Who's Who in Akron

Al and Eva Mathiesen's 77 years of combined experience makes them well qualified to serve as grand marshals for the 4th of July Parade. This year's theme is "Education - The Key to America's Future".

Al and Eva Mathiesen to lead 4th of July parade

by Tonia Weller

In keeping with the theme of education, long-time Akron residents and retired teachers Alfred and Eva Mathiesen have been chosen as parade marshals for this year's 4th of July parade. "We were very surprised and pleased when they called," Al says. Between the two of them, the Mathiesens have 77 years experience in the field of education.

Although they both retired in 1973, from the W.C. Mills Elementary in the Wabash City School System, both also taught for many years at Akron School.

Eva Rowe was born and raised in Athens. After her mother's death when Eva was 15, her family moved to Rochester where she graduated from high school. She then attended Butler University for two years before taking her first elementary teaching position at Akron. "Back then you could start teaching with two years of college. I started at Butler in 1930 and got my Bachelor of Science in 1940," Eva says. Through the years she taught second, third, fourth and fifth grades.

Al was born and raised near Wausau, Wisconsin, and graduated from Edgar High School in 1927. He spent the next four years farming and then started classes at the University of Wisconsin-River Falls, graduating in 1935. When asked what brought him to Indiana, he laughed and said, "I liked to eat. Those were depression days. Jobs were scarce. I had the opportunity to take teaching jobs in Indiana or South Dakota. I had a sister that lived in Chicago and we'd been a close family. I thought Indiana was a little nearer." That first job offer was in Syracuse and Al taught there for three years before accepting a job in Akron teaching agriculture and science in 1939.

Although Al taught at the high school and Eva was in the elementary building, they met and got to know one another at teachers' meetings and parties. They started dating and were married in June of 1942. (On June 6 of this year, the Mathiesens celebrated their golden wedding anniversary.)

The war had started and after completing civil service training, Al joined the Navy in Dec. of 42. He served as an aircraft maintenance instructor at Navy Pier, Great Lakes, Pensacola and Toledo. "They say they've fixed Navy Pier up now," he says, "but it used to be an old warehouse and when we were there they had canvas stretched across the doors. We had between 12 and 14,000 men on the pier. We slept in bunks, three high, with 1000 people bunked in one room. There was only one mess hall. It was kind of rough. But that's when we were young!"

Navy Pier, but in 1944, she returned to Akron to serve as the school's principal. "That's when manpower was scarce," she laughs.

After returning from the war, Al accepted the position of assistant county agent at Rockville and then at Rochester. In 1946, he returned to Akron High School to teach ag and shop classes.

In 1957, Eva was chosen as Fulton County Teacher of the Year and represented the county in the Hoosier Teacher of the Year contest at the state fair.

Al and Eva continued to teach at Akron until 1960 and 61, respectively, when they took jobs in Wabash, with Al teaching fifth grade and Eva the second grade. "I felt I needed a change," Al says. "I think the younger kids were a little easier to work with. It was a good change. I enjoyed it and I met a lot of nice people in Wabash."

In 1973, her last year before retiring, Eva was again honored by being nominated as an Outstanding Elementary Teacher of America.

During their nearly 40 years of teaching, the Mathiesens witnessed many changes in the lives of their students. "There was such a change in attitude," Al says. "Home life doesn't have as much influence on them it seems." Eva adds, "Well, their home life has changed." Al recalls, "One of our last years half the kids in my class were from one parent homes."

Eva says and Al agrees, "Children need all the encouragement they can get. Parents need to have books out for them and read to them. I think television has been the ruin of children as far as reading is concerned." Al adds, "TV has had such an influence on their attitude and behavior. Children now accept things as normal that we thought were just out of order years ago. But I remember once I was fishing with a friend and we were talking about the differences in the generations and he said something I've always remembered. He said, 'Al, these young folks have never seen what we saw. So you can't blame the younger generation.'"

In spite of the changes the Mathiesens feel most children have far more good qualities than bad. "We criticize these kids a lot, but it's amazing how well they do. It's hard for them in different ways than it was for us. So many of the young folks around here have done really well."

"It's surprising," Eva says, "How many of the kids I had in school have their doctorate degrees. It makes me proud. I'd like to be able to see all the kids that I ever had in school." Al says, "There are a lot of good students but those are the ones you don't hear about."

Al and Eva have greatly enjoyed their retirement years, with much of their time being spent on yard work. Their home on the south edge of Akron sits on a well manicured lot over an acre in size. They have several fruit trees, a strawberry patch and a large vegetable garden. "We both like to be outdoors," Eva says.

After spending 15 winters in Florida, the Mathiesens have sold their home there and are now full time Akron residents again.

They have traveled extensively, visiting both the east and west coasts of the U.S., the Canadian Rockies and several European countries including England, Germany, Norway, Sweden, Denmark and the Netherlands. "The Scandinavian countries were great," Eva exclaims. "That scenery is just out of this world. But I think I enjoyed it out west the most." Al adds proudly, "I captured it all on slides."

The Mathiesens, who will both turn 81 this year, are active with the Akron United Methodist Church and the senior citizens' group. Eva enjoys playing bridge and they fish when they find the time. "Now in our later years, it takes us longer to do things, so we don't have so many hobbies," Eva says.

The heart attack Al suffered a year ago in April doesn't appear to have slowed him down much. "You don't know what's around the corner," he says. "So you have to be thankful for what you have." Eva adds "We try to enjoy every day."

The best advice they would give parents today, Al and Eva agree, is to set aside a period of quiet time each day for their children to read or be read to.

Through the years the Mathiesens have both been very influential in the lives of students who are now the parents and grandparents of today's students. It is indeed fitting that the community has chosen to honor their contribution to education.

The 1992 Miss Akron Pageant was held at Tippecanoe Valley High School last Friday night. Heather Beth Foust was crowned the new Miss Akron. (News Photo).

The American Flag

I pledge allegiance to the Flag of the United States of America and to the Republic for which it stands, one Nation under God, indivisible, with liberty and justice for all.

We salute the American flag with honor by reciting this Pledge of Allegiance to the Flag. We should also, with the same honor, display our American flag in a dignified manner.

Listed below, (taken from the Joint Committee in Printing and U.S. Congress), are ways of displaying our flag that we, as Americans, need to remember and familiarize ourselves with.

It is the universal custom to display the flag only from sunrise to sunset on buildings and on stationary flagstaffs in the open. However, the flag may be displayed twenty-four hours a day if properly illuminated during the hours of darkness.

The flag should not be displayed on days when the weather is inclement, except when an all-weather flag is displayed.

The flag should never touch anything beneath it, such as the ground, the floor, water or merchandise.

The flag should never be fastened, displayed, used, or stored in such a manner as to permit it to be easily torn, soiled, or damaged in any way.

The flag should not be displayed on a float in a parade except from a staff (or as against a wall or in a window).

The flag should never be carried flat or horizontally, but always aloft and free.

The flag should not be draped over the hood, top, sides, or back of a vehicle. When the flag is displayed on a motorcar, the staff shall be fixed firmly to the chassis or clamped to the right fender.

The flag, when it is in such condition that it is no longer a fitting emblem for display, should be destroyed in a dignified way, preferably by burning.

Introducing Your New Mentone Correspondent

Hi, I'm Rosa Hatfield and I'm going to attempt to bring you the news from Mentone each week. I will need your help since I can't be everywhere at once and also because it's hard to write about something if you don't hear about it. So, I would like anyone who has anything newsworthy going on to contact me. You may call 353-8140 or write me at 5242 S 1000 W., Mentone, IN 46539.

I have been writing since I was in grade school but, like many beginning writers, most of my work went into a drawer to be taken out and read in secret. I think I was afraid someone would laugh at what I had written. Ironically enough, my favorite kind of writing now is something that makes people chuckle.

I also write a news column and feature stories for another newspaper and have for the past three years. I have had stories published in Country magazine, The Electric Consumer, and The Farmer's Exchange, as well as a handful of small press publications and several newsletters. While I write mostly non-fiction, I am also a poet. I have several poems that are published in national anthologies and have been a recipient of the Golden Poet Award every year since 1985.

I am a member of the Lake Area Writers Guild in Warsaw and the Michiana Fiction Writers in Elkhart and South Bend. I served as Chairman of the Lake Area Writers Guild for three years and am currently the Program Chairman for that group.

I dabble in fiction a little. I have written several short stories and, yes, like most writers, I am working on a novel.

I have been married for almost 26 years. I am a mother of three and have five grandchildren. I have been employed at Mentone Agri-Center for almost 5 years but haven't been actively a part of the mill since September 4, 1991, when I fell out a door at the mill and did some major damage to my leg. I have had two surgeries and am making really good progress but, for now, I have to limit the amount of time and stress I put on my leg.

I will be writing news articles, feature stories on people and businesses and entertainment columns for the Akron-Mentone News. I am looking forward to serving as your correspondent and will try to write what you want to read.

Views On Dental Health H. RAY HAZEN, D.D.S., M.S.D., P.C.

IMPROVING YOUR APPEARANCE

If you would like to improve the appearance of your teeth and smile, ask your dentist if he would recommend the laminate veneer technique to mask any chips, gaps, discolorations, and other imperfections in your teeth. Your smile can be an asset when your teeth and gums are healthy and shaped to show you off at your best. Imperfections in the shape and condition of teeth, however, can make you self-conscious as well as detract from your general appearance.

The laminate veneer technique involves repairing and reshaping damaged tooth surfaces and applying a thin shell of tooth-colored veneers through a chemical bonding process. This procedure is not as long-lasting as crowning a damaged tooth and may have to be redone after several years' wear. However, it is also less expensive than more permanent restorations.

If you are bothered by imperfections in your teeth and would like to have them treated, discuss the problem with your dentist.

Town Council members vote themselves a raise

During the recent budget planning session for 1993, Mentone council members voted to more than double their salaries for 1993. Current annual salary is $700, $500 of which comes from the general fund and $200 from utilities. In 1993, council members will receive $1500 per year, $3,000 to come from the general fund and the balance from utilities.

Barb Ross said the increase is justified because other towns with approximately the same number of people pay comparable amounts. For example, Sweetser pays $1000, Roachdale pays $1680, and Topeka pays $2400 per year.

Council president Mike Casper said, "I personally don't see anything wrong with getting $1500 per person. The former council members should have given themselves a raise a long time ago."

