JUST THINKIN'

by Charles S. Kinnison

“Well Done!”

Whether you work at a desk or a bench,
Wielding a pencil, a hammer or wrench,
Handing out orders, or pushing a broom,
Cleaning up dust from the floor of a room—
Whether you're merchant, mechanic or clerk,
So long as you're capably doing your work,
You have every right to be proud of your place,
And, squarely, can look every man in the face.

So long as you're filling your task in a way
That makes you entitled to all of your pay,
Whatever it be, be it little or large,
Then you should be PROUD, for you're filling your charge!

You're filling the job that they hired you to fill—
And so you are standing a-top of the hill!
You've mastered the task; and success you have won,
And the Master is saying, “Well done, Boy, well done!”

KEEP UP FIGHT ON CANCER

By DR. GEORGE H. BIGELOW, Massachusetts Health Commissioner.

The death rate from cancer has apparently increased more than 50 per cent in Massachusetts during the last 20 years, the greatest increase in any state in the Union. Whatever we do for cancer may well influence what we do for a far larger problem of the other degenerative diseases. Unstinted time and thought has been given to the various aspects of the problem by the outstanding citizens of the state. This has resulted in definite hospitalization measures, so that next year at the Pondville hospital, for example, we expect to serve nearly 1,000 patients.

Each local cancer committee has an education sub-committee, a responsible group in each city, facing the diversified cancer problem. The statewide cancer program has been launched. We have found an irresistible public demand for service in this field, and we are striving desperately to anticipate and guide this demand.

MODERN YOUTH MORE SERIOUS

By PROF. ALFRED ADLER, Viennese Psychologist.

The hard-boiled parents of today, the men and women who a few years back were the flaming youth of America, are meeting retribution. Their children are growing up the best behaved, most conservative generation of a century. The little girl who poutingly says, “Oh, mother, don't smoke so much,” and the small boy who reproves his mother with: “That's your second cocktail this afternoon,” are all signs of the younger times.

The youth of today is more serious, more romantic. These growing boys and girls have a greater social conscience than their predecessors.

As a result, they detest the hardness, the cynicism and materialistic outlook of their parents. The pendulum has swung back again. Only this time it is Victorian romanticism which is on the side of youth.

NEED FOR PARENTAL EDUCATION

By PROF. A. CASWELL ELLIS, Director Cleveland College.

MODERN parents are far more interested in the mental development of the child than in its physical welfare. In the parental education department of Cleveland college, twice as many students are registered in child psychology courses as in physiological studies. A parent needs to know something about physiology, psychiatry and educational methods. If he attempted to master each one of these fields by taking courses in the ordinary college his child would grow to adulthood before he could finish his studies.

In a school of parental education, experts are chosen to look over the vast, bewildering mass of his field and pick out just those parts that an average, intelligent parent could utilize.

At Cleveland college, which contains the largest school of parental education in the country, 26 specialists were needed to organize and prepare the curriculum. The faculty includes physicians, psychologists from the juvenile courts of Cleveland and college professors from Western Reserve university.

The most popular course is the study of the psychology of the pre-school child. Courses in family relations, psychology of the adolescent child, feeding of children in relation to the growth of the organs, and the social life of the child and the cultivation of health habits are included in the program.

THE TELEPHONE AN UNFAILING MESSENGER.

This is the leading modernly equipped public utilities of this section and is very satisfactorily serving the people with adequate telephone facilities at very reasonable rates. Every one of our citizens owes it to his family to have a telephone in the home. Call the office and talk it over with them.

There is no service offered the public today that is of greater value and benefit than the modern telephone service which at your command acts like a winged messenger by day or by night, always prompt, ready and willing. It is indeed a trusted servant and guardian in the American home.

By its use any commodity or service of any kind is promptly brought to your door. At any hour of the night it will immediately bring a physician to the sick child's bedside. By its use any member of the family can summon police protection or an ambulance for the ill or injured.

It can be proven in thousands of ways that the improved telephone service of today is the distinct leader of all public mediums of service. It is indeed a faithful servant and a guardian in the home.

The telephone company provides the quickest form of communication and is the constant connecting link between the supply and the demand.

You can generally reach people by the telephone when it is difficult if not impossible to get in touch with them in any other way. Distance lends no disadvantage to the service. When you stop to think of the enormous amount of money it requires for repairs and upkeep the monthly rate for a telephone becomes insignificant.

When nature rages to the point where few things withstand the strain, when property is destroyed and towns cut off, the telephone company's "trouble-hunters" are at once on the job, risking life and limb in braving the blizzard or the storm, to keep this "highway" of communication open. The telephone company spends thousands of dollars annually in fighting the elements so that communication may continue uninterrupted.

When you stop to think of the ridiculously low rate for this modern telephone service do you really think you are doing justice to your family when you deprive them of this great economical twentieth century convenience.

Think it over carefully, then consult the manager of the telephone company and learn how small an expenditure it takes to place this necessary safety and convenience in your home.

IN SENIOR CABINET.

Bloomington, Ind., Sept. 30—Sixteen Indiana university students have been announced as members of the university's Y. M. C. A. cabinet for this year. Fifteen students will make up the sophomore cabinet of the association. Included in the senior cabinet is Jennings Carter, of Mentone.

Meetings of both cabinets are held every Thursday evening during the school year.

Modern Youth

Two harassed fathers were comparing notes on the modernities of their respective daughters. "Well," said one, "we actually have to disconnect our phone at night." "What's the idea of that?" asked the other. "You see, our daughter is a somnambulist, but instead of walking in her sleep she always goes to the phone and calls a taxi."

With Hat to Match Is Rule for Youngsters

This wee tot tells you what she and her little girl friends will be wearing when late autumn sets in. She wishes to say, does this smiling child, that the new pile fabrics in brown and gray tones are ever so practical and attractive for outfits "with a hat to match" such as she is wearing.

"Lines" Go Grecian for Evening Gowns

Paris designers with a season of simple elegance in mind instinctively turn to ancient Greece for inspiration. Which means that rich materials will be manipulated with a view to classic silhouettes—sophisticated simplicity, as it were. Draperies or scarf effects hanging from the shoulder a la Grecian after the manner pictured are outstanding in the mode.

Eagerly Endorses New Medicine That Brought New Health—"Will Never Be Without It," He Says.

(MR. WILLIAM GRAY.)

"No words can give Konjola the praise that it deserves," said Mr. William Gray, 718 Oak street, South Bend. "I suffered from rheumatism and stomach trouble. The former ailment brought on so much pain that I was afraid I could not bear it. Food never digested properly and formed a mass in my stomach. Gas accumulated and brought on bloating and belching. I was finally forced to give up work and remain at home."

"Konjola went to the very source of my ailments. Rheumatism pains eased up and finally disappeared entirely. By the time I had finished the third bottle I was a well man, free from all my ailments. HOW TO LIVE LONGER

By John Clarence Funk, A.M., Sc.D.

Director of Public Health Education,
State of Pennsylvania

Walk, but Watch Out

THE other day a man was attempting to figure his bank balance while crossing the street. His family is now figuring how much they will owe the undertaker.

The point to this sad tale is this: that when one is crossing a street or highway the main business is to achieve the other side safely. Romancing, calculating or plain absent-mindedness has no business being mixed up with the procedure.

Thousands of men and women who should have known better get seriously injured, and some times fatally so, simply because they failed to realize that the automobile will always have the best of the argument in case of a collision with a pedestrian.

Lawyers, indeed, may plead for the victim or his heirs. But even substantial damages are poor pay for a permanent injury or an untimely decease.

Whether one does or does not choose to leave this world by way of an automobile knockout, in nine cases out of ten can be decided by the individual himself. Certainly, health officials cannot do much for him along this line.

True, there may be worse and more painful ways of bidding adieu to life. But that is a slight solace to him who really hasn't any actual desire to leave sooner than is absolutely required.

Respect the killing and maiming power of the motor car. Give gas the right of way by not getting in the way. Walk, but watch out!

MENTONE HAPPENINGS

IN A NUT SHELL.

Last week most everyone attended the free street fair at Warsaw.

This week there will probably a goodly number attend the fair at Bourbon, and as a result business activities and neighborhood gossip have been a very low ebb.

Now let our merchants dig down and put out some real bargains in seasonable merchandise and bring the populace to Mentone for a change. Bargains and a liberal amount of publicity in the Farm News is the only remedy that will turn the trick.

INTERESTING NEWS FROM INDIANA UNIVERSITY.

(Special to Farm News)

Bloomington, Oct. 1.—With the beginning of publication this fall of the Indiana Daily Student, official newspaper for Indiana university, the promotion of Don A. Bunner of Mentone to copy editor, will become effective.

Bunner, who will graduate at the end of the first semester of this year, has worked at several editorial positions on the paper. He was police and court reporter for the Student during the second semester of last year.

Before entering journalism school here at the University, Bunner served an apprenticeship in newspaper work under Charles W. Krathwohl, editor and publisher, of the Community Farm News at Mentone.

Charles L. Manwaring and Miles L. Manwaring of Mentone have been commissioned second lieutenants in the Indiana University R. O. T. C. by Col. O. P. Robinson, commandant. They have been assigned to Companies "M" and "L" respectively.

The appointments were announced to become effective immediately and to continue throughout the first semester of the school year. Both men are active in campus affairs and considered likely for promotion soon. Miles Manwaring is a member of Alpha Delta Pi, a professional commerce fraternity, and Delta Tau Delta, social fraternity. Charles Manwaring is a member of Sigma Nu, social fraternity.

Beulah Louise Kelly of Mentone was among the guest list of 44 Freshman women entering Indiana university this fall with all "A" grades, which were entertained recently by Miss Agnes E. Wells, dean of women. The entertainment which consisted of a dinner at the Dean's home was the first of series of 10 dinners which she has planned for the orientation of beginning women.

This is the third year that Dean Wells has entertained new students in this way. The first year all girls who were entering school with "A" records were received at her home. The remaining Freshman and new women students were entertained in the Student building. Last year, only two dinners were given, with Miss Florence Jackson of the Personnel department of Wellesley college addressing both groups on the subject of vocational guidance.

The receptions, which have been given during the past 10 years by Dean Wells and Mrs. Florence Lowe Bryan for all women students will not be held this year.

Eloquence

Eloquence is the mistress of all the arts. Tacitus.

A GREAT INSTITUTION.

The report of the Farmers State Bank in this issue of the Farm News is surely a great showing for that institution. We doubt if there is another bank in a town of this size in the middle west that can produce a statement that is equal to this one. The fact that this bank keeps their assets in a liquid condition in sufficient amount to meet any emergency and that the officers are real bankers has caused our people to place implicit confidence in the concern, and while many banks have been fighting for an existence, the financial flurry that has swept the country in the past year has had no effect upon our home bank.

This is a institution that is the greatest advertisement that our town has, and it should receive the patronage of this entire community.

A GREAT IMPROVEMENT

Since the store front has been placed in the Rynearson building and it has received a coat of paint it sure makes a great improvement.

SHALL A COUNTY CHARGE OWN AND OPERATE AN AUTO?

It is very evident that our article published in the Farm News a couple of weeks ago was read by a few people at least.

Trustee Swick of Franklin township, desires us to state that he has a charge who operates an automobile, and that until recently the county was paying $40.00 per month, and the township $15.00 toward the support of this family. And that upon application of the widow, and over his protest, the board of county commissioners ordered him to increase his allowance to $20.00, thus making a total of $60.00 monthly, that this family receives for support from the public funds. Mr. Swick also informs us that even at $60.00 per month it is cheaper for the tax payers, than to send the children to an orphan home.

However, even if it is cheaper to keep this family at home, yet we see no reason why they should be given enough above their actual needs, to permit them to own and operate an automobile. There will probably be many families, who are also worthy, who will need aid before this winter is over, and we do not believe that the time is yet at hand when an automobile is necessary to the existence of any family. There are many people in this locality who pay taxes who cannot afford an auto and we think that county and township aid should not be given for the up-keep of a car.

CORN MEN TO MEET AT PURDUE OCTOBER 10

Purdue News Service

Lafayette, Ind., Sept. 30 King Corn will be paid homage at the second annual field meeting of the Indiana Corn Growers' Association, to be held at Purdue University's experimental farms here on Friday, October 10. K. E. Beeson, secretary of the association, has announced the complete program for the day.

The corn growers will meet in the morning at the agronomy experimental farm at the east edge of Lafayette on State Road 26 for an inspection of corn experiments carried on there. Groups will start on inspection trips of the fields at 8:30, 9:00, 9:30, and 10 o'clock, giving those who arrive at different times opportunity to go over the experimental work. Those who arrive earlier will find many additional experiments on the 120 acre farm to occupy their time after the prescribed schedule of experiments has been covered.

The morning program will include a study of fertilizer results with corn, comparisons of early, medium, and late corn planted at intervals from April to June; rate of planting corn; grading up native strains of corn; comparison of hybrids and native strains for disease resistance, quality, and yield; nitrogen carriers as side dressing; varieties and planting dates, and other pertinent studies. Lunch will be served at noon at the Presbyterian church school in Lafayette, followed by a short program.

In the afternoon an inspection of the hybrid work carried on by John Trost and R. R. St. John will be made in two fields near the University. In one field, these men have produced hybrid corn by detasseling and cross pollinating by hand; in the other field, they have compared the hybrids with native strains.

Corn Day comes as a climax to the week designated by the Purdue Agronomy Department as Seed Corn Selection and Storage Week.

SPECIAL THIS WEEK

Chop Suey, Saturday Evening.
At The Lake Trail Cafe.

*The finest time on the farm by far
Was after the sun went down,
Along in September - when autumn leaves
Were yellow and russet brown;
When twittering cables of blackbirds flew
Across the gray twilight sky;
And tassel and blossom both told the tale
That Summer had drifted by.*

*Then over the ranks of the dead-ripe corn Hung low the round Harvest Moon,
While up in its tower, the old windmill crooned
Its mellow and home-like tune.
Then down by the barn in the old corral
Contented, the cattle lay
And chewed their cud while the cotton-tails Skipped round the new ricks of hay.*

*The bullfrogs were still in the swamp at last,
And deep in the stacks of grain
The chorus of crickets and katydids
Played on in a minor strain.
And dull was the eye or the ear that failed
To catch in the twilight there,
The wonderful message of peace that rode
The wings of the autumn air.*

"In an accident,"

said MRS. MOLLA PROPP,

"absence of body is better than presence of mind."

YOU know, my dear, I have always thought what a thrill it must be to run a motor boat. Well, the other day the Toms took us out in theirs... a perfectly gorgeous mahogany runabout.

Tom said it ran just like an automobile. You just step on the buzzer and push the thing forward and there you were.

He wanted me to try it and I remembered what he said about a boat being like an automobile. So I pushed the lever thing forward and away we went.

"Head for the dock," said Tom and I did... at thirty miles an hour. "Help!" I yelled, "Where is the brake!" I saw the dock coming straight for us. Tom yelled for me to throw her to starboard. "Where is the starboard and where do I throw it!" I shrieked. But just as we were going to slam into the dock I managed to turn the wheel and, my dear, we spun clear around like a top and went the other way.

I tell you I was paralyzed... just frozen to the wheel. I missed cat boats and cruisers and row boats and canoes by inches. Everybody was giving advice, the engine was roaring wide open, the spray was flying in clouds and... we were just traveling.

All at once we hit a sand bar and then we stopped so suddenly that everybody fell off the seats. Tom managed to turn off the exhaust and stop the engine.

And the men had to get into the water trying to pull the boat off, but it was no use and then it started to rain and there we sat for two hours until a big boat came and helped us.

Tom seemed rather proved at me, but it was all his fault and I told him so. Imagine a boat without brakes!

Hans Christian Andersen was born in 1805 and died in 1875. He was thirty years old and had written plays and novels before he began to set down his fairy tales. Remembered Fragrance

The "inacchi" is the dense tangle of arbutus, myrtle, thorn, laurel, broom and other flowering shrubs with which the mountainsides of Corsica are covered. The aromatic fragrance of it can be detected far out at sea. It was to this fragrance that Napoleon referred upon his deathbed, when, longing for the island of his birth, he said that he would know it by the smell of its soil, even though he were blindfolded.

Not Adapted to English

No less than eight Hebrew words are translated river in our English Bible. All have differing shades of meaning, ranging from watercourses only occasionally bearing water (Nachal), to rivers likely at times to be in overflow flood (Zeor). These delicate degrees of meaning are incapable of being reproduced in our more prosaic language.

Babylonian Canal

The river Uai beside which Daniel received an important prophetic vision (Daniel 8:2) was one of the canals by which water from the Euphrates was carried through some of Babylon's cross-streets for the use of the people living there, and to enrich the arable land within the walls wherefrom the city received much of its sustenance.

The DAIRY

GOOD LEGUME HAY VERY ESSENTIAL

Soy Beans Can Be Used in Emergency for Cows.

Legume hay is practically a necessity in producing milk at the lowest possible cost, asserts C. L. Blackman, extension specialist in dairying for the Ohio State university. And the dairy farmer who fears that he will run short of clover or alfalfa hay for his herd, need not be without a good legume hay.

"Soy beans can be used in an emergency to supply the necessary legume hay," says Blackman. If the beans are sowed early in June or immediately after corn planting they will usually be ready to cut the latter part of August. It is important that they be sown early in order to be ready for cutting at this time. Soy beans sowed too late and cut too late may provide either a poor quality of hay or none at all. They make hay which is sufficiently valuable to justify the dairy farmer in arranging his farm work so as to sow them when they should be sown.

"Soy bean hay is one of the most palatable hays for dairy cattle, and is practically equal in feeding value to alfalfa, which is the perfect hay for the dairy herd. The soy bean hay carries approximately the same amount of protein and mineral matter as alfalfa, but cows do not eat it up quite as cleanly as they eat up alfalfa, because of the coarser stems. Early sowing and cutting reduce the amount of waste due to this.

Many Dairymen Fail to Balance Their Rations

Many stock keepers fail to balance their rations because they feel it necessary to feed what they have at hand. For example: A farmer may have a large supply of alfalfa or clover and, knowing that this is an excellent feed, especially for dairy stock, he will feed too much protein, which will result in a loss of feed as well as production.

It probably would pay him very well to sell some of his alfalfa and buy corn or barley. On the other hand, he may have a large supply of timothy hay, corn silage and corn, and his rations woefully lack protein as well as minerals; for in our protein feeds we generally have a high per cent of minerals and vitamins.

There are many feeds in the form of forage, grains or mill stuff, and in any state or county they generally can be produced in sufficient quantities and at low enough prices to warrant profitable production of stock and stock products. But to obtain results it is necessary to give the animal a balance as to protein and carbohydrates. This also applies to minerals.

Dairy Hints

The effects of scant pasture in summer last far into the winter.

There are no known cures for abortion but there are precautions.

The price of butterfat is always highest in fall, winter, and early spring.

Cream can be more easily and more economically handled in the cooler weather.

Feeding good cows is more profitable than feeding poor ones. Cull out the boarder animals.

Butterfat production depends upon the inherited producing qualities of the cow, the kind and amount of feed, and the care and management given the cow.

There are many excellent commercial mixed protein feeds on the market which have the advantage over single protein concentrates like linseed meal, cottonseed meal, gluten feed, etc.

The value of feeding dairy cows well during the summer cannot be measured entirely in the milk production at that time. The better care has a beneficial effect that lasts over into the winter following.

When prices of dairy products are low it is a good time to put the herd on a more efficient basis of production. Cutting down the feed is not considered good economy; culling out inferior cows is a profitable practice.

A home-made calf meal can be made of equal parts by weight of hominy meal, red dog flour, linseed oil meal and blood flour

Commercial calf meals give fair results, and vigorous calves result from their use without milk after the calves are four weeks old.

Dairymen who feed liberally during July and August will largely avoid the decreased milk flow commonly ascribed to flies, since shortage of feed is really at the bottom of most of the trouble.

A Stranger in the Windy City

Chicagoan is glad to hear from readers on matters of general interest to the community. Letters sent to the above address
will receive prompt attention.

Chicago, Ill., Sept. 29—There's still indecision in Mentone regarding who should be known as its greatest man. I'm making no choice myself, but here's a tip if you are a lover of good cabbage. In last week's paper a man advertised that he would sell the best sauerkraut material in any amount you desired. His name was in the paper, you'll have to find it yourself.

Well, let's read the paper: On page 1, snapshots of the Fair, with a big hot dog stand right down in front. The artist knew that there would be so many things to see at the fair that you would get hungry before viewing them all—Page 2, a good mattress from L. P. Jefferies' and coal from Mentone Lumber Company, and you'll not spend any uncomfortable nights this winter.—Page 3, two editorial articles dealing with reform by abolishment. Poverty and religious sects are put on the pan. No use building homes unless there are homemakers to live in them says Mrs. Thomas Edison, in another article, while Charles Kinnison dashes off a few rhymes against conflicts, in "Just Thinkin'."

Now that was just the first three pages that I scanned. Who said that there's nothing to read in the Farm News? He's not the greatest man in in Mentone, unless it's the greatest numbskull that we're after.

Over around Doran Station, you leave your items at Black's Store, and among those left there last week was the one telling of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Tucker and others who attended the Igo family reunion in Lafayette last week. Establishing and maintaining family traditions is the first essential in a well organized government.

Accident claimed the life of Andrew Ritter, and despondency that of John Hettler, leaving two more gaps in your community life that will never be filled.

Welcome to the new correspondent from Palestine. There's nothing I enjoy more in a paper than lots of correspondence. And I don't mind it when the writer's take some digs at me either, although I have to wait a week before I can talk back to them. Come on you scribes of Burket! I dare you to say something about me.

