Board approved hikes for Akron employee's salary

The Akron Town Board held a regular meeting on October 25, 1979, in the town office building.

Ron Fenimore told the other members that Gregg Gast had again contacted him about the water problem at his residence. An agreement was reached that if Mr. Gast would install a curb to divert the water from his driveway, the town would pay for the materials.

Clerk-Treasurer Ernie Smith advised the board that a new actuarial survey had been received from the Public Employees Retirement Fund (PERF). The new percentage for public employees to have a pension plan had been calculated at 10% of the employees salary. A lengthy discussion followed, and although the town has appropriated money from Revenue Sharing Funds to pay for the program in 1980, the board was concerned about funding in future years. No definite decision was made, and the matter was tabled until the November meeting.

Clerk Ernie Smith also reported to the board on the vandalism of the sewer tile in the dump field on October 8, 1979. Ed Hauser and Charles Clawson had questioned three juveniles about the incident after one boy had confessed and implicated the other boys. The boys had been instructed to bring their fathers to the clerk's office to arrange to make restitution. Two of the fathers had gone to the office, one father stated his son denied breaking any tiles, and the other father said he would pay for part of the damage if the others did. The third father had not been into the clerk's office. Ron Fenimore said he could check with Jess Brown, town attorney, on what procedure to follow next.

The salary schedule tentatively drawn up for budget use was discussed. A motion was made by Vernon Waymire and seconded by Dr. Charles Miller that the schedule be approved. The motion carried unanimously. The approved salaries are: General Superintendent - $12,000; Chief Marshall - $10,600; Deputy Marshal - $7,700; plus weekends at $3 per hour for

It was reported that the trailer court was in arrears in payment for water and sewage services for a large sum of money. President Fenimore said he will check with the attorney about this matter also.

The police report for the period of September 18 to Oct. 25, 1979 was presented. It included the following investigations: 8 thefts, 48 complaints, 8 car checks, 3 dog complaints, 7 warnings, 1 arrest, 1 breaking and entering, 3 attempts to locate, 4 accidents, 10 open windows and doors, 9 vandalism cases, 3 prowler calls, 6 funeral escorts, 1 dog bite, and 1 street sign torn down. ## Buying in bulk: do you really save money?

Faced with the prospect of continuing inflation, would your family be smart to use its savings, or even borrow, to stock up on things it'll need in the next two or three years?

Probably not. The costs that business calls "inventory maintenance costs" could easily outweigh your savings on the stockpiled items.

One such expense is the high interest caused by inflation itself. That means you would either have to pay high interest on borrowed money, or lose high interest on money that could be otherwise invested.

Either way, the interest must be deducted from any savings on the purchase price.

Stan Shewman at the Akron Supermarket explained they don't have many people buy in bulk, adding "the main thing is prices are so high, most people don't have the money to buy large quantities."

One item local people do buy in quantity is meat. Beulah Geiger, who works at Leininger & Sons, Akron, said "Variations of prices of meat are so different buying piece by piece across the counter. If you buy beef by the side, you're paying the same price for every cut. Most people who buy in bulk say they save a lot."

"It sounds like a lot of money at the time they buy, but maybe for the next six months they don't have to buy any meat at the grocery."

The worth of buying in bulk is decided by many factors. None of the grocers questioned have seen any real upswing of the hoarding syndrome because of inflation in recent months.

Dracula to live again

Mac Beth and Company 1979-80, will present "Dracula" on November 8th and 10th, at 8 p. m. in the Tippecanoe Valley High School commons area. The play is taken from the original play written by Tim Kelly.

The cast members are Brett Cumberland, Ken Goodman, Chuck Cullison, Mark Williams, Tony Horn, Marty Smith and Rick Sitts, Kathy Vogel, Stacey Cumberland, Keri Slaby, Kris Bruner, Tina Sanders, Marylin King and Teresa Wallace, Stephanie Murphy, Kathleen King and Veronica Baker.

The play will be directed by Mrs. Beth Barr and assisted by Beth Fugate. Stage managers will be Sherri Clark and Greg Lowe. Tickets will sell at $1.50 for students and $2 for adults.

"It's better to buy items on sale than to buy by the case," said Fran Zimpelman at Frank & Jerry's Bestmart, Mentone. "You can buy large quantities on sale price and save more than buying a case at regular price."

Some other things to keep in mind are:

*The costs of storing your purchases: lost housing space, heating and air conditioning expense.

*Possible deterioration of the products: loss of strength, flavor, freshness or style, possibly even spoilage.

*The bother and expense of protecting your inventory from vermin, fire or water damage.

*Insurance protection.

*The temptation to be lavish in the use of products that seem to be in such abundant supply. Of course there's always the possibility that an item may suddenly drop in price, however rare that may be.

Area grocers see more bulk buying by small businesses like restaurants or farmers but if they have to borrow money to do it the high interest rate may offset any savings to be obtained.

An employee of Leininger and Sons meat locker works on a piece of bulk pork.

The job application shown includes most questions commonly asked by employers only a few years ago. Beside each question we've listed its current legal status under federal and state laws.

While some are not specifically forbidden by law, all have been cited as evidence of discrimination in lawsuits where the complaining workers was successful.

For example, height and weight questions, the courts have held, can exclude women, Mexicans and Puerto Ricans whose average stature is less than that of the American male.

We suspect the average small businessman won't be too upset over the intent of the law. But he will worry that it's another in the ever-growing maze of laws which he can't keep up with and may trip over at any time.

What do you say we call a halt to all new laws for five years? That will give us time to digest what we've got and decide where to go from there.

Sound Off

"Ms. Howard, President of Tippecanoe Valley Classroom Teachers Association: I thought the teachers conferences on October 25th and 26th were sponsored by ISTA. And ISTA is a Union. Is the taxpayer supposed to pay her to attend union meetings? And not only pay her, she wants to close down the entire school corporation of over 2,000 kids and about 100 teachers so that she and 4 or 5 others can attend their Union meetings. I for one as a taxpayer, do not appreciate my money being spent to send people to union meetings to learn how to break the law, cause strikes and shut down our schools."

Likes smoke

DEAR EDITOR:

Dr. Thomas LaVelle, Jr., a member of the American Lung Association reported in the Oct. 18 AKRON/MENTONE NEWS that the burning of leaves contributed to lung disorders.

Americans have burned leaves for centuries. The aroma is not only refreshing but cleans the air of germs and pollution.

What puzzles me is why Dr. LaVelle - who appears to be so concerned about air pollution - mentions nothing of Nuclear Waste, Airline or Diesel Truck pollution, Steel Industry Waste, Pesticides, Hair sprays or Cigarette Smoke which destroys hundreds of thousands of lives due to lung cancer.

Every day thousands of kittens and puppies are unwillingly subjected to prolonged cruelty and torture in laboratory experiments - many of which are nuclear and pollution tests. It is a known medical fact that animal reproductive research has little relative value with that of human beings.

We and neighbors have been burning leaves for years and never have heard or read of evidence that it is harmful. Therefore, I challenge Dr. LaVelle to provide evidence that any animals or humans ever developed lung disorders from the aroma of burning leaves.

It Happened in Mentone

Taken from the October 29, 1952 issue of The Northern Indiana Co-Op News:

Brook Black, noted novelty tap dancer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Black of near Mentone, competed in a district Music Festival held in Ft. Wayne last Thursday night.

Brook, representing Kosciusko County, competed against 12 other counties. Winning first place, he will represent the district of Ft. Wayne in the state entertainment festival, held in the Hall of Music at Purdue on Jan. 6, viewing for the state of Indiana.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Meredith were dinner guests of the former's mother, Mrs. Earl Meredith, Sunday. Other dinner guests were Mr. and Mrs. Henry Blesch, of Akron, and Mr. and Mrs. Orin Heeter, of Gary.

The Northern Indiana Public Service Company street light globe washing truck was in town today taking a little of the summer grime off the street light globes. A slight miscalculation, however, cleaned off one light right down at the sidewalk level. As the truck drove away the back end hit the post and snapped it off just a few inches above the sidewalk.

Ronald Gates, 10, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Gates, R. 5, Warsaw, had both legs broken Saturday afternoon while he was helping his grandfather, Jake McClone, on a neighbor's farm near Mentone. Ronald was helping hitch a wagon to the tractor being driven by McClone. As the clutch was released the tractor backed into the wagon pinning the boy between and breaking both his thigh bones.

Janie and Connie Newton spent the weekend at the home of their grandmother, Mrs. Tessie Newton. Garrie Rose has sold his trucking business to Leroy "Bud" Wise. Bud spent one year with the army and was recalled as a reservist for two years more. He received his release on Sept. 15th. He is married to the former Esther Kehoe. They have one son. At the present they are living with Mr. and Mrs. Pat Kehoe

The Amazing Kreskin. (real name--George Kresge.)

Amazing Kreskin displays ESP powers at Manchester College

by Diane Parker

by Diane Parker

The Amazing Kreskin is known to many as the mind-boggling mentalist whose act of hunch and ESP puzzles audiences all over the country.

Although primarily a television entertainer, he has been using his talents in a different capacity lately. At a recent press conference prior to a special evening performance at nearby Manchester College, he explained his new endeavor:

"I've been doing a lot of work with law enforcement agencies," he said. "I have developed some techniques in recent years that really have me excited. What I do, without putting people under hypnosis or any altered state of consciousness, is to show them how to stimulate their imagination so they can remember details more strikingly."

He cited an example concerning a case involving the murder of a University of Nevada coed.

"Police contacted me months after the crime. Apparently they had no clues at all," Kreskin explained. "All they had were four different drivers who had driven by the university after the girl was horribly murdered. They told police they really didn't see anything, they just drove by."

"Well, I tried to get them to start using their imagination. Within an hour, three out of four of them were able to envision a man talking to a girl by her Volkswagen. In fact, one girl was able to describe the mole on his face, the texture of his skin, the color of hair, the part in the hair, where the hair was miscut, the color of his glasses. Within time, three of the four witnesses described exactly the same thing.

"So, you see, the mind is a fascinating thing."

Kreskin, who in person looked relaxed, casual and much smaller than his TV image, was born George Kresge. Friendly and outgoing, he talked openly about his beginnings with "Extra Sensory Perception", saying he first discovered his unusual abilities when he was seven years old.

"I remember in grade school I was fascinated with the game of 'hot' and 'cold'. Everybody's played it at one time or another. You leave the room and (the others) hide an object. Then you walk around to find it and they say you're either getting hot or you're getting cold, depending on how close you are," he said.

"I didn't know what ESP was then, but I always thought it would be interesting to find something if no one in the room said anything. I tried it with my folks -- I had them hide objects - but they lost interest with me because I couldn't find anything," he joked.

"But my brother practiced with me for about three months. As I recall now, after awhile I wasn't guessing as much as before. I could kind of sense where it was.

"And that was the beginning. Since then I've always been fascinated with the mind."

In the years that have passed, Kreskin has become a veteran television performer, having appeared on The Tonight Show 85 times (more times, he claimed, than any other guest) and he has hosted his own talk show in Canada.

To prepare for each show he does, Kreskin said he needs to clear his mind of all thoughts. To do that, he walks.

I cannot go before an audience pre-occupied. It just doesn't work," he said. "I've always been a kinetic-type person. I can't sit still. So I always take a long walk before I go on."

And, as he stands before amazed crowds, second guessing strangers, finding well-hidden paychecks and performing what, to most, must look like magic, he said there is nothing extraordinary about his mindreading abilities. He said, to an extent, everyone has the same talents.

"I'm not psychic; I don't go into a trance or anything like that. In fact, I don't believe such a thing as hypnosis exists (he's prepared to offer $50,000 to anyone who can prove it does). I think (ESP) is inherent in everyone. I think it's partly the ability to de-sensitize yourself completely from things around you."

He said the late anthropologist Margaret Mead told him once that his abilities are common among many primitive tribes.

"The trouble now," he explained, "is that we're not picking up things as much as in the past." He blames the increasing amount of stimuli in the world for "dulling" our senses.

Kreskin has been performing professionally since he was 11 years old. When asked if he ever had a frightening experience on stage he told of the time he locked a man in an iron safe. The man was the only person who knew the combination to the safe.

"We did (the stunt) with the understanding that whenever I rapped on the door of the safe, he would mentally think of the combination," Kreskin said.

As a precaution, he said he had a man on stage with him ready to air drill homes in the safe if the trick was unsuccessful.

After nearly 10 minutes, a perspiration-soaked Kreskin opened the door. When he thanked the man in the safe for his trust and cooperation, the man turned and said, "Oh, that's OK Kreskin. I see you work every week. I knew you could do it!"

Scared or not, it is easy to detect Kreskin has a passion for his work.

"The problem with the mind is that it's a real source of frustration. Someone once said, 'The mind is the only area of study where in order to study it you have to use the very thing you're studying.' So you're never going to understand it totally.

"It's frustrating, but by the same token it's so darn exciting -- it really is."

Do you enjoy filling out tax forms?

by Vern Hucks

The Internal Revenue Service is "beating the bushes" for persons willing to participate in the IRS Volunteer Income Tax Assistance (VITA) program. According to IRS Public Affairs Officer Bob Branson, "this seems to be one of those deals where everybody wins."

Actually that statement doesn't seem to be too far from the truth. In essence, the VITA program is set up to provide free income tax preparation for the elderly and low income taxpayer. These are the people who most often need help in filling out simple tax forms but can least afford to pay for commercial preparation. VITA recruits volunteers on the community level, trains them in basic tax preparation, and helps them set up free "tax clinics" for eligible persons in their area.

There are no age or educational requirements for those who might be interested, although the program is not recommended for persons of high school age. Retired persons or college accounting students are ideal. The training program, which consists of five, eight hour sessions, assumes that the volunteer knows nothing about tax forms and teaches them from the ground up, assuring that there are no surprises later on. The instruction is geared toward the preparation of the simpler, non-complicated forms that are most often required by persons who would be in need of the service. The location of training sessions is determined by the location of the volunteers but the IRS says that it could afford to put on a class anywhere there are 5 or 6 volunteers. Classes can be held almost anywhere but a location such as a library is preferred.

One of the draw-backs in the minds of many potential volunteers is the question of liability. Again, according to Branson, "there is no liability, it's absolutely safe. The volunteers merely help prepare returns according to information given."

After the volunteer has received their training, the IRS, if the volunteer desires, will assist in setting up a clinic and in publicizing it. There are no requirements as to how much time must be put in as it is left up to each volunteer. Need for help will differ greatly from area to area so volunteers have flexibility in deciding what their hours will be.

As has been said earlier, there does seem to be something in this program for everyone. The IRS gets returns which are correctly prepared, the taxpayer who needs help gets it, and the volunteer has the satisfaction of helping someone in need. Training sessions are scheduled to begin in December and those interested may call the IRS for more information. In Indiana, call toll free 1-800-382-9740.

Family Life

by Renee Norlander

If each member of your family knows what to do in case a fire breaks out in your home - and knows so well that he can do it automatically - you have one of the best protections possible against needless suffering tragedy.

It is vitally important for every household, especially those with children, to have home fire drills at regular intervals. The theory is that in a real fire, even with thinking impaired by lack of oxygen, drowsiness or panic, the individual would react instinctively and correctly.

It's a fallacy to assume a parent will be able to rescue a child. Many parents don't know how to get themselves out of a fire. And even when a parent does know what to do, he may not be able to reach the child - or the child may awaken first and try to hide from the flames. Yet even a five-year-old can learn to protect himself from fire.

Children should not be taught to call the fire department if a fire breaks out. They should be taught to leave the house immediately, then go to a neighbor's house or to the nearest fire alarm box to summon help.

While an adult has some capability to determine whether it's safe to call the fire department from a burning house, a young child should not be asked or expected to make that judgment. Remember: life safety always comes before property safety!

What is a Mobile Meals volunteer?

by Eva Mae Haist

What is a Meals on Wheels volunteer? A volunteer is:

- a SPECIAL sort-of-person;
- a person who does not necessarily "HAVE" time but one who "TAKES" time to deliver meals;
- a community-spirited person;
- a person with a genuine concern for the needs of others;
- a person who enjoys bringing a bit-o-sunshine into the life of a shut-in;

Here are some suggestions to make our Mobile Meals program run smoothly.

