Indiana emergency fire hazard area

Due to statewide drought conditions causing critically dry grass, crop and brush fields, Governor Bob Orr on June 15, 1988, declared Indiana an emergency fire hazard area for the first time in the state's history. Indiana law states that if drought conditions existing in any area endanger the lives of the people, forests, fields, woodlands, livestock, structures, or other property, the governor may declare any areas of the state as emergency fire hazard areas.

More than 700 grass and brush fires were occurring daily in Indiana at the time the emergency hazard area was declared. State fire fighting officials explained that during an emergency fire hazard, uncontrolled burning requiring fire fighters' response is illegal.

Unlawful acts include recklessly throwing from any vehicle any matches, ashes or burning material; and recklessly burning any rubbish, leaves, slashings, brush piles, fence rows, fields or stumps. The acts are Class C misdemeanors. The emergency fire hazard area may be canceled by the governor when emergency conditions no longer exist.

To best serve Hoosiers with questions about Indiana's drought and its effects, various state agencies have opened special phone lines.

The Department of Commerce's Agriculture Division has a hotline to the state's agriculture ombudsman, Mark McDermitt. The number, 1-800-824-2476, is intended for use by farmers who have questions (continued to page 4)

Smith joins NEA talks

What will the schools of the future need to look like for America to compete in the emerging global economy? What can be done today to fashion the school need for tomorrow?

These are among the questions being considered by the 8,000 teachers college faculty, and education employees gathered in New Orleans for the annual meeting of the National Education Association on July 2-7.

Duane Smith, the representative for the Tippecanoe Valley Classroom Teacher Association, is among the delegates attending the meeting.

NEA leaders will release at the convention the results of a just-completed NEA/Gallup Poll that measures just how the public feels about education. The poll is the latest in a series of annual surveys taken to measure public opinion.

A new beginning...

A FRIENDSHIP
OF A LIFETIME

They say opposites attract. This would seem the case with my mother and her friend, Evelyn Parks. Evelyn grew up across the road from Mom and even though a few years younger, they were a twosome that lasted until Mom passed away. I've often wondered what makes one relationship last and others break down. Maybe it is best that opposites attract. I reflected back on Mom and Evelyn, here is what I came up with.

When my folks were able to furnish their first home, they managed to have a few new pieces of furniture. Evelyn, on the other hand, began her family right away and the new furniture had to wait. There wasn't a spark of jealousy. They both laughed talking about it, because, as Evelyn's family grew and she was finally able to afford nice furniture, my parents had become the parents of three children in three years and at 40 years of age were not only watching us kids but their pocketbook! The tables had turned and Mom and Dad's furniture was taking the beating this time and Evelyn had the new pieces. Still...no jealousy. If anything, they had lent support to one another during the tough times and were happy for each others good fortunes.

Mom and Evelyn spent hours and hours just talking when they were together. They consoled one another and laughed over the funny everyday mishaps but I never heard a bad word from either of them. There seemed to be an unspoken trust...unlimited respect between the two. Something that must be earned, not expected.

They managed to stand by each other through thick and thin, never overshadowing or holding one another back...encouraging instead. The encouragement was given genuinely, not because it made the other look good or because it was "the thing you should do". It must have meant a great deal to Mom and Evelyn to know it takes a big person to cheer another on when things aren't going the best for themselves. That in itself proved they were friends. They were friends and they returned the friendship many times over. "You have to be a friend to have a friend" seems to apply here.

Their friendship withstood the test of time. It wasn't just a time when they were polite to one another, but a long time when they helped each other because they wanted to, not because they were supposed to. When they stood by each other when they might have been the minority and the "going" was tough. I guess they could judge each other by the times they stood by one another, times when other people (fair weather friends) would have left. Both managed to give to each other never expecting anything...but always receiving their friendship returned by the other for many, many years.

I've heard that all a person needs is one good friend. I'll take one good friend over a dozen acquaintances any day! A couple friends have proven themselves over the course of years, and as the years roll by I wonder if we will become like Mom and Evelyn.

Thank God for friends...may you each have at least one.

The Akron festivities included rides and games for youngsters. This little like was not sure if the ride was as much fun as it looked after it began! (News Photo)

PICNIC IN THE PARK

Pa said we'd have a picnic
We'd go to the park.
Now, for us kids an' Pa
This truly was a lark.

'Cause Ma fried a chicken
An' baked both pie an' cake.
An' three kinds of salads
An' some lemonade did make.

We enjoyed the slides an' swings
An' Pa had a game of ball.
While Ma fixed the picnic dinner
She didn't rest at all.

Oh! We had a gorgeous time
We really had a lark.

'Cause Ma done all the work
When we picnicked in the park.

My deep appreciation to everyone who remembered me with cards, flowers, and visits while I was in the St. Joseph Hospital in South Bend. Also, a special thanks to the Rev. Will Lawson for his visits.

Remember when ice cream cones first made their appearance? When a customer for a cone arrived the proprietor of the cone shop did not pick one ready baked from a box. He stirred up a pitcher of batter not unlike waffle batter, poured it on an iron, not unlike a waffle iron, baked it a couple minutes, rolled the sheet of crisp wafer up into a cone, filled it with ice cream and sent his customer rejoicing on his way. Few vendors of cones baked them up ahead in those days but waited until a customer appeared. Think of such procedure today when a dozen or twenty cones are sold in the space of five minutes. The world moves faster today even in the ice cream cone business, than it did when all cones were made to measure and to order.

Drought concerns

about governmental assistance.

Purdue University is operating a drought hotline for persons seeking technical advice about crops and livestock. The number is 1-800-872-1920. The Department of Natural Resources is available to help people who have well problems, or who have questions concerning water availability. The number is 1-317-232-4174. The call is not toll free.

State officials report that the phones are being used and Hoosiers are getting prompt answers to their questions.

Department of Natural Resources properties are available for Hoosiers to enjoy throughout the summer season. Property visitors are encouraged to use good fire judgment due to the Indiana drought.

Property visitors are asked to light campfires only in designated campfire rings or pits. Because of the forest's leaf cover, most properties' forest floors have contained moisture delaying the extremely dry conditions which exist in open fields and brushy areas.

"Visitors may want to check with property personnel before building a campfire," said Jim Ridenour, DNR director. "DNR staff can offer tips on starting safe fires."

"To protect the state's natural resources and its property users, visitors are asked to use good judgment in building campfires and obeying property rules and regulations," Ridenour added.

Tips for water conservation

Homeowners can use the following tips compiled by the Indiana State Board of Health to conserve the state's water resources:

Kitchen and Laundry

1. Use automatic dishwashers only for full loads. Everytime a dishwasher is operated, about 25 gallons of water are used. Make each gallon count.

2. When washing dishes by hand, do not leave the water running for rinsing. If two sinks are used, fill one with soapy water and one with rinse water. If one sink is used, gather all the washed dishes in the dish rack and rinse them with an inexpensive spray device.

3. Do not let the faucet run while cleaning vegetables. The same purpose can be served by putting a stopper in the sink and filling the sink with clean water.

4. Keep a bottle of drinking water in the refrigerator. This ends the wasteful practice of running tap water to cool it for drinking. Storing water in the refrigerator also has the nice effect of removing any chlorine taste out of the water.

5. Use automatic washing machines only for full loads. Automatic washers use 30 to 35 gallons waster for a few garments.

6. Check faucets and pipes for leaks. Leaks waste water 24 hours a day, seven days a week and often can be repaired with a very inexpensive washer. Not only will repairing leaks conserve water, the effort may save homeowners money.

Bathroom

1. Check commodes for leaks. A leak in the toilet, that can neither be seen nor heard, may be wasting more than 100 gallons of water a day. To check for leaks, put a little food coloring in the toilet tank. If, without flushing, the coloring begins to appear in the bowl, the tank is leaking and should be repaired immediately.

2. Take shorter showers. Long, hot showers waste five to 10 gallons of water every unneeded minute. Limit showers to the time it takes to soap up, wash and rinse off.

3. Install water-saving shower heads or flow restrictors. Most shower heads put out five to 10 gallons of water a minute, while three gallons are actually enough for a refreshing, cleansing shower.

4. Take baths. A bath in a partially filled tub uses less water than all but the shortest showers.

5. Turn off the water after wetting toothbrushes. After wetting a toothbrush and filling a glass for rinsing, there is no need to keep water pouring down the drain.

6. Rinse razors in the sink. Before shaving, fill the bottom of the sink with a few inches of warm water.

This will rinse razor blades just as efficiently as running water, and far less wastefully.

In Fashion

An attractive three-piece outfit consists of a camisole top with a dropped-yoke skirt in a cool silk print. A single-button jacket with patch pockets completes this ensemble.

Denim is high fashion for elementary school children and now is a good time to take advantage of summer sales. The little miss will delight in her denim overalls and shirt or a stone-washed denim jumper.

Junior will be proud to wear a denim jacket like dad's with straight-leg jeans. He'll also like the new seam-front denim pants fitting snugly at the ankle.

KNOW THE WEATHER

The drought being felt in so many areas of the country could have an effect on the presidential election this year.

Discontent tends to hurt the "ins" and this year they are the Republicans. Hard times on the farm have added up to more than crop losses. There have been farm losses, abandoned farms, bankrupt farms and migration from farms.

The cost in human terms of this year's drought, following a severe drought in 1986 and poor crops in other recent years, adds up to a national disaster. There should be no shortage of grain, considering the huge storage supply the federal government has bought up to bolster prices in recent years.

But other crops could be less plentiful and more costly as a result of the dry spring and dry June. Also, many savings and loans and other lending institutions, just now emerging from difficult times, will be affected by the failure of so many farmers.

Neither Mike Dukakis nor George Bush is a farmer type, and how they address this problem, and what solutions they offer, will influence the outcome of the election.

Already the government spends enormous sums to hold prices up for farmers. But even that can't help when the nation's farmers don't get enough rain to grow their crops.

The drought, if it continues, could produce another dust bowl in the plains unless this cycle, which has been in progress for several years, is broken.

Forecasters offer only slim hopes.

Sunshine and Music
A laugh is just like sunshine
It freshens all the day,

It tips the peak of life with light and drives the clouds away.

The soul grows glad that hears it and feels its courage strong,

A laugh is just like sunshine
For cheering folks along.

