Vikings defeat Warriors in close battle

The Tippecanoe Valley football team has done what they obviously set out to do from the beginning of the season, and that is to win every game they play. In action against North Miami on Friday night the Vikings managed to squeeze by the Warriors with a 21-20 victory that makes their season perfect at 10-0. It was a tough contest but the Vikings survived, giving them a shot at the state title. The win also gives them the Three Rivers Conference title and a 16-game winning streak.

In the first quarter, Tippecanoes defensive end Greg Eaton set up the first touchdown for the Vikings by blocking a Warrior punt. It took six plays for the Viking's Brent Rutherford to charge across the goal line for six, and the PAT kicked by Jeff Shriver was good. The Vikes led 7-0.

After a successful punt by the Warriors, Tippecanoes fullback

Shriver capped off a 73-yard drive with a five yard run for the Viking's second touchdown in the first quarter. The PAT was missed.

The Vikings third score was made in the second quarter when quarterback Ray Rockhill ran 13 yards for the TD. Shriver took the handoff in the two-point conversion attempt and put the score at 21-0.

With 20 seconds left in the first half, the Warriors let it be known that they were still not defeated. In 12 plays, they managed 62 yards and rushed across the goal line for their first six points. The PAT was not good and the score at half-time was 21-6.

North Miami came back strong in the third quarter, when a Viking fumble turned the ball over to the Warriors at the Miami 33 yardline.

The Warriors marched to the goalline, where quarterback Jay Hunt rushed the ball in for six. The pass play for two points was incomplete, but the score now stood at 21-12.

Another fumble by Valley's Shriver gave the ball to the Warriors at their own 46. After a nine yard run by Frank Chester, Hunt passed to Ty Bahney who raced into the endzone for six more points. In a shorter pass play, the Warriors went for two and were successful, bringing the score to 21-20.

As time ran out with the Warriors in possession of the ball, the Vikings had barely kept the North Miami team from the biggest upset all season, but win they did, and now it's on to the playoffs.

Valley will host Fort Wayne Leo in the Class A, District 10 play-off at TVHS on Friday Nov. 4. Leo has a record of 9-1 after defeating Eastside 34-0 last Friday night.

Earl Allen Beattie, 28, of Rochester was chosen Saturday by two of three Mentone Town Board members to replace Marshal Glenn Pelkey who was dismissed from that post in October. Beattie will assume the duties of town marshal this month as soon as he is available.

In addition to a starting salary of $10,000 per year, Beattie will be placed on probation for six months. He will also be expected to abide by some written rules that are being set up by Board members Frank Hardesty, Wayne Tombaugh, and Gerald Romine.

Hardesty, Tombaugh, and Romine interviewed four men for the job last week during an executive session. They considered five applications.

Beattie served in the United States Air Force (USAF) from 1969 to 1973. He was stationed at Chaunte Air Force Base in Illinois; Ching Chuan Kang Air Force Base in Taiwan; Saigon Air Force Base in Vietnam; and Mountain Home Base in Idaho.

In January, 1973, he entered the USAF Transition Training program in law enforcement. He was employed at the Mountain Home City Police Department from April 1973 to June 1973. Serving four years as a night sergeant at the American Falls Police Department in Idaho, he was acting chief of police, and acting firearms instructor for 11 police reserve officers.

In 1974, Beattie was certified as an emergency medical technician (EMT) in Idaho.

Beattie has participated in Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI) courses and Idaho law enforcement training. He was a sociology major at Idaho State University.

An native of Rochester, he graduated from Rochester Community High School in 1967. He now resides there with his wife and two sons.

Farmers reminded to report

Fulton County farmers who have not reported their total crop and land use acreages to the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) are urged to do so as soon as possible. Robert C. Herrold, Chairman of the Fulton County ASC Committee said the acreages must be reported to be eligible for 1978 program benefits.

"Even though farmers may not have needed to certify crop acreages last year," Mr. Herrold said, "it is important that they report their 1977 crops." So far, 1375 farmers in Fulton county have certified their crop acreages. Farmers who fail to certify will be ineligible to participate in 1978 programs, Herrold added.

"The importance of correctly reporting acreages cannot be overemphasized," Herrold said. Crops should be reported on a field-by-field basis. Random spot checks of program crops will be made to assure accurate reporting.

Applicants for all ASCS programs will be given equal consideration without regard to race, color, sex, creed or national origin.

County YMCA offers youth basketball

The Fulton County Family YMCA located in Rochester will sponsor three Youth Basketball Leagues this season for all youngsters in the county in grades 1-6.

Beginning November 18, the classes will be on Fridays from 4:15-5:15 for eight weeks. David Foellinger will be the coach, and the cost is $5 plus membership.

The Rockwell Boys Basketball League for boys in grades 4, 5, and 6 is now in its fourth season and is highly successful in focusing on its motto of "participation by all" and "fair play above all". The challenge is self-development in skills and values. The Rockwell Mental Attitude Award is the highest honor bestowed. Beginning on November 5, the classes will meet on Saturdays at 9:30 a.m. for twelve weeks. Pete Smith is the coach, and the cost is $5.50 plus membership.

Newsview

By Bob Norlander

You've undoubtedly noticed a little something different about your NEWS this week. We've put some new faces on our columns and have started some new features - "NEWSVIEW", and "FAMILY LIFE".

Some changes, They're not big changes for the paper, but we hope that they have added something extra and enjoyable to your reading.

Like any "first", this first issue that Renee and I have put together was slow going at first and possibly has several typos and misspellings due to the pressure of meeting our first weekly deadline. We couldn't have produced our first issue, however, had it not been for the help and assistance of Loren and Ann Sheetz, the former Publishers and Editors of the NEWS.

Their fifteen-year love affair with the NEWS and the people of the area has resulted in a fine weekly paper of high quality of which they may be proud. Renee and I will try our best to continue publishing the NEWS in the same traditions of Loren and Ann and I know that I express the feelings of everyone that has been associated with them over the years in wishing them the very best in their continuing business as THE LOCAL PRINTER. Renee and I will always remember their warmth, counsel and friendly hospitality in helping us become acquainted in the area and in making the change of ownership go as smoothly as it did.

Our philosophy of publishing is simple. We believe a paper's purpose is to inform, to entertain, to serve as a market place for local merchants, and to enrich you - its reader. Stories of people in our area and events in our towns will be objectively reported with an emphasis on those values which we believe to be positive: generosity, fairness, compassion, patriotism and integrity, and we shall not fail to record the lack of those qualities where the public has a right to expect them to exist.

Newspaper publishing is a unique business and is virtually unlike any other in America. At the NEWS we'll have responsibilities to three masters - to our readers, to ourselves, and to a standard of journalism, which is in some respects the most demanding taskmaster of them all. In the final analysis, however, we believe that all three come together: that good journalism is good public service is good business.

Revue hearing

Kosciusko County Commissioners will hold a public hearing on Nov. 10 at 10 a.m. on the use of federal revenue sharing funds for $52,400 in county landfill expenses. USDA to extend loan maturity dates

The U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) today announced that 1976 crop feed grain loans due to mature on or before December 31, 1977 may be extended at the option of the producer to January 31, 1978. USDA on August 15 had announced that feed grain loans maturing prior to Oct. 31 could be extended to Oct. 31. These loans may also be extended to Jan. 31. Feed grains include barley, corn, oats and sorghum.

With the later loan maturity date, farmers have the option of continuing to hold their grain for the feed grain reserve program authorized by the Food and Agriculture Act of 1977. Details of this program will be announced soon by USDA and will be made available to feed grain producers through Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) county offices.

Under commodity loan programs, producers borrow money from the Commodity Credit Corporation (CCC), offering their crops as collateral. The loans are "nonrecourse" which means that when the loan matures, producers either repay the loan plus interest or forfeit the commodity to CCC.

CCC loans are administered by ASCS. Farmers who wish to extend the maturity date of their loans should contact their county ASCS office.

Indiana Department of Revenue

Checks for nearly $93.7 million were sent to the 92 Indiana County Treasurers on Friday, October 28, Governor Otis R. Bowen noted.

Friday's mailing by the Indiana Department of Revenue represents the final 1977 distribution from the Property Tax Replacement fund to the counties. This brings the 1977 distribution total to $271,926,126.24.

Under the Property Tax Replacement program, 20 percent of each taxpayer's property tax bill is paid to the county from the Property Tax Replacement fund. The PTR fund consists of half the state sales tax collections.

The counties and the amounts of their respective payments are as follows:

Fulton County: $272,270.24
Kosciusko County: $770,984.20.

Letters to the Editor

This morning

Dear Editor:

I sit in a little restaurant writing on a napkin. I just thought "How patient people of the world are. There is a big crowd in the restaurant and only one waitress. No one gets out of humor because they have to wait."

Yesterday I waited on a train for one-half hour to get across. No one got impatient. Every day I watch the people wait to get across Madison. People watch commercials on television to get a few minutes of program. People wait to grow old. Some wait to be kind to those who are unkind to them.

People are wonderful. We enjoy bad days so we can have the good days. It's fun to be alive. I think so many stop on the green light so they can wait. The night closes around us. We know that when the morning comes it will be light. On the coldest day of winter we think of spring.

The good book tells us, "Looking for the blessed hope." We know things will be better...and it's all right.

T-shirts: Fall fashion

"For fall, wear a T-shirt alone, or layered over or under a tailored shirt," suggest Lois M. Gotsals, Extension clothing specialist at Purdue University.

"Knitted T-shirts are an important fashion garment which should fit right," she adds.

When choosing a T-shirt be sure it is wide enough across the shoulders and around the chest. Check to see if the length is as long as you desire. Are the neck and sleeve bands comfortable—neither too tight nor too loose?

Stretch the neckband gently to see if it springs back to its original shape. Neckbands should be made of firm rib knits that retain their shape after many stretchings. Neckbands of 100 per cent nylon, or a blend of nylon and other fibers, usually retain their shape—especially important if the T-shirt will be worn over a tailored shirt.

Check the label for fiber content. A shirt of 100 per cent cotton will be more absorbent and often more comfortable than T-shirts of nylon or polyester, though nylon and polyester are more durable, shrink less and retain shapes better. Fiber blends combine absorbency, comfort and good shape retention. However, blends tend to pill (fuzzy balls form and cling to the fabric surface) rather easily.

The label also gives information concerning shrinkage. "Pak-knit," "Sanforized" and "maximum shrinkage 1-2 per cent" indicate the shirt will shrink less than one size. A shrinkage of 3 per cent or more means the shirt will become at least a size smaller. "Pre-shrink" and "shrinkage control" are not very meaningful.

The fabric should be closely, evenly knitted with round rather than elongated loops. If the loops are elongated, the T-shirts will usually shrink lengthwise and become wider during the first laundering. Closely knitted T-shirts of heavier yarns usually are more durable and warmer than lightweight ones.

If the T-shirt is not cut on the straight of the fabric (rows of loops form cross-wise and perpendicular lines), it may twist and become uncomfortable after laundering. Openings and plaquettes that do not follow a row of loops usually ripple or pucker after laundering.

Most durable T-shirt seams are narrowed (a stitch combining straight and zig-zag stitching.) Thus, a narrow seam allowance can be used and the seam line will "give" without breaking. The seam line should also be soft and never sewn with a stiff, transparent thread which is scratchy when worn next to the skin.

Better quality T-shirts have taped, double stitched shoulder and back neck seams for shape retention. They also have hems which can barely be seen from the right side of the shirt. Also check the hem for loose threads, flexibility and a flat rather than bulky feel.

"Taking time to shop for quality in a T-shirt means it will be worn often and enjoyed over a longer period since it will keep that brand new look," says Gotsals.

Student health can hurt grades

Is your child having trouble keeping his or her grades in school?

The American Medical Association points out that there may be a physical reason for the poor record.

Does the child squint, strain, rub his eyes or complain that they hurt, water or itch? Does he hold his book very close to his face when he reads? Has it been some time since his last eye examination? He may have defective vision. He may not be able to read the teacher's notes on the blackboard.

Does he often ask you to repeat a question or statements? Does he sometimes miss, or seem to miss, a point made in a movie or on television by the spoken word? Does he turn his head to one side as he listens? He may have defective hearing. It might be as simple as impacted wax in the ears, which can be removed by your physician in a simple office procedure. Of course, the inattentive child may have no hearing problem at all. Children know we will repeat the question or instruction, thus encouraging a habit of not listening.

Has he had an infection, disease or accident whose effects may be lingering on? Is there a possibility that poor nutrition may be holding him back? He may be eating considerable quantities of food and still be undernourished, if he eats improperly, or if his tastes in food are too limited.

If your child isn't performing properly in his school work, ask yourself whether it is time for an examination to determine whether his problems are caused by a physical problem that might be corrected.

Here's Help For Recipe Collectors

Collecting recipes is a favorite American hobby. But how and where to store the culinary treasures can be a problem. Some people slip them into favorite cookbooks, others stuff them into drawers, boxes or file folders. Then there are those who tuck their recipes into every conceivable nook and cranny.

If you're a recipe collector in search of an organized system, you may want to consider the "Recipe Saver." The "Recipe Saver" is a deluxe 3-ring binder, fitted with spill-proof clear vinyl sheets with each sheet containing 12 pockets into which you can slip 12 separate recipes. The recipes may be your own typed or handwritten ones, clips from newspapers or magazines, or saved from food-product labels.

To obtain a complete Recipe Saver kit (includes book, 5 vinyl sheets and 12 recipes) send $4.50 and a label from any size jar of Hellmann's real mayonnaise to Recipe Saver, Dept. RSD, Box 307, Coventry, CT 06238.

When to see the doctor

All of us are now and then faced with a quick decision: should we, or shouldn't we see the doctor?

The American Medical Association lists several points for consideration as a general guide to help you decide whether medical aid should be sought at once:

-When your complaint or symptoms are too severe to be endured, such as abdominal pain common to a gall bladder attack or appendicitis or kidney colic, or sudden chest pains. Immediate relief of pain is the purpose of getting the patient to the doctor without delay.

