ARMISTICE DAY

WORLD WAR BY * * YARNS LIEUT. FRANK E. HAGAN

His First "Victory"

Ask one American aviator about the time he downed a high-ranking flyer in his first flight over the lines during the war and you may be surprised at the result. Here's the story, as Maj. Reed G. Landis, America's second living ace, tells it:

"This young chap," says Major Landis, "was assigned to a British air squadron for training. After about three weeks behind the lines he learned which end of his machine gun was dangerous and other useful features of air warfare.

"One day a German observation balloon was up and was spotted by the British. The weather was thick but the 'sausage' was observed above the murk and its position carefully marked on a map. Then the American aviator was ordered to get out his plane and shoot down the enemy balloon.

"The American drove his ship through the murk and finally arrived at a point where he estimated the observation balloon would be. Sure enough, there was a balloon.

"The flyer dived at it and sent enough bullets through the skin of the 'sausage' to send it down, without, however, setting fire to it. Two men, he perceived, clambered over the side of their basket and floated to the ground with 'chutes.

"Much elated, the American returned to his squadron and reported his successful onslaught. He had hardly completed his report when an automobile bearing the insignia of the British air forces drove up. And out stepped an indignant British lieutenant colonel.

"When the colonel's rage partly subsided it was learned that he had selected the thick weather as an excellent time to make his monthly balloon flight. The flight was necessary if he was to draw his flying pay. But the American flyer had upset all that by becoming confused in the fog, mistaking his balloon for a German 'sausage' and sending a stream of bullets into it until the astonished and indignant Britisher and his aide had been forced to seek safety in their parachutes."

Placed Roses on Coffin of "Unknown"

Suppose you had been the war hero actually to select America's Unknown Soldier on that peaceful October day, 1921, in the little makeshift chapel at Chalons-sur-Marne, France.

The commanding officers and dignitaries, every one, in fact, outside the door, you—a top sergeant—standing alone before four coffins, identical and draped bright with the Stars and Stripes.

You dropped the pink and white roses on the coffin second from the end, on your right, thus making forever the Unknown choice. Suppose all this—then what would you expect of the years ahead, back home?

He Made Choice.

Sergt. Edward S. Younger, who dropped the roses, expected many things. Through the life of the nation the Unknown was to lie in his tomb at Arlington. Perennially the President, the senators, foreign emissaries, would gather round it in ceremonies of honor. The Unknown would be a legend, a symbol, a mystic glory. But Sergeant Younger, of all the A. E. F., had been chosen to nominate him.

And the sergeant's comrades—some open, some wheedling and some challenging—had asked, wasn't there some tiny clew to the identity of the Unknown? Come now, among pals, wasn't there?

Small wonder if Sergeant Younger, returning home, anticipated! Unsought honors, mayhap; little tributes of unbid-for interest; even the doubtful attention of the venal seeking to capitalize what they fancied he might have to divulge. Not that he would bear an instant with such dishonor . . . still, a man must think—and imagine—and speculate.

Now Lives in Chicago.

The other day—almost ten years after—I went to see Sergeant Younger at his home in Chicago. Alan MacDonald writes in the Philadelphia Record. I had a few days previous stood before the tomb of the Unknown.

Shadows were gathering over Arlington, that haunt of the heroes who have passed. The simple sepulchre of white marble lies on the brow of a gentle slope to the Potomac. The new bridge they are building, a beautiful thing of long, low, graceful arches, stretched straight across toward the Capital—straight into the purple and mauve mists wherein still were visible the noble dome of the Capitol, the perfect temple in memory of Lincoln, the Washington monument.

Here truly was the beauty and light of the old poets. A wonder possessed me. Assume I had been the one to have chosen the hero in the white marble, forever in the lap of the amphitheater that is its altar. What effect would that have had on my life? My outlook? Would not this place have had for me a secret, personal meaning and charm? I thought of Sergeant Younger. . . . I set out to find him.

The Sergeant Is Found.

The former sergeant—he was honorably discharged in February, 1922—lives at No. 2003 Bingham street. The home is a little, two-story frame house, long unpainted with the varnished imitation walnut front door of 20 years ago.

It stands at a Y of streets, a large laundry on one hand, street car barns on the other. I pounded on the front door. No answer. I went down the narrow passage between the Younger home and the house next door. I rapped on the windowless back door—hard. It opened slightly; I saw the electric lights were on inside. Two faces peered through the crack, man and boy.

What did I want? Impatiently.

Was the man Edward S. Younger—Sergeant Younger? He was—but he was in a great hurry. He had to be at work at noon. And meantime he had to take his son to his father-in-law's for the afternoon. His wife was away, working for a few days.

Younger was glad—once he understood why I had come—to talk. A clerk in the post office—sorting mail for Wisconsin was his job—he could go in an hour late and work an hour longer. How'd I ever find him? The Veterans' bureau—of course! But do you know, I was the first writer or reporter or what not ever to seek him out! He had wondered, too, with all this talk and writing about the identity of the Unknown Soldier.

Proves Pleasant Soul.

Sure, he'd tell what there was. Hadn't thought about that day at Chalons-sur-Marne for a long time; you know how those things slip into the past. A great day; though—the little laugh bubbled up pleasurably. Why, the sergeant thought they honored him—to let him do the choosing—more than they did the Unknown. Oh, not really, of course. It just felt that way, then, with the ceremony, shaking the officers' hands, the dinner given by the French—say, wine and song and cheer, speeches you couldn't understand . . . It was rich!

Born in the Chicago stock yard district, Younger was soon orphaned. His father, German born, died when he was three; his mother, a Polish woman, not long after. School, work, getting along somehow, and then, enlistment, February 23, 1917. A time at Laredo, Texas—and France.

The war wasn't so bad—now, after all this time. Some first rate poker games, with plenty francs. (Now, the sergeant chuckled, he enjoyed penny ante.) Caught under a house wrecked by enemy fire not far from Neufchateau, July, 1918, he had a spell in the hospital. Scarcely back again, he was wounded in the Argonne drive.

Discharged next year in Germany, he joined the Fiftieth Infantry at Mayen, Germany, and from there in 1921 was ordered to Chalons-sur-Marne—to his surprise, and for what he did not know.

In the little group ordered as pallbearers from the Fiftieth, Fifth and Eighth regiments, the sergeant faced Col. Harry F. Rethers, of the Army Graves Registration service—he wasn't sure it was Colonel Rethers, but thought it was. The colonel examined the service records. None of the men had been decorated, nor had performed signal feats, perhaps by design all were just good, average soldiers.

Picked to Select Unknown.

"I guess you're the one, Younger," decided the colonel. "You'll select the Unknown."

So Younger stood alone in the little chapel improvised in the city hall. Outside the open door stood the officers, French and American—General Dubois, Major General Rogers, Gen. Henry T. Allen, commanding the army of occupation. It was still and dark and silent. Twice he walked around the four coffins. He dropped the bouquet; turned and saluted. The rest was a little blurred in memory. The generals came toward him, and shook his hands. Yes, surely! You know there were speeches and things . . . the bands played the dead march. From Saul? That was it. . . . He went with the body to Havre. It was like a holiday for heroes, so enthused were the French. At Havre was the dinner and the wine. . . .

Identity Never to Be Known.

No, none will ever know the identity of the Unknown Soldier. The four bodies were four identical bodies from four different cemeteries. Even in those cemeteries, or among the men there, these bodies were not identifiable. He understood that not even the companies of these men were known definitely.

They were battlefield strays . . . several squads successively had shuffled the four coffins, one squad after another, in the chapel, before he dropped the bouquet. The coffins were alike as four peas. . . .

No longer cleaves the ruthless sword, And gone is war's grim panoply.

Dead homes, dead men—and now, O Lord,

A moment's rest Beside the monument that we Have builded for ourselves, not thee.

The years shall dull our grief—and yet, Though now the battle dust is laid, Can we forget? Can we forget?

We need thee, Lord, For thine the boon that tears of pain Once shed shall not be shed again. —Albert J. Cook, in American Legion Monthly.

Onion Is Fastidious

The lowly onion, popular as a food even back to the days when the pyramids were built, may be common, but it is, nevertheless, a highly particular vegetable, so far as growing conditions are concerned. It requires especially soil of high fertility and well drained. It will not grow if weeds be present, and it needs cold, moist soil while growing and warm, dry conditions at maturity.

Diminutive Opossum

A species of opossum, the adults of which are only five inches from the tip of the nose to the tip of the tail, was found in Argentina by H. Harold Shammel of the National museum. Scientifically it is known as "muscula," from the Latin word meaning little mouse. Shammel says the tiny creature is just as acrobatic as the other members of the opossum tribe.

Cross of War, Crown of Peace

The Gold Star Mother speaks:
Soon I shall stand beside the little mound,
That makes all France for me, a sacred ground.
The place where rests with all life's battles o'er,
The earth's garment that my son's soul wore,
The day he went I said with smiling air,
"When you come back son, bring the Croix de Guerre."
I could not in his presence feel the chill
Of endless parting, sorrow's cup to fill,
Or long bereavement's ever gnawing pain,
I was so certain he'd come back again.
Now in my heart and home so long bereft,
Just memory, and the Croix de Guerre are left;
But when they sent the telegram to me
Of one more casualty from over sea

Photo shows Mrs. Elizabeth G. Hutchins, 92, oldest Gold Star mother that journeyed to France, after she had placed a wreath at the grave of her son in the American cemetery at Belleau, France.

I said: "It's someone else, a sad mistake
Or 'Tis a dream and time for me to wake."
Ev'n when the letter came, that said they'd made
His grave close to the Argonne Forest shade
I thought it could not be, but only seemed
Just one more dreadful thing that I had dreamed.

But when a radiance seemed to fill the room
Turning to silvery moonlight all its gloom,

CAN WE FORGET?

NOVEMBER 11, 1930.

In dream or vision came life's greatest joy,
The voice and loving presence of my boy.
"Mother," he said, "I'll never find relief
Until you calm your violence of grief.
Oh, for my sake your bitter sorrowing cease."
Then on my heart there fell a wondrous peace.
I rose, I smoothed my hair, I even smiled,
What will a mother not do for her child?
Lifting my cross on high, I'll journey on,
Till life is over and all sorrow gone.
Only for him I pray a glad release
To some blest plane, where all earth's troublings cease.
Grant to him then Thy choicest blessing, Lord
And unto him a hero's just reward
After the strife and anguish, sweet surcease
After the Cross of War, the Crown of Peace.
—Louise Ivory Moore, in St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Never to Be Forgotten

Armistice day finds us with souls uplifted by the vision of a warless world, yet none of its anniversaries can ever discover us unmindful of the deeds of valor which enable us, instead of our one-time enemy, to celebrate them in pride rather than remorse. Armistice anniversaries fire us with something more than patriotic emotions rooted in the past.

Historic Jamestown

The British colony at Jamestown was not established on an island in 1607. At that time it was a peninsula projecting into the James river. It was not until more than a hundred years later that the peninsula was cut off by the river and formed into an island. The present island comprises only a few acres.

Of Interest to Poultrymen.

The Better Poultry Association has made arrangements with the Farm News to publish a number of very valuable and interesting articles on the care and breeding of poultry. These articles will be prepared under the direct supervision of the U. S. Says WILL ROGERS

BEVERLY HILLS.—Well all I know is just what I read in the papers, or what I find out one way or another.

Here a couple of weeks ago I wrote a Sunday Article and it mentioned the Donner Party at Donners Lake as being our only case of Cannibalism ever practiced in our abundant country. Well then some man wrote me and told me of a case of a man named Packer in Colorado, and so I wrote a Daily prescription about him, stating the Judge's charge to the Jury, and admonishing him for eating up all the Democrats in the County. If he had just eat up a Republican why the Judge (a fine old high type Democrat from Arkansas) would have perhaps given the man a pension instead of a sentence. Well now we got that much straight.

Well now comes a long and very interesting letter from a man named N. E. Guyot, whose letterhead says Kingman Arizona, and he gives me the exact details of this last case. It seems he was in Colorado at the time. Now a lot of folks thought I was just kidding when I wrote of this Packer, and the story of the Democrats but it was the gospel truth. I certainly wouldnt make light of a thing so serious as eating a Democrat. We are reaching a time in our existence when we need every one we can muster. We got to get some prosperity mixed up in our National existence. So I certainly was serious and was relating a historical fact. But wait, let Mr. Guyot tell you—

"It was in the Northwestern part of Colorado, San Juan mountains, ten miles from the Town of Lake City, on a plateau that is called on Government survey, 'Cannibal Plateau.' It was here that Packer through a severe snow storm murdered and devoured his Prospector companions." Now those are some mere facts but here is the things I want you to get. Its the history of this fellow Packer before he started in subsisting on the minority party. Packer was a Harvard Graduate, and graduated in '66. He was a Law Student and started practicing in Boston. What I am getting at is that the only case of a person willfully devouring human flesh was by the Alumni of the great Harvard. So Harvard has not only produced the least understandable English in our fair land, but produced the only living Cannibal.

Then he was a Lawyer, that of course seems natural, their profession is an offshoot of the cannibal profession, they generally skin em alive. Packer did have the good taste to destroy em and get em out of their misery. Most Lawyers delight in seeing their victims suffer. It was the winter of 72 and 73. There was six Companions, and they were all well equipped with provisions. But in the snow they got lost from their Burros. Mr. Guyot in his letter says that it was the first time, and perhaps the last that a Lawyer was ever permitted to accompany a band of Prospectors into the mountain. He always waits till they go out and find it, and then he gets his share by showing em where to sign their name. But Packer was afraid they would come back and find another Lawyer so he just went along with em. But aint that strange that a Lawyer is never allowed out with Prospectors?

Well it seems there was dissension from the start over allowing him to come along, and in his trial afterwards, he said that he heard them plotting to kill and eat him. But that didnt go with the Judge and Jury. They knew no man could ever get so hungry that they would eat a Lawyer.

Now I was wrong in one little misstatement about the case. I had heard he was hung. He was not. Colorado was then a Territory and the game laws did not protect Democrats. Even to this day in some states it would not be considered illegal to eat one. So they give him forty years in Canyon City Jail. That was a little over six years for each one he ate. You would have to eat at least ten or more to get life according to Colorado Justice. He didnt stay in there that long. Along in 99 when Civilization and the Denver Post hit us, why them and other papers started a campaign to release him. There was a tight election coming on, and them being Republicans, they wanted to let him out hoping he would eat up some more Democrats before November 4th.

After this Packer fellow was released from the Jail, he went to Cripple Creek and inserted an advertisement in the local papers, asking for men with means to accompany him on a prospecting trip. Not a Soul went. Oh Yes! I forgot to tell you he was the Son of A missionary, and in his youth had spent some time in the South Sea Islands. Thats how he acquired this taste. A Missionary, a Lawyer, a Harvard Graduate. I want to tell you illiteracy is a blessing.

TUESDAY'S ELECTION.

As this paper is printed on Tuesday evening it is impossible for us to give the result. While there were the normal votes cast, never-the-less it was very quiet election, all electors seemingly had decided for whom to vote and did not stop to argue the question. "Good night!" we yelled as Henry stepped on the starter thing. It whirled, but the engine wouldn't explode. Henry got out and turned the intake a little. Everybody stood on the porch waiting.

"Well, good night!" we sang again. But the more we tried the more the car didn't go. Henry said that maybe the generator was flooded. So he fixed THAT. "Here goes—good night!" But a fence post, my dear, couldn't have been any more stationary. We tried the good night stuff again and the folks were beginning to bet we wouldn't make it in ten good nights. Henry got all fussed up and fixed the points in the exhaust.

At last Fred came to the rescue. He said what I'd have said long before if I hadn't been so busy saying good night—"I'll bet you're out of gas." . . . and all the time there hadn't been as much as a drop in the gasket!

We got away about three, and Henry said, "I'm off guessing at the g.s. From now on, I'll watch the ammeter." And I said, "I told you so!"

The Rainy Day

by
A. J. Dunlap

Gray clouds scudding overhead,
Cattle huddling in the shed,
Horses idly eating hay —
That's the old farm's rainy day.

Just the time to tinker things:
Broken harness, hooks and springs;
Shell the feed corn, fix a bin
Where a rat had chiseled in;
Trim a hoof, or clip a mane;
Mend a rod or patch a seine;
Build a feed box for old Nell,
While the dashing raindrops fell —
Work like that was only play,
On the old farm's rainy day.

