COUNTERPOINT

By The Editor's Wife

A note from the Max Dunlaps in White Bear Lake, Minn. says that they have had a nice fall and that both are in good health. Their new address is 516 Central Ave.

Last Friday, Ernest Harrold brought in some more proof that our weather has been unusual. He had some lovely strawberries in a glass container. These were from ever-bearing plants and were picked on Thanksgiving. Last week they picked a quart, and the week before that a half gallon. These vines have been in the freezing weather and snow and still had blossoms and green berries. Ernest says that they have had more berries this fall than they did all summer.

At the time of the president's death, many of us failed to have our flags displayed at half staff or draped in black because we were completely absorbed by the shock of the whole affair and simply forgot. Television made each one of us a participant in this fast moving flawless spectacle of grief and heartbreak.

Hate is a terrible word—hate in one's heart is the same as murder, according to the words of Jesus. As we criticize Oswald or Ruby for their violence, can we honestly say that our thoughts toward them are not of the same stuff as motivated them to kill?

The following words, taken from an editorial in this week's National Observer, should cause us to think.

That man's (John F. Kennedy) greatness was not in his programs, which merely reflected the times, nor in his energies, which were often perfunctory. The truly great things he brought to his office were rational discourse, magnanimity to his foes, and a thoroughly Christian sense of the importance of not being vindictive. If all of this is to be lost in this hour of hysteria, John Kennedy did live and die in vain. For the stones of hate can only bring counter fatalities. Man, by nature, is forever engaged in his own struggle between good and evil, between love and hate. That, after all, is one thing that religion is about. And it is one thing the law is about. Our symbol, therefore, should not be the justice of Jack Ruby. Rather let it be that he who is without hate shall henceforth hurl the first stone.

Here are a few interesting facts concerning events surrounding the late president's death and burial.

The Military District of Washington, which had charge of arrangements for the president's funeral, supervised 23 other funerals at Arlington on that day, also.

"It cost the nation's radio and television networks around $32 million to broadcast the events surrounding the assassination of the president. This includes $18.8 million lost through television commercials; .68 million in radio commercials; $3.3 million lost in commissions to advertising agencies and salesmen; and $3.1 million for television and radio coverage of the story." U.P.I.

Quote of the week — "The optimistic proclaims that we live in the best of all worlds, and the pessimist fears this is all true." Cabell

Bulldogs Win
Over Syracuse

Syracuse had its ample supply of upset-minded cagers in camp when giving Mentone a go for the first two periods, but fell in the last half by a 71-62 count for loss number five of the year.

Mentone, possessor of the coveted silver horseshoe and a good 4-1 record this season, led only 10-9 at the end of one and 26-24 at the half. The Bulldogs then slid away, as is their habit when eventually waking up that the opponent is close, and roamed to a 50-35 third quarter lead with the Jackets spending the remainder of the contest trying to catch up.

Larry East hit for 19, Jim Whetstone and John Zolman hit 17 each, and Jerry Shirey hit 14 for the Bulldogs, while Paul Brewer led Syracuse with 17.

TVSC Discusses
Repair of School

At the regular meeting of the Tippecanoe Valley School board Monday evening, the most interesting piece of business that was discussed was the possibility of the repairs of several of the school buildings.

The superintendent explained that there would be approximately $100,000 available for the repair of schools. He then broke the repair down into the various schools. He went on to say that the figures were rough figures and only for the sake of discussion so that the school board could decide what should be done. They were to use the figures as a study basis.

Repairs of Akron School: Floors, $10,000; ceiling, $10,000; stairs, $2,500; entrances, $1,250; painting, $7,000; masonry, $7,500; partitions, $3,000; plaster, $2,000; structure, $500; furniture, $10,000; intercom, $3,500; language lab, $6,000; engineering cost, $3,000.

Repair of Mentone School: New lighting, $5,000; intercom, $3,500; language lab, $6,000; furniture, $5,000.

Repair of Burket School: Tear down old building, level and seed lawn, $2,500; new swings, $300; paint, $1,000.

The total for the four schools is $101,550.

The school board wants to be known that no action has been taken on any of the above mentioned projects and they are for study and comment only.

In some other business, it was decided to try to hire a first and second grade teacher for the Mentone School.

There were several visitors present at the meeting and they expressed their appreciation of the board and of the action that they have taken. They felt that for a new school board, they have done a commendable job.

Steel or Diamonds?

Cutting spaghetti calls for diamonds, say Italian manufacturers who found that steel knives dulled after two hours of slicing macaroni, spaghetti and their hundreds of variants into proper size for boxing. Diamond particles embedded in a wheel from a circular saw which whizzes through spaghetti like cheese still only lasts two months, though.

The extent to which a child will use his intellectual capacity throughout his school career can be predicted with accuracy in kindergarten, says Dr. Theodore B. Cohen, Philadelphia child psychologist. He says the results of a study show that the kindergarten teacher's ability to spot "overachievers" and "underachievers" is phenomenal. The teacher bases her predictions on a scale involving five areas of development—physical, emotional, intellectual, creative and work habits. It is hoped that the techniques of the study will be useful in diagnosing and treating that perennial challenge to teachers, the school child who fails to live up to his IQ.

Fatal auto accidents are highest in sparsely populated western states and lowest in the crowded East, according to an insurance company survey. Nevada has the highest rate with approximately 50 fatalities a year per 100,000 residents. Rhode Island has the lowest rate, about 9 deaths per 100,000 residents.

Think your birthday was special? Close to 9 million other people on this earth share it with you, according to the Population Reference Bureau.

New carbon dioxide portable fire extinguishers are as effective in the hands of amateurs as when operated by experts, say engineers of Cardox, Chicago. The Underwriters' Laboratory takes into consideration not only the results of controlled laboratory tests but also by untrained persons under stress of emergency when rating the units. Actual UL tests are for fires 2 1/2 times greater in area than the rating given, providing a wide margin of safety.

Seven million fish were killed by U.S. water pollution in 1962, says the Public Health Service. Blamed were sewage, industrial waste, mining operations and agricultural poisons.

Wildcat oil wells (those drilled in fields where oil or gas have never been found) have very little chance of success, according to the American Association of Petroleum Geologists which report that less than 2 per cent of the 8,000 wildcat wells drilled in the U.S. in 1963 found commercial quantities of oil or natural gas. A well is considered profitable if it discovers reserves of at least one million barrels of oil or six billion cubic feet of natural gas.

Control Of Household Insects

In spite of all precautions, sometimes a home is invaded by insects of one kind or another. The question of what to do about insects often troubles homeowners. Extension entomologists at Purdue University answer some of these questions in their mimeo, "Household Insects. A Summary of Control Measures."

In it, they list treatments for 20 different pests, from ants to termites. The suggested treatments are complete and easy to follow, and include references for more detailed information in other publications.

The entomologists caution

Spotlight on Teacher

American Education Week, November 10-16 salutes our teachers for the excellent job they are doing in molding the industrial, government and spiritual leaders of the future.

America's teachers are facing a greater responsibility than ever before. This year 51.5 million students are attending U. S. private and public schools and colleges. The teacher must absorb and pass on to these students the newest discoveries of a fast-changing society.

Today's creative teacher stimulates her students with "living" subject matter projected on a classroom screen. She can focus class attention on news events by making instant transparencies of newspaper clippings and projecting them with an overhead projector. Most important, she can tailor her presentation to the interests of the class, using the latest information and new approaches to teaching any subject.

Many companies are taking a more active interest in encouraging creative teaching. The 3M Company, St. Paul, Minnesota, for example, this fall established a $1.5 million assistance grant to education programs which will give $5,000 worth of this visual communications equipment to 800 schools throughout the country. Schools in every state will receive these grants in December.

against spraying or dusting any insecticide upon foods, or utensils or surfaces with which foods come in contact. They urge reading and following directions on the container.

Indiana residents may obtain a free copy of "Household Insects. A Summary of Control Measures," Mimeo E-52, from their County Extension office or the Agricultural Publications Office, AES Building, Purdue University, Lafayette, Ind. 47907. A postcard request is sufficient.

When looking for a new home site, check soils on the prospective location, advise Purdue University agronomists. A soil may look well drained when the weather is dry and still be poorly drained. A poorly drained soil will appear grayish from poor aeration.

National Infant Testing Program Helps Prevent Mental Retardation

A major advance in early detection of one of the hidden causes of severe mental retardation is fast proving its worth, thanks to the "help" of thousands of newborn babies.

These children are among the first to benefit from a new, nationwide screening program for early detection of PKU (phenylketonuria), an inherited error in body chemistry which causes severe mental retardation unless treated in time.

The screening program, started in recent months, will eventually include some 600,000 newborn babies in the United States. Already 157,000 newborns have undergone the simple test which was devised by Dr. Robert Guthrie of Children's Hospital, Buffalo, N. Y., with the help of a grant from The National Foundation-March of Dimes.

Without the blood test, no one might have realized until too late that an infant had PKU. Such babies seem normal at birth and for several months thereafter.

But they lack a liver enzyme which enables the system to process an essential nutrient found in all protein foods. Within a day or two after the PKU infant's first milk feeding, the nutrient, called phenylalanine, begins to build up in his system. If the accumulation is not checked by special diet, abnormal amounts of phenylalanine soon begin to damage the developing brain.

First outward signs of mental deficiency usually show up when the PKU victim is three to six months old. At that age, a low-phenylalanine diet can halt the deteriorating process but cannot repair the harm already done.

The problem is to detect PKU not only before damage is evident but before it has any chance to start. Until recently this has been extremely difficult.

A hereditary condition, PKU is transmitted through defective genes from both parents. Although the parents are "carriers," they themselves do not show any symptoms of the condition. Statistically, one in every four children of such a union may inherit PKU.