"Axe Is The Best Treatment To Give Your Sick Turkeys", says a headline in last week's Farm News. No doubt that treatment is effective on other things, too, but the trouble is that the law prevents me from using an axe in two or three places I know of. You know of some of the same kind.

Now get out your pencils: If every one of the pullets hatched by that speedy hen of Chet L. Manwaring's, was to repeat the performance of its mother, and if the same record were to be maintained by each succeeding generation, how many chickens could Mr. Manwaring trace to that Leghorn at the end of ten years?.

The man sending in the right answer will be proclaimed one of the greatest men in Mentone.

Says WILL ROGERS

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal.—Well all I know is just what I read in the scandal sheets, and what I hold a clinic over as I prowled hither and yon. Well Sir I must tell you more about that mining town of "Bodie," Cal. It was one of the famous mining camps of later days, but had been practically deserted for years, but with the demand for gold here lately there was a revival of the famous old place. Harry Carr, one of the best newspaper men on this or any other coast, had been up there writing wonderful stories of what it meant to a mining town to be convalescing, and about to reach good health again. He claimed the thing was running almost as wide open as one of our big cities, that the gambling and drinking was in a small way on a comparison with New York or Los Angeles.

Well in my times (I am talking like one of the early Pioners), I have seen some of the boys foolishly, and at times otherwise, lay a small wager on the outcome of what later would be apparent as a hazardous game. And in passing by I had peeped in under swinging doors and there would be men sipping various nectars. Well Mrs. Rogers and I were just out prowling around. We were working on spoiling a fine old classic, and had been taking a great part of the scenes on the original site where the play was laid, at Lake Tahoe. Mr. Henry King, our Director, had told me that he had seen just about all of my face that he desired for exterior photographic purposes, and that if I wanted I could head for home, and as they had a few more days work without me I needn't be in any hurry to get to home. Well that was right up my alley. I bet a lot of you like this too.

We went down through all the old early 49 camps, Sutter Creek, Angels Camp, in Calaveras, that's the exact home of Mark Twain's Jumping frog, and really the story that did more to make Twain than any other one thing he ever did. They have a Frog Rodeo there every year, Frog Singing, Frog Jumping, and wind up by eating all the frogs that had contested, and everybody wind up with a Frog in their throat. Then Brete Hart was there and all his stories are around in that country. Jackson, one of the early ones, I had made two pictures there previously, and hadn't been back for ten years.

Then to Senora, another old timer, but which held on fine, and is today a real little town. Then over Senora pass. Scenery Oh Boy what views. But its getting late we must get to Bodie. Its away over near the Nevada line in the sage brush desert. My wife was afraid to go, she had read Carrs articles and she was looking for whooping, shooting, and gambling. Well the poor Devils the night before, just twenty four hours to correct time announcement, why the Pro-Hi's, had raided the place, broke all the booze in 13 saloons, put 15 men under 1500 hundred dollar bonds, and you should have seen the place this night. Our car was the only thing moving in the town. Indignation meetings consisted of two and three huddled in front of what had been a saloon door. It was still lighted up, but saspharilla was their diet. It was a real surprise raid. The mines hadn't opened that day, for they had had no sustenance for 24 hours and couldnt work. I talked with them, but it was almost like speaking over the body of a fallen comrade. Their voice was not only reverent but parched. They couldnt understand why they out of 120 million people should be discriminated against. Why should they be the only example of Prohibition? They felt that their work demanded as much or more liquid fortitude as is allowed toilers on Wall street. They estimated in low tones the amount of Bootleggers that these officers must have passed in their trip away out in this desert, from San Francisco where they had come. It will always remain in my memory as the deddest town I ever saw.

We used to have a rule that our government wouldn't recognize any new government that had come into power by force and revolution. Then somebody that had accidentally read our history happened to ask, "Well, how did our government come in power?" So now we recognize 'em no matter who they shot to get in. Yesterday we took in Argentina, Bolivia and Peru. All you have to promise is that you will buy something from us, even if it's only guns for the next revolution.

If Russia will just shave, and buy some tractors, we will recognize them. There is no such thing as a thief any more, as long as he can pay his way.

Mary

Although your name starts out with MAR, meaning to mark or to spoil, and having an ancient meaning of bitter, we will not despair.

As one popular song used to have it, "Mary is a grand old name."

Even with the ancient Chinese, MARI meant the spirit of motherhood, as Mary does today among the devout millions.

There have been a lot of Marys who have done things in a big way which may be due to the prevalence and commonness of the name. But I like to think that it is due to the force of the name that they accomplished as much as it was due to its popularity.

Among the ancients, especially in Hebrew, the latter part of your name indicates a lion, signified by ARI, equivalent to your ARY. And what a lion can be stirred up in you at the sight of injustice, or of the abuse of a weak or helpless one!

Your quick step to serve or to dance is made graceful by a strong and well-formed foot.

In fact, practically all of the muscles of your body co-ordinate well and react splendidly, like the lion concealed within your name.

Your namesakes, as we say, are legion. We may include the sadder ones. Mary, queen of Scots, with her dark pages of history, reddened with sacrifices; or Mary Magdalene, eulogized in song and story.

Again, we may turn to more happy ones of our own day and time, Mary Garden, Lady Mary Heath, who inspired with her darling; or, last but not least, our own Mary Pickford.

What will you do with your life, Mary? You can do nobly in your own little household, though unknown to the world. You can have a career if you want it, although all Marys pay too much for careers.

Farmers Who Are Interested in Better Eggs and Who Are Interested Enough to Help Themselves as Well as Us.

It goes without saying, that we have done more for the farmers in the way of egg price than any other buyer in Indiana, and have done more hard work to try to get a "Mark" on Indiana eggs than any other firm in New York City. We are working our heads off now trying to help you get more for eggs. Now, won't you please listen and try to follow our advice. We are not hoggish and don't ask all of this simply for our own benefit, but what helps us, sure will help you.

Now please try and adhere to the following advice for one year and see the results:

Get a good strain of straight blood poultry that lays a good sized egg (either white or deep brown) there is no difference in price now, and the general average price is about the same for equal quality eggs (size and cleanliness considered.)

Pick up your eggs every morning and evening, and carry a damp cloth with you, cleaning all traces of dirt off before it hardens and sticks to the shell.

DON'T WASH THEM,

But simply wipe them with a damp cloth and don't leave them streaked with dirt but clean them. Keep them in the coolest place about the house never allowing rain nor sun to touch them.

Use all ill-shaped eggs at home because they are broken in shipping. Market your eggs at equal intervals twice each week—that is, we would like to have them each Monday and Thursday or each Tuesday and Friday, rain or shine.

Keep every egg that you are not sure of being strictly fresh at home or ship them separately, as we don't want to spoil a case of nice eggs with a few of doubtful character, and you can't afford to sell such eggs, as it hurts you as bad as it does us, for we have to buy eggs on a basis of what we get for them, and if you slip in a few bad eggs on us, it only hurts our sales, and causes us to have to lower our price, so you see the fresher we get the eggs the more we get, and the more we can pay you. Never keep roosters with your hens after June 1.

Watch the size of your eggs and when they begin to run small, then feed them some good laying mash with a little Cod-liver oil in it or some soaked oats with a little Cod-liver oil in it or anything to keep the egg size up to not less than 23 ounces per dozen or over.

Now please try and follow this advice and let's work together and put our eggs in a class with California, Washington and Utah. The Pacific coast states ship eggs to New York City, and get from 3 to 10 cents more than your eggs bring, and it is because they ship fresh, clean, good-sized eggs graded up to a standard, which you can do if you will work as they work. Now if you will work as hard as we are, trying to put good eggs on the map, then we will show the market that Indiana has just as good eggs as any state in the union. We will do our best and now it's up to you who sell us eggs, to work as hard as we do.

Yours for Better Eggs.

POULTRY

CULL AND MARK PRODUCING HEN

Fall is a season of year when flocks of poultry should be culled, according to L. H. Schwartz of Purdue university. Getting rid of the nonproducers now means better living conditions for the birds which are left. It gives the better birds a chance to produce eggs from now on when the price of eggs begins to rise. It will also reduce the feed bill.

Poultry flocks should, of course, be culled regularly. Any birds which show indications of positive sickness, poor laying capacity and lacking in vigor should be culled whenever seen. This is the time when a number of birds will take a vacation from laying. The nonlaying bird will show a comb which is either dried or beginning to dry up, a close space between the pelvic bones and keel and between the pelvic bones themselves. The longer they are out of laying the heavier may be the deposit of fat on the pelvic bones.

The birds may also be in a molt. All molting may not be due to poor laying. It may be the result of feeding a ration which is not high in protein. Purdue university recommends the following ration to feed to laying birds: Grain, 300 pounds yellow corn and 200 pounds of wheat; mash, 100 pounds each of ground yellow corn, wheat bran and middlings; and 75 pounds of meat scrap.

It is very desirable also not only to cull the birds now, but to mark those which show every indication of being high producers. Those birds which show no molt have a large body capacity and have a large soft abdomen are the ones which should be marked as possible breeders for another year.

Many folks who have culled their flocks at this season of the year have received, actually, more eggs from the remainder of the flock than they did when they had the culls in with the whole flock.

Whitewash Henhouse in Fall for Winter Use

A coat of whitewash or cold water white paint on the inside walls of the poultry house will brighten up the interior and make it lighter during the winter months when the hen needs all the light she can get.

To make whitewash: Slack a half bushel of quicklime or lump lime with boiling water, keeping it covered during the process. Strain it and add a peck of salt dissolved in warm water, three pounds of ground rice boiled in water until it is a thin paste, a half pound of powdered Spanish whiting, and a pound of clear blue dissolved in water. Mix these together well and let the mixture stand for several days. Heat it and apply as hot as possible with a whitewash brush. Alum added to whitewash will make it stick better. Use an ounce to a gallon. Molasses makes the lime more soluble and makes it penetrate wood or plaster more deeply. Use a pint of molasses to a gallon of whitewash. A pound of cheap bar soap dissolved in a gallon of boiling water and added to five gallons of thick whitewash will give the finished job a gloss like that of an oil paint.

Let Wing Feathers on White Leghorns Alone

The practice of pulling out the wing feathers to prevent the birds from flying the fences (a vice especially peculiar to Leghorns) is both slovenly and harmful to the birds themselves. The butt end of the feather quill of a growing bird contains juices which are essential to its satisfactory development, and the wing feathers should therefore be cut, unless the poultryman wishes his birds to undergo a setback.

Probably it is cheaper in the long run to buy a good commercial pullet mash, ready mixed, rather than to mix one's own ingredients. Several well known firms of feed merchants supply excellent pullet mashes at a price which justifies the saving of labor and possible noting, however, that it is more than advisable to deal with a reputable firm in this matter.

Good Mash Feed

What is a good mash? That depends. If you have plenty of skim milk for your fowls, say a gallon daily to 30 hens, why then a mixture of such feeds as wheat middlings, ground oats, wheat bran and corn meal will do very nicely—with maybe a little meat scraps or high-grade tankage to tempt the appetite. But if you have no skim milk, the mash should contain 15 to 20 per cent of meat scraps or high-grade tankage with the other feeds mentioned.

Hens to Select

In selecting hens pick those that have capacity for feed. The little short, dumpy kind of a hen cannot consume enough feed to make her a profitable layer. Chickens with good capacity and good appetites are the ones that fill the egg basket. If chickens eat a lot of feed and still do not lay, it is time to look at the ration and find out what is lacking. One of the faults of many feeders is that they do not give their hens enough feed, rather than too much.

Ham From Average Hog

An average hog will yield approximately 13 per cent of its live weight in ham.

Penalty of Deceit

No man, for any considerable period, can wear one face to himself and another to the multitude, without finally getting bewildered as to which may be true.—Nathaniel Hawthorne.

A Gay Little Feather Is "the Touch That Tells"

The hat with a gay little feather speaks with a French accent. Paris milliners are posing clusters of bright wee quills and odd feathery motifs at the most unexpected places, maybe at the very peak of the crown or jabbed through at the back of the hat, and they adore Alpine effects.

Beadwork Flourishes on the Afternoon Frock

Beads, beads, beads! Everywhere in the mode they are saying "it" with beads. The "big idea" is for the daytime crepe frocks to be embroidered with beads as pictured or else carry a yoke of contrasting color worked with beads, preferably turquoise with black or brown. The jeweled tunic or frock is the dernier cri. The amazing thing about this new fashion is that these allover starred-with-jewels frocks are a daytime theme when interpreted in dark colors.

JUST THINKIN'

by Charles S. Kinnison.

When I'm Away

When I've been away on a visit,
Whatever the pleasure and fun,
Or times, that I've had—
I find that I'm glad
The day that my visit is done.

However I may prize the friendship
Of friends that I meet as I roam,
I still must confess
That nevertheless
I'm eager and glad to go home.

Nor do I believe that you blame me
For feeling the way that I do.
For is it not so
That wherever you go,
Your home is still calling to you?

Yes, home is the place where my heart is,
However far from it I roam.
So that's why I say
That when I'm away
I look to the time to go home!

UNEMPLOYMENT SITUATION SEEMS TO BE ON THE VERGE OF IMPROVEMENT.

A trust company in Hartford City sold three farms in one day Monday. Sounds like the record and it "listens good."

The Dudlo Company and the Inca Company manufacturers of insulated wire which is indispensable in making motor and machine appurtenances—such as meters, etc., are advertising for wire workers in Fort Wayne papers. The Dudlo was employing 6000 persons prior to the Wall street crash which caused the cancellation of orders.

The Indiana Limestone Company, an Indiana corporation whose product is Bedford building stone, ships sixty-five car loads of cut stone a day and employs in the manufacture of the valuable building material 3500 men and has a payroll of a million dollars a month. This Indiana product—toward the development of which the Indiana Conversation department has been so helpful in the past years,—is used in about 70 per cent of the buildings used for public and business purposes in the country.

Beach & Arthur Inc. are erecting a new plant in Indianapolis for the manufacture of paper, which will call for an expanded payroll.

The American Foundry Company of Indianapolis is making rapid progress in the erection of its new plant in which 650 men will be employed.

The Marmon Company reports an increase in demand for cars of 100 per cent in September over August of 1930. The factory in Indianapolis is being operated on a full time basis.

BUSINESS ON THE UPGRADE

By POWELL CROSLLEY, JR., President Crosley Radio Corporation.

IT HAS been said that good or bad business is largely the result of a state of mind. When every one believes that business is good, people buy freely and prices go up. All along the line there is buying in anticipation of requirements, and price advances, rather than actual needs.

The United States has unexcelled production facilities and our factories keep pace with the growth of business optimism, instead of being governed by the fundamental law of supply and demand. When business is good we all think it is a lot better than really is the case, and when it is bad, we likewise think it is much worse than is really true.

When something happens to change the state of mind of people, conservation and pessimism rule. The public thinks hard times exist and buys only when there is the direst need for merchandise. Production drops and prices are reduced in an effort to stimulate business that does not exist.

As the world's greatest individual market, this country soon absorbs surplus stocks when there is a sharp decline in production, such as occurred last winter and spring. Every sign points to the fact that business in the United States has met the turn in the road and is on the upgrade.

There should be rapid improvement, and I, for one, feel most optimistic about the future and anticipate a more rapid come-back than might be hoped for had the depression of the past few months come more gradually instead of abruptly, as was the case.

Think It Over

It would be easy to succeed if you never had any difficulties to encounter, but the thing that should absorb your attention is the possibility of succeeding in spite of difficulties.

Stewardship

Whatever high station you may be placed in by fortune, remember this, that God will not estimate you by the office, but by the manner in which you fill it.—Channing.

Music of the Farm

by A. J. Dunlap

They talk about the music of the far off host of stars,
 Of songs the winding river sings across its sandy bars.
 I've heard the echo in the hills of breezes singing there,
 And heard the prima donna sing with roses
 in her hair;
 But when I want a harmony that's full of homely charm,
 Then I recall the music of the dear old peaceful farm—
 The mellow songs of meadow larks that rose to meet the day,
 Co-mingled with the blatant bawl of cattle far away;
 The distant neighing of a horse and barking of a dog
 All tangled with the cry of sheep and squeal of hungry hog.
 Then over all I hear a voice half full of wild alarm
 That pierces like a trumpet blare the quiet of the farm;
 And everywhere it bears the news through orchard, field and glade—Behind the salt barrel in the bin, the speckled hen has laid.

DELEGATE TICKET TO COUNTY CONVENTION OF 1888

(From Warsaw Times)

Old-timers would be interested in a glance at a delegate ticket to Kosciusko county Republican convention held on April 18, 1888, and brought to The Times office this week by C. L. Manwaring. The old ticket was printed in this office and shows the American flag in colors. The ticket contains the names of James H. Cisney, chairman, and William B. Funk as secretary. The ticket was enclosed in a letter from "G. R. C.," sent from Cleveland, O., to H. H. Mills at Mentone, in which the writer said:

"In rummaging among some old souvenirs today, I ran across the enclosed delegate ticket to the Republican convention at Warsaw, forty-two and one-half years ago, and it occurred to me that it would interest you and your friends that are still residents of Kosciusko county

"I imagine Funk and Cisney are no longer on earth. If they are they would be amused to see the ticket no doubt. Think of it, in 71½ years the ticket will be 50 years old, if you keep it. I would suggest that you show it to your local newspaper. Then send me a copy if the editor mentions it. If he is a live editor he can put up a very interesting story. I was a delegate to the convention. I recall that Albert J. Beveridge, just out of college, made a remarkable speech in Mentone in that campaign. Art Manwaring introduced him to the audience."

Here's the Fast Way to Pick Your Corn

The New McCormick-Deering FARMALL Two-Row Picker

THE new McCormick-Deering Two-Row Power Corn Picker is built especially for the FARMALL Tractor and operated through the power take-off. It picks and husks 16 to 18 acres a day.

This modern corn picker is easily controlled from the tractor seat. It will enter a field on any two rows and pick them clean without disturbing adjacent rows.

The gatherers raise the down and leaning stalks, the chains carry the stalks back, forcing them against snapping rolls, the ears are quickly snapped, elevated to the husking rolls, and then delivered to the wagon which is hitched directly to the center of the tractor drawbar. Trash is eliminated by a new process, exclusive on McCormick-Deering Corn Pickers.

See us now about the FARMALL Two-Row Picker. We can also give you information on the FARMALL One-Row Picker and the One-Row Tank Picker.

FARM POULTRY

BUCKWHEAT GOOD FATTENING FEED

Buckwheat is a pretty good fattening feed for turkeys. Some prefer barley and corn, however. Either barley or oats, if mixed with buttermilk and the hulls removed, would be a preferable mixture. The buckwheat has the objectionable quality of having a woody, fibrous hull which is not good feed. A mixture of all three or four would do pretty well.

Some records sent in give the costs of feeding one part ground oats with hulls removed and two parts buttermilk as being 6½ cents per pound, while the cost of feeding on equal parts ground barley, oats, and corn, with the oat and barley hulls removed and with the same relative amount of buttermilk, averaged about the same. A mixture of 200 parts corn meal, 100 parts ground oats, hulls removed, 50 parts red dog flour, 3 parts tallow, 703 parts buttermilk, averaged a cost of about 5 cents per pound.

Using equal parts ground oats and barley, hulls removed, one part beef scraps and eight parts buttermilk, the cost was shown to be 4½ cents per pound. Of course, these costs were not figured lately, but the comparisons remain. The Cornell fattening ration of 100 pounds corn meal, 100 pounds buckwheat middlings, 100 pounds oat flour, 30 pounds beef scraps, and one part charcoal, is considered, too, a very fattening ration.

Sodium Fluoride Best for Destroying Vermin

Sodium fluoride is one of the best substances to use for getting rid of chicken lice. It can be purchased at almost any drug store. It can be applied by the "pinch" method, or by mixing with four parts of talc or fine dust and using a dusting can or by making a dip. The pinch method is most commonly used. In this method the hen is held in such a way that the feathers loosen up and one pinch is applied to the head, one on the neck, two on the back, one on the breast, one below the vent, one on the tail, one on each thigh and one on the underside of each wing. This application should be repeated in about eight days so as to kill the lice that were in the egg form during the first application.

Blue ointment is usually mixed with equal portions of grease. Three pea-sized portions are rubbed into the feathers—one around the vent and the other two under each wing.

If head lice are present it is usually better to apply some lard with 10 to 20 per cent kerosene thoroughly mixed with it or with 5 per cent of carbolic acid.

Poultry Hints

Man has to hustle, but a hen makes money "laying around."

Sick birds should be segregated and proper remedies applied. Probably vaccination is as good a remedy and preventative as can be used.

The value of clean feed in preventing poultry disease is being realized more and more by poultrymen. All feed should be given to chicks in clean troughs or hoppers.

It is a good plan, when starting into the turkey raising business, or if in it now, to plan the production program over a period of more than one year. If this is done yards can be planned so that they may be rotated and so that the poulters can be raised on fresh ground.

Poor layers have the opposite characteristics of those given to be used in the selection of breeders. They have thick, rigid pelvic bones; but two or three finger widths spans between these and the rear of the keel bone.

If a strict separation of turkeys and chickens is to be secured, as is vitally necessary for success with the former, the producer is obliged to raise his poulters in confinement. In addition to the value of this method in preventing disease it also has its merits in that the poulters can be given closer supervision.

Hens don't stop laying to molt. They molt when they stop laying. Of course, it's natural for them to let up on egg production, so they can grow their new winter coats.

