Taxpayers need to dig a little deeper

Taxpayers in the Tippecanoe Valley School Corporation will have to dig a little deeper in their pockets after the approval of the 1987-88 school year budget. The tax rate of $5.45 per $100 of assessed valuation was approved as advertised during the special meeting held last Thursday night. The funds break down into $2.59 for the general fund; $1.43 for the debt service fund; $1 in the cumulative building fund and 43¢ for the transportation fund.

An increase of nearly $300,000 will be added to the budget because the tax levy will generate $2.976 million for the school corporation.

A major portion of the increase is attributed to the $1 cumulative building fund established to cover costs of the renovations and additions at the three elementary schools.

During Thursday's meeting approval was also given to the teacher contracts as ratified by the Tippecanoe Valley Classroom Teacher's Association. The two-year contract adds five teacher work days in 1988-89 and allows for more sick days each year. An early retirement program was added to the contract enabling a teacher with 20 years at the Valley Corporation eligible for retirement at age 58. Retirement pay for a period of seven years will total $38,500.

Teachers salaries will also receive a 7.5 percent increase and were approved by both the board and the teacher's association for a period of one year. The rest of the contract is binding for two years.

According to the salary schedule, a teacher with a bachelor's degree will receive a minimum of $17,469 to top out at $20,694 in 10 years.

First year teachers with a master's degree will start at a minimum of $18,160 topping out at $32,250 in 17 years.

Pay for extracurricular duties received an average 6 percent increase.

Vice principals will also be receiving more pay. Their salaries were raised to be more in line with the rest of the school salaries.

An objection to the administrative increase was voiced by Charles Smith who added concern about the neglect to raise the salaries of the head football and basketball coaches. Other board members argued that the coaches salaries were competitive to other school corporations.

Approval was given to the vice principal increase even though the approval was met with one negative vote.

Contracts for school bus drivers were also approved by the board. A bus driver with a regular route will receive $38.50 per day for the regular route. Driver of the handicapped van will receive $40.35 per day and the swim bus driver will receive $41.65 per day.

In other business, the board received the resignation of Risa Young, gifted and talented teacher.

Julie Teel and Sandra Moriarty were hired by the board. Teel will teach fifth grade at Akron elementary and Moriarty will teach kindergarten at Mentone.

September 14 will be the next meeting date of the school board with the meeting beginning at 7:30 p.m. in the administration office.

Students awarded honor

The Society of Distinguished American High School Students has announced that seven students from the Akron Church of God have been selected as members in its honor society for 1987.

The students' sponsor, the Rev. Terry L. Canfield, was presented with the Society's National Appreciation Award for "devotion to the development and encouragement of student leaders."

Membership in the 19-year old Society is designed to be a national honor and incentive for top performance among high school students.

Local students accepted as 1987 members include: Tamara Allison, Bryon Buck, Stacy Loer, Julie Lowe, Greg Stump, Steven Perry, and Angie Merrill. As members, these students will have the opportunity to compete for college scholarships through the Society's National Awards Program. This year, 141 colleges have earmarked more than $700,000 in scholarship funds for Society members.

"Just because Harry made it!"

"Because Uncle Harry made it, I want one too!" According to Buthene Smythe that is why her husband of 59 years is making his beautiful jewelry chests. And beautiful they are; many hours of tedious work are involved in making the solid wood creations.

Harry Smythe has spent most of his 79 years in Mentone and is retired after working at The Word, Inc. located at Winona Lake. Mrs. Smythe spent a portion of her younger years working in factories in Mentone. But when her first granddaughter was born, she retired to the home to care for her.

That was 32 years ago. She still stays active with daily chores around the home. "I am busier now since Harry retired. All that sawing and working with wood means more laundry and cleaning," said Buthene. Even though Buthene likes to tease Harry about having to cook meals at noon and do the extra laundry, she is very thankful to have had the 59 years they have had together.

Harry began making the jewelry chests approximately four years ago. He cuts the wood himself to the appropriate pattern sizes, cuts the thicknesses, does the sanding, and cuts the angles to perfection. Oak, cherry, and walnut are his favorite woods for Harry. "I prefer walnut over the other two. It is an easier wood to work with and is a beautiful wood," explained Harry.

Harry also takes much care in making the legs for his chests and the little insertion cloth which is lined with cloth. Each lid is skillfully tongued and grooved to fit perfectly. The boxes are masterpieces, each one being especially designed by Harry.

Because of hypertension, Harry does not like to take too many orders for the jewelry boxes. He estimates that he has made 105 of the boxes over the past four years. He also does other woodworking for friends. He is cautious to share his talents because he does not want to become bogged down with work causing him to become too nervous to do the skill properly. "I enjoy doing the work at my own pace. If I can make one for someone, fine; but I cannot Ironically, the day to honor working people, by giving them a holiday, is called Labor Day.

Labor Day is celebrated each year on the first Monday in September. Although labor organizations sponsor various celebrations, for most persons it is a day of rest and recreation. It also has become a symbol of the end of summer, and many communities gather with friends and families to celebrate with picnics, parties and parades.

According to The World Book Encyclopedia other parts of the world also have versions of Labor Day. In Australia, Labor Day is called Eight Hour Day and commemorates the successful struggle for a shorter working day. In Europe, Labor Day is observed on May 1.

World Book credits two men with suggesting a holiday to honor working people in the United States - Matthew Maguire, a machinist from Paterson, New Jersey, and Peter Mc-Guire, a New York City carpenter who also helped found the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners. Both men played an important part in staging the first Labor Day parade in New York City in September, 1882. In 1887, Oregon became the first state to make Labor Day a legal holiday. In 1889, President Grover Cleveland signed a bill making Labor Day a national holiday.

Today Labor Day is best known for the rest and relaxation it gives those it honors. The day that gives America a holiday.

Notice

Due to the Labor Day weekend, the deadline for the September 9 issue of the NEWS will be noon Friday, September 4. News and ad copy will be picked up in Mentone at 9:30 a.m. Friday, September 4.

Be Kind To Editors And Writers Month

Yes, September is Be Kind to Editors and Writers Month. Mary Fisher and I have discussed writing articles from time to time and she will find a cupcake and candle on her desk from myself for her efforts.

To anyone who hasn't written much since high school, give it a try. You might begin by improving on your correspondence with friends and signing up the letters so they don't sound ho-hum. After a few spice-jobs, you may appreciate writers more than you used to. Imagine the challenge of daily columnists to come up with something interesting 365 days a year!

There must be days when thoughts are hard to come by. Yours truly has been known to move the typewriter from the table to the food bar, to the floor and then to the bedroom on a card table for either peace and quiet or comfort. One weekend, the typewriter ended up outside!

Then again, there are articles that don't seem to have a funny or humorous side such as the demolition of the Akron High School for this, a tour thru the school helped a little and a journey back in time using the old Golden Haze annuals was necessary. This article was written with a 60's slant and not everyone could be mentioned. It will be a part of history and I'm hoping it will be appreciated in future years.

Valentine's Day afforded an opportunity to write an article about Lover's Lane. This article wasn't humorous but was aimed toward older couples who could remember when their love was new and rekindle the flame that slowed to an ember. Love is a good subject, something we all need more of.

To date, I have neither pulled hair nor cried over the keyboard in order to come up with an idea for an article. It seems there is something humorous or touching happening all the time, hopefully others will be able to identify with some of these events.

My boys and the girls I work with are judges for some of my articles. If I see smiles on their faces as they read the article I claim victory. If I see a hint of a tear as the articles about my parents and in-laws are read, I determine them a success. They probably wonder when they will appear in an article!

A New Beginning originally started as a weight control column but has since branched out into other areas. However, the name remains the same, each day being a new beginning once again. Here's hoping you will be kind to your editors and writers, I know I will. (Enjoy your cupcake, Mary.)

HE IS ALWAYS NEAR

When you're homesick, tired and blue,
A talk with God
Is good for you.
He will help you
When you pray.
Then you'll have a brighter day.
Each day is a new adventure,
Who knows what tomorrow will bring.
Learn from each day's experience,
A rewarding life it will bring.
So look forward to each day,
Meet it with Faith, Hope and Cheer
Hang right on to your Father
Because He is always so near.

"Cole" at playhouse Sept. 2-13

There can be no doubt about the most interesting feature of the Wagon Wheel Playhouse's forthcoming presentation of "COLE," which opens on September 2nd for only two weeks. The special attractions of the shows are the songs because they are all by Cole Porter.

The world famous Cole Porter was one of the rare men who wrote not merely the music nor just the words, but invariably both. All of his 500 celebrated songs were completely his own creations. Forty-seven of his classic tunes will be featured in the musical revue at the Wagon Wheel Playhouse.

Cole Porter, a native of Peru, Indiana, contributed enduringly hummable songs to 24 of Broadway's musical hits, including: "Kiss Me, Kate," "Can-Can," "Anything Goes," and "Silk Stockings." The musical will include Cole Porter's life story, as well as many of his songs like: "I Love Paris," "Night and Day," "It's De-Lovely," "I Get A Kick Out Of You" and "Be A Clown."

With his rare combination of sophistication and simplicity, Cole Porter became one of the most chic, fashionable and popular song writers of his era. Aside from his musical contributions, Cole Porter was a great legend of both high-style living and gallantry. Few other men have acquired such a flair, taste and instinct for leading "the Boat Set" to and from American and European centers of sophistication and entertainment.

The cast of "Cole" includes such summer favorites as: Laura Donnelly, Phil Masterton, Scott Mikita, Sally Murphy, Gina Nahrwald, Ken Paul and Syd Rushing. "Cole" is the final show of the Wagon Wheel Summer Season.

Artists are currently being lined-up for the Winter Concert Series. For more ticket information and reservations call the Wagon Wheel Playhouse Ticket Office at 219-267-8041.

Akron Carnegie Library

New books available at the Akron Public Library are:

The Everlasting Covenant, by Robyn Carr - A novel of peril and romance, great courage and forbidden love. The setting is fifteenth century England, during a time of confusion and bloodshed.

The Parson's Daughter, by Catherine Cookson - One of the world's great storytellers vividly re-creates England in the last century as she tells us of a magnificent woman and of the three ambitious men who love her - each in his own way.

Night of the Fox, by Jack Higgins - In his biggest and most exciting novel since "The Eagle Has Landed", Jack Higgins sweeps the reader into one of the most extraordinary and secret episodes of World War II: a mission to rescue, from the hands of the Germans, a man who knows the time and place of D-Day.

If I Were You, by Joan Aiken - A wonderfully compelling new novel of love and deception. With wit, stylistic grace, and keen story-telling talents, Aiken relates Alvey's suspenseful struggle to keep the secret of the switch without sacrificing her own identity.

Gagnons attend kids style shows

Marvin and Vi Gagnon along with their daughter Kathy Ammerman recently attended two fall style buying shows for children's apparel.

The first show, held August 16, was in Chicago. Last Thursday the Gagnons and Kathy traveled to the state capital to attend the Indianapolis Children's Show. Vi reports she will soon be receiving holiday clothing, fall and winter apparel, and gift items. The gift items were purchased with baby showers and new arrivals in mind.

Bolt, by Dick Francis - The author has created a thriller as galvanizing as anything he has ever written. For sheer suspense and great humanity, "Bolt" is unquestionably a hands-down winner.

The Five Silent Years of Corie Ten Boom, by Pamela Rosewell - Glimpses into the final years of the life of Corie Ten Boom by one of those who served her with love and practical help during the five years of her final illness.

Mother of An Army, by Charles Ludwig - A stirring biographical novel of Catherine Booth, co-founder of the Salvation Army, written with the cooperation of the Salvation Army, who supplied many valuable books and bulletins.

Maconsqua, Small Bear Woman, by Mary Dodge - From her own accounts, from family records and history, and from contemporary public records, we know an outline of her whereabouts from the time she was captured.

Gearhart hosts meeting

The Women's Fellowship of the Church of the Brethren met in the home of Betty Gearhart for the August meeting.

Arlene Gearhart's devotions centered around "Anger," and how to control it. She closed with prayer.

Kay Brouette announced that Timbercrest Fall Fellowship Day will be Sept. 26th. Also the Mexico Church of the Brethren will host the Fall Fellowship Day for the Women's District meeting, Oct. 8th. Lavon Mark, and Norma Weaver attended the President's Luncheon recently at Indianapolis.

Refreshments were served to Kay Brouette, Arlene Gearhart, Velma Holloway Vera Holloway, Joan Hysong, Gladys Kroft, Lavon Mark, Betty Meredith, and Edna Mae Shewman.

The September meeting will be in the home of Rozella Tinkey.

Perry Improvement

by Aurel Musselman

The Perry Home Improvement Club drove to the Country Cook Inn in its natural setting near Greentown to enjoy lunch together.

Before lunch a short business session conducted by Marie Nestleroad was held. Betty Keim led the devotions sharing her joys of nature. She spoke of the birds' mothering instincts and of God's creations. In our rural living we can miss so much joy if we neglect to take time to observe God's creatures and their habits. She led in prayer to sum up her thoughts.

Marie Berger talked to the group about the health habits and the importance of balanced meals.

As the meal was served of home cooked foods, everyone bowed for prayer of Thanksgiving spoken by Aurel Musselman.

Members and guests present were Emma Burns, Grace Waechter, Ruth Bammerlin, Marie Coon, Helen Miller, Betty Keim, Dorothy Cole, Aurel Musselman, Joanna Fox, Pauline Miller, Marie Nestleroad, Neva Robinson, Arlene Fabryan, Pauline Stanley, and Rose Marburger.

All enjoyed the drive through the farm country on the way home.

LTL meets at library

The L.T.L. met last Friday night at the Akron Library for their regular meeting. Uriah Graham served as president during the meeting; Jason Haines was secretary, and Jamie Barnhart was flag-bearer. The leader gave a Bible lesson on the 10 Commandments, and a lesson film called, "Why Not Marijuana?", assisted by Jamie Reese. After the game session, refreshments were served by Nicole Black, Sally Haines, and Heather Smith. The next meeting will be on Sept. 18th.

"These could be the most important 3 points I've ever made."

When I'm playing basketball, 3-pointers can make a difference. And as public safety representative for Public Service Indiana, I have "3-pointers" that can save a life.

Point 1. Overhead power lines are not insulated like home appliance cords.

Point 2. Overhead power lines carry many thousands of volts of electricity that can injure or kill on contact.

Point 3. Play it safe by always staying away from power lines.

If you'll remember these "3-pointers," you can help save someone from serious injury or death.

Harry Smythe

He rushed," explained Harry.

Although Harry is better known for the jewelry boxes, he does not consider them to be his best work. "My masterpiece is the grandmother clocks that I have made," boasted Harry. He has made three of the clocks. He again built the cases for the clocks and assembled the clock parts himself. One of the grandmother clocks is proudly displayed in the Smythe living room.

The grandmother clock, made by Harry Smythe, is what he considers his masterpiece. (NEWS Photo)

Friends and neighbors of the Smythes are aware of Harry's talents. In fact it was Darrell King who informed the NEWS office of his unique abilities. Mr. King likes to remind Harry of the story of how he encouraged him to invest in a bandsaw to help make his creations. Neighbors will stop in just to see how Harry is doing and to see what he is working on. They know they will always be met with a smile and a friendly "hello".

Buthene does fill her days with her flowers and birds, especially cardinal, collection while Harry puts in a seven-to-eight-hour day working on his wood creations.

Harry is pleased with the talents God has given him. He enjoys taking the rough boards and turning them into a smooth elegant masterpiece such as the jewelry chests. He takes pride in his work and that is evident by the quality of the finished product. Harry Smythe really has "made" "Something Beautiful" out of the talents God has given him.

Now you know...

If you didn't get to the fair, stop in and see his masterpiece.

New Life Singers to perform at Beaver Dam

Rev. Jarboe often attracts boaters during the lakeside early morning services held at Beaver Dam Lake. The last service of the summer season will be held Labor Day weekend.

The Beaver Dam United Methodist Church has extended their regular church program to provide a lakeside service on Beaver Dam Lake.

Pastor Robert Jarboe along with a steering committee composed of church members and Beaver Dam Lake residents have spearheaded the program. People can worship in their boats or on the shore. The proper dress for the service is regular lake attire.

