-$500 was accepted by the members to be deposited in the cemetery cash fund. The money was received from the estate of a late resident of Wabash County

Pictures that tell a story

I've been readin' in the papers Of a rig to harvest grain; Cut it down and do your threshin Like they do it on the plain.

Just get goin' in the mornin' And before the sun goes down, You've a field that's fit for plowin' And your grain is hauled to town.

"Twill be lonesome durin' harvest Not to see the shocks o' grain, Not to see the loads o' bundles Rollin' slowly down the lane.

Go the way that took the sleighbells Took the axe and huskin Go the way that took my father, And is slowly takin' me.

Not to hear the yarns they spin, Nor the separator growlin' As you roll the bundles in.

I suppose 'twill save some labor And it's likely for the best, But I hate to see the thresher Go the way of all the rest.

Not to mingle with your neighbors, And I sometimes sadly wonder Why old-fashioued folks like me Couldn't keep this one reminder of the days that used to be.

The Art of Panhandlina

Even though Washington politico's say the economy may be on the way up, it seems worthwhile to devote space to a report by 3 researchers at the University of Washington. It's on an activity which we naturally hope won't become necessary. But we might just as well be prepared. The subject is panhand I ing.

The point of the panhandling study, reported in Science was to explore the behaviors, contexts and rules in the ing of resources" among people.

College students, those most pliable of experimental animals, were sent into the streets with instructions to ask passersby

Some were well dressed, some were shabbylooking. Some were submissive (shoulders slumped, eyes averted, right hand out); others were "dominant" (head erect, lots of eye contact).

Here are the results: Male panhandlems. The submissive posture and the begging hand are essential. Approach females, especially single ones, and especially when they are eating.

Female panhandlers. These are in general more effective than male ones. Approach single men submissively for the best results. Next best is to approach - in a dominant posture - single females or single men who are not eating.

The auto industry is worried about car sales if gas prices and car prices go up under the President's energy program. We can't see much cause to worry.

In Europe, gas sells for $1.30 to $2.20 per gallon, depending on which country you're in. But the use of public transportation is dropping despite governmental ef-forts to encourage it. The highways are

If the auto industry could look ahead a little further, they would see the real worry is whether there will be any fuel. That's the only problem that is going to keep the average man from buuing a car.

But can the President convince the auto industry or the driver that the time to start saving fuel is now? Another president, William Howard Taft, said it pretty well back in 1912:

"Too many people don't care what happens so long as it doesn't happen to them."

Minute Meditation

Just suppose the Lord would begin tomorrow to make people

Just suppose the Lord would begin tomorrow to make people as sick as they claim to be on Sunday.
Just suppose the Lord should take away the child whom the parents use as an excuse for staying away from church services.
Just suppose the Lord should have everyone stoned to death for coveteousness as was Achan.
Just suppose — and then, with the Lord's help, go forth and live as if eternity was soon coming. IT IS! "I come quickly" seith the Lord saith the Lord.

EDITORS NOTE: Second

Continuing in this issue of continuing in this issue of the NEWS, we are re-running some of the major news stories that occured in our area in 1977. We hope you will enjoy looking back at the east year in this at the past year in this week's paper and the final installment in next week's issue.

Blizzard

Taken from the Feb. 3, 1977 issue of The Akron-Mentone News.

Snow whipped by strong winds paralyzed the area Friday, leaving residents stranded or isolated.

Coupled with sub-zero temperatures, the result was a frigid weekend spent digging out from a storm that placed the state in a blizzard crisis.

All Tippecanee Valley schools dismissed early Wednesday as the first of a series of storms battered the area. They were still closed yesterday while work crews attempted to clear already snow-filled right of ways.

SR 19 improved

Taken from from July 28, 1977 issue of The Akron-Mentone News. Indiana State Highway employees began installing new culverts along SR 19, the preliminary stage to a general resurfacing set to begin next week. Plans call for the stretch of road between Akron and Mentone to be recoated.

Family Life

by Renee Norlander

"Diamonds are a girls hest friend" as the saying goes, and it may well be true for many. But how many of us know the proper ways of keeping those diamonds shining as they should? Or for that matter, how well do we take care of any of our jewelry. We talk of things being "worth their weight in gold," but do we know how to care for that precious material?

I did a little research, and found that it is important to keep jewelry clean. Not only will it preserve it, but the fabulous shine is worth the work.

If your jewelry isn't up to par, perhaps these suggestions on how to care for it will help:

-Costume jewelry that is coated with gold or silver-colored plate can be cleaned by dipping it in a solution of mild soap and water. But if glass or paste "stones" are glued to the jewelry, wipe the solution on with a soft cloth and dry immediately. Neck chains can be scrubbed gently with a toothbrush after an initial soap-and-water dipping.

-Pearls, both real and artificial, are under constant attack by two common enemies, hair spray and cologne, which damage their outer coating. Clean them often - work up a lather in your hands with mild soap and water, rub the pearls gently, then pat them dry with a towel.

-Silver jewelry that becomes tarnished should be cleaned with silver polish, rinsed and dried, and then wrapped in tissue paper.

-Wedding bands, engagement rings and other jewelry containing gold and/or precious stones can be soaked in a commercially prepared jewelry cleaner. Or you can make your own - to one cup water add one table-spoon ammonia and one teaspoon liquid detergent. Never soak any piece of jewelry that has pasted-in stones or pearls (you could loosen the stones and damage the pearls). And if a ring or bracelet has an antiqued look (darker color in recessed parts of the design), just swish the piece through the cleaner instead of soaking it. That way you won't clean off the oxidation that produces the dark color.

One last word of caution - even diamonds are not indestructible. If you chip the stone in your engagement ring, take it to your jeweler right away. He may have to repolish it to avoid further damage.

It'll be the Dallas Cowboys against the Denver Broncos in the big one, and big one it's gonna be as these two teams go into the Super Bowl, which will be played in New Orleans on Jan. 15, 1978, with identical records of 14 wins and only 2 loses.

Lets take a quick look at the standouts for both teams. First we have Denver and their number one man Coach Red Miller, wide receiver Haven Moses, running backs Jon Keyworth, Otis Armstrong, and Rob Lytle, quarterback Craig Morton who should have enough time to get his hip back in shape that has been hurting him for weeks. On defense there are no real bis standouts as the whole team is in on the big plays.

For Dallas you have coach Torn Landry who seems to have the Cowboys in the playoffs every year, on offense we take a look at quarterback Roger Stauback, running backs Tony Dorsett and Robert Newhouse, wide receivers Drew Pearson and Golden Richards. On defense we'll just name a few as there are so many big standouts, such as defensive lineman Harvey Martin and Ed "Too Tall" Jones, defensive backs with names like Harris, Barnes, and the rest of the backs that do just a super job all year long.

Farm incomes were squeezed during 1977, but supermarket prices continued to climb due to increased non-farm marketing

The year was one of change for Indiana farmers, highlighted by — high consumer spending with consumer savings below the longterm average.

