Toothpaste for §62.80?

Where will it stop?

That's what we all ask about the cost of living Well, here's where it won't stop if prices keep rising a Chicago-based management firm projects these prices, based on price trends in the last ten years:

A 1977 $5,000 car will cost $17,700 in 1987, $105,000 in 2001; a high-priced car of $12,000 today, $55,320 in 1987 and $471,240 by 2001. The average house ($54,000 in 1977) may hit $191,160 by 1987 and soar to $1,134,000 by 2001. If that doesn't alarm you, how about a Sunday newspaper costing $70.92, a small jar of jelly for $113.98 and a tube of toothpaste for $62.80 by 2001?

This all assumes, of course, that nothing happens to halt the crazy surge of inflation.

Mr.

A few years ago, I wanted to try an experiment to see if I could get a credit card in my own name without any references to my husband. I stated that I was married (living with my husband), but listed only my income and debts, etc.... I was denied the card!

Now, if I'd really been smart, I'd have gone to the store to find out why. I was working, had only one loan payment, and did have credit references. I think they probably wanted the charge in Bob's name. Were they fair? don't know because I never bothered to find out WHY I had been refused.

According to the FTC (Federal Trade Commission), the Equal Credit Opportunity Act prohibits discrimination in any aspect of a credit transaction because of your sex, marital status, race, national origin, religion, or age (with limited exceptions). It also prohibits discrimination because you receive payments from a public assistance program (such as Social Security or ADC). Even before you apply for credit, a creditor must not discourage you from applying for any of these reasons

The Equal Credit Opportunity Act helps creditworthy people obtain charge accounts, loans, morgages, and other kinds of credit by not allowing creditors to treat applicants unequally because of characteristics such as sex, marital status, and race. But the Act does not guarantee that you will get credit, and creditors may still determine creditworthiness by considering such factors as the income, expenses, debts, and reliability of the applicant.

All creditors who regularly extend credit are covered by the Act, including banks, small loan and finance companies, retail and department stores, credit card companies, and credit unions.

According to the FTC, when you apply for credit, a creditor MUST NOT:

Ask vou what your sex, race, national origin, or religion is. (But, a creditor may ask you to coluntarily disclose your sex, marital status, race, and national origin if you are applying for a real estate loan to purchase a residence. This information helps federal agencies enforce anti-discrimination laws. A credit may also ask you what your immigration or residence status is.)

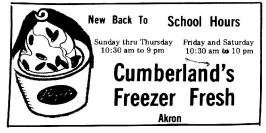

*Ask you what your marital status is if you apply for a separate, unsecured account, unless you live in a community property state. (A creditor may ask you whether you are "married," "unmarried," or "separated" if you apply for a joint account or an account secured by property.)

*Ask you whether you are divorced or widowed.
*Ask you for information about your spouse unless: 1) your spouse is applying with you, 2) your spouse will be allowed to use your account, 3) you are relying on your spouse's income or on alimony or child support income from a former spouse, or 4) you reside in a community property state.

*Ask you about your plans for having or raising children. *Ask you whether you receive alimony, child support, or separate maintenance payments unless the creditor first tells you that you do not have to disclose such income unless you want to rely on it to get credit. (A creditor may ask if you have to pay alimony, child support, or separate maintenance.)

Next week, I will try to explain (with the aid of the FTC pamphlet on the Equal Credit Opportunity Act) how a creditor evaluates your income, and what he must not do in deciding whether to give you credit.

Taken from the September 12, 1945 issue of The Northern Indiana Co-Op News:
Bobbie Gene Herendeen, aged

17 years, and son of Allen Herendeen, recently received his private pilot's license, permitting him to carry passengers in a plane he's piloting and to travel anywhere in the continental United States, which is quite an accomplishment for a lad of his age. The Civil Aeronautics Administration regulations make it unlawful for anyone to solo under 16 years of age, and after soloing, a pilot must log a certain specified number of hours in the air and pass a rather rigid examination on the care of planes, navigation, meterology, and other matters of importance to the safety of a pilot and his plane. It is believed that there been employed in Gary, has returned to the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. O. Smith.

Captain Richard Manwaring returned Friday to Camp Atterbury after spending a thirdy day furlough with relatives and friends here. He is receiving a discharge from the service.

School fee assistance available

School sessions for the fall semester are getting underway in our area schools and for many parents of school-age children this means some financial problems with school book fees, school supplies and needed school dothes. In the state of Indiana there is assistance available to low income families who can not afford school book fees and supplies for their children. The lay is Indiana Code Section 20-8.1-3-28, Assistance to the Poor, and it states: "If the parents of a child who is subject to the provisions of this chapter (20-8.1-3-1 - 20-8.1-3-37) do not have sufficient means to furnish him with the books, school supplies, shoes and clothing which he needs to attend the school, the school corporation in which the child resides shall provide temporary aid, subject to the provisions of subsection (b) of this section." Subsection (b) provides for the school corpora tion to present itemized claims to the township trustee of the township in which the affected child resides, and the school corporation will be reimbursed for the amount of aid furnished, in the manner provided by law for relief of the poor.

Each school corporation makes the determination of eligibility for this type of assistance in their own school. If you are a parent, who is in a financial bind and believe you may qualify for this type of aid, it is recommended that you contact your local school corporation. Request a written application for "school fee assistance" and request a copy of the school's written financial standards used to determine eligibility. If you apply and are denied, request informa-tion on how to have the decision

It takes money . . . lots of it! Pollution control projects are really pushing up the cost of making electricity. For example, it would take all the money we receive from all our residential customers in seven consecutive months of electric bills to pay for our pollution control projects so far in the 1970s. Even at that, we hold environmental costs below those of most other companies by carefully considering the need for new controls. We're all for environmental improvement. And we're making good progress. But the fact is that strict governmental standards for air and water are having an impact on vour electric bill

Catherine Whetstone reminded the Board that monies appropriat-ed from the State for road repairs must be used by November 1, and she wondered if anyone had heard from Jansma-Coursey As-heard from Jansma-Coursey Asphalt, of Etna Green, as to when they are going to begin repair work in Mentone.

