OUR FAMILIES SHOULD BE HELD TOGETHER BY FAITH

"...as for me and my house, we will serve the Lord."
— Joshua 24:15

Where we love is home...home that our feet may leave, but not our hearts.
— Oliver Wendell Holmes

As our modern lifestyle becomes increasingly complex, it results in family members becoming less closely knit. Dad may travel in his work, or depending on world events, he may be serving in the military. Mom may have a job, or she may be an executive in a big corporation. The children's school day is often followed by sports, band practice, music or dancing lessons, a paper route, or a myriad other activities, and Mom may feel like a short order cook, trying to feed her family at different times. So where is the family "togetherness?" It's at the House of Worship, where they should go together as often as possible, and learn that they are all God's children, equally blessed by His love.

Scenes Around Town

by Leafy Hudson

Aunt Retha mentioned how pretty the flower pots are looking downtown these days. In spite of the drought, it seems to me all the foliage looks prettier than ever this summer. I especially appreciate it when I get an "exercise jag" and walk out to Honey's.

The route takes me by a few quiet houses with neatly trimmed lawns, wide open expanses of green pastures, statuesque corn fields and three profusely grown woods. Redwinged blackbirds, crows, doves and several other species of birds serenade me as I pass by, or, sometimes swoop away in terror, disturbed by my alien presence.

The many cows in one field I pass present a mosaic of black, white and various shades of brown against the lush green grass, as pretty as any picture I've ever seen of the pastoral English countryside.

As I pass the cool, verdant woods, I always wonder what manner of wildlife is lurking there, watching me in caution or fear. If I only had the knowledge and skills of a woodsman, what a variety of little beasts I could study.

As it is, I pass on by, probably making too much noise for the "woodswillers" and miss seeing all the social life transpiring there.

But, that walk always has a calming, peaceful effect on me, and how I welcome the chair and cool drink that await me at my destination.

I often hear others praise the many beautiful mountains of our country, the desert flowers of the Southwest or the lush swamps and exotic flora and fauna of our more tropical states, but, as I gaze out over the green woods and fields of Indiana, with our comely livestock and majestic wild creatures, I wonder if, after all, anyplace else is really more exquisite than our own Hoosier countryside.

I scarce can tell the time of day
Or how to spend the hours
That go so slow;
The time the postman comes,
Is all I know.
The ticking of the kitchen clock
Its slowly moving hands
Makes time an endless thing
That heavy hangs-
Each task so quickly done
When you are gone."

Mentone Business of the Week Farmers State Bank

by Leafy Hudson

Farmers State Bank, a Mentone institution since 1892, was chartered as Farmers Bank with capital of $20,000. Its four original stockholders were: A.C. Manwaring, M.E. Hire, E.M. Eddinger and L.D. Manwaring. A.C. Manwaring was its first president and, later, E.M. Eddinger's son-in-law, A.I. Nelson, was the bank's president for many years.

Other banks came and went in Mentone during those early years. In 1894, Farmers Bank purchased the Citizens Bank for $1600. In 1911, the First National Bank of Mentone, about to liquidate, was bought by Farmers Bank. Another lending institution, the Mentone Building and Loan Association, did business here in the early part of the century.

Before 1905, Farmers Bank was located in a building behind the present Pillbox. Then, in 1905 the west portion of today's bank building was erected on the corner of Main Street and Broadway. It had a corner door and the entire bank was housed in the present lobby.

In 1920, the name was changed from Farmers Bank to Farmers State Bank.

Expansion has been key for Farmers State since the beginning. A major remodeling project in 1962 added a bookkeeping area to the east and a loan department to the south, in buildings that had once been grocery stores. In that move, the lobby was completely renovated and the corner door was moved to its present position, opening on the north.

The first drive-in lane was built in 1968, east of the new bookkeeping area, in the space once occupied by Mentone's library. About 1979, that space was rebuilt to provide the present executive offices.

At about that same time, with changes in the country's economy, to maintain its healthy business status, Farmers State Bank found it necessary to expand its market. The result was a branch bank established in Warsaw's Northgate Shopping Center in 1978, followed by a Burket Branch in 1979, an East Center Street Branch in Warsaw, 1984, and, finally, a branch in Leesbury opened in 1989. Ten drive-in lanes now serve the five bank locations.

Mentone remains the hub of the business, however, accounting for 63% of deposits while the branches bring in the other 37%.

"We have a lot of old money here," comments President Forrest Miner. "We think there's a place for a small bank where hometown people can get answers. City banks are more interested in investing elsewhere. Our goal has been to remain independent and invest in such a way to benefit the local area. Our policy is to place investments no farther than fifteen miles from any one of our offices."

Citing the changes he has seen in the banking business over the years, Forrest says, "There used to be independent banks in Elma Green, Akron, Silver Lake, Claypool, Milford, Piercetown, two in Warsaw, and, of course, Mentone. Now there are just two in the same area: Lake City Bank and Farmers State Bank."

"In 1960, one half of our loans were to farmers. Now it's only ten percent. We are seeing greater growth in other areas—and fewer farmers."

Other changes he observes are effected by the changing financial climate of the country. "My first foreclosure took place 29 years after I started here. Bankruptcies were almost unheard of until ten years ago. Now, those things have almost become a way of life."

"We realize the change in the economy," he says. "We try to remain conservative. We insist on quality in loans and investments—you have to live with it so you have to plan for it. We've tried to invest locally to help the community. Helping the community is important to us. We try to return everything we can to it."

Forrest is justly proud of the bank's "biggest success story." "We were the bank who helped Biomet get their first SBA loans and they have remained customers of ours." Biomet, of course, has now grown to a position of national prominence in the business world.

"I've enjoyed working here and seeing the bank grow," he adds. "It's grown from $3,000,000 to $53,000,000. From five employees to 41."

Employees received in-house training by supervisors and customers appreciate their friendly attitudes. Attending banking schools, paid for by the bank, is not required, but is encouraged and many employees take advantage of the opportunity. "We are building a staff of young people to carry on our banking traditions—preparing for the future."

Forrest says coming to work for Farmers State Bank was almost accidental. Having grown up on a farm at Crystal Lake, he graduated from Mentone High School in 1947 and International Business College in Fort Wayne in 1949.

Of his choice of a major, Forrest says, "I always liked math. It never changes. Two and two always equal four."

Following graduation, he was employed as accountant for six months at Smith Auto Works in Warsaw, then at Warsaw

Trucking. "Jiggs Fenstermaker and Kenny Riner were running the bank," he says. "Jiggs came out and asked me to work for him. I said, 'no.' But, two weeks later he came back. I made an appointment to see him on Saturday morning, again intending to tell him 'no.' But he was a personable guy. By the time I left his office, he'd talked me into it."

Forrest started working as bookkeeper for the bank in May, 1950. He held "every position" after that: teller, cashier, manager, vice president, executive vice president and, in 1967, he was appointed president, the position he holds today.

Now living in Warsaw, in a new home he has built in Country Garden Estates, Forrest enjoys golfing. He is a member of the Mentone United Methodist Church, Mentone Lions; Kiwanis; Kosciusko County Shriners; Mizpah Temple, Fort Wayne; Past President of Mentone Chamber of Commerce; and has served on the Mentone Town Board. A member of the Indiana Banking Association, he has served on their Marketing Investments Committee. Also a board member of Mentone's Street Scene, he chaired the committee to build the walking path at Mentzer Park last year and has agreed to help with the Gazebo in the Park Committee.

Forrest has four children: Brent, married to the former Marie Newton of Mentone, lives in Golden, Colorado. Christine is in Laotto; Todd, newly married, lives in Fort Scott, Kansas; and Sally, Mrs. David Reuter, lives near Sidney. He has five grandchildren.

Citing changes in the town since he began working here, when it had five grocery stores, two car dealers, several service stations and much more, Forrest sees Mentone's future as good, but different. "We will be a residential community," he predicts, "with service oriented businesses." Farmers State Bank will undoubtedly continue to be an important institution in Mentone's future.

PSI plans to build second scrubber at Gibson station

PSI Energy has signed a agreement for construction of a scrubber at Unit 4 of its Gison Generating Station near Princeton, IN, as part of the company's effort to meet revised air-emission standards.

Babcock & Wilcox of Barberton, Ohio, has been selected to supply the scrubber. The total project cost is about $170 million. Within the next few months, PSI Energy will seek Indiana Utility Regulatory Commission approval of its plan to build the scrubber.

Construction is expected to start in June 1993. The scrubber is scheduled to be in-service by late 1994. At the peak of construction, the project will provide about 300 construction jobs in southwestern Indiana.

Gibson Unit 4 is one of five 635-megawatt units at Gibson station. The new scrubber will be capable of removing about 100,000 tons of sulfur dioxide annually from the unit's stack emissions. The scrubber will help PSI Energy meet revised state air-emission standards as well as SO2 reductions required under Phase I of the revised Clean Air Act. In 1990, Congress revised the Clean Air Act to require U.S. utilities to reduce SO2 emissions 5 million tons per year by 1995 and 10 million tons annually by the year 2000.

PSI Energy already has nine years of scrubber-operating experience on its Gibson Unit 5, which went into commercial operation in the fall of 1982.