Another new item on the agenda for 1993 is for storm sewer repair. The council decided to begin at $5,000 for it.

Preliminary figures for 1993, including funds for a police department should the council vote on July 6 to return to its own law enforcement, show a budget increase of almost $60,000 for the town.

Figures for the police department had to be figured into the budget at this time even though the decision hasn't been made yet.

Money tentatively budgeted for the 1993 general fund came to $192,012. This is $59,312 higher than last year's funding from assessed valuation.

Areas of the budget that would increase with the addition of a police department are salaries, an additional $45,000; insurance, $7,200; clothing allowance, $350; Social Security, $3350; and bullet proof vests, $750.

Other increases would be seen in the Public Retirement

Fund, which would increase from $1800 to $5500, the streets, sidewalks and curbs appropriation, from $7000 to $16,000. Part of the cost of a police car would be taken from here and part from the CCI budget funded by cigarette tax.

Other minor increases in the budget come from increases in the cost of obtaining postage and employee benefits.

Volunteers needed for County Fair

by Rosa Hatfield

The Mentone Chamber of Commerce needs volunteers to work at the food booth for the Kosciusko County Fair. The fair date has been moved forward this year to July 11-18 so it won't take place at the same time as the state fair.

The Chamber members will be calling people and asking them to work but it isn't always possible to reach everyone. If you don't get a call, give them one. Call Rita at 353-7417 or Orabelle at 353-7531 and offer a few hours of your time.

In other business, the Chamber discussed the Egg Festival that was held June 11, 12 and 13. Though there were a few complaints and several things that need changed for next year, Egg Festival 1992 showed a nice profit for the town.

The Chicken Drop brought in $448, the tractor pull made $359, $967.50 was received for set-ups, and $1500 came from the carnival. Expenses yet to come out of these figures include $51 for posters, $150 to Joe Ousley of Paradise Music for the donation of his time and his wonderful sound system. If Joe didn't furnish this equipment, the impact of the Egg Festival would be greatly diminished. Also paid out was $100 to the band, $50 to the Mentone United Methodist Youth for clean-up and $50 to the Kosciusko County Chorus.

The Pie-in-the-face Auction was a great success, bringing in $336 to Helping Hands for the food bank.

Some complaints and concerns about the Festival were food vendors moving out before activities were over. For some events, like the tractor pull, people counted on buying their supper at the food booths but they closed down too early. The Chamber also discussed moving the judging stand and games a little farther down the street to allow for more room during the parade. Parade line-up was difficult this year and some changes may be necessary to make that run smoother next year also.

Local organizations aren't taking advantage of this opportunity to make money for their groups. There is no set-up charge for them to have a booth. Consider this for next year as a money maker for your club or organization. Let's keep some of the money in Mentone by offering food or craft booths. Contact Rita or Orabelle for more details.

Are all fireworks legal?

If you buy fireworks which are illegal to use in Indiana, are you committing a crime?

If a fireworks vendor tells you pyrotechnics which are illegal in Indiana can be purchased if you promise to take them out of state, is he telling the truth?

Attorney General Linley Pearson says Hoosiers are often misled or mistaken when it comes to buying fireworks which are classified as illegal in Indiana.

"For many years, Fourth of July celebrants believed they were not doing anything wrong if they 'signed' for fireworks labeled illegal in Indiana," Pearson explains.

"Vendors often tell consumers they may buy the illegal fireworks by signing for them and promising to take them out of state," Pearson says.

A 1986 Indiana Supreme Court ruling said that illegal fireworks cannot be sold to Indiana residents even though the purchaser signs a statement that says the fireworks will be taken out of state.

Pearson says the sale and purchase of fireworks not classified for sale in Indiana is illegal. Anyone who sells, uses or is in possession of illegal fireworks commits a Class A misdemeanor, punishable by imprisonment of up to one year or a fine of up to $5,000.

Fireworks which are legal and approved for use in Indiana include dipped sticks or wire sparklers; cylindrical and cone fountains; illuminating torches; wheels; flitter sparklers; ground sprinklers; snakes or glow worms; smoke devices and trick noisemakers such as party poppers, booby traps, snappers and trick matches.

"Parents should examine fireworks bought by their children to determine whether the fireworks are safe and legal," Pearson says. "And, children of any age should be supervised when lighting fireworks."

"If children buy fireworks other than those approved for use in Indiana their parents should notify police or the state fire marshal," Pearson says. "Law enforcement agencies need to be able to determine that source of the fireworks."

Reputable fireworks dealers will not sell illegal fireworks to a young person."

Pearson says dealers who follow the law and have concern for public safety will have the required permit from the state fire marshal.

"It is important that consumers follow these rules to keep themselves and their children from being injured on the Fourth of July," Pearson explains. "Violations of the law occur every year, resulting in injuries happening to teenagers under age 15. Boys and young men receive the most injuries from accidents related to fireworks."

Pearson says Hoosiers celebrating the Fourth of July should follow these safety tips:

- *Store fireworks away from direct sunlight in a dry, cool area.

- *Keep a bucket of water handy to extinguish fireworks which malfunction.

- *If fireworks malfunction or do not light properly, do not attempt to light them again. Pour water over them and discard.

- *Do not point fireworks at another person, throw fireworks at others or ignite fireworks near others.

- *Read directions before lighting fireworks.

- *Light only one fuse at a time. Once the fuse is ignited, stay away. Make certain others are out of the way.

- *Do not ignite fireworks in a container.

- *Do not allow unsupervised children to ignite fireworks or play with them in any manner.

- *Light fireworks outdoors in a clear area away from houses and flammables.

"This year Hoosiers should be particularly careful because of the dry weather," Pearson says. "Make certain water is handy to put out sparks and try to set off fireworks on a paved surface rather than in a grassy area."

"I'll Skate Till I Can't Skate Any More"

by Rosa Hatfield

"Skating is such an important part of my life. I'll keep on skating till I can't skate any more." These are the words of Karla Jean Clemons, a junior at Tippecanoe Valley High School, who has no doubts about what to do with her free time.

Karla is the daughter of Tom and Madonna Stevens of Beaver Dam, where she lives with her parents and her brother Shane Stevens. She also has an older brother, Ernest Clemons and two older sisters, Donna Carr and Brenda Hubler.

Karla started skating at the age of 4 but didn't enter competition skating until she was 13. She is a member of the Family Fun team in Bristol, IN. She said her dad has been skating for several years now.

"Being a truck driver, he doesn't get to skate as often as he would like. But he goes every chance he gets," said Karla.

Shane has skated for 3 years and Brenda did for about a year. Karla would like to get her mom interested, too.

"It was her idea for me to start competition when I was 13," said Karla. "She said I needed something to keep me busy and out of trouble."

With her practice schedule, it seems to have worked. Karla has practice sessions in Bristol twice a week for 2 hours each time plus another hour per week for private lessons. Once a month, she skates in a meet. These take place in Indiana, Ohio, Michigan and Pennsylvania. Sometimes the meets take two days. If the schedule allows free time, Karla enjoys sightseeing and shopping in different towns.

Right now Karla skates figures and dance. She says the figures are the hardest but also offer the most challenge. Dance, however, is her favorite because of the beauty of some of the arrangements.

Born with two holes in her heart, Karla has always had to watch the amount of strenuous physical activity she does. Where he skating is concerned, it has prohibited her from doing freestyle because of the spins, jumps and footwork required. But nothing has ever stopped her for long and she plans to be able to try freestyle next year.

Following open heart surgery to widen the valves of her heart in August of 1991, she was back to skating in a meet by October of that same year. She says she does have to pace herself. The doctors are anticipating another open heart surgery at age 26 to replace the defective valves, and while it may slow her down for awhile, Karla plans to skate as soon as possible after that surgery, too.

"The things I enjoy most about skating are the challenge and the people I meet. The hardest part is the disappointment when I don't place in a meet and think I should have," said Karla. "I think skating has been good for me. Sometimes it makes it hard for me to keep up my school work because I am tired from practicing but it has taught me determination and I know if I let my grades drop, Mom won't let me skate."

The Family Fun Club participated in a State meet at Rock Lake on June 21, 1992. The club walked away with the trophy for highest points in the meet. Other clubs competing were Shamrock, Rock Lake and Rollerview.

Karla received 3rd place in Intra skating with Josh Sweat, two 3rd place trophies in Ladies skating with Brenda Melville, and a 3rd place in Scramble skating with Tim Vogelzang.

In July, the club will travel to Kokomo for the National meet. This will be Karla's second national meet. She captured a 4th place in Intra last year.

"I am considering turning pro," said Karla "but I don't know yet. That would mean I could teach but I would have to give up amateur skating and I might miss it too much. I do know I'm always going to skate. They even have a group for ages 30 and over called Imperial. For now, I'd just like to keep improving, challenge the higher events and keep on skating. Always, keep on skating!"

Former Miss Indiana joins Akron in celebration

Former Miss Indiana Kari Hipsher will be participating in the Akron 4th of July parade.

Miss Hipsher is from Wabash and teaches at O.J. Neighbors Elementary School. Her activities include Alpha Epsilon Chapter of Kappa Kappa Sorority, Wabash Carnegie Library Summer Reading Program Volunteer and Wabash Christian Church.

Akron P.D. adds cellular phone to department

The Akron Police Department is pleased to announce they have added a portable cellular telephone.

This is in an effort to increase their availability to the community. The system is setup to forward your call from the 893-4567 telephone number to the officer on duty.

This number is at no cost to the caller. The additional phone number is 298-7265. However there is a toll for the 298-7265 number.

According to Marshal Dan Butt, the new phone system will make the on-duty officer virtually available 24 hours a day. Marshal Butt added, "However, there will be times when the officer will be unable to answer the phone due to executing his duties. In this case we encourage the caller to call the county at 223-2819. We expect those instances to be infrequent. The department feels this new system will greatly enhance our ability to serve the community."

If anyone has any questions, Marshal Dan Butt and Deputy Marshal Tim Carpenter encourage you to call and speak with them.

Youngster's Quick Thinking Prevents Possible Disaster

by Rosa Hatfield

Seven year old Brandon Fisher and six year old Steven Ladig went to Mentzer Park to ride bikes and play. They were accompanied by their grandmothers and ready for a day of fun in the sun.

