THEY SAY HE WAS A GIFT FROM SANTA CLAUS but it is obvious Santa couldn't have gotten this gigantic snowman down the chimney or into anyone's stocking. People in the Akron Community have been enjoying the efforts made by three young people last week after the big snow fall. Mark and Mitch Harris and their sister, Sally Day, spent several hours building the snowman which stands as tall as their basketball goal in the front yard of the Harris home on St. Rd. 14, in the northeast section of Akron. Since they say Santa brought him, you will just have to imagine how they got all that snow packed up so high and even topped him off with a hat.

"Dick" Roe announces intention to run for Fulton County sheriff

Rolland "Dick" Roe, Jr., this week announced that he intends to run for the Democratic nomination for Sheriff of Fulton County in the May 4 primary. He is the first person to come out for this office.

"Dick," 37, Rt. 3, Rochester, is the deputy marshal of Argos.

He was appointed deputy marshal in Argos last November after serving nine years as a police officer in Fulton County.

"Dick" was a deputy for then Fulton County Sheriff Homer Carr and in November 1971 was appointed a Rochester patrolman by then-mayor Harrison Halterman.

In 1974 he resigned from the Rochester police department to seek the Democratic nomination for sheriff in the May 7, 1974 primary. The state law, at that time, prohibited city policemen from being candidates for political office; they had to resign to seek election. He lost the primary to Sheriff Robert Newgent.

He was appointed a Rochester patrolman in May 1974 by then-mayor Wayne Hittle and in July 1975, he was asked by Newgent to serve as captain in his administration. Roe held that position until May 1979.

He resigned to become a claims adjuster for Farm Bureau Insurance.

In April 1980, he became the deli-bakery manager at Wilt's and was appointed in November 1981 to his current position of deputy marshal at Argos.

"Dick" graduated from the Indiana Law Enforcement Academy in 1972 and has taken special classes in drug enforcement, crime scene and arson investigation.

He and his wife, the former Janice Flynn, are natives of Ro-

Hardesty Mentone board president

During a special meeting called by the Mentone Town Board on Monday, December 28, for work on the town ordinances and clearing up some business before the end of the year, the board elected Frank Hardesty as president for 1982.

Work done on the town budget, included a cut of $8,000 from the initial budget and a transfer of $8,000 in funds from the Cumulative Capital Improvement Fund, as the funds which are presently invested, mature. The board found these measures necessary because of the cut made in the budget by the State Board of Tax Commissioners.

The board was advised by a consulting engineer from Warsaw on an update on the town map. The map has not been updated since the annexations were made to the town. The estimated expenditure for the update is $300 - $400. No decision was made during the meeting.

The decision was made during the meeting to make an amendment to the Dog and Cat Ordinance in respect to the charges to be levied on town residences for pets.

County drainage board formed

The Kosciusko County Commissioners, during their regular meeting last week, appointed a new five-member Kosciusko County Drainage Board.

Appointed to the newly-formed board were Rudolph Sierk, Jefferson Township; Maurice McDaniel, of Atwood; Eldon Watkins, Syracuse; Don Walther, Silver Lake; and the president of the Board of County Commissioners, Maurice Dorsey, president of the Board of Commissioners in 1982, will also serve as a member of the board.

Included on the board as a non-voting member will be the county surveyor.

The appointed members will serve on staggered terms.

The new board was formed in the attempt to solve the problem with county ditches and their flooding during the spring.

Dorsey, who will serve as chairman of the board, will schedule the first meeting for January. The date, time and place, will be announced later.

Health bill passes committee

WASHINGTON-A bill which will permit elderly persons the "freedom of choice" by allowing Medicare and Medicaid to pay for home health care services, passed the Senate Labor and Human Resources Committee, December 14, by a vote of 13-1.

The Bill, S. 234, was sponsored by Senator Dan Quayle of Indiana who is a member of the Senate Labor Committee. "Currently Medicare and Medicaid will only pay for health care costs incurred in a nursing home. There are 37,000 elderly being cared for in Indiana nursing homes, and we have had testimony which said that fully 25 percent of persons living in such facilities are there because of this requirement of Medicare and Medicaid."

Quayle said the bill "will expand to the national level two projects which were initiated and financed by the State of Indiana" in the area of home health care.

Quayle said the purpose of the legislation is to "permit those who might otherwise be forced into a nursing home the dignity of receiving health care in their own homes, or in the homes of their families."

The Indiana Senator said that "elderly people deserve the freedom to choose whether they live at home or in a nursing facility. It should be a matter of personal choice. No one should have to live in a nursing home because their Medicare or Medicaid would not pay for health care services at home."

Quayle, during the Committee meeting, said that the two demonstration projects in Indiana-one in Marion County and the

Party at Bowen Center

The Youth Lounge at the Otis R. Bowen Center for Human Services crackled with excitement on December 16th, as the Center held its Preschool Christmas Party.

Eight excited youngsters eagerly welcomed Santa when he made a surprise visit to the lounge just as "Jingle Bells" was being sung. Wide smiles quickly appeared as Santa handed each child a gaily wrapped toy, then presented them with red and white Christmas stockings crammed full of candy canes, fruit, coloring books, and more wrapped toys.

Other enjoyable treats for the children were a snack of punch and Christmas cookies, and Sara Wolfe reading her story: "The Twinkle Toy Factory" - she'd written long ago for her grandchildren, and which her daughter had illustrated.

The preschoolers also learned the joy of giving as well as receiving by presenting to staff members and volunteers the bread dough Christmas ornaments they had made.

Since this is such a busy time for Santa, the All Saints Church at Syracuse and the Kosciusko County 4-H Junior Leaders helped the jolly old man out by donating the gifts he presented to the children.

Of course, the Christmas gift donation is only one of the many projects the Junior Leaders participate in during the year. (The Leaders are made up of girls over the age of 14 and have belonged to the 4-H organization for at least two years.)

Especially responsible for this year's effort are: DeShawn VanDeWater - 5th year Junior Leader; Connie and Tammy West - both 2nd year Junior Leaders; and Angie Shepherd - a 3rd year Junior Leader.

The girls also received the helping support of the Adult Leader, Darlene Hathaway and the Youth Extension Agent, Ronald Hoyt.

Wisconsin ice fishing

MADISON, WI—An index of over 2500 Wisconsin Mapped Lakes will help many Ice Fishermen enter the charmed circle of experts.

A mapped lake is actually a hydrographic map. So what's a hydrographic map? "Hydrographic Maps" is simply a high-faluting term for maps showing the various depths of a lake along with other information that is so desirable to have for fishing... such as kind of lake bottom (sand, mud, gravel, etc...)

Suppose you want to fish for perch. You know his feeding habits and at what depths and over what kind of bottom he would be. With a Wisconsin Hydrographic Map you can see at a glance the general contour of the lake bottom and the exact depth of any given place along the kind and condition of the bottom. No more cutting through a foot of ice to find 6 inches of water underneath.

The index is available at no charge by sending a large, self-addressed, stamped (37 cents) envelope to: Wisconsin Lake Maps, Box 5096, Madison, WI 53705.

U.S.A., 1982

The year 1982 may produce a turning point in the political and economic fortunes of the nation. The turning point, economically, should be a major one, and should occur in mid-year.

Recovery from the present recession should be evident by that time. From then on, if Reagan Administration economics work, people will save more, invest more, earn more and the private economy will expand while government does not.

Politically, Democrats may gain in off year congressional elections (off year meaning there's no presidential race). The turning point would be major if Democrats gain twenty-five or more seats in the House and hold their own in the Senate.

Brezhnev's Logic

The latest argument from Leonid Brezhnev, Russian president, on the subject of nuclear arms reduction is highly interesting. Brezhnev sounds like a man genuinely seeking co-survival and prevention of war.

What he says about different measurements of total weapons strength, that each side has a different yardstick, is true. And it's also true that hard, sincere bargaining is needed to adjust inflated or distorted figures to more realistic totals.

It may be that the Russians, now with a decided edge, will not compromise and that Brezhnev is talking only for propaganda purposes. But it may also be that the Russians now realize the U.S. is rearming in earnest, and that they will compromise.

From Washington's viewpoint, a compromise which limits the buildup, and improves the odds, would be better than no limitation agreement. It may be expecting too much to expect the Russians to dismantle all the weapons which have given them a nuclear edge in Europe in recent years.

Each fall, researchers and hobbyists alike gather at Hawk Mountain in the Kittatinny Ridge in Eastern Pennsylvania to watch the annual hawk migrations. Fifteen species of hawks, eagles and falcons pass the viewing areas in numbers over 24,000.

Inflation is a government creation

by James J. Treires

Most Americans find it easier to reveal the details of their sex lives than the state of their finances. In this acquisitive society, making it means making money, and the less others know about how we make it, the better our chances for succeeding. In the war for wealth, information on one's own operations must never be allowed to fall into enemy hands.

Economists are charged with the task of analyzing the systems through which wealth is produced, income is distributed, and resources are allocated. In other words, their job is to dig around in the most sensitive areas of our lives. Is it any wonder that they lie a lot, or that the first line of defense of every special interest group is an economic rationale developed by in-house experts?

The oil companies justify monopoly pricing on the theory that excessive profits convert automatically to new exploration and expanded supply. The military establishment tries to justify ruinously high Pentagon budgets by irrelevant Gross National Product ratios and manufactured information on Soviet Defense spending. Banks raise interest rates into the stratosphere and claim they are just trying to fight inflation. Power companies shift the financial burden of their uneconomical and potentially lethal nuclear power plants onto their customers and the federal government on the grounds that they are making the nation less dependent on foreign oil. The mismanaged auto and steel industries seek government protection against imports by claiming unfair trade practices.

But all these special-purpose "disinformation" campaigns pale into insignificance when compared with the federal government's efforts to confuse the public about inflation. Government economists strain mightily to convince the people that inflation has a variety of causes, and that its own taxing and spending policies are only a minor factor.

Before big budget deficits became standard procedure in Washington, most people understood that inflation is caused by the government spending more money than it receives in taxes. If the government taxes an extra $50 billion to pay all its bills, that is $50 billion less that the private sector will have available to spend on civilian goods. The result is a balance between private production and private buying power, and no inflation.

If, on the other hand, the government spends $50 billion more than it taxes, it will have to borrow $50 billion to make up the difference. These loans do not really take purchasing power out of the private sector; they are assets to the banks and individuals who provide the money. In effect, the $50 billion is still available for the private sector to spend. Since none of it can be used to buy the $50 billion worth of military equipment or other federal programs funded by the government, it will just be added to the amount of money chasing civilian goods, inflating their prices proportionately.

This arithmetic is too simple for modern economists. For motives of their own, they now insist that federal deficits are not really responsible for inflation.

The Washington Post recently carried a confused analytical piece headlined, "An Economic Truth Blurs Into Myth." It explained that "Apparently the President no longer believes that federal deficits are the source of inflation," and drew its authority from phrases like "most economists believe" and "economists generally agree." It concluded that it is a "myth" that [balancing the budget] is the key to a sound economic policy.

It is no myth that federal deficit spending is the main cause of inflation. The connection is obvious to anyone who places the federal deficit figures for the past two decades alongside the inflation rates.

If the people on Capitol Hill and in the White House really want to know who is responsible for inflation, all they have to do is look in the mirror.

Mr. Treires is Chief Economist for the Fund for Peace.

HOROSCOPE

Week of January 11, 1982
CAPRICORN -- Hard workers, those born under this sign usually succeed in business. They are resourceful and economical. Their lucky day is Wednesday. Their lucky number is 7. Their best color is brown.

CAPRICORN -- Dec. 22 to Jan. 19--Resolve now to forge ahead in 1982. With your strengthening faith you can expect greater peace of mind.

AQUARIUS -- Jan. 20 to Feb. 18--Make an effort to keep your routine running smoothly. Better to be safe with proven methods than to be sorry. Don't make drastic changes at the present time.

PISCES -- Feb. 19 to March 20--An idea may come to you pertaining to increased earning power. Take advantage of after Christmas sales.

ARIES -- March 21 to April 20--Accept constructive criticism. Be more reserved and a little less aggressive in your relationships with others. You will then become more popular with your peers.

TAURUS -- April 21 to May 20--Organized effort will improve the quality of your work. Without it you could feel lost in the shuffle. Begin by taking time to tidy up your desk.

GEMINI -- May 21 to June 20--Rid yourself of the feeling that no one cares about anyone else's welfare. People do care and they want to help. Give them a chance.

CANCER -- June 21 to July 22--Your personality appeal is at a high level. Don't make the mistake of making promises you can't keep during this time of enhanced popularity.

LEO -- July 23 to Aug. 22--Practice temper control! There is nothing to be gained ever by flying off the handle. Proper rest and relaxation keeps you in a more even-tempered mood.

VIRGO -- Aug. 23 to Sept. 22--Read a good book. Your mind becomes sharper if you include reading time in your busy schedule. You can also learn from observing the actions of others.

LIBRA -- Sept. 23 to Oct. 22--Follow a sound and conservative course in business now. Someone who couldn't care less may advise you to over-extend your investments. Your own intuition leads you down the right path.

SCORPIO -- Oct. 23 to Nov. 22--Begin immediately to put in order all records needed for income tax time. Enlist help if needed to make a survey of your records.

SAGITTARIUS -- Nov. 23 to Dec. 21--Write letters to those you missed during the holiday season. A short note will be appreciated just as much now, even though it is somewhat belated.

LOUISA'S LETTER

Dear Louisa,

When I have a date I go to extra pains to look my best and I think that is the right thing to do because I want the boy I am with to be proud of his companion. Now my mother and my sisters laugh at me about this and say I am trying to be someone I am not because I don't look like this all of the time.

What do you think about this? Do you think I should go out looking just like I do when I am working about the house?

G.G.--Vt.

Answer:

I am a great believer in making the best of what we have. Now a person who is working about a house should look as good as possible, even then, but it stands to reason that after such work is done one has to arrange the hair, take a bath and change clothes.

This doesn't mean that one has to look like a refugee when she is doing household work. Clean clothes with a clean face and brushed hair is appropriate and looks good at such a time. But I agree with you that you owe your companion to look as good as possible when you have a date. This doesn't mean heavy make-up but it does mean good grooming and becoming clothes. Just don't spend too much time before your mirror as too much artificial make-up may give you a cheap appearance.

Very Clear

Two women were standing in the snow discussing the fuel shortage.

"Yes, that's it," said one. "If we'd have got the cold winter in the summer when it's warmer instead of in the winter, we'd be able to do without a fire and save fuel."

Explained

Two young women were chatting when one noticed something odd and said to the other, "You're wearing your wedding ring on the wrong finger."

"Yes, I know," was the reply, "I married the wrong man."

Law on tinted windows became effective January 1st

The recent publicity regarding the tinted window law has caused some confusion, according to the Indiana State Police. Superintendent John T. Shettle reminds motorists that tinted windows are not in themselves a violation of the law.

The law clearly prohibits tinting to the extent that the occupants of the vehicle cannot be easily identified through the window from the outside. For instance, lightly shaded windows, for the purpose of reducing sun glare, would not be prohibited, says the Superintendent.

The law further states that no person shall drive any motor vehicle which has a windshield, side wing or side window which is a part of a front door, tinted so as to prevent identification from the outside.

Troopers will issue warnings for violations of this statute for 60 days following December 31, 1981, when the law goes into effect so motorists can become familiar with it.

This law provides for better visibility for the driver as well as other motorists to observe the driver's actions. By being able to see the other driver, motorists can usually determine intended vehicle movement. Also the law allows unrestricted vision of drivers and passengers by Police Officers as they approach the vehicle during the traffic stops.

After the 60 day warning period Troopers will begin charging people in violation of this law. Violators will be subject to a maximum fine of $500.00 upon conviction.

Home fire safety

Most fires happen when everyone is asleep. According to the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission, every home needs at least one smoke detector close to where you sleep—to wake everyone up in case of fire. Many deaths and injuries are actually caused not by the fire itself, but by smoke and gas.

A helpful booklet, Home Fire Safety, gives vital information on preventing a disaster in your home. To get a copy, send $1.50 to the Consumer Information Center, Dept. 201K, Pueblo, Colorado 81009.

Each year, more than 6,000 deaths and nearly 30,000 injuries happen as a result of home fires. These fires start from many ignition sources, like gasoline, flammable fabrics in clothes, cigarettes, space heaters, and so on. But, if you follow these tips, you can minimize the possibility of a fire loss in your home:

Flammable Liquids: Store gasoline outside the house, and well away from ignition sources; store gasoline only in containers designed specifically for this purpose; never use gasoline for cleaning clothing, machine parts, or anything else; use charcoal starter for lighting outdoor grills. Never throw any flammable liquid, like gasoline, on burning or smoldering fires.

Flammable Fabrics: Follow the washing instructions for flame-resistant clothing to preserve their protective quality; teach everyone in your household to "drop and roll" on the floor or ground in case clothing should catch fire; don't wear loose robes or other loose night clothing when you're cooking.

Upholstered Furniture: Keep upholstered furniture away from wood stoves, ranges, space heaters and fireplaces; caution smokers against placing ashtrays on the arms of upholstered furniture, or smoking when drowsy, when drinking alcohol, or taking medication.

Space Heaters: Every gas or fuel-burning space heater must be properly vented; all electric space heaters should have a shutoff switch that activates if the heater tips over, and heaters should have protective grilles around the heating elements; extension cords used with space heaters must match the electrical requirements of the space heater; never use a portable electric heater in a bathroom or near a sink.

Smoke Detectors: Every home should have at least one, located near sleeping rooms; test the smoke detector to see if it's working at least once a month.

When you order a copy of Home Fire Safety ($1.50), you'll also receive a free copy of the Consumer Information Catalog. Published quarterly by the Consumer Information Center of the General Services Administration, the Catalog lists over 200 booklets of consumer interest at low or no cost.

Hard work, mixed with a little intelligence, usually reaps a reward.

FRESH WINTER SALAD GREENS

Watercress is a common wild food that grows abundantly near streams in every state, as well as in southern Canada. This little plant makes for great winter salads, but thrives all year round. Even when the temperature plunges well below zero, you can still count on that cress.

If you decide to cultivate the wildling, it'll probably be the easiest "garden" plant you'll ever attempt to grow... especially if you're lucky enough to have a spring or stream on your property. Once you've planted a few sprigs of wild cress in the water, you'll find that this member of the pepper family will thrive and multiply with great speed. About all you should have to do is harvest some of the foliage from time to time, which seems only to encourage the plant to grow even faster.

MOTHER-reader Wulf Knausenberger reports that, during the winter, watercress leaves stay at or near the surface of the water bubbling from his family's spring in New Jersey... and Wulf harvests them by snipping off the upper part of the plants with a pair of scissors or a knife (carefully, so their roots won't be dislodged).

By late spring, the cress starts growing in earnest and becomes too coarse and too peppery for most folks' taste. That's when it also starts producing hundreds of tiny white flowers. Once the blooms have passed their prime, Wulf does a once-a-year thinning, to create room for new growth.

But what if you don't have a spring of clear, pure water, or you can't find a crop growing at a nearby stream? No problem. You can raise enough watercress for your family right in your home!

Take a fair-sized fish tank, put a small amount of good compost and soil in its bottom, and poke in a few slips of the plant (Nasturtium officinale). Then fill the container with water up to about two or three inches above the soil level. The stems should quickly root themselves and be off and running. Other than harvesting a few tops from time to time, you should have to do little for the cress but siphon out the tank's old water whenever it becomes cloudy and refill the container with fresh.

You can use the tasty plants in more than just salads or the dainty little watercress sandwiches that are popular at bridge parties. They make good "boiling greens" when served like spinach, and are great as a stir-fried addition to a wok meal. Before you head for the nearest stretch of running water, though, heed this word of warning about gathering wild cress from just any stream. Nowadays, you have to be aware of the amount of pollution in the water in which the cress is growing. If you suspect that your favorite brook is contaminated, soak your foraged harvest in water containing dissolved Halazone tablets. The tablets can be purchased at almost any drugstore, and should be used according to the label's directions.

Treating alcoholism

Many people drink alcohol in moderation. But, heavy drinking puts the body in real danger. Over a period of time, large doses of alcohol can be physically destructive, reducing a person's life span 10 to 12 years, and causing damage to the heart, brain, liver and other major organs.

To help people know how to spot the danger signs of a drinking problem, and what to do about it, the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services has a booklet called "Treating Alcoholism." For your copy send $2.25 to the Consumer Information Center, Dept. 157K, Pueblo, Colorado 81009.

How do you know when drinking becomes a problem? Although it's hard to draw lines between social drinking, problem drinking, and alcoholism, generally speaking social drinking becomes problem drinking when it repeatedly harms the drinker or the family or friends.

If you answer any of the following questions positively, it may be time for you to do something about your own drinking behavior.

Does your personality or behavior change after you've been drinking? Do you get drunk often, or have you ever been arrested as a result of drinking? Do you have family or job problems because of drinking? Do you ever drink before you go to work? Do you drive a car while you're drunk, or have you been injured while intoxicated? Have you been advised to stop or reduce your drinking by a physician? Do you have financial problems because of drinking?

One sign of alcohol becoming a more serious problem is the need to drink increasing amounts of alcohol to achieve the same effects that once took place after just a few drinks. This eventually leads to loss of control over drinking, "Blackouts", or the inability to remember what happened while drinking, are another symptom of serious drinking.

One way to test just how much you depend on drinking and how much you can control it, is to try to stop drinking for 30 to 90 days.

If you have trouble doing this, you may have a drinking problem.

For many people, programs in the community are the best source of help. For example, Alcoholics Anonymous, listed in your local telephone directory, is a voluntary fellowship of alcoholic people whose sole purpose is to help themselves and each other get sober, stay sober and mend their lives. Membership is open and free of charge to anyone who needs help.

