kilowatt hours of electricity a month will receive a credit of about $1.11 a month for the same period.

In 1836 a machine was invented that mowed, threshed, tied straw into sheaves and poured grain into sacks - but it wasn't until the 1930s that such a combine was actually marketed.

Valley wins opener

The Tippecanoe Valley Varsity football team opened the 1983 season with a 42-6 victory over Northfield Friday night. The Vikings put the game away with three last period touchdowns for a decisive victory in Phil See's debut as TVHS head coach.

The Vikings racked up 320 yards to only 63 for the host Norsemen, with the leading Vike being senior tailback Lee Swihart's 171 yards on 30 carries and three touchdowns.

Swihart started the scoring with a four-yard run with 49 seconds remaining in the first quarter, climaxing a 93-yard drive on 20 plays. The Vikings kicked off to start the game and then received the Northfield punt on their own seven to begin their offensive activities.

Swihart tallied his last two touchdowns in the last period on a 40-yard dash with 10:40 to play and a two-yard run at the 8:30 mark. Valley recovered the ball in between those two scores when linebacker Eric McKee scooped up a fumble on the Norse 29.

Sophomore fullback Jerry Cumberland went eight yards for a touchdown to cap a six-play, 36-yard drive and give the Vikings a 13-0 lead at 8:15 of the second period.

Northfield closed the gap to 13-6 at intermission on Jay Reed's 11-yard run at 2:51 before halftime. Chris Giffis blocked the Norse point after conversion.

Rob Dunnuck, on an 11-play 52-yard drive, went three yards to give the Vikings some breathing room in the third period, and Swihart added a two-point run. That score came with 7:05 left in the quarter. Valley led 21-6 after three quarters.

Following Swihart's back to back touchdowns, the Vikings added a final touchdown when senior end James Dotson intercepted a Tim Miller pass and went 34 yards for the score. McConkey kicked the last of his four conversions to put the Vikings up 42-6 with eight minutes remaining.

The Viking defense held Northfield to zero rushing yards on 18 carries, with the leaders being Griffis with 20 tackle points and Joe Hughes with 14.

The Vikings will host Eastern Friday.

Valley - "An unknown commodity with question marks"

The Valley has lost Charlie Smith, 17 seniors, including four all-stars. With all this in mind, first-year Head Coach Phil See thinks his guys are ready to play and "I say let's go with it."

We're an unknown commodity with some question marks, but the potential is there. We have the people to be a winner."

One of the people See is talking about is Shad McConkey. See is impressed with the 6-0, 160-pound quarterback and place kicker. "But he needs time to develop. He hasn't been in a leadership role before. The first couple of games are going to be important." McConkey earned Class A third team all-state honors as a kicker and he holds a 37 yard field goal record. It probably won't be a record much longer; he kicked a 47-yard field goal in practice last week. Backing up McConkey will be sophomore Phil King and senior Joe Hughes as quarterback.

Another returning letterman is Steve Salmons. The 210-pound tackler was a second team all-state choice as an offensive tackle.

Filling the running back positions are juniors Rob Dunnuck at fullback and senior Lee Swihart at tailback. See said "I'm impressed with Swihart he's just a multi-purpose back. He was converted from a fullback to a tailback." Rob Cumberland and Hughes will be in the reserve backs positions respectively.

"I think the back field can be as good as last year, but they've got to develop depth," See said.

Salmons returns to one tackle position the other is up for grabs. Billy Kelly and Chris Cook, both seniors, and sophomore Steve Moore are fighting for the position. Senior letterman Chris Griffis and Scott Teel are guards and Eric McKee at center.

"I'm happy with the offense as early as it is. It's basically the same offensive system with few new things. The system has been good to us. "Why change for the sake of change?" said See.

Defensively returning is Rob

Cumberland at end, Griffis and Scott Teel at inside linebackers. Four outside linebackers are in contention for the starting spots: Rob Dunnuck, Joe Hawkins, Lee Swihart and Jerry Cumberland.

There will be two new halfbacks with Joe Hughes, Andy Swinger, Kraig Warren and Randy Loughman competing for the position. Moore and Cook are looking at one defensive tackle position, while Salmons is at the other tackle. David Hopkins, Dennis Jamison, or Billy Kelly will fill the vacant defensive end slot.

See is enthused about playing in the cluster, "But I like the old system-if we weren't 10-0 we didn't feel like we deserved to be in the playoffs. We take a look at the cluster and question who's in there." Northwood and Northridge were added to Valley's schedule replacing Culver and Triton. Northwood will be the toughest opponent. "We've prepared ourselves the best that we can and I can't see any team better prepared than 'The Valley.'"

Perry Home Improvement Club holds meeting

and "The Battle Hymn of the Republic." Roll call was answered by "The Most Beautiful Things in Life." For devotions, Marie Long read Colossians 3:16. As we let the word of Christ dwell within, we can turn everything over to the Lord. Each one present signed cards to be sent to June Merley, Emma Burns and Claude Berger.

Marie Coon, the Health and Safety Leader, urged all to read labels and watch our sodium intake. In union, the Home Economics prayer was read. Then a birthday auction was held and Lucky Lady was Marie Long. Cooling refreshments were enjoyed. ## Civil

A complaint for damages filed by Corey, Floyd T., and Barbara J. Kelly against Public Service Indiana also will be heard in another court. A list of seven courts was provided for selection of a new site. The Kellys requested the move.

The court ruled in favor of Adam, Goldie and Russell Wagers in a complaint for permanent injunction filed against them by the Argos Town Board, Argos Board of Zoning Appeals and Argos Marshal William Walters.

The Argos officials alleged that Adam and Goldie Wagers violated Argos zoning laws and a 1975 agreement when they transferred ownership of a salvage yard in Argos to their son Russell.

The court supported the Wagers' contention that the business was transferred as a gift so that it did not violate the 1975 agreement and that since the business was in operation before zoning laws went into effect, Russell Wagers could continue to operate the business in its present location.