The average attendance for the first summer of services has been about 55 with a low of 37 and a high of 81. It is hoped the attendance will break the century mark on Labor Weekend Sunday.

Proceeds of the ministry will go toward an improved sound system and pay various musical groups to perform.

The Beaver Dam United Methodist Church has made a history as this is the first regular service that has been conducted on the lake.

On Sunday, September 6.

The New Life Singers from Rochester will provide the message in song. Refreshments will be served following the service.

Everyone is invited to attend and help break the century mark!

Seat belt fairy tales

Have you Heard: "I might be saved if I'm thrown clear of the car in an accident."

Rubbish! The fact is that your chances of being killed are almost 25 times greater if you're thrown from the car.

The forces in a collision can be great enough to fling you as much as 150 feet - about 15 car lengths.

Safety belts can keep you from: Plunging through the windshield; being thrown out the door and hurtled through the air; scraping along the ground; and being crushed by your own car.

In almost any collision, you're better off being held inside the car by safety belts.

Does your home ec., society, or Scout group need a program or handouts on seat belt safety? Contact Ann Chubb, Tippecanoe Valley area seat belt safety coordinator. You may leave a message at any Tippecanoe Valley school, and she will return your call. Or you may call her at 267-6317 during the evening hours.

Tippecanoe Valley defeated visiting Knox Friday night, 42-0.

Dwayne Leiter helped get things started for the Vikings in the first quarter when he blocked a Knox punt and ran it in from the 23. Ben Anderson followed with a 14-yard ramble later in the quarter.

Tippecanoe Valley's girls' golf team won twice August 27, on the Sycamore Golf Course, as the Vikings edged Manchester and Whitko.

Valley finished with 249 to Manchester's 252 and Whitko's 245 as the Vikings improved to 2-1 on the season.

Valley's Jenny Frieden tied Manchester's Jody Yochum with scores of 51 for medalist honors.

Fulton County residents attend groundwater session

U.S. Senators Richard G. Lugar and Dan Quayle announced that over 300 conference participants attended the first state-wide groundwater conference directed at state and local health officials and concerned citizens held in Indianapolis on August 26, 1987.

The participants joined the Senators in recognizing groundwater as one of Indiana's most important natural resources. The Senators expressed the necessity of cooperation among Federal, State, and local officials and agencies. Lugar and Quayle noted that groundwater is Indiana's greatest supply of fresh water. They also noted that Indiana depends on groundwater not only for drinking water, but for farm irrigation and industrial use as well.

In his welcome address at the conference Senator Lugar encouraged local initiative and cooperation as key elements to improved groundwater protection. "Many steps need to be taken and a strong partnership needs to be formed among the federal, state, and local governments and with concerned citizens," Lugar said. Quayle said, "Local officials are anxious to understand the extent of the potential groundwater problems we face in Indiana. That's why this conference is so important." The Senators also agreed that prevention rather than clean-up is the best solution to ensure safe groundwater sources. Wesley D. Burden, Fulton County Health Dept. and Leonard Szponar, STOP attended.

Now is the chance to be in the movies

Speaking and background parts are still available for John Sayles' movie, Eight Men Out, to be shot in Indianapolis beginning in mid-September.

Those interested should send a recent snapshot and a letter indicating height, weight, age, clothing sizes, specific skills, and availability to: Casting, Black Sox Inc., 1152 North White River Parkway, Indianapolis, 46222.

For the love of grandparents

by Mary Fisher

When all else fails, ask the grandparents. A phrase similar to this one has become very popular in recent years. You can see it stitched on cloth, carved in wood, and being said by grandchildren all across the country.

Grandparents have always been an important part of the American family. After all, we would not be here today, literally, if it were not for them! Grandmothers and grandfathers do deserve a day of recognition; thus, the United States has set aside the second Sunday in September as Grandparents Day. Mark it on your calendar now. September 13 is the upcoming day to remember the grandparents in your family.

Commercial card companies, florists, and other stores have jumped into the ring to commercialize a simple day as this one known as Grandparents Day. Face it, the easy way out is to send a card, bouquet or a pretty wrapped package. What most grandparents would rather have is a visit, a homemade card from that special grandchild, or a picture from the refrigerator. Why not take those special people out for dinner, or better yet, invite them to your house for dinner. Even a peanut butter sandwich, put butter on it so it won't stick to the dentures, with loved ones would be a special treat to someone who is alone most of the time.

Grandparents of the 1980's play an important role in the busy family life. Many grandparents are taking care of the grandchildren since both parents need to work to keep up with the economy. Many grandparents are taking the parent role as in the case of divorce. Grandparents have the ability to cross the generation gap. They seem to be able to understand why teens do the things they do and why Jimmy or Susie has to have that certain toy - the one just like everyone else has.

I have some very special memories of my grandmothers. I was not given the opportunity to know either of my grandfathers. Both my grandfather Elston and Grandfather Stoudt were deceased before I was born. But grandmothers are so very special. My Grandmother Elston always had a tin of vanilla wafers on the bottom shelf in the right hand corner of her pantry; just in my reach. And her sewing machine was always covered with an array of new doll clothes, or better yet, a new dress for me.

As a small child I developed rheumatic fever which forced my mother back into the working world to help pay medical bills. But I was not forsaken. Grandma Stoudt lived with us and cared for me. She would treat me with tender loving care, as only a grandmother can. The fall season always brings back special memories of Grandma Stoudt. After a long day at school, walking up our lane seemed an undurable task. On many of those fall days the sweet smell of vegetable soup and

Crop protection deadline nears

Indiana Farmers who want crop insurance protection for the 1988 crop of barley or wheat must apply by September 30, according to Harlan Stull, District Director. The policies, which provide a back-up source of income in case of crop loss, are available on barley and wheat.

Stull points out that multi-peril crop insurance is available through private insurance companies and independent agents and that the policies are fully supported by the federal government. To assist farmers in carrying the protection, he adds, the government has reduced the producer premium cost by as much as 30%.

Although drought continues to rank as the major cause of crop damage, roughly equal to all other causes combined, Stull says tens of millions of dollars in indemnity payments are made each year to policyholders whose crops have been damaged or destroyed by such causes as excess moisture, hail, disease, insects, wind, frost and freeze damage. For most crops, the policies offer insurance protection against all unavoidable causes of loss.

A list of companies who are authorized to write crop insurance policies in your county is available at ASCS offices, according to Stull. For many farmers, he adds, the decision to purchase insurance could prove to be the most important financial decision they will make during the entire year.

September 13

With Grandparents Day approaching, I took inventory of the people around me and their relationships with their grandparents. I didn't have the opportunity of knowing my grandparents on my mother's side, they passed away when I was 3 and 5 years of age although I remember Grandma Swartzlander's quick steps and Grandpa Swartzlander's whiskers. My Grandpa Hatfield died before I was born, but Grandma Hatfield spent time with us playing Flinch and putting puzzles together. She too passed away when I was young.

Doug remembers camping with his Grandma and Grandpa Moore, times that are to this day special to him. He also spent time with his Grandpa Krauter who was quite a fisherman. He was fishing with Grandpa Krauter the day he died. I can't help but think he would have loved to see the boys now. Grandparents are important people. They are people who have time to help their grandchildren when their parents are busy. All of a sudden the time they wished they had for their own children is available and the grandchildren benefit greatly.

Jenny and Charlie have spent a lot of time with the boys fishing and camping. The boys couldn't wait to go along and they were taught to behave or they wouldn't be allowed to go again. Somehow, behavior wasn't a problem although we could count on Doug's parents to follow thru on discipline. Attention and time are all that's needed and they get plenty of both. The boys are important, as are all the grandchildren to Jenny and Charlie, and they sense this. Not only do they pick up articles from time to time for the grandchildren but they take the time to listen and make them a part of their lives.

My mother was never heard to say she didn't want to be Grandma like some people. She looked forward to it. It didn't make any difference whether boy or girl, she had the heart to love them all. Even though my Dad died when Chris was only one year old, Mom made up for the loss. She played "horsey" when we were away for the weekend and later realized a woman of her age shouldn't have been on her hands and knees bouncing little boys on her back! She ran errands for me when the boys were sick and did those little "extras" that only Grandmas can do when I wasn't around. In turn, Chris and Collin repaid her many times over when she was in the nursing home by visiting her. Not once did the boys not want to see her. She cared about them and they knew it. Even though it was hard for her to talk to them, her loving pats, hugs and kisses said it all. She was a loving mother as well as a loving grandmother.

As a parent, finding time is sometimes hard. However, things wait - children don't. If the dishes need to be done, sometimes a lot of conversation goes on during that time. Biking is another time of conversation and when Doug takes the boys hunting, they talk up a storm - no rabbits are caught, but they talk! Although we don't have the time we wish we had, it's nice to know the boys have grandparents to fill in for us and help out.

Sharing love

homemade cinnamon rolls would greet me as I made my way to the house. The kitchen would be filled with the freshly baked breads and the soup was steaming on the stove. Grandma would always offer me a sample of her days work. Now I can truly appreciate all the hours of work she put in just to make my day at school a little better.

Both my grandmothers are gone now. But I can see them through my mother as she has taken on the role of grandmother to my children. And does she spoil them, of course. She doesn't want to be left behind in today's rat race of keeping up with each other. But does she love them, of course, but in that good old fashion type of family love that the world has tried so hard to destroy.

You may not have the privilege to have any grandparents still living. Do not feel sorry for yourself. The nursing homes are filled with lonely people who are craving to share their love with a young family. Many of them have been neglected by families who have become too busy in today's world for them. Take time to visit someone you know who is lonely. Send a card of cheer. Let them know someone still cares about them. Many nursing homes and churches sponsor an adopt a grandparent program. Check into it; it would not only benefit the individual, but you and your family would reap many bushels of love from getting involved.

Whoever you have in your family or neighborhood who could be classified as a grandparent, remember them some way on Sunday, September 13. Then remember them again the week after, and the week after that. There's a lot of love out there just waiting to be shared.

Nominations for award being taken

The Pork All American Award is the highest award that the Indiana Pork Producers Association can bestow on a producer. The award is not intended to simply identify the best producer in the state, but rather, recognize the individual who is an excellent producer while finding the extra time to serve their industry, their family and their country.

Nominations for the 1988 Pork All American Award are being accepted by the Indiana Pork Producers Association until September 15, 1987. Applicants can be nominated by their County Pork Producer Organizations or by an Extension Agent.

HECK TO GROW OLD

Can't hear like I uster,
Got dimming eyesight,
A set of false teeth,
My hair is turning white.

It's heck to grow old,
A puffin' and wheezin'
But one can be thankful
When he still has his, "Reasoning".

Old age - you just face it,
Be cheerful and grin,
But don't let folks know,
The shape you are in.

To School

To the student, either in high school or college, the end of summer heralds another nine months of poring over books (or should).

Young people of today are better off than their parents were, though life moves at a faster pace.

The fundamental values of life, however, remain.

These, in general, include a serious effort to gain knowledge in school, a standard of honor which rules out dishonesty, a personal moral code in dealing with others, and a willingness to work hard.

Pretty soon we'll be sorry summer is gone.

Open House announced

Mentone's baseball team met Beaver Dam Tuesday evening on the Mentone diamond. This game was well played by the pitchers of each team. One might have thought as he watched the game that he was witnessing the Big Leaguers at play as the final score was one to nothing in our favor. Some of the outstanding features of the game were thirteen strikeouts by Wiltrout and a line drive down to center field by Linn which brought Secore dashing over home plate for the winning run of the game. This run was made in the first of the seventh inning. Fine sportsmanship was shown between the friendly teams throughout the game. The lineup for Mentone is Pitcher, Dale Wiltrout; Catcher, Hershel Linn; First baseman, John Bayne; Second baseman, Orval Secore; Third baseman, Junior Wallace; Short stop, Dean Shirey; Left field, Bob Tucker; Center field, Douglas Kercher; Right field, Robert Eiler, and substitutes, Eldred Paulus, Dale Black and Lowell Marquis.

We are indeed proud of our 4-H Club this year, both the boys and the girls. Each club exhibited some product at the Indiana State Fair this fall. Bobby Miner and Jim Besson exhibited poultry at the fair and Bobby received ninth prize as his well-earned reward. Miss Mary Alice Long also exhibited a dress she had made this summer in her 4-H work. Mentone students who attended the State Fair were Mary Ellen Myers, Mary Alice Mosier, Everett Besson, and Frank Sith, all seniors; Jim Beeson, Sophomore and Bobby Miner, eighth grade.

Buster came to Mentone Monday afternoon with Harry Slabaugh, Etna Green. Buster, a large tan dog owned by Ed Meredith, Rt. 1, Mentone, rode into Mentone with Slabaugh Monday afternoon and delighted passers-by by lolling on the front seat of Slabaugh's restored 1922 Model-T Ford touring car. Until the camera arrived, Buster had been drawing laughs by sitting in the driver's seat, paws on the steering wheel, but he refused to do more than smile for the camera and then contentedly plopped into the back seat for a short nap before returning to his country home.

Workmen spent more than five hours Monday afternoon trying to get a ready-mix truck back on the road. The vehicle, owned by Morse Utter and operated by Cedric Utter, upset when a portion of gravel road gave way as Utter stopped to let an approaching pickup pass. The truck, which weighs eight tons empty, was filled with four yards of cement which weighs 3300 pounds per yard. Four wreckers and the Henry Township fire truck was called to the scene. Firemen attempted to wash the load of cement from the truck's mixer but were unable to do so because of the precarious position of the truck. They assisted in raising the vehicle from the ditch.

Board breakers recognized

Super Saturday at Woodlawn Hospital may be history, but the efforts of the students of Akron's ATA Taekwondo school will make an impact on the future. Fifteen students joined together to break 315 boards and raise $1,100.00 for Muscular Dystrophy.

Matt Craig was the highest pledge raiser, breaking 10 boards to raise $121.00. Other big money raisers were Norma Wadkins breaking 20 boards for $104.00, Johna Weida breaking 30 boards to collect $100.00, Brandon Holloway 10 boards for $95.00, Jennifer Caudill 10 boards to raise $85.00, Dusty Caudill breaking 20 boards for $77.00, Matt Lyons 20 boards to collect $77.00, Andy Gidley (not pictured) 10 boards raising $52.00 and Ryan Black 20 boards for $45.00.

The board break-a-thon is part of a nationwide effort of all ATA Taekwondo schools to raise $300,000.00 for Muscular Dystrophy.

A big "thanks" to the Akron businesses who so generously donated to help buy boards.

Free shade trees for fall planting

The National Arbor Day Foundation is giving ten free shade trees to everyone who joins the nonprofit Foundation during September of this year.

A Sugar Maple, Weeping Willow, Red Oak, Green Ash, Thornless Honeylocust, Pin Oak, Silver Maple, Tulip-tree, River Birch, and Red Maple will be given as part of the Foundation's campaign to encourage tree planting.

These trees were selected because they provide beautiful orange, red, and yellow autumn colors and cooling summer shade, according to John Rosenow, the Foundation's executive director.

The Foundation will give the ten free trees to members contributing $10 during September. The six to twelve-inch trees will be shipped this fall between October 15 and December 10 when conditions are right for planting. They will be sent with enclosed planting instructions, and are guaranteed to grow or they will be replaced free by the Foundation.

To become a member of the Foundation and to receive the free trees, a $10 membership contribution should be sent to Ten Shade Trees, National Arbor Day Foundation, 100 Arbor Avenue, Nebraska City, NE 68410, by September 30, 1987.

Crop Deadline

Indiana Farmers who want crop insurance protection for the 1988 crop of barley or wheat must apply by September 30, according to Harlan Stull, District Director. The policies, which provide a back-up source of income in case of crop loss, are available on barley and wheat.

Stull points out that multiple crop insurance is available through private insurance companies and independent agents and that the policies are fully supported by the federal government. To assist farmers in carrying the protection, he adds, the government has reduced the producer premium cost by as much as 30%.

Although drought continues to rank as the major cause of crop damage, roughly equal to all other causes combined, Stull says tens of millions of dollars in indemnity payments are made each year to policyholders whose crops have been damaged or destroyed by such causes as excess moisture, hail, disease, insects, wind, frost and freeze damage. For most crops, the policies offer insurance protection against all unavoidable causes of loss.