Mentzer Park in Mentone is a pretty safe place to play and both grandmothers were casual about watching the kids. They set up lawn chairs and watched the boys ride their bikes around the graveled path. When the boys crossed over the bridge into the secluded rear section to ride, the grandmothers weren't worried. Brandon and Steven's voices could be heard clearly as they laughed and called out to each other.

Suddenly, everything changed! Steven lost control of his bike and missed a curve on the path. He plunged over the bank into the creek and disappeared from sight. Brandon watched in horror as his cousin was there one minute and gone the next. Wasting no time, Brandon started yelling for help. He kept his eyes on the place where he had last seen Steven and was able to direct Steven's grandmother to the place immediately.

Steven and his bike were pulled from the creek with no lasting effects other than a few more gray hairs for both grandmothers.

If Brandon had wasted time trying to rescue Steven himself or lost track of the spot where Steven fell in, the results could have been tragic. Quick thinking and instinctively knowing what to do may have saved a life.

Parents, caretakers and grandmothers need to remember; where young children are concerned, there are no safe places. With summer here, more children are out of sight of their parents for longer periods of time and even with the proper precautions, accidents will happen.

Teach even very young children what to do in case of emergency. If they know how to get help, it may change the results of those few minutes when things get out of control.

Making Memories

by Rosa Hatfield

When a person dies, his family and friends grieve. Occasionally, a person dies and his death has an impact on an entire community. Darrell King was such a person.

Monday, June 22, 1992, waves of shock ran through Mentone and the surrounding areas as word was passed from one person to another that Darrell had died.

"Darrell was a special person in many ways. He was an energetic, enthusiastic worker who paced himself in a way so as to complete the job in a good fashion. He believed in the Bible and was a stern father. He believed that the worst form of child abuse was an undisciplined child," said his wife Mary Ann.

Mary Ann went on to say that his last nine years were filled with suffering from 1983 when he contracted meningitis and encephalitis. He slowly recovered from the terrible headaches, but in early 1988, he went to Mayo Clinic and underwent surgery for his sinus blockage. He was finally recovering well when he was struck by a drunk driver and nearly lost his life.

This past year, his asthma appeared worse and the severe attacks were more frequent. He laughingly stated he worked longer in one spot than before. He had difficulty breathing and took medications for high blood pressure, asthma, and sinus conditions. He never slept the whole night through because of pain. He did physical work to forget the pain.

In recent weeks, he told Mary Ann details about his funeral and declared that people plan for everything in life, like birth, school, marriage, and occupations and should not neglect preparing for death because it was sure to come.

He lived a Christian life since he accepted Christ at age 17. He invested heavily in the church, not just his own but all the area churches. He and Gary Welborn installed carpet in many of them and Darrell conveniently "forgot" to send them a bill. He had a gift from God of an indomitable spirit and a positive attitude.

On his final day, Darrell suffered a severe asthma attack and subsequently, his heart failed and he was able to leave this life as he hoped, quickly and not rusting away in bed.

He loved his wife, children, grandchildren, mother and sister. He loved work, singing, being "in charge", working with people, growing things like fruit, strawberries and corn. He loved his Vietnamese family, woodworking, family singing concerts, playing the guitar, 4-H kids, animals, a beautiful lawn, flowers, Pennsylvania Dutch cooking, the farm and all the neighbor kids, his community, Mentone Days and sports.

Darrell was born Nov. 14, 1938, in Bellefontaine, Ohio to J. Emmett and Zella May Yoder King. On June 13, 1959, he married Mary Ann Hostetter. Many Mentone residents will carry the memory of his recent tribute to Mary Ann for a long time. During the Variety show at this year's Egg Festival, Darrell had Rita Price present Mary Ann with thirty-three roses as a tribute to their 33 years of marriage.

Thirty years ago, Darrell and Mary Ann moved to Mentone from Ohio. October 1, 1962, Darrell purchased the Reed Funeral Home and Johns Funeral Home, now King Memorial Home. From 1967 to 1979, he owned and operated King's Furniture and Carpet.

Gary Welborn fondly recalls the days when Darrell taught him to lay carpet. Gary started working with Darrell in the summer of 1973, laying carpet, helping with funerals, going on ambulance runs, clearing trees on the farm or whatever needed done.

"One time he had a can of peanuts on the dash of the truck and I ate them all while I was waiting for him," recalls Gary. "He never let me forget that I ate all his peanuts. It became a standing joke between us and I bought him a can of peanuts every year for Christmas after that," said Gary.

"I remember when we lived at the Audra Tombaugh farm in 1977," continued Gary. "There was a bad snowstorm and we were low on fuel. We had a 2 month old baby then. Darrell drove out as far as he could, then walked the rest of the way in to get us. We stayed two nights with him. That's how he was, always helping someone."

Jerry Hudson remembers, "When our son David was small, we were walking down the street. Leafy and I were shocked to hear David call out, 'Hi, Ugly' to Darrell as we passed by his house. Before we could scold David, Darrell was there explaining to us that it was his fault. He had been teasing David and calling him 'uglier than I am' for some time and David was just responding."

Mary Ann says Darrell always loved to pick on the kids. He gave them nicknames and always carried candy in his pocket for them.

Darrell was also very concerned about the elderly folk. His daughter Kathleen remembers he would shovel their walks or rake their leaves, often without letting them know who was responsible. He just wanted to help, he didn't want the credit for doing so.

Perhaps one of the things Darrell loved most was a good joke. His mother, Zella remembers many pranks he pulled as a youngster but she said they were always in good fun, not the kind of things to get him in trouble.

Kenny Menzie was on the receiving end of several of Darrell's jokes. "I remember the one Darrell always said was the best joke he'd ever pulled. Me and Leatha, my wife, were having a spat. Well, I guess Darrell heard us and decided to get us talking together again. It was about dusk and the Kralis truck had gone through town and lost some chickens off the truck. I heard something in the kitchen and went to look. There was the scrawniest looking chicken you ever saw, half its feathers were missing, and it was squawking around in my kitchen. I hollered for Leatha and of course, we got to talking. We had to work together to get that thing out of the house, which was how Darrell had it figured when he put it there."

"Another good one he pulled on me," said Kenny, "was the time he set up a toilet stool and tank filled with flowers in my yard. There was a little umbrella over the top and a Sears catalog at the base. I came home just about dark and saw that thing."

"He will be greatly missed," said Leatha, "this whole town has been upset all week."

"His shoes are going to be very big to fill," said Kenny, "he was a remarkable fellow."

Mary Ann remembers the time Darrell and Gary Welborn laid carpet at the Akron Church. The ventilation wasn't what it should have been and they both got intoxicated from the fumes of the sealant they were using. They both rolled around on the floor laughing, once they got back to Darrell's.

Darrell's son, Herb, remembers going with his dad to lay carpet at the high school. A union boss had been trying to get Darrell to join and Darrell had been avoiding him. The man caught up with Darrell at the high school and said Darrell had better think about getting a (union) card. Darrell replied, "I've got a card that takes care of all the unions," and proceeded to show the man his embalming license. The man stammered and went out the door. Darrell didn't hear from him again.

Darrell's sister, Shirley, was the recipient of many of Darrell's jokes. "I remember the time I said I wanted a stone for my birthday," he said. "I meant a diamond or something like that. Darrell got me a tombstone. He said everybody needed one. He said it was his responsibility to take care of me."

When Mary Ann asked him the next year what he was going to get Shirley, he replied, "Nothing, she didn't use what I got her last year."

One year when Shirley wanted an electric screwdriver, Darrell took a regular screwdriver and glued a cord on it.

Shirley said, "He was always the first to make sure people had what they needed. At Thanksgiving, he always bought several turkeys to give to the needy. He often supplied fuel oil to people out of work."

Phil Smith said in this newspaper column, "A stronger family foundation cornerstone than Darrell King does not exist."

Carol Boyer remembers Darrell calling her his red-headed sister to get her in to see him when he was in the hospital following his accident. The name stuck and he has called her that since. "I'm really going to miss him," said Carol. "We used to talk a lot. I was his confidante and he was mine. When either one of us needed a good listener, the other was there."

Jack Simpson summed it up for a lot of people when he spoke at Darrell's funeral. He said, "You get to walk through life with a lot of people. I'm just glad I got to walk through it with Darrell King."

Darrell leaves behind his wife, Mary Ann; his mother, Zella; two daughters, Kathleen Martin and Marilyn Kindig; four sons, Dr. Herbert King II, Philip D. King, John A. King, and Samuel A. King. Also a sister, Shirley King, four grandchildren, many friends, and the memories he spent a lifetime making.

Akron Business of the Week

Lake City Bank

by Tonia Weller

When Lake City Bank opened their Akron office on October 3, 1990, they continued a tradition of banking on the corner of Main and Mishawaka streets. The building Lake City Bank now occupies was originally the Akron Exchange Bank. It then housed a jewelry store and an insurance office before again being used as a bank. The beautiful mosaic tile floor in Lake City's lobby has been restored from the original bank.

Like all other Lake City Bank offices, the Akron office is furnished completely in antiques. The round oak table, stained glass lamps, and other antique furniture create a warm, friendly atmosphere quite different from the stark, modern institutional feel of many banks today.

"Lake City Bank is extremely customer oriented," Akron Office Manager Jane Murphy says. "The bank wants to meet the needs of the people in their particular community. They know what's good for Warsaw may be entirely different for Akron. Whatever market they're in, those are the needs they meet."

The Akron office is open on Mondays, Tuesdays and Wednesdays from 8:30 a.m. until 4:00 p.m., on Fridays from 8:30 'til 5:00, and on Saturdays from 8:30 until noon.

The third oldest charter bank in Indiana, Lake City has 19 full service banking offices (a 20th will soon open) in 16 cities and towns in a six mortgage, auto, business and personal loans, with all but the largest loan decisions being made by local personnel. Unlike many banks, Lake City has historically serviced all mortgage loans made by the bank.

They also offer a discount stock brokerage service to their customers. "Everybody thinks you have to be rich to invest in stocks, but that's not true," Jane says. "The amounts and the options are almost limitless." She goes on to explain, "Our bank can usually handle the transaction for a smaller fee than a broker. That's very beneficial to a small investor. It sounds scary to some people but it's really a very simple process."

In addition to the local personnel, Lake City has other banking experts available to visit the Akron office when needed. "We have a very knowledgeable trust department," Jane says. "It is so important to keep up on the current situation with trusts. They can come down here any day to meet with a customer. And our commercial loan officer, Clint Pletcher, grew up in the small town of Pierceton. He loves working with and helping small town businesses."

