HOME FROM HOSPITAL

A. I. Nelson, who has been in the Murphy Medical Center with a heart condition, was brought to his home in Mentone Wednesday.

REMAINS THE SAME

Clayton Goodwin remains in a serious condition at the Woodlawn hospital at Rochester, although he was visiting in a more rational manner today than for some time past.

FARM FACTS

Indiana farmers saved 309,000 lambs this year, six percent more than 1957 and 15 percent more than the 10-year average, according to state-federal agricultural statisticians at Purdue University. This is the largest Indiana lamb crop since 1945.

Bromegrass fields in which alfalfa has thinned out will make a vigorous fall growth if 50 to 75 pounds of nitrogen are applied in late August, Purdue University agronomists assert.

Chinese and American elm trees, infested with elf leaf beetle, should be sprayed with DDT to control the second generation of this pest, Purdue University entomologists say. Foundation of the house can also be sprayed to prevent beetles from entering the house to hibernate.

Removing the suckers from sweet corn is a waste of time and reduces the yield, Purdue University horticulturists remind home gardeners.

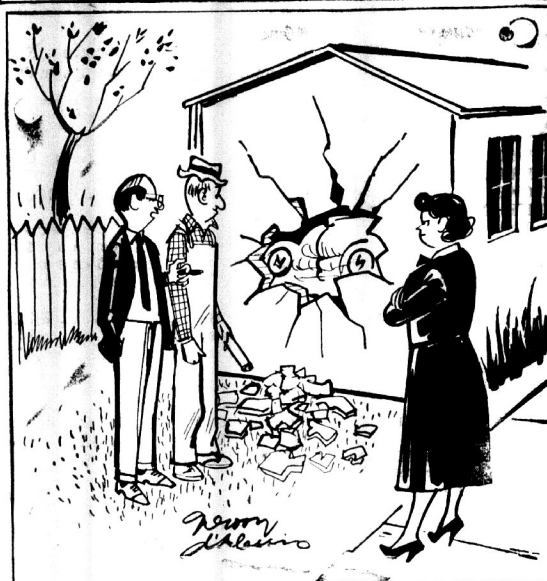

Purdue University poultrymen warn that egg baskets should not be filled more than two-thirds full during hot weather. Egg shells are thinner in the summer and are more likely to break if baskets are overloaded.

Phlox plants should be sprayed or dusted with DDT to prevent injury from phlox plant bugs, says Purdue University entomologists.

Laying Flocks Growing Larger

A recent Purdue University study shows that Indiana laying flocks are growing larger each year. This report comes from E. W. Kehrberg and Ludwig Elsgruber, agricultural economists, and J. W. Sicer, poultry specialist.

In 1940 only one percent of Indiana laying flocks contained more than 400 birds. By 1954 almost six percent of the flocks were over 400 birds. Northern Indiana flocks averaged larger; 52 percent of the flocks in a selected market area were over 500 birds, and nine percent numbered over 1,500 birds.

Most poultry raisers feel that the 1,500 flock-size is too small for an efficient unit. Eighteen percent of a group of laying flock owners interviewed for the Purdue study said that they could manage up to 2,500 birds on a full-time basis, and nine percent believed they could handle 10,000 or more.

The farmers interviewed felt there were several important factors in determining laying flock size. They listed housing facilities and equipment available on the farm, price of eggs and price of feed.

When asked what will limit laying flock size in the future, slightly more than half of the farmers interviewed cited availability of competent labor. The majority said disease and lack of capital would not limit flock size.

The conclusion of this study points to a continuing upward trend in laying flock size. As new buildings and equipment come into use, flock size will probably increase in order to make optimum use of the operator's labor and capital.

Combages should be checked before the soybean harvest, say Purdue University agricultural engineers. They suggest replacing worn parts which showed up during the wheat and oats harvest.

Uses For Gourds

Gardeners who are growing gourds for use as ornaments, bird houses or exhibits have been offered some suggestions by W. B. Ward, extension horticulturist at Purdue University.

Ward says the larger gourds should be left on the vines until the outer rind has hardened and turned from green to an amber color.

The gourds should then be cut from the vines, hung up by the stem in a dry, warm place and left until the seeds rattle on the inside.

To finish to a high luster, Ward suggests that the skin be scraped off and the gourd sanded down. He adds that dipper-type or bottle-neck gourds may be used for birdhouses.

ADVERTISE! IT PAYS!

Lack of feed and water are frequently responsible for much of the milk production decline during August, Purdue University dairy scientists point out. Feeding hay and grass silage can help cut grain costs.

CARD OF THANKS

We are sincerely grateful for the many good things this community and surrounding communities have done for Florence during her illness; for the many consoling words written and said to cheer her, especially for the prayers that were said which were a comfort to her and to us. Our thanks go also to her nurses and doctors—we feel she had the best. To the ones who cared for her after death our many thanks. We know we had the prayers of the Jew, the Gentile and the Catholic as well as our very own ministers and the ministers of our entire town. This is a crisis our little family is going through, and we hope you will continue to pray for us.

Remodeling Alfalfa Roots

Purdue University plant breeders, attempting to develop a "heave resistant" alfalfa variety, are remodeling the plant's root system.

