Peters chosen queen of Kosciusko County

Dacia Marie Peters, 17, of Warsaw, has been chosen to reign at the Kosciusko County Fair as queen. Peters was crowned last Saturday evening. She is the daughter of Nellie Peters.

Other events already completed at the Kosciusko County Fair include the 4-H king and queen crowning on Monday evening and the fashion revue show. The grand champion cat was shown by Tammy Rose, daughter of Jim and Mary Rose of Mentone. Tammy also showed the grand champion dog and Katti Stroup showed the reserve grand champion dog.

Today's (Wednesday) activities include the judging of 4-H beef, dairy goats, dairy steers, ponies, and sheep classes. The 4-H Dairy Show and Supreme Showman Contest will take place on Thursday.

Friday at the fair marks one of the highlights for many 4-H club members with the 4-H Club Livestock Auction beginning at 10:00 a.m. The auction provides an opportunity for 4-H members to show their top animals and offer them for sale to the many 4-H Club supporters throughout the county. Many businesses, corporations, organizations, and individuals show their support for 4-H club work through their support of this annual event.

Saturday is the last day of the fair, but there are certainly no fewer activities for the many fair spectators to observe and participate in. At the horse arena, there are 4-H and Open Class Horse Shows all day. Other Open Class livestock competitions on Saturday include the Open Class Dairy Show and Open Class Sheep Show both scheduled for Saturday, August 8, and the Open Class Dairy Goat Show on Sunday, August 9.

Tools valued over $5,000 were stolen from Gagnon Chevrolet, 309 W. Rochester Street, Akron early Wednesday, July 29, 1987.

According to Akron Deputy Marshal Kraig Smith, entry was gained by cutting a window glass and then throwing a piece of cement through the window. After entering the building the suspect or suspects unlocked the back door and gates. The tools were loaded onto the wrecker truck which was driven to a vacant lot on the west edge of Akron. The burglary took place sometime between 3:00 and 4:00 a.m. Smith reported seeing the wrecker inside the Gagnon garage at 2:45 a.m. while patrolling. According to an Akron resident, the wrecker was parked on the vacant lot at 4:00 a.m. The keys to the wrecker were left with the vehicle.

The Akron police are working with other police agencies who have had reports of similar burglaries. Anyone who might have any information about the incident is asked to contact the local police.

Officer Smith praised

During the last few weeks, as the police department has been undergoing several changes in staff and structure, it has come to my attention that Officer Craig Smith has been participating above and beyond the call of duty. He has been, and still is, working extended hours to keep the town patrolled. Throughout all of these conditions he has remained unconditionally committed to his position in this town.

I think that we, the citizens of Akron, should take a look at his performance and participation, and then take a few minutes out of our day to commend him on his actions. That is a small compensation that just might make his job a little easier and also let him know how much we appreciate him as a citizen as well as a devoted police officer.

Keep up the great work Craig!

A concerned and appreciative citizen

A new beginning.

Umpire Appreciation Day August 8

To every male person, Umpire Appreciation Day reminds them of baseball. However, to this mother of two boys, it immediately became one of "my days". Although I've never thought of myself as an umpire I have considered dressing in a black and white striped shirt with the word "referee" across the back from time to time!

The umpire is someone I have watched carefully the past several months. Mothers across the country could relate to this person. He is a person who calls the shots. Mothers call shots, too. I've bounced in and said, "You're out!" to no avail. The umpire is also adorned in padded chest protectors (great to protect against a broken heart) and knee pads (to protect against the scrapes as we slide into the problems while raising the kids). He also wears a mask (something mothers need to hide their emotions from time to time).

I've considered changing my title from referee to umpire due to the following reasons: (1) Ringing a bell as a referee might do, does not end an argument at our house. The kids continue on! (2) Throwing myself on the floor and counting to three doesn't seem to end it, either. (3) Disqualification means nothing, only looks from the boys as if they think I need some rest! No...referee isn't for me anymore. This marks the "New Beginning" as an Umpire Mother.

An umpire mother can walk into the room hitting one fist into the palm of the other, hopefully showing the kids she means business. She can also carry on a heated argument and even throw her mask down in disgust if the discussion doesn't go the direction she likes! And, if push comes to shove, she can brush off her throw rug with a brush she'll return to her hip pocket before any discussion just to show them she is still head umpire at home!

In all honesty, the only times the boys got the best of me was when I decided they had harped enough about something. I asked them, "Harp, harp, harp! Is that all you guys can do?" I turned to see them both making gestures as if playing harp! I believe that was the last time I ever used that expression, somehow I just can't seem to keep a straight face. The other time was when I couldn't see in the next room. Both Chris and C.J. were having a disagreement and then there was a thump and Chris would yell, "Mom, do something with Collin!" Then another thump and Collin would say, "Chris, stop that!" I grabbed a dish towel and raced around the corner to end the nonsense before someone got hurt. As I rounded the corner, I saw Chris on one side of the room stomping his foot on the floor to make a thump and saying, "Stop hitting me, Collin!" and then laughing. Then C.J. would stomp his foot on the floor and scream, "You're breaking my arm, Chris!" He, too, was nearly rolling on the floor with laughter. There was at least six feet between them but it sounded like a rip roaring fight in the next room. Congratulations, boys, you pulled the wool over the umpire's mask that time!

Rural Rhymes

WHEN KIDS LEAVE HOME

The kids are grown,
They have flown the nest.
You are kidding yourself,
If you think you will rest.

When they were home,
They tramped on your toes.
But as a "do it yourselfer"
You will have lots of woes.

You will peel your own "taters"
And mop your own floors.
And when you are dog tired,
There will be jobs galore.

But cheer up, honey,
Growing old ain't so bad.
Just think of all
The good living you've had.

Just one more word.
You've done the hard thing.
You've cut the kids loose
From your apron string.

Acts of Goodness

"Always leave a person or place better than you found them." These are the words of a nursing instructor. We all know some persons who have developed the knack of helping others. They make helping others look so easy. They live the words, "Do unto others as you would have them do unto you." Doing good deeds are acts of love. I think helping others is the reason we were put on earth. Filling the needs of others is a high goal and one that brings deep and lasting satisfaction. May we live this day by doing acts of kindness for others. Let us, and this bears repeating, "always leave a person or a place better than we found them."

Views On Dental Health

H. RAY HAZEN,
D.D.S., M.S.D., P.C.

WHEN WISDOM TEETH CREATE PROBLEMS

If all of your wisdom teeth have erupted without causing discomfort and other concerns, you're one of the lucky ones. Wisdom teeth may cause serious dental problems if left to fend for themselves.

They usually erupt or come through the gums between the ages of 16 and 30, one in each of the rear four corners of your jaw. Not everyone develops all four wisdom teeth, however, and there are even some people who don't develop any wisdom teeth at all. But most people do, and the complications can be painful as well as detrimental to your dental health. Sometimes wisdom teeth become impacted because they don't have enough room to break through the gums (or ancestors had bigger jaws to accommodate wisdom teeth). When this happens, they can throw your other teeth out of alignment. Sometimes they become infected, resulting in a painful and potentially hazardous abscess.

If your wisdom teeth are not causing any problems, perhaps they won't need to be extracted. But they should be checked carefully by your dentist and treated as needed to protect your dental health.

Prepared as a public service to promote better dental health. From the office of H. RAY HAZEN, D.D.S., M.S.D., P.C. 1329 Main St., Rochester, Phone 223-3121, 114 Mishawaka St., Akron, Phone 893-4545.

An enchanted evening by the Mississippi

by Bonnie Bickel

It may not be possible for you to visit the deep south this summer, but you can relax at the Wagon Wheel Playhouse in Warsaw and enjoy "Show Boat" now until August 16. You will quickly be enchanted into the southern environment by the musical production - just as if you were sitting on the banks of the Mississippi.

Although the musical was first performed in 1927, it tells an ever so familiar story of today. Couple falls in love and marries; husband can't handle family responsibilities; and wife left with child and must provide for herself and her child. But as can only happen in "Show Boat" the husband returns and life goes on happily. Richard Lissemore as Gaylord Ravenal the wondering husband quickly captured the audience with his magnetic singing voice only to be followed by his wife Magnolia portrayed by Sally Murphy.

Miss Murphy's rendition of "Can't Help Lovin' Dat Man" was especially dynamic. Adding to the delight of the evening was Syd Rushing as Joe. Mr. Rushing's deep voice was enhanced by his ability to captivate the audience while preparing them for the scenes ahead.

One cannot forget to mention the fine performances of Bill Bush as Captain Andy, and Ann Whitney as his puritanical wife (Parthy Ann Hawks).

"Show Boat" is the fourth production of the Wagon Wheel Playhouse summer season. Tickets are going quickly. For more ticket information and reservations call the Wagon Wheel Playhouse box office at 219-267-8041.

The final two productions of the summer include "Mister Roberts" which runs August 19 thru August 30, to be followed by "Cole".

Class of 1982 holds reunion

The Reunion Committee did a fantastic job as the Tippecanoe Valley High School class of 1982 held their 5-year reunion Saturday evening, August 1, in Warsaw at the Warsaw Park Pavilion.

The opening speech was given by Jerry Meadows, and then Doug Dickerhoff spoke on the condition of classmate Keith Haney who is in the Indianapolis hospital for cancer treatment. A collection was taken in his honor and a video tape was filmed throughout the course of the evening so that he could enjoy the reunion as well.

Following a carry-in dinner, there was a slide show, put together by Scott Miller, of many class members in their earlier years, which provided some quite enjoyable entertainment.

The remainder of the evening was free for conversation.

Live music was available for dancing, and later in the evening, gag gifts were given to those members who had "changed the least", "changed the most", "had driven the furthest", and who "had the most children" to name just a few.

Tennis to begin at TVHS

For any high school boy interested in being on the Tippecanoe Valley High School tennis team, practice will begin August 10, at 9:00 a.m. on the high school tennis courts. It will end at approximately 11:00 a.m. Please bring your physical papers with you. You will not be able to practice without them. Come ready to play!

35 attend reunion

The 65th Harmon Reunion was held at the Rochester City Park Sunday, July 26, 1987 with 35 present. They enjoyed a basket dinner at noon and looked at relatives pictures in the evening of other reunions. Marjorie Maglein and Marcia Nethercutt were elected officers. The next reunion will be held on the 4th Sunday in July, of 1988.

TVHS squad in contest

Cheerleading squads representing over 59 Indiana high schools will be competing for top honors on August 20 at the 1987 Indiana State Fair Cheerleaders Contest.

There will be 10 trophies given in both the varsity and reserve competitions. The squad taking top honors will receive jackets inscribed with "1987 Indiana State Fair Cheerleading Champions", a trophy and a $400 cash prize. In past years, new uniforms were awarded to the winners. A cash prize has been initiated because most of the cheerleading programs have a greater need for expense and equipment money than for uniforms. In order to accommodate the larger cash awards, this year's contest carries a $10 entry fee per squad. All entry monies go back into the contest in the form of cash prizes or trophies.

Sponsors of the 1987 Cheerleading Contest are the Indiana State Fair Board and Indiana Farmers Mutual Insurance Group.

Returning to the cheerleading contest this year as master of ceremonies is WRTV Channel 6 sportscaster Ed Sorenson. The contest begins at 8:00 a.m. and runs until 4:00 p.m. and will be held in the Farm Bureau Building at the north side of the fairgrounds, Tippecanoe Valley Varsity will perform from 3:56-4:00.

The 134th Indiana State Fair runs August 19-30.

Community's suggestions wanted

The "Street Scene" met on July 27 in the meeting room of the town hall in Mentone.

Vi McGowen reported on the painting of the trash barrels. Wayne Tombaugh donated the paint. Wayne has also worked on painting the curbs.

The Street Scene has received additional donations from the following people: June Reed, DuBois Distributors, Bill Winn, Darrell King, Francis Carter and Herschel Linn.

Several discussions on how to best utilize our funds are currently being investigated. Project ideas include benches and trash can containers, gazebo, a street scene mural on the side of a building, and a fitness walk.

The community's input, support, and help is needed. Call Vi McGowen at 353-7348 or Leafy Hudson at 353-7340 with your suggestions. You can make a difference!

Thank you to all who have supported this effort.

Mentone selling vehicle; purchase new town truck

The town of Mentone will be accepting sealed bids for a 1979 Chevrolet used truck. This announcement was made at last Monday's meeting. The town has purchased a new truck for town use. The sealed bids can be mailed to Box 506, Mentone, IN 46539. The bids will be opened at the Sept. 7 regular meeting.

The Mentone Town Board also delayed taking action on the hiring of a water and sewer superintendent. An individual, whose identity was not revealed, with a sewage certification is being considered for the position.

The individual will be obtaining his water certification by November. A few "modifications" may be made in the benefits being offered to this individual; thus the town board chose not to release the individuals name until checking to see if said persons would still be interested in the position.

The board also announced plans to change the traffic sign at the intersection of Tucker St. and Maple St. from a yield to a stop. The change will require an ordinance, since a fine will be charged to those who run the stop sign. According to board president Miriam Boardman, if a fine is enforced, there has to be an ordinance standing behind it.

In other business, Boardman announced that Kosciusko County Sheriff Ron Robinson is investigating an individual in Florida to fill the need of a town marshal.

Boardman is hoping to obtain the police service as a county officer.

In addition, the board signed NIPSCO contracts and agreed the town will pay the fire department $80. for flushing the hydrants during May.

Also, town workers have cleaned up the yards of the residents who didn't comply with the trash ordinance by cleaning up and mowing their yards, and bills for the jobs have been issued. If the bills are left unpaid, the town will take the cost of yard maintenance out of residents taxes.

Those residents who signed for curbing through the town, on a 50-50 cost basis, will be billed by the town as the curbs are installed. The town will receive the total bill from the contractor, leaving them in charge of billing the residents.

Suddenly Sorry

While growing up, games were a major pastime in my family. Among the board games which became our favorites were Monopoly and Sorry. Monopoly was played from time to time but Sorry was faster and quickly took the lead in popularity. Lately, the Sorry board has gotten a work-out at our house.

Recently, after my brother and sister-in-law stopped in for a visit, the Sorry board was once again the entertainment for the evening. In past years, the games had become heated and eventually the game put away. However, things have cooled and the board has been taken out of retirement. We play partners, men against the women, and the knitted eyebrows and thoughtful looks once again prevail.

Try as we may, my sister-in-law, Carol and I don't seem to have the right game strategy. We seldom get the opportunity to start in the game and once we finally get on the board, are so excited we can't make the right move. After repeated efforts to get ahead had failed, Carol announced, "Just for that, I'm not thinking anymore!"

"Bragging seems to be a downfall for the ladies. Once we make a correct move, we shout and pat ourselves on the back and rub it in to the opponents. However, this is rare. We have taken to considering every opportunity before making a final move. The men seem to give us free advice, they also cough a lot when we move and count spaces in hopes of taking us off the board. I'm sure these are all meant to unnerve us...and it works! We, on the other hand, rely on concentration and thought. We've decided that's where we go wrong. Hence the comment, 'I'm not thinking anymore!'"

During the next Sorry game, I'm playing it safe. Muzzles will be present to keep us from bragging on the few correct moves we make. A paper sack will be placed on Carol's side of the table in case of hypertension! I told you she gets excited, water will be present when our mouths get dry from anticipation and sharp objects removed in case of defeat!

Even though Carol and I are serious about winning a game once in a while, we haven't found the right combination to make it happen. We realize we are adults and try to behave as such. However, when given the opportunity to bump the opponent's piece off the board, I hurriedly chose one in front of me and at the same time Carol yells, "No, no, not that one...THIS one!!" "Wait, maybe you were right the first time!!" "No, wait...over there, over there!!" As it turned out, after all the quibbling, we never did take the right person off the board! As Doug and Tom so cleverly pointed this fact out to us, we laughed and vowed to get them the next game.