The suit was moved here from Marshall Circuit Court in June 1982.

Elizabeth A. and Loren D. Sheetz were granted dissolution of marriage.

In a suit moved here from Wabash Circuit Court, Central Indiana Service Inc., Roann, is seeking possession of a computer system valued at $12,000 and for $1,000 a week in damages from Radio Shack Computer Center, Anderson, and Mark L. The court granted Frances Slocum Bank and Trust Co., a preliminary order to take possession of a pickup truck and camper from Anthony and Shelly Willard. The court ordered the sheriff of Fulton County to seize the truck and camper and ruled the bank could take possession after posting $3,500 bond. The bank and trust company filed a complaint earlier this month on a promissory note against the Willards. The truck and camper were used as security for the loan.

And to persuade the person outside of Christ to see their hopeless and helpless condition before God and fall on their faces before him crying for mercy and the faith which can only come from him.

Hot, dry July drops crop prospects

Based on conditions August 1, Indiana's corn production is forecast at 437 million bushels, a 9 year low, and only slightly more than half (54 percent) the record high 815.3 million bushels produced in 1982. The acreage expected to be harvested for grain, at 4.75 million acres, is off 25 percent from the record tyeing high harvested in 1982. Also contributing to this year's low production is the forecasted yield of only 92 bushels per acre, the lowest yield since 1974 and 37 bushels lower than last year's record high yield of 129 bushels. The last 3 weeks of July were hot and dry, causing stress in nearly all areas of the State but particularly in the southwest and west central counties. These conditions have also continued during the first 10 days of August.

Soybeans have also been affected by the adverse July weather with Indiana's forecasted production of 131.0 million bushels showing a 28 percent decrease from the previous year. The 3.97 million acres expected to be harvested is down 13 percent from 1982 and the anticipated yield of 33 bushels per acre is off 7 bushels from last year's record high yield, but is the same as the 1981 yield.

While hard on growing crops July's weather was excellent for small grain harvest. Indiana's 1983 winter wheat crop is estimated at 49.5 million bushels, up 7 percent from 1982 and up 9 percent from the July 1 forecast when harvest was just getting underway. While the acres harvested at 970,000 was down 10 percent from last year, the realized yield was a record high 51.0 bushels per acre, 2 bushels above the previous record of 49.0 bushels per acre set in 1980 and 8 bushels above last year's output.

Oat production in Indiana is estimated at 4.8 million bushels, off 3 percent from the July 1 forecast and 21 percent lower than the previous year. The 60 bushel yield this year is down 4 bushels from 1982, while the acres for harvest at 80,000 is off 16 percent.

United States
Nationally, U.S. corn for grain production is forecast at 5.24 billion bushels, a 38 percent decrease from the record high 1982 crop. U.S. soybean production is forecast at 1.84 billion bushels, 19 percent smaller than the record 1982 crop and 8 percent smaller than the 1981 crop. All wheat production is forecast at 2.42 billion bushels, down 14 percent from the 1982 record high production.

USDA announces wheat program

Deputy Secretary of Agriculture Richard Lyng announced provisions of the 1984 wheat program and set the signup period from Jan. 16 through Feb. 24.

Lyng said because Congress took no legislative action on a proposed freeze in the wheat target price before its summer adjournment, he is now putting into effect provisional measures previously announced on July 29. The U.S. Department of Agriculture is required by law to announce the wheat program for the following year no later than Aug. 15.

The 1984 wheat program includes:

- A $4.45 per bushel target price.
- A $3.30 per bushel national average loan rate.
- An acreage reduction requirement of 30 percent.
- No advance deficiency payments.

--To be eligible for program benefits, producers must limit 1984 wheat planted acreage to no more than 70 percent of the farm's wheat base and devote to conservation use an acreage of eligible cropland equal to 42.86 percent of the 1984 planted and payment-in-kind (PIK) acreage.

--The 1984 acreage base will be the average of the coverage planted and considered planted to wheat in 1982 and 1983.

--Farmers participating in the acreage reduction program may divert an additional 10 to 20 percent of their wheat base and receive payment-in-kind equal to 75 percent of the established yield times the acres diverted.

--PIK program participants will not receive wheat from Commodity Credit Corporation stocks. Producers signing up in the PIK program will agree first to use their outstanding reserve or regular CCC price support loans. Producers with no outstanding loans and who are unable to harvest for PIK will not receive a PIK payment.

--Land designated for conservation use must have been devoted to row crops or small grains in two of the last three years except for a summer fallow farm. Under summer fallow rules the land must be acreage that would have been planted to small grains or row crops in 1984 in the absence of the 1984 wheat program.

--Haying will not be permitted on the conservation use acreage. However, the acreage may be grazed except during the six principal growing months.

--Offsetting and cross compliance will not apply to the 1984 program.

--There will be no immediate entry into the farmer owned reserve for the 1984 crop of wheat. Further, USDA intends to review the size of the reserve before regular price support loans for the 1984 crop reach maturity. A ceiling may be placed on that time which will effectively preclude entry of the 1984 crop into the reserve.

--Contracts signed by program participants for either the acreage reduction or PIK program will be considered as binding and will provide for liquidated damages for failure to comply with program requirements.

Man sentenced to 20 years

Robert E. Anderson, 32, Rt. 1, Silver Lake, was sentenced in Kosciusko Circuit Court to 20 years in prison for a June burglary of an Atwood home.

Anderson had been arrested for a June 17 incident in which he stole some women's underwear from a home on County Rd. 300 West occupied by Cathy Hutchison. He had also been accused of setting a fire in the bedroom of the house - an arson charge which was later dismissed.

Ms. Hutchison apparently saw Anderson leave the home when the fire was discovered at approximately 4:50 a.m. that day. He later drove by the house when police were still at the scene, and was apprehended after a brief chase.

The house, owned by Helen Berkey, of Fort Wayne, sustained between $20,000 and $25,000 damage.