During the discussion, Coursey phoned to report to the Board that they would begin work this week, and requested a list of priority struct that need work. priority streets that need work. Harry Sullivan, water supervisor, has a list compiled and he will give it to the construction crews when they arrive in Mentone.

A group of citizens was on hand to discuss the possibility of a se-wer project in Mentone, and to discuss the results of the questionnaire distributed last month to homeowners in town.

Of the 301 questionnairs distri-Of the 301 questionnairs distributed, the Board received 199 back, or almost 2/3. The only results the Board had compiled from the answers, was that of the homeowners who responded, 2 to 1 were against the construction of a sewer in Mentone.

monwealth Engineers in Green-wood, and it is they who will really compile the results of the questionnaires findings. Rosalind Mentzer, Mentone resi-dent, wanted to know, "what is the change of not putting through a ... total system?"

Hardesty responded that "that's what they (the engineers) are working on right now... they are trying to find the most 'cost effective' way to solve the pollu-tion problem".

Several citizens, including Dr.

Donald Van Gilder, Roy Cox, and Lyman Mollenhour felt there are easier ways to solve the problem without a costly sewer project. They feel the town of Mentone would be better off if they fi-nance a clean-up project them-selves rather than using Federal and EPA grants.

Everett Long and Bernice Jones expressed their concern over whether the residents really un-derstood the questions in the questionnaire,

It was agreed by all that too many of the residents are either not aware of the seriousness of the problem or that they are not interested.

The Board agreed that they want to do the best thing for the Town, but until the findings of the engineers are received, there is little to be done at this time.

In other Board action:

*Town Marshal Earl Beattie reported to the Board that CETA has notified him that do to errors has notified him that do to erro in figuring monies available, all CETA employees will receive only 1/2 pay until October 1. Deputy Marshal Mike Trent is a full time CETA employee for Tuit time CETA employee for Mentone, and this means he will only receive half of his salary for the remainder of the month. The Board agreed to pay him half of his salary from the police budget until October 1 until October 1.

*The Board also approved the appointment of Jay Secrist, of Mentone, as a reserve officer. Secrist will not receive any pay for his duties, but he will, like, reserve officer Bob Heckman, be capable of making arrests.

*The Board approved the hiring of Charlene Beattle as a telephone dispatcher for the police depart-ment. This will guarantee 24-hour phone answering for the town's relige department. She will appropriate the police department. She will re-ceive retroactive pay for approxi-mately eight months.

*Beattie also reported to the Board, that the Tippecanoe Val-ley School Corporation has hired off-duty Mentone police to work at the home football games. The policemen will be wearing their Mentone uniforms, but there is mentione uniforms, but there is no cost to the town of Mentone for this work. The Board gave their full approval.

The next scheduled regular meeting for the Board will be at 730 p.m. on October 2 at the Town Hall.

Guard against tractor accidents

Your chances of surviving a tractor overturn are minimal, ac-cording to Bill Field, Purdue University extension safety specialist, unless roll-over protection is pro-

Despite the great increase in the use of roll-over, protective structures, 25 Indiana farm residents lost their lives in 1976-77 due to tractor overturns, Field said. The youngest of these victims was 6; the oldest was 81. All were male.
Tractors overturn to the rear or to the side, Field said. Studies of tractor accidents show that about 75 percent of the fatal accidents occurred when the tractor overturned to the side.

turned to the side.

Unnecessary risks of operation that can result in a tractor upset should be eliminated, Field advised. Operators should keep in mind practices which utilize the forces of gravity to keep the tractor upright.

He suggested the following prac-tices which will help keep all the wheels of the tractor on the ground, all of the time.

--Widen the wheel tread to the wides setting for the job you must do. This provides the widest possible base of stability for the trac-tor. Tractors with narrow wheel tread or tricycle-type tractors should not be used on steep slopes or banks.

-Lock brake pedals together before driving at transport speeds. Uneven braking during high-speed operation can cause the tractor to swerve excessively and possi bly overturn.

--Slay away from the edges of ditches and stream banks. A good rule of thumb to prevent a cave-in is to stay as far away from the edge of the bank as the ditch

Without special training, no one under 16 years of age can lawfully operate such a tractor except when employed by a parent or person standing in place of a pa-rent. Farmers and other employers of tractor operators should take the time to instruct all new operators before allowing them to use tractors and other self-propelled equipment. Special training for 14- and 15-year-old operators should be offered in operators should be ottered in each county through the Cooper-ative Extension Office or the lo-cal vocational agriculture pro-gram, Field said. Farmers who angram, Field said. Farmers who ticipate hiring young persons should encourage them to enroll in one of these training programs.

According to Beattie, Cook was northbound on 19 when she began to attempt a left turn. A semi, driven by Lowell Lemler, 35, R. 2, Bourbon, was also north-bound on 19, behind Cook, and as Lemler tried to stop his brakes failed, causing him to collide

Once 'pon a time...

... A man who was too cheap to suscribe to his hometown newspaper sent his boy to borrow his neighbor's copy.

In his haste the boy ran over an $80 hive of bees and in ten minutes he looked like a warty squash.

His father ran to his assistance, and falling into a barbed wire fence, he cut a hole in his anatomy

ruined a pair of $10 trousers.

The old cow took advantage of the gap in the fence and killed herself eating green corn.

Hearing a racket, the wife ran out, upseting a four-gallon churn of cream into a basket drowning the entire batch .

In her haste she dropped a $135 set of false teeth, which the family dog buried thinking it was a new type of bone.

The baby, having been left alone, crawled through the spilled cream and into the parlor ruining a $250 carpet.

During the excitement

the oldest daughter ran away with the hired man, a stray dog broke up 11 setting hens; the calves got out and chewed the tails off four fine shirts on the cloths line, and the cat had a batch of kittens.

Parents believe in benefits of nursery school

The following letter was received from the parents of a child who attended the Jack and Jill Nursery School in Mentone last year. It expresses what these parents feel nursery school provided for their child.

'Nursery school has provided a valuable learning experience for our son. We believed, as many parents do, that nursery school was nothing more than a baby sitting service. Its value has proven to be much more.