When you order "Treating Alcoholism" ($2.25), you'll also receive a free copy of the Consumer Information Catalog. Published quarterly by the Consumer Information Center of the General Services Administration, the free Catalog lists over 200 selected free and low-cost federal consumer booklets.

Perceiving the Natural World

By Joe Sheidler
 District Wildlife Biologist

My wife and I are fairly newcomers to the art of child rearing, and as we coach our son through his second year of life there is much we are learning. For one, we are impressed by the volume of knowledge the boy is capable of absorbing. All the tidbits of information we've so long taken for granted are new horizons for him, and his keen senses are quick to perceive.

I question how much wiser and better off we all would be if we could retain the sharp perception we had in our first years of life. For too many of us, perception is dulled with age. We may still hear, see and smell with youthful accuracy, but what the senses gather we don't always hoard, or even acknowledge.

The natural world overflows with opportunities to whet our perception, and in developing perception we nourish understanding. A red-tailed hawk skillfully plucking a fox squirrel from the trunk of an oak may be perceived as an exciting predatory event by one and a threat to next year's squirrel hunting by another. The latter's perception is shadowed by a lack of understanding of predator-prey relationships.

Logging a woodland may be perceived as a cardinal sin to the preservationist or well-meaning birdwatcher, but to the forester and biologist it is wise land use.

insuring a sustained yield of timber and wildlife.

To one farmer, plowing under a bushy draw or removing a fence row is viewed as a promise of added bushels of corn, while to another it spells an invitation to more soil erosion and an end to over-wintering oases for wildlife.

How we perceive the land and all that it produces is the mold in which our beliefs, desires and opinions are set. For we of the twentieth century, perception can be greatly boosted by a mountain of scientific facts and theories, but clouded by economic values and closed minds.

Through better perception we can recognize a more harmonious relationship between man and the earth. We can shift our attitudes from being privileged to being obligated. Is it our privilege to whip the land for economic gain, or is it our obligation to first assess the worth of wild species and their relationships? Should economics determine what will survive or should our actions be ruled by an environmental ethic?

What is most likely to raise my boy's eyebrows: a thousand acres of corn, an oil field, a huge shopping mall or an exploding covey of quail? It's our privilege to live with any of these, but we're obligated to live with them all.

RETIREMENT PLANNING

First of Five Parts

How To Retire As A Millionaire On $5.48 A Day

(Note: This is the first of a five-part series on the new laws governing the Individual Retirement Account (IRA). This first article describes how you can retire as a millionaire by putting the maximum allowable contribution into your IRA each year. Other installments in this series will discuss what you can expect if you can't afford to contribute the full $2,000 per year, the IRA advantages for couples, and how to use an IRA even if you think you're too young—or too old—to start planning for retirement.)

If you've ever fantasized about being a millionaire, that fantasy may be turned into a reality thanks to the new laws governing the Individual Retirement Account (IRA).

The new rules, which go into effect January 1, 1982, finally bring the advantages of tax-sheltering and controlling a retirement fund within reach of every wage-earner. Previously, IRAs were available only to persons not covered by company pension or profit sharing plans.

"The new IRAs are a real tax-shelter bonus for working people," says Doris Tarrant, chairperson of the Banking Advisor program for the American Bankers Association (ABA). "Whatever amount, up to $2,000, you contribute to your IRA each year can be deducted from your gross income before you figure your taxes. If you contribute $5.48 a day or $2,000 a year for 36 years, at 12 percent interest, it would add up to just over $1 million."

If you're skeptical about $2,000 adding up to $1 million after 36 years, you can figure it out for yourself: Start with $2,000, multiply by 12 percent for one year, which is $240. For year two, add $2,000 to the $2,240 and multiply by 12 percent.

Continue this calculation and you will find that after 36 years you will have contributed $72,000 and your account will total more than $1,085,197. The interest alone will be over $1 million!

Check with your employer to see if you will be offered an IRA payroll deduction plan. Two thousand dollars per year would mean taking about $38.46 out of your weekly check. That's not much to pay for a million-dollar retirement.

And remember, you're also getting a tax-shelter benefit from this retirement savings plan. You will not be taxed on that $2,000 of income you're contributing to an IRA or the interest earned on it before you reach age 59½. So the IRAs are really worth much more than the money accumulated.

At age 59½ you can withdraw all or part of the money without penalty, and you will be taxed at the prevailing rate. But you are only taxed on the money you withdraw. Presumably you will be retired by the time you withdraw any of the money and you will be in a lower tax bracket. Keep in mind, you must start withdrawing the money by age 70½.

To help you see what your $2,000 per year IRA contribution can build to over your working life, the American Bankers Association offers the following sample chart based on a simple interest rate of 12 percent compounded annually with your contributions made on January 1 of each year. Remember that this is only an example. Clip this story and the sample IRA chart. Use them to help you plan your IRA. Take the chart with you when you visit your community banker for information on Individual Retirement Accounts. After all, can you really afford to pass up a million-dollar opportunity?

Tax Act Brings Changes in Methods of Depreciation.

WEST LAFAYETTE, Ind.

The Economic Recovery Tax Act of 1981 brings some major changes in the depreciation alternatives available to farmers and other businesses, a Purdue University extension economist pointed out today.

In discussing the changes, George F. Patrick, the economist, said for assets in service before 1981, the old rules and regulations with respect to depreciation and investment credit apply. However, for assets placed in service anytime during 1981 or later years, the new rules apply. These rules refer to "cost recovery" instead of "depreciation," he said.

Patrick said that the Accelerated Cost Recovery System (ACRS) is the new method for the recovery of capital costs for most depreciable property placed in service after 1980. He added that the cost recovery methods and periods are the same for new and used property with ACRS. Salvage value of property is not considered.

"Farmers and other businesses generally must use either ACRS percentage or a modified straight line method of cost recovery," the economist said. "The ACRS percentages are combinations of depreciation methods which will generally provide the most rapid cost recovery possible. The additional 20 percent first year depreciation is not available for purchase after 1980. Beginning in 1982, farmers can treat as an expense—deduct in the year of purchase—up to $5,000 of depreciable property purchased that year," he advised.

Farmers will generally get the greatest tax savings by using the ACRS percentage method, Patrick continued. Although "expensing" may be especially beneficial in years with substantially above average income, use of the modified straight line cost recovery may increase tax savings if an investment is made in a year of below average income, he noted.

"Depreciable assets used by farmers, including depreciable real property, are placed in one of four recovery period classes," the economist explained. "These are three-year, five-year or ten-year recovery periods for personal property, and a 15-year category for real property." He briefly described these categories as follows:

Three-year property includes autos, pickups, light duty trucks (less than 13,000 pounds), swine used for breeding, race horses over two years of age, and other horses over 12 years of age.

Five-year property includes agricultural machinery and equipment, heavy duty trucks, cattle used for breeding or dairy, sheep, goats, and horses (other than race horses) less than 12 years of age. This category also includes depreciable personal property eligible for investment credit such as fences, grain bins, silos, drainage tile, feed bunks, paved yards, and wells. Single purpose agricultural and horticultural structures are also included in this five-year property category.

Ten-year property is not common in agriculture. One example is a mobile home used for housing hired labor or as a farm office.

Fifteen-year real property includes general purpose barns, machinery sheds and rental houses. Cost recovery is not allowed on land or the farmer's personal residence.

"These recovery period classes are mutually exclusive," Patrick

MENTONE Our Home Grows

By Linda L. Oden

MENTONE GAZETTE, April 19, 1890
A HALF CENTURY AGO
Some Interesting Observations of the Changes Fifty Years Have Brought About

Dudes were not born.
Beer was not invented.
Circusses had no elephants.
Sermons were a mile long.
Duby ovens were popular.
Tallow Dips were a luxury.
Log houses were mansions.
Matches were not dreamed of.
Corn was ten cents a bushel.
Eggs were three cents a dozen.
Wheat was 37½ cents a bushel.
Paper collars had no existence.
Flint and punk started the fire.
Chickens did not roost so high.
Hotels did not charge $2 a day.
Coon skins were a legal tender.
Indians had on their war paint.
Pan nuts eliminated the rust.
Pewter platters were all the rage.
Blazed trees guided the traveler.
Whiskey was three cents a glass.
Every store had a barrel on tap.
Black strap was a favorite remedy.
Beef steak was three cents a pound.
Funerals were not so expensive.
Pew rents were never heard of.
Potluck picnics were in style.
Buckskin pants were fashionable.
The woods were full of wild game.
There was no bottom to the roads.
Grist mills were but corn crackers.
Old sledges were not the child of sin.
Every settler had a rifle and a coon dog.
Every owl and yaller cow was a ghost.
The preachers smiled and ate chicken.
The old boys danced with the squaws.
Salt pork greased the human machinery.
Pumps and pumpers were not in demand.
Boys did not play billiards and ten pins.
Plug hats had not made their appearance.
The bontons were married in calico dresses.
White babies were popular with the Indians.
The beavers were inhabitants of this valley.
Ague made the old boys and girls "balance all."
Wells were curbed with hollow sycamore logs.
Newspapers were scarce and so were quarters.
Grandfather's clock was the pride of every home.
The old log school house had a puncheon floor.
Courtship was done in the dark just as it is now.

Crazy quilts and crazy quilters had no existence.
The morning call was made with the old coffee mill.
The spinning wheel was at home in every household.
The wolves watched the early settlers' innocent pigs.
The village blacksmith made all the farm implements.
Gored dresses were not fashionable but gourd dippers were.
Light was furnished by a piece of cloth dipped in lard.
Doctors were traveling drug stores and made their own pills.
Wild cats were as noisy as the gentlemen Toms are today.
Red paint soothed the savage and satisfied his pale faced brother.
Candidates did less electioneering and kissed fewer papooses.
Hair cutting was one of the lost arts; it was cut bias with a hoe.
There was more hugging done because there were more bears to do it.
Singing schools were the popular amusement of the old boys and girls.
Young ladies baked brown bread and helped their mothers do the washing.
Undertakers always wept with the mourners when it was a seven dollar funeral.
Cows sold for three dollars, and calves could not be given away unless they were dressed.

WHAT WILL [?] HAPPEN IN THE NEXT FIFTY YEARS

Akron will be an incorporated town.
People will travel on Telegraph Wires.
The Gold Spike will be an active operation.
Natural gas will be a thing known only in history.
People will cross the Atlantic Ocean in a day.
Electricity will supplant horsepower on our streets.
No fire will be used for cooking or heating purposes.
Colored caugles will be worn during the sparking period.
Every monarchy will be wiped from the face of the earth.
Letters will be sent from New York to San Francisco in an hour.
The world will be governed by an international congress and wars will have ceased.
The air will be navigated by ships which will move with great velocity over our heads.
People may sit at home and talk with their friends on the opposite side of the globe.
Walkerton will have become a wealthy city from its present growing industry of supplying the world with amphibious edibles gathered from its immense frog pastures.

There's a vast difference between the person of importance and the person who thinks himself to be important.

NIPSCO to use natural gas fueled vehicles

Northern Indiana Public Service Company announced today that the utility has converted several vehicles in its service fleet to natural gas as another step in lowering its operating costs.

NIPSCO chairman and chief executive officer Edmund A. Schroer said, "Fleet vehicles fueled by compressed natural gas (CNG) have proven fuel cost, maintenance, safety and environmental advantages. By 1985, we hope to have 2,000 cars and trucks converted to CNG." Schroer said, "and anticipate savings of approximately $2 million a year by that time if the program proceeds according to plan."

The NIPSCO chairman said that the Company is in the process of converting 60 of its vehicles to the cleaner CNG system in the Gary district and will have 240 other vehicles converted for use in its South Bend and Fort Wayne divisions by the end of 1982. Also, an additional 40 vehicles will be converted in Gary during 1982.

J.J. Roberts, NIPSCO vice president of marketing and contracts said that NIPSCO has reviewed and researched various systems available over the past few years, and test results have been encouraging.

The system being utilized by NIPSCO is one designed by a California gas utility which has about 2,600 vehicles converted to natural gas, with 22 million fleet miles of service.

The converted vehicles will have the alternate capability of running on natural gas or gasoline. A switching mechanism on the vehicle's dashboard allows the driver to select the fuel desired.

"Conversions of vehicles to natural gas is a simple process and relatively inexpensive," Roberts said. "More than 20,000 vehicles are now operating on CNG systems in this county and about 400,000 worldwide."

He said that a converted vehicle will travel about the same distance on 100 cubic feet of natural gas as a vehicle will on 1 gallon of gasoline. "However, 100 cubic feet of natural gas costs only about one-third of a gallon of gasoline."

"Aside from the fueling savings advantages, the system also offers an alternate fuel supply--a domestic fuel," Roberts said.

CNG vehicles also start easier in both hot and cold weather, and clean-burning CNG fuel extends engine life and reduces maintenance, the utility executive said. "CNG also reduces vehicle exhaust emissions which means cleaner air and extended life of the exhaust system."

"CNG vehicles are inherently safer than gasoline-fueled vehicles," Roberts said. "Natural gas is lighter than air and dissipates into the atmosphere if leaks should occur. Also it takes much more heat to ignite natural gas than gasoline."

Roberts said that CNG fuel has significant advantages for truck and car fleet businesses, and the technology is also being utilized by some municipalities and school bus companies in this country.

"We are sold on the distinct cost, safety and environmental advantages of natural gas-fueled fleet vehicles," Roberts said.

"We are continually looking for ways to increase efficiency and lower our costs. CNG does this and offers other bonuses."

He also said that NIPSCO mechanics and garage supervisors are being thoroughly trained in the conversion and maintenance of the Company's natural gas-fueled vehicles.

"The system is not yet available for individual car owners," Roberts said, "but may be at some time in the future."

Queries & Quotes

WEST LAFAYETTE, Ind.

Q. I prepared a horseradish sauce from fresh horseradish roots and the sauce turned black after about a month. What happened?

A. Fresh horseradish will keep only for a few weeks at best, but will turn dark more quickly if cider vinegar is used to make it.

Prepare horseradish for home use by peeling or scraping the roots and removing all defects. Then grate the root directly into white wine vinegar or distilled vinegar of 4 to 5 percent strength. Bottle and tightly cap the horseradish as soon as possible after grating. Refrigerate to keep it "hot." It will keep for a few weeks.

To keep horseradish for longer periods, store the roots in a dark, cool cellar, barn or pit. Do not allow the roots to freeze and keep them well ventilated. Horseradish roots exposed to the light will turn green.

Whenever you need more sauce, make a new batch from stored roots.

Q. Can evergreen shrubs be pruned in winter?

A. Do not prune evergreens when the temperatures are below freezing. Evergreens which make one annual shoot terminating in a prominent bud or "candle," such as pine, fir, spruce, and Douglas-fir should only be trimmed in early summer when the candle is fully extended, but before the needles develop. To prune these plants just pinch the "candle" back about halfway.

JUNE FULLER

THE COUPON CLIPPER

Stores make the rules on double coupons

By June Fuller

DEAR COUPON CLIPPER -- My local supermarket put four special double coupons in its newspaper advertisement. The ad said: "Present this coupon along with any one manufacturer's cents-off coupon and get double savings. Not to include retailer or free coupons."

I tried to use this double coupon with my 50 percent-off coupon on Bumble Bee. But I was refused. Needless to say, I was upset. Was the store right? -- Susan S. from Martinez, Calif.

DEAR SUSAN -- The store was right.

The double coupon in the store's advertisement asked for "cents-off" coupons. Your Bumble Bee certificate, which gives you a 50 percent discount on the purchase of a can of tuna, is not a cents-off coupon.

Stores that double coupons intend to double the type of coupon that appears in newspapers and magazines -- and not the certificates that we get back from companies as a result of their mail-in offers.

Stores have a right to make the rules that apply to the second portion of a double-coupon discount because that money is coming out of their pockets. For instance, they can require that a double-coupon offer not apply to merchandise that is also on sale. Obviously, the store may not want to give two discounts on the same item.

We supermarket shoppers have a right to ask that any restrictions on the doubling of coupons appear in the store's advertisement or be prominently posted at the front of the store so that we will be aware of them before we make our purchases.

Coupon Tip: If you hear that a store in a neighboring town is offering to double the value of manufacturers' coupons, call the store and find out its restrictions before you invest time and gasoline in a special shopping trip.

This week's smart shopping award goes to Debby Jernigan of Stow, Ohio. She really knows how to feed her pets for less money.

She purchased three 3.5-pound bags of Chef's Blend, Ship Ahoy and Little Friskies for $5.25 using three coupons that her store doubled. The regular price would have been $7.47.

She then sent in the proof-of-purchase seals for a $4 refund.

"But my savings got even better," she says. "There were 55 cents' worth of coupons on the packages, which I expect to double and save another $1.10. And there are still lots of proofs on the packages, which may help me get future offers."

Ms. Jernigan and other readers whose smart-shopping experiences appear in my column receive a copy of the refunding magazine, The National Supermarket Shopper. Write to me in care of this newspaper.

Refund note: The Personal Products Co. informs us that refund forms for the Stay-free $2 Refund Offer are no longer available from its New Jersey office. The company asks consumers to watch for new offers that will be appearing in newspapers and magazines.

Here's a refund form to write for: Wisk-Final Touch Winning Combination, P.O. Box 8890, Maple Plain, Minn. 55348. This $1 to $2 offer expires Feb. 28, 1982.

Here is this week's list of refund offers. Start looking for the required refund forms, which you can obtain at the supermarket, in newspaper and magazine advertisements and from trading with friends. Meanwhile, start collecting the needed proofs of purchase as detailed below. Remember, some offers are not available in all areas of the country.

Lose Weight

The experts tell us colder weather means our bodies burn more calories keeping us warm, that the change of a colder season is therefore a good time to lose weight.

During the Christmas holidays many of us were tempted and ate too much of the traditional good things. Now is therefore an appropriate time to limit one's diet to non-fattening food and to get the exercise which takes off extra pounds.

Walking, bicycling, skiing, hunting, jogging, or even ten minutes of exercise each day at home will do much to make the average individual look better and feel better—and live longer. Nothing else in life offers better dividends than this.

How To Jump Start Your Car Safely

The AAA-Chicago Motor Club warns that jump starting a car with a weak battery can be dangerous if proper procedures are not followed. Before attaching booster cables, make sure both cars are in "park" and not touching each other. Turn off the ignitions and all electrical accessories. If the "dead" battery has water cell caps, remove them and place a damp cloth over the openings.

Step 1: Connect one end of the positive cable to the positive terminal of the disabled battery.

Step 2: Connect the other end of the positive cable to the positive terminal of the good battery.

Step 3: Connect one end of the negative cable to the negative terminal of the good battery.

Step 4: Attach the other end of the negative cable to the engine block or generator mounting bracket of the disabled car, as far from the battery as possible.

Start the healthy car's engine and let it run for several minutes before starting the disabled car. To remove the cables, reverse the order above.

Br r r ... baby, it's cold outside

A snow emergency declared in Kosciusko County this morning, closed all schools, businesses, and shut down traffic as the sub-zero temperatures and blowing, drifting snow brought everything to a screeching halt.

Temperatures on Sunday, January 10, plummeted below the records set in this century, for the area, when they fell to 15 degrees below zero.

High winds over Saturday and Sunday closed most roads. The estimated wind shield factor was listed at 75 degrees below zero.

Mentone town board repeals old ordinance

After several months of work by the town attorney and much discussion at town meetings, the Mentone Town Board voted Monday night to repeal any and all dog and cat ordinances on the city books.

The town had considered the implementation of an ordinance which would require Mentone residents to register their dogs and cats with the city and pay a fee.

Town attorney Lee Bazini presented such an ordinance at Monday's meeting, with lower fees than had been discussed at previous meetings.

Township trustees in the Mentone area had appeared at past meetings to discuss the collection of dog and cat registration fees and the use of these funds.

However, after much discussion Monday night, Board trustees Jim Miller, Frank Hardesty and Wayne Tombaugh rejected Bazini's ordinance and gave up on the idea of pursuing such an ordinance.

Clerk-Treasurer Kate Whetstone said there had been an old dog-cat ordinance on the town's books, and the repeal order would apply to that also.

Township trustees will continue the dog and cat registration, collection and control according to county and state ordinances.

In one other item, Mentone area insurance agent Roger Moriarity appeared before the board to review the policy options his company was offering to the board.

Moriarity has appeared at several meetings, presenting a variety of policy plans and rates to the board for coverage of the city employees and their families.

The board is taking Moriarity's latest rates under advisement, and are looking for the most inviting policy which would not require special medical examinations of the employees.

The next meeting of the board is scheduled for Monday, Feb. 1, when the board will consider the possibility of meeting twice a month.

Lifesaving course is offered

If, while walking down the street, you saw a person clutching at his chest and having difficulty breathing, WHAT WOULD YOU DO?

Sometime, you may have to react to an incident such as this, so the Akron Unit of the Fulton County EMS is offering a solution to your problem, even before it happens to you!

In conjunction with the American Heart Association, the Akron Unit of the Fulton County E.M.S. will offer a basic lifesaving course in cardiopulmonary resuscitation (CPR) to be held February 8 and 9 at 7 p.m. in the Fellowship Hall of the Akron Church of God. Depending on the size of the class, another session might be held again on the 10th of February.

The first night will consist of a lecture on basic lifesaving procedures. Those unable to attend the second night may qualify to become certified as a "Heart Saver" on the first evening.

The second night will include a half hour lecture and demonstration time, along with practical work done by the student. If class size warrants, the second night class will be split so there will be more individual help available from the instructors.

Persons 13 years of age and older may qualify for the course. The instructors will be John and Crystal Weida and Greg Gearhart, with the Akron E.M.T.'s assisting.

There will be a small fee of $2 for the course. You are asked to pre-register so the class size may be determined, by Friday, February 5. To pre-register you may return the registration form below, or call 893-7091, 893-4511 (ask for John Weida), or 893-4121 (Church of God).

