Man Dies
In Truck Crash

Jay Howard, 22, of Route 5, near Peru, died in the flaming wreckage of a transport truck about seven o'clock Wednesday morning south of Mentone at the Gus Mollenhour bridge on State Road 19.

The transport truck, belonging to the Murphy Trucking Co. of Denver, Indiana, was bringing a load of 21 tons of soybean meal to the Red Comb Mill at Mentone.

Indications were that the young driver turned toward the center of the highway to go over the narrow bridge, and the action of the load forced the truck too far to the left and the left portion of the truck hit the iron railing on the west side of the bridge. The tractor tumbled into the creek while the trailer turned on its side across the highway. Flames immediately enveloped the tractor, and the spilled tractor fuel was even burning upon the water in the creek. The driver was pinned to the wreckage and a farm tractor was used to lift the wreckage sufficiently to remove the burned body. However, it is believed the young man was killed in the accident as he had a large fracture.

Gus Mollenhour, who lives a short distance from the bridge, did not see the crash but saw the fire immediately afterward and called the Mentone fire department.

About four tons of the feed was lost out of the 21 tons. The physical loss on the tractor has been estimated at $11,000, according to the Walburn Agency which has the insurance covering the equipment and cargo.

Mr. Howard was not married and lived with his father.

MARRIED RECENTLY

GERMINATION OF OATS IS DISAPPOINTING

Two of every three farmers who sow oats without knowing the germination of their seed run the risk of poor stands, tests of many farmer samples at the state seed testing laboratory at Purdue University this winter show. Good oats should germinate over 90 percent, but one of three samples germinated somewhere between that figure and zero, according to A. S. Carter, director of seed control.

Too much moisture at harvest and in storage is the big contributing factor to poor germination. Neither the odor nor appearance of the oats reveals the low germination.

Germination is the most variable in many years; this situation is serious because 65 percent of Indiana farmers plant their own oat seed. Rather similar results are reported from Illinois. Fortunately, supplies of widely available good seed oats in the hands of certified seed growers will help meet farmer needs.

Mrs. Noble Babcock called on her parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. O. Jones, Tuesday of last week.

WITH THE SICK

Mrs. Edith Rose was taken to the Woodlawn hospital Friday evening after a fall at her home, in which she suffered a partial fracture of her left leg at the hip socket. She has been under traction, and indications are that she may be permitted to leave the hospital in a week or so. Mrs. Rose has been partially paralyzed for some time but has been able to walk about the home unaided. She was walking alone when she fell, and evidently fell against a rocking chair inflicting the injury.

Don Ernsberger remains in the Hines Hospital in Chicago with a leg fracture suffered a number of weeks ago, and indications are that he is not improving as rapidly as expected.

Orville Vandermark remains in the Woodlawn hospital at Rochester where he was taken several weeks ago with a leg fracture suffered in a fall on the ice. It had been planned to operate and pin the break, but pneumonia developed and the doctors were unable to operate. He still faces a long stay in the hospital.

Chamber of Commerce News

By M. O. Mentzer

Interviewing Mr. S. C. Harter of the Panel-Craft Co., Inc., we find that they will begin operations the latter part of April.

The product will be aluminum siding. Mr. Harter has had several years experience in this kind of work having been with the Kaiser Aluminum Co. for some time.

The machinery is now being installed, consisting of the various machines for the forming of this siding. One machine, called the Maplewood Roll Former, is a very beautiful piece of craftsmanship. It consists of 80 sets of dies, all chrome plated, in order to process this siding without marring or scratching.

The siding is formed from a large roll of aluminum which is cut in proper lengths, then formed and placed in cartons for shipping.

The buyer will have a choice of colors. This siding is also of heavy gage material so as to prevent bending or kinking.

Mr. Harter says that they have more machinery which will be ready for installation soon. They have been somewhat handicapped by not being able to have the use of the entire building on account of the fire which destroyed the Mollenhour plant but he assured us that Chauncy had cooperated with him to such an extent that he was pleased to return the favor.

The front of the building now has a new sign, new doors and we are informed, will be landscaped.

Mr. Harter informs us that as soon as they have the machinery installed and ready to go, they will be pleased to welcome visitors.

To Observe Golden Wedding

Shown above are Mr. and Mrs. V. B. Fisher who will celebrate their golden wedding anniversary Sunday, April 12, at their home near Tippecanoe. Open house will be from two until four o'clock in the afternoon.

Valorous Fisher and Almyra Harding were married April 11, 1909 at Morristown, Ind. They are the parents of eight children, five of whom survive. They are: Mrs. Harry Hutchison and Charles Fisher of Bourbon; Mrs. Lester Mikesell and Mrs. George Richardson of Rochester, and Mrs. John Boganwright of Mentone.

Eggs Featured In Liquid Diet

A dramatic, new, liquid diet for weight control, with eggs as one of the principal ingredients, will be featured in the April issue of McCall's, according to the New York office of the Poultry and Egg National Board. Revolutionary in concept, it's the "Golden Egnog" diet, developed by one of America's eminent nutritionists.

Ingredients used in the "Golden Egnog" include—orange juice, skim milk, vegetable oil and three eggs a day. McCall's reports that a person can live on this diet indefinitely because it's made up of honest-to-goodness foods and nutritionally is as sound as Fort Knox.

Publication of the diet could have a beneficial effect on the consumption of eggs across the nation as it will be publicized during the post-Lenten period when there is often a letdown in demand for eggs, according to Steve Urner, PENB's Eastern Manager. Urner also feels that publication of the diet is strategically timed as the egg industry is sorely in need of convenience item ideas. McCall's is read by more than 12,000,000 people each month, and, because of the uniqueness of this particular diet, news of the "Golden Egnog" should reach many millions more.

McCall's will also promote its April issue on radio, television and major newspapers. Since three of the four ingredients in the "Golden Egnog" are handled by many dairies, McCall's has invited the top 6,000 dairies in the country to join them in this promotion.

These dairies have been offered personally imprinted point-of-sale display materials for use in stores and home deliveries. Dairy bin streamers will call attention to the diet and its ingredients right at the point-of-purchase for eggs, milk and orange juice. Special inserts with order blanks and bottle hangers with order blanks will be placed with millions of home delivery customers.

April McCall's goes on sale March 26 at all newsstands.

Cattle Feeder's Day, April 24th

A top event for Midwestern farmers—Indiana Cattle Feeders' Day—will be held Friday, April 24, at Purdue University.

The event, which attracts approximately 2,500 persons annually, is sponsored by Purdue's animal science department and the Indiana Cattle Feeders' Association.