How long will we play this dastardly game? Until the pieces are worn down to nubs and the color scratched off the board!

My Life as a Composer

by Helen Dubois Kuhn

"Composing has been the love of my life" since I was a child. I realized my 'great desire' was blossoming into a reality when I saw my works published. Over a period of ten years I was published in magazines, in the Muncie Star's "Our Own Poets" and broadcast on several radio stations.

During these years I became a member of 'The Indiana State Composers', receiving the honor of being elected president for two years. This membership also gave me the honor of meeting some well-known artists such as 'The Gathers' when they were just beginning their careers and 'Barton Reese Pogue'.

A few of our composers also composed songs. This made me wonder how my lyrics would sound put to music. A True Tone child's piano was bought, and it was this way I knew what my lyrics put to music sounded like. Not knowing harmony, I sought the help of several local friends, namely Ruth Henderson, the daughter of Rev. Payne, and the help of Mary Wimmer. Later a very talented man in Richmond worked with me for a long time until his death. After his death God graciously brought 'The Gospel Mariner's' to a gospel sing I attended. I related my plight to their pianist, who was from Dayton, Ohio. He offered to take Ted's place and we worked together for many years. My work also appeared in song books.

Some of my songs that were recorded were "Is This That Day?", by 'The Travels Quartet' who were students at Marion College, "I Know He Cares" by 'The Singing Crusaders' on the Bibletone label and again by 'The Weatherford Quartet' on the RCA label. I also sold a song to Lorenz Publishers which was used for an anthem.

My ministry in song and poetry has been rewarding. My prayer is that others have been blessed, helped and inspired with the message my twenty songs carry. P.S. Eighteen songs have been entered into the Hartford City Public Library.

Members installed

In an impressive candle-light ceremony Lisa Adams and Brenda Ross were initiated into Kappa Delta Phi Sorority on August 4th. Carol Harsh, President, received the Pledges into Psi Kappa Chapter of Akron.

Kappa Delta Phi is a National Philanthropic Sorority with 69 Chapters throughout the United States. The National welfare project is aid to Occupational Therapy students.

Locally, the Chapter sponsors many worthwhile projects in addition to charitable work in the community. All proceeds from money making activities are used for this.

Business As Usual

John Parker is not pictured "as usual". Mr. Parker is shown helping at the Burkett food stand at the Kosciusko County Fair but his thoughts seem to be miles away. He is probably counting the number of days before returning to his more familiar setting - that being at Mentone School and coaching golf for TVHS. (NEWS Photo)

TOO TIRED

Too tired to think,
Too tired to pray.
Too tired to care,
My! What a day.
Too tired to worry,
Too tired to fret.
Tired to the bone
Just want to set.
Too tired to joke,
Too tired for cheer.
Wanna crawl into bed,
And sleep for a year.

SAVITIS

I'm affected with Savitis,
I save most everything,
From exotic recipes,
To odd bits of string.
There's patches saved for quilts,
Old furniture upstairs to mend.
But where will I find time,
With chickens now to tend.
I've a box of clippings,
Enough to fill a book.
And I could fill an album,
Of pictures I have took.
Bits of ribbon, faded flowers,
School books and work books too,
Bring back memories
Of things we used to do.
There's no time to fix new dishes,
To prepare a gourmet treat,
So I fix the same old stuff
We always have to eat.

I would like to thank my sponsors and family for supporting me in the Miss Teen Pageant. It was great to take a part of Akron with me to Lafayette this past weekend. I had a good time, learned many things, and met alot of new friends. Although I wasn't the pageant winner, I was a winner in having the opportunity to participate.

Thanks!

An unusual accident took place at the Roy Rush home, in east Mentone, about noon Saturday. Mr. Rush had just driven home and parked his auto in the approach to his garage, when he stepped over to talk with Mr. Greulich, who was working in the yard at the Darr home. Hearing a noise, Mr. Rush looked around and saw his car moving toward him. He attempted to hold it back, but failed. He found himself pinned against Mrs. Darr's porch. Mr. Rush was taken to the Murphy Medical Center at Warsaw where it was found that his right leg was broken below the knee and his left leg was badly bruised. Reports today were that the break had not been set because of the swelling in the broken limb. The bruised leg is healing nicely.

James Gill was injured at his home east of Mentone Thursday afternoon. He sustained a deep cut on his forehead when he came into close contact with the heels of a young colt. Several stitches were needed to close the wound.

As we go to press finishing touches are being put on exhibits, stalls are being put in readiness for the show, animals, and tents are sprouting up all over the fairground. With fair weather, Mentone should have the largest fair ever held here. Don't miss one of the various interests it has to offer.

For the fourth time in sixty-seven years, the AKRON NEWS is moving to another location, this time in a building specially built for it. When S.N. Shesler founded the NEWS in 1889, he printed it in an upstairs room over the present Akron theater building. In 1890 it was destroyed by fire, and Mr. Shesler had to start all over again, using the two room home which also housed his family for a temporary plant. In 1909 he built the brick structure where Doering's shop is now located, and it extended to the end of the business district. The NEWS was published there until 1932, when the present owners moved it to its location in the bank building. Today's paper is the last one to be published in its present location. The new building, located one block north and three blocks east, will be our home from now on.

Akron's Little Leaguers will close the season Friday night with a game between the Braves and Dodgers. A CHILD'S CHEWING HABITS

Have you ever watched the way your child chews his food? Does he chew his food in a straight up and down motion or is the motion "off side"? A child's chewing habits are an important clue to the alignment of his teeth. If they are not properly aligned, he may be compensating for this by developing chewing habits that can cause serious dental problems.

Malocclusion, for example, is the irregular alignment of teeth and improper meshing of the teeth during chewing. This dental problem may be the result of poor jaw relationships and improper muscle action. When the condition becomes severe it may cause deformation of the jaw and face. It can also have an adverse effect on the teeth. When a child's teeth are out of alignment, this not only interferes with good chewing habits, it can also cause teeth to become crooked and more susceptible to decay.

Dental care should begin at the earliest possible age to protect your child's dental health. Poor chewing habits may be a sign he has a dental problem that needs correcting.

Prepared as a public service to promote better dental health. From the office of H. RAY HAZEN, D.D.S., M.S.D., P.C. 1329 Main St., Rochester, Phone 223-3121, 114 Mishawaka St., Akron, Phone 893-4545.

Homesteading tales shared with family and friends

Grandmothers enjoy telling their granddaughters about the "good ole days", but when Valura Robison repeats the tales of her childhood days to her granddaughter, Joyce Stephen of Akron, the tales are bitter-sweet yet very amusing.

Valura, or "Granny" as she is known by family and friends, has lived through the era of the fastest growth in technology in the history of mankind. She has experienced traveling by covered wagon and also traveling by jet airliners.

At the young age of 84, Valura Robison has lived most of her life "down over the hill" east of Disko. Her quilting and sewing fills her days and leaves little time for idleness.

What makes Valura Robison unique from many senior citizens her age who have seen the same growth in modern technology is the fact that "Granny" has really lived it. At the tender age of seven, Valura left Indiana with her parents to homestead out west.

The Homestead Act of 1862 made it possible for adventurous families to start anew in the yet to be tamed wild west. To claim the land, the homesteader was required to stay on the claimed land for five years and make definite improvements in the land.

So it was in 1911 that Kathryn and George Smith and their daughter Valura headed west in a covered wagon. Valura recalls the perils of crossing the Missisissippi River while on the way to South Dakota. "We'd never seen anything like it. There was just no way the horses could make it. The water was above their backs!" explained Granny. The Smiths chose to cross on a ferry boat which they located downstream.

After spending several sleepless nights in pitched tents and after walking several hundreds of miles, the Smiths settled in South Dakota for three years. But the traveling spirit had not settled for the Smiths. In road to travel. "There was only one road - no paths, no nothin' - just one road and it went straight west. You didn't want to get off the road either. Your shoes would cake-up with red clay, but you'd just keep on goin'." When asked why you did not want to step off the beaten path, Granny chuckled and added, "cause you'd be quickly surrounded by bullsnakes if you did! That's why!"

Once the family reached Montana, they chose to homestead in an area approximately 18 miles from Powderville, Montana or 55 miles from Miles City, Montana. All Valura can remember seeing was mountains and hills, wild horses, wild cattle, and more bullsnakes. The first order of business was to build a house. In what seemed no time, a frame house was built; not a large one, the home according to Valura was only 10'x20'. There was room for bunk beds and a stove. Bare boards were the decor.

Valura can also remember building a make-do barn for their animals. The family cut nearby pines close to the mountains for the wood. Valura recalls making a plaster of grass and red mud to seal the cracks.

Making friends was not easy since the nearest neighbor was five miles away. Valura does remember going to Powderville once a week for mail and once a month for the dances.

Every spring and fall a rodeo was held to corral the cattle and horses on the open range. These were authentic

This is the covered wagon in which the Smiths traveled to Montana. It is quite different than our modern day vehicles.

Crossing the Yellowstone River was a victorious milestone in their journey. Once the mighty river was conquered, Valura explained how her father chose which roundups with most of the animals being wild.

Valura met and married Arthur (Doc) Robison in 1920. Doc was also a farmer trying to make a new beginning on the open plains. In 1922 George and Kathryn Smith along with Valura and Doc Robison decided to return to Akron, In. The family money was gone and so were the dreams of Granny could see little change in her two trips to Montana. The summers were making money out west.

Valura and Doc worked hard to rebuild their lives in Indiana. They now had two children, Esther and Bill. The pioneering spirit did not die for Doc. As relatives would write from Montana telling of the booming growth in the west, Doc pondered the dreams again of returning to Montana. So it was that Doc and Valura loaded their children and belongings into a Model A and headed west once again.

The Robisons third child, Sally, was born in Montana in 1931. With the dust storms and the effects of the Great Depression, hopes of getting rich raising alfalfa seed soon faded. Even with the use of the modern gas tractor, survival was all the Robisons could conquer. "Even the pet coyotes got mean; we had to kill them and we attempted to sell their hides. That still hot, the winters were still bitter cold, and there were still bullsnares! In 1934 Doc and Valura brought their family back to Indiana to rebuild their lives once again.

Since then Granny has not returned to Montana. When asked if she would like to, she quickly responded, "What for? Nothin's there but remains of the old school. No prairie dogs no more either" - just bullsnares.

Granny Valura Robison may never have made a fortune in Montana, but it is evident those experiences helped to build her character to be the strong-willed, self-sufficient woman she is today.

Valura has many tales to tell her granddaughter. Many of which are yet to be shared.

Deep tillage consideration

When soil compaction is observed in a field there are a variety of methods used to reduce the effects. One commonly considered option is deep tillage below the compacted layer. This is attractive because it can eliminate the problem in one operation. However, there are several factors that should be considered before deep tillage. First, is to examine the soil to see if compaction is a problem. The effect of soil compaction on crops often appears to be caused by other problems such as poor drainage. A first step is to identify the source of the problem. If you find that a dense layer is causing or contributing to the problem that is a first step.

The second important point is to wait for dry conditions before attempting to break up compaction with tillage.

Under wet conditions deep tillage can be ineffective and in some cases add to the problem. The third factor is being sure the size of the subsoiler and tractor are appropriate to do what is intended.

An important point to remember is that deep tillage is not a permanent cure for soil structural problems. It is possible for soils to recompact and to develop a more serious problem. Prior to deep tillage an analysis of past soil management is needed. If some of these practices that cause soil compaction such as wet fall plowing or excessive secondary tillage are not going to be eliminated it is doubtful that deep tillage will be a benefit. If these practices can be reduced then deep tillage may be a possibility if the cost of the operation is in line with expected benefits.

Thank God For Making Us Strong

With the beauty in each day, may we see.

What God has for both you and me.

Like the green of a cedar tree,

Which stays alive all the year through,

We too, are alive with His love and to be true,

Sometimes we are blue,

Because of what someone did or said,

But our heart He will mend.

And we too must help Him tend his sheep,

For His love He does send, Sometimes a word or two,

Can change a frown into a smile for me and you.

So let's not worry about what people say we do wrong,

But let's keep up above their way and sing a song,

And thank God for making us strong!

Akron Carnegie Library

New books available at the Akron Public Library are:

Power of the Sword, by Wilbur Smith - A novel of lifelong love and hate, of courage and revenge; the story of two half-brothers caught up in the tumult of their nation's history through almost two decades.

Polonaise, by Jane Aiken Hodge - A brilliant new saga from a rare and gifted novelist, which captures the passion and panoply of a fabulous age; set in the backdrop of Napoleon's Europe, the elegant courts of Paris, Warsaw, and St. Petersburg, and also the young and rough-hewn United States, as well as the wild Polish frontier.

The Third George, by Jean Plaidy - England slipped perilously close to chaos as madness and scandal sullied the throne of George III. The Third George is a sweeping novel of one woman's devotion - and a nation's destiny.

Brown Bear Summer, by Thomas Bledsoe - Thomas Bledsoe journeyed to southwestern Alaska for many summers to observe, over time, the individual and collective habits of these large carnivores.

The Pilgrimage, by Ann B. Ross - The adventures of the orphaned Heath sisters as they make their way along the perilous Oregon Trail in 1840, determined to reform the Indians, or at least to save their heathen souls. A serious plight and Twain-like cast of characters makes for wisdom and humor, not to be found in any novel for a very long while.

The Tragic Saga of the Indiana Indians, by Harold Allison - Most of the book consists of the accounts of the conflicts between the two diverse cultures and while it is a tragic story filled with killing, treachery, and often unspeakable acts of violence it is a part of our history and heritage.

Rendezvous with Love, by Jane Hinchman - When Miranda appeared during a snowstorm, Lord Wendover's spirit was renewed with great affection. A novel filled with romance, wit and unforgettable characters.

Playing Near Trees? Stay Away From Power Lines!

Those are all good tips. Because even as pretty as trees can be, they can create serious problems that can lead to injury or death when near power lines. The electrical cords on your appliances are insulated, but overhead power lines are not, and they carry many thousands of volts. So before there's "tree fun," there should always be tree safety. Why not tell your family and friends about tree safety?

We provide electricity to a 69 county area we call "Public Service, Indiana." Help make it a safe place to live by keeping the whole family informed.

Slumber By The Numbers: The Rituals Of Rest

In a desperate search for a good night's sleep, many Americans rely upon pre-sleep rituals.

Every night, for example, many of us undress, brush our teeth, wash our face and hands or bathe, put on pajamas or a nightgown, fluff up the pillow, adjust the window for ventilation and turn off the lights or the TV. Always in the same sequence.

The habitual, non-thinking nature of ritual provides physical and emotional tranquility. It says to your body: "You're safe and comfortable." And off you go to dreamland.

Rituals Work

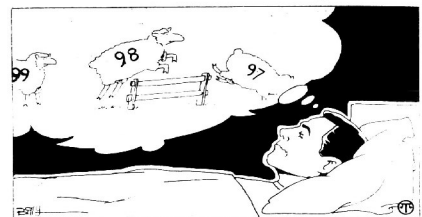

Most pre-sleep rituals aren't original or creative. They just work. Why?

Sleep researchers report that pleasantly repetitive actions, images or sounds can have a hypnotic, sleep-inducing effect on the mind. For example:

- Counting Sheep: This time-honored exercise works fine, which is why it is time-honored. If you don't like sheep, count something you do like—French poodles, pandas or minks.