A list of companies who are authorized to write crop insurance policies in your county is available at ASCS offices, according to Stull. For many farmers, he adds, the decision to purchase insurance could prove to be the most important financial decision they will make during the entire year.

In Fashion

A welcome trend in fall fashions is that jacket and skirt no longer have to match in color. Another interesting note is the pretty pastels seen in fall fashions.

Suit jackets, in pale pink, blue or yellow, are coupled with solid pearl grey or grey plaid coordinated with the solid jacket color.

The thrifty working woman can use a jacket from her spring wardrobe and select a skirt to achieve the mix-match effect.

Many farm accidents result in eye injury

If farm residents or workers spent just a few minutes blindfolded and tried to perform a few routine tasks they would quickly learn not to risk their eyesight. Unfortunately, farm-related eye accidents occur all too frequently. According to the Indiana Society to Prevent Blindness, about 5 percent of farm-related accidents result in eye injuries.

Many eye injuries could easily be prevented by wearing industrial quality eye protection according to Paul R. Honan, M.D., JSPB President. The frequency and severity of injuries can also be reduced by the proper handling of hazardous materials, the proper maintenance and use of machinery and tools, and the knowledge of basic first aid treatment for eye injuries.

Protecting your eyes is cheap in comparison to the pain, lost productivity and loss of income that can result from even minor eye injuries.

Among the most serious eye hazards on the farm today are chemical accidents, and heading that list is anhydrous ammonia. This chemical is a strong alkali which has tremendous attraction for water, making it extremely dangerous to the unprotected eye.

To protect the eyes chemical splash goggles are essential. All equipment (pressurized valves, fittings, connectors and hoses) should be inspected and properly maintained.

A supply of clean, fresh water should be available near the ammonia tank to flush the eyes in case of accident. Anyone handling anhydrous ammonia or other hazardous farm chemicals should carry a small squeeze bottle of water in their pocket to flush the eyes. Continue to flush for at least 15 minutes and seek emergency medical attention.

Pesticides, including the granular form, and fertilizers also can cause severe eye irritation. Before using, farm operators should read the labels and follow all recommended safety procedures. Those include wearing safety goggles or glasses with shields, standing upwind when handling those materials, and washing the hands thoroughly after the job is done.

Other sources of eye injuries on the farm include:

- *Simple hand tools.
- *Power tools, particularly chain saws.
- *Welding, which produces intense radiation and hot sparks or slag.

- *Jump starting a dead battery, which can explode and splash battery acid or fragments into the eyes.

- *High pressure washers, steam cleaners and sand blasters or compressed air used in cleaning operations.

- *Farm machinery that chops, cuts, blows, or grinds and which can throw particles at high speed into the eyes.

- *Ruptured or leaky hoses, which can spray hot oil.

One type of eye protection will not do the job for all kinds of farm chores. Special goggles are available for handling chemicals and for welding. Safety glasses are hand tools. Plastic face shields and welding helmets can also be used for hazardous chores.

Farmers should not take a chance when it comes to their eyesight.

- *Wear proper eye protection for hazardous jobs.

- *Know how to use and maintain hazardous products and materials.

- *Become acquainted with first aid treatment for eye injuries.

- *Seek immediate medical attention in case of injury.

Use common sense and protect your valuable sight.

Helping Hand Program receives $2,000 donation

The makers of Almond Delight brand cereal have donated $2,000 to help needy utility customers pay their bill this winter.

The Ralston Purina company's $2,000 grant was to Public Service Indiana's "Helping Hand" program. In the past, Helping Hand money came solely from PSI shareholders.

"With additional funds from Ralston Purina, we should be able to help even more people in 1988," said Bill Kirchoff, director of customer services at PSI. Last winter, the utility helped 4,022 elderly and disabled PSI customers pay their bills.

The Almond Delight grant is part of a national program designed to recognize the work of local utility funds.

"The grant program was developed in conjunction with the Almond Delight 'Free Utilities' promotion," said Sandy Harrington, a spokesperson for the cereal company. "In September, every 15th box of Almond Delight will have a check enclosed to help pay for utilities."

In Early Autumn's Hue

Beneath a sky of bright steel-blue: Black-eyed Susans and golden rod. Dot-field's and roads' rustic view.

To glorify that golden haze, of dusky light, sun-mellow days: A frost-edged magic alchemy. Symbolic of September's phase.

Of season, which I would prolong. Within the spell of cricket song: The charm it holds has such a few short hours, with trails untrod.

In early Autumn's hue.

The Akron Keen-Agers and I welcome Helen Hartzler to our volunteer list. For it is people like Helen that keeps this program working in your hometown. I want to thank Margaret Eber for being manager while I had a few days off. Also to all the volunteers who helped her in any way. Our thanks to Evelyn Kreig, Catherine Rudo, Erda Royer, and Ruth Bammerlin for the baked goods. As always to the Homebound Meal driver, Kenneth Bright, and to our handy man Paul White a job well done.

Killing Hunters

Each year thousands of American hunters are shot by accident, many fatally. Most of the tragedies occur in fall or early winter, many on opening days of deer and other hunting seasons.

Rifles, of course, are deadly even at long range. Shotguns are dangerous at close range.

The usual accident causes are failure to unload guns, firing at a moving target before careful identification, carelessness in carrying guns and hasty or excited shooting.

Now that the 1987-88 school year is underway, it is an appropriate time for parents to begin taking advantage of daily home situations to help extend and develop their children's reading and learning skills at home.

Before I review several every-day home activities that can be used to supplement the learning that takes place in the classroom, a word about listening skills might be in order. While we don't often talk about the importance of listening skills and their relationship to learning and achievement, their value must not be overlooked. It is very important for children to learn to listen attentively and follow simple directions. Many of the directions in school are oral, and how well the student listens will be a factor in school success. As a result, parents should act as good role models by listening to their children carefully, answering questions and guiding them in seeking out answers by relating a new situation to a familiar one.

If learning and achievement are to take place in the classroom, discussion and communication in the home must occur. Good home communication can only strengthen a child's self-esteem, respect for his peers and family members, and ultimately lead to greater learning and achievement.

Here are several every-day home situations that can be used to enhance activities taking place in the classroom:

Kitchen. The kitchen provides many reading opportunities. A child can develop his or her "skills" of following directions, interpretation and comprehension. The vocabulary of the kitchen is specific, and actual experiences aid in the meaningful development of such vocabulary.

Potential learning activities include the preparation of the grocery list, discussing the need for various items and noting categories of food. Food items needed can also be related to the seven food groups needed for good nutrition. Many skills can be developed through activities revolving around the use of coupons. A child can match the coupons in the newspaper or those already clipped with items needed on the shopping list. Discussing can occur on which coupons provide the best value, thus helping the child "evaluate" options. In addition, files can be made for organizing coupons, thus helping the child develop organizational skills, a critical study skill needed for school success.

Yard. Outside, the family's yard presents many activities that emphasize the careful reading of directions and the accurate following of instructions. The reading and following of precise directions on fertilizer, plant sprays, and other chemicals are a couple of examples. As plants go through the growing season, discuss with your child the individual characteristics of plants, such as the size and shape of seeds, color of flowers and leaves. Walks through the neighborhood and activities in local parks can also be educational experiences.

Television. Despite the potential for abuse, television can enhance the child's learning. Research shows that up to 10 hours a week can be of value in learning if parents are careful to monitor. Some shows can help develop reading readiness skills such as the identification of letters, numbers, and concepts, including color, size and shape. Special quality shows such as National Geographic, Wild Kingdom, Jacques Cousteau, and others are shown regularly. In addition, quality viewing with a follow-up discussion can help develop the skill of critical evaluation, which is a high-level reading comprehension skill. Other TV ideas:

*Watch for broadcast adaptations of classic or contemporary books. Precede or follow the show by reading or reviewing the book; you will be able to contrast and compare the book with the TV show.

*Watch a news program presentation of a current event and then read about the same event in a newspaper.

Older Students. While many of above suggestions are appropriate for younger students, a number of activities lend themselves to upper-grade students.

Teenagers, for instance can develop organizational and time management skills, not to mention the actual vocational skill associated with the tune-up, repair, and maintenance of the car's engine, lawn mower or other appliances and equipment. Also, teens can similarly develop time management skills through babysitting and other part-time jobs. Babysitters can also learn to appreciate the value of home skills and become more responsible. Finally, as older students develop interest in and practice a chosen sport, they will learn to develop time management or allocation skills. This is particularly true for individual sports such as ice skating, tennis, and gymnastics.

Given a little thought, there are numerous every-day activities that take place in the home that can augment the learning that takes place in the classroom. Parents should always be on the lookout to take advantage of these situations to stimulate learning by their children.

On by the woods,
Trickling gaily as a creek should.

With curve and crook.
Till it joins into Chippawanuck.

Old Owl Creek can barely be seen among the brush and trees. This photographer did not have on her walking shoes to get closer for a better picture. (NEWS Photo)

Law changes help decide if charity on up and up

Changes in the professional fundraiser law which went into effect September 1 should help consumers decide whether to give to charity if they are requested to do so by telephone.

The solicitor also must tell you the fee or compensation that will be paid to the professional fundraiser under the contract with the charity.

Persons who solicit for contributions cannot tell you that your money will be used to buy tickets for others, unless the solicitor has commitments from those organizations stating the tickets or donations will be accepted.

Professional fundraisers must register with the attorney general's Consumer Protection Division before they can begin soliciting.

Written contracts between the fundraiser and the charity also are required, and the contract must be filed with the Consumer Protection Division.

The registration with the attorney general's office must include a copy of the contract between the fundraiser and the charity; dates of solicitation; location and telephone number from where the solicitation will take place and the name and residence address of each person responsible for directing and supervising the campaign.

Attorney General Pearson says his office has filed suit against two telephone soliciting firms this summer. In both cases, solicitors misrepresented themselves to consumers while seeking donations.

In the first lawsuit, filed in June, alleged Indiana Midwest Promotions, also known as Fi-Pol Advertising; the Indiana Conference of Police and Sheriffs and the International Union of Police Associations, AFL-CIO, of violating the state's deceptive sales act by lying to consumers while solicitations were made.

In that case, solicitors told prospective donors they were calling from local police agencies when they were not, a violation of state law, Pearson says.

The most recent suit, filed in September, alleges Tarsand Enterprises, J.R. Alsop Inc., Ronald J. Marino and Carolyn Sue Marino misrepresented how donations to the Indiana Association of Chiefs of Police would be used. Callers told prospective donors money would be used for lobbying efforts to change laws, for a camp in Plainfield for youth interested in law enforcement and for child abuse and battered wives programs.

If you want to make a donation to a group which solicits you by telephone, ask if they have been hired to raise the money. Ask if all of the money or only a percentage will be given to the charity. Ask if they have a contract with the charity to raise money. If they can't answer your questions, don't send the donation.

If the charity sounds like a good cause, but the solicitor cannot answer your questions, send the donation on your own to the charity.

Donations should not be made in cash.

Seat belt fairy tales

Have you heard: "If I wear a safety belt, I might be trapped in a burning or submerged car!"?

Fiddlesticks! Less than one-half of 1 percent of all injury-producing collisions involve fire or submersion.

But if fire or submersion does occur, wearing a safety belt can save your life.

If you're involved in a crash without your safety belt, you might be stunned or knocked unconscious by striking the interior of the car. Then your chances of getting out of a burning or submerged car would be far less.

You're better off wearing a safety belt at all times in a car. With safety belts, you're more likely to be unhurt, alert and capable of escaping quickly.

Have you survived serious injury or death in a car accident? Would you be willing to share your story with others? For more information, call Ann Chubb at any Tippecanoe Valley school, and she will return your call. Or you may call her at 267-6317 during the evening hours.

Avoid health care fraud

The old medicine show, a colorful part of America's old West, is usually thought of as nothing but a cynical example of a con artist playing his trade. Horse-drawn medicine shows may be extinct, but many Americans still fall victim to health fraud each year, says the Indiana State Medical Association (ISMA). The ISMA would like to remind readers that legitimate drugs and therapies must go through a number of studies and tests before becoming available to the public. The following are some points to help you be a more informed consumer of health care products.

*Make sure the treatment, device or drug has been scientifically proven. Find out if it has been approved for consumer use by the U.S. Federal Drug Administration (FDA) or some other regulatory body. Legitimate scientific evidence includes successful and safe trials with thousands of individuals.

*Avoid "cure-all" treatments, devices or drugs that promise to be effective for a wide variety of unrelated conditions. This type of claim should be a clear warning to you of a fraudulent product.

*Health care is still an inexact field, despite modern-day advances in science and medicine. Any product, therapy or device that guarantees a cure, promises to prevent a disease or condition, or calls itself a miracle product is one to beware of.

*What are the credentials of the individual(s) offering the treatment or device? Beware of fraudulent or misleading titles or credentials. Make sure the person's degree (if they have one) was granted from an accredited institution in a legitimate area of health care. Avoid practitioners with obscure or questionable titles, degrees or credentials.

*Find out whether or not a proposed treatment or therapy will be covered by your insurance company before you sign up for it. Most insurers will not cover experimental or questionable treatments, while they will usually cover at least part of legitimate and proven medical therapies.

*Is the product only available by mail order or from a door-to-door salesman and not at local pharmacies or drug stores? Safely-tested and effective products are competitive in the marketplace on their own merits, not through a sales pitch.

*Avoid fad diets and weight-loss programs that promise quick and easy weight loss with little or no effort or discomfort. In fact, any therapy that involves little time or effort is probably worthless.

*Don't believe everything you read. For example, there are hundreds of diet books which are full of erroneous nutritional information.

*Use your common sense in selecting health care products and services. A product that sounds too good to be true, most likely is.

The ISMA urges you to seek the advice of your personal physician where your health is concerned. Even if your physician is unable to help you in a particular area, he or she will direct you to the most current, reliable source of aid or information that exists for your problem.

How to choose a college

Choosing what college to attend is a difficult task for high school students and their parents. Most college degrees require an investment of four years, a lot of hard work and a significant financial commitment. The selection is further complicated by the wide number and variety of institutions available.

The most important factor in choosing a college is understanding yourself. Choosing the right college for you is an involved process which should take into consideration your individual needs, background, interests, ambitions, goals, dreams and strengths.

Colleges, like people, tend to develop certain traits, a kind of collective personality. That personality is shaped by a number of factors, including size and location, nature of the faculty, facilities available on campus, types of programs offered and the general tone of life among the students, faculty and administration.

First, consider your reasons for attending college. Ask yourself questions like "Why do I want to go to college?" and "How will I benefit from a college education?"

Second, identify college characteristics most important to you. A good question to ask yourself is "If I could design my own college and one to meet my needs, what would it be like?" Consider your academic program or programs, type of institution, location, size, costs, financial aid availability, college accreditation and academic reputation.

Third, list colleges you are considering and collect information. Sources of information include the high school guidance counselor, public library and alumni. You can also receive information by writing or calling the college office of admission.

Fourth, investigate and compare colleges. Prepare a college comparison checklist and weigh the pros and cons of each college you are considering. Look for the colleges that have the most desirable characteristics to benefit you and your special needs.

Fifth, visit the campus. The campus visit is the single most important factor in the college selection process. Take a campus tour, talk with students and faculty, investigate your academic program, meet with an admission counselor to verify the admission process and requirements, and meet with a financial aid counselor to determine actual costs and financial aid opportunities.

After you visit the campus then apply for admission. The application process at each college is unique. Know the application process, deadlines, application fees and what credentials are required.

Don't eliminate a college because of cost! Calculate the costs and investigate all possible sources of assistance such as family, savings, employers, churches and the institution itself. Secure the necessary forms and apply for financial aid as early as possible.

Your Best Heating and Air Conditioning Value Begins with a G. But it's Not Gas. It's GeoThermal.

GeoThermal Heating, Cooling and Water Heating. We call it System:GT. GeoThermal Heating, Cooling and Water Heating is a system that collects heat from liquid circulated through pipes buried in the earth. This method concentrates the heat, then circulates comfortable, warm air throughout your home. The ability to move heat is the secret of System:GT's incredible efficiency. In fact, the most efficient gas and oil furnaces use three times as much energy to create heat as System:GT uses to move the same amount of heat. Simply stated, it is the most efficient heating system available today.