Limit to Divers' Work

The greatest depth at which useful work has been accomplished by divers is 275 feet. This was in salvaging the United States submarine F-4, sunk off Honolulu.

Life and High Altitude

It is believed that a man can live at an altitude of 25,000 feet for a brief period if he does no particular work. Army flyers are required by army regulations to begin using oxygen as soon as they reach an altitude of 15,000 feet.

Plains of Abraham

The heights near Quebec known as the Plains of Abraham took their name from Abraham Martin, a Canadian pioneer who was a pilot on the St. Lawrence river. When Samuel de Champlain founded the city of Quebec he authorized a deed granting Martin a homestead on the heights, and his herds of cattle and sheep were a common sight on the tableland along the St. Lawrence river.

Last Week's News Reviewed by A Stranger in the Windy City

Chicagoan is glad to hear from readers on matters of general interest to the community. Letters sent to the above address will receive prompt attention.

Chicago, Ill., Nov. 4.—Well, while folks all over the country are voting, today we're having a little election ourselves. I refer to our "greatest man" letters which were all turned over to a committee yesterday. It will take these good people some time to reach a decision on the winners, but I hope they will have completed their work so that we can announce the prize winners next week. If they do not, the prizes will surely be awarded the following week, so don't worry, you'll hear all about it soon.

Two more letters regarding Mentone folks came under the wire this week. One of the writers lapses into poetry as follows:

This is why Mentone is such a grand little town;
A finer country can never be found;
This is why we're proud of our country round;
They came from good old ancestors from way back down
When our little town was laid out in place,
They walked right in and built up our town.
Some retired, some are gone to their resting place,
But their sons still walk in the self same place.
There is a man who lives in our town,
Who was reared up in the good country round,
And with his good and plentiful life,
He has made of his life a sacrifice.
He goes from morning until late at night;
He aids the needy and helpless and poor.
He administers to all who come to his door.

Don't think that he has no worries and vexations in life,
But he just keeps on in his same steady pace.
For he wears the grace of his mother's face.
Now can't you think who this is to be?
Why, it's —————,
As one can plainly see.

The second letter is from a man in another state, but it is evident that he is well acquainted with the people and history of Mentone, for he says:

"The question of picking the greatest man in Mentone is quite a problem, and several angles and views must be taken into consideration. The idiopsychology of one's self will have some bearing in picking the one great individual of this small metropolis. The man I pick to fill this acclaimed title is one of the pioneers of the village, one who has seen it in its various stages of progress and has contributed to its welfare. This man came to Mentone in the early days, having a section of land, full of stumps and briars to start him off. He settled in the village of Mentone and proceeded to clear his land. Cattle soon roamed the pastures. Corn and wheat covered the adjacent fields. Prosperity came as only it does through hard work and management. He took a prominent part in politics; was one of the people responsible for the free public library; paved streets and street lights were also indebted to him for their existence. He upheld public improvements and maintained a standard that was for the betterment of the community. ————".

Now that you know how the election went, you can do some guess ing about our greatest man.

REED-6PM NOV-11-1918 MARECHAL FOCH

The words contained in this message threw the world into a frenzy of joy on that eventful morning of November 11, 1918, the anniversary of which is being observed by the nations engaged in the World war. It is the late Marshal Foch's order halting hostilities on the front.

How Soldiers Got the News

It was Monday, November 11, 1918, when hostilities came to an end from Switzerland to the sea. Twelve years ago at eleven o'clock of the eleventh day of the eleventh month—"Finis la guerre."

It was a memorable day, a more memorable moment when, at the stroke of eleven, the noise of cannon stopped, machine guns grew still, and rifles ceased to crack. For the first time in four years the air was free from flying missiles, and there was quiet on the tortured face of a war-torn land.

Over here, one remembers the noise which accompanied the wildest delirium of celebration the country ever has known. But what lingers in the mind of every man who was a member of the A. E. F. in France is the moment of deafening silence which punctuated the end of the war.

There could be no noise of celebration to equal the roar of the war which certain members of the American expeditionary forces had been engaged in. They had been listening to the granddaddy of all noises, louder noises and more of them than ever had been heard in the history of the world. So it is not the noise which is memorable to the American soldiers who were at the front twelve years ago; it is the sudden, complete cessation of all noise.

Good News Flies Fast.

Along the twenty-seven miles of front held by Americans, firing continued literally until the eleventh hour. Word of the impending armistice had spread faster than the flu during the epidemic. None of the doughboys believed it at first. They had heard the same thing before. It was just one of those rumors. Only the preceding Thursday night—the night the envoys came over from Spa—some one had passed the word that the armistice had been signed and there had been a small flurry of excitement, lights where there should be no lights and indiscriminate firing of arms resulting in hard-voiced reprimands.

But this time it was true. From the wireless station on the Eiffel tower in Paris Marshal Foch's order to cease firing at eleven o'clock had gone out into the air to the half-incredulous line which the Americans held from near Sedan to the Moselle.

The high command had a notion of passing the wonderful order along in a military manner, to have the corps report it calmly by wire to the divisions, the divisions to the brigades, the brigades to the regiments, the regiments to the battalions, and so on until every member of every squad knew about it. But it didn't work out that way.

The news spread by that form of wireless known to man long before Marconi was born. It started early in the morning with the first blush of dawn. It ran along a thousand mess lines of men shivering and stamping in the mud, clattering their mess gear and clamoring for chow. Truck drivers shouted it to one another on the roads. Dispatch riders flung the words over their shoulders as they kicked the stands of their motorcycles into place and turned on the gas. So over winding, battered roads, into kitchens, camions, hospitals, ammunition dumps, gun emplacements, dugouts and barracks went the tremendous news—"Finis la guerre. Eleven o'clock."

war went on in a final burst of reckless abandon. Everyone wanted to have a hand in it before it ended. It is told how at one point where a Yankee outfit was having a brisk battle on the east of the Meuse a man stationed at one battery stood with a handkerchief in his uplifted hand, a watch in the other. It wanted one minute of eleven o'clock. In front of him were the guns of the battery, four of them. Attached to each lanyard was a long rope, manned by gunners, cooks, signalmen, soldiers, messengers, stragglers, everybody. At eleven o'clock the handkerchief fell, the men pulled and the battery fired its last shot. And so it was, at hundreds, thousands of places along the line.

Stopped Fierce Action.

Probably the hardest fighting being done by the Americans in the final hour of the war was that which engaged the troops of the Twenty-eighth, Ninety-second, Eighty-first and Seventh divisions with the Second American army. They had hunched an attack above Vignuelles, just before dawn. It was no tea party. They knew nothing of any order to cease firing, and were hard at it when word reached them just in time, brought to the edge of the battle front by runners scurrying from fox hole to fox hole.

Then, at the stroke of eleven, after every gun in the war seemed to have been fired simultaneously, some of them without any attempt at direction, silence—utter and absolute silence—fell upon the land. It was as if the world had suddenly died. Men looked at one another bewildered. But only for a moment. Then—

Every man in the A. E. F. threw down his tools of war. A slow grin spread over his face. And then he yelled. At that moment every one was slightly befuddled, slightly mad. Then another amazing thing happened.

The battered, torn landscape which a minute before had been as bare as the palm of your hand, became alive with men. They crawled up out of the earth, dirty, disheveled figures, and looked about them a good deal surprised to discover so many people in a place which had looked so deserted.

Fraternalizing With Foe.

The Germans came up grinning, eager to swap caps and equipment for tobacco and food. A stranger with an all-observing eye looking down upon the scene at this moment would never have been able to tell from the looks of things which side had won the war.

And that night, for the first time since the war started, there was light, illumination other than the flare of guns, the burst of shells and the tapering beams of searchlights sweeping across the dark sky in search of hostile airplanes.

Now that the war was over the boys lit everything they could find. Screens were torn from windows and doors. A new moon shone. Rockets and flares were sent up to brighten the sky. And that night there was many a man who could not sleep. It was so d—n quiet.

Thus ended the five hundred and eighty-fifth day of America's participation in the war. That was twelve years ago. "Finis la guerre."

A BID IN KIND.

A dealer in one of the large Middle Western cities was asked by a surgeon to submit prices on monuments in different sizes, different materials etc. with the added stipulation that the bid hold good for sixty days that he might talk with all the dealers in the city and environs.

The dealer answered by mail in this way:

"Am in the market for bids on one operation for appendicitis; one,—two—or five inch incision with or without ether, also with or without nurse. If appendix is found sound, want quotations to include putting same back in place and cancelling order. If removed, successful bidder is expected to hold incision open for about sixty days, as I expect to be in the market for an operation for gall stones at that time and want to save extra cost of cutting."

The spider was merely looking over our paper to see which merchant is not advertising, so that he can go to that store, spin his web across the door, and live a life of undisturbed peace ever afterwards."

Thought for the Day

Sugar can be more quickly and easily converted into energy than any other food. Any normal diet, and most reducing diets, contain sugar. Sugar is pure energy. No cell in the body can live without fuel, and sugar is one of the most effective of fuels. When a long denial of sugar sets a craving for it, it is quite possible that the need is a real one.

MENTONE PUBLIC SCHOOLS

Items Pertaining to This Institution of Education.

Chas. Cole, Editor.

The large heating plant at the new school building is in place and the brick work has started. When this building is finished we will certainly have something to be proud of. There are five large rooms in the basement not counting the furnace room. The entire ground floor will be finished with glossy brick. The contractor hopes to have the brick work done by Thanksgiving. Then the inside work may proceed through out the winter.

The sophomore English class has been studying Hawthorne and Elliot and now are working on story "Silas Marner" a realistic novel. Miss Southerlin said that nine tenths of the people dig their graves with their teeth then one of the wise crackers piped up "Just how long would I have to dig to get a hole large enough to put me in." "Well, Jack it would take you a long while", she came back. The instructor is teaching many poor morals. Another thing she stressed was that most people form their good or bad habits before they have reached the age of thirty.

Mr. Champer said that gas monoculars travels at the rate of speed of a rifle bullet and the size of a gas monocular is one, three-hundred Millionth, of an inch in diameter. Now what we wonder is how he can get one of those monoculars to sit still long enough to measure it.

Another interesting event that took place last week was the marriage of one of our senior girls, Miss Naomi Secor to Warren See. Miss Secor took her elementary schooling at Harrison and her high school here. She has always taken an active interest in class affairs and has done a lot for the progress of her fellow class mates. We are sorry to lose a member of our class but nevertheless we wish them all the happiness and success in the world.

The deportment in the assembly seems to be much improved since the report cards were given out. The honor would have had more names had some of the students deportment been up.

The first team received their new jerseys Thursday. We are no more the "Checkers" but "Bulldogs." They have two different kinds. One all black with a picture of a bulldog on the front. The other is white with Mentone written across the front. The first string men are: Nellans, Barkman, Blackburn, Wm. Blue, Lyons, Philip Blue, Teel, Powers, Everet Long and Shirey. The second string: Lynn, Hipshire, Ralph Long, Whetstone, Smith, W. Shirey, Altenburg, Davis, Ross and Nellans.

Hallowe'en Party.

The old black witch with her magic wand, the broom stick, visited the assembly Friday night. The Juniors were throwing a party and their guests were the distinguished Seniors.

As this was a masquerade, there were everybody from Julius Caesar to Lindberg there. The party was a "big" success and everyone seemed to enjoy themselves. After the delightful refreshments of pumpkin pie, sandwiches and apples were served the party had to end at the late hour of ten o'clock just when the witches are having the time of their lives, we took our leave for home sweet home.

POULTRY FACTS

NEW YORK WANTS
ITS EGGS WHITE

Shippers Will Find It Profitable to Meet Desires.

New York city is particular about its eggs and local shippers find it profitable to meet the requirements of this market, says Prof. J. C. Huttar of the New York State College of Agriculture.

A good case, new white fillers, and white eggs, uniformly graded, give the New York buyer confidence in the quality of the eggs. If a certain brand has a reputation for uniform grading, a buyer may examine a few eggs in one or two cases and buy accordingly.

When a patron in a restaurant orders two fried eggs and the waitress brings him one with a light yolk and the other a golden orange, he thinks something is wrong with one or the other and sends them back to the kitchen, even if they are perfectly good eggs, a New York city restaurant buyer recently told Professor Huttar.

A light yolk, or one that appears light before the candle, is in demand. One class of trade discriminates heavily against an orange or red yolk. Yolks appear reddish before the candle if they have been subjected to warm temperature for more than one or two hours. No doubt this is the way most of the New York state produced eggs got their bad name, says Professor Huttar.

Making Poultry Houses
Comfortable for Winter

It is impossible to remodel old-type poultry houses so that they will provide fresh air and at the same time control frost and moisture as satisfactorily as a new, well planned one will do. There are, however, some simple things that can be done for the old poultry house that will make it much more comfortable in winter.

There is probably nothing that can be done to make an old house more comfortable than to put in a straw loft overhead. If the loft is built straight across just enough to be out of the way so that it is not necessary to stoop, overhead will be reduced and a proper temperature can be maintained. The thickness of the layer of straw should be anywhere from 12 to 18 inches after it has settled.

Shutter-ventilators are much more reliable for ventilation than muslin curtains and in remodeling a shutter-ventilator can often be substituted for one sash of an old window.

Floor space for birds may be increased by constructing dropping boards and at the same time sanitary conditions will be greatly improved. Many common poultry diseases are spread through infected droppings.

Too Early Laying Not a Desirable Quality

The birds that start to lay early are usually, other things being equal, the best birds in the flock. However, early laying at the expense of body growth and development is not wanted. The early matched pullets, some of them, will be starting to lay now, but they must not be forced. If these pullets come into lay normally and are well developed, they may be permitted to lay as they will. If, on the other hand, they come into lay before having physically developed as they should, an effort should be made to hold them back somewhat until they have developed further.

Poultry Facts

Chicken feed is a poultry sum.

Don't dope chickens unless necessary.

Chickens would rather roost outside than in a mite infested house.

The constant culling of the poultry flock is a most commendable practice.

Poultrymen who have been using lights on their laying flocks should plan to discontinue them about the first of April.

The typical hen usually lays the greatest number of eggs the first, or pullet year, then drops off about 15 to 20 per cent each succeeding year.

When the young chickens are raised on clean range, kept in clean houses, and given clean feed and water, it is seldom necessary to give any kind of poultry remedy.

Legume hay that is leafy and of good quality makes a very satisfactory substitute for the succulent green food of summer.

The best evidence a poultryman can use in judging a breeding male before he is tested is the production performance of his mother and sisters.

It is important that the hay be cut from young, immature plants that are largely leafy in content. It should also be carefully cured so that it will retain its bright green color.

Deadly Visitation

The "black death" is the name given to an aggravated epidemic of the oriental plague which swept over Asia, Africa and Europe in 1848-49. The disease turned the bodies of its victims black, hence the name. More than 25,000 people perished in Europe alone, and the death toll in Asia and northern Africa was much greater.

JUST THINKIN'

Hard Work

Give me the job that makes you hustle,
The kind of job that makes you scratch—
The job with which you have to tussle,
Before you prove that you're its match!
I want no task that does not try me,
That does not put my wits to test—
For only when such things defy me,
Have I the chance to do my best!

I shall not think that life is dreary,
If I must fight to make my way—
Nor shall I whine if I am weary
When I shall reach the end of day.
Hard work, I should not be afraid of;
From trying tasks I should not flee.
They let me show the stuff I'm made of,
And help to make a man of me!

PROFITS UNFAIRLY DIVIDED

By CHASE S. OSBORN, Ex-Governor of Michigan.

There has been an unfair division of the profits of the machine. The industrialist has not been intentionally unjust in this connection. At least I wish to think this is true. No one appears to have fathomed the thing. They see mathematics that state the profits of the machine.

Perhaps the one thing that shall offer some good in result is a shorter working day, even curtailed working week. There are those who believe the work of the world can be done in four days a week of six hours or less a day. This is a guess, but it is a thought in the right direction. Shorter working hours without lessened wage can be brought about. The difficulty is the variable buying power of money.

TEACHING STANDARDS TOO LOW

By DR. CLYDE R. MILLER, Teachers College, Columbia University.

THE vast majority of young American school teachers are callow, uncultured and mediocre. They are not worth their pay to the schools that hire them. The schools of education should stop graduating hundreds of surplus teachers and give their attention to improving the abilities of those already in the profession. Communities all over the country are throwing good money after bad in manning their schools with undertrained young people because they can be hired for small salaries.