R. L. Davis, veteran alfalfa breeder, points out that alfalfa does not necessarily have to grow tap roots which make it susceptible to winter heaving of the soil. A bushy root system can feed the plant just as efficiently, he explains.

The tap root goes deep into the soil for water. But it's also easy to break or pull out when the ground heaves from freezing and thawing. Moreover the tap root helps put the crown of the alfalfa plant above ground level where a hard freeze can kill it.

Davis reports that some alfalfas did not winter kill completely at Purdue's Southern Indiana Forage Farm near French Lick after what was described as "the worst heaving damage that I've ever seen." The A-600, Naraganset and Vernal varieties came through with the least damage. However, much more "heave resistance" is needed, he emphasizes.

The alfalfa tap root stems from an ancestor of most present day varieties, Medicago sativa. The more bushy root system probably comes from the old Medicago falcata species, the plant breeder says.

Davis hopes to combine the characteristics from sativa species with the winter hardiness and bushy root "heave resistance" of falcata.

The experiments, now well underway, are being conducted at the Southern Indiana Forage Farm and at the University's greenhouses on the Purdue agricultural campus.

Rhinitis Prevention in Swine

One of the best precautions against atrophic rhinitis, a respiratory disease of young pigs, is to purchase breeding stock only from disease-free herds, says Dr. F. A. Hall, Purdue University extension veterinarian.

This sneezing disease of pigs causes heavy economic losses. The exact cause has not been discovered and there is no known cure. Veterinarians have developed programs to keep the disease from getting a start and to bring it under control if it gains a foothold.

If a sow's pigs have symptoms of rhinitis, the sow should be separated from the herd and sold at weaning time. The pigs should also be sold as soon as they are ready for market. By eliminating susceptible animals, the disease may be kept under control.

In extreme cases Hall suggests that it may become necessary to sell the complete herd and start with new, clean breeding stock. Hall advises keeping only sows which produce good litters and practicing good sanitation.

Atrophic rhinitis usually infects very young pigs, but the disease may not become evident until they are two or three months old. Symptoms include sneezing, a stunted growth and extremely poor gains, shaking the head, and rubbing the nose.

Straw Hinders Hay Yields

Purdue University agronomists urge farmers to clip and remove straw after combining their grain.

Purdue agronomy tests showed that this practice doubles hay yields the following year. Similar results have been reported from adjoining states.

Damage to the grass and legume seedings is not caused entirely by smothering, although in seasons of heavy growth, such as this year, it is a major factor.

autumn will be largely or entirely dead by the following spring in fields where straw, stubble, weeds or combination of them amounting to more than a ton an acre is left in the field. The reason is not definitely known, but agronomists say they think it is caused by disease which thrives under moist conditions.

Field mice may also damage the new seeding either before or at the time of clipping for weed control.

The exception is sweet clover. Sweet clover plants may be killed by clipping straw, the agronomists say. Sweet clover will stand straw cover and compete with weeds better than the hay-type legumes.

Married In South Bend

Miss Judith Ann Cobb, wearing a white taffeta gown with a V-neck of re-embroidered Alencon lace, became the bride Saturday of William C. Blue. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Blue, 64199 Bremen Hwy., South Bend. Her parents are Mr. and Mrs. Orville L. Cobb, 906 S. 26th St., South Bend.

Rev. Russell E. Kern performed the 2 p. m. ceremony in the River Park Methodist Church. Baskets of white gladioli and greenery as well as white pew bows decorated the sanctuary. Mrs. James McGhee was the vocalist, accompanied by Mrs. Hannah Moore at the organ.

Re-embroidered Alencon lace formed cap sleeves on the bouffant floor-length wedding gown of the bride which ended in a chapel train. A long apron overskirt was draped to form a bow bustle in the back. Her veil of silk illusion fell from a wreath of pearl orange blossoms. The bride carried a colonial bouquet of white gamellias.

Miss Andrea Cobb was the maid of honor for her sister. Bridesmaids were Miss Linda Cobb, another sister of the bride; Mrs. Thomas A. Troeger, Mrs. Roger Jurgovan and Miss June Bartels, of Benton Harbor.

Miss Pamela Blue, sister of the bridegroom, was the junior bridesmaid.

Roger Jurgovan was the best man. Ushers were Byron Blue, brother of the bridegroom; Richard Green, William Lewis, Greenwich, Conn.; John W. Ingold III, Wheaton, Illinois, and James Purdie, Evansville, Ind.

Following a reception in the church social rooms the couple left for Chicago where they will be until August 14 when they will leave for Santa Monica, Calif. Mr. Blue will be employed by Douglas Aircraft.

The bride is a graduate of John Adams High School and attended Purdue University, Lafayette, Ind. She is a member of Pi Beta Phi, national social sorority. Mr. Blue is a graduate of John Adams High School and Purdue University. He is affiliated with Phi Gamma Delta, national social fraternity.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Harman and children returned Monday evening after spending ten days vacationing in Michigan.

Vault Door Gets Stubbörn

They say if one waits long enough anything will happen, and the folks at the Farmers State Bank came to the conclusion it was their turn Saturday morning. The bank vault door refused to yield as it had been the custom, and it was necessary to go to another bank to secure sufficient cash to operate for the day.

Fred Marty had a rough day, Saturday, as all blamed him for setting the time clock wrong. (And Fred never tried to deny it.) However, when it still refused to open Monday morning, someone decided to yank the big door off its hinges—and it opened.

