One of the chief items entering into the cost of lumber is the freight charges which are the same on all grades, hence Man No. 1 is getting lumber for his money, while Man No. 2 is receiving a big percentage of freight charges for his money. Think this over before you buy.

A Big Hardware Store in a Small Town.

Mentone can justly lay claim to one of the largest and most complete hardware stocks to be found in the country, and it is not composed of a lot of old junk but of modern up-to-date goods, displayed in a very neat and tasty manner.

The Weldon Reed hardware store is also agent for the International Harvester Co., handling the McCormick-Deering tractors and other farm machinery. This branch of the business is chiefly looked after by Mr. Reed's son, "Bob" and from the car loads of tractors and farm machinery that are shipped to this firm each year there is no doubt but what Bob is looking after his end of the business in a very workmanlike manner. Being an expert with farm machinery and liking the out door life, the selling of this line is simply sport for Bob Reed, and we believe there is not another man in Mentone that gets more enjoyment out of his work than he does.

We doubt if there is another small town agency in the state that will sell more farm machinery and tractors in a year than the Weldon Reed Hardware in Mentone. During the machinery season this firm also uses considerable space in the Farm News to advertise the International line of machinery.

FIGHTING WITHOUT BLOWS

By GLENN FRANK, President University of Wisconsin.

Bishop Francis J. McConnell was standing on a street corner in China watching a scene that he did not at first recognize as a dramatization of one of the most important principles of human relationships.

He saw two Chinamen standing face to face, with their noses not more than five inches apart, shouting at each other. Obviously a difference of interest or opinion was at stake. Each contestant had at his back a group of supporters.

Bishop McConnell watched the affair for ten minutes and then, turning to a colleague who had lived in China for many years, he said:

"I've watched these men for ten minutes. Apparently they are braced for a fight, but neither has struck a blow, and neither seems nearer to striking a blow now than he was ten minutes ago."

"Oh," said his colleague, "you don't understand the Chinese theory of a fight. The man who strikes the first blow in a Chinese fight indicates thereby to the onlookers that he has run out of ideas."

I venture the dogmatic and sweeping statement that there has not been a war during the last 500 years that has not been due to the fact that statesmen stopped using ideas and began using blows before full use had been made of available ideas.

I commend to statesmen, to men in business enterprises, to men in churches, to men in universities, the Chinese theory that the man who strikes the first blow indicates thereby that he has run out of ideas.

Mentone Grocery Stores Are Modern.

There are few towns of this size that we have visited that can boast of more modern or neater groceries than our little village of Mentone. And one of the most inviting among them is the Sarber Grocery Store. Just a few months ago this store was remodeled and arranged to the "Serve Yourself if You Choose" plan, and more recently became affiliated with the "Home Stores System" an organization which came into existence to assist the independent grocer to meet "chain store" competition.

I. H. Sarber is one of our popular and well known business men and with the assistance of his wife who is in the store the greater part of the time, he is able to handle the business with a small amount of help, thereby keeping his overhead down to the minimum, and by so doing is able to sell groceries at a very small profit. This firm delivers goods when so requested, and anytime that you are too busy to call at the store, just phone and you will get your goods in a jiffy.

If you will keep your eye on their advertisement in the Farm News you will find that their weekly specials will in many cases show a saving that is worth while. Mr. I. H. Sarber has conducted this store for eight years, prior to which he conducted a tailoring business in this village for seventeen years. So you see Ike is numbered among our old business men.

NEED FOR PRESBYTERIAN UNION

By DR. WILLIAM CHALMERS COVERT, Philadelphia.

I advocate immediate and unconditional reunion of all branches of the Presbyterian church. The differences that arose out of the sorrows and griefs of the battlefields of '61 to '65 have long ago found their solution in the hearts of those comrades of the Blue and Gray. If those old fighters, now on their final march, have learned to walk together in the love of a common flag, so may Presbyterians, north and south, who are their sons and share all their pride and their loyalties, walk together under the bonnie blue flag of Presbyterianism. What they can do for their country, we can do for our Christ.

Doctrinal differences which heretofore have separated the various branches of the Presbyterian church are negligible and minor differences. Every argument for reuniting the separated units of our great family has taken on new urgency today. Every objection that has heretofore arisen to postpone and prevent this natural and inevitable oneness, has less weight with the thoughtful and devoted leaders in the church than at any time in a generation.

As to racial groupings in the church, conditions that once justified or made congenial the separate groupings of Presbyterians in the pioneer days have gone by because of the dilution of the old racial stocks and the universality and supremacy of the real American breed of Presbyterianism.

EGG CASES!!

We expect to unload four--4--car loads of egg case material

Saturday, Oct. 5th.

PRICES FROM THE CAR:

35½c in Lots of 1000 or Better.

36c in Lots of 500 or Better.

37c in Lots Less than 500.

The above prices are for the FINEST COTTONWOOD cases that money can buy--PETERSON-MILLER--with finest grey fillers and cup-flats. We are in a position to make these extremely low prices on such high quality material because of a large contract of which these four cars are a part.

You Should Buy Enough to Run You Until Next April

As we will have no more cars of cases until that time. Prices are usually higher during winter and spring, so you can make a good profit by BUYING BIG now.

These prices are less than you can buy an entire mixed carload, so don't be "penny wise" and "pound foolish." Buy now and get your cases for less than wholesale. You can make big money by nailing them up during the bad days this winter. It will save you a lot of egg case bother too during the busy spring season.

SAVE MONEY AND BOTHER!

A pretty good idea don't you think? The price differential between larger and smaller lots is due to the increased labor and cost of breaking bundles, separating and counting cup-flats etc.. to complete cases in less than 500 lots. In case some of you wish to club together in order to secure the quantity price of 500 and 1000 lots---we hope you will do so. In this case however, we will expect to make the sale to one person and receive one check and in this case we will expect to load one or more persons with the fillers and flats and you do your own dividing and clerical work involved.

You Who Want to Save Money Don't Forget the Day.

Eggsactly yours

"After you have been two weeks in the house with one of these terrible handy men, that ask their wives to be sure and wipe between the tines of the forks, and that know just how to hang out a wash so that each piece will get the best sun, it's a real joy to get back to the ordinary kind of man." Mrs. Gregg finished with much emphasis: "I want a man should have sense about the things he's meant to have sense about, but when it comes to keeping house, I like him real helpless, the way the Lord planned to have him."

COCKTAILS

We enjoy the fruit cocktail at any season, but as the cooler weather comes on, the heavier cocktails will come into use more freely.

Oyster Cocktail.—Clean and chill 16 small oysters; mix with three teaspoon-fuls of horseradish, one teaspoonful of tabasco sauce, two tablespoonfuls of vinegar, five tablespoonfuls of lemon juice, three tablespoonfuls of Worcestershire sauce, three tablespoonfuls of catsup and one and one-fourth teaspoonful of salt. Serve in glasses or lemon cups.

Sardine Cocktail.—Serve sardines cut into small pieces in a lemon cup set in ice with the above or any approved sauce.

Clam Cocktail.—For every cocktail required take a teaspoonful of lemon juice, one teaspoonful of vinegar, a quarter teaspoonful of walnut sauce, one-half teaspoonful of mushroom catsup, a dash of tabasco, and a pinch of salt. Pour this mixture over eight little-neck clams and serve in a well-chilled glass. This cocktail finds favor for suppers or luncheons.

Grapefruit With Bar-le-Duc Currants.—Cut a chilled grapefruit into halves, remove the seeds and membrane, cut round the edges and cut out the center, then lift out all the membrane leaving the pulp in place. Fill the center with a spoonful of Bar-le-Duc currants or Maraschino cherries and serve without sugar.

Pineapple, Orange and Lemon Cocktail.—Take a tablespoonful each of orange pulp, carefully broken with the membrane removed and cut tender pineapple. Pour over the fruit a sirup made with lemon juice and sugar boiled to a sirup and cooled before adding. Serve with a sprig of mint in the top of the glass.

Few "Small Towns" Not Thoroughly Up to Date

The average small town now offers about everything the city has except the "rush hour" and a few other inconveniences. Convincing proof of the changes taking place in the life of the small centers is found on almost every hand. Particularly is this true in many of the older centers, which a few years back were inclined to be satisfied with conditions as they were.

There is now a new life and renewed interest. In times gone by many towns were prone to slumber on after the arrival and departure of its few daily trains. Now most centers of any consequence either are on or near one of the arteries of the state's road system. This has resulted in an almost constant traffic, such as the operation of bus lines on regular schedules and parades of motor cars, in addition to rail service.

It is a rather slow locality of any size that does not have its chamber of commerce working for the town's welfare and advancement. Country clubs, golf courses and swimming pools are becoming common. Likewise the "talkies" are about as prevalent in the smaller communities as in the cities. And the radio is tuned in on the same offerings furnished elsewhere. The women are playing as much bridge as their sisters in the more populous centers. The girls are just as modern and the boys just as sheikish and up-to-date as those in the city.—Exchange.

Money Wisely Expended on Paint and Varnish

Cleaning up the individual premises of a home owner or occupant is the first essential element in improving the appearance and health conditions of the property. After this is done painting and varnishing may follow. A small amount of money invested each year in paint and varnish keeps the property in good condition with no periods of deterioration or expensive repairs. A good surface of paint on the woodwork, both interior and exterior seals up the pores in the wood, keeping out germs, insects and decay.

The home owner may establish a system of painting his home, so that parts of it may be painted one year other parts the next, and still more parts the third year. In this manner no heavy expenditure faces the home owner every three years or so. And at the same time, the home always appears to be in first-class condition.

Painting also serves as a health measure. Any surface that is painted regularly cannot harbor germs that menace the health of the family.

Problems of Nature Lovers

In Nature Magazine Charles Sumner Bird, Jr., chairman of the Massachusetts committee on Needs and Uses of Open Spaces, had a most interesting article, in the course of which he says:

"It is recognized today that beauty is not a luxury, but an absolute necessity to the complete life of every normal human being. The man who does not crave the beauties of nature has a twisted soul and should be an object of pity; and, if he should be the slave of a blind commercialism which impels him to destroy for others the beauties of nature, he is a bad citizen. Every problem of importance today is common to all countries; and England, the cradle of the Industrial age, faces difficulties corresponding to those which nature lovers in America are mobilizing to solve. It may be said here that the sooner this mobilization on as large a scale as possible is consummated the sooner will the ravages on the face of nature be stayed."

Protecting the Tree

Strong wire cable scientifically installed in the tops of trees will strengthen the forks and hold the branches safe from storms that would otherwise be fatally destructive. To be effective the job must be done correctly and carefully. The weight of the limbs, the strain of the wind, the strength of the wood and the manner of branching must all be considered if proper results are to be secured. It is work for trained men.

Even so, it is comparatively inexpensive work and certainly is more than justified as a means of insuring trees against the ravages of the wind storms of summer and the sleet storms of winter.

Driveways Worth While

An attractive concrete driveway adds much to the appearance of the grounds, because it enhances beauty and makes for neatness. Its utility lies in its providing safe passage to the street or highway the year round. Automatically a good driveway increases the value of property. It matters not how modest the home or limited the space in lawn, the driveway is an important and necessary addition to house and garden.

Wisdom From Franklin

Idleness and pride tax with a heavier hand than kings and parliaments. If we can get rid of the former, we may easily bear the latter.—Benjamin Franklin (1706-1790). "Letter on the Stamp Act."

Many Dialects in Africa

Explorers in Africa have found it necessary to change guides as often as every 20 miles in order to understand the prevailing dialect—of which there are more than 700 on the continent.

Courtesy Shows Character

Courtesy is the outward expression of your inward appreciation of the rights of others. It costs nothing, yet is one of our rarest commodities. It is the hall-mark of unselfishness, the true test of a lady or a gentleman.—Grit.

Denotes Burial Place

The word "columbarium" is derived from the Latin word "columba," meaning a dove. The word was originally applied to rows of niches in the walls of sepulchral chambers in Roman burial places from their fancied resemblance to the dove-cote. Eventually the name was applied to the chamber itself; hence its use at the present time.

Unworthy Christians

"Rice Christians" are persons who join a church for what they can get out of the act in a material way. The name was first applied to certain Chinese said to have joined Christian church missions in China in order to get a dole or allotment of rice, their chief food, rather than because of any deep conviction that they were improving their spiritual condition.

Physicians Not Long Lived

According to the Metropolitan Life Insurance company, physicians have no advantage in longevity, as one might expect from their profession. On the contrary, they do not live as long as the ordinary policy holders. At the age of thirty, when a physician begins his career, the doctor's expectation of life is two years less than that of the general population.

Mr. and Mrs. Ervin Mikesell and daughter Norma Jean of South Bend and Mrs. John W. Mikesell have been visiting their daughter, Mrs. Roy Foulstich of Oak Park Ill., over Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Eherenman on last Sunday entertained the following guests for dinner Lloyd Eherenman and family of Milford Mr. and Mrs. Adam Eherenman and daughter Louise and Joe Gerkey of Laporte.

Health Hint

Infants should be weighed every week during the first six months and every other week during the second six months of life. Keeping track of the weight during the second year is also important, but once a month is sufficient.

Sult-Weirick

The home of Mrs. Cora Weirick one and one-half miles west of Mentone, was the scene of a pretty wedding on Saturday, when Mrs. Weirick's daughter, Miss Wilma Weirick, became the bride of Clifford Sult, son of Mr. and Mrs. David Sult, of near Rochester. The double ring ceremony was performed at 12 o'clock in the presence of the immediate families by Rev. W. O. Powers, pastor of the Methodist church at Mentone. Immediately following the wedding dinner, which was served in the dining room of the Weirick home, the couple left for a short wedding trip through Michigan. Upon their return they will be at home to their friends at the White City Egg Farm where Mr. Sult is employed.

Property Changes Hand

During the past week there has been transfers on two of the best resident properties in our village, which would indicate that Mentone property is appreciating in value.

George Nellans purchased the Eddinger residence on North Broadway together with all its furnishings. The amount of consideration is not known but as this is a fine piece of property it runs up into the thousands. By the purchase of this property we take it that Mr. Nellans is going to retire from farming and stock raising, and that he and Mrs. Nellans will move to town in the near future. Welcome to our city George, we will try and treat you right.

The other piece of property was the Mrs. Elmer Leiter property on West Main St., which was purchased by K. A. Riner. We do not know whether "Kenney" bought this for speculative purposes or whether he ———? Well it is all right with us regardless of what he bought it for.

American Christians

Although only about one-half the population of the United States is included in the membership of Christian churches it is estimated that 90 per cent of the inhabitants hold the beliefs of Christians.

New Coat Length for Autumn Ensembles

Shorter than longer coats are the style. The most recent cloth ensembles are "that way." To explain rather than full length the mode raises the coat hemline to three-quarter or to anywhere that is "different," accenting the line as pictured with wide fur borderings.

With Spanish Accent Speaks the Style-World

We've gone Spanish in fashion's realm. Hats, shawls, jewels, colors, laces, gowns for autumn-winter 1929-'30 reflect the romantic dress of the lovely senorita and the dashing torador. The presence of the bolero in both day and evening modes, the Spanish-wrought carved leather handbags, the pompon trimmed sailor, the flounced black lace dress, the red, yellow and black color schemes such as the silk for the evening gown in the picture interprets, all breathe of old Spain.

An Ohio State university professor says a mustache is definitely a handicap to a young man seeking employment. Especially if he is looking for a job as female impersonator in the varsity show.

"You've been ringing this door bell for twenty minutes," remarked the enraged householder to the house-to-house agent. "What is it you want?" "Well, I thought you might be interested in a new door bell."

Growing and Fattening of Hogs During Summer

The growing and fattening of hogs in the summer time without the use of some good pasture crop is usually an uneconomical practice. A saving of from 15 to 25 per cent of the total amount of grain and supplements may be expected through the use of forage. It may even be possible in some cases with an abundance of legume forage to obtain fairly satisfactory gains for a time on forage alone, but the greatest returns will be obtained when grain is fed in addition to the forage at the rate of three or four pounds per day for each 100 pounds live weight. When the grain feed is very much limited on pasture, naturally less grain will be used in making the early gains, but as in the experiment cited above, eventually a total of more grain may be required to finish the hogs and the time required will be longer.

Agricultural Squibs

Large horses are worth more than small horses both in value a head and value a pound.

A good thing to remember at this time of the year is that a wormy pig will never get big.

The season for camping and for forest fires is here. Help make it only the camping season.

Aphis are likely to attack almost every tree, shrub, or plant, and this year the pests are widespread.

Pigs of all classes respond to good forage. It is especially valuable in the ration of young, rapidly growing pigs.

Strawberry beds will develop stronger and more productive runner plants if side dressed with nitrate of soda and superphosphate.

Electricity on the farm for lighting alone is an expensive luxury; if used for labor-saving devices it becomes a desirable convenience.

It is not much trouble to get rid of lice on hogs, since either crude oil or the waste oil taken from the crank case of your car will do the job.

During the past two or three years hulled oats have attracted considerable attention among hog men as a feed for growing and fattening pigs.

TALMA ITEMS

Intellectual America
Valuable Lives
Mexican News, Good, Bad
All About Strange Man

Intellectual Americans paid $300,000 to see Mr. Tom Loughran fight Mr. Jack Sharkey, a Lithuanian who borrows his fighting name.

The gentlemen, who are "heavy-weights" in more senses than one, fought three rounds. Sharkey won, Mr. Loughran "technically knocked out."

The same crowd will pay $300,000 more later to see them fight three more rounds, with Mr. Loughran winning.

After that will come the deciding match. Sad, dull days for those who crave brutality.