BEVERLY HIL."S.—Well all I know is just what I read in the papers, and what I get through the mail. Arthur Brisbane and I have been having a good natured kidding through the papers about Russia. Arthur kinder believes that Russia should be recognized, and me I dont know whether they should or not. Lora, thats a Diplomatic business not mine. I am not getting Diplomatic wages. I am only getting acting wages. But thats got nothing to do with it. what I am getting at is the interesting letters this fellow Brisbane writes. I am going to show you one he wrote me that I just got. My Dear Rogers:

Now that I have established your credit as a multi-millionaire, and that you have destroyed mine by making me out in the public prints as destitute, which by the way I regret to say is an extremely accurate description, let us talk seriously about Russia. This country including its brightest intellects, even your own, fail to appreciate the importance of what is going on in Russia.

You know that when Louie the sixteenth came back from shooting at Fontainebleau on a certain 14th of July he wrote in his diary, "Rein," meaning in the French language, "Nothing." He hadent shot anything, and he simply wrote down that nothing had happened. BUT that was the 14th of July on which the Bastille was destroyed, and later as a consequence of that "Rein" day, they just casually chopped off his head.

The King of Persia asked, "Where is Greece?" and said to his royal remembrancer, "Remind me sometime to go down and destroy that little Country." His descendants learned about Greece when Alexander came from Macedonia with 30,000 men and sent him flying to his death, went through his line of war Elephants and took his Country.

All of which leads up to the fact that Will Rogers should study and analyze, and understand Russia, not dispose of it with a wave of a hand, like some foolish Wall Street Broker who buys Kerensky Bonds and belly-aches because they are not paid. We didnt pay the bonds issued by the South.

I have no doubt that the Russian experiment will fail eventually, being based on pretense of unselfishness and brotherly love, which have no existence among human beings.

But its experiments in industry, in world competition and efficiency may cost some of the old Capitalist civilizations dear, if they ignore it. Alexanders Empire fell, dwindling down to the Cleopatra and Mark Anthony foolishness, but not until he had put an end forever to the old Persia. So you ought to warn your readers to not underate Russia. Many years ago when you was a little Boy (Thanks for that kind compliment Arthur), I told Klaw, Erlanger, Frohman and Brady that someday Movies would sweep the country and be in every town. They thought I was crazy. Well look and see.

Now you take old Cato with his "Carthage must be destroyed" and keep saying every day at the end of your "piece" in diamond type, "Watch and beware of Russia." This is talked into my phonograph in my automobile on my way in from Long Island to New York, hence the length. Yours sincerely, A. Brisbane.

Now wasent that a fine letter. You know he is a great fellow. And he is sincere about this Russia thing too. He does know enough about it to know that they are going som-where, and we better watch out while they are on the way. I think on the other hand that he has kinder been Propagandered on em, and he has perhaps got the brighter side, for they were a pretty set of fellows. I visited them in 1926. But all that Cato, and Carthage, and Persia and Greece, and Macedonia, and Louie the sixteenth, and "Rein" and all that was lost on me. He was getting a long way from Russia telling about all those old Birds. But the Rascal can quote anything. And I guess he is right, anyhow I havent got time to look it up, any man as high salaried and busy as he is, that will sit down and take his valuable time to write my stuff for me, I am not going to find any faults with it as to facts. I will disagree with him every day if he will write my article for me. Anyhow if I ever answer him, I cant talk about those old fellows. I will have to refer him to Senator Grandy, Al Capone, Tom Heffin, Almee, and just the ones that I know. But anyhow Arthur, I am much obliged to you, and will take care of Russia from now on.

HOW TO LIVE LONGER

By John Clarence Funk, A.M., Sc.D.

Director of Public Health Education,

Look Out for This!

A MAN and his wife who apparently were in the best of health retired one night recently and never got up. Investigation indicated that asphyxiation was the cause of their deaths. Which suggests the fact that one need not step out of the house to get killed.

An individual may be ever so careful regarding the annual physical examination, the semi-annual dental visit, diet, rest, exercise, fresh air and the other living rules, and yet have all these things count for naught because of carelessness or thoughtlessness in the home.

For instance, millions who are using gas appliances must understand that even though the manufacturers have taken every precaution to prevent the misuse of their products, they are compelled to rely upon the exercise of ordinary care in their operation. That this fact is not properly appreciated is clearly indicated by the many accounts of asphyxiation.

Leaky gas pipes, worn out valves and especially, deteriorated hose connections, in this manner, continue to take an entirely preventable toll of life.

Mechanical devices, no matter how perfectly manufactured, require a periodic overhauling and inspection. Lacking this attention it is easily possible for serious or fatal accidents to occur.

Don't imagine that modern household appliances, notwithstanding their scientific construction, can be purchased and then safely left for years without repairs. They cannot!

Remember this, also. Gas heaters need sufficient air for proper combustion. This is not possible to obtain in an unventilated room. Incomplete combustion means carbon monoxide. And carbon monoxide in appreciable quantities means death.

MENTONE PUBLIC SCHOOLS

Interesting Items Pertaining to This Institution of Education.

Chas. Cole, Editor.

As we start the second month the school is fully organized and each part is functioning perfectly under the direction of Mr. Kelley—the morale of the entire school seems to be very high. One of the first things Mr. Kelley did when he took charge was to have a telephone installed in his office so that he can acquire what information he wishes without sending a messenger.

The students are taking a very active interest in physical education this year. In former years this branch was only taught in the larger schools—now it is being taught throughout the state. With Mr. Goshert instructing, the course is very interesting.

Another subject which is rather new in the High School is the class of music, under the direction of Miss Bowen. The instructor and some of the class are working on an operetta. These entertainments have always been very successful in preceding years.

Mr. Champer is teaching about the same subjects that he taught last year, and the same can be said of Miss Sutherlin. We seem to have a well organized staff of instructors this year and sincerely hope that it can remain so.

We have ninety-nine students in the high school this year which is the largest attendance that the school has known for some time.

The enrollment of the H. S. and grades are as follows: Seniors 19; Juniors 20; Sophmores 25; Freshmen 35; Grades: Eighth grade 34; Seventh grade 23; sixth grade 20; Fifth grade 33; Fourth Grade 21; Third grade 13; Second grade 25; First grade 24.

If we can get permission of the student author and Miss Southerlin, one of the short stories which was written last month will appear in the paper. The best one of course. She said that the stories were fine.

HONOR ROLL HIGH SCHOOL

Seniors—Leatia Goodman, John Teel.

Juniors—Kathleen Anderson Bethel Eiler, Dorothy Norris, Elizabeth Welch.

Sophomores—Ellanor Lawrence.
Freshmen—Vadis Elck, Eleanor

Lash, Margaret Linn, Ruth Rush, Gladys Shoemaker, Mary Whetstone, Jack Bush, John Doran, Harold East, Charles Fisher, Rex Remy.

Sporting Events.

The base ball team seems to be unusually strong this year, as they have played many good teams and have yet to lose their first game. The only way to account for this is that Mentone is just a little better than the average team. We have played eight games, and two of the eight were completely "cured."

The line-up of the Piercetion-Mentone game played Friday, was as follows: Nellans, c; Blue, p; P. Blue, 1st b; Barkman, 2nd b; Lyons, 3rd b; Blackburn, s. s; Hipsher, 1. f; Teel, c. f; E. Long, r. f. The score was Piercetion 1, Mentone 18. The one run of Piercetion Mr. Kelley said was made on an error. The boys have played nine games this season with one more to play at Milford.

Mr. Goshert called a meeting for all boys interested in "coming out" for basket ball. Twenty-five were present and we should have a promising team.

SPECIAL SUBSCRIPTION RATE.

The Farm News will be sent to any pupil or instructor of the school until July 1, 1931 for the low price of 35c. This is less than one cent per week and is available only to pupils of the school. Subscriptions should be given to the editor of the school column; Chas. Cole. Remember this rate applies to pupils and instructors only.

A HUSTLING BUSINESS MAN.

George Black, at Doran Station, is a wide-awake business man, and the steady increase in his sales shows that regardless of location, if you let the people know what you have, treat them right and sell goods at a reasonable price, a paying business is bound to result. Notwithstanding the fact that he has the only store at Doran he uses considerable space to advertise his wares in the Farm News. "Trade with Black and save Your Jack" seems to produce results.

Charleston's History

Charleston, S. C., formerly Charles-town, was founded as an English city in 1670, and by 1775 was the third city of importance in America. It was incorporated as a city in 1783, under the Constitution, and until 1790 was the capital of the state. In 1786 the South Carolina legislature ordered Columbia to be laid out as a capital city on account of its more central position, and in January, 1790, the state legislature met in Columbia for the first time.

POULTRY

PLAN TO FATTEN HOLIDAY TURKEYS

The marketing season for turkeys is from about the middle of November to the last of December.

Confining turkeys during the fattening season has not proved successful. They will eat heartily for two or three days, but after this they will lose their appetite and begin to lose flesh rapidly. Naturally, they are wild birds and thrive only when they have access to open range. During the summer and fall they find an abundance of feed on the average farm; however, it is advisable to give them a small feed at night for the purpose of bringing them home to roost. Grasshoppers and other insects, weeds and grass seeds, green vegetation, berries and grain picked up in the fields and about go to make up the turkey's daily ration, and when all these are plentiful they are in splendid condition when the fattening season arrives.

A satisfactory plan for fattening is to begin by feeding small grain night and morning, not enough at a time but that the birds will walk away still a little hungry, and gradually increase the quantity, adding some corn, until they are given all they will eat three times a day. Along at the close of the fattening season corn, supplemented with fresh sour milk, may constitute the full ration. New corn may be fed safely provided the turkeys are gradually accustomed to it, otherwise scours may result.

Various kinds of nuts are a natural fattening feed picked up by turkeys on the range. In parts of Texas many growers, properly situated, depend solely on acorns for fattening their turkeys, and when the mast is plentiful the birds are marketed in fairly good condition.

Use Lights in Poultry House During Winter

A series of cautions for the user of lights in the poultry house is found in the Ohio state poultry calendar. They are as follows:

Grade and pen pullets according to age, condition, and laying qualities, so that each group may be properly handled.

Excessive fall production makes it hard to keep the flock in heavy production during the winter.

Don't use lights to produce more than a 14-hour day. Excessive use of lights means overproduction, followed by a slump.

To avoid a spring molt, discontinue lights slowly in the spring.

Use lights on breeders only after January 1 to 15, in order to help them back into production.

Don't crowd production over 60 per cent, otherwise the flock will become thin and molt.

Be regular in management and use of lights.

Feed grain liberally when using lights.

Always have feed and water available when lights are on.

Do not turn lights off too early in the spring.

Early Layers Usually Heavy Egg Producers

Pullets that begin to lay early usually are the heaviest producers in the flock and for this reason it is an excellent practice to mark them so that they can be given due consideration for their performance next year when it comes time to cull the flock. It is pointed out by L. E. Card, of the University of Illinois. Pullets that are extremely late in starting to lay are always certain to be the least desirable birds to use as breeders. In breeding for higher egg production, individuals of this type should be kept out of the breeding pens.

If the early-laying pullets are banded with numbered leg bands, all that is necessary is to make a record of the individual band numbers and the approximate date on which egg laying starts. Another equally satisfactory scheme is to use colored leg bands, in which case a different colored band should be used to mark the pullets that start laying in the different months.

Laying Hen Sings

A laying hen is usually a singing hen and happiness is encouraged by plenty of good oat or wheat straw on the floor. Practical poultrymen differ as to the respective merits of wheat, rye, and oat straw for litter. Each has been used without any noticeable differences as to wearing and sanitary qualities. Rye straw is somewhat stiff and oat straw breaks rather readily. The best advice is to use what is convenient and keep the house in good sanitary condition.

Cause of Fowl Typhoid

Thank your lucky stars if you've never met up with Eberthella sanguinarum. She's the germ that causes fowl typhoid, a most destructive disease. It acts much like fowl cholera, the birds becoming dull, droopy, with pale combs and a greenish or yellowish diarrhoea. Death usually isn't as rapid as with cholera. One mark of typhoid is that the liver enlarges and becomes a brownish or greenish color, while the kidneys look faded, as if cooked.

Christ's Many Titles

There were a great many titles applied to Christ. Among the best known are Emanuel, Wonderful, Counsellor, Mighty God, Everlasting Father, Prince of Peace (Isaiah, 9:6). At the time of the crucifixion Pontius Pilate bestowed the title upon Jesus of King of the Jews (Luke, 23:38). Jesus described Himself as the Way, the Truth and the Life, the Good Husbandman, the Light of the World, the Son of Man and the Son of God.

Foolscap

Paper in sheets 13 by 16 or 17 inches was watermarked, by old time paper makers, with a fool's cap and bells. Hence the name. Why it was so marked is something else again. One account states that in the Cromwellian days, after the monarchy had been overthrown and the royal paper monopolies set aside, the foolscap watermark was ordered into the paper by parliament, in place of the royal arms, as a token of derision.

Nellie

Nellie, as a name, has been much misused. From the time that Foster wrote his famous lines, "Oh, My Nellie Grey, they have taken her away," to our present day, Nellie seems to always be the subject for the villain in the melodrama of life.

The Firm Mouth of Nellie.

Even the vaudeville team must have its little fun with the phrase, "he ain't done right by our little Nell." Nevertheless there is hope for you, Nellie, by the simple addition of dignity to your character.

This can be achieved best by centering the attention of others to the firmness of your mouth and the quiet, penetrating scrutiny of your keen eyes.

You have a very keen, intuitional mind, coupled with a soft and gentle heart. This makes a warfare within you when striving to make a choice between what your mind plainly tells you, and what the emotions of your heart insist upon.

Since your heart will win in most cases you will need to use extra care to set your mind aright, in the first place, before the battle starts.

Childhood trails and secrets

That little birds will tell,
Were known to her 'most always,
For the children, too, love Nell.

And your greatest hold on life is your motherhood of everything around you. Your love for children and the birds and flowers and bees will bring your greatest happiness, Nellie.

After all what else are we looking for on earth but happiness?

Of course if that mothering gets extensive enough it might even cover a whole state as demonstrated in the life of another Nellie, Mrs. Ross, former governor of the state of Wyoming.

Chicagoan is glad to hear from readers on matters of general interest to the community. Letters sent to the above address
will receive prompt attention.

Chicago, Ill., Oct. 6—Last week marked the end of the fair season, and the Farm News comments on the benefits derived by towns when such events are staged. It then suggests that Mentone business men agree on something which will bring a like amount of people to Mentone. That Weiner Roast for Hallow'en sounds mighty good, and there is still plenty of time in which to plan and make arrangements for it.

From Mentone, last week, came to my desk two most interesting letters. Each of the letter's was devoted to a discussion of the comparative greatness of a Mentone citizen. The writers' name will not be divulged, nor will I name the men mentioned, at this time. I will only say that both men follow rather humble walks in life, but they have built up businesses and characters under the most trying circumstances.

I was very glad to receive these letters, because they showed that in Mentone, other things besides the acquiring of fame and fortunes are considered in your definition of "great."

Our new correspondent from Palestine, last week, also noted a neighborly act that speaks very highly of the quality of the citizenship of the people of the community. Neighbors and brother church members gathered at the Alva Bowers home and spent a day cutting his corn, a piece of work Mr. Bowser could not attend to because of a recent operation. That was a real sermon in applied Christianity, the text for which might have been, "Who is my neighbor."

Some years ago, when I was engaged in planning direct-by-mail campaigns, we maintained what was known as "select lists" of the names of the most likely to buy certain products. If I was given the job of compiling such a list of prospects for the sale of the baby bed advertised last week by Mrs. W. W. Whetstone. I could do no better than read the Farm News which endeavors to chronicle all the births in the community—and the weddings, too.

From the Talma News Items I learn that Mr. and Mrs. Peter Horn attended the Warsaw fair, and I have no doubt but that a number of Talma people will also attend Mentone's Weiner Roast, should that delightful affair be staged.

Basket ball has taken the center of the stage at Beaver Dam, and last week our correspondent triumphantly reported the 11 to 10 victory scored by Beaver Dam over Atwood.

Talk of fairs, weiner roasts, basket ball and harvesting corn, reminds me that fall is again at hand, but why should anyone dread fall, or winter either, for that matter, just as long as The Lake Trail Cafe continues to serve Chop Suey on Saturday evenings.

WEHRLY—FEAR

Harley Wehrly, son of Mrs. Clara Wehrly, of Mentone, and Miss Mable Fear, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Fear of near North Manchester, were united in marriage at the United Brethren parsonage at Athens on Tuesday September 30. The single ring ceremony was performed by Rev. Loganbaugh in the presence of the parents of the young couple. A wedding supper was served at six o'clock at the bride's home to the following: Mr. and Mrs. Harley Wehrly, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Fear and daughter Larne, and sons Coyd and Virgil, Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Carter and sons Junior, Jene and Harold of Fort Wayne; Mrs. Clara Wehrly and daughter Stella, of Mentone, Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Schaaf and daughters Hazel and Carrie of near Fierceton and Mr. and Mrs. Dean Faroute and family of near Silver Lake. The marriage took place on the silver wedding of the bride's parents.

Farmers Who Are Interested in Better Eggs and Who Are Interested Enough to Help Themselves as Well as Us.

It goes without saying, that we have done more for the farmers in the way of egg price than any other buyer in Indiana, and have done more hard work to try to get a "Mark" on Indiana eggs than any other firm in New York City. We are working our heads off now trying to help you get more for eggs. Now, won't you please listen and try to follow our advice. We are not hoggish and don't ask all of this simply for our own benefit, but what helps us, sure will help you.

Now please try and adhere to the following advice for one year and see the results:

Get a good strain of straight blood poultry that lays a good sized egg (either white or deep brown) there is no difference in price now, and the general average price is about the same for equal quality eggs (size and cleanliness considered.)

Pick up your eggs every morning and evening, and carry a damp cloth with you, cleaning all traces of dirt off before it hardens and sticks to the shell.

DON'T WASH THEM,

But simply wipe them with a damp cloth and don't leave them streaked with dirt but clean them. Keep them in the coolest place about the house never allowing rain nor sun to touch them.

Use all ill-shaped eggs at home because they are broken in shipping. Market your eggs at equal intervals twice each week—that is, we would like to have them each Monday and Thursday or each Tuesday and Friday, rain or shine.

Keep every egg that you are not sure of being strictly fresh at home or ship them separately, as we don't want to spoil a case of nice eggs with a few of doubtful character, and you can't afford to sell such eggs, as it hurts you as bad as it does us, for we have to buy eggs on a basis of what we get for them, and if you slip in a few bad eggs on us, it only hurts our sales, and causes us to have to lower our price, so you see the fresher we get the eggs the more we get, and the more we can pay you. Never keep roosters with your hens after June 1.

Watch the size of your eggs and when they begin to run small, then feed them some good laying mash with a little Cod-liver oil in it or some soaked oats with a little Cod-liver oil in it or anything to keep the egg size up to not less than 23 ounces per dozen or over.

Now please try and follow this advice and let's work together and put our eggs in a class with California, Washington and Utah. The Pacific coast states ship eggs to New York City, and get from 3 to 10 cents more than your eggs bring, and it is because they ship fresh, clean, good-sized eggs graded up to a standard, which you can do if you will work as they work. Now if you will work as hard as we are, trying to put good eggs on the map, then we will show the market that Indiana has just as good eggs as any state in the union. We will do our best and now it's up to you who sell us eggs, to work as hard as we do.

Yours for Better Eggs.

HOUSE PULLETS EARLY IN FALL

The mistake is often made of allowing the pullets to remain upon the growing range too long. If the birds are healthy and all other conditions are correct, there is no reason why they should not be removed to the laying houses just as soon as they reach maturity.

Flocks hatched in March or earlier are ready for the permanent quarters after midsummer. If we leave them on the range too long, they will start laying, and the result is that a later removal to the laying house will stop production or slow it up. One of the surest ways to bring on a premature molt is the removal of pullets, already laying, to new quarters.

We naturally expect pullets, which start production in the summer, to have a late molt, but it is a serious matter when this molt comes on two months before we ought to expect it. I believe we should hatch the pullets at a time that will bring them to maturity at just the time we want them to start laying, says a writer in the Indiana Farmers' Guide. At any rate, the mature birds should not be left on the range after they are ready to start laying. Leghorns, and other egg breeds, should be ready for housing at five months of age, while the large breeds need another month to reach maturity.

It is a good plan to start feeding the egg mash at about the time the birds reach maturity. We should not feed too heavily of egg-making mash until they are mature. It is a mistake to force early production at the expense of size. Immature pullets lay small eggs and that is not a desirable condition.

Clean up the houses and be ready for the pullets just as early as you begin to find eggs about the range. House them at this time and you will find it will make a good deal of difference in the production of the flock during the fall and winter.

Supply Needed Minerals to Aid Egg Production

It has been estimated that the shell of an average egg is 8 per cent of the egg, and that a hen with a yearly production of 100 eggs requires 1.6 pounds of minerals to cover her egg production, besides what she needs in the line of mineral matter for the upkeep of her own body. It is the lack of this mineral matter that causes a hen to start the egg-eating, or the feather-picking habits. Both of these vices are due to a large extent, to a deficiency in the ration of some element that the fowls are craving.

Keeping oyster shell before the hens continually helps to supply minerals to a considerable extent. Fresh bones run through a bone grinder supply much needed elements. In some towns bones may be obtained from the local butcher shops.

