

AKRON LIBRARY PROVIDES MANY SERVICES FOR COMMUNITY

by Barbara Ann Lynn

Sixty-six years ago, the enthusiasm for better community activities and resources by the Rev. M. H. Krause and a few public spirited citizens of Akron, resulted in the Akron Carnegie Public Library. Prior to 1870, there had been a collection of books shelved in a drug store and cared for and loaned by Milo Bright. The small fee he received was paid by the township.

Later the collection was moved to Millark, so residents there could enjoy the books. They were placed in the store of E.A. Arnold, a former Henry Township trustee, and he received a small pay for loaning them.

Still later, there were small church and school libraries.

In 1912, a petition was circulated with view to obtaining a Public Library building. Rev. Krause, then pastor of the Akron Methodist Church, chaired a meeting at which time by-laws were adopted, officers elected and committees appointed.

A resolution was adopted and later carried out, making the library a township library.

Books donated by townspeople from their private libraries formed the nucleus for the public library. The books were placed on the shelves in rooms over the Whiott and Hoffman Meat Market. Early in 1913, Rev. Krause began corresponding with the Carnegie Corporation, trying to secure funds for a building. A gift of $12,000 was granted later, provided that the local board guarantee a sufficient amount each year to support the library.

The location was purchased from Morrett and Paxton for the sum $1500 and presented to the library board of Akron by Fletcher Stoner and Daniel Leininger and others. An additional strip of land to the west, was purchased and donated to the board by Mrs. M.L. Patterson.

On Oct. 28, 1914, a crowd of 750 to 1,000 people witnessed the laying of the corner stone for the new Carnegie Public Library. The present library opened its doors on Oct. 21, 1915.

Special celebrations in 1950 and 1965 marked the 35th and 50th anniversaries of the opening of the Akron Carnegie Public Library.

50 years of service to the community were commemorated during the big Fourth of July celebration in 1965.

Members of the library board rode in a convertible in the that celebration.

Miss Velma Bright and Mrs. Gloria Bowen, dressed in attire reminiscent of 1915 rode in the back of the car. The library float, which followed, was adorned with yellow roses in honor of the library's 50 years. Riding on the float were: Sheila Leckrone, Peggy Woolley, Kay Kinder and Scott Slaybaugh in a story-book scene; and Steve Fleck, Cheryl Fleck and Janet Bowen reading books under a tree.

The present librarian, Velma Bright began her career here as assistant librarian in Aug. 1941. Having received a lot of encouragement from then head librarian, Mrs. P.L. Ferry, Miss Bright took a course from the University of Wisconsin, and in 1948 got certification in Indianapolis.

When Mrs. Ferry resigned on Jan. 1, 1950, Miss Bright was elected to take her place and Mrs. Ferry continued as assistant librarian until May, 1958.

Mrs. Paul (Gloria) Bowen replaced Mrs. Ferry as assistant librarian in 1958. Except for the years from 1960-62, Mrs. Bowen has served as assistant librarian continuously.

The Akron library is open 9 a.m. to 12 noon, and 1-6 p.m. Monday thru Saturday, which is remarkable when one considers that Miss Bright and Mrs. Bowen are the only regular employees at the library. Mrs. Ben (Thelma) Barnett fills in for them on occasions when both have to be gone at the same time.

Free library cards are available to residents of the town of Akron and Henry Township. The library also contracts service by the year to Seward and Franklin Townships and has reciprocal borrowing with the Rochester library. Non-residents can purchase individual library cards for $4 per year or family cards for $10 per year.

As a member of Wabash Valley ALSA, (an area services authority), the Akron library is able to ob-

BELL MEMORIAL LIBRARY HAS MANY FRIENDS

by Richard Lynn

Mrs. Madeleine Fisher, the librarian at Bell Memorial Library in Mentone, is grateful for the library's many patrons and friends.

"We have a little over 23,000 books," she said, "and we try to keep it at about that number. The shelves are a bit crowded, and we intend to go through and weed out some of the books."

"We don't really anticipate changing the size of the collection at this point, because this is what the building is designed to hold. This is a large library for a small community of approximately eight hundred people."

The library's services are free to anyone residing in Mentone, Harrison Township, Seward Township and Franklin Township, plus anyone who is enrolled in the Tippecanoe Valley School system.

A non-resident pays only $5 a year for a library card in Mentone.

Mrs. Eileen Bowser is the assistant librarian. She had been with the library for fifteen years before Mrs. Fisher became the librarian.

Mrs. Fisher had been a teacher in the Tippecanoe Valley School system. She also taught at Triton and Leesburg.

Because libraries are funded by taxes, they come under the control of Indiana state law.

"Even though the state itself does not contribute in any way to the finances of the library, they still hang on to the legal strings," Mrs. Fisher explained, "and one of the state's requirements is that a licensed librarian must be in charge."

"And at the time the former librarian left, there was no one in the area who had a license. At that time I did not have a librarian's license, but I had a masters degree in education and on the basis of that and a lot of self-study - working through study projects - I was able to pass the state tests, and at that point they licensed me to do this."

"In the past - I don't anymore - but at that point I considered myself to be a teacher by profession. The library had done so much for me. I suppose I was a 5th or 6th grader when I got my first library card, and when I was in college they were just so good to me here, helping me with research projects, getting materials for me from the state library, etc. I felt so grateful to them. I would help the library if there was anything I could do."

"At that point they were unable to lure anyone into the community because the salary is so low. A person who has the license and everything isn't likely to come to a small library."

"Mrs. Lackey put everything into books for the library. At the time I took over, there were no decent shelving. It was just old wooden shelving that had been moved down from the old storefront library that had been uptown. Even the money that would have normally gone for Mrs. Lackey's salary was put into books! And this is one reason why we have such a good collection for a small town."

"Unfortunately, nothing was left in the budget for anything else. The building itself was given to the community by Lawrence Bell with no strings attached, other than he wanted a memorial for his parents. Mr. Bell passed away before the town's leaders decided they could spend the money to build this library. Everything was brought into the present building from the old town library. Probably, if Mr. Bell had known that the money was going for a library, he would have made provisions in his will to have subsidized the library a little bit, but unfortunately he passed away before the town fathers decided to use the money for a library."

Mrs. Fisher explained to me that the old library had been where the old drive-thru is at the bank.

"I think they use it for parking now, but it's the one that fronts on the main street between the office of Boggs and Nelson Agency and the bank."

"Then it was sold to Jim Miller and they had a hardware tain material from libraries all over the state and from some out-of-state libraries. They are also able to obtain census information from the National Archives for genealogists.

In addition to books, magazines, pamphlets and records, the library has a micro-film reader, local census information and all copies of the NEWS from 1893 to date. They also have the Nov. 2, 1866 issue of the Akron Globe and the July 19, 1889 issue of the Akron Echo.

The area located in the library basement provides local organizations with a meeting place, which Miss Bright feels is an important contribution to the community.

The library sponsors a reading club in summer and other special activities for children.

Miss Bright and Mrs. Bowen both have many worthwhile interests outside the library, also. Miss Bright is treasurer of both the local WCTU and the Akron Cemetery Association. She is active in the Akron Church of God where she is currently "principal" for 1st-6th grades. She is also a member of the Fulton County Historical Society and enjoys genealogy work. A few years ago, she authored a children's book entitled What Would You Like to Be with the help of illustrator, Patty Schultz of Akron. A new edition is now available for purchase at the Akron Library.

