School Board has re-organization

Two items were the order of business during last Thursday's special meeting of the Tippecanoe Valley School Board; the re-organization and swearing in of new members for the board.

Sworn in were new members Cecil Miller and William Rogers, who were elected to the board during the May primary elections. Miller, replaces Lee Norris as member on the board from Franklin Township and Rogers, replaces Don Snipes as member on the board from Newcastle Township.

The re-organization procedure followed the swearing in with Vernon Meredith, member from Seward Township being elected as president; Richard Long, member from Harrison Township was elected vice president and Cecil Miller was elected secretary.

The board appointed Judy Hively and Eleanor Hoover to continue their duties as treasurer and deputy treasurer, respectively.

It was decided to keep the time and place for school board meetings the same as last year. Meetings will be the third Monday of each month at 7:30 p.m. and held in the high school lecture room.

Deny petition

During a meeting of the Indiana School Property Tax Control Board on June 16 at Indianapolis, the decision was made to deny the petition by the Tippecanoe Valley School Corporation for permission to go ahead with proposed remodeling and demolition at Akron and Burket Schools. The decision of this board is handed down to the Indiana State Board of Tax Commissioners who has the final say in the matter. No word has been received by school officials as yet, as to the State Tax Commissioners decision.

Notice

The Mentone and Tri-Township Fire Control Board has announced it will do no more pumping water out of basements unless in extreme emergency.

The board feels it is unnecessary to call the firemen away from their jobs, and consideration was given to the wear and tear on the equipment used.

NOTICE

The Fulton County License Branch will be closed Saturday, July 10th.

Kindig paintings to be at museums during festival

Other museums in Rochester that highlight the Round Barn Festival include the Rochester Depot Museum in Lakeview Park. This museum boasts the oldest gravestone in the county and a large collection of photos of Cole Brothers Circus. Beside it will be the Fulton County Historical Society's food tent, which will serve ham and beans, cornbread, buffalo burgers, and soft drinks.

Also in Lakeview Park is the Pioneer Woman's Log Cabin Museum, which was built for the Bicentennial using logs from two old cabins. Pioneer crafts will be demonstrated here: Linda Harid, Argos, dried apple head dolls; Martha Wagoner, Talma, rug weaving; Nettie Fisher, Talma, crocheting; Roy Frettinger, Rochester, wood carving; Mary Beehler, Kewanna, quilting; candle dipping, carding and spinning wool by FCHS volunteers.

Both the Rochester Depot Museum and the Log Cabin Museum will be open all three days of the Round Barn Festival from 9 a.m. to 8 p.m. The Civic Center Museum will be open 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Thursday and Friday, and 12 to 5 on Saturday.

Other special exhibits at the Civic Center Museum will be the dolls made by Ruby Dawson of Akron and scrapbooks of Cole Brothers Circus by Marjorie Thompson, Logansport, whose mother owned Hertha's boarding house in Rochester, which was a favorite place for circus people.

Ivan Nunemaker, Wakarusa, will exhibit the Abel C. Pepper papers, which he transcribed from microfilmed Indian records in the National Archives. Pepper was the Indian agent in this area 1835-39, when many treaties were signed and the Potawatomi Indians removed on the Trail of Death. Nunemaker and Ervin Stuntz, Plymouth, will be in the Civic Center Museum Saturday from 1 to 5 p.m. and will answer questions on how to research on Indians of northern Indiana.

Ervin Stuntz is the author of the Chief Aubbeenaubee story which was printed in the FCHS Quarterly. He is making a map of Indian villages, trails and graves, and requests that anyone who knows of these to tell him. He is compiling another book on Indians and would like to talk to anyone who has information on Indians of northern Indiana.

Ten oil paintings of barns and rural scenery are on display for the Round Barn Festival and until the end of July at the Civic Center Museum, 7th and Pontiac, Rochester. The RBF will be July 8, 9 and 10.

These paintings were made by Cleon Kindig, San Jose, California, who was born in Fulton County and brought back here for burial recently. He was a member of the Kindig family that built many round barns 1900-25. The Kindigs also built schools, houses and churches within a 50 mile radius.

Cleon Kindig, youngest son of Charles V. Kindig, was a part of Kindig Builders in his younger days. When the Leedy barn was built in 1924, Cleon was 14 years of age, and his part in helping to build the barn was to drive the truck for pick up of lumber and other supplies. He helped carry shingles up on the roof and other miscellaneous jobs and ran errands, all of which were important to the task. He also worked on other buildings with his father and brothers, Cleve and Hap, who taught him so much of the building trade.

In 1933 Cleon started his own business, Kindig Radio and Electric. His store was in the back of Alf Carter's store on Main Street, Rochester. As a result of a disastrous fire in February 1935, he eventually closed the business and went into engineering. He spent the next 44 years in the electro-mechanical field of engineering.

Puppet program sponsored by the Omega Church

The Omega Church will have a special program and supper on Saturday night, July 10th at the Akron Library basement.

There will be a carry-in supper at 6:30 p.m., and the program at 7:30 p.m. The program will feature a group called "God's Messengers" from Peoria, Ill., who put on a puppet performance for old and young alike. The group ranges in age from high school to adult, and used twenty-two kinds of puppets. The public is cordially invited.

Official Indiana highway maps available

The first copy of Indiana's official 1982-83 highway map was presented to Governor Robert D. Orr this morning in his Statehouse office by Indiana Department of Highways Director Gene K. Hallock.

This year's map highlights the Wander Indiana theme developed by the state's Tourism Division. Tourism, the Highway Department and the Department of Natural Resources (DNR) have been working in concert to promote the idea of Wandering Indiana. The map offers Hoosiers many ideas and avenues for vacation fun, along with travel tips and hints to make their journeys about the state safer and more pleasant.

The new map is available, free of charge, from the Highway Department Public Information Office, 1106 State Office Building, Indianapolis, IN, 46204, (317) 232-5115. It can also be obtained at Highway Department offices around the state, at interstate rest areas and at many Tourism and DNR facilities. Quantities are limited, however.

Along with the suggestions for travel and vacation fun in our home state, the new map provides tips for motorists to help them have safer and easier travels. A motorist service section offers trip-planning ideas and checklists for what to do in case of car trouble, bad weather or an accident.

To help the Hoosier vacationer plan either a week-long tour or just a weekend sojourn, the Tourism Division section of the map this year accents festivals. In each of the four seasons, festivals highlight the achievements of Indiana residents, both past and present, and the Tourism Division offers a sampling to encourage Hoosiers to partake. To help plan outings, the traveler is encouraged to phone the "Wander Indiana" hotline, 1-800-622-4464, to find out about the latest festivals and events, where to camp, hike or snowmobile, and how to get there quickly and safely. The call is free from anywhere in Indiana.

A checklist of what to do if someone is injured is also provided, as is a form for recording information from other drivers in case of an accident. One new feature for the motorist service section this year is the names, locations and phone numbers of all Indiana State Police posts. The traditional "help" panel, red letters on a high visibility background, is on this year's map once again; drivers are encouraged to place this panel in their car window to signal that they need help in the event of an emergency. A mileage/driving time chart from Indiana to various cities around the country is also retained from last year.

Public Service Indiana files rate schedules

Public Service Indiana filed testimony with the state showing that its earlier request for a rate increase would raise residential and farm service electric bills by about 16 to 24 percent, depending on the customer's usage.

As an example, the monthly bill for a residential customer using 1,000 kilowatt-hours would increase 17 percent from $58.28 to $68.63.

Commercial customer bills would increase from 9 to 19 percent. Industrial rates would go up an average of 15 percent, but the increases vary according to demand and usage.

Commercial and industrial rates would generally increase less than residential rates, the company said, so that the prices paid by all three types of customers more closely reflect the actual costs to serve them.

If approved by the Public Service Commission, the various increases would produce $14.7 million in additional annual revenues.

Public Service Indiana says the higher rates are needed because of a new coal-fired generating unit which is to begin producing electricity in October, higher operating costs due to inflation, and higher interest rates on borrowed money.

"Even with the increase," said company Chairman Hugh A. Barker, "electric energy for the average household in our service territory would cost only about $2 a day. But we're working hard to keep those costs from going higher."

The same number of consumer service employees are now handling almost 20,000 more customers than they did three years ago, Barker said. "We've virtually eliminated the use of contract crews, and 125 consumer service jobs have been left unfilled."

Legislation could shorten hunting season

The Reagan Administration's proposed "regulatory reform" legislation could cut short hunting seasons for migratory birds and waterfowl and should be opposed by hunter interests, according to the National Wildlife Federation.

In an emergency alert to its affiliate organizations in each state and three territories, NWF Executive Vice President Jay D. Hair said the 4.2-million member Federation must "do everything in our power to stop" passage of Administration-supported legislation that claims to reduce the "red tape" associated with some federal regulations.

"We support the concept of regulatory reform," said Hair, "but this legislation would do far more than reduce red tape. It would gut some of the most important laws in this country."

The regulatory reform bill is especially pernicious, said Hair, because the programs it could most damage—such as those that establish hunting seasons—are not even mentioned in the text of the bill. The Federation previously voiced opposition to the regulatory reform measures because of their adverse effects on health and environmental protection regulations.

A major feature of the bills would require federal rules to lie before Congress up to 45 days before being finally adopted, during which time Congress could review and, if it chooses, veto the proposed rule.

This provision for Congressional review, said Hair, "would play havoc with the establishment of hunting seasons. As it is now, notices of the start of hunting seasons are often published only days before the beginning of the seasons. Adding another review to an already lengthy survey and consultation process would most certainly delay or shorten hunting seasons."

Hair said that a recent memorandum circulated within the U.S. Department of the Interior details the harm to migratory bird hunting that could be caused by the bills, presenting, Hair said, "another compelling reason" to oppose the legislation.

The Federation has asked other conservation organizations, including the Isaac Walton League of America, the Wildlife Management Institute, Ducks Unlimited, Inc., and the International Association of Game and Fish Agencies, to join in the effort to block the bills. The Senate has already passed a regulatory reform bill (S.1080). In the House of Representatives, HR.746, is awaiting action by the Rules Committee before going to the full House for action.

The establishment of hunting seasons begins with an extensive survey of migratory bird populations conducted by the governments of the United States, Canada and Mexico, and by state conservation agencies. Consultations also are conducted with four separate state-federal flyway councils. Out of the process come determinations of bird populations and other species characteristics which are used to set bag limits and season lengths.

Allowing Congress to review and perhaps change hunting season regulations could result in "All kinds of horror stories," said Hair.

"Seasons could be delayed or closed altogether, bag limits could be tinkered with, and anti-hunting interests would have greater opportunities to legally interfere with seasons," he said. "The adverse impacts—on wildlife and on sportsmen—could be substantial. And there's much doubt as to whether the ill-defined emergency provisions in these bills would overcome the large problems that exist."

Hair said the Administration's "zeal for regulatory reform has not been tempered by responsible and reasonable considerations of all the negative implications" apparent in the "reform" bills before the Congress.

Women In Combat

Two nations' defense authorities have limited the role of women in the light of recent experience. The U.S. Army says it has proved unfair to women to demand the same physical tests and standards on them as demanded of men. Females are to have appropriate standards.

The Israeli armed forces experimented even further, and assigned women to combat. Authorities there recently announced that had not worked out, had proved unpopular with both men and women. The innovation was ended and combat left to males.

However, women are to be taken into the German armed forces for the first time, Bonn has announced. Until now, only men were drafted and accepted but defense authorities in West Germany say 30,000 women will now be accepted into the German military. They will volunteer, will not be assigned combat duties.

There will be protests from some that women are not being treated equally in these decisions. But it seems to be largely a common sense approach and doesn't imply inferiority--any more than Einstein should have felt inferior to Joe Louis.

It might be desirable to test both males and females for physical strength and fitness and those--of both sexes--which meet minimum standards could be used in combat, if that's the will of the American majority.

Limiting Chains

The Canadian Government is preparing a law to limit the growth of newspaper chains. It would bar further growth for those which already own a large percentage of the daily press--twenty percent or more. No newspaper chain in the future could exceed that percentage.

The new law wouldn't force any chain which today owns over twenty percent of daily circulation in Canada to divest itself of any of its properties but this would not be allowed to occur in the future. Two chains in Canada, Thomson and Thomson, now own more than twenty percent of the country's daily circulation.

A spokesman for the government pointed out that there are serious dangers in conglomerate ownership of the press. The government is, in fact, currently engaged in legal action against the two largest chains, charging they conspired to reduce competition.

The government is also planning to oppose more vigorously the ownership of television stations by newspapers, and will seek to force some newspapers to divest themselves of stations.

Canada's action focuses attention on the United States, where newspaper chains are growing at a steady rate, though none yet holds a dominant position concerning total daily circulation in this country. It also puts the spotlight on the quite different television problem in this country, where three New York-based networks, each with well over twenty percent penetration, control TV news, documentaries and entertainment.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Editor, Akron/Mentone News
Dear Friends:

Sunday, June 27, 5:30 p.m., temperature 80° coming from the east into the center of the town of Akron, I got a rude shock. Silhouetted against the empty street was a person with a push-broom, shovel and a wheelbarrow cleaning up along the curb. As I pulled up along side, I recognized George Stephen, sweat pouring off of him like water off of a duck's back, lit up like a neon light from exertion. I pulled up along side of him and said, "George, what in the world are you doing?" He told me that he first was concerned and wanted to get the streets cleaned up seriously enough to get a shovel and broom and work on them himself and secondly, he did not like to see the dirt wash down the sewage drains into the lift station where the grit or sand would get into the motors and gears. I told George my appreciation for what he was doing, apologized to him for not being out there working with him, but, of course, being George, he said, "Oh! That ain't necessary, Howard. I'll get'er." I've always had a high appraisal of George Stephen and his kind, but my stock went up on him mighty fast.

Each year, George puts out a huge truck patch of several long rows of flowers here on the back street north of the bank. We have the privilege of enjoying these flowers along with those of the rest of our good neighbors including Tom and Alma Haupt and Dr. Herrick, which reminds me that if one wants to look for the beauty, we have it right here.

The irony of watching George beautify and clean up our town comes from my fear about two years ago that he wasn't going to be alive now, and fortunately he is better than ever.

When I drive down our streets in October when they are in their autumn color, I have to remember that back there before the turn of the century there were people who did care when they staked out our town, built it and beautified it with trees. Then I have to ask myself, what am I doing to carry on the torch? When I look at my neighbors, like George Stephen, they're giving me the answer.

Thank you, George, for being my friend, neighbor and having you in our community.

Sincerely,
PIKE LUMBER CO., INC.

Pastors Uninformed On Prayer Amendment

Recently, I read an article, "Pastors Respond to (President Reagan's) Prayer Amendment." Apparently, many ministers are uninformed on this overall issue. I thank God, that President Reagan, sees the need for this Amendment.

The only purpose of the Amendment, is to partly undo the 1962, Supreme Court ruling, which prohibited state sponsored vocal, also, silent prayer. The Amendment is not legislating prayer of any type, to any school. It's letting it up mostly to the local school district, and teachers whether or not to have prayer, and if chooses to do so, no student can be forced to participate.

The Amendment is needed because some Humanists and/or Liberals have mis-interpreted the Supreme Court ruling, to prohibit all prayer, and Bible Classes, from educational systems. They have forced the stopping of local voluntary prayer, and voluntary Bible Classes, in some schools. Also, some local schools, and teachers fear they will be hauled off to court, etc., if they have voluntary prayer, or Bible reading.

It was stated, that silent prayer was the only acceptable prayer. If this is all our First Amendment means is this aspect, then it's meaningless; even the Soviet Union students have this so-called freedom to pray. Our First Amendment gives us the free exercise of religion, not just thinking - but acting upon our belief.

President Reagan needs our support. Please remember, teaching the concept of God and His Word, gives students, basis to determine right from wrong.

I want to express my appreciation for the appearance of the cemetery at Akron over the Memorial Day weekend. It was mowed and trimmed neatly, and it is good to see it taken such good care of.

Sincerely,
Ralph Tucker

It is easy for me to understand the feelings of those who may feel oppressed by public law officials. As a seed producer we were restricted as to the chemicals we might profitably have used. And we had the U.S. Food and Drug representative come and tell us what we could not do and then put our hogs on the market. All "for the public good?" Anyway, a fact of life. Most assuredly there are restrictions on the way I am allowed to prepare tax returns. And there should be.

WHAT CAN BE FOUND IN THE MONTH OF JULY?

July is a month of fair skies, hot weather and lemonade, outdoor activities of all kinds such as picnics, barbecues, swimming parties, golfing, fishing, and the like; and, of course, the Fourth of July celebration; but let us turn to God's Word for what is truly to be found in the month of July.

The Declaration of Independence set us free as a nation but true freedom is inside in the soul when it is freed from sin; for "The Son (Jesus) therefore shall make you free, ye shall be free indeed." (Jn. 8:36) The war dead are honored by flags on their graves, by commemorative services, and by speeches. God honors His Word and those bodies will come alive some day if they believe on Christ who said after He arose from the dead, "Because I live, ye shall live also."

(Jn. 14:19) There are parades, but the greatest marching is that of the Christian as he puts on the Armour of God (Eph. 6:11-18) and as that song, "Onward Christian Soldiers," becomes a part of his life.

July is a time to enjoy fresh vegetables from the garden, fruits plucked from the trees, and berries picked from the vine; also it is a good time to lay up food for the winter through canning or placing it in a freezer. When blackberrying, there is need to watch out for the possibility of coming onto a snake, but he will not attack you if he is left alone. As you may recall, a snake is usually found where the berries are most plentiful, largest, and ripest; and so it is with the devil. He strikes as someone gets rid of sins and gets the Spirit of Christ within, as one studies and meditates on the Word of God, and as one abounds in prayer, witnessing, and works of love for God and for fellow men. But the devil's temptations cannot strike us unless we get fairly close to him and so we just need to draw near to the cross and Jesus for we can overcome the devil by the blood of the Lamb (asking forgiveness of our sins) and by the words (from the Bible) of our Testimony. (Rev. 12:11)

Fishing is a man's delight, but the streams, lakes, and oceans are becoming polluted. However, the greatest pollution today is that of man's sin and that of the Word of God as the devil and his followers get into some of the new versions, produce false teachers, (II Ptr. 2:1), who influence preachers to not believe or teach the inerrancy of the Bible, and who are not satisfied with taking prayer and Bible Study out of the schools but are now working on putting sex books into the schools for young children. But the worst of all these is what the devil is doing to America for man is not obeying God's Bible and sin does abound. All of those who do any of the seventeen sins given in Gal. 5:19-21 shall not inherit the Kingdom of God. Some of these with further words of judgement are: crimes, abortion, and murders (Ex. 20:13); adulterers, prostitution, living together without marriage, and wife swapping (Ex. 20:14); sorcerers (drugs), idolators (seekers of pleasurer, wealth, and prestige both socially and publicly without God); filth in magazines, "kiddie pornography," TV, plays, x-rated movies, etc. (lust through the eye-gate which amounts to adultery as given in Matt. 5:28 and defilement in Titus 1:15); and consulting fortune tellers or other spirit mediums (I Tim. 4:1 and Deut. 18:10-11). All of these are subject to the second death as given in Rev. 21:8 and Rev. 22:14-15).

Homosexuality and other sexual deviations which caused the fall of Sodom and Gomorrah and winning and dining (drunkenness and revelling), accumulation of wealth and pleasers which caused the fall of Babylon could likewise happen to America unless we heed God's warning: "The wicked shall be turned into hell of all the nations that forget God," (Ps. 9:17; Ezek. 39:2) and repent (II Chron. 7:14, 15).

What is to be found in the month of July? For the believer, there is freedom each day and throughout the day for we are more than conquerors through Christ (Rom. 8:37) as we continue to march forth into battle; and this makes the month of July a most glorious one for us in love, joy, and peace!

LOUISA'S LETTER

Dear Louisa,

I have been living with my daughter who is married and has two children. Her husband has been nice to me—in fact, all of them have gone out of their way to make me feel at home. But I know that I interfere with their style of life—the children's friends are not in and out as much as before I came and when the older ones entertain they feel that they must include me among the guests. I have only one room and have had to store most of my things because I was not sure that this way of life would suit me. I am financially able to rent an apartment but I hate to hurt my people's feelings by telling them that such a plan would suit me better.

What do you think I should do?
Need More Room--Tex.

Answer:

If the lot on which they live is large enough and you are financially able to do so, it seems to me that a good solution would be to build a garage apartment in their yard. These can be quite attractive and convenient and would allow both you and your family to have the privacy that makes life so much simpler when different generations live close together.

If that is not possible there are many homes for older people where meals can be served and where you can keep your car. You could spend weekends with your children but be close enough to help them or get help when it is needed.

A Message For Older Adults
Hot weather spells danger; heat is a killer. Most of the victims are elderly. Hot weather can place a dangerous strain on your body, especially your heart if the burden is too great, heat can make you very sick or even kill you.

Facts About The Heat
Temperatures above 90° F can be very dangerous, especially when the humidity is also high. Crowded living conditions increase this danger. Your body needs time to adjust to hot weather. A sudden increase in temperature, especially in the early summer, is particularly dangerous because your body is unprepared for the strain. It doesn't take a "Killer Heat Wave" to kill you. If you are feeling hot and uncomfortable, take steps to avoid heat stress. Heat stress can cause many medical problems including heat exhaustion, heat stroke, heart failure and stroke. Proper precautions can make you more comfortable, prevent illness and even save your life.

Watch your step, your chances of getting sick in hot weather are increased by: A weak or damaged heart, hypertension, problems with circulation, diabetes, a previous stroke, overweight, infection or fever, diarrhea, drinking alcoholic beverages, skin diseases or sunburn which may reduce sweating. Many prescription drugs can make you much more vulnerable to the heat. If you take medicine for high blood pressure, nervousness, depression, poor circulation or sleeping, check with your doctor or pharmacist for advice.

Blood Pressure Clinic will be held July 8th at the Akron Nutrition Site. We will also celebrate all July birthdays at this time. If you are planning on joining us the 8th please call in your reservations the day before between the hours of 10 a.m. to 12 a.m.

New books at Akron Library

New books now available at the Akron Carnegie Public Library for public use are:

The Follies of the King by Jean Plaidy--This is a novel about Edward the second of England and his queen Isabella. Alluring, powerful and ruthless, Isabella emerges as the triumphant conqueror while Edward plunges along that road on which his follies have set him and which ends in history's most horrific murder within the thick walls of Berkley Castle.

Children Are Wet Cement by Anne Ortlund--The author believes one of today's greatest needs is a reconciling of the "generation gap." The responsibility is on the adults of this world to reach across the gap in love and humanity to their children, and to do this quickly, while the children are still moldable and impressionable.

Fly Away Home by Carolyn Doty--A clean break, a fresh start, a return to a past life full of promise--which of us has never, in our fantasies at least, wished for such a thing? Certainly Sally Bryan has. Events and memories and the passage of time, however, force Sally into a head-on collision with her fantasy leave-taking. Sun Valley is not as she remembered it: the old haunts are gone and the old crowd has changed. What she sees brings her to the first real decision in her life.

The Fragile Curtain by Karen Burton Mains--In the spring of 1980 Karen Mains made a traveling survey of the refugee camps of the world. She went to interpret the pain and suffering of these people; instead they showed her the meaning of her own life and of yours and mine.

Katie by Margaret Graham--This is the story of the McLeod children - squeezed by the Great Depression, mystified by their father's disappearance, held together by their mother's love. This is a picture right from the heart of America.

The Queen From Provence by Jean Plaidy--The Count of Provence had four daughters. Although they were beautiful and cultured, they were without dowries and it seemed unlikely that they could make the marriages their father wanted for them. The eldest married the King of France and her sister Eleanor was determined to make as grand a match. Only a miracle could bring her to the notice of the King of England. She contrived to bring about that miracle. Dominating that family and the country itself was Eleanor, the dowryless girl from Provence, who was almost murdered by the Londoners, but who stood firmly beside the King throughout his trials and made him a happy man, while, through her, he came near to losing his kingdom.

NIPSCO amends proposal for increase of $31.2 million

Northern Indiana Public Service Company amended, July 25, 1982, a petition the utility recently filed with the Public Service Commission of Indiana.

The filing in effect cancels a proposed $31.2 million increase requested by the Company on May 26, 1982, and scheduled to become effective July 1, 1982.

Reduced rates filed by two of NIPSCO's wholesale suppliers and revised rates filed by a third supplier with the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission (FERC) in the interim will offset the previously petitioned increases in the utility's supply costs.

The combined purchased gas adjustment and gas storage factors for all NIPSCO customers will drop to 17.67 cents per 100 cubic feet, effective July 1, 1982, instead of increasing to 18.78 cents per 100 cubic feet as requested in the May 26 petition.

Adjustments in gas rates to NIPSCO customers, usually upward and sometimes downward, have occurred and will continue to occur as rates from NIPSCO's five pipeline suppliers change, as they have and will under the provisions of the National Energy Act. All of the changes are regulated by FERC and must be approved by the Public Service Commission of Indiana.

Club visits Senior Citizens

The Perry Home Improvement Club, as a group, visited the Peru Senior Citizens at their noon meal. A Sing Along was enjoyed, led by Peggy Butt at the piano. This was planned by Wanda Duncan and Margaret Weise, two former members of this club.

The Club business meeting was held at the Denver home of Marjorie Miller with assistant hostess Marie Berger. Alice Teel presided. Ruth Bammerlin led the group singing of "Faith of our Fathers" and "Happy Birthday" to Marie Berger, Marie Coon, Pauline Miller, and June Merley.

For her devotions Faye Eaton read Matthew 8:18-22. The Christian is to make Christ attractive to all people. She lead in prayer.

Helen Byrt brought the County Lesson on "Window Treatment." She explained how to make Roman shades, Austrian shades and drapes with insulated linings. She and Emma Burns each have sheets of instructions they will be happy to share.