School boards build modern structures, with fine swimming pools, gymnasiums and ventilating systems and then say, "We have a good school." Of course, they haven't.

They try to economize by engaging recent graduates to teach, and the schools meet this demand with youngsters who have had no more than a high-school education before they began their professional studies. With that kind of teaching they might as well close the school, for all the good it does its pupils.

One mature teacher, capable and experienced, who can be hired for $3,000 is worth more to a community than ten young ones who may be paid $1,000 each.

Yet in my experience I have found such prejudice exists against older teachers that I warn those over forty-five not to give up their positions under any circumstances in the expectation that, after traveling or studying awhile, they will be able to return and find another job.

Graduate schools of education and teacher-training centers can give the teaching profession standards as high and as well respected as schools of medicine, by co-ordinated effort, have given the practice of medicine.

SURPLUS WEALTH FROM FARM

By W. M. JARDINE, Ex-Secretary of Agriculture, in Country Home.

If a farmer becomes prosperous, what happens to the money he makes? The city gets it in the end.

On the face of things it appears that everything else would take care of itself if the farmer is given more money and allowed to spend it as he wants. But experience proves that this is not necessarily true. Many families, relatively prosperous, move to town to get the benefits of the city's standard of life. The prosperous farmer either sells his farm or places a tenant in charge. In the latter case, the farm must support two families. The new man has his fortune to make out of the soil. The owner spends his income on things that deprive his farm community not only of his money, but his intelligent direction. Even though the owner retains direction of his farm, his income is spent in the town. If he sells it outright, his wealth goes into stocks and bonds, which enrich the cities. The perennial loss of surplus wealth from the country is one of the outstanding causes of a barren country life. It is slow to accumulate, but surplus wealth can do a great deal if it is widely utilized. It should be the means of making the farm home a desirable place to live.

A Stranger in the Windy City

Chicagoan is glad to hear from readers on matters of general interest to the community. Letters sent to the above address will receive prompt attention.

Chicago, Ill., November 11—Well, folks, we'll just have to wait another week for those prize-winning letters. Our committee has not yet acted, but since they will soon recover from the election, I hope, we may look for some decision from them soon.

Speaking of elections, did you ever imagine there were so many Democrats in the world as we have discovered in Chicago and Indiana. Why there are enough now to attract Will Rogers, and I would not be surprised to learn that he had taken up his abode in either Mentone or Chicago, although since Oklahoma has gone Democratic, he might return to the land of his fathers. California is certainly no place for a Democrat.

According to the Farm News, Mentone experienced a sane Halloween, and the very next item, written election night, told me that the town was also quiet over election. It is strange that such an unusual election was accompanied with so little excitement. About a million voters marked up 66,000 pounds of ballot paper in Chicago, yet our police force reports the quietest election in years.

Every veteran of the World War smiled if he laid eyes on the front page cartoon in last week's paper. You just can't wear that old uniform, can you? I've tried it and tried it, but the darn thing seems to have shrunk, for I'm sure I still retain my boyish figure. I never participate in them any more, but I often watch parades of veterans in uniform, and of late years I've never recognized one of the suits in which we ate "corn willie" and "deep sea turkey" in the days of the A. E. F.

Yep, I read it! And any time I offer anything for sale through the columns of The Farm News, my little quarter will go right along with the order. No publisher can afford to keep books on such trivial accounts. They cost more time for the accounting than they are worth.

Mr. and Mrs. Allen Borton and Mrs. Alice Borton, as well as young Donald, were recently entertained by Mr. and Mrs. George Stockberger. One of the high spots of the entertainment, according to the Farm News, was the rabbit fry served to the guests. Nothing like a good old "hasenpfeffer" on a cold fall night! And, I'm sure Mrs. Stockberger knows just how to bring out the most delicious flavors, too.

Of course, when Rev. J. Cook, of Warsaw, spoke the words that made Warren Sea and Naomi Secor man and wife, neither of the principals, or the preacher, or, for that matter any of their friends, were thinking of hasenpfeffers. They were congratulating the happy pair and wishing them happiness and prosperity during their married life.

To tell the truth, I'm just recovering from the election myself.

There will be initiation at our next regular chapter meeting, Monday, November 17th. The November entertaining committee well serve.

Rebecca

"Rebecca of Sunnybrooke Farm," who does not remember this wonderful picture?

The first three letters of your name, REB, indicate a peculiar combination of friend and rebel, according to the ancient languages.

A friend to all who are in trouble, a rebel against the established customs of society, you present a curious picture to those who do not understand you.

You seem to grow by resistance. Like Rebecca at the well, in the Bible, you do best in seeking your own mate among those who come from a far country.

With your classic features and almost Greek profile, you could exert all the charm necessary to hold him, when once you had attracted him.

The tragedy and the happiness of your life may be formed upon one and the same event, or at least upon one combination of events. For the RE in the fore part of your name means to do again and signifies the possibility of your marrying twice.

There is one thing certain, to attain your happiness, you must make your choices, whether one or many, by yourself. You are one of those for whom no one else can make a decision.

It was only in the understanding of this necessity of self-determination, this making of her own choices, that enabled one famous Rebecca to attain her success in writing.

And when you marry wealth, as you easily can do, you must immediately pick up the loose ends of your education. If there could be anything more essential to you than food for your body, it would be food for your mind, Rebecca. You can be happy only when you are thoroughly well informed.

HOW TO LIVE LONGER

By John Clarence Funk, A.M., Sc.D.

Director of Public Health Education,
State of Pennsylvania

Take Care of Them

JUST at present dental hygiene is in the limelight. The schools are full of it, health departments extol it and dentists preach it. The net result is that many thousands of children are going to possess permanently much healthier mouths than formerly was the case.

When it is realized that many of the killing diseases of later life can often be directly traced to faulty teeth, the consequences of this movement can be appreciated. Indeed, it is not too much to predict that a vast army of the present school population, through the dental habits now being inculcated, will be saved hundreds of thousands of serious disease conditions.

Nevertheless, one must admit that there is a tremendous number of young and older people who do not come under direct dental hygiene influence at all. And that is exactly where the rub comes in. Many die as a consequence.

Undoubtedly, long and healthy life will have a greater chance of being one's lot if proper dental care is regularly applied. At least two brushings a day and a semiannual examination by a reliable dentist are the fundamental requirements for dental health. With you and your dentist working together in this way to keep your mouth in proper shape, a mighty bulwark against many diseases has been effectively erected.

Just a reminder: False teeth are false. Don't believe the fellow who tells you that they are just as good as the real thing. He is just as false as his teeth!

Wide-Brim Felts Versus Smart Little Felt Beret

Every one likes the new wide-brimmed felt hats. They are so youthful and so flattering. The model pictured has the correct very shallow crown, which sets the hat back off the forehead. Its brim, in white, with crown in black, smartly interprets the black-and-white vogue. The little beret with a bow at the side is a "last word" in chic as it is made of felt stripping which milliners are using extensively. The other stunning felt which is in acajou brown is one of the voguish double or cushion-rim types.

Wool Lace the Sensation in Way of Fall Style News

It's a thrilling bit of fashion news—this about wool lace for frocks and the blouse. Not too formal for frocks wear nor yet too "sporty" for dressy occasion. You'll love an afternoon frock of wool lace in either deep wine or dark green or in one of the fashionable browns, especially when touched with bows and a belt of matching velvet ribbon as pictured. The blouse of wool lace with the fall suit is the "last word."

Vivian

"Lively, merry, mirthful, sparkling

Rippling into gales of laughter,
Dancing lightly on her toes."

This would describe you, Vivian. Life is your outstanding trait, as well as your principal object. You appreciate life probably more than a good many around you, but strange to remark, life may be very quiet in your expression of it. It is the soul of you that goes dancing through life, and you can possess those dancing feet of your soul, in your physical body, if you want to.

You make a curious combination, in some ways. You love life, laughter and beauty, but seem to take hold of it. Don't you know that if you go on dreaming forever without doing, that your life will be quite empty?

I believe in you, that's why I am analyzing you. Some of your friends might smile if I told them how much I can see in you.

There is only one person to depend upon. If you are to make a success, and that is yourself. Your life force, in its present state of development, is like that of a violet, a shrinking violet in a corner.

But it doesn't have to remain that way. You can awaken to the big possibilities around you, fast enough, if you go about it. Let's start something.

One of the best ways to make yourself more alive in any group is by having something to talk about. To do this you should have access to a good public library, or else own a good encyclopedia. Make it a rule to look up one subject a day on which you are not well informed. Then tell what you know of that subject to some one, to get the practice.

WORLD WAR BY * * YARNS LIEUT. FRANK E. HAGAN

The First and Last Shots

The question of who fired the first and last shots in any of our wars and when and where they were fired has always been a subject for much dispute. So the World War will probably be no exception and future years probably will see various claimants to those titles arising. Already members of the crew of the U. S. S. Kearsarge claim the honor of firing the first shot in the World War for Quartermaster Holman of that ship.

On Good Friday, April 6, 1917, the day that the United States declared war on Germany, the Kearsarge was at the Charlestown, Mass., navy yard. A detail was sent in the naval tug Iwana to seize the German merchant ships in East Boston at Long wharf. They left at 3:30 a. m., crossed the river, forced the high gate on the dock and took possession of the ships. From the deck of the Kroonland, Quartermaster Holman fired into the air as a signal to the navy yard that the gobs had arrived and had the situation in hand. And, that the Kearsarge crew asserts, was "the first American shot fired in the World war."

As for the last shot Lieut. F. V. X. Greene, U. S. N. R. claims that honor for a United States naval railroad battery of 14-inch rifles and quotes from its log as follows:

"November 11, 1918. Battery No. 44. Gun ready to load at 9 a. m. Between 10:05 a. m. and 10:58 a. m. fired five rounds at railway garage, Longuyon. Last shot fired by J. A. Kafika, S. F. 2c, U. S. N. Sponged out and secured. One-third of men given liberty in afternoon."

The health class, for the past week have been giving the grade students a physical examination. The eyes, ears, nose, teeth, heart, feet, height, weight chest breathing, head, abdomen legs and the spine are all examined.

The senior English class have turned orators. They were given subjects to speak on and were given five weeks to prepare the speech. Four students got warm under the collar and gave theirs Monday. Tuesday found four more, Wednesday five and Thursday four. That is over and every one is glad of it, even Miss Southerlin.

The commercial Geography class have decided that coal and petroleum are very important products. Mr. Champer made the assignment to find five hundred by-products that were made from coal, and not to count the dyes because there were nine hundred of them alone. They also found a hundred products made from petroleum.

On Nov. 16 at 2:00 p. m. the community building will be the scene of the ceremony for laying the corner stone of new school building. The music will be by the Mentone Male Quartett and the address by Judge Carlin of Angola after which will engage in the ceremony of laying of corner stone.

At the meeting held at the H. S. Tuesday evening, Nov. 16, preliminary steps were taken to organize a Parent Teachers Association.

The operetta is going along nicely now since every one knows what he is supposed to do. Most of those who are taking parts are working hard on it. The date for the presentation is not definite at present, but we do know it will be sometime in the first week in December.

The government class held an election Tuesday to teach the students how to vote. Only two votes were spoiled. Not so bad for beginners. The way the students voted showed good judgment in many ways. Although the vote was tied there was keen competition between the two party leaders. As it was naturally suspected the election would be one sided but the election surprised the teacher and many of the students as well.

Leader Among Men

The man who radiates good cheer, who makes life happier wherever he meets it, is always a man of vision and of faith. He sows the blossoming flower in the tiny seed, the silver lining in every cloud, and a beautiful tomorrow in the darkest today.—Edwin Osgood Grover.

Seedless Oranges

The original seedless oranges were produced in Brazil by means of budding and the orange trees of this type in the United States all descended from two imported Brazilian trees. Buds or budding sticks are taken from seedless orange trees in spring or fall and inserted in two-year-old seedling orange trees of ordinary type. When the buds send out shoots the seedlings are cut back so that only the budding portions develop.

FARM STOCK

ROUND WORMS IN PIGS EXPENSIVE

Mistaken by Some Growers for Thumps or Influenza.

What the hog raiser calls thumps, influenza, or pneumonia is usually worms. Round worms in pigs cost hog growers of eastern Carolina more money than any other one thing.

"There is only one way to handle this trouble," says W. V. Hays, swine extension specialist at the North Carolina state college. "Use only movable farrowing houses and self feeders. Rake up all the litter, bedding and other trash in the lots and burn it. Turn the lot with a turn plow. Sow some soy beans for the sows and pigs to graze upon in the fall and then plant rye and crimson clover or vetch for winter and spring grazing."

Mr. Hays says before the sow is put into farrowing quarters, clean them out well and scrub with a solution made of one pound of lye to thirty gallons of boiling water. Wash the sow's sides and udder with warm soapy water before putting her into the clean quarters and then keep the pigs on clean ground where they cannot suffer from worms.

To do this will aid the grower in raising the same number of pigs from one-third less brood sows. This is more economical and also prevents runs. It helps to give uniform thrifty pigs coming along six weeks earlier than where they are raised in dirty, worm-infested quarters. Such a system also works in well with the Shay method of breeding and feeding and helps the grower to have his animals fat and ready for the high markets in April and September.

Mr. Hays says the co-operative car lot shipments of hogs are increasing where these sanitation suggestions are followed. In Craven county nearly all of the growers and shippers are following a rigid system of sanitation both in the breeding lots and the fattening pens. The results are seen in a better control of worms, he declares.

Obsolete Animals Are Named by Dr. Mohler

In order to keep abreast of the times the live stock industry must adopt 1930 models of doing business. Dr. J. R. Mohler of the United States Department of Agriculture stated recently.

Doctor Mohler described three types of obsolete animals as follows:

1. Those that fail to repay cost of maintenance.

2. Scrub and grade sires.
3. Animals affected with communicable diseases.

"There are," Doctor Mohler added, "millions of these animals."

Some of the obsolete practices on farms are the old hog lot in favor of the sanitation program, the incubator has replaced the hen as well as the recommendation affecting poultry which may be out of date from last year.

"In the swift moving era," the chief concluded, "in which we live, there is need to use the methods which enable us to meet the pace set by our fellow industrialists. Better, healthier and more useful animal types are essential."

Feeding Veal Calves to Get Best Results

For the first two weeks the calf should be fed three times daily. During the first week it should receive eight to ten pounds of milk a day and during the second week ten to twelve pounds a day. Beginning with the third week, milk and grain supplement, or skim milk substitute and grain supplement, can gradually replace whole milk. By the end of the third or fourth week, therefore, according to the size and vigor of the calf, the whole milk can be omitted from the feed. The amount of skim milk can gradually be increased to sixteen or eighteen pounds daily.

The grain is best fed dry, beginning with a handful after feeding the milk. When the calf is one month old and is being fed entirely on skim milk, or skim milk substitute, clover hay and grain, the amount of grain can be one-half pound daily. At the end of two months it can be one pound, and at the end of three months two pounds daily. No further increase is necessary until the calf is six months old. A good grain mixture consists of 100 pounds of corn meal, 100 pounds of ground oats, 100 pounds of wheat bran, 50 pounds of linseed oilmeal, and eight pounds of blood flour.

New Cattle Disease

Anaplasmosis is the technical name applied to a cattle disease which has recently made its appearance in Kansas, Missouri, Oklahoma and the Southwest. The affected animals become anemic and run high temperatures but usually have a normal appetite. The milk flow begins to drop and later the animal loses its appetite. There is usually an increase in the flow of saliva and tears. About 80 per cent of the cases terminate fatally and death usually comes in a week.

Reproduced Great Work

After he had completed the manuscript for the first volume of his work on the French revolution Thomas Carlyle sent it to his old friend John Stuart Mill. The manuscript was destroyed by a maid while cleaning up Mill's rooms. Carlyle was compelled to work nearly a year to reproduce the work, which, of course, was not the same as the first draft.—Pathfinder Magazine.

King Turkey on Path to "Glory"

To the martial music of brass bands 10,000 Thanksgiving turkeys march down the broad street between the gaily decorated buildings as the cheering multitude applauds the strutting battalions. For Turkeyville—any one of the half-dozen Texas towns which help supply us with rare meat for the festival holiday board—is celebrating the one red-letter holiday of the year.