According to testimony, Anderson had been convicted on two previous occasions, at which times women's underwear had also been taken and he had caused injuries to individuals. He had previously stabbed three women in the past, once in 1974 and twice in 1976, Circuit Court Judge Richard Sand said.

In pronouncing the sentence, Sand pointed to the previous instances, saying "There were three women stabbed and one house burned down. It may be you can't get ahead of yourself, but I doubt it."

Anderson testified he had been drinking the night of the burglary and that no plans were made to commit the offense. He said he had requested treatment on his two prior convictions, but had not received that.

He related his problems stemmed after his service in Vietnam in 1970 and 1971. "I hope I can get some treatment, because I'm sorry for my past behavior," said Anderson.

His sister, Sue Sonnewald, of Marion, described Anderson as generally dependable, hard working and honest. She said his family had wanted to seek help for Anderson, but could not financially afford it.

Anderson's attorney, Paul Refor, said although there were physical injuries in the prior instances, that was not present in this case. He said this should be treated as a mental problem and the sentence be given that would help solve the problem.

Kosciusko County Prosecuting Attorney Michael Miner said it was a reasonable conclusion that Anderson might have injured someone in this instance, since he had done so in the past. Anderson had been carrying a pocket knife on the night of the burglary.

Miner added the only difference in this and the past cases was that no one was injured. "He (Anderson) was armed and ready if a confrontation occurred. It does not matter if it was a pocket knife or a butcher knife," said Miner.

The prosecuting attorney said that hopefully the Department of Corrections will work with Anderson in his time of sentence to correct his problem.

Hutchison, the victim of the burglary, said that although she was not stabbed, she was still hurt by Anderson.

Also brought into testimony were the five previous psychiatric evaluations of Anderson, including the latest by Dr. Pawan Chadha of the Bowen Center.

Anderson was given 60 days credit for time served while awaiting sentencing.

Child care center taking enrollments

The Alphabet Box Child Care Center is now taking enrollments for pre-school and full-time children. Located in the Rochester Civic Center at Seventh and Pontiac Streets, the Alphabet Box encourages students aged two to five years to learn about self-esteem and awareness, social interaction, large and small coordination and hand-eye coordination.

Also included in the program are colors, numerals, rhymes, opposites, alphabet letters, shapes, calendar, left and right, tying shoes, buttoning and zipping.

The children participate in "Circle time" during the pre-school program by sharing thoughts, doing art projects, listening to talks by people in the community and learning to be quiet and to listen. They also learn to respect each other and the teacher by giving a little of their time to listen.

The hours for pre-school are 8:30 to 11 a.m. five days a week. Those children attending the Alphabet Box all day are automatically enrolled in the pre-school activities. Nutritious lunch and snacks are provided at no extra charge to the parents.

The Alphabet Box also offers a variety of services to parents of children aged 2-10. As of Aug. 22, the Alphabet Box will be open at 6 a.m. and will close at 5:30 p.m. Arrangements are made for getting the children that attend elementary school to and from their respective schools; providing half-day care for kindergartners, and day care services for those parents who need drop-in care for their children.

Agnes Hartz, director of the Alphabet Box, said "We feel the child is the most valuable resource and that a balanced day is very important in the growth and well-being of all children."

Parents wanting more information on the Alphabet Box and its child care services are invited to stop in the office at the Civic Center or to call the office, 223-5730.

DRUG QUIZ

by Curt Scarborough, Ph.D.
Used by permission; all rights reserved by DATE, St. Louis, Mo.
QUESTIONS (True or False)

1. Chronic marijuana users have short-term memory problems and are often so lethargic they can't cope with academic demands.

2. The number of teenagers smoking marijuana has risen sharply in the past four years.

3. Nearly 10,000 young people die in auto wrecks each year, primarily because of alcohol or drugs.

ANSWERS

1. True. From 1967 to 1982 — the years in which high school drug use soared — Scholastic Aptitude Test (SAT) verbal scores skidded 40 points and math totals fell 25. Other reasons for academic decline are weakened curricula, permissiveness, and excessive TV viewing, but we shouldn't discount drug abuse as a factor.

2. False. Twenty-nine percent of high school seniors say they have used marijuana in the last month, down from 37 percent in 1979. But their numbers are still huge. About 6.4 million have tried it; 2.6 million have smoked it in the last month.

3. True. One result: Teenagers are the only age group whose life expectancy is not increasing.

Kiwanis club of Tippecanoe Valley presents pencils

The Kiwanis Club of Tippecanoe Valley presented 1,000 pencils to the principals of the Akron, Mentone and Burket Elementary Schools on Monday, August 22. The pencils are to be given to the needy students in these schools with the principals deciding who is to receive them.

The Kiwanis Club of Tippecanoe Valley and John Clark, President Elect did the presenting on Monday at the Tippecanoe Valley High School.

The Kiwanis Club of Tippecanoe Valley is also planning to present two scholarships to high school students this year.

Rochester store is sold

Ken and Judy Roe, Nyona Lake, will take over the operation of the Sears Authorized Catalogue Store, 528 Main St., Rochester, from the previous owner, Jean Goodman on Sept. 1. The sale of the store assets and Sears contract was approved last week by Sears, Roe said.

A new customer parking lot and new store hours are in the immediate plans when the store changes owners.

Mrs. Roe has been employed at the store for 15 years and will be the new manager. Mrs. Goodman will retire after working as merchant-owner since April 1982 and as manager prior to then.

Much of the store's operation is dictated by the parent company, but Roe said he hopes to have more frequent deliveries and to make customers more aware of the services offered.

The new parking lot is north of Bob's Super Shell, 516 Main St., one-half block north of the store. The new store hours will be from 9 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. daily and from 9 a.m. to 6:30 p.m. on Fridays. The store will continue to have no Sunday hours, but Mrs. Roe said hours will be increased during the Christmas season.

Other plans include improvements to the general appearance of the store and the possibility of increasing the workforce from four to five employees.

The displays inside the store will remain the selections of the parent company and Roe said all warranties will remain in effect. Orders placed at the Rochester store will continue to be shipped from Columbus, Ohio, with a two-to-seven-day waiting period for most items, depending on when the order is placed and the availability of the item.