Jane says, like most banks, Lake City has been especially busy the past six months refinancing long term mortgage loans with new lower rate loans.

Jane and her husband, Maurice, who works at Pike Lumber, have two children. Their daughter, Jana, is a senior at Grace College and their son, Justin, is a senior at Tippecanoe Valley.

Although Jane feels recent economic problems have made life difficult for some Akron businesses, in general Akron has not been hit as hard as many other communities. "This is a very dedicated community," she says.

The Akron office offers all banking services, including

FAITH DECLARES A BUDGET VACATION AN ENJOYABLE ONE

Vacation time is here for many of us, and this year it may have to be a low budget one. However, wherever we live in this wonderful country, there is always something beautiful to see nearby, as well as some fun things to do; even if we just lounge around the back yard and maybe take an occasional ride to the woods or a beach, if there's one handy. It's not necessary to spend a lot of money in order to have a good time, escape from the cares and chores of the rest of the year, and see the wonders of nature. Just remember that God made this world we live in, and He put a lot of beauty into it that man, with all his huge shopping malls, etc., cannot completely eradicate. Remember also that God will be watching over you, whether you're at home or away.

Agena rocket engine on display at Bell Museum

by Rosa Hatfield

The Bell Agena Rocket Engine, Bell Aerospace, Model #8001, manufactured in 1957 is on display at the Bell Aircraft Museum. This engine, known as the "workhorse of the space age," is the first operational storable liquid pump-fed space vehicle rocket engine. The outstanding reliability record (99.7%) directly results from the simplicity of its design features.

The turbo pump is unsophisticated and rugged with ample design margins. Its mission reliability is 100%. The monolithic aluminum thrust chamber, with its drilled coolant passages, is unique in the rocket field.

The Agena is a multi-purpose space vehicle designed to perform ascent, precision orbit injection and space craft missions from low earth to lunar and interplanetary. It has flown on the Thor, Atlas and Titan boosters.

It has flown more than 360 times on twenty different missions, including Discoverer, Ranger, Mariner, Gemini, as well as a large number of Air Force military missions.

The most prominent mission was Gemini, in which the Gemini vehicle made the world's first manned rendezvous with the Agena target vehicle.

The Agena has placed itself in a variety of programmed orbits, from 100 miles circular to 50,000 miles eccentric. It has also carried into space auxiliary or piggy-back satellites and has sent space craft to the Moon, Mars, and Venus.

Production began in 1957 and in 1962, Bell produced 54 Agena engines. In 1966, there were 40 flights. The production rate of 4 per month demonstrated the producibility of the engine design.

Later models of the Agena engine are being produced and used today, the later version being the most versatile as well as the most used of all the satellites. Completely, stabilized, completely controllable, and completely maneuverable in space, it has carried more experiments than any other satellite. It has carried the most types of power supply, including a nuclear reactor and an ion engine. It has more re-starts in orbit than any other satellites. Its payload equipment has functioned in excess of six months on a single Air Force flight. The Agena is currently being used on the SEASAT ocean survey satellite.

In the course of more than 360 flights, the Agena has established many significant technological advances. It was the first polar orbiting satellite, first in-space engine re-start, first recovery of payloads from space by both air and water retrieval, first vehicle to provide on orbit maneuvers, and first to conduct manned orbital rendezvous and space docking.

The Bell Aircraft Museum is open on Sundays from 1:00 p.m. to 5:00 p.m. If anyone would like to visit and can't make it during those hours, call any member of the Bell Museum Board for an appointment. Members include Bill Ettinger, Bob Whetstone, R.J. Hill, Chet Smith, Harold Lucht, Gerald Romine, Elaine Fugate, Lois Miller, Sue Pyle and Linda Cochran.

Research for the information I have provided on the Agena was done by Harold Lucht.

The Bell Aircraft Museum will have a display set up at Pioneer Days in Warsaw on July 11, 1992, from 9:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. They will be exhibiting a few items from the museum and selling souvenirs to help raise money for future projects.

Linda Cochran reports that in 1992, the building should be paid off. She said, "The people of Mentone have been responsible for this. They have raised money with Port-a-pit chicken sales, mincemeat pies, raffles...Now if we can just come up with the money to start building the hanger. When we have it built, we will have aircraft in it on loan from the Smithsonian. We would like to have it finished by 1994. That would be Larry Bell's 100th birthday."

New members added to cemetery board

by Rosa Hatfield

Jay Woodruff and Wayne Tombaugh appeared at the Mentone town board meeting to get the council's okay to fill the position on the cemetery board left open by the death of Darrell King and to add another member as well. The board accepted the suggestions of having Don Smythe and Jerry Hudson fill these positions. It was also agreed that Mary Ann King take over the position of sexton as she already knows the job and has the books there.

Dangerous situation caused by hole at Dickerhoff Trucking

by Rosa Hatfield

The large hole caused by partial clean-up of a fuel spill at Dickerhoff Trucking was a matter of concern at the Mentone town council meeting. Mike Casper said he has spoken to Richard Dickerhoff about filling the hole. Dickerhoff told him that his hands are tied on the matter because the state won't sign the necessary letter allowing him to proceed.

The hole is located across from the Mentone Youth League and poses a hazard, especially to young children. It is quite deep and filled with water and while surrounded by a fence; it wouldn't take much for a child to end up inside.

The council decided to have Bazini contact IDEM by letter and see why the hole can't be filled.

Feed Mill Vandalized

by Rosa Hatfield

During the weekend of June 27 and 28, someone broke into Mentone Agri-Center in Mentone and caused $3,000 to $5,000 damages, according to owner, Bill Wohead.

A tractor was driven out the front door, around to the rear of the building and rammed into a delivery truck parked in the rear entrance of the mill. The vandals first removed the battery from the charger and installed it in the tractor. Fire extinguishers were taken outside the mill and emptied. A wheel barrow was cut in half and many fireproof globes were broken. Approximately 600 bushel of oats were removed from the bin and scattered.

The office area was also broken into. Six cases of soft drinks were taken and papers were scattered all over the floors.

Mini Mart sign still a problem

by Rosa Hatfield

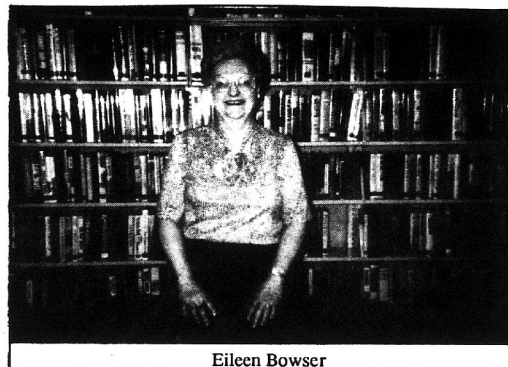

The continuing problem of the sign at Sand's Mini Mart was discussed at the Monday, July 6th meeting of the Menton town board. Mike Casper, council president, said there was another "near miss" over this past weekend at the location. The sign is located so that it blocks a driver's view when trying to pull out of the Sand's parking lot onto State Road 25.

The council has made a number of requests to have the sign moved, but all have apparently been ignored. Lee Bazini, town attorney, was contacted and the council advised him to start legal proceedings against Sands.

Memorial planned for Darrell King

by Rosa Hatfield

Barb Ross told the council she was approached by a committee planning a memorial for Darrell King and asked for a donation. The town council decided to donate $200 which will be taken from the cemetery fund.

Libraries are in the information business

by Rosa Hatfield

When you think of a business, you don't often think of a library. But consider this; libraries have a service to offer to the public, a budget to work within, expenses to meet, and customers to satisfy. Bell Memorial Public Library has been in business for 76 years in Mentone.

In April, 1916, fifty-five citizens got together and presented a total of $158 as a guarantee of good faith for a proposed library in Mentone. Before this time the only library service had been provided by the H. Parmalee Company of Chicago. Through them, the town was allowed the use of 2000 books over a two year period for a fee. The books were sent in installments of fifty books.

In 1916, a room was found over the bank to use as temporary housing for the library and Mrs. Allen Jefferies was appointed as librarian for the first years. Charles Dillingham, Mrs. Flavia Myers, Levi Jefferies, Mrs. Emma Yocum, LeRoy Smith, Mrs. Allen Jefferies and George Ralston were named to the Board of Directors.

The Board of Education donated all the books to the library except the reference books and fifty books that were borrowed from the State Library.

On November 1, 1918, the library was moved from its temporary headquarters to a room in a building owned by Carlyn Myers on the north side of Main Street. Mrs. Frances Clark was appointed as librarian. She served until 1919 and was succeeded by Madge Lyons. In October, 1920, Cora VanGilder was appointed as librarian and served until her death on July 7, 1946. Mabel Emmons served as acting librarian until the job was given to Pearl Lackey in 1947.

The library moved once again in 1936 to a building on the south side of Main Street which had been purchased for $2600 as the permanent quarters for the library.

Upon the death of Lawrence D. Bell, inventor of the Bell X-1, the first plane to fly faster than the speed of sound, the town received a $20,000 grant from his estate with the request from Bell to build a memorial to his parents, Isaac and Harriet (Sarber) Bell. The town decided to use the money, along with $3,000 raised from the sale of the old building, to build a new library at 306 N. Broadway. The name was changed to the Bell Memorial Public Library.

In 1971, a one-room addition was added to the original building using money from the Library Improvement Reserve Fund.

Pearl Lackey retired in 1973 and Madeleine Fisher was appointed as librarian. Eileen Bowser was hired by Lackey and recently celebrated her 30th anniversary as assistant librarian.

According to Fisher, the library completed its long range plan in March 1990. Last year the state legislature granted libraries permission to create capital project funds. This allows them to collect an extra 4 cents per hundred to put aside into a savings

Library to have Sunday hours

by Rosa Hatfield

The Bell Memorial Public Library will begin Sunday hours beginning July 19. They will be open from 1:00 p.m. to 4:00 p.m. every Sunday except national holidays.

The library will begin Children's Story Hour again on July 22. Story hours introduce the preschool aged child to children's literature and provide a group experience. They also acquaint children with a wide range of books, folk-tales and legends, and encourage development of life-long reading interests.

Story hour is for children ages 3 to 6 years, who are able to stay in the Story Hour corner without mother. If younger children also come to the library, they are welcome to play with the puzzles and toys if they are taken to the reference room, where parents gather for coffee during the stories.