"A scrubber on Gibson Unit 4 will be an important part of our company's overall strategy to do our part to clean the nation's air," said Joseph W. Messick, PSI's senior vice president and chief operating officer, Power Operations. "Additional measures to reduce SO2 emissions are being evaluated to determine the most feasible and economic mix for our company, customers and shareholders."

By 1995, PSI Energy must reduce company wide SO2 emissions about 31 percent from 1989 levels and an additional 36 percent by the year 2000. To accomplish this, the electric company has projected that its total compliance cost could be as high as $1.7 billion. As part of PSI's effort to mitigate the financial implications on the company and its customers, PSI and Babcock & Wilcox also announced their intent to continue discussions related to non-traditional financing of the scrubber. If feasible, the arrangement could include joint venture ownership and operation of the facility.

Church News

Church of the Brethren

The July meeting of the Women's Fellowship of the Church of the Brethren was held in the home of Deb Whistler. Lana Bowser opened the meeting by reading a poem.

Arlene Gearhart's devotions were "He Lives." She mentioned two small boys-one said he wished that he had lived when Jesus was here on earth, the other one said he wished that Jesus lived with us today. Each boy had a different thought, but their thoughts were parallel. She read a poem and closed with prayer. The group then sang "He Lives."

It was decided that the group will be selling Port-a-Pit Chicken in September, as a fund raiser.

Several get well cards were signed. Mrs. Whistler served refreshments to eight members present.

"G-Men"

at the Akron Park

The "G-Men" will be in concert at the Akron Park on Thursday, August 15. The concert will start around 7:00 p.m. The entire Akron Community is invited to share in this musical and dramatic experience.

The "G-Men" is a local group from the Rochester area. They bring with them a wealth of talent in music and dramatic skits. They recently appeared at a "Fire by Night" Youth Rally at the Rochester High School and were very well received by those who attended.

The concert is sponsored by the Akron Church of God and the Akron Church of God Youth Fellowship. Admission is free and no donations will be taken. It is suggested you bring blankets or lawn chairs to sit on. If you have any questions, please feel free to call Pastor Matt at the Akron Church of God, 893-4121.

4-H News

Yes, it's fair week in Kosciusko County! Some people might be wondering, why have a county fair? Why secure the commitment from so many volunteers for their talents, time and efforts? The answer is obvious. We do it for the 4-H members to provide them with an experience that is available to them no place else.

A county 4-H fair provides a unique classroom for 4-H members. 4-Hers can interact with each other as well as the judge in the evaluation of their exhibits. The fair allows 4-Hers to work cooperatively to reach a common goal. Likewise, it provides an opportunity for families to work and grow together while completing an exhibit, assisting in building setup or preparing for show day.

Upon completion of the county fair, attention will be turned toward the Indiana State Fair which runs from August 14-25. Many Kosciusko County 4-H members will be exhibiting projects or showing animals at the state fair.

Projects in the 4-H Exhibit Hall and the Agriculture-Horticulture Building are judged prior to the fair so the public can view the exhibits on opening day. Projects can be viewed in the exhibit buildings from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. each day.

4-H activities at the state fair begin with the dog obedience trials and showmanship and the fashion revue preliminaries on Saturday, Aug. 10. The Horse and Pony western competition runs from Aug. 12-16. The 4-H demonstration contest will run from Wednesday through Friday, Aug. 14-16, in the 4-H Exhibit Hall. Saturday, Aug. 17 features 4-H Adult Leaders' Day in recognition of the tremendous contribution made by our volunteer leaders. Also on Saturday, the fashion revue finals will be held in the Farm Bureau Building. Monday, Aug. 19 brings the state finals of the 4-H Tractor Operators Contest beginning at 8 a.m. in front of the 4-H Exhibit Hall.

Animal judging begins with the dairy goat judging on Aug. 13 and poultry judging on Aug. 13-15. Rabbit, swine, beef and sheep judging all begin on Aug. 14. Pigeons will be judged on Aug. 17. The 4-H Rabbit Royalty Contest will be on Aug. 18. The Spotlight Sale, the climax of the 4-H livestock judging, will be the main event on Sunday evening, Aug. 18. August 22 will be the 4-H Dairy Show in the coliseum. 4-H activities will conclude on Saturday, Aug. 24 with the 4-H bicycle rodeo.

Hope you make the time to get out and visit your great county fair and your great state fair!

Hoogenboom to speak at Atwood Service

Abe Hoogenboom, former teacher and coach at Atwood and Mentone, will be the guest speaker at Atwood Otterbein United Methodist Church on Sunday, August 11, 1991.

Mr. Hoogenboom began his teaching career at Atwood School in 1950. He taught and coached there for two years before moving to Mentone High School to teach and coach for six years. He later coached and taught at Concord High School. He also coordinated the Concord Intramural Program and directed the Fellowship of Christian Athletes Chapter.

In 1983 he retired from teaching to devote more time to preaching. He averages eight preaching services a month, which include nursing homes, Elkhart's Faith Mission, hospitals, as well as a number of church services.

He and his wife, Alberta, will celebrate their 50th wedding anniversary this December. They have five children, 11 grandchildren and five great-grandchildren.

To keep physically fit, he cuts wood. Last year at age 70, he cut 34 cord.

Services at Atwood Otterbein begin at 9:30 a.m. Sunday School follows at 10:30 a.m. The church is located on Old Rd. 30 in Atwood.

The public, and especially friends of Abe and Alberta Hoogenboom, are invited.

Wild food Supper held

Fifty people attended the wild food supper at the Fulton County Museum July 29. Lois and Bill Baldwin served groundhog, alligator, milkweed casserole, may apple pie, salad of leaves of wild plants, and violet jelly.

Their helpers served ham and beans, cornbread, carrots, celery, tomatoes, strawberry cake, and lemonade. The helpers were Dortha Waidner, Wilma Thomas, Shirley and Dorothy Fultz, and Millie Redweik.

Shirley Willard showed a videotape of her meeting with Marcia Rudolph, daughter of Elmo Lincoln, the first Tarzan. While on vacation in California, the Willards had an appointment with Marcia and went to see the plaque placed on Elmo's remains in the Hollywood Memorial Park Cemetery in Santa Monica.

The plaque was paid for by the Fulton County Historical Society and Bob Walters, former theater manager in Rochester and South Bend.

Shirley announced that Marcia is coming to visit Indiana for the first time in her life. She is coming to attend the Trail of Courage Sept. 21-22.

FCHS is planning a reception and reunion for Marcia and all the Hunters and Linkenhelts, to be held Friday, Sept. 20 from 2 to 5 p.m. A carry-in supper will be enjoyed at 6:30 p.m. The public is invited.

At 7:30 p.m. a video of the 1920-21 Adventures of Tarzan movie serials will be shown. The video was donated to FCHS by the Burroughs Bibliophiles, University of Louisville, Ky.

Accompanying Marcia will be her oldest daughter, who is an artist specializing in Indian art. That's why they chose to attend the Trail of Courage.

The next FCHS meeting will be Aug. 26. Phyllis Johnson, Twelve Mile, will tell about James Whitcomb Riley, the Hoosier Poet.

SUNNY SIDE UP

Homemade Ice Cream

For folks from 8 to 80, ice cream seems to be universally popular! It's cool, creamy and soothing — and, with all the new ice cream makers today, it's easier to make than ever.

Begin all these variations with a stirred custard base, add whipping cream along with your choice of flavorings, then chill and freeze. If you prefer to use another favorite recipe, be sure to cook the sweetened egg and milk base.

For regular fluid milk and egg mixtures, cook until a thin film of custard adheres to a metal spoon dipped into the mixture. At this point, the custard will have reached 160° F. When using evaporated or sweetened condensed milk and eggs, the mixture looks thick very early in the cooking process and the spoon test is less reliable. Use a thermometer to be sure the mixture has reached 160° F. Once you've made the base, cool it thoroughly before freezing.

Freezing is quick and easy in modern electric freezers, but it's a more heartwarming affair when family members pitch in to help crank an old-fashioned freezer. Whatever type of freezer you use, be sure it's spotlessly clean all over. Don't forget to wash the dasher in hot, soapy water, too.

Once your Custard Cream is done, everyone will be amply rewarded for their efforts when the dasher yields its creamy contents!

Frozen Custard Cream

1 1/2 to 2 quarts

- 6 eggs
- 2 cups milk
- 3/4 cup sugar
- 2 to 3 tablespoons honey
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 2 cups whipping cream
- 1 tablespoon vanilla
- Crushed ice
- Rock salt

In medium saucepan, beat together eggs, milk, sugar, honey and salt. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly, until mixture is thick enough to coat a metal spoon and reaches 160° F. Cool quickly by setting pan in ice or cold water and stirring for a few minutes. Cover and refrigerate until thoroughly chilled, at least 1 hour. When ready to freeze, pour chilled custard, whipping cream and vanilla into 1-gallon ice cream freezer can. Freeze according to manufacturer's directions using 6 parts ice to 1 part rock salt. Transfer to freezer containers and freeze until firm.

Once a decision was made, I did not worry about it afterward.
— Harry S. Truman

LET FAITH HELP YOU MAKE THOSE MAJOR DECISIONS

Many times in our lives we come to the crossroads of having to make a major and usually irreversible decision. It might be something like whether to buy a new car or have the old one repaired; or whether to change our job or our residence; or it might be a situation involving a serious illness, where your doctor gives you several treatment options from which you must make a choice. In any case, you have to decide, and then resolve not to worry about the wisdom of what you have chosen. Attend your House of Worship, both before and after rendering that decision; praying first for guidance and then for the courage to deal with whatever consequences may arise, knowing that God will be with you all the way.

