To Hold School Meeting

The Kosciusko County School Reorganization Committee has scheduled a meeting next Wednesday evening, August 9 at 8:00 p.m. at the Beaver Dam School.

This meeting should be of the utmost importance to all citizens of Harrison township, Franklin township, Seward township and Henry township.

The school issue is something we are all interested in. It is something we all talk about. Let's go and get the true facts so that we will be the informed rather than the mis-informed.

LIGHTNING STRIKES

We have had several reports of lightning damage the past week, but Mrs. Joe Long came in and was telling us her experience which we think is a bit unusual.

They had a bolt hit their T.V. tower, blew up the rotor control, blew up the facing strips off their T.V., knocked some plaster off the bathroom wall and other damage. In all this, there was no fire, just a very large explosion. They say this is called a cold bolt of lightning.

Well, hot or cold, it makes one realize that we and our fancy machines are still very insignificant objects.

Mentone Guardsman Injured

Thomas Alderfer, 23, of Route 1, Mentone, a member of the Peru National Guard company, was injured Saturday in a traffic accident near Plymouth that killed Rufus Williams Jr., 33, of South Bend.

Alderfer was transferred Sunday from Parkview hospital at Plymouth to the base hospital at Camp Grayling, Mich. He suffered a broken nose, possible shoulder fracture and cuts.

The National Guard truck in which Alderfer was riding was struck by an auto operated by Williams on State Road 31, north of Plymouth. Alderfer's truck was the second in a 19-truck convoy headed toward Camp Grayling for summer field training.

NOTICE

Red Ribbons In Corn Fields

Red ribbons are appearing in randomly selected corn fields throughout Indiana. They mark the addition of a new kind of scientific sampling and measuring to the U.S. Department of Agriculture's system of estimating crop yields and production through mailed reports from several thousand cooperating farmers in each state, explains E. Straszheim, agricultural statistician of the U.S.D.A., in charge of the Indiana Crop and Livestock Reporting Service.

The red ribbons mark small plots about five square yards, chosen by scientific sampling methods to represent the corn crop for the entire state. Each plot was marked early in the growing season by a representative of the agricultural statistician, and will be examined at regular intervals during the summer and fall. On each visit to the plots, the representative will count the number of stalks and ears, measure the ears, and note the stage of development. He will harvest and weigh the corn from each plot and also pick up and weigh any grain that falls to the ground in areas of the field harvested by the farmer.

Corn fields chosen for the state sample were selected at random from aerial photographs. In each corn field selected, two sample plots are chosen. The first may be located anywhere from one to 200 paces from the nearest corner; the second always is 30 paces farther in and 30 rows to one side of the first plot.

The 240 sample plots located on farms all over the state will include good, medium and poor fields. The sample in any one county may not be representative of that county, Straszheim said, but the samples in all counties combine to represent the corn crop in the state as a whole.

Livestock Show Requirements

Show animals fitted by Hoosier 4-H and FFA members will soon be heading for the fair grounds as early livestock shows begin.

Each fair has certain health requirements that must be met to prevent these exhibitions from becoming a center for the dispersion of disease, points out Dr. T. M. Curtin, Purdue University extension veterinarian.

Each show or fair has a published list of health requirements which must be met before entry is permitted. Individuals who plan to enter animals should also make sure of positive identification of their animals so a last minute mix-up does not occur.

Each year many exhibitors neglect the health requirements until the last minute. This causes unnecessary delay, inconvenience and additional expense to the owner and a literal flood of rush calls for veterinarians and laboratory personnel. Do not wait until the last minute to meet entrance requirements at local, county or state fairs.

Prune climbing roses after they bloom, advise Purdue University horticulturists. Remove one-fifth to one-third of the old shoots at ground level and shape the bushes by cutting the tips. Tie new shoots in place so they will not be broken in high wind. Repair and replace trellises.

Fertilize shade trees now, advise Purdue University horticulturists, to promote vigor and reduce wilt and leaf spot disease.

Boxelder Bugs Are With Us

Homeowners annually troubled with boxelder bugs should start looking for the young bugs on boxelder trees around their neighborhood, says Glen Lehker, Purdue University extension entomologist.

The bugs are small, red and soft-bodied at this time of year and will be found feeding upon the seed-bearing parts of the female trees. These bugs will mature and leave the trees this fall to cause annoyance in and around homes.

Much of this annoyance can be prevented by searching out and spraying the infested trees.

One thorough application will kill the young bugs. The mature bugs enter homes during the fall in search of a place to hibernate. In the process they may collect upon porches and foundation walls by the thousands.

Infested trees should be sprayed, as soon as the bugs show up, with either Chlordane or dieldrin. Both chemicals are readily obtainable from garden supply stores and dealers who sell farm chemicals.

The formulation to purchase is an emulsifiable concentrate which readily mixes with water. Either 3 pints of a 15 per cent dieldrin concentrate or 2 pints of a 45 per cent Chlordane concentrate should be mixed with each 50 gallons of water. Trees must be sprayed completely and thoroughly. Most nurserymen and commercial tree spraying concerns have equipment for this work.

Purdue mimeo E-24, "Boxelder Bugs and their Control," is available without charge to Indiana residents from county agricultural extension offices or by writing to the Agricultural Publications Office, AES Building, Purdue University, Lafayette, Indiana.

Cabbage worms, squash bugs and bean beetles are at their worst this month. Purdue University entomologists suggest regular applications of multi-purpose garden dusts for control of these pests.

Powdery Mildew Threatens Plants

A white, powdery growth shows up on flower leaves, stems and buds in late July and August. This is a disease known as powdery mildew, say Purdue University plant pathologists.

Caused by a fungus, this disease attacks chrysanthemums, dahlias, delphiniums, honeysuckle, ivy, lilacs, phlox, privet, roses, snowberries and zinnias.
It starts on leaves close to the ground, spreading upward and then to nearby healthy plants by microscopic wind and waterborne spores. Infected leaves turn yellow and drop prematurely and buds may fail to develop into normal blossoms.

Powdery mildew is easily controlled by fungicides, but certain cultural practices will reduce dangers from the disease.
The fungus overwinters on infected leaves and stems, so heavily mildewed plant material should be removed and burned in the fall.

Plants should not be grown under crowded conditions and susceptible shrubs should be pruned to promote air circulation. Avoid nightly sprinkling of flowers—soaking the soil once a week does more good.

Spraying or dusting with chemicals normally assures adequate control. However, plants must be thoroughly sprayed or dusted often—at least once a week—either in the late afternoon or early evening.

Sulfur, an old-time remedy for mildew, may be used as a spray or dust. Newer chemicals which give good control are Kar-athane WD (Mildex), Phaltan and Actidione. These chemicals should be used at the dosages recommended by their manufacturers.

Bargaining For Farmers

Can farmers gain by organizing into bargaining groups? Indiana farmers and farm leaders are asking that question as they consider joining or organizing such groups.

In an effort to outline some general principles and suggest a way of analysis that will be helpful in answering such questions, a committee of Purdue University agricultural economists has prepared an eight-page booklet, "Group Bargaining Power for Farmers."

While the economists don't give detailed answers as to whether a bargaining association should be formed for hogs, tomatoes or soybeans, they point up the kinds of data and analysis necessary if these organizational efforts are to succeed. "If bargaining activities of farm groups are to be successful, there must be increased benefits or returns coming to the members of the group as a result of its action," the economists point out.

To secure beneficial results at the bargaining table, the group must have a degree of power. In answer to the question, "How much power is necessary?" the economists assert: "Effective supply control is necessary if the issue is to substantially raise the general level of prices without any other coincidental changes."

Observing that decisions often must be made on fragmentary information and imperfect knowledge, the economists assert:

"Action should not be rejected simply on the basis of the past or bias. Neither should action be taken based on the emotion of enthusiastic promotion. The challenge is to think clearly as possible with the aid of as much pertinent data as can be obtained."

Copies of Purdue mimeo EC-214, "Group Bargaining Power for Farmers," may be obtained by writing the Agricultural Publications Office, AES Building, Purdue University, Lafayette, Indiana. The publication is free to Indiana residents.

Prune spring flowering ornamentals after they bloom. Purdue University horticulturists recommend removing one-fifth to one-third of the oldest shoots at ground level.

Purdue University horticulturists suggest applying a mulch around your ornamentals to conserve moisture during the summer. Wait until early fall to transplant bare root or balled nursery stock.

Lawn Mower Power Safety

Improper use of power lawn mowers can bring injury, even death, to the operator or a bystander. So, urges Don Scheer, Purdue University horticulturist, practice power mower safety.

He lists these precautions which will help eliminate accidents:

Inspect your lawn and remove stones, wire, sticks, or nails or any object which might be thrown with enough force to injure someone or jam the mower.

Be certain the rotary knives are secure and that the machine is in good mechanical condition.

When starting the engine keep one foot atop the mower so the machine won't roll back and take off your toes.

Never leave the motor running while you're performing some other chores.

Be sure that you have good footing when you're mowing. Never mow in your bare feet and mow across slopes, not up and down them.

Keep children and pets from the vicinity of the mowing operation.

Don't refuel the motor while it is running.

If your mower is electric, use a three wire cord; one wire is for grounding the motor and equipment to the mower source.

COUNTERPOINT

By The Editor's Wife

Back on the job again after a week's vacation at Burt Lake. We had the pleasure of sharing the beauty of that area with friends and relatives.

One favorite pastime is to go "deer hunting" in your car about sundown. Often one can see deer grazing in clearings or hay fields at this time of day.

Some of our guests enjoyed horseback riding. The trail leads through woods of pine and white birch, where ferns reach nearly tall enough to brush the stirrups.

Another trip (which is always a "must" with Tim and Lisa) is across the bay in the boat to "driftwood beach." The driftwood is nothing special, but the beach is quiet and unused, as it is part of a large wooded area owned by the University of Michigan. Here one finds deer tracks in the sand. As you trudge along the beach you have the feeling of an intruder being watched by gentle eyes from the cool dense growth of trees which crowd against the sand.

