WILL MAKE U. S. LEARN.
WE'RE GETTING MORAL.
BUYING FORGIVENESS.
CHINA'S AWAKENING.

For one thing we should be grateful. Our cousins in Europe will teach us to fly, whether we want to learn or not. The British expect to send to New York next fall an airship "as big as the Lusitania," with room for 100 passengers. That will be one good lesson.

The French Academy of Sciences, a most serious body, says that Margoules, a French engineer, has perfected a helicopter flying machine. Such a machine, enabling you to fly, and rise directly from the ground, would give the inventor wealth unlimited and would be the best invention since the start of the Wright Brothers. With a helicopter in good order you could start from the roof of your apartment house or office building, go where you like, and land on any other roof or office building.

The jazz period in dances and in morals is passing in Christendom and pagan lands. Turkey is suppressing immoral dances; Japan is dealing seriously with the social evil; "all governments," says a writer, "are accustoming themselves with the task of checking immorality."

That is gratifying, important news, and then more important is news that tells of the discovery by British scientists of a new vitamin, 1,000 times more powerful than any known hitherto. It will cure rickets, and most interesting it seems to have the effect of ultra-violet light.

The new health food is called "cholesterol" and contains what is practically the pure vitamin D, a substance called ergosterol. It can be made cheaply, and an ounce of it would be enough to keep you healthy from birth to death.

Health news and educational news are the really important kinds of news. "Give LIGHT and the people will find their own way," as Dante said. Give HEALTH and they will have energy to work well.

Morals change and return to normal with time. Health and knowledge are what count.

Some General Electric genius has invented a searchlight gun that will write on clouds, buildings banks of smoke five miles away. This opens up a marvelous advertising field. But the Government should protect it, and the heavens should continue to declare the glory of God, and the firmament to show forth His handiwork. They should not be used to declare the glory of suspenders, tooth paste or automobiles.

An old man in Illinois sends one dollar to a woman in Indiana, saying "I stole half a watermelon from your father sixty years ago, when I was thirteen. I am now on my way to heaven and do not want that melon standing in my way. Here is the money; forgive and forget."

The question is, can you buy forgiveness from heaven at the last minute, when "on your way"? A Mohammedan writes that his co-religionists do not pray for heaven. They say in the prayers to Allah, "We pray to you because we know you are great, and good, deserving praise. We ask nothing in return." That seems more dignified than everlasting begging, and more tactful.

The Middle West fights the corn borer with a machine that squirts blazing oil over the fields. Huge stubble pulverizers will help the work. Blazing oil will dispose of corn borers, and part of our surplus oil at the same time.

VOLUME 44. AKRON, INDIANA, WEDNESDAY, APRIL 6, 1927. NUMBER 84.

C. TEEGARDEN DIED THURSDAY

Charles M. Teegarden, age 66, farmer living four miles northeast of Mentone died Thursday at 4 a.m. Death was due to anemia from which he had suffered during the last year. He was bedfast for the past several weeks.

Emma Teegarden, his sister kept house for him as he remained a bachelor all his life.

OBITUARY

Charles M., son of Jeremiah and Agnes Teegarden, was born near Harrison Center, May 31, 1860. He was a man of strong character, progressive in his views, loyal to his friends and of strict integrity. He was a member of the Masonic order in Mentone where he was held in high esteem. He leaves two sisters, Emma Teegarden, with whom he has kept a home for a number of years, Mrs. Minnie Atherton of Evanson, Ill., two nieces, Mrs. Madeline Owen of Evanson, Ill., and Mrs. Edith Miller, of South Bend, Ind., and other relatives and friends. He lived in the immediate vicinity where he was born until the morning of March 31, 1927, when he departed into the great beyond at the age of 66 years and 10 months. Funeral services were held Saturday afternoon at the home conducted by Rev. Liddle, pastor of the M. E. Church at Mentone. Burial at Harrison Center cemetery.

HOLD INDIANA SCHOOL BAND CONTEST AT ELKHART, MAY 7

Elkhart, seat of America's band instrument industry, is making elaborate preparations for the entertainment of the Indiana school bands and orchestras on May 7, when representative school bands from every section of the state will compete with each other for the honor of representing the Hoosier state at the National school band contest to be held at Council Bluffs, Ia., May 27 and 28. The Elkhart Chamber of Commerce and a committee representing the band industries of Elkhart are planning the entertainment for the school musicians and every effort will be made to make the Elkhart visit a memorable event in their youthful lives.

More than a dozen school bands and orchestras have already entered the state-wide contest, according to C. R. Tuttle, director of the Marion High School band and president of the Indiana School Band and Orchestra Association, under the auspices of which contest will be held. These include the Central High School Band of Muncie, Fairmount High School Band, Marion High School Band, the LaPorte High School Band, Elkhart High School Band, Hammond High School Band, the Elmer Band of Gary High School, the Goshen School Band, the Arsenal Technical High School Band of Indianapolis, the Central High School Orchestra of Fort Wayne, Hammond High School Orchestra, and the orchestra of Mishawaka High School. April 17 is the closing date for orchestra entries, but band entries may be made until April 15.

A special feature of the Indiana state band contest this year will be the judging of each band while on parade. This will be done by a different set of judges and will have no bearing on the concert part of the program. At the close of the contest on Saturday afternoon, May 7, the bands will be massed together and play three marches, after which the decision of the judges will be announced. The champion band and orchestra will give a joint concert in the Elkhart High School Auditorium that evening at eight o'clock.

The Indiana band contest last year was held at Indianapolis. Arsenal Technical High School of Indianapolis was awarded first place, and second place went to the Marion High School Band.

The National contest at Council Bluffs will be conducted under the joint auspices of the Committee of Instrumental Affairs of the Music Supervisors National Conference and the National Bureau for the Advancement of Music. The prize is the gift of the National Association of Band Instrument Manufacturers, of which C. D. Greenleaf of Elkhart is president.

Dr. and Mrs. Leach returned to Indianapolis Sunday evening. Their son John Jr. returned home with them after a week's visit with his grand parents.

BAND CONCERT HUGE SUCCESS

Although the weather was rainy and raining a crowd of 750 or more gathered at the Community Forum Friday night to hear the concert of Indiana University's Famous Band. Mr. A. L. Nelson introduced the famous musical organization. They opened the program with the "Pillars of Heaven." All their numbers were well received by the audience. The Band leaders rendered several snappy jazz selections which made a fine hit with the younger set. Mr. Romey with his vocal selections was a feature of the program. They did not parade in the afternoon as planned, on account of the weather.

ORDER OF THE DOUBLE CROSS

An organization calling itself "The Order of the Double Cross" made itself known in this locality last Tuesday night. At a little past eight o'clock in the evening a double cross was burned in the Tucker field at the east edge of town. Later a notice was posted in the Post Office on which it was stated that the purpose of the order was to take care of law violators who have been noticed in and around Mentone during the past few months. It also stated that they were in no way connected with the Ku Klux Klan.

WILL ORGANIZE ANTI-THIEF ORGANIZATION

It has been announced that a meeting will be held at the town Hall Saturday night at 7 o'clock. This meeting will be called for the purpose of stopping the thieving that has been going on in this locality for the past year. It will probably be decided at the meeting what steps should be taken to capture or stop these robberies. Thus far, the farmers have been the only victims to suffer. Everybody interested should attend this meeting.

RAY MINER HAS 100 CHICKENS STOLEN FRIDAY NIGHT

Ray Miner was a victim of thieves last Friday night when 100 Plymouth Rock Chickens were taken from his farm south of Mentone. The chickens were taken between 8 and 10 p.m. The family were at Mentone and was not discovered until Saturday morning. It is believed that someone familiar with the farm committed the robbery.

BAPTIST CHURCH NOTES

9:30 A. M. Bible School.
10:45 A. M. Morning Worship.
7:30 P. M. Evening service.
Sunday evening our special Pre-Easter evangelistic services will begin. We trust that prayer is constantly rising for the blessing of God to rest upon them. The pastor will preach and E. E. Wiley of Bourbon will lead the congregational singing and do solo work. All Mentone is invited and urged to attend. The services will begin at 7:30 each evening.

R. N. A. MEETING

Mrs. Jeanie Miller of Gary District, Deputy of the Royal Neighbor lodge visited Maple Leaf Camp of Mentone at their regular meeting, Saturday evening, April 2. There were about forty members present. Mrs. Miller spoke very highly of the work that the officers of this camp are doing and gave them some helpful suggestions.

WORDS OF APPRECIATION

The Indiana University Band very delightfully entertained a large, appreciative audience at the community Forum, Friday evening, April 1st. Although the Band was sponsored by the Sodales Club of Mentone the members do not wish to take undue credit for the achievement of this successful event. But want to express their sincere gratitude to the community in general for their kind co-operation and especially to the business men for decorating their places of business in honor of the occasion, and to the ladies of the town who so kindly offered rooms in their homes for the accommodation of the boys. Also those who assisted the reception committee to entertain the musicians during their spare hours last Friday evening, April 1st. THE SODALES CLUB 8th.

THEATRE WILL OPEN APRIL 14

Mentone will again have movie pictures within the near future. Miner Mollenhour purchased the local theatre last Friday from Mr. Rarick, of Warsaw, the former operator. Mr. Mollenhour is making several improvements. The interior will be redecorated and beautified and it is probable that the front will be improved. The theatre will be opened on Thursday night April 14th. The program is not known at this date. There will be two shows a week, on Thursday and Saturday nights. A complete change in program will be made each night.

PRE-EASTER EVANGELISTIC SERVICES AT BAPTIST CHURCH

Beginning next Sunday night a series of Pre-Easter Evangelistic services will be conducted at the Baptist Church. The pastor, Rev. V. E. Seubert, will preach, and E. E. Wiley will direct the singing and do solo work.

Cottage prayer meetings are being held this week and the prayers of all the Christian people are coveted that the coming meetings may be greatly blessed.

M. E. CHURCH NOTES

Sunday School at the usual hour 9:30. This will be the only service for the day as this is the week of the Annual Conference and Rev. Liddle and wife will be in attendance there. Several of the members also expect to attend.

The Conference will convene at Goshen April 5 to 11th.

Prayer meeting Thursday night. A Sock special will be held in the basement of the church Wednesday night, and the Go-Forward S. S. Class will entertain their families with a Pot-Luck supper on Friday night.

NOTICE OF CLASS PARTY

The Mishap Sunday School class of the Baptist Church will meet at the home of Merrill Smith for a pot reception committee to entertain the musicians during their spare hours last Friday evening, April 1st.

R. GRAY DIES FROM INJURIES

Richard Gray, age 35 died at the Woodlawn Hospital in Rochester Sunday night at 11:15 o'clock from injuries, sustained Saturday morning. At 11 o'clock Saturday morning, Gray left the Burns Bakery where he was employed, to go down town and through curiosity stopped at the workshop of the Mentone Lumber Co. Mr. Eberly was ripping some 2x4 timbers on a power, rip saw when the saw caught the end of one and sent it hurtling through the air. It struck Gray in the abdomen on the right side with such a force that he was knocked to the ground. A local doctor was called and later a surgeon from Rochester was summoned. No serious injuries were found at this time. At 8 o'clock Saturday evening he was taken to the hospital at Rochester where an operation it was found that he was suffering from rupture of the intestines and any further operation was useless. He was conscious until he passed away at 11:15 Sunday night.

Mr. Gray was born in Virginia and spent his boyhood days there. In 1911 he came to Peru, Indiana. In 1912 he married Gertrude Sunday of Denver, who survives him. He moved his family to Mentone last summer and has been in the employ of the bakery till the time of the fatal accident, Saturday morning.

JOHNNY OSWALD TO PITCH FOR HOUSE OF DAVID

Johnny Oswald, eccentric baseball player, who used to toss them for Mentone and other semi-professional ball teams in this section has joined King Ben's long-haired baseball team at Benton Harbor. "Johnny" will do the pitching for the House of David baseball team, one of the fastest ball teams in the middle west, this summer.

NEWS REVIEW OF CURRENT EVENTS

Powers Confer on Policy in China While Their Nationals Are Fleeing.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD.

WHAT to do in, or to, China was the serious problem discussed last week by the governments of the United States, Great Britain and Japan in an exchange of notes. The situation in Shanghai and along the Yangtze river, though no less dangerous than in the previous week, was not so replete with incidents of violence. Evacuation of Americans, British and Japanese from Hankow and towns beyond was carried on rapidly, and in some instances the escaping foreigners were stoned and otherwise attacked by Chinese. Near Nanking, a steamer carrying refugees was fired on by Chinese troops and the American destroyer Paul Jones replied vigorously with machine guns and two-pounders. The United States is closing all its consulates in Szechwan and Hunan provinces and its gunboats will be withdrawn from the upper Yangtze as soon as the evacuation of Americans is completed. Most of the latter are missionaries and a few of them have refused to leave their posts. At the request of Rear Admiral Williams, commander of the Asiatic fleet, 1,500 American marines were started on the way to China. The force includes an artillery detachment and an aviation unit. The arrival of these marines at Shanghai will bring the American landing forces there up to 4,750 men, and the authorities at Washington said the army forces probably would not be sent at this time for fear that such a move might be interpreted as meaning that the United States intended to occupy the Chinese territory. The marines for the new expedition were taken from Eastern stations and were called the Sixth Regiment after the unit that was fane in the World war.

It was said in London that the attitude of America and Japan would decide the question of non-operation should withdraw entirely from China and let the factions fight it out or should hold on to their concessions by force. The British government is reported as willing to adopt either course, but will not undertake alone to maintain the latter policy. Japan's cabinet decided to co-operate with America and Great Britain, and possibly France. In investigation of the Nanking outbreak, and probably will work with them in the defense of lives and property; but both Washington and Tokio indicate that they are averse to anything like active intervention in the Chinese civil war. President Coolidge, furthermore, said the United States would not join the British in punitive measures because of the Nanking incident. This was approved by the conservative members of the Nationalist government, but it was reported in Shanghai that the American civil officials there were greatly displeased by Mr. Coolidge's policy, one of them declaring: "Unless the powers take action now we are lost. I believe emphatically that a determined show of force now would put the Chinese conservatives in power."

Dr. C. C. Wu, one of the conservatives, said coercive measures tending to intervention in the Chinese situation would have the effect of throwing all China to the radicals and into the arms of soviet Russia, which is awaiting an opportunity to communicate all Asia. American naval and marine officers there also seem against any policy of intervention.

Sir Austen Chamberlain, British foreign secretary, intimated to parliament that the British government would not let the Nanking attack go unpunished unless the Cantoneses made full apology and paid complete indemnity. It was said the punishment might take the form of a blockade of the Cantoneses along the Yangtze above Shanghai. As was expected, the radicals of the Kuomintang have sought to represent the Nanking affair as an outrage against the Chinese, and Gen. Chiang Kai-shek, Cantonesse commander, said he would make a strong protest concerning the bombardment by American and British warships. Gen. Chiang Kai-shek states that he will soon announce the beginning of a great campaign against Marshal Chang Tso-lin in the North. He plans to send three armies against Peking. The first army will proceed northward along the Shanghai-Peking railway from Klingsu province; the second army will advance north along the Peking-Hankow line through Honan province and the third army, commanded by the Christian general, Feng Yuxiang, will advance on Peking from the north by the Peking-Suiyuan railway from Kaigai. General Chiang declared the nationalists expect to obtain military domination of all the Chinese territories before next Christmas.

Chang, for his part, has virtually asked the help of the foreign powers in combating the Cantoneses, appealing especially to Japan because, he says, the full victory of the Nationalists would be followed by an attempt of the Russian Bolsheviks to start a Red revolution in Japan, which nation the Russians still consider their enemy.

DISPATCHES from Mexico City say President Calles and his cabinet, under pressure from General Obregon, have accepted the oil and land law understandings arrived at four years ago by the joint commission on which Charles Beecher Warren and John Barton Payne represented the United States. These provided that Article 27 of the Mexican constitution of 1917 could not be given a retroactive effect. Calles insisted these understandings were not binding on the subsequent administration, and this was especially the contention of Luis Morales, minister of industry and commerce and labor. But the United States maintained the contrary, and its position was supported by Obregon and finally was accepted by the cabinet. Obregon's victory over Morales may bring the latter into the open as a candidate for the presidency in opposition to the general.

NEARLY all mines in the central competitive field, comprising western Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois and Iowa closed down at midnight Thursday because of the failure to agree on a wage scale, and approximately 150,000 miners were thrown out of employment. Officials of the miners' union said temporary agreements had been made with a large number of plants, but the spokesmen for the operators said the union claims were exaggerated and that the mines involved were small. Dispatches from Washington indicated that at least for the present the government would take no hand in the controversy. Government surveys indicated that nonunion and union mines unaffected by the shutdown have a potential output rate able to supply the country for several months. The figures showed that upward of 9,000,000 tons of soft coal per week would continue to be produced and that, with the large stocks on hand, there would be no shortage for many weeks.

BECAUSE the Armour Grain company is accused of delivering 5,000 bushels of "screenings" for No. 2 rye, the Department of Agriculture is carrying on an investigation that in a way involves the Chicago board of trade; Iowa has officially demanded that the grain company be suspended by the board from all trading privileges, and resolutions were introduced in the Illinois senate calling for the same action and for a study to see if it is possible to cancel or amend the charter of the board of trade. The rye transaction took place nearly a year ago. Secretary of Agriculture Jardine cited the grain company and the latter asked the Supreme court for a restraining injunction. Mr. Jardine says the board of trade refused the government access to records in this case, but President Bunnell denies this.

WHAT was believed to be a deliberate attempt to assassinate Henry Ford was revealed when it became known that the automobile manufacturer was in a hospital recovering from painful injuries. Mr. Ford was driving alone at night from the Dearborn engineering laboratories to his home when a large closed car containing two men crashed into his coupe, forced it over a 15-foot embankment and drove on rapidly. Mr. Ford was rendered unconscious, but recovered and made his way to a gateway of his estate where help was obtained. He was taken to the hospital suffering from contusions and slight hemorrhages, but within a few days was said to be on the road to complete recovery. Department of Justice agents took hold of the case and a number of suspects were arrested. This supposed attempt on the billionaire's life came in the midst of the trial of Adam Sapir's million-dollar libel suit against him, and also at a time when he is said to have aroused considerable ill feeling among merchants because he opened cut-rate retail stores.

AMERICA, France and England were all threatened in the tragedy in the Gare du Nord, Paris, when Countess de Janne, estranged wife of a Frenchman, shot Raymond V. Trafford, scion of a prominent British family, and then put a bullet through her own body. The countess was Alice Silverthorne of Chicago, cousin of J. Ogden Armour and well-known in American social circles. Her relations with De Trafford recently led her husband to file suit for divorce. For several days after the shooting it was believed both the countess and De Trafford would die, but neither of them are that they are out of danger.

WHILE Mrs. Coolidge was trying to learn from White House aides where the President intended to spend his summer vacation, news came down from Wisconsin that the Chief Executive had selected that state and would spend the hot months up among the muskie lakes and trout streams. The exact location of the summer capital was said to be un-terminated, but the G. B. Heinemann estate on Trout lake was reported to be favorably considered. It is about seventy-five miles from Lake Superior and is a pretentious establishment in a fine natural surroundings, with a score of small lakes nearby. It was said in Washington that the President would not go to the Far West for his vacation because the situations in foreign lands and other matters might make it advisable for him to return to Washington hurriedly.

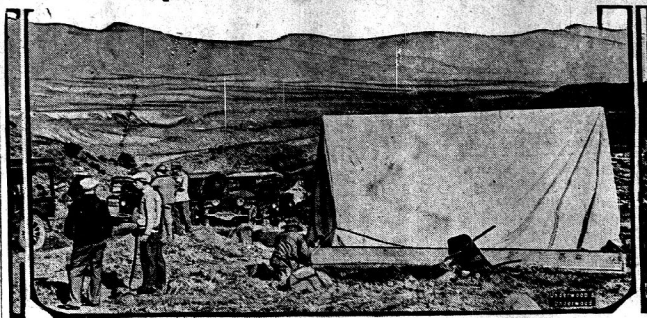

FIVE well-known Americans were appointed by President Coolidge to represent the United States at the international economic conference in Geneva. They are: Henry M. Robinson of Los Angeles, one of the framers of the Dawes plan; Norman H. Douglas, New York financier; John W. O'Leary of Chicago, president of the National Chamber of Commerce; Prof. Alonzo E. Taylor of Stanford university; and Dr. Julius Klein, director of the federal bureau of foreign and domestic commerce.

HARRY F. SINCLAIR, oil magnate, seemingly must go to jail for contempt of the senate. Justice Hitz of the District of Columbia Supreme court denied him a new trial, and then heard arguments as to whether the verdict of guilty returned by the trial jury should carry punishment for one offense or for four, one for each count in the indictment. Both a jail sentence and a fine are mandatory, imprisonment being for not less than one month nor more than twelve.

TWO well-known citizens were on the death list of the week. WILL H. Dill, founder and former president of the Isaac Walton League of America, passed away in Washington where he took up his residence a year ago. Perry S. Heath, known as the "father" of the rural free delivery service, also died in Washington. Besides his work in the Post Office department he was prominent as a newspaper publisher, and was identified with the framing of the constitutions of North and South Dakota.

Lesson for April 10

PETER'S LESSON IN TRUST
LESSON TEXT—Matt. 14:22-32.
GOLDEN TEXT—Be of good cheer. It is I, be not afraid.
PRIMARY TOPIC—Peter Trusts Jesus.
JUNIOR TOPIC—A Helping Savior.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Why Peter Failed.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Christ the Ever-Present Helper.

The storm-tossed disciples on the sea at night are an example of the struggling followers of the Lord in the darkness of the present age, as they are tossed by the tempests of the evil one.

I. The Disciples on the Storm-Tossed Sea (vv. 22-24).

1. They are sent across the sea by Christ (v. 22).
"Jesus constrained His disciples to get into a ship." Doubtless His reason for this was to keep them from entanglement in the movement of the people to make Him King, for in John 6:14, 15, it is shown that the people were so excited by the feeding of the 5,000 that they were about to make Him King by force.

2. Christ dismisses the multitudes (v. 22).
This may be taken as typical of His rejection by the nation whose rulers had already rejected Him.

3. Christ praying alone in the mountain (v. 23).
Temptation to earthly honor and power had come to Him, therefore He went to the Father in prayer for relief and strength. The need of prayer is greatest at such times. According to Mark 6:48 He saw from the mountain the disciples toiling on the storm-tossed sea.

II. Jesus Walking on the Sea (vv. 25-27).

1. It was in the fourth watch of the night (v. 25).
He did not come to them immediately, but waited till almost dawn. However, it was the darkest part of the night. Their physical danger was great, but no doubt their mental perplexity was greater. They knew that the Lord had sent them, but why should they be in such straits if He sent them? The stormy sea is no evidence that the disciple is not in the Lord's appointed way.

2. The disciples alarmed at His coming (v. 26).
At the sight of Him they cried out for fear. They said: "It is a spirit." It was the coming of their best friend to deliver them from danger.

3. Jesus' words of comfort and good cheer (v. 27).
In the midst of their distress they heard the Master's words. "Be of good cheer. It is I, be not afraid." This changed their fear to joy.

IV. Peter Walking on the Sea (vv. 28, 29).

1. Peter's request.
As soon as Peter recognized the voice of Jesus he cried: "Bid me come to thee on the water" (v. 28).

2. Jesus' response (v. 29).
At the Lord's "come," Peter left the ship and walked on the water. While he kept his eyes on the Lord he walked on the waves. His faith linked him with the divine power and was thus upheld. Vital faith in Jesus Christ will enable the disciple to outstride the storms of life.

IV. Peter Sinking (v. 30).
He took his eyes off the Lord and placed them upon the raging sea. This separated him from the divine power. We should learn to fix our eyes upon the Lord instead of upon our circumstances. Faith will surely follow if we give consideration to our circumstances and our own ability to master them.

V. Christ Rescuing Peter (v. 31).
When Peter began to sink he did the sensible thing. He cried out: "Lord save me." Immediately Jesus stretched forth His hand and caught him. His salvation from death at the bottom of the sea was the result of the Lord taking hold of him. Jesus Christ in the incarnation was the divine hand reaching forth to rescue a sinking world. The significance of the expression "caught him" is made clear in Hebrews 2:16. It is there declared that Jesus took not upon Himself the nature of angels but took upon Himself the seed of Abraham. The same Greek word occurs in verse 31 of this lesson. We should understand from this that the eternal Son of God did not come in the form of a man in order to show man the way to God, but identified Himself with man through incarnation with Him. He came, not as an example, but as a Savior.

BOY, 14, ADMITS LONG SERIES OF POOR-BOX RAIDS

Twenty-five-cent Haul Leads to Undoing After Theft Up to $100.

Mount Kisco, N. Y.—With the arrest of four boys between the ages of eleven and fourteen years police declared they had solved the mystery of thefts from the poor boxes in St. Francis' Roman Catholic church over a period of two years. The leader of the gang is Patsy Mattoni, fourteen years old, who at that age already has a long police record.

He and his first lieutenant, Lawrence Franzese, also fourteen and also at liberty on probation for former robberies, are to have a trial here before Judge Appel of the County Children's court. The two boys, Lawrence's brother, Joe, eleven, and Joe Pataro, the same age, are paroled in custody of their parents, but must appear at the trial with their leaders.

Seen by Sexton.
Mattoni was arrested after the sexton had seen him leaving the church. The police, acting upon the description given by the sexton, questioned the boy, and after finding a pair of gloves in his pockets taken from a table in the church he confessed and named the other boys as confederates. According to Mattoni's story to the police, he committed the first robbery about two years ago. Designating Pataro to take one of the boxes across the street to an old barn, he supervised the opening of it, he said, while the Franzese boys acted as lookouts.

About $100 was taken from the box, after which Pataro was sent into the church for another, which was found to be empty. The two younger boys were given $1 each and Mattoni and Lawrence Franzese divided the remainder of the loot.

Last December they took a box containing about $75, Mattoni said. Recently Mattoni decided to "go it alone," and jimmied one of the boxes in the church with a pair of scissors. This netted $8, which he pocketed. The other day he made the raid which proved his undoing and found only 25 cents in the box. He had spent the 25 cents who.

At a preliminary hearing Judge Stewart sent Mattoni and Lawrence Franzese to the Children's village at Dobbs Ferry pending trial.

The series of robberies at the church had baffled police and members of the sheriff's office working on the case. Several attempts had been made to obtain fingerprints after the losses were discovered, but Ray Hill, the county identification expert, was unable to get a fair specimen. Other local robberies of a petty nature are expected to be cleared up by the roundup of the youngsters.

Sell Diamond Rings for a Dime Apiece

Conad, Neb.—The seemingly impossible task of finding $5,000 worth of diamonds, stolen from a Denver jewelry store and tossed from a fast moving passenger train by the robbers to escape detection, ended when it was discovered that two youths had picked up the gems while walking along the Union Pacific right of way near here. Arthur Strongmeyer, eighteen years old, and Leroy Christopher, twenty-two, were unaware of the value of the stones. Discovery of their find was made when their parents investigated reports that they were selling "phony" rings for 10 cents each.