In Ohio a good formula for supplying the mineral matter to the hens' ration has been worked out. This consists of 60 per cent finely ground bone meal, 20 per cent finely ground limestone and 20 per cent salt. This is thoroughly mixed, and 4 per cent is added to the mash in place of meat scraps. If less than 10 per cent of meat scraps is used both the mineral ration and the meat scraps may be included in the mash.

Poultry Items

Sweet or sour milk seems to give equally good results in chick feeding.

Colds and roup are preventable diseases. If we remove the causes the diseases will not occur.

Watch for the pullets that lay early, and mark them. They make the high producers—the ones to get next spring's hatching eggs from.

A chicken may now be hatched by electricity, raised and grown with an electric brooder and electric light, and finally cooked for your table by the same energy.

The vitality and vigor of the stock must be conserved. If one breeds from weak and diseased stock there will be constant trouble with colds and roup.

Leghorn pullets should not be in to lay until they are from five to six months old. General purpose breeds take about a month longer.

Carbolineum, creosote, or crude carbolic acid make the best spray material to use in poultry houses to keep down red mites.

Although it may seem that the birds are foraging an adequate food supply during the summer, their ration is often incomplete, and is very frequent short in protein. Feeds rich in this material are not always grown on the farm, and is a direct result of the deficiency.

Geese are the best grazers of all poultry. A large part of their diet after the first four weeks is composed of green feed. For this reason they cannot be raised successfully unless feed of this kind is furnished.

ILL FOR YEARS: KONJOLA MAKES QUICK RESCUE

Indianapolis Lady, Bedridden
For Six Months, Finds First Relief In New Medicine.

(MRS. MARGARET PARKER)

"I am only 24 years of age but I have known a lot of sickness," said Mrs. Margaret Parker, 105 North Bloomington street, Indianapolis. "About four years ago I developed kidney and bowel trouble. My back pained me fearfully and my liver became sluggish. My limbs swelled to nearly twice their normal size and my joints became sore and stiff. I finally became utterly helpless and was confined to my bed for six months.

"It was not long after I began taking Konjola that I experienced a relief that was remarkable. Pain and suffering passed away and the stiffness left my joints. The swelling went down and in less than a month I was able to be up and around. To this day I have not suffered another moment from rheumatism. Every day I grow more thankful for the health this great medicine brought me."

And so it goes—the same glad story whenever this great medicine is given a chance to make good.

Relic of Old Rome

A Roman milestone bearing the name of Caesar Augustus was discovered in Italy at Levante di Diana Marina, along the ancient Via Aurelia not far from the frontier station of Ventimiglia. The milestone marked the 553d mile from Rome, and has this number cut on it in Roman numerals. Experts say the milestone belonged to the old military road which ran from Rome to Gaul.

Success

A man there was, and he made his prayer
To his miserly pile of gold!
And he lost his smile—but he didn't care,
And his heart grew stern and cold.
He worked, and he fought, from sun to sun,
With nothing in mind but this.
He had no time for laughter and fun—
Not even a baby's kiss.

He chuckled with glee, at his bank account—
And he said to himself: "I'm smart!"
As day by day it continued to mount,
While greediness grew in his heart.
The years moved on, and after a while
He finally came to the end.
And he left behind him a wealthy pile
Of gold—but never a friend!

CRIME WAVE REVOLT OUTCOME

By DR. RALPH M. CRISSMAN, Detroit (Presbyterian).

Our American Christian civilization is jeopardized by the modern revolt against authority and we are reaping a whirlwind from the seeds of unbelief that have been sown. The present wave of crime is a direct result of the revolt against authority. For the last 25 years there has been in America an assault on the very fundamentals of Christianity—weak and negative at first; bold, strong and arrogant now—and this assault has developed to an alarming point.

It is a revolt against God, and the logical outcome is a cyclone of crime, dishonesty, impurity and indecency. We have so far forgotten God and his ideals that today our record stands as a disgrace to decency and righteousness.

The church, which has been going into dry rot spiritually, must renew itself. America stands at the parting of the ways. Only an old-fashioned revival of religion can put gangland out of business overnight.

In the revolt against authority many have been teaching a personal God, the Bible is made light of, and the cross of Christ is reduced to kindling wood.

Actually the revolt is a revolution against morality. Today, man's rights are in collision with God's. Possibly a little more home punishment, school discipline and even capital punishment would strike a deadly blow at our modern lawlessness.

MODERN GENERATION ALL RIGHT

By HENRIETTA ADDITON, New York Social Worker.

We are told that the youth of the country are in revolt against their elders, but replies I received from more than 1,600 girls in Brooklyn who were asked to answer anonymously a series of questions about themselves show that only 13 of them fail to ask their parents' permission to go places. More than 90 per cent spend time on home study. The majority attend church or Sunday school.

This information gives us a direct clew to the behavior of girls, for the answers to the questions came in such a way that there was no chance of identification or need for defense. Family control seems to be typical, according to the girls themselves when we give them an honest opportunity to talk about themselves and what they like to do and want to become, we find them a sane generation not much different from the previous one.

NEED FULL TIME PARENTHOOD

By REV. E. R. DAKIN, Milwaukee (Baptist).

Part time parenthood—that is one of the grave dangers of modern civilization. Full time functioning parenthood is needed if we are to have a generation that will be an asset in the progress of civilization. Within the last seven years apartment house dwellers have increased from 24.4 per cent to 48.8 per cent. Apartment house dwelling means a nomadic population. There is no stability of residence or church relationship.

The problem is complicated by 3,000,000 married women in industry. Not all are mothers; many do not want children because they can have more luxuries on two pay envelopes. Many who have children have to farm them out to nurseries for care while they work.

Homes are not what they should be unless a baby is preferred to a car. With each child there is born into the world a new opportunity for the betterment of civilization.

Old Charlie

by A. J. Dunlap

Old Charlie was just a cow pony,
All saddle-marked, buck-kneed and lank
With scars where the cruel wire cut him,
And Double-O brand on the flank.
His sire was just one of the herd—
His mother as common as he;
But little we thought as we galloped
Of blood lines that make pedigree.

He carried us safe to the school house
Through the mud or the sleet or the snow,
And never put up an objection
Whenever we wanted to go.
And dull was that bright day of autumn,
And many the tears that we shed,
When father came up from the barnyard
And told us old Charlie was dead.

Sometimes in my dreaming I ride him
Again through the snow and the rain
And galloping on in my fancy
I hear the wind sing through his mane.
I hope on the great day of judgement
Somewhere and somehow, there will be
A pasture for faithful cow ponies
Like Charlie, without pedigree.

POULTRY

HEN COMFORT IS MOST PROFITABLE

When the rough days of autumn and winter arrive, the hens begin to hunt about for comfort and protection from winter winds and snow. If the poultry house is cold, dark, and uninviting, it is very unprofitable to the owner. It not only shortens up the egg supply, but next spring the hens go to work with a handicap because they have been poorly wintered.

If we give the hens one-half the attention that we do our other stock they start making things count, says a writer in an exchange. Our poultry house is built for economy and comfort for the hens. We are strong believers in the scratching department, making the hen work a lot. To do this we have all the floor space in the building arranged for bad days, for that is when they must work inside. We put up a gunny-sack curtain in front of the perches, which serves for two purposes. It keeps the hens warm when on the perches at night, and keeps them off the perches in the daytime.

Then we partition off the inside with this cheap burlap which breaks possible drafts, and also divides the flock in their work for the day. We also open the windows, and drop down a burlap curtain on bad days to keep out cold air, storms and beating winds. This burlap is almost indispensable in our poultry equipment, and we use much of it. Our front curtain to the main building is made from it, tacked upon frames so it can be raised or lowered as needed.

On snowy, rough days the hens work happily away, more contented than if outside. It has always been our custom to set up a windbreak of cornstalks against the lee sides of the fences and the west and north of the houses, and it is wonderful how the hens will take refuge behind this fodder barrage many winter days when the snow is off.

Consistent Layer Will Molt Late in Season

Most hens stop laying when they begin to molt. It is a fact no longer disputed that a hen, in order to make a high yearly record, must be a consistent layer. The early molting hen is not a consistent layer. She takes all the fall months as a vacation for changing her plumage. The consistent layer molts late and grows her new plumage rapidly.

The hen that under normal conditions molts early, will not lay as many winter eggs as the hen that molts late. Neither will she begin egg production earlier in the spring. No definite date can be set as to early molting. As a general rule, however, the first hens in the flock to molt should be sold, and the last to molt should be kept for breeding purposes.

Hens may be thrown into an early molt by starving while laying heavily; by irregular feeding; by roosting in a house that is poorly ventilated; or in any way that tends suddenly to check egg production. Molt from any of these causes should be avoided, as it is likely to result in a lower total egg production. If the pullets are hatched early, they will be laying in the fall and thus the egg production kept up at all seasons.

Poultry Notes

Teach the chicks to roost, as soon as they are old enough to learn.

Man must keep chickens free from lice and mites because the chickens can't.

Good feeding is important so as to maintain the resisting power of the fowls.

Good ventilation is very essential. If all openings are closed the house will become damp and the air vitiated.

Heavy egg production, like heavy milk production, can only be secured by liberal feeding of a well balanced ration.

During the summer months the colony house should be sprayed at regular intervals. A satisfactory spray can be made of three parts of kerosene and one part of crude carbolic. Coal or tar disinfectants are also satisfactory.

Sodium fluoride, used at the rate of an ounce to a gallon of water, is recommended by specialists for destroying parasites. This should be used on a warm day as a dip, and the birds should be completely immersed in the solution.

Hens should be as well fed when molting as when laying. Growing their new feathers is, if anything, harder on them than producing eggs.

Preventing the parasites by keeping the poultry house clean and by the regular use of dips is much more satisfactory than eradicating them once they have infested the flock. To control mites, the roosts and nests should be painted with carbolineum or some equally effective wood preservative. One treatment each year is usually sufficient.

HELP YOUR BROTHER FARMER.

Donate Seed Corn for Next Year's Planting.

As was announced last week in the Farm News, the farmers of this community have started a movement to assist their fellow farmers in southern Indiana, by donating 100 ears of seed corn for next year's planting.

On account of the drought this year in southern Indiana, many farmers have not raised enough feed to carry their live stock through the winter and of course, will have little or no seed corn to plant another crop next year. Moved by a spirit of compassion for their unfortunate brother farmers and desiring to express, in a material way, their thankfulness for the wonderful corn crop with which this section has been blessed, the following plan has already been put into operation.

Between the 1st and 5th of April, 1931, deliver to the community building at Mentone, 100 ears of seed corn where it will be shelled, graded placed in bags and tagged with the donor's name. Between now and April 1st, the names of worthy farmers to receive this corn will be obtained through the county agents of the various counties and a centrally located distribution point will be designated. This corn will then be loaded into trucks and taken to the distributive points and delivered direct to those named to receive it.

The Farmers State Bank at Mentone will give a prize of $5.00 for the best 100 ears of corn donated for this purpose; $3.00 for the second best and $2.00 for the third. A competent and disinterested judge will be selected to award the prizes.

This movement is worthy of the co operation of every farmer in this community and those who feel they they want to have a part in helping a worthy brother, call at the Bank and sign your name to the subscription list.

HOME ECONOMICS MEETING.

Mrs. Kenneth Riner was hostess to a joint meeting of the Tippecanoe and Mentone Home Economics Clubs at her home Tuesday afternoon Oct. 7

The attendance was splendid in spite of unfavorable weather. The Tippecanoe Club gave the program which was introduced with some appropriate remarks by their program committee chairman, Mrs. S. A.

Laird.

"Art and Beauty in the home" was ably discussed in a paper by Mrs. E. C. Crider. "Financial Knowledge every family should have" was thoroughly defined by Mrs. Pearl Gaskill.

Then followed a group of poems by a Marshal Co. poetess—Mrs. Tressie Carvey beautifully given by Mrs. Fred Hutchison. Mrs. Lewis Erwin sang a group of "homing" songs in her very pleasing way.

A One Act Play, "Joint Owners in Spain," continued the home thought and was splendidly given by Mrs. Ernest Dickey, Mrs. Tom Ritter, Mrs. Otis Fields and Mrs. T. J. Weaver.

The program was a splendid combination of instruction and entertainment and showed the fine ability of the club as a whole, and of those taking part in particular.

After some stunts the ladies of the Mentone Club served coffee, sandwiches and salad.

Everyone present agreed that such visiting days are a source of inspiration to better efforts toward more worth while work.

Last Week's News Reviewed by
A Stranger in the Windy City

Chicagoan is glad to hear from readers on matters of general interest to the community. Letters sent to the above address
will receive prompt attention.

Chicago, Ill., October 13—You never miss the water, till the well runs dry; and you never realize the blessings of good health until an illness throws you prone on your back with your stomach revolting when you think of food and your head feeling as though it was being worked upon by the entire membership of the boilermaker's union.

I had barely completed my letters last week, when I was forced to my bed by a severe, though I hope a short, sickness. Once down, my only thought was for recovery, and political and economic questions lost their importance. It seemed to me that if I were only on my feet again, nothing else would matter much.

So you can understand why my sympathies are more than ever with our sick friend O. F. Miller, who according to last week's Farm News is mending very slowly. After a person has been ill, it seems that he is particularly impressed with the similar misfortunes of others. I guess that's just a human trait, and us sick folks are just bound to regard each other in a very kindly light.

The Farm News has added to its already established value to the community by the publication of a department devoted to school news. Parents, teachers, as well as the students themselves will welcome this department, and by making a special subscription price of 35c for the school year. The Farm News has made it possible for every student and instructor to receive the paper.

While the entire community will enjoy it, the school news department will confer its greatest benefits on Chas. Cole, its editor, and the student authors whose contributions will appear in it from time to time. Writing news for a paper of general circulation is the best possible practice for students of English. It gives them an opportunity to supplement their knowledge of the classics with the faculty of expressing themselves in the language of the average American.

Perhaps some great writer of the future will proudly point to clippings from this year's Farm News as examples of his or her writings first to appear in print.

A week ago, I commented on the fine spirit which prevailed in the Palestine neighborhood where Alva Bowers corn was cut by his friends. The same paper in which my remarks appeared carried a card of thanks by Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Taylor for the same sort of a kind act. Now, I understand that a movement is on foot to furnish seed corn to the farmers of the drought stricken areas so that they may have a real opportunity to produce a crop next year. These pieces of news stand out like bright lights in a world so given to groping in the darkness of selfishness.

You'll notice that I've kept clear of that Brisbane-Rogers tilt.

Coat Silhouettes Fit Flare and Slenderize

It does not matter whether the coat is of fur or cloth, to measure up to fashion's standard it must be snug at the waist, flare at the hemline and boast novel fur-trimmed sleeves. Coats of flat fur with lavish trim of long haired fur tell an exciting story of what's doing in the ways of fall and winter wraps.

GETTING ALONG NICELY

Work on our new school building is progressing very well. The foundation is about completed, and the brick work has commenced.

Tea Consumption

The world uses close to 1,000,000,000 pounds of tea each year.

MENTONE CO-OPERATIVE ASSOCIATION.

New Enterprise Will Begin Construction of Mill and Elevator Within Next Thirty Days.

Papers will be filled with the Secretary of State within the next few days asking for a charter incorporating the Mentone Co-operative Association, a company consisting of 130 of the leading farmers of this locality.

The board of directors and officers of the new company are as follows: President, M. Roy Rush; Vice President, Homer Creighton; Secretary, Forest Kesler, Treasurer, Ora Beeson; Dr. Anderson, Herschel Nellans and Clarence Leininger. The high standing and personal character of the board of directors and officers of the association is sufficient guarantee that the project of erection will be rapidly pushed to completion and that it will be a success.

The location of the building we are not permitted to disclose at this time as all arrangements relating thereto have not been completed, however it is almost certain that the location will be along the interurban tracks.

Organizations of this kind are the only thing that will help the farmers and place his affairs on a paying basis—this has been conclusively demonstrated by our egg car—and we bespeak for our new company the utmost success in its new venture. And realizing that what is good for our farmers is also good for Mentone, our business men should do everything possible to make the Mentone Co-operative Association a huge success.

Waves on Great Lakes

Waves have been measured in various parts of the ocean reaching heights of from 30 to 40 feet. In the South Atlantic and South Pacific it is thought that storm waves in their fullest development have reached 50 feet. *"People should never have a steering wheel in their hands," said MRS. MOLLA PROPP,
"until they've learned to drive."*

WHAT a day! My dear, I'm tired out. Think of it... thirteen miles out in the hills, and there the car stops. THIRTEEN, mind you!

We were using Henry's car, and he was driving. You know I always want to be helpful, my dear, and so I was telling him to go slow and fast and where to turn and to look out for the load of hay.

Between times I would look at the birds and wave at the farmer children. Just as the sun was setting we reached the lonely road in the hills and there, of all places, the car gives a cough and dies.

"I know that sound," says Henry. "It's the displacement that is clogged up...or maybe the thermostat is out of gear."

"When did you buy gasoline last," I asked Henry and he said yesterday, because he remembered it was Thursday. "No, it can't be the gasoline and so it must be something in the compression. I'll get a file and fix it in a minute."

It was a long minute, my dear, and I kept saying that it was the gas or the oil. "Gas or oil—gas or oil," I said over and over. But that only made Henry mad because he could remember just as plain that he bought gasoline on THURSDAY because we went to a show in the evening. "Why, you egg," I shouted, "That was two weeks ago!"

And Henry walked three miles to a farm and brought a boy with a mule and we were towed thirteen miles to town and we didn't get in until two in the morning. I am going to take Henry's instruction book away from him and buy him a calendar so he won't get his dates mixed.

"Primrose Path"

Shakespeare's "Hamlet," act 1, scene 3, line 50, says, "Doe not as some ungracious pastors doe shew me the steep and thorny way to heaven; Whilst like a puffed and reckless path of pleasure, libertine, himselfe the primrose path of dalliance treads."

Velvet, Velvet, Velvet! for Fall and Winter Hats

Paris sponsors the velvet hat. Both in color and contour the new velvet hats are masterpieces. Their claim to chic is their irregular brims which are almost invariably longer at one side having a debonaire tip-tilted look and setting far back so as to "show your curls and look pretty," after the manner of the model pictured at the top. The wee velvet berets and cap-like bonnets have a tendency to fit on the back of the head, too. Widest brims, as pictured, are also approved.

Why He Votes "No"

Then there's the story of the legislator who always voted a loud "No" on every proposed act. He went through a whole year that way, and then the other legislators kicked. "What's the idea of always voting 'No' on everything that comes up, no matter what?" they asked. The man cocked his feet up on the desk. "Experience has shown that 75 per cent of all laws are crazy," he said; "if that's true, then I'm right 75 per cent of the time."

Composition of Pewter

Pewter is composed of tin and lead, with an alloy of brass or copper, which gives, particularly to old pewter, a mellow glow. The usual mixture is 6 to 4 parts to 1 of lead, and an old formula was 30 parts of brass to 1,000 parts of tin. A hardening process has been discovered—a trade secret—which is apparently able to overcome the softness of pewter, which was one of the great causes of its decline in the making of utensils.

The Lowest Forms

Appeal to arms is the lowest form of virtue. Rewards and punishments are the lowest forms of education. Ceremonies and laws are the lowest forms of government. Music and fine clothes are the lowest forms of happiness. Weeping and mourning are the lowest forms of grief.—Chuang Tzu.

Says WILL ROGERS

BEVERLY HILLS.—Well all I know is just what I read in the papers. See where Henry Ford is prowling around over in Europe, and he gets tons and tons of mail and its addressed to him as "his Highness Henry Ford." They think he is King over here. Well he is not exactly what you might refer too as one of our mental Subjects. Over in a Museum in Berlin they have the first car made in Germany, and perhaps the World, for it was made in 1885, it only had three wheels. It was the "Benz" made by Karl Benz. But up to going to press he has not been able to get it.

Was you ever through that place in Derborn where he has all the old Vehickles stored? If you rode in your young days in an old wagon, or sled, or a buggy and have in your old years of reminiscing wondered what become of it its right in Henry Fords shed. I never saw in all my born days as much plunder as there is in there. Old thrashing Machines, dozens of em, old saw mill engines, old fire Engines, Old Handsom Cabs. Everything under the sun that ever dragged one person from one place to another is in there, so I can sure imagine how he must have wanted that old crate.

Well Sir before you know it there will be another election along to pester us. What they have those things for nobody has ever been able to tell. Its just to distribute the jobs around so one man wont have it all the time. Most of the men that are in are trying to stay in and all that are out are trying to get in. This is what they call an off year. What they mean by that is everybody is running but the President.

These off years the Democrats generally make a pretty good showing, and this fall looks like their chance to get a gang of Guys in the Senate and House. Of course they will offset what advantage they have by splitting among themselves, on the wet and dry plan. They will make that an issue when its only a habit.

Funny race up in Massachusetts. They dug up a fellow named Coolidge, an Irishman, and a Democrat. He used to be Mayor of Fitchburg, along when Calvin was Mayor of Northampton. They claim this fellow is no kin to Calvin. But I know one time up in Vermont I was playing a town, I think it Rutland or somewhere, and in my audience that night, I had been tipped off was a first Cousin of Cal's and he was a Democrat, and I had a lot of fun kidding with him. Met him afterwards and he was a dandy fellow. I dont know how he got strayed off from the herd while they was all going orthodox. He, (this fellow Coolidge) is running against William Butler, an old friend of Mr. Calvin Coolidge's.

