Raising the south wall of John and Donna Loer's future home in Akron are students of TVHS's Building Trades class. Overseeing the construction is Ken Murphy, teacher of the Building Trades class for 16 years. Ken recalls when Akron and Mentone were separate high schools and they built two homes a year. Now, with the consolidation, TV begins one project on the first day of school and finishes their home by the last day of school.

With the foundation already poured, students of the Building Trades class will learn about and do the work of completing the rest of the home, including plumbing, electrical, laying brick, roofing, siding, etc., and as the project nears its end, pouring cement steps.

The Loer's home will consist of half brick and half siding and the race is on to complete the framing and roof before winter.

administration office to adopt the budget. The vote was unanimous for both the budget and the capital projects fund.

Extra curricular assignments were approved as follows: Linda Coffin will be the Akron girls basketball coach and will no longer coach volleyball, Jennifer Kline will be the Akron volleyball coach, Brenda Self will no longer coach Akron 7th grade girls basketball, Chris Campbell will no longer coach Akron 6th grade girls basketball, Chris Kindig will coach Akron 7th grade boys basketball.

No residents appeared at the meeting to speak concerning any items on the agenda.

Labor Day Travel News

As the summer season draws to a close, the Indiana State Police Department encourages motorists who are planning a trip during the Labor Day travel period to allow plenty of time due to the high volume of vehicles and possible construction projects which might cause a delay. State Police will take part in many traffic safety programs during this travel time.

Roadblocks will be conducted throughout the state with the Sellersburg District taking part in a total District project which means every officer from the District will make a special effort towards removing drunk drivers from the roadways. Other projects which will occur during Labor Day travel will be: Operation C.A.R.E. (Combined Accident Reduction Effort); D.U.I.E.P. (Driving Under the Influence Enforcement Project); Operation Buckle Down; and, Project 55 (Marion County only). The Indiana Department of Transportation will continue to pay Troopers to work days off on special construction site details helping to ensure the safety of construction workers.

The Governor's Council on Impaired and Dangerous Driving Office of Traffic Safety has predicted that 10 fatalities will occur during this travel period which begins at 6 p.m., September 4, and ends at midnight, September 7. In 1991, nine people were killed during the Labor Day travel period.

The State Police also remind motorists that many

Letter to the Editor

Attention Citizens of Akron

Kappa Delta Phi Sorority, with the support of the Akron Park Board has undertaken a "Rejuvenate the Park" campaign. It is our hope that with the help of area businesses, area service groups and the people of Akron Community we can improve the looks and function of our park.

Some of our objectives for the park are to raise funds to purchase new equipment, repair or dismantle any existing equipment that is in disrepair, improve the safety factor of new and existing equipment (ie. placing a recommended safety material under equipment) and improve the comfort of the park by purchasing benches, water fountains, trash bins and such items.

At this point in time we feel we need to put as much focus and energy into preserving Akron as a community. Improving the park facilities enhances Akron as a town that is attractive to those living here and the surrounding rural area.

The "Rejuvenate the Park" committee has set a goal of $10,000 to be raised by next spring. As a private citizen, if you can help us by offering a monetary donation, a pledge to help with labor or to purchase a specific piece of equipment, it would be greatly appreciated. All donations of money, labor, equipment and supplies will be duly recognized by the local media.

All donations will be placed in a special bank account until we are able to determine what we will be able to do for our park. Donations can be sent to: "Rejuvenate the Park" fund, c/o Lisa Harris, P.O. Box 640, Akron, IN 46910, phone 893-7232.

Valley coach both optimistic and anxious about season

Head football coach Scott Bibler has mixed feelings about the football season. Eleven of his 46 players are seniors this year but 7 of them didn't play or letter last year as the Vikings fought a 5-5 campaign.

Bibler said, "I thought we should have done better than 5-5 last year. Things don't always work out like you think they should. But I feel positive about this season. A lot will depend on how fast the seniors who didn't play last year get into the swing of things."

The Vikings have six returning starters including quarterback Ryan Bowers, wingback Scott Finney, lineman Scott Backus, senior lineman Ben Baker, offensive lineman and linebackers David Sleeth and Scott Sechrist.

Bowers threw 1,288 yards last year and Bibler said he has seen improvement in Bowers' physical and mental skills in practice. It looks like Valley may be doing more shooting this year.

Scott Hatfield, who lettered in his sophomore year, is one of the five candidates for replacing 755 yd rusher Greg Prater. The others include Scott Finney, James Hall, Jeremy Cox, and Rick Shoemaker.

Bibler will be stressing speed on defense, getting the ball to as many people as possible. He would also like to see the home-field advantage return to Death Valley. The Vikings lost all four of their home games in the regular season a year ago. The Vikings have the potential to turn that around.

Labor Day Travel...

Continued from front page schools are back in session and to be aware of the school buses traveling the roadways and students walking to and from the schools. Please make every effort for safe travel both during the Labor Day holiday weekend and everyday travel on Indiana's roads.

The Scheerer Insurance Agency in Mentone is a multi-line agency offering all commercial lines, personal life and health, SR 22's and bail bonding. They feature Allstate Insurance but also have access to seven mutual and seven substandard companies.

The company has offices in Mentone, Wabash and North Manchester. The Mentone office is run by agent Gary Madlem and customer service representative Carol Carter.

The business, previously Moriarty Insurance, was purchased by George Scheerer February 15, 1990.

Madlem lives in Rochester where he served with Farm Bureau Insurance for 5 years before coming to Mentone. He is especially pleased to be able to offer Allstate Insurance. Madlem said Allstate doesn't often choose an independent agent to carry their line.

The Scheerer Insurance Agency was recognized by Allstate Insurance for production leadership during 1991 among Independent Agents representing Allstate. The Mentone office contributed significantly to the production achievements.

George Scheerer and Lorin Leffel, agents with the Scheerer Agency in North Manchester, attended the March agent's dinner for Allstate Insurance at the Radisson Hotel in Indianapolis to receive recognition as the 1991 Indiana TOP Agency in automobile policy production. The Scheerer Agency was presented a TOP Agency plaque and was also recognized as the second place producer of property policies. David Hanna, the Independent Agency Manager for Indiana, presented the agency with a weather channel radio for winning the Forecaster II award for exceeding the 1991 Allstate agency production goal for the North Manchester and Mentone offices.

Allstate, a national insurance company with a BEST financial rating of A+, offers auto, home, business, and life insurance policies nationally and through a select network of small town independent agencies. Allstate is the second largest writer of automobile insurance in the United States.

Carter is also a bus driver for Mentone School. She lives in Rochester with her husband and two daughters. She said as a customer service representative, she enjoys meeting the customers and helping them deal with their insurance needs.

The office is open Monday through Friday from 8:30 a.m. until 3:00 p.m. Clients will be seen after 3:00 p.m. and on Saturdays by appointment only.

Mentone C of C to offer brochure

The Mentone Chamber of Commerce decided the time has come to offer a brochure including information about what Mentone has to offer. OraBelle Meredith and Rita Simpson have been kept busy answering letters from people as far away as Colorado who want to know about Mentone. The most recent was from a retired Lt. Colonel who plans to visit Mentone in a few weeks with the intention of relocating here next year.

The Chamber plans to cover the printing costs of the brochures once they have gathered all the information and chosen someone to design them.

In other business: Meredith reported the purchase of a section of bleachers to be used for tractor pulls, variety shows, etc. The bleachers were purchased from the Tippecanoe Valley School Corporation. They sat on the visitors' side of the football field and were damaged when they flipped over the fence. Craig Welding is handling repairs.

The Chamber agreed to give a donation to the Tippecanoe Valley Band Boosters for their help at the fair stand this year.

Melody Craig asked the Chamber about the possibility of donating a blood pressure finger cuff to the Nutrition Site in Mentone. She said the Nutrition Site has been trying to raise the money for the purchase. It was agreed to fund the purchase. Simpson commented, "Hey, we're going to be over there using them before you know it!"

The Chamber agreed on the purchase of three additional Christmas decorations and decided to hold their next meeting at Ace Hardware on Sept. 15, using the time as a working session to check out the Christmas lights; pending approval from Ace Hardware.

Before closing the meeting, the need for new members for the Chamber was discussed, with emphasis on getting more men to serve on the board.

Lisa Harris, member of Psi Kappa Chapter, recently attended the 65th National Kappa Delta Phi Sorority Convention at the Holiday Inn, On-The-Bay at the Embarcadero, San Diego, CA. She served as Delegate for Psi Kappa Chapter, Akron.

"Whales, Sails & Pirate Tales" was the theme used by the hosting chapter, Eta Omega of La Mirada, CA.

On the national level, Kappa Delta Phi Sorority provides scholarships to Physical and/or Occupational Therapy students. At the convention, the delegation voted to continue their National Welfare Project and a check in the amount of $5,000 will be presented to the American Occupational Therapy Foundations, Inc. which will administer the scholarships to students in the field of occupational therapy. A monetary donation will also be made to Feed the Children Charities, Oklahoma, City, Oklahoma, for the children of the Appalachian Region.

