Through the eyes of a child

by Carla Zartman

So many times as adults and parents we forget what it was like to be young! Remember the County Fair? What makes a child jump with excitement when they enter through the outer gate into the inner courtroom of the County Fair? As they enter, the children can hear the steers below, they can even hear the chickens clucking at the far corner of the fairgrounds. Young eyes enlarge with wonder, "Dad, Dad let's go here" they say and in a rush they run on ahead, but because of the excitement of the moment they end up falling to the ground, but just as quick as they fall, they are back up on their feet again covered with dust, dirt, chaff and what not all over them. But this does not hamper them from getting to the chicken section or the pig barn. Just to look and even touch the animals, to a small child is a magnificent adventure. After they have made their rounds through the goat and rabbit barns, then on to the horse barns they trot. As they look at the horses, as a parent you can read your child's mind, only if I could ride, is the honest thought. There are even some children who will try to attempt to talk to the animals in a mimicking sort of way. Which to the parent ought to bring at least one moment of splendid laughter. Oh! To be a child again.

Next stop-the Exhibit Building. On your way over you tell your child firmly, "Do not touch these things." As you both enter through the open doorway, you can tell that your child is overwhelmed with the abundance of all the creativity he is now seeing. To the right he sees models, put together so carefully. Looking above him he sees old models, blue models, red models, new models, suspended in air. As you move on, you see pictures of animals, people and things displayed and noted with witty captions. You also see gourds, pumpkins, beans and a whole array of garden vegetables and flowers. Together you walk over to the baked goods, you see cookies, and cakes of various sizes and shapes and a variety of colors. Looking upon the goodies, your child notices that there are pieces missing. Glancing at your child now, you see him pondering a questions that you know will be asked. He says, "Dad, why are there pieces missing from the cakes and cookies?" You tell him that the judges had to taste everything in order to judge the items. All at once your child sees blue, red and white ribbons dotting the exhibits and he knows that the projects have been judged. As you begin to walk out, your child honestly says, "Dad, didn't everyone do a good job?"

Now it's off to the good stuff! Rides, rides and more rides. Almost enough to make a parent physically sick, if he happens to be the only one to ride with his child. First it's the Scrambler, then off to the Tilt-a-Whirl, The Ferris Wheel, on to the Merry Go Round, over the hill to the pony rides, then back to the Octopus, now we are winding down. It's time for something cool and refreshing to drink and maybe a little rest for dad, of course this is dad's idea. During the rest period your child spots the cotton candy maker, pulling your sleeve he shouts joyfully, "Dad, I want cotton candy." And of course, what is a fair without that? So dad slowly removes his body from his now comfortable seat, to see that his child receives his cotton candy. After the cotton candy is happily devoured and the sticky is quickly removed from face and hands, and with dad's equilibrium restored, we are now ready to move on. It is now evening and the overhead lights are illuminating the arena for the tractor pull. From a distance you can hear the mighty roar of these big machines as they begin to prepare for the pull. The voices of local farmers and friends can be heard above the echo of these powerful machines. Your child will squeal whole-heartedly as he covers his ears with his hands. Everything your child is seeing will be talked about for weeks to come. Now as the tractor pull is ending, you glance over and see that your child is having a hard time trying to stay awake. So you very gently gather him up into your arms and head for the car. As you gaze down at your child, he smiles up and says, "Thank you dad, I had a great time."

So, when you take your child to the fair, look through his eyes, you just might rekindle that excitement that you had going to the fair, many years ago, as a child.

Akron 4th of July will be featured in next week's issue of the paper.

Behind A Clown's Makeup

The clown Emmett Kelly, Jr. was the first clown to ever captivate my attention. He spent lots of time sweeping a spotlight into a smaller and smaller beam, but was always sad the whole time. I wondered why the face was sad when he tried so hard to make everyone happy.

Over the years, I have seen various paintings, all of which I would dearly love to have. There's something in the eyes of clowns that captures my interest. I also wonder why there are happy clowns with smiles, sad clowns with tears and clowns who are down on their luck to keep us smiling.

An inscription on one of the statues from Emmett Kelly, Jr. says: "I do a lot of thinking about my other self, the little hobo...and so help me I'm beginning to like the little guy better than I like myself and....I kinda hope he feels the same way about me."

If this is so of everyone who has been a clown, it might be there are really two people in one body. A regular person, as you or I, and the clown, a person who singles people or children out and makes them feel special. A clown who has been down on his luck makes the rest of us feel successful. And, a clown with tears brings out the compassion in even the coldest adult. Only someone with special qualities can do that.

Making people happy warms anyone. Anyone who has told a joke successfully or related a funny story with people amused feels good, not to mention the people who listened. It does your heart good to laugh and raises your spirits to hear of a good deed.

In a material world, it's good to know adults can look past the torn and tattered clothing of a clown and see the personality inside. It isn't unusual for an innocent child to trust anyone, regardless of the appearance, but as we grow older we tend to judge by appearances, which are sometimes misleading. Isn't it nice to know we can be as innocent as a child when clowns are around?

I guess I root for the underdog. Mr. Kelly always seemed to be a loser in whatever he tried, right down to sweeping the beam of light. He swept the light up, but it only resulted in darkness.

Red Skelton's Freddie the Freeloader was a victim of circumstance. Most of us remember Freddie making the best of a bad situation and our hearts went out to him. If he was a real underprivileged person, would we be that understanding? I sure hope so.

Maybe I enjoy clown statues because I can get lost in their eyes wondering what kind of people they really are. "The eyes are the windows to the soul." Check out the eyes of a clown and see the most gentle person you've looked at in a long time.

I still hope someday one of the clowns will come out a winner; but then, maybe they already are.

PSI addresses need of hearing impaired

Public Service Indiana has started closed captioning its television commercials as part of the company's ongoing effort to meet special customer needs.

"Much of our television advertising is safety related or gives useful customer information," said Brenda Jerrels, who helps coordinate customer-caring programs for PSI. "Closed captioning ads will help ensure our messages are reaching hearing-impaired customers."

Closed captions are similar to subtitles but are visible only on televisions equipped with a special "TeleCaption" decoder. People who do not have a decoder on their sets will only see a small box-like symbol on the TV screen when a PSI ad is shown.

PSI is also considering starting a new companywide service where speech or hearing-impaired customers can "talk" with their local customer service office by using a telecommunications device for the deaf (TDD).

"Right now, we are testing this service in our Terre Haute office to see how helpful it is for our customers and day-to-day business," Jerrels said. "By calling the TDD number, a speech or hearing-impaired customer can receive general information, inquire about a bill, request to change a customer service or even report a power outage or safety concern."

Addressing needs of the speech or hearing-impaired is part of PSI's ongoing customer-caring effort. Other ideas recently implemented for customers throughout the company's 69-county service area include braille bills for the visually impaired and IDEAS+ for those who are age 60 "plus."

Nutrition heats up the summer barbecue this year

The nutrition issue has gone out the back door this summer as Americans are bringing their health-conscious eating habits to the barbecue. Cholesterol content is the number one concern of the barbecuing population, according to a recent survey of what's cooking for summer 1989.

Sodium, calories, and sugar follow in diminishing order of importance, according to a nationwide poll commissioned by Weber-Stephen Products Co., manufacturer of charcoal and gas grills.

America's obsession with good nutrition has grown significantly in the last decade as health conscious consumers are finding that keeping in shape doesn't stop at the jogging track. Instead, maintaining a healthy diet is running neck and neck with exercise as evidenced by the proliferation of "lite" and natural foods from restaurants to the super market shelf. And now, according to the Weber study, it's becoming a hot topic in the backyard.

Supporting these findings is the fact that people are grilling more chicken and fish. More than one-third of the people who barbecue chicken (nine out of ten barbecuers) are grilling it more often than two years ago. And while more than half the barbecue population grill fish, more than one-third of this group is also barbecuing it more frequently.

But it's not just the meal that's at issue, it's cooking method, too.

According to 65 percent of the survey respondents, outdoor grilling is seen as more healthful than indoor cooking. This may be attributed to the fact that fats drip away from foods being grilled, while flavor gets seared in.

"Barbecue trends reveal telling information about today's lifestyles," said Jennifer Davidoff, director of marketing at Weber. "Barbecuing is a great way to enjoy family and friends and a great way to entertain. So you can bet that when something like nutrition shows up as a concern to the barbecue population, it has affected the country's style of living."

It's his show," he says

Whatever the occasion, the debate is heated over who's actually doing the barbecuing - where the battle of sexes continues to rage. In fact, it's the old "he says black, she says white" routine carted out to the backyard.

This was especially evident when both men and women were asked to agree or disagree with the statement: "the woman in our house is cooking more on the barbecue than she used to." The results: only one out of 10 males agreed completely, compared to nearly half of the females.

So who's on first? Men account for about two-thirds of the barbecue chefs, which means men will most likely be the ones grilling the fish and chicken.

Cat "colds" can be contagious

What do a housewife in Michigan, a researcher in Kansas, and a veterinarian in Florida, all have in common? They all caught a "cold" from a cat.