Oh yes and this other Coolidge that's running is a wet! Imagine a wet Coolidge! Nature does produce some queer angles. Dont know if Mr. Coolidge will take the stump to help out his old friend or not. He is still working on his daily Column and can always say he is too busy. He is mighty schrewd and knows how to keep out of these home-talent fights. New York pretty near everybody is running as a wet. Both Republicans and Democratic know there is more wet votes than there is dry ones so they both jump that way. That shows right there that the whole thing is not on the level, for everyone of these public men come out just according to the way the wind is blowing where they live. Now some of them must have some personal opinion that is not just along with the majority of voters all the time.

New Jersey Morrow took a brave stand when it meant something. He wasent sure he was on the right side or not, but he come out against it. Not that it might have been the right thing to do, but it at least planted him as a man with his own opinion and he was willing to stand by it. But with all the messing and argueing over it at the election it wont mean a thing. Nothing is going to be done about it any more than farm relief, or unemployment relief.

Ohio they got so scared at their convention, they was afraid to do anything, so they just voted as favoring Prosperity and went home. They have a new term now called the "Weaslers." The Weaslers are anyone that is afraid to jump either way. They feel that their state is still doubtful and they claim they havent made up their minds. So from now on you are in for one of the longest and most nonsensical arguments, all over something that they couldnt change if they wanted too. Democrats will make quite a few gains and the West will perhaps make some, but the whole thing will mean nothing in our lives. All we do is just dig up their salary, and they all get the same price, Republican, Democrat, Wet, or Dry. There is no way we can win.

Traffic Jungle

A scientist just returned from Africa says that he found out that none of the wild creatures that depend on their horns are especially noted for brains. Any one can observe the same thing by standing on a corner in the city and watching automobile drivers who depend on their horns to get them through the traffic.

More Pigeons Bye and Bye

A wandering tom cat rudely robbed
Our pigeon nest one day.
We urchins found the sad remains
All scattered in the hay.
We gathered all the pieces up
With melancholy sighs
And hurried to the kitchen door—
With tear-dimmed, childish eyes.

But mother said, 'A cat's a cat,
Dont feel so sad and glum,
You'll have more pigeons bye and bye,
Just take things as they come.'
Then little Jackie rose in rage
And said he didn't care—
If he could find the 'onery' cat,
Hed kill him then and there.

The years have flown and Jack has learned
That often in the hay,
Men find the remnants of their dreams
Rude hands have tossed away.
Hes learned to smile and start again
With courage in his eye;
To say, 'Too bad! But there will be
More pigeons bye and bye.'

Watch the new fall suits, see how their coats are lengthening. Not only sports suits but suits of dressier men stress the three-quarter or shorter-than-the-skirt coats. The handsome suit in the picture is of black broadcloth for broadcloth is one of the materials favored for fall suits and coats. Its lavish embellishment of Persian lamb bespeaks a coming vogue.

HOW TO LIVE LONGER

By John Clarence Funk, A.M., Sc.D.

Director of Public Health Education,

Act Your Age

THE other day a man only fifty-six years old stepped up to his golf ball, knocked it 200 yards and dropped dead. This unfortunate gentleman had been sitting in his office all winter and when the first balmy day came along he sought the golf course. According to his own statement he was "making up for lost time" by playing 36 holes on the first day. He died on the thirteenth tee—with time lost for him forever!

And this leads to a discussion of recreation for the middle-aged or older. Gradually men of more than forty five have come to realize that violent exercise such as ball playing, tennis and distance swimming is better for them to watch than to play. On the other hand, there has been a tremendous gain in the popularity of golf. This royal sport is even styled by those deriding it as an "old man's game." But be assured it is anything else than that.

True, if it were a question of strolling along a flat field and occasionally smacking a gutta-percha ball with a club, there might be some sense in designating it an extremely moderate pastime. But there are few golf courses in the country that are not "sporty" whether by nature or design. That means there are hills to climb, at least when one fails to hit the ball in the direction it is supposed to go. This as all golfers know, is often.

A real and frequently a strenuous amount of energy is required to play the ancient and honorable game. And the sooner men whose hearts have already given them warning recognize that fact, the longer they are going to live.

Moreover, it is only a matter of common sense for the man past forty-five to have himself examined once every year by a competent physician. It is quite likely that many a fellow is today climbing hills and ravines after "silced" and "hooked" balls who would be far better off taking a quiet stroll on the level.

It is also true that many of the older people can with entire safety play golf provided they act their age. But the just-as-young-as-I-used-to-be won't go with golf or any other sport. Don't let an injudicious enthusiasm for a game of anything kill you. Life is a short journey at its longest!

MENTONE PUBLIC SCHOOLS

Interesting Items Pertaining to This Institution of Education.

Chas. Cole, Editor.

The honor roll is a rather interesting thing. Did you notice how those Freshmen came to the front? They surely made the dignified Seniors look sick.

The Juniors received their class rings last week. They seemed to display good judgment in selection.

From the third year Algebra class comes this "Believe It or Not" statement. Gerald Boggess asks us this one.

"Do you know that one cent placed at compound interest for one thousand years compounded annually at six percent, would amount to the following?"

1. The amount in silver dollars stacked one upon another would make a stack so high that light which travels at the rate of 186,000 miles per second would require 686 CENTURIES to travel from the top to the bottom of the stack.

2. The amount in one thousand dollar bills would cover the surface of the globe, land and sea, 3,708 times.

3. It would take all the people in the United States more than THREE MILLION YEARS to count the amount, counting day and night at the rate of one thousand dollars per minute."

If you do not believe this, work it for yourself.

The announcement of the operetta was officially made by Miss Bowen this week. The title is "The Belle of Barcelona." The cast will be taken from the music classes.

The foundation of the new school-building is almost completed and the brick work will be started soon. Too bad for the "dignified" seniors that they will not have a chance to go to the new building. And speaking of seniors, we heard one of our upperclassmen telling a Freshman how wonderful it was to be a senior. He says one feels as important as President of the United States. Believe it or not!

You can always hear students say that they will be glad when they graduate but when they actually come to the time, we wonder if they really are glad or maybe sad.

The work being done at the community building is nearing completion. Two showers have been added

As a text for one day each week the eighth grade is using "Current Events" in History. They are showing much interest in the study of the circulars.

SPORTS

The eighth grade played Tippecanoe Thursday afternoon which resulted in the score of 12 to 4 in favor of Mentone. It looks as though we shall have as good a team next year as we have now.

The line-up for Mentone was: Kay Paulus, Catching; Teel, Pitching Long, 1st Base; Gates, 2nd Base; Red Paulus, 3rd Base; Blue, Short Stop; Lynn, L. Field; McGowen, C. Field; Ketrow, R. Field.

The Mentone H. S. base ball team won from Milford 8 to 3, making us the county champions. We have had a perfect season. Ten games straight were won with comparative ease. Mr Goshert and the team deserve a lot of credit for bringing the Championship to Mentone.

Details of the successful season will appear in the next issue.

The first real basket ball practice occurred last Monday. The boys were given a work out. Mr. Goshert wants to have them in good condition for the first scheduled game which is Nov. 14, at Milford.

Farmers Who Are Interested in Better Eggs and Who Are Interested Enough to Help Themselves as Well as Us.

It goes without saying, that we have done more for the farmers in the way of egg price than any other buyer in Indiana, and have done more hard work to try to get a "Mark" on Indiana eggs than any other firm in New York City. We are working our heads off now trying to help you get more for eggs. Now, won't you please listen and try to follow our advice, We are not hoggish and don't ask all of this simply for our own benefit, but what helps us, sure will help you.

Now please try and adhere to the following advice for one year and see the results:

Get a good strain of straight blood poultry that lays a good sized egg (either white or deep brown) there is no difference in price now, and the general average price is about the same for equal quality eggs (size and cleanliness considered.)

Pick up your eggs every morning and evening, and carry a damp cloth with you, cleaning all traces of dirt off before it hardens and sticks to the shell.

DON'T WASH THEM,

But simply wipe them with a damp cloth and don't leave them streaked with dirt but clean them. Keep them in the coolest place about the house never allowing rain nor sun to touch them.

Use all ill-shaped eggs at home because they are broken in shipping. Market your eggs at equal intervals twice each week—that is, we would like to have them each Monday and Thursday or each Tuesday and Friday, rain or shine.

Keep every egg that you are not sure of being strictly fresh at home or ship them separately, as we don't want to spoil a case of nice eggs with a few of doubtful character, and you can't afford to sell such eggs, as it hurts you as bad as it does us, for we have to buy eggs on a basis of what we get for them, and if you slip in a few bad eggs on us, it only hurts our sales, and causes us to have to lower our price, so you see the fresher we get the eggs the more we get, and the more we can pay you. Never keep roosters with your hens after June 1.

Watch the size of your eggs and when they begin to run small, then feed them some good laying mash with a little Cod-liver oil in it or some soaked oats with a little Cod-liver oil in it or anything to keep the egg size up to not less than 23 ounces per dozen or over.

Now please try and follow this advice and let's work together and put our eggs in a class with California, Washington and Utah. The Pacific coast states ship eggs to New York City, and get from 3 to 10 cents more than your eggs bring, and it is because they ship fresh, clean, good-sized eggs graded up to a standard, which you can do if you will work as they work. Now if you will work as hard as we are, trying to put good eggs on the map, then we will show the market that Indiana has just as good eggs as any state in the union. We will do our best and now it's up to you who sell us eggs, to work as hard as we do.

Yours for Better Eggs.

POULTRY FACTS

POULTRY BREEDS AND HOW CLASSED

Chickens are divided into classes, breeds and varieties. Birds with the same general characteristics are placed in one class. Classes are then divided into breeds. Each breed of poultry is distinguished from other breeds by differences in type. Breeds are separated into varieties. The different varieties of the same breed are designated by differences in comb or color. All varieties of the same breed should have the same general type characteristics.

There are four general classes of chickens that are common and other classes less common.

The American class consists of birds that are of the general purpose type. They have yellow skin and legs, red ear lobes and legs free from feathers.

The breeds that make up this class are: Plymouth Rock, Wyandotte, Java, Dominique, Rhode Island Red, Rhode Island White, Buckeye, Jersey Black Giants and Chanticleer.

The Mediterranean class are smaller than the American class and are often known as the egg breeders. They are nervous in disposition, very active, compactly built, have white ear lobes and clean legs. The breeds that make up this class, are: Leghorn, Minorca, Spanish, Andalusian and Ancona.

Fowls that make up the Asiatic class are large and clumsy, have red ear lobes and feathers on their legs. They are often referred to as the meat breeds. Brahmas, Cochins and Langshans make up the breeds in this class.

The English class, while not as common as the other three already referred to, probably rank fourth in popularity. These birds are medium in size, have red ear lobes, clean legs that are pink in the buff and white varieties and black in the black varieties. The breeds making up this class are Orpingtons, Dorkings, Red Caps, Sussex and Cornish.

Selling Squab Broilers During Winter Months

Quite a number of the broiler plants make a specialty of squab broilers, which sell best during January and February. They are grown in about eight to ten weeks, the hatches coming out in November and December, and are successfully raised without any outdoor exercise.

The greatest demand for squab broilers is in spring, when game birds are scarce, and a small bird is in demand in restaurants. They should weigh from three-fourths to one pound, and must be plump. Many who ship squab broilers make a great mistake in sending bony, poor ones.

Good returns cannot be expected from poor, scraggy birds, half dressed.

The broiler for the winter market must be attractive looking to command a ready sale at good prices. Plump chickens, neatly dressed, free from pin feathers, with unsolled skin and with perfectly clean legs, will find a ready sale, while poor stuff goes begging. A fat broiler is quite a rarity. The best that can be done, generally, is to have them plump, for the natural tendency of the chick is to use all nutriment for growth and development. The main point is to grow them rapidly.

To grow good broilers there should be dry quarters provided, thoroughly cooked food, comfortable heat (not too high nor too low), regularity in feeding, cleanliness and good light. The chicks must be induced to take plenty of exercise.

Moving Pullet Flock

When there are many pullets to be moved it often pays to leave them in the crates over night and move the crates to the laying houses in the morning. Then the poultryman has a better light and can do a better job of culling and treating the birds for lice. As each pullet is taken from the crate, it can be inspected for weight, general health and vigor, and prospective laying ability. All birds that are poor prospects for winter profits can be isolated for future observation.

Improve Egg Quality

Much can be done to improve the quality of eggs produced by careful selection of eggs used for hatching purposes. All undersized, misshapen, off-color, and defective shelled eggs should be eliminated from the incubator. By following such a practice for a few years the quality of eggs laid by a flock should be materially improved. Egg dealers are willing now to pay a premium for high quality eggs. It is well to assort them according to size and color.

Feed to Help Pullets

If pullets must search for their feed on free range they will probably find sufficient food for body maintenance, but growth will be slow and egg production will be impossible until late winter or early spring. Liberal feeding of grain and mash containing 20 per cent of high-grade tankage, or in place of tankage all the milk the pullets can drink, will not only reduce the amount of exercise but will hasten growth and stimulate fall egg production.

American Victories in Air

During the World War American pilots brought down 781 enemy airplanes and 73 balloons. These were confirmed victories, and there were undoubtedly a number of others which occurred too far away to be officially confirmed. America lost 280 airplanes and 48 balloons.

NEW HEALTH KONJOLA GAVE IS LASTING

One Of Indianapolis' First Users
Of New Medicine Remains Enthusiastic.

(MR. JOHN S. MILLER)

"After a lapse of four years I still feel the remarkable results I had from Konjola," said Mr. John S. Miller, 1320 Brookside avenue, Indianapolis. "I suffered severely with stomach trouble about five years ago I became so affected that I could not eat a meal without suffering agony afterwards. My kidneys and liver were in a disordered condition and I became badly constipated. My back ached continually, my complexion was sallow and I always felt tired and worn out.

"Finally, after all else I tried had failed, Konjola was placed on sale in Indianapolis. I suppose I was one of the first to try it. Konjola did for me all that was claimed for it. I began to feel better right from the start of the treatment and I am glad to say that I still retain the good health Konjola gave."

More than seven million bottles of Konjola were used by ailing men and women of all ages in two years. Merit and Merit alone, could have such a record.

Konjola is sold in Mentone Ind., at the Shafer & Goodwin drug store, and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section.

JUST THINKIN'

by Charles S. Kinnison

Old-Fashioned Fun

At home, at night, we often sit,
And play at Crokinole and Pit—
Old-fashioned games, I will admit,
But games like these, you see,
Are those the children like to play,
And they, at home, are glad to stay
To play with Ma and me.

And I, somehow, believe it best,
In ways like this, to find my rest.
What better way could I invest
The early hours of night?
There are no ways that I have found
Where better fun and joy abound,
Nor bring us more delight!

Sweet memories, I'm building, too—
And when their childhood days are thru,
These happy times I will review
With pleasant thoughts; I know!
So, when the children say: "Hey, Dad—Come play a game," I'm always glad
To say: "All right—let's go!"

MR. FORD IS FOR HENRY, FIRST, LAST AND ALL THE TIME.

Henry Ford transferred his tractor factory to Cork, Ireland, and has already shipped 4,569 tractors to this country during the first six months of the year. They were admitted duty free. This is the reason why Mr. Ford has become a free trader. He pays his Irish help double what they used to get, but is still able to ship his tractors to this country and undersell his competitors who pay the American wage scale. The only hardship the Irish feel about the matter is that Henry won't let them take a drink. But will they mind Henry?

Now that Henry Ford has opened up factories in Spain, Italy, Germany, Denmark, France, Egypt, Belgium, South Africa, Japan, Chile, Mexico, Brazil, Argentina, Uruguay and Australia he has been getting the benefit of a lot of free advertising as well as free trade. Henry must have been kidding when he made the remark that if this country went wet he would quit business. There is a well defined rumor that Hank has located factories in some wet countries. A few extra kopecks via free trade seemed to have eased his morals.

SOUTHERN TEXTILE SITUATION

By HARRIET L. HERRING, University of North Carolina.

The present serious and well-planned effort to organize the southern textile workers is complicated by the efforts of rival organizations, by the economic difficulties of the industry, the conservatism of the southern workers, and the opposition of owners and the public.

We shall probably have many stormy and painful episodes. The owners and the public need education in the rights of the workers, and the workers need education in the new responsibility that comes as they gain power.

In New England the cotton mill has helped wave after wave of native and immigrant people to a better economic and social life. Are we to develop in the South a social class and presently a political group based on that most inexorable of controls, economic caste? Will our model villages filled with upstanding citizens, become part and parcel of our wider communities? Will our seedy, slovenly villages, sheltering people with an inferiority complex, cease to be? The social and welfare workers hold a key to the situation that will help to unlock the willingness of the owner, the intelligent self-expression of the workers, and the understanding co-operation of the public.

DUTY OF STATE TO CURB CRIME

By DONALD S. LEONARD, Michigan State Police.

The state should be the main unit around which the law enforcement machinery should be constructed, for the municipality cannot function alone in successfully combating the criminal. It is a difficult job for the large city police departments to equip themselves for crime warfare, and the smaller cities, towns and villages, hampered by the lack of trained men and insufficient appropriations, are helpless without assistance from the state.

The forces of the city, county, state and federal governments must be united in order to oust the racketeer, kidnaper, extortionist, thug and murderer from his present day reign of terror.

The rapid growth of the United States, the heterogeneous composition of its population, the increased industrial activity and the complex organization of present day society are all contributing factors to increased criminal activity.

Chicagoan is glad to hear from
readers on matters of general interest to the community. Letters sent to the above address
will receive prompt attention.

Chicago, Ill., October 20—I know that every once in a while, some readers ask Editor Krathwohl the name of the person responsible for this column. Just why knowledge of my name is important, I am unable to state. I guess some readers are curious; more are disgusted; and a few, I hope, feel that I am justifying my existence.

I'll let you in on a little secret. As the author of this column, nobody in Mentone or elsewhere knows me, except one man and the red-head who helps turn out this stuff. Since my fiery-haired stenographer is so concerned about changing her name to that of a certain slick-haired chap living on the South Side, I'm safe in stating that but one person in the whole world is absolutely certain of the real name of "Chicagoan."

After all, does it make any difference what name has been applied to me? If our language were changed so that hence forth the fragrant rose would be known as the onion, the perfume of the beautiful flower would remain every bit as pleasing. I must be judged on the merits of this column alone. If it is entertaining, then I'm an entertaining writer; if it is rotten, then, as a columnist, I'm rotten, even if my name is Calvin Coolidge—which it is not.

Right now, while we are on the subject of names, I am going to tell you that I have another letter from Mentone, naming the writer's choice for the greatest man in the community. For reasons of my own, I'm going to name neither the author nor her favorite in this letter, but I am going to quote some of what the young lady has to say regarding her choice, who it seems is a doctor in your community.

"In these days of specialists, it is comforting to know that we have in our midst a cheerful and helpful man, who live up to the ethics of the typical country doctor who can treat any and every disease and who seems to consider that his time and energy belongs to the people whom he so generously serves. I consider him the greatest man of this community—a self sacrificing man—who answers calls for help no matter what the weather, braving fierce storms to bring relief to some sufferer. Often he knows there will be no monetary remuneration and many times he is himself physically unfit but he does not shirk his responsibilities. He hears the distressed call of humanity, and he answers it.

"He is also interested in the welfare of the community, especially the moral and physical growth of the young people many of whom he has brought into the world, giving of his wisdom and experience to untangle any community difficulty. I consider it a privilege to know such a man—a man who carries his heart in his hand to bring peace out of discord, ever maintaining a high standard of justice and rejoicing in the portion of life given him to do."

Now, I'll ask you, does the man so described need a name? Of course, many of you have guessed who he is but while his name means nothing to me, I will gladly say that I'd like to live in a town that is blessed with such a noble soul.—"To live in mankind is far, far more than to live in a name."

Speaking of names, don't you like the fellow who calls you on the telephone and says, "Guess who this is." Although you may not always be able to tell who he is, you can always tell what he is.

Now, if you don't call me any names, I'll be back with you next week.

Here is the "Do You Believe" It' problem for this week. A hostess found that there were 479,991,600 different arrangements she could make in seating a dinner party of twelve.

From the Physics class comes this story: Every thing was going along nicely when suddenly Raymond Hudson discovered smoke over close to the fire escape door. Mr Chamber ordered the door closed thinking that the smoke was coming from the outside. The lesson went on and the smoke became worse. A cloud of white vapor filled the room by this time the students were becoming uneasy so Mr. Kelley was called. The boys moved the cabinet filled with chemicals still the smoke came through the floor. Two boy's were sent below to find the cause of the smoke. They returned reporting that Mr. Marcus was burning some paper in the furnace. The fire having been extinguished the lesson was resumed.

THE THREE ACES

By Don Lyons

"I'm going to get a job in a foundry and work some of this fat off" said Jim Cruso. He was talking to his two best friends, Bill Fawley and Joe Thorne. The boys walking down the school house walk for the last time. These boys had been pals all their years and never intended to part. They were extremely smart and had a willingness to work, so had been very successful in school. The boys were well liked by everyone. They lived in a large middle-western town and were known as The Three Aces, because they hung together like a deck of cards.

"You work in a foundry" laughed Bill "why you wouldn't last ten minutes."

"I can stick your nose in the ground in less time than that" said Jim.

"I'll lick the winner" yelled Joe.

"You will not" came a shrill feminine voice from the street" and if you try it I'll never speak to you again."

"Why, hello Jennie" and this was spoken in a meek voice by Joe, "I didn't know that you were around."

"Well get in the car and come with me," said Jennie, "and be quick about it.. You other two roughnecks get in the back seat and we'll go get Mary and Julia and celebrate to night."