Individual chapters raise money and volunteer time for various civic projects in their respective communities. Over the past year, the total Kappa Delta Phi Sorority Chapters contributed approximately $90,000 towards charities in their local communities and volunteered 51,000 hours in civic service. For the year 1992-93, Kappa Delta Phi Chapters will continue with another National Project for chapters in their local communities, "Kids Depend on People".

On the third day of the convention, national officers were elected for the 1992-93 term. The 1993 National Convention will be held next June in Cincinnati, Ohio.

FAITH GIVES CREDIT TO WORK FOR OUR ENVIABLE LIFESTYLE

The work we've done has been the way
We've earned the life we live today.
The farmer with his fields of wheat
Provides the food for us to eat.
The worker in the factory
Assembles with efficiency
Each necessary home appliance
That's conceived by modern science.

Bible passages we've read
Declare that man must earn his bread;
And we've become, by this decree,
A model for the world to see.
Thus, from the way that we've progressed,
Our nation has indeed been blessed.
So on the Sabbath, go and pray,
Then celebrate on Labor Day.

Gene Hughes Family Man - EMT Factory Worker - Athletic Trainer

Gene Hughes stands next to his 1965 Mustang he received for his 25th wedding anniversary. (Photo by Rosa Hatfield).

by Rosa Hatfield

Serving as a volunteer trainer for the Tippecanoe Valley High School athletics program has been a unique experience for Gene Hughes. He became involved when his sons played football in junior high, taking care of injuries and keeping stats during the games. Eight years ago, he was asked to join the high school program. Coach Phillips used to say he was the leading ground-gainer for the year.

Hughes began training as an EMT in 1974 and became Mentone's first certified EMT in January of 1976. He said at first when he was asked to tape the boys up and send them back out on the field, he wouldn't do it. It went against everything he had been taught. EMT's tape people to immobilize them until further treatment is available.

However, after working with Dr. Krizmanich, Physical Therapist Tom Johnson, and the Indiana Athletic Trainers Association, he learned when it is ok to tape them and let them play and the proper methods to use.

Hughes works with the football, wrestling, and basketball programs as well as the conference track meets and the girls sectional meets. Last year, he covered four games a week but has limited it to three this year.

"Working a full time job at Donnelley, covering my duties with the EMS, taking a little time out for my family, and covering the games, there's just not enough time to do all I would like to do," said Hughes.

Working closely with the players over the years, Hughes has learned to know their pain tolerance, to know which ones make a big deal over minor scrapes and when to listen to a player who says he is hurt. He said the most rewarding aspect is knowing that the players trust him.

"They really listen to me. And so do the coaches," said Hughes. "If I say a player can't go back out, the coaches don't send him out, even when it puts the game in jeopardy. Sometimes the hardest ones to deal with in that case are the players. They are disappointed at being pulled out of a game and they grumble a bit, but they have learned to trust my judgment."

Hughes said the most serious injuries usually happen in football. Wrestlers and basketball players get banged around a lot but their injuries aren't usually serious, however, there are exceptions.

Two years ago, Hughes faced a difficult case when a wrestler from Tippecanoe Valley broke his neck during a tournament at Rochester. The boy was scared and screaming but Hughes was able to convince him to remain still until he could apply traction. A neurosurgeon on the case later commended Hughes for his actions, saying if the boy had been allowed to move his arm, he could have ended up a quadriplegic or worse.

"Sometimes I make a wrong call," said Hughes, "but it is almost always on the side of caution. I have sent kids to the hospital thinking they may have a broken bone and it turned out they didn't. But, I play it safe for their sake. If I don't think they can safely re-enter the game, I don't let them play."

Gene and Bea Hughes have been married for 27 years and have 4 children. Their oldest son Joe, 26, lives near Claypool with his wife, Angie. Mark, 25, lives with his wife, Shawnee, and their two year old son Derek in Mentone. Daughter Teresa, 24, lives at home and Rebecca, 21, is a senior at Indiana University.

For their 25th wedding anniversary, Hughes received a 1965 Mustang.

"When Bea and I were first married, we had a '64 1/2 Mustang coupe," he recalls. "As our family grew, we had to sell it. She says this one's mine; I say it's ours. Everyone should get a 25 year old car for their 25th anniversary."

Hughes, a computer operator, has worked at Donnelley for 28 years. He is on call for the EMS about 60 hours every three weeks. In his spare time, he enjoys golfing; playing the piano, something he has done since he was six years old; watching sports, listening to music, reading, and swimming.

"We have a pool in our back yard," said Hughes, "But I haven't had time to use it much this summer. Both days that the weather was nice, I was gone."

Hughes said the thing he enjoys most is simply spending time with his wife and family.

Robinson's Racing Pigs at Plymouth Blueberry Festival

The most popular variety attraction at fairs and festivals in North America is Pig Racing. Robinson's Racing Pigs will be featured at this year's Marshall County Blueberry Festival in Plymouth at the Festival Grounds from September 5 through Sept. 7.

Robinson's Racing Pigs is the oldest and largest operator of touring pig races operating out of their winter quarters in Hillsborough County, south of Plant City. No pun intended, but Robinson's race Picnic hams.

"The unique thing about pig racing is that it puts pigs in a different perspective," said owner Carlota Robinson.

"People see pigs, in their minds eye lounging in a barnyard; little do they realize that a pig can do a 100 meter dash in eleven seconds while the fastest football player in the National Football League, Washington Redskins Cornerback Darrell Green requires 10.08 seconds to cover the same distance and Olympic athlete Florence Griffith Joyner requires 10.49 seconds for a like sprint."

"Pigs are people animals, they love it when a crowd of people cheer them onto victory and they are extremely competitive. Horses need riders to guide them around the track, dogs need a mechanical rabbit, but pigs just need an Oreo cookie in their tray at the end of the 150 foot oval track." (The losers get crumbs, by the way).

Robinson's Racing Pigs are proud of the fact that they are licensed through the USDA under the animal welfare act.

"The pigs are treated like the great stars they are with shampoos, high protein pig chow and lots of love and affection. They are our children," says Carlota.

Lt. Gov. and Commissioner of Agriculture Frank O'Bannon, at the Indiana soybean producers' exhibit at the State Fair Thursday, said that "the soybean crop could break the record this year." O'Bannon and Governor Evan Bayh were on hand to select the winners for the $500 Grocery-Shopping Spree contest sponsored by the Indiana Soybean Development Council and the Indiana Soybean Growers Association.

"Hopefully," O'Bannon said, "there won't be an early frost. According to the people at Purdue, the crop is rated 70% good and 7% excellent. Last year at this time it was only 14% good and excellent combined."

In spite of the frost, wind, and hail, O'Bannon said that this year's crop was likely to exceed last year's record crop.

O'Bannon went on to draw the winners' names from the contest asked entrants at some 78 Indiana County Fairs to name the only item in a display of 40 food items that did not contain soybeans or soybean products. Of the over 25,000 participants, more than 5000 guessed the right answer, which was the Gerber Turkey Vegetable baby food.

O'Bannon drew three winners' names. They were Thelma Sweany of Austin, Indiana; Margaret Miller of Freedom, Indiana; and Rex Gentis of Bluffton, Indiana.

Each winner will get to spend $500 on a grocery shopping spree. The contest was designed to encourage shoppers to read labels and to increase awareness of the soybean's nutritional value and the wide variety of foods that are made from Indiana soybeans.

Mentone needs EMT's

Gene Hughes, Mentone resident and president of the 4 Way Ambulance Emergency Service, said they are in desperate need of people willing to take the training and become certified as EMT's.

"My biggest fear is that we will have to close down the ambulance service," said Hughes. "Our workload is nearly impossible. We now have only nine certified EMT's trying to provide 24 hour coverage."

The 4 Way Ambulance Emergency Service covers the towns of Mentone, Burket, Palestine, Atwood and Talma and the townships of Harrison, Franklin, Seward and Newcastle.

"With such a small staff, you get a lot of burn-out," said Hughes. "We are on call for 12 hours, five consecutive days every three weeks. We have had to omit having a regular crew on weekends and rely on the Multi-Township Emergency Service for coverage during that time."

There are classes starting at Kosciusko Community Hospital in Warsaw on Saturday, Sept. 12 and at Woodlawn Hospital in Rochester on Tuesday, Sept. 8. For more information about these classes, contact Kay Church at KCH, Kim Higgins at Woodlawn, or call Gene Hughes in Mentone.

Hughes said the 4 Way Ambulance Emergency Service will pay for the classes. It takes approximately 8 months to complete the classes and become a certified EMT.

"Many people don't sign up because they think they can't handle the negative aspects of the job. In reality, you are so busy just doing the job, that those things don't bother you so much at the time. The relief on peoples' faces when we pull up at the scene is so great that it makes the rest tolerable."

Hughes was the first certified EMT in Mentone. He took classes in 1974 but couldn't take the certification exams until late 1975 and received his certification in January of 1976. At that time, 108 hours were required for certification, now it takes 130 to 140 hours and the requirements are more all the time.

By March of 1993, the service will upgrade the EMT-D level. This level will allow them to use a defibrillator, maintain IV's, and use an intubation type airway.

