MENTONE FLOAT PLACES FOURTH

The Mentone Band sponsored the float for Miss Mentone this year at the North Webster Festival, placing fourth, and the band would like to thank the following people for their contributions:

George King, Bourbon; Curtis Rimer, Ralph Mollenhour, McKinley's Lumber Co., Co-Op, Hardware, Joe Baker, Boardman Chevrolet, Hubert Keirn, and Clarence Taylor, all of Mentone and the Mentone Chamber of Commerce.

Also the following band members for the labor on the float: Janice Davis, Ruth Drudge, Mona Ross, Pam Hammer, Tana Henderson, Susie Sullivan, Becky Keirn, Judy Barkman, Kay Taylor and Sandra Miller.

BAND PLEASED WITH SOCIAL

The ice cream social, held on last Friday evening by the band parents, was a success according to Zanna Hammer, president of the organization. They extend a word of thanks and announce that the proceeds amounted to $175.00.

The band just got nicely started playing and ice cream customers were all lined up when a cloudburst created a scatterment. After the rain the group and customers moved to the former Shinn Locker Plant room and the balance of the home made ice cream (47 gallons) was sold.

Tuesday evening the band boosters met with 25 present to elect Mrs. Kenneth Romine as secretary and Mrs. Earl Bruner, Jr., as treasurer.

They report that 60 band uniforms have been ordered, and that ice cream socials will be held on July 17 and 31.

The double ring ceremony was performed by Rev. Bill Shewman at the Salem Christian Church, south of Peru. The couple's only attendants were the bride's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. James Meredith.

The bride was lovely in a white dress of puckered tulle, with a gathered bodice and a green satin sash at the waist. Her clip of nylon bow net with small green and white flowers completed it. She carried a white bible with white roses, nylon net and seed pearls atop.

The bride's only attendant chose a nylon chiffon dress of blue flowers with white background, wearing a nylon veil hat with flowers atop, her corsage of red roses with net and seed pearls completed her outfit.

The groom and his only attendant wore white jackets and boutonnières.

Businessman Dies
At Festival

Ora L. McKinley, well known Mentone businessman, died of a heart attack immediately following the conclusion of one of the basketball games at the No. Webster Mermaid Festival last Thursday evening. He had been scorekeeper for the Wayne Tombaugh team from Mentone, and was highly elated when the team won. He went to the dressing room and remarked that he knew how to beat the next opponent, when he was stricken. Mr. McKinley, who was 55 years of age, was always active in the promotion and attendance at athletic events, and was associated with a number of organizations for the promotion of athletic activity.

The deceased had operated the Mentone Lumber Company the past 16 years, and during that time he was active in community affairs. He was a member of the Mentone fire department, Lions club, Chamber of Commerce and Mentone Baptist church. He was past president of the Northern Indiana and Southern Michigan Lumber Association, was past worshipful master of Masons and a member of the Scottish Rite.

Mr. McKinley was born at Gaston, Indiana Dec. 28, 1904, the son of James and Carrie McKinley. July 22, 1929, he was married in Yorktown to Florence Ogle, who survives. Other survivors are two sons, Larry and Dwayne at home; two brothers, Rev. Leo McKinley of Albany, and Edgar McKinley of St. Petersburg, Fla., and one sister, Mrs. Ivan Mannix, Muncie.

Funeral services were held at the Reed funeral home Monday afternoon at 1:30 p. m. with Rev. Irwin Olson, pastor of the Mentone Baptist church, officiating. Burial was in the Union cemetery at Eaton, Ind., near Muncie.

Special honors were given the deceased by the Mentone Lions club, Masons, fire department, and business people. All was a fitting tribute to one who had given so unselfishly to his community. His efforts were curtailed for a time a few years ago by illness, but in recent months he had been very active.

LICENSE ISSUED

A marriage license has been issued to Ronald Leon Swick, 18, R. 1, Claypool, and Dora Mae Kelley, 17, R. 1, Mentone.

Married In Sunday Afternoon Services

A wedding lovely in its simplicity was held Sunday afternoon at 1:30 p. m. at the Palestine Methodist church when Miss Janice Perry, daughter of Mrs. Wilbur Perry, R. 2, Warsaw, was united in marriage to Billy Lee Hatfield, son of Mr. and Mrs. Glen Hatfield of Akron.

Rev. Ralph Hoffman of Logansport, performed the double-ring ceremony in the presence of 100 guests. The altar of the church was enhanced with baskets of spring flowers.