1. Please be prompt at pick-up time and place.
2. Be sure to get correct route and containers that match, at pick-up point.
3. Follow order listed for meal deliveries.

4. If possible take a helper with you. Hot pads or tray are also helpful as meals are "HOT".

5. Create a friendly atmosphere as you deliver meal. Remember, this may be the only contact of the day, the recipient has with someone else.

6. A friendly approach will help to make the day for them. A moment of visit, if time permits, may be worth as much as the meal.

7. Drivers are only responsible to deliver the meals, not run errands. What you do as a personal favor for a person is up to you.

8. COLLECTION DAY PROCEDURES - Drivers are to collect only from persons where an envelope is included in Bank Bag.

Drivers do NOT determine amount of contributions to be made. This has been arranged by the officers in charge of eligibility.

Where no envelope is included, other arrangements for contributions have been made.

IMPORTANT - Be sure to put cash or check in proper envelope. 9. PLEASE urge recipients to contact our office (phone 267-2012) for any cancellations or change in meal deliveries. DO NOT CALL NURSING HOME.

Our sincerest thanks and appreciation is extended to a great group of volunteers who do a most commendable job thru the year.

We want to remind our drivers that meals should now be picked up at 11:30 a.m. at Millers Merry Manor.

the side lines by Vern Hucks

I was disgusted.
If you made the trip down to North Miami last Friday night then you already know what I'm talking about. The North Miami team and coaching staff put on one of the worst displays of poor sportsmanship that I've ever seen. I called NM Head Coach Steve Bryant on Monday morning to see if he had any comment regarding attitudes or behavior and he professed ignorance of any poor sportsmanship. Bryant said that he "did not instigate" any actions and feels that "something should have been said during the game" if the Valley staff felt that things were out of hand. I don't know about you, but to me that seems like a lot of crap coming from a man who had an unsportsmanship conduct call made on him and then had the audacity to stomp on the referees flag, getting another 15 yards marched off against his kids who were already in the hole. From my vantage point on the sidelines, I heard a great deal of profanity directed at Valley players and coaches and I also heard a lot of poor comments coming from the Warrior bench. Bryant hedged a little bit by saying that "we have some pretty rough kids". Come on Coach, kids play ball just the way they are coached and this kind of stuff has come to be expected from your teams. To re-arrange an old phrase, "if you can't take the heat, get out of the conference".

Viking Head Coach Charlie Smith had this to say about the game: "I was extremely proud of our football team. Our kids exhibited super conduct and action throughout the contest when they were being swung at and cursed at. They avoided any confrontations. We did not let 'play' below the belt influence our conduct". Smith also added, "contrary to what I've heard, the stepping out of bounds and the unselfish conduct of Greg Utter and Joe Harter was not called for by the coaches. It really is an example of the team spirit found on this ball club."

In case you missed the game, Tim Alspaugh is now the holder of the State Single Season scoring record. Alspaugh, aided by the unselfish play of the entire team, scored 44 points against North Miami to give him an incredible season total of 250 points. His 44 point performance was also a new Valley team record surpassing Derek Anglin's 36 effort set back in 1976.

Greg Utter chipped in 14 points Friday and gave up many more by setting Alspaugh up. Utter amassed 121 yards on 7 carries to end the season with a rushing average of 10.34 yards per carry, also a new record. Utter also joined the 1000 yard club by finishing the season with 1034 rushing yards.

David Rhodes netted 158 passing yards against the helpless Warrior defense to give him a total of 1032 for the year. Rhodes completed 54.7% of his passes during the 1979 regular season.

Mark Shireman was the team defensive leader with 9 tackles and 7 assists. Brent Arven was next on the hit parade with 5 tackles (all behind the line of scrimmage) and one fumble recovery. Bill Jamison and Gilbert Martens each finished with 20 tackle points. Although its unofficial as of yet, its believed that Shireman has set a new team record for tackle points in a single season.

Vikes go for 27 straight at home Valley to host Central Noble Cougars in play-offs

by Vern Hucks

The Cougars of Central Noble High School, led by Head Coach Mike Tolle, come to the Valley this Friday night to square off for the championship of District 10. Viking Head Coach Charlie Smith acknowledges that "Central Noble has a good team" but is quick to add, "we're eagerly awaiting to greet them to Valley."

The Cougars finished their 78 campaign with a record of 6-4 but lost three of those four games by a total of six points. They made good on their attempt for revenge this year recording six shut-outs on their way to a school record 9-1 season. Even though his team did have those six shut-outs, Coach Tolle concedes that his ball club has not faced any offensive talents like those of Valley. Tolle feels that Valley has just too much balance to try and take any one facet of their offense away and adds that "Valley will be tough to defeat".

Central Noble has a good deal of balance on offense themselves. The offensive line is anchored by senior center, Greg Simerman. Simerman is a three year starter at the center position as well as starting at defensive tackle for the past two. Simerman, at 6'190 lbs., will be one of the few linemen to face the Valley this year who may not be completely out-muscled. He reportedly bench-presses 290 pounds which would put him in the range of some of the top Valley lifters. Cougar tight end Scott Wierschke also lifts in the same range, and according to Coach Tolle, has really come into his own this year as a receiver. Wierschke has caught a total of 18 passes this season good for 310 yards and 5 touchdowns. Deep threat for the Cougars would probably be wide receiver, Scott Mundan. Mundan's pass catching may not be as prolific as Wierschke's but his punt and kick-off returns more than make up for it. He has averaged 16 yards per kick-off return and 22 on punts returning three for TDs.

Its really hard to predict just who will be at quarterback for the Cougars on Friday. Randy Gallmeyer is the Central Noble starter but his replacement, Rex Fulk, leads their conference in every passing category. Fulk, with a completion record of about 54%, has passed for more than 400 yards. He also plays every position in the backfield and is, according to Tolle, a natural born athlete.

Carrying the ball for Central Noble will be Dan Anderson at tailback and Chuck Dazey at fullback. Anderson, with 640 yards rushing this season, has averaged around 4 per carry. A backfield sleeper for the Cougars may be a sophomore, ironically named Smith, who came into Central Noble's game with Fort Wayne Eastside as an injury replacement and gained 130 yards in the fullback spot.

The Cougar offensive philosophy would seem to be "Take what's given" as indicated by their pass to run ratio. During the regular season, Central Noble passed the ball once for every three running plays. They operate from a pro set with an I backfield and like to run either option or power plays.

Central Noble's defense may look familiar to Viking fans since they like to use a split-6 alignment the same as Valley. The Cougar's seem to use more variations and stunts than the Vikings however, probably due to lack of quickness. The Cougar secondary is flexible and will use a zone, rotating zone, man-to-man, and free safety coverage.

Leading the team in tackles is inside linebacker Dave Simerman. According to Coach Tolle, Simerman is quick for a linebacker and is a good tackler. He not only leads the team in tackles but in sacks and fumble recoverys as well.

Defensive back Tim Schlottterback, 5'8" 150 lbs., set a school record this season by picking off 6 passes.

The defensive line seems to have good size with three starters weighing in at over 190 lbs. Greg Simerman holds down one tackle spot with two players alternating at the other. Chuck Dazey, 6' 195 lbs., and John Hallbrook, 6'6" 230 lbs., share a tackle spot but Hallbrook has been used sparingly since sustaining a minor concussion early in the season.

Terry Forker is the top defensive end for the Cougars and is reported to be a good pass rusher and pretty good against the run. The only injury that really figures into this game is to defensive end Scott Cole. Cole was injured in the game against Howe Military and has been lost for the season.

The Vikings appear healthy going into the play-offs with one glaring exception. Senior quarterback, David Rhodes, victim of an apparent "spear" in last weeks game with North Miami, is still bothered by pain in his ribs whenever he raises his throwing arm.

Rhodes had his ribs x-rayed on Monday and was given the green light by his doctor. According to Coach Smith, there is a possibility of one fractured rib but there is minimal danger of further damage. Rhodes will be playing with pain so his effectiveness remains to be seen.

The match-up for this game appears to be pretty even as far as size and strength go but Tolle draws the line at team speed. Surprisingly enough, its the quickness of the Valley defense that seems to bother him the most.

I asked Tolle how he and his team felt about playing the Number 1 team in the first round of the play-offs. After reflecting for a moment, he said "somebody has to play them." He was quick to add that "out kids are a really loose team and we realize that to go all the way, we'd have to play Valley sometime."

Tickets for the game went on same Wednesday morning at 9:00 and are priced at $2.50 for students and adults. Ticket prices are set by the Indiana State High School Athletic Association. Kick-off will be at 7:30 and seats will be hard to come by.

New books

Akron

New books received at the Akron Carnegie Public Library include the following:

GENE STRATTON-PORTER, A LOVELY LIGHT by Rollin King. For many years Gene Stratton Porter's name was a daily word in the King household. This volume is the result of the whole family learning together of the work and life of "The Lady of the Limerlost".

ONE STEP AT A TIME, A YOUNG WOMAN'S INSPIRING STRUGGLE TO WALK AGAIN by Lenor Madruga. On the morning of her thirty-second birthday, Lenor Madruga discovered a hard lump in her groin and subsequently underwent a hemipelvectomy: removal of her left leg and hip. Her victorious story is an inspiration not only to the two million amputees in the United States, whose options she has enlarged, but to all who face physical or emotional trauma.

THE SPRING OF THE TIGER by Victoria Holt. From the theatrical world of Victorian London, to the stately rounds of English country life, to the wild, resplendent beauty of Ceylon, this magnificent new novel spins a tale of fabulous romance and dark, deadly intrigue.

CALL THE DARKNESS LIGHT by Nancy Zaroulls. Set in industrial Lowell, Mass. in the days before the Civil War, this is a novel of a power that recreates time and place in our history never before found in fiction.

Mentone

New books received at the Bell Memorial Public Library include the following:

GESTURES by Desmond Morris. A book about the conscious body language with which we communicate to each other.

WINNING IN THE COMMODITIES MARKET by George Angell. A money-making guide to commodity futures trading.

BORN WITH THE CENTURY by William Kinsolving. In a powerful novel spanning seven decades, the author traces the life of Magnus Macpherson from a penniless Scottish childhood to the realization of the American dream.

THE SPRING OF THE TIGER by Victoria Holt. A Victorian romance set in the London theater and the island of Ceylon, with its strange menacing secrets.

HOLLYWOOD GOTHIC by Thomas Gifford. A spine-tingling odyssey through the dark side of Hollywood, a nightmare world of corruption and violence, where the truth is an ugly rumor and a man can get killed searching for it.

TENNESSEE SMITH by James Hitt. A spirited novel of the reconstruction South and the Texas frontier after the Civil War.

AUNT ERMA'S COPE BOOK by Erma Bombeck. How to get from Monday to Friday ... in 12 days.

Unusual tombstone located in cemetery

by Eula Romayne Smith

"I'd like to have a copy of that."

"That's interesting."

"Could I have a copy, too?"

The booklet which caused this enthusiastic response at the Mentone Area History meeting was written a few years ago by local Junior High School students.

Titled "The Class of '75 Presents Local History", these mimeographed pages contain local history collected by Mr. William Darr's Social Studies Class at Talma Junior High. Thanks to Mark Wise, who shared his copy, here are a few ideas and some quotes from the "Class of '75."

Max Meiser interviewed Ralph Hatfield about Talma and learned that Talma was originally called Bloomingburg. The name change was instigated by a local man who was a professional puzzle worker and was tired of writing the long name of Bloomingburg often.

"The Grist mill was located back of the site of Hatfield's old store. It was three stories tall and had a big basement. The first floor had twenty flour grinders. The third floor had bins and flour sifters (the sifters were about the size of Burkett's walk in freezer)."

"The dam for the mill was located back of Robert Calvert's. In 1956, Hatfield's old store was torn down because it was a fire hazard and was not used anymore."

There was a hotel where Mr. Good lives, and it was called Groves."

Dan Kindig contributed a History of Mentone Cemetery. He said the original plot of ground for the Mentone Cemetery was donated by the Lee family, and for many years the International Order of Odd Fellows were in charge, but after this organization disbanded about 1930, the town of Mentone has been responsible for the cemetery.

"There are several interesting stories connected with the tombstones in the cemetery."

"There was a family named Summerland who ran a saw mill around 1890 in Mentone. They had one daughter named Wanda, born on July 14, 1883. While a young girl, Wanda loved to embroider. She died Dec. 13, 1879 at the young age of 14. In memory of their daughter there is a large tombstone with a girl sitting embroidering, and in her hand rests a piece of material which says, 'Our Wanda'."

"There are several very old tombstones that look like petrified trees. One is the resting place of Blanche Bell, who passed away Oct. 24, 1894 at the age of 18. She was a sister to Lawrence Bell, who was probably Mentone's most famous citizen."

One of several students who wrote about the Interurban was

Tim Swick who reported that each Friday fresh fruits and vegetables were brought to the edge of Akron by the Interurban, and then hauled into town by horse and wagon.

After World War I, a work car pulled two flat cars, which were decorated with green and white crepe paper. One was decorated for the Army, and it had soldier boys with cannons, small tanks, guns and shells. The other had sailors with a small ship and submarines. They did not have radio or television at that time, so it was a way to let the people see some of the arms that were used in the war.

When they went by a house they threw sacks of candy to the people. They stopped in small towns so people could walk past the cars and see the exhibits.

The Hill Lake Cemetery list by Leslie Davis and the additional names from Mentone Cemetery by Steve Norton and Jeff Sechrist were of interest to two researchers.

Help Wanted: Did any other class put their information into a booklet? Do any students have copies of their own research? If so, we would like to have a copy.

Mrs. Stephen is honored

Mrs. Ralph Davis, president of Kappa Delta Phi sorority conducted her first meeting and introduced Mrs. Richard Day, a member of the Citizens Advisory Committee, who presented the pros and cons of the projected building plans for the middle school or the K through eight buildings being planned to the addition of the TVS consolidation.

Plans were also made for the Christmas activities and party.

Mrs. George Stephen was presented with a crested silver tray for her twenty-five years of continuous membership in the sorority.

My Side by Vern Hucks

Assorted mail from various sources crosses our desks each week and most of it really isn't worth the time that it takes to open. One piece that did catch my attention last week was from the Public Service Commission of the State of Indiana and concerned a hearing which had been set in order to allow General Telephone Company an opportunity to present evidence in conjunction with their request to charge for directory assistance. According to the PSC hand-out, General Telephone is asking for essentially the same plan that was granted by the PSC to Indiana Bell in December of 1978. The following is a direct quote from the press release issued by the Public Service Commission:

"This plan allows a ratepayer 5 free directory assistance calls per month in his local calling area, and 5 free directory assistance calls outside the local calling area and inside his area code, providing each of the second 5 is followed by a long-distance call within the area code that month. There is no charge for directory assistance outside the ratepayer's area code and two numbers may be requested with each directory assistance call. Twenty cents may be collected per chargeable call."

Whew! Don't we have enough things to keep track of any more without trying to decipher directory assistance charges on our monthly phone bills? I don't think that I'd mind paying for the directory assistance so much if someone would come up with a way for me to call Rochester (or anywhere else for that matter) without being disconnected three or four times.

It Happened in Mentone

Taken from the November 5, 1952 issue of The Northern Indiana Co-Op News:

Representatives of the Mentone Post of the American Legion stated this week that over a hundred youngsters called at the Legion Home last Friday evening and received the treats that had been prepared for them by the Legionnaires.

All parents of children who are of pre-school age are invited to a meeting this coming Monday evening to discuss plans for a kindergarden. The P.T.A. is sponsoring this meeting to find out the extent of interest in a kindergarden project. Indications are that there were a lot of surprised people after Tuesday's general election.

Many there were that were rather confident of the outcome but few there were that expected the enormous plurality handed the minority party candidates.