Kits for early detection in babies of PKU, which can cause severe mental retardation, are assembled for distribution to U. S. hospitals by Sheila M. Kuhn, lab technician. March of Dimes contributions supported research in this health area by Dr. Robert Guthrie, Children's Hospital, Buffalo, N. Y.

Before development of the Guthrie test, with the aid of a March of Dimes grant, it was common for the first defective child in such a family to go undiagnosed and untreated until he was beyond help. Alerted by the first tragedy, doctors would then test subsequent children of the same parents and in most cases could prevent brain damage in the younger ones.

The usual test for PKU was the well-known "diaper test" involving the reaction of an infant's urine to ferric chloride. But that test is not effective until several weeks after birth—after enough phenylalanine has built up to "spill over" into the urine, and long after most newborns have gone home from the hospital.

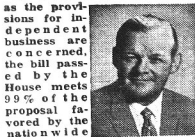

The new Guthrie test, however, requiring only a speck of blood from a prick on a baby's heel, can be done on the fourth or fifth day of life. This makes it possible to screen all babies before they leave the hospital, thus detecting even the first-born of unknown PKU carriers before a deadly excess of phenylalanine starts its ravages. The current field trials of the Guthrie test, sponsored by the Children's Bureau of the United States Public Health Service, are being conducted with the cooperation of 30 state health departments in this country. The PKU Central Laboratory in Buffalo is shipping 300 kits each week to hospitals throughout the United States. Each kit contains materials for 500 tests. Dramatic results are already becoming apparent. Of a little girl in New York State, who was among the first 850 babies routinely tested after the field trial started in that area, Dr. Guthrie has said: "This is probably the first baby in medical history to be diagnosed within the first month of life without sacrificing the brain of an older brother or sister."

WASHINGTON AND "SMALL BUSINESS"

By C. WILSON HARDER

If the income tax cut bill passed by the House is approved by the Senate, it should be quite helpful in aiding the economy of the country, and in encouraging small business to expand and furnish more employment.

As a matter of fact, insofar as the provisions for independent business are concerned, the bill passed by the House meets 99% of the proposal favored by the nationwide votes of independent business proprietors who, voting through the National Federation of Independent Business, heavily favored the plan prepared by the Senate Small Business Committee under the chairmanship of Senator John Sparkman.

It is to be expected during Senate consideration of the measure there will again be raised the issue of forcing the administration to promise to curtail expenditures to match the $1 billion in tax cuts.

It seems obvious that federal expenditures must be cut. The overwhelming majority of the independent business proprietors favored such reductions in polls by the Federation.

But in analyzing the debates, it is well to mentally keep from putting the cart in front of the horse.

The administrative branch of government can ask for any amount of money. But under the Constitution, only Congress can tax.

can grant the money.

By the same token, the administrative branch of government has no control if the Congress wants to hog wild on spending, except the restraint imposed by use of the veto power, which again can be evaded.

And perhaps the most practical way for government to achieve economy is for the Congress to drastically limit the amount of money it will vote for all purposes in any given year.

There is nothing unusual about such a procedure. Many families go through the same experience. When the breadwinner is bringing in lots of money, there is steak on the table every night. If he runs into some difficulty, then it is pork and beans.

There is nothing immoral in revamping outgo to fit into the boundaries of income. And as a matter of fact, if there were a straight 20% cut in the funds made available by the Congress, there is little doubt that all departments could cut 20% with no loss of efficiency.

So, during the debates on the tax cut it is important to bear this constitutional fact in mind.

There is nothing in the Constitution that provides that any Congressman can be jailed, expelled, or otherwise prosecuted for failing to vote for all the money requested by the administrative branch. There is a difference between desire and common sense. It can be presumed that practically every woman yearns for a mink coat, yet millions find it possible to be reasonably happy with a less exotic garment.

Almonds Glamorize Baked Apples

Baked apples, a standard favorite in so many American homes, go glamorous for "Almond-Glazed Apples." A two-tone effect comes from partially paring the apples before baking. Basting with a tangy orange syrup provides interesting flavor as well as a beautiful glaze. Toasted silvered almonds sprinkled atop each apple add crunchy goodness to give the finishing touch to this appetizing, nutritious dessert.

Whole, silvered, diced or chopped almonds revive interest in numerous oft-served desserts, vegetables, main dish sauces, salads and sandwich fillings.

ALMOND-GLAZED APPLES

6 medium-size baking apples  $\frac{3}{4}$  cup sugar
1 teaspoon grated orange rind  $\frac{1}{2}$  teaspoon salt
1 cup orange juice  $\frac{1}{2}$  cup toasted silvered almonds

Core and pare apples  $\frac{1}{3}$  the way down; arrange in shallow baking pan with pared ends up. Blend orange rind and juice, sugar and salt; bring to boil. Pour over apples. Bake in 350-degree (moderate) oven 30 minutes to 1 hour, until done, basting often with syrup. About 5 minutes before apples are done, cover tops with almonds. Bake and return to oven. Serve with whipped or sour cream, if desired. Makes 6 servings.

Illegal passing is among the most dangerous of traffic violations, says the Chicago Motor Club. Never pass on hills, at intersections, curves and whenever a solid yellow line is painted on your side of the highway center line. It is important to remember, however, that the absence of a yellow line does not automatically give you the right to pass. If there's any doubt about your ability to pass safely, stay in your own lane.

The Chicago Motor Club cautions drivers to allow for adverse weather conditions when planning winter travel. When there is snow or freezing rain, the sensible driver will reduce his speed according to conditions and will allow himself more time to get to his destination. You can't regulate the weather, but you can regulate your driving.

Grades 3 and 4

We have an enrollment of 21 students. Only one is new in our group this year. She is Laura Parks, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Parks. She came to us from Warsaw at the beginning of the term. She is ten years old, in the fourth grade and a very good student.

Our attendance up to the end of this grading period has been from good to average. Our percent of attendance for the first six weeks was 98.13 and for the second period 97.46. Three days absence was because of a death in the family. The rest was because of illness.

Most children in both grades have finished their reading text books some time ago. A few in each grade have been together and given special help. Very soon all will be reading independently with supervision and instruction as needed.

The children are enjoying the Weekly Reader Newspaper this winter. All that they have received so far have been fastened in folders. As the new copies arrive they will be placed in the folders. The papers are more easily read and cared for in this way. After the children have had time to read their paper they are asked to report on the news they have read. We discuss the topics together which they find most interesting. All are encouraged to take part in the discussions. Credit is also given them for the articles they can tell about and the interest shown.

We have nearly completed our geography text book in the fourth grade but will spend some time in reviewing some of the interesting things we have studied. Some of the children wish to find out more about the different countries in other geographies and encyclopedias. We will draw more maps and spend more time talking about our own country.

With the coming of this new month we must again plan the decorating of our room. New curtains must be made. The children will prepare Christmas decorations partly under the supervision of the art department. We will have a Christmas tree and a party with a gift exchange about the 20th of the month. Our vacation begins with the following week.

We would like to take this opportunity to extend a welcome to all parents to visit us whenever possible.

TIGERS BEAT KEWANNA

The eighth grade score was Talma 44, Kewanna 22. All 15 of these boys dressed for this game and also saw action.

SCIENCE NEWS

Experiment is the heart and life of science. And every red-blooded boy and girl is born full of the zest for it. Since very little knowledge of the physical universe has been gained apart from experiment, we use it to provide both stimulation and information for the student. Due to the limitations of space and equipment, most of these are performed by the teacher. However, capable students are asked to perform some as well. A recent experiment performed by Pamela Abbey and Kathy Tridle was written up by three other students who watched it, viz., Janet Gordon, Dan Egolf and Connie Meredith. Connie's account is as follows:

HOW TO MAKE SAND

The ingredients you'll need are sodium silicate, sodium bisulfate and water.

Put ½ inch of sodium silicate into a small test tube. Then fill it with ¼ inch of water. Then put 4 measures of sodium bisulfate into another small test tube. Fill it ½ full of water.

Shake one, then the other. Pour the sodium bisulfate into the test tube with the silicate in it. This mixture is called silicic acid. It is the starting acid for silicate.

Take a little of it and put into a small container. Then heat for a few minutes at a low temperature.

Now you have sand.

CORN CONTEST WINNERS SET NEW RECORDS

MONROE, WIS. — Some 50,000 people at the National Corn Picking contest here saw a 1963 champion continue his winning ways, and a newcomer step into the spotlight.

Both Lawrence Fisher of Palmyra, Mich., and Arlyn Zee of Albany, Wis., set new records in the classic as they walked off with top honors and $500 awards.

For the 24-year-old Fisher, it was a repeat of his performance last year at Grand Island, Neb., when he first took the national crown in the combine class. But in this year's contest, he bettered his own record and set a new standard for others to beat—a whopping 98,034 points out of a possible 100.

Fisher is the only combine champion to win two years in a row. He did it on his Allis-Chalmers combine.

Zee, 23, set a new two-row corn picker record by becoming the first to win a state crown and the national championship in the same year. In fact, it was only the day before the national event that he topped 22 combine competitors in the Wisconsin state race.

His winning score in the national contest was 97,701, two-hundredths of a point better than his mark the previous day. He piloted an Allis-Chalmers tractor and picker.

Both men competed against the "best in the business" in this World Series of Corn Picking. Their winning scores were based on the amount of time spent in the field, how clean a job they did of picking, and how safely they operated their big machines.

Contestants in the national event represented Iowa, South Dakota, Missouri, Wisconsin, Michigan, Minnesota and Nebraska. Next year's match will be held near Sioux Falls, S.D.