Attending the couple were Miss Martha Perry, sister of the bride, and Paul Grandstaff of Denver, cousin of the groom.

The pianist was Mrs. Robert Boggs, R. R., Warsaw, who played the bridal airs including "Because," "I Love Thee," and the traditional wedding march and recessional for the entrance and departure of the bridal party.

The bride was gowned in a pink organza ballerina length with pink lace packet. She carried a white Bible with a spray of pink roses and streamers.

A reception was held after the ceremony. Miss Dawn Perry, sister of the bride, held the guest book. The wedding cake and fruit punch were served by Miss Bonnie Kindig, Miss Rose Drudge, and Miss Loretta Remy, friends of the bride.

The bride was graduated from Mentone high school in 1959. Mr. Hatfield attended Akron high school and is now employed at Peabody Seating Co., No. Manchester. The couple will reside at 410 Main St., No. Manchester.

Tippecanoe Couple Married Saturday

Miss Irene May Ludwig and Forrest Creakbaum, both of the Tippecanoe community, were united in marriage Saturday afternoon in a double-ring ceremony at the Mentone Methodist church. Rev. Claude J. Dotson, pastor, officiated.

A wedding supper was served at the Creakbaum farm home one and one-half miles southeast of Tippecanoe. Guests included the bride's mother and step-father, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Weichert, her half-brother, Jerry Weichert, and her uncle, Vaughn Hays, all of Argos.

Mr. and Mrs. Creakbaum will reside on his farm. He is employed by the Nickel Plate Railroad.

Band Boosters To

The calendars will list the birthdates of citizens, all community organization dates, schools activities, including basketball, etc.

Systemics vs. Cattle Grubs

Cattle feeders and packers throughout the United States lose many million dollars each year to cattle grub infestation.
Scientists predict that this toll can be substantially cut by using systemic insecticides.

Systemic are organic phosphorus compounds capable of killing insects in the animal's body. These compounds are carried through the bloodstream.

Two federally accepted systemic insecticides now on the market are Co-Ral and Trolene.
The per head cost of these in-secticides is about 80 to 90 cents.

The recommended dates for treatment throughout the corn belt are from early July to mid-November.

Whether or not it will pay Indiana farmers to treat for cattle grubs with systemics is an important question, says Purdue University entomologist R.
C. Dobson. At the present time, adds Dobson, it doesn't appear to be for these reasons:

First, grub infestation in native cattle may not be serious enough to warrant the use of systemics.

Secondly, though Western feeders shipped to Indiana often carry the insect, the most effective treatment dates are usually past. Most Western cattle are shipped in October and can't be "de-grubbed" until they adapt to their new environment. This settling down period takes about a month, which makes it too late for effective control.

If systemic insecticides are to be of use on Indiana farms, Dobson feels they should be applied on the Western ranch. Unless Western calf-raisers are paid a premium for grubbing their cattle, it is unlikely that they will go to the extra expense to provide grub-free calves.

Indiana Weather Still a Mystery

Hoosiers don't often think about frost and snow in relation to Indiana's usually hot July temperatures.

However, Lawrence Schaal, Weather Bureau state climatologist at Purdue University, says snow was reported in Indiana on July 2, 1924.

A farmer living west of Wabash reported a patch of snow eight inches deep on July 3, 1924 and brought a snowball into Wabash to prove it.

Hail and a tornado cloud also were observed. Tornadoes have plucked chickens and driven straws into trees, so, Schaal observes, a tornado acting like an ice crushing machine, is a possibility. Crushed ice, however, is not snow.

A snow flake of one or more ice crystals is formed when water vapor condenses in sub-freezing temperatures, Schaal explains. The vapor skips the water state before freezing. On the other hand, most hail consists of layers of frozen water.

Indiana's July weather is not always as pleasant as it was last year, when temperatures averaged three degrees below normal. Rainfall was plentiful, but became troublesome in southern Indiana, where 12 to 16 rainy drops occurred and July rainfall exceeded 10 inches. Schaal describes as "most remarkable the very few days of temperatures 90 degrees or higher." Highest in the state was 96—the lowest July maximum temperature on record.

Daily maximum temperatures normally average near 85 degrees in northern Indiana and 89 in southern Indiana. Temperatures exceed 90 degrees 14 days out of 31 during an average July in the south; in the north the average is six days.

A snowball would not have lasted long on July 14, 1936, when the mercury reached 116 degrees at Collegeville for the highest temperature ever recorded in Indiana. During that month, temperatures of 100 degrees were recorded on 11 days in central Indiana.