GUEST EDITORIAL

A REAGAN DEPRESSION?

by James J. Treires

It is May 1982 and the economy is in shambles. More than 10 percent of the workforce is unemployed, small businesses are going bankrupt by the thousands, and the prospect of a 1982 budget deficit near $120 billion is sustaining rampant inflation even in the face of industrial decline. Economic stagnation has sharply reduced tax revenues and forced much higher outlays for unemployment compensation and welfare.

In desperation, President Reagan has cut the military budget by 10 percent, but even this drastic step has failed to make a dent in the looming deficit. Massive budget cuts in social programs are being canceled out by a national crime wave and street riots that have raised law enforcement costs far above expectations.

Does this somber look into the crystal ball seem overly pessimistic? If so, I'm sorry about that. But as an economist who does not believe in miracles, I think this is precisely where the Reagan economic program is heading.

Let's set aside the question of the morality of big tax cuts for business and the wealthy combined with massive cuts in social programs and a big expansion in Pentagon spending. All we are concerned with here is the impact of the Reagan program on the overall level of economic activity. Will it bring about renewed growth and prosperity or stagnation and depression?

Experts on both sides agree that the President's program radically alters the existing distribution of purchasing power. Families in the highest-earning five percent will get a lot more money, while those in the lower half of the income distribution will have less to spend.

But that's where the agreement ends. Supply-siders insist that the augmented incomes of the wealthy will be converted to new investment in industry, creating new jobs and prosperity for all. Unfortunately, all the evidence from U.S. economic history points the other way.

The distinguishing feature of the Great Depression was that the great majority of the people had very little money to spend. And the federal government provided no supplements. In the early Thirties, there was no welfare, no unemployment compensation, no Social Security, no Medicaid, no food stamps. All the American people had was Individual Initiative and the Free Market, and neither enabled anyone to open a factory or get a job.

Nobody was fool enough to blame the wealthy for not investing in new plants and equipment to produce goods for penniless customers. To economists, people who need things but have no money do not constitute "effective demand." Since the Free Market decreed there was no demand for more food, clothing, cars and other amenities, they were not produced.

And then along came World War II and some amazing things began to happen. Income taxes went way up, especially for the wealthy. The federal government shoveled out billions to pay soldiers, sailors, airmen and defense workers, who immediately went shopping for all the goodies they wanted but could not previously afford. As a result the American workforce, accused by conservatives of having had a mass attack of laziness during the Thirties, provided men and women for the armed services and produced all the military hardware needed to win the war. And, miracle of miracles, they even produced enough civilian goods to raise the standard of living right in the middle of the struggle.

Disposable income in the hands of the great majority is what generates economic growth, not piles of money in the hands of the few.

Franklin D. Roosevelt, often praised by President Reagan, believed the greed of the few was destroying not only the opportunity of the many but the long-term welfare of the wealthy as well. Ronald Reagan is pushing in the opposite direction—more for the few, less for the many. He is ignoring the old maxim that government in a free society must look after the many; the affluent few can look after themselves.

As the ship of state heads for the reefs of economic disaster, let's hope that the new Captain will have the good sense to change course, fire his navigators and discard the fancy theories that are at such obvious variance with the facts. This is not 1932, and the voters will not sit still for another Great Depression, even if it means replacing the Captain.

Mr. Treires is Chief Economist for the Fund for Peace.

A squirrel may scrounge as much as twenty bushels of nuts and roots and seeds and put them in a number of caches scattered around his territory. However, squirrels have terrible memories and are often unable to find even a tenth of these caches later on.

The working woman can transform her business look into a festive evening look with just a trick or two. If you wear your hair loose at work, sweep it back or put it in a chignon. Use a flower, comb or pretty ribbon for added effect.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Dear Editor,

For a long time I have thought that I should let my friends know how Peabody Home and I are getting along. I had a wonderful Christmas. I hadn't had one for the last two years because in 1979 I fell and broke my hip. I had trouble with my mind and was in the hospital section of the home for some time. When I became myself in 1981, I was moved to another area of the health section. After several weeks, they told me that they had saved my room in the north building, so I could either go back there or stay here. After about two weeks I said that I wanted to stay here, so they moved my furniture and I have not been sorry. Our nurses and aides are very efficient and friendly and all they need to do for me is take care of the medicine I take. I am not sick, however I cannot walk alone. I have tried using a cane, but I can do much better with a walker.

I have been to the Wabash Cafeteria twice, up-town to eat several times, and to a big bazaar in Claypool.

We had programs nearly every day this Christmas season. A number of church groups came and gave us programs, and I didn't miss any. I had 48 callers in December, not counting the aides who came in to chat.

When I first came to Peabody Home, I started to work in the craft room, sewing circles to make clowns. Now they bring me yards of material and mark the circles, then I cut and sew them. There are three sizes: four, five, and eight inches. One month I did 521.

At the present time we have 240 members, seven being from the Akron area. Kaye, one of our activity girls, keeps me in library books, two or three a week, so soon after supper I go to bed and read until ten or eleven o'clock. I have not lost the habit of getting up early. We do not eat breakfast until eight o'clock, and since I am not allowed to make coffee in my room, they have given me the privilege of going to the employee's break room to make a cup of Sanka. The room is vacant at 5:30 a.m., so I go then. We have a girl who shops for us every Monday, so I always have some snacks in my room.

Now you see that I do not get too lonely, but I do enjoy callers and mail at any time, and if the time comes when you need a home and someone to help you, come to Peabody Home.

My wish for each one is that you have a happy 1982.

Dear Sir,

I look forward every week for the Akron-Mentone News. You have added so much extra. I also enjoy "Down Memory Lane" very much. I know so many "The Good Old Days."

I have been wondering if you are a relative of Sarah Burns McKee. She and I were close friends. We attended Sayger School (first through seventh), when our family moved to the farm in the Sugar Grove Neighborhood.

I have three brothers namely Lawrence, Lester, and Leon Kindig, and two sisters, Parentha (Clyde) Johnson, and Bernice (Raymond) Fenstermacher. They are all younger than I and are living in "Good Ole Indiana."

I always enjoy the Letters to Santa. I have fourteen grandchildren and eleven great-grandchildren.

Best Wishes for 1982.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Dear Editor:

The premise that are Founding Fathers established that those who govern do so only with the consent of the governed is being severely attacked. We find today that regional government is threatening our basic freedoms because it is becoming, in words of many of our elected officials, "a monster." For this reason nearly six years ago the Committee To Restore The Constitution did ask the Indiana State Legislature to investigate Federal Regionalism. We ask them to determine three things here in Indiana and all other states.

Number 1. Does federal regionalism seek to change or modify local government in any way without the knowledge and consent of the people?

Number 2. Does federal regionalism seek to change or destroy any of the freedoms of person and property guaranteed by the Constitution?

Finally, we ask the state legislature to determine if federal regionalism is an attempt to overthrow the Constitution and erect a new kind of government?

The Indiana Joint Interim Study Committee found these questions on Regional Government to be in the affirmative, because the key to success in any state lies in the state legislature. Only the legislators may speak for the state in its highest sovereign capacity to strike down and suppress the current efforts to take away the liberties of the people.

Responding to citizen unrest over the federal regional concept, and acting on testimony and documentation presented by many individuals during a four-month investigation of federal regionalism, chaired by Senator Gene Snowden, adopted on October 5, 1976, a bill designed to outlaw regionalism in the state of Indiana.

Both the Indiana Senate and the House of Representatives have passed the bill which voids the Federal imposed Regional Government in the State of Indiana.

The bill was first approved by the Senate 28 to 19 on March 1, 1981 after nearly six years of effort on the part of Senator Gene Snowden. On April 13, 1981 the House approved Senate Bill 1-75 to 23. The effort was lead by Rep. Robert Dailey, Speaker of the House and Rep. Richard Dellinger, Majority Leader of the House and Rep. Dean Mock. This made Indiana the first state to assert its right to state sovereignty.

The bad news is Governor Robert Orr delayed this vital law by veto on May 1, 1981. You may see Senate Bill #1 adopted starting in January, 1982 if you make your support known to your legislators in your county and district. Also call and write Senator Robert Garton and Rep. Robert Dailey. The address is: State House, Indianapolis, Indiana 46204. The toll free numbers are: Senate (1-800) 382-9467. House (1-800) 382-9841 or 382-9842.

Sincerely,
Paul F. Double, Pres.

Dear Editor:

The 1981 holiday season may remind many of us that some things haven't changed. This year, once again, we feasted upon a traditional (and probably lavish) turkey dinner, watched spectacular holiday parades, gathered around the television set to watch myriad football games and fought crowds in search of the perfect gift.

Some things haven't changed in other parts of the world either. This year, as in years past, people have been forced to flee their homelands, find shelter in crowded and unsanitary refugee camps and suffer the debilitating effects of malnutrition and disease.

In the Northeast African nation of Somalia, close to a million people are living in these camps. They are alive today because international relief agencies are providing them with the food, water and medical care they need to survive. But I am concerned about the dependency this assistance tends to create.

The 1981 holiday season should remind many of us that it is time for some things to change. It is time to put an end to widespread hunger and to dependence upon daily shipments of food. Some voluntary agencies, such as Save the Children, have taken a giant step in this direction by providing the Somali refugees with the skills and resources they need and want to provide for themselves. Instead of just handing out food, Save the Children is handing out techniques for growing food and for planting seeds, trees and small-plot family gardens.

The holiday season encourages us to share our love with family and friends. This season let's share our love, caring and concern with members of the human family by helping the Somali refugees regain self-sufficiency. Any contribution, no matter how small, can help. Please mail your check today to: Save the Children, Somali Relief Fund, Westport, Ct. 06880, attention Valerie Harper.

Sincerely,
Valerie Harper

January, the first month of the year is named for Janus, a Roman God. It is usually the coldest month of the year. Nature is quiet. The birds travel less, and many animals such as bears and woodchucks sleep both day and night. Plants rest in preparation for the next growing season.

The snowdrop is the special flower for the month. If often blooms in the snow. Some persons consider the carnation the special flower.

The wet snow which fell last week clung to trees and fences creating postcard scenes in the country.

The Akron Keen-agers' January birthdays will be celebrated on Thursday - the 14th. The Blood Pressure Clinic will be held at this date through the services of Ruth Bammerlin. Come join us for a day of fellowship with friends and neighbors.

Scheduled menus for the week of January 18-22 are:

DOG WARNING

The Akron Police Department has announced that any dogs in the town of Akron caught running loose, regardless of whether or not they have tags, will be transported to the Fulton County Humane Society, effective immediately. Dogs must be kept tied up or in confinement at all times, or they will be impounded. Stricter enforcement of the ordinance was triggered by an accident which happened last Wednesday, when a child was bitten by a stray dog on school grounds.

GIRL SCOUTS

It's Girl Scout cookie time!

What has become an annual American tradition continues in our community-Girl Scout Cookie sale begins on January 15 and extends until January 25.

This year 7 cookie varieties will be available. Indiana Lakeland Girl Scout Council members will be taking orders door-to-door and some girls will contact repeat order customers, friends and neighbors over the telephone.

The cookies are baked especially for Girl Scouts, vegetable shortening is used, they contain no artificial preservatives and freeze well. The Council supplier is Burry-Lu, Inc. who have been baking Girl Scout cookies for over 30 years.

There are two new varieties this year. The "Kookaburra" Cookie Bars are a small box of golden caramel sandwiched between a crisp, light wafers and then covered with a rich chocolate coating. They are very rich, almost like a candy.

The "Hoedown" is a crunchy cookie topped with a smooth peanut creme and covered with a chocolate coating which combine to give an irresistible dimension of flavor.

The other five varieties are the ever popular Thin Mints, Savannah (peanut butter), Scot Tea, Chocolate and Vanilla Creme and Dutch 'N Such. The cost to the customer this year is $1.75 per box. You're buying more than cookies without a doubt. You're helping each and every Girl Scout.

Since 1936, cookie sale funds have helped neighborhood girls participate in national and international Girl Scout events, and purchased equipment and property. Cookie Sale proceeds have also been available for camperships, and other Council and troop activities.

The troop gets a profit of 25 cents per box for their treasury to be used as they choose. From last year's sale the troops participating earned $41,868.00 and that was at 20 cents per box! The Council receives 82 cents per box for the operation and upkeep of Camp Singing Hills, the operating budget, and camperships. In addition, the Council pays for individual girl incentives.

During the past summer $19,749.00 of cookie credits were used at Established Camp (Camp Singing Hills) by the 585 girls who registered for the sessions. Other incentives this year are a Cookie Power patch for participation; a Frog Patch for 50 boxes; Frog charm for 100; Charm necklace or bracelet for 150; Frog pogo disc for 200; Writing pen on chain for 250; Visor for 300; T-shirt for 350; Tote bag for 400; Camera for 450; and Silver necklace for 500 boxes.

The cookies will be delivered to customers between February 20 and March 3. You can help make it happen! Girl Scouting can make the difference for any girl, it makes for better people in a changing world!

If you are missed, and would like to order some cookies, please call Mrs. Ronald Secrist-353-7933. Orders may be placed only on Jan. 15 thru Jan. 25, 1982. They will be delivered on Feb. 20 thru March 3, 1982.

RETIREMENT PLANNING

Second of Five Parts

IRA Tax Benefits Now Open To All Wage Earners You Don't Need To Save $2,000 A Year

Any American who's been on the planet Earth for the past few months and is interested in personal finance has probably heard something about IRAs. For more details, read on.

IRA stands for Individual Retirement Account, three little words that are destined to revolutionize how Americans save and plan for their retirement.

The new rules governing IRAs go into effect January 1, 1982. This will mark the first time that these tax-sheltered IRAs will be available to all wage-earners. In the past, only those who were not covered by company pension plans were able to open IRAs and take advantage of their tax benefits.

Most of what you've been reading probably talks about contributing $2,000 a year to an IRA. If you stopped reading when you saw the $2,000 figure, get ready to reconsider.

You don't need to contribute $2,000 a year to an IRA. That amount is the maximum you can contribute in any given year.

The first article in this series discussed how you could retire with $1 million if you saved $2,000 a year. Let's look at what you can expect if your financial situation doesn't allow you to save that much money.

Many of us, if we really tried, could cut back our spending by $10 a week. (Maybe it means not going out one night or packing a lunch two days a week, but we could do it.)

Actually, if you could save $9.62 a week, you could be saving $500 a year to contribute to your Individual Retirement Account, and $19.23 per week would allow a $1,000 per year contribution.

A yearly contribution to your IRA of just $500 could result in an account worth more than $400,000 in 40 years. If you find that hard to believe, figure it out for yourself. For the purpose of this example, use a 12 percent simple interest rate compounded annually. Start with $500, multiply by 12 percent for one year, which is $60 in interest. For year two, add your $500 contribution to the $560 in the account from year one and multiply by 12 percent. Your second-year interest is $127.20 and your account now totals $1,187.20.

Continue this calculation and you will find that after 25 years you will have contributed $12,500 and your account will total $74,667. The interest alone will be over $62,000.

If you work 30 years, your account could reach $135,146, and 40 years brings you to $429,571.

And remember, whatever your contribution, your IRA provides a tax shelter for that money. Your contribution is deducted from your gross income before you figure your taxes. The money cannot be withdrawn, without penalty, until you reach age 59½. However, you may keep the money in until age 70½. Then you must begin to withdraw it in specific amounts that will be based on life-expectancy tables and a percentage of the total amount in your account. Any money you withdraw after age 59½ will be taxed at the prevailing rate. Presumably you will be in a lower tax bracket in your retirement years.

Can you really afford not to have an Individual Retirement Account?

The American Bankers Association offers the following sample IRA chart. Clip this chart and this story and use them to help plan your IRA. Take the chart with you when you talk to your community banker about how much you could afford to set aside for your future—and then don't put it off any longer. Whatever you have to give up to save $9.62 a week now will be worth it when you retire.

Farmers use programs

Faced with record-level grain crops this year and weak prices, many farmers in the county are placing sizable amounts of wheat and corn in the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service's commodity loan program and the reserve to help strengthen market prices.

As of Jan. 6th, local producers had placed 1,269,665 bushels of

It's Girl Scout Cookie Time!

1981 corn and wheat under price support loan and $57,759 bushels in the reserve program, according to county ASC official, Steve Rodenberg.

The loan rate of wheat is $3.21 per bushel and $2.45 a bushel for corn. "Special reserve premiums of $2.60 a bushel for corn and $3.51 per bushel for wheat are offered to reserve program participants," he said.

Agricultural officials say wheat prices are the lowest in three years. However, increased demand for the crop is expected to improve the price level. Still, the 1981/82 average farm price for wheat will likely stay below last season's $3.96 a bushel. Season average corn prices are projected to range between $2.60 and $2.90 a bushel.

The ASCS commodity loan program provides farmers with operating cash while they bargain or hold their grain for future sales. Loans are available for approximately ten months after harvest. Although the program does not guarantee participating farmers a profit, it does guarantee a minimum price.

The grain reserve program provides three-year loans to farmers in addition to storage payments for isolating grain from the market until prices reach established levels.

Food stamp usage decreased

Indiana Food Stamp volume decreased for the third consecutive month in November, although remaining higher than a year ago according to Donald L. Blinzinger, State Welfare Administrator, whose agency administers the federally funded food stamp program in Indiana.

November food stamps totaling $16.3 million, down $300,000 from October, went to 385,028 persons (388,935 in October) in 131,985 households. The average value of stamps for a household was $123.85, up eleven cents over October.

Blinzinger indicated the November decrease can be attributed to the termination of additional households, having an excess gross income.

Over 1,000 households were terminated in October because of a new federal regulation that limited the amount of gross income to 130 percent of the national non-farm poverty level of $705 per month for a family of four. Other households received fewer stamps when the standard income disregard was reduced to 18 percent from the previous 20 percent.

Marion and Lake Counties continued to have multimillion dollar volumes in November ($3.4 million and $2.5 million respectively.) St. Joseph County was third with slightly $890,000, followed by Allen County with $829,000.

New books at Akron Library

Lonely But Never Alone by Nicky Cruz.

A Gift of Mirrors by Malcolm MacCoud--This is a story for those who like science fiction.

Tish by Cissie Miller--Young and headstrong Lady Letitia "Tish" Abbott lives with ailing grandfather and mother in England's beautiful lake district. For years, Tish's family has also lived with a secret scandal which has not only kept them remote from intimacy with their neighbors, but now, in 1816, penniless as well. An avid balloonist, Lady Letitia plans to fly across the English Channel and then write and sell the story of her voyage, thereby recouping the family fortune. This is a sparkling, gently humorous historical romance.

Peanut Butter On My Pillow by Rita W. Kramer--This is written by a mother of eight children. This is a humorous and witty book that many people should enjoy.

A White Robin by Miss Read--Young Helen Cogges spotted the white robin first. Then the vicar saw the white bird and was positive that it was a white robin. But the white robin came to a tragic end, much to the grief and fury of the villagers. Then one fine spring day hope returned. Could the vicar's wife really have seen another white robin, or was it just a flutter of paper or a nodding blossom? The Sun seemed to shine more brightly and the primroses grew larger than ever as rumors flew about town.

Wide Is The Water by Jane

Aiken Hodge--The time is 1780 and the bloody war of Independence has ended, but the peace terms are still a matter of passionate debate on both American and British sides. To the young lovers parted in the throes of war, the separation is not only one of miles but also of attitudes and heritage. For Mercy, who must flee blizzard-bound New England for sanctuary in Philadelphia, the challenge is to sort her way through the dangers of colonial politics and the dangerous seduction of another man who loves her-then to risk even life itself to cross the wide waters and fight for reunion with her true love.

CCC interest rate lowered

Commodity Credit Corporation commodity loans disbursed in January will have a 12.25 percent interest rate, Everett Rank, executive vice-president of the corporation, announced recently.

The new rate, down from 14.5 percent, reflects the interest rate charged CCC by the U. S. Treasury in January, Rank said.

Rank also said that outstanding 1981 crop CCC loans will be adjusted to reduce the original 14.5 percent interest rate charge to 12.25 percent.

The 12.25 percent interest rate applies also to outstanding and new farm storage facility loans which are subject to the variable interest rate, Rank said.

JUNE FULLER

THE COUPON CLIPPER

Meet some shopping champs of 1981

By June Fuller

1981 was a profitable year for many of my readers.

Sharon Lee of Bena, Ore., carefully studied the specials to purchase the items needed for the Duncan Hines $3 refund.

She bought the Double Fudge Brownie Mix for $1.19 (regularly $1.65), the Bran Muffin Mix for 88 cents (regularly $1.35), the Blueberry Muffin Mix for 93 cents (regularly $1.35) and a cake mix for 78 cents (regularly $1.09). She used a 20-cent-off coupon on each of these purchases.

The refund also called for a fruit purchase. She found a pound of apples on sale for 29 cents.

The total cost of all of these items came to $3.27 instead of the regular $5.73 regularly. When she received her $3 refund the net cost of all of these items was only 27 cents. "It's been a wonderful year," says Ms. Lee.

Jane Ohler of Somerset, Pa., had two "Buy One, Get One Free" coupons for Beechnut Fruit Juice six-packs, so she was able to purchase four packs for the price of two.

When she got home, she found an offer on the carton for a free six-pack in return for four proofs of purchase. This gave her five packages for the price of two. "Inside one of the packages I found three 20-cent-off coupons, which made this an even better bargain," she says.

Sheryl Dickerson of London, Ohio, found a Reach toothbrush in her Christmas stocking back in 1980 and saved the carton. Months later she used it to send for three 50-cent Reach coupons.

Then she waited until the toothbrushes were on sale for 79 cents each and paid only 87 cents for all three. But her savings weren't over.

"I also bought a package of Johnson's Dental Floss for just 57 cents with a 10-cent coupon," she reports. "I hurried home and found the form for the $3 Dental Checkup Refund and quickly mailed off the proofs from the toothbrushes and the dental floss. After subtracting the cost of the products from the refund, I made a profit of $1.56! And it all started with one toothbrush in my Christmas stocking."