While enroute to visit us at the lake, my sister ran across a unique idea for tinting flowers (in a candy shop, and the chocolates were delicious, too.) We used Queen Anne's Lace ("wild carrot", the man said) and food coloring, diluted slightly. Place each color in a separate container (pint jars will do) and place the stems of the flowers in the colored liquid. Allow to stand for 24 hours. We had lovely red, blue, and chartreuse (yellow and green mixed) flowers. With the addition of several shasta daisies and a small purple wildflower, our arrangement was delightful. Do hope that you try it.

Mrs. Fern Rickel called recently to tell us that their magnolia is blooming for the second time this season. It bloomed three times last year.

The John Birch Society will conduct an essay contest this fall on the topic "Grounds For The Impeachment of Warren" (Chief Justice of the U. S. Supreme Court).

The contest is open to all college students of this country. First prize is $1,000. Second and third prizes of $500 and

ACADEMIC AWARD TO SHOEMAKER

Howard D. Shoemaker is among 147 Indiana University undergraduate students posting all "A" records in their academic subjects the second semester ending in June.

Howard also received the Colonel Kenneth P. Williams Memorial Award for achieving the highest grade in American military history at Indiana University.

$300 will be offered. There will be five additional prizes of $100.

The Negro population has increased more than 25% in the past ten years, as compared to 18% for whites. This increase has caused manufacturers and advertising agencies to take notice of this new Negro market.

Three facts are important:

1. The Negro market is large in the cities.
2. The Negro middle class is growing (doctors, lawyers, teachers, merchants, etc.)
3. Negroes are increasingly aware of brand names and quality symbols.

In discussing the problems involved in selling to this market Elmer Roessner says, "Any solution must take this fact into consideration: Uncle Tom is dead."

Ladies, here is a clever idea that may induce folks to use those dainty little guest towels, which always manage to remain immaculate and untouched. This hostess says, "My trick is to remove the end towel and wrinkle it ever so slightly, just enough to make the guests think, 'someone used this one. I might as well use it, too.' Even opening the towel from its neat folds sometimes helps."

We enjoyed this:

Mrs. Moneybag was making the final arrangements for her elaborate reception.

"Bridget," she said to her old servant, "for the first 30 minutes after 6 o'clock I want you to stand at the drawing-room door and call the guests' names as they arrive."

Bridget's face lit up.

"Very well, ma'am," she replied, "I've been wantin' to do that to some of your friends for years."

Unused 2,4-D Should Be Buried

Indiana Farmers who have highly volatile herbicides left over at the end of the crop spraying season should get rid of them before January 1, 1962, since the use of these materials is illegal after that date.

While it is possible that unopened containers can be returned to the distributor for credit, it is suggested that those containers which have been partly used should be buried several feet in the ground.

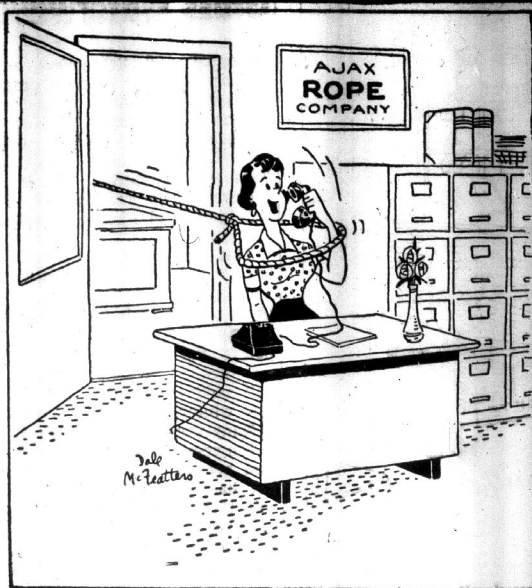

This suggestion comes from Dr. F. W. Quackenbush, the Indiana State Chemist, who is administrator of the new herbicide law passed by the 1961 General Assembly. The law makes it a misdemeanor to either sell or use highly volatile herbicides anywhere in this state. Conviction carries a fine of $25 to $500.

Highly volatile herbicides are outlawed by the General Assembly because their vapors are capable of drifting in air currents for several miles from the point of application, producing damage to sensitive crops such as tomatoes. Esters of 2, 4-D are of two types—high volatile and low volatile. Both types are equally effective in destroying weeds, but the low-volatile type has little tendency to drift. He points out that most of the 2, 4-D which is currently being sold is of the high volatile type.

If you have purchased more weed killer than you need and are uncertain of the type, copy Cultivate to control weeds in the vegetable garden during the hot summer months, advise Purdue University horticulturists, because weeds can rob the vegetables of a surprisingly large amount of water. But don't cultivate deep, or severe damage to the vegetable roots may result.

DATE EXTENDED FOR MORNING GLORIES

The measuring date for the tallest Morning Glory Contest has been extended to August 25th. Mr. Roscoe Frazer, extension horticulturist in charge of the state contest, says that morning glories are really beginning to grow. This is due to rains, temperature, and fertilizers as well as "tender, loving care."

This should give all contestants a better chance to have the longest vine.

All contestants are to send the length of the vine in feet and inches along with the names of two people who witnessed the measuring to the county extension office, Warsaw, Indiana, by August 27th.

Sweet Corn At Its Best

For sweet corn at its best, have the water in which you're going to cook it boiling, then pick and shuck the corn and place it in the pot, suggests Don Scheer, Purdue University extension horticulturist.

Why does sweet corn taste better when it is picked, cooked and eaten right away? The answer is that the sugar content is highest just after the corn is picked—then it drops off fast. In fact, sugar content of sweet corn drops off faster after harvest than in any other popular vegetable.

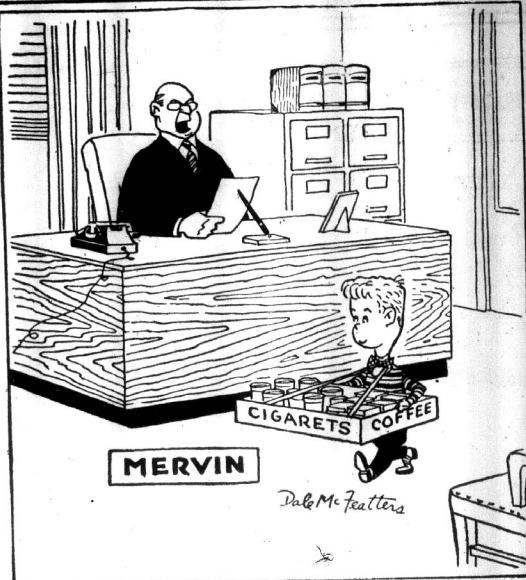

Home gardeners often ask, "When is an ear of corn ripe?" Pulling the tip of the husk down and looking, says Scheer, isn't cricket. So, here's how to tell a ripe ear without looking inside the husks: Silks should be dry and the ears should feel full, especially at the tips.

With a little more practice, you'll be able to tell a ripe ear without much trouble. Yellow sweet corn is ripe when the kernels are yellow and plump and milk will leak from a punctured kernel. If water oozes from the kernel, the ear is too young; if a doughy substance appears, the ear is over mature.

Billy Graham's "The Gospel I Preach"

On the verge of what he says could well be his last crusade, Billy Graham declares, "I have but one sermon: sin, repentance, the cross, and the resurrection."

Writing an exclusive article in the August 12 issue of The Sunday School Times on "The Gospel I Preach," Dr. Graham points out that his Greater Philadelphia Crusade, which begins August 20, is set against "a dark abyss of possible destruction."

"This is the heaviest year of our ministry," he writes, "but we have an inner conviction that the time is short."

What then shall his message be? The apostolic preaching was not a debate with paganism nor a message of ecumenical unity or moral reform. Dr. Graham declares, "It was the impassioned declaration that Christ died for our sins an arose the third day."

"Our critics pay us a compliment when they say we are too simple," the evangelist says. The message that turned the world upside down was the "foolish" proclamation of the Cross and its power.

Time To Seed Grass Waterways

August and September are the best months to seed grass waterways in Indiana, according to Don Sisson, Purdue University extension agricultural engineer. Crop fields idled under the Feed Grain program may lend themselves to construction of waterways and other soil conservation practices.

This time of year the soil is usually in better condition for working and late summer seedings are less likely to be washed out than spring seedings, Sisson points out. Too, if sufficient moisture is present the grass will make an excellent start before winter.

Many waterways that are five to ten years old need reconstruction because the original channel has filled with washed in soil. If this is the problem, advises Sisson, the best solution is to start over. This time make sure the waterway has sufficient depth and channel capacity, he warns. Adequate capacity for runoff water is provided by deepening the channel.

If the existing waterway channel has the proper channel shape, but has sparse grass cover, don't destroy what you do have. Start from there by re-seeding and adding fertility.

The best grass to seed in waterways is alta fescue. A good companion crop to give quick cover is spring oats. Oats will be killed by frost, but make a rooted mulch for protection of the soil during winter. Spring oats do not compete with grasses the next spring as other small grains do.

Grass waterways are one of Indiana's most important soil conservation practices. They not only reduce soil loss, but will help to save wear and tear on farm machinery. These grass channels are easy to cross and make farming rolling fields more convenient.

For more detailed information on grass waterway construction obtain a copy of Extension Circular 453, "Grass Waterways," from your county agent, soil conservation technician or by writing to the Agricultural Publications Office, Purdue University, Lafayette, Ind. The publication is free to Indiana residents.

Never return to the home flock any chickens exhibited at a fair, advise Purdue University poultry scientists. The risk of bringing disease into your flock is too great.