-When an apparently minor symptom persist for more than a few days or a week, and does not appear to be due to some easily identified cause. A nose bleed from a sharp blow is one thing; a nose that bleeds constantly or frequently for no apparent reason is quite a different matter.

-When the symptom returns repeatedly for no readily apparent cause. Digestive disturbances due to overindulgence are one thing; constant digestive distress despite great care and moderation in eating is another.

-When in doubt, it is safer to call the doctor than to take a chance.

Many accidents around the home or yard cause bruises and scratches and minor sprains that can be successfully treated at home. But some accidents require fast medical attention.

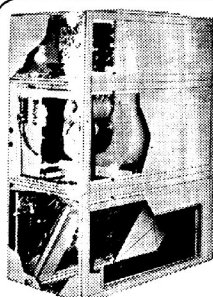

If the accident victim is unconscious, get help fast. Also when bleeding is severe or cannot be controlled; when the victim is groggy or confused; when there are signs of shock, such as pale, cold skin, sweating and weak pulse.

Breathlessness or intensive thirst after the accident require medical attention. If there is a possible broken bone, seek help. Also for severe pain, signs of poisoning, serious burns, persistent vomiting, blurred vision.

Winter traction facts

Here are some facts about winter traction you should know, according to the Chicago Motor Club-AAA:

—Radial tires offer no advantage over regular tires when driving on ice; the traction performance of radial tires in snow varies widely and is dependant on the tread configuration.

—Conventional snow tires offer no advantage over regular tires in stopping on ice; in fact, they are slightly inferior to regular tires in this respect.

—Reinforced tire chains on the rear wheels reduce braking distance on ice by 50 per cent as compared with regular tires.

—Conventional snow tires improve pulling ability by 28 per cent on glare ice and 51 per cent on loosely packed snow as compared with regular tires.

—Reinforced tire chains provide more than seven times the pulling ability of regular tires on glare ice, and better than four times the pulling ability of regular tires on loosely packed snow.

Regardless of efforts to improve traction on ice through the use of snow tires or reinforced tire chains, in no instance is the resulting traction close to that of conventional highway tires on either dry or wet pavement.

Family Life

by Renee Norlander

In the short time that Bob and I have been working in Akron and Mentone, we've realized that we certainly could not have chosen a better place in which to publish a newspaper and eventually settle. Everyone that we've met has been so helpful and kind that we can't help but feel welcome.

Because I am going to have a baby in a few weeks (our first), we will be staying in Niles for awhile, but hope to move to the community as soon as possible afterwards. I won't be working too much in the near future but I will be writing this weekly column, and doing as much as I can from home.

In this column, I hope to accomplish a small (?) task — and that is to un-complicate your lives. I'll try to find information that helps and improves your daily living so that life can truly be enjoyable. I'm not saying that I have the answers, but I will be looking for helpful hints — I can use them myself. Occasionally I'll probably blow off a little steam, too, but hopefully, even that will be productive.

Anyway, I want you to know how happy I am that Bob and I are publishing the paper, and I thank all of you who have shown us your hospitality and support. With a special "thanks" to Ann and Loren, who have been terrific! They've spent an awful lot of time helping us learn the ropes, and we'll never forget it. They're great!

And we're glad to be Hoosiers!

New Liquid Brown Sugar Adds Zest To Hearty Soup

Barbecued Bean Soup gets its distinctive flavor from Domino® Liquid Brown Sugar. This new product is real 100% brown sugar in liquid form. It can never lump or harden! What's more, it contains no preservatives or artificial flavoring. And because the flavor is concentrated, in many recipes you need only half as much as regular brown sugar. Try this new Liquid Brown Sugar in casseroles, glazes, cookies, and as a topping for pancakes, ice cream and cereal.

How To Prepare Your Home For Winter

When the leaves come tumbling down, it generally is not too long before the temperature begins to do likewise.

So getting your home ready for the onset of winter should take top priority during the relatively balmy weekends autumn, as winter has a way of showing up when least expected, and frigid temperatures invariably cool the ardor of most handymen for tackling around-the-house projects.

Putting on storm windows and checking out the furnace are two important chores in getting your home winter-ready, but they are not the only ones.

Here's a checklist of projects prepared by the General Electric and Hotpoint Consumers Institute to help you get ready for cold weather:

- Put clean filters in the furnace, and lay in a supply now so you can change filters regularly throughout the heating season.

- Clean the exhaust vent on your dryer to remove dust and lint which have collected and will reduce drying efficiency. You'll also be reducing a potential fire hazard.

- Check fireplace dampers to make sure they are closed, and keep them closed when the fireplace is not in use. Since hot air rises, an open damper can let heating dollars go right up the chimney.

- Now's the time to put a new evaporator element (media) in your furnace humidifier, and to buy extras for in-season replacement. Also check humidifier water valves — they can get plugged with sediment after being closed for half the year.

- If you have room air conditioners in your windows, carefully weather strip around them if you can't remove and store them for the winter. Special plastic covers are also a good investment, or make your own one-shot covers with a roll of plastic film and masking tape.

- Consider making plastic storm windows for unenclosed or unheated porches, basement windows or other windows lacking storms.

- Check permanent windows to see that they fit tightly; if they don't, use weather stripping or caulking. Weather strip doors that don't fit snugly.

A little effort spent making the home "heat-tight" will cut not only heat losses this winter but heating bills as well. And in this period of fuel shortages, conserving energy is everybody's business.

Once the heating season starts, the Consumers Institute recommends you set the thermostat at a comfortable temperature — as close to 70 degrees as possible — and leave it there. Each additional degree upward will add significantly to your operating cost.

You'll be more comfortable at lower temperatures if you have proper humidity in the home. Consider a built-in or portable humidifier. Proper humidity also will help protect valuable home furnishings from drying out and will minimize annoying shocks from static electricity.

IN COURT

WOODSY OWL HOOTS:

Shhhhhhh...
Noise pollutes, too.

GIVE A HOOT. DON'T POLLUTE

Many homemakers are thinking towards the holidays as they do their weekly shopping. The one food item which is high on the shopping list is the turkey. If turkey is in your Thanksgiving plans you need to plan ahead for a successful dinner.

When purchasing the bird, look for a clean, waxy skin relatively free of pin feathers. A short broad breasted bird yields more meat than a long narrow bird of the same weight.

Allow one-half to three-fourths pound per serving for turkeys 12 pounds or over. For birds under 12 pounds allow three-fourths to one pound per serving, and one and one-half to two pounds per serving of already stuffed turkey.

When you get the turkey home, freeze it quickly. Give the turkey an overwrap of moisture-proof, vapor-proof foil, if the original wrapping does not appear adequate for long storage. Once a turkey has been allowed to thaw it must be used within two days.

Holidays are more fun if free from food borne illnesses. So keep your food free from harmful bacteria by selecting them carefully at the supermarket and storing them properly at home.

If you have questions, send them to the County Extension Office, R. 1 Box 284 C, Warsaw or call 267-8971.

CO - the silent killer

A silent killer may be loose in your house.

The criminal is carbon monoxide--CO--a colorless, odorless, tasteless gas produced everytime a carbon-containing material burns.

The American Medical Association points out that CO combines with blood 200 times more easily than oxygen. If you breathe air containing a normal amount of oxygen and a moderate amount of carbon monoxide, your blood will be starved for oxygen. When blood cannot supply oxygen to your brain, permanent brain damage or death may result.

Dangerous quantities of CO accumulate when a cool, slow fire burns in limited air space. Since you can't see, smell or taste it, the gas is hard to detect except by your symptoms--drowsiness, headache, tightness across the forehead, confusion, nausea and muscular weakness. CO poisoning may confuse you so that you cannot reach fresh air to relieve the symptoms and prevent serious injury.

To prevent a carbon monoxide attack in your home:

- Have all heating systems checked annually for operating efficiency. Make sure that vents, pipes, flues and chimneys are tight.

- Make certain your heating plant is not starved for air.

- Be sure that all heating devices designed for venting are properly vented to the outside.

- Provide additional fresh air for charcoal grills and hibachis used indoors. Better still, don't use these charcoal cookers indoors.

- Never tamper with ducts or vents of a heating device to get more heat out of it.

- Be sure that heating devices have been tested by a reputable firm. Follow the manufacturer's recommendations for installation and use.

- When changing types of fuel, ask a qualified serviceman to adjust all appliances involved.

- Don't close your fireplace damper until you are certain the fire is entirely burned out.

- Be sure your garage is sealed from the house. Never run the car in a closed garage.

Yankee Women Hired To Save Cotton Crops

Harvesting their crop before bad weather has always been a problem for cotton farmers.

One resourceful Mississippi County, Ark., planter—beset by a shortage of labor during the last year of the Civil War—solved his problem by hiring Yankee women cotton pickers.

According to a diary kept by Edward Palmer, a representative of the Smithsonian who visited Arkansas in the 1880's to study Indian Mounds, the planter was Dr. F. G. McGavock of Pecan Point.

With cotton selling at $1.40 to $1.80 a pound, the Arkansas doctor was understandably anxious to get his crop harvested. So he made a trip to Castle Garden, N.Y., where he hired 86 Irish girls to save his crop—promising to pay them $20 a month plus room and board.

A flood came before all of the cotton was harvested, however, and the doctor promised each girl a new balmoral—a woolen petticoat—and a pair of shoes if all the cotton were pulled up and saved.

So appealing was the Scotsman's offer that the girls went to work—four on each side of a row—pulling the cotton, loading it on a wagon, and taking it to a dry place for storage.

McGavock's scheme worked, but an 1860's wave of women's liberation soon set in. Within a year after the war, most of the women had gone to Memphis to work as domestics.

Minute Meditation

Messages chosen for inspiration and guidance by Rick and Joann Ralston.

SERMONS WE SEE

I'd rather see a sermon than hear one any day,
I'd rather one should walk with me than merely point the way.
The eye's a better pupil and more willing than the ear:
Fine counsel is confusing, but example's always clear;
And the best of all the preachers are the men who live their creeds,
For to see the good in action is what everybody needs.
I can soon learn how to do it if you'll let me see it done.
I can watch your hands in action, but your tongue too fast may run.
And the lectures you deliver may be very wise and true,
But I'd rather get my lesson by observing what you do.
For I may misunderstand you and the high advice you give.
But there's no misunderstanding how you act and how you live.

Edgar A. Guest

You, then, who teach your fellow-man, do you fail to teach yourself?
You proclaim, "Do not steal"; but are you yourself a thief? You say, "Do not commit adultery"; but are you an adulterer? You Abominate false gods; but do you rob their shrines? While you take pride in the law, you dishonour God by breaking it. For as scripture says, 'Because of you the name of God is dishonored among the Gentiles.'

Mentone Christian Fellowship

Articles of Faith and Practice

B. ARTICLES OF PRACTICE

SECTION 1. Baptism

We believe that baptism by water is the symbol of one's union by faith with Christ in death, burial and resurrection, and constitutes the public confession of these spiritual realities to the world and is the answer of a good conscience toward God. Baptism is therefore to be administered to those who have been born again by faith in the Lord Jesus Christ and who give evidence of the genuineness of their salvation.

SECTION 2. The Lord's Supper

The Lord's Supper was instituted by Christ himself on the night of His betrayal. We believe that it is a memorial of Christ's death, a center of communion and fellowship, a testimony to saving faith, and a visible seal of Christ's redemptive covenant.

SECTION 3. Christian Stewardship

God's ownership of all things creatively and redemptively is unquestioned in the Scriptures. Since we are saved by grace and the death of Christ provided our ransom, our whole being, body, soul, and spirit should be freely given to God, which is our reasonable service. Inasmuch as we are stewards also over our time, talents and temporal goods, believers are encouraged to adopt the system of tithing as a minimum expression of their stewardship.

Akron banker

Leininger elected president

On October 26, 1977, the Department of Financial Institutions, State of Indiana, approved the change of majority interest of the Akron Exchange State Bank to J. Randall Leininger and David E. Caston.

Caston has 14 years of banking experience and has been a senior investment officer of a 600 million dollar bank. He has been active in all areas of bank management with specific responsibilities of Corporate Cash Management programs for banks, savings and loans, credit unions, and major corporations. He has designed financial and management systems and has lectured at various national schools and seminars in financial management systems. He is a graduate of Indiana University with a degree in finance. Caston was past president of the Northern Indiana Safety Deposit Association and the immediate past president of the Northern Indiana Chapter of Bank Administration Institute. David Caston and his wife and two children are members of Saint John's Bengin Lutheran Church and reside at R.R. 1, Decatur, Indiana.

At the regular Board of Directors' meeting of the Akron Exchange State Bank on November 8, 1977, J. Randall Leininger was elected president and chief operating officer of the Bank.

Leininger has been with the bank since January 1, 1963, and has been serving most recently in the position of Executive Vice-President. He graduated from Indiana University with a Bachelor Jontz, Dr. John McKee, A. M. Price, and Richard E. Day.

The bank is not contemplating any changes in services offered to the community, but the bank will strive to improve the level of those of Arts degree. He is a 1970 graduate of the School of Banking at the University of Wisconsin.

It was also announced that Harold L. Groninger will continue as Chairman of the Board of Directors until his retirement in August, 1978.

The current directors of the bank are as follows: Harold L. Groninger, chairman; J. Randall Leininger, David E. Caston, Ted R.

services now being offered to the community.

Loans are at an all-time high, exceeding 13 million dollars. Deposits continue to set records up over 12.8 percent over a year ago. Capital in the bank has increased to over 1,200,000 dollars.

Pesticide training session

A Pesticide Training session for private applicators (farmers) to certify them in purchasing and using restricted pesticides will be held at the Atwood Community Center on Tuesday, November 22 from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m.

All area farmers who wish to become certified as private applicators are welcome to attend.

Road meeting set

"Financing Roads and Bridges in Indiana" will be the subject of the Public Policy meeting to be held in Plymouth on Tuesday, November 15 from 10 a.m. - 3 p.m.

