Mentone Bulldogs Whip Fulton 30-25

When two Bulldogs meet you never fail to see a good scrap. And that rule was not broken when the Mentone Bulldogs met the Fulton Bulldogs at Mentone Friday night. It was a battle royal from start to finish with the Mentone pack coming from behind in the last quarter to sink blow after blow to leave no doubt as to which was the champion pack of canines.

Trailing by three points at the start of the final quarter Coach Goshert's team lived up their name, Fighting Bulldogs, by making a whirlwind finish of 11 points to their opponents 3 to completely subdue the Bulldogs from Fulton.

Scoring was as follows: Shirey 10, Blue 8, Smalley 2, Nellans 1, Long 2, Orie Vandemark 3.

THEATRE NEWS

"The Golden West" brings George O'Brien to the Strand Theatre screen Friday and Saturday in two roles—that of a southern youth in love with a girl whose romance is torn asunder by a family feud and, later, as the leader of an Indian tribe. These contrasting roles are said to give O'Brien the best opportunities he had been privileged to enjoy in any of his outdoor romances.

A romance between the fiery-tempered daughter of an elderly sea-captain and the sport-loving son of a millionaire forms the theme of "Toss of the Storm Country," starring Janet Gaynor and Charles Farrell, which opens next Sunday at the Strand Theatre.

This section of the county will be represented on the stage when the "Hoosier Firecrackers," composed of near-local talent, appear at the Centennial Friday. The "Hoosier Firecrackers" have been appearing on numbers of programs lately and rank as "The Pride of the County."

Friday night at the Centennial is "Ladies Night." Each lady attending will receive a box of excellent Bon Bons. Several other prizes also are to be given. Then on Saturday afternoon "Kiddies Treat." Every boy and girl that attends receives candy.

OBITUARY—CHAS. DAVISON

Charles Duncan Davison was born at Livingston, Illinois, on February 16, 1860, and departed this life at his home in Marshall, Friday evening, November 11, 1932, at the age of 72 years 8 months and 25 days. The deceased was the fourth son of Reese and Catherine Davison to whom were born six other sons, Lyman, William, George P. of Terre Haute, David A. of Princeton, Indiana, John H. of Marshall, B. M. of Springfield, Illinois and one daughter, Carrie, who became the wife of Frank Taylor. The sister and two brothers, William and Lyman preceded him in death several years ago.

On June 9, 1880, he was united in marriage to Nancy Lurinda Ross of Ashbury, Illinois. To this union were born six children, Edna Pearl, who died at the age of twenty years, Golda J. at home, Marjorie of Chicago, Asa H. of Urbana, Ross L. of Marshall and Fenton B. of Mentone Indiana.

When a young man, Charles was converted at the Livingston church and never lost faith in his Savior. His last weeks were spent in praise and thanksgiving that he had been blessed with the encouragement of Christian parents and for the anchor that had held him fast. He was happy in the assurance that he was prepared to meet his Lord and Master.

Heavenly visions blessed his sick room as favorite old hymns were sung for him. Then he slept and when he awakened, he said, "I shall leave you all in one of these sleeps, and I want to say 'Goodbye' while I can. I want you all to meet me Over There." He seemed ever to see the Savior in the distance, and about a week before the end, he smiled and said "At last, Jesus is headed this way."

Those left to miss him everywhere are wife, five children, six grandchildren, four brothers with families and many other relatives and friends. Floral tributes were many and beautiful. The funeral service was held in the Livingston church Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, Rev. Laren Spear officiating. "We'll ever Say Goodbye in Heaven," "Asleep in Jesus," "Beautiful Isle of Somewhere," and "Meet Me There" were favorite songs and were beautifully rendered by Mrs. Walter Craig, Mrs. Harry Cropp and C. C. Carroll of Marshall. Burial was in the Livingston cemetery.

HARD TIMES BEGET STRONGER MEN, Stronger Institutions

Adversity has its uses. Strong men and strong institutions come through hard times with the consciousness of greater strength, added poise, renewed courage and a firmer faith.

This Bank and its predecessors have seen economic disorders come and go—always a better bank because of deepening experience and firmer faith in the fundamental soundness of policies which have stood up in all kinds of times, under all conditions.