Zee's performance in the field (left) earned him 97,701 points, topping the other seven finalists in the National. In the combine class, Fisher bettered the record he set in 1962 to become the first man ever to win two years in a row.

A throw rug is aptly named. It can throw an unwary member of the family with painful consequences. The Institute for Safer Living of the American Liability Insurance Company, emphasizes that throw rugs should be skid-proof with fasteners, rubber underlays, or a rubber coating on the underside. Carpeting on stair treads may present a serious fall hazard unless frequently inspected. The Institute for Safer Living of the American Mutual Liability Insurance Company points out that constant treading tends to loosen carpet fastenings; also after much wear frayed spots or tears may result unexpectedly.

A fire in the home fireplace is for watching; for safety as well as enjoyment. A fire left unattended without a proper screen may shoot sparks onto the room to land on a rug or in other flammables, the Institute for Safer Living says. Never retire for the night without seeing that the fireplace is properly screened and the fire out.

New Canal-Earphone Hearing Aid Can Help Six Million to Hear Again!

MINNEAPOLIS, MINN. — Six million Americans who never before have been able to successfully use in-the-ear type hearing aids can now hear again with the remarkable new Motorola/Dahlberg Miracle-Ear, first canal-earphone aid.

Tiny as a fingertip, the aid is designed to be worn in the ear. It rests at the opening to the ear canal and hugs the bowl of the ear. The aid's design and flesh-tone coloration enable it to blend in with the natural contours of the ear.

He points out that U. S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare statistics show that more than 12 million people need some degree of hearing correction. Only about 2½ million now wear any type aid.

Mr. Dahlberg said that the believed reason for this is the fear of being conspicuous in wearing an aid. The new "Miracle-Ear", being significantly smaller, is less conspicuous than any instrument ever developed and can be worn by virtually everyone having a "Nerve Deafness" type loss.

More information about the new Miracle-Ear can be obtained from a Motorola/Dahlberg Hearing Aid Dealer, or by writing to the manufacturer, The Dahlberg Company, Golden Valley, Minneapolis, Minn., 55427.

The next meeting will be held December 14 at 3:30. The meeting place will be announced later.

Mentone W.C.S. Meets

Mrs. Allen Heredneen, president of the local Woman's Society of Christian Service, welcomed 35 members and friends as they met in the church on November 21st for their regular meeting.

The worship service was presented by Mrs. Bernard Cole, Mrs. Marion Smith, Mrs. Kenneth Hagan and Mrs. Glenn Campton in the form of a skit. The missionary effort conducted in India was portrayed and the entire group sang "We've A Story To Tell To The Nations."

Mrs. William Vamos, wife of the pastor of the Presbyterian Church in Warsaw was the guest speaker. She showed slides and told of her experiences as she lived for a year in India. Her Junior year of college was spent as a student in the Isabella Thoburn College, which is affiliated with the Lucknow University and a project of the Woman's Division. Her message was informative, entertaining and challenging.

One big difference between Hinduism and Christianity is the lack of love for others on the part of the Hindu—his is a selfish life. Our Christian message, of course, is God's love for all mankind. These Indian girls of the college forsake much to go out into the streets to bear witness. She stressed the need for young people to become ambassadors for Christ and America. We were impressed with the splendid example of Mrs. Vamos' witness to being such an ambassador. The challenging remark was, "Are You Practicing Your Christian Beliefs?"

Please notice that on December 19th (the regular meeting date of the W.C.S.), the choir will present the Cantata, "The Wonder Of Christmas." There will be a fellowship tea for the entire congregation immediately following the program.

Report On Mental Health Gifts

To those of you who have not yet turned in a gift for the mental hospitals, you still have a little time remaining. Although the scheduled deadline was November 30, you may take your gift to the drug store until December 7. Mrs. Everett Long is the local chairman and she would urge you to take the time to purchase a small gift for this important, once-a-year campaign.

These gifts, no matter how large or small, are enjoyed tremendously by the patients at the state hospitals. It takes so little of our time, effort or money to bring some cheer in to the lives of those who are less fortunate than we are. Let's start the Christmas season off by giving to help others.

Sunday School Class Meets

The U.N.-It Sunday School Class of the Burket E.U.B. Church held its November meeting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Harrold.

Everyone enjoyed the turkey dinner and all the trimmings. Later the group had singing, business, election of class officers and visiting.

Cards were signed to send to Mrs. Hostetter and to Mr. and Mrs. Valentine, who had already gone to Florida for the winter. General good wishes for a pleasant trip were extended to Mr. and Mrs. Thurlow Shoemaker for their trip to Florida the next week.

The next meeting will be in January with Mrs. Sarber weather permitting.

Red Cross Disaster Chairman Named

Melvin E. Livengood, Warsaw, accepted the appointment as disaster chairman of the Kosciusko County Chapter of the American Red Cross, made by Mrs. Fred McKown Sr., chapter chairman, at the meeting of the board of directors held recently at the chapter house in Warsaw.

Mr. Livengood was formerly chapter manager of the Dade County, Florida chapter and directed disaster operations in Texas following hurricane Carla in September of 1961. He succeeds Ronald Tusing as county disaster chairman as the latter moved recently from Warsaw to Culver. The new chairman will set up a committee for county natural disaster program.

Mrs. Loren Hahn, of Scott Township, and Ralph Wrigley, Monroe, were appointed ARC directors of their respective townships.

Mrs. McKown announced that Dr. William Cron, Warsaw, will secure physician coverage for the blood visits for this next year.

New members appointed to the training committee for the supporting service groups were Mrs. William Brooks and Mrs. G. H. Schlemmer of Warsaw. Mrs. A. E. Hudson, chairman of volunteers, reported that 15 new recruits took the training course for supporting service groups conducted by Mrs. C. W. Armstrong, Mrs. George Bowser and Mrs. George Schlemmer.

A film "10 Years Young", telling of the founding and the humanitarian work of the International Red Cross, was shown by Dr. R. M. Whitney, chapter vice chairman.

Monday, January 6, is the date for the next meeting of the chapter executive board. The entire board will meet on Monday, February 3, it was announced by Mrs. McKown.

Many women habitually stage a balancing act in the home that would scare a circus performer right off his trapeze. The Institute for Safer Living of the American Mutual Insurance Company states that no amount of caution will enable you to safely use a stool, rickety chair, wooden crate, or a stack of books, as substitutes for an approved step ladder. Off-the-floor chores are both easier and safer to perform with sensible climbing equipment.

Fireproof Your Tree!

Christmas wouldn't be Christmas without a tree, and many of us prefer the real thing, but few of us know the danger locked in these fragrant pine needles.

An article in the December Lion gives a warning, written by Lyman Nash.

"The evergreen tree is in some countries the number one fire hazard, from mid-December until late in January. The pine, spruce or fir brought into homes at Christmas is one of the most inflammable things in nature. Once ignited it is virtually impossible to extinguish. A 12-foot tree will be a mass of flames in the twinkling of an eye. In a quarter-minute it will burn completely.

"Heavy with pitch, oozing resin, it sits in the living room like an incendiary bomb, needing only a flame, a short circuit or a hot bulb to turn it into an inferno."

If you can set your tree in a container of water it will help keep the tree from drying out completely. Place the tree away from a radiator or electrical outlet, as much as possible. Use only fireproof tree ornaments. Check the lights and electrical wiring for bad connections and worn spots.

When you discard your tree, if you burn it, do it out of doors in a wide open area, and burn a few branches at a time.

In one community in Delaware, the Lions Club, in cooperation with the Fire department, fireproofed several hundred trees. Handbills were passed out to let folks know about the service.

In previous years there had been several tree fires, but none for the Christmas season of 1962, due to the extra precaution taken.

Short Hay? Feed More Grain

Indiana dairymen who face shortages of good quality hay this winter can stretch their supply by more liberal grain feeding, notes Dr. Willard Dillon, Purdue University extension dairyman.

Deciding whether to feed more grain, or the other alternative, buy more hay, should be based on the cost of each ration ingredient as to the energy it supplies.

Dillon points out that hay quality is quite important in this decision.

When a dairy ration is based on silage, more liberal grain feeding can also be used to stretch the silage supply. The minimum amount of hay should be equal to about one per cent of the cow's body weight a day. When silage is also used, dry matter feed for both forages should at least equal one per cent of the cow's body weight a day.

Dillon notes that clean dry pens for cows due to have calves should be provided with ample bedding. Pens free from drafts and close observation as the calving date nears will help the calf get a good start.

The calf should receive at least one colostrum feeding before being placed in an individual calf pen—a space well bedded and protected on three sides by solid walls. Feed the calf a good milk replacer at the rate of ten per cent of its body weight a day—three feedings a day for the first three days and two feedings thereafter.

In the second week, the calf should begin receiving choice hay and a simple calf starter. Milk replacer should be continued until eight weeks of age or when the calf is eating about 2.5 pounds of calf starter and 1.5 pounds of hay a day.

As milk replacer is reduced, offer the calf all the water desired twice a day.

Beaver Dam 4-H Club Meets

The Beaver Dam 4-H Club met November 26th at the Beaver Dam School.

The meeting was called to order by Lyle Welley. The pledges were given by Dick and Mike Harrold. Health and safety report was given by Debbie Walters. Songs were led by Buni Barber. Final plans were made for the club to go to the International Livestock Show on November 30th.

The following officers were elected for the coming year: President, Mike Harrold; secretary, Bea Walsh; assistant secretary, Melody Ballinger; treasurer, Buni Barber; assistant treasurer, Dick Harrold; song leader, Steve Whittenberger; assistant song leader, Sharon Harrold; health and safety, Butch Barber; assistant health and safety, Connie Ault; reporter, Mike Ault; assistant reporter, Janet Goshert; recreation leaders, Kathy Harrold, Debbie Walters, Mike McFarland and David Swick. Thirty-two members and nine parents were present.