Martin Pond and Bob Jones, Purdue Ag Economists, will lead the discussion. They will present facts on the current highway and bridge situation and project the upcoming needs and their costs. Those in attendance will then be given an opportunity to discuss the alternatives for financing different levels of needs.

Anyone interested is welcome to attend. Call the County Extension Office for reservations and pooling of transportation.

Mentone Board seeks facts on sewage system

Frank Hardesty and Wayne Tombaugh, two members of the Mentone Town Board, joined the Kewanna Town Board on Thursday, November 3 in Kewanna to learn about sewer systems on a "fact-finding" mission. Also present were members of the State Board of Health, Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) and representatives of a consulting firm, Commonwealth Engineers, Inc. of Greenwood.

The Step II grant applications of proposed sewage systems for Mentone and Kewanna were approved earlier this year by the state, but were rejected by EPA, asking that small towns consider alternatives that would save the local taxpayers money Hardesty and Tombaugh attended the meeting to learn how to correct the application and move ahead with their plans.

It was learned that the State Board of Health has taken samples of overflow in Mentone and found gross pollution, and an EPA official suggested that the towns consider a new idea of combining three or four septic tanks together along with an absorption field. Officials explained that an absorption field is a plastic pipe hooked to a sewer underneath the surface of the ground. The pipe has perforated holes and allows a limited amount of liquids to overflow from the septic tank. A Fulton County soil conservationist emphasized that this field would not work in Kewanna because the soil is not right for it. However, the conservationist felt that there are 12 acres in Mentone where several tanks could be buried along with an absorption field. No one is sure though how it would work, and it would need to be determined if the system could last for the next 20 years.

The townspeople of Mentone last year presented petition with 300 signatures against the sewer system, opposing the project that would cost more than $1 million. They contend that their present septic tanks work fine and there is no need for the sewer.

Kosciusko County Sanitarian Carroll Sherman pointed out however that the existing sewage ordinance is being revised for the county. Hardesty asked Carl Fox, an official of the State Board of Health, if it would be possible for the pollution problem to be corrected, and Fox answered yes.

Hardesty also explained to EPA that if the state does not renew its permit when it expires the town could be fined. A town can be penalized for non-compliance under Public Law 92-500 which went into effect in 1972. The law was designed to help clean up water by the 1980's. Hardesty added that "We don't want to get in that predicament."

It was recommended that the Mentone Town Board send questionnaires to the townspeople to find their feelings, and the EPA also asked the town officials to study alternatives.

Lugar announces $104 million in housing loans

U.S. Sen. Dick Lugar announced today that Indiana has been allocated nearly $104 million for housing loans during fiscal year 1978.

Sen. Lugar said Indiana has been allocated $64 million for direct individual housing loans, $20 million for guaranteed individual housing loans, $19.65 million for rental housing projects, and $200,000 for low income housing repair loans and grants.

The Indiana Sanator said the housing loans and grants are available from the Farmers Home Administration of the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

"The development of adequate housing is very important to the continued economic growth of rural Indiana," Sen. Lugar said. "The $103.85 million in Federal Government loans funds will certainly help develop rural Indiana communities and allow several thousand families to purchase a home."

Sen. Lugar said the Farmers Home Administration individual home ownership loans may be used to buy, build, improve, repair homes and related facilities. Home ownership loans are offered to help families with low and moderate incomes in most cities up to 20,000 population or open country. Indiana has $84 million available for these loans.

Rental housing loans are made to build rental or cooperatively-owned housing for low to moderate income families and persons aged 62 or older. $19.65 million is available to finance Indiana rental housing projects.

New homes at $78,000

If new home prices continue to rise at the same rate as last year, in five years new homes will be selling for an average of $78,000, says Jan Armstrong, Extension consumer marketing specialist at Purdue University.

At that rate, only the most affluent will be able to afford a new home, she adds.

According to a report issued by the Joint Center for Urban Studies of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and Harvard University, the median sales price of new homes rose from $23,400 in 1970 to $44,200 in 1976 (89 percent). The median family income increased only 47 percent during the same period (from $9,867 to $14,500).

Armstrong points out that in 1970 just over 46 percent of all American families could afford to buy a median priced new house. Now, only 27 percent can afford an average priced new house.

New homes have become a "luxury" in just ten years. Last year the top 25 percent of families, by income, bought 58 percent of all new houses sold. Ten years ago this group bought only 31 percent.

To afford homes people are pooling resources and stretching family budgets, adds Armstrong. Both husband and wife held jobs in 43 percent of families who bought homes in 1975-76, a figure which closely parallels the proportion of all married women in the U.S. who work. Among first home buyers this percentage was higher - 59 percent.

The monthly cost of home ownership - fuel, utilities, property taxes, insurance and maintenance - increased more rapidly than sales prices. These costs rose 102 percent between 1970 and 1976.

By Bob Norlander

A friend in the real estate business gave me the following article which I thought very appropriate and a very good example of the way we run things in our country. Please note the question at the end:

"Somethin' for Nothin'... There's an old expression that goes, 'You get nothin' for nothin'. Despite the veracity of those words, many people try to get somethin' for nothin'. Below is an excerpt taken from a newsletter showing the opportunities for fraud.

Somethin' for nothin'

"A welfare recipient 'borrowed' a country ham from the farm where he had parttime work, but didn't tell the farmer he had 'borrowed' it. He went downtown and sold the ham to a grocer for $27. He used $20 of the $27 to buy $80 worth of food stamps for which he was eligible.

The man then bought $51 worth of groceries and bought back the ham for $29 worth of food stamps. The ham was returned to the farmer's smokehouse. The grocer made a profit, the farmer got his ham back and the welfare recipient ended up with $7 cash and $51 worth of groceries.

"While the story might bring a smile to your face, the question remains, 'Who paid for the food stamps?'"

This Was News

60 YEARS AGO

The stork made its appearance in this vicinity again Nov. 3 and left a seven pound girl at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Merl Tucker. She was named Anna Marie.

Mr. L. E. Townsend left six ears of corn at this office last Saturday that have been admired by a number of our best corn raisers in this locality. All pronounce them hard to beat. They are large and while not perfect yet they indicate that a good farmer has been back of them. Lawson says that if we can coax six better ears out of any other farmer in all this country, we may have these six ears of his for our very own. We trust we won't have to fall down on this proposition as we are willing to shell it for the meal. So come on with your big corn ears, boys.

Roy Landis is in pretty good luck this year. He farmed near Town Lake and last spring the frost cut down his corn on about an acre of the low land near the lake. He planted it then with onions, potatoes and other stuff and with these he succeeded, selling over $325 worth of onions alone. This was formerly waste land but by draining and cleaning it up, makes it fully as good or better than almost any other land.

39 YEARS AGO

Coming on election day, November 8, Akron's first snow of the season fell, ending an usually warm fall, which broke all records. The preceding day was so warm that many went without coats, while Tuesday brought the mercury to two degrees below freezing.

Sunday a senior get-together was held at Joanna Whittenberger's home. Those that were present were: Florence Bradway, Jane Lantz, Marcille Fleck, Helen Glaze, Joanna Whittenberger, Dick Drudge, Bill Shipley, Bill Shewman and two guests from Peru.

Peggy Leininger is among the 346 Indiana University students who have passed the English proficiency examination, according to Ralph L. Collins, instructor in English.

25 YEARS AGO

Paul Cumberland had a very narrow escape Monday afternoon while picking corn. His clothing caught in the picker's power take off and could have resulted in serious injury. Quick thinking on Paul's part got him off with cuts and bruises and rags for clothes.

A brooder house on the Harold Kuhn farm, west of Akron, which had been improvised as living quarters for a farmhand was destroyed by fire at 7 p.m. Tuesday evening. The Akron rural fire department which was called to the scene prevented the flames from spreading to other nearby buildings. The blaze was discovered by Joe Harter who was driving by the premises on State Road 14.

10 YEARS AGO

Dick Day spent the weekend with his daughter, Pam, at Ball State University at Muncie, where fathers were honored and the football game was enjoyed on Saturday afternoon.

A birthday supper was held at the home of Mrs. Harold Norman Monday evening. The birthday of Mrs. Nellie Martin, Mrs. Eva Strong and Mrs. Norman were honored. Others present were Mrs. Sadie Mills, Mrs. Lena Kuhn, Mrs. Marie Bright, Mrs. Margaret Slaybaugh, Mrs. Mildred Clark, Mrs. Nellie Slusser, Mrs. BGable Taylor and Velma Bright.

Child dental care

Many youngsters never visit the dentist until they have bad toothaches. When they finally are examined, the cost of repairing the decayed teeth can be a financial disaster.

Why are children not taken to the dentist?

"Fear and economics usually play equal parts," says Jan Armstrong, consumer marketing specialist at Purdue University. "Young parents trying to establish a home on a limited budget often regard dental care — unless it is an emergency — as a luxury to be deferred until the family is better off financially."

Of course, if the parent has had bad experiences with a dentist or the child expresses fear, it is still easier to put a visit off.

"Unfortunately, the child does not learn to be an informed consumer of dental services. Also the treatment bills are generally much higher the longer the problem goes unattended," says Armstrong.

Today a visit to the dentist can be a much more pleasant, less painful experience than in years past. Most dentists want to meet the child at about three years of age to acquaint him or her with the dental chair and some of the gadgets. Unless the child has a problem, the early visit will probably not include cleaning or X-rays.

Dental insurance and savings specifically for dental care can help ease the financial burden of the visit. To help the child avoid or overcome fears, Armstrong suggests a few, simple guides for parents:

When discussing experiences with the dentist, avoid telling "horror stories." Encourage older brothers and sisters to do the same.

Soybeans are important

Soybeans are the world's most important bean. They can be processed into several forms that are used as ingredients in commercial foods. Soy protein concentrate, protein isolate, and textured protein are an important part of the developing food picture.

Soybeans are a valuable and economical source of several essential nutrients. The beans contain 34 percent protein, 18 percent fat. The protein in soybeans contains all the essential amino acids. Amino acids are the units of which protein is made. Soybean protein is almost the same quality as that in meat, eggs, milk and cheese.

The beans are sometimes ground and sold as full-fat soy flour. The most common type of soy flour is ground from defatted soybeans. If the flour made from soy flake is coarse, it may be called soy grit. This soy flour or grit is often used as a hamburger extender.

Another soy product is soy protein concentrate usually blander than soy flour. The concentrate is made by removing much of the carbohydrates from soy flakes. The resulting product looks like dried hamburger. It can be hydrated and used as a ground meat extender.

It Happened In Mentone

Taken from the Nov. 8, 1950 issue of the Northern Indiana Co-Op News:

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Watkins and family are now located in the late John Zolman property, which they have rented. Mr. Watkins has been driving back and forth from his home in Warsaw to his radio and shoe repair business here for a number of months, as there were no houses available.

Miss Marcella Dickey and Vernon Meredith were united in marriage in a quiet ceremony Saturday afternoon at the Brethren parsonage with the Reverend A. H. Tinkel officiating at the double ring ceremony. Their only attendants were Miss Jerry Dickerhoff of Akron, and Fred Haney Jr. of Beaver Dam. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Dickey of Beaver Dam, and is employed at Northern Indiana Coop's at Mentone. Her husband is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Meredith of Mentone, and is employed at Valentine Elevator at Mentone. Both are Beaver Dam High School graduates.

John Lewis has accepted a position with Armour & Co. at Rochester.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Bennett are moving into the Johnson apartment south east of town.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Calvert and family were recent guests of the former's grandmother, Mrs. Cora Waltz, of near Rochester.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Clymer have returned to their home here after spending some time in Chicago.

Take precautions to prevent breakins

No one wants to think about his or her home being burglarized. Still, breakins do occur daily throughout our land.

What can you do to discourage a breakin? You can take several precautions around the house, says Don D. Jones, Purdue University extension agricultural engineer.

For instance, simple things such as alerting the police to the fact you will be away, stopping milk and paper deliveries, and having someone mow the lawn (in the summer) are precautions.

One of the best safeguards is to workout a mutual "house watching" arrangement with your neighbors. Varying your departure and return times and confiding your vacation or trip intentions only to friends are also good rules to practice.

Good lighting is one of the best deterrents to crime, says Jones. Floodlights and spotlights are often effective and fairly inexpensive to install. Both single and double lights are available. If possible, always mount lights high enough so they cannot be removed by someone standing on the ground.

Plug-in timers can be purchased to activate lights — both inside and outside — while you are away. But it is well to stagger the time these turn lights on and off. This provides a more natural appearance.

Drilling a hole through the lower window sash and installing a rod or steel bolt into the frame can help prevent window breakins. A simple steel rod or sturdy wooden handle can be placed in the track of a sliding glass door as a backup to the regular lock.

Of course, regular door locks are always available. Unfortunately, says Jones, the typical lock in most homes offers little protection against a professional burglar. Cylinder deadlocks add protection when used in addition to regular locks, and tubular deadlocks also provide security. Surface-mounted cylinder deadlocks are virtually "jimmy-proof" and can be mounted on most doors, but these are usually unattractive. Newer designs are helping to correct this shortcoming, says the specialist.

Many types of battery-operated door alarms are also sold, says Jones, but be sure to buy one of good quality. Remember, these alarms demand strong batteries to function properly. Weak batteries won't do the job. Battery-operated ultrasonic alarm systems are also available. Generally these operate by plugging them into any electrical outlet.

Finally, don't forget to perform a routine check of door and window locks, screens, lights and other security devices around your home. For, you may have all the protective devices known and still not be protected if these do not function properly, Jones points out.

ANTENNAS AND POWER LINES EQUAL TROUBLE

Handling TV or citizens band radio antennas on rooftops is a shocking experience for some people every year. And in most cases, the tragedies needn't happen.