System:GT can air condition your home in the summer by reversing its heat moving process — and the efficiency is just as spectacular as its heating capability. System:GT can provide a 30% gain in air conditioning efficiency when compared to other air conditioning methods.

System:GT can heat your water too. It can satisfy virtually all of your water heating needs in the summer at no additional cost. Winter savings can be as much as 40%.

In short, System:GT provides year-round comfort while combining the wise use of energy resources with the lowest possible operating cost. It is convenient, safe and clean. It's the latest in heating and cooling technology.

Cause for itchy heads

When school reopens, parents expect to be purchasing the usual array of pens, rulers, notebooks and other educational supplies. Unfortunately, they may also be purchasing pediculicides - pesticide products designed to kill head lice.

The annual observation in September of National Pediculosis Prevention Month calls attention to the fact that head lice is now more prevalent than all other communicable childhood diseases combined. Millions of children in day care facilities, nursery schools, and elementary schools will bring home these parasitic insects during the coming year.

But there is some good news. According to the Boston-based National Pediculosis Association, prevention efforts at the local level can go a long way toward keeping case numbers down. In communities where schools enforce lice control policies and parents cooperate by making head checks part of routine home hygiene, outbreaks of pediculosis are dramatically reduced.

Lunch with the principal

To promote good behavior and a positive attitude among students at Akron School, principal Daniel Kramer and assistant Brett Boggs have initiated a program titled "Lunch With the Principal" for students in grades K-5. Each Friday 15 children will be seated at a special table where they will eat lunch with the principal. Students will receive an "I'm Thumbbody Special at Akron School" button and complimentary gifts donated by local merchants. A picture of the students will be taken to appear in the Akron-Mentone NEWS. Fifteen different students will eat with the principal each Friday, with all students having the opportunity to eat lunch with the principal at some time during the year. Only students who display good behavior at school will be allowed to eat lunch with the principal.

The following third grade students ate lunch with the principal at Akron School on Friday, September 4 in recognition of their good behavior: Tara Rutherford, Aubrey Bahney, Clint Howard, Andy Parker, Becky Faught, Tony Rogers, Josh Spangle, Eric Backus, Maia Jaeger, Cassie Garrison, Mylinda Mumford, Chad Good, Johnathon Kamp, Chrissy Williams, and Missy Steininger.

$249,100 in scholarships offered by program

High school seniors have an opportunity to enter the 1987-88 Century III Leaders program, which awards local, state, and national prizes to students who demonstrate the leadership abilities and social awareness necessary to help meet America's needs during our third century.

One particularly outstanding senior will eventually collect the $10,000 scholarship which goes to the Century III national winner. The person is selected at the Century III Leadership National Conference, March 18-21, 1988, at Colonial Williamsburg, Virginia. National semifinalists earn additional $500 awards.

Two students from each state and the District of Columbia - chosen from winners at each participating high school - receive $1,500 scholarships and all-expense paid trips to the Williamsburg conference. Two alternates from each state receive $500 awards. Six finalists from each state receive $100 scholarship awards.

Now in its 13th year, the Century III Leaders program is designed to bring together student leaders to discuss issues facing America in its third century. Students are judged at the local school level on leadership abilities, school and community involvement, a short essay written on an issue facing America, and a current events examination.

In all, the Century III Leaders program awards $249,100 in scholarships and provides for 102 students to attend the Williamsburg conference. This program is administered by the National Association of Secondary School Principals and funded by the Shell Companies Foundation, Inc.

Deadline for students to apply is October 22, 1987. Students interested in participating in the program should contact their principal.

Vikes surpass Squires

In the first Three Rivers Conference game for both teams, Valley raised its record to 2-0 on the season, while Manchester fell to 0-2 in action Friday.

Fullback Sam Manwaring scored two TD's while Steve Holloway and Dion Anglin capped two other scoring drives in the fourth quarter to lead the Vikings.

Valley jumped to a 20-0 lead at the half, but found itself on the low end of the scale when the Manchester Squires gained some respect.

Things began to shift the wrong direction for Valley early in the third quarter when the snap on a punt attempt sailed into the end zone, giving Manchester its first score.

Following the free kick, the Squires took advantage of their best field position of the night by marching 43 yards in three plays - the big gain coming on a 31-yard romp by John Burton. Roby Potter drug Burton down at the four to prevent a touchdown. Cornell did the honors from the four.

Less than two minutes later, the Vikings, on their next possession, fumbled at the Manchester 37. It seemed Manchester could take control and following a six-yard-run by Burton the hometown crowd at the Manchester College field felt it too.

But Matt Weller, twisting his way through the Valley defense with second and third efforts, fumbled the football when a defender struck his hands.

After exchanging punts, Valley's offense came alive in a 48-yard drive, nine-play, drive capped by a four-yard run by Holloway. The senior running back led his team in rushing, gaining 78 yards in 21 attempts.

While Valley has a strong tradition of powerful running teams, the Vikings displayed some proficiency passing in the first half. Quarterback Dion Anglin completed 5 to 9 passes in the first half for 108 yards. He finished the game 6 of 13 for 106 yards.

With the Vikings owning a 26-10 advantage, the Squires put together an impressive scoring drive of their own.

Swim hours scheduled

Open swim hours at the Tippecanoe Valley High School have been announced for the month of September.

The pool will be open for use on Sundays from 2:00 until 3:30 p.m. and on Wednesdays from 7:00 until 7:45 p.m. Lap swimming will be on Wednesday from 7:45 until 8:30 p.m.

It has also been announced that the pool will be closed today, Wednesday, September 9.

First, Cornell returned the kickoff 44 yards, and, following a facemask penalty against Valley, Manchester had the football at the Vikings' 34. Seven plays later, on runs by Cornell and Burton, Cornell crossed the goal line from the four with 4:32 remaining in the game. Burton made a diving catch in the corner of the end zone. It only counted for two points. Manwaring settled the score, however, on four straight plays, which appeared to be exactly the same, accounting for runs of 17, 8, 6, and 20 yards. The 73-yard drive ended with four seconds remaining when Anglin scored on a quarterback sneak from eight yards out.

Yochum's efforts not enough

On Monday, August 31, the Tippecanoe Valley girls golf team was defeated by Northwestern 164-243 on the Mill Creek Course, Rochester.

Tippecanoe Valley was led by Jody Yochum who had a 50.

Yochum again led the Vikings in action on September 1 against Macanaquah on the Peru City Golf Course with a 42. It wasn't good enough as the Vikings dropped a 247-261 victory to Macanaquah.

Yochum had a pair of birdies and used just 11 putts for the nine holes. The 42 was 3-over par and established a school record.

The other four Tippecanoe Valley players were all within three strokes of each other as they shot between a 72 and 75.

Boys win opener in tennis

Tippecanoe Valley opened its boys' tennis season on a winning note Tuesday afternoon, Sept. 1, as it beat Culver 4-1.

The Vikings captured two of the three single matches and both double matches to earn the win.

LaVelle's boys' tennis team handed Tippecanoe Valley its first loss of the season last Thursday as it shut out the Vikings 5-0.

Cross Country review

Tippecanoe Valley's girls' cross country team opened the season with an impressive win over Northfield, but their boys' counter-parts weren't as lucky.

The girls scored 23 points to gain the win. Dondita Boggs led the winner team as she crossed the finish line in 17:56, well in front of teammate Dianna Erp who took second in 19:14.

The Vikings captured seven of the two 10 spots as Jennifer Secrist placed fifth, Shelley Fleck was seventh, Janie Roser took eighth, Kisa Minnick was ninth and Dawn Birch placed 10th.

The boys dropped a tough 26-29 decision in its opener. Valley's Scott Watkins was the individual winner with a time of 18:08. Northfield took the next three places to give them the balance they needed to pull out the win.

Other Tippecanoe Valley runners to break into the top 10 were: Shayne Lenefesty (5th), Scott Stephens (6th), Eric Merley (7th) and Paul Goodwin (10th).

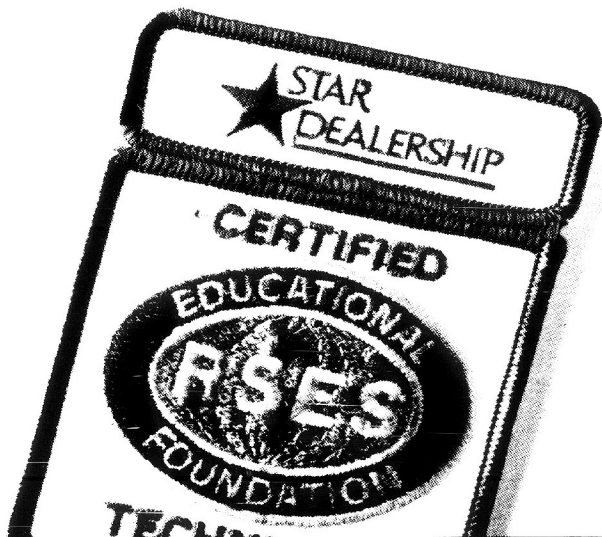

Each year the football season succeeds in making fools out of adults on several Saturday afternoons.

Tippecanoe Valley Girls Golf

What to Look for in a Heating and Cooling Professional.

If you have some good heating and air conditioning questions, you need some good answers. And a STAR to back them up.

STAR stands for Special Training and Recognition. It's a voluntary certification program developed by the Refrigeration Service Engineers Society (RSES). It thoroughly covers important aspects of electric home and commercial heating and cooling, especially those relating to heat pump technology, diagnosis and installation.

STAR is a rigorous testing and evaluation that, frankly, many dealerships can't live up to. But those that did now have a STAR to show for it.

There are lots of choices in heating and air conditioning comfort. That's why your first choice should be a STAR.

Mentone hires new water and sewer superintendent

The curbing project continues to progress in Mentone despite the recent showers. Gremmen for Secrist Builders are shown installing the curbing forms on Tucker Street before the cement was poured. (NEWS Photo)

Brian Reed of Roann has been hired by the Mentone Town Board to fill the position of water and sewer superintendent for the town. Reed will begin his job at $17,000 yearly, with a $500 raise after he completes his water certification. The test is scheduled for November, and it will take a number of weeks afterward before the results will be known.

Currently with the Roann water department, Reed has already obtained his sewage certification.

Included in his contract, the town will furnish Reed with clean uniforms, and he will be entitled to one week's paid vacation upon completion of two years of service, two weeks for three to five years of service and three weeks vacation for five years or more.

The Mentone Town Board is still working with the Kosciusko County Police Force to place an officer in Mentone. The board met in executive session prior to last week's meeting with Kosciusko County Sheriff Ron Robinson to discuss the probability of placing a county officer at the Mentone Police Department.

Robinson has indicated the county council could possibly consider funding a portion of the $17,000 per year marshal position.

According to the outcome of last Wednesday's Kosciusko County's budget meeting, an unofficial OK has been given by the Kosciusko council to provide an officer for Mentone.

Funds were not allocated for such a project in the 1988 budget, which was approved Wednesday by the council. However, if the commissioners would approve such a proposal, funds could be made available later this year.

In order to meet deadlines set by the state, a public hearing on the sewer project will be conducted at 7 p.m. September 14. The engineering firm, Bonar & Associates, which was consulted to look into Mentone's sewer problem, will have a representative at the hearing.

With fall approaching, the board decided to go ahead with the setting of trick-or-treat times. On Saturday, October 31, from 6-9 p.m., children will be allowed to go door-to-door and collect treats.

A special curfew for the month of October was set requiring all persons under the age of 18 to be off the streets by 9:30 p.m.

Also, the Chamber of Commerce was given permission to block off South Broadway, from State Rd. 25 to the alley, in conjunction with its Oct. 30 Halloween festivities.

In other matters the board extended the deadline for acceptance of sealed bids for the town's 1979 Chevrolet truck. Those wanting to make an offer must have their bids in by the October 5 regular meeting. Bids can be mailed to Box 506, Mentone, Indiana 46539.

Board member Jim Miller reported that the railroad crossing at Etna Street has been repaired, and Clerk-Treasurer Kate Whetstone was asked to bill Norfolk & Western for half of the cost.

Secrist Builders have begun installing the town's 1,309 feet of curbing, which includes resident requests. The work began on Wednesday, September 9.

The board discussed the possibility of utilizing a portion of the south end of the new cemetery for controlled brush burning.

In consideration of a park board request for playground equipment, the board indicated there is $1,500 appropriated for them, which could be used for the purchase.

A new beginning..

By: J.D. Moore

Just One Of Those Days

As the seasons change, I found myself ready to settle down with a good book. The selection of books at home is good although I thought I'd try to cut down on the snacking, so I was selective in my reading material.

The first book I decided to try was pretty good until it started talking about Porkchop Hill. That was it! The book was put on the shelf. A book on dieting didn't capture my interest. While looking at random thru the children's books, I saw Charlie and the Chocolate Factory and a Christmas book mentioning "visions of sugarplums".

Convinced reading wasn't for me that day, I turned on the radio to listen to songs of the 50s and 60s. Sugar Shack was the first song played. When I was a teenager it was my nephew, Rick's favorite song, as an adult it made me think of candy! I changed the channel, it's a Marshmallow World was playing next. I changed the channel again. Tutti Frutti was on the next channel! By then, I had decided to change to a different kind of channel, one more accustomed to playing the classics. They said Sammy Davis, Jr. was coming up next, now this was more like it. You guessed it, he was singing, Candy Man. One last run-thru of the channels revealed Apples, Peaches, Pumpkin Pie playing and I turned it off in disgust!

I knew I had some records that weren't food oriented. Peppermint Twist, no not that one. A record by the Strawberry Alarmclock was tossed aside. Peaches and Herb left my mouth watering! Something had to be done!

Deciding to clear out the game closet only added to the insult. The Candyland Game made me wish for some hard candy! Another book of C.J.'s was found, it talked about someone who "stuck in his thumb and...you guessed it! pulled out a plum". The book was stuffed back into the closet!

Television was the only thing left! As I turned the set on, I couldn't believe my eyes! Raisins dancing across the screen to "I Heard It Thru The Grapevine". What the heck, I danced too!

This wasn't my day off, this was Mission Impossible! While realizing I was slower than molasses at figuring out I should just have a snack and be done with it, I got out a box of blueberry muffin mix. I had the situation in hand!

As Collin walked in the door I was playing "Hard Habit To Break" on the radio and singing, "I found my thrill, on BLUEBERRY hill!"

Rural Rhymes

by Esther C. Adams

FARMER'S LANGUAGE

A Farmer is a "hayseed"
And sometimes called a "hick"
But when it comes to language
He "carries a big stick".
There are folks that are ritzy,
And "live high on the hog"
And when they go golfing
They are "tired as a dog".
Some folks are "meek as a lamb,"
Some called, "silly as a goose".
Then someone is sure "to get your goat"
And you say "they don't have the brain of a goose."
Now we say "folks are behind like an old cows tail,"
Or that they may be "dumb as an ox."
But if we "sift the chaff from the wheat"
We may be "sly as a fox."
There are those, "that are crooked as a dogs hind leg,"
And "a pig in a poke," to you sell,
But if you are "wise as an owl,"
You "let the cat out of the bag" and tell.
Now to "count your chickens before they hatch,"
May cause one "to root hog or die!"
And it may be "hog wash,"
Or it may be "in a pigs eye",
We "walk like a frozen toed chicken", or
"Waddle like a duck".
Get as "mad as an old wet hen" or,
"Mad enough to bite a nail"
And someone always "has an ax to grind"
And, "we reap what we sow" without fail.
We say folks "are crazy as a loon".
If they don't see "they are blind as a bat".
While some folks are "stubborn as a mule,"
And some "pussy foot around" like a cat.
Now to be "as awkward as a hog on ice,"
Or as "crooked as a rail fence",
But at night you "hit the hay".
And of course "have good horse sense".
Now there are "salt of the earth" people
And those who "call a spade a spade".
We can see The Farmer had influence
On how our language was made.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Greulack, Rt. 1, Mentone are the parents of an eight pound, four ounce daughter, born at 8:01 p.m. Thursday in the Murphy Medical Center. The new daughter has been named Carolyn Elaine.