Doctor's Will Ignored to Save Mother's Life

Sioux City, Iowa.—Direction that his body be sent to the state university at Iowa City for postmortem work by students was made in the will of Dr. J. W. B. Flagg. World war veteran, who died in Sioux City a few days ago. The fact that Doctor Flagg's mother, who is ninety-two years old, objected to her son's bequest, caused the family to disobey the clause in the will and bury the body at Jefferson, S. D. The family found that carrying out of the will's terms would be a shock that would kill the physician's mother.

Gallstone Troubles Explained

GIVES GOOD ADVICE TO SUFFERERS OF GALL-

Gallstone sufferers, especially those whose suffering has about driven them to an operation will welcome the joyous news that a large percentage of cases of this painful health destroying disease may now be successfully treated without surgery.

To Dr. E. E. Paddock, a Kansas City physician, who for 30 years has specialized in the treatment of diseases of the gall bladder, gall ducts and the liver, belongs the credit for a remarkable home medical treatment that sufferers the country over declare has brought relief and has made hundreds of operations unnecessary.

According to Dr. Paddock, surgery is resorted to in many cases where medical treatment would be effective. It is Dr. Paddock's claim the knife should be used only in emergency cases, and that surgery removes only the effect—the cause remaining—unless medical treatment is taken to correct the trouble. Dr. Paddock is a strong advocate of the use of medicines to escape the necessity and danger of an operation. His book fully explains his method of treatment and offers convincing evidence of its efficiency.

Anyone who is afflicted or who is suspicious of any catarrhal inflammation and infection of the gall bladder or gall ducts associated with gallstones of the liver, should send for Dr. Paddock's booklet, "The Liver and Gall Bladder." A copy will be sent free and postpaid to any who request it. In this booklet the Doctor tells the story of his long experience in treating catarrhal conditions associated with gall stones of the liver with medicine. He explains the symptoms by which the disease may be recognized before it reaches an acute stage—and why these symptoms, unheeded, may cause indescribable suffering and ill health. Just fill in and mail the coupon below and the booklet will be sent free and without any obligation whatsoever. Send for it today.

ADVERTISING RESPONSIBILITY

Utmost care will be taken at all times to prevent errors of any kind in advertising ordered in the Mentone Gazette, but no responsibility is assumed more than a re-run in the next edition of the portion of the advertisement in which the error may have occurred. No responsibility is assumed for damages, real or estimated, that may result from non-appearance of advertisement in any issue.

NON-ADVERTISERS PAY IT ALL

Whose advertising bills do you pay?

The merchant who does not advertise pays the advertising bills for the one who does.

Every merchant in business pays for advertising whether he uses it or not. If a competitor's advertising takes any business away from him, the profit he would have made on the lost sale is what his competitor's advertising cost him.

You have, perhaps, wondered how some stores can afford to spend such enormous sums for advertising. That is easy to fathom. Their competitors, who don't advertise and whose business they take, pay for their advertising.

Say the Jones family is a customer of yours. They have $60 they intend to spend with you. They read the advertisement of your competitor and are induced to spend their $60 with him instead of spending it with you. The store makes 20 per cent or $12 on the sale. It deducts, we will say the $1 advertising cost and has $11 profit left. The advertising has cost it nothing. It got back its cost and had $11 profit it would not have had except for the advertising.

Who paid for the advertising? The advertiser pay? No. He got back the cost and profit besides. Did the customer pay? No. He paid only the regular price.

Then who did pay? The merchant that did not advertise paid for his competitor's advertisement.

ting. He not only paid for the other fellow's advertising but he paid out of his cash drawer the profit his competitor made on the sale. The merchant that doesn't advertise pays the advertising bill for the one that does. He pays in loss of sales and loss of profits.

29 Years Of Satisfactory Service

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Frank Beeson, from Albany, N. Y., reaches Benton, Wyoming, then—1868—western terminus of the Pacific Railroad. He had been ordered by physicians to seek a climate "high and dry." He is robbed of most of his money in his hotel and loses his last twenty dollars at monte in "The Big Tent," a dance hall and gambling resort in the "roaring" town of Benton.

Edna Montoya, companion of a gambler, is believed by Frank to have gained him purposely into the game. Broke, discomfited over his discovery that "the lady of the blue eyes," as he calls her, is what she is, and finally humiliated over his glaring "greenness," Frank repulses Edna when she begs him to go away with her, sobbingly telling him that she had made a mistake in letting him lose his money. He goes to take a job with David Adams, his loutish son. When Edna, who has shot, but not killed the gambler, Montoya, comes a fugitive in "briches" to join the train, Daniel tells his father that she is seeking Jonks and Beeson. Capt. Adams shouts, "No hussy in men's garments shall go with the train."

Daniel, by a spectacular gun play foils Montoya's attempt to take Edna back with him.

Under Jonks' and Edna's instruction Frank practices shooting—is told to "aim for his feet to hit his heart." This follows a clever exhibition of shooting by young Daniel, who is angered by Edna's interest in Beeson. Daniel tries to bully Beeson. He is shot by the bartender, and Beeson with Edna, flees into the night.

Chapter XI.

A BARGAIN FOR A WOMAN
At last Edna spoke in low, even tones.

"What do you expect to do with me, please?"

"We shall have to do whatever is best for yourself," I made no answer. "That will be determined when we reach the stage line, I suppose."

"Thank you! Once at the stage line and I shall contrive. You must have no thought of me. I understand very well that we should not travel far in company, and you may not wish to go in my direction. You have plans of your own?"

"None of any great moment. Everything has failed me, to date. There is only the one place left: New York State, where I came from."

"You have one more place than I," she replied.

"Well at home you will live comfortably. You will need to wear no belt weapon. The police will protect you. You can marry the girl next door—or even take the chance of the one across the street, her parentage being common if faint. Your children will love to hear of the rough mule-whacker trail—yes, you will have great tales but you will not mention that you killed a man who tried to kill you and the road for a night with a strange woman alone at your stirrup! Your course is the safe course. By all means take it, Mr. Beeson."

"That I shall do, madam," I retorted. "The west and I have not agreed. I wish to God I had never seen it—I did not conceive that I should have to take a human life—become like an outlaw in the night riding for refuge—" And I choked passionately.

"You deserve much sympathy," she remarked.

For a time our mules plodded with sundry snorts and stares as if they were seeing portents in the moonshine. Eventually their imaginings dulled, so that they now moved careless of their way.

I could not but be aware of my companion. Her hair glinted palely, for she rode bareheaded; her Mormon gown, tightened under her as she sat astride, revealed the lines of her boyish limbs.

The drooping round of my thoughts revolved over and over, and I dozed, and kept dozing until she spoke.

"Hush! we better stop!"

That was a curious sensation. When I started about, uncomprehending, my view was shut off by a white-ness, veiling the moon above and the earth below except immediately underneath my mule's hoofs.

"What's the matter?" I asked.

"The fog. I don't know where we are."

"Oh! I hadn't noticed."

"I don't think there's any use in riding on," she said. "We've lost our bearings."

"Yes, we'd better stop where we are," I agreed. "Then in the morning we can take stock."

She swung off before I had awkwardly dismounted to help her. Her limbs faltered—my own were clamped by stiffness—and she staggered and collapsed with a little laugh.

"I'm tired," she confessed. "Wait just a moment."

"You stay where you are," I ordered, staggering also. "As I hastily handed, 'I'll make camp.'"

But she would have none of that; pleaded my one-handedness and insisted upon co-operating at the mules. The animals were staked out, fell to nibbling.

I sought a spot for our beds; laid down a buffalo robe for her and placed her saddle and pillow. She sank with a sigh, tucking her skirt under her, and I folded the robe over.

Her face gazed up at me; she extended her hand.

"You are very kind sir," she said, in a smile that pathetically curved her lips. There at my knees she looked so worn, so slight, so childish, so in need of encouragement that all was well and that she had a friend to serve her, that with a rush of sudden sympathy I would—indeed I could have kissed her, upon the forehead, if it was not upon the lips themselves.

It was an impulse well-nigh overmastering; an impulse that must have dazed me so that she saw or felt, for a tinge of pink swept into her skin, she withdrew her hand and settled composedly.

"Good-night. Please sleep. In the morning we'll reach the stage road and your troubles will be near the end."

Under my own robe I lay for a long time debating over what she might have done had I actually kissed her to comfort her.

Daniel had been disposed of, Montoya did not deserve her; I had won her, she could inspire and guide me if I stayed; and I saw myself staying, and I saw myself going home, and I already regretted a host of things, as a man will when at the forks of the trails.

When I awakened we were still enshrouded by the fleece of fog. As I gazed sleepily about I could see Edna's eyes were open. She looked at me.

"Sh!" she warned, with quick shake of head. The same warning bade me listen. In a moment I heard voices.

They were indistinguishable except as vocal sounds.

"I've been hearing them some little while," she whispered.

"Adam's men trailing us?"

"I hope not," she gasped, in sheer agony. "If we might only know in time!"

Suddenly the fog was shot with gold, as the sun flashed in. Gradually the earth appeared in glimpses.

"There!" she whispered, pointing. "Look! They are Indians. We must get away before they see us."

We worked rapidly, bridling and saddling while the fog rose with measured steadiness.

"Hurry!" she bade.

At last we came to a rough outcrop of red sandstone, looming rudely on the rear; and we ourselves crawled in until we lay snug amidst the shadowy buttresses, with the desert vista opening before us.

We had been just in time. Round in a knoll there appeared a file of mounted figures, Indians unmistakably. The sculptured rock masses detached one from another, several jutting ten feet up, received us. We tied the mules short, in a nook at the rear; and we ourselves crawled in until we lay snug amidst the shadowy buttresses, with the desert vista opening before us.

We had been just in time. Round in a knoll there appeared a file of mounted figures, Indians unmistakably. The sculptured rock masses detached one from another, several jutting ten feet up, received us. We tied the mules short, in a nook at the rear; and we ourselves crawled in until we lay snug amidst the shadowy buttresses, with the desert vista opening before us.

"A war party! Sioux, I think," she said. "Don't they carry scalp on that first lance? They've been raiding the stage line. Do you see any squaws?"

"No," I hazarded. "All warriors, I should guess."

"All warriors. But squaws would be worse."

On they cantered; indeed, seemed to be diverging from our ambush and making more to the west. And I had hopes that, after all, we were safe.

Then her hand clutched mine firmly. A wolf had leaped from cover in the path of the file; lopez eastward across the desert, and instantly, with a whoop that echoed upon us like the cack of doom, a young fellow darted from the line in gay pursuit.

Away they tore, while the file slackened, to watch. Our trail of light bore right athwart the wolf's projected route. There was just the remote chance that the lad would overrun it, in his eagerness; and for that intervening moment of grace we stared, fascinated hand clasping hand.

"He's found it! He's found it!" she announced in a little wail.

In mid-career the boy had checked his pony so shortly that the four hoofs ploughed the sand. He wheeled on a pivot and rode back for a few yards, scanning the ground, letting the wolf go.

"The youth flung up a glad hand and the band galloped to him."

"Yes, he has found it," she said. "Now they will come."

"I'll do my best with revolver," I promised.

"Yes," she murmured. "But after that—"

I had no reply. This contingency—we two facing Indians—was outside my calculations.

"Shall we make a break for it?" I proposed.

"It would be madness on these poor mules," she murmured to herself. "Yes, they're Sioux! I must talk with them."

"But they're coming," I rasped. "They're getting in range. We've got the gun, and twenty cartridges. Maybe if I kill the chief—"

Ere I could stop her My Lady had sprung upright, to mount upon a rock and, all in view, to hold open hand above her head.

The sunshine glinted upon her hair; a fugitive little breeze bound her gown closer about her slim figure.

They had seen her instantly. The chief rode forward at a walk, his hand likewise lifted.

"Keep down! Keep down, please," she directed to me, while she stood motionless. "Let me try."

The chief reared until we might see his every lineament—a splendid man, his eyes devouring her so covetously that I felt the glowing thoughts behind them.

He called inquiringly: a greeting and a demand in one, it sounded. She replied. And what they two said in word and sign, I could not know.

Then he cantered back to his men, while Edna stepped lightly down; answered my quivering look.

"It's all right. I'm going, and so are you," she said, with a faint smile, oddly subtle—a tremulous smile in a white face.

"Where? We are free, you mean? What's the bargain?"

"I go to them. You go where you choose—to the stage road, of course I have my promise. No, no," she said checking my indignant cry.

Really I don't mind. The Indians are about the only persons left to me. You can go home, and I shall not be unhappy. Please believe that! The wife of a great chief is quite a personage—he won't inquire into my past. But if we try to stay here you will certainly be killed, and I shall suffer, and we shall gain nothing.

You must take my money. Please do. Then good-bye. I told him I would come out, under his promise."

SQUANDERING OIL WEALTH.
400% MORE BARY SHOES.
USELESS RECORD BREAKING.
WILL SHE DIE?

Mr. Teagle, president of New Jersey Standard Oil, warns oil men that they are cutting their own throats. This country is treating the nation's oil wealth as unintelligently as frontiersmen treated the herds of bison. The bison soon vanished.

Oil is actually being sold for less than it costs to produce. Cheaper for buyers, but it will not last. Millions are spent developing new wells to increase competition while oil companies are carrying $30,000,000 barrels of oil stored above ground at an annual cost, loss and waste of $130,000,000.

The country's national oil wealth is not merely private wealth. It is a great national asset and a way should be found to give oil production some national control and stop waste.

You are told many things about prohibition, for and against. R. H. Davidson, writing from Coronado Beach, California, asks, "Do you chance to know that the sale of children's shoes has increased 400 percent per annum since prohibition came?"

Everybody will agree that 400 percent more shoes for children, combined with larger savings bank deposits, is a strong argument for prohibition, assuming these things to be results of prohibition.

Those that would modify the Volstead act say the average man is earning about twice what he earned before the war, and increased earnings, not the absence of beer, explain the greater savings and more children's shoes.

A coal strike of a sort was started last week in what is called "the central competitive field." Union men in the North cannot compete with non-union men in the South. The alleged attempt to reduce wages in the North would cause still further reduction of wages in the South. Industry and business are not civilized while it is necessary for employees to engage in periodical battles, at the expense of the workers' wives and children, to decide what is fair pay. Some impartial third party should fix wages. The public pays in the price of coal.

Segrave, British, beat the world's automobile record last week. Flying over the sands of Daytona Beach in Florida at a speed greater than 166 miles an hour. His racing car, the "Mystery S," looking like a submarine on land, broke the American record by ten miles an hour. It's an achievement interesting but not useful. No automobile can go USEFULLY 166 miles an hour, or 100 miles an hour.

Up in the air, where the road is wide is the place for real speed.

At Lyons in Georgia, men on trial for kidnapping and robbing the Rev. E. J. Jones, Jr., wore hoods. One had a pistol, another waved a sword. They told Mr. Jones they did not approve his moral conduct, drove him off in a car, held him down, beat him with a leather strap.

The clergyman testifies, "After I was set free I started off on the road singing 'How beautiful Heaven Must Be.' During the singing he had prayed aloud. Such fortitude is MOST unusual.

Now New York may have to decide about executing Mr. Ruth Sawyer, young, blond, curly-haired, 20-year-old, confessed murderer. He had confessed he had helped another man murder her husband.

She says she now loathes the man that did the killing. He seems to have borrowed a suggestion from his original ancestor, Adam. Friends say he was hypnotized by the woman whose husband he killed.

If human nature, public opinion and the course of events work as usual, the man will be executed and the woman sentenced to life imprisonment. There seems to be a psychological objection to strapping women in the electric chair.

We do not need war with China, and it would not be a righteous war.

ORGANIZE TO STOP THEIVING

An organization which will go by the name of "Farmers Stop Thieves Association" was organized last Saturday night at a meeting at the Town Hall. About fifty farmers attended the meeting and all expressed their desire for an organization for protection against the loss of chickens and other live-stock.

Any farmer may be a member of this newly formed organization. Membership dues of two dollars will be charged which will be used in the most effective manner to fight the thieves.

Only members will be protected by the Association. Kenneth Riner has been appointed temporary secretary and anybody wishing to join may deposit their money with him and sign a membership card.

A committee of three will be appointed at a later date to take care of different matters that may come before the association.

A reward will be offered for any information that may lead to the arrest or conviction of any person or persons.

The next meeting will be held at the Mentone Community Forum on Tuesday night, April 19th. Everybody interested should attend this meeting.

TUCKER HOME, SOUTH OF MENTONE, ENTERED SATURDAY NIGHT

The M. Tucker home, south of here was broken into and robbed Saturday evening while the family was away. A fountain pen, jewelry and other small articles were taken by the thieves. It is believed the robbers knew that the family was away before they entered the house. This is the first home to be entered, the thieves taking livestock heretofore.

BAPTIST MISSIONARY SOCIETY TO MEET APRIL 20TH

The Baptist Women's Missionary society will meet in the church parlors on Wednesday, April 20th at 2:00 p.m.

We are beginning a new line of study which requires every woman to bring her bible, don't forget yours.

ENTERTAIN AT DINNER

Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Gross royally entertained her Mother, Mrs. Eddinger and Mrs. Anna Manwaring, at their lovely home in Rochester on Tuesday to a fine chicken dinner and in the evening, Mr. and Mrs. Irving Nelson and daughter Catherine, Geo. Clark, Kenneth River, Charles Manwaring and Elmer Fenstermaker, to a Chop Suey supper, after which they all went to the Char-Bell Theatre to hear the I. U. Glee Club, which was greatly enjoyed by all.

MISPAH CLASS

The Mispah Sunday School Class was delightfully entertained on Friday evening, April 8th, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. M. O. Smith. After a bounteous picnic supper was enjoyed by every one, the singing meeting was opened by singing hymns "God Will Take Care of You." Roll call was responded to by Bible verses. Miss Vera Griffin had charge of the devotional. A song entitled "Angry Words, O Let Them Never" was very beautifully sang by Emma Severn and Vera Griffin. Ruby Smith and Eric Cole had charge of the social hour.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Weirich on May Thirtieth.

Mr. and Mrs. Adam Bowen and son Lewis were Warsaw visitors Saturday.

once we have rescued our nationalities. Having told adults that they may not live here, it would be playing the hypocrite and bully to object to China's decision that she does not want us, or Europeans, on her soil. If we may exclude Asians justly, China may, with equal justice, exclude us.

NEW YORK STATE MODIFIES REGULATION AFFECTING DAIRY COWS

Indiana dairymen and livestock shippers are much interested in the recent action of the commissioner of Agriculture and Markets of the State of New York, who has ordered the modification of the quarantine regulation, which have been in effect since July 6th, 1925, affecting the sale of dairy cows at the Buffalo market.

Under the new regulations dairy cows from Canada, and all states except Illinois, will be permitted to move in carloads or in mixed shipments, in clean and disinfected cars, to the Buffalo Stock Yards, where they may be sold subject to the tuberculin test at the Stock Yards testing barn and subject to reshipment to approximately 110,000 heads in the state of New York.

This modified quarantine opens up a great market for Indiana's surplus dairy cows. New York State is now removing approximately 7,500 dairy cows per month from its herds through condemnations as a result of the animals failing to pass the tuberculin test and replacement cows are in great demand.

The principal restriction which livestock shippers in the above mentioned states must note is that dairy cows, when shipped in mixed carloads, must be partitioned off by a tight board partition separating them from the balance of the consignment in the car.

Another effect of the changed state regulations is that grazing cows, and heifers, for beef purposes, can be shipped out of the Buffalo yards and not subject to sixty day rest. The same changed regulations applies to feeding steers, providing they are kept away from dairy cows.

BAPTIST CHURCH NOTES

9:30 A.M. Bible School.
10:45 A.M. Easter Service.
In the midst of our Pre-Easter evangelistic services. We have a fine choir which Ed Wiley, the Singing Blacksmith of Bourbon is directing. Mr. Wiley sings each evening. We also have a male quartet organized and ready to please their hearers with some fine singing.

Have you attended these services yet? Come and bring someone with you. The sermons are such which should vitally interest and concern everyone.

Easter Sunday will be observed with an Easter message at the morning hour, and special Easter music by the choir and Mr. Wiley. Let's make this a "Go-to-Church Sunday" and fill the church to capacity. There will be an evening service on next Sunday in lieu of the Baccalaureate service at the Methodist Church.

FORMER RESIDENT DIES IN WYOMING

Miss Elma Cattell received word Saturday of the death of her uncle, Newton Jennings, at his home in Laramie, Wyo. Mr. Jennings has been in ill health for several months, suffering from heart trouble. He with his family moved 17 years ago to the present home, from the farm home now owned and occupied by Chester Herendeen.

Four members of the immediate family has passed away since their residence in Wyoming.

Mr. Jennings was born in 1845 on the farm two miles south and one mile west of Mentone, and lived on the same place until they moved to Laramie, Wyo. He was a man of strict integrity and lived a faithful Christian life and with his family were members of the Methodist Church in Mentone.

Surviving relatives are a son Roy Jennings of Long Beach, Calif., and three daughters, Mrs. Pearl Steward Bosler, Wyo., Miss Mary and Miss Alice Jennings of Laramie, Wyo., three grandchildren, Margaretta Park of Warsaw, Ind., Jean and Edison Jennings of Long Beach, Calif.

Mrs. Mary Cattell is a sister and John Jennings of Warsaw, Kansas, and E. H. Jennings of Warsaw are brothers.

BEAVER DAM HIGH SCHOOL JUNIOR SENIOR BANQUET

The Junior class of Beaver Dam High School under the direction of Miss Gertrude Book, royally entertained the Senior Class at the Akron Hotel, Akron, Indiana, Friday evening at six o'clock. The Warsaw conservatory furnished a five piece orchestra for the evening. Many toasts were given by the teachers and members of the class and two splendid readings were given by Violet Swick and Peter Fracker, a good social time was enjoyed by all.

EVANGELISTIC SERVICES AT BAPTIST CHURCH

Special Pre-Easter evangelistic services are being conducted at the Baptist Church this week with the pastor Rev. V. R. South preaching and E. E. Wiley of Bourbon sometimes taking the Singing Blacksmith is leading a fine chorus choir and singing solos each evening. The song services are very uplifting. The subjects are timely and in keeping with passion week. All Mentone is urged to attend these services.

Irvin Nelson gave a very interesting and instructive talk to the Junior and Senior Baccalaureate class of Beaver Dam last Friday afternoon on the subject of "Blessings."

PARENT TEACHERS SHORT COURSE AT INDIANA UNIVERSITY APRIL 18-21

Bloomington, Ind., April 12:—Parent-Teacher workers of Kosciusko County and other counties throughout Indiana will have an opportunity to take a short course in Indiana University April 18-21 in parent-teacher association work, according to the announcement here today of Mrs. Edna Hatfield Edmondson, executive secretary of the State-Parent-Teacher Association and assistant professor in the Extension Division of the State University. Plans for the institute have been worked out by Mrs. Homer S. Miller, State Parent-Teacher president and Mrs. Edmondson.

At the close of the short-course in Parent-Teacher Association work held at Indiana University March 29 to April 1, last year, the members of the course enthusiastically requested that another such course be held this year. Thirty-eight persons were enrolled in the short course last year.

The short course will consist of lectures, demonstrations, and classroom work and will be chiefly in charge of Mrs. Miller, and Mrs. Edmondson. Lectures will be given on the National Congress of Parents and Teachers—its organization, purpose, program of work, etc., on the Indiana Parent-Teacher Association—its organization, purpose, work, etc., including the district, county, and city work; and on local parent-teacher associations—their organization, conduct, their field of work and suggested activities.

The work of the institute will be especially valuable to presidents of local associations, county and city presidents of local associations, district vice-presidents and state organizers, according to Mrs. Edmondson and Mrs. Miller. It is open, however, to any parent-teacher worker. The work of the Bureau of Parent-Teacher Associations in the I. U. Extension Division will be demonstrated. A certificate will be offered by the Indiana University Extension Division for the completion of the course on the basis of attendance and the keeping of a note book. No examination will be given and no grades recorded. No fees will be charged for the course.

FRIENDSHIP CLASS WILL HOLD MEETING FRIDAY

The Friendship Class of the M. E. Sunday School will hold a meeting in the basement of the church, Friday afternoon, April 15 at 2:30 o'clock. There will be election of officers at this meeting. Every member of the class is urged to be present.

STORE SPECIAL

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Eaton welcome to their home at their home at 401 S. Weight 9 pounds.

AGED COUPLE FATALLY INJURED

The dangerous West Midway crossing on the Lake Erie railroad three miles east of Toledo claimed two more lives when John Bickle, 67, and his wife, Emma, 54 were killed at 2:30 Sunday afternoon when their automobile was struck by a fast east bound Erie passenger train. Bickle died instantly, while Mrs. Bickle died from a fracture of the skull before she could be removed from the scene of the accident.

The Bickles were returning to their home three miles south of Roann on Silver Lake, Ind., where they had been visiting Mr. Bickle's sister, Mrs. Samuel Kevlin and family. At the Midway crossing motorists pass beneath the west bound track of the Erie and then across the east bound track. Due to the danger of the crossing, the Wabash county commissioners several weeks ago ordered electric signals to be installed at the place by the railroad. Installation work was put underway last week and the signals will be working within a few more days.

Wreckage strewn along tracks. The Chevrolet touring car driven by Mr. Bickle was totally demolished by the train. Parts of the machine were carried several hundred feet from the crossing. Mrs. Bickle was thrown clear of the tracks and the wreckage while Mr. Bickle's body lay to the east of the tracks his head having been crushed by the wheels of the train.

Members of the train crew stopped and summoned the Schuler & Schuler ambulance of Roann. The bodies were brought to the undertaking parlors of the Roan firm.

While Mr. Bickle had passed the crossing on other occasions it is believed that he failed to see the approaching train because of the obstructed view.

The Bickles are survived by one daughter, Gertrude, who had remained at home Sunday instead of accompanying her parents on the visit as she usually did.

In addition to the daughter and sister Mr. Bickle is survived by another sister, Mrs. Alice Lattimer of Mentone and a brother Samuel Bickle of near Burket. Mrs. Bickle is survived by three brothers.

Double funeral services for the couple are to be held at the Roann Christian church at 10 o'clock Wednesday morning. Burial is to be made in the Odd Fellows cemetery.

INDIANA FARMERS ARE WARNED OF BAD SEED

Farmers throughout Indiana, are being warned by State Seed Commissioner H. H. Kraybill to beware of so called "bargain" seed which is offered by samples from people outside of the state.

Recently a seed company in Baltimore, Maryland, offered clover seed to a dealer in Indiana at 12 and 10 cents a pound.

No analysis was submitted with the samples. When an examination was made of the samples by the seed laboratory of Purdue University, it was shown that the sample contained 52,000 noxious weed seeds per pound among which, were buckhorn, common plantain, field dodder, sorrel, curled dock, and Canada thistle.

It is urged that the farmer protect himself by insisting that any seed he buys be properly labeled with Indiana state labels. Besides he should buy his seeds from reputable and reliable seed dealers.