A laugh is just like music
It lingers in the heart,
And where its melody is heard

The ills of life depart.
And happy thoughts come crowding

Its joyful notes to greet,
A laugh is just like music
For making living sweet.

The L.T.L. met last Friday night at the Akron Library basement with their leader, Gloria Bowen. During the session, Uriah Graham served as president. David Madeford served as secretary and Aaron Bailey was flag-bearer.

The leader gave devotions on the life of Abraham, and a film called "Smoking or Health". After the game session, refreshments were served by Alisha Conner, Jason Haines, and Michelle Bailey.

Criticism springs from two sources—intelligent disapproval and emotional reaction.

Our idea of a pleasant life is to have more income than expense, and little or no work to do.

Senior Issues

A recent report prepared by the U.S. Senate Special Committee on Aging in conjunction with the American Association of Retired Persons, the Federal Council on the Aging, and the U.S. Administration of Aging reveals some interesting information on the subject of marital status and living arrangements of older persons.

The Report indicates that marital status and living arrangements of persons 65 years or older vary tremendously by sex. Most men, for instance, spend their later years married and in family settings, whereas most older women spend their later years as widows outside of family settings.

The housing situation of older persons also varies significantly—with large differences by marital status and living arrangements. A surprising proportion of older persons bear the burden of high housing expenses in relation to income.

Inadequate housing and the lack of telephones are also problems for a small but significant number of older persons.

Two-thirds (67%) of older, noninstitutionalized people lived in a family setting in 1986. These statistics vary considerably by sex, and the differences grow larger with advancing age. For example nearly four out of every five men 75 years old or older lived with their spouses or other family members, compared to less than half (47%) of women in their age group.

Of the 89.5 million U.S. households in 1987, 19 million (21%) were headed by people 65 years old or older, according to the U.S. Bureau of Census. Older people are a higher percentage of householders than of the general population because their average household size is smaller.

Housing, while an asset for most older people, represents a serious burden for others. For older homeowners who do not have to budget for a mortgage or rental payments, or who can sell their homes at a profit, housing can be an asset. However, for many elderly persons who own older homes, the cost of utilities, real estate taxes, insurance, repair and maintenance can be prohibitive. For renters or owners with a mortgage, monthly payments can be a substantial burden.

Of the 18.2 million households headed by older persons in 1985, 75% were owner-occupied and 25% were rental units.

(If you have a question concerning problems facing the elderly, write to: Jean Merritt, Commissioner, Indiana Department of Human Services, P.O. Box 7083, Indianapolis, Indiana 46207-7083)

Dear Mrs. Merritt: My husband and I must make a decision about my mother's future, whether she will live with us or home into a retirement home. Have you any guidelines to help us make a decision?

ANSWER: Planning ahead is crucial. The following questions will help you consider various aspects of the situation before making a decision.

*What is my current relationship with my elderly parent?

*Can my parent and I discuss a variety of subjects without becoming embarrassed or angry?

*Who will have to give up what (for example, a bedroom) if my parent moves in with me?

*Would everyone have some privacy?

*Could we adjust to each other's way of life?

*Will my parent be dependent on me for a social life?

*Would I be "in control"?

*Could we work out a way to share expenses?

*Could we establish clear and fair "ground rules" regarding such matters as selecting TV programs, shopping and preparing meals?

*Could I avoid overprotecting my parent and vice versa?

*Could we relate to each other as adults? For specific advice on solving various problems, consult your local area Agency on Aging. They can tell you what services and facilities are available in your community.

Remember, you owe it to yourself to balance your needs and desires against those of others. If you have difficulty resolving conflict between your needs and those of your elderly parent, seek counseling through your religious adviser, a counselor, or a family services agency in your community.

ONE TOOTH CAN

Make your teeth as free of decay and your gums as healthy, but you have one tooth right in the front of your mouth that's unattractive. It may be chipped or discolored. Or maybe it's been twisted out of shape for some reason or is longer than it need be. Don't let it detract from your appearance. Ask your dentist what can be done about it.

A tooth that is longer than it need be, for instance, can look like a "fang" - it may even give you an "angry" look when you open your mouth. This tooth can be shortened and reshaped, and what a difference it will make in your smile! The same goes for a tooth that has been rotated or twisted out of shape. The problem may be that it doesn't blend symmetrically with your other teeth. Your dentist can solve this problem for you.

Chipped or discolored teeth can be unsightly, no matter where they happen to be in your mouth, but especially if they are up front where they show easily. Chips can be repaired, and discolored teeth can be bleached and colored to look natural again. Ask your dentist about it.

Dear Betty Crocker

Q. My sponge cake has a rubbery layer. What do you suggest to prevent that? Miss W.M.S., Lehighton, PA

A. If egg yolks and sugar are not beaten enough, the cake may be heavy and compact. Beat yolks until thick and lemon colored. Add sugar gradually and beat until well blended.

Q. How do you prepare a clay pot for use in cooking? V.B., Centralia, WA

A. Each time you use a clay pot, soak it in water for 10 minutes. Never use soapy water on pot unless it's a glazed pot. Let cleaned pot air dry and store so that air circulates around the bottom and top to prevent mold growth.

Q. Can an extract be substituted for grated orange or lemon peel? Mrs. B.E., Casper, WY

A. Yes, although orange and lemon rind add color and texture in addition to flavor. Add about 1/4 teaspoon of extract or to suit your taste.

Do you have a question? Write Dear Betty Crocker, Box 1113, Dept. Betty, Minneapolis, MN 55440

New laws in effect

The Governor's Task Force To Reduce Drunk Driving unanimously endorsed the passage of legislation effective July 1, 1988 regarding the purchase of alcoholic beverages by minors.

The Statute (I.C. 7-1-5-7-10, sec.4) provides for a class C misdemeanor and loss of driver's license for up to one year if a minor is caught in a package store, tavern or bar. The same penalty can also be imposed if a minor attempts to use a falsified driver's license/identification document, or attempts to purchase alcohol by using another person's driver's license/identification document at any drug store, grocery, or the above (I.C. 7-1-5-7-1, sec. 6).

Sanders, Superintendent of the Indiana State Excise Police, described the impact of the law change, "Forty percent of all underage drinking is done in automobiles. If there is one thing all minors value it is their driving privileges. We believe that this legislative change can serve as a strong deterrent to underage purchasing of alcoholic beverages and use of false documentation."

Alcoholic beverage retailers or dealers should contact their local enforcement agencies, prosecutor's office or excise post for guidelines regarding implementation of this statute.

Cooking Out?

Americans often cook outdoors, in the American tradition. The charcoal grill has in recent years enjoyed great popularity. And the best grills, at the best price, are American-made.

But there is much argument about how and when to cook steaks, or chops, etc. One of the most often asked questions is whether steaks and other meats should be salted and peppered before grilling.

The answer: salt meat after it's cooked. (Salting before grilling draws out natural juices, which end up in the fire.) And turn steaks only once if possible.

LEAD - DRINKING WATER AND YOU!
Lead in our environment is a public health issue about which we should all be concerned.

Lead is a soft metal which is now known to be harmful to human health if consumed or inhaled. Since lead accumulates in the body, its potential for harm depends upon the level of exposure from all sources.

There are three potential sources for lead to accumulate in the body. The major source is from food, and lead is also inhaled from the air. The other potential source of lead is from your drinking water.

To protect the public's health, public drinking water supplies are governed by the Safe Drinking Water Act under which the United States Environmental Protection Agency sets drinking water standards.

Although there is a high level of compliance with drinking water standards throughout the United States, there is still reason for some concern about certain contaminants which may get into public drinking water supplies, including lead. As your supplier of drinking water we have prepared this information piece to help educate you on this issue.

The United States Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) sets drinking water standards and has determined that lead is a health concern at certain levels of exposure. There is currently a standard of 0.050 parts per million (ppm). Based on new health information, EPA is likely to lower this standard significantly.

Part of the purpose of this notice is to inform you of the potential adverse health effects of lead. This is being done even though your water may not be in violation of the current standard.

EPA and others are concerned about lead in drinking water. Too much lead in the human body can cause serious damage to the brain, kidneys, nervous system, and red blood cells. The greatest risk, even with short-term exposure, is to young children and pregnant women.

Lead levels in your drinking water are likely to be highest:

- if your home or water system has lead pipes,
- if your home has copper pipes with lead solder, and
- if the home is less than five years old, or
- if you have soft or acidic water, or
- if water sits in the pipes for several hours.

Typically, if lead is present in the drinking water, it enters after the water leaves the local water treatment plant. The most likely source for lead containing water is corrosion, a reaction between the water and the lead pipes or the lead-based solder.

When water stands in the pipes of a residence for several hours without use, there is a potential for lead to leach, or dissolve, into the water if a lead source is present.

Soft water (water that makes soap suds easily) can be more corrosive and, therefore, has higher levels of dissolved lead. Some home water treatment devices may also make water more corrosive.

It was common practice in the United States through the early 1900s to use lead pipes for interior plumbing. Since the 1930s, copper pipe has been used for residential plumbing. Until 1986, however, lead-based solder was used widely to join copper pipes. Lead-free solder and lead-free materials are now required by federal law for use in new household plumbing and for plumbing repairs. To find out if the plumbing in a residence contains lead, try scratching the pipe with a key or screwdriver. Lead is a soft metal and is dull gray in color. If lead pipes are present they will scratch easily and will be shiny when scratched.

Dissolved lead cannot be seen in water. Testing by a state-approved laboratory is the only way to determine if drinking water has high levels of dissolved lead. Contact the local utility or health department for the name of an approved laboratory. The lab will provide the correct procedures to be followed for a water test. The U.S. EPA estimates that a test should cost somewhere between $20 and $75.

If the drinking water is determined to have high levels of dissolved lead, or if there is an abiding suspicion of lead contamination because of the presence of soft water, lead pipes, lead solder, and other lead-based plumbing materials, there are ways to minimize exposure.

One way is to "flush" each cold-water faucet in a home when water stands more than a few hours. Flushing cold water faucet means allowing the water to run until it gets as cold as it will get before each use. Normally this may take two or three minutes. Keep in mind that toilet and shower use or doing laundry with cold water will also move water through the plumbing system, and this will reduce the amount of time needed to flush the cold water faucets to five to 30 seconds.

Another way is one of avoidance: do not cook with or consume water from the hot water faucet. Hot water dissolves lead more quickly than cold water. Especially avoid using hot tap water for making baby formula. If hot water is needed for cooking or oral consumption, draw water from the cold water tap and heat it on the stove or in the microwave.