Scenes Around Town

by Leafy Hudson

Does anybody remember Lloyd Bowerman? He was our neighbor across the street when we moved to our present home. Often, Lloyd would come over and join us on summer evenings, announcing that he wanted to "help us porch sit." Darrell King and Aunt Retha are just two more of several people who seem to enjoy "porch sitting" along with us.

"Porch sitting" used to be a significant activity, but, like so any other things, it's just not the same as it used to be. Sometimes, I think we've lost one of the pleasantest, cheapest and most genial entertainments of yesterday with the almost wholesale enclosing of the traditional front porch.

When I was a kid, almost every house was adorned with a commodious, open front porch. On quiet summer evenings, when the work was done, families congregated there to relax and enjoy the remainder of the evening. It was from their front porch, the Wolevers, in Sidney, called advice and encouragement to me, helping me learn to balance my bicycle as I took my first tentative rides and falls down the embankment across the street from their house.

Neighbors called to each other regularly from porch to porch, always knowing when the other left and returned from vacation, and seeing for themselves how many fish they had caught. From the front porch, the neighbors kept an eye on the vacationers' houses and intruders would have feared to bother a home with the neighbors in evidence, watching.

When little Mary or Johnny was ill, the neighbors, observing irregular activity, soon knew the problem and hurried over with hot soup, or whatever else was needed to help out.

As Mary and Johnny grew older, they didn't dare stay out too late, or the neighbors would be sure to know, scandalizing the neighborhood. But, it wasn't so much a matter of nosiness as it was of caring and concern. It worked as a system of expedient checks and balances in the community family.

There were no strangers in town, because new people soon became acquainted with each family as they passed by their open, front porch. And neighbors often, like Lloyd, joined together to "porch sit" in a body, exchanging news and views.

It was a open, friendly lifestyle in the days of open, front porches. I submit the enclosing of front porches has resulted in an enclosing of our lives. People have succeeded in gaining privacy and in foiling the mosquitoes; perhaps, at the same time, they have shut themselves away into little detached cubicles, losing the closeness neighbors once enjoyed.

Reed, gave her report.

Bills were paid. Mothers creed was repeated. Chaplain Marilyn Stafford gave the closing prayer and colors were retired followed by the singing of "God Bless American"

An auction was conducted by Mildred Grindle. The next meeting in September will be at the home of Lois Walsh with Doris Linton hosting.

ODDS and ENDS-Loren and Todd took up fishing this spring and ever since then I've held my breath for fear they would catch a fish that I'd have to clean. To their disgust, they have drowned worms all summer and they've even threatened to club the fish to death because they jump all around the boat but never take the bait. The lack of fish hasn't dampened their enthusiasm a bit and they have continued their quest. Sunday night was another fishing trip for the tow of them while Doug and I stayed home and fed the cats and read about Luci's wedding. We were in the midst of reading about the tough wedding cake when the fishermen returned, and I could tell from the pounding footsteps and Todd's excited yell, "Mom! Mom! Come quick!" that the fishless summer has just ended.

The fish had been put in a glass can of filthy water and, knife in hand, I prepared to grab it out of there and get it out of its misery. "No!" my fishermen informed me in unison. "This one goes in the barn tank."

I put the knife away and watched as they took the fish out of the can, and it looked like the dearest fish I ever saw. "Gee, it's dead," Todd said dejectedly and Doug circled the kitchen four or five times repeating, "Dead fish. Fish dead." I reached for the knife again, but Loren decided there might be hope for the fish yet and held it under the faucet and ran clean, cold water over it while he gently pushed on the fish's sides. If that was artificial respiration for a fish, it worked because soon the fish began breathing and spouting water. Todd ran to get another can, and the one he found had been used to store chemicals for the darkroom. I rinsed it out hurriedly while they all breathed down my neck as I filled the can with fresh water. Loren dropped the fish in, and it went "plop" and stayed right there.

"Guess I didn't rinse the can out good enough," I said as I reached for the knife. That must have scared the fish and he wiggled enough to warrant everyone's running to the tank to watch the launching. Doug circled the area yelling, "Fish! Fish!" and the cats came running and the steers lined up at a safe distance, and the fish was launched in the barn tank.

If that fish thinks he has had it rough so far, I could almost bet money that rougher days are ahead for him. For one thing, there is a cat who is keeping a sharp eye on every move that fish makes. And there is a little boy who wouldn't be above dropping anything on the fish or bailing all the water out of the tank to get him. The steers and Heady the heifer may decide to knock the tank over or we could forget, as we usually do, to shut the water off in time and wash the fish down to the creek. He may hope that we do because on the way back to the house, I heard one of the fishermen say to the other, "When that fish gets a little bigger, we'll eat him."

Marker erected honoring Elizabeth Ford Frush-On Sunday afternoon, August 3, the Anthony Nigo chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution of Mentone dedicated a marker in the old Palestine cemetery, northwest of the present cemetery, at the grave of Mrs. Elizabeth Ford Frush, a daughter of George Ford, a Revolutionary soldier.

Elizabeth Ford Frush was the fourth child of George Ford. The Fords were of English ancestry and emigrated to the American colonies prior to the Revolutionary war. Two Ford brothers came first to these shores, one settling in New York state and the other one in Virginia. At the time of the Revolution, the family contributed four sons to that memorable struggle of whom George Ford was one. George Ford married Charity Calvert, a descendant of Lord Baltimore.

After the surrender of Cornwallis the Fords left Maryland and moved to Virginia, where they resided for over fifty years before any of the family began moving west. By then the lands were opened to settlers, and in 1836 the first Ford family arrived by covered wagons to Kosciusko county. Their neighbors were Indians. The Fords purchased from the government 160 acres at $1.25 per acre and the tract was described as "A dense forest with hardly a stick amiss."

One hundred years have passed since then. The descendants of the first Ford family who attended this dedication were Miss Rozella Ford, of Warsaw, who is a great granddaughter of George Ford, the soldier; Orr W. Ford, of Claypool, a great-grandson, his daughter, Thelma Wharton and Martha Lou, his granddaughter; Allen Blue, Jr., of Logansport, a great-grandson of the soldier.

Members of his family present from Chicago were Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Knox and son, John Knox, Mrs. F.B. Felton and Mrs. Mary Bulkley; Mrs. Harold F. Bulkley and son, Johnathan, of Pelham Manor, N.Y.; and Mrs. E.R. Burns, state treasurer of the D.A.R., who took part in this dedication.

The maker was unveiled by little Johnathan Bulkley, of Pelham Manor, N.Y., a great-great-grandson of Elizabeth Ford Frush.

Allen Blue gave a short history of the people in this community. The Pottowatomie Indians, who settled here, were friendly with the settlers. John Knox, an attorney and S.A.R., from Chicago, gave an interesting history of the Ford family.

The principal speaker of the afternoon was our State Representative, Hobart Creighton, who paid tribute to the early pioneers in this community who braved the hardships of pioneer life in the wilderness among the Indians and struggled here that their ideals of freedom of religion, opportunities of education, the right to own their own homes and to live in peace might be secured for them and their children. Robert Nelson contributed to this program tow cornet solos and closed the program with "taps."

Mom and kids can conquer back-to-school lunch blues

Moms and kids together can help keep the dread out of brown bag lunches. By joining forces, they can create a healthy lunch with sure-fire kid-appeal.

For some, healthy lunches can be a problem. More than half (54 percent) of the moms questioned in a survey conducted by the American Frozen Food Institute said their biggest challenge is providing a well-balanced diet. That is especially difficult at lunchtime, when they aren't around to supervise what their children eat at school.

What turns children off most about brown bag lunches? "My daughter used to complain that it's always the same old thing - peanut butter and jelly or tuna fish," says Rena Coyle, a cooking instructor renowned for her work with children and the author of "My First Cookbook," "Baby Let's Eat" and "My First Baking Book." "I found I could make her a whole lot happier by involving her in the planning and preparation process."

Frozen Foods simplify Coyle says that when preparing meals with children, she likes to include frozen foods because they can simplify a recipe and are a quick and easy way to build a balanced meal. "Frozen foods also have real kid appeal because of the wide variety of choices," she says.

Together, Coyle and her daughter created a lemon-limeade lunch punch for school. They prefer to use frozen juices for the punch because they need no preservatives and taste fresher than shelf-stable, bottled varieties.

"Kids can store the drink in a sturdy, sealable cup in the freezer until it's time to leave for school," says Coyle. "So when lunchtime arrives, the drink is thawed but still chilled."

Lunch is not the only meal that children are willing to help prepare these days. The Institute survey reveals that more than 60 percent of American children, as young as five and six years old, help their parents cook various meals and snacks. And more than 70 percent of contemporary moms feel comfortable having their children cook.

In the survey, mothers named frozen foods and microwaves as two of their biggest helpers for encouraging children to prepare healthy meals.

Here's the punch that Coyle and her daughter designed:

Lemon-Limeade Lunch Punch (Makes 7 cups)

1 7-1/2-ounce can of frozen lemon juice, defrosted
1 tablespoon frozen grape juice concentrate, defrosted
1 6-ounce can limeade concentrate, defrosted

4 cups lemon-lime soda
2 cups club soda

Mix the lemon and grape juice together in a large pitcher. Add the limeade concentrate and stir until blended. Pour in the lemon-lime soda and club soda.

