Rural Rhymes

October

Nippy, frosty, bracing air
There is nothing to compare,
To Octobers bright blue weather.

Trees in colors red and gold,
Gives us beauty thats untold
In October.

There's a flock of geese southward bound,
Their honking is a delightful sound,
In October.

There come the Halloween witches,
Goblins with pranks to put us in stitches,
All of this in October.

In Autumn

Autumn colors brown and gold,
In October do unfold.
Woods and shrubs once so green,
Now are most gorgeous hues ever seen.

Trees will soon shed their leaves,
In October's lively breeze,
Woods once in colors bold,
In November are bare and cold.

In November comes Thanksgiving Day
Thankful harvest is out of the way,
In late Autumn comes a skiff of snow,
Soon cold winter winds will blow.

Isn't It Amazing

Some things never fail to amaze me. Have you noticed the number of flies making their way into your home toward the fall months? The fly swatter has become a permanent part of our family room and would you believe the minute the swatter is raised, the flies disappear? Some friends of ours have cattle, and the flies are having a hayday at their house, too. Doug waved his hand repeatedly the other night shoos a fly from his arm only to have the fly return again and again. Now, if the fly knew it was going to be shoos away each time, why land in the same spot? Being driven to distraction with the flies, I decided I needed to get my mind on something else. Then it happened. While driving to work, a church in Warsaw had the following saying out front: "If Noah would have been wise, he would have swatted those two flies."

Hurray! Someone else was battling the flies besides myself.

In the past couple of days, before taking a nap or laying down to watch television, we first rid the household of the pesky flies. We know from past experience the minute a person settles himself for a rest that at least one fly appears from nowhere to land on your nose. A person begins by being patient, swatting the fly several times. But, as the fly returns again and again, patience wears thin. Before long, you find yourself jumping from the couch, grabbing the nearest paper, rolling it into a wand and swatting at the fly no matter where it lands. Unfortunately, you miss most of the time. (What's this? You thought you heard a tiny, shrill laugh as the fly buzzed by?)

There's a method to catching these fast and cagey insects. You just have to perfect it. Here are a few things we have tried:

(1) Toy with the fly. Let him know you're someone to be reckoned with! Follow him through the house for awhile and see how he likes it.

(2) Catch the fly by hand! This can be done, Doug does it all the time. You wait until the fly has landed, sneak up behind him so all those eyes can't see you, bring your arm back as if you were going to slap someone, cup your hand, and with lightning speed, scoop up the fly in your hand, closing your fingers tightly and quickly. You'd be surprised how fast they will escape through your fingers. Next, shake your hand up and down like shaking dice, stand with your feet apart, and with great force throw the fly on the ground. The fly will fly in circles, dizzy, long enough to allow you to get the fly swatter and finish the job.

(3) Put the fly in solitary confinement! I have been known to sneak up behind a fly, placing a paper cup over him. This allowed him time to think about what he had done. However, later when I removed the cup, no fly was there. I guess he had spent time around Houdini and perfected a disappearing act.

(4) Last, but not least, is to perfect your aim with the swatter. We all know flies are notoriously fast buzzing in a door when you close it as fast as you can, but as long as you keep the fly swatter behind your back where the fly can't see it until the last minute, and you sneak up on his blind side (behind him), and he is on a flat surface, you should be successful.

(5) If all else fails, sleep under mosquito netting!!

The 1939 canning season is nearing an end at the Akron Canning Co.. The peak of the season was reached on the 29th of August, when 5,498 cans of tomatoes were packed. This equals 2 1/4 carloads. The largest crop of tomatoes ever produced in Akron and surrounding communities has been delivered to the plant during the past few weeks. The tomatoes were of usually fine quality this year, due to favorable growing weather. The canning factory has been working day and night and Sundays, employing a large number of people, to take care of the large crop. In spite of their efforts, tons of tomatoes which were bought by the owners had to be resold to other canning plants for catsup. The season usually ends with the first frost, but the excessive hot weather and drought of the last few weeks have almost exhausted the supply.

How many
are there?

In 1988, we announced New Lower Rates with a 9% decrease. We also mailed rebates to our customers. And, as of October 1, 1989, we're lowering them by an additional 4.2%. This affects each of our half-million customers in a positive way. In fact, our rates are now equivalent to 1983 levels. And we're working to keep them stable.

New Lower Rates—an idea that's working better than ever.

FAITH PLUS CONVENIENCE CAN BEST HELP THE HANDICAPPED

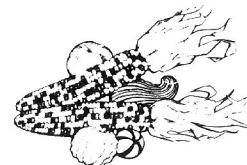

We help the handicapped every way we can: with donations, special parking spaces, wheelchair ramps, adequate rest room facilities, etc., and by spending time with them. Even the children who are afflicted in some way are provided with such programs as summer camps. All of these concessions are truly commendable. Nonetheless, there is one more source of help and comfort to which we should direct our efforts: faith. Their spiritual outlook is just as important as their access to some public building. It depends on their knowing that God has a special love and purpose for them, and that their so-called handicap is but a challenge to develop a talent with their remaining resources. History proves that it can be done. Thank God for this truth, and for our own discovery of the faith we all need.

Farm Progress Show

The Rod Conner family and the Farm Progress Show

For the Rod Conner family of Akron, the Farm Progress Show turned out to be an extra special event.

On Tuesday evening of the show, Rod, Angela and Alisha Conner joined Angela's aunt and uncle, Mildred "Topsy" and Dorris Harrold, for coffee at The Farmer's Daughter Cafe, where the Connor's oldest daughter, Ashley, was waitressing. Rod, who overheard an out-of-town couple asking where they could find a motel room for the night, offered to share his home with the couple.