Patricia Ann Taylor found Pepsi Cola on sale for 99 cents. When her store doubled her 50-cent coupons, she got all four bottles free. When she got home, she sent in the four proofs of purchase for a free pair of Nonsense Pantyhose.

Bobbi Wiley of Kenton, Ohio, saw a K-Mart ad for Prestone Anti-Freeze at $3.27 a gallon. She shopped on double-coupon day with two $1 coupons, each good on the purchase of 2 gallons. So, the four gallons cost her only $9.08.

Here is how she tells the rest of the story: "I trade refund forms with a friend, and the very next day she sent me an envelope full of refund forms. Inside was a Prestone $5 refund offer for sending in four inner seals. That's what I call saving money!"

I do, too. Here's a refund form to write for: The Rave Challenge, P.O. Box 4041, Jefferson City, Mo. 65102. This $2 refund offer expires April 30, 1982.

Here is this week's list of refund offers. Start looking for the required refund forms, which you can obtain at the supermarket, in newspaper and magazine advertisements and from trading with friends. Meanwhile, start collecting the needed proofs of purchase as detailed below. Remember, some offers are not available in all areas of the country.

Today's refund offers have a value of $7.86.

ASC Convention held Dec. 17

Dale Gordon, a well known Fulton county farmer from New-castle Township, was named to the county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation committee by delegates to the county ASC convention, held Dec. 17th at the county ASCS office.

The delegates also elected Michael Smith and Richard Sadler, both from Wayne Township, as first and second alternates to the committee.

Robert Herrold of Wayne Township and Larry Brockey of Aubbeenaubee Township are the other two members of the county committee and they were both re-elected as chairman and vice-chairman, respectively, of the committee. Joe A. Kroft of Henry Township vacated his position on the county committee this year after serving the maximum allowable period of three consecutive 3-year terms.

Since Dale Gordon was elected to the county ASC committee, he will no longer serve on the county committee from Newcastle Township. Don Pfeiffer will move up from his first alternate position to fill the spot vacated by Gordon on the township committee.

The county ASC committee is responsible for local administration of government farm programs such as Wheat and Feed Grain, Facility and Commodity Loans, Agricultural Conservation, Wool Incentive Payment, Milk Indemnity, Emergency Feed and Emergency Conservation.

The vacancies were filled by farmer-delegates who are newly-elected ASC community committee persons for 1982. Community committees assist the county committee in farm program administration.

Doing MORE...With LESS!

by the staff of

THE MOTHER EARTH NEWS

AN IN-TOWN HOMESTEAD!

The Farallones Institute is a non-profit organization begun in 1969 by several northern Californians who were interested in low-impact, non-resource-intensive living... especially in the city. A two-story Victorian building in Berkeley, California—which has been remodeled inside and out—is their proving ground. The structure, called the Integral Urban House, is no longer merely a dwelling... it's the nucleus of a mini-ecosystem in which rabbits, chickens, fish, honeybees, plants, microbes, and people interact in a flourishing example of interrelated self-reliance.

The variety of fruits and vegetables raised on the home's 125' X 60' lot is nothing short of astounding. There are raised beds of vegetables scattered about the yard, and plots of herbs and perennials near the kitchen. In addition, dwarf fruit trees—espoused to a wall of the house—provide lemons, plums, and three kinds of apples.

IUH staffers use no chemical fertilizers to bring forth this bounty of luscious edibles. Rather, a one-inch-deep layer of compost—made from kitchen garbage, rabbit manure, grass clippings, sawdust, and other wastes—is maintained on the garden's beds.

To further make the point that anyone, even apartment dwellers, can grow their own food, Integral House residents have created a rooftop garden... consisting solely of containers filled with pure compost.

All together, about 15 chickens—layers and fryers—inhabit the Institute's urban homestead. Four hens live in a "composting house" on the roof, where the birds lay eggs and produce rich manure for the compost heap. The remaining cluckers are kept at ground level, on the shady north side of the building.

Some 10 to 20 rabbits are also housed on the structure's shady side. (The rabbits and chickens provide a couple of hundred pounds of animal protein a year.)

Bees are another ideal variety of city "livestock". They're quiet, take care of themselves, and don't need to be fed (at least not often). The Integral Urban House has two hives located on a platform high above the fish pond.

Recycling is important at IUH. As a result, almost nothing is "thrown away". Milk cartons, paper bags, scraps of paper, even garbage, human wastes, and dirty water are recycled right on the premises.

Human wastes are composted, but not in the usual bins. Instead, the wastes decompose inside a waterless toilet which local authorities have allowed to be used on an experimental basis. (One resident figures that the entire IUH household uses only as much water as the average family does just in flushing their toilet during a day!)

The sun's energy heats the home's water and, by shining through south-facing windows, provides a degree of passive solar heating during the day. Also, one bathroom sports a "bottle wall", made up of one-gallon glass jugs, filled with ink-blackened water and supported in rows inside the windows. The jugs serve as heat sinks, absorbing the sun's rays.

So, you see, it is possible to live a more self-reliant, ecologically sound lifestyle, even when you have close city neighbors. The Integral Urban House proves it.

of Corrections and fined $100 plus costs.

The sentence was suspended and he was placed on probation for five years with the terms being that he serve 90 days in the Fulton County Jail on consecutive weekends or holidays beginning Feb. 1; continue sleeping outside his home as has been in the past until further order of the court; pay the fine and costs; report to the probation officer; seek and accept a program of counseling as the probation officer may direct which counseling shall be at his expense.

Raymond C. Hughes was charged with theft of tool box from Cook Brothers Furniture Store truck on Dec. 22. Hughes was found to be indigent and James O. Wells, public defender, was appointed as his counsel. Arraignment was set for 2 p.m. Monday.

"Save 100 Lives" successful

One of the goals of the Indiana State Police for the calendar year 1981 was to "Save 100 Lives."

The measurement for this goal was to use a five year average of fatalities and reduce this figure by 100. The five year average was 1,268, so our goal was to not exceed 1,168. As of midnight, December 30, 1981, there were 1,152 reported traffic fatalities on Indiana highways. Unless something drastic happens in the last few hours of 1981, the Indiana State Police will have reached their goal. The success of this goal is attributed to many factors: public concern and awareness through the news media, enforcement, the economy, and the use of seatbelts. The State Police have set a goal to Save 100 lives in 1982; figuring from the last five year average through 1981.

This goal can be easily reached if motorists would fasten their seatbelts. People will spend hundreds of dollars for insurance to replace their car in case of an accident, but will not fasten their seatbelts to protect their life that cannot be replaced at any cost.

In 1980, 325 people of the 1,177 persons who died on Indiana highways, over 25%, would have lived had they been wearing seatbelts, according to the opinion of the investigating police officers. If only 10% of the 1,177 had worn seatbelts, which is the national average, then there were 1,059 persons not wearing seatbelts. 325, 30% of these people would have lived had they been wearing seatbelts.

If just 50% of the motorists would wear seatbelts and also insist their passengers wear seatbelts, 141 lives could be saved in 1982, comparing to 1980 figures.

MURPHY'S LAW: If anything can go wrong, it will! Last week's cold weather was a prime example of "Murphy's Law" when the Akron Water Department crew of Sparks, Ringle and Swihart, assisted by Dave Bussard, tackled a broken water line in the south part of Akron on St. Rd. 19. The temperature got in the teens that day, so it was almost like a heat wave after the weekend of below zero weather.

Wright home burns

A Miami County home was totally destroyed by fire last Monday morning after three attempts to save the building failed over the weekend. The home, located seven miles Southeast of Akron on Co. Rd. 1500 North, a half mile East of Co. Rd. 500 East, was owned by the Dorman Wright family.

The family discovered the fire around 7:15 p.m. on Friday evening and the Akron Volunteer Fire Department was called to the home, remaining on the scene for over three hours. The fire, which had apparently started due to a faulty heat exchanger on the fireplace, spread down the entire length of a heat duct which ran through the center of the house, burning out the ceiling joists. There was heavy smoke damage and minimal water damage. The estimated damage to the home at that time was $25,000.00 and $20,000.00 to its contents.

Approximately 10:30 a.m. Saturday morning, the Akron Fire Department was again called to the Wright residence because of the smoldering fire which had begun again, this time starting in the insulation. The department spent an hour at the scene of the fire this time, to be sure the blaze was contained.

A third call was received at the department on Monday, January 11 at 4:00 a.m., however, because of the weather conditions making roads impassable, they were unable to reach the home and the blaze leveled the home this time.

The home valued at $40,000.00 and the contents valued at $20,000.00 were both listed as total losses. The Wrights had lived in their new home only four months. There were no injuries.

Swim - marathon Sunday at Valley

Lots of fun, excitement and surprises will await anyone attending the TVAC Swim-Marathon on Sunday, January 24th, beginning at 12 noon at the Tippecanoe Valley swimming pool.

The purpose of the Swim-Marathon is to raise funds to purchase a new scoreboard at the Tippecanoe Valley pool and provide TVAC with operating expenses.

Included in the fun will be the following teachers and administrators who will add their bit by struggling to do at least one lap of the pool during the afternoon. Included in the events will be Wayne Cumberland, Dale Pace, Kim Metcalf, Rick Ralston, Charlie Smith, Dave Krieger, Bob DuBois, Principals Robert Meyers and Jack Fisher and Superintendent Baxter Paige.

The swim team's parents will be showing the swimmers the correct way to do their "strokes" during the afternoon and Rita Price, who will announce for the events will probably take a few dips in the pool, "with a little help from her friends."

The marathon is a way to help the boys and girls of the TVAC Swim Club do a good job and be proud of what they accomplish. With your help they can recognize their goals and everyone will be proud of them.

If you would like to help TVAC with your pledges or donations, please contact Phyllis Goodwin, 491-3272, Jerry Secrist, 353-7701 or Cheryl Rodenberg, 893-4144.

Accidents blamed on weather

A car-truck accident at noon Saturday was blamed on the snow. Akron police said a car driven by Orville J. Sherman, 68, Rt. 1, Claypool, and a truck driven by Gregory L. Groninger, 28, Rt. 1, Silver Lake, were following a snow plow on Indiana 1400 East. The plow hit a drift causing visibility to diminish and the truck struck the car from the rear. Akron police reported.

Akron police also reported that a car driven by Barbara J. Randall, 29, Akron, hit a slick spot on Indiana 14 in Akron and struck a parked truck owned by Donald Hedington, Route 5, Warsaw. The accident, at 4:28 p.m. Monday, occurred as the car was westbound on Indiana 14, east of Indiana 19.

Fulton County Extension Service is presenting a program on Cleaning Carpets on Wednesday, January 20, at 1:30 p.m. Susan Neher, Extension Agent from Peru, will present the information at the Electric Living Center, Public Service In, Rochester.

Public invited. Martha Shireman Extension Agent-Home Economist

WHAT'S THAT WHITE STUFF?? As if everyone hadn't seen enough of the snow last weekend, we just had to publish a picture of this "heap" on St. Rd. 19, South of Akron, which caused so much trouble for people last week. Road crews spent several hours digging through and removing the drift which closed the road to traffic last weekend. Although many roads were closed to traffic, this drift was the prime reason for Akron's Fire Department not being able to answer a fire call to the Wright home on 1500 N., Miami County, which burned to the ground on Monday, Jan. 11. (News Photo)

Judge releases annual report

Fulton Circuit Court Judge Douglas B. Morton has this date released the annual for 1981 statistical report.

During 1981 the Circuit Court received 430 civil filings, 59 criminal filings, 17 adoptions, 96 estates, 22 guardianships, 26 juvenile proceedings and 36 juvenile delinquency proceedings. The 430 civil filings is a record high for Fulton County.

Civil filings for 1981 included 147 dissolutions, 93 complaints on notes and accounts, 37 complaints for money damages, 46 reciprocal support petitions, 39 foreclosures on mortgages and land contracts, 15 replevins (foreclosures on personal property), 8 habitual traffic offender petitions, 14 disallowed estate claims, 3 driving permit requests, 2 name changes, 13 requests for tax determination (the Empregas cases) and 23 miscellaneous filings.

As to specific kinds of cases, the filing of dissolutions decreased in 1981 from 161 in 1980 down to 147. Complaints for damages decreased from 45 to 37 but foreclosures increased from 33 to 39 and replevins increased from 8 to 15.

Among the 59 criminal cases filed, probable cause was denied in one instance and 9 cases retain active warrants where the defendant has not been located. Of the 49 remaining cases, Public Defender, James O. Wells, was appointed in 22 cases. In 3 other cases, the defendant requested court appointed counsel and was found to be not indigent but unable to immediately obtain the funds for hiring an attorney and was therefore also appointed in those 3 cases.

Because of conflicting claims among co-defendants, the Court also appointed Attorney Ted Waggoner on two criminal cases, William Tuley-Welch upon one criminal case and one juvenile case and attorney Richard Brown on one criminal case and two juvenile cases. Public Defender Wells was also appointed in five juvenile delinquency matters. Attorney Fred Rakestraw was appointed to complete one appellate proceeding.

Although not an official part of the Court record, the Fulton County Probation Department also opened 72 informal probation proceedings for juveniles.

Judge releases annual report

Fulton Circuit Court Judge Douglas B. Morton has this date released the annual for 1981 statistical report.

During 1981 the Circuit Court received 430 civil filings, 59 criminal filings, 17 adoptions, 96 estates, 22 guardianships, 26 juvenile proceedings and 36 juvenile delinquency proceedings. The 430 civil filings is a record high for Fulton County.

Civil filings for 1981 included 147 dissolutions, 93 complaints on notes and accounts, 37 complaints for money damages, 46 reciprocal support petitions, 39 foreclosures on mortgages and land contracts, 15 replevins (foreclosures on personal property), 8 habitual traffic offender petitions, 14 disallowed estate claims, 3 driving permit requests, 2 name changes, 13 requests for tax determination (the Empregas cases) and 23 miscellaneous filings.

As to specific kinds of cases, the filing of dissolutions decreased in 1981 from 161 in 1980 down to 147. Complaints for damages decreased from 45 to 37 but foreclosures increased from 33 to 39 and replevins increased from 8 to 15.

Among the 59 criminal cases filed, probable cause was denied in one instance and 9 cases remain active warrants where the defendant has not been located. Of the 49 remaining cases, Public Defender, James O. Wells, was appointed in 22 cases. In 3 other cases, the defendant requested court appointed counsel and was found to be not indigent but unable to immediately obtain the funds for hiring an attorney and was therefore also appointed in those 3 cases.

Because of conflicting claims among co-defendants, the Court also appointed Attorney Ted Waggoner on two criminal cases, William Tuley-Welch upon one criminal case and one juvenile case and attorney Richard Brown on one criminal case and two juvenile cases. Public Defender Wells was also appointed in five juvenile delinquency matters. Attorney Fred Rakestraw was appointed to complete one appellate proceeding.

Although not an official part of the Court record, the Fulton County Probation Department also opened 72 informal probation proceedings for juveniles.

State police accept new post at Peru

Lt. John D. Gaylor, District Commander of Peru District 23 at Peru, announced that the Indiana Department of Administration, has accepted the new state police installation at Peru. The keys were accepted by the state police from the Verklor Construction, South Bend, on January 15, 1982.

State police technicians will be installing communications and Indiana Bell Telephone Company will be installing new equipment in the building in the next two weeks. Lt. Gaylor is hopeful that the operations of this new installation will be made near the middle of February.

This newest state police post has been in the making since January of 1981. It has a space area of 15,800 square feet and a cost of $1,370,000. Lt. Gaylor stated that this post will certainly improve the service that the state police can provide to the citizens of north central Indiana. Peru District presently serves Wabash, Miami, Cass, Fulton, Howard, and Tipton counties.

An open house will be announced at a later date, hopefully in early spring.

An increasing deer herd in Indiana is resulting in more vehicle-deer collisions. In 1980, over 2,600 highway kills were reported, an increase of 10 percent over 1979.

IRA'S,
KEOGH'S
AND RUBE GOLDBERG

by James J. Treires

"The new Individual Retirement Accounts, on sale after Jan. 1, are a wonderful windfall tax shelter for most Americans." This is the first line of a recent article in the Washington Post. It explains how President Reagan's new tax laws can help the clever individual taxpayer keep more money from the government by setting up an "IRA" while still maintaining a company pension plan or a Keogh plan.

These complicated plans and the U.S. tax code itself indicate that we are fast becoming a society in which the well-educated and well-heeled are given all the advantages while the average working American is being taken to the cleaners.

Neo-conservatives insist that what we all want is individual responsibility and free choice, and that we'd rather make our own retirement plans with our own money than let some faceless government agency handle our pension money.

Don't believe it. Most people need and want a system that is simple in design and easy to understand. And they have a lot more faith in the honesty of the federal government than they have in any private insurance company or banking institution. The Veterans Administration life insurance system is economical, efficient and easy to understand. Social Security is still, despite the distracting and unnecessary refinements added over the past decade, the most widely respected pension system we have. And both are funded by the people who will benefit from them.

Financial writers like Sylvia Porter don't seem to understand that most of their readers have neither the time, energy nor expertise to adjust their spending and saving to take maximum advantage of intricate tax breaks. And even if they did, their low wages and salaries would make it a fruitless effort. What good are the new IRA rules to a family that can't afford to save anything?

What we need is what neither political party has the courage to propose: a comprehensive national pension system. Experts keep telling us Social Security was never intended to provide a full retirement income—just a supplement. That's not how I remember it, but that's another story. The important question now is: Why shouldn't Social Security be redesigned to provide a full retirement income?

The new system should be modeled on the federal workers' pension system. Employees would pay in a percentage of their earnings, and on reaching retirement age, would receive a pension based on length of service and earnings in their five highest-paid consecutive years of employment.

Think about that. No profits to private companies, no bank clerks computing interest and fine-print penalties, no companies going broke and leaving their employees without pensions, no union officials misusing the pension funds, no lawyers playing expensive games.

Radio and newspaper ads are now telling young people that paying $2,000 a year into an IRA account will let them retire as millionaires. What they don't mention is that if the interest rates they use in making these projections turn out to be accurate, by the time you retire, that million dollars won't be enough to buy you a two-bedroom bungalow.

One of our traditional strengths has been our penchant for directness and simplicity. But when we have to pay H&R Block to figure out our income tax and consult a lawyer and the banks to plan our retirement, somebody in Washington is trying to put one over on us.

Older people may remember the powerful opposition to setting up Social Security in the first place. Conservatives insisted it was a giant step to socialism and the end of a free society. We will hear the same arguments when we try to make it better, but they aren't any more valid today than they were then.

LETTERS
TO THE EDITOR

To the Editor:

At the present time I am sponsoring in the Indiana House of Representatives House Bill 1322, which will establish a wider access to Vietnam Veterans who feel they at any time may have been exposed to Agent Orange, or feel they or members of their families are now suffering or in the past have suffered from the effects of exposure to Agent Orange.

This bill establishes a procedure for the veteran's personal physician or hospital to submit results of independent Agent Orange examinations to the State Board of Health and the Indiana University Medical Center.

I submit this letter in hope that you will help me contact all area Vietnam Veterans, so that they may contact me with details of their tour of service and symptoms they may have.

Thank you in advance for your assistance.

To the Editor:

The emotional debate over construction work in progress (CWIP) has been making news. Your readers should be aware of several facts as they make up their minds on this vital energy issue.

Indiana House Bill 1137—the CWIP bill—would give state regulators the option to permit utilities to include construction work in progress in the process that's used to determine customer service rates.

The bill has been called "pro-utility" legislation. But it's really "pro-consumer" legislation because it will save money for you and me—the consumers of utility services. In our case, for example, about 45 % of the cost of the Marble Hill project is interest on the money we must borrow to build the plant. With CWIP, much of this cost could be eliminated and electricity from the plant would cost at least $50 million less each year. That's an average saving of nearly $100 a year for each Public Service Indiana customer.

Here's how it would work. Instead of paying a big increase in rates when a new power plant or other utility project begins producing, rates would go up more gradually as the project was being built. Interest (or carrying charges) on the project would be paid off during construction. That way, the consumer would pay those carrying charges only once, rather than paying interest on interest over the life of the plant. Of course, the actual cost of the facility—the labor and material costs—would not begin to be paid for until the plant actually went into service. And the entire process would be regulated by the state on a case-by-case basis.

CWIP isn't new or unique—about two-thirds of the 50 states already allow some form of it for their utilities. And in those states, consumers are paying less in the long run for utility service than without it.

There's no question that utility rates will continue to go up—whether Indiana allows CWIP or not. But keep in mind that the people who oppose CWIP would force you and me to pay more for utility service than we need to.

Sincerely,

Richard P. Stein

Public Service Indiana

LOUISA'S LETTER

Dear Louisa,

I had been going with my boy friend for almost two years when we had a quarrel and he stopped dating me. I called him up and we talked things over and started dating again but things were not the same as before. We never seem to agree on anything—he would want to go one place and I would like another. He would criticize my make-up and I didn't like his hair-cut. So he stopped calling me but I always thought he would come back.

Several days ago a friend of mine told me he was going steady with a girl who lives in another town. This made me so angry that I don't know what to do. Would it help if I called her and told her that he was my steady? I don't know what kind of girl she is

Answer:

I would do nothing but be pleasant to my former boy friend whenever I saw him, if I were in your place. You say that you had broken off relations with this boy so I would not consider him your steady under the circumstances. It would certainly not serve your purpose to call this other girl unless you wish to cause more friction and bad feelings between you and this boy.

Pike Lumber Co. announces new operation

Dean Baker, Vice President and Timberland Manager of Pike Lumber Company located in Akron, Indiana, recently informed this publication that construction has now begun on a new sawmilling operation at the company's Western Indiana operation located in the town of Carbon, approximately 20 miles northeast of Terre Haute.