There wasn't anyone in Mentone late Thursday night who felt any desire to challenge Robert Redman 48, of Plymouth, to an egg-eating duel. Mr. Redman, a plumber, had just won the title of world's champion egg eater by eating 60 eggs in less than 30 minutes. Second place in the contest went to Luther Lotes, of Claypool, who managed to eclipse 39 of the carefully selected and properly cooked cackleberries. Devon Ogle of Rochester, came in third with a score of 34 eggs down. Glen Putterbaugh, one of the Mentone contenders was squeezed into fourth place with 33 eggs down. (Mr. Putterbaugh stated on a TV program Thursday noon that he expected to eat at least three dozen, but I don't blame him for losing interest in the contest when one of his contenders started drinking them by the dozen.) Bob Listenberger, of Plymouth, who had a part in getting the "world's champion" into the contest, came in fifth with a mere 16 eggs! Larry Hatfield, Mentone, tried his eggs hard-boiled and after an even dozen his appetite for eggs was as dry as the Sahara at mid-day. Each contestant had the privilege of having his eggs prepared to suit, and the winner chose to have his soft boiled. With a dozen or so soft boiled ones in a dish, he's stir them into a liquid and drink them by the dozen. (Someone slipped in a dozen fried ones but said he was still able to eat more if necessary to win the contest.) Mr. Redman, using his own words, "was full!" The egg show queen and her four attendants, assisted by K.A. Riner and Jack VanGilder, served the eggs to the contestants. Carroll Eiler, chairman of the egg eating committee, was at the microphone during the contest and did a very capable job of keeping the contest interesting and alive. Russell Hunter, chef of the Java Shop, of the Hotel Van Orman, Fort Wayne, prepared the eggs for the contestants.

The D.A. Pike Lumber company will install a new dry kiln at their saw mill during the next few weeks. The new kiln will be located between the two saw mills and will be one of the most modern automatic outfits on the market today. It will include new drying equipment, fans, radiators, automatic testers and a new 60 by 80 feet building to house the dried lumber. Mr. Pike has announced that the increased demand for kiln dried lumber has forced him to install this expensive machinery and to build this additional building at his mill. Work will begin next week on this new project and it will probably require six to eight weeks to complete the installation. When completed the Pike company will have the most modern and up to date mill in this part of the country.

Ponder These Thoughts

The best way to be somebody is just to be yourself.

It's a pity that some folks never learn that uncovering the other fellows faults will never cover up their own.

Knowledge comes by taking things apart, but wisdom comes by putting things together.

If you want to be different these days, just act normal. Tact is the unsaid part of what you think.

Always put off till tomorrow what you should not do at all.

Senior citizens, our pitch-in dinner will be Thursday, September 24. A reminder please bring your own table service. Blood Pressure clinic is held the second Thursday of each month through the services of Diane Jones, Fulton county health nurse, at the Akron Lions Club Nutrition Site. If you are 60 years of age or older, come join us for a well balanced meal and fellowship. Call 893-7204 the day before, for your meal reservations.

The menu for the week of September 14-18 is:

Monday - Beef and noodles, mashed potatoes, whole kernel corn, brown

Early fall could bring a wet fall

As you watch your crops dry down in the field, consider weather, insects and diseases for crop losses.

The 90-day outlook for the first of September was very similar to the one released on the first of August. "Usually this means the season trends are more predictable," says Jim Newman, Purdue University climatologist. "Because the forecast is for wet weather, the chances of a wet fall are very high."

If that is true, expect the wet conditions to begin in late September and extend until about the middle of October or later. "With a wet fall, we may catch up with the normal amount of rainfall for a given year," says Newman.

The climatologist notes that while precipitation could be seasonally higher, temperatures will be about normal. "This could be the year you want to get in early and harvest the crop," says Newman. "I would make a point to open the fields and be sure to harvest the low areas quickly, if possible."

Newman has followed the 90-day projections for about 20 years. "Every time I have seen a 90-day projection repeat itself, there is a 75 to 80 percent chance of the seasonal weather outlook being correct."

Newman notes that everything is pointing toward fewer harvest days available this fall. This is the warmest year on record as far as spring and summer seasonal temperatures are concerned. "We had an early spring, which was warm and dry, and we will probably have an early fall," he says.

"An early fall is usually cooler and wetter." Fall rains are widespread geographically and in number of days. "This all points to the need to get in and harvest as soon as you can," says Newman.

A second reason to push harvest along is in fields where stalk rot is prevalent. Don Scott, Purdue plant pathologist, notes that stalk rot in corn is no different this year than last year. "But there are some fields that have problems. The biggest problem will be overlooking early matured corn. There will be a tendency to let the corn stay in the field and the propane in the tank," says Scott.

"It's best to watch fields that are left to dry down, to be sure there isn't a stalk rot problem," says Scott. "If we get into wet weather, those fields will go down. The cost of drying that corn should be less than the cost due to losses."

Ringling the bells of freedom

The Akron United Methodist Church joined in with many other organizations across the nation last Wednesday, September 16, 1987, and rang the church bell 200 consecutive times in observance of the 200th birthday of the constitution. The ringing of the bells was followed by 200 seconds of silence in respect of all those who have given their lives to defend the constitution.

Ringling the bell was Garland Gray, Suzie Baker, Bonnie Gearhart, and the Rev. Merlyn Cox. (NEWS Photo)

Coping with the frustration

by Mary Fisher

Parents of children in the 1980's are faced with a variety of challenges in trying to raise their children in a world filled with drugs, alcohol abuse, and an ever growing problem of pollution. Yes, pollution. Many readers may not have thought of pollution as a major problem facing the next generation. At least not a problem serious enough to commit hours and days of research, study and many dollars towards its battle. But to the residents of western Fulton County, pollution is an ever growing concern; not only to their children's future but to their safety today.

Recently I visited in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Don Bowen who live approximately three miles from the Four County Landfill which is located along side St. Rd. 17. Mr. Bowen, as chairman of the Data Management Committee of the STOP organization, has compiled a Chronological Archive Summary concerning the Four County Landfill, Inc. The "document" as the chronological summary is referred to by the STOP organization, contains a complete summary of the landfills activities since the origin of the present landfill.

STOP is used in reference to the Supporters To Oppose Pollution which is a group organized and dedicated to protecting the right to a clean environment. The present goal is to close and clean up the Four County Landfill. The Bowens are very active in the organization along with many of the other citizens in that area. While talking with the Bowens, I also talked to others who were afraid to be interviewed because of threats. When asked what kind of threats had been named against them or others in that area and by whom the threats had been made, the reply given was the threats were not made verbally - face to face; just that people are afraid in general. People seem to feel a mysterious and dangerous force around them. Whether this force is real or imagined is not what I am trying to tell readers about, it is the frustration these people are experiencing in their battle with the state organizations, health facilities, and the landfill.

A mother of two small children explained to me why she and her husband moved their family from their home which was located within a one mile radius of the landfill. Her two small children have both been sick most of their lives. Her youngest son was born premature with deformed legs and feet. While many parents have sick children, this particular mother feels there are too many coincidences for their problems to have all been happenstances.

When this mother was carrying her first child, a water sample from their well showed a level of .027 of cadmium in the drinking water. The suggested safe limitation for cadmium in drinking water is .01. What are the effects of cadmium to the human body? Cadmium, in high levels in the human body, can cause heart problems. The older of the two boys suffers from pulmonary stenosis, a narrowing of the artery from the heart to the lung. Where did the cadmium come from? No one can give this family an answer. Will it go away?

According to studies the family has done, cadmium can be filtered out of the drinking water - it only will take chemists 200 years to do it. If the present source of the chemical is removed. Frustrating? Yes, especially when there seems to be so little a mother can do for her child.

This same mother also had a miscarriage. To many women of this generation and generations past, miscarriages are not that uncommon. According to the women I talked to in this area, they believe there is a higher than normal percentage of miscarriages in the area surrounding the landfill.

Again, this same mother, while carrying her second child, discovered she had an extremely high level of lead in her blood. According to the lab reports from the South Bend Medical Foundation, her lead level was 17.

The toxic level is 20. Her second child was born premature and with the deformities already mentioned. Coincidence? Explain that to the mother.

The family being talked about did move, but only to a second location within a five mile radius of the landfill. When asked why they did not move completely away, the mother explained that the cost of a home in that area is what they could afford. Further explaining, the mother told that her husband's income was $130 a week while the medical bills for the children were running $150 a week. This family does not drink their well water now. They buy bottled

Mentone meeting regulations

Mentone may be on the way to meeting the pollution regulations of the EPA by the spring of 1989. Although the date set by the government for compliance to the regulations is September of 1988, the town would avoid initial fines because of being well into the construction of a complying facility.

During a recent Monday night Mentone Town Board meeting, the board heard Engineer Dick Lautz, a representative of the Bonar and Associates, Inc. firm who was hired by the town as consultants for the sewer project, explain the pros and cons of a small diameter gravity sewer system which they have recommended to the town.

The system involves installing new septic tanks at every residence and commercial establishment in Mentone, regardless of the age of the present tanks. The reason for this is because plastic septic tanks, instead of concrete, are required.

The installation of the tank (approximately $1,000) would be paid for through the project and built into the user charge. The life of a plastic tank is 40 years.

The town's cost of such a project would be $100,000 if the town receives help of federal grants and the Indiana Department of Commerce. The total cost of the suggested project is nearly $3 million.

Board members, choosing between three sites, selected a five-acre tract of land west of the corporate limits, along the Norfolk & Western railroad line.

Without funding from the DOC, an average monthly user charge would be $20-22; with funding the monthly charge would be $14-16, depending on the amount of water used.

It will be November before availability of a DOC grant is known. The prospects are favorable for getting the grant since there aren't many communities bidding for the funds at this time, according to Deborah Wiggins of Kosciusko Development Inc.

The homeowner would be responsible for the cost of running the pipes from the house to the tank. This cost is estimated at $300.

The advantages of the small diameter system, as outlined by the Bonar & Associates representatives are:

*The pipes (PVC) don't have to be placed as deep - five to seven feet versus 10-12 feet with the conventional system.

*Solids are removed in the tanks on the property, which act as settling basins.

*Smaller pipes can be used to route the sewage from the septic tank to the collection center.

*A smaller collection center can be utilized because the solids have already been removed.

If a town does not foresee meeting the 1988 deadline for correcting deficiencies, a court-enforceable schedule in which to resolve the problem. Failures to meet deadlines can then be penalized.

Other alternatives considered include the conventional gravity sewer system, which is not eligible for any grants because it is not innovative, and vacuum sewers, which the engineers did not see as practical for the small town, due to the higher cost and extensive maintenance requirements.

The chosen system requires the least amount of maintenance and has the least opportunity for failure, and is the most affordable to the town.

Teacher to conduct March trip to Europe

Mrs. Beth Barr, who teaches Speech, Drama and English at Tippecanoe Valley High School is conducting an educational trip to Munich, Germany and the Swiss Alps. She and her husband, Larry, will be guiding the students and sharing with them the fun of traveling abroad.

The trip is scheduled to leave from Chicago O'Hare Airport on March 25, 1988 and will continue through April 2, 1988. Included with several other sightseeing opportunities, there will be special visits to the Rathaus Glockenspiel, the 1972 Olympic Village, the concentration camp at Dachau, and the Royal Castles in the Bavarian Alps. The combination of organized sightseeing, special excursions, and free time will enable the students to fully appreciate the art, history, language, and entertainment of Germany.

Mrs. Barr is arranging the trip in conjunction with the American Council for International Studies of Boston, Massachusetts. Each year ACIS helps students from throughout the United States enjoy educational trips abroad. There are several openings in the group. Interested high school students, parents or community members should contact Mrs. Barr at school between 6:30 and 8:00 a.m. at 353-7031 or evenings at home at 893-7079.

An introductory meeting is scheduled for Monday, October 5, at Tippecanoe Valley High School in Room 121 at 7:00 p.m. Mrs. Barr will have prepared informational handouts on trip expenses, itinerary and registration. All interested persons are urged to attend.

Much delayed thank you

I would like to express my appreciation to Kreg Smith of the Akron town police force for doing such a good job. Immediate response to calls and a friendly concern plus a thorough procedure to solve the problem are all traits of this policeman. It is good to have men on the force who one feels at ease with. Talking to Ron Dittman has helped me see that he has the same courteous attitude and yet is ready to protect our good old town of Akron.

Now in memory of the past and retired police officers of Akron, a big thank you for your many extra hours and helpful deeds you did through the years.

Instead of criticism - think positive. Is there a safer, more protective, cleaner Christian town you can think of? If so, where?

May the Lord always keep us this safe. Thanks again for your support.

Hair's To You

The lady who styles my hair from time to time has assured me that a change of hair style often comes with the change of seasons. How many times have you entered the salon and had no idea what style you wanted? I've been known to say, "Whatever you think looks best" or "Make me beautiful" only to hear Donna say, "We don't do miracles here, Joyce." Funny, with the noticeable improvement when I leave, it seems close to a miracle to me.

There is a definite difference of opinion at our house on the appearance a person is supposed to make as they visit the salon. I run a brush thru my hair, hop in the car and get to the shop as quickly as possible, no make-up and nothing done to style my hair. Doug feels that I should do my hair, apply make-up and look nice. Now I ask, why would I want to style my hair when it will be washed the minute I arrive at the salon anyway? Why wear earrings when they will only have to be removed upon arrival? And, why bother with make-up when part of it will be washed away? Besides, getting your hair cut, styled or permed is a special time, a time to relax and enjoy someone else fixing your hair instead of your fighting the battle of the curls. Wouldn't it be wonderful to be able to style your hair like the professionals with so little effort?

In past years I have tried to remedy the problem of straight, lifeless hair by numerous gadgets including orange juice cans (not as bad as you might think) they were used for long hair and with nothing prickly to hurt your head. The only change made was sleeping without a pillow, my head was high enough with the cans. Plastic rollers, brush rollers, and foam curlers were tried. Bows, both large and small as well as clips, barrettes, head bands, plastic bands they never fit the contour of my head) and various combs, ribbons and yarn up to the present banana clips. In the 60's we all seemed to pattern after the Supremes, bouffant hairstyles that were smooth and sleek, puffy with curls toward the face. I wish I had all the tape I used to form those perfect curls on each side of my cheeks! I wish I had the countless hours spent on that hair. Every hair was in place, no matter how much gel and hair spray was used. I can remember getting in the car and bumping my hair on the door frame. Do you know the entire head of hair moved it was so stiff! Heaven forbid it would ever get sprinkled with rain!

The most recent concoction is a scarf. While waiting for my hair to grow a little more, I've taken to pulling it back with a scarf. Fine, as long as the wind doesn't blow! If it's windy, the scarf whips around my face and I'm constantly thinking I'll be choked to death with it! Naturally, I'm not driving with the windows down! How I wish I had the expertise of styling my hair and not having a panicky feeling half way thru and not having to explain as I walk into the office, "Well, girls this is as good as it gets." You'd think with a half dozen different brushes, an array of paraphernalia and three different electric brushes and combs I could accomplish a hairstyle without reaching for the Tylenol!

To the hairdressers of the community, "Hair's To You" for making our world a whole lot nicer!

Remember When - curly perms were called poodles?

WISTFUL YEARNING

When I was a little child
I wished I was as big as Sis,
I longed to do the things she done,
Which in child's life was a miss.

The parties and the shows,
And all teenage stuff,
Just couldn't wait to get there,
Sure I'd enjoy it so much.

Then as a teenager
An adult I longed to be.
No one to boss or jaw me,
My life I'd run with glee.

Then working at my job,
I longed to retire and rest,
Was sure with nothing to do,
Life then would be the best.

Now that I'm old and retired,
I wish that I was young.
Many things that I would do,
Many things I wish I'd done.

Akron Carnegie Library

The new books at the Akron Public Library are available to readers. These books include:

The Silk Vendetta, by Victoria Holt - For more than two decades, Victoria Holt has reigned as the unchallenged queen of romantic suspense; and now she is at her mesmerizing best as she weaves a captivating tale of passion and intrigue, family fortunes, and deadly betrayals.