The Four Leaf Clover and Janie Jump-up 4-H Clubs on Oct. 24, went on a trip to Chicago. Some of the places of interest were the Brookfield Zoo, and the Science of Industry Building. There were at least fifteen of the 4-H members who had completed one 4-H project and five adults who went on the trip.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Newton and family and Mrs. Tessie Newton spent Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Newton and family in Hammond. Mrs. Newton attended the revival services at the Christian Fellow Church in Hammond, conducted by Evangelist Pete Riggs.

Mr. and Mrs. M. O. Smith plan to leave Wednesday for Leesburg Florida where they will spend the winter months.

At the annual meeting of the Indiana Heart Foundation, which was held in Indianapolis on Sunday, Oct. 26th, Dr. Dan Urschel, Mentone, was reelected as a member of the board of trustees of that organization. Dr. Urschel has been a member of the board for several years, and his new term is for three years, beginning July 1.

Due to the general election, there was no egg market in New York on Tuesday. We have been informed that Wednesday's market will be used to determine the prices paid to local producers this week.

Sound Off

"Wouldn't it be great if the people that drink up their monthly checks would have to buy their groceries and not get food stamps to pay for them!"

"I've tried for three days to get in touch with the Akron Police and cannot reach them by telephone. There should be some better form of communication in their car. Until then, I'm going to phone the county Sheriff if I need assistance!"

"Why doesn't our local dentist give the children who want it, free fluoride treatments and keep the fluoride out of our drinking water."

100 walnut trees for $1.00

Low cost County trees available

by Diana Streevey Bucher

Next spring, many of you will be thinking about planting trees for a windbreak on your western boundary or planting a hillside with trees to prevent erosion. If you do some checking to compare prices, you will probably be dismayed to discover trees are one expensive commodity. In a national seed company catalog, for instance, you'll find the price for a single 3-4 foot silver maple tree is $1.95. For a 3-4 foot ash tree, you will find yourself paying a whopping $3.59. Nursery prices are even more expensive than buying from a seed catalog. If you have a large area to plant in trees, the outlook is bleak indeed.

What most of us don't realize, is that the State of Indiana has a liberal program to provide residents with large quantities of trees at a low price. The Department of Natural Resources, Division of Forestry, has released order blanks and price lists for the trees that will be available next spring. As I skimmed over my price list, I was amazed/delighted/shocked to see I could order 100 white pine trees for trees for reforestation, windbreaks, wildlife, erosion or other forestry purposes; you may not resell or give the trees away. The state needs a general idea of what you are using the trees for also, so there is a place to indicate approximately how many trees you will be using for timber, erosion, Christmas trees, etc. Two disadvantages of the program, depending on your viewpoint, are: 1) You must buy the trees in multiples of 100—you can't get ten silver maple trees for 31 cents. 2) The trees aren't as large as trees you can buy at a nursery or seed company. Conifer seedlings (cone-bearing trees) average 5 to 8 inches tall, while the hardwood and windbreak stock are from 6 to 18 inches tall.

$2.60; 100 black walnut trees for $5.20; 100 silver maple trees for $3.12; 100 Norway spruce for $10.40, and the list goes on and on. Tulip trees, sycamore trees, red maples, shrub dogwood, and scotch pine trees are just a few of the many species available. They even offer three packets with 25 each of seven different species of trees, and you can buy trees by the thousands at equitable prices.

Before the state makes these trees available, you must sign an agreement (on the order blank) that you are planting the

The Fulton Cooperative Extension Office, located in Rochester or the Kosciusko Extension office, located in Warsaw, will provide assistance with the trees you order. # Board approves contribution

by Bob Norlander

In their regular monthly meeting Monday night, the Mentone Town Board approved allocating Revenue Sharing Funds towards the purchase of a hydraulically powered cutting tool for use in emergency situations.

The tool, referred to as a "Jaws Cutter", will enable area firefighters and EMT's to easily tear and cut through metals in rescue situations such as car wrecks, industrial accidents, as well as other emergencies where time is of the essence.

Board president Frank Hardesty explained to trustee's Wayne Tombaugh, and Gerald Romine, that although the cost of a new cutter if $8,500, with contributions from area fire departments, EMT's, townships, and private donations, the Town's contribution portion would not exceed $1,360. He further stated that with a higher donation rate, the Town's share would be less than the maximum $1,360.

After some discussion, Tombaugh motioned that a maximum amount of $1,360 be allocated towards the purchase, and it was seconded by Hardesty. Romine abstained from voting, and the motion passed.

In other Board action Monday night: --The Baptist Church has asked the Board to allow them to pave additional town-owned property from the street up to the sidewalk on the land surrounding the church. The church has expressed a need for more parking area adjacent to the church. After discussion, the Board agreed that a visual check of the site would be necessary before further action.

--Acting on a motion by Trustee Tombaugh, and a second motion by president Hardesty, the Board agreed to hire Luke Hiers, R. 1, Mentone, to work for the town water department.

Hiers replaces Bruce Barker who discontinued employment with the town October 1.

The new employee will receive an annual starting salary of $11,000 effective November 5, 1979 and will be employed on a six month probation basis. Harry Sullivan, head of the water department will receive an annual salary of $12,000 effective immediately. After 6 months, Hiers will be asked to sign a work agreement with conditions of performance and duties defined.

The cutting equipment discussed in the Board meeting Monday is shown above at a demonstration in Mentone Saturday. The tool company tore the car apart in less than twenty minutes. Lewis Motors donated the car, and Jerry Fross provided the free towing.

Low cost County trees available

by Diana Streevey Bucher

Next spring, many of you will be thinking about planting trees for a windbreak on your western boundary or planting a hillside with trees to prevent erosion. If you do some checking to compare prices, you will probably be dismayed to discover trees are one expensive commodity. In a national seed company catalog, for instance, you'll find the price for a single 3-4 foot silver maple tree is $1.95. For a 3-4 foot ash tree, you will find yourself paying a whopping $3.59. Nursery prices are even more expensive than buying from a seed catalog. If you have a large area to plant in trees, the outlook is bleak indeed.

What most of us don't realize, is that the State of Indiana has a liberal program to provide residents with large quantities of trees at a low price. The Department of Natural Resources, Division of Forestry, has released order blanks and price lists for the trees that will be available next spring. As I skimmed over my price list, I was amazed/delighted/shocked to see I could order 100 white pine trees for $2.60; 100 black walnut trees for $5.20; 100 silver maple trees for $3.12; 100 Norway spruce for $10.40, and the list goes on and on. Tulip trees, sycamore trees, red maples, shrub dogwood, and scotch pine trees are just a few of the many species available. They even offer three packets with 25 each of seven different species of trees, and you can buy trees by the thousands at equitable prices.

Before the state makes these trees available, you must sign an agreement (on the order blank) that you are planting the trees for reforestation, windbreaks, wildlife, erosion or other forestry purposes; you may not resell or give the trees away. The state needs a general idea of what you are using the trees for also, so there is a place to indicate approximately how many trees you will be using for timber, erosion, Christmas trees, etc. Two disadvantages of the program, depending on your viewpoint, are: 1) You must buy the trees in multiples of 100—you can't get ten silver maple trees for 31 cents. 2) The trees aren't as large as trees you can buy at a nursery or seed company. Conifer seedlings (cone-bearing trees) average 5 to 8 inches tall, while the hardwood and windbreak stock are from 6 to 18 inches tall.

The Fulton Cooperative Extension Office, located in Rochester or the Kosciusko Extension office, located in Warsaw, will provide assistance with the trees you order. The prices quoted above are good if you have the county extension agent pick up the trees when they are ready (sometime around the end of March next year), then you pick them up at the extension office. If you choose to have the trees delivered to your home, they will be shipped by UPS, making the prices slightly higher. The extension office will also provide the information you will need to properly plant and tend the trees.

This service is just one of many the Cooperative Extension Service offers to residents of Indiana. If you would like to know more about the trees or receive an order blank/price list, you can call the local extension agents at 267-4444, or 223-3397, or write to: Kosciusko County Extension Office, Production Credit Bureau, 1779 N. ## Family Life

by Renee Norlander

Food prices are much in the news these days, and most of us are hunting bargains. Apples, therefore, are especially appealing at this time of year, for they make an excellent, economical fruit.

And like most fruits, apples are good for the health!

"With a good apple crop in Indiana and elsewhere this year, consumers are taking advantage of the favorable prices," says John A. Wott, Purdue University extension home environment horticulturist. "But it is wise to know the best varieties for storage if you are buying for the weeks ahead," he adds.

Many homes today do not lend themselves to good apple storage, he reminds. Thus, homemakers wisely buy quantities as needed. Usually, two 3-pound bags each week provide enough apples for pies, salads, and a family's out-of-hand eating. This amount can easily be stored in the refrigerator. "Homemakers considering long-term apple storage should watch for the proper varieties," says Wott, adding: "Stayman, Winesap, Red Delicious, and Golden Delicious are all good storage varieties. Rome Beauty is a superior storage apple. Properly stored these varieties should last until February or later."

When buying apples, handle the fruit as little as possible and then very gently. Discard or use immediately those that are bruised, cut or show signs of decay.

When storing large quantities for a long period, greater care must be taken. If stored in containers, arrange these so that the air can circulate freely between them. This will reduce the heat generated by respiration. Be sure the containers have smooth inner surfaces, for protruding objects can cause fruit to decay. Containers should be kept in a cool place but not where the apples will freeze. Optimum storage temperature for most varieties is 30-32 degrees F. Freezing temperature of apples is 27.8-29.4 degrees F., so unheated garages do not make good storage facilities. Frozen apples deteriorate quickly.

Some household storage facilities do meet the requirements however. Refrigeration, of course, is best. An old, operating refrigerator in the basement makes an ideal place. Be sure the fruit is in plastic bags to prevent it from drying out in the low humidity.

Apples can also be stored in cellars that are humid and maintain a temperature below 40 degrees F. They may also be stored in unheated outbuildings with hay or other insulating materials piled around them. Straw-lined pits and tile storage units also keep apples well if outdoor temperatures do not go below 10 degrees F.

Consumer Price Index--- Coping with inflation may be biggest concern

(Based on information furnished by The Michigan Association of Certified Public Accountants.)

Is there nothing the ordinary family can do about inflation, short of moving into a cave with a year's supply of turnips?

Many of the steps taken by corporations, state and local governments can help families too, say Michigan's CPAs.

Step 1 is learning where it hurts most.

Not everyone is hit by inflation in the same way nor to the same extent.

Persons on fixed incomes suffer the most, while those whose wages or prices are keyed to inflation may be affected hardly at all.

To cope with your own particular inflation problem, you should know what the problem is — where the squeeze is on your own income and purchasing power.

The government's Consumer Price Index (CPI) divides the cost of living into seven categories, then assigns a weight to each category, based on the percentage of total spending the 'average' family devotes to each.

For that 'average' family, here's where the money goes:

Food, 19 percent
Transportation, 18 percent
Apparel, 6 percent
Health Care, 5 percent
Entertainment, 4 percent
Other goods and services, 4 percent.

(The 'other' omits savings, investments, gifts, mortgage amortization, pension contributions and any other costs that might be expected to bring eventual returns and in that sense do not constitute spending. The biggest 'other' expenditures are for education, toiletries and tobacco.)

The CPI also breaks down the overall inflation rate to show how much each category has swollen compared to prices in 1967, the base year.

Here are where the cost figures stood at the start of this year, with 1967 prices representing 100:

Housing, 228
Food, 214
Transportation, 193
Apparel, 162
Health Care, 228
Entertainment, 181
Other goods and services, 189
Average, 203

This means the average family last year spent $203 for goods and services that cost $100 in 1967.

But if your spending percentages differ from the average family's, for one reason or another, the government's CPI doesn't show accurately how inflation has hit you.

To learn that, compare your expenditures with those of the average family, and determine what percentages of your total spending you devote to each type of goods and services.

Then multiply the result by the Cost of Living Index for that category.

By comparing your personal inflation index with the national end-of-1978 CPI of 203, you can see if you are suffering more or less from inflation than the average family.

And the comparison will probably tell you why you are faring better or worse than the average.

Such comparisons should be helpful in your personal financial planning, showing you areas where your spending might be reduced to lessen inflation's effects, according to the CPAs.

Welcome to Death Valley.

That's what the signs outside the player's entrance to Tippecanoe Valley's football field said and the Central Noble Cougar's went home believing. Central Noble took the loss philosophically as illustrated by their coach, Mike Tolle, saying "Well, every Friday night 50% of all the teams playing are losers". The Cougars may have lost the ball game but are not losers. They quickly found themselves out-classed and out-scored but they never lost heart. Sportsman ship remained high throughout the game. The officiating crew complimented both teams and coaches for their control after the game.

If the Viking's home field is to be known as "Death Valley", Brent Arven should be the "Shadow of Death". Defensively, Arven had eight tackles (five on special team play), four assists, one quarterback hurry, and one fumble recovery. Mark Shireman and Gary McKee came up with 11 tackles between them. McKee also recovered a fumble and blocked a pass.

The individual offensive stats are somewhat misleading. Greg Utter carried ten times for 109 yards and Tim Alspaugh gained 93 yards on 15 carries. Utter and Alspaugh only carried twice apiece in the second half though. Utter also was the game's leading receiver with 2 catches for 55 yards. David Rhodes passed nine times, completing 5 for 89 yards. Back-up quarterback David Leckrone threw twice with his only completion being a 32 yard TD strike to David Newlin. Newlin had one other catch on the night as did Bill Jamison and Joe Harter.

Valley's 67 point eruption is a new state record for play-off competition. The old record was set last year by eventual state champ Lawrenceburg when they rolled over Paoli 60-0. Viking Head Coach Charlie Smith said "our margin of victory was bigger than I ever dreamed."

The Three Rivers Conference football coaches got together on Monday night and voted on the all-conference teams. The only real surprise to me was that Greg Cumberland, Herb King, and Greg Utter were selected to the second team. Cumberland and King chewed up every defensive lineman they went up against this season but since no stats are kept for offensive lineman, it's hard to know why they didn't make first team. Utter is a different story. Mark Thompson of Southwood and Chris Arrick of Northfield were both picked ahead of Utter. This is no knock on Thompson or Arrick, both are excellent runners, but in the TRC, Utter averaged more yards per carry than the other two combined. He also scored as many points and caught more passes than Thompson and Arrick together. Like I said, this is no knock on Arrick or Thompson but I guess we'll have to wait on All-State teams to be announced to find out who's who.

North Judson to visit "Death Valley" Vikings looking for 28th at home

by Vern Hucks

For those of you who may not be aware of it, the North Judson Blue Jays are for real. Through the course of their regular season, the Blue Jays have defeated three AA schools (Twin Lakes, Lake Station, and Kankakee Valley) and beat a tough Knox squad by kicking a field goal with three seconds on the clock. In their play-off season, North Judson defeated Bremen 6-0 in a real defensive struggle. Coming into the game, Bremen had averaged over 200 yards passing and over 100 yards rushing per game, but the Blue Jays held them to 35 yards rushing, 14 yards passing, and only two first downs. Bremen entered North Judson territory only once on a bad punt and promptly lost 50 yards in the next three plays.

The Blue Jays use a wish-bone offense; the first that Valley will face since Triton. Running the wishbone is quarterback Randy Rowe, a 5'10", 177 pound senior, ranks third on the club in number of rushing attempts and averages about 3 1/4 yards per carry. Leading ground gainer for North Judson is blue-chip half back, Greg Fingerhut.

At 6' and 185 pounds, Fingerhut matches up pretty well with Valley's running backs. It has been said that you could flip a coin between him and Tim Alspaugh and not come up a loser no matter what.

Fingerhut averages 5.9 yards per attempt this season. Kevin Surma plays fullback for N. Judson and is described as a "hard driving" runner. Surma averages about 4 yards an attempt.

The Blue Jays have good depth in the backfield with two other backs, Bobby Solomas and Allen Kuehl averaging around 4 yards per carry. Blocking for the running game is handled by an offensive line that averages 190 pounds per man. Judson is not all that much of a threat in the air having passed only 49 times during the regular season. They only passed three times against Bremen and completed only one.

