COUNTERPOINT

By the Editor's Wife

Two ladies have called to say that they have lived in log houses. Mrs. E. E. Wagner, as a child in Michigan, lived in a log house. She recalls helping to daub mud in the cracks in the fall. She says that the children often hid apples or cookies in the chinks between the logs. Later on, after her marriage to Mr. Wagner, they lived in a log house near the Heptan school, near Millwood.

Mrs. Agnes Baker said that the log house she and Mr. Baker and family lived in was on the Ben Anderick farm, now owned by the Eldon Horns, east of Palestine. There was one room down and two upstairs, and the kitchen was a lean-to.

Mrs. Baker, who will be 82 years old this fall, stated, also, that she can remember when there was no town of Mentone. Tried my best to persuade her to jot down some of her memoirs for the rest of us to enjoy.

This is National Library Week, April 3 to 9. The slogan, "Wake Up, and Read." Which brings up the question, "Have you visited our fine new library?" It's yours, too, you know.

One certainly can talk too much. Remember the statement made by the writer of this column to the effect that she enjoyed shoveling snow? So the weatherman saw fit to make me eat my words — almost.

Then I began to growl about the debris in the yard, and everything in general so the editor has seen fit to get a small tractor - mower, with a small dump cart attachment. My only hope is that he will find the new equipment so fascinating that he will be responsible for "clean-up" on our acres.

We enjoyed this: A woman was bitten by a mad dog and was advised to make a will, because there was a possibility of rabies. She wrote furiously for two hours.

"It looks like an unusually long will," her lawyer said.

"Who's writing a will?" she snapped. "This is a list of the people I'm going to bite."

UNDERGOES SURGERY

Claud Barkman was admitted to the Woodlawn hospital in Rochester Sunday, and underwent surgery Tuesday morning.

Water Contracts
Are Approved

At the regular meeting of the Mentone town board, Monday evening, the trustees accepted all the bids for the improvement of the town water system. The total of all the contracts was $93,321.15.

The contracts were awarded in three divisions, as follows:

A contract for a 150,000 gallon elevated water storage tank was given to the Grover Tank & Mfg. Co., East Chicago, for $35,970.

Contract for the new and larger water mains was let to the Atkinson Welding Co., Zionsville, for $52,840.75.

Contract for a new well and pumping unit went to the Byron Lewis & Sons Co., of Cassopolis, Michigan for $4,510.40.

All the contracts are tentative, subject to the proposed sale of water works revenue bonds to provide the funds for the proposed improvements.

Plan Before You Plant

"Don't expect a perfect home flower garden in a single year," C. E. Hoxsie, Purdue University horticulturist cautions amateur gardeners. "Changes will have to be made from time to time to correct any planting errors made when the plants have bloomed for the first time."

Hoxsie's best advice to beginners — "Plan before you plant."

"A rough sketch of the garden area will suffice but a sketch to scale provides better forecast of your home flower garden," he points out.

A plan enables you to place materials to best advantage for their height, color and shape.
It serves as a guide to the location of plants that have died and must be moved.

FETE DISTRICT FFA MEMBERS

One hundred sixty FFA boys and guests from Fulton, Marshall, St. Joseph, Elkhart and Kosciusko counties were served a delicious ham supper by the Mentone FFA girls at the annual District II FFA Banquet which was held at the Mentone school Monday, April 4.

After the supper John Fredrick welcomed the FFA boys and the guests to the Mentone school for the evening. Dwayne Creamer, District II director, conducted the business session and presented awards to the following FFA chapters which had won in the district activities during this school year. Plymouth—State Chapter contest; Atwood—Chapter Meeting contest; New Carlisle—State Exhibit, Public Speaking and Essay contests; Milford—Cooperative award; Syracuse—Demonstration contest; Secretary Book and Treasure Book awards; New Paris—Talent contest; Bourbon—Crops contest; Bremen—Tool Identification contest; Mentone—Poultry contest and the Star District Hoosier Farmer Award.

Paul Nobbe, the state FFA president, gave a short talk on the importance of FFA and outlined the program for the State FFA convention which will be held at Purdue April 13-16.

Dwayne then closed the meeting and the group assembled in the gym for the District II Chapter Sweetheart Contest. Eight chapters had sweethearts who were judged on Talent, personality, beauty, poise and their knowledge of FFA. The Judges were Mrs. Pat Lucas, Girls 4-H leader of Kosciusko county; Mrs. Mary Ann Thompson, Home Demonstration Agent of Marshall county, and Paul Nobbe, State FFA president. The Sweethearts were Jeannine Witham, Atwood; Peg Kirkdorfer, New Paris; Mona Ross, Mentone; Dorothy Gardner, Plymouth, and Patsy Ullery, Walkerton. Miss Patsy Gushwa of Lapaz was the winner and Bob Beer, District Vice-President, presented the winning plaque and the district will pay $15 for Miss Gushwa to attend the State FFA convention.

Cash Farm Receipts Down

Indiana farmers received an estimated 1,028 million dollars from 1959 marketings, six percent less than the 1958 total, state-federal agricultural statisticians at Purdue University report.

Indiana ranks eighth in the nation in total cash receipts from farm marketings, and 1959 was the ninth consecutive year this figure has exceeded a billion dollars.

Realized net income per farm, however, declined 20 percent from the 1958 average. The 1959 realized net income per farm, including government payments, averaged $2,188, compared to the $2,736 average in 1958.

Gross operating expenses last year averaged $5,827, three percent higher than in 1958, while realized gross income averaged $8,015, four percent below the 1958 figure.

Cash receipts from sale of livestock and livestock products declined 13 percent last year. These more than offset the 11 percent increase in cash receipts from crops. Livestock and livestock products accounted for nearly two-thirds of the total cash receipts.

Direct government payments to farmers totaled 17 million dollars last year, less than one-half of the 1958 total. This resulted from the elimination of the Acreage Reserve program of the Soil Bank.

Greatest increase in farmers' production expenses came from capital depreciation, repairs and operating costs, the statisticians say.

Cockle burrs in corn cob litter are harmful to birds of any age, but particularly young chicks, report Purdue University poultry scientists. Chicks often choke trying to swallow the burrs.

A HISTORY OF MENTONE

By M. O. MENTZER,
Secretary Mentone Chamber of Commerce

In the winter of 1888 we had good sledding from November until March, or that is the way I remember it. Great loads of logs were hauled into the mills, and made beautiful timber. Some of the homes here are made out of this kind of material, most of it covered by paint.

This winter of which I speak we would see the log haulers, as they were called, pull into town with their loads. I have seen as many as 25 to 30 teams pulling loads into the mills. This was one of the ways a lot of farmers made winter money. The mills would pile the logs in great heaps and saw out the lumber the following summer. The teamsters would start early in the morning and try to be home by 4 or 5 o'clock. If they were exceptionally nice logs they would have a race to see who would get there first and get the pick of the logs.

I have rambled around a lot in writing my first impressions of Mentone, but have tried to tell the story as I saw it or as has been told to me. I think perhaps the younger generation will get an idea of Mentone in the early days.

The first bank here was owned by Tabor Bros. They had a bank at Argos and one of the brothers, John Tabor, moved here and opened the bank. I think it was called the Citizens Bank. It was located back of the drug store on the alley next to the Church of Christ. This was the only bank until 1892 when Elmer Eddinger, Loren and Art Manwaring and some others whose names I do not have, felt that the bank here should be owned by local people, so they organized the Farmers Bank. This was located in the old hotel building next to the office of the hotel and continued to operate there until some time a few years later when they purchased the Citizens Bank and moved in the room it occupied. After the fire which destroyed the corner now occupied by the Farmers State Bank they built the present building and moved in there about 1905.

Beginning at the old hotel corner west bound there was a room occupied by Oliver Sears who sold candy, tobacco and some fruit. His price on bananas was 1 cent each or 15 cents per dozen. We kids bought them by the piece. Next was Daman meat market or saloon. He would be out of one business awhile then the other. I think he was in the saloon business most of the time. The next room was sometimes a saloon and part time empty. The saloon was operated by Sandy Feiser. Next was a restaurant and bakery. It must have been about 70 years ago as they were taking the census at this time. A man by the name of Heitzner was operating the place, the census taker started asking him questions of how many children, he started to count and name them and then called his wife. "Mother, come here. I can't answer all these questions." They had quite a large family so I guess he just could not remember all their names.

The next building on the alley was originally owned by Nash and Lem Latimer. They had a hardware store there and later moved in the brick building now Lemler's. Across the alley was John Miller's saloon, next was a restaurant, but I am unable to remember who built this building (Joe Bakers) but W. L. Fish operated the restaurant at one time, sold out to D. W. Styles; next building was the opera house and there were some store rooms below. I think one was a saloon, the other I am not sure. We had a laundry here once and that may have been there.

IN JUSTICE COURT

Charles Hubler, aged 92, of Mentone, was brought into the court of Justice of the Peace C. O. Eiler on last Saturday, April 2, to answer to a charge of operating an automobile on a public highway without a valid license. Night Officer Chester Miller was the complaining witness.

Since Mr. Hubler has been in this same court at least three times in the last couple of years, on the same charge, a fine of $25 and costs, totaling $42.75, was assessed by the court, and a recommendation to the State Commissioner of Motor Vehicles was made, that his registration plates be impounded, on account of the fact that Mr. Hubler's physical condition is such that it is a hazard to himself and the public for him to operate a motor vehicle on the highway, according to the court's opinion. Being unable to pay his fine and because of the sad state of his health, the fine and costs were suspended by the court.

MENTONE CHAMBER OF COMMERCE MEMBERS

PTA Meeting April 13th

We Americans are ever seeking to explore and satisfy our need for a nobler purpose, a deeper meaning in our lives and the lives of our children.

Reading is one of the surest ways to pursue this search. It widens our world, informs our minds, and strengthens our spirits. Through reading and study, our minds and thoughts grow and develop. Our comprehension of all we read and hear is not as great as we often desire. Thus a need develops for ways to help us better understand new problems as they arise.

The Mentone PTA has worked hard to attain this goal. "Building a better understanding between school, parents and community." Each year adds to this understanding. The PTA officers and committee chairmen feel that the parents in our community have proven that their children and their education is of vital importance to them. Their attendance at PTA meetings and cooperation with school activities has been outstanding. Much good has been accomplished. However, much remains to be done.

The PTA has attempted to present to its members information regarding the new school reorganization act at two previous meetings.

John Augsburger and Mrs. Dan Urschel will be at the April 13 meeting, 7:30 p. m., in the band room at the school. People have read about this act and discussed it pro and con. Mr. Augsburger and Mrs. Urschel are going to give us full information as to what has been accomplished so far and plans, etc. as far as they have been developed. Our entire evening's program will be devoted to this. Questions from the floor and discussion by all is invited. Many misunderstandings can be cleared up if this opportunity is taken advantage of to learn from members of the original council itself the true facts. It is their desire that questions be asked and if anyone wishes, they may be mailed in ahead of time or phone in, either to Mrs. Dan Urschel, Mentone, or to the Mentone PTA, care of Mentone high school.

This subject is of vital interest to each family living in this area. Not only does it concern our leaders of tomorrow, but it is of vital concern to our pocket-books, too. It isn't a law we can ignore, it won't just go away. Something must be done and this is your opportunity to find out what's being considered.

During the business session, new officers will be elected and Mr. Bush will present several numbers from the music students who entered the music contest in February.

Refreshments will be served.

—PTA Reporter

Safe Storage Of Chemicals

Safe storage of agricultural chemicals embodies two cardinal principles for their safe use.

F. R. Willsey, Purdue University farm safety specialist, advises always storing agricultural chemicals in original labeled containers.

Chemical liquids, dusts or granules may look like other compounds such as sugar or soft drinks. Without a label it is impossible to distinguish between a dangerous substance and one which is safe. Agricultural labels not only contain the way the material is to be used but also the safety precautions to be observed.

Willsey suggests that agricultural chemicals be stored under lock and key out of reach of children, pets, or irresponsible persons. One of the best ways of achieving safe storage is to create on the farm a chemical storage center. This can be a cabinet or separate building devoted exclusively to chemical use.

Commandments of chemical storage are:

Have an organized place for storage.

Never stack one chemical on top of another.

Use up or dispose of small amounts of left-over chemicals.

Keep chemicals stored in a dry place away from fire or other sources of ignition.

Keep the chemical storage place locked to keep out children and others who are not responsible.

Store highly toxic chemicals, those with skull and cross-bones on label, high enough to be out of reach of children should they get into the storage area.

Check label for instructions so that chemicals that should not be stored together are separated.

Purdue University veterinarians say fowl pox and Newcastle disease are poultry diseases for which reasonably safe and effective vaccines are available. Vaccination should be completed at least three weeks before young flocks begin to lay.