Mrs. Roe, director of management information systems and data processing for Topps Manufacturing, said he expects backordering problems to decline with improvement in the economy. He said companies which manufacture products for Sears will increase their inventories as the economy improves and the products will be more readily available. Topps is a supplier of Sears work clothing.

Among the services presently available which the Roes hope customers will use are home deliveries by Sears workers of large purchases, home deliveries by mail or United Parcel Service of orders placed at the local store, estimates for fencing, and installation and service of appliances through the Logansport service department.

Republicans nominated four candidates to run for the Mentone Town Board and clerk-treasurer positions in this year's town election during a party caucus Wednesday night in the Mentone Town Hall.

The slate of Republican candidates include: Miriam Boardman, Ward 1; Wayne Tombaugh, Ward 2; Willard Wagner, Ward 3; and Katherine Whetstone, clerk-treasurer. Tombaugh served as chairman of the Republican caucus.

Mentone Democrats met earlier to nominate candidates, which will mean an election there in November. Gerald Romine served as chairman of the Democrat caucus.

Currently serving as town board members are Frank Hardesty, Ward 1, a Democrat; Tombaugh, Ward 2; and Jim Miller, Ward 3, a Democrat. Mrs. Whetstone is currently the clerk-treasurer.

New town election laws are now in effect, which will mean different procedures to follow in the small communities throughout Kosciusko County this fall.

An election must be held in all incorporated towns every four years. The last day that town conventions may be held was Saturday, August 27, according to Kosciusko County clerk.

The list of nominated candidates must be delivered to the town clerk-treasurer by noon Thursday, Sept. 1. And if town officials have asked the County Election Board to conduct the election in their community, the clerk-treasurer must turn in the candidates' names to the county clerk by Monday, Sept. 5.

Officials in Syracuse, Milford, Mentone, and North Webster have asked the county clerk to conduct the election in their towns, according to the Kosciusko County Clerk. Other towns are planning to conduct their own elections.

Individuals wanting to cast ballots in town elections must be registered voters and must be a resident of that community. A precinct election board must be chosen in each precinct.

In the towns where the County Election Board conducts the election, a voter registration list must be prepared and used at the polls. In addition, seven election workers will be present at each polling site. The inspector and both judges must be registered voters and reside in the town where they work.

Voters in Syracuse, Milford, Mentone and North Webster will punch ballot cards on Election Day, Tuesday, Nov. 8. Those cards will be processed through the county election computer and the results printed on paper.

If there is a slate of candidates for only one party and no opposition, then an election will not be held in the town. Instead, the unopposed candidates are automatically elected, according to the Kosciusko County Clerk.

"Swinging Dudes" offer lessons

Bell Library receives directory

Bell Library in Mentone has recently received its new copy of The Hotel and Motel Red Book. This large volume is the official directory of the American Hotel and Motel Association. It lists member hotels, motels, condominiums, and resorts in the United States and other countries, as well as non-members, who apply for listing.

Each entry includes telephone numbers, many of which are toll-free, room rates, credit cards accepted, local points of interest, and on-premise facilities. In addition to listing accommodations by city and state, the directory can aid one in choosing a car rental system, planning meetings, and selecting a travel service.

Librarian, Madeleine Fisher, believes this new addition to the library will enable travelers to compare prices and book ahead without being at the mercy of any one particular company or chain.

The Way It Was

Grandpa's one-furrow plow

Along about this time of year Grandpa, and even further back, his Grandpa, would be thinking about starting their spring plowing. And indeed, it behooved them to do so.

Grandpa's grandson and great-grandson, skipping a multi-bladed plow across his own acres, could weep with remembering Grandpa's plodding back and forth, back and forth, one narrow furrow at a time, taking literally weeks to plow what great-grandson can now do in 1 day.

The plow in this picture is truly primitive, being hand-made from mostly wood. As time went on, plows were factory-made using much more metal, but still they plowed 1 furrow - 1 furrow at a time.

In addition, Grandpa had to do half a day's work before he even got started with this plow. It was motored by Grandpa's trusty team, Little Dan and Old Prince who had to have their breakfast, be brushed and curried and harnessed; all this usually before Grandpa had his own breakfast.

Then to the field, plodding steadily until sunset, stopping only briefly for rests at the end of every furrow or two, and longer at noon. If the field Grandpa were working in was some distance away, he ate a lunch he carried with him, or was brought out by Grandma or Uncle Willie. His 4-footed helpers enjoyed oats from their nose bags. Then it was a drink from an open bubbling spring and back to work.

The day's plowing over, Grandpa unhooked the team, leaving the plow in the field. He returned to the barn to repeat the morning chores all over again. He fed and tended the horses, the other animals, milked the cows and finally, bone-tired, had his own supper, perhaps so late that a distant wilder was stabbing the twilight with his lonely song.

It was the same the next day . . . and the next . . . and the next . . . all over again.

The human body burns alcohol at the rate of about one-half ounce an hour.

THANK YOU

There are no words to express how much I appreciate the many kindnesses which have been shown to me and my family by so many people during my illness. I have been overwhelmed by the outpouring of love, care and concern for me by my friends, neighbors, co-workers, family and even people I do not know.

I am recovering at home now after spending five weeks in South Bend Memorial Hospital. Coming home to Fulton County is good medicine. Thank you all so much.

Business and the Stock Market

by Babson's Reports, Inc.

Computerized O-T-C Stocks Attract Investors

By Babson's Reports Inc., Wellesley Hills, Mass., August 25, 1983. As a result of the computerized NASDAQ (National Association of Securities Dealers Automated Quote System), both small investors and institutions have found it easier to buy and sell securities even those of companies with thinly traded (small capitalized) securities. Today, some 20,000 stocks trade annually over-the-counter (O-T-C) compared with approximately 2,200 on the NYSE and 950 on the ASE. During the last five years, trading volume has mushroomed, not only on the listed exchanges, but even more dramatically on the O-T-C market.