Nursery school has been a time of play, but play with an empha-sis in learning. The children were exposed to the world of color, shapes, books, painting, and all the other things that children four and five years of age find fascinating. They were taught to cooperate and share with one another and to follow instruction given by the teacher. There was exposure to many basic skills as memorizing and recognizing the alphabet and numbers from one to ten. During the school year there have been many special activities that provided child and parent the privilege of sharing together. Above all else, the children have acquired a real de-sire to learn and a definite sense of anticipation toward going to kindergarden this fall.

Nursery school has been a wise investment. We believe a serious consideration should be made by parents of preschool children as to the valuable motivation toward learning attainable in nur-sery school."

School will begin on September 18 and 19 for 3 and 4 year olds at Jack and Jill Nursery School, located at the United Methodist

Any parent who wishes to register their child, may do so by calling Beverly Surface at 353-7357, or by bringing their child to class on the 18th.

Constitution week to be celebrated Sept. 17-23

by Jerry Smith (Mrs. Frank D.) Constitution Week Chairman

In just nine years our country will celebrate the 200th anniversary of the adoption of the Constitution of the United States. By Proclamation of the President of the United States, and by Act of Congress, September 17 thru 23 is celebrated as Constitution

The local Anthony Nigo Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, wish to call attention to Constitution Week by re-minding all citizens that the freedoms of religion, press and speech and the rights of petition and as-sembly are guaranteed to us by the Constitution. We must be vigilant to protect our rights and freedoms; for once lost to us, they can never be regained.

In the Preamble of the Constitu-tion of the United States, our tion of the United States, our Founding Fathers wrote their purpose, "to secure the blessings of liberty to themselves and their posterity." The Daughters of the American Revolution recommend teaching our youth the virtues of and a dedication to the preservation of our American Paritage. tion of our American heritage; faith in God; faith in our country.

The purpose of the observance of this week is to renew appreciation of our Constitution and our Country. We must more fully understand its meaning and also understand why this document has endured as the great charter of human liberties.

In 1823 Justice Johnson of the United States Supreme Court wrote that the Constitution was "The most wonderful instrument over drawn by the hand of man." ever drawn by the hand of man, If our nation is to remain vital, it must maintain the spirit of liberty expressed in our Constitution. If we fail to guard that spirit, and become indifferent to the worth of our freedom, we will have lost the right to freedom.

Did you know that of a total of twenty-six amendments to our Constitution, three of them are directly concerned with insuring the right of citizens to vote? This is evidence that the Constitution is a working basis for government ...not just a static document. Resolve to be a citizen who votes responsibly. Our Constitution, the cornerstone of our freedoms, was written to protect every American from the abuse of po-wer by political parties as much as from abuses by kings. Without the determination to restrain the tempting excesses of political power, our Republic will perish. Today's problems call for the highest character of leadership.

One hundred and ninety one years ago, strong-willed men gathered in Philadelphia to mend and remold a divided land. The and remoid a divided land. The Articles of Confederation which had gone into effect in 1781 had failed, and the task of creating a new national government was im-mense. The ideals upon which the Constitution is based are re-inforced each day by the success of the system to which it gave birth. But the system cannot function without an enlightened public. Do you know your rights, freedoms, and duties under the supreme law of our land?

Our Constitution has provided the American people with a more enduring and practical government and a greater degree of pro-sperity than any other people have ever had. The excellence of this document deserves our confidence and support. The Daughters of the American Revolution urge that you celebrate Constitu-tion Week with renewed interest in the basic principles of the Con-stitution of the United States. We would also urge that citizens fly their flag during this week of

She asked for information about the Burn's Chapel north west of Akron. Melons offer variety

PATRICIA M. BRAMAN

Melons, which are a member of the cucumber family, offer a va-riety of colors and flavors that blend nicely for a fruit compote or served singly.

In order for a melon to be sweet, the fruit must have matured on the vine. If it did you will see that the scar at the stem end is slightly sunken and well calloused. The more fragrant the melon, the sweeter it will be.

There's no sure guide for determining the quality of the melon from the outside, but some ideas are fairly dependable. Cantaloupe, for instance, should have a delicate melon aroma with a netting that thickly covers the cantaloupe. The background should loupe. The background should be slightly golden. When a can-taloupe is shaken, a slight rattling of the seeds indicate maturity. A watermelon, if truly ripe, will respond by giving up a thin green shaving if scraped with a fingernail.

If you want to store melons for several days, keep them between 50 degrees and 70 degrees away from sunlight and chill before serving. To protect other food in your refrigerator from taking on a melon taste, seal the fruit on a meion taste, sear the truit in plastic or foil.

Meions supply a significant amount of vitamins A and C and are relatively low in calories. One cup of cantaloupe yields 29 calories; watermeion . 52; and honeydew 50 calories.

A mix ture of cantaloupe, honey-dew, and watermelon can be en-livened with a sauce made of one-half cup sugar, two cups white grape juice and 2 table spoons corn starch. Bring the ingredients to a boil. Chill and mix with the fruit.

In last weeks column, I began to explain the Equal Credit Opportunity Act, and how a creditor may not discriminate against an applicant because of sex, marital status, age, religion, race or national origin, or because you get public assistance income.

This week I will try to explain what a creditor must not do in deciding whether to give you credit or evaluating your in-

According to the Federal Trade Commission, in deciding whether to give you credit, a creditor must not:

-Consider your sex, marital status, race, national origin, or religion.

-Consider your age unless: You are too young to sign contracts (generally under 18); you are 62 or over and the creditor will favor you because of your age; the creditor uses a statistically sound credit scoring system which favors applicants age 62 or over; or the creditor uses your age to determine the meaning of other factors which are important to creditworthiness. (For example, a creditor could consider your age to see if your income might be reduced because you are about to retire. But, a creditor CANNOT deny your application or close your account because the creditor is not able to get credit life insurance on you because of your age.)

-Consider whether you have a telephone listing in your name. (But a creditor may consider whether there is a telephone in your home.)

-Consider the race of the people who live in the neighborhood where you want to buy or improve a house with borrowed money.

When Evaluating Your Income, A Creditor MUST NOT: -Refuse to consider reliable public assistance income in the same manner as other income.

