

Area residents plan for futures

by Renee Norlander

Twenty-one representatives from the towns of Mentone, Burket, Claypool, and Roann, met on Saturday morning, January 27, to discuss the common challenges and proposals facing each town and its government.

The meeting, directed by members of the Institute of Cultural Affairs in Indianapolis, was hosted by the Mentone Chamber of Commerce at Tippecanoe Valley High School.

Each town represented has had its own "Town Meeting" in the last few months, and the directors from ICA had compiled a listing of the challenges facing these towns.

Divided into three categories and roughly labeled, the categories were: "Economics", "Community Spirit", and "Government".

Under the heading of "Economics (Providing and paying for basic town services and programs,)" some of the challenges were: recreation for youth and elders; better housing and transportation; and influencing and benefitting from state and federal programs.

With "Community Spirit: getting more community people to participate in community decisions", some of the challenges included: getting publicity out for community events; better relations with the town boards; better communications within the community; and revitalizing the town boards.

And challenges for the third category, "Government: building community pride and spirit", were: making the town appearances more attractive; getting more people participating with town boards; and removing or repairing community safety hazards.

All of the representatives present at Saturdays "get-together" had participated in their own "Town Meetings" and were aware of all of these challenges facing each town.

They were then organized into three "task forces" and were given the job of finding "feel" solutions to the aforementioned challenges.

The directors, including Jackie Speicher, Gary Drown, and Janis Johnston, made sure that the groups had representatives from each town, so that solutions one town may have already discovered could be passed on to the other towns.

The members of each group then spent about an hours time discussing proposals that had already worked in their towns; explaining ideas that they had heard of that had worked in other towns; listing the primary needs of their towns; and then offering practical actions proposed for satisfying these needs.

Jackie Speicher, director of the get-together, from the Institute of Cultural Affairs in Indianapolis, is shown here calling on area representatives to openly discuss their feelings on what can be done to improve the quality of living in each town. Representatives were present from Mentone, Roann, Claypool, and Burket. Several guests from W. Lafayette, Ind. were also present.

The "Economics" task force listed the primary needs as: funding and installation of sewage disposal; housing; increased employment; and outside funding for other projects.

The practical actions they proposed were: to encourage small home industries; community involvement; engaging an outside consultant on funding; and a volunteer taxi service for the elderly.

It was stressed that all of these needs might not be appropriate for each town represented, but basically they were pretty common.

Under the "Community Spirit" heading, the task force found these to be their primary needs: to get everyone interested in their town; employment for youth; transportation for the elderly; and keeping senior citizens involved.

Their practical actions included: block parties; a "Jobs for Youth" task force to be appointed by town boards; organize volunteers; Men's Breakfast outreach program; and forming a RSVP (Retired Seniors Volunteer Program) group.

And the third group listing their "Government" needs found these: better support for town board and community concerns; housing for the elderly; larger economic base; and getting government aid (know-how).

The practical actions they came up with included: learning the know-how to obtain government funds; town task forces appointed by the town boards; and developing reserve officer programs for police departments.

The overlapping needs and actions were of course quite evident. Everyone agreed that the stress was on know-how and community involvement. The representatives all expressed their optimism for carrying out many of the practical actions, and hoped to convey these messages to their town boards, volunteer groups, and organizations.

Whether or not any of the solutions will be carried out is not evident at this time, but if the enthusiasm of Saturdays meeting is carried forth, they surely will be.

Board plans for upcoming year

The Akron Town Board met in their regular monthly meeting January 16 at the town office.

Board members Ronald Fenimore, Charles Miller and Vernon Waymire were all present as well as Clerk Ernie Smith.

President Fenimore opened the meeting at 7:30 p.m. and requested the clerk to read the minutes of the December 19, 1978 meeting. The minutes were approved as read.

The first order of business for the meeting was the reorganization of the board for 1979. Dr. Miller made a motion that the present officers be retained. This motion was seconded by Waymire and passed.

The officers for 1979 will be: President—Ronald Fenimore; and Vice-President—Dr. Charles Miller. The board instructed clerk Smith to prepare an ordinance fixing the annual salaries of the elected officers, payable from the General Fund. The salaries will be:

—Board members $500/year each
—Clerk-Treasurer $2,500/year

In other board action:

—Clerk Smith advised the board of a request to have the east side town tennis court at the park flooded to provide ice skating facilities. After much discussion, the board decided against the request.

—Town foreman Sparks requested that a snow blade be purchased for the towns' 4 x 4 truck. The request was taken under advisement for action later.

—The board approved a new contract submitted by Val Duggins, waste water control operator. There is no increase in the monthly charge of $225.00, but a surcharge of $15 per hour will be made for any emergency calls.

This concluded the business of the evening and the meeting adjourned at 9:15 p.m.

SOUND OFF

"I think the town of Akron should give a big thank you to the town crew for the job well done cleaning the streets of the new snow."

"Does the town of Akron have a snowmobile policy? Too bad someone is using private lawns to snowmobile!"

(Editors note: We published an extensive list of snowmobile regulations in our January 11, 1979 issue of the News. The information was furnished by Akron Marshal Ed Hauser. If you are a snowmobile enthusiast, you may want to refer to the article.)

Volunteers donate time and energy to Akron

by Carolyn Ramsey

The Akron Volunteer Firemen are on call 24 hours a day. They take care of fires in town and for the rural residents of Fulton county. They also help neighboring communities when they are asked.

There are nine men on the department. Bob Gray is chief and Geo. Stephens, assistant chief. Ray Doering, one of the volunteers, met with me to discuss the way the volunteer department worked.

The department has four trucks, one grass truck, one tanker, and two pumps.

"The grass truck is a 4-wheel drive unit, we use it if there is a field on fire, or maybe a combine. This truck can get places where others can't. The department has three trucks we use in rural fires and one truck purchased by the town for town fires. The town truck cannot leave town, if it did and there was a fire here in town, there wouldn't be a truck here to fight it," Ray said.

The department also has oxygen equipment, fans, and a emergency electric generator. There is an oxygen kit on each truck in case of smoke inhalation of firemen or victims. The fans are to draw out smoke, and generator in case of power failure.

"The fan is important, in a fire the most damage is caused by smoke," he replied.

The volunteer firemen wear protective boots and raincoats. They are given a clothing allowance. It wouldn't take much to ruin the clothing they wear. The men also get paid twice a year for working on the department. The money is not a great amount, but it helps.

Most of the men leave their jobs when there is a fire (if they have it set up with their employer), to me, it would be a pain to have to leave my job and then help with a fire, be covered in smoke and then go back.

"We get some money, but some of us lose money when we help with a fire. We are not in it for the money, we are in it for a general purpose. All of us are in it to try to protect the town of Akron and the rural areas," he said.

There is no jealousy between the men. They don't fight to see which one drives the trucks or who gets to do what. They've got a job to do and they do it.

Each truck is also equipped with CB radios. They can communicate with each other if problems occur.

If you have a fire, do you know what to do? I didn't, I would probably go into hysterics, and wouldn't know where to call. Each one of us should know the Firehouse number, just like we know our own home number. If you have a fire the number you want to call is, 893-4348. This rings in at the Firehouse and to each fireman's home. They all get in at one time. If one of them is on the line at the time of the call it still rings. It is not like a regular ring, but it lets the fireman know there is a fire. He then hangs up and then picks it up and he is then connected to the caller. No matter what time you call there will be someone who will receive the call. It is a nice and simple call, if the caller can remember to call the right number.

Most of the men have given much time to the department, many years of loyal service and little pay. The department now consist of Bob Gray, chief, who's been on the department for 38 years, George Stephens, assistant chief, 28 yrs., John Zimmerman, 15 years, Ray Doering, 15 years, Mike Stephens, 10 years, Ed Hauser, town marshal is also on the department. Mike Gearhart has been on the department for four years, Kevin Duzenberry and Duane Hackworth are also on the department.

The firemen have to obey all traffic laws. They have lights on the truck, to warn the people they need to get to a fire. The firemen are not allowed to pass on yellow lines, run traffic signs on signals. There have been times, I'm sure they have passed on a yellow line, due to car going extremely slow, they have to use their own judgement. If an accident occurs, they are held responsible.

As citizens, the best way we thank the volunteer department is to cooperate. If I have a fire I'd want them to be able to get there as fast as they can, so if I ever see them behind me on the road, with their lights going, I'll pull over, they may be coming to your home! Do the same for me.

Eating fish whenever possible was motto

(Editor's note - The Famous Akron Jonah Club recently made the decision to cease their fish frying operations after 43 years of service. The NEWS salutes this fine organization with this final look back at the club.)

The Famous Akron Jonah Club was organized in the summer and early fall of 1936, the year Akron was celebrating its centennial, the group set to fill the need for an organization that could serve food for a large banquet in the small community.

The late Roscoe Fraser, one of the top extension agents of Purdue University, and his classmate, Whitney K. Gast, Akron Muck Crops champion farmer and member of the Purdue Ag Alumni Hall of Fame, had succeeded in scheduling the annual Northern Indiana Muck Crops Show in Akron. In addition to the crops display room and lecture and meeting facilities, a principle part of the program was a banquet for 500 to 700 people. No catering service in the area could handle it. With the help of Forrest (Skinny) Higgins, muck crops farmer and high school friend of Gast, a suggestion was made to form a club and fry fish for the occasion.

Among banquets served by the Famous Akron Jonah Club are the Purdue Ag Alumni, The University of Illinois Ag Alumni and The Indianapolis Press Club.

On these occasions, prominent members of the audience are frequently initiated into the club after they "promise and swear" they "will eat fish ravenously on every occasion possible." The oath calls for placing the left hand on a platter of fish, holding the right hand up, and admitting to be "fairly sound of mind."

Such notables as the late Gov. Henry Schricker, Senator Homer E. Capehart, Gov. Ralph Gates and the late Eugene Jenson Cadou have been initiated in this manner.

Higgins was an idea man, and it was his suggestion that a club of fish eaters and fryers be formed to avenge Jonah for all the time he spent in the belly of a whale. He said: "We eat fish on every opportunity to show our respect for Jonah."

Thus, The Famous Akron Jonah Club, Inc. was founded.

At least three "Taster's Meetings" were held in the Akron News office, during which various recipes were tasted. The group finally came up with the gourmet formula which they dubbed "essence of bluegill," and began assembling materials and equipment to serve the crowd all the fish they could eat.

The first banquet was a big success. Afterwards, officers were elected and an initiation ceremony largely concocted by Gast, Higgins and Fraser, was devised, and the club was in business. Accepting invitations from other communities led to publicity in the South Bend, Fort Wayne and other metropolitan papers.

Although women, known in the club as mermaids, helped prepare the fish, mostly Lake Michigan Perch, and helped with the clean-up, they were not given membership status until a few years ago.

The club was a non-profit corporation which purchased fish by the ton and sold them at cost to the organizations using their services. Members were not paid for their work, but they did get a expense allowance. No charge was made by the club, in accordance with tradition, but donations were accepted. The funds were distributed throughout the community to groups and individuals who needed the money.

Hundreds of church, civic and social organizations have utilized the services of the club. The Famous Akron Jonah Club may not be in operation anymore, but the club will never be forgotten.

Seniors to enjoy camera trip of Colorado River

by Onda Good

The Akron Lions Senior Citizen site is still serving about 20 persons each day in spite of the bad weather. It was a pleasant surprise to see Mary Krouse back from North Carolina. Welcome back, Mary.

Akron will have "Site Day" Jan. 30. The topic this month is "Vial of Life". Ester Smith and Evelyn Meredith distributed the vials to the senior citizens and explained their use. The Akron Women's Club has taken the "Vial of Life" as a project. Worthwhile project ladies.

On February 5 from 9 to 11:30 will be income tax preparation time again. Bring your income total including social security; bring your tax receipts; bring any tax forms, state or federal you have received and bring last year's tax papers if you filed last year.

During the week of February 5 to 9, the Love Trio will sing for the senior citizens. February 8 is February Birthday Party day. Plan to come help celebrate the February birthdays. On Feb. 13 plan to "Shoot the Rapids" with Howard Kerr as he takes us down the Colorado through the rapids by way of camera. Come enjoy the trip.

An exchange student visit, slides and movies of South America, blood pressure clinic and other activities will also occur in February. Don't forget the coffee hour and exercises each day.

A phone has been added to the site. You may now reach the site an hour or two before noon and an hour or so after lunch. The new number is 893-7204. If not able to call near noon you may call 893-7263 for reservations or information.

Scheduled menus for the week of February 5-9 are:

MONDAY - Barbeque beef sandwich, corn, spinach, rice pudding with raisins, milk, coffee.