Velma's hobbies include sewing, reading and traveling. She has visited all 48 continental states and most of the provinces of Canada. Last year, she journeyed to Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and the New England states.

Mrs. Bowen and her husband, Paul who is a farmer, have three children, David, an Army officer; Carol (Mrs. Vern Hucks, a homemaker and employee of Topp's in Rochester; and Janet, a sophomore at Manchester College. The Bowens have two grandchildren, Robin and Caleb. Mrs. Bowen's interests outside the library include gardening and working with children. She teaches Sunday School and works with youths at the Omega Church. She also is active in LTL, a children's branch of the WCTU. The present library board includes Kim Lewis, Harold Gearhart, Elizabeth Gray, Sharon Shewman, Janet Wood, Ralph Rader and Grace Waechter.

Akron and Mentone victorious in Akron 4-Way

The Akron seventh grade girls and the Mentone eighth grade girls took home championship trophies from the Akron 4-Way Girls Tournament held Feb. 21 at the Akron gym.

In the seventh grade championship game, Akron overcame Caston 22-14 after trailing at the half 10-8. The Flyers were led by Sonya Sterk's 10 points and six rebounds. Angie Evans had six points and six rebounds and Julie Yochum also had six rebounds. Caston was paced by Miss Townsend's 10 points.

store there for awhile. The library had been located a couple of other places uptown in earlier years.

"After I was here, the shelving was looking so bad, and it was actually to a point where it was dangerous. It might have fallen on someone!

"Mrs. Bowser and I were invited to speak to a few clubs in town and they kind of took up the cause for us. The shelving was purchased by several organizations in town and my husband and the men who were on the library board at that time, and Mrs. Bowser's husband, all pitched in and put the shelves up, which saved a tremendous amount of money. Actually, the money wasn't the big thing - if they had sent a crew of men from the company, we would have had to remove all the books from the library while they put the shelves up - and that just blows your mind to think of! Even to find a place to store them - let alone to try to keep them in any semblance of order!"

Mrs. Fisher says the community has been very, very good to the library. "Would you say," I asked, "that the community is interested in the library?"

"Very much so," she replied, "because I don't believe there are many things in this library that haven't been labors of love."

"The local 'Friends of the Library' group bought the paint and hired a painter. There again, if we would have had a professional crew, they would have wanted us to remove a whole wall of books at one time. The Friends of the Library would come in and they'd remove a section and the guys would paint it, and they would put it back up. They would take down another section of books, and keep doing so until they had painted the whole library, with the exception of the reference room (which had been added on) and really didn't need the paint yet."

"There was enough money a few years back to build the reference room, but not enough money to furnish it, or even to paint the interior of it. The man who contracted to do the work, donated the paint, and he was also renovating the drug store uptown. He brought the old shelving from the drug store, and so, everything in here - it's really a good feeling to know that the community is behind the library as much as it is!"

She continued, "It's just a tremendous boost! You don't work for a low salary and under adverse conditions if you think that people are against you, but you can put up with an awful lot if you know the community is behind you."

THE BITTER QUITTER

My wonderful lemon auto,
Your horsepower has turned to gray.
You're too far gone to get a tow.
I think I'll go. You find your way!

NIMBLE AND QUICK GAMES

Whose electric style equaled the man with the kite?
Who high jumped the same candles he dined by at night?
Who never suspected any wattage in sight?
Who roasted both his big toes while he was in flight?
It was "Jack" who jumped best when the money was right.

PORT ENCOURAGING WORD

Is this a General Hospital bed?
Admiral Hospital it seems instead.
For despite your outrageous sea of tape,
I'm here to say, you really are shipshape.

CANDIED ASTRONOMY

There seems no end to outer space.
Our search grows deeper and thicker.
A new galaxy shows its face.
The Milky Way led to Snickers.

SUDS OF A GONE

The thin bar for my bath
Won't stay intact. No hope.
Its usage tests my wrath.
Each half brings lesser soap.
Just this once I will sing
For a fine bathtub ring.
Lord of ample lather,
Stop doubling! Keep bubbling!

RAINBOW TIDES

Few art critics could say each octopus
Is four times more artist than one of us.
Actually, you smear four times less than he 'Cause he paints watercolors in the sea.

SIX-SUITER

I'm dressed to kill.
See clothing bill.
Greed for fashion's thread
Left my wallet dead.

WILD CALL

Wet telephone pole--
A raccoon bares obscene teeth--
Falls--bad connection.

"Mom and Dad, don't be alarmed, but I think I'm hooked on tartar sauce."

"Hey! Those ducks formed a message. It says: Try...the...roasted...goose...at...North...Table...Inn!"

"He kept shouting 'Why?' in the Library after being left out of a sentence.
They're going to sentence him tomorrow."

GRAPH FEETIE

Today

I saw a sign

In a children's shoestore.

It read: *Brevity is the soul
Of width.*

WISDUMB TEETH

Yes, we have no piranha.

We've no piranha today.

Yes, we have no piranha.

He came down with tooth decay.

Next time it is my fond wish

He'll snack not on jellyfish.

THE WALRUS OF DISAPPROVAL

The walrus of disapproval

Is a firm judge in everybod'.

He gives no seal of approval,

To a sardine when it's a cod.

So anytime you make a fuss,

Just blame it on your own walrus.

Do you remember the Aladdin lamps, the ones with a mantle? You filled them with kerosene each day if you could afford it. Perhaps you used the Aladdin just an hour each evening! Do you remember the wick cleaning apparatus? You cleaned the wick every time you filled the lamp. The cleaning prevented burning a black spot on the mantle. The Aladdin lamp was a great improvement over the straight wick, kerosene lamp.

With the Aladdin lamp, you could see well enough to sew small stitches on black material half way across the room!

FIVE REASONS TO INSURE 1981 CROPS

With a new government subsidy that pays up to 30 percent of the cost of carrying crop insurance, the best buy in farming today may be the few dollars an acre (tax deductible) that it costs to insure all the other dollars invested in producing a crop.

This advice comes from Francis G. Hudkins, District Director of the recently expanded Federal Crop Insurance Corporation.

Hudkins suggests that there are no fewer than five sound reasons farmers should consider insurance this year, even if they have never protected their crop investments in the past.

First, the new policies offer more protection. Policyholders can insure up to 75 percent of average yields, which in most cases should fully cover the investment in the insured crop plus the cost of the insurance. They can also select, from several choices, the amount they want to be paid for each bushel or pound their crop falls short of the guaranteed production.

Second, the new federal subsidy can reduce the per acre cost of carrying all-risk insurance by as much as 30 percent. The combination of the subsidy and the tax deduction allowed for insurance premiums means the after-tax cost is only a small fraction of the protection provided.

Third, rising production costs mean the dollars and cents risks of crop production this Spring will be sharply higher than a year ago. In the event of crop losses, such as many farmers experienced in 1980, the financial consequences could be disastrous. Many farmers who have felt they could afford to farm without some amount of insurance in the past are now wisely reappraising the risks involved, Hudkins said.