The offending culprit was then found to be a kernel of carmel corn. The vault door weighs several tons, yet is machined to fit the opening so perfectly that it is practically airtight.

We imagine some of the folks at the bank were surely praying Saturday that someone didn't decide to rob them. Not many such burglars would have believed them if someone told them the vault door just wouldn't open.

Mrs. Emmons

Named Chief Of Staff

At a meeting held Sunday evening, Dr. Dan L. Urschel, of Mentone was named chief of staff of the Murphy Medical Center at Warsaw. The chief of staff and the medical men of the hospital have the responsibility of management in all professional matters and has no authority in the business management of the institution. A chief of staff arrangement is routine in most hospitals.

The election of Dr. Urschel to this position of authority will in no wise change his present activity in the local clinic or at other hospitals. He is also a staff member of hospitals at Plymouth, Rochester and Peru, and is frequently called to other areas for professional diagnosis and consultation.

Brother Dies

They spent two days in London, two in Paris and five days at the World's Fair at Brussels, Belgium. They were privileged to visit other interesting places on the scheduled tour. Mr. Walburn said one of the worst things is the food you get.

The plane trip from New York to Brussels took ten hours and forty-five minutes and due to the five hour change in the time zones, they had but two and a half hours of "night."

H. D. Club Beaver Dam

The July meeting of the Beaver Dam Home Demonstration Club was held at the home of Vesta Creakbaum with Blanche Dickey as co-hostess.

Mrs. Dickey, vice-president, opened the meeting. After the pledge to the flag the meeting was turned over to Alta Hudson, the president.

During the business session the secret club trip was discussed and plans were made for this trip to be taken on Aug. 7. The meeting closed with the Club Collect. Dainty refreshments were served and all were to be at Beaver Dam August 7 at four o'clock.

At the appointed time 19 members left for the trip which is an annual event. We arrived at Winona Lake at 4:45 and all boarded the Winona Queen and enjoyed a trip around Winona Lake. Points of interest were pointed out as we cruised the 13 miles around the lake.

At 6:30 we arrived at the Westminster Hotel for a smorgasbord dinner which needless to say was enjoyed by all.

The remainder of the evening was spent at the Wagon Wheel enjoying the hilarious comedy play "The Boy Friend."

All arrived home after a very pleasant evening secretly planned by Mrs. Stella Swick and Mrs. Eleanor Malott. Thanks from all to our fine committee.

Beaver Dam Club Tour

73 members, parents and friends of the Beaver Dam Boy's 4-H Club met on Monday preceding the County Fair and went on an all day tour conducted by the leader, Gerald Smalley.

A basket dinner was enjoyed at noon at the Beaver Dam Conservation Club House and the tour ended that evening at the Diane Ballenger home where a business meeting was conducted by the club president, Marlin Valentine and watermelon was served to all.

Banks lead in Farm Credit

Indiana banks were serving farmers with more credit than any other group of lenders on January 1 of this year, according to K. A. Riner, Executive Vice President, Farmers State Bank, Mentone, who represents the Indiana Bankers Association as Kosciusko County Agricultural Key Banker. During 1957, the state's banks maintained their leadership in agricultural credit services.

Based on the seventeenth annual farm lending summary of the Agricultural Commission of the American Bankers Association, Mr. Riner reported that "at the beginning of the year, Indiana banks were helping farmers with $167,402,000 in loans, 4 per cent more than a year previous. This total included $103,850,000 in production loans and $63,552,000 in agricultural mortgages. On the same date, $122,475,000 in agricultural loans were held by insurance companies, $56,082,000 by Federal Land Banks, $3,087,000 by Production Credit Associations, and $8,156,000 in nonreal estate loans plus $9,374,000 in real estate loans by the Farmers Home Administration. It can be seen from these figures that more than two-thirds of the production credit used by Indiana farmers came from banks."

Mr. Riner said that "more and more, the banks in Indiana find that farmers need a new type of credit to help finance the rapid increase in capital requirements. To meet this changing need, an increasing amount of agricultural credit from Indiana banks is on an intermediate-term repayment basis.

"Intermediate-term loans are most frequently needed for machinery and equipment, livestock, soil improvements, additional land, and refinancing short-term notes. Over one-half of all real estate credit is used to finance those intermediate-type capital expenses.

"As a further service to help farmers improve their operations about one-third of all other bank agricultural loans have a repayment program longer than one year. Banks serve farmers with far more intermediate-term credit than any other group of lenders."

Mr. Riner believes that "farmers and bankers working together in this way help make Indiana agriculture more prosperous, and he reported that over 98 per cent of the insured commercial banks in Indiana are serving agriculture's credit needs."

He also reported that from January first, this year until June 23rd, which covers the period of the 1958 planting season, loans in all banks in Kosciusko County increased $1,481,672.00, from $16,313,351.00 to $17,795,023 representing an increase of nine percent. While figures are not available to determine the percentage of this increase that can be attributed to agricultural loans, past experience indicated that farm production loans in this area increase very substantially during this season of the year.

Control For Mosquitoes

The harried householder who battles mosquitoes around his home now has a new chemical helper in addition to DDT, says Glen Lehnker, Purdue University entomologist. Dieldrin, a chlorinated compound related to DDT, is the chemical.