Remembering Tippecanoe as it was years ago

(Editor's note: Eula Smith is helping to compile a book on the history of Mentone and its surrounding area. The following is an excerpt of her writings about Tippecanoe.)

by Eula Romayne Smith

The only place to buy lunch in Tippecanoe, during the summer of 1952, was at Tippy's Gifts and Mirrorette, which was operated by Dolly Curran, a friendly woman who told me on my first day there, that there were two grocery stores, a train, and a post office in the town, and that the population was about four hundred.

Lewallen's Standard Station was on the northwest corner of Highway 331 and the East-West road. The grocery stores occupied opposite corners, and the post office, which was operated by Lloyd Rhodes, was in an old building west of the filling station.

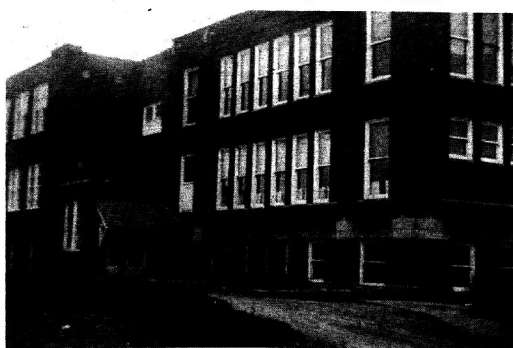

Because there had been some changes in the churches just before that time, they were often identified by appearance. The White Church was a block or two south of the center of town, and the Brick Church was one block east of Montalbano's grocery store.

Much of my time for the next three years was spent at Tippecanoe Township School in the north end of town. After teaching all day, I went home to an apartment in the old school, south of the Brick Church. This two-story brick building had a slate roof, and was owned by Walter and Bertha Wood.

Lewallens lived across the street, and one fall morning Mr. Lewallen noticed that pranksters had found teachers cars, and left them inoperative. Without saying anything, he kindly removed the concrete blocks, and pumped up the tires, or whatever was necessary to get them back into operation.

the Inauguration of the President on television. Our group visited the Earl Davises. The sound wasn't working right, so we watched the picture on TV and listened to the description on the radio.

The above pictured school is the now torn down Tippecanoe School that Mrs. Smith refers to in her writings. She was a teacher in the school system from 1952 through 1955.

Although the community was basically agricultural, with interest in 4-H, Farmers' Institutes, and the Bourbon Fair, many people drove daily to South Bend to work in Studebaker's automobile factory.

When General Dwight D. Eisenhower's campaign train stopped in Warsaw, in the fall of 1952, Tippecanoe High School students were part of the crowd that greeted him. As he spoke to us about the brave people who had fought for freedom in Warsaw, Poland, I wondered if he would mention the Pilgrims at his next stop—Plymouth, Indiana.

A few people had television sets then—black and white, of course—so each high school class was invited to someone's home to watch

Most of the high school teachers at that time moved on after a few years, but the elementary teachers remained. The latter were: Adolph McIntyre, Agnes Surguy, Floy Korthal, Bess Moriarity, and Zoa Ward.

The train didn't play a big part in our lives until a certain Sunday, late in May of 1953, when a passenger train stopped at the Nickel Plate Depot at Tippecanoe to pick up about eighteen seniors and their chaperones for a trip to Washington, D.C. and New York. I borrowed my sister's 8mm. movie camera and recorded some of the points of interest. Viewing these recently, one of the girls said, "I didn't know they had movie cameras back then!" Later in the week the tired sightseers returned.

New books at Akron Carnegie Library

New books recently received at the Akron Carnegie Public Library include the following:

SAN QUENTIN AND BEYOND by Larry O. Howland. Murder is the routine of life in San Quentin. It is not a pleasant place to be, but it was the author's home for almost two years. It is a story of a wrecked life, and of a God who cares—not only for those in the sanctuary on Sunday morning, but also for those who are seemingly beyond the reach of God. HOW I CONQUERED CANCER NATURALLY by Eydie Mae.

WOMEN TO REMEMBER by Nathaniel Olson. Here are portraits of women who helped shape America.

TATting, A NEW LOOK AT THE OLD ART OF MAKING LACE by Lael Morgan. ARLENE FRANCIS: A MEMOIR by Arlene Francis with Florence Rome.

CONVERSATIONS WITH AMBER by Gladys Tabor. Amber is a very personal cat, as Gladys Tabor's myriads of readers know. So they will not be surprised that the tiny Abyssinian and the wise, warmhearted woman Amber owns have wonderful private conversations. In this enchanting new book Mrs. Tabor has jotted down intimate thoughts and imaginings she has shared with Amber over the fullness of their years together.

Akron

The Akron L.T.L. met Friday night in the library basement with their leader Gloria Bowen. Bill Kline served as president of the meeting, John Stubblefield as secretary, Liz Harter as song leader, and Robin Hicks as flag-bearer.

After the Bible lesson the leader showed a film called "Let Habit Help You".

An election of officers was held and the new officers are Tyann Thompson, president; Bill Kline, vice-president; alternate, Rhonda Williams. The new secretary is Lisa Kindig, with Bonita Arthur assistant, and John Stubblefield and Danny Wagoner as alternates. The song leader is Matthew Thompson, with Mindy Thompson as assistant.

After the games refreshments were served to 26 members. The next meeting will be Feb. 23.

A DAD IS FOR SPENDING TIME WITH by Dr. Charlie Shedd. The fathers in this book work at all types of jobs; their families are of varying sizes. But each father recognizes the need for spending time with his children when it is most necessary—when they are young, and they need the special attention only a dad can provide. We all know it's the quality of time we spend with our children, not the quantity, that counts.

THE MAGDALENE SCROLLS by Barbara Wood. Combining elements of the super-natural, history and religion, Barbara Wood has fashioned a breath-takingly suspenseful story of one man's confrontation with himself.

An after-dinner speaker has been defined as the man who talks in other people's sleep.

Family Life

By Renee Norlander

If you will recall, one of my new years resolutions was to become a good cook. I think I also filled you in on the fact that I'm not progressing well.

Before Christmas, I was at a microwave oven demonstration, and I think I've found my secret to becoming a better cook. The time involved in cooking really drives me crazy. Spending hours cooking, only to have the food gobbled up in minutes. Plus the fact that there are a lot of days I'm too busy to spend hours cooking.

Of course, this doesn't mean I'm going to get a microwave (money doesn't grow on trees, darn it!), but just in case someday - I read what 'Good Housekeeping' has to say about it.

They recently surveyed oven owners, and of the 800 persons who responded, they found very few who would be willing to give up their ovens.

Of the reasons listed for liking the ovens, the most common were:

- cooking speed
- easy clean-up
- doesn't heat up kitchen
- ease of use
- energy saving
- cooking results
- family helps with cooking

They also found many people who felt left-overs reheated, tasted like they were first time cooked, and they wasted less food than they had before.

Oven owners also reported good results on the tastes of the foods they cooked, but some stated the pale colors of the foods took some getting used to. Most who used special recipes for microwave ovens were especially pleased.

The most common uses of the microwaves were:

- reheating
- cooking vegetables
- defrosting
- instant tea or coffee
- cooking meats

Those with babies at home, even use their ovens for heating baby foods and bottles.

The special features on microwaves were also important to the owners. Those listed as most used were:

- variable speeds
- defrost setting
- programming
- memory

It seemed, from the survey results, that most of the owners were very happy with their ovens, and it isn't only the time saved that pleased them.

Of course if you are thinking of buying a microwave, I would recommend attending a demonstration first. You can often taste oven cooked foods, and the instructors will explain a lot of the special features for you. You may or may not require some of them.

Of course I would require all of them! Plus a maid to run it for me! (Just kidding ...)

But all in all, for persons with a few hundred dollars to spend, it seems that a microwave oven would be a terrific investment.

Mr. and Mrs. James Wise, Mentone, are the parents of a six pound, six and one-half ounce daughter, Jill Ann, born Friday, January 26.

1978 Annual Mentone Police Report

by Marshal Earl Beattie

1978 was the first year for two new programs sponsored by the Mentone Marshals office. The first was the Police Reserve program to supplement the Marshals Office with manpower, and the extra work the reserves tended was very helpful during the year, especially during the Egg Festival and the snow emergencies. The second program, Bicycle Registration, is now run by the reserves, with the reserves registering the bikes by serial number and owner, and keeping an open file on the same.

The Marshals Office worked on three Federal Grants in 1978. Grant No. 1 was for a new 35MM evidence camera with attachments, and that grant has already been approved with the equipment now in use. Grant No. 2 is for a radar speed gun for traffic control, and Grant No. 3 is for new remote control base station radios. The present remotes are better than 20 years old and most repair parts are no longer available. Both grants no. 2 and No. 3 are still in the writing stages and hopefully will be approved later this year.

During 1978, the Marshals office acquired donations from area businesses, purchased a new 40 channel CB, with power mike and by-gain antenna. A large metal evidence cabinet was also purchased, along with a hard case for the camera equipment. These items might never have been purchased if not for the help of the following businesses: Midwest Spring Manufacturing Company, Frank and Jerrys Market, and Coopers Department Store. Thanks again!

1978 proved to be a busy year for the Police Department, with 1013 recorded calls for service, and 19,294 miles driven by the Police vehicle. The department investigated 69 automobile accidents, which resulted in one traffic fatality and property damage in excess of $62,881.00.

Twenty-nine arrests were made (27 adult and 2 juvenile) and of the 27 adult arrests, 7 were for public intoxication, 7 on warrants of arrest, 7 for driving under the influence, one for disorderly conduct, two on possession of marijuana, 2 on fleeing a police officer, and one for illegal consumption. Both juvenile arrests were for theft.

Seventy-one traffic citations were issued along with 20 parking citations for 1978.

Students optimistic about future

by Renee Norlander

Sixty-four students from Tippecanoe Valley High Schools Semester II government classes joined together Wednesday, January 31, for a "community" Town Meeting, in which issues facing all of Tippecanoe Valley were proposed and discussed.

Under the leadership of Jackie Speicher, and John and Elsa Bengel from the Institute of Cultural Affairs in Indianapolis, a workshop program was held, at which students aired their views on what needs improvement in our area.

The meeting was conducted in the same way for the students as previous "Town Meetings" had been presented to their parents.

Many of the challenges that the students observed facing the Tippecanoe Valley area were the same challenges their parents had identified. They felt that one basic problem facing Akron and Mentone was that people, in general, are not motivated enough, and lack high enough goals for the towns. They felt the community citizens lacked a "picture" of "how it could be".

Regarding services for the youth, they found a lack of concern on the adults part to provide adequate opportunities for entertainment, and a lack of adult supervision for the same. The students also criticized the size of classes in the elementary schools, and felt there should be a PTA organization, so that parents could become involved.

And one of the most basic challenges they agreed on, was breaking the barriers between Akron and Mentone. They found the underlying difficulty to be a stubbornness on their parents part to mix, and the continued competition between the two towns.

Some of the specific challenges the youth named were:

- Need recreational areas for youth
- to remodel and update the towns
- better roads
- more industry
- to fix up Mentzer Park
- need for "community" activities
- to get the towns working together
- tear down or renovate empty buildings
- more jobs for youth under 18
- a need to increase use of federal and state monies
- need broader participation in town issues
- need more services for the elderly

- need to eliminate conflicts between Akron and Mentone.

So what proposals did our future leaders come up with to combat these problems? The answers were not really too much different than their parents.

In order to expand the leadership roles in our community, they proposed to stop ignorance through: 1) education on local government, 2) schools & the job market, 3) special programs, and 4) by going to clubs, committees, and organizations in the community.

For the renovation of towns in the area, they propose to: 1) show slide presentations on "what could be", 2) to invite the public ideas through the newspaper, 3) to have an architectural drawing made, and 4) to have speakers explain low cost methods of renovation.

In order to improve community relations, they proposed to form inter-community affairs through:

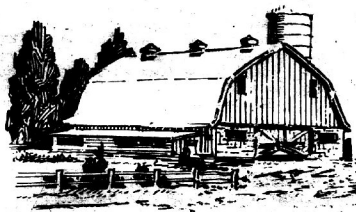

1) cross-community activities, 2) combined festivals, and 3) the use of the high school to acquaint the communities.

And for aiding the youth, they proposed to fund adult supervision by publicizing for leadership through: 1) newspaper and radio, 2) posters, 3) community activities through youth, and 4) to hire youth consultants or get volunteers. They also suggested a PTA (Parent-Teacher Association) for the elementary age children's needs.

The meeting was not, however negative in its outcome. The students had expressed their support for the community, and were proud of each towns past accomplishments. They were also optimistic about the future as some of their "brainstorm slogans" show: "slow but sure", "small with a big heart", "high hopes", and "foggy, but the sun is coming through".

Now would appear to be the perfect time to get this optimism into action!