Each of them recently handled a cat suffering from feline chlamydiosis, a highly infectious upper respiratory disease in cats. Then they, too, experienced the symptoms of feline chlamydial infection in humans—painful conjunctivitis characterized by extremely red, scratchy eyes.

"It wasn't a normal case of conjunctivitis," says housewife and cat owner Mary Quick. "I felt like I had sand in my eyes. I couldn't read. If I went outside, I had to wear dark glasses."

In all three cases, antibiotics eventually cleared up the problem. Still, the pain and discomfort these people experienced show the importance of having cats immunized against this disease.

Chlamydia psittaci, a tiny organism that causes coughing, sneezing and oozing eyes in cats, is related to about 20 percent of feline upper respiratory infections, estimates Dr. Ted Rude, a Wisconsin veterinarian known for his expertise in feline infectious diseases.

But, because its symptoms are often confused with those of other upper respiratory infections and there is no quick and inexpensive test for the disease, feline chlamydiosis isn't easily diagnosed, and may be even more prevalent.

Dr. Ed Daniels, who has been researching chlamydia for several years at Kansas State University, admits, "There's more of it out there than we realize, and it's frequently misdiagnosed."

While cat owners should keep an eye out for the symptoms of this contagious infection, feline chlamydiosis can be avoided altogether simply by vaccinating a cat against the disease.

Eclipse 4 and Felpse 4KP-R are two combination vaccines on the market which have proved safe for cats and effective against feline chlamydiosis. These vaccines also protect cats against other common infectious diseases.

"People should really be more aware of feline chlamydia," cat owner Quick advises. "For all the pain and trouble I went through, I was relieved yet frustrated to learn that combination vaccines were available all along to prevent this from happening."

Dr. Lester Mandelker, the Florida veterinarian who fell victim to feline chlamydiosis, makes sure cats in his veterinary practice are properly immunized. He would like to see all cats receive the same protection. "Since we have the technology to prevent chlamydiosis," Mandelker speculates, "who knows, maybe we can vaccinate it out of existence."

For more information on protecting cats—and people—against feline chlamydiosis, pet owners should contact their veterinarian.

Air Conditioner Checkup

Now's a good time to give your room air conditioner its yearly check-up. Home economists from Whirlpool Corporation advise that too often consumers make the mistake of waiting until that first heat wave hits—only to find that their "old faithful" air conditioner isn't operating at peak efficiency or, worse yet, isn't working at all.

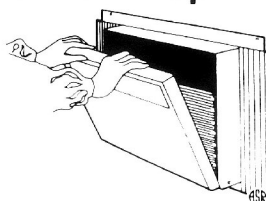

To avoid this uncomfortable situation, take the time now to give it some care and maintenance. A yearly check-up by a qualified service technician will help your air conditioner to operate more efficiently, last longer and keep operating costs down. Ask them to:

- Inspect and clean the coils and condensate water passages.
- Check the fan and oil the fan motor.
- Check to make sure the compressor is sealed and oiled, if needed.

If you are familiar with electrical appliances, you can do the cleaning and maintenance yourself. If you decide to do it yourself, carefully follow the instructions for your model in the use and care guide.

According to home economists, dirty filters cause more service calls than any other problem. The air filter collects dust, lint and other particles from the air before it passes over the evaporator coil, so periodic cleaning of the filter (about every 3 to 4 weeks) can really help maintain peak performance. Whirlpool air conditioners have washable filters for fast and easy clean-up.

Heat and moisture produced in the home by normal daily activities such as laundering, dishwashing, cooking, baths and showers, make an air conditioner work harder. That's why home economists recommend that you try to schedule steamy showers for early mornings or late evenings, when the temperature is cooler. Use exhaust fans only when needed to remove moisture... remember they exhaust the cool air, too. Avoid using heat-producing appliances such as the dryer, oven and dishwasher all at the same time so that the air conditioner isn't overworked to keep the home cool. Be sure windows, doors and other openings, such as fireplace dampers, are closed so that cool air doesn't escape. And, keep drapes or blinds drawn on the sunny side of the house. On hot days, it's better to start the unit in the morning hours before temperatures become too intense.

Whirlpool home economists note that many people don't realize how much air conditioners are helped by landscaping... trees, shrubbery and grass all help absorb and block heat before it gets inside. Just be sure that shrubbery is not too close to the air conditioner to have good air circulation around it.

Do yourself and your air conditioner a favor... get it checked now. A unit that is well maintained is your best insurance for more comfortable summer days and nights... year after year.

Rural Rhymes Who Needs The Farmer

Esther C. Adams

Who needs The Farmer anyhow?

To feed the hogs and milk the cow.

With imitation milk and meat

They've got the food problem beat.

Who needs the cotton and wool,

Synthetics have the market full.

Goodbye to cotton and sheep

Synthetics have The Farmer beat.

Who needs to keep a hen to lay,

Imitation eggs are on the way.

With imitation hens to stew

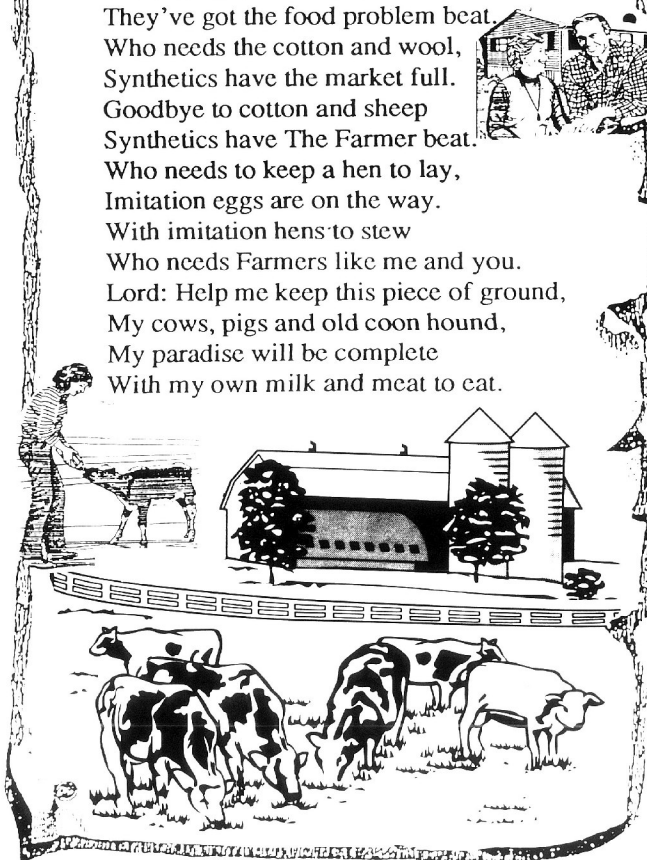

Who needs Farmers like me and you.

Lord! Help me keep this piece of ground,

My cows, pigs and old coon hound,

My paradise will be complete

With my own milk and meat to eat.

WHETHER YOU TRAVEL OR STAY HOME, GOD IS THERE

Like Many of us, you may have a vacation looming on the horizon, and of course your budget will dictate where you will spend it. You may visit another part of the world, or just lounge around the house. In any case your vacation can be a very enjoyable and rewarding escape from the realities of everyday living. Moreover, wherever you are the Lord will be there to watch over you. Thank Him for his protection at any House of Worship, and even if your travels take you beyond the orbit of civilization, there is always the Bible. Put it on your list of things to pack in your suitcase. In fact, that's a good idea no matter where you're going. To borrow the advice of a well-known TV commercial, "Don't leave home without it."

DEAR FEELING DIRTY:

DEAR DIANE:
I've been married for 22 years now, and am 46 years old. My marriage with my husband was fine and lasted many years. Roughly five years ago, my husband started having an affair with a much younger woman. It just overlooked it, as it was easier than a divorce. I had the children at home then and so forth. Recently I met a young man of 26, and I must say, I feel 30 years younger. I never thought I could feel that way again. I've decided to divorce my husband and move in with the young man. My children are totally against this. They think it's okay for their father to have an affair, but they think I'm nuts. I'm confused about all of this. My friends think along the same line as my children. Am I so wrong to feel this way, and feel so youthful again? Am I a dirty old lady? Any words of advice you can give me would be greatly appreciated.

UNSURE

DEAR UNSURE:

My response will probably anger a lot of readers out there, but so be it! I was never one to accept a double standard, and I don't do so in this situation. If you and this young man love each other and can relate to each other well, then physical attraction, emotional connection, by all means, after your own happiness with him. The age difference will only be a factor if you allow it to be. As you so rightly pointed out, it didn't stop your husband, and it shouldn't stop you. Your children and your friends are going to just live with the situation, since you have every right to live your life as you see fit.

Deaths of both male and female passenger car drivers in auto accidents decline significantly from ages 40 to 69, while drivers under 25 and over 75 have nearly twice as many driver deaths per 100,000. Females have far fewer driver fatalities from accidents than males in every age group. The greatest number of female driver deaths occur from ages 16-24, for males the rate remains relatively high through age 44, though there is a significant decrease after the age of 25.