Through the NASDAQ system, 3,700 brokers and dealers trade about 3,400 different stocks daily via telephone or teletype after viewing the bid and asked prices on their computer terminals. Unlike the listed (NYSE, ASE, etc.) exchanges where only one specialist (a floor representative from a brokerage house) makes and maintains a market in a given company's stock, an actively traded company often has an average of seven brokerage or underwriting firms which stand ready to buy and sell that company's shares. With the advent of the NASDAQ system in February of 1971 and, most recently, the National Market System (constituting about 200 stocks of the largest and most active companies) in June of 1982, investors are now supplied with the vital numbers (volume, annual high-low prices, high-low intra-day prices, last and net change) which the listed exchanges always provided.

In the opinion of the Staff of Babson's Reports, there are, even at this advanced level of the market, many over-the-counter stocks whose prices simply do not reflect their bright future prospects. Many of these companies would easily meet the listing requirements of the NYSE or ASE, but their managements prefer to have their shares traded over-the-counter because of the strong supportive broker-dealer network and the vastly improved investor exposure that are now available in the O-T-C market.

Institutions Increase Activity

Banks, insurance companies, pensions funds of major corporations, universities, etc. have commanded a larger presence in the O-T-C market in recent years because of the often undiscovered values in older, well-established issues as well as the constant offerings of new companies coming to market for the first time.

Novice investors should, however, be aware that the larger presence of the institutions (who buy and sell in millions of dollars) can have a tremendous impact on trading. Consequently, the greater volatility, swift price changes and the often rapid response to activity in the similar industry groups on the listed exchanges are factors which the smaller investor should be aware of. Nevertheless, the institutions and brokerage houses have been instrumental in requiring the companies to provide more detailed information available. Thus, the small investor now has better access to professional investment research in many cases.

Recommendations

Since August of 1982, the O-T-C market index has advanced to even greater heights than the New York Stock and American Stock Exchanges. Currently, the stocks in this market have sustained, in tandem with the major exchanges, a general pull-back in prices-opening up further opportunities for attractive long-term purchases.

The Research Department of Babson's Reports is presently advising the purchase of six well-situated O-T-C stocks. These include Addison-Wesley Publishing (textbooks) near 26, CPT Corp. (word-processing systems) near 17, Citizens Utilities, Class B common (utility operating firm) near 25, Comserv Corp. (manufacturing computer software) near 10, Millipore Corp. (membrane filters and filter systems) near 31, and Valley National Corp. (bank holding company operating in Rocky Mountains and Southwest) near 21.

GUEST EDITORIAL

The following was written by Attorney General Linley Pearson concerning the new drunk driving laws.

Drunk driving is not what Indiana's new law, effective September 1st, is all about, but driving under the influence is.

Under the new law, a driver does not have to be drunk to be arrested and convicted-potentially, a blood-alcohol content of between .05 percent, and .1 percent will do it.

According to the law, a person with .1 percent or higher, blood-alcohol content is technically intoxicated, regardless of how it may, or may not, affect his behavior. However, under the new law a person may be under the influence without regard to the percentage of alcohol in his blood.

Provisions under the new law, which you should be aware of are:

If you are asked to take a breathalyzer test, you must take it. If not, your license will be suspended by the Bureau of Motor Vehicles for one year, plus, your refusal is admissible evidence against you in a trial.

Drivers-license revocations will be administrative rather than judicial. Which means if you take the test and fail, the B.M.V. will revoke your license-without ever going to court.

Under the new law, you will get a credit for the days your license is suspended administratively, if a court convicts you-if you take a chemical test offered by a police officer. If you do not take a chemical test, no credit can be attained and a full sentence must be served.

Under the new law, you may be arrested without ever taking a chemical test, if the arresting officer has probable cause to believe you are intoxicated at the .1 percent level.

If you are arrested for driving while intoxicated, (DWI), the arresting officer will take your license-on the spot, and issue you a receipt for a license until the B.M.V. officially suspends the license-usually less than 10 days from arrest.

According to the new law, even for first offenders there is a mandatory 30-day suspension before one may obtain a probationary license, there is a maximum suspension after conviction of up to one year.

A related bill, also effective September 1, requires repeat offenders to not only serve a mandatory five-day jail sentence, but serve 10 days of community service as well.

If you have a suspended license due to a previous drunk driving condition, and are caught driving, you will now have to serve a 60-day jail term.

A third bill, also effective September 1, require automatic 10 year suspension of driving privileges for habitual traffic offenders. There are currently 14,000 to 16,000 drivers in Indiana who meet or exceed the habitual offender criteria-who still have their licenses.

Indiana's new law is designed to clamp down, not only on habitual offenders-but first time offenders as well. Besides harshly reprimanding offenders, the law's intent is to make everyone think twice about drinking and driving.

The harsh provisions of the new law, which include on the spot license revocations, are intended to be a more crisp deterrent against drunk driving, than the old law. The new law has more shock value, because of instant consequences-rather than drawn out judicial procedures.

When the new law takes effect, Indiana will have some of the stiffest DWI laws in the country. Iowa, recently adapted tough drunk driving penalties, similar to Indiana's, in July, 1982.

According to the Iowa Attorney General's office, there was a sharp increase in license revocations due to the new statutes. Specifically, from June 1981 to July, 1982 there were 193 DWI license revocations, but from July 1982, to June, 1983, the first year the laws were in effect, there were 17,094 license revocations.

That's an increase of 8,857 percent. The same public official also confirmed that the rate of deaths caused by drunk drivers, for the same period had decreased 5.5 percent.

LOW-COST ALTERNATIVES TO MEAT

For most people in the world, whole grains such as corn, barley, wheat, oats, rye, millet, bulgur, rice, sorghum, and triticale are staples-instead of meat-and have been for thousands of years. Many combinations of such grains with beans, peas, nuts, or dairy products result in complete proteins. In Mexico, for example a favorite nutritious combination is corn (frequently in the form of tortillas and such) and beans... Europeans often combine rye bread with cheeses... and Africans use sorghum or millet with peanuts or beans. Likewise, Orientals eat many products made from the soybean (tofu, soy flour, etc.), a legume which by itself is high in protein. You may find that the use of unrefined whole grains along with other foods can provide a viable, economical alternative to meat for you and your family.