Row upon row until their lines stretch into the far distance in shimmering colors of red, white and bronze come the multitude of turkeys. Fluffy white privates, bronze corporals, coal-black lieutenants, dull red sergeants and gold-bedecked majors and colonels push out their wishbones a little farther as they pass the mayor's review stand and add a bit of swagger to their gait.

On and on they march, until a mile or more of the trotting turkeys have passed up the main street, ever getting closer and closer to that ignoble fate that makes this truly the "march of death" and reach the end of that long and treacherous maneuvering which insures to the American consumer his Thanksgiving turkey. While admiring throngs to the right, applauding people to the left, cheer the turkeys on, the leaders are marching through the gates of the large dressing plant into the very "jaws of death," Earle W. Page writes in the New York Evening Post.

All Hail King Turkey.

Among the harvest festivals of America, "Turkey day" stands out unique, linking the Pilgrim Fathers' love of the tender, juicy breast of wild turkeys with the modern popularity of this piece de resistance of the annual holiday table. On this day, the turkeys are hailed as the absolute monarchs they will later become formally upon the throne of the American Thanksgiving dinner table. For this is Turkeyville, in the heart of Turkeyland—a land of magnificent distances, vast grain ranches and a wealth of climate, which makes the empire a natural ranging country for the most beautiful and profitable of our farmyard fowls.

Each town in Turkeyland has its turkey dressing plant, to which all turkeys intended for the holiday table, for many miles about, head early in November. While a few are brought in motor trucks, most of the thousands each plant prepares for market are driven in great flocks, after the fashion of trailing western cattle to market.

A dozen men are required to handle these large flocks, and shelled corn is scattered to the leaders to keep them moving. When night comes a stop is made under a grove of trees, where the fowls may rest. Early the next morning the journey is continued, a man driving ahead in a cart and scattering handfuls of corn now and then, to keep the leaders headed in the right direction.

Thus it is that, during the two or three days prior to the big "turkey day" celebration great flocks of turkeys are being driven over many roads toward the town. Sunrise of the morning of the big event finds a host of turks ready for the final dash down the main street to the dressing plant. It also finds the multitude of King Turkey's hinterland gathered along the street to participate in the celebration.

After the flock has paraded into the large corral of the dressing plant, and the army of killers, pickers and packers have started in dead earnest to wind up the season's work, that the refrigerator cars of dressed turkey may start on their long journey across the continent, the milling multitude enjoys all manner of pastime, from real "turkey trot" dancing to gay ceremonies characteristic of the Southwest.

In the days of the Pilgrims, flocks of wild turkeys strutted in unrestricted pride and splendor through the forests of New England. Doubtless the red man introduced the early settlers to the creamy taste of the white and the succulence of the dark meat of the fowl. From that good day to the present the turkey, either wild or tame, has continued to occupy the place of honor at the American Thanksgiving dinner.

Its Name a Mystery.

Just why this fowl should have been named "turkey" in the English language no one seems to know. The realm of his sultanic majesty had no more to do with the introduction of the bird into polite society than did Greenland. The real turkey is a bird indigenous to North America and was from here introduced to the rest of the world.

The name possibly may be explained by the peculiar call of the mother to her chicks, which sounds very much like "tur-r-k, tur-r-k, tur-r-k." At any rate, there is no relation between the bird and the country of the same name.

The turkey was a favorite fowl among the aboriginal inhabitants of America. It had its habitat all over that vast area, where grew its favorite food—Indian corn. When Cortez, in 1519, reached the realm of the Aztecs, Montezuma entertained him with royal splendor, and among the delicious viands set before the Spanish invaders was roasted turkey.

North of the Rio Grande the turkey was well known and the adventurous Coronado found it among the cliff dwellers and other tribes he met on his expedition through what is today Texas, Arizona and New Mexico.

The wild turkey is credited with being the progenitor of all kinds of turkeys the world over. Ornithologists accept the view that all turkeys have descended from the three forms known today as the North American, the Mexican and the Honduras varieties. The fowl found in certain jungles of South America and known as the curassow, although sometimes called the South American turkey, really belongs to a different family.

The North American turkey—father and mother of the whole tribe—is the original species of the eastern United States, according to experts of the Department of Agriculture at Washington. Its colors are black, beautifully shaded with a rich bronze, illuminated with a lustrous finish of coppery gold. All this emblazons the plumage with a distinctive brightness, and in the rays of the sun the burnished appearance comes out with striking brilliancy.

Wild Birds Still Thrive.

To this day wild turkeys may be found in some of the most unsettled sections of their former range, especially in the wooded and mountainous regions of Arizona, Mexico, Texas, the large swamps of the Gulf, in Tennessee and the Carolinas. The Great Smoky National park boasts large flocks of wild turkeys. Their nests are discovered occasionally and the eggs given to farm hens or turkey hens to hatch, but the chicks, although mothered in a strictly modern way, revert to their wild habits when but a few weeks old.

The present demand for Thanksgiving and Christmas turkeys is so enormous as to make the business of raising, transporting and selling this giant fowl a large enterprise. Carloads of turkeys start reaching market about the middle of November and continue well into December. Should there be a surplus at Thanksgiving, those unsold are held under refrigeration for Christmas.

Old and Modern "Rainmaking"

The Indian medicine man shot his arrow at the storm cloud; the modern white man would train his guns upon it. B. Z. Goldberg, reviewing ancient lore in "The Sacred Fire," writes: "When the . . . magician comes out and throws up sand to the sky and the sand comes down like rain, then the spirit of water must give up the rain." And the very latest plan to induce rainfall is to send up airplanes to sprinkle the clouds with sand!

Says WILL ROGERS

BEVERLY HILLS—Well all I know is just what I read in the papers, and what I hear over the Radio, and as the papers haven't had anything, and the static has been bad, ignorance is pretty rampant. Bernard Shaw talked over the Radio, that was the high point of radio broadcasting. He made the rest of us that sometimes use that medium, think we all ought to retire and just let him say it.

You know he is a brilliant old Bird. He never says what you are looking for him too, but he always says what you are glad he did say.

Italy has had another big wedding. One of the daughters married Boris of Bulgaria. They went away off down to some little town in Italy to marry, it seems there was a Justice of the Peace down there that she liked. It rained during the wedding, which means that it wont turn out very good. But it wouldnt have turned out very good even if it hadnt rained, for poor old Boris just got about another war to go. He aint so old, only about 32, but there will be a war pretty soon, and of course no European war can be official unless Bulgaria is a participant, and then Boris will get thrown out on his ear. The first thing you know the King of Italy will be the Father of more deposed Queen Daughters-in-law than anybody.

Mussolini seems like he is going along pretty strong. Saw a picture in the Movies the other day where he had an awful mess of young fellows drilling and saluting him. France is still leary of him. She is afraid to go down and pounce on him, for fear Germany will hop on her during their chastisement of Italy. Thats why Mussolini traded this Queen to Bulgaria, was in case of any little national uprising in Europe, that Bulgaria would respect their Father-in-law, and join Italy. Its the oldest line of Hooey and Diplomacy in the world in Europe is to try and gain Allies by marriage.

They think if they can marry one of their Royal Family into another Royal Family that that binds em closer. Nobody couldnt have been much closer bound together than Germany and England. They had been marrying each other like Rabbits for generations, yet when the time come they turned against each other like Brothers.

So those poor devils of royal parentage just go along, go where they are sent. I doubt if the gal had ever seen this Boris Bird, till he come prancing down the center aisle.

But we havent got any time to mess away our time worrying about them. What are we doing right here in the old home precinct? When you read this, our usual November Follies will have passed into the discard. Election day will be a relic, and we will wake up with some more of em. There is a deal of excitement, rather synthetic, but anyhow excitement, in some quarters, as to who will go on the Government pension list after this election. They tell me New York State is all hopped up over the Governors race: I dont know just how Roosevelt will fare, but I sure do know he is a fine high class man. I suppose he lost a lot of support by not spanking Tammany and sending em to bed, but he is a fine man never the less, and I guess this other fellow is too, I dont know him.

It looks like the Democrats will get in a bunch of new ones. They always do mighty well on these off years. We get em in on off years and get em out on Presidential years. But it gives some people something to get worked up over, and get all excited over. It dont mean anything. We been staggering along now about 155 years under every conceivable horse thief that could get into office, and yet here we are, still going strong.

I doubt if Barnums circus, or Hagenbachs wild animal circus has housed as many different kinds of species as has been in our Government employ during its existence. Yet as bad as they are they cant spoil it, and as good as they are they cant help it. We are just a river flowing along. We have a drought year, and we have a flood years. They build dams to stop us, but we just fill up and flow on over em, so there is really nothing that can be done to about us. We are just flowing to the sea. Corruption cant retard us, and reformers cant assist us, we are just flowing along in spite of everything.

A good man cant do nothing in office because the System is against him, and a bad one cant do anything for the same reason. So as bad as we are we are better off than any other Nation, so whats the use to worry.

Come pretty near having two holidays of equal importance in the same week, Halloween and election, and of the two election provides us the most fun. On Halloween they put pumpkins on their heads, and on election they dont have to.

FARM POULTRY

SCRATCH LITTER OFTEN MENACE

May Become Damp and Filthy in Poultry House.

More harm than good sometimes results from the scratching litter. It may become damp and filthy and thus be a menace to the health of the flock, or moldy and musty straw may be used with the result that serious loss of birds follows.

Scratching litter can be used to great advantage and most poultry keepers resort to its use during the winter months. The purpose of litter in the poultry house is threefold:

1. Enables feeding of grain so as to induce the birds to keep active during the day.
2. Acts as an absorbent and keeps floor clean.
3. Makes the birds more comfortable.

While these purposes are usually accomplished, at the same time the litter often becomes an unsuspected source of trouble.

Poultry keepers can well afford to exercise much discretion as to the quality of straw to be used for scratching litter. Only bright clean straw, free from dust and mold, should be used as chickens are unable to stand excessive dust and but very little mold since it is so irritating to the air passages. It is difficult to realize how delicate and complicated is the respiratory system of a fowl. As one author puts it, the "chicken breathes pretty much all over its body." Besides having bronchial tubes and lungs, it also has nine air sacs located in various parts of the body which form a part of the respiratory system.

Pullets Laying Eggs Need Best of Care

Hens need a balanced ration if they are to return a profit for feed and care. In the natural laying season—April, May, and June—the hens balance their own ration by eating green feed, gravel, lime, seeds and grains and insects and by drinking water in abundance if it is to be found. In winter, when the hens are kept in a building, these things must be supplied if eggs are to be produced.

In summer hens exercise almost constantly. In order to provide exercise in winter, cover the floor with straw and then scatter the feed in this litter. Have plenty of lime, oyster or clam shells, gravel and charcoal in separate hoppers. Provide the protein (insects) by feeding tankage, meat scrap or milk.

Give green feed in the form of cabbage, alfalfa or sprouted oats. Mangels make an excellent succulent feed, but do not take the place of leaf or green feed.

A warm mash, fed about noon during November and December, stimulates egg production. This may be continued throughout the winter with good results.

Extremely Thin Shells Show Lack of Material

When egg shells are extremely thin, either there is not sufficient material given the birds so that they can make normal shells, or the birds themselves are not able to make the proper use of the material that is given them. The addition of cod liver oil to the ration will help the birds to make better use of the materials that have been furnished or a mineral mixture may supply the necessary elements the birds need. If birds could get out in the direct rays of the sunshine regularly, the health-giving properties would enable them to make more efficient use of the feeds and supplements that are given them. The practice of keeping layers confined in winter prevents this. That's why glass substitutes are used in some of the windows, as these substitutes allow the healthful sun's rays to pass through. When cod liver oil is used, it is added at the rate of 2 pounds to 100 pounds of the mash fed, or about 1½ pints to 100 pounds of mash.

Need More Protein

When hens are not laying, there are a few questions to ask relative to the flock. First, are they properly housed? Second, are the pullets matured and up to standard weight? Third, are parasites, either external or internal, handicapping the flock? If these three questions can be answered satisfactorily and still the birds are not laying in a suitable manner, then it is likely that the trouble lies in the ration. Well-grown birds need a ration containing more protein.

Feeding Program

A good winter feeding program that the average farm poultry raiser will find helpful is as follows: Small grains, as wheat, oats and barley given in early morning; green feed or sprouted oats, 9 to 10 a. m. or another light feed of small grain; a light feed of hot mash at noon and heavy feed of shelled corn in the late afternoon. Do not overfeed on small grain because the birds should consume a good amount of mash from the hoppers throughout the day.

Balloons as Scarecrows

Gardeners on the outskirts of London are using balloons in place of scarecrows. The bags are inflated and attached to sticks in the ground at certain vantage points. A thieving bird, thinking the balloons are delicious "booty," peck at one. The pistol-like explosion so frightens the feathered thief that it never returns.

KOKOMO MAN 80 QUICKLY AIDED BY NEW KONJOLA

Helpless From Rheumatism and Other Ailments—New Medicine Proves Amazing Merit.

MR. JOHN JESSUP.

"I began to fail rapidly in health about a year ago," said Mr. John Jessup, 1315 North Ohio street, Kokomo. "My stomach became weak and would not digest my food. Bladder weakness caused night interruptions of sleep. My general weakened condition made me a ready prey to rheumatism and I suffered until I could no longer walk."

"I felt improvement after the second bottle of Konjola, and I kept on with the medicine. My stomach soon became strong and normal. My kidneys began to function and I was no longer bilious and constipated. I am still a little lame from the previous rheumatism but the pains have entirely gone and now I work every day. My general health is better than it has been in a long time."

Konjola is a new and different medicine containing the juices of 22 natural plants, combined with other valuable medicinal ingredients. A real trial, over a period of from six to eight weeks, works amazing changes in the sufferer's health.

Konjola is sold in Mentone Ind. at the Shafer & Goodwin drug store, and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section.

The Riddle

"Has the old riddle of which came first, the egg or the hen, ever been settled?" asks a correspondent. Yes. The bird evolved from lower forms of life before it perfected the egg-laying business.

SOCIAL ORDER FAVORS STRONG

By REV. RUSSELL J. CLINCHY, New York (Methodist).

Man today, moved and impassioned to live in a brotherly attitude with his fellow citizens, finds himself one of a social order founded and maintained upon the law that the strongest survive. We are securing our daily bread on the same basis upon which our barbaric ancestors secured theirs. The methods only have become refined and cultivated. Our present system engenders fear, a poison both to the work and to society.

It virtually destroys the possibility of men living as brothers. We have evolved a brotherhood in the small family circle where the strong shares with the weak and the young are protected, but beyond that group we must engage in competitive battle with men who should be treated as brothers, yet whom we must seek to destroy in business in order to bring profit to ourselves. We secure our happiness and security at the expense of our brothers.

Religion must set its face to the task of changing the social order from that of the jungle to that of intelligent good will and humanitarian consideration. All religions should unite upon this task and call all men of good will as partners and aids in the effort.

BUSINESS RETURN TO NORMAL

By JAMES J. DAVIS, U. S. Secretary of Labor.

We have all been carried away to such depth of pessimism that when anyone ventured to say that good times would return, he was labeled a "pollyanna." I am sincere in stating that there are many indications that business is picking up and going on. Just before I left Washington for Pittsburgh, a big eastern concern added a thousand new employees to its pay roll, and in another of our industrial cities 21,000 employees are soon to be given employment.

The genius of America has practically put out of existence such things as famine and pestilence, evils that we once thought beyond the power of man to control. I am sure that unemployment will soon be in the same category. The losses and discouragements that we have all had to endure of late have hit bottom and are on the up-swing.

EVIL IN MODERN RESTLESSNESS

By DR. CLARENCE A. BARBOUR, President Brown University.

Despite the many burdens that every human heart must bear alone, too few people carry their troubles patiently or kindly. Everybody has a life to live and a burden to bear and each ought to meet them face to face without fear.

How many married people are content to sit down at home in the evening? How many have to go somewhere—to play bridge, visit, or otherwise actively occupy themselves? They are not satisfied to read a book or quietly talk. "What 'movie' is playing tonight—where can we go this time?"

The human heart is a solitary place. We have an inner life which we must bear alone. It is a chamber which none can enter, and with all our outside cares and diversions we must look inward and face our own problems.

One of our greatest burdens is the consequences of sin. We are forgiven for the guilt of our sins, but the consequences are not taken away. There are a goodly number of people of whom it is true that their sin is finding them out.