Pour the juice from the pitcher into a sturdy, sealable cup, and store in the freezer until time to go to school. Try not to fill the cup to the brim. Leave at least a half-inch free space for the liquid to expand when it freezes.

Pencils, erasers can help support Special Olympics

With school bells about to ring, students have a special chance this fall to lend a helping hand while they're loading up their school bags.

Special Olympics, the world's largest program of sports training and competition for children and adults with mental retardation, will receive a donation from each sale of specially marked back-to-school products from Pentel of America.

A world leader in the manufacture and sale of writing instruments and art materials, Pentel is offering "multi-paks," school supply packages that combine automatic pencils, erasers and even nine-function calculators.

Donations will help support Special Olympics activities - from basketball and aquatics in summer to ice skating and hockey in winter - that have become a year-round showcase for athletes with mental retardation.

Despite enormous growth since its beginnings in 1968, Special Olympics has never deviated from its original, straightforward purpose to offer individuals with mental retardation the opportunity to experience the thrill and pride that come from participating in sports training and competition.

Supporters point out that Special Olympics carries the message that our differences need not divide us, that our handicaps need not remain hidden, and that we can be accepted for what we are.

At this summer's International Special Olympics Games, approximately 6,000 athletes from almost 106 countries gave deeper meaning to this powerful message.

"Our partnership with Special Olympics is just one example of Pentel's commitment to public service programs," said Pentel spokesman Mark Welfley.

Going back to school with a message

Bookcovers with practical tips on recycling and conservation may be one of the hottest new items on the school scene today.

Thousands of children, with the help of local businesses, will carry environmental messages to and from school on colorful action-oriented graphics covering their textbooks.

The bookcovers, designed by Environmental Hazards Management Institute, a non-profit educational group in Durham, N.H., were developed to promote ecological partnerships between schools, corporations and municipalities.

Sponsors can distribute the bookcovers, featuring their names and logos, to educate and encourage environmental activism.

At the same time, the covers teach children what they can do to preserve the resources around them. And teachers can use them to stimulate classroom discussion about the environment.

"Although lacking time and money to pursue new environmental curricula, a great number of teachers, we find, are as hungry as their students for stimulating, innovative materials that complement existing lesson plans," said Alan Borner, executive director of EHMI. "Teachers and school administrators want unbiased information in their classroom materials, and EHMI's independently developed products have been well received," he said.

The colorful, sturdy bookcovers, made of recycled paper, present information about recycling, water conservation and environmental action in a variety of formats for different age groups.

For information about sponsoring the bookcovers or other EHMI environmental products, call 1-603-868-1496, or write EHMI, P.O. Box 70-B, Durham, NH 03824.

Who's Who In Akron

Making Quilts Keeps Mary Krouse Busy

by Tonia Weller

While Akron resident Mary Krouse doesn't consider herself an artist, the beautifully intricate "Cathedral Window" quilts she sews are every bit as much of a work of art as any painting or sculpture.

Using small scraps of material left over from her other sewing projects, or given to her by friends, Mary patiently folds and sews a square of white cotton into a complicated pattern. She then inserts and hand stitches the colorful cloth "window" in place. Four of the windows are joined to form a square and 12 squares are stitched together into strips. Mary then machine stitches 12 of the strips together to complete the quilt, which contains 576 of the individual "windows".

Although Mary has also made patchwork quilts in many other patterns including checkerboard, octagonal, whirlygig, nine patch, diagonal and the complicated "Drunkard's Path", the "Cathedral Window" is her favorite. "I can work on these in my lap," she says. "I can't bend over a quilting frame anymore. I sew for my own benefit. I'm a nervous person and I have to keep busy. I like to be doing something with my hands while I watch TV."

Through the years, Mary has made so many quilts that she has lost count of them. She's made at least five in the "Cathedral Window" pattern alone, and has another over half-way completed. "It takes me about a year to finish one of these," she says.

In addition, she has also made matching Cathedral Window pillow shams, numerous other patchwork pillows and crocheted many, many afghans and bedspreads. "And I used to embroider lots of pillow slips," she says with a grin, "until my family told me they had enough and not to make anymore. People don't like to have to iron them."

Sewing has been a big part of Mary's life since she was a young girl. Her mother died when she was a sophomore in high school. "There was a run of typhoid fever that year. Several people in Akron had typhoid fever, but my mother was the only one that died from it. There was another girl in my class, Treva Van Lue, who had also lost her mother. We were both poor in Latin," Mary recalls, "and the teachers decided that since we had no mothers to teach us how to sew, we should take Home Economics. So she and I learned to sew. I started making all my clothes and my younger sister's clothes when I was in high school. Then when I had children of my own, I sewed for them. I sewed both of my girls through college. I still make my own blouses," she adds.

Mary still lives in the house on Walnut Street that she, her father and her first husband, Kenneth Oliver, built when she and Kenneth were first married.

Shortly after their son was born, Kenneth went away to college to get his degree and teaching certificate, and Mary remained in Akron. "It was during the depression and it was kind of rough taking care of the baby by myself," she says.

Kenneth taught at the Akron School and at a school near Middlebury and the Olivers moved to a farm for a time. They also had two daughters: Dora (Flores), who now lives in San Antonio, Texas and Martha (Honeycutt), who now lives in Greensboro, North Carolina. Both girls have followed in their father's footsteps and have become teachers. Sadly, Mary lost her husband to cancer and also lost her son.

Later, around 1960, Mary married Virgil Krause and they moved to Plymouth. After Virgil suffered a stroke, he and Mary returned to live in the house in Akron. It was while Mary was caring for Virgil that she made her first quilt. "I gave that one to my oldest daughter," she says. In 1970, five years after his first stroke, Virgil suffered another stroke and died.

At various times during her life, Mary has worked as a housekeeper and has also provided in-home daycare for elderly women who are unable to care for themselves.

Besides keeping Mary busy, her lovely quilts and crocheted pieces have brought a lot of happiness to others. "I don't have a one of the quilts myself, I've given them all to people. I've never made a penny off of them." Each of her four grandchildren have afghans and quilts she has made for them. For several years, she has made lap robes for patients in nursing homes.

Mary donated two of her Cathedral Window quilts to the Missionary Society of the Akron Church of God, of which she is an active member. One was sold through the Amish quilt market to raise money for the Society and the other was the group's wedding gift to Pastor Matt Williams.

Still very active at 83, Mary continues to drive her own car and regularly attends the noon meals at the Nutrition Site. "I enjoy the fellowship," she says.

During the past winters Mary has spent time in both Texas and North Carolina visiting her daughters and their families.

"My life hasn't all been honey and kisses," Mary says. "Sometimes it was kind of hard. I don't know why the Lord's let me live this long, but maybe somebody knows I've tried to be a good Christian."

After visiting with Mary it's easy to guess that her spirited personality most likely gives as much comfort and warmth to her family and friends as her beautiful quilts do.

BMV sponsors design contest for 1993 license plate

Indianapolis-Bureau of Motor Vehicles Commissioner Gilbert L. Holmes today announced the agency is sponsoring a contest for Hoosiers to design the state's 1993 license plate.

"BMV is looking for submissions that depict some facet of Indiana history or a picture of a recognized custom or a state symbol," Holmes said. "Motorists want a design they can proudly display when they travel throughout the country."

Contestants should create a license plate that promotes the state using a creative design and a brief slogan, Holmes said.

The contest is open to all Indiana residents. To enter, contestants should obtain a registration form from a BMV license branch or from the BMV booth at the Indiana State Fair.

Entries must be postmarked by Sept. 30. Plate designs and registration forms should be mailed to: Indiana License Plate Design Contest, c/o Bureau of Motor Vehicles, Public Affairs Department, 401 Indiana Government Center North, Indianapolis, Indiana 46204.

Holmes will head a three-member panel of BMV executives who will choose the winning entry.

This is the third time residents have been invited to design the state's license plate. Indiana's current "Hoosier Hospitality" license plate was derived from a design by Terre Haute resident Jim Trimble, who won the contest in 1988.

Holmes reminds contestants that entries must conform with state and federal requirements for plate size, bolt hole location, placement of county and plate year designation and alphanumeric identification.

Lake City Bank to buy NorCen Branch Banks

R. Douglas Grant, President of Lake City Bank, Warsaw, and Eldon Ploetz, President of NorCen Bank, Culver, announced that Lake City and NorCen have executed a definitive agreement under the terms of which NorCen will sell its Bremen and Argos offices with related deposit accounts and loan portfolios to Lake City.

The acquisition of these deposit accounts and loan portfolios is subject to approval by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation and the Indiana Department of Financial Institutions. The amount of acquired deposit accounts will not be finally determined until completion of the transaction which is expected to occur before year end. It is anticipated that the acquired deposit base will be approximately $17-$20 million. Applications for regulatory approval are being filed by NorCen and Lake City. Acquisition is also conditioned upon the fulfillment of certain other conditions outlined in the agreement.

Commenting on the agreement Mr. Grant state, "We are extremely pleased with this transaction in adding Bremen and Argos to our locally owned independent area bank. We bring our full line of financial services to these neighboring communities. Lake City Bank anticipates providing job opportunities for present NorCen employees."

