Akron/Mentone town elections to be held in November

By: Diana Streevey

And
Lee Ann Hart

[Editor's note: Elections for town board will be held in both Akron and Mentone on Tuesday, Nov. 8, with both Democrat and Republican parties boasting a full slate of candidates. This article, about Ward 1 candidates, is the first in a series of articles spotlighting each person running for office in this year's races.]

Akron's Race First In 26 Years

This is the first time Akron has held a town election since 1963, but regardless of the outcome, Akron will emerge with an entirely new town board. With the exception of incumbent clerk-treasurer Ernest Smith, none of the incumbents are seeking re-election.

The Republican ticket consists of: incumbent Smith; Ward 1, Joe Day; Ward 2, Phil Allen; and Ward 3, Jim Hodges. Running on the Democratic slate are: Sarah Jane Sutton, clerk-treasurer; Ward 1, Richard (Dick) Drudge; Ward 2, Jerry Hudson; and Ward 3, Jack Miller.

Richard Drudge (63), 111 Whitenberger St., Akron, has been a resident since May 1950. A veteran of the European theatre, WWII, Drudge worked for Standard Oil for 26 years, first with Walt Harris and then as agent. During his 11 years as agent, Drudge was accountable for all supplies and finances, a fact he feels is a benefit to his candidacy. "I'm very interested in the town of Akron and its local government," Drudge explained. "I've studied the legal notices and town budgets for some time, so I feel I have an understanding of the basics. I decided to run for the office because I'm interested in all categories about the town."

Drudge and his wife Mary have three children: Diane (lives in Mississippi), Dennis (Monticello, IN), and Chuck, Akron, who works at Sonoco Products. Drudge is currently on the cemetery board and is a member of the Fulton County Historical Society. He's a past commander of the Rochester American Legion Post and has been a member of the Legion for 37 years. Drudge is also a member of Akron's Methodist Church.

Joe Day, (31), 120 Mishawaka St., Akron, first moved to Akron in 1963 when his parents, Dick and Judy Day, purchased the hardware store they still own and operate. Day left Akron after graduating from Akron High School in 1969 and didn't return until 1977. He now works at Day Hardware. For the past three years, Day has attended the town board meetings on a regular basis, making him conversant with current concerns of the town.

"I think the main problem facing the board right now is a lack of community interest," Day stated during a NEWS interview. "People are very interested after the members have made a decision, but there's not much participation beforehand."

The town's financial situation needs to show some change. We need to find a better way to keep up with inflation; there are only so many ways to cut into the budget before you're cutting into the necessities, and this affects not just our town but a lot of towns. The town needs to consider some sound financial planning for the future."

When asked why he'd decided to run for office, Day replied, "I was interested in finding someone in our ward who would run, and I finally came to the conclusion I was the person most interested in the job. When it came time for the caucus, some people expressed support, so I decided to go ahead. There are drawbacks to any situation, but in this case the good points outweighed the drawbacks.

I think I can provide a youthful attitude (to the board), Day concluded. "Through my interest and activities, I feel I'm the man to fill the post. I can add, how-

Indiana Gov. Robert D. Orr presented plaques to both recipients before approximately 240 Republicans, who came from all corners of the county to attend the annual dinner.

The 73-year-old Tombaugh has been active many years in politics. He is seeking re-election to a third term on the Mentone Town Board. He has been a town board trustee for the past eight years and is currently president. He was a county councilman for two years, and is currently serving as

Deadline for re-reserving personalized license plates

Commissioner Michael M. Packard of the Indiana Bureau of Motor Vehicles announced that time is running out for any individual wishing to re-reserve a Personalized License Plate for use in 1984. The deadline for re-reserving a plate purchased last year is October 31, 1983. If a personalized plate is not re-reserved by this date, the initial applicant loses the exclusive right to this specialized plate for the upcoming calendar year.

This year, Indiana motorists are being permitted to order Personalized License Plates with an additional character. In past years, these specialized plates were limited to a maximum of six (6) positions and one (1) space. The plates being ordered for 1984, however, may have seven (7) positions and one (1) space provided that they are being reserved for passenger cars, recreational vehicles or those trucks up to and including 11,000 pound classifications. Motorcycle personalized license plates will only be allowed a maximum of six (6) positions including spaces due to the smaller size of the plate. The public must specify what type motor vehicle the plate is being purchased for at the time the reservation is made. Once a personalized plate has been declared as a specific type plate (either for a passenger car or a truck), this plate can only be used on that specific type vehicle. It may not be transferred from one vehicle type to another.

The fee for reserving or re-reserving a personalized license plate will remain forty dollars ($40) payable at the local license branch at the time the reservation is made. This fee is charged in addition to any excise tax and license plate fees incurred at the time of registration. Initial reservations for 1984 Personalized License Plates can only be accepted at statewide license branches until December 31, 1983.

Energy management seminar scheduled

Solutions to present-day energy problems encountered by businesses and industries in the state of Indiana will be discussed and demonstrated at the Indiana Electric Association's "Energy Management Seminar," Tuesday, October 11, 1983, in Merrillville.

The seminar, which will be held in the Merrillville Holiday Inn, I-65 and U.S. 30, will feature several state and national energy efficiency experts who will discuss issues and processes of interest to commercial and industrial electricity users. Registration is scheduled for 7:30 a.m., and the program is set to run to approximately 4 p.m.

Northern Indiana Public Service Company will co-sponsor the program with the IEA.

Edmund A. Schroer, NIPSCO chairman and chief executive officer, will deliver the welcoming address, and the luncheon speaker will be Dr. Morton Marcus, director of economic research, Indiana School of Business.

"Technology and hardware are constantly changing and improving in the energy conservation area," said I.J. Roberts, NIPSCO vice president. "This seminar is designed to show what is available today, its efficient application and the potential for energy savings.

"With energy costs representing a larger share of budgets these days, this seminar can provide a forum for a profitable exchange of ideas and an acquisition of practical approaches to significant energy savings," Roberts said.

For details about the seminar, contact the local NIPSCO commercial-industrial power representative, or Thomas W. Wiseman, NIPSCO Corporate Marketing department, 5265 Hohman Avenue, Hammond, Indiana 46320; phone: 219/853-5249.

The Indiana Electric Association is made up of the five Indiana investor-owned electric companies. In addition to NIPSCO, members are Indiana and Michigan Electric Company, Indianapolis Power and Light, Public Service Indiana, and Southern Indiana Gas and Electric Company.

ever, that my interest and activities in the town won't change, win or lose."

Mentone's First Ward Race Breaks New Ground

When Miriam Boardman, 405 Main St., Mentone, filed her candidacy for board member from Mentone's first ward, she became the first woman to ever file for the position. A resident of the town for 28 years, Boardman is no stranger to working with finances; for the past 23 years, she's been business manager at Boardman Chevrolet, Bourbon.

Boardman attended the Indiana University as an economics major, and graduated from General Motors accounting school before becoming business manager for the business she co-owns with her husband, Bill. She has served as secretary for the Youth Opportunity Council of Kosciusko County under Governor Bowen's patronage and also taught government at Indiana Girl's State. Boardman is currently on Mentone's zoning board, and she's also served on the town election board. She belongs to several local clubs and has held offices in all of them, including Psi Iota Xi sorority. She's also an active member of the United Methodist Church.

"The town is really working right now to keep its head above water," Boardman stated. With no new businesses in town, revenue is not keeping up with inflation, and I think the town needs to closely watch spending. One of the things the town board and all the people in Mentone need to do is try to direct new businesses here.

Some of the major concerns on a more immediate basis is broken water mains and problems with trash pick up, she continued. Of course, larger costs and smaller revenues is the largest problem.

When Frank Hardesty decided not to run for reelection, I decided to run for the job. I know there are a lot of qualified people in Ward 1, but I feel I'm equally qualified. People know me well enough in this town to know I'll do an honest job. Integrity of board members is of prime importance," she concluded.

Boardman and her husband have three children: Terri Snyder, Kim Boardman, and Pedro, who's a freshman at TVHS.

Richard Dickerhoff, 54, S. Tucker Street, Mentone, has been a resident of Mentone for 30 years. He was born and raised in Silver Lake and has always lived around Mentone.

Dickerhoff is also no stranger to working with finances; for the past 31 years he has owned his own trucking company, he owns a farm, a parts store (TTP) in Warsaw and now he has an engine rebuilding business.

Dickerhoff and his wife Iris have four children: Don, a partner with his father in the parts store in Warsaw; Alicia Cervenka, Peoria County Home Economist; Doug, a student at Purdue University; and Amy, a sophomore at TVHS.

Although Dickerhoff has held no county offices he has been Director of the American Trucking Association, Director of Indiana Motor Trucks, and Chairman of the Livestock Carriers, U.S.A. he belongs to the Elks at Rochester, the Moose at Warsaw, the American Legion at Mentone and is on the Board of Administrative at the Mentone Methodist Church.

Dickerhoff has owned and operated four different businesses and he feels that "this community could use a progressive person." Dickerhoff went on to say that, "Mentone needs a major industry to come into the community to offer jobs and help this community. I would also like to see money used to help the community such as providing housing for the senior citizens; but at the same time, I want to keep taxes down."

Dickerhoff sold his business of 31 years in May, but he feels with his experience in running businesses and handling large sums of money he could only help the town of Mentone. "It's hard to say what can be done because I've not been on the board, but I am an aggressive person and I feel that is what Mentone really needs."

Dickerhoff is partially semi-retired since selling his trucking business. "Being semi-retired and living in the community, having my business in the town, gives me opportunity to take the time that this job deserves," Dickerhoff said.

Opinions Sought On Indiana Dove Hunting

Almost everyone who can identify blackbirds and starlings can identify mourning doves. There is good reason for that. Nationwide, there are nearly as many doves as blackbirds and starlings combined. But the dove is different from its black counterparts in that it is a game bird, hunted in 37 states, some as close to home as Illinois and Kentucky. Why isn't the mourning dove hunted in Indiana? Sportsmen have asked that question for many years, and the answer is difficult for some to accept.

Unlike most game animals, doves have coped well with civilized man. These birds are as much at home raising young in our urban landscape as they are in rural fencerows. It makes no difference to the dove if alfalfa is cut before nesting is completed or if wetlands are drained. And since doves prefer open ground for feeding, they view waste grain in crop stubble a banquet table.

In the south dove hunting is a deep-rooted tradition. When legal harvesting begins in September, states like Georgia, Alabama, and Louisiana literally have millions of doves. What many people don't realize is that a portion of those Dixie birds are Indiana-reared. Mourning doves are migratory.

If you observe the doves in your yard and garden you may notice that as the nesting season draws to a close in August the birds become less tame and begin congregating in loose, restless flocks. The first cooling nights in late summer spurs the migration and the doves that are going to move out are gone by November. A small percentage lingers through the winter, but the general policy of doves is to winter in the south. And be assured that Indiana birds do help the Dixie hunter fill his limit. It is not uncommon for these tireless migrants to cover 150 miles per day and one bird was discovered 1900 miles south of where it was banded.

Perhaps there is no other single action that could better benefit Hoosier wingshooters and game bird management efforts in this state than legalized dove hunting. Our current pheasant and quail populations are sadly poor and prospects for their quick recovery are slim, while there are millions of mourning doves produced in Indiana and hunted in southern states each year.

Interest and participation in Indiana dove hunting would surely be phenomenal, as would the boost to Indiana's Game Bird Habitat Stamp program. More funding for gamebird management would have substantial positive influences on the welfare of all game birds and other wildlife to boot. Add to this the possible benefits of fee-dove hunts. Many landowners in dove hunting states charge for hunting, bolstering their per acre income, or provide opportunity for civic organizations to manage fee-hunts as fund raising ventures.

Regulated hunting is not detrimental to dove numbers. As in all game species, there is a substantial annual surplus that is destined for removal by one means or another. The nationwide dove harvest adds up to tens of millions, but it is less than one-tenth the average autumn population and far below the 50 percent annual mortality inherent to the species. In fact, surveys show that dove populations have increased 4 percent in dove hunting states since 1972 while non-hunting states, such as Indiana, show a 5 percent decrease.

In his book, "The Mourning Dove," John Madison writes, "The mourning dove fills every qualification of a game species, and then some. For all huntable birds, none is so resilient in its responses to man's doings and none shows more promise for the future." Why, then, don't we hunt these birds in Indiana? The answer is social prohibition.

The mourning dove is, by nature, a gentle, soft-cooing feathered addition to our neighborhoods and suburbs. A symbol of peace, the dove leaves an image unlike that portrayed by any other game bird. In other words, the most valid objections to dove hunting are sentimental, not biological.

It has been 20 years since a bill to legalize dove hunting was defeated in the state legislature. Perhaps public reaction would be different today. If you have taken the time to read this article, you must have an opinion. Please take a moment to write a note and let me know your feelings. Everyone that writes will get a reply. Americans & Television

One wonders how many more years the American people will tolerate the vulgar, excessive number of commercials they're subjected to by the three commercial networks. For those who receive only commercial network programs, it's scandalous how much force-feeding they're subjected to.

To objections about commercials, the standard commercial television industry reply has always been that no one is forced to watch. But this is not an adequate answer because the networks, through their affiliate stations, have a near-monopoly on the best frequencies.

Commercial stations are government-licensed, and monopolize the public airwaves, the frequencies assigned by world agreement to this country. Satellites are changing this but never will change it completely. So television transmissions, unlike the print media, enjoy government license, and use public airwaves.

Because of this, they should long ago have been limited in their abuse of viewers by Congress. But television networks can easily intimidate members of Congress. In many cases, they can make or break members. Worse, some members of the two committees--in the Senate and House--are part owners of stations, or have financial interests in them.

Viewers are often forced to watch seven, eight or nine commercials, before and after a station break, every few minutes--while trying to enjoy a program. This year the networks increased the number of commercials--and no one was able to do anything about it.

The Federal Communications Commission, which years ago tried to restrain the industry when it was headed by a courageous administrator, has in recent years been little more than a rubber stamp of the industry's wishes.

It should be said, however, that during the Carter Administration, steps were taken to open up TV, and encourage new cable and satellite channels and systems. That was a major plus and hope for the future.

But the real answer, which would give priority to the public interest, would be a tough FCC, with the power and policies to force commercial networks to place a decent limit on their sales pitches, to limit program interruptions to every half hour, etc.

The commercial networks are rolling in money. Television performers are grossly overpaid. The balance sheets for network operations mean little. Inflated salaries, costs and other waste could be eliminated by the hundreds of millions. Thus the excessive number of commercials isn't necessary. Nor does the quality level of TV output justify such enormous spending. Most of it is garbage.

The answer? It lies in less public reliance on the commercial networks and more new channels. If the two appropriate congressional committees, or the FCC, would actually do the needed job in the public interest and set more meaningful standards, that would also suffice.

But after over thirty years of shirking that responsibility the public can expect little from Congress and less from the three New York-based commercial networks.

The almighty dollar, plus cynical disregard of the public interest, is the trademark of U.S. commercial television. It has degraded, debased and vulgarized U.S. society (millions of Americans) for over thirty years. It could have been a miracle innovation to educate, uplift and inspire, morally and culturally.

BUSINESS and the STOCK MARKET

by BABSON'S REPORTS INC.

Long-Term Opportunities In Biotechnology

By Babson's Reports Inc., Wellesley Hills, Mass., October 6, 1983. In our opinion, the two most promising business areas over the next several years will be in specialty chemicals and instrumentation, plus monoclonal antibodies. The medical applications of antibodies, which are the most abundant proteins in the body, may ultimately surpass many of the gene-spliced products presently being developed and tested.

In the monoclonal antibodies sector there is still relatively little competition. This technology mainly employs hybridomas (hybrid cells) obtained from mice; this makes the growing of single pure antibodies in tissue cultures possible. Monoclonal antibodies, the staff of Babson's Reports believes, will have a significant impact on the immuno-diagnostics sector in the 1980s (currently a $250-million market accounting for some 20% of the total $1.2-billion diagnostic industry.)

Rapid growth is also forecast for instrumentation and support equipment to the tune of $200 million annually, and should increase by 15% to 25% a year throughout the next decade.

Researchers are not only developing tangible products stemming from their laboratory work in recombinant DNA (gene-splicing) but they are assiduously pursuing work in plant tissues, advanced fermentation, enzyme systems, plant breeding, and germplasm development. Investors, at this stage of the embryonic biotechnology industry, should be rewarded for their patience, with attractive capital gains.

Rearranging The Human Gene

Gene splicing, or what is commonly known as recombining the DNA molecule, is accomplished by joining pieces of the DNA genetic material. Basically, a segment of the ring is removed and a substitute piece is sealed in. The ring is then placed inside a bacterium (a single bacteria) and the organism which is reproduced multiplies and produces valuable chemicals, combined in an engineered genetic material.

Over the last ten to twenty years, biologists have cracked the code (the way in which the amino acids produced by a gene are arranged in a specific order on a strand of the DNA molecule). After cracking the code, scientists can synthesize (produce) more of the biological substances than nature can create and thus use the new substances to fight disease and to repair nature's mistakes.

Applications Abound

Out of biotech research there have come hormones to trigger growth in humans, synthesized insulin, and vaccines for foot and mouth disease (affecting livestock) hepatitis, malaria, and rabies.

Scientists are optimistic about being able to develop food crops which grow in all types of soil. Also, research is being directed toward developing special enzymes to turn solid waste into useful sugar and alcohol. Finally, valuable metals may even be separated from ore, while oil is expected to be extracted and purified from depleted wells.

Babson's Stock Recommendations

The Research Department of Babson's Reports has narrowed its selections down to three distinct companies with important positions in biotechnology. The first is a health firm -- Abbott Laboratories -- trading near 51 (NYSE). Our second "BUY" Millipore Corp., trading near 31 (OTC) is a producer of analytical instrumentation and membranes for genetic research and for all types of liquid separation. Finally, our third recommendation -- Damon Biotech, selling around 12 (OTC), is a small innovative pure biotechnology company (spun off from NYSE-listed Damon Corp., a leader in clinical diagnostics). Damon Biotech is an attractive speculation on its patented "Encapcel" process for monoclonal antibodies. A package of all three of these companies would make an ideal investment strategy for participation in this emerging hi-tech industry.

I would again like to take this opportunity to thank you all for the love, care, and assistance in the regaining of my health without your support and confidence my goals would not have been attainable. Again, thanks.

Helene Utter

We extend our sincere thanks and appreciation to our relatives, friends, and neighbors who called on us in our time of sorrow, for the flowers, cards, memorials and for the food brought to our home.

Thanks to the Rev. Malbone and the ladies from the Church of God for the dinner at the church, and for the many prayers; the Deaton Funeral Home; the organist and the Rev. Lowell Burrus for their service to us in the loss of our loved one.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Dear Editor:

Words cannot express the gratitude in our hearts for the growing community support the Trail of Courage Rendezvous. We thank everyone and every group that helped.

I want to take this opportunity to clear up a couple of things. People ask us why we do not know exactly how many attended the rendezvous. There are several reasons for this. Adults paid $2.50 and children $1 and those under six got in free. We do not keep count of how many of each enter the gate.

And many volunteer workers and their immediate families got in free. While there is a shooter's and trader's fee, there is no charge for those with the shooters and traders who dress in authentic costume.

Add to this the several troops of Cub Scouts who come to pick up trash and thus earn free admission, and the Girls Scouts who ran candle dipping and face painting and cookie booths.

Nearly a thousand people get in free as participants, program personnel, or workers. When we estimate the attendance at 11,000, that is counting both days; in other words, there were 5,500 each day. Those who attend both days are counted twice.

So though the attendance is about 11,000, we did not collect anywhere near $11,000 in admission. And nearly half of what we do collect goes for expenses. For example, it costs $1,000 to put on the arena programs.

The Fulton County Historical Society sponsors the annual Trail of Courage Rendezvous to earn money to build a new museum (to replace the rented rooms in the Civic Center) and to preserve our history through publications and museum collections. That is not the sole reason but it is one of the primary ones. We started the rendezvous as a Bicentennial project to interest people in history and to commemorate the courage of the Potawatomi. Educating the public as to our pioneer and Indian heritage is still a big reason for our doing this each year.

Putting on an event of this size is a lot of work. We work on planning and organizing all year. We welcome suggestions and constructive criticism and physical labor volunteered by all ages. So if you are interested in taking an active part, please let us know. You will be welcomed with open arms and a grateful heart.

Due to problems with dogs fighting and biting this year, the FCHS board of directors decided to ban dogs from the Trail of Courage from now on. So please leave your dogs at home.

Judging from the license plates on the cars, most of the people attending the Trail of Courage are from South Bend, Kokomo and Logansport. There were cars from Colorado and many other states near and far.

Every year we are pleasantly surprised to hear some Fulton County people say this is the first time they attended the Trail of Courage. They all voice the same opinion: "I had no idea it would be so great. I will come back every year from now on."

More and more people are telling us it is the best festival they have ever attended. A major reason for this is the beautiful pine woods that Bob Kern so generously lets us use. Lots of shade and lots of benches to rest on also add to the attraction.

So if you haven't attended the Trail of Courage, mark it on your calendar for next year: Sept. 15-16, 1984.