The couple, Howard and Claire Shelly, are from Zionsville, Pa., which is about 50 miles north of Philadelphia. There, they farm 550 acres and have about 70 sows. Claire had read about The Farmer's Daughter Cafe in the Aug./Sept. issue of "Farm and Ranch" magazine, and had recognized the cafe as they drove through Akron on their way to the Farm Progress Show.

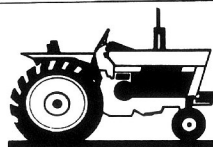

The Shellys told how farm ground in their area is being overtaken by the expansion of commercial and residential areas.

On Wednesday, the Shellys visited the Harrold's angus farm, northeast of Akron, before continuing on their way.

Letters to the Editor

The Fulton County Farm Progress Show was a Tremendous success. This success was attributed to many people and many organizations of which several were mentioned in the newspapers. I am writing this letter to thank the Civil Defense Units who were very instrumental to the success of the Farm Progress Show. Miami County and Cass County Civil Defense Units performed in an efficient and exemplary manner. I thank them for their assistance. Most of All, I want to publicly show my appreciation to the members of the Fulton County Civil Defense for the many long and grueling hours they devoted to handling traffic. They can be proud and I am certainly proud of their dedication to duty, decorum and their personal sacrifices.

Dean Smith, Director
Fulton County Civil Defense

Views On Dental Health

H. RAY HAZEN,
D.D.S., M.S.D., P.C.

PRECISION PARTIAL ATTACHMENTS

Perhaps you've been wearing a partial denture to fill the space caused by missing teeth but are self-conscious about the metal clasps that show when you open your mouth to talk or smile. You don't have to be self-conscious any longer, however, if you ask your dentist to make a partial denture with precision attachments.

To do this, your dentist will make crowns for each of the anchor teeth to which the partial is attached. A precision groove will be built directly into the crown. To match that groove, a precision post will be attached to the partial so that it will fit snugly into place and be hidden from view. This has many other advantages, in addition to appearance and a snug fit. A partial denture made with precision attachments will reduce the mobility of the partial, keeping any sliding, rubbing or slipping to a minimum.

If you're concerned about your appearance and also want your partial denture to fit securely into your mouth, ask your dentist if he would recommend a partial denture with precision attachments for you.

Prepared as a public service to promote better dental health. From the office of: H. RAY HAZEN, D.D.S., M.S.D., P.C. 1329 Main St., Rochester, Phone 223-3121.

Public Service Indiana

Public Service Indiana is requesting regulatory approval to make long-term wholesale power sales at negotiated prices.

The company filed its proposal with the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission, which regulates utility wholesale power sales.

"We're one of the first electric utilities to ask FERC for the authority to sell wholesale power at negotiated prices," said James E. Rogers Jr., PSI chairman. "Our company faces a number of financial challenges during the next decade to comply with environmental regulations, keep our power plants running and continue to provide customers with safe and reliable power. Our current weakened financial condition makes raising the capital to meet these needs difficult. We see selling our power at market prices to other utilities as a way to rebuild our financial health and mitigate future rate increases."

Because of the demand for power in various regions of the United States, PSI believes there's an emerging market where utilities are willing to buy electricity on a long-term basis and at market prices.

Flexible pricing of long-term power sales would be beneficial to all parties involved, Rogers said. The utility buying the power can avoid the cost of building costly new base-load generating capacity to meet customer demand. For PSI, the assured sales at market prices will help the company run its electrical system more efficiently and will bring additional revenues. Would help reduce or stabilize customer rates.

"In exchange for increase pricing flexibility from FERC, we will also agree to allow utility and non-utility power generators greater access to our transmission system," Rogers said. "This will help meet regional power needs and make better use of everyone's power resources."

In its FERC petition, PSI also said that departure from traditional regulation would advance to goals of the goals of the Federal Power Act and to Department of Energy Organization Act in "promoting an abundant supply of electric energy at just and reasonable rates, increasing the efficient utilization of electric generating resources and fostering competition among parties engaged in the supply of energy."

PSI has up to 450 megawatts of base-load generating capacity available for long-term contracts. It hopes to have FERC authority to sell its power at market prices by 1990.

Quickly Cook Beef Strips In Microwave

Do you feel like your days are spent playing "beat the clock"? Then you're probably in need of some time-saving tips that will help you win the game, particularly in the after-work hours.

Quick and easy, convenient, under 20 minutes recipes are important to today's cook.
Luckily, technology and cooking techniques using the microwave oven can make mealtime less hectic for active families.

One quick-cooking microwave technique for meat is to cook thin steak strips rather than cubes and prepare them in recipes such as Tangy Microwave Beef Barbecue. This entree can be prepared and cooked in about half an hour.

If you have a little extra time you may wish to partially freeze a top round steak so it's easier to slice it into thin, 1/8-inch strips. These steak strips could be cut in advance and stored in a covered bowl in the refrigerator.

To cook steak strips in the microwave oven spread them in a single layer in a covered microwave-safe baking dish to simulate the conventional braising cooking method. The use of beef strips reduces the time required to achieve tenderness and eliminates or lessens the tendency towards shrinkage and toughening.

Flavor the beef strips with a barbecue-style sauce. Then serve over muffins for a winning quick-to-cook entree.