MANAGING YOUR MONEY

Credit Unions—A Good Place To Save, A Reasonable Place To Borrow

One of the major differences between a credit union and other financial institutions is that it's in business not for profit, but for service. That means it can pay better savings rates and charge lower loan rates than many other financial institutions.

The idea of payroll savings began in credit unions.

Another difference is that credit unions are the only democratically controlled financial institutions. Credit unions' fields of membership determine who may join. Only members may vote, and they elect their board of directors from their membership. At this point, some 60 million Americans belong to a credit union.

In assets credit unions are small compared to other financial institutions, but they've had a substantial impact on the modernization of banking. According to the Credit Union National Association, credit unions were pioneers in loan protection insurance and payroll deduction plans to build savings and pay off loans.

Credit unions are also consumer-oriented, helping to promote legislation that improves consumers' lives.

HELPFUL HINTS FOR TAKING GREAT PICTURES

By Jim de Merlier

For postcard-type photos of scenic wonders on your next vacation, keep the horizon line level. It's also a good idea to include someone in the foreground to communicate the size of a scene.

One way to add different perspectives to your photos is to use different lenses. For point and shoot photographs, the lightweight, versatile Freedom Zoom 90 from Minolta features a power zoom lens that moves at the touch of a button for scenic shots as well as portraits. Since the viewfinder image zooms along with the lens, composing and taking pictures is extremely fast and easy. Exposure, setting, focus and flash are all automatic. It's a real advance in compact camera design and can help make faraway places "zoom back into the moment."

The first man on the moon

"One small step for a man, one giant leap for mankind." With those words 20 years ago, astronaut Neil Armstrong secured a place in history July 20, 1969, as the first man to walk on the moon's surface, Apollo 11, carrying Armstrong and Edwin E. Aldrin Jr. and Michael Collins, was the first manned spacecraft to land on the moon.

In May 1961, President John F. Kennedy had committed the United States to landing a manned spacecraft on the moon "before this decade is out." The moon landing program was named Apollo.

When Apollo 11 landed, and Armstrong stepped onto the moon's surface, he reported sinking approximately 1/8 inch into the fine powdery surface material. Aldrin joined Armstrong, and together they took photographs, collected lunar soil and planted the United States flag.

Farm Watch

New Profitable Crop

It may be gold in the field, but it's green in the pocketbook.

That's what farmers are saying about canola, the new vegetable oil crop that has been springing up in yellow flowers across fields from Ohio to West Texas.

Canola is a type of rapeseed introduced to the United States by the Ameri-Can Pedigreed Seed Company.

Rapeseed, from the Latin word for turnip, has been used for centuries as oil in lamps and, in a more refined state, for cooking oil.

The oil is called canola and it's lower in saturated fat than any oil on the market today, making it a formidable player in the fight against heart disease. Consumers may know canola by the Puritan brand of cooking oil.

More than 65,000 acres of winter varieties of canola were planted in the U.S. this year.

Farmers are favoring canola as a profitable winter crop and many consider it an attractive alternative to winter wheat. Growing canola rapeseed requires no special equipment nor extra outlay. Yield potential runs from 40 to 60 bushels per acre.

The first major U.S. processing plant which will crush and refine canola, has opened in Chattanooga, Tennessee. Bids are available from many elevators across the canola growing region.

For more information, such as brochures and video tapes of planting and harvesting techniques, please call Ameri-Can at 1-800-3-CANOLA.

Indiana Rural Electric Youth Tour

Dawn Burch and Todd Biddinger, Tippecanoe Valley High School seniors from Kosciusko and Fulton counties, accompanied 35 other young people on a tour of the nation's capitol from June 16-22. Participants were chosen for the tour on the basis of their scholastic, extra-curricular, and 4-H achievements.

Sponsored each year by Indiana's rural electric cooperatives, the tour was chaperoned and organized by Indiana Statewide Association of Rural Electric Cooperatives, Inc. Indiana Statewide is the Indianapolis-based service association for Indiana's 40 REMCs/RECs. Firm supporters of Indiana's youth, the cooperatives have chosen the tour as a method of encouraging some of Hoosierland's finest youth to become involved and informed about their leadership on a local and national level.

While on tour, Dawn and Todd had the opportunity to visit Gettysburg, Mount Vernon, Arlington National Cemetery, Washington Cathedral, National Zoological Park, Ford's Theatre, Smithsonian Institution, and Capitol Hill.

Other special activities included visits with Indiana senators and representatives, and a tour of the White House.

T.V.H.S. cheerleaders return from camp

The Varsity and Freshmen Cheerleading squads at TVHS have just returned from a very successful week at camp at St. Mary's College, ND, Ind. After a hard day of classes in cheers, sidelines, band cheers, and pyramids, the girls were evaluated nightly on what they learned. The Varsity received superior ribbons during all three nights, while the Freshmen received one excellent and two superior ribbons during all three nights.

The final day is where the big awards came for both squads. The Varsity received one of three championship trophies for being on of the top squads overall for the whole camp. The Freshmen squad won the camp championship trophy for sidelines. They beat all other freshmen and J.V. squads in a sideline they had learned in camp. Both squads received spirit sticks at the end of each day, as well as daily spirit awards.

Valley's Freshmen squad also won an additional spirit award on crazy day. They were all treated to free pizza that night.

Besides all the squad awards there were a few individual awards. Freshmen Mariah Weaver received a Camp All-State Award; she was competing against all other cheerleaders at camp.

Jean Best, sophomore, won the dance off championship. She received a superior ribbon for being the best dancer at camp. Sophomores Nikki Estep and Carrie Fisher both made the final twelve of the jump competition, with Carrie being elected to the final four.

Tippecanoe Valley fans will have a lot to look forward to this coming year, as they have cheerleaders who are talented as well as enthusiastic.

"Not Another Old Time Story"

We have all heard the story about the man telling his son when he was a young lad he walked five miles to school in snow that was three feet deep only to return home to chop three trees for firewood before his evening meal. I have never used this story, but the kids have reminded me that I have other stories to tell that are similar.

When spring finally sprang, all of us could hardly wait to mow yard. In fact, we nearly fought to see who would ride the mower the first few times. I, of course, was the one left to trim with the weedeater and wasn't happy about it. As in years past, we reached the point where the enthusiasm was nowhere to be found. "It's your job to help mow the yard, and you have to finish it" was heard the last couple of weeks. However, what really made me see red was when one of the boys pulled the mower in the garage, drug in the house and announced, "Boy, am I tired." Here came my speech. "When I was at home (I never said "When I was young") we didn't have riding mowers, we had to push mow the yard and there was a time when the mowers didn't even have motors. Now THAT was work." I noticed a slight rolling of eyes as well as a yawn.

Naturally, everyone disappeared when the time came to help trim the yard. I tried to explain "I remember when we didn't have weed eaters. We had to pull grass by hand and thought we were in heaven when we had hand trimmers." In answer to this story I heard "Gnarly, Mom" and "Why didn't they have trimmers? No electricity back then?" My eyes went from child to child in disbelief!

One evening, public television had a special Chris wanted to see, Doug was counting on seeing a rerun of Gunsmoke, Collin protested saying Bill Cosby's show was on at that very same time and my hopes were dampened of ever seeing one of my favorites. Since we usually watch programs together whenever we are all home, we decided this time Doug would see Gunsmoke in the family room, Chris would see his show in the kitchen on the portable TV, Collin would retire to his bedroom, also to see a show on a portable set and I would see my program in our bedroom. All was not well. The kids each showed us the size of their sets. "Besides, these are black and white" they both said. "I can remember.....when all we had were black and white TV's. Besides, we were lucky to have one, not four!"

When the dishwasher decided to leak water on the floor instead of on the dishes, the only thing left to do was wash the dishes by hand. To my surprise, the boys didn't know how. Deciding to teach them what needed to be washed first, second, etc. and washing in hot water as well as rinsing was my goal. However, the boys didn't agree with me. "Well," I started. But the boys chimed in saying, "Not another old time story, Mom." "You got it, another old time story," I said. They both groaned about my telling them of the dishwashing that had taken place because there were NO dishwashers back in the "old days." They were horrified to think things were really that rough.

It was almost as if the tales from Leave It To Beaver were coming home to haunt me. But I would love to be a mouse in a few years and hear some of their hard luck stories to their kids. They have barely recovered from laughing about only having AM radio stations to listen to when I was a teenager. "Mom, WLS isn't special anymore." They're right, WBYS - the Bear is special. They play songs of the 60's. "I remember....."

"Androcles and the Lion" opens at Wagon Wheel

The Wagon Wheel Theatre will be presenting George Bernard Shaw's wonderful comedy "Androcles and the Lion" as its fourth show of the summer season from Wednesday, July 19 until Sunday, July 30.

The show is an uproarious comedy that will make audiences laugh at the same time that it causes them to take heed of the true meaning of being a Christian.