Mrs. Teel brought news from the County President's Council. October 12 a County Lesson on cheese will be given. There will be no County presentation of attendance pins. The local clubs may do this if they desire. The County now has 510 members.

Alice Teel has served so well for three years as president and she was presented a gift and a lovely tribute in appreciation by Ruth Bammerlin.

Margaret Weise must have surgery and is in the hospital. Marie Nesterlora volunteered to make her a bed jacket from a towel.

Officers for the new year are: President - Lucile Personette; Co-Vice-President - Alice Teel and Ruth Bammerlin; Secretary: Arlene Gearhart; and Treasurer: Pauline Miller. Marie Berger installed them in a lovely service.

Then, forming a circle with hands joined, the Lords Prayer was prayed.

Sherri Moore became a new member of the group. Others present were: Neva Robison, a guest, Helen Miller, Marie Coon and Aurel Musselman.

The hostess served lovely refreshments.

Deluxe tractor is prize in 'Young Farmer Contest'

Some Hoosier young farmer will be shooting for the prize of having the use of a big new tractor with all the latest options, including 100 PTO horsepower with a cab featuring tinted glass, tilt steering wheel, air conditioning, a heater, deluxe seat and a radio. With this goes an expense-paid trip to Texas cowboy land with its oil wells and the skyscrapers of Dallas.

A year's free use of this tractor with the option to buy, is the grand prize for three U.S. farmers under the age of 31 who will be recognized in the 1982 Young Farmer Award Program of the American Farm Bureau. Hoosier farms have shot at this by entering the 1982 Indiana Farm Bureau Young Farmer award program, according to Melvin D. Hollingsworth, program director. Judging in the contest will be based on soundness of farming operation, management practices, evidence of problem solving, planning and decision making, and leadership.

Five Indiana finalists will receive awards in the competition at the Indiana Farm Bureau convention in December in Indianapolis. The state winning couple will receive an expense-paid trip to participate in the national finals in January 1983 at the American Farm Bureau convention in Dallas.

Applicants must be actively farming, the head of a household and a Farm Bureau member. Maximum age is 30 years as of December 31, 1982. Previous applicants may re-apply unless they have represented Indiana in national competition.

Awards last went to Kent and Joy Yeager, R. 1, Mauckport; Owen and Della Menchhofer, R. 2, Holton; John and Sherrie Larimer, R. 3, Howe; Alan and Janet Kemper, 5710 East, 700 South, Lafayette, and David and Jann Johnson, R. 2, Churubusco. Find $20,000 check

At a time when unemployment is at an all-time high, Mike Spurgeon, 38, Marion, sold his job for $20,000 and then lost the check...until a Silver Lake man and his father-in-law found it on State Rd. 15. Spurgeon worked for Conrail since 1966 but because of a law passed recently, the railroad no longer has to use a full crew. Consequently employees have an option of being furloughed indefinitely or take a lump sum severance pay. Spurgeon's last run as a freight conductor was June 25 from Elkhart to Marion. Upon arriving home, he was mailed the $20,000 check and notification that he no longer worked for Conrail. His family was on a camping vacation near Elkhart. He strapped a duffle bag, with the check inside, on his motorcycle and was on his way to join the family. Walter Rogers Jr., Silver Lake, and his father-in-law, Kenneth Courtney, Fort Wayne, found the bag on State Rd. 15, just north of Silver Lake. They turned it over to the Kosciusko County Sheriff's Department where Spurgeon recovered it.

A good portion of all the photos taken in the U.S.—perhaps as many as 75 percent—consists of portraits. Mostly, they're informal shots of friends, neighbors, and members of the family. And, in theory, that's good. Few subjects are quite so interesting as people—their physical appearances, expressions, actions.

In reality, however, a startlingly high number of those portraits are deady boring. You know the kind. Momma and junior flanking little sis and all three grinning awkwardly into the camera as dad snaps the shutter.

There are ways of changing all that—ways to add zest and life to your portraits. And it all begins with you.

First, it's time you realized that you have the power to shape the finished photographs you take. Even when dealing with other people, you—the picture taker—have the final say over who poses how and when to snap—or not to snap—the shutter.

For openers, start working to overcome your shyness about asking people (Even strangers? Gad!!) to pose the way you want them. Think of yourself as a director. It's up to you to stage the production just the way that's best. If you approach your subjects firmly, yet nicely, suggesting that if they do this, the photo will be better, you're practically guaranteed of their cooperation. After all, everyone wants to look good when the prints come back from processing.

Some professional portrait photographers prefer grouping two or even three people in a scene rather than shooting individuals one at a time. The reason is that, with two people posing together, there's less camera-consciousness and greater opportunity for natural-looking, spontaneous shots. With three people in a scene, you practically have to shout out to remind them that there's a photographer present... especially three people who know each other well.

Take advantage of the multiple-subject situation. Instead of lining two or three people up firing-squad style, have them face three-quarters to the camera and interrelate. Give them some props—something to do with their hands. Have one show the others something he's found. Have someone explaining something to the others. The possibilities are endless.

Meanwhile, while all this interrelating is going on, you can forget your own self-consciousness and concentrate on moving around for just the right angle. Check out the composition. Move forward or back in order to get everyone into the scene. If one person is obscured by another, go up and move that person to one side or forward, then melt back, again, to your "ready-aim-fire" position.

The key to natural-looking, "unposed" posed photos is to have everyone busy doing something besides primping for the camera. Sometimes a straight-forward, classic-style portrait is nice. But, nine times out of ten, a more natural-looking shot will be a more interesting photo.

To enhance the natural effect of your portraits, take advantage of natural light whenever possible. Pose your subjects outside or inside near an open window. Beware of the degree of light falloff, though, so that the person farthest from the natural light source doesn't end up hidden in the shade. If that seems to be happening, use electronic flash as a "fill" light to pop that person back out from the darkness.

In fact, there are many occasions when you can use flash so that it nearly resembles natural light. Two of the best ways are to diffuse it through a screen or bounced off a ceiling or nearby wall. And always shoot your flash off-camera, either handheld (which can be awkward) or mounted off to one side on a pistol grip—an accessory you should be able to find at your local photo dealer.

GUEST EDITORIAL

By: Alfred W. Steever,
D.C., SAF.

The Spirit of Freedom arose from our proud Founding Fathers upon the proclamation by Richard Henry Lee of Virginia: "Resolved: that these United Colonies are, and of right ought to be, FREE AND INDEPENDENT STATES."

John Adams of Massachusetts seconded the resolution in the Continental Congress which was sitting in the Old State House in Philadelphia. Thereafter, a committee of five - Thomas Jefferson of Virginia, John Adams, Benjamin Franklin of Pennsylvania, Roger Sherman of Connecticut, and Robert R. Livingston of New York - were chosen to draw up an official declaration.

The Declaration of American Independence, drawn primarily by the scholarly Thomas Jefferson, was boldly signed on the 4th of July, 1776 by John Hancock, President of the Congress. Later, the representatives of the colonies would sign their names to the Declaration.

The joyous patriots of Philadelphia, fully aware of this historic moment, rang the "Liberty Bell" atop the Old State House (now called Independence Hall) and shouted their approval of the new "FREEDOM" they anticipated.

The new Spirit of Freedom was in opposition to the general warrants called "Writs of Assistance" that authorized the King's officers to break into private homes, shops in the colonies, and merchant ships at sea or in colonial ports. The Spirit of the tax-plagued colonists had finally prevailed against the Stamp Act, the Townshend Acts of import duties on articles of necessity to the colonists, and the unanswered petitions to King George III to redress their wrongs.

The fallen "Minutemen" at Lexington and Concord were remembered as the colonial Spirit of Freedom was aroused on that July 4th, 1776!

What spirit prevails today across the nation as another July 4th is observed? Is it the kindred spirit of Liberty and Freedom as fought for by our Founding Fathers?

Our forefathers assembled a paper of laws and directives by which the individual citizen was to be a sovereign; the government was to be his caring servant and protector. That paper, the United States Constitution, "was made only for a moral and religious people," said John Adams.

Today, a Washington aide has declared, "The United States Constitution is viewed with contempt." That such a view persists at most levels of government, in spite of the oath by such employees to uphold the Constitution, may signify the vast problems within our nation. Abraham Lincoln's forecast that the only way this great nation could be destroyed was from within - is now coming true!

The American "free enterprises" way of life has been replaced by massive governmental controls; creative and productive citizens are relieved of their earned wealth to support non-producers, manipulators, and traitors.

In the words of H.L. Menkin: "The men the American people admire the most extravagantly are the most daring LIARS; the men they detest most violently are those who try to tell them the TRUTH!"

The truth on this July 4th would sicken our brave, heroic forefathers. The darkening skies of tyranny is replacing the Declaration of American Independence; voiding the "just Powers from the Consent of the Governed" with a new "History of repeated Injuries and Usurpations" producing "an absolute Tyranny over these States."

To know the truth, is to open the door to Freedom.

Interest rates more painful than taxes and inflation

By: Alfred W. Steever, D.C., SAF.

A proud and confident President Reagan announced, during his State of the Union Address, "a bold and spirited initiative that I believe can change the face of American government and make it again the servant of the people." Thus, the plan for a New Federalism was introduced; nation-wide, people prayed that this plan would be successful!

The President's basic belief that state and local government bodies can today administer most domestic programs effectively has yet to be proven. Certainly the plan could lower the number of federal employees and return past federal programs and powers to where they originally belonged. The states, being more sensitive to the needs of the people, can exercise a greater flexibility to meet such requirements when the need is truly legitimate.

What happens, however, if the inflation spectre returns with renewed elevation or the present unemployment picture becomes even worse in upcoming months? Politicians appear frightened of such dire possibilities. Businessmen face the fear of elevated interest rates instead of inflationary ascension as they see the rate of bankruptcies steadily increasing.

One U.S. Senate aide stated, "Businessmen have discovered the high interest rates are more painful than high taxes or high inflation."

Recent reports indicate the Federal Reserve Corporation is inflating the nation's debit system since October 1981; up as much as 300 percent in acquisition of government securities over last year. History has shown the expected return of inflation will hit new peaks as the government attempts to meet its monetary crisis with more promissory notes, bond sales, or other monetary devices. The Monetary Control Act of 1980 is such a device allowing a great many deviations from normal practices of monetary control.

The Federal Reserve is now monetizing foreign debt - which 3rd World nations welcome. Debts of $2.6 billion have thusly been absorbed since February. The printing of new money, on only one side, may meet the demands of possible bank/savings and loan association withdrawal demands or an outright currency re-evaluation.

Modern government is not unlike the ancient public works project of Rome. They expanded the money supply to pay the peasant workers. They did this by minted silver coins that were gradually reduced in silver content until such time that the workers were paid by wooden coins. Today, our workers receive printed paper instead of wooden coins. Strangely, the paper is also a wood product!

In 1975, New York City faced a monetary crisis. The general public didn't favor bailing out the Big Apple; neither did President Ford. However, the politics of the upcoming election influenced the decision to supply federal aid which has temporarily bailed out the city.

How many local communities, burdened with increased demands for deluxe services, will soon face similar financial crisis periods such as New York? Will the burden of city-county-state monetary crisis situations revert to federal relief measures?

Would such a situation "retire," the Reagan New Federalism plan and cause federal resumption of monetary chaos across the nation? Would the "deficit spending" practices of 50 years fall on the doorstep of Ronald Reagan?

President Reagan has had the opportunity to adhere to the constitutional decrees embodied in the U.S. Constitution as have other governmental segments. The citizenry have permitted such variance from lawful government to exist, grow, and overcome the basic principles of our Republic. Socialists practice prevails.

Will history, unlearned from the past, be once again repeated? Can village or hamlets around the globe survive when nations succumb to monetary, legislative, productivity, and employment chaos?

"The whole of government consists of the art of being honest," Thomas Jefferson.

"Take care of yourself," says a writer. If you don't, who will?

CATCHIN' COUNTRY CATFISH

Catfish, sometimes called chicken of the channel, are common and widespread, bite when other fish won't, reach super sizes... and above all, are incredibly tasty. Available to most folks, their nutritional goodness can become an important part of anyone's diet.

Like to try catfishing? Get up bright and early one morning and head for the nearest river, lake, or farm pond. Nighttime will also produce good results. In fact, "cats" can be caught at all times of the day, at all water temperatures and depths. The best time to plan your expedition, however, is after a heavy rain... especially in the spring. When other fair-weather fish are sluggish and temperamental, the hungry catfish forage about in the freshly rejuvenated waters.

Some people prefer an old-fashioned bait-casting rod and reel but almost any type of arrangement—from Grandma's cane pole to a fancy spinning rig—will catch a catfish. Use a small-to-medium-size hook and a sinker that's heavy enough to keep your bait on the bottom, in cat territory. The weight needed to do this will vary depending on water conditions.

Most conceivable baits will entice these tasty critters, but garden worms are the old standby. (Just don't take too many out of the vegetable patch!) Cast a generous bait to the bottom, and wait for the slow, deliberate tugging which signals that a catfish is biting. Above all, be patient!

If the water you've chosen to fish is muddy, sluggish or still, you're very likely to catch a bullhead (a member of the catfish family that grows to no more than 20 inches long and 4-1/2 pounds in weight). All of the three common color phases of the bullhead—black, brown, and yellow—have pink meat that's sweet and fine. Faster, clearer water will generally turn up nice channel and blue cats (especially from that little pool beneath a steady current where natural nutrients abound). The variety really doesn't matter, however, because all catfish are readily distinguishable from other fish (by the "whiskers" or barb that grow out of their upper jaws, and the skin—instead of scales—on their bodies) and all are among the finest feasting anywhere.

Once you've landed your eating-size fish (eight inches and up), you're faced with the procedure of dressing it out. No problem. First, grip the critter so that its three protruding fin spines are firmly extended between your fingers. Beware of those spikes... they can easily inflict a painful, long-lasting wound! Next—with a sharp knife—cut a shallow ring about the fish's neck, immediately behind the gill openings.

Since all catfish are scaleless they must be completely skinned... but the operation is actually pretty easy. Grasp the edge of your incision with a handy pair of pliers and simply peel the skin down banana style. Then remove the head, fins, tail, and entrails so that you're left with a large piece of meat that is ready to be washed, cooked, and eaten. (Incidentally, the above system works for other scaleless fish and rattle-snakes!)

How will you cook your catfish? There are probably about a million ways, all of them good, so just look in your favorite cookbook and get ready for some good eating!

25th WEDDING ANNIVERSARY: Mr. and Mrs. James Romine, Rt. 1, Mentone celebrated their 25th wedding anniversary with a surprise family dinner at Teel's Restaurant, Mentone.

Jim Romine and the former Barbara Fawley were married on June 21st by the Rev. George Steele at Harrison Center. Children of the couple are Brian, Brad and Brent Romine.

Recognition was given to the Mentone area Senior Citizens during the Centennial celebration. The beautiful people rode in cars and waved flags and thoroughly enjoyed being a part of the celebration. Thanks to the people who thought of this idea and also entertained them at a reception after the parade was over. It was a great idea.

Back to an old phrase: Happiness is...Rosie's raspberry pie; seeing an old school chum, Bill Smith, who was home for Ernie and Esther's 50th anniversary; seeing all the people home to spend the 4th weekend in Akron, working with all the people on the 4th of July committee.

Nothing gets people talking like a good letter to the editor!! Lots of pros and cons, but at least they are thinking and discussing problems and issues. Let's have some more of them. Not everyone has to agree with you—that's what makes things work because then you have to sit down and discuss and work things out together. That also is what it's all about—sticking together, helping each other.

The remodeling at the Mentone School is really something!! You should go see for yourself.

4-H time is upon us again. Workshops, demonstrations, club meetings, work meetings, leaders and kids all working hard to put another 4-H Fair together for the enjoyment of everyone interested in kids.

Special music concert at Akron Church of God

Ron and Carolyn Patty will appear at the Akron Church of God on July 11th and will present a special musical concert during the Morning Worship Service that begins at 10:30 a.m.

The Pattys are among the nation's most outstanding musical artists. A graduate of Anderson College, Mr. Patty sang 1st tenor in a male quartet on the international radio broadcast, "The Christian Brotherhood Hour" for 15 years, sang 1st tenor with Fred Waring's "Pennsylvanians," appearing at the White House for a special Command Performance in honor of Queen Elizabeth while President Eisenhower was in office. Mr. Patty also serves as Soloist and Song Leader for Bill Glass Crusades which have been held throughout the nation. He also produced a weekly television program, "Songs Over the Desert," for several years in Phoenix, Arizona.

Carolyn Patty is a concert pianist and has accompanied her husband in almost every phase of his musical career. She is also pianist for Bill Glass Crusades, and an outstanding soloist.

In addition to Carolyn's vocal and piano solos, Ron makes use of his almost four octave range, using tape and live accompaniment, sings several quartet numbers singing all the parts himself. Wherever they have presented this program spirits have been lifted. Christ has been honored and lives have been changed as people have heard a musical review of God at work in the past, now at work in the present and even more at work in the future.

The Akron Church of God cordially invites everyone to join with them in this special musical presentation.

Historical Society to have sale on Quarterlies

The Fulton County Historical Society will have a half price sale on Quarterlies during the month of July. Anyone who joins FCHS during the Round Barn Festival will receive two extra free Quarterlies of their choice, except the 1982 issues. This was voted on at the June 28 meeting held at the Germany Bridge campgrounds.

Telephone committees are calling all FCHS members and asking them to donate $2 toward purchase of cornbread and supplies. Volunteers are needed to host the museums and work in the food tent Thursday, Friday and Saturday in four-hour shifts: 9 to 1, 1 to 5, and 5 to 9. If any FCHS member does not get called, please call 223-4436.

FCHS will have two vehicles in the Round Barn Festival parade: the antique Lincoln truck donated by Carl Zartman several years ago and a flying saucer hover craft built by Bill and Tom Willard. These represent the old and the new in motorized vehicles and show that the historical society preserves both old and recent history.

Dog Days

Dog days usually begin in July and can last until September, especially in the South.

History suggests people living in more southerly latitudes sometimes lack the industry of people from more northerly climes. Therefore, dog days have a slow-down effect on many.

They are often sultry, humid and extremely warm. If one can find no other excuse to escape work, the arrival of dog days this month is a possible one.

Summer Tips

In case severe, hot weather threatens one's health, we call attention to certain warning symptoms.

Sunstroke offers ample warning, including headache, nausea and a dry skin. Heat prostration cautions us by pallor, a feeble heart action and subnormal temperature.

Over-exertion is dangerous in very hot weather and over-eating serious; excess sugar and fat in the diet should be avoided.

Meat is to be taken more lightly. Raw vegetables, salads and fruits should be freely consumed. Cool water, not iced, is recommended.

The program at the meeting was Show and Tell. Several people brought things over 100 years old. Ted Lewis brought a chair from the old courthouse which was replaced in 1895, and a Wells Fargo sign which was hit by a bullet during a bank robbery in Akron. Irene Rouch showed a china teapot that had belonged to her grandparents in the 1830's.

Refreshments were served to the 16 persons present by hostesses Paul and Maxine Bardsley, Wilma Berwanger, and Irene Rouch.

The next meeting will be a picnic supper July 27 at 6:30 p.m. at John Savage's home on Town Lake a mile south of Akron.

Trucking industry suffering severely

A recent nationwide survey finds 155 ICC regulated for-hire trucking companies have now apparently closed their doors and gone out of business since mid 1980. These companies lost $33 million on estimated gross revenues of $775 million. Some 18,596 employees of these companies lost their jobs.

In addition, another 47 ICC regulated firms are currently experiencing serious financial difficulties necessitating reduction in service and employment and/or reorganization under Chapter 11 of the federal bankruptcy laws. These 47 companies with nearly $1.2 billion in operating revenues also provide employment for 22,166 persons.

Missing from this survey of 202 interstate motor carriers, with nearly $2 billion in annual gross revenues involving some 40,800 jobs, are a substantial number of small newly formed motor carriers which went out of business shortly after they were organized and many intrastate motor carriers which were not included in the survey.

According to George G. Cline, general manager of the Indiana Motor Truck Association, the trucking industry in Indiana and the Midwest are hardest hit. "Our industry is a barometer of industrial production. When manufacturing is down and layoffs prevalent, then motor freight service is reduced, trucks are parked and our people laid off. In Indiana, as of February this year, for-hire trucking companies had an unemployment rate of 22% compared to February 1979.

So far, 12 Indiana motor carriers with revenues of $51.2 million and 1,469 employees have gone out of business with at least three more carriers having extremely serious difficulty. These three companies represent revenues of an additional $62.4 million and 1,119 more jobs. Of all the states, Indiana is second only to New Jersey with the greatest number of motor carriers out of business. Of the 155 motor carriers which have gone out of business, the Midwest ranks first with the demise of 54 carriers.

Cline said the trucking industry's current plight was caused by inflation, high interest rates, labor pains, so-called deregulation of the trucking industry by an act of Congress in 1980, and subsequent implementation of unrealistic administrative policy of the Interstate Commerce Commission.

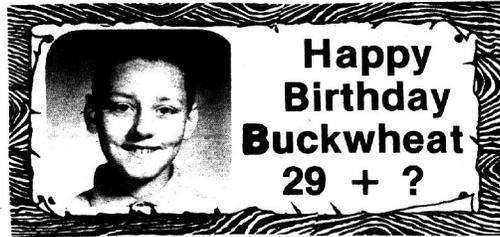

He said, "We pray the economic recession is about to bottom out, but it is difficult to be optimistic. If interest rates will come down soon and level off for an extended period of time, we believe the economy will slowly improve."

As more and more "eighteen-wheelers" are seen on our highways, you can be assured that consumers are in a buying mood, more people are back to work and production of goods is moving forward.

THANK YOU

My sincere appreciation is extended to all who remembered me in anyway while in the hospital and at home. Thank You.

CELEBRATE 40TH: Walter C. and Betty L. (Agnew) Benzing, Rt. 1, Roann, will celebrate their 40th wedding anniversary with an open house in their honor, on July 11, 1982 at the Masonic Hall in Gilead from 2 to 5 p.m. They were married on July 3, 1942 in Celina, Ohio, by the Rev. Tennyson Guyer.

The open house is being given by their children, Wally Benzing, Plymouth; Mrs. Peter (Ada) Gross, Warsaw; Mrs. Robert (Cindy) Cain, Denver; Bob and Bill Benzing, both at home. The couple requests that gifts be omitted.

Pro-rating of excise tax on license plates changed

Pursuant to legislation passed in the 1982 Indiana General Assembly, beginning July 1, 1982, the procedure for pro-rating excise tax on license plate sales will change.

Indiana residents wishing to purchase a license plate for a new vehicle for use in 1982 through their expiration month in 1983, will now pay pro-rated excise tax assessed from their vehicle's date of purchase rather than the license plate purchase date.

The following examples demonstrate when excise tax may be pro-rated and how the tax rate is determined:

EXAMPLE: No Excise Tax Proration Allowed: John Doe is a March registrant and his excise tax rate is $74 for a vehicle purchased in March of 1982. He chooses not to plate his vehicle until July. The excise tax is still $74 because the applicant owned his vehicle at the time of his annual registration month and was subject to registration at that time.

EXAMPLE: Excise Tax Proration Computed: John Doe purchases a new vehicle in May of 1982 and his excise tax rate for the vehicle is $120. He chooses not to plate his vehicle until July. The excise tax is pro-rated from May (the vehicle's date of purchase) rather than being computed from July (the license plate purchase date). This results in a pro-rated excise tax rate of $108.

Changing this law reverts the excise tax proration to the procedure used prior to July 1, 1981.

Ditton to be arraigned July 30

An arraignment date of 9 a.m. July 30 in Kosciusko Superior Court has been set for George Edward Ditton, 36, 620 North Union St. He is charged with attempted murder, Class A felony; battery, Class C felony, and criminal recklessness in connection with the shooting of Loraine K. Montel, 11, 612 North Union St., Friday afternoon.

The charges surround Ditton's apparent intent to shoot Willard Prater, 44, Rt. 1, Mentone, in a domestic dispute about Ditton's wife.

According to police, Ditton was turning to fire at Prater when Prater grabbed the 12-gauge shotgun and it fired, hitting Montel.

JUNE FULLER

THE COUPON CLIPPER

Who makes the rules on double-coupon offers?

By June Fuller

DEAR JUNE - Double couponing has finally come to our local store - the only grocery in this very small town in North Dakota.

I got the owner of the store interested by giving her some of your columns on double coupons. The store now has double coupons once a month and will honor any coupon up to $1 in value. The store will not honor any free-product certificates.

This has been working out very well except for one small problem: The store had Welch's Grape Juice on sale for $1.39. I had a coupon good for a $1 discount on any size of Welch's Grape Juice.

When I took the juice to the checkout counter, the owner said that the $1 coupon would not be doubled unless I purchased a second can. She said that she wasn't going to pay me for buying the juice.

I didn't argue and bought the second can - which still gave me two cans of grape juice for a total of only 78 cents. However, I was wondering how to handle this situation if it comes up again.

Should she have doubled my coupon on the purchase of one can and given me the free can plus 61 cents in change? Since it was your columns that got me started, I think you owe me an answer. Just sign me - A Little Perplexed

DEAR PERPLEXED - When a store doubles the value of a manufacturer's cents-off coupon, the second half of the discount is coming from the store. So, the store has the right to make the rules for this additional discount.

Most of the stores that offer double coupons will double the coupon only up to the price of the item. I think that this limitation is fair; it's too much to ask for the free item plus change.

I hope that other readers in small towns will suggest that their store owners and managers give double coupons a try. Even on a limited once-a-month basis, they are a real money-saver.

My smart shopper award goes to Helen Mohror of Sheridan, Wyo. She saw an advertisement for Eveready Energizer batteries on sale for 99 cents each. The usual price is $1.88.

She had four 25-cent coupons, which the store doubled. That gave her four packages of batteries for just $1.96.