Board proposes that residents solve problem

by Renee Norlander

The continuing puzzle of solving the pollution problem in Mentone was the focus of the Town Board's attention at Monday evenings regular session. A heated discussion among the members found them all in disfavor with the EPA's (Environmental Protection Agency) suggestion that a complete sewage system be installed. As Board president Frank Hardesty stated, "it may not be the most 'cost effective' way" to solving the problem.

The problem of a sewage system has been going on in Mentone for years, and the EPA's failure to approve Step II (furnished by Commonwealth Engineers, Inc. of Greenwood, Indiana) for over a year and a half, has finally outraged the Board.

President Hardesty instructed clerk-treasurer Catherine Whetstone to write a letter to Commonwealth stating that the town would no longer assume liabilities without written consent or approval of the Board. He stressed that he was not unhappy with the work Commonwealth has provided in trying to find a solution, but felt the town had already spent as much money as they should for outside investigation. A bill from Commonwealth for their work has been received, at a total so far for Mentone of $1998.00, and the remainder will be applied for from EPA

Students complete first semester projects

The Adult Basic Education classes have been completed for the first semester. A total of fourteen people participated in the woodworking and refinishing class at Mentone School under the direction of Mr. Hoyt. Projects ranged from lamps turned on wood lathes to trophy cabinets, an entertainment center, fixing broken furniture, etc.

Two classes have been set up for this semester at Akron and Mentone schools. These classes have already been filled. If there is enough interest more classes may be scheduled next fall.

THIS PAST fall and winter saw a number of people enrolled in the Adult Education classes in the Tippecanoe Valley School Corporation. Carol Clark and Pam Smith both enrolled in the Woodworking class taught by Mike Hoyt. The fruit of their handiwork is illustrated by Carol's lamp on the left and by Pam's project on the right.

"I enjoy the pep band playing the National Anthem at ballgames, but would enjoy hearing it sang by a student or a group like they did last season. Why can't or don't people stand at attention during the playing of National Anthem, with more respect and dignity. This annoys me very much."

Celebrate Lincon's birthday with a trip along the Heritage Trail

The date was February 12, 1809. The place, a farm near Hodgenville, Kentucky. Dennis Hanks took his brand new cousin into his arms for the first time and the baby let out a howl. Thrusting the child away, Dennis said, "Take him. He'll never come to much."

We know better, for that baby's name was Abraham Lincoln. But to look around at the humble surrounding in which he was born, you'd never have guessed he'd grow up to be President.

The very cabin in which Abe made his howling debut is today a national historic site. You'll find it along the Kentucky branch of the Lincoln Heritage Trail.

The Trail, a 2,200-mile, medalion-marked route, cuts its way through three states — Kentucky, Indiana and Illinois — tracing the pre-Presidential life of Abraham Lincoln. Following a network of state and federal highways, the Trail meanders through the land young Lincoln knew and loved. Whether you're a Lincoln buff or just have an average interest in the man who became our 16th President, you'll find along the Trail, a vivid profile of the forces that shaped his early years.

You can join the Trail anywhere along its circular route and design a trip tailored to your interests and touring time. The logical place to begin, particularly this season when thoughts turn to Lincoln's early years, is where Abraham himself began — in Kentucky.

Lincoln's birthplace cabin is enclosed in a granite memorial shrine, located on the Sinking Spring Farm which was owned by his father, Thomas Lincoln. It is reached by 56 steps, each one marking a year in Lincoln's life. In addition to the cabin, visitors to the site can see where a 300-year-old oak once marked one of the farm's original boundaries and the spring that provided the Lincolns with water.

A few miles to the north of Hodgenville lies Lincoln's second home, the Knob Creek farm. Lincoln lived here from the age of two until he was almost eight. His earliest recollections were of this place . . . memories which included nights spent listening to his mother as she read the Bible aloud and the time when, but for the help of a friend, he would have drowned in Knob Creek.

Although Lincoln was born in Kentucky, he really did most of his growing up in Indiana. Here, he attended school when he could and read every book he could borrow. As you travel the Lincoln Heritage Trail in Indiana, stop at the Lincoln Boyhood Memorial near Lincoln City, Abe's home from 1816 to 1830. The cabin here is in much the same setting as it was when Lincoln was a boy, and a period farm has been developed around it. Here, too, is the grave of Nancy Hanks Lincoln, Abe's beloved mother. You can still follow the path to this secluded spot as Lincoln himself once did.

Illinois is especially rich in Lincoln history. The trail enters the state at the very spot where the Lincoln family first arrived in 1830. Along the Trail's Illinois route are numerous towns where Lincoln practiced law as a circuit-riding attorney and debated in political campaigns.

At New Salem State Park, the historic village of New Salem has been faithfully reconstructed. Each building is authentically furnished and stands as it did when Lincoln served the village as general store clerk and postmaster.

The Trail reaches a kind of climax at Springfield, Illinois. Here, visitors can stop at Lincoln's gracious home at Eighth and Jackson Streets, his former law offices and the old railroad depot where he bade farewell to Springfield on his way to Washington and the Presidency. Lincoln is buried in Springfield's Oak Ridge Cemetery.

A trip along the Lincoln Heritage Trail is a fine way to celebrate the 170th anniversary of Lincoln's birth. For a free brochure containing a map of the Trail, write: Lincoln Heritage Trail Foundation, 702 Bloomington Road, Champaign, Illinois, 61820.

Insurance can help combat inflation

If you've never thought of an insurance policy as one way to combat the impact inflation is having on crop production costs, think again. Insurance and good management skills serve as a double-edged weapon during times of rapidly rising production costs.

The reasoning is simple business logic: In a year of favorable crop conditions, management skills enable you to wring the maximum possible profit from each dollar invested in seed, fertilizer and chemicals. In a year when growing conditions are unfavorable you will have input from FCIC protection to apply to your crop investment. It's this combination of maximum profit in good years and minimum loss in poor years that provides the best formula for fighting inflation.

It is pointed out that a number of improvements have been made in the insurance protection for the 1979 Spring Crops, including increases in the dollar amount of protection offered on soybeans. For additional information contact the United States Department of Agriculture, Federal Crop Insurance Corporation, at the district office, 513 Main Street, Rochester, or call 219-223-6516.

Newsview

by Bob Norlander

The other day, when all the roads were covered with ice and hard to travel, I was traveling from Akron to Mentone on St. Rd. 19. Three car loads of teenagers passed me. I was going around forty miles an hour, and holding my own. The car was staying on the road, but tended to slide towards the left. Still, the youngsters were driving as if it were a dry, summer day.

Slipping and sliding

I'll never forget the year I took drivers training. It was during the summer on nice, dry roads. I received my drivers license in the fall. The driving conditions still were good. Then, one of my first times driving on snow and ice, I accelerated too fast on an ice covered road. A car in front of me was going to turn and I couldn't slow down in time and we ended up in a ditch. It was my fault. We were taught in Drivers Training how to slow down with time to stop, but we never drove on snow or ice.

What I'm leading up to, slow but sure, is that in the states where there is snow, such as Indiana, schools should teach a portion of drivers training in the winter.

The kids first year driving is fun, but also dangerous if they are not properly taught to drive in all weather. I wish I would have had the chance, oh I wish I would have had the chance!

Two income families face unique management challenges

"Though families with two wage-earners have more money to spend, they face unique money management challenges," says Jan Armstrong, Extension family resource management specialist at Purdue University.

Two incomes have helped push the median family income to over $18,000 (34 percent more than for single-earner families), and this additional income has brought problems.

First, it costs money to earn money. That second paycheck doesn't always go as far as people thought it would.

For instance, tax income is higher. When there are two earners, the "marriage penalty" of the progressive income tax system reduces real family income. The first dollar of the second income is taxed at the same high rate as the last dollar earned by the first earner. For example, if a husband earns $10,000 and his wife earns $8,000, her first dollar is taxed at the same rate as the last dollar he earned, not at the same rate as his first. The effect is higher taxes.

Another "hidden cost" of two incomes is increased spending for services. Housekeeping and food services may be purchased rather than provided by family members, because time and energy are limited. Consequently, more money is spent for such services and less money may be left over for other expenses or for special purchases, Armstrong says.

Many two-income families can have unrealistic expectations about what that money will buy. Families who know a second income will be only temporary should time long-term credit purchases carefully, Armstrong advises. When the second income stops and installment payments are still due, serious financial problems can arise.

Even if the second income is permanent, couples should be careful to keep spending within means and needs.

To help two-job families receive maximum satisfaction from their money, Armstrong suggests basing financial decisions on an open communication and thoughtful planning.

"Establish financial goals and set realistic time tables to achieve these goals," she recommends.

Discuss how to handle incoming money. Many couples decide that money should be "his," "hers," or "ours." Some alternatives include:

—Pooling all the money into one account and paying everything from a single account with special allowances for each spouse.

—Letting each spouse control his/her own income with contributions for household operation or with each spouse responsible for paying specific items each month.

—Designating a specific spouse to take responsibility for paying bills.

"When initiating a system, be willing to make adjustments," says Armstrong. "The same money management system is not right for every couple so keep experimenting until the right one is discovered," she suggests.

FFA motto encourages members to learn and serve

by Carolyn Ramsey

Tippecanoe Valley High School has many different clubs for the students. They have Drama Club, Sunshine Club, Projection Club, and Library Club. They also have a club for boys and girls, which enables the students participating to learn by doing. The organization is one of little recognition, it is the Future Farmers of America (FFA). The FFA has many different functions, but the main purpose is the development of agriculture leadership, cooperation, and citizenship.

The FFA is a national organization of students enrolled in vocational agriculture/agri-business in 50 states and Puerto Rico. The FFA was organized in November, 1928. The students organized in these programs receive instruction in personal leadership growth and development, and the opportunity for achieving a personal goal of becoming productive citizens in our democracy.

Tippecanoe Valley High School has been part of the FFA since 1973. This year, there is around 51 students at Valley, who are members of the FFA. They hold their meetings on the second Wednesday of each month. The meetings are conducted by the six officers and the Advisor, Forrest Kantner. The officers are Brian Adams, president, Larry Lipply, vice president, Diane Hathaway, secretary, Herb King, treasurer, Bill Ramsey, sentinel, and Ron Opple, reporter. The duties of the officers are like most. They have to be familiar with the parliamentary procedure and with the chapter constitution and bylaws. The FFA's motto is "Learning To Do, Doing To Learn, Earning To Live, Living To Serve".

The motto may seem useless, but if you reread it you'll find you can apply it to everyday living. I like it, it gives me a little encouragement to learn something new, and to go ahead and try something new.

They also have an emblem which is made up of five symbols, each of which has significance. The cross section of an ear of corn, forms the outline of the emblem, which represents agriculture interests. The rising sun signifies progress and the new day that will dawn. The plow, is the symbol of labor and tillage of the soil. The eagle, signifies the national scope of the organization. The owl, is the symbol of knowledge and wisdom.

The FFA colors are National Blue and corn gold.

There are four degrees of active membership: Greenhand degree, Chapter Farmer degree, State Farmer degree, and American Farmer degree. Locally the students are provided the opportunity for advancement through the first two degrees.

The FFA at Valley, has projects that go year round. During the summer the kids farm 11 acres which is rented from George Black. They also raise livestock. The members have to keep records of their projects, this is part of the requirements.

The members also have judging practice in the evenings. They take a group of pigs, for example, they look the pigs over and decide which is the best, second best, and so on down the line. As you can see, it's not just a club for fun. It is an organization where the members have to put an effort forward to accomplish their goals. They won the 1977 state FFA Dairy Judging contest. It was the first state championship won for the Tippecanoe Valley school.

The kids have to donate their own time and equipment, so the project is all theirs. If they accomplish something or if they fail it's their own making.

thanks to the community support they were able to.

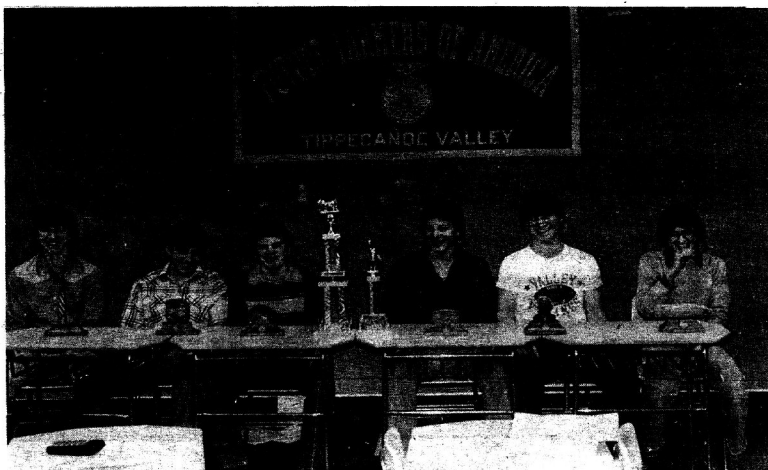

"I have been very pleased with the support of the people of the community, they should be commended. They donated the money for the FFA to go to Kansas City for the National Contest. The milkman who delivers milk at the school donated fifty dollars. Con Shewman let us use his own Ford LTD car," Mr. Kantner said.