Of all big business, life insurance is biggest. Frederick H. Ecker, president of the Metropolitan Life Insurance company, predicts an increase in life insurance from one hundred to two hundred billions by 1940, while discussing problems involved in the investment of fourteen thousand million dollars, held in trust for policy holders.

Two hundred billion dollars' insurance on the people of the United States seems gigantic. But it averages less than $2,000 per inhabitant. It's a poor American that isn't worth more than that.

Two pieces of Mexican news—one good, one bad—for Mexico's people. With excellent intention, Mexico plans to let Mexican labor raise itself by its own bootstraps. That is the bad news.

Employers hiring more than twenty workers must make collective contracts, with all.

An employer for any reason letting men go, even closing down for lack of business, must continue paying wages for three months.

Such laws, if established, would drive capital and prosperity out of Mexico.

It would expel the only automobile factory in Mexico, which belongs to Henry Ford.

Mexico's good news tells that the number of her schools has doubled within a year. The government plans public school education for every child, on the American plan.

Man is a strange animal. David Bernstein, Brooklyn tailor, deliberately killed a man against whom he held no grudge, pushing him off an elevated railroad platform in Brooklyn. No one saw him. He confessed to the police.

Insane, probably.

The lawmaking machinery of New York decided to kill Frank Piana in the electric chair. Acute appendicitis threatened the electric chair program.

A good surgeon, hired at public expense, restored Piana to the death house. "Out of kindness" he is allowed to play cards with his partner in crime. Michael Sciafoni, a wall separating them.

Strange uses of science, killing men by electricity, saving their lives by surgery that the electricity may kill them, treating them kindly while waiting for the chair.

A cat does no worse with its mouse.

Earth's 1,800,000,000 people are not QUITE CIVILIZED YET.

Further details concerning the massacre of 3,000 Mohammedans by Chinese in Kansu province show that the human race has still some distance to travel.

Of late Mohammedans had been murdering Chinese. Then came famine, most desperate, among the Mohammedans, who were invited by Chinese officials to come to Taochow for a conference, with promises of roasted barley.

When they came, men from fifteen to fifty were separated from the women, taken outside the walls and "3,000 of them butchered like sheep." When they saw that they were to be killed the Mohammedans asked no mercy.

After the famine the Mohammedans will doubtless murder ten or twenty Chinese for each Mohammedan killed in the massacre.

So it goes among human beings, most cruel and blood-thirsty of all animals.

Senator Borah says that President Hoover "must go through to the end and assume responsibility for the tariff." That new view of the President's duty interests Mr. Hoover and the people.

The old idea was that congress should write the laws, the President approve or veto them, the Supreme court interpret them.

Mr. Mussolini would agree with Senator Borah's suggestion.

Uncle Sam collected from his nephews this year $200,000,000 more than he needs. President Hoover and Secretary Mellon are said to agree that income taxes can safely be cut.

It is said that collecting the income tax is costing the government $500,000,000 a year, which seems a great deal. It should be possible to find a better system.

Colonel Lindbergh is a wonderful flyer, one of this nation's most precious possessions.

For that reason it is too bad that he cannot be persuaded to exercise reasonable caution.

An accident to Colonel Lindbergh would be, as President Hoover has said, "a great blow to the affections of the United States."

It would also be a great blow to aviation in the United States, which perhaps interests Colonel Lindbergh more.

It would check the progress of aviation seriously, arousing great distrust.

When Colonel Lindbergh was stunting recently at Cleveland he amused himself swooping downward almost to the ground, at terrific speed, suddenly turning upward.

A competent engineer watching the stunt said: "His plane weighs 2,000 pounds. The stunt just performed puts a terrific strain on the wings and other parts equivalent to changing the weight of the plane from 2,000 pounds to 30,000 pounds."

Selecting the anniversary of the Chicago fire, President Hoover proclaims a fire prevention week, urging "the exercise of ordinary care on the part of our citizens." He notes that "for two consecutive years fire losses in the United States have been decreased."

Life Imprisonment, in every case, for arson might help, and would be justified, since arson indicates willingness to commit murder.

Important, and neglected, is the task of fighting forest fires. Chemists and airplanes should combine to solve that problem.

Again, "The world's biggest bank" makes its bow, bigger than any thus far.

Charles E. Mitchell, head of New York's National City bank, absorbs the Corn Exchange bank, creating an institution with resources of two thousand five hundred millions of dollars.

This one financial giant will have 100 branch banks in New York. The old fashioned million has given way to the new "billion."

When will the TRILLION be transferred from books on astronomy to the books of United States bankers?

In Wall street a broker has closed up. His story is sad and brief. HE SOLD SHORT.

And, most strange, he sold bank stocks short.

To "short" a bank stock with banks getting from 10 to 20 per cent for money on call, calls for an investigation in lunacy.

You read that the naval conference will depend largely on what Japan wants and agrees to. The powerful face of the Japanese Premier Hamaguchi, who will do the deciding, tells you that Japan will talk plainly.

If Uncle Sam and Britain cannot agree, Mr. Hamaguchi might be useful as a good excuse.

Why doesn't Uncle Sam decide for himself what he wants in airplanes, cruisers, submarines and everything else? Do we NEED the approval of another country?

Death Claims Levi Strong

Levi Strong of Akron aged about 75 years, father of Mrs. Charles Meredith, of Mentone, passed away suddenly at Benton Harbor Mich., his death being due to an apoplectic stroke. Mr. Strong was well known in the southwest part of Kosciusko county, where he had resided nearly all his life. Three other children survive.

The funeral service was held last Wednesday at 2 o'clock at the Zimmerman funeral home in Rochester.

A Large Potato

John F. Laird showed us a potato one day last week that weighed one pound and fourteen ounces. Quite a good sized potato to be grown in this locality. He raised fifty-five bushels of that variety on a little less than one fourth acre—of course they were not all as large as the one he showed us.

Win Banner at Church Gathering

About seventy-five members of the Baptist Church and Sunday School attended Young People's night at the Logansport Association of Baptist Churches held at Meta on last Thursday evening. Bethlehem Church won the loving cup for having the largest delegation present and Mentone Baptists won second place, which is a large banner to be held by the church for one year. The Mentone church last year won the first trophy, a loving cup to be held by the church permanently for having had the largest delegation for three consecutive years. A number of churches of the Association competed.

Henry's Way of Coming Home

THIS one was a favorite with the late Joseph H. Choate. I heard him use it more than once when he was making after-dinner speeches.

"I had a friend named Jones," said Mr. Choate, "whose son, although of comparatively tender years, was addicted to the reprehensible habit of indulging in alcoholic beverages. The father packed him off to Harvard in the hope that the youth might become interested in educational matters and lose his craving for hard liquor."

"It appeared that the father's hopes were to be gratified, because the young man, in writing home to ask that his allowance be increased, told his sire that he had mended his ways and now was devoting himself exclusively to the undertaking of acquiring learning. The senior Jones was most highly gratified. He decided to run up to Cambridge and personally to congratulate his offspring upon the reformation which had been effected. To make the meeting more pleasant he would take the youngster by surprise. So, without announcing his intention, he started."

"But the train was delayed and my friend did not reach Cambridge until after midnight. He got in a cab and rode to the boy's boarding house. The building was dark."

"Leaving the cab at the curbing, he felt his way up the walk, rang the doorbell and pounded on the door. Eventually an upstairs window was opened and an elderly lady, the proprietor of the establishment, showed her head."

"Well," she called out, "what is wanted?"

"Does Mr. Henry Jones, Junior live here?" asked the father.

"Yes," said the old lady wearily. "Carry him in."

Date Is Set For Marketing School

The cooperative marketing school to open Friday evening Oct. 4th at the Court House in Warsaw and which is being promoted by the Vocational Department of the State Board of Education and the Indiana Farm Bureau Federation, will present in eight lessons, one to be given each week, the need for an improved marketing system, the history and development of marketing in the United States and the evolution of cooperative marketing with special attention to the marketing of Indiana farm products.

C. S. Materson, of the Indiana Farm Bureau Federation, who has visited and studied many of the most successful cooperative organizations in the United States and Canada, will be in charge.

The classes will begin promptly at 7:30 p. m. and one hour and thirty minutes will be devoted to the class work.

Anyone interested in farm life is welcome to attend and it is expected that over one hundred will be in attendance.

Most Farmers know more about production than they do about marketing problems and this marketing school will provide a splendid opportunity for our farm people to acquaint themselves with marketing and marketing problems.

DAMP FLOORS ARE MENACE TO FOWLS

Owners Who Tolerate Them Are Inviting Big Losses.

Damp floors in poultry houses are inexcusable, in the opinion of E. R. Gross, agricultural engineer at the New Jersey Agricultural Experiment station. Poultrymen who tolerate them are inviting heavy losses in their flocks and a general reduction in the efficiency of the birds that survive.

A dry wooden floor may be made of two layers of boards with building paper between, the top layer to be a good grade of matched flooring, so that it may be kept clean. Many poultrymen find it desirable to keep the floor 12 to 18 inches above the ground and to leave the south foundation wall open for air circulation. The other sides should be closed tight to keep out cold winds.

For a dry concrete floor, either of two methods may be used. The first is as follows: Build the foundation walls; level the ground inside, do not remove any soil; fill in with 6 to 8 inches of coarse sand, gravel, or cinders; and place 3 1/2 to 4 inches of concrete floor on top. In this construction, be sure the foundations are high enough for the fill of cinders and the floor. This raised floor with insulating fill will be dry.

The other method is to lay a two-course concrete floor with a layer of roofing paper between.

Sometimes the floor itself is not the cause of dampness. Then the remedy must be sought in a study of the care of the house ventilation, litter, or sunlight admitted.

Highly Concentrated Foods Hurt Turkeys

The turkey has a rather large digestive system and long intestines, accompanied by an ever-present appetite, so that if birds are compelled to satisfy this appetite on highly concentrated foods, indigestion is almost certain to result.

If this is not immediately relieved death will follow, and usually salts or, better still, castor oil will effect a cure.

Plenty of green food is essential to young turkeys, such as alfalfa (if quite tender), clover, lettuce, chopped onion tops and dandelion leaves. All green food supplied to turkeys should be cut a little way up from the ground to avoid black-head contamination that may chance to lurk in the soil.

Fertile Eggs Reason for Paltry Returns

Nature intends the egg to hatch a chick. To get the best food results from eggs we have to defeat nature's purpose by producing infertile eggs. A fertile egg is just as good as an infertile one if it is used at once, but it won't hold up under summer market conditions.

Sell or confine the roosters as soon as the breeding season is over. The hens will lay just as well without the male in the flock. Using early hatched cockerels is a good breeding practice on the farms. Selling them as soon as your hatching season is over saves a feed bill of from 90 cents to $1.50 each. If you have particularly valuable males, confine them.

Difficult to Decide Sex of Young Poults

It is difficult to be absolutely sure of the sex of young turkey poults. The males will usually "shoot the red" and show development of the fleshy growth on the head a little sooner than the females, and they are also likely to grow more rapidly than the females.

With the Bronze variety of turkeys the sex can also be detected by the plumage color as soon as they are well feathered. The breast of the females show the characteristic white tips to the breast feathers, while the males will show dark tips.

Changing Breeds

Several years ago it was common advice to avoid changing breeds of poultry. That was before the days of the large hatchery when poultrymen established a flock with a few settings of eggs, possibly bought at a high price, and then spent several years in developing their own flocks. A change meant starting all over. In many cases birds of both breeds would be retained and soon a pure-bred flock became a flock of crosses followed by a flock of mongrels.

Birds Not Wanted

Most poultry keepers realize that there are two courses open to them in regard to unwanted males. One plan is to destroy them as soon as they can be distinguished; and the other is to feed them well right from the first day and so bring them to a fleshy condition. The latter practice is sound so far as the early cockerels are concerned, but very few poultry keepers approve of it for later broods. Some poultrymen do not hesitate to can all surplus fowls.

Travel by Rail

It seems that the average German now makes 28 railroad trips a year. This makes them about the world's best travelers so far as the rails are concerned. Americans go farther and oftener, but the motor car does the big business in human movement in this country.

Sodium Arsenate Quite Efficient

Poison Has Proved to Be Satisfactory for Grass- hopper Bait.

Paris green and white arsenic have long been used as the standard poisoning agents in grasshopper baits. As a consequence most farmers have become familiar with these materials. They know that desirable results can usually be obtained. That being the case, most farmers are not prone to make a change to other materials. They always ask the question, "Why change to sodium arsenate when I can get results with paris green or white arsenic?"

Paris Green Costly.

Paris green, besides being hard to mix, is entirely too expensive for economical poisoning, therefore should be eliminated. White arsenic is cheap enough, but due to the care required to get the poison evenly distributed in the bait, it is often difficult for the field worker to obtain a perfect mixture. When the mixture is imperfect, erratic results are sure to be had. The possibilities of arsenical poisoning are also greater when one works with white arsenic extensively.

Its Advantages.

Sodium arsenate is free from the above criticisms, and has proved to be a most satisfactory and efficient poison. It has the following advantages:

1. It is cheap, reducing the cost of poisoning to a minimum.
2. It is easy to mix. The chances of an imperfect mixture are reduced.
3. It is soluble. Therefore every flake of bran moistened is poisoned, doing away with possible erratic results.
4. This material is poison and must not be taken internally, but due to its liquid state, there is less possibility of being poisoned with it than with white arsenic where large quantities of dust can be breathed.
5. It is easy to measure and handle.
6. It is efficient. Experiments show it to be entirely effective when properly applied.—George S. Langford, office of Colorado State Entomologist.

Grind With Electricity Is Cheapest Operation

Experiments at Iowa State college lead to the conclusions that the farmer who needs only 100 or 200 bushels ground annually should have it done at a custom mill if within reasonable hauling distance. Where more than 400 bushels are needed per year, the farmer can well afford to own his own equipment and do the grinding work on his farm. Home grinding costs about one-half that of custom grinding when more than 700 bushels are ground per year. A small electric grinder will operate from 25 to 35 per cent cheaper than large equipment, especially when arranged for automatic or semi-automatic operation. It is cheaper to operate, a smaller transformer can be used with much decreased core loss, and it gives an improved load factor and better diversified load.

Cattle Grub Expensive to Many Cattle Owners

It costs in the neighborhood of $50,000,000 a year for cattle owners, dairy-men, feeders, butchers, and tanners to support the cattle grub, yet this pest can be destroyed. Either the old method of hand extraction may be used, or the newer methods developed by the United States Department of Agriculture. The department advises the application of Derris as a wash, ointment, or powder, pyrethrum ointment, fine tobacco powder or nicotine dust, or the injection of benzol or carbon tetrachloride. A concentrated drive on the cattle grub is necessary to eradicate it from a locality. The pest is becoming more serious, says the department, owing to the spread of a second species of grub, known as the northern, or European grub.

Staking and Pruning Is Essential for Tomatoes

Staking and pruning truck crop tomatoes is a common practice. Advantages claimed for staking and pruning are greater uniformity and better average size.

Stakes are commonly set when the plants are from 12 to 15 inches tall and should stand three to four feet above the ground. Plants should be tied to the stakes with soft twine or rags loosely and as the plant develops additional ties should be made.

The amount of pruning varies with the ability of the grower. Many believe that heavy pruning reduces yield and experiments tend to bear this out.

Protection Is Needed for Parts of Machines

Cultivator shanks, tractor drawbars, power take-off shafts, and similar devices or parts of machines should be breakpin protected, as a rule. Spring release hitches are replacing breakpins on tractor drawbars to some extent, while safety clutches form a convenient and practical means of protection for power take-off and other revolving drive or driven shafts. But whatever device is used, see that it is always ready—like a fuse in an electric circuit—to break, slip or trip when an obstruction is suddenly encountered.

What Is The Telephone Co. Trying To Do?

Every since the Northern Indiana Telephone Co., purchased the Farmers Co-Operative Telephone Co. of this community there has been endless trouble. The service if anything has been poorer, the rentals increased and toll added to near by towns.

It is evident to most anyone that this company, fortified by the provisions under the Public Utilities law, are out to grab all the money they can and give practically nothing in return. At the rates now charged the patrons are entitled to the best equipment and first class service, whereas the equipment is obsolete—and is the only company we know of that in this day and age are using the "ground circuit" all good companies using a "full metallic circuit."

Yet with this lot of junk and about ten times as much bunk this company recently went before the Utilities Commission, and by listing their property at about twice what it was really worth were granted a big increase in their rentals etc. One building in this town that is about ready to fall down was listed for as much as the whole block would sell for. If our taxing officials would place the companies valuation as they gave it upon the tax duplicate, there would be an awful roar. It is our opinion that this company is out for the money only—"the public be damned."

Owing to the fact that the law is such that we cannot put up competing telephone lines, the only relief that we know of is to order the service discontinued, and to elect men to the state legislature who will see that the public utilities law is modified in such a manner that grabs like this cannot happen.

The service at this office—not due to the help at the central office but to bum equipment—became so rotten that we ordered our phone out some time ago, and if other patrons will do likewise it might be that the rates would come down to where they belong with a little service thrown in. Don't think that you cannot get along without a telephone—while it may be a little inconvenient once in a while—look at the satisfaction that you will get in knowing that you are not being held up. Get in the band wagon, throw out your phone and show this company that you will not stand for the raise.

ORGANIZED LABOR'S POSITION

By WILLIAM GREEN, President A. F. of L.

Organized labor is as beneficial to great corporations as it is to the workers. We live in an age of organization. Individual effort alone can count for little these days. Massed production is the watchword of our times. It is the duty of workers to organize so they can collectively protect their just interests. And in this way the important employers of labor also benefit. Organized units are more efficient and work more intelligently.

The American Federation of Labor is built upon constructive lines. We are unlike those who come preaching dangerous doctrines of revolution. We believe in this country and in its laws and customs and it is our purpose to uphold those laws and customs.