When she got home, she found a refund offer from Eveready and mailed in the four display cards for a $2.50 refund. "This is the kind of bargain that makes all my couponing and refunding worthwhile," she says.

Ms. Mohror and other readers whose smart shopping experiences appear in my column receive a free copy of the refunding magazine, The National Supermarket Shopper. Write to me in care of this paper.

Here's a refund form to write for: Unicap Refund refund form and the words "Johnson Wax Raid Roach Traps" on the back panels of two Raid Roach Trap packages. Expires Oct. 31, 1982.

- Simoniz SuperPoly $2 Refund. Send the required refund form, the "Simoniz SuperPoly" guarantee from the back of the box and the dated register tape with the price circled. Expires Jan. 1, 1983.

- Sock Sense Refund Offer. Receive a refund of 50 cents, $1.25, $2.25 or $3.50. Send the required refund form and the name "Sock Sense" from the front packages of Sock Sense. Send one proof for 50 cents, two for $1.25, three for $2.25 or four for $3.50. Expires Dec. 31, 1982.

- Undie-L'Eggs $1 Refund. Send the required refund form and the round paper bottom disk from one package of Undie-L'Eggs or Control Top Undie-L'Eggs. Expires Sept. 30, 1982.

Bonus! These offers don't require forms: - Ace Elastic Bandage Rebate. P.O. Box NB-002, El Paso, Texas 79977. Receive a 50-cent refund. Send the "Ace" name from the front panel of any Ace Elastic Bandage carton, the register tape and your name and address on a 3-by-5-inch card. Expires Aug. 31, 1982.

- International Playtex Inc., Handsaver $1 Refund Offer. P.O. Box 2242, Maple Plain, Minn. 55348. Send the Universal Product Code symbols from any two packages of Playtex Handsaver Gloves and the labels from $3 worth of any household cleaning item. Include register tapes with the prices of all of these items circled. Expires Jan. 31, 1983.

Eating More, Working Less

Americans work considerably less time to earn money for food purchases than citizens of most other nations, says the USDA. It takes the average U.S. worker only seven minutes to earn enough money to buy a dozen eggs. In Brazil, however, nearly one and a half hours of labor are required by workers to also buy a dozen eggs.

John Paul Jones

The birthday anniversary of John Paul, who took the name Jones later in life, is July 18. He was born in England in 1747 and became a hard-sailing, driving sea captain.

While sailing English ships he once flogged a man so badly he later died. On another occasion his crew mutinied (Tobago) and he killed one of the men with his sword. After the mutiny he fled to Fredericksburg, Virginia, where his brother lived, and that is when he adopted the name Jones.

In the Revolutionary War he proved a brilliant sea fighter, sailing mostly from Brest, France, against English shipping. He attacked the English coast on at least two occasions, took many prize ships.

That made him famous and a celebrity in Paris (France was also at war with Britain) and America. He last visited America in 1787 and, though an American citizen, he preferred to live in Paris.

He died in that city after a brief period of service with the Russian Navy. It was only in 1905 that his coffin was located and his remains brought to the United States and reburied at Annapolis—where he is remembered as one of the country's legendary naval heroes.

Policeman: "If his wife shot him, it must have been at close range."

Father: "Executive ability, my son, is the art of getting the credit for all the hard work someone else does."

NIPSCO petitions for gas rate reduction to customers

Northern Indiana Public Service Company filed a petition July 6, 1982 with the Public Service Commission of Indiana asking permission to pass on to the utility's customers a $623,796 decrease in natural gas rates, resulting from reduced pipeline supplier costs.

Changes in gas supply costs--decrease as well as increases--are passed through to retail customers with the approval of the Public Service Commission of Indiana once the costs have been allowed by the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission (FERC). The average NIPSCO residential customer using gas for home-heating (147,600 cubic feet a year) and other purposes will pay 10 cents less per month or $1.20 less per year for gas service, upon approval of the Public Service Commission of Indiana.

NIPSCO residential customers using gas for purposes other than spaceheating (39,800 cubic feet annually) will pay about 3 cents less a month or 33 cents less per year.

The purchased gas adjustment factor for all customers will decrease to 17.64 cents per ccf (100 cubic feet) from the current 17.72 cents per ccf.

Mentone War Mothers meet

The Mentone Mothers of World War II met with Dora Norris for their July meeting. President Ethel Whetstone opened the meeting. The chaplain placed the Bible and the Sgt. at Arms presented the colors. Chaplain Mary Griffis gave the invocation, followed by the pledge to our flag. The National Anthem was then sung.

Secretary's report was read by Pearl Horn. The financial secretary's report and treasurer's reports were given by Mildred Grindle and Maude Romine.

Eight members and one guest answered roll call, and then repeated the Mothers Creed. Prayer was given by the chaplain. Colors were retired, God Bless America was sung and the meeting was adjourned.

Mildred Grindle will host the August 11th meeting which will be a picnic.

County Extension news

It's canning time again! Gardens are planted and home canners are beginning to reap the benefits of their work.

Canning can be a fun and rewarding experience when done correctly. Success is assured if you get reliable instructions, follow the instructions, use the proper equipment, and have a properly working pressure canner.

Your pressure canner has been in storage for the past year, so get it out before you plan to use it, and check it over. Covers of pressure canners should lock in place so that they cannot be lifted by the steam. The gasket should be flexible enough to expand during use to keep steam from leaking out around the cover. Leakage makes it difficult to obtain the right pressure and may cause the canner to boil dry. Vents, which allow air to be exhausted from the canner and permit the release of steam, should be thoroughly cleaned. Draw a string or narrow strip of cloth through the vents to help reduce deposits which might clog them.

If your canner has a dial gauge, it should be checked for accuracy before its first use of the new season. It may be checked at the Extension Office. The lid with attached gauge is needed for the test. It takes about 15 minutes. Inaccurate gauges will not maintain the proper temperature inside the canner to kill dangerous organisms and their spores that cause spoilage in low acid vegetables, meat, poultry, and fish.

Use only standard canning jars and lids made especially for canning. Mayonnaise, pickle, coffee and other jars in which you purchased food should not be used. The sealing edge may not be uniform or wide enough and may not seal properly. Also, the neck of the jar may not be deep enough so the screw band can be tightly screwed down to hold the dome lid securely in place.

These jars may not withstand the temperature of the pressure canner since they are made for one time use only, and therefore, are of lower quality.

Reliable instructions and recipes are important -- and these aren't always from a neighbor over the back fence -- but from an authority on the subject. Read, understand, and follow these instructions and you will be successful. There are many sources of reliable information. Commercial canning supply companies produce booklets and the Extension Office has food preservation information available.

So if you will be preserving the bounty of your garden for future use, success is assured if you just learn the rules, proper equipment and reliable information. If you have questions or need your dial gauge tested contact the Extension Office.

That's good to know!

We're members of NIPSCO's Speakers' Bureau. We know many of you have questions concerning your NIPSCO utility bills, the impact of inflation and regulation on your energy costs and the many ways to conserve energy.

We'd like to answer these questions and discuss some of the steps we're taking to help hold down both your costs and ours. If your club, group, or organization would like one of us to speak at an upcoming meeting, contact your local NIPSCO manager. He will be glad to arrange it.

July Days

The later half of July contains many anniversaries worthy of mention.

Florida was ceded to the United States on the 17th in 1819, to become a state in 1845 (the Seminole Indians having been defeated in the meantime). The state had first been settled by French Presbyterians but the Spanish drove them out in 1565 and held the territory almost two hundred years until the English gave Spain Cuba in exchange for Florida.

The Spanish regained Florida eighteen years later and held it until the United States obtained possession peacefully thirty-eight years later.

The third week in July has long been noted as the time of the ripening of cherries and the Cherry Festival in the Traverse City area, Michigan, dating from 1905, when B. J. Morgan planted the first cherries in the region.

John Rutledge, second Chief Justice of the United States, died July 23; 1800--he was born in Charleston, S.C., but the date is unknown. The 24th is Pioneer Day in Utah; it is Mormon Pioneer Day in Idaho. (Frontier Day is also observed in Cheyenne, Wyoming.)

Some still observe the anniversary of Crater Day in Virginia (Petersburg), dating from the battle of July 30, 1864, when defenders repulsed a Union assault touched off by a spectacular underground explosion which devastated Confederate lines.

The powerful Jesuit movement is remembered on the 31st, the anniversary of the death in 1556 in Rome of Inigo Lopez de Recalde, who founded the militant order to restore the authority of Catholicism and counter the Protestant Reformation.

The Cradle

One of life's mysteries is the disappearance of the cradle. In the old days every mother had a cradle. One could rock the cradle with a foot while sewing, knitting or reading.

Or one could keep a cradle rocking with an occasional push of the foot while moving about. In the old days every American mother thought a cradle necessary when a baby was born.

Yet today, in most sections of the country, one can't buy a cradle. Many young mothers don't know what it's like to rock a baby in a cradle. Caring for baby has become more difficult as a result--not to mention that baby misses his free rides.

What caused the disappearance of the practical, work-saving cradle? No one seems to know. Enterprising husbands with a bent for carpentry or a workshop can make them.

Oldtimers say hickory rockers were best--they aren't supposed to creep when the cradle is rocked. Oak, ash or other woods (poplar or buckeye) can be used for the cradle itself.

Satellite TV

The Federal Communications Commission ruled at the end of June that direct TV-reception from satellites in homes with receiving devices would be permitted. That means a satellite beaming three to six channels will likely become available to rural television viewers by 1985 or 1986.

Until now viewers have needed cable or local station television service, unless they pirated signals with specially-tuned receiving dics. Now the prospect that three to six channels can be added to the reception of even the most remote rural viewer is a new hope for millions.

Already the FCC has received nine applications for the new service, which would require only small rooftop antennas--not $2,000 discs. And applicants hope to be transmitting in three or four years.

The FCC ruling followed a study which found that the small number of channels satellites would offer, plus the necessity of new antennas, would keep this essentially rural service from threatening cable and local station television prosperity.

The new service will be known as DBS television, and many local, state and business organizations which now use these channels will be asked to clear some of them.

We want to thank everyone who sent us cards or had any part in making our anniversary a more memorable day.

Israel, PLO

The Israeli invasion of Lebanon, during which Moscow showed admirable restraint in not more strongly backing Syria, whose troops were also engaged by the Israelis, may focus sufficient new emphasis on the area to produce progress.

On the positive side, the PLO has been devastated. In this connection, it should be remembered that only a minority of Palestinians are members of the PLO. Another hoped-for positive result is a Lebanese government and military establishment which can control the country.

Since Israel is now secure on its northern border, and enjoys a treaty with Egypt to the South, the Israelis might be more inclined to accept a Palestinian homeland, which might in turn cut off the emotional wellspring of PLO support.

The United States should do what it can to establish such a homeland, and to encourage an Israeli withdrawal from Lebanon, when that nation can again control events there and after establishment of a protective buffer zone.

When the world entirely fits your notions, you will be the only person in it.

THANK YOU

We would like to thank everyone who took part in activities and helped in the food tent and Pepsi wagon on July 5th, during Akron's celebration.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Life Is Good

After a long winter, spring came with its berries, lettuce, and onions. It was a beautiful spring. School came to an end. And then we had summer. Tomato plants grew. Vacation Bible School. And the first watermelon of the season. The grass stayed green, and Brown Bag Concerts came to Muncie. Summer School started and people started taking vacations. Conference time and convention times came. Churches adapted to summer schedules. The corn began to grow and the children began to play baseball.

Baseball is now in midseason. Teachers retire and new teachers start. Some building. Some road work. Many without a job. Life moves on. For the most part, life is good. We make plans for the fall and winter. We do some work in the house and get it ready for the cold weather. We read some books. We eat black raspberry cobbler. The 4th of July came on Sunday this year. People start back to church, and vacation is about over. The farmers plan to gather their crops. Pumpkins growing for Halloween. Another summer has come and gone. We have had a good life and we are alive. We are glad the government has stayed together and we look forward to a long beautiful winter. We are here and we are glad!

U.S. FARMERS ARE COUNTRY'S TOP ECOLOGISTS

About 18 times more area is used for agricultural purposes than is required for living, working and transportation, says a new publication from the world's leading manufacturer of specialized farm equipment.

According to "The Reliable American Farmer," from Sperry New Holland, this expansive land area devoted to growing crops and livestock is equivalent to about five acres for every man, woman and child in the nation. Prime cropland alone extends over one-third of a billion acres, ranging from the compact farms of the Northeast to the sprawling, golden grain fields of the Plains.

The company's publication also points out an alarming 1 million acres of productive cropland are lost each year in the U.S. to urban and non-agricultural uses. Americans must realize that available land for growing crops is not endless and for American farmers to continue as reliable food suppliers, prime farmland will have to be preserved for agricultural uses, the brochure adds.

Sperry New Holland says a free copy of their new fact-packed report can be obtained by writing to: "The Reliable American Farmer," Sperry New Holland—204, New Holland, PA, 17557.

Reliable Producer

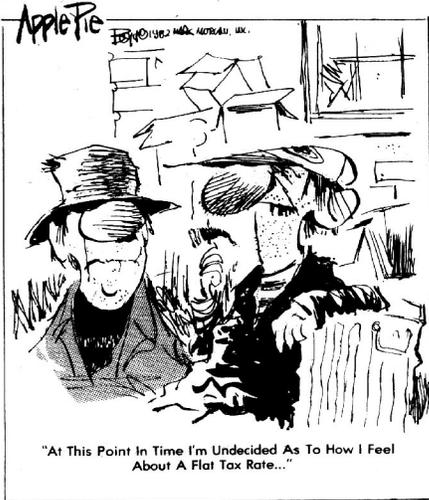

Between 1910 and 1980, the Reliable American Farmer has doubled his dairy production, increased his meat and animal production by 150 percent and increased his poultry products by 400 percent, reports Sperry New Holland. U.S. food grain production quadrupled and feed grain production has tripled during this same period.

One Farmer Feeds 78

Each of the 3.7 million American farm workers provides enough food in a year to feed 78 people at home and abroad, says Sperry New Holland. This compares to fifty years ago when one U.S. farm employee provided enough food to feed himself and just 12 others.

Farms Grow

The number of U.S. farms increased in 1981 by .03 percent, reports the USDA. Total farms in America went up to 2.44 million versus 1980's 2.43 million.

LOUISA'S LETTER

Dear Louisa,

I have a wife who is a sucker for sales. Whenever she hears of a sale with articles marked down below their original cost she can't get to the store quick enough to get these bargains. Now, I would not object to this if the things she buys were things we needed or could afford but we have "bargains" stacked up in a closet which we have never used. She imagines she is saving money but I say she is throwing money away. We have two pressure cookers, two coffee percolators, etc., etc.

What can I do with a wife like this?

No Sale--Mich.

Answer:

You would be surprised how many people--men and women--are fascinated by the idea of buying something they consider a bargain. As a matter of fact, nothing is a bargain that is not needed or cannot be used and I agree with the husband that such purchases are a waste of money.

Now I do not disapprove of buying at sales. The person who knows the quality of what she is buying and cannot afford to pay the original price is smart to watch for sales and take advantage of the reduced prices.

Why not give the extra utensils you own to some young couple as wedding presents?

Louisa.

Address: Louisa, Box 532, Orangeburg, S. C. 29115

Clean Up!

Outdoor areas require good housekeeping. More falls occur in the yard around the farmhouse than in any other exterior area, according to Sperry New Holland.

Pay Attention

Always observe safety warning signs on farm equipment, stresses Sperry New Holland. They are installed on machinery for the protection of all operators.

Jasper Dorsey

From conversations heard in most social and business gatherings, there seems to be only modest interest in the political races coming up next month.

Even the race for Governor of Georgia seems to be less than a consuming flame, except to the candidates, their families and those who hope to profit by it.

Look for interest to quicken now. Candidates are becoming bone-tired with heavy schedules, which have been pressing for months. Media coverage will become intense.

Polls are beginning to proliferate with conflicting reports...depending upon which candidate pays for them: There will be more to come.

What difference, if any, exists from a month ago? It's still a two-man race mostly. Some professional political watchers thought Buck Melton might have a chance, but he's still pitifully low. Jack Watson had money, but has aroused no particular enthusiasm. Lovett has run out of money, much of it borrowed, indicating little support.

Lovett says his poll shows him in third place, but most professionals do not believe it, nor do other polls indicate it. Of Watson's $672,000 in contributions, about half come from out of the state, and it's said from the old George McGovern mailing list and Jimmy Carter friends. All of which supports the belief of many, that Watson is not a serious candidate for Governor, but is trying to gain name recognition for a 1986 Senate race against Mack Mattingly.

Joe Frank Harris had a good two weeks in the last of June, with a jump to third place in the opinion of most. His new campaign strategy has revived a heretofore bland effort, and his attack on Ginn's liberal big spending record in Congress has hurt Ginn. Harris has coined some sharp one liners like "Can't say no, Bo," and "Give away Ginn" which have drawn blood.

Ginn has not had a bad month of June, but he hasn't had a good one. Although he has raised over $1 million, it is said to come largely from special interest groups like the teachers' union contribution of $25,000. Being a special interest candidate is a liability, thereby supporting the Harris charges. Also, Ginn's statements supporting unionizing Georgia industry have cost him many business supporters who were formerly committed to him. Still, he is perceived as the front runner at this point, with his strength as the old Talmadge network, yet the most vulnerable.

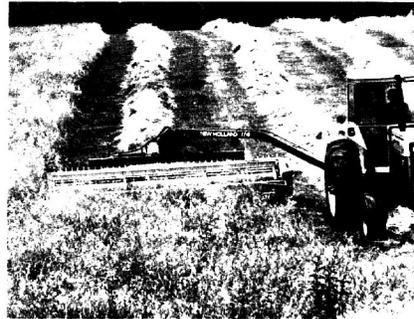

The strong Republican race for Ginn's Congressional seat could cost him votes which he might otherwise get. Republicans see possible victory in this contest, so a heavy Republican vote is expected. None of these can vote in the Democratic primary, or the run-off.

Professionals believe, with good reason, that during the last few weeks the large undecided group will make a choice, and that many casual supporters will switch candidates. Expect this, and the intense interest it will generate.

Underwood has slowly built the best campaign organization, plus a close second-horse slot in the home stretch, without having to attack others, thus placing himself in a very strong position to capture support from other candidates, especially in a run-off.

The pros see Underwood in a very good strategic position, well financed by small, successful business and professional people who don't want anything from him except efficient, economical government...no highway contracts, no judgements, no favoritism or favor.

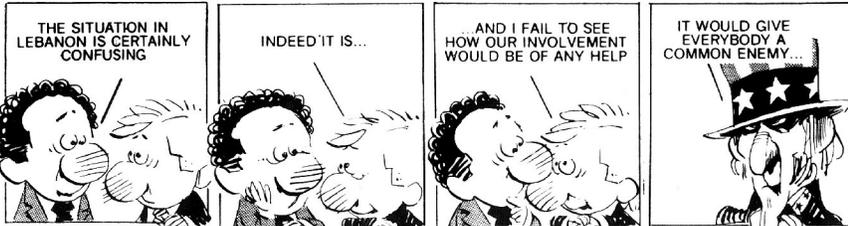

These observers believe Underwood will have to beat himself to be out of the run-off. And in a run-off they see Underwood a winner.

GRAIN WINDROWERS are now a standard part of the harvest scene. Attention to detail in service keeps them going years longer says Sperry New Holland.

MERRY-GO-ROUND

Life has often been symbolized as a merry-go-round, with each of us going around in circles reaching for the brass ring. For some, the symbolism may be accurate; for those who know Christ, it is a poor analogy.

Far from leading a meaningless existence, the Christian has a full life with meaning and purpose. And the brass ring, symbol of success, is his forever.

Damage to both cars was estimated between $200 and $1,000.

A BRIGHT ENDING to a big day at Akron. Fireworks lit up the sky for an hour last Monday evening as the Akron July 4th committee finished up their efforts to please the crowd of over 7,000 estimated on-lookers with several new and bright displays of fireworks. (News Photo)

COOL BALL! The perfect place to cool off last Monday at Akron's celebration was anywhere within 50 feet of the Volunteer Firemen's Bucket Brigade or Water Ball Contest. Water sprayed off the volunteers and trees, but that didn't move the crowd back, as several hundred spectators watched the events during the afternoon.

Fifty-five volunteer firemen from ten area towns participated in the contests. Competing were teams from Mentone, Lake of the Woods, Burket, Akron, Claypool, Mexico, Grissom, Rochester, Plymouth and Fulton.

One of the Mentone teams (they brought two teams; won the first place trophy in the water ball contest, the second place trophy going to the Lake of the Woods team. Burket's bucket brigade won the first place trophy in that event. (News Photo)

Sees hog prices remaining firm thru 1982 says Purdue economist

Cash hog prices should remain firm through 1982 and hog production should return above average profits the next six months and into 1983, a Purdue University extension agricultural economist said this week.

Jon Brandt, the economist, made these predictions following release of the hogs and pigs report last week indicating the nation's hog inventory was down 13 percent from a year ago and 20 percent below 1980.

This was interpreted as good news for hog producers who should benefit from continued high prices, but not as good news for consumers who may pay more for their pork products.

Brandt said the average quarterly price outlook places barrow and gilt prices at major markets in the $58 to $62 range for July-September; $57 to $61 for October-December; $55 to $60 for January-March; and $55 to $59 for April-June.

The economist said this outlook is based partially on the fact that hog producers do not plan any major expansion in production soon. Sow farrowing intentions for the next six months are 9 percent below those of a year ago, he noted.

Of the 10 major hog producing states, Indiana producers have reduced hog numbers the least-only 2 percent from a year earlier, the economist said. This moves Indiana into third place nationally-behind Iowa and Illinois-in hog numbers. Expected farrowings are also down only 2 percent in the state for the June-August period, he said.

According to the report, hogs and pigs numbered 41.2 million in the 10-state area, 11 percent below a year ago. Hogs kept for breeding were down 10 percent and those for market were down 11 percent. This suggests a continued decline in hog slaughter this summer, the economist said.

Sizing up the demand for pork and other meats, Brandt said the nation is expected to consume about 195 pounds of red and poultry meat per person this year-down 7 percent from 1981. High

About Used Electronic Flash . . .

Q. I have a Strobe Flash II and a Teleflash unit, each used just a few times, that I would like to sell. The Strobe Flash II cost about $116 and the Teleflash, $50, when new. Can you tell me their value and how I might go about selling them?

E. V., Fox Point, WI

A. With the price of electronic flash units coming down almost yearly, you'll probably do well to get half of what you paid for either unit. The best way to sell them is to place a classified ad in the newspaper under the category, "Photographic Equipment," or in Shutterbug Ads, the nationwide marketplace for photographic gear, PO Box F, Titusville, FL 32780 (single-issue price, $2).

Q. Could you please recommend some books for a 16-year-old girl who received a 35 mm Canon AE-1 for Christmas? I would like to know the cost of the books and where to order them.

Mrs. W. H., Portage, IN

A. One of the most complete books on 35 mm photography is The Complete Book of 35 mm Photography, by Jerry Yulsman (Coward, McCann, & Geoghegan, Inc.). It's a bit on the technical side at times and perhaps more than a 16-year-old wants in a how-to book, but it covers most areas of 35 mm photography. It should be available at most libraries or through your local bookstore. Another book, actually geared to younger readers but filled with basic information on 35 mm photography, is Through the Lens, by D. J. Herda (McDonald/Raintree, $8.95), also available at libraries and through bookstores, or by mail through me or the publisher, 205 W. Highland Ave., Milwaukee, WI 53203. Be sure to include appropriate sales tax when ordering through the mail.

Q. For some time I've believed it would be unsafe to trust the processing of slides and prints to any processor but Eastman Kodak. I recently bought some film at Family Photo which included a 10 percent discount on processing done by a company called Dynacolor in Aurora, IL. And there are other commercial processors. My question is, is it necessary to pay the price for Kodak processing?

J. R., Wauwatosa, WI

A. The only thing that's necessary in obtaining quality film and print processing is to find a processor—whether Eastman Kodak or someone else—with whom you are generally satisfied. Professional photographers, who depend for their livelihood on the quality of work they do, including the processing of that work, rely on a wide range of sources from Kodak to independent commercial labs around the country. Some—although the number dwindles daily—even do their own processing for the ultimate in quality control.

A reputable processor should provide you with satisfactory processing (a subjective phrase, depending upon an individual photographer's likes and needs) and a guarantee to remake any prints you find unacceptable or replace film which may be ruined in processing. The key to finding a quality processor? Check with friends and experiment—but only with marginally important shots, not your very best or most important stuff—until you find a processor you like.

Q. I have a Bell & Howell 16 mm movie camera with case, circa 1920 - 1930, that I would like to sell. What's the best way of going about it?

Mrs. G. R., Wauwatosa, WI

A. Place an ad in the "Antiques and Classics for Sale" category of Shutterbug Ads, PO Box F, Titusville, FL 32780 (single-issue price, $2).

Q. After years of taking pictures with a very inexpensive camera, I realized how inadequate it is when my daughter bought a new 35 mm camera. Her pictures were really super—very impressive. So I inherited her large folder of information on various makes and models, and I have no idea of what kind of camera to buy. I know I want ease of operation. Could you give me some guidelines or suggestions as to what camera would provide me with good results in exchange for a minimum of adjusting, etc.? I don't know much about photography and have no intention of making it the focus of my life. I am sufficiently interested, though, to invest enough time to become an adequate photographer.

S. P., Naperville, IL

A. It sounds to me like you should consider one of the newer automatic (or semi-automatic) cameras on the market. Either a rangefinder (if you have no need or desire to use interchangeable lenses) or an SLR—single lens reflex (which accepts a wide range of lenses and additional accessories). With this in mind, visit two or three photo stores and ask for a demonstration of several different auto-exposure SLRs and rangefinders. Then compare prices with features and make your decision. Just remember to shop around and don't rush your selection.