The Play is set in ancient Rome during the time of religious persecution. Caesar, the emperor, finds that he is no match for the amiable Androcles who lists among his closest friends "the beasts of the fields and the forest" -- one of whom just happens to be the very lion designated to devour Androcles in the Colosseum.

"Androcles and the Lion" provides a laugh a minute, but it also presents a thoughtful message for all.

All performances are at 8:00 p.m. except for the 3:00 p.m. Sunday matinees. Tickets and dinner reservations are available by calling the Wagon Wheel Theatre at (219) 267-8041.

H. RAY HAZEN,
D.D.S., M.S.D., P.C.

PREVENTING CAVITIES

If you have a child whose teeth need protection against cavities, you may want to ask your dentist if he would recommend the pit and fissure sealant technique. This is a "paint on" coating applied to the biting surfaces of teeth to prevent decay. When used effectively it may also diminish the need to restore decayed teeth with fillings. The minor decay that may develop when the sealant wears off may not require the filling normally used in tooth restoration.

The technique is not recommended for teeth with decay that extends into the dentin, the area beyond the tooth's enamel which contains the pulp and root canal.

Once applied, the sealant should be checked annually for wear to see if a reapplication is needed. It should also be checked for any signs of cavities in unprotected areas. The technique can also be beneficial for adults.

Prepared as a public service to promote better dental health. From the office of: H. RAY HAZEN, D.D.S., M.S.D., P.C. 1329 Main St., Rochester, Phone 223-3121.

4H NEWS

On June 26-28, 11 4-H members from Kosciusko County attended the 4-H Round-Up at Purdue University. The 70th annual 4-H Round-Up emphasized a specific theme, which was, "4-H Care: Conserving Earth's Natural Resources."

The Round-Up delegates were addressed by two nationally known speakers on topics related to the conference theme. James L. Pease, an ecologist from Iowa State University, presented practical conservation solutions that the 4-Hers could implement in their own communities, and Billy B. Brennan, the natural science song and dance man, entertained the delegates with songs that blend humor and science to explore subjects such as water quality and acid rain. Other presentations at 4-H Round-Up included: the State 4-H Band, the State 4-H Chorus, Career Exploration Sessions, the Share-the-fun Festival, Achievement Record Book Awards and Tenured Leader Awards.

Five Kosciusko County 4-H members were honored at 4-H Round-Up on June 26 for having their Achievement Record Books selected to the state honor group in their respective categories. Receiving special recognition for their 4-H club work were: Duane Kline, R. 2, Claypool, for sheep; Shawn Krull, R. 1, Milford, for plant and soil science; Jill Sommers, R. 2, Silver Lake, for beef; Andi Stroup, R. 5, Warsaw, for forestry and wildlife and fisheries, and Janet Studebaker, R. 2, Piercetown, for dairy.

Congratulations are extended to each of these outstanding 4-H members from Kosciusko County.

Interlibrary loan

There's virtually no limit to the information the library can provide.

Unknown to most library users, the library's reach extends beyond the building that houses its collection. Through interlibrary loan, the library can tap the resources of other libraries to borrow materials for patrons.

"When patrons search the stacks or the catalog and realize we don't have what they're looking for, we encourage them to ask us about interlibrary loan," said Madeline Fisher, director of Bell Memorial Public Library in Mentone. "In most cases, we can locate what they need at another library and arrange to borrow it. We have couriers coming to us twice a week from the large city, academic, and medical libraries to the north."

An interlibrary loan is a transaction in which, upon request, one library lends an item from its collection to another library not under the same administration or on the same campus. The transaction can be arranged over the telephone, in the mail, or using a computer network.

Interlibrary loan solves a growing problem among libraries. With the rising costs of materials and services, a library often cannot purchase everything it needs to adequately develop its collection in all areas.

"Interlibrary loan allows us to make the best use of our library dollars by purchasing materials of interest to many users and borrowing single or low-demand items upon request," said Mrs. Fisher. "We welcome the opportunity to extend this valuable service to our users."

For more information on Bell Library's interlibrary loan services, visit the library or call 353-7234.

WHEN YOU VISIT GOD'S WILDERNESS, KEEP IT CLEAN

Whenever you pay a visit to the home of friends or relatives, you naturally remember your manners and do your best to keep the place as neat and clean as possible. By the same token, if your plans take you to a wilderness or camping area, this is also a good place to remember your manners. It's really a form of "love thy neighbor," because you do this out of consideration for others who may share the place with you. Another reason is that you are God's guest there. In any wilderness area you can see all that beauty which He has provided for your enjoyment. Think of it as an outdoor extension of your House of Worship, and respect it as you would any place where you are an invited guest. In this case, the "guest room" is all God's creation.

TAKEN FROM THE AKRON NEWS
JULY 9, 1959
25 YEARS AGO

4th of July Termed Success; Big Crowds: Akron's 128th birthday Saturday, July 4, was a huge success and was greatly enjoyed by all. The day began with a big parade which formed at the depot and made its way through town to the school grounds where the flag raising ceremony was held. After that there was entertainment and fun for everyone in the form of a Little League ball game, horse races, speeches, a twin contest, Nancy Lee and the Hilltoppers, and fireworks to climax the evening.

The parade Saturday was an excellent one and had 46 or 47 units. The Akron and Mentone bands participated in the parade which also featured old cars, the Beverly Hillbillies (Gary Brown, Pat Ochs, Dick Day, and Mrs. Sherman Hively), bathing beauties, young and old, the town's new firetruck and many other Convertibles carried members of the town board, the Akron ministers, members of various organizations, and others. There was a float of cuties of Akron including one darling gal of three who wore a topless bathing suit. The Hillbillies were well received as they rode in their old truck. They borrowed the town's old fire truck which is used by the water department and made a very good copy of the Hillbillies truck. Dick and Beth Slaybaugh dressed in their gay 90's costumes, rode their tandem bike. Many other bicyclists entered the parade, including the Slaybaugh's son, Scott, who was dressed like Uncle Sam. The parade was described by many as the best yet in Akron and was well attended.

A feature of the day was the twin contest which saw Sandra and Jerry Nolin of Plymouth winning the prizes for having come the greatest distances; Marilyn and Caroline Bathrick of Rochester were named the most unlike; Mrs. Marie Summers of Wabash and Lee Crumbrine of LaFountain were the oldest (67); Connie and Bonnie Hiers were the most alike; and Anthony and Roger Walter of Akron were the youngest. They were born January 24, 1964. Judges for the twin contest were Vern Cumberland, Mrs. Forest Carlson, and Rev. Wesley Bullis.

Mama Stephen was named the girl's champion and Steve Petrosky was the boy's winner in the bubble gum blowing contest. Other contest winners were Bonnie Huffman and Jeff Craig in the boys and girls "crackers and whistle" contest.

If Iowa farmers had some of A. A. Gast's seed corn, they would really have something to crow about. A stalk of Yellow Dent corn, about 9 feet high, was brought to the Rochester News-Sentinel office Tuesday by L. D. Hartman of the Mt. Zion neighborhood. Mr. Hartman has 18 acres, and got his seed from A. A. Gast.

Mrs. Loyd Swick spent Wednesday with her sister, Mrs. Lewis Slaybaugh, and in the afternoon they called on another sister, Mrs. Melvin Clark, and new baby, Donna Rose, born July 6.

Mr. and Mrs. Garland Hines and daughter, Sandra Sue, of Marion left Monday for Lexington, Ky., after spending a few days with Mr. and Mrs. Lonzo Meredith. Mrs. Meredith went with them as far as Greentown, where she will spend the rest of the week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Wise.

Elizabeth Arter and Ed Gray were at Turkey Run state park Sunday.

Chris Thomsen, John Frankel, and Frank Madish came last week-end from Perth Amboy, New Jersey, to work at the American Fork and Hoe plant here. Chris stayed this week with Mr. and Mrs. George Beer, but will move next week to the Armstrong residence, and Frank Madish rooms at the Charles Smith home. John Frankel is staying with Mr. and Mrs. Homer Barnhart, also of Perth Amboy, who have an apartment in the Mary Jane Smith residence.

Seventeen graveled city blocks in Mentone are in the process of being black topped. Work began Saturday morning under the direction of Mr. Gootch of Rochester. The Kosciusko county highway equipment is being used for the work. Among the blocks that are to be improved are five blocks on Jefferson, one on Yale, two on Princeton, three on Morgan, two on Tucker and four on Jefferson. Town Marshall Frank Warren stated that they hoped to finish the improvement by the end of this week.

Friends of three newly married couples, Mr. and Mrs. John Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Gene Marshall and Mr. and Mrs. Byron Gordan surprised them at their homes Friday night and gave them an old fashioned belling. Near the city limits of Rochester four cars, containing friends of the couples, were considerably damaged in a traffic jam. The Plymouth Sedan, driven by Guido Shirey was damaged to the greatest extent. The other three cars belonged to Merl Harold, Charles Eaton and Kermit Leininger. Gaylord Jones, a passenger in the Harold car, sustained arm injuries and other members of the belling party were considerably bruised. An xray of the Jones' boys arm Saturday morning showed that the bone was broken and splintered, and in a very bad condition.