-Discount income because of your sex or marital status. (It is illegal, for example, for a creditor to count a man's salary at 100% and a woman's at 75%.) Also, a creditor may not assume that a woman of child-bearing age will stop work. to have or raise children.

-Discount or refuse to consider income because it is derived from part-time employment or from a pension, annunity, or retirement benefit program.

-Refuse to consider consistently received alimony, child support, or separage maintenance payments, (A creditor may ask you for proof that this income has been consistently re-

You Also Have the Right:

-To have credit in your maiden name (Mary Smith), your first name and your husband's surname (Mary Jones), or your first name and a combined surname (Mary Smith-Jones).

-To get credit without a co-signer, if you meet the creditor's standards.

-To have a co-signer other than your spouse, if a co-signer is necessary.

—To keep your own accounts after you change your name or marital status or reach a certain age or retire (unless the creditor has evidence you are unable or unwilling to repay.) After You File Your Application:

-You have the right to know whether your application was accepted or rejected within 30 days of filing it.

-If your application was rejected, you have the right to know why. The creditor must either immediately give you the specific reason(s) for the rejection or tell you that you have the right to the specific reasons if you make a request within 60 days. Examples of specific reasons are "Your income was too low" or "You haven't been employed at your job long enough." Indefinite and vague reasons such as "You didn't receive enough points on our credit scoring system' or "You didn't meet our minimum standards" do not comply with the law.

Next week, in the last part of this series of columns, a few special notes for women will be included along with advise on what you can do if you think you've been discriminated against.

Postal costs may not be as high as you think

Postal rates have gone up and show evidence of going even higher. But money can be saved on postage.

"Most people send everything first class' without considering the alternative classes," says Jean Bauer, Extension family resource management specialist at Purdue University. There are four classes of mail - first through fourth -and several catagories under each class. By selecting the right class and catagory, you can save a great

First-class mail enjoys "privacy" and may not be opened for postal inspection. Though letters and inspection. Hough letters and bills make up the bulk of first-class mail, large envelopes and packages up to 70 pounds can be sent first class. All first-class mail over 13 ounces is called "priority mail but moves no faster than the rest of first-class mail. If packages are to be sent first class, be sure to so identify the boxes to avoid confusion with third or fourthclass mail.

For service within the country, air mail stamps are not necessary since all mail is moved by air when feasible. Out-of-the-country mail moves a great deal faster by air since surface mail crawls across oceans in ships.

When mailing a personal letter abroad, consider an aerogram. The aerogram goes by air but costs less than regular air mail rates. Aerograms are light-weight, prestamped stationery that folds into a self-enclosed envelope. However, nothing can be enclosed in an aerogram--not even a photograph.
Second-class mail is a type that few consumers need to use. Generally, newspapers and magazines are distributed via secondclass mail. The Postal Service has rates. Details are available from your local postmaster.

Third-class mail contains many catagories. Printed matter up to one pound may go third class.

There are special rates for singleitem mailings and for bulk mailings for authorized non-profit organizations.

Fourth-class mail has several categories also. Parcel post is familiar to most people. Packages mailed from most U.S. post offices are limited to 40 pounds and 84 inches length and girth combined, though some small post offices can accommodate larger parcels.

Another, special fourth-class rate is available for certain books and sound recordings. For this rate a book must be at least 24 pages, and consist wholly of reading material, not advertising. Also eligible for this low rate are cassettes, cartridges and reels of tape. Printed music, manuscripts, finished films and medical records are eligible for this rate. Postal authorities say that this special class is frequently abused, so they are inspecting such parcels closely.

Certified mail and registered mail are often confused. Certified mail provides you with a mailing receipt and record of delivery at the destination post office. For proof of delivery to the actual address you must purchase a re-turn receipt for an additional fee. Certified mail does not travel any faster than first class, nor is there extra security or payment for loss.

Registered mail is the safest way to mail an item. Use it to send items you value highly. With registered mail, the value of the parcel is declared at the point of mailing. Included in the regis-tration fee is insurance protection up to $10,000 for mail which stays in the United States. You are given a receipt. Each person who handles the mail is required to sign for it. The movement of your valuable is controlled through the postal system. A-gain, for an additional fee, you receive a return receipt showing exactly to whom your mail was delivered.

When sending packages, com-parison shopping is advisable. Compare the rate, time, delivery conditions, and insurance cost among the following: U.S. Postal Service, private delivery services such as United Parcel, bus companies, and air express delivery services. "On many packages and letters it is possible to save mo-ney by knowing the classes and by comparison shopping," says

GEOLOGICAL SURVEY STUDIES DEEP COAL DEPOSITS

A long-range deep-drilling program was begun in August by the Indiana Geological Survey to seek the deep coalbeds for which little or no information exists. Test holes ranging in depth from 300 to as much as 1,400 feet will obtain coal samples from these beds for laboratory testing. Results of these tests will help determine if commercial mining of deep coals is feasible in Indiana. All of Indiana's coals mined to date have a rather high sulfur content. Geologists believe that some of the deep coals will be low in sulfur. If so, that coal should meet the new pollution standards and may enable Indiana to produce coke, a product vital to steelmaking.

Life insurance terms explained

Is "permanent life" immorta-lity? Does "wife insurance" guarantee a spouse?

As you may have guessed, the answer to both guestions is "no". Both terms are used in life insurance and knowing these, and other terms, can save you dollars and add peace of mind, says Jean Bauer, Extension family resource management specialist at Purdue

"Permanent life," also known as whole life, is the most popular and the most expensive kind of life insurance. It protects the insured for a lifetime. The premiums, usually paid on a quarterly or yearly basis, build up a "cash value" which can be borrowed against. rowed against.

"Wife insurance" simple means insurance for the wife and serves the same purpose as insurance for the husband. The wife is usually under insured but she needs the same insurance as her husband, whether she earns a salary or not. When a wife at home, should she die premature-ly, money may be needed for services she performs daily.

There are a number of other terms which can help you make sense of policies described by an agent, For instance:

"Actuarial tables" are not pieces of furniture. Rather, they are ta-bles of statistics prepared by mathematicians (actuaries) which show the probabilities of morta-lity (death) at a given age. These tables are used in determining what premium is paid at the age of the insured when the policy

"Nonforfeiture," a provision which is included in many types which is included in many types of insurance, means that if you have been paying on the policy and have to stop paying the premiums you do not forfeit the value of the policy you have built up until that time.