According to Baker, this new facility, coupled with the firm's modern sawmilling and kiln drying operation at Akron, was engineered to increase production of high grade hardwoods which the company distributes throughout the United States and Canada, as well as overseas.

Located in the Wabash River Valley in the northern part of Indiana, Pike Lumber Company owns and operates sawmills, a tree farm network throughout Michigan, Ohio and Indiana, a full-service distribution center, and one of the largest "spot-cash" markets for high grade logs and timber in the Tri-State area.

Current plans call for the new mill to begin operation no later than April 1.

The span of life is too short for anyone to learn enough to brag about.

FIRESIDE PASTIMES

The Art of Shadow Pictures. Before television—or even radio—came along, adults often amused children (and themselves) on long winter evenings by casting hand shadows on the wall. This simple pastime is still entertaining... and at least as stimulating as the average TV shoot-em-up.

You'll need a white or lightly colored wall on which to "project" the imaginary figures, using a good, bright light. Position the lamp close enough to the "screen" to produce sharp, clear shadows. Some suggested illusions are shown here, and many others are described in children's books.

By wiggling your thumbs and fingers, you'll soon be able to make your figures appear to move, talk, eat, and react in a surprisingly lifelike manner. Complete the illusion with sound effects, and you'll be the absolute center of attention of any waist-high audience you're likely to encounter.

Make An "Eye of God".
When you've finally called intermission in your shadow act, set the little ones up with some yarn and sticks and let them design "Eyes of God".

Lay a strand of yarn (the exact length needed, of course, will depend on the size of your planned creation) straight out on a table. Place two sticks (twigs, pencils, or any kind of thin rods) side by side across the thread near one end, tie a single tight knot around them in the middle of both, and then make a second knot over the first.

Now twist the sticks so they form a cross and wind both the long piece of yarn and the short leftover end once around one stick... then begin to wind over, under, and around (once) the next stick to the right. Continue working in the same direction, going from stick to stick.

If you want to change colors midway through, merely cut the yarn you're working with and hide the end securely among your finished "stitches". Then secure the beginning of the next piece of colored string in the same manner, and resume winding.

To complete the handicraft, just clip the yarn and hide the loose end behind the design as you did when changing colors.

CCC loan interest rate lowered

Commodity Credit Corporation commodity loans disbursed in January will have a 12.25 percent interest rate, Everett Rank, executive vice president of the corporation, announced today.

The new rate, down from 14.5 percent, reflects the interest rate charged CCC by the U.S. Treasury in January, Rank said.

Rank also said that outstanding 1981-crop CCC loans will be adjusted to reduce the original 14.5 percent interest rate charge to 12.25 percent.

The 12.25 percent interest rate applies also to outstanding and new farm storage facility loans which are subject to the variable interest rate, Rank said.

An arctic blast which sent temperatures plunging to record smashing lows last week brought back many memories to the Akron Keen-Agers of years gone by. Winters they spent huddled around the wood stove, ice covered windows; the chopping of wood, carrying it in the house, filling the woodbox in the corner of the room; water freezing in the drinking pail in the kitchen; walking to school with snow over the fence tops -- those were the "good old days."

Thinking ahead may save you discomfort or illness. With winter storms and prolonged cold spells, try to contact a relative or neighbor who will check on you periodically in the event of harsh weather. Make arrangements now for someone to come and shovel snow or clear ice from your steps and walks. Food is important, have a supply of canned fruit, meat, powdered milk, canned fruit drinks and other items that need not be cooked. Also have a flashlight with extra batteries available.

Terry McGovern gives some tips on taking medicine the right way. Don't exchange drugs. What's right for you may not be right for someone else. Store medicines in a cool, dry place (not in the refrigerator) unless specified otherwise by your pharmacist. Keep medicines closed tightly in their original containers. Read the label carefully each time you take the drug. Don't take medicine in the dark, bottles and pills look the same.

Here's hoping you and yours enjoy a year filled to the brim with health and happiness too. Good humor makes all things tolerable. A smile is an inexpensive way to improve your looks -- try it!

Our thanks to Gary Gagnon, Sr., for cleaning steps and walks this week for the Akron Nutrition Site. It is through volunteer work that the Nutrition Program works. If you would like to be a volunteer or for meal reservations, please call 893-7204.

Scheduled menus for the week of January 25-29 are:

Monday - Swiss Steak, Whipped Potatoes with Gravy, Spinach, Brown Bread, Chocolate Pudding, Milk, Fruit Juice.

Tuesday - Baked Ham, Breaded Tomatoes, Sweet Potatoes, Brown Bread, Fruit Jello, Milk.

Wednesday - Fried Chicken, Au Gratin Potatoes, Chopped Broccoli, Hot Dinner Roll, Applesauce, Milk.

Thursday - Spaghetti with Meat Balls, Peas, Cole Slaw, Wheat Bread, Cake, Milk.

Autograph party for new book

"At last, it's done," rejoiced Shirley Willard, president of the Fulton County Historical Society and editor of the new book, Fulton County Folks vol. 2. "We have worked on this book for over five years and we are confident that everyone will agree it was well worth it."

Employees of Hardesty Printing completed printing and gathering the book Friday and it was taken to Heckman Bindery at North Manchester Tuesday, January 12. The bindery has promised to deliver within two weeks.

The public reception and autograph party for the new book will be held in the Civic Center Museum, 7th and Pontiac, Rochester, on Jan. 24 at 2 p.m. Refreshments will be served and the public is welcome.

Harold and Helen Reese, Rt. 7, Rochester, will show slides and tell about their trip to Yorktown, Virginia, to see the re-enactment of the Battle of Yorktown which concluded the Bicentennial. On October 19, 1781, General Cornwallis surrendered to Gen. George Washington, thus ending the American Revolutionary War 200 years ago.

The new hard-cover Fulton Co. Folks vol. 2 has 668 pages, over twice the size originally estimated, which caused the cost of printing to be higher, thus forcing the FCHS Board of Directors to raise the price of the book. Though twice the size, the price is not twice as high, so this book is a real bargain. It sells for $35 a copy, plus $2 for mailing if desired.

Approximately 300 copies of the book were sold at a lower price in the pre-publication sales campaign. These orders will be honored, but people are urged to donate what they can toward the difference so that FCHS will not lose money on the book publication.

A book of this size usually sells for $45 to $50 nowadays, and the reason this book costs less is because of the many volunteers who donated their time to research, write, type, and help proofread. We thank these volunteers and invite them to come to the autograph party and be available to write autographs at the public reception for the book."

Persons who lent photos for publication in the book may pick them up at the Civic Center Museum, which is open Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

QUESTION - Which occupational group in the United States has the highest percentage of problems with alcoholism and drug abuse?

- Doctors and nurses
- Professional athletes
- Law enforcement officers
- Bartenders

ANSWER - Just as black lung disease is the coal miner's major occupational hazard, so is alcoholism and drug abuse the scourge of physicians, nurses, and pharmacists, says Dr. G. Douglas Talbott, director of Georgia's Disabled Doctor's Program. Talbott told the Palm Beach Institute conference that one out of seven physicians in any hospital group in the United States is in trouble with drugs.

Besides alcohol - the drug of choice of most physicians - darvon, tylenol, talwin, and demerol are all causing "a lot of trouble," and cocaine and THC (marijuana) are showing up with more frequency as the causes of problems among physicians.

Correct answer - a. Do you have a question or a comment about drugs? Write: DATE (Drug/Alcohol/Tobacco Education), 3426 Bridgeland Drive, Bridgeton, Mo. 63044.

her crew spent nearly three years writing, screen-testing, filming and editing this heartwarming story. Because the film covers a period of sixty-three years, extensive research into the costume, speech, and mannerisms of each period was essential. Every detail was important to insure accuracy and authenticity.

Historically correct and technically beautiful, "Sheffey" is a man worth knowing, a story worth telling, and a film worth seeing.

Apply now is word from SAFE

"If you have received a letter from the State Allowance for Energy program (Project SAFE) please read it carefully," urges Jean Merritt, Executive Director of the Indiana Office of Community Services Administration, which administers Project SAFE.

She indicated many people who have received a letter from Project SAFE think the letter alone makes them eligible for deductions from their electric and fuel bills. "This is not always true," Mrs. Merritt indicated. "There are certain people who have received a letter from our office who must make out an application at either their electric or gas utility."

She emphasized that highly trained employees of the utilities are available every working day to assist with the application process.

She added, "The sooner people make application, the sooner they will begin to receive benefits."

Mrs. Merritt stated that a single person household must have an annual income at or below $4,957 to qualify for benefits. This figure goes up to $6,544 for a two person household and escalates $1,587 for each additional family member.

In addition to gas and electric utilities, applications may be made at Community Action Agencies and at Area Agencies on Aging.

VA Education benefits extended

A one-time, two-year extension of GI Bill delimiting date is available for as many as 39,000 Vietnam-era veterans education.

Extended eligibility for certain training programs was included in the Veterans' Health Care, Training and Small Business Loan Act of 1981 signed into law by the President November 3. The extension period opened January 1 and runs through December 31, and applies to educationally disadvantaged or unskilled Vietnam-era veterans who allowed their 10-year delimiting date to expire before using all their entitlement for educational training.

Eligible veterans may use their remaining entitlement to obtain a high school diploma, or its equivalent, or pursue a program of apprenticeship, other on-the-job training or a program with a vocational objective.

Enrollment in college degree, flight or correspondence courses is not included in the extension. Veterans who have already earned college degrees are ineligible for the extension.

The VA is urging all potentially eligible veterans to get complete information on this program at VA offices or through service officers.

The Fulton County Veterans' Service Office, is open Monday through Friday in the Court House or call 223-2217.

One less for Uncle Sam

Indiana's Tax Independence Day—the day when the average Hoosier stops working to pay taxes and starts working for himself—will come on April 27 during 1982.

Last year the date was April 28. This means that the average Indiana resident will work one day less for government in 1982.

The Indiana State Chamber of Commerce reported the date of Tax Independence Day today upon issuing its annual Tax Calendar. This publication is a comprehensive listing of federal, state and local tax periods and due dates and agency reporting requirements. It is invaluable to business and industry.

Gaining a day on the tax collector is happy news for Hoosiers, but no thanks to Uncle Sam for this boon.

"President Reagan's much-heralded tax cuts are not the reason for gaining one day, for two reasons," said William Styring, State Chamber vice president for public finance.

"First, the federal tax reductions are more modest than many people realize. The public sees the new program as a tax 'cut'. In fact, the real effect will be to stop the increase in the share of family income taken by the federal government."

"Second, the combination of higher Social Security taxes plus 'bracket creep' during 1982 will offset any federal reductions enjoyed by the average American."

Styring credits the conservative tax policy in Indiana for the one-day gain.

"The earlier Tax Independence Day is owing to the fact that Indiana state and local government continues to take slightly smaller chunks of Hoosier income every year," he said.

Sheriff and prosecutor to seek re-election

Kosciusko County Prosecuting Attorney Michael Miner and Sheriff C. Alan Rovenstine announced today they are seeking re-election to their second terms and will be candidates on the Republican ticket in the May primary.

Rovenstine and Miner are the first to declare their candidacies for the offices.

Sheriff Rovenstine commented if he is re-elected that he will spend much of his time organizing the policies, procedures and activities of the new jail. In approximately one month, the sheriff and his staff will move into the new facility.

In addition, the sheriff said he would like to start a program to computerize county police records. The sheriff said he will continue to plan the addition of patrol officers to the county police force. However, that's something that the commissioners, council and sheriff must jointly agree on.

During the past three years, the sheriff said he has met most of his goals.

Along with working for the sheriff's department, Rovenstine was associated with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. L. (Tim) Rovenstine, in the operation of the family store, worked as a distributor for County Line Cheese Company, and was an employee of Creighton Brothers.

He is a member of the Indiana Sheriff's Association, Kosciusko Fraternal Order of Police, Masons, Scottish Rite, Shrine, Kosciusko County Shrine Club, Atwood Lions and the Moose Lodge. He is a former Republican precinct committeeman for Prairie 2.

He is a 1956 graduate of Atwood High School and attended Butler University. Rovenstine and his wife, Sandra, are the parents of three children, Aaron, Nanette, and Nicole.

Miner says, if re-elected, he would like to continue a "bad check program" he helped institute. He also said he would like the newly-created position of prosecutor's investigator to also deal with the public as an ombudsman.

Also working alongside Miner is James Walmer, the Title 4-D deputy prosecuting attorney, and his secretary, Marilyn Kenip.

Miner, 33, grew up on a farm near Piercetion and graduated from Piercetion High School in 1966. He graduated from Purdue University in 1969 with a Bachelor of Science degree in general agriculture, and then graduated from Indiana University in Indianapolis in 1976 with a law degree. He served as associate editor on the "Law Review" staff, and worked two years on the Prosecuting Attorney's Council, a state agency in Indianapolis.

In 1976, he joined the law firm of Milo Lightfoot, as an associate, and when former Prosecuting Attorney Michael Valentine chose not to run in the 1978 election, Miner declared his candidacy.

Miner is a member of the Warsaw Lions Club. He has worked for a North Manchester bank, R.R. Donnelley and Sons, Warsaw, and has farmed.

Miner and his wife, Gloria, are the parents of a three-year-old son, Chad. They reside on Rt. 2, Piercetion.

Weekly Wrap-Up from Sen. William Justice

The Indiana General Assembly convened for the 1982 session on Tuesday, January 5. A number of committees met to hear legislation, including the Senate Judiciary, Legislative Apportionment and Elections, Public Policy and Finance Committees.

The 1982 session is limited by law to 30 working days and must end by March 15. Due to the time constraints many bills have been heard and passed out of committee.

The Senate Judiciary Committee heard testimony on several bills that were the result of work done by interim study committees. S.B. 6 was proposed by the Interim Study Committee on Corrections, and increases the maximum amount from $50,000 to $150,000 that can be awarded for construction contracts within the Department of Corrections. The bill has multiple benefits in that it would allow for more inmates to be employed on work projects, would utilize the skills of the inmates and would result in lower costs on projects.

The Senate Legislative Apportionment and Elections Committee passed out of committee by a vote of 7-0 a bill that would correct technical errors in the recently completed reapportionment maps.

In Senate Finance much testimony was given on S.B. 64, the School Formula Reaffirmation bill. The bill passed the committee with amendments by a vote of 9-4. The action taken by the committee reaffirms that which was taken by the General Assembly last session. Under the provisions of this bill, Indiana Schools will receive approximately $80 million more in calendar year 83 over calendar year 82. The bill will now go to the full Senate for second reading action.

Several bills dealing with fire protection and prevention were passed by the Senate Public Policy Committee. The bills would call for rules governing the operation of elevators during fire and emergency conditions, would require

RETIREMENT PLANNING

Third of Five Parts

IRA Can Spell Security For Working Couples . . . And Now There's A Plan For Your Non-Working Spouse

Few young couples start out a marriage thinking about their retirement years. There are usually rent payments or a mortgage to think about, furniture payments, planning for a family, maybe graduate school and perhaps even a few trips to exotic places before the children arrive.

"These are the high earning years as well as the peak spending years and now's the time to think about an investment/retirement plan," says Doris Tarrant, chairperson of the Banking Advisor program for the American Bankers Association (ABA). "With the new IRAs, every young working person can now save for a happy retirement and take advantage of generous tax-sheltered writeoffs along the way."

The new rules governing IRAs go into effect January 1, 1982. Each wage-earner can now save up to $2,000 tax free or $2,250 for a person with a non-working spouse. A working couple can each save $2,000 a year and have a combined tax writeoff of $4,000. The amount contributed to their IRAs is deductible from their gross income before they figure their taxes.

"Many older people are living in poverty today because they thought their company pension plans or Social Security would take care of them," says Tarrant. "We all know the controversy surrounding Social Security. But I wonder how many people realize how hard it is to actually collect on company pension plans? First of all, most companies require that you be employed by them at least 10 years to be vested and eligible for some pension money. How many young people stay with the same company 10 years? Each time you change jobs, you are cutting back on your potential retirement income. And how many people get fired or laid off a year or two before they are due to retire? The fact is, many people who have worked hard all their lives retire without pension funds."

"This is an issue that's more crucial to women. Most women outlive their husbands, but two out of every three elderly Americans living in poverty are women, many of them widows who were housewives most of their adult lives," says Tarrant.

The new IRAs can change all that. A couple which includes a non-working spouse can save up to $2,250 per year in a "spousal" IRA, tax free. Each year, the contribution to the spousal account is divided at the couple's discretion and credited to each spouse's portion of the account, with no more than $2,000 per year of the contribution credited to either one of the couple. No matter what happens to the marriage, the amount in the non-working spouse's account plus interest belongs to the non-working spouse, who is usually the woman.

If a working couple each open an IRA, the money and interest earned belongs solely to the person in whose name the account was opened. A married person can be certain his or her spouse is provided for by stating in a will that the IRA of the deceased belongs to the living spouse. This is especially important for women who choose to be homemakers.

"Young working couples can actually end up with $1 million jointly if they each save $2,000 a year for 30 years," says Tarrant. "Assuming 12 percent interest and that the money is contributed in a lump sum at the beginning of each year, it could add up to $540,585 each or a combined total of $1,081,170. You will have to talk to your banker about available interest rates."

The following sample chart is provided by the American Bankers Association to help you see how your IRA dollars can accumulate. The chart is based on a simple interest rate of 12 percent compounded annually with your contributions made on January 1 of each year. Take this chart to your community bank and find out how painless it can be to start saving now for your million-dollar retirement—before your hair starts turning grey and your thoughts turn from the corporate ladder or this year's harvest to warm climates, fun and relaxation.

V.A. asks help in locating former POW's

The Veterans Administration is trying to locate former prisoners of war (POWs) to inform these veterans of recent benefit improvements, as required by the "Former POW Health Care Benefits Act of 1981."

The VA has the names and addresses of approximately 40,000 ex-POWs on its computer files. There are some 60,000 former POWs the agency does not know how to contact.

Under the provisions of the POW Health Care Benefits Act passed in mid year, the VA is required to conduct a out-reach effort for former POWs.

The purpose of this out-reach effort is to inform the veterans of the full range of benefits available to them, explain new benefit improvements provided under the POW Act, and notify all ex-POWs of future change in law and regulations affecting them.

The POW Act expanded VA eligibility for thousands of former POWs, the POW incarceration period was reduced from six months to 30 days.

A presumption of service connection was established for certain disabilities resulting from malnutrition, and service connected benefits were allowed for psychosis and anxiety states, regardless of when first shown unless there is an intercurrent cause.

Former POWs are now to be provided both inpatient and outpatient medical treatment on a priority basis, and their concerns are to be considered by an advisory committee to the VA administrator.

Information required on all former POWs includes; name, current address, telephone number, VA claim number (if the veteran has one), Social Security number, and whether or not the ex-POW is presently receiving any VA benefits. Any former POW can provide the required information to the County Veteran's Service Officer at the Fulton County Court House from 8:00 a.m. to 12:00 noon Monday through Friday or call 223-2217. Assistance in filing new claims, refiling claims previously denied by the VA, and applying for medical treatment is also available from the service officer.

THE COUPON CLIPPER

Can you visit a store just to find forms?

By June Fuller

DEAR COUPON CLIPPER -- You have given me a case of "refunding fever."

Whenever I drive past a supermarket, I get the urge to stop and walk into the store to look for refund forms. My question is this: Is it all right to go into a store just to look around for these offers? -- Mary M. from Nashville.

DEAR MARY -- I don't see why any store would object.

Most supermarket managers will welcome you into their store on the chance that you will remember an item that you need or see a worthwhile special. No one should complain if you find a refund form or two even when your visit doesn't result in a purchase.

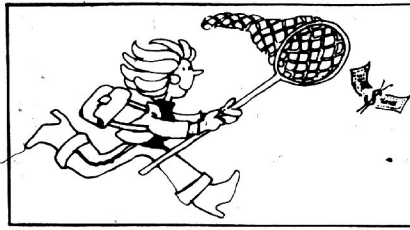

Just be sure that your "fever" isn't too obvious.

DEAR COUPON CLIPPER -- Several times when I had waited more than 12 weeks for a refund, I wrote to the company to complain.

The company immediately sent me the refund, but several weeks later the original refund arrived from the clearinghouse. What, if anything, should you do when you receive a duplicate refund in this way? -- Connie N. from Baldwin, Fla.

DEAR CONNIE -- The proper thing to do is discard the second refund check. If you like, you can return it to the company's customer-relations department with a note of explanation.

It is nice to demonstrate that refunders are honest and are not interested in taking unfair advantage of these offers.

DEAR COUPON CLIPPER -- I recently sent for a refund that asked for the name of my local supermarket. The check that I received could be cashed only at that store. Can you tell me why this was done? -- Susan W. from Vinton, Va.

DEAR SUSAN -- To persuade a supermarket to put up a special product display, some companies structure their refund offers so that the refund must be spent at that particular store.

Knowing that the offer will bring in added sales dollars is an important incentive for the store to cooperate with the company.

For most shoppers, cashing a refund check at the store in which they purchased the item is not inconvenient. If you have moved to another town, or if there is some other problem in cashing the check, return it to the company's customer-relations department with a note of explanation and a request for a check without this restriction.

Here are two refund forms to write for:

Unicap Refund Offer, The Upjohn Company, P.O. Box NB-539, El Paso, Texas 79977. This $1 refund offer expires Feb. 28, 1982.

Pepsodent, P.O. Box 6682, Maple Plain, Minn. 55348. This free-toothpaste offer expires Feb. 28, 1982.

Here is this week's list of refund offers. Start looking for the required refund forms, which you can obtain at the supermarket, in newspaper and magazine advertisements and from trading with friends. Meanwhile, start collecting the needed proofs of purchase as detailed below. Remember, some offers are not available in all areas of the country.