PARENT TEACHERS MEET

The last meeting of the Parent Teachers Association for this school term was held at the H. S. Assembly at Beaver Dam on last Wednesday evening. The entertainment was complete. Professor Sheets of Manchester College gave a most excellent address on "The Progress of Europe and the Future of America." The boys and girls also sang some very pleasing numbers.

New officers were elected for the coming year. Mr. O. A. Highway was re-elected chairman, Miss Lena Swick Secretary and Mrs. Mabel Nelson Treasurer. Program and other committees were elected. The chairman at the beginning of the next school term. The old committee are to be complimented for the splendid program we have all so thoroughly enjoyed. This organization has been a great help to the school and its members.

Combating the European Corn Borer

The European corn borer, one of the worst of agricultural pests, is being vigorously fought in the middle western states with men and machinery supplied by the federal and state departments. Oil, under comp-pressed air, applied from burners under three hundred fifty pounds per inch pressure, is being applied by men who walk through the fields burning a twenty-foot wide swath at each trip across. The picture shows the oil tank and compressor, and, above, the men applying the burning oil.

Discussing Easter Supremacy

Aviators Are Busy in Nicaragua

Aviators attached to the American forces in Nicaragua are kept busy with reconnaissance. The group shown above was inspecting the airplane at the Mosquito flying field. They are, left to right: Admiral Lattimer, Major Korvill (in charge of planes there), Captain Zornschuler, Major Martlett and Lieutenant McCullen.

Lesson for April 17 PETER'S GREAT CONFESSION

LESSON TEXT—Matt. 16: 13-28. GOLDEN TEXT—Thou art the Christ, the Son of the Living God. PRIMATE TOPIC—Peter Pleases Jesus. JUNIOR TOPIC—Confessing Our Faith in Jesus. INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Confessing Christ Openly. YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—What think ye of Christ?

The disciples had been with the Lord for several years. They had heard His wonderful words and witnessed His mighty works. Various opinions were extant about Him. Since Jesus was soon to go to the cross, it was necessary for the disciples to have a definite and true conception of Him. In order to help them into the right conception, He provoked this confession from Peter as the spokesman of the group of disciples.

1. Peter's Confession (vs. 13-16). 1. How provoked. 2. Questions of Christ put to the disciples called forth this great confession.

(1) Whom do men say I, the Son of Man, am (v. 13). 1. He first inquired for the opinion of the people concerning Him. As a wise teacher He knew that this would help crystallizing the view of the disciples. The people recognized Jesus as a teacher, with more than human authority and power. Today, as then, there is a diversity of opinion among the people as to Jesus Christ. The multitudes today recognize Jesus as an unique personality and as having been a great teacher, but that which offends them in His deity.

(2) "Whom say ye that I am?" (v. 15). This question involved the personal opinion of the disciples concerning Him. To be able to tell what others think of Jesus is not enough. There must be definite correct and personal belief in Him. Personal belief is worth infinitely more than the knowledge of what others think of Jesus and His belief hinges character and destiny. 2. What Peter's confession involved (v. 16).

Two vital things, the Messianic and deity of Jesus. That which Jesus called forth from Peter is the burning question of today. "What think ye of Christ?" the question that must be answered by everyone.

3. Christ's commendation of Peter (v. 17). He pronounced him blessed. Truly he was blessed for he had possessed and confessed Christ.

11. The New Body, the Church, Announced by Christ (vs. 18-20). Christ declared His intention of bringing into existence a new body to the members of which He will give eternal life and into whose hands He would entrust the keys of the Kingdom. Peter was to have a distinguished place in this body. Christ declared that Peter should be the foundation stone in His church. Christ is the chief corner stone upon which the church is built. Christ's person and Messianic were confessed by Peter and on this rock (truth confessed) is laid the foundation of the apostles and prophets (Eph. 2:20). All believers are living stones of this house (1 Pet. 2:5). The keys entrusted to Peter were used on the day of Pentecost and again in the case of Cornelius.

111. The Cross the Way to the Throne (vs. 21-23). From that time Jesus began to show unto the disciples how that He must go unto Jerusalem and suffer many things, be killed and raised again the third day. This Jesus said unto the disciples. They did not yet realize that redemption was to be accomplished through the passion of the cross. So unwelcome was this announcement that Peter cried: "This shall not be done thee." Peter later saw through this darkness to the glory of the hilltop. A new hope then filled his heart (1 Pet. 1:3, 4). Many are yet stumbling over the doctrine of salvation and redemption through the suffering of the cross. Salvation by blood is hated by the devil.

IV. The Cost of Discipleship (v. 24). To follow Christ means to suffer. It means to turn one's back upon the world. 1. There must be denial of self. There is a wide difference between self-denial and the denial of self. 2. Take up His cross. This cross is the suffering and shame which lie in the path of loyalty to God. This means to have the mind of Christ; to be like Christ. Christ will come in glory to reward all such.

The Power of God Many a battle has been won by the arrival of reinforcements. When a man is fighting a battle against his evil tendencies, the coming of the power of God into his soul often means victory. The human reinforced by the divine assures us of heaven.—Herald of Gospel Liberty.

Nature has a power to show what is inside of a man. It responds to God on the outside.—Echols.

DAILY DAIRY FACTS

CARING FOR COW AT CALVING TIME

Many of the complications and losses which occur in connection with calving can be prevented by taking a few precautions, asserts Fred Gauntt, herdman, of the college of agriculture, Rutgers University. Let the cow be dry from four to six weeks before calving to give her a rest and prepare her for the next lactation period. Ten days before calving time put her in a clean, roomy barn stall that has been thoroughly disinfected and supplied with plenty of bedding. The ration should be light and bulky, containing two parts of bran and two parts of ground oats with one part of flaked oil meal and about two tablespoonsful of a good live-stock tonic.

At calving time keep a close watch on the animal. If the cow needs help, care should be taken that the person in charge first thoroughly washes his hands in warm water which contains some good disinfectant, such as lysol, and soap. After birth see that the calf's throat is cleared of mucus and that breathing is started.

With an ordinary pair of scissors cut the navel cord and disinfect with iodine. Give the new calf colostrum milk (the cow's first milk) as soon as possible from a 16-ounce gurgling bottle with nipple attached, as this milk is nature's disease preventive. Next remove any cold drinking water from the stall and give the cow warm water to drink.

After four to five hours give the cow a hot sloppy bran mash, blanket her and leave her alone.

If after forty-eight hours the placenta has not appeared it should be removed, but only by an experienced person. The cow's ration at first should be the same as before calving time, and then gradually changed over to the regular milking ration. Keep the cow just a little grain hungry for the first two weeks, but give her all the hay she will eat.

In order to avoid a cold or milk fever, keep the cow away from and do not turn her out on the wet ground to lie down.

Dairymen Must Supply Water to Produce Milk

The dairymen who watered his milk would soon be condemned, but water the milk is manufactured by them or no milk will be produced. More than 87 per cent of milk in water and a cow will consume about seven pounds of water for every pound of milk she produces. To maintain efficiency in production cows must have available an ample supply of water at all seasons of the year.

In winter the water supply is especially important and it must be borne in mind that warm water is necessary. If the cow functions properly as a milk factory. According to G. A. Williams of Purdue university the simple tank heater is very efficient in providing water of the right temperature and is easily and inexpensively operated. The temperature most desirable and the one producing the best results is that ranging between 60 degrees and 80 degrees Fahrenheit.

Feeding of Minerals

One of the best dairymen considers the feeding of minerals to be important that he does not leave the matter to his cows, but adds twice daily, four ounces of a mixture to the grain feed. In addition to this he gives five drops of tincture of iodine twice a week to each cow during the last sixty days of her pregnancy. Since he has followed this practice he has not had an abortion nor have his calves been troubled with goitre.

Dairy Hints

Calves should have plenty of fresh water even though they are getting milk. (Sing at it blind in dairying can not pay—plan your work, then work the plan.

Iowa ranks fourth among the states of the Union in number of cow testing associations.

The mere fact that an animal has a pedigree is not always sufficient reason for raising it.

The farmer who has both milk cows and green pastures of any sort should plan to bring them together.

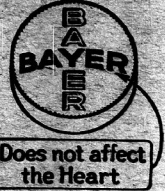

More contented cows would make more contented farmers.

The hand separator that is not properly adjusted is stealing part of your profits.

The kind of solid mixture dairy cows need will depend upon the feed they are getting. In addition to feed, one of the principal minerals needed is iodine. The best way for the cow to get the line needed is in kenneys, hay, such as alfalfa, clover or soy-bean hay.

Treasures Placed on

Altar of Friendship

A Washington man who spent some months in a rooming house in New York brought home a small yarn to a woman who talked them down.

"In the house where I put up I was in a room that had just been vacated by an old Englishman, who had lived in it for years. His income was so small that after settling for his rent and laundry he had 20 cents a day for food.

"Nobody guessed it, because he was so dignified and proper. One day he brought home another old gentleman and they shared the 20 cents between them until the doorman was taken ill. Hence calls for doctors, so the old Englishman brought to the friend a man who came in a car, and which he went away—carried some books for which he had paid $4,000.

"When the excited lady wanted to know why, for goodness sake, he hadn't sold the books before, the old gentleman told her that he would have suffered any person's privation rather than part with his hand-down treasures, but with a sick friend it was different.

"And when you figure it out that his friend was just a poor old fellow he had picked off a park bench because he had no better home, you can understand how proud I was to inherit his room."—Washington Star.

Rites Severe Strain

on Physical Strength

When Hindu pilgrims visit a sacred spot they go around the spot by a continuous series of prostrations.

They carry a stone in their hands and when they drop on the ground they stretch their arms out as far as possible and leave the stone on the ground so as to preserve their length. Then they arise, walk the six or seven feet to the stone, and pick it up. Again they prostrate themselves, leave the stone, rise, and go on until they have returned to the starting point.

Many of the circuits are more than three miles in length, and it requires an entire day to make the whole trip. Each mile usually requires one thousand prostrations, and when a devotee has dropped three thousand times he is so nearly dead that he rolls over in the dirt to the side of the road and rests there until the next day.

Napoleon Rude to Women

Seeing that the emperor was inclined to be talkative (1815, after the return from Elba), I told him that in general women did not like him because he did not bother to be agreeable to them, although they influenced the minds of men far more than he perhaps realized.

Napoleon laughed and said: "Do you think the empire ought to fall into the hands of the women? I don't compliment them on their appearance or tell them they are not becomingly gowned, what more can I say? I have other things to think about. They have changed beyond recognition since I have been away. Now they all talk politics, whereas before they only talked about clothes."—From the Memoirs of Queen Hortense, in Revue de Deux Mondes, Paris (Translated in the Kansas City Star).

Tame Monkeys Outcasts

After monkeys have lived with human beings for a time they are looked upon as outcasts by their wild relatives. And should one of them escape and return to the forest, as they sometimes do, and try to rejoin its tribe, it is attacked by the others and driven away or put to death.

On several occasions I have seen wild monkeys chasing pets, and once I witnessed an execution. It was a terrible thing, for the monkeys are savage fighters and utter tremendous screams when excited and angry. I have known them to wait patiently day after day near a village for an opportunity to kill a captive relative.

Hated, jealousy and suspicion are as highly developed in the monkey family as in the human race.—Dellis J. Aley in the Saturday Evening Post.

He Is a Fighter

The American badger's habitat varies from pine forests or dry tropical lowlands to the northern plains, wherever there is to be found an abundance of mice, gophers, ground squirrels, prairie dogs or other small mammals. It is a powerful digging machine and can capture any of them at will, says Nature Magazine. Although a member of the weasel family, the badger is not nearly so agile as its relatives, so must make up by strength and courage what it lacks in quickness. It is short-legged and squatly, so slow-footed that a man may overtake it, but when brought to bay it fights viciously.

Fearful to Tell Mother

Mrs. W. E. K. as a child lived in a small western town during a terrible epidemic of smallpox. She was sitting on the curb in front of her home, with the little boy next door, when along came the "pest wagon" and stopped. Two men in long rubber coats and hats jumped out. "I wonder who they are after?" she asked the boy. "They have come for me," he said. "My young legs carried me away from that place and I hid under an old culvert for hours. It was many weeks before my mother found out what killed her child—every time she passed that place."—Chicago Herald.

PURDUE EGG SHOW

TO BE MAY 2-6

Plans are maturing rapidly for the 35th annual state egg show which will be held at Purdue University May 2 to 6. The show this year also will be in observance of National Poultry Week which comes, May 1 to 7. A number of local shows will be held before then and the eggs will be sent here for state competition.

L. L. Jones, formerly in charge of poultry extension work for Purdue, and now connected with an incubator company in Ohio, will judge the show again this year. He has had charge of this task for some years.

All members of the Indiana State Poultry Association have been invited to exhibit in a class set aside especially for them. Experiment stations of the United States and Canada will compete in a special class and they also may enter in the fanciers' or commercial classes. These latter classes will attract poultry breeders or commercial farm owners.

Classes also are provided for high school and grade school pupils. Cups and other prizes aggregating upwards of $1,000, will be awarded the winners in the various classes.

In order to insure delivery, all eggs should be sent to the show so that they may arrive by April 30, the students in charge of the show point out. They also have cautioned shippers to pack their eggs well, using excelsior and avoiding newspapers as frequently the ink spots the eggs. A cracked egg is a disqualification and entrants are cautioned to send an extra egg or two to replace any cracked or broken ones. Catalogues will be sent on request to the Purdue University Experiment Station.

EASTER PARTY

Mrs. Erle McWharling was hostess to the "Sodales Club" at her home on Thursday afternoon, April seventh.

Assisting hostess was Mrs. Gladys Carter.

OBITUARY

Richard T. Gray, son of James and Cora Gray, was born in Floyd County, Virginia, October 29, 1883, departed this life, April 3, 1927, 33 years 10 months and four days of age. He was united in marriage to Gertrude Sunday, February 16, 1913, to this union was born three children. Besides the wife and children there remain his father, mother and one brother, other relatives and friends mourn his departure.

He united with the M. E. Church in Denver, Indiana, in 1913 and remained a member until the call came to enter the kingdom above.

He was a devoted husband and family and honestly laboring for their support. He quietly went about his faithful father, delighting in his daily task making his home his world but enjoying the friendship of those who came to know him. The family regret that his mother could not be present for the funeral service but are assured that she shares their sorrow at this time.

IN MEMORY OF FATHER

Father went home in the evening. At the night was already on. His last farewell was unspoken. And soon his spirit was gone.

Father went home in the evening. Could not remain thru the night. The voice that was calling him home—ward.

Would serve as a guide, and a light.

Father reached home before morning. Set free from suffering and care: He'll tell us his joys in the morning. For there'll be no suffering there.

Father is at home over yonder. And we have "the lone vacant chair." We'll think not of death in the morning. No farewells will be over there.

Father is waiting over yonder. For loved ones he's anxious to see: We'll greet him on that bright morning. Where parting no more will be.

WHICH IS THE CORRECT WAY TO SELL WALLPAPER?

Scheme No. 1

Some dealers prefer to price it by the single roll which is just half the cost to you of a roll of paper as you understand it, or in other words it requires twice as many single rolls to paper your rooms as you had estimated.

Scheme No. 2

Paper is priced very low per roll and BORDER is overlooked to produce the profit, which often amounts to 50 per double roll above regularly priced paper.

Scheme No. 3

Paper is priced to you at a very low figure and after you make the purchase you find you have paid about double the advertised price for the ceiling.

Example

The ordinary bed room requires about 5 double rolls of wall and three double rolls of ceiling with 18 yards border.

Applying scheme No. 2: eight rolls of paper at 12c per double roll amounts to .96c, 18 yards border at 1c amounts to 18c total $1.14. Figuring the border at 3c the amount would total $1.56, a difference of 36c making your 12c paper cost you over 16c per double roll.

OUR METHOD

We sell all borders to paper, running in price from 12c to 35c per double roll, at 3c per yard. Ceilings at same price as side wall except in the higher grades which cost less.

We believe in giving the customer a square deal and do not believe it just or wise in misleading the public in order to obtain their business. We are giving you some pointers on purchasing your paper and warn you against becoming victims of the schemes.

BIRTHDAY SURPRISE

Sunday, April 10, was the seventy-first birth day of M. M. Latimer of south east of town. His friends planned a surprise for him and Mrs. Latimer which was a great success. Those present were, Mr. and Mrs. Lyndus Latimer, son Wilbur, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Smith, sons Robert and Stanley of Warsaw, Mr. and Mrs. Austin Blue, Mr. and Mrs. Len Latimer, Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Sarber, son Christian, Miss Greta Latimer, son Hannah Baker, Mrs. Julia Whetstone and Mrs. Laura Cox of Warsaw.

All came with well filled baskets which means an abundance of delicious food. What a wonderful dinner was heard spoken of often.

One Eye Her Oculist
Son Could Not Help

The oculist had a "joke" the other morning. Every now and then he smiled quietly to himself. "Kauw," he said finally to the woman, "mothers are wonderful people. They always believe there is nobody quite so clever as their own children."

"Now, my mother, for instance, thinks I know everything about eyes. She doesn't confine her boasting to the neighbors either. She is just as likely as not to walk up to a nearsighted, or cross-eyed passenger in the subway and tell him his eyes need attention and that her son is the best oculist in New York. She says that isn't humbling business for me; it's helping people who don't know enough to look their sight. But the joke is on her."

"Yesterday she met a man who is distinctly and painfully 'wall-eyed' and she told him immediately the introductions were made. 'My son can do anything with eyes. Why don't you go to see him?' 'You afraid he can't do anything with this eye, ma'am,' answered the object of her solicitude; 'you see, it's a glass one.'"

Witty Professor Gave Nickname to Students

Law freshmen class in the University of Texas are designated as J. A.'s. The term is used by all students on the campus, but few of them outside the law school know its import and origin.

When Judge W. S. Simkins was a member of the law faculty, he was explaining one day to a large freshman class some of the weightier matters of the law. It was springtime and the students apparently were thinking more of napping on the grass in some shady nook than of what the professor was saying.

Suddenly upon the clear air there came the discord of a donkey's bray. Simkins paused in his lecture while the students giggled over the animal's "hee-hawing." When the noise had subsided, Simkins remarked:

"Some poor jackass is calling his long-lost brother, so I'll let all of you out to go comfort him." Since then every giggling lawyer in the school has been designated as a J. A.—Kansas City Star.

She was deemed to have known she would have her own views on this business of Christmas presents. The other day, when the holiday demure of the first fat and shining little pickles loomed up mountain high, how do you suppose she settled them? Simply informed the five that Santa Claus was dead. "He died, do you hear?" says Mandy. "and what's mo' he ain't got to come to life again, neither!" How many other heads of families would have followed her example if they dared?—Philadelphia Record.

On Easter Morn

THE chords of music are freighted with the perfume of the lilies; the songs that are sung catch inspiration from these sweetest of flowers—the entire genius of Easter is that of the lily. What could the day be without them! As hope opens, and life brightens, and love becomes more enduring, it is the lily that brings these sentiments to their finer fruition. For the lily is the evangel of the flowers at Easter-tide, and church and home and heart are filled with their beauty and fragrance.

Rejoicing on Easter Sunday

HE heart of Christendom rejoices on Easter Sunday. The entry into Jerusalem on Palm Sunday, the agony of Christ in the garden, the crucifixion and burial on Good Friday—all these are past. Death is swallowed up in victory. Christ the Lord is risen today!

If, as has been suggested, the word Easter is derived from Oster, which signifies rising, then is Easter Sunday, both in name and reality, the feast of the resurrection.

It is more probable, however, that Easter gets its name from Eostre, a Saxon deity, whose feast was celebrated every spring about the time of the Christian festival. A compromise was thus effected, Christians accepting the pagan name and pagans accepting the Christian significance of the day.

Easter is a movable feast. It falls on "the first Sunday after the full moon which happens upon or next after the twenty-first of March, and if the full moon happens upon a Sunday, Easter day is the Sunday after."

In earlier days Easter was called the Paschal feast, for it was kept at the same time as the Pascha, or Jewish Passover.

So much for the origin of the name. Easter Sunday today is celebrated by young and old alike.

For the children there are rabbits and Easter eggs—and the unrestrained joy of egg hunts in back yards and in public parks.

For the grown-ups there are new gifts, new hats.

But surely Easter holds more than this for us. It is not a day of happiness alone, nor of outward show alone. It is a day of victory.

Just as our Saxon forefathers celebrated Easter and the victory of things physical, so we celebrate Easter and the victory of things spiritual. The heart of man is filled with the beauty of spring's flowers that have sprung from death to life.

The soul of man is triumphant, for it is filled with a spirit which dwells not.

Christ the Lord is risen!

Biblical Story of the Resurrection

IN THE eve of the Sabbath, as it began to dawn toward the first day of the week, came Mary Magdalene and the other Mary, to see the sepulcher.

And behold there was a great earthquake, for the angel of the Lord descended from heaven and came and rolled back the stone from the door and sat upon it.

His countenance was like lightning and his raiment white as snow.

And for fear of him the keepers did shake and become as dead men.

And the angel answered and said unto the women, Fear ye not; for I know that ye seek Jesus, which was crucified.

He is not here, for He is risen, as He said. Come, see the place where the Lord lay.

And as they went to tell His disciples that He is risen from the dead, and behold, He stood before you in Galilee; and there shall ye see Him; for I have told you.

And they departed quickly from the sepulcher with fear and great joy; and did run to bring His disciples word.

And as they went to tell His disciples, behold, Jesus met them, saying, All hail. And they came, and held Him by the feet, and worshipped Him.

Then said Jesus unto them, Be not afraid; go tell my brethren that they go into Galilee, and there shall they see me.

Then the eleven disciples went away into Galilee, into a mountain where Jesus had appointed them.

And when they saw Him they worshipped Him, and some doubted.

And Jesus came and spake unto them, saying, All power is given unto me in heaven and earth.

Go ye therefore and teach all nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Ghost;

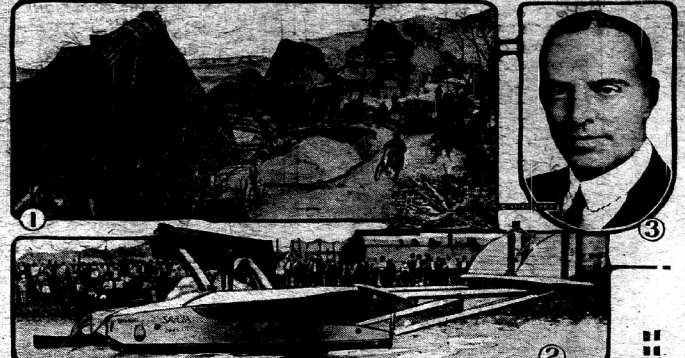

Teaching them to observe all things whatsoever I have commanded you; and, lo, I am with you always, even unto the end of the world. Amen.

Easter Festival Time of Romance

EASTER has always been the time of budding romance. In all ages numerous festivals have offered opportunities for the swains to press their suits upon the ladies of their choice. There was the "sugar coupling" to which only the unmarried came. The youths and maidens, armed with a cup and sugar or honey, came to the flower-decked well, and dipping the sugar-cup into the well, murmured an incantation to the spirit that dwelt there, and then drank the water. The incantation is a secret, but it is believed that the object was to make a wish, and promise allegiance to the spirit, if the wish were fulfilled.

It has long been considered a necessity, on Easter day, to wear something new; otherwise the rooks, envious of human finery, might cause your best clothes to tear. To avoid this the young people of European villages go to the market to buy a small article of wearing apparel. The custom of giving presents, especially gloves, is common in New England. In France the custom of wearing something new prevails to such an extent that every woman considers herself very ill-treated indeed if she has not a new cap to wear on Good Friday, and a new hat to wear on Easter Sunday. As a consequence, these days are called the feast of caps and the feast of hats.

On the continent of Europe there are numerous parades, attended by great pomp and splendor. In comparatively recent times the noblemen of the district, accompanied by his suite, rode in state through the town scattering coins pell mell, the peasants standing by, loudly applauding such splendor. In Spain there is the custom of the Easter king, who, wearing a tin crown and flourishing a kitchen spit as a scepter, furnishes a ribald counterpart of the English Lord of Misrule. There is also an ostentatious hanging and burning of a stuffed figure of Judas. After the fire is out the merry-makers dance over it, stamping and scattering the ashes of the effigy.

NEWS REVIEW OF CURRENT EVENTS

Chang's Raid of the Soviet Embassy in Peking Enrages Russia.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD

DEVELOPMENTS of the week in China were in the direction of a possible declaration of war on the Peking government by Soviet Russia, which action might well be followed by a general conflict involving at least some of the treaty powers which have been giving the northern Chinese a certain measure of support in the civil war.

Marshal Chang Tso-lin, the Manchurian boss in the north, learned of a plot to start a radical demonstration in Peking, so he obtained from the Dutch minister, dean of the diplomatic corps, permission to enter and search the Russian buildings in the legation quarter. Police and troops occupied the buildings and arrested all the nonofficial occupants—sixteen Russians and thirty-four Chinese. A thorough search of the premises revealed a mass of documents, said to be incriminating, and a quantity of guns and ammunition. The Peking authorities declare the buildings were the headquarters of the Kuomintang political commission, the local branch of the radical party, and the executive committee of the Third International, and that the seizure had averted serious uprisings in Peking which would have affected foreigners.

"The seizure at Peking is removed," said Marshal Chang in a message to his generals. "The trouble-makers' offense is unpardonable. They will be dealt with according to their deserts." Which was assumed to mean that they would be summarily executed.

Moscow's official opinion of Chang's coup has not been made public at this writing, but the indignation in the Soviet capital was extreme. The Russian consul general at Shanghai said the act was contrary to the long-established international law of civilized countries and is "particularly dangerous in China owing to the fact that it was carried out by a man who will stand firm in the matter of prohibition. Governor Smith's reply to this, as well as his answer to the Atlantic Monthly article asking him to define his future attitude on religion and government, is awaited with great interest.

PRESIDENT COOLIDGE put a stopper on the Philippine independence movement by vetoing the act of the island legislature providing for a plebiscite on the subject. In a letter to Governor General Wood he asserted that quite aside from economic or political reasons the veto was justifiable on the grounds that Presidential approval might be interpreted as an expression of the American people favoring immediate independence of the Philippine Islands; that the act makes no provision for canvassing all the racial groups in the islands, and that under such conditions the result of the proposed referendum might create friction and would be unconvincing.

The letter stated that the agitation for independence is largely based on the misapprehension that the United States, even though granting full independence, would still assume "the heavy responsibility of guaranteeing the security, sovereignty and independence of the islands."

"In my opinion," writes the President, "this is wholly erroneous."