Hughes said they often stop between here and Warsaw now to hook up with the Multi-Township Emergency Service because they are paramedics and can start IV's and perform other life-saving measures that EMT's aren't trained for.

"We have a real good working relationship with those guys," said Hughes.

The service does not receive any tax dollars but relies on people paying their bills and donations. Hughes said donations are always welcomed but the desperate need is for manpower.

"We absolutely, positively have to have people...not in six months, but today!" said Hughes.

Akron Business of the Week

Balloon Express

Nancy Tilden displays some of the gifts available from Balloon Express.

by Tonia Weller

The people of Akron no longer need to go to Rochester or Warsaw if they want to send balloons to a friend. Balloon Express, 215 W. Walnut Street, can provide balloons for all occasions and delivers throughout the area.

Owner Nancy Tilden started the business in her home last May. "I had a friend who wasn't feeling well and I wanted to send her some balloons, then I realized I was going to have to go to Rochester or Warsaw and I didn't have time," Nancy recalls. As she thought more about it, Nancy decided other people would probably also appreciate the convenience of a balloon shop in Akron. "I decided, maybe I'll just give it a try and see how it goes," she says.

Nancy's husband Jeff's automotive repair shop is located next door to their home. She does the bookwork for the business and also makes frequent runs for parts. "A balloon business was something I could do at home and still be able to help Jeff," she says. "It seemed like a good idea."

Balloon Express offers latex and mylar balloons both individually and in various size bouquets. Delivery is free within the town of Akron and available for a nominal fee to Mentone, Rochester and Warsaw. All sizes, styles, colors and shapes of balloons are available including the new doughnut shaped Geo balloons, confetti filled balloons and fluorescent colors. The mylar balloons will stay inflated for about three weeks and the latex balloons are treated with Hifloat which doubles their lifespan.

Nancy offers a number of creative items to weight the balloons including stuffed bears and bunnies, magazines, mugs filled with candy or potpourri, candy bars or Crayons. A balloons bouquet can be custom designed to fit any occasion. A large selection of the shiny mylar balloons is on hand at all times and, in addition, Nancy says she can get any other design a customer wants in two days.

Nancy also makes dried flower arrangements and swags which she sells through Country Corner Farm Market's craft shop, in Rochester. She found that her floral basket designs combined with balloons made very popular gifts for Mother's Day.

Although the shop has no set hours, Nancy says Balloon Express is open "anytime you can catch me. Days, evenings, weekends, really almost anytime."

Balloons have increased tremendously in popularity over the past few years. "They're inexpensive and cheery," Nancy says. "They are great when you don't know what else to give and kids would rather have balloons." The colorful, festive balloons are also used as party decorations and they're not just for kids' parties anymore. In recent years they have been used more and more frequently as decorations for graduations, weddings and receptions. Nancy is looking forward to preparing her first balloon archway and large spiral formation. Balloons can be substituted for flowers for almost any occasion.

"It's so much fun to deliver balloons to someone who doesn't know they're getting them. They just ooh and ah," Nancy says. "I've lost a few though. It seems like the wind always picks up when I head for the van." Now if she's going very far on a delivery, Nancy will fill a couple extra balloons, just in case one escapes.

She has also learned how easily the ribbons on the balloons can tangle. "On my first delivery to the school, I had five or six bouquets in the van. I had them too close together and by the time I got down there and opened the door they were all tangled. So I came back home and started over."

The weather has an effect on the helium used to inflate the balloons. "In hot weather the helium expands, so you don't want to fill them up too far or they'll burst. I've burst quite a few, but I'm learning," Nancy laughs. In the winter, when the balloons are taken out in the cold, they deflate. "They look like I didn't put enough in them, but then as soon as you take them back in a warm house, they expand again."

Balloon Express is also offering kids' birthday party packages for busy mothers. Included in the package are a cake baked by Lisa Adams, a birthday banner, and balloons with M & M's for party favors and decorations. Color coordinated paper plates, cups and napkins are also available, if ordered in advance.

Nancy understands the need for convenient packages like these. She is a busy mother herself. She and Jeff have been married 17 years and have two children: Ryan, a freshman at Tippecanoe Valley and Wendy, age ten. With both Nancy's and Jeff's businesses based at home, the Tilden household is a very busy place.

The next time you need to send a gift, remember Balloon Express. Give Nancy a call at 893-7493 or stop by the pleasant balloon showroom she has set up in her Walnut Street home.

Niconza Baptist Church

Niconza Baptist Church, on the Wabash/Miami county road near Disko will celebrate its 150th anniversary, September 20, with a country carry-in dinner. Arrangements are made to have a tent just north of the church that day. The noon meal will be served there. Past pastors will be the guest speakers. Gene Schwenk will speak in the morning, and Guy Boatright will speak in the afternoon service.

Niconza Church was organized in 1842, and David Lewis preached from Romans Chapter 6:6. Membership began with nine people, then 40, and in 1867, 73.

By 1950, 32 men had served as preachers and 16 served from 1950 to 1992.

Niconza was named after an honorable Indian Chief that lived in the area.

Andrew Onstott offered an acre of land to have a church near the cemetery, on the west side of the road. The members gratefully accepted and the first church was built. It burned, and the present church built in 1899. The addition of modern conveniences keep the church comfortable. Three Sunday School rooms were added, and the basement finished. Later, the vestibule was widened to allow restrooms and a nursery.

The parsonage is the home of the present pastor, Alan Bladsl, his wife, Michelle, daughter, Rachel, and son, Ryan. They have raised a good garden, and chickens, and are finding out what country living is all about.

Sunday School begins at 9:30 a.m. with the church service at 10:30 a.m. The carry-in dinner will begin at 12:30 followed by a 2 p.m. service.

The public is welcome.

Safety bolstered on affordable Corsica

Chevrolet's compact Corsica LT has been upgraded with safety features and more power.

Auto safety experts agree about the merits of active restraint vs. passive restraint.

The average American consumer tends to favor passive restraint.

Passive safety includes seat belts, door-impact side beams, reinforced bumpers and air bags - equipment that protects the driver and passengers when an accident happens.

Active restraint allows the driver to avoid accidents: all-weather tires, four-wheel drive and anti-lock braking systems (ABS).

With consumer interest in safety on the rise, airbags and ABS, the most effective - and technologically complicated - safety systems have become popular with car buyers.

Since a driver-side airbag and four-wheel ABS each can add $750 to $1,000 to the retail price of a new car, both systems usually are standard only on the most expensive cars.

A driver-side airbag or four-wheel ABS is becoming standard equipment in the $10,000 to $25,000 range, but few cars offer both without added charge.

Chevrolet's compact Corsica LT sedan has emerged as an affordable safety leader with GM's ABS VI and a driver-side airbag included in the $11,000 base price.

Chevrolet made changes that both improve the Corsica's value and differentiate the image from GM's other compacts. The standard driver-side airbag isn't even an option on the new Buick Skylark, Oldsmobile Achieva and Pontiac Grand Am.

And Chevy mounts the Corsica's front-seat lap-and-shoulder belts on the door post, a system that's more convenient and safer than the door-mounted belts on the other GM compacts.

During the 1991 model year, two Chevrolets, the compact Corsica and full-size, full-frame, rear-wheel-drive Caprice, were among the many cars crash-tested by the federal government. The smaller Corsica proved safer than the Caprice, possibly deflating the long-time myth that bigger is always safer.

The redesigned Corsica interior includes logically arranged controls and instruments.

The driver will appreciate the improved 2.2-liter four-cylinder engine. This push-rod powerplant produces a respectable 110 horsepower, 15 more h.p. than the older version of this engine.

Even with the optional three-speed automatic transmission ($555), the four-cylinder Corsica test car had ample power. In the Corsica's case, more horsepower is safer because the old engine delivered less-than-adequate power.

Where in the world is Waldo?

Linda Cochran gives Miss Gaff's third graders instructions on using the library. (Photo by Rosa Hatfield).

Students attending Akron, Mentone, and Burket Schools will be traveling, through books, with Waldo to places such as England, Hawaii, and to Washington, D.C. for the inauguration. The theme for the 1992-93 library classes is "Where in the world is Waldo?"

Waldo is a character created by Martin Handford and featured in his series of books for young readers.

Linda Cochran, library aide at Mentone School has spent the first days of school getting students acquainted with what the library has to offer and the proper ways to use its services.

"One of the first things third graders want to do is read fat books," she told Miss Gaff's third grade class. "Fat books are books with chapters."

Cochran introduced the students to the card catalog, explaining to them the terms they will need to know to use it, what a biography is, and the difference between fiction and non-fiction.

Mentone has Emergency 911 Service

Residents with a 353 telephone prefix are keyed into the county's enhanced 911 system. As of Tuesday, September 1, Mentone customers may summon help in an emergency by dialing 9-1-1.

With the enhanced service, the dispatcher knows immediately where the call originated. There are now nine exchanges in addition to Mentone already being served. They are Warsaw, Piercetown, Milford, Syracuse, Cromwell, Atwood/Etna Green, Millwood, Leesburg, and Nappanee.