If plumbing repairs or other plumbing work is done, make certain that only lead-free solder and other lead-free materials are used. This is now a federal law. There are other actions which can be taken by household users to reduce the risk of lead in drinking water. For additional information, please contact the local utility, county or state health department, or the U.S. EPA. The U.S. EPA has a toll-free hotline dedicated to this subject: 1-800-424-7711 and has also prepared a booklet on this issue.

This information has been approved by the U.S. EPA and meets EPA's lead public notice requirements under Section 1417 of the Safe Drinking Water Act Amendments of 1986.

YOUR FAITH WILL HELP YOU ENJOY A SAFE AND HAPPY VACATION

For many of us, it's time to venture forth along the open road, the open sky or the open sea, depending on what our vacation plans have mapped out for us. Of course, wherever we go we will be able to appreciate the beauty of God's creation, even from the aerial vantage point of a jetliner. However, that is only one of the reasons for thinking about God at this time. While fun and adventure are undoubtedly uppermost on our minds, we also want to receive the divine protection that we need to follow us wherever we go and to see us safely home again. If your travels should take you near a House of Worship, stop in and thank God for this beautiful world and for watching over you while you are seeing it. Remember that God never takes a holiday from being on hand to help you, so be sure that your faith includes Him in your vacation plans, wherever you go on this earth.

Drought of '36 and '88 compared

Weekend showers helped the parched fields but it will take much more of the moisture to save area crops. The corn is at the critical stage right now. If rain is not received in the next few days, corn will not develop for the fall harvest. (News Photo)

People in the Akron-Mentone News area received varied amounts of precipitation early Sunday morning and later on during the day. Amounts reported to the News office ranged from 6/10 of an inch to just an inch of the much needed rain. The showers will help the dried fields but is not enough to replenish the depleted levels of moisture in the ground.

Temperatures ranging in the high 90's and the lower 100's brought activity to "must do" pace in the area last week. People were taking precautions in the extreme heat in the News area as well as across the state.

Several grass fires are being reported throughout the state. There were no reported fires due to fireworks in the area. According to local dealers of fireworks, people did not buy as large a quantity of the fireworks and they were more careful as to the type of they purchased. The governor's ban on burning is still in effect and will remain so until further notice.

The drought of 1988 brings back memories for many individuals of the drought of 1936. According to one lady, she could remember people sleeping in their yards and "living" on their porches. She also recalled cooking the family meals in the wood burning stove as compared to today's microwaves. Dee Nellans, Rochester, recalled shucking corn by hand in 1936. According to Nellans, there was not enough grain to cover the bottom of a flat bed wagon after a full day of work. Nellans believes this years drought could be more damaging to the crops than in 1936 because the dry weather set in earlier this year.

On July 9, 1936, it was reported in the local newspaper that an egg was cooked on the red-hot sidewalk with the glare of the sun for fuel. This reporter tried the experiment Saturday, but did not get a fried egg --just a mess to clean up. According to expert on hand, the editor's husband, the skillet should have been allowed to heat in the sun before the experiment began.

The hot weather remained in the area during the summer of 1936. In the July 16 issue that year it was suggested to the readers they go to Hell if the hot weather was bothering them. To Hell, Michigan, that is where Lake Michigan was keeping the temperature much more comfortable.

The Akron News reported on July 23, 1936 of several fires due to the dry parched grass. A grass fire was put out back of the Walgamuth cement block factory. A large grass fire burned on the Ralph Day farm southeast of town. Sparks from the railroad ignited the dry grass, and although it had been extinguished on the high ground the fire was reported going towards the muck soil and was still burning.

Sparks from the railroad also ignited grass in the fields back of Jack Morris' farm, Akron, which caused considerable damage.

One of the grass fire that began that week was still burning a week later according to the July 29, 1936, issue. A large forest land fire burnt over 1200 acres of national land north of Winamac. The majority of the land that burned was considered waste land at the time.

In August of 1936, Akron farmers commenced cutting corn stalks for fodder. The corn crop that year was believed to be the worst in 40 years. A big shortage of corn was expected since the only green corn left was in the low areas.

Homeowners and land owners were constantly on the lookout for grass fires during the drought of 1936. Many people who had planned trips canceled them to be near their belongings in case of fire.

As in 1988, people smoking cigarettes were urged to watch where they threw the stubs and were warned not to throw them along dry roadsides.

NOTICE
 Akron fire hydrants will not be flushed this month because of the effort to conserve water.

Valley receives grant for computer project

The Tippecanoe Valley School Corporation has been awarded a grant for $55,000 in state monies and was one of 12 Local Initiative Technology grants funded this past spring. This money together with $32,000 in local monies will fund the computer writing project. Proposals were received from over 100 school corporations. The funded project is entitled "Writing Through the Curriculum with Business."

The grant will be used to purchase much needed computers for classrooms at Akron, Burket and Mentone schools and to provide a writing laboratory at Tippecanoe Valley High School. All students in the corporation will have the opportunity to reap a benefit from the project by working to improve their writing skills while learning to operate a computer.

The purpose of this project is to improve the writing skills of students in grades one through twelve with the support of the local business community. High school students will be writing reports, themes, issue papers and research papers in the computer writing lab for a variety of classes like psychology, health, chemistry, English, and electronics. All technical or business related papers will be referred to local business for evaluation of their technical accuracy and correct deductive reasoning. After the papers are juried they will be submitted to the classroom teacher for letter grades based on proper assignment completion and writing mechanics. The finished paper will be cataloged and stored on disks housed in the media center for future reference by faculty or students.

The junior high students will be learning to use word processors, data bases and spreadsheets to assist local business or community groups in managing information. The project will be directed by individual classroom teachers. The finished projects or reports will be made available to local businesses. The students will be helping assist local businesses or community groups organize necessary information through the use of computers. Final reports or projects will be jointly (continued to page 12)

Counseling available to local farmers

Farmers National Company, is now offering free counseling as a public service to aid Indiana's drought stricken farmers. Professional ag consultants will provide information on a variety of agricultural concerns.

By phoning the Indianapolis office, farmers can receive valuable information on current marketing strategies, progress on relief from federal programs and additional management practices required in the weeks to come. These issues will become increasingly important as conditions continue to deteriorate. The phone number is 317-842-5600.

Blue Ribbon Winner

Lynn Utter Northrup rode "Mister Delight H", owned by Howard and Helen Utter of Akron, to capture the blue ribbon in the 1988 Spring Celebration Fun Show's "Owner-Amateur Lady Riders on Walking Gelding" class. The show consisted of 42 classes with horse owners and riders coming from throughout the nation. More than 500 horses competed before a crowd of nearly 9,000 spectators. Prizes and awards for the three-day show totaled nearly $50,000.

Letters to the Editor

Darrell King comes home; miracles still happen!

Dear Editor,
On June 13, 1988, my 29th wedding anniversary, at approximately 1:40 p.m. as I was coming home with a tractor and disc, I was hit by a car broadside. I was told that the car was estimated traveling at approximately 70 m.p.h. The investigation also showed that the man that hit me was drunk and had no driver's license. The accident left me with several problems, but at the start of this ordeal there was one miracle after another. When the local EMTs took me to Warsaw Hospital, my family was told that I had several cervical (neck) fractures and after I was transferred to Parkview Hospital in Ft. Wayne, Indiana, my family was told the same thing. My family was also told that I had a severed brachial artery. (The main artery under my left arm) It had clotted and I had not bled to death, which was a miracle. Further x-rays showed that I had no major internal injuries. I had 16 rib fractures (14 on the left side and 2 on the right). After emergency surgery that evening I was placed in ICU where I could get special care that I desperately needed.

Eight days passed and finally the physicians in charge decided that they should now check out the cervical area. Approximately one hour and forty minutes of scan and x-rays, the report came back and read as follows: "There are no visible fractures or signs of healing of fractures." Could two initial x-ray surveys be wrong? I don't think so.

As the Mentone EMS unit arrived back from Fort Wayne they were met with a different look in Mentone. They were told the Methodist church was open and people were there praying for me. That night the youth league prayed for me before the games started and before the week was over many church groups in surrounding towns and communities as well as Mentone had remembered my problems.

The accident also changed, or should I say molded the attitude of the community. The American Red Cross was in need of blood and since I had used several pints, a collection day was set up and with several of our friends in Mentone, the American Red Cross came to Mentone. The Red Cross personnel from Fort Wayne were amazed at the response of our community. I guess I should feel the same but I have always felt that our area had the most caring people anyone could ever be associated with.

I have been asked how I felt about the man who hit me. I can only say that I refuse to live with any hate or feelings against him. Yes I will do everything I can to keep him and others like him off the road as maybe others will not be as fortunate as I have been.

I know this incident has been very hard on my wife and family as the stress of my injuries and the stress of business has been extreme.

It would be very hard to thank people by name as I know I could never get a complete list and would probably miss someone special. The best way, I guess, is to say "a Big Thank You" to all who did something, whether by prayer, cards, flowers, food, blood, caring, helping with the phone system, or just anything. You are the greatest people anyone could ask for.

I have no doubt about miracles and if anyone reading this does, you have a big problem.

With Love,
Darrell H. King

Thank you to the Mentone and Burket fire departments for their quick response and fantastic work when our wheat field caught fire on July 4. The men on these crews prevented a disaster in our area.

A special thank you to Loren Cumberland for calling the fire departments.

Another thank you is extended to Fred McSherry and Mike Nelson for completing the crop planting while Garwin was hospitalized.

It is great to live in this community where neighbors and friends are always there to help when the need arises.

Garwin and Peg Eaton

My deep appreciation to everyone who remembered me with cards, flowers, and visits while I was in the St. Joseph Hospital in South Bend.

Also, a special thanks to the Rev. Will Lawson for his visits.

Herschel Linn

I want to thank Brother Malbone, Marian Hunter, and Edith Harper for being with my family during surgery. Also thanks to the church for the lovely planter and to the Homebuilders Class for the yellow mums. Also, thank you to my friends for their flowers, cards, and prayers. I still need your prayers.

May Gold Bless You All,
Dovie Weida

IT HAPPENED IN AKRON
TAKEN FROM THE AKRON NEWS
JULY 14, 1938
50 YEARS AGO

Two severe electrical storms in as many nights have visited this part of the state, and although the display was dazzling, little damage has been reported. A few trees were struck by the lightning and the wind has done some damage to crops, but the biggest damage came from the heavy rains of a few weeks ago.

Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Fenimore are the parents of an eight pound daughter, named Marilyn Jo, born Friday, July 8. Mrs. Fenimore is the former Jeanette Barnes.

Mr. and Mrs. Byron Thompson are the parents of a son born Saturday morning, July 9th. Mrs. Thompson is the former Mildred Hartzler of Gilead.

The Akron Motor company closed its doors to business Thursday night. Claude Burrows, local proprietor, is working for a finance company at Peru, and Ray Middleton, salesman, is working for the Louderback auto sales people from Rochester.

A copy of the Akron News, published on August 28, 1903, by S.N. Shelsier was found at the Masonic Hall recently when they looked under the carpet for evidence to determine how old their rug was. The market thirty-five years ago read: Lard-11 cents; Hens-8 cents; Oats-30 cents; Corn-50 cents; Eggs-15 cents; Butter-12 cents; Potatoes-50 cents; Flour-$2.00 cwt.; Hogs-$5.25; Wheat-75 cents. Advertisements were carried by Miller and Zartman, who gave away hot coffee and warm biscuits every day between August 31 and September 5 to demonstrate the new Malleable kitchen range; S.A. Strong & Co., who advertised dry goods, salt fish, pickled pork, bay fish, trout, mackerel, bacon (16 cents per lb.) and McCall patterns; E.L. Scott, druggist and optician; W.K. Stevenson, Blue Front Shoe store; Dan Leininger, advertising dry goods, and walking skirts, ranging from $4.50 to $6.00; W.C. Hosman, druggist; and Drs. Hosman, Carpenter, and Vance. A few of the personal items are reprinted here to remind us of events long past. Others will be printed next week under a heading: "This was news, thirty-five years ago."

A new beginning...

By: J.D. Moore

THE NEIGHBORHOOD CAMP OUT

One afternoon about a year ago, Collin and his friend, Jamie made plans for a camp out in our back yard. With the arrival of a new tent, the excitement of outdoor living had gotten to both the boys.

Early that evening, C.J. and Jamie transported the tent from Jamie's house to our back yard. The location was chosen for the tent and it was expertly pitched in the far right-hand corner near the field. Doug and I watched in amazement as the tent was erected without difficulty and soon saw two proud boys looking at their accomplishment.

After an array of snacks were stocked in the tent, and sleeping bags were carried in, the moment had arrived. Out they went.

While an acre doesn't seem terribly big, it seemed huge to me when the boys were alone at the far end of it. Doug and I watched TV and would, from time to time, glance toward the tent. However, for some unexplained reason, the tent seemed to be moving closer to the house. I hadn't mentioned this fact until the second time I glanced outside. Doug took note of the location of the tent and explained that when the sun sets, objects take on a new look. Accepting this explanation, we returned to our television program.

With bedtime approaching, Doug and I glanced once more toward the tent... a tent that had gotten considerably closer to the house! At this point, it was in the middle of the yard. We left the patio door unlocked... just in case. I might add that by midnight the tent had mysteriously transported itself within two feet of the back steps! As for the boys "roughing it", they roughed it on the floor in our family room watching TV! The great camp out was over.

One year later, the boys camped out again. This time, they spent the entire night outside and managed to stake the tent down so it wasn't at the back steps by morning. Bravery can be used to describe these boys. The true test came when, in the wee hours of the morning, a noise was heard outside the tent. Jamie asked, "Collin, can a dog break a twig?" "I hope so," was the answer. The investigation was in full swing as Jamie crawled on hands and knees outside to find the noisemaker. As Jamie carefully made his way around the tent something wet and soft touched his face making his heart stop and giving him goose bumps twice the normal size. After a spine tingling scream escaped the lips of the brave camper, he returned to the tent. "It was the dog," he told Collin, "his nose touched my face!" Sherlock Holmes and Watson had, once again, laid another case to rest!

Living in a small town has its advantages. Where else can people jog down country roads without worry, and kids bike without fear of muggers? Where else could kids camp in the back yard without frightened parents? True, there aren't many amusement parks nearby, but is it really so bad that kids have to make their own fun? With the help of adults, kids can understand how interesting a woods can be to walk through, how much fun a back yard can hold, and learn that fun is made, not bought. In the process, our kids are making fun... not trouble... and without knowing it, making the most cherished thing of all... memories.

New at the library

New books available at the Akron Public Library are:

Waldingfield by Janine French. The estate was beautiful, the heir was handsome, and Liz found both distracting her from her personal goals. This is a new Starlight Romance.

The Black Pearl by Marjorie McEvoy. The sultry country of Tunisia has many exotic charms: the call of the muezzin, the lure of ancient Carthage. But there lies a danger that runs deeper than the disappointment of a severed engagement for Lynne Redesdane, the heroine of this gripping romance.

The King of Children by Betty Lifton. Janusz Korczak was one of the world's first advocates of children's rights.

Entrepreneurs in Hardwood by Daniel Lee Clark. An interesting history of the hardwood industry and early mills and sawmills. The book has been donated by the Pike Lumber Company.

To Be the Best by Barbara Bradford. The story with the author's first book, "A Woman of Substance", continued with "Hold the Dream", and culminates in her most thrilling novel yet, "To Be the Best".

Zoya by Danielle Steele. The story of a century, from the revolution in Russia, through the sixties and seventies in America. From St. Petersburg to Paris to New York, in the eighties. Zoya is the story of our time as only this author could tell it.

Green City in the Sun by Barbara Wood. A magnificent saga of two proud and powerful families, one British, one African, and their battle over Kenya's destiny in the twentieth century.

At Public Service Indiana, we believe in the power of ideas to enhance the quality of life in Indiana. Nowhere is this more important than safety. And by keeping one simple, but important, idea in mind, you can protect yourself and your family from serious injury or death. The idea—stay away from power lines.

Power lines are not insulated like home appliance cords, and they carry many thousands of volts of electricity that can injure or kill on contact.

Put this Electric Idea to work for you and your family.

Paddles replace flags

The Indiana Department of Highways urges motorists to heed the new traffic control paddles used in maintenance work areas. The two-sided, octagonal paddle displays 6-inch letters alerting motorists to SLOW on one side and to STOP on the other side.

The paddle replaces the red flag previously used by workers to control traffic in maintenance work zones. However, the red flag may still be used in conjunction with the new sign paddles.

The paddles are designed to be more effective in gaining motorists' attention and are part of a nationwide effort to help motorists better understand what the flagman is trying to tell them.

In God We Trust

People grow old only by deserting their ideals. Years may wrinkle the skin, but to give up interest wrinkles the soul. You are as young as your faith, as old as your doubt; as young as your self-confidence, as old as your fear; as young as your hope, and as old as your despair.

Senior Citizens, come join us for a well balanced meal and fellowship. For your meal reservation, please call 893-7204 the day before you plan to join us between the hours of 9:00 a.m. and 12:30 p.m. Thank you.

The menu for the week of July 18 through July 22 is:

Monday - Turkey a la King, 3 bean salad, Harvard beets, biscuit, spice cake, and milk or coffee.

Tuesday - Ham 'n beans, tomato juice, cornbread, spinach, apple cobbler, and milk or coffee.

Wednesday - Swiss steak, whipped potatoes, green beans, white bread, pears, and milk or coffee.

Thursday - Chop suey or chow mein, peas, applesauce, rice or noodles, and milk or coffee.

Friday - BBQ sandwich on bun, vegetable soup, peaches, crackers, angel food cake, and milk or coffee.

In Fashion

Designers of men's wear have revealed some changes for fall and winter. Pants will feature pleats which give a wider leg for comfort.

For casual after-six wear men will be seen wearing polo shirts with single or double breasted blazers. The no-tie shirt is another comfort feature.

The trend for busy executives is wider, padded shoulders, boxy and undarted coats featuring one-button closures.

The Reason

A young woman took a job as a governess, then suddenly left it.

Asked why she resigned, she said: "Had to. Backward child, forward father."

Postal inspectors warn against chain letters

"You have just received the information that can give you financial freedom for the rest of your life. With practically no risk, and just a little bit of effort, you can have more money in the next few months than you could have ever imagined!" So says a paragraph from a letter being circulated over the name of Edward L. Green. The information is that you should order a report at $5.00 each from the four names on the attachment, drop the number four name from the list, move names one through three down one place, and put your own name in the number one position. You should then reproduce the letter and mail out 200 copies.

Despite a disclaimer in the letter, the above scheme constitutes a violation of Postal Fraud and Lottery laws. It is what is commonly known as a chain letter. According to Indianapolis Postal Inspector in Charge J. J. Skidmore, people who receive such a letter should not waste their money as promised is mathematically impossible. The progress of a chain letter is so rapid that the number of participants who continue the chain is soon exhausted. The scheme soon requires more participants than there are people in the United States. Later investors receive no payment or prize; instead, they become losers.

People who receive chain letters are under no obligation to participate. To do so may be a violation of federal and state laws. Turn the chain letter in to your local post office and the Postmaster will send the chain letter to the Postal Inspection Service for appropriate investigation.

EDITOR'S NOTE: The poem below is dedicated to Blaine Hartzler, better known as Brian in last weeks paper. The poem was taken from the 1968 Akron News.

The typographic error is a slippery thing and sly;
You can hunt until you're dizzy, but somehow it gets by.
Till the forms are off the press it's strange how still it keeps.
It shrinks into a corner and never stirs or peeps.
The typographic error is too small for human eyes,
Till the ink is on the paper, when it grows to mountain size.
The boss, he stares with horror, then tears his hair and groans;
The sad sack who okayed the proofs just drops his head and moans.
For all the other printing may be clean as clean can be,
But that typographic error is the O-N-L-Y thing you see!

Host families sought for international high school students

Host families are being sought for high school students from Sweden, Norway, Denmark, Finland, Holland, Belgium, Austria, Switzerland, West Germany, Spain, France, Italy, Ecuador, Japan, and Australia for the school year 1988-1989 in a program sponsored by the American Intercultural Student Exchange (AISE).

The students, age 15 through 17, will arrive in the United States in August 1988, attend a local high school, and return to their home countries in June 1989. The students, all fluent in English, have been screened by their school representatives in their home countries, have spending money and medical insurance. Host families may deduct $50.00 per month for income tax purposes.