WOMEN FOR HIGHER POSITIONS

By DR. MARIA CASTELLAND, Italian Publicist.

American business women should assist in establishing an international federation and encourage women to go after some of the important positions in the international field held by men. Women are crippled now for want of an international intermediary.

Nowadays many businesses and professions are directly connected with the international relations field, but thus far the men have all the advantage in such professions. Very few women are in the international relations field, and they hold only the smaller positions in international bodies. If business and professional women need international help, they have to go to associates other than their own, because even if the federation is very powerful in their own country it has no international standing.

This could and should be remedied. As women get a wider acquaintance internationally, as they learn more about international affairs, they are going to make themselves felt in all these international organizations.

SURPLUS CROP PRODUCTIONS

By W. J. SPILLMAN, Agricultural Economist.

THERE appears to be no possibility of preventing surplus production of cotton, corn, wheat or hay, since in the case of each of these four major crops there exists a considerable surplus acreage. The fact that we produce more of a product than is consumed in this country does not necessarily mean that we have a surplus of it. In the case of cotton and wheat, we produce large amounts for export and the export price controls the price of the home product, but where this price is remunerative to the grower it can hardly be said that we have a surplus of the product.

Since the panic years of 1920-21 the production of dairy and poultry products in this country has been adjusted to our home requirements with an amazing degree of accuracy. At no time has our production of these products exceeded our requirements more than 1 or 2 per cent nor has it fallen below our requirements by more than this percentage.

As to whether or not this remarkable state of affairs will continue I think we can find the answer if we can find the cause of the delicate adjustment that exists between production and consumptive needs.

I am of the opinion that the cause is to be sought in the following facts: That section of the United States known as the corn belt has more alternatives than any other. Corn belt farmers can turn their attention to dairying, the poultry business, the raising of beef cattle, the fattening of steers, the production of pork products, the production of mutton and wool, the growing for sale of corn, wheat, oats or hay. It is because of the fact that the corn belt produces such a large percentage of dairy and poultry products that so far as dairy and poultry products are concerned, production is automatically balanced against market requirements.

Ethylene Gas Speeds Ripening of Tomato

Found to Be Effective Accelerator by Growers.

Tomato growers who wish to hasten the ripening of their crop to take advantage of early markets will find treatment with ethylene gas an effective accelerator, according to Dr. R. H. Harvey, agricultural botanist, University Farm, St. Paul, inventor of this process which has recently been granted a patent. Many wholesalers and commercial growers now are using the ethylene method of ripening with notable success.

All that is necessary in the way of special equipment is a suitable room or chamber and a tank of ethylene gas equipped with a simple flow meter. The meter, plus enough gas to treat several carloads of tomatoes, will cost only about $30. The gas cost is negligible, ranging from about 40 cents to $1.00 a carload. The room or chamber should be closed off so as to make it practically gas tight. An ordinary plastered room, or cellar room, will work satisfactorily, providing cracks around windows are closed with adhesive tape and if it has a fairly tight fitting door. Some means should also be available for maintaining a temperature of from 65 to 80 degrees Fahrenheit.

Tomatoes should be picked when they are beginning to turn or when they are fairly well along toward maturity. In no case should they be picked so green that more than four days is required to ripen them by the gas process, Doctor Harvey says. They may be placed in the ripening chamber in baskets, crates, or other containers.

Storage Buildings Above Ground Are Now Favored

Most new common storage buildings for apples are being built above ground with insulated walls and ceilings. The floor is usually left as earth to keep fruit from shriveling in storage. Slatted floor racks of barrels are often used over the earth. Intake openings are cut at intervals of 10 to 12 feet around the building just above the floor level. These openings are usually 18 by 20 inches or larger to permit easy intake of air without too much loss from friction. Many storages in the past were built with intake openings too small to let in the cool air quickly at favorable times for ventilation and cooling. The total area of the intake openings is usually in proportion to one square foot of intake space to 700 cubic feet of storage volume. Stacks for outlets are built up through the roof. These are usually 3 by 4 feet or larger to permit free movement of air. They are placed about 20 feet apart the length of the building. The outlets are usually designed to figure at least one square foot of area to each 1,200 cubic feet of storage volume. It is a good fault to make them a little oversize.

Title to Countryside

The prize winner in the national wayside beauty slogan contest, "This is your country—beautify it," ought to help in clearing up a good deal of misunderstanding. Heretofore, the highway traveler usually has been made to feel that the country belonged to the billboard, hot-dog stand and other interests which were out to make the wayside as ugly as humanly possible. If the ownership of the country along the highways can be definitely established and a reasonable pride in it can be built up, there will be possibilities in the promotion of attractiveness.—Kansas City Times.

Soy Beans Win Fame for Illinois

Popularity of Crop Brings Inquiries From Eight Different States.

What baked beans did for Boston, soy beans are doing for Illinois—making her famous, says J. C. Hackleman, crops extension specialist of the college of agriculture, University of Illinois. Because of the widespread reputation of Illinois as a soy bean producing center, Hackleman recently received within the short space of a few days inquiries regarding soy bean seed or the commercial utilization of the crop from eight states and one foreign country.

Brighter Day for Beans.

Incidentally he considers the letters as additional evidence that an even brighter day is dawning for soy beans. What popularity the crop already has gained in this state is indicated by the fact that Illinois last year produced slightly more than 3,000,000 bushels of soy beans, which was more than any other two states and about a third of the production for the entire country. The recent inquiries which the college has received about the crop came from Montana, Nebraska, Indiana, Missouri, Wisconsin, Ohio, Arkansas, Texas and Porto Rico.

Riding high on the wave of soy bean popularity now sweeping Illinois is the Illini variety, a new high yielder developed by plant breeders in the experiment station of the University of Illinois College of Agriculture. This past year it again proved superior to varieties grown at the experiment station and produced the highest yield ever recorded for a soy bean variety on the station plots. This was 42.5 bushels an acre in a rotation grown on rich soil. In a rotation grown on rather light soil it made 30.8 bushels an acre.

Seed Distributed.

Seed from the new variety is gradually being distributed over the state, farmers in 31 counties growing it this past year. Reports from these farmers indicated that the new variety averaged 25 bushels an acre, or about five bushels an acre more than the average for all other varieties. Superiority of the Illini variety as a seed is especially marked on the more fertile soils of the central and north-central portions of the state.

Field Stones Useful in Walls and Footings

Concrete foundation walls and footings can be cheapened somewhat with no injury to the quality of the concrete by filling in to some extent with hard, clean, field stones. This also offers a means of disposing profitably of what otherwise is more or less of a nuisance.

The stones should not be piled in the forms and the concrete worked down among them, as is sometimes done; but a layer of concrete should be put in the forms, then stones dropped in so that they do not touch the forms or each other. Then another layer of concrete and another layer of stones, and so on. The stones should be thoroughly water soaked an hour or so before they are to be used.

Larkspur Poisoning Is Cause of Large Losses

Losses of cattle from larkspur poisoning, which are heavy each year on western ranges, and occur to a lesser extent in the East, may be largely prevented by keeping cattle away from poison areas until the plant has matured, says the United States Department of Agriculture. Not until the plants have passed the flowering period and are in seed are larkspur ranges safe for cattle. Many cattlemen in the West keep cattle away from infested areas by riders or by the use of "drift" fences. Larkspur can be destroyed where it grows in masses by grubbing, including from six to eight inches of the root.

Agricultural Hints

Plans make the money go farther on the farm and in the home.

Too many silos stand empty the year round. They ought to be filled or torn down.

Some folks use weed-killing preparations for eradicating weeds in walks and driveways.

Red clover, if quite ripe, may be successfully put in the mow the same day it is cut provided, of course, there is a bright sun and a free movement of air.

The pocket gopher and ground squirrel will bother garden crops, such as cabbage and tomatoes. Ordinary moles will also cause some damage to these crops.

Vegetables that are not good when they leave the field are never any better. It does not pay to put poor vegetables on the market, for they lower the price of the whole shipment.

When blasting stumps be careful of hang-fires. Instead of risking life and limb by immediate investigation, look at the charge the next day. The electric method of firing is the safest and surest.

Wild Bison Increase

Sweden's stock of wild bison is now the largest in Europe. If not in the world, according to Alarik Bekan, director of the open-air museum of Skansen in Stockholm. By means of protective legislation these animals are thriving in the vast bison park at Aengelsberg, in the province of Västmanland, and are rapidly multiplying

Neglecting to Paint

Means Monetary Loss

Nobody wants to live in a dilapidated neighborhood, much less a shabby house. It is true that many people are forced to, since neglected houses won't sell. Their appearances are against them. A house that is old, in need of renovation and paint, is fast on its way to utter hopelessness—and nobody wants it.

Houses that appear neglected through lack of paint depreciate in value so much that an appreciable property loss is inevitable.

To become a little more cheerful on the subject, while nobody may want the old, windswept house, the same place with ever so slight renovation would increase in its value and desirability far beyond the cost of the improvements. Modernizing an old house makes it a desirable asset to a neighborhood, and a place to take pride in owning.

In modernization, where there is the slightest bit of structural beauty in the original lines, for economic reasons they should be allowed to remain. Minor changes which lend themselves to comfort and picturesqueness will be sufficient, since fresh paint in an attractive color scheme will add the important finishing touches.

Growing Movement for

Trees Along Highways

The possibilities of beautifying our main highways by means of trees, flowers and blooming shrubs inspires the hope that some day public demand will make these possibilities, at least in a large measure, realities. Many good things come from demonstrations. Near Louisiana, Mo., the state highway commission is setting out groups of spruce at intervals of from 200 to 300 feet for a distance of about 30 miles. The plants are a gift from a Louisiana nursery. The gift is generous, but probably a mighty good investment. When these groups of spruce attain blooming growth they will be an example that will be sure to inspire an extension of highway treatment. Indeed, such examples are numerous in some of the states, especially as to the planting of trees. Perhaps in time beauty along our principal motor car routes will be so compelling that almost everyone will respect it, including the beauty Nature has provided. If so, then we shall not have billboards and similar disfigurements.—Exchange.

Cal' for Simple Play Spots

The landscape architect's greatest contribution to modern civilization is designing parks to provide moral and physical health for the masses of the cities. Ferruccio Vitale of New York, member of the National Commission of Fine Arts, says in a symposium of the American Institute of Architects on collaboration in the arts of design.

"So long as only the aristocrats were the ones who desired open spaces outside of congested areas," declares Mr. Vitale, "the type of landscape development was bound to become one suitable for pomp and splendor."

"But when masses of people in a democratic community realized the necessity of these same open spaces, it was to secure relief from the congestion, to forget formality, and all the elements of structures and buildings by which they were surrounded."

Joy of Life in Country

What is there in country living? The shortest answer is that there is everything in country living, nowadays, that there is in big city living, and in less concentrated form. There is even more, for there is enough leisure and sufficient impulse toward the formation of really close friendships. It is not too difficult to see one's friends oftener than once a month or once a year of city dwellers, and it is possible to enjoy with them most of the things that make life important in America.—Exchange.

Not Too Many Evergreens

Care should be exercised in the use of accent shrubs and trees such as evergreens, weeping varieties and colored shrubs. Evergreens are greatly misused and overused. Generally speaking, except in houses of decidedly formal treatment, a combination of evergreens and deciduous shrubs are better than just evergreens. However, if your house does not have a formal treatment, the use of many evergreens is out of place.

Road Sign Interference

Effectiveness of the standard numeral signs and direction and danger signals on the transcontinental highways, which have contributed immeasurably to the convenience and safety of travel, is hindered in many instances by advertising signs which are so placed as to obscure them or withdraw attention from them.

There's a Difference

A happy place to live. Indeed, is the city where is constantly heard the sound of hammer and saw, but something else again is the city where only the hammer is heard.—Exchange.

Infinitesimal

A machine developed by P. P. Cioffi measures one-billionth of an inch, which is regarded as the smallest measurable distance.

Britain's Real Ruler Old-Fashioned Daughter Drugs in That Prison? A Prosperous Country

Ramsay MacDonald, elected head of the British Empire by the Labor party, is here, the first British Prime Minister to visit the United States while in office.

The Prime Minister is the most powerful man in England. The King, addressing his lords and commons, says exactly what the Prime Minister tells him to say.

Miss Isabel MacDonald, here with her father, will seem hopelessly old-fashioned to many of our rising female generation.

She does not smoke or drink alcoholic liquors and does not paint or powder her face.

And, most old-fashioned of all, she does look after her father and take a serious interest in public affairs.

If you see Ramsay MacDonald, Labor Prime Minister of Great Britain, you may also see Miss Rosie Rosenberg, vivacious, able young woman, the Prime Minister's private secretary.

Miss Rosenberg joined the Socialist party in London eleven years ago and has been MacDonald's secretary nine years.

Observe the difference between "democratic America" and "conservative Great Britain." Here, if you join the Socialist party, and talk "that way," you stand a fair chance of being locked up. In Britain you may become secretary to the Prime Minister.

The tragic rebellion of convicts in the Colorado state prison ended with 150 convicts walking out, hands raised above their heads, in surrender.

Four leaders of the rebellion had killed themselves. The convicts, at intervals, had thrown out of an upper window the bodies of guards captured and murdered by them, the warden having on each occasion refused to let them go free.

Once a prison inmate was a poor and miserable creature, with poor and miserable friends, if any.

Some woman, sad-faced, might come to see the man in jail, bringing her child to see him, through the bars, giving him, perhaps, a few cents' worth of tobacco.

That is all changed in these bootleg days. Convicts have, outside the prison walls, gangster friends that control money unlimited. Convicts can afford to buy privileges, including drugs, even at the high prices charged in prison traffic.

That drugs played a part in the Colorado outbreak, with its reckless disregard for death and its suicides, seems probable.

Guards will learn from the Colorado tragedy to watch their prisoners carefully, and to watch with especial care any guard or other person engaged in the prison drug trade.

Uncle Sam continues to prosper, in spite of increasing expenses. In three months ending September 30 he collected more than one billion dollars, and $128,959,834 more than he collected in the same three months a year ago. It's a big, rich country, with one single city spending in a year as much as the United States used to spend before the war.

Bootleg whisky, "home brew" and automobile accidents are related.

Drunken drivers kill many. Everybody knew that.

Now Doctor Norris, chief medical examiner of New York City, says that "drunken walkers" cause accidents for which the automobile industry is blamed.

Doctor Norris urges that reckless walkers be fined and adds, "Twenty-five per cent of adults hurt by automobiles are intoxicated."

Herman Linderman, New York gangster, strangled himself with his belt in prison. He had "squealed" on his associates, had been stabbed once in prison, and feared what would happen when he reached the penitentiary again.

He put $8.50 in the pocket of a criminal asleep in his cell with a note a king that it be divided with a friend. He wrote to that friend, "Have a good feast on me, on my way to hell." Crime does not pay.

Germany mourns the loss of Stresemann, great and patriotic leader, who actually worked himself to death for Germany. Before he died he had the satisfaction of negotiating the evacuation of the Rhineland, thus restoring to Germany her territorial integrity.

The governor of North Carolina very intelligently thinks that in North Carolina wages should be made higher, hours shorter, in the textile industry.

He does not agree with the theory that human beings in the South should be treated like cattle in order to attract northern capital.

Every intelligent American, especially the very rich and prosperous that want to remain rich and prosperous, is coming to realize the importance of paying good wages and giving men reasonable leisure for the enjoyment of life.

Clocks in Odd Shapes

Clocks in the forms of heads have appeared in Europe. One is a human skull, another a monkey's head and another a grotesque dog's cranium. One eye of each head represents the hours and the other the minutes. The numerals are painted around the optics like large eyelashes, while the orbs revolve and serve as hands.

Chivalry Never Dead

Some say the age of chivalry is past, that the spirit of romance is dead. The age of chivalry is never past so long as there is a wrong left unredressed on earth. —Kingsley.

Moon Superstition

The term "moon magic" refers to the magical effect the moon is supposed by superstitious people to have on human affairs, especially in the ways of love and romance.

Democratic Caucus.

There will be a meeting of the Democratic party at the Town Hall Monday evening Oct., 14th, 1929, for purpose of nominating one candidate for Trustee, for each of the second and third wards and one Clerk-Treasurer for the town of Mentone.

The large crowd that attended the Leiter sale on last Saturday shows that sales advertised in the Farm News bring results.

Mr. and Mrs. Wade Whetstone and family attended the funeral of Mrs. Whetstone's mother, Mrs. McCray, which was held Monday morning at Larwell.

Just before going to press we learn of the sudden death of Mrs. Hiram Paxton's mother, of Freemont Ind., who has been visiting at the Paxton home for the past few days.

We received several contributions this week with no names signed to them and as a result they were not used. Anyone wishing articles published in the Farm News, unless they deliver in person to this office, must sign their names to same or will not be published. We do not wish the signature for publication but simply as a matter of good faith.

A Shower

Last Tuesday evening the friends and neighbors of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Brunner gathered at the home of the brides parents, Mr. and Mrs. Levi Julian and gave the former a complete surprise. Mr. and Mrs. Brunner received many pretty as well as useful gifts. The evening was spent in eating popcorn and candy. There were about fifty there. All departed wishing Mr. and Mrs. Brunner a happy and prosperous life.

Orders Phone Placed At Mother's Bedside

Some days ago D. M. (Mont)
Bryant, son of Mr. and Mrs.
George Bryant, of near Talma, the latter of whom is ill, called his parents to congratulate them on the Golden Wedding Anniversary.
He was disappointed in that his mother was hardly able to leave her sick bed and talk with him and today by telegraph he ordered the Rochester Telephone Company to install an extension telephone desk set in his mother's bed room so he may talk with her direct, without putting her to any inconvenience. This is probably the first time in the history of Fulton county telephone wherein a distant son has provided such a convenience and comfort for a parent.