Special Services At Talma Christian Church

Rev. John Dougherty of Buffalo, New York, will be conducting evangelistic services at the Talma Christian Church, April 10 through 17, beginning each night at 7:30 o'clock.

The week of meetings has been designated as "Win Your Neighbor for Christ Campaign." Both Mr. and Mrs. Dougherty will be featured in instrumental and vocal music. Mr. Dougherty also plays the trombone and Mrs. Dougherty, the vibra-harp. There will be a children's story each evening as well as an evangelistic message from the Bible.

At the close of one of the services a series of colored slides will be shown of the work of The American Mission for Opening Closed Churches. The Doughertys are associated with this mission work. There will also be a display table of various handwork done by children in the mission churches as well as free literature about the mission.

Some of the message titles during the special services will be: "Will A Backslider Go to Heaven?", "How to Win Friends and Influence People," "The Choice of Destiny," "A Game that Cannot Be Won," "The Most Unpopular Subject in the Bible," "The Key to Life," and "A Fool's Last Night on Earth."

Minimum Tillage Cuts Costs

Minimum tillage will generally cut corn production costs 2 to 3 dollars an acre for Indiana farmers, report Purdue University agricultural economists. Minimum tillage means raising crops with a minimum number of trips over the field preparing the seed bed and cultivating the crop.

Paul R. Robbins and Clark Baker interviewed fifty-seven Indiana farmers who had practiced some form of minimum tillage on a wide range of soil types. One of five farmers interviewed had four to eight years experience with this type of operation; almost half practiced it for the first time last year (1959).

The economists classified minimum tillage into four types. These are:

Limited—Not more than one disking or one spring tooth harrowing between plowing and planting. Holding cultivation after planting to once.

Wheel track—No tillage between plowing and planting. Tractors were converted so that the wheels prepared the seed bed for planting—corn then was planted in the tractor wheel tracks.

Plow and then plant—Essentially the same as wheel track, except the corn planter shoes do not follow in the tractor wheel tracks.

Plow plant — Plowing and planting are done in one operation and a single trip over the field. (Only three farms surveyed used this method.)

For most farmers conversion costs relatively little. Only in the case of the wheel track planting with four-row planters did this cost add up appreciably.

GRASSROOTS OPINION

It is incredible that in less than six years the federal highway program should have snowballed so far out of hand that now its estimated cost is 73 per cent over the original staggering figure of 23 billion dollars. The 40,000-mile interstate highway program was a glittering dream—one worthy and appealing. But, like others before it, it has turned into a spending nightmare.

All those starry-eyed enthusiasts who believed that the one-cent additional federal gasoline tax which Congress imposed not long ago to "save" this program was "temporary," can now go stand on their dizzy heads.

Every ewe should raise a lamb. Purdue University animal scientists say orphan lambs or one of twins should be transferred to a ewe which doesn't have a lamb. To get a ewe to adopt a strange lamb, place her in a stanchion in the corner of a lambing pen. She can be kept there until she adopts the lamb.

CHEVY! YOU CAN'T BUY ANY CAR FOR LESS
...UNLESS IT'S A LOT LESS CAR!

Anyone who's looked around knows the majority of Chevrolet models—6's and V8's together—list for less than comparable models of other low-priced cars. But the price tag alone is only one of a whole raft of reasons a Chevy does better by your dollars.

Nothing near Chevy's size and price can match the Full Coil cushioning of its ride, or the fine, finished workmanship of its Body by Fisher. That even applies to some cars that cost a lot more. You're up in the higher price brackets before you find a car that moves as quietly as a Chevrolet or offers the inner space that Chevrolet does.

Or look at the extras Chevy gives you—at no extra cost—that others in its class can't offer at any price. Shock-cushioned steering. Safety Plate Glass in every window. Keyless locking of all doors. Crank-operated vent windows. Chevrolet offers the widest choice of power teams, too. Drive a Chevy just once. You'll have a tough time settling for anything less.

Lions Fish
Fry Saturday

The next big event for the Mentone Lions Club will be the fish fry to be held at the Mentone gym on Saturday, April 16, with serving from 5 to 8 o'clock.

The Lions Club, one of Mentone's many civic and charitable organizations, uses this method of obtaining funds to use for their many civic activities during the year, and all the members join in to help make the affair a success. Also, the club is aided materially each year by the various school officials and other citizens who assist in the distribution of advertising literature. The patronage of the citizens, also, has certainly been commendable.

Ronnie Richards has been selected to fry the fish.

Carry-outs will also be available for those who desire to eat at home or take a supper to a sick person or shut-in.

4-H Share The Fun Contest

Nancy Camdon, Warsaw, won first place honors at the county Share the Fun Contest recently held at the Lincoln school auditorium. Nancy presented a reading entitled, "Miss Swisher." In the curtain act division first alternate was a reading entitled, "The Match Maker," presented by Judy Sumers of Warsaw. Second alternate in this division was a girls' quartet from the Etna Green Good Luck Club.

In the group act division, the Warsaw Luckie Lassies took top honors with their presentation, "Mis-haps." First alternate was a skit entitled, "Kids will be Kids," given by the Beaver Dam Better Daughters and second alternate was a pantomime entitled, "Alvin's Orchestra," presented by the Burket Cheerio club.

The first place act in each division will be entered in the District contest at LaGrange on April 26.

TAG DAY WAS A SUCCESS

Kenneth Bush, director of the Mentone band, announces that a total of $347.66 was donated to the band organization in the tag day solicitation Saturday. Fifty-six of the band members took part in the solicitation.

MARRIED RECENTLY

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Eugene Penrod, who were married recently in the North Manchester EUB church, are residing on Route 3, North Manchester.

Mrs. Penrod is the former Linda Lou Hart, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Hart, Route 1, Urbana. Mr. Penrod's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Penrod, Route 3, North Manchester.

Rev. Joe Penrod, of Decatur, brother of the bridegroom, and Rev. Walter House, pastor of the church, read the marriage ceremony at seven o'clock Friday evening, March 25, before an altar graced with white flowers and candelabra. Nuptial music was presented by Mrs. Roger Goodman of Route 1, Mentone, organist, and Mrs. James Waggoner, Route 5, Plymouth, soloist.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride appeared in a ballerina gown of lace and nylon net over taffeta, trimmed with pearls. Her veil was fingertip length. She carried an orchid with her white prayer book.

Her sister, Mrs. James Michael, of Syracuse, matron of honor, wore a light blue frock of nylon acetate, fashioned with rounded neckline and full skirt. Pink carnations composed her cascade bouquet.

Byron Penrod was best man for his brother and John Rickner and William Winebrenner were ushers. All are of the No. Manchester community.

Assisting at the reception in the parish hall were Miss Rachel Penrod, Mrs. Gaylord Johnson, Miss Kathryn Taylor, Miss Mary Lou Tyner and Jack Hart. Miss Elizabeth Wimer was in charge of the guest book.

The newly married couple went to Kentucky on their wedding trip. Mr. Penrod, a graduate of Chester high school, is engaged in farming. His bride is a 1958 alumna of Mentone high school.

STARTING NEW GROCERY ADDITION

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Smith have started the building of a new 22 x 60 addition to the fine grocery their operate in the south part of Mentone. The new one-story addition, to be of cement block construction, will be on the north of the present structure. Mr. Bowen of Claypool, will have charge of the construction.

COUNTERPOINT

By the Editor's Wife

Adam Carper tells us that he was born in a log house northwest of South Whitley and lived there for 28 years. There was a clap-board roof on the building.

A card from Mrs. Viola Treesh Klinger says, "I was born in a log house at Millwood, and my son Ivan lived his first six years in a log house six miles west of Warsaw." Mrs. Klinger, who is 78 years of age, has resided at the Peabody Home in North Manchester for the past eight years.

"I was born in a log cabin and lived in it till I was 5½ years old, on a farm 4 miles north of Mentone, now owned by Mr. Roy Mellott.

"It was built of hewn logs, with two rooms below and a loft above. There was an addition to this, built with perpendicular plank siding and battened cracks, with two rooms; a parlor and spare bedroom. The floor was of heavy planks, which my mother kept scrubbed, till they were spotless, really too clean to walk on. There was no traditional fireplace; heating being done with a 'Round Oak' stove, and cooking on the old style cast 'cook stove.'

"We still have one wooden chair and the weight clock with which my parents set up house-keeping, as well as many nostalgic memories of the time spent there."—Mrs. C. O. Eiler.

An interesting letter, paying tribute to the "vanishing clothesline", appeared in one of our area newspapers recently. Following are some of the thoughts expressed.

"If any one thing deserves our tribute, surely the clothesline does. It has figured in so many areas of our lives. It proclaimed to a waiting neighborhood our entrance into the world, but that in no sense ended its role as a news agency.

"But aside from being a unique news agency, the clothesline has had many functions other than drying clothes. My mother used to hang a muslin bag of cottage cheese on the line to drain.

"The clothesline has served as an index to the relative house-keeping ability of individuals of one community. It seemed so important to one of these ladies to maintain her standing, that she is reported to have wet down perfectly clean sheets in

ALGEBRA CONTEST

Tom Adams, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Adams, and Jake Haney, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Haney, received congratulations from Indiana University Contest Alumni for ranking high in the regional contests that were held throughout the state recently.

One hundred-forty-five algebra students from over the state have been invited to participate on the Indiana University campus in the finals which will be held in Bloomington on Saturday, April 30, 1960. George Green is their teacher.

The program includes a movie of the 1959 "Little 500," a luncheon in Alumni Hall with Prof. Jack Forbes of Ball State as the speaker, a tour of the campus, and the pinnacle of the day will be the presentation of awards.

LOW BIDDER ON ELECTRIC CONTRACT

The Romine Electric, of Mentone, was low bidder on the electric contract on the new four-room addition to be built on the Milford school. The bids were opened Tuesday night and are now being considered by the officials. Romine's bid was the lowest for the electrical. Their bid was $3,939.

order to be first with a wash on the line on Monday morning.

"You 'sized up' the new neighbors by the amount and quality of laundry flapping in the breeze, and they sized you up. You then exchanged a little small-talk and a recipe or two, and before you knew it, you were standing for hours at a time, one hand resting on the clothesline and the other poised and ready with a clothespin, talking — just talking."

Doesn't that bring back familiar memories to many of you? Too, we've had several such perfectly wonderful "drying days", that many have taken advantage of their clotheslines.

We enjoyed this: "I wouldn't worry about your son making mud pies. It's quite normal," the psychiatrist told the anxious mother.

"Well," she snorted, "I don't think so, and neither does his wife."

BEAVER DAM
BAND RATES HIGH

The Northern Indiana State Band Contests were held in the Concord school at Elkhart last Saturday. The Beaver Dam band advanced to the state meet after getting a superior at Columbia City the week before.

In the state meet they received an excellent rating in both the required sight reading and in the practiced numbers.

The members of the band had a delightful dinner in the B and B restaurant at Nappanee while on their way home. Kenneth Horn and George Cumberland drove the buses. Albert Whitmore is the music instructor.

APRIL MEETING OF
READING CLUB

The Mentone Reading Club met at the home of Mrs. Emma Clutter on Wednesday evening, April 6. Mrs. Fred Lemler was assisting hostess.

During the business meeting a report of the County Federation convention was given by Mrs. Paul Rush.

Mrs. Miles Manwaring and Mrs. Dan Urschel had charge of the program which was "Our Responsibility Toward Home and Religion."

Mrs. Harold Nelson gave the meditation thoughts.

A vocal solo, "O Happy Home" was sung by Mrs. Artley Cullum, with Mrs. Urschel accompanying.

The ladies were divided into three groups, and one of the following topics was assigned to each group: Helping the children in the family to realize their goals (in recreation, work, worship); Teaching skills and good habits in the family; and Teaching democracy and church participation in the family. Following a short period of group study, a leader from each gave a summary of opinions voiced. This proved a most interesting program.

Spray Thistles Before Planting

If you spray that patch of Canada thistle with Amino triazole two weeks before you disk the field in preparation for corn planting you won't have to use the hoe to save the corn from the thistles.

Amino triazole applied as a pre-plant treatment is very effective, says Oliver C. Lee, Purdue University weed specialist.

The first or second week in May when Canada thistles are six or more inches high is the proper time to apply Amino triazole. Use eight pounds of Amino triazole in about 30 gallons of water per acre. Apply with a sprayer that will give good coverage. The plants will pick up the chemical and carry it down to the roots, killing both roots and tops.

Two weeks or more after spraying the seed bed may be prepared and corn planted without danger of injury to the corn from the chemical. For further details read the label on the package of Amino triazole. Such treatments should not be applied prior to planting soybeans as label approval for this has not been given, Lee emphasizes.

Pasture is the most economical forage for dairy cows on most Indiana farms, say Purdue University dairy scientists. Dairy farmers should shoot for a goal of 180 days of grazing a year.