Captain Ron Robinson of the Kosciusko County Sheriff's Department said six Kosciusko exchanges still remain without the 911 service. Automatic dialers for alarm and security systems should not be programmed to call 911.

Shooting incident in Mentone

Driving in Mentone, I often notice cars failing to stop at the stop signs, especially on the streets in the north end of town. One such incident recently led to a drive-by shooting, the arrest of one man and charges being filed against another.

According to a police report, Mark Keckler, 28, of West CR 300N, Warsaw, was arrested and charged with criminal recklessness after the incident Sunday, August 30 at approximately 5:03 p.m.

Police say Michael Starkey, 36, of South Morgan Street in Mentone, yelled at Keckler after seeing him run the stop sign.

Keckler stopped and Starkey approached the car to tell the driver he had almost hit his child who was riding a bicycle along the road.

Keckler allegedly picked up a handgun and placed it on the dashboard of his car.

Starkey told police Keckler picked the gun up and fired a shot after Starkey attempted to grab it. When Keckler drove off, Starkey followed, wrote down his license number and called the police.

When police arrived at the scene, they were notified that Keckler was at the Kosciusko County Sheriff's Department to file charges of battery against Starkey.

Starkey admitted he hit Keckler before the gun was fired. Starkey has not yet been arrested but a charge of battery was filed against him.

Truckload of gifts unloaded in Homestead

A semi-truckload full of gifts from the people of Rochester, Kewanna, Akron, Talma, Macy and their surrounding communities was unloaded in Homestead, Florida on Friday, September 4. The drivers, George Mitchell and Randy Isenhardt delivered $2,000 in money orders, food, building supplies, clothes, books, bibles, school supplies, encouraging notes, antiseptics, cleaning aids, household aids, toys, infants supplies, furniture oils, work gloves, shoes, and many miscellaneous useful items for rebuilding clean-up.

The local businesses and professionals responded with donations of new items, the school children responded with individually sacked school supply kits, and over hundreds of caring citizens brought donations of new and used items to the Rochester Fire Station where they were sorted, boxed, labeled and loaded by over 50 volunteers.

Coordinating the relief project from Rochester was Mayor Ed Fansler and Mrs. Richard Mitchell. Coordinating from the receiving end is Mrs. Mitchell's sister, a North Miami Florida elementary teacher, Jan Fike, a husband-wife minister team, a school nurse and an architect, from south Florida.

The volunteer spirit on both ends (Rochester, Indiana, and Homestead, Florida) for the relief effort of Hurricane Andrew is non-denomination and non-partisan. It is neighbors who are helping neighbors by volunteering time, services and care. All three locations of the Farmers and Merchants Bank in Rochester and Kewanna are accepting donations. The money goes directly to the volunteers who are helping their neighbors rebuild their lives in Homestead and Leisure City, Florida. More information regarding this relief project is available at the Rochester City Hall, 223-2510.

When Jon Parker entered the Tippecanoe Valley School Corporation in 1975, he never dreamed he would one day be the principal of Mentone School.

Parker was born in Mentone but only lived in the area for a couple of years as an infant. He received his BS from Ball State University and his MS from St. Francis College in Fort Wayne, majoring in Mathematics and Physical Education.

Charlie Smith, Parker's high school football coach at Triton, spoke highly of the Tippecanoe Valley School Corporation and influenced Parker to apply there for a teaching position, a decision he has never regretted.

Parker had taught physical education, boy's and girl's golf, basketball, Jr. High mathematics, health, computer science, and was the offensive coach for football at Tippecanoe Valley High School.

Two years ago when Dr. Kramer approached him about going into administration and serving as the Assistant Principal for Mentone School, he was surprised.

"I had never even considered administration as a possibility," said Parker. "I hadn't taken any courses in administration at that time."

Since then, Parker has taken nine courses and lived at Ball State University for five weeks during each of the past two summers. He received his administration degree this summer.

"I have seen how schools operate from both sides, teaching and administration," said Parker. "That is going to make my job easier and make me a better administrator."

Parker lives at Hill Lake with his wife, LouAnn, a lab technician at Zimmers for many years and now a tool & die apprentice. They have two children, Darren, 14, is an eighth grader at Mentone School; and Andria, 12, is in the seventh grade, also at Mentone School.

Both children are active in sports. Darren plays football, basketball, and golf, and Andria is in gymnastics.

"My number one reason for accepting this position was my family," said Parker. "We talked about it for a long time and they were all supportive of the idea. The kids haven't had any trouble adjusting to my double role in their lives, as their father at home and their principal at school."

"The second reason was the support of the school itself. The people who make up this school system are great to work with. We all pull together and help each other."

American Fool

by Rosa Hatfield

After years of practicing wherever they could find a place, hauling their instruments around to whoever's garage was available at the time, and struggling to keep their ambitions alive, American Fool has arrived.

This band, comprised of four young men who had a dream, started playing with an after prom party for Tippecanoe Valley High School students last year. They were encouraged by the reception they received and began a self-promotion campaign.

A few weeks ago, the band performed for a crowd of approximately 60-70 Cargill employees and their friends.

Justin Goebel, rhythm/lead guitarist has been playing since sixth grade, seriously since eighth grade. He also played drums in the school band.

Ryan Tucker, on bass, has also played harmonica, piano, drums, and guitar. He began on bass in fifth grade, switched to guitar in seventh grade, and has played anything he can get his hands on since. When the band needed a bass player, he switched back to that and says he thinks he'll stick with it.

Mike Harrold, drummer, has played since the end of seventh grade. He took a year of piano lessons and played a trombone in the school band, but drums have always been his favorite.

Jeff Russell, guitarist and lead vocalist, played saxophone in fifth grade when he lived in Wyoming and at Mentone School after moving to this area.

Tucker, Harrold, and Goebel are also back-up vocalists but due to the expense involved, Harrold is currently performing without a microphone. They have discovered that playing seriously carries a high price. The cost of equipment, gas to drive to practices and engagements, and kerosene to heat their loft in the winter keeps their pockets empty.

Finding a permanent place to practice has been one of their proudest accomplishments. Jack and Suzy Caudill, parents of one of their school friends, Dusty Caudill, graciously offered them the use of a room above the drug store in Akron.

Practices are scheduled after the drug store closes at six in the evening so they don't disturb the customers with the noise.

The band practices any time they can get together, but tries to manage at least two times a week. Getting their schedules together has been difficult since they all work. Goebel, Harrold, and Tucker are also still in school, all seniors at Tippecanoe Valley High School. Russell graduated from Warsaw High School in 1991 and works full time at Jones Hardware.

Tucker, Goebel, and Harrold all plan to attend college but if things go well for the band, they may postpone it for a while. They have given themselves until the end of next summer to make the decision.

"If the band really takes off, we'll stay with it," said Goebel. "Right now, it looks like it will be a success."

"We could never have done this without the support of our parents and friends," said Tucker. "We have friends who drop in all the time to listen to us practice. Mike Jones and Mike Sicora run our sound system. They've been with us almost since the beginning."

ginning."

"We have gotten more support at home since we started getting paid for playing. It seemed like at first, no one took us seriously," said Goebel. "But now, they are really supportive. But our parents are very restrictive about where we play. No bars!"

The group plays classical rock and has begun writing their own music and lyrics. They have finished two, "Jeff's Jam" and "Lights Go Down." They have plans for recording themselves as soon as the budget allows.

"People always want to hear songs they know," said Goebel. "We have tried ours out too, but mostly, we stick with ones that are familiar."

Their next engagement is at the Steer Inn on September 12.

Vikings lose opening game

The Tippecanoe Valley Vikings suffered another close loss to Warsaw at Fisher Field during the opening football game of the season. Warsaw walked off with a 20-13 win over the Vikings. The highlight of the game was Warsaw senior Tony Sanson's 85-yard kickoff return during the second quarter.

Valley's loss may have greater ramifications than just a game. Senior quarterback Ryan Bowers injured his throwing hand during the first half of the game. He played with the pain and finished the game. As this goes to press, Bowers is having a bone scan to discover the extent of the injury and the Vikings are facing the possible loss of a key player for the season.

Head coach Scott Bibler expressed his pride in Bowers, commenting, "He's a tough kid and a winner. We're hoping for the best."

Bowers completed 19-33 passes for 181 yards and one touchdown.

The first quarter remained scoreless but Warsaw linebaker Curtis Hatfield was able to force Bowers into a fumble in the second quarter. The Tigers gained the advantage and drove Valley to the 38 yard line. The Vikings received a penalty of 15 yards for having 12 men on the field, resulting in a Tiger first down.

Four plays later, the Tigers made a touchdown for a 6-0 score. After they missed the PAT attempt, Valley gained 80 yards in a 16 play drive. On a fourth and 18 situation at the Tiger's 35 yard line, Bowers hit junior Travis Beery for 21 yards and a first down.

With 1:32 minutes left on the clock before the half, senior Scott Hatfield ran a 4 yard touchdown for a 6-6 tie. Scott Secrist was successful in his PAT attempt, allowing the Vikings a 7-6 lead.