Dieldrin can be used for spraying shrubbery, tree trunks, porch ceilings, screens and other mosquito resting places. It is likewise effective for spraying upon stagnant water to destroy mosquito larvae or "wrigglers."

Dieldrin is best purchased as a 15 percent liquid concentrate which must be diluted with water before it is used. "To make a mosquito spray add one-half pint of this concentrate to two gallons of water. This amount is enough for treating about 8,000 square feet or an average sized city lot," Lehnker explains.

Dieldrin can be harmful to humans if not properly used. It will also kill fish. It is important, therefore, to follow directions on the package.

Additional relief can be obtained by getting rid of receptacles containing water, such as tin cans and old tires. It is surprising how many mosquitoes can develop in a can full of water, Lehnker says. He adds that the newer mosquito and insect repellents such as diethyl toluamide for rubbing or spraying on the skin are surprisingly effective and should be given a trial.

How to use either DDT or dieldrin for mosquito control is described fully in Purdue Extension Mimeo E-26, available free from county agricultural agents.

Mrs. Leone Snyder and Mr. and Mrs. W. C. (Bill) Noel and daughters Ann and Mari Lee of Chicago, spent last Saturday at the John Laird home. Mrs. Edna Sarber and grandsons, Johnnie Zimmerman of Walkerton and Ronnie Tomsen of New Jersey called in the afternoon.

Parasites in Sheep Costly

This is the time of year to treat sheep flocks for the control of internal parasites, which reduce sheepmen's profits, reminds Dr. T. M. Curtin, Purdue University extension veterinarian.

Sheep are susceptible to stomach worms, intestinal worms, tape worms and lung worms. Animals become infested through swallowing parasitic eggs or larvae in pastures upon which infested sheep have grazed.

Since these pastures become "seeded" with eggs, rotational grazing should be practiced, Dr. Curtin says. Pastures should be allowed to stand idle at least six months so that drying, sunlight and heat can kill eggs and larvae.

Phenothiazine can aid in reducing stomach worms, but is not an absolute cure or preventative. It can be administered one part phenothiazine to nine parts of fine salt. This mixture should be kept before the animals at all times and protected from the sun and rain. Dr. Curtin emphasizes that this mixture should be avoided during breeding or gestation periods.

Ewes should be treated individually at least twice yearly. Whenever lambs appear unthrifty they should also be treated. Unthriftness is one of the common signs of worms in lambs.

Suggestions and details for the control of worms in sheep are contained in Purdue mimeo AH 175, "Control Internal Parasites for Greater Profits from Sheep". It is available without charge to Indiana residents at county agricultural agent's offices or by writing the agricultural publications office, Purdue, Lafayette.

Old Engines To Operate

For the eighth year, WOWO Farm Service Director Jay Gould will be the guest MC at the 8th annual reunion of "The Old Time Threshers and Saw Mill Operators" Thursday through Sunday, August 14-17, on the Whitbey farm eight miles north of Fort Wayne. Opening at ten each morning for a full day of meetings and contests, all open to the public, the festivities will continue after dark each evening for dancing and other group activities.

A WOWO Hospitality booth on the meeting grounds will dispense souvenirs and climax the last day by awarding a radio to one of the visitors. Girls from the area will represent the station in the booth to dispense the gifts.

During the four day meeting, there will be demonstrations of grain threshing, steam plowing and a performance by an old-time steam powered saw mill. Antique automobiles, model engines, early American gas tractors and other of the "finest and best steam traction engines" will be on display.

Clipping stubble on a thick, vigorous growth of sweet clover is liable to kill the sweet clover plants, warn Purdue University agronomists. Sweet clover will stand the straw cover and compete with weeds better than hay-type legumes.

Party Given For Summer Recreation Program Youngsters

About 250 parents, families and boys and girls who participated in the Little League and swimming program this summer met at the ball diamond Monday evening for a party. The Cubs, the winning ball team, was given recognition for the season's accomplishment. The Cardinals came in second, with the Yankees and White Sox coming in third and fourth.

Clayton Myers managed the summer recreation program and he had a very successful summer at it.

Baseball was played on Monday and Friday at the ball park in the afternoon. Boys came from Mentone and surrounding areas. The afternoon program attracted about 400 participants.

The swimming program turned out to be such a success that at times two and three cars were needed for transportation besides the bus.

Swimming instructions were given to some 50 area youth. A number of kids who did not take instructions learned to swim on their own.

The swimming program attracted over 1200 participants. This figure would have been higher but cold weather and the lack of transportation room cut the number down considerably.

The Mentone Girls team had a successful season. They spent most of the early part of the season practicing and playing 3 games with Talma at the end of the season. Their record was two wins and one loss. The managers were Clayton E. Myers and Ora McKinley.

The members are Susie Sullivan, Mona Ross, Donna VanGilder, Becky Keim, Linda Perrin, Loretta Smith, Donna Mellott, Barbara Unzieker, Janice Davis, Judy Barkman, Linda Goshert, Linda Long, Janice Mollenhour, Pam Hammer, Suellen Shepler, and Suellen Long.

The Team Roster for the Boys Baseball is as follows:

Pullet Selecting

"Do a careful job of selecting well matured, vigorous pullets at housing time and you'll probably have but little occasion to do much culling of your flock during the fall and winter."