Hoosier Beef Show June 21 22, and 23

The second annual Hoosier Beef Show, which emphasizes red meat rather than showing-type, will be held at the Indianapolis Stock Yards June 21-23 and at Kingan's Indianapolis plant June 28.

Steers in the 1960 show will again be sold before they are judged on foot, and then slaughtered to actually find out what type and kind of steer produces the largest amount of desirable red meat for the consumer.

All steers entered in the show must be owned by a resident of Indiana, bred by a registered bull, and owned by the exhibitor on or before last February 1. There will be eight on-foot classes, including those under 1,000 pounds and those over 1,000 pounds for each of the major breeds, plus other breeds. Each exhibitor may enter three single steers in each class.

Facts On Soil Insecticides

Heptachlor can still be applied as a soil insecticide in the corn row at planting time or broadcast before planting either by itself or mixed with fertilizer, according to Purdue University extension entomologist Dave Matthew. If broadcast application is made, the chemical should be disked into the soil from one to six hours after application.

Although Heptachlor can no longer be used on food or forage crops, the United States Food and Drug Administration has approved heptachlor for use as a soil insecticide for corn. No restrictions have been placed on the use of aldrin and dieldrin as soil insecticides; therefore, Purdue University's recommendations of Aldrin, dieldrin and heptachlor as soil insecticides meet the Federal restrictions, Matthew adds.

Heptachlor or dieldrin are also recommended as a seed treatment for corn, Matthew says, and these insecticides may be used (as in the past) on lawns and ornamentals where spray contamination of food crops cannot occur.

Matthew warns users to read heptachlor labels carefully, and to contact county agricultural agents if questions arise about correct dosages. This is extremely important, he emphasizes, because recommended dosages differ for various soils and for different stages in the corn sequence.

Purdue University mimeos E-39, 49 and 61 give information, recommendations for control of various soil insects, and the proper use of soil insecticides, Matthew added. These may be obtained by writing the Agricultural Publications Office, AES Building, Purdue University, Lafayette, Indiana.

Install roosting poles 15 inches above the litter in houses for growing egg-type pullets by the time the chicks are four weeks old, suggest Purdue University poultry scientists.

Release New Type Watermelon

Purdue University's agricultural experiment station today released two new wilt resistant watermelon varieties for Indiana growers.

They are the Princeton and Charleston Gray 133. Seed can be obtained from the Agricultural Alumni Seed Improvement Association, Lafayette.

E. C. Stevenson, head of Purdue's horticulture department, and K. W. Johnson, Purdue horticulturist, pointed out that wilt has made it practically impossible to produce a crop of regular Charleston Gray, principal commercial variety in Indiana is some areas of the state. Indiana is one of the top late summer watermelon producing states in the country.

Princeton is described as a dark green rind, long type watermelon variety. It is earlier than Charleston Gray, placing the southern Indiana growers in a stronger competitive position with other "late melon" states.

Pointing out a market for dark green rind melons exists, the horticulturists observed of the Princeton: "For Indiana growers, a dark rind melon would have a marketing advantage since the majority of melons marketed today have light green rinds."

Charleston Gray 133 is a light green, long-type watermelon similar to Charleston Gray except it possesses a higher degree of wilt resistance. On marginal wilt infested fields, the new variety will produce a satisfactory crop, while the original Charleston would not produce such a crop, the horticulturists explained.

A HISTORY OF MENTONE

By M. O. MENTZER,
Secretary Mentone Chamber of Commerce

The opera house was the scene of much activity in the early days. The first show was "Uncle Tom's Cabin," a home talent play. I can remember some of the players. Lem Lattimer was "I am a lawyer and my name is Marks." I believe Newt Hamlet was "Uncle Tom." Art Manwaring was "Dr. Someone." Lide Stockberger was "Eliza," a girl by the name of Crall was "Little Eva." There are a number of other people who were in this play whose names I am unable to remember. Perhaps have some of the above wrong.

The next building was a livery stable. It changed hands quite frequently as the one across the street seemed to have most of the business. Next building was Bob Lambert's blacksmith shop. This was a very exciting place at times. When we would have a hard freeze and the sledding was good everyone wanted his horse rough shod, much like you want snow tires today. I have seen twenty or more horses waiting to get new shoes in winters of which I speak.

On the north side of the main square was Dunlap's Corner Grocery, next Ed Wilson's grocery, then a barber shop, a meat market at this time operated by Ed Tiggart, next Robinson's drug store. He also was a doctor (more about our early Doctors later). Next Railsback's furniture and Undertaking, across the alley was Love's meat market. I am unable to recall the next business but later in the 90's Homer Rockhill ran a grocery store at this place, next a man by the name of Reed had a monument works. He made the Summerland Monument in the Mentone cemetery.

Next was a small building back from the sidewalk about 40 feet. This was used by Frank Fieser as a buggy sales room. Buggies sold for from $50.00 up. Next was the Livery barn which was built by Clark Ernsberger and James Cox and was one of the most profitable businesses for a long time. The young fellows would hire a rig to take their best girls riding on Sunday afternoons at $1.00 per afternoon, traveling salesmen would hire a team and driver to take them to the other towns surrounding Mentone, then there were farmers who stabled their horses while in town—25 cents if you furnished your own feed.

At this time most of the stores had rooms above in which families lived. The town pump was the source of water supply and water had to be pumped and carried upstairs for all purposes: cooking, washing, baths, (how many were taken?) At the town pump a tin cup was chained. This was our sanitary drinking fountain! Before a well was driven at the schoolhouse it was necessary to carry the water from the town well. "Teachers Pets" always got to go for and pass the water. A dipper with a long handle was placed in the pail and someone would pass the water. You had to drink all you took as you dared not pour it back in the pail—quite sanitary! I know it is very difficult for our younger generation to realize that it was not always possible to turn a faucet and get water.

CONSERVATION MEETING AT TALMA

The Talma Rod and Gun club will hold their meeting Monday April 18 at 7:30 p.m. in their new meeting place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Miller at Talma. Please note change of meeting place. Members are asked to attend and help make plans for the display for the 4-H fair. There will be special refreshments after the meeting.

New Purdue Alfalfa Variety

Purdue University's agricultural experiment station announces a new alfalfa variety, first for midwestern farmers that is resistant to meadow spittlebug.

Culver, name of the new variety, was developed by Purdue's departments of agronomy, entomology and botany and plant pathology in cooperation with the Alfalfa Improvement Conference. No seed will be available to farmers until the spring of 1961.

Culver is a winter hardy dormant type with dark green foliage. It is resistant to wilt and partly resistant to leaf spot diseases and heaving. In addition to being resistant to meadow spittlebugs, Culver has a lesser resistance to the potato leafhopper and spotted alfalfa aphid.

Although Culver may be infested with spittlebugs, Purdue field studies consistently showed 50 percent less infestation than other varieties. Sixty-seven percent of the stems in these trials showed no damage in contrast to only 15 percent with other varieties.

Under normal infestation by the spittlebug, Culver alfalfa can be expected to perform well without the use of insecticides. However, with epidemic infestations, such as have occurred in southeastern Indiana, application of an insecticide is considered worthwhile.

Initial multiplication of Culver took place last year in the state of Washington. Three hundred fifty acres were seeded in California last February for certified seed production. The first seed will be harvested this fall. Culver was chosen as the name for the new variety since much of the initial testing was done at Purdue's sand field farm near Culver, Indiana.

The Treasurer's office is a service office in that the chief duty is in providing considerate service in receiving tax payments and properly maintaining the required records after payment has been made.

I feel that my office and accounting, as well as other business experience and familiarity with State record requirements would bring to the County Treasurer's office the kind of administration the taxpayers would appreciate.

MEETING ON CUB SCOUTING

J. Ben McGill, Pioneer Trails Council scout executive, has made arrangements for the National Director of Cub Scouting Service to be in Elkhart for one day, Monday, April 25th, for three sessions of Cub Scout program planning and discussion. O. W. "Bud" Bennett, as national director of Cub Scouting Service, Boy Scouts of America, develops and promotes the Cub Scouting program of the organization for boys 8, 9 and 10 years of age. He prepares training helps for the leaders of Cub packs, including visual aids, program notebooks and other literature dealing with Cub Scouting.

The all day and evening programs will be held at the Central Christian Church, 418 West Franklin St., Elkhart.

The first discussion session will be from 9 a. m. to 11:30 a. m., the afternoon session from 1:30 to 4 o'clock, and the evening session will be from 7:30 to 9:30. The daytime sessions are for Den Mothers and all other ladies interested in the Cubbing program. The evening session is primarily for men in Cubbing but women are also welcome.

A SHORT INNING

A wrinkled, white haired man downed a double Scotch, ordered another and offered to set 'em up for everyone.

"You certainly seem spry for an elderly gent," said a barfly. "To what do you attribute your longevity?"

"Well, son," came the reply, "since I was 16, I've had a fifth of Scotch every day and never more than 3 hours sleep a night. I spend my afternoons at the track and each night I go carousing with a new chorus girl." "That's quite a story. Tell me, just how old are you?" "Twenty-six."

Rare Photo Shows Virus Vs. Cell

This rare electron microscope photograph of viruses invading bacterial cells was made at the University of Chicago as part of March of Dimes-supported research into the basic nature of viruses. The viruses, which are the small pear-shaped objects, use their tiny protruding springs to inject chemicals that destroy the cells (arrow). Basic medical research of this kind under March of Dimes grants aided in developing the Salk vaccine, will help the New March of Dimes in its search for cures and preventives of two other major cripples, birth defects and arthritis.

Livestock Slaughter Down

Liveweight of all livestock commercially slaughtered in Indiana during February totaled 161,336,000 pounds, eight percent below the January figure, but 14 percent higher than February a year ago, according to state-federal agricultural statisticians at Purdue University.

Total liveweight of the 50,000 cattle slaughtered in February amounted to 51,200,000 pounds, 18 percent above the February, 1959, figure. The 9,200 calves slaughtered had a total liveweight of 1,950,000 pounds, 14 percent above the February, 1959, slaughter. The statisticians said the February liveweight of hogs slaughtered was the largest for the month since records began in 1947.

The 17,400 sheep and lambs slaughtered had a total liveweight of 1,705,000 pounds, 16 percent below the previous month, but 37 percent higher than the slaughter of February a year ago.

Commercial slaughter includes that of packing plants and local butchers, but excludes farm slaughter. Totals indicate the marketings of livestock and the availability of meat.

Red meat output of commercial slaughter plants throughout the nation totaled 2,158 million pounds in February, 10 percent below January, but nine percent above February of last year.

DEMAND RETRACTION

A leading labor organization has published a political memorandum denouncing the American Medical Association's opposed position to a bill which—at an initial cost of some $2 billion a year—would provide federally-purchased medical services for the 16 million people eligible for retirement and survivorship payments under the social security system.

The memo in question, according to the AMA's president, consists of "deliberate distortions of the truth, perversions of the truth, and outright untruths." And he demands retraction of the "scurrilous allegations."

LAWN-BOY
DELUXE

1. TILT the mower, as you would to clean, or mow along a hillside. Oil should not leak or spill. Lawn-Boy mowers keep oil in the engine for full-time protection.
2. FLEX the blade. Long, whippy blades cut unevenly, cause crankshaft damage. Lawn-Boy blade is prestressed, under tension, on a short, hard shaft, with bronze main bearings.
3. TAP mower housing. Thin steel housings vibrate, spring out of shape. Light-weight, rock-solid Lawn-Boy aluminum housings never do.
4. LIFT the mower . . . it should be light. Aluminum-light Lawn-Boy is nimble, easy to use, won't tire you out . . . even the handle fits better.
5. START the engine. Starting should be easy, fast, sure. Self-lubricating Lawn-Boy has hottest starting spark on any mower for year after year of easy, one-pull starting.
6. LISTEN to it. Does it roar . . . spit fumes or step ahead of you? It shouldn't. Quiet Lawn-Boy mufflers direct exhaust under the mower, away from you.

We add to the manufacturer's guarantee . . . ONE YEAR FREE LABOR SERVICE on any breakdown. (Does not apply to mowers used commercially.)

Family Finances

If you are among the nine out of ten working people in the United States covered by Social Security you pay up to $144 a year ($216 if you're self-employed) for these benefits. My question: "How much do you know about SS benefits?"

Social Security is not charity—you don't have to be in need to collect benefits. Depending upon your earning record, you get payments on retirement after age 65 (62 for women) regardless of your holdings or income from investments or company or private pensions.

Other benefits are due members of your family, including survivor and disability payments to your widow, children, your dependent parents.

Social Security payments, however, won't come to you or your family automatically. You must apply for them. Check your district office to help you understand and claim benefits. They'll be happy to help you.

To Address Cattle Feeders

A top official of the U. S. Food and Drug Administration will discuss the effect of feed additive laws on cattle producers at Indiana Cattle Feeders' Day at Purdue University, April 22.