A Woman of Egypt, by Jehan Sadat - Beautiful, courageous, brilliant, controversial, living in a world wholly dominated by men, Jehan Sadat defied the traditions of her country and culture. More than a witness to the tumultuous years which saw Egypt gain its freedom from British rule, she is among those who have made her country's and the world's history.

Prescription for Love, by Evelyn Clair - To her surprise Alix's artistic temperament did not deter the handsome Dr. MacBride. A new Starlight romance.

Legacy, by James A. Michener - A novel as timely as today and as timeless as truth and justice - its biographical portraits an eloquent lesson in history. A powerful story that can be read in an evening and remembered for a lifetime.

My Pride and Joy, by George Adamson - George tells the story of the two great loves in his life. One was his wife, Joy; and the other was the dozens of big cats which he has helped to set free.

You Tell On Yourself

You tell on yourself by the friends you seek, by the very manner in which you speak.

By the way you employ your leisure time, by the use you make of a dollar or dime.

You tell what you are by the things you wear, by the spirit in which your burdens you bear.

By the kind of things at which you laugh, by the record you play on your phonograph.

You tell what you are by the way you walk, by the things of which your delight to talk.

By the manner in which you bear defeat, by so simple a thing as how you eat.

By the books you chose from well-filled shelf, in these ways and more you tell on yourself.

So there's really no particle of sense, in an effort to keep up false pretense.

You tell on yourself.

"These could be the most important 3 points I've ever made."

When I'm playing basketball, 3-pointers can make a difference. And as public safety representative for Public Service Indiana, I have "3-pointers" that can save a life.

Point 1.
Overhead power lines are not insulated like home appliance cords.

Point 2.
Overhead power lines carry many thousands of volts of electricity that can injure or kill on contact.

Point 3.
Play it safe by always staying away from power lines.

If you'll remember these "3-pointers," you can help save someone from serious injury or death.

Akron 6th Grade News

by Michelle Day and Kristin Deardorff

In the 6th grade accelerated English class we are studying the Constitution. We have been learning about the Bill of Rights. We wrote a paragraph on what it would be like to live in a country without laws. We also read a play about the Constitution to understand more about the Constitution. We discussed the Pledge to the Flag. We also made a flag out of graham crackers, icing and licorice. And, we wrote a paragraph about compromising.

A sharp tongue and a dull mind are usually found in the same head.

Frustrated

water and will continue to do so.

Not everyone in the area has resorted to buying their drinking water. According to Mrs. Bowen, it would be giving up a part of the battle. Once we started, we could never stop. It scared her to think that water stored in plastic would be safer for her children than well water. The last time the water was tested at the Bowens it was still safe to drink. The family is awaiting the latest water sample results to determine if they should still drink the water. Until then, they go on drinking the water; not really sure if it is safe. Frustrating? Ask the parents and the children.

Children in the area surrounding the landfill are very much aware of what is going on. Some are scared, some want to help in the battle against pollution. Children today are more aware of what is happening than the normal adult. They study the cause and effect of pollution at school. They see it on TV. According to one mother, her children commented that their family would have to start drinking water from a bottle like they do on the Cagney and Lacey Show. Children pick up on the little things that we as adults try so hard not to realize are really happening.

As one mother said, "we are supposed to be the smartest creatures on this earth, so why are we poisoning (or allowing the poisoning of) each other? With all our modern technology, surely someone can come up with an answer out there!" Until "someone out there" does come up with some answers, the people who live in the landfill area must wait. Frustrated, these people must wait on the state chemists and even the courts to decide if the unsafe levels of chemicals found in their drinking water and the soil is coming from the landfill or from another source.

The STOP organization is so convinced that the landfill is at fault that they have filed a $1 billion law suit against the owners and operators of the Four County Landfill. The suit contends in five instances the defendants were negligent, careless and reckless in managing the facility.

The suit also alleges eight violations of Indiana statutes, including the Indiana Water Pollution Act. The suit seeks a total of $1 billion in punitive and compensatory damages for personal injuries, property damage and economic loss including the cost of alternative supplies.

As of last week, the suit was venue to Starke Circuit Court. The change of venue motion was filed by Four County Landfill Attorney George Plews.

Members of the STOP organization are frustrated at the lack of concern shown by other residents of Fulton County. According to Mr. Bowen, everyone should be alarmed. He stated that since Fulton County does not have any zoning restrictions, a landfill such as Four County could be developed in the Akron area as well as in the Leifers Ford area. According to Mr. Bowen, most of the waste dumped at the site is coming from other states. The trucks carrying what the organization believes to be hazardous waste travels all the major state highways in the county. Mr. Bowen is concerned that an accident involving one of these trucks could be dangerous and possibly fatal to the public.

Frustration is growing for members of the STOP organization. The members see other people getting involved in the fight against cocaine, crack, etc., yet the STOP members feel they too are fighting a battle against drugs. According to Mr. Bowen's illustration, a drug is a toxic chemical. Toxic chemicals kill -- no matter what the form. It can be cocaine, cyanide, or in some cases, the drinking water.

Frustration is growing because waiting seems to be the name of the game. Waiting for test results, waiting for the courts to act, waiting to see the effect of the chemicals on animals and vegetation. As Mrs. Bowen stated, "can we wait, do our families, our children, have the time to wait?" Waiting is not the only name of the game. Frustration, not being able to do a thing but wait, that's the name of the game.

Plane makes emergency landing Changes made in school calendar

During harvest season, it is not uncommon for farmers to report sightings of unidentified flying objects. But Virgil Biddinger of Rt. 2, Rochester, knew what he had spotted in the bean field and he also knew it was not flying.

Biddinger spotted the single-engine Piper Cherokee airplane which made a forced landing Sunday in the soybean field northeast of Rochester on Sunday. The pilot was not hurt, and the plane was not damaged. The pilot, Robbin Rollison of Bloomfield, had left the area airport in Rochester only seconds before he realized he had an engine problem in his four passenger plane.

Instead of circling back to the Fulton County Airport, Rollison chose to land the plane in the field owned by Mary Wease which borders Fort Wayne Road near County Road 450 East.

According to the airport manager, the intake valve in the engine was stuck and caused a compression problem.

Rollison returned to Bloomfield Sunday evening, and the plane stayed at Rochester for the necessary repair work.

This single-engine Piper Cherokee made a safe emergency landing in the soybean field owned by Mary Wease on Sunday afternoon. Pilot Robbin Rollison was sorry about flattening the bean crop; but not sorry enough to try to make it to the closest airport.

Doug Secrist among scholar semifinalists

Doug Secrist, a senior at Tippecanoe Valley High School is one of some 15,000 young men and women across the country who are semifinalists in the 33rd annual Merit Program. These academically talented high school seniors in all 50 states will have an opportunity to continue in the 1988 competition for about 6,000 Merit Scholarships worth over $23 million.

More than one million students in some 19,000 U.S. secondary schools entered the current Merit Program by taking a qualifying test, the PSAT/NMSQT, in 1986 when they were juniors. The top scorers in every state, representing about half of one percent of the state's high school graduating class, are included in the nationwide Semi-finalist pool. By publicly honoring Semifinalists, NMSC hopes to broaden their higher education opportunities and to focus a spotlight on academic excellence throughout the nation.

Clean up scheduled in Akron

Free trash pick up dates were announced at the September 22 meeting of the Akron Town Board. Free trash pick up will be October 5 for Precincts 1 and 2, and October 6 for Precinct 3. All trash should be at the curb by 7 a.m. Due to the changes at the landfill, there will be a $10.00 charge for any large appliance to be picked up. The $10 fee must be paid at the town office prior to the designated pick up day. Also large barrels of trash must be put in smaller containers to be picked up.

The town board has told the Akron police force to enforce the ordinances concerning barking dogs and dogs running loose. Owners allowing dogs to run at large are subject to a Class C infraction under the Indiana State Code. There have been numerous complaints of dogs or cats tearing open garbage that has been set out.

The board also discussed the possibility of crossing guards for both N. Mishawaka Street and E. Rochester Street. Marshall Dittman will work with the school authorities to see what can be done. Also the issue of bicycle safety and those riding bicycles was discussed. The board would like to remind riders that they must observe the same rules as autos.

Before the meeting was adjourned, the Akron Town Board set October 31 as Trick-or-Treat night in the town. The children will be allowed to gather their treats from 6 to 8 p.m. only.

The Tippecanoe Valley School Corporation 87/88 calendar was revised during the last school board meeting held on September 14, 1987. Most of the calendar remains the same, however, a change was made that will affect students on October 7 and 8, 1987, and March 2 and 3, 1988. These days had previously been used for parent/teacher conferences and teacher workshops. Oct. 7th and March 3rd were "no school" days for students in grades K-12 and Oct. 8th and March 2nd were "no school" days for Kindergarten students. The changed calendar makes Oct. 7 and 8 and March 1 and 3 half days for students in grades 1 thru 12 and half days for parent/teacher conferences and teacher inservice. Please note that Oct. 7 and 8 are both half days for students who will attend these days from their regular beginning time in the morning until dismissal at 11:30 a.m. for high school students and 12:00 noon for elementary

1-8 students. This same schedule will be in effect March 1 and 3, 1988. Kindergarten students will not be in school these days.

The only other change on the calendar is that emergency makeup days were added in case school should be closed for any reason other than those vacations scheduled on the calendar. This change is due to legislative action mandating that students attend school for 175 days during the 1987/88 school year and 180 days during the 88/89 school year regardless of any snow emergency closings or closings for any other reason. The make up days are as follows if needed: students will attend school on December 21, 22 and 23 (the first 3 days of Christmas vacation), Jan. 16 (a scheduled teacher workday), May 28th (a scheduled teacher workday) and May 31, June 1, 2, 3, and 6th. These days will only be used as necessary to make up any days that schools are closed due to emergency situations.

A new beginning..

By: J.D. Moore

The Farmer's Daughter...Not Me!

Over the years I have made the mistake of telling people I was raised on a farm. I was raised on a farm, a farm without animals. Technically, I was raised in the country - not on a farm. I have vague recollections of a few hogs and chickens but other than that, farm animals are not my expertise. This has gotten me in trouble!

Several years ago as I drove down our road my neighbor lady ran out to the road flagging me down. Thinking she might need help, I stopped the car. She asked me if I knew I had a cow in my front yard. I laughed - but she seemed serious.

It seemed she had passed our house and saw a cow standing in our courtyard. Not a plaster or ornamental cow - the real thing! I told her we would see if it was still there and sped home.

Sure enough, a real, live cow was standing next to our front door. This was it, we had to have a picture, no one would believe this!

After speeding uptown and getting film for our camera, we took several pictures while outside and some from the inside as the cow licked our window. We then preceded to scare the cow away from the door. We learned a very important lesson - NEVER SCARE A COW!

I called our neighbor and she kept calling the animal a steer. She suggested we call several of the neighbors and ask if they might be missing a steer. I called several people with each person asking, "What kind of steer is it?"

"A big brown steer" was my answer. This led to only more questions as to the type of animal. As I said, I was raised in the country and we had a farm but no animals. I described the steer as best I could leaving each person with a laugh, I'm sure. The description of big, brown, four hooves and a tail, horns and mooring just didn't help at all!

After Doug got home and found the cow huddling near our front door, he was shocked! He was even more horrified when I had told him the description I had been giving to the local farmers! Doug had been raised in town but apparently had paid more attention to the types of livestock than I had.

Just then we heard a knock at our front door. The lady was clearly relieved as she grabbed the halter on her steer. She told us they had loaded the animal onto their truck and were on their way to the locker plant when all of a sudden the steer jumped from the truck and ran off. The cow had obviously hidden itself in the shadows of our courtyard hoping to delay the locker plant. After the people searched up and down the road several times the cow had moved into the open and was found.

The steer was a beautiful animal. In the short time it was with us we heard her moo several times at us, lick our window and eye its reflection in the bigger windows. Believe me, we view steak differently than before.

This is our "New Beginning" in understanding the farmers of rural communities.

FROM MY KITCHEN WINDOW

From my kitchen window
I watched the corn grow tall,
All thru the long hot summer days,
Then saw it ripen in the fall.

I looked over at the woods,
It's beauty to behold,
The scarlet, gold and brown colors
In autumn are untold.

So I watch the changing seasons,
Summer changing
into fall,
God in His infinite wisdom,
Created beauty for us all.

Project SAFE sign up has begun

The Public Service Indiana customer offices began taking applications for Project SAFE on Sept. 22 from customers 60 and older. The state-administered program offers assistance in paying winter heating bills.

Persons age 60 and over can apply at PSI offices, their heating utility, a Community Action Against Poverty (CAAP) office or an Agency on Aging. All other applicants, age 59 and under, must apply at a Community Action Agency beginning Nov. 9, 1987.

Customers who qualified for Project SAFE funds last year still need to apply this year. Applicants need to bring complete documentation of income for each household member, a copy of their heating and electric bills and a copy of their lease if they rent rather than own. Renters who live in government-subsidized housing are eligible for Project SAFE assistance if they meet the income guidelines and are separately metered and billed for their heating or electricity.

At the Rochester office, persons age 60 and over may apply from 2 p.m. to 4 p.m., Tuesday, Wednesdays, and Thursdays.

The rights of renters

If you rent your apartment or home, what are your rights and responsibilities?

The only way to clearly define the rights and responsibilities of a renter and a property owner is with a written lease. Oral leases or understandings are legal, but they can cause misunderstandings which may lead to problems.

Written leases offer more protection to the tenant and the landlord. When considering a written lease agreement, a prospective tenant should carefully read the lease. Don't hesitate to ask questions because the lease is your source of rights and obligations.

Prospective renters can ask landowners for specific changes in the lease if they disagree with certain provisions, but there is nothing to compel the landlord to make any changes. If changes are made, make certain that you and the landlord initial the changes.

When reviewing the lease, make certain it includes the landlord's name, address and telephone number. Also, the lease should list the amount of rent, when it is to be paid and whether there is a penalty for being late or a grace period.

The lease should also state the length of the lease. The lease should list the amount of the security deposit and the terms for its return.

Renters should watch for a lease that allows a rent increase and evictions for minor alterations such as hanging pictures on walls.

Renters and landlords should agree on the person responsible for any repairs.

"Keeping Young"

When you close up your mind like a bolted door, from then on you start to grow old. When you think that you're too big to learn anymore, from then on your heart will grow cold.

And if you stop dreaming when reaching your prime, and see no far summits that tempt you to climb, you'll soon fall a victim to Old Father Time.

Day by Day you will start to grow old.

When you're stuck in the groove of your old ideas, then youth, like a bird, flies away. If you spend anxious moments in counting years, you will soon grow weary and grey.

But if when you wake you can take a bright view, you'll always look out on a world fresh and new, and Life will hold many surprises for you, and at heart you will never grow old.

Thursday, September 24 the Akron Keen-Agers had their pitch-in dinner. Lots of good food and fellowship were enjoyed by all. Our thanks to Lois and Allen Woolley, and Helen Hartzler for donating the placemats and napkins. Thanks to Geraldine Hill for baking the September birthday cake. Our deepest sympathy to Paul White on the loss of his wife. She passed away September 18. Flo was a volunteer at the Nutrition Site when this program was started at the Akron Lion's Club.

A reminder, the Blood Pressure Clinic will be held Thursday, October 8th through the services of Diane Jones, Fulton County Health Nurse.

For meal reservations, please call 893-7204 the day before you plan to join us. Between the hours of 9:00 a.m. - 12:30.

The menu for the week of October 5-9 is:

Monday - B.B.Q. sandwich on bun, California blend vegetables, perfection salad, peaches, milk, coffee.

Tuesday - Swedish meatballs, peas, carrot/raisin salad, rice, cherry cobbler, milk, coffee.

Wednesday - Barbecue chicken, mashed potatoes with gravy, buttered carrots, cranberry salad, milk, coffee.

Thursday - Ham 'n' beans, tossed salad, corn bread, chocolate cake, pineapple, milk, coffee.

Friday - Turkey with dressing, green beans, pumpkin pie, pears, milk, coffee.

It is possible to avoid some of these problems by being as selective as possible when looking at rental properties.