The morning program, starting at 9 o'clock, CST, will be in the new Purdue livestock research barn, three miles north of the campus or one mile north of Bypass 52 on County Farm road.

Visitors will have an opportunity to view some of the feeding experiments carried on since last fall with feeder cattle. Experiments were designed to study effects of pelleting corn silage, whole corn plant and whole sorghum plant, male and female hormones in various combinations for heifers and tranquilizers in combination with either antibiotics or implanted stilbestrol.

Beginning at 10 o'clock Purdue animal scientists will report on these projects. Henry H. Mayo, Purdue extension animal scientist, will be chairman of this program.

Research reports to be given: "Hand Feeding vs. Self Feeding and Shelled Corn vs. Ground Ear Corn for Fattening Steers," C. H. Nickel, manager of Lynwood Farm, Carmel.

"Male and Female Hormone Combinations for Fattening Heifers," Fred N. Andrews, Purdue animal scientist.

"Value of Corn Silage, Pelleted Corn Silage, Pelleted Whole Corn Plant or Pelleted Whole Sorghum Plant for Beef Calves," M. W. Mohler, Purdue animal scientist.

"Regular Shelled Corn and High Moisture Shelled Corn with Linseed Meal and Urea Modifications of Supplement A," T. W. Perry, Purdue animal scientist.

"Tranquilizers in Combination with Either Implanted Stilbestrol or Oral Antibiotics for Fattening Beef Calves," W. M. Beeson, acting head of Purdue's animal science department.

Lunch will be served at the barn by the Purdue Block and Bridle Club.

An afternoon speaking program will start at 1 o'clock in the Livestock judging pavilion on the Purdue campus. Details of this program will be announced later.

Landscape Plantings

To avoid disappointment and financial loss, shop carefully for landscape plantings, advises H. W. Gilbert, Purdue University extension landscape architect.

Warm spring breezes and sunshine draw homeowners into gardens and bring the urge to improve the appearance of the place. Most homes could stand some improving. A good way to do it is to plant trees, shrubs and flowers that complement both house and garden and provide an attractive setting for summer activities.

But the next impulse, all too often, is to rush to the nearest nursery or garden shop and stock up with whatever happens to meet the eye. Here are some things Gilbert suggests to help avoid costly and discouraging mistakes:

Consider the location in which you wish to plant.

Think about the mature size of the plant or plants.

Consider whether you want green all year or only part of the year.

Think whether you prefer broad leaves or needles, dark green, light green or something in between, an upright or a spreading out effect.

If you would like flowering shrubs, consider colors that will look best in your garden or against your house and what season you would like them to bloom.

Sunlight, soil and drainage are other important considerations. How many hours does the sun hit that spot? Is the soil sandy and well drained, or is it heavy clay and inclined to be moist or very dry?

Gilbert points out that a reputable nurseryman can help find the right plant for the right place. He can be helpful in overcoming minor soil difficulties which may make the difference between healthy and sickly plants. And, of course, labels that are provided by careful nurseries can guide the buyer.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Olson and family from Illinois and Mr. and Mrs. Don Rush were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Olson. Little Ricky Olson is staying with his grandparents this week.

THANKS TO FIREMEN

We want to thank the men of the fire department for putting out the fire in our woods last week.

FERN AND LLOYD RICKEL

Will More Fertilizer Pay?

How much fertilizer can a farmer afford to apply this year?

Paul R. Robbins, Purdue University farm management specialist, says several factors should be considered. He lists them as:

"How much yield increase a given amount of fertilizer will give you in light of your soil situation and managerial ability. This is a best guess—based on fertility trials and past experience.

"How much are you going to get per bushel for the crop being produced, keeping in mind it takes more bushels to buy a ton of fertilizer than to use it.

"What the fertilizer will cost; if you can figure out a way to get it cheaper you can afford to use more.

"If your dollars are quite limited, you must decide which will give you the highest return—more fertilizer, hog supplement, gasoline for the tractor or a new washing machine for your wife."

Indiana farmers probably will use more fertilizer this year than last, Robbins says. Why?

"We will wind up with more acres of corn in 1959 since there are no corn allotments and more corn means more fertilizer—especially, more nitrogen," the economist points out. Too, more farmers are learning that intensive rotation and heavy fertilization pay off on many Indiana farms, even considering lower grain prices.

Central Indiana farm account cooperators on medium-sized farms (around 200 tillable acres) last year spent an average of $8.30 an acre for fertilizer and lime. The one-third who raised the most corn, spent $10.48 an acre and the third raising the least corn spent $6.27 an acre.

THE ULTIMATE in family shelters is represented by this large and luxurious unit built by steel contractor Earl W. Reichert of Battle Creek, Michigan. The $10,000 structure has a 98-foot well, private electric generating plant, electric and hand-operated blowers for the filtered air system. Its steel reinforcement prepares it for use as a blast as well as fallout shelter. However, a small family fallout shelter may be built for a fraction of what this shelter cost. (Battle Creek Enquirer and News Photo)

Still Time To Topdress Wheat

Indiana farmers unable to get on their wheat fields because of unusual weather conditions, need not be discouraged—there's still time to topdress the crop this spring.

Purdue University agronomists point out that spring topdressing has paid well on practically all light colored soils and on some dark colored soils where wheat has followed crops other than clover or alfalfa.

Recommended rates range from 25 to 30 pounds of actual nitrogen on heavier soils in central and northern Indiana to 40 to 50 pounds on lighter colored, sandier soils. Rates up to 40 pounds are often applied on the older, more weathered upland soils in southern Indiana.

Either solid nitrogen fertilizer or stable solutions may be used. Many farmers like high nitrogen mixtures, such as 10-10-10, or higher similar ratios for topdressing; they believe that the mineral nutrients help establish legumes seeded in the wheat.

Solution to Breakfast Problem

Having a problem getting the family up for breakfast? In this age of electronic miracles, the gadget shown above is suggested as a logical solution.

It will arouse the sleeper, in more ways than one, but once up, he can help establish good eating habits for the family.

Strong measures (maybe not to the extent shown above) are necessary, according to leading doctors and nutritionists who have studied the subject, to insure that breakfast will not be the day's most neglected meal.

Breakfast, according to those diet authorities, should supply about one-fourth to one-third of the daily food requirements. They point out that the "let's skip breakfast" people prove to be less alert, less efficient and more susceptible to fatigue than those who eat a good morning meal.

The human body is so constructed that for maximum health it requires fairly even intakes of food at regular intervals. You can't make up for the lack of a good breakfast.