Tangy Beef Barbecue

Preparation time: 15 minutes
Cooking time: 15 minutes

1-pound beef top round steak, cut 3/4-inch thick
1 medium onion, thinly sliced and separated into rings
1/3 cup catsup
2 tablespoons brown sugar
1 tablespoon cider vinegar
1 teaspoon each cornstarch, dry mustard and hot pepper sauce
1/2 teaspoon salt
4 corn muffins, quartered

Cut beef top round steak into 1/8-inch thick strips; reserve. Place onions in single layer over bottom of 11 3/4 x 7 1/2-inch micro-with waxed paper and microwave at HIGH 2 minutes.

Arrange reserved beef strips over onions. Microwave covered at MEDIUM or 50 percent power (300 to 325 watts) 5 minutes.
Pour off drippings. Meanwhile combine catsup, brown sugar, vinegar, cornstarch, dry mustard, hot pepper sauce and salt, mixing thoroughly. Stir into beef mixture and continue cooking, covered, at MEDI-UM 8 minutes*, stirring after 4 minutes. Arrange muffins on individual plates.
Stir beef mixture and spoon an equal portion over each muffin. 4 servings. 406 calories per serving.

*Full-sized ovens, microwave at MEDIUM 6 to 7 minutes; stirring after 3-1/2 minutes.

Note: Three-fourths cup original flavor barbecue sauce, 2 teaspoons chili powder and 1/2 teaspoon dried oregano leaves may be substituted for catsup, brown sugar, cider vinegar, cornstarch, dry mustard, hot pepper sauce and salt.

Note: Recipes were tested in a 650-watt oven. If your oven has a different wattage adjust times accordingly.

When The Lights Go Out

As the seasons change, we begin to dread some of the problems that come along with them. I always think of terrible rain storms as fall approaches, which really aren't that bad if they aren't damaging and you can be inside, but the problems do occur when the wind gets a little too strong, causing power outages...and the lights go out!

It's amazing how the everyday sounds of a house go unnoticed. The other week or two, we were watching television when it began raining. We closed the windows and returned to our show. Before long the lights flashed three times, a good warning of what was to come.

Sure enough, the flashing was over and the house was pitch black. The only light was from the occasional flash of lightning cutting through the sky.

Immediately, we heard nothing....absolutely nothing. "Well, now what do we do?" Collin asked. I elected him to help me find our kerosene lamp in the bedroom and we made our way through the house like they do in the old movies. We noticed gigantic shadows along the walls and the strangest figures atop them. (Collin was making shadows with his hands!) We placed the lamp atop our television and proceeded to stare at one another. "Well, what do we do now?" Chris asked, obviously bored.

Boredom didn't last. Chris found his battery radio and decided to catch the news. After a time, he and Collin were having their own conversation about what they had done that day. Doug was tipped back in his chair enjoying a cigarette by the lamp light while also enjoying the quiet with no radio from the bathroom making its way to us, no stereo from the livingroom turned too loud and no sweeper running to obstruct the sound of his TV show. He really seemed content.

As for me, I figured out it was really nice to be able to talk to one another instead of allowing TV to take over our evening. We usually have a lot of talking during the evening, but this time, we didn't need to talk over the electrical appliances to do it. It's almost as if we needed to have the plug pulled to be able to talk without the other things being on. But, the thrill didn't last.

Realization hit. We had no alarm clocks that would run without electricity and we all needed to be up early the next morning. We decided to nap until the lights came back on, then reset the clocks. Our evening was over.

While we were waiting for the crews to fix the downed powerline, I decided our electrical supply really wasn't that bad; we just need to keep it in perspective. After all, the kids have talked to me while I was folding clothes from the dryer, while I had been pressing clothes in the bedroom, while getting supper, etc. A person really can communicate and have these things, but a time like that night brings it to our attention.

As I write this article, it is early Saturday morning, and I'm the only one up, with Doug having left for work and C.J. still in bed. While I think it is quiet, I remember back to the "real quiet" when the electricity was off. This morning I hear the refrigerator hum periodically, the timer on the stove with a different hum, the water softener running on its final cycle and the ever so slight sound made as the digital clock turns to another number. Quiet is nice, but I like semi-quiet, too.

Thank you, Thomas Edison.

With interest in hybrid corn steadily mounting throughout the Corn Belt, farmers in the county are expected to pay particular attention during the harvest season to the yield performance of locally popular hybrid varieties in hopes of learning which will be best for them to plant in 1940. Leroy Norris of Mentone has gone one step farther and adopted scientific experiment station methods to prove to himself and other local corn growers just what the various highly publicized hybrid varieties will do on Kosciusko county farms. Last spring he planted more than a dozen different varieties in a 5-acre proving field near here and now farmers have an opportunity to see the difference in the varieties as they grow side by side under the same conditions of soil and weather. He reports that local farmers are showing a great deal of interest in the test plot and several are going through the field every day. From the wide variety selection, they are able to find corn that meets all of their many needs, including many types of kernels and ears ranging from the smooth and shiny to the soft and rough and stalk heights from very tall down to almost sweet corn height. Plans are under way to hold a public husking bee and visitors will be welcomed to see the varieties husked out and the final yields compared.

HOW MUCH ARE YOU WORTH?

Your real worth is not in what you have, but in what you are, and what is recognized by your service to those who need them.

The worthy whose worth excel all riches are those who live for others. More worthy than the self-indulgent are the self-giving. More praise worthy than being good is doing good. More valuable than glory is a good name.

As you give, you'll get for what you gave. Recompense for your benevolent gifts is a gladdened heart and gratifying remembrances. You are worth only what you are good for. How much are you worth, as your brother's keeper?