Don't rely solely on the landlord to tell you what is wrong with the property. Look at the plumbing, furnace and appliances. Make a note of any structural damages or defects before paying a damage deposit. If the apartment is furnished and the furniture is worn, make certain the landlord is aware of that before you agree to a security deposit.

Prospective renters should ask other renters about the landlord to determine if he is prompt in making repairs and good about keeping the building maintained.

An optimist is one who makes the best of it when he gets the worst of it.

Rev. Maurice and Marjorie Kessler just returned from Canada (north of Sioux St. Marie) where they saw the beautiful foliage of all colors. According to Rev. Kessler, Alona Bay along Lake Superior was very spectacular. The Kessler family visited this Alona Bay in 1958 when daughters, Alona and Miriam were with them and pictures were taken of Alona standing beneath the large marker of Alona Bay. The Mackinac Bridge was viewed at Sunrise and Sunset and when all lighted at night. Maurice talked with several "radio ham friends" at Gaylord and Traverse City, Michigan.

One of the most controversial incidents in the history of American sports, "Eight Men Out" tells the true story of the downfall of the Chicago White Sox, the number one team of the era, when it was discovered they had taken a bribe to lose the series to the Cincinnati Redlegs. Eight men stood trial, and although acquitted, were banned from baseball and were to go down in sports history as the infamous "Chicago Black Sox."

Based on a book of the same title by Eliot Asinof, the movie is written and directed by John Sayles, whose most recent film, "Matewan" has just been released. Midge Sanford and Sarah Pillsbury ("Desperately Seeking Susan," "The River's Edge") are producers, with Peggy Rajski as co-producer. Bob Richardson, nominated for an Oscar for "Platoon," is the cinematographer.

The film's large ensemble cast includes a mixture of rising young film stars, veteran character actors, and talented newcomers. Playing the team members are (in alphabetical order): Gordon Clapp, John Cusack, Don Harvey, Bill Irwin, Perry Lang, James Read, Michael Rooker, Charlie Sheen, David Strathairn and D.B. Sweeney.

The supporting cast includes Christopher Lloyd of "Taxi" fame, Richard Edson, Michael A. Mantel, Kevin Tighe, Michael Laskin, John Anderson, and Michael Lerner, who will play Arnold Rothstein, the money man behind the fix. Noted author Studs Terkel will portray sportswriter Hugh Fullerton and director Sayles will be Ring Lardner, a famous sportswriter of that time.

Everyone interested in being an extra in the movie can sign up by calling 236-1540, 236-1541, or 236-1542 between 3:00 p.m. and 9:00 p.m. or by registering at a participating Hook's Drug Store.

Seat belt fairy tales

Have you heard: I'm uncomfortable and too confined when I wear a safety belt.??

Belts are designed to allow you to reach necessary driving controls. The newer retractors give you even more freedom. When reaching for things that will take you away from the steering wheel, it's safer to pull off the road or ask your passenger to help.

You'll probably find that any initial discomfort caused by safety belts soon goes away. Eventually, you may even feel more comfortable wearing safety belts.

If your belt is not working correctly, see your auto dealer. Maybe your seatbelts need to be replaced. The cost of good seatbelts cannot be measured in dollars and cents. Lives are at stake.

For a bumper sticker, pin, and dashboard reminder on seatbelt safety, call Ann Chubb, Tippecanoe Valley area seat belt safety coordinator.

Avoid farm accidents

Tragic accidents involving children and forage harvesting equipment are a seasonal problem. Forage harvesting equipment is extremely dangerous. Very often an unsuspecting child becomes the victim of fast-moving augers, belts or chains. The best way to insure that your children will not be harmed by these machines is to keep them away from the equipment. Make this a safe harvest for your children.

Fast-moving harvesting equipment is dangerous. Harvesting equipment injures or kills a number of unsuspecting farmers annually. In rushing to get their crops off, many farmers forget to shut their equipment off before they unclog it or adjust it. Failing to shut off fast-moving equipment is a dangerous mistake. Don't let a simple mistake mar your harvest. Shut it off.

Each year in Indiana there are several tragic accidents involving farm machinery on highways. It makes good sense to move your equipment only in daylight hours. Unwary motorists often find out too late that implements such as tractors and combines move at a slower rate of speed than normal traffic.

To clean mildew from painted surfaces, use a medium-soft brush to scrub with a mixture of 1/2 cup trisodium phosphate, 1/2 cup household detergent, 3 quarts of water, and 1 quart of household bleach. Then paint with a mildew-resistant paint. Be sure to wear rubber gloves when using the cleaning mixture.

Cracking or alligatoring of painted wood surfaces is usually caused by applying a finish coat over an incompletely dried primer, or from too many thick coats of paint applied over the years. Before repainting, scrape off all paint which is not adhered and sand until smooth. Rinse off all dust and dirt and let dry. Prime bare wood and repaint after primer is thoroughly dry.

If you are pouring concrete around the home or farm this fall, remember to specify the quality of concrete you want delivered. Request a 6-gallon, 6-bag mix (per yard) for driveways, sidewalks, and similar uses. When pouring concrete, remember: the site preparation is as important as placing the concrete. Place at least 2 inches of sand and a 4-mil. polyethylene sheet under the concrete. Provide slope away from the site for surface and groundwater runoff to prevent frost heaving in winter.

Never return a kindness - pass it on.

Use of nuclear medicine

Did you know that this year nearly 12 million Americans will undergo a diagnostic nuclear medicine procedure? Even more important, many people unnecessarily fear the term "nuclear" and do not understand the benefits this vital medical tool provides.

The truth is, nuclear medicine procedures are more common than you think and are performed daily in hospitals across the country. In fact, one-third of hospital patients undergo a nuclear medicine procedure. These procedures, more commonly known as scans, help doctors observe the organ structure and function without performing surgery. The diagnostic procedure is simple and can take as little as fifteen minutes to perform.

First, the doctor administers a chemical compound that contains a small amount of radioactive substance, called a radiopharmaceutical. The radiopharmaceutical may be given either by injection, orally, or inhaled through a breathing device, depending on the procedure involved.

After the radiopharmaceutical is in the body, a camera allows the doctor to view a particular organ and the way it functions. The most commonly used scans image the heart, lungs, brain, liver and gallbladder. The camera is similar to an X-ray machine, but instead of emitting X-rays to make the image, the camera picks up very small amounts of radiation given off by the radiopharmaceutical within the body. A computer then produces a picture on a television screen for review by the doctor.

Nuclear medicine has allowed major advances in heart, liver and gallbladder diagnosis in the past decade. Promising new agents have been developed which are improving the diagnostic, prognostic and evaluative capabilities of nuclear medicine procedures.

Tasty, Nutritious Beef in Minutes

What kind of meals do today's families want? One example is an up-to-date and nutritious beef entree like Steak 'n Vegetable Medley. It starts with a small, lean beef eye round roast. This meat cut has less calories than any other beef cut — 157 calories, per three-ounce serving.

Steak 'n Vegetable Medley can easily meet today's time restraints. The recipe takes just half an hour to prepare and another 8 to 11 minutes to cook. Use a food processor to make the tasks of chopping and shredding vegetables even quicker. Serve panbroiled steaks over a cooked vegetable mixture for a colorful and nutrient-packed meal.

STEAK 'N VEGETABLE MEDLEY

Preparation time: 30 minutes

Cooking time: 8 to 11 minutes

|---|--|

Add cucumbers, carrots, celery salt and 1/4 teaspoon pepper and continue cooking 2 minutes. Stir in reserved spinach and heat through. In another frying pan quickly panbroil steaks over medium high heat 1 minute on each side or to desired degree of doneness. (Do not overcook.) Season with salt and remaining pepper. Serve steaks over vegetable mixture. 4 servings; 256 calories per serving.

Drugs have been with us for thousands of years

by Bill Brooks

Thousands of years ago the first hangover probably came after a caveman discovered fermented honey (mead) or fermented grapes (wine) and, being thirsty, gulped it down. After all, it relieved the tensions involved in hunting down that deer needed for supper.

Since the stuff tasted great, he drank some more right away. After all, even in Neanderthal times, if one's good, two's even better. The next morning the prehistoric head may have throbbed and the caveman undoubtedly translated it into a bad message from the primitive gods prevalent at the time.

If he didn't bring in the deer at mealtime, his mate probably asked the first angry spouse question: "Where have you BEEN all this time?"

As civilization advanced, man looked into other feel-good chemicals to smooth over stress and fatigue. Somewhere around 7000 B.C., according to excavations, there were wall paintings of yeasty, high-protein beer. A written record of prescriptions for the painkiller opium is dated about 4000 B.C.

In 1000 B.C., archeological finds indicate, there was wine in central Europe. About 200 A.D., there came pipe-smoking by Arizona Indians who believed that tobacco had religious and magical properties. In 800 A.D., the essence of wine was distilled and called "alcohol" in Arabic.

Around 1100 A.D., Moslems refined the marijuana plant into hashish and smoked it. In 1532 A.D., the Spaniard Pizarro conquered Peru and paid Indian slave labor in cocoa plants. The practice of paying laborers with drugs occurred also in Guatemala, Scotland, Egypt and Ethiopia. In 1573 A.D., Sir Francis Drake brought tobacco to England.

In 1600 A.D., an inventive Dutch physician experimented with the juniper berry and came up with gin.

By 1652, coffee houses flourished in England and in 1660 England's Duchess of Bedford introduced afternoon tea to counteract her sinking feeling. In 1806, a pharmacist announced the discovery of a substance that would put a dog to sleep - morphine. It was not until the Civil War that anesthetics were used to any extent and it is interesting to note that the first anesthetic was alcohol.

After World War II, all kinds of new drugs surfaced - LSD, PCP, barbiturates, amphetamines, designer drugs, etc.

But the reigning drug of them all remains alcohol, used by a huge percentage of our society, including the very young.

There are now an estimated 15 million alcoholics in the United States. And the only "cave-man thinking" is one that believes alcoholism is a matter of willpower, good or bad, and untreatable.

Corn program unveiled

Plans for the proposed Indiana Corn Market Development Program were recently unveiled by the Indiana Corn Growers Association (ICGA).

A corn producer referendum is the result of legislation passed by the 1987 General Assembly and formally signed into law by Governor Robert Orr June 2.

From December 3-15, 1987, corn farmers will vote via a mail ballot to establish the Indiana Corn Market Development Program. This program would provide for an investment of one-half cent per bushel of corn sold to be automatically collected at the first point of sale. President Leising commented, "At one-half cent per bushel, or two kernels per ear of corn, this represents an investment of less than one-half of one percent of gross sales by corn producers."

By law, monies collected would be used for market development, new use research and education. A full refund would be available, upon request, up to 365 days from the date of sale for producers not wishing to participate in the program.

Once in place, the program would call for creation of a 15-member council of Indiana corn producers. The Indiana Corn Marketing Council (ICMC) would have one representative from each of 15 corn districts who would be elected by other corn producers within the district. The term of office would be three years, with no council member able to hold office for more than two consecutive terms. ICMC members would not be paid for their services, but could be reimbursed for ICMC-related expenses.

Grain elevators and other first point of sale locations would be required to file quarterly reports. They would also be permitted to keep three percent of funds collected to offset administrative costs.

A corn market development program in Indiana could generate between $1.5

to $2 million in funds. Based on results from states that currently have such programs in place, Indiana corn farmers could expect at least 90 percent of this amount to be used for market development projects. Leising said that "people recognize that you can only produce as long as there is a market, and that government stocks are not a good market."

Brethren women gather for meeting

The Women's Fellowship of the Church of the Brethren met at the church for the September meeting.

The business meeting was conducted by Kay Brouette. An all church Thanksgiving dinner was planned to be held at the church, and the Christmas meal at Teels. Thank you cards were read from Diane Gearhart and Cleda Zunkel. Cards were signed for shut-ins in the community.

Jill Weaver led devotions on "Why Should I Confess?" The Bible states the need to confess sins. Another meaning of confession is confessing your faith in Christ to others. She closed with prayer.

Pastor Rogers installed Jill Weaver as the 1988 president and Deb Whistler as vice president. Edna Mae Shewman will remain the secretary and treasurer.

The remainder of the evening was spent sorting and mending clothes for relief.

The hostess Rozella Tinkey served refreshments to the fifteen members present.

In Fashion

There are a few general trends to keep in mind when selecting a fall wardrobe and accessories.

Jewelry will be important, but more selective. Wear earrings or a bracelet or a necklace—don't wear all three at one time.

Dark forest green is the most popular new color and is combined with persimmon and marigold. Black continues to be an important basic. Grey is used as the background of prints. Less purple will be seen this fall.

Very high heel pumps are worn with shorter skirt lengths and flats and mini-length heels with longer lengths.

Poise and confidence win game

If the Tippecanoe Valley fans went to the homecoming game expecting thrills, they were not disappointed. The Valley Vikings could not have planned a more thrilling game if they had tried. It looked like the Eagles of Oak Hill were going to beat the Tippecanoe Valley Vikings; it looked like it until the magic fourth quarter that is.

The host Vikings scored 14 points in final quarter after trailing 9-0 going into the third quarter of play. The win gave the 3A Vikings their fifth straight win of the season.

The Eagles took advantage of the Vikings mistakes and scored in the second quarter of play.

Valley's coach Phillips used the half-time break to go over the mistakes and talk about the team's formations. Phillips used the time to build the team's poise and confidence. Getting started in the second half on the right foot was the objective of Coach Phillips.

Although the third quarter did not go as the Viking coach had hoped, the fourth quarter made even the most doubting Thomas believe in miracles.

It all started when the Viking defense stopped Oak Hill on fourth-and-two on the Valley 25 yard line with 3:00 left in the third quarter. Fourteen plays later Steve Holloway scored from four yards out. The kick failed and Valley started the fourth quarter within three at 9-6. A 20-yard strike by Anglin hooking up with Troy Busenburg gave Valley the lead with 4:08 left in the game. Sparrow added the kick and Valley then led 13-9.

A 63-yard return by Tucker added confidence to the game and Sparrow's kick gave the Vikings a 20-9 lead with 1:50 left in the game.

Although the homecoming game was exciting, thoughts are now turned to the upcoming clash with Rochester. The Zebras are ranked No. 1 in Class 2A and are tied with the Valley Vikings and Whitko for the No. 1 position in the Three Rivers Conference. The showdown will

Comment on Sports

FOOTBALL

By Pete Fritchie

There are, each fall, certain college football games one marks down in advance. Many of these games determine conference or even national ratings.

This year the Big One is Oklahoma-Nebraska. November 21st—at Oklahoma. Depending on how good Nebraska is, and the outcome up to that time of course, this game could decide the national championship. Oklahoma is picked number one already and the Sooners seem to have a jinx over powerful Nebraska.

The Ohio State-Michigan game is always significant. Both these teams were picked in the top ten before the season began and since the Big Ten sends a team to the Rose Bowl, their meeting, at Michigan, on the same day, Nov. 21st, will be important.

If Auburn has gotten by Tennessee (not played as this is written) then the Tigers' game against their last four opponents will all be center-ring affairs Auburn was rated 4th pre-season. The last four Auburn foes are tough: Florida (Oct. 31), Florida State (Nov. 7), Georgia (Nov. 14) and Alabama (Nov. 27).

LSU looks tough this year. When LSU meets Ohio State on the 26th of this month, in Louisiana, we'll know how tough Miami is again a power. On Nov. 28th, the Hurricanes host Notre Dame—that will be a rank-making game.

The Irish have a murderous schedule, their last three opponents being Alabama (Nov. 14), Penn State (Nov. 21st) and Miami! Clemson, picked number ten in pre-season polls, has an easier schedule, and could go 9-2 or 10-1 very easily. The Clemson Tigers have to get by the traditional rival, South Carolina (Nov. 21) to make it to the top few in the polls.

Mini-grants available to teachers

Public Service Indiana is offering funds to help teachers conduct energy education projects in their classrooms.

Public Service Indiana is sponsoring a mini-grant program that will provide teachers with up to $150 for classroom projects, said Sandra McCrocklin, PSI's supervisor, public information.

All teachers working in a school served by PSI are eligible to apply. Up to 10 grants will be awarded. Teachers need to submit an application and a project proposal to be considered for a grant.

"Basically, teachers need a good idea and the desire to explore energy with their students," McCrocklin said. "You don't have to teach science to qualify. Energy education can relate in some way to practically all disciplines of study."