Today's refund offers have a value of $8.46.

"You and your supplemental insurance"

The Older Adult Impact Program of the Legal Services Program of Northern Indiana, Inc. has prepared for distribution a free publication entitled "You and Supplemental Insurance." The publication will be distributed to older adults residing in Howard, Fulton, Cass, Wabash, Miami and Tipton counties.

Medicare supplemental insurance policies are designed to fill in the gaps between the amount that Medicare pays for hospital and medical care services and the amount actually charged for those services. These policies vary from company to company and the publication discusses what to look for in a good Medicare supplemental insurance policy. Basic information on deductibles and co-payments Medicare does not pay, as well as services not covered by Medicare are among the topics covered by the publication.

In addition to providing publications such as "You and Supplemental Insurance," the Older Adult Impact Program also offers educational presentations concerning many topics of interest to older adults. Any person, organization, or agency desiring such an educational presentation or wishing to secure free copies of the publication "You and Supplemental Insurance" should contact:

MENTONE Our Home Grows

By Linda L. Oden

MENTONE GAZETTE, May 3, 1890

"Gold Spike" is a "high kicker" of a name for a railroad. This is the road that Rochester editors are building from Bremen in Kosciusko County, down through Rochester and terminating at Fulton, eight miles south of the Michigan Road. There is nothing like a "toney" name. It draws, you see. -- MACY MONITOR

MENTONE GAZETTE, May 17, 1890

WHAT MAKES CORN POP

By gradual heating of the oil inside the kernel turns to gas. Expanding, unable to get through the non-porous hull or cover of the kernel, it bursts its prison and knocks the stuffing out of all that is in its way till liberty is gained. The oil is the stuff that gives zip to corn juice and makes a beverage that we hear is at times made from corn to operate on a man's head very much as corn-oil gas makes a kernel to feel. Gives it a desire to bust, even if it has not the power to accomplish. The changed condition of the oil to gas and the explosion that follows as the kernel pops is much like that of the explosion of a boiler when water is heated and is created with a desire to go somewhere greater than is the power of resistance.

THE ILLITERATE ROGUE

A gentleman passing late at night over the PontNeuf, in Paris, was accosted by a polite and seemingly suppliant stranger, who asked him to read a paper which he had just picked up. The man held up his lantern and complied. This is the translation of the lines:

Speak not a word when this you've read,
Or in a minute you'll be dead.
Give up your money, watch and rings,
Or other valuable things.

Depart them quickly as you will,
Only remember, silence still.

The gentleman thought it best to deliver his valuables as requested. The robber was afterward recognized and arrested. His identity was positively sworn to, and the following confession was made by the criminal:

"My Lord, I confess that on the evening specified, I met the gentleman on the Pont Neuf, and the transaction occurred as he related it; but yet I am far from being guilty. I picked up a paper and thought it might be of consequence. Seeing this gentleman had a lantern I begged of him to read the paper. He complied, and then, to my surprise, put his watch, rings and money into my hands. I was so astonished that I could not ask what it meant, but supposed it to be of great value and that he gave them to me to get rid of me. Thus, if anyone was wronged it was I, and I hope justice will be done."

He was acquitted.

Bill Nye, in speaking of the fact that cannibals do not like the flesh of tobacco chewers, says: "Perhaps I do not love my fellow-man so well as the cannibal does. I know that I am selfish in this way, but if my cannibal brother desires to place my wishbone above his door he must take me as he finds me. I cannot abstain wholly from the use of tobacco in order to gratify the pampered tastes of one who has never gone out of his way to do me a favor."

MENTONE GAZETTE, June 7, 1890

A movement is on foot to make a public park of that strip of land lying next to Lambert's Blacksmith Shop and between Main Street and the railroad. If sufficient encouragement is given the undertaking, the ground will be filled up to a level with the street, shade and ornamental trees will be planted, a band and speakers' stand erected, and many other features added to make it a pleasant resort. C. E. Doane and M. C. McCormick have been appointed a committee to confer with the railroad company on the matter. The work must all be done by private means, hence every enterprising citizen in town should help in the work.

Certain methods of education seem to establish a condition of conceit in individual minds which obstruct rather than promote mental development.

MENTONE GAZETTE, June 14, 1890

If Peter's grandfather is Sam's son, what relation is Sam's grandson to Peter's father? Three months subscription to the GAZETTE for the first correct answer.

MENTONE GAZETTE, June 28, 1890

The GAZETTE is read by 2,700 people every week. We have the means of proving it to those who advertise in these columns.

ON RECRUITING

RALEIGH, N.C. -- Defense Secretary Caspar W. Weinberger has called 1981 one of the best recruiting years since the draft ended in 1973. The South continued to provide a disproportionate share of the 2.08 million men and women in American military uniforms.

Start your gardening now--get some easy-to-grow herbs in a kitchen window.

SMILES

No Charge There

"Since you have broken your engagement to Tom because your feelings toward him aren't the same, are you going to return his ring?"

"No; my feelings toward the ring are still the same as ever!"

Nice Of You To Ask

"Hey, you down there," thundered her father's voice from up stairs. "Do you think you can stay all night?"

"Gee," replied the young man, "Thank you, sir! But I'll have to call my folks first to see if it's okay!"

Points Of Similarity

He--"What's the difference between a policeman and a cracked chair?"

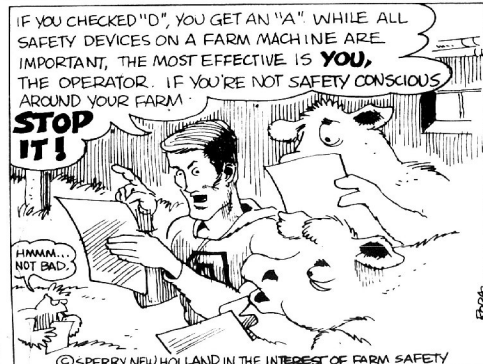

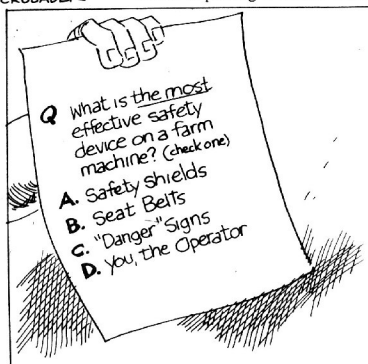

She--"I'll give up. What is the difference?"

He--"They both pinch you if you don't park right."

Logical Reason

He--"Why do you weep and sniffle at a picture show over the imaginary woes of people you never met?"

She--"Same reason why you scream and yell when a man you don't know slides into second base."

Weather related accidents over the weekend

At least three weather related accidents involving area residents were investigated by police in Kosciusko County during the last few days.

Icy streets were blamed for an accident Friday evening, January 15, when a car driven by Evelyn J. Lowman, Rt. 2, Akron, struck the rear-end of a car operated by Timothy Kolar, 29, 1108 South Buffalo St., Warsaw. ## Akron to get different look

Two main items of business kept the Akron Town Board busy during its regular meeting last week. The first was the re-organization of the board of 1982. On a motion made by Trustee Bud Waymire, the Akron Town Board officers will remain the same for '82 as they were last year: Ron Fenimore, President, Charles Miller, vice-president; Bud Waymire, member.

Attending the meeting were officials from Public Service Indiana: Jim Wilbur and Rick Berger from the Rochester office and Rod Showalter, Street Light Co-ordinator from the Wabash office of Public Service. Showalter presented the board members and others attending the meeting with booklets printed by PSI on a street light study for the town of Akron. This study was made to show how the conversion of the present mercury vapor street lights to high pressure sodium vapor lights would be more economical for the town and also provide better lighting. The Saner Addition has the 150 watt sodium fixtures.

The conversion program proposed would change 84 mercury vapor fixtures to the high pressure sodium system at a savings of $235.44 per month or $2,825.28 per year with a decrease of 50,800 kilowatt-hours of consumption.

The conversion would mean changing the ballast, the starting mechanism, photo electric eye and bulb in each fixture. The proposal was for 84 lights to be changed to 100 watt sodium. The smaller wattage was chosen because of the closer spacing of the light poles in the town proper.

The board agreed with the proposal and signed a preliminary contract giving Public Service engineers and officials permission to order materials and look over Akron's lighting system.

The 23 remaining lights which are labeled "Ornamental Street Lights" the ones mounted on metal poles, and which are located in the main part of Akron, from the library corner to the front of Gagnon Chevrolet, and one block north and south of the stop light on Mishawaka St., were not included in the preliminary study. The town board will have to decide whether to keep these lights at the present rate or convert to sodium vapor lights at a charge of $14.27 per month per light. If the ornamental poles were to be replaced by wooden poles, the cost per light would be $6.88 per month for the 150 watt bulbs.

Fenimore stated he would consider replacing the metal poles with wooden ones except for a few in the middle of town, even though they do not look as nice, to get the better rate.

No decision as to the ornamental lights being changed was made during the meeting, but board members stated they would decide on this matter before the next meeting in February, so the decision can be included in the contract with PSI.

Clerk Ernest Smith stated he had received an answer from General Telephone on installation charges for a private phone in the Akron Police Department. Installation, including a phone jack to be used at a later date for an answering service, would cost $99.50. Monthly service would cost $16.00 plus long distance calls. No answering service will be added at this time, although the board received three different prices for which they may be purchased from the phone company. In action taken, the board unanimously agreed to have the work completed.

Police officer Dave Kruger was present at the meeting to petition the board for a plastic coated wire cage and gun rack to be installed in the police car for protection of the officers while transporting prisoners to jail. The cost will be approximately $200 and the cage will be adjustable to fit any make of police car. Trustee Miller moved that the expenditure be allowed and the motion passed unanimously.

Kruger also stated that the department had received two estimates on the radio for the department which was included in the budget for 1982. The estimate from a Culver business, with accessories included was $625.00; the estimate from a Bourbon concern was $772.00, which would include a one-year service contract. There was no action taken on this matter, board members stating it would be discussed further in next month's meeting.

President Fenimore noted he had discussed the use of the town's snow plow with Police Officers Murphy and Kruger, stating that since they both know how to operate the plow, and are willing to do the work, they will spend some of their duty hours cleaning the town's streets during the bad weather.

"There has been no answer from the high school as yet," stated Miller, who had contacted officials at TVHS on suggestions for use of the four lots which have been donated to the town by Dr. Kenneth Hoff at Rochester. Miller stated this was undoubtedly because of the interrupted school sessions due to the weather.

Miller also stated he would like written into the minutes of the board meeting that there was a suggestion made for the town to begin a tree replacement or planting program. He suggested the trees could be obtained from the state nurseries virtually free, and if a property owner wanted a new tree planted, maybe some local organization would be able to do the planting. Miller said in this way, the right kind of trees (ash, tulip, poplar, etc.) could be planted which would not interfere with the town sewer system.

On Board Member Waymire's motion, the board agreed to increase the town's liability insurance from $50,000 to $100,000, at an increase of $173.00 additional premium on the present premium of $800.00 per year.

Other items of business discussed were: A few complaints about the day chosen for trash pickup. How to inform residents of the Tuesday trash pickup day, possibly will send letters with water bills. Question by resident if an adjustment could be made on the water bill if he/she left the water run to prevent freeze-up. Residents should notify Mrs. Katz at the Water Department. The board stated a slight adjustment could be made if they are notified. Getting a gathering place for people to take their bundles of newspapers so a local organization can pick them up for recycling. At present, bundled newspapers - no magazines - may be taken to the wood bin at the scout house behind the town parking lot. Tax

Don't get tangled up in register tapes

By June Fuller

"I thought I was going to have a nervous breakdown right there at the checkout counter," said my neighbor Wendy. "As the cashier was ringing up my last few purchases, I realized that there were three refundable items on the counter, and I needed a register tape for each of their refunds."

Wendy was sitting at my kitchen table as she told me her tale of woe. I was going through a pile of old magazines, clipping out every unexpired coupon. (I had bought the magazines for 10 cents each at a rummage sale, and I was already more than $8 ahead when Wendy walked in.)

"I really panicked," said Wendy. "The cashier was that big woman who tackled the shoplifter outside the store. I asked her whether I could split all my items into three groups so that she could ring them up again."

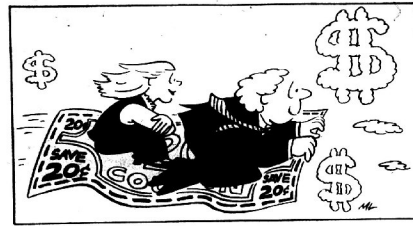

"What did she say?" "She didn't say anything. But she gave me the meanest look you can imagine. So, then I asked whether she could just deduct two of the items and then ring each of them up separately."

"You were really playing with fire," I chuckled. "You're not kidding. You should have seen the look she gave me then!"

"Well, what did you do?" "I looked at the long line of shoppers behind me, and then looked at the cashier."

"Well?" "I told her, 'Never mind.' Did I ever feel miserable as I walked out of the supermarket and thought about losing two out of my three refunds?"

"But you don't have to lose them," I assured her. "Most companies understand that register tapes can be yards long or required for other manufacturers' refunds. They will accept a part of the tape."

Wendy's eyes lit up. "When you cut up the tape," I told her, "just be sure to circle the price of the refunded item and write the name of the store and the date of purchase at the top of the part you send in."

"That's fantastic!" Wendy shouted as she sprang up from her chair.

"I just hope that I saved that tape," she called back to me on her way out the door.

My smart shopping award goes to Marsha Svendsen of Enterprise, Ore. In the damaged-goods basket at her supermarket, she found a six-pack of Ocean Spray Cranberry Juice marked down from $1.29 to 54 cents because it contained only four cans.

She remembered that she had a 50-cent Ocean Spray refund form in her file at home. After she deducted the cost of postage, each can cost her only 6 cents!

collided with a car driven by Darwood Smith, 42, Rt. 6, Lockport, Ill.

According to police reports, the Smith vehicle slid into the Disher car while attempting to pass on the snow-covered highway in low visibility. There was between $200 and $1,000 damage to the Smith car and $2,500 to $5,000 to the Disher vehicle.

In an accident at 6:18 a.m. Monday, January 18, Walter Blackburn, 45, Rt. 1, Burket, declined treatment for pain in his lower left leg received as a result of a two-car collision one mile south of Leesburg on St. Rd. 15.

The other driver, Paul E. Smith, 28, of 221 S. Roosevelt St., Warsaw, told police he saw a snowdrift in the southbound lane, hit his brakes, slid into the snowdrift and then spun into Blackburn's vehicle. Both vehicles had damage between $200 and $1,000.

Several accidents around the Akron-Mentone area last Saturday afternoon caused by near blizzard conditions, and zero visibility, prompted police officials to close the roads leading from both towns.

Mentone Area

Although Mentone police reported only one accident, caused by the weather, all roads out of Mentone were officially closed Saturday except for emergency vehicles.

At 12:20 p.m., two automobiles, one driven by Robert J. Marshall, the other driven by Eric Williams, both of Mentone, were involved in an accident on Walnut Street in Mentone. The cars were estimated to have sustained $1,000 to $2,000 damage to each.

Akron Area
Indiana State Trooper John Dunn, investigating two accidents on St. Rd. 14, 4 miles West of Akron, at County Road 800 East, sustained a bump to his head and complained of neck and back pain after his patrol car was struck from the rear, while he was writing reports on the previous accidents.

The first accident involved a car driven by Janis S. Jones, 44, Akron, and a pickup truck driven by Donald Jackson, 59, Rt. 1, Roann. Both vehicles were traveling East on St. Rd. 14 when the snow lessened the visibility and the truck struck the car from the rear.

Two minutes after the first crash, a pickup truck driven by Mark A. Cogdill, 18, Winamac, and a car driven by Mike Coughenour, 24, Akron, were unable to stop at the accident scene and the car struck the truck from the rear.

The people from the previous accidents were in the Dunn car who had his red lights flashing, when an Eastbound car driven by Cornelius Troyer, 58, Rt. 2, Claypool, struck the patrol car from the rear, causing the injuries to Trooper Dunn.

Trooper Dunn was the only person injured. He was treated and released at Woodlawn Hospital.

In another accident, just South of Loman's Corner, North of Akron on St. Rd. 14 Saturday, a semi-truck driven by Max Blocker with Free Way Trucking Company, and a station wagon owned and operated by Richard Smith, collided due to the blowing snow and poor visibility.

There were no injuries, but an expectant mother who was a passenger in the station wagon complained of abdominal pains and was transported to Woodlawn Hospital.

There were accidents East of Akron on the Rock Lake Road and also South of Akron on St. Rd. 19, which were investigated by police, but no identifications were available at press time.

GETTING
ON SOCIAL SECURITY

by James J. Treires

Every time I read a news account or hear a radio or television discussion about the problems of the Social Security System, my pulse rises and my face gets red. Reporters, announcers and even members of Congress are so misinformed about the system—about how it works and who pays for it—that they just confuse the public. If I had the money, I'd buy a five-minute spot on prime-time television to give some simple answers to some basic questions.

Who pays for Social Security? Employees and their employers pay for it through payroll deductions.

Aren't these payments federal taxes just like the income tax? No, they're not. Technically, a tax is money you pay the government for no specific purpose. That means that taxes are money your elected representatives can use any way they want to. But Social Security contributions can't be used for any purpose other than paying benefits.

But isn't the big increase in the federal budget over the past twenty years due mostly to the rising costs of Social Security and other social programs? Not on your life. Let's get one thing straight: Social Security, Medicare and unemployment compensation are not social programs financed by a kind-hearted Congress. They are separate, single-purpose financial systems, like private life insurance, where people put money in ahead of time so they can get some back when they need it.

What about welfare, Medicaid and housing assistance? These are social programs paid for by the general taxpayer. That's why Congress can legally take money from them and spend it on the Pentagon, and it's also why these programs for the truly needy have suffered the deepest budget cuts.

But aren't both sets of programs "entitlements" that keep pushing up the federal budget? No. The charity programs don't entitle anyone to anything. Congress can eliminate them just by not appropriating money. In contrast, programs like Social Security that pay for themselves are legally bound to provide benefits year after year.

Isn't it true that big increases in Social Security outlays have helped create the huge federal deficits we've been running? Not at all. Not many people know this, but the Social Security System has never run a deficit. It can't. It's a separate fund that can't be financed through borrowing. Not one penny of that trillion dollar federal debt you hear about has come from Social Security spending.

Isn't there any real problem with Social Security? Yes, but it isn't imminent or serious. Looking ahead 20 or 30 years, it's clear that contribution rates will have to be raised to take care of an aging population. But it isn't any defect in the system that is causing problems now; it's inflation and unemployment. Full employment and a stable dollar would solve Social Security's problems, along with everybody else's.

Why, then, is the Reagan administration so worked up about Social Security now? What the President is concerned about is not the soundness of the Social Security system but the size of the federal deficit. His Pentagon build-up and massive tax cuts means horrendous deficits in the years ahead.

But you said Social Security is a separate financial system. How can that money help reduce the deficit? It really can't, but it can reduce the amount of money the government has to borrow from outside. If Reagan can cut back benefit payments over the next three years, he will create a bigger surplus in the fund, and that money can be loaned back to the Treasury.

Mr. Treires is Chief Economist for the Fund for Peace.

LETTERS
TO THE EDITOR

Dear Editor:

In recent weeks difficult weather conditions have tested our abilities to cope! Many public employees have worked long and hard. I want to compliment the Akron police. On a winter night with all our vehicles down and a family member stranded far from home, Officer Kruger's help made the difference. Thanks!

Dear Editor:

I am very concerned over the direction of our Country's morals. I strongly believe, if our Country's morals continually decline, our Beloved Country will end in chaos, etc. How can every other group or person do their own thing, and still have an orderly society in which to live? I believe, most people are uninformed concerning social issues, and have been listening to the wrong people.

I am very thankful that we still have the freedom of the press. Also, we can write "Letter to the Editor" to our newspapers to voice our concern, and opinions. Looking forward to seeing my letter in your paper. Thanking you in advance, I remain,

LETTER TO EDITOR

ARE AMERICANS BEING CONDITIONED?

Would so many Americans accept and be promoting immoral policies, which eventually will lead to the downfall of our Beloved Country, if they had all the facts?? I think not. "Let the people know the facts and the country will be saved," Abe Lincoln.

I believe, most are being conditioned by hard-core Liberal's, Humanists and/or Communist's propaganda, all have much of the same policies, in order to promote their cause. Also, Christianity is their greatest enemy, for they know, "...where the Spirit of the Lord is, there is Liberty." (II Cor. 3:17); liberty to do righteous.

Hard-core Liberals, etc., have been working vigorously the last two decades, influencing and legislating immorality, some by hook or crook, using our tax money.

Some Liberals are very bitter, name-calling, saying religion is trying to run our Government, since the Christians and/or traditional moral people have become involved. Many Liberals think their involvement is okay, but it's an absolute no-no for the moral people to become involved!!

Some Liberals have forced their Humanism and Evolution, which are religions: Value Free Education, no such thing as morally right, or morally wrong; Sex Education; Oppression of Patriotism; Socialism, etc.; teachings in our Public Schools, while striving to ban God and His Word. Also, made much of it mandatory, and have forced the Christian children to participate. In addition, they have forced the Christians to help finance their immorality.

Most Christian's don't believe, and it would be unscriptural, to force and make these Liberal's children to participate in prayer, etc., in our Public School, let alone asking them to help finance it. We believe prayer and Scripture, if so desired, should be left up completely to the local school, and participation should be completely voluntary with their parent's permission. Some Liberals even say this is a failure to separate Church and State, and have forced Bible Classes off of the school property. God forbid! -- Separation of State from Church, Church from State is right and Constitutional; but not the Separation of God and His Word from State.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Editor,

I think the cold weather might be giving me more time to think, I'm getting mighty tired of all the complaints about the weather, after all - it's winter. I know that I'm quite a lot older than some of your readers, but surely there are a few folks around who can remember back to 1917. At that time my parents lived North of Akron, in the first house West of where Rd. 19 turns North and into Mentone. All that remains of the buildings is the milk house and a corn crib.