— a moderate increase in business investment.
— strong investment in new housing. (The rate of increase in housing starts has begun to moderate, however.)

Those are some of the conclusions reached by Purdue University extension agricultural economists Lee F. Schrader and Michael Sands in a summary of economic activity during 1977.

"The index of prices of products farmers sell declined and prices of products they buy increased during the year," they said. "Meanwhile, back at the supermarket, prices paid for food increased due to increased maketing costs."

"The boom in land prices appears to have peaked, at least for a time, as the memory of $10 soybeans in May faded into headlines such as 'Large Farm Output Overrides Rising Demand' in the fall," they said. "But lower crop prices meant lower feed costs for the livestock producer and livestock prices averaged nearly the same as in 1976."

Notwithstanding most of our Akron people were happy, during the Christmas season, yet in many homes there was a deep down anxiety for someone away from home on a special errand.

Mr. and Mrs. Fletcher Stoner enjoyed the presence of their entire family including their grandchildren Christmas day. Few families as large as this one can get home on a holiday visit, but this was an exception and the parents were certainly pleased. A big dinner was a real feature on this occasion. feature on this occasion.

Grandma knew weather

Grandma knew what she was talking about when she predicted good or bad weather by such signs as a ring around the moon or an increase in frog croaking, says a top atmospheric physicist.

Dr. George Freier told the National Enquirer recently that he checked out these and other old-time theories and found they have a factual basis.

a factual basis.

"The explanation for all of these folk weather predicting methods lies not in some mystery, but in the lies not in some mystery, but in the fact that changes in humidity and barometric pressure affect the way the sky looks and the way animals and plants react to their environment," he said.

For weather changes in the next

24 hours, Grandma's way can give you lots of hints of how the weather service forecast is going to be.

Dr. Freier, professor of atmospheric physics at the University of Minnesota, made these comments about homespun weather predictions:

— Your joints are more likely to ache before a rainstorm because it occurs in an area of low acue betore a rainstorm because it occurs in an area of low barometric pressure. When there is less air pressure on your body, the gases in your joints expand and cause pains.

— Frogs croak more before a ctorm because it is preceded by storm because it is preceded by humid air. Frogs have to keep their skins wet to be comfortable, and moist air allows them to stay out of the water and croak longer.

— Fog over a pond on an autumn or spring evening warns of frost.

The fog means the temperature is falling toward the dewforming point - and if it is that far down by point - and if it is that far down by evening, it's likely to drop to freezing that night.

— If leaves show their undersides, rain is due.

A low-pressure rain system moving into an area will stir up a south wind that flips leaves over.

— A ring around the moon realy does mean rain if the weather has been clear.

POST HOLIDAY BLUES

The Holidays are over! You are settling into a winter routine. Only a few days ago friends and relatives were talking and H. Wilson Reichard, 64, died in the H. Wilson Reichard, et al. Hospital, Logansport State Hospital, Tuesday December 27. He was born February 3, 1913 in Portland to Noah and Mahala (Brumm) Reichard.

a few days ago friends and relatives were talking and laughing around the Christmas tree. Now they are gone and the ornaments and decorations are packed away.

The dragged out droopy feeling you may have has a name "Post holiday blues," says Dena Targ, Extension family life specialist at Purdue University. Its victims? Generally, people whose homes were the busiest during the holidays, older people, and those with large families.

One way to combat the blues, says Targ, is to look on the positive side. The house is easier to clean and to keep neat. Cooking for two or three is a great deal easier than

If a criminal gets shot, he gets the best medical care. He gets free legal advice and appeals. He gets good prison care. We even can send them to college.

What does the victim get? Not a red penny. Talk about a class that's really walked on and it's the victims of crime.

People have been saying that for years, but precious little has been done about it.

Now, however, there are signs that legislators in some states are getting ready to act. A bill now being debated in the Florida legislature makes sense to us.

Offenders of all kinds would pay into a victim restitution fund.

A surcharge of $5 would be added to the fine or court costs of every person convicted of any type of crime. In addition, a $10 per month fee would be collected from all offenders out on parole and on proba-

The fund would be operated like the unemployment compensation program. A violent crime victim who isn't covered by traditional insurance or welfare benefits could get payment for:

Medical bills growing out of criminal assault, including a small award for pain and suffering.

Lost wages between the time the victim is assaulted and when the Social Security program will provide benefits. Funeral expenses to survivors if the victim dies.

It makes sense. Crime victims should he treated like we treat the victims of natural disasters such as floods, tornadoes and hurricanes. It's a catastrophe insurance that is paid for by the offenders rather than the victims.

Adult Ed. to start

BY SHERRY BLAKENSHIP

Adult Basic Education classes will begin January 30 at Burket Elementary School. Classes will be in session from 7:00 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. on Monday and Wednesday

ABE is for anyone 16 or over, not currently enrolled in high school, who wishes to improve their reading, writing, or math skills. The program is federally funded.

It's major purpose is to teach reading, writing, and math skills.

The classes are new and different. They are designed specifically for adults. Learning materials are geared to adult needs and interests. Individualism needs and interests. Individualism is stressed in the program. The indicidual starts where he is, proceeds at his own pace, and sets the goals he wishes to reach. The

Claims up

Unemployment insurance claims filed last week totaled 62,734, some 1,719 more than during the week before.

John F. Coppes of the Indiana Employment Security Division said Christmas vacations in various industries and schools (assecting cafeteria workers) caused regular and special unemployment assistance initial claims to increase. Previous claims to increase. Previous layoffs contributed to a rise in continued claims.

Learn to cope with stress

Stress is a word we hear a lot.

Stress is a work we hear a for. It's part of our everyday existence. We can't get rid of stress—but we can learn to cope with it.

There are two kinds of stress—from physical activity and from mental-emotional activity. Stress from emotional frustration is more likely to produce disease, such as ulcers. Physical exercise, on the other hand, can relax you and help you deal with mental stress.

Here are some tips to help you get a handle on stress:

Work it off — If you're angry or work it off — If you're angry or upset, try to blow off steam physically by running, playing tennis, or gardening. Even taking a walk can help. Physical activity allows you a "fight" outlet for mental stress.

Talk out your worries - It helps to share worries with someone you trust and respect. If you find yourself becoming preoccupied with emotional problems, it might be wise to seek a professional guidance counselor or psychologist. This is not admitting defeat. It's acknowledging you are an intelligent human being who knows when to ask for help. Learn to accept what you cannot change.

Avoid self medication — Many but they don't help you involved.

Many researchers believe that television violence has harmful effects on children. Consider, however, what harmful effects stelevision might have on adults. "TV watching could be keeping family members away from each other. There could be a strong relationship between the amount of television watching and family tension," said Paul C. "Family and Children Service's have a greater number of upset people calling after holidays and more crime is reported within families - a spouse beating another spouse, parents beating upchildren and vice versa - during holidays and it might be a blessing if TV watching is going to keep people from violence and destruction," he said.