Advance registration is requested in order to limit the size of each group and insure the quality of the experience. Parents must have or obtain a library number.

Parents are asked to call if their child is unable to attend a session.

Parents should try to arrive a few minutes before Story Hour so that children have a chance to mingle with the other youngsters prior to the beginning of each program. It is also very disruptive to the group when a child arrives late.

Each Story Hour lasts from 30 to 45 minutes. It is not necessary for the parents to remain in the building, but they should return before the end of the session. Parents are requested to come into the library when picking up a child. This is especially important during the winter months when children need help with boots and outer garments.

Parents do not attend Story Hour sessions except by special request of the staff member conducting the Story Hour.

Library hours are 9:00 to 5:00 M, T, W, F, Sat. and 9:00 to 8:00 Th. Story hours are Wednesdays at 10:00, 11:00, and 2:00.

Mentone will hire a town marshal

by Rosa Hatfield

After listening to the complaints from Mentone residents over the past several months and carefully considering the costs of maintaining a police force, town board members, Mike Casper, Terry Reed and Lynn Phillips voted unanimously to go back to having a town marshal in Mentone.

Many residents have complained about the length of time required for assistance to arrive from the county sheriff's department when a complaint is called in.

Bids being accepted for repaving

by Rosa Hatfield

Brian Reed told the Mentone town council what streets he has marked for repaving. He included Jackson, from Walnut to Harrison; Jackson from Tucker to Broadway; Jackson from Morgan to Yale; Princeton to the end; Broadway from Jackson to Harrison; Harrison from Broadway to Morgan; Walnut south of Washington; High from Tucker to Broadway and from Broadway to Morgan; Morgan around the curve to the school; and the laudromat alley.

Reed broke these down into two categories, those that needed immediate repair and those that needed work by next year. Estimate for those deemed necessary immediately was $25,813. To do all of the ones mentioned, estimates ran to $39,736. The job will be put out for bids to meet state requirements, since it is over $25,000. The bids will be opened at the August 3rd meeting at 7:00 p.m. Bid specs can be picked up after July 13 at the clerk's office.

Brian Reed also asked the council for help in obtaining more jail laborers. He was informed recently by Al Rovenstein that the jail program is to run a 3 week period only and Mentone's time is up. Help is still needed to clean catch basins and cut weeds. Reed said if it isn't possible to get jail help, they would have to think about some part-time help for a while.

complained about the increase in vandalism and theft since 1987, when the last town marshal retired and law enforcement was turned over to the county. Residents have also complained about the increase in juvenile crimes and speeding through town among other things.

A petition was circulated and presented to the council containing names of residents who want a town marshal in Mentone. Council members have determined the probable cost to establish the department may be about $75,800.

They will be taking applications and resumes until September 1, 1992. Tentatively planning on having a marshal begin in January of 1993, would allow the council sufficient time to process the applications and fund; adding up to $14,000 a year for Bell to save for implementing the long range plan.

Some proposed changes for Bell Library include rearranging the interior, moving some walls and bumping out the front to make it larger but since libraries have been under a frozen levy for several years, they have been unable to do any improvements without borrowing the whole amount.

Fisher says the library's number of patrons has increased by about 500 cardholders in the last decade and the items loaned have risen from about 22,000 in 1980 to over 63,000 in 1990.

One of the strong points of the library is their youth program. There are 3.5 youth checkouts for every 1 adult. Many of these are videos but Fisher maintains that the readership increase hasn't been affected by the videos.

"I do want the children to read books, too," she said. "But they also learn from videos. They are a legitimate form of education and entertainment. There have been many people who came in here for a video and ended up taking out a book, too. Whenever you add a new service, it also pulls up the old ones."

The library recently announced the addition of Sunday hours to its schedule. Beginning July 19, the library will be open on Sundays from 1:00 p.m. to 4:00 p.m. run the necessary background checks on the applicants. After a marshal is hired, he would help with the selection of a deputy and reservist officers.

The next meeting will be August 3, 1992 at 7:00 p.m. in the clerk's office.

Feed Mill Vandalized...

6, Wohead entered the mill, only to find that vandals had been busy once more. Oats were scattered around again, the tractor had been moved, as if the vandals took up where they left off. Wohead said he doesn't have any idea who is responsible but feels the two incidents are probably related.

Kosciusko County Sheriff's office is investigating. In addition, Wohead has offered a $50.00 reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the person or persons responsible for the damage.

AVOIDING TOOTH EXTRACTION

If you have an infected or badly decayed and damaged tooth in your mouth and conventional restorative treatment can not save it, ask your dentist if he would recommend root canal therapy. This technique offers an important alternative for saving your teeth. By keeping your teeth in your mouth as long as possible, they can continue to function in maintaining the shape of your face as well as in chewing food. There is NO equally strong substitute for your natural teeth.

Root canal treatment involves the removal of diseased tissue from the root of a tooth and replacing it with a sterile filler. The tooth is then sealed to prevent further infection. This is a relatively comfortable procedure and is usually performed with the aid of local anesthesia when a tooth is severely infected.

High speed dental instruments and other techniques also help to make root canal therapy more comfortable for the patient. They have also helped reduce the time needed to complete the procedure.

When is an alley not an alley?

by Rosa Hatfield

Kenny Menzie appeared before the Mentone town council asking that something be done about the alley between his house and Med Tool. He stated that he had taken care of the upkeep of it for 35 years before the town installed the sewer system. He said now it is full of holes and so dusty that he can't open his windows due to the continuous traffic caused by having a business there and suggested it be paved like the alley behind the businesses uptown were.

Brian Reed said this would set a precedent and everyone would want their alleys paved. He suggested Menzie put calcium chloride on it to settle the dust and the town would fill the pot holes.

There was some question of whether it is even an alley or just a right of way for NIPSCO. And if it's just a right of way for NIPSCO, why is everyone using it for an alley? And just who is responsible for its upkeep? The matter is being looked into.

Summer heat takes toll on partially full tanks

With summer in full swing, one of the last things on the minds of area residents is home heating oil. But in actuality, summer is one of the best times to take steps to protect your tank and plan for winter fuel use.

"In summer's high humidity months, empty or partly filled tanks collect water," says Donald Paul, Manager of Fulton-Marshall Farm Bureau Cooperative Association, Inc.

"This accumulated water can lead to rust and microbiological growth inside the tank. These elements clog fuel filters, lower combustion efficiency and ultimately impair your burner life," continues Paul.

Many home heating oil customers are unaware of the problems a partially filled tank can cause. When they experience poor performance or filter clogging in the winter months, they often assume they received a batch of poor quality fuel.

Another advantage of filling a home heating oil tank in the summer months is that customers can take advantage of off-season, low-demand pricing. An early fill also protects customers against potential price increases that may occur during an unpredictably cold winter season. Supply of top-quality heating oil is guaranteed, regardless of weather or global market circumstances.

"Customers know that it's important to buy a quality heating oil refined from low-sulfur sweet crude. They've invested a lot of money in their furnace and they expect it to last a long time. Now, by keeping tanks full in the summer, they can better protect their winter fuel supply and save money at the same time," concludes Paul.

Commander's Day Air Show at Grissom

The American heritage is one to be proud of -- it is one of many struggles and victories. As such, Grissom AFB is proud to celebrate its place in history and its golden anniversary through the Commander's Day Air Show on Saturday, August 22 and Sunday, August 23.

On hand to celebrate the festivities will be the Navy's Blue Angels. The breathtaking performances of the Blue Angels will bring the Navy back to Grissom. They will demonstrate the precision and skill which have made America's military a global force as they flash across the Hoosier horizon in the F/A-18 Hornet strike fighter.

The Army will also be on hand with its Golden Knights parachute team to celebrate Grissom's golden anniversary. The knights will plunge from 2,000 feet up to land at center stage.

Grissom has a heritage all its own. Originally opened by the Navy in July 1942, the base became an Air Force installation in 1954. After 26 years of bearing the name Bunker Hill AFB, the base was renamed in 1968 after Lt. Col Virgil "Gus" Grissom, an Indiana native who was one of the original seven astronauts.

The base will be open to the public for the two-day event from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Admission and parking are free. However, no overnight camping is allowed on the base.

This is a prime opportunity to pay tribute to America's heritage as well as to celebrate Grissom's golden anniversary.

And The Winner Is.....

Many students in grades K-8 at the Tippecanoe Valley Schools participated in a book award program entitled Young Hoosier Book Award. There are three lists for the various grade levels. Upon reading a certain number students may vote for their personal favorite. The votes are sent to the state organization of AIME (Association of Indiana Media Educators) and tallied. All total over 54,000 students voted.

The winner of the K-3 category was Heckedy Peg by Audrey Wood. Grades 4-6 have Nightmare Mountain by Peg Kehret the most votes. Lois Duncan took the award for grade 6-8 with her thriller, Don't Look Behing You.

Several students read 20 books from the lists, and many read 40 books. These books cover a variety of subjects from comedy, mystery, science fiction, historical fiction, and realistic fiction. Many students are already reading the list for next year.

The winning authors are invited as guests to the AIME conference in Indianapolis in March to receive their awards. This past year Ann Martin, well known author of the Babysitters Club Books, was presented an award for her book Ten Kids, No Pets. Gary Paulsen won the 37th award for his book, Hatchet.

Parents, please go the library with your children. It really makes a difference when you show them reading is important in the summer schedule. Reading aloud is still the single most important help you can give your students whether they are seven or twelve.

Remonstrance Planned

The Concerned Taxpayers for Tippecanoe Valley School Corporation will file a remonstrance against the middle school building project, the group's leader Joe Day of Akron has announced.

Day questioned acting Superintendent Karen Boling about the remonstrance period at last week's school board meeting. Once the corporation receives the project number they have applied for from the state, a legal notice will be published. After the publication, the citizens' group will have 30 days in which to collect the names of 50 freeholders on a petition. In order to sign the petition, a person must own real estate in the Tippecanoe Valley school district.

Day said he plans to file the petition with the auditors in both Fulton and Kosciusko counties, who will then check the validity of the signatures. The auditor will then notify the state board of tax commissioners who will conduct a hearing on the matter. The school corporation will be required to show legal reason for spending the money.

"I don't foresee any trouble in collecting the signatures," Day said. "I've already been contacted by more than 50 people."