That's the advice from Joe W. Sicer, Purdue University extension poultryman, who adds, "This will be particularly true if your pullets are from one of the well-bred egg strains."

The poultry specialist urges the culling of pullets with these characteristics:

Decidedly behind the rest of the flock in maturity and body development.

Retarded comb development when the bulk of the flock is nearly full combed.

Pinched backs and flat breasts. Poor in flesh, pale shanks, irregularly shaped pupils or grey eyes.

Any indication of disease or lack of vigor.

Sicer says that the combination of poor flesh and pale shanks is particularly serious. Experimental studies have shown that birds with this combination of faults are more likely to die or to lay fewer eggs during the year than are pullets in good flesh and with normal, deep yellow shanks at maturity.

"Hogging-off" Wheat

Indiana farmers, who may not be able to combine wheat because of unfavorable weather, may salvage some of the crop by turning hogs into the wheat field.

J. H. Conrad, Purdue University swine nutritionist, says that pigs weighing 50-150 pounds are best adapted to "hogging off" the cereal grain. At 150 pounds, he emphasizes, the hogs should be removed into the finishing lot.

For best gains under these circumstances hogs should be hand-fed three-fourths pound of protein supplement per animal daily. Abundant water and ample shade, either natural or artificial, must be provided.

Most efficient pasturing rate is 15 pigs for each acre of 35-40 bushel potential yielding wheat, Conrad says. If the animals are left in the wheat field for 30 days they should gain approximately a pound and a quarter a day.

Farmers needn't worry about damage to legume and grass seedlings in the field, unless the ground is extremely wet.

After "hogging off" the wheat, the straw should be clipped and removed to insure substantial hay yields next year.

Have Picnic

The Janke and Parsons picnic was at Camp Scholalo, on August 17. Those present were: Dolye Bolmer, Ft. Wayne; Mr. and Mrs. Walter Boice and family of Elkhart, Ind.; Mr. and Mrs. Valous Janke and family, R. R. 1, Claypool, Ind.; Mr. and Mrs. John Darman and family, Michigan City; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Richards, Rochester; Mr. and Mrs. Terry Luchine and family, Michigan City; Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Jellison and family, Michigan City; Mr. and Mrs. Junior East and family, R. R. 2, Warsaw; Mr. and Mrs. Aris Oormican and family, Ligonier; Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Rooker, Plymouth; Mr. and Mrs. Walter Parsons and family, Plymouth; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Miller and family, Plymouth.

There were several games played. The main one was horse shoe which was a close one. Grover Janke and John Darman were the finalists with Grover winning and receiving the Trophy. He was declared the horse Shoe Champ.

Damage Suit Filed

Damages of $7,000 are asked by Raymond D. Busenburg, Jr., 11, of Route 5, Warsaw, for injuries sustained in an auto-truck collision near Carmel, May 30, 1957, which claimed the life of his father and grandfather.

The complaint has been filed in Kosciusko circuit court through attorneys for the First National Bank, trustees of the estate. Busenburg was 10 years of age at the time of the accident.

Defendants in the complaint are V. W. Norris and Son, Inc., and James H. Elliott, of Rushville. The latter was the driver of the truck involved. He was hauling fertilizer for the Norris company.

The plaintiff alleges he was a passenger in the vehicle operated by his father at the time of the crash; that the defendant was negligent and drove the truck into the path of the Busenburg car.

The accident occurred about 6:45 on the morning of May 30, 1957, near Carmel, about 10 miles north of Indianapolis on U. S. Highway 31, in Hamilton County.

Lester Atchison, 57, of near Palestine, grandfather of the plaintiff was killed instantly in the collision. Sgt. Raymond Busenburg, father of the plaintiff, died of injuries about 12 hours later in a Nobleville hospital. Busenburg was an Air Force sergeant stationed at Bunker Hill at the time of the accident. Raymond Jr., sustained a fractured leg and a possible hip fracture. The driver of the truck suffered only minor injuries.

At the time of the collision, officers reported that Elliott travelling north on U. S. 31 about one mile north of Carmel, made a left hand turn directly into the path of the Busenburg auto which was traveling south.

Busenburg, his father-in-law and his son were enroute to the 500 mile Memorial Day race at Indianapolis.

Mr. and Mrs. Lester Anglin and son Lee, Terry Foster, Mrs. Pearl Mahoney and Velma Shaffer enjoyed a fish supper with Mr. and Mrs. Tom Harman and Pam near Palestine Sunday evening.

Mrs. John Lonergan and children of White Bear, Minnesota, are visiting with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Max Dunlap. Mr. Lonergan will join the family next Sunday and spend the next week at the Dunlap home.

Telephone Used Often

Now that Alaska is making the headlines in our daily papers, everyone is brushing up on facts and figures about our 49th state to be.

A little known fact about our northern neighbors is that they are the talkingest people on the globe—at least as far as the telephone is concerned.

According to "The World's Telephones", an annual survey by the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, Alaska averaged 630 conversations per person last year.

While Alaska may set the world record, Hoosiers also make mighty good use of their telephones.

For instance, according to T. E. Lemmon, district commercial manager of General Telephone, approximately 47 million calls were placed from 303,000 telephones in General's Indiana territory last month. This averages out to more than 154 calls per phone during the month—or more than five times per day, seven days a week.