OUT of the most virulent campaign that Chicago has ever enjoyed, William Hale Thompson emerged victor, being elected mayor on the Republican ticket with a plurality of 53,972 over Mayor W. E. Dever, Democrat. The result was largely due to the heavy vote cast by the negro population of the city and by those who have a liberal policy in the enforcement of the prohibition law. There must have been some such reasons, for Thompson's two previous administrations offered few arguments in his favor, and his self-made campaign issues were of such indelible stuff as "America First" and abusive attacks still resting the British plans for a program of active intervention because of the Sinking outrages, and have been formulating instead mere demands for apology and reparations. President Coolidge and his cabinet discussed the situation thoroughly and sent to Minister MacMurray an outline of the American demands. It was believed in Washington that 1,500 more marines would be sent to China within a few days. The British government, as was predicted, has decided to set simply, if necessary, in obtaining indemnity from the Cantonese and has started large military reinforcements from England on the way to Shanghai.

PRESIDENTIAL politics was at the fore last week. For one thing, Senator Moses of New Hampshire asserted positively that Mr. Coolidge would not seek a renomination, though there is no reason to believe that he is in the President's confidence. The Lowden boom was formally started by an Iowa legislative committee which began the formation of organizations in eleven states. This followed the reception of assurance from Lowden that he would forego his desire to continue in private life and would consider seeking the Republican nomination if a sufficient number of agricultural states demand it. With the knowledge but not the consent of Lowden, a movement for his nomination has been undertaken in New York, New Jersey and Connecticut with headquarters in New York city. The men interested will co-operate with the Iowans and probably will undertake to raise the necessary funds. Senator Reed of Missouri, chief counsel for Henry Ford in the Supro libel suit, took occasion Wednesday when cross-questioning Sapro to give Lowden some very ill-natured digs.

On the Democratic side the feeling that Gov. Al Smith would be the victor in the coming election, coupled with the Catholic vote, he elected, but he added the assertion that if Smith wanted the support of delegates from the South he must "let the prohibition issue alone." This was taken to be a fair warning from the southern leaders that they will not make religious intolerance an issue but that they will stand firm in the matter of prohibition. Governor Smith's reply to this, as well as his answer to the Atlantic Monthly article asking him to define his future attitude on religion and government, is awaited with great interest.

on King George of England and the League of Nations.

ITALY and Hungary, through Premier Mussolini and Count Bethlen, signed last week a treaty which declares "there shall be constant peace and friendship" between the two kingdoms. All disputes between them are to be submitted to attempts at conciliation, and should that fail, to arbitration. The Italian government regards the treaty as an important step in its program to attain a new balance of power, not for war but for peace. Skeptical correspondents in Rome look on it as part of Mussolini's policy of political isolation for Yugoslavia and eventual breaking up of the little empire, and the curbing of France's power in the Balkans. But the Rome newspapers said conversations were going on that might lead to the ratification, by Yugoslavia, of the Nettuno agreement and settle all outstanding questions between that country and Italy.

Sweden and Austria exchanged ratifications of a treaty which makes war between them illegal under all circumstances. Sweden's safety now seems assured, for she has similar pacts with Norway, Denmark, Poland, Finland, Germany, Czechoslovakia and Belgium.

DISASTER finally overtook Commander De Pinedo, the Italian "four continent" flier, after he got fairly started on the North American part of the trip. The flier, who was on his way to San Diego, was just starting for San Diego, someone threw a lighted match on the oil-covered surface of the water and started a blaze that within a few moments had completely destroyed the big airplane that had flown across the Atlantic and over much of South America. The plane and his crew escaped unhurt. The United States War department immediately offered the aviator an army plane to continue his tour but he came from Rome that the Italian government would send over a new plane. So De Pinedo said he would go from California to New York, then to the plane and would then fly to Washington, Philadelphia, New Orleans, St. Louis and thence up to Canada.

SACCO and Vanzetti, whose conviction in Massachusetts in 1921 for murder has been violently protested by radicals everywhere ever since, were denied a new trial by the Massachusetts Supreme court, and their only chance of escaping the punishment to which they will soon be sentenced is the possibility that their lawyer will find some means of carrying the case to the Supreme Court of the United States. The new trial was asked because the defense attorneys claimed that the two men were convicted not because the jury thought them guilty but because they were admitted radicals.

EDWARD M. WILKINS, American electrical engineer who was kidnapping for ransom, was executed by Mexican bandits near Guadalajara, has been avenged. Seven men who were arrested by the troops and whose heads were identified by Mr. Wilkins' little son, were tried by court-martial, found guilty and executed.

In Mexico City Gen. Federico Cordova and four accomplices were arrested and the general confessed an elaborate plot for kidnapping Americans, partly to obtain ransom and partly to encourage the Mexican government in its relations with the United States. The first victim was to be Albert E. Watts of New York, the multi-millionaire vice president of the Sinclair Oil company. Cordova is the man whose band in 1919 captured William Jennings, American consular agent, and obtained $150,000 for his release.

VICE PRESIDENT DAWES, returned from Panama, ruled that the senate's two previous administration committees had not lost its power, and appointed Senator Fess of Ohio to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of Senator Goar of West Virginia.

SCHOOL DAYS

Mother's Cook Book

Why should we be in such desperate haste to succeed and in such desperate enterprises? If a man does not know peace with his companions, perhaps it is because he hears a different drummer. Let him step to the music which he hears, however measured or far away. It is not important that he should measure as soon as the apple tree or the oak. —Henry David Thoreau.

SOME SANDWICHES

A GROUP of good sandwiches will always be popular for reference in any home.

May-Time Sandwiches.
Work two Neufchatel cheeses with a little thick cream until smooth, add a few drops of green vegetable coloring, mixing until the cheese is a vivid, fragrant tint; add one cupful of finely-chopped blanched almonds, season with salt and cayenne. Spread thin slices of sandwich bread with mayonnaise dressing, sprinkle with finely minced, chives and an equal number of slices with the cheese mixture. Put together in pairs, press edges together, trim and cut into three narrow strips, sprinkle the top side of the sandwiches with paprika. Serve with coffee.

Picnic Sandwiches.
Clean and remove the intestinal veins from fresh or canned shrimp. Chop fine and take one cupful, packed solidly. Marinate with two tablespoons of French dressing and let stand two hours. Now add one-half cupful each of shredded lettuce, water-cress, and one-fourth of a cupful of chopped green onions. Add the sifted yolks of three hard-cooked eggs and the finely chopped whites; moisten with mayonnaise and use as a filling on buttered bread.

Sauces Sandwiches.
Cut white bread into thin slices, remove the crusts and cut into rectangular pieces. Spread thinly with mustard butter. Cut mild cheese into one-eighth-inch slices the same size as the bread; sprinkle with salt, paprika and cayenne. Place a slice of cheese between two slices of the bread and fry in a little hot butter until brown on both sides. Serve hot with a green salad.

Sorority Sandwiches.
Mix thoroughly one-half cupful of finely minced Canton ginger, one-half cupful of stoned and chopped dates, and one-half cupful of chopped pecan meats. Season with salt and moisten with some of the ginger syrup in the consistency for spreading. Spread on buttered brown bread or saltines. Serve with hot cocoa or chocolate.

GIRIGAGS

"The more I look at summer styles, the more I realize how foolish I was to give away my doll clothes."

SOMETHING TO THINK ABOUT

By F. A. WALKER

HOW IS IT WITH YOU?

THE wild emotional storms that sweep the quick-tempered from their feet, quite often serve as warnings to observant youths inclined to hold their tongues and apply their hands to their ears.

But alas! this does not apply to youth as a whole. Many there are who founder and pant through such disturbances without giving a thought to their meaning. They look upon the torrential outburst with dull indifference.

Although the bridges have been swept away, and the danger signals flash ahead, they plunge into the ruts and splash through the mud and muck heedless of their peril.

Indeed, the greater number continue to yield to hot-headed impulses, shaken up a bit, perhaps, if the truth were told, but still inclined to follow their rash bent.

These hare-brained youths are going to have their fling.

They are going to show their apprehensive fathers and mothers how things are done in this new age; how to "sport" automobiles and flashy clothes. Among their associates of that ilk, they let it be known that they are not counseling counsel from their elders.

There must be no base capitulation to these ancient apostles of precept and principle.

They will blurt out trouble-making words whenever and wherever they please. What do they care for frequent storms that rattle the serenity between them and their employers?

The world is an open shop filled with good things especially for the young, and all they have to do is to put out their hand and grab what suits them. Just as they would crib an apple from the apple orchard when the dog is not looking.

Out of every hundred of these self-willed youngsters, statistics will show you that ninety are heading for the ragged days of failure.

Each year they drop a little lower, strutting in tattered society and put at their wits end to keep up appearance; still storming as in their earlier days, but with a voice less defiant.

In their culmer mood, in the still of night when alone with their troubled souls, they wonder where the next wind will blow them.

On their foreheads and in their shiffling eyes is written the monotonous word, FAILURE! and they know that everybody can read it.

What is Time writing on your countenance?

A THOUGHT OF MOTHER

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

THE world is wide, and men have needs. Need all their fathers and all their needs. And all the wisdom of the past To bring them safely home at last. And many volumes I have read, And heard the things the sages said— And yet I know another way: A thought of Mother every day.

The world is hard, temptations hide By every ill and harbor side. To keep them clean and get them through, Through all the dangers of the day. But there is little room for sin In hearts where Mother dwells within, And this will save the sons who stray: A thought of Mother every day.

The world is great, and great the strife, And crowded is the road of life. And men must have who would find The rainbow with the gold behind. And yet I hope that men hold fast To something sweet from out the past. A gentle hand, a brow of gray, A thought of Mother—every day.

The world is dark; when days are best, Ah, yes, when even friends forget, And when the dream you dream in youth. One thought will help you bear the pain. One thought will help to keep you right. Will keep the lamp of faith alight; One thought will aid you all the way: A thought of Mother every day. (© by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

THE WHY of SUPERSTITIONS

By H. IRVING KING

A HAIR OF THE DOG

"A HAIR of the dog that bit you" is in many parts of the country something more than a handy remedy for the dog bite. It is a superstition that which caused the evil will work the cure. If he will take the trouble to investigate he will be surprised how widespread is this belief that the evil effects of a dog bite may be cured by applying to the wound "a hair of the dog." And this superstition exists not only in this country but in many others, being as widespread in locality as it is ancient in origin. It has its genesis in the old belief in sympathetic magic—the close connection which the ancients conceived to exist between a person and anything closely related to him or constructed in a resemblance to him. In this country, the evil effects of a dog bite may be cured by applying to the wound "a hair of the dog." And this superstition exists not only in this country but in many others, being as widespread in locality as it is ancient in origin. It has its genesis in the old belief in sympathetic magic—the close connection which the ancients conceived to exist between a person and anything closely related to him or constructed in a resemblance to him.

Thus the hair came to be regarded, even when cut off, as still, in reality a fragment of his former wearer and, logically, what a man's hair was to a man a dog's hair was to a dog. Now the spirit of a man, or of any other animal, belongs necessarily to, in one sense, a part of the man or other animal which secretes it. Therefore, if bitten by a dog, apply to the wound a hair of the said dog and the spirit of him, still more or less, is in the wound, with all its properties for evil, will be attracted, naturally to its homogenous part, the hair, and not injure the alien body into which it has been injected. That's the way the ancients reasoned it out. Modern man does not reason it out at all, but still practices his sympathetic magic with a hair of the dog that bit him.

THE YOUNG LADY ACROSS THE WAY

By Viola Brothers Soree

THE young lady across the way may be a beauty, but she is not a beauty who does her hair and it seems so unnecessary, too, with so many good hair preparations in the market to preserve its natural color.

It is a pity that so many young ladies who have such beautiful hair should waste it by using so many hair preparations.

GETTING RIGHT CURTAIN EFFECT IN ROOM

Curtains of Theatrical Gauze Banded With Cretonne Are Effective.

Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture. That there is a time and place for everything is a trite saying, but even so it needs to be remembered when curtains are under consideration. Some rooms call for one effect and some for another, and success goes to the housemaker who gets the right curtain effect in the room where it belongs.

For example, large, pompous rooms demand heavy velours and tapestry, but a timid little room simply cringes when heavy velours and velvets are forced upon it. There are rooms where even the gay and ubiquitous cretonne is not satisfactory. This will be found true especially in dark rooms with few windows or where the windows are overshadowed by a porch.

Bring Out a Dark Room.

Nothing can be done to give a dark room out of its gloowering gloom unless the walls are painted or papered in light creamy colors. This done, the windows are easy. First, forget that overdraperies exist and that you and your neighbor have always thought them an essential part of a good looking window. Then plan a scheme by which glass curtains can be effectively used.

In a living room or dining room a really deep cream or ecru marquisette would be interesting with applied items of deep blue and with a full valance of the same material also hemmed with blue. A more pretentious effect could be achieved by using silk gauze with ruffles of taffeta in contrasting color. It must be remembered that curtains of that type must be dry cleaned. One of the secrets of attractive windows without overdraperies is to have the curtains full—draperies cannot be forgotten or forgiven.

Effective Treatment.

The illustration, taken by the United States Department of Agriculture, shows an effective treatment much like those suggested. The material is theatrical gauze and the bands a striped cretonne. Additional dignity is given by having a rod in the hems of the valance at top and bottom.

Instead of using bands the valance alone may be cretonne and if the glass curtains are ruffled tie-backs the tie-backs should also be cretonne. In the bedroom one of the newest ideas is to hang a voile or marquisette panel with a ruffle at the bottom over the glass. Then at each side arrange ruffled tie-backs of the same material. One charming treatment of this kind was in the home of a young bride. The curtain across the glass was a soft, disheveled pink and the voile curtains at each side were printed with little pink nosegays and ruffled in plain pink.

POKE SHOOTS MAKE EXCELLENT GREENS

Take Care Not to Cut Any of Underground Part.

Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.

Do you know poke shoots, or poke salad as they are sometimes called? Perhaps as a child you made "jake" from the dark purple berries of the poke weed and stained your hands and clothes and were warned by your parents of the poison in the juice. But the berries of the poke weed are poisonous and should never be tasted or eaten. The tender pink and green shoots of the poke weed that come up in the spring contain none of this poisonous matter, however, and are highly prized for greens in many localities. Some people call them poor man's asparagus. They do have the same kind of succulent texture and fresh earthy flavor. You may use them in the same way as asparagus in a near-by field or perhaps in a corner of your garden. In cutting the shoots, you will find the small green shoot at the top of the plant. Do not use the larger green leaves for they will be bitter. In cutting the shoots take care not to include any of the underground part of the plant, for the root is exceedingly poisonous. Also be sure that you are cutting the true poke weed. There is one variety sometimes called Indian poke which is poisonous in all its parts.

If poke weed does not grow wild in your locality, perhaps you may find gold or cowslip doing. That makes the best of all greens, some people think. With others, lamb's quarters or wild quail are the favorite. You may have in your garden an abundance of turnip or mustard tops, young beet greens, kale, spinach, or perhaps an asparagus bed. Try the poke shoots, however, if they are available. They go particularly well with ham.

Poke shoots have a slightly pungent or bitter flavor which is dissipated if too strong. It is customary, therefore, to cook them for three or four minutes in boiling water so you would use any other vegetable, and then drain them and put them on to cook again in fresh boiling water, lightly salted.

Young poke shoots are fairly uniform in size and are handled more easily if they are tied together in a bundle like asparagus. Poke shoots are best, if used, to be cooked with butter and like asparagus may be served on toast.

If unusual, turnip, lamb's quarters, marsh marigold, or beet tops are used instead of poke they are chopped finely and cooked the shortest possible time in very little water. A hard cooked egg may be used to give a decorative note and add to the food value, or if you have an abundance of lettuce, cut it, stir it with melted butter in a heavy skillet, cover, let it steam and cook slowly for four to ten minutes, and sprinkle lightly with salt before serving. Romanesco lettuce is especially good for cooking, because it holds its shape and does not wilt down so completely as the softer kinds of garden lettuce.

Hot Sauces for Desserts

Given a Festive Touch

Many desserts are given a festive touch by the addition of a hot sweet sauce. Chocolate and butterscotch are two of the best liked of these hot sauces. Either may be used in such desserts as ice cream, custards, blanc manes, steamed or baked puddings or on cake. The directions for making these sauces are furnished by the bureau of home economics.

Butterscotch Sauce.
1 cup boiling water 2 tablespoons but-
1 cup brown sugar 1 ter
1/2 cup cream 1/2 ter
Spoon of cinnamon 1/2 teaspoon vanilla

To the boiling water add the brown sugar, flour, salt and cinnamon, which have been thoroughly mixed together. Cook until the flour has lost its taste and the mixture thickens, stirring continually to prevent lumping and sticking. Beat in the butter and the vanilla.

This quantity is sufficient for seven to fourteen servings.

Chocolate Sauce.
2 squares unsweet- 1 tablespoon but-ened chocolate 1/2 ter
1 cup granulated 1/2 ter sugar 1/2 ter
1/2 cup milk

Place the chocolate and sugar over steam to melt and continue to heat until the sugar is dissolved. Add milk, salt and butter and leave over steam for ten minutes longer, then beat, add vanilla and serve hot over ice cream or cake.

Valuable Mineral Salts

Cooking does not destroy the valuable mineral salts found in many fresh vegetables. Some of them, however, are dissolved in the liquid in which they are cooked, and it is therefore important that this pot liquor be served. Milk-flavored vegetables may be steamed, boiled in very little water, or cooked a short time in milk so that the amount of liquid to serve with the vegetable is small. The larger amount of water from the boiling of the strong-flavored vegetables may be saved for soup or used in thickened gravies and sauces.

Your Kidneys Must Function Properly For You to Be Well

LATE hours, rich foods and stimulants are all bad for our kidneys. If their action becomes sluggish, they do not thoroughly cleanse the blood of poisonous wastes.

Such impurities may make one dull, tired and aching, with often a backache, drowsy headaches and dizziness. A common symptom of imperfect kidney function is edema or swelling of the feet.

Thousands have learned the value of Doan's Pills, situated in the kidneys. 50,000 users have publicly recommended Doan's Ask your neighbor.

50,000 Users Endorse Doan's—Doan's Pills proved their value to me. My kidneys were not working and the medicine was sent and within three days I was well. I was told to use Doan's Pills and that's what I did. I feel like a new man now.

Cornmeal Butterflies

Butterflies that put plant life and nearly busy during the larval stage, instead of the usual vegetarian diet, have been discovered in the Orient and New England. Known as hair-struck, they even carry their cannibal habits to the point of devouring their own species during the helpless state of protection from larva into the pupa.

Why He Succeeded

He succeeded politically and professionally, during his lifetime, Dr. R. V. Pierce, whose picture is shown here, was a success story. His pure herbal remedies which have stood the test for many years are still among the best sellers. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is a stomach alternative which makes the blood richer. CHAPTER XII.

She and the rocks reeled together. That was my eyes, giddy with rush of blood, surging and hot.

"Never, never never!" I was shouting. "You shan't go, I shan't go. But wherever we go we'll go together. We'll stand them off. Then if they can take us, let 'em."

"Listen," she called her hand grasping my sleeve. "They would take me anyway—don't you see? After they had killed you. It would be the worse for both of us. No Mr. Beeson I have closed a good bargain for both of us. He is impatient. The money you will need the money, and I shall not. Please turn your back and I'll get at my belt."

The chief was advancing accompanied by one warrior.

I could not deliver her tender body over to that painted swagger—any more than I could to Daniel himself.

At last I knew, I knew! History had written me a fool, but it should not write me a dastard.

We were together, and together we should always be, come what or woe, life or death.

Heaped before her, answered the hall of the pausing chief.

"No," I shouted. "You go to hell!"

He understood. The phrase might have been familiar English to him.

I saw him stiffen in his saddle; he called loudly, and raised his rifle threateningly; with a gasp—a choked "Good-bye"—he darted by me, running on for the open and for him.

In a stark blinding rage I leveled revolver and pulled trigger. The chief uttered a terrible cry, his rifle was tossed high, he bowed, swayed downward, his comrade grabbed him, and they were racing back closely side by side and she was running back to me and the warriors were shrieking and brandishing their weapons and bullets splattered the rocks—all this while yet my hand shook to the recoil of the revolver and the smoke was still waiting from the poised muzzle.

What had I done? But done it was.

She arrived breathless, distraught instantly to drag me down beside her from where I stood stupidly defiant.

"Keep out of sight," she panted. And—"Oh, why did you do it? Why did you? I think you killed him—they'll never forgive. They'll call it treachery! Your last best!"

"But he shan't have you," I declared. "Let them kill me if they can. Till then you're mine. Mine! Don't you understand? I want you."

A burst of savage words renewed interrupted. "They're coming!" She knelt up to peer. I peered. The Indians had deployed, leaving the chief lying upon the ground, their fierce countenances glaring at our asylum.

A glory glowed in her haggard face and shone from her brimming eyes.

"We will fight, we will fight!" she chanted. "Oh my man! Had you kissed me last night we would have known this longer. We have so little time." She turned from my lips. "Not now. They're coming. Fight first; and at the end, then kiss me, please, and we'll go together."

Furious yells vibrated among our rocks. The Sioux all were in motion, except the prostrate chief. Straight onward they charged, at headlong gallop, to ride over us. It was exultant to cry, but she spoke steadily.

"You must die," she said. "Hurry! Fire once, many twice, to split them." So I rose farther on my knees and fired once—and again.

It was a miracle. All swooped to right and to left as if the bullets had cleared their path in the center, pelting in bullet and nearly spent arrow.

She forced me down.

"Low, low," she warned. "You have fifteen shots left, for them, then, one for me, one for you. Understand?"

"I understand," I replied. "And if I'm disabled—"

"It will be the same. One for you, one for me!"

A double click had been heard, to move in two directions, sounding ring repeated, with a double ring, the women uttermost. Around and round they galloped, yelling, gibing, taunting, shooting so malignantly that and swish. The lead whined and macked, the shafts streaked and clattered—

"You must stop some of those birds from sneaking closer," she counseled. "See? They're trying to cut."

I had been desperately saving the ammunition, to eke out this hour of life with her. Every note from the revolver summoned the end a little closer. But we had our game to play, and after all, the end was certain. So when the next painted ruffian bore down, I guessed shrewdly, arose and hit him have it.

She cried out, clapping her hands. "Good! Good!"

The pony was sprawling and kicking, the rider had hurtled free and set jumping and dodging like a cock-rabbit.

Now they all charged recklessly from the four sides; and I had to and fire, right left, before being and, emptying the gun once more, they scattered and fled. Upon my lady's shoulder a challenging or alarm of scarlet.

"You're hurt!" I blurted, agast. "Not much. A scratch. How many left? Nine." She had been counting "Seven for them."

We looked upon the other and smiled. We faced a future together at least; we were in accord.

The Sioux retired, mainly to sit dismounted in close circle, for a confab.

The Sioux had cooed. We waited, tense and watchful.

Then without even a premonitory shout a pony bolted for us. He bore two riders. They charged straight in, and suddenly the rear rider dropped to the ground, bounded briefly and died headlong, worming into a little hollow in the sand.

He lay half concealed; the pony had wheeled to a shrill jubilant chorus; his remaining rider lashed him in retreat, leaving the first digging lustily with hand and knife.

That was the system; and approach by rushes. "We must permit it," she breathed. "We must rust him out. Can you reach him?"

The tawny figure prone upon the tawny sand, was just visible, lean and snakish, slightly oscillating as it worked. "We must permit it," and fired and saw the spurt from the bullet.

"A little lower—" she pleaded. And I fired again.

She cried out joyfully. The snake had flopped from its hollow, plunged at full length aside, had started to crawl writhing. A recruit took his place into the hollow; and the courier snatched the snake from the ground. The fellow in the foreground barrowed cleverly. I fired twice—we could not see that I had even inconvenienced him.

Suddenly, as I craned, the fellow fired again; he had discovered a niche in our rampart, for the ball fanned my cheek with the wings of a vicious wasp. On the instant I replied, snapping quick answer.

"I don't think you hit him," she said. "Let me try. I'll hold on the spot—he'll come up in the same place, head and shoulders. You'll have to tempt him."

And I edged farther, and farther, as if seeking for a mark, but with all my flesh a-prickle and my breath fast.

Abruptly it came—the snake's strike, stinging my face with the spatter of sandstone and hot lead; at the moment her Colt's bellowed into my ears.

"I got him!"

"Thank God," I rejoiced.

She had sunk back wearily. "That is the last."

"Won't they try again, you think?"

"The last spare shot, I mean. We have only our two left. We must save those."

The Sioux had quieted, and looting upon the bare ground in the sun stare they chatted, laughed, roared but never for an instant were we diminished from their eyes and thoughts.

"They will wait too. They can afford it," she murmured. "It is cheaper for them than losing lives."

"If they have we had only the two cartridges!"

"Where will you shoot me, Frank?"

"No! No!" I begged. "Don't speak of that. It'll be had enough at the best."

"You will though," she soothed think it should be through the temple. That's sure. But you won't wait to look, will you? You'll spare yourself that!"

"This made me groan, craved, and wipe my hand across my forehead to brush away the frenzy."

Thirst and heat tortured unceasingly.

She broke with sudden passion of hoarse appeal.

"Why do we wait," I stammered, miserable and pitting.

"Yes," she whispered, submissive. "I suppose we ought. One always 'I'd rather have it from you. I die. But I am so tired. I think," she said, "that I will let my hair down. I have a right to, at last."

Whereupon she fell to loosening her hair and braiding it with hurried fingers.

Then after a time, I said: "We'll not be much longer, dear."

"I hope not," she said, panting, her lips stiff, her eyes bright and feverish. "They'll rush us at sundown; maybe before."

"I believe," said I, blurring the words, for my tongue was getting unmanageable. "They're making ready now."

She exclaimed and struggled and sat up, and we both gazed. Out there the Sioux, in that world of their own had roused to energy. I fancied that they had palled of inaction.

They delayed an instant gestured, and then—

"It will be soon," she whispered, touching my arm. "When they are half-way, don't fail. I trust you. Will you kiss me? That is only the once."

I kissed her; dry cracked lips met dry cracked lips. She laid herself down and closed her eyes and smiled.

"I'm all right," she said. "And tired. I've worked so hard for only this. You mustn't look."

"And you must wait for me, somewhere," I entreated. Just a moment.

The Sioux charged, shrieking, hammering, lashing, all of one purpose; that us, she; I, my life, her body; and quickly kneeling beside her (I was cool and firm and collected), I felt her hand guide the revolver barrel.

But I did not look. She had forbidden, and I kept my eyes upon them, until they were half-way, and in exultation I pulled the trigger, my hand already tensed to snatch and cock and deliver myself under the very grasp. That was a sweetness.

The hammer clicked. There had been no jar, no report.

The hammer had only clicked, I tell you, shocking me to the core, chamber? Which? No matter.

Which? Which? No matter. I should achieve for her, first; then myself. I heard her gasp. Then I sensed another sound and with sight sharpened I saw. Raising I screeched and waved, as blarney, no doubt, as any animated scarecrow.

It had been a trumpet note, and the cavally gudge and a rank of bobbing figures had come galloping over an imperceptible swell.

"We're saved, the soldiers are here," I yelled as the Sioux fled, screaming.

She tottered up, clinging to me. We were sitting close together when a lieutenant scrambled to us among our rocks; the troopers followed, curiously scanning.