Balancing the federal budget

By: R.L. Kohls

The radio, TV, and newspapers are filled with discussions concerning the nation's federal budget. Almost everyone agrees that if we are to have a healthy economic recovery, the predicted deficits for the next several years must be reduced. There is bitter disagreement, however, concerning just how to reduce the government's hemorrhage of red ink.

The tax-cut legislation passed a year ago has drastically reduced federal revenue, right? No, not true. Tax receipts of the federal treasury for the first seven months of this fiscal year climbed to more than $365 billion. This was 9 percent higher than a year ago. An additional income tax reduction is scheduled to go into effect July 1. Even with this reduction the chances are great the total revenues will not be actually reduced. At least to date, the scheduled reductions in income tax only slows down the tax increase that have automatically developed with inflation.

We have been bombarded with stories of hardships that reductions in federal spending are causing. The budget approved last year sharply reduced the levels of federal spending, right? No, not true. Federal spending through the first seven months of this year climbed to almost $428 billion. This was nearly 12 percent higher than a year ago. To date, all of the efforts to cut federal spending have only resulted in slowing down its rate of growth.

It is a favorite political tactic to talk about reducing waste, boondoggling and duplication in government operation. We all know of examples of this misuse of our tax money. Such abuses, of course, should be corrected. Additionally, the administration has proposed sizable increases in our defense expenditures. This is a controversial issue for those who do not believe these added expenditures are justified.

However, most do not realize that government operational expenses, defense spending and interest charges on the federal debt account for only 46 percent of our present federal expenditures. The remainder goes for Social Security pensions, welfare, subsidies and grants to individuals, businesses and state and local governments. Additionally, a sizable portion of these expenditures increase automatically with inflation. These are called entitlement programs. The disturbing fact is that many receiving federal aid and subsidies have fared better during our past inflationary years than have many people working hard at their jobs!

The deficit for the first seven months of this fiscal year was about $72 billion—29 percent higher than a year earlier. The estimate is that the deficit will end the fiscal year over $100 billion. Our government certainly is living beyond its means. Should we renege on our tax reduction promises and restore the increasing flow of tax money into the federal treasury? Should we honestly reduce some of the government programs we have put on the books? Political compromise probably will result in a little of each.

Congressman are afraid to take money away from the many millions that they have given it to in the past. These people will cry in anguish. All of us have a tendency to favor cutting someone else's benefits—but not ours. These programs are well intentioned and often serve desirable purposes. However, all of us have faced the problem of wanting something very much but having to postpone its purchase because we could not then afford it. Our government now faces a similar situation. It needs our help in trimming its expenditures and getting its budgetary house under control.

IT HAPPENED IN MENTONE

TAKEN FROM THE NORTHERN INDIANA CO-OP NEWS
40 YEARS AGO

A new poultry dressing plant, to be called the General Poultry Co., is to be opened soon in a building to the rear of the Mentone Cafe. The plant is being sponsored by Tucker Bros., of Detroit, who have had a branch poultry-buying station at Silver Lake for sometime.

State Representative Hobart Creighton was guest speaker at the regular meeting of the Mentone Lions club Wednesday evening. His talk was very interesting in every respect.

Mrs. Allie Borton has sold her farm of 105 acres, east of Mentone, to the Manwaring Leghorn Farm. The deal was made by M.O. Mentzer.

Workmen clearing the building where the new poultry processing plant is to be located, pulled an old horse drawn hearse out into the vacant lot east of the Mentone Cafe one day last week. It was quite a contrast with present day hearses and attracted considerable attention. The carriage was owned by the late L.P. Jefferies.

Pvt. Joseph Karns is now first cook at Camp Shelby and is taking a course to qualify as Mess Sergeant.

Mr. and Mrs. George Clark spent Sunday afternoon in Winona enjoying the program there. Next Sunday, July 19, Sgt. York will appear there.

Price from the Hill & Lemler grocery ad were: peanut butter, 2 lb. jar, 39¢; jello, 3 pkgs., 19¢; cider vinegar, 2 1/2 gal.; Oxydol, large size, 25¢; butter, 2 lb. 39¢; lard, 2 lb. 29¢; pastry flour, 24 lb. bag, 69¢; sliced bacon, 27¢ lb.

15 YEARS AGO

Former Dodger baseball great Carl Erskine was in town Monday night to assist with dedication ceremonies for the new Youth League Park. The park has been developed this year by member of the Youth League, fathers, and the League's board of directors. The land for the park was purchased from Mrs. Reth Rogers.

Roger Mollenhour, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Mollenhour of Mentone, an employee of the Flying Tiger freight warehouse at Chicago's O'Hare airport, was credited with the capture of a thief who stole $1800 worth of merchandise from the warehouse recently.

Mollenhour, preparing to return to his home after working until 4 a.m., was told of the theft by other airport personnel. He spotted the man immediately leaving the airport and trailed him until he could notify police. After trailing him for eleven miles, Mollenhour hailed police who arrested the man.

Mr. and Mrs. Dale McGowen and family spent a few days last week at Spring Mill State Park in Brown County. Enroute home they visited Mr. McGowen's sister, Mrs. Calvin Beaman, and her husband and family. While on vacation, Lori McGowen had the misfortune of sustaining a slight fracture of the left arm. She is wearing a partial cast.

Miss Nancy Ann Coplen became the bride of Gale D. Nellans in a recent ceremony conducted by the Rev. Donald Abby in the Warsaw EUB church.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Adrian D. Coplen, Ft. Wayne, and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Nellans, R. 1, Mentone.

There's only one way to be happy and that lies in mental satisfaction.

Limburger Bits

By: Any Mouse

And another successful Akron July Fourth (or should I say Fifth) has come and gone - and a most enjoyable one at that.

Larry Howard and the Fourth Committee did an exemplary job of organizing things this year and deserve more credit for their "behind the scenes" efforts than they'll receive at the Drug Store. Thanks, Gang, for a job well done. The change in the Parade Route to help ease congestion for the marchers, did cause some confusion but let's see how it worked before we start condemning it.

All too often we inhabitants of small towns shudder in fear when new ideas are proposed because "We've never done it that way before" and therefore the idea dies even before it's had a chance to see the light of day. Too many possibly better ways of doing things have died before their birth because of narrow-minded although good-intentioned people who are afraid to progress because it "might not work." To these folks the Mouse says "Back to ice boxes, kerosene lamps, and the wood stove because Edison, Westinghouse, and General Electric 'new ideas have never been done before.'"

It's great that finally a group decided to try something different and did it! Maybe it was a good idea - maybe not - but at least it was tried.

For those of you who didn't know, a July 4th block party was held on the West Side of town. Comments heard by this Mouse indicate it was a successful adventure in neighborhood togetherness. It's always a good idea to get to know your neighbor better and an informal get-together is a great way of doing it. The food was good and so was the company.

Speaking of togetherness...the after fireworks traffic jams show how cars can get together too. It's too bad that everyone can't be the first one out of the parking lot but the streets and roads can only hold so many cars at once. I can't say that everyone was happy but the lot was cleared in about 40 minutes and that's not too bad considering the number of cars there and along the road. Only one slight accident happened after the fireworks where a fender or two got dented.

With all the Police at the School Grounds the taverns must have had a field day. No one was around to "harass the customers." (Since one tavern owner says he doesn't serve people who are drunk, what happened to the guy who was carried out by his friends? Sun stroke????) No-that's not the same guy who fell down the hill at the end of Cooksey's parking lot with his arms full of beer, or the one who did the hit-and-run on the parked car near the school yard. The weather Monday was great for selling beer for cooling parched throats but why don't the drinkers (and sellers) realize when enough is enough? The Town is lucky that someone didn't get hurt or killed by an overindulger.

Again, "Thanks" Larry and Committee, for an enjoyable day and a "Thanks" too, to the Civil Defense Police and Sheriff's Reserve Officers who volunteered their holiday leisure to come to Town to help things go smoothly. As a Wise Mouse once said "Volunteer Service" is the Rent you owe to your Community!"

Accept low bid

Tippecanoe Valley School Board members Cecil Miller and William Rogers with Board President Vernon Meredith met Thursday, July 8th to open bids for General Obligation Bonds to purchase school buses for the corporation in the amount of $200,000.

Only three bids were received, but board members and Superintendent Baxter Paige were well pleased with all of them, accepting the lowest bid given upon the recommendation of Fred Rakestraw, corporation lawyer.

Low bidder on the bonds was from Traub and Co., Inc., of Indianapolis with a bid on $160,000 of 9.4% and a separate bid on $40,000 of 9.5%.

The other two bids came from American Fletcher National Bank of Indianapolis with a single rate offered of 10.50% on $200,000 and a rate of 10.00% offered by City Securities Corporation of Indianapolis.

Hunter safety for Hoosiers

A story is told of an Indiana Conservation Officer who happened across a pheasant hunter in the field and asked if he was bagging any birds. The hunter replied, "I have one with a ring around it's neck, one that is brown and three that are black." In reality what the hunter had bagged was one legal rooster, one hen pheasant and three crows! Another story describes a proud southern Indiana turkey hunter strutting into a check-in station carrying a turkey vulture.

These stories may or may not be true, but there's little doubt that periodically hunters with no, or very little, outdoor experience and knowledge of hunting, will display their ineptitude rather vividly. And along with misidentifications there are needless hunter accidents and casualties resulting from individuals not being properly trained in the safe use of firearms and bowhunting equipment.

Indiana's Hunter Safety Education Program can provide a sound background for sport hunters and help reduce hunting-related tragedies. Every state in the country now has a hunter safety course available to inexperienced and experienced hunters alike, and a third of all states make it mandatory that young and new hunters complete a hunter safety course before purchasing their first hunting license. Hunter safety certification is not yet mandatory in Indiana, but in 1981 alone, nearly 10,000 Hoosiers felt the time and effort to successfully complete the course was worthwhile.

What exactly is covered in a hunter education class? Students become familiar with a variety of firearms and ammunitions, proper gun handling and bowhunting equipment and safety. Survival and first aid rules are studied, wildlife identification, game care in the field, wildlife management principles and hunter ethics are all discussed.

All hunters have something to gain from the course, which is free of charge and includes 10 hours of classroom study. Instructors are often flexible and may cover the course in ten, five, two or one session, depending on group preference. To find out where courses will be held in your county, contact your local Conservation Officer. If you're involved in a conservation organization you may want to consider sponsoring a hunter safety course, or becoming an instructor yourself. Many schools regularly offer the course, giving parents a good opportunity to have their children exposed to sound hunter safety principles.
Having all hunters complete a hunter safety course doesn't guarantee that crows will no longer be mistaken for pheasants, but it does offer a hope of having more responsible, ethical and safety-minded sportsmen in the field.

Super gang at 4-H fair

The "Real" Super Gang is coming to town. Preacher Pigeon, Sunshine, Og the Frog, the Super Gang kids, the whole gang is coming to Rochester. They will appear at the Fulton County Fair on Tuesday evening at 7:30 p.m. to present their program, "On the Road for Jesus." The fair gate admission on Tuesday will cost $1 for adults and kids will be FREE. It's going to be a terrific family - fun night! We're really excited and hope you all can come. The Super Gang is anxious to meet each of you.

The Super Gang is a Christian Educational Ministry and performing theatre group having released two album musicals with the Benson Company of Nashville, Tennessee. The ministry of the "gang" features Christian kids and their many friends singing and dancing through day to day situations and adventures.

The Super Gang has performed on national television, the PTL/Jim Bakker Show, and is doing a Midwest Tour this summer. The grand finale will take place at the World's Fair in Knoxville, Tennessee, where the Super Gang will perform for thousands of spectators! The Super Gang will be performing their newest musical called, "On the Road for Jesus!" where the gang sets out to tell the world about Jesus Christ!

Both Super Gang albums, "The Super Gang" and "On the Road for Jesus," have been nominated for 1981-82 Dove Awards by the Gospel Music Association.

The Super Gang Club is also growing in popularity. In two short years, the club membership has grown to 9,000 members in the U. S., Canada and Great Britain. The musicals are being performed nationwide and many children are coming to know Jesus Christ for the first time, as a result of this exposure. Church leaders, choir directors, and youth leaders are discovering the impact of this exciting new ministry of "kids tellin' kids" about Jesus!

The Super Gang was created by Tom and Robin Brooks of St. Louis, Missouri. With a burden to reach children for Christ, the Brooks began to seek the Lord for guidance and direction. God blessed them with this innovative and aggressive ministry. The music and dialogue provide kids of today with an alternative to the world's abusive language, music and negative influences. It gives children a peer group that says "Jesus Christ is No. 1." (and that has become the Super Gang slogan).

Non-essentials take up too much time in life but why be different from those about you?

Cutie King and Queen chosen

Bridget Swick, 5 year old daughter of Macks and Joyce Swick, of Silver Lake, and Christopher Jones, the five year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Alden Jones, of Claypool, were crowned the 1982 Cutie Queen and King, Monday afternoon, during Akron's 4th of July festivities.

Christopher also won third prize in the parade entries for the Cutie contestants along with brother Brian, for their entry "Hot Air Balloon."

Runner-up to the Cutie Queen was Ashel Bahney, daughter of Gary and Shelly Bahney, of Macy. Runner-up to the Cutie King was Jarrod Morgan, son of Dr. and Mrs. Jim Morgan, Akron.

Cutie Parade Entries

First prize in the parade entries for Cutie Contest entrants went to the prize fighters' float "Rocky IV" with Kris and P. J. Wiley of Warsaw, sons of Connie and Bill Wiley. Second prize float went to Julianne Tucker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Tucker, Mentone.

"Happy Me - Happy God" theme used

Only part of the people made up as clowns during the third annual Beaver Dam United Methodist Junior Sunday School Camp-Out are shown above. The camp-out was held June 25 and 26 at the Beaver Dam Park and used the theme "Happy Me-Happy God" with studies based on "caring for all three of me," spiritual, mental and physical exercise.

Thirty-five children and fifteen teachers attended the camp-out which ended with the painting of clown faces on each of the participants before going home. Member Pam McFarland was in charge of this "hands-on" experience. The camp opened with the presentation of class clowns, decorations made by each of three groups of the church park pavilion.

Also on Friday was the erection of eight tents, preparation of one's own food for supper and cleaning up. Church members tried to emphasize learning responsibility, spiritual awareness, being part of a Christian family and just plain fun during the event.

Later in the evening were obstacle courses, relay races (three people in three pairs of attached pants), and a tug-o-war, organized by county commissioner Gerald Smalley. The evening drew to a close with the ever-popular campfire.

Tippecanoe Valley Head Football Coach Charlie Smith and Ron Shewman, an athlete who lost an arm in a farming accident, were the guests at the campfire, attended by about 75 people.

Smith and Shewman appeared to discuss responsibility and using God-given talents, as part of the physical and spiritual program.

A Strawberry Shortcake exercise album and other recreation completed the physical program. Friday concluded with church pastor Peggy Jeffries and her husband Bruce Jeffries, also a pastor, leading a camp sing.

Study groups and a camp mental exercise were scheduled for Saturday along with crafts, such as making bug boxes, a wire and wood device for catching bugs.

The camp concluded with a carry-in dinner at 5:30 p.m. Saturday. Several Sunday School classes contributed food for the camp-out, although the young campers were responsible for preparing their own meals.

Following the dinner, nearly everyone, including Pastor Jeffries, donned white-face appearances and clown smiles, made from home makeup products.

Congregation members Dail and Edy Barber, Fred the Beagle and two others surprised the group by appearing in clown suits, including a cone-shaped hat for Fred.

Before leaving, the group launched 150 helium-filled balloons containing a message from the campout and each child's address.

Jeff Feldman, Rt. 2, Akron, got a surprise Wednesday in the form of a letter from Shreve, Ohio.

The writer, Kim Hunsberger, who had found the balloon just 18 hours after its launch in a cornfield in Millersburg, Ohio-about 80 miles northeast of Columbus, or 200 miles from Beaver Dam. The writer said she, too, had launched balloons from church camp as a youngster.

Think before you coupon

"Coupons may not be a bargain," says Dixie Porter Jackson, Extension Consumer Economics specialist at Purdue University.

Four out of five families use at least some coupons to save money, but Jackson questions whether they really are saving. She advises asking questions before you grab for the scissors.

Are the coupons saving more than might be saved by shopping for specials or house brands? Some surveys have shown that more than half of the food products could be purchased for less as store brands compared with national brands bought with coupons.

Is it worth your time to coupon? Keep track of the amount of time you spend couponing and the amount of money you save by using coupons. How much did you earn per hour? Could you have earned more in some other activity? (Don't forget to deduct taxes and work expenses.)

Do you really need the product? Most coupons are for highly processed foods. Do you really want to spend your money for processing? Perhaps you could save more money by preparing a similar product at home.

What effect is couponing having on your family's eating habits?

Processed foods usually contain less fiber, more salt and more sugar than nonprocessed foods. The eating habits your children are establishing now will follow them for life. Even if coupons disappear from the market place, your children may be hooked on highly processed foods, says Jackson.

So, think before you load up the coupons and go shopping. Is that bargain really one?

Reminder to farmers

District Director Francis Hudkins of the Federal Crop Insurance Corporation reminds farmers that crop losses must be reported within 30 days of harvest.

With wheat harvest in full swing and areas of the state having potentials of damaged wheat, Hudkins urges farmers to contact their insurance agent promptly when a crop loss is evident. Reporting a wheat loss within a minimum of 30 days after harvest assures the farmer that he has complied with the provisions of his crop insurance policy.

Hudkins states that compliance with this requirement permits the loss adjuster to more readily make his inspection and determine the appropriate indemnity that may be payable.

With the difficulties of farming and the tight money squeeze, we believe that every effort must be made to see that crop insurance losses are paid promptly, adds Hudkins. A key to the loss adjustment process begins with a timely filed loss by the farmer.

Cottage Cheese A Favorite Through The Year

Did you know that cottage cheese, that refreshing salad favorite, is probably the oldest form of cheese around? Early herdspeople most likely discovered it when someone left a bowl of milk out in the sun. The milk turned sour and its solids called curds separated from the liquid part, called whey. Curds are the tasty tender lumps found in today's cottage cheese. They form the basis of all cheese, whether it is aged, like cheddar, or fresh, like cottage. For centuries, farmers made this simple cheese in their cottages (hence the name) using practically the same method as the cheese's ancient discoverers. They would place milk, skimmed of its cream for buttermaking in large pans near the fire or on the back of the stove. The heat would activate bacteria that turned the milk sugar lactose into lactic acid and the acid would coagulate the curd. Miss Muffet's curds and whey in the nursery rhyme are actually homemade cottage cheese produced this way. It takes almost 100 pounds of skim milk to make 15 pounds of cottage cheese. In 1981 U.S. dairy plants made an estimated 960 million pounds of cottage cheese.

Shows are at 2 and 8 p.m., July 17; 8 p.m., July 21-22; 5:30 and 8:30 p.m., July 23; and 1:30, 5:30 and 8:30 p.m., July 24. The annual circus parade is at 10 a.m., July 24. It's circus time again in Circus City, U.S.A.

Peru, IN—Every two hundred teen-agers and young adults, along with many younger children, are practicing for the great event, which annually reaches its colorful climax the third week in July.

This year the dates of the public performances are July 17, 21, 22, 23, and 24. There will be a dress rehearsal on July 13 & 14. Preceding the final performances on the 24th there will be a gigantic street parade, replete with real wild animal cages, band wagons, calliopes, floats, marching bands and equestrians. This event has drawn crowds estimated as high as 50,000 to this little city on the banks of Wabash.

This will be the twenty-third year for the circus. It started in 1959, with a borrowed tent, borrowed equipment and a lot of community spirit. Subsequently the Circus City Festival was incorporated, and prospered under dedicated and unpaid supervision. Today Circus City Festival owns its covered arena, encompassing three circus rings and audience seating capacity of 2000.

The show consists of everything offered by a professional circus except animals. There are daring young men and girls, on the flying trapeze, beautiful acrobats, high wire, sensational acrobatics, balancing, trampoline, hair hang, teeter-board -- and clowns a-plenty.

Bill Anderson, a former city policeman, who was a performer as a youngster in past productions, is director and trainer. He has a full-time, year-around job. He gets paid. There is also a salaried secretary in the office. Nobody else gets paid. Well over 2000 of the towns people give their talent, time and effort. Net profits are put back into the circus for costumes, equipment and scholarships which annually are awarded to some of the performers for colleges or vocational schools.

Former professional circus world greats, like Willi Wilno, the original "human cannon ball", members of the Hodgini equestrian troupe, and many others help.

"This", says Ken Hasselkus, president of Circus City Festival, "is what is known as community spirit. It also demonstrates the opposite of "juvenile delinquency."

A HOMEBUILT MOTOR OIL RECYCLER

Staff researcher Dennis Burkholder has come up with a dandy little inexpensive device that allows him to recycle the lubricant in his car's crankcase.

"It's really a snap to put together, since all the plumbing pieces were manufactured to fit each other," Dennis points out. "The only real fabrication involved is cutting the pieces to size, drilling holes where indicated in the illustration, and forming the 90° arc in the gadget's one long leg... which I did with a tubing bender, but it could be done—in a pinch—by merely hand-bending the material (carefully, to avoid causing any corner-weakening kinks). Also, I chose to weld all the legs to the angle iron support. However, anyone who doesn't have access to welding equipment could readily double-bolt each limb—including the curved one, after flattening its end and fitting it to one side of the angle—to the metal stanchion."

The actual filter element is nothing more than a roll of ordinary bathroom tissue, which is mounted on a "retrieving" pole and snugly fit into the 4"-diameter PVC drainpipe. A center-drilled wooden disk serves as a support platform for the paper drum, yet is small enough to allow the lubricant to pass through the filter. Finally, an old can is fitted with a porcelain light bulb socket, provided with an access hatch for globe-changing, and end-drilled so the whole affair can be slipped over the two-foot-long oil exit tube.

The process starts when you pour the used motor oil into the opening of the large column. The lubricant passes through the layered roll of paper, at a speed that can be adjusted by the needle valve, and then drips into the inclined copper pipe... where the light bulb warms the insulated tin chamber surrounding that conduit section.

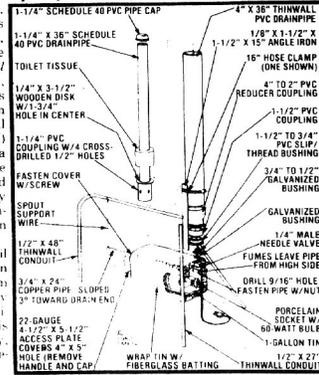

"Naturally, the heat is transferred to both the copper and the fluid passing within, and as a result of the 215° temperatures achieved, water vapor and—of course—higher volatiles such as unburned gasoline are driven from the liquid and exit out the high end of the pipe as fumes. I've achieved my best processing results when operating the device with the control valve nearly shut to maintain a drip... simply because both the filter and the evaporator are then given more time to work."

The researcher has also discovered that a 60-watt bulb may not provide enough heat to maintain the necessary temperature (above the boiling point of water) in the vaporizing chamber... so, if your work area is especially chilly, he suggests you use a 75-watt lamp.

Despite its "Rube Goldberg" appearance, MOTHER's device has proved to be fairly effective. We sent "before" and "after" crankcase oil samples to an independent petroleum analysis laboratory, and the results—though not earth-shattering—indicated that the homebuilt recycler did an adequate job.

For instance, wear-causing iron, silicon, and chromium particles were reduced by 31, 7.4 and 16.6%, respectively. At the same time, the concentrations of some beneficial additives—including magnesium, boron, and phosphorus detergents—increased to the tune of between 200 and 389%... while the Total Acid Number (a measure of low pH) decreased by 9.2%, probably as a result of the alkaline effect of the detergents. The final test showed that the viscosity was reduced by 10.4%... but it was still well within the acceptable limit, having an equivalent of about SAE 30W.

Dennis prefers to recycle the oil from his own vehicles, rather than collect "strange" lubricant from the service station (where it may contain higher levels of dirt, anti-freeze, and gasoline than does his "used" lubricant). But either way, he's saving cash with his T.P. processor.

United Way presents check to Youth League

Although the Mentone Youth League was organized in the late 1940's, the present Youth League Park was not dedicated until July 10, 1967, 15 years ago.

Approximately two-hundred eighty to three-hundred area youth take part in the activities at the park each summer along with their coaches. They participate in approximately 120 games each summer with the program beginning the first week of May with registration and games beginning the first week of June, running until the first week of August. Three games are played each evening, Monday through Friday during this time.

The Youth League teams include youth ages 6 years through 15 years, who play on twenty-three teams this year. Both boys and girls ages 6 and 7 participate in the T-Ball League; Junior Boys-8 and 9 years of age; Junior Girls-8, 9 and 10 years old; Senior Boys-10 to 12 years of age; Senior Girls-11 to 13 years of age and Pony League Boys-13 to 15 years of age. The Travel Team is composed of boys 10 to 12 years of age.

The Mentone Youth League will hold their annual picnic for members and their families the first week of August, the date to be announced later, when trophies will be awarded and team pictures will be taken. Last year the league presented over 250 trophies to the teams and team members.

Officers of the Mentone Youth League and the governing board include: Tim Mauk, president; Gail Law, vice-president; Lou Teel, secretary; Ron Scott, treasurer; Jackie Bradley, concessions; Roger Moriarty, supervisor of buildings; Jim Rose, director; Cathy Cook, director; Leon Whetstone, director; Dennis Overmyer,

A very tired but happy Fourth of July Committee went home Monday evening after a 10-o-n-g day of activities at Akron's annual celebration, but there wasn't anyone on the committee who worked as hard and as long hours, or worried more or thought of more things that had to be done - before - than Larry and Bernadean Howard, co-chairmen of the committee. The committee and everyone who took part in the day's activities or attended the events during the course of the day should be glad the Howards live in our community and enjoy working with the youth and the town's people. Thanks Bernie for putting up with him!