Although we may not be a close second to the "talkingest" residents of Alaska, we are on the increase in our use of the telephone since our calls have jumped more than two million over the same period last year.

More Americans Abroad

More Americans than ever are vacationing abroad this year, according to the Motor Club's international travel department.

This is reflected in the fact that 440,884 passport documents were handled by the passport office of the department of state during the first six months of 1958, an increase of nearly 18 percent over the record breaking figures for the same period in 1957.

The motor club also reports that more Americans than ever before are seeing Europe by car this year.

During the first seven months of 1958, more than 71,000 American tourists obtained international driving permits. This surpasses by 18,000 the entire total of 1957 permits.

Tractors On The Highway

This is the time of year when vacationing motorists and farmers are on the nation's highways, warns F. R. Willsey, Purdue University farm safety specialist. Many times during field-working season farmers must cross a highway in order to get from one field to another. Sometimes they must also use the highway in order to drive home at the end of the day.

Tractors are slow moving vehicles, made for heavy field work and in most cases unstable at high speeds. In most collisions between farm tractors and automobiles, the tractor driver is the one who is killed.

"We all have to be more alert in watching out for farm driveways, and drivers should be aware that equipment might be on the highway," Willsey says. The farmer could help by carrying warning flags in the daytime and proper warning lights at night.

The national Safety Council cautions: Lack of electrical equipment doesn't absolve the farmer from the responsibility of carrying warning lights. A lantern combined with good reflectors can be a big help in warning approaching cars.

Plan ahead so that you can avoid unnecessary movement of farm equipment on heavily traveled roads, Willsey advises. It's much safer to leave the tractor in the field at night than go out on the highway without lights. It might even be a good idea to take your lunch to the field. This could save two trips home and back on a busy road.

Keep the tractor under control. Slow down for turns and leave the tractor in gear when going down hills. Only the most experienced operators should be given the responsibility for handling farm machinery on public roads. Better entrances to driveways and fields plus courtesy on the part of both the motorist and the farmer will save lives, Willsey points out.

Fumigate Stored Grain

Grain stored with a high moisture content is highly susceptible to weevil infestation, Glen Lehker, Purdue University extension entomologist, reminds Indiana farmers and grain handlers.

Lehker points out that insect and rodent contaminated grain can no longer be sold for food purposes. Federal food and drug laws now allow only one percent insect damaged kernels as contrasted to two percent in former years.

To date 130 cars of wheat have been seized throughout the country and condemned by federal inspectors. This means that farmers are finding it increasingly difficult, if not impossible, to sell contaminated grain, the Purdue specialist says. Stored wheat, therefore, should be examined now and fumigated if necessary.

There are many excellent fumigants on the market and if they fail to give satisfactory results, it is because they are not used properly, Lehker says. Of greatest importance is the use of enough material to kill the insects. Grain in wooden open-top bins requires from four to eight adlons of fumigant per 1,000 bushels, depending on the formulation used. Under no circumstances should less material be applied than called for in the directions; in many cases more is required. This is because label directions are usually based on gas tight bins of which few are in existence.

Lehker offers these additional directions: Be sure the grain surface is level and at least six inches below the top of the bin walls. Then sprinkle or spray the fumigant evenly over the entire grain surface. The fumigation job should be done on a warm day when there is no wind and when the temperature is above 70 degrees.

A Series Of Local Children's Pictures To Be Taken Free For Publication In The Mentone News

Tuesday, September 2 is the day for the picture taking of your youngsters! The Mentone News is having pictures taken of all children who are brought by their parents or other guardian to the Legion Hall between 10 a. m. and 5 p. m. absolutely free of charge.

The News, as in the past, wants a picture of your child to print in its forthcoming feature, "Citizens of Tomorrow" a series of photographic studies of local children. The more we get the better the feature will be.

It often seems to parents that children are little one minute and are grown up the next, so fast does a child's growing stage pass. Here is a splendid opportunity to catch a likeness of your child or children at the present stage for the pleasure you will get out of it in future years and for the pleasure you will enjoy in seeing it in print. You will want to clip it from this, your home town paper, and preserve it for the youngster when he or she grows up.

There is absolutely no charge or obligation for taking the pictures. Parents don't even have to be a subscriber to the News. You don't have to purchase pictures either, though you may obtain additional prints by arranging with the Studio representative if you want them. That is entirely up to you!

Appointments may be made by calling EL 3-3985 and asking for Mrs. D. Baum.

Coach Moves

The Abe Hooogenboom family moved to Concord Township in Elkhart County last week end, where he will coach and teach, and sent the following message to all their friends:

Dear Friends:

Life is full of decisions big ones small ones, easy ones and tough ones. All of us have to make them. I suppose one of the most difficult ones I've had to make was whether to accept a new position or to stay here in Mentone. My decision after doing a lot of pro and con thinking was to move on. Whether it was really what I wanted, I guess only time will tell.

I do want to take this opportunity to thank all of you who have so ardently supported me here and to thank the people in the Mentone community for the six wonderful years that we as a family have spent here.

To all the former students who have been in my classes, to the athletes who've been under my direction and to all those who've become my friends here, I wish you an affectionate farewell and God's richest blessings in the years which lie ahead.