State Marshall Myers of Indianapolis was in town Wednesday to protest against the projection of a motion picture on the city streets. In accordance with the ruling pointed out by Mr. Myers, the pictures on Thursday and Saturday nights will be projected on a screen in the vacant lot between Dave's Shoe Hospital and Whetstone's Tailor Shop in the future.

Progress Show site is the Orville Sherman Farm

This year's show site is the Orville Sherman Farm, which is one of the "roughest" farms in Kosciusko County. With the help of the Soil Conservation Service in developing a conservation plan for the farm in 1970, it has been transformed from that "rough" farm into a conservation show place. All of the rolling cropland is protected with a combination of no-till planting of both corn and soybeans, and a crop rotation that includes 4-6 years of alfalfa-grass hay. Slopes as great as 20% are protected by contouring. Gully erosion has been eliminated with grassed waterways and a WASCOB.

We will have continuous wagon tours visiting tillage comparison plots, corn and soybean variety plots, soybean and corn chemicals plots, nitrogen comparison and stabilization plot, a forestry stop, forage quality stop, pond and wildlife stop, and a residue management stop. During the morning and afternoon specialists from Purdue, INDR, USDA, and agri-business will be at our tour stops to answer your questions.

The show committee has organized several special information sessions on topics that will be of interest to everyone. At 10:00 a.m. Rosemary Eppley will be discussing the topic of "Stress on the Land and the Family". At 11:00 a.m. we have invited Ross Korves, Economist with the American Farm Bureau Federation to speak on "Issues Facing Us With the 1990 Farm Bill". And at 12:30 p.m. William Irwin, former EPA Advisor will be discussing "National Concerns About Agriculture's Impact on Surface and Ground Water Pollution."

Throughout the day a large tent will contain a number of commercial displays and large equipment will be on display just outside the tent. In the afternoon, deep tillage equipment, no-till drills and hay making equipment will be operating in the demonstration area.

There will also be a program and displays designed especially for the ladies attending the show and activities planned to entertain the children. There will be spinning demonstrations and at 1:00 p.m. Joan Younce, Kosciusko Co. Extension Home Ec. will be doing food demonstrations.

The field day is located on the Orville Sherman Farm at the southwest intersection of State Road 13 and 14. Registration and commercial displays open at 8:00 a.m. Wagon tours begin at 8:15 a.m. The show will end at 3:00 p.m. For lunch a variety of sandwiches will be sold at the show site. For more information, contact Dick Kyler, Show Manager, or Nadean Eldien, Show Coordinator at the Whitley County Soil and Water Conservation District office in Columbia City (phone 219-244-6780).

"Family Life in Rural Indiana"

By Judith A. Myers-Walls

From the Dept. of Child Development and Family Studies, Purdue University, West Lafayette, Ind. 47907.

Some things about families are the same no matter where families live or what they do for a living. But other aspects of family life change significantly as the setting changes. Families who live in rural areas are like all other families in some ways, but they also have unique needs.

All families and the individuals in them undergo change and develop through somewhat predictable stages. Families serve to meet the basic physical and emotional needs of their members, and all families have the capability of developing strengths. In addition, all families need help from outside the family at one time or another, whether they live in urban or rural areas.

Rural families face some unique challenges, however. Services to help rural families when a family's own resources prove inadequate, from transportation to child care to mental health services, are scarce in rural communities. Low-income housing or housing for young individuals or families may be difficult to locate. Because homes may be far apart, families may feel isolated, especially during bad weather. Employment opportunities and choices of careers may be limited as well.

Some characteristics of rural family life may be seen as primarily positive, however. People in rural communities are more likely to know a large portion of the individuals and families in their community and therefore watch out for them. There is a sense of community and shared responsibility that is rare in urban areas. Because there are few strangers in the neighborhood, services that are offered may be provided by professionals who are well-known and trusted. Many families, especially farm families, find themselves not only living together but also working together in the family business, which builds family closeness. Finally, residents of small communities and rural areas are more likely than those in urban areas to represent shared backgrounds, goals, and values. This similarity can facilitate a feeling of being accepted and understood.

But even some of the advantages can backfire. Because everyone knows everyone else so well, there is little privacy in rural settings. Professional confidentiality takes on a new meaning if that professional attends church with his or her clients. The homogeneity or similarity among community members can make it difficult for individuals and families to grow, change, and try new life styles.

There are some things that rural residents can do to maximize the benefits of their environment and minimize the drawbacks. First, rural families should become acquainted with what services are available in or near their community—before the services are needed. It is important also for such families to set opportunities for regular contact with others, especially during poor weather and during the busiest seasons for farm work. At the times when they feel they have the least space in their schedules for a social life, they may need that contact the most.

Finally, rural families should work together when appropriate to improve the services available to them. Perhaps they can make arrangements with neighboring counties to share services, or pool their resources to attract new services to the community. One asset which is available in every county is the Cooperative Extension Service. Most Purdue Extension employees understand their communities, are acquainted with the area services, and can facilitate collaboration. Working together can enrich the family lives of rural residents.

Tots To Teens

by Sue Ellen Sullivan

Dear Sue: I have a problem with my daughter who is three years old. She can open the two locks that I have on the apartment door and leave whenever she wants, usually early in the morning when I am asleep. My neighbors have complained that she rings their doorbells and wakes them up. What can I do besides locking her in her room? Rosemary C.

Dear Rosemary: Don't lock her in her room because that can be very dangerous in case of a fire. You have a very serious situation here. A three-year-old has no business being out of the house alone. What if she left the building and walked away? Whom would she meet? Maybe a kind neighbor who would return her to you, or maybe she wouldn't be that lucky.

The first thing I would do is install an alarm on the front door. Then I'd sleep in the living room so I would be sure to hear it. Set an alarm clock for yourself at least until she gives up this habit. The next thing to do is to change your attitude. You must be giving her mixed signals. Maybe you say "No," but smile and think that what she is doing is cute. It is time to get serious. Explain to her how dangerous this is and stress that she has no right to annoy the neighbors. Take control of this situation now.

Free classes at Ancilla College

If you are 23 years of age or older and have been weighing the pros and cons of signing up as a first-time college student, Ancilla College has a plan too good to pass up. Find out whether college is for you.

If you have been somewhat fearful and afraid to try, if the cost of signing up for a course for which you might not be able to succeed has kept you from registering, this opportunity to enroll on a trial basis is worth consideration.

Anyone 23 or older who has never attempted college may register for one or two classes. If you find at the end of five weeks that you can succeed, then you have the obligation of paying the tuition and fees assigned for the course (s) and continue as a full-fledged student. On the other hand, if after the five-week trial period you find the courses too difficult or that college is not for you, you can withdraw at no cost.

Ancilla offers associate degrees with specific programs in Business Administration, Secretarial Science, Liberal Arts, Computer Science, and Criminal Justice. Also available are required prerequisites for nursing and education majors.

All prospective students should be interested in the Study Skills Workshop which will be given on August 16 and 17th from 6:30 to 8:00 p.m. The same program will be offered each evening, so it is necessary to register for only one night.

For more information, contact Ancilla's Admissions office at 936-8898.

ACTS OF GOODNESS

"Always leave a person or place better than you found them." These are the words of a nursing instructor. We all know some persons who have developed the knack of helping others. They make helping others look so easy. They live the words, "Do unto others as you would have them do unto you." Doing good deeds is an act of love. I think helping others is the reason we were put on earth. Filling the needs of others is a high goal and one that brings deep and lasting satisfaction. May we live this day by doing acts of kindness for others. Let us, and this bears repeating, "Always leave a person or a place better than we found them."

We are open 9:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. and serve meals at 12:00. Please call for your meal reservations during these hours the day before you plan to join us.

GOD GIVES US THE STRENGTH TO DO HIS BIDDING

There was many a thing you attempted to do,
Then discovered it couldn't be done;
Like a worthless vocation you tried to pursue,
Or some foolish adventure for fun.
With your mission abandoned, in only one way could you learn it was not in accord
With your temple of worship, where lessons convey

That your life's in the hands of the Lord.
Let's obey His commands and remember at length

It will help us in getting along.
If we heed His advice He will give us the strength

That we need, and we'll never go wrong.

Manchester College News

Former Wabash resident Todd Miller has been named sports information director and assistant men's basketball coach at Manchester College.

Miller, who received a master's degree in education administration from Pembroke (N.C.) State University in May of this year, graduated from Wabash's Northfield High School in 1983 and Anderson Ind. University with a bachelor's degree in social studies in 1987.

"We're extremely pleased with the appointment because of finding somebody who was so qualified for the position," says Tom Jarman, Manchester's director of athletics and wrestling coach. "Todd brings expertise in both the sports information area as well as basketball. Just as exciting is the fact that he grew up in this area. It's one of those perfect matches you find every-so-often."

While at Pembroke, Miller was assistant men's basketball coach, with responsibility for floor instruction, scouting, and academic counseling. At Anderson, he served as assistant sports information director/athletic recruiting assistant and as assistant men's basketball coach. Miller was a member of Anderson's varsity football team for a year and varsity basketball team for two years.