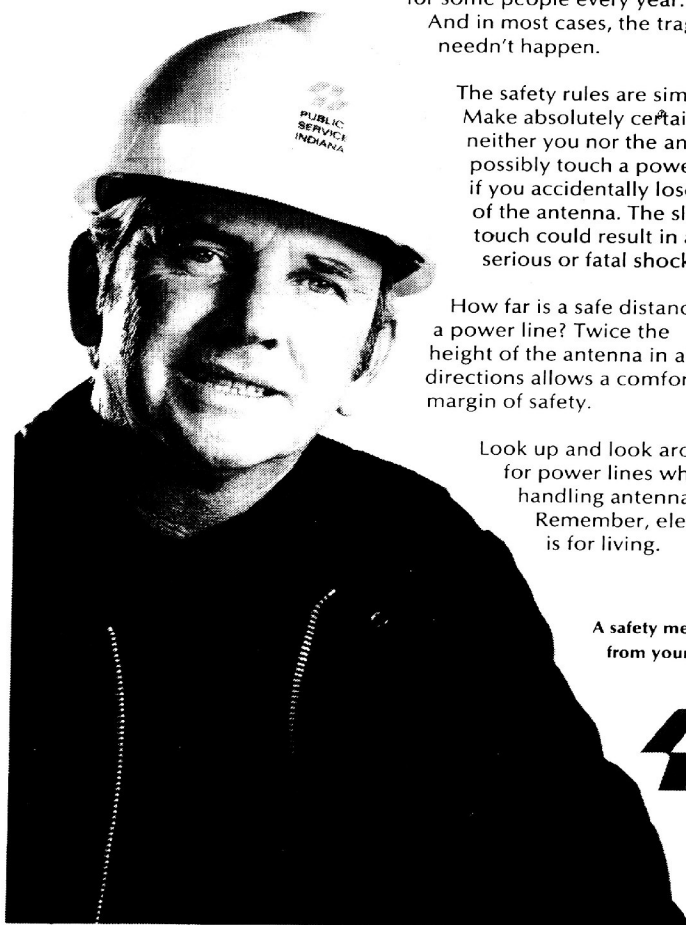

The safety rules are simple. Make absolutely certain that neither you nor the antenna can possibly touch a power line, even if you accidentally lose control of the antenna. The slightest touch could result in a serious or fatal shock.

How far is a safe distance from a power line? Twice the height of the antenna in all directions allows a comfortable margin of safety.

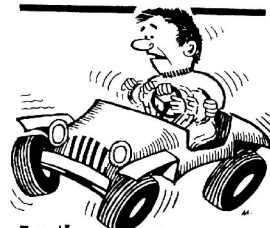

Look up and look around for power lines when handling antennas. Remember, electricity is for living.

Christmas decorations

Time is growing short if you're planning to make Christmas wreaths, swags or table arrangements for giving this year.

You'll also want to get started on this project if you plan constructing a few for home use.

Most types of evergreen foliage can be used for greenery. You can prune these from your own evergreens, if you use care, or you may prefer to purchase some. Most nurseries, garden centers or greenhouses have some to sell prior to the holidays.

Cooperative Extension Service publication HO-22 provides information on how to make wreath frames, swags, table centerpieces and evergreen balls. It also lists materials necessary.

For a copy, write to Mailing Room, AGAD Building, Purdue University, West Lafayette, IN 47907, or check at your county Extension office. Single copies are free to Indiana residents.

Poem

Oh! Let me live in the great outdoors,
Where the hills are steep and the pastures wide,
Where the eagle soars in the far off
blue,
And the fields are green when the year is new.

Yes, let me walk where the snow lies deep
In the winter woods when the world's asleep,
And feel the spell of the starlit night
In a world that's spotless and pure and white.

And when the autumn is brown and sere
And a glory comes with the dying year,
Then let me watch with a thrill
unfaded
As nature paints with her brush of gold.

And then, good friend, when my day is done,
O bring me back where the setting sun
Lights up the hills at the eventide-
To rest, at last, in the great outside.

Energy tips

"With fuel both in short supply and more expensive, perhaps you can save energy by not using your clothes dryer as much," suggests Jean Goodrick, Extension textiles specialist at Purdue University.

When the furnace is on, the humidity in the home is low and clothes dry rapidly when hung on plastic hangers, a clothes rack, a shower rod or a clothes line strung in the basement. Line drying T-shirts makes for less shrinkage. To "quick dry" small articles, a rack can be placed over the grid above a floor furnace.

Clothes that really should be fluff-dried - towels for instance - could be put into the dryer, but fewer clothes will shorten drying time appreciably.

A dryer with an automatic sensor will also shorten the drying cycle. If your dryer has no sensor, experiment to find the proper length of drying time.

Of course line drying permanent press clothing can cause wrinkles. "Compare the cost of energy used to iron with the energy the dryer uses to dry the same blouses. The dryer may be the better alternative," as the drying cycle is completed to minimize wrinkles.

Wrinkles can also be minimized by using the slow spin cycle of the washer or by removing clothing before the final spin. Allow them to drip dry over a bath tub, shower drain, or drain in the basement floor.

Family Life

by Renee Norlander

I hate to admit this, but I almost missed getting my column done for the paper. The problems I've been having are astounding, you'll never believe it.

Last night, Bob came home with "ring around the collar" and I spent 45 minutes trying to scrub his shirt clean. Then, he took a bath, and left a "ring around the tub" and I spent so much time cleaning it that I missed another 30 minutes!

Of course, he wanted dinner after that, and while I was toiling over the hot stove, I kept wishing I had a 'micro-wave. That way I'd have more time to get at the "waxy, yellow buildup" on my kitchen floor. Doing dishes was even worse, I kept looking out the window, thinking if only I had a dishwasher, I could get those windows washed. Who cares if it's raining. I'm on my way to being the perfect commercialized housewife. You know! All those ladies on TV who miraculously go through each day with a dustcloth in one hand, broom in the other, and vacuum at their feet. You'll never open their oven and find drippings caked on the bottom. And the vegetable bins in their refrigerators never have a spoiled, forgotten tomato in them. I'm talking about the perfect housewife. The one that television commercials keep telling us we all could be, and should be. If only we'd use their products, our lives would be perfect and so much easier. We'd never worry about company dropping by, our husbands would never have a complaint, and best of all we'd look beautiful through all of it.

Everyday, I see the ads on TV, and I keep thinking of how imperfect I am. Bob isn't really as dirty as I described. He even helps with housework occasionally. And yet, my house still isn't perfect. How do those women do it?! Is there a catch? Of course there is and we all know it. It's fiction, pure fiction. At least I hope so, because I have too many other things to do, besides cleaning house. If God had meant for me to be a commercialized robot, I would have come equipped with batteries.

Look at what happened to Mary Hartman....

Non - Dairy chocolate drink

What looks like, tastes similar to, and costs less than chocolate milk but isn't chocolate milk? "A mixture of water, whey, sugar, saturated coconut oil and corn sweetener, plus small amounts of chemicals makes a 'non-dairy chocolate drink,'" says Sandra Simons, Extension food and nutrition specialist at Purdue University.

Though this product is usually packaged in a plastic gallon container like milk and placed next to milk in the dairy case of most grocery stores, it is definitely not milk, says the Purdue specialist.

The nutritional content of the drink varies considerably from milk. Milk is the best dietary source of riboflavin, calcium and vitamin D, nutrients needed by everyone, but particularly growing children. It also provides a considerable amount of protein. The non-dairy drink supplies part or none of these nutrients.

If a child drinks three glasses to one quart of milk per day he will receive 80 percent of the protein, 90-120 percent of the calcium, 100 percent of the riboflavin and 100 percent of the vitamin D he needs daily.

One brand of chocolate drink provides only 50 percent of the protein, 30 percent of the calcium and 60 percent of the riboflavin present in milk.

The biggest difference between the non-dairy chocolate drink and milk is the vitamin D content. One quart of milk supplies the daily needs of vitamin D. The non-dairy chocolate drink usually contains no vitamin D.

"Labels distinguish milk from the non-dairy chocolate drink," says Simons. "Milk has the word 'milk' in the name and the label indicates the fat content — skimmed, 2 percent or whole. The non-dairy chocolate drink is marketed under different names, none of which includes the word 'milk.' Beneath the name, some — but not all — labels contain the phrase 'a pasturized non-dairy product.'"

"If the name is ambiguous and you still want to discover if the product is milk or a non-dairy chocolate drink, read the nutritional label," suggests Simons. Nutritional labels are required for all food to which nutrients are added and which are sold between states. Almost all milk sold in Indiana contains vitamin D, (an added nutrient) and will have a nutritional label. Most non-dairy chocolate drinks, do not have vitamin D added. Therefore, if the nutritional label is absent or vitamin D is not listed, probably the product is not the real thing — milk.

Unusual calendar includes Akron history

Did you know that Fulton County was organized Jan. 23, 1836, with only three townships: Richland, Rochester and Liberty? That pioneers began the trip to Indiana June 1, 1836, and arrived to found Akron July 4, 1836? That the Manitou Monster was sighted July 21, 1836?

All this and many more interesting historical dates are found on the 1978 Birthday and Community Activity Calendar, sponsored by the Fulton County Historical Society. The calendar also contains meeting dates of 70 Fulton County organizations, and many service clubs are included too.

The calendar also contains advertising by county businesses and a picture of the Bicentennial log cabin with Florence Miller of Rochester standing in the doorway in her long dress. Florence's mother was born in one of the cabins used to construct the Bicentennial log cabin.

Sendak issues alert on home insulation

Indiana Attorney General Theodore L. Sendak has issued a Consumer Alert on home insulation.

"Now that colder weather is upon us, this would be a good time to consider checking the insulation in our homes to see if what we have is adequate."

"The most accurate method of determining the efficiency of home insulation," continues Attorney General Sendak, "is to check what is known in the trade as its 'R-Value'. The thickness of insulation alone is no longer the most accurate check of efficiency. Today, insulation effectiveness is rated by an 'R-Value'. The higher the R number, the better the job the insulation does in keeping out the cold in winter and the heat in summer."

Specific "R-Values" are printed on the package label. If your attic has less than five inches of insulation, you may require another layer of, say, R-11 or R-14 to be adequately insulated.

The walls of your house, being limited obviously, you can only squeeze so much between them. Insulation with an R-11 rating is generally the minimum recommended. Floors over unheated garages or crawl spaces probably need at least an R-13 rating.

"The most practical thing to do," says the Attorney General, "is to call an established expert contractor or dealer. He will help ensure you have enough insulation to help you save money on heating bills this winter, or air conditioning bills next summer. If you are a do-it-yourselfer, then consult your established lumberyard or insulation supplier for guidance before purchasing the materials."

"Remember the R-Value," says Attorney General Sendak, "Being rated 'R' in the building insulation business does not carry the same implication as in the movies!"

If you would like additional information regarding "R-Value", or any other consumer protection matter, call the Consumer Protection Division at 633-6496, or, toll free, 1-800-382-5516 if you live outside the Indianapolis area.

FEDERAL MINING REGULATIONS INCREASE UTILITY'S FUEL COSTS

New federal strip mining regulations will increase Public Service Indiana's fuel costs by more than $2 million next year — a cost that must eventually show up in electric bills.

Utility President Hugh A. Barker said the new Surface Mining Control and Reclamation Act of 1977 levies a minimum charge of 35 cents per ton of strip-mined coal and 15 cents per ton of deep-mined coal. The bill, which took effect October 1, raises funds to help restore land previously mined.

Public Service Indiana expects to burn more than nine million tons of coal in 1978 to meet electric energy demands of its half million customers.

"The surcharge alone will increase our fuel costs nearly $2.5 million. Total costs of the bill are estimated to be as high as $1 a ton," Barker said.

"These costs will be reflected in the fuel adjustment in our customer's monthly electric bills," he explained.

Coping with anger in preventing child abuse

Statistics on child abuse are not encouraging. About 15 per cent of the injuries in children under three are caused by abuse.

About one million children in the United States are abused or seriously neglected every year, according to estimates by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, though a much smaller number of cases is reported.

"Child abuse is one of our last taboos," said Robert ten Bense, pediatrician and professor of public health at the University of Minnesota. It is hard to admit that every parent is actually capable of abusing a child, and it is painful to discuss the brain hemorrhages, mental retardation, bone lesions, emotional traumas, burns, intestinal ruptures, lacerations and even later suicides and delinquency associated with child abuse and neglect.

Child abuse is a problem firmly rooted in our collective past. The killing of children has been traced as far back as 7000 B.C. and the selling of children 2000 B.C. Child labor was common as recently as 1800, when four-year-olds worked legally ten hours a day in the dangerous spinning mills of New England.

TO TEN BENSEL, the prevention of child abuse and neglect is difficult but not impossible. He sees five possible approaches. The first is to identify risk factors. Although child abuse occurs in all types of families and situations, certain factors are most often associated with it, he said.

The main abusers are mothers. Fathers, mothers' boyfriends, stepfathers, male babysitters, other children, and school personnel are responsible too, in that order. These people abuse children mainly because they misread the child's behavior, thinking that the child is trying deliberately to annoy or hurt them or to destroy something when the child is merely exploring or looking for attention. Sometimes, but not always, mental health problems or alcoholism are part of the abusive adult's problem.

Other adult patterns which may lead to abuse and neglect are inability to handle stress, low self-esteem, authoritarian or fundamentalist religious background, geographic mobility, background as an abused child, marital problems, "excess children" and dependent personality.

SECOND, SUPPORT groups and facilities to help child abusers should be set up, ten Bense said. Families with many of the above problems might be given special help early by public health nurses, and all families should have access to "crisis centers," nearby places where parents under severe stress could leave their children or where children could be taken for a few hours of a day to save them from violence. For slightly longer placement, emergency foster homes should be available, with little red tape, he said.

For parents who already abuse their children and want to stop, a chapter of Parents Anonymous should be available, ten Bense said. This organization, organized along the lines of Alcoholics Anonymous, already has 500 local chapters with free membership.

Welfare personnel and social services teams also should be funded and organized so that they can become more active in this area, ten Bense said.

THIRD, "EVERY high school should require a course in parenthood, for both sexes," ten Bense said. "Driver's education is now required, and children are at least as important as cars."