But holidays or no holidays, some families spend a lot of time in front of the television set - and being entertained is not their only motive. As Rosenblatt and Psychologist Michael R. Cunningham have found out, television watching can be a way from each other, even when they are in each other's presence. They may all be sitting in the living room, but the television is doing all of the talking. In houses where there is a great deal of friction among the immates, with neonle being rome to frequent Cunningham added that 'maybe no one's ever watching the TV. It's just there to make the background noise."

To gather the data for this study, Cunningham went to 64 random households and asked one person in each house to fill out a question-naire. Among the 64 households,

Cunningham said. In an average American household, the television is on for six hours a day, and an average American adult spends about two and a half hours watching. Many people interviewed had some complaints about television - the noise they made, and the time spent watching, for instance.

"I don't moralize on the findings of my research," Rosenblatt said.

Taken from the November 17, 1977 Akron-Mentone News,

With fans struggling to keep warm in the wind and snow, Tip-pecanoe Valley High School's mighty Vikings had an easy time of upsetting the Seeger High School's team with a victory of 30-0 on Friday night. In a game which proved that the Vikings deserve a state title, Seeger's Patriots managed to gain only 29 yards in the entire game, compared to the Vikings 413 yards.

Scoring for TVHS were Jeff Shriver with a one yard run, (PAT good), Ray Rockhill with a four yard run (PAT good), Shriver with a one yard run (run after good), and Greg Utter with a 50 yard run (run after good).

This Friday, the Vikings mee Indianapolis Ritter at Indianapolis Lawrence Central for the Class A State Championship. In a pep session following last Friday's game, Coach Charlie Smith said "We don't plan on going to Indy and playing second to anybody. We are going to win the state title!"

Whether you are married, single, separated, divorced, or widowed, you should be aware of the new credit laws that can help women.

The Equal Credit Opportunity Act, which be-came effective Oct. 1975, prohibits lenders from discriminating against applicants on the basis of sex and marital status. Although all women can profit from the benefits of the ECOA and its subsequent provisions, married women will notice the most substantial changes. As of June 1, 1977, all married couples may apply for joint credit accounts and have their credit history reported in their individual names. If you already have a joint account which is shown only in your husband's name, you should request that the account be listed in your name as well. You and your husband must both be responsible for maintaining the account and will both benefit from good credit histories. However, if payments are not met, the information will be reflected as part of your credit history as well as your husband's. Homemakers without a continuous source of income can develop individual credit standing through a joint account and will be better able to obtain credit on their own if the husband becomes ill or the family is faced with an emergency.

If you are married, you should be aware that lenders cannot ask you about child bearing plans or methods of birth control and must include your income in determining a mortgage.

If you are a young women just entering the job market, you would normally have a minimal credit and employment history. You should not let that deter you from applying for credit. Under the new legislation, the right to the same credit terms as a man with a similar financial history is assured.

If you are separated or divorced, your child support and alimony received regularly can be considered income at your option. In addition, the new regulations governing joint accounts can help you because you will have your own established credit history when your husband is gone.

If you have applied for credit and your application has been denied, the creditor will send you an explanation. Then, if the decision was based on misinformation, you may contact your credit bureau so that you can correct your credit file.

The taller Valley Vikings took on the Argos Dragons this past week and were Victorious by the score of

Leading the Vikings, and all scorers for the game, was Susan Eryman with her 21 markers followed by Cathy Welch with 12 and Kay Hively with 8. High scorers for the Dragons were B. Thompson with 17 and Metzger

In JV action there was a change, a change from playing 4 quarters to playing only 2. This was because Argos only had a little over a handfull of players and they needed some of them for the Varsity game.

Caston bows to Vikes

The Caston Comets played host to the Tippecanoe Valley Vikings last Friday evening, and polite they were as it looked like they they at back and let the Vikes shoot the basketball from wherever they wished, which seemed to be deadly as Valley won easily 85-62.

The Vikes also out shot the Caston squad as they were 36-of 64 for 56 per cent while Caston shot 42 per cent from the charity stripe Valley went 13 of 23 for 57 per cent as the Comets shot 52 per cent.

JV falls short

The final score of 46-44 showed exactly how close the game was, as the biggest point spread at the end of any one quarter was 4, as the Valley had that lead 35-31 at the end of the third stanza.

With 3:01 left in the final quarter the Comets tied the game at 39 apiece, and at that point I realized it would be a rugged game in the last three minutes. Rugged it was as it was nip and tuck until the four second mark where Caston put the ball through the hoop for the final score. The Vikes called a timeout at that point to set up one last play but it was to no avail as they threw the ball away and never got a shot off.

The boys team get back into action this Saturday when they travel to Wawasee, game time is

To the Vikings only playing two quarters didn't make any difference as they poured it on to win the contest 20-6.

The taller Valley Vikings took on the Argos Dragons this past week and were Victorious by the score of

of 53-39.
Leading the Vikings, and all scorers for the game, was Susan Eryman with her 21 markers followed by Cathy Welch with 12 and Kay Hively with 8. High scorers for the Dragons were B. Thompson with 17 and Metzger with 14

In JV action there was a change, a change from playing 4 quarters to playing only 2. This was because Argos only had a little over a handfull of players and they needed some of them for the Varsity game.

Caston bows to Vikes

The Caston Comets played host to the Tippecanoe Valley Vikings last Friday evening, and polite they were as it looked like they just sat back and let the Vikes shoot the basketball from wherever they wished, which seemed to be deadly as Valley won easily 85-62. as Valley won easily 85-62.

The Vikes also out shot the Caston squad as they were 36-of 64 for 56 per cent while Caston shot 42 per cent from the charity stripe Valley went 13 of 23 for 57 per cent as the Comets shot 52 per cent.

JV falls short

The final score of 46-44 showed exactly how close the game was, as the biggest point spread at the end of any one quarter was 4, as the Valley had that lead 35-31 at the end of the third stanza.

with 3:01 left in the final quarter the Comets tied the game at 39 apiece, and at that point I realized it would be a rugged game in the last three minutes. Rugged it was as it was nip and tuck until the four as it was nip and thek until the four second mark where Caston put the ball through the hoop for the final score. The Vikes called a timeout at that point to set up one last play but it was to no avail as they threw the ball away and never got a shot

The boys team get back into action this Saturday when they travel to Wawasee, game time is To the Vikings only playing two quarters didn't make any dif-ference as they poured it on to win the contest 20-6.

q—1'll be so in a tew months and plan to enroll for Medicare medical insurance. I won't be entitled to the hospital insurance part because I never worker under social security. Can I buy Medicare hospital insurance?

A—Yes. People 65 or older who haven't worked long enough under eocial security to be entitled to Medicare hospital insurance can buy this protection by paying a monthly premium. The basic hospital insurance premium is $54. In order to buy hospital insurance, however, you also must enroll and pay the monthly premium for medical insurance. The medical insurance premium is $7.70 a month. These rates could go up in July.

Interview with EMS spokesman

Many Akron residents have been voicing varied opinions and questions over the performance of their local emergency ambulance

In an effort to provide answers to the questions most often asked, the NEWS contacted EMS spokesman Vernon Hucks Wednesday, and esented these questions to him:

NEWS: Why isn't the Akron ambulance manned around the clock?