Stockings Century Old

A pair of one hundred year-old stockings was exhibited at Biddeford, Maine. They were contributed by an Ogunquit woman and she said that the stockings had been given to a little girl 100 years ago by her grandmother for the child to wear at her first party. The stockings are of English hosiery and are of exquisite delicacy and beauty. They are in excellent condition in spite of their age.

Wild Bison Increase

Sweden's stock of wild bison is now the largest in Europe, if not in the world, according to Alarik Belin, director of the open-air museum of Skansen in Stockholm. By means of protective legislation these animals are thriving in the vast bison park at Aengelsberg, in the province of Väst-manland and are rapidly multiplying.

TESTED GOOD THINGS

For those who enjoy poppy seed in cakes and fillings, an easy way to use it is to stir a half-cupful or less into any cake; it is especially effective in a white cake.

Brown Sugar Cake.—Take one-third of a cupful of melted fat, one and one-third cupfuls of brown sugar, two well-beaten eggs, one-half cupful of sour milk, one-half pound of chopped dates or one-half cupful of raisins, one and three-fourths cupfuls of pastry flour, three teaspoonfuls of baking powder, one-fourth teaspoonful of soda, one-half teaspoonful of cinnamon and one-half teaspoonful of nutmeg. Put all the ingredients into a bowl and beat hard for three minutes. Bake in two layers or in a loaf. Frost with confectioner's sugar, melted butter and flavor with coffee.

Corn Sticks.—Mix and sift one cupful of flour, one-half cupful of corn meal, two teaspoonfuls of baking powder, one tablespoonful each of sugar and fat, one-fourth teaspoonful of soda, one-half teaspoonful of salt, three-fourths of a cupful of sour milk and one beaten egg. Add the melted fat last and pour into bread pans to bake. Bake until crisp.

Before the frost destroys the delectable mushrooms which may be gathered so abundantly in most fields, woods or pastures, try such good things as this:

Concordia Croquettes.—Peel and chop one-half pound of field mushrooms, stew five minutes in two tablespoonfuls of butter and one-half teaspoonful of salt—add a little cream if needed. Add two hard-cooked eggs (chopped), one cupful of thick white sauce. Spread on a plate to cool, then shape and fry in deep fat. Serve with a green salad. If there seems too much moisture in the mushrooms, pour it off and use as a flavoring for soup.

Furred Tweed Suits Sound Top Note of Chic

Breathtaking down to the last detail is the fur-trimmed tweed suit as it comes to us this season. Because of the novelty and high quality of its woolen weave, because of the luxurious fur lavished upon it, because of the striking designfulness of the blouse which accompanies it the tweed suit or ensemble with its three-quarter length coat is proving the sensation of the hour.

Washable Rayon Crepe Smart Fabric for Fall

Chartreuse with touches of black is the color scheme for this frock of soft washable rayon crepe, a material which is smart in appearance and eminently practical, for it tubs perfectly. Of interest is the one-side scarf, and the godets which give fullness to the skirt. Note also the beads. They are the new wooden kind. Awfully swaggar! And the belt has a wooden buckle.

Fertilizing Value of Manure Is Overlooked

Many farmers who pride themselves on their farming technique, their fine barns, and their good-looking homes and gardens, neglect their barnyards. Too often the manure pile blocks one or more of the doors into the cow barn, and the cattle going in and out cover themselves and the barn floors with filth. Too often the litter carrier is broken or absent and the pile starts at the door and grows in all directions, uncontrolled. Every farmer realizes the fertilizing value of his manure, but not so many know that the most valuable part of it is the liquid which more often than not is allowed to drain or leach away. An ideal setting for the manure pile would consist of a high shed with a cement floor which would conserve all the liquid manure, placed at least 40 feet away from the barn. But few farmers can afford such a building. The next best plan is to level the barnyard so that the drainage can be controlled and led off to benefit some part of a nearby field or garden. Keep the manure at least 20 feet away from the cow barn and surround the pile with a light fence to keep the animals from tramping over it.

Unexplored Africa

One section of Africa that has recently been discovered, but still requires more exploration, is the mountain region lying between the Lakes Albert Edward and Albert Nyanza. This is said to be the least known mountain region in Africa. It was popularly called "Mountains of the Moon" and is now known by the name "Ruwenzori."

Plaids Featured for School Girl Ensembles

Just so it's plaid it really does not matter whether the material for little daughter's fall ensemble be gingham, velvet or print crepe. Of course the first fabric to suggest itself at mention of school is gingham, and gingham made up like the model in the picture is both attractive and practical. But for dressy dress there's nothing handsomer than the richly colorful velvet plaids which are so highlighted this season in the fabric realm.

FEEDING PULLETS FOR WINTER EGGS

To Be Good Producers Fowls Should Be Well Developed.

The profit or loss in winter egg production of pullets depends upon the care and feeding they receive. For pullets to be good producers during the winter months they should be uniformly developed, have good frames, and be in good flesh before they begin to lay. It is therefore necessary that they receive a good ration which will fill them out and also store up an abundance of fat, according to H. M. Wells of the Colorado Agricultural college.

Feed a good growing mash or a laying mash that is supplemented with a grain mixture of two parts by weight of corn and one part of wheat, advises Wells. A laying pullet during the winter months will draw upon her reserve supply of fat and the feed she eats will go toward the development of eggs; otherwise if she does not have this fat reserve she will utilize the feed she consumes to supply her body wants and keep her warm, and only the surplus will go toward the production of eggs.

It would be profitable, if one has the room, to grade the pullets according to size. Make two or three grades of pullets, namely, those that are coming into bloom (comb becoming red) and are laying well developed, would be put in the laying house and fed a laying mash with the grain ration recommended above. The next smaller grade of pullets should be given all the growing mash they will consume, and this should be supplemented with a moist mash at noon. This moist mash consists of the growing mash moistened with milk to a crumbly consistency. By following this method, the more backward pullets will be brought into production before extreme cold weather sets in.

To secure the maximum results in production from pullets, it is advisable to keep them housed separately from the hens.

Air Outlets Prevent Colds and Diseases

All poultry houses should have an air outlet from the highest point in the house, for without this air-vent moisture collects. The fresh air that enters the house becomes warm and rises, and as warm air holds more moisture than cold air can hold, it will cause dampness in the poultry house unless it has a chance to go out. Otherwise it condenses under the roof and drops to make the litter moist and to cause a damp hen-house, which leads to colds and other troubles for the birds and a gradual loss of vigor on their part and loss of money on the part of their owners.

These facts, and many others, on ways to house poultry at low cost are given in a Cornell bulletin, written by H. E. Botsford and sent free to poultrymen of New York. It tells how to remodel old buildings—even large disused barns—and how to construct new houses.

Plan Poultry Houses With Eye to Future

Save dissatisfaction, regrets, many useless miles of walking and finally the sale of an unhandy place, by planning over and over the proposed placing of the buildings.

Try to plan out the ranch as it will be at the end of five to ten years' development, and put the first building where it should be at the end of that time.

Every building that must be moved is a dead load of effort, time and temper.

Figure to save steps by having tasks that can be done going and coming, driveways that save using carts wheelbarrows and man power—and locate feed room centrally.

If water must be carried, try to cut down the distance and plan on running water as a part of the progression of plant.

Use Lice Powder

Body lice on hens are best treated by some good louse powder such as sodium fluoride, Persian insect powder, and a dozen more or less, good commercial powders. The main point is to get the powder clear to the skin.

To do this, hold the hen in the left hand, head downward. Force a small handful of powder, about the equivalent of a level teaspoonful in measure, through the long, soft feathers that cover the abdomen and clear down to the skin.

Needed Minerals

The Ohio experiment station has been doing some work of late years with minerals for poultry, with a very simple mineral mixture composed of raw bone meal finely ground, 60 parts, ground limestone 20 parts containing 95 per cent calcium carbonate, sodium chloride or salt, 20 parts.

The above named experiment station concludes that these are the mineral elements that are most needed for the most profitable production of eggs and health of the hen.

"Daddy" Endearing Term

Thirty-five or forty years ago the title "dad" or "daddy" was not in good form today however both are regarded as entirely proper and are preferred by many parents. To address one's father as "dad" or "daddy" implies no discourtesy indicates no lack of rearing, and is by no means vulgar.—Washington Star

LIVE STOCK

VALUE OF TRENCH SOIL IN FEEDING

Many Advantages Outlined by Colorado Expert.

Advantages obtained by feeding silage to live stock, and suggestions for constructing an inexpensive trench silo are outlined by E. J. Maynard, associate animal husbandryman at the Colorado Agricultural college.

Years of experimental feeding have clearly indicated that corn or cane silage is a valuable growing and fattening feed for live stock.

Siloing the crop offers a method of conserving it indefinitely and also renders hard woody portions of stalk soft and palatable. Where nearly 50 per cent of dry bundle fodder may be wasted when fed directly to live stock, practically 100 per cent of the same crop converted into silage will be consumed. Thus silage offers an enormous saving to live-stock feeders.

With all the favorable results secured with silage there are very few silos in the non-irrigated regions. This is believed to be principally due to the cost of building silos and the cost of filling them. A remedy to this situation has been found in the trench silo and machinery for cutting up forage crops into wagons in the field.

The trench silo is usually built with scrapers. It is generally from 12 to 14 feet wide, about 6 to 8 feet deep and as long as necessary to hold the crop. If possible, it should be built in gravelly, well-drained soil, and the sides should slope gradually toward the center.

The cut-up forage is packed into this trench silo by driving over it with teams or a tractor. It should be moist enough to pack well. It can be sealed best by covering it with about a foot of dirt. The silage is fed from one end, where the feeding surface is kept as even as possible.

Plans for building trench silos may be secured from the extension service of the agricultural college.

Health Certificate Is Necessary for Horses

Most states demand a health certificate made out by a licensed, accredited veterinarian to accompany horse stock when entering the state. Some demand a test of the animals for glanders and others only a health certificate. Cattle usually have to have a tuberculin test. To make sure you are starting right when desiring to enter any state with live stock, it is always best if time permits to address a letter to the state veterinarian of that state and address it to the capital city of that state. It will almost always fall into the hands of the proper party who can advise you of the exact requirements of that state for live stock coming from your part of the country and of the very latest rulings, for these change from time to time.

Minerals Valuable for Hogs in Winter Season

Minerals are particularly valuable for hogs when there is no green feed available, and when the hogs are being fattened on corn with vegetable proteins being used to supplement the corn. Minerals are not quite so essential where the hogs are on some good forage or when the corn is being supplemented with tankage, fish meal, or dairy by-products. However, from practically all available evidence, it has been found beneficial to feed some minerals no matter what other feeds are used, and the addition of the minerals has resulted in a saving of feed, particularly of the high-priced protein feeds.

Well, They Are Doing It--And Everybody

Whether right or wrong the Northern Indiana Telephone Co. continues to conduct the telephone business in this particular locality in a rather high-handed manner.

The latest "innovation" for the betterment of the service is to collect rentals three months in advance. Of course every one paid the bills rather than have a penalty added to their rental. Many of our business men undoubtedly paid and did not know they paid that far in advance—the changes in rentals, tolls etc., have been varied and so rapid since this company took over this exchange that there is hardly a subscriber that knows exactly what his bill is or should be, and has gotten into the habit of paying anything that they call for.

How long are our people going to stand for the raids that these grabbers are making on their pocket book's?

How long are they going to stand for the class of service that they are getting?

At the present there is just one remedy that we know of, and that is to order your phone out. Give this bunch of rate boosters to understand that you can get along very nicely without a telephone. We ordered our phone out two months ago and we are getting along all right—all the business that we can attend to and besides we are ahead the rental of a phone. You can do the same thing—you have a car-use it—buy the gas with the money you now pay for the telephone?

We will have something of real interest on the phone question in the near future. Watch for it.

UNEMPLOYMENT FEAR BASELESS

By RUSSELL G. CREVISTON, Chicago Manufacturer.

Any great wave of unemployment, such as we hear about occasionally, is impossible because the modern era has created commensurate employment in the luxury group of industries. The automobile business alone has absorbed 750,000 workmen from the basic industries in a period of five years.

The number of school teachers have increased 50 per cent; the number of college students has doubled, and the age at which a man goes to work now is one and a half to two years later than it was a few years ago. He is busy acquiring a better education during that period.

The beauty parlor and the barber shop are doing unprecedented business these days. There is another example of more employment in the luxury classification.

Instead of a wave of unemployment, men are rapidly being absorbed in newly created industries and in the extension of the older ones. There will be no loss of earning power—in fact, it will be increased as this maligned age progresses.

IDEA OF UNIVERSITY TRAINING

By DR. ROBERT M. HUTCHINS, President-Elect Chicago University.

My view of university training is to unsettle the minds of young men, to widen their horizons, to inflame their intellects. It is not a hardening, or settling process. Education is not to teach men facts, theories or laws; it is not to reform them, or amuse them, or to make them expert technicians in any field; it is to teach them to think, to think straight, if possible; but to think always for themselves.

I would advise young persons contemplating entering school "to know the fellows" and to get a diploma, because it is the open sesame into the company of persons who matter, and to join their local country club or fraternal organization.

These bodies have high ideals. They are organizations for mutual improvement. Their dues are lower than those of most colleges. You get to know the fellows in one. It would seem plausible to suppose that anyone can get from them most of the things one gets at the university, if one goes to the university because it is the thing to do.

TEACHERS AND LABOR UNIONS

By MARY C. BARKER, President American Teachers' Federation.

Through struggle of body and soul the workers of the world have attained, or are attaining, their right to associate for the advancement of their just interests. We know that the labor movement is not just a selfish demand on the part of a particular group for something that it does not have, but wants to possess. It is a humanitarian movement, whose watchword could be stated thus: Help yourself to attain the conditions necessary for you to function as a human being, as a worthy member of your community. Help others to help themselves.

We teachers are in a real sense a labor organization. We are one of those 100 or more national and international unions that make up the larger part of the American Federation of Labor.

We are part of the labor movement, and we are so organized because we believe that the principles of organized labor are sound, that organization of workers into unions is a necessary part of the human machinery that has been set up in the world to promote human progress.

We acknowledge our debt to organized labor for the conditions that make it possible for us to operate in this way. It is our privilege, along with all other workers of today, to build upon a foundation that was laid by the struggles of those who have preceded us.

Labor's program is our program and labor's interest is our interest, for what labor wants is that the interest of no group shall be subservient to the interest of any other group, that all shall share justly in the good things of life.

MacDonald's Work Lesson for Farmers Two Fine Girls Mr. Mellon Stays

Ramsay MacDonald's work in America is well done. The United States and Britain have solemnly pledged themselves against war as between the two countries, and to the promotion of peace by all proper means everywhere.

What the future will bring forth, what the British government following the present labor government, or what American public opinion may desire in the future, no one can say.

But at least war has been classed as barbarous. The two most powerful nations in the world have declared against it, and that is progress.

It took human beings thousands of centuries to abandon cannibalism. Often, undoubtedly, they resolved to eat men no longer. And over and over the resolution was broken, when hunger came and the edible man was easily caught.

But cannibalism has disappeared.

And war will disappear.

Nevertheless, in days when the more civilized men were giving up cannibalism, they kept themselves ready to repel those that might come to eat them.

The United States and Great Britain, denouncing and abandoning war as between Britain and America, should keep ready and able to repel others that might seek to enforce war upon them.

Farmers, crying for "relief," may learn from New York's striking truck drivers that real relief can be found in organization.

The drivers haul farmers' produce and wanted an increase in pay representing as much as the average farmer earns. It was not difficult. The agreement was made that any farm produce hauled into New York must be unloaded from the farm truck and reloaded into a truck operated by a member of the Market Truckmen's association before it could be delivered to a commission house.

Who pays for that reloading, for the second truck and the services of another truckman, all unnecessary?

The farmer pays, of course.

There are some serious young women left in the world, thank the Lord. Therefore future generations may hope for more Lincolns and Edisons.

Miss Isabel MacDonald, daughter of the Labor Prime Minister, spends her time in New York investigating children's courts, as she does in England. She thinks "if we gave children good homes, sanitary conveniences and generally good conditions, their morals would take care of themselves."

That's one fine young woman. Another is the daughter of Mr. Morrow, ambassador to Mexico, and younger sister of Mrs. Lindbergh.

When she reaches Mexico City Miss Morrow will teach in a Mexican public school.

The fact that her father has millions does not concentrate her attention upon herself, or diminish her interest in the welfare of children.

French reorganization of army plans indicate that cavalry, now greatly reduced, will disappear from the French army in a few years.

The French know that horses have no possible chance against airplanes above and "tanks" rolling over the ground.

As well send rabbits to meet an on-rushing express train.

President Hoover's announcement that Secretary Mellon has promised to remain in office until 1933 is good news. The public appreciates the willingness of Mr. Mellon, one of the two or three richest men in the world, to neglect his own business for the public business.

It requires not much intelligence to realize to what extent Mr. Mellon's work has contributed to national prosperity.

Himself a heavy taxpayer, directly or through corporation ownership, Mr. Mellon has paid off already many billions of the national debt. He continues the "pay as you go" policy, not shouldering war debts on future generations that may be less able to pay than today's prosperous generation.

Senator Sheppard of Texas, as dry as the deepest spot in Death Valley, suggests amending the Volstead act to make purchasers of liquor as guilty and criminal as bootlegging sellers.

Such an amendment, of course, would strengthen prohibition enormously. Respectable prosperity would refuse to buy, fearing jail and blackmail after buying.

But Senator Sheppard's amendment probably will not pass; many legislators are themselves bootleg customers and don't believe in taking prohibition too seriously.