ON THE RAIL

by PHIL PINES, Director

The Hall of Fame of the Trotter, Goshen, N.Y.

The Tall Pine

There are a couple of towering monuments in Orange County, New York, honoring two horses --a mama and a papa. Mama is Green Mountain Maid and her monument stands in a field on the Stony Ford Farm near Goshen. And papa's monument is sandwiched between two houses in Chester, not many miles away, located on Hambletonian Avenue which gives you a clue as to that horse's name.

Well, mama and papa had a colt that his owners called Electioneer. And when the little fella grew up on the Stony Ford Farm he had a visitor who came all the way from California and took Electioneer back home with him.

This was in 1879 when a journey from California was more than five hours. But for Leland Stanford it was a trip with a purpose.

There were two great stock farms in those days: the Woodburn in Kentucky and Stony Ford in New York. Stanford had originally come from New York, having been born near Albany in 1824 and headed west when he was 20. He did right well out there. Made lots of money, bought up much of California, became its governor and senator. Loved horses, too, especially trotting horses and that's why he came east. With him came a party of experts--if there can be such a thing in the horse business: breeders, trainers, turf editors--Stanford turned to them for opinions upon the animals he wished to purchase. He didn't always take their advice.

The senator took his time choosing the horses he was going to buy. Several days time. Finally he bought Electioneer for $12,500, plus a dozen broodmares and fillies to make his total purchase $41,200--big bucks in the trotting sport those days. Horses and people headed for home--home being the Palo Alto Farm south of San Francisco. Palo Alto means "tall pine" and there was one on the farm--it went away up there--and that's what they named the place. But that was just the beginning.

The Palo Alto estate consisted of 7,200 acres. These were divided into four departments: trotting, running, farm, house and grounds. "Governor's Avenue" stretched from the residence to the trotting farm and along this road was a 60 acre field of carrots, planted for the horses. (Bugs Bunny would have gone crazy.) Stanford pensioned off horses and they lived in fields of their own, not too close to the carrots.

There were two training-exercise tracks, one a mile, the other three-quarters of a mile. About 90 colts were constantly in training. Stanford kept Thoroughbreds, too. Kept them on a farm of their own two miles away. And to the south, downwind probably, a hundred broodmares roamed over 1,500 hillside acres.

It took people to care for all this land and those horses and there were 150 of them employed (100 Americans, 50 Chinese). They boarded on the farm which cost $225,000 each year to operate. $99,000 of it went for wages. But that wasn't all.

There was the Vina Ranch, 55,000 acres of fertile land along the Sacramento River in Tehama County which Leland Stanford had bought for a million dollars and turned into the largest vineyard in the world. Then, of course, there was a third great ranch at Gridley, in Butte County--about 20,000 acres of the good stuff. It was worth a million, also.

The three places were donated to Stanford University which the senator had endowed as a memorial to their only child, Lelan, Jr., who died of typhoid two months shy of his 16th birthday. That was in 1884. Nine years later Stanford died and his wife was left to carry the load of the immense properties and activities. Her husband's intention was to endow Stanford University with 20 million dollars but with disciplined seriousness, Mrs. Stanford extended that enormous amount to 34 million. The Palo Alto horses were sold in 1903 in New York when the stud was broken up. A few of the most famous of them were kept on pension until their deaths when they were buried in the equine graveyard, lorded over, so to speak, by a lifesize bronze statue of a horse.

The skeleton of Electioneer was mounted in the university museum until the San Francisco earthquake reduced it to a bag of bones.

The Stanfords were proud of their Palo Alto Farm and what careful work could do. Mrs. Stanford like to reflect on that day when the Senator handed her a telegram from Robert Bonner of New York, a wealthy man who prided himself, too, on owning good trotters. Bonner congratulated Stanford on obtaining the record for the fastest yearling, the fastest two year old, the fastest three year old, the fastest four year old, the fastest five year old and the fastest record ever made by a horse of any age.

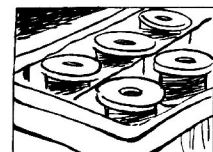

And although he owned all the winners, Leland Stanford never once bet on a horse.

Here's your answer

by Pastor Dennis R. Pollock
New Testament
Baptist Church
Culver, Ind. 46511

I read in the Bible where it says "Without holiness no man shall see God." What does it mean to be holy?

The verse referred to is found in the New Testament book of Hebrews chapter 12 and verse 14. Here we quote, "Follow peace with all men, and holiness, without which no man shall see the Lord." The subject of Holiness is probably one of the most misunderstood subjects of all scripture. When you think of someone being holy do you envision a halo around their head, or someone sitting with legs tucked under them in a torturous fashion? This is not at all what the Bible declares as being holy.

Holiness is really an attitude. This attitude will express itself however, in some very tangible ways in the life of the believer. We must realize that in our natural state (that is before becoming a Christian) that we are at odds with God. No manner of work on our part can change this position. Until the light of the Gospel of Jesus Christ shines in our hearts we'll never be able to receive the truth of holiness.

We are all made holy (every believer, not just some Super-Saint) by the finished work of the Lord Jesus. By faith we look to the cross and empty tomb to acknowledge our sin was placed upon him who knew no sin. In this process called the "New Birth" we take on a new nature after our Father in Heaven. This new nature loves the things of God and rejects the old sinful passions and practices.

The best definition of holiness that I have come across is stated by Bishop J.C. Ryle of the last century. "Holiness is the habit of being of one mind with God, according as we find his mind described in Scripture. It is the habit of agreeing with God's judgment-hating what he hates-loving what he loves-and measuring everything in the world by the standard of his word. He who most entirely agrees with God, he is the most holy man. See Psalms 139:21.

"Men tire themselves in pursuit of rest."

Not By Chance Nor Happenstance

Into our lives come many things to break the dull routine. The things we had not planned on that happen unforeseen. The unexpected little joys that are scattered on our way. Success we did not count on or a rare fulfilling day, a catchy lifting melody that makes us want to dance, a nameless exaltation of enchantment and romance. An unsought, word of kindness, a compliment or two, that sets the eyes to gleaming like crystal drops of dew. The unplanned sudden meeting that comes with sweet surprise and lights the heart with happiness like a rainbow in the skies. Now some folks call it fickle fate, and some folks call it chance, while others just accept it as pleasant happenstance. But not matter what you call it, it didn't come without design. For all our lives are fashioned by the Hand That Is Divine. And every happy happening and every lucky break are little gifts from God above that are ours to freely take.

Tetracycline Stained Teeth

Tetracycline Stained Teeth
Tetracyclines - a group of infection-fighting antibiotics - can produce staining of children's teeth if they are given during the time when the primary teeth are forming. According to the National Institute of Health, if tetracycline is given to a woman during her last trimester of pregnancy, or to an infant during the first three months of life, discoloration of the dentin of baby's teeth could occur. The resulting stains are then visible as soon as the baby teeth erupt. The sensitive period of tetracycline-induced staining of the permanent teeth occurs between the ages of 3 months and 8 years. These stains may not become visible for several years.

Although the stains are permanent, the enamel of the teeth is seldom weakened, and, therefore, the teeth function well. It is not a health hazard and if properly cared for, teeth-stained or not-can last a lifetime.

There are some cosmetic treatments for tetracycline-stained teeth, however, the best treatment is prevention. Parents should discuss with their doctors the use of alternative drugs during late pregnancy or early childhood.

Sixth-rated Tippecanoe Valley clinched its first playoff as a Class AA team by defeating ninth-rated NorthWood, 13-7, in a Class AA, Cluster 34 contest.

Even if the Vikings should lose to Rochester in its final cluster game and end in a 2-1 tie with Whitko or NorthWood, Valley would still go to the playoffs because they have beaten both teams.

Tippy Valley took a 7-0 lead in the first quarter on an eight-yard touchdown run by Joe Hughes and a PAT by Shad McConkey.

NorthWood tied the score on a fumble recovery return by Kip Diener for a TD and a PAT by Brad Price.

Lee Swihart's 16th TD of the year, a one-yard run in the third quarter, proved to be Valley's margin of victory. Swihart finished with 153 yards rushing on 32 carries, giving him 1,045 yards for the season.

Joe Hawkins had two sacks, a fumble recovery and a blocked pass for the Vikings.

Tippecanoe Valley is 7-0 overall and 2-0 in cluster play.

Career planning mini course

Planning a career and making decisions about future employment is essential to locating a job today. It involves taking time to look at a person's goals, skills and interests. Many high school students have not done this in the past and have depended on luck to get them through life. As the economy changes it becomes more important to develop employability skills.

For the second year, a mini course dealing with employability skills and finding a job is being taught at Tippecanoe Valley High School. The program has been revised to meet the needs of Valley's students better. The topics which are discussed are different than those discussed in the 2 week employability skills workshop which all Juniors at Valley participate in during the spring. The main objectives are to give students who will be seeking employment after graduation a chance to get to know themselves and learn valuable job related skills. The course includes 13 students who meet for 10 sessions in a small group setting. Beth Lentz of the Youth Employment Counsel of Kosciusko County is the group leader. Beth has a great deal of experience with employability skills and adult education. This experience is an excellent background for leading a group like this. Her enthusiasm and desire to help students help themselves is a big asset.

The students will be discussing topics such as their skills, their interests, career choices, decision making, and employer expectations of employees. Students will also prepare a resume, letter of application, employment application, learn job interviewing skills application, learn job interviewing where to look for a job and how to keep a job. "The Work Book" published by McKnight is being used to help teach the group. "The Work Book" as well as travel and salary for Ms. Lentz is being paid for by a Career Education Grant which Valley received in November of 1982. The program director is Sandy Carmichael, Guidance Counselor at Valley. Please feel free to contact her for more information, comments or questions about this program.

Business Department

In the Accounting and General Business area we will be having a student teacher. Mike Miller will be with us from the middle of October until the middle of December. He is from Manchester College and is also presently helping with the football program at T.V.H.S.

Accounting I students are being introduced to the accounting equation and we are building from there. The terms debits and credits are becoming a part of their vocabulary.

Accounting II students have gotten back into the swing of things with several projects. As long as things balance, these students proceed with a smile on their face. But when they do not balance they sometimes become very irritable.

General Business classes are busy learning about the world of business. In the future we will be spending a lot of time on careers and career planning.

Typing

About 100 students are learning to type without using the Columbus system. They seem eager to learn.

Business Law people are learning about the different courts and how crimes are classified. Later on a lawyer will be asked to come in and answer some of the student's questions.

Building Trades

Building Trades are off to a good start this year. The concession stand/rest rooms are finished and the footing is in for our 83-84 house. Everyone is hoping for a good fall so we can be under the roof before it snows. Our house is located in the Saner Addition in Akron and everyone is welcome to watch our progress.

Ken Murphy - Building Trades

Art Department

This year the art department got off to a very good and smooth start. For most of the classes we began the new school year with several sketching and drawing sessions. The practice of drawing is essential since most of the projects we'll be doing throughout the year originate from a sketch.

We've been in the process of a musical instrument unit in five of our six art classes. Each class has been instructed differently as to the making of a musical instrument project. Both Basic Art classes have done their musical instrument in the form of a drawing. Painting students were instructed to use a brush and ink to show the instrument with three distinct values. Design class changed their realistic version of the instrument into abstract parts. Doing all the shading in parallel pen and ink lines. Meanwhile, 3D have been building their instrument from cardboard, giving the project a two-dimensional view. The sixth art class, Advanced, which is comprised of seniors have been working very well and independently creating projects that are their own choice.

We hope to have our work on display at the high school in various areas for most of the year. We would like and welcome all to look at our creative talents.

Algebra II

We are currently studying the property of order in the real numbers. This includes the transformations producing equivalent inequalities; understanding the meaning of "is less than" and "is greater than" as well as the mathematical meaning of "and" and "or." Next we will be studying the mathematical concept of a "function."

General Math

Fridays are being used to develop thinking skills. Regardless of what's going on during the rest of the week (we hope we're teaching thinking on those days, too!), on Friday we work on logic puzzles, mind-benders and story problems. We do these as a group so that no one is put "on the spot", so that one student hopefully can benefit from another's thinking pattern.

As the year goes on, students will be asked to bring in other puzzles (or even better, make up their own) for extra credit.

Computer Programming

We are learning the concepts of programming a computer; that is, writing a series of instructions telling the computer what we want it to do. Statements we have learned thus far in BASIC include: REM, READ-DATA, PRINT, LET, GOTO, INPUT and IF-THEN. The IF-THEN statement is important as it is a statement which allows the computer to make a decision. The next concepts we will study to increase our programming capability will be the counting and summing techniques.

Physics

The students just completed a lab exercise to experimentally determine the acceleration of gravity. The results were to be compared to the accepted value and the percent of error determined. This followed the chapter in the text in which we were studying the "Nature and Cause of Motion."

Advanced Math

Seniors are beginning the study of the "Circular Functions." After we define the sine function and the cosine function and their properties, we will relate these to the trigonometric sine and cosine to see the relationship between the circular functions and the trigonometric functions.

Budget plan eases heating bill payments

Customers of Northern Indiana Public Service Company can smooth out those ups and downs in their seasonal service bills by joining the company's Equal Payment Plan, the utility said.

NIPSCO's Equal Payment Plan provides customers with an option of making equal monthly payments between the first month of budget billing and the settlement bill next May.

The plan usually begins in June and ends the following May. However, customers can sign up for the program at any time. By joining now, equal payments allow the customer to spread out winter heating costs over several months, making them more adaptable to household budgets, the company said.

About 70 percent of a residential customer's heating costs usually occur in the four-month period December through March. NIPSCO said. Naturally, heating bills reflect this increased usage, regardless of the fuel used.

Under the plan, the customer's projected usage, based on actual experience is divided into equal monthly payments. Any difference between the total amount projected under the plan and the actual total amount due, based on actual usage and meter readings, will be reflected on next May's service bill, or the final bill should service be terminated. In any event, the customer pays for only the energy used--no more, no less.

Midway through the plan, each Equal Payment Plan account is reviewed and adjusted, if necessary.

NIPSCO said features of this plan include (1) no deposit requirements, (2) no carrying charges and (3) no deferred or late payment charges.

With the cost of all forms of energy representing a much larger-than-ever share of the average customer's household budget, the Equal Payment Plan can be a major help in spreading out seasonal costs, the company said.

Customers having any questions about the Equal Payment Plan can contact the local NIPSCO customer service office. The telephone number appears on the customer's service bill.

Allen, Hudson seek board position

EDITOR'S NOTE: Elections for town board will be held in both Akron and Mentone on Tuesday, November 8, with both Democrat and Republican parties boasting a full slate of candidates. This is the second in a series of articles spotlighting each candidate in this year's race.]

Akron's Race: First in 20 Years

This is the first time Akron has held a town election since 1963, but regardless of the outcome, Akron will emerge with an entirely new town board. With the exception of incumbent clerk-treasurer Ernest Smith, none of the incumbents are seeking reelection.

In Ward 3 of Akron we have Phil Allen as the Republican on the slate. Allen (34), S. Slaybaugh St., Akron, has been a resident of Akron for nine years. He and his wife, Sheila, are expecting their first child.

Allen is the maintenance foreman at Pikes Lumber Company, in Akron. He has spent four years in the Navy and made two tours of Vietnam. Allen has been a sales representative for Miller and Sons, Silver Lake. Before moving to Akron Allen lived in California.

Allen is presently serving as President of the Akron EMS, and has been a member of the Fulton County EMS for the past seven years. He attends Akron United Methodist Church.

When asked why he decided to run for town board Allen stated that several people had asked him if he would be interested. After that he thought about applying for candidacy and decided that he was "just what Akron needed."

Allen said that the major concerns facing Akron right now were the tightening of the budget, tax revenue, and the whole financial aspect of running the town.

"We have more things to get done with less money to work with," said Allen. "I don't feel Akron has much to offer at this point. We have a good work force and they are willing to work. These people are good people, and are willing to settle for a little bit less. The assessed value of Akron has decreased and I feel we need to do something about that," Allen said.

"I'm not really ready to take a back seat to all this. I'd like to think I make things happen. I don't sit back and let them happen. I'm willing to take an active roll in this town's progress."

"I'm young and energetic, more than happy to accept help, and advise. I know I'm not experienced in political circles, but I do have new ideas, a different point of view and I'm willing to listen to what the Akron people have to say."

Jerry Hudson (41), has been a resident of Akron for 22 years. His family consists of Joyce, his wife, employed by Wen Products in Akron. Hudson has three daughters, Penny Kelley, Tammy Fisher, and Karina, a third grader at Akron Elementary School, and one son, Rodney, a sophomore, at TVHS.

Hudson is employed by the Laketon Oil Refinery and before that was a construction worker. He also belongs to the Olive Branch Church of God, and is a member of the Board of Trustees.

One of the main reasons Hudson is running for town board is that he feels it would be interesting and he enjoys working

Down Memory Lane

TAKEN FROM THE AKRON NEWS OCTOBER 26, 1933 50 YEARS AGO

Mrs. Russell Meredith, Mrs. Emmett Taylor, Mrs. Voris Davis, Mrs. Lew Leininger, Mrs. Ernest Lantz, Mrs. Chloe Kiser, Mrs. Sarah Merley and Mrs. Ruth Nye attended a Second District Convention at Logansport yesterday.

Mrs. Nye was chosen Chairman of Past President's Parley of the second district. Through a mistake Mrs. Clara Leininger's name was omitted from the list of officers last week. Mrs. Leininger is second vice president of the local auxiliary unit.

Betty Morris, who was injured in an automobile accident last Thursday afternoon at Fort Wayne, was brought home from the hospital where she had been confined since the accident.

Betty was injured when the car in which she was riding with her mother, Mrs. Roy Morris, her sister Kate and some friends, was run into by a large car driven by a Chicago man. They were in Fort Wayne at the time of the accident and Mrs. Morris signaled to make a left turn, the drive following her did not see the signal and rammed into the Morris car. The car was coming with such force that the Morris auto was damaged considerably and the occupants were cut and bruised considerably.

The entire party was taken to a hospital in Fort Wayne where they remained for the night. All were dismissed the following morning except Betty, whose injuries were quite critical. Her pelvis bone was broken and she received a severe wound across the face. It required fourteen stitches to close the cut.

She withstood the trip from the hospital very well and is getting along as well as could be expected.

John Ayres, a butcher from Silver Lake, was seriously injured Friday evening about 5 o'clock when his Chevrolet truck crashed into the ditch on State Road 14 near the old Fox farm, and upset. He suffered a severe wound which nearly scalped him.

Mr. Ayres and his nephew, a young boy, were coming to Akron to get some ice when the accident occurred. It is reported that the boy, who was driving, went to go around a car which was parked on the pavement when he saw another car coming. In trying to bring his truck to a halt, the car swerved from the road and crashed into the ditch and turned over.

Although the truck was badly damaged, the boy escaped with slight injuries. Mr. Ayres, however, was injured by the flying glass and was brought to Dr. Hosman's office where he received treatment.

Victoria Lynn Baber, 5-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Baber and Sandra Parker, 7-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Phil Parker, were among the finalists in the "Miss Baby Doll" contest which was held by The Doll House as part of its first anniversary celebration.

The ten finalists were chosen by popular vote from 22 contestants representing five counties who submitted photographs. They then appeared in person where a panel of three judges chose five from the group, then two, and finally "Miss Baby Doll."

After much deliberation, the judges crowned Randy Pfeiffer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Don Pfeiffer, Rochester, Rt. 5. She received a life-size doll and loving cup.

Victoria was named runner-up and received a queen doll, loving cup and coronation book. The other finalist received dolls and cups.

Beaver Dam girls in the final ten were Marianne Timpane, 9-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Timpane, and Linda Lou Beigh, 6-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Beigh.

Preceding the choosing of Miss Baby Doll, a style show was held in which the models carried their choice of dolls or toys. Models from Akron besides Sandra and Victoria were Diane Kerr, Linda Beigh, Marianne and David Timpane, and Diane Kay Lowman.

Four Akron high school students made the top grades in the first honor roll to be announced for this year.

Stanley Singpiel, seventh grade; Carol Skillen, sophomore; and Alys Ault and Karen Gast, seniors, came through with all A's for the first six weeks grading period.

Two Akron high school students, Alys Ault and Channing Utter, won the poetry contest conducted recently by Mrs. Marie Hand, who is a member of the New York Writers' Guild and the American Poetry League.

Pictures of the Walgamuth ponies, Indiana Commander and Early Spade, which have never been beaten in competition, appear in the October issue of the American Horseman magazine. They were taken at the Ohio State Fair.

One of the Walgamuth ponies, LaBelle Larigo, died Tuesday at the age of 27 years. She was the oldest in the herd, and leaves three colts.

The Henry Township Farm Bureau will have their annual family supper and election of officers next Wednesday, Oct. 27th at the gymnasium.

The nominating committees have selected the following slate to be voted upon: Chairman, Walter Zimmerman and Harold Walters; Secretary and Treasurer, Orville Ellis and Arthur Kuhn; Social and Educational Director, Mrs. George Sheetz and Marion Leininger.

Nominations will also be taken from the floor.

Music will be furnished by the high school band.

Garland (Bud) and Shirley Gray have announced that they will open a men's and boy's wear store in Akron before the first of November.