- Progressive Relaxation: Alternate tensing and relaxing specific muscle groups develops a warm, suffusing glow that gently envelops you in drowsiness. Here's how. Lie on your back on a bed without a pillow. Close your eyes and be aware of your body, in turn tightening and relaxing your mouth, chin, eyelids, ears, neck, arms, hands, stomach, legs, feet.

You may have to do this several times before you completely unwind, although the possibility is that you will fall asleep without quite knowing why.

• Reciting Your Mantra.

Less conventional, but increasingly popular is the litany of the mantra, a Hindu hymn of praise. Actually, it is a mental focal point—a thought-sound that you can repeat with little effort.

Time-out Time

If you want a mind free of anxiety and a body relaxed and ready for sleep, try doing tasks you don't enjoy. Just before bed may be exactly the right time for such boring chores as polishing your shoes, doing the laundry, filling old correspondence, feeding the goldfish or reading a dull magazine article about Byzantine artifacts.

The Mattress Counts

With practice, sleep rituals do work. But they cannot compensate for a poor sleeping environment—a bedroom that is poorly ventilated, cold and noisy or a mattress that is lumpy or sagging.

You need fresh air, prevailing quiet and moderate warmth with a spacious bed and durable mattress that supports and comforts you.

What happens after treatment?

by Bill Brooks

Going to treatment can get an employee started on the road to recovery but what can the employer do when the man or woman gets back on the job?

Most treatment alumni are nervous and a little bit ill at ease when they first return to work. They wonder how the boss will treat them. They wonder how their co-workers will act around them.

Employers should remember, first of all, that people just out of treatment don't want to be treated any differently from those who go into any other type of hospital. They should be welcomed back, if not by the big boss, at least by the supervisor or foreman on the line.

Most co-workers will support the returnee's recovery. There's a saying, "Your real friends will understand. Those who don't may have a problem themselves."

Employers, particularly supervisors in the employee assistance program, should suggest the employee maintain a low profile when first back. Urge the recovering alcoholic or drug abuser not to argue with people about alcoholism or drug addiction.

Quite often, the ex-patient will hear, "Aw, you're no alcoholic! Why, you don't drink any more than any of us here." A sober example works wonders and arguing helps nobody.

During recovery, many people shy away from attending drinking functions. Most party-goers don't notice what others are drinking anyway, so the employee should not stay away for this reason. One recovering alcoholic says, "I grab a soft drink as soon as I get there and nobody ever asks, 'You got booze in there?'"

Recovering alcoholics and drug abusers should beware of amateur "experts" who may try to tell the returnee to "come on and have a soft drink with us at the tavern after work." Taverns are "slippery" places and the newly sober person should not be in them at all, whether co-workers understand the disease or not.

All returnees should stick to recovery plans, go to regular Alcoholics Anonymous or Narcotics Anonymous meetings. Nobody ever said it was easy staying sober. A day at a time, the newly returned employee will find that time is on his/her side. Especially when things go wrong and the temptation is to grab a drink or a pill to feel better.

Employers should, if possible, attend pre-discharge recovery plan meetings at the treatment center BEFORE the patient leaves. The patient will be told how many meetings to attend and what else to do. Some companies even ask employees to sign a recovery plan agreement so there is no doubt as to what is to be done when back at work. And keep it confidential!

The good news is that a rehabilitated employee is almost always a better worker than before and grateful that the job is still there when he gets out. He should get no special favors, nor should he be scrutinized daily as if he is a freak. The key is job performance. Either it improves after treatment or normal disciplinary procedures take over.

Here are signs to look for: Exhaustion, argumentativeness, self-pity, complacency, missing meetings, grudges, dishonesty, impatience, cockiness, bragging about not needing AA/NA any more.

Evangel Assembly of God to show "The Prodigal"

A fast-paced, modern-day allegory, akin to the familiar Bible story, The Prodigal, a World Wide Pictures Presentation, will be shown August 30, at Evangel Assembly of God.

Set in contemporary urban framework and intimately examining the gradual spiritual and emotional breakdown of an American family as each member searches for his identity, The Prodigal, was filmed entirely on location in Seattle and various other spectacular sites throughout the state of Washington.

Heading the outstanding cast are John Hammond, Hope Lange and John Cullum. Hammond, who portrays the title role of the wayward son caught up in the underworld web of drugs and sex, was recently starred in the hit mini-series "The Blue and the Gray." Award-winning actress Hope Lange stars as his confused and bewildered mother; while noted Broadway Tony Award winner, John Cullum, essays the role of his single-minded, career-consumed father.

World Wide Pictures, producers of such award-winning films as The Hidden Place and Joni, is the film organization of the Billy Graham Association, and the internationally-known evangelist has a cameo role in the picture.

In commenting on the feature-length The Prodigal the producer Ken Wales stated, "This is both an entertainment and a message piece. Some people will be uncomfortable when they see this film, as it strikes so close to home, paralleling so many of today's family situations. But we believe that the current trend of the public's willingness to examine its own conscience will place it on the 'must see' list of family entertainment."

Pastor K.R. Duke and the members of the Evangel Assembly of God extend an invitation to all to attend this special showing.

Manchester to host NWFZ fest

The Committee for a Nuclear Free North Manchester is sponsoring a Nuclear Weapons Free Zone (NWFZ) fest in Warvel Park, North Manchester, on August 16, starting at 1 p.m. The event is to promote the Committee's campaign, underway since this spring, to have the town of North Manchester declared a Nuclear Weapons Free Zone.

Highlights of the fest include free balloons, clowns, live folk music from Ft. Wayne musicians Dan Herney and Mike Dawson, and an address by fifth district US Representative Jim Jontz at 2 p.m.

Michelle Day and Bethany McFarland were among the Tippecanoe Valley area 4-Hers displaying projects at the Kosciusko County Fair. Michelle chose crafts and foods as her projects and Bethany chose foods, personality and swine. She received a Reserve Grand Champion for her swine. (NEWS Photo)

Students to be honored

The committee hopes to convince the town board to pass a resolution declaring North Manchester a NWFZ this fall. In doing so, North Manchester would join more than 130 cities and towns in the United States, like Chicago, IL, New York, NY, Miller, IN, and Wooster, OH. There are more than 150 similar campaigns underway in the US. Worldwide there are five nuclear free zone treaties, 21 nuclear free zone countries, and at least 3,607 nuclear free zone communities in 24 countries.

The proposed NWFZ resolution in North Manchester would prohibit the production and transportation and storage of nuclear weapons and hazardous nuclear wastes in the town limits. Copies of the resolution would be sent to all of North Manchester's state and national elected representatives, as well as embassies of nations known to possess nuclear weapons. Signs would also be posted at town limits.

Tips offered concerning "low-rate" air flights

If you plan to fly to your summer vacation destination, can you be certain you will receive the best ticket price?

If you do buy a low-priced ticket, how can you be certain you won't be "bumped" from a flight and left without transportation?

These are common problems since the Airline Deregulation Act, which drastically changed air travel.

Problems often are numerous when trying to plan a flight schedule. Deregulation has allowed airlines the ability to cancel a flight without notice. It also has complicated the ability of a consumer to get reimbursements for lost or damaged luggage.

The competition has led to the placement of advertisements concerning low fares that may not even be available at the time the advertisement appeared.

When planning a flight schedule, the best way to protect yourself from problems is to be careful when seeking information on prices of flights and conditions that may accompany them.

Often times, the least expensive flight will not be the most convenient because it might include stop-overs or connecting flights. Consumers who want to save money might want to consider booking something other than a non-stop flight.

Airlines offer fares which vary in price, and often include restrictions. Five or six different fares might be offered for any flight.

Consumers should try to book their flights as early as possible. This allows the best choice of flights and fares.

If you plan to have a travel agent book your flight, shop around among the agencies. As in any industry, some agents will work harder than others to find the best flight schedule and fares.

Flights that are not in peak times could be less expensive than those leaving before and after business hours. If possible, be flexible about arrival and departure times.

The Indiana Pork Producers Association will be sponsoring the 1987 Indiana State Fair Pork Cook-Off. The Cook-Off will be held Sunday August 23rd at 12:30 p.m. in front of the swine barn. Any person 18 years of age or older is eligible to compete. Entries will be accepted up to and including the day of the event.

This year a new division has been added to the contest. The new division will be one for "ground pork" products. This category will allow tasty ground pork entries a chance at the championship without having to compete against "fresh pork" products.

If you would like additional information about this event, please contact Joyce Meyer, Consumer Specialist for the Indiana Pork Producers Association.

Don't Miss The CLASSIFIEDS

"These could be the most important 3 points I've ever made."

When I'm playing basketball, 3-pointers can make a difference. And as public safety representative for Public Service Indiana, I have "3-pointers" that can save a life.

Point 1.
Overhead power lines are not insulated like home appliance cords.

Point 2.
Overhead power lines carry many thousands of volts of electricity that can injure or kill on contact.

Point 3.
Play it safe by always staying away from power lines.

If you'll remember these "3-pointers," you can help save someone from serious injury or death.

MICROWAVES are for COOKING

HOMEMADE CROUTONS ARE EASY IN A MICROWAVE

by Donovan Fandre

Salads contribute color and variety to a meal. What goes in them is often a reflection of our own personal tastes. Different textures are what make a salad special and croutons add the extra "crunch" that tops off the best.

Homemade croutons are easy to make in a microwave oven -- and it's a good way to get rid of leftover bread. Just cut French bread into dice-sized cubes and place in an appropriate bowl. Add 2 tablespoons olive oil and stir to coat evenly. Season with garlic salt or other seasonings to your taste. Microwave on HIGH (100%) for 1-1/2 minutes. Stir and microwave 1-1/2 minutes longer. Allow croutons to stand for a couple minutes until crispy. Store in an airtight container.

Consider serving these as a topping to creamy soups. Add a touch of finesse to a basic cream soup, such as mushroom, cheese or chicken. Puree thawed, frozen chopped broccoli or spinach and add to prepared soup; top with homemade croutons. It's a quick lunch idea that's sure to please.

The stalactites and stalagmites of Virginia's Luray Caverns sing of nature's beauty.

The 500-million-year-old Blue Ridge Mountains in Virginia are one of the most scenic above-ground views in the U.S. They're located very close to one of the most unusual underground sights.

The Central Entrance to Shenandoah National Park and its scenic Skyline Drive is only 10 minutes from internationally famous Luray Caverns. Though numerous caverns exist in the region the most noteworthy is Luray Caverns, a Registered National Landmark. Situated in the northern valley town of Luray is the largest and most popular cave in eastern America. Its variety of rock formations, in natural color, encompass a 64-acre area.

Circus coming to town

Clowns, Pretty Girls, Elephants, Lions and Tigers - It's the Circus!

In America today, there remains only one big tented circus which manages to maintain the traditional demanding schedule of one-day stands.

It's the glittering Golden Anniversary Edition of Carson & Barnes 5-Ring Circus, which brings its hundreds of performers and animals to Rochester for one day only, shows at 4:30 and 8:00 p.m. on Aug. 20, sponsored by the Fulton County Historical Society. At the end of that day they pack up their 3,000 tons of animals, tents, and equipment to head to another town where the coming of the "Big Show" is the major event of the year.

Carson & Barnes brings its "Biggest Big Top on Earth" more than a city block long, to some 230 towns and cities each season, moving to a new site virtually every day, seven days a week. While other circuses have reduced their size and changed their big city stays to multiple days, circus legend D.R. Miller has built and expanded the only organization still capable of moving a huge show of some 80 trucks and trailers every 24 hours.

Setting up this gigantic circus is a show in itself -- and it's all free. Parents and grandparents can bring youngsters to the circus site early on circus morning to watch without charge as the 200 wild, exotic and domestic animals are unloaded, watered and fed, and as some of the 25 elephants help in erecting the city-block-long tent.

Later, they can return for one of the two spectacular shows which feature a dozen animal trainers and a cast of some 95 human performers.

The show has a variety of acts, all described by circus management as "center ring caliber." Featured is Patricia White's mixed group of Nubian lions and Siberian tigers. You'll thrill to the sight of the Carson & Barnes elephants performing in all five rings at the same time.

Stellar new attractions include the comedy bareback riding act of the Alfonso Loyal-Repensky troupe; multi-ring teeterboard displays; Israel Portugal in a sensational high wire display at the apex of the tent; head balancing on the high swinging trapeze; a brilliantly costumed grand march; and a 40 person aerial ballet. Clowns, horses and a live brass band are featured, too.

Midway attractions open one hour before each show.

Tickets can be bought at the grounds on circus day as late as showtime. Each ticket purchased before showday is $1.00 less than at the gate. Tickets are available at local businesses and the Civic Center Museum.

Service Notes

Cadet Kevin A. Vedder, son of Eugene L. and Norma L. Vedder of Rt. 1, Rochester received practical work in military leadership at the U.S. Army ROTC advanced camp, Fort Lewis, Wash.

The six-week camp, attended by cadets normally between their third and fourth year of college, includes instruction in communications, management and survival training.

Successful completion of the advanced camp and graduation from college results in a commission as a second lieutenant in either the U.S. Army, Army Reserve, or National Guard for the cadet.

Vedder is a student at Indiana State University, Terre Haute.

Airman Jesse A. McGriff, son of Jackie A. Holloway and stepson of David Holloway of Rt. 1, Macy, has graduated from Air Force basic training at Lackland Air Force Base, Texas.

During the six weeks of training the airman studied the Air Force mission, organization and customs and received special training in human relations.

In addition, airmen who complete basic training earn credits toward an associate degree through the community college of the Air Force.

In Fashion

Linen, lace and denim are very much on the fashion scene.

Cotton eyelet or lace trimmed petticoats peek from the hem of full or pleated linen skirts. Some have button fronts with several buttons open to show the petticoat.

Denim continues to be big this season in light blue and stone-washed, bleached-out fabric. Petticoat trim is also used with denim.

The influence of the safari look is growing. Rich neutral colors like creme, cocoa and khaki come in most attractive combinations.

YOUR YARD

Sizing Up Your Storage Needs

Regardless of the size of your house or condominium, you probably share the common need for additional household storage space. All around the country, people are discovering that an onsite storage center provides the long-range benefits of extra storage right in their own backyard--benefits that include convenience, more room in the attic, basement and garage, and increased home resale value. You can even build your own from an easy kit that lets you do the job in a style to complement your home--from country colonial to contemporary.

Time saver: Using a power screwdriver or variable speed drill with magnetic tip bits can speed assembly time by as much as 40 percent.

Here are some storage building tips from experts at Arrow Group Industries:

- Galvanized steel or rust-free aluminum offer the most in performance, durability and value. Look for a building with improved door bracing and sliders and the corrosion protection of zinc galvanizing on every steel part.

- Choose a kit that includes factory painted parts, hardware, roofing materials and base frames, comes with a warranty and an easy-to-follow assembly owner's manual.

- Where to put the storage unit depends on how you use the items you've stored. If you use them a lot, put it close to your home or garage.

For a free brochure entitled "Homeowner's Guide To Outdoor Storage" and the location of a local storage building dealer in your state, write: Arrow Group Industries, P.O. Box 14, Haskell, NJ 07420.

Mentone, Silver Lake named in lawsuits

The Indiana Department of Environmental Management (IDEM) has announced that it will file suit against 31 Indiana communities including Mentone and Silver Lake, whose wastewater treatment facilities will not comply with the federal Clean Water Act by a July 1, 1988 deadline.

The judicial action by the department is "the only way we can ensure these communities comply with the provisions of the federal Clean Water Act and see that they are eligible for federal grant money to help them comply," said Jane Magee, assistant commissioner for the IDEM's Office of Water Management.