Fourth, the USDA disaster payments program, which some farmers have looked to as a solution for insurance, will end after this crop year. Farmers who elect to carry FCIC insurance in 1981 rather than participate in the disaster payment will be eligible for the 30 percent discount plus, if they do not incur a crop loss, an additional five percent premium discount in 1982.

Fifth, farmers who insure their crop investment will have an advantage, Hudkins predicts, in competing for credit in this spring's tight money market. The cash flow guaranteed by the policy assures a source of funds for timely loan repayment even in the event of a total crop loss. Moreover, at the option of the policyholder, FCIC policies can be pledged as loan collateral.

For information about the new, higher-coverage, lower-cost insurance protection, contact the nearest FCIC office, or a private insurance agent that handles FCIC insurance.

FOOD STAMP CUTS TO AFFECT AGRICULTURE

President Ronald Reagan's proposed cuts in the food stamp program will have a significant impact on farmers and retailers in Michiana and throughout Indiana.

The Legal Services Program of Northern Indiana (LSPNI), citing statistics from state and federal agencies, reports that over $24 million in Indiana annual farm income is generated by the food stamp program. In addition, more than $60 million in annual retail food sales in the state are directly tied to food stamps. According to LSPNI, the figures are based on December, 1980 Indiana food stamp participation rates, together with information provided to Congress by the United States Department of Agriculture in a 1979 report on the effect of reducing the food stamp program.

Approximately 400,000 people take part in the food stamp program in Indiana. In December, 1980, the average food stamp recipient received $36.87 with the food stamps, or about $.40 a meal.

According to the Department of Agriculture, every dollar's worth of food stamps generates $3.64 as it passes through the economy. In addition to increasing food purchases, food stamps make it possible for grocers to hire more people who then have more money to spend on goods and services.

The "ripple effect" of food stamps also carries over into other sections of the agricultural economy. Food wholesalers benefit through the increased demand for food, and suppliers of farm equipment also benefit accordingly. The trucking industry receives more business as a result of greater transportation needs. The increased business brought about by food stamps spills over into virtually every consumer area, as farmers and businessmen contract with their suppliers for additional material and services.

LOVE TRIO TO PRESENT CONCERT

The Love Trio will appear at the Akron Church of God for a gospel concert at 7 p.m., March 15. They have led services in Ohio and Indiana, as well as many places in Indiana. They have recorded an album and are residents of the Akron Community. The public is invited to the concert. There is no admission charge.

Based on the USDA figures, food stamps were responsible for more than $51 million of business in Indiana in December, 1980 alone. More than 1,100 Indiana jobs exist because of the stamp program.

Louis Lessem, Litigation Coordinator for LSPNI, explained that President Reagan's proposals will eliminate a large number of people from the food stamp program and will reduce the amount of food stamps received by everyone else. "According to the Department of Agriculture," said Lessem, "for every dollar taken out of food stamps, food purchases will drop by $.35 and farm income by $.14. Every food stamp dollar taken out of the economy will mean $3.64 lost to Indiana. In Indiana any substantial reduction in food stamps will cause hardship not only to the people who rely on them, but throughout the agricultural and business community as well."

Pages

by Eula Romaine Smith
How many pages do you need for a look? That question is typical of the friendly teasing that some local young people received as they made plans to go to Indianapolis to serve as pages in the 102nd General Assembly of the State of Indiana.

Paula and Laura Riedel, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Riedel of Burket served February 4 as pages for State Representative Thames Mauzy. Paula said the best part of the day was the morning, running messages.

Laura Cochran, Betty Smith, and their parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Cochran and Mr. and Mrs. Chester Smith of Mentone made the trip on snowy, Feb. 10. After Senator V. Richard Miller learned that the girls had missed most of the official tour of the State House, his aide showed them around.

"Watching the Senate in session was pretty neat," Laura said. They discussed slogans to put on future license plates. Suggestions included "Crossroads of America" and "Sports Capital of America." According to Betty, one Senator mentioned that Indiana produces a large number of ducks, so this should be on the plates.

Senator Miller's pages for Feb. 18 were Chris Whetstone, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Whetstone of Mentone, and Kathy Helmreich, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald C. Helmreich of the Burket-Palestine area. Kathy enjoyed going to the Senate and said she carried a bill. Chris agreed that seeing the Senate in action was the highlight of the day. He also described the Supreme Court room which has stained glass windows and the original carpet from the late 1800's.

"The chandelier in the House of Representatives is the biggest in Indiana. It has one hundred lights, one for each member," Chris said. "They look like candles, but have small electric bulbs. There is a hydraulic system to lower the chandelier for cleaning or repair."

Last year, David Hudson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Hudson of Mentone, served as a page of Representative Mauzy. This year David said he planned to go on February 25 as a page for Senator John B. Augsburg. David's partner was Kurt Goshorn of Warsaw. Senate pages must be at least 13 years old, and each senator is limited to 50 during the session. Pages for representatives can be a bit younger.

Historical Society to plant trees

The Fulton County Historical Society will plant four or five trees in Lakeview Park on Arbor Day, as voted on at their meeting Sunday. Having obtained the permission of the Rochester City Park Board to plant shade trees by the depot museum and log cabin, the group appointed a committee to select trees and plan a ceremony. Bob Kern, Ruth Rockey, Elsie Turner and Bob Kuyoth are on the committee.

Marcia Taylor as guest speaker, told how the Manitou Chapter DAR came into existence because a man went bent fishing, forgot his chores, and left a lady home to do his work. The chapter was founded in 1908 by Elizabeth Ambrose Thomson after an article about her business activities of delivering milk to Rochester homes by horse and wagon appeared in the Indianapolis Star and was read by Mrs. William Guthrie, who asked

NEWS OF SPORTS

When a major wire service asked a panel of sports writers to pick the world's greatest woman athlete in the first half of this century, the choice was unanimous: Babe Didrikson Zaharias.

The Babe is best known as a golf champion, but she actually first attracted national attention as a basketball player in 1930.

There may be many budding basketball greats like "Babe" in the lineup of the 1981 Kodak Women's All-America Basketball Team, to be announced March 28 in Eugene, Oregon.

The ten-member team, the only intercollegiate basketball team officially sanctioned by the Association of Intercollegiate Athletics for Women (AIAW), will be picked by a process that involves all coaches from AIAW Division I schools.

Fluoride treatment program offered at grade schools

In the fall of 1967, a school dental health education and fluoride treatment program was initiated through the joint efforts of the Indiana University School of Dentistry and the Indiana State Board of Health. This program was designed primarily to provide decay-preventive benefits to those children who do not routinely obtain adequate dental care and, secondarily, to provide additional benefits to children who are regular patients of their family dentist. Pat Hoover, school nurse in the Tippecanoe Valley School Corporation emphasized that this program does not replace any procedures or treatments provided by the family dentist.

Since the inception of the program, the word "Brush-In" has become synonymous with the self-applied fluoride treatment program. The program has grown substantially with about 150,000 public and parochial school children participating in this program each year. It is endorsed by the Indiana Dental Association and may be expected to reduce dental cavities by about 20 percent when used semi-annually, the school's press release said.