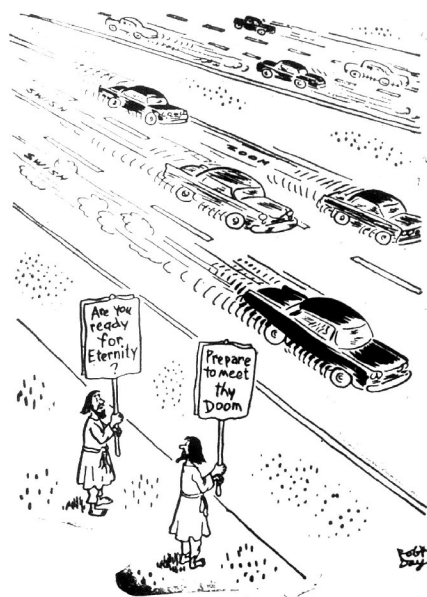

Store packaged cooked ham slices and other luncheon meats in the freezer, rather than the refrigerator, advise Purdue University consumer education specialists. Certain bacteria thrive on such meats at cold temperatures above freezing. They are not harmful, but affect flavor and odor of the foods.

The sweetest white seedless grapes are those in which the color is white, rather than bright green. Look for long, rather than round, grapes.

Hem drapery linings separately, with a one- or two-inch hem and leave them hanging loosely at the bottom, advise Purdue University furnishing specialists.

Grasshopper Control

Grasshopper population is higher than usual in Indiana this year, warn Glen Lehker and Dave Matthew, Purdue University entomologists. And if hot weather continues, severe damage to gardens may result.

Tomatoes, beans and sweet corn are the most likely to suffer hopper damage where no controls are applied.

They suggest controlling grasshoppers in the home vegetable garden by spraying or dusting with either chlordane or dieldrin, or both of which are available in small packages. Fence rows and weed areas around the garden should be sprayed before the hoppers move from these hatching grounds.

The solution is two teaspoons of a 45 per cent chlordane, or an 18 per cent dieldrin emulsifiable concentrate, per gallon of water.

A five per cent chlordane dust will also give satisfactory control.

Purdue mimeo E-21, "Vegetable Insect Control," contains detailed information for control of grasshoppers and other garden pests. This mimeo is available free to Indiana residents from county agricultural extension offices or by writing to the Agricultural Publications Office, AES Building, Purdue University, Lafayette, Indiana.

Gas Turbine Powered Tractor

International Harvester Company's experimental tractor has a gas turbine engine paired with a hydrostatic transmission. Skin, or body, sections are molded fiberglass.

CHICAGO — International Harvester Company has developed an experimental tractor in which a gas turbine engine is paired with a hydrostatic transmission. The body or skin is made of fiberglass.

The tractor, named the HT-340, has no gear shift lever, no throttle, and no brake or clutch pedals. It uses neither cooling water nor anti-freeze, and has no transmission gears. The hydrostatic transmission depends upon oil at high pressure to transmit power by acting on the pistons of a radial hydraulic motor installed in each driving wheel.

The 80-horsepower gas turbine engine, a product of Solar Aircraft Company, Harvester's San Diego subsidiary, is 21 inches long, 13 inches in diameter and weighs only 90 pounds with reduction gearing.

At present, the HT-340 uses only about half of the turbine's rated horsepower since the transmission was designed to operate with a 40-horsepower piston engine.

Big Corn Crop In View

Country wide reports on the corn crop are just about as good as they have ever been. More and more ratings of "excellent" are showing up in reports from DeKalb's observers. Adequate July rainfall in most areas has boosted corn condition to near maximum. Some scattered reports: Eastern Missouri—"Corn crop never better. Plenty of moisture, heavy fertilization and thick stands will make big yields." Northwestern Illinois—"Excellent crop—lots of moisture." Eastern Illinois—"Received badly needed moisture." Southeastern Minnesota—"Have never seen crop look better. Ideal growing conditions." Northwestern Indiana—"Corn crop has been behind, but looks better everyday." Eastern Ohio—"Current rainfall has ended drought and crop is now growing rapidly." Eastern Pennsylvania—"Rain and hot humid weather making excellent crop." Northeastern Iowa—"4.8 inches rain in July has made all crops excellent." Northern Iowa—"Excellent rains at silking time—some hail damage." Southwestern Minnesota—"Moisture conditions generally good." Western Illinois—"Corn crop excellent due to ideal weather and ample rain."

Many of the heavy July rains were accompanied in the western areas by considerable hail. This was especially true in Western Iowa and Southwestern Minnesota where considerable damage was reported. Hail damage varies greatly from year to year and county to county, but in general, western areas are much more severely affected. For example, in Iowa the greatest hail damage occurs in the northwest and the least in the southeast. Hail insurance rates vary according to different areas of the state, and in some counties the rate varies by township, based on past history of hail damage.

Insect damage reported consists chiefly of the heavy rootworm infestation in Southern Nebraska and Missouri, and Japanese beetles in Eastern Pennsylvania.

Prune Maples In Summer

Maple trees should be pruned in the summer, since winter pruning is likely to result in severe "bleeding" with damaging effects to the trees.

Purdue University horticulturists point out that an easy way to prune young maple trees is to use the central leader system—that is, don't prune the main trunk. Retain branches with a wide angle to the main trunk, since they are the strongest, and remove all other branches. Gradually trim the tree along the side until the lowest branch is six to eight feet from the ground.

Prune all except very old maple trees by shaping them to retain their natural form and by removing dead, interfering and overlapping branches. Diseased and broken branches, as well as the inner, unnecessary branches, should also be removed.

If you have properly trimmed your maple trees when they are young probably all you have to do when they are old is to remove dead wood.

Grain Stocks On Storage

Corn in Indiana farm and off-farm storages July 1 totaled 793,388,000 bushels, 26 per cent more than stocks in all positions a year earlier, according to state-federal agricultural statisticians at Purdue University. Farm Facts . . .

Be sure to divide and replant your iris by mid-August if they are crowded, say Purdue University horticulturists.

Purdue University horticulturists recommend pulling onions when tops of one-half the plants have fallen over. Dry the onions thoroughly under a warm temperature before storing.

State and federal agricultural statisticians estimate a 1961 Hoosier calf crop of 724,000 he d, only one per cent larger than a 1960's small calf crop and 13 per cent smaller than average. The statisticians attribute the increase to more favorable conditions for calving last spring.

Purdue University agronomists recommend topdressing hay after the second cutting if this practice was not carried out after the first cutting. They recommend 100-400 pounds of 0-10-30 fertilizer per acre if the stand is to be kept for longer than a year.

One of the best precautions against atrophic rhinitis, a respiratory disease of young pigs, is to purchase breeding stock only from disease-free herds, advise Purdue University veterinarians.

Planting Evergreens

Mid-August to September represents the best time to plant evergreens, say Purdue University horticulturists. Evergreens, especially if they are potted, can be transplanted successfully at other times of the year. However, planting in late summer gives them time to become established this fall and ready to grow next spring.

When you transplant, dig a hole twice as deep and twice as wide as the ball of roots. Prepare a mixture of ¼ peat moss and ¾ good top soil, and add two level teaspoons of 10-8-6 fertilizer, or its equivalent, to a bushel of this mixture. Then fill the hole with the mixture.

Plant evergreens two or three inches deeper than they grew in the nursery. If you pack soil around the plant with your feet you may break its roots. Instead, settle the soil with water. After the planting is finished give the plant additional water.

And, remind the horticulturists, continue to water evergreens in the winter since they lose moisture through their leaves throughout the year.

Seat Belts Can Save Many Lives

Don't you wish you had a way to double your chances of highway survival? You do, says Martha Cullop, Purdue University extension supervisor. It's the seat belt.

The seat belt is "the most effective single item of protective equipment presently available to reduce the toll of traffic injuries and death," according to the National Safety Council. As of next year, all U.S.-produced cars will provide as standard equipment mounting brackets for seat belts.

There's just one catch to this good news—the seat belt's catch. Unless you take an instant to fasten it, it can't save your life. It is just as important on short jaunts as on long trips and should be fastened whenever your car is moving.

Five times as many people who are thrown from cars in accidents are killed as those who are not thrown from them, reports Miss Cullop, who advises the State Home Demonstration safety committee. Seat belts can also prevent your being thrown against a hard surface inside your car. Even at low speeds, sudden stops can hurtle you against the car, unless you are protected by a seat belt.

The tight front seat of a car is the most dangerous spot. But a seat belt is equally necessary for the driver because it can help him keep control of the car.

Gourds should not be harvested until their shells have hardened on the vine, according to Purdue University horticulturists.

Mrs. Morgan was born near Etna Green on Dec. 7, 1862, the daughter of Henry and Lucinda Shatto. She was married to Henry Morgan, who is deceased.

There were no children, but she is survived by a large number of nieces and nephews.

Mrs. Morgan was a member of the Mentone Methodist church and had been a resident of this area her entire life.

Funeral services will be held at the Reed funeral home at two o'clock Friday afternoon and burial will be in the Mentone cemetery.

"SMOKERS" DELAYED
BY BUS TROUBLE

The 224th Chemical Company (smoke generator) made an unexpected stop near Chicago when their bus developed oil pressure trouble on the Illinois Toll Road Sunday, August 13. The 224th was enroute to Camp McCoy, when the bus driver said it would be necessary to get another bus for the safety of the men and bus.

Captain Billy J. Peterson, Van Buren, Ind., commanding officer of the 224th, made the necessary arrangements.

The men had a long four-hour wait in the Service Plaza. The snack bar did a thriving business as the 32 hungry and thirsty enlisted men made good use of the delay.

The 224th, with units in Marion and Argos, Indiana, is at McCoy with more than 100 men for two weeks intensive training in the use of smoke generators. The unit is practicing generator operation procedure in covering areas with smoke. It is reported that they can completely cover as large an area as three miles by six miles with thick smoke.