His stubbled red face dust-smudged, quivered as keenly; so did his curt voice.

"Just in time!"

He brought curious news. Daniel had not died from my shot after all, but Montovo the gambler had been lynched by Vigilantes.

It was six weeks later when we two rode into Benton, wondering. Roping Benton City had vanished. The iron tendrils of the Pacific Railway glinted, stretching westward into the sunset, and Benton had followed the lure, to Rawlins (as had been told us), to Green River, to Bryan—likely now traveling fast, charging the mountain slopes of Utah. The restless dust had settled.

The Queen Hotel, the Big Tent, the saloons, gambling, dance, dance, the station itself had subsided into this: a skeleton company of taste outcrop of coldly blackened city chimneys, a sprinkling of battered houses. The fevered populace who had ridden high upon the tide of rapid life had remained only as ghosts—haunting a potter's field.

"I hope not," said she, panting,

"It's all, all wiped out, like he is," she said. "But I wished to see."

"All, all is wiped out, dear heart," said I. "All of that. But here are you and I."

Through star shine we centered side by side eastward down the old, empty freighting road, for the railway station at Fort Steele.

THE END.

DO YOU WANT TO WRITE?
PIGS TO GREECE.
UNCOUTH BOLSHIEVSKI.
A $4,000 CHEVROLET?

President Coolidge says:
"Familiarity with the Scriptures brings culture."

Read the Psalms, Isaiah, Job, the Sermon on the Mount, ten or twenty times and you will write better poetry, prose or advertising copy.

Two are indicted for fraud through the mails, in a "how to get this swindle" fraud is not the worst of such enterprises. Many women, who think they are too fat, ruin their vitality seeking to be thin. The way to "reduce" is by regular sleep, deep breathing, reasonable exercise, moderate wine eating. It is not necessary to be fat or to be faint.

New York to Chicago air service is let to the able Coffin-Henderson concern at $124 a pound. A lower bid at $125 was rejected because pilots flying the machines owned stock in the company.

That should be a reason for giving the contract, instead of refusing it. Pilots owning stock in machines would take care of them and the mail. If any law forbids pilots owning stock in a flying company, that law should be changed.

A famous boar named Colonel Broadcaster and fourteen other pedigreed American swine were sent to Greece last week. The mountains that look on Marathon will soon see finer pigs rooting along the beach than they ever saw before.

Poetry is above pigs, but pigs that America sent to Greece will do Greece more good than the poetry that Byron wrote.
Greece has won for herself the freedom that Byron wished her. She couldn't win without foreign help such a pedigreed pig as Broadcaster.

The Bolsheviks are certainly uncouth. They convict three high Russian officials of taking bribes in connection with a big German lumber tract and what do you suppose happened? The three officials did not employ good lawyers, express righteous indignation and go to Palm Beach or the Riviera. They stayed at home, were sentenced to death, all their property confiscated and they will really be executed.

Russia would be a poor place to steal a naval oil reserve.

Miss Pankhurst has lost interest in votes for women, "because voting women make the same mistakes that men make." They do, of course being human, and sometimes influenced by men. Nobody expected that votes for women would bring on the millennium over night. But women voting have made men in office ask themselves, "What do the women want? What do the children need?" That's the important thing about votes for women.

In old whiskey days, as soon as women got the vote, district leaders in the great cities went out the order, "Don't get the boys drunk around election time, or their wives and daughters will vote against you."

Civilization's problem is cheap distribution of life's necessities, giving citizens full value for their dollars. This doesn't mean business men shouldn't make the profit to which they are entitled. It means modern business tends more and more to "low profit, big volume."

The quart of milk that a farmer sells for four cents, the city motorist for fifteen cents. If General Motors were run on that basis, a Chevrolet would cost $4,000.

PUBLIC SPEAKING CLASS WILL PRESENT PLAYS AT EXHIBIT

There will be an exhibit of the Art and Home Economic work of the High School and grades, at the Community Hall on the afternoon and evening of Friday April 21st. The exhibit will be open from 2:30 to 4:00 and from 7:00 to 9:30.

In the evening the Public speaking Class will present two one-act plays, and music will be furnished by the High School. The Public is invited.

ARRESTED FOR GRAND LARCENY

Wayne Mendel, of Bourbon, who was arrested at Martinsville for theft, may be tried there instead of being brought to Warsaw for trial on a charge of stealing here and at Burket. He was arrested at Martinsville on a charge of stealing junk instead of chickens, as was first reported. A charge of grand larceny against him at Martinsville will bring the same punishment as the grand larceny charge filed here and it is likely that his trial will be in that city.

The arrest of Mr. Mendel is believed to have cleared up the numerous chicken thefts in the southwest part of Kosciusko county. Warsaw authorities have been working on these cases for several weeks and already had a warrant for the arrest of Mr. Mendel when the word came that he was picked up at Martinsville on the junk stealing charge.

It is believed Mr. Mendel was responsible for at least four raids on hen roosts in the vicinity of Maytown and Burket, those thefts including one at the home of his grandparents Mr. and Mrs. Alexander of near Burket.

After the disappearance of 100 fine Barred Rock chickens from the home of Ray Riner near here, it was learned that these chickens were taken to South Bend but has refrained from making public his progress in the case. The arrest at Martinsville has brought to light the success of his efforts.

Sheriff McKrell has made several trips to South Bend but has refrained from making public his progress in the case. The arrest at Martinsville has brought to light the success of his efforts.

PERSONALS

Miss Daisy Jones came home Thursday evening to be the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Jones and family during the Easter vacation. Daisy is a student in Central College, Port Wayne.

Miss Artella Kester of Manchester College came Thursday to spend the Easter vacation with her father, Mr. Ed. Kester and grandmother, Mrs. Perschbacher.

Miss Marie Arter and Miss Ina Leininger of Akron made a business trip to Mentone Friday evening.

Bob Reed and Miss Nellie Lyon spent Saturday afternoon and evening in Ft. Wayne.

Miss Orma Koin of Akron came Saturday evening to Mentone and accompanied Miss Senora Lyon to Ft. Wayne.

Miss Winifred Clark came Thursday evening and was the guest of her parents and sister, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Clark and Miss Francis Clark for several days.

Miss Adeline Shoup of Elkhart, Miss Penelope Shoup, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Shoup and daughter, Miss Mary Katherine of Warsaw were guests at the Shaffer Manwaring home on Easter Sunday.

Carl Eaton who is employed in So. Bend was an over Sunday guest of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jonas Eaton east of Burket. Carl was greeting old friends in Mentone Sunday morning.

$5.00 Awarded For The Best Slogan

Up to the present time Mentone has been without a slogan. All other wide awake towns and cities have one and why doesn't Mentone. A town is often remembered by its slogan, and the town with a good slogan is the one that's usually a little bit ahead of its neighboring towns. Tourists take notice of the town with a good slogan and are more likely to stop where they think their business is wanted.

The Chamber of Commerce is offering $5 in cash to the person submitting the best slogan or phrase which will be selected by them. Any person regardless of their residence is eligible to this offer which starts now and ends May 11, 1927. They also may send in as many ideas as they wish.

The slogan should advertise Mentone as a community and not any particular business or feature. For example "Chicago's slogan is 'I will' and Port Wayne's 'With might and main' Slogans such as 'Mentone Welcomes you' or 'Look us over' are to be common to be noticeable.

Something unique that when seen by the weary tourist will take their eye and be remembered. All slogans, phrases and ideas should be delivered or mailed to the librarian, Mrs. Van Gilder on or before May 11th.

AT THE M. E. CHURCH ENJOY JUNIOR-SENIOR BANQUET FRIDAY

Sunday morning following the regular Sunday school there was a very interesting program rendered. Each class responded with a song or solo. The solo sung by Miss Jean Burns and the duet by the Misses Doreen Baumgartner and Editha Bremer were especially pleasing. There were fifteen in attendance and there seems to be a renewed interest manifested in every department. The morning worship was indeed helpful as was the solo by Miss Cattel "Open the Gates of the Temple."

We gladly welcome the return of Rev. and Mrs. Liddle and expect good things for the ensuing year.

O. E. S. MEETING

On April 5th Bourbon Chapter, O. E. S. celebrated their fifty-first anniversary. In honor of this occasion they invited Mentone Chapter to be their guests and to confer the degrees of the order on two candidates. About thirty five members including the officers responded to the invitation.

The officers presented the work in a very commendable manner, being almost word perfect, and it can be safely said that both Chapters profited greatly by the meeting.

Bourbon Chapter was very gracious in their hospitality.

COMMENCEMENT

The Mentone High School Commencement will be held at the Baptist Church Wednesday Evening, April 26 at 8:00. The music will be given by the Warsaw Conservatory of music and the address by Dean V. F. Schwalm of Manchester College.

SPRAINS ARCH OF FOOT

When Winifred Clark came home for her Easter vacation she sprained the arch in one of her feet so that she was unable to walk home. She has recovered nicely from the injury.

MRS. CLYDE KING FINED $100 ON A LIQUOR CHARGE

Mrs. Clyde King, 32, mother of a four-year old son, was fined $100 and given a suspended sentence of 30 days when she pleaded guilty to possession of six quarts of alcohol found at her home near Silver Lake, Friday, when the place was raided by Sheriff Frank McKrell, Chief of Police W. A. Winebrenner and Officers Burwell and Rippey.

Mrs. King was arraigned before Mayor John A. Hansman in the Warsaw city court on Friday evening. The sentence imposed on Mrs. King was the same as was imposed on her husband when he was first found guilty of handling liquor. About a week ago a second charge of selling liquor was filed against King and he was taken to the penal farm to serve his sentence which had been suspended following his first conviction. Prior to the raid on the King home, a man, whose name was not revealed, visited the home and purchased liquor. Mrs. King paid her dues and costs, amounting in all to about $140.

Personals

George Clark of Indiana University spent Friday night with his parents and sisters in Mentone.

Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Grove of Rochester, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Nye of Warsaw and Mr. and Mrs. I. A. Nelson and daughter Miss Katherine were dinner guests of Mrs. Rhoda Eddinger Easter Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Ureshel of Tippecanoe were in Mentone Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Cole entertained on an Easter Sunday dinner Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Mentzer, Mr. and Mrs. M. O. Mentzer and family and Mrs. Ida Clark of Napoleon.

Mrs. Fretz and Miss Elma Cattel made a business trip to Ft. Wayne, Saturday.

Richard Kester, Miss Anna Laura Kester and Byron Nellans of Rome City were week end guests of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Vandemark and Elly Nellans.

Miss Lena Mollenhour was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Artie Eaton and son Devon Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Burket and daughter Miss Edith, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Sherman of South Bend visited friends in Mentone, Sunday.

Ray Coplen of Dowagiac, Mich., was a week end guest of Mentone friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Hiram Morgan and sons, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Holloway and son Clayton, Mr. and Mrs. Irvie Holloway and family of Ft. Wayne, and Mr. and Mrs. R. Dillingham and baby were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. David Holloway.

DOES MENTONE WANT CONCERTS?

A QUESTION FOR THE CITIZENS OF MENTONE

DO THE PEOPLE OF MENTONE WANT BAND CONCERTS THIS SUMMER? Now is the time when we shall have to decide whether or not we shall have a Citizens band this summer to give concerts each week, the same as in the past.

Band concerts are a good means for country area down folk to get together for friendly visits and chats each week, and are more of big Get-Together Community Party.

Band concerts bring people into Mentone from other nearby towns, villages and communities. This brings more trade to Mentone merchants, and subsequently helps the whole town.

Nothing does so much to foster community spirit and co-operation between the merchants and citizens of a town as the Band Concert each week, when everyone has a good time enjoys listening to the band, and the town is helped by more trade.

So let's know your opinion. Shall we, or shall we not, have Band Concerts?

ROBERTY PLOTTERS FOUND GUILTY IN TUCKER CASE

Verdict of guilty was given at 9:45 o'clock Friday night, at Warsaw, by a jury trying three men on a charge of conspiracy to rob Frank Tucker cigar clerk, who disappeared the night of January 28, last. The three men are Willard Clark, Robert Sharp and Sherman Jones. The penalty is two to fourteen years in prison.

The jury heard the case Friday afternoon. It was charged by the state that they waited one night for the cigar clerk as he walked from his store to his home. He is believed to have carried a large sum with him at all times, some times amounting to several thousand dollars.

Tucker was believed to be carrying between three and four thousand dollars the night he disappeared. He used the money to make loans to friends.

A confession was introduced by the state in its charges against the trio. The confession related how the three lost their nerve on a night several weeks before Tucker disappeared and let him pass them unmolested according to the confession. One of them was to have struck him over the head with a piece of pipe.

It was believed officials had hoped to gain some light on the men's disappearance in the trial of the three men, but the state did not attempt to connect them with his disappearance.

The review concluded during the forenoon, the defense using only one witness, Robert Sharp, who repudiated an alleged confession introduced as evidence by the state. Sharp denied any connection with the conspiracy, claiming he was hired as a taxi-cab driver to bring the alleged conspirators to Warsaw when an attempt is said to have been made to rob Mr. Tucker last April.

BAPTIST CHURCH

We will resume the regular weekly program this week: W. M. U. will meet at the church, Wednesday at 2:00 p.m. Thursday evening at 7:30 the prayer meeting. We have more to in prayer now that we were so blessed in our week of special services.

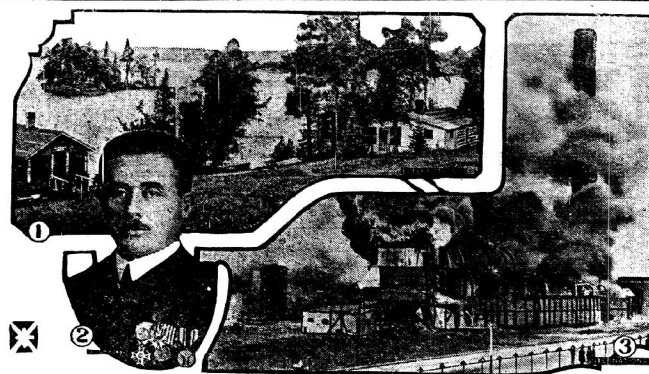

The Subject for next Lord's day will be "The Reality of the Second Visible Coming of Christ," at the close of this service the ordinance of Baptism will be administered to awaiting candidates.

EASTER DINNER

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Hallerman and son Verl entertained. Mr. and Mrs. James Blue, son Philip, Mrs. Pearl Blue, granddaughter Edith Sullivan, Mr. and Mrs. Herchel Knert and children of South Bend, Mr. and Mrs. Chasney Tucker daughter, Iola, and Mrs. Snowden Tack to a wonderful Easter dinner.

Simoon Whetstone, farmer living east of Mentone, has been in a critical condition for some time. He is unable to sleep or lie down which results in practically no rest.

Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Blue visited with their son Charles Blue and family in Warsaw Saturday.

1—Liberty camp on Soldier lake, Wisconsin, where President Coolidge may spend his vacation. 2—Lieut. Paul Dubau, new assistant naval attaché of the French embassy in Washington. 3—View of oil refinery explosion and fire at Parco, Wyo., in which sixteen men lost their lives.

NEWS REVIEW OF CURRENT EVENTS

Powers Demand Reparation From Cantonese—Chen Proposes Inquiry.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD

CHINA continued to hold the center of the stage during the week. Identical notes were handed to the Cantonese government at Hankow by the consular officers of the United States, Great Britain, France, Italy and Japan, demanding apologies and reparations for the Nanking outrages. Each note demanded punishment for the commanders and the Nationalist troops responsible for the Nanking murders, injuries, and property damage; an apology by the Nationalist chief commander for the outrages, including a definite statement covering guarantees against similar occurrences in the future, and complete reparations for personal injuries to foreigners and for the property damaged. Seven foreigners met death and "nameless outrages" were committed against foreign women during the Nanking rioting.

In his reply Foreign Minister Chen proposed an international commission to investigate the Nanking "incident," not admitting the guilt of the Nationalist troops for the outrages. In the replies to America and Great Britain he stated those nations bonored the defendants of the return. In the French and British replies he charged those nations with shelling the defenseless Shamen district of Shanghai, otherwise the replies were practically identical.

Soviet Russia, as was expected, severed diplomatic relations with the Peking government because of Marshal Chang Tso-lin's raid on the Soviet embassy buildings. But the Russians laid the chief blame on the "imperialist powers" and disavowed any intention of attacking the Chinese. They simply demanded the withdrawal of troops from the embassy property, the release of the arrested officials and the return of documents and property seized. Large concentrations of Soviet troops on the Manchuria frontiers were reported, but it was believed Russia would make no real demonstration against the Chinese until her troubles on her western borders are settled. The evacuation of American troops from Peking and Honan province continued, many of them being removed to Japan and Korea. The families of Minister MacMurray and his staff have left the northern capital.

Meanwhile matters were not going well for the Cantonese. The split between the radical and conservative wings widened and Gen. Chiang Kai-shek, the conservative generalissimo, had his troops raid the headquarters of the Red labor unions in Shanghai and other centers. The workers fought back desperately and more than one hundred of them were killed in conflicts with the soldiers, and many others were wounded. The workers were determined to break up the radical union, but the immediate result of this was the calling of a general strike in Shanghai. The general went to Hankow for a conference in which he hoped to establish the control of the moderate party over the Nationalist government.

Cantonese armies that had begun the advance northward from the Yangtze met with severe reverses and were driven back to the south along the river, losing Lukow, opposite Nanking, though later reports said they had retaken that city. The northern troops succeeded in driving the Yangtze at Kiangyin, threatening the route between Chinkiang and Shanghai.

declaring that the refusal of members of a union to handle or work on material made by nonunion labor is an illegal restraint of interstate trade and a violation of the Sherman anti-trust law. Justices Brandeis and Holmes dissented. The former in his opinion said it is not unlikely that he will at least commute the sentence. The feeling is widespread that the defendants were entitled to a retrial. When called up for sentence they made really eloquent appeals, asserting their innocence and bitterly attacking Judge Thayer for prejudice against them during the trial. Among those who have protested against the execution of the two radicals are British members of parliament, eminent French authors and American educators, as well as labor organizations almost everywhere.

SACCO and Vanzetti were sentenced to death in the electric chair by Judge Webster Thayer in Dedham, Mass., and protests and appeals are being made from all over this country and from many foreign lands. It is assumed that Governor Fuller of Massachusetts will review the case carefully and it is not unlikely that he will at least commute the sentence. The feeling is widespread that the defendants were entitled to a retrial. When called up for sentence they made really eloquent appeals, asserting their innocence and bitterly attacking Judge Thayer for prejudice against them during the trial. Among those who have protested against the execution of the two radicals are British members of parliament, eminent French authors and American educators, as well as labor organizations almost everywhere.

BY ORDER of the directors of the Chicago board of trade, the Armour Grain company, the largest grain-trading concern in the world, was suspended from the board for disloyal acts. The drastic order by the directors of the grain exchange was taken after two years of investigation into the organization and the greasing of the Grain Marketing company, a venture which, if it had been successful, might, it is said, have put the Armours and the Rosenbergs in control of the grain markets of the world.

The suspension of the company was recommended by a special committee of grain brokers which reported that the testimony it had taken clearly showed wrongful acts for which it deemed the Armour Grain company responsible. The committee alleged that the Armour Grain company was that in 1924 it had doctored its books so that in conveying its property and its greasing of the Grain Marketing company, it showed greater quantities than actually delivered, and showed that good grain was in the elevators whereas in reality the Armour Grain company had on hand several hundred bushels of spoiled grain that was listed as of good quality.

NAVAL disarmament, it and when obtained, is sought up to the conference proposed by President Coolidge and scheduled for next June in Geneva. The League of Nations preparatory commission that has been struggling in the Swiss city to get ready an agenda, has failed to reach any agreement, the viewpoint of the French and the British being admittedly irreconcilable. The commission will merely report the points on which the delegates were able to agree, and these are not enough to be of any avail. The French sought limitation on a basis of total tonnage, while Britain, with the support of the United States, sought limitation on classes of ships, which was the basis for limitation agreed upon at the Washington arms conference. The French proposal was that tonnage should be by tonnage, but that one year's notice would have to be given before any nation shifted tonnage from one class to another. Italy had a plan that was similar to that of the French but even less strict.

Before the commission adjourned, Hugh Gibson, American delegate, served notice that the United States refused to accept any treaty for international or league control, not only because the United States is not a member of the League of Nations, but because it believes the efficacy and value of treaties depends entirely upon the sincerity of the signatories. He stated, however, that "if the other states, members of the league, are able to reach an agreement among themselves to maintain the sanctity of the league's machinery, and believe they will be efficacious, America would not stand in the way of their adopting measures deemed de-scribable, no matter how impracticable they seemed to the United States."

STORMS, floods and heavy snows afflicted the West and Middle West last week. The most serious of the disasters was a tornado that utterly destroyed the town of Rockspings, Texas, Tuesday evening. About sixty of the residents were killed and nearly two hundred were injured. Red Cross and volunteer relief workers and cavalrymen from Fort Clark were soon on the ground and cared for the survivors.

As the week closed the lower Mississippi valley was threatened with one of the worst floods in its history, though the big government dikes were still holding back the rushing waters of the Mississippi into which were pouring the rain-swollen tributary streams. Conditions in Arkansas were most critical, and the town of Columbia, Ky., was menaced with destruction. In the Rocky Mountain states there were heavy snowfalls which interrupted traffic and endangered the lives of thousands of people. The snowstorms moved eastward, the highways being completely blocked in western Kansas and Nebraska.

Chile and Argentina experienced a severe earthquake in which twenty-one persons were killed and many hurt. The quake should not have been regarded as an aid to crops and ranges. The snowstorms moved eastward, the highways being completely blocked in western Kansas and Nebraska.

PROSECUTIONS for dry law violations brought against the crews of vessels seized under anti-run rumming treaties on the high seas were upheld by the United States Supreme court in a decision affirming the conviction of the captain and crew of the British ship Quindra, seized off the California coast in 1924.

The court held that the men could be punished for criminal conspiracy as soon as they came within jurisdiction of the United States. The whole purpose of the run-running treaty with England would be defeated if contraband liquor could not be confiscated and the crew punished. Prohibition enforcement in southern California is stirring up a fine row. Prohibition Administrator McReynolds has charged the customs officials with hampering and resisting the enforcement of the dry law, and now Sheriff Byers of San Diego declares conditions along the Mexican border are deplorable and appeals to Secretary Mellon for an efficient and effective customs service there.

BERT ACOSTA and Clarence D. Chamberlain, American civilian aviators, set a new mark for endurance in flight by staying in the air 51 hours and 12 minutes. The previous record for continuous flying made in 1925 in France was 45 hours, 11 minutes and 50 seconds. Starting from Roosevelt field, Long Island, in a Wright-Bellanca monoplane, the two Americans flew most of the time over a triangular course and landed at Minuola aviation field with all records broken. On the basis of the Alcock-Brown flight from Newfoundland to Ireland, they had been in the air almost two days, having flown almost three times across the Atlantic. They traveled far beyond the distance of a round trip from New York to San Francisco.

Frank Lockhart, a young Los Angeles motorist, attained a speed of 171.6 miles an hour, the greatest ever recorded by an American, when he drove a lake bed at Murco, Calif. He was attempting to equal or better the record made by Major Seaver, English pilot, at Daytona Beach, Fla.

SENATOR McNARY of Oregon, after a breakfast and conference with President Coolidge and several other members of congress, went to his home state, stopping long enough in Chicago to tell the report of the President's attitude toward the bill. McNARY said he was trying to work out a compromise measure that would be acceptable to the President. He added, in effect, that no man can hope to be elected president of the United States who is hostile to agriculture, and unless a relief measure satisfactory to the farmers of the country is worked out between now and 1928, Calvin Coolidge will have bitter trouble, and to get enough delegates to nominate him, and then to get elected if nominated.

The Kitchen Cabinet

(By 1927, Western Newspaper Union.)

Any one can carry his burden, however heavy, till midnight. Any one can do his work, however hard, for one day. Any one can live sweetly, patiently, lovingly, purely, till that life really runs.

FOR LUNCHEON AND SUPPER

What to serve for Sunday night lunch or supper is often a problem. After a heavy meal in the middle of the day a light supper is best enjoyed.

Ham-Tomato Toast.—Fry a tablespoonful of minced pepper and one-half tablespoonful of flour, a teaspoonful of minced onion in two tablespoonful of butter; add two tablespoonfuls of cream, a teaspoonful of sugar, one-half teaspoonful of salt and a few dashes of pepper, one cupful of minced ham and a half cupful of minced ham. Serve hot on well-buttered toast.

Corn and Chicken Soup.—Take six cups of corn in which a chicken has been cooked. Add one cupful of corn and a half cupful of finely minced cooked chicken. Season with salt, pepper and celery salt. Simmer for half an hour, then add butter to season and a half cupful of milk. Bring to the boiling point and serve. To make it richer and more nourishing soup this cream or egg yolk may be added.

Fish Aspic.—Put head and bones of a whole fish in a quart of cold water. Add two cups of water, two tablespoonfuls of chopped onion, two tablespoonfuls each of chopped celery, carrot, tomato, and parsley, a bit of bay leaf and one and one-half tablespoonfuls of peppercorns. Simmer gently one and one-half hours, then strain through a fine sieve. Add one cupful of lemon juice. When cold add the whites and yolks of two eggs with four tablespoonfuls of gelatin, stir until the gelatin is dissolved, then stand ten minutes, strain through double cheesecloth and mold until firm. Serve on lettuce with any desired garnish. This aspic is useful as a foundation of any number of fish salads. Take some of the aspic, halve of cooked egg, shrimp, cucumber and onion, or other desired vegetables, and lettuce. Other flavors will occur to one and the salads may be varied and unusual.

Shredded Cabbage Salad.—To serve with oysters there is no salad enjoyed better than the finely shredded cabbage. Shred finely, salt, pepper and lemon juice, adding a bit of sugar.

Food for the Aged.

We seldom find any reference to food for the aged members of the family. The aged are often those that they must take what they may from the family table without regard to its suitability.

The food for an aged person should be chosen carefully so that for the young child. One cannot go far wrong in using about the same amount of food for the old as for the young.

Vitamins are found in milk, butter, fresh vegetables and especially in greens and tomatoes. Chicken, fish, and especially oysters, are particularly good for the aged. Of the fruits, apples and oranges are excellent for the aged. Apples are particularly good to eat the apple because it needs mastication it may be scraped or baked.

Orange juice is a mild tonic; if plenty of the juice is taken it should prove most refreshing. Grapefruit, lemonade, with a beaten raw egg added to a glass of either, is very refreshing.

Milk is excellent for elderly people as it is rich in vitamins. Milk toast, milk soups, well-cooked cereals with whole-wheat bread are all easy of digestion.

Queen of Puddings.—Put into a double boiler one quart of milk and one-half of a box of gelatin. When dissolved add the well-beaten yolks of four eggs. Let the mixture cook until thick, then add the beaten whites of the eggs with four tablespoonfuls of sugar and one teaspoonful of vanilla. Remove from the fire and pour into an oblong pan rinsed in cold water. Turn out on a platter, slice and serve with cream. Make the day before serving.