Our friends across the water were cheerful, with the British pound sterling going above par.

It means a good deal for England not to compete with Uncle Sam's pocketbook in shipbuilding.

OHIO HOG GROWERS RETAIN OLD SOWS

Other States Use Greater Proportion of Gilts.

Swine growing practiced in Ohio differs decidedly from that in other states at least in one respect—the keeping of old brood sows from year to year to raise pigs, instead of producing the pigs from gilts which are marketed after they have raised one litter of pigs. Ohio is ninth among the states in the number of hogs on farms on January 1 this year, but near the top of the list when it comes to the number of brood sows kept from year to year. Many of the leading hog states west of Ohio produce the greater number of pigs from gilts.

This spring 75 per cent of the litters of Ohio pigs came from sows which previously had produced one or more litters, while in Iowa, Minnesota, North Dakota, South Dakota and Kansas, less than 20 per cent were from old sows, and more than 80 per cent from gilts farrowing for the first time. Only Pennsylvania ranked lower than Ohio this spring in the percentage of litters farrowed by gilts.

Ohio's swine growers this year saved an average of 6.7 pigs to each litter. The average for the country as a whole was only 5.7 pigs.

Influence on Quality and Quantity of Wool

Quantity may go hand in hand with quality in wool production. Investigations by the bureau of animal industry, United States Department of Agriculture, show that length of staple and weight of clean wool per fleece are associated with superior quality. The inheritance of the sheep, its feed, management and seasonal environment are the most important factors that influence quality and quantity of wool. Successful sheep raisers have found that rigid culling of aged ewes and light producers is a good practice for the immediate improvement of their flocks.

Comfortable House Is Essential for Swine

It is a time of year when hog houses come into their greatest usefulness. We may differ on the size and style of hog houses but we can be of one opinion on the desirability of eliminating or avoiding slippery floors, floors with large cracks or holes in them, low doors, narrow doors, high door sills, heavy banging doors, poor ventilation, and such like. We can agree that a pig can stand considerable cold weather if it has dry sleeping quarters. Comfortable quarters, therefore, are largely a matter of a tight roof, a well-drained floor, and proper circulation of air—ventilation.

Short Feed Supply

Farmers who must choose between selling young stock or good dairy cows are advised to sell off the former, as producing cows will usually pay better for purchased feed than the young animals. Where animals must be sold on account of lack of feed, it is usually best to dispose of them as early as possible, since in that way more feed is saved for the animals to be retained, while a prompt sale of those that cannot be carried gets them to market in a fleshier condition than if they are held.

Avoid Wormy Pigs

The ease of having the young pigs free from worms removes all excuses for having wormy pigs. Just before the pigs are due, one should place the sows on clean ground in a good disinfected house. The udders should be washed with warm water to which has been added any disinfectant. After the pigs are farrowed, they should be kept on ground that has not been contaminated. If the lot has not been used for hog pasture the past six months, there is little danger.

Live Stock Diseases Cause Tremendous Loss

A timely and very attractive poster has just been gotten out by the Iowa State Veterinary association, in which attention is called to the tremendous annual loss which the live stock industry sustains on account of disease. Among other things the poster suggests eight practical ways in which the farmer can help reduce the losses. These are:

First, select sound, healthy breeding stock; second, keep buildings and premises thoroughly clean and sanitary; third, feed well balanced, wholesome rations; fourth, isolate diseased animals promptly; fifth, use officially approved disinfectants; sixth, dispose of the carcasses promptly by deep burial, burning or rendering; seventh, vaccination against preventable diseases; eighth, consult your local veterinarian promptly.

These suggestions are all very good and there is no doubt that if they were methodically carried out millions of dollars would annually be saved to the live stock industry.

Introducers Honored

Among the electrical terms named for those who introduced them are volt, ampere, ohm and watt.

Qualities That Win

The qualities that recommend young men are a willingness to work, courage in the face of disappointment, the habit of thrift and a sense of fairness.—William Feather.

In Germany the popular American "easy-payment" plan is called "stuttering." The exact German word for it is "stottern," which has risen to good usage and is now to be given recognition in the dictionary as meaning both "to stutter" and to buy on installments. America prides itself upon facility for coining words and phrases. Is not slang a synonym of the apt and happy speech which rolls so easily off the American tongue? Well, it appears this nation has a rival, says the St. Paul Pioneer Press. Here is Germany fashioning a peculiarly pert and spicy term. Money talks, Americans say. The Germans are still more expressive. They say it stutters when paid out on the installment plan.

It appears that eyes are not merely the windows of the soul, as the poets have it, but are a sort of periscope to the whole human structure, through which the initiated may peer and discover the joys, passions, ills and ailments dwelling therein. ### Hymns and Football

There really are times when this does seem one of the most interesting and perplexing countries in the whole world. Rather more than 90,000 people sang with great feeling (and not for the first time) that decidedly somber and fundamental hymn "Abide With Me" as a preliminary to seeing the cup final at Wembley on Saturday — a hymn of which one commentator on hymnology has remarked: "It is almost too intense and personal for ordinary congregational use." Of course, it has a good air, and, of course, it is "community singing" that leads the choice—but they couldn't sing it unless they knew it, they wouldn't know it unless they liked it, and they wouldn't like it unless they had some appreciation of its verbal significance, says the Manchester Guardian. It remains, however, the strangest introduction to one of the greatest sporting spectacles of the year, and when allowances have been made there remains a residuum of gravity which suggests that frivolity is not, after all, the essence of the age.

FALL PIGS GIVEN CAREFUL FEEDING

Forage Crop Suggested for Young Porkers.

The farmer who wants to make a success of his pigs must pay careful attention to proper feedings and handling, says the New York State College of Agriculture. Corn is a favorite high energy feed.

It is suggested that pigs be allowed to run on a forage crop after weaning to give them a better start toward the long winter months. During the growing and fattening periods, the concentrates fed should be of high energy value with some protein supplement, or a combination of protein supplements. Although corn is probably best, ground barley or ground rye may be substituted for corn. In using these feeds, farmers should remember that they are high in energy but low in protein, and that they must be balanced with high protein foods in order to get the best results. Skim milk or buttermilk, both of which are high in protein and mineral matter, are good to balance grains. About two and one-half to three pounds of milk should be fed with one pound of corn for fifty-pound pigs. As the animals grow the amount of milk may be correspondingly decreased.

Such feeds as tankage, fish meal, alfalfa meal, and oil meal, should be fed where skim milk or buttermilk is not available. In the Middle West a combination of 50 per cent fish meal, 25 per cent alfalfa meal, and 25 per cent oil meal has been used with corn or other feeds to start the pigs. About 15 to 20 per cent of the protein supplement should be fed in the beginning, and gradually decreased until at the finishing period only about 5 per cent is fed.

Nicotine or Sulphate Treatment for Worms

In treating sheep for stomach worms, either copper sulphate or nicotine sulphate should be used. The copper sulphate treatment: Dissolve one-fourth pound of the powdered sulphate (bluestone) in one pint of boiling water, using an enamelware dish, as the bluestone corrodes most metals. Then add enough cold water to make the solution up to three gallons, using wooden, earthenware or other non-metallic receptacles. This will make approximately a 1 per cent solution and will be enough to dose 100 adult sheep, allowing 10 per cent waste. In the preparation of the dose use only clear, blue crystals of copper sulphate. Crush the crystals to a fine powder when ready to make up the solution.

Have the solution the right strength. An overdose may kill the sheep while less than the amount recommended may not kill the worms. Use only the pure blue crystals, not bluestone which has become white and powdery.

Bighead Is Incurable Derangement of Horse

In some parts of the United States a peculiar disease of horses, known as bighead, occurs. The bones become soft and spongy in the latter stage of the disease.

One of the first symptoms is a stiffness in gait or a decided lameness, usually in one or both hind legs. Close examination reveals a thickening or enlargement of the bones of the face, especially of the branches of the lower jaw.

There is danger that the horse will fracture the bones during muscular exertion. The disease is incurable. In the good old horse trading days a horse with bighead usually had many masters before he died.

Live Stock Hints

Alfalfa makes a good hog pasture though it will not produce the first season and it demands a sweet soil.

Fall pigs demand the best of attention to feeding and handling if they are to be profitable to the grower.

Profits in the stock business are generally made by good feeding. "Good feeding" is supplying the animal with its required food elements at a low cost, or with profit.

One eight to twelve months old boar should satisfactorily take care of the 18 gilts provided he is not allowed to run with the gilts and is not mated with more than an average of one sow per day.

Silage or roots furnish cheap feed and are especially useful in keeping ewes in good condition during the winter.

Up until the age of seven years mares are worth more than geldings; after the age of seven, geldings are worth more than mares.

Barley and whey, fed at the Wisconsin experiment station to fattening hogs, gave a daily gain of 2.2 pounds, while barley and tankage gave a daily gain of 1.6 pounds.

NEED FOR SUPERIOR MANHOOD

By REV. W. H. WEIGLE, JR., Chaplain Episcopal Actors' Guild.

THE need of America is superior manhood, personalities and individuals who will counteract our materialistic tendencies and who will listen to the voice of God instead of the ring of the almighty dollar. The truth and hope of any time must always be sought in minorities. All history, whether in the field of religion or art, is a record of the power of minorities.

There needs but one wise man in a company and all become wise, so rapid is the contagion. Great men exist that there may be greater men. As Christians we were never meant to be lost in a crowd. We are to speak, act, and live differently than the multitudes. In a democratic country it requires an unusual amount of courage to draw apart and rise above the common herd.

There are disquieting signs in our national life today. We may not be worse than our ancestors, but I doubt very much if we are any better. There is a danger that we mistake license for freedom, and that we select the laws we choose to follow and scorn the others.

In America we have been constantly exposed to religious influences, but with it there have been only sputters of righteousness. There is a tendency to accept institutional religion and organized Christianity rather than the compelling person of the Galilean Peasant. We have become so familiar with the outward aspects of the manifestations of Christianity that our attention and devotion and consecration have been weaned away from that which is most lasting and vital—an individual and personal relationship with the Risen Christ.

SEASONABLE HINTS

While tomatoes are plentiful is the time to can some good soup for use in the winter. Here is one which will be enjoyed and will be all ready to serve, with just the heating.

Tomato Soup.
—Cook twenty-five pounds of ripe tomatoes with fourteen sprigs of parsley, fourteen stalks of celery, eight large onions, two bay leaves, ten whole cloves. Cut up the tomatoes, without peeling, remove the green core, chop the celery and onions and cook for an hour or more of boiling with the spices and other ingredients.

Take fourteen tablespoonfuls each of melted butter and of flour, mix and stir as if making a white sauce, adding a bit of the tomato to thin; when smooth, add to the tomato and season with thirteen tablespoonfuls of sugar, eight tablespoonfuls of salt and four teaspoonfuls of paprika. Boil up a minute or two and can and seal. When serving, if milk is to be added, add a bit of soda.

Dream Pie.—This is one that will take the everbearing berries, or canned fruit may be used if drained. Whip the whites of four eggs very stiff, add four heaping tablespoonfuls of powdered sugar and beat well, add four more and beat as stiff as possible. Then fold in one pint of berries. Heap in a baked pastry shell that has been just removed from the oven. Leave the mixture in rough mounds and bake until brown.

Andy Custard Pie.—To one cupful of sugar add one teaspoonful of cinnamon, one-half teaspoonful of cloves, one heaping tablespoonful of butter. Cream these well then add two well beaten eggs and two cupfuls of milk. Pour into a pastry-lined pan and bake in a moderate oven. When baked the spices rise to the top making a creamy custard underneath, so different from the usual custard pie. Bake at first in a hot oven until the crust is set, then lower the heat. Test with a knife; if it comes out clean the custard is done.

"Of course it's no business of mine," means, "I am simply devoured with curiosity."

"While I do not wish to appear critical" means: "But I am going to have my say anyhow."

"No one could possibly have mistaken my meaning" is what we say when some one has mistaken it.

"My conduct calls for no apology, and needs no explanation" is the usual introduction for an apology or an explanation.—Capper's Weekly.

More than one downtrodden male, after reading how the prince of Wales appeared the other evening in dinner jacket, soft shirt, soft collar and a sweater of the kind known as pull-over, can be heard these days chuckling a hearty "Atta boy, prince." . . . # POULTRY

CARE OF PULLETS INFLUENCES EGGS

Fowls Should Be Developed Gradually to Save Vigor.

Their care and management largely determines the egg production to be expected from pullets through the winter months.

To force the growth of pullets by the continuous use of a heavy protein diet is poor practice, says O. C. Ufford, extension poultry specialist of the Colorado Agricultural college. They should develop gradually so as to have body vigor for the long and continuous period of heavy egg production.

The normal growing period for breeds of the Leghorn type is from five to six months when properly managed and fed, Ufford points out. Plymouth Rocks, Wyandottes and Rhode Island Reds require from one to two months longer for their normal growth.

A good plan of management is to hatch early and start feeding a growing mash when the chicks are three or four weeks old, and continue it until they are three or four months old. When the pullet's comb begins to turn a bright red is good indication to cut down on animal food. After this, a slower growth of the egg organs is desired. It can be secured by elimination of the milk and the meat meal in the mash.

For one to two months prior to the time it is desired to bring the pullets into production, Ufford recommends a ration as follows: Corn meal, 35 pounds; ground wheat, 50 pounds; ground barley or oats, 10 pounds, and bone meal, 5 pounds. With such a ration they will put on body weight and fat. They will go into winter egg production with greater vigor and vitality as a result.

Laying Hen Has Full, Warm and Glossy Comb

The comb of a laying hen will be large, full, glossy, and warm. It may be red in color, or it may be somewhat pale. On the other hand, the comb of a non-laying hen will be small, cold, pale and more or less scaly with a white dandruff scurf.

In handling birds during the summer months, great care should be taken, too, not to frighten them or cause them to be overheated during the culling process. Very often poultrymen mishandle their birds during the culling operation and injure egg production more than they save by the culling. A good time to do this present production culling is after dark.

Review Poultry Flock to Discover Defects

This is a good time to resolve to strengthen the weak places, in the past season's work. Make a careful analysis of this year's poultry work and find out which phases have been profitable, and which phases have not. Were the chickens hatched too late? Did they become infected with internal parasites? Were they overcrowded in the house? Did you discontinue feeding mash during the summer and bring on an early molt and did the hens net you $1 each above all costs? Information is available on all of the above points.

Poultry Notes

Proper ventilation will help keep poultry houses cool.

Making the day longer by artificial light, so the layers can eat more, helps fill the winter egg basket.

Pullets lay best when they are confined in the house during the winter months and fed a laying mash.

Poultry houses which are too high are usually cold and drafty in winter. This may be remedied, easily and cheaply, by putting in a straw loft.

If your chickens are subject to winter sickness it may be because they aren't getting enough fresh air.

Corn should not be fed on the ear, but should be shelled. It should be fed in the litter, and may be cracked when convenient.

As green feed disappears and the garden stuff is cleaned up, the laying hens will need some other sort of green feed. Many practical poultry keepers depend upon green, leafy alfalfa during the winter months.

Remember that stock allowed to range over clean ground, away from contamination, makes the healthiest and best winter layers.

Extra space for the pullet flocks is far more important to the poultry-keeper than the reservation of the cockerels for table purposes.

Keep eggs in a cool and rather moist place. If artificial refrigeration is available, a temperature of about forty degrees Fahrenheit is preferable.

Industrial Plants in

Rural Areas Increase

Industry has penetrated new rural areas in the West. Iowa, for example, no longer ships practically all its hogs to Chicago. Numerous packing plants within that state take an increasing number.

Moderate sized manufacturing industries have sprung up in out of the way places throughout the United States. Plants handling cotton and corn by products are numerous. Concerns producing washing machines, fountain pens, buttons, metal products of many kinds, steel and machinery goods, and many other articles not directly dependent on agriculture for raw materials, have chosen rural districts for their bases of operations, apparently to their substantial profit.

Naturally, however, a large proportion of the industries located in rural districts are supported by the products of the farm.

Rural industry, besides giving the farmer a better local market, helps him to get improved roads and schools, and to bring electric power to his farm. The electrification of our farms drags. It seldom pays to build high tension lines for only a few farms, but the problem is solved when the rural district contains power-using industries.

In addition, industrial development in agricultural districts boosts farm land values, distributes tax burdens more equitably, and improves agricultural credit facilities. Also it favorably influences farming methods.—W. M. Jardine, in the Saturday Evening Post.

Small Home Requires

Trees and Shrubbery

The small home actually needs planting more than a large house set in broad acres, because a house looms large on a small piece of ground. It needs trees, and foundation shrubbery to link it naturally to the ground. Planting will reduce the apparent size of the house and make it seem in better proportion to the size of the lot.

Any real estate man will agree that planting around a small home pays in cold cash. Trees and shrubbery may add several hundred dollars to your home if you should ever want to sell it. They pay good dividends.

Select shrubs, plants and trees that are native to your state. Nature has spent thousands of years adapting them to your soil and climate, so why select a foreign plant which has a constitution as delicate as an incubator baby. It has to be carefully nursed to pull it through, while native shrubs will thrive without much effort on your part.

Small-Town Planning

Larger cities of Missouri may need zoning laws and authority for city planning and some of them have found ways to acquire the rights, but the smaller cities are in the best position to make intelligent and effective use of them. So the smaller communities should be vitally interested in and welcome the bill passed by the Missouri house, permitting all cities of the state to adopt ordinances creating city planning and zoning commissions, with authority to lay out permanent physical lines. Under the proposed law, commissions would have their work of laying out and planning placed before city councils for approval.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Highway Width

Width of the highway for safe and expeditious movement of traffic is more and more concerning the road builder. Engineers of the United States bureau of public roads are of the opinion that a minimum of 20 feet should be maintained for a two-lane highway. It is held further that in built-up sections the roadway should be 36 feet wide at least, to permit parallel parking and 50 feet where diagonal and right angle parking is allowed.