Donations given by the crowd attending Akron's celebration and fireworks display last Monday evening totaled $259.88. Should we call this seed money? Any donations you would like to make toward next year's fireworks would be appreciated and may be sent to Larry Howard, Rt. 1, Akron or Pat Hoffman, c/o The Akron Exchange State Bank, Akron.

I got a big kick out of seeing George and Anita Stephen in the place of Grand Marshall at Akron's Fourth of July parade last week. I was told, just getting him up that morning was a chore, thanks Anita!

The donation to the Mentone Youth League from Kosciusko County United Way was a very welcome one. The volunteers have worked hard for many years to keep the league going and give a lot of fun and good exercise to the children of the community, maybe this donation will help with a special project, and the volunteers won't have to volunteer to do all the work, plus do all the asking, plus give donations, etc.

JUNE FULLER

THE COUPON CLIPPER

Can you use three coupons to buy one item?

By June Fuller

DEAR COUPON CLIPPER - Most manufacturers indicate in small print that only one coupon can be used for each purchase. But I recently noticed that my coupons for Ivory Liquid did not include this limitation.

Since I have three of these coupons, would it be proper to ask the grocer to redeem all of them on the purchase of one bottle of Ivory Liquid? - Ann R. Evart, Mich.

DEAR ANN - Even though the Ivory Liquid coupons do not specify "one coupon per purchase," it is commonly recognized that manufacturers intend that only one of their coupons be used for each item that is purchased. Therefore, you must use each coupon on a separate item.

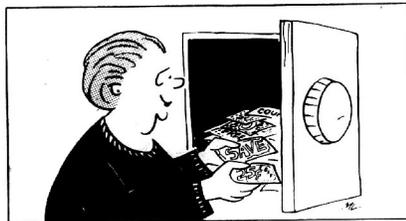

I checked with the people at Procter & Gamble, who confirmed that this was their intention.

Here are some other commonly accepted coupon-redemption practices.

- You can usually use your manufacturers' coupons for items that the supermarket has on sale. (This is a "double play" discount that will often save you 50 percent and more.)

- The supermarket's own coupons that appear in newspaper advertisements and circulars can generally be used in combination with manufacturers' coupons.

- When a store has a special offer on the purchase of several items - such as three packages for $1 - these items do not count as one for purposes of redeeming manufacturers' coupons. You should still be able to use a manufacturers' coupon for each of the packages.

- Coupons can generally be used to purchase any size, including the trial size, unless otherwise limited by the coupon.

- If the coupon specifies that a certain size must be purchased, the store is not permitted to make exceptions or allow substitutions even if the required size is out of stock.

- Coupons can be redeemed until midnight on the date of expiration. Stores are not permitted to redeem them thereafter.

It is very important that all coupon clippers realize that supermarkets, groceries and other stores redeem coupons voluntarily. They are free to establish their own rules for redemption as long as they don't conflict with those printed on the coupon.

So, it makes good sense for shoppers to cooperate with the stores and follow the rules.

A Tip from the Coupon Clipper: Be sure that your coupons are neatly clipped with the expiration dates circled so that the cashier can handle them quickly and efficiently.

"BANCLUB's CHECASH service gives me check-cashing privileges in more than 6,000 locations nationwide. There's no charge, no hassle. I just show my driver's license and BANCLUB membership card to cash a check for up to $100, three times a week."

"I thought all checking accounts were nearly the same. I never dreamed I'd have an extra $10,000 accidental death insurance coverage - automatically as a member of BANCLUB."

"With BANCLUB I know precisely what my checking account charge is - each and every month. I pay one low monthly fee regardless of my balance."

"The discounts BANCLUB offers at Ramada, Holiday and Rodeaway Inns, on Hertz and Avis rental cars and tourist attractions across the country can bring vacation costs down. And for my family, these extra savings have made the difference. Instead of 'Sorry, we just can't go,' I've been able to say, 'Start packing!'"

"Experience is a great teacher, but I attribute part of my shrewdness to tips I get from my BANCLUB DollarsPlus magazine. There are hints and techniques for saving money, coupons for national discounts, special news from my bank about the community and more."

"What really sold me on BANCLUB were the no issue charge on money orders, cashier's and travelers checks and the national discounts at Hertz and Avis, in Rodeaway, Ramada and Holiday Inns. As often as I travel, these costs add up."

"I make a living handling other people's money, but if I didn't manage my own successfully, I'd be out of business. Take my advice, BANCLUB makes sense. To begin with, there's no extra charge for personalized checks. You're given all you need."

Fulton Co. jail cost is set at $1.6 million

During an informational meeting held by the Fulton County Commissioners Tuesday, July 6th, representatives of the Fleck and Hickey architectural firm of La-Porte, gave an estimate of approximately $1.6 million for a new Fulton County Jail for 35 inmates, at 1982 prices, plus expenses for land acquisition and site demolition and improvement.

The firm was tentatively engaged by the County Commissioners, subject to Fulton County Council approval, to help in site selection and to design a new jail.

The commissioners approved a $13,000 expenditure for the firm to take the project through the preliminary design stage subject to County Council approval for the firm to be hired. The Council will consider the matter at their meeting on July 27.

John Fleck and Tom Hickey, representatives for the firm said the building itself would cost about $1.26 million, at an average square foot cost of $97, and the other $340,000 would consist of miscellaneous fees.

They told the commissioners that Indiana adopted the jail standards of the American Correctional Association last January 1 and that new jails in the state must adhere to those standards. Among them are a one-person-to-one cell regulation with a minimum space of 70 square feet per cell. This rule increases the size, and cost, of any jail built after last January 1.

The architects said their firm prefers to design jails that meet minimum ACA standards and provide the best protection for jail employees plus the best security for prisoners.

County Extension news

Zucchini is probably the most popular of the summer squash. And if you planted some this spring, you may have a bumper crop on your hands.

Last year's crop found homemakers searching for more ways to use the surplus zucchini. One way was a pineapple substitute. It is estimated that more than 300,000 jars of "fake pineapple" were produced last year by Hoosier homemakers.

"Fake pineapple" contains zucchini, lemon juice, sugar and pineapple juice. The concern over the product safety was due to the ingredient proportion and the processing. This concern resulted in numerous testing conducted at Purdue University.

The Michigan "mock pineapple" tests indicated that the pH of the product increased after storage for three months, therefore, lowering the acidity for potential growth of clostridium botulinum. Michigan State University advised consumers to discard the product.

Although the Michigan "mock pineapple" and the Indiana "fake pineapple" contain similar ingredients, they are considered as two entirely different products as far as their safety is concerned. The "mock pineapple" contains about 1/2 the amount of lemon juice of the Indiana "fake pineapple." Also, the "mock pineapple" is processed about 1/2 the length of time recommended for the Indiana "fake pineapple."

The origin of these recipes is unknown. Some thought it might stem from California or Utah. The basic recipe was varied during its travel to popularity. Varying the original recipe caused a problem for those who finally had to discard their stock.

Therefore, the moral of the zucchini pineapple incident is that only reliable, tested recipes should be used when preserving food. The recipe should never be altered; follow it exactly for ingredients and processing.

The following recipe is recommended for "zucchini pineapple" products: FAKE PINEAPPLE- 4 quarts grated or diced zucchini, 1 1/2 cups "Real Lemon" juice, 1 can (46 oz.) of unsweetened pineapple juice, 3 cups sugar. Remove peeling and seeds from zucchini. Grate or dice, mix all ingredients thoroughly and simmer for 20 minutes. Stir frequently. Pour hot zucchini mixture into clean, hot jars, leaving 1/2 inch headspace. Process 30 minutes in boiling water bath.

Program terminated for extended unemployment benefits

The extended benefits (EB) program in Indiana, which has added more than $29.8 million to the state's economy from January through May this year, was terminated the week ending July 17, according to the Indiana Employment Security Division.

The EB program pays benefits for up to 13 weeks for eligible claimants who have exhausted their regular 26 weeks of unemployment benefits, said Harry T. McFarland, Division director. He said that some 40,000 notices of the EB program termination are being mailed to claimants who are receiving EB and to those who are not now receiving benefits but who have filed unexpired claims for EB.

The director said the EB program was activated the week ending January 16, 1982. There were approximately 62,900 initial claims filed for EB during the January-May period, he added.

McFarland explained that the EB period is ending because the insured unemployment rate (IUR) for persons covered by the Indiana

Employment Security Act did not rise enough to meet the statutory requirement for EB to continue.

Under Indiana law, he noted, the IUR must be at least 20 per cent higher than the average rate for the same 13-week period in each of the last two years. While the IUR was well above the average of the 1981 and 1980 levels, it does not now meet the 20 per cent increase requirement.

The IUR is not the same as Indiana's total unemployment rate. Other jobless persons not included in the IUR are added to the state's total rate.

NIPSCO petitions for gas rate adjustments

Northern Indiana Public Service Company filed two petitions July 9, 1982 with the Public Service Commission of Indiana seeking permission to pass on to the utility's customers (1) a $2,044,123 decrease in purchased gas costs, effective July 1, 1982, and (2) a $2,423,665 increase in gas supply costs effective August 1, 1982.

The net effect of the two petitions is a $379,542 increase in purchased gas costs, effective August 1.

As a result of the proposed adjustments, the average NIPSCO residential customer using gas for homeheating (147,600 cubic feet a year) and other purposes will pay approximately 15 cents more per month or $1.80 more per year for gas service beginning in August.

NIPSCO residential customers using gas for purposes other than spaceheating (39,800 cubic feet annually) will pay 4 cents more a month or 48 cents more per year also beginning at that time.

The combined storage and purchased gas adjustment factors for all customers will increase to 17.69 cents per ccf (100 cubic feet) from 17.64 cents per ccf.

Adjustments in gas rates to NIPSCO customers, usually upward and sometimes downward, have occurred and will continue to occur as rates from NIPSCO's five pipeline suppliers change, as they have and will under the provisions of the National Energy Act. All of the changes are regulated by FERC and must be approved by the Public Service Commission of Indiana.

The purchased gas adjustments filed are the seventh and eighth such trackings filed this year. Three have been increases while five have been decreases or reductions of previously filed increases. The net result of all trackings, including those proposed in these petitions, is a $13.81 a year increase for the average NIPSCO customer using natural gas for homeheating and other purposes (147,000 cubic feet a year). If the petitions filed are approved, the average customer's annual cost would be $612.16

Ind. State Police report for June

The Indiana State Police at the Peru District announced the following end of the month report for the month of June, 1982 on activities in Fulton County.

County troopers spent 1,025 hours on criminal investigations and patrol; patrolled 14,272 miles; investigated six accidents; made 66 arrests; issued 89 warnings; arrested one person for driving while intoxicated; made 14 inter-rogation reports and assisted 61 motorists.

Lt. John D. Gaylor, Dist. 23 Commander, reports that six troopers were assigned to the county and were responsible for the above work. District 23 comprises Cass, Fulton, Howard, Miami, Tipton, and Wabash counties. He reports there have been no fatalities in rural accidents in Fulton County during the six months in 1982, compared to two persons the same period of 1981.

There were nine persons who have lost their lives in traffic accidents in the six county district compared to thirteen persons for the same period last year. This is a decrease of four lives.

There can hardly be imagined a more desirable pleasure than that of praise un-mixed with any possibility of flattery.

compared to $598.35 at the beginning of the year.

The average NIPSCO residential customer using natural gas for purposes other than spaceheating (39,800 cubic feet a year) will pay $193.01 annually, compared to $189.29 on January 1, 1982, an increase of $3.72.

NIPSCO said that in spite of rising costs, natural gas continues to be the least expensive fuel for homeheating in northern Indiana, as the price of other heating fuels is also increasing.

NIPSCO explained that it does not realize one cent of profit from these tracking adjustments. The money, the Company said, goes directly to suppliers to pay for the increased cost of natural gas delivered to the utility under rates authorized by the FERC.

We're members of NIPSCO's Speakers' Bureau. We know many of you have questions concerning your NIPSCO utility bills, the impact of inflation and regulation on your energy costs and the many ways to conserve energy.

We'd like to answer these questions and discuss some of the steps we're taking to help hold down both your costs and ours. If your club, group, or organization would like one of us to speak at an upcoming meeting, contact your local NIPSCO manager. He will be glad to arrange it.

TV Credits

Have you, dear reader, ever wondered why you sit through a long list of credits after each television program? One is, of course, interested in the list of characters and performers in the beginning--and the name of the producer and director.

But who is interested in the assistant lighting technician and a few dozen other chaps, like makeup people, etc.--whose names are screened at the end of even the most trivial, trite and worthless program?

If newspapers were to follow that procedure, the reader would be burdened with a list of everyone at the plant who produced the story and then put it into print, including the type-setter, pressman, etc., etc.

And while on the subject, must we have all these giddy TV programs about producing films, this or that film, this or that (overpaid) actor or director--as if the film industry were something other than what it really is?--the hottest money-making racket in the country which unfortunately produces little of quality or what could be classified as art.

Girls & School

A recent Gallup Poll found that the ideal of most American girls, still, is to get married and have children. Three out of every four queried gave that answer.

This being the case, it's disappointing to observe a trend away from educating girls in household pursuits. Home economics, so important to most families, is often neglected. Girls in some cases have been brainwashed by too much super-mod literature and protest into feeling almost ashamed to prepare themselves for what will be, at least, one of their main vocations.

What a paradox that schools today fail to educate girls in what most of them will sorely need most in their lifetime--home economics and home management, child care and food preparation!

No fair person today would argue that this is the only proper role of women and that they should not be free to enter into any profession--at equal pay and under equal conditions. But the fact of life is that most girls will grow into mothers and love and enjoy caring for their children (and perhaps their husbands).

That being true, why not as a matter of course provide them with an education to enhance and improve home life? This need not mean neglect of any other subject, and need not be confined to girls. But the truth is most girls will benefit by such education, and that more girls than boys will need it.

Yet today such practical, even essential, education is not the "in" thing. All girls must be educated exactly like boys, no difference in the sexes must be admitted, in interests, aptitudes, life goals, etc. It's not a common sense, nor an honest, approach.

Harry Mills

Somewhat unnoticed recently was the death of Harry Mills. He had sung with the Mills Brothers, one of the best quartets ever heard, which broadcast for 57 years and recorded over 3000 songs in that span.

Any music lover appreciates the debt of all to the Mills Brothers, who began in the great American tradition, from nowhere, and ended on the very top.

There were more rhythm, sweetness and melody in listening to the great recordings of the Mills Brothers (or the Ink Spots) than can be found on practically any popular music album today. They sang, for the most part, good songs, with good lyrics, often sweet and sentimental, a music that was and is often terribly nostalgic.

In the beginning, in the Depression Thirties, the Mills Brothers didn't even use musical instruments. Only later did they utilize this advantage. But they were invariably good listening, and their tapes and records are still that today.

That's the final verdict on music as good or fad. The Mills Brothers are as enjoyable today as they were forty years ago.

Atlantic Cable

On July 27, 1866, Europe and America were connected by electric telegraph cable after ten years of heart-breaking effort and failure. The prospect began shortly after a plateau in the bed of the ocean on which a cable could be laid was discovered.

In August, 1857, an attempt was made to lay a cable from the Irish Coast westward, but the cable parted. The next year, 1858, another attempt was made, the cable again breaking.

Later that same year, a third attempt was successful in laying a cable between Ireland and Newfoundland. On August 16, 1858, Queen Victoria telegraphed a message to President Buchanan. But this cable soon parted.

After the war, the largest steamship afloat was chartered and it laid a still heavier cable. It started westward June 25. Again the cable broke. The next year, a heavily reinforced cable was finally successfully laid from Ireland to Newfoundland, having been reinforced sufficiently, it did not break.

This was 116 years ago on the 27th. Since that time, millions of messages have passed from one country to the other via electric cables. Even with shortwave radio, the wireless telephone, transmission between continents via satellite, the telegraph cable is still a reliable method of communication between continents, and in active use.

THANK YOU

Our many, many thanks to everyone who helped out during Beth Ann's accident July 5th. LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Some Plans Fail

Some of the plans I have had have failed. I started the House of Homer. I think I banked $5,000 I made on it, but now it is dying. I only have $62.50 in the checking account. I wasn't able to work on it anymore. Then I started the Wee Copper Company. It has made me $3,000. I have $125 in its checking account. Again I was not able to work it. I was going to start the Feed Trough but the doctor would not let me go ahead with it.

I started a church for older people but did not have the strength to carry on. It was a good idea, and I feel that someone will use it. I became pastor of the Brown Church but sold it to a lady who plans to carry on with the plans. Or if she cannot make it go, maybe we will start it again. I still feed people at my house, give out food, do most of the cooking myself. I make hospital calls, often in a wheelchair, or with a walker. The doctor advised me to quit my job at Rax, and as Crossman Guard. I started a youth meeting and children's meetings but gave them up.

July 6th, I am starting a new life at the age of 71. I still do lots for children. I am pastor of two churches and chaplain of the School Crossing Guards. I do guest preaching about 10 times a month. I have many ideas. Some will fail. Some will succeed. July 25 we will have the Day of Jubilee, to make it a day of victory. I'm going to take a day off to go fishing occasionally. I'm thinking of starting a business for a boy who has worked for me for five years, a boy who is physically very weak.

I plan to go ahead and try. I am here and I am glad.

Dear Editor:

The Fulton County Historical Society wishes to thank the many people who patronized our food tent and visited our four museums during the Round Barn Festival.

We also thank the volunteers who worked before, during and after the festival. We had 96 people who worked 121 shifts of 4 hours each, for a total of 488 hours, and that was just during the festival. There were many others who worked before and after, but I have no way of estimating their time.

We were rewarded by having a good attendance of 1300 people in the four museums and by selling out of ham and beans and buffalo burgers. So about 750 people ate in our food tent.

Thank you to the folks at Leiters Ford for mowing and for burning the weeds in the railroad track. I'm sure the railroad men and others who came to visit were impressed with the nice appearance of the depot museum.

We thank the craftsmen and the people who put up special exhibits in the museums during the festival.

So many folks worked together and had a good time too. Thanks to all of you for another successful Round Barn Festival for FCHS.

Smile!

A genuine, sincere smile is still the finest passport to friendship and fellowship.

Sad to say, today's politician, practically everyone seen on television, salesmen and social pushers prostitute the smile: they display it in a calculated effort.

It can, of course, be said that smiles are better than scowls.

But what is the always-smiling politician smiling about? The country is overspending, going broke. The entertainer is smiling to show us how nice he is (or about his inflated salary). The salesman uses smiles to sell. The social climber is grinning his way into the good graces of targets.

It would be nice to see some of prominence who didn't constantly exhibit a commercial smile. Life can't be that jolly, all the time.

These are serious times.

Videotaping

Across the nation, video recorders are being used by increasing millions to tape films and TV programs. The highest court will soon rule on whether this is constitutional.

Opponents claim these transmissions are protected property and that video recorder owners have no right to reproduce them. But how can this be prevented? It cannot, really. About all the restriction the court could expect to work, or enforce, is a ban on the commercial use of such programs.

TV and film producers often equate their rights with those of the press. That being so, it should be kept in mind that when one buys a newspaper, he can do what he pleases with it in his home. He can't, of course, use the material therein for commercial purposes.

The same standard logically applies to airwaves sent into homes. Those who receive them can do what they like with them, there. No policing of that freedom is really possible, nor justified.

When the death of the Equal Rights amendment was proclaimed on July 1, it should have been called a suicide.

Moreover, in their wild temper tantrums they exhibited such a degree of mean-spiritedness that even their adversaries were shocked and ashamed of their gross misconduct.

The New York Times ran a three column picture of a wild-looking, witch-like individual in a toga with the letters ERA painted over the chest sitting in the arms of a statue in front of the National Archives Building. The caption said she had reportedly slung red paint all over the statue.

The alleged woman had covered the huge statue's face and body with the paint and was resisting arrest by a policeman. It was in the same building where earlier a group of women protesting the failure of ratification of the proposed equal rights amendment reportedly drew blood from their arms with hypodermic needles and spilled it upon copies of the U.S. Constitution.

The real copy of the Constitution was not available to their desecration, fortunately.

Earlier they had slung animal blood about in the lobby of the Illinois statehouse in protest of their defeat. Calling themselves "feminists" is to destroy a good word. From photographs of the Washington demonstrators they more closely resemble a bunch of growling, angry sows in a hog wallow. Feminine? Impossible.

No doubt they will expect to be dealt with under a double standard as ladies. This is one case where equal treatment should be applied: they should be jailed and forced to work until the mess is thoroughly cleaned up by their efforts.

Strangely enough, the post-mortems by the leaders of the hate movement, never have discovered their problems. They still do not know why they lost, and did not know who their adversaries were.

Women defeated them. Not the men, at whom they hurl the gross bags of animal blood, with their bitter curses and derision.

When they let former Congresswoman Bella Abzug lead them, they were doomed. In addition to being so far out in left field politically that nobody can hit a ball over her head, she's about as charming and ladylike as a rabid gorilla. Her disposition is said to be even tempered...always mad.

Phyllis Schlafly destroyed a NOW Congresswoman in a short TV debate last week. Schlafly was better informed, quicker witted, and forced the Congresswoman to defend her ideas. The result was a temper tantrum by the NOW advocate and an emotional loss.

None of the NOW leadership were politically sophisticated; none of them acted as if they had any experience at any sort of human relationships, especially leadership and persuasion. All efforts were seemingly by direct confrontation, hurling imprecations, threats and worse. Not many ladies, apparently.

They need to take some lessons on how to "win friends and influence people." Strangely, the women I knew growing up, all seemed to learn that as children from their parents. Manners were part of it, so was being a lady. All of us were taught that a lady was not equal to others, she was superior.

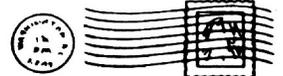

And I still believe that.

THANK YOU

Perhaps you sent a lovely card, or sat quietly in a chair. Perhaps you sent a funeral spray, if so we saw it there. Perhaps you spoke the kindest words, as any friend could say. Perhaps you were not there at all, just thought of us that day. Whatever you did to console our hearts, we thank you so much whatever the part.

LOUISA'S LETTER

Dear Louisa,

One of my friend's daughters is being married this year and I was astonished when she said she hoped people would not give her pieces of silver other than that of place settings. When I was married my most treasured gifts were those of containers and trays of silver.

This girl says she prefers appliances or linens as she and her husband will be living in a small apartment for a number of years. What do you think of that? Don't you imagine she will miss having silver dishes, etc., later on? M.S.--Fla.

Answer:

I think the main reason that many brides of today prefer other gifts rather than silver is because silver is rather hard to keep polished as very few young people of today are financially able to afford help. Such gifts mean a lot of extra work for a young bride.

Another reason for preferring appliances is that they are expensive but they are great labor savers for young couples.

Of course, beautiful silver is something to be proud of and if the youngsters have parents who can keep such gifts until they themselves have a place for them they will probably be very glad to have them later on.

More With Less

In 1980, 100 bushels of wheat took 373 man-hours to produce, compared to only 10 hours today. This is a 36-fold reduction, says Sperry New Holland.

Corn is Tops

In 1981, corn was the U.S.'s top food export both in value and volume says Sperry New Holland. Nearly 60 million tons of corn was exported at a total market value of $9 billion.

IN THE CHURCH OF YOUR CHOICE

THE RACE IS ON

Americans pride themselves on their competitive nature. Almost from birth, a child is taught to compete with his peers, and the element of competition remains with him throughout his life - in athletics, courtship and in his profession.

We feel that competition brings out the best in an individual, both physically and mentally. Thus we require some adjustment and guidance from the church in order to attain our highest spiritual development, which we must seek solely from within, without competition from any source.

Soy Oil

Soy Oil is one of the best bargains at the supermarket. It's the world's most plentiful and economical vegetable oil. Nearly every homemaker in America uses it, and like all vegetable oils, it has genuine nutritional value. Most American consumers are unaware they eat soy oil practically everyday. Soy oil, the vegetable oil is derived from soybeans, 80 percent of all margarine, 83 percent of salad and cooking oils and 50 percent of frying and baking fats are made with soy oil. Soy oil is a common ingredient in many foods. For instance, soy oil is often found in hot ready-to-eat cereals, doughnuts, macaroni, beverages, diet foods, soups, spreads, mayonnaise, and the list goes on and on. As with all vegetable oils, soy oil contains no cholesterol, so it's good for people. Also soy oil is low in saturated fats and high in polyunsaturated fats. It is versatile and can be used in any recipe calling for vegetable oil. It has a bland flavor that doesn't mask the natural taste of foods.

Census Bureau taking survey

Local representatives of the Bureau of the Census are conducting a survey of employment in this area during the work week of July 19-24, 1982. Stanley D. Moore, Acting Director of the Bureau's Regional Office in Chicago, announced.

The survey is conducted for the U.S. Department of Labor in a scientifically designed sample of approximately 71,000 households throughout the United States. Employment and unemployment statistics based on results of this survey are used to provide a continuing measure of the economic health of the Nation.

For example, in May the survey indicated that of the 110.7 million men and women in the civilian labor force, 100.1 million were employed. The Nation's unemployment rate was 9.5 percent, about the same as the 9.4 percent in April.

Information supplied by individuals participating in the survey is kept strictly confidential by law and the results are used only to compile statistical totals.

Mentone student wins National honors

Julie Rankin, 15, of R. 5, Warsaw, has been named a 1982 United States National Award winner for English by the United States Achievement Academy.

As an eighth grader last year at Mentone School, Julie competed against seventh and eighth grade students all over the United States, as well as in her own school. She and her classmates competed for the award by writing an essay on a different theme every week during the school year last year. Julie's English teacher last year was Mrs. Eloise Eberly.

The Academy selects the winners on the recommendation of teachers, coaches, counselors or other school sponsors, as well as on the Academy's criteria for selection. A student's academic performance, interest and aptitude, leadership qualities, responsibility, enthusiasm, motivation to learn and improve, citizenship, attitude and cooperative spirit, and dependability are part of the criteria.