The FFA is a great organization for the young adults to be a part of. It gives them the confidence to be what they are and to be proud of what they do.

Forrest Kantner, the advisor, thinks the kids have put a great effort forward, without getting the credit they really deserve. They have an awards banquet at the school each year. They've got their own basketball team (which they have won trophies for). The FFA has gone to state and have brought back some interesting experiences along with trophies.

There is little money for the club. The members pay $3.50 in membership fees, the crops bring in money, but by the time they buy the seeds for next year and pay for the parent and member award banquet, there is little money left. The boys wanted to go to Kansas, and

The meetings of the FFA are open to the public. I think it would be an enjoyable evening for the parents of the members or for anyone who would be interested in a group of students who are participating in very responsible and enriching organization. Three cheers for the FFA!!

Family Life

By Renee Norlander

My father-in-law was down for a visit last week from Minneapolis, and of course he, Bob, and I talked about old times and the good old days. And it brought back a memory from high school that I hope isn't applicable today.

When I was a junior in high school, I really wanted to be an architect. For years I had drawn house plans as a hobby, and finally realized "why not do it for a living?"

So, I went to my counselor at school to get advice on what classes I should take in my senior year, and what would be a good college for architecture.

Well, he was very informative on courses and schools, but when it came to moral support, he was very negative.

He explained that I would probably be the only woman in competition with hundreds of men, and how could I possibly expect to make the grade. He kept putting me down (tactfully) because I was a female! And everyone knows women can't make it in a man's world. (Pardon me Madam Curie, Eleanor Roosevelt, Shirley Chisholm, Pearl Buck, Billie Jean King, Margaret Meade, and all of you thousands of others!)

Of course, the women's liberation movement wasn't in full swing then, and hopefully my old counselor has changed his thinking, but it still aggravates me!

I love what I'm doing now, but it upsets me to think that I was so impressionable at that age. If I knew then what I know now, I would have plunged full ahead, and gone into competition with all of those men. Like I told Bob's dad - I may not have graduated at the top of my class, but I'm sure I wouldn't have been at the bottom.

So why am I telling you this? Because I'm hoping it might help another woman who is hoping to make it in a man's world. Don't be afraid, and don't get discouraged. There has never been any scientific evidence proving a man's brain is better than a woman's! And sometimes I feel even brighter than some of the men I know.

How you've tried to please them

When was the last time you were at odds with your teen-ager over clothing?

"It is perfectly natural for teens and parents to have different ideas on clothing—and how much to spend for clothes," says Lois Gotwals, Extension clothing specialist at Purdue University.

"Teens often develop a keen interest in clothing," she says. They seem to want items their parents see as fads. Teens see the fashions as "in" and a "must." Parents see the clothing pushed to the back of the closet next year and the money for the clothing wasted.

"Sometimes it is difficult for parents to realize that teen feelings about clothing are tied to peer approval and their own feelings of self-worth. This difficulty can cause even more tension," says Gotwals.

To minimize or avoid these bad scenes, Gotwals advises sitting down with your teen and a large chain mail-order catalogue (to use as a price and fashion guide), and making up a list of basic clothing for the coming season.

Decide how much you can afford to pay for clothing, and balance this against the clothing list totals. If your teen's needs and wants come to more than the budget can stand, some compromises are in order. For instance, you may decide to pay for the basic items—shoes, underwear, blazer and skirts or pants.

If your teen just "has to have" that vest and shirt, then help him or her decide how to pay for them.

In some families, the teens buy specialty clothing and work either inside or outside the home to earn the money.

"Earning money for clothing teaches the teen not only the value of a clothing dollar but also that to make a clothing budget can be a good model for later life," says Gotwals. And shopping for clothing, even if mistakes are made, is a good learning experience for teens.

So Gotwals advises parents to be patient and "not lose their cool" as their teens go through the learning process.

Correction

In last weeks NEWS Story about the Akron Firemen, an incorrect phone number was stated. The correct number is 893-4345.

Taken from the February 6, 1952 issue of The Northern Indiana Co-Op News:

C. E. Walburn and Jack VanGilder are getting fairly well located in their new insurance office in the south end of the Farmers State Bank building. The room has been completely redecorated and when one enters the room he is very much impressed with its neatness and attractiveness. It can be safely stated that it is one of the neatness appearing offices in town. Mentone will host the Claypool basketball teams this Friday in the local gym. The games begin at 7:00. This is the next to the last game of the home season.

Members of the Jolly Janes Home Demonstration Association recently celebrated their 5th anniversary with a chicken dinner at Howell's in Plymouth.

Sunday evening dinner guests at the Choice Paulus home, were Mr. and Mrs. Bob Huntsman and daughters, Sally and Susan, of Albion, Indiana, also Mr. and Mrs. Chester Bashore of Crete, Illinois.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Calvert spent Saturday in Rochester.

One of Mentone's local boys, Wallace Oyler and his F.F.A. project is the subject of an article which will appear in one of the February issues of Prairie Farmer. The story is called "Town Boy Makes Good in F.F.A." and was written by Mrs. Noble Oyler.

Sixteen Mentone pupils will participate in the Solo contests at Culver this Saturday.

Mrs. Sam Eiler and grandson, Wayne Cumberland, visited at the home of Mrs. Earl Meredith, on Friday evening.

Who is watching the children?

The Ray Circle of the Akron United Methodist Church met at the home of Beverly Fisher with eight members present. Cathy Lukens was welcomed as a new member.

Shirley Gray gave the lesson on "Child care of working mothers", who is watching these children? Some discussion was held on when to have Bible school. Suzie Baker served refreshments. The next meeting will be March 1 in the home of Patti Mims.

EPA booklet on ratings for 1979 is conservative

New car buyers who drive 15,000 miles this year can expect annual fuel costs to run anywhere from $250 to $1312, depending on what type of car they buy.

The biggest complaint about last year's EPA miles per gallon ratings was that the average driver could never get as good mileage as the ratings indicated. So this year EPA is using a more conservative estimate, called the "Estimated mpg". Studies show that this rating provides the consumer with the best estimate of average, overall performance.

The booklet also tells you how much you can expect to pay for annual fuel costs. For example, if you pay an average of 65 cents per gallon and your car get 12 mpg, your fuel cost for 15,000 miles of driving is $813. If you own a car that gets 20 mpg, your annual fuel cost for 15,000 miles at 65 cents per gallon is $488.

Obviously, other factors affect your mileage, besides the size of your car, the number of cylinders it has, and whether your transmission is automatic or manual. These factors can at least be controlled by selecting the new car that best meets your needs. But other factors, such as trip length, weather, the condition of the car, and individual driving habits have a significant effect on mileage, too.

For example, summer temperatures above 70 degrees F. are better for economy than winter temperatures. At 20 degrees F., there can be an 8% loss in fuel economy.

A full tailwind might not get you there faster, but it can help fuel economy. An 18 mph tailwind will increase your mpg by about 12%. Conversely, if you're driving into a headwind, count on about a 10% loss in fuel economy.

Rain, rain, go away. Rain, snow, and the resulting wet roads will cut fuel economy by about 10%. Road conditions, like rough or loose road surfaces can decrease your gas mileage by as much as 30%. Mountain driving causes an even greater fuel penalty.

Use the guide to evaluate and compare mpg ratings, average annual fuel costs, engine type, transmission, and automobile size. And, do yourself a favor, keep your new car in tip-top condition, drive smoothly, and save gas by driving at or below the 55-mph speed limit on highways.

Board to send letter

Town Attorney Lee Bazini informed the Board that the letter should not be sent until the contract with Commonwealth is reviewed. He stressed that the Board would not want to violate that contract. The Board was in complete agreement, and Bazini will review the contract before such a letter is sent.

Discussion then turned to solving the pollution problem. It was decided unanimously that a "town meeting" will be held sometime in the near future, so that interested residents may voice their opinions as to how the problem can be solved by the town itself. The members, including Hardesty, Wayne Tombaugh, and Gerald Romine, decided that at this "town meeting", they would appoint a committee to work out the problem. As long as the pollution is discontinued, they feel the EPA and the State Board of Health will approve a solution, other than a complete sewage system. No date for the meeting was set at this time.

In other Board action:

* A final decision to withdraw from the Kosciuszko County Planning Commission was made by a unanimous vote. The members stressed their displeasure with the Commission's actions in some areas, and agreed that it would be better for the town to make its own ordinances. Attorney Bazini will check into the legalities involved with withdrawal, and the members will begin a revamp of the towns existing ordinances.

* It was announced that the towns 1970-F909 Ford dump truck, with plow, will be sold to the highest bidder at the Boards next regular meeting.

* Attorney Bazini was instructed to send a letter to the Lakeland Disposal Co. of Claypool, in regards to the trash pickup bill the Board received for $1950.00. The claim has not been paid by the Board, as the members feel the cost is too high for the amount of work done. Bazini will handle the legalities involved.

* Hardesty expressed his anticipation of a rate increase for water costs throughout the town. The members agreed to invite H. J. Umbaugh, of H. J. Umbaugh and Assoc. in Indianapolis, to attend the next board meeting to consult with him about a possible survey of the town in regards to raising rates.

The Board will meet again in regular session on Monday, March 5, at the Town Hall, with business starting at 7:30 p.m.

Now where did I park?!

IF ANYONE IS missing a car, there is a possibility it may be this one, buried deep in snow behind Linn's Service Station in Mentone. Luckily, if the owner shows up to dig it out, the EMS ambulance is just across the street for instant cardiac treatment.

Class plans for 25th reunion

The Akron High School Class of 1954 will be celebrating their 25th anniversary this year.

The committee consisting of Mrs. Orabelle (Kotterman) Meredith, Mentone; Phil Pratt, R. 2, Rochester; Wayne Huppert, Bremen, and Carol (McKee) Cumberland, R. 2, Akron, have started plans by sending letters to all their classmates setting the date for the anniversary party for Saturday, July 7, so out of state members can plan vacations.

They need addresses for the following: Theresa Gamboa, Larry Keller, Carol Shipley. If you can help on this detail, please send information to Mrs. Walter Cumberland, R. 2, Akron, IN 46910.

The committee is planning to include their teachers and principals in the celebration, so there may be requests for information about their addresses, etc. at a later date.

SOUND OFF

PHONE: 893 - 4433 or 353 - 7885

"The Quality of life is just as important to the residents of south-east Akron as elsewhere. The emissions of black snow have gone on too long and are unnecessary."

"When the youth stated they wanted more recreational areas just what do they want? They have a swimming pool, tennis courts, basketball, track, football, drama, band, little league, and 4-H. Both towns have parks. It is nice to be able to entertain ourselves sometimes. I wonder how many nights a week a family that has teenagers have their evening meal TOGETHER!"

"Anyone that knows anything about basketball should be praising our coach, Roger Fleetwood, for the fine job he has done by changing an offensive-minded team to one of the best defensive teams in the area. I'm not taking anything away from the offense, it is just that the defense has come quicker than the offense. A reminder for the fans that have forgotten that Coach Henson only won three ballgames his first year at Akron. Fleetwood is a wonderful person, teacher and coach. Let's back our coach and boys for a sectional win. Coach Fleetwood and boys, we're proud of you."

Akron EMT's praised for work by county director

Dave Kruger, acting director of the Fulton Co. Emergency Medical Service, explained cardio-pulmonary resuscitation (CPR), at the Akron Women's Club Thursday, and said that classes to train Akronites in the procedure are set for one night per month beginning at the end of March.

Kruger traced the one and one-half year history of EMS in the county and said that the unit stationed in Akron responds to an emergency call in a matter of minutes, day or night. He praised the team, and encouraged all who can to take advantage of the CPR training, stating the first aid in the crucial first moments can mean the difference between life and death.

Remarking on the "Vial for Life" project sponsored by the club in cooperation with Hook's, Kruger said the idea was a fine one and all EMS personnel will be looking for the green circular label on refrigerators when they enter homes responding to an emergency.

Mrs. Ernest Smith and Mrs. Roy Meredith have been implementing the "Vial for Life" project throughout Akron and Henry township. Vials have been handed out at the Senior Citizen's nutrition site, through the churches, and at beauty shops. Club members have the vials and all citizens are encouraged to participate by placing their medical information in the plastic vial and signifying it's location inside the refrigerator with the green circle.

Mrs. Ralph Tucker, vice president, presided at the meeting with Mrs. Con Shewman, program chairman. Mrs. Dale Sheetz led devotions and Mrs. Winifred Summe was at the piano for the invocation. Mrs. Ray Doering, Fulton Co. president, announced plans for the County Convention March 12 at the Akron Church of God.