Pear Dessert.—Dissolve two tablespoonfuls of gelatin in one cupful of boiling water, add half a dozen ripe pears—grated canned ones will do—put through a sieve or ricer, add sugar to taste, vanilla, and one cupful of whipped cream, mold in a wet mold and turn out when set.

Marie Maxwell

Chinese Catholic Bishops

On October 28, 1926, Pius XI, in the presence of his court and of the diplomatic corps, consecrated six Chinese bishops. They were Chao, Suow, Cheng, Choo, Hoo and Choo. These were the first of that race to be elevated to the position of bishop.

Eucalyptus Rapid Grower

So rapid is the growth of the eucalyptus or blue-gum tree, that a great forest may be formed in 20 years.

CHEESE FILLING MADE FOR GINGERBREAD

Brighten Up Sombre Color of Gingerbread.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Almost all kinds of gingerbread are good, but there are some ways of serving gingerbread that make it even better. Serving it warm, for instance; adding some contrasting flavor or texture; brightening up its somber color with a bit of white cream. One of the ways of doing this is to use cream cheese, nuts, and dates with it, as suggested by the bureau of home economics in the recipe below:

1 half-cupful of cream cheese
2 cupfuls chopped dates
1 cupful chopped nuts

Mash the cheese and mix with it enough cream to give it the consistency of a soft filling. Add the dates, nuts, and salt, and mix well. Split open a thin loaf of hot gingerbread, spread the cheese mixture on the lower half, replace the upper part and press it down lightly. The quantity of cheese filling given here is enough for a loaf of gingerbread about 8 by 10 inches. Serve the gingerbread at once while still hot.

KITCHEN CURTAINS IS LARGE PROBLEM

Draperies of Some Sort Add Note of Cheerfulness.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Is your kitchen bright and sunny—a cheerful place to work? Do you like the view from the window, or would you rather shut it out? Is the room easy to ventilate? Or does it present such problems as the shadow cast by an overhanging porch roof, or the too-close proximity of your next-door neighbor's entry, or a northern exposure, seldom visited by the sun? The question of curtains for the kitchen—one decides to curtain it at all—hinges on such points as these. You are tempted to have curtains of some sort because they add a note of cheerfulness and gaiety that somehow makes the work seem easier. Any type of curtain you select will need fairly frequent laundering because cookery tends to saturate draperies with greasy steam. Starchy, washable materials are therefore best. In making up the curtains it is well to run in a tack near the upper casing to allow for shrinkage. Linen, gingham, glass toweling, English prints or Japanese crepe. Curtains made of any of these may be hung at the sides of the window only, or arranged to draw across it.

The curtains in the illustration, taken by the United States Department of Agriculture, are made of unbleached muslin, brightened up by bands of red and white checked gingham. There are little squares of the gingham in the lower corners. They are hung at the extreme edge of the window frame, and connected by a very narrow double-headed ruffle of the gingham instead of a valance. It was necessary in this kitchen to admit as much light and air as possible. Sometimes a city dweller knows, a curtain hung close to the window is necessary for privacy. Light weight but durable fabrics which will admit a good deal of light are seersucker, marquisette, voile.

The material may be banded with a bright color or it may have a few applied motifs, such as small glass cut-outs, or it may be full length, or they may be of the Dutch or double-shank type, shirred on rods, to make ventilation easier.

Many variations are possible in kitchen curtains. Checked and flowered hems may be used on plain materials, and plain gingham on figured materials. These shades are mounted on rollers just like an ordinary window shade and can easily be made at home.

Cause of Rancidity

Rancidity in lard is caused by chemical action of the air. The federal inspection service advises that lard should be well rendered, free from moisture and particles of scrap. Lard should be placed in completely airtight, tightly closed containers, preferably of glass or earthenware and kept in a cool dark place for preservation.

Frequent Dusting Keeps Glass Clean and Bright

Daily or at least frequent dusting of windows and mirrors keeps the glass clean and bright a long time without special cleaning. When more thorough treatment is necessary, either liquid or dry cleaners may be used, says the United States Department of Agriculture.

The most common liquid cleaners are clear water, or water to which washing soda, borax, ammonia, kerosene or alcohol has been added. Clear alcohol is excellent for use in cold weather, because it does not freeze, but it is too expensive for ordinary use. Soap should be used in a very light suds, if at all, for it is likely to leave a film on the glass. With liquid cleaners good results depend quite as much upon the method of application as upon the cleaner itself. The best general method is to dip a cloth in the liquid and wring it as dry as possible; then, to wash the glass with this cloth, using even, overlapping strokes, and dry it by rubbing briskly with paper, cloth or chamois. If the liquid dries without rubbing, the window will be streaked. On large windows a quick method is to use water freely and wipe it off with a rubber "squeegee" drawn smoothly and evenly across the pane with overlapping strokes. Special care must be taken to protect the woodwork from water.

For dry cleaning, whiting or a commercial powder of the same fineness is used. The powder is made into a paste with water or alcohol, applied thinly to the glass, allowed to dry thoroughly, and then rubbed off with a soft cloth or paper. This is an easy method of obtaining clear windows and is a good way of cleaning mirrors, pictures, and the like, which might be injured by water. It is, however, a dusty process and should be used before cleaning a room.

Scalloped Onions and Peanuts Are Excellent

Scalloped onions and peanuts are almost like an answer to the common drum, "When is an onion not an onion?" In this combination the flavor of the peanut blends with that of the onions and makes something different from the taste of either alone. This dish is substantial enough to serve as the main course of a supper. The recipe is from the United States Department of Agriculture:

4 to 6 medium cream sauce, sized onions, made with 1 tablespoonful of oil, 1 cupful of peanuts, ground butter, a 1/2 cupful of milk.

Cook the skinned onions in boiling salted water until tender. Drain the onions and slice them with a sharp knife. Place the onions in layers in a greased baking dish, cover each layer with the cream sauce, and the peanuts, continue until all the ingredients are used. Cover the top with buttered crumbs, and bake in a moderate oven until golden brown. Serve from the baking dish.

Choice Cuts of Lamb

Roast leg of lamb, broiled lamb chops and crown rib roast are three choice cuts of lamb. The United States Department of Agriculture says that the method of cooking each of these cuts is selected because in each case the meat is juicy and tender. It should be served quickly on all sides, using intense heat, which is then reduced so as to cook the meat through more slowly, but without adding any liquid. Other methods of cooking must be used with the more exercised and consequently thicker portions of the lamb.

Fried Egg Sauce

A fried egg sauce has an altogether different flavor from egg sauce made with hard-boiled eggs. It is especially good for use in creamed vegetable dishes, such as creamed celery or vegetable oysters or onions, suggests the United States Department of Agriculture. To prepare it, fry an egg very gently in butter, without stirring, until the yolk becomes white. Take pains to prevent the edges of the white from becoming brown; then cut into thin threads and add one cupful of white or cream sauce.

SUITABLE FOODS

AS THE apple is now almost a year-round fruit, because of cold storage and better transportation, it finds a place in some form in almost every day's menu.

Cover the bottom of a buttered baking dish with a layer of sliced apples, sprinkle with one tablespoonful of cinnamon well mixed with one-half cupful of brown sugar, dot with bits of butter. Alternate these layers until the pudding dish is full. Cover and bake until the apples are soft. Remove to brown the top. Serve hot or cold with lemon, hard or cider sauce.

Springtime Sandwiches.

Press the yolks of four hard-cooked eggs and finely chop the whites. Chop fine small red radishes unpeeled—there should be one-half cupful—also chop enough green onions to make half a cupful. Season with salt and pepper and moisten with cream dressing. Spread this all over of bread with butter, cover with a lettuce leaf that has been dipped into French dressing and drained. Spread an equal number of slices of bread with the egg mixture and put together in pairs. Trim off the edges and cut into triangles.

Date, Fig and Prune Sandwiches.

Remove the stones from dates and large fancy prunes. Have an equal weight (one-half pound of each) dates, figs and prunes. Pass them through the meat chopper. For each cupful of the mixture allow half a cupful of walnuts, chopped. Moistened with orange marmalade and use as a filling for buttered brown bread sandwiches, cut into triangles and serve with afternoon tea.

College Girl's Sandwiches.

Grate rich cheese or mash three Neufchatel cheeses with a wooden spoon and mix with enough creamed butter to make a paste. Add one dozen finely chopped olives, chop three plantains and put through a slicer; add the pulp to the cheese mixture. Now add one-half cupful of nutmeats, season with salt, paprika and cayenne. Spread on white bread, trim and cut in any desired shape.

GOD'S MOTHERS

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

YOU can't believe in mother much And not believe in God. For there is something in her touch, Ten, even of her rod. That makes a mother seem to me An agent of Divinity.

So much a mother can forgive, So often has she been in need. So much like God she has to live She seems a living creed. Though man may preach some creed of his, Her creed she lives, her creed she is.

Men preach forgiveness, yet they hate, But mothers day by day Leave open every door and gate, Inviting feet that stray To come returning—first to greet, And last your sinning to repeat.

The Good Book tells us God is love; Well, so is mother, too. Believing in some God above Is not so hard to do. With mothers here to prove the worth Of heaven's love with love on earth.

THE WHY OF SUPERSTITIONS

By H. IRVING KING

PARSLEY

IN SOME sections of the country it is considered most unwise to plant old parsley in the garden—that is to set out a parsley root which you have had growing in a box in the house all winter—as it endangers the life of the head of the family. Always sow fresh seed. This superstition we inherit, along with parsley itself, from the days when Greece and the gods were young together. Parsley was an indigenous plant in Greece, growing wild and with special profusion in Argolis, where was the vale of Nemea, in which stood the temple of Nemean Zeus, and where Hercules killed the Nemean lion.

Parsley—possibly from its availability in making wreaths and garlands for his shrine—appears to have come to be regarded in the valley as the specially favored plant of Nemean Zeus, and so when, some five hundred years before the Christian era, the Nemean games were instituted in memory of a local young hero, Archon, who died upon the bite of a serpent as the expedition of "The Seven Against Thebes" was passing through the place—a crown of wild parsley was the reward of the victor. Now wild parsley being dedicated to such purposes was naturally protected; probably the penalty for the profanation of rooting it was death. And here we get the modern superstition that the planting of an old parsley root in the garden is likely to cause the death of the head of the family. Only three columns of the temple of Nemean Zeus remain standing; yet many a man today hesitates to plant an old parsley root in his garden, and you will find in many of the modern books of "Dreams and Omens" a warning against doing so.

SWEATERS VIVIDLY PATTERNED; BEGUILING SNUG-FITTING HATS

WHEN springtime arrives with its program of outdoor events, it is the girl in sports attire who is the center of attraction. This year she is sporting knitwear of the smartest. There is simply no end to novelty, this season, in the realm of knitted togs. As to sweaters, the subject is exhaustive.

The vivid, lovely colors of the new sweaters, who can describe them? Especially those in hand-blocked effect setting forth a striking modernistic patterning such as pictured herewith. The striped type is a great favorite this season, and it is smartest worn

Devotees of the little felt hat refuse to be influenced by the many rumors of its "positively last appearance." Not while the winsome felt persists in staging a continuous performance of new tricks of color and design, not while Paris continues to send over such beguiling new felts, will women of smart dress be persuaded to bid farewell to the snug fitting felt, which has so long been the hat of her choice.

Now that every perfectly appointed wardrobe includes headwear matched to each costume, there is need for hats of every genre from felt to fabric to with a white jersey or silk knit skirt. A convertible collar, such as styles in the picture is an elegant accompaniment to the picture as it adds both to its modishness and its utility.

Fashioned construction grows more and more complex. All sorts of fancy stitches are called into play to produce openwork stripes and novel lace effects—in fact the newest things show out of the ordinary is the Turkish towel knitwork, of which entire suits are made.

Horizontal stripes play a colorful and spectacular part in sweaterdom. Compense effects are also highlighted throughout knitted modes. Another striking feature is the prominence of the picture are an elegant accompaniment to the picture as it adds both to its modishness and its utility.

The employment of felt in two tones, is one of the attractions of hat number one in the group. It illustrates how effectively the milliner trims felt with felt this season.

Just below this model is a particular (or style, which introduces a wide grosgrain ribbon as a background for an embellishment of fluting of colorful felt. The shape itself is bold. The modish felt in the lower left corner is handsomely elaborated with an applique of cutout felt leaves and fruit.

The next clever model employs two shades of fall silk in connection with

PUBLIC SERVICE COMPANY MAKES NEW REGULATIONS

Following is a set of the new rules and regulations of the Interstate Public Service Company which company supplies Mentone with power and lights.

RULES AND REGULATIONS OF INTERSTATE PUBLIC SERVICE COMPANY

1. Rules and Regulations on File.
A copy of all rates, rules and regulations under which electric service will be supplied is posted or on file of the Public Service Commission of Indiana, effective May 1, 1920, Cause 5344.

2. Written Application or Contract Required.
A written application or contract properly executed will be required from each customer, before the Company will be required to supply service, provided however, that the Company shall have the right to reject for any valid reason any application. The Company require contracts for a long period of time, when unusual construction or equipment expense is necessary to furnish the service.

3. Description of Energy or Current to be Furnished.

The Customer shall present in writing to the Company a list of the devices which are to be attached to the Company's lines, giving the location of the building, and the Company will then advise the form, voltage and description of the current it will furnish.

4. Service Connection.
The Company will locate the point to which service will be brought in the building. The inside wiring must extend a sufficient distance beyond the outside walls of the building and at a proper location for the Company to attach its wires.

Customers desiring underground service from the overhead wires must at their own expense install and maintain service wires in conduit from the meter board in the building to and up the pole from which connection is made.

The Company will extend its lines a reasonable distance, as may be determined by the Company for the purpose of supplying electric service for a new connection. Any changes in service connections at the Customer's request, after once installed, shall be at his expense.

5. Inside Wiring.
Applicants for service must at their own expense equip their premises with all wiring, including meter loop, meter board, service switch, cutout box, all of which shall be constructed and maintained to the approval of the Insurance Inspector, State Fire Marshall, municipal authorities having jurisdiction, and with the Rules and Regulations of the Company in force from time to time. The wiring to be carried in iron conduit from the meter to the point where the Company attaches its wires.

The applicants shall at all times own, maintain and control the wires inside the building.

6. Location of Company Transformers, Meters, and Appliances.
The Customer shall provide free of expense to the Company, near Service entrance, a suitable place for necessary transformers, meter or other appliances which may be furnished by the Company.

7. Meters to be Installed by the Company.
The electricity unless otherwise specified, shall be measured by meter or meters of standard manufacture, installed by the Company on the premises in accordance with Rule 10 of Rules and Standards of Service for Electrical Utilities, established by the Public Service Commission of Indiana, effective May 1, 1920, Cause No. 5344. Upon the registration of said meter of meters all bills, other than the service charge, shall be calculated.

If more than one meter is installed on different classes of service (each class being charged for at different rates), each meter shall be considered by itself in calculating the amount of any bills. When for the convenience of the Company more than one meter is installed hereunder, on the same class of service, the sum of the registration shall in all cases be taken as the total metering. Meters include all measuring instruments.

At the option of the Company, a suitable demand meter may be installed to measure the Kilowatt demand. When demand meter is used, the maximum demand shall be considered as the highest thirty minute peak occurring during the month preceding the time of rendering the monthly bill.

In the case of installation where the use is subject to violent fluctuations, resulting in line disturbances, the Company reserves the right to require the Customer to install suitable means for regulating such demand.

and to measure maximum demand on five minute peak. The Company reserves the right to refuse service until the Customer's installation shall have been approved as to type of equipment and manner of installation. If no demand meter is used, the Kilowatt demand shall be expressed directly in kilowatts as a percentage of the connected horsepower load as follows:

1. H. P. to 10 H. P. inclusive, connected load, 60 per cent connected.
H. P. 11 H. P. to 24 H. P. inclusive, connected load, 55 per cent connected.
H. P. 25 H. P. and over connected load in excess of 24 H. P., 50 per cent connected H. P.

8. Failure of Meter.
Whenever it is discovered that a meter is not recording correctly, adjustment shall be made covering such inaccuracy in accordance with rule 10 of Rules and Standards of Service for Electrical Utilities as issued by Public Service Commission of Indiana, effective May 1, 1920, Cause 5344.

9. Access to Premises.
The properly authorized agents of the Company shall have the right to enter upon the premises of the customer at all reasonable times for the purpose of inspecting, repairing or replacing all appliances used in connection with its current, and removing the same on the termination of the contract or the discontinuance of the service.

10. Continuous Service.
The company shall not be responsible in damages for any failure to supply electricity or for interruption or reversal of the supply, if such failure, interruption, or reversal is caused by willful default or negligence on its part.

11. Release of Company from Liability.
The customer agrees that the company shall not be liable for damages resulting to customer or to third persons or property of the company's appliances in the Customer's premises, unless due to willful default or neglect on the part of the company.

12. Company Reserves the Right to Shut Off Supply.
The Company reserves the right to shut off the supply of electricity without notice for any of the following reasons: 1. For repairs; 2. For want of supply; 3. For non-payment of bill when due; 4. For interference with any of the company's appliances or connections where the failure to comply with the terms of the contract, such discontinuance shall not, however, invalidate any contract and said Power Company shall have the right to enforce any contract notwithstanding such discontinuance.

13. Damages.
It is expressly stipulated by the Company and agreed to by the Customer, that the Company shall not be liable for damages because of any interruption to the supply of current or for damages caused by defective wiring.

14. Notify Company Before Changing Load.
The service connections, transformers, meters and appliances supplied by the Company have definite capacity and no substantial addition to the equipment or connected load thereto will be allowed except by written notice to the Company.

15. Bills Due and Discounts Allowed.
Bills will be rendered monthly and must be paid at the office of the company during business hours before the close of business on or before last discount date, as shown in rate schedule, in order to obtain net rate. If bill is not paid on or before last discount date, as shown in rate schedule the Company may at any time thereafter, without notice, cut out and discontinue service to delinquent customer. Failure to receive bill will not entitle Customer to net bill.

16. Rescinding Meters After They Have Been Disconnected for Non-payment.
When a customer has been disconnected for non-payment, the company shall not set another meter or again give service to customer until all indebtedness to the Company has been paid and payment of $1.00 made to the company to cover cost of disconnecting and reconnecting service.

17. Manner in Which Current May be Used.
Electric current must be used for the purpose set forth in the contract and in such a manner as not to cause undue voltage fluctuation.

18. Resale of Current.
The current furnished under the contract is for the use of the Customer, and he shall not re-sell any of it or permit any person to use same.

without written consent of the Company.

19. Deposit.
In accordance with Rule 21, Rules and Standards of Service for Electrical Utilities, established by Public Service Commission of Indiana, effective May 1, 1920, Cause No. 5344, The Company shall require from all applicants for service a cash deposit equal to the estimated consumption by such applicant for a period of sixty (60) days a guarantee against the non-payment of bills for service; provided, however, that where the consumer is the owner of property, furnishes a written guarantee from a property owner, the Company shall waive such cash deposit. Such guarantee shall not make guarantor liable in an amount exceeding the charge for a period of 60 days. Such cash deposit minus any unpaid amount for service rendered Consumer shall be returned upon the discontinuance of service.

In all cases where the monthly consumption is in excess of that covered by the deposit, the Company may increase the amount of deposit, but shall not be allowed to exceed an amount for an estimated 60 day service.

Interest will be paid on deposits at the rate of six (6) per cent per annum for the period deposit is retained. The original deposit certificate issued to patrons should be presented when demand is made for refund of deposit. Such deposit shall be subject to the rules set forth by the Commission in an order fixing standards of service.

20. Company's Property and Protection Thereof.
All meters, lamps and other appliances and equipment furnished by and at the expense of the Company, which may at any time be in said premises, shall, unless otherwise expressly provided herein, be and remain the property of the Company, and the customer shall protect the property from loss or damage, and no one who is not an agent of the Company shall be permitted to remove such property or tamper therewith.

21. Exclusive Service on Installation Connected.
No other electric light or power service shall be connected to a contract for auxiliary service, be used by the Customer on the same installation in conjunction with the Company's service, either by means of a "throw-over" switch or any other connection.

No promises, agreements or representations of any agent of the Company shall be binding upon the Company unless the same shall have been incorporated in the contract in writing, before same is signed and approved.

22. Personal Fees Prohibited.
Inspectors, agents and employees of the Company are forbidden to accept any personal compensation or gratuity from any Customer.

23. Rates Subject to Public Service Commission.
The rates herein are subject to termination, change or modification by the Public Service Commission of Indiana, after investigation and hearing.

24. Assignment.
The benefits and obligations of any power agreement shall begin when the Company commences to supply electric service thereunder, and shall inure to and be binding upon the successors and assigns, survivors and executors or administrators, as the case may be, of the original parties hereto, respectively, for the full term hereof; provided that no assignment hereof shall be made by the Customer without first obtaining the Company's written consent.

Lighting Customers must make application to the office of the Company before they commence using the current. Lighting Customers moving must notify the Company in writing, or otherwise they will be held responsible for the bills of their successors who refuse to pay.

No order for changing or discontinuing a contract will be accepted over the telephone. All orders must be in writing.

25. Delay Due to Strikes Etc.
Neither party shall be held liable for any failure or delay in performing any of the things undertaken by it in this agreement in case such failure or delay is caused by strikes, the act of God, or unavoidable accidents or contingencies beyond its control, and in no manner due to any fault, neglect or omission on its part.

27. Equipment Location Permitted.
The Customer shall obtain and maintain the necessary equipment necessary for the use of the Company's forms, power property owner, or owners, to the installation and maintenance in said premises and on, over or through all private property of all such wiring or other electrical equipment and the Company may be necessary or convenient for the supplying of electricity hereunder.

28. Motor Installations.
At the option of the Company, the following specifications shall be required on motor installations.

Motors of 5 H. P. and under shall be single phase.
Motors with a rated capacity of 7 1/2 H. P. or more, shall be three phase.
Motors with rated capacity in excess of 25 H. P., or on elevators, derricks, or cranes, shall be of the slip-ring, or wound-rotor type.

Motors with a rated capacity of 50 H. P. or more, shall be synchronous type.
All motors with a rated capacity of 1/2 H. P. or more shall be equipped with overload and undervoltage release attachment, which will disconnect such motors from the Company's line in case power on said line is interrupted. The Company agrees that one switch, equipped with low voltage release attachments, on main service, will be considered as fulfilling this requirement.

All motors with a rated capacity of 1/2 H. P. or more, which are to be automatically started and stopped, shall be of the slip-ring or wound-rotor type, and the details of the automatic equipment controlling such motor shall be approved by the Company before such motors are connected to the Company's lines.

29. Month.
A "Month" means the period between any two consecutive regular readings by the Company of the meter or meters on the premises, such readings being taken as nearly as practicable every thirty days.

SOME EXCITEMENT FOR MARTHA

(By D. J. Walsh.)

FOR three generations the Dowles family had cherished Pickelcove as something belonging exclusively to the family. True, it was chartered on the government map as part of the river, and as such was officially federal property. But family president is strong, and all the living Dowles had first waded tidally along the pebbly shore, and as they grew into robust youth and acquired bravado the cove furnished abundant sport in the way of fishing and swimming.

The Dowles farm extended from the state highway to the river's edge, and a cabin cruiser, a motor boat, two rowboats and a canoe composed the Dowles fleet. Pickelcove was as pretty a haven as any boat lover could wish for.

Two hundred yards back from the cove stood the old Dowles homestead, where Robert lived in a happy state of seclusion with his mother, father and a maiden aunt. Robert was twenty-seven years old, unmarried and his marital choice, or lack of choice, was a matter of grave concern to Martha, his darling sister.

One bright morning in early July Martha came rushing into the Dowles living room, glanced about furtively, then inquired breathlessly:

"Where's Robert?"

Mrs. Dowles laid aside her knitting, while her husband looked up from his newspaper wonderfully.

"Robert drove to town this morning," answered Mr. Dowles. "Why, what's wrong? Did the cove get into the corn again?"

"Worse than that," replied his sister. "A shanty boat has tied up in our cove. I saw them as I went down there to look for lilacs."

"Shanty? Is that all? No harm in that. No doubt they'll move on again in a day or two."

"William, you ought to know I don't approve of shanty boats," she said. "They are simply floaters and ratters of the river. And there's a young woman on the boat with an old man I judge to be her father. A ragged-looking hussy. Robert must not see her. We must chase them away before he comes back."

"Now, Martha, calm yourself," admonished her brother. "Robert is a sensible young man and you do him a grave injustice when you assume that he would lose his heart over the daughter of any raffish shanty boat that happens along. Add you apparently forget that he is engaged to the daughter of Professor Fowler, his old college instructor."

"Anyhow, we really don't own the cove. We merely own the land as far as the shore line."

"In that case we can prevent them from tying off on our land," replied Martha, triumphantly. "And if you are too chicken-hearted to assert your own rights I will do it for you." So, she turned and disappeared into the willow grove. Mrs. Dowles sighed and shook her head.

A half hour passed and Mr. Dowles was beginning to doze over his paper. Suddenly the outer door slammed. Martha rushed heavily into the room and slumped breathlessly into a chair. For a moment she sat speechless, fanning her flushed face. Then her agitation spent itself, and she gasped:

"It happened! Just as I expected. Oh, it's terrible! I started down toward the cove and as I came out of the willows into sight of that shanty boat, I spied two persons sitting on the gunwale—a man and a woman—and they were holding hands. One was that hussy and the other was—Robert!"

"Impossible!" cried Mrs. Dowles. "Why, he left for town in the car only two hours ago."

"Well, he's down at that shanty boat been seeing you. I caught a glimpse of her as she ran through the grove, and I came right up here after her to explain."

"That woman!" commenced Martha, scathingly. "Is Betty Fowler, my fiancée," replied Robert.

"What?"

"Who?"

"Good heavens."

Robert smiled as these ejaculations of amazement burst upon him.

"Now let's sit down comfortably and I'll tell you all about it. I started for town in the flower, and I met the mailman. He handed me a letter. It was from Betty, and I opened it and read it at once. Since the university had closed for the summer, the letter read, her vacation plans had been altered. You know Betty's dad is professor of biology at the Dearborn university, and a large sportsman's society he commissioned him to prepare a report on the pollution of river water and the destruction of fish through industrial chemicals. This report is to be incorporated in a bill which will be introduced in the state legislature this fall.

"Now, Professor Fowler had long contemplated a trip down the river in order to carry out some private biological research and study the minute organisms of the water. So Betty suggested that they buy a little house boat and spend the summer vacation floating down the river clear to the Mississippi, thus combining business and pleasure. Of course, the professor agreed with alacrity. You know he is a widower, and Betty is almost like a guardian to him. When she mentioned the pretty green and white boat they bought I had a hunch, for I saw a green and white boat tied off down at the cove early this morning. So, instead of going to town, I drove back along the old river road to investigate. And, sure enough, it was Betty and her dad."