Miss Rankin will be a freshman at Tippecanoe Valley High School next fall.

A GUIDE TO SUN-DRYING

Sun-drying works best in areas where dry, clear weather is normal at the height of the produce harvest. Indoor dehydration is the rule for cloudy or highly polluted localities. In regions like the Southeast, where strong sun is offset by moist air, evaporation can be speeded up by the use of a vented, glass-covered box like a cold frame, which produces higher temperatures and hence lower relative humidity.

A surprising variety of foods can be sun-dried, especially produce, which should be chosen for top quality... picked over... and washed well. Juicy fruits are usually halved or quartered, and vegetables—which are low in acid and spoil more readily—should be cut into small pieces for faster dehydration.

The foods are spread without crowding on paper-lined trays or cloth-covered wooden frames, protected with cheesecloth if insects are a problem, and left in the sun to dry with the aid of an occasional turning. The trays should be moved under shelter and guarded from dampness at night. If wet weather sets in, the batch can be saved from spoilage by oven-drying.

Another common practice is to string pieces of food on strong thread and hang them in the sun or indoors. Sheltered air-drying is recommended for herbs.

Check each batch for uniform dryness and pack the edibles in airtight containers. It's wise to inspect any such stored products now and then for spoilage.

Dried foods can be nibbled raw, or covered with boiling water and soaked or simmered until tender.

VEGETABLE or FRUIT	PREPARATION FOR DRYING and DRYING METHOD
Beans (pod): string, green, snap, wax	Wash and dry, cut or break off ends and pull strings, cut or break into one-inch pieces, spread on frames (or string on heavy thread), and dry until tough to brittle.
Beans (shelled) and peas	Shell, grade if desired, spread on frames, and stir daily until hard and brittle.
Herbaceous plants	If the plants have thick, juicy stems like celery or rhubarb, slice thin, spread on frames (or string), and dry until brittle. Hang leafy herbs in a shady, airy place, crumble when dry, remove large stems, and store leaves in airtight containers.
Onions, leeks, kohlrabi	Peel and slice into thin rings (no more than 1/8 inch thick), spread on frames (or strings), and dry until light-colored and brittle.
Peppers	Small peppers (tabasco, red) may be dried whole until dark and shrunken. Slice others into rings; spread on frames (or string), and dry until crisp and brittle.
Pumpkin, squash	Wash, remove stem, cut open, clean out seeds and pith, and trim off peel. Cut into cubes or slices, spread on frame (or string), and dry until tough.
Apples	Wash, peel (no need to core), slice into thin sections, spread on frames (or string), and dry until leathery.
Berries	Wash, and spread on frames until hard.
Currants, figs, grapes	Pull (grapes) from bunches, wash, and dry on frames until leathery and slightly sticky.
Peaches, pears	Wash, halve (or quarter if fruit is large), remove pits (of peaches), and dry—skin side down—on frames until tough and leathery. Do not turn.

Unemployment Claims reported lower

Unemployment insurance claims totaled 118,090 last week, down 2,447 from the week before, the Indiana Employment Security Division reported.
 Harry T. McFarland, director, said continued claims decreased at more than 70 per cent of the division's local offices due to recalls and benefit exhaustions. However, initial claims increased primarily because of the availability of a new quarter's wage credits used in determining benefit eligibility.
 There were 2,432 new claims for extended benefits last week, he said.

Pioneer Days at Warsaw this weekend

It's the 128th birthday of the City of Warsaw this month and the occasion will be marked by "an all new look" for Pioneer Days.

Pioneer Days will be observed throughout Warsaw July 22-24. Festival events are being planned by Dee Munson, acting president of the Warsaw Retail Merchants Association, Gary Lyon, of the Lake City Bank, and Don Childs, of Child's Men's Clothing Store, who developed the layout and coordinated all of this year's events.

The Pioneer Days festival is being sponsored by the Warsaw Retail Merchants Association this year.

Festival planners have invited many local groups to participate in Pioneer Days. So far, more than 70 organizations have reserved booth spaces. Area residents selling their fresh vegetables and fruits at The Farmer's Market will have the opportunity to sell their food products in downtown Warsaw at a booth in front of Child's clothing store.

In addition, arts and crafts will be displayed, and the pilot of a hot air balloon will be landing and taking off from a lot in downtown Warsaw.

Live bands will perform nightly on the First National Bank parking lot and the courthouse square downtown.

Of course, the three-day city-wide event will be highlighted by sidewalk sales. Wares will be placed outside stores and clerks will be ready to ring up sales beginning at 6:30 a.m. each day. The stores will be open until late each night.

The Pioneer Days Parade will begin at 1 p.m. Saturday. The scores of floats, color guard units, and marching bands will be led by State Treasurer Julian Riden, who has been named Grand Marshal of the Parade. His participation in the parade was made possible by Kosciusko County Republican Chairman Jean Northenor, according to Munson. This year's parade chairmen are Chuck Williams, of United Telephone Company, and Jim Gebert, of W-W Shoe Village.

The "Bonnie Blue Bells," which consists of 300 young baton twirlers, will march in the parade. They will also give a public demonstration at 3:30 p.m. Saturday on the courthouse square.

Pioneer Days will come to a conclusion at 10 p.m. Saturday. Mayor Paul E. (Mike) Hodges has agreed to have street crews clean up the area when all booths have been moved, according to Munson.

Burket considers catch basins

In a short meeting Monday, the Burket Town Board discussed possible purchase of catch basins and 1983 budget plans.

Board members Bill Griffis and Matt Shafer met afterward to discuss plans for Burket Days. A third board member is still being sought to fill the vacancy created when former board member David Kuhn and his wife, former clerk-treasurer Suzanna Kuhn, resigned in March.

The new clerk-treasurer Joyce Borem, will be attending a seminar on Wednesday, July 21, at the courthouse on working on a budget.

Crop losses must be filed promptly

District Director Francis Hudkins of the Federal Crop Insurance Corporation reminds farmers that crop losses must be reported within 30 days of harvest.

With wheat harvest in full swing and areas of the state having potentials of damaged wheat, Hudkins urges farmers to contact their insurance agent promptly when a crop loss is evident. Reporting a wheat loss within a minimum of 30 days after harvest assures the farmer that he has complied with the provisions of his crop insurance policy.

Hudkins said that compliance with this requirement permits the loss adjuster to more readily make his inspection and determine the appropriate indemnity that may be payable.

New books at Akron library

New Books available to the public at the Akron Carnegie Public Library are:

Caroline and Julia by Clare Darcy--In this latest romance Clare Darcy takes her devoted fans backstage at the nineteenth-century London theatre and draws a vivid picture of the amusements and love affairs of Society in that colorful period. Her two heroines, the inexperienced but very sensible auburn-haired beauty and the sophisticated but respectable woman of the world contrast delightfully in this story of romance and chicanery in the England of the Prince Regent.

Help! From Heloise--Heloise, America's first and foremost source of household hints gives us a new, find-it-fast book of tested and trusted solutions to the household emergencies she and her million of readers have encountered most often and with the remedies that work best--from spills and stains to innovative stop-gaps and last-minute substitutions: from smart and economical quick-fixes for kitchen and bath, laundry and garden, to tips for cleaning, sewing, packing, traveling and moving.

May's Boy by Shirlee Monty--Leslie Lemke is blind, severely retarded and has cerebral palsy. His sense of balance when he walks is decidedly impaired and he has to be led to the piano. At first, he slumps over the keyboard. But when he starts to play, an amazing transformation takes place. Joe and May Lemke were over 50 years old when they were asked to take this child that wasn't wanted even by his parents. May reasons that God loves all children, even this little creature. What May did with Leslie, is, indeed, an incredible story of love.

My Lord Guardian by Elizabeth Kidd--Growing up in an impoverished country clergyman's household with four male cousins does not fit a young woman for a fashionable life in Regency London society. Andrew Innes, Marquess of Lyle, is apprehensive about taking on the guardianship of the unknown Miss Sidney Archer. Lyle had promised her father as he was dying that he would look after the girl so he can't go back on his word. This regency novel comes to a very satisfactory conclusion.

School Board 3-2 vote on lease-rental decision daughter, Louise Bucher, daughter of Charles and Bernice (Blue) Leininger, graduated from Beaver Dam High School in the Class of 1932. Phillip Bucher, of Daleville, Ind., son of Louise and Ed Bucher, graduated from Beaver Dam High School in the Class of 1957. Bradley Bucher, Anderson, son of Phillip Bucher, graduated from Anderson Highland High School in the Class of 1982.

Saguaros, which are huge cactuses found in Arizona, are often called "apartment houses of the desert" because they provide living quarters for so many bird species.

The Tippecanoe Valley School Board during regular session Monday evening voted 3-2 on decision to withdraw the petition to the State Board of Tax Commissioners for a lease-rental agreement for building and remodeling projects at Akron-Burkett Schools.

Superintendent Baxter Paige informed the school board member of notification from the Commissioners that they were awaiting a decision by the school board on their wishes before the state Agency would determine the matter and act on it.

The school board was directed to either submit a letter requesting the Board of Tax Commissioners to drop the petition or one requesting the state to act on the petition for a lease-rental agreement as submitted.

President of the Board, Vernon Meredith, called for a motion to proceed or withdraw the petition. The motion to go ahead with the lease-rental agreement was made by Trustee Con Shewman, seconded by Meredith but failed on 2-3 vote with the board members Cecil Miller, Richard Long and Bill Rogers voting against.

Richard Long then made a motion to withdraw the petition from the state. This motion was seconded by Cecil Miller and carried by a 3-2 vote.

Before the meeting ended, a motion made by Cecil Miller to disband the holding corporation formed for the purpose of the lease-rental agreement, was carried on a 4-1 vote with Vernon Meredith abstaining. This was done pending legal inquiry.

THE COUPON CLIPPER

It's time for a talk with the letter carrier

By June Fuller

DEAR CLIPPER — We live on the last street in Riverside, N.J., and ours is the last house on the block.

When free samples or envelopes full of coupons are delivered by mail, the whole town seems to get them except us. I called the post office, which said that we probably weren't on the advertisers' mailing lists.

But my friends' envelopes were addressed to simply to "resident." What should I do? — Concerned Connie

DEAR CONCERNED CONNIE — It's time you had a heart-to-heart talk with your letter carrier.

If you are diplomatic and show him or her why these coupons are important to you, you may well find yourself missing fewer of these offers. The carrier may even start on your end of the block!

DEAR CLIPPER — I had a newspaper coupon offering "buy one roll Saran Wrap, get one box of macaroni and cheese free (up to 45 cents)."

I also had a 25-cents-off coupon for Saran Wrap. Could I use them both to get 25 cents off as well as the free macaroni and cheese? — Nancy G., Mount Carroll, Ill.

DEAR NANCY — No, you can't use both coupons. A "buy one, get one free" coupon usually provides that only one coupon can be used for the purchase.

In your example, you are purchasing only one item, the Saran Wrap, the other item is being given to you free. So you have a choice — 25 cents off the wrap or the free macaroni and cheese.

Here is a smart shopping tip from R. Malinsky of Downers Grove, Ill.: "I remember to use my coupons by taping them to similar products in my pantry. Then, when the package is empty, I take the coupon off and put it in the coupon wallet that I take to the supermarket."

The smart shopping award goes to Joan Fallon of Metuchen, N.J., who writes:

"I purchased three jars of Prego spaghetti sauce, regularly priced at 89 cents a jar, using 80 cents' worth of coupons. This brought my cost down to $1.87.

Then I cut three 35-cent coupons out of the labels and sent the rest of the labels in for a $1 refund. The following week my favorite supermarket offered double coupons, and the Prego coupons saved me an additional $2.10. That's what I call a real bargain, and the spaghetti was delicious!"

Ms. Fallon and other readers whose tips and smart shopping experiences appear in my column receive a copy of the refunding magazine, The National Supermarket Shopper. Write to me in care of this newspaper.

Here's a refund form to write for: Pond's $1 Refund, P.O. Box 2003-L, Jefferson City, Mo. 65102. Requests for this form must be received by Aug. 31, 1982. Send a post card with your request. This offer expires Sept. 30, 1982.

Sterk-Tucker marriage vows spoken

The Rev. Frank Cramer of the Akron United Methodist Church officiated the double-ring wedding ceremony uniting Lisa Ann Sterk, and Chad M. Tucker in marriage on June 19, 1982.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Sterk, Akron, and the groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Charles M. Tucker, Mentone. The bride given in marriage by her parents was attired in a high necked gown of white organza featuring a sheer yoke of point d'esprit lace appliqued. The stand up band collar was bordered with a band of tiny Venice lace flowers. The gown was designed with full bishop sleeves which were gathered into wide fitted cuffs. The full skirt was lavishly inset with bands of lace and point d'esprit. A wide ruffle bordered the hem of the skirt and chapel train. The fabric covered derby style hat was appliqued with lace and featured a pearl outlined motif on the crown. Streamers and a blusher of imported illusion completed the effect.

Attending the bride were Deb Wise, Claypool, sister of the bride, Sally Sterk, Akron, sister-in-law of the bride, and Darlene Hathaway, Claypool. Angie Ault, Claypool, was the flower girl. The girls wore dresses of sheer polyester over taffeta with ruffled bottom which formed a bustle effect in the back in colors of yellow, blue, and peach, and carried an arrangement of daisy's on a fan.

Alan Sterk, Akron, brother of the bride, Mark Wise, Claypool, brother-in-law of the bride and Craig Gilsinger, Logan-sport, was the ringbearer.

The church was decorated with pastel colored daisy's and hurricane lamps at the pews and in the windows and two seven-branch candelabra. All the flowers were made by the groom's grandmother.

These openings are primarily for prior Air Force members only, regardless of the length of time since discharge.

Air Force recruiters can also offer non-commissioned officers their previous rank if they possess the needed skills and their break in service is less than four years. All assignments will be direct duty with no retraining required. Persons who apply now will enter active duty between October and December 1982.

Sergeant King said there are currently 33 Air Force skills that offer up to $6,000 in re-enlistment bonuses. For further information

"I hate to tell you this, lady," sadly said the stranger, as he stood at the front door, hat in hand, "but I just ran over your cat. I hope you'll forgive me, and I want to replace him." "Well, don't just stand there!" she barked. "There's a mouse in my kitchen."

An Army captain, stationed overseas, was elated over the snapshot his girl had sent him from the States. It showed a happy couple sitting on the beach, while she sat alone in the background looking forlorn. The message on the back read: "Darling, this shows how lonesome I am for you."

The captain showed the picture to everyone who would look at it, over and over again, until he and his picture became number one bore. Finally a fellow officer devised a way of inducing him to put the snapshot away permanently.

"John," said his friend innocently, "who do you suppose took that picture?"

BURIED IN A CHAIR

Hezekiah Shepherd, the esteemed but eccentric old gentleman who lived at Drakeville, has had his wishes carried out, by being buried in a coffin in the shape of a chair. For the past fifteen years Mr. Shepherd has been unable to rest except in an easy chair, and in that position he proposed to rest in the grave.

Friends endeavored to dissuade him from his eccentric notion, but he ordered a cabinet maker to construct the curious casket, which was finished before his death. It was substantially built of white oak, with walnut trimmings. He left instructions to have his body placed in the casket in a sitting position, the wrists strapped to the arms of the chair, the limbs to its legs and the head and neck to the back. A glass panel was placed in front. All these instructions were carried out, and the coffin placed in a huge box in an upright position. The chair coffin was kept on exhibition in the room of the deceased for two weeks previous to his death, and he took special satisfaction in displaying it to his friends. He was 90 years of age, a wealthy farmer, and was loved and honored by all Davis County people.

LIFT YOUR HAT TO HER

Lift your hat reverently, says the New York Recorder, when you pass the teacher of the primary school. She is the great angel of the Republic. She takes the bantling fresh from the home nest, full of pouts and passions, and an ungovernable little wretch whose own mother honestly admits that she sends him to school to get rid of him. The lady who knows her business, takes a whole carload of these little anarchists, one of whom is more than a match for his parents, and at once puts them in a way of becoming useful and upright citizens. At what expense of toil, patience and soul weariness! Lift your hat to her.

JUPITER AND HIS MOONS

In 1610 Galileo discovered four moons that revolve around Jupiter, and the other day Prof. Barnard, of the great Lick Observatory, discovered the fifth one. It is not strange that this greatest of all telescopes has revealed what thousands of others have failed to show in the hundreds of years of telescopes.

This fifth moon is of the thirteenth magnitude, and revolves around the big planet every 12 hours and 36 minutes, only about 27,000 miles away from the surface, while the average distance of our moon is 237,000 miles, and her time of revolution around the earth is one month.

Jupiter is the largest planet of our system, having three-fifths more bulk than all the other planets together. He is 1,233 times as large as our earth, his diameter being more than ten times as much of 85,000 miles. His day is less than ten hours long, so his surface must be spinning through space more than twenty-five times as fast as we move around the earth's center. This wonderful speed may account in part for the varying belts or stratified changeable bands seen on his surface. Though so large, yet Jupiter is only one-fourth as dense as the earth, and therefore has only about 308 times the matter the earth does. His trip around the sun takes eleven years and three hundred and fifteen days, while we go around in one year. Truly wonderful are the heavens God has placed around us.

OUR PLANETARY NEIGHBORS

Our martial neighbor, Mars, came along side of Miss Earth last month and shook hands and indulged in a mild flirtation, in so much that the moon, Earth's old admirer and attendant, got mad and could have struck Mars had not that body had a reputation as a bruiser, which the broadfaced moon had no wish to challenge or prove and so it stood off and made faces. Erlich of Berlin has described what he saw on the night of the 4th of August with Mars only 3,000,000 miles away. He says there are dark-blue seas and, as here, with lakes and streams and interspersing continents, on the barred in variations of colors and lights and shades. The conditions all favor the presence of life, and the observations made, all point to a higher stage of development in Mars than on earth.

Now, 'tis inconceivable that our little orb alone, among the whirling suns and systems, should be selected as the abode of life and love. Those stellar spaces are not deserted and voiceless. Science will prove this, and soon. Meantime, As Addison has hymed it of these "radiant orbs":

In reasons are that all rejoice
And utter forth a glorious voice,
Forever saying, as Thy sign--
The hand that made us is divine.

LOOK OUT FOR A COLLISION

The astronomers have figured it out that Biela's Comet which is now coming toward the earth will pass the terrestrial part tonight only eight hours ahead of the time when the earth will reach the same point. If one or the other of the immense moving bodies should happen to be a little off from schedule time a collision might occur, as no flag man is stationed at the crossing.

Prof. Chas. A. Young says: "The appearance of the comet is much different from the ordinary. At first its edges were as clear as if cut with a pair of scissors. Now, however, its tail has grown much longer and last night it resembled a brush. Its spectrum is continuous, but without the dark lines, so probably it is not a self-luminous body. It is now three or four times as large as when I first saw it, and last night I saw many parts of the little particles, which with the telescope I recognized to the stars shining through it. So it is a gaseous substance, and if it does strike the earth will cause no great harm. Dr. James E. Sullivan, city chemist, and an astronomer of some note, in discussing some promised celestial phenomena in connection with Biela's Comet, said that the stars would probably fall on the night of the 27th inst. "There are men living now," he said, "who remember the year, two generations ago, when the stars 'fell'."

It was the most brilliant meteoric shower recorded in history. He says the comet's appearance at the time set for the display of meteors in the constellation Leo, every 33 years will add to the phenomena exhibited in that quarter.

Take Time for Wildlife

By Joe Scheidler
District Wildlife Biologist

Cost-sharing habitat development

In 1981 there was a symposium in Milwaukee which addressed the issue of wildlife management on private lands. Agriculturalists and wildlife professionals from all over the country attended and made presentations emphasizing the need for economic incentives to persuade landowners to set aside or develop areas for wildlife. Some of the solutions involved programs that would allow State leasing of private lands, provide cost-sharing on habitat improvement projects and tax reductions for setting aside wildlife areas. While many states were at the point of merely entertaining these ideas, Indiana had already turned the ideas into workable solutions.

The solutions are offered in a seven-project package known as the Save Our Small Game (S.O.S.) Program. This program puts dollars in the hands of Indiana landowners concerned about wildlife.

One of the projects in the S.O.S. is cost-share. You are eligible if you own or control at least 10 acres of land, assuming the land is not part of a commercial hunting preserve. Essentially any practice that may benefit wildlife may be cost-shared. Establishing or managing trees, shrubs, herbaceous cover or windbreaks, building brush piles, constructing shallow wetlands, erecting fences to keep livestock out of habitat areas, building nest boxes, etc., are all potential practices.

The program works in this way. A person wishing to apply for cost-share contacts the Wildlife Biologist and makes arrangements to discuss the wildlife habitat developments at an on-site visit. An estimate of costs is determined based on prevailing local prices for labor, material and services. The landowner chooses a cost-share rate between 1 and 90 percent; the lesser the rate chosen, the greater the probability of being selected for the program. Other factors used in selecting recipients include benefits to wildlife, estimated practice life span and availability of funds. The maximum payment per applicant per year is $1000.

When a landowner takes advantage of cost-sharing or any program offered by the Division of Fish and Wildlife, he does not relinquish control or ownership of his property, so activities such as hunting are subject to the landowners approval. However, all projects of the S.O.S. are made available by sportsmen through their purchasing of Indiana hunting and trapping license, and the primary objective of any Fish and Wildlife Program is to increase the supply of huntable game, so we do like to see at least some hunting permitted on all private properties where sportsmen's money is spent.

Now is the time to sign up for the cost-share program. Applicants will know if they have been selected some time in September and will have until May 15, 1983 to complete the practice. If you have questions about any Fish and Wildlife Program or would like to apply for cost-share please contact me by writing Joe Scheidler, Wildlife Biologist, P.O. Box 764, Logansport, IN 46947.

Mr. and Mrs. Roger Mikel

Wilson-Mikel vows repeated

The Revs. Donald Ritchey and Lowell Burrus officiated in the double ring ceremony uniting Felicia Wilson, and Roger Mikel in marriage on June 27, 1982 in the Mexico Church of the Brethren.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Wilson, R. 1, Macy and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lowell Mikel, R. 2, Nappanee.

The bride was attended by Mrs. Diane McNeeley, Akron, as matron of honor. Organist for the ceremony was Miss Sherry Klinedinst, and soloist was Mrs. Sharon Klinedinst.

Attending the groom was Mark Mikel, Elkhart, best man. Groomsmen were Scott Mikel, Bradley Wilson and Doug Starkey. Ushers were David McNeeley, Butch Wise, Steve Bryant, and Steve Linn.

The bride's lovely gown was of silk polyester tulle adorned with Chantilly and Cluney lace. The dress had a high neckline, shepherds sleeves, belted waist with satin ribbon streamers and a very full chapel train. Her veil, finger-tip length, fell from a semi-cameo lot headpiece and was trimmed in beads.

A reception followed the ceremony in the Mexico Church of the Brethren.

The bride graduated from North Miami High School and Upper Wabash Vocational School in 1980. The groom is a Northwood High School and Taylor University graduate.

Following a wedding trip to Branson, Missouri, the couple are at home at R. 1, Macy, IN.

Ag outlook given

Grain producers are faced with large 1982 crops and increasing carryover supplies which, at this time, promise little improvement in grain prices, a Purdue University extension agricultural economist says. But for livestock producers - especially those who raise hogs - the outlook is much brighter, he said.

Speaking at the Farm Management Tour's evening session at Purdue, J. William Uhrig in his outlook presentation said that at no time in recent history has the agricultural outlook been so closely tied to the outlook for the general economy and interest rates.

The problems in the general economy are showing some positive signs, he said. The recession appears to have bottomed out, and the rate of inflation is subsiding. Still, unemployment and interest rates remain high, and no rapid turnaround can be expected.

"Interest rates are critical to the duration and strength of the upcoming recovery," the economist said. "If interest rates stay high, the recovery will be squelched and short-lived. But if interest rates decrease, the recovery will be sustained."

He said that the current corn market is very bearish and that it appears the U.S. will have a near-record carryover supply this fall. Besides the carryover and large potential crop, other bearish factors include lagging exports, a sluggish general economy and ample availability of corn.

Uhrig said the best marketing alternative for corn is the Farmer Held Reserve. He sees lack of storage as a problem for some producers and recommends use of commercial storage or the addition of on-farm storage where it fits into a long-range plan.

"Continued good growing weather could mean corn prices will be below loan level at harvest time," he said, adding: "Where storage is available, don't sell at current price levels. Where corn must be sold at harvest time, look for good basis or price rallies to forward contract. With only modest additional usage of the FHR, the 'free' supplies should tighten to boost prices to above the $3.15 level in 1983, making storage very profitable."

While soybean exports are running ahead of last year and projections are for the lowest carryover since 1978, size of the 1982 crop and potential 1982-83 usage are still unknown, he said.

Weather conditions during the next six to eight weeks will determine the size of this year's crop and exert a big influence on prices. Short-term storage looks profitable, and should be a part of your survival plan for 1982-83, he told farmers.

Indiana soybean basis levels could be under pressure at harvest time as a result of corn rollover stocks and early corn harvest coming at bean harvest time, he added. Consider current new crop basis contracts for soybeans that must be sold at harvest. Better prices are expected by winter.

Looking at wheat, the economist said production is estimated to be 2.7 billion bushels with total supplies at 3.86 billion bushels-a new record. And with increasing world production, export projections of 1.7 billion bushels are probably optimistic, he said. The Farmer Held Reserve is the best option, he continued. Short-term storage should pay; and longer term storage without the reserve is about a break-even situation.

The outlook for livestock producers is much better, he said. Despite a bullish market since May, low corn prices, and an anticipated bumper corn crop, hog producers do not intend to expand production soon. This indicates that year-to-year declines in pork production are likely through mid-1983, with prices averaging in the upper $50 range.

Cow-calf production is not profitable when all costs are calculated; but some improvement is likely in this segment of the business by fall as low-priced corn will make cattle feeding a profitable alternative, he said.