The Tippecanoe Valley School Corporation is again offering the fluoride Brush-In program to all children in grades 2, 3, 4 and 5. This fluoride treatment program involves the children applying a fluoride treatment paste to their teeth with a toothbrush under the supervision of the school nurse. Participation of the children is voluntary with signed parental consent required.

The cost of this program is 50 cents per child, who wish to participate, to cover the cost of the supplies they will use. Children will be taking permission slips home during this week. Treatments will begin following spring vacation.

a safe kite!

Kites are fun.
So long as you remember
there are strings attached.
Here are 5 ways to fly your kite safely:

- 1 Use dry string only; never use wire or anything metallic.
- 2 Don't use wire or metal on the kite; use wood and paper only.
- 3 Never fly a kite in the rain.
- 4 Fly kites in open areas only; avoid busy streets and highways and stay away from power lines.
- 5 If a kite gets snagged in a tree or power line, don't try to pull it down or even climb up after it—it could result in a serious shock.

The Bad Comedian

by William Smith, Jr.

It all started when I was in school. I had a deep love for the bad joke, the horrible pun, the silly face behind the teacher's back. This did not endear me with my instructors, and it gave me the reputation of being somewhat of a clown with my fellow students.

Later on, my propensity for punning caused headaches for my employers. Several Funeral Directors let it be known that they could happily live without me, after I told them that they had chosen "a grave undertaking, in which people were just dying to do business with them."

That should have discouraged me, but I signed George Washington's name to several documents, and forged ahead. I was taken to task for calling a faith healer for mechanical men "Oil Robots."

When a fortune-teller was killed, I said that the murderer was undoubtedly a very average man who couldn't help striking a happy medium.

So, my loyal readers, let this be a warning to you; if one of your children should show any signs of this malady, take action immediately to halt it, lest he, or she end up as I have; an outcast, a casualty in the war for pun control.

Bring yours to Akron.

Children act fast - so do poisons

A mother is cleaning the bathtub. Her toddler is playing quietly outside the room. The cleaner is on the floor outside the tub. The mother concentrates on an especially stubborn spot. Moments later, the cleaner is in the child's mouth and he has become one of the Hoosiers who were accidentally poisoned in 1980.

Last year, nearly 5,000 Americans (127 Hoosiers) died from accidental poisoning and many more were treated for exposure to poisonous materials, says Roger Tormoehlen, Extension assistant in farm safety at Purdue University. Many of these victims were children who were exposed to products their parents or guardians never considered dangerous. More than 250,000 potentially poisonous household products are on the market, say Tormoehlen. They range from detergents, furniture polishes, drain and bowl cleaners, to aspirins and pesticides. Medications, especially those which are flavored to taste good to children, can be dangerous if mishandled.

Tormoehlen offers some guidelines for parents who want to protect their children: Use safety containers. Fatalities among children due to poisoning declined 56 percent during the first 5 years that safety packaging laws were in effect.

Store all household products out of the reach of children, preferably under lock and key. This should be practiced in any household where children might be present, even on a casual basis. Children have been poisoned while visiting friends or relatives.

Don't store potentially dangerous materials on the same shelf as food. Small children may not be able to distinguish between food and non-food items.

Store all poisonous materials in their original containers. Never store poisonous materials in drinking glasses, baby food jars, pop bottles, or any containers children associate with food. Also, in the case of an accidental poisoning, original packages contain valuable information about antidotes, the composition of the contents, and emergency procedures.

Don't tell children that medicines are (or even taste like) candy. They may be encouraged to take medicines when unsupervised.

Don't take medicines in front of children because youngsters like to imitate grown-ups.

Near your telephone, post the telephone numbers of your physician, local poison control center and the State Poison Control Center (1-800-382-9097). Having these numbers handy can save you valuable time in case of an emergency.

Tormoehlen warns that there is no universal antidote for poisoning. The correct procedure for one chemical could be wrong for another. Time is of the essence, so, in the event of accidental poisoning call the nearest poison control center and be prepared to give the name of the material ingested and the symptoms the victim exhibits.

Newcomb and Beeson

law office open full time in Bourbon

Jon E. Newcomb and Larry D. Beeson announce the opening of their law office in Bourbon which took effect March 16, 1981 on a full time basis. In addition to their office in Bremen, for the past year they have maintained an office in Bourbon on a very limited basis. From their experience of having the office open on a part time basis they now feel the need to be open every day to serve the legal needs of Bourbon and the surrounding area. Their office is located at 207 N. Main Street.

Newcomb and Beeson were classmates at Mentone High School having graduated in 1963. Newcomb has been practicing law in Bremen since 1972. Beeson joined him in 1979, after having been on the legal staff of an Indianapolis corporation for nine years.

Garden problems not always caused by pests

by Patricia M. Rathbun.
Extension Home Economist

Home gardeners anxiously await the arrival of the new seed catalogs. As they thumb through the pages of colorful fruits and vegetables, they dream of the future summer garden and the bounty it will produce. But before you start ordering or buying your seeds and plants for this year's garden, you had better give a thought to last year's garden.

If you had problems with virus or disease USDA suggests buying certified seed or disease-resistant varieties, and purchase virus-free plants of resistant varieties. Labels on seed packets and the descriptions in seed and nursery catalogues should indicate which varieties are resistant and whether nursery stock is certified virus-free.

Plant crops that are suited to your soil, exposure, location, and climate. Many plant troubles blamed on pests can be caused by poor soil drainage.

Rotate annual crops, alternating between leaf and root crops. If some pest munched on your root vegetables last year and is eagerly awaiting your vegetables this year, shock him with perhaps some spinach.

Do not crowd plants - give them breathing space. Good aeration will let leaves dry rapidly after rain or dew and lessen leaf spot disease, and get those weeds under control! They're the nesting and breeding ground for many pests.

Yes, there is more to a bountiful garden than just sitting down to order seeds. Do your homework and be prepared.

And why not be better prepared to deal with your future garden produce? The Extension Service is sponsoring a Food Preservation Series beginning March 31, to help homemakers be armed with the needed information to make home preservation successful. The series will consist of three classes, each dealing with a different food preservation method.

March 31 will focus on canning; April 14 on freezing; and April 28 on home drying. Each class will be held at the Women's Building, fairgrounds, from 1-3 p.m. There is no charge, but pre-registration is requested. To register call the Extension Office at 267-4444, ext. 219. Deadline for registration is March 20.

"Youth Happening planned

at Akron First Baptist Church

A "Youth Happening" is planned for March 20-22 at the First Baptist Church on East State Road, Akron.

The speaker for the weekend of "happenings" will be Curt Syndram. Curt is from Texas, but now lives in Fort Wayne and attends Elmhurst High School there. He is 16 years old and was formerly a drug user, supporting at least a $40 a week habit. Curt experimented with various drugs, including LSD, acid, marijuana, tranquilizers and barbituates, among a few.

Presently, however, he is an active Christian and attends Northridge Baptist Church in Fort Wayne. He has been a Christian for about six months and loves to share how Jesus Christ freed him from drugs. As a member of his church he is active in the youth choir, Sunday School and any activities held for youth.

Curt's activities are not limited only to church related organizations. At his high school he is a member of the boxing team, drama club, and enjoys fishing, swimming, bowling and skating.