Linebackers Fingerhut and Jesse Alvarez lead the team in tackles. Alvarez is about the same size as Fingerhut and also handles the place kicking chores as well as being second-string quarterback. Devin Haman leads the Blue Jays in interceptions having picked off seven during the year. Other defensive stalwarts are 6'3", 205 pound defensive end Steve Ru- and 6'1", 223 pound tackle, Andrew Croyle.

The Blue Jays defensive sets up in a 5-2 invert which the Vikings haven't seen this year. The closest to it was the alignment used by Northfield that Valley rattled for 47 points.

If the contest should turn into a defensive battle, North Judson may hold a slight edge in endurance. The Jays' platoon a lot and only have 4 players that go both ways. Valley, on the other hand, has eight or nine players going on offense and defense.

Spectators should be treated another cleanly played contest this week. According to North Judson Athletic Director Jerome Jermas, "Coach Radtke does not condone poor conduct." The Blue Jays have been publicly complemented by officials on their behavior on the field.

The Blue Jays "have never backed off" from anybody and the team "wants to play Valley." Jermas added that the position of the entire team is that if Valley beats them, the Vikings are indeed, Number One.

Tickets for Friday's contest are available at Tippecanoe Valley's front office and are priced at $3.00 each. This will definitely be the last game for 12 of the finest ball players Valley has ever seen, so come out and support them ALL THE WAY!

Good luck Vikings!!

ABOVE: Joe Harter (44) eludes a would-be Cougar tackler to pick up 11 yards. Harter was voted First Team All Conference receiver on Monday.

BELOW: Bill Jamison explodes past the line for 10 big yards. Jamison went on to score the first TD in Valley's 67-0 romp over Central Noble. (NEWS photos.)

It's The Improved Money Market Certificate

• Monthly Interest

Earn interest on your interest
It's one way to fight inflation.

• Automatically Renewable

Your Akron Bank Improved Money Market Certificate can be automatically renewed at maturity.

Here's How It Works:

While Federal regulations prohibit the compounding of interest during the term of a 182-day Money Market Certificate, they do permit the monthly payment of interest earned. When you deposit $10,000 in Akron Bank's Improved 182-Day Money Market Certificate, we automatically withdraw certificate interest for you each month and deposit it in a 5 1/4% passbook savings account where interest is compounded daily. The extra interest earned on your 5 1/4% passbook savings account results in the Akron Bank's Improved Yield.

The total yield shown above is based on an assumed reinvestment of principal and interest at the 182-day maturity and renewal at the original rate. The passbook savings account interest is added back to the certificate principal at the end of the initial 182 days.

The stated annual interest rate is guaranteed for the full 182 days. It is subject to change only at renewal. Your certificate can be automatically renewed at the interest rate prevailing at renewal time. To earn Akron Bank's Improved Yield, the certificate must be held to maturity and no withdrawals made during that time from the related 5 1/4% passbook savings account. Federal regulations require that 182-day certificates withdrawn before maturity are subject to a substantial interest penalty. You can, however, add to or withdraw from your 5 1/4% passbook savings account at any time without penalty.

Quoted rates and yields are changeable weekly and are in effect through next Wednesday.

Akron fluoridation: Is it a health hazard or benefit

by Vern Hucks

The Akron Town Board recently revealed that plans are still afoot to provide for the fluoridation of the town's water supply. The announcement of this possibility touched off some controversy concerning the safety of the practice of fluoridation. Although information seems to be somewhat sketchy, the following is a compilation of what I could find on the subject locally.

Fluoridation is the addition of chemical compounds known as fluorides to water supplies for the purpose of preventing tooth decay. While some areas have access to water that contains naturally high levels of fluorides, around 5,000 U.S. cities fluoridate their supplies. In addition, fluoridation programs have been started in Australia, Brazil, Canada, Chile, Egypt, England, Japan, the Netherlands, New Zealand, Scotland and Sweden.

Locally, Dr. Charles Miller DDS says that he favors fluoridation because "2 out of 3 cavities can be prevented." Miller also a member of the Akron town board adds that if the practice is used in Akron, sodium fluoride would be added to the water at the proportion of one part per million. The approximate cost will be 18 cents per child per year. Miller goes on to say that "The Department of Health, Education and Welfare estimate that a savings of $125.00 per child in dental work can be realized by the age of 16 through fluoridation."

Mentone does not fluoridate their water.

As mentioned earlier, fluoridation is the addition of fluorides to drinking water. Fluorides are compounds made up of fluorine and other elements. Fluorine is a gas which combines with other chemical elements more readily than any other element. Fluorides have many uses in addition to combatting tooth decay including: bending and focusing infrared light (calcium chloride), used in the cooling systems of refrigerators, and forcing the contents out of "spray" cans. Uranium hexafluoride is used to prepare uranium for atomic bombs. Sodium fluoride has been used in the formulation of insecticides and rodenticides and it has been reported that concentrations of fluorides were used in Nazi prison camp water supplies in order to have a "tranquilizing" effect on prisoners.

The study of fluoridation has its roots in Colorado Springs, Colorado as far back as 1908. A local dentist, Frederick McKay, noticed two traits in the teeth of many of his patients, the enamel was mottled and there were relatively few cavities. McKay traced both of these traits to something in the local drinking water but the substance was not identified as fluoride until 1931.

Drinking water supplies in Newburgh, N.Y., Grand Rapids, Mich., and Brantford, Ontario were fluoridated on a test basis in the mid-1940s. The result of these tests corroborated earlier findings and led to the beginning of artificial fluoridation on a wide scale.

The practice of fluoridation is not without controversy. Opponents of the practice object for various reasons from possible carcinogenic potential to restriction of religious freedom.

Various researchers have warned that prolonged exposure to fluorides would cause cancer. This line of thought seems to come from the feeling that chronic exposure to any unaccustomed chemical could induce malignancy.

Dean Burk and John Yiamouyiannis (both Ph.D's) of the National Cancer Institute have been quoted as saying "The National Cancer Institute can no longer assure the American people that fluoridation does not cause cancer," and "a minimum of 10,000 excess cancer deaths per year in the United States can now be attributed to fluoridation of drinking water."

Charles Gordon Heyd, MD and former President of the American Medical Association, in the CANCER CONTROL JOURNAL states, "I am appalled at the prospect of using water as a vehicle for drugs. Fluoride is a corrosive poison that will produce serious effects on a long range basis. Any attempt to use water this way is deplorable."

In the same publication, Dr. Ludwik Gross, Chief of Cancer Research of the Veterans Administration, Bronx, N.Y. added, "The plain fact that fluorine is an insidious poison, harmful, toxic, and cumulative in its effects, even when ingested in minimal amounts, will remain unchanged no matter how many times it will be repeated in print that fluoridation of the water is 'safe'."

The possibility of inducing malignancy is not the only fear of opponents of fluoridation. Some opponents maintain that long term use of fluoridated water may stain teeth and harm bone structure. Others feel that perhaps the research into long term fluoridation has not been adequate and point out that some drugs once thought to be "safe" now are known to produce dangerous side effects.

Some persons who are dependent on artificial kidney machines and live in areas with fluoridated water have been known to accumulate damaging amounts of

Akron Bank Improved Money Market Certificate

See the difference yourself

182-day Certificate Annual Rate	182-Day Certificate Annual Yield	Akron Bank's Improved Annual Yield
11.945%	12.517%	12.662%

It's The Improved Money Market Certificate

• Monthly Interest

Earn interest on your interest
It's one way to fight inflation.

• Automatically Renewable

Your Akron Bank Improved Money Market Certificate can be automatically renewed at maturity.

Here's How It Works:

While Federal regulations prohibit the compounding of interest during the term of a 182-day Money Market Certificate, they do permit the monthly payment of interest earned. When you deposit $10,000 in Akron Bank's Improved 182-Day Money Market Certificate, we automatically withdraw certificate interest for you each month and deposit it in a 5 1/4% passbook savings account where interest is compounded daily. The extra interest earned on your 5 1/4% passbook savings account results in the Akron Bank's Improved Yield.

The total yield shown above is based on an assumed reinvestment of principal and interest at the 182-day maturity and renewal at the original rate. The passbook savings account interest is added back to the certificate principal at the end of the initial 182 days.

The stated annual interest rate is guaranteed for the full 182 days. It is subject to change only at renewal. Your certificate can be automatically renewed at the interest rate prevailing at renewal time. To earn Akron Bank's Improved Yield, the certificate must be held to maturity and no withdrawals made during that time from the related 5 1/4% passbook savings account. Federal regulations require that 182-day certificates withdrawn before maturity are subject to a substantial interest penalty. You can, however, add to or withdraw from your 5 1/4% passbook savings account at any time without penalty.

Quoted rates and yields are changeable weekly and are in effect through next Wednesday.

Nellans family traces ancestry back to 1840

by Eula Romayne Smith

To a genealogy "nut", tracing your ancestors back seven hundred years is an accomplishment that can be compared to winning a state championship by a football player. Esther Wise loaned the Milbern School Association a family history compiled by her cousin, Mrs. Ruth Berkepile of Bourbon, in which Mrs. Berkepile mentions a California researcher who has traced one line of their family to the 1200's. The history includes ten generations of one branch of the Nellans-Tipton family.

The first Nellans of this family to live in our area was Thomas, who, with his wife and baby came to Newcastle Township, Fulton County, in 1840.

The second was John Newton Nellans (1851-1945), son of Thomas and Maria (Strosnider) Nellans, who married a neighbor girl, Nancy Emaline, the daughter of William Nelson. They were parents of four children: William Curtis, Enzy Earl, Hershel Vern, and Mary (Mrs. Francis Kehoe).

Mrs. Hershel V. (Mabel Singer) Nellans in the picture lives at Timbercrest Home, No. Manchester. She is an aunt of Esther Wise and Ruth Berkepile. Jill and Kevin are Esther's grandchildren.

Mrs. Berkepile has happy memories of going with her grandparents, John and "Em"

Nellans, to the annual dinner at Sycamore Church, near their Newcastle Township home.

"Curt", one of the third generation of Nellans in this vicinity, married Ida Leona Sibert and they became parents of six children, including Ruth, who later married Clyde Berkepile.

Mr. and Mrs. Curt Nellans lived along Apple Road in Tippecanoe Township, Marshall County. Mrs. Berkepile tells about the picnics they enjoyed along the Tippecanoe River and about the Boy Scout Cabin which, later she and her husband shared with family and friends.

"I NEVER WILL FORGET
CLEANING UP THAT AWFUL MESS....."

Horses provided transportation when she was small. "When I was twelve, I learned to drive the Model T Ford," Mrs. Berkepile said. "Besides doing errands, I often took the cream and eggs to market. Once, on the way, a radius rod broke and the Ford went into the ditch. The car did not upset, but the cream and eggs did. I will never forget cleaning up that awful mess."

The students and other volunteers who have worked on this year's area pep signs supporting the Tippecanoe Valley football team certainly deserve a good deal of recognition for their efforts. Many people have commented on how professional the banners look. Just like the team itself, the support gets better every year!

We urge all Akron residents concerned about the supplemental use of fluorine in the town's water supply to attend a showing of a special movie Monday night in the town offices. The 7:30 p.m. meeting will provide an opportunity to clear up any misunderstandings that may exist concerning this always controversial subject.

Area man named to Who's Who?

A Mentone man is among 24 LeTourneau College students that have been named to the 1979-80 edition of Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges. The national honor is determined by a local committee of college faculty and students, and the number of students named to Who's Who is based on total student population.

Selected for the honor is Vern Goodman, a mathematics major. LeTourneau College, Longview, Texas, is a four-year Christian college that provides a balanced education through emphasis in academic, spiritual and practical areas. The student body of over 950 is made up of students from 30 countries and 49 states. Curriculums vary from the arts and sciences to a heavy emphasis in engineering and technology, which comprises two-thirds of the students.

It Happened in Mentone

Taken from the November 12, 1952 issue of The Northern Indiana Co-Op News:

Freddie Vandermark had only one comment about four o'clock Wednesday afternoon after his car jumped the curb and smashed the west plate glass window in the Mentone post office: "No brakes."

An oil stove used to heat the bus building at the Beaver Dam School house is believed to have caused the fire which occurred there Saturday afternoon. The Akron fire department was the first to arrive at the scene and had the fire about out when the Burket and Mentone departments arrived.

The heating stove, some tools and the windows and doors of the building were damaged by the fire. The building is used for a school shop as well as for housing two school buses.

Mrs. Mary Lou Knepper, who resides with her parents, Principal and Mrs. Swanson, first saw the flames. Their home is next door to the school.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Parker and family have moved from the apartment above the post office to their new home.

The firemen went in recently and helped get the building livable by painting the walls, etc., recently damaged by the fire.

For the time being, the family is living in the basement.

Pvt. James Miller, who spent a 17-day leave in Mentone and Tippecanoe communities, is now going to the Far East. He will be a forward observer for a field artillery unit. His wife is the former Lois Boganwright. She will reside with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Boganwright.

Within the next two weeks, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Chapman plan to move to Goshen where they will make their home. Mr. and Mrs. Chapman have lived in Mentone for nine years. We wish them well in their new home.

The NEWS asks:

"What have you done to prepare for winter?"

BY DIANA STREEVEY BUCHER

This week the NEWS started a new column. Every week we will be calling people around the area and asking a question. This first question was simply, "What have you done to prepare for winter?" Here are some of the answers we got:

Jerry Hudson, Akron: "I got my storm windows on and caulked around the windows. I need to put weather stripping around our doors."

Kent French, Silver Lake: "We put in an Earth Stove. We took two doors out of our home and replaced them with insulated windows, and we also replaced our entire porch, repairing the foundation."

Guy Alspaugh, Mentone: "We are burning wood in a fireplace. We've got everything else taken care of, siding, insulation, thermopane windows. We haven't winterized our cars yet, but we will."

Diana

Susan Hart, Mentone: "We had a storm picture window put in and put in new Anderson insulated windows."

Bruce Kelsay, Silver Lake: "I put storm windows up and re-putted the windows, and I prepared my vehicles for winter. I bought a pair of ear muffs."

More on fluoride

DEAR EDITOR:

It will be nice if the democratic process is used to help decide about the fluoridation of Akron's water supply. We should be aware that since 1975 2700 of our nation's cities have stopped fluoridation. And that in Europe five nations with populations totaling 122,700,000 have passed laws forbidding such treatment. And also that in seven other European nations with 144,450,000 residents there is no fluoridation.

I hear remarks like: "I believe that having my dentist fluoride my teeth has helped but I see no good reason to force everyone to drink fluoride when the only possible good will be to those under thirteen years of age."

I do not propose to be your spokesman. I do hope to help us form a proper position. Tell your town board member how you feel. There is increased cancer danger. I choose to drink unpoluted water. Thank you, Mr. Editor.

Ship the Shah

DEAR EDITOR:

More than 60 American citizens have been held captive at the US embassy in Tehran, Iran since Sunday, November 4, and there exists a very real threat that the hundreds of Americans still living in Iran will be rounded up as hostages also.

Iranian students are responsible for the immediate actions, but they are merely following the guidance of their religious leader, the Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini. The Ayatollah is in sole charge of the government since the resignation of the Iranian Prime Minister Bazargan, although in fact he has been the leader of the people since his return to Iran last February.

This entire affair is so complex and sensitive, there can be no simple solution. The main demand of the students, which has been rejected so far, is that the former Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi be returned to Iran to stand trial for his crimes against the people.

Since the Iranian Revolution erupted full force early this year, one of the US problems has been knowing who to deal with as the official government in Iran. It seems obvious to me that, like the man or not, the Ayatollah is the man the people are following, so we must deal through him.

Our government is seemingly crippled in this matter and aren't sure what actions to take. They are shipping all military weapons to Iran: big deal. Despite pressure from many Americans to act with force, they are currently urging caution in their actions. A poll taken by ABC news showed most Americans polled want the government to settle this diplomatically or to get the Shah out of the country.

Demonstrations against the Iranian Embassy and Iranian students in this country have taken place in several places, and some have suggested we take them hostage. This dismays me, for if we do that, we are no better than the terrorists we decry.

What about the Shah Pahlavi, the man causing all the furor?