During the cold weather months, says the Chicago Motor Club, it is essential that drivers change their motoring habits to fit the season. Motorists must be extra alert for winter's deadly tricks.

You are warned to use caution when buying plastic products, as some are highly flammable.

Because many plastics are fire-resistant, we tend to think that all are, but this is not so. The plastic plants now imported from the Orient are dangerous — those from Italy and other European sources are fire-resistant.

Not too long ago it took three hours each day for the housewife to prepare three meals — now she requires but 90 minutes for the same three meals. The answer is, of course, "convenience" foods.

Does it cost more? A recent study shows that $14.03 worth of instant and convenience foods will cost about $15.10 to prepare at home from the raw ingredients. So be happy ladies, you can use these "quickie" foods without feeling too guilty.

Dr. Spock has changed his mind! When he wrote his book on child care in 1946, Dr. Spock spoke against "old fashioned" parental harshness and rigidity. Now he is leaning toward strictness in areas of feeding and sleeping schedules and toilet training; control of TV and movie viewing; chores and duties in the home; firmness in not allowing adolescents to make decisions which should be made by them, the parents.

His new thinking ended by giving this advice to mothers "not to put up with whining or messiness, or constant bickering."

Well Dr. Spock, your change of viewpoint takes a little pressure off of some of the older mothers, I presume.

One great writer made a statement which says, in essence, "I disagree with what you say, but I will defend to the death your right to say it."

We need to go even further in our thinking. In order to bridge the gulf which can separate people, we need to realize that disagreement does not necessarily mean hate. This sort of thinking—allowing no difference of opinion from our own—can be fatal in a community, large or small.

There are, and always will be, differences of opinion when more than one human being is involved. Let us be sure that when we are "standing for principle," we are not "falling for prejudice."

We enjoyed this:
For years a man had been tormented by nightmares in which grotesque animals and reptiles kept crawling out from under his bed. Finally he assured a friend he was cured.
"I told my brother about it, and he stopped it," he said proudly.
"Is your brother a psychiatrist?" asked a friend.
"No, he's a carpenter. He sawed the legs off the bed."

Corn Stunt Lookout

The Indiana corn crop will be observed closely next summer for signs of the corn disease, "corn stunt," says Dr. Arnold J. Ullstrup, Purdue University plant pathologist. The disease has been definitely identified only in Mississippi, although Indiana and several other states have sites of suspected infection.

Dearborn, Switzerland and Jefferson counties in southern Indiana contain fields which possibly have been affected by the disease.

He said that Hoosier corn fields will be surveyed to determine the possible extent of the disease if it is corn stunt and attempt to discover a wild-growing perennial plant which could host the disease over the winter.

The Indiana surveys are a part of a U.S.D.A. program covering many states in an attempt to find out more about corn stunt.

The symptoms of the disease are yellowing of the leaves, bunching of the upper leaves, reddish-purple streaking in the leaves, unusual amount of root development and stunted growth. Corn stunt is caused by a virus which so far as is known is carried only by two species of leaf hoppers. These leaf hoppers have never been found in Indiana.

Why Baby Pigs Die

Death of baby pigs just after farrowing is traceable primarily to two factors—overlay and starvation.

Overlay, when sows crush or smother their young, accounted for 50 per cent of the losses in a recent Purdue University survey of 810 litters in central Indiana. Starvation was responsible for 20 per cent of the deaths.

Professor Ronald H. Bauman, Purdue agricultural economist, says the survey also showed that more baby pigs were saved from the sow's fourth litter than from any other.

About 20 per cent of pigs farrowed alive die before reaching market weight. The most critical period, according to the survey, comes 3 to 5 days after farrowing.

Bauman said 12 per cent of the losses occurred on the first day after farrowing and 33 per cent on the second and third days. Death losses declined to 19 per cent on the 4th and 5th days and 13 per cent in a period 6 to 9 days after farrowing.

A 1956-57 study on 118 Indiana farms showed that 8½ pigs per litter were farrowed alive and 20 per cent of these were lost before reaching market weight.

The more recent survey, conducted in 1962, is based primarily on reports from the farmers involved. In some cases, the opinion of a veterinary was taken.

In addition to overlay and starvation, it was found that 9 per cent of the death of baby pigs was caused by digestive difficulties. Chilling was responsible for 1 per cent of the losses and respiratory difficulty was blamed for 2 per cent. The remainder was attributed to unknown causes.

He explained that several other factors were surveyed to learn their effect on death losses.

Various types of housing made no highly significant difference.

Varying temperature did make a difference. When temperature increased from 30 degrees to 90 degrees, death losses decreased. The best temperature for baby pigs is 80 to 90 degrees. This is important because temperature is the most significant death loss criteria that the farmer can control.

Presence of the operator resulted in no appreciable difference, the survey showed.

When pigs are noticeably weak at the beginning, death losses are greater. The fundamental factor in high mortality among baby pigs appears to be physiological immaturity at birth, which results in weakness that makes it difficult for them to withstand the stress of their environment.

Studies are now underway to seek ways of providing greater strength.

SCROOGE'S SECRET

Dear Mr. Santa Claus:

Now, I know I'm the spirit of "Humbug" at the Christmas season—but, who wouldn't have been a grouch, living a century ago with no electricity? You have no idea how hard those flickering candles were on my old eyes.

What with all the comfort and convenience electricity gives me today it's hard to stay cantankerous. But, the thing that really warms the cockles of my heart is the low cost—even lower than forty years ago. Mind you, my bill is higher because I have so many appliances—but egad, what value I'm getting for every cent I spend for electricity. It's the cheapest thing I buy! Now I ask you: With all this comfort and convenience at such a low cost, how can I be expected to remain a grouch? Promise me you won't tell a soul about my secret change of heart... and stop in Christmas Eve so I can join you in a chorus of "We Wish You a Merrie Christmas and a l'appy New Year."

Your Humble Servant,

LIBRARY NEWS

We wish to express our appreciation of the many worthwhile books which have been presented to the Bell Memorial Library as Memorial Gifts in honor of the late Mr. Irvin Nelson.

Mrs. Furl Burns of North Manchester chose and presented the beautiful book, "Milestones to American Liberty," by Milton Meltzer, which fully portrays the Foundations of our Republic.

Miss Elizabeth G. Forley, a friend of Miss Katherine Nelson, contributed two books by Bruce Catton: "This Hallowed Ground," and "Terrible Swift Sword."

The director and department heads in the reference department of the Detroit Public Library contributed funds to purchase several books. In memory of Mr. Nelson's real interest in young people and their future are the two books: "Occupations and Careers," by Walter Greenleaf and "Questions Freshmen Ask," by Ellen Willis.

Four books which will interest most adults are: "The Rise of the West," by William McNeill; "The Wine is Bitter," by Milton Eisenhower; "The Old Trails West," by Ralph Moody; and, "Indiana—A Guide to the Hoosier State."

All of these books make a fitting and worthwhile Memorial to Mr. Nelson.

NEWS NOTES

from our County Agent

DONALD E. FRANTZ

The records cooperators in the county will meet December 16th with Ed Carson of Peru, who will give us the details and costs of the new electronics data processing of farm accounts. Up to now we have had no information except that it is to begin and that business analysis reports will be made at least quarterly. This method is in use in some places, Michigan has such a service and it will be a new concept in business management on farms. Some will use it to a great advantage, others will think it foolish.

The Income Tax and Social Security School is set for the afternoon of December 17th. This will be an excellent opportunity to get additional information on these two questions. It will be held at the new fairgrounds Shrine building starting promptly at 1:30. This meeting was requested by Home Demonstration Clubs, but is not limited to their members. Anyone else who is interested is invited.

The new building will serve a wonderful service to the community. There are two main rooms, one that will hold six or seven hundred people and the other with about a thousand square feet that should accommodate groups of a hundred or more. The acoustics and lighting are excellent and the heating is good.

The building, heating, water and plumbing was put up by the County Fair Association. The Shrine Club will install the kitchen and have put in the ceiling and lights and tile floor. It is, without a doubt, one of the most useful community facilities that has been built in a long time. After you look it over, give the Fair directors a pat on the back.

The second meeting of the new Better Farming-Better Living group will be held December 19th at the Shrine building.

Sam Gregory, State Supervisor of DHIA records and Charle Smoker, County Supervisor of testing, met with record keepers last week. Sam pointed out very clearly the need to feed dairy cows at the time they have the ability to produce and that is early in the lactation.

The number of cows on test has risen steadily in this county to nearly a thousand head. There are three types of testing programs: the Dairy Herd Improvement Registry, and this is a combined program of the breed associations and the Extension Service, the Dairy Herd Improvement Association test, and the owner sampler program. Dairymen on owner sampler get the same reports that anyone else except that they cannot be used as official production records.

According to the state reports, the average of all cows in Indiana on test last year was 11,191 pounds of milk, the average in Kosciusko County is slightly above that. There were a few over 34,000 cows on test during the year in the state.

One of the interesting things that dairy records show is that the price of beef cattle is the most influential factor in the rate of culling of poor dairy cows. If we could get the market price to go up then we would get rid of a lot more poor producers.

Chairs have rungs for a reason. They hold the legs together to prevent collapse, but after prolonged use, they may tend to lose their grip. The Institute for Safer Living states that chair rungs should be inspected frequently. If loose, they may be easily tightened with a good grade of wood glue. If cracked or broken, they should be replaced at once. New rungs may be obtained at local furniture repair or woodworking shops.