I don't remember the date, but it was after Christmas. It all started with a soft wet snow and by the next day, it was screaming winds and falling temperatures. It finally bottomed out at 30 degrees below zero. I remember that at about 7:30, our nearest neighbor to the West, "Jack" Earnest Bright called my dad and said, "Murphy, we are having a heat wave, it's only 29 degrees below zero." My parents were Fred (Pat) and Amanda Murphy. The worst day of the storm, we moved chairs and a cot close to the hard coal burner, and that was where we spent most of the day. Dad spent his in the kitchen cooking a huge beef roast. I was in the 5th or 6th grade of school and attended Balls Country School, which is still standing. We were out of school for three weeks, and there was still a lot of snow when we went back. The snow was soft, so the big boys went ahead, and when the smaller ones fell through, they would pull us out. Names I remember are Kamps, Brights and Helveys from the Northern area.

I also remember that one bright moonlit night, while the drifts were still solid, Dad and neighbor Gerald Bemenderfer used our horses and bob sled, drove cross country and went rabbit hunting in the moonlight. That generation didn't even know what a snow plow was.

We all survived, and we will again. We have so many wonderful things to be thankful for and I don't believe that a few frigid days will be a crippling affair. Just think of how beautiful our Indiana summers are!

Emergency calling may be a lifesaver for you, your family, neighbors or friends. The telephone is a lifeline to sorts, especially in an emergency. How you use the phone can determine how quickly you can get assistance.

Here are some tips to help you, from General Telephone Company of Indiana.

Always keep a current list of emergency numbers by your phone, including police, fire, ambulance and physicians, even if you have the 911 service. The front of your directory lists emergency numbers and is a good place to make your own list.

Make sure all your phones have number stickers and keep your address nearby. Someone else may have to call from your phone.

Do not call the fire department from a burning building. Not only do you endanger yourself, but you may lose contact if the fire reaches your phone lines.

When you call, clearly state the nature of the emergency, the location and phone number and your name.

Do not hang up until told to do so.

If you reach a busy signal or recording, hang up, check the number and dial again slowly, in an emergency, it is easy to mis-dial.

Only call emergency agencies to report real emergencies, fires, accidents, serious injuries or illnesses.

The Akron Keen-Agers have been busy reading books of great men and women of this country, chatting over a cup of coffee on what book they have read and enjoyed. Some are working on a beautiful puzzle of a covered bridge, sewing pillow tops, doing crafts, etc. It is a good time of year to sit and relax with friends. Come in and join us at the Akron Nutrition Site.

If you would like to be a volunteer or to make meal reservations please call 893-7204.

Scheduled menus for the week of February 1-5 are:

Monday-Roast Pork and Dressing, with Gravy, Broccoli, Harvard Beets, Roll, Applesauce, Milk.

Tuesday-Salisbury Steak, Whole Kernel Corn, Cranberry Sauce, White Bread, Fruit Cobbler, Milk.

Duncan honored at convention

Mrs. Judy Duncan of Rochester, was recently honored at a Avon Convention held in Atlanta, Georgia. She ranked 22nd in Sales increase over approximately 400 managers in the Springdale Branch. The convention was attended by approximately 3,000 Avon District Managers from all over the United States.

Mrs. Duncan has been a District Manager for 6½ years. She has been working the counties of Fulton and Cass. This year she has averaged 190 representatives on staff. Because of her excellent performance in the year of 1981, Mrs. Duncan has won a trip to Monte Carlo and a Circle of Excellence Pin.

When asked how she accomplished what she did in 1981 she said "she contributed many hours of hard work herself, but without the backing of her representatives' hard work and dedication she would not have achieved her success. Also, she believes it would not have happened if not for the excellent products and service Avon has to offer it's customers."

Mrs. Duncan resides in Rochester with her husband, Phil, and two daughters, Christine and Cathy.

RETIREMENT PLANNING

Fourth of Five Parts

You're Never Too Young To Plan For Retirement

You're a 23-year-old and you've just landed your first executive job; you're on your way to the top. You're a young mother with two children; you don't need to work because your husband earns a good salary. You're a 25-year-old secretary and you spend all your money on college courses and clothes; you don't have to worry about finances.

All of these people are too young or too successful to worry about their retirement years. Right?

"Wrong," says Doris Tarrant, chairperson of the Banking Advisor program for the American Bankers Association (ABA). "These are the very people who need to be educated about saving for their retirement and taking complete control of their financial future."

One of the best ways to do this and get a generous tax break 'till boot is through the new IRA (Individual Retirement Account) plan that goes into effect January 1, 1982. Previously available only to wage-earners who were not covered by company pension or profit sharing plans, the tax-sheltered IRAs will now be open to all working people.

A single person can save up to $2,000 a year tax free; a person with a non-working spouse, up to $2,250; and working couples can each save up to $2,000 for a combined tax writeoff of $4,000. The amount contributed to your IRA can be deducted from your gross income before you figure your taxes. Although the money cannot be withdrawn without penalty until you reach age 59½, it is tax free until it is withdrawn, when you presumably will be retired and in a lower tax bracket.

"Everyone should take advantage of the new IRAs," says Tarrant. "Even if you get married and live happily ever after, you may not receive widow's benefits from your husband's company pension fund if he dies before he is vested or has a chance to collect his pension."

According to government statistics, sixty percent of unmarried women over age 65 have no income other than Social Security and nearly half of the five million older women who live alone have yearly incomes of $3,000 or less.

"Most of these women probably thought their husbands or children would provide for them," says Tarrant. "Most husbands are not even aware that their pension benefits may not cover their widows. And most workers of both sexes often change jobs too frequently to receive full or any company benefits when they retire. Your company may have a wonderful pension plan, but unless you stay there at least 10 years, chances are you will not see a substantial amount of that pension money."

The young housewife can be certain she has some protection through the non-working spouse IRA option. A couple which includes a non-working spouse can save up to $2,250 per year in a "spousal" IRA, tax free. Each year, the contribution to the spousal account is divided at the couple's discretion and credited to each spouse's portion of the account, with no more than $2,000 per year credited to either one of the couple. No matter what happens to the marriage, the amount in the non-working spouse's account plus interest belongs to that spouse.

"A working couple that saves $2,000 a year each for 30 years can even end up being millionaires when they retire," says Tarrant. "If they put $2,000 a year each in the IRA at the beginning of every year and if that account earns 12 percent interest, each will end up with $540,585, or a combined total of $1,081,170. It's worth more when you consider the tax benefits."

For those who can't afford to set aside a $2,000 lump sum each year, payroll deductions may be the answer. "Many companies will be offering payroll deductions," says Tarrant. Two thousand dollars a year means $38.46 a week; $2,250 a year is $43.27 a week, and $500 is $9.62 a week. "Even if you only saved $500 a year, you'd end up with about $135,146 after 30 years," says Tarrant.

The following sample chart was prepared by the American Bankers Association to help you see how your IRA dollars can accumulate. The chart uses a simple interest rate of 12 percent compounded annually and assumes that your contributions are made on January 1 of each year. Clip this chart and take it to your community banker to discuss actual interest rates available and help you establish your retirement plan.

Incident Reports

The following incidents have been reported to area police agencies:

A break-in Sunday or Monday morning at Dewart Lake Marina, Rt. 5, Syracuse, County Rd. 300 East, resulted in loss of $30 to $40 worth of cigarettes and $25-$30 worth of quarters and dimes. Police reported a four by six foot window was broken, resulting in damage of $160.

Windows were broken Wednesday night at the Tippecanoe County Club golf shop, County Roads 700 North and 500 East. Authorities said an object was used to break the windows, but entry was apparently not gained. Damage was placed at $75.

An official of the American Legion, 301 North Buffalo St., Warsaw, discovered Tuesday that $102 in cash had been removed from a cash register, according to city police.

Dave Kelly, Hideaway RV Sales, County Road 250 South, reported to city police Friday morning, a possible breaking and entering when he found a door there had been tampered with. There was $25 damage to the door.

William Cox, owner of Speedy Laundry, 828 East Winona Ave., reported to city police early Saturday that several washers and equipment there had been vandalized. There was an estimated $350 in damages to the equipment.

Earl Shrome, Rt. 6, Warsaw, Chapman Lake, reported the theft of two hubcaps valued at $100 and a pair of fog lights placed at $35. The items were taken from two vehicles between 10:30 p.m. Friday and noon Sunday.

A 16-year-old Warsaw boy was questioned by city police following a shoplifting incident Tuesday morning. An official at Ace Hardware, 1701 East Center St., Warsaw, told police the youth allegedly put two socket sets in his pocket and started to leave the store without paying for the merchandise. The suspect was stopped and detained until police arrived.

While at the police station, the youth admitted that he took the two items. He was released to custody of his father.

Lyman Dawson, 25, of 109 South Wood St., Apt. A, Warsaw, reported the theft of $200 in cash to city police on Monday.

Mark Johns, of Leesburg, reported that several items were stolen out of his truck Tuesday while it was parked on U.S. 30, about one-half mile east of the Lucky Steer Restaurant.

Johns told police his truck had a flat tire and he left the vehicle while he sought assistance. When he returned, he discovered the loss of a 40-channel Citizens Band radio valued at $70, two speakers with covers worth $100, and three checks each written for $84. The theft occurred between 11:30 a.m. and 1:30 p.m.

Damage was set at $300 to doors and locks at two guest houses at the summer residence of John Ryan, Rt. 2, Syracuse, Bay Point Road. Burglars forced open a door jamb on one house and forced a lock on the other home, but apparently did not take any items.

Robin K. Case, 39, of 112 North Hickory St., Warsaw, reported the theft of one sapphire ring with a diamond, and one white/gold antique ring to city police on Wednesday. The rings, valued at $745, were taken from a jewelry box on top of a dresser in a bedroom.

A customer, who had just ordered a sandwich and soft drink, proceeded in his vehicle to the drive-up window at Burger Chef, Lake Village Shopping Center, Warsaw, late Wednesday afternoon and was wearing only a T-shirt. After two waitresses noticed that the motorist was indelicately exposed, one reported the incident to Warsaw police.

Personal Injury Accident

Local law enforcement officers have investigated the following personal injury automobile accident:

A semi-truck driven by Darwood Smith, 42, of Lockport, Ill., slid on the snow-covered westbound lane of U.S. 30 into the rear of a car operated by David A. Disher, 22, Rt. 1, Etna Green, at approximately 10:23 p.m. Friday. The mishap occurred on U.S. 30, just one-half mile east of County Rd. 200 North.

The falling snow had reduced visibility late Friday and for that reason, Disher was traveling slow in the right-hand lane of U.S. 30. As he traveled west, a semi-truck passed Disher and he swerved slightly to the left and stepped on the brake pedal. Smith, who was behind Disher and preparing to pass, saw the brake light and told city police he swerved to the right. He stepped on the brake pedal, but his tractor-trailer rig slid on snow into the rear of the Disher vehicle, according to police.

A passenger in the Disher auto, Laura L. Disher, 22, Rt. 1, Etna Green, complained of neck pain. She was transported in a Multi-Township EMS ambulance to Kosciusko Community Hospital, where she was examined.

There was between $200 and $1,000 damage to Smith's truck, and between $2,500 and $5,000 damage to Disher's car, police reported.

Janet Kinzie, 36, Rt. 6, Warsaw, was treated and released for neck pains after her car was struck in the rear Friday afternoon by a vehicle operated by Robin A. McGriff, 20, 636 G. Walter Way, Warsaw.

The accident occurred at the intersection of East Center and Roosevelt streets. It was reported Saturday the two cars collided, but the Kinzie vehicle was standing still.

Earl J. Naegele, 79, Rt. 5, Syracuse, suffered a cut on his knee as a result of a two-vehicle mishap at 10:30 a.m. Wednesday on Syracuse-Webster Rd., one mile south of Syracuse.

Naegele went to a local physician for examination of his injury. Authorities reported Naegele and Max A. Grady, 18, Rt. 2, Syracuse, both attempted to slow their trucks and move to the right, but Grady's truck hit a snowdrift and caused the rear end of the vehicle to fishtail into the path of Naegele. Both vehicles had damage between $2,500 and $5,000.

Property Damage Accidents

A car driven by Stephen M. Burgh, 34, of 602 West Winona Ave., Warsaw, and a van operated by William E. City police alleged that Patterson left the scene of the accident. Patterson was cited for failure of duty at the scene of a property damage accident.

There was between $200 and $1,000 damage to Blackford's truck.

At 12:41 p.m. Friday, cars driven by Robin A. McGriff, 20, of 636 G. Walter Way, Warsaw, and Janet S. Kinzie, 37, Rt. 6, Warsaw, collided on East Center Street, near Roosevelt, due to icy road conditions. Damage to both autos was estimated between $1,000 and $2,500.

THE MOTHER EARTH NEWS

TAP TREES... MOST ANYWHERE!

You don't have to live in Vermont to tap for maple syrup. The following hardwoods (at least one of which can be found just about anywhere in the U.S. or Canada) have all proved to be reliable producers of sap usable for syrup-making:

Norway Maple (Acer platanoides), Bigleaf Maple (Acer macrophyllum), Red Maple (Acer rubrum), Black Maple (Acer nigrum), Silver Maple (Acer saccharinum), Boxelder (Acer negundo), Canyon Maple (Acer grandidentatum), Sugar Maple (Acer saccharum), Florida Maple (Acer barbatum), Sweet Birch (Betula lenta).

You'll know that "sap's up" when freezing nights are followed by warm—and usually sunny—days. Choose trees that are at least 10" in diameter for single taps, 16" for two taps, and 22" or more for three taps. The spouts (also called spiles) can be made from sections of elderberry, sumac, bamboo, willow, or mullein stem with the pith removed... or you can use crimped pieces of curtain rod or lengths of plastic tubing.

Drill a 3/4"-diameter hole from 2" to 3" deep on the south side of each tree. Be sure you bore at a slightly uphill angle, so the sap can drain downward, and that the hole is at a convenient height.

Hang a clean, rust-free bucket, a plastic milk jug, or some other one-to-five-gallon container securely under your spile, making sure it's adequately covered to keep out snow, rain, dirt, etc. Roughly speaking, you can expect 20 gallons of sap a season from each tree, and you'll need about 40 gallons to make 1 gallon of syrup. (Sap sours easily in warm weather, which means you must gather it frequently... keep it cool while it's being stored... and boil it up as soon as possible. Clean plastic trash cans, set in the chilly outdoors, make good holding tanks.)

Plan to cook the syrup outside, on a fireplace made of concrete blocks or a metal drum. Construct the "stove" so that the flames lick the bottom of your cooking container... but don't let smoke come in contact with the brew, as it'll affect the syrup's taste and color.

Use a large, flat pan as your boiler, and keep the contents about two inches deep... slowly adding fresh sap as needed. From time to time, skim off the foam that forms on top of the syrup.

After hours of cooking with no apparent change, the syrup will suddenly thicken very quickly... and it must be stirred and watched carefully during this critical stage. When the temperature reaches 7 degrees above boiling, or when the liquid runs off a ladle in thin sheets, the syrup is done. Strain your natural sweetener, while it's still warm, through a heavy felt bag. Reheat it to 160°F... and pack it in sterilized containers with airtight seals, where it will keep indefinitely!

Sheriff's merit board named

The Fulton County Sheriff's Merit Board held its 1982 organizational meeting Wednesday at the Fulton County Jail.

Fulton Circuit Court Judge Douglas Morton swore in board members and briefed them on their duties. Under a new procedure for selecting members, Sheriff Robert Newgent picked three board members and deputies of the department chose two other members.

The Merit Board is in charge of funds in the sheriff's pension fund. The board is also in charge of holding disciplinary and meritorious hearings. Newgent said.

Retired Akron Marshal Ed Hauser and John Little of Rochester were named to the board by the department's deputies. Newgent chose Al Jennens of Akron, Keith Thomas of Leipers Ford, and Roy Fisher of Rochester. James McAllister of Rochester was not reappointed to the board under the new selection process.

Thomas was selected the board's president, Jennens was voted vice president and Fisher was elected secretary. Byron Tinkley will serve as the board's attorney in 1982.

Change in project SAFE

The Fulton Co. A.C.T.I.O.N. Neighborhood Center has been informed of a slight change in the Project SAFE Program. This change may make persons eligible for the program who previously had been informed that they were not eligible for participation. At the beginning of the program persons who were on subsidized housing or receiving rental assistance were deemed ineligible. We have now been informed that these same people could possibly be eligible. Of course it will still depend upon the amount of income which all household members have brought into the household over the past twelve month period. However, being on subsidized housing does not in fact make one ineligible for participation at this time. For more information or if you had previously been informed that you were ineligible due to the fact that you were on subsidized housing or rental assistance please call the Fulton Co. A.C.T.I.O.N. Neighborhood Center at 223-3701. The Project SAFE Program will end on February 15th so be sure and call if you think you might be eligible for assistance.

Quayle receives Jaycee award

TULSA OKLA.--U.S. Senator Dan Quayle (R-Ind.) was honored January 16th by the United States Jaycees who named him one of the Ten Outstanding Young Men in America.

In accepting the award during ceremonies in Tulsa, Okla., Sen. Quayle said, "I accept this award in the spirit of the Jaycees' creed, which says in part, 'service to humanity is the best work of life'."

Each year, the nation-wide organization singles out ten men between 18 and 36 years-of-age, who have made significant contributions toward improvement to contemporary problems, politics or government.

The Jaycees cited the Republican Senator for his work on passage of legislation providing training for young people. Sen. Quayle told the Jaycees there is still a lot of work to be done-including a new comprehensive job training program, he's working on.

Quayle, Chairman of the Senate Subcommittee on Employment and Productivity, just completed hearings this week, on unemployment in the auto industry, and he said there are many young men and women, left jobless in the wake of our current economy. And, he added "They are used to working; they want to work and be able to provide for their families. So, we must devote a portion of our resources to the problem of retraining individuals, so they can get new jobs, and pick-up a pay check again."

Fulton Co. Republican Women's Club news

The Fulton County Republican Women's Club met at the Rochester Civic Center Cafeteria. Kathryn Hartzler, president, called the meeting to order. Thelma Newman led the pledge to the American flag.

Kaleen Kehoe read the secretary's minutes, and they were approved as read. The treasurer's report was given by Kathryn Spice; it will be filed for audit.

Peggy Torrence made a motion and Neva Mikesell seconded the motion that the club once again have a quilt made by Trella Bair for a money-making project for 1982. The motion carried with the Quilt Committee for 1982 consisting of Margaret Burkett, Ida Hittle, and Jana Lowe.

The Nominating Committee announced the slate of officers of the club for 1982-83 as follows: President Neva Mikesell; Vice President Arneva Edwards; Secretary Marti Marrs; and Treasurer Thelma Carr. Letha Jarrette made the motion to accept the slate as given and moved that the nominations be closed. Anne Clay seconded the motion, and it passed unanimously.

Kathryn Hartzler made several announcements. Margaret Burkett thanked the club for sponsoring her in the "Tribute to Women." The newest member of the Life Membership Group will be announced in the near future. In addition, the Fulton County Republican Women's Club received the Silver Award at the National Federation of Republican Women's Convention at Denver.

Kathryn then introduced Ellie Holt, President of the Indiana Federation of Republican Women, who spoke on the importance of women in politics. She reviewed the national convention at Denver, the "Tribute to Women", and then reminded us all of the importance of filling all Republican seats in 1982. She showed us a booklet on preventing crime which is one of the goals of the National Federation of Republican Women. There will also be upcoming workshops on leadership in the coming months. Mrs. Holt then installed three of the new officers of the club for 1982-83 as follows: Neva Mikesell as president, Arneva Edwards as vice president, and Marti Marrs as secretary.

The next meeting of the Fulton County Republican Women's Club will be on Monday, January 25th at 7:30 p.m. in the Rochester Civic Center Cafeteria. Mr. Riggs, chairman of the Task Force on Substance Abuse will be the guest speaker.

The meeting was then closed with refreshments served by Neva Mikesell, Arneva Edwards, Birt Vincent, Louise Moore, Mary Margaret Neff, and Kaleen Kehoe.

NIPSCO requests permission to pass along gas adjustments to customers

Northern Indiana Public Service Company filed petitions (Friday, January 22, 1982) with the Public Service Commission of Indiana to (1) reduce gas rates for customers whose usage is exempt from incremental pricing provisions of the Natural Gas Policy Act (NGPA) of 1978 and (2) pass on $38,077,917 in higher costs for gas purchased from three of its five suppliers.

The petitions reflect an incremental Pricing reallocation of $1,928,716 collected from certain large industrial customers under the incremental pricing surcharge for boiler fuel uses in October, November, and December, 1981 in accordance with the NGPA and orders of the Public Service Commission of Indiana.

The purchased gas adjustment petition reflects an increase of $38,077,917 in wholesale gas costs from Natural Gas Pipeline Company of America, Trunkline Gas Company and Panhandle Eastern Pipe Line Company.

Upon approval by the Commission of the Incremental Pricing petition, the average NIPSCO residential customer using natural gas for spaceheating and other purposes (147,600 cubic feet per year) will realize a decrease in gas costs of approximately $1.34 a month for the three-month period of March, April and May 1982. A residential customer using natural gas for purposes other than spaceheating would realize a decrease of 23 cents a month for that period.

If the purchased gas adjustment is approved as petitioned, the average customer using natural gas for spaceheating and other purposes would have an increase of $22.36 a year or about $1.86 a month, beginning in March. An average customer using natural gas for purposes other than spaceheating would have his rates increased $6.01 on an annual basis or about 50 cents a month.

The Incremental Pricing allocation and the purchased gas adjustments are the first such petitions filed this year.