Mayors and town board presidents of the 31 affected communities should have received a letter from Magee last week with the details of the enforcement action and procedure for compliance. Magee has offered her staff to assist the communities in the effort to reach that goal. "This will be our top

Leiters Ford clubs were on hand for the evening. Several Past District Governors were also present. Jim Cameron, Past District

Governor and Indiana's candidate for INT. Director, was the guest speaker. He talked about his years as a Lion member and most recently his involvement in taking emergency vehicles to Guatemala and his trip to China.

Japanese family sees America in Akron

"America is a big, beautiful country in a small world." That is how Hiroshi Yamada of Yonbara, Japan, described America while visiting friends in Akron. Hiroshi and his family spent most of Friday on the Rudy Glingie farm to get a "first-hand" picture of what an American farm is like.

"Everything is so green... beautiful country."

Hiroshi Yamada and his family are staying with Bobbi Glingie's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Phillips of Free-mont, Ohio. The Phillips have put together a two-week whirlwind tour of American life for the Yamadas. During their visit in America, the Yamadas will have toured Washington, D.C., Philadelphia, New York City, Hershey, PA, Akron, IN,

South Bend, Chicago, Wright Patterson Air Force Base, Cedar Point Amusement Park, the Ohio State Fair, Sea World in Ohio, Niagara Falls, and parts of Canada. In Ohio the family will also be visiting a large dairy farm, a huge grain elevator, and a turkey farm, and last but not least, they will see a Cleveland Indians baseball game. Mrs. Phillips also prepared a traditional Thanksgiving meal including turkey with all the trimmings for Hiroshi and his family. The meal was one of the American traditions in which the Yamadas were interested.

Bob Phillips and Hiroshi Yamada met and became friends nearly twenty-three years ago. Since Mrs. Phillips is Japanese, she can assist with the communicating between the two families and others. Hiroshi

Vining mailbox

This unusual vine can be found around the mailbox of Fred Hammond west of Akron. The vine has climbed up the mailbox post and onto a circular frame above the box. It was reported to the NEWS office that this was a cucumber vine but the ripening produce looks more like melons to this reporter! (NEWS Photo)

Beautiful country

"We have farms also in Japan. But they (are) not as big," exclaimed Hiroshi. "big farm (in Japan) may be one or two acres." Mr. Yamada was particularly impressed with the open spaces of our agricultural region and the vivid colors of our natural landscape.

The Case of the Missing Mousse

Just about everyone has tried mousse for their hair. You know, the wondrous foam that makes the impossible possible. After my purchase of mousse, the can suddenly disappeared. Heaven only knows what was done that I didn't know about. I'm probably better not knowing. Then, one evening, Collin appeared in the family room smiling from ear to ear. Yes... he had moussed his hair!

Collin was 12 years old at the time, at the age where he was beginning to care about his looks from time to time. He was also at the age where our opinion meant a lot. Not wanting to discourage him from working with his hair, both Doug and I complimented him on his new image. During this time I kept a watchful eye on Doug. I was certain a heart attack was on its way! Surprisingly enough, he was very calm.

Later, after Collin left the room I asked Doug what he really thought of Collin's hair. He smiled and said he didn't think it looked too bad. I didn't think it looked too bad either. Somehow the name "spiked hair" scared me to death but in reality, it was a rounded crew cut! C.J. was blessed with straight hair, and there isn't too much a boy can do with it, but mousse came to the rescue! All of a sudden a new hair style which offered him height and a change when he was wanting something a little special.

Thinking we had passed another milestone easily I relaxed for a few days. Then suddenly I remembered some of the experiments that had taken place over the years at our house. Chris had put red food coloring in the shampoo bottle several years ago to "see what would happen", saw dust was found in my freezer to "see what it would do", cinnamon sprinkled on a plate and slid under the buffet to see how long it would keep its fragrance and the time aluminum foil and extra wires were hooked up to the television set "for better reception". I felt a cold clammy feeling coming over me. All of a sudden I feared for our dog, suppose she became the next candidate for the mousse? Suppose they decided to starch their clothes with mousse? Suppose they decided to spray mousse on an innocent spider as she raced by, or worse yet, suppose they would have a mousse fight in the house?

The thought of mousse running down my walls after a fight was too much, I felt faint. Can you imagine the mess! I've heard of kids who had egg fights before leaving for school and the mother returning home after work to find the dried eggs all over the place! What next?

This was it. I had to get a grip. Nothing had happened, at least not yet. So far, I was worried about something the boys hadn't even thought of, at least I hope they hadn't. All of a sudden, I was awakened by Collin saying, "Mom, do you care if I go down to Jamie's?"

Yes, I had fallen asleep and it had all been a dream. Collin did moussed his hair but the dog lucked out. If it can happen to Dallas, it can happen to anyone!

Business As Usual

Keeping up with the farmers needs during these busy days is Jim Harsh. Jim has been hauling for Marathon for over 11 years in the Akron area. When you see his big red, white, and blue truck going down the road, be sure and give him a smile and a wave hello.

MY BOYS
By Esther C. Adams

My boys are something special,
'Cause each in his own way,
Does so many little things
To brighten up my day.

It may be just a story,
Or a joke he may tell,
That brings a little laughter,
And makes my day so swell.

Or maybe he's Mr. Fix-It,
And mends a thing or two.
The cheerful way he does it,
Cheers me thru and thru.

So my boys are real special,
That you can see.

No wonder I love them,
They do so much for me.

Orpha's health remained excellent until five years ago, when she suffered a stroke at 108. She has since suffered a second stroke.

Orpha's secret on how to live to 112? "Listen to your parents".

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Kime of Chili and Mr. and Mrs. C.O. They wanted him to go to New York to be on the show, but Mr. Kime refused because he would not disappoint his friends for a fishing trip. The New York man even promised to send an airplane to pick him up at the Michigan Lake, but still Mr. Kime refused - or rather declined for the moment. Latest word is that Mr. Kime is studying up on all possible angles of conservation, as he is expected to be on the show one of these Tuesdays in the very near future.

The annual Mentone fair came to a successful close Saturday night and the sponsors, the Lions Club, drew a deep sigh and prepared to take things easy for a bit and enjoy the assurance of a task well done. And it was a task well done. Too much credit cannot be given this organization for successfully putting over an enterprise of this kind. Several new departments were added to the fair this year and all received excellent support. The attendance during the entire four days was the best Mentone has ever had. The drawing for the Lion Club raffle was held Saturday night with the following results. The Kelvinator refrigerator was won by Eydia Stokes of Warsaw. The Fairbanks-Morse washer went to Mr. I.A. Nelson. The Mix Master was won by Mr. Tommie Blue. Alfred Free won the N.I.C.A. coal guessing contest, and won the pile of coal. Mr. Free guessed the exact weight, 1250 pounds. Jesse Hileman of Disko won second prize, five gallons of gas, and Lillian Igo won third prize, a chicken feeder.

Miss Dorothy Lee of Tippecanoe, who is employed at the home of Mrs. Mary Tucker, fell on the basement steps Sunday of last week and broke her ankle. Dr. Urshel set the bone and she is improving nicely now.

Little Mary Lou Johnson, six-year old granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Pittman broke her left forearm Wednesday morning when she fell from a fence on her grandfather's farm north of town. The injury was not considered serious until she was brought to the office of Dr. Urshel Wednesday evening and an X-ray was taken by Dr. VanGilder which showed that what was thought to be a sprain, was really a break. The child was taken to Dr. Baum in Warsaw for the special treatment which was required and the setting of the bone. She is getting along nicely now.

O.A. Heighway, who was injured during the parade Saturday afternoon when he was knocked from his horse, is convalescing at his home near Mentone.

Going hog wild over pork trivia

While touring the 1987 Indiana State Fair you may feel like going "hog wild" and take a short trip through the Swine Barn. To make that trip even more enjoyable you may want to brush up on your "hog wild trivia".

Primitive man shared his domain with wild boars over 600,000 years ago. The first known pictures of hogs appeared over 30,000 years ago. There's hog memorabilia that dates back 8,500 years. Scientific proof that domestication of the species began 7,000 years ago. And there are written accounts of hog husbandry that date back almost 6,500 years.

Explorers brought pigs to the new world and American settlers took them westward in covered wagons. Americans have been going "hog wild" ever since.

Local 4-H'ers attending State Leadership school

Most teens would not look forward to school starting early, but some 250 Indiana youths are anticipating the Annual State Fair Leadership School which is being held at the State Fairgrounds in Indianapolis, August 19-30.

Each county is eligible to send as many as six young men and women to the conference. Eligible 4-H members must be between the ages of 16-19 during the calendar year. Attending the State Fair Youth School from Kosciusko County this year are Katti Stroup, Rt. 5, Warsaw; Lisa Kaiser, Rt. 2, Milford; and Paul Berkey, Rt. 1, Claypool.

The Indiana State Fair Youth School is a program developed to assist Indiana youth in the development of leadership skills as well as a greater appreciation for the state of Indiana. The school also encourages delegates to look more closely into areas of state government, American culture and human relations as well as look at potential career opportunities open to them.

Delegates are housed in dormitories on the State Fairgrounds. During the State Fair, they attend special events such as the Giant Balloon Race, Indiana 4-H Adult Volunteer Leader's Day Program, 4-H Fashion

Revue, and the Spotlight Sale.

The young adults are given at least two hours of free time daily toward a group project to improve the fair buildings or grounds. By their own choice, they select and carry out activities such as painting, cleaning, landscaping or redecorating. All of the work time is donated.

Participants in the school take part in mock legislative sessions in the House Chambers of the State Capitol Building. They also tour the State Capitol, Indiana State Fair Building. They also tour the State Capitol, Indiana State Fair Departments, and the Indianapolis Children's Museum, as well as participate in seminars on automotive preventive maintenance and outdoor cooking.

Delegates for the Indiana State Fair Youth School are selected by a committee of community leaders making up the 4-H Awards Committee. School directors are assisted each year by a group of young adults returning as an honor group. Kosciusko County has one delegate returning to assist with the State Fair School this year.

4-H Calendar

Aug. 19-30 Indiana State Fair; 19 - Claypool 4-H Club Meetings, 7:00 p.m., Claypool Lions Building; 22 - "4-H Adult Leader Day", Indiana State Fair; 24 - Lake City Lassies and Lads 4-H Club Meeting, 7:00 p.m., Justice Building Lounge; Sept. 1 - 4-H members pick up State Fair Projects at Extension office.

INJURIES TO THE MOUTH

Sports injuries, auto accidents, or even a simple fall or collision involving the mouth may require a dentist's help to prevent loss of teeth.

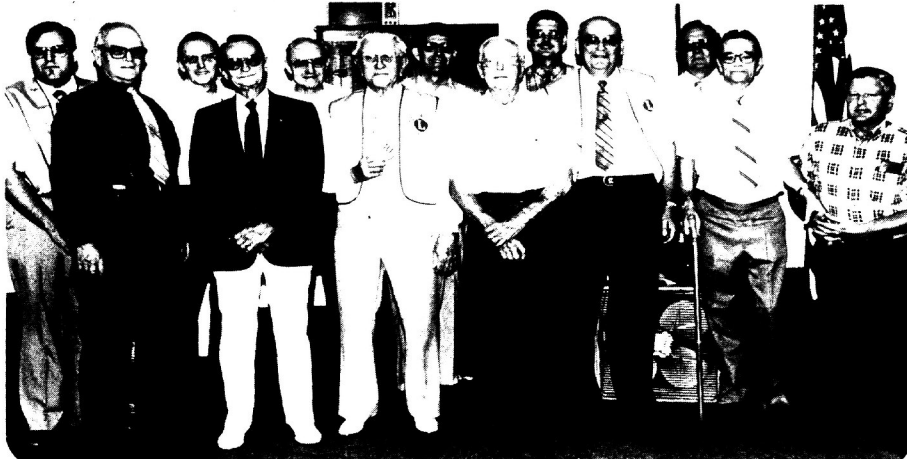

There may be no sign of broken, chipped, or cracked teeth. But there may be other signals that something is wrong. The impact of a fall or collision can tear the delicate blood vessels inside the pulp of a tooth, causing it to bleed. This will cause a discoloration of the injured tooth. If it isn't treated in time, it may abscess. If you wait for that to happen, you may lose the tooth. Prompt treatment by a dentist can save it. The key word is prompt.

If a tooth has been cracked, the dentist may make a splint to hold the tooth in place. Then there is a good chance the tooth can heal itself. Broken teeth present a greater problem. But if the root is intact, it can usually be saved.

Any mouth injury should be checked by your dentist. Why take chances on losing teeth? No replacement tooth is ever as good or as strong as the original.

Prepared as a public service to promote better dental health. From the office of H. RAY HAZEN, D.D.S., M.S.D., P.C. 1329 Main St., Rochester, Phone 223-3121, 114 Mishawaka St., Akron, Phone 893-4545.

Roann to host women's retreat September 22

"His Name Is Wonderful" will be the theme for the eighth annual - Roann Retreat.

Scheduled from 9 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. September 22 at the Roann school building, this Christian Retreat is for all women in the Roann community and surrounding areas.

Marilee Horton, internationally known speaker, author, and current Director of Child Evangelism Fellowship, Inc. of Broward Co., Florida, will be the guest speaker. She has spoken in nearly every state and some foreign countries over the last eighteen years. She has been featured on T.V. and radio programs including Tim and Beverly LaHayes' program and Dr. James Dobson's Focus on the Family. Her books include "Dear Mama, Please Don't Die", which deals with a suicide attempt in 1975 after many years of suffering pain; "Free to Stay at Home," a Women's Alternative", and "Keeping Your Balance", written with Christian Psychiatrist, Dr. Walter Byrd, of the famed Mier-Minirth Clinic in Dallas, Texas.

Marilee has founded a ministry to help women and their families learn how to communicate, build and heal relationships. The purpose of Balanced Life Ministries is to teach women to win over worry; defeat depression and ably handle anger and anxiety and to be well in body, soul and spirit.

Guest musician will be Mary Lu Cannon, soprano soloist, from Winona Lake, Indiana. Mary Lu studied voice at Greenville College in Greenville, Illinois, where she traveled for the college in a music ministry ensemble and was a member and soloist of the a cappella choir. Earlier she toured Europe with the School Chorus of America. She has been featured vocalist for women's retreats, church congregations and community gatherings. She is currently developing a Christian concert ministry.

We meet many people, as we walk through life. We meet as children, going to school;

Growing older, some become husband and wife. Some don't stay friends, moving on as a rule.

So as we meet people, from young through old. Let's try to make some memories, we can keep.

Memories, which can be told and retold. So look for that friend, they're out there to meet.

Beaver Dam registration underway

To familiarize children with craft materials such as crayons, clay, paint, scissors, and glue; to be able to get along with other children and teachers, and to model Christian behavior are among the desires listed in the philosophy of the Beaver Dam Nursery School. The directors of the school are reviewing that philosophy as they begin to organize the structure for another school year.

Classes, which will begin September 9, are now being formed for children who were 3 or 4 years old by August 1, 1987. Head teacher Theresa Alber has announced that the 3 year old class will be meeting on Mondays and Wednesdays while the 4 year old class will be meeting on Mondays, Wednesdays, and Thursdays. Class will be in session from 9:00 to 11:00 a.m.

Registration fees have also been set for the Beaver Dam Nursery School. A non-refundable registration fee of $10.00 will be charged for both 3 and 4 year olds. The monthly tuition for 3 year olds is $23.00 and $28.00 for 4 year olds. Families with two children enrolled will get a $10.00 discount on the tuition.

For more information concerning the nursery school, contact Theresa Alber at 353-7157 or the assistant teacher, Bonnie Jarboe, at 353-7290.

Swim team practices to begin

The Tippecanoe Valley Girls Swim Team will hold its first practice this Thursday, August 20, at the high school pool from 9:00 - 10:30. All girls with a desire to work and improve are invited to try out for the team.