Story Of The Christmas Card

The local post office can not maintain a count on Christmas cards because there's no way of telling which letter envelopes contain cards, but the greeting card industry estimates several billion will be mailed this year during the holiday season.

Based on research by the national Greeting Card Association, the postmaster gave this account of the background and development of the cards:

"Today, the greeting card industry estimates six billion greeting cards for all occasions are mailed annually in the United States. Statistically, this is estimated at about 110 Christmas cards per family on the average each year.

"We often think of the custom of sending cards as modern, but the origins of the greeting card can be traced back thousands of years.

"The earliest known holiday greeting was printed from a crude woodcut about 1450 in Germany. It shows the Christ Child standing in the bow of an ancient galley manned by angels, with the Holy Mother seated by the mast.

"History reveals people have always had a desire to communicate on a sentimental and emotional basis. For example, the ancient Egyptians conveyed greetings with papyrus scrolls.

"In the Dark Ages, the exchange of symbols — gloves, garters and bows — was regarded as a form of sentimental communication.

"The modern custom of sending greeting cards can be traced back through the centuries to the Chinese who celebrated the advent of the New Year with messages of good will.

"The first known published Christmas card made its appearance in London, England in 1843. It was designed by John Calott Horsley, British painter and illustrator of the period.

"In 1846, one thousand copies were lithographed, hand-colored and sold by an art shop.

"It is surprising how similar this first card more than a century ago was to many today. Small panels to the left and right show the charitable acts of 'clothing the poor' and 'feeding the hungry,' always connected with the Christmas season.

"The date of the first American Christmas card is not known, but an American authority on greeting cards, Ernest Dudley Chase of Boston, found what he believed to be the first.

"Authorities say there can be no question that his discovery, a card which extends 'A Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year' from 'Pease's Great Variety Store' — is a very early card. Mr. Chase believes it to be the earliest known American card."

Noting that he occasionally hears grumbles that Christmas cards are just a "troublesome new-fangled custom," the Postmaster added, "We can see that sending cards is a very old and honored tradition."

"Actually, I believe most of the complaining comes largely from those who wait until the last minute to get the cards and then try to remember the names and addresses of those to whom they should send them. Sending cards can be a pleasure after a little preparation — having a good mailing list and mailing promptly with ZIP CODE on every card."

COUNTERPOINT

By The Editor's Wife

In a special bulletin from the Indiana Motor Truck Association, a spokesman reminded us who drive that 1,290 Americans lost their lives in motor vehicle accidents last year during the Christmas season. He says that a large percentage of Christmas traffic accidents occur in the early hours of the season and many can be traced to office parties.

"It is rather ironic to celebrate a day dedicated to 'Good Will To Men' and then allow people to travel our streets and highways in a condition to kill or injure others," he commented.

He urged business and management to donate the funds usually spent on the Christmas office party to silence worth-while charity in the community.

Let us be very careful in our thinking and our speaking that we do not fall into the trap of "collective mass guilt" for the death of President John F. Kennedy. Let us remember that the killer was a confessed "Communist" — a Marxist and proud of it!

The Chicago Tribune says—"It is indefensible that the act of such a man should be used in an attempt to besmirch all Americans and to silence their right to political expression."

Dr. Clarence Manion on the Nation-wide Manion Radio Forum, made this succinct conclusion:

"If the right to oppose Administration measures is allowed to be foreclosed by the fabricated charge of 'collective guilt,' then the assassin will be found to have killed our President and our country at the same time."

Do you want your name on the mailing list to receive a monthly Newsletter from the U. S. Dept. of Agriculture? If so, send a postcard to Office of Information, USDA, Washington, D. C. 20250, and tell them to send "Service, USDA's Report to Consumers" to you (give name and address). You're paying for it, so you should be getting it.

If you are feeling breathless, pushed, and unhappy about this Christmas rush, take a few minutes to be alone and read the Christmas story as told in Luke 2:8-20. Here is beauty, here is hope, here is peace to the heart, because, here is the true meaning of Christmas.

We enjoyed this. After the Sunday School class had sung "Silent Night" and been told the Christmas story, the teacher suggested that her pupils draw a picture of the Nativity scene. A little boy finished first.

The teacher praised his drawing of the manger, of Joseph, of Mary, and of the infant. But she was puzzled by a roly-poly figure off to one side, and asked who it was.

"Oh," explained the youngster, "that's Round John Virgin."

Art Students Visit
Ball State

Thirty-five art students, along with Mrs. Fisher, visited Ball State Teachers College art gallery on Tuesday, December 17. The students saw prints of the works of famous artists and a special Japanese art show in addition to the regular Ball State gallery.

Now on display in the school window and gym doors are colorful pictures for the Christmas season. They are lighted for evening viewing.

We would urge folks to drive by the school to see these lovely decorations.

Industrial Arts Today

Many times a student is required to take a course in school that both he and his parents do not know exactly why he is taking it. For that matter, why is it important enough to be a required course? Industrial Arts is one of these courses.

For many years it has been thought an Industrial Arts class provides the student with the opportunity to make things. We, who teach Industrial Arts, feel that the purpose of such a course is much broader.

At Talma the boys learn the different processes involved in planning a good project; the different steps, processes and tools involved in building the project. Our aim is not the project itself, but the steps, processes, tools and materials that work with becomes the important factor. These things must be learned in order to plan and construct anything. Here, at school, we work with wood, but the same attention to designing, planning and constructing applied to all materials used in the construction of something useful, whether it is wood, metal, plastic, glass and all of the many materials used in industry today.

Industrial Arts teaches to interpret industry. Industry is important in today's society and every boy should know something about it.

In the shop the student learns to use tools and materials that he finds in the home work shop, while he studies from books, films and field trips, the methods of mass production, the shaping and bending of materials, and the problems he faces in this industrial society. At the same time, he finds perhaps for the first time, uses for his mathematics, English, science and other courses that up to now has had little meaning outside of the classroom.

In short, courses such as Industrial Arts, teaches boys to interpret his total education into a purposeful meaning in our industrial society.

STUDENT COUNCIL ORGANIZED

The Akron School Student Council has elected officers. They are as follows: Phil Maxwell, president; Sheila Leckrone, vice president; Marilyn Reed, secretary. The Student Council has set prices for dances at 50c for singles and 75c for couples.

Standard crests for rings are being considered. If standard crests are adopted, it will mean a considerable savings in the cost of class rings.

Four-Way Tourney At Argos
Mentone, Argos, Culver and Bourbon will participate in a four-way tournament to be played in the Argos gymnasium on December 27 and 28 at 6:45 and 8:15 p.m. Tickets are now on sale and are being sold with first preference to student season ticket holders and then preference to adult reserved season ticket holders and general admission season ticket holders. Persons wishing to purchase tickets may tell the school to reserve them and then pick them up by 4 p.m. on Friday, December 20.

"Fiesta"
Mentone and Akron Spanish students are participating in a fiesta Thursday evening, December 19 at 7 p.m. The fiesta will include a dinner at 7:30 p.m. and will be highlighted by the breaking of three "Pinatas." The Pinata is made in the shape of various figures such as a Santa Claus or a rabbit and is filled with candies. This is broken by a blindfolded person who swings a bat at it while it is being raised and/or lowered.

Kos. County Tourney
Kosciusko County Tournament season tickets will be on sale January 6 and 7 at the Mentone School. Tickets will be sold first to student season ticket holders and then to adult season ticket holders.

Reserve your tickets by calling the school (EL 3-3665) and ask for tickets to be reserved. Tickets are $3.00 for five sessions. It is generally believed that there will be plenty of tickets available.

From the School Staff, a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year to all!

WASHINGTON AND "SMALL BUSINESS" By C. WILSON HARDER

Readers often inquire if the country is not better off under political control by one party than the other. This viewpoint is perhaps one of the greater fallacies of the times, and unfortunately tends to masquerade the real domestic struggle going on in the nation.

That struggle is between free enterprise and a socialistic economy, and this struggle goes on regardless of what party is in power.

It is well C. W. Harder perhaps, to ponder on the example of John Galbraith, recently retired ambassador to India. Prof. Galbraith has been prominent in government circles for many years.

Not too long ago in one of his books, Dr. Galbraith assailed edvertising.

Neither did he attack advertising as ineffective. Rather, he took the position that advertising is most effective.

He criticized advertising because it induced people to buy new dishwashers, new automobiles, new furniture, and other comforts of life, when it would be much better if the money they spent in this fashion were used by government for spending on public works.

While ambassador to India he was active on the program to tap American luxuries, under the guise of foreign aid, for a billion and a half dollars to build a steel-owned steel plant in India to compete with the private steel industry in that country.

Recently the Congress, with all political parties joining in, quashed this move to finance socialism abroad.

Another prominent figure in Washington, regardless of what party is in power, is Arthur Schlesinger Jr. Writing in the "Partisan Review" in 1947 he advocated government ownership of all significant means of production as the most favorable way of achieving democratic socialism.

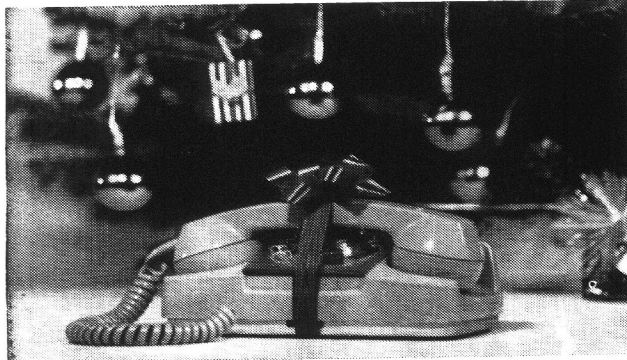

"The American business community," he wrote, "continues to resist the radical democracy, like a drowning man thrashing out at his rescuer. In so doing, he may destroy the possibility of a peaceful transition to socialism."