Call to Indiana Federation of Women's Club convention April 24-25 in Indianapolis was given. Mrs. Shewman announced that Cindy Harding of Tippecanoe Valley high school will represent Akron in the IFWC Art Contest. Hostesses for the day were Mrs. Joe Day and Mrs. Beecher Weida.

Akron bank hosts seminar on financial planning

Ten young families and several local agri-business leaders were guests of the Akron Exchange State Bank in a three-day financial planning seminar held in the bookkeeping room of the old bank building.

Dr. Ed Carson, Agricultural Economist of Purdue University, served as the main discussion leader. Frank Miller, Area Extension Management Agent; Jack Hart, Miami County Extension Agent and Area Crops Specialist, and Harold Brown, Fulton County Extension Agent assisted in the discussion. Robert Taylor, vice president of the Akron Bank, contributed to the discussion of financial planning.

resulted which allowed the families to compare alternative plans for business organization and production levels for their specific farms. The extension staff will follow through these sessions with specific counseling and specialized assistance to each family.

Mr. Taylor discussed the available tools of credit documentation that can help farm families do a more thorough analysis of credit needs and development of repayment schedules.

The families were brought up to date on the current and longer-range outlook of agriculture; they studied the comparative returns and costs of farming enterprises such as crops; beef cattle feeding and beef cow herds; hog finishing and feeder pig raising; dairy; and combinations thereof.

Discussion also centered on investment requirements and type of farms, how to stretch capital, principals of farm business organization and modern techniques of budgeting and analysis.

In the second session, each family prepared input data that went into a computer terminal at Purdue University. Output data sheets

The Akron Exchange State Bank will sponsor additional programs similar to this one in the months and years ahead as well as provide other educational materials which will help service the credit needs of the Akron community.

Tentatively, an estate planning seminar is being planned for the later part of March and the first of April. No specific date has been set but this type of meeting will be designed to help younger and older couples and singles to develop estate plans which will serve individual needs.

Persons interested in these sessions should contact Harold Groninger or Mr. Taylor at the bank.

AREA AGRI-BUSINESS leaders were on hand last week to assist local farmers with their financial goals and outlooks.

New books at Bell Library

New books received at the Bell Memorial Public Library, Mentone include the following:

LAUREN BACALL BY MYSELF by Lauren Bacall. Loaded with anecdotes about famous people; actors, writers, and politicians, this book is written with both wit and candor. The author describes both the well-known features of her life and the unfamiliar ones as well.

SECOND GENERATION by Howard Fast. In this sequel to "The Immigrants", the daughter of a roughneck shipbuilder and his aristocratic wife sets out to build her own life in her own way. Her journey leads to a Europe on the brink of Nazi terror, to love and tragedy in Paris, to the farthest reaches of a global war, and to a hard-won maturity.

THE TEAMSTERS by Steven Brill. The author penetrates to the heart of America's largest, most controversial Labor Union in a story as intricately plotted and peopled as a best-selling novel.

THE FAR PAVILIONS by M.M. Kaye. This massive novel set in 19th century India tells a story of hatred and bitter combat, of cowardice and human sacrifice. It is the story of Ash, an Englishman who was raised as a Hindu, and Juli an Indian princess who must choose between her heritage and the man she loves.

CROCKETT'S INDOOR GARDEN by James Crockett. Featuring more than 130 plants ranging from African Violets to Zebra plants, this book contains complete cultural information on the plant: basic requirements of water, fertilizer, light and temperature, methods of propagation, a brief history of the plant, and a list of its varieties.

The second meeting of the Intensive Office Lab Advisory Committee at Tippecanoe Valley High School was held at the school on Monday evening, February 5.

Committee members along with Advisor Juna Graham used the meeting to discuss and adopt the constitution for the group, who will be helping to guide and improve the Intensive Office Lab and O.E.A. program in the community.

Chairperson Tom Fugate called the meeting to order and roll call was taken. The secretary read the minutes of the previous organizational meeting.

Keen-agers plan for silent auction in March

by Onda Good

Mrs. Graham talked about in-service experience for the I.O.L. students, with several businesses indicating a willingness to have the students working in their business for half days, during a two week period. Any business people who would like to participate in this worthwhile project and who have not been contacted previously are urged to contact Mrs. Juna Graham at Tippecanoe Valley High School.

Mr. J. D. Rhoades of Sonoco Products, Akron and Mrs. Jim Meredith of Boggs & Nelson Insurance, Mentone, will be helping to prepare some of the students entered in the district contest on Saturday, Feb. 17 at Warsaw High School. These students have entered in the contest known as "Interview" and will be giving interviews during the contest as if they were applying for positions in business offices.

The February Birthday Party was a gala occasion. Valentines decorated the table of about 20 Keen-agers celebrating the birthdays of Mary McIntyre, Don McIntyre, Martha Waech, Bernice Bowen, Mary Jane Thompson, Annabelle Hammond, Doria Comer, Josephine Robinson, and Phyllis Pearson. A short autobiography of each honored guest, piano music by Bernice Bowen and Cleo Shaffer, and a birthday cake were enjoyed by all. You can't imagine all the talents and experiences of these Keen-agers. It was a great day!

A silent auction is on the agenda for early March. Come on Senior Citizens, get a piece or two of your handicraft ready for the auction. I has been noted that the Keen-agers around Akron have varied and interesting hobbies others might enjoy owning or giving for gifts. Also many of these are expensive and why not defray some expense and have fun all at once. You may be a collector and not a maker, plan to bring an article or so even if you did not make it!

A tax preparation session will be held on February 19, 9:30 to 11:30. Also tax preparation is available at the Rochester Senior Citizen Center.

Don't forget to come to meet the exchange student from Peru, South America February 20.

On Monday, February 26 the Wayne Reeses' will share their travels and experiences with us.

The coffee hour each morning is becoming popular with Keen-agers and continues right on into the lunch hour. Everyone has a good time swapping experiences and getting acquainted. It is amazing how two people in Akron have known each other for 50 years but did not really get acquainted until they both came to the Akron Luncheon Site. The visiting and conversation is as important as the food served at the site.

A phone has been added to the site. You may call 893-7204 for information or reservations around the noon hour or 893-7263 at other times.

Scheduled menus for February 19-23 are:

Monday - Cubed ham and beans, spinach, pears, cornbread, orange juice, milk, coffee.

Tuesday - Chicken pot pie, cranberry sauce, cole slaw, apricots, hot roll, milk, coffee.

Wednesday - Meat loaf, green beans, parsley potatoes, sliced peaches, bread, milk, coffee.

Thursday - Baked chicken, sweet potatoes, tossed salad, chocolate cake, brown bread, milk, coffee.

Friday - Macaroni and cheese with sausage, carrots, cole slaw, jello and fruit, bread, milk, coffee.

by Bob Norlander

The only trouble with Valentine's Day is that it falls in one of the coldest months of the year. If there was any justice, the celebration would take place in July when love and everything else is most often in bloom.

I don't know much about poor Saint Valentine, other than the fact that he was martyred in Rome in 270 AD ... not at all in keeping with the spirit of his holiday, if you ask me.

We were mushier

But, Valentine's Day has always been one of my favorite special days, though for no particular reason.

Goodness knows, I have no sentimental attachment to memories of great grade school romances symbolized by the tentative passing of nickle cards between sweaty little hands. In fact the only mush card I got was from Carla Elmquist in the fifth grade, and she was what we rather crudely referred to as a 'bow-wow'.

On the other hand, valentines are a pretty neat sentiment in this time of non-commitment. There just doesn't seem to be a whole lot of love anymore ... at least not openly expressed.

We've re-written the old romantic songs: "Like in Bloom", "Like Makes the World Go 'Round", "Like Me Tender", "My Serenade of Like". All pretty non-committal stuff.

Valentine cards, too, have slipped. Whatever happened to "Roses are red, Violets are Blue, Hitler is dead, so why aren't you?" Or the everpopular: "You know we cantalope to Orange, New Jersey even though we'd make a peach of a pair." Lost. All lost and gone forever.

We obviously were at one time a much mushier bunch than we are now. Valentine postcards some eighty years ago were pre-printed with marriage proposals all ready to be signed. And, my goodness weren't the ladies bold during leap year ... thousands would send their postal proposals by their RFD cupid. Picture that next time the mailman stops.

Some of these declarations were pretty forthright. One leap year belle sent a postcard printed with this sentiment: "Leap Year ... I'll get you yet." Or how about "Leap Year Thoughts ... do you want a minister who can tie a slip knot?" So this Valentine's Day, do something original, send an old valentine greeting if you can stomach the poetry. "Bought a ring for fourty shillin', which thou mayst wear if thou art willin'."

On Second thought ...

Girls basketball is not new to Akron area

by Carolyn Ramsey

Some of us sports fans may think girls basketball is rather new, but as I found out from June Merley of Akron, it's been around for quite awhile. In fact, June coached the 1927 girls team. They played four games that season, two at Fulton and two at Argos. "I believe I was the first girls basketball coach in Akron," she commented.

Mrs. Merley not only was a coach, she also was a teacher, a referee, and wife. June has many memories of her teaching and coaching days, so sit back and relax and read on.

"When I started teaching school it was in the first grade, but I've taught all of the grades. If they needed a teacher in a certain grade you had to teach it," June said.

The school systems have changed quite a bit over the years. Let's see, 1927 from 1979, is 52 years ago. That's not that long ago, but some big changes have taken place.

"I didn't need a license to coach but I did to teach school. I used to play basketball when I was in school which was back in 1917 or 1918. We didn't play in gyms, they were not heard of then. We played in old buildings. Our outfits were worn bloomers and socks. Your legs never showed. We didn't play too many games because there wasn't that many schools," she commented.

Not only has the girls basketball changed, but also refereeing. "I used to get $2.50 to $3 to referee," the schools are quite different too! "Schools weren't large when I attended, there were four in my graduating class. I use to teach classes when I was still in school. We didn't have substitute teachers, so if a teacher was sick they would ask a pupil to take over classes."

I taught my school out in the country. If you did good in the country they let you teach in town. I drove a horse and buggy to school, the kids came to school in a hack pulled by horses. I was also the janitor of the school. The kids brought their own lunches, and drank from a pump. I had 22 pupils my first year of teaching, all grades," she said.

Lincoln Day Dinner planned

The Fulton County Republican Central Committee will hold their annual Lincoln Day Dinner on February 28 at 6:30 p.m. at the Rochester Community High School. Lieutenant Governor Robert D. Orr will be the principal speaker. After the dinner, there will be a get-together for Central Committee members and their guests at Guido's Restaurant on St. Rd. 25.

AKRON PIZZA

That was only 50 some years ago, it seems impossible that things could have changed that much, kinda scary isn't it.

When I asked about the way the schools were ran I got another shock.

"We didn't have school boards, we had a trustee. If the trustee was a republican then all the teachers were usually republicans. I lost two or three jobs because a new trustee would come and I would not be the same political party he was, many teachers lost jobs because of politics," she stated.

The schools teach anything from swimming to chemistry these days, back then there were not that many different subjects.

"I taught many different subjects when I was teaching in the city schools, if they needed a teacher and they thought you could teach it you did. I've taught reading, writing, spelling, history, arithmetic, geography, and agriculture," she said.

There seems to be problems in the schools today, kids getting expelled, skipping classes, and lack of respect. The kids are taught to say what they think, but if they do and the teacher disagrees there's automatically friction and trouble starts. June explained the relationship of teacher and pupil when she taught school, its the way it should be today.

"Discipline was first and then school, the kids understood this and respected it. School was first, then sports, if there was time. I knew the home life of each of my students. I had a close relationship with my pupils. They respected me as a teacher and liked me as a friend. I only paddled one boy, we had to use a rubber hose and have a witness. I tried not to spank him but I had no alternative. I taught school for forty years and spanked one boy, so that wasn't bad," she said.

Man...that's corn!

Family Life

By Renee Norlander

This rotten weather we have been experiencing lately has gotten almost everyone "down in the dumps" somewhat. But I couldn't help thinking of one good thing that's a result of it.

I've never seen so many people willing to help each other out as I have in the past few weeks. One morning Bob and I were trying to get our car out of a new batch of snow, at 6 a.m., and we weren't getting very far.

Along came Bruce Barker in the plow truck, and another young man, whom we didn't know, and both of them gave their best efforts to help us out. I think we would still be trying if they hadn't helped.

Another time, all of our neighbors were out helping to get all of our cars moved so that the plow could clean our side of the street.

Neighbors and friends helping each other out in this nasty, snowy weather. I'm sure each and everyone of you could name a time recently that someone has helped you out.

The weather may be cruel, but it's obvious that small town friendliness can "outweather" any situation! At least in Akron and Mentone, anyway.