Man Falls Into Lion's Den

Trying to find a way out of the Groot Schuur zoo in Capetown, South Africa, a native climbed into the lion's enclosure and fell into the pit. He was seized by a lion and lionesess, and his neck was broken by a blow from the paw of one of the beasts. He was badly mauled.

Self-Conceit

Utter faith in one's own opinions is the best barrier ever devised against the entrance of truth. The self-conceited thinker is always a poor thinker, no matter how fine a mind he may originally have had. He is confining himself to a pint cup, when he might use the ocean.

A Soap Bubble Blowing Party

IN the early 1890's we are told, soap bubble blowing parties were the fashion, and furnished many hours of amusement for our mothers and fathers, and even grand-children and grandchildren.

Nowadays when soap has so many utilitarian and personal functions in our social scheme, especially since the same kind can be used for everything including care of the baby, laundering delicate fabrics, scrubbing floors and other seemingly unrelated tasks, we have perhaps lost sight of how much hilarity and good fun can be had from a cake of ordinary white soap.

A soap bubble blowing party will keep any group of children and even a group of grown-ups amused and entertained for an afternoon.

For the little ones the affair will need to be carefully planned. A wise hostess will provide or suggest that the little guests bring brightly colored and decorated rubber aprons. These can be purchased at the ten-cent store and will add to the general color and gaiety of the occasion and at the same time prevent uncomfortable dampness to pretty frocks and play suits.

Make a rich solution with a mild pure soap, like Ivory. Add a few drops of glycerin. When the guests have put on their aprons each one should be given an ordinary, inexpensive clay bubble blowing pipe.

Children are always pleased with the idea of a competition, especially if the hostess awards some simple prizes. A board of judges should be appointed (chosen from among the children, if possible, otherwise grown-ups may serve) and each contestant for the prizes should be required to blow his or her prize-winning bubble before the judges. Ample time for preliminary practice should be allowed.

An interesting variation of the soap bubble blowing party would be to ask the guests to come in costume and stage a party exactly like the ones their mothers and daddies enjoyed when this fad was at its height. The children will enjoy dressing up and any grown-up present will be equally glad to have a pipe, a cake of Ivory soap and a bowl and join in the fun.

In the Nation's Youth

The first United States census was taken in 1790. The leading ten cities then were: Philadelphia, 42,444; New York, 33,131; Boston, 18,008; Charleston, 16,339; Baltimore, 13,463; Salem, Mass., 7,921; Newport, 6,716; Providence, 6,380; Richmond, 3,761; Albany, 3,498.

Pasting Oilcloth

If you want to paste oilcloth down on shelves, buy a pot of good library paste and use with very little water added. Put the paste on the shelf, not on the oilcloth, and, with a cloth in your hand, smooth out every crease as you go along.

Sunshine Lengthens Legs

Sunshine makes the legs grow longer, according to Dr. Kathleen Vaughan, woman medico. She asserts those who are killed from their youth up grow taller than those who are killed later. The kilts allow the sun to strike the knees and shins.

Sun's Immense Size

This glowing mass of incandescent gases which we call the sun is equal in bulk to 1,300,000 earths, says Nature Magazine. It rotates slowly on its axis in about 24½ days at its equator, and in about one day longer in latitude 35 degrees north and south of its equator.

Error in Marketing Brood Sow Too Soon

Point Often Overlooked by Pork Producers.

Good breeding and good feeding go hand in hand. Swine, like all classes of live stock, should be selected on the basis of their performance from the standpoint of prolificacy, vigor, quality and yield of carcass. Prolificacy and the ability to utilize feed economically are matters of heredity. Pork producers should take advantage of this fact. Feeding and carcass tests will enable the producer more accurately to select breeding stock.

The hog producers of the country are suffering a great loss due to the practice of using brood sows for only one or two litters and then marketing them. Under this system the number of sows is proportionally greater than would be the case if the brood sows were kept their full life of usefulness, which is frequently five or six years. It would be profitable to the producers to keep the sows which have proved good mothers just as long as they continue to farrow and successfully raise large litters of desirable type that are economical feeders. Two litters a year not only reduces the cost of production of market hogs, but it gives the producer two chances at the market during the year instead of one.—Breeder's Gazette.