The store, which will be named Bud's Men's Wear, will be located in the building formerly occupied by Metzger's tavern. The building is owned by Rex Grube, Rochester, and considerable remodeling has been done to it. An aluminum front will be added later.

Bud's Men's and Boy's Wear will specialize in clothing for men and boys, sizes 6 and up.

The Grays are both graduates of Akron High School, Bud with the class of 1947 and Shirley with the class of 1948.

Bud is the son of Mrs. Gertrude Gray of Akron and Shirley is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Hirschman, Rt. 2, Akron.

The Grays have been active in social and civic work. Bud is a volunteer fireman and Shirley is active in the Methodist church and Akron Mothers and Study Club.

The winners of the various prizes given by Day Hardware last week during their open house have been announced.

Arthur L. Brown, Rt. 2, won the lawn sweeper. Other winners were electric drill, Mrs. Fred Haney Sr.; hand mixer, Mrs. Clarence Thompson; Corning Ware coffee pot, Lavon Siouti; Swing-a-way can opener, Bill Huppert; Silver sugar and creamer, Mrs. Frank Royer; and Indoor-outdoor thermometer, C.A. Finch.

The 1963 Community Service Drive was launched Monday night at a meeting held in the Legion Home.

Tom Hauptert, chairman of the drive, was in charge of the meeting.

Ten year service plaques were presented to Marjorie McColley, Dora Shewman, Faye Shimer, Annabelle Hauptert, and Helen Lewis.

Receiving citations for five years of service were Alma Hauptert, Charlotte Keesey, and Helen Smith.

Hauptert stressed the importance of getting the drive underway at once and for the leaders and workers to contact their respective areas.

He reminded the leaders to turn in their money to Randall Leininger, treasurer, at the earliest possible time.

The goal for this year's drive is $4,000. The Famous Akron Jonah Club has contributed $100 to the fund.

The money given to the Henry Township Community Fund is used by eleven agencies. They are: Red Cross, Salvation Army, Henry Township 4-H, Little League, Fulton County Mental Health, Fulton County Crippled Children, Tribal Trails Girl Scout Council, Henry Township heart detection center at Woodlawn Hospital, Henry Township cancer detection center at Woodlawn, and Fulton County retarded children.

"I can only promise I will do the best job that I am capable of doing," Hudson said.

The experience Hudson had being on the board at church was rewarding and Hudson feels that he would like to serve the community as much as possible.

"I can do the job," said Hudson. "I am an aggressive person and feel I can get things done. I am always willing to listen to people and would like to put some of my ideas together with others."

Ward 2 race underway in Mentone

Wayne Tombaugh (73), Mentone, has been active many years in politics. He is seeking reelection to a third term on the town board.

He has been a town board trustee for the past eight years and is currently president. He was a county councilman for two years, and is currently serving as reasurer of the Four-Way Ambulance Service.

Tombaugh has also been a precinct committeeman in Harrison 2 for the past 44 years.

Tombaugh has lived in Mentone since 1937 and is an active member of the Akron Church of God. Presently Tombaugh is a salesman at Valley Furnishings in Mentone.

Tombaugh's wife, Audra, is a cook at Teel's Restaurant. He has one son, Richard, in Washington, D.C.

Tombaugh is no stranger to financial workings. He has owned his own business, worked with freight in Chicago and is treasurer of the ambulance service in Mentone.

Some of the major concerns facing Mentone, according to Tombaugh, are the water supply problems; "They need to replace the lines. They also should continue working on the streets," Tombaugh said.

"Finances are also a big problem. Tax rates have been cut, $17,000 has been cut out of the general fund. Prices are going up, but the amount of money to spend isn't."

Tombaugh stated at the end of the interview that he is thinking of retiring after this year.

On the Democrat slate we have Roger Moriarty, (35) 111 Harvard St., Mentone. Moriarty has been a resident of Mentone for the past four years.

His wife, Sandra, is a substitute teacher and they have one son, Stephen, a first grader at Mentone Elementary School.

Moriarty has a strong background dealing with financial affairs. After graduating from International Business College, in Fort Wayne, he worked for Montgomery Ward as a sporting goods manager for 11 years.

"In 1979 I moved back home, to Mentone, and opened up my insurance office at home. Later we bought the Neighborhood Department Store and I moved my office up here," Moriarty said.

Moriarty admitted that he had not any experiences with local government but he had held several offices.

Besides managing his own business, Moriarty has been part of the United Way drive, President of Chamber of Commerce in Mentone, President of Youth League in Mentone, First-Vice-President of the Lion's Club and a member of the United Methodist Church, Trustee's Committee.

"I felt some things needed to be done and I'd like to see some changes and that is why I decided to run," Moriarty said.

Some of the changes Moriarty listed were to make some improvements in the park, upgrading of the water system in Mentone, new paving, and he would like to see the benches and flower pots back out on the city streets.

"Mentone needs a shot in the arm, fresh blood. Mentone needs to maintain a good growth pace. An influx of new and young businesses have helped. Mentone, like other small town's doesn't want to die economically," said Moriarty.

"But in order to attract commerce, Mentone must get a new water and sewage system and up grade their streets." Moriarty went on to say, "that's one area I am ready to work on."

The Akron Fire Department was called at 6:45 p.m. Saturday to the barn fire at the Elizabeth Freese farm on County Road 800 East, 1½ miles south of Indiana 14. No livestock was believed lost in the fire, but some hay stored in the barn burned.

Akron firefighters were at the scene until around midnight and were assisted by the Rochester Fire Department, which transported two loads of water to the scene.

Trees available

The Department of Natural Resources annually provide the Indiana residents an opportunity to buy large quantities of trees at very low prices. The trees are to be used for reforestation or conservation purposes. Information, order forms and price lists are now available at the Fulton County Extension Office, 223-3397. Orders should be placed early to assure availability of desired species.

Akron trooper receives award

Three veteran Troopers were awarded safe driving awards at the District Headquarters near Peru on September 13th, during the annual inspection. Lt. John Gaylor and Capt. Richard Shelton made the presentations.

Trooper Robert Brinson, Rt. 1, Amboy, was presented his second award of 150,000 accident free miles. Trooper Brinson is a four year veteran, presently assigned to duties in Wabash County.

Trooper John Dunn, Rt. 2, Box 108, Akron, was awarded his fourth award of 350,000 accident free miles. Trooper Dunn is an 11½ year veteran, assigned to Fulton County since his appointment to the Trooper ranks.

Trooper James Sullivan, Rt. 4, Box 242A, Peru, was awarded his seventh award of 700,000 accident free miles. Trooper Sullivan is an 18 year veteran of States Police service, serving most of his career in Miami County after a short time in Pendleton.

Willard appointed

Shirley Willard, Rochester, has been appointed to the Advisory Committee for the Indiana Newspaper Planning Project. This is part of the United States Newspaper Planning Project, whose purpose is to make a bibliography and microfilm all the newspapers in the U.S.

Mrs. Willard attended the group's meeting Sept. 30 in the Honeywell House, Wabash. Other members of the Advisory Committee include Donald Carmony of the Indiana University History Department, Eugene S. Pulliam, publisher of the Indianapolis Star/News; Earl Conn, Ball State University Journalism Department; and several other publishers and professors from around the state.

Mrs. Willard was the only historical society president to be appointed. The Fulton County Historical Society completed its newspaper bibliography and microfilmed the Fulton County newspapers in 1981. The bibliography was done by volunteers and money for the microfilming was donated by local individuals and clubs. The microfilming was done by Indiana Historical Society.

Temporary labortory

A temporary laboratory to analyze corn for aflatoxin has been established at Purdue University. Two types of tests for the toxin can be run. One, a mini-column test, is semi-quantitative up to 100 parts per test. The other, a thin layer chromatography (TLC) test, is quantitative for nearly all concentrations and, in addition, tells which aflatoxins (there are several) are present. The TLC costs $30 per test.

For more information on the testing or proper methods of sampling, contact Jeff Kissick at the Fulton Co. Extension Office, 223-3397.

Every effort will be made to process samples within 24 hours of receipt.

Plain Truth & Lebanon

The Lebanon ceasefire is a welcome first step in a hoped-for process of normalization in a hate-infested area. One suspects it was brought about more by naval gunfire than anything else—and if this is true President Reagan's boldness in being willing to use force and back the Marines has paid off.

Also, if true, it demonstrates again how handicapped any president is with hundreds of members of an opposition-controlled House publicly second-guessing every foreign policy move he makes. That applies to Central America as well as the Mideast, where Mr. Reagan has likewise acted boldly.

The Lebanon ceasefire may lead to a truly national government in that country. The Falange-Maronite regime set up after Israel's brutal invasion and shelling never had much chance. It was, in a sense, an Israeli puppet regime, with U.S. acquiescence.

That ignores the historical fact that Syria has always had special interests in Lebanon, and that Moslems are the majority.

If a consensus regime can be formed in Lebanon, that still leaves the question of Israeli occupation of the southern part of the country unsolved. It does end the "myth" of a treaty Secretary of State George Shultz negotiated.

That was really no meaningful treaty but an effort to make Shultz and the State Department appear to have accomplished something. (It was a treaty between a pro-West Lebanese faction and Israel—without the inclusion of Israel's real enemies, the Palestine Liberation Organization and Syria.)

The test in Lebanon is whether the U.S. can help bring all factions into agreement on an all-inclusive coalition government, and then persuade Israel—with guarantees—to get out of Lebanon.

That seems a remote possibility, judging from Washington's constant timidity in asserting itself with Israel, where three presidents have failed to stop new Jewish settlements in the West Bank. One suspects Israel will, similarly, be a long time in giving back southern Lebanon.

Yet even if a first step, establishment of a truly inclusive coalition Lebanese government, recognized by all sides, would be a major accomplishment.

Too Many Computers

Congressman Albert Gore of Tennessee is right in warning the country is being swept along in an excessive rush toward computerization. He says computers are not necessarily helpful in teaching all courses, harmful in some.

Gore says many teachers don't know how to utilize computers, that highpowered sales campaigns have oversold many.

Students who learn to depend on computers are often failing to develop their mental capabilities, to think for themselves.

In short, the stampede to buy computers for every home, school and business is unjustified. There's a glut of computers and computer-builders in the market and the hard sell is sometimes putting computers in places where there's no rational need for them.

BUSINESS and the STOCK MARKET

by BABSON'S REPORTS INC.

Bright Prospects For Do-Yourself Segment

By Babson's Reports Inc., Wellesley Hills, Mass., October 13, 1983. With the economic climate currently in a much improved posture vis-a-vis 1982, many business sectors are experiencing renewed vigor in demand for their products and services. The healthier tone of consumer spending patterns is not only indicative of improved confidence levels, but but also the perception that further progress is on the way. In the consumer area, one select group of companies, namely, firms catering to the do-it-yourself market, share in the brightening prospects for trade over the near term. Also worthy of note, the outlook for this field over the longer term is quite optimistic. Indeed, the Do-It-Yourself Institute projects an 11.9% annual growth rate from now through 1990—a scenario abundant with opportunities.

Potpouri of Participants

The do-it-yourself concept is not embryonic by any means. For several years it has been employed as a shrewd marketing concept. In fact, many products have been specifically designed to service this segment and, owing in part, to the increasing costs of professional labor, much success has been achieved to date. Do-it-yourself activities span many industries and interests. As such, many companies accrue the lion's share of their annual sales in this consumer area. By contrast, other firms, although active participants in do-it-yourself related products and services, derive the bulk of annual business from unrelated activities. Hence, due to the diverse nature of the field, its most important for investors to be aware of the relative contribution to revenues and profits so as to more properly assess the direction of a company's financial results.

Fertile Merchandising Area

Historically, home ownership has been one of the largest expenditures for many consumers. In truth, the American dream of owning one's "castle" led to uninterrupted growth in home ownership from the 1940s through the '70s decade.

In tandem with owning the castle came the needs for maintenance, repair, and/or improvement. As a result, the stage was set for forward-looking companies to capitalize upon established needs. Some firms, sensing the potential, established product demonstrations or provided instruction to use specially developed products. In general, housing proved to be one of the more fertile merchandising areas for the evolving do-it-yourself goods. More important, we anticipate a continuation of this trend for the foreseeable future.

Better Times Ahead

Although the do-it-yourself field has some unique features, the heavy involvement with consumer trade makes it susceptible to down-swings in the economic tempo. This was quite evident in 1982 when many firms in the do-it-yourself arena posted declines in revenues and profits. By contrast, though, the renewed vitality on the domestic business front is translating into financial gains for many participants. And we expect a continuation through year-end 1983 and well into 1984. Other favorable factors in the outlook include the gains achieved on the inflation front and the abundant availability of fuel. Also, inventories are not overly burdensome at present, and sales strength at the retail level should translate into increased production to refill the pipelines. Worth-while of note, too, many participating firms will benefit from cost-reduction programs implemented during the recession. All told, the pluses predominate in the outlook.

Retention of most related common stocks is advised for their longer-term growth potential. For purchase at this time, the staff of Babson's Reports favors the common stocks of Cooper Industries, Newell Companies, Payless Cashways, and Stanley Works for investment portfolios aimed at capital appreciation.

LETTER TO EDITOR

Valley Pride?

Yes we were beaten but we still need to show we have Valley Pride.

As an avid football fan I was very disappointed with Valley fans Friday night. When it was evident we were beaten the fans left in droves. Do you remember the remarks you made when we were winning and the opposing teams fans left. Maybe the boys teams fan left. Maybe the boys didn't play as we thought they should, but did you ever stop to think they were giving their all.

When they needed to know we were behind them win or lose we failed. Are we such poor losers we still can't have Valley Pride and let the boys know we are proud of them win or lose.

Let's get behind our team and let them know we still have that VALLEY PRIDE.

A PROUD Valley Fan

An open letter to the town officials and the community of Akron.

Good Morning!!

After a speeding vehicle has struck a school bus broad side loaded with children or a child darting across the street on their way to school or to the playground, killing or maiming them, it's too late to enforce or encourage speed limits.

Up here at the north end of town on North Mishawaka Street at the intersection of State Road 19 and Rural Street, which is the street into our school, which the loaded buses travel, we frequently see vehicles coming in and leaving town at extremely high speeds.

Our police officers have worked hard on enforcement, but understandably cannot be at the point of violation all hours of the day.

Fortunately, a killer accident hasn't happened, so we still have time to prevent one.

LOUISA'S LETTER

Dear Louisa,

I have two friends--one is very charming and is great fun to be with. The other is just a plain, ordinary girl, who doesn't attract much attention.

But, the first one is very changeable. She will be my best friend for weeks, and then I will see her with another group and she may not notice me for a month. Then when she gets tired of them or wants something I have, here she comes ready to start again where she left off.

My other friend is always the same, no matter where we are or who we are with. I know that I can count on her in time of trouble. But the other one is a lot of fun.

I am undecided about whom to have as my very best friend. What do you think?

Teen--Mississippi

Answer:

From your description, your charming friend is very self-centered and interested mainly in herself. Occasional fun and charm doesn't take the place of loyalty and dependability.

For my money, I would choose number two with no hesitation.

Keep on being friendly with number one, but recognize her for what she is and you will save being hurt or disillusioned later on.

The Film World

Americans should seriously analyze the effect of today's electronic film world on morals and behavioral patterns.

Anyone who watches what's available on cable television, for example, is exposed to a world of vulgarity, depravity and gutter-level behavior. What is passed off as art, or artistic license as exploiters like to call it, is often base immorality, filthy language and perversion of long-accepted standards of moral behavior.

A curious citizenry is often fascinated, naturally enough, with this trash and porno--this reversal of, or dissipating of, values. Nudity has always been a come-on and a money maker for film and show people who have long exploited it.

But what is the overall, long-term effect of this rot in American homes? Commercial television is sterile and coarse, aimed at the lowest level. But at least it has some (not enough) limits beyond which it doesn't go.

Some cable channels reach the sewer level with films of no merit, artistic or intellectually.

Every family faces this problem, and parents should limit viewing of cable channels--certain to affect the minds and morals of both young and old.

ON THE RAIL

by PHIL PINES, Director

The Hall of Fame of the Trotter, Goshen, N.Y.

The Commodore of Ponkapog

Now that the America's Cup races have been drydocked for a couple of years and the cheers of the winning Australians have subsided it is time to reveal a little known secret: one of harness racing's most prominent horsemen won The America's Cup twice! But the fact that any sportsman could win that coveted boat race two times--and with two different boats--is something special. Something else that was special was that this sportsman loved trotting horses as much as he loved sailing the bounding waves.

J. Malcolm Forbes was his name and money was his game. He had lots of it, inherited from his father who amassed a large fortune in the East India trade. Young Forbes had everything a man could ask for in this life--except one thing--he had wanted to go to Harvard and row with the varsity crew team. Instead, he went to M.I.T., graduated from there in 1869, went to work for Pop and made lotsa money. He (J. Malcolm's friends called him Mac, for what reason nobody knew) invested in railroads and Bell Telephone, in its early days. That made the pile even higher. With so many millions he decided to have some fun.

"Mac" had been racing boats from time to time of his first rubber ducky and enjoyed the reputation of being an expert amateur yachtsman. He was a member of the New York Yacht Club and was commodore of the Eastern Yacht Club. With other members of a syndicate, Forbes built the Puritan, winner of the 1885 America's Cup. He later became sole owner of the Puritan, sold it, and bought the Volunteer which defeated the Scots for the 1887 America's Cup.

Commodore "Mac" was a dominant man, considered by some a crusty disciplinarian. He addressed the employees of his office by the title "Mr." Just the guys, of course. His yacht officers and crew received the same courtesy. They called him "Mr.", too (Except for his friends who called him Mac.)

A couple of years or so after conquering the sea, "Mac" (to his friends) decided to become a land lubber and went into the business of breeding trotting horses. Did right well at that, too. He started buying up land at the base of Blue Hill in a part of Massachusetts known as Ponkapog. Here he erected spacious, well-ventilated stables, fenced off some paddocks, and constructed a three-quarter mile track.

When he looked about and saw that this was good, Forbes said: "I shall get myself some horses to roam this land." And he did. Some REAL GOOD horses. He first needed a young stallion to place at the head of his stud and shelled out $125,000 for a horse named Arion, the highest price ever paid for a trotter up to that time. Arion was brought from the Palo Alto Farm in California to the Forbes Farm early in the winter of 1892. Prices on choice trotting stock were at the high water mark at that time and Forbes bought several mares, also, from Palo Alto--paying top dollar. The bottom dropped out of that market and all other markets the following year. But that's what makes horse racing,

Forbes didn't stop there. He bought the famous trotting mare Nancy Hanks, campaigned her during the 1892 season--the year the low wheel bike sulky was introduced--and before the year was out Nancy was the new world's champion. He kept buying horses: Bingen, Peter the Great, apparently following another prosperous horseman who once advised, "If a horse suits you, buy him and pay the price."

When he died at the age of 57 in 1904, J. Malcolm Forbes left his widow--he had been twice married--three sons and three daughters. The two oldest boys were in college at the time. Guess where? Harvard.

Drunk Driving Legislation - know the facts

September 1, 1983, the new Operating A Vehicle While Intoxicated statute became effective in Indiana. There are some definite changes from the prior law, but it is largely a reorganization. This report has been written with the cooperation of state and local law enforcement officers and Fulton County Prosecuting Attorney, Richard A. Brown. The purpose is to inform the public of the basic facts and to do so with common terminology.

A new crime has been defined in the law which is referred to as the "per se" offense. "Per se" is the Operation of a Vehicle with .10% or more alcohol in the blood. DWI or Driving While Intoxicated has not been changed from the prior law. Intoxicated means operating a vehicle while under the influence of alcohol, a controlled substance, any drug other than alcohol or controlled substances or any combination that causes impaired condition of thought and action and loss of the normal control of a person's faculties to an extent that it endangers any person. This statute applies to anyone age 16 and up.

A law enforcement officer who has probable cause to believe that a person has committed an offense under this statute shall request a chemical test, which is an analysis of a person's breath, blood, urine or other bodily substance to detect the presence of intoxicants. Any combination of chemical tests may be requested within a 3 hour period. If the tests results show a blood alcohol content to be .10% or over, the person may be charged with a violation of "per se" or DWI. The driving license or permit is obtained immediately and a valid receipt is given. The person may drive with this receipt until the Bureau of Motor Vehicles suspends the driving license. The officer prepares a Probable Cause Affidavit explaining the violation, attaches the driving license and submits both to the prosecutor as soon as possible. If the prosecuting attorney determines probable cause for a violation, the Probable Cause Affidavit is signed and filed with the Clerk of Court. Upon signature by a judge who agrees there was probable cause, the clerk will notify the Bureau of Motor Vehicles for immediate suspension of the driving license for 180 days or until the court rules on the case, whichever comes first. There is a minimum of 30 days suspension that cannot be modified by the court.

Refusal to submit to any chemical tests will result in suspension of driving privileges for 1 year. The officer shall inform the person that refusal will result in suspension and if the person still refuses any chemical test, the officer will follow the above described procedure. The person will be charged with DWI if driving ability was impaired. Any license suspension imposed by the court will be in addition to the 1 year suspension for refusing to take the test.