One such course, although still an elective, has been designed by the Education Development Center in Cambridge, Mass. As part of the class, students are spooned pudding to show them the frustration of being children. Hostilities develop quickly when too little or too much pudding is fed too fast or too slowly and the spoon pushed too far in or not far enough. The high school students also visit nursery schools, do volunteer work, and discuss children's perspectives on the world, values, and definitions of adulthood. The students' own parents are used as resources.

Books on parenting, available by the score, are another good source of information, ten Bense said. Parents should consult several for basic information on child development and for new approaches to particular stresses they feel with their children.

College, university, and adult education courses should also be more common, he said.

FOURTH, "PART-time jobs and flexible work schedules should be more common and have more status," ten Bense said. Parents could then share more time with their children, relieving the stress that occurs when one parent takes care of children alone. The extended family should also be rediscovered, even if it must be reinvented in the neighborhood, he said.

And finally, adults should learn how to deal with anger. "Adults should learn how to have temper tantrums, if all else fails," said Harold Ireton, psychologist in the University of Minnesota family practice department. Tantrums are general rages, without an object of attack, he said.

Ireton described a five-step process for coping with anger. First, "parents should feel that they have the right to be angry," Ireton said. Concentrating on controlling one's anger all the time only leads to a later explosion.

Next, parents should recognize the way they feel. Children's behavior can bring out feelings of helplessness and guilt that are often taken out on the children. The third step is to complain effectively, with parents describing their own feelings, not projecting them onto the child. "It's more effective to say, 'I'm very angry. I need some peace and quiet, some help,' rather than to say, 'You make me angry. You're no good.'"

PARENTS AND children should communicate with each other - complain and listen to each other about rules, food, whatever is at issue.

The last step is seeking solutions. Minor but recurrent problems may add unnecessary stress to the day, Ireton said. If the two-year-old pester you for more appeasement while you are feeding the baby, admit that you can only do one thing at a time. Sit back and decide to start setting out a little more appeasement, feed the children at different times, or think of another way to defuse the situation since it is often small stresses like this that trigger child abuse, regardless of its underlying cause.

An Open House to the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints is more than showing the bricks and the paint; it is a time of fellowship and love. Articles of Faith and Practice

SECTION 4. Marriage and the Home

a. Marriage is a sacred institution ordained of God and is an indissoluble union of one husband and one wife until parted by death. Marriage, which is the foundation of the family and the Christian home, should only be effected in the fear and in the will of God. Accordingly, a believer should be encouraged to unite in holy matrimony with God's perfect choice.

b. The home is a divinely ordained institution in which the husband is the head but serves its members by the law of love. Filial obedience is to be rendered by children in the spirit of mutual respect and love. Parents are urged to exercise Biblical discipline in the raising of their children.

SECTION 5. Unchristian Practices

a. Conformity to the world. The Scriptures teach that the Christian should live separated from the world, refraining from pleasures, amusements, and associations that dishonor Christ, bring reproach upon the church and exert harmful influence upon others. In all of his social relationships he should bear testimony to Christ. Dress and conduct should reflect the spiritual ideals of Christianity rather than the spirit of the world.

b. Harmful indulgences. Realizing the injurious effects physically, morally and spiritually of the use of tobacco, intoxicating beverages, narcotics and other kindred indulgences which are for the gratification of depraved appetites, and recognizing that such practices are unbecoming and inconsistent with our Christian profession, we are opposed to them and believe that their use should be rejected by all believers.

Meet Seeger Friday

Vikings top Leo

In an action packed, suspenseful game of play on Friday night, Tippecanoe Valley High Schools undefeated football team defeated the team from Fort Wayne Leo by an overtime score of 21-15. The win will move the Vikings into the regional playoffs this Friday when once-beaten Seeger — a 6-0 winner over North Judson Friday — comes to town.

The victory Friday night gives the Vikings the District 10 Class A championship, and a winning streak of 16 games, the best in the state.

Before an overflow crowd, the Vikings quarterback Ray Rockhill played an excellent game. As Leo's coach, Gary Lake put it, "We just couldn't contain their passer... Their large yardage came from the passes. We were not putting enough pressure on him (Rockhill)..."

In the third quarter the Vikings scored their first field goal of the season, and the three touchdowns were scored by Ray Rockhill with one, and end Charles Rockhill with two. For the season, the two brothers have teamed up for 293 yards and six touchdowns.

Valley's leading rusher was Jeff Shriver who gained 65 yards in 15 carries.

Antlers win points!

For those laymen who aren't up on their deer hunting lore, the beautiful antlers worn by white-tailed deer in the state are the subject of an annual "Hoosier Record Buck Program."

The antlers are called racks and are awarded points according to a national scoring system (Boone and Crockett Standards). Racks shaped symmetrically are called "Typical" and racks which may appear a little lopsided to the viewer are "nontypical". "Nontypical racks usually have a higher point rating", says wildlife specialist Wayne Machan, "because abnormal tines are added to the score."

Last year's best typical rack was taken in Tippecanoe County scoring 170 1/2 points. In the nontypical category, a buck from Ohio County scored 180 1/2.

The most recent issue of North American Big Game credits William Cripe with having taken a deer measuring 200 1/2 "typical" from Clinton County, Indiana. The deer ranks sixth in the nation. Another Hoosier hunter, Herbert Frushaur, is in the national records with a 177 point "typical" rack taken in Cass County.

Hunters who wish to enter their "racks" in the Hoosier Record Buck Program should let them dry for 60 days before having them measured by Wildlife Biologists from the Department of National Resources. To find the district biologist near you contact the Fish & Wildlife Division of the Indiana Department of Natural Resources (317) 633-7696.

Protecting your ponds from muskrats

Pond owners should harvest surplus muskrats to protect their pond shorelines from muskrat burrow damage. Muskrats, like many other animals, produce a surplus of offspring for harvest, prey, or starvation.

Jim McCall, Biologist, Soil Conservation Service, says there are about 33,000 ponds in Indiana. "Of the ponds checked," McCall said, "two to ten muskrat burrows have been found in each pond." Ponds having a shallow end with cattails may, also, have one or more lodges.

Pond owners have a substantial investment in their ponds. Ponds are often built for livestock water but serve several other functions such as sport fishing, wildlife areas used by water birds, song birds, game birds, deer, raccoon, mink and frogs.

Livestock should be fenced away from the ponds to prevent damage to the dams, spillways, and shorelines. Except for the muskrat, most wild animals do not damage the pond structure. The most efficient and practical way to control muskrats is by trapping them during the legal season which begins November 15, 1977. Check with your local IDNR conservation officer for further information on laws and regulations.

If you don't have the time for trapping, ask a teenager, either your own or a neighbor's to help you. Teenagers will learn to respect their environment and the many wild creatures that live all around them. For any trapping you plan, be sure to have a valid license and secure permission from all landowners.

Furs are still valuable natural resource products that played a very important part in the early history of this country. Their usefulness and demand are indicated by the high prices paid for raw fur last winter. Prices paid trappers ranged up to $5 for a muskrat and $20 for raccoon and mink. Fox often route their nighttime travels to check the habitat around a pond or along a ditch bank. Grey fox sold for around $30 and a good red fox pelt was up around $50 each.

Harvesting muskrats is a method of population management similar to sending livestock to market. If a farmer kept all his livestock year after year, his pastures would soon be overgrazed and the animals would start dying from starvation. Muskrats will do the same.

Leghold traps are legal and humane if staked in deep water. Conibear traps are effective because they can be set in various positions and usually kill instantly without damaging the fur.

A quarter of a million pelts are taken by trappers in Indiana each winter. This harvest tends to prevent excess populations, but removes only the season surplus because, as catches decline, trappers loose interest. If a small area is over-trapped, spring and autumn movements from other areas provide new breeding stock.

Harvesting muskrats is an enjoyable outdoor activity. It helps keep a young person closer to his natural environment, provides extra income, and helps control muskrat overpopulation, shoreline damage, eatouts and starvation.

However, McCall emphasized that "the best reason for trapping may be to protect the shorelines of your drainage ditches and farm ponds."

More information is available from your local Soil and Water Conservation District, the Indiana Department of Natural Resources, Division of Fish and Wildlife, or local Soil Conservation Service field offices.

Boy Scout Troop No. 245

The meeting started at 7 p.m. with the Pledge of Allegiance and the theme for this month is Wild Kingdom.

We talked about the conservation skill award, about what conservation is, and how we can help the community. We also prepared to start work at the next meeting.

We began talking a little bit about Environmental Science and collected dues. We put 35 cents into the kitty and Rodney Wright's name was drawn for the money. There was a total of $1.15 in the kitty, but Rodney was not present, so the name goes back in the box, and we put more money in next week and draw again.

We are going to make squirrel and bird feeders. David Shafer and Mark Moore are bringing in ears of corn. Keith Inglesby, Wayne Ash, and Mark Howard are bringing in milk cartons. Steve Lester is bringing in bird seed.

We received the turkey raffle tickets we had ordered. They will cost 25 cents per ticket, or 5 for a $1.00. Each of the boys at the meeting took as many tickets as they wanted. The one who sells the most tickets will win a prize. Remember that the turkey raffle will begin at 7 p.m. at the Lion's Den, November 15, 1977.

We ended the meeting at 8:30 p.m.

Butz - Berry to clash

A clash of divergent views is in store for the audience Sunday evening Nov. 13, when former U.S. Secretary of Agriculture Earl Butz and Wendell Berry, author of The Unsettling of America meet in Life Schools Public Forum, "The Crisis in American Agriculture" in No. Manchester.

Berry, who teaches at the University of Kentucky, is the author of over thirty books, including novels and collections of poems and essays. He is an environmentalist who is critical of such corporate farming policies as the use of chemical fertilizers and pesticides. He is also concerned about the effect on society of the trend toward large, highly mechanized farms. This trend leads to the depopulation of the countryside and a breakdown of rural values.

Former Secretary Butz served five years in the Nixon and Ford cabinets. He was a professor and a Dean of the School of Agriculture at Purdue University for many years. Known as an exciting speaker, Butz is considered a spokesman for agri-business. He argues that "one of the great strengths in America is our tremendous agricultural production plant. We are just learning how to use that as a positive factor in diplomacy."

Among topics to be considered by Butz and Berry at the Forum will be farm prices and the cost of food; corporate agriculture and the family farm; U.S. food production and the threat of world famine; farming and the environment.

The Forum is sponsored by Strauss, Inc. and Life Schools and is funded by a grant from the Indiana Committee for the Humanities in cooperation with the National Endowment for the Humanities. The forum is free to the public and will be held at 8 p.m. in the Manchester Jr. High School auditorium.

State title clash next

It's Tippecanoe Valley 30; Seeger 0!

With fans struggling to keep warm in the wind and snow, Tippecanoe Valley High School's mighty Vikings had an easy time of upsetting the Seeger High School's team with a victory of 30-0 on Friday night.

In a game which proved that the Vikings deserve a state title, Seeger's Patriots managed to gain only 29 yards in the entire game, compared to the Vikings 413 yards.

Scoring for TVHS were Jeff Shriver with a one yard run, (PAT good), Ray Rockhill with a four yard run (PAT good), Shriver with a one yard run (run after good), and Greg Utter with a 50 yard run (run after good).

Shriver who rushed for 136 yards in 27 carries, was complimented after the game by Seeger Coach

Tom Thomes as being "the best fullback we have seen all year." It was obvious that the Seeger team just couldn't contain the Vikings. Even though they struggled, it just wasn't enough. As Thomes said, "We knew exactly what they (Vikings) were going to do, but we couldn't stop them..."

Quarterback Ray Rockhill

scored the second touchdown just 4 minutes into the second quarter, and Shriver added the PAT. A 33 yard run by Shriver was nullified later in the quarter for a holding penalty, otherwise the Vikings may have scored again.

In second half play, the Patriots seemed to have come back. They took the kickoff to Valley's 32, but Ray Rockhill intercepted an underthrown pass and the Patriots didn't threaten again during the entire game.

Valley scored their third TD in the quarter with the aid of a 55 yard run by Craig Morris. Shriver made the third touchdown, and went for the two point conversion making the score 22-0.

In the fourth quarter, Greg Utter rushed up the middle for a 50 yard touchdown, and the PAT was run by sophomore Hal May for two more points.

The Patriots could never manage to score, or gain real yardage when in possession of the ball, and the final score ended at 30-0.

This Friday, the Vikings meet Indianapolis Ritter at Indianapolis Lawrence Central for the Class A State Championship. In a pep session following last Friday's game, Coach Charlie Smith said "We don't plan on going to Indy and playing second to anybody. We are going to win the state title!"

It is obvious that they intend to do just that.

Indiana to lose $314,000 in food stamp program

Senator Birch Bayh (D-Ind.) said today he has been informed by the U.S. Department of Agriculture that Indiana is going to lose more than $314,000 in federal administrative funds for its food stamp program because of the Indiana Department of Public Welfare's failure to comply with federal regulations.

Bayh, a member of the Senate Agriculture Appropriations Subcommittee, said he has received a letter from Lewis B. Strauss, administrator of the Food and Nutrition Service of the Agriculture Department stating:

"Because of Indiana's persistent refusal to update its utility standard to reflect current costs, we are forced to move towards fiscal sanctions. We propose to disallow $314,106 of federal administrative funds, representing our share of the state's certification costs for the last quarter of Fiscal Year 1977, if the state does not take corrective action within 30 days of the receipt of our letter. Additional funds may be disallowed until an acceptable standard is submitted to us."

Bayh earlier this year asked the Agriculture Department to look into complaints that the Indiana Department of Public Welfare was improperly administering the food stamp program and, thus, not providing needed assistance to persons who were eligible to receive it. Bayh said utility standards used in determining shelter deductions for food stamp eligibility and benefit levels for many low-income Hoosier households.

Bayh said that according to the U.S. Food and Nutrition Service's ruling, Indiana's failure to update the utility standard-taking into account the costs escalations brought on by inflation during recent years—is a violation of federal regulations and serves to deny affected households the benefits to which they are legally entitled.