"He's got one end of the boat all fixed up as a biological laboratory, and I left him with his eyes glued to a drop of water. Betty insisted upon dressing in more conventional attire before consenting to meet you. So I left her to dress. Now, my dear folks, I want you all to come down to the cove with me and meet my future wife and father-in-law."

It was a happy quartette that wended its way through the willow grove a few minutes later, and none was more gay than Martha. Soon it was a sextette that chatted gaily on the forward deck of the "shanty-boat" that Martha had so violently condemned but a short time before. The splinter had affectionately embraced Betty and was addressing her with the utmost confidence.

"You know, my dear, I happened to be down here looking for lilacs a short time ago and spied you and Robert together," she couldn't. "And do you know, I was positive in my own mind that it was you; but, of course, I didn't want to interrupt a lovers' meeting, so I went away. You know I was young myself once."

And she bestowed a coquettish smile upon the confused professor, who shifted from one foot to the other.

Evolution of Staff of Life Through History

A loaf of bread baked in the Stone Age has been found among the remains of the lake dwellers in Switzerland. It was hard, flat and a bit charred. One of the discoverers who broke off a piece and ate it said the flavor resembled sawdust.

The endurance test in present-day breads would undoubtedly be won by the muffled loaf of Norway. This doughy product of the Norse country has a hole in the center and is strung on poles hanging across the beams in the kitchen. When more than a few days old the strength of an average man's hands is taxed to break it apart.

Of all dark-complected breads the blackest, also made of rye, is the palt bread of Lapland, northern Scandinavia and Russia. With fur garments outside and the bread inside, the natives are well equipped to withstand the rigors of a long, cold winter.

The inhabitants of cold countries make the darkest bread; the natives of tropic Paraguay and Brazil the whitest. Indians in the Southwest of the United States artificially color their bread. The staff of life in the corn stalk throughout Mexico and Central America. The North American negroes also have a leading the same way.

Iried fish pounded to meal is the preferred bread base of Iceland. Potato bread is popular in Ireland. In Italy chestnuts are used. In lean years Russian resorts to flour ground from tree bark.

Like Chinese, along with their other "firsts," are credited with having made the first loaf of wheat bread. The first use of machinery was for grinding meal for bread.

The largest and heaviest loaf of bread is made by the Boor housewife. It is the size and shape of a cartwheel. Baking is done once in ten days. The oven stands in the back yard, convenient to the kitchen door. French ovens turn out loaves longer than yardsticks, which are sold in baker's shops by the foot. Belgian bakers make a bread especially for horses—large, heavy-framed horses whose strength is proverbial. Any noontime one can see drivers cutting thick slices from a coarse, fork loaf and proffering them to their hungry steeds.

Man Worth While

"Credit the Deed," who counts, nor the man who points out how the strong man stumbles, nor where the door of deeds could have done better. The credit belongs to the man who is actually in the arena; whose face is marred by dust and sweat; who strives valiantly; who errs and may fall again and again; because there is no effort without error or shortcoming; but who does actually strive to do the deeds; who knows the great enthusiasm, the great devotion; who spends himself in a worthy cause; who, at the best, knows in the end the triumph of high achievement and who, at the worst, if he falls, at least falls while daring greatly, so that his place shall never be with those cold and timid souls who know neither victory nor defeat."—Theodore Roosevelt.

Lack of Hospitality Toward "Poteen" King

Accused of manufacturing "poteen," the famous Irish moonshine, the king of the bootleggers of the Galway region was sentenced recently to pay a fine of $50 or spend three months in the jail. On the day appointed for his choice he appeared at the gate of the prison and announced that he would serve his time, as he was unable to pay the fine.

He had not, however, complied with the rule of the prison to provide him with a police escort and a committal warrant. Accordingly, he was refused admission to the prison.

The following day he again applied for admission with the same result. Vowing that he would pay off the fine by distributing more of his troublesome "poteen," he turned away from the inhospitable prison and went back to Connemara.

Advocates of women's rights are always delighted with every indication of cooperation among the sex, and every incident that shows the sympathy of one woman for the problems of another.

A few evenings ago Mr. B. came home and found that his wife was not there. He called to the colored servant girl, who was washing the dinner dishes in the kitchen and asked her where Mrs. B. had gone.

"Don't you know where your wife is gone at?" came the unexpected reply. "I heard her tell you at the supper table where she was going, and if you can't remember what she done told you, I ain't going to tell you."—Indianapolis News.

Takes Movies of Plants

The slowest motion pictures ever made are those of the United States Department of Agriculture which portray the growth of plants. This is done by the use of a "time-lapse" machine, invented by Howard Green, that exposes only one frame of film at a time and regulates the time between such exposures. These periods usually are from 20 seconds to 30 minutes in an hour only about 150 pictures would be taken.

1. Peter's proposal (rv. 5, 6).

So definitely was the method of the kingdom unfolded before Peter that he proposed to erect tabernacles for Christ, Moses and Elijah. It is true that the unveiling of the majestic person of Christ and the panoramic display of the kingdom somewhat disconcerted Peter, yet he grasped its central meaning and proposed to celebrate the advent of the kingdom which had been prefigured in a tangible way.

2. The divine voices out of the cloud (rv. 7, 8).

God declared Jesus to be His Beloved Son in whom He was well pleased. If one would know what is pleasing to God, let him study Jesus Christ who perfectly did His Father's will.

3. Jesus' charge (rv. 9-13).

He charged them that they should tell no man of the things which they had seen until He had risen from the dead.

4. A Demonstration of the Purpose of the Establishment of the Kingdom (rv. 14-29).

When they descended from the mountain of transfiguration they witnessed a great multitude in a state of perplexity. The immediate cause of this state was the grievous condition of a young man possessed with a demon (rv. 18). This young man was a representative of the nations who are oppressed by the devil. Just as this young man was grievously oppressed, causing him to be driven into the fire and into the waters, so the nations today in their great perplexity are doing the things which will result in their own destruction.

5. Jesus' charge (rv. 9-13).

He charged them that they should tell no man of the things which they had seen until He had risen from the dead.

PETER AT THE TRANSFIGURATION

LESSON TEXT—II Peter 1:16-18; Mark 9:2-13.

GOLDEN TEXT—And a voice came out of the clouds saying, This is my beloved Son, hear ye Him.

PRIMA TOPIC—Jesus Shows Peter His Glory.

JUNIOR TOPIC—The Beauty and Glory of Christ.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Peter Saw and Heard in the Mount.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Majesty and Glory of Christ.

1. The Meaning of the Transfiguration (II Peter 1:16-18).

These verses are an inspired interpretation by one who was present and knew all that transpired. The hope of the disciples was crushed. When Christ announced His death which was to take place on the cross, they were unable to see how victory could come from death.

Two men from the upper world were sent to converse with Jesus about His approaching death at Jerusalem. The very thing about which the disciples refused to talk. Then, too, God's own voice was heard in words of approval of Christ's course, directing them to hear the Master.

II. Jesus Christ Glorified on the Mountain (rv. 2, 3).

He took the disciples "by themselves" and was "transfigured before them." This shows that the purpose of the transfiguration terminated upon the disciples and not on Christ. Christ's rebuke of Peter for his unwillingness to hear concerning His death apparently for a time estranged the disciples from Him. His appearance on the mountain typifies His visible appearance on the Mount of Olives (Gen. 14:24).

III. Peter, James and John Represent Israel in the Flesh in Connection With the Kingdom (rv. 2).

Christ is peculiarly the King of Israel. According to Ezekiel 37:21-27, the Israelites are to be the central people in the kingdom. This people shall be gathered from among the nations and united as one in that kingdom, in their own country.

IV. Moses and Elijah Appeared in Glory With Jesus (rv. 4-13).

These men in the glorified state are typical of the saints in glory. Moses who was once denied an entrance into Palestine, returned in glory ready to settle the redeemed of the Lord who shall pass through death into the kingdom. Elijah represents the redeemed who shall enter the kingdom through translation. Some shall be living upon the earth when the Lord shall come and they without dying shall change and thus pass into the kingdom (I Cor. 15:50-53; I Thes. 4:14-18).

1. Peter's proposal (rv. 5, 6).

So definitely was the method of the kingdom unfolded before Peter that he proposed to erect tabernacles for Christ, Moses and Elijah. It is true that the unveiling of the majestic person of Christ and the panoramic display of the kingdom somewhat disconcerted Peter, yet he grasped its central meaning and proposed to celebrate the advent of the kingdom which had been prefigured in a tangible way.

FARM POULTRY

SANITATION NOT GIVEN THOUGHT

Along with a marked development in the poultry industry during the past year or so has come a mounting wave of poultry troubles, and chief of these troubles is the problem of disease, says H. H. Alp, poultry extension specialist of the college of agriculture, University of Illinois. People interested in poultry have studied improved methods of breeding and feeding and have neglected the question of sanitation, he said.

On the basis of records which a representative number of chicken raisers kept in cooperation with the college there is an annual loss of about three million birds from the flocks of the state, according to Alp. A large percentage of the loss would be traced directly to unsanitary conditions in and around the henhouse, he said.

"The marked progress that has been made in the poultry industry during the past year or so is due to several reasons, but chief of these has been the changing of the farmer's viewpoint toward poultry. A few years ago the farmer looked upon his flock of hens only as a means of supplying his wife with spending money and beyond that he did not interest him. The recent partial failure of the corn crop and other means of revenue from the farm has caused extreme want of many cases of farmers who have kept a decent-sized flock of hens have warded off this condition and many farmers testify that their hens have saved them."

1925 records on 234 farm flocks in Illinois showed there was a profit on the best one-third of the flocks of $2.45 a hen, and on the poorest third a profit of $1.25 a hen. These same records also show a mortality rate of 12 per cent. The comparisons of the two profits made will indicate the factors responsible for such a difference between them: Sanitation, personal, breeding and feeding.

"The greatest factor lacking in the management of these farms is the one of cleanliness. The mortality rate of the two groups varied but very little, showing that the progress made by the farmer in the 24th class was due chiefly to better feeding and breeding methods. Now take this class and have them practice a sanitation program and the profit a hen will increase practically 50 per cent."

"Feeding is invariably the first problem to be considered by a beginner, and in a way, rightly so, but it can only be successfully carried on in conjunction with clean and sanitary surroundings. Why throw feed which costs around 3 cents a pound in wet, dirty and filthy litter? If a person would only stop and think of the number of times a hen has to eat from the same area, why waste on the same area, it would be quite obvious even to the person of lowest intellect, that unless that area was kept clean, the bird would soon suffer."

Early Pullets Are Most Profitable Egg Layers

Early pullets are the most profitable pullets, because they begin to produce eggs in the fall and lay through the winter season. As everybody knows, the fall and early winter eggs always bring profitable prices.

Then, too, the early chicks appear to inherit more vitality with the ability to grow up rapidly. The cause of this better growth in the early chick is possibly due to the extra vitality inherited from the hen before she becomes run down through a season's heavy egg production.

One disadvantage of the early chick is the cold weather, making extra heat necessary for chicks. With modern brooder houses and other brooding methods that produce strong heat, this handicap of winter weather is easily overcome.

Another disadvantage urged against early chicks is the fact that, if the weather is cloudy and chicks cannot get sunshine, they are likely to take leg weakness. It is now known that sunshine is the best chick grower.

Keeping Pullets and Hens

Winter egg production is largely obtained from the pullets that are well grown and carry a surplus of flesh. Old hens that have produced eggs for one laying year normally rest during the winter and start laying in February or March. It is advisable to keep a flock consisting of two-thirds pullets and one-third hens. The pullets should be forced for winter egg production through the liberal mash feed. The old hens should be allowed to rest.

Time to Watch Rodents

It is often a large amount of trouble to shut up the little critters at this season of the year but if the job is neglected there is apt to be a heavy loss. Rats, skunks, coons, weasels, mink and other animals are having their young to feed at this time of the year and chicken makes a favorite dish for them. This is also a good time of year to try and kill off rodents of all kinds. In many cases the young will be found in the nests and they can be easily killed.

FACTS about used car allowances

Most new car sales now involve the trading-in of a buyer's used car. More and more people are asking: "Why should my used car seem to have several values? ... Why should dealers in different makes of cars offer me allowances differing materially? ... Does the largest allowance offered mean the best deal for me?"

Here are basic facts:

- 1 Your used car has seemingly different values because competitive dealers are bidding to sell you a new car.
- 2 Your used car has only one fundamental basis of value: what the dealer who accepts it in trade can get for it in the used car market.
- 3 The largest trade-in allowance which is offered on your used car is not necessarily the best deal for you. Sometimes it is; but sometimes it is not.
- 4 An excessive allowance may mean that you are paying an excessive price for the new car in comparison with its real value.
- 5 Judge the merits of the new car in comparison with its price, including all delivery and finance charges. Then weigh any difference in allowance offered on your used car.

When you are ready to trade-in your present car, remember that after all you are making a purchase and not a sale. You are buying a new car and simply applying your present car as a credit toward the purchase price of the new car.

LOW RATES for time payments on these cars

ANY FAMILY entitled to credit may buy a General Motors car and pay for it while using it, under the GMAC Plan.

When time payments first became an accepted form of car purchase, General Motors organized its own finance company, the General Motors Acceptance Corporation, to make sure that the sale of its cars on time would be in the buyer's interest and that the finance charges would be fair.

GMAC rates have always been low; and the last reduction has saved General Motors' customers more than $12,000,000.

The General Motors line includes "a car for every purse and purpose"—a suitable model for every income. You can buy it out of income, paying no more than the cash delivered price, plus only the low GMAC financing charge. And the whole transaction is so conducted as to keep your goodwill and satisfaction.

CLIP THE COUPON

USE THE GMAC PLAN to enjoy a new car now. Use it to get a better car for what you plan to spend. Have General Motors quality. Share in the economies of volume production. Look over the list of General Motors cars below. See which car suits your purse. Then check and mail the coupon. We will send you full information about that car and about the fair, low-cost GMAC Plan of paying for it out of income. Don't wait. Clip the coupon and mail it TODAY.

Recently Mr. Gifford, head of the telephone company, proved that "television" making is possible to see and hear individuals or crowds hundreds of miles away. is practical. The question, "How can that be made useful?" is answered in a way that in centuries to come will shed light on our civilization.

"There is no doubt about it," you are told, "the only way in which television can be made profitable is IN CONNECTION WITH PRIZE FIGHTS." People will pay well to see men fighting and hear the yells of the mob gathered around the prize ring. Would television make money enabling distant preachers or college professors? It would NOT.

A conference of college students has decided against trial marriage quite solemnly, by a vote of 16 to 7. Wise Providence has decided against it by a vote of about 100 to 0.

When the serious young gentlemen who think they believe in trial marriage fall in love, they will know positively the marriage they plan is to last forever, would detect the theory of a trial, and insult anybody suggesting it.

Or if not they would not be worth marrying.

"It would be better for Massachusetts and the administration of justice generally, if a commission could be appointed to investigate the evidence on which Sacco and Vanzetti are condemned to die." That is the opinion of the Rev. Roland D. Sawyer, Congressional clergyman and member of the Massachusetts Legislature. The commission would, for which he introduces a bill, would consist of the Chief Justice of the Massachusetts Supreme Court, and four others to be appointed by the Governor. The commission would be authorized to recommend to the Governor a new trial or such course as might seem necessary.

The impression that justice in the United States is in a hurry to execute anybody or determined to do so should be carefully avoided. This is a case that regards the evidence, by any one judge, in a case in which after-the-event excitement played a considerable part.

An Egyptian tomb near the Giza Pyramids opened by Vienna scientists, contains the record and mummy of a very rich dwarf married to an impoverished princess, thousands of years ago.

Our rich princesses marry mental dwarfs, rich in titles. That's the difference, and that Egyptian princess had the better of it. She got something in exchange for her hand, with the long, tapering fingers.

Interest yourself in vitamins. Dr. H. C. Sherman, learned professor of chemistry, proves that vitamins bring maturity earlier and make it last longer. Vitamins are found in milk, butter, lettuce and all green vegetables, cod liver oil, red wine (barred here), fruits, yeast, etc.

In addition to vitamins, mineral salts are absolutely necessary to life. No animal can live without them. Public school education should include information on diet. Mothers especially are interested in vitamins. Experiments with animals show vitamins influence the number of the young and successful rearing after birth.

There is much prosperity in this country and, fortunately for us, it is not all based on "natural resources"—oil, iron, coal, forests, good soil, etc. Most of it comes from inside the national skull. Sir Ernest Bevin observes that American prosperity is, in many cases, five per cent natural resources, ninety-five per cent wit intelligently organized. If natural resources alone counted, "Brazil, Liberia and Iceland" would be the world's most prosperous countries.

CONVERTED JEW TO TELL OF HIS CONVERSION TO CHRISTIANITY

Rev. Frank Nathan, a converted Jew, will speak at the Baptist Church on Monday evening, May 2, telling the story of his conversion to Christianity. Rev. Nathan's story is most interesting and typical of the great sacrifice that is involved in the turning of Jew to the Christian religion. He is a Polish-Russian Jew, speaks in costume. Rev. Nathan is pastor of a Presbyterian Church in Evansville, Indiana.

The general public is invited and urged to hear this story. There is no admission charge, but a silver offering will be taken.

TO PRESENT PLAY AT COMMUNITY BUILDING

"The Betrothal of Mai Esang" (My Son) will be given in the Community Building Friday evening, May 6th, by seventeen members of the "Christian Endeavor" of the Christian Church at Warsaw.

These excellent young people have given this "Play" to several appreciative audiences, and have received the highest commendation.

It is surely a "hit" from start to finish and holds the audience "spell bound."

Come one and all, and help "The Youth," who have a desire to extend the work of a worthy organization.

The Play is given under the auspices of the Ladies Aid of the M. E. Church. Look for advertisements the last of the week.

COOLIDGE ASKS RELIEF FOR FLOOD SUFFERERS

Practically everyone in the country has read in the newspapers or heard on the radio of the damage that is being done and of the people being killed and made homeless in the Mississippi flood district. The situation is getting worse and the following telegram has been received by A. A. Rasor, chairman of Kosciusko County Chapter, American Red Cross at Warsaw:

TELEGRAM
A. A. Rasor, Chairman Kosciusko County, Chapter American Red Cross, Warsaw, Ind.

SURPRISE PARTY

Mrs. Arlo Preisner was very much surprised Saturday evening when she came to the Royal Neighbor hall to find that the members had given her a kitchen shower. Many useful gifts were received after camp closed. Popcorn and home made candy were served.

Mrs. L. P. Jefferies and Mrs. I. F. Snyder attended the county meeting of Federated Clubs held Tuesday at the Presbyterian church in Warsaw a luncheon was served at the noon hour.

Miss Winifred Swick was a Sunday dinner guest of Miss Margaret Mentzer.

EXTEND WELCOME TO GRADUATES

When the schools close, and our young people who are this year completing their days of study step from the classroom into the workaday world, we want them to feel that the home town offers them opportunities superior to those that they would find elsewhere.

It is here they have their friends, here are located those who are most interested in their success; here are those who will give them a helping hand in their efforts to attain success in whatever field of activities they may select.

For these young people the fabled pot of gold at the rainbow's end may be found here at home more quickly and more surely than elsewhere. All will not achieve that degree of success to which their ambition points, but they will succeed here where they have the help and support of friends and acquaintances, surrounded by those who have a desire to see them succeed, than they will in the outside fighting for himself.

To each of them we would say, There is a place in the home town for you. The home town wants you. It wants you in its business life. It wants you in its social activities. It welcomes you to a place in its present and future as no other community will or can. Be fair with the community; stick by it, and the community will be more than fair with you."

MAY OFFER CLUE

IN TUCKER CASE
Robert Sharp, Sherman Jones and Willard Clark, sentenced to serve two to fourteen years for conspiracy to rob Frank Tucker, are said to have suggested that they can give some information which might be valuable to local officers in solving the mystery of Frank Tucker's disappearance on January 28. This information was volunteered while they were prisoners in the county jail. There is no claim that they are able to name the guilty parties, but the suggestion that information which they can give will be a valuable clue.

"This fact has been known by Sheriff Frank McKrill, Chief of Police W. A. Winebrenner, Prosecutor W. G. Leach, Special Prosecutor Walter Brubaker and Defense Attorney A. S. Wideman for several days. In return for this information, it is said the three prisoners demand lenience for themselves provided the facts which they can give, lead to apprehension of the real criminals.

Officers who have been working on the case have not considered it advisable to publicly discuss the new development believing that their investigation would be retarded by undue publicity.

Body May be in Pool

As the result of new information that has come into the possession of county authorities at Warsaw, plans were under foot Monday to drain a large pool near the Haines school in Jackson township, three miles south of Sidney, in the hope that the body of Frank Tucker may be found.

An overcoat which is thought might have belonged to Tucker was found at the edge of the pool where apparently it had been for many weeks. The pool is about 8 feet deep.

SODALES CLUB

Mrs. Elizabeth Simcoe was hostess to the Sodales Club, Thursday afternoon, April 21, at her home on South Franklin Street.

After the regular business was taken care of the afternoon was spent in playing progressive Rook, in which Marian Shinn received the prize and Beulah Arnsberger the consolation.

There were seventeen members present. The hostess assisted by her sister, Emma Jones, served dainty refreshments.

TRAIN WRECKER SENT TO PRISON FOR 2 TO 14 YEARS

Wilbur Wilson, 39, of Columbia City, Saturday was sentenced to 2 to 14 years imprisonment in the state prison at Michigan City for wrecking a freight train on the Pennsylvania railroad at Columbia City on February 18.

Wilson, a former employee of the railroad company, entered a plea of guilty when arraigned before Judge Arthur Diggs in the Whitley county circuit court.

Wilson made a confession to authorities saying he caused the wreck by placing a piece of car coupling at a switch. Twenty-seven cars of a fast freight train loaded with perishable goods were derailed, causing a loss of more than $300,000.

For months he had brooded over his discharge from the service of the railroad for drunkenness and finally decided to get revenge. Wilson's confession said.

He told of wedging the heavy piece of car coupling in the switch joint and going to the home of a friend and drinking beer while awaiting the wreck.

The freight train which was wrecked was running 15 minutes ahead of the Manhattan flyer.

Railroad detectives worked on the case for weeks before suspicion turned to Wilson. A sentence of 2 to 14 years imprisonment is possible for the act.

SCHOOL WELL POISONING

CASE FACES LONG DELAY

Due to the complicated situation arising out of the filing of new affidavits and the addition of two defendants, it is probable that the Mt. Tabor poison well cases will not come to trial in the Kosciusko circuit court before next fall, according to an announcement made today by Prosecutor W. G. Leach.

Originally Alchol and Samuel Riley, Mt. Tabor, were charged with poisoning the well, with the result that thirteen pupils of the Mt. Tabor school became ill.

George Riley, 11, and Robert Riley, 13, younger brothers, have now been charged with having a part in the poisoning and have been placed under bonds of $500 each.

The prosecution has some surprises in store, it was said.

$5 OFFERED FOR BEST SLOGAN

Wednesday, May 11th the Mentone Chamber of Commerce is going to give away $5.00 for one little phrase or slogan advertising the town of Mentone. How long will it take to sit down and write a couple of words, only a minute or two, and if it is chosen by the Chamber of Commerce they will pay you $5.00—that ought to be worth your time besides having the honor of giving Mentone the slogan which will always carry.

Any person regardless of their residence is eligible to this offer which starts now and ends May 11, 1927. They also may send in as many ideas as they wish.

The slogan should advertise Mentone as a community and not any particular business or feature. For example, Chicago's slogan is "I will" and Fort Wayne's "With Might and Main." Slogans such as "Mentone Welcomes you," or "Look us over" are too common to be noticeable.

Something unique that when seen by the weary tourist will take their eye and be remembered. All slogans, phrases and ideas should be delivered or mailed to the Librarian, Mrs. Van Gilder on or before, May 11th.

BOURBON FOWL THEIVES

FACING FURTHER TROUBLE

Wayne Mendel and Blaine Thomas, of Bourbon, now serving sentences for stealing chickens in the Martinsville jail, have more trouble staring them in the face when they are released. Both Sheriff Falconburg and Kosciusko county officials have charges which they will bring against the couple as soon as they are released for stealing chickens in Marshall land Kosciusko counties.

Chickens have been missed during the past few months from the farms of Charles Herhsberger and Mrs. Minnie Linn near Bourbon and several sheep were stolen from a farm near Tippecanoe, and both Bourbon men have been connected with the theft. A South Bend man has also been implicated and Sheriff Sewell Falconburg went to that city Thursday afternoon to obtain information as to his whereabouts.

BAPTIST CHURCH NOTES

Whittinghill an invitation to spend his vacation at Mackinac Island. 3—Famous German fortress of Ehrenbreitstein at Coblenz, familiar to American doughboys, which is to be demolished in accordance with the Treaty of Versailles.

NEWS REVIEW OF CURRENT EVENTS

Floods and Tornadoes Work Havoc in Middle West—Atrocity in Mexico.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD

WIND and water wrought havoc throughout the Middle West during the week. Scores of lives were lost, many thousands of persons were driven from their homes, and immense damage, as yet impossible to estimate, was done to property. All down the lower Mississippi valley the river levees were giving way and the waters, increased by heavy rains and driven by high winds, were rushing through towns and submerging farm lands. Refugees by the hundreds were gathered, often unsheltered, on higher ground awaiting succor and in some of their camps, notable along the St. Francis river in Arkansas, measles, whooping cough and mumps broke out.

In southwestern Kansas the rivers were fed by cloudbursts and rose to record heights, inundating vast areas and isolating many towns. The Neosho, Verdigris and Cottonwood rivers were out of their banks. In the region surrounding Kansas City the high waters of the Missouri and Kansas rivers caused extended floods.

Monday and Tuesday a series of tornadoes swept across north Texas, Oklahoma, Missouri, parts of Kansas and through central Illinois. About fifty lives were lost in these storms, twenty-two of the fatalities being in Illinois, and hundreds were injured. Property losses in towns and on farms were severe.

Relief for the flood and storm sufferers was swiftly started by the Red Cross and by state and municipal governments. The War department supplied tents and the soldiers and medical officers of the National Guard in the states affected gave efficient aid.

MEXICAN bandits broke all records for atrocity in that country when they attacked a passenger train near La Barca in the state of Jalisco. The cars were filled with people returning from the Holy week holidays at Lake Chapala and a guard of fifty soldiers was aboard. The bandits, numbering about 500, derailed the train, killed all the soldiers with gun fire, slaughtered many of the passengers and then locked the cars, saturated them with gasoline and set them afire. The scene that followed was horrible beyond description. Scores of persons, mostly women and children, were burned to death and many of those who broke out of the cars were shot down or clubbed mercilessly. It was believed that more than 100 were killed, in addition to the military guard. Only the passengers who were in two steel Pullman cars escaped death or injury. Among the victims was Donna Refugio Obregon de Ponce de Leon, eldest daughter of General Obregon, former president of Mexico. It was believed the bandits were under the command of a chieftain named Jesus Barajas.