After completion of their training, the citizen soldiers will return home to continue their civilian occupations in the Van Buren, Marion and Mentone areas.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Romine and boys are on a vacation trip in Michigan this week.

COUNTERPOINT

By The Editor's Wife

We are having a delightful time at our house this week. The editor's mother and sister Martha are visiting us. Martha has four daughters (Paula, 13; Donna, 12; Sally, 6, and Bonnie, 4). Tim and Lisa are having a wonderful time getting better acquainted with their first cousins, once removed.

Haydn Pearson in writing about "August An Unlikely Popularity Winner" says: August is one of the quiet months, but black clouds may billow from the horizon, thunder drums roll and red spears flash. Sometimes when a storm is done, cool invigorating air is welcome relief from the brooding sultriness; sometimes a storm rolls by and the hot stickiness remains.

August is not a favorite period, but it is part of the plan that gives us four seasons of differing climates. When you stand at the edge of a corn field on a hushed eighth month evening and listen to the corn grow, the faint rustle of the leaves is part of the music that is always playing in our flowering world.

Have received the August Bulletin of the John Birch Society. From now on every newspaper (daily and weekly) will receive copies.

We may not agree with all the ideas of the John Birch Society, but we heartily support its aims to fight communism and to restore the basic principles of the U.S. Constitution.

We enjoyed this:

On pay day, a fellow we know got his paycheck as usual, but because of some mistake, the check was blank.

"I knew it!" he shouted. "My deductions have caught up with my salary!"

(It's a short column, but there are several things which are clamoring for my attention—specifically, some lovely little girls who want breakfast. See you next week.)

New Method For Honey Harvest

Beekeepers have long used fumes of chemicals, principally phenol (carbolic acid) to drive bees from supers of honey to be removed from hives, according to B. E. Montgomery, extension and research agriculturist at Purdue University.

Montgomery says a new and improved procedure, employing a volatile chemical, propionic anhydride, has been developed by scientists of the U.S. Department of Agriculture in cooperation with the Arizona and Wisconsin Agricultural Experiment Stations.

The new procedure is more efficient than methods used by beekeepers for over 30 years, and propionic anhydride presents no residue problem.

Montgomery reports the method developed by entomologists of USDA's agricultural research service employs an absorbent pad, impregnated with propionic anhydride and placed in a special fume chamber. This chamber is then fitted over a section of the hive called the super, from which honey is harvested by beekeepers. Air is forced with a bellows into the fume chamber drives the bees into other supers or into the brood chamber below the supers.

When propionic anhydride is used, bees become gentle and easy to work with. They are repelled from sealed honey supers in one or two minutes, in shade as well as in sun. There is no change in the honey flavor or odor.

In their experiments the scientists demonstrated safety of the material by exposing laboratory mice to propionic anhydride fumes within the dispensing chamber and between super combs. The mice showed no irritation or injury. Furthermore, when combs were left on the hive after removal of the fume chamber, bees returned to cover the combs within minutes. There was no indication of any detrimental effect upon the colony.

The new method should result in economic savings to beekeepers, the scientists say, and may help promote needed expansion within the industry to provide increased numbers of honey bees for pollinating agricultural crops.

Additional information of the procedure may be obtained from Montgomery, Purdue University entomology department, Lafayette, Indiana.

NOTICE TO MEDICAL PATIENTS

Dr. Dan Urschel will be out of his office between Saturday, August 19th and Wednesday, September 13th. A technician, nurse, or secretary will be in the office at all regular office hours during this period, in order that necessary medical information will be available. For access to such information outside of regular office hours, contact Mrs. Oliver Teel, Elmwood 3-3798 at Mentone.

"Wonder Trees" Not Desirable

Don't be fooled by misleading advertising and buy a "wonder tree," warn Purdue University horticulturists.

One of the most highly advertised and least desirable trees available for planting is the fast growing Ailanthus, the Tree of Heaven.

Horticulturists say the Ailanthus tree roots will clog sewer lines, and since it is a soft tree, it is easily destroyed during wind storms. The female Ailanthus produces numerous seedlings, which are difficult to destroy, and the male Ailanthus has a bad odor.

Other fast growing, more desirable trees, according to the horticulturists, are the red maple, ash, sycamore and tulip.

More information on tree varieties is contained in mimeo HO-81-1, "Some Woody Ornamental Plant Materials for Indiana," available free to Indiana residents from agricultural extension offices, or by writing Agricultural Publications, AES Building, Purdue University, Lafayette, Indiana.

Building New Food Distribution Center

Approximately 1200 locally owned super markets and food serving institutions in Indiana, Ohio and Michigan, have received an announcement that their main supplier has contracted for the erection of a new warehouse in Fort Wayne. Food Marketing Corporation with this $1½ million dollar expenditure, will have one of the largest operations of its kind in the central states. The building containing the warehouse and offices will occupy an area of 215,000 sq. ft. on a site of 17 acres. The total volume will be over four million cubic feet which represents about 600 carloads of food products.

George W. McKay, president of Food Marketing Corporation, stated that the company's growth has necessitated this larger and better facility. The report for the fiscal year ending June 25, 1961, showed a sales increase of almost $10 million dollars over the previous year. This project reflects the desire to adopt better means and methods in bringing a finer and more economical food service to the retailers and consumers of this mid section of the country.

The versatile facilities of Food Marketing Corporation are effectively organized to keep abreast of the demands of several types of customers. They are the principal supplier for over 200 locally-owned super markets. Many of these markets are members of two groups organized by Food Marketing Corporation—the Super Dollar Markets and Banner Markets.

An important part of their sales volume also comes from owners who are operating more than one food store. Some of these successful multiple-store organizations serviced by FMC are the Rogers Markets and Mabley Markets of Fort Wayne, the Wilt Markets of Elkhart, So. Bend, Mishawaka and Goshen, and four markets in the Hub group in western Ohio.

Preparing Your Child For School

"Is your child ready for school?" When she asks this, Dorothy Mummery, Purdue University child development specialist, doesn't refer to your teaching the pre-schooler his A-B-C's ahead of time, but to more general preparation for the coming experience.

One of the best ways to help your child prepare to enter school, she says, is to provide a summer of rich experiences which will be a background for his learning to read. Such activities as family picnics, woods walks, excursions to the zoo or museum and a train or boat ride will add to the child's store of information so he will later understand the meaning of words he learns to read and write.

In general, it is better not to teach a pre-school child school subjects, as he might later become confused when taught them by a different method. Instead, Dr. Mummery advises, encourage him to play with games such as picture puzzles which teach him to observe shapes as preparation for learning to read. And let him work with paints, crayons and clay, thereby gaining motor control and coordination which will help him learn to write.

Both physical and emotional self-reliance are important elements in a child's adjustment to school life, the specialist continues. Except for tying shoelaces, a child entering school should be able to dress himself. He should also be able to expect being away from his mother for part of a day. This summer you might arrange that he have some morning or afternoon visits away from home to help him gain emotional independence.

The right scissors are aids to successful sewing, say Purdue University clothing specialists. Use sharp shears at least seven and a half or eight inches long for cutting cloth and small pointed scissors for slashing edges and clipping threads.

When you shop for furniture, look at the underneath and back of the piece you're considering, Purdue University furnishing specialists advise. If it is smoothly sanded and sealed, the piece is less apt to swell or shrink.

When hanging a dress or coat on the clothesline, use two coat hangers hooked in opposite directions, suggest Purdue University home management specialists.

Important Vote on Aug. 24th

What is the August 24 wheat referendum all about?

Purdue University agricultural economists, with only a few days to study the new agricultural bill which Congress passed recently, list some of the main points farmers will need to consider.

The recently enacted legislation is intended to increase farm income, reduce excessive build-up in supplies of wheat and reduce government storage costs.

A referendum will be held on August 24, 1961. If two thirds of the wheat farmers who participate in the referendum vote
"yes," the program will be effective on wheat seeded this fall and harvested in 1962.

A "yes" vote indicates a willingness to reduce wheat acreage at least 10 per cent below 1961 allotment acreage, thereby qualifying for price support at about $2 per bushel.

Acreage taken out of wheat must be diverted to conservation use.

Farmers who divert to conservation use an acreage equal to only 10 per cent of their old wheat allotment will receive a payment equal to 45 per cent of the county support rate multiplied by the number of acres diverted. Example: A farmer has a 30-acre wheat allotment in 1961. The county support rate for 1962 is $2. His adjusted (or appraised) yield is 30 bushels per acre. Forty five per cent of $2 equals $.90 x 30 bushels equals $27 x three acres (10 per cent of 30 acres) equals $81 payment for diverted acres.

Farmers who wish to divert more land will receive additional payment for an additional 30 per cent. This makes a total of 40 per cent of the old wheat allotment which can be diverted with payment. Payments for the additional 30 per cent diversion will be at the rate of 60 per cent of the county support rate.

On farms on which there is excessive wheat acreage, the amount of wheat subject to marketing quota penalty would be two times the normal yield of the excess area. The rate of penalty would be 65 per cent of parity. Example: If a farmer harvests three acres more than his allotment and his "normal" yield is 30 bushels, his penalty would be two times 30 bushels multiplied by $1.46 (about 65 per cent of parity) which would equal $87.60 per acre or $262.80 for three acres.

If the referendum carries, no farmer can grow more than his allotment without penalty.

For 1962 the permitted acres for those who planted not more than 15 acres for harvest during any of the three years, 1959, 1960, 1961, will be decreased to 13.5 acres. For those who planted less than 13.5 acres during any one of these years, the permitted acres will be highest planted acreage during any one of such years. Producers who have not grown wheat in 1959, 1960, 1961 will have no permitted acres and will be unable to grow wheat in 1962 without penalty.

If the referendum is not approved, there will be no limit on marketings. The price support will be 50 per cent of parity (about $1.12) and will be available only to farmers who voluntarily stay within their new allotment. Production would exceed market outlets. Wheat would be used for feed—thus depressing corn prices and eventually livestock prices.