Operation of Seeding Without a Nurse Crop

The cultural practices which have proven most satisfactory in seeding without a nurse crop are as follows. The land is disked or cultivated after harvest, or early in the spring before the main grain crop is seeded. This cultivation conserves the moisture in the land and is an insurance that all the wild oats and other weed seeds which fall on the ground will be germinated and not plowed down as viable seeds. The land is plowed after spring seeding is completed, at which time wild oats and other spring germinated weeds will have made sufficient growth to insure that they will be killed by plowing. The land is then worked down into a fine seed bed and kept well worked and harrowed until the latter part of June. If sufficient moisture is available and tillage is given every ten days, a number of successive weed crops will be germinated and destroyed before the grass or clover is seeded.

Phosphate Aids Crops

Phosphate increased beet yields nearly four tons an acre for Stewart Thompson, Lawrence county, South Dakota. Mr. Thompson had his soil analyzed. It was rich in lime and potash and had sufficient nitrogen, but it was low in phosphate. He decided to try superphosphate on sugar beets. On a field of 6.83 acres 12 rows of phosphated beets were alternated with 12 rows that had no fertilizer. He got seven tons an acre from plots that had no fertilizer and nearly eleven tons an acre where he applied phosphate.

The contract price of beets was $7 a ton, so the phosphate increased returns nearly $28 an acre.

Wheat was put on this field the following year. That on the fertilized strips matured four to five days earlier and made 32.15 bushels an acre. The rest of the field made 22 bushels. Last year the field was in corn. That from the strips where phosphate had been applied to beets was a foot taller, matured five to six days earlier, and looked good enough to double the yield of that on unfertilized plots.—Capper's Farmer.

Seed Corn Treatment

Treating seed corn with dust disinfectants increased the yield three bushels per acre in Illinois, according to the United States Department of Agriculture. With well selected lots of seed under proper storage conditions seed treatment was found to be as effective as the germination tests in increasing yields.

The dust treatment effectively controlled two of the ear rots most common in well selected seed. The treatments also gave partial protection against soil-borne diseases.

Around the Farm

Get after the weeds early and often. They work fast.

Alabama farms have more hogs and cattle but fewer horses and mules than a year ago.

A rich sandy loam soil with a good supply of decaying organic matter is the best for potatoes.

Over two thousand horses and mules have been treated in Vermillion county, Illinois, for the control of internal parasites.

Blue grass sod is one of the preventives of erosion in fields.

Heavy feeding and no exercise on Sundays or rainy days are bad for horses. Be sure to reduce the feed when the horses are idle, live stock specialists urge.

Covered smut of wheat, barley and oats causes tremendous losses to grain growers in Dakota, but is effectively controlled by the use of a solution of formaldehyde or with copper carbonate dust.

Elements in the Sun

Of course nothing is known about the composition of the sun's interior. The spectroscopic has shown that the outside layer or chromosphere consists largely of hydrogen, helium and calcium vapor; the vapors of iron, titanium, manganese, nickel, cobalt and other elements (over 40 in all) have also been detected.

DICTATES POEM FOR RADIO SONG ACROSS THE COUNTRY

In his daily programs, Lowell Patton, composer, organist and director of the "Song for Today" program over WJZ and associated radio stations, features at least three songs in each broadcast for which he has written the music to original poems. Many of these poems are written by his listeners, and others by his mother, Mrs. Bella McIntosh Patton, a well known Portland, Ore., writer.

It sometimes happens that Mr. Patton needs a special song for a particular occasion. A telephone call from New York to his mother in Portland informs her of his need, and within a short time she calls back with a poem whose words he takes down over the long distance wires and then arranges in a musical setting.

The last occasion on which he made use of the telephone to Portland for this purpose was on his father's birthday, when he called to offer his congratulations. At the same time his mother read to him the lyric for a new song which she had written and dedicated to her husband. The son copied down the words, and the next morning the song was heard on the regular "Song for Today" program.

Varying Tidal Waves

The irregular shape and depth of the oceans and the obstructing land masses cause the actual tidal waves to differ very greatly. In the open ocean the amplitude of the rise and fall of tides is not more than 1 or 2 feet, but around the continents, where the tidal waves sweep into the shallow or narrow seas, the waters are heaped up, and the rise is sometimes 20 feet or even more.