He is a member of the National Association of Basketball Coaches and the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics (NAIA) Coaches Association, and was a member of the camp staff at Purdue University, McDonald's Invitational, Campbell University, and Prep-Stars Invitational Basketball Camps.

Miller begins his new position in early August.

Manchester College is a four-year college affiliated with the Church of the Brethren. It is celebrating its 100th anniversary during 1989-90.

"Ag Search" at State Fair

"Ag Search", a new game to be played August 23, 24 and 25 at the Indiana State Fair, is designed to help educate kids about agriculture and assist them in having a good time at the fair, according to a spokesman for the Indiana Farm Bureau, Inc., sponsor of the event.

Eleanor Uhde of Mt. Vernon says this is a learning experience that is part of the Farming the Classroom project conducted by the Indiana Farm Bureau, Inc., women.

Parents with children who attend the fair on those three days are encouraged to go early in the day to the Farm Bureau building located on the north side of the race track. At a booth in the building's auditorium, they can pick up an illustrated form with a series of questions about farm animals and crops.

The answers are to be found on posters at various farm commodity displays scattered throughout the fairgrounds. As families make their tour of the fair, they have something to watch for and can spot the answers to the questions.

Later in the day, they can return to the Farm Bureau building and turn in their answers. Prizes will be awarded to those children completing the answers.

Farm couple win free Florida trip

An Indiana farm couple whose name is drawn at an Agricultural Ball will receive an expense paid trip to Fort Lauderdale, Florida, according to Carolyn Hegel, Indiana Farm Bureau, Inc., second vice-president and women's committee chairman.

The Agricultural Ball, honoring farm families of the state, will be held August 15 in the Farm Bureau building at the Indiana State Fairgrounds to introduce this year's fair. The 92 county Farm Bureaus in the state, together with commodity groups in that county, are encouraged to enter a couple actively engaged in farming. A drawing will be made at the Ball, with music by the Jim Edison orchestra, and the couple whose name is drawn will receive a 4-day vacation in Florida.

The vacation package includes round-trip air fare from Indianapolis to Fort Lauderdale, car rental, and lodging at one of the leading beach hotels.

Hegel says, "The Agricultural Ball is to be a celebration of Indiana agriculture and an event to honor farm families of the state. We also want to draw attention to the farm commodities we produce."

Everyone is invited to the Ball, with reservations at $25 a couple. Name, address and check should be sent to the Indiana State Fair, 1202 East 38th Street, Indianapolis, IN 46205. No ticket is needed as a list with all paid-in-advance reservations will be at the door.

The sponsor fee is $125.00 and the entry fee per golfer is $30.00. The entry fee includes 18 hole green fees, cart, refreshments, and dinner for the golfers and their guests. All proceeds from this tournament go toward supporting the Manitou Training Center, which is operated by the Fulton County Association for Retarded Citizens.

Nine holes will be played on the Mill Creek course and nine on the Elks course. There will be four flights of nine teams each with prizes being presented to the top three finishers in each flight.

Flick Picks by Debbie Fletcher

BATMAN

At long last, this flick has hit the movie theaters. People have been flocking to see it in droves. However, what they're seeing is probably not what they were expecting. For die-hard fans of the DC comic-book hero, this is not the Batman they know and love. For the Baby Boomers who thrilled to the campy antics of the TV Batman, this version is literally unrecognizable.

What makes this Batman so different? I think it is the Freudian approach director Tim Burton and actor Michael Keaton took in creating the character. This Bruce Wayne is not an avenging angel. This one is a very disturbed, dark, almost psychotic man. He is possessed by demons who torture his soul and force him to take on the brooding, humorless persona of Batman. Yes, he is out to avenge the death of his parents. However, it is not as simple or clear-cut as all that. His motivation in donning his imposing bat costume is multi-faceted.

The set designer, Anton Furst, is an absolute genius. The city of Gotham is stacked with elongated skyscrapers and spires. There is no sunlight. It's almost as if the developers crammed so many structures into one little area, they literally blocked out the sun. The buildings themselves sport gargoyles, Gothic arches and Deco motifs. In such a city, it's easy to see how people could become dehumanized.

This, of course, is exactly what's happened. Most of the police are crooked. The commissioner (Pat Hingle) is inept, and the city is being run by gangster Gus Grissom (Jack Palance) and his henchman Jack Napier (Jack Nicholson).

Both Nicholson (the Joker) and Keaton turn in superb performances. They are perfect foils for one another. Both delve into the psyches of their characters with such accuracy and frightening realism that they are truly masterful. The remainder of the cast, including Kim Basinger, turn in good performances as well, but the true stars are Keaton and Nicholson.

I highly recommend this movie. I do, however, have one major objection. Children will want to flock to this movie, but it is not a movie they should see. It is too violent, too stark, and too darkly depressing for them. It is so violent, in fact, I believe it should have been given an R rating.

Rated: PG-13. Star Rating: ***.

IT HAPPENED IN AKRON
TAKEN FROM THE AKRON NEWS
JULY 20, 1939
50 YEARS AGO

An Akron News, dated July 12, 1912 was brought to the NEWS office this week by Mrs. Claron Hunter of South Whitley, formerly of Akron, and many interesting stories were noticed in the issue. The paper was especially interesting to the present editor, because complete files of the NEWS do not go back further than 1921, and since Akron is our home by choice, and not by birth, any events occurring in Akron before that time comes to us either by hearsay or by reading an occasional old issue of the paper. Leading advertisers in July 1912 were Dan Leininger, W. C. Miller, E. L. Scott, C. N. Hall and son, E. A. Heighway (real estate) Dr. A. Johnston, F. M. Fultz (Bakery and restaurant), S. A. Strong and Son, W. C. Hosman and A. Bright. Ministers having announcements in the paper were M. H. Krause (M. E.), M. W. Johnson (Church of God), and E. G. Laudeman (Evangelical.) E. L. Scott announced the addition of his brother, Albert, to the drug business and the State Bank held open house on July 18th to announce their new bank. Ed Case, Frank Halderman, and F. M. Pressnall trustees of the Town Board, and Ray Lamoree, Town Clerk, announced the preliminary resolutions for paving Main and Mishawaka streets. The Speck boys, Willie and Roy, put Akron on the map by stopping a Winona passenger car in time to avoid a serious accident. Rains had washed out a bridge near Bear's crossing, and the boys flagged the interurban down. Under direction of Dr. Ferry, Teddy Jontz, second son of Mrs. A. C. Hoover, was taken to Edworth hospital at South Bend to have an emergency appendicitis operation. Many other news items appeared in the paper, and we can readily understand why Mr. S. N. Shesler, ex-editor of the NEWS, is held in high esteem by his contemporaries.

Two Henry township babies received high rating in the Fulton county baby photo contest, conducted recently by the Lockridge Studio at Rochester. They are: Janice Ellis, two-year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Orville Ellis, and Skippy Gerig, three year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Gerig. First place winner for boys was John Cessna of Rochester, and the girl's photo contest was won by Shirley Rose Champ of Fulton. Other high scorers were: Robert S. Teel, Jackie Jones, Joyce Ann Bowen, Phillip Lee Mow, Peggy Ann Lichenwalter, Barbara Ellen Ball, James Lynn Bowen, and Shirley Richardson, all of Rochester.

Two of the boys, Eddy Tridle and Steve Shirey, are three-year-men in soap box competition and last year they went to the finals, Eddy in Class A and Steve in Class B.

Tom Holloway left for Indianapolis where he is enrolled in the Indiana Barber College.

Paul Rupert, 21, son-in-law of the Lester Blackburns, got his left hand caught in the power takeoff of a baler late Tuesday afternoon and had a number of fingers broken.

On July 13, 1959 the Beaver Dam Better Daughters met at the home of Jody and Marilyn Horn. Pledges were led by Shirley Mahaska and Patty Walsh. Secretary's report was given by Bea Walsh and treasurer's report by Rita Lockridge. Betty Smith gave a report on her trip to Purdue Round Up. Roll called was answered by twenty-two members. ## REMINISCING

Back in 1924,
In the days of Model T,
Little did we imagine,
The things that we would see.
We saw The Great Depression,
Return of beer, then World War Two,
The Atomic Bomb, Penicillin,
Vitamins and The B Fifty Two.
Iron Shots and Heart Surgery,
Salk Vaccine and Kidney Transplants,
But who would ever thought,
We'd see women wearing pants.
Farming has made drastic changes,
To big business from a way of life.
Keeping books and tax records,
Even adds to the strife.
Fertilizers and hybrid seed,
Insecticides and weed spray,
Even artificial insemination,
To make the milk cow pay.
Tractors replaced horses,
Grain is harvested by combine,
But the greatest boom to farmers,
Was the Rural Electric line.
We enjoy television,
And travel around by jet.
The rockets that put man on the moon,

Was the greatest feat yet.
It's nice to have those memories
Of the quiet days gone by.
When we had few motors,
On land or in the sky.