The group plans to have petitions available at Day Hardware in Akron and other locations. Day said he would announce the names of petition carriers in the Akron, Mentone, Burket, Talma and Beaver Dam areas once the remonstrance period begins.

"There have been rumors circulating that signing the petition would put the signers in legal jeopardy if there is a delay in the building plan that results in a higher cost and then the school wins. People have been told the signers could be held liable for the cost increase," Day says. "This is a complete fabrication. There is no truth to that at all. We have checked with our lawyer on what our legal responsibilities and liabilities are, and basically we have no liability. This is a part of the legal process. It is important that freeholders who do not agree with the decision to build, sign the petitions and then attend the hearing. This hearing won't be like the last one. The state will be there and they will indeed listen...It is important to show the state how the patrons feel on this issue."

Valley Board Elects Officers

In their annual reorganization meeting, July 13, the Tippecanoe Valley School Board welcomed a new member, elected officers and chose a new assistant superintendent.

New board member Forrest Kantner was sworn in as the representative from Harrison Township.

Joe Crill was elected board president after a motion to re-elect Fred McSherry failed for lack of a second. McSherry was elected vice president and Mike McFarland was chosen as secretary. Judy Hively and Linda Murphy were reappointed as treasurer and deputy treasurer, respectively.

The board voted 4-1 (Jeff Tilden casting the no vote) to name Dr. Dan Kramer as assistant superintendent. Kramer has been with the corporation since 1979, first at Akron school and later as principal at Mentone. Patrons Joe Day and Barry Peterson questioned the need for an assistant superintendent. Both felt those duties could be handled by the other seven members of the administration. Peterson noted that a South Bend superintendent earned $77,000 and had 18,000 students, while Baxter Paige's salary last year was $71,996 for 2,000 students. Day added that administrative salary costs have increased 12.6 percent.

Richard Day said the board had made a good choice in Kramer for the job, but that Mentone was losing a "good man".

The meeting became rather heated when Mark Wise commented on the middle school project and Crill responded, "We've been advised by our attorney not to comment on any subject that's not on the agenda." Joe Day argued that was not true. He said, "We can ask for information and you must disseminate that information-unless you have secrets."

Crill denied having secrets, but said other matters needed the board's time and energy.

Wise continued to question the space allotted to the industrial arts program in the new middle school plans. Superintendent Boling said the current drawings are "strictly preliminary" and that architects are working on new blueprints. She added, "We are equally concerned about all programs."

Richard and Joe Day both took the board to task for Crill's remarks about their attorney's advice. Crill said the board could accept input and take it under advisement. Richard Day responded, "When? In a secret executive session?" He then referred to the last line on each month's agenda calling for an executive session to discuss personnel. "It seems you must have a big problem with personnel."

In response to a question from Joe Day, Boling said she did not know when the 30 day remonstrance period will begin. She explained that a project number has been applied for, but not yet received and that the period would begin at that time.

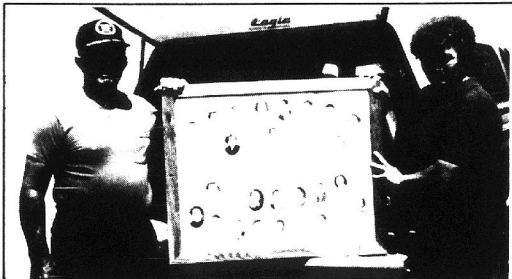

After considerable discussion the board voted 4-1 to extend administrative contracts to June 30, 1994. Tilden again cast the dissenting vote. As required by law, Boling will be given a three-year contract.

Kantner requested that the minutes of a June board meeting be changed to reflect that he had attended only long enough to help interview an assistant superintendent. He said he did not know what other board members had done after he left.

In other matter, the board:

*Approved a 10 cent increase in lunch prices. Elementary lunches will cost $1.15; high school lunches, $1.25; and adult lunches, $1.90. Reduced lunch prices will remain at 40 cents. Boling will

The Mentone High School Picture Committee has been busy getting composites ready to hang. Wayne Baumgartner recently finished the construction of 18 frames. He donated his labor for 3 weeks to have them ready to hang.

The committee hopes to have the rest of the composites hung by Labor Day. There will be viewing Sunday, September 13 at the annual Mentone High School Alumni meeting.

Money for materials have been earned through donations, and raffles; the most recent being the one held during the Egg Festival. Winner of the afghan donated by Jean Pritchard was Honey Kuhn. Barb Ross won an oil painting donated by Janet King Brooks, Frank Manwaring won a leaded glass lamp donated by Bob Goshert, and Merdena Bechtol won a large doily made by Joy Miller and donated by Linda Cochran.

Bob Shull, former Mentone graduate, has been making the display cases for these pictures. They are hanging at Mentone School on the wall outside the gym.

The Picture Committee is also selling note cards to help raise money for enlarging the photos and other expenses. The cards were designed and hand sketched by Madeline Fisher, librarian for Bell Memorial Public Library. They show a picture of the old Mentone High School 1932-1974 and are available at many of the downtown businesses.

Karen Boling responds to middle school criticism

Valley's acting superintendent Karen S. Boling.
(Photo by Tonia Weller)

by Tonia Weller

On July 1, Karen S. Boling assumed the duties of acting superintendent of Tippecanoe Valley School Corporation. Her title will be changed to superintendent later this summer, after she receives her doctorate in education. "I'm nearing completion now," she says. "I've mailed the major part of my dissertation."

Mrs. Boling, 46, is not new to the Valley school system. She held the position of assistant superintendent for four years. And she is certainly not new to the field of education. Her career has included being a teacher and vocational coordinator in the Indianapolis Schools, serving as Dean of Students at Carmel High School, being an assistant professor and department chairman at Butler University and instructing at IU/PU in Fort Wayne. In addition, she has conducted numerous seminars and workshops at Indiana high schools and universities.

Mrs. Boling's appointment as superintendent met with approval from most Valley patrons even though she strongly supports the controversial middle school building project, which many of them oppose.

Last year she chaired the committee that studied and recommended middle school program and facility needs. "We went through a process where we involved some of the very people who are opposing the middle school project on a committee to identify educational needs for the students," she says. "And clearly we had a consensus. Everybody agreed on what we ought to do until we began looking at facility options best suited to house those curriculum needs. At that point, not everyone chose to participate because of their strong personal feelings. I went in to that committee caring about one thing and that's a quality program for our students. If we could get a quality program by keeping the facilities separate, I didn't care so much about the facility. But it became clear that we could not afford to delivery a high quality program in two separate facilities, what with budget restrictions and all. We would have to duplicate facilities and duplicate technology. And I don't think that is in the best interest of the taxpayer, because it will cost more money. There's a faction that says, 'The tax rate isn't what matters, it's our schools and our community.' But there's another faction that says, 'I'm tired of increases in my taxes.' And I'm very sensitive to that."

Mrs. Boling feels, in addition to a financial advantage, a single school would enable the corporation to expand programs and offer more programs. She sees no major changes in the staff.

Another aspect of a two school system which concerns Mrs. Boling is the possible implementation of the CHOICE system in the state. This system allows parents to choose which school their children will attend. "If parents are given a choice, they will start gravitating to that school that they feel, for whatever reason, is best. Suddenly you've created a 'good school' and a 'bad school'. I don't think we want that."

Mrs. Boling says she does not understand peoples' fears of losing their community. "I can't imagine that they feel they lost their community when the high schools moved out here. It all comes together. The parents support the activities. I think people are afraid we might move the elementary schools, but we have no intention of doing that."

Mrs. Boling's short-term goals for the corporation include a self-assessment for the Performance Based Accreditation with the state.

"Strategically placing our corporation in a position so that we can move into the 21st century with our students," is Mrs. Boling's major long-term goal. "We will be changing to an information age type of learning structure." This, she says, will mean a more integrated approach to teaching with more merging of classes, a block type of scheduling and an emphasis on technology to get information. "In the past, we've given kids a lot of knowledge that they stored. Now, rather than being storehouses of knowledge, we will be teaching kids how to learn so that they can learn throughout their lifetime. Instead of teaching kids facts that may become obsolete, we will teach them how to learn those skills on their own. The content and the delivery will change. Kids will be much more involved in their education. Teachers will share the teaching/learning process. Teachers will learn as much as the kids."

Mrs. Boling grew up in Indianapolis and graduated from Arlington High School. She received her masters in Business Education from IU in 1970 and her school administration license from Butler University in 1980. She and her husband, Darrell, who is retired as an administrator with the Warsaw Schools, live in Warsaw. Their home, on Country Club Drive, is for sale and they plan to move into the Valley district after it is sold. The Bolings two children, Daena, 16 and Brian, 19, both live at home. Daena, who is a senior, will make the decision as to which school she will attend if the family moves before she graduates.

The transition from assistant to superintendent has been a bit hectic for Mrs. Boling. "Summer is a very busy time," she says. "We're required to do the budget in the summer, coupled with the fact that we do have a building project that is meeting some opposition."

The building project is in the developmental stage, now. The architects have met with the teachers and are now working on classroom design. Once the final design is approved, bids will be let. The administration hopes to have the building ready for occupancy at the beginning of the '94 school term.

That, of course, could all change if the opposition pursues a remonstrance. "Legally, they will have an opportunity to go through a remonstrance," Mrs. Boling says. If that happens, the project could be delayed indefinitely and costs could rise. "We're looking at a situation right now, where interest rates are low, but the longer we wait, the more we deal with the potential of interest rates going up. Which is a big problem," Mrs. Boling says. "And if we have a remonstrance, we'll have to hire legal representation."

Mrs. Boling feels that the payback is far greater for dollars spent on education than for money spent to support people who don't have an education. "We either pay to educate, so that they can become productive citizens, or we're going to pay for them because they're not productive citizens. The dollars are better spent on education," she concludes.

Christmas in July

Combined Community Services is sponsoring a program to help provide school supplies for children from needy families. A Christmas tree is sitting in the lobby of Lake City Bank in Mentone with tags bearing the name of a child in the Mentone, Burket and Akron schools, the list of school supplies needed and clothing sizes. Anyone wanting to help may choose a tag, register your name and tag number on a sign up sheet, purchase the supplies and deliver them to Combined Community Services at 212 E. Market Street in Warsaw by July 31. The office there is open from 8 till noon and from 1 to 5.

There is still time to help a child get ready for school. The purchase of gifts of clothing is optional.