Thus, drive is on to destroy free enterprise in America, and has been for several years.

The last great hope of the free world is the United States Congress and only so long as Congressmen fight to continue the free enterprise system, will America survive.

National planners, in all nations and all times, who undermine workings of a free enterprise system, eventually lead to disaster.

Farm collectivization for presumed greater efficiency, looked great on paper in the government planners of Russia and China. But today, to avoid mass starvation, they are being forced to buy grain from the capitalist nations. For in the final showdown, radical economic theories written in books do not put meat and potatoes on the table.

Wonderful way to communicate the Christmas spirit

No other gift speaks so well of your thoughtfulness as a bright little STARLITE® phone for someone in your family. It's especially convenient for the bedroom because it has a dial that glows in the dark for easy dialing, and comes in a variety of decorator colors. We've made the STARLITE phone easy to give, too. Take one home now to put under the tree, and we'll install it right after the holidays.

Another nice thought—spread the spirit of Christmas and New Year's by phoning faraway friends and relatives. And make those calls a day or two ahead of the Holiday, when folks have more time for relaxed conversation.

NEWS NOTES from our County Agent DONALD E. FRANTZ

If the United States has such a surplus of food, then why has the imports of meat risen to the point where we now are a net importer rather than an exporter of animals and animal products? In 1962 the imports of beef and veal reached 1 billion 400 million pounds. This is equivalent to about nine percent of the total beef production in this county with beef prices like they are now, some of our cattle feeders are saying it's a lot of baloney. This is the Irish spelling of the word, not the Italian. In addition to this, there were a million and a quarter head of cattle and calves imported and these essentially were feeders and mainly from Mexico and Canada.

The principle question being raised is simply, why is this? The volume of fresh beef imported in 1962 was over twice as much as it was in 1962 and it is principally a lower quality product than we produce in our corn belt feed lots. Much of it is what the trade refers to as "cow beef" and it is processed before being used. The slaughter of cows in the United States rises and falls in relation to our location in the cattle cycle and we are right now in the expansion stage. Ranchers are keeping their cows of all ages to expand their herds and even the weather has a bearing on this. For the beef cycle is a long one, it takes a long time between deciding to expand beef production and the actual delivery of the finished product. There is a certain amount of biology involved that cannot be hurried. So when we are increasing the total beef production, we have to go through a period of actually decreasing the supply of certain kinds of beef and that is happening now. While it is the foreign producers that are picking up the market.

Within a few years our expansion will stop, cows will go to market as they did in the beef liquidation years of 1951 to 1954. In those years imports were cut in half.

There is a difference of opinion as to whether we should keep out the imports or not. It would be easy to do but if it was done there would be corresponding reductions of some of our exports in due time. It is also obvious that our price is sufficiently above the world price to attract the trade in so on that basis some have contended that our beef price has not been significantly hurt. Those who say this say the thing we should do is meet the competition and produce what the consumer wants. This does not fit our pattern of high support prices on grain and restriction of grazing on acres retired from crop production.

This beef question is rather a basic one. We have two alternatives of either restricting the imports on meeting the competition. Those who favor free trade ask why should we make livestock production more expensive by reducing the feed supply when foreign producers are so very willing to supply our markets at the going price and pay a tariff besides. Those who favor restricting imports ask why we should reduce the incomes of the United States livestock industry to the level of those below our standards and why should we permit ourselves to become independent on outside supply when we obviously can do the whole job ourselves. It is evident that complicated questions do not have simple answers.

Mentone Reading Club

The December meeting of the Mentone Reading Club was held at the home of Mrs. Dan Urschel, with Mrs. Miles Manwaring assisting.

Mrs. F. B. Davison and Mrs. Glenn Campton had charge of the program.

Mrs. Davison read the Christmas story from the scriptures. Christmas music was given by Mrs. Campton, who sang some lovely songs, accompanied at the organ by Mrs. Urschel; and two arrangements for organ and piano by Mrs. Urschel and Mrs. Cullum.

Mrs. Davison gave an interesting history of the Christmas card tradition, and had many old and lovely ones to illustrate her various points.

Each one had been asked to bring an old or favorite Christmas card, which added much to the evening's variety.

Guests were Mrs. Robert Forbes and Mrs. Dorothea Cullum.

Palestine Homemakers Meet

The Palestine Homemakers met December 12 with Rosa Hipsher in Palestine for the Christmas dinner and gift exchange from secret pals.

Ten members and four guests were present for the delicious carry in dinner. During the business meeting, officers for 1964 were elected. President, Flo Shirey; vice president, Mattie Lohrer; secretary, Edna Jones; treasurer, Geraldine Perry. Christmas songs were sung by the group. Meditation, "Twas The Night Before Christmas", was given by Flo Shirey. "Whistle While You Work" was given by Gladys Severns, and "Lost Melody" was given by Rosa Hipsher.

Names were drawn for secret pals. The next meeting will be with Edna Jones on January 7 with a carry in dinner.

THE MANX CAT

The Manx cat, with a tail so short it is often thought of as tailless, faces extinction because it is interbreeding with ordinary cats imported to the Isle of Man from England. Now kittens with tails are often seen. The island government has established an experimental cat farm to try to restore the true breed.

The Caribbean Sea, famous for resorts, is growing industrially. To meet the demand for industrial gases, a company, Antilles Industrial Gases, N. V., has been established on the island of Aruba, 18 miles off the Venezuelan coast. The company, a joint venture of NCG International C. A. and the Aruba Gas Supply Company, supplies oxygen, nitrogen and acetylene to island industries which include one of the largest oil refineries in the world.

Campanology, the science of bells, may be offered as a course at the University of North Dakota, says President George W. Starcher. The school has a 305 bell carillon, one of the largest in the U. S. Its bells are not of the traditional

"Pure" scientific research gets between 5 and 10 percent of the $15 billion spent annually by the federal government for science, according to a report from Washington. ## Target, Wood And Gun Room

(A regular column of the National Rifle Association.)

More types of breechloading weapons were developed between 1855 and 1865 than during any prior decade in the history of ammunition. Most of these guns, requiring their own peculiar cartridge or bullet, were used in combat for the first time during the Civil War.

Today, these guns and cartridges have become collector's items, their value enhanced considerably by the Civil War Centennial celebration, according to the National Rifle Association, a non-profit membership organization recognized as the governing body for shooting in the U. S.

Patented in 1856, the Morse 58 caliber cartridge marked the beginning-of-the-end for muzzle loading weapons, popular during the Revolutionary War and for many years afterward. Among the first metallic cartridges, it contained a primer, or detonator, similar to those found in today's center-fire ammunition.

The Morse 58—meaning the bullet was slightly larger than one-half inch in diameter—introduced a new era of experimentation with the breech-loading "fixed" cartridge, which consisted of a metal case, projectile, powder charge and primer. Its inventor, George Morse, joined the Confederate cause at the start of the Civil War and established manufacturing headquarters at Greenville, South Carolina. Both his weapons and his cartridges were produced in experimental quantities only and are collector's treasures today.

The .54 caliber Burnside, patented in 1856 by the Union general who gained fame by capturing Roanoke Island, New Bern, Beaufort and Fort Macon before his defeat at Fredericksburg, was used extensively during the Civil War in a carbine which Burnside invented. It was fired by percussion cap and resembled in shape a filled ice cream cone with the point of the cone broken off.

Another odd-shaped Civil War cartridge was the .56 caliber Billingshurst-Requa battery gun used in the Wheel-mounted volley gun of the same name.

One of the first quick-fire, multi-shot weapons, its 25 barrels were loaded and fired simultaneously. A train of priming powder, reaching the full length of the breech block, was set off by a percussion cap. The flame entered a tiny hole in the base of each cartridge and ignited the powder.

The first successful machine gun was invented in 1862 by Dr. Richard Gatling of Chicago. It consisted of six revolving barrels, each with its own loading and ejection mechanism. Nearly 200 shots a minute were fired with "fixed" cartridges of different sizes up to one inch in diameter.

The Army looked with disfavor on the weapon. In 1862, General Benjamin Butler purchased 12 Gatling guns from his own pocket and personally directed their use during the siege of Petersburg, Virginia. The machine gun was not used extensively until the 1870's.

Popular among Civil War cartridges was the .52 caliber Sharps. Made of linen, with a nitrated paper base designed for quick ignition, it was shot from a breech-loading carbine fired by percussion cap and noted for remarkable range, accuracy and hitting power.

More than 16 million Sharps Cartridges were used by Northern troops, especially cavalrymen, during the Civil War. Rarely found today is the .50 caliber Smith with rubber case. Strictly an experimental Civil War cartridge, it was fired in a breech-loading percussion carbine and was interchangeable with a companion cartridge made of paper-covered brass foil. During the war, the government bought 30,062 Smith carbines and nearly 14 million brass foil cartridges.

Best known among early brass percussion cartridges was the Maynard, patented in 1856 by Dr. Edward Maynard, a dentist. His was the first reloadable brass cartridge to see military service. More than two million .50 caliber Maynard cartridges were used during the Civil War. Jefferson Davis secured 400 of Maynard's rifles and they were used first by the Confederates at Ball's Bluff, near Leesburg, Virginia.

The rim-fire Spencer cartridge had its priming charge situated around the rim rather than within a centrally located primer. Seven thousand Spencer repeating rifles were delivered to the War Department during the first six months of 1863.

More than 58 million Spencer cartridges were used during Civil War battles, most notably, at Gettysburg.

While both muzzle and breech loading weapons were employed during its campaigns, the Civil War represented the last major use of the former type.