How Can Mentone Plan?

Recently a community planning program has been discussed for Mentone, and in the weeks to follow there will likely be more information made available. Below are a few more pertinent facts:

Most of the local work on a planning program is done by an appointed group called the plan commission. The plan commission has the specific task of proposing a master plan (planning program) for the orderly development of the city and surrounding area. In this capacity the commission is advisory to the city council.

One of the important phases of the planning program is the jurisdictional area. The State Legislature has allowed cities to plan territory within two miles of their limits. As a social, educational and economic unit a city does not stop at its political limits. Since planning is concerned with over-all development and the present and future welfare of the general public, the planning program applies equally well to the jurisdictional area as to the city itself. If at some future time the county would have a planning program and ordinances, Mentone would not have jurisdictional control outside the city limits. Until such time, however, it is to the best interests of the people of Mentone and the people of the surrounding area that the Plan Commission sets up standards for this area as well as for the city.

Jurisdictional control does not mean annexation by Mentone nor does it mean that the people in the jurisdictional area pay city taxes. The people in the jurisdictional area are represented on the plan commission and on the board of zoning appeals. The two plan commission members from the jurisdictional area are appointed by the judge of the county circuit court. The folks from outside the city limits, therefore, are not annexed and they do not pay different taxes. Planning control in the city, as well as in the jurisdictional area, insures sound and orderly growth.

The planning program itself can include several different studies and ordinances; but the following items are the more important ones:

THE LAND USE SURVEY: Is a study of the existing land use of the city and its jurisdictional area. This necessary city inventory is a preliminary to sound planning and zoning.

THE DEVELOPMENT-THOROUGHFARE PLAN: Establishes a general land-use plan and street pattern. Since a city grows according to its street pattern, fore-thought on the location and widths of major streets will aid in the orderly growth of the city. Areas for park and school sites, too, should be considered well in advance of the actual location of such facilities.

THE ZONING ORDINANCE: Divides the city and fringe area into zone districts. In this manner residential, commercial, and industrial uses are grouped separately. Mixture of land uses results in increased traffic and fire hazards, and tends to devalue properties. Property values are stabilized, and the public safety is furthered by this zoning protection of the residential, commercial and industrial areas.

THE SUBDIVISION ORDINANCE: Sets up reasonable standards of design, improvements and procedure for subdivisions and resubdivisions of unimproved land. New subdivisions are the the growing town; the quality and standards of these new areas will in large measure determine the quality and standards of the future Mentone. A subdivision ordinance simply insures minimum standards, and expresses the official opinion of the city as to how it should grow.

THE PROJECT PLAN: Is a continuing study by the Plan Commission of the specific needs of the community. The plan commission can cooperate with the city government and civic groups in the discussion, programming and organization of these projects.

WAR MOTHERS HAVE MEETING

Mothers of World War II, unit 106, met at the home of Mrs. Flossum Newell, Monday evening, June 8th.

The President, Edith Young, opened the meeting with the pledge to the flag, singing one verse of the Star Spangled Banner and prayer by the Chaplain, Emma Cook.

Roll Call was responded to by 13 members being present.

The secretary's report was given also the Financial Secretary's and Treasurer's reports were given and all were accepted as read.

A report on the hospital equipment was given by the attendants.

As the following Sunday, June 14 being Flag day all were urged to post the flag in honor of our freedom. Also a tribute to the flag was read.

A report of the District Meeting was given and much discussion followed.

The July meeting will be held with Emma Cook. The meeting was closed with the usual closing ceremony.

The hostess, assisted by her daughter, served lovely refreshments.

Avoid Summer Milk Slump

Lack of feed remains the major cause of summer milk slump, reports G. A. Williams, Purdue University extension dairyman.

"To maintain production of 4 to 6 gallons of milk daily," says Williams, "a cow must consume 200-300 pounds of grass or the equivalent in the form of silage, hay and concentrates."

The great wonder is that milk production remains as high as it does in many herds when the grazing is so poor," he adds.

Many dairymen have improved their feeding and management programs during June, July and August and are maintaining a higher daily production than formerly. However, DHIA herd records still show production during these months to be lower than during any other similar period.

Farmers are attempting to overcome the summer milk slump by maintaining a regular supply of grass. Williams lists these steps to insure a regular supply:

1-Renovate pastures. This requires soil tests for fertility needs and some tillage operations to remove weeds, followed with seeding suitable legumes and grasses.