"I am prepared to do everything that I can at the federal level to prevent this loss of funds," Bayh said. "At the same time, I think it is important that Hoosier citizens not be made to suffer from the loss of these federal funds to the state, and I am hopeful that the appropriate state agencies will respond promptly to the Agriculture Department's warning."

Akron Books, Arts and Crafts Festival

Zunkel, former Akron Church of the Brethren pastors, will be present for the day and have the three books with them that they have authored. Farm land at $1,000 an acre or home-building land at $3,000 an acre sounds like a good price here, but not in Grundy County, Iowa.

That's the top farming county in the corn-belt and farm land is now going for $3,300 an acre there. It's up from $700 only 7 years ago.

The Wall Street Journal reports that Grundy County now has about 80 farmer millionaires. Most of their money is accounted for in the value of their land.

Those millionaires aren't salting away any fantastic profits, though. The Journal says their average net income was $30,000 last year, or 3% of their net worth.

They could do better sitting on their front porch, if they sold their farms and put the money in the bank.

It goes to show once again that farming, even on the nation's best land, is a way of life, not a fast road to the easy life.

And, if a farmer should eventually reach the easy life, remember that he walked through a lot of manure to get there.

Mental Health Association collecting for Christmas

The Fulton County Mental Health association has started its annual program for collecting Christmas gifts for patients at Logansport State Hospital.

Mrs. Nelson Hunter Jr., Rochester, chairman of the project, has announced that this year's program is entitled "Let the Love Shine in." Mrs. Hunter says that gifts for men are in greater demand this year and can include: caps (with earflaps), shirts, pajamas, T-shirts, undershorts, socks, tobacco and pipes, and shaving cream and lotion.

Suggested gifts for women include: Cosmetics, dresses, hand lotion, panty hose, hand soap and toothpaste.

Gifts of one dollar or less will be accepted and greatly appreciated. All gifts should be new and clothing gifts should be purchased in large sizes. Mrs. Hunter emphasized that gifts should not be wrapped, and gifts in glass bottles should be avoided because of the safety hazard involved.

The deadline to give to the mental health Christmas program is Dec. 7. The following locations have been designated as collection stations for depositing gifts:

Akron Methodist Church, Akron Exchange Bank, Tiosa Brethren Church, Kewanna Farmers and Merchants Bank, Leiters Ford Bank, Talma Bible Church, Whippoorwill Community Church, Berkway Super Market, and Local Finance Office.

Also, Public Service Indiana Building, Wilt's Stores, Hart Schaffner and Marx, Bethlehem Baptist Church, Baxter's Drugs, Fulton Baptist Temple and Fulton Branch of the First National Bank.

Letters to the Editor

WHAT A YEAR!

The Tippecanoe Vikings and the Plymouth Rockies are both at Indianapolis for the football playoffs. This is indeed a double pleasure for me since I am from Plymouth and a graduate of West High School.

We have the distinction of having five West High graduates and one former principal (John Frederick) living in or near Mentone which is quite unusual considering the size of that rural school.

Good luck to both teams! You've come a long way and provided many fans with hours of pleasure and you deserve to win.

-Mrs. Dale McGowan, Mentone

Pep rally tonight

All fans of the Tippecanoe Valley football team are urged to attend and lend their support to the team.

Community parents are sponsoring a pep rally in the high school gym tonight, Thursday Nov. 17, at 7:30 p.m.

The meeting began at 7:05 p.m. with the Pledge of Allegiance. Then we collected the money for the raffle tickets and gave some to the boys who were not at the last meeting. After we finished with the tickets, we began studying more about conservation. We practiced push-ups and sit-ups for Physical Fitness. We collected dues and there was 40 cents more put into the kitty. The total was $1.40 and Steve Lester's name was drawn, and he was present to win. We also talked about the Court of Honor for Nov. 15. That's where all the boys who have earned badges receive them.

We are having a paper drive November 19, starting at 1 p.m. and we will pick them all up. Dec. 3 we are having an invitational event camp-out for at least 5 troops. This is where we can earn our Polar Bear badges if it gets cold enough. Then the meeting ended.

Suzetta Fretz is bride of Dean Sauer

Suzetta Ruth Fretz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Fretz, R. 2, Bourbon, became the bride of Dean Allen Sauer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Eldon Sauer, also of Bourbon, on Saturday, November 12 at the United Methodist Church in Etna Green.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride's dress was made of champagne knit with double layers of lace for cap sleeves and belted sash at the waist. She wore a champagne finger tip veil made by her mother, and carried a bouquet of white carnations and baby's breath.

Candles and baskets of champagne daisies decorated the church for the double ring ceremony with the Rev. Wilbur Workmen officiating. "Cherish" and "Because" were played by the organist, Mrs. Kenneth (Nina) Plummer, and a duet sung by the Rev. and Mrs. Workmen included "Color My World", "Love Story", "We've Only Just Begun", and "I Love You Truly".

Dressed in a rust colored dress like the bride's was the Maid of Honor, Lois Gay of Warsaw. Randy Yarian of Bourbon was Best Man, and ushers were Larry Fretz Jr. and Barry Sauers.

The wedding reception was held in the basement of the church with 200 guests in attendance. A four-tier yellow and white cake baked and decorated by Mrs. Floyd (Vi) Alderfer of Bourbon was served along with punch, nuts and mints.

The couples new address will be 506 N. Thompson Apt. 3, Bourbon.

Potato Casserole Has Caraway Flavor

Caraway Potatoes is an easy oven dish, especially delicious with ham or pork. Moist flavorful Washington Russet potatoes are layered with Monterey Jack cheese and onions. Eggs and evaporated milk are blended with caraway seeds and seasonings to pour over all. The casserole bakes until the potatoes are tender and golden brown on top.

Washington Russets are an all-purpose potato variety, ideal for baking, boiling and frying, or slicing and dicing for casseroles, stews and salads. The Russet is characterized by a long oval shape and thin brown skin with a light netting. Buy Washington Russets in quantity to have on hand for all your favorite potato dishes. They keep well if stored in a cool dry place with good ventilation.

Caraway Potatoes

- | | |
|--------------------------------------|-----------------------------------|
| 4 large Washington Russet potatoes | 1 can (13 oz.) evaporated milk |
| 1/3 cup finely chopped onion | 1 teaspoon caraway seeds |
| 2 cups shredded Monterey Jack cheese | 1 teaspoon salt |
| 2 eggs, slightly beaten | 1/4 teaspoon pepper |
| | 3 tablespoons butter or margarine |

Peel and slice potatoes. Place half of potatoes in bottom of shallow 2-quart baking dish. Sprinkle with half of onion and half of cheese. Repeat layers. To beaten eggs add milk, caraway seeds, salt and pepper. Pour over potatoes. Dot with butter or margarine. Bake at 350 degrees 1 hour or until potatoes are tender. Makes 6 servings.

"Friendly Service"

Family Life

by Renee Norlander

Just recently I read an interesting article in GOOD HOUSEKEEPING about depression. The author isn't given, but it was written by a woman who was deeply depressed and on the verge of suicide when she finally realized that she needed psychiatric help. It is estimated that twice as many women as men suffer from depression to some degree. The author listed six steps that her psychiatrist gave her to overcome her illness, and here they are. Perhaps for those who follow, and need, them they will help. She vows that they saved her life, and calls them her "Six Part Plan."

- GET THE PROPER AMOUNT OF SLEEP. Most adults know how much sleep they need: if it's 6 hours, sleep 6 hours, if it's 8 hours, sleep 8 hours; no more, no less. If you can't sleep, stay in bed anyway. Don't be tempted to take naps!

- EAT FIVE TIMES A DAY. Don't increase your caloric intake, but spread your meals out. This keeps your blood sugar at a consistent level and gives you more energy. Preventing lethargy, which is common in depressed people, is important.

- SPEND SOME TIME ALONE EACH DAY. 1½ hours per day is recommended.

- DO SOMETHING FUN EACH DAY. Even though nothing may sound fun, do something you used to enjoy. It may be difficult, but do it! Too many people are geared to only working.

- DO SOMETHING STRENUOUSLY PHYSICAL EACH DAY. Try jumping rope, or running around your yard. Get involved in tennis or golf. It doesn't matter what it is, you can be alone, but do it. Check with your doctor first.

- DO SOMETHING SOCIAL EACH DAY. For some depressed people this may be the most difficult. If you work, you'll probably accomplish it by going to work; if not, you must seek people out. Even if it's just the local grocer, be sure to communicate with someone outside of your own household every day.

Depression can be a serious illness, as deadly as any other. It is most important that people catch it as soon as possible, and seek treatment early. Most of us suffer from normal "highs" and "lows", but any "low" that continues too long should be taken seriously. These six steps may be a start to recovery.

Noah's Ark Film

The film, "Noah's Ark and the Genesis Flood," will be shown at the First Baptist Church of Mentone Sunday November 20 at 7:30 p.m.

In this motion picture, produced by Ken Anderson Films of Winona Lake, the Biblical Flood is considered in detail. Such matters as the source of the flood waters, the earth's terrain and atmosphere, and the size and shape of the Ark are considered. A scale model of the Ark is shown in the film.

Also included in this film is a discussion of whether Noah's Ark rests on Mt. Ararat in Turkey. A highlight of the film is the guest appearance of Jacob Radke, formerly a Russian soldier and now a respected Canadian church leader, who relates his experience of twice seeing the Ark within a distance of a quarter mile. In addition to this, the film discusses the famous satellite photograph which identifies an object of the Ark's dimensions in the exact location of the reported sightings.

This will be an informative and interesting film for the whole family. Gordon Chitty, the pastor of the church, invites all to attend.

Rev. Gerald Derstine to speak

Friday, November 18, he will be at the Holiday Inn in Mundelein, Ill., at the junction of Routes 45 and 83, just west of I 94. That program also starts at 7:30 p.m.

Derstine will be at McCormick Place, in the Chicago Room (upper level, east side), on Saturday, November 19 at 7:30 p.m. He will be accompanied by members of his family at all appearances. Admission is free, and everyone is invited.

Home Sale Tax Breaks for older Americans.

With the price of houses going up every day, selling a home you have lived in for several years can be a revealing experience. The value of your home has probably skyrocketed.

While it's nice to make a profit on the sale of your home, the thought of paying taxes on that profit probably is not so nice. But, if you are age 65 or older, sell your home in 1977 or later, and meet a couple of requirements, thanks to a change in the tax law, you may be eligible for a larger tax break than in past years. In fact, claiming this break on the sale of your home can save you many dollars on your 1977 tax return.

If the adjusted sales price of the home you sell is $35,000 or less, you can exclude the entire gain from the sale of the home and pay no taxes on your profit. This means that if you bought a home for $15,000 in 1967 and sold it in 1977 or later with an adjusted sales price of $35,000, you would pay no tax on your $20,000 profit.

If the adjusted sales price is more than $35,000, the tax break is prorated. In the past, the full tax break could be taken only if the adjusted sales price was $20,000 or less. Of course, as indicated, you must be age 65 to benefit from this break.

When the law speaks of adjusted sales price, it means the amount you receive after paying selling commissions and certain allowable fixing-up expenses. For example, if you sell your home for $45,000, pay a selling commission of $1,500, and incur allowable fixing-up expenses, such as painting part of the interior of the house, of $500, your adjusted sales price is $43,000.

To report the sale of your home you use Form 2119, "Sale or Exchange of Personal Residence." After entering your sales price, selling commissions, and fixing-up expenses on the proper lines of the form and calculating your adjusted sales price, you must complete the form to determine the amount of your gain, and the amount of the gain, if any, that is taxable.

Form 2119 should be attached to your tax Form 1040, and the amount of taxable gain (after capital gain provisions) is ultimately added to the rest of your taxable income on Form 1040. Bear in mind you must use the 1040 form to claim this tax benefit.

Now what are the requirements for claiming the exclusion on the sale of a personal residence by an Older American?

First, you must have owned and used the property as your principal place of residence for at least five years within an eight-year period ending on the date of sale. This means that a beach or other vacation home would not qualify for the exclusion, nor would a home you purchased four years ago.

The second requirement is that you must never have used the tax exclusion before, because it may only be used once in your lifetime. If the property is jointly owned, either person may take the exclusion.

More information on the sale of a home by older Americans is available free from the Internal Revenue Service in Publication 523, "Tax Information on Selling or Purchasing Your Home," and Publication 554, "Tax Benefits for Older Americans."

Christmas is coming!

Mike Stephen, along with Duane Hackworth (supporting the ladder), set up downtown Akron's Christmas decorations last Saturday. Thanksgiving week, traditionally, is the beginning of the holiday shopping season in the area. Mentone's decorations will go up Saturday, December 3 according to Guy Alspaugh, director of the Mentone Chamber of Commerce.

TVHS School Board met Monday

The regular meeting of the Tippecanoe Valley School Board was called to order at 7:30 p.m., November 21, with all members present. Approval of claims and payroll, and financial report were approved as read.

Dr. Lloyd W. Harrell, Superintendent opened three bids for replacement of a new boiler.

Quality Plumbing and Heating Inc., Bunker Hill, bid $45,000 for the installation of a new boiler and conversion of an old burner at Akron Elementary School.

Quality also bid $3,800 to insulate the old (north) boiler, one of two heating machines described as being located in a pit at the elementary school. Officials of the firm also bid $1,500 for using acid on the old boiler to clean away the scale.

Power Plant Service Inc., Fort Wayne, bid $13,650 to supply and install a new boiler. Officials of the firm also bid $14,275 to supply and install materials. The total bid for the boiler and labor was $27,925. They also bid $27,475 for mounting an old burner on a boiler, $3,475 for insulation in the old boiler, or $3,500 for cleaning the old boiler of the built-up scale.

Officials of Boch Products Inc., Elkhart, submitted the lowest bid, Dr. Harrell said. They bid $18,392 for a new boiler; $6,804 for the installation of a new burner; $25,071 for converting the burner to oil; $1,770 for insulation of a boiler; and $1,916 for treating the boiler with acid.