There are two main reasons. First of all these people are volunteers and have their own lives to lead. It would be highly impractical and almost impossible for most of them to spend a great deal of time at the garage. Secondly, although the group has been quite busy, there has not been enough demand for 24 hour staffing. Even though personnel are not physically at the station, by utilization of the personal pager system the full crew can be at the ambulance in 3 minutes or less.

"...The full crew can be at the ambulance in 3 minutes or less..."

NEWS: In case of an emergency, how should EMS be notified?

The best way is to call 223-4911, collect if necessary. If you can't remember the number, the second best method would be to contact the Akron police or the Fulton County Sherriff's Police. If you should find it necessary to call the operator, be specific as to which ambulance service is desired. There have been instances in which the operator has contacted the Cass County Ambulance Service for runs in the Akron area. No matter which method is used, always give directions that you could follow yourself and try to let EMS know what the emergency is.

NEWS: Does the ambulance have to transport to Woodlawn Hospital?

Since the EMS is based at Woodlawn, it is generally more convenient to go there but we are by no means limited to one hospital. All that is required of the patient or family is to inform the crew of their wishs and we will transport to the hospital of their choice. Through the use of IHERN (Indiana Hospital Emergency Radio Network) we can maintain radio contact with all hospitals in our area. Extreme emergency circumstances may dictate transport to the nearest medical facility.

NEWS: What's the difference between this type service and the type

The real difference is in the care provided to the patient. The funeral directors provided a valuable service but due to limitations beyond their control, theirs was primarily a transport function. Through the utilization of trained EMTs and a specialized vehicle, the patient receives care enroute that was formerly not initiated until arrival at the hospital.

Winter prediction

After last years brutal winter, there is more interest than usual in trying to predict what the remainder of this years winter will be like.

So much interest, in fact, that several Congressmen have pressed the National Weather Service for a long-range prediction.

However, the weather experts say any long-term forecast is a "guesstimate" and is no more reliable than an assumption that last winter's weather pattern will continue.

They add that there is no general tendency for any type of winter to repeat itself. Several warm winters preceded the last one, which was of a kind that occurs only once in 40 or 50 years. Its last match das the 1917-18 winter.

This is quite a contrast between this highpaid waffling and the flat-out prediction by the Oshweken (Canada) medicine woman that we are in for a bad winter. She just peeled an ear of corn and said all those husks means the winter will be bad.

As a clincher, she cites the plentiful hickory nut crop. That, she says, was engineered by the Great Spirit, to help the squirrels through a

The Great Spirit is shoving these bad winters at us, she explains, as punishment for the "way in which the white man is treating the Indian.

"A memorable dining ex-perience." "Unique among fine food establishments." So read the slogans which entice customers into the nation's restaurants. Because the slogan is sometimes misleading, the customer has learned to regard such advertisements with a jaundiced eye.

"The success of each restaurant depends upon the credibility that restaurant can maintain with its customers," says Robert D. Buchanan, Extension restaurant, hotel and institutional management specialist at Purdue University. As more people dine out, the average customer is becoming more knowledgeable concerning food and service. If a restaurant promises something, it had better be prepared to deliver or the customer will not give it a second chance.

Many restaurants fail because they "broke the faith" with their customers by promising a feature or service and then not delivering.

Two basic types of promises are Two basic types of promises are made to consumers, says Buchanan. First are direct and overt promises made by the restaurant's advertising and public relations. The second type of promise is a reflection of the reputation of the restaurant.

Customers come to restaurants to get what they are promised—fine food, good entertainment, interesting decor, reasonable prices, quick and pleasant service, values, etc. When these positive motivators for consumers are proclaimed without qualification in proclamed without qualification in advertising, the customer fully expects to get these values. They will not stand for delivery of empty promises and rip-offs," says Buchanan. Since consumers are not captive to a particular restaurant, aggressive competitors welcome consumers with open arms and clucks of sympathy —then try to fulfill their promises. then try to fulfill their promises.

NEWS: Who staffs the Akron ambulance?

The group is made up of dedicated members of this community. They are people who have chosen to leave behind the apathy and lack of conem prevalent in other communities and do something worthwhile for their friends and neighbors. The roster includes 18 state certified EMTs and 8 drivers. The drivers all have a good working knowledge of the vehicle and are certified in CPR. From time to time, non-certified personnel will be used in conjunction with certified EMTs in a purely student status. The people in this group not only have completed specialized training in their specific field but also participate in an ongoing in-service training program.

NEWS: How are Akron ambulance runs dispatched?

The initial call is placed to 223-4911. After obtaining all necessary information, EMS personnel activate the personal pagers used by the Akron group. Upon receiving the page, the local members on call respond to the ambulance or directly to the scene depending on the proximity. Only after the first three steps have been completed can the ambulance depart for the scene.

NEWS: What is an EMT?

An EMT is a person trained to perform emergency medical care without the benefit of most modern, medical tools. He is limited to the use of only the most fundamental equipment and most basic techniques. Procedures such as administration of drugs, de-fibrilization, IV therapy, and intubation are denied him and restricted to the hands of more highly trained personnel such as paramedics. EMTs are not paramedics. To become an EMT, one must pass a comprehensive 91 hour course (81 hours class and 10 hours observation) and a fairly stiff state board whereas paramedic training can range up to 1,000 hours.

NEWS: What is the final bill based upon?

The cost varies from run to run due to the fact that every run is different. There is the basic charge for all runs and additional charges for such services as oxygen, suction, extrication, Signal 10 (extreme emergency) runs, and CPR. Each patient is directly charged for any disposable supplies used in his care and there is also a reasonable charge for out-of-county, loaded mileage.

Special problems

Father & Son farming

The decision to bring a son (or daughter) into the farm business creates a new set of problems and requires a new set of problems and requires a new set of decisions for the farm family.

Purdue agricultural economists presented a detailed discussion of the opportunities and pitfalls of "Farming together" as the opening program of Purdue Farm Science Days. Farming together provides an opportunity for the young person with ambition to team up with the older person with capital and experience for the benefit of both.

Participating in the program were economists Robert Taylor, George Patrick, Julian Atkinson, Edward E. Carson, John E. Kadlec, and Robert Suter. Suter was joined in a panel presentation during the afternoon by two Hoosier farmers—Donald Mennen, rural Kirklin, and Richard Ward, rural Crawfordsville.

The degree of success and rural Crawfordsville.

The degree of success and happiness which comes from a father-son farming operation is strongly influenced by the way the partners work together, the economists said. How well they work together is determined by the wisdom of the choice of partner, the size and earning power of the farm business, their operating agreement, and the extent to which they try to foster an atmosphere of they try to foster an atmosphere of constructive communication and goodwill.

The first logical step is for the parties involved to mutually agree on what the long-run goals are, they said, and to perhaps have some approximation of when these might be accomplished.