"O. K." came in chorus from the three. Jennie Hill was the daughter of the most wealthy man in town. She had a head of hair that was so golden that it would a worker in a mint blink. Dancing blue eyes that had just a little bit of devil in them also belonged to Jennie.

The other two girls having been picked up, the party was on it's way to a near by dance hall. Jennie began to talk.

"I always knew what the ambition of you three boys was and have succeeded in getting a chance to help you."

"I wont take help from a woman," said Jim.

"Shut up," said Mary, who was parked on his lap and had the opportunity to squeeze his nose and pull his hair if necessary.

Then Jennie continued" Father owns the controlling interest of the Curtiss Robertson Aircraft Corp. in Troy Ohio, and he has consented to give you boys a job. Then you can work up to be aviators. Well what do you say?"

"It would be alright, but I don't like the idea of taking help from a woman," said Jim.

"Shut up" and this was from Mary Jim was as meek as a lamb.

Chapter Two

"Yes sir," said Jim to the man in the brown suit" I believe we can do it." "I hope so," answered the man, "it will mean several thousand dollars for each one of us,."

The Three Aces had graduated from the aviation school a few weeks before and now had a chance to show their ability as flyers. Jim had the highest grades, therefore he became the leader. Joe and Bill tied for second. The man talking to Jim was George Clayton, who had entered his plane in the around the world race and had decided to let the boys fly his ship. The winner of the race was to get a million dollars from an aircraft corp.

The day of the start had arrived. The boy's plane was second in line of six huge planes. The boy's had christened their plane "The Silver Bullet."

Mr. Clayton was talking to the boys when a gong sounded. They had ten minutes to get their plane warmed up. Jim leaped into the cabin, and in a few minutes nothing could be heard but the roar of six powerful motors. They shook hands with Mr. Clayton and got ready to go. "Must be about time" yelled Jim who was at the stick" Everyone is getting back."

Just as Jim finished speaking a cannon roared, mechainis pulled blocks and in three minutes the six planes were on their way to London.

Ten days later a speck was seen far up in the sky and after it another. If the people could have been up they would have known that

The Silver Bullet and The City of Chicago were in a neck and neck race.. The Silver Bullet had followed the City of Chicago all the way and now came the final test. The Silver Bullet was about a hundred yards behind. They had about a hundred miles to go. Could the Silver Bullet do it?

"Shut off the motor," yelled Bill.

"What for?" asked Jim.

"I've got the emergency gas line cleaned and I believe that we can get more speed through it," yelled Bill.

The crowds on the road who had stopped to see the finish, gasped as they saw the Silver Bullet fall back a little. Then to their surprise, she started going with a new life.

"It worked" cried Joe.

"Just twenty five more miles to catch them", breathed Jim, while Bill was pumping new oil into the motor.

They had ten miles to go when the Silver Bullet passed the City of Chicago. The boys would have gone wild if they could have heard the cheers from the crowd when they landed.

Three weeks later the papers announced that six young people of a large middle western town were to be married and a triple wedding would take place at the home of John Hill. They were Jennie and Joe, Julia and Bill and Mary and Jim. Shortly after the wedding three happy couples were together on their honeymoon.

A LUCKY AUTO ACCIDENT.

Last Tuesday afternoon J. Baker, while driving an auto at quite a high rate of speed south on S. Franklin St., met with an accident that might have proven serious. Without warning the two small boys come out of a side street directly in front of the speeding car and in order to miss hitting the youngsters, Baker swerved his car to the right, striking the fire hydrant with such force that it was broken in two. Both the bicycle and car were damaged but luckily no one was injured. People in that part of town were without water for a day owing to the damaged fire plug.

This is but another warning that we are allowing automobiles to be driven at too great a speed on our streets and unless we put a stop to it, some day we will have a real accident to record.

Good Soil for Your Trees

While some trees will undoubtedly grow in a poor soil after they have become established, there is no advantage in starting trees in anything except the best garden soil. Usually that referred to as "topsoil" is the kind to have on hand in sufficient quantity for tree planting. Bear this in mind, says the American Tree association of Washington. Do not "spare the top soil and spoil the tree!"

Says WILL ROGERS

BEVERLY HILLS.—Well all I know is just what I read in the Papers. There is some pretty big stuff in the papers nowadays, but its kinder under cover. Did you ever kinder stop to figure it out, this old World of ours as a whole is not sitting so pretty just at the present time. Did you know that there is an awful lot of parts of Europe that is just sitting on what the old time Orator used to call a Powder Keg? Well it is.

We cant pick up a paper that from one to a hundred dont prophesy that Prosperity is just around the corner. But let me tell you that war is nearer around the corner than prosperity is. I dont mean so much for us right here. But I mean over in Europe. That Russia is kicking up an awful lot of dust, and Germany is harboring a terrible lot of dissatisfaction, that Hitler has got em all stirred up over there. He made a speech last week in which he advocated the breaking of the Versailles Treaty, he said that it was made by a lot of old men, who most of them were about ready to die, and now here was a lot of young men grow up and they had to carry all this burden, for which they were not directly to blame, and that it was only a matter of time till they just wouldnt do it, they would say, "Well come on France, what are you going to do about it? We cant be any worse off if you come in and take over our Country than we are now."

Then those little Balkan Nations, they are like a little mess of stray Terriers anyhow, they just as well be fighting as like they are. This has been about the longest they have ever been between wars. I see the other day where Russia was just on the verge of invading Roumania. They have always had it in for them and figured they only had to take a couple of days rations and rounds of ammunition and go over and take that Country anyhow.

Russia and Poland are always on the verge of war. I remember when I was over in both countries in the summer of 26, why they were growling at each other like a couple of Fat Prima Donas on the same Opera bill.

Austria, they just been so bad off since the last war that they know there would be no way that war wouldnt be welcome to them. Bulgaria has started all the rest of them, her and Serbia, and they dont want to lose their reputations, they want to go down in history as having started all the big ones.

Then Italy is ranting around down there trying to pick up some more country and outlet for their population. France is watching them with an Eagle eye all the time, and thats just what Mussolini wants, he had rather worry France than anything, France feels that she would have no trouble whipping them, but if she went down there to do it, Germany would take that opportunity and get at them and she just dont want to have to take the chance. Then the Checko-Slovakians feel kinda hemmed in down their way, and of course the Turks, there is nothing that irks a Turk so much as peace.

Lots of pretty smart men think that is one of the biggest contributing factors to our present state of economic unrest, is that all big finance is afraid of what will happen in the near future, and they dont know where it will end up. Thats why everybody is hanging on to what they got. There is more in the wind than just our little local condition over here. We got as much as we ever had, there is just as much money, as many to eat, and as many to feed, as many to buy. But still our conditions are uncertain. Why? Just because its thing outside our own land that is worrying em. They know that signs are not right all over the World. Look at South America. When during our lifetime has there been as many disturbances at one time? No Sir the whole thing is world wide, we are effected by it less than anyone.

If we keep our nose clean and dont start yapping about somebody elses honor, or what our moral obligations are, we might escape it. But its going to take better State-manship than we have been favored with heretofore. But the way we are now we are mighty lucky to have nothing but a little business depression that is bothering us. But think what those other poor Devils are up against.

I dont know whether my old friend, Knute Rockne, and Notre Dame are going to win the world's championship again this Fall-or not, but he deserves it if they dont win another game. For, they are the only big team in the United States that starts playing tough teams right from the jump. These others play Rotary clubs and business colleges till about Thanksgiving, then have one tough game.

Knute thinks if you got a football team, it ought to be a football team from the Fourth of July to Xmas.

British Prime Ministers

Robert Walpole was the first English minister to be designated prime minister. He was head of the British cabinet from 1721 to 1742. It was about that time that the practice grew up of choosing a cabinet from the strongest political party. Not until about 25 years ago was the title "prime minister" recognized by law.

"And so,"

said MRS. MOLLA PROPP,

"the choke didn't need timing after all."

THERE was dinner all ready and I called out the door: "Henry!" But no Henry. Then I shouted louder, "HENRY!" But no more Henry than the first time.

Well, I looked around and I thought I heard a noise in the garage. And there was Henry under my car... MY car, mind you... saying the awfulest things and banging away at something. "What in the world are you trying to do?" I asked. "Oh" he said rather lightly and in THAT suspicious way, "I'm just trying to fix the fan a bit."

"Funny," I said — and you know how sarcastic I CAN be — "I always thought the fan was up in front by the differential and not back there by the tank!" I almost fancied I could see Copyright, 1930—John Jensen.

Henry blush under his grime. I just kept after him and finally the truth came out. Henry—would you believe it—was trying to drain some of the gas from my car because his car was out of gas and George was going with him and all he needed was enough to last him to the nearest station.

I just told him he could get towed for all of me, but finally let him have a gallon or so. I made him promise, though, to keep a can in the garage for himself in case his condenser runs dry again.

And he was so tickled that he drove east on a west-bound street and before I knew it, there was the police station calling me up asking me to come over and pay his fine for him. Oh, that man!

SCHEME TO TREAT SHEEP SNUFFLES

Is Caused by Exposure to Dampness or Cold.

Snuffles in sheep or lambs is nothing more than a common cold or catarrh, and is commonly caused by reduced vitality from exposure to dampness, rain or cold following such operations as shearing, castrating and docking, says Dr. W. A. Billings, extension veterinarian, University farm, St. Paul. It may also be brought on by milling of sheep in dusty corrals.

Affected sheep have a watery discharge from the nose which later becomes yellow, thick and stringy. The dried pus sticks and mats up the wool about the nose and mouth. The eyes are inflamed and watery and the sheep may have difficulty in breathing and loss of appetite. In severe cases, pneumonia may develop, followed by exhaustion and death.

For treatment, provide the sick sheep with a clean shelter, free from drafts, and bedded deeply with dry straw. Very weak animals may be given a dose of strong black coffee as a stimulant. Bathe the eyes and wash out the nose with a solution of boric acid which may be made by dissolving about a tablespoonful of powdered boric acid in two quarts of warm water. If a nose syringe or spray is available, the boric acid solution, or one containing camphor or oil of eucalyptus, may be sprayed directly into the nostrils. The inhalation of various fumes commonly recommended for treatment of similar conditions in man are not satisfactory.

Good care, clean forage that is free from dust, plenty of water, and attentive nursing will usually effect a cure, according to Doctor Billings, who says the shepherd will have to be patient and repeat the eye bathing and nostril washing at least once a day until the cure is complete.

Pastures and Roughages Are Most Economical

The liberal use of pastures and roughages has cut the cost of keeping work horses materially on Webster county, Iowa, farms, according to Iowa State college at Ames. Farmers who fed horses largely on grass and roughages had feed bills of $45 or less while farmers who saved the pasture and hay and fed mostly grain had feed bills of considerably more, one amounting to $96. These figures were gathered from records of farm account keepers.

The lowest average cost of keeping horses was $38 but in this case a tractor and a truck did most of the heavy work. The four farmers who kept the feed costs down lowest averaged $20 grain, $4 worth of hay, $11 for pasture, and allowed the horses free access to the straw pile. The four farmers who had the highest average costs, fed $54 worth of grain, $18 for hay and $4 for pasture, with only a limited amount of straw.

The grain ration on the farms having the lowest cost consisted of three-fourths corn and one-fourth oats while on the high cost farms the ration was two-fifths corn and three-fifths oats. The first group of farmers turned their horses on pasture at night and when they were not working; they fed straw instead of hay and roughed them on cornstalks. The latter group kept the horses in the barn and fed oats except when it was certain the horses would be on pasture for a long period.

Live Stock Facts

Only high-quality ensilage should be fed to sheep, especially breeding ewes.

A hog that is "off feed" will not make first-class pork if butchered in that condition.

Vaccinate the pigs before cholera shows up and it won't show up. Serum is cheap. Use it generously.

Sows should be bred early in November for them to farrow in March. The gestation period of sows is 112 to 114 days.

A dark place, such as a straw covered shed, is fine for sheep on hot summer days. It provides shade and the darkness helps to keep grub flies away.

Dipping the flock shortly after shearing will kill ticks. These pests, if not controlled, will attack lambs and prevent them from putting on good finish before marketing time.

Alfalfa hay is valuable for fattening lambs, but at the start it is safer to give them some prairie hay, straw or fodder in addition to alfalfa.

To finish yearling steers that will go to market weighing from 700 to 1,000 pounds, the right kind of feeder calves must be put into the feed lot.

The man who decides to feed calves instead of older cattle must make it a point to raise calves of good type since only calves of good breeding will fatten well at this age.

Analyzing ...YOU...

With the New Science of Syllabics

By C. J. COFFMAN

Dean of All the Enumerators

Norma

Your name is quite ancient. It comes from a Latin root, NORMA, meaning the rule or method from which a thing comes. It is the basis for our modern word normal, which means standard, balanced, regular.

There is also an undercurrent of power exhibited here, in that Norma shows ruler-ship.

Taking the first syllable, NOR, we really mean "not with," and you are "not with" a lot of things that more common minded people would like to have you in.

Your splendid forehead and straight face can lead the way for others, or present a wall of resistance to any who would mislead the way.

Your name contains an old Hebrew phrase, ORMAH, which shows great prudence and subtlety. You may carry this to any extent you like, from a kindly effort to guide others without worrying them with details, clear over to actual deception, when you think the cause demands it.

The two letters, OR, in your name had two different meanings among the ancients, according to how they appeared. For one thing, OR meant to them a beautiful skin of waxenlike quality, and a soft, alluring bloom.

You can have this yourself by a little study of diet or even by the simple process of eliminating all meats and bread and sweets from your food.

The other meaning of the phrase, OR, was enlightenment. If your digestive organs are trained to treat your skin properly, your skin will enlighten those who observe your beautiful face.

Then, after the years of your youth have established you in a right and natural maturity, you may come with sweet and staid joy, to the last syllable of your name, MA. For there is in you that which will have missed life, unless you are finally a mother. (© 1930, Western Newspaper Union.)

ENTERTAINS FRIENDS.

Mr. and Mrs. Hobert Creighton entertained the following guests last Tuesday evening: Mr. and Mrs. O. E. Beeson, Mr. and Mrs. Emery Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. Herschel Nellans, Mr. and Mrs. M. Roy Rush, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Leininger, Mr. and Mrs. Forest Kesler, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Merke 1 and Mr. and Mrs. Russel Creighton.

The guests were instructively entertained by a moving picture, showing Cod Fish being caught in New Foundland and were shown the process of extracting the oil from the fish livers and preparing it for market.

This was an interesting study by the guests as they being directors in the Feed mill being erected in Mentone will soon be purchasing large quantities of cod liver oil to use in poultry mashes and to retail to the farmers in the community.

FARM RESIDENCE BURNS.

About 7 o'clock Sunday morning the residence of Oran B. Tucker, on his farm 6 miles south-west of this place was destroyed by fire together with all of his household effects with exception of a few salvaged from the first floor and the basement.

It is supposed that the fire originated from a defective flue, as the blaze seemed to have originated in the attic, and when discovered had gained considerable headway. The Mentone Fire Truck was immediately called but when it arrived the fire was so great that all that could be done was to save the adjoining buildings.

All of the effects of Mrs. Mahlon Meredith, mother of Mrs. Tucker who occupied a portion of the second floor were consumed. The entire loss is estimated at about $4,000.00 with but a very small amount of insurance.

Some Notes at the Fire.

The Community Truck did some effective work in keeping the fire away from the other buildings—some of which were very close.

There was a very strong wind at the time, fanning the flames making the heat intense.

One laughable feature of the fire was the act of Vernon Jones saving one of the nine lives of a cat that was entrapped in the basement.

This is but another demonstration that the Community Truck is a good thing, as the loss would have been much greater had it not been there.

VISITING MOTHER

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. W. Hanley of Concord N. H. arrived in Mentone, Sunday evening to visit Rosa Meredith, mother of Mrs. Hanley. They motored through crossing over into Canada at Buffalo and again entered the United States at Detroit. On the way from Detroit to Mentone they encountered the first blizzard of the season. Ice and snow were frozen on their car and, at times on the way the fall of snow was so heavy they were forced to slow down considerably.

Mr. Hanley says that New Hampshire is the Switzerland of America, the scenic beauty of the state bringing tourists from every part of the world. The "White Mountains" in the fall presents a brilliancy of foliage color that is indescribable. He says it is a fine place to spend a vacation, although he likes to come Mentone for a few days with his mother-in-law Rosa Meredith.

Beef Grading and Stamping Service

Activities Extended to Several Large Slaughtering Centers.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Expansion of its beef grading and stamping activities to provide service at several additional slaughtering centers, has been announced by the bureau of agricultural economics, United States Department of Agriculture. These centers include Buffalo, Erie, Cleveland, Detroit, and St. Louis. Experienced beef graders will be stationed in the five cities, to grade and stamp carcasses and wholesale cuts of beef for slaughterers at a nominal charge.

Invent Stamping Devices.

The federal beef grading and stamping service was inaugurated at a few slaughtering centers in May, 1927, in response to a widespread demand for a grading service to indicate the quality of beef in a way that would be comprehensible to the consumer. Roller stamping devices were invented that made it possible to display the federal grade label on each cut of beef. The label informs the consumer that the steak or other cut was designated by the federal grader as U. S. Prime, U. S. Choice, U. S. Good, or U. S. Medium, depending on its quality.

Requests for Service.

The popularity of this government grading and stamping produced a volume of requests for the service from all branches of the meat industry, including slaughterers, wholesalers, retail meat dealers, hotel supply houses, and scores of hotels or restaurants in all parts of the country. The service was made available at Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Washington, Chicago, Kansas City, Topeka and Omaha. The department received requests for further expansion to additional centers, and it is in response to these requests that the July 1 additions are being made.

As evidence of the increasing demand for government graded and stamped beef, the bureau cites that there was an increase of 62 per cent in the quantities of beef graded and stamped during the past five months as compared with the same period a year ago.

Prevent Occurrence of Goiter in Lamb Flock

Prevent the occurrence of goiter in lambs by feeding the breeding ewes one or two grains daily of either potassium iodide or sodium iodide, according to a statement by animal husbandry specialists at Michigan State college.

The chemical can be fed to the ewes by mixing it with grain or it can be dissolved and poured over salt which is fed to the sheep. Another method of administering the medicines is to mix one ounce of it with 25 pounds of salt and 25 pounds of steamed bone meal.

Care must be taken in mixing the chemical with the salt and bone meal to get an even distribution of the iodide. It is best not to make up too large a quantity of the mixture at one time.

Feeding Fowls for Egg Production Important

Feeding the flock for egg production is an important part of the management of poultry. A laying mash composed of 100 pounds each of wheat bran, wheat middlings, ground oats, corn meal, and meat scrap is suggested. If it is desired to increase the consumption of mash a quantity equal to what the birds will clean up quickly may be fed at noon, mixing the dry mash to a crumbly consistency with skim milk. Scratch grain to be fed with this mash consists of 100 pounds each of wheat, cracked corn, and heavy oats. The quantity of grain to feed for 100 hens will be about four pounds in the morning and eight pounds at night.

Cattle May Contract

Tuberculosis From Hogs

While the danger that cattle may contract tuberculosis from hogs is not so great as it is that hogs may contract the disease from cattle, it is possible that cattle will contract the disease from hogs and when both are in the same pasture it is very likely that cattle will contract the disease, provided, of course, the hogs have the disease.

Cattle will generally refuse to eat the manure voided by hogs, while hogs will very readily eat the manure voided by cattle, and on this account it is more likely that hogs will contract the disease from cattle than it is that cattle will contract it from hogs.

Sheltering Machinery Most Profitable Plan

The actual monetary loss in depreciation of farm machinery left unhoused through all sorts of weather is only one form of loss the owner of the machinery suffers, says J. C. Wooley, chairman of the department of agricultural engineering of the Missouri College of Agriculture. In fact the loss from a poor quality of work, loss of time when time is valuable, loss of crops, and the loss of energy and temper which results from struggle with a rust-laden machine, often a greater factor than the monetary loss in depreciation of machine.

No "Tommy Rot" Is Will

One of the shortest wills ever filed in Ireland was that of Arthur Bond Yockney of Lindisfarne, who died recently, leaving $9,725. It reads: "I, Hill-drop Terrace, Torquay, June 15, 1910. INCREASED FEED IN WINTER BEST

Good Way to Bring Up Production of Laying Fowls.

With a 50 per cent production for young stock as a practical economical limit for their production, J. B. Hayes, poultry specialist at the University of Wisconsin, advises that careful feeding should attend their introduction into the class of producers.

"Forcing," he declares, "should not be attempted on young stock, nor should it be expected of them that production on top of early maturity gained from forcing will be the best for flock production."

For poultry stock which is in condition to be forced, such as pullets that are well along to maturity, and hens that have fully recovered from their molt and are again in good condition, increased feeding during the winter months is a good way to bring up production of the flock. One of the best of rations for the flock to bring them to better production is this one:

Scratch Feed Mixture — Cracked corn, 2 pounds; wheat, 2 pounds; oats, 1 pound.

Mash—Bran, 100 pounds; wheat middlings, 100 pounds; buckwheat middlings, 100 pounds; ground oats, 100 pounds; oil meal, 50 pounds; salt, 3 pounds.

Practices in feeding that have been found to be the best, according to Hayes, include the feeding of grain in two or three portions during the day. The mash is the true "forcer" of the feed for the flock.

Watch for Bumblefoot in the Chicken Flock

During the winter months when the flock is confined indoors on hard concrete or board floors, a few cases of bumblefoot are likely to develop and to require attention.