How much are you worth, as an example to youth?

How much are you worth, as a friend to the friendless?

How much are you worth to your dependents?

How much are you worth, as a fighter of adversities?

How much are you worth as an inspiration to the despairing?

Senior Citizens, come join us for a well balanced meal and fellowship. For your meal reservation please call 893-7204, the day before you plan to join us between the hours of 9:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. Age is 60 years or older, unless you are helping a handicapped person 60 years or older.

In 1988, we announced New Lower Rates with a 9% decrease. We also mailed rebates to our customers. And, as of October 1, 1989, we're lowering them by an additional 4.2%. This affects each of our half-million customers in a positive way. In fact, our rates are now equivalent to 1983 levels. And we're working to keep them stable.

LIVE A GOOD LIFE ON THE EARTH THEY PROVED TO BE ROUND

This earthly planet we have known
Since ancient history'd begun
Was seen as flat and all alone,
Like any island in the sun.
But then explorers came along,
And like Columbus, they had found
Those geographic notions wrong,
And so they proved the earth was round,
By sailing to some unknown land
With only God to be their guide;
And thus today we understand
The faith on which those men relied.
So thank the Lord, who made this earth
So round, according to His plan;
And then discover what it's worth
To live on it, the best you can.

Eaton and Johnson marry

Stacy Eaton and Kenneth Johnson were united in marriage September 16, 1989 at 2:00 in the afternoon at the Burket United Methodist Church by Rev. Donald Poyser of Piercetown, and Rev. Lew Ruman, Burket.

Stacy the daughter of Garwin and Peg Eaton of Rt. 1, Mentone and Kenneth is the son of Melvin and Janice Johnson of Rt. 1, Silver Lake.

Harp music was provided by Beth Fugate, Culver, and vocal music by Sandy Knisley, Warsaw.

The bride chose a dress of antique white lace with a crepe skirt accented with pearls. She wore an antique white hat and carried calla lilies with ivy and pearls.

Kelly Howard, Rochester, sister of the bride served as matron of honor. She wore a mauve chiffon and lace dress and carried a single mauve lily with ivy and pearls.

Kendra Howard, niece of the bride, was flower girl. She wore a white lace dress and carried a basket of mauve flower petals.

Scott Johnson brother of the groom, served as best man. Ushers were Steve and James Helton of Warsaw, cousins of the groom.

A lawn reception was held at the home of the bride's parents. The tables were covered with blue and mauve country prints and had heart shaped baskets filled with dried flowers and herbs.

Both Stacy and Kenneth are graduates of Tippecanoe Valley High School. Stacy is employed as a hair stylist with J and W's of Warsaw and Kenneth is employed at Othy of Warsaw.

After a honeymoon to Myrtle Beach they will reside at 114 1/2 N. Buffalo St. Warsaw.

Final step in PSI's 'New Lower Rates'

Public Service Indiana customers will receive their second rate decrease in two years, effective Oct. 1.

The 4.2 percent decrease wraps up PSI's "New Lower Rates" program, which started in 1988, and brings rates down to 1983 levels. If the utility's rate case now, pending before the Indiana Utility Regulatory Commissions is approved, customer rates are expected to stay at these levels until 1993.

The effect of the Oct. 1 rate decrease on each customer's bill depends on electricity usage. An average residential customer who use 1,000 kilowatt-hours a month would pay about $3 less.

Under PSI's New Lower Rates program, last year customers received a 9 percent rate decrease in July and a $50 million rebate in September.

50th Wedding Anniversary

The couple has five children Berne Lee Jones, Blue Mounds, W.I., Marvis Morgan, Argos, Glen Jones, Rochester, Dale Jones, Oxford In., and Carl "Pete" Jones, Peru.

Deer & Deer Hunting

Deer whistles, safety devices mounted to the front of cars and trucks, may be a fraud. Air flow generated by an equipped vehicle in motion supposedly causes a deer whistle to emit ultrasonic sound which frightens deer away or inhibits them from jumping in front of oncoming traffic.

According to an article published in the November 1989 issue of Deer & Deer Hunting Magazine, the ability of deer whistles to perform as advertised may be a hoax. The article states two independent research teams determined at least one brand of deer whistle did not emit ultrasonic sound under advertised conditions. The article further comments little is known about the auditory limits of deer.

In addition, if deer do hear ultrasound, it is unclear how they behavior is affected by it.

Over 200,000 deer-car-collisions occur every year. One hundred people die annually as a result. According to one Michigan study, the average property damage is $730 per collision.

The Cluttered Closet

Everyone complains about cleaning their closets. For most, they empty the closet, look through the contents, and then put most of it right back where it was to begin with.

Like others, I have things in our closets I refuse to part with. However, Doug thinks he can "help" me dispose of them. I have found excellent ways to convince him that we are being practical by keeping each item.

One box which has a permanent place in our closet is my wedding dress. Although Doug hasn't insisted I dispose of it, he thinks the space would be better used for other things. It may be that I hug the box as he enters the room. I'm not sure.

Another box has wedding cards from friends, cards from wedding gifts as well as baby presents from each of the kids, cards from shower presents (one is a sympathy card!), and of all things, cards my mother kept from my baby gifts, which are almost 40 years old! Doug mumbles, gives me a wishful look, I shake my head "no" and the box is placed next to the wedding dress.