People who are troubled in holding the right weight should eat a good breakfast. If they neglect breakfast they may eat too hearty a lunch or dinner. And they just might have a snack or two between meals.

What constitutes a good breakfast? The foods essential to the day's first meal include fruit or fruit juice, cereal, milk or other beverage, and several slices of toast. Eggs and breakfast meat frequently should be included.

These foods are necessary both for children and adults. They supply the nutrients essential for the physical and mental stimulus for work—and play.

More Sows to Farrow This Spring

The number of sows to farrow spring litters in Indiana this year is expected to be 508,000, eight percent more than the number which farrowed last spring, according to state-federal agricultural statisticians at Purdue University.

Those farrowing during the period of Dec. 1958 through Feb. 1959, totaled 304,000, one percent more than during the same period a year ago and 34 percent larger than the 10-year (1948-57) average. This shows the trend to earlier farrowing continues, the statisticians explain.

The statisticians report that farrowings for the March-May period are expected to be up 17 percent over the same period of 1958. And another increase is expected during the June-August period. Some 348,000 sows—an increase of two percent—are expected to farrow during that period.

The March 1 inventory number of all hogs on Indiana farms is estimated at 4,918,000, eight percent more than a year ago. Hogs six months or older totaled 1,383,000, 11 percent more than the March 1, 1958 total. Breeding stock and market hogs are included in this total. The statisticians report the March 1 number of hogs under six months of age to be 3,535,000, seven percent larger than a year ago.

FARR TO ADDRESS CATTLE FEEDERS

One of the West's largest cattle feeders, W. D. Farr, Greeley, Colo., will discuss the future of the industry at Indiana Cattle Feeders' Day, April 24, at Purdue University.

Farr, vice-president of Farr Farms Co., feeds from 10,000 to 20,000 cattle annually. The company owns the cattle fed in a long-time family enterprise. It also maintains a feed mixing mill on the ranch.

Farr will discuss "Future Developments in Cattle Feeding" on a program beginning at 1 p. m., CST, in the Livestock judging pavilion on the Purdue campus.

Three Purdue staff members will participate in the afternoon program of which Wendell Morton, Lebanon, vice-president of the Indiana Cattle Feeders' Association, will be chairman.

Purdue University animal scientists say feet of ewes should be inspected for foot rot before the animals are turned into spring pasture. If foot rot is found, the hooves should be trimmed and the sheep walked through a copper sulfate foot bath at least once a week.

Facts On Tree Fertilization

If you are like most homeowners you're probably concerned with when, how often and how much to fertilize your shade and ornamental trees.

H. W. Gilbert, Purdue University extension landscape architect, says answers to these fertilization questions depend on the tree and the conditions under which it is growing. But there are a few general rules that can serve as a guide.

Fertilizer can be used to push growth of a young tree where quick development and shade are desired. Once a tree has established itself, fertilizer will help it to grow vigorously toward its natural size.

If a tree is as large as you want it and appears to be healthy, there is no need to fertilize it, according to Gilbert. Fertilization can help a tree recover if it has been injured or attacked by insects or disease, or if it shows symptoms of a general loss of vigor such as sparse foliage, light green or yellow leaves, or die-back or twig tips. A general unhealthy condition may indicate a tree is not receiving sufficient nutrients.

Two pounds of a complete chemical fertilizer such as 10-8-6 or 10-6-4 for each inch of trunk thickness (diameter) is a good general rule. This is a minimum recommendation and more can be used in many situations. With newer-type concentrated nutrients, Gilbert says to follow directions of the manufacturer. Generally, less fertilizer is needed where the tree grows in sandy loam, more if it grows in a heavy clay soil. March is a good month to fertilize established trees.

Best method of application is to place the fertilizer in holes drilled around the tree, a foot or more deep, a foot apart, and about half way between the trunk and the farthest branch spread. The fertilizer can be spread over the ground beneath the branch spread and then soaked deeply into the soil.

For most trees, spring is a good season to fertilize, according to Gilbert. A reputable arborist or nurseryman can help you with special problems.

Early seeding of oats is wise if the ground dries out enough to permit it. State-wide Purdue University trials showed an average one bushel increase in yield for each three pounds of actual nitrogen applied up to about twenty pounds an acre.

Purdue University poultry scientists recommend brooding chicks at least 300 feet from adult chickens and on grounds uncontaminated with poultry manure. This will reduce the risk of the chicks contracting leucosis.

Classes Enjoy Roman Banquet

The 9th and 10th Latin classes of Mentone high school and their teacher, Mrs. Caldwell, entertained 22 former Latin students in the 11th and 12th grades, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick, and Mr. Caldwell, at a Roman banquet, Monday evening in the school cafeteria.

The guests were guided across the threshold "Pede Dextra" by head slave, Larry Man-waring. Mitchell Tucker served as the Roman host, and George Istok was the priest who offered prayers to the gods.

"MACY" NELSON JOINS MANWARING HATCHERY

Harold ("Macy") Nelson, for the past six years the Indiana representative for one of Michigan's largest broiler, turkey, and franchise leghorn hatcheries, has joined Manwaring Leghorn Farms, Mentone, to direct sales and service in Northern Indiana and Western Michigan where Manwaring is the authorized producer, distributor of, KimberChiks.

The photo at the left shows the front cover of Hatchery and Feed Magazine for the month of April. The entire story is told in three full pages of the magazine. The story is illustrated with a number of interior photos and a floor plan of the building.

The story was written by Robert L. Hogue, executive secretary of the Indiana State Poultry Association. Mr. Hogue will be remembered by many in this area as he spent many years as manager of the Bashore Feed and Hatchery business in the Silver Lake area.

A part of the magazine story follows.

Forty-eight years in the poultry business and enthusiastic, optimistic about the future—that is the Manwaring Leghorn Farm, Mentone, Ind. This firm celebrated its 48th year in business recently by holding an open-house in its new, modern hatchery building covering over 11,000 square feet of floor space.

The Manwaring name has been known in the northern Indiana egg area all of these years. Also, it is known nationally as a former ROP breeder organization producing White Leghorns.

The third generation is actively involved in the current Manwaring operation and the fourth generation is beginning to take an active part.

The business was started in 1911 by Art Manwaring and later his son, Chester Manwaring, past president of the Indiana State Poultry Association, joined him. Three nephews, Charles, Miles and Richard Manwaring then joined the operation and comprise the present management.

Drugs should be carefully mixed to insure uniform distribution in feed, Purdue University biochemists point out. They advise following feeding directions in the use of medicated feeds.