The use of such foods can also be a boon to your family's health. Unrefined whole grains contain ample nutrients, including vitamins, essential amino acids, protein, and starches... as well as bran (the outer covering of the kernels), which is a good source of fiber. As you may already know, a high intake of food fiber is vital for good digestion and elimination. Indeed, it's been shown that in regions where natural whole grains are consumed, people have lower rates of gastrointestinal problems than in areas where large quantities of meat and refined grain are consumed. By the same token, many Americans have found that eating supplemental bran flakes is a good way to deal with problems of irregularity. But if our commercially available cereals and breads contained the natural bran of whole grains, fewer people would have these problems in the first place!

The refined grains most commonly used in commercial foods and flour are little more than residual starch, with artificial vitamins added to "enrich" the product. In the refining process, the outer hull and the endosperm (which is the most nutritious part of the grain) are stripped away to produce an "attractive," even-textured, spoilage-resistant product.

It's hard to find whole grain products at a supermarket. But if you'll take the time to locate a food co-op, health food store, or feed and grain supplier (which offers untreated seed), you should be able to get plenty of whole grains. Cooking with whole grains may be a new experience for you. But take heart, because people have successfully used these ingredients for generations. Cookbooks abound with many fine recipes for grains, and once you get the basic preparation techniques down pat, you'll find hundreds of ways to combine these edibles with vegetables, beans, dairy products, and spices.

Many people feel that our nation, and the world, could have far more food available for the hungry if naturally occurring grains instead of meat were promoted for food use. Why? For the simple reason that it takes approximately ten pounds of grain to produce one pound of beef! (About 90% of the corn grown in the United States is grown as cattle feed.) Worse still, the introduction and the promotion of beef as a food source in developing nations have created hunger and ecological crises... since land that was previously used for human food production or left in its natural state has been shifted into cattle feed production. This is not to say that we should never eat meat, but rather that we should consider the benefits of reducing our meat consumption to a reasonable level.

Here's your answer

by Pastor Dennis R. Pollock
 New Testament Baptist Church
 Culver, Ind. 46511

Do all religions lead to Heaven? Why are there so many religions one asks. Is it enough to be sincere? All the above questions are asked from time to time and it is very important to find the correct answer. There are hundreds if not thousands of different beliefs. Some are very old some quite young. A person need only to go to the local library and scan a book on the religions and cults of the world to become very confused. But confusion is not what God would have us face.

We are told in the Bible that God can only be found one way. To the Liberal and Modernist this statement is appalling. But Jesus said, in John 14:6. "I am the way, the truth, and the life: no man cometh unto the Father, but by me." The great obstacle which prevented man from coming to God has been broken down by the blood of Jesus Christ through the cross. Ephesians 2:14. "For he is our peace, who hath made both one, and hath broken down the middle wall of partition between us."

We must see however, that in order to gain heaven our faith must reside not in a religion but a person. That person is the Lord Jesus Christ.

It is God's will that all his people believe alike. We are not left to our own ideas about God. Our Lord has graciously provided a book (the Bible) to express to us those things needed for our salvation and fruitful Christian living. God gives us the Scriptures to correct our wrong thinking about Him.

Read along as we quote I Corinthians chapter one verse ten, "Now I beseech you, brethren, by the name of our Lord Jesus Christ, that ye all speak the same thing, and that there be no divisions among you; but that ye be perfectly joined together in the same mind and in the same judgment."

It is clear that if we are to be of the same mind that there must only be one right path.

It is our responsibility then to study the Word and do those things written therein.

Erosion can devastate the land

It takes 1000 years for one inch of topsoil to form under natural conditions. And it takes less than four years for erosion to destroy that inch.

Considering those facts, you don't have to be a mathematician to figure out that high rates of erosion can do devastating—and practically irreversible—damage to topsoil, the dark, rich layer of earth that can transform ordinary land into productive farmland.

Today, erosion is one two major factors contributing to the disappearance of farmland across the United States, says the current issue of National Wildlife magazine. The second factor is development—the conversion of farmland to non-farm uses.

The combine effect of these two trends—increasing erosion and development on U.S. farmland—is a problem with ominous implications for future generations, according to the bi-monthly publication of the National Wildlife Federation. Thousands of acres of farmland are being lost at a time when the need for food around the world is on a sharp increase. "It's a vanishing act of such proportions that it's a wonder we as a nation haven't shown more concern," concludes the magazine.

If erosion throughout the United States were confined to one region, all of the topsoil from an area the size of the State of Rhode Island would be gone in less than three months, says National Wildlife. According to the U.S. Department of Agriculture, one third of the nation's cropland is currently eroding at an unacceptable rate. Losses range from one to more than 40 tons per acre per year. In the Corn Belt, Delta states and the Appalachian states, more than a third of the cropland is eroding at rates exceeding 5 tons annually—well beyond the rates that can be replaced by mechanical, chemical and natural forces.

Ironically, technological advances have masked erosion's adverse impacts on farmland. As erosion diminishes the productivity of land, farmers boost yields with new technology, such as hybrid seeds, pesticides, more efficient equipment, chemical fertilizers and intensive tilling practices. The innovations hide the losses that would have resulted had the stripped soil been left on its own.

In addition, says National Wildlife, erosion has not been concentrated in one area, where its impact could have been more easily assessed. Instead it has been spread over hundreds of millions of acres. When the damages became evident, the problem was already beginning to reach crisis proportions.

Complicating the effect of erosion is development, which takes its own bite out of the nation's farmland. Unfortunately, pressures for farmland conversion are most intense in regions with the most productive cropland—the Corn Belt and Sunshine states. According to the Magazine, development in the country's 100 best agricultural counties is twice the national rate. Farm land losses caused by development and erosion will total 3.2 million acres by the year 2000 in Iowa, Illinois, Indiana, Ohio and Missouri if current trends continue.