The "per se" offense is a Class C misdemeanor with a maximum penalty of 60 days imprisonment and maximum $500 fine. DWI is a Class A misdemeanor with maximum penalties of up to 1 year imprisonment and $5,000 fine. Additionally in the case of first offense, the court may suspend driving privileges for not less than 90 days and not more than 2 years or place the person on probation for 180 days. Probation includes not violating any traffic law or terms of the probation and restricted driving privileges which allow driving to and from work, to and from court-ordered treatment programs and for specific purposes in exceptional circumstances. If probation is granted, restricted driving privileges cannot take effect until after the license has been suspended at least 30 days.

A person who commits either the "per se" or DWI offense and has a previous conviction of either offense must be imprisoned for a minimum of 5 days or perform 10 days community service within 6 months after the date of sentencing. The offense may be charged as a Class D felony with maximum penalties of up to 4 years imprisonment and $10,000 fine. In addition, the court shall suspend the driving privileges for not less than 1 year or more than 2 years.

The court shall order reinstatement of driving privileges if the prosecuting attorney dismisses all the charges and states on the record that no charges will be refilled. This applies to all cases and charges.

It should be noted that a person may be arrested for DWI if the blood alcohol is at least .05% but less than .10%. According to a chart located in the Fulton County Sheriff Department, 3 ozs. of 100 proof liquor or 36 ozs. of beer will probably show at least .05% blood alcohol in most people ranging from 100 to 240 lbs. Subtract .01% for each 40 minutes of drinking. Regarding the lower age of 16 and up, local officers stated that parents or guardians would be notified of arrests of those under the age of 18. In Fulton County and probably all counties, those 18 and above will be jailed for a sobering up time.

Indiana has always had tough drunk driving laws. The major result of the new law is in terms of suspension of driving privileges. The process is much faster and a license can be suspended before the case goes to court. There are cases pending that challenge the constitutionality of the new law, but unless the Appellate Court of Indiana states that it is unconstitutional, it is law, effective September 1, 1983.

Fulton County Prosecutor Richard A. Brown and the Indiana State Police are available to organizations or groups interested in knowing more about this law. Peru post number is (317) 473-6666 and the Prosecutor's number is 223-6147.

Fulton Circuit Court

Civil

The court found the allegations to be true in complaints filed under the Reciprocal Support Act by Dorina Anne Collins against Archie Reed Collins; Carol Shambarger Bahney against Charles K. Shambarger, and Patricia Sue Williams Figert against Gregory Williams.

A petition for dissolution of marriage filed by Judy and Gerald Bailey was dismissed at Mrs. Bailey's request.

Luella and Steven Ihnen were granted dissolution of marriage.

Akron Exchange State Bank was granted a default judgment of $4,393.75 plus court costs from a complaint on promissory note filed against Howard O. Scott, Plymouth.

Rebecca Ann Cunningham filed a petition for citation of contempt of court for non-payment of child support against Glenn Leland Cunningham.

The court ordered Donald K. Coplen to reimburse the State of California $594. A complaint under the Reciprocal Support Act was filed against Coplen by Cindy S. Coplen in June 1982. The court noted that although the Coplens are presently reconciled, California must be reimbursed for money expended for the care of the Coplen's minor child.

Cleo and Louise Drudge dismissed a complaint to foreclose a real estate contract against Larry Lee and Betty Ann McConkey.

The following filed for dissolutions of marriage: Angela and Neil A. Kamp, and Linda Sue and Ricky Alan Miller.

The court dismissed a suit filed by Lucy K. Wilson Hendrix and William S. Wilson against Union Bank and Trust Co., Elwood W. Hillis and William P. O'Mahoney.

The suit was moved here from Cass County in June. Hendrix and Wilson had sought damages for alleged deceptions in the administration of trusts created with them as beneficiaries in the last will and testament of Lucy Schuler Wilson. The court granted the motion to dismiss the charge because the issues in the suit are the same as a suit in Tipton Circuit Court.

The court dismissed a complaint filed by D. James Templeton against Alan Terrell and Rochester Telephone Co. Templeton filed the suit April 4 in a protest against paying federal taxes on telephone service. The court's order denied a motion by Rachel Templeton to be named as a plaintiff in the suit along with her husband; denied a motion by the defendants to strike the suit from court records because Mrs. Templeton was practicing law without authorization, and denied a motion by the Templetons to correct errors. The case was dismissed on the defense motion that the suit filed to state a claim upon which relief could be granted. It was dismissed without prejudice to be refiled.

The court found Danny Joe Whittington to be in contempt of court for failing to pay child support as ordered. The court ordered Whittington to resume making child support payments and to pay an additional amount each week toward the $2,590 he had fallen behind. If any payment is not made in the next eight weeks, the court ruled Whittington must report to the Fulton County Jail at 9 a.m. on Saturday and not be released until 5 p.m. Sunday.

Leiters Ford State Bank dismissed a complaint to foreclose mortgage against William D. and DeEsa J. Baker. The suit was filed in August.

Trippedi to attend symposium

John Hill, principal of Tippecanoe Valley High School, announced that Dawn Trippedi, daughter of Mrs. Patricia Trippedi, and Joe Ousley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Ousley Sr. have been selected as Tippecanoe Valley's High School representatives to the Seventh Annual Symposium for Tomorrow's Leaders.

The Symposium will be held at the Indiana Central University campus on December 10, 1983. Last year more than 500 students from 237 high schools attended this exciting event. The forum of this year's Symposium will be national issues. Guest lectures from academic, business, labor, and government will debate the controversial issues.

The Symposium is planned by Senator Richard Lugar.

Yearbooks available at Tippy Valley

The Tippecanoe Valley High School 1983-84 yearbooks will go on sale October 10, 1983. Books will be sold at noon, in the commons, until October 19. On Thursday morning, October 20, a drawing will be held for those who bought books. Prizes donated by area businesses will be given away. Local business representatives are invited to attend the drawing and present the donated prizes.

The Valley journalism class has also begun selling advertising to local businesses to finance the 1983-84 yearbook. Students will be selling ads through November. Anyone who is not contacted, and who is interested in purchasing advertising space in the yearbook, should contact Mrs. Terri Klotz at 353-7888.

The 1982-83 yearbooks have been distributed. Last year's graduating seniors must pick up their books or make other arrangements no later than November 18, 1983.

Census survey checks school enrollment

The U.S. Bureau of the Census will conduct its regular survey on employment and unemployment in this area during the week of October 17-22, 1983, according to Stanley D. Moore, Director of the Bureau's Regional Office in Chicago.

In addition to the usual questions on current employment, the October survey will contain questions on school enrollment. Also, questions will be asked to obtain information on non-collegiate post secondary enrollment and student mobility, as well as time spent on homework by elementary and high school students.

Households in this area are part of the sample of 72,000 across the country scientifically selected to represent a cross section of all U.S. households.

The monthly survey is conducted for the U.S. Department of Labor and provides a continuous record of activity in the labor force. The August survey indicated that of the 112.3 million men and women in the civilian labor force, 101.6 million were employed. The nation's unemployment rate was 9.5 percent, unchanged from the 9.5 percent reported in July.

Information supplied by individuals participating in the survey is kept strictly confidential by law and the results are used only to compile statistical totals.

Business ethics will improve when the public applauds a man for not making profit his sole aim in all transactions.

Mentone's eighth grade football team lost its first game of the year last Tuesday, losing to Rochester 28-0.

The seventh grade team came out on top of Rochester with a 8-0 win. The Mentone seventh grade record is 3-1-1.

Toby Green scored on a 27-yard pass from Dion Anglin for the only TD of the game.

Ben Anderson ran the extra-point for Mentone. Anderson rushed for 47 yards.

The defense did an outstanding job; led by Troy Busenberg with 16 tackle points and Jim Oden with 12.

Mentone's next game will be against South Whitley at TVHS field on Oct. 13, beginning at 4:30 p.m.

TV Freshmen win

Tippecanoe Valley quarterback John McDaniel scored on a two-point conversion on a bootleg to provide the winning points in the Vikings' 22-20 freshman football victory over NorthWood Thursday.

McDaniel's PAT run followed a fourth-quarter, six-yard touchdown run by Andrew Wood that tied the game. Earlier, Valley's Jamie Cullison scored TDs on runs of three and 55 yards. Cullison also ran a two-pointer.

Carl Duncan caught two passes for 48 yards for the Vikes. Leading the defense were McDaniel with three interceptions, Tom Finney and Corey Hoffman. The Vikes stopped NorthWood at the Valley one yard line as time expired.

Now 5-1, the Vikes will visit Whitko Thursday.

It's amazing how excited some people can get over little things.

Oak Hill downs Vikings

The Tippecanoe Valley Vikings lost their first game of the season to No. 2 ranked Oak Hill, 37-10 Friday night.

The loss drops Valley one game behind Oak Hill in the Three Rivers Conference race with a 5-1 record. The Golden Eagles up their marks to 8-0 overall and 5-0 in the conference.

Tim Christlieb, the Oak Hill quarterback went back to pass for the first play of the game, he was hit at the 15-yard line, fumbled the ball into the endzone, where Valley's Scott Teel fell on it to put the Vikings ahead 6-0. Shad McConkey added the PAT kick. McConkey scored next on a 30-yard field goal.

Oak Hill scored halfway through the second quarter on an 8-yard pass to Jon Hudson. On the following kickoff Valley's Joe Hughes took the kick over his shoulder and stepped into the end zone and slipped to the ground. Officials then signaled a safety and Oak Hill was closing in with the Vikes ahead, 10-9.

The Golden Eagles took the lead for good with 2½ minutes left in the first half when Hudson ran a reverse and scored from 12 yards out. The Eagles picked up the PAT and the score was 16-10 at halftime.

Oak Hill's last TD in the fourth quarter came on a 13-yard run by Hudson, and Lance Bookshire kicked the PAT.

Valley will battle the Rochester Zebras on Barnhart Field at 7:30 p.m. Friday.

FOOTBALL *****

By Pete Fritchie

WASHINGTON, D. C. -- The impression grows Dallas is the luckiest team in pro football. The Cowboys were lucky to defeat Washington 31-30 in the season opener.

They were luckier to defeat New Orleans in the fourth game of the season, 21-20. The Saints were driving for a touchdown in the 4th quarter, ahead by seven.

Thwarted, New Orleans went for the field goal. That would have made a ten point lead. The field goal kick was blocked and a Cowboy grabbed the ball and scampered all the way for a touchdown. Dallas missed the after-TD point and trailed now 19-20.

Then Dallas appeared to take charge. Danny White completed a pass or two but it was Tony Dorsett who gained most of the yardage. Dallas was on the Saints' fifteen with two minutes to play.

Obviously, no chance could be taken. The course was clear: Run the ball three times to eat up the clock--with backs who aren't likely to fumble (as Dorsett often does). Then kick a field goal if no touchdown.

Danny White incredibly threw a pass on first down--straight into the arms of a Saint. Thus Dallas threw away its chance for an almost-certain win.

The Saints took over on their own two and Ken Stabler pulled a bonehead stunt of his own--matching White's (or coach Tom Landry's). Stabler let himself be tackled in the end zone trying to pass (like White). A quarterback sneak was the call, to get away from the goal.

That was two points, made the score 21-20. And Dallas had win number four. Every time Dallas had come from behind to win. That can't continue all season.

One gets the feeling Dallas isn't going through the whole season like this--or undefeated.

Tax credits available for school computer donors

Tax credits totalling $750,000 are now available to Indiana businesses and individuals donating computer hardware and software to state educational institutions, according to State Superintendent of Public Instruction, Dr. Harold H. Negley.

Negley referred to a new program enacted by the 1983 General Assembly authorizing tax credits to donors of computer equipment to Indiana public schools, universities, and vocational institutions.

Although the program officially went into effect July 1, 1983, the application procedure was not written until August 30, and an interim rule accepting the procedures and guidelines was just approved by the three participating state agencies on September 14.

Negley used the occasion of the second meeting of the Indiana Consortium for Computer and High Technology Education to publicize the new tax credit program in the hopes of encouraging firms to consider donating computers and software to educational institutions. As part of this effort, he is contacting the State Chamber of Commerce and Indiana Manufacturers Association asking their help in getting the word out on the new law.

"This new program is but one way our state government is speeding the introduction of computers into Hoosier classrooms," Negley said.

"These Tax Credits are ideal for the company upgrading its computer equipment and left with older yet still-functioning hardware and software," he said. "Or, these credits can apply to the computer-buff who is likewise buying a more sophisticated system and who is left with equipment that he no longer needs or uses. We want to encourage these firms and individuals to consider this new program. Not only will they save on their taxes, but our educational system will be the better for it."

Under the new law, any person, corporation, or corporate partnership subject to the Indiana personal or corporation income tax may apply. For qualified equipment, the credit to the taxpayer for a fiscal year is the lesser of:

18.75% of the book value of used equipment; or 25% of the cost of new equipment; or $25,000.

Credits apply to the year during which the donated equipment was actually received by the donee institution.

Other limitations include: A cap of $750,000 for all credits in any one fiscal year has been imposed;

Institutions receiving the equipment must be able to use the equipment for instructional purposes;

The donated equipment cannot be obsolete;

Only equipment items donated after June 30, 1983 and during taxable years beginning before January 2, 1985 are eligible for the credits under this program.

Applications are forwarded to one of three state agencies, depending upon which type of educational institution is to receive the computer-related equipment.

The agencies and the applicable institutions are:

For public schools (grades K-12, excepting vocational programs): Department of Public Instruction.

For institutions of higher education (above the 12th grade) education (above the 12th grade, excepting vocational programs): Commission for Higher Education.

For public vocational/technical institutions or schools, or which offers vocational/technical programs: State Board of Vocational and Technical Education.

As of Tuesday, October 4, only two applications for the credits had been received by the Department of Public Instruction. No applications had been received by the Commission on Higher Education or the State Board of Vocational and Technical Education.

Industrial Arts

The small engine classes at TVHS have been studying in the areas of basic components, disassembly and reassembly procedures of the 4-cycle gas engine. Both the 5th and 6th period classes were involved in a class project of disassembly and reassembly of an engine. Each class was competing to see who could get their engine to run first. In the end, each class tied as both engines started Friday, Sept. 9th.

During the four-day project, each student was involved in a particular task of disassembly and reassembly of the engine under the teacher's guidance. Now students are involved in working on their own small engines.

In the General Metals area students are learning about gas and arc welding, lathe and other machining shop operations, sheet metal fabrication. In the metals area there is a heavy emphasis placed on welding as students are required to complete different types of welds.

In the Electronics III class the students have been working with power supply fitters. The major objective is to show the students how an AC power supply can be changed into a DC power supply and also how the filter helps to remove ripple. This is very important since most electronic equipment runs off of ripple free DC.

In the Graphics Arts I class the students are finishing up on their project. This project is a small note pad for one of the high school teachers. The project consists of all the steps from drawing up a design for the project, taking a picture of the drawing, burning a plate to running off 100 copies on the press.

The Graphic Arts II class is hard at work running off all kinds of jobs from report cards for the elementary schools, programs for football and volleyball games, to the many other forms used by the Tippecanoe Valley School Corporation. Some of the students are also working in the area of photo process screen printing. They have been screen printing on T-shirts. Other students have been learning how to use the enlarger and make black and white photographic prints.

The students have been instructed on the proper safety to be observed in a workshop. The instruction involved not only the proper handling of equipment but emphasis on safe attitude while working in a workshop.

Following this the student developed plans for their project, whereupon practical application of the safety and planning skill were put to use in the creation of a woods project.

Social Studies

1. Independent research on selected topics as a class.

2. Position papers by students on various problems occurring in the world today. Ex. 1. Korean jet shot down. 2. Lebanon and our Marines.

In my U.S. History classes we just completed our second test over chapter 3, 4, and 5. We will now be starting the time period that includes the American Revolution.

For one of my bulletin boards we have a President of the Week. This is to try and help the students learn the Presidents in order. Each student in the class will be assigned a President.

Another one of my bulletin boards is the Person of the Week. This person can be whoever they select. The idea of this is to help keep the students informed on current events in the U.S. and World.

Gov't. students recently returned from a trip to Gilligans Island. These were group projects where each group was the crew of a ship that became marooned on a deserted island. There were 250 other men, women, and children on the ship. The island was plentiful in food, water, and resources. It was up to each crew to set up a government and a complete society for their island.

There was a wide diversity of societies produced. Governments included oligarchies, anarchies, aristocracies, democracies, and republics. Economic systems covered capitalist, socialist, and communist.

Science

The students in ninth grade science are being introduced to the science occurring around them. This began with an introduction to problem solving and continues with the introduction to the building blocks of all matter, the atom.

In all of the life sciences, Biology I, Biology II, and Human Anatomy and Physiology, the students have been involved in developing a working knowledge of the matter that all life is composed of. That type of matter being the cell and the molecules that the cell is composed of. This basic knowledge is essential for the biology student when studying the processes that different types of cell perform, for example, photosynthesis in a plant cell. This type of information is equally essential for the students in Human Anatomy and Physiology when examining the processes within the human body. The biology students have been given several long term assignments; those being a set of 10 species accounts that are due each nine weeks and a list of plants that they are responsible for collecting as specimens. The biology II students are working on debate topics for presentation during each of the grading periods. The Human anatomy and physiology students have just finished preparing their fetal pigs for dissection. The dissection of the fetal pig is intended to give the student a comparison of tissues, organs, and systems to those that compose a human organism. The first system that the students will be discussing is the muscular system.

The chemistry students have completed their discussion on matter and two of its properties, inertia and energy. In the lab, the students have been involved with measuring mass, using a vernier scale and determining the volume of irregular solids. They have also been reviewing some of the math skills which will be used to do calculations with experimental data. Some of those skills are: metrics, problem solving using the Factor-Label method, and scientific notation and exponential calculation.

In physics, the students just completed a lab exercise to experimentally determine the acceleration of gravity. The results were to be compared to the accepted value and the percent of error determined. This followed the chapter in the text in which we were studying the "nature and Cause of Motion."

Home Economics

The first year foods students are studying a different category of food each week. The lessons consist of text book readings, demonstrations, and lab. The hands-on experience in lab is valuable to the students as it gives them an opportunity to put into practice the theory learned from the book. The lab experiences are planned in the hopes that the students will take the recipes home and prepare some of the foods for their family.

It is a valuable learning experience for the students to try new foods. Several different dishes are prepared each week and each student samples all of the foods. Many foods are introduced which may be new and different to some students. The first lesson was fruits.

The advanced food students concentrate on nutrition, meal planning, and being a wise consumer. Many of their labs will consist of preparing and serving entire meals. Guests are invited to share their meals.

Jack Miller and Jim Hodges compete for Ward 2 seat

Editor's Note: Elections for town board will be held in both Akron and Mentone on Tuesday, November 8, with both Democrat and Republican parties boasting a full slate of candidates. This is the third in a series of articles spotlighting each candidate in this year's race.

Akron's First Race in 20 Years

Jack Miller (54), 603 E. Water St., Akron, is attempting for the second time to be elected to the town board. Miller, a resident of Akron for 28 years, previously ran for the board in the last election, 20 years ago, and was defeated by about ten votes.

But this isn't the only coincidence in Miller's candidacy.

This may be the first time in Akron/Mentone history that the two towns have brothers running for positions on the town board. Miller's younger brother, Jim, Mentone, is currently seeking reelection to the town board there, prompting Jack to joke, "We're trying to run these towns."

Miller was born and raised in Mentone but moved to Akron 28 years ago. For the past 26 years he's worked at Sonoco Products, and is currently shipping clerk there. He and his wife Sharon have two daughters, Lu Ann (Mrs. David) Stafford, Silver Lake and Debra Miller, Rochester. He attends the Akron Methodist Church and has been an EMS driver for six years.

When asked why he was running for the board, Miller replied, "For the same reasons as 20 years ago—the town needs a change. We need some new blood-making decisions."

"The town needs to go in forward gear. I like to work with and for people, and would do so to the best of my ability. I'm willing, if elected, to listen to people and try to solve the problems of the town. I'd like to see more people attend town board meetings, because then the members have something to work

Tippe Valley implements Drug Abuse Program

Students in grades one through six in the TVSC were off last Wednesday while their teachers attended a drug abuse workshop.

The teachers were participating in an in-service program. Dr. Artie Kearney, Appleton, WI, instructed the teachers in implementing a drug abuse curriculum.

Kearney wrote and developed curriculum materials to be used in the "Mc, Me" program. This program was designed to prevent future drug abuse by promoting positive self-images for young children.

Rick Ralston, head of the TVSC Community Advisory Council said that students in grades one through six will receive one hour of instruction per week for the remainder of the school year. "The scheduling will be up to the classroom teachers," Ralston said.

According to Ralston, Triton and Rochester Schools are already using the "Mc, Me" program. "In fact we had three teachers from Triton at our training," said Ralston.

Funds for the program have already been appropriated from a block grant. According to Ralston training the teachers, "is a one time thing." When asked about new teachers coming into the corporation, Ralston said he feels that the other teachers will be able to instruct him/her on the drug abuse program.

"Last year the 'Mc, Me' program decided that something should follow-up in the higher grades." Right now the program is under-developed for the Jr. High and High School levels. "It usually takes about a year for those kinds of things to get implemented," Ralston said.