Dr. Charles G. Durbin, director of the veterinary medicine branch of the FDA, will be the principal speaker on the afternoon program, starting at one o'clock, CST, in the livestock judging pavilion on Purdue's agricultural campus.

Two Purdue animal scientists also will share the afternoon speaking program. They are Fred N. Andrews, who will evaluate hormonal substances for beef cattle, and W. M. Beeson, who will evaluate feed additives for beef cattle.

Wendell Morton, Lebanon, president of the Indiana Cattle Feeders' Association, will be the chairman of the afternoon program. Association members will elect officers.

Visitors at the day long event, starting at 9 a. m., will tour feeder cattle experiments at the livestock research barn, a mile north of U. S. 52 Bypass on the County Farm road. An hour later Purdue animal scientists will report on these experiments at the livestock farm.

Lunch will be served at the barn by the Purdue Block and Bridle Club.

Sponsored by Purdue's animal science department and the Cattle Feeders' Association, the event attracted some 2,000 from 18 states and two foreign countries, last year.

Can Grow Salad Crops

Ingredients for fresh, crisp salads can be grown in the home garden this spring, even though the amount of space is limited.

Leslie Hafen, Purdue University horticulturist, says radishes, onions, kohlrabi and garden greens such as kale, lettuce, mustard, spinach, Swiss chard and endive may be planted as early in April as the soil can be prepared.

Radishes will be ready for use in 20 to 25 days and some of the greens can be harvested in 35 to 45 days after planting.

Gardeners will have the best success with greens grown on a well-fertilized soil. From six to eight pounds of fertilizer—such as 10-10-10—should be spread per 100 square feet and plowed or spaded under.

A week or so after the plants are well established, the vegetables can be "side dressed" by spreading a handful of fertilizer every 8-10 feet along the row and about two inches from the plants.

A "one package" or "all purpose" dust or spray will provide excellent control of pests of early spring vegetables.

Castrate and dehorn calves before the fly season, advise Purdue University animal scientists.

Palestine Homemakers April Meeting

The April meeting of the Palestine Homemakers club was held recently with Mrs. Albert Tucker. Mrs. Tucker, being vice president, opened the meeting. Mrs. Mont Loher read the history of the song of the month, "All Through The Night." It was then sung by the group. The pledge to the flag and the club creed were repeated. A Mother's Prayer was given by Mrs. Gordon Hackworth for meditation.

Health and Safety remarks, "Putting safety into action and artificial respiration," were given by Mrs. Edwin Shirey.

Roll call was answered by "My Most Embarrassing Moment." Mrs. Albert Tucker had charge of the program planning.

The meeting was dismissed with the club prayer, and delicious refreshments were served by the hostess and co-hostess, Mrs. Gordon Hackworth. There were nine members and two children present.

Burket Busters 4-H Club News

The Burket Busters met April 7 in the Burket Gym. There were eighteen members and one guest present.

Eugene McGuire led the group in singing "Ole King Cole," "America the Beautiful," and "Oh, Susanna."

Connie Engle gave a Health and Safety Report on "Safety Measures for Recreation."

We talked about the dairy judging team which placed eighth in the county.

Many of the club members showed an interest in buying club jackets.

To make money for our trip we discussed working a day and turning in the money, and also selling raffle tickets on a ten percent commission.

Because of the summer coming now, and the days becoming longer we changed our meeting time from 7:00 to 7:30.

The following gave demonstrations:

Mack Swick—How to fix the ends of a rope.

Bernard Tom—Tips on a wildlife poster.

Jolly Janes Meet At Romine Home

Sixteen members of the Jolly Janes met at the home of Mrs. Jim Romine for their April meeting. Reading from the Easter Ideals book, Mrs. Raymond Lewis gave for meditation a poem entitled, "May I Remember." Mrs. Dick Kindig gave a lesson on "Citizenship," which helped to acquaint us with various ways our tax dollars were being used, especially in our own county.

Mrs. Dan Urschel was then introduced as our guest speaker, her topic being the school Reorganization Act. She gave many facts and figures pertaining to the subject and to her job as a member of the county committee. Much misleading information which seems so widely circulated, and which isn't factual at all, was clarified by Mrs. Urschel. If more people read all the available reports on the committee's work, there wouldn't be so many false rumors. The club members were given time to ask Mrs. Urschel any questions they had. The ladies agreed that the talk was very informative and enlightening.

Wet Corn Possibilities

Purdue University agricultural engineers point out the crucial season for corn in cribs is near. In some areas of Indiana corn did not dry well in the field last fall and may have been stored at a dangerous moisture level.

Farmers should check frequently to see that their corn is not spoiling. If farmers have corn with more than 17 percent moisture in the crib now, they should seriously consider methods of removing the danger of corn spoilage during the coming warm weather.

The engineers suggest the following questions should be considered: Can all the doubtful corn be fed before it spoils?

Can the corn be moved to a smaller crib or cribs for better ventilation?

Can corn be shelled and dried in a heated air dryer?

Can existing cribs be converted to use unheated drying systems?

Is some form of airtight storage for high moisture grain available?

In some situations where the corn is not too much above the danger point in moisture, the corn may be re-elevated and mixed and put in a narrow crib.

Moldy, soggy ears may be sorted out along with the shelled corn, husks and other debris which will allow more ventilation. Even after the corn has been mixed and moved, further moisture checks should be made. If the moisture content is not below fifteen and a half percent by May 1, additional measures should be considered.

High moisture ear corn can still be dried in cribs with unheated air if they can be modified to make this type of drying economical. High moisture corn can also be shelled and dried in batch driers.

CARD OF THANKS

As it is impossible for me to thank each one personally and separately, I wish in this way to thank each and every one, who in some way helped to lighten my burden and sorrow at the time of my husband's passing, with the beautiful floral offerings, the many sympathy cards received, food donated, the help at the house, etc. It has been greatly appreciated. God bless you all, is my prayer.

CLOSE ENOUGH

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Lemler spent, Sunday visiting their daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. Stan Yeiter, at the west edge of Chicago, and while all were driving north toward the O'Hare Airport, they noticed a lot of people, policemen and an ambulance at a filling station. Stan also noticed a hole in an auto window that looked as if it had been made by a bullet. Needless to say, the driver continued on, but a news report on the radio soon stated that an ex-husband had just shot and killed his former wife and her present husband.

COUNTERPOINT

By the Editor's Wife

The following verses, reprinted in a small trade magazine, were handed to us. The truth and simplicity appealed to us, so we offer them to you:

KEEP IT OUT

All the water in the world,
However hard it tried,
Could never, never sink a ship
Unless it got inside.

All the evil in the world,
The blackest kind of sin,
Can never hurt you one least bit—

Unless you let it in.

One small boy and his grandfather are suffering some mild pangs of frustration. Those of you who have been unable to get your kites into the air this spring will know what I am referring to.

Last Sunday we drove past the old farm where the writer had her very first introduction to an echo. To date, our grandchildren have no understanding of the term. There aren't too many good "echo spots," but we hope to bring that puzzling experience to Lisa and Tim before they are much older.

At a recent convention of Gas Appliance manufacturers, the wives got together with Lee H. Bristol, Jr., of Bristol-Meyers and came up with some "brainstorms" for new products. Some things they want are: "child-proof" paint, a device for removing static electricity from dryer-dried clothes, disposable oven and broiler liners, pouring spouts on medicine bottles, disposable underwear and socks, a dishwasher with shelves that could be taken to the cupboard, better storage for spices.

Could you add to the list?

We enjoyed this: A factory owner was showing his friend around the plant.

"How many people work here?" asked the friend.

"I'd say about half," the owner replied.

Mentone Home Demonstration Club members meet at Mrs. Bertha Merridith's home Friday evening at 5:45.

DANIEL MURCIA
HURT BY TRACTOR

Daniel Murcia, 38, who lives west of Burkett, suffered serious and painful injuries Thursday of last week when he was pinned to a barn wall by a tractor. The man is employed by Stanley and Joe Boggs and was operating the tractor in a barn when he fell from the seat and got caught between the barn wall and the large tractor wheel. The tractor kept trying to go forward, and had it not been for the other wheel slipping, the unfortunate man would have been crushed. The other hired hand finally noticed the difficulty and the tractor was shut off.

Mr. Murcia suffered several broken ribs and injury to his back, and his windpipe was pulled apart, making it almost impossible for him to breathe. Dr. Wilson made an incision in his throat to make it possible for him to breathe and he was then rushed to the Murphy medical Center where he is recovering satisfactorily.

HOG SLASHES
LOCAL MAN

Lester Blackburn, who resides northeast of Mentone, suffered an eight-inch gash in the front of his right thigh Monday evening while attempting to drive a boar back into his pen. The gash was nearly four inches deep and over a hundred stitches were required to close the wound.

The boar had gotten out of his enclosure and Mr. Blackburn was making an effort to drive the animal back to his pen. Another hog got in the way, and the boar had been battling with it just as Mr. Blackburn came close. The boar, believing him to be the other animal, slashed out and tore the flesh with his tusks.

The boar was not vicious and did not continue the attack.

Mr. Blackburn is resting at home while the wound heals.

Purdue Egg Day Report

More than 300 Hoosier poultry producers and allied industry people attended the 8th Annual Purdue Egg Day April 6th, held on the University campus at West Lafayette.

The morning program opened with Dr. James R. Carson, Regional Coordinator North Central Regional Poultry Breeding Laboratory U.S.D.A., Lafayette, Indiana, discussing "How to Evaluate Random Sample Results." Carson pointed out that the best comparisons of stains can be obtained from Random Sample Tests.

"The Pros and Cons of Started Pullets" was the title of a panel discussion moderated by J. W. Sicer, Purdue Extension Poultryman. Members of the panel were: Mr. Clarence Yoder, Goshen; Mr. Louis J. Lineback, Lakeville; Mr. Carroll M. Eiler, Warsaw; Mr. Edwin W. Miller, Shipshewana; and Mr. Gordon M. Liechty, Berne.

The panel recognized the importance of buying pullets from a dependable, experienced grower located close enough to home to permit observation of the growing birds, and of having a definite understanding on the matter of vaccination and feeding programs, age at delivery, hauling charges, selection and prices.

"New Developments in Cleaning Eggs" was told by Mr. F. E. Wells, Purdue Poultry Science Department, who is a bacteriologist working on problems causing spoilage of eggs. The importance of keeping eggs dry before and after washing was emphasized by Wells. Bacteria must have water to move about on the surface of the egg shell; some enter through the pores and cause spoilage. Also Wells pointed out that a recommended egg sanitizer-detergent be used when washing in the proper manner if success in cleaning eggs and preventing spoilage is to be achieved.

Dr. Donald Polin, Research

Associate, Merck Institute, Rahway, New Jersey, covered the "Effect of Feed on Egg Quality."

A highlight of the program this year was an "Exhibit of New Egg Products" by the products section of the Purdue Poultry Department. A very attractive display was set up adjoining an Egg Day Luncheon where many of the group were served an egg and ham noonday meal. Among the new products shown were frozen-warm and served-fried, poached, and scrambled eggs; frozen-warm and served-french toast, and frozen-warm and serve-complete breakfast (including bacon, eggs, and potatoes). In the cereal area there were Egg-a-Bits and Corn "Cackles". Some freeze dried instant scrambled eggs were also exhibited. Several egg spread dips were sampled by the viewers, including onion, garlic, and smoked, and an orange-egg drink. Other products on exhibit were: egg roll, egg ring, egg loaf and egg Cantonese.

with Dr. W. J. Stadelman, Purdue Poultry Science Department. The afternoon session opened discussing "Producing and Marketing Quality Eggs".

A panel with its title, "Capitalizing on the Population Explosion" had as its leader Mr. Robert L. Hogue, Executive Secretary, Indiana State Poultry Association. Hoosier poultry people on the panel included the following: Mr. Ronald A. Smitherman, Greenfield; Mr. Max C. Neilans, Mentone; Mr. Harold B. Osterhoff, Muncie; Mr. Edwin H. Starr, Medora. An interesting discussion was held by this group with some of the highlights as follows. That we must stop the decline in egg consumption before we can expect too much from the expected new population increase.

Purdue University entomologists recommend reading the label of all insecticide containers and then following the directions and precautions on the label.

Planning To Go Camping?

Just about everyone is, according to statistics compiled by the Family Camping Club of America. The number of Americans taking off with tent or trailer at vacation time is increasing at an unprecedented rate. More than ten million families will go camping in 1960. Some are veteran campers; for others, it will be a new experience in vacation and travel.

Families attending an outdoor show last year were asked where they obtained information about camping—where to go, what to take, how to do it. Over 57% indicated that they had to rely on friends, many of whom were as inexperienced as they. 61% said that what campers needed most was a national organization to provide authoritative information on camping.