On the other hand, what can we do to carry our burdens, how shall we endure them? Don't waste time trying to shake them off, because you can't do it. It is a paradox, but nevertheless true, that the way to bear our own burdens is to bear those of others. Self-forgetting service to others lightens our own cares.

Of Interest to Poultrymen.

The Better Poultry Association has made arrangements with the Farm News to publish a number of very valuable and interesting articles on the care and breeding of poultry. These articles will be prepared under the direct supervision of the U. S. Department of agriculture and be written by men who know the poultry business, and should be read by every person interested in poultry.

The association has also subscribed for a large number of copies of the Farm News to be sent to poultrymen who are not now taking the Farm News, who will receive same until July 1, 1931. Hence if you receive this paper and have not subscribed for it you may know that it is paid for and is not being forced upon you.

As the number of subscriptions ordered by the association does not cover all the poultry keepers in this vicinity and believing that the articles will be of great value to everyone engaged in the raising of poultry we will except subscriptions from any other poultry raiser to expire July 1 1931, for the small sum of twenty-five cents. Just fill in, bring or send the attached coupon to the Farm News office together with twenty-five cents and your name will be placed on our subscription list.

HOW TO LIVE LONGER

By John Clarence Funk, A.M., Sc.D.

Director of Public Health Education,
State of Pennsylvania

Symptom Hunting

IT IS indeed surprising how many people under a misguided idea of enjoyment develop and maintain a fear complex in relation to their well-being. For instance, a muscle pain on the left side of the chest convincingly suggests a fatal heart condition, a sore on any portion of the body is conclusive evidence of cancer, a pain in the neck is the first indication of chronic neuritis, a slight stitch in the lower right side is undeniable proof of appendicitis, a backache means kidney trouble and a cough of more than two days' standing is an established case of tuberculosis!

While it must be admitted that it is always sensible to have a proper regard for the unusual manifestation, even though it be but a slight one it is quite another matter to be forever and anon interpreting this and that little pain as an immediate indication of the necessity of a surgeon's knife or as the first step in the journey to the grave.

The super-egoist, who thus is constantly and for the time being pleasantly in a mental furor, fails to realize that this grand and glorious world has sufficient real trouble in it without borrowing imaginary ones.

Moreover, in addition to being a downright nuisance to himself and others, a person habitually thinking in terms of personal calamity is likely to suffer from an unhealthy mental backfire.

There are, and will continue to be many millions of people in the United States who will never become the victims of any of the major ills to which humanity sometimes is heir—a fact which the alarmists do not appear to appreciate.

For all practical purposes, barring acute conditions, the annual physical examination can usually be relied upon to guard one against the insidious inroads of the major maladies.

Consequently, if you are a symptom hunter drop it from your sport list and go in for something worth while. Symptom hunting most decidedly is a poor game.

MENTONE PUBLIC SCHOOLS

Items Pertaining to This Institution of Education.

Chas. Cole, Editor.

From the Parent Teachers meeting comes this encouraging news. A Parent Teachers Ass'n. has been organized. The large attendance proved that the parents are interested in the work. The speaker of the evening was Mr. Tunner, of Alexandria. He gave a fine entertainment of music and a few tricks of magic. Mr. Tunner consented to give a short entertainment Wednesday morning before the school.

The officers of the P. T. A. are as follows: Dr. Anderson President; Mrs. Chester Manwaring vice president; Mrs. Merl Smith secretary; Mahlon Mentzer treasurer.

Did you know that two hundred and seventy products were grown in this community or rather they are possible to be grown. Ask John Teel to give you the list if you would like to know.

The eight grade basket ball team have had two practices and coach Lyons seems to be finding some fine material. He said "they are plenty fast", and should come through with a good record at the end of the season. The newly elected cheer leaders are Edna Pittman and Freddie Ross.

The first game of the season was a colorful one. The building was decorated in the colors of the two contestants. The blue and white of Milford and the orange and black of Mentone.

The committee to draft a constitution and by-laws for the Parent Teachers Ass'n., are Mr. Kelley, Mr. Champer W. Whetstone and Mr. Ketrow.

The program committee for the P. T. A. are Mr. Grulach, Miss Bowen, Mrs. Fenstermaker, Mr. Burns, Rev. Power, Mr. Hall, and Mrs. Walter Lackey.

The basket ball season started off with a "bang" and Mentone on the wrong side of the bang. But anyhow we witnessed two very fast games. Coach Goshert's "Bulldogs" played a wonderful game but Milford had a slight edge on the Mentone boys as they have played a couple games before, if that means anything. The referee was Fink of Argos and the umpire was Childs of Muncie.

The second string stared their game by Hipshire scoring. The half ended 11 to 10 in Milford's favor. In the last quarter Lynn, Shirey and Whetstone all scored and as the last quarter drew to a close the score stood Mentone 21 and Milford 16 which remained until the finish.

The first team line up, Barkman, Nellans, Lyons, P. Bule, and Blackburn. The Milford line up was Haab Truot, Rex, Jones, Haney. Lyons made the first basket. The half ended 17 to 17, Watta game. The third quarter the score was tied again when Barkman sunk two nice shots making the toss up 22 to 22. Then Milford got away and made a couple of baskets. The game finally ended with the score Milford 31 and Mentone 27.

The final gun had been fired that marked the finish of the game, just before one of Milford's boys fouled Everett Long and he was given the two free shots after the game was over. He took the matter in an easy manner and with the entire crowd around him, made the both baskets.

Beret-and-Jacket Sets Glitter With Sequins

Sequin jackets and berets "all a-glitter" will make night life more dazzling than usual during the coming season. These all-over-embroidered sequin fantasies look their most fetching over the new Grecian-styled gowns of classic simplicity. Not only short jackets but long coats are often sequin embroidered, the favor in glittering effects being pronounced.

"Henry may be the mechanic"

said MRS. MOLLA PROPP,

"but I get the mileage."

HENRY—he's SO mechanical—always says he LIKES to putter around a car. He rather prides himself, my dear, on being able to scrape the carbon off whatever it is that needs scraping and adjust those funny things that let the exhaust into the pistons.

The other day he was fussing as usual and when he put the engine together again he had a crankshaft or so left over. So he called in someone from the garage and drove my car downtown.

I let him have it, but I told him that if he as much as touched any vital part like the torque—you know that thing with the wres—I'd crown him with a skillet.

For I never have any trouble with my car. I go by the ammeter and every five hundred miles I take my car to my oil station. They seem to know what to do. Why, my dear, they change the oil, grease the spark plugs, put new air in the tires, wipe the car off a bit, and everything.

After I'd talked to Henry three or four hours he finally admitted that if he'd go to a station every so often and not always keep adjusting things like the manifold, he'd have less trouble. He may be a mechanic. But I get the mileage, my dear.

When I hear funny noises, I always know right away it's the gas or oil or SOMETHING. But Henry...he's just GOT to get a wrench and fool with the wheelbase or other important parts of the engine. Oh, that man!

Some one has said wisely and wittily: "A river becomes crooked by following the line of least resistance; so does a man." It's a thought worth pondering. THE MENTZER CO.

Says WILL ROGERS

BEVERLY HILLS—Well all I know is just what I read in the papers, and all I have read in the last week is about the Democratic uprising of November 4th. It was my birthday and the Boys of the party really did themselves proud in my honor. The Republicans were looking for a punch in the jaw, but not for a kick in the pants at the same time. Why, there was men beat at this wake that thought they had a deed to their seat. We will kinder start in alphabetically with the disasters and take 'em in that order, starting with Illinois.

An old Democratic friend of mine, J. Ham Lewis, who has red whiskers, and a green vest to match, used to be in the Senate away back during the days when we was fixing it so there would never be another war. If my Emily Post Etiquette book serves me right, I think he is about the only Democrat in some distance to get a red whisker in that stately hall, and after all these years he is going back. His facial adornment has shed from a Clara Bow red to a kind of a Henna grey, and the old vest has got many an egg spot concealed behind its pearl buttons. But Ham can carry one and bathe the other and he will make a new entrance into the old "Arena Del Toros."

It wasent only that he got back in there, but it was the spectacular manner that he did it. The Republicans had their strongest Woman up against him, Ruth Hanna McCormack. She had spent a few hundred thousand in the Primaries, but evidently forgot to spend any on the race. That would be like spending all your money in taxi fare to go to the ball game, but none to spend to get in after you got there. But Ruth made a mighty fine race, and maby its just as well she is not in there. I dont think a woman belongs in there. Not a nice woman anyhow.

Its funny how a smart Political Woman like her couldnt have guessed right on the Prohibition thing. How anybody could go wrong on what Illinois would do is beyond me. Ham he wont make em as good a Woman as Ruth would, but he will make em a good man.

Then continuing alphabetically we come to Oklahoma. Another old resident of the Senate got back after all these years. Our Blind man, Senator

Gore, He used to be a fixture in there from our Country. Then when he happened to be able to see further than the mob during the war why he lost out; now when the mob has caught up with him, and they can look back instead of having to look forward why they send him back in there. That gives Oklahoma two Democrats which is of course as it should be, for we are a liberty loving people.

You going to hear an awful lot in the next few years about a man from South Dakota named Beulow. He is a Democrat and from South Dakota. Now thats like a Zulu being discovered on the Behring sea. He is a comical old rascal, with a lot of humor and about twice as much common sense as humor so he will be cut of place two ways in the senate. Watch him and remember the name, B-E-U-L-O-W, and if he is to speak anywhere near you dont miss him.

Course the old timers got back in without even opposition like Pat Harrison, and Joe Robinson of Arkansas. They will be in the Senate when the Farmers get relief. Joe Robinson is mighty liable to be the Democratic Nominee in '32. It will be between him and Franklyn D. Roosevelt, and they are both mighty fine men. Joe if they want a dry, and Roosevelt if they want a wet. But the wets seemed to kinder swamp everything at this meelee and are gaining strength every day, so in '32 it looks like the wet Candidate will have the edge at the Nomination.

Still the west got a long way to go yet. You see those States that voted wet this time were ones that were known to be wet all the time, when you start voting on it all through the middle west and south you will find a different tale, so both Parties will be up against it as to just what to do in '32. They will want to be wet for the wet voters and dry for the dry voters, and they wont know which one has the most votes, and they will be busier than a Bird Dog trying to figure which way to jump.

That gives you a pretty good line on Politics; their personal feelings have nothing to do with it, its which way will the most votes be. I believe a Candidate would go over Niagara Falls if he was sure the wind was with him.

Rosa

"As we struggle on life's journey
And difficulties meet,
We get a thorn with every rose,
But aren't the Roses sweet?"

If I paid too much attention to my ancient Greek and Latin, I could say a lot of things here, Rosa, that wouldn't be so nice.

But who wants to say bad things about a rose?

With your straight, finely chiseled nose, and your face that used to be free-kid, I see an evidence of intuition that makes you able to go right to the heart of things.

So if musty old books and tomes of dead languages try to make me think that POA means naughty and bad, I will just have to say to myself, that they didn't know about you.

Of course, you have the ability to be bad if you want to. But you won't because you are just naturally filled with helpfulness. And this helpfulness crops out in quite peculiar ways.

For example, you do have the cutest way of making little rhymes and jingles, of painting little cards and decorations. Why don't you take that up as a profession, that painting of the little colored cards and monograms? There is quite a field for you there, Rosa, in special designing and you can soon find out where you fit best.

The thorn in your rose-nature seems to be just a sharp little edge of jealousy or envy. You can get over this all right, especially if you become a success on your own.

Rosa Ponselle made her way through petty jealousies innumerable, and envies unbelievable, to become one of the great singers of the Metropolitan grand opera in New York.

Rosa Bonheur, famous animal painter and sculptress, made her way up from a sick bed, after falling at the trade she started to learn. There is a lot of the same determination in you, Rosa, so go ahead.

CROWDS ATTEND LAYING OF CORNER-STONE.

(By Charles Cole.)

The ceremonies of laying the corner stone of the new school building Sunday afternoon, started with a selection by the band. Mr. Kelley, acting as chairman, ask Mr. Squibb to give the invocation. After a selection by the Mentone male quartette, Mr. Kelley introduced County Superintendent Harry Lewallen, who made a short speech concerning the "schools of yesterday". Mr. Lewallen in turn introduced the visiting trustees, Mr. Peck, the contractor of the new building said "you can hardly expect a builder and a speech maker all at the same time", he also expressed his gratitude of participating in such a noble enterprise. Mr. Peck then introduced the speaker; Judge Carlin. His subject was "The Faith of Our Fathers", which was one of the most interesting explanations of education we have had the pleasures of hearing.

Judge Carlin having finished, the band was called upon for the closing selection. Rev. Power gave the benediction. The crowd then walked across the street to the new building. Rev. Power gave prayer, after which county superintendent Lewallen spoke.

After the stone was lowered into place. Mr. Kelley placed the names of all of the students attending school and also the first students that ever attended school here, in the stone. The names of the students of Harrison are also in the stone. The other articles placed within were a confederate two dollar bill, a Bible, an American flag, indian head penny, names of ministers of Mentone school officials, county and township officials, members of the band and quartet, a copy of the Farm News some pictures of Mentone, and names of all members of the Masonic lodge.

Present-Day "Turk" of Mexican Breed?

Empty-handed discouragement would be the lot of the Pilgrim father were he to return this year and go in quest of food for the Thanksgiving table in the woods and fields of Massachusetts.

Settlers seeking to live as those pioneers did would find life vastly harder in some respects in this Twentieth century than did the Pilgrims in 1620. For the enormous flocks of game birds that were a vital source of supply for the harders of early settlers have vanished.

Woodlands Now Bare.

The bare and lonely woodlands of Massachusetts today are in contrast with the time when Obadiah Turner wrote in his journal, July 28, 1630, that "we are of truth in a paradise of those moving things that be good for foode."

"Incredible," is the word used by ornithologists to describe the numbers of individuals in the flocks of birds that once roamed the North American continent, of which Massachusetts was a favored spot.

Writing in 1632, Thomas Morton said: "Turkeys there are which divers times in great flocks have sallied by our doors; and then a gunne, being commonly in readiness, salutes them with such a courtesie as makes them take a turne in the Cooke Roome."

The president and council of New England, setting forth the advantages of New England as a place of abode in 1622, spoke of the country as abounding with diversity of wild fowl, as turkeys, partridges, swans, wild geese, wild ducks and many doves. The turkeys, which attained a length of 48 inches, were seen in flocks as great as 300 to 500. Among the most unsuspecting of birds, they were easily killed and an early settler might come home with as many as ten or twelve as a result of half a day's shooting. It was the original Thanksgiving bird.

Ruthless slaughter wiped out the turkey in Massachusetts, and most other sections of America. The last wild turkey known to be captured in Massachusetts was shot in the winter of 1850-51 on Mount Tom.

No True Descendants.

Millions of families this year will feast on turkey on Thanksgiving day. But these birds are no true descendants of the original wild turkey, in the opinion of such ornithologists as Edward Howe Forbush, former state ornithologist of Massachusetts. Rather, the Mexican turkey, a distinct breed, is their progenitor.

Other birds that once were a providential source of food for the Pilgrims have likewise been extirpated and a number of species are extinct. Gone is the great auk, once abundant. Likewise the Labrador duck, the Eskimo curlew, the trumpeter swan, the whooping crane, the heath hen, the sandhill crane and the passenger pigeon have been wiped out.

WORLD WAR

BY "YARNS"

LIEUT. FRANK E. HAGAN

The Boomerang

The Eighty-ninth division liked its "old man"—Gen. Frank Winn. And because those men from Kansas and Missouri and Colorado liked him they made him the butt of many a song and joke. But, it seems that the general didn't have a very keen sense of humor—at least from the point of view of the jokesters. Ask Carter Vaughn, now a Missouri newspaper man, but in 1918 a soldier in the Eighty-ninth and the composer of a song which he used to sing on frequent occasions. The thousand and one verses of this song told about all the things that were wrong with his outfit and every other line would wind up with "General Winn is the cause of it."

Before he realized it Vaughn and his singing had become famous throughout the division. One day he received an invitation to visit division headquarters and demonstrate his vocal ability before the general. In the presence of that personage Vaughn suddenly became bashful. He had a bad cold—and besides he had left his music at home—also he had been smoking so much that his throat was a bit sore—more than that he just naturally didn't feel in the mood for singing. But the general insisted that he do his stuff. So the singing soldier cleared his throat, threw back his head and with great gusto and much feeling sang his song.