Dr. Harrell recommended that the board members take the bids under advisement, especially since the school does not have the approval from a few state agencies. Board members approved the recommendation and will study the bids before they reach a decision.

In other action, the superintendent also gave reports concerning:

— State approval of additional appropriations totaling $46,500 from general funds.

— Information that an appeal for an adjusted base tax levy has been

Scouts aid travelers

Boy Scout Troop Number 245 just happened to pick up these two travelers last Saturday during their paper drive, and had overnight guests as a result. Greg Hinds, left, and Dale Horowski of Ludington, Michigan are on their way to Florida and plan on walking the entire way. They left September 18, 1977 from Ludington with money they had saved from summer jobs. Already they have covered the upper peninsula of Michigan and Wisconsin, and are now on their way to Florida. The Scout Troop seemed quite happy to "do their duty" and the travelers were happy for a place to stay.

So many things have been written and talked about during the last few weeks that it is hard to add anything more to it all. One or two additional congratulations however, should be extended to the parents and fans for their undying team support and backing throughout the season. Your enthusiasm and community-wide spirit for the team far surpassed any I've seen elsewhere.

Principal Skinner also deserves a special recognition for the part he played in arranging buses, schedules, rallies, and the like on such short notices. Decisions made under similar deadlines and pressures often have a way of going astray, but all arrangements concerning the play-offs and finals went seemingly without a hitch.

Finally, the teachers, students, cheerleaders and volunteers who on Monday were seen cleaning off the victory graffetti from the area store front should be commended, also. Too often, particularly after a loss, these things are forgotten or ignored, but not by these individuals.

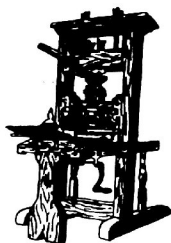

Well done, all!

60 YEARS AGO

Mr. and Mrs. David Brown expect to move from the farm in the Emanuel neighborhood to their new home east of Akron, and on Tuesday evening, Nov. 13th, "The Willing Workers," an adult Bible Class of which Mrs. Brown is a charter member, called at their home in a body and completely surprised the family, who were on the point of retiring. The evening was very pleasantly spent in conversation and contests.

The pupils at the Ball school, taught by Miss Nellie Onstott, has asked to make and furnish a "comfort kit" for a soldier boy.

Mrs. Burwell Hammond went to Mishawaka Monday to tarry indefinitely while Mr. Hammond is laying brick on one hundred houses in the city of Hammond.

Milo Cutshall got quite a boost through the Indianapolis News last Monday, as contractor and builder of the Roann Carnegie library. The News gave him very favorable mention and published a picture of the building that is very creditable, indeed, to that little city.

Our old friend, Chas. H. Smith, sold one hog last Saturday morning for $52. It was more than he used to get for a horse, cow or a drove of pigs. He made a straight run for this office and left two subscriptions so that he might be able to get a quarter of a pound of that pig.

Frank Thompson went to Indianapolis Tuesday morning to represent Akron Lodge of Oddfellows in Grand Lodge.

39 YEARS AGO

Announcement that Miss Kathleen Morris of Akron has been appointed to serve as chairman of the chaperson committee for the Butler University sophomore cotillion, sponsored each year by the second year class, has been made by William Hamilton, cotillion chairman. Miss Morris is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Morris. She is a member of Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority.

Mr. and Mrs. Willis Leininger will have their sons, Ralph and Walter, and their families for dinner on Thanksgiving Day.

Mr. and Mrs. Lonnie Meredith entertained at dinner Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Sam Wise and Miss Joanna Summers of Greentown, Mr. and Mrs. Garland Hines and daughters of Marion, and Mr. and Mrs. John Barnhisel. Afternoon callers were Mr. and Mrs. Noah Barnhisel.

Corn in the field near the school building has been donated to the senior class by Merrill Whittenberger and Vern Cumberland. Proceeds from the sale of the corn will help pay expenses on their annual senior trip.

Members of Kappa Delta Phi sorority will meet Tuesday night at the home of Mrs. Tom Gast. An initiation will be conducted for Susan Gasaway, and pledge services will be held for new pledges.

Ted Jontz, Ivan Boylan and Al Price were in Rensselaer last Thursday night to see Congressman Charles Halleck.

10 YEARS AGO

In the regular dinner meeting of the Chamber of Commerce last week a decision was reached to purchase four new decorations to be used in downtown Akron this Christmas season.

Miss Kay Meredith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Meredith, and Bill Davis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Davis, were crowned Queen and King at the Akron Homecoming Basketball game Friday night.

Giving thanks!

Thanksgiving was celebrated in 1621 by our Pilgrim Fathers at Plymouth. They had just passed through a year of famine, of sickness, of death, and wanted to thank God for their many blessings and especially for providing food so generously in the Fall Harvest.

David, the Psalmist, who wrote the 23rd Psalm used so widely at funerals wrote the following priceless Psalm 100, which is one of Thanksgiving:

1 — Make a joyful noise unto the Lord, all ye lands.

2 — Serve the Lord with gladness: come before His presence with singing.

3 — Know ye that the Lord He is God: it is He that hath made us, and not we ourselves; we are His people, and the sheep of His pasture.

4 — Enter into His gates with thanksgiving, and into His courts with praise: be thankful unto Him, and bless His name.

5 — For the Lord is good: His mercy is everlasting; and His truth endureth to all generations.

Thank God for just being alive; for being able to walk, for being able to talk, for being able to hear, for being able to sit in a wheel chair, and for being able to pray.

It is easy to thank God for good health; but thank Him also for pain and suffering for they make you a better person for God. By suffering, you draw closer to Him.

It is easy to thank God for joys; but thank Him also for sorrows and tears for they make you a better person for God.

It is easy to thank God for big things; but thank Him also for someone's smile, for the sunshine, for a restful night of sleep and many others.

Thank God for unanswered prayer for He knows what is best for you.

And finally, "Thanks be unto God for His unspeakable Gift." (II Cor. 9:15). Don't forget to thank God for His gift of Jesus Christ our Saviour, who died for our sins so that we might be acceptable to a most Holy God. "Believe on Jesus Christ and thou shalt be saved." Believe He died on a cross for our sins, believe that He arose again so that we, like Him, might arise from the dead, and live in Heaven with Him. We have much to be thankful for at this season and throughout the year!

In conclusion: "In every thing give thanks: for this is the will of God in Christ Jesus concerning you. (I Thess. 5:18)

Auto accident guide

Winter means ice covered and snow packed roads—an invitation to automobile accidents. "One of every five licensed drivers accepted this invitation in 1976," says Jan Armstrong, Extension consumer marketing specialist at Purdue University.

What should a driver do in case of an accident? In the shock that usually follows even minor accidents, many people have difficulty remembering. "Now—before you are involved in an accident—make a list of what to do and keep it in the car's glove compartment or attached to the visor," advises Armstrong. Star or underline the items that would be appropriate if you witness an accident.

A typical list would include:

1. Stop!
2. Identify yourself and get help for the injured. (1 and 2 are required by law.)
3. Write down
 - a. the names and addresses of all passengers in either car involved in the accident.
 - b. the other driver's name, address, and driver's license number.
 - c. the names and addresses of any witnesses to the accident.
 - d. the investigating police officer's name, badge number, and jurisdiction.

4. tell the basic facts to the police officer, but do not admit fault under any circumstances.

5. in writing, describe the accident. Include time, place, weather and road conditions, law violations, approximate speed of both cars and other relevant information.

6. diagram the scene of the accident. Include the placement of people, cars and other objects.

8. report the accident to the insurance agent or company as soon as possible. (Most policies require notification within a specified period.) Include your policy number and all details of the accident.

New tax rules for capital gains, losses, & IRA

Do you hate to make decisions? Or you make them but only at the last minute? Due to some significant changes in the tax law, you may not want to wait until the last week of December to do your 1977 tax planning.

For example, one important change in the law that will affect many taxpayers is the increased time property must be held in order to qualify for long term capital gain or loss treatment. In prior years, you had to hold an asset for more than six months to qualify for the long-term capital gain or loss treatment, but for 1977, the holding period has been increased to nine months.

This means, for instance, that if you purchased some stock or perhaps land on January 4, 1977, you must have owned that property until at least October 5, 1977 in order to be eligible for long term capital gains treatment. If you disposed of the property before October 5th, the entire gain from the sale would be reportable.

Also for 1977 tax returns, the amount of a capital loss that may be claimed on your tax return as an offset against taxable income, has been increased from $1,000 to $2,000.

Suppose you purchased some stock in March, 1977, for $6,000 and sold it in December, 1977, for $2,000. Your total loss was $4,000. In prior years, you would have been allowed to offset your taxable income by only $1,000 of the loss, but for 1977 you may use $2,000 of the loss to offset your income. As in the past, any excess loss may be carried over to the next year.

Other changes in the tax law that may affect millions of Americans concern Individual Retirement Arrangements, commonly referred to as IRAs. Generally these are personal retirement savings plans that may be set up by working persons under age 70 1/2 who do not participate in any other pension or annuity plans. The advantage of an IRA is that contributions are not taxed until you receive distributions from the plan, normally after you retire when you may be in a much lower tax bracket.

This year, for the first time, workers who have established an IRA may also set up such a plan for their non-working spouse. This means that you can save an extra amount of money for retirement years.

The deduction you are allowed for your combined contributions to both plans is 15 percent of the working spouse's income, to a top limit of $1,750. However, you may not take a larger deduction for one spouse's IRA than for the other.

So therefore, if you contribute more to your plan, for example, than to your spouse's plan, your deduction is limited to twice the amount contributed to your spouse's plan. Here's how that works: You received compensation of $20,000 in 1977 and contributed $875 to your IRA and $800 to an IRA for your unemployed spouse. Even though your total contribution was $1,675, you are allowed a deduction on your return of only $1,600, twice the smaller amount contributed to a plan.

Another change concerning IRAs involves the period in which you may make contributions to an IRA and still deduct those contributions on your 1977 tax return.

If you make your contribution within 45 days from the end of the year (by February 14, 1978), you may still deduct it on your 1977 return. This new provision allows you to figure your income for the year, and then make your contribution based on that figure.

For more information on capital gains and losses or Individual Retirement Arrangements, contact the IRS for a free copy of Publication 544, "Sales and Other Dispositions of Assets," or Publication 590, "Tax Information on Individual Retirement Savings Programs."

Also, they brought the dinner including the cake with quite a few candles on it. There were gifts, and many greeting cards sent by the Akron community and other places where Rev. "Can I save money on my electric bills in the kitchen?"

Definitely. The kitchen is a great place to save. Here's how...

RANGE

- Plan meals so that all dishes can be cooked either in the oven or under the broiler at the same time.
- If cooking small quantities, use portable appliances, such as an electric skillet.
- Use only as much heat as you need to do the cooking job.
- When roasting food, turn off the heat about 30 minutes before serving and take advantage of the retained heat.
- Don't peek in the oven unnecessarily. Opening the door can cause oven temperature to drop 20%.

REFRIGERATOR

- Storing more perishable items in the coldest part of the refrigerator lets you keep the temperature at a warmer setting.
- Keep the condenser coil at the back or bottom of your refrigerator clean.

DISHWASHER

- Save time, detergent, water, and electricity by starting the dishwasher only when it's full.

These are just a few of many hints on how to trim your electric bill in the kitchen. Contact your nearest Public Service Indiana office for a free copy of our "ELECTRIC COST-COUNTER." Our Electric Living Consultant can give you further assistance.

Fix your faucet!

A simple leaky faucet is not only annoying but can cost real money. "If the faucet leaks one-half cup of water in five minutes, it is leaking nine gallons a day or 3,285 gallons a year," says Ella Jo Mood, Extension housing specialist at Purdue University. "If the leak involves hot water, you are not only losing water but also the energy needed to heat it (more than $20 per year)."

Before the leak affects your pocketbook or your sanity—fix it, Mood advises. If you have a standard two-faucet system, you'll need a box of washers in assorted sizes, a screwdriver, an adjustable wrench and adhesive tape. Cover the wrench with the tape to avoid marring the chrome faucet.

As you take the faucet apart, remember all faucets are not exactly alike, so lay the parts in order as they are removed. Replace them in reverse order when the leak is repaired.

The following procedure is usually effective.

—Turn the water off at the shut-off valve nearest the leaky faucet. Turn the faucet until the flow stops.

—Remove the covering or handle to get to the packing nut if necessary.

—Loosen the packing nut with the wrench. Pull out the valve unit by lifting up on the faucet handle.

—Remove the screw holding the old washer at the bottom of the valve unit.

—Put in a new washer and replace the screw. Some types of faucets may have O-rings or packing that may be worn.

—Put the valve unit back in the faucet and turn the handle to the proper position. Then tighten the packing unit.

—Turn the water on at the shut-off valve. If the faucet still leaks, the faucet seat may need to be replaced or refaced. An inexpensive seat grinding tool is available. Use the instruction on the package.

If one handle controls both hot and cold water on your faucet, contact a retailer who handles the particular brand for a rebuilding kit. Follow the directions on the package.

Indiana restocking turkeys

Wild "Gobblers", the kind our ancestors feasted on for Thanksgiving, can be found once again IN Indiana, thanks to the efforts of the Fish and Wildlife Division of the Indiana Department of Natural Resources.

In 1900, the original range of the wild turkey in Indiana had been destroyed due to destruction of habitat through fire, grazing and timber harvest. This, coupled with overharvest of the bird, led to its extirpation by the turn of the century.

During a period of 30-35 years (1930 to mid-1960's) reforestation of cutover forest lands (250,000 acres) by both federal and state agencies made a turkey restocking program possible in Indiana.