What has he done to make the Iranian people hate him so? Perhaps part of the reason is the fact he let thousands of 'his' people live in filthy hovels, while supplying elaborate quarters for his friends and government supporters. Perhaps part of it was the thousands of 'his' people who lived with starvation and illness, while he did nothing to aid them. And perhaps a large part was that he would brook no hint of criticism in his regime. The Shah used his secret police, the Savak, to arrest, torture and imprison Iranians at his whim, and he answered to no one for his actions. The Iranians knew better than to plead for loved ones or friends who were taken into custody, for their fate would be the same if they dared. The people lived in constant fear, not well-taken care of subjects of the Shah, but more like serfs or slaves.

The US refused this man entry into the country, despite heavy pressure from Henry Kissinger and Richard Nixon, until October. Then a personal doctor of John D. Rockefeller, IV, went to Mexico, where the Shah had been admitted, and came back with a tale of woe about the man dying of cancer. President Carter, in a moment of humanitarian weakness, let the Shah enter a New York hospital on Oct. 22. It may well prove to be the worst decision he has made to date.

I am a pacifist, I am a non-violent person, and I am a humanitarian, but I cannot see why we are protecting this cruel, vicious tyrant. Did the US offer political asylum to Adolph Hitler? Of course not. And the only difference between Hitler and Pahlavi is that Hitler was responsible for millions of deaths and the Shah only thousands. Some difference.

The Iranian students have said the hostages will not be harmed unless the US uses force to free them. If we try, the hostages will be executed. I believe they mean it, because they have nothing more to lose.

Without ever having had to live in an oppressed society, it is difficult for us to understand this hostile act of the Iranians. But I think we have to remember that these people were nurtured on terror, oppression and violence; what are a few dozen American lives to them when they are fighting for a greater cause, their own survival as a nation?

Don't get me wrong. I find their act of terrorism reprehensible; but at the same time, I understand their motivation.

Our immediate concern must be for the innocent victims, the hostages. I see no other way for their immediate release other than expelling the Shah out of our country. He has refused to be seen by any Iranian doctors, so I am even skeptical if he is even ill. It has not been proven. Even if he is, I can feel no more sympathy for the man than he felt for 'his' people all those years, and I don't really care if they send him back to Iran or to Mexico or someplace else. I just don't see jeopardizing a single American life for a man such as the Shah Pahlavi.

Wood stoves use increasing in Akron area

by Diana Streevey Bucher

In these days of rising fuel costs and unusually cold winters, more and more local people are turning to a supplementary heating source, that of wood-burning stoves. There are any number of different sizes, styles and price-ranges of wood stoves available, but true wood stoves all fall into one of two general categories, radiant or circulating. Following are some tips and things to remember if you have a wood stove or are considering installing one in your home.

A radiant stove has a single metal shell (called a heat exchanger) that contains the fire. Franklin stoves, log stoves and potbelly stoves are familiar examples of radiant stoves. Heat from this type stove is radiated directly into the room. If the fire is brisk in this stove, the heat immediately around the stove could be intense enough to ignite combustible materials. For this reason, the National Fire Protection Association (NFPA) requires no radiant stove be placed closer than 36 inches from a combustible wall.

Circulating stoves have an inner metal shell, plus an outer metal jacket an inch or so from the inner shell. Openings at the top and bottom of this stove permits a constant upward flow of air whenever the stove is in use, and the airflow carries the heat into the room. This stove is the safest of the two because the outer jacket blocks the heat that would otherwise reach nearby materials. The NFPA allows this type stove to be as close as 12 inches from walls. However, neither a radiant or a circulating stove should be used in a small, confined area because of risk of heat build-up.

Both types of stoves need at least a 36 inch space between the top of the stove and the ceiling. You also should keep stovepipe from being too close to wall or ceiling, as it can get extremely hot. The recommended spacing for stovepipe is at least 18 inches from the wall and ceiling.

If the required stove-to-wall space creates a problem, you can safely get by with less clearance if you add a special wall protection. A simple way to get this protection is to buy sheet metal of at least 28-gauge thickness and mount it 1 inch from the wall on noncombustible blocks.

If a wood stove is mounted on legs that leave at least 4 inches of open space between the bottom of the stove and the floor, it can be placed on a combustible floor, after the floor is properly protected. Again, minimum protection allowed by the NFPA is sheet metal not less than 24-gauge thickness, extending at least 18 inches beyond the stove in the front or on the side where the ashes are removed. Many people use stone, tile, brick or other nonflammable materials around and under their stoves. Carpeting and linoleum are not safe and should never be left unprotected close to a stove.

If you have a non-circulating fireplace and want more efficiency without sacrificing its aesthetic qualities, there are wood stoves designed for use in the fireplace.

Probably the nicest of these is a rectangular log stove with a screen or heat-resistant glass in its doors that fits inside the fireplace. The flue pipe from this model is led directly up the existing chimney and sealed in the opening with an adapter plate that fits the damper opening. These stoves have its own damper. These units are barely noticeable, so it doesn't detract from the beauty of your fireplace.

You can also get an in-the-fireplace stove that projects from a metal panel closing off the fireplace opening so the smoke and fumes rise up the chimney. This projects into the room from the fireplace and it heats like a conventional wood stove. While not as attractive as the log stove, it is as efficient.

Some of the different types of wood stoves include:

Fireplace stove: The free-standing fireplaces that are usually conical and are available in decorator colors are technically considered stoves. They are usually pre-assembled and can vary widely in size, so it is important to follow the manufacturer's instructions as to wall and ceiling clearances and floor protection.

Potbelly Stove: This is particularly good in family or playrooms, as it is rather informal, takes a minimum of space and has a cooktop.

Log or Box Stove: These models range from a simple, unadorned firebox on legs to elaborate, cast-iron models. They also have cooktops.

Franklin Stove: Larger than many of the other models, they resemble a free-standing fireplace. They throw out a larger amount of heat by virtue of the fact they hold more wood.

Woodburning Range: Again, these vary in size, from one or two small burners to several burners and ovens.

You can also get wood stoves in the circulating style that are covered in wood-tone or other decorator finishes. The flue is at the back of these types, so it is inconspicuous.

Words of warning: Only buy safety-approved stoves and always follow the manufacturer's instructions.

--Before you light the first fire of the season, check to make sure the chimney is clear of all debris and the damper open.

--Don't let children play close to a wood stove.

--Don't burn green wood, as it greatly increases the amount of creosote build-up. I will spare the scientific jargon, but green wood leaves a highly-flammable substance, creosote. If allowed to build-up in the chimney, it can ignite and cause a fire. Thus it is recommended you clean the flue frequently, when the fire is out and the stove cold.

There are a number of books about wood stoves, and the Akron Library has one, FIREPLACES AND WOOD STOVES. And there are several places in the area that sell stoves, so if you are considering one, check around for the model that will best suit you. If given the proper attention and respect, a wood stove can be a real asset.

Fluoride controversy—

fluorides in their blood and bones within one or two years. According to "Science News" of October 22, 1977, "Some physicians felt the enforced drinking of fluoridated water would cause such side effects as chronic fatigue, migraine headaches, dermatitis, and kidney ailments in certain persons."

Also at issue is whether or not fluoridation is a form of compulsory medication. Some opponents feel that it is and is also a restriction of religious freedom. Supporters of fluoridation reject these claims and point out that chlorine is also used in water supplies to kill bacteria.

The claims in favor of fluoridation also appear to be numerous. The beneficial effects of fluoride begin in the structure of growing teeth. Fluorides apparently increase the amount of crystal in the tooth enamel and hardens it permanently. While fluorides have much less value for the teeth of adults, some scientists believe that they may be beneficial to bones, particularly in the elderly.

The main contention of supporters of fluoridation is that the practice reduces the incidence of cavities in teeth by as much as 60% to 70%. In fact "Today's Health Guide" published by the AMA states, "It has been thoroughly proved that the addition of minute amounts of fluorine to the public water supply reduces the incidence of dental decay among children by at least 60%." This claim is repeated in "You and Your Health" by Harold Shryock MD, "The Complete Illustrated Book of Better Health" edited by Richard J. Wagman MD and "Encyclopedia Americana".

Some dentists believe that fluoridation provides protection against dental diseases other than decay. They report fewer cases of periodontal diseases and higher incidences of proper positioning of the teeth in areas with fluoridated water.

Proponents of fluoridation reject the charge that the practice may be injurious to health. Jane E. Brody, medical science writer

National Book Week to be observed

National Book Week is being observed November 11-17. The theme is ROOT FOR READING!

There are many good books for all members of the family at the Akron Carnegie Public Library. There is also a good selection of records available for family listening on cool autumn nights. Whether you need information about the managing of your money, new recipes to try on the family, remodeling your home, learning a new craft, writing a term paper or you just want a good book or magazine for a relaxing evening, the Akron Library can fill your need.

The Library is a member of the Teletype System in Indiana and are able to locate almost any book that is not available in the library, and can have it for you in a short time.

Remember, all of these services are free to Fulton county residents and residents of Seward and Franklin townships in Kosciusko county.

for the "New York Times" says "Fluoridation opponents often capitalize on the idea that the element fluorine is highly reactive and can combine with organic matter in drinking water to form potential carcinogens. However, it is not fluorine that is added to fluoridated water but rather fluorides - sodium fluoride, sodium silicofluoride, and fluorosilicic acid - which break up into minute inert particles that cannot combine with organic compounds and thus have no cancer-causing potential.

The 31st edition of "Black's Medical Dictionary" flatly states "if concentration of fluorine does not exceed one part per million, there are no toxic effects."

Take your pick. There seems to be no question over the benefits of fluoridation but the controversy over its potential damage will probably continue for a long time.

Family Life

by Renee Norlander

When you do your grocery shopping do you get confused by such terminology on labels as: "partially hydrogenated," "Polyunsaturated," and "health food"? The FDA is trying to clear up the confusion a little by developing an overall policy for the labeling of food. For instance: "Sugarless" or "Sugar Free" does not mean the product is free of sugars — it's just free of white refined sugar. It still can contain other sugars such as glucose, fructose, xylitol, sorbitol or corn syrup.

The word "natural" can no longer appear on any product that has been more than minimally processed (cutting, grinding or changing the form of the food.) "Organic" applies to foods grown with organic fertilizers and minerals without direct application, as opposed to synthetic fertilizers.

"Hydrogenated" describes the chemical process of adding hydrogen to fat or oil to make it more solid (to turn oil to shortening). The more hydrogenated an oil, the less polyunsaturated it is, which is a concern to those with high cholesterol.

"Fortified" and "enriched" means that vitamins and minerals have been added, not necessarily all but some of them.

It has been recommended that the term "health food" on packaging be prohibited because it cannot be defined or qualified in any meaningful way.

the side lines by Vern Hucks

What can I say? They weren't supposed to, but they did. From the second play of the game, North Judson was never in the ball game. Greg Utter exploded for a 60 yard plus TD and the rout was on one more time.

The Valley defense again deserved a lot of credit. Judson's superb running back Greg Fingerhut, who had over 1000 yards for the regular season, carried the ball 10 times and came away with -4 (you read it right, MINUS 4) yards. Leading ball carrier for the Blue Jays was their quarterback Randy Rowe who had 21 yards on 4 carries. All 21 of Rowe's yards came on one play and he also left the contest on that play due to a severely pulled hamstring. North Judson managed 77 yards and one TD when they went the aerial route but there again, most of the yardage and the touchdown came on one play. The Viking defense was very balanced with seven players accumulating between 10 and 16 tackle points. Herb King was the team leader with 5 tackles (two behind the line of scrimmage) and one assist. Greg Cumberland, Brent Arven, and Greg Utter followed with 13 while Tim Alspaugh and David Leckrone each had 12. Mark Shireman also hit double figures with 10 points.

The Valley offense experienced its second highest yardage total of the year with a 538 yard output. Greg Utter and Tim Alspaugh were the workhorses again, totaling 288 yards between them. Utter, who only played the first half, gained 118 yards to average 10.7 yards for each of his 11 carries. Alspaugh rushed the ball 28 times enroute to a 170 yard performance. David Rhodes completed 8 of 12 passes to chip in the other 164 yards.

What makes the last two victories so impressive to me were the comments made by the opposing coaches after each contest (maybe I should say non-contest). Neither coach complained about Valley "running up the score" and neither was ashamed of how his respective team performed. For those skeptics who complain about the big scores, Valley did not pass in the fourth quarter, third string running back Mark Yates broke a long TD run, and Scott Woods recovered a Blue Jay fumble in the end zone for the Vikes final score. They don't have to run up scores.

With hunting season now here I thought that I'd pass on a few tips that we received from Robert Wilson, Wildlife Biologist from Galveston, Indiana.

1. DO NOT TRESPASS. Make entry only after getting permission from the owner.
2. Try to make arrangements for hunting areas ahead of the opening of the season, for your own benefit as well as the landowner.
3. Don't take advantage of permission to hunt on someone's land. If you have permission for yourself, don't expect it to include a whole carload of buddies.
4. Don't be a game hog. Leave some for next trip or next year.
5. Respect the property you are hunting on. Take care where you shoot and be sure to close any gates that you might open.
6. Use common sense.

After hearing what Mr. Wilson had to say, I was reminded of an older lady who is very dear to me. This lady owns a farm of about 120 acres and asked me to post it for her. I put up 12 signs around the perimeter of her land and all 12 were riddled with bullet holes within a week. She used to give permission to hunt to anyone who had the common courtesy to ask but refuses all except family now. Hunters like to be referred to as "sportsmen" but many don't realize that the word "sportsman" itself carries the obligation of courtesy, respect, and carefulness. If you should find yourself with no place to hunt, don't get mad and shoot the signs; why don't you admit that there is a possibility that you might have contributed to your own problem and help your sport by your attitude and behavior in the field.

Vikings meet Royals in state title clash

by Vern Hucks

Just about the only thing the Valley Vikings have lost this year is the coin flip to decide who gets the good bleachers for the state championship game this Friday. Viking Head Coach Charlie Smith is quick to add that Valley won the toss to decide on the choice of uniforms. The Vikes will be wearing their white uniforms and have never lost in them.

The Viking's opponent for the pot of gold will be the Royals of Hamilton Southeastern. The Royals, like the Vikes, are 12-0 on the season and earned their ticket to Indy by pounding out a 27-0 victory over defending state champ Lawrenceburg last week. That victory, according to Royal coach David Enright, was their high point of the season so far. Enright hopes that the highest point will be at 10:00 Friday night.

The Royals run out of a slot-formation and believe in lots of motion. The real strength of their ball club can be found in their balance. They have passed for over 1500 yards this season while rushing for another 2200. By way of comparison, Tippecanoe Valley has passed for 1,333 yards and rushed for an astonishing 3,804.

The offensive line of Hamilton Southeastern averages just over 200 pounds per man and is anchored by left guard Andy Havelly. Havelly, 5'11" 190 lbs., is described as a "solid" player and also starts at defensive tackle.

Leading ground gainer for the Royals is their tailback Randy Johnson. Johnson is not big (5'8" 150 lbs.) is not particularly fast but has gained 1327 yards so far this year. Enright credits Johnson's good moves for his 6 yard per carry average.

Ron Moyer plays quarterback for Hamilton Southeastern and has thrown for 1559 yards. Moyer completed 52% of his passes and also rushed for four touchdowns this year.

On the receiving end of 16 of Moyer's throws this year has been wide receiver George Cottrell. Cottrell's 16 catches have been good for 365 yards, an average of almost 23 yards, and 5 touchdowns. Cottrell is probably one of the three or four Royals who can break the 5-second mark in the 40 yard dash so his speed is not suspect.

Valley's offense is coordinated by field general David Rhodes. Rhodes' passing yardage is a little less than Moyer's (1,559 for Moyer to 1,297 for Rhodes) but he has hit on 61 of 108 passes this season for a 56.5% completion record. Rhodes' passes average 21.3 yards per completion and have been good for 11 touchdowns and 10 two point conversions. Rhodes can credit his offensive line for protection as he has only been caught behind the line of scrimmage twice. Both came on broken plays.