Another box holds extra wedding announcements and napkins. This is the box Doug would destroy first. "Just think, on our 25th anniversary we will be able to use the napkins, saving us money. As for the announcements dated Sept. 8, 1968, we can mail the remainder to friends and place a card inside asking, "Remember when?" This is about the time when Doug says to call him if there is anything he can take to the trash, and leaves the room.

We also have senior cards. I have suggested disposing of his with Beetle Bailey all over them to see how he feels about it, and he clutches those cards for dear life, looking at me like, "You wouldn't dare?" (Of course I wouldn't; my skirt is in the next closet!)

My satin shoes from the wedding, that don't fit anymore, still have their place on a shelf as do some of the boys' favorite toys that I refuse to sell. Although I don't feel like a person who keeps everything, there are a few things I won't part with.

My mother used to keep things in an attic. She had old hats, a few old dresses that I wouldn't let her throw away and several pairs of shoes. My cousin and I would spend a lot of time playing dress up, having a ball! There was a shoebox with quilting pieces I used to sort through, even though I never saw Mom work on a quilt, and a collection of buttons from way back when that my kids have acquired to look at. A couple outfits that belonged to me as a baby were kept in a drawer in the attic and were eventually used for my dolls. I, too, have kept the outfits my boys wore home from the hospital, along with their baby quilts my sister-in-law made for each of them. Many baby outfits I had intended to keep for the boys to see, when they were much older, have been given to others who had none for their children, believing they would be better used by someone who need them at that time, than kept for sentimental reasons. I haven't regretted it once. My dolls were retired to the attic in sealed plastic bags, as were my prom dresses. A box of pictures left the attic every winter as we would reminisce during a snow storm.

Wouldn't it have been a shame to get rid of all those things? (I still have my box of invitation... too!)

OCTOBER 14, 1959
30 YEARS AGO

A group of Mentone folks are near Ten Sleep, Wyoming on a hunting trip this week. Mr. and Mrs. Harold Uter left by auto Friday morning and it has been reported they arrived Sunday. Saturday morning Mr. and Mrs. Allen Herenden left in their plane, with Norman Dudge of Claypool and another gentleman as passengers. Dr. Wilson and Dale Sinclair left in another plane Saturday and Dr. Wilson's brother and another man left in a pickup - just in case there would be any game to haul back home.

With the closing Wednesday evening of last week of the 59th annual State DAR conference, at the Marriott Hotel, Indianapolis, one of the finest state conferences ever held became history. Mrs. Frank D. Smith of Mentone, northern district director, shared in the spotlight for its success. The northern district chapters were hostesses this year. A surprise highlight of Wednesday's session was the appearance of Evangelist Billy Graham, bringing greetings to the Daughters in which he stated that his mother was a member of the society. A thrilling highlight of the conference for Mrs. Ray Linn and Mrs. Eldred Paulus, members of the Mentone Anthony Nigo chapter, was having their pictures taken with Evangelist Billy Graham on the steps of the Marriott Hotel. Another big thrill for Mrs. Linn was a surprise birthday party held Tuesday night in the hotel room of Mrs. Smith and Mrs. Wm. Cogswell, state treasurer, of Bloomington. Mrs. Smith, Mrs. Paulus, Mrs. Glen Highley and Mrs. Lawrence Guenin were hostesses and served a beautiful birthday cake to several of Mrs. Linn's friends. At the state officers club banquet on Monday evening Mrs. Linn was also a winner of one of the lovely pictures of Abraham Lincoln given to holders of lucky numbers.

THE LEAVES OF FALL

The leaves of fall are on parade, all painted bright and lush, with every color tint and shade put on by Nature's magic brush. I feast my eyes while these abound, for all too soon they're gone, and the only place these leaves are found is knee-deep on my lawn. The leaves of fall fine pictures make, with beauty hard to find. But the fall of leaves and the time to rake, leave me quite colorblind.

Senior Citizens, come join us, for a well balanced meal and fellowship. For your meal reservation please call 893-7204, the day before you plan to join us between the hours of 9:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. Age is 60 years or older, unless you are helping a handicapped person 60 years or older.

October pitch-in-dinner will be held on Halloween Day. Please bring one dish of food and your own table service. We will eat dinner at 11:30 sharp. Thank you.

Saturday, October 14, 1989 at Elkhart Central High School, the Viking Guard competed in the ISSMA (Indiana State School Music Association) Regionals for the northern half of the state. Fifteen other bands in Class C bands qualified to be there by receiving a Division I rating earlier in District Competition.

At regionals, the top five bands will advance to State Finals competition, held on October 28 in the Hoosier Dome. This is the highest level to be achieved in high school marching band competition.

Tippy Valley did qualify by placing 4th out of the 15 bands competing.

This will be the 3rd time in the last four years that Valley has been a finalist. The band placed 10th last year at State Finals out of ten.

Valley had the highest music score of all 15 bands and won 1st place in music. Other finalists are listed here in score order from the top: 1. Lewis Cass, 2. Winchester, 3. Maconaquah, 4. Valley (highest in music), 5. Northwestern.

Regional competition for Class (C) was also held at Marion High School and the top five were selected. Those five bands along with the top five from the Elkhart regional, competed at State Finals in Class C competition.

Valley will have the smallest band ever to compete in State Finals competition. Valley has 31 playing members and 13 auxiliary corps members, five of which double as rifles.

One week earlier at Homestead High School, the band competed with Winchester and Maconaquah High School and several others. TVHS had the high score and won that contest. They also won all caption awards including: best marching, best general effect, best music, and best auxiliary corps.