New Ideas

We think in a straight line, and cannot attend to a new idea until we dismiss the old one; but it is not impossible to conceive of a divided mind which can entertain an unlimited number of concepts at the same time.

Summing It Up

The principle of happiness should be like the principle of virtue; it should not be dependent on things, but be a part of personality.

"Dakota Medicine"

Sorcerers of some of the plains tribes chewed the leaves of the false mallow and rubbed their hands and arms with the mucilaginous paste, says Nature Magazine. This rendered them insensible to heat, so they were able to pick up hot objects or take meat from boiling water to the amazement of the spectators. The Indians called the plant Heyo's pezheta, meaning "Dakota medicine."

Death Across the Rhine

History has not preserved his name but it is a commonly known fact that the first man in the American Army of Occupation to cross the Rhine, died on the following day. He was an engineer who had been struck down and injured by a train at the railroad of Coblenz, several days before.

A Red Cross hospital was established directly across the river. It offered the nearest refuge for the injured man and he was taken over the stream he had doubtless dreamed of crossing ever since leaving America. He died there the next day.

The hospital was packed at the time with German wounded. These enemy soldiers pooled their funds to buy a wreath for the American's grave. It was placed there by a detail which buried him in the little village churchyard.

"When the engine gets hot"

said MRS. MOLLA PROPP,

"one can always shut off the radiator"

YOU know, my dear, Henry can be almost ARABIAN at times. So I wasn't so much surprised when—jokingly, of course—he dragged me to the car for a trip to the golf course.

Henry kept telling me all the way how the transmission is full of wheels and things and how the gas goes through the gaskets. He's SO mechanical.

Who should we meet but the Georges in their new car and George was blue in the face and told us all he was going to do to the salesman. Henry told him to keep cool and maybe it was only the generator which needed charging.

But it wasn't, for the car didn't go any better. Then I remembered what I always tell Henry. "I'll bet it's the gasoline!" I said over and over again.

And right away Henry knew what was wrong and we stayed with the Georges until they limped to one of OUR stations and filled the pan with gas.

So we didn't play golf after all, but all of us got into the Georges' new car for a long ride. And George was so tickled with his new car and said it was the best made, which got Henry peeved because he says OURS is best.

And they argued all the way home comparing wheelbases and what-nots until midnight. Oh, those men!

carried 21 men and 8 women.

As the boat was beached the crowd surrounded it. A little girl was the first passenger lifted ashore. She was dripping wet but smiling and she blew a kiss to the crowds that cheered her as she was carried into the hospital tent. "I'm all right. Help those other people. Just give me a coat. I'm cold," she said. To a big six-foot Shriner who tore off his gold-laced, trimmed green velvet coat and flung it about her shoulders, she smiled her thanks.

Two frail women, biting their lips in their effort not to break down under the strain of their experience were carried in to land. They were dressed in heavy blue overalls and jumpers. One of them fainted as a sudden blast from the band which was madly playing "The Star Spangled Banner" carried the tune of the national anthem to her ears. The other woman also as she heard the music for the first time seemed to realize that she was freed from the terror of the sea and among friends. "We're saved" she remarked simply, then fell unconscious into the arms of a doctor.

Dark Days

In the hours of distress and misery, the eyes of every mortal turn to friendship. In the hour of gladness and conviviality, what is your want? It is friendship. When the heart overflows with gratitude, or with any other sweet and sacred sentiment, what is the word to which it would give utterance? A friend.—Landon.

An Interrupted Parade

June 4, 1918, was an eventful day at Atlantic City, N. J. Hundreds of bathers were at play in the surf. A parade of Knights of the Mystic Shrine was in progress along the boardwalk, preceded by a band which played "Where Do We Go From Here." Suddenly a boat appeared around the end of one of the long piers, a white flag of distress whipping at the bow. There was a moment of stunned silence then a shout of welcome arose from the crowd. The band swung into "The Star Spangled Banner" and excited shoppers, mindful of their regular, rushed waist-deep into the surf.

For they recognized this craft as one of the lifeboats of the New York and Porto Rico liner, Carolina, which had been torpedoed by a German submarine off the coast of New Jersey on June 2. Other lifeboats, carrying the survivors of the attack, had been picked up but up to this moment nothing had been heard of No. 5, which