Team goals, rules and the season schedule will be discussed. Those planning to swim this season should have their physicals by the first practice.

Special help courses for school students

A course designed for students who are in elementary, middle school, junior high or high school who wish to improve their reading skills will be offered by the Department of Reading at Saint Francis College beginning September 12. Classes will meet on Saturdays through December 19.

Classes are designed to improve reading speed, vocabulary, comprehension, and learning study skills. Reading accelerators, computers, and printed materials will be used to facilitate learning.

The total cost for course and materials is $185.00.

A course designed for students in the fifth through the eighth grade, who need to improve their study skills

TV Band Boosters honor workers

Carol and Royce Allison were recently honored by the Tippecanoe Valley Band Booster organization for their loyal service to the organization. Also receiving special recognition were Susie Hatfield as past secretary, Bev McAfoose as the past treasurer, and Russ McAfoose as the past vice president.

The Band Boosters held a car wash last Saturday which was well supported by the community. Appreciation is extended to all parents and students who helped with the car wash.

A schedule of music events has been released by Mike Pearson, Tippecanoe Valley band director. The first marching contest of the 1987-88 season will be held September 12 at Lawrence Central followed by the Whitko "Symphony of Sound" contest on September 19. The Concord "Marching Band Spectacular" is also September 19 and the Vikes will be participating in both contests. The Midwestern Marching Festival which is Sept. 26 will close out the month's list of contests for the local band.

The band will continue with a busy schedule in October with ISSMA District contest on the 3rd. Other contests in October are the Bands of America Midwest Regional - October 10; ISSMA Regional Contest - October 18; and the ISSMA Finals - October 25.

Two big events for the band boosters are already in the planning. An auction concert has been scheduled for November 7 and the Valentine's Sweetheart Dinner Concert is set for February 10. Be sure to watch the NEWS for more information on these two special events.

The band will also be performing at the home football and basketball games. The Viking Guard needs the support of the community as well as other school sports. Be sure and look for the Viking Guard updates and be ready to support the band.

Phyllis Biddinger, the 1987-88 president of the TV Band Boosters, presented Carol Allison with a plaque of appreciation for her year of extra hard work "above and beyond the call of duty" as last year's president of the Band Boosters. (NEWS Photo)

Royce Allison was given a special award for his dedication and loyalty to the Viking Guard. The "special husband to the president" award was a specially designed replica of the Viking Guard podium. Presenting the award was Martha Utter. (NEWS Photo)

Mr. Yamada designs wastewater treatment plants in Japan and his wife, Kuzuyo, teaches school. The Yamadas have a son Takashi who is 16 years old, and a daughter Rina who is 12 years old. The children have also been fascinated with the American way of life. There is quite a contrast in lifestyles of the Japanese and the American teenagers. The Japanese teens are much more reserved in their actions and speaking manner. They are also very shy. Takashi has commented to his father about the "boldness of the American teen". The Phillips of Ohio, and the Yamadas of Yanabara, Japan, have developed a unique friendship. It is an example of the bond of love that distance, different lifestyles, nor governments can break. It is what makes this a small world.

"Mister Roberts" at Warsaw playhouse

"Mister Roberts" the comedy that was called by Life Magazine "the finest war play of our generation," will open at the Wagon Wheel Playhouse tonight, August 19, and run through August 30.

"Mister Roberts" is the uproariously funny, yet tender, story of the men on a Navy cargo ship during World War II. It's chief character is Lt. (jg) Roberts (portrayed by James Tillett), who anxiously applies for a combat assignment, but whose captain continually refuses to authorize his transfer.

Tom Roland will direct the show and portray the small-minded, cold-hearted captain of the ship. Laura Donnelly will be seen as the only woman in the cast, an Army nurse, whose visit aboard the ship, creates one of the many amusing incidents in which the play abounds. Ensign Pulver will be played by Troy West, the bragging officer who shares Roberts' quarters and whose daydreams of some day showing some spine to the captain are one of the most hilarious features of the play. Bill Bush, a Wagon Wheel favorite, will play the character of the clearheaded and sympathetic ship's doctor.

"Mister Roberts" is the second to the last show of the Wagon Wheel Playhouse season which will conclude with "Cole" (a Cole Porter musical revue). Tickets for "Mister Roberts" are on sale and can be reserved by calling the Wagon Wheel Ticket Office at (219) 267-8041.

50's group to perform

The Van-Dells will be in concert at the Beef & Boards Dinner Theatre, August 31 and September 1 in Indianapolis.

Included in their show are tribute numbers to various groups such as the Everly Brothers and Righteous Brothers. Overall the Van-Dells are one act you must see to appreciate.

For tickets or more information, call 317-872-9664.

Cities, schools and local governmental units have saved approximately six-hundred and sixty thousand dollars on purchasing vehicles on state contracts this past fiscal year.

Examples of a few vehicle savings enjoyed by the political subdivisions:

Mooreville Police Department saved $3000 per unit on police cars.; Town of Ferdinand saved $1,325 on a truck; Clarksville Police Department saved $3,464.75 on cars; and Town of Monon saved $2,500 on a pick-up.

The program authorized by 1984 legislature, is known as Intergovernmental Co-operative Purchasing Program and was designed to permit local governmental units to take advantage of mass purchasing power enjoyed by the State of Indiana.

The second item most used by local units was tires and tubes with estimated purchases of $853,000.

Among the many products available are: light bulbs, office equipment and supplies, radar equipment, wiping rags, etc.

The list is growing rapidly as additional contracts are bid.

Sweetner OK; the rat lives!

No link was found between consumption of high doses of the low calorie sweetener aspartame and seizures in studies conducted by Drs. Phillip C. Jobe and John W. Dailey at the University of Illinois College of Medicine at Peoria.

Jobe and Dailey, noted authorities in epilepsy research, conducted studies to determine whether rats particularly sensitive to seizures were affected by oral consumption of aspartame. Rats were given doses of aspartame equivalent to the amount an average-sized man would consume if he could drink 750 12-ounce cans of diet soda at one time. None had seizures. In addition, the scientists used sound to induce seizures in the rats, and found that the severity of the seizures was not greater in those that had consumed aspartame.

Is it time yet?

Most school children can tell you two negatives make a positive, but few can name the man who first said so. It's said to have been John Lowth who first laid down that rule of grammar in 1762.

Ann Chubb named as coordinator

Hoosiers for Safety Belts, a statewide non-profit coalition, has named Ann Chubb as Tippecanoe Valley area coordinator.

Chubb will help with Hoosiers for Safety Belts efforts to save lives and reduce injuries by encouraging the use of safety belts. "I want to make buckling up a habit for everyone," she said. "By working with the students in our area, I think that they will help adults know how very important wearing a seat belt is all the time."

As Tippecanoe Valley's coordinator, Chubb will be working with local police and organizations to help get area motorists buckled up. She'll be looking for area residents to become members of the Saved by the Belt Club and planning a special safety belt promotion in the schools.

"We need residents from all over Indiana to help spread the word that safety belts save lives," said Jeffrey Diver, executive director of Hoosiers for Safety Belts. "We're pleased Ann will be working with us in the Tippecanoe Valley area.

Chubb added, "The lack of safety belt use affects all of us. Indiana taxpayers paid about $1.6 billion for traffic accidents in 1985. Traffic accidents are a tremendous financial burden for everyone. But, more importantly, many lives that were lost could have been saved by using a seat belt."

Hoosiers for Safety Belts welcomes all members. Just fill out an application for free membership. Indiana's Saved by the Belt Club, which is sponsored by the Indiana Association of Highway Safety Leaders is made up of accident "survivors" who believe safety belts saved their lives or at least helped them escape serious injury. Any area resident interested in joining these groups should call Ann Chubb at area schools or at home (267-6317), or call Hoosiers for Safety Belts at 317-631-1510. Ann welcomes groups or clubs that need special programs on seatbelt safety.

priority," she said. The governments of the 31 municipalities have 60 days to negotiate settlement terms with the state or face court action. Of the 31, 17 have outdated facilities unable to meet their discharge limits, and 14 are unanswered. Mentone and Silver Lake are both listed under the unanswered communities.

The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency is mandating that each state initiate enforcement action against local governments that have not improved or constructed treatment plants. Enacted 15 years ago in 1972, the law requires all municipalities and industries to comply with its water quality objectives whether or not federal funds are involved. Notice of the wastewater facility compliance deadline was first given to all Indiana communities in March of 1984. Since then, 137 municipalities that do not comply with the Clean Water Act have reached an administrative agreement with the state to meet the deadline and are expected to complete construction work before July 1, 1988. Twenty more communities have reached agreements with the state by judicial order.

About $110 million in federal construction grant funds will be available to Indiana through 1988 to pay for 55 percent of the eligible cost of a wastewater treatment project. The state will provide an additional 20 percent, and local governments are responsible for financing the remainder of the project cost. Starting in 1989, however, the federal Water Quality Act of 1987 will require federal funds to go into a state revolving loan fund to provide low-interest loans to local governments that still have not met their wastewater treatment needs.

1987 school budget to be adopted Aug. 27

Additional appropriations from the cumulative building fund along with 1987-88 budget met no opposition during the recent meeting of the Tippecanoe Valley School Board. The corporation's budget was approved as it had been advertised. During the August 27 meeting the budget will be adopted.

With the local hearing for $300,000 in additional appropriations for repair of the high school roof completed, it will now go the state for approval.

Although a few ends need to be put together, the area elementary and junior high schools were ready for opening day, August 25. Progress is still going well, if not completed, at the construction sites.

The board policy manual, due process manual and student and faculty handbooks were adopted by the board. A new curriculum of science, business, high school home economics, and computer science (K-12) and physical education was also approved and adopted by the board.

In other business, the board approved tentative teacher, bus driver and extra-curricular assignments for the 1987-88 school year, and the employment of Priscilla Burdge and Amy Stearley as teachers for the Akron Elementary School.

Time set for park clean-up

All Mentone Youth League board members, coaches, umpires, and parents are being asked to join at the Youth League Park in Mentone on Saturday, August 29, at 9:00 a.m. to help clean the park and do some repair work that needs to be done.

Some of the things to do are scrape and paint the bleachers, take signs down, pick up trash and pull weeds.

Juanita Perry is asking for a good turnout so a lot of the work can get done in a short time...many hands make light work!

Mr. Griffis named as top citizen

The town of Burket held a fun day last Saturday with the highlights of the day being the crowning of the Cutie Queen and King and the naming of the Citizen of the Year.

Named as Citizen of the Year was Bill Griffis, while the Cutie Queen and King were Jamie Baker and Eddie Sexton. Pet Parade winners were Christopher Yates, who exhibited his dog, Shorty; Chad Zartman, with a guinea pig; Brian Slone, who showed a chicken in the farm animals category; and Nicke Borem, who showed her cats.

Griffis has lived in Burket for 30 years, is married and has one son and four grandchildren. He has served as an officer on the fire department and helped bring about that facility to Burket.

For many years, he did maintenance on the fire station building, worked on ditches, streets and plowed snow whenever necessary. He serves on the town board and formerly was president of the board.

Final payment made

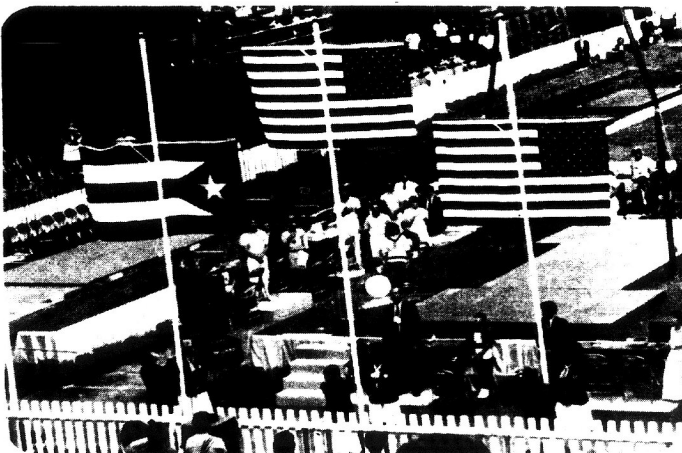

The final payment has been made on the municipal bond purchased to install the lagoon type sewage system in Akron. The bond was purchased in 1970. It was a big decision for the Akron Town Board to make and it was met with opposition by residents of the community. Board members at the time were Jack Stucker (president), Ernie Smith, Joe Day, and Merrill Kendall.

The board accepted a bid of $415,554.70 on the contingency of receiving a federal grant and on the sale of the bond. Federal money was approved as well the municipal bond and the work proceeded.

Ron Dittman appointed Akron town marshal

Ron Dittman has been appointed acting marshal for a 90 day probation period in Akron. This announcement was made at last week's meeting of the Akron Town Board. The position was made available when Rod Fisher resigned last month.

The installation of new street lights has been completed in Akron by Public Service of Indiana. Town Board President Jack Miller also reported that the town truck has been repaired and that a new fire hydrant has been installed on South Mishawaka Street.

Superintendent Gearhart was commended during the meeting for his extra efforts to steam clean and wax the town equipment.

During the meeting, Bob Allen requested a temporary restricted parking space for the United Methodist Nursery School. The request is under the consideration of the board.

The board has also announced that the street repair in Akron has been completed. The chipping and sealing of local streets was completed on Wednesday.

The September meeting of the Akron town board will be held on September 22.

Student council appreciated

Parents and Students,

Once again we have had an outstanding pre-registration at Tippecanoe Valley High School. This is due to your cooperation and the efforts of our Student Council. Thanks to Mr. Welch and Mrs. Carmichael, schedule problems were resolved quickly.

1987-88 promises to be a highly successful year academically, creatively, and athletically.

Thanks again for helping us get the year off to a great start.

Tax levies opposed

This letter is to both the property taxpayers and renters of our Tippecanoe Valley School District and is from a family with a long history of farming and public school teaching.

The proposed tax levies as published in the recently mailed "The Valley Advance" are 11.8% higher than those under which our district is operating. And 49.7% higher than just two years ago. The building needed to be done and teacher salaries are not out of line. It seems an act of self defense to understand how much of the requested funds are mandated by law and how much are nice to have but not required for graduation.

The breakdown is available in the Corporation office. The accounts that might well yield evidence that should be challenged are those of those listed as Support Services. These account for 39.4% of the total. Do we want funded to the extent proposed all of each of these? We can find out and appear at the public hearing at the School Administration Office August 27th. That does not give much time.

Are we going to be like the lines in literature:

"He was oppressed and afflicted,
"Yet he opened not his mouth;
"He was led as a lamb to slaughter,
"As a sheep before his shearers is dumb?"
We may make a difference!

MODERN FARM WIFE

Time was when a Farmer's Wife,
Just washed and cleaned and cooked,
Gardened, canned and chickens tend
And after children looked.
But now in the cow barn,
Or in the farrowing pen,
Caring for calves and pigs
She's the rival of the men.
You'll find her on the tractor,
In her old blue jeans,
Ready to help plow and plant
Those acres of corn and beans.
She's out in the hay field
Helping make the hay.
In corn and bean harvest
She really has her day.
She's her Farmer's Secretary,
Laundress, Gardner, Cook,
His "git me this and git me that,
Her jobs would make a book.

A new beginning.

Where There's Smoke...There's Our Grill!

At the beginning of spring, my mind went back to years past, as the grill was carried outside for our cookouts. I shuttered at the memories of the 12" flames and nearly singed eyebrows. The grills in question are the inexpensive ones with the lever in front to raise and lower the grate, no lid or hood. These grills serve their purpose when on a limited budget, however, as our budget eased a little, we decided to invest in a kettle grill.