Fed cattle prices are expected to decline during July and August. Choice steers at Omaha are expected to average in the upper $60 range during the third quarter, and in the $65 to 69 range during late summer through fall. He recommended that cattle feeders continue to market fed cattle as soon as they reach market-acceptable weights and grades. The market is sharply discounting cattle graded Good, indicating that cattle should not be sold too early, he said.

Turning his attention to land, Uhrig said farmland prices have declined during the past year-something that hasn't happened for more than two decades. With very little activity in land sales, future land prices depend upon the level of net farm income, inflationary expectations, and the level of real interest rates, he said.

"I expect land prices to stabilize in 1983 and continue to rise during the years ahead, but at a rate substantially below that of the past decade," the economist concluded.

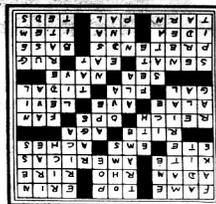

Heart attack victims sought

Volunteers are urgently needed to help combat America's number one killer, atherosclerosis. This disease is primarily responsible for heart attacks, strokes, and related fatal diseases that account annually for almost one million deaths or 51% of all deaths in the United States. The National Heart, Lung and Blood Institute is conducting a program at four participating medical institutions, including the University of Minnesota, to determine whether lowering blood cholesterol levels will reduce the risk of heart attacks. The University is seeking persons 29 through 64 years of age, who have had only one heart attack in the past 5 years with no history of heart surgery, diabetes or stroke. All such persons are urged to call the University of Minnesota Hypertension Study collect at 612-376-4494 for more information. The number again is 612-376-4494.

School Board scraps plans

Building and remodeling plans which began in 1979 and originally included Akron, Burket and Mentone Schools, were officially scrapped after the Tippecanoe Valley School Board members on a 3-2 vote decided to ask the State Board of Tax Commissioners to withdraw the petition from the corporation for the lease-rental approval filed last May.

The decision to withdraw the petition came during the regular session of the school board, Monday, July 19, when Superintendent Baxter Paige said that the State Board of Tax Commissioners indicated they would not make a ruling on the matter until the school board stated what they wanted to do with the project.

Paige pointed out that due to the election of two new board members who actively campaigned against the building projects, the state tax commissioners were hesitant to act.

Voting to withdraw the petition were trustees Miller, Long and Rogers. Members Vernon Meredith and Con Shewman voted against the decision.

Legal Services Claim Questioned

Board secretary Cecil Miller questioned one of the claims presented the board in the amount of $6,000 to be paid to Attorney Fred Rakestraw for legal services during the bid taking and for the time the board had been working on the building projects. Paige noted that it was in the contract that Rakestraw would receive $50 per hour for his work if the project was rejected but would have received one percent of the project cost if the board had proceeded and 1.25 percent if it proceeded and there were remonstrances filed. Paige also noted that the $6,000 claim was not the complete amount paid to Rakestraw, as he had received approximately $4,500 prior to this claim.

Sale of Bus Bonds Approved

Superintendent Paige reported the corporation had received approval from the State Board of Tax Commissioners on the sale of bonds in the amount of $200,000 for the purchase of nine new buses for the corporation. The board can now proceed with specifications for the buses to be purchased. The board unanimously approved and moved to allow Mr. Paige to advertise for bids.

Valley Roof

Board member Cecil Miller asked Superintendent Paige if during the budget meeting, the board could begin budgeting for repairs on the roof at Valley. Noting the $600,000 in the budget for maintenance, Miller was informed by Paige that of that amount only a small sum actually goes toward maintenance because salaries, heating and cooling, gas, light and power comes out of the same account. Miller said he thought the public should be made aware of the problem with the roof at the high school and the school board should be adding to the budget in order to replace the school roofs over a period of several years.

NIPSCO Turns To CNG To Save Money.

That's good to know!

Many NIPSCO service vehicles are being modified to run on both gasoline and compressed natural gas (CNG).

This conversion will not only result in lower fuel costs, but also in reduced engine wear and maintenance.

Compressed natural gas burns very cleanly and it is also much safer than gasoline.

In time, these conversions will result in reduced operating and maintenance costs and help in decreasing our need for imported oil.

If you would like to know more about using compressed natural gas in fleet operations, contact the local NIPSCO Industrial-Commercial Gas Marketing department.

Columbus Sails

Although it's generally recognized today that Columbus was not the first to discover America (the Scandinavians came hundreds of years earlier and maybe the Irish too), the Italian's voyage opened up the New World. It was the most significant and meaningful.

On August 3, 1492, Columbus sailed from Palos, Spain, on that historic crossing. We celebrate Columbus Day in October, of course, when he finally reached an island in the Caribbean. Columbus thought he was off the coast of India--and called the natives Indians.

Christofero Colombo was born in 1451, day and month unknown, in Genoa, Italy, and changed his name to Christobal Colon when he entered the naval service of Spain. Americans Anglicized his name to Christopher Columbus.

Columbus carried with him ninety crewmen and thirty friends on that August 3 sailing and reached the island of Watling, which he named San Salvador. All his discoveries--he made three other voyages to the New World--brought him no reward from Spain's monarchs, as promised, and he died a poor man in 1506 in Spain.

Today there is dispute over where his remains are located. They were brought to Santo Domingo in 1542. In Santo Domingo they say the bones taken to Havana in 1796 were not those of Columbus. In 1936 Santo Domingo announced it had placed Columbus' remains in a new urn.

Wash Powder, Etc.

The United States is the originator of mass production. That technique has made U.S. consumer prices lower than those of any other major nation. But there is still a need for quality products.

Wash powder is an example. Wives who know how white clothes get in Scandinavia or Germany often have wash powder from those countries mailed to them in the U.S. Even with additives, clothes washed in most of the popular U.S. wash powders don't get as white.

Candy is another example. Consider President Reagan's favorite--jelly beans. While some good ones are available (and that includes those in the White House which have been tasted by a writer for this publication), many are of very poor quality. One well-known candy manufacturer in the South produces multi-colored jelly beans which all taste alike!

Clothes are another example, and mothers who have bought sweaters, shirts and suits in European countries know how much better tailored many things there are. Toys are another example. Books are another. Compare the quality of pictures and printed pages in German editions of a book originally printed in this country. No contest.

The criticism has, in recent years, included U.S.-made automobiles. In this case, quality has improved and is still improving. And that's what we Americans must hope to achieve--the benefits of mass production which have made Americans so fortunate, without too much loss of quality.

We wonder if the stars in the entertainment world think they are worth what they are paid.

There is one sure way not to go in debt--spend less than you earn, even if only a penny less.

Weather Crash

How many bad weather crashes will it take to teach pilots, controllers and others responsible for airline safety that thunderstorms and snow storms, and other heavy weather, demand more respect?

The recent fatal crash in New Orleans, claiming over 150 lives, is but the latest lesson. The crash will be attributed to lightning, rain, wind shear (formerly called down draft) or engine failure. All these relate directly to weather. If that 727 had taken off in good weather, it would almost certainly have made it.

Despite impressive technological progress, modern instruments, good airport flight control and experienced pilots, nature can still claim wholesale life when extreme care is not exercised in heavy weather.

That lesson should have been learned by all by now, but hasn't. Remember this when you fly commercial, and are unable to stop engines and abort a flight yourself.

About Tires

Those old enough to have lived through several dozen advertising campaigns by tire makers have heard many claims.

For years, until very recently in fact, there was no uniform grading system for U.S. tires. First line meant one thing to one maker and something else to another. The consumer had to sift through much to get the facts--considering regular claims that this or that doubled mileage.

The situation is somewhat better today, though government grading may soon be curtailed. Also disturbing is the way a few manufacturers still advertise tires today. One major producer sponsors commercials which show small cars moving at great speed on wet and rainy roads, and on snow.

Unfortunately, this almost certainly induces young and impressionable people to drive at excessive speed in dangerous circumstances, thinking the tires can hold the car on the road under almost any conditions. They can't.

No matter how good modern radials, those who drive at high speed on very wet roads and in snow are risking serious injury or death by accident.

In Fashion

It's too hot in many areas to think about winter coats, but now is the time to take advantage of pre-season coat sales. All weather coats, leather blazers and cloth coats are being shown. The early buyer gets the best selection.

Comment On Sports

SOCCER ****

By Pete Fritchle

WASHINGTON, D. C. -- Italy richly deserved its 3-1 win over West Germany in the recent World Cup finale in Madrid--as millions of Americans saw for themselves on the first live telecast of a World Cup final by a major U.S. network.

Italy's team showed more spirit, hustle and desire. The West Germans looked sluggish and slower; they didn't seem to have the incentive. In short, the Italians wanted it more.

The match between Italy and West Germany was providential for purposes of stimulating interest in this country in world football. There are more German-Americans than any other racial group in America and, next, are the Italian-Americans. Thus the game had considerable ethnic appeal in the U.S.

The two European countries which fought the U.S. in World War II thus popularized the sport in this country. The last time Italy won the Cup was in 1938, when Benito Mussolini was Italy's dictator-ruler, and an ally of Adolf Hitler.

Two years later Mussolini, like Hitler, declared war on the United States, and in the next year Italian subs joined Nazi subs in the Atlantic. Forty-one years later millions of Americans were rooting hard for the underdog Italian soccer team, which wasn't supposed to win in 1982. Brazil and West Germany had been the favorites.

Economic geography is not a widely studied subject, nor is it widely understood. But it is a fascinating one for all who look to the future.

Everyone knows the buzzword "Sunbelt" and all its connotations. But the geographer drops the Southwest from sunbelt consideration, and water is the reason.

The Sunbelt ideas was conceived to include the South, plus New Mexico, Arizona, and all Southern California, but we should forget everything west of Dallas from that context, says Dr. Merle Prunty, Alumni Distinguished Professor of Geography at the University of Georgia, who has written about what every geographer knows but may not be known to some journalists.

There are chronic water supply problems in the Southwest that time and talent won't eliminate, Dr. Prunty says. Central Arizona is losing farm land to desert because of diminished groundwater supplies. So is the Pecos Valley in New Mexico. Western Texas is literally mining groundwater that cannot be replaced, and Southern California is importing its water from faraway places.

Dr. Prunty says the coastal plain of the southern states should be called the "Waterbelt" to be more descriptive... add the sun to it and the economic significance becomes fascinating.

It's been said you can make gasoline from many things including even cow manure if you have to. But you can't make water out of anything. But the coastal plain of Dixie has water in abundance.

Dr. Prunty tells also of two University of Georgia scientists who are developing something which could bring a $2 billion annual crop to Dixie and $400 million annually to Georgia.

It's called "Coppice Harvesting." It's all new to me, and perhaps to you. For coppice harvesting may be a method of producing "biomass" which can be turned into electrical energy. The idea is the brainchild of Dr. Claud Brown, a botanist and plant physiologist, who is a senior professor in the School of Forest Resources. Dr. Klaus Steinbeck, a silviculturist, works closely with him.

Coppice harvesting is the mechanical harvesting production of wood from densely planted young hardwood trees which produce a maximum biomass in 3 to 5 years after planting. It works like harvesting corn...the machine cuts off the young hardwood trees a few inches from the ground and chops up the wood like silage in a corn field.

A big difference is you have to replant the cornfield next year to get a crop - with these hardwoods you do not; resprouting and regrowth starts immediately from the roots.

In a biological sense the object is to produce a maximum volume of woodstuffs the soil can support...the peak biomass...in short rotations of 3 to 5 years, instead of the 15 to 25 years now needed for yellow pine. It can be a real breakthrough.

A 150 megawatt electric plant using biomass as fuel, would need about 50 square miles of land in biomass production within a radius of 35 miles of the plant to supply electricity to a city of 50,000 population including industry, etc. G.E. and Westinghouse have already built such plants. Envision a network of these relatively small plants and you see the possibilities.

Dr. Prunty sees a rise in income as much as 25% from Southern woodlands. With our warm, humid climate on the coastal plain plus abundant water, Georgia and Dixie are in the cat bird seat.

Huge Georgia-Pacific didn't relocate from Oregon to Georgia just because Atlanta has the world's best air service.

A good wall cleaner combines a half-cup ammonia, a quarter-cup each of white vinegar and washing soda and a gallon of warm water.

Dear Louisa,

My husband is a very stern man and I do not agree with many of the decisions he makes regarding the children--still I think it is bad to go behind his back and let them do things that he has forbidden them to do but how can I, under the circumstances, be fair to him and to the children?
J.H.--Miss.

Answer:

A great many problem children are those whose parents never get together on discipline. Your husband will be wise to compromise with you so that you can agree on what they should do.

A child who is able to play one parent against the other is quick to grasp the opportunity and the result is grief in the end for both child and parents. Talk these matters over in private. Even if your husband thinks you are too lenient and you think he is too severe both of you should be willing to make some concessions to the others' viewpoint.

The only excuse for disagreeing with the other parent is this: if he happens to be brutal or sadistic. In such cases you should do the best you can for the child.

Louisa

One-year-old Maryellen Stephens, Rt. 3, Warsaw, a passenger in the Stephens auto, sustained minor neck injuries.

After hitting Flenar's car, Stephens could not stop and ran over a steel post at Betty's Cake and Candy Shop, 816 East Winona Ave., Warsaw, and struck a parked car. The impact pushed the parked car, owned by Larry Rosenberry, Rt. 2, Milford, into a block building owned by H.P. Fraubiger, 310 North Buffalo St.

Damage to Stephen's, Flenar's and Rosenberry's vehicles was estimated between $200 and $1,000.

Alva Acker Jr., 58, 2303 East Clark St., Warsaw, complained of chest pain after he was involved in a one-car accident recently. He was traveling south on State Rd. 25 when a car in front of him stopped to make a turn. Acker then swerved to the right to avoid hitting the car, went off the road, hit a fence and utility pole, and rolled over. Damage to his auto was estimated at between $1,000 and $2,500. The fence and NIPSCO pole each sustained less than $200 damage.

A woman pulling into a parking space at McDonald's Restaurant, 315 North Detroit St., pulled in a little too far and hit the north side of the building. Opal J. Harman, 77, Rt. 2, Milford, jumped the sidewalk and struck the building near the side door. A passenger in her auto, Martha Rowlette, 77, 320 West Main St., Warsaw, sustained contusions on her lower leg. Harman's auto was damaged less than $200. Damage to the McDonald's building was estimated at between $10,000 and $25,000.

Mary A. Konieczny, 20, Rt. 3, Warsaw, was traveling on Sunset Drive approaching the curve where the road turns into Ross Avenue when she locked her brakes and slid off the side of the road into some bushes. She refused medical treatment for contusions to the upper arm. Damage to her auto was estimated at between $200 and $1,000.

A car driven by Everett D. Marshall, 35, Rt. 3, Warsaw, was stopped to make a left turn off of State Rd. 15 North when he was rear-ended by a pickup truck driven by Douglas A. Compo, 21, Marion. Rule death due to injuries

An autopsy performed over the weekend determined that John V. Finch, 58, Rt. 2, Silver Lake, died of injuries suffered in an accident involving his auto. According to Deputy Coroner Ken Wyman and pathologist David Howe, Finch died from acute hemorrhaging of a ruptured artery.

Finch and his wife, Orline, 57, were traveling on Jefferson St. north of North Street in Silver Lake Friday afternoon, July 16, when Finch apparently slumped over at the wheel of his car and struck a tree, according to Kosciusko County Patrolman Sam Whitaker.

Whitaker had speculated Friday that Finch may had a heart attack while driving his car. But the autopsy revealed no evidence of a heart attack, Whitaker said. Finch was conscious after the accident, but his condition deteriorated. He died at 5:18 p.m. Friday, July 1, 1982 in Kosciusko Community Hospital.

Mrs. Finch sustained a broken arm and broken hand in the accident. She was released from KCH Saturday.

Born in Howard County, Ind., on Oct. 2, 1924, Finch was the son of Ernest Vernon and Zella Pearl (Simpson) Finch. On Dec. 31, 1971, he was married in Saint Charles, Mo. to Orline Mullenix who survives.

A member of the Marion Baptist Temple, he was a plumber for Miller & Sons, Silver Lake and had been a resident there three years, moving from the Marion area.

Nutrition

The meat group of the "basic four" includes red meats, poultry, eggs and fish. Alternates such as beans, nuts and peanut butter may be substituted occasionally. An individual should choose two or more servings per day from this group. One serving is the equivalent of two to three ounces of meat, one egg, 1/2 cup of cooked beans or two tablespoons of peanut butter. The meat group also supplies quantities of thiamin, niacin and iron. Thiamin contributes to the normal functioning of the nervous system and the use of starches and sugars in the body. Niacin and iron promote healthy skin, nerves and digestive tract. Iron also combines with protein to form the red substance in blood that carries oxygen to and carbon dioxide from the cells. It prevents nutritional anemia. Vitamin B 12 found in meat is not found in any plant food and is needed by the body for a healthy nervous system. Meat also provides fat and that's not a bad word. Fat is part of the structure of all body cells. It provides heat and energy. It cushions your vital organs. Fat also carries fat soluble vitamins A, D, E and K.

TAKEN FROM THE NORTHERN INDIANA CO-OP NEWS JULY 29, 1942 40 YEARS AGO

Royal Blue, sixteen-year-old son of Mrs. Pete Blue, of Mentone, received a fracture in the bone of the upper right leg Wednesday noon when he was knocked off the running board of a car by a tree. He and a number of other boys were on their way to the swimming hole, with Royal on the side of the car, and the driver steered his machine so close to the tree that the lad did not have room to escape.

The Pauline Bros. Service Station at Mentone received a prize of $3.50 in Defense Stamps for purchasing more rubber in the recent scrap rubber drive than any Sinclair station in Kosciusko County. They purchased 3,440 pounds.

M.O. Mentzer reports that Laverne Ladson, of Bourbon, has purchased the Perry Robinson farm, near Big Foot.

Dr. T.J. Clutter was seen walking uptown Tuesday evening and visiting with his old friends. He states he is much improved, and his jolly disposition would indicate that he was getting back to his old self once again.

Men enlisting in the Navy for service at the Naval Reserve Aviation Base near Peru, are being called to active duty as rapidly as the facilities of the base are expanded to accommodate them. The men who have completed enlistment at the Indianapolis Navy recruiting station and have been assigned to that base include the following from Mentone: Lewis Donald Blue, 19, son of Bessie Mae Blue, and Raymond Busenbarg, 17, son of Minnie Busenbarg.

Mrs. Roy Cullum returned to her home in Chicago Monday after spending a few days visiting her son, Artley Cullum, and family. Jody and Jon Cullum returned with her to spend the week with their grandparents.

The fire department was called to the Russell Eber WhatNot Novelty manufacturing shop Saturday morning to extinguish a blaze in the second story of the frame building. The fire started in the paint spray room and it was presumed the paint fumes were ignited by a small exhaust fan.

The loss to machinery and materials wasn't so great, yet a good many items in the process of manufacture were ruined. The paint spray equipment was destroyed along with several gallons of quality paint.

TAKEN FROM THE MENTONE NEWS JULY 26, 1967 15 YEARS AGO

Other local contestants at the district, which was held at Nappanee, were Carmen Anglin and Janet Goshert. Each had won the right to enter the contest at the county event.

Rex Bowser and Stan Shand, president and vice president of the Mentone Student Council, are attending a workshop for student council officers this week at Indiana University.

Luanna Sarber and Susan Tibbets will give the special music next Sunday morning at the Talma Methodist Church. Miss Jane Ettinger will accompany them on the piano.

Mr. and Mrs. Chester Smith, Mentone, are the parents of a daughter, born Saturday morning at Murphy Medical Center. Mr. and Mrs. Sam Smith of Spencer and Ora Smith, Rt. 1, Mentone, are the grandparents.

Miss Donna VanGilder, who recently returned from a two-year stint with the Peace Corps in Columbia, South America, will teach Spanish at LaVile High School this year.

Hydrant rental, annexation discussed by Silver Lake Board

Discussion of hydrant rental to the Lake Association of Silver Lake and a look at land annexation occurred during Saturday's monthly meeting of the Silver Lake Town Board.

Bill Lotz and Bob Crabill, officials of the Lake Association, discussed the matter of hydrant rentals with town board members Louis Kinch, George Hopkins and Norman Krichbaum.

Crabill attended the June meeting of the board and inquired at that time about hydrant rental charge to the association. He felt the rental charge is too high. Action was tabled at that meeting until the July session.

At Saturday's meeting, the town board agreed to honor the contract with the Lake Association until the end of the year, with the exception that the minimum charge to the association be raised from $30 to $45.

In September, the town board members will meet with the Lake Association to draw up a new contract and a decision will be made on hydrant rental.

The Lake Association has two options on the matter, either disconnecting the hydrants or paying the rent. The town cannot deviate from the rate set by the Public Service Commission.

The town's request for a 50 percent water rate increase was approved at the end of May and the hike was reflected in the June billings.

Since the present contract between the town and the Lake Association still has a few years remaining, a new contract must be drawn up this fall to reflect the changes.

The other item of business concerned discussion by Town Attorney Max Reed with town board members about the possibility of annexing land into the town. No decision has been made yet, as town officials want to determine town boundaries before any change is made.

The board also agreed to repave Elm and Columbia Streets at a total cost of $10,710 for the two streets.

A proposed use hearing of federal revenue sharing funds was held at 7 p.m. on Thursday, July 22 in the town hall. The board, which started work on the budget Saturday, will continue budget discussion following the revenue hearing.

Uniting the couple in the double ring ceremony was the Rev. James Malbone.

Given in marriage by Mr. Ted Cox, the bride wore a tiered gown of ruffles and lace. The full ruffled skirt formed a long chapel train with a scalloped sabrina neckline with sheer fitted waist and fitted sleeves.

She carried a bouquet of baby blue and yellow roses, white carnations and baby's breathe.

Presenting musical selections were Mrs. Sheryl Cox, Rensselear and Mr. Ron Pettet, Logansport. The organist was Karen Pettet, Logansport. The pianist was Mrs. Pat Mitterling, Akron.

Lucile Personett presided for the business session. Devotions, given by June Merley, spoke of some requirements for being Christians; we must always be kind to everyone and look to God for our help asking all things of Him. She led the group in prayer.

Five members volunteered to help July 27th in the 4-H Food Building. Our Logansport patient we have befriended for several years has been moved so we will ask for a new one. Marie Coon gave a Health and Safety lesson which was: if vomiting occurs when a person suffers from excess heat, salt water frequently consumed and raising the patient's feet 10" or 12" will help. Each lady present signed cards to be mailed to members and friends. Sherri Moore, a club member, gave a demonstration on Tri-Chem painting. Each lady made a book mark that was hers to keep and enjoy. A contest conducted by Marie Berger was won by Emma Burns, Alice Teel, Marie Nestleroad and Betty Keim

An ordinance allowing Claypool residents to dig a well for the purpose of heating their homes was adopted Tuesday night by the Claypool Town Board.

The only requirement in digging a well for heating is that citizens must also dig a dry well to get rid of the excess water. There is no stipulation on the size of the wells, as residents have the option of putting in any size as long as it works satisfactorily.

As stated previously, the residents will only be allowed to put in wells for heating purposes. A connection must still be made with the town water system for purposes other than heating homes.

A penalty for violation of the ordinance will be a fine each day of not less than $10 nor more than $100, plus cost of attorney fees. There will be a publication of the ordinance and it will be enacted following publication.

Board members Robert Bruce, Jack Warren and Kenneth Hudson are also studying the possibility of drafting an unsafe housing ordinance. No action was taken on the matter Tuesday, as board members spent much of the evening preparing the 1983 budget.

The town trustees will hold a public hearing on the budget on Tuesday, Aug. 17, at a regular monthly meeting of the board. The board will then adopt the budget at a special session slated for Tuesday, Aug. 24. Both meetings are scheduled for 7:30 p.m. in the town barn.

The usual monthly meeting on Tuesday, Aug. 3, has been cancelled by the board.

Clerk-Treasurer Sheila Warren will be meeting with Bill Adang, field representative for the State Board of Tax Commissioners, to find out if Claypool's proposed 1983 budget will have to be revised before publication.

A COLONY CAGE FOR BACKYARD POULTRY FARMERS

The colony cage shown here, designed by MOTHER-reader Harlan Attfield, makes it possible for town or city dwellers to raise healthy and productive poultry in their back yards. The cage (a complete schematic is included in the free reprint mentioned at the end of this article) was built from packing crate boards (for the back, sides, removable partition, central wall supports, and nest-box frame) . . . five eucalyptus poles (two 60-inch-long posts for the front uprights, two 54-inches for the back, and an 8-foot roost pole . . . 50 feet of 1 X 3 lumber strips (frame) . . . 8 feet of heavy wire mesh, 3/4-inch square or 3/4-inch X 1-inch rectangular (floor) . . . 10 feet of 1/2-inch-square galvanized mesh, not the flimsy round type (doors and nest-box floor) . . . two raisin crates (nest boxes) . . . one sheet of galvanized iron, 3 feet by 8 feet (roof) and . . . 2-inch straight nails, 3/4-inch U-nails, flatheaded galvanized roofing nails, and hinges.

Here's how the "C" cage operates: Chicks are started in a left-hand compartment which is formed by placing a removable partition in the middle of the cage. They will need newspaper placed on the floor and topped with about 2 or 3 inches of wood shavings (or similar material). A cardboard box, with a 60-watt electric light bulb hanging over it, is placed in the rear of the compartment.

Then, for seven to eight weeks the chicks are confined to the left-hand section of the coop, provided with heat and fed mash and water from shallow troughs or pans placed on the litter near the door. After that the box can be taken out, the partition removed, and the youngsters given the run of the cage.

To provide a good food container for older birds, simply fit a trough feeder to the inside of the middle door. A gravity waterer is excellent for this type of coop.