Mike Bowers, pastor, urges all youth to attend. Adults are welcome, also. The dates again are March 20-22 at 7 p.m. nightly at the First Baptist Church, Akron.

Tools For Homeowners

HOME IMPROVEMENT, SAFETY AND ECONOMY
SAFETY: A WORKSHOP WATCHWORD

Safety's no accident. Safe conditions in your home workshop can keep enjoyable and money-saving projects from turning into painful and expensive accidents.

To avoid accidents when working with tools, every handyperson should observe some easy-to-follow safety rules, says Cooper the Toolmaker.

When using handtools, a simple thing like keeping the handle of your hammer or screwdriver clean can prevent potentially serious accidents. The handles tend to get slippery in the natural course of your work. Unless they are wiped clean and dry from time to time, they can slip from your grip.

Loose handles on hammers and other tools invite accidents. Replace or repair these promptly.

Tools don't have to be heavy to do a big job safely. Balance is more important. Plumb Ultra-Lite hammers from Cooper the Toolmaker, for example, are designed with safety, economy and efficiency in mind.

A light, well-balanced hammer can help you do a bang-up job.

Snag-fitting clothing with sleeves that are short or rolled all the way up is best for most jobs. Loose cuffs, dangling neckties or chains can easily be caught or snagged. Hard-soled shoes are better and safer than sneakers or slippers. They help protect your feet against nails and falling objects.

Finally, store tools properly. This avoids nicking the edges of cutting tools and minimizes the possibility of cutting your fingers when reaching into the tool box.

It seems safe to say it's far from foolish to take good care of your tools.

Historical trip to South Bend

The Fulton County Historical Society is offering a bus trip to South Bend on April 11 to visit the Old Courthouse Museum and Notre Dame. Reservations are to be made by sending a check for $7.50 to FCHS, 7th and Pontiac, Rochester. This cost includes transportation and tours, but not the meal.

The group will meet at the courthouse in Rochester and leave at 8 a.m. After visiting the Old Courthouse Museum, operated by the Northern Indiana Historical Society the group will eat at the Tippecanoe Place, former Studebaker family home which was converted recently into a restaurant.

The afternoon will be spent touring Notre Dame with Father Anthony Prosen, diocese historian, as guide. The tour will include the Catholic museum, grave of Father Benjamin Petit - the priest who accompanied the Potawatomi Indians on the Trail of Death, Sacred Heart church and grotto, log cabin chapel, and the administration building murals of Christopher Columbus.

The Catholic museum is of special interest to those researching Indians because it has the robes and other paraphernalia of the early priests who came as missionaries to the Potawatomi in Fulton and Marshall counties.

People wishing to board the bus at Plymouth may do so at 8:30 a.m. at the Chekker gas station on the 31 by-pass at the southeast edge of Plymouth.

TIPS TO HELP YOU

Q. My body measurements fall between two pattern sizes. Which of the sizes should I buy?

A. If your body frame is small, buy the smaller size. If you are large-framed, buy the larger size pattern. Make minor pattern adjustments if necessary.

Q. My hips protrude and I always have a bubble just below my waistline and my skirts are uneven in the back. Am I buying the wrong size pattern?

A. The pattern size you are buying is too small for your hips. It may be right for the rest of your body, but you need more room for your hips. A larger pattern size would eliminate the bubble below your waistline and the skirt would fall more attractively in the back.

Q. What is press marking?
 A. Press marking is a simple method used to transfer pattern markings onto the fabric. It is one of the many marking options you have, depending on the type of fabric used, and what method you are comfortable with. A pressed crease used in conjunction with snip marking is a short cut to mark a foldline. Make a tiny clip in the seam allowance at each end of the foldline, then remove the pattern tissue and separate the fabric layers so you can press each one separately. Fold the fabric with wrong sides together, using the clip marks as guides. Then, press mark the fold.

Sound off

What is the trouble Akron? Why do we let these eye sore rat harbors ruin the looks of our once clean and beautiful town? Some of the owners have residences elsewhere, so what do they care for the ones who have to look at these old buildings and trash.

Lets get busy with some action and pride. Set deadlines for these property owners and stick to them, other cities do.

Daniel W. Reed

Jay A. Kendall

Air Force Staff Sgt. John D. Enyeart, son of Mr. and Mrs. Truman B. Enyeart of Silver Lake; Air Force Sgt. Daniel W. Reed, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Reed of R.R. 1, Roann; and Air Force 1st Lt. Jay A. Kendall, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Kendall of R.R. 1, Roann; have all participated in Global Shield 81, the Strategic Air Command's (SAC) response to a simulated attack on the United States.

The service members are among the more than 100,000 U.S. Air Force, Navy, Marine Corps and Canadian personnel taking part in SAC's largest, no-notice, 20 day training exercise.

During one portion of Global Shield, more than 500 B-52 and FB-111 bombers and KC-135 tankers took off from 70 different locations in the United States and Guam within minutes of notification. This exercise is not related in any way to real world situations, according to a SAC spokesman.

Global Shield 81 is designed to test the command's capability to carry out emergency war orders to support U.S. policy if deterrence fails. This exercise has been constructed to measure SAC's response to a set of preplanned events leading up to a simulated attack on the United States, the spokesman explained.

As part of Global Shield, some SAC aircraft deploy to civilian and military airfields selected specifically for the exercise. Additionally, B-52s and FB-111s fly low-level training routes approved by the Federal Aviation Administration. The routes were preselected to help measure the simulated bombing, navigation and electronic counter-measure skills of SAC aircrews.

Ninety-six Tippecanoe Valley students, 22 T.V.H.S. affiliated donors, the largest group of the 175 persons presenting themselves as donors at the March 5 visit of the Kosciusko County Red Cross mobile, assured the over quota visit, with the collection of 154 pints of blood. The Tippecanoe participation tops the recent visits to Wawasee High School and Warsaw Community High School, for percentage of eligible donors giving.

The unit was set up in the Tippecanoe Valley Gym.

Eighty-three persons visited the unit for the first time, with 89 giving for Robyn Engle, who will undergo heart surgery in May.

George L. Welch, who co-ordinates the school visit, received his two gallon pin. Sally E. Leininger and Linda D. Miller, Alton; and Gary L. Hunter of Warsaw, became members of the one gallon club.

Mrs. Wilbur Latimer and Mrs. Howard Horn, served as co-chairwomen of the day. Other area Red Cross volunteers, high school students, faculty and staff representatives of churches, clubs, and businesses of the area contributed their time, food and efforts with recruitment.

MARGARET'S STORY by Eugenia Price—Margaret Seton had loved Lewis Fleming since her childhood. And when, at the age of nineteen, she stood at his wife's graveside, she wept for him in his grief and vowed then and there to wait for as long as it might take for the chance to make Lewis happy.

LETTY by Clare Darcy—High-spirited, impulsive, utterly charming Letty is an enchanting heroine, and her story sparkles against the colorful background of balls and entertainments in the most glamorous city of nineteenth century Europe.

CRISIS INVESTING by Douglas R. Casey—Opportunities and profits in the coming Great Depression.

THE AMERICAN HEIRESS by Dorothy Eden—The author transports us to the turbulent years of World War I for a stunning tale of the tangled lives of a haughty heiress, her self-willed maid, an English gentleman, and a tragic night aboard a transatlantic liner that would determine who will inherit a legacy of love.