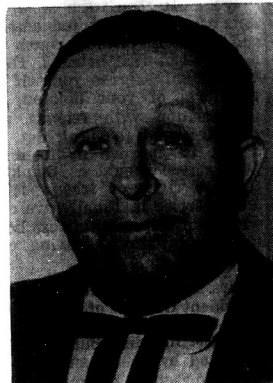

At that time, there was no such organization. But the growing needs of campers everywhere resulted in the establishment of a unique service. The Family Camping Club of America, with headquarters in Champaign, Illinois, was formed to serve camping families. Organized by a group of seasoned campers and recreation professionals, the club is today the central source of information and assistance to camping families. For a small annual fee, anyone can join the Family Camping Club and receive a complete camper's service.

HOST TO D. A. R. MEETING

Mrs. Glenn Claus was hostess to the April meeting of the Anthony Nigo Chapter D. A. R. She was assisted by Mrs. Ferd Koenig of Etna Green.

The meeting was opened with the ritualistic service and salute to the flag followed by singing "The Star Spangled Banner."

Mrs. Dale Cook read the President General's message and Mrs. Wayne Smalley gave an article on Thomas Jefferson.

It was decided that the Chapter would sponsor the selling of the new flag as a future project.

The election of officers was held and the following officers were elected for the coming year: Regent: Mrs. Ernest Igo; Vice Regent: Mrs. Kenneth Riner; Chaplin: Mrs. Vera Kelley; Secretary: Mrs. Bernice Rush; Treasurer: Mrs. Paul Shireman; Registrar: Mrs. Edna Carey; Historian: Mrs. Fred Surguy; Librarian: Mrs. Merlyn Holt.

Mrs. Frank Smith, Chairman, of National Defense, gave the following report:

"The apathy of citizens in the face of encroaching socialism is a real concern to dedicated Americans. The overwhelming urge to conform to the general pattern, and the lack of a sense of responsibility, make us realize the need for action by responsible Americans. The question often arises, "What can I do?" American citizens are the only ones who can do anything. For it is only individuals who are concerned, who can change the trend toward slavery to an all powerful government, or to a communist dictatorship.

First of all, we must study newspapers, magazines, and books in order to know conditions. Learn to distinguish between those which support our free institutions and those which veer toward the left.

We must then form an opinion, using our best judgement, and the advice of those whom we can trust as real patriots. Then you should express yourself in the form of your opinion, in conversation with friends. To not be afraid to speak out, to agree, to approve or to disapprove. We should be thankful for the right of free speech, and exercise it. Finally, we can write our representatives, both state and national, giving our opinion.

Mrs. Smith stated that the President General of the Society has strongly criticized the UNICEF for distributing funds collected by American children at Halloween, to communist and communist dominated countries.

UNICEF is strictly a supply agency. Its only activity is that of furnishing supplies to United Nations Specialized Agencies and to governments. It renders no service to children or to mothers or citizens of any country. Recent documented information has been received concerning this program of the United Nations.

Two very good radio commentators who are well known for their full explanation of world conditions and of our own nation, are Bob Siegrist on WLS 6:15 CST and Fulton Lewis Jr. on WLS 6:30 P.M., CST."

The meeting was turned over to Mrs. Fred Schlemmer of Bourbon who gave a book review on "Masters of Deceit" by J. Edgar Hoover which should arouse every citizen of the menace of the communistic infiltration in our beloved country.

Some of the high lights of her review were: "The beginning of world communism and how it has grown into a powerful monster that tends to engulf us all. Socialism is the first rung up the ladder of communism and its aim is to infiltrate non communistic organizations. Our government recognizing Russia in 1933 was a great triumph for the communists. The United Nations is also a spring board for the dissemination of communist propaganda. Communists are urged to join churches of from 100 to 500 members because they can get in responsible positions more quickly. A true Christian, Protestant, Catholic or Jew cannot be a true atheistic communist. Communists fear deep religious feeling more than anything else." Mrs. Schlemmer gave one the challenge to read King James Version of the Bible and that faith in the living God is our greatest weapon.

There were sixteen members present and six guests: Mrs. Lucille Highley and her mother, Mrs. Alvah Troyer of Marion. The committee in charge served delicious refreshments. The May meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. James Randall.

Minimum Tillage Field Day

Corn will be planted on freshly plowed ground at the State Minimum Tillage Field Day, May 5, on the Leon Johnson farm, three miles southeast of Orleans, Orange county. The program begins at 10 a.m.

This method is one of several to be demonstrated at the event, sponsored by Purdue University's agricultural extension service and the Soil Conservation Service.

Minimum tillage means raising crops with a minimum number of trips over the field preparing the seed bed and cultivating the crop. Johnson has used minimum tillage several years for both corn and sorghum planting.

C. L. Hill, Purdue agricultural engineer, explains that the demonstrations will permit visitors to observe planting on plowed ground in progress, give implement men a chance to inspect several plow and plant methods and attachments and provide a central location where implement companies and farmers can demonstrate, discuss and display equipment and chemicals for minimum tillage. Equipment to be demonstrated includes two and four row planters with attachments to meet varying soil conditions; plows with trash covering, row mulching devices and herbicide and insecticide attachments.

Purdue agricultural staff specialists will be present to answer questions. They include O. C. Lee, weed specialist; David Matthew, entomologist; Harry Galloway, R. D. Frazier and J. E. Newman, agronomists; R. O. Cole and Charles McKee, soil conservationists; Paul Robbins, economist; W. G. Rice, extension supervisor; F. E. Van Pelt, visual aids; John Mentzer, Bruce McKenzie, John Foley and Hill, agricultural engineers.

Purchase irrigation equipment well ahead of the irrigation season in July and August, recommend Purdue University agronomists. When crops are suffering from drought is a poor time to rush in and purchase this equipment.

Vaccinate pigs against cholera when they are six to twelve weeks old, say Purdue University animal scientists.

OPEN HOUSE AT NEW BELL MEMORIAL LIBRARY AT MENTONE ON SUNDAY, APRIL 24th

Open house will be held at the new Bell Memorial Library in Mentone on Sunday afternoon, April 24th, from two until five o'clock, and a special invitation is extended to all to visit and inspect the new structure and its facilities.

April 3rd, 1916, a petition by 55 citizens of the community was signed and presented to the judge of the circuit court, for the purpose of establishing a public library at Mentone. The petitioners also subscribed a total of $158.00 as a guarantee of good faith for the establishment of the library.

During the course of the intervening years the library has been constantly improved, and hundreds of volumes have been added for the use of the citizens of the Mentone community.

The present library is the result of a cash grant of $20,000 by Mr. Lawrence Bell, founder of the Bell Aircraft Corporation Buffalo, New York. The cash grant in Mr. Bell's will was for the erection of a suitable memorial for his parents, who were at one time citizens of our town. The money was placed in the hands of the officials of the town of Mentone, and it was their responsibility to determine what would make a suitable memorial. The help of the citizens in making suitable suggestions was sought, and it was finally determined to use the money for improvement in the public library.

Last year it was decided to build a new building, and a site was selected northeast from the First Baptist church.

Additional financial aid was secured through the sale of the former library building, and the citizens of the community, along with most of the charitable, social and civic organizations contributed time, money and commodities to supplement the cash facilities.

Members of the town board who made the decision to erect the new library were Harold Markley, president; O. L. McFadden and Forrest Miner. R. O. Jones was the clerk-treasurer.

The photo at the right shows Mrs. Walter Lackey, librarian, and four members of the present library board at one of their recent meetings making plans for the open house to be held Sunday. They are, from left to right: Mrs. Harold Markley, Mrs. Iris Anderson, Mrs. Lackey, Mrs. Florence McKinley and Robert O. Jones. Mr. Kenneth Romine, treasurer of the board, was not present when the News photo was taken.

The building was designed by

The Late Mr. Lawrence Bell

Mr. Hugh Rickel, professional engineer, of Palestine, and constructed by Mr. Bowen of Claypool.

Years of Patient Effort Included In Present Library

Nothing of real value is accomplished in a short period of time, and the present fine library is the net result of years of conscientious and determined effort of many of Mentone's citizens, many of whom have long since departed this life.

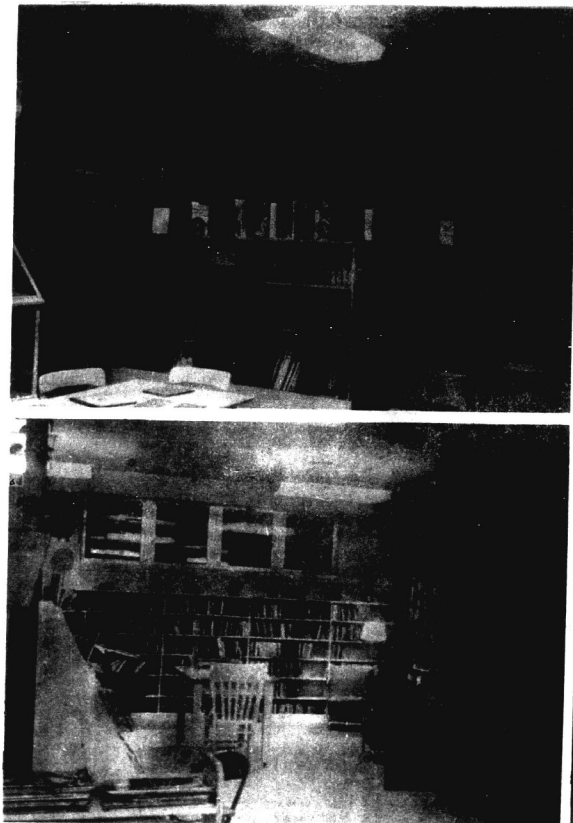

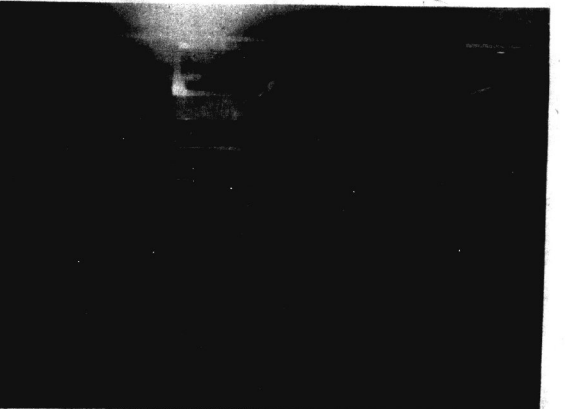

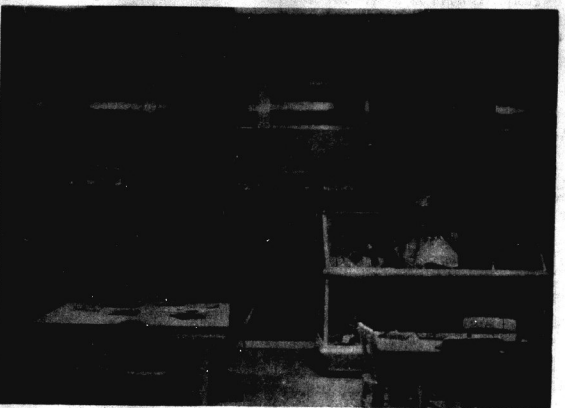

The first library board was composed of Charles Dillingham, Mrs. Flavia Myers, Levi Jefferies, Mrs. Emma Yocum, W. LeRoy Smith, Mrs. Allen Jefferies and George Ralston. Officers of the board were Mr. Smith, president; Mrs. M. G. Yocum, vice president; Mrs. Flavia Myers, treasurer, and Mr. Ralston, secretary. Mrs. Allen Jefferies was appointed librarian for the first year.

Librarians who have served during the years included Miss Marie Heighway, Miss Frances Clark, Miss Madge Lyons, Mrs. Cora VanGilder, Mrs. Mabel Emmons and the present Mrs. Walter Lackey who has served so faithfully since August, 1947.

January 7, 1936, the Mentone Library Board purchased a lot and building on the south side of Main street that served as quarters for the library until it was moved to the new building the 23rd day of last January.

The four photos at the bottom of this page were taken on the inside of the new library, and although they do not show all areas of the interior, or the many books and periodicals for the benefit of patrons, it will give our readers a fair impression of the beauty and convenience that has been provided.

The interior arrangement has been in strict accordance with established procedures for libraries, and the state librarian. There is ample provision for all ages of readers, and the librarian has made it a practice to provide a number of programs that are intended to teach our younger generations the value and entertainment to be secured through the use of the material in the institution.

Mentone Home Demonstration News

The Mentone Home Demonstration club held its April meeting at Pete's Lunch. The meeting was opened by Vice President Eloise Long, and the history of the song of the month, "All Through The Night," was given by Genevieve Warren. It was then sung by the group. All repeated the creed. Two selections, "The Right Road" and "The Shadow of the Cross," were used for meditation by Melissa Unzicker. Roll call was answered by describing "My Easter Hat." The secretary's and treasurer's reports were read and approved. The garden leader's lesson was given by Olive Tucker, and some of the points were to plan before planting, and different dusts for plants.