Ground for Fruit Growing

The extent of ground required is about ten or twelve square rods for the different summer fruits, and an acre and a half or two acres for all the others except the winter apples. The early or summer apples might be placed in between the winter apples as fillers, as these are less permanent trees.

Discouraging

Did you ever drop your work to do something for community benefit and have the first bird you tackle tell you to come again, that he would like to take a little time to think it over?—Waldport (Ore.) Tribune.

Spend Money in Home Town

Communities are not built on the money that is earned within the borders and then spent with peddlers or sent to the mail-order house in some distant city.—The Dalles (Ore.) Optimist.

Wide Beautification Plan

Sullivan county (Ind.) clubwomen began a campaign of beautification in the planting of trees, evergreens and vines along the highways. As the season progresses flowers will be planted in places selected by them.

Took Discoverer's Name

COLLEGIAN'S DEBT TO SOCIETY

By REV JAMES GORDON GILKEY, Amberst College.

What does a college man owe his community? The first consideration is that the college man owes his community a life of unusual generosity. He should make gifts to charity not for public commendation, but because they are the fair and reasonable return he makes to the community for the signal benefits it has given him.

A second responsibility devolving on college graduates today is that they must give their unfaltering loyalty to the institutions and organizations that stabilize and ennoble community life. Such institutions are the school, the child-welfare agency, the church and the government.

Particular emphasis must be laid on the need of good citizenship. Another responsibility is that in the years ahead we must give our children wise and effective guidance on the great questions of right and wrong. To let the next generation reach maturity without understanding the correct principles of conduct, these known roads to happiness, is the worst kind of stupidity. The cares in college should have disclosed to us a way of life which leads to achievement, to self-respect, and to a position of public esteem and confidence.

"Any Move That Will Bring in the Money."

The above seems to be the motto of the Northern Indiana Telephone Co., and from present indications they are living up to it to the tune of one hundred per cent.

As soon as they learn of a line that is quite busy, and convenient for their patrons to talk with relatives and friends without going through an other exchange and paying toll, the company immediately make a change for the betterment of the service on that line, and connects it up with some other exchange so that there may be a few extra dimes added to their unearned loot.

Take the Talma line for a sample—a large number of people on that line made Mentone their trading point, had relatives and a large number of friends with whom they talked quite often, for the betterment of the service they were cut off the Mentone exchange and hooked up with Rochester, and now when they transact business with any concern in Mentone by phone or talk to relatives or friends they have to pay toll—just another squeeze—and all "For the good of the Service?"

The Northern Indiana Telephone Co., has a slogan too: "Get the money while the getting is good." And at the rate that they have been handing it to their patrons during the past few months—raising the rentals—cutting off free service—collecting three months in advance, they sure believe in "Making hay while the sun shines."

BUT, how long is this state of affairs going to continue?

How long will our people stand for this new style of hold up game without striking back?

It is evident that there will be no relief until we wake up and make a protest strong enough to make this bunch of grabbers set up and take notice. And the best protest that we know of is to let each patron as an individual order his phone out, and the time to act is right now.

We have learned that some of the higher ups are trying to lead the operators at this exchange to believe that our attacks have been directed at them. This is not true. We realize the fact that the operators at the Central have done everything they can to give good service, but when they have nothing but a bunch of junk to work with good service is simply impossible. And again we wish to make it plain that these articles are not directed against any of the employees, but are for the guiding hand of the Northern Indiana Telephone Co.

DEFECT IN COLLEGE TRAINING

By REV DANIEL A. LORD (S. J.), St. Louis.

The sweet girl graduate, model 1929, is encountering grave difficulties finding an interesting husband. The bachelor girl with her bachelor's degree is becoming too erudite for the college boy with his A. B. Not that girls go to school any longer than their boy chums, but because cultural subjects are slighted in favor of commercial and professional studies in college courses for men.

College women aren't marrying as much as they used to, partly because some of them want careers. But one of the fundamental reasons is the difficulty lots of them run against in finding college men whose conversation and companionship interest them.

Not a few who do marry young gentlemen with diplomas find their husbands have little care for any mental exercise that is not linked up with a business or a profession.

There are two methods for weeding out of the race the husband who can't appreciate poetry, sit through grand opera or comprehend art. I would not retreat to the Dark ages and cease to educate the ladies above the approved modes of making pie-crust. Instead I would polish off the lads with a thorough application of the humanities and concentrate their education in fewer years. Grammar school time could be cut down to afford the boys sufficient time for a liberal cultural college education before their professional or business course begins.

The educated women of America are the liberally educated class of the country these days. It is they who take pleasure in literature, art, the drama and philosophy when school days are past. The "educated" men as a class have fallen behind—they haven't the ground work for it.

And while the college boys proceed to their technical training, the girls proceed to their educations. It's a situation which doesn't help marriage at all.

Club President Surprised

According to the prearranged schedule the Mentone Home Economics Club held its October meeting with the Club president, Mrs. Warren, on Tuesday Oct 15, p. m.

The lesson on small kitchen utensils including different types of foodgrinders, egg-beaters, paring knives, pans, kettles, measuring cups, etc., and their care, was given by the leaders. A pot luck supper had been planned without the hostess' knowledge, and the members who had brought their baskets containing the several articles to be discussed, had some difficulty in unpacking just the desired part of their basket's contents without giving away the secret before the proper time.

But while the hostess slyly prepared popcorn and punch in the dining room for her guests, they were setting the pot luck supper on the table in the kitchen. When Mrs. Warren opened the kitchen door to announce her treat, the secret was out.

Those present were Emma Lash Goldie Mollenhour and two daughters, Ruby Smith und daughter, Minnie Busenburg and son, Beryl Jefferies, Minnie Igo, Ellen Stanford, Grace Weissert, Mr. and Mrs. Warren and grand-daughter Evelyn.

After supper several stunts and hearty laughs were enjoyed. Club was then adjourned leaving many good wishes with the hostess.

FARM STOCK

KEEP LIVE STOCK MORE COMFORTABLE

December Is Good Time to Eradicate Botflies.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Holiday cheer for farm live stock is one of the recommendations particularly emphasized in the December page of "A Calendar of Live Stock Parasites," issued by the United States Department of Agriculture. The author, Dr. Maurice C. Hall, says, "Strive to keep live stock comfortable, thereby favoring more profitable production." The text of the December advice is:

"Lice and mange (scab or scabies) are commonly prevalent in December. If you didn't dip last fall use such palliative measures as are possible at this season and be sure to dip next fall.

"Now that the adult botfly has ceased to fly, except in parts of the South, call in your veterinarian and have him treat your horse for bots with carbon bisulphide. Treat the bot eggs with a 2 per cent coal-tar-cresote solution or shave them off with a safety razor. Bots interfere with a horse's nutrition and in heavy infestations may even cause death. One of the bots, the nose botfly, is exceedingly troublesome as an adult fly, as horses are badly frightened by it and may run away, sometimes with serious consequences. Write for Farmers' Bulletin No. 1503-F.

"Ox warbles may be present in some parts of the South in December. Examining cattle for evidence of ox warbles in the form of lumps on the skin, especially along the back. If you find these, squeeze them out and destroy them. Write to the United States Department of Agriculture for information and advice."

Cull Herds Closely If Feed Supply Is Low

Farmers who are facing shortages of hay or other feeds for the coming winter should cull their flocks and herds closely, says W. L. Cavert, extension specialist in farm management, University farm, St. Paul, Minn. This is an opportune time for such culling, he says, as prices of all live stock are high. Where feed is scarce, farmers will find it better to carry over only as much live stock as can be well handled, rather than to keep a larger number in a semi-starved condition.

Mr. Cavert suggests that farmers who anticipate short feed supplies should at once make careful calculations as to how much roughage will be required and check this against available supplies. Those who discover that they are short of feed are advised to locate supplies in their home localities as early as possible and contract for their needs.

Where poor quality roughage, such as wild hay, straw or corn stalks, must be used, plans should be made to feed more than the usual amount of linseed oilmeal or other high protein concentrates.

Sterility of Cattle Is Most Troublesome

A most troublesome breeding disease of cattle is sterility. This is often a sequel of infectious abortion. The exact causes are not always known. Sometimes it is a result of infection of the uterus, the neck or cervix of the uterus, diseases of the ovaries, and very rarely it may be due to an impotent or diseased bull. Sometimes a graduate veterinarian can make a diagnosis while the animal is living and he may also do some thing to remove the cause of the sterility. But it cannot be done in some animals. Unless the sterile cow or bull is highly bred and very valuable and a graduate veterinarian cannot overcome the cause of the sterility, let the incurable animal go to slaughter.

Satisfactory Results From Hog Self-Feeder

The Iowa experiment station reports excellent results from the use of the self-feeder, not only for producing market hogs, but also for raising breeding gilts and for feeding nursing sows with their litters. In regard to raising breeding gilts on a self-feeder the suggestion is made that, in order to keep them from getting too fat, such bulky feeds as ground alfalfa, ground clover, ground oats, bran, or similar feeds be mixed with the concentrated feeds such as ground corn, barley, wheat, rye, tankage, and so on. Ground alfalfa seems to give the best results as it apparently stimulated growth.

Scabby Sheep

Any condition which causes the sheep to bite and scratch should be investigated at once and the cause definitely learned. Scab on parts of the sheep's body may be overlooked. It is usually found on the back or sides, but may start on any part of the body. Lambs are sometimes infected around the head between the horns and ears, and as these parts are frequently covered with dirt the lesions may not be noticed unless close examination is made.

Ancient Cathedral

The cathedral at Milan, Italy, was commenced in 1387.

Scots in United States

The earliest Scottish immigrants to this country landed at Port Royal—now Annapolis Royal—Nova Scotia, in 1629. They were under the leadership of Sir William Alexander. They have gradually migrated to the West.

Fence This Fall— It's Easier

THERE is no time like the present to get at that fencing job which you have had in mind. Do it now—this fall—while you have more time.

It is no trick at all with Red Top Steel Posts. These drive easily through the hardest of soil and make it possible to take this fencing job out of your busy spring season. You'll be amazed how quickly the job can be finished, for with Red Tops you can build in a single day as many rods of fence as you could in a week in the old posthole digging days.

One man with a Red Top Driver can drive 200 to 300 Red Tops a day. It is easy to figure how short a job you can make of a complete fencing and repair program—right now—this fall—by using Red Top Steel Fence Posts.

Come in and let us show you the advantages of this post—the features that make it the strongest and most dependable post for you to use—for all purposes.

Warning to Arabs To Improve Marriage Pittsburgh's Big Day Wise Young Dinosaur

Britain has made the Arabs understand that murder is not a safe pastime under a British mandate.

At Haifa three Arabs were sentenced to death by Chief Justice Sir Michael MacDonnell for causing the death of Isaac Mamaan.

The men convicted and Arabs witnessing the trial called upon Allah to resent it.

Allah didn't say anything.

He was missing from the scene, as angels were once missing in Constantinople. Christians had been assured that at the last moment if the Turks took Constantinople angels would appear in the square before the Church of St. Sofia and smite them.

Turks took Constantinople, have held the city through all the centuries since. No angels have appeared.

Moral: If you want anything done, don't depend on Allah.

Great Britain proposes to bar from marriage the "mentally unfit." That might improve the human race, if you could identify the mentally unfit with certainty.

Some unfit will be exempt from matrimonial ostracism because they possess fortunes or important titles or names.

Others mentally unfit will escape because they are only dull, belonging to the negative class that Dante put into one of hell's disagreeable compartments.

Pittsburgh held a big celebration and for good reasons.

Fifty years ago you could wade across the Ohio river in many places with water no higher than your knees.

Now the government has built fifty dams, costing $118,000,000, giving at least nine feet of water, enough for large boats, all year round throughout the 1,000 miles of stream between Pittsburgh and the Mississippi.

Ohio river traffic has increased in twelve years from 4,600,000 to 20,900,000 tons.

The river now makes possible a saving of $20,000,000 a year in freight charges.

Overwork is not so dangerous but violent emotion is extremely dangerous, says Dr. C. P. Emerson, learned student of the human body. "A strong emotion can inflict a physical injury, just as truly as can a knife," says the doctor.

However, a life that amounts to anything is made up of strong emotions.

A giant turtle on the Galapagos islands never has strong emotions and lives five or six hundred years. But who would be a Galapagos turtle? Better be Keats, Alexander, or Napoleon.

Samuel Insull, Jr., following in his father's industrial dinosaur tracks, as president of the Midland United Company of Chicago, tells the American Gas association that to boom the gas industry and increase sales they must cut prices, and use "persuasive advertising and proper salesmanship."

If young Mr. Insull follows out those ideas he will be a big industrial dinosaur some day.

Mr. Lamont, "the" Mr. Lamont, says business is good and will continue good. Gerard Swope, president of General Electric, says "Amen!" and means it. Orders received by his company for the three months ending September 30 were $116,688,014, against $90,328,606 in the same period last year. That increase of 29 per cent has prevailed throughout the entire year.

Madame Curie, who helped the discovery of radium, comes here to accept for the newadium Institute at Warsaw, one gram of radium, costing $50,000, paid for by American women.

You could put in a small valise radium worth more than all the wealth of Rockefeller, Ford, Secretary Mellon and George F. Baker combined, if such a radium quantity existed.

Our sun, with its source of terrific energy only guessed at by science, may contain millions of tons of radium.

We can't get at that. But we might give more poor children the benefit of the sun's light, which is accessible and costs nothing.

Dr. Frederick Tilney, professor of neurology at Columbia university, warns you that a headache is a serious thing. There are sixteen different kinds of headaches, all requiring particular care and understanding.

Headaches often come from anxiety, and you should be cautious about taking medicine to kill a headache.

It may kill the headache, while the forces that cause the headache continue working to kill you.

In Canada, Ramsay MacDonald, member of the Socialist party, addressing labor unions, tells them that changes must be made by evolution, not by revolution. That's how they have been made in the past.

Nonconformity

Who so would be a man must be a nonconformist. He who would gather immortal palms must not be hindered by the name of goodness, but must explore if it be goodness. Nothing is at last sacred but the integrity of your own mind. Absolve you to yourself, and you shall have the suffrage of the world.—Emerson.

Club Meeting

The social season of the Sodales club opened Thursday Oct., 17th, with Ethel Shafer and Bess Manwaring hostesses at their beautiful home on N. Franklin St. This being guest day there was no regular business session.

The President, Goldie Warner, in a charming manner welcomed the guests and introduced Mrs. Joyce Sailor of Winona Lake.

Mrs. Sailor and Mrs. I. F. Snyder gave an afternoon's program of readings and piano solos. These ladies are artists in their special work and all present felt that they had been well entertained.

A cleverly written, original contest was won by Mrs. C. L. Ernsberger.

Refreshments were served on small tables, whose decorations were effectively carried out in pink and green.

The guests were Mrs. Ed Kesler, Miss Francis Clark, Mrs. C. L. Ernsberger, Mrs. Earl Shinn, Mrs. Dean Nellans, Mrs. A. I. Nelson, Mrs. C. E. Walburn, Miss Elma Cattell, Mrs. C. B. Cole, Mrs. W. O. Power, Mrs. Lloyd Summe, Mrs. Geo. Myers, Mrs. I. F. Snyder, Mrs. Oliver Groves of Rochester and Mrs. Sailor of Winona Lake.

Club members and their guests greatly appreciate the efforts of the committee in charge of the entertainment and of the hostesses.

Parent-Teachers Association

The Beaver Dam Parent-Teachers Association has secured some very fine numbers for their meetings this year. The program for the year is being made up with both educational and entertaining talent. These meetings are held in the Beaver Dam school building the first Tuesday evening, in each month. The general public is invited.

The next meeting will be Nov. 5th. For this meeting the program committee have been fortunate enough to secure the service of Miss Maude Willis, a high class reader and entertainer. She selects from her repertoire plays which she knows not only will please and captivate her audiences but also will be an inspiration for better and larger living. She has the reputation of being a thorough master of the art of entertaining. She has appeared on the stage twenty times in the same town.

Admission will be free to all members of the association and to students in the Beaver Dam School. There will be a small charge of fifteen cents for those who are not members or students. However, the managers extend the privilege of paying fifteen cents for the single admission or twenty five cents for a membership ticket which will entitle the holder to admission to all the meetings of the year.

RESOLUTIONS

We, as a committee appointed to prepare a memorial on the death of our dear neighbor, Della Gill, submit the following:

Therefore be it resolved that we sincerely and deeply sympathize with the family and friends of the departed in their sad bereavement, and that we implore kind Providence to comfort them in this, their hour of trial.

Death has again entered our camp and taken one of the Charter members: we are reminded that life is but a vapor, a dream, a shadow that passeth away. And when most unexpected, death comes to us all and severs from us one that is dear.

Therefore be it resolved: that our Charter be draped in mourning for a period of thirty days; that a copy of these Resolutions be sent to the bereaved family, and be recorded on the minutes at our next meeting.

First Settlement Abandoned

The first English settlement in New England was made at the mouth of the Kennebec river by the Popham colony in 1607. A storehouse and fortification called Fort St. George were built. Popham was elected president of the colony, but died the following year and the Colonists becoming disheartened by the severity of the winters, abandoned the settlement.

SOY BEANS USEFUL IN LAYING RATION

Vegetable Protein Concentrates Used in Test.