THE TERRORS OF JUSTICE by Maurice H. Stans—A solid documented account of the other side of Watergate, telling the inside story.

CASTLE OF FOXES by Alanna Knight—Set against the backdrop of Victorian England and the ruggedly beautiful Scottish countryside, Castle of Foxes is a splendid tale of romantic suspense and high-spirited adventure.

JOSEPH by Joyce Landorf—In a magnificent saga of love and hate, suffering and triumph, Joseph indelibly prints itself upon our lives as proof of God's wonderful plan for lives committed to His purpose and His timing.

Bake Someone Happy

Sweet Treat From Frosting

What sweeter way to say you care for someone than with homemade candy. If candy thermometers and confusing directions about hard and soft ball stages have scared you away from making candy, you'll like this easy confection idea that starts with a Betty Crocker® frosting mix.

Using frosting mix makes candy-making as foolproof and easy as it makes frosting a cake. The trick? Mixing the right proportions of sugar, flavorings and shortening. Since that's already done for you with frosting mix, your results are perfect, every time.

Here's a start on your candy-making that combines the goodness of chocolate, pecans and coconut.

COCONUT-PECAN CANDY

1 tablespoon margarine or butter
2 tablespoons milk
1 package Betty Crocker® coconut-pecan frosting mix
1/2 cup semisweet chocolate chips
1 tablespoon shortening

Line bottom of loaf pan, 9x5x3 inches, with aluminum foil, leaving 1 inch of foil at each end. Heat margarine in milk over low heat until margarine is melted and mixture just begins to simmer. Remove from heat; stir in frosting mix (dry). Heat over low heat, stirring constantly with rubber spatula, until glossy, about 1 minute. Do not overcook. Spread in pan. Heat chocolate chips and shortening over low heat until melted; spread evenly over coconut-pecan mixture. Refrigerate until firm. Lift candy out; cut into about 1-inch squares. 32 squares.

Almond Crunch: Press about 20 unblanched almonds onto coconut-pecan mixture before spreading with chocolate.

Green Salad

1 6 oz. pkg. lime Jello
2 cups miniature marshmallows
1 8 oz. cream cheese
1 20 oz. can crushed pineapple or 2 cups frozen pineapple*
1/4 cup salad dressing

Prepare Jello according to pkg. directions. If desired, use pineapple juice instead of cold water, for more flavor and food value. After the Jello cools, add marshmallows, cream cheese and salad dressing and beat with mixer. Drain pineapple and add to mixture. Keep in refrigerator.

*If using frozen pineapple, cook the pineapple in a saucepan before adding to the other ingredients.

Did you attend the great birthday party at the Akron Lions Club for those having March birthdays? You missed it! Many did not miss it. We all had fun.

Jim Lewis and yours truly were the guests of honor this month. You know we never get older here at the site, only better! The next birthday party and blood pressure clinic will be Thursday, April 9. Mark it on your calendar and plan to attend.

Games are played at the site whenever anyone has time to stay. This week UNO and Bingo were played in addition to working on the jigsaw puzzle. The puzzle has been different! It is a two foot circular puzzle! It has been difficult for us to think in circles instead of straight line rows of pieces. It really has been fun!

The Akron low-middle income housing is progressing nicely. For information, please call the site, 893-7204, between 10 and 2:30 weekdays.

The quilt has been quilted and will soon have the border. Thank you for your assistance. Don't forget the Fulton County Senior Citizen Olympics in May. We are counting on you to represent Akron and Fulton County.

Editor to develop literary properties for film, book, and magazine publication

RICHARD LYNN SELLS NEWSPAPER

by W. James

Richard Lynn, editor and publisher of the weekly Akron/Mentone NEWS, announced this week that he is selling the newspaper to Dick and Mary McKee of Rochester, Indiana, publishers of The Shopping Guide News.

Lynn is selling the newspaper so he can devote his full time to creative enterprises which include the development of literary properties for film, book and magazine publication.

He has been retained as a consultant and copywriter for a new advertising agency which is being organized in northern Indiana. In addition, Lynn will be on the lecture circuit, addressing artists groups on the business aspects of commercial art and the protection of creative works under the provisions of the Copyright Law of 1976. Lynn will also lecture to journalism students on the practical aspects of small town journalism and conduct seminars and workshops on photojournalism, editing and publishing.

He is also involved in the development of educational textbooks in a graphic format for public school systems.

As an author, illustrator and cartoonist, he has received many awards, including the Freedom Foundation Award presented by the Freedom Foundation at Valley Forge, Pennsylvania. Lynn will be listed in a soon to be published directory of Hoosier authors.

Lynn also writes and designs mailing pieces, sales letters and ghost-writing of books and speeches for politicians and business executives. (Politicians and executives often hire writers to secretly author speeches which they present to the public as if they had been authored by themselves.)

Lynn says he has some ideas for several non-fiction books and novels which he would never have time to write if he kept the newspaper, which has kept him busy for sixty hours a week. "It will be nice for a change to get away from those grueling weekly deadlines and work on long-term projects so I'll have more reasonable working hours and adequate time schedules for the research and execution of ideas."

Prior to buying the newspaper, Lynn had written, illustrated and syndicated a daily cartoon series ("The Sons of Liberty") on American history.

He purchased the small town weekly from Renee and Robert Norlander who now reside in Niles, Michigan. The Norlanders had purchased the NEWS from Loren and Ann Sheetz of Akron.

When Lynn became the editor, Mr. Sheetz told him: "You've taken on an impossible task. With the newspaper, you have to please everyone. With my small printing business, I only have to please one person - the customer who comes in and orders a printing job, custom-made to his specifications. If you make the newspaper to one person's specifications, a thousand readers will be unhappy because the paper doesn't fit their specifications."

Newspaper publishing in a small town is quite different from publishing in a large city where readers have less personal contact with editors. Because small town readers have more access to the

NEWS EDITOR'S STORY ABOUT WABASH RADIO DJ PUBLISHED IN "ACCENT ON LIVING" MAGAZINE

Sightless disc jockey Dave Adkins broadcasts from the studio of WAYT Radio, Wabash, Indiana. Adkins can reach specific tape cartridges filed in a rotatable cabinet located behind his studio chair. He finds switches on the control panel in front of him in the same manner a touch typist uses a typewriter keyboard.

The blind broadcaster's remarkable achievement is chronicled in a magazine article published in the Winter 1980 issue of Accent on Living, (a magazine read by over 19,000 handicapped persons. The magazine is published quarterly by Cheever Publishing, Inc., P.O. Box 700, Bloomington, Illinois 61701. (1 year subscription: $4.50). The magazine article, reprinted below, was written by the Editor of the Akron/Mentone NEWS)

Dave Adkins has never seen the light of day, but he broadcasts as well as any sighted person. He works in the studio of radio station WAYT, perched "on top of the rock" far above the small city of Wabash, Indiana. On Saturday afternoon, Adkins runs a one-man show; not even a secretary is in the building.

Although born sightless, Adkins has never been afraid to tackle difficult jobs.

"I've rode bicycles and I wouldn't even run into parked cars on the street. I could tell where they were. It's just like radar. I can 'feel' when I'm close to something.

editors, they are more aggressive in trying to dictate what will be published.