Esther Sarber, our president, gave a report on the president's council meeting at the Steer Inn.

A garden club is to start soon, there are now 72 clubs in the county, and our share in fair stock is to be called in and re-issued, after which it will be called membership stock.

Plans are for us to have our anniversary dinner April 22.

Agnes Rans received the mystery package, and auction purchases were made by Helen Weirick, Melissa Unzicker and Olive Tucker.

The meeting was closed by singing the club prayer songs. There were sixteen members and one guest present. Hostesses were Dessie Cramblet and Melissa Unzicker.

Mrs. Lon Walters and Mrs. Harry Clymer spent Tuesday afternoon with Mrs. Dorothea Overmeyer. They also visited the farm of Mrs. Clymer to see how everything was coming along down there.

Family Finances

One reason many of us do not do a good job in our savings program is because we are not systematic about it. Here are a few tips others have found helpful and you might want to try:

- Save your dimes—each one of them. Don't spend any dime you get in change. Try this for 30 days.
- Pay yourself first. When you take your pay envelope or check to the bank, deposit $5 or any other amount into savings. Make it a regular part of your budget. No matter how small the amount—bank something for yourself each payday.
- Look ahead. Picture your children going to college, your retirement, or some other goal which is 15 or 20 years off. Save for it by buying a juvenile endowment policy or a "20 pay" life insurance policy.

Mr. and Mrs. Norbert Darr and two sons, Douglas and Stephen of Chatsworth, Illinois, spent Friday and Saturday with Mrs. Edith Darr.

Visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Richards Sunday afternoon were Arthur Wagner of Muncie, Mr. and Mrs. Emory Rowland and children of Claypool and Mr. and Mrs. Dale Marks of Tippecanoe. Mr. and Mrs. Tony Hoover and grandson, Douglas Mark, were there for dinner.

Mentone Merry 4-Hers News

The Mentone Merry 4-Hers met Tuesday, April 19, at 7:00 in the Mentone Home Ec room. The meeting was called to order by the president, Sandra Eckert. A HISTORY OF MENTONE

By M. O. MENTZER,
Secretary Mentone Chamber of Commerce

I have often been asked "What did you do for recreation and entertainment?" It will seem that we did not lack on either of these. In the summer we young folks played ball, swam in the creek, worked at odd jobs. Our parents usually had something for us to do. Most people burned wood and we kids had to split and cord the wood and get things ready for winter.

During the summer there was a tent show in town about once a month. These were usually set up on the lot where the town hall now stands. If money was scarce we would find work around the tent for a free pass. There would always be some kid sent to the boss for the key to the center pole, a left handed monkey wrench or some other fake.

You who have watched television in the past few years have seen the kind of a show we saw 50 years ago. A medicine show, "so called", would come to town and usually had a platform attached to their wagon on which a free show was given. After the attention of the crowd was attained the "doctor" would go into his pitch and let me tell you they could out do Jack Berry in extolling the merits of their remedies. After his talk his assistants would go thru the crowd and sell the product always "guaranteed to cure all manner of diseases." When business got a little slow they would put on an act to stir up the crowd and start selling again.

We had one outfit that came to town which had several acrobats who did all kinds of stunts. They sold a very special kind of liniment that loosened your muscles and was good for arthritis, rheumatism, corns, bunions, you name it they had it. One of the stunts was to have one of the boys bend over backward until his hands were flat on the floor, then he would swing his head until his neck looked about a foot long, then he would collapse. Using this liniment on him he was soon brought to life and able to perform again. This was good for quite a few sales. One of the funny things about this stunt, people would get excited and a few women fainted, and they came back the next night and fainted again. This was sure good for business. Some of these shows would stay for two or three weeks.

I remember especially one show that came to town. This was a one-man show, one night only. He called himself Apache Charlie. He set up his wagon south of the main square, got out his banjo and played a few tunes, sang a few songs, then told the story of his life of how he was taken as a small boy by the Indians and raised as their own. He was very active with a gun, showed how he could shoot, throw knives, etc. The Indians had given him the secret of their mysterious cures. He said his firm was not spending money by newspaper advertising, but by direct benefit to the patrons. He then asked that the crowd pick an honest man to sit on the platform with him. An elderly man was selected, he then says "I will now show you how we advertise." Opening his trunk he held out boxes of corn salve, which he sold at 25 cents each. For every box sold he would take that quarter, reach in his pocket and get another, put them both in the hat. After he had sold a dozen or so boxes of this salve he asked everyone who had purchased a box to come up to the wagon and show their box. He then gave them back two quarters. This, he said, is the cheapest way to advertise. All were quite well pleased.

He then offered Apache Charlie Herbs of Life. These were sold at one dollar per package. All money at this time was silver (dollars I am talking about). When he sold a package of this medicine he would take the dollar received, take one from his pocket, place them both in the hat. Finally business got a little slow so he would take two dollars from his pocket placing them with the one from the patron, first marking the package with a special mark. I had come to town with my friend Ben Sell. His mother had sent him for groceries but he needed some of Apache Charlie's Herbs of Life. Charlie asked him if this was his money. He said, "yes". Are you sure this is your money? Again Ben said yes and after some further questioning he finally sold him a package at the same time telling him that this would be the best purchase he would make. After he had sold all he could he asked everyone to come to the wagon and hold up their purchase. He then said "Gentlemen this money is mine. If I wish to give it to you that is my privilege is it not?" They all said yes. He then said, "If I wish to give it to an orphan home it is also my privilege is it so?" Again they said yes. He then said, "If I wish to keep it myself it is also my privilege is it so?" They all had to say yes. He then said "That is what I am going to do." He had mixed up some of the medicine before so he asked them all to step up and take a dose of the wonderful medicine. Some had already had a bitter enough dose but a few did try it. Ben among them. When he came to Ben he said "young man was this your money?" Ben said "no", mother had sent me for groceries." "Very well young man, as I told you in the start this would be the best medicine you have ever had. Now take a fool's advice and don't bet on another, many times the man was correct.

It was a good lesson. I didn't buy any of his medicine because I had no money but I profited by the mistakes of others. Continued next week

MAHLON MENTZER'S FIRST AUTOMOBILE —

A short while ago M. O. Mentzer was looking through a magazine and saw an old-time advertisement of one of the first automobiles he ever owned. We thought perhaps our readers might like to compare some of the prices and specifications with the present day "short cuts to the poor house."

You cannot match this car. You cannot find another that combines runabout simplicity and liveliness with such power and capacity; such absolute strength and reliability and such style.

This car carried four people 87 miles on 13 1/2 gallons of gasoline in the recent Chicago to Cedar Lake contest; and carried four people 682 miles for $3.38 per passenger in the New York Motor Club's great six-day tour, winning the gold medal for all $1,500 cars.

When the extra seat is not in use it folds down neatly out of the way. Or you can buy it as a 2-seat car for $650 and afterwards add the extra seat.

This gives you a trim, handy car with almost inuring car ability but without the complications or expense. It gives you 26 miles an hour; two speeds and reverse; ample climbing power; and positive "get there."

A combination not found in any other car

Write for the 1907 catalogue which describes it in detail. Also the REO $1,250 five-passenger Touring Car.

13 Million Job Increase Predicted In Next Decade

The nation's labor market will increase by 13½ million persons in 1970, with the largest growth coming in age groups under 25 and over 44, according to Changing Times, the Kiplinger Magazine.

In its current "Months Ahead" column, a regular feature, the magazine predicts that although there won't be many more persons in the 25-44 age group at work ten years hence, the demand for their skills will soar. One-third of the working force will be women, with approximately half the women between 35 and 64 holding either full or part-time jobs. Farm workers are seen declining, probably in numbers equal to the 5,000,000 (mostly young people) who left the farms during the past 10 years. Only the skilled and educated farmers, the editors of the magazine conclude, are likely to find bright futures on the land.

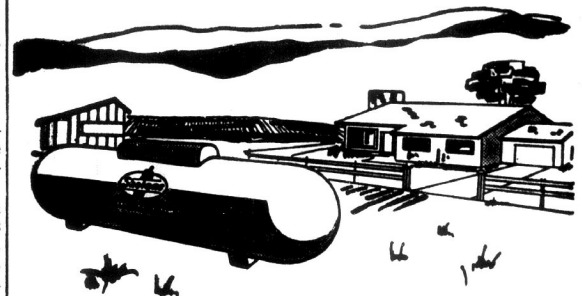

Glamor jobs of the future will be a great need for technicians to assist the scientists and engineers. Other fast-growing business and professions listed include teaching, construction, finance, insurance, real estate, retailing, selling and office work.

Service jobs expected to increase during the next decade include repairman, beauticians, practical nurses, hospital attendants, barbers, cooks, waiters, truck drivers, dry cleaners and laundry workers.

With these developments in the job market, the editors foresee an ever-increasing need for education. More than ever, they state, the college degree will be worth many times its cost, and the three out of ten workers without a high school education will find it most difficult to profit from the new opportunities in just about every field.

AL GREIDER

Republican Candidate for Kosciusko COUNTY TREASURER

- Graduate Greenville College, Greenville, Ill.
- 15 years office and accounting experience.
- Employed as accountant in local industry for past 10 years, except for one year Indiana Employment Security Division.
- 9 years operating own store.
- Resident and property owner Wayne Township, (Winona Lake) since 1946.
- Member Winona Lake Free Methodist Church.

The Treasurer's office is a service office in that the chief duty is in providing considerate service in receiving tax payments and properly maintaining the required records after payment has been made.

I feel that my office and accounting, as well as other business experience and familiarity with State record requirements would bring to the County Treasurer's office the kind of administration the taxpayers would appreciate.

Facts On Corn Planting Dates

Seventy Indiana county agents are planning population comparisons as part of their corn demonstrations in 1960.

In 1959, 44 county agents and farmers cooperated with the Agronomy Extension Service in rate of planting demonstrations on as many good Indiana farms. Yields, moisture, lodging and harvested populations were determined. Early, mid and full season hybrids were used at three populations each. Populations compared were roughly 11,000, 15,000 and 18,000 at harvest.

Early hybrids, as expected, gave their best yields at the highest populations. Yield differences were very little for the mid and full season hybrids at approximately 15,000 compared to 18,000 on the average. Moisture content averaged the same, but lodging was consistently greater at higher populations.

For 16,000 surviving population at harvest, a farmer should plant approximately 18,000, and for 18,000 final stand, at least 20,000 grains per acre. In 40 inch rows, he must drop one grain at nine inches for 16,000 surviving population, and one every eight inches for 18,000. This is almost one-third of a bushel of seed corn. Many medium flat grades count out about 65,000 grains per bushel.

Hybrids vary in their tolerance to heavy populations just as do their parental inbreds. Only hybrids of excellent yielding and standing ability should be used at high populations, reports K. E. Beeson, Purdue University extension agronomist.

Records in the State Five-Acre corn project indicate widespread interest in thick stands and new methods of planting. Highest population reported in 1959 was 36,000. Rarely did any stand in excess of 20,000 give satisfactory results. Heavy stands often produce a wildness of growth, severe lodging and a lot of nubbins. Water supply, fertility, temperature and in fact everything must be just right for satisfactory results, but when these environmental conditions are highly favorable, sensational yields can be expected, says Beeson.

Purdue University agricultural engineers advise farmers to plan now for livestock on pasture water needs. They suggest considering laying plastic pipe with a subsoiler for a low cost distribution system.

DRIVE IT!

DEAL!!!!

A pair of Corvairs recently recorded 27.03 and 26.21 miles per gallon in the 2,061.4-mile Mobilgas Economy Run. That's certified proof that Corvair skimps on gas costs. It saves other ways, too. Corvair is the only U. S. compact car that never needs antifreeze or costly radiator repairs. Come in and drive the compact car that outdoes them all.

Things Corvair gives you that America's other compact cars can't:

Practically flat floor . . . real foot room for the man in the middle. Fold-down rear seat gives 17.6 cu. ft. of extra storage space. Four-wheel independent suspension for a smoother, flatter ride. Rear-engine traction . . . that comes with the engine's weight bearing down on the rear wheels.

You probably realize already that the mileage figures Corvairs recorded in the Mobilgas Run are higher than the average driver can expect. But because the cars met every kind of driving condition—rugged mountain grades, long country straightaways, congested city traffic—those mileage figures prove Corvair's inherent ability to save. Operating costs take a nose dive the day you take delivery of a Corvair.

FARM PRICE INDEX RISES

The Indiana farm price index rose five percent from mid-February to mid-March, according to Purdue University agricultural economists and state-federal agricultural statisticians.

Purchasing power of Indiana farmers increased four percent while the index of prices paid by farmers rose one percent. Both purchasing power and farm prices of U.S. farmers increased three percent during the period.