2-Rotate grazing area. This means changing the herd at intervals so that fresh growth is available every few days. Fields should also be clipped at least once or twice during the pasture season to encourage new growth.

3-Regulate supply and demand. In seasons where more forage is produced than needed, cut the excess for hay or silage. If supply doesn't meet the needs of the herd, keep a hay or silage "feed account" on hand to make up the shortage.

And 4-Provide adequate shade and water and control flies.

Williams notes that many dairymen favor fall freshening especially for producing cows. If a fresh cow starts her lactation in the summer months, the combined effect of hot weather, fly annoyance and poor grazing affects her production more than if she had freshened six months before or after.

COTTONY SCALE ON MAPLE TREES

Cottony scale on maple trees are causing many homeowners worry now according to D. E. Frantz, county agricultural agent.

The white masses on the undersides of the lower branches resemble grains of popcorn and are prominent at this time of year. The small insects are leaving their protective scale where they have hatched.

Sprays at this time of year are usually not very effective as the insects are gone now. A spray of nicotine sulphate at the rate of 2 teaspoons per gallon of soapy water will destroy those that remain. A spray with dormant oil next spring on badly infected trees would control the scale insects.

These usually are not serious enough to do permanent damage, however repeated infestations on a small tree could cause its loss.

Monon, Newest Wheat Variety

Monon, an Indian word meaning "swift moving," is the name of Indiana's latest wheat variety.

This baby of the soft, red winter wheats will be available to Hoosier farmers for fall 1960 planting.

Developed jointly by Purdue University's agricultural experiment station and the U. S. Department of Agriculture, Monon is now being increased for distribution to certified seed growers.

The newest variety grows more rapidly in the fall and early spring and matures earlier than any other present Indiana variety. Plant breeders claim it to be more winter hardy than any other variety.

Two or three inches shorter than Knox, Monon exhibits superior straw strength and has yielded well in all areas of Indiana. It is Hessian fly, soil-borne mosaic and leaf rust resistant. However, the new variety is susceptible to stem rust but because of its early maturity may escape severe damage.

UNITED FUND BOARD MEETS

The executive board and budget and admissions committee of the United Fund of Kosciusko County met June 12 at the United Fund office at Warsaw to consider budget requests for the 1960 year from participating agencies.

The Board also heard a report by Walter Martin, Budget and Admissions Chairman on 6 new agencies requesting funds from the local United Fund Campaign next year. The agencies requesting admission were: Indiana Citizens Council, American Social Hygiene Ass'n., United Seamen's Service, International Social Service, American Hearing Society and Blinded Veterans Ass'n. It was recommended by the Budget and Admissions Committee that further study be made on one of the agencies for possible admission to the United Fund of Kosciusko County. It was felt that many of the services offered by these agencies are already being provided by existing member agencies of our own United Fund of Kosciusko County.

Preliminary budgets from United Service Organizations, National Travelers Aid, Salvation Army and Muscular Dystrophy Association were approved at this meeting.

Present at the meeting were: Neal Carlson, treasurer; Walter Martin, chairman of Budget and Admissions Committee; Mrs. Dale Lowman, secretary; Earl Records, president; Tweed Robinson, chairman of Public Relations; Ray Steenhausen, Liaison Officer and Larry Tucker, Asst., Budget and Admissions.

Water Supply Safety Hints

Lafayette, Ind.—A good water supply is essential for health and welfare on the farm, both for members of the family and for the livestock.

Often a water supply means constructing a farm pond, building a cistern, or having some sort of reservoir to hold additional water.

F. R. Willsey, farm safety specialist at Purdue University, and the Indiana Farm Safety Council warn farmers, if they have any of these sources of water on their farm, to make sure that they present no hazard which will offset their usefulness.

Willsey and the Council suggest that farmers:

Keep the farm pond in good condition to serve its purpose and guard it from intruders.

Be sure the cistern has a sound cover which cannot be removed by children.

Make certain that proper protection is given any reservoir.

And remember, drowning is not always a matter of being in deep water. Young children can drown in any pool or shallow pond.

Finally, keep safety in mind when planing any kind of supplement to the farm water supply.

Taking Your Pet?

Lafayette, Ind., June 23. This is vacation time for thousands of Americans, many of whom will take their pets with them. Others will leave them with friends or relatives or "board" them with veterinarians or at kennels.

All animals, including pets, transported across state lines must be accompanied by an official health certificate issued by a local, licensed, accredited veterinarian. Dr. T. M. Curtin, Purdue University extension veterinarian, points out:

Failure to obtain this certificate may lead to inconvenience to the owners and waste of vacation time. Pets without health certificates may be impounded and held in quarantine at the owner's expense by disease control officials in any state until necessary certificates are received.