County ASCS office desires information

The Fulton County ASCS Office desires to obtain information concerning individuals in the county who have available forage harvesting or handling equipment and who also are interested in doing custom work. Many acres of crops usually harvested for grain will not yield grain this year because of the drought. These crops will, however, yield roughage for livestock feed.

Many producers own grain harvesting equipment but they may not have the equipment necessary for harvesting or handling forage. Therefore, the ASCS office wishes to compile a listing of those farmers who have the forage equipment and would be willing to do custom work. This listing will be maintained in the county office as well as in neighboring county offices. All interested producers are asked to contact the Fulton County ASCS Office at 513 Main Street, Rochester; phone 223-3398.

Dr. Herrick honored for 50 years

Dr. Charles L. Herrick of Akron is among 39 Indiana physicians to be honored at the Oct. 14-17 annual convention of the Indiana State Medical Association for 50 years of service.

his practice in Akron in 1933 and has been a physician there ever since, except for 10 years in the military. He maintains regular office hours.

On Saturday, October 15, Herrick observed his 77th birthday.

Akron Fire Department fights blaze

The Akron Fire Department was called to the burning home of John Hudkins on County Road 250 South, east of County Road 800 East in Henry Township at 9:30 p.m. Wednesday.

The Akron Dept. was assisted by the Rochester Fire Department's tank truck which delivered water to the scene. Akron firemen had not set a cause or damage estimate for the blaze as of yet.

Firemen said the interior of the house was badly damaged, but the building was still standing. Rochester firemen returned to the station at 10:35 p.m. and Akron firemen remained at the scene about another hour.

George Reed, 48, was killed instantly Sunday night about 8 p.m. when the car he was driving crashed into the rear end of a truck on state road 14, west of Rochester.

Reed, who was a plasterer by trade, was enroute to Chicago where he was employed. The truck driven by Bill Conley, Rochester, Rt. 4, was stopped to make a left turn into his driveway, known as the E.L. Mitchell farm.

Reed's car hit the truck with such force it went under the truck and the car top was crushed down, causing a skull fracture.

Miss Louise Brumbaugh, a supervisor in the Fort Wayne schools, will be the speaker next Monday night at the November meeting of the Henry Township Parent-Teachers Association.

Miss Brumbaugh will speak on the topic, "Are Children Different Than They Used to be?"

The meeting begins at 7:30 p.m. and all parents and teachers are urged to attend.

Whit Gast accompanied by Mrs. Gast left Monday for the Methodist Hospital at Rochester, Minnesota, where he will be a patient at the Mayo Bros. Clinic. He made the trip in the Sheetz ambulance.

Dr. A.E. (Dick) Stinson, popular physician of the Athens community, was named Hoosier Physician of the Year by the Indiana State Medical Association at its annual meeting at French Lick Springs Hotel this week.

Dr. Stinson has practiced in the Athens community for 51 years, making his first calls by bicycle. Later he acquired a horse and buggy.

Dr. Stinson was born in Cleveland seventy-five years ago, moving with his parents, Archibald and Josephine Davidson Stinson, to a farm in Newcastle Township when he was only two years old.

The doctor gained his education the hard way, riding horseback twelve miles a day to complete his high school work. He later graduated from the College of Physicians and Surgeons at Indianapolis, an I.U. affiliate.

During his years of practice, he has had many occasions to practice the Hippocratic oath taken by all physicians and his many Fulton county friends think he is eminently qualified to be named the Doctor of the Year. He is also eligible now for the national title.

Dr. and Mrs. Stinson and their son, Dr. Dean Stinson, who is Fulton County Republican chairman, attended the medical sessions. The elder Dr. Stinson uses a wheel chair as a result of a hip fracture.

"The town can move ahead," Miller concluded, "with the right people in the job."

Jack Miller, Ward 2, Akron
Jim Hodges, Ward 2, Akron
Jim Hodges (48), 215 Saner Drive, Akron, is the Republican candidate in Ward 2. Hodges is the quality control manager at the Sonoco plant in Akron.

Hodges has worked with Sonoco for 23 years. He was plant manager of the Longview, TX Sonoco plant and he started a Sonoco plant in Boone, Iowa. Hodges has lived in Akron for the past two and a half years.

"We have moved alot, but we love the town of Akron and the people. We consider Akron as our home. It's nice to raise children here," Hodges said.

Hodges said that board members are people that represent the town of Akron, and "the members need to listen more to the people. That's the prime ingredient to town management and government," Hodges went on to say, "I feel that I would be a good man for the job. I've had years in business, dealing with people.

and I would like to improve on things for people in my ward, for people in the town of Akron."

Hodges is no stranger to working with finances. "In my plant management posts, I have done the budgeting for the different plants, and helped keep the plants running, in order to make a profit for Sonoco.

"I feel I can represent my ward and act on their needs, on their behalf." The present town board needs to ask the public more. Maybe the town of Akron hasn't been asked anything. The public needs to be asked. They (the members) can't act on those needs without asking," Hodges said.

Hodges family consists of Janice, his wife, a homemaker, Jimmy, a senior at Ball State University, Fran, a senior at TVHS, and Will, a sixth-grader at Akron Junior High.

Hodges is a graduate of the University of Akron and majored in business. He is also a member of the Akron United Methodist Church and a member of the American Society for Quality Control.

NIPSCO says now is good time to prepare for winter

Early fall is a good time to prepare residences and other buildings for energy conservation, Northern Indiana Public Service Company said recently.

The company, in its September bill insert, "Energy News," lists several ways customers can control the amount of energy used this winter.

NIPSCO said having the right amount of insulation in ceilings, floors and walls is the most effective way to conserve heat by keeping the warm heated air in and the cold air out.

Other proven methods of conservation are installing tight-fitting storm doors and windows, weatherstripping and caulking around windows and doors and joints between masonry and wood.

A heating system tune-up by a reputable heating contractor is another good way to save energy this winter, NIPSCO says. Furnaces need tune-ups just as other machinery does. Periodic checks by experts can keep your heating system running more efficiently and using less energy.

The company offers home energy audits in which state-certified specialists analyze residences and recommend conservation steps which can be taken to properly weatherize the home or residence.

Any customer interested in having a home energy audit should contact the local NIPSCO customer service office. The audit carries a $15 charge for which NIPSCO will bill on a separate statement after the survey is completed.

Customers can control the size of their energy bills by choosing to use only the energy needed and use it wisely.

NIPSCO said that conservation is an important energy source. Even though the Company's gas rates are among the lowest in the nation and expected to be equal to those charged last winter, the cost of all forms of energy represents a much larger share than ever before of the average customer's household budget and, therefore, the Company continues to urge its customers to use energy wisely.

VA asks for ex-POW re-examination

The VA has ordered new, voluntary examination for all former prisoners of war (POWs) whose claims for service-connected disability were decided after Oct. 1, 1981, and received unfavorable action by the VA.

These new examinations are NOT MANDATORY, they are voluntary. No former POW will face benefit reduction if they choose not to be re-examined as a result of this VA request. The new examinations will benefit most veterans who are not receiving all of the service-connected disability benefits they're entitled by law. However, a new look will be taken at all service-connected conditions during these examinations. And this could result in reduced ratings for some former POWs.

VA to mail questionnaires

The VA is mailing the Annual Income Questionnaires for pensioners and DIC parents separate from the November checks. It is hoped that this separate mailing will avoid the problems of lost questionnaires and questionnaires going to financial institutions for those that utilize the direct deposit program.

There are many changes made to this years questionnaires and many persons who previously have been exempt will receive questionnaires this year.

If the beneficiary should decide to complete the questionnaire themselves, it is important that no questions be left blank when the questionnaire is returned to the VA. Blank spaces may cause a delay or termination of benefits until the questions are resolved. Answer any question that does not apply to you with the word "none" or a zero. Answer any question that applies to you but you do not know the answer with the word "unknown" (or UNK). Answering a question with unknown will generate an inquiry from the Regional Office but will prevent termination of the benefit during the time that it takes to find the answers.

Should there be any doubt about how to correctly complete the questionnaire, beneficiaries are encouraged to ask the county Veterans Service Officer for assistance. If you want assistance, please do not write on the questionnaire (there are no extra copies available) and bring all the necessary records with you. You may come to the office in the courthouse, or, in the case of a disabled beneficiary, call 223-2217 to arrange for an appointment in your home for assistance. If you should call and get the answering service, please leave your name and telephone number.

The questionnaires must be mailed to reach the Philadelphia VA office before January 1, 1984.

Andropov

The Korean airliner incident and arms negotiations have given the West an initial measurement of the calibre of the new leader of the Soviet Union. It is a grim analysis--and offers no reason for optimism.

Neither Andropov nor the present leadership ever apologized for the killing of 269 airliner passengers. Rather, the Kremlin showed intense bitterness at the U.S., and the denunciations Andropov publicly hurled at this country are the harshest since the days of Stalin.

Andropov said relations between the U.S. and USSR could not be improved until there is another leader in the White House. In response to President Reagan's recent concessions on arms controls, announced in a U.N. speech, Andropov and Pravda have brushed them off coldly, rejecting them totally, and warned again that if the U.S. deploys new missiles in Germany, it would take appropriate retaliatory action.

No-Smoking Flights

SAS, the Scandinavian Airline System, is the first major airline to offer travelers no-smoking flights. Thus far, such flights are confined to destinations within Scandinavia. No smoking is allowed aboard.

This is recognition of new medical knowledge, that the inhalation of tobacco smoke in confined areas is definitely harmful, dangerously harmful to some.

It has long been an irony that while such places as theaters bar smoking, small, cramped airliners, flying in thin oxygen and only partially compensating for this by adding oxygen to passenger cabins, allow smokers to pollute the air of all passengers.

The public's realization that this is a serious health hazard has forced the airlines to set aside forward seats for non-smokers. But this is only a compromise and does not fully protect non-smokers, even though the percentage of non-smoking seats is steadily increasing.

SAS pioneer reform is but the first of many airline policy changes certain to be seen soon. And while commendable, by applying this new policy only to flights within Scandinavia, SAS failed to protect those passengers whose health is most endangered--those on long transatlantic flights, or other trans-ocean flights--confined for seven hours or more.

BUSINESS and the STOCK MARKET

by BABSON'S REPORTS INC.

Bright Outlook For Christmas Sales

By Babson's Reports Inc., Wellesley Hills, Mass., October 20, 1983. Although the economy has slowed to a more measured pace over the past several weeks, business is still expanding on balance and comparisons with year-earlier levels are quite favorable in most instances. In point of fact, the more orderly rate of expansion should make for a more solid upturn that will feature only a moderate increase in inflationary pressures.

That in turn should assure longer duration and better quality for the upturn than would likely have been the case if economic activity had continued to bound along at the dramatically high rates seen last spring. Hence, if interest rates can be held within the current levels--or if they move lower between now and the year's end--we believe consumers will be encouraged to spend more in the fourth quarter than they did during the corresponding period in either 1981 or 1982.

Industrial Production and GNP

Barring anything more than just slight further firming of credit rates and/or escalation of armed conflict in Central America or the Mideast, the Research Department of Babson's Reports expects additional near-term gains in the Federal Reserve Index of Industrial Production. Fourth-quarter comparisons with the like period of 1982 will be very encouraging, setting the stage for good pre-holiday retail sales.

Study of the varied categories included in U.S. Gross National Product also indicates that this economic barometer will move steadily higher in the months immediately ahead. Right now, GNP seems to be growing at a healthy, sustainable 7% above a year ago. The further moderate rise that is expected should be an additional catalyst for retail trade in the yuletide season.

What About Capital Spending?

Despite the recent upturn in interest rates, these are appreciably lower than they were in 1980, 1981, and the forepart of 1982. As a result, economic activities that are interest-sensitive--such as housing, auto sales, and retail sales generally--have been doing better. In a much more limited way, this is also true of business fixed investment. And the fourth quarter could see the beginnings of a still better trend in capital outlays for new plant and equipment.

In any event, capital asset spending will top that of the 1982 fourth quarter. While such an increase--though looking good percentage-wise--probably won't reflect large total outlays, it would give support to the current expansionary trend in the economy and hence be encouraging to both retailers and consumers.

Jobs, Prices, Wages

Employment is now at a record level. More than 103 million people have jobs even though 9.4% of the nation's workforce remains unemployed. The Research Department of Babson's Reports is projecting at least a normal rise in employment for the final three months of this year, together with a modest further decline in the number of jobless.

Pertinent data on price trends is also encouraging. On balance, wholesale quotes are moving up in a generally restrained manner. Result is that these increases, both current and anticipated, won't subtract from the real value of fourth-quarter gains in the dollar volume of retail trade.

Salary and wage income is trending higher. This reflects recent contract settlements plus increases in the factory work week. It augurs well for retail sales and for Christmas sales in particular since preliminary appraisal indicates some further upping of personal income during the October-December period, including larger dividend and interest disbursements.

Fourth-quarter growth in consumer spending could be around 4% compared with similar period of 1983, with Christmas sales topping those of last year by 8%-10% in dollar volume, 5%-6% in unit movement.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

To the Editor:

Lonely People

I have given the summer of 1983 to very lonely people. I have talked to more than 500 people. The youngest was 6 years old, the oldest was 96. About 3/4 of them were ladies, the rest men and boys. I have listened to people's trouble and their joys. I let them decide the subject. I have talked on, maybe, 50 subjects. I have used language that I didn't know, some language that I do not care about, some language that should not have been used. I have talked about some subjects that I knew very little about. I never refused to talk to anyone. I talked about their being homosexual, sex, abortion, school work, money, school, marriage, courtship. Very few attended church. I talked about their jobs, how they worked. I learned a lot. I gave out a lot. I have grown.

My main theme was for young people to stay in school. I have gone to the funeral home to see families of those who talked with me. I have received calls every hour of the day or night. I never lost my patience. Some called me as much as 10 times a day. One girl called to tell me she had had her baby. Lots called wanting me to get them a husband or wife. Some wanted to give advice. Some wanted advice on how to raise their children. Many hung up. Some talked more than an hour. Some wanted to come to my house to talk. Some thought my ad came from a house of prostitution.

What next? Starting November 1 until April 1 I plan on using my walker to take an indepth survey of our community. Starting April 1 I plan to raise $25,000 for an endowment for my Bible School to help young Christian workers.

I am here and I am glad!

RAISE YOUR FIREWOOD ON ONE ACRE... WITH HYBRID POPLARS!

Deep in the rich Amish and Mennonite farm country near Ephrata, Pennsylvania grow rows of hybrid poplars with several fascinating characteristics. First, they grow rapidly... really rapidly. A ten-inch-long unrooted cutting, for instance, will shoot up 5 to 8 feet in one year... will grow to between 10 and 14 feet in two years... and will top 25 feet in five years. What's more, as soon as you harvest that five-year-old hybrid poplar, a replacement begins growing from the stump. And because this second growth has a fully mature root system to feed it, it grows to harvestable size even more quickly than did its "parent!" According to Morton Fry, head of the Miles W. Fry & Son Nursery, at least six crops can be harvested from the same stump.

Probably the most practical application for hybrid poplars is in woodlots that produce cordwood for small landowners. Mr. Fry claims—and he backs up his assertions with solid figures—that most folks can be firewood-self-sufficient with a woodlot of just one acre! Now that may sound impossible... since we've been taught that the best sustained yield one can expect from a one-acre woodlot is a cord a year. That's just not so with the poplars, however: Fry says that homesteaders can cut five to ten cords a year, every year... and not (for at least a 14-year period) run out of wood.

There are two ways to manage such a woodlot. One involves planting the entire acre with 1,200 trees on six-foot centers and then harvesting a quarter of an acre each year, starting in the fourth year. The second (and less expensive) system is based on planting just a quarter-acre per year, with the harvest rotation following the planting cycle four years later. The advantage of this method is that each season's new plantings can be made by using cuttings from the trees that were set out the year before... so you pay for only 300 trees rather than 1,200.

Morton Fry describes hybrid poplar as a "gofer" wood... since it's less dense than many of the traditional firewoods, and you'll have to "go fer" an armload of fuel more often. For example, compared with oak, which is an ideal firewood, poplar would require approximately twice as many trips to the wood pile... but you'd be hard-pressed to find an oak species that could heat a home year after year from an acre of woodlot.

The Frys are not "resting on their poplars", either. They are working with Dr. E. Kendall Fye, at the Biological Energy Corporation laboratories, who is researching cellulose conversion. And, through their own Wood Power Energy Corporation, the Frys have under development a homestead wood gasification setup that will use poplars to produce plenty of methane-rich "producer gas" to run various vehicles.

No doubt you'll be seeing more news about these wonder trees out of Pennsylvania. In the meantime, though—as fuel oil and natural gas prices climb—it looks as if an acre or two planted in hybrid poplars could be one of the best investments anyone interested in self-sufficiency and the world economy could make.

Fulton Circuit Court

Civil

The following couples filed petitions for dissolution of marriage: Sheryl Lyn and Dennis George Donahue, Steven C. and Kathy S. Kishmore, and Beverly K. and Donald R. Ramsey.

The court found that the allegations were true in complaints filed under the Reciprocal Support Act by Joan L. Wogoman against Lawrence R. Bender and Dorothy Enderle against Steven Enderle. Marshall Circuit Court was directed to assume jurisdiction over Bender and Allen Superior Court was directed to assume jurisdiction over Enderle.

First Federal Savings and Loan Association of Fulton County filed a complaint to foreclose mortgage against Robert J. and Vecita Goss. The suit alleges the Gosses have not made payments as required on a November 1978 promissory note. It seeks a judgment of $40,639.95, an order foreclosing a mortgage against part of Lots 127 and 128, University Addition, Rochester, and an order directing the property be sold to satisfy the judgment.

State Exchange Bank of Culver was granted a judgment of $116,188.76 from a complaint to foreclose mortgage against Robert M. and Barbara Smith. The court ruled the bank's mortgage was inferior to a Fulton County property tax lien for the mortgaged property, but superior to all other claims.

The court ordered the mortgage foreclosed against 40 acres in Rochester Township, two other tracts in Rochester Township and 32 lots in Riverwood Acres, Rochester Township. The land was ordered sold with the proceeds of the sale used to pay court costs and costs of the sale, the bank's judgment and any balance to the Fulton County clerk. If the sale of the property does not pay the entire judgment, the sheriff of Fulton County is to sell items of personal property of the Smiths to complete payment of the judgment.

The court found the allegations true in three complaints filed under the Reciprocal Support Act. The court directed Elkhart Circuit Court to take jurisdiction over Danny R. Cook in a suit filed by Ruth E. Peltz; St. Joseph Circuit Court to take jurisdiction over Larry J. Ballinger in a suit filed by Catherine J. Smith, and the Illinois Department of Public Aid, Bureau of Child Support to take jurisdiction over Chester E. Lipowski in a suit filed by Catherine J. Smith.

Della G. and Kenneth Anthony David Billingsley filed a petition for dissolution of marriage.

Rose Marie and Donald Eugene Harrison were granted dissolution of marriage.

Regina May Walters filed a petition for citation of contempt of court against Rick Joe Walters. The suit alleges Walters violated a restraining order issued Sept. 19 by refusing to return furniture and by disturbing and harassing Mrs. Walters.

The court approved an agreement whereby Lindsay Glenn Ewen would purge himself of contempt of court by paying over $900 in back child support and attorney fees by Dec. 1. The agreement was reached after a petition for citation of contempt of court was filed by Linda Sue Ewen.

A suit filed by Statesman Insurance Co., against former Union Township Trustee Richard C. Baldwin and Baldwin's suit against the State of Indiana were dismissed. The insurance company filed the suit in January against Baldwin, alleging it was required to pay the state $6,534.71 after a state audit showed amount in "improper payments" had been expended. Baldwin's suit contended that neither the insurance company, nor the state explained to him his obligations when the insurance company provided his public official's bond.

Tom Walsh filed a complaint on account against Walter Ernest and Ruth Cottrell, Brimhurst, Ind. The suit seeks a $15,000 judgment for items furnished at the Cottrells' request.

Federal Land Bank of Louisville was granted a judgment from a complaint on account and to foreclose mortgage against Kenneth H. and Marian Mahler. The court granted the land bank a judgment of $55,042.78 and ordered a mortgage against 69.31 acres of Fulton County land foreclosed. The court also awarded Peru Production Credit Association a judgment of $3,511.52 from a cross-claim filed against the Mahlers and ordered a mortgage held by PCA against the property foreclosed.

The court ordered the Mahler's property sold by the sheriff of Fulton County and the proceeds of the sale used to pay court costs and costs of the sale; the land bank judgment; the PCA judgment; $39,119.38 to the Farmers Home Administration for a mortgage, and the balance, if any, to the Fulton County clerk. If proceeds of the sale do not pay the amounts ordered, the sheriff is to sell items of the Mahler's personal property to pay the balance.

CFS Continental, Indianapolis, filed a complaint on account against Charles Merry and Merry Enterprises Inc., formerly doing business as Country Rib and Steak Barn.

The suit alleges $1,812.92 is due on account for items CFS supplied at Merry's request. It seeks that amount as a judgment against Merry Enterprises and against Merry for an alleged guarantee he signed in February promising payment of Merry Enterprises' debts. It also seeks triple damages from an alleged $350 check written by Merry to CFS on a closed account.