Baby pigs should have their needle teeth clipped early and their ears notched for identification, Purdue University veterinarians point out. Iron compounds should be supplied to prevent anemia.

Prune Grapevines Now.

Now that the danger of severe winter temperatures has passed, backyard grape growers should begin pruning their vines.

Jerome Hull, Purdue University extension horticulturist, cautions against too severe pruning. He adds that pruning shears should be used to perform the operation.

Most backyard vines grow on a two wire trellis for the owner's convenience. Four canes (two on each wire, training in opposite directions) should be left. Eight to 10 buds should remain on them. All other canes should be cut back to the main trunk of the vine.

With this type pruning, Hull explains, no summer pruning is necessary.

Occasionally, bleeding, or flow of sap, from the cuts will be observed. Hull says this should not concern the grower since it does not injure the plant.

Chamber of Commerce News

By M. O. Mentzer

The Mentone Chamber of Commerce recently received information from the State Highway Commission relative to the proposed relocation of State Road 19 from Mentone to Nappanee.

The proposal indicates the road will go directly north thru Mentone and at the north edge of the city will angle slightly to the east to the section line and then directly north past Etna Green. There will be another bridge over the Tippecanoe river and possibly an overpass and interchange at U. S. Highway 30.

The Commission writes:

The improvement as now programmed will provide for a 40 foot curb and gutter pavement on the existing 80 ft. right-of-way in Mentone for a distance of one-fourth mile. The next 13½ miles is to be a 22 ft. roadway on an 80 ft right-of-way constructed on a new location east of the present road. The next five miles will follow the present route of S. R. 19 and will include shoulder widening, drainage structures, and resurfacing of the present road with some additional right-of-way being required. The south 0.4 mile in Nappanee is to be widened to a 40 ft. curb and gutter pavement. No change will be required on the north 0.2 mile in Nappanee.

The field survey for this highway improvement has not yet been started, and work on the construction of the road has not been included in the 1959 construction program.

Please understand that the present proposals are subject to change when the field survey is completed and design plans are developed for the road.

Engineer

Local Essay In State Contest

The following essay was written by Connie Teel, age 9, of Mentone, to be entered in a contest sponsored by the American Legion Auxiliary.

The Junior Auxiliary entered a doll dressed by the girls in the six to twelve year old bracket. Connie wrote the history to go with the doll. They won first prize at the district contest and will now be entered into the state contest.

OUR NEIGHBORS By Connie Teel

This year our Junior Auxiliary Unit of Mentone American Legion Auxiliary 425 has been studying the Pan American Country of El Salvador.

El Salvador means "Saviour" and San Salvador, the Capitol of El Salvador means "Holy Saviour."

The country which was founded in 1925 has a large population of small people who speak Spanish.

El Salvador is almost directly south of St. Louis, Missouri and is the smallest of the Central American Countries. It is noted for its beautiful and dangerous volcanoes.

The Capitol, San Salvador lies in a valley surrounded by hills and has beautiful Cathedrals.

The people of El Salvador are very religious and mostly of the Catholic Faith.

Each home has its own garden and the people grow many flowers. Orchids are common flowers.

The National flower is the white blossom of the Coffee tree.
June to October is the rainy season, July and August being called Winter. The rainfall is the heaviest at this time. November to April is summer time and the dry season.

Coffee is the main product of the land. The people make pottery and dolls of clay.

There is a variety of climate as along the coast it is very hot while in the uplands it is moderately warm. In the upper mountains it is cool.

Each year a Fiesta is held in July or August as the people love to dance. Folk dances are popular.

The National Flag has two blue strips and a strip of white.
In the center of the white band is the motto "God, Union, Liberty" printed in Spanish.

El Salvador is a country which needs our help and understanding, so let's not forget Pan American Day April 14th and our neighbors to the South.

The Travelers Insurance Companies studies show that exceeding the speed limit caused 12, 770 deaths and 980,000 injuries during 1958 on our highways.

BETTER DAUGHTERS MEET

On April 6th, the Beaver Dam Better Daughters met at the home of Betty Bibler. Bea and Patty Walsh and Dixie Bergstrom served as co-hostesses.

Pledges were led by Mercedes Murico and Diana Flenar. The roll call was answered by our favorite April fool joke. The secretary's report was given by Bea Walsh and the treasurer's report by Rita Lockridge. The old business was planning our mother and daughter tea which will be May 4. The new business was choosing someone to go to the Purdue Roundup. It was decided that Betty Smith will represent our club.

Demonstrations were given by Patty Walsh on "Potato Chip Cookies," Bea Walsh on "Frosty Orange Floats" and Dixie Bergstrom on "How to Put in a Zipper."

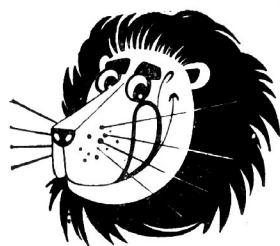

Songs were led by Betty Bibler and recreation by Betty Smith. There were 25 members, five mothers and one leader present.

The next meeting will be our mothers' tea at the Akron library.

PLASTIC BAGS INNOCENT BUT DANGEROUS

Recently four young children suffocated in Phoenix, Arizona while playing with plastic bags used to protect drycleaning. The youngsters got them over their heads and were suffocated.

There's nothing wrong with the use of the bags for their intended purpose, but destroy them before they can get in the hands of unsuspecting children.

Plastic bags, like many of the synthetic substances today, develop static electricity easily and cling to anything that may have to have an opposite charge. They are also extremely tough and it takes considerable effort to tear one unless the surface is broken.

There were 24,830 pedestrians injured crossing intersections with the signal in their favor during 1958 in the United States.

Doctors Urging Medical Survey

The following news release and resolution has been submitted by the County Medical Society:

In view of the increasing interest by citizens of Kosciusko county in the hospital and general health facilities in the county, the Kosciusko County Medical Society held a special meeting during the past week to consider these matters. Due to the increasing population, influx of new industry, and recent advances in medical care in the United States, the physicians took a rather searching view of present county health facilities. After a lengthy discussion, it was decided unanimously that no local group could adequately examine and make proper recommendations for the present and future health and hospital requirements for good medical care in the county. It was agreed that only a competent survey team could do the job properly. It was pointed out that such a survey has been performed in two adjoining counties in the past five years with excellent results. Since two groups of citizens in the county are considering the sponsoring of such a survey group, the assembled doctors felt that it should be made public that the medical society is wholeheartedly in favor of such a survey and feels that one is definitely needed. Consequently, the following resolution was adopted unanimously:

It is hereby resolved by the Kosciusko County Medical Society that in view of the continued population increase in our county and the influx of new industry, a comprehensive survey by a competent survey company of county and city health and hospital needs is desirable in order to best provide for the health of our citizens in the next few years.