Announce marriage of Chris Turpyn

Mr. and Mrs. W. L. 'Bud' Deaton of Claypool announce the marriage of their daughter, Christine Turpyn, to Dr. Ian McLaren of Heathmont, Victoria, Australia. The couple exchanged vows on January 7, 1979, at Shoreham Beach near Melbourne.

Dr. McLaren is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William H. McLaren of Nunawading, Victoria.

Dr. McLaren is a research etymologist with the Victoria Department of Plant Sciences. He received his L.D.A., B.S., and M.S. at Melbourne University and his Ph.D. at LaTrobe University.

Christine is a 1966 graduate of Warsaw High School, attended Ball State University, received her B.S. at the University of Hawaii and her graduate diploma of Librarianship at Melbourne University. She is establishing a library at the new technical school in Mt. Evelyn, Victoria.

The couple's home is 6 Pleasant Drive, Heathmont, Victoria 3135. Mr. and Mrs. Deaton were in attendance at the wedding and have completed a month's visit in Australia visiting with friends in Melbourne and traveling to the Adelaide and Perth areas.

Whittenbergers to celebrate 60th

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Whittenberger, R. 1, Akron, will celebrate their 60th wedding anniversary with an open house from 2 to 4 p.m. Sunday, February 18, in the Akron Library basement.

Mr. Whittenberger and Marie Berger were married February 19, 1919 by the late Rev. Newton Gilland in Gilead.

Hosts for the open house will be their children and their spouses, Mr. and Mrs. Don Whittenberger, Mexico, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Whittenberger, Mr. and Mrs. Ted Cox, and Mr. and Mrs. Guy Hill Jr., all of Akron. There are also eight grandchildren and nine great-grandchildren.

Friends and relatives are invited to the open house and gifts are requested to be omitted.

According to Chinese legend, Emperor Shen Nung drank the first cup of tea when leaves from a wild tea bush accidentally fell into his boiling drinking water.

Dining out with children

A family dinner eaten at a restaurant is often pictured as a disaster, complete with whining children and angry or embarrassed parents; yet, surveys of parents do not bear out this portrait.

Robert D. Buchanan, Extension restaurant, hotel and institutional management specialist at Purdue University, says that recent studies by the National Restaurant Association and government agencies show that 73 percent of parents actually enjoy dining out with their children. Seventy-five percent of the parents said their children also enjoy eating out.

More than 5,000 parents responded to questionnaires, providing this information. Of the respondents, more than 52 percent had eaten out as a family in the previous week, and the studies showed the average family dined out 2.2 times per week.

"One thing, the studies indicated that I didn't expect," said Buchanan, "is that 31 percent of the parents use dining out as a way to teach etiquette. Though when you think about it, dining out is very different from family meals or school lunches because a waitress or waiter serves while the family has time to talk."

Where do families go when they want to eat out? Family members usually compromise in their selection of restaurants. Parents generally prefer to dine at family-type restaurants, but their children prefer fast-food restaurants. The result is usually a compromise, with families with children patronizing both types of restaurants almost equally.

Parents consider the services related to children as important factors in restaurant selection. Over half the parents cited the availability of children's portions and proper treatment of children as reasons for selecting a particular restaurant. Almost half of the parents said that an atmosphere that children enjoy and the availability of a children's menu are important features.

But not all parents eat out with their children. Sixty-one percent of the parents believed that some restaurants are just not for children.

Forty percent of parents said that it was too expensive to include children when dining out. This trend was particularly noticeable when parents were relatively older, more affluent, or had a tendency to patronize expensive restaurants. Misbehavior by the children was mentioned by relatively young and less affluent families as a reason for not patronizing restaurants. Thirty-six percent of the parents noted that inadequate children's menus were a reason for not dining out.

"A family which dines out," Buchanan notes, "has a great deal more time for conversation than a family that eats at home. The time that a family is together at home averages only 7 minutes (from the time the last family member arrives until the first family member leaves). At a restaurant a family should have from 45 minutes to one hour of uninterrupted time for conversation."

"From the studies," says Buchanan, "it seems that families are taking time to talk with one another while dining out and are enjoying the experience."

It Happened in Mentone

Taken from the February 13, 1952 issue of The Northern Indiana Co-Op News:

Marita Tucker, and David Gosser of Mentone and Mary Fites of Tippecanoe, rated superior in the music contest held at Culver last Saturday. They will go to Indianapolis in two weeks.

Joe Boland, prominent South Bend sportscaster and a former college football star and coach, was the principle speaker to some 200 basketball players, coaches, and principals at the Mentone gym Monday night. The event was the fifth annual pre-tourney fish fry for the personnel of the 16 high schools who will compete in the Warsaw sectional on February 27, 28 and 29 and March 1.

The Mentone Fire Department treated the wives and children of each member to a delicious chicken supper Tuesday evening.

Five Mentone boys went to Ft. Wayne Tuesday evening where they received the initiatory degree of De Molay at the Scottish Rite Cathedral. They were David Gosser, Larry McKinley, Kay Flenar, Wayne Bowser, Chas. Manwaring and Rev. David Gosser.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Sarber have returned from a 15 day trip to the Grand Canyon, Phoenix and Tucson, Arizona, Carlsbad Caverns, Texas and Mexico. They visited with Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Bybee, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Adams, Mr. and Mrs. Gerry Browne and Malchom Long.

Poppies which everyone in Mentone will be asked to wear in honor of America's war dead on Poppy Day in May, have arrived at the American Legion Home from the Marion Veterans Hospital where they were made by disabled war veterans.

Mrs. Earl Meredith took Sunday dinner with Mr. and Mrs. Roy Meredith of near Akron. The dinner was in honor of John Meredith's eighteenth birthday.

Quartet to appear

"THE NEWSMEN" quartet will be appearing at the Silver Creek Church of God Sunday evening, February 18, from 7 to 9 p.m., sponsored by the Brotherhood Service. The public is invited to attend.

New books at Akron Carnegie Library

New books received at the Akron Carnegie Public Library include the following:

SISTERS AND STRANGERS by Helen Van Slyke. It was the eve of Sam and Laura Dalton's Golden Wedding Anniversary and their girls were coming home to Denver for the celebration. Thirty years had passed since the sisters were together under their parents' roof. This is the moving account of three women who recapture the comfort of sharing and confirm a devotion not even absence could sever. Realistically and compassionately told, this is a modern human drama in its truest form.

BIG FALLING SNOW by Albert Yava. This is a Tewa-Hopi Indian's life and times and the history and traditions of his people.

THE NON-RETURN TRAIL by Sonia Levitt. Nancy Kelsey is a realistic figure from our pioneer past. Ignored by history books, she was in fact the first woman to make the grueling overland journey from the south-eastern part of our country to California. Readers will be thrilled by the author's richly detailed account of an ordinary adventure, highlighted by her sensitive portrait of a young woman maturing on a perilous trail.

EAGLE FUR by Robert Newton Peck. It is 1754 and young Abbott Coe - without family or friends, arrives at Fort Albany to begin his life (wearing an iron collar) as indentured bond servant to Skinner Benet, fur trader and representative of the far flung Hudson's Bay Company. Benet is hard, but as rigorous with himself as he is with others. As the novel moves toward its exciting climax, the boy at last finds the courage to challenge his master's authority. Face to face with extraordinary danger, he makes the decisive move that irrevocably transforms his life.

Fire destroys home

AKRON FIREFIGHTERS had their hands full this past weekend after receiving a call at 11:30 a.m. Sunday notifying them that the Sam Smith residence, one mile south of Akron on State Road 19, was well ablaze. By the time the firefighters arrived, the fire had engulfed the entire structure and the firemen could only contain it and keep it from spreading. All that remains standing is the chimney shown above.

Chosen as Homecoming Queen

QUEEN PEGGY GRONINGER

Peggy, a freshman, was crowned queen at one of the school's basketball games on February 9.

Residents asked to run water

Akron water users are reminded to continue to run water from one faucet even as the weather warms up because this actually forces the frost down and the danger of freezing continues, according to town board members who this week asked water users to continue letting a

Akron board told fluoride level is low

The members of the Akron Town Board met in a brief, regular session Tuesday night to discuss town business.

Clerk Ernest Smith read the minutes of their January meeting and the board approved the minutes as read.

Board member Vern Waymire asked the other members if the emergency ambulance garage and fire station were getting top snow removal priority by the town vehicles. Board president Ron Fenimore concurred with Marshall Ed Hauser that the first places being plowed were the emergency areas.

Marshall Hauser requested the board to provide visible markings at restricted town parking areas near fire hydrants and no parking areas as current markings are often being covered by snow.

President Fenimore appealed to town residents to please keep their sidewalks as clear as possible as some complaints have been voiced to the board. Fenimore stated it is the homeowners duty to keep the snow clear from in front of their residence. The board also asked that citizens help keep snow clear from around fire hydrants to prevent any delays in fire response to their neighbors or own homes.

Board member Dr. Charles Miller said he was looking into a recent testing from a state official that said the Akron water system should have fluoride added to it. The board said there is some confusion at the state level as they were told just a few months ago that there was enough natural fluoride already in the water. Marshall Hauser told the board he couldn't get a definite delivery date on the new police car the town has ordered, but he would continue to follow up on it.

Hauser submitted to the board the following police record for January through February 20: 8 dog calls, 7 warnings issued, 7 accidents, 25 complaints, 2 funerals, 7 open doors, 5 motorist assists, 2 breaking and enterings, 2 attempts to locate, and 2,604 miles logged.

The board agreed to change the date of their March meeting to Tuesday, March 13 due to a personal commitment.

"As a basketball fan, I agree with the comment made last week in regards to TVHS basketball, but I wonder what has happened to our pep club, when it comes to singing our school song. There doesn't seem to be hardly anyone who cares enough to remain in the stands and sing the school song."

"I don't like to see a basketball team and coach crucified because they don't win as many games as some think they should. Notre Dame, No. 1, was defeated. Those who know how it should be done, why not go four years to college and spend a few thousand dollars, come back to Valley and show us how it is done!"

"I go through Mentone several times a week. Several small trucks are parked on Main Street which does not create a problem. But the larger trucks do cause a problem by sticking out so far to cause one way traffic. Wonder where the town marshal is spending all his time?"

"Something we are tired of - the Christmas decorations and lights on in Mentone in February. Shouldn't we try to conserve on the use of energy?"

"I would hope that in the future, that when ever the parking lot at the Akron Church of God is cleaned, that the snow would be moved to the south end of the lot, rather than at the street corner. This huge pile of snow is really dangerous for drivers and also children walking to and from school."

Akron students complete projects

The Akron School Industrial Arts Program is offered to all seventh and eighth grade boys. It is a sequential program that begins in seventh grade with the introduction to hand tools and all power equipment. A mass production unit follows with each student being responsible for a given step in the construction of tool boxes, plant stands, or candle holders.

Each seventh grade boy then makes a redwood sign of his choice using a router and the proper finishing materials. Finally, seventh graders complete a small construction project of their own choosing.

Mechanical drawing is the first phase of an eighth graders 18 week course. During this time each student chooses an object he would like to build, makes a drawing of the object, and designs a pattern from which to build the object. As the project moves toward completion a student may use the lathe, planer, shaper, router, and other power tools. The final phase of construction is a staining and putting on the last coat of varnish.

They are under the direction of Mike Hoyt.

It Happened in Mentone

Taken from the February 20, 1952 issue of The Northern Indiana Co-Op News:

Fire, about 8:30 p.m. Thursday evening, destroyed the farm residence owned by Ned Smith and occupied by Calvin Ringle and family, just east of Newcastle township line on the Ft. Wayne Road.

Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Griffis and family have moved into the home recently purchased from Mr. and Mrs. Robert Parker. The Parkers are living in the apartment above the post office until their new home can be completed.

Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Paxton have moved from their home in the south part of town to So. Bend. Joe Baker was in So. Bend on Tuesday where he attended a service school on Youngstown automatic dishwashers.

Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Teel are the parents of a son born Friday at the McDonald Hospital. The new boy weighed six pounds, ten ounces, and has been named Jay Alan.

Mr. and Mrs. George W. Dickey will hold open house at their home northeast of Mentone, from two to five o'clock on Sunday afternoon, March 2, in commemoration of the completing of fifty years of wedded life.

The Anthony Nigo Chapter of the D.A.R. announces that the winners of the D.A.R. Good Citizen Pilgrimage this year is Jackie Blue, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Blue, of Mentone.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald J. Boggs and sons, Jay, Dick, Kerry and Dean, of near Mentone, were very pleasantly surprised Friday evening when a group of neighbors gathered at their home with well filled baskets for a pot-luck supper. After enjoying the many dishes of "good-eats" the rest of the evening was spent visiting.

Area business on television

by Mrs. Thomas Harman

Harmony Press found itself the focus of a unique television message recently as the camera of "New Wine" visited Bourbon to tape for one of its weekly programs of religious interest.