Warsaw's Tony Sanson destroyed the Vikings hope of ending the half in the lead with his spectacular 85 yard kickoff return. Sanson found a hole in the center of the field, veered to the right to avoid a Viking, and went all the way for a 12-7 Tiger lead.

The Tigers scored another touchdown against the Vikings at the 9:21 mark during the third quarter. The Vikings pushed 80 yards and cut the lead to 20-13 when Bowers threw to split end Justin Davis for a seven yard touchdown.

With 3:30 left on the clock, the Tigers took possession of the ball and ran the clock down. The Vikings had four final plays, all incomplete passes, giving Warsaw a 20-13 victory.

Bibler said, "Waraw played a good game. We killed ourselves with our mistakes. We have to work on discipline with the penalties."

Both teams came through for the large crowd of fans with a clean, hard-hitting game of football.

Lady Vikings victorious at TRC

The Tippecanoe Valley Lady Vikings emerged victorious at the Three Rivers Conference against Manchester and Whitco during a three-way golf tournament Saturday, August 29. This improved their record to a 3-2 for the season.

The Lady Vikings scored an 18-hole total of 423, followed by Manchester with a 490, and Whitco with a 561.

Addie Kramer came in first for Tippecanoe Valley with 100, followed by Stacy Faulkner and Ann Francis, each with 106. Keri Overmeyer was next with 111 and Deneal Manwaring with 120.

The Lady Vikings travel to Peru to compete against Maconaquah on Tuesday, September 1.

W.O.W. books offered

Akron students Rory Jewell, Dana Holloway, and Ryan McFarland are proud to have their published books on the W.O.W. book club list. (Photo by Hatfield).

Several Akron Elementary students have been honored by having their books chosen for the We Original Writers Book Club list. The We Original Writers Book Club is the nation's first book club offering exclusive student-authored books.

These published books will be featured in the "We Original Writers" Book club list premiering September 1992. This list will be circulated and the books offered for sale to schools, librarians, and other interested readers.

The books were published by Offspring Publishing, Inc., Warsaw, IN.

Rory Jewell, fifth grader, wrote a non-fiction book about hamsters. His own experience at raising hamsters helped him with his research.

Dana Holloway, third grader, wrote a fiction story titled "Animals Animals Animals!"

Ryan McFarland, seventh grader, authored a fictional account of a ten year old boy who loved riding his 4-wheeler. The story tells of the wreck that put the boy in the hospital in a coma and the eventual necessity of selling the 4-wheeler.

Congratulations to these young authors. Watch for more stories from them and other students in Akron, Burket, and Mentone Schools as they gear up for this year's Young Author Conference. It will be held on November 19 & 20. The featured author will be Marilyn Anderson from Bedford, IN. Anderson writes chapter books for middle age children like "The Bubble Gum Monster."

The Young Author's Conference encourage children to put their stories on paper. This will be the third year Tippecanoe Valley Schools have offered it. It has been planned to coincide with Children's Book Week, November 16-20.

campments, the festival also features a display of antique and classic vehicles, antique gasoline engines, more than 120 craft booths (all in keeping with the pioneer theme) and entertainment on three stages throughout the weekend. Letter to the Editor

Dear Editor:

On April 14, 1912, more than 2000 people were rather smug and snug in their lavish surrounding on the maiden voyage of the ship "Titanic."

The officer in charge was too preoccupied to answer his phone, receive the message, and alter the ship's course before it struck the iceberg.

The people of our time are like the people on the "Titanic." There is a certain smugness on board as we all to some extent are responsible for the direction of humanity's tragic course. And the phone is ringing. It rings at each indication of human sin: rampant crime, violence, widespread immorality, injustice, drug abuse, alcoholic abuse, oppression and suffering. All these are signs that the world is headed for destruction and judgement by God.

It is clearly time for each of us to "pick up the phone," to do what we can to alter our course. We must also do all we can to warn others to "pick up the phone, receive the message" and do all they can to alter our downward course.

Therefore we need to wake up and realize where our political leaders are taking us on our course.

This is how Jim Jontz, who is representing us, voted;

He voted against holding down taxes.

He voted for tax-funded abortion in overseas military hospitals.

He voted for tax-funded abortion here in United States.

He voted against equal employment opportunity and in favor of hiring quotas.

He voted against curtailing Congressional abuse of taxpayer funded free mailing.

He voted for tax-funded sexual behavior surveys.

He voted against using tax dollars to reinforce family values by funding the Adolescent Family Life Program.

He voted in favor of tax-funded pornography.

He voted to oppose any setting of term limits.

He voted against taxpayers funding of family planning clinics designed to help women avert unwanted pregnancies.

He voted against creating jobs but in favor of increasing taxes.

He voted against a balanced budget amendment to the Constitution.

He voted in favor of creating a commercial market in fetal tissue from abortions.

Is this the man (and his beliefs) that you want voting for your future and that of your children, grandchildren and great-grandchildren?

Evelyn Krieg

Rags to rugs

by Rosa Hatfield

"What I like most about weaving rugs is taking things that would have been thrown away and turning them into something that is useful for a long time," says Fulton County resident Martha Wagoner.

Martha's rugs are useful and they last a long time but the thing that attracts most of her customers is their beauty. Vibrant, multi-hued throw rugs evolve from old, torn strips of clothing under her experienced hands.

Martha began recycling old clothes into rugs, placemats, tote bags, runners, and clothes-pin bags before most people had heard about recycling.

In 1948, Martha and her husband Claude moved to Talma, a small community in Fulton County, IN. During the winter, Martha didn't have enough to do so Claude bought her a loom. They paid $10 for it and the instruction books and Martha taught herself to weave.

She has used different kinds of looms over the years but right now she prefers a two harness loom.

"I sold my four harness loom because it was a lot more work to thread and took a lot of time," she said. "The four harness looms have six pedals to push to keep your pattern and if you lose it, it is a lot harder to fix than on a two harness. They do make a thicker, stiffer rug but they are just a lot more work."

Martha creates different patterns by changing the threads around when she sets up her warp. Using a different color thread on the loom can make two rugs look entirely different even though you used the same material for both.

"I would rather make rugs than placemats," said Martha. "I can make a 54" rug in the same time as it takes me to make four placemats but the placemats are more tedious to make. I used to make six to eight rugs a day but now I usually just make about four. I guess I'm slowing down a little bit."

Martha creates many of the patterns she uses herself by experimenting and gets others from books. She said some people have trouble reading pattern books but she has always found it easy to do.

Martha has 25 to 30 regular customers, some dating back to 1975. She also gets a lot of new customers because someone has shown them one of her rugs. Most of her regulars bring sacks of material for her to turn into rugs. Many people bring old clothes to her just to get rid of them. These are used to make the rugs Martha sells to new customers.

Recently, a lady brought two grocery bags of socks. Out of these, Martha created five beautiful and colorful rugs.

Another customer told her she still has the placemats Martha made for her ten years ago. They are used regularly and washed every two weeks.

"I spend a lot of time alone at my loom but I enjoy it," said Martha. "I get acquainted with the nicest people by selling rugs so it balances out."

Martha also raises a garden every year as well as a half acre of sweet corn to sell. She has her chickens to tend to and does her own yard work. Since her husband Claude died five years ago, she doesn't raise cows but admits she misses it.

"All my married life, I got up at 5:00 in the morning to milk the cows. I still wake up at 5:00 and feel like I should be doing something," said Martha.

Martha will train others who want to learn to weave rugs if they ask. She has taught six or seven people and enjoys passing along her skills. She says the best way to learn weaving is "just do it".

Brenda Self is looking forward to working at Burket School

by Rosa Hatfield

Brenda Self, Kindergarten teacher at Burket School, grew up in Covington, Ohio, a small town near Dayton. She graduated from Covington High School in 1984 and from Manchester College in 1988.

She taught Kindergarten at Akron School for 4 years and coached the 7th grade girls' basketball team.

She lives in North Manchester with her husband, Randy, a teacher at Columbia City High School.

"I especially like teaching Kindergarten students," said Self. "They display an excitement for learning and really enjoy coming to school. We do so many fun activities, it is never dull."

In her spare time, Self enjoys a variety of sports activities. She plays tennis, volleyball, and basketball, and loves to go camping and bicycling.

She also helps with the youth group at Manchester Church of the Brethren.

Self said she is looking forward to working at Burket School. The size of the school and its family atmosphere will make it a unique experience.

Students at Akron School enjoy playing on the outline map of the United States painted on the asphalt behind the school. This project was funded by the Parent Support Council.

Other paintings that will appear this fall include a map of the world, the solar system, the alphabet, numbers, times tables and a four-square court. Any parents interested in helping paint are invited to contact the Parents Support Council.

Akron fifth graders build castles

Mrs. Teel's fifth grade class at Akron School finished a two week project on Medieval Times by building their own castles. The students traveled in a "time machine" back to the middle ages, where a jousting tournament was taking place. They also enjoyed the story "The Castle In The Attic" where William saved the Silver Knight from Alastar. Pictured with some of the castles are: Rory Jewell, Rae Ann Burns, Amber Harmon, Kristin Shoemaker, and Derek Parker.