Besides General Winn, his audience consisted of several high ranking officers and they didn't seem especially to appreciate his efforts. In fact there was no applause at all. But General Winn, as was proper, took command of the situation.

"What is your name?" he asked.

"Corporal Carter C. Vaughn, sir," was the reply.

"You are mistaken," said the "old man" in a quiet tone, "It is Private Carter C. Vaughn."

thy, love and understanding are the essential qualities in a teacher. If a person cannot understand children and does not love them, he or she will fail as a teacher, regardless of the number of letters such person may be entitled to write after his name. My mother never saw the inside of a high school, yet when I entered the public schools at the age of ten, I was educated far in advance of the other children of my age. What I have done with my life since, has been influenced more by my elementary training than by any

I received in schools.

do know that its members have chosen a very fine name for the

In the Mentone public schools, the government class is given instruction in practical government as well as in the theory contained in text books. After such practise in voting as was recently instituted in cast more intelligent ballots. Do you know that there are university mark a ballot properly?

NOTICE TO PHONE HOLDERS

The following statement is made on behalf of the Northern Indiana Telephone Company, and with the purpose of informing all of its patrons, in advance, precisely what to expect.

Our attention has been called to several petitions now being circulated at the instance of three or four patrons, for free service to several exchanges.

The present revenues of the various exchanges are now inadequate, but as we said sometime ago, we would cease our efforts to obtain higher rates, especially during the present depression. However, if our present revenues are threatened by the filing of a petition for free service where we now collect toll charges, we will promptly seek higher exchange rates, and we will not stop until they have been obtained.

PURDUE FINDS PIG

PROSPERITY MINDED.

Lafayette, Ind. November —The modern pig is prosperity minded and is willing to cooperate with Democrats, Republicans, farmers, and business men in returning the country to normalcy, by liking wheat better than corn, experiments recently closed at Purdue University indicate. With wheat at abnormally low prices last summer, C. M. Vestal, of the animal husbandry department of the Purdue Agricultural Experiment Station started three lots of 60 hogs each on feeding trials to determine the value of wheat as compared with corn for fattening hogs. All feeds were self-fed, free choice, and the hogs had access to alfalfa pasture. The wheat was coarsely ground and corn was shelled.

One lot of hogs was fed wheat and tankage; another corn and tankage; and the third had corn, wheat and tankage. The average weight of all the hogs was 108 pounds at the start of the feeding trials, and at the end of 62 days all weighed 220 pounds or more.

The lot fed corn, wheat and tankage made the most rapid and greatest gains, for a final average weight of 224 pounds, or 1.88 pounds a day. The wheat and tankage lot came in next, averaging 221 pounds, with a gain of 1.82 pounds a day, or one-tenth pound a day more than the corn and tankage fed hogs. With shelled corn figured at 81 cents a bushel; ground wheat 79 cents a bushel; tankage $65 a ton; and alfalfa pasture 10 cents per month per head, the hogs fed wheat and corn made the cheapest as well as the most rapid gains, $5.87 for 100 pounds of gain; the others were $6.22 per 100 pounds, for wheat; $6.25 per 100 pounds for corn. Wheat alone was worth 80 cents a bushel, and fed with corn was worth 83 cents.

When wheat and corn both were available, the hogs ate about three and one-half times as much wheat as corn, making the total feed consumption about the same as when corn alone was fed. The wheat-fed hogs ate the most feed.

HOOVER ON AIR 8 P.M. TO-NIGHT

Indiana people will be able to hear the President's message best through one of the following stations: WGN, KYW, WLS, WENR, WIBO, WFCL, at Chicago; WSAI, Cincinnati; WHAS, Louisville; all in the National Broadcasting Company chain; and through the Columbia chain over stations WBBM, WJJD or WMSI, at Chicago, WOWO, Fort Wayne, and WFBM, Indianapolis.

The four day conference will close at noon on November 22 with another radio talk, by Secretary Wilbur. This talk will be a part of the National Farm and Home Hour of the NBC chain, over stations KYW, Chicago; WSAI, Cincinnati, and WHAS, Louisville.

Winter Feeding Expensive

The winter feeding of big game animals is an expensive project. The federal bureau of biological survey found that it required 825 tons of hay to take care of the elk herds at the elk refuge in Wyoming from February 6 to March 26 and it costs over $25 a ton to get hay into the refuge. Without this winter food the animals would have a hard time through the winter.

Summer Camps Prove Value

The organized summer camp had its beginning about 50 years ago. In 1880 Ernest Balch established a camp for boys on Lake Asquam in New Hampshire. Shortly afterward other camps were established, and the movement began to grow rapidly. The health, educational and recreational values of summer camps for boys had become so well organized by 1900 that a similar movement for camps for girls was launched at that time.

OUR HIRED MAN

BY A. J. DUNLAP

He said he 'came in on the rods'—
His baggage was only a box.
Sis peeked and saw only a razor,
Some cards and a pair of old socks.
We urchins were up in the haymow
One day as he harnessed old Nell;
She stepped on his toe and he shouted
Bad names that we never would tell.

His 'pardner' who worked on the bridge gang,
Got sick with a fever that fall;
Our hired man drew 'all of his wages
And gave him the check for it all.
He said, "If my pard gets the knockout,
I want to be sure that I done
The best that I could when he lived—
He's broke, the poor son-of-a-gun."

Some day he must stand at the bar
Up yonder and answer the call
Of him who is lord of the Nations—
The judge of the great and the small.
I know the great judge will remember
The cash, though a mere bagatelle,
He gave to his pard, and forget
The bad words he said to old Nell.

Egyptian hieroglyphics are known to have been used as a form of writing as late as the Third century A. D.

DAIRY

INCREASING GRAIN IN DAIRY RATION

Important When Pastures Are Dry in Autumn.

"When the pasture dries up and the grass becomes rather unpalatable, it is time to increase the amount of grain being fed to the dairy cows," says John Tolliver, deputy Colorado state dairy commissioner. "It is also advisable to make sure that they have a good supply of fresh water. From 12 to 30 gallons of water are needed by a cow at this time of year, depending upon the size of the cow, the nature of her feed and the state of lactation period."

Too often a close examination of the pasture will reveal far less grass than a glance would indicate. It becomes dry, short and few cows can maintain their body weight, let alone get enough to provide for milk production.

Tolliver recommends at least one pound of grain for each five pounds of milk produced, if the cow is on pasture. If not, add another pound. A suggested grain mixture would include: One hundred pounds ground oats, 100 pounds bran, and 50 pounds barley chop. The barley chop should be fed where corn chop cannot be had, or 25 pounds of cottonseed meal may be substituted for the ground oats. If possible, it is a good idea to cut and feed corn or some of the kafirs. They may be cut each day as used.

"Remember," says Tolliver, "that a cow producing milk will drink three or four times as much water as a dry cow, and that walking a long distance to and from the water hole takes additional energy as well as reduces the amount of grass consumed. Be sure that the creek has not dried up or that the water hole has not become stagnant and anything but attractive and fresh."

Prevent Cowpox Spread by Careful Treatment

Cowpox has to run its course, but should clear up in about 20 days. The chief object in treatment should be to prevent spread of the infection to other cows and infection of the sores by germs from the floor or ground. The infection is readily carried from cow to cow by the milker's hands. Isolate affected cows and have them milked by a person who does not milk other cows. Keep the stall floors clean and milk with clean hands. For five minutes, twice daily, immerse the sore teats in hot water containing all the boric acid it will dissolve, then dry gently and apply a paste composed of one dram each of powdered boric acid and bismuth subnitrate per ounce of cold pressed castor oil. If any sore then is obstinate in healing, apply strong iodine ointment once or twice daily. If a milking tube must be used to draw off the milk, cleanse and sterilize it by boiling for 15 minutes each time before use.

Dairy Notes

Fall-born calves are ready to put in the pasture the following spring.

With low dairy prices, only the heifers from best dairy cows should be kept.

Keeping the manure hauled out from now on will greatly aid in holding down the fly population.

Cows need grain and hay as the pastures become short. It does not pay to allow them to lose flesh and drop in production.

Cows getting less protein in the roughage, as when they are fed silage plus a legume hay, need from 16 to 17 per cent of digestible protein in their grain.

An excellent fitting ration for the dry cow consists of 100 pounds of corn, cane or kafir grain; 100 pounds of oats; 100 pounds of bran, and 75 pounds of oil meal.

If feed is scarce, it is better to sell a few cows than to short-feed the entire herd. More milk, and not less, will result and the profits on the remaining cows will be increased.

The amount of protein necessary in a grain mixture for dairy cows depends to a great extent on the kind of hay fed. With alfalfa hay use a grain mixture containing about 16 per cent of crude digestible protein.

Progressive dairymen are learning that it pays to feed cows well through the summer.

A suitable grain ration may be made of equal parts of ground oats and barley with 10 per cent of oil meal added.

Silage is an excellent roughage for dairy cows. Its succulence makes it especially desirable, but it is well to remember that it is very low in protein. Alfalfa hay or grain containing protein feeds would be used to supplement the silage.

Coal for Luck

The beggar who, when "up" at a London Police court, was found to have been carrying a piece of coal in his cap—"for luck"—is not alone in his belief in such a charm. Burglars also are supposed to feel safer, on their unlawful occasions, if they are similarly equipped. Here is a vestige, probably, of the sun-worshiper's superstitious reverence for any object that is associated with fire.

POULTRY

SPROUTED OATS ARE EXCELLENT

Care Must Be Exercised That Hulls Do Not Impact.

Sprouted oats make an excellent poultry food. When sprouted oats are fed, whole oats can be left out of the scratch grain with advantage. In feeding whole oats, the hulls often cause impacted crops and death ensues. When the oats are fed sprouted no trouble along this line will be experienced.

In sprouting oats a temperature of at least 55 degrees is required. The growth will be more rapid if the higher temperature is provided.

Oats can be sprouted in the dark if the temperature is right. If sprouted in a dark room, the top growth will be light in color, but one day's exposure to light and air will give the green color.

A method of sprouting oats is as follows:

The oats are soaked in water for twenty-four hours. An inch layer is then spread out in shallow trays or racks. The trays must have good drainage. If the drainage is poor the oats will mold and are then unfit for feeding to the birds. Twice a day the oats are sprinkled with warm water. In a week or ten days, depending on the temperature, of course, the oats will be three inches thick and will have a top growth of four or five inches.

A block a foot square makes a sufficient daily feed for 50 hens.

Grain Supplements Are Needed by Laying Hens

Laying hens must have their rations of whole and ground grains supplemented with protein concentrates, otherwise they will be loafers and not layers due to no fault of the hen but the feeder. The most common method of balancing the ration is to feed a protein concentrate of animal origin, such as meat scraps, tankage (which is a similar product), or milk in some form. The common method of feeding meat scraps or tankage is to mix it with bran, shorts, and cornmeal, using about 20 pounds of it to 100 pounds of the mixture. This should be kept before the hens all the time in open hoppers, the daily allowance for 100 hens being seven to eight pounds daily and more if they will eat it. This mash, due to the meat, stimulates egg production and is an old tried practice which has proved economical.

Whale Barnacles

Some kinds of barnacles always attach themselves to living whales.

Keep Poultry Houses
Warm During Winter

It is important for egg production that the poultry house be kept reasonably warm and well ventilated. Heavy paper or half-ply roofing and matched siding, outside of studding, paper and sheathing, commercial insulation and plaster, or plaster base and stucco inside, and sawdust, gravel, chopped hay or straw between studdings to break up the air space, makes a frame house warm. Concrete, concrete block, or clay block walls need an air space filled with commercial insulation, granulated cork, or sawdust to keep frost off the walls. Furring on the inside with lath and cement stucco also makes a warm house, or commercial insulation can be fastened directly to the inside of the wall and then plastered.

Poultry Hints

Guineas are noisy enough to scare away poultry thieves.

If pullets start to lay too soon they will seldom be fully feathered or full grown.

If the pullets are infested with body lice and intestinal parasites, treat the birds before they start to lay.

Heavy feeding before the pullets are placed in winter quarters gets them in shape for laying during the winter.

Many poultry raisers seem to think the oats should be sprouted as long as they will continue to grow before being fed.

Direct sunlight and green feed are the final factors determining the hatchability of eggs from healthy, vigorous, properly mated fowls.

The value of succulent feeds such as mangel roots, cabbages and sprouted oats, is difficult to measure; nevertheless they are important in the ration.

In many instances colds and roup are the result of chronic coccidiosis, worm infestations, faulty management, or poor housing. Correct conditions which lower the vitality first.

Moving pullets from the range to the laying house is delicate work as far as pullets are concerned. Remember that they are going into strange quarters and will receive new management. Sudden changes are often disastrous to egg production. Move slowly about the laying house, as quick movements startle them.

KONJOLA SOON ENDED ILLNESS OF THREE YEARS

New Medicine Brings Quick Relief From Stomach Ailment—Relief Proved Lasting.

MRS. NETTIE HUNTER.

"I suffered for a long time with a severe attack of indigestion," said Mrs. Nettie Hunter, formerly of Bloomington and now residing on Route No. 2, Heltonville, Ind. "I bloated frightfully after each meal and finally got to a point where I was utterly discouraged. I was operating a restaurant and the pains at the pit of my stomach, often followed by dizzy spells and heart-palpitation, frequently made work impossible.

"I was attracted to Konjola by the testimonials of the Bloomington people who were in every way responsible. It required but four bottles of Konjola to completely restore my health. My appetite returned and gas did not form after meals. I began to gain in weight, strength and energy. Konjola surely helped me. I no longer feel tired or worn out and I feel that every sufferer should take this medicine."

Although Konjola works swiftly, it is recommended that from six to eight bottles be taken in the average case.

Konjola is sold in Mentone Ind., at the Shafer & Goodwin drug store and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section.

RED CHALLENGE MUST BE MET

By DR. NICHOLAS MURRAY BUTLER, President Columbia University.

ONLY by a revolution of liberal doctrine, in the light of modern economic conditions, a revolution embodying to some extent the Socialist point of view, can the challenge of Communism be met successfully. The world has again come to a great turning point, when humanity is being compelled to reconsider the question which from the beginning of history constituted the very heart of the problem of political and social progress—the question of the rights of the one and the many.

That question, as it now confronts humanity, cannot be solved either by pursuing the classic policy of extreme individualism or adopting the Communist program of rigid collectivism. The solution lies somewhere between the two.

In seeking to avoid extremes, the liberal should enlist the aid of the social mindedness which marks Socialism as distinguished from Communism. The liberal need not accept the Socialist doctrine in whole or even in any large part, but he will strengthen his case against the Communist immeasurably if he accepts and acts upon the Socialist point of view.

The challenge presented to capitalism by the colossal experiment which is going forward in Russia requires above all a tolerant and broad-minded approach. I blame the difficulty in securing a fair hearing for the Russian experiment upon Soviet Russia's own intolerance, cruelty, and well nigh unparalleled fanaticism, and I warn the Communists that Communism is doomed unless it desists from violence and international agitation.

CAN BANISH UNEMPLOYMENT

By MISS FRANCES PERKINS, N. Y. Industrial Commissioner.

Unemployment can be banished from American industry. Child labor has been cut and the infant mortality rate that seemed an act of God a few years ago has been met. I believe we can reduce unemployment to a negligible point.

I predict the coming of unemployment insurance in some form in the United States. Objections have been raised against the state subsidy and also against placing the whole burden on the industry concerned. These are matters which need to be threshed out by a body of experts.

Industry and commerce have learned to appreciate their own responsibility for causing unemployment, and business men are recognizing that stabilization of industry and the prevention of unemployment are integral parts of the duties of management.

MUST HAVE WORLD MARKETS

By JAMES M. MATTHEWS, Director Babson (Mass.) Institute.

The business depression is one of international scope in that it involves the sale of surplus American goods in the only place left to sell, Europe. Goods must be paid for in goods, not loans.

We have in general a falling scale of prices and an American commodity surplus, either actual or potential, which is making us groggy. We refuse to admit that Europe can pay her debts. Europe cannot buy our goods until she can sell a reasonable amount of her own commodities. We lend her more money and increase her debtor obligation in the hope that she will purchase American surplus and be doubly in debt to us, but goods must be paid for with goods, not with loans.