Mr. Ploetz added, "Proceeds from the sale of the Bremen and Argos banking centers to Lake City Bank will enable NorCen to take advantage of a tax loss carry-forward, strengthening and increasing the capital of the bank." Ploetz said NorCen decided to sell the Bremen and Argos offices to Lake City Bank "because it is a locally owned institution with proven capacity to meet the needs of depositors, borrowers and other customers in the Bremen and Argos communities."

Terry Randall Wins $6,000 At Hoosier Lottery

Terry Randall on the Hoosier Lottery Show.

Overlooking downtown Indianapolis off the penthouse balcony on the 13th floor of the Omni Hotel, Terry Randall and his wife, Chris, were greeted last Thursday afternoon, compliments of the Hoosier Lottery, with a basket full of goodies and roses and a room, as Terry says, "ready with anything I wanted."

"When I checked into the hotel, they asked my name and I told them, and everyone looked at me and smiled, and were ready to do, or get, anything for me," adds Terry.

At 4 o'clock that same day, Terry and the other five contestants attended a meeting to discuss how the game was played and watched a video of a past show. They were all then given a bag full of Hoosier Lottery hats, shirts, tie clips and other novelties. A buffet dinner was served that evening with staff members and producers of the Hoosier Lottery Show. "That evening our nerves were shot," exclaims Terry. "My wife and I had to walk around the place before returning to the room."

Friday morning a wonderful breakfast was served and a limousine was sent to pick up the six contestants and drive them to the studio. One hour later, another limo picked up the family members of the contestants to take them to the show.

When Terry and the other contestants arrived at the studio, yet another meeting was held about the show. Many photographs were taken for newspapers and numerous other things. "By the time the show started, it was hard to keep smiling," Terry grins. "I have never had so many people taking my picture before."

Then it was time to go upstairs to make-up. "The stars of the show spent the whole time in make-up with the contestants," Terry said. "We all got to know each other real good and joked and laughed. Everyone had a good time."

After make-up, Terry and the contestants went into the studio where they were blind-folded so that they could draw the names of the next six contestants to appear on the Hoosier Lottery Show. Then, they were all led out of the studio to walk down the "Hall of Fame," a wall displaying pictures of all the past million dollar winners. "When I saw all the photos of the past million dollar winners, that's when it hit me, that I could maybe be one of them!" Terry said.

Meanwhile in the studio, the audience was brought in, and their participation in the show gone over. "They held a contest on who was the loudest," Terry said. "The show was getting ready to start, and we could hear the audience clapping and yelling. All of us were pulling for each other. We all became close friends during this."

Number 13 was the first number Terry picked. "I was led to believe that 13 was going to be my lucky number because my daughter is 13 years old, and 13 is my number at the Fire Department, and our room at the Omni Hotel was on the 13th floor."

The show started taping at 10:00 a.m. and wasn't completed until 1:15 p.m. After the show, checks were made out to the contestants. Terry won $6,000, and after taxes took home a check for $4,800. Debbie, the winner, received a check for $180,000 after taxes. Terry says, "All my daughter Jennifer wanted out of this whole thing, was to ride in the limo. After the show I asked if she could, and Jennifer got to ride back to the hotel with me."

Terry smiled and said, "I would like to thank everyone who gave me cards and good wishes. Akron is a great place to live."

Lawrence Bell Here Saturday-The Home Coming Day celebration chairman, George Clark, announces that Lawrence Bell, president of the Bell Aircraft Corp., of Buffalo, N.Y. and former Mentone boy, will be home for the big day Saturday, August 23.

Mr. Bell, who is well know here, has made a name for himself in the field of aviation and is of vital importance to the United States in the national defense program. He and his engineers have developed one of the fastest and heaviest-armed pursuit ships in the world of the planes. He is a personal friend of President Roosevelt and the two have been working together in building up the nation's greatest air defense.

The writer is not personally acquainted with Mr. Bell, but his many friends here have paid him the highest compliment that could be given to man, namely: Even though he is a national figure and a big man in every respect, he has not been afflicted with the vicious "high-hat" malady. He is still a friend to man and enjoys visiting with people in all walks of life.

It's a real privilege to be permitted to extend a hand of welcome to a man like Lawrence Bell.

Showing at the Madrid Theatre-in Akron, was "Long Voyage Home" starring, Ian Hunter, John Wayne and Thomas Mitchell. "I Wanted Wings" starring Ray Milland, Wayne Morris, William Holden, Brian Donlevy, and Veronica Lake. "They Met In Bombay" starring Clark Gable and Rosiland Russell.

Latest reports following the operation are that she is recovering normally.

C.L. Manwaring, chairman of the Kid's Day Program, of the Mentone Fair, insisted upon having Kid's Day all four days but the other members of the association finally satisfied him with one day-Wednesday-so the youngsters can expect the day to be a big one for them. After all, Chet, known as "Huck" Finn among his close associates, has retained his youth longer than most of us.

Scenes Around Town

by Leafy Hudson

Bob and Jacque Herenden flew in from the EAA Fly-In in Oshkosh recently in Bob's sleek new Glasair. Bob, who was inducted into the Aerobatic Hall of Fame at Oshkosh last year, received yet another trophy this year to add to the roomful he already has. This one is a huge trophy, the Rollic Cole Award, in recognition of his significant contribution to aerobatics. Bob is the second honoree of the newly established and much coveted award.

Talking to Bob Whetstone the other day prompted a visit to Mentzer Park--something everyone should do every so often. We tend to forget what a lovely well-kept wooded and natural area we have, dissected by the creek and connected by a rustic bridge. It belongs to all of us and we all should be enjoying it.

A nature trail, about one mile long, through the woods is a delight for adults and kids alike. The walking trail, put in last year by a special committee of Street Scene, provides an excellent walk for exercise buffs. Exercise stations along the way are being planned now.

Two shelters, one across the bridge, provide open cover for meetings and reunions. Lots of playground equipment and a baseball diamond provide for endless hours of family activities.

The basketball court, covered with limestone presently, will soon be cleared off and open for skirmishes again. Bob says in the near future, he plans to install lower goals so kids can play basketball there, too.

Bob has lots of exciting plans for making the park even better. They include revamped grills and picnic tables, along with the addition of more tables on both sides of the creek so there will be plenty of room for small, private picnics.

Other plans are for: more lighting, more seating, horseshoe, volleyball, badminton and possible shuffleboard courts.

Bricks have been donated for a California style open barbecue pit and limestone will soon define decorative areas around the flagpole, water fountain and shelter.

Vandalism has been a serious problem in the park recently, but Bob says some corrective efforts of the park board have helped the situation immensely. Signs, recently erected, stating park rules have also helped.

Bob has planted two new flower beds and has plans for more. Everyone should be availing themselves of the use of the park. We owe Bob a vote of thanks for maintaining it and improving it. As citizens, we can help preserve it by discouraging vandalism and using it ourselves as much as possible.

Recipe of the Month

Lemon Meringue Pie

9-inch Baked Pie Shell (below).

1 1/2 cups sugar
1/3 cup plus 1 tablespoon cornstarch
1 1/2 cups water
3 egg yolks, slightly beaten
3 tablespoons margarine or butter
2 teaspoons grated lemon peel
1/2 cup lemon juice
2 drops yellow food color, if desired
Meringue (below)

Prepare and bake pie shell. Heat oven to 400°. Mix sugar and cornstarch in 2-quart saucepan. Gradually stir in water. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, until mixture thickens and boils. Boil and stir 1 minute. Gradually stir at least half of the hot mixture into egg yolks. Stir into hot mixture in saucepan. Boil and stir 1 minute; remove from heat. Stir in margarine, lemon peel, lemon juice and food color. Pour into pie shell.

Prepare meringue. Spoon onto hot pie filling. Spread over filling, carefully sealing meringue to edge of crust to prevent shrinking or weeping. Bake 8 to 12 minutes or until meringue is delicate brown. Cool away from draft. Immediately refrigerate any remaining pie. 8 servings; 410 calories per serving.

9-inch Baked Pie Shell

1/3 cup plus 1 tablespoon shortening or 1/3 cup lard
1 cup all-purpose flour*
1/2 teaspoon salt
2 to 3 tablespoons cold water

Heat oven to 475°. Cut shortening into flour and salt until particles are size of small peas. Sprinkle in water, 1 tablespoon at a time, tossing with fork until all flour is moistened and pastry almost cleans side of bowl (1 to 2 teaspoons water can be added if necessary).

Gather pastry into a ball; shape into flattened round on lightly floured cloth-covered board.

Roll pastry 2 inches larger than inverted pie plate with floured cloth-covered rolling pin.

Fold pastry into fourths; place in pie plate. Unfold and ease into plate, pressing firmly against bottom and side. Trim overhanging edge of pastry 1 inch from rim of plate. Fold and roll pastry under, even with plate; flute.

Prick bottom and side thoroughly with fork. Bake 8 to 10 minutes or until light brown; cool.

*If using self-rising flour, omit salt. Pie crusts made with self-rising flour differ in flavor and texture from those made with all-purpose flour.

Meringue

3 egg whites
1/4 teaspoon cream of tartar
6 tablespoons sugar
1/2 teaspoon vanilla

Beat egg whites and cream of tartar in medium bowl until foamy. Beat in sugar, 1 tablespoon at a time; continue beating until stiff and glossy. Do not underbeat. Beat in vanilla.