A "convertible policy" is an option that allows the insured to convert the policy from temporary insurance to permanent in-surance without taking another physical examination, buying a new policy or filling out a lot of forms. The value of this type of policy is that a young person can buy life insurance for lower premiums then switch to permanent coverage as income increases. You also cannot be disqualified because of a physical disability which is discovered after the temporary insurance is in effect.

"Contingent beneficiaries" are the second, and third, persons you name to receive part or all of the benefits of the policy in the event the first beneficiary is unable to receive them.

Term insurance" means that is has a certain time period of coverage such as while you are employed at the current job or for the same employer. It is also available to cover specific risks. Mortgage insurance is an example. If the insured dies prematurely the risk (mortgage in this case) is paid off. Like whole life, term insurance is also usually paid on a quarterly or yearly basis.

Because term insurance has no cash value, premiums are less ex-pensive. You can usually afford to buy term insurance to cover the high risk, when the means to cover the risk is limited. For instance, a young family with children can purchase three to four times more term insurance than whole life for the same pre-

Be sure you understand the terms used in the life insurance polley before buying it, suggests Bauer. You can avoid unneces-sary expense and tailor the policy for your needs.

Are 'health' foods natural' foods?

Do you like "health" foods? How about "natural" or "organ-ie" foods? If you're like many people, you have often seen these terms in connection with foods, but don't know what "Many foods promote the claims of being 'natural,' 'health-giving,' or 'organic,'' says Robert Buchanan, Extension restaurant, hotel and institutional manage ment specialist at Purdue University. Stores are selling these food products in increasing volumes, but the average consumer often doesn't know exactly what he or she is buying.

"'Health' foods are those foods and products thought to have health-giving properties," says Buchanan. They are often promoted by indicating that the in-take or this food will endow the consumer with superior health or with a cure for a disease. "There is no one 'health' food," says Buchanan. "A diet of a variety of foods is the best basis for a healthy diet for the average person."

"Natural" foods are those foods sold in their original state or with minimal refinement. They do not contain preservatives or additives. "Natural" food enthusiasts want unprocessed, unadulterated food -for instance raw sugar or honey instead of refined sugar, and sea salt in place of iodized table salt. Fresh vegetables, fruits, or their juices are also used by this group.

"Though 'natural' foods can be combined into an appetizing and healthful diet, they do not have special curative properties as in-dicated by some enthusiasts," says Buchanan.

The term "organic" food is actually a misnomer. All food is organic in the technical sense, but food termed "organic" is grown without the use of chemi-cal fertilizers, pesticides, herbi-cides, hormones or antibotics. It is food processed without the use of food chemicals or additives. The food is said to be produced with only the use of humus or organic fertilizers and is said to be nutritionally superior to other products.

Scientific tests have shown no differences in the nutritional quality of plants grown with "organic" fertilizers and those grown with chemical fertilizers. All substances needed for plant growth must first be broken down into inorganic elements before the plant can use them. Therefore, plants utilize organic fertilizers in the same manner as chemical fertilizers

"If a store or restaurant claims to serve 'natural', 'organic' or 'health foods,' they should con-form to the definitions given. The consumer should expect and demand that his or her expectations are met," says Buchanan.

Dr. Harrell commented before the signing that "the TVEO negotiated very hard until they wore us down and we finally gave in..." He did stress that everyone handled the negotiations in a fine manner. Lists of all of the teachers, their ecucations, assignments (Including extra duties) and salaries were given to the Board members for consideration.

There was no discussion at this meeting of the contract before the tentative agreement was signed, upon Harrells recommendation. Trustee Meredith made a motion that the agreement be approved, seconded by Con Shewman, and the motion was passed unanimously.

A motion to appropriate $25, 000 from the Cumulative Building Fund for repairs of school building Fund for repairs of school building roofs was unanimously passed by the Board with no protests from the audience being recorded. Proof of publication, proof of posting, and proof of notice to taxpayers were presented by Harrell to the Board, and made a part of the minutes of the meeting. Dr. Harrell reported that he had posted notice to the taxpayers at the Akron Exchange State Bank in Akron, at the Farmers State Bank in Mentone, and at the high school even though he was not required to do so by law. Work should begin soon on the roof repairs at the schools.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR:

September 8th was World Literacy Day. In respect to this we would like to discuss the il-literacy problem in Kosciusko and Fulton counties and what is being done to remedy this pro-blem. According to the 1970 census Kosciusko County had an adult population over 25 years of age, of 26,140 people, and Fulton County had 9,866 adults over 25. Of this number we find that 42% or 10,872 in Kosciusko County have not fin-ished high school, and 4,915 or 18% have completed less than nine years of school. Likewise, forty-two percent, or 4,119 of the adults in Fulton County have not finished high school, and 2,288 or 23% have completed less than nine years of the summer of 1977 by Tippe-canoe Valley School Corpora-tion. Local industry and government agencies reported that many people had problems due to a lack of education, particularly in the area of consumer skills. Based on this survey, Tippecanoe Valley applied for and was awarded funds to start an Adult Basic Education (ABE)

program.

The ABE program is designed to help adults achieve the reading, math, and consumer skills necessary to function in our society. It is funded through our society. It is tunded through federal, state, and local funds. The program is open to any adult who does not have a high school diploma, is at least 16 years old, and has been out of school for at least one year.

The program is free for adults who meet the above qualifications Adults entering the program have different backgrounds and different goals. To meet these needs the instruction is individualized. Each adult is counseled and encouraged to set edu-cational goals for himself and then a program is designed to help him fulfill these goals.

Because of the individualized instruction, a person may enter the program anytime, and may leave whenever his goals have been met. The materials used are designed for adults.

The ABE program at Tippecan-oe Valley began last February and we have had more than 30 adults enrolled. Many have found jobs, improved their jobs, or received a GED diploma. The classes are held at the Burket Elementary School on Monday and Wednesday evenings from 7 - 9:30. A daytime class will be held at the Burket United Methodist Church on Monday, Wednes-day and Thursday from 9 a.m.