Next weekend, October 21, the band will travel to North Montgomery High School for competition. They will meet several Class C bands that they will be up against 1 week later at State Finals.

The State Finals in Indianapolis on October 28, will be TVHS's last show of the season. ISSMA is a division of student activities.

Mentone Cub Scouts

On September 21st, Pack 3777 met at the Mentone Youth League Building to welcome new Scouts; present awards, and to kick off the annual popcorn sale. The sale dates are September 30 thru October 19. Anyone needing popcorn call Kris Waymire at 353-7269. It was also announced that due to the pack's growth, several new dens are being formed. The new leaders are as follows, please contact any of them or, Cubmaster Darrel Miller, if you are interested in Scouting. The Wolf Den - Robin Stephens; the Bear Dens - Tanya Wise and Kris Waymire, leaders; Karen Gonzales and MaryKay Jones, assistant leaders; the Weeblos Dens, Darrel Miller and Joe Secrist. There is need for a new leader or two for the Weeblos Den as Joe has taken the new Boy Scout Troop, so step right up-it's fun!

All of the Den and Pack meetings are held at the Youth League Building. The Dens never meet on the week of a Pack meeting. The pack meetings are on the last school Thursday of the month. No school, no scouts. The times are as follows: Wolves, 3:45 Wednesdays; Bears, 3:45 Tuesdays; Weeblos, 4:30 Thursdays.

October 19th is the next Pack meeting. A scavenger hunt and a pumpkin decorating contest is scheduled. Popcorn orders will be turned in at this meeting.

On October 21st the pack will be going to the Cub Family Outing at Rising Arrow Reservation. There will be plenty of games, contest, food, and fun, the day will end with an Arrow of Light Ceremony and marshmallows over the fire!

Mom and Me weekend at camp

On the weekend of September 23rd, three Cub Scouts and their moms "experienced" a Mom & Me Weekend at the Anthony Wayne Scout Reservation - Camp Little Turtle. The format for the weekend was a "Show-and-Do" style. There were approximately 22 different stations for them to visit and perform the skill that was taught. Among them were Indian lore, astronomy, first aid, rope making, b-b gun shooting, row boating and the monkey bridge. They had fun, went to bed late (exhausted!), got up early to see ice on their tents, ate hearty, made new friends, did a 1 1/2 hour hike in 45 minutes and had alot of fun! All in all it was a great time! The Scouts and their moms came home each, with their own Mom & Me patch, as well as ideas and know-how for camping and alot of memories. They'd like to do it next year but hope it's not a "freeze" weekend!

Mom & Me campers were: Betty and Kyle Thompson, Kris and Jay Waymire, and Laurie and Eric Carlin. Six of over 300 campers! (News Photo).

Thank You

Deaton's celebrate 30th anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. George E. Deaton, 203 Rose Lane, Bourbon, will be celebrating their 30th wedding anniversary with an open house from 2-5 p.m. on October 22, 1989 at 115 South Main Street, Bourbon, In.

The Deatons have owned and operated the Deaton Funeral Home in Bourbon since May of 1965.

How many PSI customers are affected by the rate decrease?

How many
are there?

In 1988, we announced New Lower Rates with a 9% decrease. We also mailed rebates to our customers. And, as of October 1, 1989, we're lowering them by an additional 4.2%. This affects each of our half-million customers in a positive way. In fact, our rates are now equivalent to 1985 levels. And we're working to keep them stable.

New Lower Rates—an idea that's working better than ever.

IF YOU'RE FEELING DEPRESSED, HELP OTHERS WHO NEED YOU

At some time in all of our lives, things will go wrong, and we feel very depressed as a result. We may lose a job or get bypassed for an expected promotion; or an engagement may be called off. We can incur any number of financial or emotional catastrophes. However, no matter how bleak the future looks, tomorrow is another day. A new and probably better job or romance can be right around the next corner. Meanwhile, get out of yourself and help someone else. Go to the nearest hospital and do some volunteer work. Read aloud to a patient, or just say hello and chat for a few minutes. In addition to cheering these people up, this will help you realize how fortunate you are. Above all, turn to faith at your House of Worship. This can give you a real head start on a new life, in which you will be helping others as well as yourself.

PSI offers teachers energy grants

Public Service Indiana is offering up to $500 grants to teachers interested in developing new, innovative ways to teach students about energy.

To be eligible for PSI's Energy Education Mini-Grant Program, teachers must work for a school served by the electric utility.

"Our program is designed to help teachers with a genuine interest in energy education put their teaching talents and creativity to work in the classroom," said Jeanna Keller, PSI's supervisor of public information. "They may teach any subject at any grade level because energy education can be incorporated into practically all curriculums."

PSI co-sponsors the mini-grant program with Indiana Michigan Power and Northern Indiana Public Service Company. This year, grant levels have been increased from $150 to $500 to garner greater interest from teachers with original ideas for classroom energy projects.

To receive an application and a summary of past mini-grant projects, teachers should write: Mini-Grant, Public Service Indiana, 1000 E. Main St., Plainfield, IN 46168. The deadline for applying is Dec. 15. Grants will be awarded in January.

PSI testifies at hearing on Acid Rain Bill

Public Service Indiana Chairman, James E. Rogers today told a congressional subcommittee his company is willing to pay its fair share to clean the air—but not more.

Rogers also said utilities which have already invested millions to reduce sulfur dioxide emissions should not be penalized for their efforts.

He testified before the Subcommittee on Energy and Power, chaired by Rep. Philip R. Sharp from Indiana, which is hearing testimony on H.R. 3030—President Bush's acid rain proposal. The subcommittee is under the House Committee on Energy and Commerce.