All farmers who have produced more than 13.5 acres of wheat in any one of the past three years are eligible to vote in the referendum August 24.

SINCERE THANKS

I want to thank everyone for their prayers, cards and flowers while I was at the hospital and since I came home. May God bless you all.

SPECIAL DAYS HERE
FRIDAY, SATURDAY

Many Mentone merchants are preparing for the special Appreciation Days to be held at Mentone Friday and Saturday.

As the result of a decision by the retail division of the Mentone Chamber of Commerce, the El Dorado Kiddie Rides of Nyona Lake were obtained to be in Mentone Friday from 3:00 in the afternoon until 9:00 in the evening and all day Saturday until 6:00 p. m. at which time they will give free rides on their various entertaining equipment to all the kiddies.

A representative of the firm was given the privilege of contacting the business people for donations and a total of $307.00 was given to bring these free kiddie rides to Mentone.

The days were termed "Appreciation Days," and the Mentone business people mean what the term indicates—they do appreciate the friendship and patronage of all, and in this small way are attempting to show their appreciation.

So—while the kiddies are being entertained Friday and Saturday, parents, drop around and visit our merchants.

For the safety of the school children, I am asking the farmers of Harrison Township to top their corn or cut it back from the corners in the fields that border on the highways. The corn is so tall this year and the school bus drivers cannot see until they are almost on the crossroads.

COUNTERPOINT

By The Editor's Wife

Are you going East for your vacation? If so, you might enjoy seeing the Pennsylvania Dutch Harvest Frolic, at Lancaster, which begins Friday, August 25 and continues through Labor Day, Sept. 4th. The program sounds completely fascinating. Here are some of the highlights taken from the press release:

"Visitors will find a fascinating panorama of Pennsylvania Dutch arts and crafts, cookery and household arts, magic and folk medicine, games and festivities.

"The Frolic is dedicated to the Plain Dutch (the Amish, Mennonites and Dunkards) who owe their survival to their strong family and religious group solidarity. As a symbol of the sense of group responsibility among the Plain Dutch, two large 'barn-raising' will be staged simultaneously. One barn, of frame, is to be 'raised' by an Amish crew (on Aug. 26) and the other, of stone, by a crew of master barn-builders invited from all over Pennsylvania (throughout the 11 days). Another emphasis at the Frolic will be Pennsylvania Dutch food. Dozens of area specialties will be available to eat on the grounds or carry out. Among the most intriguing will be 'seven sweets and seven sour' meals, shoo-fly and schnitzels, drechter koocha and fast-nachts, ponhaws and souse, rivvel soup, moashy and bellyguts candy, etc. The motto of the Frolic is, 'Koom un Bring dei Freind Mit.'"

Food tip (haven't tried this one yet but, no doubt, I will.) It's a switch from the apple pie and cheese bit. For your next cheese sandwich, spread the bread with applesauce or apple-butter.

Young parents, read and heed. In a recent column, Clifford Ward said something important: A lot of young people with health, jobs and growing children, struggling to make ends meet today, may be counting on the day when the kids will be grown up, when their home will be larger and paid for and other things of the future. But then they may look back wishing that they had their youth, their health and a lot of satisfactions which have passed that they didn't appreciate at the time. They are like the exceedingly

MARRIED HERE
SATURDAY EVENING

In a double ring ceremony performed at the Methodist church at 7:30 Saturday evening, Miss Elaine Dunnuck, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Dunnuck of Etna Green, became the bride of Thomas Fugate, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Fugate of Attica, Indiana. Rev. Roger Wrigley performed the ceremony.

The young people are now on a trip in the New England states.

A complete report of the marriage, and a picture of the bride, will appear in the next issue of the News.

foolish persons who postpone all the things they would like to do until they have reached a retirement age of 65 years, forgetting the fact that there is hardly anything you do better in the latter years, except remember. You don't see better, you don't hear better, you don't exercise easier, etc., etc.

Time has reality only in the present.

Note on Communism.

At the Purdue Summer Conference in June, 5,000 Hoosier women heard M. B. Ogle, associate dean of the Purdue School of Science, Education and Humanities and Robert Burns, Indiana University Professor of history and a specialist in eastern European and Russian affairs.

One statement made by Professor Burns holds the clue as to why many Americans are unable to think clearly or arouse to action:

"Another problem facing this nation is the fact that our people seem to be incapable of that great dedication or devotion to a cause which sometimes results in fanaticism. We pride ourselves on our deliberations, our negotiations, and our ability to compromise. When we run up against the Kamikazes, the Nazis, or the Communists we do not understand them. The Puritans would have. They were ready to die for their beliefs."

We enjoyed this:

Two men, completely disrobed, sat in the doctor's office.

"I only want to have my eyes examined," one complained.

"That's nothing," the other replied. "I came to read the meter."

Avonelle Cook, Jean Smoker, Connie Wise and Karen Freed from Kosciusko County will attend State Fair Girls School, August 28 to September 6, held during the State Fair. The girls were selected upon consideration of their 4-H achievements, community service, and a recommendation from their 4-H leader.

The Indiana State Fair Board sponsors the State Fair School for girls each year to provide an annual activity by which young citizens of the state may be involved in an active way in a state-wide event in order to increase their knowledge of the products of the state and nation.

The school is to help girls acquire as much knowledge of homemaking as is possible for their level of development.

Avonelle Cook, 17 year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Cook of Claypool, has been in 4-H for eight years and has completed 61 projects. She has been in dress revue, demonstration and judging contests; this year she is competing in the state electrical judging contest.

This fall she will be a senior at Claypool. She has been active as a librarian, in Future Teachers of America, in Future Homemakers of America, and also active in church work.

Jean Smoker, R. 3, Warsaw, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Smoker. Jean has been active in 4-H work for nine years, completing 54 projects. She has done outstanding work in demonstration and judging contests and also in dairy. Last year she was State Champion Holstein Girl of Indiana. In June, Jean gave a dairy commercial on TV. This year she was in the dress revue honor group.

Jean graduated from Leesburg in May and will enter Beauty school this fall. In school she was active in band, chorus, Future Homemakers of America, plays and school paper and year book productions.

Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Wise of R. 2, Claypool are the parents of 16 year old Connie Wise. This fall Connie will be a Junior at Silver Lake, where she is treasurer of her class. She is a member of the National Honor Society, Sun Shine Society and Rainbow. She is the song leader of her church.

Connie has been active in 4-H for 8 years and is president of her club this year. During the State Fair, Connie will represent our county in the state craft judging contest. Her main projects have been clothing, foods and crafts.

Karen Freed will return this year to State Fair Girls School as one of 12 honor girls. Karen's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Freed of R. 2, Silver Lake. Karen was selected from last year's delegates on the basis of high school grades, class work in State Fair School, general attitude, record of 4-H and community activities and a test given at State Fair School.

Each year 13 scholarships for further instruction in Indiana colleges and universities are available to girls making the best records in high schools and in the State Fair School of Home Economics.

THE POSITIVE APPROACH

(From the American Rifleman)

Members of the National Rifle Association of America are ready to act when they hear the statement, "There ought to be a law!" They know from past experience that someone, either deliberately or unwittingly, wants to legislate away one of the basic individual liberties of the American way of life. They know, too, that more often than not it involves the right of reputable citizens to keep and bear arms for lawful purposes.

Too often gun owners and shooter-sportsmen are accused of hindering a visionary solution to the problems of law enforcement, crime, or accidental shootings. Because they oppose overly restrictive firearms legislation, they are charged with being against everything—of taking the negative approach. This is not true!

It is a fact that most firearms legislation today takes the wrong approach. It is aimed at regulating the firearm rather than the person who handles it properly or who uses it for unlawful purposes. Intelligent Americans will agree that under today's conditions guidelines must be established for the use of firearms in some areas. Nevertheless, this guidance must be based on reason and understanding, not on emotional reaction or misinformation.

It is true that law enforcement officers sometimes have difficulty in accomplishing the arrest and conviction of law breakers. We appreciate their enthusiastic efforts in the public interest and recognize the problem. However, the desire to see our laws enforced is not justification for any proposed legislation which circumvents due process of law in order to obtain convictions more easily or which can make an unwitting violator of a prudent, law abiding citizen.

It is true that a small percentage of our population uses firearms for illegal purposes. We abhor this situation but believe that firearms legislation is of insufficient value in the prevention of crime to justify the inevitable restrictions which such legislation places upon law abiding citizens. No law will prevent a gangster or other dangerous criminal from securing and using firearms. The positive approach is severe penalties for the commission of a crime while armed with a firearm and prohibiting the possession of firearms by convicted criminals.

It is true that some gun accidents occur because individuals are careless or because they are ignorant of proper gun handling. We believe that gun accidents are unnecessary but they cannot be prevented by passing a law. The real answer to the problem of gun accidents and the positive approach to its solution is firearms education. Members of the National Rifle Association, more than any other group, are doing something about this problem. Millions of young people have been taught firearms safety and proper gun handling in the NRA Hunter Safety Course during recent years.

The ultimate responsibility for bad legislation cannot rest upon those who make the laws if individual voting Americans are indifferent or silent before the threat to deprive them of their guns and shooting. Those members of the NRA who give of their time and effort to study problems which create proposed gun laws and to assist lawmakers in separating the good gun legislation from the bad are rendering a true service for the gun owners and shooter-sportsmen of America. We salute them because they are taking the positive approach.