Questions are often raised, they noted, about what legal form of business organization should be used. A father-son agreement can function as any one or some combination of the three major legal forms of business organization: A Proprietorship, Partnership, or Corporation. Regardless of the legal organization, however, the following basic questions have to be answered, they said:

1. Who furnishes and or owns the capital?

Usually, a son or daughter enters the farm business with the idea of eventually owning it and of growing in management responsibility while moving toward that goal, the economists aggreed

The first management decisions made by the new member of the business are thus very important, the economists said. They should be decisions which show results quickly and which should have enough impact to be considered important by the established member of the business. Success in these decisions will lead to opportunities for more responsibility and a continuing larger role in the decision process. decision process.

Bringing a son into the farm business is in itself a vote of confidence, they said. Estate planning which accompanies the process further deepens the bond between father and son—on both a family and business basis. Decisions concerning the organization of farm partnerships are unique in that the family and the farm business tend to be more intertwined than in most other vocations, they noted.

A father and son who work constructively together, have a large enough business to insure adequate income, and develop a sound operating agreement so that responsibilities, costs and rewards are shared fairly, will likely have a successful farm partnership.

Order kes Build

na now

Now is a good time to buy a building. There's more time for reviewing needs and planning carefully so you can be sure your building is exactly what you want to meet your requirements. It's a good time, too, to take advantage of offseason savings, as well as protect yourself against higher prices sure to come along during the busy season.

Get extra cash for immediate needs. Depending on the building you buy, we'll send you a cash rebate of $200.00 to $2,000.00 or more, as soon as it's completed. No strings, no minimum or maximum purchase required. Handy extra cash for many things—a winter vacation, helping with year-end bills, or something else you've got in mind.

Pay later, no installments 'til late spring or summer. If you choose to finance your building through a Wickes Credit plan, your installment payments can be deferred up to three months following building completion. Enjoy your building right away, pay for it later.

Flexible construction scheduling
All buildings ordered under Cash Rebate offer subject to erection at convenience of Wickes Buildings, with construction under way by May 1, 1978 or sooner.

Accidental hypothermia:

winter hazard for the elderly

Everybody agrees that to save energy we should all turn back our thermostats to 65 degrees during the day, and even lower at night. But for people over 65 who may be vulnerable to hypothermia, the National Institute on Aging recommends keeping the thermostat above 65 degrees all the

What is accidental hypothermia? It's a drop in body temperature, and it can be fatal. Older people are particularly at risk. If a person is 65 years or older and has a disease of the veins or arteries, is taking a certain type of drug, such as phenothiazine (a commonly prescribed drug used to treat prescribed arrug uses to the anxiety, depression or nausea); or has a body temperature regulating system that is not working properly, he or she may be unnerable. And, unfortunately the most likely visiting of accidental most likely victims of accidental hypothermia are those older people who are unable to afford adequate heating. Inadequate heating, combined with the inability to respond normally to cold, presents the greatest risk. But even at temperatures as high as 60 degrees F-85 degrees F accidental hypothermia can happen.

How can the average person tell it's happening? The only sure way to detect hypothermia is with a special low-reading thermometer whose scale goes below the usual point of 94 degrees F (34 degreesC). But if you shake down a regular thermometer as low as 94 degrees, and the suspected victim's body temperature does not rise above 94 degrees, you should call the doctor immediately.

Other ways to tell include the

Other ways to tell include the following signs:

— Most victims of hypothermia do not shiver. (This is the body's way of responding to the cold and generating heat.)

— Most victims seem unaware of the cold. (While others shiver and put on sweaters, hypothermia victims insist they are comfortable.)

Some victims experience dizziness or vertigo when changing

— Low blood pressure, irregular

— Low blood pressure, irregular or slowed heartbeat, slurred speech, drowsiness, or slow breathing may be other signs. What should you do? First of all, if you know an elderly person living alone, be sure to check with him or her every day. A person who lives alone with very few visitors has an even greater risk of extended exposure to the risk of extended exposure to the

If you suspect hypothermia, call the doctor immediately. Recovery depends on the severity and time exposed to the cold. But generally, if the body temperature didn't drop if the body temperature didn't drop below 90 degrees, chances of recovery are good.

To prevent accidental hypothermia in persons over 65, the thermostat should be set now lower than 65 degrees F, and, for those over 75 years of age, the room temperature should be at least 70 degrees F. (21 degrees C.)

Hanly Blackburn was a real happy lad Tuesday morning. He has a right to be happy and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Blackburn, have a righteous right to be very proud of him. Hanly works at odd jobs about town summer and winter, whenever he can find a thing to do. The result of all this is, that he came bounding into this office with a certificate of deposit for one hundred dollars on the Akron Exchange bank with this he is buying war savings stamps. Hanly is in the freshman high school class and from now on his personal earnings will be larger, as he is bigger, older and stronger than when he earned and laid by his first one hundred. There are young menabout more than 21 years old who cannot show a dollar in the bank, nor any evidence that they have spent that much money in preparing for or qualifying for a life job of any kind. They probably have earned as much as Hanly but wasted it.

In view of the extended zero weather, our woodmen should keep busy. Burn wood along with coal in your furnace. We have been burning more than half wood in the Akron News furnace since December 8 and our consumption of coal has been very small since that time, but of course our wood bill is higher. But we are happy in the thought that his plan of ours has released to others several ton of coal.

Pesticide-use program

A program enabling agricultural producers to become certified to producers to become certified to purchase and use restricted-use pesticides will be conducted January 23 and 30 at Rochester High School lecture room. Participants need to attend both evenings (7:30-9:45 p.m.)

New state and federal pesticide laws became effective Oct. 21, 1977. All pesticides (including herbicides, tinsecticides, fungicides, fumigants etc.) are being classified by the Environmental Protection Agency as either for general use or for vironmental revocation Agency as either for general use or for restricted use. General use ones can be purchased by anyone. Restricted-use pesticides that are labeled as such can be purchased only by someone who has a permit. Until restricted-use pesticides are labeled as such on the dealers shelves, they can be purchased and used as if they are general-use

Producers of agricultural commodities can be eligible for a permit to buy and use restricted-use pesticides by participating in a 4-4½ hour program and satisfactorily completing a work

Good dieting advice

Did you ever read the suggested servings in the Basic Four Food Plan and feel you would blow up like a blimp if you ate all that food? If so, you're not alone.

"According to this food selection guide," says Sandra Simons, Extension food and nutrition specialist at Purdue University, "an adult should eat two servings of dairy foods, two servings of protein foods, four servings of grain products and four servings of fruits and vegetables daily."

grain products and rour servings or fruits and vegetables daily." Sounds like a lot doesn't it? "The total number of calories consumed in this plan can vary widely depending on the selection of food, the serving size and the way the food is prepared," advises

The type of food selected makes a big difference in the calorie count. For example, one serving from the dairy group can be a glass of skim milk (90 calories) or 11/2 or skin milk (90 calories) of the cups of ice cream (390 calories). Somewhere in between caloriewise is yogurt, cottage cheese, natural cheese or whole milk.