The particular cage on which these plans are based was fitted with a roost pole. Such a pole isn't absolutely necessary, but if you decide to use one, it should be painted twice with crankcase oil that has been diluted half-and-half with kerosene. The two nest boxes, located on the right side of the cage, must be kept darkened with a fabric blind to encourage use by the hens.

One-half-inch-square mesh on the nest floor will give a bit under the occupant's weight, and thus prevent the egg from cracking when it's dropped. A slanting floor is incorporated in the nest box, which enables the freshly laid eggs to roll to an open air shelf where they can cool quickly and can be gathered whenever it's convenient.

As the hens' production declines, the partition can be replaced and preparations made for a new batch of chicks.

There are some problems you should watch for when using this system. However, they are easily prevented:

[1] In some cases the birds' droppings won't dry fast enough to avoid the breeding of flies. Manure should be removed weekly when such pests are troublesome.

[2] Since limited space inclines chickens to cannibalism, they should be debeaked (preferably before the onset of egg production). This operation is easily done on a young bird by removing the tip of the upper beak—just in front of the pad—with a sharp knife, scissors, or side cutters. To prevent bleeding and infection, cauterize the wound by placing a hot knife against the cut surface.

[3] The cage should be placed under shade to protect it from direct sunlight when temperatures are high. On windy or rainy days, burlap bags can be hung over the front of the coop.

For FREE additional information on the colony cage and on THE MOTHER EARTH NEWS, send your name and address and ask for Reprint No. 1011 "More Chicken Tips." Mail to Doing MORE . . . With LESS!, P.O. Akron Police June report Loose dogs reported - ordinance re-printed

There have been increasing complaints lately about dogs running loose in Akron. Pertinent portions of the Town Ordinance are printed below. Loose dogs will be collected and impounded by the county Animal Warden. If you care for your pets, keep them securely at home.

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN: ATTENTION DOG OWNERS:

Due to the increase in the amount of complaints, it is necessary to inform the public of the following Ordinances concerning dog violations.

1. INOCULATION:

A. Every owner or keeper of any dog within the limits of this town, shall have such dog (s) vaccinated by a registered veterinarian as to prevent Rabies at least once a year and not more than twelve months shall elapse between vaccinations.

2. NON-IMMUNIZED DOGS:

A. It shall be unlawful for any person to harbor any dog which is over the age of six (6) months and which dog is not immunized against Rabies. Any person who shall violate the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction there-of, shall be fined in any sum not exceeding Two Hundred (200) Dollars.

3. KEEPING OF ANIMALS:

A. The keeping of dogs, cats and other animals within the town shall be done in such manner as to be conducive to the health and safety of such animal and to safeguard the health, peace and decency of the public.

4. CRUEL AND INHUMANE TREATMENT:

A. It shall be unlawful to cruelly treat, in any way, any animal within the limits of this town. Any person who inhumanly beats, underfeeds, neglects or abandons any animal shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor.

5. DISTURBANCES:

A. It shall be unlawful to keep or harbor any animal or animals with-in town which disturbs the peace by loud noises or which shall be permitted to run through or across any cultivated gardens or fields.

6. RUNNING AT LARGE:

A. It shall be unlawful to permit any cattle, horses, swine, sheep, goats, poultry or other animals to run at large in the town. It is the duty of the town marshal to serve a written notice to the owner or keeper of such animal or animals and to cause them to be impounded if not properly controlled.

7. SANITARY COMPOUNDS REQUIRED:

A. No person shall cause or allow any stable, hutch, yard or other place where an animal is or may be kept within the town, to become unclean, unsanitary or unwholesome.

The above news release was submitted by the Akron Town Board and the Akron Police Department.

The neighborhood dogs were romping together one day when Scottie came along. "Heavens, Scottie, what's wrong with you?" asked the little Peke. "You look simply awful!" "I feel awful. I'm nervous, can't sleep, have no appetite." "You ought to see a good vet."

"Oh, I've seen them all, and they all say the same thing: 'Nothing wrong organically.'" "Maybe what you need is to see a good psychiatrist." "Oh, I couldn't—you see, I'm not allowed on couches!"

Laugh of the Week: A huge pile of statistics is available to show that business is getting better—especially for people who compile statistics.

The second tale concerns the poppa bear complaining: "Someone's been messing with my porridge." The second and third bears also complained: "Someone's been messing with my porridge." The mama bear replied: "Gripe, gripe, gripe—that's all you men-folk do around this house. The fact is I haven't even started to make the porridge."

Tenderfoot: "Why are hurricanes named after girls?" Meteorologist: "Because they're spinsters."

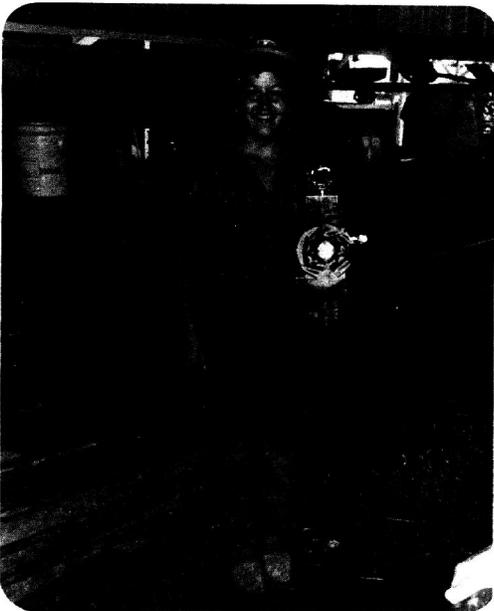

JOE STUTZ HAD PLANNED TO SPEND HIS VACATION WITH HIS PALS ON A QUIET FISHING TRIP... BUT WIFE PERSUADED HIM TO GO TOGETHER FOR A SECOND HONEYMOON

Decrease in budget shown at Claypool

The Claypool Town Board Tuesday night approved the 1983 budget for publication that is $4,293 less than that published for 1982.

The reason for the reduction is based upon last year's budget cut by the state board of tax commissioners which took the 1982 published budget of $55,305 back to $42,347. The 1983 approved budget is $51,012.

A major difference in the 1983 budget is that no federal revenue sharing funds will be spent. The money will be deposited this year and a proposed use hearing of the funds will be set in 1983 for the 1984 budget.

Last year's published budget showed $2,000 estimated for federal revenue sharing, $37,420 for general fund, $11,135 for motor vehicle highway and $4,750 for local road and street. Those figures were later cut back to $29,958 in general fund, $9,556 for motor vehicle highway, $833 for local road and streets and $2,000 for federal revenue sharing.

The 1983 budget shows $36,000 in general fund, $11,821 for motor vehicle highway and $3,191 for local road and streets.

The board will meet on Tuesday, Aug. 17, for a public hearing on the budget, with a meeting to adopt the budget on Tuesday, Aug. 24.

Too many youngsters think they should start out in the business world at the top.

RECIPE

By Sarah Anne Sheridan

This is a dish which is just right for a large crowd since it yields about three quarts. Whole toasted almonds and diced canned pineapple can be used to dress it up. You need only a bowl of rice and perhaps chow mein noodles for accompaniments.

Chop Suey

- 1/2 c peanut oil
- 2 c shredded cooked chicken or pork
- 1 jar bead molasses
- 2 cans bean sprouts
- 2 cans water chestnuts
- 2 cans bamboo shoots
- 2 cans sliced mushrooms
- 4 c diced celery
- 2 c onion, chopped
- soy sauce
- 4 T cornstarch

Cook celery and onions in the oil until soft. Drain all cans of vegetables except mushrooms then add all vegetables, chicken or pork, and soy sauce. Add enough chicken stock to cover. Mix together 1/2 to 3/4 jar bead molasses, 4 tablespoons cornstarch and a few drops of cold water. Mix until smooth then add to first mixture and stir. Let this simmer 1/2 hour.

JUNE FULLER

THE COUPON CLIPPER

When a package promotes an expired offer

By June Fuller
DEAR COUPON CLIPPER - When I recently went shopping, I found that all of the packages of my favorite detergent had a refund offer printed on the back. But the offer had expired at the end of last year.

I feel that it is very unfair for the stores to put out packages that have expired offers. Is there anything I can do about it? - Carol L. from Peoria, Ill.

DEAR CAROL - There are several things you can do when you find products on the supermarket shelves with expired coupons or refund forms.

First, you should inform the store manager. If he is considerate of his customers, he won't want to have items on the shelves that could mislead them.

He might decide to return the merchandise or to post a shelf sign informing customers that the offer on the package has expired.

Second, if you have to purchase one of these packages because it is the only one available or if you find the expired offers after you have made the purchase, you should write to the customer-relations department of the manufacturer at the address printed on the package.

In the letter, inform the company that you were disappointed in not being able to take advantage of its offer. The chances are that you will receive a good response that will be well worth the effort.

Here is a tip from Audrey Eberstein of Perry, N.Y.: "One of the best gifts I received for Christmas was a 40-drawer workshop organizer, the kind used to hold various nuts and bolts."

"It now holds all my small proofs of purchase, and it's so handy. No more scrounging through envelopes. No more small POPs lost in the bottom of big cardboard cartons. The drawers are easy to identify and can be rearranged to suit your needs.

"I hope that this idea will make refunding a little easier for other readers."

My Smart Shopping Award goes to Marilyn Westervelt of Rochester, Mich., who writes: "I received in the mail a free sample of Dry Idea deodorant along with a 15-cent coupon. I then purchased a package at K-Mart for $2.17. Since the store was doubling coupons, I got it for $1.87."

"That's when the fun started. I used the net-weight statement as one of four proofs required for a six-month free magazine subscription. I used the Universal Product Code from the same package for a Dry Idea $2 coupon offer."

"Next I used the ingredient statement along with other proofs for a $2.50 refund. The only thing I have left is the box tops!"

These readers and others whose money-saving experiences appear in this column receive a free copy of the refunding magazine, the National Supermarket Shopper.

Write to me in care of this newspaper.

Here are several refund forms to write for:

Nabisco and Nestle Free Half Gallon Milk Offer Form, P.O. Box NB-222, El Paso, Texas 79977. This offer expires Sept. 30, 1982.

Gen. Tel. offers new customer service

General Telephone Company of Indiana announced that its customers will be able to obtain phone service "without leaving the neighborhood" through its new Phone Mart Customer Service Booth which opened July 22, 1982 in the Farmers State Bank, at the intersection of Main and Broadway Streets in Mentone.

According to Bob Ditslear, division manager for General Telephone's North Central Division, "the Customer Service Booth is an expansion of the GTE Phone Mart Concept, which allows customers to select from a display of a wide variety of phone styles and colors and equipment available for home use. The booths act as a self-service showroom, telephone instrument exchange, pick-up and delivery point, all in one."

The display at the booth is supplemented with brochures and catalogs explaining equipment features and describing decorating ideas using modern telephone designs and colors.

After a selection is made, orders may be placed on the spot by picking up the handset of the communications panel in the booth and pushing a button which automatically connects customers to a customer service representative who will take the order.

Another benefit allows customers discontinuing service to return phones to the booth, fill out an instrument return card and avoid non-returned instrument charges.

"The costs of having to send an employee to the residence to pick up disconnected phones is continuously increasing and by picking up your own telephones, the customer and the company both will save," said Ditslear.

Another advantage for customers is the elimination of the need to meet a telephone service employee at a specific time at home, to return disconnected phones.

Ditslear said customers may save on the charges by simply unplugging their phones and returning them to the Customer Service Booth if their phones are equipped with jacks and plugs.

The Customer Service Booth will be available during regular banking hours. The Farmers State Bank will also accept payments of telephone bills for those who prefer to pay in person.

A year of planning and hard work for Henry Township 4-H members resulted in a week of rewards as they completed projects in all areas for exhibit at the Fulton County 4-H fair.

Chosen Duke

To begin the week Greg Lowe, a member of the Henry Hardy Farmers was chosen to reign as 1982 Duke.

Greg is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Lowe, Rt. 2, Rochester, and is a 10-year member of 4-H. He is active in many areas of 4-H; crops, crafts, consumer meats, beef, swine and photograph.

Greg was a round-up delegate and went to Washington, D.C., as the REMC delegate. He was chosen to attend State Fair Boys School and is an AIC delegate. He served as this year's president of the Fulton County 4-H Junior Leaders.

days, the pulp temperature of a cucumber will be 20° cooler than the temperature around the cucumber.

The most popular use for cucumbers is to pickle them. Satisfactory pickles result only when good quality ingredients are used and the proper procedures are followed. Correct proportions of vegetable, sugar, salt and vinegar are essential.

Pickling cucumbers produce top quality pickles. Most cucumbers grown in gardens today are slicing cucumbers, rather than pickling cucumbers.

Wax coated cucumbers should not be used for pickling as the wax coating interferes with the action of the brine or vinegar. Also, waxed cucumbers are usually slicing cucumbers instead of pickling cucumbers.

If you have had a problem with pickles turning soft, you may want to check some of the possible causes. Check first the kind of cucumber used. Pickling cucumbers produce a firm, crisp pickle; slicing cucumbers generally produce a softer pickle.

Cucumbers should be neither too mature or too large. Those that are yellowish in color are probably too mature and will produce soft pickles. Also, cucumbers picked more than 24 hours before the pickling process begins will probably give soft pickles.

Be sure to remove all blossom ends from cucumbers. If these are not completely removed, microbes on them can be responsible for introducing foreign enzymes that cause enzymatic softening of pickles.

Other causes of soft pickles include: too little salt or acid, cucumbers not covered with brine during fermentation; scum scattered throughout the brine during fermentation, rather than being removed; insufficient heat treatment to destroy spoilage organisms; seal that is not airtight; or moldy garlic.

For best looking pickles, use pure granulated salt. Un-iodized salt can be used, but the materials added to the salt to prevent caking may make the brine cloudy. Don't use iodized table salt; it may darken the pickles.

Use a high-grade cider or white distilled vinegar of 4% to 6% acidity. Cider vinegar, with its mellow acid taste, gives a nice blending of flavors but may darken white or light-colored fruits and vegetables. White distilled vinegar has a sharp, pungent, acetic-acid taste and is desirable when light color is important. Never dilute the vinegar unless the recipe specifies. If a less sour product is preferred, add sugar rather than decrease vinegar.

If using an old recipe, it may call for alum or lime. Neither are not needed to make pickles crisp and firm if good quality ingredients and up-to-date procedures are used. Alum is not recommended as it is not on the Food and Drug Administration GRAS (generally recognized as safe) list. If lime is used, it should be slaked or pickling lime.

Pickles truly add variety to spice to meals. They contain some nutritive value, little or no fat, and except for the sweet type, are low in calories. For high-quality pickles, use a reliable recipe, quality ingredients, and follow procedure exactly. For more information, contact the County Extension Office.

Improve Slides with Fill Flash

I'm not sure just how many people shoot color slide film. I don't think there are any up-to-date surveys on the subject, and if there were, I'm not sure I would believe them. What I do know is that many people who shoot slide film regularly end up throwing a good portion of their efforts right into the trash can. I'm talking about half the frames they shoot—or more.

Now, I find that bothersome for several reasons. First, people are missing a large number of presumably good shots. Second, they're wasting money on both film and processing. Third, they're sending otherwise perfectly good silver crystals up in smoke.

What's the problem with these slides and what can be done about it? I'm glad you asked.

First, you should realize that slide film (also called color transparency or color positive film) has much less exposure latitude than either color or black-and-white negative films. Practically speaking, most color slide films have an exposure latitude of around 1 1/2 f/stops. That means you can underexpose a scene by as much as 1 full f/stop or overexpose it by up to 1/2 f/stop and still get a reasonably decent photo. Anything outside that range, and you're asking for trouble.

On the other hand, many color negative films on the market today have an exposure latitude of from 2 - 3 f/stops. That means you can be a lot sloppier in your approach to metering and still get reasonably good results when shooting color negative film. Black-and-white negative film is even more forgiving.

But that doesn't explain why your slides are often washed out, faded looking, and dismal. After all, you take care to meter each and every shot. You're not making any exposure mistakes with your slide film, and still your waste rate is better than 50 percent. So how do we account for that?

Well, the truth of the matter is that, yes, you are making exposure errors. Even when your camera's meter says "right on" or when you let your camera's automatic exposure mode select the right shutter speed, aperture, or both. The reason is that those built-in behind-the-lens light meters aren't light meters at all. They don't meter light. They're light-sensitive photocells. All they do—regardless of how "sophisticated" they might be—is compare light against the average.

Now, the "average" reflectance in a "normal" scene is judged to be approximately 18 percent. That's the amount of light given off by a mid-tone gray reflecting surface. Of course, darker colored surfaces reflect less light, and lighter colored surfaces reflect more light. And that's where a meter can be fooled.

Let's assume you're shooting a lily-white brick wall on which is painted a dark brown face with beautiful eyes and mournful pouting lips. You want to capture that face, but you also hope to show the intricate stonework in the wall. You take an average meter reading, set your camera accordingly, and fire. The results? Probably disaster. The influence of the light from the white wall will tell you—or your automatic exposure camera—to underexpose the scene. That will probably lead to loss of details in the much darker face.

How can you be sure? Take two separate light meter readings. Move in close to the white wall and meter it (be careful not to cast a shadow on the area you're metering); then move in close to the dark face and meter it. If the difference between the two areas (highlight and shadow, or light and dark) is 1 1/2 f/stops or less, you can split the difference and set your lens aperture right between the two readings, then be secure in knowing you'll capture details in both areas. If the difference is greater than 1 1/2 f/stops, though, set up your camera for the highlight area (the wall) and use a light fill-flash to increase reflectance from the darker face. Flash bounced from a reflector will help, too, as will available light from a reflector.

Remember, whenever exposure values vary more than 1 1/2 f/stops from highlight to shadow areas and you're using limited-latitude slide film, you'll have to add light to the shadow area in order to get a satisfactory shot . . . or give up details in one place or the other.

Open Class exhibits at Kosc. County fair

As the 1982 Kosciusko County Fair quickly approaches, many people are making final preparations for their entries in the Women's Department open class. Open class participation is open to all Kosciusko County residents—men, women, and children. The departments for competition include agriculture, art and handicrafts, needlework, clothing, baking and candy, canning, and house and garden flowers.

Entries will be accepted on Monday, August 2, from 8 a.m. to 12 noon. The closing time for accepting entries has changed from last year. Those brought in after 12 noon will not be accepted. Judging will begin after 12 noon and the building will be closed to the public. The doors will open Monday night at 7 p.m. until 10 p.m. Hours during the remainder of the week will be 10 a.m.-10 p.m.

To help prepare your exhibit here are some helpful hints for each department.

Agriculture—select your exhibit based on uniformity of size, condition, appetizing appearance, proper handling, and free of insects. Categories for entry include: grain, hay, vegetables, root crops, potatoes, herbs and fruit.

Arts and Handicrafts—4-Hers are eligible to participate in this department. All entries must be completely finished and pictures framed and ready for hanging. There are categories for paintings, drawings, photography, all types of handicraft and models.

Needlework—all exhibits must be made during 1981 or 1982. Children entering hooked rugs should have them complete with binding, but the binding will not be judged. Quilts, afghans, knitting, crocheting, cross-stitch, embroidery, crewel, needlepoint, are just some of the needlework exhibited in this department.

Clothing—garments are not to bear any identification or names, otherwise, they will not be judged. A professional category is included for graduate home economists or those who earn $600 or more per year in clothing construction or alterations.

Baking and Candy—all exhibits must be on disposable plates; 6" plates when three of a kind are exhibited. All items must be whole when entered. No cream pies or whipped cream filling or frosting will be accepted as they are perishable. Pies should be baked in a 4" pie pan and recipes must accompany the diabetic baking entries.

Canning—all jars must be standard canning jars and must be sealed. All jams, jellies or preserves may be in any glass containers but must be properly sealed. They will be opened for tasting. No frozen foods will be accepted.

House and Garden Flowers—exhibitors must furnish their own containers and weight them. If the entry requires more than 1 bloom, the blooms should be of the same color but may be more than one stem. Flowers are judged on brown spots, insect damage, wilt, etc. No silk flowers or arrangements will be accepted.

Plan to participate in the Women's Department by making an entry in one or more of the departments. Remember, entries will be accepted August 2, 8 a.m. to 12 noon. And visit the building while attending the Kosciusko County Fair, August 2-7.

Aug. 12-15 Art Festival at Pletcher Village

Historic Amish Acres in Nappanee, Indiana will present the 20th Annual Pletcher Village Art Festival, Thursday through Sunday, August 12-15.

More than $3,000 in cash prizes will be awarded to the winning paintings and crafts from the competition big top tent. The entries will be from over two hundred and twenty five artists from across the midwest and beyond, who will offer their original works in the Art and Craft Marketplace.

Amid colorful awnings surrounding Amish Acres farm pond, potters will spin their wheels while silversmiths and weavers work to the gentle twang of dulcimers and banjos. Silhouette cutters, portrait artists, woodcarving and doll makers will ply their trade and sell their wares.

The four day artist's weekend is designed around the Amish heritage and folk art of the Nappanee area. Horse and buggy rides, guided tours and demonstrations provide an intriguing background for the art display and market.

Family style dinners in the air conditioned restaurant and spit roast pig and sausage sandwiches plus festive food from carts, wagons, and tents, as well as apple cider, sweet corn, funnel cakes, ice cream and preaching pies will give festival visitors all they want to eat and more.

From the sounds of the fiddle and guitar to the square dance caller plus Punch and Judy a stream of entertainment will fill the summer air during the four day festival.

Akron woman to sell "Blind Goods"

The Akron Women's Club will be selling some items on the street on Saturday, August 7th from 9 a.m. until noon. There is no profit in this for the Women's Club, it is one of the services they do for the less fortunate and people of this community.

The Akron Women's Club was founded more than 65 years ago by a small group of local dedicated ladies. Perhaps it is one of the oldest clubs in the community. They are members of Indiana Federated Clubs.

For many years they have sold "Blind Goods" for the Indiana Rehabilitation Service for the Blind, located in Indianapolis. This service center has been in existence for more than 60 years. At the present time they employ 50 people at West 30th St. in Indianapolis and approximately 25 to 30 home bound people. Nearly all of these people have vision problems.

Picnic at park

The L.T.L.-W.C.T.U. picnic was on Thursday noon at the Akron Park. The W.C.T.U. ladies furnished the food and the children were their guests. After the meal, there was a short meeting, with Janice Stubblefield giving the devotional lesson, and Gloria Bowen giving a temperance quiz.

The group enjoyed games and contests. There were 30 children and 14 women present.

Ceremony at Akron U.M. Church

The Rev. Frank Cramer of the Akron United Methodist Church, Akron, performed the double-ring ceremony uniting Pamela Zimmerman and Patrick Stiffler on June 26 at 7:30.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Zimmerman, Akron. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Dale Stiffler, Mentone.

Tiny pearls highlighted the Queen Anne neckline and empire waist of the bride's gown, fashioned of Chantilly lace and organza with camelot sleeves which had lace cuffs. Lace formed a redingote effect on the full skirt which extended into a chapel train outlined with organza and lace. A band of lace and pearls held the bride's blusher and lace-edged chapel veil.

Each of the bride's attendants wore a floor-length gown of hyacinth sheer crepe made with a tuxedo bodice over an embroidered camisole, petal sleeves and a pleated skirt. Debb Zimmerman, sister of the bride served as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Mari Stephen, Akron; Christa McKinney, Plymouth; Cheryl Howard, Clemson, S.C.; and Crystal McConkey, Rochester. Tonya Swygart, Fort Wayne was the junior bridesmaid.

Attending the groom as best man was his brother, Steve Stiffler. Groomsman were Scott Gray, Albion; Doug Roberts, Warsaw; Dean Reeves, Albion; and Todd Gray, Albion. The junior groomsman was Matthew Swygart of Fort Wayne.

Michelle Fall, Akron was the flowergirl and Travis Morton, Macy was the ring-bearer.

Lisa Howard, Warsaw, and Amy Kline, Rochester, passed out programs while David Cooksey, Akron, and Tara Rutherford, Akron, handed out rice bags.

The couple greeted 250 guests in the Talma Community Center. Colors of lavender and pink were carried out in the reception decorations. Those serving at the reception were Melanie Jones, Mentone; Joyce Fisher, Talma; Lisa Duzenberg, Akron; and Sarah Baker, Akron.

The new Mrs. Stiffler is a 1981 graduate of Tiptecanoe Valley High School and is employed by Dr. Larry Pampel, D.D.S. Mr. Stiffler is a 1976 graduate of Tiptecanoe Valley High School and a 1978 graduate of Vincennes University. He is co-owner of Stiffler Bros. Builders.

We're looking for sows, pigs and hogs that aren't doing as well as they should. Because we can help them all do better...with the Nutrena Shoat-40 MCM® System. Shoat-40 MCM is a non-medicated basic concentrate. You mix it with grain to make nourishing rations for all swine. Then you customize the ration for specific stages with handy Nutrena performance packs—like Sow RX Pack Medicated, Tasty Mix, Start-N-Go Pack Medicated and Top Hog Pack.

We help you get outstanding performance—and also save work and money by eliminating the need to buy, store and handle separate breeding, starting, growing and stress concentrates.

We want to earn your feed business.

TOP HOG PACK FOR

- FASTER GAINS IN ALL WEATHER
- LESS FEED PER POUND OF GAIN IN ALL WEATHER
- FEWER DAYS TO MARKET
- LESS TOTAL FEED NEEDED PER HOG
- FASTER HOG TURNOVER

Many hogs are finished in confinement units, and a real problem is to keep them growing all the way to market, especially during the hot summer months. When pigs were finished on eight square feet of floor space per head and comparative diets were tested from 60 to 200 pounds in body weight, the following results were noted:

	Average daily gain, lb.	Feed per 100 lb. gain	Feed per day
TOP HOG Pack program	1.67	341.85	4.6
Conventional program	1.22	361.73	3.9
Improvement with TOP HOG Pack program	+ .45	-19.88	+ .7
% Difference	+36.9%	-5.8%	+17.9%