Solutions to farmland losses—such as innovative land planning and an end to government support for policies and projects that erode away topsoil—are available, says National Wildlife. But because farmers are a small and financially pressed group (they make up less than four percent of the U.S. population) the public will have to be the driving force behind reforms.

Some reforms are already beginning to take hold. State agencies are successfully promoting no-till farming, the least erosive of cultivation techniques. In the private sector, foundations are forming to raise money for the purchase of development rights to farms.

With enough public support, these and other efforts could significantly slow farmland loss, according to National Wildlife. "These croplands will not vanish, not entirely."

But admittedly, the magazine cautions, "We Americans are a very crucial juncture."

NIPSCO responds to Governor

Edmund A. Schroer, NIPSCO chairman and chief executive officer, said Tuesday, August 23, 1983. "We share the Governor's concern for our customers and regret the necessity of the recent rate increases.

"Reliability of electric service in our heavily industrialized territory is essential. Any energy short-fall would have serious economic consequences in our job-sensitive service area, since literally thousands of people could be forced out of work.

"NIPSCO is neither overbuilt nor overly optimistic in its forecasts of future demand. The peak set on July 21, 1983, which was 9.6 percent above our highest demand for electricity in 1982 and 5 percent over our previous all-time high, was not expected to occur until after 1990.

"The Company will, of course, heed all of the Governor's recommendations. Extensive cost-cutting and dramatic reduction of construction have been and will continue to be a focus of management.

"Our sensitivity to the plight of consumers has recently been underscored by the authorization of $500,000 in energy assistance matching credits (increased from the $300,000 in credits made available under this program last year) for use by customers in need throughout our service area.

"NIPSCO shareholders have sacrificed with no dividend rate increase since 1977. The experience of Consolidated Edison in the 1970s dramatically and unequivocally demonstrated that cutting the dividend rate is more expensive than maintaining it.

The Gift of Friendship

Friendship is a priceless gift that can't be bought or sold. But value is far greater than a mountain made of gold. For gold is cold and lifeless that can neither see nor hear, and in the time of trouble it is powerless to cheer. It has no ear to listen, no heart to understand. It cannot bring you comfort or reach out a helping hand. So when you ask God for a gift, be thankful he sends not diamonds, pearls, or riches, but love of REAL TRUE FRIENDS.

Valley defeats Eastern

With the stamina of a bull, tailback Lee Swihart ground out 185 yards in 28 carries Friday night to pace Tippecanoe Valley Vikings to a 23-0 victory over Eastern.

Coupled with last week's 171-yard effort, Swihart is the area's leading ground-gainer. In addition he scored a pair of touchdowns.

Eastern's Comets had trouble getting untracked in the game making several crucial errors in the first half that TVHS converted into a 17-0 lead.

The Vikings began driving toward the goal line with their first possession, but stalled when they got inside the 30 and a 15-yard penalty forced a punt that Rob Dunnuck placed at the seven.

After three running plays, Coach Willard Rice's Comets found themselves back at the four and sent Rob Patchett into the endzone for a point.

Valley's Joe Hawkins smothered the kick just as it left Patchett's foot to give the Vikings a safety and 2-0 lead with 3:16 to play in the first period.

TVHS marched 47 yards to paydirt with the ensuing free kick with Swihart bulling his way in from the two with 11:25 left till halftime. Shad McConkey's pass for the conversion misfired.

Swihart had 34 yards in the march on four carries, including a 20-yard blast over the left side of the line. The Vikings made it 15-0 when Dave Hopkins intercepted Rick Stiner's pass at the Comet 27 and raced to the endzone untouched with 9:10 left in the second quarter. McConkey added the PAT kick.

Another Eastern mistake gave Valley its 17-0 halftime lead with 1:34 left when Billy Kelly and Steve Moore dropped Patchett in the endzone for another safety. The play started on the three and Stiner made a deep handoff to Patchett.

Another interception, this one by Valley's Joe Hughes, set up Valley's final TD. Hughes nearly broke it loose on the return, dashing 38 yards with the ball before being brought down at Eastern's 32.

Two plays later, Swihart rambled in from the 21 with 9:12 left in the game. McConkey's kick for the point was wide.

Eastern mounted three second half threats, but Valley's defense rose to the occasion each time to keep the Comets off the scoreboard. The Vikings stiffened as Eastern first drove to the 22 behind the running of Patchett, who racked up 123 yards in the game in 13 rushes.

The Vikings forced Stiner to go to the air as all three drives fizzled. Defensive work by Griffis, Moore, Randy Laughlin, Jim Salyers, Teel and Hughes was particularly telling. The Comets went all the way to Valley's eight before the second march failed.

Another interception, this one by Hawkins, cut off Eastern's final threat; the Comets penetrated to the 13 this time before Hawkins made the theft with 23 seconds to play.

The motorcycle cop started in astonishment as the tiny foreign car sped down the road; it was jumping two or three feet into the air every half minute or so. The policeman sped after it.

"What's the matter with the puddle-jumper?" he shouted at the driver. "Not a thing, officer," said the man. "It's me. I've got the hiccups."

Upon the birth of their first child, a young father was asked if he did not think the new baby would bring him and his wife even closer together. "Certainly will," he said. "Now we have a common enemy."

The fellow on the crowded bus could stand it no longer. "Madam," he began politely, "you are standing on my foot."
 "Put your stupid foot where it belongs," snapped the woman.
 "Don't tempt me," murmured the man, "don't tempt me!"

By looking into any woman's pocketbook, one discovers that money isn't everything.

New books at Akron Library

Innocent Surrender by Susan Berencsi--The bold and enterprising Jessica talks herself into a position which will ultimately alter her entire life.

Indian Summer of the Heart by Daisy Newman--With her special magic the author has intertwined two unusual love stories in this book. Both stories lead through many difficulties that stem from the pressures and prejudices of our modern life. Both are brought to a satisfying conclusion through the influence of the Quaker way.