Choices from the meat group are important too. A three-ounce piece of broiled lean club steak is 190 calories. If the fat is eaten, the caloric content is 400.

Since the cereal group contains Since the cereal group contains cakes, cookies, pies, crackers and doughnuts, the caloric count varies widely. One piece of plain bread contains 70-80 calories. Substitute a blueberry or corn muffin and the caloric content grows to 110-130. Of course, a piece of cake or pie or a doughnut contains even more doughnut contains even more

The serving size makes a big difference. A serving size for fruits and vegetables is only ½ to ¾ cup, a medium size fruit, ½ grapefruit, etc. A meat group serving is only 2-3 ounces of lean meat, 2 eggs, or 1 cup of dried beans. (Most restaurants serve 8-12 ounce steaks 2½ to 4 times the recommended daily servings) Don't forget, a three-ounce serving of lean club steak supplies 190 calories, but an eight-ounce serving supplying 550 calories is usually eaten.

Preparation of foods also adds calories. A medium baked potato supplies approximately 125 calories. If two tablespoons of margarine or sour cream are added, the number of calories increases to 325. Adding cream sauce to vegetables can triple the number of calories.

Wawasee downs Valley 70-69

Most Viking fans went to Wawaseë thinking this would be one of Valley's closest played games, and close it was as the final score of 70-69, in favor of the Warriors, proved this to be true. In the Vikes first loss of the year, they had four players in double figures led by Rick Shepherds 21, Eric Alspaughs 16, Jeff Leckrones 12, and Tim Conrads 10. For Wawasee Sticher had 24, Smith 18, and Packer 10.

and Packer 10.

and Packer 10.

The rebounding and shooting percentages are two statistics that are hard to believe as Alspaugh had 10 of Valleys 21 caroms. The Warriors had a total of 19. Percentage-wise, Valley looked strong but were still on the short end as they were 31 of 46 for 67 percent from the field compared to the Warrior's 22 of 51 for 43 percent.

Warrior's 22 of 31 for 43 percent.
From the charity stripe, the Vikes hit 100 percent as they were 7 of 7.
Valley will try and get back on the winning track this weekend as they travel to Triton Friday night for a Three Rivers Conference game and are at home Saturday against Maconaquah, a revenge match from last years loss to the

JV's win

The JV squad was victorious by the score of 41-33 with the game only going through three quarters due of the lack of players on the Manchester team.

High scorers for the Vikings and the game were Alan Unzicker and Chad Tucker who both netted 10. For the Squires Pyle, Hippenspeel, and Gilbert all had 7 apiece.

In another close battle for the Valley's JV squad, the Vikes proved to be the winner 58-56 in overtime.

The Vikings, who shot 19 of 4l for 46 percent from the field and 20 of 30 for 67 percent from the foul line, were led by Jeff Pritchards 19 and Allen Utters 12 markers while Tim Alspaugh grabbed 10 rebounds.

shortage? Teacher

Remember the teacher shortage of a few years ago? It's back!
At least there's a demand in a few fields for teachers who can fill jobs in secondary schools starting this month, according to Alex Moody, director of the Bureau of Placement at Indiana State University.

University.
The ISU Bureau has had a surprising number of job vacancies listed within the last month for teachers of mathematics, in-dustrial arts, special education and sciences. And candidates who can fill the spots are scarce.

"Most of the available candidates are restricted geographically," he said, adding that mobility and a teaching combination still are the most important requisites for job seekers in education.

Sound Off

By BOB NORLANDER

During the past three month's, THE NEWS has received several letters to the editor from writers who wish to remain anonymous. Our policy has been one of not publishing these letters, as many of them appeared to have bordered on libel or slander.

Due to the amount of the unsigned letters we have received, however, we have decided to begin a new feature this week we call SOUND OFF.

SOUND OFF will consist of these unsigned letters that we consider not slanderous or just personal attacks by someone with a chip on their shoulder.

We realize that the smaller size of our communities is a great influence for the reason many writers prefer to remain anonymous. People, in many cases, feel that by signing their name to their opinionated letters would result in community gossip, ridicule, or resentment if it ran against the majority of community opinion.

Therefore, beginning this week and periodically thereafter, we will run these comments, letters and opinions. THE NEWS invites your phone calls, postcards, or letters with no names or questions necessary on anything you would care to "SOUND OFF" on, within the framework of good taste.

This week we are publishing some of the letters and comments we have received and kept in the last few weeks. We hope you find SOUND OFF to be an interesting and welcome addition to THE NEWS and our communities.

display room and lecture and meeting facilities, a principal part of the program was a banquet for 500 to 700 people. No catering service in the area could handle it. With the help of Forrest (Skinny) Higgins, muck crops farmer and high school friend of Gast, a suggestion was made to form a club and fry fish for the occasion.

What next

What are they going to do to us next? Shucks, now they've gone and taken all the fun out of eating.

A while back, it was Red Dye No. something or other. (Sounds like the name of some fancy perfume.) The red dye, used in making hot dogs, maraschino cherries and red licorice was banned as a possible cancer-causing agent.

Licorice was already suspect because it was said to deplete the body's potassium.

But an un-dyed maraschino cherry comes out sickly yellow. Yuck.

Then there's PBB. The chemical is found in higher concentrations in meat from certain parts of the cow's body. So you start to wonder whether the hamburger you just ate came from the part near the bone or near the skin, from near the rump or near the shoulder.

PBB makes us wonder about all dairy products - milk, cheese and butter, for instance. Of course butter eggs, too - are already bad news because they contain cholesterol.

Then again, you don't have to worry about PBB in fake milk and imitation cheese. There are non-dairy coffee creamers. And a frozen pizza maker has been experimenting with artificial cheese.

Caffeine is bad for you. If, that is, you can afford your daily caffeine fix with the price of coffee so high.

Sugar is bad for your teeth as well as being highly refined, which is a no-no.

But now they tell us sugar substitutes are dangerous. Cyclamates have already been taken off the market. Now they may doom us all to eternal fat by taking away our saccharin.

Out with diet soft drinks, the life blood of manu.

PBB isn't funny. Nor is the loss of saccharin to thousands of diabetics who depend on it to add a little sweetness to their lives.

But gee whiz. We know drinking and smoking are bad for us. Now they're telling us eating is dangerous.

I like Mrs. Norlander's stories, especially about animals.

Concerning school closings for snow in TVSC. Why is it the superintendent cannot make this decision before the school buses are loaded and at school or many are stuck? Why is it when the county highway has declared the county roads closed and contacted the superintendent, he still thinks the buses must

It is very apparent that his decisions are based on some of the following:

1. Not very concerned with the child's welfare.

Not concerned with bus expense and wrecker bills.
 More concerned with his morning swim at TVSC pool then making a decision at the proper time.
 Feels that he can make a better decision by not listening to

4. Feels that he can make a better decision by not listening to the advice of three bus drivers, the county highway superin-tendents of Kosciusko county and Fulton county. The important questions to these issues are: How long shall the parents tolerate these incompetent decisions—until a child is hurt or killed? What can we as parents do to insure these was hearbyled. do to insure that we have school officials who are capable and inclined to make proper decisions?