This recipe is from Betty Crocker's Cookbook.

Labor Day camping plans

Camping, one of the most popular ways to enjoy the great outdoors, is a popular activity for families planning a Labor Day activity, a mini vacation, or a longer period of time.

Today's campgrounds offer modern conveniences and many surprising extras. Catering to a widening range of interests and ages, campgrounds are becoming destinations in and of themselves for travelers. Campgrounds come in many sizes and personalities. There's a campground out there to fit every budget, activity, activity preference, and location.

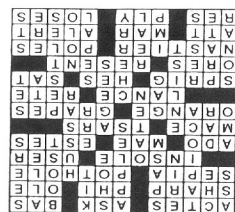

Once beyond the basics, campgrounds offer a wide range of amenities. In addition to level sites for RV's or remote attractive tent sites, many campgrounds offer on-site water, electricity, and sewer connections for RV's. Some may even provide on-site connections for cable television and mobile telephones. Dozens of campgrounds offer swimming pools, hot tubs, tennis courts, fishing facilities, playgrounds, and an almost unending list of recreational activities.

Considering all the options available at campgrounds across the Hoosier state, it is not surprising to find that camping continues to be one of America's favorite ways to spend leisure time.

To help you decide where to experience the tenting or RV lifestyle, send for a free copy of the Hoosier Camper, a campground and RV services directory which lists campgrounds in Indiana as well as RV dealers throughout Indiana.

The Hoosier Camper is the official directory of the Recreation Vehicle Indiana Council, a not-for-profit trade association, representing more than 50 percent of the commercial campground sites in Indiana. The directory is provided as a free public service.

To receive your free copy of the 1991 Hoosier Camper, just send your name and address to: RVC, Dept. L., 3210 Rand Road, Indianapolis, IN 46241.

Impact of 1991 drought felt

The impact of the 1991 drought is being felt by livestock producers as well as producers of feed grains. Lieutenant Governor Frank O'Bannon, Indiana's Commissioner of Agriculture, visited the dairy farm of Lee and Carol Riggs in northern Vanderburgh County on Tuesday, August 13 to access drought damage to this summer's hay crop.

According to the Agricultural Statistics service at Purdue University, Indiana hay production is forecast at 1.7 million tons, down 23 percent from 1990. "After talking with Lee and walking through the fields, I see that many farmers will have a greater loss than the predicted 23 percent," said O'Bannon.

Lee Riggs estimates his hay crop will be about half of a normal year, if he receives sufficient rainfall for a fourth cutting. "Right now I am at about one-third of my normal production for a year," said Riggs. Less hay will force Riggs to use more of an already drought-damaged corn crop for silage. Ultimately he will be forced to buy additional corn for feed. Riggs milks 50 registered Guernsey cows.

Vanderburgh County is one of 63 Indiana counties approved by the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) for emergency haying and grazing on set-aside acres. Although this will provide some relief to farmers, the Lieutenant Governor, along with Governor Evan Bayh have requested additional assistance from the federal government.

In a letter last week to President Bush and Secretary of Agriculture Madigan, they asked that these (63) counties be declared major disaster areas. If this declaration is made, emergency low interest loans could be available to producers through the Farmers Home Administration.

Indiana counties approved by the ASCS for emergency haying and grazing include: Bartholomew, Benton, Boone, Carroll, Clark, Clinton, Crawford, Fayette, Fountain, Hendricks, Jackson, Jasper, Jennings, Knox, Lake, LaPorte, Lawrence, Martin, Montgomery, Newton and Orange.

Additional counties are: Porter, Ripley, St. Joseph, Starke, Sullivan, Tippecanoe, Vermillion, Warren, White, Fulton, Marshall, Washington, Monroe, Park, Pike, Decatur, Rush, Posey, Harrison, Cass and Miami.

The remaining 21 counties include: Owen, Greene, Warrick, Daviess, Madison, Pulaski, Dubois, Hamilton, Vanderburgh, Hancock, Perry Union, Spencer, Dearborn, Gibson, Putnam, Brown, Elkhart, Franklin, Henry and Scott.

How Can You Protect Yourself Against Telemarketing Fraud?

Know as much as possible about the products or services you are considering buying, says National Futures Association (NFA), a self-regulatory organization for the nation's commodity futures industry. In conjunction with two federal agencies and the Alliance Against Fraud in Telemarketing, NFA published Swindlers are Calling, which gives you the steps to take and questions to ask when you receive a telephone sales call.

"Insistence on an immediate decision" is a tip-off that the caller could be a crook, says the brochure, which also lists 10 ways to avoid becoming a victim. Remember, if an offer sounds too good to be true, it probably is.

For a free copy of Swindlers are Calling, or for more information about NFA, call toll-free 800-621-3570; in Illinois, 800-572-9400.

YOUR HOUSE OF WORSHIP MAY OFFER A GOOD SCHOOL

The approaching school season reminds us that there are several options for our children's education. We have a fine public school system in this country, which does its best for our children; both in teaching them and in trying to protect them from evil influences, and it should be remembered that even the best school in the world cannot do the parents' job. However, there is an alternative. Many Houses of Worship provide their own elementary school, beginning with kindergarten. They offer a full curriculum, maintain discipline, and establish a solid foundation of faith and moral values. There is no better place to give your children a good start in life, and now is the time for you to look into it.

Whatever Happened To...

Lorna Tridle Klein displays the quilt she designed and made for her parents' (Loren and Mary Tridle) fiftieth wedding anniversary. "Women used to communicate through quilts," she says. "Pioneer women, without entertainment or the opportunity to speak out, poured their love of beauty and their frustrations into their quilts." (Photo by Hudson).

Lorna Tridle Klein

by Leafy Hudson

Lorna Tridle Klein has traveled far and wide since her graduation from Mentone High School in 1965, but she returns to visit in Mentone as often as possible.

Lorna has many happy childhood memories in Mentone. Genevieve Nelson was both her kindergarten and third grade teacher. "I still have the little chair that Dad painted my name on for kindergarten," she says.

Lorna kept very busy during her growing up years. She took dance lessons at Avis & Fern Studio in Warsaw and piano lessons from Maude Snyder. But, she didn't enjoy the piano too much. "I remember slipping right by Maude's house when I was supposed to go for lessons, going across the street to Dona Kay Van Gilder's (Pineda) instead." Other activities included both Boys' and Girls' 4-H, singing in the Triple Trio and candy-stripping at Murphy Medical Center.

Some of her happiest memories from those days are of working with Pearl Lackey and Eileen Bowser for 50¢ an hour at Bell Memorial Library. "I would go to Denton's Drugstore on break for a green river—and when Pearl was away, we would play music on the radio. We thought that was cool!"

Although she graduated high school as salutatorian, at Manchester College Lorna found herself competing with other top students from much larger schools. "I had to struggle," she says. "Those were difficult days."

But Lorna persevered, earning her Elementary Ed degree in three years, followed by her M.A. from Indiana University in 1974.

Lorna's first teaching job was for Maconaquah School Corporation, teaching on Grissom Air Force Base. Her nine years teaching there were interrupted by one year back at Mentone, teaching third grade. Because of the illnesses of both her father and her maternal grandmother, she felt she needed to be at home that year. After her grandmother's death and her father's "miraculous" recovery, she returned to the air base. It was there, at a routine teachers' Friday night bingo-pizza party, she first met Air Force pilot Al Klein. "He was wearing a purple shirt, I remember, and I thought he was a male chauvinist," she laughs. "Then a friend 'fixed us up.'"

Lorna and Al were married on an icy cold day, in the Mentone United Methodist Church, in February, 1974. "An ice storm hit and Al's parents, flying into O'Hare for the wedding, had to circle in the air four hours before they could land!"

When their son, Chris, was born in March 1977, Lorna had planned to take a year's maternity leave from teaching. So many parents, however, were upset at the prospect of losing her, they took turns babysitting so she would continue teaching. "The day I gave up teaching at Grissom was the saddest day of my life."

Lorna and Al's greatest adventure began in January, 1978, when he received orders for duty in Panama. Lorna remembers both good and bad times in Panama. By chance, Mentone High School graduate Anna Murcia Harlos and her Air Force husband, David, lived near them. Anna, a native of El Salvador, speaks fluent Spanish, so "we went everywhere." One memorable night, when the two were out gathering ginger to use for decorating, Anna was bitten by a poisonous spider. A quick trip to a hospital emergency room was necessary to save her life.

Gathering wild flowers for decorations was only one of Lorna's favorite activities in Panama. "I was always on the Squadron's monthly luncheon decorating committee, and money was limited, so we had to do it ourselves. She used violets, lilies and hibiscus, all growing wild, but the rose-colored ginger was her favorite."

"We went through the canal on a U.S. Navy ship, rode the train to Colon and visited the island run by the Smithsonian Institute." Lorna enjoyed shopping in Panama. "They had gorgeous baby clothes and hand-made linens," she says. "I always bought extra when I went to the market, so I could give some to my maid. The poor in Panama have so little."

Lorna sometimes accompanied Al on a military plane, visiting missionary friends from their church in Ecuador and Colombia. She was thrilled in Quito, Ecuador, while watching a doctor friend set a broken leg, to notice "Orthopedic, DePuy, Warsaw, Indiana," stamped on the splint he was using.