In its place came the smaller caliber arm which ignited its breech loading cartridge by percussion cap or primer. Such a weapon incorporated the ideas of scores of inventors and opened a new age of small arms and ammunition design which was to continue through World War II.

Talma School News

A fine group of interested school patrons enjoyed the Talma Community Christmas program given on December 10th. The grade students, along with the Junior High chorus and band under the direction of Mr. Jim White, presented an excellent program.

Friday afternoon, December 20, the various Junior High home rooms will have Christmas parties. Committees have been appointed by the home room presidents to make arrangements. The afternoon will be concluded with an all school mass party, to be held at the Merrill Shaw of the Talma Church. The program has been planned by the Student Council.

The Talma basketball games to be played with Warsaw has been changed from January 7 to Wednesday, January 8. These games will be played at the Mentone School. Starting time for the first game will be 4:00.

Grades 1 and 2
Our enrollment at the present time is 32. The girls and boys are very unevenly divided this year, as we have just nine girls and 23 boys. With this enrollment it may be you have already guessed that we never experience one dull moment from 8:15 to 3:40.

The attendance was only fair the second grading period. We are hoping it will be better this next period. Second graders are real pleased as they have had perfect attendance for the past two weeks.

Both classes are progressing very nicely in reading. First grade has a few stories in their Pre-Primer and will then be ready to begin their Basic Primer. Some are reading independently with some supervision. They have a good time dramatizing their favorite stories.

Second grade will soon have their Basic Reader completed. Each one has shown quite an improvement and are enjoying doing outside reading.

In science everyone is busy collecting pictures for a scrap book showing how winter brings changes of living for both animals and people. In this unit we find out about the various ways in which animals, as well as people, provide for themselves during the winter. Much attention will be given the animals that hibernate during winter months. This is always a fascinating topic for the children of this age.

With the hustle and bustle and all the excitement of Christmas, there has been much added activity in our room. First of all, we always talk about the real meaning of Christmas. Next, we make decorations for our room. The Art class made some beautiful bells. We decorated the tree Thursday morning. Each one helped and we had lots of fun. Friday morning during our sharing time each child told what they would like for Christmas. We had some extra big orders. Everything from new cars to a baby brother or sister, also wagons, sleds, dolls, trucks and tractors.

Our Christmas party and gift exchange will be Friday afternoon, December 20th. We would like to take this opportunity to wish each of you a very Merry and Blessed Christmas and a Happy New Year.

World War II Mothers Meet

Mrs. Emma Cook was hostess to the Mothers of World War II of Mentone, unit 106, Monday, December 9, for the annual Christmas party at 6 p.m. with a carry in supper and gift exchange.

The meeting was opened with the presentation of the flag, pledging allegiance and singing one verse of "The Star Spangled Banner" and a prayer by the chaplain, Belle Morrison. The state bulletin was read and officers were elected and will be installed at the January meeting.

Many items were discussed and will be decided upon at a future meeting. Many lovely gifts were received by those present. And we want to especially thank Samuel Norris for helping us to make this meeting possible. We will meet with Myrtle Davis on January 13th at 1:30 p.m. for the next meeting.

If you're planning to make goodies and freeze them in advance of a holiday party, remember cooked egg whites get tough if it is frozen, remind Purdue University food specialists. Wait for the last minute to make a meringue.

The salt and ashes spread on slippery sidewalks cause to rugs and carpets. Purdue University home management specialists recommend vacuuming frequently and placing scatter rugs at all entrances during winter months.

Unwanted trees this winter can be killed through use of chemicals. Purdue University horticulturists say a ring of continuous overlapping frills should be cut along the base of the trunk and treated with 2, 4-D.

Harmonettes Play At Warsaw Shrine Party

On Thursday night, December 12, the Harmonettes played at the Warsaw fairgrounds. This was the annual Kosciusko County Shrine Club Christmas party for the crippled children.

The Harmonettes, consisting of Ann Abbey on the piano, Kathy Boggs on the clarinet, Linda Meyer on the bass fiddle, and Kathy Tridle on the washboard, joined together this fall for fun and profit.

So far, they have played at the Warsaw Shrine Club Festival. They have a mid-January engagement at Manchester, while this week they are playing at the Talma School Christmas party.

Their director is Pam's dad, Denton Abbey, who seems to be a man of many talents.

We wish them luck in their new endeavor and congratulate them on their ambition.

Auxiliary Meets

Mentone Unit 425 of the American Legion Auxiliary, met December 10. The members sang the "Star Spangled Banner" and pledged allegiance to the flag. After prayer by the chaplain, the meeting was called to order by the president, Opal Nellans.

Bernice Jones reported on the Christmas gift for the boy we sponsor at the Children's Home at Knightstown. Other members of the Knightstown Christmas committee showed gifts they had purchased for boys and girls at the Home from the Burk area.

It was suggested that the Unit compile a book of prayers. Each member is asked to write an original prayer for any occasion and give it to the chaplain, Phyllis Williamson. National defense chairman, Marilyn Baker, asked how many members purchased U. S. Savings Bonds and Stamps.

Plans were made to remember shut-in veterans at Christmas with a plate of cookies. Anyone who would like to take part in this should bring home-made cookies to Bernice Jones by noon, December 21.

After the business session, a gift exchange was held and refreshments of Christmas salad and hot cinnamon rolls were served.

A gift of clothing is more appreciated when it is the appropriate color and style, as well as correct size, to fit into the receiver's wardrobe, say Purdue University clothing specialists.

AKRON SCHOOL NEWS

Akron Flyers Beat Milford

The Akron Flyers have their work cut out for them when they take to the road this week end. The taste of victory on their last two outings has fired up the Flyers and their followers. Milford fell before the Flyers by a score of 56 to 52. They had been undefeated and were reputed to have one of the best defenses in this area.

Kewanna put up a good fight, but the determined Flyers would not be denied as they smashed through to a 70 to 53 victory.

Akron had not won a home game in more than two years and the two successive wins points up the fact that coach Floyd Henson has found the key to success for the Flyers.

Friday night the Flyers traveled to North Webster, determined to continue their winning streak. Saturday night the Flyers hit the road and meet the strong Southwood aggregation.

Susan Keirn has been chosen as winner of the Good Citizenship Award, sponsored by the Daughters of the American Revolution.

Leadership, service, dependability and patriotism were considered in the selection.

Susan will take a test on History and Government on December 14 at Rochester. She will also write an essay on patriotism.

Mr. Smiley points out that these refunds can be extremely useful in developing the water and land resources of the community and otherwise supporting Rural Areas Development.

Each dollar used wisely in developing and conserving water and land resources, helps prevent crop failures, boosts farm income and increases the value of local property. Funds used in developing water and land resources stimulate local business activity.

Farmers may obtain water development and soil conservation loans to drill wells and otherwise improve water supply systems for irrigation, home use, and livestock; purchase pumps, sprinkler systems and other irrigation equipment.

Loans may also be used to construct and repair ponds and tanks, ditches, canals for irrigation; dig ditches and install tile to drain farmland; develop ponds and water control structures for the production of fish under controlled conditions; level land, carry out basic land treatment practices, including liming, fertilizing and seeding; sub soil or sod land.

In addition, loan funds may be used to obtain plans and pay fees for legal, engineering and other technical services.

Mentone Press Routs Triton

The Mentone Bulldogs had a hard fight on their hands last Friday evening as they won over the Triton Trojans. The Bulldogs have only lost two games this season and fought hard as they handed the Trojans their second loss also.

Many watched with interest as the teams debated their skill in the first half, which left them tied at 33-33. The second half proved to be the winning one for the bulldogs as they gained a three point lead in the third quarter and tallied up many points in the fourth to give them a 20 point margin over the Trojans at the end of the game. Mentone Bulldogs worked an effective pressure defense, which soon routed the Trojans and the opponents were only able to score 6 points during the last 11 minutes of play.

New Steer Class In County

A charolais beef steer class will be added at the Kosciusko County Fair in 1964 for 4-H Beef Club members. Due to the interest shown in the county in feeding animals from a charolais cross there was a request made by club members for the class.

They approved the offering of the charolais steer class with the following stipulation: Ani-mals exhibited in the charolais class must be purebred charolais or be the offspring of a recognized breed dam and a purebred charolais bull.

4-H members wishing to feed charolais steers will be required to enroll them on the January 1st enrollment in the same man-ner that other breeds are en-rolled. January 1st cards en-rollment is required on beef steers, beef heifers, dairy heifers (except calves), sow and litter, and sheep flock. January 1st cards are available at the County Extension Office.

TARGET, WOODS & GUN ROOM

(A regular column of the National Rifle Association.) Three hundred crack marksmen, firing 10,000 rounds of ammunition in 20 minutes, stopped the forward movement of 30,000 troops and turned the tide for the North at the bloody battle of Gettysburg. The significance of marksmanship instruction, virtually non-existent on a large scale before and during the Civil War, was highlighted recently by the National Rifle Association, a non-profit membership organization recognized at the governing body for shooting in the U. S.

On the second day of Gettysburg, a force of 100 sharpshooters reconnoitering under the command of Colonel Hiram Berdan collided in the woods at Pitzer's Run on the west slope of Seminary Ridge with General James Longstreet's brigades, which were moving in three massive columns to flank the Union left by seizing Little Round Top.

On contact with the enemy, Colonel Berdan ordered his men to advance firing, throwing the southerners into confusion while the sharpshooters' support, a force of 200 trained riflemen from Maine, moved up. The little band of 300 marksmen delayed Longstreet's advance sufficiently for Union forces to gain the critical summit of Little Round Top just minutes ahead of General John B. Hood, whose tough Texas brigade thundered up the lower slope—too late. Most authorities on the Civil War regard the race for Little Round Top, which anchored the entire Union line, as the turning point of the Battle of Gettysburg.