Visitors must go to the office

Brett Boggs, principal at Akron School, has issued the following announcement to the community: All visitors to Akron School are reminded to always report to the school office upon entering the building. Visitors are at no time to go directly to a classroom without reporting first to the school office.

Two reasons account for this school policy. First of all, as we strive to protect each and every child we are responsible for, this allows the office to screen who has access to students. This is becoming a growing concern to schools and parents alike. Second, instructional time is valuable in every classroom and we strive to keep interruptions to a minimum. Most tasks can be taken care of through the office with little or no interruption of the learning environment.

This is the policy of all the schools in the corporation and should be strictly adhered to.

On defense, Viking linebacker Keith Newsome led with 18 tackle points and linebacker Jones had 12 tackle points.

Three Rivers Conference Volleyball

The Tippecanoe Valley volleyball team was defeated 0-15, 3-15 at North Miami in Three Rivers Conference action.

In junior varsity action, North Miami won with a 15-6, 15-8 decision.

The Lady Viking freshman team opened its season with a pair of losses at Warsaw. They lost to Concord 15-2, 15-6 and to Warsaw 15-13, 15-4.

Valley Golf Action

The Lady Viking golfers defeated Whitko 214-257 Tuesday, Sept. 8. Addie Kramer took low medalist honors with a 44. The Viking squad improved to 5-3 on the season.

In the Three Rivers Conference match, played at Millcreek Golf Course in Rochester, Ann Francis shot a 56, Keri Overmyer and Deneal Manwaring each had a 57, and Stacy Faulkner finished with a 59.

Lady Viking swimmers outnumbered

The Lady Viking swim team was defeated by the Warsaw Lady Tigers 112-60 at the Tiger Pool Tuesday, Sept. 8. The Viking squad was simply outnumbered, having only 9 members.

Kristen Deardorff led the way for the Vikings as she topped the field winning the 100 freestyle event in 1:02. Deardorff, Natasha Sriver, Jill Hunter, Rebecca Flora, and Kelly Deardorff had second place finishes in individual events.

In relay action, the team of Hunter, Flora, Haley Foor, and Kristen Deardorff came in second in the 200 medley, and the 200 freestyle relay team of Haley and Heather Foor, Sriver, and Kelly Deardorff also came in second.

The Lady Vikings were also defeated by Homestead 112-

60. Flora and Kristen Deardorff led the Vikings with a pair of runner-up finishes each.

Tippecanoe Valley Vikings lose to Manchester

Manchester football coach Al Bailey said he knew the Viking squad wasn't playing at its best Friday, Sept. 4, when the Squires pulled off a 42-18 win against them.

"I know the Vikings are a good team. They are well coached and dangerous and deserve the respect of any team coming up against them," said Bailey.

Viking fans saw a different sight at the first home game of the season. Coach Scott Bibler said he felt helpless. He knows the potential of his team but isn't sure how to turn them around.

Squire quarterback Jonathon Meeks and split end Darby Bucher tore the Viking defense to shreds with 155 yards of Manchester's total 345 yards of offense.

Bucher scored on a 16-yard run off left tackle with 4:37 remaining on the clock in the first quarter. During the second quarter, Meeks, who was ranked in the state in passing last year, scored on a 43 yard run.

Viking quarterback, Ryan Bowers, made a one-yard run to score in the first quarter. There had been some doubt whether Bowers would be playing after a hand injury suffered during the season opener against Warsaw the previous week, but he was back in the game.

With a 14-6 lead in the second quarter, Manchester's Aaron Lester fell on a Tippecanoe Valley fumble. Meeks completed an 18-yard pass to Bucher and nailed the extra-point for a 21-6 lead.

The Squires ended the half with a score of 28-6 after a fumble recovery touchdown by Meeks.

Bowers took a bad snap on

Caning chairs keeps Willis Bowen busy in retirement

Willis Bowen demonstrates the art of chair caning.

by Tonia Weller

Willis Bowen didn't intend to begin a second career when he bought a pair of chairs at an auction in the 1940's, but that's how it worked out. One of the chairs, an oak rocker, needed its seat recaned. "So I ordered some cane and an instruction booklet and did it myself," the Akron resident says. At 88, the retired teacher and school principal is still caning. He estimates he has recaned over 250 chairs. "Last year, I did more chairs than ever," he says. "I caned 33 chairs in '91."

Bowen says it takes him four to five hours of steady work to weave each chair bottom. At the 25 cents per hole he charges, he says, "If I make $1.50 or $2 an hour, I'm doing pretty well. I'm sure not doing it to make a living. I like to do it. It helps pass the time, especially now that I'm alone." His wife, Mary, passed away two years ago. "And I think it keeps the arthritis in my fingers from getting any worse."

His projects have included footstools and large office chairs and he replaces woven rush seats as well as cane. He never uses prewoven cane, so if a chair has a bead and groove fitting, he will drill appropriate size holes around the opening and then weave a new seat. Each chair requires two sets of horizontal cane, two sets of vertical and one set diagonally from each corner. The cane splits are soaked in water to make them more pliable before they are woven. The cane comes in various widths and the size used is determined by the proportions of the chair. Bowen orders his rush and cane from New York.

"People often ask me how I get it woven so tight, but that's not the problem. It tightens up as you weave in the strips because they must go over and under each other. It gets tighter all the time. The real trick is to start loose enough," he says.

Reflecting on his life, Bowen says, "In my time I've lived through a good many changes. A lot of them have been for the better, but some haven't. I remember the first automobile I ever saw and the first radio and T.V. Now my daughter thinks I ought to get a computer."

Raised on a farm southwest of Akron, Bowen still recalls the first airplane he ever saw. "I remember it so well. I went to school in a little one room school house, the Staten School, out west of town, about where Steve Hartzler's house is now. We heard a report that there was going to be an airplane going from someplace out east to Chicago, following the Erie Railroad. We didn't know just for sure when it was coming. I was eight or nine years old and I'd never even seen a picture of an airplane. I had no idea what the thing would look like. One day Wilbur Harter, who lived the first house east of the school house and always rode his bicycle home for lunch, came pedaling back just as fast as he could come and said his mother had just heard on the telephone that the airplane had just passed Huntington. So we all went and stood up on the hill and watched the plane fly over. I can still see that just as well as if it happened yesterday. It looked like a big dragonfly to me."

After graduating from Akron High School, Bowen's first teaching job was at Talma. Then he taught high school at Akron for twelve years. During those years he completed his masters degree and obtained his principal's license. He then served as principal at schools in Howard County for two years, Kewanee for four years, and Gilead for four years. After 25 years in the education field, he quit. "We moved to a farm north of town, and I decided I'd quit teaching and farm." But after two years, he applied for a teaching job at Rochester, where his wife was teaching. "I guess I was just like an old firehorse. I just got the feeling to go back to teaching," he says. He continued to teach math and physics for 15 years before retiring in 1968. However, he continued to substitute for another three or four years.

Geometry was Mr. Bowen's favorite course to teach. "The longer I taught geometry, the better I liked it," he says. "When I took geometry in high school, though, if somebody would have told me I was going to be a geometry teacher, I'd have told them they were crazy," he laughs. "Even though it's not too practical for a lot of people, it teaches them to think and reason."

Bowen frequently attends the Senior Citizens Breakfast, held every two weeks at the United Methodist Church. "Most of the 'older' people there are students of mine from the 30's," he says with amusement.

Since suffering a broken hip two years ago, Bowen has had to give up fishing as a hobby, but he still enjoys gardening. He raises tomatoes, cabbage, green beans and other vegetables behind his home near the park. He is also a big Chicago Cubs fan, seldom missing a game on radio or T.V.

A highlight of his retirement has been the vacation trip he took last September with his daughter Jane, to visit her son in Arizona. "We toured the area for five days before going on to Prescott to visit my grandson. I really enjoyed seeing the Grand Canyon and especially Hoover Dam. Of course, it was being built in the 30's when I was teaching physics at Akron. And to get out there and see it and ride the elevator down in the thing, I'll tell you that was really something. I also got to see Miss Kitty's Salon, where they filmed 'Gunsmoke'."

Bowen's other daughter, Sharon Miller, lives next door to him and checks in on him frequently. He says his health is still fairly good considering his age and laughs, "Well, I guess I'm optimistic. I traded for a new car last fall!"

TV vs Manchester....

fourth down and was forced to hurry his pass attempt and the Squires took over on downs.

Viking fans perked up a bit in the second half when it looked like the Vikings were getting things back together but it didn't last long.

The Valley defense, led by David Sleeth, forced Meeks to attempt a punt on Manchester's first possession in the second half.

On fourth down, Vikings Ben Baker and James Hall penetrated the Squire line. Baker knocked down the punt and Hall fell on the ball a few feet from the back boundaries of the end zone.

Two plays later, Manchester's Tim Bennett jumped on a Valley fumble and turned it into 6 points with an extra point coming from Meeks.

The Vikings ended the game with a 35 yard touchdown reception from Bowers to wing Scott Finney with a two point conversion but the effort came too late.

Coach Bibler expressed his disappointment saying, "We did not play well in front of our home crowd and I am angry...extremely angry. Manchester came ready to play. They out-hit us and beat us in a lot of categories."