Just one of You,

The Parade Committee reports that applications are still being processed, and from all indications, the Parade will last between two and a half to three hours.

So far, definite commitments have been received from 23 high school and municipal bands, from all sections of Indiana. 30 businesses have stated that they will have floats in the Parade, and indications are that this number will be doubled by September 13th.

Many Baton Groups and Horse Mounted and Horse drawn groups have been confirmed. As parade participants, color guards from Dowagiac and Berrien Springs, Michigan, and Osceola, South Bend, Mishawaka and Elkhart, Indiana will participate. 11 Antique automobiles, from a 1908 Nupmobile to a 1930 Auburn, will be included, along with 40 participants from the Elkhart Sports Car Club.

The parade will be led by composer, Meredith Wilson, and a band featuring his now famous "76 Trombones."

Seward Twp. Farm Bu. News

Seward, Franklin and Lake township Farm Bureaus enjoyed a picnic at Dick and Hazel's Resort on Yellow Creek Lake, the evening of August 19th.

After the picnic supper, Howard Warner, county vice-president, told of his trip to Washington, D. C. and glimpses into the work of our Farm Bureau secretary of agriculture, Roger Fleming, and our Representatives and Senators.

Highlights of his talk were location of buildings and offices in Washington, F. B. has many well-trained men, who are dedicated to their jobs, studying the 273 different commodities produced by our farmers, and their economic possibilities. Farmers' problems are practically the same throughout all the states. The Humane Slaughter bill, farmers are a minority group today so it behooves all of us to be alert to what is being done, or to bills being brought us. Always ask about them—Is it good? Is it sound? Is it good for the farmers and the public in general? Anything that isn't helpful to all will backfire.

Shade Trees Damaged

Lafayette, Ind.—Recent windstorms in Indiana serve as a reminder that men have contributed to the loss or severe damage of many shade trees, reports H. W. Gilbert, Purdue University extension landscape architect.

A large percentage of downed or broken trees were hollow, decayed or weak branched because of improper methods used to control tree growth in previous years, he says.

Professional arborists, with knowledge of the habits of different kinds of trees, know how to apply their craft in pruning a tree. To these arborists, the methods used by others which lessen the span of life and welfare of a tree are often referred to as "be-heading" or "butchery."

Gilbert believes that in many cases homeowners have waited too long before employing proper methods or professional arborists. For best results, corrective pruning should be done, anticipating the problem of size before it gets out of hand.

With the current loss of trees by disease and storms, the value of a good tree is more noticeable. Persons who plan to plant trees on home grounds have an opportunity to select from a wide variety. There are many trees to serve the purpose desired by the homeowner and which require a minimum of maintenance Gilbert says.

A bulletin on transplanting and care of shade trees can be obtained from the local county extension office.

Stop Egg Losses

Lafayette, Ind.—Thin, rough shelled eggs often cause serious financial loss to egg producers during hot weather, according to J. R. Sicer, Purdue University extension poultryman.

Whenever the temperature goes above 80 degrees, the ability of hens to form strong, sound shells is impaired. Higher temperatures aggravate the condition still further. But other factors also effect the soundness of egg shells and are often of greater influence than the weather, states Sicer.

Lack of sufficient lime in the ration is often the primary cause of thin shelled eggs. Oyster shell, a common source of lime for poultry, must be offered attractively if the hens are to eat enough. "Use hoppers high enough above the floor so that litter will not be scratched on top of the shell, or put the oyster shell in one end of the mash trough," Sicer suggests.

Hens must also have an adequate supply of Vitamin D before they can make use of the lime in the ration. Manganese sulphate—two pounds per ton of mash—is also needed for sound egg shells.

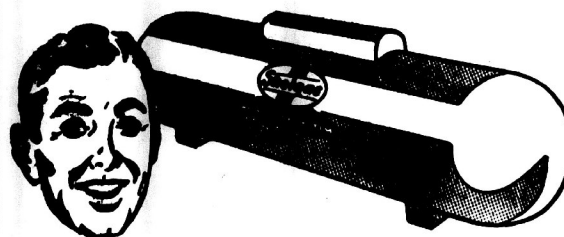

Thin shelled eggs are a common aftermath of an outbreak of infectious bronchitis or Newcastle disease in a flock of layers. These respiratory diseases affect the shell forming organs and sometimes injure them for long periods. Extra lime and vitamin D will not correct the condition when caused by these diseases.

To help the hens lay eggs with strong shells, Sicer recommends that poultrymen check with their feed men on the amount of lime, vitamin D and manganese in the ration; provide coarse oyster shell liberally to the hens; and do all you can with cross ventilation, whitewash on the roof, and perhaps insulation to keep the laying house cool.

Chicago Motor Club Hints

A motorist should never be distracted while driving, says the Motor Club. Children in the front seat can prove extremely bothersome to the driver; safety seats are recommended for the youngsters to make sure they do not interfere with the driver's concentration.

The Motor Club advises that the "lane straddler" is a major cause of driver annoyance. Lane markings are on the road for a definite purpose and the good driver always uses the right lane except when passing.

Last minute signaling is a dangerous driving habit, says the Motor Club. Whether you have mechanical turn indicators or use hand signals, the law says you must declare your intention to turn at least 100 feet before reaching an intersection.