Lynn recalls a story he heard from a former editor of the NEWS about a school official who didn't like the paper's coverage of school issues. The official canceled his subscription, but each week he would quietly send his secretary to the store to buy a copy of the latest issue. One day the school official went to the store himself, and was extremely embarrassed to be caught red-handed, purchasing a copy of the paper, as the editor happened to pass by the checkout counter at that moment!

The people of Mentone and Akron are so accustomed to having a local paper that they don't appreciate what they have. Most towns of one thousand or less population don't have a newspaper, and people everywhere fail to recognize that the newspaper is a bargain in our inflated economy. What else can you buy for only ten and one-half cents? (the price of the NEWS by subscription) Small town papers are like newsletters in that they carry highly specialized information that is not of interest to the general population, but many newsletters cost a dollar or more per issue, with even less information than an eight page tabloid newspaper!

Under Lynn's guidance the NEWS provided a forum for authors in the community, including the talented prose of Alice Carder, Teresa Petroskey, Eula Smith, Sherry Blankenship, Onda Good, Vern Hucks, William Smith, Jr., and featured the hilarious cartoons of Charles Wagner (creator of CECIL KUNKLE) and the inspired poetic humor of Indiana's cartoonist-poet Gary Jones.

As editor, Lynn tried to bring in more local news and attempted to lure back the "Stringers" (newspaper jargon for free-lance correspondents who report personal items such as: "Mr. and Mrs. You Knowem of Mentone were Friday dinner guests of Burket's finest family") who had been laidoff by the previous publishers, a policy that began with Loren Sheetz who sold the newspaper to the Norlanders.

Highlights of Lynn's ownership of the NEWS included being okayed by the Secret Service to personally cover Ronald Reagan's campaign visit to Kokomo last September, where Lynn snapped close-up photographs of Reagan and Governor Bowen. The Akron/Mentone NEWS covered the event along with reporters from the national media. No other newspaper in this area had a reporter at the scene. (WROI Radio's Joe Sweeney was there.)

One of the best-selling issues at the newstand was published October 29, 1980 with the headline: "$100 Reward offered to STOP THE AKRON ARSONIST."

Other top stories included Lynn's interview with Kent Groninger after Groninger's adventure on Mt. McKinley, interviews with country and western singer Peggy Sue (at the Akron July 4th festivities), TVHS Head Coach Charles Smith ("The Green will grow"), the TVHS Class of 1980 ("Making their dreams come true"), "Akron Ladies (Helen Utter and her daughter Lynne Utter Northrop) show prize-winning horses", and Mentone's sweetheart ("Heart Surgery for Baby Robyn").

Lynn remembers other highlights such as making the mistake of sitting in the bidder's section at the Kosciusko County 4-H Fair, while waiting to snap a photo of Amy Dickerhoff and her prize hog. Everyone in the bidder's section was treated to free food!

He'll never forget the cute kids who posed for NEWS photos, or the memorable campaign visits of Hillis and Ackerson at Akron School, "Little Chick" and "Mr. Rooster" at the Mentone Egg Festival, and the interview with Italian exchange student Silena Faralli.

Lynn leaves behind a unique Christmas issue with a magazine-like Christmas Card cover, the New Year's nostalgia issue, and a number of hand-addressed subscriber's copies (when the addressing machine failed) which may be collector's items.

Next week the NEWS will be published by Dick and Mary McKee. Dick is a 1942 graduate of the former Akron High School and started his career in the printing and publishing industry as a Junior in Akron High School, working for Claude Billings (owner and publisher of the Akron NEWS before Loren Sheetz). Later going to the Rochester Sentinel, McKee also was employed on several other northern Indiana newspapers including the Plymouth Pilot, Mishawaka Enterprise, Fort Wayne News-Sentinel, South Bend Tribune and Logansport Press. For the last 23 years, the McKees have published the Shopping Guide News which is distributed in the Akron area. Mary McKee is also known around Akron by many merchants when she called on them as advertising representative for The Shopping Guide News.

Carol Cumberland of Akron (Dick McKee's sister) will be Managing Editor of the NEWS. For the past six years, Carol has been head of the composing room at The Shopping Guide News. Before that she was employed as Secretary in the Akron School System. At one time she owned the Guideline, a shopper published at Winamac, Indiana.

Spring is here again. And a lot of you will be out working in your yard planting gardens, flowers, trees or shrubs.

Some of you may have electric and gas lines buried in your yard. Accidentally uncovering or digging into them is dangerous. So before you dig, make sure you know where the lines are buried. If you're unsure, check with us or the gas company. We can locate underground cables, helping you and your family avoid unnecessary injury or interruption of service.

Remember. Safety means avoiding accidents. Not just surviving them.

This family of four saves money by camping instead of staying in motels on vacations. As part of a United States Auto Club test, they drove and stayed in motels on the first leg of a trip. Then, they picked up a Starcraft tent camper for the return. After following the same route each way, they totaled expenses and found that it cost less than half to camp.

Bypass motels

Camping trip half as expensive

What does it cost a vacationing family of four to travel across the country?

Results from an experiment by an official of the United States Auto Club (USAC), found it all depends on how it's done. Traveling by car, staying in motels and eating in restaurants, the cost can run around $120 a day. But traveling by car with a fold-down camper, which provides sleeping and cooking facilities, the cost per day can drop to about $52. On the test trip, it took just one extra gallon of gasoline every 100 miles to tow a lightweight Starcraft camper.

A USAC representative, his wife and two sons, made a 2,477-mile trip from their home in Los Angeles to Indianapolis, Ind., staying in motels and eating in restaurants. They picked up a Starcraft Starflyer XL1706 camper in Indiana and returned to Los Angeles, staying in campsites and preparing their own meals. On both legs of the trip, they took the same route and the same amount of time, six days and nights.

The trip east to Indiana, including motels, meals and gasoline, cost $724.67. The return trip to Los Angeles towing the camper cost $315.76, including food, gasoline and campsite rentals. The camper cut costs by more than half.

Why the difference? Here are the financial accounts kept by the family:

Outbound trip:
Motels, $217.07; meals, $341.20; gasoline, $166.40.

Return trip:
Campgrounds, $57.70; food, $59.32; gasoline, $198.74.

The reason so little additional gas was consumed on the return trip is that the camper is one of the new ultralight recreational vehicles designed by Starcraft to suit today's smaller tow vehicles. These lightweights have a hitch weight of less than 100 pounds, and can be towed by most compact cars.

John Banks, the USAC representative who made the trip, said his family found that they like traveling with a camper. They like it so well that they traveled with it to Mexico, Malibu and the Grand Canyon during the next three months. They look forward to frequent camping trips at very low cost.

USAC was so impressed that it awarded Starcraft a certificate of performance noting the miles traveled and savings gained.

Vacation is no fun unless you get there

This unlikely, but timely, message demonstrates a device being used along highways to warn drivers of impending road conditions. Energy Absorption Systems Inc.'s changeable-message sign, currently in use throughout California and several other states, flashes programmed warnings or traffic directions to passing motorists, who can anticipate a change on the road ahead and slow down. Whatever the application—at construction zones, maintenance sites, or wherever road conditions are hazardous—EASI-SIGN is just one of many devices designed to protect drivers against highway tragedy. Of course, the motorist must do his part, too.