Lorna watched natives in Ecuador pulling palm fronds from the river to weave baskets. "Baskets were functional in the development of man, even before clay. I brought back 137 baskets from Quito!" She also learned to weave them herself.

The Kleins saw some unpleasant happenings while in Panama. On a trip into S. America, Al described seeing the results of a bus robbery. A lady's finger had been cut off so the robbers could get her ring. One day, coming home from church, "out in the boonies" they saw a person lying in the middle of the road. Luckily, instead of stopping, Lorna drove around him on the grass. They later learned the "body" was a decoy for robbers. Another day, while buying delicious homemade bread for 5¢ a loaf, at a Panamanian bakery, the baker warned her to get back to her car by going down the middle of the street. A robber was waiting across the street for her!

Overall, it was a wonderful experience. "The weather was never below 70 and we played in the water. I would pull Chris down to the water in a little red wagon."

Lorna and Al's daughter, Ruth, was born in a beautiful civilian hospital in downtown Panama City. She just missed having to go to a home for Indian mothers' deliveries by a week, however. The week following Ruth's birth, the Shah of Iran, choosing to have surgery there, rented the entire hospital so he would have complete privacy.

Visitors from home, including Lorna's parents, her sister Kathy Kinney, Frank and Jerry Smith, Miriam Boardman, Rosemary Bazini and Sue England all helped to make their time in Panama extra special.

Since returning from Panama, the Kleins have lived in Oklahoma, where Lorna experienced her first dust storm, "just like a snow storm," and now in Derby, Kansas. After Al's honorable discharge from the Air Force, he was accepted by American Airlines and has flown for them for six years.

Lorna has worked in a "school at risk" for six years, teaching disadvantaged students, many of them foreign. Although the challenge is great and the burnout rate is high, she likes it very much. Two workshops she recently attended "reinforced my idea of teaching. A good student loves his teacher and his teacher loves him."

Two of Lorna's many interests are baskets and antiques. Her interest in baskets has led her into selling the exclusive Longenbarger Baskets, woven to last a lifetime. The whole Klein family likes to camp out and they travel a lot. Since Al began working for American, "we've been everywhere," she says.

The quality of life of the earlier generations is important to Lorna. "I've tried to make everyplace we've lived home," she says. Staying close to her family is important, too, Lorna feels. "To do that, one has to work at it. We come back to Mentone as often as possible; we have happy memories here—our roots are here." The children feel at home here, too. She grins as she adds, "One of the songs my kids like to sing best is, 'On the Banks of the Wabash, Far Away.'"

Akron rebuilds police department once again

In the last two months Akron lost their deputy marshal, David Lawson, to the Rochester City Police and later, Marshal Tim Fleck, to the Fulton County Sheriffs Department. Faced with the task of rebuilding the police department once again, the Akron Town Council hired Jim McEvoy, 30, as the new town marshal.

Jim's experience includes three years with the Fulton County Reserves, four months with the Argos Police Department and private security for private law enforcement for two years. Jim was in the Navy for four years on a submarine, and spent the last six months as a Navy Medical Coreman.

As a child, Jim lived in Akron, and later moved to Rochester, where he graduated from Rochester High School in 1980. Jim's parents are the late James and Anne McEvoy. Jim's dad worked for the Fulton County Sheriffs Department under Homer Carr.

Jim's mother was a county health nurse for several years. LaVada McEvoy, Jim's grandmother, still resides in Akron.

"Right now, we are working on making the streets safe to be on again," Jim says. "We have had many problems with getting speeding cars and trucks to slow down, and also skateboarders back under control. I want to get Akron back to the community they want and there is still much to be done. I want this community to be safe for old and young alike," Jim says.

Dan Butt, 23, the newly appointed deputy marshal, is the son of Lyle and LaVada Butt, Beaver Dam. Dan graduated from Tippecanoe Valley High School in 1986, and attended Manchester College where he studied Social Sciences. He later left college to join an environmental firm in Texas. Later, the company transferred him to Chicago. Dan didn't like living in Chicago and returned home to Beaver Dam.

"I have always been interested in law enforcement, so this job was a perfect chance for me to do something I would enjoy, and serve a community I grew up in," says Dan.

Dan is presently being trained for his new appointment with the Akron, P.D. Both officers reside in the Akron area and are anxious to serve the community.

Valley Board holds budget hearing

The Tippecanoe Valley School Board conducted public hearings for its 1992 budget and Capital Projects Fund on Monday August 20.

At the meeting Akron resident Richard Day spoke out against the proposal to use a portion of the Capital Project Fund for architects' fees, should a combined middle school be built.

Earlier this year a report from the Bureau of School Services at Indiana State University recommend constructing a centralized middle school for sixth, seventh and eighth grades.

Day and a group of other Akron residents oppose the building of the combined school and feel it would have a detrimental effect on the towns of Akron and Mentone. Day also criticized the area press for not reporting everything that had been said on the subject at a previous meeting. In particular, he felt it should have been reported that one of the men at the meeting had said there would be no reason for a Valley graduate to return to either Akron or Mentone after going to college.

Board president Fred McSherry explained that the school system will eventually need more space whether it adds on to the present schools or builds a new school. He said the board's first concern is the education of children, followed by economic concerns. He added that it was not the board's intention to keep schools away from Akron and Mentone. McSherry assured Day the board will not push the idea if the community is not behind it.

No one at the meeting voiced any opposition to the budget. Its advertised $4.78 tax rate is seventeen cents higher than last year.

The board will hold a public session at noon on Thursday, August 29 to approve both the budget and the Capital Projects Fund.

In other business the board:

- * Approved a $40,000 per year contract for high school assistant principal Gary Bidwell. Formerly an art teacher at Bedford North Lawrence Middle School, Bridwell will also receive an additional three percent for retirement.

- * Approved contracts for Tana Tinkey, Mentone Music; Edith Christopher, high school English; Alisa Baker, Akron special ed; and Sheri Bloom, high school IOL and ICE.

- * Accepted resignations from Kay Goshert, high school ICE; Kim Cone, high school English; and Jina Newman, Akron special ed.

- * Approved the transfer of Lorretta Deardorff from Mentone Music teacher to Akron guidance director.

- * Approved Akron, Mentone and Burket textbook rental fees. They are: Kindergarten, $34.00; Readiness, $41.75; First grade, $78.50; Second grade, $80.25; Third grade, $64.75; Fourth, $50.75; Fifth, $53.50; Sixth, $52.50; Seventh, $42.00 and Eighth, $44.00.

- * Approved the high school fee schedule.

- * Reappointed the same 26 bus drivers to the same routes they had last year.

- * Approved teacher and extracurricular assignments.

- * Approved contracts for August for football coaches Scott Bibler, Phil See, Jeff Shriver, Andy Wood, Doug Heindol and Ron Shewman.

The date for the September board meeting was changed from September 9 to September 25 because Superintendent Baxter Paige will be on vacation. The October meeting was also rescheduled from October 14 to October 21 because of a conflict with Indiana State School Board Association meetings.

Rye Seeding is done by plane. Local farmers planted rye Monday. Nearly everyone in town watched. Some complained. The rest of us enjoyed watching the operation. For the benefit of those who didn't see or hear the seeding operation, we hasten to add that it was done by airplane. Mike Ballee, a former Rochester resident, flew the Stearman plane, a massive bi-wing with a 450 hp engine. The huge engine is needed to enable the plane to make rapid ascent when nearing trees and light lines. The plane has a capacity of 1000 pounds of seed and can plant as many as 1000 acres of rye each day.

Ballee was accompanied to Mentone by an assistant who rode in the grain bin of the plane. He is based at Ruske Aviation, Kankakee, Ill.

Marshall Warren Catches Three Deserters. Marshall Frank Warren apprehended three young men who had deserted from the army. They had stolen their lieutenant-colonel's automobile while on maneuvers.

The boys, Philip Hanes and LeRoy Carlile, of Anderson, and Billy Butler of Greenfield, were turned over to State Officer Clayton Clutter, who took them to the Kosciusko county jail.

Each of the boys lied about their age to get into the armed forces, none of them being over seventeen.

Leg broken by cow. Ervin Wagner, Mentone blacksmith and veterinary, suffered a broken leg just above the ankle on day last week while treating some cattle at the Ebby Baine farm. The cows were in the barn and in some manner while Mr. Wagner had his leg outstretched over the ramp in the stall, a cow stepped on it, breaking the bones. He was confined to the hospital where the fracture was reduced.

Boy seriously burned by exploding tractor tank. Royal, son of Pete Blue, was seriously burned Wednesday evening when the gasoline tank on the tractor he was operating on the Creighton place exploded. He is in the Rochester Hospital.

Meager information is that the tank was leaking and the gas ignited on the hot motor.

"God Hold My Hand"

Sometimes I cannot seem to see the wisdom of God's way, and yet I trust His loving hand, to guide me through each day.

Though darkest shadows fall about, and make my paths obscure, one thing I know, God holds my hand, of His dear care I'm sure.

I feel His presence always near, together we shall stand, and faith shall be my strong support, because God holds my hand.