Reduce Hog Shrinkage

Farm to market hog shrinkage, costly to Indiana pork producers, can be reduced.

To determine shrinkage of hogs in transit, Purdue University agricultural economists T.
T. Stout and C. B. Cox and animal scientist J. R. Wiley stud-ed the problem for 17 months.

The Purdue staff members found that hogs lose from less than one half of one percent to four percent weight between feedlot and holding pens. An average three percent shrink represents about a $1.25 loss on each 220 lb. hog at $17 prices.

Data collected on nearly 300 loads of hogs further revealed that the most rapid rate of the shrinkage occurs early in the haul.

Time, rather than distance, is the determining factor of shrinkage, since it is the total time hogs are exposed to a strange environment and are away from feed and water that causes the shrinkage.

How can Indiana hog producers cut weight loss in shipping?

The Purdue staff members list the major causes of shrinkage and offer suggestions to reduce shrinkage.

First, overloading and under-loading affect the amount of shrink. Loading at 25 percent below or 15 percent above the recommended capacity may increase minimum shrink by 15 percent. Therefore, haul at truck capacity. Hogs should also be loaded easily and carefully to minimize excitement.

Extreme temperatures and humidity affect shrinkage. The most favorable temperatures for hauling hogs range between 20 and 60 degrees. If the producer ships in hot weather, he may make provisions for cooling the animals—the use of wet sand for bedding is a common practice.

If hogs are fed at the market,
the farmer who holds off feed seven hours or more before loading can expect his hogs to weigh more when sold than they did before shipment.

Some shrink will always occur in marketing hogs, but careful shipping precautions can eliminate much unnecessary loss.
Don't forget these precautions just because the haul is short, the Purdue staff members emphasize.

Fertilize Lawns In Spring

Homeowners can meet minimum lawn maintenance standards by fertilizing the yard twice a year—spring and fall, says a Purdue University turf specialist.

W. H. Daniel gives lawn maintenance pointers in Purdue extension Circular 438, "The Lawn," which Indiana residents may obtain free by writing the agricultural publications office,

Purdue University, Lafayette, Indiana.

Daniel points out that all Indiana lawn soils are deficient in nitrogen; a few are short on phosphorus and most need potash.

"For bluegrass or mixed grass lawns, fertilizing in the spring is usually considered minimum management," he asserts.

Recommended rates of fertilization are listed. The circular also takes up such subjects as re-seeding, what to do about crabgrass, chickweed and knotweed infestations and insect control.

Controlled Grazing Pays

Production of many Indiana dairy herds fell below average most of the recent winter because of limited supplies of quality forage, says G. A. Williams, Purdue University extension dairyman.

Poorly managed pastures cause low production, and reduced income during the soon-to-arrive grazing season, Williams adds. For the majority of dairymen abundant pastures furnish the simplest method of providing forage.

Experiments with grazing cattle by Purdue's dairy department reveal that milking cows will consume 200-350 pounds of green grass daily when supply and quality are maintained. Such intakes will support milk production levels of 40-60 lbs. daily, Williams asserts.

Comparatively low milk yields when all-forage rations are fed, may be the result of a low voluntary consumption rate. Cows on well-managed pasture readily consume an average of four pounds of dry matter per 100 pounds live weight every 24 hours; whereas, cows fed good quality hay and grass silage consume only 2.5 pounds of dry matter for each 100 pounds of body weight.

The quality of forage consumed while cows are grazing has a marked effect on daily consumption. The consumption may decrease from 53 pounds to 33 pounds daily as a result of forcing animals to eat the lower portion of the plant.

A given acreage divided into small areas, moving the herd frequently to a new area, then clipping the pasture and giving new growth time to develop before repasturing, results in more milk per acre than allowing the herd to have access to the entire area continually. The milk increase may amount to as much as 200 percent more than when pasturing is not controlled. The herd often wastes as much grass as they eat the first few days after being turned into a new area.

Expect Lower Farm Prices

Purdue University agricultural economists predict that farm prices generally will average lower this year than in 1958 because of larger market supplies.

In support of their position, the economists point out that during the first two months of 1959 farmers received six percent less for their products than a year ago while they paid two percent more for production items.

For hog raisers the economists had better news. The next several weeks should bring the start of higher hog prices continuing until the peak is reached about June.

But, cattle feeders are warned not to push their luck by holding finished cattle too long. Fed cattle prices are more apt to weaken than to strengthen during the next three months.

Sell soybeans on any temporary price increase, the economists advise.

While broiler prices are expected to remain steady for the next few weeks, declines may develop in May.

Lower egg prices are ahead too.

Unchanged dairy products price supports, coupled with lower Indiana milk production, may result in slightly higher milk prices in the coming months.

A tomato canning acreage decrease is in prospect, with steady to lower prices in contract terms expected. Cannors hold large stocks of tomatoes and tomato products.

Reduced acreage may result in strengthened white potato prices, according to the economists.

Get A Good Corn Stand

Do you want to harvest an extra 1,000 bushels of corn from each 40 acres you raise this year?

Jim Morrow, Purdue University extension agronomist, says it can be done. How? Get a good stand of young corn this spring.

Assuming adequate drainage and reasonably good soil fertility and tillage, Morrow lists these fundamentals in obtaining a good stand.

Have the planter in first rate condition and adjustment.

Use a split boot attachment to place not more than 30 pounds of nitrogen and potash an acre in the row.

Keep driving speed under three miles an hour. (Two miles an hour would be better.)

If a farmer drives six or seven miles an hour when planting, Morrow recommends using the modern side banding fertilizer applicator.

Basic Weather Change Patterns

Weather generally repeats itself over a period of several days according to a general pattern of events, says James Newman, agricultural climatologist at Purdue University. This pattern is called the "basic weather cycle."

Newman points out that it is the complete passing of a high and low pressure system. If you keep this in mind, it's easier to interpret Five Day weather forecasts.

Generally, within a high pressure system a fair or scattered cloudy sky prevails, while within a low pressure system it is usually cloudy with frontal activities. A low pressure system is usually located between two high pressure systems.

The barometric pressure drops as a high departs and a low approaches. A sharp rise in pressure often occurs as the center of a low departs. This usually marks the arrival of cold air, or the so-called cold front. Usually barometric pressure rises sharply immediately after the passing of a cold front and continues to rise while the next high pressure system approaches.