Recent experiments with the use of vegetable protein concentrates have shown that a complete or at least a partial substitution may be made. The work has been largely with cottonseed and soy bean meal with little if any work on ground soy beans. The success of these vegetable protein concentrates depends upon two factors. First a larger amount is necessary in the mash because they do not run as high in protein as do meat scrap and tankage. Second, since they are low in mineral, additional mineral must be added to make up for this deficiency. The Missouri agricultural experiment station has fed the following mash to laying hens:

Bran .....	22 lbs.
Shorts .....	22 lbs.
Corn meal .....	22 lbs.
Cottonseed or soy bean meal .....	30 lbs.
Bone meal .....	4 lbs.
Salt .....	1 lb.

The above mash constituted about one-third of the ration. It was kept before the hens all the time and in addition a moist, crumbly mash was fed once daily. No meat or milk was employed in the diet. The balance of the ration consisted of corn and oats and regular methods of feeding hens were employed. Oyster shells or limestone rock was before the hens all the time.

Such a ration produced as many eggs per hen as did similar rations in which the mash contained 20 per cent meat scrap or tankage instead of the cottonseed or soy bean meal. The results were not satisfactory unless the bone meal and salt was added. A year's test with ground soy beans failed to produce quite as many eggs as did cottonseed meal. This may be due to the fact that the ground beans were higher in fat and as a result the ration was not properly balanced. A partial substitution may be made and the following mash is recommended:

Bran .....	24 lbs.
Shorts .....	24 lbs.
Corn meal .....	24 lbs.
Ground soy beans .....	15 lbs.
Tankage .....	10 lbs.
Bone meal .....	2 lbs.
Salt .....	1 lb.

This should be kept in open troughs before the hens all the time and fed the same as any regular laying mash. It may be that a larger percentage of the beans may be used but it is advisable to await further investigation before following this practice.

Direct Sunlight for Layers Is Essential

A simple, inexpensive and effective way to secure direct sunlight for the layers is to fill in about ten square feet of space at the south side of the house with an eight-inch layer of cinders. The space may well be enclosed to keep the fowls from contaminated soil. In exposed locations it may be necessary to provide a wind break of some kind. Chickens dislike wind and will stay inside to avoid it.

Cinders are especially effective. Because of their dark color they absorb heat from the sun, causing any snow or ice to melt with the first appearance of sunshine. This permits the birds to get out on the warm, dry cinders and bask in the direct sunshine even though the ground is still wet and cold.

Feeding New Corn

Where there is a shortage of corn that is dry enough to grind, a mash that will serve quite well for a short period of feeding can be made up of the following ingredients: 100 pounds of ground oats, 10 pounds of tankage or meat scraps and one pound of salt. If barley is available, 50 pounds barley and 50 pounds of oats are better than using oats alone. This mash should not be fed as a permanent laying ration, however, but just as an emergency ration.

Pullets Begin Laying

As a rule, pullets lay more eggs during their first laying season than during any subsequent season. Consequently, if hatchlings are correctly timed so that plenty of pullets will be brought to maturity some time during the latter part of September, a banner winter egg season is bound to follow. Pullets hatched during February or March, according to breed, should begin laying just about the right time for winter eggs when prices are highest.

Gapeworms Kill

A poultryman in Washington, D. C. lost 75 per cent of several hundred chicks from gapes. Investigation showed that this loss resulted from the use of one of the poultryman's fields for about 24 hours, as a resting place for a flock of turkeys being driven overland. The chickens became infested by gapeworms left by the turkey flock. In addition to producing the noticeable symptoms of gaping, by obstructing the windpipe the chicks did not thrive.

Metropolis in War on Dirt and Unsightliness

For years Kansas City has had its spring clean-up campaigns. Agitation and organization have proceeded for a few weeks, with intensive efforts at actually improving the city's appearance lasting for a shorter period. Something worth while has been accomplished each year, but its effects soon have been lost. Work that should be continuous has been restricted to a small fraction of the year. A clean and attractive city cannot be had that way. A condition of order and cleanliness that is indispensable to the individual home or place of business and its premises applies to the city as a whole. It is constant vigilance, keeping an eye out for dirt and unsightliness and shaping an assault against both wherever and whenever they appear.

In the city wide beautification movement started by the real estate board and now well advanced, there is promise that this condition of attractiveness and cleanliness will be met. The movement has enlisted the support of various civic and other organizations about town. No doubt it will carry a strong appeal to others. The aim is to allot definite portions of the work to those agencies that are specially equipped to deal with them, to divide the city into districts, to fix responsibility in each of them and to wage incessant warfare against dumps, against ugliness of whatever form and against insanitary conditions with respect to dwellings and surroundings.

The plan is not untried and it is not lacking in practicability. It has already demonstrated its value in attractive, restricted areas of this city and of other centers. It is the only method that can be relied upon to get results. It ought to have official as well as general public support.—Kansas City Times.

Good Citizen One Who Gives Grass a Chance

Smith college, famous institution for girls, has appointed "grass cops," who are certain girls named to whistle at the students when they cut across the corners of the lawns and wear down the beautiful grass. Most cities and towns need some "grass cops," who shall cure people of the wretched habit of cutting across places reserved for turf.

There is a hasty impatience about people that leads many of them to cut across the corners of their own lawns and those of their neighbors, and to wear down the ends and corners of grassy park spaces. Which has a tendency to spoil the beauty of any town.

It scarcely takes a second longer to follow the walks and streets and allow the grass to grow wherever it belongs. A community where people are careful of their grass spaces looks like one that holds itself up to a high standard in all respects.—Newcastle (Ind.) Courier.

Rules for Planting Vines

If you want decorative vines on your house and in your garden, watch the plants to see that they behave themselves with your property, advises the American Home. And be careful where you place them.

Never plant a vine that clings by stem roots near a wooden wall.

Never plant a twining vine where it can ascend a sapling.

Always watch a tendrill climber to make sure it doesn't strangle some other part of itself by encircling it with a tendrill.

Never plant a rank vine where it can bury shrubbery or other plants with its dense foliage.

Care of Small Garden

Size does not limit a garden's beauty. However small the space or unfavorable the location at the disposal of an earnest gardener, something can be grown there which will give pleasure.

The small garden often calls for a greater effort to produce an artistic and attractive result. Just as in the furnishing and decoration of a small room in the house, we take more care in each detail of the effect. When successful we are repaid by the small garden, as by the little room, with an intimacy and association not always felt in more spacious surroundings.

Serving One's Home Town.

A man's worth to a community is measured by what he contributes to its welfare. This is an age of service rendered, not received. There can be no higher ambition than to so serve that fellow citizens shall "rise up and call us blessed."—Western (Ore.) Clackamas Review.

Why Not School Gardens?

"Gardening is taught in primary and elementary schools in France; and ought to be taught here," wrote Wilmer Atkinson in the Farm Journal for May, 1879. Fifty years have passed, and, so far as the great majority of our schools are concerned, it still "ought to be."

Call of Duty

Join campaign against dirt and unsightliness; see that your property is brightened up.

Coffee Urns Long in Use

As far back as 1681 urns were in use in the Boston 'coffee house. One of the largest manufacturers of coffee urns today claims to have made copper-tinned coffee tea and water urns with tinned copper baskets or percolators as far back as 1855. They were heated with steam coils, alcohol lamps or gas burners.

THEY SURE HAVE NERVE

This Article May Set Them Thinking---Possibly They Have Started Something,

It seems that the Northern Indiana Telephone Co., not only claims the right to boost telephone rentals and cut off all free service, but also carries the idea that a subscriber cannot have phone service discontinued with less than several months notice to the company. We understand that subscribers who ordered their phones removed several months ago are being threatened with suit for the rental of the phone, basing their claim upon the ground that the phone has not yet been removed. That is a rich one; first they boost the rate so high that you cannot afford to have a phone, cut off all free service, then seek to make you pay rent up to the time until they get good and ready to remove your phone, regardless of the time that you ordered it out.

Well dear reader while the Northern Indiana is quite a large company and past masters in the art of rate boosting, yet they don't quite own the earth. We stated a few weeks ago that we would have something of interest on the telephone question in the near future. We believe that we are now ready to divulge it and if phone users are with us in the matter as we believe they are we will deliver this phone company a blow that will make them set up and take notice.

The officers of the Northern Indiana Telephone Company have evidently been under the impression that they were sole owners of the highways, the by-ways and the air in so far as the telephone question was concerned. However we have a plan (and have received the opinion of a prominent legal authority that it is O.K.) whereby citizens may organize in such a manner that they will not come within the meaning and intent of the Public Utilities Act, and may construct and operate their own telephone system, just the same as any large industry or business concern maintain and operate theirs, so long as it is operated for convenience only and not for profit. This being the case there is nothing to prevent us from buying our own phones, erecting our own lines and operating same so long as we do not make it of a public nature.

Do not let anyone tell you that it will cost a fortune to buy a few phones and build a few miles of line. It would cost each phone owner but a little more in cash, than he is now paying, and after the first year $3.00 per year will pay the switch board charges until replacement charges begin which is about seven years, from which time $6.00 per year will defray the expenses indefinitely.

It so happens that the writer of this article was one of the pioneers in the organization and building of farm lines, and knows something about the cost, construction and operation of same. Immediately after the expiration of the Bell patent in 1896, we started organizing farm telephone lines. When we retired from that business in 1903 through the free exchange of service the members of these several farm companies were able to have free telephone service with over fifty towns and cities, besides free service with nearly every farmer within a radius of fifty miles, and at the time that we withdrew from these companies the individual telephone holder was paying only three dollars per year for all this service, and the money went mostly to pay the cost of switching. This rate of three dollars was continued for six years when replacements made it necessary to increase it to six dollars at which figure it now stands with no prospects that it will ever go any higher, because when we organized these people we made it impossible for a bunch of rate boosters to come along and buy the lines the same as they have done in this place.

We anticipate the telephone company will attempt to tie up all of their present subscribers and make it impossible to build private lines. Sign nothing that they may present to you for you may gamble that there will be a joker in it.

A number of people have urged us to feel out the people and see how they stand on this telephone question, and during the next ten days we ask that all who are in favor of taking some action along the lines above mentioned, write this office a card or letter giving us your views upon this matter, making any suggestions that may come to your mind, and if the sentiment warrants same we will arrange and call a meeting, at which time the proposition can be discussed in detail and steps taken for action.

If you are interested tell your neighbor and have him mail us a letter or card—it is not necessary that you be a subscriber to this paper to get in on this—this is a free-for-all fight.

Are you with us? If so stop right now and write us a letter giving your views.

JEWISH RACE FACES EXTINCTION

By DR. ARTHUR RUPPIN, Zionist Statistician.

Conversion to other faiths, intermarriage, a decreasing birth rate and an unchanged mortality rate are disintegrating forces which menace the continued existence of the Jews as a people. Although the rights of Jews as equal citizens has been recognized in a majority of countries and although the last three decades witnessed an unprecedented growth of the Jewish population groups throughout the world, they are in danger of extinction. In the last three decades the number of Jews throughout the world grew from 10,500,000 to 16,000,000, as against 4,500,000 in times of antiquity.

America, which had a Jewish population of 1,000,000 in 1900, had a Jewish population of about 4,500,000 in 1928. The increase was due to immigration from eastern European countries. A process of disintegration of Jewish culture and Jewish religion, particularly in Russia and other east European countries, is under way. Palestine constitutes the only exception. In Palestine the Jewish birth rate exceeds the death rate, and although that country contains at present only 1 per cent of the Jewish population throughout the world, it has shown itself capable of revivifying the Jewish religion and the Hebrew language. Zionism, though it does not destroy anti-Semitism, is bound to deal it a severe blow. The entire world will experience a beneficent influence from Zionism when Palestine becomes an important bulwark.

An engineering school is the most

THIS AND THAT

Today with all the modern conveniences and plenty of leisure for some mothers, the question is not what shall the average mother do with her leisure, but how may she obtain a little.

It may seem improbable to the class that has leisure to realize that there are countless numbers who have none. In spite of the fact that the world is full of misersaving devices. We need not go to the tenement districts of large cities nor to the slums (so-called) to find leisureless women—the country is full of them—on the little farms where wood and water must be carried in,
as well as its waste carried out; mothers of little children work from sun to sun with work never done, until the joy of living is completely crushed out of them. What a marvelous uplift this world might have, if the leisure women might share a little of the burden of those who never knew the joy of a vacation. Share it without making the other feel that she was accepting charity.

In some little towns there is a custom that might well be more common: it is that one day or half day in the week, one neighbor takes charge of the children of another or more, as she can manage. This gives one a free time to go shopping, visiting or to do anything that she chooses and she takes her turn with the children on a day when she can best look after them.

After a hard day in the home for the housewife or on the farm or in the shop, for the father, a ride in the cool of the evening will bring a peace and calm that will induce sleep and one will rise refreshed and ready for another busy day.

The right machinery for farm work is needed, and so are home conveniences just as necessary for good work and health in the home.

Sits Up, Feels Better The President's Plans Tainted Football Another Big Airboat

Wall Street felt better, sat up and took notice, feebly. The question is not "What has happened to those that gambled, in spite of warnings?" but "What, if anything, has happened to the nation, and its general prosperity?"

No buildings were burned down, no industries have died, no mines, railroads, steel plants have vanished.

Paper profits have been reduced to scraps of ticker tape. That's all.

And, as one solemn banker said, "Many will now do more useful work than watching the ticker or the brokers' blackboard."

The most pathetic were the women speculators, amazed to learn that prices can go down.

Chicago describes them weeping hysterically in La Salle street.

Scientists ask what has become of the Leonids, a swarm of meteors that have appeared in dazzling brilliancy about once in thirty-three years for more than a thousand years past.

They failed to come around when last due, and there is no sign of them now.

Our giant neighbor, Jupiter, may have absorbed them, as whales with wide open mouths absorb tiny creatures in the ocean.

Big things live on little things, even in cosmic space.

President Hoover's plan for a great system of inland waterways realizes. In prospect, the hope of those that welcomed an able engineer to the White House.

Total expenditures planned will amount to $525,000,000, and every dollar spent will pay for itself ten times over.

The President observes that the annual increase in expenditures will amount only to the cost of one-half of one battleship.

The President might have added that in modern war the whole of one battleship would be worth less than one-half of 10 cents, since battleships are now merely targets for submarines and airplanes, worth nothing, except to battleship builders.

The Carnegie foundation says college football is "tainted with money." Free teaching and cash bonuses are given to young men that can kick hard, run fast and tackle savagely.

It would be more pleasing if colleges sought great teachers as eagerly as they seek great quarterbacks.

But no great harm is done. The games and great crowds arouse young men's interest in college life and give college education to young men from rolling mills and rear ends of ice wagons, that might otherwise remain uneducated.

Progress in flying advances rapidly in Europe. A few days ago Germans showed a gigantic hydroplane with twelve engines, flying, carrying 169 passengers and crew.

Great Britain is building a plane of the same size, a triplane instead of a biplane, also with twelve engines, to go faster.

Henry Ford was the first to talk about a 12-engined plane "to carry 100 people, with a machine shop on board." The Germans and the British build the planes.

The Swiss parliament, elected by a moral and serious nation, proposing a law to punish blasphemy, suggests six months in prison for those that "orally or in writing insult God."

Blasphemy should be punished because it sets a bad example and shows want of respect for the feelings of others.

But is it possible for any two-legged human microbe on this planet "to insult God"?

If the mice proposed to punish any mouse insulting Edison, you would say, "Mice, don't worry, you can't insult Edison."

How much less can any man insult the Creator of the Universe?

The nation read with affectionate sympathy of Mr. Edison's visit to Dearborn, where Henry Ford has rebuilt as it was in old days the simple Edison laboratory to which men owe so much.

Mr. Edison was deeply moved when he saw his old tools, the chair in which he sat in his early youth, his primitive paraphernalia reassembled as used fifty years ago when he developed the idea that now lights the world.

Every old man can share Mr. Edison's emotions. The human heart is the same with or without genius to lend it a great name.

A million among those that see this column carry with them memories of youth—a shellbark hickory tree standing alone in the field; a grove of chestnut trees with yellowish green burrs open, showing the brown nuts within a pond that held "shiners" and catfish; a swimming hole—happy memories of a free life and boundless hope. ### Human Nature's Attributes

Human nature is not a machine to be built after a model and set to do exactly the work prescribed for it, but a tree, which requires to grow and develop itself on all sides, according to the tendencies of the inward forces which make a living thing.—Mill.

Virtue Leads All

Virtue is the highest reward. Virtue truly goes before all things. Liberty, safety, life, property, parents, country and children, are protected and preserved. Virtue has all things in herself; he who has virtue has all things that are good attending him.—Plautus.

Economic Law

The law of diminishing returns is an economic law, which states that in any given stage an increase of labor or capital applied beyond a certain point in the cultivation of land causes a less than proportionate increase in the produce raised from a given area. This law is generally attributed to Ricardo, but it was discovered considerably earlier.

Cosmopolitan Island

Originally the immigration base, Ellis Island, covered an area of a little more than three acres, but it has been added to from time to time until at present it comprises an area of 21 acres. Much of the material used to enlarge it came from foreign countries, as ballast in ships. It is said that the island includes earth from practically every seaboard country in Europe.

Scriptural Fowl

Partridges are noted in the Old Testament. The fatted fowl (1 Kings 4:23) is interpreted as either goose or duck. Cocks and hens were brought from Persia two or three centuries before Christ. A tomb at Marissa, of about 200 B. C., has a good representation of a crowing cock. Sparrows and other "twittering birds" were also used for food.

Better to Wash Dishes

A seventeen-year-old girl is writing a novel. Most everybody now is writing one. And they sell because the writers feel obliged to read what the other writers are writing. Though to tell the truth, it would be better if they washed dishes.—San Jose Mercury Herald.