Greatest increase came in the Indiana livestock price index, six percent, primarily as a result of a 16 percent rise in hog prices. However the grain price index increased only one percent.

Other major commodity price increases:

Lambs and chickens, eight percent; eggs, seven percent; turkeys, four percent; hay, five percent; potatoes, six percent; wool, nine percent and cattle, corn and wheat each one percent. The only prices declining were soybeans, down one percent, and whole milk down four percent.

As a result of higher hog prices, the hog-corn ratio rose 15 percent to 14.7. Other feed-price ratios which increased during the period were egg-feed, chicken, and broiler-feed, all up eight percent, and turkey-feed up four percent. Whole milk-feed and butterfatfeed ratios showed declines of seven and three percent respectively.

Primary Election
Next Tuesday

Next Tuesday is the day when the registered electors of the state go to the polls and select the candidates who will be on the ballots in the fall election.

The aspiring candidates have been working fervently the past few weeks attempting to get their messages to the voters, and each of them is entitled to careful consideration.

Many feel that perhaps the primary isn't so important, but this is not always so. If a voter fails to exercise his privilege in selecting the candidates, he may find his only choices not to his liking when he is confronted with his ballot come next November.

Americans have a great privilege in elections—even though there are some areas that need improvement—and they should appreciate that privilege sufficiently to at least cast a vote this Tuesday.

GAS NOW
IN MAINS

Stan Evans, manager of the Warsaw unit of the Northern Indiana Public Service Co., announced Wednesday that the new gas mains in Mentone have been fully tested and are now filled with gas ready for users.

Workmen started this week making service connections and the company would like to make all such connections while the men are working within the town, as it might be difficult to find time to make new connections at a later date.

PTA NAMES
NEW OFFICERS

Jean Pritchard has been elected as president of the Mentone Parent-Teacher Association. The vice president is Everett Besson; Mrs. Bob Smith, secretary, and Mrs. Charles Hunter, treasurer.

May 11th there will be a Home Ec. Dept. style show for women and the Agriculture and shop department will have a special display and program for the men.

There will be baby sitters for the children.

During the business session the new officers will be installed and the speech students will entertain.

POULTRY TEAM
PLACES FIRST

The Mentone FFA and 4-H were represented by four judging teams at the District 2 FFA and 4-H judging contests held at Huntington, Saturday, April 23rd.

The poultry team placed first in the District, Larry Greulach tied for high individual honors, other team members are Doyle Eiler, Larry Eiler and Phil Nelson.

The crops team placed fourth in the contest, Jim Mikel was 6th place individual and Steve Mikel was 9th high individual, other team members were Bob Long and Dick Long.

The FFA Livestock team tied for 15th place, team members were John Scott, Eddie Tridle, Jim Keirn and Steve Shirey.

The 4-H livestock team placed 22nd, team members were Linda Blackburn, Janet Besson, Judy Besson and Diana Blackburn.

The two livestock teams placed first and second in the Kosciusko County livestock judging contest held April 18th.

The poultry and crops team will compete at the state judging contests at the State Fair next August.

Mrs. Wehrly
Dies Suddenly

Mrs. Clara Wehrly, 86, a former resident of Mentone, passed away April 16 at the Church of The Brethren Home at Mexico, Indiana. Her death was unexpected as she had not been ill.

Surviving are two sons, John of Flint, Michigan; and Harley of Waukegan Illinois; two daughters, Cilia Miller of So. Whitley and Mrs. Percy (Stella) Swick of Akron; one brother, Jos Dillman of Tiosa; fourteen grandchildren and thirty-three great-grandchildren.

Services were held on Tuesday at So. Whitley with burial at Pierceton.

Children's Story

There will be a class for pre-school children.

COUNTERPOINT

By the Editor's Wife

"To own a bit of ground, to scratch it with a hoe, to plant seeds, and watch the renewal of life—that is the commonest delight of the race, the most satisfactory thing a man can do." Thus spoke Charles Dudley Warner about a hundred years ago. Along this same line of thought, here is another quotation, by the same author, which the Editor would choose at this particular time: "What a man needs in gardening is a cast-iron back, with a hinge in it."

Mrs. Dora Whetstone tells us that she was born in a log cabin just over the line in Marshall county. It was built by her father. She remembers that a room was added when an aunt came to live with them.

Here are a few more things women want invented: push-button beds that rise and lower for cleaning or making; carpet sweepers with magnets (to pick up bobby-pins, etc.); a corner attachment for paint rollers; plastic baseboards for easier cleaning, and illuminated door knobs.

For the past several days I have been spying on a "home-maker." She, Mrs. Dove, that is, has been delicately examining and discarding every blade of dead grass and fragile twig in our yard. (I say "Mrs." by pure intuition—no male would be so "choosy" or "fussy" about building material for a home.) This statement may cause some debate, I realize.

We enjoyed this: "Why are you crying, Stanley?" asked mother.

"Papa hit his finger with a hammer," sobbed Stanley. "You shouldn't cry about that. Why didn't you laugh?" "I did."

NEW SON

A son, James Aaron, weighing seven pounds five ounces, was born to Mr. and Mrs. Chester Smith at the Woodlawn hospital Friday. Mother and son are now at home.

Grandparents are Ora Smith of Mentone and Mr. and Mrs. Sam Smith of Spencer, Ind.

New Telephone
Building Started

Construction has begun on an expansion of facilities at Tippecanoe, Indiana, according to T. E. Lemmon, district commercial manager of General Telephone.

The new building should be completed sometime next month and after completion, new equipment will be installed which will give additional service and intercept service for vacant numbers. It will also provide selective ringing and will enable customers to retain the same telephone number when they move within the exchange or their service is regraded.

A contract has been made with the Fulton Lumber Company for a concrete block building to house the equipment. The architects are Medland & Bowman.

The equipment should be installed and ready for operation before the end of 1960.

IN JUSTICE COURT

Five local youths appeared in the court of Justice of the Peace C. O. Eiler, Mentone, Thursday evening, April 21, to answer to a charge of disorderly conduct on Friday evening, April 15. The affidavits were filed by Russell Carper, Mentone, and the warrants were served by Officer Chester Miller.

Fred Anderson appeared prior to the time set for the hearings and entered a plea of guilty, and paid a fine of $1.00 and costs, totalling $17, assessed by the court.

Philip Anderson, Robert Long, George Barkman and William Everman entered pleas of not guilty, at the hearing and were released on their own recognizances until a later date for trials on the charges.

James H. Shelly, of Elkhart, was brought into court, by Officer Chester Miller on the evening of April 24, to answer to a charge of failing to observe a stop sign at the intersection of State Roads 25 and 19. A guilty plea was entered by the defendant, and a fine of $1.00 and costs totalling $18.75 was assessed by the court and paid.

On the same evening, April 24, Officer Miller filed an affidavit, charging William Everman of Mentone, with illegal parking of an automobile on Main street in Mentone, late Saturday night. The defendant is cited to appear in Justice C. O. Eiler's court on Friday evening, April 29.

Library Open
House Successful

Everyone was well pleased with the response to the open house at the new Bell Memorial Library Sunday. Over 150 people visited the institution during the three hour period, and many of the visitors came from rather great distances.

The library board members were on hand to greet the visitors, and three young ladies assisted in giving the visitors a tour of the library. A number of ladies were on hand to serve each guest with punch, coffee and cookies.

WIN IN EASTER

Rhonda Kay Yazel, aged 8 years and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Yazel of Mentone, won first in the advanced division of the Times-Union Bugs Bunny coloring contest at Warsaw. She received a prize of $5.

Faith Goshert, aged 6 years and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Goshert of south of Mentone, placed second in the "Tots" division.

INFANT DIES

The infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Shilling, 10611 So. Depot St., Worth, Illinois, died last Monday morning. The grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Shilling of R. R. Warsaw, attended the graveside services for the baby. Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Shilling accompanied them to Illinois. Phil graduated in 1951 from the Mentone high school.

or's Conference on Recreation

the Indiana Advisory Committee on Recreation and Associate in Rural Youth at Purdue University, said county and city officials, Parent Teachers Association officers, leaders in the Farm Bureau, Boy Scouts, Campfire Girls and 4-H Clubs and other persons interested in recreation would attend.

"Gearing For Greater Leisure
In The Soaring Sixties" will be the theme of this year's conference.

Community workshops will be held during the morning and society.

The day's activities will con-

Governor's Advisory Committee on Recreation.

Speed Return Of Soil Tests

Farmers can get their soil test results sooner if they will dry their soil samples before sending them to the Purdue University Soil Testing Laboratory.

Samples may be dried by spreading the moist soil in a thin layer on a clean paper or pan and placing in the sun.
The soil may also be dried satisfactorily inside at room temperature. Soil samples should not be dried on a stove or in an oven.

Soil tests cannot be made on wet samples. Soils which are wet when received in the laboratory must be dried before testing. Soils in the sample boxes require several days for drying.

This extra drying time delays considerably the return of the soil test results and the fertilizer recommendations.

Soil sample boxes, field history forms, and shipping cartons may be obtained from county agricultural agents.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our heartfelt appreciation for the cards

Dam Home Demonstration Club

our Mother.

Where Does Your Garden Grow?

"Location of your flower garden should depend partly on how you plan to use your blossoms," advises C. E. Hoxsie, Purdue University horticulturist.

If flowers are to be used for cutting, a rectangular plot at the back of your garden or flowers in your vegetable garden will be easiest to handle.

"Don't break up the lawn with flower beds," Hoxsie pleads. "The resulting 'spotty' effect lessens the beauty of both lawn and flower. Flowering plants are most effective when used against a background of taller material such as shrubs, hedges or fences."

The form and place of garden areas around the living area of the home are varied, Hoxsie observes. Does your lot boast a naturalized area which can be used to advantage for flowering plants other than woody plant materials? Flowering plants can sometimes be used in foundation plantings, he informs. Flowers can be arranged both formally and informally in flower beds and borders.

Hoxsie advises against the use of automobile tires, water boilers, bottles and painted stones to edge a flower bed. Such materials detract from the effectiveness of the flowers, he says.

Farmers To Study Tax Problem

More than 40,000 specially prepared booklets on the Indiana tax structure are being mailed this week to local Farm Bureau leaders for use in more than 3,000 township discussion meetings. This is an effort by the organization to find an adequate and acceptable tax to give relief to property tax-payers, according to Indiana Farm Bureau President, George Doup, Columbus.

Information in these booklets has been compiled by the IFB tax study and Fiscal Policy Commission, named in response to a request from Farm Bureau members that such action be taken. The commission is comprised of: Harmon Rogers, New Ross; Ed Kuhn, Bickwell; Ralph Heine, Columbia City; Earl Blank, Corydon; Joseph Gowland, Valparaiso; O. B. Riggs, Sullivan; Virgil Cline, Selma; Paul McKinnis, Otterbein; Ross Atkinson, Paoli; William Carr Lentz, Columbus; Anson Thomas, Indianapolis; and Vance L. Denny, staff member of the IFB who acts as secretary of the commission.

In two meetings of the group last month, the Indiana taxing system and those of neighboring states were compared. The workability of a state net income tax and possible changes that might be made in the Indiana Gross Income Tax Law, together with the effect of each on property levies, will be considered at a third meeting to be called soon. The final result of this study and subsequent action on the townships and counties will take shape in the organization's policy recommendations to be adopted at the November convention.

NEW CATTLE SUPPLEMENT RESEARCH

Purdue University animal scientists have begun a long-range research program aimed at replacing the famed Purdue Supplement A, most widely used beef cattle supplement in the United States.

This was disclosed today by Dr. W. M. Beeson, head of animal nutrition research at Purdue. Beeson made the announcement at the annual Indiana Cattle Feeders' Day.

One experiment in the new research program already is in progress. It involves feeding supplements with high levels of protein (48 to 50 percent), with urea making up the extra protein equivalent. Urea is a non-protein source of nitrogen from which cows can make at least part of their own protein requirements.

Beeson told the some 2,000 cattle men from throughout the Midwest that the experiment is the "first step in a program to develop a 64 percent supplement that can be fed at the rate of one pound per animal daily and give results equivalent to two pounds of a 32 percent supplement."

A dozen lots of six Hereford steers each were fed on a basal ration of ground shelled corn (full fed), 15 to 20 pounds of corn silage and modifications of Supplement A with urea at the same protein level. The protein content of each supplement was increased by adding urea (262 percent protein equivalent) and reducing the amount of soybean meal in the formula.

L-lysine HCl, an amino acid, was added to the different levels of urea improved the daily gain five to 13 percent and feed efficiency of steers one to four percent," Beeson reported.

"Steers receiving no lysine gained an average of 2.09 lbs. daily, while those receiving lysine gained an average of 2.24 lbs. daily. However, addition of lysine to Supplement A was of no benefit," he added.