There's no excuse?

TO THE EDITOR:

On Tuesday, September 12, my son suffered abdominal pains in a class. He was not allowed to be excused from class after seeking permission. After this class he called me and within a few short hours his appendix was removed.

The teacher has denied the charges I accuse him of, but if I were in his position I would too. Only he and I know who is not truthful.

The point I am trying to stress is, we were lucky this time. If the appendix had ruptured while running the pain would have ceased and there would have been no further signs until later, which could have been too late.

I have been to the principal and school board to bring this to their attention. I felt this situation warrented public acknow-ledgement also. If anyone else has complaints of any kind, do not go to the teacher, go to the principal. Unless this is put on record as a complaint we can do mothing as parents to improve our school system. I hear a lot of complaints on the street, but unless you get involved we will stumble along as we have

Family Life

By Renee Norlander

In this last part of a series on the Equal Credit Opportunity Act, I want to relay to you a special note on womens credit ratings given by the Federal Trade Commis-

A good "credit history" (a record of how you paid your bills in the past) is often necessary to obtain credit. Unfortunately, this hurts many married, separated, divorced and widowed women. These women often do not have credit histories in their own names even though they've used credit in the past of two reasons: 1) women often lost their credit histories when they married and changed their names and 2) creditors typically reported the credit histories on accounts shared by married couples in the husband's name only.

To solve this problem, beginning on June 1, 1977, the Act provides that creditors who report histories to credit bureaus must report information on accounts shared by you and your spouse in both of your names. (Some creditors will first send you a "Credit History for Married Persons Notice" asking you how you want the information reported.) You also have the right (beginning June 1,1977) to require a creditor to report information on accounts you share with your spouse in both of your names: In addition, the Act requires that a creditor

-Use unfavorable information about an account you shared with your spouse or former spouse, if you can show that the bad credit rating does not accurately reflect your willingness or ability to repay.

Refuse to consider on your request the credit history of any account held in your spouse or former spouse's name which you can show is an accurate picture of your willingness and ability to repay.

If you are married, divorced, separated, or widowed you should make a special point to call or visit your local credit bureau(s) to make sure that all relevant information normally carried by the credit bureau is in a credit file under your own name.

This is probably where I goofed when applying for a credit card, as I explained before. A lot of references that could have helped me were in Job's name only. From now on their going to have my name too!

If you have been denied credit, there are several things you can do about it if you feel it was because of age, sex, race, religion, etc..

You can complain to the Creditor -

Let the creditor know you are aware of the law.

You can also sue the creditor -

 You have the right to bring a case in a Federal district court. If you win, you can recover your actual damages and punitive damages of up to $10,000. You can also recover reasonable attorney's fees and court costs. A private attorney can advise you on how to proceed.

-If you join up with other people and file a class action, you may recover punitive damages for the class of up to $500,000 or 1% of the creditor's net worth, whichever

You can also file a complaint with the government -You can report any violations to the appropriate government enforcement agency in order to assist the agency in enforcing the law. While the agencies use complaints to decide which companies to investigate, they cannot handle

-When you are denied credit, the creditor must give you the name and address of the appropriate agency to contact.

-Many states also have equal credit opportunity laws of their own. Check with your State's Attorney General. As it was stated before, this ECO Act does not assure everyone of receiving credit, but it does protect you from discrimination when applying for credit.

To find out more: write to the Federal Trade Commission, Equal Credit Opportunity, Washington, D.C. 20580 or to one of its regional offices.

Next time I apply for credit, I'm going to do it right! And I won't hesitate to investigate if I'm denied. You shouldn't either!

Dr. Harrell reported to the Board on the State Board of Accounts Report for June 75 through June 77 which he recentthrough sune 17 which he received. He explained that this is an audit done by a state examiner for the purpose of as-surance that all funds are being appropriately used.

The State Board examiner reported to Harrell that it was his finding that the architect for TVHS, Everett I. Brown, over-charged TVSC a total of $4,008. 22 for the cost of a supervisor during the construction of TV HS

Harrell reported that a school corporation in Michigan City is, at this time, taking court action against Brown for the same reason, and if the school should win their case, then Brown may be ordered to reimburse TVSC the $4,008.22 he allegedly overcharged.

Harrell also informed the Board that the examiner advised them to discontinue paying mileage for some extra-curricular activities The State Board feels that this is wrong, and will advise Indiana's Attorney-General of their use of taxpayers money for mileage unless they discontinue the practice. The State Board feels, according to Harrell, that fund raising projects should be em-ployed to raise money for such activity.

Fred Rakestraw, attorney at law, in Rochester, Indiana, advised the Board, according to Harrell, that his interpretation of the laws does not state that the TVSC School Board is wrong.

Harrell recommended that the Board continue to pay mileage,

Meredith commented that "if we continue it, we may be a test case". Harrell agreed.

Trustee Snipes states that he feels that there are too many state regulations on local school boards, and the state regulators may not always know whats best locally.

Harrell explained that he thinks that if the Attorney-General agrees with the examine he may order the TVSC Board ne may order the 1 VSC Board to "cease and desist" the pay-ments, and if it goes to court, the Board may be ordered to pay back the costs to general funds from other parts of the budget.

The motion to continue paying mileage was made by Don Snipes seconded by Vernon Meredith, and passed unanimously.

The State Board reported to the Board that all of the accounts balanced, and the books were closed.

In other Board action:

*A member of the audience, Dixie Summe, was present to make a compalint regarding the action of a physical edu-cation teacher. She did not state who the teacher was or at which school the incident took place, but she reported that her son had asked his teacher to be released from physical education because of severe abdominal pains one day last week. Akron board met

Akron police officer dismissed

In their regular monthly meeting held Tuesday, September 19, the Akron Town Board passed a motion to dismiss from employment, Deputy Marshall Robert Williams as of midnight, October 31.

All board members were present at the meeting, including Clerk Ernie Smith, Board President Ron Fenimore, Dr. Charles Miller, and Vern Waymire.

The action was taken after the board had received notification from CETA officials that CETA funds were being cut and were no longer available to help support town costs of maintaining Williams who was originally hired under the CETA program.