A number of our readers may already be acquainted with the "New Wine" program viewed weekly each Friday and Sunday over WHME-TV Channel 46. This non-denominational entry into religious programming is a faith ministry of the West Shore Christian Fellowship in Muskegon, Michigan. Although it has only been on the air for a little over one year, it has received unusually high recognition of the broadcasting industry and is tentatively scheduled to be aired nationally on the PTL satellite network March first.

What is a religious television program doing in a print shop?

Well, that's a good question, and one that reveals why "New Wine" has taken some professional religious programmers by surprise.

This segment of New Wine which was recently produced at Harmony Press, Inc., will feature an interview with Thomas W. Harman, president of Harmony Press, by Rev. McPhail. A message from co-pastor Dan Light, will also originate on location from Harmony Press.

"A Voice In The Wilderness", by Rev. Loran W. Helm, and edited by Jon L. Cullum, is the book featured weekly on the New Wine telecasts. Harmony Press had the privilege of printing this book in their modern Commercial Plant. The printing of the first two editions found Artley D. Cullum and Thomas W. Harman working together. Later, following Mr. Cullum's retirement, Mr. Terry Hogue of Anderson, Indiana, became a partner in the firm and participated in the production of the third edition.

Three generations have been in employment at Harmony Press, beginning with Mr. Cullum who moved his printing business from Mentone to Bourbon in 1963. The printing plant was then known as The Country Print Shop. His son-in-law, Thomas Harman, joined the firm in 1955, while it was still in Mentone. Later, Timothy Harman began an apprenticeship under his grandfather and father in 1970, while still in high school. He is now Production Superintendent of the printing plant.

This interview and message from Harmony Press in Bourbon is scheduled to be shown this Friday evening at 9 on WHME-TV, Channel 46, South Bend. Generally the Friday evening telecast of New Wine is again aired on Sunday afternoon.

Family Life

By Renee Norlander

Spring cleaning time is not far away, but I'll bet a lot of those "big jobs" - like cleaning out closets, the basement, and the attic - are done in the wintertime. People can only take so much of T.V. and books before boredom strikes. And tackling those big jobs with all of that stored-up energy can make them seem "not so bad".

But Bill Field, Extension safety specialist at Purdue University, advises people to "think twice" before they decide to tackle a refinishing job that has been put off since last summer.

It may seem like the perfect opportunity to get that old desk into the basement, and get to work on it, but as Field advises "check the labels on paints, glues, chemicals, and aerosols" before you use them on that desk.

Many chemicals used to strip furniture require adequate ventilation when being used, and too many people don't want a window open when its -5 degrees F. But using these chemicals in a confined space can cause problems.

First of all, many of them are combustible. If the fumes reach an open flame (such as a pilot light or cigarette) an explosion or fire can result. And secondly, the fumes are not good for people to breathe. Though the dangers vary, some can cause nausea, headache, or blurred vision, and aerosol sprays (such as paints) have also been linked to heart trouble and skin and respiratory problems, according to Field.

So remember to check the labels before you begin a paint or refinishing job this winter. And if the label says to use only in a well-ventilated space, then make sure you don't use it in a confined, closed area. And if you're not sure, maybe you'd better wait until summer!

It takes more than players

Ten boys do not a basketball team make!

It takes more than players to stage the show biz — Hoosier style — event that will take place next week at Triton High School, Bourbon. It takes athletic directors, principals, coaches and assistant coaches, managers, trainers, cheerleaders and fans ... all pulling together ... all backing their team.

In the photo above we have used representatives from the several schools participating in the Triton sectional — The principal, standing at the door waiting to welcome everyone to his school, is Triton's Howard Liggett. The athletic director is Wawasee's Carl Meditch. The coach is Tippecanoe Valley's Roger Fleetwood. The managers are from Warsaw. The cheerleaders are from Triton and the fans include Wawasee's Floyd Baker, a former member of the Indiana High School Athletic Association and an avid basketball fan. A feature on Baker appears elsewhere in this issue.

The athletic directors and principals of the several schools are responsible for scheduling games, coordinating sports at the various high schools, checking to see that players are not over age and have achieved high enough grades to be eligible to play in the tournament.

Of course, Triton's principal has had the added duties of getting his school ready for the sectional.

The coaches are directly responsible for the players and their conduct. They call the plays and help the players as they attempt to win for their school.

Assistant coaches keep track of fouls, time outs, opposing team substitutions and other things to help the head coach.

Managers and trainers assist the coaches and players as they are the ones responsible for seeing the team's uniforms and other basketball equipment is ready for use when it's needed. They also work with adults who see that players are taped before games and assist when a player is injured.

The cheerleaders and their sponsors are on hand at every game to lead the students and fans in yelling for their team and creating school spirit. These young ladies and gentlemen have the responsibility of keeping the crowd under control and keeping the spirits of the team high.

Many basketball games are won with the help of the cheerleaders and fans who back their team. Basketball players who feel their fans are behind them respond to yells and often play a better game because of this spirit.

Every team needs fans to back it and to give it support. The support the advertisers have shown the teams in the Triton sectional in this special issue proves that they all will have plenty of support as they meet in Bourbon next week.

Cohersion

As the state's high schools continue to look at their budgets, there are those who constantly cast their eyes on the cost of athletics and wonder why these dollars should be spent.

Running a worthwhile athletic program in any school is not cheap. Money spent per athlete in interscholastic competition, as opposed to those in physical education for instance, is much greater. And with girls becoming more involved in athletics, costs will increase. So why not cut back and why not even eliminate athletics?

Some have tried and have found it to be a move filled with folly. Aside from the positive aspect of such an involvement for these students directly involved ... athletics has become the glue that is holding many of our schools and communities together.

Indeed in some of our major cities there are those who feel the school system might dissipate into a calamitous state if there were no athletics. This is not to suggest athletics should be given a blank check. They should not ... and in most schools do not. Most schools run a sensible program — financially realistic.

Remove them and you might save money. But saving the school system as we know it might be hard to come by.

Triton set to host tourney

Triton High School is getting ready to welcome fans to another sectional tournament this week.

It is the fifth straight year for the school to host sectional play, prior to 1975 the school alternated as host with Warsaw.

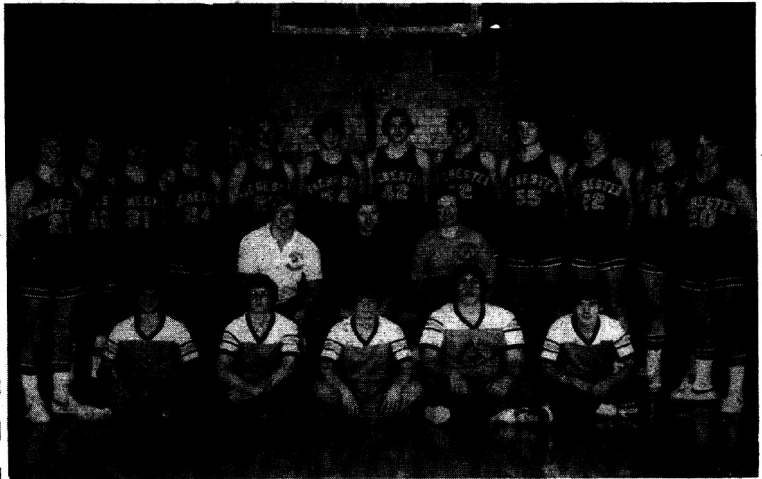

Triton's first year to host a sectional tournament was in 1971. At that time the school was three years old. When the announcement came from the Indiana High School Athletic Association it was a surprise to many as Warsaw had hosted the tournament for seven straight years. Teams participating in that first Triton sectional were Akron, Mentone, Rochester, Warsaw, Wawasee and Triton.

The Triton gym seats 3,470 persons and is an excellent facility for a sectional tournament. The gym is located on the east edge of Bourbon with the school serving both the junior and senior high school students. It serves the communities of Bourbon, Tippecanoe and Etna Green.

Schools participating in the 1979 sectional are Tippecanoe Valley, Triton, Rochester, Warsaw and Wawasee.

NLC champ seeks sectional crown too

Jim Miller, who has been head basketball coach for the Warsaw Tigers for three years, feels the Tigers have a plus and that plus is "We have eight or nine good players capable of double figures, but no one over 12 points a game," stated Miller. "It's the secret of the team when you don't have a super scorer." He said the team averages 65 points a game against its opponents.

The strategy of the small Tiger team is the fact they play well together as a team. The tallest player is Hal Heagy, a senior at 6'3". Coach Miller said the Tigers are hurt by these big basketball teams, who are able to rebound the ball and make the shots smaller teams have problems with. He also said that the Tigers are not quick or exceptionally fast where the bigger and quicker teams also have the advantage.

Last year at sectional time the Tiger team was plagued with sickness. This year the team has had a player out with a knee injury and five players on crutches with bad sprains, earlier in the season. But so far all the injured are back and Mark Brubaker, a senior, who was injured in football, is working out with the team. Ron Brandenburg, a sophomore, who has been injured will be an alternate for the sectional team.

As for the sectional, Coach Miller has no specific team he wishes to play in the sectional but said the outcome will be a toss up and the games will be nail biters. Miller picks the winner by saying "it will be who ever puts the best two out of three games together. Anyone can win it."

Warsaw will be playing at the Triton Sectional with Tippecanoe Valley, Rochester, Wawasee and Triton in the sectional bouts.

TIGER'S COACH — Jim Miller has coached the Warsaw Tiger's for three years of his 20 years in coaching. This year he has coached the Tigers in a fine season against other teams who have been tough competition.

Jones has confidence in Warriors' efforts

This will be the first Triton sectional for Wawasee head coach Mike Jones. How does he think his team will fare? "I have confidence the kids will make every effort," he said.

Jones commented, "Right now we're beginning to put together some things. We're getting some character qualities coaches look for."

The Warriors have had an up and down season this year. Jones said, "We started out great. Then in January, we had a snag of not complimenting each other; not functioning as a unit. Hopefully this will smooth out. If it does, I think we can match any team."

One bright spot was the Warrior's victory over rival Warsaw. Warsaw won the Northern Lakes Conference with a record of 6-1, Wawasee being the only team to beat the Tigers in conference action.

Right now, Jones is working on all phases of the game from offense to defense. He hopes to have his five starters work more as a team with each player performing his particular role.

"We have certain talents and certain inabilities," the coach said. "We're trying to make the most of our talents and try to realize and overcome our weaknesses."

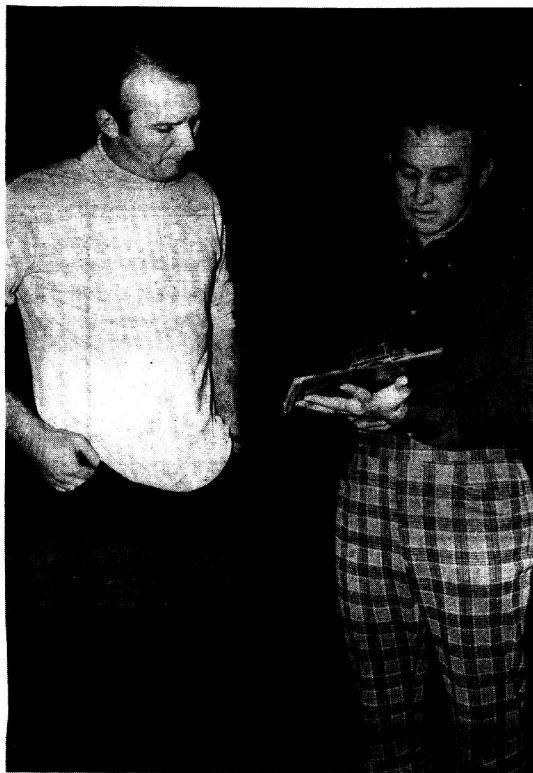

Jones added, "We're looking for two basic ingredients — pride and purpose."

Two of Wawasee's strong points this year are senior lettermen Mark Lantz and Mark Simpson. Both players are shooting over 50 per cent from the field and average between 13-15 points per game.

Besides shooting, Wawasee is also strong on rebounding.

What about Warrior competition? "No team is a definite shoo-in," said Jones. "A couple of teams, Warsaw and Rochester, are a little more consistent. Every team is capable."

The coach added, "The team that rises to the occasion; that's the team that makes its own tournament."

Besides Lantz and Simpson, also competing for Wawasee are: Bart

Bowser, Jay Kaiser, Mike Kissinger, Matt Strombeck, Jeff Sylvester, Steve Swope, Mark Sumpter, Kevin Smallwood, Eric Shepherd and Mark Wagoner.

Floyd Baker remembers how it was

Every year, basketball sectional time brings back many fond memories for former players, coaches and fans. This year, one person who is especially nostalgic is Floyd Baker, 74, of North Webster. Baker is a former state basketball player and coach.