Bumblefoot results in an abscess or corn on the bottom of the fowl's foot, usually caused by a jar or bruise received in jumping from a perch that is too high to a hard floor. Occasionally the trouble is caused by sharp corners on the perches or by perches that are too large for the fowls to rest on naturally.

One of the best remedies for bumblefoot is prevention. See that there are no sharp corners on the roosts and that the roosts are as low as they can be placed conveniently, particularly if one of the heavy breeds is being housed. Another item that is of value in prevention is the matter of keeping a liberal supply of clean litter on the floors.

In cases where bumblefoot develops, a few applications of tincture of iodine will usually effect a cure. If applied at the first signs of foot soreness.

Egg-Eating Vice Needs Immediate Attention

Whenever there is a tendency towards the egg eating vice the eggs should be gathered several times daily. It may seem a laborious task, but it is the only safe course.

The trouble may also be prevented by arranging the nests so that the fronts do not face the light. By turning them around, facing them towards the wall, the eggs are hidden from view, and there is less likelihood of any inquisitive bird locating the eggs.

All nest boxes should be arranged so that they are at least a foot from the floor of the house, thus preventing the hens from coming into direct contact with them.

Poultry Notes

Clean straw in the nests insures clean eggs.

Poorly housed, improperly fed chickens are more susceptible to invasion of worms.

Clean, comfortable houses, good feed, clean drinking dishes, clean feeders, will help keep chickens in good health.

Alfalfa, red clover and soy bean hays are all valuable, ranking in the order in which they are named.

Not all pullets having a high beginning rate will be high producers, but those starting with a low rate of production seldom succeed in paying for their feed.

Many farmers do not seem to realize the value of some sort of green food for hens. It is absolutely essential that they have it if heavy egg production is expected.

The poor layer is through working until next spring. From now on she is boarding off of her owner.

Give the breeding birds free range during pleasant weather. The addition of one pint of cod liver oil to each 100 pounds of mash will increase fertility and hatchability.

A straw loft provides the best insulation above, although paper and sheathing on the under side of rafters with sawdust between gives effective insulation and is much used.

Spanish Strain in Mustang

The name "mustang" is given to the hardy, half-wild horse of the American plains, descended from stock introduced by the Spanish conquerors.

DETAILS INSURE EGGS IN WINTER

Pullets Must Be Given Well-Balanced Ration.

If the pullets are to produce an abundance of winter eggs, they must have a well-balanced ration, plenty of room, fresh air, and clean litter and be free from lice and other annoyances. Their development and management during the critical time just preceding and during the winter laying period requires careful attention to many details.

After the range has become depleted, cabbage, swiss chard, or other green feed should be added to the ration and continued throughout the winter months. Green feed aids in egg production and helps to prevent diseases, especially colds and roup. Skim milk or buttermilk in the ration is also an aid in producing winter eggs and maintaining the health of the flock. Sudden changes in feed are to be avoided.

The house should be clean, well ventilated and roomy. Leghorns require at least three square feet of floor space and six inches of roosting space. The heavy breeds need more space.

Pullets need a great deal of fresh air. The house should have 15 to 25 square feet of open space in front for each hundred pullets. This space is kept wide open except in very windy or severely cold weather when it may be partly closed by lath wind bafflers.

The skillful poultryman will move the pullets into winter quarters before they begin to lay and will keep them perfectly free from lice and mites and other sources of annoyance.

Fattening of Poultry for Holiday Markets

The chickens that are fat will be the ones that will bring the highest price on the market during the holiday trade. Always the fat ones are bought before the poor ones. So warns D. H. Hall, extension poultry husbandman, Clemson college, in discussing the fattening of poultry for market.

The fattening ration of birds is very simple, says Mr. Hall. You have enough protein to build up muscle, but the carbohydrates content should be high. A soft feed or mash should be fed in order to make the muscles as soft as possible. The following ration will make a good fattening food: 50 pounds corn meal, 25 pounds wheat bran, 25 pounds middlings.

Mix the above with two parts buttermilk. When buttermilk is not available, meat scrap can be mixed with this ration at the rate of 15 pounds per 100 and water used to moisten the mash.

Young fowls stand confinement well, but old hens do not. It is best to fatten young fowls in coops and old hens in small runs. A fowl on fattening ration should gain from 50 to 90 per cent of its own weight.

Changing Litter Often Gives Healthy Results

Nature has decreed that no animal does well for any length of time closely associated with its own excrement. Do not forget this. Do not force your birds to pick over and try to eat out of litter which is largely composed of dust and dried hen manure.

Change the litter frequently. It is a labor, a trouble, and an expense; yes, but it is the only way to do, if you want the best results with your poultry.

Whether the floors of your house are of boards or cement, do not let them become damp.

Remember, a hen's kidneys throw off a comparatively small amount of matter, and the poor hen has no sweat glands, so that most of the liquid (and she drinks a lot of water, you know) is thrown off in her breath.

The air in a henhouse is bound to be damp enough any way, and it is the practice of a good poultryman to so arrange his floors and ventilation that dampness is kept to an absolute minimum.

Ultra Violet Rays

Windows should be hinged so that the sun can shine directly onto the hens, because the sunlight coming through glass loses the ultra violet rays. These rays have the property to make the minerals in the ration available. A hen apparently has the ability to store this factor in her body, but if she lays well and is kept out of direct sunlight for a long time, then she exhausts the supply. She may continue to lay but will make only thin shelled eggs.

Potatoes for Hens

Cooked potatoes make a valuable addition to the ration for winter layers. Raw potatoes are not satisfactory for chickens. For best results they must be boiled or steamed so as to be mashed and mixed while hot with that amount of the laying mash that will make a moist, crumbly mixture. The mixture is fed as a warm mash at noon or in the evening in the amount that the hens will readily consume in about 15 or 20 minutes' time.

Seeds' Wonderful Vitality

Parsnip seeds have been known to germinate after being kept two years in a vacuum.

Xerxes' Famous Bridge

Xerxes crossed the Hellespont on a double floating bridge, one line supported on 860, the other on 314 vessels anchored head and stern, with their keels in the direction of the current.

KONJOLA GIVES PROMPT RELIEF TO THIS LADY.

Stomach, Liver And Kidney Ailments Of Severest Nature Banished By New Medicine.

(MRS. CATHERINE CISELL)

"I suffered from indigestion," said Mrs. Catherine Cissell, 341 Massachusetts avenue, Indianapolis. "I bloated frightfully after meals and walking was difficult because of shortness of breath. My kidneys pained me severely and bladder actions were frequent. A sluggish liver caused me to have frequent dizzy spells. Constipation added to my misery and I was forced to use strong laxatives. My condition grew worse in spite of medicines and treatments.

"The first bottle of Konjola helped me and I was greatly encouraged. I continued the treatment until my health troubles were over. I now eat what I wish without suffering. My kidneys no longer bother me and I am free from backaches. The tired worn out feeling has gone and I enjoy my work. I am no longer constipated and I am glad to tell what this great medicine has done for me."

It is recommended that Konjola be taken over a six to eight week period in the average case.

Friendly People

Friendly people can be found
In every town, the world around.
Where'er I go, I'm sure to find
At least one soul whose smile is kind.
He may not have one touch of style,
But yet be blest with such a smile,
As touches me in such a way
To cheer me up, for all the day.

His color may be white or brown
(And likely, he's without renown)
His face may show the smudge of dirt,
And dark and greasy be his shirt.
He may be found within a store—
It may be she who mops the floor.
I've even found policemen, who Forgot themselves, and smiled at you!

And I have also learned that I Can find a quarrel with half a try.
If I am surly, cross and sour,
I'll meet my match, within the hour!
But if I smile, and pleasant be,
My smile is soon returned to me.
And so it is, my whole life thru—

PUT FARM PROFIT INTO HOMES

By W. M. JARDINE, Ex-Secretary of Agriculture, in Country Home.

Split your year's profit in half and put it right back into the farm. Put it all back there, if you can by so doing create a better atmosphere, a place for children to grow up in beauty and freshness, among things of culture, and where men and women work with pride. Does the city man who buys and furnishes an expensive house expect it to pay interest? Do we expect our libraries and palaces of art to pay interest? Can we figure compound interest on happiness, culture, civilization?

Farm homes soon will have all the appliances that city dwellers have. Manufacturers are now bending their efforts toward adapting the newest inventions to even remote country places, and by installing them farmers will lose their envy of city life.

EVILS OF MODERN INDUSTRY

By DR. BERNARD IDINGS BELL, Warden St. Stephens College, New York.

MODERN industry has killed creative individuality, has commercialized amusements until they are no longer amusing, has debauched the home and weakened religion. We live in a tawdry and dingy world in which the poor suffer from misery and the rich from boredom all because of a misguided industrialism. Human beings have become little more than dehumanized cogs in a machine, and instead of producing free and dignified men and women, industry has been operated on the stupid notion that it should produce cheaply large quantities of goods.

Industry run for goods and not for men has resulted in some few people being not reasonably wealthy but so stuffed with money properly unspendable as to have resulted in a vast vulgarity and arrogance which have debased good taste and even further obscured the worth of the human spirit. On the other hand, the vast portions of our population live in constant anxiety about the future, a precarious existence day by day. And all of this deadening and dulling of the human spirit has been due to our having esteemed the product more precious than the producer.

Our civilization gives no more real joy to the wealthy than to the poor. The one class is bored and the other class is envious of that boredom. If the earth is to be made the nurturing place of human souls, what labor must be performed, what sacrifice offered, what struggles to go through against the inertia of a decadent materialism! What great thoughts must be thought, what wise words spoken, what noble lives lived, what pain endured! We have as yet only begun to live. Yet God is patient. Still he cares.

OUR ECONOMIC SYSTEM FAULTY

By DR. WALLACE M'CLURE, Federal State Department.

Over-production and unemployment form a vicious circle in economic affairs. Each is a result of the other, and efforts to correct either, as long as the other persists, are likely to be unavailing.

It is difficult to imagine a stain upon present-day civilization more deep-dyed than this. The entire human race, save for the little handful of persons who comprise the wealthy classes, is crying out for more and more goods. The full time of every worker every day is needed to produce the goods desired. Yet untold millions of human lives are being deprived of all approach to happiness today because we have been unable so to organize our industrial system as to conserve and make fruitful our human resources.

If in even the greatest of national markets, our own, unemployment seems to be chronic; if the same thing is apparently true in Australia, a new country of vast resources and only 6,000,000 people; the conclusion can hardly be avoided that only the widest attainable international markets are sufficient in order that existing difficulties of demand and supply may be set over against each other and canceled.

Last Week's News Reviewed by A Stranger in the Windy City

Chicagoan is glad to hear from
readers on matters of general interest to the community. Letters sent to the above address
will receive prompt attention.

Chicago, Ill., October 29—A headline on the front page of last week's Farm News has caused me to do a little thinking about the local business situation in Mentone.

"Over $25,000 Comes To Mentone Weekly For Eggs and Livestock," says the headline, and the editor pertinently inquired of the local merchants, "Are you getting your portion of this money?"

$25,000 per week is a lot of money folks, and if you had a factory in town with a payroll anything like that, you would be very proud of it.
Now I wonder how much of the $25, 000 received each week by farmers is saved. By that I mean put into savings accounts where it is out of reach of the local merchant. Not very much, is there? Probably 10 per cent or $2,500 per week is disposed of in this way, and the balance finds its way into regular channels of trade. Post office records will reveal that much of it goes to the mail order houses, and any bystander can see that some more of it goes to other towns, but that brings us right back to the original question. How much of this money is spent with Mentone merchants, and is each merchant getting his portion of the trade?

Nobody is going to be able to give exact figures, but I'll bet more than one local merchant would tell me that there was too much money leaving Mentone, so the question that must be considered is how to keep more money in the community in which it originated. One thing is certain, you can keep very little of the "truant" money at home by "cussing" the mail order houses and out-of-town stores. That's been tried and tried, but the more it's tried, the more certain we become that such propaganda is at best only a partial relief. It seems that the only way outside competition can be met, is by adopting some of the methods used by those who are reaping profits from the $25,000 coming to Mentone every week.

People will buy where they feel they are getting the most for their money, and where they know they can obtain the goods they desire.
There are farmers sending orders to the mail order houses, this very day, who do not know what is for sale in Mentone's stores, nor at what prices they can obtain the goods that fill their orders. What are these farmers to do? Take a week off and make a thorough inspection of everything that is on local dealers shelves and in their basements? Possibly that would be patriotic, but it is hardly practical, so the farmer will read his catalog, and the advertisements that appear in his papers, and then act accordingly.

The Farm News is read in every home that it enters, therefore it is a better advertisement medium than a circular would be, but with ads in this paper and circulars, both telling the people what is in the local stores and the good prices at which it can be purchased, merchants will soon learn that much of the $25,000 egg and stock money that now is slipping away, will be diverted back into its natural channels.

Look at that, I read only the front page this week, and used up all my space. That shows you how good the Farm News is.

Items Pertaining to This Institution of Education.

Chas. Cole, Editor.

Two months have passed and every one is feeling like school has just started, eager to help organize any movement that might happen to originate.

The first operetta practice was Tuesday night at the school house. The first practice is usually rather dull but after things get organized it will move along more smoothly.

Wednesday found us taking monthly exams so as to get the grades recorded that we might be given the report cards next Wednesday.

Notes from the Teachers Institute.

The teachers who went to Indianapolis were Miss Mentzer, Miss Bowen, Mrs. Fenstermaker, Miss Southerlin, Mr. Champer and Mr. Kelley. The ones who attended the Institute at Fort Wayne were Mr. Goshert, Mr. Wilson and Mr. Hall.

A movement has been started to organize a Parent-Teachers Association. We hope to get this finished in the near future. Please watch this space for further announcement.

Among the important speakers at the Institute at Indianapolis were Dr. Strayer of Columbia University and Sen. Simeon Fess from Ohio. Dr. Strayer spoke of "The Administration of Public Education in Indiana." and "An American Program of Education."

Sen. Fess "Reviewed The Recent Steps Toward World Peace."

All teachers reported interesting profitable meetings.

The Glee Clubs are working on the musical comedy, "The Belle of Barcelona" which they hope to have ready to present some time in December. About forty five students are included in the cast. Those taking major solo parts are Elizabeth Welch, Winifred Swick, Lucille Heckaman, Elery Nellans, Gerald Boggess, Philip Blue, Merl Lynn, Oliver Smith and Charles Cole.

Joseph Baker, one of Mentone's Jewelers is giving a fountain pen to the student making the highest grades until the end of the first semester.

Some student will get a fine Century fountain pen for only a little work on his or her part.

The attendance of the grades were a little higher last month than the first. The first month's average was 98 last it was 99 and a fraction.

The average attendance of the High School for the first month was 99 plus. Last month 99.42. The seniors had 99.34. The juniors 99.62. The sophmores 99.1. The freshmen 99.86.

Here is the "Do you believe it" problem for this week. Do you believe that if one grain of wheat could be placed on the first square of a checker board, two on the second, four on the third and so on, each time doubling the number before, do you know that this wheat loaded on railway cars, one thousand bushels to the car, would make a string of cars long enough to extend around the earth at the equator eleven thousand times. Remember you do not have to believe this unless you want to but nevertheless it is true. The algebra class is responsible for this space.

Since the health class has been studying about nerves, we have noticed some of the students sticking themselves with pins to see if what they are studying is really true. Most of them are finding a few nerves. The study of the nervous system is a very complicated subject but Mr. Goshert is seeing that they get it. The subject is very interesting and is being taught in a way that it does not grow monotonous.

The eight grade now has a lesson on Current Events every Tuesday during the history period.

Mr. Hall musical composition the "White and Crimson" march, priced at 40c, may be purchased by any one connected with the school for 25 cents.

The various sections of the eighth grade have done very well in providing for the opening exercises.

No Lost Motion in Handling Milk

Few Foods Are Delivered to Consumer as Quickly and Cleanly.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Few foodstuffs are delivered to the consumer as quickly and cleanly with as little lost motion as milk, and in bringing about this condition the bureau of dairy industry, United States Department of Agriculture, co-operating with the state, city and other officials and with the dairy industry and the public, has played an important part, said O. E. Reed, chief of the federal bureau, in an address July 7 at Sacramento, Calif., to the California State Milk-Control conference. The federal bureau, he said, is working constantly to raise still higher the general level of quality of the public milk and cream supply.

Consumption of Products.

"The consumption of dairy products in the United States can be greatly increased," he said. "The per capita consumption of milk in this country is much lower than it is in several other of the civilized nations. Our bureau is serving both the economic interests of the dairy industry and the nutritional interests of consumers."

"Our bureau is investigating dairy sanitation, and is devising and helping to introduce better methods of producing and handling fluid milk and cream," he said. "Our quality-improvement work relates to the sanitary treatment of utensils and the care of milk equipment; to the cooling of milk and cream to prevent the growth of bacteria; to the care of milk and cream in transit to the consumer; to efficiency in pasteurization; and to sanitation in city milk plants. Also, when asked to do so, we assist state and local authorities in formulating legislation and ordinances for safeguarding the milk and cream supply. As a result of this work, the bureau is able to advise dairymen, milk dealers and distributors, and milk control officials, as to methods to use which will help to give stability to the producer's market and trade conditions, and which will provide the consumer with wholesome products."

Herd Improvement.

Mr. Reed emphasized that herd improvement by associations of dairymen is highly important to the dairy industry. "Sound economics demands that the industry maintain only cows which produce efficiently and economically. The consumer has the right to expect that the industry will increase its productive efficiency," he said.

Raising and Finishing

Baby Beef on the Farm

The farmer who keeps a herd of beef cows and fattens the calves for market as yearlings has some advantages over the farmer who buys feeder calves. By using a good type pure bred bull of one of the beef breeds with cows carefully selected for beef type and early maturity, he can produce better calves than those usually available for feeding. By starting these farm raised calves on grain while they are still running with the cows, they will go into the feed lot weighing more than range raised calves, and there will be no setback from weaning or from being shipped long distances. Calves which are raised and finished on the farm will reach market weight and finish in a shorter time.

Farm Hints

The pasture is entitled to a rest; it is absolutely necessary for best results.

Effective methods of swarm control of bees involve the use of young queens and plenty of room for the bees.

Covering silage with blankets or burlap and preventing circulation of air in the silo are ways to keep silage from freezing in severely cold weather.

Farmers are learning that it pays to plow the stubble immediately following the binder or combine, especially if the following crop is to be winter wheat.

Isolation of the new hogs requires that they be placed in a lot by themselves far enough removed so they will not come in contact with other hogs through the fence.

Vegetable specialists recommend seeding the garden to rye or some other cover crop. The growth will prevent erosion and the green material will improve the physical condition of the soil.

Products produced on the farm are an important item in the income of the usual farm business. As an average, approximately one-third of the farm family's living comes from the farm. A well planned farm garden is a source of much of these products.

Look for Hessian fly infestation the second week in November. Infested plants may be found in early sown fields or where volunteer was left standing. Volunteer wheat is recognized as one of the most injurious weeds grown on the farm. Inspect the fields for the fly while the infested plants show deep green colors and hollow stems.

Great Plateau Untraveled

The ice plateau in the heart of Greenland has never been crossed through the center except twice, and then only in summer.

No Moisture When Needed

The Great American desert gets plenty of rain in July and August, but it lacks rainfall at the important spring growing season.

Of Interest to Poultrymen.

The Better Poultry Association has made arrangements with the Farm News to publish a number of very valuable and interesting articles on the care and breeding of poultry. These articles will be prepared under the direct supervision of the U. S. Department of agriculture and be written by men who know the poultry business, and should be read by every person interested in poultry.

The association has also subscribed for a large number of copies of the Farm News to be sent to poultrymen who are not now taking the Farm News, who will receive same until July 1, 1931. Hence if you receive this paper and have not subscribed for it you may know that it is paid for and is not being forced upon you.

As the number of subscriptions ordered by the association does not cover all the poultry keepers in this vicinity and believing that the articles will be of great value to everyone engaged in the raising of poultry we will except subscriptions from any other poultry raiser to expire July 1 1931, for the small sum of twenty-five cents. Just fill in, bring or send the attached coupon to the Farm News office together with twenty-five cents and your name will be placed on our subscription list.

DAIRY FACTS

COWS CONDITIONED LARGELY ON CORN

After Calving Make Good Use of Bran Mash.

"Cows that have been milked until they are below normal in flesh can be most quickly and economically conditioned on corn," says G. A. Williams of Indiana. A mixture of six pounds ground corn, two pounds ground oats or bran, and one pound of oil meal is a mixture he recommends. As soon as the desired condition has been obtained, replace the corn with bran and ground oats. At least ten days before freshening feed equal parts of bran and oats with possibly one pound of oil meal a day and greatly reduce the quantity.

For several days before and after calving there is no feed so good as bran mash because of their cooling and laxative properties. If constipation develops, give a quart of raw linseed oil or one pound of epsom salts. Clover, alfalfa or soy bean hay may be allowed with possibly a limited amount of silage. Many cases of milk fever can be avoided by cure at this time.

After calving, supply plenty of water but increase the grain ration very slowly. Corn and oats must be sparingly used until about the fifth day when the regular ration of four pounds of corn, two pounds of oats and one pound of oil meal at the rate of four to five pounds a day may be used. Increases should be made at the rate of one pound every third or fourth day until maximum production has been reached. When a cow no longer responds to increased feed, drop back slightly when it will be noted that she will increase still further in production. Full feeding had best be deferred until four to six weeks after freshening.

Mr. Williams calls attention to the fact that at the time of calving, certain substances called hormones are liberated into the cow's blood stream which stimulate milk production. These hormones, he says, become exhausted as the lactation period advances or if the cow is in poor flesh.