Although the CETA funds were cut effective September 15, the board passed a resolution to retain Williams until October 31 using town funds so that he would have time to find another position. Officer Williams had been emploed with the town for approximately four years.

In other action Tuesday: ---In a special session held August 22, the board announced they had met with town employees and po-lice officers to discuss a new set of rules and policies of conduct which all police officers agreed to abide by.

--Board President Fenimore told the board that the two benches that were recently brought out downtown for public use, were no longer outside because someone illegally kept moving the benches into the street. The board agreed to return the benches downtown once again, but only after a way of fastening them down to the side-walk could be worked out.

 A statement was issued to all Akron property owners that all properties with weeds growing must must be cut no later than October 10, or the town would proceed to cut them at owners expense.

The board received one bid on the proposal to expand the town storage barn to town specifications. Nordman Builders submitted a bid of $7,370. The board agreed to consider the bid and will act later

...The board agreed to change their October meeting date to Oct. 24. All meetings are held in the town

WEED BEDS such as this one in Akron, have been ordered by the Board to be cut by October 15, to prevent weeds from going to seed. Weeds not cut by that date will be mowed by the town and charged to the owner via his tax bill, (NEWS photo.)

The bids had been submitted at the Boards last regular session on September 11.

Trash will continue to be picked up on Mondays as has been the recent schedule.

Harry Sullivan, water and road supervisor, reported to the Board that all road repair work has been completed. Jansma-Coursey Asphalt of Etna Green completed the work in less than bae weeks time.

Board members approved the advertisement for bids for a used backhoe, and will accept all bids at a special meeting on October 9th at 7:30 p.m. in the Town

The Board will meet again on Monday, October 2, at 7:30 p. m. at the Town Hall for their regularly scheduled session.

Sound Off!

"On N. Franklin Street in Mentone, at the dead end block, is a bome that really is a mess. No one is living there, and apparently it is just going to be left the messy way it is, Isn't there something that can be done?! Who handles these problems? We live near the bouse, and want to see it cleaned up!

(Editors note: We have brought this problem to the attention of the Mentone Town Board, and it will probably be discussed at their next meeting.)

Students participate in contest

STUDENTS at Tippecanoe Valley High School in the Housing and Home Furnishing class recently participated in a flower arranging contest. "Merry-go-round" in Mentone?

By Marsha Scott

Did you know that there use to be a merry-go-round where the Church of Christ now stands? The kids in the community gave it the name of "merry-go-round" because of the round flower house shape. The owner was Susie Forst, who lived upstairs in the building now called the Pill Box drugstore, and could look out and see her flower house. The Forsts later built the big house on Main Street where John Smith lives and moved the flower house just west of it. Af-ter numerous remoldings, the "merry-go-round" is now the residence of Dana and Pauline Starr. A small portion of the round part is still visible in

This is just one of many interest-ing facts about our community which will celebrate it's centenmial in four years. A committee, sponsored by the Milbern School Historical Assn. is being formed to gather, edit, and compile into book form, information about Mentone's history. A project of this scope requires considerable time, research, and cooperation from everyone. All organization representatives and interested representatives and interested adults are invited to attend a planning meeting on Monday, October 23, 7:30, at the Mentone Youth League building. For more information contact Marsha Scott at 353-7460 or Connie Haney at 353-7143. Become involved and join in the community traverse hunt

D NE THE D TO

We were disappointed to hear that only 25 or so people came out to visit the newly remodeled EMS building Sunday during their open house. Most of those who attended, it also turns out, were friends or relatives of the EMT's.

Too often we tend to complain and criticize groups such as the EMT's and yet when the opportunity arises to find out more about the service they perform, we turn our backs in apathy. Maybe next year.

Public Service granted rate hike

The Public Service Commission of Indiana has granted Public Service Indiana an overall 14 per-cent increase in retail electric rates.

rates. The Company estimates that the monthly bill for a residențial customer using 1,000 kilowatthours will be abour $44, exclusive of future fuel adjustment charges. Under the old rate, the bill for the same period would have been $38.47. Rate increases for com-$38.47. Hate increases for commercial and industrial customer totaling 14 percent were also granted by the state commission. The new rates are expected to go into effect early next week for electrical usage on or after the effective date.

Public Service Indiana President

Hugh A. Barker noted that the increase was vital for the company to deal with the effects of inflation since its last general rate increase in October 1975.
"In spike of the fact that we

In spike of the fact that we have been able to realize productivity improvements well above national averages, this increase is necessary for us to continue to provide adequate, reliable service," Barker said. "Lack of rate relief at this point would have seriously damaged our ability to continue to meet our customers' growing energy demands. Even with this increase, our rates are still lower than in many areas of the country."

There were no elderly folks present

by "Chick" Lamoree

We gave the lie the other evening to the old saying, "You can go back." A group of fourteen DID go back; fourteen out of 33 went quickly back across fif-ty years . . . and had the time of our lives doing it. Since that May day in 1928 when we graduated from high school, most of us had become virtual strangers to each other; wouldn't have recognized each other on the street. But when we met in that little room in that little restaurant in that little town the other evening, fifty years dropped away. Forgotten were the Thirties and the Big Depres-sion, the Forties and World War

II. There was just this little group of country town and farm kids, and we were back in 1928.

There were no "elderly" folks; there were just Esther, and Helen (Bryant) and Norm and the Les-ters (Davis and Sowers), and Mamie and Thelma and Howard (Tait), and Faun and the two Dons (Keesey and Morris,) and Joe and Mary and Chick. Teachers Willis and Mary Bowen com-pleted the transition to that red brick high school that seemed so big then but now is lost in a hodge-podge of additions and the ignominy of a lower school awallowed up in merger.

Nor did economics mean thing the other evening. If there was a millionaire in the group, it didn't show (and wouldn't have made a bit of difference.) We were just the kids of '28, happy we could see each other again, and very sad for the ten who had died before their years warranted it, and appreciative of Les's memorial service of Les's memorial service.