Watch out for Darrell King. The buttons are popping off his vest with the news from Canada that he and Mary Ann are grandparents again. Kathleen and Rick welcomed their first, Kaitlyn Christina, at 7:30 p.m., August 21. She weighed in at nine pounds, one ounce. A music teacher, Kathleen will stay home this year to devote her time to being a full-time mother. She does plan to resume her duties as organist and choir director in the Presbyterian Church this fall. Rick will teach junior high music, math and science this year. They can be addressed at 737 Green Street, Port Elgin, Ontario, Canada NOH2C4.

Postage is a bit higher from here to Canada than states-bound mail. Mary Ann says it costs 35¢ to mail a letter up there. She and Darrell hope to visit Kathleen and Rick this fall, to meet Kaitlyn.

"Where has the summer gone?" That old refrain has been running through my head as it does every year at this time. The golden, lazy days that seem to stretch out interminably are suddenly over. As we watch the kids troop by, two by two, each morning, hefting book bags and deep in discussion about the serious matters that affect their world, we realize Halloween is just around the corner and it isn't too early to begin planning for Thanksgiving and Christmas.

"Life is fleeting," said the poet, and it certainly is--faster all the time, it seems. Another year will soon be history, with its joys and heartaches, recessions and recoveries, wars, coups and victories. Maybe this time of new beginning is a good time for each of us to pause for a moment and consider our lives. Won't you join me in the goal to make each new day ahead count to its fullest, and for each of us, be the "most that we can be"?

opened the meeting by reading a poem. She led as we saluted our flags. The group sang "I Would Be True."

Sherri Moore, for devotions read the story of a true miracle. She also read a poem.

International Citizenship Chairman, Helen Miller, told that daydreaming is helpful. It soothes and it helps in solving problems.

Aurel Musselman for "Family Life" read a magazine article titled "Grandchildren are the Frosting on the Cake."

Marie Long read that times have changed. What once was called an itch is now termed "an allergy."

No one volunteered to give a club lesson.

Pauline Miller is today's

Lucky Lady.

Cards signed by each lady present will be sent to Marjorie Miller, who had surgery, Emma Burns, who had her leg lanced, and to Marie Berger whose heart problem has sent her to Intensive Care in the St. Joe Hospital in Kokomo.

Roll call answered by "How Do You Want Your Children To Remember You?" found the following members present: Marie Long, Helen Miller, Pauline Miller, Sherri Moore, Aurel Musselman, and Marie Nestleroad. Guests were: Dorothy Cole and Betty Keim.

The hostess served attractive and delicious refreshments and the members enjoyed their visit in her lovely home.

Akron Business of The Week

Charlotte Hammond and her niece, Jessica, display some of the handmade and homegrown items that are sold in the craft corner of The Farmer's Daughters Cafe. (Photo by Tonia Weller).

The Farmer's Daughters Cafe

by Tonia Weller

Every small town cafe has a large table where the "regulars" gather to share the latest gossip and the local news over their morning cup of coffee. The Farmer's Daughters Cafe, on Rochester Street in Akron, is no exception, although it has two of these tables. The one nearer the window is known as "the Sunday School table" because most of the customers who sit there are members of the same Sunday School class. The other, near the cash register, is known as "the liar's table". "It's been called that forever," says assistant manager Charlotte Hammond. Charlotte should know, she first began working at the cafe in 1974 at the age of 15, when A.C. Prater was the proprietor.

Owned by Charlotte's parents, Zeno and Patty Schultz, since 1980, The Farmer's Daughters Cafe might be more accurately named The Farmer's Family Cafe. In addition to Charlotte, her mother, Patty and her sister, Mary Jo Riffle, the crew at the cafe also includes Mary Jo's two daughters, Jessica, 9, and Andrea, 11, and Charlotte's daughter, Arissa, 13. The three younger family members are kitchen assistants and also serve as waitresses for some of the regular customers on Saturdays. Mary Jo's youngest, red-haired John Henry, is jokingly referred to as the "taste-tester". In the past, a third sister, Jo Ellen Dunn, also worked at the cafe. "And Brenda Morgan has been our cook for about four years," Charlotte says. "She's almost family."

Patty opens for breakfast bright and early at 5 a.m. Monday through Saturday. The cafe, which seats about 50 people, serves a daily hot lunch special, such as homemade beef and noodles or oven steak, in addition to soups and sandwiches. On Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday they close at 3:30 p.m. and on Saturdays at 2:00. The cafe remains open until 8 p.m. on Thursday and Friday to serve through the supper hours.

In the summer of 1989, The Farmer's Daughters was featured in an article in the August/September issue of Farm & Ranch Living. The article contained the recipe for the cafe's most famous dish, "Whole-hog Sausage Gravy and Biscuits", which is made with sausage from hogs Zeno raises on his farm.

"In the two years since the article was published, there hasn't been a month go by that someone hasn't come in who saw it," Charlotte says. Patty asks travelers who say they've stopped because of the article to sign their name and address on the back of their guest check, which she then puts in a scrapbook. People from all over the country have stopped in for breakfast.

Besides its delicious sausage gravy, made from scratch noodles and homemade pie with real meringue, the cafe is also known for its friendliness and the care and interest its crew shows their customers. If a regular is sick, they will get a card from the cafe. The crew has even been known to take a favorite food, such as a steaming bowl of beef and noodles to the home of a customer who was ill. "We just adore our customers, they are like family," Charlotte says. "We're just like old mother hens!"

A regional sales manager for Sonoco once commented that the cafe was "very customer oriented."

In a corner of the restaurant there is a wooden rack filled with newspapers and magazines for customers to read while waiting for their order.

Along one wall of the cafe, Patty has established an area to show and sell crafts made by local artists. There are crocheted afghans, appliqued tea towels, T-shirts, country cut-outs, jewelry, sock monkeys, Raggedy Ann dolls and other charming items on display. In the summer, Patty also sells home grown dill and garlic from her garden and in the fall, she sets out crates filled with Indian corn and gourds for sale.

The building has a long history and is believed to have housed a cafe for over 100 years. Marion Hunter, whose parents owned the cafe in the 50's, did some research and found that the building was built by a Jay Emahouser. She gave Patty a copy of an ad from 1914 when the cafe was known as Bright's Restaurant. Through the years the cafe has gone by several different names including Showalter's Cafe, the HMC, the Eatrite and the Dutch Mill. Some of the past owners have included Martha Ellen Marter, Everett Showalter, Lavon Bemedrofer, T.D. Grogg, Joe Madeford, John and Dorothy Savage, John Syage, and Johnny Day.

Charlotte says the most well known proprietor was probably Roger Parker, from the late 40's and 50's. "He's definitely the most notorious! Actually his mother and father owned the business and did the cooking," Charlotte adds. "Roger went to all the gag shops and had the fake flies and the funny silverware and all that kind of stuff. Roger was constantly doing things like putting caps in different things. Things that you couldn't get away with now. They just had a blast! If he didn't pull something at least once a week the people back then would have been bored."

Charlotte goes on to say, "Learning the local history is half the fun of working here. I've always lived in this area, I grew up here. And I'm just relatively a young punk kid, you know? But I've heard a lot of stories!"

Whether you're looking for a good home-cooked meal or a little friendly conversation over coffee, The Farmer's Daughters Cafe is the place to go. Zeno and Patty Schultz and their daughters and grandchildren are happy to provide their customers with both.

Dry weather illustrates dynamics of the market

For many farmers in the nation's corn and soybean growing areas, this year's drought has been every bit as severe as the "Drought of '88." What has made the "Drought of '91" different however from its 1988 counterpart is the checkerboard pattern it has taken. While some farmers are enjoying optimum conditions, others says their final crops will be just a fraction of normal yields.

Dry weather or not, all farmers are concerned with their considerable investment in seed, fertilizer, equipment and fuel. And whether their crop is plentiful or meager, they want the best price for it.

Every day, the grain futures markets at the Chicago Board of Trade (CBOT) discover prices which serve as the benchmark for the world grain trade. Orders to buy and sell originate from participants ranging from major international grain companies to country elevators. These orders represent each participant's opinion about supply and demand and the factors affecting each side of the market.

Weather dominates which way the price will move in the summer. When drought threatens the crop, the term "weather market" applies to futures market activity. Prices may climb when a dry weather forecast is issued or a national crop condition report indicates a severely damaged crop, or prices may slide when rain is forecast or crop conditions look better than had been expected. The markets move accordingly so that every day, the world can look to the futures markets as the price for the crop, at the moment, given the immediate conditions.

"When conditions such as this year's drought exist, we see more use of the futures markets because of the increased risk that the weather has produced in the supply and demand situation," said Randy Sheldon, an agricultural economist with the CBOT.

While the grain trade has used these markets for decades to control price risk, they also present farmers with opportunities to lock in good prices for their crop this year and even next year.

"Farmers who have experienced weather difficulties may want to look at options on futures as a way of providing price protection," said Sheldon.

An option conveys the right-but not the obligation-to buy or sell the underlying futures contract at a specified price on or before an expiration date. Because there is no obligation, options can work as a form of insurance for farmers.

For example, a farmer who has sold his anticipated crop by forward contract to his local elevator could buy a "call" option, an option to buy a futures contract. If weather threatens his crop, the option's value should increase to offset the cost of buying out his forward contract.

It is in times of greatest uncertainty - such as with this season's dry weather conditions - that the futures and options markets are at their most dynamic and illustrate why they were founded over a century ago - to serve as a central marketplace for price discovery and risk management.