Rhodes' three favorite targets this year have been Joe Harter, David Newlin, and Bill Jamison. Harter has been the most prolific of the trio snagging 22 passes for 478 yards and 32 points. Newlin missed a good share of the season due to a broken hand but has returned strong. He has eight receptions and averages 26.8 yards per catch.

Bill Jamison is one of the most versatile players that the Vikings put on the field. Jamison plays both flanker and halfback. He has caught 13 passes for 261 yards and rushed 53 times for 331 yards. Jamison has chipped in 40 points to the Valley effort and Smith calls him "one of our most improved players."

The one-two punch in the Viking attack are the running duo of Greg Utter and Tim Alspaugh. Opposing teams have made the mistake of keying on either one this year. Utter's 10.42 yards per carry average is the best in the history of the school and Alspaugh's 250 regular season points are the best in the history of the state. Utter has amassed a total of 1,450 yards. For the year to date, Utter has 116 points and Alspaugh has added 296.

The Royals will try to stop the explosive Viking offense with a defense led by UPI All-State 1st Team defensive back Rod Coffee. Coffee is perhaps the quickest Royal running in a 4.8 forty. Coffee and Steve Ponsler are tied with five interceptions and two other Royal backs have four each.

Brian Woods leads the team in tackles from his middle linebacker spot. Woods is 5'9" 160 pounds and also starts at fullback on offense.

Hamilton Southeastern's defensive line goes about 185 pounds per man and will use, says Coach Smith "more defensive sets than you can shake a stick at." The only new twist for the Vikes will be facing a 4-3 defense which the Royals employ from time to time.

Defensive tackle Mike Louthan at 5'11" and 190 pounds is reported to be the strongest player on the Royal squad. According to Coach Enright, Louthan bench presses 300 pounds. He is joined at tackle by Andy Havelly and Darrell Brown holds down one defensive end spot. Brown has recently been starting at offensive center also.

The Royal defense has given up 109 points this year as compared to 59 given up by the Vikes. Breaking it down even further, Hamilton SE gives up about 9 points per game and Valley only 5.

The Viking defenders have been especially tough against the ground game allowing only 1.82 yards per rushing play. They have given up 783 passing yards but have also picked off 14 passes. David Rhodes leads the secondary with five interceptions.

Royal coach Enright has said that "Valley has scored more points, gained more yards, their line has opened more holes, they've given up fewer yards and fewer points and there is no way we can match up." Enright adds that the sad thing about all he's heard about the "Big Green Machine" is that it's all true. Enright's ace in the hole is his defensive innovation, the 5-5-5 set. He added though, "that might not contain them."

TV Board hear architect's proposals for new school

by Diana Streevey Bucher

A regular meeting of the Tippecanoe Valley School Board was held November 19 at the high school. All board members were present.

Three consultants from the architectural firm of Daverman's Associates were present to present five options to the Building Advisory Committee concerning possible renovation of the existing grade schools and/or the building of a new middle school. Approximately 35 members of the Building Advisory Committee were on hand to examine the five schemes. These basic options include:

1) Renovating the Akron and Mentone grade schools to accommodate between 675-750 students each, grades K-8, and renovating Burket grade school to accommodate 160 students, grades K-5. This plan would cost approximately $10,350,000.

2) Renovating the three schools; Mentone to accommodate 675-750 students, grades K-8, but transferring approximately 150 students from Akron to Burket. Thus Akron would accommodate 550-600, grades K-8, and Burket 300-350 students, grades K-5. This option would cost approximately $11,070,000.

3) Option 3 would include a new middle school. Renovation would enable all three grade schools in the corporation to accommodate grades K-5, while grades 6-8 would attend the middle school. The student break-down would be: Akron, 425-500 students; Mentone, 425-500 students; Burket 160 students, and the middle school 500 students. Cost would be $10,017,000.

4) This scheme would again involve transferring students from Akron to Burket and building the middle school. Akron would accommodate 300-350 students, grades K-5, Mentone would accommodate 425-500 students, grades K-5, Burket would accommodate 300-350 students, grades 1-5, and the middle school would accommodate 500 students, grades 6-8 for a total cost of $10,387,000.

5) This fifth option, and the one the architects recommended, was to eliminate the Burket school entirely and send those 150 children to Mentone. Thus, Mentone would accommodate 600-650 students, grades K-5, Akron 500 students, grades K-5, and the middle school would accommodate approximately 500 students, grades 6-8. Cost for this plan would be $9,437,000. By eliminating the renovation of the Burket school and adding an extra 10,000 sq. ft. to Mentone, they estimate $1 million can be saved.

Board member Lee Norris requested Daverman's Associates check in to another option. He wanted them to explore the possibility of using the present schools at Akron and Mentone as they are now, then adding what is necessary to serve K-8. The architects replied that under present state law, if the existing buildings are not renovated at all, the improvements would have to be as free-standing buildings, with no connection to the present buildings.

A member of the Building Advisory Committee questioned why the corporation couldn't use the existing facilities as they are, and a representative from Daverman's answered that present state law requires a minimum of 900 sq. ft. to a classroom. The existing structures do not comply with this law. When further questioned what repercussions there would be if the schools are not renovated, the architect said probably the corporation could continue for an indefinite period of time as it is now, but eventually the schools could lose accreditation. The member of the audience then said it would be more economical to hire extra teachers for the schools than to renovate or build.

In response to a question by board member Vern Meredith, Dr. Harrell reported between 75-80% of the school's budget goes to salaries, thereby it would not be cheaper to hire more teachers. Board member Don Snipes added that energy costs in the older buildings are not economical. One of the architects agreed it would be more economical to heat the new middle school than renovate the present structures.

Roy Meredith asked how much it still owed on the high school, and Dr. Harrell told him approximately $2,800,000.

In other business:

A report was given on the adult education program in the corporation.

For the semester, there were two woodworking classes, two cake decorating classes, and one class each in first aid, and CPR, arts and crafts, microwave cooking, bus driving, tumbling and baton, and an antiques seminar. Next semester ladies recreation class will be added, and an adult advisory committee may be established to report on possible adult classes the community wants.

It was reported there are 30-31 adults in the adult education program at Burket school. The program received a good evaluation from the state on October 25.

School Board added names to the Building Advisory Committee in a non-voting capacity.

Dr. Harrell reported the school's finances are being audited for the last two years.

Board unanimously passed a resolution commending the football teams and coaches for their achievements this season.

Principals reported the recent Parent-Teachers conferences were well attended by parents.

High School Principal Loren Skinner reported Dec. 5 was the date set for the Fall Banquet for all the fall sports.

A tentative special board meeting to receive the Building Advisory Committee's recommendations was set for Dec. 6 at 7:30. On a motion made by Don Snipes and seconded by Everett Beeson, the meeting was adjourned.

Further notes on the Building Advisory Committee (BAC) meeting:

Amid heated discussion, in which the younger members of the BAC seemed to favor the new middle school and older members of the committee seemed to favor maintaining the three separate schools. The BAC decided upon the recommendation they will present to the school board. On Dec. 6, at the special board meeting, the BAC will advise the board to accept Option 1. Voting was by ballot, with the members listing their choices in order of acceptability.

They could list as many or as few of the options as they felt were acceptable. The final tally was: Option 1, 19 votes; Option 2, 11 votes; Option 3, 10 votes; Option 4, 11 votes; and Option 5, 11 votes. A sixth option (eliminating both Burket and the middle school and transferring Burket's pupils to Mentone) received 9 votes.

The final decision on this matter rests with the school board. They may either accept or reject the BAC's recommendations.

Area Indian history

Moccasins in Mentone area?

by Eula Romayne Smith

We know about Squanto and the Pilgrims. We have heard of the Apaches in the Southwest and the battle of Little Big Horn, but who were the Indians in this area? Whose moccasins walked in Mentone?

We may never find the complete answer, but historians give us some clues. However, there was little or no written history of the Indians of the Midwest until the French came about three hundred years ago. By the time the settlers arrived, one hundred fifty years ago, northern Indiana was inhabited by Potawatomes and Miamis.

According to Indian tradition the Potawatomes were originally part of the Algonquin tribe that lived in eastern Canada. The word "Potawatomie" means fire blowers, or place of fire, and implies that they are independent enough to kindle their own council fires. Miamis are also of the Algonquin stock.

Most Indians were given a name which described them or something in their surroundings. Frances Slocum, a white girl captured by the Indians, was called Maconaquah, which described her ability to work hard even though she was not a large woman.

Quite a variety of spellings resulted when Americans tried to record Indian names as they sounded.

The French and American traders who married Indian women brought names that are more familiar to us, and the idea of a first and last name. Several Indians in the 1800's were known by both an Indian and an English-American name. One example was Chop-y-tuck, also known as John Payne.

Chop-y-tuck owned the land where Harrison Center Church is. He was granted one section (640 acres) at the treaty made along the Tippecanoe River, (north of Rochester) in 1832.

Land was given to chiefs, students, and those with special claims. A Baptist preacher named Isaac McCoy had a school for Indians, first at Fort Wayne, and later near Niles, Michigan. One of his students, Miss No-qui, was granted four sections. One of these was west of Chop-y-tuck's land and another was along the Tippecanoe River. Mellotts own some of this land now. The land records described her as "Miss No-qui, chieftess," and when she sold the land, she was living west of the Mississippi.

CHIEF MUSQUAWBUCK

Be-siah received two sections here and two near Hobart, Indiana. He owned the north west corner of Sevastopol, and the land two miles west.

We can't be sure that any of these three actually lived here, but some Indians did. The Combination Atlas of Kosciusko County tells us that when Benjamin Blue settled in what would later become the south part of Mentone, his neighbors were peaceable Potawatomes.

Goldie Kesler said her grandmother Teel recalled Indians camping along Yellow Creek at Twin Bridges. Another family tells of Indians who came up and looked in the mirror on the back porch of a cabin north of Rex Witham's.

Trimble Creek flows north from Palestine Lake and joins Tippecanoe River just west of Crystal Lake. An Indian trail ran roughly parallel to the creek, but on higher ground. Through the years Harrison Township residents have found artifacts near this trail.

An Indian named Topash lived along Trimble Creek, so we can imagine that the women of his family put shelled corn into a large hollowed out stone, and pounded it into meal with a smooth stone held in their hands.

Kosciusko County histories describe the Potawatomi chiefs who lived along the Tippecanoe River. North, near Lake Tippecanoe was a well built man in his sixties called Musquawbuck. He was the father of four boys: the twins, Macose and Mazette; John, who was killed in a fight; and Bill. Bill attended school with the white children in Indiana and really hated to move West. Later he became chief of his tribe in Kansas.

About a hundred people lived in Monoquet's village north of Warsaw. When Chief Monoquet died, his people placed his body in a sitting position on top of the ground and protected it with a pen of poles.

Another Indian who may have walked where we do, was Anthony Nigo, born in Kosciusko County about 1805. His father was a Potawatome, and his mother was a Miami. When Anthony was twenty three, he joined the Catholic Church at Menominee's Village (near Plymouth) and was married there to Angeline, who was part French and part Indian.

According to their custom, a man belongs to his mother's tribe, so he was not forced to leave with the Potawatomes. He became a respected citizen of Marshall County and was honored when the Mentone Chapter of Daughters of the American Revolution was named for him.

Akron Lions hear program on Valley Adult Education

Tuesday evening the Akron Lions Club met for their November meeting. Acting president, Earl Hoffman, told of the progress of the remodeling of the den to make it more convenient for older citizens and the handicapped. The work on the kitchen is about finished. The ramp should be completed soon. However the modernization of the restrooms is still in the planning stage. Club members decided to begin sales of citrus fruit and invite purchases from the community. This is a way to earn money for community projects. This excellent fruit may be purchased from any club member.

Lion Hoffman reported that the director of the Senior Citizen Nutrition Program is so well satisfied with the way the program is being received and of their appreciation for the use of the Lions Den.

The Club is considering replacing the flags at the Boy Scout cabin.

Concern was expressed as to the health of Lion James Hall who had a severe heart attack a few weeks ago. The December meeting will be a Ladies Night at Teels with the program to be put on by the Grace College Christmas Choir.

The program for the evening had to do with local adult education. Richard Ralston of the Tippecanoe Valley teaching staff, told of the many who had earned their high school diploma equivalent. And of the program to teach adults to read and to write. Besides that are the many courses of special interest. The local program is definitely above average.

Area cattle rustling still big business

by Vern Hucks

A hundred years ago, a man could be dangled from a tall tree with a short rope for the theft of livestock. Those early rustlers would have been astonished if they could have known about the money that's being made in their profession today. In 1978, over $70,000.00 worth of Indiana livestock was reported stolen to the Indiana State Police alone. Fulton County Sheriff Robert Newgent reports that 22 market hogs and one sow were reported stolen to his office during a recent month. Kosciusko County has fared a little better. Sheriff Al Roventine says that for the last year, only 20 hogs and not more than 5 head of cattle have been reported as stolen.

In an effort to curtail this rise in livestock thefts, the Indiana Department of Commerce has organized the Livestock Theft Alert Program. This program has united the local authorities and State Police with the State Board of Health, State Board of Animal Health, the USDA

Meat and Poultry Inspector, and the State Division of Agriculture. When the theft of livestock is reported to law enforcement authorities, the message is relayed to these agencies and the sale of stolen animals to meat processors is made more difficult.

The Commerce Department is also stressing the importance of branding or otherwise marking livestock as an aid in the deterrent of theft. The Livestock Brand Law of 1977 allows for the registration and ownership of specific brands and allows them to be used in court as proof of ownership.

Brands may be registered through the Division of Agriculture, Department of Commerce, 440 No. Meridian, Indianapolis, IN 46204.

Lieutenant Governor Robert D. Orr, director of the Commerce Department, stressed that for the Livestock Theft Alert Program to be effective, all livestock thefts must be reported immediately and all owners should brand their animals.

It Happened in Mentone

Taken from the November 19, 1952 issue of The Northern Indiana Co-Op News:

At the meeting held Tuesday evening the Mentone Post of the American Legion voted to have a Christmas treat for all the youngsters and also to entertain them with a free movie.

Richard Deafenbaugh, of Warsaw, spent Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Kohr.

Mrs. Charles Nadeford, Mrs. Harry Berger of Gilead were Friday guests at a supper carried in dinner at the home of Jennie Thomas.

Neighbors and friends of the Paul Cumberland family came to their place Monday afternoon of last week and picked corn. Mr. Cumberland, who was in our office the fore part of the week showing us a few of the scars upon his legs, narrowly escaped death when his clothing got caught in the power take-off while operating his corn picker. Before he knew what was happening the shaft started winding up his trousers. He braced himself the best he could but it just kept rolling up his clothes, tearing deep gashes in his legs as it went. Once or twice it grabbed his coat sleeve but he managed, by almost superhuman effort, to pull it free again. But nothing seemed to stop the monstrous thing that was grinding away at him. As all hope seemed to vanish, the motor finally gave up. Paul said the only clothes he had left was a band about a foot wide up around his neck and shoulders.

Mrs. Tessie Newton spent Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Newton of Burket.

Mr. and Mrs. DeVon Hirschman, of northwest of Mentone, are the parents of a seven pound, three ounce son, born at 12:05 a.m. Wednesday morning at the Murphy Medical Center in Warsaw.

The NEWS asks:

"Has the drastic rise in the price of gasoline caused you and your family to cut back on the amount of driving you do?"

Evelyn Shafer, Akron: "I don't believe so. I believe they go when they have to go. I try to make one trip do for two or three, but that's just me. My family goes as they need to."

Yvonne Ware, Mentone: "It hasn't affected me because I don't have a car anymore. If I have to go somewhere my daughter takes me."

Christa England, Mentone: "I don't know if it was the price or my husband! If I have to go get something, I try to get things together and make one trip do instead of several, or I use a car pool."

Diana

Freda Graham, Akron: "No, because we don't do much driving and we don't go far. We go to Rochester once or twice a week and to church and to the neighbors. That's about all the driving we've done in the past several months."