Strangest thing was that as the dinner progressed, how the facial lines softened, the wrinkles sort of faded, the hair grew out again, and darker . . . until, lo, the girl on my left wasn't grayhaired, but was really dark-haired, vivacious Thelma Maby, and the oldtime Esther Helvey with that sort of Madonna smills was a. sort of Madonna smile was across the room, and Mamie Linebrink's face was of that quiet dark-haired girl who came in from Macy and sat behind me i.. Assembly, Don Keesey's hair was dark and curly and he was only 17, and Peck Sowers had that some cool smile as when he stood in back court holding the basketball. The evening was 1978 but the aura was 1928. Wonderful, wasn't it?

Les Davis, in presiding, dropped a significant remark, "I wasn't born thirty years too soon; I was born at just the right time."

How true! A generation of the Graat Depression, every one of us had his life at least partially moulded by the economics of the Thirties. But would you trade the character and the faith that we absorbed from that life-style, and the wisdom, for those that today's over-indulged youngsters are growing into? Lucky are we who learned that life has two sides rather than just one-the plush side.

It was a great evening, once in a lifetime, and Les, Norm and Helen deserve our eternal grati-

You'll save more than energy with an Energy Saver Home.

You'll save money on electric bills. Public Service Indiana developed the Energy Saver Home for two reasons. To conserve energy and to take some of the strain off your household budget. Energy-saving construction, additional insulation and the high-efficiency heat pump combine to produce a home that is the ultimate in comfort and conservation. The Energy Saver Home may cost a little more to build, but in light of rising energy costs, it will pay off in smaller electric bills month after month. See your builder for details.

Rural crime on the increase

County crime rates for 1974 and 1975 were collected from FBI crime index statistics. The FBI crime index is made up of eight "serious" crimes including homicide, rape, robbery, assault, burglary, larceny, and motor vehicle theft. The number of crimes re-ported or known to the police for each calendar year is divided by the size of the population to calculate the crime rate.

County crime rates for 1974 to 1975 were examined in the light of the economic and social composition of Indiana counties, Donnermeyer said. One signifi-cant finding was that the higher the percentage of households in a county with two or more television sets and two or more automobiles, the higher the county crime rate in 1974 and 1975. This pattern was primarily reflected in the crime rates for ofference against research the set of the county of th fenses against property (bur-glary, larceny, and motor vehicle theft).

What this indicates is that hand in hand with more affluence is more crime, according to Don-nermeyer, especially crimes a-gainst property. Many rural areas are presently experiencing higher levels of crime, which often ap-proximate the crime rates found in the larger urban centers of Indiana. Two major factors contributing to this are (1) expansion and growth of suburbs out into formerly rural areas; and (2) the increased value of farm machinery and farm property in general, he said. This latter factor is illustration ed by the fact that the research shows a positive correlation between property crimes and the number of farms in the county, he said.

A second significant finding A second significant finding from the research was the effect of population mobility. The higher the percent of population in a county that had moved within the past five years, the higher that county's crime rate tended to be, said Connermeyer. Communities with greater population movement, that is, a lower proportion of long-term residents, tend to be less "tight-knit." Where many people do not feel a sense of be-longing to their neighborhood or community, there will be higher levels of crime. These findings show some of the dynamics of rising crime rates, especially property crime. Those who wish to curb crime in their communities need to recognize the effect of these economic and social trends of the crime rate, and must likewise recognize that it takes a coopera-tive effort between the police and the citizen, Donnermeyer concluded.

Since everyone else who writes a column has expressed their feelings about television's new season, I though I would too.

Basically I think its pretty bad! More cops and robbers, more lawyers and doctors, more trashy language, more violence, and less clothing!

And I hated the way the networks premiered their new shows. Half of the shows it seems premiered on nights that aren't even going to be their regular nights. The few I did like, are lost! I don't even know what nights they're

I thought the "Paper Chase" was pretty good, but what night it's on, I don't know. "Mort and Mindy" wasn't as bad as I expected, and "Taxi" was better than I thought well written. I've had my fill of sex and violence, and I think what the networks need to do is 'clean up their acts'! I'll really have to rely on TV Guide this year!

Practicing energy conservation

PATRICIA BRAMAN

Did you notice drafts in your home last winter? You can a-void a rerun of that and reduce your heating bill if you practice energy conservation this fall.

Prepare your home by caulking and weather stripping around doors and windows. A cold draft doors and windows. A cold draf from a window or door can mean that your heating bill is 15-30% too high. Caulks are fine for cracks up to a quar-ter of an inch wide and up to a quarter of an inch deep. If the cracks are greater and deeper than a quarter of an inch, you than a quarter of an inch, you should plug them with a filler of jute, akum, rope, or such, before you caulk them.

When buying a caulking compound, consider more than the initial cost. You don't want to have to redo the job and waste time and money. An ideal caulk is easy to squeeze out of a gun and it sticks to an unprimed surface. It gets rid of that tacky feeling quickly so it won't collect dust. A good caulk leaves a smooth surface and cleans up with water. It shrinks little after curing and remains plastic and rubbery for life. A good caulk is paintable and does not need painting for best weather resistance and it should last as long as the build-

Remember to use caulks safely. Many caulking materials are toxic so keep them away from your mouth and eyes. You should not use some caulks in closed quarters. Store caulks where children and animals can't reach them. Read and heed all warning labels and instructions for safe usage.

tips, plan to attend a program scheduled for Tuesday, Oct. 3, 1:00 p.m. and 7 p.m. at the County Extension Office. The energy conservation program will be presented by Suzanne Badenhop, Extension Specialist - Equipment and Housing, Purdue University. This program is open to the public. Plan to attend and be prepared for the winter ahead.

PIONEER IRONWORKS

The Randolph Ross and Sons Virginia Iron Works, built in 1839 on Indian Creek 10 miles southwest of Bloomington, was the first iron furnace in Indiana. More than 20 men were employed at the smelter and the open-pit mine half a mile

For 5 years the pioneer ironworks cast "kittles" and other timely household goods of wrought iron for local trade and shipped pig iron to foundries and a New Albany market. Artist's concept of a pioneer ironworks is by Robert E. Judah, Indiana Geological Survey.

Although native ores have not been used for many years, the value of pig iron produced in 1971 by Indiana's 25 blast furnaces was 896 million dollars.