From now on world markets are essential to American prosperity.

Now that we are the greatest creditor nation on earth, we are following the same policies of trade restrictions today that have been used for the past 100 years when we were a debtor nation and we wonder why we feel bad. If we do not capture our fair share of the international markets, we are in for years of difficult and unsatisfactory business.

"I drove madly,"

said MRS. MOLLA PROPP,

"to get home before the gasoline gave out."

DO YOU know, my dear, I was just BORN to be a detective. Every time I read stories of great detectives like Oliver Wendell Holmes, I am so thrilled.

Only the other evening I was reading how a perfectly awful villain, called Caspar, locked Gertrude up in a closed car and drove madly away with her. Of course, her young man caught this Caspar person just in time. It seems that the hero heard Gertrude crying for help and immediately deducted—as the detectives say—that something or other was afoot.

Anyway, I was driving with Henry yesterday and one of those closed-up trucks came by and I thought I heard a muffled groan. "Oh, Henry," I whispered, "I'll bet they're gangsters taking somebody for a ride!"

Copyright, 1930.—John Jensen.

"Shucks," said Henry. "Not in broad daylight or in trucks. But I kept on saying I KNEW something was wrong and should I call a policeman. And Henry said he wasn't afraid to follow the truck and we did, although I just entreated him not to attack the whole crew of gangsters alone and unarmed and he promised he wouldn't. He's SO bold.

So we followed the truck for miles and miles. And then we saw it stop and back up to a desolate-looking barn. Two men got into the truck and we heard the awfulest commotion. I just shuddered. Then there was a loud bellow, something like a calf ... and sure enough, it was only a calf they were taking out!

My dear, I was so mortified at following an old truck and I told Henry so all the way home.

Higher than Life, or Happiness, or Health
We prize the courage that our fathers had,
And reckon large, its footed totals, wealth!
For what have we to give thee thanks, O God?
For every sorrow that has wrought for good,
For every bead of man's perspiring blood
Spilled, which has proved our human brotherhood!

Greatest of All Homecoming Days

For the strictly proper observance of Thanksgiving day there should be a real grandmother, as old-fashioned as the century will permit. At her home, however unpretentious it may be, all the children should come together to renew for her the memories of younger days when she had them all under her own roof tree; when she could go to each bedside before her own weary body sought rest and see for herself that they were cozily tucked in; when she thought it sweet to make the nightly rounds, when all childish faults lay hidden in sleep and the naughtiness had faded away with the setting sun, leaving only the angelic loveliness of childhood. Yes, the grandmother is undoubtedly the connecting link that holds families together.

Grandmother's Day.

Can't you see your own grandmother in her kitchen, where she likes to think she is still mistress, even if she is not allowed to do as much as she did in days gone by? Perhaps she is one of the fortunate ones whom her children have not killed with kindness, but have allowed to live the work-a-day life as much as she desires and her strength will permit. How happy she bustles about making pies and puddings, baking ham equal in flavor to Charles Lamb's roast pig, preparing the turkey for the oven. "with his drumsticks meekly folded over a well-stuffed breast!" How briskly she walks about, her thoughts flying here and there, gathering up lost threads in a tapestry of memory which she is joyously weaving! And how the children love the day, the delights of anticipation far exceeding those of realization; how they watch the pantry shelves groaning with the weight of good things; how penetrating are the pungent odors floating on the breeze, how trying to their patience the endless waiting! If the dear grandmother has gone on to a higher Thanksgiving, the next best is the loving mother.

Thanksgiving Spirit.

It must be a loving mother with a heart big enough to take in all the lonely ones who have no homes. Around her the Spirit of Thanksgiving may safely hover and be glad of the opportunity, for there is less room for that spirit today and the original significance of the day is passing. For the athletic devotee, it is the grand windup of the football season. If mother contemplates a noon dinner, it must be early so the boys and girls may eat and run, not realizing that to her it is a day long anticipated for the homecoming of the children and the renewal of memories dear to her heart.

General Holiday

Thanksgiving is a holiday in every state, territory and possession, by Presidential proclamation.

Chicago, Ill., November 25—Mentone has another thing for which to be thankful, and that is the organization of a live Parent-Teachers Association, the news of which was reported last week by Chas. Cole, editor of the school department of The Farm News.

Those of you who read your Farm News early last week, probably saw the announcement of President Hoover's address, and tuned in that night to listen to the Chief Executive of this great nation. If you did, you heard him say to the assembled delegates to the White House conference on child health and protection, the following significant words:

"Six million (of the nation's children) are improperly nourished; a million have defective speech; a million have weak or damaged hearts; 775,000 present behavior problems; 450,000 are mentally retarded; 382,000 have impaired hearing; 18,000 are totally deaf; 300,000 are cripples; 50,000 are partially blind 200,000 are delinquent and 500,000 are dependent. And so on, to a total of ten millions of deficient, more than 80 percent of whom are not receiving necessary attention. though our knowledge and experience show these deficiencies can be remedied to a high degree.—If we do not perform our duty to these children, we leave them dependent or we provide from them the major recruiting ground for the army of ne'er-do-wells and criminals."

Be thankful, Men'one folks, that you have so few of the ten millions of unfortunates in your midst, and because you have such high minded men and women as, Dr. Anderson Mrs. Manwaring, Mrs. Smith and Mahlon Mentzer and their associates in your midst.

There is an old saying which describes a man so mean he would steal pennies from a dead man's eyes. I do not know whether ever such a canine in human form existed but I do know, from last week's paper, that there is one just as mean at large in the community, and that is the fellow who stole the tools from the I. O. O. F. cemetery

Once again, Mrs. Frank Vernett has celebrated a happy birthday with the members of her family, this being the 85th, such joyous occasion. About the time Mrs. Vernett was born, Victor Hugo wrote of the future as follows.

"In the Twentieth Century war will be dead, the scaffold will be dead, hatred will be dead, frontier boundaries will be dead; man will live He will possess something higher than all of these—a great country, the whole earth, and a great hope, the whole heaven."

Mrs. Vernett could have told the members of the family gathering that she had seen a third of the Twentieth Century pass into history, but that few signs of the wonders prophesied by the famous French author have yet appeared. However this century has still seventy years to run, and as she looks back over the past seventy years and notes the changes that have taken place, both in the practices and the ideals of man, Mrs. Vernett may be justified in saying that the conditions dreamed of by Hugo may have come to pass by the time the year 2,000 has come to hand.

Fame may be a fickle dame whose affections flit from hither to you, but to the members of the Mentone High School baseball team, at least, she has tarried for a while during which she crowned the aggregation champion of the baseball teams of county. And what a fine picture the club makes!

Sneezing "Jinx"

In Bohemia, if you hear a sneeze and cannot see the person, you must be quick to say, "God make you well again," because the sneezer may be a wandering soul whom your blessing will deliver from exile. In India all present say "love" and the sneezers reply "with you," which little ceremony removes the fatal jinx connected with sneezing.

Comparative Phone Rates

On October 17, 1930, the Public Service Commission established new telephone rates for the Wabash Valley Telephone Company which has five exchanges at Williamsport, West Lebanon, Tab. Pence, and Ambia, serving a total of 950 subscribers in Warren and Benton Counties principally. The average number of subscribers served by each exchange in 1930

The Company's subscribers are largely rural and all telephones are magneto or hand-ringing. The commission fixed rural rates at $2.00 net per month for metallic lines and $1.75 net per month for grounded lines. These rates are 25 cents per month in excess of any rates for like service charged by the Northern Indiana Telephone Company and 50 cents per month in excess of rates charged for full metallic service by the Northern Indiana Telephone Company.

At North Manchester, the Northern Indiana Telephone Co. furnishes common Battery service to all subscribers and the rural rates at North Manchester are the same as that fixed by the Public Service Commission for grounded line, hand-ringing telephone service at all of the exchanges of the Wabash Valley Telephone Company.

At the Akron, Atwood, Burket, Bippus, Bourbon, Claypool, Etna Green, Fulton, Macy, Milwood, Sidney and Silver Lake exchanges of the Northern Indiana Telephone Company, the present rural rate is uniformly $1.50 per month for either grounded line or full metallic service.

Incidentally, business rates established by the Public Service Commission for the exchanges at Williamsport, West Lebanon, Tab. Pence, and Ambia are the same as the rates at North Manchester, which are approximately 50 per cent higher than the rates of the Northern Indiana Telephone Company at its other exchanges, single line, business telephones paying $3.75 net per month and four party line business telephones paying $3.25 net per month.

The Northern Indiana Telephone Company is now operating under the lowest rate schedule prevailing in Indiana, with a very few exceptions. Only the most careful management has enabled the Company to improve its physical property from year to year and pay its interest and dividends. No common stock dividend has ever been paid, but the Company has re-invested whatever money was available for this purpose in improvements and in the building of its property. The Company has no unpaid bills except those not yet due.

Says WILL ROGERS

BEVERLY HILLS.—Well all I know is just what I read in the papers. And about all you read is a Murder,

A Robbery, another Murder, another Robbery. Then a train hits a loaded Auto. (They never hit em till they are Loaded.) That's why more people than are not killed by a train is because there is so few really loaded Auto's. An Engineer is careful that way, he won't hit a car with only one or two in it, he watches close and always calls his shots and gets a covey of em.

Then in between these above mentioned Columns in the Newspapers there will be a fellow in the home town that has just killed his wife and attempted to kill himself. That brings up another odd coincidence. Why is it that an attempted suicide that is going to kill somebody else along with himself, why is it they never miss the other party but they are poor shots on themselves? You would think as close as they are to themselves that they couldnt miss. But they most generally do. They seem to be able to hit everybody they shoot at but themselves. Out here in Los Angeles we had a fellow who wanted his wife killed and instead of killing her himself, and then missing himself, why he hired another fellow to do it, and what do you think he give him, $130. One dollar and thirty cents, and he went in and shot her in her bed, and all he got for it was $1.30 and all in dimes, and they are giving him a trial. A community that would go to the expense of trying a Bird like that why thats about all we deserve. There is some things that go beyond the law.

Then there is always a Column for Russia, for they will have been in some kind of devilment during the previous night. Last week they said that the World was plotting against them. Then named the men that have it in for em. Well they will get all their people excited over that, and that will be in the papers for awhile till somebody thinks of something else. Brazil or the Argentine cant stay on our front pages over a week at a time and then they have to have a pretty fair grade of Revolution to stick that long.

Hitler over in Germany we have had his column pretty vacant here lately. He has just about run out of Gags. You just cant stay on that old page continually, the strain is too great, you cant think of enough things to do. Mussolini has come nearer doing it than anyone we ever had during our time. He jumps up and slaps some country down with a statement more often than any other man that ever lived. He gets on there once a week or more, if he is going good. He keeps France so busy denying and denouncing that they dont know what its all about. Bernard Shaw can make the front page any time he wants to express an opinion about anything, from Einsteins Theory, to the cultivation of Whiskers or Birth Control among Authors. He is the highest paid Author in the World yet he has given away more free stuff to the papers than any man that ever lived. For everything he ever said was news, and everything any other Author ever said was Publicity.

The poor old Editorial pages are just about passing out. Nothing that is not accompanied by pictures of the actual killing will interest anyone any more. The readers dont want advice any more. Thats whats the matter with this country; its been advised to death. An editorial might explain the right course for everyone to pursue, but who wants to pursue it? An Instructive Editorial is kinder like the lines they used to have at the top of the old Copy writing book, it was a fine sentence, and it sounded just like what you ought to do, but you just copied it and went on. A picture of Mary Garden gettin off the boat is of more importance than what Opera she is going to appear in. Her and Old Tack out in Amarillo can get in an argument and make up and get the town more advertising than the low price of wheat can.

Then you have to leave room in there someplace for the "Columnist." Pretty near every paper is afflicted with a mess of us. We are flourishing through a certain reign of insanity that perhaps wont be permanent, and woe be to any of us who take the whole thing serious. I think even Mr. Coolidge knows that as soon as the Country is thoroughly adjusted that we will be in some critical line, with a smaller recompense but an easier conscience. But with all its faults the old Paper is our daily bread. Sometimes its burned, and sometimes not cooked to suit us, but we got to have it everyday, and its intelligence is always in keeping with its readers.

FIRST REAL WINTER

Winter set in earnest Monday, starting with a light fall of snow. The thermometer began to drop and Tuesday morning in several localities it was reported as standing at twenty above zero.

GIVES OLD TIME

FRIENDS A THRILL.

Lawrence Bell, a former Mentone boy, together with his pilot, Mr. Wheatly, of Buffalo, N. Y. driving a large cabin passenger plane, swooped down on Mentone, Monday forenoon, circled the village several times, made a few dives that almost touched the house-tops—in the way of a salute—and then resumed their journey to their destination, Indianapolis.

Mr. Bell is another old Mentone product that has gone out in world and made good. He is one of the head officials of an aircraft company at Buffalo.

PREISCH TO BE MANAGER.

The Directors of the Northern Indiana Co-operative Association have selected J. M. Preisch as manager of the plant being erected in Mentone to handle feed and poultry supplies and equipment.

He will begin his duties when the building is completed.

Jack comes to the co-operative association with years of training and experience that the directors believe will enable him to conduct the plant on a basis that will give universal satisfaction to all.

WORK BEING RUSHED.

Work on the Co-operative elevator and mill is being rushed and the structure is well under way. Many of our people are greatly surprised at the size of the building as it is a great deal larger than they anticipated. It seems that the new company believes in doing up things right. The present cold snap will probably stop work on the plant for a few days.

TO MENTONE MERCHANTS

The business men in all of our neighboring towns are running large advertisements in their papers, sending out circulars and bills advertising Christmas goods—urging people to shop early. As yet Mentone dealers have done but little advertising in this line and if they expect to get their share of the holiday trade it is time forth em to take some action.

The Farm News has gone to considerable expense to provide cuts and special lay-outs for holiday advertising, all of which we will furnish absolutely free to our patrons in order that they may have neat and attractive advertisements. If our merchants will use sufficient space in the issues of Dec. 10th and 17th to defray the extra expense we will send a copy of the Farm News of those issues into every home in the Mentone trade territory. Space in these issues must be reserved on or before Saturday noon, Dec. 6th, in order that we may arrange for same.

We have not the time to solicit this advertising in person—but will gladly furnish anyone with a suitable lay-out and assist them in preparing the copy for any advertising that they desire. Those who apply early will get the choice of the advertising.

On account of the long illness of Austin Blue and the poor health of his son, Vern, about fifty friends and neighbors gathered at the Blue farm on Tuesday of last week, and by noon they had husked and cribbed over 1000 bushels of corn. A number of the wives of the huskers brought well filled baskets of eatables, and after the work was completed all sat down to a good old fashioned pot luck dinner.

The Cornish Language

The ancient Cornish language has not been spoken for a century and a half, though many traces of it linger in the dialect of the county. In 1777 died Polly Jeffrey (nee Pentreath), in her ninety-third year, and she, it is said upon good authority, was the last person who spoke Cornish. She was born and died at Mouschole (pronounced "Mauzel"), a fishing village on Mounts bay.

Chas. Cole, Editor.

Another month has passed and we really don't know just where it went to. We have crammed for monthly exams, had them and have received our grades. The report cards came out to-day.

The seniors held a class meeting Wednesday and appointed John Teel to write the class history; Don Lyons the calendar; Leatha Goodman and Elsie Robbins are to write the will; Amelia Bowman and Leatha Jefferies will write the prophecy.

After searching through the school records of the past we find many names that surprise us some what. We had thought that we could print the names of the students and the year when they graduated. Then we decided that the idea would never go over. What a plight we would be in if some of the past "grads" would hop on us for revealing their age. Therefore we shall not be the party of such an undertaking or rather undertaker. After looking through the records, we find the grades are very unusual. Some good and some not so good. The graduation class of 1894 certainly had some bright students, George Ralston, Blanch Bell, and Alfred Kay were exceptions

Did you know that it takes 840,000, 000 matches to supply the United States one day? That's at the rate of 306 billion, 600 million for normal years of 365 days

Stockholm controls 75 percent of the worlds match business. They make only penny boxes.

The first friction match was invented in 1827. To light one of those early matches one had to draw the head through folds of course sand paper. Now the matches are cut, dipped and packed by a single machine.

The most interesting of the early fire making apparatus, is the piston and cylinder developed in East Indies and India. No one seems to know how old this method is, but it is the true fore father of the modern Diesel motor, using the heat of compression for the ignition.