Don Smiley, Mentone: "Yes, absolutely. Not to say that I have drastically cut back on only my driving, but I feel I have done other things to cut back on gas. For example, I try not to make unnecessary trips to town or exceed the 55 mph speed limit. I feel the oil companies are very powerful and have too much control of the government, and they have set things the way they want."

With Winter Coming On It's Time To Talk About

ENERGY SUPPLY, HEATING COSTS, METER READING, ESTIMATED BILLS AND CONSERVATION

It won't be too long until winter rolls around again. Hopefully it won't be another record breaker. However, we've been getting ready for it, doing our best to make sure you have enough energy to get through the upcoming cold weather.

Energy Supply

Here at NIPSCO we've been preparing for your winter needs by stocking up on gas reserves and improving gas supply. So, barring any unforeseen curtailment by our suppliers, mechanical problems or diversion of supply by the Federal government, we will be able to meet your natural gas energy needs this winter, even if it matches the winter of 1977-1978, the coldest on record.

Lower Temperatures, Higher Bills

As you know, when the thermometer readings drop, heating bills rise, regardless of the fuel used.

Energy costs will be higher this winter. Gas rates are going up due principally to purchased gas costs. These costs are added to your charges through the purchased gas adjustments only when they have been authorized by the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission and approved by the Public Service Commission of Indiana. (NIPSCO does not realize one cent of profit from these purchased gas adjustments. Increased revenues resulting from them go directly to pipeline supply companies—on a dollar for dollar basis—to pay for the increased cost of natural gas.)

However, if you have natural gas heating in your home, you have the least expensive fuel available for this purpose in northern Indiana—the cleanest and most efficient, too.

These costs most likely will increase further—due to additional increases in the cost of purchased gas—as the winter goes on.

Bill Paying Assistance

If NIPSCO winter service bills become a problem for you, we might be able to help.

It's most important however, to call or stop in at your local NIPSCO customer service office before the bill is due. It's possible we can find a way to spread out your payments, and make it a little easier to settle up your account.

Also, several Federal, state and local agencies are in a position to assume all or part of your utility payments if you qualify for their assistance.

Equal Payment Plan

One way to spread out your winter heating costs is to join NIPSCO's Equal Payment Plan. You can start in any month and the budget payment period ends with the May service bill. Your estimated usage—based on past consumption—is divided into equal monthly payments. You receive a bill for the same amount each month.

Any difference between the actual amount used and the amount you are billed will be reflected in the May service bill. You will pay only for the energy used, based on actual meter readings.

Interest is not paid on any credit balance that might accumulate during the early part of the budget year, nor is any interest charged for any debit balance that may be due at the end of the budget year.

Meter Reading and Estimated Bills

No one—particularly NIPSCO—likes estimated bills; but sometimes they are necessary because of circumstances beyond our control. Meters at times are not read because of inclement weather, meter inside and customer not home, pets not confined, meters covered with snow and ice, gates locked, etc.

If we cannot read your meter, we send an estimated bill. An estimated bill is actually computed from your past energy usage and it also includes changes in energy consumption based on weather conditions. It is not a figure picked out of the air.

And you will pay only for the energy you use—no more, no less. The difference between a bill based on estimated usage and your actual usage will be adjusted on your next bill, once an actual meter reading has been obtained.

Four Ways To Save Energy This Winter

By far the largest portion of your residential energy costs are from home heating. This is why it's especially important to avoid wasting energy during the heating season.

Basically, there are four ways to do this: weatherproof your home, maintain your heating system, lower your thermostat and purchase energy-efficient appliances.

Our Job Is To Serve You

As your energy company, we are interested in providing you with the best possible service. If you have any questions about your energy supply, service charges, meter reading, estimated bills, energy conservation—or any NIPSCO matter—call or stop in at your nearest NIPSCO customer service office. We'll do our very best to help you.

Free Energy Conservation Booklet

Wise use of gas in the home can help hold down rising utility bills and conserve our nation's energy supply. NIPSCO has published a new booklet, "99 Ways To Conserve Energy," and it's available free from your local NIPSCO customer service office.

Pick up a copy of this informative booklet which contains many important energy savings suggestions.

This winter—and all year 'round—

I haven't said anything before now about the Vikings and Coach Smith and a state title because it never fails. Once I come out in the open, and admit I'm rooting for a team, they undoubtedly lose. So, I kept my trap closed all season and look at what happened. THEY WON!! Our terrific Tippecanoe Valley Vikings won their State Championship!

I must say that I never had any doubts. Vern and Bob kept on and on about how great the team and coaches were all year, and then when they were undefeated going into the finals, well, we all knew didn't we? What scores! I mean I knew the team was good, but they really were unbelievable.

All I can say now is CONGRATULATIONS!! To the team, coaches, the parents, and everyone involved in making such a terrific TEAM out of a group of guys! You all deserve to be proud of yourselves. The entire area certainly is! You really put us on the map!!

Well, Thanksgiving is upon us again, and the holiday season is beginning again. This really is my favorite time of the year. I love buying gifts for the people I care most about. Trying to select something you hope they'll need and like. And cards! I love writing Christmas cards. Every year I look and look for just the right cards, and what's funny is that I know exactly when I find the right ones. They practically jump out at me. I've already found the perfect ones for this Christmas, so I'll be getting started on those soon.

The holidays are so terrific. Families together, food abundant, gifts and fun. But let's don't forget WHY we celebrate. And, if you know someone who's going to be alone over Thanksgiving or Christmas, why not invite them to your home? What's one more person?

Anyway, happy Thanksgiving to all of you! And congratulations to the winners of the Akron give-away turkeys. Happy eating!

Valley wins Class A state football title!

Just how good are the Vikings?

We may never know how far they would have gone against bigger schools but they had no trouble demolishing 13 opponents this season enroute to their first State Class A Championship. Against their three post-season opponents, the cream of the crop, the Vikes won by an average margin of over 51 points.

Any doubting Thomases from south of Indy should be convinced of the superiority of this team by their performance in the championship game. The Valley got into the championship game record book numerous times (see box located elsewhere) while pinning a 44 to 14 loss on previously unbeaten Hamilton Southeastern. The Royals were a worthy opponent and probably shut off the patented Viking trapping offense better than any team Valley faced this season. Southeastern put two real blue-chip players on the field in the persons of defensive back Rod Coffee and defensive tackle Mike Louthan. Louthan was the strongest lineman the Valley offense faced this year but the offensive line was aetina such a surge, his strength was negated. Overall, the Royals just could not match up with Valley's strength, speed, and smarts.

Tim Alspaugh was the workhorse for Valley carrying the ball 40 times for 234 yards, both records. Greg Utter did a superb job of blocking for Alspaugh and still managed 72 rushing yards on 14 attempts. David Rhodes maintained his completion average completing 6 of 10 passes for 113 yards and one TD. The lone passing touchdown was to Joe Harter who also caught three other passes for a total of 64 yards.

Harter played what was probably his best game of the season as he also came away with two interceptions. Bill Janison picked off two Royal pass attempts and returned one of them a record-setting 60 yards for a Valley touchdown. Greg Cumberland proved to be a thorn in Southeastern's flesh. The Royals double and triple teamed Cumberland but still couldn't handle him. Despite all the extra attention, Greg managed 5 tackles, 2 behind the line of scrimmage, and 3 assists. Herb King totaled 10 tackle points and came up with a Royal fumble of a Gilbert Martens squib kick-off.

Some people may have wondered what happed to Marten's kicking abilities, but the squib kicks were strategy. The idea was to keep the ball away from Rod Coffee, and if you witnessed his beautiful return for a TD, you can appreciate the wisdom of that strategy.

Overall, Tippecanoe Valley did nothing to surprise their fans. Valley followers have been treated to such excellent football this season that they expect it. Even though they expect it, they still appreciate it. Thanks again Vikes, for a season full of thrills and satisfaction. We loved it.

Roll over Hamilton SE 44-14

Vikes are state champs!

TIM ALSPAUGH, behind excellent blocking, prepares to power ahead for five of his record-shattering 234 rushing yards. Alspaugh carried the ball 40 times during the game, also a record. NEWS photo

Girls take season opener

The Tippecanoe Valley girl's basketball team picked up where the football team left off by dumping Whitko 44-37. The Vikings waited until the fourth quarter to make their move and then outscored the Wildcats 15-8 for the win.

Kay Hively and Sue Gall came off the bench to score 12 points each and lead the winners. Gall also led the team in rebounds with 8 while Carleen Clamplitt added 5 steals.

High scorer for the game was Terri Gable of Whitko with 14 points.

Valley's next game will be at home against Southwood on Monday, November 26. Tip-off time will be at 6:30.

beat 'em all!

BILL JAMISON leaves no doubt about who is Number One. Seconds earlier, Jamison had electrified the crowd with a championship game record-breaking 60 yard pass interception return for a Viking TD.

It's crying time again

DENISE JENKINS, girls basketball coach at Culver High School, had the dubious distinction of being awarded the first annual Mentone Lions "Crying Towel" in a special ceremony held November 7. Other coaches present and honored (?) were Donna Cheney of Plymouth, Mary Hurley of Warsaw, Jim Myers of Manchester, and Tippecanoe Valley's very own Joyce Harmon. Each coach was given an opportunity to "cry" about the negative aspects of their respective teams but Ms. Jenkins was a shoo-in for the award after producing a tape of her team singing. The clincher was that "they sang better than they play basketball." From the sounds of the tape, Culver is in for a long, long season.

4-Way Ambulance Board votes to help buy "Jaws"

by Gene Hughes, Secretary

At a recent board of directors meeting of the 4-Way Ambulance Service, Inc. several members of the Mentone Fire Department were present to express their desire to man and purchase a "Jaws" extricator unit.

Frank Hardesty, speaking for the Fire Department, reported that the total cost of this unit would be $7,900.00. He stated that the Tri-Township Fire Control Board had agreed to pay 1/2 of this cost. The Fire Department will pay 1/4 of the total and requested that the EMS pay the other 1/4. Frank also reported that letters had been sent to all outlying townships and fire departments in hope that they might be willing to make donations. He stressed that while there would not be an active campaign to solicit donations - any business, organization or individual desiring to help would certainly be accepted and appreciated.

President Frank Manwaring led the board through a discussion on the benefits such a unit could be to the EMT's in auto, farm and industrial accidents. Also stressed was the fact that since 4-Way Ambulance Service is completely self-supporting (that is they receive NO tax monies) that their share of the money would be coming from the fund which is being accumulated to replace the now nearly seven year old ambulance. The board then voted to help buy the "Jaws" unit.

In other board action, Larry Pyle, President of the 4-Way EMT's, reported an urgent need for more EMT's to lighten the burden of the present 12 volunteers and 5 drivers. In response the board voted to fully re-imburse the course fee to anyone after they have successfully completed the course and have served as an EMT for a period of one year.

Berry
unusual

Mrs. Ethel Hoffman, South Virgil St. in Akron, was looking out her sewing room window Tuesday, and found a newly ripe strawberry growing near her home. The berry, rarely a plant to ripen in winter, was plump and juicy according to Mrs. Hoffman, and she is now attempting to grow more inside her home.

With Winter Coming On It's Time To Talk About

ENERGY SUPPLY, HEATING COSTS, METER READING, ESTIMATED BILLS AND CONSERVATION

It won't be too long until winter rolls around again. Hopefully it won't be another record breaker. However, we've been getting ready for it, doing our best to make sure you have enough energy to get through the upcoming cold weather.

Energy Supply

Here at NIPSCO we've been preparing for your winter needs by stocking up on gas reserves and improving gas supply. So, barring any unforeseen curtailment by our suppliers, mechanical problems or diversion of supply by the Federal government, we will be able to meet your natural gas energy needs this winter, even if it matches the winter of 1977-1978, the coldest on record.

Lower Temperatures, Higher Bills

As you know, when the thermometer readings drop, heating bills rise, regardless of the fuel used.

Energy costs will be higher this winter. Gas rates are going up due principally to purchased gas costs. These costs are added to your charges through the purchased gas adjustments only when they have been authorized by the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission and approved by the Public Service Commission of Indiana. (NIPSCO does not realize one cent of profit from these purchased gas adjustments. Increased revenues resulting from them go directly to pipeline supply companies—on a dollar for dollar basis—to pay for the increased cost of natural gas.)

However, if you have natural gas heating in your home, you have the least expensive fuel available for this purpose in northern Indiana—the cleanest and most efficient, too.

These costs most likely will increase further—due to additional increases in the cost of purchased gas—as the winter goes on.

Bill Paying Assistance

If NIPSCO winter service bills become a problem for you, we might be able to help.

It's most important however, to call or stop in at your local NIPSCO customer service office before the bill is due. It's possible we can find a way to spread out your payments, and make it a little easier to settle up your account.

Also, several Federal, state and local agencies are in a position to assume all or part of your utility payments if you qualify for their assistance.

Equal Payment Plan

One way to spread out your winter heating costs is to join NIPSCO's Equal Payment Plan. You can start in any month and the budget payment period ends with the May service bill. Your estimated usage—based on past consumption—is divided into equal monthly payments. You receive a bill for the same amount each month.

Any difference between the actual amount used and the amount you are billed will be reflected in the May service bill. You will pay only for the energy used, based on actual meter readings.

Interest is not paid on any credit balance that might accumulate during the early part of the budget year, nor is any interest charged for any debit balance that may be due at the end of the budget year.

Meter Reading and Estimated Bills

No one—particularly NIPSCO—likes estimated bills; but sometimes they are necessary because of circumstances beyond our control. Meters at times are not read because of inclement weather, meter inside and customer not home, pets not confined, meters covered with snow and ice, gates locked, etc.

If we cannot read your meter, we send an estimated bill. An estimated bill is actually computed from your past energy usage and it also includes changes in energy consumption based on weather conditions. It is not a figure picked out of the air.

And you will pay only for the energy you use—no more, no less. The difference between a bill based on estimated usage and your actual usage will be adjusted on your next bill, once an actual meter reading has been obtained.

Four Ways To Save Energy This Winter

By far the largest portion of your residential energy costs are from homeheating. This is why it's especially important to avoid wasting energy during the heating season.

Basically, there are four ways to do this: weatherproof your home, maintain your heating system, lower your thermostat and purchase energy-efficient appliances.

Our Job Is To Serve You

As your energy company, we are interested in providing you with the best possible service. If you have any questions about your energy supply, service charges, meter reading, estimated bills, energy conservation—or any NIPSCO matter—call or stop in at your nearest NIPSCO customer service office. We'll do our very best to help you.

Free Energy Conservation Booklet

Wide use of gas in the home can help hold down rising utility bills and conserve our nation's energy supply. NIPSCO has published a new booklet, "99 Ways To Conserve Energy," and it's available free from your local NIPSCO customer service office.

Pick up a copy of this informative booklet which contains many important energy savings suggestions.

This sign greets you as you approach the fully restored 1830's log cabin of the Kelsay family.

by Diana Streevey Bucher

"My impression is he doesn't think of what he does, it just happens. He doesn't work intellectually, he works emotionally." This is the way Maria Kelsay describes her husband's artistic manner, and Bruce Kelsay tends to agree with her.

Kelsay, of Rte. 1, Silver Lake, works with wood carving, wood-burning, stone sculpture, pastels and sketching, when he isn't working at his job as a cable splicer for General Telephone or remodeling the 143 year-old log cabin he and his family inhabit. In actual fact, the Kelsay's home somewhat resembles an art gallery, as it has been generously decorated with all forms of his artwork. He has hand-carved all the furniture in their home, everything from a trestle table to nightstands and end tables; a massive china cabinet to bathroom shutters; an intricately designed four-poster bed to hanging lamps. The walls are decorated with assorted woodburnings, sketches, and hand-carved wall sconces. Further proof of Kelsay's dedication to his art can be seen in the large heads and figures carved from wood and sculpted in stone.

But Kelsay's imagination and skill cannot be confined within four walls. If you stroll around part of the 40-acre homestead, you will find various pieces, both large and small, that he and his wife have placed to give their yard and garden an individual flair. There are benches beside rock gardens and flowers, a picnic table beside a bridge to span a small creek, logs surrounding a permanent bonfire site, and a beautiful deck on top of a wooded hill that overlooks their home and land.