2. AISE is also interviewing American high school students age 15 through 17 who would like to spend a high school year or semester in Australia.

Families interested in either program should contact the State Coordinator named above or telephone TOLL FREE: 1-800-SIBLING.

GOD'S LOVE IS OUR SOURCE OF COMFORT WHEN SORROW DESCENDS

It could have happened to anyone, and it did happen to a well-known family in a small town. Because of a tragic but unforeseeable accident, a little child was suddenly taken out of the world he had just recently entered. That the hearts of the entire town went out to the family was evident from the attendance at the funeral, which included many people who had never laid eyes on the little boy. However, it was the power of faith that did most to sustain the members of the family in this dark hour. They did not have to wait until tragedy occurred to discover the comfort of God's love, because they were already well aware of it. Sooner or later, sorrow must descend on every household. Do not wait for it to happen, but go to your House of Worship and learn that the healing power of God's presence will always be there, whenever you need it. There is no greater source of comfort to be found anywhere on earth.

MICROWAVE TIPS

By Linda Attaway

The microwave oven can aid in everyday preparation of fruits such as peeling and juicing. The amount of juice from fresh citrus fruit can be increased by microwaving on high for 25 to 35 seconds before cutting and squeezing.

Peeling tomatoes, peaches, apricots and nectarines is made easy by placing four cups of water in a large bowl, cover with plastic or a glass lid and heat 8 to 11 minutes or until boiling.

Place three of the fruits in the water and let stand for 1 to 1 1/2 minutes. Remove the fruit from the water and the skin will come off easily. Do only three pieces of fruit at a time.

Mentone fine dropped

The town of Mentone will not have to pay the $2,000 fine levied against the town by the state in connection with the new waste treatment project. Mark Harrison, senior project engineer for Bonar Associates, of Fort Wayne, reported the information to the town board at the July meeting in Mentone. Harrison also told the town now meets the requirements of the state thus lifting the fine. According to Harrison, the final specifications for the waste treatment plant are in the hands of the State Environmental Protection Agency.

The Mentone Board was pleased to hear Harrison report that the overall project cost is nearly $30,000 under the original speculated expenditure.

Although only one applicant out of 60 has received a grant, Harrison encouraged the board to be positive because Mentone seems to be in a good position to be awarded the grant monies.

Board members will be personally calling residents who have not signed the waivers for the easements. Most residents have already signed the easements, but there are others who must be contacted. Town Attorney, Lee Bazini, reminded the board that every resident must be told of their legal rights before signing the waiver for an easement for the sewage system.

Seeding of all easements will take place after the installation of the sewage system.

Concern about the dirty conditions of the streets was discussed by the board. According to town board president, Miriam Boardman, she has received several comments about the conditions of the streets. The board did agree with the concerns voiced, however, there is no funds available for this type of work.

The board will meet again on August 1 at 7 p.m.

TV sets fees for 88-89 school year; hears from Adult Viking Club, Inc.

The Tippecanoe Valley School Board set school lunch prices, textbook rental fees, and federal grant applications for the upcoming school year at the July 11 board meeting.

Meals will cost the same as last year. Students will pay 85 cents in the elementary grades, 90 cents will the cost for high school students, and adults will be paying $1.50. The reduced lunch price will be 40 cents.

There will be no more than a $5.00 increase in any grade level for textbook rental according to Superintendent Baxter Paige. In the elementary levels, second and third grades are the most expensive at $63 and $60 respectively.

Other elementary and junior high prices are kindergarten, $25; first, $55; fourth, $45; fifth, $47; sixth, $46; seventh, $47; and eighth, $41.

High school principal, Dr. John Hill, reported high school rentals will vary with the combination of courses selected. Hill also reported that 70 out of 121 courses reported an increase in book rental fees with three classes having a decrease. The majority of rental fees for high school books is under $10, but workbook and materials fees can accumulate to as much as $112 for some classes.

The board has also decided to take decisive measures to crack down on parents not paying the textbook rental fees. Families with outstanding debts will be taken to small claims court if the bills are not paid.

Brett Boggs and John Waymire will be the corporation's representatives in court for the cases.

Low Goodwin was at the July 11 board meeting to present a first draft of the Adult Viking Club, Inc.'s by-laws. Interested parents have joined together to form an all-sports booster club for the school corporation.

The goal of the club, according to Goodwin, will be to maintain good sportsmanship and to recognize and support all athletes in the school corporation. He stated the desire of the group was to include all 12 sports, boys, and girls, and not just any one sport.

A football booster club already exist in the Valley community. Representing the newly organized club, Goodwin stated they way things are set up now, sports other than football have a difficult time getting community funding. The Adult Viking Club, Inc. members believe parents could help all students by sponsoring scholarships, helping with funding for low-income families and generally supporting all the teams.

A merger of the two booster clubs was suggested by Superintendent Baxter Paige. He warned that friction between two separate clubs could develop because of community financial support for one booster group over the other.

During the meeting the board approved two federal grant applications. One application was in reference to the special reading program. The board approved the application for $106,734.53. A second grant application for library materials, computer needs, testing equipment, films, tapes and other instructional materials amounting to $17,111 was also approved.

In other business: Fred McShery was re-elected president; Joe Crill as vice-president. Regular monthly meetings will be at 7:30 p.m. on the second Monday of each month in the Administration Office.

A GED was signed for Michael Richard Williams.

Deborah Whistler was hired as home economics teacher at Akron. With eight years teaching experience, Mrs. Whistler taught last year at Whitko.

The resignation of Kathy Prater was approved.

The August 8 meeting was moved to August 15 in the administration building and will begin at 7:30 p.m.

Bridging the gap through friends

Stephanie Boisseau of Paris, France, is getting a first-hand experience of "down on the farm" living. Stephanie is visiting in the Lloyd Weaver home, north of Athens, during the month of July.

Through mutual friends, the Weavers learned that Stephanie Boisseau would like to visit an American family. This is her second trip to America. Although visiting New York was fun and educational, Stephanie was with a group of French students and did not have the opportunity to learn what American life was really like.

"Everyone is so nice and warm here (in America)", commented Stephanie. Having studied the English language for five years, Stephanie tries very hard to communicate with her new American friends. And, she is very good with the language.

The Weavers are providing a good example of an American farm family. Danelle Weaver and Stephanie are becoming very good friends as they are both teen age girls with many of the same interests.

According to Stephanie, teenagers in France and American share the same likes and dislikes. French teens listen to American rock music just as American teens do. "We sing along, not knowing what the words mean, but we (continued to page 5)

Danelle Weaver and Stephanie Boisseau have become very good friends during Stephanie's visit to America. Stephanie will be returning to Paris, France on August 8 but their friendship will remain. (News Photo)

C.B. Club organizes project

Dear Editor,

Earlier this year a new C.B. radio club was formed in and around Fulton County. Some members of the former REACT team and people from Miami and Cass counties formed what is now known as the Central Indiana Monitors, Inc. The new club would welcome prospective members from the above counties as well as Wabash, Marshall, or Kosciusko counties. Our first project is a Benefit Soup Supper on July 30 to help someone in our community. We would like to invite people in and around our community to come out and help us in helping a neighbor to all of us. There will be soup, sandwiches, pie, cake, milk, pop, and free coffee. Also, there will be door prizes, grand prizes, games, money hats, raffles, and auctions.

More information is forthcoming. Come out to the fairgrounds on July 30. Enjoy yourself and help us that we might help someone else.

A new beginning...

ATTEND YOUR CLASS REUNION... DARE YOU!

July has become the month for class reunions. Conveniently so. Those classmates still living in the area manage to visit the 4th of July parade or make the rounds of the activities during the afternoon. Those who have long since moved away from Akron, pick the 4th as a time to visit family and friends. This makes the 4th the ideal reunion time for Akron classes of yesteryear.

Recently, the class of '68 arranged a reunion for their 20th anniversary. Not being a person who attends family reunions, I couldn't see the importance of attending a class reunion either. However, be it curiosity or an acute case of nostalgia, I made the reservations to attend this year.

I'm not sure what I expected, but I made the remark to several people that I was attending while I was still able to recognize the kids I went to school with. Maybe that was the case, I thought they would change.

Wrong. Let me take this opportunity to say that of the members who attended, they not only looked more distinguished and successful than I had anticipated but looked almost the same. Even our class sponsor looked as if he had just stepped from the chemistry lab into the party. What a delight to find the women of our class successful, thoughtful and polite as well as the men who have turned out to be responsible, caring and successful and all a joy to be with. If there had been a dread at the thought of spending an evening with any of these people, it was unfounded. These people were the ones I literally grew up with spending five days a week, nine months a year with. We knew each other like brothers and sisters...like a family in a way. And, just as in a family, a bond developed.

Why do people hesitate when it comes to reunions? I'm sure the reasons vary, but now that I have made the plunge and actually attended ours, I can't say the reasons for staying away were important enough.

After the handshakes, hugs, reminiscing and well wishes were over and the evening had come to an end, it was decided the Class of '68 had reason to be proud of themselves and what they have accomplished over the past 20 years.

When the next class reunion rolls around, I'll be the first to return my reservation and look forward to reacquainting myself with my classmates. Won't you consider doing the same? You, too, can relive memories from the past, be reminded of nicknames and the "good ole days" as we did. It would have been a terrible loss to have deprived myself of such an enjoyable evening. Before you disregard your invitation, remember, you have nothing to lose. You can always leave if you don't like it...but then again...you may have the best time you've had in years.

Sincerely, Chubs

Back in the good old days when hemp was a farm crop instead of the source of marijuana, it was grown, harvested and sold. One of the earliest hemp farms was located on the Stauffer farm near Rock Lake. The hemp grew to an average height of 10-12 feet and was harvested with horsedrawn machinery and sold to be made into rope - not pot. Quite a switch from the concentrated war being declared on the hemp (marijuana) found growing wild in the northern part of Kosciusko county. All hemp found growing wild is to be destroyed by order of the sheriff's department.

Implementing filter strips through the CRP

The addition of filter strips to the Conservation Reserve Program is giving landowners another opportunity to enroll land in the CRP. The filter strip option has contributed to the over 25.5 million acres now enrolled in CRP contracts nationwide.

The purpose behind the program, established in the Conservation Title of the 1985 Food Security Act, is to assist owners and operators of highly erodible cropland in conserving and improving the soil and water resources of their farms and ranches.