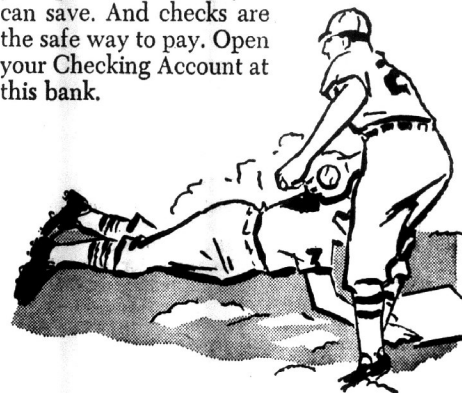

THANK YOU

I want to thank everyone for all the lovely cards, flowers and gifts, and also the many prayers while I was in the hospital and since I came home. God bless you each one.

Hints To Control Crabgrass

Cloudy days, rainy weather and high temperatures recently occurring throughout Indiana will combine to cause extreme vigor in crabgrass, reports W. H. Daniel, Purdue University turf specialist.

Daniel says lawnmowers may choose to use two applications, applied five days apart, of the di-sodium methyl arsonate, or amine arsonate to selectively kill crabgrass.

As an alternative, three applications of phenyl mercury acetate will kill crabgrass, as well as reduce disease.

Daniel says, with either material, repeating applications on schedule, careful measuring of the area and uniform application are important. Both dry and liquid forms of DSMA and PMA are available.

For those not interested in chemical control, close mowing and sweeping about September 1 to 10 may serve to reduce crabgrass competition.

Daniel advises that several vertical mowing machines are available—some on a rental basis—to mechanically remove runners and stems of crabgrass prior to reseeding and fall fertilizing.

Tomato Field Day Aug. 27

A general tomato field day, with emphasis on mechanical harvesting, will be held Sunday, August 27, at 1 p.m., CDT, at the O'Neill Memorial Farm, five miles south of Lafayette on U.S. 231 and one mile east, near the WBAA Purdue University radio towers. (The route will be marked.)

Purdue horticulturists urge tomato growers, representatives of canneries, fieldmen and others to attend the demonstration of two commercially built tomato harvesters; tour the tomato breeding research and fertility areas; hear reports on hail damage studies; get results of using various herbicides on tomatoes, and discuss the control of tomato diseases.

The mechanical harvesters will be picking nine different varieties of tomatoes which appear adaptable to mechanical harvesting.

Afternoon activities will conclude with the serving of barbecued chicken with sweet corn and watermelon.

WHEAT TESTING TO BEGIN

A county-wide seed wheat testing program will be available to farmers during the next month. This was reported by Donald E. Frantz, county agricultural agent.

There is reason to believe that some of the wheat has been damaged enough to make it unsuitable for seed. The excessive rainfall, delayed harvest and high seed moisture may have caused germination to start in the heads while the crop was in the fields in high enough percentage to greatly reduce the value as seed according to Mr. Frantz.

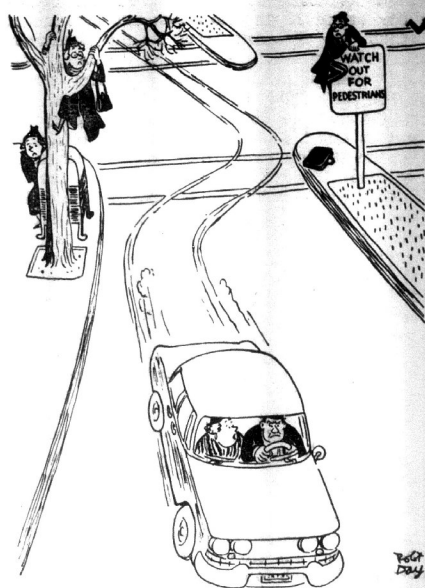

The seed testing program will begin August 24. Farmers may bring seed to grain elevator in the county. A sample of one pint of seed is the proper amount and should be drawn from near the center of the bin where over heating could have occurred. The samples will be picked up at the elevators by the county agricultural extension staff and sent to the state laboratories. A two weeks period is required as seed wheat must be pre-chilled before testing.

The following elevators are cooperating in this seed testing program: the Northern Indiana Co-Op and Valentines Elevator at Mentone; the Burket Elevator; the Claypool Elevator; Ted Harp at Sidney; and Strause Elevator at Silver Lake. Also the Farm Bureau Elevators at Warsaw, Packerton, Piercetown, and Milford. The Palestine Mill, the Etna Grain Company at Etna Green and Atwood and the Clunette Elevator Company will handle samples. The Culver Grain Company at North Webster and Leesburg Elevator Company also are cooperating on the testing program. There is no charge to the farmers for the service.

Chester Dille of Indianapolis came Tuesday to visit his cousin, Margaret Clymer and left Wednesday morning for California to visit his son, Robert Dille.

Fresh From The Vine

Just why are locally grown tomatoes preferred over other types? Because they are picked at optimum maturity, assuring the best flavor, answers Ken Brink, Purdue University produce specialist.

Allowed to ripen on the vines, tomatoes from nearby sources are most desirable from the consumer's standpoint since they may be purchased only a few hours after harvest.

When selecting tomatoes, be sure to choose fruit that is well formed, uniform in color, ripe, firm and free from blemish.

Roughness, well healed scars, and irregularity of shape are objectionable because of appearance or possibly waste in preparation. However, this fruit may be lower priced, and therefore a bargain. Intended use should guide consumers in their selection, comments Brink. Tomatoes that are soft or shriveled are poor in flavor and involve considerable waste.

Ripe tomatoes are particularly susceptible to damage by improper handling or storage. Degree of maturity determines storage requirements. Fully ripe tomatoes should not be stored at temperatures lower than 50 degrees F. except for short periods (3 to 5 days). Tomatoes not already soft ripe may be held satisfactorily at this same temperature 8 to 12 days. Tomatoes with a greenish or pink color may be ripened by holding at a temperature range of 60 to 70 degrees F.

HIGH SCHOOL FRESHMEN OF 1913

What a fine group of bright eyed boys and girls they were, this class of the orange and black. Such was (and still is) the opinion of Chester Manwaring, their freshman principal, as they appeared in assembly at Nappanee High School 48 years ago.

At Sunday evening dinner, August 13, Mr. and Mrs. Manwaring were privileged to entertain this group in their annual class reunion. With the exception of several years during the war, the members of this class have gotten together each year in an effort to find out who put the pin in teacher's chair.

Of those who graduated in 1917, the following, chaperoned by their older and more sedate husbands and wives, were present: Madge Ulery Mellinger, Charles E. Goss, Wilma Yoder George, Walter A. Miller, Russell H. Hartman, Mary Ercell Cole Metzler, Beulah Shaum Stahly, all from Nappanee, Indiana. Zae Lehman Haney of Milford; Wilbur W. Welty, Benton; Ann Kurtz Brown of South Bend; Howard W. Rosenburg, Elkhart; George Emory Naylor, Goshen.

Teachers attending were: Myron D. Kizer, Plymouth; Miss Eva Graham, Goshen; Mrs. Lowell Taggart Roose, Nappanee; and Chester Manwaring.

Purdue Swine Day
Fri., Aug. 25

The 41st annual Swine Day, sponsored by Purdue University's animal science department, will be held Friday, August 25, at Purdue's livestock experimental farm, one mile north of U.S. 52 by-pass on County Farm Road and the Hall of Music on the campus.

Tours of experiments at the farm will be held from 8 a.m. to 10:30 a.m., CDT. The afternoon program will start at 1 o'clock in the Hall of Music.

Purdue animal scientists will report experimental results of different rations fed to several head of swine as visitors view the swine on tours.

Dr. T. J. Cunha, head of the animal science department at the University of Florida, will address the afternoon program on "Present and Future Status of Swine Feeding and Nutrition."

Other afternoon program speakers will include Vernon Garwood, Purdue swine geneticist; Richard A. Pickett, Purdue swine nutritionist; and William Heichelberg, Rockport hog farmer.

Visitors at the farm will have an opportunity to see exhibits of Purdue's agricultural engineering and entomology departments on automatic feed handling systems and fly and external parasite control.

Lunch will be available at the experimental farm.

Will Seed
Wheat Grow?

Will seed wheat grow? Keller Beeson, Purdue University agronomist, says the best way to find out is to run germination tests on any wheat that appears to be satisfactory for seed.

Since seed wheat goes through a resting period before it grows satisfactorily, it should be chilled for five days at 40 degrees Fahrenheit, Beeson says.

Then it can be tested in soil or rag dolls, or best in special germinators.

A drill box survey of 261 farmers in one third of the counties in Indiana last year showed many poor lots of seed being sown. Farmers using tested seed had an average germination of 95 per cent, while the seed that was not certified germinated less than 88 per cent with a low of 31 per cent, Beeson reports. Good seed should germinate at least 90 per cent.

Indiana is serviced by many experienced certified seed growers who have harvested, dried and stored over 500,000 bushels of wheat for seed. This supply of the best soft wheat varieties will help Indiana farmers procure seed of the highest quality.

The Seed Directory of the Indiana Crop Improvement Association is now available from county agricultural extension offices, seed distributors or from the State Office at Purdue, Lafayette.

Married At Mentone Saturday

On Saturday afternoon, August 26, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Eiler in Mentone, in a very impressive service, before a beautiful background of yellow, white and pink gladioli, ferns and candelabra. Mr. Philip Lafe Bryant, son of Mr. Noel Bryant, of West Lafayette, Indiana, and Mrs. Gladys Bryant, of Romney, Indiana, and Miss Janice Ellen Eiler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Eiler, of West Point, Indiana, were united in marriage in a double ring ceremony by Justice of the Peace, C. O. Eiler, who, with Mrs. Eiler, are grandparents of the bride.

The young couple were juniors at Purdue University last year, Philip majoring in business administration and Janice in speech and hearing therapy.

Janice is planning to continue at Purdue as a senior, while Philip is temporarily suspending his college work to enlist for a term in the Air Force.

After the service, the guests were refreshed from service from a beautiful wedding cake and punch, followed by the opening of presents.

After the usual exchange of felicitations and greetings, the young couple left for a few days' trip to Mammoth Cave and other points.