Swine vacinations

As cold weather signals an increase in pseudorables in swine, Indiana swine producers must consider whether they should vaccinate for the disease.

The answer, according to Purdue University statements of the disease.

University veterinarians, depends on where the herd is located, the type of swine operation, and the types of swine operation in the immediate vicinity.

"The vaccine is a herd management tool to help producers prevent losses from pseudorabies. However, herd management practices which are directed toward preventing in-troduction of the disease into a herd are more important," said Dr. Ken Meyer, Purdue extension veterinarian, and Dr. Charles Kanitz, associate professor of veterinary virology.

If the swine operation is located in a high risk area (such as the north central Indiana counties of Carroll, Clinton, Howard, etc.) vaccination is probably indicated. the veterinarians said. If it is located in a low-incidence area such as the southern quarter of the state, the need for vaccination is not as great. If a neighbor's herd is infected, a high risk for acquiring the disease also exists, they said.

According to the veterianarians swine farms located in high risk areas that sell only to slaughter have little problem in deciding to vaccinate. Seedstock producers must consider the problem of the vaccine producing antibodies which appear in the blood. These make the animal positive to test at a later date and will make it subject to regulatory restrictions on movements of positive pigs. If the swine operation is located close to other swine operations that purchase feeder pigs, the danger of pseudorabies is increased and vaccination should be condered, warned.

A great deal remains to be determined about vaccine use at this time, Meyer and Kanitz cautioned. Widespread field use of the vaccine should reveal any new problems or benefits associated with its use. Currently, producers should discuss all of the factors involved in a vaccination program with their veterinarian before making the decision, they advised. Producers should pay close attention to management practices which are directed toward preventing introduction of the disease into a herd.

The veterinarians listed the followine six practices for this following six practices for this Test all additions to the herd 1. Test an adulthis to the left for pseudorabies before purchase. 2. Isolate (Not just separate) the new animals for at least three weeks and retest for pseudorabies. 3. Add the animals to the herd only after the retest is negative.

4. Avoid contact with any other swine. Change clothes and boots before entering the swine operation if there has been contact with any other swine off the farm.

5. Insofar as possible keep wildlife, stray dogs and cats out of the operation.

6. Do not mix feeder pig operations with seedstock or farrow to finish operations on the

Why Smoke? Because You're A Nicotine Slave

"Don't ask me why I smoke says the grim-looing man in the Winston cigaret ad. Columbia Psychologist Stanley Schachter, 54, agrees that it is better not to ask. The Winston man or any other heavy smoker would probably say he smokes for pleasure, or because it calms his nerves, gives him something to do his hands or solves his idian oral problems.

"Almost any smoker can con-vince you and himself that he smokes for psychological reasons or that smoking does something positive for him - it's all very unlikely," says Schachter, a vir-tual chain smoker himself.

"We smoke because we're physically addicted to nicotine.

Schachter and his staff reached Schachter and his staff reached the conclusion after conducting a series of experiments over the past 4 years. He found that heavy smokers, given only low-nicotine cigarets to smoke, tried to com-pensate; to inhale their normal quota of nicotine, they smoked more cigarets and puffed more frequently. Even so, some were not able to make up the difference and showed withdrawal symptoms; increased eating, irritability and poorer concentration.

The researchers then went further by testing volunteers to see whether smoking eases stress.

On the assumption that the more anxious a person is, the less pain he will tolerate, groups of smokers and nonsmokers were asked to endure as much electric shock as they could bear.

Smokers proved to be sissies when deprived of cigarets or given only low-nicotine brands.

Those supplied with armloads of high-nicotine brands to smoke accepted a higher number of shocks - but no more than the control group of nonsmokers.

Schachter's conclusion: "Smoking doesn't reduce anxiety or clam the

Not smoking increases anxiety by throwing the smoker into with-drawal."

Then why do most smokers moke so heavily when under

Schachter's answer: because stress depletes body nicotine, and the smoker has to puff more to keep at his usual nicotine level

Schachter agrees with other researchers who have recommended development of a new high-nicotine, low-tar, low-gas cigaret. Current low-tar, lownicotine brands, he says, may be lethal., "You wind up spending more, smoking more and getting far more dangerous combusion products for the same nicotine payoff as stronger cigarets. "Worse, it's probably a good guess that the low-tar brands are worse, it's photonia are hooking millions of teen-agers. "When I was young, that first Camel or Lucky made so many kids sick that they stayed off cigarets for good. Now so many brands are so weak that the kids don't get sick enough to stop right away. They just get hooked." Schachter's own "biochemical mechanism" currently requires 2% packs a day, and he sees little hope of cutting down. "It's possible to control and restrict smoking." but the price appears to be a choronic state of withdrawal." He admits that like millions of other smokers, "I'm not

Tangy New Pear And Cheese Salad

Bartlett pears are at their flavorsome best with cheese and a touch of lemon. "Bartlett Bitter Lemon Salad" combines these flavormates in an unusual and tempting way. Bitter lemon sparkling beverage is used in the gelatin, along with French dressing, giving a particularly refreshing flavor. Slices of California Bartlett pears and Cheddar cheese cubes are folded in along with watercress. The bitter sweet flavor makes this a particularly delicious salad to serve with ham or fried chicken.

BARTLETT BITTER LEMON SALAD 2 fresh California Bartlett pears ½ cup chopped watercress ¼ cup sharp Cheddar cheese cubes

- 2 envelopes plain gelatin
  ½ cup cold water
  2 bottles (10 oz. each) bitter

Minute meditation

And the Lord said, It is not good that man should be alone; I will make a helpmeet for him.'

Gensis 2:18

"She was made of a rib taken from his side—not made out of his head, to rule over him; but out of his side, to be equal with him; under his arm to be protected and near his heart to be loved."

"Under His forming hands a creature grew, Man like, but different six; so lovely fair, That what seemed fair in all the world, seemed now Mean, or in her summed up, in her contained, and in her looks.....Grace was in all her steps, heaven in her eye In every gesture dignity and love."

guide to social held in ary 10. ed with security g gave

If a working woman interrupts her career to have children, what will this do to her social security will this do to her social security benefits? If a non-working widow remarries, can she continue to receive her late husband's benefits? Can a divorced woman draw death or retirement benefits on her former husband's work

These questions and more are answered in a new pamphlet, A Woman's Guide to Social Security, available free from the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare. For you copy, just send a postcard to the Consumer Information Center, Dept. 618F, Information Center, Dept. 618F, Pueblo, Colorado 81009.

If you're a woman who has interrupted her career to raise a family, you want to know what to expect. For you or your family to get social security benefits, you need credit for a certain amount of work, and the amount you need depends upon your seg when you depends upon your age when you become disabled, die or retire. If you stop working before you earn enough social security credits, you you stop working better you cannot be considered to consider the considered to consider the considered to consider the considered to considered the considered to considered the considere

If you want to know your Social Security credits, call your local Social Security Administration office listed in the phone book. Ask for Check Your Social Security Record, HEW publication No. (SS) 10057. It has a self-addressed, tear-off card which you complete and send. You will then receive a record of your credit to date, and a booklet explaining how social security works.