Newman says that if weather associated with the passing of a cold front occurs about every three days, this means that the basic weather cycle is about three days long. The time between cold front passages may vary from one to ten days, depending on the season.

For example, cold front weather passes more rapidly in the late winter and early spring. From mid to later summer there may be less than one a week. During the spring and autumn cold fronts may pass about twice a week in Indiana.

Chamber of Commerce News

By M. O. Mentzer

The object of the Chamber of Commerce as I understand it is to make this community a better place in which to live and carry on business and social activities.

With this thought in view we shall from time to time give an account of the new ventures and the improvements to the present established industries.

The Mollenhour Lumber and Manufacturing business owned and operated by C. O. Mollenhour which burned during the past winter has now been rebuilt with a building 40x60 ft. of steel construction with aluminum siding and roof.

They will manufacture pallets and furniture stock for one of the factories in Nappanee, also runners for feeders for Warner Brothers of North Manchester. The business is quite flexible and can easily be converted to other uses.

Native raw material will be used at the present time, a small force of 7 people will be used at this time but plans are in progress for additional help in the future.

Chauncey Mollenhour who has been identified with this company over the years plans at least semi-retirement, and the business will be conducted by his daughter, Mrs. Mary Shirley and son-in-law, Dale Wallace. Chauncey says between fishing trips he will be looking over their shoulders.

Following a wedding reception held at the bride's parents, the young couple took a trip to Michigan and Canada. They will reside in Mentone.

ASKS DAMAGES

A news release states that Loretta L. Dreyer, South Bend, asks damages of $20,00 in a complaint filed against H. V. Johns. The plaintiff alleges negligence on the part of the defendant as the result of an auto collision near South Bend, Sept. 9, 1957. She contends she was a passenger in a vehicle operated by her husband, which had stopped at a traffic signal, when a vehicle operated by the defendant collided with the Dreyer car. The plaintiff asks damages for alleged injuries and requests a trial by jury.

Today Mr. Johns stated that both autos were approaching the stoplight when the change was taking place and the Dreyer auto stopped suddenly. The only damage to the auto and ambulance was a bent bumper, and there were no apparent physical injuries to anyone.

Farm Machinery Highway Safety

Traveling at 70 miles an hour, the car reached the crest of the hill when its driver saw the farm tractor and wagon just ahead.

Tragedy followed; the driver of the car could not stop in time. Passing had been impossible since a truck was meeting the tractor in the opposite lane at the same time.

F. R. Willsey, Purdue University's farm safety specialist, says such accidents are not unusual on Indiana highways. In view of this, he urges farmers to use extra caution when on the roads with their tractors and farm implements.

Nobody would park his car on a highway, Willsey asserts. But, he says a farm tractor traveling 8-10 miles an hour is virtually parked compared to other vehicles moving 60-70 miles an hour.

Before going out on the highway with tractors or self-propelled machines, farmers should attach a red flag in a spot visible to other vehicles. The flag can be placed high enough to attract attention over the brow of the hill and also serve as a special warning on a level road.

Stationing someone at the top of the hill to slow down traffic may be the only really safe way to prevent an accident. In some cases — but not always — the farmer can pull the tractor off the road onto the berm.

Willsey also cautions farmers not to drive their tractors at excessive speeds even though it may lessen the chances of being struck from behind. As the speed of the tractor increases so does the likelihood of tipping over, he says.

"And, just because accidents haven't happened when you've driven the tractor on the highway is no sign they can't," he adds.

Mrs. Edith Young, president, conducted the business session.
Roll Call found 12 members present, all reports were given and recorded. Bills were allowed. A report of the party given the Veterans at the Veterans hospital Friday, April 10, was given by those attending.

Several items of interest were discussed. Our children for example:

We have in America the most intelligent, the most perfect physically and the most beautiful children in the world. Our standard of living is beyond comparison and our opportunities and privileges are without limit. But we also have one of the highest rates of juvenile delinquency, one of the highest rates of murder by teenagers and the largest number of reformatories and prisons in the world. Where are we failing our children? We can talk peace, spend thousands of dollars in foreign aid, promote propaganda for peace, establish large military forces, build schools to train great brains, but if we do not convince our children we love them, that they are the most important part of our lives and that in their hands rests the future of America we will have failed and our sons will have fought and died in vain.

We mothers have learned by experience what it means to lose our sons or to have them returned to us maimed and disfigured. Therefore, we have a greater responsibility to the present children of America.

Closed with the usual closing ceremony. The hostess served lovely refreshments. A social program followed.

H. D. Club Anniversary

The Mentone Home Demonstration club celebrated its twenty-fifth anniversary at a dinner meeting Wednesday evening, April 22 at the Steer Inn.
A delicious steak dinner was corated table. Devotions were given by Mrs. Melissa Unzicker.

After everyone had done justice dent, Mrs. Darrell Tucker, welcomed the eighteen members and nine guests who attended.

Mrs. Howard Horn gave a short history of the club. The ladies were favored with several piano duets by Miss Janet Beeson and Miss Janice Davis.

Janice Davis gave a humorous reading which was enjoyed by all. Mr. Donnbeck, a chalk artist of Winona Lake, drew a beautiful picture of Heaven.

niversary Waltz.

The meeting was closed by singing the club prayer song.

ORDAINED AT MENTONE BAPTIST CHURCH

Rev. Fred O. Burklin was set apart to the work of the Gospel Ministry in an ordination service held at the First Baptist church of Mentone, Indiana on Tuesday, April 21.

Rev. Burklin is a member of First Baptist Church who will graduate from Grace Theological Seminary in Winona Lake this spring. He is the son of Rev. and Mrs. Gustav H. Burklin of Germany and was born in China where his parents were serving as missionaries. He plans to take post-graduate work at the Westminster Seminary in Philadelphia after which he will return to Germany to serve as a professor in the German Bible Institute, a school of the Greater Europe Mission. Rev. Burklin is married and has one child, Walter Gustav.

A council of 22 pastors and messengers from Baptist Churches in this area examined Rev. Burklin prior to his ordination and unanimously recommended that the church proceed with the ordination. Dr. John C. Wittcomb, professor of Old Testament at Grace Seminary, preached the ordination sermon.

Mrs. Max Friesner and her mother, Mrs. Jerry Clingenpeel, were in Fort Wayne Monday, shopping.

To Boost Egg Profits

One way to help offset the high cost of raising replacement pullets and the comparatively low price received for old hens is to stretch the laying year through the use of a summer laying shelter.