The goal is to have 40-50 million acres in the 10 year program by 1990.

Beginning with the sixth sign-up, which occurred last February, and continuing at least through the next sign-up period of July 18 through August 5, landowners interested in enrolling in the CRP and improving water quality have a new option. This option allows the implementation of filter strips on land not previously eligible for CRP.

Cropland that lies along bodies of water such as ditches, streams, rivers and wetlands can be bid into CRP and planted as vegetative filter strips to trap sediment and other pollutants found in surface run-off. The strips must be from 66-99 feet in width and vegetated. This differs from the regular CRP requirements where at least two-thirds of the field being bid into the program must be deemed highly erodible.

In the Great Lakes area where phosphorus loading is a very beneficial. Implementation of filter strips will be especially valuable for reducing phosphorus loading to Lake Erie.

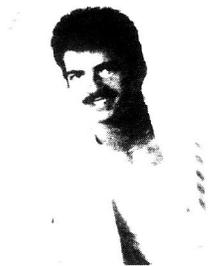

Some states have farmers taking advantage of the filter strip option. Other states haven't had much land bid into the filter strip alternative. Several states indicated that they expect filter strip implementation within CRP to pick up with the seventh sign-up now that land owners have had time to study the option.

The place to turn for information about planting filter strips in the CRP is the local Agricultural Recultural Stabilization and Conservation Service.

In Fashion

"There's something about a long, billowy skirt that has a cooling look. Add a loose skirt, cinched with a wide belt at the waist and a wide-brimmed hat for that touch of sophistication.

High heel shoes are best for balancing the width of the new pants with skirt-wide legs. For evening, especially when wearing wide-legged chiffon pants, sling-back pumps are best.

Continue using the versatile scarf to add color and variety to summer costumes.

When asked what the French people thought of our involvement in the Persian Gulf, Stephanie did not know. As with American teens, the French teens do not seem to be aware of the world tensions that exist.

The 17-year-old brown haired, brown eyed would fit in to this community without any problems. She enjoys tennis and volleyball. She has studied ballet and enjoys classical music.

Drive-up fast food restaurants and drive-up banks are new to Stephanie. "We have a McDonald's and a Burger King, but you do not get the food out of a window", said Stephanie. She also says the Americans drive too slow. The average speed in France on an interstate would be 90 m.p.h.

Tennis shoes are new to Stephanie. She has noticed the American people dress more casual than the French people. "All Americans wear shorts and eat hamburgers", said Stephanie. "We (French teens) dress up more."

The Weavers started Stephanies visit with a traditional 4th of July celebration. Attending the parade and festivities in Akron was a new experience for Stephanie although she compared the holiday to the French July 14 celebration of Bastille Day. That is the French Independence Day which also is celebrated with a parade and climaxed with fireworks. "If I were home, I would probably be vacationing in southern France."

Many activities have been planned for Stephanie while she is visiting. The Tippecanoe French Club is planning a get-together so that Stephanie can learn more about American teens and also to give the TV students the opportunity to learn more about French teens. Trips to the museums in Chicago and Indianapolis along with a visit to the zoo are on the Weavers itinerary. And what would a trip to America be without a county fair! Stephanie is visiting the Fulton County Fair this week to learn more of our country living traditions.

Some of the new experiences for Stephanie have been driving a tractor and bowling. Norma Weaver reassured Stephanie that having the bowling ball cross lanes is not really all bad!

Visiting Tippecanoe Valley High School was a learning experience for Stephanie. "We do not have lockers in our schools; you must carry your personal belongings all day. We do not have a gym or athletic department", explained Stephanie. She added, "All sporting activities are kept separate from our school hours. I study almost four hours every evening".

It is amazing to realize just how small the world is becoming. A few years ago Stephanie would have experienced many differences in the cultures; but with today's advanced communication and transportation facilities, teens around the world are very much alike. It was interesting to note that Danelle and Stephanie seemed as if they had known each other for a long time. They seemed to share a common bond. A bond that was capable of reaching beyond a barrier of languages and heritage beliefs. Their enthusiasm and love for each other generated a spark of hope for the future of peace between countries.

Danelle and Stephanie's bond is something that needs to be experienced by all. Perhaps the teens of today will make better world leaders tomorrow.

"The Land Is Crying"

Indiana the Ugly is the work of litterers. Something should be done about it, and something can.

You do not have to go far to find the ugly. It is along almost any street or road: beer and soda pop cans and bottles, fast food cartons, paper plates and cups, plastic knives, forks and spoons, plastic bags full of trash and garbage, boxes, books, magazines, papers, discarded household appliances, clothing, toys, wire, broken tools—litter of every kind.

Calling litterers pigs is being unkind to pigs. Pigs do not drive around in cars, tossing trash from the windows.

But calling litterers names does not get rid of litter, and getting rid of litter is the problem.

From time to time, municipal and county governments and private property owners send out crews to clear away the debris. In Indianapolis under Mayor William H. Hudnut and in other cities with public-spirited leadership, the clean-up crews have removed countless tons of litter in recent years.

But the litterers are busy littering full-time.

The uglifiers are always a jump ahead of the clean-up crews.

"The land is crying and nobody is listening," James A. Kincaid of Brownsburg declared in proposing an anti-litter campaign that made a big dent in the problem and brought a new sparkle to the face of Brownsburg and Hendricks County.

What he proposed can be applied to all of Indiana, and it was this: "I'm asking for local government officials, political leaders, civic organizations, churches, leaders in the community, business owners, youth groups, farmers and other interested parties to get involved."

The drive enlisted the help of residents who signed pledges, in an honor system, to provide their own trash bags and donate one hour a day, one hour a week, one hour every two weeks or one hour a month, weather permitting and for one season, to removing litter.

That is the kind of program that can add a sparkle anywhere. Indiana needs it.

The year round fun of basketball

Basketball is not just a winter sport. The hysteria of the Hoosier sport may not be as vigorous during the summer months, but for the athletes the games continue.

Many Valley high school basketball players are enjoying their Tuesday evenings during June and July playing in the Rochester Summer Basketball League at the Rochester City Park. Eight area communities are represented in the league with players coming from Trion, Caston, Tippecanoe Valley, North Miami, Bremen, Argos, Plymouth, and the home town Rochester.

The summer league program allows area players to get together and compete without the tension of regular season play. Each team is composed of players from different schools thus the area school players are combining their talents on the court. Competition and fun are more prevalent than die-hard rivalry.

In addition to participating in the RSBL, Valley players are taking advantage of several other opportunities to sharpen their basketball skills.

Once every weekend, Valley players can be found playing in the Wabash Summer Basketball League at the Honeywell Center.

On Monday and Wednesday evenings at Tippecanoe Valley High School, "seasoned veterans: join high school and junior high players in hotly contested, full-court informal games during open gym."

Several Tippecanoe Valley basketball players are participating in the Rochester Summer Basketball League program. Randy Cumberland and Dion Anglin are pictured competing at the Rochester City Park. (News Photo)

High school and junior high players are participating in A.A.U. and White River tournament teams which practice and play games as far away as Brownsburg, Indianapolis, Fort Wayne, and Logansport.

Players are attending as many as three separate basketball camps this summer. The camps are located at Grace College, Manchester College, Indianapolis, Albion, Michigan, Kalamazoo, Michigan, and Pennsylvania.

Grades 4 through 8 participated in Tippecanoe Valley High School's basketball camp. Young athletes develop their basketball skills under the direction of the coaching staff.

Valley basketball enthusiasts of all ages participated in 3-on-3 tournaments conducted during the Mentone Egg Festival and Akron's July 4 festivities.

Basketball is a year round sport in the Tippecanoe Valley area. Coach Bob DuBois, along with all of the corporation's basketball coaches, spend many hours planning and preparing the young athletes for the school year's basketball season. The Vikings will be ready for a great season; plan now to go to the games and support these fine young athletes.

"Bus Stop" Comes To The Wagon Wheel

"Bus Stop," William Inge's delightful comedy will be presented at the Wagon Wheel Theatre beginning on Sunday, July 24.

Three sets of snowbound bus-passengers take refuge in an all night diner, while they wait for the road to be cleared. During the course of the night, the audience is introduced to a rambunctious cowboy (Bo Decker) and a night-club singer (Cherie). The comedy kicks into high gear when Bo tries to add Cherie to the livestock on his ranch. He soon discovers that though girls may be as frisky as steers, he can't ever catch this one with a rope.

Audiences may recall the film version of "Bus Stop," which starred Marilyn Monroe and Don Murray. For the live performance at the Wagon Wheel, Tony Beninati portrays the boisterous rancher, while Melissa McFarlane enchants Bo in the role of Cherie. Some of the other roles in the comedy include: Troy West as Bo's sidekick, Marcy Lynn as the innocent waitress, Nicholas Augustus as the small-town sheriff and Robert Schwarz as the well-versed professor, who philosophizes "... two people, really in love, must give up something of themselves."

"Bus Stop" is the third show in a wonderful line-up of summer entertainment at the Wagon Wheel Theatre including: the spectacular musical, "Forty-Second Street," the classic comedy, "The Royal Family," and the premiere of a new musical,

"A Wonderful Life." Ticket and dinner reservations can be made by calling: 219-267-8041. Patrons are urged to order early as seating is limited and going fast.

TOO LATE FOR GOOD LOOKING TEETH?

If you have teeth that would never be used in a tooth paste ad, do you think it's too late to do anything about it? Do you wish your parents had had your teeth straightened or reshaped when you were a child so they'd look good now?

It's not too late to do something about it. Corrective treatment is not just for kids. In fact, about 20 percent of all the corrective treatment performed in this country is performed on adults. This figure will probably increase, as more and more people realize how much their dentists can do to improve their appearance.

"Buck teeth" or crooked teeth, for example, can be so unattractive that the person who has them tries to hide them by not smiling. They're embarrassed about their mouths. But "buck teeth" can be reshaped, unsightly gaps can be filled, and crooked teeth can be straightened. That will not only give a lift to your appearance and personality, but it will improve your dental health as well.

Keeping your teeth and gums healthy are good reasons for seeing your dentist. So is improvement of your personal appearance. Ask your dentist about it.

Self-reliance, simple pleasures sustained farm folk in hard times

Farm families in Indiana sustained themselves during the heat and drought of the summers of 1934 and 1936 in the same way they had in the past—through self-reliance, an abiding sense of family and community, and simple pleasures that included swims in the creek and visits from the "huckster" and the iceman.