Miriam by Lois T. Henderson--In her latest novel on women of the Bible, Lois Henderson recreates the story of Miriam, sister of Moses, who played an instrumental role in the Exodus and the journey of the Hebrew people to the promised land. Miriam's greatest struggle was within her own heart; her greatest victory was a hard-worn faith-tested and strengthened in the crucible of the desert and by her own pride and arrogance.

The Sapphire Lotus by Betty Hale Hyatt--Having left Ceylon just months before, Serena Rivett-Kydd had returned both to direct her late husband's tree plantation, and to quell the ghosts which had precipitated her rash departure. With the good counsel of her beautiful aunt and the adoring support of her dashing brother-in-law she continues her journey inland. For to exorcise the source of her agitation she must recover and destroy the legendary necklace whose myth she had knowingly perpetuated and must now end, or be forever shackled to the greed and jealousy it engenders.

Atlantis by Marjorie Braymer--For centuries, the legend of lost Atlantis has caught the imagination of people all over the world. Wealthy and powerful, with a high degree of culture, the island was struck by devastating earthquakes. Within the space of one day and one night, so terrible were the ensuing floods that it was swallowed up by the sea and vanished without trace. This, briefly is the legend as first recorded by Plato, the poet-philosopher of ancient Greece, three centuries before Christ.

Indians to attend Trail of Courage

Eleven members of the Citizen Band of Potawatomi Indians, Shawnee, Ok., will attend the Trail of Courage Rendezvous Sept. 17-18 at Rochester.

The annual event is sponsored by the Fulton County Historical Society to commemorate the courage of the Potawatomi who were removed from northern Indiana on the Trail of Death in 1838. The Citizen Band members are descendants of those on the Trail of Death. They gave up their reservation in 1860 and became U.S. citizens, hence their name of Citizen Band.

This will be the first time in 145 years that the tribal council will meet on the banks of the Tippecanoe River. The rendezvous is held in a pine woods on the corner of New U.S. 31 and the Tippecanoe River three miles north of Rochester.

The group will attend all day Saturday, taking part in the festivities and receiving special recognition in the arena program at 10 a.m. Rochester Mayor Don Cook will give them the key to the city. Other local and state officials will be attending too.

After attending mass at the rendezvous Sunday morning at 8 a.m., the group will go to South Bend to see Father Petit's grave at Notre Dame. The mass will be a replica of that held by the Blackrobe missionaries for the Indians in the 1830's. Father Petit accompanied them on the Trail of Death and died also.

In South Bend the Potawatomi will also meet with the Baugo Creek Park planning committee. The Indians have been asked for input on a historic village depicting Indian life style in pioneer Indiana. The village will be part of a historic park to be constructed between St. Joseph and Elkhart Counties.

The Trail of Courage Rendezvous is a living history festival which has tipi village, muzzle loading contests, canoe landing and fur trading skit, Revolutionary War military skits and cannon firing, Indian dancing, pioneer music and dancing, 18th century puppet show, storyteller, frontier fashion show, blanket trading, pioneer foods and crafts. It is open 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

New this year will be a bagpipe performance by Tom Griffin, Lafayette, and pioneer-era dancing by the Lafayette County Dancers. Also new will be skits of a military funeral and court martial by Proctor's Artillery of the Chicago area.

The Trail of Courage Rendezvous received grants from the Indiana Arts Commission, Rochester Chamber of Commerce, and the Fraternal Order of Police.

Admission is $2.50 for adults, $1 for children under 12, and free for children under six. For further information, write Fulton County Historical Society, 7th and Pontiac Rochester, IN 46975. Phone 219-223-4436.

As parking space in the woods is limited, a shuttle bus will run every half hour from the Rochester High School parking lot. Signs will direct traffic from the junction of St. Rds. 25 and 14 west of Rochester to the parking lot.

An old belief is that if your right ear rings, someone is saying good things about you. If your left ear rings, you are not being flattered.

Soybean Field Day Sept. 14

Intercropping of soybeans in wheat and plot comparisons of over 100 public and private varieties are the features of a soybean field day, says Jeff Kissick, Fulton County Ag Extension Agent.

Intercropping of soybeans into growing wheat in the spring shows tremendous potential for Fulton County farmers to double crop. Beans on the Pinney Purdue farm were planted in 20" rows into wheat on May 17 and a growth retardant was used on half the crop to prevent excessive cutting of beans during wheat harvest.

Doctors Marv Swearingin and Charles Harms of the Purdue University Agronomy Department will discuss the plots and answer any questions.

The field day will be September 13, 9 a.m. until noon at the Pinney Purdue farm. The farm is north of U.S. 30 on the Porter-Laporte County line road. The field day is sponsored by the Purdue University Cooperative Extension Service.

Extension service sponsors program

How can families recognize when they are experiencing too much stress? On Tuesday, Sept. 6, at 9:30 a.m., the Fulton County Extension Service is sponsoring a program on "Managing Family Stress." Penny Ashley, Extension agent and Home Economist, will present the information at the Electric Living Center, Public Service Indiana, Rochester. Public invited.

Jack & Jill Nursery School Now Enrolling

The Jack and Jill Nursery School is still accepting registrations. We have a warm and loving atmosphere. Jack and Jill offers developmental readiness through "learning" or "interest" centers. This environment allows the child to learn for himself rather than having it done for him! Each area is physically arranged within the room to meet the specific needs of the age group. They are colorful, organized and appealing, inviting the children to explore and investigate!

Let's tour the centers! 3 year olds go to school on Monday and Tuesday. 4 year olds on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday. There is a registration fee of $10 for both ages. For the 4 year olds only, there is a $2.50 fee which covers Weekly Reader.

Orientation is Sept. 6 at 7 p.m. at the Mentone United Methodist Church. School starts the week of Sept. 12.

If you have any question, contact Bev Surface, 353-7357 or Jackie Leiter 353-7619.