Joe W. Sicer, Purdue University extension poultryman, points out that yearly hens of superior breeding can be kept in production late into the fall and through the period of anticipated good egg prices if satisfactory housing conditions are available. Often these hens must be sold in mid-summer to make room for the new flock of pullets even though the hens are capable of three to six months more egg production.

A summer laying shelter provides cheap housing for this additional period. It may be an inexpensive pole structure with wire sides and an overhanging roof, Sicer says. Or an unused shed or other building also may be converted into a laying shelter.

Sicer emphasizes that the hens should be moved into the shelter not later than the first part of June. While they still have the spring urge to lay eggs, the hens can usually be moved without much danger of throwing them into a molt. If moved later, the hen will almost certainly be thrown out of production, he adds.

Rations for the hens should be supplemented with pellets, condensed milk or other encouragements to lay more during the summer, Sicer advises. Lights in the shelter should be turned on in September.

When the weather gets cold, the wire sides of the shelter can be covered with kraft paper. Profitable production may be maintained until November, when the hens should be sold.

Meanwhile, the regular laying house can be made ready for the pullets to occupy as soon as they start to lay. Thus, it's possible to have two flocks in production during the months of highest egg prices, Sicer asserts.

Don't roll your lawn when the soil is wet, warn Purdue University horticulturists. A light roller should be used and then only when necessary.

Safety On The Water

The vacation season is nearing and many will be spending much time on the lakes and rivers of our county. Everyone that goes into or upon the water should know a few of the fundamental facts of water safety. Sunday a young man from Elwood lost his life in Beaver Dam lake while attempting to sail a boat not constructed for sailing.

Overloading of a boat is one of the worst dangers, and another is when someone tries to use an outboard motor too large for the boat. Each year many lose their lives because they do not match the boat to the motor. Most of us have seen outboard-powered boats "galloping" over a lake like a runaway horse. A sharp turn and the boat overturns. This is caused primarily because the boat was constructed for slow speed and has a slight downward curve in the keel or bottom at the center. When a heavy motor is attached the rear of the boat settles lower in the water and the bow raises, and the boat hits the water at a more abrupt angle, causing it to pitch into the air. Boats that are built for more speed have a flatter, or even a concave in the center of the keel.

In rough water or waves, the ordinary rowboat with flat sides will swamp quickly if permitted to get crosswise to the waves. To ride rough water a boat must have a partially rounded bottom so it will ride over the waves. Any boat used for sailing must be shaped to counteract the side thrust of a sail. The center of gravity, also, must be low in the water, and generally a weighted keel is necessary.

Another dangerous practice with a powered boat is to be at full speed and then suddenly cut the throttle. The boat slows suddenly and the wake comes in over the transom.

Indiana law now requires a life preserver for every passenger in a boat, but just having them in a boat isn't sufficient. Last summer a man got into my boat with a seat-type preserver on his back, with his arms inserted in the loops. If he had fallen into the water he would have had to have been an expert swimmer to have kept from drowning. It would have held him suspended in the water face down. If you wear this type of preserver, keep it on your chest where it will do you some good, and if need be you can get out of it in the water. And for water skiing, I believe all should use a preserver.

Never leave an overturned boat unless help is near at hand. Most boats, oars, etc. will hold a person above water for a long time.

Try your boat in shallow water before venturing into the deep. Never permit children in a boat without a life jacket securely strapped to them.

Life is short enough without an accident making it shorter. Water recreation is great sport and can be safe. It all depends upon you.

To Maintain Grass Waterways

An extension agricultural engineer at Purdue University offers timely suggestions for farmers in caring for grass waterways.

Don Sisson says if waterways—a vital phase of excess water disposal—are to continue to do a good job they'll need maintenance this spring. They are most critical on rolling land.

Sisson says that old, broken and inefficient tile should be replaced. The new tile should be placed at one side of and at a depth of at least three feet below the bottom of the waterway. The engineer explains that tile may be needed to drain the waterways that remain wet.

Nitrogen fertilizer or manure should be applied to the waterway in March or April. The area should be mowed or controlled grazing practiced to encourage a dense grass cover. "Don't allow grazing on waterways when the ground is soft, Sisson advises.

"Be on the lookout for small rills or breaks that may start a gully. If any are found, repair them immediately by tamping in grass sod from a fence row. If the old waterway has filled with silt and gullies are forming outside the old waterway, you may have to build a new waterway.

"Remove limbs and other debris that has collected in waterways. And don't use waterways as roadways," Sisson adds.

Plows should be tripped and disks straightened when crossing waterways. It is best to plow at right angles rather than parallel to waterways. Too, waterways should be left at least 20 feet wide. A good rule of thumb is to leave the waterway 10 feet wide plus an additional foot for each acre of drainage area.

Castrating and docking of lambs should be done when they are small and under sanitary conditions to prevent infection of the wounds, Purdue University veterinarians advise.

Indiana farmers plan to plant 5,280,000 acres of corn this year, state-federal agricultural statisticians at Purdue University report. This will be the largest corn acreage in Indiana since 1923.

Indiana's 1959 watermelon acreage will be the smallest since 1952 if planting intentions are realized. State-federal agricultural statisticians at Purdue University report Hoosier growers intend to plant 6,200 acres, an 18 percent decrease from 1958.

Good pastures during May and June supply liberal amounts of protein, thus reducing the percentage of protein required in the grain ration, Purdue University dairy scientists say.

By Sherry Babcock

Ronald D. Malott, principal of the Beaver Dam school, today announced the honor pupils of the 1959 graduating class.

The valedictorian of the class is Margaret Baugher and the salutatorian is Marilyn Horn.

Margaret is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Baugher of Burket, and Marilyn is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Horn of R. R. 1, Mentone.

Margaret is the editor of the Beaver Dam Ripples and the Beaver Dam Beacon. She is senior class secretary and was the class president during her sophomore year. Margaret was chosen by the student body to be "Miss Beaver Dam" at the North Webster Mermaid Festival to be held this summer. She also received the D. A. R. and the Betty Crocker Awards.

Marilyn has participated in the school chorus and school band for several years and has been very active in 4-H work. She was a member of the yearbook staff and the staff of the school paper. Marilyn will attend the David Lipscomb college in Nashville, Tennessee, this coming fall.

Commencement exercises will be held at 8:00 p.m. Wednesday May 20, in the Beaver Dam Gymnasium for the thirteen prospective graduates. The speaker for the evening will be Charles A. Henry, Assistant Director of Admissions at Purdue University.