Bell X-1

A model of the Bell X-1 is now on display at the Bell Aircraft Museum in Mentone. The museum is open on Sunday from 1:00 p.m. to 5:00 p.m. Other viewing times may be arranged by calling a member of the Bell Aircraft Museum board.

The X-1 was totally experimental, totally unique, and built for speed. It was powered by four rocket engines, generating 1500 pounds of thrust each. There was no throttle for increasing or reducing speed; the aircraft was flown at either full speed, 1/4, 1/2 or 3/4 speed.

Built to withstand loads of up to 18 times the force of gravity and with wings only 3 inches thick to reduce buffeting, the X-1 was designed to resemble a .50 caliber bullet.

The X-1 was a dangerous aircraft to fly. It was fueled by liquid oxygen and alcohol and there were many on-board fires. The X-1 burned fuel at an astonishing rate, using up to 13,000 pounds in two and a half minutes when all four engines were firing. To conserve fuel, the aircraft's designers decided to launch the X-1 from the bomb bay of an airborne B-29 bomber.

The first flights of the X-1 were non-powered flights, allowing pilot, Chuck Yeager, to get the feel of the aircraft as it was released and glided to the ground. On October 14, 1947, on his 9th powered flight, Yeager flew the Bell X-1 faster than the speed of sound. At Mach 1.07 at an altitude of 47,000 feet, they slid across the imaginary sonic barrier.

The Air Corps officially confirmed the X-1's supersonic flight in June 1948. Yeager was awarded the MacKay Trophy and several months later, the Collier Trophy.

The X-1 made its first supersonic flight from a full-power ground take-off on January 5, 1949. Because of its built in limitations, the Bell X-1 never flew any faster than 967 mph at an altitude of 70,140 feet. Bell Aircraft built ten airplanes in the X series and proved the reaction control thrusters for the North American X-15.

Models, trophies, photos, and other memorabilia of Larry Bell's accomplishments are available for viewing at the Bell Aircraft Museum in Mentone.

Son of Mentone Man Serves Aboard New Carrier Named For First President

Navy Petty Officer 3rd Class David E. Kissinger, the son of Jerry Kissinger of Mentone, is a hospital corpsman aboard the Navy's newest nuclear-powered aircraft carrier USS George Washington.

The Washington is the sixth Nimitz-class, nuclear-powered aircraft carrier and was commissioned in ceremonies held July 4 at Naval Station, Norfolk, Va. (Official U.S. Navy photograph by Dwight E. Shead).

Norfolk, VA.--More than 15,000 guests were on hand as the Navy celebrated the anniversary of our nation's independence by introducing new flattop to the fleet. The USS George Washington is the Navy's sixth Nimitz-class, nuclear-powered aircraft carrier.

Crewman David E. Kissinger, the son of Jerry Kissinger of the Mentone and the late Betty Kissinger, took part in the commissioning ceremony.

As a member of the more than 3,000-man ship's company Kissinger, a petty officer 3rd class, carried on a Navy custom by racing aboard the 97,000 ton behemoth as it was ordered into active naval service. The carrier will serve naval aviation well into the 21st century.

The formal remarks made at the ceremony reemphasized themes expressed in a May address to the Virginia Chamber of Commerce by Defense Secretary Dick Cheney. "I am a great believer in aircraft carriers," the Defense Department's senior civilian official said then. "I don't know anybody who has operated in the general national security area in recent years who wouldn't support that proposition."

The aircraft carrier is a vital part of the force and will continue to be a vital part of the force, I would suspect, for my lifetime."

As the ship's sponsor, Mrs. Bush wielded the champagne bottle which was broken across the carrier's bow at christening ceremonies in July of 1990. The first lady was also an honored guest at the commissioning ceremony.

Although not present at the July 4th ceremony, the President did attend the christening. On that occasion Bush delivered a 13-minute address stressing his commitment to a strong defense policy and to the need for continued construction of Navy ships.

When it comes to the ship he calls home, Kissinger, a 1990 Mona Shores High School graduate, is also convinced that carriers will continue to be important elements of the nation's defense program. "Carriers were created to project seapower and to keep the peace. Although the Cold War is over, that same need is still there, of so it's important that we continue to build these ships," he said.

Kissinger said he also felt mixture of both relief and anticipation of the July 4th commissioning day. For him and his shipmates, commissioning marked an ending and a new beginning.

Describing his job of the pre-commissioning unit as

Navy Petty Officer 3rd Class David E. Kissinger

"rewarding and difficult work" Kissinger said the attention of the command will now be focused on preparation to meet the missions of coming years.

The Washington, is essence, a mobile airfield, will be able to deploy to oceans across the globe as a visible projection of power.

According to Kissinger who serves as a hospital corpsman, the Washington won't make her first extended deployment until the crew has had time to fine tune their operational skills. "The ship should make a major deployment in mid-1994 and I'm looking forward to all of the new experience that it will bring," he said.

When the Washington begins its training and deployment schedule, it will be joined by over 3,000 additional men serving with the nine aircraft squadrons that make up the on-board air wing.

The Washington's complement of more than 80 aircraft will include the combination fighter attack jet F/A-18C Hornet, proven in combat in Operation Desert Storm; the F-14B Tomcat fighter; the twin turboprop E-2C Hawkeye, an early warning plane; the sub-hunting S-3B; the A-6E Intruder, an aging yet still effective long-range bomber; its cousin the EA-6B Prowler, used for electronic warfare; and the SH-60F CV Helo that will venally replace vintage anti-submarine warfare and rescue helicopters, the SH-3H Sea Kings, which are being phased out.

At sea, the George Washington will be a tribute to modern shipbuilding technology.

When the carrier is underway, the 6,000-plus crew will be served 18,000 meals daily from four serving lines. Airplanes will operate from 4.5 acres of flight deck. The ship itself will be able to steam at a top speed of 30 knots for more than one million miles before its two nuclear reactors require refueling.

The Washington is heir to a proud tradition of both naval and nuclear service. While it's the fourth ship to be named for the Commander-in-Chief of the Continental Army, it is only the second nuclear-powered vessel to bear his name.

The first atomic-powered vessel named Washington was also the first fleet ballistic missile submarine. USS George Washington (SSBN-598) was commissioned in December of 1959 and claimed the first successful submerged launch of a Polaris missile.

Today's Washington is much more diversified in its mission than was its predecessor. In a time when overseas military bases are being substantially reduced, in part because of the costs involved in maintaining them, a nuclear-powered carrier's diversity and proven ability to protect U.S. interests abroad, make it a valuable and prudent peace-keeping tool.

The necessity of maintaining superiority over the seas is not a new concept. In correspondence drafted in 1780, General Washington wrote, "Under all circumstances, a decisive naval superiority is to be considered a fundamental principle, and the basis upon which all ships of success must ultimately depend."

Kissinger will serve aboard the Washington until November 1994.

President of Kent Feeds visits Mentone

Rich Severson, President of Kent Feeds, traveled from Muscatine, Iowa to meet with the staff and customers of Mentone Agri-Center in Mentone recently. Severson and Bob Scherer, district sales manager, spent time with mill owner Bill Woehard and several customers, discussing how they could best serve the needs of area farmers.

Severson said the company's main objective is to get close to their dealers and in order to achieve this objective, all management and office personnel from the main office are required to travel once a year with the salesmen and get to know the dealers and their customers.

Chan Tucker and Bob Foltz took advantage of the opportunity to discuss their hog operations with Severson and Scherer.

Dear Editor,

I have just finished reading "The Killing Stones." Two years in a Papua New Guinea Jungle Village by Margel Lee Craig.

Mrs. Craig and husband, Bill, live near Akron, In. I am certain you know of them and their two plus years with the Peace Corp. My wife, Mable and I were visiting the Olive Bethel Church of God when the Craigs gave a slide presentation of their travels. Mrs. Craig said her book was due so Mable got the first copy for my Father's Day gift.

This book is absolutely a joy to read. Mrs. Craig's use of names, places, and description of life in this near stone age society makes it come alive.

The book is enhanced by several pictures. An extra is the front cover picture of Margel and Bill sharing mementos. This is one lovely couple.

Yours for good reading,

Nature Lovers Paradise

by Rosa Hatfield

How do you turn off the cares of the outside world in today's fast-paced society? Nature-lover, Marsha Scott has found the answer in her own back yard. With the help of her husband Ron, Marsha has turned her entire yard into a floral paradise. Practically any snipping from nature's panorama of offerings can find a niche somewhere in the Scott gardens, whether in the rock gardens, the "weed" garden, or Marsha's newest creation, the water garden.

During the school year, Marsha works as a teacher's aide at Mentone School. Ron works at Donnelley's in Warsaw. Marsha said sometimes she feels bad because helping her with the gardens takes up all Ron's spare time and he doesn't have much time to just take it easy.

"Fortunately, he enjoys working outside and it really does help him relax," said Marsha. "I'm glad, because I couldn't do it without his help. He scours the countryside for rocks all the time. Sometimes we go through a neighbor's woods, but most of the time, Ron will notice a rock in a field that looks just like what we need. So he goes and asks for it and hauls it home."

When the Scotts built their first rock garden, Ron had to rearrange the rocks three times before Marsha was satisfied. They now have two rock gardens side by side. Marsha's wasn't large enough to suit Ron, so he built another one. They may be the only couple around who have "his" and "hers" rock gardens.

"I call this one my 'weed' garden," said Marsha, pointing to a large garden that fills a corner at the back of her house. "It's in its fourth year now. We had a spot here that was shaded and nothing would grow but moss. One day we were driving and I saw some pretty wild flowers in the woods. I stopped and dug them up and brought them home. I just keep adding to it whenever I see something I like."

Marsha said her "Bird & Butterfly" garden was a lot of work but, with all the hummingbirds, orioles and chipmunks that make their home in this little bit of wilderness, it was worth the effort. This garden is 100 feet in diameter. Some of the ideas for it came from magazines and the rest just happened as it grew. Built around an existing birdbath, this garden has bird feeders, driftwood, fences, wagon wheels, a stone path and a wide variety of flowers to offer.

The gazebo sitting in the side yard adds a nice touch.

"We had talked about building one for a long time but just never seemed to find the time. Bob Shull from Warsaw built this one. It probably took him a month," said Marsha. "It was made from scratch. We ordered a book of patterns and combined the features we like best to come up with this one."

Marsha said they spend a lot of evenings in the gazebo.