Baker, who served as advisory coach and vice principal at North Webster High School from 1949-1967, is retiring this year from the Lakeland School Board and the Indiana School Board Association. He has served on the school board since 1968 and the Indiana association since 1974.

He and his wife, Ruth Evelyn, who have been married 50 years, are planning to spend their retirement relaxing.

Huntington Native
Baker began his love of basketball while playing forward for Huntington High School in his native town. In 1923 he played in the state tournament for Huntington.

He next traveled to Purdue University for two years where he played on the varsity squad under coach Ward "Piggy" Lambert. His next move was to Wittenberg University where he graduated in 1934. He received his master's degree in education from the University of Pittsburgh.

His career as a teacher and advisory coach started in Ohio, where he coached from 1931-1945. During those years, he had seven teams in the state Triple-A tournament. In 1941, his team from Martin's Ferry, Ohio, came away the winner. Playing on that team were All-Americans Lou and Alex Groza.

During the years 1945-1949 he coached in Richmond. During that time, he had four sectional wins and one regional championship in 1946. His team lost in the semi-state finals.

Another basketball highlight for the North

The Bakers watch their favorite team!

Webster man occurred during the years 1935-1945. He officiated at many Mid-American Conference games including national champions University of Xavier, Dayton and Cincinnati.

While at North Webster, he acted in an advisory capacity to coach Sidney Spencer, now superintendent of Wayne Township. In 1953, the North Webster team, with a record of 27-1, went to the regionals, but lost to South Bend Central.

After retiring in 1967, he ran for and was elected to the Lakeland school board.

He also served on the Indiana High School Athletic Association's Board of Control from 1958-1963. In 1963, he was partially responsible for raising the number of players to be suited up from 10 to 12.

Changes
In looking back, Baker can find several changes in sectional play-offs. Probably the main difference is the number of schools competing. He commented, "Some of the tourneys would get pretty late."

Before the schools consolidated, 16 teams competed for the sectional title in Kosciusko County. This has now been lowered to five — Wawasee, Warsaw, Tippecanoe Valley, Triton and Rochester.

Another difference, Baker noted, is the actual playing. He said, "The players are better shooters now. The passing is more clever than it was." When he was coaching, he stressed shooting and defense.

He feels the teams have the same spirit, however. "The desire to win is just as good now as it was then. They train and practice just as hard as they ever did."

One change he is sorry for is a lack of community involvement, especially during the regular season. He said, "The bigger schools don't get as close to it. With a smaller school, there is a centered interest, closeness of a small community. Now it is divided into three communities —

Syracuse, North Webster and Milford.)"

Of course, he added, all this changes at sectional time. "Your strongest loyalty and community interest is in the sectionals."

Even Contest
Does he have any predictions for the 1979 sectional? "This will be the most wide open in a number of years," Baker replied, "Anyone can win it. No one is undefeated. I think it's going to be the most evenly contested we've had in a number of years."

Close Feeling
What does he like best about basketball? "The fact you're dealing with young people. The basketball team seems to have a closer community feeling than any sport. You can touch it."

Mr. and Mrs. Baker have been attending home football games for a number of years. They can often be spotted on the front row cheering away for Wawasee.

The Bakers have one son, Barry Norman, who is a civil engineer at Worster, Ohio.

To the frantic fan . . .

Dear Frantic:

If someone were to ask you what represents the greatest peril to the survival of high school sports, you might say specializing, overemphasis, officials, coaches, administrators. But you would be wrong.

For the greatest peril to the continuation of interscholastic athletics is none of those reasons. It is you, my friend, the frantic fan.

Specialization and overemphasis can and are being curbed; officials trained; coaches and administrators guided. But you, Mr. Fan, you answer to no one; no one that is, until a program has been ruined, students penalized, young images shattered, all because you didn't control yourself.

Perhaps it's not all your fault. Perhaps you have never been exposed to proper spectator decorum. At any rate, a few definite guidelines may serve to protect the program and at the same time enable you to better enjoy whatever contest you are viewing.

High school athletics were not developed as a sounding board for your immaturity, nor developed as a vehicle on which you may "let off steam," rid yourself of "frustrations," etc. This is fine in professional sports, as you are paying a premium price to vent your emotions on athletes that are paid a premium salary to put up with your antics.

However, your token payment to an interscholastic contest, often less than a dollar, entitles you to one thing—the privilege of watching the more talented students of two schools exhibit what they have learned in the athletic classroom.

For the athletic field, court, or diamond is merely an extension of the classroom, and if it were any different there would be little reason for interscholastic athletics to survive.

You would not think of entering a math, history or English classroom, flask on him and berate, often curse and physically abuse the math, history or English teacher. Yet all too frequently you think nothing of harassing players and coaches in their classroom, the athletic classroom.

High school administrators have always given you the benefit of the doubt, Mr. Fan, sometimes because you were a player's parent or an influential citizen. However, you should be on notice that administrators can no longer tolerate your childish, immature behavior, whether you are a recent graduate, a parent or a resident of the community in which the school is located.

If, indeed, you are sincerely interested in continuation of interscholastic athletics, then keep a few basic points in mind:

1. There is no such thing as a "right" to participate in interscholastic athletics. Math, history, English, physical education and certain other subjects are mandated by the proper authorities and each student has a "right" to be properly exposed to them. Not so with interscholastic athletics—they are a "privilege"—and the player or spectator who takes advantage of this "privilege" is expected to conduct himself or himself in a way so that the "privilege" is not rescinded.

2. Your team does not belong to the community. It belongs to the school and that school has voluntarily agreed to abide by a certain set of rules, so that all athletes may compete under the same standards. If these rules offend any special interest groups or individuals to the point where they can not conduct themselves in a rational manner, then, by all means, these persons should direct all their energies toward some other level of athletics, but not the high school level.

3. Accept the fact that all high school athletes make mistakes. They are not perfect and never will be. There is compensation, though, for the same mistakes make high school athletics exciting and unpredictable.

4. Remember that your coach is also a teacher. He is a teacher first, and coach second, and any time you join the misguided souls in trying to reverse this order, your program is in the first stages of collapse. Remember, no coach, player or administrator wants to see a program fail. In most cases failure can be attributed to the unrelenting, merciless pressure of you, the fan, who played little or no part in the building of the program. Small wonder that the high school coaching field has the highest turnover of any coaching level.

5. Make an attempt to learn the rules of the game and then leave the officials alone. Uprooting time and effort is spent in the training of these officials so that a contest may proceed smoothly. Historically, the spectator who constantly criticizes game officials is ignorant of the rules under which the game is played.

6. Finally, keep in mind that you are a guest of the school and that while winning is certainly an admirable goal, victory is hollow if it comes at the expense of morals, ethics and just plain common sense.

A beloved president once said that the world would soon forget his words, but remember the action of his soldiers.

As the years pass, the score of a contest becomes relatively unimportant, sometimes forgotten. However, your conduct will remain ingrained forever in the minds of those who were most affected.

Will they be proud or ashamed? The choice is yours!!!!

Basketball coaches' creed

I BELIEVE that basketball has an important place in the general education scheme and pledge myself to cooperate with others in the field of education to so administer it that its value never will be questioned.

I BELIEVE that other coaches of this sport are as earnest in its protection as I am, and I will do all in my power to further their endeavors.

I BELIEVE that my own actions should be so regulated that at all times I will be a credit to my profession.

I BELIEVE that the members of the National Basketball Committee are capably expressing the rules of the game and will abide by these rules in both spirit and letter.

I BELIEVE in the exercise of all the patience, tolerance and diplomacy at my command in my relations with all players, co-workers, game officials and spectators.

I BELIEVE that the proper administration of this sport offers an effective laboratory method to develop in its adherents high ideals of sportsmanship; qualities of cooperation, courage, unselfishness and self control; desires for clean healthful living; and respect for wise discipline and authority.

I BELIEVE that those admirable characteristics, properly instilled by me through teaching and demonstration, will have a long carry-over and will aid each one connected with the sport to become a better citizen.

I BELIEVE in and will support all reasonable moves to improve athletic conditions, to provide for adequate equipment and to promote the welfare of an increased number of participants.

(This creed was written by George Edwards, basketball coach at Missouri University and was adopted by the National Association of Basketball Coaches during their 1932 convention and reaffirmed at the 1972 convention.)

Shouting coaches are confusing!

A trend, prevalent in all sports, but especially in basketball, baseball and wrestling is for coaches to yell from the bench or sidelines a constant stream of advice to players. In an article, Coach Johnny Sain of the Detroit Tigers noted that "continual, machinegun-like shouting from the bench by the high school coach in any sport is harmful and ridiculous."

Continual advice from the bench hinders a boy, hampers his concentrating on the play, and often leaves him not only confused, but helpless and scoreless. How can a boy play his best when he is waiting for the coach to tell him what to do each minute?

How can a mature man, entrusted with handling young men, go almost berserk in the heat of the game? Many coaches have been known to jump off the bench, pace the floor and scream like madmen. It is obvious the players have difficulty understanding or hearing what is being said, because of the noise of the crowds and also because of the tension and excitement of the game.

Sain adds that he learned a long time ago that shouting advice from the dugout or bench accomplished little. Instruction may be given during "timeouts" which may be called in any sport. This is the proper time to offer counsel, in a calm, quiet and understandable manner.

For years, this writer has contended that one of the major objectives of sports is to develop confidence and to enable a boy to make his own decisions. Constant coaching from the bench is contrary to this goal. High school boys are still young and immature. They demand special handling and not excited instructions from the bench.

Being a cheerleader

Cheerleading is lots of hard work, It's being a part of the team, It's finding to accept responsibility, And finding out what responsibility means. A cheerleader needs enthusiasm And confidence in her ability; Because she is leading the crowd

She is the symbol of vitality. A never-ceasing interest, A love and a devotion, A strong will to do for others— These constitute a cheerleader's emotions, Cheerleading is an honor, An honor meant to share

Regarded as a priceless gift To create spirit everywhere. A person with high standards, An honor character too, Someone who puts herself aside And lives to support her school. But deeper than this it's a feeling,

A way of making friends Knowing that you're a leader, Giving where life begins. Feeling tense and nervous, Laughing and wanting to win, Accepting the disappointment of defeat, Learning to try once again.

Working for many hours, Going through stiffness and aches, Wondering if you can improve, Realizing the work it takes. Helping others to know the joy Of working together as one,

Showing the importance of never giving up Until a victory's been won. Being proud of the position you hold, Caring about your team, Facing a world full of opportunity, This is what cheerleading means!

Meet Valley's New Head Coach

ROGER FLEETWOOD
TIPPECANOE VALLEY
HEAD BASKETBALL COACH

Valdosta State's assistant basketball coach, Roger Fleetwood, was recruiting Valley's Eric Alsbaugh, when he found out that Tippecanoe Valley's head basketball coaching job would be open. As fate would have it, the job of varsity coach is now his.

The 28-year old Fleetwood, is a native of Nashville, Indiana, and played basketball at Brown County High School.

A former Valdosta State player, Fleetwood became a graduate assistant for two years, while working on his masters degree. He was also an assistant coach at South Putnam one year in Greencastle, Indiana and spent two years at Southwestern in Hanover, Ind., also as an assistant. According to his wife Carol, "that year at Greencastle was a year to remember." Roger pulled the ligaments in his leg during one of his league games and spent the rest of the year in a leg cast. "Every game we had to bring a stack of pillows to prop his leg up," explained Carol. The B-team he was coaching that year did win the Christmas tourney, which made up for all the hassle of the cast he carried with him that season.

Why did he leave Valdosta? "From recruiting, I found out I enjoy high school more," explained Fleetwood. "College players know that they're good, which is why they were recruited. In high school they have to work harder to get anywhere later, and are more enthusiastic," says Fleetwood.

Head Coach James Dominey, of Valdosta State College says of Fleetwood, "He's by far one of the most popular players and people to come through this program. He'll do well coaching in high school."

Roger and his wife Carol, have a two-year old daughter, Julie. Carol is teaching "special reading" classes to grades 4 thru 8 at the Akron Elementary and Jr. High.

This year's team has really pleased the new coach. Mainly because he's never had this much height on a team. Fleetwood works a lot on defense, and hopes the fans accept his style of coaching.

Fleetwood's goal is to build a program right up through the grades so that every year they're competitive.

The popular new coach has high hopes for a sectional title this year!!

MANY HEATED BASKETBALL GAMES were played on the old Mentone Community Building floor between 1926-1953. The building was constructed in 1926 at a cost of $5,000. It is said that part of the Old Mentone ball park fence was torn down and used in its construction. The building still stands today across from the old high school in Mentone. The above photo was taken in 1953, the last year the building was used as the Mentone Bulldogs home court.