Donald Carmony, professor emeritus of history at Indiana University, remembers days in his parents' farm in Shelby County when chickens stood under trees, panting like dogs, and the dust rolled across the landscape in clouds. Bearing heat and dryness were taken much more for granted, said Carmony, who was born in 1910 and worked on the family farm throughout his boyhood.

Carmony, who was teaching at Indiana Central College at Indianapolis in the 1930s, made frequent trips home to visit.

"It was a time when farming and farm life were in transition from that horse-drawn non-mechanized kind of farming to tractors and implements," Carmony said. On his family's farm, wheat harvesting was still done by field hands with horse-drawn wagon, followed by the gathering of a group of farmers who would form a "threshing circle." His father also worked as a schoolteacher and an undertaker.

"In the '30s, farmers were not the capitalists they are today. No farmer I knew of had that much money involved—they had simpler machinery, grew gardens and raised things for themselves—so their losses weren't as great," he said.

Rural electrification had still not arrived in Shelby County in the early '30s, although it was well on its way. Not only were there no home cooling systems, there were no fans—except for the hand held kind his father dispensed to mourners attending funerals at area churches.

"One thing Roosevelt did that even the hard-core Republicans had to give him credit for as his emphasis on getting rural electrification," Carmony said.

Rural families relied on natural gas for lights and water heating. His mother did the wash every Monday on a back porch with a tub and washboard, using heavy flat irons heated on a gas stove to finish the chore.

"You could not have had the kind of women's rights movement we've had in recent years in the context. It was that old rural agrarian tradition, and women didn't have the time—and men didn't either.

"Hay harvest and wheat harvest were the busiest times. Mother would milk the cows and ride the horse-drawn binder so someone else could do the shocking." In her "spare" time, she'd prepare dinner for the family and field hands.

As a boy, Carmony recalls, "sometimes we'd go outdoors to sleep. But I remember most going upstairs, putting the bed in front of the window, and looking out to see the sun not quite setting. And we'd go to sleep. We'd be up the next morning at 4:30.

"In terms of personal comfort and convenience, I'd much rather live through the summer of '88 than the summers of '34 and '36," said Carmony, who recalled that his next-door neighbor in the suburbs of Indianapolis had still not gotten indoor plumbing by that date, and "in the summertime, their back yard was just a little too close."

"Many people today who complain about the heat, particularly elderly people, probably wouldn't be alive in the context of the '30s," said Carmony. The advent of insulating materials for homes, home cooling systems and refrigeration have all helped provide better sanitation and living conditions, he said.

Farm folks in the '20s and '30s kept pretty much to themselves, Carmony said, purchasing goods from a man on a wagon who would occasionally make trades for the chickens that ran wild in the farmyard. The iceman would make deliveries for the family's ice box, an "indispensable" appliance.

During Carmony's childhood, August was the month for family reunions. "No matter how hot it was, the kids had to dress up a bit. We didn't have cool clothing and we were expected to dress up like little gentlemen." On Sunday mornings, the children were sent to church school in pony wagons, and a really big treat was going into town for a chocolate soda at the drug store or a visit to the nickelodeon.

"One thing about that period that I think is significant is that personal relationships were more certain, more secure. You didn't know a whole lot of people, but the ones you knew, you knew well. At that time people felt more than they do today that they were on their own; no one was going to bail them out. If they needed help, they looked mainly to their families and neighbors. I can remember if someone was in trouble, you helped them out—it was just a different context."

Reunion held at Kuhns

A family gathering was held Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Don Kuhn of Claypool.

Those attending the carry in dinner were:

Mr. Harvey Kuhn of Cameron, Mont.; Mrs. Peggy Kerlin of Silver Lake; Mr. and Mrs. Dale Kreig of Akron; Mr. Willard Kuhn, Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Kuhn, Mr. and Mrs. John Huff, Mr. and Mrs. Kim Huff and son, Mr. and Mrs. Gary Kuhn and Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Kreig and son all of Burket; Mr. and Mrs. Howard Olsen and Miss Carol Kuhn of South Bend; Mr. and Mrs. Michael Kuhn, Ryan and Julie, Mr. Todd Kuhn and Miss Cheryl Hayes all of LaPorte; Mrs. Thelma Smith and Mr. Paul Milam of Claypool; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kuhn of Rochester;

Mr. and Mrs. Alton Shireman of Akron; Mrs. Sandra Jordan and Chad of Warsaw; and Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Kuhn of Denver.

Afternoon callers were: Mr. and Mrs. Richard Moyer of Akron; Mr. and Mrs. Larry Kuhn, Miles and Mason of Denver; and Mr. and Mrs. Tim Kuhn of Claypool.

Now God comes to thee...and all times are His season.
—John Donne

REMEMBER THAT THE SEASON OF FAITH IS ALL THE YEAR 'ROUND

It's the hottest part of the year, known as the summer doldrums; a time when we are mainly preoccupied with just trying to keep cool, and otherwise doing as little as possible. However, this is not the time to neglect your faith, but rather to seek a little spiritual refreshment. In fact, your House of Worship is likely to be as cool inside as any place you could go; and with so many people away on vacation, your presence there will be appreciated more than ever. If you have friends or relatives visiting you, or even some friendly neighbors, take them along; it will undoubtedly be a very enjoyable and worthwhile experience for them. Just remember that faith is never out of season, and that God is there all year 'round, to offer the helping hand of His wisdom and guidance. You have only to reach out for it, no matter what it may say on the calendar or the thermometer.

Akron board hears from citizens

Several citizens attended the July town board meeting in Akron to voice their concern about the proposed permanent burning ban in the town.

According to the survey conducted by the board members, the citizens of Akron are opposed to the burning ban. The board will be considering some type of regulations for burning. One suggestion was that only paper be burned in a burning barrel.

Most objections voiced about burning was the burning of garbage and other noxious materials. It was the consensus of the board that if people were to limit their burning to paper only, the problem would be solved. The matter was tabled until a later meeting.

A fee of $35.00 will be charged to rent the town ball diamond. The board set the fee following an inquiry by Bob Allen. The ball diamond and surrounding area must be kept clean by those who are renting it.

Rod Conner reported that there was property in the northwest section of the town that is in violation of the weed ordinance. An attempt will be made to contact the owner to give him a chance to take care of the matter before any action is taken by the town.

A report on the streets that need to be re-surfaced was given by Superintendent Gearhart. He also expressed a desire to use some of the extra money to make a suitable base for the parking area at the new building. The board voted to give him permission to go ahead with the project. A new fire hydrant will be installed inside the new station and Gearhart will be moving the one in front several feet to the east to locate it in a suitable position.

Gearhart also said the surveyor has notified him that they will be in town soon to check out the Leininger ditch to see what immediate help can be obtained to prevent water from standing in the area.

Mentone students win poster contest

Four Mentone first grade students were among the winners in a statewide poster contest sponsored by the Indiana Wildlife Federation Endowment. The winners, Angela Cook, Nathan Krueger, Tiffany Norris, and Jennifer Sanders, represented each of Mentone's four first grades taught by Elaine Fugate, Vonda Ryman, Kim Eiser, and Margaret Cullison.

The theme of the Contest was "Forests Are More Than Just Trees" and was held in conjunction with the 1988 Wildlife Week Observation. Posters were judged on originality, neatness, adherence to the theme, and appropriateness for grade level.

Only 10 posters from each grade level were chosen as winners, and these posters were displayed at the Indianapolis Children's Museum through the month of June.

The posters were created by the Mentone students as a part of their school's Thinking Thursday program, in which the teachers devote an entire day to a specific topic.

Winners announced

Wally Vandermark and Troy Kistler each won half of a hog in the 4th of July fundraiser conducted by the Tippecanoe Valley Cheerleaders.

Local talents in awards

The Fulton County Fair winners were given unusual trophies this year. Unusual because of their origin.

The four-leaf clover wooden trophies were set by the Tic Toc Trophy Shop, were carved and finished by Tom Holloway, and the wood came from Pike Lumber. All three business are located in Akron. A fine representation for a small town!

HayNet helps farmers

Federal and state agriculture officials have implemented a national hay information network called HayNet. This electronic mailing system assists states in locating available hay for individual farmers.

Members of the U.S. Department of Agriculture and National Association of the State Department of Agriculture met on July 7 with 41 state agriculture commissioners to discuss drought-related issues and form HayNet. Many states, including Indiana, already have in-state hotlines.

"The USDA has broadened their efforts toward a national scale," said LaVerne Ausman, deputy undersecretary for small community and rural development. Subsequently, state departments of agriculture are creating hay directories to serve farmers.

"Each week, participating states will tell the USDA how much hay they have available, or how much they need. This information will then be placed into a national data bank (for HayNet)," Ausman said.

Farmers who either have a hay supply or need hay should contact Doug Pond at the Agriculture Hotline, 1-800-824-2476.

Pastor David E. Callighan has started his ministry at the Palestine Bible Church located six miles east of Mentone on St. Rd. 25. Pastor Callighan also teaches at the Lakeland Christian Academy and is a former pastor of the Country Church located at Bourbon. Pastor Callighan is pictured with his wife Ruth. (News Photo)

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor,

Although this is a little late, I would like to inform everyone of what happened at the 1988 Tippecanoe Valley graduation exercises. My boyfriend the late and well loved Kenny Irons, showed up, ready to graduate, but was told he had to change his clothes.

Kenny drove all the way home and changed his clothes and was again ready to go through the graduation line with his class. He had on gray denim pants and a shirt and tie under his graduation gown, when the principle lifted Kenny's gown and said he was still not dressed properly.

Another student, however, was allowed to go through the commencement in gray denim pants, cowboy boots, and a leather tie.

Kenny had to work hard to make sure that he was going to graduate.

One of his biggest goals was to make it through high school. Instead of causing trouble, like he could have done, Kenny sat in the gym in tears and watched the rest of his class graduate.

Kenny was in a car wreck on June 23, the day after his 19th birthday, and sadly enough he is no longer with us. Although Kenny is in a better world, and graduation is over, I would like to make sure that this does not happen again. I would also like to make it known that neither the principal, assistant principal or superintendent of Tippecanoe Valley High School bothered to show up at Kenny's funeral nor did they even send a card.