Dogs should not be allowed to run at will in tick-infested areas, Dr. Curtin says. In some places animals may pick up hundreds of ticks in a day. A good insecticide should be used to protect dogs from mosquitoes. These insects are not only irritating, but sometimes carry a microscopic parasite that causes heartworm disease, he adds.

If a dog has not been vaccinated for rabies in less than a year, the animal should be immunized two or three weeks before the vacation trip, Dr. Curtin asserts. He suggests that old dog bedding should be destroyed before starting on a vacation. Otherwise, a large crop of fleas may be awaiting the dog on its return.

Animals to be boarded should also have some precautionary considerations. If a pet has not been immunized against some of the more common diseases for which the possibility of exposure exists, such vaccinations should be completed. If friends or relatives are to "keep" pets, they should be instructed in the animal's care, especially its eating habits and customary diet.

Vacation plans should include preliminary consideration for pets as well as owners. If an animal is to accompany his owner, health papers and the necessary health regulations should be met prior to departure. If a pet is to be left at home, the caretaker should be instructed in the proper care and handling of a faithful companion.

When the bud or head of the broccoli plant has reached full size, remove it from the plant before the blossoms open. The sooner the head is removed, the more edible broccoli per plant, according to Purdue University horticulturists.

To avoid spread of disease Purdue University poultry scientists recommend a disposal pit for dead chickens. A pit five or six feet in diameter and six feet deep covered with heavy boards on which a foot or more dirt is mounded is satisfactory. An ordinary sewer tile, fitted with a tight cover, makes a drop-in hole.

The higher the temperature, the more water a cow will drink. Up to 80 degrees, the ratio is about four pounds of water for one pound of milk, say Purdue University dairy scientists.

Best Room!

JUST ONE OF 7 Big Bests Chevrolet
OFFERS you over any other car in its field!

Take a tip from the experts . . . in their own words . . . and from on-the-record facts and figures: More than ever, Chevrolet gives you more than any other of the leading low-priced three! More room to relax in, for instance. A sampling of official dimensions reported to A.M.A.* makes this clear. Chevy front seat hip room, for one thing, is up to 5.9 inches wider than comparable cars. And Chevy even offers more front seat head room than all but one of the high-priced cars!

Best Brakes Not only bigger, but built with bonded linings for up to 66% longer life. Just to prove what's what, Chevy out-stopped both of the "other two" in a NASCAR†-conducted test of repeated stops from highway speeds.

Best Style It's the only car of the leading low-priced 3 that's unmistakably modern in every line. "In its price class," says POPULAR SCIENCE magazine, "a new high in daring styling."

Best Engine Every motor magazine has given Chevrolet's standard and Corvette V8's unstinted praise. As SPORTS CARS ILLUSTRATED puts it: "... surely the most wonderfully responsive engine available today at any price."

Best Ride MOTOR TREND magazine calls Chevy "... the smoothest, most quiet, softest riding car in its price class." You'll be able to tell this yourself instantly, once you take the wheel.

Best Economy No doubt about this: two Chevrolet 6's won their class in the famous Mobilgas Economy Run, got the best mileage of any full-size car, 22.38 miles per gallon—with Powerglide.

Best Trade-In Check in any N.A.D.A.‡ Guide Book. Chevy used car prices last year averaged up to $128 higher than comparable models of the "other two."

Soybean Diseases Showing

Lafayette, Ind. Purdue University plant pathologists report receipt of a number of soybean disease specimens. More bean troubles can be expected in the next two weeks, they add.

Farmers can be alert to half a dozen diseases which may attack their soybeans. Among them:

Brown spot—A fungus disease, generally one of the first leaf diseases to appear on young plants. Infected leaves turn yellow and fall off. The lower leaves are the first to become infected. The fungus is carried through the winter on diseased stems and leaves. If soybeans follow soybeans, the stubble should be deeply plowed to bury the diseased stems and leaves. All currently recommended varieties are moderately susceptible.

Bacterial blight—Generally the second leaf spot disease to appear. Cool, rainy weather favors its spread. The disease can be recognized by small, angular brown to black spots which appear on infected leaves. Diseased tissue may drop out, giving the leaf a ragged appearance. Rotation, deep plowing and seed from disease-free fields will help reduce damage. Hawk-eye is the only available commercial variety resistant to this disease.