Doug was clearly pleased as the Father's Day present was unveiled. It was something he not only wanted but desperately needed. The boys and I had made a good choice! He instantly wanted to try the grill out. Our apprehension disappeared as he showed us how enjoyable it could be with the proper tools and a good grill. At last, I could put the number of the fire department away!

You're probably thinking this is an exaggeration. Believe me, we not only had the usual cooking tools but also spray bottles for fires, hot pads and mitts to turn the grate when it wouldn't turn on its own and bricks to set the grate on top of when we didn't want to chance the lever any longer. Oh, the lever would raise and lower the grate, but not when you first moved it, you could shake the grate and it would remain the same then two minutes later drop an inch or two! Tempters would flare at this point! Cooking on this type of grill isn't just a challenge...it's a quest!

We sit back and wonder how we made it through all those times of roaring flames which gave "char-broiled" a new meaning! Gone are the days of considering a fire extinguisher as part of our cooking tools. We can remember the grate that wouldn't remain level and the hot dogs that would roll downhill and eventually into the coals below. Our dog will miss this part, she only gets an occasional scrap now. We actually have rare meat when we want it, before there was only one kind, well charred!

Doug has mastered everything from frankfurters to smoked turkey with delicious results. What a relief to see him relaxing in a lawn chair instead of waiting anxiously for the next crisis.

With Labor Day around the corner and the grilling season soon slowing down this may be the ideal time to say good-bye to your old grill and end the summer on a happy note with a kettle grill. I'm convinced these grills have started a "New Beginning" in grilling for the family and family reunions this Labor Day weekend.

Restrictions to bend during harvest season

Legislation exempting trucks carrying farm commodities during harvest season from weight limits will take effect September 1.

Senator Justice, of Logan, sponsored the legislation during the 1987 legislative session to help farmers cut transportation costs. Limitations are incorporated into the new law in order to insure continued safety for motorists on Indiana's roads.

The legislation will allow farmers to transport farm commodities such as corn and soybeans from the place of production to the crops' first destination, such as a weight station, with more flexibility. Under the new law, the total weight of a load must not exceed state-imposed weight limits by more than 10 percent. The legislation is an attempt to allow farmers to get produce to market as quickly as possible and to cut down on transportation costs.

"We impose weight restrictions as safety factors and we don't like to make exceptions to the rule. Restrictions are made to prevent injury and save lives," said Justice. "But we felt the risk here was extremely minimal. Rarely do farmers transport their commodities great distances from home and few travel our state highways or through busy cities to get to grain elevators and weight stations. By limiting these exemptions to first-destination travel only, we are significantly confining the travel to short distances."

The legislation does not exempt trucks transporting farm commodities from weight restrictions on bridges, highways or interstates. This was done in an effort to limit the instances where over-weight trucks could come in contact with high volumes of traffic.

Weight restrictions are imposed by the Indiana Department of Highways. The department bases its restrictions on federal statutes concerning the size of trucks and distances between axles. Special weight restrictions such as on low-tonnage bridges are determined by the physical soundness of each individual structure.

Former Indiana Governor Welch to be honored

The Indiana Democratic Editorial Association (IDEA) will have a special tribute to former Indiana Governor Matthew Welch and members of his administration during IDEA's August 27-30 annual meeting at the French Lick Springs Golf and Tennis Resort in French Lick, Indiana.

Welsh, and as many members of his administration as possible, will be honored during a reception Friday afternoon, August 28th according to Larry A. Conrad, chairman of the weekend-long event.

Welsh was elected in 1960 and served from 1961 to 1965. In his book, Indiana:

An Illustrated History, historian Patrick J. Furlong wrote: "Welsh campaigned on a theme that Indiana had shamelessly neglected the needs of its residents, and that energetic action was needed to improve schools, repair highways and reform State government generally."

Welsh, who is currently a partner in the Indianapolis law firm of Bingham Summers Welsh & Spilman, said he was honored by the planned tribute.

A treaty of peace is worth exactly the value that one attached to the character of those who sign it.

Earl, Hughes wed

Shawnee Lynn Earl became the bride of Mark Alan Hughes of Mentone June 27, 1987 in the Church of the Nazarene, Warsaw. The Rev. Peter Albertson and the Rev. Theron Hanes performed the double ring ceremony in the church which was decorated with candelabras, a unity candle and a silk flower basket filled with pink, white and gray flowers.

Shawnee Lynn, daughter of Albert and Jennie Earl, Warsaw, chose a white satin covered with white nylon taffeta gown. Off the shoulder, puffed sleeves enhanced the gown which was decorated with a sweetheart neckline with flowers and a long satin bow in the back with flowers which led into a chapel length train. The bride chose a floral headpiece with white roses and white beads. The headpiece secured an elbow length veil. The bride's bouquet consisted of pink and gray roses, white carnations, pink dogwood and beaded heart with pink and gray ribbons.

Rhonda Romberg, Indianapolis, served as maid of honor with Letitia Garrison, Tana Tinkey, both of Akron, Laura Ryman and Brandy Summe who was the flower girl, both of Warsaw, also attended the bride. The maid of honor and attendants wore tea length dresses of pink satin with pink lace overlay. Each carried an assortment of pink and white roses accented with a beaded heart and ribbons of pink and gray.

Mark Alan, son of Gene and Bea Hughes, Mentone was accompanied by his best man Mark Grass of Muncie. Serving as groomsmen were Brad Justus, Camby, Dennis Jamison, Claypool, and Darrin Remaly of Clarksville. Andy Hughes of Warsaw and cousin of the groom served as ringbearer.

Alan Earl, brother of the bride and Joe Hughes, brother of the groom, seated the guests while Becky Hughes, sister of the groom, registered the guests.

The reception was held at the Atwood Community Building. Servers were Angela and Amie Earl, sisters of the bride, of Warsaw, Teri Hughes, sister of the groom, of Mentone, Kelly Shepherd, cousin of the bride, of South Whitley, and Diane Ryman, friend of the bride, of Warsaw.

Mr. and Mrs. Mark Hughes are both attending IUPUI at Indianapolis and are at home at 2527 S. Shelby #1, Indianapolis, IN 46203. Mrs. Hughes is employed at Roselyn Bakery and Mr. Hughes is working with the Marion County Health Board.

Cooking for a crowd; an Olympic size crowd

The 1987 PanAm Games have come to an end. Via television, many viewers have watched the glamour and the excitement of the games unfold. Viewers have seen the excitement of their favorite athletes win and also watched and suffered as some of the competitors accepted defeat.

Behind what has been seen on the TV screen has been much hard work and planning by many people. For instance, have you thought about the meals needed for the athletes? Like everyone else, each athlete needed to be fed three times a day; and only as one who cooks could appreciate, what do you feed a hungry PanAm athlete? The challenge of feeding them was a big one—but it has been conquered!

Most athletes consume an average of 5,000 calories a day - double the average person's need. Some of the heavier weightlifters may have consumed 9,000 calories a day. To meet the athlete's needs, food services have:

Figures based on 1984 Olympic games.

*Served over a million meals during the course of an Olympic competition - enough to feed one meal to all residents of Delaware and Vermont.

*Provided meals that include - four hot entrees, five hot vegetables, an abundance of fruit and cheeses, up to 14 different salads, two soups, and 10 different types of bread and rolls.

*Served athletes at competitions in eight countries including Mexico, Canada, Yugoslavia, Venezuela and the United States.

*Made sure that up to 20,000 box lunches per day were ready and waiting at competition sites for athletes and staff whose schedules did not return them to the dining rooms.

*A typical 2,500 calorie box lunch includes a large meat sandwich, cheese, bread or crackers, two kinds of fruit, mixed nuts, pudding or other dessert, and a small candy bar. Assorted juices, mineral water and yogurt are served with the box lunches at each venue.

*Prepared enough box lunches so that if stacked one on top of the other, the boxes used in just one day would form a 6,666 foot tower, over four times as high as New York City's famed Empire State Building.

An Olympic feast is a mammoth one, including:

*470,000 pounds of meat - the equivalent of 1,000 grade A steers.

*42,500 gallons of milk - enough to fill 680,000 eight-ounce cartons.

*250 tons of fresh fruit - some 500,000 pounds.

*103,500 loaves of bread.

After the above information, anyone want to volunteer to cook in 1988?

Rev. Duke attends 42nd council meeting

A strong statement expressing outrage at the encroachment of pornographic materials in society, an ambitious goal to establish 5,000 new U.S. churches in the 1990's, and the return to office of the top executives were highlights of the 42nd General Council of the Assemblies of God which met in Oklahoma City, August 6-11, according to the Rev. Kenneth R. Duke who attended.

Some 11,000 people registered for the biennial church meeting which attracted crowds in excess of 12,000 to rallies each evening.

The Rev. G. Raymond Carlson, general superintendent for the Fellowship which as some 10,886 U.S. churches with a constituency in excess of 2.1 million and an additional 14.2 million constituents worldwide, was not up for election this year. Other top officials were returned to office including Assistant General Superintendent Everett Stenhouse, General Secretary Joseph Flower, and General Treasurer Raymond Hudson.

Delegates approved a statement on pornography previously adopted by the executive leadership of the church which states in part: "We (the A/G) are distressed and outraged by the encroachment of pornographic materials and establishments in America...We assert our commitment to resist those deviant influences...Christians are mandated to renounce any threat to the physical, moral, and social well-being of individuals...We...demand that government at all levels support community standards of decency and propriety."

Pastor Kenneth R. Duke and his congregation at Sweetwater Assembly of God (formerly Evangel A/G) supports this statement. The church plans to take a public stance against pornography.

In a far-reaching report, A Total Church Evangelism Strategy Committee called for intensive evangelistic efforts throughout the Fellowship with a goal of establishing 5,000 new churches in the 1990's. The Assemblies of God has been recognized by church-world authorities as being among the fastest-growing churches in the world during the past decade. It will certainly top the list if this goal is attained in the next decade.

Pastor Kenneth R. Duke attended the meetings with his family and other major leaders of the movement. Among other highlights of the meetings, he pointed to the "Back to the Basic's" theme and the high spiritual tone of the meetings.

The next General Council of the Assemblies of God will convene in Indianapolis, Ind., in August 1989 in celebration of the 75th anniversary of the church's founding.

Meetings set concerning well drilling

Responding to public concerns about groundwater resources, Indiana's Legislature passed a law requiring rules for drilling water wells in the state. The rules, which would be effective Jan. 1, 1988, are the topic of five public meetings statewide, announced Department of Natural Resources officials. The meetings are scheduled as follows:

August 26 - 7 p.m. in Donner Center (large meeting room), 22nd & Sycamore streets, Columbus.

August 27 - 7 p.m. in Executive Inn, One Executive Boulevard, Vincennes.

Sept. 1 - 7 p.m. in Room 202 of Urschel Hall, Valparaiso University, Valparaiso.

Sept. 2 - 7 p.m. at Public Library Auditorium, Washington & Wayne streets, Fort Wayne.

The proposed rules include licensing of drilling operators; minimum requirements for operator licensing; construction regulations; and mandatory plugging of abandoned water wells.

Public comment is encouraged at the meetings. Written comments should be mailed to Steve Lucas, Department of Natural Resources, 608 State Office Building, Indianapolis, IN 46204; 317-232-4020.

Seniors available for Century scholarships

High school seniors wishing to earn substantial scholarship awards and test their leadership potential can compete in the Century III Leaders program.

Almost $250,000 in college scholarship awards will be provided by Century III Leaders this year, including $11,500 in scholarship awards for the top winner. Applications must be completed by October 22, 1987.

Seniors interested in entering the competition, now in its 13th year, should contact their principals for applications in mid-September. Students in public, private and parochial schools are eligible for the program.

The application stresses school and community service, scholarship, and identification of a challenge facing the nation in its third century. Students are also required to pass a current events examination.

School winners advance to state-level competition, where two winners and two runners-up are chosen. State winners each receive $1,500 college scholarship awards, while the runners-up win $500 scholarships.

The two winners from each state and the District of Columbia are also given all expense-paid trips to the national Century III Leaders conference in Colonial Williamsburg, Va., March 18-21, 1988.

In Williamsburg, the 102 delegates meet with national experts in business, education, and government; debate key issues of national policy; and compete for additional scholarships, including $10,000 to the national winner and $500 to each of nine runners-up.

All state finalists and runners-up become members of the Century III Leaders Alumni program. Alumni are eligible for grants of up to $5,000 for post-graduate studies or service projects.

Corn prospects lower, soybean crop higher

Based on conditions Aug. 1, Indiana's corn production is forecast at 641 million bushels, down 8 percent from the 695 million bushels produced in 1986. The acreage expected to be harvested for grain, at 4.75 million acres is 17 percent below the 1986 level. The average yield, a new record high, is forecast at 135 bushels per acre, up 13 bushels from last year and up 9 bushels from the previous record high 126 bushel yield produced in 1982. Early planting along with ideal growing conditions have allowed crops to advance at a rapid pace this year.

Soybean production is forecast at 183 million bushels, up 13 percent from 1986. The 4.35 million acres expected to be harvested is up 2 percent from a year earlier. The expected yield, at 42 bushels per acre, is a new record high, 0.5 of a bushel above the previous record set in 1985. Last year, soybeans averaged 38 bushels per acre.

With wheat harvest over, Indiana's 1987 winter wheat crop is estimated at 34.8 million bushels up 16 percent from 1986, and up 2 percent from the July 1 forecast. The average yield per acre, at 58 bushels, is 5 bushels above the previous record yield of 53 bushels set in 1985. Wheat acreage harvested, at 600,000 is down 14 percent from a year ago but is the same as the July 1 forecast.

Nationally, corn for grain production is forecast at 7.23 billion bushels, down 12 percent from last year's crop. Yield is forecast at a record high 121.4 bushels per acre up 2.1 bushels from 1986. Soybean production is forecast at 2.00 billion bushels, fractionally below last year's production level. Average yield of soybeans is forecast at 34.7 bushels, up 0.9 bushels per acre from 1986. U.S. winter wheat production is estimated at 1.57 billion bushels, up 3 percent from last year but down slightly from July 1. The yield of 40.0 bushels per acre is up 4.8 bushels from a year earlier. All wheat production (winter and spring) is forecast at 2.13 billion bushels, up 2 percent from 1986.

Ships crew sails play

by Mary Fisher

A ships crew is what keeps a ship sailing. This is the same with the Wagon Wheel Playhouse production of "Mr. Roberts". The crew, or the supporting cast, sail with flying colors in the wartime play. Their sensitivity to their commanding officers is visually expressed with few words. Viewers of the play can easily comprehend the thoughts and emotions of the characters - especially in the last few minutes of the production.

"Mister Roberts" is the uproariously funny, yet tender, story of the men on a Navy cargo ship during World War II. It's chief character is Lt. Roberts (portrayed by Jim Tillet), who anxiously applies for a combat assignment, but whose captain, portrayed by Tom Roland, continually refuses to authorize his transfer.

Life aboard a cargo ship during World War II was not comedy in true life, yet the bitter taste of reality was seasoned with the sweetness of humor between buddies. The playhouse cast supremely displays how life really must have been on the ships.

On a personal note, I do not believe the use of profanity is necessary to characterize anger or frustration. At one point of the play, I felt as if the characters were using profanity to express the outrage of the characters rather than their own acting abilities. I would challenge the director to use his talents and resources in the future when such language is in a script.

Bill Bush is superb as Doc. His wit and humor add just the right seasoning to the production. The part of Mr. Roberts was played by Henry Fonda in the Broadway version and the 1955 film version. Jim Tillet portrays the Lieutenant at the playhouse and deserves a traditional salute.

The production will continue until August 30.

MICROWAVE COOKING

By Linda Attaway

Rotating food during the cooking cycle in microwave ovens will help the food cook more evenly. This is especially true of foods that cannot be turned, such as casseroles.