Wildlife biologists from the Department of Natural Resources began introducing wild turkeys to selected sites in 1956. "Gobble Counts" were made to monitor the bird numbers and by radio-tracking their movements were recorded. Today wild turkeys can be found in all or portions of the following counties: Brown, Clark, Crawford, Dubois, Gibson, Harrison, Jackson, Lawrence, Martin, Monroe, Orange, Owen, Perry, Pike, Scott, Warrick, Washington.

Most investigators working on turkey habitat consider mature open timber interspersed with clearings and adequate water as optimum. However, research in Indiana has shown that turkeys are adaptable to reclaimed strip mines where water is available.

Indicative of the success of the reintroduction of wild turkeys is the annual spring turkey hunt first begun in 1970. The special 8-day season allows hunters who have purchased a $5.25 wild turkey permit to harvest "Tom Turkeys" between the hours of 5:30 a.m. and 10 a.m. Birds harvested in 1977 weighed from 12 to 23.5 pounds.

Family Life

by Renee Norlander

One of the things that I love more than anything in this world is animals. I can't resist the adorable affection of a kitten or puppy, and I am just as happy in the middle of a pack of dogs as I am with people. And that is why I was so concerned recently when I read that in 1976 a staggering 18 million cats and dogs were taken in by animal shelters, with only 10%, or 1.8 million, being placed in homes.

Why is this Pet Population Explosion taking place? The Humane Society blames it on pet owners who fail to have their animals neutered. They say it is far better to neuter animals than to have to put kittens and puppies to sleep later on.

Just recently, I had my puppy neutered and she is none the worse for wear. I am relieved to know that I will never have to deal with unwanted puppies. Not that I wouldn't love them, but it is too hard to find good homes for them. If you haven't had your pet neutered, and are not in the market of breeding dogs or cats, please do so. If you are worried about your pet, here are some frequently asked questions and their answers.

Does it hurt the pet? No. The operation is done with a general anesthesia and it is painless. Usually you can take your pet home the following day, and he'll/she'll be back to normal in 2 or 3 days.

When should a pet be neutered? The best time for females is about six months of age, just before they go into "heat". Males can be altered at any age after 6 months.

How much will it cost? Neutering fees vary; $35-$50 is about average, and spaying usually costs more than altering. As a rule it costs more to neuter a dog than a cat, but check with different veterinarians. $36 is what I paid in Jackson, Mi., and the vet did a fine job on our puppy.

Will my pet's temperament be affected? In most cases, yes - for the better. Most become more manageable and affectionate and are less likely to run away. As for physical affects, neutering makes males less susceptible to prostate problems, and females to ovarian or uterine troubles and mammary cancer. It may encourage fatness, but if you watch your pet's diet, and give him daily exercise he'll be fine.

Citrus Adds Sparkling Flavor To Pot Roast

Pot roast always rates a gold star with hefty appetites. It's an honest tasting, hearty dish that provides good eating down to the last bite.

Orange Pot Roast

- | | |
|------------------------------------|--|
| 1 tablespoon salad oil | 1/2 teaspoon dried leaf thyme |
| 1 5-to-6-pound boneless rump roast | 1 teaspoon grated orange rind |
| 2 teaspoons salt | 2 cups Florida orange juice |
| 1/4 teaspoon pepper | 2 tablespoons Florida grapefruit juice |
| 1 onion, sliced | 1 1/2 tablespoons flour |
| 1 bay leaf | |
| 1 tablespoon brown sugar | |

In large Dutch oven heat oil. Brown roast on all sides. Add all remaining ingredients except flour, cover and bake in 350°F. oven 3 hours, or until meat is tender. Remove meat to platter; keep warm. Stir a little of the liquid into the flour to make a smooth paste. Stir paste into liquid in pan and cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, until gravy thickens slightly. Simmer 2 minutes. Slice meat and serve with gravy.

YIELD: 12 servings.

What cures a cold?

What can you do for the common cold?

Most folks know you can't cure it. And yet we keep trying. We still waste a lot of time and money on pills and nostrums and treatments - all in the faint hope that maybe this time something will help.

A cold is caused by one or more of many viruses, the American Medical Association reminds, and, actually, grandma's home therapy is still good. If you get a cold, stay home in bed. Keep warm. Gargle to ease a sore throat. Take a mild pain reliever for the discomfort. None of this will cure the cold, but it will make you feel somewhat more comfortable while your body's natural defense mechanisms are building up enough steam to overcome the cold virus.

Most of us have a cold or two during the course of the winter. Usually we try to keep going to the office, but sometimes we feel too bad to work and spend a day or two at home.

There are medications now available - antihistamines, pain relievers, cough suppressants, and fever reducers - that can make the symptoms of a cold much less severe. These have their limitations and their problems. The antihistamines can cause drowsiness, which can be highly dangerous when driving an auto. If you get a cold, ask your doctor about the medications that reduce the runny nose and sneezing and coughing.

As youngsters heard the old folks say: Treat a cold and cure it in two weeks; let it alone and it will go away in a fortnight. The time element isn't that exact, but the theory is the same.

Much research has been done on the cause and possible cure for colds. Perhaps the answer will be found some day. But as of now we can't cure colds and anyone who tells you he can deserves at best considerable suspicion.

Vikings suffer defeat

The Tippecanoe Valley Vikings made an outstanding effort to capture the Class A football championship on Friday night, but were defeated by Indianapolis Ritter 15-6.

The Vikings suffered a substantial loss when their top runner of the season, Jeff Shriver, pulled a muscle in the first quarter and was forced to sit out the second half of the game. Even though the Vikings allowed the Raiders only one touchdown, they just couldn't compensate for the loss of Shriver.

The Vikings exploded with a 19 yard run by Shriver on the opening kickoff, but failed to produce any further real yardage. Punter Allen Utter put the ball on the Ritter 24 yardline, and the Raiders were able to go for 71 yards before they forced to kick for a field goal, putting the score at 3-0.

Valley's next possession was not encouraging, and Utter's punt was blocked, giving Ritter possession on the Valley 22. Joe Culpepper grabbed the ball and ran for the Raiders only touchdown of the game. The PAT kick was good, and the Raiders held a lead of 10-0.

Valley's explosive team was not to be discouraged. After a 43 yard run by Brent Rutherford, quarterback Ray Rockhill called on his own energies and ran 7 yards, diving into the endzone for six. The

Ray Rockhill wins Phil Eskew Award

Tippecanoe Valley High Schools football quarterback, Ray Rockhill, has been awarded the state's highest football honor as winner of the Phil Eskew Memorial Award for Mental Attitude on Friday night.

Rockhill was chosen for his tremendous performances in the three playoff games for sportsmanship, conduct, character and leadership. He has also been nominated on the Associated Press high school All-state ballot as both quarterback and safety.

A senior at TVHS, Ray, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Secrist of Akron. He also participates in basketball and track and plans on attending college next year after graduation in May.

found both teams still playing hard, but the Vikes dream was surely lost as Rockhill's final pass was intercepted. The final score was 15-6, and Ritter won the championship.

The TVHS Vikings, however, have had a fabulous year, and are the first team from this area to go to state. They also can be proud of their 17 game winning streak, and undefeated regular season of play. Coach Charlie Smith and his team should be proud. The TVHS area certainly is!

TVHS swimmers win second meet

The Tippecanoe Valley girls swimming team captured its second meet of the year Thursday night over winless Manchester 43-35, while dropping a meet to Culver girl's academy 45-35, in a double dual meet held at Valley.

Four Valley girls set new school records. They are: Cyndi Daniels in the 50 free at 27.55 and in the 100 free at 1:01.72; Mary Jameson in the 500 free at 7:44.31 and Ann Kline in the 100 back at 1:13.32. Valley takes a 2-8-1 record to Manchester Tuesday.

Are liquid protein diets dangerous?

Can liquid predigested protein diets endanger the health of normal adults?

"The answer is an emphatic yes," says Jane Aycock, Extension nutrition and health specialist at Purdue University. These diets were originally used by doctors in massively obese individuals under careful medical supervision. But recently they have been marketed for the general public and are available without prescription for individuals wanting to lose a few pounds quickly.

The weight reduction regimen is starvation plus the liquid protein. During starvation there may be a rapid loss of potassium from the body which can adversely affect heart and muscle action. Dehydration also may occur.

Concentrated amounts of protein such as found in this diet are particularly undesirable if there are any problems with kidney function. These problems may not be diagnosed without medical examination.

A serious condition called ketoacidosis may develop if enough ketone bodies are lost in the urine and in the breath, altering the acid-base balance of the body. If severe, acidosis can be life threatening. (Ketones are compounds formed from the rapid breakdown of fat in the liver when there is a limited amount of carbohydrates available to the body cells).

The liquid protein used in these diets is made from predigested collagen or gelatin, an incomplete protein, obtained from animal hides, tendons, or bones. Some are fortified with a limited number of other essential amino acids, vitamins, and minerals but none are nutritionally complete.

The claim being made is that starvation will maximize the loss of body fat, and the liquid protein will minimize the burning of lean muscle. However, even in carefully supervised studies there was still some loss of lean tissue. The liquid protein drinks contain about 60 calories per ounce, so the caloric intake from the protein varies from 180 to 420 calories per day.

Claims are usually made in books, by word-of-mouth, or in the media which are beyond the Food and Drug Administration's control. FDA is responsible for the accuracy of labeling of such products, but generally the label does not give directions for the weight loss regimens. Usually, FDA can take action such as seeking recall or seizing the products, only when the agency determines the product has become adulterated.

"Though the semi-starvation diet does promote a rapid weight loss, unfortunately weight lost this way will probably be regained because the dieters haven't changed their basic eating habits," caution Aycock. "The best way to lose weight is to change your eating habits by eating less and eating fewer high caloric foods," she recommends.

New books at Akron Carnegie Public Library Time to control cattle lice

The book FOXFIRE 4, edited by Elliot Wigginton has been presented to the Akron Carnegie Public Library by Mr. and Mrs. Earl Kuhn in memory of the birthday of Earl's father, the late Clyde Kuhn.

FOXFIRE has become many things to many people. The three previous Foxfire books have been very popular as it has become a way of sharing and a way of communicating old ways of rural life to this and future generations. This book continues and extends this tradition. Here are the stories of horse traders and loggers, the insights of woodcarvers and fiddle makers. Here too, are useful chapters on springhouses, knife making and gardening, and an appendix that expands on subjects included in the first three volumes.

West Lafayette, Ind. Now is the time to plan for control of cattle lice, says Ralph E. Williams, Purdue University extension entomologist.

Cattle lice infestations are heaviest and damage is most severe in late winter and early spring, Williams says. Louse infested cattle often rub and scratch areas of their skin bare.

According to Williams, lice are more prevalent on poorly fed and housed animals. Cattle should be kept in top physical condition. If barns are used, they should be clean, well-ventilated and not overcrowded.

To control lice on beef cattle, lindane, toxaphene, C-Ral, Korlan, malathion, or methoxychlor as sprays are most effective in the fall before cold weather sets in, says Williams. Spray cattle until they are soaked, and repeat applications in two or three weeks if needed.

Dusts (lindane and Co-Ral) cannot be depended upon to give complete lice control. They must be applied thoroughly and may need to be repeated often, according to Williams. Backrubbers charged with lathion, toxaphene, Korlan, or Co-Ral will help hold lice in check if used continuously late in the fall, he adds. To prevent reinfestation, do not introduce untreated animals into the herd.

For any pesticide, follow label instructions including warnings and restrictions, Williams caution. With lindane and toxaphene, minimum days to slaughter are 30 and 28 days respectively, he reminds.

Pour-ons using Warbex, Lysoff, or Korlan 2 are effective for cold weather cattle lice control, Williams says. Cattle will not be cold stressed as can occur with sprays. Warbex and Lysoff have 35-day slaughter restrictions. Also, with Warbex, read restrictions on the label for control of cattle grubs. Cattle may suffer toxic side effects if treated after suggested dates for cattle grub control.

For lactating dairy cattle, only Clodrin and Co-Ral as sprays and dusts should be used for lice control. Do not use pour-on materials on dairy cattle, he concludes.

TVHS FFA competes in cattle judging contest

The Tippecanoe Valley FFA dairy cattle judging team composed of Donald Hathaway, Darlene Hathaway, Brian Hill and Larry Lipply, alternate, recently competed in the National FFA Dairy Cattle Judging Contest. The Dairy Cattle Contest was sponsored by Associated Milk Producers, Inc. of San Antonio, Texas, and was held in conjunction with the National FFA Convention and the American Royal Livestock and Horse Show in Kansas City, MO. The team received the privilege of representing not only the Tippecanoe Valley area but Indiana in this contest by winning the State FFA dairy cattle judging contest last June.

Nine classes of dairy cattle were judged by 45 of the best teams in the nation. Team members were allowed to observe the animals for 12 minutes, but were not allowed to touch them. After the allotted time, they were given an additional 12 minutes to prepare reasons for their placement choices. Finally they were given two minutes each to give their placement reasons orally.

The team placed 20th in the contest earning a silver emblem award. Donald Hathaway placed 22nd individually and earned a gold emblem award while Darlene Hathaway and Brian Hill each earned bronze emblem awards for their individual efforts. Larry Lipply received a silver emblem award in the showmanship contest.

The Tippecanoe Valley FFA Chapter would like to thank Con Shewman of South End Motors for furnishing transportation for the team. Also William Kincaide, Custom Carpet, Akron Exchange State Bank, Agri-Center, Wilber Latimer, Jim Meredith, Zeta Parker, Dorris Harrold, and Hammer Insurance for helping members meet their expenses for this contest.

The FFA would also like to thank the following farmers for the use of their dairy herds for practice in preparing for the National Contest: Dan and Dave Cox, Harold Shewman, Maurice Lipply, Parker View Farms, Kenneth Dickey, Darrell Jones and Perry Hathaway.

The dairy cattle judging team is coached by Maurice Lipply and Forrest Kantner. Mr. and Mrs. Kantner accompanied the team to Kansas City.

FFA to have butchering

The Tippecanoe Valley FFA will be having a butchering November 26th at Tridles Stock Yards, starting at 8:00 a.m. Anyone interested may attend, watch or participate.