Teachers can obtain a grant application and a summary of 1987 mini-grant projects at their local PSI office or by writing to: Mini-grant, Public Service Indiana, 1000 E. Main St., Plainfield, IN 46168. The deadline for applying is Dec. 16. Mini-grants will be awarded in January 1988.

Is it gambling or a game of skill?

Attorney General Linley Pearson says several contest promotions making their way across Indiana use techniques common to both games of skill and gambling.

Pearson says the contests, which have been mailed to Hoosiers, ask recipients to send money along with entry blanks, surveys and coupons, making them eligible to enter a contest or claim a prize.

Pearson says those who receive the contest promotions in the mail should examine them carefully before deciding to play.

"Your chances at success are minimal at best," Pearson says. "Each time you enter one contest and pay a fee, you may expect to receive several other letters asking you to pay to enter a contest."

Pearson says some of the games amount to gambling, which is illegal in Indiana. If a game does not require any skill to win, and winners are determined by chance, then that game cannot legally be played.

"Sweepstakes, which require no fees or purchases to enter, are legal," Pearson says. "The contests we will describe border on being illegal. A court could determine that less skill than chance is needed and the games could be found to be illegal."

In one game, contestants are notified by postcard that they have won a $777 prize which can be received in cash, check or money order. To get the money, contestants are asked to send $4.77 for first class mail delivery. Contestants are asked to complete a "cash every Wednesday" game card.

The card says players will receive information on how to get more game cards, probably for another $4.77, Pearson says.

In another promotion, contestants are asked to complete bingo games in which each word carries a score. Prizes for the winner are a new convertible and $25,000 in cash, Pearson says.

This contest says players do not need any luck to win "big" in the "generous promotions" but those who want to enter the contest must send $2 or $3, depending on whether they complete a survey included in the mailing.

Pearson says the survey also requires a $2 entry fee.

Another promotion, dubbed the "Big Bucks Contest," tells recipients they are "tied" with others for the big prize. In a "tie-breaking contest" contestants receive an alphabet card similar to those used in bingo. Contestants are to complete the card by coming up with words that allow a high score. The promotion promises a word list to make the game easy.

At the bottom of the two-page notification, prospective players learn they must send $10 along with a questionnaire to pay for "processing of this form, promotional costs, postage and handling."

The grand prize $12,000.

Runner places in invitational

The Tippecanoe Valley Junior High Cross Country team competed in the Wabash Junior High Invitational which was held last weekend.

Several runners participated in the various events with the following statistics being reported:

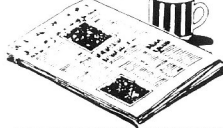

In seventh grade competition, John Minnick placed first with a time of 10:50.

Jason Engle placed 13th, Jamie Krueger 37th, Caleb Stephens 85th, and Chad Steininger 107th.

In the girls race there were 86 girls competing with Tracy Engle placing 30th.

will be awarded to the person who breaks the tie by correctly completing the game cards, according to contest rules. Contestants must complete a checklist explaining why they want $12,000. The answers include "to pay off debts," "to buy a new car," "to pay for a luxury vacation I cannot now afford," "a new home," or "new furnishings."

"These contests draw a fine line between gambling and games which require some skill. Obviously, gambling is a game of chance, and these games lead prospective players into believing they must be skilled to be a winner," Pearson says.

Pearson says Hoosiers with any questions or doubts about the legality or credibility of the games should throw away the entry blanks instead of returning them.

Drug therapy being used for Alzheimer's victims

Delusions, suspiciousness, agitation and inappropriate anger have all been characterized as unavoidable - and uncontrollable - aspects of Alzheimer's disease, the irreversible neurological disorder that affects some 2.5 million American adults.

But researchers at the recent meeting of the American Psychiatric Association said that this is a misconception fostered by "egregious neglect" of Alzheimer's disease. It is also a misconception that may be prematurely leading thousands of Alzheimer's patients into long-term facilities, a painful and often devastating decision for patients and families alike.

"Symptoms of Alzheimer's disease can be broken into cognitive and behavioral disorders. Nothing can be done about the primary memory impairment. But we have drugs that are effective in the treatment of behavioral symptoms. That's something that simply has been overlooked because, until recently, Alzheimer's disease was an illness neglected by all segments of the medical and lay community," said Barry Reisberg, M.D., associate professor of psychiatry, New York University School of Medicine.

Dr. Reisberg was part of a five-person panel at a symposium entitled "Psychosis in the Face of Dementia."

Club News

The L.T.L. met last Friday night at the Akron Library basement with their leader, Gloria Bowen. During the meeting, Nicole Black served as president; Sally Haines was secretary; and Aminta Norman was flag-bearer. The leader gave a Bible lesson, and a lesson film called "Goof-balls and Pep Pills". Jamie Reese helped with the game session; and refreshments were served by Drusilla Morgan, Annie Williams, and Alisha Conner to 32 members. The next meeting will be a Halloween Party on Oct. 23rd.

sponsored by Princeton Pharmaceutical Products, a division of Squibb United States, Princeton, N.J.

Alzheimer's disease kills more than 100,000 Americans each year. Care of its victims costs the nation $40 billion annually, because invariably, Alzheimer's victims become incapable of caring for themselves. The disease often produces erratic behavior that may result in an unmanageable situation for the patient living at home. This places a crushing burden on the families, who often have to make the painful choice to institutionalize the patient.

Costs of such long-term care can be staggering. It is estimated that of the 1.5 million nursing home patients in the U.S., 50 percent suffer from Alzheimer's disease and the cost of this care reaches approximately $20 billion annually. For individual families, the cost of institutionalizing an Alzheimer's patient is generally estimated at $20,000 to $30,000 per year. "Institutionalization, however, can be postponed if appropriate therapy is used to suppress these behavioral disturbances," said Dr. Reisberg.

Drugs - such as Prolixin* (fluphenazine hydrochloride) an antipsychotic - are commonly used to control many of the psychotic symptoms associated with Alzheimer's. More research needs to be conducted, however, to determine the exact course of therapy.

"Administering the wrong drug at the wrong stage of the disease can actually further impair cognitive function. But preliminary placebo-controlled studies have demonstrated that antipsychotic drugs can be helpful in secondary behavioral disturbances," said Murray Raskind, M.D., professor, department of psychiatry and behavioral sciences, University of Washington, Seattle. "These drugs must be given with the greatest precision, because too often elderly patients respond in an unpredictable manner to drug therapy."

"The progress of Alzheimer's disease is unfortunately - inexorable and predictable," added Dr. Reisberg. "In our studies, the majority of the patients exhibited the same symptoms at certain stages of the disease. By examining symptoms we can pin down the course of the disease, which will lead us to a correct drug therapy regimen for control of behavior problems."

1987 Farm Finance Report

Data from the 1986 Farm Costs and Returns Survey (FCRS) collected by the National Agricultural Statistics Service during February and March 1987 were used to assess financial conditions of farm operators. This report covers the eleven Midwest States which includes Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, Nebraska, North Dakota, South Dakota, and Wisconsin. Comparisons of farm assets, debts, income, and expenses for each state and the region are included.

The average debt-to-asset ratio for all farms in the Midwest States was 0.28, a decrease from 0.32 in 1985. While the debt-to-asset ratio has decreased for most states, Nebraska, South Dakota, and Wisconsin were virtually unchanged. The range of average debt-to-asset ratio ranged from 0.18 in Missouri to 0.36 in Iowa.

The debt-to-asset ratio is considered a primary measure of whether a farm will have cash flow difficulties. It is computed by dividing the total of all debts by the total of all assets. As a general rule, farmers with debt-to-asset ratios of less than 0.40 do not have serious financial problems.

The survey results indicate Missouri has the highest percent of farmers with no debt while Nebraska has the lowest percent of farmers with a debt-to-asset ratio between 0.01 and 0.40 while Nebraska has the highest percentage. Missouri has the lowest percent of farmers with a debt-to-asset ratio greater than 0.40 while North Dakota, followed closely by South Dakota, has the highest percentage.

Farms with debt in the Midwest had an average debt-to-asset ratio of 0.34. Farms with a ratio greater than 0.40 had an average debt-to-asset ratio of 0.70.

Farms in the Midwest States averaged $267,000 in assets for all farms. Farms with debt had an average of $302,000 in assets while farms with a debt-to-asset ratio greater than 0.40 had an average of $278,000 in assets. The highest average value of assets for all farms was $383,000 in North Dakota. The lowest average value was $176,000 for Missouri.

The average debt for all farms in the Midwest was $77,000. Farms with debt averaged $103,000 per farm while farms with a debt-to-asset ratio greater than 0.40 averaged $195,000. The state with the highest average debt for all farms was North Dakota with an average of $125,000 per farm. The state with the lowest average debt for all farms was Missouri with $31,000 per farm.

The average net worth of all farms in the Midwest was $190,000. The average net worth of all farms with debt was $199,000 while the average net worth of farms with a debt-to-asset ratio greater than 0.40 was only $84,000.

worth for all farms and farms with debt with an average net worth of $258,000 and $256,000 respectively. Michigan farms with a debt-to-asset ratio greater than 0.40 have the highest average net worth for this group with an average of $138,000. Missouri farms have the lowest average net worth for all three groups with averages of $145,000 for all farms, $149,000 for farms with debt, and $53,000 for farms with a debt-to-asset ratio greater than 0.40.

Gross cash farm income for the Midwest States averaged $77,000 per farm. Operating expenses, excluding interest, averaged $52,000 per farm. Interest expense averaged $8,000 per farm. This gives an average net farm income of $17,000 per farm. Farm income does not include income from off-farm employment.

Nebraska had the highest average farm income of $123,000 per farm, whereas Missouri had the lowest with $36,000 per farm. Nebraska farms had the highest average operating expenses of $86,000 per farm. Missouri farms averaged $26,000 of debt for the lowest average. Nebraska and North Dakota farms had the highest average interest expense with $11,000 per farm. Missouri had the lowest average with $4,000 per farm. The state with the highest net farm income was North Dakota with an average of $31,000 per farm while Missouri had the lowest with an average of $6,000 per farm.

Interest made up 13.3 percent of the total farm expenditures for the Midwest. This percent ranged from a low of 11.3 percent in Kansas and Nebraska to a high of 14.9 percent in Indiana.

Ag Sunday October 25

Agriculture Awareness Sunday, a reminder that rural faith remains strong in Indiana, will be observed on October 25, according to Judith A. Carley, Indiana Farm Bureau, Inc., women's department director.

Farm Bureau women are urging the pastors of their churches to use a farm person to take part in the liturgy on that Sunday. They are also recommending responsive readings with agricultural references.

In some cases, farm volunteers are visiting Sunday School classes and talking with children about life on the farm and ways farm families feel close to God as they work under the skies and in the fields.

A list of scripture references and hymns appropriate for this Sunday observance are available from the Indiana Farm Bureau women's department, P.O. Box 1290, Indianapolis, IN 46206, phone 317-263-7830.

Families recognized

Six local farm families are being honored by the state for their historical ties and dedication to Indiana agriculture. The local families were among 46 from throughout the Hoosier state to receive Hoosier Homestead awards this week at the State Capitol in Indianapolis. Hoosier Homestead awards recognize farms which have been owned by the same family for 100 years or more. Lt. Governor Mutz, Indiana's commissioner of agriculture, was on hand to present the awards.

Families being honored from Senate District 18 include: Jack and Betty Moss of Brimhurst, Ivan L. Scott of Delphi, Betty Gochenour Moss of Brimhurst, Floyd VanMeter of Kewanee, Howard A. Weir and Edna Genevieve Weir of Rochester and Mildred J. Binkerd, Ray K. and Carolyn J. Hopkins of Peru.

Now you know

It's true that termites do more than $750 million of damage each year in this country. But, according to International Wildlife magazine, their ecological good may outweigh the economic harm. Of the 2,000 species, only about 10 percent cause any economic damage at all. On the other hand, all of them benefit us because they recycle vast quantities of cellulose, making its atoms available to living plants!

Apple Festival of Kendallville

The second annual Apple Festival of Kendallville will take place on Saturday, October 3rd from 10:00 a.m. to 6:00 p.m. and Sunday, October 4th from noon to 6:00 p.m. at the Noble County Fairgrounds in Kendallville, Indiana. This celebration of the apple season in an old-fashioned pioneer manner is expected to draw thousands of Kendallville natives and visitors.

Many activities and programs will be offered during the Apple Festival which can be enjoyed by the whole family whether browsing through apple and pioneer displays and demonstrations, taking a free horse drawn wagon ride, joining in on some apple contests and playing pioneer children's games, watching the antics of backwoods women Buckeye and Molly, picking up some antiques and collectibles or just listening to the charming old time sounds of dulcimers at the entertainment stage. Some may enjoy the rugged Lumberjack competition with power sawing, chopping, and one man bucksaw contests, or maybe the William Tell Bow and Arrow Shoot. There will also be lots of delicious foods including many apple delicacies: ham and beans, chili, and caramel corn cooked in black kettles over open fires; a hog roast; and even cider slush and green apple cotton candy! Visitors may also want to stop at the Kendallville Library to see the Art Show or at the apple orchard to do some apple picking.

There is no admission charge for the Apple Festival of Kendallville, however, there will be a $1.00 parking fee which will allow unlimited parking on the fairgrounds during the two days. Overnight camping facilities are available at the Bixler Lake Campground in Kendallville.

The Apple Festival of Kendallville is sponsored by the News-Sun, Campbell and Fetter Bank, Steve West Motors, and Roger's Markets along with many other local businesses, community organizations, and individuals.

Emery joins Soil Conservation agency

Carolyn Emery has been employed by the Indiana Department of Natural Resources (IDNR), Division of Soil Conservation, to provide additional soil erosion control technical assistance in Fulton, Cass and Pulaski counties. The addition of Carolyn Emery to the soil conservation team, made up of the U.S.D.A. Soil Conservation Service, the Fulton, Cass and Pulaski soil and water conservation district(s), and other U.S.D.A. agencies, will strengthen the soil conservation movement in Indiana. A total of 46 (IDNR) erosion control technicians will be on the job throughout the state.

The goals of the state-funded "T by 2000" program are: by the year 2000, soil erosion should be reduced on each acre of land to its tolerable limit (T) or below; and by the year 2000, all off-site sedimentation should be controlled using the best practical technology. The tolerable limit (T) is the maximum level at which soil erosion can occur on a parcel of land and still permit crop productivity to be sustained economically and indefinitely.

Scholarships. Semifinalists must first become Finalists by meeting high academic standards, being fully endorsed and recommended by their high schools, taking the SAT and confirming their qualifying test performance, and submitting information about their school and community activities, personal interests, and goals. Approximately 13,500 (90%) of the Semifinalists are expected to advance to Finalist standing and to compete for Merit Scholarships in 1988. About 44 percent of the distinguished Finalists will receive a Merit Scholarship, and all winners, regardless of the type of award offered, will be chosen from the Finalist group.

Every Finalist will be considered for one of 1,800 National Merit $2,000 scholarships, awards that are distributed on a state representational basis according to each state's percentage of the total of U.S. 12th graders. Winners will be selected by a committee of college admission professionals who will judge which Finalists in each state have the strongest combination of academic and extracurricular accomplishments. The single-payment "National" awards are supported by grants to NMSC from companies and businesses and by undersigned Merit Program funds.

Approximately 2,800 four-year Merit Scholarships will be offered by colleges and universities and only Finalists who wish to attend a sponsor institution will compete for these awards. Winners will receive stipends ranging from $250 to $2,000 for each of the four years of study at the sponsor college.

What to Look for in a Heating and Cooling Professional.

If you have some good heating and air conditioning questions, you need some good answers. And a STAR to back them up.

STAR stands for Special Training and Recognition. It's a voluntary certification program developed by the Refrigeration Service Engineers Society (RSES). It thoroughly covers important aspects of electric home and commercial heating and cooling, especially those relating to heat pump technology, diagnosis and installation.

STAR is a rigorous testing and evaluation that, frankly, many dealerships can't live up to. But those that did now have a STAR to show for it.

There are lots of choices in heating and air conditioning comfort. That's why your first choice should be a STAR.