The entire Viking rushing effort netted only 81 yards. Bowers connected on 9-19 passes for 89 yards and one interception.

Akron students drop pennies in a container for the park.
(Photo by Hatfield).

The Kappa Delta Phi Sorority of the Akron area, with the support of the Akron Park Board, has undertaken a "Rejuvenate the Park" campaign. The "Rejuvenate the Park" committee has requested the help of area businesses, service groups, and the people of the Akron community to improve the looks and the function of the park.

They have set a goal of $10,000 to be raised by next spring and have asked for the help of the local school children with this project.

Akron School students have opted to help with this project, dropping their "Pennies for the Park" in a container located in the school office. Participation is strictly voluntary and all funds will go to the "Rejuvenate the Park" committee.

Mentone loses another business

J & J Service is no longer in operation as a gas station. Owner John Jewell said the EPA requirements were only a part of his decision to close the business.

"I still had some time left before I had to change my tanks," said Jewell. "But it is a very expensive venture and the time was coming. It was a part of my decision but not all. I was just ready for something else."

Jewell accepted a position at Med-tool but will still sell cars and possibly do some automobile service work.

Akron School Zone plans completed

After 18 months of effort, funding for the Akron School Zone traffic control lights has been completed and construction will be finished before the end of the this month. The Akronites who have children in the Akron School owe thanks to the people and industries that have made this possible. The school board from last year allotted 40% of the cost as their share of the project, an Pike Lumber contributed 20% of the total as their share. Others making sizable contributions include the preset Akron Town Board, Sonoco Products, Inc., The Parents Association of the school, and Wen Products. The interest and concern of these organizations and their leaders have helped make our town safer for the future of this community, the children.

Our heart-felt thanks is offered to all of them.

Mentone Town Council to interview applicants for marshal

The town of Mentone is one step closer to having a marshal. Council members have waded through fifteen applications and come up with a final four. They will interview at least two of these on Sept. 23 in a executive session in the clerk's office.

One of the applicants, Curtis Ebersole, attended the Monday, Sept. 14 meeting. Ebersole has been advising the council on available grant money and ways to obtain vehicles and equipment.

Ebersole informed the council that time is running out on applying for grant money. Applications must be in by the end of September to receive this year's grant money and the town marshal must make the application.

He also said the council should get their bids in soon for cars and equipment as only a limited number of these items will be available.

Darrel Miller reported finding 46 cars in Mentone without current plates on his first search for abandoned cars and another 11 on a follow-up check. Letters were delivered to the car owners advising them they have until Sept. 25 to either plate the vehicles, cover them, or move them inside. He reported 19 of these cars have been taken care of.

Letters were also sent to property owners who needed to mow or remove junk from their premises. Eight of the 16 served have Continued on page 2.

In loving memory of our son, brother and uncle, Keith Haney
March 10, 1964 - September 22, 1987

God saw you getting tired, and a cure was not to be
So he put his arms around you, and whispered "Come with Me."
With tearful eyes we watched you suffer, and saw you fade away
Although we loved you dearly, we could not make you stay.
Your heart stopped beating, precious hands at rest
God broke our hearts to prove, He only takes "The Best".
We're lonesome here without you, we miss you more each day
Life doesn't seem the same, since you went away.
Each time we see your picture, you seem to smile and say
Don't cry I'm in "God's hands", we'll meet again someday.

Love always,

A farm of his own

by Rosa Hatfield

Today, when so many young people are turning to the more lucrative jobs offered in industry, it is refreshing to find that some of them believe farming is still the ideal life.

Rick Hurley is one of these people. Hurley, 22, a member of Tippecanoe Valley High School's Class of '88, has been employed by North Central Co-op in Burket for about a year as an applicator. Driving around to farms and spreading fertilizer on the fields keeps him working outside most of the time.

"One of the best things about my job or any kind of farming is getting to work outside," said Hurley. "I like it a lot better than being cooped up in a factory."

Phil Runkle is the manager of the Burket branch of North Central Co-op and employees five people. They sell seed, dry and liquid fertilizer, and ammonia for side dressing fields.

During the winter, Hurley works on maintenance to keep the equipment in shape. A lot of work goes into getting ready for the busy season which usually begins about the end of April, depending on the weather.

"To some people, farming isn't very exciting because you do the same things day after day. You spend a lot of time working alone, but I like that part of it," said Hurley.

Things weren't dull on May 12 when Hurley arrived at work to find the elevator on fire. He helped move chemicals out of the burning building until the firemen stopped them because the fire was getting too close.

Next came a trip to the hospital for decontamination, an experience Hurley said he wouldn't like to repeat.

"The bad part was getting hosed down with ice cold water," said Hurley. "I didn't know what to expect when we went. They had to send our clothes off to a lab for testing. We just stood around at the hospital for a long time."

Hurley said the day after the fire was business as usual at the elevator. They were hurt more on dry fertilizer than liquid and were kept busy hauling it from Roann. A construction team was hired to level the burnt building and haul off the debris. Rebuilding is expected to start soon.

"I knew right after I got out of high school that I wanted to work in something farm related," said Hurley. "I think farming teaches you a lot more than working in a factory. Mechanics, chemicals, and the weather are a few of the most important things you have to learn about to be successful in farming."

Hurley lives in Sevastopol and hopes to continue in farming and someday own a farm of his own. The knowledge he acquires working for others will help prepare him for that time. He enjoys hunting, shooting pool and playing his guitar in his spare time.

Mr. Ruppel's physical education program

Mr. Ruppel helps first-grader Heather Cumberland do chinups at Akron School. (Photo by Rosa Hatfield).

As a physical education teacher at Akron School, Mr. Ruppel decided students needed a way to stay physically fit and have fun at the same time.

In his program, each student starts with a grade of S+ and they maintain it as long as they participate, try, and do the best they can that day. If they receive at least 5 S+'s in a six week's period, they will receive an S+ on their report card.

Students have a chance to earn more than one + a day. They can do this by improving in an area or game, being chosen student of the day, improving on their time in the President's Physical Fitness, or passing in the 85% range of the President's Physical Fitness test.

Students lower their grade by breaking a school rule, not participating, not cooperating, or showing bad sportsmanship.

Before lowering the grade, Ruppel gives the student two warnings. On the third warning for the day, he lowers the grade from and S+ to an S. The fourth time a student must be corrected in class, their grade moves to an S- and they must sit out part of the class time. If it should come to a fifth warning, the student will receive a double S- for the day and sit out the next class. They will also have to write a report or sentences while receiving their grade of U for that next class.

For each minus earned, a student will need to earn two pluses to erase it. For each U, they will need to earn four pluses.

If a student can't participate because of absence, a note from the parents, a doctor's note, or a note from the office; they will receive a grade of S for the day. If they write a short report on a sport or sporting activity, their grade will be moved up to an S+.

Sometimes, if they can do part of an activity or be a referee, umpire, or scorekeeper, they will also receive an S+ for the day.

Awards will be given to a student of the six weeks in each class section. A student may only receive this award once during the school year.

The class section earning the most S+'s on a percentage basis will receive a treat and/or a free choice P.E. day. The student in each section with the most S+'s at the end of the year will receive a special treat.

Students earning less than S for six weeks will not be allowed to participate with their class in the event their class wins in the 6 week award. These students will be required to write a report for that class period.

"Positive ID" to be presented at schools

For the past two years, the Drug Free Schools & Communities has sponsored a multimedia production shown to high school students in the morning and junior high school students in the afternoon. Camfel Productions "Positive ID" is being offered to area schools by the Indiana Lakes Area Youth for Christ.

This presentation is a unique combination of entertainment and life education. It will help teens understand that they are unique individuals whose worth is not based on what others think or how well they perform. Teens will see that they are responsible for their own actions.

This presentation will be shown on October 5 at Tippecanoe Valley High School at 9:30 a.m. and at Akron School at 2 p.m. It is a 40 minute program. Mentone 6th, 7th, and 8th grade students will be bussed to Akron School for the presentation.

Letter to the Editor

Dear Editor:

Please, will you help?

The U.S. Congress will soon vote on "The Pornography Victim's Compensation Act of 1992." This Act is desperately needed to help overcome the scourge of destructive pornography.

Dr. John Lyons, a professor at Northwestern University and Dr. David Larson, a clinical staff member, have coordinated research on the destructive effects of pornography which leads to the murder of men, women and children.

If this Act passes, it would make it possible for victims or their families to sue those involved in the sale, rental or production of pornography if it can be proven that the person who committed the violent act was influenced by the pornography.

Also, this will cause publishers, adult magazine stores, video stores and film producers to think twice before producing, renting or selling any publication that would influence anyone to torture, murder or rape a man, woman or child. These people may decide it is not worth losing millions of dollars from a lawsuit.

The "Hustler" magazine, on or around October 1990, issued a magazine which on the front cover said "How to murder Manuals." In the magazine were directions on how to gouge out an eye without damaging the optic nerve so that the victim could not close his eye and is forced to watch "You mutilate his genitals."