"We recognize that large coal-fired utility plants contribute to the nation's inventory of sulfur dioxide," Rogers said. "But these plants are not the only source of SO<sub>2</sub> and, therefore, should not have to bear the full cost of compliance. In addition, Indiana should not be required to make 11.8 percent of the nation's SO<sub>2</sub> emission reductions when our state only contributed 7.5 percent."

PSI has cut its SO<sub>2</sub> emission rate by 22 percent since 1980 and reduced its overall emissions by 110,000 tons per year. Regardless of congressional action on clean air legislation, Rogers said that PSI's SO<sub>2</sub> emissions will be reduced even further because of state air-quality regulations.

If H.R. 3030 passes as proposed, PSI would be required to reduce current SO<sub>2</sub> emissions by more than two-thirds. To bring its power plants into compliance, the company would likely build five scrubbers, which could cost more than $200 million each. Customer rates could also increase 25 percent by the year 2001. For a residential customer with a monthly bill of $50, this could mean an increase of $10 to $12 a month.

"We are not suggesting we should escape from having to clean up our share of the emissions," Rogers told Sharp's subcommittee. "We ask only that we not be required to clean up for other utilities unless they share in the cost. PSI also supports a mechanism for allocating a fair share of the SO<sub>2</sub> reduction costs to industrial sources of SO<sub>2</sub>, which account for roughly one-quarter of SO<sub>2</sub> emissions nationwide."

Cost-sharing remedies that might be considered include an emission-based fee on all sources that are not now required to make SO<sub>2</sub> emission reductions, Rogers said. Another solution could be a small fee for all electric customers nationwide, based on electrical usage. This fee could amount to 50 cents a month on a typical residential bill.

Proponents of cost sharing in pending clean air legislation are seeking fairness and adherence to a sound national energy policy, Rogers concluded in his testimony, not environmental concessions.

Cooking Up Something For Halloween

Halloween brings special thoughts to me. For years my nickname was "Witch." Although I haven't been called that for years, I feel it was an accurate name for me. I seem to have a feel for that name.

This time of year can be fun if it doesn't get out of hand. A lady I know who shall remain nameless has played her share of tricks on me during the past year. Such as the time I went to work very early one day to allow my getting home earlier in the afternoon. I grasped the back of my chair, pulled it out, and then watched unbelievably as it rolled back under the desk by itself! I once more pulled the chair back and again, it rolled back under the desk! After getting on my hands and knees, I discovered my chair had been tied to the front desk leg with a piece of elastic!

I happened to get the upper hand, I thought, around Easter. Somehow the discussion came up about how much the girls loved the marshmallow chicks you buy around Easter time. So, a few days before Easter weekend, marshmallow chicks just happened to be found in every one of her desk drawers, on her chair, in her purse, on her calendar, etc. all day long! To my surprise, the chicks were lined up on her desk with names attached to each. I somehow figured they would be returned to me. Sure enough, one was returned in MY drawer. I felt cagey now. Early the next morning, two days before Easter, I wrapped the chick in tissue paper, boxed and mailed it back, one more time thinking she would never expect such a thing. After depositing the box at the post office and feeling quite pleased with myself, I arrived at work to find an Easter basket on my desk with a chicken perched on a swing made of toothpicks swinging from the handle, from the same lady. Great minds run along the same lines!

We managed to make it through April Fool's Day, but I always remember something that happened to my brother when he first got married. His wife packed his lunch as always and he was off to work. At lunch time, he unwrapped his sandwich, sat back for a relaxing half hour, and bit into the sandwich, only to find he couldn't bite through whatever it was she had fixed. He hated to make a production out of it, but each bite he took got worse, with him having only bread and meat that could be bitten off, with a piece of cheese hanging from the two pieces of bread. With close inspection, he discovered she had placed a piece of rubber cheese on his sandwich!

The lady I worked for many years ago had a good sense of humor at Halloween. With just two employees in the office at that time, we decided to wear masks to work for the day. We arrived at our desks and quickly placed the masks on and began typing. Our boss came in, said "Good morning," and stopped in her tracks, put her hands on her hips and said, "You, know, I like that. Why don't you wear those all day?" We had more fun with those and didn't feel out of place, either, with the girls in the cafeteria masked as well as some of the other employees in the building.

By the way, the chicken problem goes on. I opened my desk drawer one day and found a note saying that the "chicks" had contacted a disease and weren't expected to live. A day or two after that, I found chicken bones wrapped in plastic with the sign saying, "Here lies Binky." (It smelled faintly of Shake 'N Bake...what a way to go!)

Here's hoping your jokes at Halloween and all through the year are enjoyable ones!

FAITH DEFINES EVIL AS A WORD FOR CHILDREN ON HALLOWEEN

The children, with a grim delight,
Are looking forward to the night
When they'll be taking to the streets
In costumes, or just draped in sheets.
Anticipating what's in store
When they come knocking at your door,
You'll be prepared to be their host
And feed each goblin, witch and ghost.
This "wicked" night, however mild,
Would seem to fascinate each child,
Who having once outgrown that phase,
May cultivate more evil ways,
Unless we teach them to resist.
Your House of Worship can assist;
So let its lessons intervene,
With "evil" left for Halloween.

Halloween pumpkins

As Halloween quickly approaches Mrs. Becky Smith's class decorated some pumpkins. Each pumpkin had a personality of its own.