The baccalaureate services will be held at 3:00 p.m. Sunday, May 17, at the Beaver Dam School.

The Junior-senior banquet will be held on Friday night, May 8.

The annual alumni banquet will be held at the school the night of May 11.

The awards night will be the regular P. T. A. meeting that is scheduled for Wednesday night, May 13.

The seniors will leave on a nine-day trip Saturday morning, May 23 with the Miller Tours. They will leave the Beaver Dam School at 6:45. They will then meet the Urbana seniors who will accompany them on the trip. George Green and Don Adams will be the trip sponsors. Prospective members of the 1959 graduating class are: Jim Adams, Margaret Baugher, Patricia Holloway, Marilyn Horn, Dora Kelley, Carolyn Miller, Robert Stackhouse, Michael Summe, Ronald Swick, Max Ummel, Carol Welty, Merle Warren, and William Whetstone.

The 1959 Beaver Dam Becons have arrived and are all sold. The class of 1959 dedicated their yearbook to Fred Haney who has taught school for thirty years of which fifteen have been taught at Beaver Dam.

Spittlebug Control Methods

Meadow spittlebugs have hatched in southern Indiana alfalfa and clover fields and are beginning to hatch in central and northern areas.

M. C. Wilson, research entomologist at Purdue University, reports heaviest infestations presently occur in areas south-east of Indianapolis. There nymphal counts average 3 to 4 per stem. Average counts of one or more spittlebugs per stem warrant control treatments.

Spittlebug control is more effective when insecticides are applied within ten days after eggs begin to hatch. Now is the best time to spray those infested fields in southern counties before further crop loss occurs.

The tiny spittlebugs feed on alfalfa and clover by sucking juices from the plant stems. This feeding activity causes stunting and abnormal plant growth that often results in a 20 to 50 percent loss in yield. Yield loss can be prevented by timely application of recommended insecticides, according to Dave Matthews, Purdue extension entomologist. They are Lindane, Methoxychlor, Benzene hexachloride and Heptachlor.

Seward Farm Bureau Meets

The Seward Township Farm Bureau held its meeting on April 21 at the Burket gym. Mrs. Murphy led group singing with Mrs. Arthur Gable at the piano. Devotions were given by Mrs. Deverl Jamison.

Mrs. Murphy announced that contributions to the Modlin fund, Pennies for Friendship, and International Goodwill are due this month, and briefly explained each fund. Mrs. Jamison moved and Mrs. Gable seconded that the treasurer pay $5.00 to the Modlin Fund, $2 to Pennies for Friendship, and $1 to International Goodwill. The motion passed by vote.

Mrs. Murphy read the speech given by Mrs. Russell Baker of Cass County which won the women's public speaking contest at the recent women's conference in Indianapolis.

The Pet and Hobby Club was dismissed to meet their leader, Mrs. Will Steller.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved. As of March 16, 1959, the balance in the treasury was $197.09.

Chairman Oren Murphy then introduced Roy Merkle of Clay Township, a member of the Co. Local Affairs Committee. Mr. Merkle discussed the hospital situation in the county and the proposed county zoning. He reported there is a feeling by some that a survey is needed to find out what we need in hospital facilities.

On county zoning, Mr. Merkle explained how it would work and how it would affect farmers. He said the time to get county zoning is before you need it—after you need it, it is too late!

Then Chairman Murphy introduced Sam Knoop, County Farm Bureau Chairman and a member of Mentone Producers Advisory Committee. Mr. Knoop displayed a map showing location of the 14 Producer branch markets and other facilities. He gave a brief history of the Mentone Branch, told how the market operates, discussed the lamb pools, and explained the new Producer Feeder Pig set up.

Mrs. Murphy, the women's leader, announced that the amateur contest will be held next month.

The meeting adjourned at 9:25 p. m. for refreshments.

Many To See Scout-O-Rama

Advance ticket sales indicate that more than fifteen thousand people will attend the 1959 Scout-O-Rama to be presented at the Elkhart's Northside Gym by the Pioneer Trails Council on May 1 and 2.

Mr. Charles Jackson of Elkhart, Chairman of ticket sales, reports that sales are very strong this year. He also reported that several Scouts have sold over 200 tickets the first 15 days after the tickets were distributed. "The prizes awarded for ticket sales are serving as a strong incentive for the boys to try their salesmanship," said Mr. Jackson.

The Scout-O-Rama is an activity filled panorama of colorful booth exhibits and demonstrations presented by Cubs, Scouts, and Explorers for the purpose of giving the public an increased understanding of the wealth of program available to all phases of Scouting. Anyone may purchase tickets from any Cub Scout, or Explorer in their neighborhood.

Weed Killers For Strawberries

If you are planting a strawberry patch this spring, you may want to consider using herbicides to cut down on your hoeing time.

Sesone, also known as Crap Herbicide No 1 or SES, has proved highly effective for overcoming weed pests in many commercial strawberry plantings.

Jerome Hull Jr., Purdue University extension pomologist, says the first application of the herbicide should be made four to six weeks after planting. It should be applied following a thorough cultivation, since it destroys weed seedlings and not fully established weed plants. Applications may be repeated at about four-week intervals. Sesone, when properly used, may be applied as many as four times during the growing season without reducing fruit yield.

If you have a medium-loam soil, use the herbicide at the rate of three pounds of the commercial product in 30 to 50 gallons of water per acre of spraying area. A two-pound rate is recommended for light sandy soils while heavy soils should receive four pounds per acre.

For small areas, use one level tablespoon of Sesone in one gallon of water to cover 200 square feet of soil surface. Before extending the use of the material to the entire area, growers should familiarize themselves with the techniques of application in a small part of their planting. For further information on weed control in strawberries, ask your county agricultural agent for Mimeo HO 55-4, Chemical Weed Control in Strawberries.

TRANQUILIZERS FOR BEEF CATTLE

Feeding tranquilizers to fattening steers failed to significantly change their daily gain or feed efficiency, animal scientists at Purdue University reported today.

Dr. W. M. Beeson, acting head of Purdue's animal science department, told approximately 1,800 persons at Indiana Cattle Feeders' Day, that the tranquilizers had no marked effect on steers implanted with stilbestrol or fed antibiotics.

Research by Purdue's animal science department in 1958 indicated the tranquilizers improved both gain and feed efficiency. However, Dr. Beeson said today that on the basis of current experiments:

"Apparently the response of cattle to tranquilizers is not very consistent, and their value as a feed additive is questionable."

Runners of poultry range shelters should be placed on blocks to increase their life, according to Purdue University poultry scientists.