Afterwards a 9 year old boy in Oklahoma was abducted. He was later found in a city park with his eye gouged out, his genitals mutilated, severely beaten and left to die. If this Act passes "Hustler" will think twice before publishing such obscene, destructive trash since they could be sued for millions of dollars.

Gayle Dines-Levy of Wheelock College says, "Many young people rent 'slasher' movies that show the torture, rape and murder of women."

Sen. Richard Lugar of Indiana and Sen. Mitch McConnell of KY are co-sponsoring this Act. Sen. Ted Kennedy is opposing it.

If you love your family, your neighbor's family or families world wide and want to help protect them PLEASE write to your Congressman and ask them to vote for "The Pornography Compensation Act." You could be saving your own life, that of your children and the life of a brother or sister.

Please, we need your help.

After further study I need to correct two statements I made in my letter to the editor printed in the Sept. 16, Akron/Mentone News.

Jim Jontz voted in favor of curtailing Congressional abuse of taxpayer funded free mailing.

He also voted in favor of balanced budget amendment to the Constitution.

Sorry Jim, you are doing a bad enough job without me adding to it.

Letter to the Editor

Dear Editor:

After more than two and one-half years of stalling, Congressman Jim Jontz (R, 5th District) has recently released his idea of the best health care "single payer plan" for our country based on the Canadian system. Mr. Jontz's plan is long on compassion and incredibly short on specifics.

Regardless of the pros and cons of the Jontz/Canadian system in which the government controls payments to doctors and hospitals, Mr. Jontz neglects to mention any way to pay for this plan. He wants employees to forget about the idea of health care as an employment benefit, he wants most insurance companies to disappear, he wants the government to squeeze hospitals and doctors to provide the same care for less money. The unspoken truth in his plan though is the fact that he would have to increase taxes by nearly $400 billion to pay for his plan. He'll probably claim at some point that we can cut defense spending to pay for this. This would require eliminating the entire defense budget. Would Mr. Jontz cut entitlements such as Social Security and Medicare by that much? Would his plan cause long lines and waits for a doctor? Like the rest of the Congress, Mr. Jontz only knows how to tax and spend, not how to solve complex problems. Is it credible that the bunch that cannot handle their own bank and post office can handle our health care system? Get real, Mr. Jontz. For you to propose a plan without mentioning the increase in taxes it would mandate and other problems it would cause is as typical as it is irresponsible.

Navy Seaman Recruit David E. Cox, son of David and Suzanne Cox of Silver Lake, recently completed basic training at Recruit Training Command, Great Lakes, IL.

During the cycle, recruits are taught general military subjects designed to prepare them for further academic and on-the-job training in one of the Navy's 85 occupational fields.

The incident marked the first time Marines had been sent into the country. The Marines flew their CH-53 Super Stallion helicopters, escorted by AH-1W Cobra helicopter gunships, to the crash site.

After the two Cobra helicopter gunships were forced to return to the USS Two Jima because of low fuel, the CH-53's used their night vision skills to continue the search. The remaining helicopters drew small arms fire from the ground during

Letter to the Editor

Dear Editor:

Within the first two weeks of September we have already received two "Progress Report" mailings from the Jontz office in Washington, D.C. Congressman Jontz mailed them 60 days before the election, therefore, we the taxpayers in the 5th District have paid for these timely election year mailings. Howard Wolfson, Jontz press secretary, said these mailings are not election materials because they don't discuss partisan issues (mine did) or mention Buyer's name.

Now, I ask you, if you receive a mailing from a candidate with his name and picture all over it; discussing the issues and his stand on the issues; and is mailed to everyone in his district just prior to an election, wouldn't you consider it election material? My Hoosier logic tells me, "if it walks like a duck, quacks like a duck and looks like a duck, it is a duck!" And we paid for this duck!

I for one am tired of Congressman living in the gray areas of ethics! According to Congressional rules Jontz could do what he did with the timing of the mailings and we have to pay for the mailing! Don't insult our logic...these mailings are election material and we are paying for it whether we want to or not!

I feel taken advantage of by a career politician...18 years is enough...Come back "home" to the 5th District, Jim, and get a real job.

Sincerely,
Karen Burkhardt

Education is a key factor in farming

Jon and Sandy Schaeffer

by Rosa Hatfield

Raising veal calves is an operation that requires being in the barn at 3:15 in the morning seven days a week, says Jon Schaeffer. He spends about three to five hours in the morning and three or four hours in the afternoon mixing milk, feeding the calves, checking them individually with a clipboard and a chart and medicating calves as necessary.

Jon was involved in FFA at DeKalb High School. After graduation, he attended the School of Agriculture at Purdue and received his Bachelor's degree in 1984. During high school and college he spent several summers working with his uncle on a dairy farm in Minnesota.

Shortly before his marriage to Sandy, Jon went into business raising veal calves with Sandy's father, Forst Dunnuck. He leased a building from Dunnuck and began buying baby calves from 80-100 lbs., feeding them on a liquid diet for 4 or 5 months and selling them to packers at a weight of 400-450 lbs.

In April of 1992, Jon decided not to renew his lease.

"There comes a time when you feel like the risk is just too great," he said. "The veal market has diminished quite a bit. I think the economy is the biggest factor. Veal is a luxury item and when people have to watch their money, they give up the luxuries. Expansion is another factor. A lot of people have put up veal barns in the last ten years."

Jon said the animal rights issue has probably had an impact also, but he doesn't think that has affected the market as much as it might in the future.

Though he discontinued his own operation, Jon continues to work in Dunnuck's veal barns, doing essentially the same chores as before.

"I don't do quite as much in the barns as I did," said Jon. "And of course, Forst also handles the paperwork now, too. The bookkeeping is a big part of it."

They operate two veal barns, each housing 424 head. Each calf is given individual attention every day. In the past, they employed more outside help but with the need to cut corners, Forst and Jon now handle most of the work themselves, using only occasional employees to fill in the gaps.

The Schaeffers also have a 120 acre farm where they grow soybeans, corn, wheat, alfalfa, and have 20 acres of pasture. Right now, they have 26 Holstein heifers and about a dozen Holstein steers, finishing for beef.

"It has always been my goal to have a farm," said Jon. "The good years we had in the veal business made that possible."

Jon does his own farm work with the exception of the combining and spraying.

"It's a small enough farm, we can't justify the cost of combines so we hire that out," he said.

Jon received his real estate license in May of 1992 and started working with ERA Friends & Associates. He hopes to work mainly with farm and rural properties in the lower Kosciusko area.

"I am enthusiastic about this area because I think it is a great place to live," said Jon.

Jon said there is a trend for farms to get larger all the time and the number of farms to diminish.

"I think that has been true in this country almost since it started. The farming lifestyle that people enjoyed fifty years ago doesn't exist anymore. But the farming life is still attractive to people. More and more, people are wanting to move to the rural areas and buy a few acres for their own enjoyment."

Jon's goal is to eventually become a farm appraiser.

Sandy is an art teacher at Rochester Middle School and gives piano lessons after school. Though she grew up helping in the veal barns and was able to do all the chores involved, she said now her involvement in farming is limited because of her schedule.

"My main jobs here are feeding the cats and dogs, taking care of the garden and helping with the yard," she said.

Jon feels that education is essential for today's farmers.

"I think farming was quite a bit easier before but the old methods wouldn't work today. You have to evaluate costs and approach a crop or a livestock program with a plan instead of just winging it. You can really get into trouble that way."

Jon took a wide range of courses at Purdue in animal science, agronomy, and economics. He said the time in college also allowed him to grow up and approach farming with a more mature attitude.

"Whatever other goals we may have, they are all geared toward maintaining our farm," said Jon. "This is the kind of lifestyle we both want."

Teacher Feature

by Rosa Hatfield

Niki Early

Nikki Early, first grade teacher at Akron Elementary School, coped with a "sticky" class Friday, Sept. 11. Fridays have been designated "Freak Friday" in all of Akron's first grade classes. On this particular day, Early's class was studying apples and Johnny Appleseed. The treat for the day was a dish of apple sections covered with caramel, eaten without benefit of silverware. While Early went for her teacher feature interview, Assistant principal Diane Gorman and teacher's aide Kathy Tucker helped clean up fingers and faces.

Early is a new teacher at Akron. She graduated from North Miami High School in 1987 and started collage at Anderson University. After one year, she transferred to Indiana University at Kokomo where she received her B.S. in 1991.

Before being hired by the Tippecanoe Valley School Corporation, Early was a substitute teacher for Akron, Caston and North Miami schools.

From November of 1991 to April of 1992, she was the director and teacher of the Alleluia Day Care Center in Wabash. She was in charge of the scheduling, ordering supplies, and taking care of the money as well as teaching three to ten year olds.

"I'm real glad to be here but my time in day care was a wonderful experience, too. It taught me a lot," said Early.

Early's husband, Layne, is attending collage at Indiana University in Kokomo and is a student teacher for the 6th grade at Blairpointe Elementary School in Peru. The couple reside in Macy.

Early says teaching first graders is exciting because things are always changing.

"I hope to be able to make learning exciting for my students so they will want to learn," said Early. "And I want to especially thank the teachers and Administrator at Akron School for making me feel so comfortable here".