WOMAN'S FELLOWSHIP

The Women's Fellowship of the Church of the Brethren met on a beautiful fall evening, October 12, at the home of Kay Brouyette.

Deb Whistler, president, opened the meeting with a humorous poem, "How to Know When You Are Growing Older." She also read another poem, "Legend of the Spider." The secretary's report was read and approved. Several get-well cards and two sympathy cards were signed. Norma and Jill Weaver attended the Fall Fellowship, Jill gave the devotions at this meeting.

Each lady named her favorite hymn or Bible verse. Arlene Gearhart gave devotions on "Going not Knowing!!" and offered prayer.

Delicious refreshments were served by Mrs. Brouyette.

The Akron Unit of Fulton County Emergency Medical Service has operated the ambulance in our community since July 1977. It currently has 14 members. Included are seven Advanced Emergency Medical Technicians, two Basic Emergency Medical Technicians and five drivers. In the last few months the service has become an Advanced Life Support Ambulance. Advanced EMT's are first Basic EMT's who go through an additional 60 hours of training and may start IV's, defibrillate, or provide advanced airway management skills.

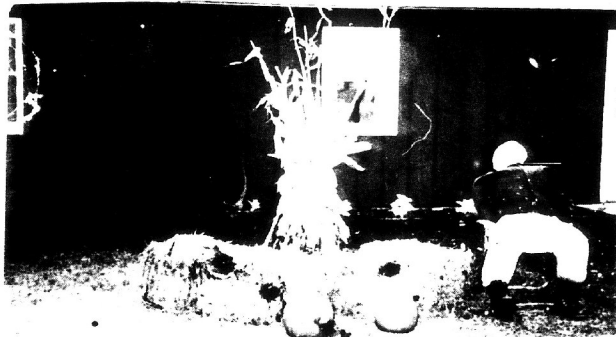

Advanced airway management allows for a more stable airway in the event a patient has stopped breathing. New equipment was added, including a heart-start monitor/defibrillator, used to monitor heart rhythms and to attempt to restart the heart if it has stopped. The IV skill is helpful to replace fluids in the event of shock, and as an avenue to administer drugs, once the patient has reached the hospital.

The unit is currently working with the fire department on the completion of their combined day room/meeting room in the new Akron Fire Station and Town Hall.

The unit is always looking for new people to volunteer as drivers or to become EMTs.

Half of the fun of raking leaves is playing in them. Akron kids were doing just that while dad was busy raking.

Halloween is quickly approaching and some have set up guards to keep the kids from soaping their windows.

There's No Trick To Entertaining This Halloween

Creative outdoor lighting can add a special ambience to Halloween festivities and ensure the safety of your costumed callers.

Nancy Christensen, residential lighting specialist at GE Lighting, suggests the following light decoration techniques to provide more treats than tricks for the children.

- Create a spooky atmosphere using "spike" lampholders fitted with outdoor floods or PAR lamps. Aim fixtures up into trees and against walls or fences to cast menacing shadows around the party area. The lamps are available in a variety of colors but blue or green will produce the "eerie" effect.

- Decorate trees and shrubs with GE's String-A-Long® Sparkling Light Christmas sets. Half the bulbs twinkle on-and-off while the rest dim and brighten, creating a magical "fiery" effect. Drape strands loosely and haphazardly over trees and shrubs you wish to highlight. String-A-Long lights are UL listed and approved for outdoor use.

- Accent the party theme while providing useful light in eating and cooking areas with ornamental hanging paper or plastic lanterns. Decorate lanterns with "faces" made from black tape. Hang them from roof overhangs or tree limbs, or from wires stretched from point to point. Use orange or yellow 25-watt GE Party Bulbs.

- Eliminate potential fire hazards by lighting Jack O'Lanterns with GE's 4-watt Miser® Lites plugged into an outdoor extension cord. Remember to keep the cord from getting pinched in doors or windows, and away from walking areas.

- Light the perimeter of the yard or garden to keep guests from falling on otherwise unseen objects. Install 65- or 120-watt floodlights in trees, on poles or on the side of the house under eaves. The GE Miser® family of outdoor floodlights and security lights provide the same amount of light as ordinary bulbs, but with substantial energy savings.

- When installing temporary party lighting make sure outlets are in good condition and use three-wire grounding cords designed for outdoor use. A Ground Fault Circuit Interrupter is required by the National Electrical Code to maximize the safety of the system. GE's Ground Trip Receptacle, available in home center and hardware stores, will replace existing outlets and provide excellent protection against accidental shock.

- If you plan to be away at Halloween, make your home look occupied with timing devices connected to indoor fixtures. These create an illusion of movement through the house and deter would-be thieves. "Variable" timers turn lights on and off in a random pattern and succeed better than "routine" timers, which regulate lights in a more rigid schedule.

For more information about home lighting, call the GE Answer Center at 1-800-626-2000.

YOU'RE LOOKING AT A SIMPLE 5 POINT SOLUTION TO YOUR HEATING AND COOLING NEEDS.

And you're looking at a STAR as in STAR Dealership. All you have to do is find the STAR Dealership in your community. STAR stands for Special Training and Recognition. It's a certification program that covers all important aspects of electric heating and cooling.

STAR certification's focus is in heat pump technology, installation, diagnosis and repair. Today's high efficiency heat pumps provide great round economic operation. And, when an electric PSI customer has one installed by a STAR technician, they qualify for a 10 Year Compressor Protection Plan.

For a list of the STAR Dealers serving your community, call your local PSI office. Providing you with the best in sales and service of today's technology is another idea that works for Indiana.