"Even the cat comes out here," she said. "There is no phone, no television; it's really a place to get away and relax."

Once, during a drive to Shipshewana, Roan and Marsha saw a wagon sitting in a yard filled with flowers. Ron started his search and bought one for Marsha's birthday four years ago. It now sits in their front yard and changes with the seasons.

The wagon is an antique and the perfect setting for Marsha's holiday ideas. She decorates a small tree, complete with presents and lights to sit in it at Christmas. It may sport a pumpkin and a scarecrow in the fall or perhaps the goblins and ghosts will get their turn. In the spring, there might be Easter eggs and a bunny sitting tall in the wagon. But for summer, like most of the other gardens at the Scott's residence, it will be filled with flowers.

This summer's project was a little different than the others and required going a little farther away to get supplies. The Scotts built a water garden, compete with fish and plants, and when it is finished, a waterfall.

The water garden has oxygenating plants on the bottom. It also has purple water hyacinths, yellow and blue iris, green taro, Chinese water chestnut, water lilies, and lotus flowers. After waiting a few weeks to let the plants get a good start, the Scotts then added goldfish and Japanese Koi. The Koi are different colors and should show up well in the garden.

Since there is no place close to get supplies for a water garden, the Scotts had to drive to Independence, Ohio. They purchased the liner, pump and flowers there and went to Fort Wayne, IN for the fish. Marsha said the water garden was inspired by the ones at Ameriflora in Columbus, Ohio.

The next project will probably be landscaping around the wagon and after that, who knows! Strolling through their floral haven, it's easy to believe there will always be another project in the works at the Scotts'.

Marsha Scott's steps for building a theme garden

1. One of the most important steps in building a theme garden is the planning. Winter is a good season to do the planning because there is plenty of time to think about what you want and to research the project.

Draw everything out on paper, plan what you want to include and the tentative location of each item, as well as the total size and shape of the garden. Get ideas from magazines or get some books from the library.

2. In the spring, after the soil is warm, it is time to remove the sod. Renting a sod cutter is advised because this is a big job.

3. The next step is laying the plastic. For now, use rocks around the edges to hold it in place. This plastic is going to save a lot of work by preventing weeds from growing in your garden. It also helps hold moisture in the soil.

4. If there are areas that call for a raised bit of ground in your plants, now is the time to fill in with some good topsoil.

5. You are ready to set out some plants. Just cut a hole in the plastic and plant as usual.

6. After the plants are in, place wood chips around them for a filled in look. Add props and more plants to your garden as you find something you like. You don't ever have to be "finished" because there always seems to be room for more in these types of gardens.

Women's work is a vital part of the UM Church

by Rosa Hatfield

A vital part of the Mentone United Methodist Church is the work of its women. The first women's group formed in Mentone was the Women's Foreign missionary Society of 1915. On September 18, 1940, the Women's Foreign Missionary Society merged with the Ladies Aid Society to become the Women's Society of Christian Service. In 1968, when the Evangelical United Brethren and Methodist Churches merged, the women's group became the United Methodist Women.

Through the years the women have had many projects to raise money for foreign missions and to help fund various needs in the local church. They have been quick to respond to the pleas for help for the shut-ins, the sick, victims of disaster, and grieving families. They have promoted their own spiritual growth through study and prayers.

At one time there were several circles within the main organization. The circles met separately at times that best suited their own individual schedules. The circles did group studies of inspirational books and also did sewing and handwork. There was the Mary and Martha Circle, the Madonna Circle for mothers of small children, and the J.O.Y. Circle which stood for Jesus, Others and Yourself.

Their Mission Outreach has included support of many missionaries, including Sammy Kutz and Loretta Gruver. During for 1950's, the group made baby layettes and sent them overseas. The 1960's brought Trick Or Treat For Unicef, sponsored by the United Methodist Women and carried out by the youth group.

They have grown by being spiritually aware of the needs not only of local unit but also of the district through special offerings from Prayer and Self Denial programs.

They have been responsible for Sunrise Services at times and many are also involved with the District Reading Program.

They have been supportive to other groups in many ways. They have sent youths to camp and during the 1960's, all girls from the church received birthday cards from them.

Over the years, various women from United Methodist Women were responsible for the Cradle Roll being kept up to date.

In the 60's, they purchased several pair of draperies for the parsonage.

United Methodist Women are famous for the cookies they bake for Bible School and other functions, for the shut-ins, for Christmas and Easter.

Mothers have been honored by live plants on Mother's Day and fathers by receiving pies or cookies on Father's Day. During the 1960's and early 70's they prepared meals for the United Methodist Men once a month. They gave new hymnals to the church and new music folders to the choir.

A special project was giving bibles to graduating seniors from the church. They also prepare food for bereaved families either in their homes or at the church. For the past eight years they have provided leadership and prizes of fruit and trinkets, refreshments and group singing for nearby nursing homes and a monthly night of bingo. They have found this very rewarding and many have participated.

Monthly meetings are known for Fun and Fellowship with ladies from other churches included on guest night for a special program, music and food.

Mentone United Methodist Women have an annual food sale during the Egg Festival and a mush and sausage breakfast or a soup and sandwich supper to raise funds for the church and an annual Mother and Daughter party.

Their main purpose now and always is to raise money for their mission pledge and be available to help wherever the need arises in the church, to be supportive with money, presence and prayers.

Their meetings are held on the fourth Wednesday morning of each month and are planned a year at a time including programs and book studies.

Views On Dental Health

H. RAY HAZEN,
D.D.S., M.S.D., P.C.

RECEDING GUMS

If you have abnormal spacing between your teeth, this may indicate that your gums have receded because of chronic gum disease. Take a look at the gum directly in front of a tooth. Do you see the full crown of the enamel or do you see more than just the crown? On close inspection, if you can see a darker, yellowish-gray portion of the tooth, you may be looking at part of an exposed root. This may have been caused by receding gums.

The shape of your gums is another indicator of gum disease. Normal, healthy gums have a pyramid or cone shape. When your gums become irritated because of gum disease, however, they may look flat, thickened or puffed out. The tips may also have become enlarged. Your gum has reacted to bacterial invasion and irritation by overgrowing and enlarging.

Gum disease should be treated as soon as possible to protect your teeth and your dental health. If you have any signs of receding gums or other gum problems, see your dentist for treatment.

Prepared as a public service to promote better dental health. From the office of: H. RAY HAZEN, D.D.S., M.S.D., P.C., 1329 Main St., Rochester. Phone 223-3121.

Getting Ready For School

"In the Tippecanoe Valley School Corporation each student will learn and will experience success." This is repeated in the Mission Statement issued by Tippecanoe Valley School Corporation each year because it is a very important goal. The cooperation of administrators, teachers, parents, and students are all necessary to reach that goal. The following are all important to the success of students and school:

1. Administrative Leadership in Instruction

Administrators will be the instructional leaders in the school community.

2. Curriculum

Effective curricula will be designed and implemented to foster the fullest development of each student.

3. Instruction

Instruction will motivate each student to learn.

4. Monitoring Student Progress

Student learning will be monitored systematically utilizing a variety of techniques to ensure appropriate progress.

5. Program Evaluation

Effectiveness of programs will be ensured through systematic and comprehensive evaluation.

6. Professional Development of Instructional Staff

Each instructional staff member will be involved in professional growth and development activities to ensure effective classroom instruction.

7. Evaluation of School Personnel

Personnel evaluation will provide professional growth, improve quality of instruction, and assess quality of work.

8. School Growth

School climate will facilitate positive student growth.

9. Parent and Community Involvement

Parents and community members will be well informed and an integral part of the educational process.

Homework

Homework is an out of class assignment that contributes to the educational process of the student. It may include unfinished classroom assignments or independent project work, etc. but should be related to what is being studied in the classroom.

The purpose of homework is to reinforce, review, or extend classroom work, to teach students responsibility and organizational skills, to promote wise use of time, to encourage a carry-over of school activities into permanent career or leisure interests, and to provide opportunities for board enrichment activities.

The Principal's Role

The principal insures that staff complies with the policy set for the school and encourages reasonable use of homework. The principal will lead teachers into a more effective use of homework as an educational activity. The principal's responsibilities are:

To communicate the philosophy and purpose of the policy to teachers, parents, students and the community,

To coordinate guidelines within departments.

To reinforce the concept that homework should be for the benefit of the student.

To serve as a liaison between parents and teachers concerning homework policy programs.

To evaluate and revise the homework policy on a yearly basis.

Teacher's Role

A teacher's homework policy should be communicated to students and parents at the beginning of the school year and reviewed throughout the school year as needed.

Homework assignments should be specific and students should know what is expected of them. They should include only those activities which a child can carry on outside of school and be directly related to what is being studied in the classroom. Homework should never be "busy" work and students shouldn't be given more than they can reasonably handle.

Parent's Role

Cooperation by the parents is a necessity. Parents can encourage their children by showing interest in what the child is doing. They should provide a quiet, well-lighted place for the student to work, establish a regular homework time, be supportive and helpful but don't do the homework for them, and communicate with your child's teacher if difficulties arise.

Encourage your child to ask the teacher for help when needed and make sure adequate time is allowed for homework assignments.

Richard Whittenberger, 3, son of Jon Whittenberger and Patti Geller, Mentone.

Ethan James, son of Brent and Sandra Rutherford, Warsaw.

Student's Role

The student has the responsibility to develop good study habits and to be sure they understand what the assignment is before leaving school. He should take home everything necessary to complete the assignment, learn to budget his time, complete the assignment and turn it in to the teacher on time. He is also responsible for making up work missed due to illness.

Middle School Issue

To build a middle school or not is an important issue, but we must be very careful to maintain our support of our schools and teachers while we are making our point so that our children reap the rewards of a good education and not the results of our dissatisfaction. Whether you are for or against the new school, be for the children!

For now, the Tippecanoe Valley School Corporation is made up of Akron School, Burket School, Mentone School and Tippecanoe Valley

High School. Akron and Mentone both house students in grades kindergarten through 8th while Burket has kindergarten through 5th grades. When Burket students complete 5th grade, they attend Mentone School. While each school may have their own individual rules, all are part of the TVSC and are governed under the same basic rules and follow the same calendar.

Phone numbers for the schools are: Akron 893-4646; Burket 491-2555; Mentone 353-7466; TVHS 353-7031; Superintendent's office 353-7741.