Here's what you need to wade-fish four ways

By Homer Circle
Angling Editor,
Sports Afield Magazine

Wading and fishing are full of challenge and charm. The peace and quiet of awakening nature... a raccoon pawing under rocks for crawfish... the screech of a redtail hawk soaring overhead... wild creatures scampering into brush as you round a bend and flip a cast that invades their domain. That's the charm.

The challenge is that wade-fishing can be done in so many different ways, with many different results. The more you know, the more you catch, and the more you enjoy!

For equipment, you'll need a pair of good waterproof waders. I especially like the Red Ball Flyweights because they comfort me in many ways. Not only are they extremely tough and lightweight (less than 12 ounces), but the wading shoes that go with them are sure-footed and maneuverable. The Flyweights also have an inflatable chest ring that makes it easier to swim if you get washed off your feet.

You can carry lure boxes in a vest and extra gear in a shoulder pouch. Don't forget an over-the-shoulder creel or a stringer. That's for the fish you're going to catch!

You can choose from among four basic wade-fishing methods:

Bait-casting

A bait-casting's reel spool revolves with the cast and requires fairly heavy lures to activate it. The reel is equipped with a level-winding mechanism that lays the line evenly on the spool as you turn the handle to retrieve. Bait-casting rods generally range from five to six and one-half feet long and come in various actions. For a beginner, a six-foot medium-action rod will do an all-around job of fishing with both artificial lures and live bait.

Spinning

Spinning is designed to cast the lightest possible lures. The spinning reel has a stationary open-face spool that allows the line to flow off with a minimum of drag.

Spinning rod lengths range from five to seven feet, and the action is softer overall than bait-casting because of the wider span of lure weights used. I'd recommend a six-and-one-half-foot light-action rod to start, preferably one with a screw-locking reel seat. It's more dependable than a reel held by a sliding band.

Spin-casting

This is a blend of bait-cast-

AKRON SCHOOL MENU

Monday: Pizza for Jr. High Spanish or plain hot dogs for the Grade School, French fries, buttered carrots & pears.

Tuesday: Turkey Roll, sweet potatoes, lettuce salad, mixed fruit and hot rolls.

Wednesday: Smokies, buttered potatoes, spinach with bacon and cherry cobbler.

It's a biggie and that's because Homer Circle, angling editor for Sports Afield magazine, knows how to find 'em and catch 'em. He favors wade-fishing because it brings him close to nature and, besides, it's fun. He wears Red Ball Flyweight waders to get around the water quietly and effortlessly. Note the inflated air chamber. That will help keep him afloat if he steps into a deep hole.

ing and spinning. The spin-casting reel is used on light-bait casting rods equipped with larger guides, because the line spirals off a stationary spool much like a spinning reel. Spin-casting is relatively easy; a good method for the beginner.

Fly-fishing

In the minds of many anglers, this is the most sporting kind of fishing. You cast a line that is heavier than the lure it carries with it. The fly reel takes no part in the cast, except to yield line as you strip it off. Rods run from seven to nine feet long. The recommended length for flyfishing is an eight-foot rod for stream fishing, a nine-foot rod for lakes.

You'll find wade-fishing a totally new experience. It's helpful to take your first trip with a buddy who can teach you the basics.

You'll settle into the wade-fishing method that suits you best. From then on, it's all fun—some of the best fun there is!

DISC JOCKEY BY BRAILLE

"I don't think there's anything I couldn't do if I really wanted to do it badly enough. A handicapped person has to have that philosophy."

Dave has been a mechanic, a production worker in a factory and has also worked as a dispatcher for a taxicab company. He discovered that other sightless persons were spinning records on radio and he thought, "If they can do it, why can't I?"

Some employers are reluctant to hire the sightless worker. A radio station owner promised Dave a job, but later admitted he had never intended to keep his word.

Dave says, "There's been so much misinformation about blindness. The public has seen movies in which sightless persons do the impossible and they've seen movies about blind persons who are portrayed as completely incapable of doing anything."

Fortunately, Dan Schram, owner of WAYT, was willing to give Dave his first opportunity to work in broadcasting. Dave works about four to five hours a day, depending on the season because WAYT is on the air from sunrise to sundown.

Dave's wife drives him to work. Once at the station, he selects music for his program. Most of the recordings are on tape cartridges (known as "carts" in disc jockeys' trade-talk).

After listening to a cart, Dave uses a punch to write a title in braille on a label. The label is attached to the cartridge.

The cartridges are placed in pigeonholes on one side of a rotatable cabinet which is located near the right side of Dave's chair when he sits (in the studio) facing the microphone on the control panel. With his right hand he can reach the cabinet and turn it to the left or to the right, for his convenience. With his finger, he can count up the rows on the side of the cabinet and count the number of pigeonholes across the cabinet from left to right. In this manner, he can find any cartridge according to its numbered pigeonhole in the cabinet. If there is a mixup for any reason, he can doublecheck the identity of a cartridge by inserting it in a tape player and listening to the recording. He can do this while another song or commercial is being broadcasted to the listening audience.

On one occasion, Dave forgot to flip the off-switch for his microphone while a song was on the air. "I hate that song," he said, "I hate it!" - not realizing that he was broadcasting his off-the-record opinion.

Special instructions are received verbally or sound recorded by the station manager or a secretary.

Brief community affairs announcements can be memorized.

Dave gets the weather report from a weather monitor and writes the forecast in braille on a card. Later, he reads the weather report on the air.

While records are playing, Dave answers the station telephone, taking requests from listeners.

After speaking on the air to announce a song or message, Dave switches off his microphone and turns to a nearby tape recorder. He switches on the recorder and dictates a program log which is a record of the commercials and station identification announcements played on the air. Later, a secretary will transcribe the tape. The program log is required by rules of the Federal Communications Commission.

Sighted persons usually solve timing problems by looking at a clock, but Dave can touch his program schedule which is written in braille. It tells him what comes next. When he hears the music stop, he reaches to the control panel and flips a switch to get on the air so he can make his next announcement.

The sound of a tone notifies Dave that the UPI World News will begin in one minute.

He enjoys the work because "It's a different type of job. When I'm here by myself, it's my responsibility, man! Whether this radio station is on the air or not is all up to me!"

For those who would like a career in broadcasting, Dave says the best way to begin is by seeking a job with a small radio station. He believes a sightless person would have a better chance in the minor leagues of broadcasting. "I don't think they could go to bigtime radio, right away. Big radio is tough. There's a lot of competition in it."

He stresses the importance of self-confidence and perseverance. "Never give up. Know that you can do anything that you want to do. Believe that and don't take 'No' from anybody. If they tell you 'No', make them tell you why. Let them know that you believe in yourself."

"If I can convince someone, somewhere, that a person who doesn't see can do something -- then I've accomplished all I've wanted to do. In fact, my dream in life is to have a business of my own and employ only the handicapped at a decent wage."

Dave flipped a switch on the control panel, as the top tunes continued on WAYT radio.

"You see, I have to know what switch to reach for and when to do it. I think sighted people cheat."

He smiled. "I think every broadcaster should run a radio station with his eyes closed."