Colonel Berdan's standards of marksmanship were high, and the 1,800 men who finally were selected as members of his elite group were the best shots the Union Army could produce.

Any volunteer who could not put 10 consecutive shots within a five inch bullseye at 200 yards was disqualified and returned to his original unit. Even today more than 100 years later—this is considered excellent shooting. The official NRA target, used by military and civilian shooters in match competition at 200 yards, has a 10 inch bullseye.

Many of the recruits reported for duty with Colonel Berdan carrying their favorite guns, the majority of which were percussion muzzle-loading target rifles weighing between 15 and 30 pounds and equipped with long-tubed telescopic sights.

Colonel Berdan's personal weapon was of this type, mounted with a 10-power scope having cross wire reticules. On the range, Colonel took pride in demonstrating his ability with this cumbersome rifle, which enabled him to place five shots in a 10 inch ring at 600 yards.

Colonel Berdan had raised his regiment of marksmen with the understanding that it would be armed with the Sharps breechloading rifle, a reliable and highly practical arm for men who would do much of their shooting from a prone position or from positions in trees, since it could be loaded and fired with a minimum of movement—important to snipers.

But General Winfield Scott insisted that breechloaders were new-fangled gadgets of unproven value as military arms. He felt that the most practical infantry weapon was the standard-issue Springfield, a muzzle-loading smoothbore musket type used nearly 20 years earlier during the Mexican War.

Colonel Berdan's persistent demands that his men receive Sharps rifles were refused. It was only through the personal intercession of President Lincoln that his sharpshooters finally received anything more than the standard Springfield.

In the fall of 1863, Lincoln dropped in on the camp of the sharpshooters with General McClellan and Assistant Secretary of War Thomas Scott. In the course of the inevitable demonstration of marksmanship, in which the President himself tried his hand with Berdan's scope sighted rifle, Secretary Scott challenged the Colonel to demonstrate his skill, scoffingly suggesting that he shoot standing and that he aim at the right eye of the crudely painted figure of Jefferson Davis which served as the target 600 yards away. Berdan accepted the challenge, aimed at the head and fired. When the target was brought in, the lucky shot had punched out the pupil of the right eye!

The incident so amused the President, a better-than-average shot himself, that he turned to Berdan and said, "Colonel, come down tomorrow and I will give you the order for the breechloaders."

Although the Berdan Sharpshooters eventually were issued the rifle of their choice, they carried Colt revolving rifles and their personal target arms in the Battle of Big Bethel on March 27, 1862, the first engagement in which repeating rifles were used by combat troops.

At Yorktown, a few days later, Berdan's men successfully silenced Confederate cannon by picking off the gun crews at distances of one-quarter mile.

from that point on their reputation was assured. Before the war was over, they took a prominent part in 65 recognized engagements fought by the Army of the Potomac.

But Berdan's Sharpshooters never were used effectively as they might have been if they had been retained as a special shock force in their total strength, as Berdan had intended them to be used. At Gettysburg and in other major engagements the commanding general usually broke them down into companies or smaller units and scattered them along the front.

Berdan's Sharpshooters, like the riflemen of the Revolutionary War were, from the standpoint of existing military philosophy, simply ahead of their times.

United Fund Report

The Board of Directors of the United Fund of Kosciusko County at a recent meeting held at the First National Bank, voted to pay the thirteen participating agencies of United Fund their full budget requests for the first three quarters, January, April and July, 1964; and, should no catastrophe arise during the year, will pay the final quarter in October in full also.

The 1964 campaign drive fell short of its goal of $94,290, raising 85 per cent of that total. However, due to several agencies not needing some of their allotted funds in 1963, there is a balance in the contingency fund of approximately $6500. The board feels that the purpose of this contingency fund is to take care of an emergency such as this, and will, therefore, attempt to pay all agencies in full by depleting this fund.

Below is a comparison of funds raised in both 1962 and 1963.

	1963	1962
Industrial	37562.61	35056.81
Retail	13077.00	11564.05
Construction	1602.00	1879.80
Professional	5942.80	5556.00
Correspond.	1157.00	1449.00
Residential	12585.27	12717.28

71826.68 68222.94
The campaign chairman, division heads and volunteer workers of the county are to be commended for their untiring efforts in making this fund drive a success. Although the goal was not met, the citizens of Kosciusko County pledged more dollars than any previous campaign to meet the increased needs of the 13 agencies of the United Fund.

NEWS NOTES from our County Agent DONALD E. FRANTZ

A meeting of sheep producers will be held the afternoon of January 9 with Henry Mayo of the Purdue Animal Science Department. This will be a general discussion of lamb production and anyone interested in sheep is invited. It will be held at the new fairgrounds Shrine Building and that is an excellent meeting place. There are no parking problems, the heat, light and acoustics are perfect.

The next meeting of the new Better Farming-Better Living group will be held on January 7. This will be a repeat on the session scheduled for last week. It was 13 below on the morning of the regularly scheduled date and that is just too cold for people to leave things, so we re-scheduled it.

Farmers, like every other business, are confronted with a new tax situation in the Indiana adjusted gross income tax. This may be a little confusing this first time, but in the long run, may not be too complicated.

In 1963 farmers will have to pay gross income tax for the period January 1 to July 1 at the same rate as always. This is just for the six months period. Then, in addition, they will be required to pay on the new adjusted gross income tax for the entire year at the rate of one per cent. Everyone will have to file a return unless his gross income for the first six months was less than $500 and his gross income for the full year was less than $1000. This could mean that if the gross was $600 for the first six months, but only $100 for the rest of the year, he still would file.

At first glance it appears unfair that a person would pay the regular rate for six months and then pay again for the entire year. It is not that bad as the rate for the entire year is at 1 per cent or one-half of the rate stated by the new law. So, instead of paying the full rate for half a year, they have required that we pay half the rate for a full year. Whether or not this is an advantage depends upon when most of your income came in.

The new Indiana adjusted gross income tax is essentially a tax on net income. This will not be hard to get because you will already have it as it will be the same figure that has been determined for the federal income tax. Individuals will simply take line 7 on form 1040. The adjusted gross income for farmers would include his gross income less his operating expenses or in other words his net profit as determined on form 1040F. If he was exempt from other sources it would be taken from line 7 of form 1040. Therefore, the procedure for reporting the Indiana Gross Income Tax becomes the same as the procedure for preparing the federal tax.

It would appear that the best procedure would be to make out the federal tax first. Then in any of the state, local or other expenses that are non-exempt in the new state tax.

We are presuming that full instructions will come out with the new tax forms but we can see that it is not too difficult to figure and even though the rate is up, it should come out about the same as the gross income has before and in years of lower prices it should be less.

INDIANA ARTISTS TO DISPLAY

Representative paintings of Hoosier artists identifiable with Indiana scenes will be the subject of a year-around rotating art salon in the State House, it was announced recently by the Indiana Tourist Council. Both Governor Welsh and Lt. Governor

Ristine endorse the Tourist Council program.

Lt. Governor Ristine, in urging support for the project, paid tribute to the many artists of Indiana who are widely known throughout the United States for their work. "Indiana is recognized," he declared, "as the cultural center of the Midwest. Our artists, authors, musicians and scholars have long brought fame to our state. The Indiana State House Art Salon will be a measure of recognition and encouragement for those among us today who are working with brush and canvas to portray our Hoosier heritage."

Originating in the Tourist Assistance Council of the Indiana Department of Commerce, the State House Salon is already gaining recognition as a probable stimulus for increasing tourist traffic. The Indiana State House Art Salon committee will be in complete charge of the project, and establish guidelines for its operation. The committee is comprised of interested Indiana residents.

Purpose of this committee is to institute and maintain a monthly rotating display of art in the lobby of the State Capitol Building. Membership is open to Indiana residents willing to participate actively in the program. The first show is scheduled to open Thursday, January 2, 1964.

Letters of application from groups wishing to display their work will be considered in order of postmark. Letters should be sent to: Indiana State House Art Salon Committee, Room 332, State House, Indianapolis, Indiana.

AKRON SCHOOL NEWS

Student Council Adopts Crest

The Akron High School Student Council voted to adopt a school crest. The crest will appear on all class rings, school stationary, school paper, graduation announcements, program, year book and other school items.

The first crest will appear on the next order for class rings, with other items to bear the crest as they are produced.

Hi-Y and S.S.S. Clubs Sing Christmas Carols

Over 70 members of the Akron Hi-Y and Sunshine Society sang Christmas carols in the streets of Akron for more than two hours Monday night.

The spirit of Christmas was renewed with great enthusiasm as the happy carolers traveled throughout the snow covered streets.

Hot chocolate and cookies were served to the carolers at the school later in the evening.

Flyers Meet Leesburg Jan. 4

The Akron Flyers take to the road on January 4th as they meet Leesburg in their final game before the County Tournament. A booster bus will depart from the Akron Cafe at 5:30 p.m. Tickets may be purchased on boarding the bus.

County Tourney Tickets on Sale

Tickets are on sale for the annual County Tournament to be played at the Warsaw High School on January 7, 8, 9 and 11.

A season ticket that covers all five sessions may be obtained at the principal's office until Friday, at the door for the Northfield game Friday night, and at the Akron Exchange Bank until January 6. The price of a ticket for all sessions is $3.00.

The Chicago Motor Club reminds drivers that following the vehicle ahead too closely leaves little room for safety. The recommended following distance under ideal driving conditions is one car length for every ten miles an hour of speed. If roads are slippery, traffic is heavy, or visibility is poor, a much greater distance is required for maximum safety.