President Calles issued a statement charging that the massacre was perpetrated by rebel bandits under the leadership of Catholic priests and that the latter "received the assistance of the episcopate." He said the military escort put up a three-hour resistance against the attacking band, which was headed personally by the priests Vega, Pedraza, and Angulo, the lawyer Loza, who was a member of the League for Defense of Religious Liberty, and a band known as "El Catolico" (Number 14).

MODERATES of the Chinese Nationalist party formally established their capital in Nanking, with Gen. Chiang Kai-shek in control, and the split between them and the communists at Hankow seemed definite. The moderates impeached the Hankow group, and the latter in turn deposed Chiang as commander in chief and ordered his arrest and punishment. Marshal Feng Yuxiang, formerly called the "Christian general," was named to succeed Chiang. The moderate leader continued his efforts to drive the Red labor unions out of business in Shanghai, Canton and elsewhere. His new commissioner of foreign affairs, Quo Tai-chi, stated his belief that the "real Kuomintangists," including Mrs. Sun Yat-sen, Tan Yen-kai, Sun Fo, and others, shortly will desert Hankow for Nanking. He does not expect armed clashes between the Nanking and Hankow factions and declares Gen. Chiang will immediately continue the campaign against Gen. Chang Tso-lin and Gen. Chang Chang-chung along the Tientsin-Pukow railway.

Respecting the future attitude of the Nanking government toward the powers, Quo declared: "There is absolutely no change in the Kuomintang party's program respecting the foreigners. We will treat those nations as equal which accord Nationalist Chinese equal treatment."

The sudden shift of Nationalist headquarters from Hankow to Nanking was rather embarrassing to the powers, which were gathering war vessels at the former place apparently for the purpose of enforcing their demands for reparation for the Nanking outrages. The British press in Shanghai thought the forming of the new government was a scheme to avoid responsibility for the Nanking incident.

Marshal Chang in Peking announced that examination of partly burned papers found when the Russian military attaché's office was raided revealed a document from the Third Internationale at Moscow giving directions for the massacre of all foreigners in order to bring about intervention in China as a preliminary to a world revolution. The Peking government sent word to Moscow that the raid was not the embassy proper but on other buildings in the compound; that while diplomats enjoyed special immunities, they did not have the right to carry on illegal practices.

In carrying out the defense program of the legation quarter in Peking, with consent of the Chinese authorities, it was found the gates of the Russian compound were locked. American marines sealed the wall and forced the gates, after which the guards of the other powers entered and took control of the wall.

Northern troops still were holding Pukow, on the Yangtze opposite Nanking, and did not leave the two cities was carried on daily. Several times the northerners fired at American and British vessels that were passing and the latter returned the fire effectively. It was reported in Shanghai that Marshal Sun Chuan-fang, formerly overlord of Shanghai and five rich provinces, who recently defeated the Nationalists along the Yangtze, had joined that party and had been made defense commissioner of northern Kiangsu, the chief salt revenue area.

JAPAN is experiencing a financial crisis which already has brought about the temporary suspension of several banks, although the Bank of Japan is aiding the smaller financial institutions. The Bank of Formosa also was in trouble, following the failure of the great exporting and importing house of Suzuki, and the cabinet planned to assist it. But the privy council did not approve Premier Wakatsuki and his ministers resigned. Baron Tanaka was made premier and formed what was agreed upon as an strong cabinet, himself holding the portfolio of foreign minister. The public felt reassured but the financial troubles were not over, for on Wednesday the Fifteenth bank, one of the largest in the country, suspended for three weeks.

IN THE course of the week's desultory fighting between the government forces and the liberals in Nicaragua the latter several times fired on detachments of American marines which were guarding railways. The marines, who suffered no casualties, dispersed the attackers with machine gun fire, killing a few of them. It is the impression in Managua that the rebels are making attacks on the marines in order to force the American government to take charge of the country. Henry L. Stimson, investigator for President Coolidge, is holding conferences with various officials and business men, and there is a good chance that what he recommends will amount to active intervention for the restoration and preservation of order.

FEDERAL DISTRICT JUDGE G. M. BOURQUIN at San Francisco has ruled that the seizure of the steamer Federalship on the high seas, the arrest of its captain and crew and the confiscation of its million dollar cargo of liquor by coast guard vessels was illegal and a "sheer aggression and trespass" by the United States authorities, contrary to treaty. He also declared that, "a decent respect for the opinions of mankind, national honor, harmonious relations between nations and avoidance of war requires that the contracts represented by treaties shall be scrupulously observed, held inviolate and in good faith, precisely performed—requires that treaties shall not be reduced to mere scraps of paper."

WHEN the "White House spokesman," in reply to rumors that Secretary of State Kellogg was to resign and was to be succeeded by Secretary of Commerce Hoover, declared that Mr. Kellogg had no intention of quitting his post and that if he did, Mr. Hoover would not be given it, a lot of people assumed that this meant as a slap at Mr. Hoover. To counteract this impression a warm tribute to the secretary of commerce was made public at the White House. It explained that President Coolidge rather assumed in denying published reports that Mr. Hoover was slated to succeed Mr. Kellogg that it was unnecessary to make mention of his high regard for Mr. Hoover's abilities. The President recognizes that Mr. Hoover's reputation is so well established both in this country and abroad that he doubts very much if he would be able to shake it even if he wished to do so. Mr. Hoover has achieved big things, the President realizes, and the public everywhere has confidence in him. The President regards Mr. Hoover as possessing the ability to fill any position in the cabinet which he might be willing to accept.

STOCKHOLDERS of the United States Steel corporation at the annual meeting ratified the proposal of the directors by which the outstanding share capital will be increased from $808,853,000 to $1,071,904,000. Of this $263,051,000 in common stock will be passed along to stockholders in the form of a 40 per cent stock dividend.

Actually the stock dividends, the first distribution of the kind in the corporation's history, is worth to the stockholders $294,815,450, which is the market value of the additional shares on a "when issued" basis. The entire outstanding share capital of the corporation will have a market value when issued of approximately $1,071,000,000. The new stock will be placed on the same 7 per cent annual dividend basis as the original common shares.

GOV. AL SMITH'S eagerly awaited reply to Charles C. Marshall's article in the Atlantic Monthly is printed in that magazine and is about what his admirers hoped for. He stands, as an American Catholic, for complete separation of church and state. His answer embodies a creed that recognizes no power in his church superior to the Constitution of the United States and holds all churches equal before the law and the public school "as one of the cornerstones of American liberty."

UPON motion of defense counsel, Judge Raymond at Detroit granted an order of mistrial in the million-dollar libel suit of Aaron Sapiro against Henry Ford. The reason for this action was that Mrs. Cora Hoffman, one of the jurors, had granted an interview to the substance of which appeared in the Detroit Times. Judge Raymond expressly cleared Mrs. Hoffman of allegations made in a series of affidavits by Ford detectives and other employees that she had discussed a $10,000 bribe with one "Gid" Miller, and that she had wrongly stated she was a qualified juror, and asserted that Sapiro had indulged in any misconduct, as asserted in the affidavits.

CUTE PANTIE PLAY-FROCKS; GINGHAM'S PLACE IN MODE

LIKE so many little animated dolls, toddlers and buttercups will vote to be looking this Maytime and summer time, too, for Dandy Fashion in informing mothers that until further notice yellow will rank as one of the very popular colors for little "folks" dresses.

This preference for yellow is evidenced throughout all fabric showings, especially gingham, organdies, voiles and dotted awesomes. Included also in the list are dainty printed dainties and plaques, with flowerets scattered all over their surface or perhaps dots shirred, having quite large scoop brims. Some are lace-trimmed, placing little rosettes of valencienne edging about the crown and brim.

Romance in fashionland! Gingham, yes, simple everyday gingham, has been promoted from the plebeian class into the ranks of the aristocrat. After all these years spent in the kitchen, the schoolroom, the nursery and the playground, as a medium for house-dress, bungalow apron and play-frock, behold! gingham is making its debut at the country club, on the golf links, on the tennis courts and or pin-stripes of yellow. A pliping of solid yellow, or cuffs and collars of yellow add a charming touch to frocks made of the printed fabrics. If the dress be white then cunning embroidery or applique in yellow is suggested or smoking, fagoting or cross-stitch with yellow thread or floss. An important item in the wee tot's wardrobe is the pantie-dress. The one in the picture is made of yellow and white gingham. The collar, cuffs and pockets are finished with a butternut stitch worked in black and white floss. The tiny duck in the center is embroidered in black and white. An item of importance to remember in connection with children's dresses is this—sleeves are most often of the raglan type. A reason for this is that the peasant-type frock is "all the rage" for little girls this season and even on the avenues and the boulevards. It is a fact, society is turning out in gingham frocks at many a smart daytime event now that the mode is high-lighting cotton weaves as of outstanding style appeal. It is really amazing to see the smart styling which fashionists are giving to gingham. In this picture are two exponents of the new gingham movement. A pin-check in the popular black-and-white makes an arresting ensemble costume as illustrated to the left. A three-quarter length coat of the gingham is posed over a straight one-piece dress of the same fabric. The vertical tucks suggest a panel at both back and front. Since it is the proper thing to lime the coat throughout in this instance a soft melon shade of ging that the raglan sleeve is one of its characteristic features. Smoking, fagoting and cross-stitching are being lavished on wearing apparel for youngsters. Thus is "color introduced in all its gayest mode."

Two other phases of handcraft are applique and quilting effects. The former expresses itself in quaint animal figures and flowers and even picture-book scenes are worked out in applique. Plain cotton quilted with gay threads is very new as a trimming for juvenile clothes. Youngsters are dressing in ensemble as well as grownups, according to the new style coming in for summer. These include cunning printed sheer frocks, with hats of the same fabric. Quaint little bonnet shapes are lamb has been used for the purpose. The cotton jacket suit to the right is made of hunter's green gingham with a fine black design outlined with single threads of lighter green to which the bias banded trimmings have been matched.

That which is true of gingham is true of all cotton weaves—they have taken a place of prominence in the mode. Cotton prints which have every appearance of silk are made up with painstaking care, their appearance warranting their wear at any before six-o'clock occasions. Printed cotton dresses are also a very smart item. Bouffant frilly organdies for summer evening wear are in anticipation, too.

THE MAGIC GARDEN

When Gene Stratton-Porter wrote "The Magic Garden," she unknowingly followed the old precept of keeping the best for last. Just before her death the popular authoress completed the story which later proved to be her greatest. It was also by a tragic coincidence to be her final work. J. Leo Meehan, Mrs. Porter's son-in-law has taken this remarkable book and transferred it to the screen. It may be seen at the Argonne Theatre in Akron, next Sunday when it begins at two day run. The picture reflects the spirit of its author; it is replete with the richness of life, and reveals the depths of human nature as this great woman knew it to be. It deals with hearts and souls, and the events that happen to test and prove him to be worthy. The cast was selected by Mr. Meehan with the greatest care in order that one would give a faithful delineation of the character that he or she was to make live on the screen. Many favorites are to be found in this gathering among them: Margaret Morris, Raymond Keane, Phillippe de Lacey, Joyce Coad, William V. Mong, Charles Clary, Walter Wilkinson, Alfred Allen, Conroe Gravina, Paul, ette Duval and Hedda Hopper. Mrs. Meehan wrote the adaptation and Charles Kerr the continuity. (Adv.) Warsaw, Sunday.

DR. W. B. CALDWELL
AT THE AGE OF 63

To Dr. W. B. Caldwell, of Monticello, Ill., a practicing physician for 47 years, it seemed cruel that so many constipated infants and children had to be kept "stirred up" and half sick by taking cathartic pills, tablets, salts, calomel and nasty oils.

While he knew that constipation was the cause of nearly all children's little ills, he constantly advised mothers to give only a harmless laxative which they can depend upon whenever a child is constipated, bilious, feverish or sick from a cold, indigestion or

Have System of Levels to Reveal Altitude

Altitudes are obtained by a system of levels for the taking of which one requires considerable engineering knowledge and a set of instruments. There is also a method of estimating altitudes by means of tables worked out on the basis of the reading of the barometer. Differences of temperature affect the density of the air, and consequently exert a certain influence upon an aneroid barometer. This influence has to be taken into account when differences of altitude are being determined by the aid of this instrument. The table, showing allowances that must be made for temperature, most generally used is that prepared by Professor Ayr, late astronomer royal of Great Britain. In which 31 inches of pressure represent the zero of altitude, assuming that the temperature is 50 degrees Fahrenheit.

Women's Employment

Among the many trades women have taken up for a livelihood in Great Britain is that of breeding goldfish. An Irish girl gets a living by breeding Angora rabbits. There are several women "masters of fox-hounds," a woman has chosen "tea tasting" for a living, another is a cattle judge and one young lady puts in her whole time as a master of harriers. A college girl has become "a scribe and heraldic illuminator," two others jointly earn a living by jam making on a large scale, two sisters run a small upholstery business, another is a builders' merchant.

Constipation regularly indicates disordered stomach liver and bowels. Indigestion, gas, flatulence, heartburn, indigestion, constipation, biliousness, headache, etc., are signs of a weak stomach. Buy a box today, 60 cents at your drug store or the Dodd's Medicine Co., 700 Main St., Buffalo, N. Y.—Adv.

Statesmen Nowadays

"And so, gent, them's my sentiments, and if you don't like 'em I'll change 'em.'"

Why doesn't some enterprising attorney write a book of unwritten laws!

SPECIAL POINTERS ON CARVING MEAT

Good Work Results in Neatly Severed Joints.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)
Some men like their wives to carve, and others won't let them attempt it. Some like to carve standing up, and some believe it is a breach of etiquette to do so. Common sense decides the matter in most households, for much depends on who is considered the best carver, the length of his or her effective reach, the height of the chair usually occupied, the tenderness of the meat or poultry to be carved, the sharpness of the knife, and the previous experience of the carver.

Above all things, the carving knife should be sharp. It should be of the best size for the kind of meat to be carved—the small, light type for chicken or steak, and the larger, heavier one for roasts. Carving must be quickly done, before the meat has a chance to chill, and a sharp knife is an aid to speed as well as to the appearance of the food. Good carving results in neatly severed joints, flesh cut across the grain, thin appetizing slices or portions dispensed so that everyone at the table has at least a bit of the choicer cuts and no one is left with only the undesirable parts.

The illustration, which was taken by the United States Department of Agriculture, shows how to carve a leg of lamb. Notice that the fittest side of the meat is upmost and that the carver steadies the roast with the carving fork held in her left hand, while she slices across the muscle at right angles to the leg bone. Cutting the meat parallel to the bone, as one often sees it done, results in stringy portions, difficult to chew. A ham, smoked or fresh, is carved in the same way as a leg of lamb. Thin slices are to be preferred for all of these meats.

A rib roast of beef is carved horizontally—that is, across the grain. A standing roast of beef is placed with the ends of the ribs to the left of the carver. The butcher, in trimming the roast, should remove any bone at the upper or right-hand end that is likely to interfere with carving. The meat is sliced very thinly across the grain until the knife reaches the bone. When several slices have been cut, the point of the knife is run along the edge of the bone to separate the slices from the ribs.

The first step in carving a steak with a T-bone is to trim this bone out. The steak is then cut into sections about an inch wide, beginning at the upper or broad end and cutting at right angles to the former position of the bone, through both tenderloin and large portion. In this way both tenderloin and ordinary steak are served to each person.

A shoulder of lamb presents more difficulty in carving than almost any piece of meat, because of the irregular position of the various bones. If the shoulder blade is removed by the butcher and the cavity stuffed or simply skewered together, the problem is simplified. The lines of the chops can be followed as far as they go.

The art of carving poultry varies with each kind of bird. The skillful carver is the one who knows exactly where to find the joints. In carving most poultry it is well to remove the leg and wing from one side first so as to slice the breast conveniently. The leg of a large bird may be cut into two or more pieces.

CREAM CHEESE WITH PINEAPPLE IN SALAD

An Excellent Spread for Sandwiches.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)
The flavor of pineapple combines mutually well with that of cream or neuthelet cheese. So-called Honolulu salad is familiar to most people in the form of a slice of canned pineapple on a bed of lettuce, with a ball or cube of cream cheese in the center, and mayonnaise dressing. Sometimes the cream cheese is seasoned with salt and mixed with chopped nuts or green pepper or pineapple, and sometimes it is rolled in one of the other of these favoring garnishes. The United States Department of Agriculture suggests as a variation that the cheese be put through a potato ricer and dropped on the sliced pineapple arranged on a bed of lettuce. Season with a little salt and paprika pepper.
Finely chopped pineapple mixed with cheese makes an excellent spread for sandwiches or for toasted bread or crackers for afternoon tea.

Proper Care of Washing Machine of Importance

More and more homemakers are coming to realize that suitable household equipment can save them much needless drudgery. In no case is this more true than with the laundry work. A washing machine is almost indispensable if large washings are to be done at home. In addition to the saving of time and labor the clothes generally last longer if washed in a good machine than if rubbed on a wash-board.

Most types of washing machine are simple in construction, strongly built, and easy to care for if properly used and lubricated. In a recent publication on home laundering the United States Department of Agriculture makes the following suggestions concerning the use and care of washing machines:

Wash the correct amount of clothes in your machine as specified by the manufacturer. Overloading is hard on the clothes and the machine. The water line is marked on most machines. Too much water causes excessive splashing and in many instances cuts down the efficiency of the washer greatly.

After using rinse the machine thoroughly with hot water, operate it for a short time, drain and dry. Leave the drain faucet open and prop the lid up an inch or two to allow free circulation of air during the time it is not in use. Cylinders should be cleaned and thoroughly dried. Drying metal parts will prevent much discoloration.

Study the booklet furnished by the manufacturer of the machine as to oil the machine according to his directions. Lubrication is necessary for every mechanical device, and is a most important point in the proper care of a washer.

If an electric machine is used, pull out the electric plug when leaving the machine behind. Wash days and coil on the connecting cord where it will not collect moisture or dirt. Do not lubricate or adjust any part of the washer while the cord is connected to the current source.

Eggs Gelatin Desserts Quite Easy to Prepare

Pure fruit gelatin desserts take only a few minutes to prepare. The proportion is one quart of liquid to one envelope or ounce of gelatin. The gelatin is usually softened in about half a cupful of cold water or fruit juice. If sugar is needed, and as most fruit gelatins are improved by adding the juice of half a lemon, some sugar will be necessary—put it into one cup of hot water or less and bring it to the boiling point. The amount of sugar depends on the acidity of the fruit juice. Half to three-fourths of a cupful is usually needed. Add the softened gelatin to the hot liquid, then add 24 cupfuls of uncooked fruit juice—orange or grape or pineapple—whatever you have. Stir thoroughly and strain into molds. In this way the flavor of the uncooked fruit juice is retained, and its vitamins are not destroyed by heating. In warm weather reduce the amount of added water somewhat.

Fabric and Pattern of Best Drapery Material

The fabric and pattern of drapery material should be dignified and simple enough to suit all tastes. If the rug and wall paper are figured or the upholstery decidedly patterned, a plain-colored rug, saten, lightweight drapery, and either a "home" or "modern" appearance. Avoid flower designs that look too natural and are in brilliant colors. Carefully blended tones and dignified conventional designs are more suitable.

Leading Food Products

The three leading food products cannot conceivably be corn, tomatoes and peas. The total pack of these three products in 1925 in round numbers is estimated at about 60,000,000 boxes. Since there are two dozen cans to the case, this makes a total of 120,000,000 dozen cans or over one dozen to every person in the United States.

The open mind

GENERAL MOTORS has an open mind. Its program is to provide a quality car in each price field. Already this program has led to the development of cars that differ widely in type and special features, each designed to serve a special purpose.

Through its laboratories, which are the largest automotive laboratories, General Motors seeks to look into the future. At its Proving Ground it tests improvements created anywhere in the world.

It is committed to nothing except quality at the lowest possible cost. Every detail is subject to constant questioning and the possibility of betterment.

This mental attitude is of interest to you as a car buyer. You are assured that you are buying the result of today's best thinking, not yesterday's prejudices or the mere product of habit.

Funeral For Snake

Some time ago a rattlesnake was captured in the Blue Ridge foothills by wood haulers. The reptile became domesticated and docile in his tame surroundings. ### Visits Graveyard in Boat

To inspect an old graveyard, Lord Craigavon, premier of Ireland, recently had to make the journey in a "coot," the primitive boat still used by the people of Galloon Island, in Upper Lough Erne. During the trip his lordship was told that the only industry that the island has ever had was the making of illicit whiskey, but the police had destroyed it.

"BOUND TO THE NORTH" Chapter 1.

It was one of those hot Southern midnights, when the stars themselves seem over taken with drowsiness and drop from the ranks as weary soldiers do.

Street lamps threw a circle of light on the pavement; beyond the circle's rim was soft, impenetrable blackness.

Out of this a slender young man suddenly emerged and leaned against the lamp-post for a moment, breathing sharp breaths.

A short rest seemed to revive the youth. He straightened, clicked his heels together—and stepped forward. The dim yellow light held his back in view for half a dozen steps. The youth did not reappear in the next circle of light.

The quality of the street was good. The flanking rows of brick residences with their white marble steps presented a dignified front in the daytime. Into one of these houses the young man had gone. Silently he mounted the stairs to his room, entered and flung himself upon the bed burying his face into the pillows to stifle the wild and passionate sobs he could no longer repress.

Along the road to the north, beyond the grim cordon of sentries, eleven men were racing their horses. They rode like furies.

Death was not only behind them but lay in ambush before them. Death was ready, but the sleeping telegraph operator was not.

By the time he awoke, sensed the message hammering at his key and gave the alarm, the night-riders had slipped through into a passively friendly zone.

As dawn kindled the tree-tops they drew down to a walk. There was no chatter, no jesting, no expression of thankfulness over their escape. Only one made speech. It was a matter of directions, for now each man must go his own way, as once more they were in a hostile country. They divided at the first fork in the road, divided at the next, and so on until each man rode alone.

Ten eventually reached Washington. The eleventh, when he was positive that his comrades were well on their way, wheeled about his horse and returned to the main pike, and in leisurely stages wended his way back to Richmond, through blue lines and better news, magically.

When the brilliant morning sunshine poured into a certain window in that beleaguered city (for it was in the summer of 1864), it gilded a grimy, scarred, stained face, small, griny hands flung out upon the pillow and powdered with fine sparks and tousled locks of hair which matched the color of the copper-beech.

The tenant of this room might easily have passed as a boy at night for the figure was boyish; but in the daylight the male attire could not wholly disguise the delicate contours or the satiny smoothness of the skin.

The tear stained face did not speak of a higher order of courage; yet Jeanne Beaufort was as brave and dauntless as any woman in the South. At that time the North knew her neither by name nor by feature; but it had often sensed the danger of her; it had often, through her wit and resource, seen a carefully built campaign tumble like a house of cards in the wind.

So it began to grope for her as a person gropes for a teacher in the dark. So the tears, had no bearing upon that attribute called courage.

The room she occupied was in the house of her aunt, her mother's sister, a widow. Mrs. Wetmore never questioned her niece in regard to her mysterious absence.

Upon a lowboy, which served as a dressing table stood three photographs. Each rested in a little frame of mourning; Jeanne's father and her two brothers.

Presently the girl on the bed aighed, turned and awoke. She blinked a little, rubbed her eyes and smiled. But the sight of that grimy hand obliterated the smile instantly. She jumped up and stood in the middle of the room, paled with terror. With fumbling fingers she felt into the in- coat she wore and drew out a crumpled sheet of paper. It was true, then! This thing, this abominable, cowardly thing had happened.

She made a wild gesture as if to tear this dreadful testimony into tatters, and paused. She laid the paper on the dresser, discarded her male attire, bathed, dressed and then sat down on the edge of the bed and studied, not the body of the document, but the hieroglyphics which ascended from there to the bottom of the sheet.

John Kennedy, D. D.
A-NK-S P-PA-G
G-RD-A J-NK-K
F-WG-S W-BE-H

What the literal translations were she had not the least idea, but she did know that they were code-names belonging to a free-lance organization known only to the War office and the Secret Service in Washington.

She had heard of this little band, but never until last night, had her path and theirs crossed. This organization was composed with one exception of young men, educated well born, daring and reckless beyond belief—in other words, spies who individually performed as many wonders for their cause as she performed for hers.

And for weeks they had been here in Richmond, stealing its heart's blood, drop by drop! They had had the daring to permit her to carry away these code-names! Was it because their work here was really done and that they would now scatter and keep scattered until the war was at an end?

Only one face she had seen, but she would remember that—ah, she would remember that until she died. Eleven men against one woman—so he it! She took up the gauntlet; and woe to them!

One by one would she track them down, ruthless, without mercy. They had trampled her pride in dust, mocked her; so would she trample upon their honor and mock them.

Not for nothing had she been given beauty and a facile tongue. She placed the paper in the bosom of her dress, rose and went down to breakfast, smiling. She had the strength to do that.

Jeanne Beaufort was the daughter of Lawrence Beaufort, a wealthy Virginia tobacco-planter. There were five in the family: Beaufort, his spinster sister, his two boys and the girl. The mother had been dead since Jeanne's youth.

Father and sister took care of her mind, and the brothers saw to it that she should be sane in body also. She sang and played delightfully; her wit was nimble, in argument she was wise; and her brothers taught her how to walk through a forest without cracking a twig, to break and tame firey thoroughbreds, to shoot, swim, run.

The plantation was like hundreds of its kind: enormous verandahs and rambling wings and French windows. Below on the river brim was a clean little gathering of cabins for the plantation slaves.

Upon the peace and plenty of this happy little duchy fell the thunderbolt of war. Beaufort accepted a colonelcy in a local regiment, and the boys sought glory under Pickett.

When the news came to Jeanne that her father had fallen at Manassas and that his beloved body had been buried there, her grief had been terrible. The death of her two brothers at Cemetery Hill left her outwardly unmoved. She did not close the plan; she did not wear mourning; and when the spinster-aunt mildly remonstrated with this conduct, which she said was lacking in reverence to the dead, the girl whirled upon her: "I'm a woman. I can't shoulder a musket; I can't go forth and demand of the North an eye for an eye, a tooth for a tooth. But hear me, Auntie: I'll have that eye, I'll have that tooth!"

A week later Jeanne said: "I am going to Richmond."

"To visit your Aunt Delia; I think it a good plan, child."

"I'll be home from time to time unless the enemy stands in between. And even then I'll come."
"Shall we win?"
"God knows. But won or lose, the Yankees shall pay a price."
Jeanne knew but little of Richmond. This turned out very well for her later; neither friend nor foe knew anything about the personality of Jeanne Beaufort.

This time, however, she dabbled a little in the frivolities, but all with a grim purpose. Step by step she maneuvered until at last she stood in the presence of the one man she sought.

"But you are so young," he protested—scarcely twenty.
"I am very, very old," she replied with a dry little smile. "And I am all alone besides."

"There are terrible risks—death always to face and perhaps dishonorable death."
"I am ready. I want revenge."

"To play at love, to suffer the touch of men you despise, in order to gain their secrets—that is not a pleasant task for a well-bred woman. Was is not always won by bullets; duplicity plays its part."

"You are trying to discourage me. You are wasting time."
"Do you love any man?"