Guests at the service included Mrs. Gladys Bryant, and sons Greg and Stephen, of Romney, Indiana; Mr. Noel Bryant, of West Lafayette, Indiana; Mr. and Mrs. William Skeen, of West Lafayette, Indiana. The attendants were Mr. and Mrs. Russell Boardman, of West Lafayette, Indiana; Mr. and Mrs. Richard Eiler and son Eddie, of West Point, Indiana; Mrs. Elberta Poulson, of Mentone, and Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Eiler, of Mentone.

MARRIED RECENTLY

Pauline Borton and Howard Silveus were united in marriage in a double-ring ceremony in the Mentone Methodist church, August 12 at 6:30 p. m. by Rev. Roger Wrigley, in the presence of relatives and a few close friends. The reception was held in the church parlors. They were attended by Miss Sue Borton and Mr. Eugene Marshall, daughter and brother of the bride.

The couple are now at home northwest of Silver Lake, after a twelve-day wedding trip to the Wisconsin Dells, Badlands, Blackhills and Mt. Rushmore, South Dakota.

COUNTERPOINT

By The Editor's Wife

Charles V. Neal, Jr. writes a column called "Dollars and Sense" which I read regularly. He tells about one woman, a mother of 7 children, who has a weekly food budget of $15.00. Sounds impossible, doesn't it?

Here are some of her money-saving ideas, as she wrote them to Mr. Neal.

"Ammonia and free newspapers clean windows as well as 39-cent squeeze sprays, and ammonia costs ½-cent a bucket-full, in sufficient strength. Free wax paper from bread still keeps lunches and sandwiches fresh. You can make a white sauce for 10 people out of 8 cents worth of ingredients. Soft, free tomatoes make the best spaghetti sauce, pizza sauce, enchiladas, and soups. Soft, free bananas make the best bread, cake, and cookies.

"Saccharine is one-third the cost of refined sugar. One portion of oatmeal (or porridge) has more food value than two strips of bacon with white toast. Powdered skim milk is the best food buy—we use 50 quarts a week—at a cost of 4 cents a quart. Five cents still makes a bucket of laundry starch."

(More next week.)

Dr. Popenoe suggests using the 4 F's for disciplining your children—Firmness, Fondness, Fun and Faith (as opposed to the 4 B's—Bluffing, Bluster, Blowing-off, and Beating up).

Note on communism—U.S. Senator Barry Goldwater says: "The basic reason behind our difficulty with Russia today is the Communist's denial of the existence of Almighty God.

"We cannot, for long, live at peace with men who deny and reject the moral laws which we accept.

"Without the restraint of moral law, men are no better than beasts and men who subject themselves to the discipline of

DIED SATURDAY

Eva Blue, 76, a former resident of the Mentone and Gilead communities, died of complications at 12:30 p. m. Saturday in St. Lukes hospital in Milwaukee, Wis. She had been in failing health for about three years.

Mrs. Blue was born near Harrison Center April 15, 1885, the daughter of Charles W. and Minerva (House) Boggess. She was married to Conn Blue, who died in 1955.

Mrs. Blue was a member of the Gilead Methodist church. Survivors include one son, Gerald, of Milwaukee; one sister, Lillian Ewing of Orlando, Fla.; three granddaughters, and six great-grandchildren.

Funeral services were held at two p. m. Wednesday in the Reed funeral home and burial was in the Harrison Center cemetery.

ANKLE INJURED BY

Recently while mowing with a power mower, Mrs. Josie Smythe of Palestine, had her ankle hit by a flying object. It was attended by a physician but later developed infection and she is in the Murphy Medical Center at Warsaw, and is reported as improving.

a moral code are at a great disadvantage when confronted by men who deny the existence of a moral code."

National Airlines Stewardesses hold their job, on an average, for 18 months. More than 90% of them leave to be married.

One man, just back from a vacation trip, says there are two kinds of roads—"overcrowded" and "under construction".

Food tip: For Sunday evening supper serve hot milk toast, lightly buttered and generously sprinkled with brown sugar. (A small mound of wild plum preserves in the center adds flavor and eye-appeal.)

We enjoyed this: The doctor was examining a man who had overeaten, and had had too much to drink.

The sick man said, "Doctor, do you think the trouble is in my appendix?"

"No," said the doctor, "the trouble is in your table of contents."

Motors, Farmers State Bank, Hammer Insurance, Valentine Elevator, Lake City Bank, Etna Lumber, Red Comb Feed Mill, Luther Hawley.

The fair was climaxed with a trip for those that completed their projects this year to McCormick's Creek State Park.

It's a good idea, say Purdue clothing specialists, to reinforce corners of pockets of children's play clothes. Place narrow tape on the under side of the garment in line with the top pocket corners and stitch through all thicknesses.

Harvesting Onions

"Don't harvest onions too soon, or they won't keep well during the winter," advises Don Scheer, Purdue University horticulturist.

"You can harvest your onions when one-half the tops start to fall over. Don't leave them too long though, or they will grow new roots, and quality will be reduced. Also, don't bend the tops of the onions over before harvesting. This will not hasten maturing, and will mean they won't mature properly.

"After you pull your onions, spread them out in the garden to dry for about a week," suggests Scheer. "Then cut off all except one inch of the tops and let them cure for a few weeks in a well-ventilated, cool shaded area. Your onions will be sufficiently dry when the necks are completely dry," according to Scheer.

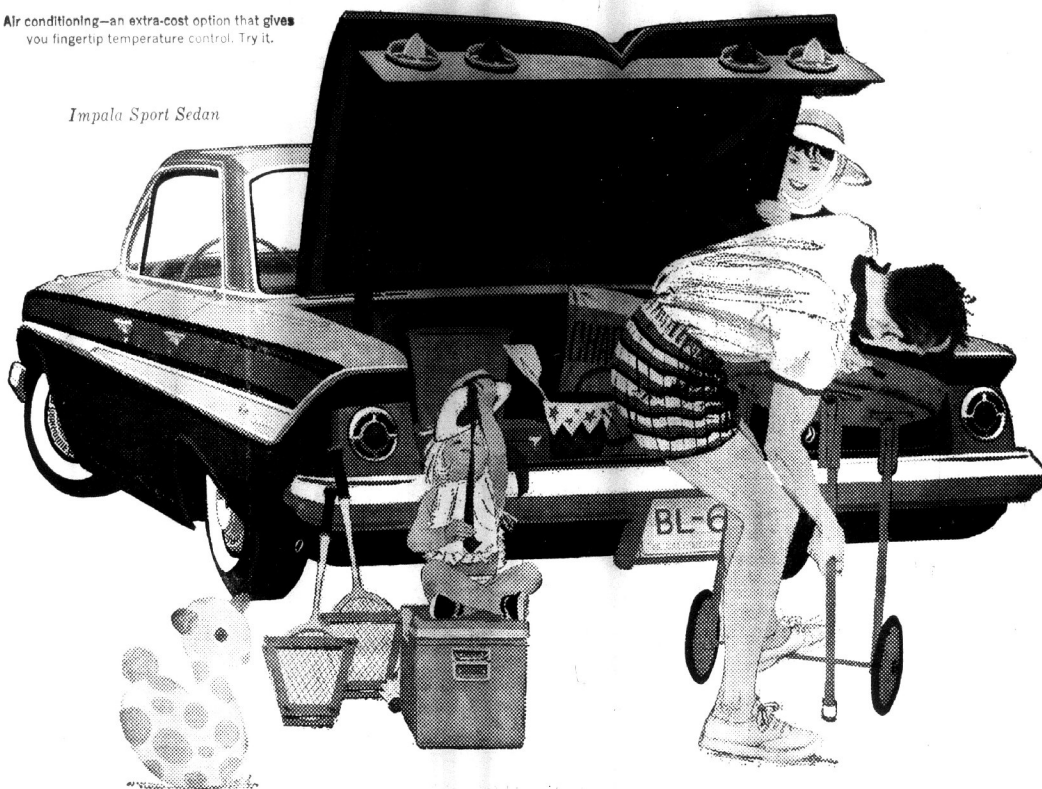

"Store your onions in a cool dry place where there is a good air circulation. Some varieties store better than others. The Bermuda and Sweet Spanish varieties never store well, and are recommended for fresh eating only. Properly cured and stored onions should give you delicious eating all winter," says Scheer.

Motorists should be extra careful during the first few weeks of the new school year, cautions the Chicago Motor Club. Many youngsters will be making their first venture into school life and may let the excitement cause them to forget their safety habits. Drive slowly in school zones and give the youngsters a chance to grow up and learn.

Soil Testing Timely Now

Now is the time for Indiana farmers planning to sow Dual wheat and other fall seeded grains to have their soil tested, reminds Howell Wheaton, Purdue University extension agronomist.

The first step toward an accurate, economical fertility program for these crops is soil testing, which can be done at Purdue's soil testing laboratory.

Wheaton makes these suggestions:

Divide the field to be tested into uniform areas. Take equal sized cores or slices from 10 or more places in each area.

"Don't mix samples of different color and texture just because they are found in the same field sample each area separately.

"Take soil from surface to plow depth with a probe, auger or spade. If a spade is used, dig out a V-shaped hole, then remove a slice from the side.

"Place samples from each area in a pail and mix thoroughly. Spread mixture and dry. Don't dry it in an oven or on a stove.

"County agricultural agents have sample boxes and mailing instructions. Complete information on crop and fertilizer history of the field should accompany the samples."

The agronomist cautions farmers to avoid taking samples from lanes and field borders, to stay away from fertilizer bands in row crops and small grains and to avoid sampling within eight to ten rods of gravel roads.

He recommends that farmers check with their county agents for detailed instructions.

Be Ready For Bluecomb

Late summer through early fall is the critical time for outbreaks of bluecomb disease in the maturing pullets, Joe W. Slicer, Purdue University extension poultryman, points out.