The date for the operetta is Dec. 9 as far as we know at this time. The practices are improving greatly.

Friday night we journeyed to Akron, no not to just see the city, but to play basket ball.

Mentone won from Akron Friday night by the score of 25 to 22. The second team was defeated 19 to 15. The line up for Mentone was Whetstone, W. Shirey, Lynn, Hipshire and Altenburg. The score at the quarter was Mentone 4 and Akron 6. At the half the toss up stood Mentone 7 and Akron 11 at the end of the third quarter we had 10 and Akron 16. The finish was Mentone 15 and Akron 19.

The first string did the noble work of defeating the fast Akron five. Mentone started Barkman, Lyons, Wm. Blue, Shirey and Blackburn. Blue started the "Bulldogs" to victory by making the first basket. at the end of the first quarter the score was Akron 4, Mentone 8. As the gun was fired for the half we were leading the blue and white 13 to 10. Blackburn, Barkman and Lyons score in the third quarter and Akron also did some basket throwing and tied the game 15 to 15. The end of the third quarter and the "Bulldogs" were leading the Akron boys 20 to 16. Mentone took time with 7 minutes to play. With one minute to play Lyons took Nellans place and finished the game with Mentone leading the blue and white 25 to 22.

The referee was Thorne, and Smith umpired the contest.

"The Belle of Barcelona" an operetta in three acts will be given by the high school students on Tuesday evening, Dec. 9th, at the Community building. Every effort is being put forth to make this a most successful performance, so don't fail to hear and see our local talent displayed.

MUCK CROPS SHOW HELD AT NAPPANEE NOV. 14-16.

Purdue News Service

Northern Indiana's first Muck Crops Show held recently attracted more than 2000 people to Nappanee to inspect the entries of onions, potatoes, carrots, cabbage, celery, and turnips, and to hear the informational talks on one day's program. A total of about 250 entries of vegetables were sent in for the show and more than $300 in prizes was awarded.

Attendance on the opening day was in the neighborhood of 500 people and about 800 were present at sometime on Friday, for the program of illustrated lectures and round-table discussions. Talks on various phases of producing muck crops were given by H. K. Riley, S. D. Conner, and Dr. C. T. Gregory, of Purdue University; O. F. Underwood, of Cornell; and Paul Harmer, Michigan State College.

A banquet was held on Friday night, November 14, with Dean J. H. Skinner, of Purdue University, as the principal speaker. This event drew a crowd of 150 persons.

Saturday was the biggest day so far as attendance was concerned, and a steady stream of visitors filed through the community park building until the show closed at night.

The Indiana Vegetable Growers Association; Nappanee Kiwanis Club, and Purdue University co-operated in holding the show. C. B. Byers, vocational teacher at Nappanee, acted as general manager, with W. B. of Purdue, as secretary-treasurer.

JOINT ACHIEVEMENT DAY MEETING.

About one hundred Club members and their guests assembled at the town hall in Mentone, Wednesday, Nov. 19, for a joint achievement day meeting.

Baskets of dinner and exhibits began arriving quite early in the morning and at noon the long tables were fairly groaning under the weight of the splendid pot-luck dinner which they supported, and all the available wall space, in the business room of the hall was occupied by specimens of work done by club members during the last two years.

There was a beautiful illustration of landscape gardening in miniature and some lovely bouquets of straw flowers which represented the yard garden work done the past summer.

Articles ranging from hot-pads to gorgeous quilts represented the sewing department, while the whole family of rugs—hooked, braided, crocheted, sewed, etc., was there, also samples of home decorating with paints and varnishes.

The 4H Club girls' exhibit of health posters, fresh air window screens and tooth brush racks attracted much attention and many compliments.

The old coverlet made in 1843, the property of Mrs. Williamson, another old coverlet made in 1875 and the property of Mrs. J. M. Weissert, and a beautiful old tufted candlewicking spread, owned by Mrs. Willard Brock were also on display.

The afternoon program consisted of the Club Song: A husband calling contest by Mesdames M. O. Smith, R. Giewlach, F. Warren, E. Dunnick, B. Miner, F. Riggs, O. Tucker, H. Nellans and F. Tucker. Mrs. Ora Tucker won the prize—a pretty vase. Playlet—"Meeting of the Holler Creek Sewing Society" by the Harrison Tp. Club. Short talk by Mrs. J. W. Bair, Co. Chairman of Home Ec., "Taking the Census" by Mrs. Ruby Smith and Mrs. Bud Cole of the Mentone Club. Reading by Mrs. Miner. Playlet "The Business Meeting," by Franklin Tp. Club. Song by Franklin Tp. Club in costume.

The meeting was honored by the presence of two of the oldest citizens of the community. Aunt Nancy Jones and Grandma "Black". The youngest guest was he six months old son of tMr. and Mrs. Philip Whetstone.

The committees in charge of plans for the meeting wish to thank the town board and Marshal Warren for the use of the hall and assistance given in preparing for and cleaning up after the meeting; also any and all others who showed an interest in the work.

The World of Fashion Is Again Sleeve-Conscious

From sleeveless to sleeved is the message which comes to fashion's followers in accents loud and clear. Afternoon frocks especially are elaborately sleeved. Accent is placed on full-below-the-elbow types either embroidered or beaded as pictured. This is a black satin gown, for interest in satin is revived for both day and evening wear.

They're Going to Wear Beaded Gowns Again

Brilliant is the outlook for evening gowns, especially when it comes to the beaded and sequin-covered dresses which Paris is exploiting with considerable enthusiasm. The gown to the left in the picture is literally covered with sequins. So is its matching wrap with the long flowing sleeves. Movie "fans" will recognize at a glance that it is pretty Laura La Plante who is wearing the daintly beaded gown.

ON THEIR WAY TO GIVE THANKS

The photograph, posed after the famous painting "Pilgrims Going to Church" and "The First Thanksgiving" by Boughton, shows the sturdy founders of Massachusetts going to church to give thanks to the A'mighty for the bounties bestowed on them. The picture is supposed to have been illustrative of the early spring of 1621, on the day that Governor Bancroft had set aside as a day of prayer and thanks.

Feasts of Other Days Recalled

In that earlier day which the mist of time half hides and half reveals, the selection of a Thanksgiving bird became a matter for profound family consideration. Not that the actual picking out of the turkey was affected thereby. No, the head of the household went forth as did the Pilgrim daddies, but armed only with his fascinating wallet, around which a strap was stretched, and held up the white-aproned Indians or the checkered-shirted grocery braves, and brought home his yellow-legged loot. In this he had the advantage of the stern-faced Puritans, because they were given little choice in this important matter of selection, but were likely to bring home a hardened old gobbler of the early Pequot period, which would give the Puritan teeth a dangerous test at a time when dentistry was unknown.

Well, after dad brought home his personally conducted bird the family, severally and jointly inspected it. This was done by extending its legs and bending its wings and jabbing it in the region of the breast bone. Whether it passed muster or not was of no consequence. It was the consecrated bird of the day of thanks and as such was offered up on the family altar and duly immolated in spite of any dubious criticisms regarding its tenderness or flavor. Moreover, it invariably weighed very close to five-and-twenty pounds.

When the Bird Escaped.

On one occasion father brought home a live turkey, feathers and squawk and everything, and left it overnight in the summer kitchen. Something was said about a raffle, but raffles were not fit subjects for innocent Sunday school children to know about, and our only definite knowledge concerning the noisy visitor's origin was that it had cost father a darn sight more than if he had bought a featherless one at John Frauenfelder's or Arnold's or Southworth's.

Well somebody left the door open and the bird streaked it for freedom. Of course we were hot after it, and it is recalled that father showed amazing evidences of agility in leading the chase. Once the fugitive flew into a tree and had to be bombarded out of it, and finally it ran up old Theresa street and right through the fortunately open door of one of the poorest cottages, and as father, who was well in advance, reached the doorway he heard a trembling voice from within say "Sure, the saints have sent it!"

That ended the chase, and we tramped back and father went over to Frauenfelder's and bought a turkey of the old-fashioned sort without fuss or feathers.

Of course the Thanksgiving dinner was a feast to be remembered with both joy and remorse. There were no favors, no special decorations, nothing but food and appetites, both served at noon. Everything on the unwritten menu was placed on the table at the beginning of the feast, and the service thereafter consisted merely in carving and passing.

What the Poet Sang.

In this process of dismantling and conversion it is recalled that soup was involved, hash took a prominent part, and bones were denuded. The stuffing was another interesting survival, and the seemingly inexhaustible gravy supply served many purposes.

A yellow clipping from the Cleveland Herald recalls how the Herald poet, identity unknown, regarded this continuity:

There's turkey for breakfast and dinner and tea,
I fear it is playing the mischief with me;
For over my coverlid turkeys do walk—
I scream out in terror and wake with a squawk.

My feathers are sprouting,
I'm stretching my neck;
I talk with a gobble and at my food peck.
If it should last longer each boarder agrees,
He'll wreck the darn larder and take to the trees!

So the extinction of the bird went on until only a bunch of shining bones remained. It had been a five day struggle and a hard one, but not a morsel had been wasted. Nobody craved any more turkey for another year, and the meat market business began to look up.

The last seen of the noble fowl was its disappearing bones as they departed in the jaws of a neighbor's dog, who was said to have caches of bones all over the neighborhood.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Thankfulness an Art

Thankfulness is an art that must be acquired. It is a conscientious balance of the ledger between blessings bestowed and favors accounted for which were properly received. The appreciative personality seeks with microscopic scrutiny the recognition of such blessings to serve humanity.

Giving Thanks

Thanksgiving is much like alms-giving. The benefit to the giver is determined largely by the spirit which prompted the deed. If it is just a habit, you gain nothing; if it is an urge of the heart, yours is the greater blessing.—Grit.

Turkey Traced to Aztecs

Wild turkeys like those the Puritans found in New England were not domesticated to any extent. They are extinct in many of their former haunts and are restricted to some of the wilder sections of the southern states.

The present-day domesticated turkey is like the magnificent wild birds now found in eastern Mexico and raised by the Aztecs when that race was conquered by the Spaniards in 1517. The Spaniards are credited with taking the domestic Aztec birds back to Europe, and doubtless some of the same breed were brought over here by the Colonists.

Hints on the Colonial Home

The Colonial atmosphere created by furniture and wall-treatment is carried out in curtains echoing the framed sampler at the right.

THE vogue for Colonial atmosphere in the typical home of today calls for much care in the selection of furnishings if the simple charm of the early American fireside is to be achieved.

The choice of the major furnishings has been much simplified. A gate-leg table or a butterfly, a ladder chair or a Windsor, a secretary or a spinet desk may be selected from well-styled and authentic reproductions and will be quite at home with any treasured "antiques."

It rests with the accessories, however, to achieve the final touch. They must be consistent throughout, or the entire effect of the room is lost. Pewter vessels and blue Willow-ware on the shelves, hooked rugs, a banjo clock, a framed sampler will all help to achieve an interior of distinction.

Pictures must be carefully chosen. The shops are now showing excellent copies of the rare Currier and Ives prints and one of these, framed in dark wood or maple, may be hung to advantage. Silhouettes, in square or oval frames, are also good.

Curtains constitute an insistent problem of the Colonial home. Recently there have appeared new patterns in lace curtains designed to carry out the simple Colonial home atmosphere. Lurelle Guild, authority on early American antiques, is said to have created the designs from his own collection of old samplers. They are all in natural color suggestive of the real "unbleached" linens of old, and combine effectively with overdraperies of chintz, cretonne or toile. Chintz, however, is just a bit smarter, particularly in the new semi-glazed finish.

Perpetuate Forests by Careful Logging

Trees Less Than Twelve Inches Are Unprofitable.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Forests that last indefinitely and sawmills sawing up these forests without ever running out of logs are pictured by the forest service, United States Department of Agriculture, in reporting the results of a study of selective logging in the northern hardwoods of the Lake states.

The key to perpetual timber production is selective logging, the forest service states, which means a partial cutting of the forest involving judicious selection of trees to be felled, so as to perpetuate and improve the forest and at the same time maintain or increase the profit. Lumbermen in the Lake states with no virgin timber in prospect for cutting after present holdings are exhausted, must choose between going out of business in a comparatively short time or taking steps to put their remaining stands on a self-perpetuating basis.

Costs of logging and milling as determined by the study indicate that in typical Lake state forests trees less than 12 inches in diameter are unprofitable to convert into lumber. By taking only the trees larger than that size the lumberman obtains a better profit and at the same time leaves many thrifty trees to grow for the next cutting and reseed the bare places. In the region investigated, successive "crops" of lumber can probably be harvested on this basis every 25 to 30 years.

Technical Bulletin No. 169, Selective Logging in the Northern Hardwoods of the Lake states, which gives the results of the study, may be procured by writing the Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

Cod Liver Oil Gives

Poultry Fishy Taste

Although cod liver oil is highly recommended for feeding poultry under certain conditions, it has a tendency to cause the flesh to have a fishy taste and therefore should be omitted from the ration fed broilers for at least two weeks prior to marketing, says Dr. F. B. Hutt, poultry specialist, University Farm, St. Paul, Minn.

Doctor Hutt cites some experiments conducted at Purdue university which indicate that cod liver oil should be left out of the ration for about 16 to 18 days before marketing. The amount of cod liver oil and the length of time used, the method of cooking and the temperature of the meat when served, affected the intensity of the fishy flavor. One lot was fed two per cent cod liver oil in the ration, and after the oil had been discontinued two weeks, no bad taste was apparent while warm but a trace was detected when allowed to become cold. Another lot received four per cent cod liver oil in the ration. One bite of one of these birds was enough, for fishy taste was so evident. However, after the oil had been removed from the lot for two weeks, only a slight trace of fishy flavor could be detected.

The experiments show no evidence that the omission of cod liver oil for a short period will cause any bad effects upon chickens of marketable size.

Feeding Orphan Lambs Quite Important Task

In the feeding of orphan lambs, the following points must be kept in mind.

1. The milk should be taken from a cow whose milk tests high in fat.
2. For the first three or four weeks the milk from this one selected cow only should be fed to the lamb.
3. For the first few days and nights the lamb should be fed every two or three hours, and a small amount (say two or three tablespoonfuls, with a gradual increase) given it each time, so as not to overload its stomach.
4. The milk should be warmed up to 92 degrees, which is about the warmth of sheep's milk. Care must be taken not to let the milk boil.
5. The bottle and nipple should be thoroughly washed each time after use to keep bottles sweet.

FARM FACTS

The husker shredder will destroy corn borers.

Silage forms an important part of the ration for fattening lambs.

When a team will not pull together cross the inside traces, hitching each to the inside of the opposite single-tree.

In order to grow chicks well they must be supplied with an abundance of a suitable ration. At least one hopper four feet long is needed for 100 chicks. As they grow larger they will need more space.

Dipping the hens in a solution of two ounces of sodium fluoride to each gallon of water helps them to be better layers by ridding them of body pests. Carbollinum or any of the stock dips kill mites.

A large barrel, buried in a horizontal position in the side of a bank, makes a convenient place to store small amounts of root crops and cabbage. Soil and straw or leaves are used for covering the barrel. The barrel head makes a convenient door for this storage pit.

Gains Seven Pounds As New Medicine Banishes Stubborn
Ailments And Brings
New Health.

MR. SOLOMON RHOADS.

"For three years the condition of my health was poor," said Mr. Solomon Rhoads, 327 Jackson street, Muncie. "Mining where I often got wet and ate at irregular intervals, had weakened me until my appetite was very poor. Food failed to digest and I bloated and belched sour liquid bringing on severe heartburn. I lost weight and energy and was finally forced to give up mining entirely. I tried many medicines without any permanent benefits.

"A fellow miner whom Konjola had restored to health finally persuaded me to try this medicine. I purchased six bottles and began the treatment. At the end of three weeks I found myself much improved. I continued the treatment and at the end of the six weeks period I felt like a new man. My stomach was free from gas and my entire system free of poisons which had been making me ill. My appetite is excellent, I have gained seven pounds and am back at work. I give all credit to Konjola."

Each of Konjola's 32 ingredients, 22 of which are the juices of roots and herbs, has a function to perform. All who have given this super-medicine a real trial claim there is no other medicine like it.

Konjola is sold in Mentone Ind., at the Shafer & Goodwin drug store, and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section.