Now I would like to take this time to thank everyone that has helped me deal with Kenny's death. I loved him dearly as I know many of his friends and family did also. I would especially like to thank Kenny's family along with my own. You have all made me realize that no matter how hard it is, I must get on with my life.

Thanks again for everything.

Very Truly Yours,
Mariellyn J. Goodwin

Dear Editor,

Representative Jim Jontz has held over 100 town meetings, has an outstanding attendance record for roll-call in the 100th Congress, and has co-sponsored a bill which would require the federal budget to be balanced except in times of dire emergency. We are pleased to have a congressman who consults us, shows up for work, and is serious about dealing with the national debt.

Sincerely,
Dwight and Helen Beery

A new beginning...

Hug-ability

I'll bet most of you have guessed the topic of this week's article. That's right...hugs. Hug-ability is the ability of a person to hug someone as well as be hugged. An act that isn't done nearly often enough.

Have you ever noticed what happens to someone who is hugged? A child cuddles for more warmth, a toddler hugs in return, an older child glows with pride and a teenager stands straight and proud. All this with just a hug. It's too bad everyone doesn't do it more often.

What about the people who seem more distant? The ones who have an invisible barrier sending signals against hugging? Bologna! These are often times the people who need hugging the most. Over the past ten years or so, I've seen "huggers" do their thing, and many, many times it takes one hug and the barrier is broken.

A lady named Maxine told the story of how she learned to hug her children from her mother. Her mother said her only regret was not hugging her children enough, and hoped that Maxine would do better than she had. From that time on, mother and daughter strengthened their bond only to be separated by an untimely death. How fortunate to have hugged each other before it was too late. The story was told to me while my mother was in the nursing home. I visited often but rarely hugged Mom. From that time on, I made an effort to hug Mom. Her eyes would glow with love and warmth every time. I wouldn't take back one single hug.

During the recent passing of my father-in-law, many hugs were given by friends and family to all of us. What a comfort it has been. At a time when things seem difficult, a hug can pull you through. Even though I've become a hugger late in life and regret not having hugged my father enough, I've had the chance to hug Mom, the boys, and all the rest of my family. For that matter, anyone who needs one.

Yes, hugs have been given for many reasons. However, lately they have become the best medicine around. But remember, hugs are limitless. Hugs know no boundaries. Given with sincerity, you'll be surprised at the good that comes from just one hug. It doesn't matter if it is mother and child, husband and wife, father and son, brother to brother, cousin to cousin, or even, mother-in-law and daughter-in-law, the love still comes through.

The next time someone you know stands back from others, whether they need a friend, comfort, or just an understanding pat on the back, break the barrier and show them your hug-ability. As the commercial says, "Try it, you'll like it."

Coming Up: Big families vs. little families.

We would like to thank all our relatives, friends and neighbors for the cards, flowers, phone calls, food and prayers.

We would like to thank the Foster & Good Funeral home and Rev. Malbone for his words of comfort in the passing of our husband, father and grandfather Dale (Jake) McFarland.

The "Parade of Stars," unchallenged leader in its class, and concoded by the press and public to be the finest show ever produced for the outdoor stage will provide night entertainment in front of the grandstand at the Indiana State Fair, September 4th to 9th inclusive. WLS National Barn Dance radio broadcast show will be staged at the grandstand on opening fair night, September 3rd. "Parade of Stars," combines features from the movies, radio, circus and musical comedy in a manner that satisfies the quest of the public for the more modern and currently popular forms of entertainment. The show features the famous Lambert Dancing Ensemble, Carl Freed's Band, The Cosmopolitan "Mixed" Octette singers; Daisy, the horse; Avis Lynn, prima donna; The Harmonica Lads, Big Ben, master of ceremonies; Ruth Pryor, premiere Danseuse; Bartell-Hurst Foursome, dancers and the Martell trio, dance stylist. Headline feature of the show is the scene built around the song hit, "Chapel in the Moonlight," when 10 fulltoned brightly colored organs are played by a like number of girls. The Chapel is picturesquely located in the background of the scene and in front of the triple semi-circle setting. "The King's Horses" is a laughter provoking scene by the Lambert dancers in grotesque equine costumes and in which they give an excellent account of their talents in presenting a number of difficult dance routines. Several other scenes lead to a finale, "The Parade of Tomorrow" featuring the "Ballet Futuristic" presenting a galaxy of 16 fencing girls, making it by far the greatest outdoor show ever assembled. Each afternoon an imposing array of circus and hippodrome acts will be presented on the stage in front of the grandstand for the entertainment of Grand Circuit race fans.

Everett Long, Elery Nellans, Phillip Blue, Forrest Kesler and Estil Smith spent Sunday in Chicago attending the ball game at Wrigley field.

Things to watch for: Golf Clubs with transparent heads, in which arrows are in-bedded to guide the stroke; Portable partitions for soda fountains, which move on an overhead rail and can be adjusted to divide off any number of seats from others; A germicide more potent than tincture of iodine, yes less irritating.

Dear Betty Crocker

Q. What makes an even sugar layer on the top crust of a cake?

A. The cracked appearance may happen when there's too much sugar and too little liquid in the liquid-sugar-flour ratio of recipe. Excess sugar rises creating sugary crust.

Tips of the Week: Bar cookies are less crumbly and easier to cut if allowed to cool in pan before cutting.

"DISCIPLES AND APOSTLES"

"And when it was day, He called unto Him His disciples: and of them He chose twelve, whom also He named apostles" (Luke 6:13).

Many people fail to distinguish between our Lord's disciples and His apostles. They suppose they are the same. This is incorrect, however, for our Lord had a multitude of disciples while He had only a few apostles. His apostles were chosen from among His disciples, as we learn from the above message from Luke's gospel. A disciple is a follower; an apostle is a sent one. A disciple is a learner; an apostle is a teacher. There is a great lesson here for us all to learn.

We must come before we can go. We must follow before we can sent. We must learn before we can teach. We must listen to the Lord before we can speak for the Lord.

"Thus saith the Lord," was the familiar phrase with which the Old Testament prophets began their messages. But at the head of the long list of Old Testament prophets we find Samuel, a young lad, saying: "Speak Lord, for Thy servant heareth" (1 Sam. 3:9).

Before we can do or say anything for God, then, we must listen to God. This explains why the reading and study of the Word of God is so important.

First, salvation itself comes by hearing and believing God's Word, especially about Christ, and His death for our sins. Romans 10:17 says: "Faith cometh by hearing, and hearing by the Word of God," and 1 Peter 1:23: "Being born again, not of corruptible seed, but of incorruptible, by the Word of God, which liveth and abideth forever." Then, having been saved, we can serve God acceptably only by diligent study of His Word. Perhaps the most important passage in the Bible on this subject is II Timothy 2:15:

"Study to show thyself approved unto God; a workman that needeth not to be ashamed, rightly dividing the Word of truth."

Wildlife affected by drought

Fish population and some fur-bearing mammal populations have been the wildlife most affected by the continuing drought conditions in Indiana.

For those areas that still have water, fish populations will be under greater stress due to low water conditions and high temperatures. Such conditions normally occur in Indiana only during August. Low water levels will also aggravate any effects of wastewater discharge into rivers and streams.

Some fur-bearing mammals, especially the muskrat and beaver, will suffer from the decline in water levels. Reproduction of these mammals is expected to be below normal. This fall's population of muskrats, one of Indiana's important fur-bearers harvested for its pelt, will also be affected.

Public Service Indiana and wholesale customers agree to rate decreases

Public Service Indiana and several wholesale customers which buy power from PSI have agreed to a two-step rate decrease reaching $5.9 million annually. The rate reduction will be partly offset by the accelerated reversal of certain deferred income taxes, and will have no substantial effect on the company's earnings through 1990. Projected earnings for 1988 remain at $2.50 to $2.60 per share.

The decrease would come in two steps. One decrease of about 5.5 percent would take effect Sept. 1, 1988. The remaining decrease would take effect Sept. 1, 1990.

In February 1987, PSI's rates to these utilities increased an average of 9.1 percent. If the agreement is approved by the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission, PSI's rates would be rolled back to where they were before the 1987 increase.

Besides reducing its wholesale rate sin general, PSI also agreed to offer an economic development rate for wholesale customers comparable to its retail economic development rate. Public Service Indiana would provide economic development incentives to utilities buying power from it so that those utilities, in turn, could encourage businesses to expand or locate in Indiana.

Wabash Valley Power Association (WVPA) will receive a 6 percent decrease if separate settlement agreement between them and PSI is approved. Wabash Valley's decrease would be retroactive to June 1 of this year.

Wabash Valley's members are: Boone County REMC, Carroll County REMC, Fruit Belt Electric Cooperative, Fulton County REMC, Hancock County REMC, Hendricks County REMC, Jasper County REMC, Jay County REMC, Kankakee Valley REMC.

One reason so many of us fail to get rich is that we run from hard work like it might be a plague.

Local grad named advisor

John King, a 1987 graduate of Tippecanoe Valley High School, has been named resident advisor at Bluffton College for the 1988-89 academic year.

According to Don Schweingruber, dean of student affairs, resident advisor appointments are based on outstanding campus involvement, academic achievement and leadership potential.

A resident advisor is responsible for residence hall floor programming, peer counseling, and serving as a campus resource person for approximately 20-30 students. Each resident advisor also serves as a liaison between students and the Student Affairs Office.

King, a sophomore, also participates in football and theatrical productions. He is the son of Darrell and Mary Ann King, Mentone.

Bluffton College is a four-year liberal arts college affiliated with the General Conference Mennonite Church.

Finally, A CD That Follows Directions.

It's hard to keep a good investment down. Case in point: The Rate Riser Certificate of Deposit. It offers everything you'd expect from a traditional CD. Safety, security and a guaranteed return. With one extra advantage.

Namely, the one-time opportunity to raise the interest rate should rates go up during the term of your CD. That means you can take advantage of the higher rate that comes with a longer term investment. Without being locked in if rates start to rise. So now it's easier than ever to point your investments in the right direction.

The Rate Riser CD.

- ONE-TIME OPTION TO INCREASE YOUR RATE SHOULD INTEREST RATES GO UP
- THREE TERMS TO CHOOSE FROM, EACH WITH A HIGHER RATE - BEGINNING AT 36 MONTHS
- MINIMUM DEPOSIT OF $2,500
- A GUARANTEED RETURN ON YOUR INVESTMENT