Bruce Kelsay was born and raised in Amboy, Indiana, and he has been working with his hands for as long as he can remember.

"Even in grade school I always drew things for school holidays and special occasions...When I was 10, 11, 12, I was always taking scrap wood from a cabinet factory and painting scenes, especially Christmas scenes, on them to give as presents. And I even did a bust of Homer and one of James Dean in clay when I was 15 or 16. I've always done things."

Kelsay moved to New York in 1961 after a stint in the Air Force. He was accepted in the Neighborhood Playhouse, a professional school for actors, where he studied under such renowned instructors as Sandy Meisner, Martha Graham, and David Pressman. In 1967 he married Maria Thiesen, a native New Yorker, and in 1971 they moved back to Indiana.

During the time he lived in New York City, Kelsay started making furniture, and when he and Maria married, he continued to furnish their home. This would perhaps be unremarkable in itself, except for the fact that he had no experience, formal training, or assistance in his carpentry; his skills are entirely self-taught.

Four years ago the Kelsay's were looking for a new home, as the house they were renting was getting to be too small for their family of four boys. They stumbled onto an uninhabitable log cabin that had been built in 1836, and Kelsay immediately envisioned it as their dream home. Although Maria was less enthusiastic, they bought it and began renovation. What was once 'a dump' (Kelsay's description) is now the showplace that reflects the couple's lifestyle and imagination.

But Kelsay is still far from being finished. He has renovated most of the downstairs and one room upstairs, but there is still a lot to be done before they will be satisfied.

Kelsay had an exhibition this last September at The Little Gallery at Honeywell Center in Wabash, and he is planning to exhibit some of his work at various business establishments around the area. Eventually he would like to have a studio and exhibit his work in professional circles.

"I feel like I'm a master craftsman, is that a terrible ego? But I think any creative person must have confidence in his skill and ability to create, or he would give up his art. Maybe that's the difference between an amateur and a professional...

"I would like to create a whole Utopia here (on his land). I want to eventually have a stone circle, like the Druids had, on the highest hill on our land. They used their stone circle in conjunction with the stars to chart the seasons..."

"I get a lot of my ideas for wood-burning by looking through books and magazines on different cultures, like the ancient Egyptians and other primitive societies. Sometimes I will just start carving if it's a small piece I'm working on, but on larger pieces I must have some structured ideas before I start..."

"I always want to get a tremendous amount of feeling, capture a mood, make a statement in my work. Maybe you can call it mystical. There is a mysterious feeling which sets an artist apart from other people. I'm developing in art forms I'd never been into before, and I've never taken lessons or had instructions.

"You can get possessed with some of the art forms, like it's a magnet, especially wood and stone. People who work with sculpture or carving, like the primitive Indians, Eskimos, or Africans...they believe in their stone and wood. The shape of a stone can dominate you and tell you what it wants to be, it suggests things to you. For instance, in primitive societies they would take a large, round stone and fashion a large, round head or body, and we know their cultures by the sculpture they left behind. The ancient cultures were very spiritual and their art reflects this by their images and Gods and symbols. It's beautiful."

"I am influenced in my art by these primitive cultures, ancient religions, and paganistic rituals. It is hard to say what my favorite form of art is. I like working with wood, carving and woodburning.

Bruce with a sample of his craft.

Maybe that's my best work because I like doing it so well."

Regardless of which of his work you prefer, it is difficult not to admire and appreciate all of it. When you speak to Kelsay of the art he so obviously loves, it does seem to take on a mystical quality. I think his wife expressed it best when she said, "Bruce is an artist and has a very creative mind. He can look at something and not see it as it is, but as he wants it to be."

Indeed, that is an art.

The Kelsay boys (Brendan, Alexander, Jessamy and Devin) enjoy their lunch at the trestle table built by their father.

Original Budweiser Clydesdale from Akron

by Eula Romayne Smith

An expectant mother, named Laura knew, on Halloween night, that it was time to send for the doctor. This was ninety years ago, and there was no telephone in that Seward Township home, so a neighbor, J. P. Robinson, started out on horseback to Silver Lake, to fetch Dr. Ira Leckrone while Mrs. Robinson stayed with Laura. Wouldn't you know that it would be pouring down rain, and the horse had to wade mud, belly deep in places? Pranksters had built rail fences across the road and put corn shocks in the road, which had to be removed before the doctor could get through with his buggy. After running this obstacle course, the doctor reached Laura's home, only to find that twin girls had already arrived and that the mother and daughters were doing fine. Lula and Bula were born after midnight - therefore, November 1 - in 1889.

This information came from a five page family history which Gladys Pfeiffer of Silver Lake shared with the Milbern School Association. We will be able to decide how much of her information to include in the Mentone Community History after we know the cost of printing and the number of family histories available. However, we plan to put a copy of all genealogical material in the Bell Memorial Library at Mentone, and in the Kosciusko County Genealogy Library which we hope will be located in the old jail at Warsaw next year.

Mrs. Pfeiffer has information about James Lenius Paxton (1865-1949) and his wife Laura Ellen Adams (1886-1948). Laura's family can be tied in with the family that Waldo Adams is researching, James (or Jim) was a cousin of Hobart Paxton who lived north of Mentone. About 1910 Jim Paxton and his partner, Clarence L. Morrett, had a livery barn in Akron where the library now stands. Later they had a livery barn in Peru.

"When dealing in horses," Mrs. Pfeiffer said, "they sold a Clydesdale to Budweiser Beer, which was one of the eight original horses used on their beer wagon. A Budweiser Beer representative came from St. Louis, Missouri via the Erie R.R. to Akron, Indiana in a special car designed for his quarters in one end and the horse in the other. It is believed the horse was sold for $100, a fabulous price in those days."

Akron

The Akron School lunch menu for the week of December 3-7 is as follows:

It is 10:00. You are tired, very weak, hungry, have absolutely no energy and your head is splitting. Do you wonder why? It may be because you skipped breakfast or had a poor one. Did your child skip breakfast before going off to school? He may be feeling the same affects as you are around 10:00. Breakfast is an important meal of the day. It helps the body to refuel after the long period from the last meal. Breakfast-skippers find that their morning performance is below normal and children who get a good start on their morning usually do better in school.

A good breakfast will contain approximately 1/4 to 1/3 of the day's food supply. Foods selected from the Basic Four is a good breakfast plan. With so many good things to eat, there's no reason why you can't eat a breakfast to suit yourself. Each person's food needs and likes are a bit different. Some people just naturally want more food in the morning than a person who sits at a desk all day. Usually boys and men need more food than girls and women and teenagers need more than young children.

Many say they aren't hungry when they first rise. There's no rule that says you must eat something as soon as you get up. You can always eat a little later in the morning. Late breakfasts are as good for you as early ones.

If you don't eat breakfast because eating in the morning bothers you, start lightly with juice or a piece of fruit. Add bread or crackers, next. Then add a food such as milk, cheese, eggs, peanut butter, or meat. Before you know it you will be a charter member of the "breakfast club."

There's no excuse for not eating something, even if you're a late riser. There are many food possibilities that don't require a lot of preparation. Canned or frozen fruit juices, dried fruits, milk, yogurt, cheese, leftovers, breads, muffins, rolls, quick-cooking cereals and ready-to-eat cereals are just a few of the possibilities. For those occasions when family members are late for work or school, foods which can be eaten along the way mean the difference between breakfast - or no breakfast.

So tomorrow morning, think breakfast. Refuel your body for the big day ahead. Food is the fuel your body needs to keep going. Refueling at breakfast helps many people to perform and feel better in the morning.

For those mornings when you don't have a lot of time for breakfast preparation, make these Butter-milk Toaster Pancakes ahead. Pre-heat griddle. Beat eggs with 1 T. brown sugar until very light, about 2 minutes. Mix 2 cup unsifted flour, 1 T. baking powder, 1/2 tsp. salt. Stir gently into beaten eggs. Add 2/3 c. buttermilk and 2 T. oil. Stir only until mixed. Batter will be lumpy. For each pancake, pour 1/4 cup batter onto hot griddle. Cook until surface is covered with bubbles, turn, and cook other side until light brown. Cool on rack. Place pancakes in airtight container with wax paper between layers. Or wrap single in foil. Label and store in freezer. To reheat in toaster: Remove from freezer and unwrap pancakes to be reheated. Set toaster on medium-low setting. Toast pancakes, twice if necessary to heat through.

MONDAY: Pizza (Junior High), Spanish or plain hot dog (Grade), Tator tots, green beans, pears.

TUESDAY: Goulash, garlic bread, lettuce salad, mixed fruit, cake.

WEDNESDAY: Tenderloin sandwich, pickles, potato chips, mixed vegetables, tapioca pudding.

THURSDAY: Vegetable soup, crackers, celery and carrot sticks, applesauce, cookie.

FRIDAY: Lasagna, cole slaw, buttered peas, ice cream. Subject to change.

County Mental Health Association begins Christmas drive for elderly

The Fulton County Mental Health Association has started its annual program of collecting Christmas gifts for patients of Logansport State Hospital and for patients of the local nursing homes who have no families.

Mrs. Nelson Hunter Jr., Rochester, chairman of the project, announced that this year's program is entitled "Christmas Caring and Sharing". The association is asking sororities, church groups, civic groups and others to solicit gifts from their members and friends.

The gifts will be sorted by volunteers who know what each patient wants and needs. Each patient will receive at least one gift of good quality - something nice to wear - with a small extra gift such as lotion, cologne, soap or a piece of jewelry, tucked in the package for a little extra pleasure.

Mrs. Hunter said that gifts for men are in greater demand this year and can include caps (with earflaps), shirts, pajamas, T-shirts, undershorts, socks, tobacco, pipes and shaving cream and lotion.

Suggested gifts for women include cosmetics, dresses, hand lotion, panty hose, hand soap and toothpaste.

Gifts of one dollar or less will be accepted. All gifts should be purchased in large sizes. Mrs. Hunter emphasized that gifts should not be wrapped and gifts be new.

Several weeks ago the Three Rivers Conference football coaches voted on the TRC All-conference team and to the surprise and dismay of many people around here, Greg Utter was not voted first team running back. At that time I made the remark that we'd just have to wait on the All-State picks. Well, the Associated Press Class A All-State team was released this past week and as expected, Utter was voted to first team status. Mark Thompson of Southwood was one of the backs picked ahead of Utter and he did receive an Honorable Mention but the other got no recognition from AP. Seems to me to be some jealousy in the TRC.

Utter was not the only Viking to make the AP team. Tim Alspaugh and David Rhodes were also named to the first team while Brent Arven and Mark Shireman were named to the Second Team Defense. Herb King, Greg Cumberland, and Joe Harter received Honorable Mention. Congratulations to not only these men but to their team mates as well.

Vikes travel to N. Miami Saturday for opener

by Vern Hucks

"You can't compare basketball with any other sport in Indiana," Roger Fleetwood.

How do you follow an act like a State Championship football team? Tippecanoe Valley basketball coach Roger Fleetwood faces that unenviable task this season and actually looks forward to it. Fleetwood's team faces one of the toughest lineups in the school's history but he feels that "we can beat anybody on our schedule."

Fleetwood has his players working hard in preparation for their season opener at North Miami. The regimen includes weight training three days a week, rope jumping prior to every practice, and a lot of "hard work on condition and discipline." Fleetwood is a firm believer in discipline and "never use(s) a whistle" during practice in order to get his players accustomed to his voice.

Coach Fleetwood is beginning his second season at the helm of Tippecanoe Valley basketball after coming back to Indiana from Valdosta State College in Georgia.

He played his high school ball at Brown County High School in southern Indiana and wanted to coach in his home state because of the emphasis put on his basketball in Indiana. Regarding the pressure of being a basketball coach in Indiana, Fleetwood noted that he is the only person in the school who was hired in front of the school board.

"Defense wins championships" is Fleetwood's way of explaining his basketball philosophy. Viking fans appreciate this position after Valley's first ever sectional title last season but the early going was rough. Fleetwood feels that the team is far ahead of itself at this point compared to last year. For last year's opener, Valley employed one basic offense and essentially a man to man defense. This year, the Vikes will take the floor with five offenses and three defenses.

The success of Tippecanoe Valley football this season demonstrated the importance of a senior nucleus and the basketball team also enjoys this factor. This year's squad is made up of seven seniors and five juniors.

The key to a successful season rests heavily on the shoulders of two of those seniors, Scott Tilden and Mike Coplen. According to Fleetwood, these two "should have a great year". Tilden, at 6'3" 180 lbs., plays forward. He has good strength, plays well inside, shoots well, and plays good defense. Tilden's passing and confidence have improved over last season.

Coplen, 6'5" 165 lbs., will probably be the starting center for the Vikings. Coplen is strong for his size and is probably the quickest man on the team within 15 feet of the basket.

One of the players making the transition from football to basketball is Greg Utter. Utter is 5'10" and 170 lbs. and is extremely strong. His competitive drive is intense and Fleetwood feels that Utter may be the best leaper he's ever coached.

Playmaker for the team will be 5'8" guard, Chris Kindig. Kindig was named to the all-sectional and all-regional team last year and is a "thinking" ball player. He is also a good defensive player and a hard worker.

Senior guards Jeff Murphy and Brad Romine will be surprises to many people this year. Murphy, 5'10" 140 lbs., is quick and puts out 100%. His shooting has improved a great deal and he is a good passer and ball handler. Romine, says Fleetwood, is the "best set shooter on the team. Give him time to set up and he'll fill your eyes." Romine plays good defense but needs improvement in ball handling.

Steve Waggoner is another of the Viking football players trying to make the switch. Waggoner at 6'2" 185 is strong and is a good shooter but needs work both offensively and defensively.

The biggest pre-season surprise has been 6'2" 170 lbs. junior forward, Rex Holloway. Holloway, according to Coach Fleetwood, "will figure" in the success of this year's team.

One of the better offensive players this season will be John Dorsey. At 6'2", Dorsey can play either guard or forward. He's a good shooter and an excellent passer but needs to become more aggressive.

Working hard to make the football-basketball transition is junior center, Brent Arven. Arven is highly competitive and at 6'3" 214 lbs., provides the team's muscle in the middle. He is very strong but also has a good touch with the ball.

Charlie Sheetz is another junior who can play two positions. He is a good defensive player, both team and individual, and goes to the boards well. Sheetz has earned pre-season praise from Fleetwood for his "hustle" and dedication.

Rounding out the varsity is a good offensive player, David Stavedahl. Stavedahl is a smart player who moves well without the ball but needs to pick up strength and aggressiveness on defense. Coach Fleetwood says Stavedahl "has come a long way."

The roughest games for the Valley this season will probably come against Manchester, Whitko, Warsaw, Bremen, and Argos. The Holiday Tournament at Plymouth will also provide a strong test for the Vikes.

Fleetwood feels that the season-opener with North Miami will be a "tough game. North Miami will still remember the [Valley vs. N. M.] football game."

The '79-'80 Viking basketball squad has three goals for their season says Fleetwood. First is to be the best they can be and improve every day. Second is to try and win every game on their schedule. Thirdly and most important is to be ready at sectional time. As Fleetwood puts it, "On March 5th, we want to be the best!"

Basketball

Girl cagers remain undefeated

The Tippecanoe Valley girls basketball team held off a determined squad from Southwood in the fourth quarter to gain a 50-41 victory. Their record now stands unblemished at 2-0.

The Vikings surged to an early lead in the first period but Southwood cut that lead from twelve points to four before Valley put the game on ice.

Senior guard Kay Hively led the scoring for the Valley with 17 points. Virginia Arven finished in double figures too with eleven points. Arven was busy at both ends of the court as she also contributed seven rebounds and rejected two Knight shot attempts.

Leading rebounder for the Vikings was Tami Walgamuth who had twelve followed closely by Bernice Bussard pulling down nine.

The Jayvees provided plenty of excitement of their own winning their contest, 37-30 in overtime.

The Vikes travel to Caston on Wednesday and return to action on their home court against North Miami on December 3rd.