Kevin VandenBossche filed a petition for a restricted driver's license. The petition states his driver's license was suspended in August after he pleaded guilty of leaving the scene of an accident. The petition states VandenBossche is unable to travel between his permanent home at Rt. 7, Rochester, and his temporary home in Elkhart and unable to perform the duties of his job with Bowen Supply Co., Inc., without a driver's license.

Darlene B. Kats filed a complaint under the Reciprocal Support Act against Bill C. Bay. The suit alleges Bay is behind $3,011.42 in child support and medical payments ordered in a 1976 dissolution of marriage.

First National Bank of Rochester filed a complaint on a promissory note seeking a judgment of $7,341.81 against Michael R. Leonard.

Farmers and Merchants Bank, Rochester, filed a complaint on a promissory note seeking a judgment of $2,379.01 from H. Devon Gibbons.

Rose Marie McVay filed a petition for support under the Reciprocal Support Act against Glen Dale McVay. The suit seeks an order requiring McVay to pay support for his minor children.

Criminal

Margaret E. Witucki, 59, Rt. 6, Rochester, pleaded guilty by plea bargain agreement of attempting to obtain a prescription for a controlled substance by deception and driving without a license. She was given a one-year suspended prison sentence, fined $25 plus court costs on the drug charge and $1 plus court costs on the driving charge, and was placed on probation for a year.

The court noted the probation may be transferred to the Orlando, Fla., area where she is to perform 80 hours of public service work.

It Happened in Mentone

TAKEN FROM THE NORTHERN INDIANA CO-OP NEWS OCTOBER 27, 1943 40 YEARS AGO

Advised of the great government shortage of tin in the county, the Kosciusko County office of Civilian Defense at a recent meeting made plans to stage a county-wide tin salvage drive, seeking a carload of prepared tin cans by Thanksgiving Day.

Prepared tin cans are to be collected by grocery and food stores throughout the county hereafter, and patrons are requested to save all their tin cans, prepare them and take them to their food stores. Each week the various city, county and state highway trucks will collect these cans from the stores and haul them to a central storage plant in Warsaw from which they are to be loaded on a railroad car and shipped directly to a de-tinning plant.

It is felt by those in charge of this drive that the great need of tin in the war effort will be sufficient to enlist every citizen of the county in this patriotic task and that by the co-operation of every citizen it will be possible to go over the top with a complete carload of twenty tons of salvage tin by Thanksgiving Day. Excellent cooperation on the part of the stores throughout the county is being manifested as well as by the folks of the highway department.

On Tuesday, November 2, in compliance with state law, an election will be held at Mentone for the purpose of electing three town trustees and a clerk-treasurer. Max Smith is the only member of the present town trustees seeking re-election. Raymond Bare, present clerk-treasurer is seeking re-election. Bare, For Clerk-Treasurer. Democrat Ticket: Ernest W. Igo, For Trustee First Ward; William L. Vernet, For Trustee Second Ward; Cloice Paulus, For Trustee Third Ward; Elmore Fenstermaker, For Clerk-Treasurer.

Members of the Mentone Lions Club enjoyed a program Tuesday night that was presented by the Akron High School Spanish Club. Suzie Slaybaugh and Cathy Love told of their experiences while attending the Inter-American University at Saltillo, Mexico. Seven other students from various parts of the country attended classes and lived in the homes of local families. They reported that members of the group became close friends while studying Spanish and sightseeing. The Lions Club helped support the girls trip.

Plans have been completed for this year's Lions Club sponsored Halloween parade, and details will appear in next week's MENTONE NEWS.

Mrs. Ralph Warren was admitted to Murphy Medical Center Monday after suffering a broken leg.

Ernest Holeslaw, principal of the Mentone School, advised parents this week that the price of milk would increase from 3¢ per day to 4¢ per day due to the fact the school has been losing 1/4 cent per unit of milk served. This, plus the fact that the price of milk will soon increase, necessitated the student's cost. The student has been paying 3¢ and the Hot Lunch Division has been reimbursing the school another 3¢. The milk, however has cost 6 1/2¢ per unit.

Freshman and B-team cheerleaders were recently chosen and include Susie Shirey, Carolyn Boggs, and Annette Hibschman, B-team; and Susie Boggs, Sandy Fawley, and Debbie Hiers, freshman.

The front of Miller's Hardware turned blue this week. Owner Jim Miller painted the building Monday afternoon.

Joe Baker and Rick Doud are preparing to add new sidewalks in front of their places of business.

50th anniversary

Mr. Alber and the former Helen Clark were wed October 21st, 1933 by the Rev. Virgel Squibb at the Mentone Baptist Church parsonage.

They are the parents of one son, Sidney, Rt. 5, Rochester. Three grandchildren, Connie Burkhardt, Converse; Tom Alber, Woodburn, and Randy Alber, Rt. 1, Claypool. Also five great-grandchildren.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack R. Hembree of North Vernon became the 100,000th customer of Public Service Indiana to heat with electricity. It took about 19 years to reach 50,000 electric heating customers. The next 50,000 came in only six years. The trend is definitely toward electric. One out of five residential customers now heat their homes electrically.

The second annual $30,000 Duracell Scholarship Competition is under way. The competition is designed to encourage scientific creativity among American high school students. The National Science Teachers Association has endorsed the competition and is working with Duracell Inc., the competition's sponsor, to judge the entries. In addition, the National Association of Secondary School Principals has placed the competition on its Advisory List of National Contests and Activities for 1983-84.

The 1984 competition, as in 1983, involves students designing and building battery-powered devices that have practical functions. The judging criteria encourages a wide latitude in the types and calibre of entries. This year's theme is "Energy for the Future." Students are asked to design a device that will solve a problem or improve a process. The winner of last year's scholarship competition, Joseph M. Farmers asked to nominate ASC candidates one wishing to nominate a farmer for the ASC committee election may contact the county ASCS office for full details, including eligibility requirements for office holders.

Farmers should petition for and elect those individuals they feel would do a good job as a member of the ASC committee. The election of concerned farmers is essential in the administration of farm programs," Rodenberg said. Rodenberg further explained that the county ASCS office welcomes all valid petitions. The opportunity to nominate, vote, and be elected to office is guaranteed to all farmers regardless of race, religion, sex, age, color, or national origin.

that weighed anywhere from 75 to 120 pounds. They had straight axles, very often iron, and 60 inch wheels. A horse could trot faster than a 145 pound man on his back with a harness. Even Maud S.'s "high wheeler" was an improvement over Flora Temple's. Maud pulled a sulky with a bent, or high-arch, axle that permitted a much closer hitch. Its weight was less than fifty pounds and the wheels scarcely 45 inches in diameter, factors that reduced vibration and the tendency to skid on the turns.

Today's sulkeys are radically different than those used as recently as 1937 on horses like Greyhound. Their design has changed; their wheels are vastly improved; and on some the driver sits behind the wheels instead of centered in line with the top of the wheels. The only way a driver can see from that position is by peering out from either side of the horse. Imagine -- going through life, sitting on a tiny seat, holding only to a set of straps that prevent you from falling to the ground that is whizzing beneath you at more than 30 miles an hour. And the only thing to look at is the rear end of a horse. It's enough to make anyone "sulky."

Bank Changes

This month the nation's banks were allowed, under new federal law, to operate with greater independence. They were freed to fix their own interest rates on certificates of deposit, and to charge less for early withdrawals.

A survey in recent

ON THE RAIL

by PHIL PINES, Director

The Hall of Fame of the Trotter Goshen N.Y.

For Those Who Sulk When Stanley Dancer won the Hambletonian in early August he was seated in a sulky that was rolling along on wheels made from a high-strength composite plastic material which is widely used in the aircraft and aerospace industries. They are known as Innot fibre wheels; they come from Sweden; and you'll see more and more of them spinning around the harness tracks nowadays. They are claimed by their American distributor to be revolutionary. And if you were to describe them, you might say they look like the wheels used on Roman chariots 2,000 years ago. But as Stanley Dancer will tell you, these new sulky wheels spin a heckuva lot faster.

Maud S. could have used a couple of them in the 1880's. Trotters were pulling high wheel sulkeys back then -- those spidery wheel things that sat a driver high above the horse's tail bone. And Maud S. had gone about as fast as a trotter could go hitched to one of them: 2:08 3/4. Slow stuff to us but speed city back then. Robert Bonner, the owner of Maud S., thought his mare's record might stand forever. Said he: "No horse will ever trot a mile in two minutes. Just see what they have to do. To make a mile in two minutes the horse must beat Maud S. by more than 350 feet. They have been trying several years to beat her by just one foot. But they can't do that, let alone beating her 350 feet."

Such comparisons don't really prove anything unless all conditions are the same. And the sulkeys in harness racing's early days were a heap different than when Greyhound ruled the tracks. Greyhound used to be hooked to a "bike" that probably weighed 40 pounds. His ancestors--eight generations removed--pulled sulkeys

Low interest farm loans now being made

"Emergency farm loans are now being made by the Farmers Home Administration (FmHA) at 5 percent interest for the first $100,000 borrowed," FmHA State Director, Oscar T. Blank, said recently.

The new rate is effective for all emergency loss loans closed after September 27, 1983.

The establishment of the 5 percent rate for the first $100,000 was announced September 28, 1983 by Secretary of Agriculture, John R. Block as a measure to help farmers whose crops and pastures have been damaged by the extremely hot and dry weather. A rate of 8 percent was also established for any amount of emergency loss loan over $100,000.

"The 5 and 8 percent interest is help expedite processing," Blank said.

Farmers qualifying for emergency loans can borrow up to 80 percent of their actual production loss, not to exceed a maximum of $500,000, or that amount actually needed, whichever is less.

"In Indiana, 57 counties have been named as eligible for the emergency loans. In the counties named, applications should be made at the FmHA office serving each county as early as possible to help expedite processing," Blank said.

days found banks in various parts of the country offering various rates for one, two and three-year certificates. Rates differed up to two full points--and the discrepancy may be widened as banks experiment with new ideas.

It's hard to see how banks can continue forever to compete with money funds if they continue to charge penalties for early withdrawals, not charged by money funds paying about the same rates. Yet some, though now allowed to charge a three-month interest penalty, still charge a six-month penalty.

Some people just feel safer dealing with banks. Especially those who don't remember 1932 and 1933!

acid ruin dance

In the past seven years, coal-burning utilities in the Midwest have cut sulfur dioxide coming from their power plant stacks by 1.5 million tons, or 20%. Yet pending legislation in Congress calls for more drastic cuts and could send our customers' bills climbing by about 30%. A recent report on acid rain by the National Academy of Science indicates that reducing sulfur dioxide from Midwest sources may not guarantee less acid rain in the distant Northeast. Acidity levels, in fact, are significantly affected by emissions from sources nearby.

TVHS Guidance office help make college choices

The Tippecanoe Valley High School Guidance Dept. has prepared the following summary for the use of patrons, parents, and students as they make college choices in the near future.

Added Points of Interest For College Bound Students

1. The S.A.T. should be taken in the Spring of the student's junior year.
2. Applications for admission should be mailed to the college by the end of the first semester of a student's senior year.
3. Financial Aid forms and Pell Grant Applications can be obtained through the High School Guidance Department in January. Financial Aid forms should be completed and mailed by February 1.
4. Financial Aid seminars are arranged to help parents in completing the Financial Aid forms.

5. There are many types and variations in scholarships. Check with the Financial Aid Office of the Individual Universities for their procedures.

6. Housing Applications vary from University to University. Many must be in as early as the decision has been made to attend.

7. Some colleges within the University have more selective programs thus are more competitive to be accepted in.

8. Most private colleges will follow State University guidelines.

9. Many requirements are based on individual programs of studies. It may be more difficult to enter one specific program. (For example, Engineering)

10. A college visitation is strongly suggested before admission.

Valley bounces back with big win over Rochester

Recovering from last week's defeat Tippecanoe Valley stomped Rochester, 26-0 in Friday night high school football.

Valley will conclude its regular season with their game against North Miami, tonight. TVHS has an 8-1 mark for the season.

Fullback Rob Dunnuck scored the first TD from three yards out with almost eight minutes left in the first period. Shad McConkey kicked the extra-point to make the score 7-0 early in the game.

Lee Swihart picked up the second touchdown of the night from the two-yard line, but the two-point conversion pass failed.

McConkey then scored the third TD on a bootleg option. Again the Vikings missed the two-point attempt, but the Valley had a 19-0 advantage.

Tim Kindig recovered a Swihart fumble in the endzone for the final touchdown of the game.

Swihart led the offense with 143 yards on 22 carries, while McConkey rushed for 87 yards on eight attempts and made six tackles while intercepting one pass.

Joe Hawkins had six tackles, two behind the line of scrimmage and Chris Griffiths, made five tackles respectively.

Cherries, it is said, were brought to Rome in 70 B.C. by Lucullus, a Roman general. When the Romans invaded what is now England, 120 years later, they took cherries with them.

Mentone gridders are victorious

Mentone's seventh grade football team dubbed South Whitley 44-0 and the Bulldogs' eighth grade took a 16-8 win over South Whitley last Thursday.

Dion Anglin scored on a pair of three yard runs. Skipper Smythe scored on a 21-yard run, and Ben Anderson on a 20-yard run. Anglin passed to Troy Busenburg and Toby Green for PATS and Shayne Lenfesty and Any Mike-sell each ran for a two-pointer.

On the defensive side, the Bulldogs were led by Corey Smith with 18 tackle points, Green had 17, and Aaron Norris and Busenburg each had 14 respectively.

The eighth grade got all its points from Sam Manwaring who scored two TDs on a four-yard run and later on a 31-yard run. Manwaring also picked up both PAT runs.

David Kock led the defense with 16 tackle points, Dwayne Leiter, 10, and Scot Peters had eight.

The seventh graders are 4-1-1 on the season with the eighth grade showing a 5-1 mark.

Taboos

Don't walk under leaning ladders, or in front of cats that are black. Don't scan the moon o'er the shoulder, and don't give the mirror a whack. Remember in throwing a party it's bad if there's 13 to serve. Don't tote a hoe through the house, and don't try to pass on a curve. Remember horseshoes are lucky but don't hang 'em upside down. Don't place any bets on blue horses, or get out of bed with a frown. But Friday's not always unlucky. That's proved by Robinson Crusoe. So if you want to flout taboos. You go right ahead and do so.

Project SAFE applications to be accepted

Applications for Project SAFE (State Allowance for Energy) will be accepted at electric and gas utility offices and at other sites beginning November 1, according to Governor Robert D. Orr.

He states, "Although we will accept applications in November, benefits will not be available to those who are eligible before January, 1984. Project SAFE helps older and disadvantaged people pay their fuel and electric bills. It has been called one of the best programs of its kind in the nation."

The program will be administered by the Indiana Department on Aging and Community Services. Jean Merritt, who directs the state agency, indicates, "In addition to electric and gas utility offices, application may be made at 21 Community Action Agencies and at 16 Area

Agencies on Aging.

"When a person makes application, he or she should bring along proof of income and a recent heating and electric bill."

Income eligibility guidelines have been increased somewhat from the 1982-1983 heating season. The new guidelines are:

No. in Household	Annual Income
1	$6,075
2	8,175

4	12,375
5	14,475
6	16,575

If there are more than six people in a family, $2,100 should be added for each additional family member.

Silver Lake approves new ordinances

Two new ordinances were approved on first reading by the town board Saturday, and will be posted in several public locations.

A new dog control ordinance will replace the previous town ordinance concerning dogs at-large. The new provision would call for dogs to be kept within their owner's yard and to wear a township dog tag at all times.

Persons who violate the ordinance, or whose dog becomes a nuisance by barking, will be warned by the town marshal. If the person does not comply with the ordinance, charges will be filed, according to clerk-treasurer Teresa Howell.

A second ordinance will set a curfew for the town. According to Mrs. Howell, the board felt it needed something other than the state's curfew law with Halloween approaching.

Under the ordinance, children ages 15 and under will not be permitted in a public place after 10 p.m. or before 6 a.m. any day of the week.

Children ages 16 and 17 will not be permitted in public between midnight and 6 a.m. Fridays and Saturdays or 10 p.m. to 6 a.m. Sunday through Thursday.

The ordinance will not apply to children who are accompanied by a parent or guardian or who are returning home from work or a school-or-church-related function.

In other business, the board: Set Saturday, Oct. 29, 6-8 p.m. as trick-or-treat night.

Attending the meeting along with Mrs. Howell were members Louis Kinch, Norman Krichbaum and George Hopkins.

A MUST FOR ANYONE WHO QUILTS

Here is one of the largest treasuries of quilt designs and variations ever assembled—1001 patterns in all—an absolute must for anyone who quilts! This collection offers you a kaleidoscopic array of designs (44 in full color!) that range from traditional favorites to the new and innovative. The designs are geometric—easy to draw up—and intriguing at the same time—so they will fascinate both beginning and experienced quilters.

For the quilter's convenience, designs are grouped according to the number of patches making up the block, such as 4-patch, 9-patch and so on. Each design is clearly marked with graph lines to enable you to scale the block to any size desired.

Whether you work by hand or with the sewing machine, the designs in this book are bound to make it one of the most treasured and thumbed-through volumes on your bookshelf. Order your copy of 1001 Patchwork Designs today!

Akron School boiler system discussed

Superintendent Baxter Paige alerted TVSC trustees to the fact a serious problem exists with one of the boilers at Akron Elementary School. Informing board members at the Oct. 17, TVSC board meeting, that a large crack in the boiler and extensive tube damage was found by the corporation's maintenance man, Paige explained costs to correct the problem would be high.

Costs of repairing the old boiler would run between $9,000 and $11,000, Paige explained, but the corporation would receive no guarantees that the boiler would operate properly after the repairs are made, due to the advanced age of the equipment. Trustee Jim Royer asked what the cost of a new boiler would be, and Paige replied that costs for boiler and installation would be between $35,000 and $40,000. He then added that the only way to place a new boiler at the school would be by also adding a new boiler room.

President Richard Long questioned Paige as to why this problem hadn't been discovered earlier instead of when boiler will soon be needed, but Paige replied that earlier inspections had not uncovered the problem.

Board members discussed alternate solutions, but the best long-term solution would be to replace the entire system. The problem with this is that state and federal regulations must be complied with before work begins. Long suggested that Paige begin the necessary paperwork immediately and see if the project could be completed by January 1. If not, he recommended the old boiler be repaired so the school has a back-up for this winter.

Royer placed that suggestion in the form of a motion, William Rogers seconded, and it passed unanimously.

Superintendent Paige informed board members the corporation had received only one insurance bid toward a total corporation package. Boggs and Nelson Ins., Mentone, submitted a bid for American States and Trans American Group insurances for $36,408. The package represents a total coverage increase of over 50 percent at an increased cost of less than $900. After discussing the matter, trustees decided to include an optional coverage for food spoilage at the schools. For an additional $220, school freezers are covered for up to $5000 food spoilage. Board members unanimously accepted the insurance bid.

Band director Kim Metcalf was present to request board members approve the proposed constitution for a band booster organization. Trustee Cecil Miller moved to approve the document and it was approved. Superintendent Paige announced the Tippecanoe Valley Marching Band qualified for state competition at the Saturday, Oct. 15 regional, making the TV band one of only ten bands statewide that will advance to state competition. The board congratulated Metcalf on his achievements.

In other news:

Trustees approved Chapter II expenditures to provide video/film services to the school system. Educator Ed LaMar was present to make the request, and he pointed out that last year 1,757 films had been used from the Northern Indiana Education Service Center for a cost of less than $3,000 to the corporation. According to LaMar, individual rental for the same films would have cost approximately $52,000.

Special Mentone meeting held

A special meeting Monday of the Mentone Town Board to discuss the referendum on withdrawing the town's water utility from the jurisdiction of the Public Service Commission was attended by only three people.

Board members Wayne Tombaugh, Jim Miller, Frank Hardisty and town attorney Lee Bazini scheduled the public meeting so residents would have the opportunity to ask questions about the proposed change, which will appear on the ballot in November. Mentone, which has its own water plant, is currently controlled by the PSC in charging fees for the water service.

The town is considering withdrawing from the PSC, so it can change its own water rates.

The story of the Culver Bank robbery will appear in the December issue of "True Detective Mysteries." The story was written by Frank A. The story will be illustrated and will appear early in November.

Halloween is here again. Usually it is accompanied with soaped windows and other pranks of every description. Boys and girls want to do something daring or exciting like this way to relieve their emotions. This is alright for the boys and girls. It is annoying many times to those upon whom the pranks are being played. It causes extra work and many times this work becomes a real burden.

We are talking of planned things these days. Planned economic programs for all kinds of businesses, planned homes, planned agriculture and planned everything. Isn't it about time to start some planned social activities to take the place of past activities that the boys and girls themselves have thought up. In communities there are local masked parties on the main street for which prizes are given. This sometimes continues as a dance for the young people or a planned program is prepared for the annoying acts that the youngsters do thoughtlessly.

Voters will go to the polls next Tuesday to select township, county, and state candidates to serve for the next two to six years.