The Motor Club warns that highway hypnosis is one of the main causes of superhighway accidents. The steady sound of tires on pavement, the unvarying scenery, and the relatively small need for driving maneuvers all combine to produce driver lethargy on today's expressways. Stay alert by changing drivers frequently, shortening the number of driving hours, stopping often at snack bars or gas stations for refreshments, tuning the car radio to interesting programs, and singing or talking to yourself, if alone.

Always pull completely off the highway when you stop to change a tire, says the Motor Club. If there isn't enough room on the shoulder, move on slowly. It's better to ruin a tire than lose a life. At night have a flare or flashlight handy to warn approaching traffic.

Motorists should be extra careful during the first few weeks of the new school year, says the Motor Club, because many youngsters will be making their first venture into school life and may let the excitement cause them to forget their safety habits. Drive slowly in school zones and give the youngsters a chance to grow up and learn.

Proper use of headlights can help your own vision as well as that of the other driver's, says the Motor Club. Use your bright lights only when you are not approaching another car. And don't forget to dim your lights when approaching another vehicle from the rear. Your bright lights cause a blinding glare in the other car's rear-view mirror.

The Motor Club says that choosing the proper lane—and staying in that lane is essential to safe driving in heavy traffic. Weaving from lane to lane in heavy traffic in an effort to get ahead fast is a dangerous driving habit.

Hints For Traffic Safety

With the reopening of schools, the Motor Club advises parents to teach their youngsters how to guard against traffic accidents.

The club recommends that parents emphasize the following:

1. When getting off a bus, children should be sure to wait until the bus has cleared the intersection before crossing the street.
2. When crossing a street, stay within painted crosswalk lines. Never cross in the middle of the block.
3. Watch traffic signals at all times. Make certain you have the green light before starting across the street.
4. Always be alert for turning cars.
5. Always obey instructions of policemen, crossing guards, and safety patrol members.
6. Be calm while crossing a street. Walk, don't run.

Weed Control In The Lawn

Lafayette, Ind. — Unsightly dandelions, buckhorn, and broad leaf weeds can be controlled with good lawn management and careful use of weed killers, says W. H. Daniel, Purdue University turf specialist.

All weed-infested areas should be sprayed with an amine form of 2,4-D. In addition, the lawn should be fertilized liberally, mowed at the proper height, and irrigated properly.

Daniel advises caution when using weed killers because they will damage shrubs, trees, and flowers unless precautions are taken. Precautions include mixing the 2,4-D according to the manufacturer's directions, covering nearby flowers and shrubs with newspapers or other covers, and spraying on a very calm day.

A new application method has caught the public's interest. Two four-D is dissolved into a wax bar (about the size of a wooden two by four), and the bar is pulled over the weeded areas. A thin wax coating is left on the weeds touched by the bar.

Farm Trucks

Lafayette, Ind. — "A traffic accident may give you a vacation you can't afford," warned F. R. Willsey, extension farm safety specialist at Purdue University, today. "Don't get laid up by traffic-accident injuries during the busy work season."

With farm trucks an increasingly valuable and important part of the farmer's working equipment, farmers are subject to additional hazards of an already hazardous occupation.

The National Safety Council calls farmers' attention to the following suggestions for farm truck drivers:

Know traffic signs and road rules, and always obey them.

Come to a full stop when entering the main highway, or at regular stop signs and do not proceed until it is safe to do so.

Slow to a safe speed for turns and use proper signals.

Keep lights, brakes, steering mechanisms and windshield wipers in perfect working order.

Be on the lookout for pedestrians; watch for children when backing from driveways.

Never stop your truck on the pavement—ull onto the shoulder, all the way off the pavement.

FARM FACTS

Provide plenty of shade for livestock to prevent sunburn and photosensitization, Purdue University veterinarians suggest. When animals with white or light-colored skin are pastured on green crops they are more susceptible to skin irritations.

Replacing the back-up plates on the mower cutter bar often will eliminate clogging when clipping stubble, say Purdue University agricultural engineers.

Band seeding is an excellent way for seeding alfalfa in August, according to Purdue University agronomists. Fertilizer is placed directly beneath the seed, giving the plant a quick start.

Dairy calves require an abundance of pure, fresh water even if they are receiving milk, Purdue dairy specialists point out.

A seeding of spinach in the home garden during late August should be ready for harvest before the ground freezes, according to Purdue University horticulturists. Kale, mustard and Chinese cabbage leaves also can be used as "greens."

Long-legged, black beetles frequently attack calendulas, asters and clematis in August. These insects, called blister beetles, can be controlled and the plants protected by sifting five percent dieldrin granules beneath the plants, say Purdue University entomologists.

Rabies is an increasing problem in Indiana, according to Purdue University veterinarians. Dogs should be vaccinated annually to insure the owner, his family and neighbors maximum protection.

Never return to the home flock any chickens that have been exhibited at a fair, advise Purdue University poultry scientists. The risk of bringing disease into the flock is too great. Keep the prize ribbons, but sell the prize-winning chickens on the market.

Shade should be provided for livestock, Purdue University veterinarians assert. Animals are susceptible to heatstroke and sunstroke very much the same as human beings.

Purdue University poultrymen suggest having nests ready and available for pullets when they first start to lay. These should be the same type that will be used later in the laying house.