Get Excellent Results From Balanced Ration

A great many farmers do not feed a well balanced ration to their dairy cows because for some reason or other they think that such a ration is necessarily much more expensive than one made up of the ordinary farm grains. If a protein feed has to be purchased the price usually seems high. A ton of a high protein concentrate always costs more than a ton of corn or oats or barley, and unfortunately many farmers compare the price of feeds on the ton basis. The thing that so many do not seem to realize is that a given amount of a high protein feed properly mixed with farm-grown grains will bring a lower production cost because the more perfectly a dairy ration is balanced with reference to protein, carbohydrates and mineral matter, the more economically will it be used by the animal.

Early Cut Sunflowers to Keep Up Milk Flow

Sunflowers cut about 88 days after planting, or about the middle of August, proved to be the most palatable and kept the milk flow of the cows closest to the level of corn silage in trials made in Illinois.

The Mammoth Russian variety was used in rows about 3½ feet apart and about 10 inches apart in the rows. When about 25 per cent of the plants are in bloom and show the yellow rays plainly, and the upper leaves are green, is the best time to cut sunflowers for the silo. Two other lots of sunflowers were tried out, one lot being cut and ensiled when 95 per cent of the plants were in bloom and half the leaves were rusted dry, while at the third cutting the plants were about dead and entirely dry and woody.

Pasture Supplement

As late summer approaches the need for pasture supplement becomes more acute. It is during this period that pastures become short, due to dry weather. Silage has proved to be the best forage supplement for pasture, although soiling crops, such as green corn, oats and soy beans may be used, if the labor is available. It pays to supplement these feeds with one of the grain mixtures and hay, in order to keep up the production of heavy milking cows.—James V. Hopkins, Monongalia County, West Virginia.

Get Herd in Shape

Now is the time the good dairyman is getting the herd, his feed and his barns in good condition for the winter. A cow that is allowed to get thin and shaggy now, will produce nothing but hair through the winter. All feeds are reasonably cheap now and the good dairyman will make arrangements for his winter supply. He will see that his barns are repaired and arranged with plenty of light and ventilation and a water supply so arranged that it will not be cold.

Bat's Sense of "Sight"

"Blind as a bat" is a common expression, but a bat has such acute powers of vision that it may almost be said to see with its skin.

ALL WORK GUARANTEED

I do all kinds of well drilling and repairing and guarantee that you will be pleased with my service. Homer Saner, Phone 8 on 198, Akron. Dec. 24.

Says WILL ROGERS

BEVERLY HILLS.—Well all I know is just what I read in the papers. I was just sitting reading a very beautiful Horse Magazine called, "Polo." It is the issue that tells of the great International Match played between England and America, and it gives the very detail of each play, and also tells of the sale of the Horses after the match. You know I was just thinking it might be interesting to some of you to know something especially about the horses, for you don't have to be a Polo Nut to be interested in good horses.

There was $335,000 worth of horses sold at public auction after the games. The British sold 48 head for $183,400, The Americans 36 head $73,000 and the Australians 25 head for $77,600. The British averaged pretty near $4,000 a horse. The Americans only about $2,000 and the Australians $3,000. White Slave, an English bred mare played by the English, brought $13,000 Bucks, that was the top price, bought by Laddie Sandford. Lady Luck, another English one, owned and played by Lewis Lacey, the great Argentine and English Player, brought $10,000, and an Australian mare, Isobel, $10,000. Course lots of them brought $1,500, and a thousand, but even at that price you are sitting on quite an expensive hunk of horseflesh. And you can't always tell the ones you give the more for may not turn out to be the best. The reason the Americans didn't bring as much was the fact that most of the best horses played by the American team was privately owned and was not put up for sale at all. The ones sold were just the ones that were owned by the Polo Association.

The games are pulled off under the management of the U. S. Polo Association. They guarantee the British team their Transportation and expenses and all which is taken out of the Gate receipts, and this year the Association had themselves bought up quite a string of Ponies for our team. Heretofore they had depended entirely on the generosity of other players loaning their best horses to the big team, but this year they bought some themselves, and sold them after the games. Of course some individuals sold their Horses. Charley Wrightsman a fine young Sportsman and member of our Clubs out here on the coast was good enough to mount Eric Pedley, the sensation of the games, and a fellow Coast Player. Eric had gone back there to try out a time or two before in International matches, but he never had a proper chance for he wasn't properly mounted, but this time Charley sent back twenty head just for Eric to play through the test Matches on.

You know a horse is really from 60 to 70 percent of the game. That's about the ratio the Experts figure it. If you can't beat a man to the ball why there is no use going. Its speed, and more speed that counts with those big League fellows. Us Punks can loop around and have a lot of fun on a pack of old Hounds, but if we was among those fast fellows we would get run over.

Most of the Horses that make those big games are Thoroughbreds, or three quarters so. An awful lot of them are bred and raised on Western ranches, and lots of them have run cattle. Polo had not only been a recreation or Hobby of a lot of rich people, but its been a God-send to the Horse business. It has done more to establish the breeding of good horses than even races have. Now it is a big business, and there is dozens of men just prowling all over the west buying likely "prospects" for Polo. The game is growing so fast and the demand for horses so great that its a real business now.

All the Colleges have taken up Polo now, and thats a great boost for it, and this thing of it costing all this money is a lot of Hooey. You can buy three or four old fifty dollar crow bates and have as much fun with the game as Jock Whitney, or Laddie Sandford, who each have perhaps a quarter to a half million just in their Polo Strings alone. That half million to them is just like us buying an extra bowl of Chili. The boy on the sand lot gets just as big a kick out of a home run as Babe Ruth, and the Dub Polo Player on a hired horse gets just as much kick out of making a goal as Hitchcock.

Its a great game, and it learns you to ride quicker than anything on earth for when you start hitting at the ball you forget about how you are going to stay on, you just do it unconsciously. Age don't keep you from playing it. Arthur Brisbanes Father in law, Steward Carey, he is in his seventys. Plays twice a week at Meadowbrook. I was 51 Saturday, and played Sunday, (after coming from Sunday School). I didnt play good, but I had as much fun missing, as the others did hitting. I am going to play till my whiskers get tangled up in the horses tail.

SHOULD BE A LESSON.

Some of our youngsters started their Hallowe'en pranks rather early this year and on Friday night turned over several out-buildings in the village. Marshal Warren traced the identity of the boys and on Saturday compelled the lads to return and put the buildings in their original position, which proved to be anything but fun.

The Marshal informs us that destruction of property on Hallowe'en night will not be tolerated, that there will be a close watch kept, and anyone guilty of destruction of property will find that they will be in trouble.

DEPARTMENT OF JUSTICE.

UNITED STATES ATTORNEY

South Bend Ind., Oct. 15, 1930.
Mr. F. B. Funk, Cashier,
Lake City Bank,
Warsaw Indiana,
Dear Mr. Funk

I have your letter of October 14th, with the reference to Mr. Harley Person, who is candidate for Sheriff of Kosciusko County.

Be advised that I have known Mr. Persons for the last two years and have had many contacts with him in cases growing out of violations of Federal laws. I have always found Mr. Person to be a gentleman of highest integrity and in whom I could place every confidence. On numerous occasions he has notified the various investigating agencies of the Government of violations of the Federal laws, both in connection with the unlawful transportation of automobiles, in violation of the Dyer Act and in the transportation of intoxicating liquor, in violation of the National Prohibition Act. He has been very diligent in assisting the Government to apprehend violators of those acts and is deserving of earnest commendation for his efforts in these matters.

I believe that as a law enforcement officer of Kosciusko, he would fill this place of trust with distinction and with credit both to himself and his many friends.

Very sincerely yours,
(Signed) Oliver M. Loomis.

Oct. 21, 1930.

Mary E. Middleton,
612 E. Ft. Wayne St.,
Warsaw, Indiana.

Dear Madam;

Your letter of inquiry concerning the record of Mr. Person was received this morning, and I am indeed glad to have this opportunity to assure you that Mr. Person's record is above reproach.

I think the people of Kosciusko County are very fortunate in having such a fine young man offer himself for the office of County Sheriff. Be assured that you will be making no mistake should you elect him. We have always had splendid co-operation with Mr. Persons in our work, and it is a pleasure to recommend him.

very truly,
(Signed) O. E. Hall.
United States Marshall.

SUNDAY'S FIRE.

The fire department was called out about 10 o'clock Sunday forenoon to extinguish a roof blaze in the frame residence occupied by Chas. Personett and wife on Tucker St.

When the fire truck arrived at the scene the blaze had gained considerable headway, but quick work on the part of the firemen the flames were quickly subdued. A loss of probably $200 was caused by fire and water.

From all indications the fire was the result of a defective flue as the blaze seemed to be centered around the chimney.

Here is just another case in which the new equipment has shown its value, for without this fire might have proven very costly.

Widows' Self-Immolation

Suttee is the self-burning of widows. The custom began in India when one of the wives of Brahma, the Son of God, sacrificed herself at his death that she might attend him in heaven. Seventeen widows have burned themselves on a funeral pyre of a rajah and in Bengal alone over 700 have been known to perish this way in a year. The English government abolished suttees in December, 1828, but they have since occasionally taken place.

VOTE FOR PROSPERITY

Vote Early and Vote Often, and Then Vote Some More.

Prosperity is up for election, running to overthrow depression.

It's for the people to decide which will be chosen. Every man and every woman is privileged to ballot—every day.

Depression has no rightful place with a hundred and twenty million people, exchanging goods and services, capable, accustomed and willing to work—more highly skilled than other people—leaders in efficiency and progressive—backed by the vast natural resources of the United States. When we make it possible for the man who works to have a job we make it possible for him to buy food for his family and so help all business, including that of a farmer.

The rest of the world is of small importance compared with that free market of 120,000,000 people—homogeneous—of like tastes, habits and aspirations—living under the same laws—free of trade barriers. Foreign trade may be troubled by tariffs and revolutions, but at their peak our exports represented only five and a half billions of dollars of gross business in a year out of a total American income of ninety billions.

Stagnation of circulation is what's the matter with agriculture and with business. Everyone can help get that circulation moving again.

Government can't make Prosperity—alone. Bankers and other business leaders can't make Prosperity—alone. Its the people, united in opinion and purpose and courage, who determine Prosperity. They can elect it—none other.

Ballots that will be validly counted for Prosperity are of many kinds. Some one of them every man and woman can cast. For example:

Help a deserving man or a woman to get a little paying work—or, better, a regular job.

Spend wisely and not too timidly, and anticipate scheduled expenditures so far as is practicable.

Turn the deaf ear to false, mischievous rumors, and don't repeat them, if you do hear them.

Be willing to pay a fair price. Don't take advantage of the other man's necessity. Recognize that he has as good claim to a fair profit as you.

When a vampire that fattens on the miseries of others shows up, help to make him unpopular.

Discourage calamity howlers.

Keep business moving evenly, and remember that, to the average man, his job is his particular business. When possible, reassure him against his fear of losing it.

Save, but save wisely, not in fright. Invest for the profit that sound enterprise pays and for the added profit that will come after the hysteria of pessimism has passed.

We believe that the above article on the present business depression is right, and that the remedy suggested would turn the trick. We would be pleased to publish any comments or suggestions that our readers have to offer along this line. Just write your article plainly, sign your name and send to this office. Your name will not be published if you so request.

OBITUARY

Harriet Matilda Lash, daughter of Philip and Sarah Lash, was born Feb 9 1855 in Harrison Twp., Kosciusko Co., in which county her entire life was spent, except a few years she lived in Marshall Co.

She was united in marriage to William Blue Jan. 20, 1878. They were the parents of four children, Otto, Blanche, Mable and Bernice. The only son Otto, preceeded her in death, having passed away twenty-three years ago. She always grieved for him and in her last hours was made happy by the hope of seeing him soon.

While a young woman she united with the United Brethern church and after moving to Mentone transferred her membership to the M. E. church, to which she remained a faithful member until her death, Oct. 22, 1930 at the age of 75 years, 8 months and 13 days.

During the last four years of her life, she was confined to her home by ill health, and would have found the time almost unbearable had it not been for the kindness of her friends in bringing her bits of news and little gifts and in various ways making the tedious hours pass more quickly. One friend especially whose kind ministrations brought mental as well as physical relief was her doctor, whose coming meant more than a mere professional call, but was also a visit from a real friend.

She is survived by her husband, three daughters, Mrs. Frank Weldon of Warsaw, Mrs. Robert Eaton of Elkhart, Mrs. Charles Leininger of Akron, nine grandchildren, one great grandchild, one brother, E. S. Lash of Mentone, and many other relatives and friends.

Formation of Tree "Rings"

It is well known that the growth of a tree in diameter is shown in the so-called "rings" of annual growth. These rings are simply the material that is added around the tree underneath the bark each year. The outer cells, just inside the bark make up the living, active portion of the tree and each year's product is plainly marked off from that of the preceding year. It is in this manner that the rings are formed.

WORLD WAR BY * * YARNS LIEUT. FRANK E. HAGAN

A Joker Wild

This one, according to Lieut. William Westlake of the One Hundred and Eighth Observation Squadron, Thirty-third division, has been told so many times there is little doubt of its authenticity, but its origin has become obscured. Anyway, it's all about the practical joker aviator who was hoisted, or rather who descended, on his own petard.

An instructor at Issoudun, air training base of the A. E. F., spotted one of his pupils as a likely enough cadet, but a flyer who was ground shy and lacked punch. He decided to cure the cadet of his weakness with a practical joke.

"Do everything I do," he said briefly to the cadet as the two climbed into a training ship with dual controls. Then they took off.

High in air, the instructor accomplished various maneuvers. His pupil copied each move from a seat in the rear cockpit. Then came the "joke" the instructor intended to result in a landing directed solely by his pupil.

Reaching into the cockpit, the instructor unfastened his "joy stick," by which the plane was controlled, showed it to the pupil and calmly tossed the stick overboard. According to his advance reasoning the pupil, grown confident in such an emergency, now would assume control of the ship, and bring them quickly to earth in a safe landing.

Imagine his embarrassment, chagrin and consternation, when the pupil calmly lifted his own stick and dropped it, too, over the side. Then the instructor, with one horrified glance at the dizzy earth below, stepped off the side of the plane, counted eight, and floated away to make a perfect landing with his chute.

As the instructor's feet touched soil again the plane reached earth nearby in a perfect three-point landing and the pupil stepped out. The secret of the miraculous landing, the instructor learned later, was that his pupil had been "tipped off" to his plans for the joke and had equipped the rear cockpit with an extra joy stick. This extra stick, of course, was the second one thrown overboard.

HOW TO LIVE LONGER

Handle With Care

AUTOMOBILING has been defined as the greatest sport on earth. And there seems to be a large amount of evidence to sustain that point. On the other hand, like everything else, there are two sides to the question. For example, in the United States within the last twelve months there have been more than thirty thousand deaths which were directly attributed to the motor car. Not to mention the many times that number of accidents which did not result fatally. It should, therefore, be quite plain that gasoline can do much damage as well as create much pleasure.

With the use of the automobile practically universal, and tourist travel growing by leaps and bounds, it is logical to warn the man at the wheel. It is only natural that by rolling along on a fine highway the operator will develop a keen enthusiasm. But the zest and fascination associated with this sort of thing can very quickly dull one's judgment, which unfortunately frequently occurs. When this happens, selfishness and recklessness step in—and many drivers and passengers step out!

It cannot be gainsaid that so to operate a car as to make a hospital case or worse of one's self or friends is the height of folly. Yet by "beating" trains and in turn by being beaten by them, by failing to keep a firm grasp on the steering wheel at all times, by disregarding caution signs and lights, and by permitting impatience to keep the car in high when caution demands less speed, many thousands of automobilists will conclude their ride by adorning a hospital bed or by making business for the cemetery people.

It seems a shame that with streets and highways admirably marked to aid in careful operation, with water supplies in many jurisdictions designated safe by health officials, with adequate supervision of wayside stands and camping grounds and finally, with all the health and pleasure which may be derived from the wide open spaces, so many drivers will put an untimely end to themselves and others by careless driving.

Remember, that all the personal health in the world coupled with a life expectancy of many happy years will be of no avail whatever if caution on the road is thoughtlessly tossed away. Therefore, at all times handle that automobile of yours with care. And live to drive another day!

POULTRY

HEALTHY HEN IS EGG ESSENTIAL

Feed Must Furnish Fuel to Keep Fowls Warm.

Hens have more work to do in order to lay eggs in winter than any other time of year. For one thing, feed must furnish fuel for keeping them warm. To manufacture whites, yolks and shells of eggs requires a healthy body supplied with certain food elements which hens naturally pick up in the spring and summer.

A number of important food elements have been found to be contained in buttermilk. Lactic acid, milk proteins, vitamins and similar food elements are easy to supply in the laying mash by the addition of 10 per cent or more of dried buttermilk. A ration consisting of 25 pounds of wheat bran, 25 pounds of standard middlings, 30 pounds of cornmeal, 5 pounds bone-meal and 15 pounds of dried buttermilk has given fine results.

In feeding, the laying mash should be kept before the flock all the time and should be supplemented by feeding scratch grain twice a day. By including the dried buttermilk with the dry mash poultry raisers overcome the bother of freezing as well as the trouble of keeping that is encountered when liquid buttermilk is fed. Buttermilk is easy to keep and easy to feed, yet it supplies the very food elements needed for hens to lay in cold weather.

Many poultry raisers who have provided warm houses and have been disappointed by no increase in egg production will be surprised by the results given from feeding a good egg-laying mash.

Straw Loft Gives Good Ventilation in Houses

A cheap and very satisfactory cold weather ventilation for poultry house seems to be the straw loft. A loft covered with woven wire fencing or even with light poles put across about six and one-half or seven feet above the floor and is covered with twelve to fifteen inches of loose straw. The moist air works up through the straw and out through gratings or baffles in the ends just below the roof. Fresh air is admitted by opening the south windows a little at the top. This method has given excellent results in experimental work at several agricultural colleges and is used quite extensively by many commercial poultrymen. The point in favor of the straw loft seems to be that it lets out the moisture fast enough to keep the house reasonably dry and at the same time retains much of the animal heat.

When to Market Fowls From Turkey Flock

Ninety-five per cent of the turkeys are killed, dressed and marketed during November and December.

About 75 per cent of all the turkeys consumed are sold for the Thanksgiving and Christmas trade. A comparatively small quantity marketed at Christmas time is stored.

The Thanksgiving turkeys are usually not full grown or fat. The extra month's feed gives them a much better finish.

They can then be successfully frozen, and thaw out bright and clear.

This freezer stock is used almost exclusively by the hotel trade, some of the larger hotels having turkey on their menu the year around.

Breeding Fowls Need Plenty of Exercise

Breeding stock, especially in the interior, need plenty of exercise during the winter.

Where snow and frost abound, the birds, on suitable days, should be allowed out for a few minutes. After shoveling a small piece of yard clear of snow, a small quantity of litter should be spread for the fowls to scratch in.

This exercise out-of-doors is of untold advantage to shut-in breeding stock.

Worms Take Profits

It is estimated that two-thirds of the poultry sent to the Illinois experiment station for diagnosis is infected with worms. Doubtless about the same condition is true in other states. This is ordinarily caused by overstocking the poultry lots and houses and by keeping the poultry on the same ground year after year. Worm medicines are not wholly effective because they do not destroy the eggs of the parasites. A clean range is better than any medicine.

Fodder for Litter

No poultry flock that does its duty does it without litter. It is an indispensable article in every poultry house, especially where winter eggs are desired, as well as healthy and contented fowls. Some farmers complain that it is a waste to use good wheat or oats straw to permit the hens to scratch in. It never is a waste, but where the straw is not plenty, shredded corn fodder, or even the cut corn fodder makes a mighty fine article for the litter.

Immense Chinese Coal Bed

The Fushun coal field near Mukden, China, has an estimated deposit of 200,000,000 tons of fuel.

Ruth

Ruth is the latter part of the word Truth, after we take off the first T. If we may pun a bit, truly Ruth was true to her ideals.

Ruth's Gentle Hands.

And you generally are, aren't you, Ruth?

To take your last syllable first, or the latter part of your name, rather, the Hebrew word, UTH, in ancient days, meant to speak in season. If you will read the Bible story you will see that she did, and that most effectively.

The gentle hands of Ruth are capable both of labor and caress.

The fore part of your name, Ru, had the general meaning of a thought voiced "with the breath." We would say that it represented the words that "come from the heart."

One of your dangers is that you will make use of the first three letters of your name only, RUT, and get into the rut of being the slavey for the household. It is all right for you to be kind and gracious, for you are happiest when doing so, but learn the great lesson of letting others serve you once in a while.

One of the great laws of life for you to learn is, "we love most those for whom we do most, and they love most those for whom they do most." Therefore, learn to accept graciously, and attract more to yourself thereby.

Taking the letters of your name separately, the R it would signify both Resourcefulness and Righteousness; the U stands for the Unknown, the mystery of your gentle heart and willing hands; the T shows us your Tidiness, for which surely you are well known by now.

Your last letter, H, can produce in you the Haughtiness that you must exert when temptation shows its ugly head in your presence.

Your fearlessness may be exemplified in the life of the Ruth in the Bible. In more modern terms, it is seen in Ruth Elder, the famous aviatrix.

Artificial North Pole

One of the coldest spots in the world is in Soncy, Texas, at the laboratory of the United States bureau of mines, where helium for inflating dirigibles and balloons is produced, this requiring a temperature of 300 degrees Fahrenheit below zero.