Adjustments in gas rates to NIPSCO customers, usually upward by sometimes downward, have occurred and will continue to occur as rates from NIPSCO's pipeline suppliers change, as they have and will, under the provisions of the Natural Gas Policy Act and after approval of the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission.

NIPSCO explained that it does not realize one cent of profit from purchased gas adjustments. The money, the company said, goes directly to suppliers to pay for the increased cost of natural gas delivered to the utility.

The company also said that in spite of these rising costs, natural gas continues to be the least expensive fuel for homeheating in northern Indiana.

Scouting anniversary week to emphasize conservation

Conservation activities will receive special emphasis when the Sagamore council celebrates the 72nd anniversary of the Boy Scouts of America, February 7-13, 1982.

More than 8800 youth members in 15 counties in North-Central Indiana will carry out a variety of activities with the theme, "The Better Life...Through Conservation."

The Boy Scouts of America is presently conducting a year-long program emphasis, "Save Our American Resources (SOAR)...for the Better Life," which involves conservation projects and earning conservation and environmental awards.

Many other activities also are being scheduled for Scouting Anniversary Week. Among the traditional activities for the annual observance are Cub Scout Blue and Gold Banquets, Boy Scout Parents' Nights and Courts of Honor, and Explorer Family Nights or open houses. In addition, Scouting Sabbath and Scouting Sunday are important parts of the week's events.

Monday, February 8, is Scouting Anniversary Day when members traditionally dedicate themselves to the Cub Scout Promise, Scout Oath, or Explorer Code. This date also is declared national Scoutmaster Recognition Day.

Other planned activities to celebrate the anniversary are: Lincoln Pilgrimage at Honeywell Center in Wabash, Scouts in Community Day in Kokomo and Lafayette, Window display contests, Mall displays in Marion, and Pinewood Derby.

Close more state employment offices

The Indiana Employment Security Division, the state agency which is responsible for bringing workers and jobs together and for providing unemployment insurance (UI) benefits to the jobless, is losing another 11 full-service local offices and 345 permanent positions, Acting Director John R. Hammond, III, announced today.

Hammond said the reductions will be made by mid-February, 1982. They follow a loss of seven local offices and 168 staff positions in September last year.

The acting director said the reductions were made necessary by further cuts in funds mandated by the third continuing federal budget resolution passed by Congress last year. (The Division is funded wholly from taxes paid to the U.S. Government by employers under the Federal Unemployment Tax Act.) Because the budget cut is retroactive to October 1, 1981, the personnel reductions are more severe than would be the case, had final allocations been known in the Fall of last year.

"One of our primary concerns in selecting which offices to close, was to cause as little inconvenience as possible to unemployment insurance claimants", Hammond said.

The full-service offices -- those providing both employment and UI services -- to be closed are: Crawfordsville, Indpls. Southtown, LaPorte, Linton, Martinsville, Peru, Plymouth, Shelbyville, Tell City, Warsaw, Winchester.

In an additional 12 offices, employment services are being terminated and these will provide UI services only. They are: Auburn, Augusta, Bedford, Connersville, Franklin, Jasper, Lawrenceburg, Lynhurst (Indpls.), Meadows offices (Indpls.), New Castle, Portage, Seymour.

Hammond said the Division employed 1,600 fulltime staff members. An employee assistance team, headed by Tom Miller, Division Personnel Officer, is being formed to assist personnel being laid off or separated to find other employment.

Hammond pointed out that the selection of local offices to be retained and those to be closed was based on their performance under a wide range of economic conditions, office usage and productivity and geographical location.

It's surprising how many people do little work.

Local elections to be busy

Voters in Fulton and Kosciusko County are already reading about incumbent office holders who will be running for re-election in the spring elections. Several new people have come forth to declare they will be candidates, although none have been able to register as yet. February 3rd is the first date that declaration for public office may be filed in the County Clerk's office. Noon on March 5th is the last date for filing declarations or for withdrawal of declarations at the Clerk's office.

Fulton County voters will vote for candidates who file in Clerk Kathryn Spice's office for the following county offices: prosecutor, county judge, recorder, sheriff, surveyor, assessor, second district commissioner and four district county council positions. Caston and Tippecanoe Valley School Boards will also have board members to be elected.

Those to be elected at the state level are two representatives, secretary, treasurer, auditor and clerk of the supreme court and clerk of appeals and a 5th District United States representative.

Kosciusko County
N. Jean Messmore, Kosciusko County Clerk, will be receiving petitions from candidates at the new office located on the main floor of the new County Justice Building. Positions listed on the Kosciusko County ballots will be: United States Senator; United States Representative; secretary of state, auditor, treasurer of state and clerk of the supreme and court of appeals. County offices: assessor, prosecuting attorney, auditor, sheriff, recorder, Tippecanoe and Turkey Creek Township assessors, all township trustees and advisory boards, all precinct committeemen, southern district county commissioner; fourth district county councilman; delegates to the state convention, 17th district state representative, 18th and 22nd district state representatives, third and fifth district United States representatives.

Whitko, WaNee and Tippecanoe Valley School Board seats and two Syracuse Town Board posts. A Lakeland School Board election will be held in the November general election.

T.V.S.B. to take project bids Feb. 11

Preparing to take bids on school projects for a second time in one year, the Tippecanoe Valley School Board and officials of ProMaCon, construction managers of Indianapolis, and Daverman Associates, an architectural firm from Grand Rapids, Michigan, sponsored a "Plain Talk" seminar for proposed contractors, laying groundwork, and making plans to take bids on remodeling and construction at the Akron and Burket school buildings.

Approximately 20 contractors attended the seminar held at the Akron school cafeteria last Thursday evening in which officials of ProMaCon, Daverman and Attorney Fred Rakestraw, spoke to them about their part in the plans; the proper way to fill out bid documents, bid bonds, affidavits, and scheduling. Some of those attending had submitted bids to the board on the previous projects.

Re-Submit Plans

The proposed $4,000,000 building program begins on February 11th, when the Tippecanoe Valley School Board will take contractors' bids for 27 different areas in the construction plans.

The plans for the project remain the same as the ones which the school board submitted to the State Tax Commissioners last fall, which were refused. These plans will be re-submitted to the Tax Board with one big difference being the deletion of the Mentone School project. When submitted before, the Mentone project included approximately $3,000,000 in remodeling and construction.

By submitting the plans again, it is hoped the people at the state level will realize that interest still remains in getting the Akron-Burket project underway, and their reply will be favorable this time.

Few Changes

A change in the plans, along with different contractor bids, will be the inclusion in the bid packages of the alternates already approved by the school board. There were also some changes made in the plans by the State Fire Marshall.

Plans include the demolition of the Akron Junior High building with exception of the gymnasium, and the addition of nine classrooms, with the rooms in the grade school building being extensively remodeled.

Burket remodeling would include the use of seven existing classrooms and the addition of four new ones, plus music, art rooms, media center, multipurpose room to be used in conjunction with the new kitchen, new administration offices and a new entry.

Mark Smith, of ProMaCon, stated that the target date for completion of the projects would be June of 1983 for Burket and January 1984 for Akron, if plans move along on schedule.

Political notes of interest

Senator Dick Lugar (R-Ind.) has announced that he will seek a second term in office. He made the statement before a meeting of the state's press hosted by the Indianapolis Press Club.

The highlights - of the second week of the Indiana General Assembly included Governor Orr's annual State of the State address and committee action on numerous Senate bills. In his address Tuesday night, Orr called for reductions in state spending and speeding up the collection of corporate income taxes.

By a 48-0 vote the full Senate gave final approval to a bill which restructures the law concerning the licensing of nursing homes and other health facilities. The bill now goes to the House.

S.B. 34 passed out of the Senate Insurance and Financial Institutions Committee 8-0, provides uninsured motorist coverage in automobile liability policies to permit insured drivers involved in an accident to recover damages when involved with an uninsured motorist. The bill requires insurance companies to offer a no-deductible provision, but companies may offer such coverage with deductibles of up to $300.

Another bill dealing with motorists passed the Senate Roads and Transportation Committee. S.B. 28 exempts licensed drivers from taking the written examination every four years if they have fewer than seven active traffic points against them.

Marjorie H. O'Laughlin, clerk of the Indiana Supreme Court and Court of Appeals has announced that she will run for re-election. Mrs. O'Laughlin, a Republican, is completing her first four-year term. She will seek her party's nomination at its June state convention.

The House voted Wednesday to enact a bill that would establish a film commission to represent Indiana to movie-makers. Approximately 30 other states have such commissions, said State Representative Richard Wathen (R-Jeffersonville), and their function is to coordinate the immense task of locating a film crew in another state.

Positive benefits of having a movie locally filmed include added revenue and an increased job market. Many times a movie company will upgrade residential areas and businesses, improvements than are left behind once the movie is completed.

Legislation authored by Representative Richard Bell (D-LaPorte) which deals with unemployment taxes paid by employers was passed out of the House Labor Committee with a unanimous vote of approval. Rep. Bell's bill is designed to reduce the unfair tax burden placed on small businesses by the current unemployment tax law.

State Representative Lindel O. Hume (D-Oakland city) stated that a freeze on the hiring of state employees to fill vacant positions has created some rather alarming deficits in many areas of services provided by the state especially on the areas of corrections and mental health.

LOUISA'S LETTER

Dear Louisa,

My sister and I had a very unhappy time after our mother died and our father married again. Our step-mother seemed to resent us and while she never did any real mean things to us, we always felt that she wished we were not there.

We are both married now and have happy homes. Our father is dead and our stepmother is in a home for the aged. She has begged us to come to see her and has said that she regrets her treatment of us. I am sorry for her and I have forgiven her but my sister refuses to see her and says she would not turn a hand to help her in any way. She thinks we should pay her back for the way she treated us. I don't think that is a Christian way to act and if you agree with me I wish you would answer in our local paper as she always reads it.

WW--Missouri

Answer:

People who build up resentment against others--no matter how well deserved it may be--hurt themselves worse than they do those whom they resent. A person can destroy peace of mind and happiness--in fact they may become ill by harboring ill feeling and hate for other people. It takes a big person to forgive those who have mistreated them as children but they are surely rewarded by the inner satisfaction they feel as a result of such compassion.

New Fulton County Folks book released

Nearly 50 people braved the cold to attend the Fulton County Historical Society meeting and autograph party Sunday afternoon January 24th. The new hard-cover 668-page book, "Fulton County Folks vol. 2," was introduced and all the volunteers who worked on it were honored and thanked.

The new book is now available at the Civic Center Museum or can be ordered through the mail for $35 plus $3 mailing. (Postage has gone up since the last news release on the book, necessitating the change in mailing fee). Send check to FCHS, 7th and Pontiac, Rochester.

Harold and Helen Reese, Rochester, showed slides and told of their trip with DAR to the Yorktown Bicentennial celebration of the close of the Revolutionary War in 1781.

The Historical Society's spring trip will be April 24 to the Museum of Science and Industry in Chicago. Cost of the bus trip is $10 per person. This does not include meals. Admission to the museum is free. Reservations are to be sent to FCHS, 7th and Pontiac, Rochester.

The Board of Directors met before the public meeting. They voted to have Thelbert Mings of Hope, Indiana, conduct the shooting contests at the Trail of Courage Rendezvous this fall. Mings is an experienced range officer from the National Muzzle Loading Rifle Assn., at Friendship, Indiana.

Other action taken by the Board; add Supporter as a type of FCHS membership at $35 annually, and to see if sufficient interest exists to form a Genealogy Section of FCHS.

As Fulton County has no Genealogy Society, the Historical Society has been serving the public in this capacity for several years. Forming a Genealogy Section would increase the effectiveness of FCHS by providing a surname file, more volunteers to do research and answer genealogy queries, etc. Persons interested in this are asked to call the FCHS office at 223-4436.

It was reported that Dec. 19, Bill and Shirley Willard, Vincent Berwanger and four young men assigned to community service by the county court, hauled 140 railroad ties to the Trail of Courage woods. These ties were donated by the salvage company that is tearing out the Erie tracks from Rochester to Huntington. The ties will be used to build a bigger shooting range at the Trail of Courage Rendezvous.

Refreshments were served by Marty Jill Sheets and Marjorie Magleic. Ruth Rockey and Marjorie Fred helped provide refreshments but were unable to attend.

New books at Akron Carnegie Public Library

UNSTILLED VOICES by James and Marti Helley--This book tells you about the backgrounds of five evangelical missionaries and when the five men are cruelly massacred, it tells how the wife of one and sister of another accept the challenge and carry on the work. Then, you will witness how one Aca after another turns his or her back to evil and often murderous traditions and follows the Lord. Finally, you will read how the Aca massacre and its aftermath continue to influence the church throughout the world to renewed commitment, to "go-out into the world and preach the Gospel to every creature."

ALL THEIR KINGDOMS by Madeline A. Pollard--Celina is a country girl, daughter of a well-born but impoverished Galway family. Then Matt O'Conner comes riding out from Dublin. The love story of Celina and Matt is only the beginning of a richly textured novel about three generations of an Irish family -- a brilliantly plotted story of love, loss, betrayal and ironic triumph!

BEING LUCKY by Herman B. Wells--When Herman B. Wells came to Indiana University as an undergraduate in 1921, the school had a rather provincial air and fewer than 3,000 students. At the end of his 25 year presidency in 1962, it was a major institution of higher education with a national and international reputation and a student population that was soon to go over 30,000. The University achieved its growth together with its greatness during the Wells presidency. Dr. Wells ascribes most of his and the university's success to luck. Readers of this book will say otherwise.

INHERIT THE SUN by Maxwell Grant--Here is a magnificent novel of daring and dynasty, of riches and man's conquest of a land as big as his dreams, the Australian Outback. Seldom has a novel possessed such storytelling values and such an understanding of the men and women who succeeded in founding a dynasty in the Australian Outback.

NIPSCO notes winter disconnects can be avoided

Northern Indiana Public Service Company said today that the utility and its customers, working together, can prevent disconnections of service this winter.

"Payments can be spread out or assistance obtained which can avert unnecessary disconnections," a Company spokesman said, "but the customer needs to stop in or call their local NIPSCO office before their bill becomes delinquent."

He said that the Company also has a program, "Third Party Notification," available to customers who are elderly, handicapped or otherwise susceptible to physical harm in the event their utility service is terminated. This program permits such customers to designate a relative, friend, neighbor or social agency to act as a third party in handling their utility problems.

"We also provide extensions of credit on a limited basis for those who, for valid reasons, need additional time to pay for their NIPSCO service," he said. "Credit is based on the circumstances of the individual customer at the time the extension is requested."

The spokesman said that customers needing assistance can also be referred to social service agencies who can provide help in the payment of utility bills, if the customers qualify.

"Programs utilizing federal funding are available for certain customers in helping them pay their utility bills this winter," he said. "Project SAFE, administered by the Indiana Office of Community Services Administration, is available again this year for eligible older, handicapped and low-income Indiana residents."

"NIPSCO is willing to do everything possible to prevent disconnections of service, not only this winter, but at any time," he said. "By working together, hopefully we can avoid interruptions of service for any reason."

Don't forget to clean or replace your filters in your heating system at least once a month.

Camouflage the height of a window or to make it look taller, put a valance at the top of the window.

Did you know cookies, baked or unbaked, will keep about six months in the freezer?

Horticulturists agree the dormant season (the winter months) is the proper time to prune summer-flowering shrubs.

Remove corduroys, knits and quilted fabrics from the dryer a little damp; they shape up better.

County Extension Notes

By: Patricia M. Rathbun
Kosciusko Co. Home Economist

CAUTION! Home canned vegetables and potatoes which were frozen during the recent extreme cold should be treated with care.

Although these foods still may be edible, the following precautions should be taken.

1. Thaw the food naturally, at a temperature slightly above freezing.

2. Check to see if the jar has become unsealed by tipping it slightly and noting if liquid leaks from the jar.

3. If liquid leaks from the jar, the seal has broken. If the food shows no sign of spoilage (described later), the food may be stored in the refrigerator and eaten within 1-2 days or put into a freezer container and stored in the freezer. If the food is refrozen, use it as if it were home-canned. Do not taste any vegetable or meat before boiling at least 10 minutes. Spinach and corn should be boiled 20 minutes.

4. If liquid does not leak from the jar when tilted, the seal may have not broken. Keep the jar at normal canned food storage temperatures (45-60 degrees F.).

Before using the food, "look closely at each container and check for these spoilage signs:

1. A bulging lid, after the food has been thawed for several days, may mean the food is spoiled.

2. As the container is opened, look for spurting liquid or an "off" odor. If these signs are present, do not use the food. Dispose of the food so it will not be eaten by humans or animals.

3. Do not assume that "a little mold won't hurt you." If mold is present, destroy the entire contents of the jar.

These steps can be applied to commercially canned food that has frozen. If any seals are broken because the food inside the can has frozen, the food may be used immediately. CAUTION! This recommendation does not apply to cans which bulge because of factors other than freezing. Commercially canned food that bulges or leaks, under normal conditions, indicates spoilage by bacteria. These cans should NEVER be used.

Potatoes that have frozen and are allowed to thaw cannot be used since they will turn black and have a mushy, soft texture. Potatoes can be baked if they remain frozen. Bake from the frozen state allowing a longer baking time. Potatoes baked after being frozen will be sweeter and have a watery texture.

It's a New Year and that means many people will be making resolutions for the coming year. Some will be kept and many won't. If one of your resolutions is to lose those extra pounds gained during the holidays, here are some helpful hints.

First of all, ask yourself if you're serious about losing the excess. Let's be honest, it's not easy. There are no magical cures or quick and easy ways to weight loss. Do you have time to exercise? Is your family supportive of your effort? Are you willing to work long and hard to reach your goal? Do you really want to do it? If you can honestly answer "yes" to these questions, the chances of your succeeding are greatly increased.

Share your weight loss resolution with others—family, friends, etc. Verbalizing the resolution makes it a personal commitment to succeed. If you try and fail without having told anyone, it's not big deal. By sharing your intentions, you increase the chances of obtaining your goal.

If you are in poor health or seriously overweight, check with your doctor before beginning any type of weight reduction program. A physician can provide guidance and advise you as to how much weight you should lose.

To be successful in a weight reduction program, you must have a nutritional, healthful, low calorie diet, involve some kind of daily exercise and survey your emotions and feelings that may be causing your weight problem.

A realistic, nutritional, low-calorie diet is one that you can stick to, fulfills your dietary needs, and aids in shedding excess pounds. The Basic Four is the best "diet" to follow as it provides about 1200 calories per day. It also assures you of getting necessary protein, minerals, vitamins, carbohydrates, and fats to keep you healthy while losing. Another plus is the variety that it offers, unlike other diets that become monotonous.

Exercise is another important component for successful weight loss. It's a good way to burn calories and helps keep you fit and trim. As you lose weight, the skin may become flabby and sag. Exercise can help tone up skin and muscles and make the results much more appealing. Setting aside 15 minutes every day to concentrate on exercising is all it takes.

Retraining bad eating habits is another key to success. There are many cues or situations that cause us to eat or overeat—having a bad day, food advertisements, the smell of foods, etc. Learning to control the cues aids in changing bad eating habits to good ones.

Successful weight loss is never easy and there are no magical cures, just determination and hard work. If you made a resolution to lose weight, there's help on it's way. Beginning February 8, the Cooperative Extension Service will be sponsoring a Weight Control Letter Series. The series consists of 12 newsletters mailed at two week intervals. Each newsletter will contain helpful information to help you lose weight as well as homework assignments to apply what you learn. All in the privacy of your own home. Low-calorie recipes and additional materials will also be included. The cost of the series is $5.00 to cover postage and materials. To register for the letter series, send you name, address, and registration fee to the Extension Office, 1779 N. Detroit Street, Warsaw 46580. Hurry—the deadline is January 27.

An educational program entitled "Nutrition Through the Years" will be presented Wednesday, January 6, at 1:00 and 7:00 p.m., at the Warsaw Public Library. The program will deal with nutritional factors affecting various age groups. Some of the topics to be covered include fiber, low sodium and low fat diets, childhood nutrition and much more. The public is invited to attend.

Scouts earn Eagle awards

Earning the Eagle Scout Award carries with it a special significance, and 62 Boy Scouts in the Sagamore Council have earned the award during 1981.

"We are justifiably proud of the Scouts who have earned the Eagle Rank this past year," Julian Spector, Council President said. "Not only does this accomplishment reflect upon a young man's dedication to the ideas of Scouting, it also reflects upon him as he enters college, business, and community service."

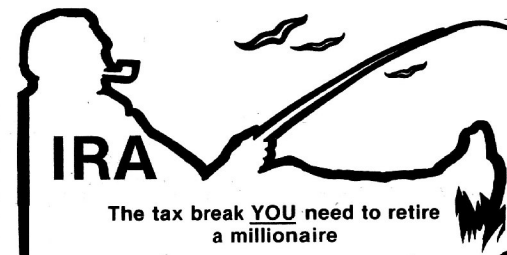

The Eagle Rank is Scouting's highest advancement award.

Approximately 2 percent of all boys who join Scouting earn the Eagle Rank. Spector said. Each year approximately 22,000 Scouts earn the award nationwide out of more than a million boys registered in Boy Scouting.

To earn the Rank of Eagle, a Scout must fulfill requirements in areas of leadership, service, and outdoor skills. Mastery of these requirements enables him to advance through the different ranks: Tenderfoot, Second Class, First Class, Star, Life, and Eagle. The specific tests for advancement are organized into skill awards and merit badges.

Skill awards cover the outdoors, family life, and citizenship responsibilities. Merit Badges signify mastery of Scouter skills, as well as, serving to increase skill in the areas of personal interest. Of the more than 100 badges now available, 21 must be earned to qualify for Eagle. Of this group, 11 are required, including First Aid, Environmental Science, and Citizenship in the Community.