Save some lives,

MedPark Center now open at KCH

MedPark Center, now open at Kosciusko Community Hospital, is a fully accredited and certified rehabilitation clinic for chemical dependency (alcohol/drugs). The Center is approved by the State Department of Mental Health, Division of Addiction Services and carries a highly experienced, certified staff.

Success at MedPark is achieved by a multi-disciplinary team approach of various experiences and training. Comprised of recovering alcoholics and drug addicts, certified alcohol and drug abuse counselors, ministers, physicians, nurses, psychologists and family therapists, this team is able to help with the wide variety of challenges facing the chemically dependent patient. Certified staff members have had extensive training and education as well as years of experience. Seventy-five percent of MedPark's counseling assistants are themselves recovering alcoholics and drug addicts.

Case studies prove that the experience of these recovering assistants is extremely effective with the chemically dependent patient on the road to recovery.

The program offered at MedPark is holistic in its approach attending to the medical/physical needs, psychological/emotional needs, and spiritual needs of each patient. This approach is built upon principles with 50 years of success. These principles are none other than the 12-step program used by such successful groups as Alcoholics Anonymous and Narcotics Anonymous. Using these principles, MedPark has developed a program that meets not only the needs of the patient, but of the patient's family as well. This family approach system proves to be the most effective for ensuring the full rehabilitation of the chemically dependent patient. For the convenience of those in need, initial evaluations are always free.

Indiana State Fair Tickets

The 1989 Indiana State Fair will run from August 16-27 and consumers can save $1.00 off the regular gate admission price by buying their tickets in advance at any Hook's Drug Store, now through August 15.

"The State Fair always represents one of the best entertainment values available to Hoosiers," said Thomas G. Dingley, assistant vice president for public relations for the drug store chain. "With advance sale tickets priced at just $2.00 per person, it's an inexpensive way to have a whole day of fun," he continued. One gate admission is necessary for each individual ages 13 and over, and also for each vehicle entering the grounds.

This year the Indiana State Fair will feature Robinson's Racing Pigs, sponsored by Hook's. Besides making several television appearances, including one on The Tonight Show in 1986, the pigs travel to fairs and expos around the United States. They will give up to six performances daily at this year's State Fair.

While visiting the Fair, Dingley also urges patrons to stop and visit Hook's Historical Drug Store and Pharmacy Museum, conveniently located just inside the 38th Street entrance to the grounds. Here one can see many rare and valuable pharmacy artifacts on display, and also enjoy an old-fashioned ice cream soda or other ice cream treats.

Bell Memorial Public Library displays quilt

The Saved-by-the-Belt Quilt to be on display at Bell Memorial Public Library, 306 North Broadway, Mentone, from July 24 to July 27 is more than a colorful depiction of well known landmarks in Indiana. Carefully stitched on the outside border of the quilt are the names of Indiana children under age 18 who have escaped injury or death in a motor vehicle due to car seat or seat belt use.

According to Madeleine Fisher, Director of Bell Library, "We wanted to bring the Saved-by-the-Belt Quilt to our community to remind everyone that many children are being saved across our state because they are buckled up."

The Saved-by-the-Belt Quilt is sponsored by the Indiana Highway Safety Club, which recognizes Indiana citizens of all ages for having used seat belts or car seats which prevented serious injury during accidents. All members of the Saved-by-the-Belt Club received a certificate, car decal, and lapel pin. Donna Agness, Project Coordinator for the Indiana Highway Safety Leaders, says that "The quilt with Indiana landmarks and names of children who have survived accidents due to buckling up is an interesting and educational way to get the buckle up message across to Indiana adults and children."

The Saved-by-the-Belt Quilt was completed by the Quilter's Guild of Indianapolis. For a brochure on the Saved-by-the-Belt Club or for more information on the Saved-by-the-Belt Quilt, call 1-800-KID-N-CAR.

MSgt. Terry L. Reed, the assistant noncommissioned officer in charge of the support branch for 28th Organizational maintenance Squadron won the Airman's Medal for heroism involving risk of his life.

"It was the longest 10 seconds of my life. It seemed like an eternity," says Sergeant Reed when thinking back to the moments when he saved the life of a base contractor.

It was a day like any other. Friday, Sept. 16, 1988. "It was just an ordinary day - there was nothing special about it," said Sergeant Reed. "Certainly there was no indication that before the day was over - that I be involved in a life-or-death situation.

"We had two contractors putting up some light poles by the field maintenance squadron building. The poles had been taken down a couple of months earlier, because of high winds. I was outside with the workers as the time since one of my duties was a building custodian," recalls Sergeant Reed.

The contractor doing the wiring was Rick Kostelecky. He was rigging the power cables while another worker hoisted up the light poles. Mr. Kostelecky had left his gloves in the truck because the power had been shut off to the cables and bare hands would do the trick.

Sergeant Reed stood off to the side watching the poles go up. "I remember thinking the work was going well. The first one went up without a hitch. It was the second pole that started all the problems. Mr. Kostelecky reached down and grabbed the cable leading to the second pole. As soon as he grabbed it - he fell down. I was watching and saw him fall but I didn't think anything about it. There were chunks of concrete laying around - at first I thought he had tripped on the concrete," said Sergeant Reed.

Sergeant Reed did not know the power to the second cable was not turned off. According to Sergeant Reed, 400 volts of power was coursing through the cable and through the contractor.

"...he was looking up at me and I just put the thoughts out of my mind. I grabbed him around his chest and started pulling."

"I ran over toward the guy who had fallen down, and that's when I knew there was a problem. His legs were shaking and smoke was coming off his hands. I could tell that he was being electrocuted," said Sergeant Reed.

Sergeant Reed immediately started to grab Mr. Kostelecky to rescue him, but

If Scales Could Talk

If a manufacturer made a scale that would not only weigh you, but also compliment your success as you get down to your ideal weight, wouldn't it be nice? As far as I know, there hasn't been such a scale invented yet. However, suppose the scales were programmed to say whatever they thought appropriate for the situation?

Imagine the man in the picture reading his first card which says, "If you have a briefcase, you'd better set it down." And to his horror, after he sits the briefcase down and weighs the second time, the scale says, "Haven't you gotten rid of that briefcase yet?"

I can imagine a monotone voice each morning coming from this ingenious invention saying, "One at a time, please."

Another morning, after forgetting about your diet for awhile, the same voice says, "Have you considered growing up into your weight?"

Or, after returning from a walk, you jump on the scales only to hear this same voice say, "Maybe you should take off your shoes...and anything else that might be heavy."

Losing weight has to be one of the hardest things for most people to do. And oddly enough, it gets harder as the years accumulate. I blame gravity for part of it. It's true that if we didn't have gravity on earth, we would be weightless, but gravity also tends to pull things down. This is more commonly known as drooping. Maybe a talking scale will be something not far in the future. Who knows?

Another day of weighing might reveal this advice from the scale, "According to my calculations, if you walk 50 miles a day for five years, you should trim right down to your ideal weight." Or, "The weight is just right...if you're seven-and-one-half feet tall."

This would be about the time a screwdriver would be used on this "helpful" appliance. But then again, suppose we weighed the right amount?

Hopping on the scale after working for a decent amount of time, we hear the same monotone voice say, "Congratulations, you finally shoved that other person off the scales. It would seem there is only one of you now."

Yet another time you might hear, "Now, that's more like it."

I guess watching your weight is what you make it. It would seem as if watching your food and not dieting is the key. The exercise is equally important and a little harder to stick by for some. The idea is to begin and try the best you can. It sometimes means doing it alone, but it will be quite an accomplishment.

As for the talking scales....I'm not sure I'm ready for those yet. I would probably get one programmed for sarcasm and instead of taking it apart and putting it out of its misery the easy way, I would do the following: (An average morning as I stand on the scale) The scale replies, "Good morning, Mrs. Moore. Now, easy does it as you get on the scale. You wouldn't want to shock me, would you? Easy does it. Might I suggest jaw wiring for a couple years? Ha! Ha!"

That's when Doug walks through the door and sees me jumping up and down on the scale saying, "Oh, yeah? Take this (jump), and this (jump) and this (jump)!"

Views On Dental Health

H. RAY HAZEN,
D.D.S., M.S.D., P.C.

BEWARE THE "PERFECT" LOOK

Maybe you think perfectly aligned teeth are an ideal that everyone should aspire to with the help of their dentist. But it is not unusual for teeth to shift out of line somewhat as people get older. Even teeth that seem to be lined up perfectly in childhood or adolescence may not remain that way when a person reaches adulthood. This is a natural consequence of their use in chewing food. Some teeth tend to pivot or jut out slightly, though this may not be very noticeable to the unpracticed eye. Unless there is malocclusion (improper bite problem), a minor misalignment may not be a serious problem.

For this reason, it is not recommended that anyone past the age of 35 select even, white teeth for partial or full dentures. If they are TOO even or TOO white they will not look natural and will not make a person look younger. Let your dentist help you select dentures that appear natural in color, shape, and size. Good false teeth do not beg to be seen. When they fit well and look natural, hardly anyone will notice the difference.