Its presence can be suspected whenever newly housed pullets, just getting started into good production, suddenly lose their appetites, become listless, turn bluish in their comb and head parts, drop sharply in their lay and some, maybe many, die.

Slicer says the first hint of something wrong may be the failure of the pullets to clean up their food as usual. Closer observation may show the bluish comb and whitish watery diarrhea. Catch one of these birds and you are likely to find the crop is distended with sour smelling contents.

In later stages the shanks appear shriveled with the veins appearing more prominent than normal. None of these symptoms is specific for bluecomb, but they are highly indicative when found in maturing pullets, especially just after a hot spell. A diagnosis by a veterinarian is highly desirable.

The cause of bluecomb is not known, but a filterable virus is suspected. It usually occurs following some stress upon the birds such as hot weather, onset of egg production, moving or vaccination.

Slicer urges that all vaccinations be completed well ahead of the start of egg production, that extra waterers be provided during hot spells and fans be used, if practical, to aid in cooling. Extra cleanliness and sanitary conditions should be practiced during the critical period.

Use of miute of potash, one tablespoon per gallon of water, has been helpful in treating

Safe Steps To School

More children die or are incapacitated because of traffic accidents than from disease or serious illness reminds the Indiana Office of Traffic Safety.

These shocking facts put special emphasis on reviewing safety and traffic rules as children return to school, states Martha Cullop, Purdue University extension supervisor and Home Demonstration Committee advisor. Schools and parents teach children good safety methods, but the home has the stronger and more constant control.

It is a good idea for the parent to plan a safe, short route to and from school with the kindergartner or first grader. Walking the route with the parent a few times and then alone before school is in session will give confidence to the child who is going away from home for the first time.

Parents have a responsibility to instruct the child in safety measures special to his needs as well as the basic pedestrian safety rules, urges the supervisor. Stressing the importance of cooperating with the school patrol, walking directly home from school and not accepting rides from strangers will add to the child's safety. The dangers in crossing streets except at corners and in playing or walking between parked cars should be emphasized.

Extra care is necessary on rainy days when streets and sidewalks are slippery and the vision of both drivers and pedestrians is impaired. Children wearing raincoats and hats are safer than children carrying umbrellas.

Sun Windows For Houseplants

"You can have really beautiful houseplants all winter when you plan for sufficient space and light now," according to Purdue University horticulturists.

"The thing to do is to construct special sun windows, since many of today's homes have no window sills, or such small window sills that it is difficult to place houseplants on them. Start construction before fall so that you can enjoy houseplants during cool weather.

"One way to get more light and room for your houseplants," state the horticulturists, "is to attach glass shelves to the window. Another way is to extend the window into a miniature greenhouse, then you can add shelves, and perhaps a top ventillator. You can either make a miniature window greenhouse, or purchase one. Usually heat from the house is sufficient to keep the plants.

"A south or a southeast window is by far the best for most flowering plants, because of the higher intensity. The next best is an east window. If you want to grow African violets, foliage plants, or ferns, you should choose a north or northwest window," advise the horticulturists.

Production High In Indiana

Recent conditions indicate a 1961 commercial apple crop of 1,350,000 bushels in Indiana. This is 100,000 bushels above the July 1 forecast, but 29 per cent below the 1960 crop and eight per cent less than average, report state-federal agricultural statisticians at Purdue University.

The peach crop in Indiana is now expected to total 415,000 bushels, eight per cent below last year but 22 per cent above average.

Indiana July milk production totaled 287 million pounds, seasonally down seven per cent from June, but one per cent above the same month a year ago.

The total of 189 million eggs laid during July compares with 190 million eggs laid in June and 199 million a year ago. Cumulative egg production January-July, 1961, totals 1,423 million eggs, seven per cent less than last year's total through July 1.

A Greenhouse At Home

"You can build a greenhouse of your own," according to Don Scheer, Purdue University horticulturist.

"It's easy to build your own greenhouse when you use some of the new plastic coverings, and inexpensive, too. In fact, you can build a greenhouse the size of a single car garage for under $200. And you'll be able to garden all year, and produce delicate vegetables and beautiful flowers during the winter."

Scheer says plastic coverings are more popular every year, and more durable, too. In fact, some plastics now last up to five years. Plastics are less expensive than glass, and far easier to use. Another cost-cutting item is the frame. Scheer points out that the modern trend is toward light, inexpensive wood.

For more information on constructing a plastic greenhouse contact county agricultural extension officers and request Extension Circular 492, "Construction of Plastic Greenhouses".

Check house plants that were put outside in the garden for rooting through the hole in the pot. Purdue University horticulturists say if roots have come through the hole, cut them off and reset the pot in sand. This will help them become established for bringing indoors in a few weeks.

Slicer urges that all vaccinations be completed well ahead of the start of egg production, that extra waterers be provided during hot spells and fans be used, if practical, to aid in cooling. Extra cleanliness and sanitary conditions should be practiced during the critical period.

Use of mite of potash, one tablespoon per gallon of water, has been helpful in treating outbreaks. Poultrymen should have some on hand ready to use.

Various antibiotics, such as streptomycin, aureomycin and others, in the drinking water have given good results. They should be used at the high levels recommended by their manufacturers.

The Chicago Motor Club reminds you that good visibility is essential to safe driving. Never drive even short distances if the windshield and windows of your car are not free of insects, road film, and other dirt accumulations. Remember, you have to see danger in order to avoid it.

Good Farm Dogs Valuable

Farm dogs are valuable assets to the farming operation and should have the best possible care, says Dr. F. A. Hall, Purdue University extension veterinarian. If a dog is to become and remain an asset, it must be properly trained and kept healthy.

Training requires time, patience and understanding. A dog, like a person, learns for itself every day that it lives and works. It will watch the owner day after day and soon it will begin to help in several ways. During this time, patience is essential and can mean the difference between a poor, mediocre, or good assistant to its owner. An untrained, or poorly trained dog, has little value on a farm, and under most circumstances is a liability rather than an asset.

Dogs should be trained not to roam because a "tramp" can bring diseases home to his owner's livestock. They can be spreaders of TGE, leptospirosis, brucellosis, rabies, ringworm, and other diseases of livestock and humans. Dr. Hall says that dogs which remain at home have little chance to carry and introduce disease.

A dog must be healthy to do good work. Table scraps alone are inadequate for the growth and maintenance of a working farm dog. Most of the commercially prepared dog feeds on the market are completely balanced rations. Sick dogs should be taken immediately to a veterinarian.

To follow the treatments advised by well-meaning friends and neighbors can result in the loss of a valuable farm hand. Veterinarians should be consulted about vaccinations, worming and diet. Every precaution should be taken to insure the usefulness of the most inexpensive labor on modern farms, Dr. Hall adds.

Water—Make It Automatic

How would you like to walk across 20 acres on a hot day and then wait in line to drink water that's been standing in the sun in a tank that has not been cleaned for a month?

This is the description of the livestock water supply on too many good livestock farms, says Bruce McKenzie, extension agricultural engineer at Purdue University. But, he says, it doesn't have to be so.

Use of plastic water pipe in conjunction with automatic fountains can completely change the picture. The pipe is a black plastic commonly known as polyethylene, which is light, durable and easy to install. Available in long coils, the pipe can be installed underground by all of the usual methods, but in addition can be fed into an underground slot made by a subsoiler, or into a furrow of a field plow.

Installation at frost-free depth is not essential if the pipe is for summer use, provided the pressure is removed during freezing weather. Plastic pipe should never be installed above ground, because sunlight causes rotting.

"But who wants to drink water from an above ground pipe?" asks McKenzie. Water temperatures may reach 120 degrees on a hot day. This is where the automatic fountain counts. It holds a small quantity of water. This water is replaced automatically as an animal drinks with cool water from the supply underground.

So, you can kill two birds with one stone by putting the water supply closer to the animal and supplying cooler water, adds McKenzie. The same fountain can be moved to drylot for winter use.

It is most important that all drivers know their traffic signs, says the Chicago Motor Club. Good drivers should know what a traffic sign says even before they are close enough to read the lettering. You should be able to recognize the sign's meaning by its standard shape. For instance a stop sign is octagonal shaped; a yield right of way sign is triangular; a hill warning is diamond shaped; and a railroad crossing warning is round.

Gay Styles For Girls

"A return to lady-like silhouettes has replaced the strictly tailored look in fashion news for school girls," forecasts Lotie Sumner, Purdue University clothing specialist.

The easy look is expressed in jumpers, crisp pinafores, middy tops jacket-topped sleeveless dresses and flared skirts that are stylishly short.

Above-the-hem trims emphasize the line of skirt. Sashes and self belts have given away to neat corded belt treatments, often trimmed with a bow. Rickrack is popular, in black or picking up the darkest color print, circling a simple neckline, or trimming an overscaled collar.

Textures and prints top fall's fabric picture, reports Mrs. Sumner, with color interest in the softer gray greens, silver gray, and steel blue. Magenta is the shocking color. Since this is such a strong, off-beat hue, it requires care in selection and use, as it may not be flattering to many young girls.

Top fashion for school girls is assured by accurate sizing in a new junior sub teen range. This group is aimed for young ladies whose figures are more mature than the girls size range, but not quite developed to a teen size. Styling is relatively sophisticated but remains suitable for the age group. Sizes are marked 9, 11, and 13.

Fatigue and drowsiness at the wheel are invitations to accidents, says the Chicago Motor Club. Fight fatigue in the following ways: Get plenty of rest before any trip so that you start refreshed; stop for a break every two hours, even if it's just to get out of the car and stretch your legs; and stop for the day when you begin to have difficulty concentrating on your driving.

Sow adapted lawn seed when you are starting a new lawn. Purdue University horticulturists say Kentucky bluegrass, is adapted for sunny areas all over Indiana. Bluegrass mixtures containing some red fescue are best for shady areas.