Here are other points to

Social Security Benefits for

— Widows can get social security benefits at any age if they are caring for a child under 18 years of age or a child who is disabled.

— Benefits to widows stop when they no longer have a child under eighteen or a disabled child in their care. And usually, benefits stop if you remarry.

you remarry.

— But, if you remarry at 60 or older, your widow's benefits could continue. The amount you would get would be 50 percent of the retirement benefit your deceased former husband was entitled to.

 Benefits to your children continue regardless of whether you remarry.

Social Security Benefits for

— If you are a divorcee, you are entitled to benefits when your exhusband starts getting retirement or disability payments, if you are 62 or older and were married to him at least 20 years.

him at least 20 years.

— You are also eligible if your ex-husband dies, providing that you are 60 or older (50, if you're disabled) and you were married 20 years or more.

— Or, you're eligible if you have young children entitled to benefits on his record.

Gov't. looks at garbage

The shortages of natural gas and heating oil during last year's record-breaking cold winter proved to most of us that the energy crisis is real. To help prevent future fuel shortages, government and private industry are looking in unusual places for alternate energy sources — even in garbage

They've discovered that garbage They've discovered that gaining may be a very rich source of synthetic methane gas, a substitute for natural gas. The U.S. Energy Research and Development Administration (ERDA) is funding a facility in Pompano Beach, Fla., to determine the feasibility of high volume garbageto-gas conversion. The "proof-of-concept" plant, known as RefCOM (Refuse Conversion to Methane), is being built and will be operated by Waste Management, Inc., Oak Brook, Ill.

Equipment at the RefCOM plant will mix shredded organic refuse will mix shredded organic refuse with sewage sludge, water, and nutrients, and then "cook" the mixture for five days at 140 degrees F. in special digesters. This process converts half the organic solids into methane gas and carbon dioxide gas, another useful product, and reduces the volume of wastes by 70 per cent. With a capacity to handle up to 100 tons of refuse and sludge daily, the RefCOM experimental plant is expected to produce enough methane gas to serve the gas needs of 1,000 homes. If successful, larger garbage-to-gas plants could follow with the capacity to process all of the waste of major cities.

There are other ways of getting energy from garbage. One is to incinerate some types of trash and use the heat to create steam which electric generating powers facilities.

It's also possible to tap into mature and finished sanitary landfills to recover methane gas from the decomposing buried refuse. Gas recovered in this reruse. Gas recovered in uns manner may be cleaned and used as a supplement for natural gas. It may be years before garbage makes a major impact on our total energy picture, but the garbage-to-gas concept shows that these alternative energy sources could begin to alleviate our energy shortages in the near future.

windbreak of some evergreen trees. By use of a windbreak, heat loss can be reduced by up to 23 percent.

All it takes for a suitable wind-break is about 75 pine or spruce trees planted on a 12 foot spacing to plant a windbreak about 300 feet long. As a general rule, three rows are needed for the best windbreak and this means you would need an Windbreak stock of white pine, red pine or norway spruce can now be ordered from one of the two state nurseries operated by the Indiana Division of Forestry. For north central Indiana, the planting stock should be ordered from the Jasper-Pulaski Nursery north of Medaryville on State Road 421.

The nurseries also have a variety of pine seedlings, hardwood seedlings and wildlife shrubs available this year. There is an adequate supply of black walnut, one that generally sells out early, for those wanting to establish a plantation of these valuable forest

For those wanting to develope only a small area, the nursery has some packets with a variety of six or seven species for sale at a rather nominal cost. Hardwoods, pine and wildlife shrubs are all included in the packets.

Orders are filled on a first-come. orders are meet on a miscoche, first served basis until the stock is depleted. Trees may be ordered until March 15 for pick up or shipment by UPS this spring, but to insure getting the stock preferred, they probably should be ordered as soon as possible. Already, the nursery has informed me that their supply of black locust, white oak and autumn olive is exhausted. However, if you do want some of the autumn olive shrubs, they can be purchased in the packets, as a have been reserved for them.

Farmers owe much to Indians

Spring planting time always reminds people of food — but few people realize that about 50 percent of the plants grown in America today were developed centuries of the plants grown in America today were developed centuries ago by Indians.

Dr. Raymond B. Farnsworth, Brigham Young University agronomist, says American Indians of the past were not mainly hunters and fishers. "The vast majority of them lived in villages and tilled the soil," he says.
Americans and others in the world today could not even think about going without corn, potatoes, tomatoes, peppers, watermelons,

Dr. Farnsworth also points out that Indians developed the use of rubber, certain athletic activities, rubber, certain athletic activities, the birth bark canoe, the hamock, and tapping the maple tree for its syrup. Many concepts included in the United States also came from the Indian people through their practice of tribal government well known among the early eastern settlers.

government well known among the early eastern settlers. "Probably the greatest of all the contributions by the Indians was the development of corn. It is apparent that Indians were some of the best plant breeders and apparent that intuiting were and of the best plant breeders and selectors of crop varieties about which we know," Dr. Farnsworth

"The discovery of America was the discovery of corn. Today corn is the backbone of American agriculture and had it not been for agriculture and nad it not been for com the early settlers received from the Indians, their colonies would have undoubtedly ended in tragedy and the colonization of the New World delayed for many years."

Dr. Farnsworth says corn is believed to have been developed from the annual "Teosinte" plant. Modern plant breeders have not yet duplicated the original work by the Indian in the basic development of corn.

A wild prototype of corn has never been found, and in its present highly-developed conpresent highly-developed condition, could not exist anywhere in a wild state. All of the changes and improvements which white men have made are insignificant when compared with the work of the Indian with this plant.

Historically, Dr. Farnsworth says, early explorers wrote accounts of what they saw that amazed them. Columbus' expedition to Cuba in 1492 reported a great deal of tilled land, some sowed with beans and a corn called maize which tasted good, baked or

Dr. Farnsworth says the horses referred to in this account were evidently developed from the remants of those brought to remants of those brought to America by the Spanish. The borse has since been an important asset of the Indians, although it has largely been replaced by the "pickup" truck today. One of the plants most generally associated with the Indian is tobacco. It was a luxury to them and was not commonly smoked. However, it was used primarily in religious rites and as a means of welding the "bands of peace and friendship." Some tribes, however, did have both men and women smoking the "sacred" plant.

Many tribes believed that tobacco had unusual healing powers and was used to preserve and maintain good health. Roger Williams reported that it was used extensively to relieve rheumatism and toothache.

Dr. Farnsworth says that early Indian use of tobacco was in accord Indian use of tobacco was in accord with the teachings of Joseph Smith, Jr. The Mormon prophet said the Lord tells us that "tobacco is not for the body, neither for the belly, and is not good for man, but is an herb for bruises, and all sick cattle, to be used with judgement and skill."