Considerable interest has been displayed in county and township contests, and a large vote is expected. In Henry Township there are 1649 eligible voters. Four years ago, which was also an off year election, 1272 voters showed up at the poll to elect officers. The difference between those who vote and those who don't could very well elect an official.

A trustee and advisory board will be elected in each township, and the local race is between Vern Cumberland, incumbent, and Wayne Engle, democrat. Cumberland defeated his democratic opponent Hershel Fenstermaker, four years ago by 366 votes.

The county ticket has several contests, the hottest of which is the race for judge of the Fulton circuit court. Kline D. Reed, present judge, is opposed by Fred Rakestraw, Akron attorney.

Sheriff Laurence Norris is opposed in his bid for re-election by Estil Bemenderfer, a former sheriff. Norris defeated Bemenderfer four years ago by 1330 votes.

The state ticket has created very little interest; locally, headed by Crawford Parker, present secretary of state, he is being opposed by Floyd Harper, democrat.

Civil service questionnaires have been received by several local businessmen regarding the qualification for four applicants for the local postmaster's job.

In addition to Clair Ellis, acting postmaster, and Otto Groninger and Jack Stucker, who took the exam at Logansport, the name of Lloyd Saner has been added to the eligible list.

Ed Arter has resigned his position as star route mail carrier, effective December 1st, and the post office department will receive bids for a new carrier until November 12th.

The route calls for two trips to Rochester daily and two trips to Disko.

SARAH JANE SUTTON, AKRON, CLERK-TREASURER

Smith, Sutton in race for Clerk-treasurer

Editor's Note: Elections for town board will be held in both Akron and Mentone on Tuesday, November 8, with both Democrat and Republican parties boasting a full slate of candidates. This is the last in a series of articles spotlighting each candidate in this year's race.

Ernest Smith

Akron Clerk-Treasurer Race
Clerk-treasurer for the town of Akron is incumbent Ernest (Ernie) Smith (72). He faces opposition for the first time since he's served the town as clerk-treasurer, although he was involved in the last town election, held in 1963. At that time, Smith successfully ran on the Republican ticket for a position on the town board.

Smith served eight consecutive years on the town board, (between '64 - '72) and in 1975 he decided to run for the clerk-treasurer position. As there was no ticket from the Democratic party, he automatically assumed the title of clerk-treasurer in 1976 which he's held ever since. If elected on Nov. 8, he'll begin his third term in this office.

Smith worked for True Temper between 1929 and the time they left Akron in 1952. From 1936 until '52 he worked in the office, and most of that time was office manager for the company. When Sonoco moved to Akron in 1953, Smith became their office manager and purchasing agent until his retirement in 1975.

"Actually, I feel I've had the experience so I can handle the work (of being clerk-treasurer)" Smith explained during the NEWS interview. "In these times, with a limited budget and limited funds available, it takes a lot of practical experience to work in what you need to keep operations going and still stay within the budget of the tax levies the town is getting. I honestly think it requires quite a bit of forethought and experience as to what's gone on before. I have a little better insight than someone with no prior experience with the town's budget and problems."

Smith has been an area resident all his life, acutally living in Akron since 1962. He and his wife, Esther, have three children: Dr. James Smith, an associate professor of mathematics at Purdue Univ. at Hammond, IN; Lt. Col. (retired) William Smith, Colorado Springs; and Jane Shull, an RN at Woodlawn Hospital, Rochester. He's a member of the Akron Methodist Church (and also church treasurer), the Akron Lions Club and the Chamber of Commerce.

Sarah Jane Sutton

Sarah Jane Sutton (61), 409 N. Mishawaka, Akron, is the first Democrat to run for clerk-treasurer since the 1963 election. Although she's been an area resident all her life, she's lived in the town limits for only three and a half years, moving here after her husband, Robert, died in 1979. She lives in the home formerly owned by her mother, a fact Sutton says "Makes me feel like I'm home."

Sutton graduated from Gilead High School and from Ivy Tech,

ERNE SMITH, AKRON, CLERK-TREASURER

Kokomo, where she earned a degree in accounting. She recently retired from Torx Products, Rochester, where she worked for 13 years in the accounting department. Her duties for Torx Products included working with accounts payable, payroll and financial planning, all jobs she feels qualifies her for the position of clerk-treasurer of Akron.

"The Democrat organization asked me to run for the position," Sutton explained. "And I had to do some thinking about it. I'm a listmaker, so I made a list of all the reasons why I should run for the job. I first looked into the job and what it entailed, and I found I do have the skills needed to do the job right. I also received a lot of encouragement from neighbors. "Since I've been campaigning, I've met a lot of people I didn't know in town, and they've been very nice and encouraging. This is really a very nice neighborhood and town, and I think I can offer it something."

Sutton is a member of the Silver Creek Church of God, the Eastern Star and the Women's Circle of her church. She has three children: Stephen, Rt. 2, Akron; Darcy (Mrs. Paul), Auburn, IN.; and Jennifer (Mrs. Michael Ruprecht), Ft. Wayne. She also has seven grandchildren.

Freedom Of Information

In Britain, official information is not necessarily released to the media. Contrary to the law and custom in the U.S., liberalized after Watergate (some fear too much), official study reports, Cabinet decisions and other top-level decisions are not automatically publicized.

Secrecy in the British government is praised by many there. Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher opposes a system such as that in the U.S. Like many high-level officials, she believes instant reporting of policy debate and decision is the enemy of good government.

Top-rank civil servants in England are bound by the Official Secrets Act, last revised in 1939, which makes disclosure of any "official information," classified or not, a crime.

These civil servants can't reveal "any information" acquired in an official position in government. Government documents are only made public after 31 years, and can still be kept secret if considered sensitive.

In this country the pendulum has swung in the other direction. And a campaign is about to begin in England to provide the public more information. No one, however, proposes to duplicate the U.S. system.

In this country, some in the media seem to feel secret documents papers stolen can be publicized. The New York Times even won a case during the Vietnam War, in which a reporter admittedly obtained a secret document, and turned it over to the newspaper—which published it. The argument was that this information was already known.

Some would question how any government can operate effectively when this sort of publicity is condoned. Certain security, foreign policy and even economic decisions obviously need security from public exposure for a time. Of course, it's better to err on the side of freedom of information than on the side of secrecy—which can cover up blunders.

But it may be that somewhere between the British desire for secrecy and the U.S. desire for freedom of information lies a practical solution to this problem—and it probably lies more in the U.S. than in the U.K. direction.

There is something repugnant in watching every top U.S. official, or White House aide, reveal all in book form, or otherwise, as soon as he's fired or resigns. Even ex-CIA agents in recent years have attempted to reveal clandestine activity—which is obviously pushing far. One listed U.S. secret agents in overseas posts!

Serious study needs to be addressed to this question in the U.S.—as is now being done in Britain. Did Watergate momentum extend too far in the field of baring government secrets and classified information? Should one, in other words, know the color of President Reagan's pajamas, every night, as a matter of right? Or what he said, in private, to everyone, all day long?

"State of Maine Pure Spruce Gum," manufactured by John Curtis in 1848, was the first chewing gum.

BUSINESS and the STOCK MARKET

by BABSON'S REPORTS INC.

Where Do Low-Price Stocks Fit?

By Babson's Reports Inc., Wellesley Hills, Mass., October 27, 1983. Investors express divergent opinions on the merits, suitability, and viability of low-price stocks for their respective investment accounts. This is only natural, since individual investment requirements differ from one investor to another, and the same is true as to their ability to undertake varying elements of risks. Those who are perfectly content with conservative investments tend to summarily dismiss any consideration of low-price stocks as "too risky." At the opposite end of the spectrum are the very aggressive investors who revel in issues which are priced in the single-digit, or low-double-digit, ranges where the advance of only a few points in a stock results in a significant percentage gain.

Maintain A Flexible Investment View

The foregoing examples of the extremes in views regarding low-price stocks, fortunately, tend to be in the minority in investment circles. Our experience has been that more centrist attitudes on this topic tend to predominate. This is as it should be, since there is no single persuasion which is correct. The extremes incline to be overly rigid, while views which lean more in a "Middle of the road" vein probably better address the question for a more representative portion of the investment public.

The view of the Babson Staff is that the individual investor's situation should determine whether one abstains from low-price stocks, whether an occasional dabble is resorted to, or whether a fair or distinctly heavy dependence is placed upon low-price stocks in one's portfolio. Certainly, there is no compelling reason why an investor with a low risk-tolerance needs to compromise the financial peace of mind which a portfolio of blue chip investments can offer. Nonetheless, investors in a position to do so can selectively invest in this type of stock without feeling apologetic.

Another Point of Disagreement

On the surface, one would not expect any confusion over what constitutes a low-price stock. However, there are differences of opinion as to what price range the term should embrace. Some investors tend to limit the concept to the single-digit range; others are disposed to be more inclusive and will tolerate issues trading as high as $30 per share. The staff of Babson's Reports feels that the matter of definition can be arbitrary, but whenever the topic is discussed the tendency is to put a cap on at the $20-per-share mark on the premise that this offers a sufficiently broad range to sift out enough issues for study.

Three Key Considerations

On the whole, investors who make investments in low-price stocks fare best when they exercise some patience with their choices. However, there should be careful choices even before the final purchase candidates are selected. Another desirable perspective for investors who employ some of their capital in low-price stocks to maintain is a reasonable profit expectation.

When Should Low-Price Stocks Be Bought?

Obviously, the supply of low-price stocks which are likely to work out well is most plentiful in the late stage of a market downturn and in the initial phase of the ensuing uptrend. Does this mean that this investment approach is no longer appropriate for this cycle, since the Dow-Jones Industrial Average has spurred some 500 points over the past fourteen months?

With proper care, one can generally find attractive issues in this category at any stage of the market. After correction phases in the market, the availability also tends to be more liberal. However, it is well to remember that after a good-size market advance, it would be well to "go fishing" with a finer mesh net. Right now, Babson's favors CPT, Damon Biotech, Grow Group, and Wendy's International for purchase in the low-price arena.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Editor:

The Mentone Nutrition Site opened last May. Since then there have been many things going on. Three times a week we exercise. You should see one of the Seniors in her nineties going at it. There have been many good programs including musicals and ceramics. You should have seen the Rev. Lamoine Hand from Akron playing the harmonica and he wears the cutest apron. T.R. Jones surprised us as we didn't know that he played the guitar and sang so well. One day the door was open and people wandered into the hall to see what "Grand Old Opry" person was performing. The Rev. Poyser from Burket comes down and we have a singalong.

Area ministers come on Thursdays. We have Madeline Fisher bringing Library update and the Blood Pressure Clinic by the 4-Way. E.M.T.'s. Those bingo players are the "dirtiest" players, they take your last prize without a blink of the eye.

Then there are the domino sharks. Eva Mae threatens to lock them in some day if they don't quit and go home! The monthly birthday parties are an occasion with cake, ice cream, candles, balloons, flowers, singing and readings. The Kabs bus is picking us up to go to Center Lake for REAL Services Party on Oct. 21st. On Oct. 31st we're having a masquerade party - no mask - no food!

We older volunteers are so thankful to Jody Harmon for getting younger people to help us. It was a long, hot summer for the faithful volunteers. When you go down Main St. in Mentone watch for the Seniors between 10 a.m. and 1 p.m. Some of their "gaits" aren't quick anymore and some can't see you coming very well.

O yes that cute little Kabs bus will pick you up on Tuesday if you'll call 353-7555 the day before. Ellen is so friendly and helpful. One day we had a "Whatchamacall em" day. There were some strange looking things and no body knew what one is. If you want to see Eva Mae's anti-ques see her.

The Tippecanoe Valley Drama and Music Department will be coming the first Tuesday of the month. Hopefully this will give you an idea of the things that go on five days a week besides a good meal.

We will keep you informed later on what's happening. Also we are still hoping that somehow we can get a small piano.

We hope to see some more of you coming and anyone is welcome, just call 353-7555 the day before you come.

Letter to Editor:

What Goes On In Lebanon?

By: John F. McManus

Belmont, Massachusetts-Twenty-five years ago, several thousand U.S. Marines (this writer one of them) landed in Lebanon at the request of that nation's pro-Western, anti-Communist President Camille Chamoun. The beleaguered Lebanese leader and his government were the target of escalating revolutionary activity directed by a Soviet puppet named Rashid Karami.

In a matter of a few weeks, pressure from U.S. diplomats completely stunned Chamoun. He found himself labelled "the problem" and was unceremoniously replaced by General Fuad Chehab, a "moderate." Wasting no time at all, Chehab promptly tapped Karami to be the nation's premier. At that point, all the U.S. forces were withdrawn and Washington demonstrated its pleasure by sending the Chehab-Karami government $10 million.

Lebanon Becomes A Battleground
A great deal can be said about those hard-to-believe events of 1958. But one conclusion sticks out above all: Lebanon has never been the same. Although the nation's obviously pro-Red leaders have come and gone, effective pro-West leadership has never returned. A succession of weak governments invited a bloody civil war and allowed the Soviet-backed Palestine Liberation Organization to carve out its own nation within the nation. By the 1970's, the PLO was using bases within Lebanon for terrorist raids against Israel.

In 1982, Israel retaliated by attacking PLO strongholds in Southern Lebanon. Spurred on by the discovery of huge stockpiles of Soviet weapons, the Israeli army chased the PLO all the way to Beirut. Just as they were about to finish the job, President Reagan intervened in the name of peace. Then, he sent U.S. Marines into Beirut for the admitted purpose of guaranteeing the safe evacuation of PLO leader Yasir Arafat and what remained of his all-but-defeated troops.

The Marines completed their strange assignment and were withdrawn. But further unrest in unstable Lebanon prompted their return, this time as part of what has been termed a peace-keeping force. Several of these young Americans have already been killed by hostile fire. Their highly detailed rules of engagement allow them to return fire, but only in self-defense. They cannot attack the strongholds of those who fire at them, nor has anyone identified for them an enemy to be challenged or resisted. They sit like ducks in a shooting gallery wondering what their mission is, and wondering too when the next mortar attack will claim more of their number.

Where Does It Lead?

If the defense of the United States requires the use of our military forces in a foreign land, there is constitutional authority which can be used by our leaders to commit those troops to battle. And there are plenty of Americans who would willingly serve for such a purpose. With a clearly defined enemy, and with victory the clear goal, our forces would undoubtedly get the job done.

But, as we have seen in Lebanon (and could show elsewhere), and as anyone can easily recall from the no-win, undeclared conflicts in Korea and Vietnam, our nation's military forces have been improperly used for decades.

No constitutional authority exists for either Congress or the President to use American troops to police the world. If America's leaders really mean to stop Communism - a goal they constantly employ - they need do little else but shut off the shipments of equipment, technology, food and money to Red nations.

The way the Marines are being used in Lebanon today strikingly parallels the beginnings of U.S. involvement in Vietnam. Freedom took it on the chin there. And so did America. Let's not allow a repeat performance no matter who arranges for it.

LOUISA'S LETTER

Dear Louisa,

I have recently moved to this part of the country from the west and I have been amazed at the friendliness of the people. My mother, who was very old, lived with us until a month after we came here to live. When she died, the neighbors on our street came over immediately and we were deluged with food and flowers. They brought in fired chicken, hot rolls, cakes and casseroles.

They arranged flowers for the house and all of them came to the funeral.

In our former home, a funeral was considered more or less of a private affair and that is why we were so astonished at the way these people acted. Is it a trait of the region or of just this state?

J.B.--Ga.

Answer:

The people of the South, particularly those in the small towns, have always helped each other in times of trouble. The reason for sending gifts of food probably started because of the number of relatives who usually came from other places at such a time, and it was a convenience to the bereaved who had little time to give to planning and preparing meals for a number of people.

It is comforting also, to know, that one's friends are so thoughtful.

Manchester College Turkey Trot scheduled November 12

Area runners are encouraged to get their running shoes ready for the Fourth Annual Manchester College Turkey Trot, a men's and women's cross country race sponsored by the college's cross country team and Office of Admissions. The 1983 race is scheduled for Saturday, November 12, 1:30 p.m., in conjunction with High School Cross Country Day at Manchester.

A men's five mile run and a women's 5000 meter race will be held with each run in divisions. The men's event will be broken into four divisions--under 20, 20-29, 30-39 and over 40--while the women's run is in three divisions--under 20, 20-29 and over 30. Both races will be held on the Manchester College cross country course, a mostly grass and wooded trail across the campus.

Registration is currently being conducted for the annual race. Persons who wish to enter are asked to write either cross country coach John Schultz or the Office of Admissions, Manchester College, North Manchester, IN 46962 (219-982-2141), for an entry form. A $5 registration fee ($6 day of race) is required with all persons registered before November 12 receiving a nylon racing bag.

Mentone's Ward 3 - experience vs. youth

Mentone's Ward 3 Race
Willard Wagner, Ward 3
Mentone

Republican Willard Wagner (32), West Harrison St., Mentone, feels that Mentone needs "some youth on the town board."

Wagner is a self-employed carpenter, has worked in heavy construction as a machine operator, and also worked in retail sales.

"My wife and I owned a tackle shop, restaurant, and fishing pier, on the ocean in North Carolina, for two years," Wagner said. Wagner also worked in his parent's marina previous to owning his own.

Wagner belongs to the Wabash Valley District 1 Council of Carpenters and attends the Methodist Church.

Wagner stated in a NEWS interview, "One of the main reasons I'm running is because I was asked to do it, and generally when asked to do something that's worthy enough, I'll do it."

Wagner promises to actively seek any revenue sharing "that we (Mentone) can find." Wagner went on to say, "Items like the street and water departments problems are our biggest worries. In any situation, there is usually a rise in utility costs. The money stays the same, but the bills rise," Wagner said.

Wagner is no stranger to town board meetings. He has attended some. "Someone's got to be willing to take responsibility," Wagner went on to say jokingly. "They need a big guy and one that can take abuse."

"I'm willing to do the job, willing to listen and willing to look at all the options and solve the problem with an open mind," Wagner said.

Wagner's family consists of his wife, Sue, a homemaker, Aaron, a first grader at Mentone Elementary School, and Adam, 3, a student at the Jack & Jill Nursery School.

"I have a lot of life in me and I feel I am qualified to do the job," said Wagner.

Jim Miller, Ward 3, Mentone
Democrat Jim Miller (53), Rt. 1, Mentone, is seeking his first reelection to the town board with this year's election. Miller is currently finishing his first four-year term and he pointed out that it has been an enjoyable experience.

Miller served as president of the board during 1981. In addition to his services as a trustee, he's been on the board of directors for the Mentone EMS since 1976, a driver for the EMS since 1976, a volunteer fireman for 11 years (now retired), director and president of the Chamber of Commerce, and past commander of the American Legion. Mentone post. Miller served in the U.S. Army from 1951-53, with nine months in Korea, and spent an additional year in Japan.

Since the age of 18, Miller has always been self-employed, including owning and operating Miller's Hardware from 1964 to 1975. He now owns and operates Miller's Mobile Home Park. He's also been a school bus driver for 16 years and currently drives bus for TVSC.

"The town's biggest problem right now is needing new water lines and water meters," Miller explained during a NEWS interview. "Operating and updating lines with our present budget has been a problem, but we're working on it."

"The main thing the town needs to look for in the future is setting up our own public service commission in Mentone, so we can set our own water rates. This is a big issue for the board right now, and it will be voted on at the same time the new board is elected."

"I've got experience with working with the public," Miller concluded, "and I'm interested in this community. Mentone is a swell community to work for."

Miller and his wife, Lois Marie (Boganwright) are life-long residents of Mentone. They have two sons, Darrell (29) and wife Pam, and Doug (25) and wife Lorie, who also reside in Mentone.

Kate Whetstone

Mentone Clerk-Treasurer Race
Mentone clerk-treasurer Kate Whetstone is running for re-election this year, but she's not worried; she's running unopposed.

Whetstone, 309 N. Broadway, has been a Mentone resident for over 40 years. She and her husband, Bob, have four sons: James, Tucson; Mike, Ft. Wayne; Tom, Nappanee; and Chris, a junior at Tippecanoe Valley High School. Whetstone also has four grandchildren.

She's served Mentone as clerk-treasurer since 1976, although she didn't run for the position in the 1975 election. The woman who was elected to the job quit after one month in office, so the local Republican party appointed Kate to the job in February, 1976. She ran unopposed for the position in 1979.

A local business and the United Methodist Church (and treasurer for several years), Kate worked in the office of Frank Manufacturing for 11 years, handling payroll, bookkeeping and general office work. For the past 18 months, she's worked as billing and invoicing clerk at Boggs and Nelson Insurance in Mentone. Whetstone has also served as vice-president of the Mentone Reading Club.

When asked if she liked the work of being clerk-treasurer, Whetstone emphatically replied, "Oh, yes. It was a real eye-opener at first, but it's always been interesting. I wish we had more community interest shown by people coming to the meetings, but I realize people rarely find the time."

"One thing I wish the board could do is look into getting federal block grants. Our biggest problem right now is getting the funds to do what we need to do (for the town). The problem with researching what grants are available and how to apply for them is that it would take a great deal of time that no one (on the board) has. It's frustrating, because I know there's probably money out there we're eligible for. What would be ideal would be to have a retired person check into it, someone with the time to really pursue it."