A 1/4 turn twice during the cooking cycle should reposition the food enough to prevent spot overcooking.

Once the time for cooking has expired, the food will continue to cook due to the heat being conducted from the center of the food to the outside.

Allow time for this cooking to complete the microwave process. This is usually referred to as "Stand" on most microwave ovens.

Valley Vikings winning

Viking Preview

Despite losing 14 starters and moving up from class 2A to 3A, Tippecanoe Valley head coach Jeff Phillips is optimistic about the upcoming season.

According to Phillips, the Vikings lost seven offensive starters and seven defensive starters but have some quality people to build around.

On offense the Vikings will build around fullback Sam Manwaring, who rushed for 484 yards last year. Junior Dion Anglin, who played on the JV team last year, is the quarterback going into the season. Senior Steve Holloway, who has not played football the past two years, will be the starting tailback.

Two starters on the line, guards Roger Webb and David Koch, return. Ron Lafferty, last year's starting tight end, will miss the first four weeks of the season after having his appendix removed.

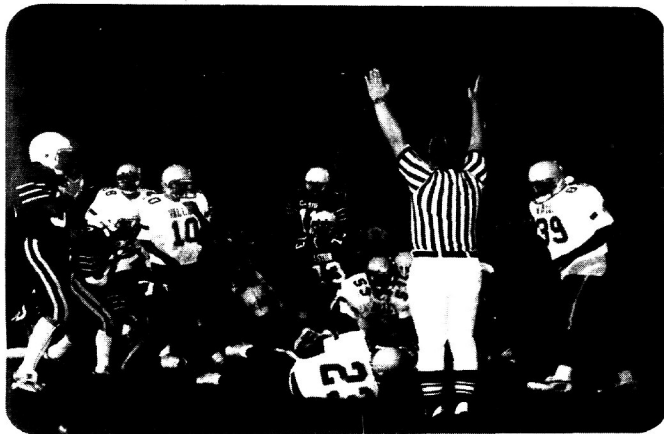

The Vikings have had a fullback-oriented offense the last few years but Phillips would like to diversify it more this season. "We're going to run the tailback," he said. "We've been 9-2 the last two years and runners-up in the sectional both years. We'd like to go a little further and what could put us over the top is for the offense to be more versatile. We have to throw the ball more and mix it up more."

Phillips believes the defense, which gave up only 38 points in eight regular season games, should be tough despite only three starters being back. "The defense will be strong again this year," he said. "We have only three starters back but the other people have worked a lot in the weight room. We have good quickness, too."

Linebacker Dwayne Leiter, who was the team's tackle point leader last season, will spearhead the defense. The other two returning starters are end David Randall and defensive back Brian Peterson.

● The key for the Vikings to have a successful season is the defense; according to Phillips the Vikes have to play strong defense.

- Tippecanoe Valley Vikings, Three Rivers Conference
- Coach: Jeff Phillips
- 1986 Record: 9-2, 6-1 in TRC
- Top Returning Lettermen: Sam Manwaring (FB), David Randall (D), Brian Peterson (DB), Roger Webb (G), David Koch (G), Ron Lafferty (TE)
- Top Returning Scorer: Manwaring (50 points)

Good Luck Vikings

Vikes reign at jamboree

The 1987 edition of the Rochester football jamboree was a time to rate the area teams. Tippecanoe Valley came out on top.

Caston made mistakes and Valley was there to gain a win on them.

Valley gained possession of the ball after the first scrimmage. Tailback Steve Holloway scored from 15 yards out.

It took only three plays and the ball was close to the Valley score line. Junior Ben Anderson added the touchdown.

After a Caston punt, the Vikings drove 76 yards for a four-yard touchdown by Ashton Hurst. A highlight of that march was a 36-yard pass from quarterback Dion Anglin to Brian Peterson. Tim Sparrow's second extra point kick of the night finished the scoring.

Valley also defeated Rochester in their second chance on the field.

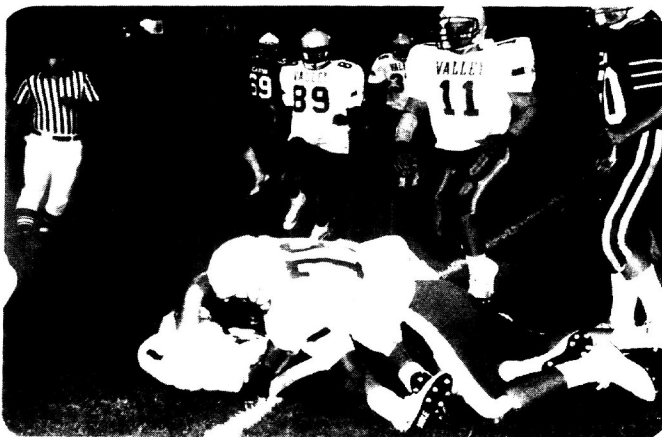

On the opening possession, Valley drove toward midfield, but was stopped by an ineligible receiver penalty. After a Rochester possession and punt pushed the Vikings back to their own 10-yard line, they drove 90 yards for the only score. A 25-yard run by Holloway and a Rochester face mask penalty took Valley deep in Rochester territory.

On fourth down and eight, quarterback Anglin rolled left and threw a 25 yard touchdown strike to Craven Lynn to complete the scoring. Although the Zebra's deflected Valley's extra point kick, Rochester's final possession did not pose a serious threat.

In the first quarter of play, Rochester defeated Plymouth 13-0. A defensive battle summed up the quarter of play between Caston and Plymouth. The period ended with a 0-0 tie.

What more can be said except; beware; the Valley Vikings are on their way!

The Valley Vikings are showing good defense as well as offense this season. These Vikes are ready to take on any team that comes their way. (NEWS Photo)

President, Pearl Horn also read the minutes of the last president council meeting. Camp Elko is September 14th and 15th. Genevieve Warren read the secretary and treasurer's report.

The meeting closed with the club collect and prayer song. The September meeting will be with Esther Sarber.

Seat belt fairy tales

Have you heard: "I don't need a safety belt when I'm traveling at low speeds or going on a short trip."

You can't believe every story flying around these days. The truth is that all driving can be dangerous.

More than 80 per cent of all accidents occur at speeds less than 40 miles per hour. Fatalities involving non-belted occupants of cars have been recorded as low as 12 miles per hour. That's about the speed you'd be driving in a parking lot.

Three out of four accidents causing death occur within 25 miles of home. Belt up before driving to the store -- just as you would for a long trip.

Do you want more seat-belt information? Contact Ann Chubb, Tippecanoe Valley area seatbelt safety coordinator. You may leave a message at any Tippecanoe Valley school and she will return your call. Or you may call her at 267-6317 after working hours.

HOW DID IT BEGIN?

FILTERED COFFEE

If the entrepreneurial woman is a product of modern times, then Melitta Bentz was born a century too soon. It was 75 years ago that Frau Bentz revolutionized the coffee industry by inventing and perfecting the "drip" method of coffee-making, laying the groundwork for a business that continues to be a leader in the industry.

Melitta Bentz made her mark as a true "inventor" of her day. As a housewife from Dresden, Germany, she was frustrated by the traditional method of brewing coffee which called for boiling loose grounds or boiling grounds encased in a cloth bag. Either way, the brewed coffee was cloudy, bitter and flawed by coffee grounds that too often found their way into the brew.

Frau Bentz experimented with the idea of "filtering" the coffee grounds to get a better quality coffee. She reasoned that by pouring water over the coffee grounds and through a filter, there would be less chance for the grounds and bitter oils to get into the brewed coffee. After testing a variety of "filters", she discovered that blotting paper, an abundant and inexpensive household staple, worked very well. Cutting the paper into a disc, she placed it at the bottom of a perforated brass pot, measured in ground roasted coffee and poured hot water over the grounds. Perfectly filtered coffee—rich, full-bodied, without bitterness or grounds—dripped out of the bottom. Melitta Bentz would not keep her discovery locked within the walls of her Dresden cottage. Instead, she and her husband Hugo started a business and hired a tinsmith to produce the filter tops. Within a year, they attended the Leipzig Trade Fair where they sold more than 1,200 "coffeemakers". The Melitta company was born. By 1912, Melitta was manufacturing its own filters; stronger and more pure than the original blotting paper.

Managed by succeeding generations of Bentz's, the company continued the tradition of its founder. The disc-shaped filter was replaced by the now familiar cone-shaped filter, which concentrates the grounds for more thorough saturation. Today, the metal top has given way to both porcelain and plastic filter tops which don't affect the flavor of coffee.

Today, the Melitta coffeemaker has maintained its popularity worldwide with its use in over 150 countries. Nearly two-thirds of the U.S. ground roast coffee drinkers enjoy the drip method.

Melitta shares a camaraderie with other entrepreneurial women in history who devoted their energies to innovation. For coffee lovers, Melitta is a household name.

In Fashion

T-shirts, like dad used to wear, with ribbed neck and sleeves in soft cotton knit fabric, are making a big wave in fall wear—but in a different version.

These new T-shirts have a wide price range from $5 to $100 or more. They are highly decorated with mirrors and other sparklers to be teamed with a silver lame short mini or a long skirt with jacket.

There are also pastel tie-dye styles, tropical scenes, gold, rhinestones and lace decor. The more subdued T-shirt is a favorite with the ever-popular frayed jeans.

Alcoholics placed into groups

by Bill Brooks

Gertrude Stein said "A rose is a rose is a rose" and most people say, "An alcoholic is an alcoholic is an alcoholic."

A researcher named E. M. Jellinek said it was not quite that simple. He put alcoholics into five types: Alpha, beta, gamma, delta, and epsilon. This was 40 years ago, and some authorities don't agree with his classifications but they are interesting to ponder.

Alpha type is purely psychological dependence on alcohol. These alcoholics get frustrated easily, can't cope with it and have trouble with any kind of tension. They use the chemical to boost morale, block out reality, beef up their self-confidence and relieve emotional pain. They drink too much and at the wrong times.

Alpha types show little or no progression into rock-bottom alcoholics and they have no withdrawal symptoms. Jellinek reasoned that 10 to 15 percent of Alcoholics Anonymous members are of this type.

Beta type alcoholics are socially dependent on alcohol, but lack psychological and physical dependence.

They have the usual problems from excessive drinking, including nutritional deficiencies and organic damage such as cirrhosis and gastritis. These alcoholics are often seen in general hospitals where physical ailments are all too often treated without remedying the drinking habits that caused them.

Beta alcoholics infrequently join A.A. and are common in occupations where "everybody" gets drunk every weekend. This "everybody does it" atmosphere boosts denial. Social dependence should not be dismissed lightly. It is a major obstacle in long-term rehabilitation of chronic alcoholics.

Gamma types are the chronic, progressive alcoholics most commonly seen in American males. There is progressive loss of control over how much one drinks, an increase in tolerance during the middle stages, then a sharp drop in tolerance, marked by severe withdrawal symptoms.

A search for why these people drink is fruitless. They drink because they are alcoholics. This type is most responsive to the A.A. approach but anything that will break the habit pattern can be useful, such as Antabuse, a spiritual conversion, or intensive inpatient treatment with a strong emphasis on understanding the nature of the disease and good physical rebuilding.

Delta types are often called maintenance drinkers: The alcoholic who has lost control over when he or she drinks rather than how much. Inability to abstain, rather than the inability to stop once they start, is the characteristic. Unlike the Gamma type, Deltas cannot "go on the wagon" for even a day or two, yet they seldom appear to be drunk.

Deltas show increased tolerance, go into severe withdrawal symptoms (even DTs) if deprived, though they may have never been drunk in their lives. Social attitudes that favor regular drinking play a major role.

Epsilon types are the periodic or binge drinkers. They abstain for long periods but, once started, drink heavily until passing out. Abstinence periods may be weeks, months, even a year. They may serve liquor in their homes with no temptation to indulge. Often the spouse knows the telltale signs that precede the drinking but can do nothing to avert it.

Periodic drinkers are puzzling types about which little is known. The dependence seems to be both physical and psychological. These Greek letters constitute a Greek fraternity no social drinker wants to join, but if he is an alcoholic, he has to join one of them. Mr. Jellinek said, and the initiation fee is awful.

Lincoln drama continues

Only a few days remain in 1987 to see the theatrical event of the season - The "Young Abe Lincoln" original outdoor drama presentation in Lincoln City.

"Young Abe Lincoln" will close its first season on August 30.

The Lincoln Outdoor Drama is the nation's newest outdoor drama theatre. The theatre was designed so that none of the 1,500 seats is further than 90 feet from the stage.

The cast and crew of the production come from throughout the United States. Most are seasoned veterans of outdoor drama productions. Ewell Cornett, founder and director of the Actors Theatre in Louisville, is directing "Young Abe Lincoln" during its first season. The play was written by Billy Edd Wheeler, best known for his song "Coward of the County" recorded by Kenny Rogers.

The Lincoln Outdoor

Drama is located in Lincoln State Park at Lincoln City. The idea of the drama was formed in 1977. Later that year, the Lincoln Boyhood Drama Association was formed. The Indiana General Assembly approved funding for the construction of the amphitheatre in 1985. The theatre was designed so that none of the 1,500 seats is further than 90 feet from the stage.

WORLD, TAKE MY SON BY THE HAND

MY SON STARTED SCHOOL THIS WEEK. It's going to be strange and new to him for a while.

And I wish you would sort of treat him gently. You see, up to now, he's been King of the Roost. He's been boss of the backyard. I have always been around to repair his wounds, and to soothe his feelings.

But now--things are going to be different. This morning, he's going to walk down the front steps, wave his hand and start on his great adventure that will probably include wars, tragedy, and sorrow. To live his life in the world he has to live in will require faith and love and courage.

So, World, I wish you would sort of take him by his young hand and teach him the things he will have to know.

Teach him -- but gently, if you can. He will have to learn, I know, that not all men are just, that not all men are true.

Teach him that for every scoundrel, there is a hero -- that for every crooked politician, there is a dedicated leader -- that for every enemy, there is a friend.

Let him learn early that the bullies are the easiest people to lick.

Teach him the wonders of books. Give him quiet time to ponder the eternal mystery of birds in the sky, bees in the sun, and flowers on the green hill.

Teach him that it is far more honorable to fail than to cheat. Teach him to have faith in his own ideas, even if everyone else tells him they are wrong.

Try to give my son the strength not to follow the crowd when everyone else is getting on the bandwagon. Teach him to listen to all men, but to filter all he hears on a screen of truth and to take only the good that comes through.

Teach him to close his ears on a howling mob -- and to stand and fight if he's right. Teach him that the word AMERICAN ends with...I CAN!

Teach him gently, World, but don't coddle him because only the test of fire makes fine steel.

This is a big order, World, but see what you can do...

He's such a nice little fellow.

What to do if you are "bumped" from flights

You planned your vacation well in advance, bought your airline tickets early and arrived at the airport on time, only to learn you had been "bumped" from your flight.

What can you do, as you stand in the airport knowing your next connection probably will be missed, complicating your vacation plans.

Consumers frequently are bumped from flights, even though they bought their tickets in advance.

Bumping occurs when an airline overbooks a flight. More than one passenger is assigned to the same seat, and only one will be able to take the flight. Airlines overbook flights because prospective passengers often do not arrive for their flights, causing the airlines to lose millions of dollars each year.

Travelers can try to avoid being bumped from a flight by arriving at their gate early - at least one hour before the scheduled departure.

Passengers also might want to ask for a confirmed seat when making their airline reservations.

If you are involuntarily bumped from a flight, and the airline cannot get you to your scheduled destination within an hour of your planned arrival, the airline must offer you cash for your ticket and pay for your passage.