Prepared as a public service to promote better dental health. From the office of: H. RAY HAZEN, D.D.S., M.S.D., P.C. 1329 Main St., Rochester, Phone 223-3121.

suddenly stopped. "The thought started racing through my mind that every safety course in the world teaches you not to grab someone who is in contact with a high voltage line. The current can be transferred through your body and kill you. I had been taught that, but I looked down at Mr. Kostecky, and he was looking up at me and I just put the thoughts out of my mind. I grabbed him around the chest and started pulling. The cable came out of his hand and it was over. I imagine the whole thing didn't take more than 10 seconds," said Sergeant Reed.

Mr. Kostecky was taken to the hospital by ambulance. A two-inch wide hole was left in the contractor's hand that gripped the cable. There were no blood from the wound, the intense heat from the high voltage cable had actually cauterized the wound. Mr. Kostecky fully recovered and Sergeant Reed went back to work after the accident. In May he was informed about receiving the Airman's Medal for his bravery.

"I'm very pleased to receive the medal," he said. "I've heard a lot of talk about my being a hero - I'm no hero - I was just in the right place at the right time," he said.

MSgt. Terry L. Reed is the son of George Reed Jr. and June Reed of 111 N. Broadway, Mentone, Ind. He graduated in 1968 from the Mentone High School, and in 1970 graduated from Applied Computer Training, South Bend. He has a wife, Debra J. Reed, who's parents are Wayne and Phyllis Bowser of 412 N. Tucker, Mentone, Ind. MSgt. Terry L. Reed has a total of 19 years active duty and is currently stationed at Ellsworth AFB, Rapid City, S.D. as Support Branch Superintendent.

Citation to Accompany The Award of The Airman's Medal To

MSgt. Terry L. Reed

Master Sergeant Terry L. Reed distinguished himself by heroism involving risk of life at Ellsworth Air Force Base, South Dakota, on 16 September 1988. With a complete disregard for his own safety, Sergeant Reed saved the life of a civilian contractor who was being electrocuted by wires carrying a lethal current. Although he did not have access to emergency safety equipment, and knowing his life would be in jeopardy if he touched the man, he put his arms around this individual's chest and pulled him free of the wires. By his courageous action and humanitarian regard for his fellowman, Sergeant Reed has reflected great credit upon himself and the United States Air Force.

IF GOD WANTS YOU TO FIND IT, IT WON'T BE LOST

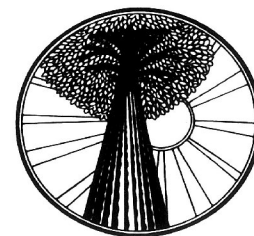

A woman accidentally threw away a rather large check. It had gotten mixed up with some mail order forms which she discarded in a plastic trash bag that she and her husband deposited at the county dump later that day. After discovering that the check was missing and spending a sleepless night, they returned to the dump early the next morning. They got permission to look around from the caretaker, who helped them by bulldozing the mountain of debris one layer at a time. They finally located their trash bag among the dozens exactly like it and then found the check—not even wrinkled. As we learn at our House of Worship, our destiny is in the hands of the Lord, and we can never lose anything as long as He wants us to find it.

Mentone made a big showing at the soap box derby contest held in Warsaw last Saturday. All three of the entrants were in the semi-finals and Steve Shirey, winner of the Class A event, defeated the Class B champion to become champion and go to the national events at Akron, Ohio. Steven, aged 13, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Allen G. Shirey, and he was sponsored by the Mollenhour Lumber & Mfg. Co., Mentone. Eddie Tridle, son of Mr. and Mrs. Loren Tridle, came out in second place in Class A when he was defeated by Shirey in the final heat. Steve Lewis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Lewis, Mentone, lost the Class B championship in the final heat with Billy Loop of Warsaw. The three Mentone boys are certainly to be complimented for their showing in the derby, and the best wishes of all go to Steven Shirey when he participates in the national contest.

Bob Whetstone began to think the recent heat wave had proven too much for him last Thursday when stepping out of Tombaugh's Furniture Mart he was met by a barrage of snowballs. He was on the verge of staggering across the street to the doctor's office to see if there was any chance of recovery when another staggering onslaught of the wet frozen stuff descended upon him. Then he saw a whole drift of it in front of the Locker Plant and began to feel better. The condensation from the lockers had been dumped in the gutter and were the kids ever having fun! Bob ducked a few more frozen missiles before deciding that enough was enough. A bucket of cold water from the upstairs window evened up the score with his assailants.

Robert Eiler fell from the roof of the Carl Blanchert home last week while helping his father, C. O. Eiler put on a new layer of shingles. He landed on his feet uninjured and was back on the job the next morning.

Members of Beta Epsilon chapter of Psi Iota Xi sorority and six guests enjoyed a picnic at the Warsaw City park Wednesday evening. After the picnic the girls motored to Tippecanoe Lake where they spent the remainder of the evening. Those present included Pauline Riner, Nell Reed, Mildred Anderson, Yolanda Riner, Eunice Reed, Jessie Rush, Annabel Mentzer, Geraldine Clark, Anne Sierk, Marie Nellans, Helen Hoffer, Lucille Myers, Jeanette Mollenhour, and the guests, Frances Tucker, Mary Rush, Jean Burns, Louise Paulus, Elaine Sullivan and Doris Matthews.

The following group of Methodist young people are planning to spend this week at Epworth Forest on Webster Lake: Fawn Grubbs, Leotta Horn, Lois Ward, Mary Alice Moore, Donna Rae Claybaugh, Edna Whetstone, Betty Ann Thornburg, Mary Beth Shinn, Georgia Dillingham and Carol Rose Weissert. Besides these, Finton Davison, Kenneth Simco and Leslie Grubbs are planning to spend this week at Boyville at Webster Lake. Joe Boggs, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Boggs, spent last week at Boyville and may remain there this week also. Rev. and Mrs. DeWitt and Mrs. Harold Weissert will be with the group at DeWitt's cottage.

MedPark center helps industry in its war on drugs

MedPark Center, now open at Kosciusko Community Hospital, exists as an effective resource for local industry's ongoing "war" against drugs.

The abuse of alcohol and drugs is an ever increasing threat to safety and productivity on the job. The cost in dollars and cents alone is incredible. Drug abuse costs business $60 billion a year. Yearly, $35 billion is lost to low productivity. The drug abusing employee is absent from work more often, is more accident prone, and incurs medical expenses 300 percent higher than his non-abusing co-worker.

Much of the cost to business is beyond measure. Abuse effects employee morale, impairs judgment and compromises the safety and productivity of the work place.

Drug abuse influences non-abusers. Family members of drug abusers have increased absenteeism. Insurance costs are increased to compensate for claims. And the work-place itself becomes the target of vandalism and criminal activity.

Industry's place in the "war" against drugs is a strategic one. The weekly pay check can be a powerful tool in curbing drug abuse. Research has shown that chemically dependent employees are more willing to give up family and friends than their job.

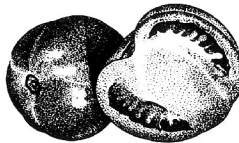

Presently, companies can screen employees through drug testing. But drug testing, by itself, is not the answer. Companies committed to helping their employees and keeping the work-place safe must do more. Education, training, and discipline must be effectively implemented. The key to success is rehabilitation. As one report expressed it, "rehabilitation is the ultimate and most humane purpose of a drug prevention program."

MedPark Center exists for this purpose. Through Employee Assistance Programs MedPark Center seeks to be an influential resource for employees and their problems. The Center's program is broadly based, and seeks to provide assistance for employees in need. Assistance is available 24 hours a day to help with personal concerns, financial problems, family troubles, and any other problem that the employee may have. MedPark Center also offers industry on-site training and orientation for supervisors and employees.

TELEPHONE FACTS AND FANCIES

The telephone industry is offering smart consumers increased savings in response to their demands for better, more convenient service.

• The word telephone comes from two Greek words, tele, meaning far, and phone, meaning sound.

• About 425 million telephones serve people all over the world. The United States uses about two-fifths of this total amount.

• A person in the United States can make a phone call to about 220 other countries and territories. Residential customers account for more than half of long distance revenues.

• Many people think the best way to save on their long distance phone bills is to wait until a late hour to make their calls, when rates are cheaper. That's no longer true. One leading long distance company has new residential calling plans that offer consumers more convenient long distance service at dramatic savings during times when most consumers make their calls.

• One of the plans, MCI PrimeTime, offers MCI's lowest rates beginning at 7 p.m. on weeknights, four hours earlier than AT&T. The other new plan, MCI Supersaver, offers the lowest long distance rate in history—$5 for one hour of calling on Saturday. The MCI Premier Calling Plans offer customers out-of-state long distance service during peak residential calling periods for a single, low, hourly rate without regard to the number of calls made or distance of the calls.

• On most out-of-state calls, consumers can save between 25 and 38 percent versus AT&T. To find out more about these services, you can call 1-800-444-3333.