The new search program, which may run five or 10 years, is aimed at learning what can be added to a high urea supplement to help the cow's rumen to manufacture the animal's protein needs. The research will be carried out at Purdue's livestock experimental farm, site of Cattle Feeders' Day.

Soil structure improves each year a field is left in brome-grass, according to Purdue University agronomists. Brome improves the structure twice as fast as does alfalfa. Southern types of brome-grass, such as Lincoln and Achenbach, are the best varieties for Indiana.

BEFORE YOU BUY ANY MOWER --- make the 6 step test of a modern power mower .. and you'll buy a LAWN-BOY

LAWN-BOY
DELUXE

1. TILT the mower, as you would to clean, or mow along a hillside. Oil should not leak or spill. Lawn-Boy mowers keep oil in the engine for full-time protection.

2. FLEX the blade. Long, whippy blades cut unevenly, cause crankshaft damage. Lawn-Boy blade is prestressed, under tension, on a short, hard shaft, with bronze main bearings.

3. TAP mower housing. Thin steel housings vibrate, spring out of shape. Light-weight, rock-solid Lawn-Boy aluminum housings never do.

4. LIFT the mower . . . it should be light. Aluminum-light Lawn-Boy is nimble, easy to use, won't tire you out . . . even the handle fits better.

5. START the engine. Starting should be easy, fast, sure. Self-lubricating Lawn-Boy has hottest starting spark on any mower for year after year of easy, one-pull starting.

6. LISTEN to it. Does it roar . . . spit fumes or step ahead of you? It shouldn't. Quiet Lawn-Boy mufflers direct exhaust under the mower, away from you.

We add to the manufacturer's guarantee . . . ONE YEAR FREE LABOR SERVICE on any breakdown. (Does not apply to mowers used commercially.)

OVER BACK-COUNTRY ROADS AT 45
WITH A SKY-HIGH LOAD OF TIMBER

Chevy middleweight shows the big rigs how it's done!

That's a 6303 medium-duty Chevrolet powered by a 283-cu.-in. V8. But there's sure nothing medium-duty about the load. Mr. J. E. Blankinship, Arkansas logging contractor, says both of his torsion-spring 6303's "move along at 40 to 50 miles per hour with 55,000 pounds gross weight and maintain a 5-trip-a-day schedule with no trouble at all." Figure the money you save when you've got a medium-duty truck that can cover 30,000 back-country miles a year with a high-tonnage load!

We've never seen anything like the amount of praise truck owners are heaping on Chevy's new torsion spring suspension. Owners like the fact the truck handles a whole lot easier, can move faster off the road without beating the driver to death and shaking loose all the sheet metal. They like the idea of extra thousands of miles before trade-in! . . . Drive a '60 Chevy just once. It's a whole new experience.

Chevy middleweight averages 200 miles of back roads a day dogging timber out of the woods and delivering it to the mill at Crossett, Arkansas.

A HISTORY OF MENTONE

By M. O. MENTZER,
Secretary Mentone Chamber of Commerce

These were only a few of this type shows we had. It seems strange that these stunts could be pulled off every little while and people would not learn. People are no smarter today when you think of the misinformation on so many so-called bargains.

In the winter there was skating on the creek and a number of ponds. At this time the creek had not been dredged and there were a lot of fine places to skate, then there was a big pond north of the present school house. This was also a fine meeting place and usually the skating was good. We had some very fine skaters at this time. There was usually a log fire where we could warm ourselves and burn our shoes at the same time. If leather gets wet and is held close to the fire it will get brittle then the man who sold the shoes is blamed for selling poor leather.

It seems to me that we had more snow then, possibly because we shoveled it into the road instead of out. This made fine sledding. We could always find some place to go for an oyster supper or a party. Filling the sled with straw and piling on blankets away we would go, young and full of fun, we couldn't get cold.

In the spring of the year there would be traveling shows come to the opera house and the admission was usually a quarter. When we knew a show was coming we would save our money for it. If it looked like it would be a good show we would go (it usually looked like it would be good).

There was a home show quite frequently and those who took part in these would have a wonderful time practicing. When the final night came and all was ready we would find quite a few who would forget their lines. We always had a prompter in the wings who was to give the cue. I remember one night when the man forgot his name was Fred Beagle, Charles Meredith was the prompter. Fred forgot, Charles gave him his lines and it seemed he couldn't get them and kept edging closer to the wings, finally said "UH". It brought down the house.

In playing ball or other games we had to furnish our own equipment. No collection was taken, the balls and bats were home made, we used a stone or a block of wood for bases. George Ralton's father was a carpenter and George usually had the best ball bat. We liked to play when he did so we could use his bat.

About this time in the history of Mentone the Manwaring Brothers, Art, Loren and John decided to build a factory. It would be a factory making things out of wood of which we had plenty. On the lots west of Esther Harley's home they built a two story cement block L shaped factory. I think they made the blocks on the site and when they were ready erected the building. It seemed like a large building to me as a small boy. I well remember the chimney which stood several years after the building burned. I remember Frank Manwaring in later years kidding his father about the factory. He said they wanted to do something for the town in which they had prospered so they built a factory but didn't know what they were going to make. They did make quarter-round and other mouldings and finally made some little toy wagons. They tried several things but finally conceived the idea of making farm egg cases. These were made to carry twelve dozen eggs to market. This prevented breakage. Previous to this time farmers would bring the eggs to market in baskets or tubs filled with cut straw or oats. The merchant (all eggs were bartered at the stores then) would have to dig them out and it took lots of time. If they were not packed this way the breakage would be very bad.

These egg cases were sold to merchants who presented their customers with a card and with each purchase the amount would be punched out, then the farmer would be presented with one of these egg cases. This business was so profitable that they retired from the manufacturing business in about 1895 or 96. John Manwaring was the salesman, and he called on merchants thru Illinois, Indiana and Iowa. I have heard him tell how he would go from town to town selling these egg cases. Sometimes he would get a horse and buggy and drive all day from one place to another, then again he would use the railroad, but he kept on the go.

He must have been a good salesman as he would send in the orders here and they would load out car loads of these egg cases.

These cases held 12 dozen each which was about the weekly amount each farmer would have out. If he was a very large producer he would get two of these cases. It was quite a convenience for the farmer to be able to pack his eggs this way.

If it were possible for those who have passed on to see the way eggs are marketed now it would surely be a surprise.

Spittlebugs Are Costly

The cost of feeding Spittlebugs in Kosciusko County will be nearly a quarter of a million dollars this year. This estimate made by Donald E. Frantz, county agricultural agent, is based on a normal yield reduction caused by these insects on the hay and pasture land.

Spittlebugs have become our most common and most important insect pest. They are easy to control if sprayed at the right time. The insects are an early season pest and must be sprayed early as they complete their life cycle in April or May. The spraying should be done in May when the alfalfa is about six inches high.

Chemical controls of all weeds and insects are under close scrutiny by the federal Food and Drug Administration and by the general public, says Mr. Frantz. Because of this they must be used exactly as prescribed by the manufacturer.

Recommendations on materials to use may be obtained from the county agricultural extension office.

Be-About Group Meets Recently

The Be-about Missionary group met at the country home of Mrs. Everett Beason on Monday evening April 25th.

"He keeps me Singing" was sung by the group, after which Mrs. Kenneth Romine read from Isaiah 26:3, and a short article on "Praying for Patience."

During the business meeting, conducted by Mrs. Wayne Bowser, plans were made for the Annual "Ladies" night at the church, and committees were appointed. After circle prayer, the group then rolled bandages, and sewed for the missionaries.

Tasty refreshments were served by the hostess to Mrs. Raymond Lewis, Mrs. Ed Bach, Mrs. Jon Rouch, Mrs. Lewis Norwood, Mrs. Everett Welborn, Mrs. Jim Gates, Mrs. Glen McGinnis, Mrs. Tobie Blalock, Mrs. Charles Hunter, Mrs. Wayne Bowser and Mrs. Kenneth Romine.

Band Seeding Best For Grass

Band seeding helps small grass legume plants compete with oats and weed in spring seedlings, says Lester H. Smith, Purdue University extension agronomist.

The seed is placed just above the band of fertilizer through this method. When the seed germinates, the fertilizer helps it develop an extensive root system necessary to withstand drought and shade, he explains.

Too, band seeding saves time. One-half less grass seed and one-third less legume seed gives better stands than from broadcast methods. The saving in seed can easily offset the cost of converting a grain drill for band seeding.

Smith emphasizes that it's important to remove the drag chains from a drill that has been converted. The drag chains scatter the seeds away from the band of fertilizer.

Band seeding has been a popular practice of seeding for about 25 years, but many drills still need to be converted, according to Smith.

Tips On Tree Planting

Tree seedlings must be kept moist from the time they leave the nursery until they are planted, Ed Lott, Purdue University extension forester, reminds Indiana land owners who have ordered trees to be delivered in time for spring planting this year.

A good root system is essential to successful planting and, unless care is taken, roots dry out very rapidly and are injured, warns Lott.

With an upsurge of tree planting under the Soil Bank Conservation Reserve plan and other state and federal programs to encourage rebuilding of forest reserves, many land owners without previous experience will be planting trees this spring. Lott advises these new foresters that seedlings should be watered immediately when they arrive from the nursery and planted as soon as possible. Stored in a cool place and kept moist, they will remain in good condition for several days.

Seedlings that must be kept for more than 4 to 5 days should be "heeled in" in moist soil. To do this, dig an open V-shaped trench. Then open the bundle of trees and spread the roots out along one side of the trench. Fill in with soil so all roots are covered and drench with water. Stamp down the soil for a firm covering and keep moist until planting.

On planting day, be sure to keep the roots covered with a damp material like wet moss, or keep the roots submerged in a puddle or bucket. Never allow the roots to be exposed to sun or wind, even for an hour.

County agents or local foresters will give advice about the best methods for planting trees on your land, says Lott. They may also tell you where tree planting machinery can be rented or contract planters contacted.

Suggestions To Rose Gardeners

The first warm spring day finds rose gardeners out in the yard sifting the soil through their fingers and plotting for the summer.

"Roses as a group vary considerably in soil preference," says E. R. Honeywell, Purdue University horticulturist. "In general, however, they respond best in soils which have been richly prepared and well drained. This is especially true of Hybrid Teas, Hybrid Perpetuals, Dwarf Polyanthus, Floribundas and Grandifloras."

To prepare soil, spade to a depth of 10 to 12 inches. If the soil seems heavy and poorly drained a three or four inch tile should be laid. A 3 or 4 inch layer of gravel or cinders placed to a depth of 10 or 12 inches may be used but seldom gives as good results as tile, Honeywell advises.

Well-rotted manure, thoroughly worked into the soil, is beneficial. If manure is not available, substitute well-decayed organic materials such as leaves, lawn clippings, peat or leaf mold.

Commercial fertilizer can be safely used in soil preparation. Bone meal, or acid phosphate, applied at the rate of 10 lbs. per 100 square feet of soil area, is recommended. An 8-8-8, 10-10-10 or similar analysis applied at the rate of six to eight lbs. per 100 square feet of bed area can be substituted.

"Lime is not a fertilizer," Honeywell warns, "and should seldom be applied to garden roses because most roses prefer slightly acid soils."

BF & BL Families Show Gains

Hoosier farm families participating in the Better Farming and Better Living program increased their average net worth $3,914 in 1958. This compares to an increase of $2,680 in 1957. Almost 3,600 families, including 770 new families, took part.

Paul B. Crooks, who directs the BF & BL program for Purdue University's agricultural extension service, reports that 28 assistant county agents engaged exclusively in this work in 1959. In other counties, county agents carried on the work in addition to their other duties.

In addition to monetary gain, families improved their living conditions and added to their family satisfactions, Crooks points out.

The average income on which the families paid federal income taxes, based on federal income tax statements, was increased by slightly more than $4 million, Crooks asserts.

"If we assume that 20 percent of this amount was paid in federal income taxes, this means that $826,000 more was paid to the federal government than in 1957. This does not include additional Indiana gross income taxes or personal property tax that were paid."

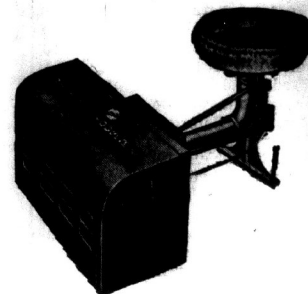

Families are encouraged to establish long-term and short-term goals. In order of importance, they listed as long-term goals last year education, housing, farm buildings, farm ownership and recreation and leisure. Short term goals, in order, were improve farm productivity, health, education for family, farmstead arrangement and family security. Almost half the families reached these short-term goals.

Purdue University dairy research shows that milk cows on excellent pasture consumed 200 to 350 lbs. of green grass daily. The cows produced 40 to 60 lbs. of milk daily and maintained their body weight without additional concentrates.