If the airline is able to get you to your destination within two hours of the originally scheduled time, the airline must pay the value of your one-way fare, up to $200. That amount doubles, to $400, if it takes more than two hours to get you to your destination.

Often times airlines will ask passengers to volunteer to be bumped from a flight. Passengers are given several kinds of incentives to take a later flight.

Those incentives include travel vouchers, allowing the passenger to select a destination for their next trip.

The travel vouchers may have restrictions, however, so be certain to ask if they have to be used by a certain date. If you select to be bumped and receive a voucher, make certain it is one you will be able to use.

Some airlines offer to pay hotel bills if a flight cannot be arranged until the next day for passengers who have been bumped from various flights. Other airlines limit those who have been bumped to waiting on standby for another flight.

If you are bumped, ask the airline to arrange your flight on another airline. If you do move to another airline, make certain your ticket will be accepted without payment of an extra fee.

If you do not get satisfaction from the airline, ask that your ticket price be refunded. If the airline will not cooperate, and you have charged your ticket to a credit card, contact the issuer of the credit card.

Credit card companies will attempt to work out a solution, often times removing the debt from your card. If the credit card company cannot arrive at a solution, often times the debt will be removed from your balance, leaving you and the airline to work things out.

Owning a pet helps children to mature

For generations, people have said that "every boy should have a dog." This bit of folk wisdom has particular significance today when research has shown much more about the importance of human-companion animal love and the benefits a pet brings to a child, adult or elderly person.

A dog, cat, horse or hamster, for example, is a source of unconditional, 24 hour-a-day love. The benefits from this steady flow of affection can be surprisingly far-reaching for your child. You should be certain, however, that he is the one wanting the puppy rather than you wanting a puppy for him.

In a sense, a pet can mitigate the hectic pace of your household. Studies have found that an animal can be a consistent, cohesive force uniting children and parents and encouraging communications. This is particularly true today when the average young family is under greater economic and social pressure causing more stress than in past generations.

Pets certainly play a special part in a child's development.

Because the animals are usually obedient and unconditional in their affection, they can build children's self esteem and make them feel wanted and needed. Pets also teach children empathy - the ability to understand how another living thing feels and help. You often see children building an animal pretending it has been hurt - and actually performing a "dress rehearsal" for their life experiences. When children dress their pets in clothes and pretend that they are the daddy, Susie the mommy and Fido the child, they are acting out their parenting or protective instincts and enjoying important creative play. An animal that accompanies a child in play also can serve as an ice-breaker that can open the way for its young master to meet other people and make new friends.

It is even healthy for children to be exposed to the death of a pet. From the age of seven, a child is capable of understanding death and needs to see it as a concrete event - to see that the pet no longer moves or breathes. This loss of a pet can prepare a child for the possible later loss of an important person in his life.

In homes where both parents are career oriented, the child may face an empty house after school. An animal can be the most significant, constant social contact offering companionship and love after a hard day at school. Pets also teach responsibility, making children feel they are contributing something valuable to the running of a household.

In short, the puppy he wants may be the most important gift you can give your child. The bond that grows between the child and his dog can help him weather some rough times and develop the character that will make him a better friend, spouse and parent when he is an adult.

Your Best Heating and Air Conditioning Value Begins with a G. But it's Not Gas. It's GeoThermal.

GeoThermal Heating, Cooling and Water Heating. We call it System:GT. GeoThermal Heating, Cooling and Water Heating is a system that collects heat from liquid circulated through pipes buried in the earth. This method concentrates the heat, then circulates comfortable, warm air throughout your home. The ability to move heat is the secret of System:GT's incredible efficiency. In fact, the most efficient gas and oil furnaces use three times as much energy to create heat as System:GT uses to move the same amount of heat. Simply stated, it is the most efficient heating system available today.

System:GT can air condition your home in the summer by reversing its heat moving process - and the efficiency is just as spectacular as its heating capability. System:GT can provide a 30% gain in air conditioning efficiency when compared to other air conditioning methods.

System:GT can heat your water too. It can satisfy virtually all of your water heating needs in the summer at no additional cost. Winter savings can be as much as 40%.

In short, System:GT provides year-round comfort while combining the wise use of energy resources with the lowest possible operating cost. It is convenient, safe and clean. It's the latest in heating and cooling technology.

Tips to avoid flight delays

You're waiting at the airport for the start of your vacation or business trip. You arrived early and received your boarding pass only to learn your flight will be delayed for at least another hour.

You're not alone. In a recent survey, USA Today monitored 1,955 flights in a 14-hour period. The survey showed that one flight in three was at least 15 minutes late.

Delays have become a common occurrence since the Airline Deregulation Act of 1978. Airlines now schedule more departures and arrivals at peak times, creating more air traffic than airports can handle.

Consumers who plan to travel by air should plan for delays when making their reservations. If you are making a connecting flight, allow plenty of time between the arrival of your flight and the departure of your next flight.

There are some delays that cannot be helped. Those caused by weather conditions or mechanical problems are unavoidable.

Air travelers can help prevent delays by scheduling departures and arrivals at times other than peak times. While it might not be the most convenient route to take, scheduling your flights for mid-day or later in the evening might keep you from being on a flight which has been delayed.

Flights scheduled for the peak times often are delayed as pilots wait for clearance to take off or land. Many delayed flights are between 3 p.m. and 8 p.m. The percentage of delayed flights is less in the morning and after 8 p.m. or 9 p.m.

Before you leave for the airport, call to determine if your flight has been delayed. The Federal Aviation Administration notifies airlines of weather conditions four hours in advance, so if weather is the cause of your delay, the airline - although not required by law to do so - should be able to tell you if there will be a delay.

If weather conditions do not appear to be a problem, ask the airline about the movement of that flight. Ask if the plane was on time when it landed and took off at its previous stop.

If you are a frequent air traveler, keep a copy of schedules of other airlines. This way, you will be able to determine if another carrier can get you to your destination in less time.

Travelers who plan to make connecting flights should travel as light as possible. To avoid having your luggage miss the connecting flight, try to limit your luggage to what you can carry on board.

The federal government is considering legislation which is hoped to combat the flight problems.

The Senate Commerce Committee in July approved legislation that would require airlines to disclose how frequently their flights are late or cancelled. The legislation is being considered, in part, by the increasing number of consumer complaints that have reached the Department of Transportation.

The Senate bill would require airlines to monthly disclose how often arrivals and departures are late, and the number of flights which are cancelled each month. The legislation also would require the establishment of a 24-hour toll-free hotline to provide information to consumers concerning air travel. The hotline also would be used to help resolve complaints between consumers and the airlines.

Consumers who have had their trips delayed by late flights should register complaints with the airlines. The complaints should be specific and include information such as the flight number, scheduled departure time and actual departure time.

Insurance Liability: How It Affects Your Health Care

When one of the most honored of American traditions—the 4th of July fireworks display—begins to be curtailed because of rising liability insurance costs, it drives home the message that this country's liability insurance situation affects everyone.

Another American tradition—the family doctor—is feeling the consequences. Family physicians, those doctors who care for patients of all ages, are beginning to curtail some services in the face of rising malpractice insurance premiums.

Many family physicians—and obstetricians/gynecologists as well—actually are phasing out delivering babies in what is being called a "malpractice crisis."

According to a recent survey, the cost of malpractice insurance for family physicians has risen 50 percent in the last five years. For obstetricians/gynecologists, the increase has been 100 percent. In some areas, the cost of malpractice insurance has risen so much that some doctors have reduced the number of types of service provided due to cost or availability of insurance.

Particularly frightening about those statistics is the fact that family physicians frequently are the only physicians available in rural areas. When family physicians in those areas give up obstetrics, expectant mothers are forced to travel greater distances for prenatal care and delivery—or worse yet, not seek medical care until the time of birth.

"This goes against the very gram of the concept of family practice," said AAFP President Robert H. Taylor. "Family physicians specialize in the medical needs of each family member—from newborn to grandparent."

The Academy survey indicated that nearly 50 percent of its active members currently do provide obstetrical services to their patients. But what about the future? Is the answer to produce more family physicians?

A better answer, says Taylor, is to encourage family physicians to specialize in high-risk procedures and/or the cost of malpractice insurance will be borne by patients in the form of higher fees.

You can help by communicating effectively with your physician. Ask your doctor to explain your treatment and the kind of results which realistically can be expected. Form a "partnership for health" with your doctor to provide the best health care possible for you and your family.

Parental help needed in educational process

As students begin preparing for the excitement of another school year, it is appropriate for parents to give some thought to their own roles and responsibilities in the educational process.

Parents too, belong at the center of the educational process; consequently, as the new school year gets underway, parents should begin planning and preparing to become more active participants in the schooling of their children.

The role of parents is particularly crucial in four key areas:

Attendance - Parents need to assume responsibility for getting their children to bed at night, up in the morning, and to school on time. Parents must not only encourage their children to attend school, but they must emphasize the rewards of schooling. Teachers are responsible to provide a stimulating atmosphere when the children get to school in order to keep them motivated and to experience success in school, but it should be the parents' main responsibility to see that their children are desirous of learning and ready to learn.

Help With Homework - Parental interest and concern in regard to completing assignments will help instill ideas about the importance of homework, not to mention independent study, responsibility, and proper study habits. Parents must be inquisitive about homework to ensure that their children get the work done. Parents must not do their children's work, but they can be available to answer questions or look over the finished product. They must make sure that their children are doing what is required. Encouragement and interest by parents in all that their children do in the classroom and with their homework can make a great difference in attitudes that students have toward school.

Discipline - Teachers and school administrators have the responsibility to provide an atmosphere conducive to learning and academic inquiry. Parents have the responsibility to cooperate with school officials in their efforts to provide the proper learning environment. Parents must make it clear to their children that proper behavior is expected in school. Children must know that if they create discipline problems in school, they will be dealt with firmly and swiftly at home. Teachers must be allowed to teach subject matter, not spend class time with crowd control. Parental support of the school's efforts in this area is essential.

Appropriate Reward System - Positive reinforcement can improve motivation for learning and normally results in higher achievements. This does not mean giving students a dollar for every "A", but it should involve some form of encouragement and incentive appropriate to the family.

School officials, especially teachers, have the responsibility to let parents know about the achievement and progress their students are making in the classroom. If kept informed of progress in the classroom, parents will know when rewards are appropriate. Parents should adopt a proper reward system and the school can help by suggesting a list of appropriate rewards.

In sum, parents have the responsibility to support school officials in their efforts to improve attendance, to encourage completion of homework assignments, to assist the school more directly in its efforts to maintain proper discipline, and to develop whatever positive reward system the home and family can provide.

Views On Dental Health

H. RAY HAZEN, D.D.S., M.S.D., P.C.

HOW'S YOUR SMILE?

Have you ever noticed how a happy, smiling face makes you want to smile, too? The person smiling doesn't have to be beautiful or in the full bloom of youth. Just an attractive smile in itself can be appealing.

Some people who would like to smile broadly when the occasion calls for it are reluctant to do so. Their smile is guarded, most of their teeth are covered up because they don't want them to show. Maybe there are gaps caused by missing teeth, perhaps their teeth are badly discolored or protrude too much. But they don't have to feel inhibited. With today's dental techniques, almost anyone's smile can be improved.

It used to be that the primary reason for you to go to the dentist was to find out if any of your teeth were in trouble. If there was any decay or if you had infected gums, you wanted the problem taken care of so you could save your teeth. But there are other reasons for seeing your dentist, and one of them is to help keep your smile attractive. There's no need to hide your smile today when there are so many ways it can be improved.

Prepared as a public service to promote better dental health. From the office of: H. RAY HAZEN, D.D.S., M.S.D., P.C. 1329 Main St., Rochester, Phone 223-3121; 114 Mishawaka St., Akron, Phone 893-4545.

New Life Singers to perform

The New Life Singers of Rochester will be singing Sunday, September 6, at 8:15 a.m. during the lake side church service at Beaver Dam Lake. The early morning service will be held at the public access site.

The September 6th service will be the last service of the summer. The services are sponsored by the Beaver Dam United Methodist Church.

Weekend of fun held at Beaver Dam

"Fit for Christ Games" was the title given to the overnight stay held recently at the Beaver Dam park. Over 50 children ranging in ages from 3 to 12 enjoyed the event which was sponsored by the Beaver Dam United Methodist Church.

The event began with an opening ceremony complete with the lighting of a game torch and the raising of the American and "Fit for Christ" flags. A "Fit for Christ" pledge, written by the Rev. Jarboe, was recited.

The "Fit Games for Christ" insignia used on the flag was designed by Mrs. Jarboe.

First through fourth place ribbons were given in each event. Medals, also for first through fourth places were given to the organized teams. Team names were Sunshine Gang, Big Red, Blue Blazers, and the P.K.'s (Preacher's Kids). Games included Seed Spitting, Watermelon Eating, Standing Long Jump, Obstacle Course, 4-Way Tug of War, Water Bucket Relay, Ice Block Melt, Weight Throw, Egg Toss, Water Balloon Toss, and Football Throw.

The weekend came to a close with special ceremonies which included the presentation of the ribbons and medals and was climaxed with a balloon launch.

"School's Open Safety Week", August 24-28

Governor Robert D. Orr has proclaimed August 24-28 as "School's Open Safety Week" in Indiana.

In the proclamation, Orr urged "all motorists to ensure the safety of school-age children by cooperating with the efforts of school safety patrols. The patrol system was pioneered by AAA-Chicago Motor Club in 1920.

"Particularly during the early part of the new school year, children may not be paying proper attention to traffic conditions. Drivers should be alert for youngsters, especially near schools, in residential areas and where school buses pick up and drop off children," said Nels L. Pierson, AAA-CMC president and board chairman.

Former AAA-CMC president Charles M. Hayes created the world's first safety patrol after witnessing a traffic accident that claimed the life of a young pedestrian. Since then, the wearers of the orange patrol belts have been credited with saving countless numbers of lives and preventing accidents.

This year, AAA-CMC has coordinated its 40th consecutive annual "School's Open" campaign, by distributing posters to hundreds of communities around the state.

L&M team places in state games

The L&M Farms womens' fast-pitch softball team placed second in the Class B state tournament on August 15 and 16, and earned a bid to the nationals.

Among those playing on the L&M Farms team is Janet Hackworth, Ruby and Chris Bowers, and Lori Gray. The local team went 3-2 in the double-elimination state tournament in Mooresville. L&M beat Arbys of Warsaw 4-2 in its first game on Saturday. On Sunday, L&M beat Bloom Pharmacy of Mishawaka 5-3, lost 7-5 to Frances-Slocum Bank of Wabash to drop into the losers bracket and reached the final round with a 5-2 victory over Bloom Pharmacy. L&M again met Frances-Slocum in the finals and dropped a 5-3 decision.

L&M coach Mel Myers said a good team effort was the key to his team's success. He did, however, single out Jenice Armstrong, who pitched in all five of L&M's games during the two-day tournament.

L&M is now scheduled to play in the national Class B fast-pitch tourney over the Labor Day weekend in Goshen.

Akron couple in accident

Three people sustained minor injuries in an accident at US 31 and County Road 150 North near Hiatt's Farm Market at 10:20 a.m. Wednesday, August 19, 1987.

Police reports said a vehicle driven west by Rickey L. Clinger, Rt. 1, Akron, failed to yield the right of way to a vehicle driven south on US 31 by Betty J. Gunning, Walkerton. Clinger's vehicle spun around and left the road.

His two children, Ricky Jr., 10, and Stacey, 1, were injured as was his wife, Bethel.

Clinger was given written tickets for failing to yield, not wearing his seatbelt, and failing to comply with the child restraint law. His wife was cited for not wearing her seatbelt.