"Safe as a Church"

It is, we maintain, an excellent idea to go to church on Sunday. Quite aside from the benefit to your own morals, and the duty which you owe your Maker, and such considerations, we state confidently that a church has hardly ever been known to tilt a telegraph pole and turn turtle.—Farm Journal.

Cemetery Care

When perpetual care of a cemetery lot is provided for, it means that headstones or monuments are kept straight, fences or rails are prevented from sagging and grass is mowed and replanted as necessary. One pays a lump sum to the cemetery association, the interest on which is sufficient to provide for these services.

Hair in Our Early Army

That long whiskers and unkempt hair were not in favor with the commanding officers of the early United States army is shown by a letter signed by Anthony Wayne. The letter states that, as a barber has been supplied for members of the company, none would be excused for appearing "with a long beard or slovenly hair."

Bad Auto Accident

On Wednesday afternoon of last week while enroute to their farm in a Ford Automobile, Mr. and Mrs. Adam Bowen of this place met with an accident that might have proven fatal in its results. They were driving south along the interurban track and when attempting to cross it at East Main Street they collided with the 9 o'clock north bound passenger car. Luckily the interurban car was only about one hundred feet from its usual stopping place and were running very slow. As it was the automobile was completely wrecked, and Mr. and Mrs. Bowen was injured by cuts and bruises to such an extent that they are yet confined to their home.

WOMEN: don't read this!

A COLLEGE professor has figured out how much unnecessary work a woman does during her life when she has to pump and carry water by hand. His figures show that she carries 7000 barrels of water for a distance as great as that from New York to San Francisco and up an elevation equal to 100 trips up and down Pikes Peak. This is no way for a modern farm woman to spend her life. I get mad when I think of it. ## WORLD'S HOPE IN SCIENTISTS

By PROF. J. McKEEN CATTELL, Formerly of Columbia University.

THE objects of the sciences are more ideal than the objects of the churches. Their sacrifices are more Christian. When, in the fullness of time, there is a family of the nations, when each will give according to its ability and receive according to its needs, when war among them will be as absurd as it would now be for members of this (psychology) congress to begin murdering one another, this will be due in no small measure to co-operation among the scientific men of all nations in their common work. And it may be that psychology, the child among the sciences, and the United States, the child among the nations, shall lead them.

We can as they say, "point with patriotic pride" to James, Hall, Royce, Dewey and Santayana as five writers of psychology, approaching it from the philosophical side, but with full appreciation of scientific method, such as would be difficult to parallel in any other country. It seems, however, that the chief contribution of America to psychology has not been large philosophical generalizations, but the gradual accumulation from all sides of facts and methods that will ultimately create a science.

I have found the center of productivity of scientific men to have moved westward from New England to the central states and onward to Missouri and Nebraska. In the production of psychologists the Universities of Indiana and Nebraska stand high.

GIVE PLENTY OF ROOSTING PLACE

Pullets Need Room and Fresh Air to Develop Properly.

Give the pullets plenty of roosting space and encourage them to roost early, says L. M. Hurd of the New York State College of Agriculture. Roosting helps to prevent crowding and allows the individual chicken more freedom of action and better air. Uncrowded pullets make better growth.

Clean and disinfect the houses and supply them frequently with fresh litter. Shavings, oat straw, or sand make the best covering for the floor during the summer. When more than one house is in use take care that too many pullets do not form the habit of roosting in one building. The buildings should be at least 100 feet apart to help keep the birds evenly distributed. It is not advisable to try to house more than 125 growing pullets in one colony house.

Provide good ventilation on hot nights. In addition to the regular ventilators take out the glass sash in the front of the house. To prevent possible infestation from red mites paint the perches and side walls close by with carbolineum, or spray the colony houses several times during the summer with a mixture of equal parts of crude carbolic acid and kerosene.

When there are many hatches and several weeks difference in their ages, provide each hatch with a separate range, or place the houses farther apart than for groups of the same age. Otherwise older pullets will annoy the young and prevent normal growth.

Poultry Facts

The average fenced farm geese are the most profitable of all.

A dust bath aids materially in the elimination of body lice and should be installed.

Pure-breds usually lay eggs that are more uniform in size, shape and color, and are more productive than mixed flocks.

Hens should stand a lot of dry still cold, but not drafts. There should be no opening in opposite walls, not even cracks, to draw a shivery current of air through the house.

Overcrowding in the poultry house discourages production of high priced eggs.

Feed hens balanced rations. Watch flock for sick birds and remove them on discovery. Keep house dry, warm and well ventilated.

The first rule in feeding the poultry flock in the winter is to be sure to feed plenty. Hens cannot lay in cold weather unless they have enough feed to keep them fat and thus have a surplus for making eggs.

Squash and pumpkin make a good succulent feed for poultry, helping to keep the bowels in good condition.

Increase the size of your poultry house to keep pace with the size of your flock. Poultry is not city bred and does not like crowded conditions.

Moist mash often helps to get more feed into the crops—a warm, slightly moistened mash fed at noon during cold weather. Liquid skim milk or buttermilk is especially valuable for moistening the mash.

Fireless Cooker Good Idea for Egg Layers

Hens need warm water. It's cheaper for you to warm it on the fire than to make the hen warm it with expensive feed.

You can save lots of trouble by insulating the water pail. You can make a sort of fireless cooker by placing the drinking vessel in a box large enough to stuff two or three inches of straw, excelsior, or torn newspapers, packed tightly below and all around the vessel.

Keep the material dry by covering it with tin, fitted closely under the top rim of the pail, and sloped slightly to the outside of the box so the spill water will run off.

The water keeps warm several hours.

Profits Increased by Culling Flock Closely

Whether the poultry producer keeps pure breeds or grades, he will increase his profits very materially by culling his flock closely every year.

Though the trap nest is the most accurate means of selecting the best layers in the flock, its use is only practicable for those who make poultry breeding a specialty.

The trap nest usually has no place on the general farm. On the average, the pullet laying year is more profitable than any other. Yearlings and two-year-olds are likely to be kept at an actual loss unless they are carefully culled.

Designers Cater to the Hat-Conscious Youngsters

In the new collections wee lassies will find fuzzy - wuzzy soft-as-down angora tams, school-girl felts which flaunt a bit of a gay feather, ultra-new toques draped of knit scarfing (see center sketch) also hat-and-scarf sets, which work multi-colored Italian felt in modernistic design.

Velvet, Tweed or Chenille for Her Fall Chapeau

Here are some items concerning the new fall hats. Her cap of velvet takes on either a huge bow or a fall-to-the-shoulder drape. A French modiste has launched the draped toque of tweed, playing up the selvedge edge in a decorative way. Caps of crochet chenille, angora or of fine felt stripping are the "last word." Later velvet shapes will take on strikingly picturesque brims.

CANINE PARASITES QUITE DANGEROUS

Household Pets Are Attacked by Many Species.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Dogs and cats, favorite household pets as they are, are attacked by more species of parasites than most animals. In a recent article written for the Veterinary Alumni Quarterly, Dr. Emmett W. Price, of the United States Department of Agriculture, says these two animals have been reported as hosts for about 475 species of parasites, some of which affect both, and some only one or the animals.

"Aside from the high mortality in dogs due to parasitic infestation," Doctor Price says, "there are other points which should not be minimized. Some of the species which occur in dogs may also infest man, either in their adult or larval stages, such infestations frequently proving fatal."

Several varieties of fleas are known to be carriers of bubonic plague, Doctor Price says, and one of the tapeworms of man passes one stage of its life cycle in dogs. Fleas are also believed to be carriers of infantile Kala-azar, a tropical protozoan disease. The dog is also infested by a lung fluke which may be identical to the species causing fatal illness in man.

The present-day practice of shipping dogs from one part of the country to another for shows or for competition in field trials affords an excellent opportunity for the spread of canine parasites, Doctor Price points out.

For some of the parasitic infestations of dogs and cats, veterinary science has developed effective remedies. For many, however, no remedy is known which will kill the parasite without killing the host as well.

Hog Flu Attacks Take Heavy Toll Each Year

Attacks of hog flu on brood sows and fattening shoats take a heavy toll every year with the coming of cold and stormy weather. Unlike cholera investigations, studies of flu in hogs have not yet revealed the exact cause of the disease.

Live stock specialists find from observation and experience that certain precautions in caring for the herd will greatly lessen the danger of sickness and death from flu. One of the common troubles on many farms, these men find, is overcrowding in the hog house. Hogs compelled to pile up become too hot and the building will likely be damp and steamy. When the animals go out into the cold the following morning they suffer chills, their resistance to disease is lowered, and they are more susceptible to organisms ever present in the respiratory system which investigators believe spread hog flu.

March and August Pig Produces Most Profit

By comparing spring and fall-farrowed pigs in the light of experimental results it will be shown that the spring pigs required 322.3 pounds of meal to produce 100 pounds of gain, and were finished in 212 days at an average weight of 189.7 pounds per head. The fall pigs consumed 422.3 pounds of meal for every 100 pounds of pork produced and required 224 days to reach a finished average weight of 172.8 pounds per head. However, 54 spring pigs show a profit of $4.11 per head, while 75 fall pigs show an average profit of $4.90 per head in spite of the more costly production, indicating that owing to better prices the fall pigs more than hold their own with the spring pigs. Further, in these experiments the March pigs and the August pigs made the greatest profit in their respective experiments, showing that early litters, both spring and fall, strike the best market.

*****

Live Stock Items

*****

Strong feet and legs and strong backs are more essential than fat in the development of gilts for brood sows.

***

Live stock and dairy products have been selling at good prices and the stock keeper has been doing better than he has at any time since the war.

***

Two and one-half to three pounds of milk should be fed with one pound of corn for 50-pound pigs. As the animals grow the proportion of milk may be decreased.

***

The more live stock fed on the farm the richer the land will become. Good live stock is the corner stone of better farming.

***

Use only a little bedding in the farrowing pen and keep it clean and dry. Finely chopped wheat straw makes good bedding.

Don't worry over there being any over production. Beef is getting so high in price that many city families now eat chicken two and three times a week instead of beef.

Old Fort Preserved

Fort McHenry of "Star Spangled Banner" fame is still standing and is open to the public. Many of the fortifications remain and the drives and walks are lined with cannon balls of that siege. Two memorials to Francis Scott Key have been erected on the grounds, one overlooking the river and the other at the entrance. It is to be a national park.

"OLD SETTIN' HEN" IN LOSING RACE

Incubators on Farm Hatch • 24 Per Cent of Chicks.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

The fluffy old mother hen continues to lose out in the race with the mechanical substitutes, but she is still on the job, according to the reports sent to the United States Department of Agriculture by the crop correspondents of the bureau of agricultural economics. About 43 per cent of all chickens raised are still hatched under hens, the reports indicate. Incubators on the farm hatch about 24 per cent of the chickens raised, and eggs supplied by farmers and hatched for a fee amount to about 10 per cent. Commercial hatcheries now hatch about 23 per cent of the annual baby chicks crop.

A distinct difference is evident when regional areas are compared. In the South Atlantic states from Virginia to Florida and in the South Central states, the hen holds her own and hatches about two-thirds of the chicks as compared with all others. Rhode Island with only 14 per cent of hen-hatched chicks is the lowest in this respect, and in no other states is the percentage lower than 20. The North Atlantic and the Western states buy the largest proportion of baby chicks, 45 per cent and 41 per cent, respectively. Farm hatching of chicks in incubators is most popular in the North Central states, more than 30 per cent being reported from this source. Missouri and Kansas each with 40 per cent of their chicks hatched in incubators on the farms are high in this group.

Moist Mashies Favored for Keeping Up Weight

Moist mash is a means of keeping up the body weight of the pullets and hens. Noon is the best time to feed the moist mash in the winter. In feeding the moist mash put it in troughs well spread out so that all of the hens can eat readily and don't feed more than they can clean up in from 15 to 25 minutes. Any moist mash remaining in the trough should be removed. In mixing the moist mash use liquid skim milk or buttermilk if available; if not, warm water may be used, or if fresh meat is cooked for the hens, the liquid should be saved and used in making the moist mash. In any case, do not feed a cold moist mash to the flock, as they do not eat it as readily and what they do eat will more or less chill the birds, and by so doing take considerable of their energy to warm them up again, so be sure to have the moist mash warm before feeding.

Low Temperature Very Essential in Storing

When an egg is first laid it contains no air cell. As the contents of the egg cools and evaporation starts, the air cell develops. This air cell continues to grow larger as the egg grows older, due to evaporation of moisture through the porous shell. An egg that is held in a warm room will show a larger air cell because the heat aids in bringing about more rapid evaporation. This makes the air cell a valuable aid in determining the quality of the egg. An egg which is a month old will not show much increase in the size of the air cell, if stored in a cool place; neither will its quality deteriorate greatly if properly stored. This is the reason why a low temperature is essential in storing eggs.

Buying Pullets

Buyers of pullets should know that age is not as important as weight and quality in buying pullets. In a flock of pullets of the same age and breeding, there will be three distinct grades of birds. In buying pullets at a flat rate it pays to weigh at least part of the birds and give them all a health inspection. In selling pullets it pays to know something about their cost of production. There are too many pullets sold for $1 each that cost approximately $1.20 each to produce.

No Best Breed

There is no best breed of chickens for laying or meat. There are a number of breeds that have been bred for egg production and any one of these will make a good record if they are fed and cared for properly. There are strains of Barred Rocks that have been bred for high production as well as Wyandottes, Rhode Island Reds and others. Be sure, in buying eggs of any of these breeds that they come from high producing stock and from reliable dealers.

Fattening Ration

A useful fattening ration recommended by the Purdue station consists of 20 pounds of yellow cornmeal, 10 pounds of ground oats and 10 pounds of flour middlings, mixed with 80 pounds of buttermilk or skim milk. The mixture is allowed to stand 24 hours before using, the feed supply being prepared a day ahead of time throughout the fattening period. The poultry is confined in crates and given as much twice each day as the birds will clean up in about half an hour.

Sensitive Butterflies

Butterflies are so sensitive to want of light that they are not only stupid and sleepy at night, but are affected in the daytime by the shadow of every passing cloud.

Middle West Backward in Road Beautifying

There is such a thing as wanting too much, but the project of the Vermont Chamber of Commerce has its appeal. It is undertaking a national campaign to beautify the roads.

Here in the Middle West the public is more concerned over getting hard roads than beautiful roads. This means getting money to pay for the paving and maintenance, without regard for looks. The matter of beauty has to be left mostly to nature. If there happen to be trees along the highway, that is luck. If the gouge of a new highway through the gravel or sand is ugly, time will put vegetation there to hide the unloveliness.

And yet, there is something that makes a Middle Westerner wishful, in the announcement that California has planted trees along 600 miles of highways; that Massachusetts has set out 60,000 trees along its state highways, and that Indiana last year set out 10,000 evergreens, Michigan 40,000, along the state roads. It makes one look regretfully at bare, ugly banks, when he hears that Connecticut plants rambler roses, woodbine and honeysuckle vines in such places on its highways. It gives one pause, too, to discover that New Jersey, when it cuts down a tree in widening a highway, replaces it with two others along the border.

May we give no thought to beautification, or to conservation of beauty, along the trunk highways, until that day in the future when the heavenly state of complete pavement shall have been reached?—Minneapolis Journal.

Americans Slow to See

Ugliness Doesn't Pay?

In general, Europeans spend a good deal of time admiring what is done in America, but on one particular they hold this country a horrible example: We are careless builders. Too frequently our real estate developments give no thought to the future, being bent on quick money and the minimum responsibility.

The people of Europe generally take much more pains than is thought of in this country, to prevent tasteless and injurious real estate changes. In many German cities there are strict regulations preventing the erection of buildings of such architectural character as to contrast unfortunately with the stately beauty of old structures. There are 29 organizations in England devoted to the preservation of rural beauties. They use publicity and seek legislation to prevent subdividing beauty spots, destruction of ancient monuments, constructing ugly buildings or buildings out of keeping with the character of their surroundings, and spoiling landscapes with unsightly advertisements.

In our rapidly developing country, if greater attention were given to the protection of public rights and the conservation of natural beauty and to prevention of the encroachment of ugliness, it would be a good thing. And it would pay, too, if that is any argument.

Material for Outside Walls

With the great popularity of the English style as interpreted by architects in this country, the house wherein are blended a variety of materials is frequently seen. There are many justifications for exterior walls combining several types of finish.

Suburban architecture recognizes no single style and conforms to no uniform precedent. Neighboring houses on a street will be in brick, stucco, stone and frame. There is therefore every reason for welcoming a newcomer which combines several or all of these. For instance the first story may be stone with brick trim, and small wing in brick, the second story stucco with siding in the gable ends.

Money for Improvements

Some thirteen hundred building and loan associations are lending more than two billion dollars, and for those who wish to carry on remodeling and modernizing of their homes, these associations will often increase the first mortgage on a house enough to cover the modernizing expenses.

National banks may lend up to 50 per cent of their savings deposits on realty loans of five years or less. This means that with all the savings deposits now existing there is plenty of money for home construction and home modernizing.—Portland Oregonian.

Town Forests and Taxes

In Europe town forests have existed for many years. In some instances the forest yields have been a material help in reducing the town taxes, says the American Tree association. Many eastern states have special legislation regarding municipal forests. These include Massachusetts, Minnesota, New Jersey, New York, Ohio, Pennsylvania, and Vermont.

House Requires Width

One essential principle of architectural beauty is that the width of a house shall be greater than its height, for only in this way will it fit in with the horizon line in a way that will please the eye.

Civilization and Scent

The ancients interested themselves almost entirely in the heavier, more crude scents—as musk, myrrh, incense; the scent of flowers is seldom mentioned in their poetry or literature, which leads us to think that the subtlety of this last born of our senses is being evolved with civilization.