The business man who depends on luck usually finds that when he needs it most he hasn't got much of it.

The Golden Chain of Friendship

Friendship is a Golden chain, the links are friends so dear and like a rare and precious jewel, it's treasured more each year. It's clasped together firmly with a love that's deep and true and it's rich with happy memories and fond recollections too. Time can't destroy its beauty for as long as memory lives. Years can't erase the pleasure that the joy of friendship gives. For friendship is a priceless gift that can't be bought or sold. But to have an understanding friend is worth far more than gold and the Golden Chain of Friendship is a strong and blessed tie. Binding kindred hearts together as the years go passing by.

The Legion, long an active but frequently unheralded civic group, has been responsible for putting out flags at the cemetery on Decoration Day, for furnishing color guards, for placing flags in the downtown area on holidays and such other occasions as they are needed. They also send boys to Boys State each year. It is hoped the building project and hoped the building project and series of fish fries will provide new stimulus for the 130 member unit. Units in some of the surrounding towns have been abandoned for lack of interest and the local Legionnaires are fighting to prevent that from happening to their post.

Here's your answer

by Pastor Dennis R. Pollock
New Testament
Baptist Church
Culver, Ind. 46511

If a man dies shall he live again?

This question is as old as time. Job asked it in the fourteenth chapter and fourteenth verse of the book written about his life and struggles. It was an important question in Job's day and an equally important one for us today.

How would you answer Job's question? Most today live like the question has never entered their mind. What happens when the heart stops pumping it's precious substance? What takes place when those lungs exhale their last breath? What happens when our brain sends it's last signal?

Death. We all believe deep in our hearts that it is always for another and it will never invite us to partake. We go through life feeling confident that if death should come it would be such a one that would allow some time for reflection and preparation, yet very few times is it like that. Often death is the unexpected visitor who comes in the midst of our plans and brings with him the unwelcome summons of finality leaving our homes in a chaos, and yet it does not have to be that way.

Death is man's age old enemy, one which in every battle we humans have lost. Death is the wages of sin brought on by our first father Adam, Romans 6:23. But there is one in whom death could not find it's full expression, one from our race who faced it's fatal stare and came back from the grave to proclaim his conquest and invites all to trust in him for their final victory. This man is Jesus Christ the Lord!!

Job wrestled with this question until his answer came. Read it in the 19th chapter of Job verse 25 through 27. "For I know that my redeemer liveth, and that he shall stand at the latter day upon the earth: And though after my skin worms destroy this body, yet in my flesh shall I see God: Whom I shall see for myself, and mine eyes shall behold, and not another; though my reins be consumed within me." Can you believe with the same confidence as Job that even though death may win a battle, your war will be won by your redeemer in whom your trust and hope lie? We leave you with one thought, "Only one life will soon be past, only what's done through Christ will last."

CHAIN SAW BASICS

Peggy Serry is a city girl who made her move to the countryside. She wrote THE MOTHER EARTH NEWS to tell us how she learned to use a chain saw "from scratch" and to give other beginners a few helpful hints.

Peggy suggests that you buy a tool you can lift, carry, and maneuver without too much strain. There are a number of "minisaws" on the market that some people might prefer, but she says that you'll need a machine with at least a 14-inch bar if you intend to bring-in a full-time fuel supply for your woodburner.

Rig yourself in boots with nonslip soles, heavy pants or jeans, a close-fitting long-sleeved top, and gloves... and if your hair is long, tie it back out of the way. Safety glasses and earplugs—and a helmet if she's working on standing trees—are standard equipment for this safety-conscious lumberjack.

Before you even start the tool's engine, practice holding and moving the saw. Simulating a working stance, with feet apart and one foot slightly forward to provide balance and comfort, gave Peggy confidence. Be sure, too, that you're familiar with the controls, especially the chain lubricator and the on/off switch.

To start the tool, place it on a flat surface... making certain that the bar isn't touching anything. Grip the front handle and place the toe of your boot in the "boot loop" to help hold the saw steady. The starting switch should be on, the choke out, and the gas lever on. Give the cord a good, strong, fast pull. Peggy says she usually has to do this a few times before the engine fires.

After the saw is running, push the choke in and grip the machine firmly with both hands, with your thumbs and fingers encircling the handles and your index finger on the gas lever. The first time you operate a chain saw, simply hold it for a while, use the throttle to vary engine speed, and practice both starting the tool and turning it off. (Peggy foot Serry learned to always shut off the engine when moving from one log to another and before setting the saw down.)

At first you should confine your efforts to trimming down logs to size. Running your machine at high speed (never let the engine operate at a low RPM at the start of, or during, a cut), stand in a comfortable position, firmly balanced... and have the log lying in front of you or, better yet, safely supported on a sawbuck. Now, lower the saw so that the wood meets the chain well back on the straight portion of the bar (the area closest to the engine). Cutting down from the top of the log, let the weight of the saw and the pull of the chain carry the blade through the wood.

When you near the end of your cut, be ready to lift the saw up and out of the log. And if your firewood-to-be is lying on the ground, be sure to stop before you cut into the dirt and rocks. It's best to roll the log over, using a handy limb or a peavey, before finishing your cut.

Ms. Serry also reminded us that one of the biggest dangers facing the chain saw user is kickback. This occurs when the chain, as it speeds around the nose of the bar, hits something solid and forces the saw back toward the operator. Always be alert for this possibility and keep the nose of the bar clear, making your cuts back on the straight portion of the bar closest to the engine whenever you can.

Halberstam's Warning

David Halberstam, prominent foreign correspondent and author, has just completed a lengthy visit to Japan. There he inspected automobile factories and other industrial facilities, and spoke with Japanese business executives.

This qualified American, who has also lived in and worked in communist countries, warns that the challenge to the United States from Japan, in the decades ahead, is unique and sobering.

In brief, what Japan has that the U.S. doesn't is a population dedicated to Confucian teaching--deeply respecting order, authority and education. The average Japanese is not the independent individualist so many Americans like to be.

Moreover, they are hard. They have been accustomed to hard work and do not feel an adversary relationship with ownership. Instead, they appreciate their jobs, strive to improve and learn and are very proud of their company. They want its products to be the best, and to be constantly improved.

This challenge to America, which has for forty years led the world in industrial technology and production knowhow, is a far greater challenge than the sluggish, non-working communist economic system, in Halberstam's view.

In fact, he's not optimistic about the future--after viewing the Japanese and their progress and dedication. They believe the 21st century is to be theirs, and they may be right.

They are gaining sales, and much respect for quality products in just about every field--not just automobiles. They are now neck and neck with the U.S. in computer technology and innovation.

In short, the most severe economic competition, and test, for America is to come from a nation of dedicated, hard-working, orderly people--the Japanese. U.S. industry and U.S. workers must seriously consider this challenge and a response to it, even if it means some change in attitudes.

Marble Hill scores well in Independent Review

Public Service Indiana is committed to assuring high quality construction at its Marble Hill nuclear project, according to an independent review by Torrey Pines Technology, a California firm which has been involved in several recent nuclear industry reviews.

The study of Marble Hill's construction and quality assurance programs took place over the summer and involved more than 7,500 manhours of inspections and interviews by the reviewers.

"PSI management policies affecting quality, augmented by extensive involvement and interest by management in QA (quality assurance) activities, have a positive influence in ensuring quality in the construction of Marble Hill," according to the study's final report, which was recently released.

The Marble Hill review was done as part of a Nuclear Regulatory Commission study designed to assess the use of independent quality assurance reviews at nuclear construction sites. An amendment attached by Kentucky Senator Wendell Ford to the NRC's most recent funding bill directed the agency to select three sites to study whether such reviews would improve construction quality.

S.W. Shields, PSI's senior vice president-nuclear, said the company volunteered to be one of the sites examined. "We saw this as another opportunity to assure ourselves and the public that we are building a high quality plant," he said. "We think the findings confirm other NRC reviews and inspections which have found Marble Hill construction to be of high quality."

Although the study's final report was for the most part positive, it did note two areas of concern, both of which PSI has addressed.

In one instance, a blurred radiograph (weld X-ray) had been accepted, although the Torrey Pines reviewers felt the weld's quality could not be properly confirmed. PSI says the incident was probably an isolated one, but the company is strengthening procedures for accepting radiographs and will check to be sure no other blurred radiographs have been accepted in the past.

The Torrey Pines reviewers also noted that a previous audit of the project quality assurance program done for PSI management should have included a review for compliance with current regulations. Since this finding had also been noted in a recent management QA audit, the company has already made necessary corrections.

Too many of us waste too much time on petty matters.

Reading Club has carry-in dinner

The Mentone Reading Club held a luscious carry-in dinner at the home of Jerry Smith, preceding their October meeting.

A brief business meeting followed, presided over by President Rosemary Bazini. The meeting opened with pledges to the American and Christian flags, and officer reports. The Budget for the coming year was given to members and discussed.

Carole Steele reported the theme for National Bible Week is "Why Wait for an Emergency." She read an article from the Laymen's National Bible Committee, and will again have a display in a downtown store.

After repeating the Collect, the meeting was turned over to Doris Gardner, who presented a program on "Portrait of Europe." Mrs. Gardner had many descriptive literature and souvenir items on display, and gave an enlightening talk as she showed slides of a tour to France, Switzerland, Liechtenstein, Austria, Germany, Holland and England. Highlights included a welcome dinner in Paris, an excursion to Versailles, a Swiss Night dinner in Lucerne, the Salzburg Music Festival, a tour of the Heidelberg Castle, a Rhine Cruise, a performance of Pirates of Pensance at Drury Lane, and a farewell dinner party in London.

The next meeting will be held November 9th at the home of Mary Shurey in Mentone.

Ruth also led the devotions. She says that God lights our way so we should be still and know that He is God. If we do not feel as close to God as we once did, we should know it is we who have moved. God is always there. She led the group in prayer.

Roll call was answered by telling "Something nice a Neighbor has done for me."

RECIPE

By Sarah Anne Sheridan

Did you know that the traditional pumpkin is as delicious in a cake as it is in pies?

Here is a pumpkin cake recipe that has been a favorite of ours for some time.

Pumpkin Cake

- 3 c sugar
- 1 c shortening
- 2 eggs, beaten slightly
- 2 c pumpkin (fresh or canned)
- 1 t vanilla
- 3 c all-purpose flour
- 1/2 t baking powder
- 1/4 t salt
- 1 t soda
- 1 t cloves
- 1 t cinnamon
- 1 t nutmeg
- 1 t allspice

Cream shortening and sugar. Add beaten eggs, pumpkin and vanilla.

Sift the next eight ingredients together and add to creamed mixture.

Pre-heat oven to 350 degrees. Bake cake in a 10-inch tube pan or Bundt pan for 1 hour and 15 minutes.

Serve plain, or top slice with whipped cream.

Work, it seems, has a way of getting in the way of recreation.

Educational experience offered

On November 1, 1983, a unique educational experience is being offered by the Cooperative Extension Service. A video teleconference co-sponsored by the Indiana Council on Adolescent Pregnancy will reach fifteen sites across the state on the topic of prevention of adolescent pregnancy.

The health risks for teen mothers and their babies can be high. Financially and educationally, they are usually fighting an uphill battle. Many experts believe the best way to deal with these risks and grim consequences is to prevent teenage pregnancy. However, controversy results when trying to decide how to do that.

One approach to prevention is to tell young people that it is all right to postpone sexual contact and provide ways to say "no." Another approach is to teach young people how to be intimate. Other experts suggest sex education and availability of birth control are the answers.

Several such approaches will be presented by the experts who designed them and discussed in the November 1st teleconference seminar. A panel of Indiana experts will react and add their own insights. The teleconference is designed for professionals and community decision-makers concerned with adolescent pregnancy and costs $7.50.

Halloween

Halloween has its origin among the Druids, centuries before the Christian era, and from the Roman festival of Pomona.

Later, the church adopted the day as a special one. The name is of Christian origin, referring to the eve of All Hallows Day.

Druid customs were firmly entrenched. Though the Romans outlawed their observances in Britain and Ireland during their occupation, observances survive to this day. Halloween is one.

To the Druids, October 31 was the end of the year, and thus the festival. The Druids believed this was the time good souls of the dead went into animals, especially the cat.

They believed punishment of the wicked could be lightened by gifts and prayers.

In the U.S. the day has come to be associated with young people. They collect goodies in trick or treat calls—a vast improvement over mischief and destruction of former years.

Seasonal Fires

Outdoor fires this time of the year cost American people billions of dollars and account for a number of tragic accidents.

To avoid uncontrolled fires follow these suggestions:

1. Burn only in areas where fires are permitted.
2. Never start an outdoor fire on a windy day.
3. Clear an area around the spot where the fire is to be started.
4. If possible, hook up a garden hose for use in an emergency.
5. Never start a fire near wooden buildings.
6. Never leave a fire until you are sure it's completely out.

Comment On Sports

FOOTBALL *

By Pete Fritchie

WASHINGTON, D. C. -- There are a small number of late-season college football matchups which will decide much about pre-bowl college football rankings. One is Nebraska at Oklahoma on November 26.

Though Nebraska was slowed almost to a tie by Oklahoma State, and just eeked by, the Cornhuskers are still at the top as this is written and the Sooners are the only team which seems to have a chance to upset them.

Another key college game will be the Alabama-Auburn game, at Bama, on December 3. Before the season many picked Auburn to be the nation's top-ranked team. But the team got off slowly, after a fullback died in pre-season practice.

The Tigers, however, are formidable, and so is Bama, though the Tide surprised in losing to Penn State. This game could have much to do with final standings.

Ohio State goes to Michigan November 19. This is always a contest that attracts attention. Both colleges usually boast powerhouses. Often the Rose Bowl visitor is decided by this game.

Texas has already beaten Oklahoma, so its biggest test might come October 22 at Southern Methodist, a score the reader will know when he reads these lines.

Florida State's trip to Florida December 3 will be a major game, as will Georgia hosting Auburn on the 12th of November. The North Carolina-Clemson clash at North Carolina on November 5 will also affect the standings. Arkansas hosts Southern Methodist on November 19. Rejuvenated Kentucky ends the season with 3 toughies—at Vanderbilt and Florida on November 5 and 12, and hosting Tennessee on the 19th.

Penn State travels to Pittsburgh on November 19 also. By then the Lions and Panthers should have established solid records, though Joe Paterno's start this year was slow.

Yoicks, Tallyho and Tantiivy!!

They've been used for just about everything. They pulled plows in a farmer's field; they took families to church on Sunday morning; they've gone to war; they've been used for transportation, sport and making fortunes. But trotting horses served another purpose almost a half century ago. And the "experts" had said it couldn't be done.

What they had done was this: a dozen Standardbreds—that, in case you've forgotten, is the breed name for trotters and pacers—alternated in teams of four and pulled a 2,400 pound coach, loaded with ten people, from New York City to Atlantic City. Took them exactly ten hours, four minutes and 23 seconds to cover the 118 miles. Slow stuff, you say? Actually, it broke the previous record, set a quarter century earlier, by two hours. Here's how it all came about.

Mrs. Florence Evans Dibble of Newburyport, Massachusetts, wanted to draw attention to the Atlantic City Horse Show in May of '36. So did it in fine fashion, starting with a coaching breakfast at the Waldorf Astoria at six in the morning. A half hour later (they didn't waste much time on breakfast) Mrs. Dibble's guests were on the sidewalk admiring "The Valiant", a beautiful example of the coachmaker's art, cream and red, and originally built in France for William Tiffany.

Dr. W. Harold Weigle, chaplain of the Lambs Club, in full vestments, blessed the coach, the four horses and the passengers, then said "Don't leave home without me." The good doctor ducked into the hotel, changed into street clothes, climbed aboard the coach and off they went 15 seconds after 7 o'clock. The trotters, wearing rubber padded shoes, pulled away from the curb with Mrs. Dibble handling the reins. The bugler "tooted the horn" and a British lady, standing in a crowd of well-wishers, murmured in a Yorkshire but, "It's just like old England."

The reining lady wore blue jodhpurs, gray ulster—that's a very long, loose overcoat, usually made in Ulster (where else?)—and a gray topper. Beside her sat Thomas Fay Walsh, manager of her farms and an expert driver who took the ribbons after they got out of town. Mrs. Dibble headed the ponderous vehicle for the 23rd Street ferry, followed by a small parade of cars including a broadcasting car, with Clem McCarthy telling the world all about it. Every time the four horses took the Valiant around a corner, the position sounded his bugle and another neighborhood awoke earlier than it had expected.

More than a dozen people went along for the ride, sitting inside and atop the coach, all properly dressed. Among them was Earnest K. Fownes, a well-known English coaching expert who would have preferred to wait for the sun to be in the sky before setting out. Said he: "A rotten time of day to start doing anything!" Clem McCarthy, without whose "They're off" no horse race seemed official, suppressed that temptation when the coach started. Nor did anyone cry out "Yoicks" or "Tantiivy." But when Lowell Thomas got on the air that night to report the coaching trip he couldn't resist saying "Tallyho." Some people thought that was kinda corny.

The coach and four had intended to be stopped for the night at Lakewood, New Jersey, but the trip was so far ahead of schedule that Mrs. Dibble decided to push on. "It's your party," said Eddie Dugan. And the coach toiled down the road another eleven miles, to Toms River where they called it Day One. The travellers were ready to pack it in; Eddie Dugan, the scarlet-coated guard, had been shrilling sweet tunes from his silver coaching horn ever since 51st Street and Fifth Avenue and they were ready for a break.

The first change of horses the following morning was about a mile north of Barnegat. All along the way, in every village, crowds lined the streets, cheering as the coach rolled by. Pete, a year-old deer pet of the village of Barnegat, ran like the deer he was when Eddie Dugan gave out a blast on his silver horn.

The trotters averaged a little more than twelve miles an hour on the trip, high-gearing it to 16 mph on the final leg from Absecon to Atlantic City. Upon their arrival at the Chalfonte Haddon Hall Mrs. Dibble asked Eddie Dugan to stop playing his silver horn long enough to hand her a letter from New York's Mayor La Guardia, addressed to Mayor Charles D. White of Atlantic City. Eddie reached into his leather waybill pouch with one hand while holding his horn with the other, handed her the letter and never missed a beat.

"Natural gas rates will continue to stabilize only if Congress passes legislation in the consumers' interests," Edmund A. Schroer, NIPSCO chairman and chief executive officer, said recently.

"Unfortunately, legislation currently being considered in Washington would not accomplish this," he said. "Bills before the national legislature would, if passed, restructure the gas industry in a way that would vastly increase regulation and complicate many of the problems facing the industry and its customers."

The utility chairman said the aspects of a workable gas pricing compromise that could result in stabilized rates, provide an orderly transition to a deregulated market and bring about greater utilization of natural gas would include:

1. Continued regulation of gas discovered before April 1977 ("old gas") and adherence to the scheduled deregulation of gas found after that date ("new gas") as set forth in the Natural Gas Policy Act of 1978;

2. Reduction of "take pay" obligations in producer-supplier contracts which require suppliers to pay for a minimum amount of gas even if that gas cannot be sold;

SIGNS LEGISLATION

President Reagan signed legislation authorizing U.S. Marines to stay in Lebanon for 18 more months, but denounced some of its provisions as arbitrary and inflexible and said they could encourage enemies to fire on Americans.

CLAIM UPHELD

A Federal Trade Commission judge upheld charges recently that General Motors Corp. unlawfully hampered competition in the car rental and leasing industry by offering advertising allowances to some big firms.

State nurseries operate on a first come-first serve basis until supplies are exhausted. It's wise to order early.

Stablized natural gas rates threatened

3. Banning "favored nation" clauses in gas purchase contracts which permit the price paid to one producer to increase until it reaches the highest price paid to other producers in the same state or region;

4. Endorsement of regulatory action encouraging "voluntary" contract carriage arrangements proposed by the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission (FERC) which are effective, and the repudiation of "mandatory" contract carriage which would place unnecessary and restrictive regulations on the industry to the benefit of a coalition of special interests, and

5. Removal of Federal restraints (Fuel Use Act and Incremental Pricing) on natural gas sales which limit the greater utilization of this less expensive, environmentally acceptable fuel.

"NIPSCO's and the American Gas Association's immediate priorities are the enactment of legislation which will bring price relief to our customers and reasonably balance price and supply," Schroer said. "We are working for legislation from Congress, such as HR 2508 sponsored by Congressman James Slattery (D-Kansas) and Dan Coats (R-Indiana), which we believe will achieve this."

"So far in 1983, NIPSCO has passed on to customers reduced natural gas costs of more than $118.4 million, on an annual basis, lowering the annual bill for our average spaceheating customer more than 5 percent since December of 1982," he said. "We believe that our rates this winter will be lower than or equal to those charged last winter."

NIPSCO's natural gas rates remain among the lowest in the nation, Schroer said. A recently released study by the American Gas Association indicates that the utility's residential, commercial and industrial gas rates are among the lowest 15 percent in the nation.

"It is important that Congress pass legislation which will help NIPSCO and the industry maintain this favorable position, while assuring adequate supplies for the future," Schroer said.

"A compromise that includes the points we have referenced will better serve our customers' interests and provide us with the opportunity to serve northern Indiana's energy needs at reasonable prices."