Bacterial pustule—A warm weather disease, usually appearing in July. It is the common leaf spot presently infecting soybeans in most parts of Indiana. First symptoms are small, yellow green spots with reddish brown centers. They are most conspicuous on the upper surface of the leaf. The central portions of the spots are slightly raised, developing into a small pustule, especially on the underside of the leaf. The pustules rupture and dry in the later stages. The disease-producing bacteria carry over from year to year on diseased leaves. All the varieties grown in Indiana are susceptible.

Downy mildew—A widespread fungus disease usually most prevalent in the northern half of Indiana. Small, pale green spots first appear on the upper surface of the leaves. They enlarge, grow together and become brown as leaf dies. Grayish turfts of moldy growth appear on the lower surface of the leaf. The fungus overwinters on diseased foliage and seed. Crop rotation and disease-free seed will help control the disease. None of the recommended varieties is resistant, but Harosoy, Lincoln and Clark are less susceptible than Blackhawk, Hawk-eye and Perry.

Pythium root rot—A seedling disease which is much worse in wet seasons. It causes a soft rot at and below the soil line. Generally only a few plants are killed. Because the disease only attacks seedlings, the loss is not large.

Purdue University agronomists recommend burning left-over seed wheat. They point out the treated seed is extremely poisonous to humans and livestock. Treated seed should not be used for livestock feed or sold to elevators as market wheat.

Palestine Homemakers Meet

The Palestine Homemakers Club met at the home of Flo Shirey for a picnic dinner. No lesson was given. A wonderful dinner was served. Pictures were taken and everyone had a good time. Our guests were: Mrs. Vida Horn, Hattie Tucker, Lillie Dritzler, Gertrude Ramsey, Deloris Harmon and Mrs. Howard Ramsby. Also Jane Tucker, Dawn Perry, Pam Harmon, Mrs. Tom Harman and Henry Pletcher had dinner with us.

The members present were Mrs. Jessie Baum, Edna Jones, Agnes Surguy, Louise Tucker, Louise Hackworth, Flo Shirey, Bessie Pletcher, Mattie Lohrer, Rosa Hipsler, Gearlaine Perry. Our next meeting will be with Agnes Surguy on August 6.

Fly control in dairy barns should start with an intensive clean up of all manure and straw bedding, Purdue University entomologists point out. Applications of insecticides will reduce numbers of overwintering flies and delay build up of large numbers of these pests.

Purdue University poultry scientists say it is not too early to put nests in poultry range shelters where they will be ready as soon as pullets lay their first eggs. Use nests of the same type that will be used later in the laying house.

Sheep and cattle affected with foot rot should be isolated from the remainder of the herd, Purdue University veterinarians assert. Diseased animals can contaminate lots and pastures, thereby exposing other animals.

New growth on outdoor, hardy chrysanthemums should be "pinched back" after making three to four inches of growth, according to Purdue University horticulturists. When the terminal bud is removed, lateral or side branching will develop, forming a well-rounded, bushy plant for more fall flowers.

BOOSTERS PLAN ANOTHER SOCIAL

The Band Boosters met at the school on Tuesday evening to make plans for another ice cream social to be held Friday evening, July 17, on the streets of Mentone. The Mentone Band Boosters have also completed plans for the assembling of information necessary for the publishing of the Community Calendar. Workers are being assigned to cover specific territory and they in turn will ask others to help in calling on every home in the Mentone School District.

Local businesses will also be contacted. It was decided to list these simply as Boosters of the Band rather than have a small square of advertising.

The charge of $1.00 for the calendar and 25c per date for listing birthdays, anniversaries, meetings and athletic games is quite nominal and should be considered as your way of supporting our Band.

Everyone is urged to have the information ready for the person who does the visiting as this is quite an undertaking and will be greatly helped if the time per visit is reduced.

Orders for the Calendars will also be taken at this time as a fairly close estimate of how many will be required is necessary. The work will be started on Monday, July 27 and must be completed by the end of the month.

There were about thirty boosters present.

COMPLETE DALE CARNEGIE COURSE

James Manwaring and Tom Fugate have just completed the 14-week Dale Carnegie course, a world famous adult education program for effective speaking, leadership and human relations. Forty-four people were enrolled in the course which was held in Warsaw.

FARM TILE DRAINAGE POINTERS

Lafayette, Ind.—Good drainage of cropland is absolutely essential before investments in fertilizer and new farm machinery pay off.

Donald R. Sisson, Purdue University agricultural engineer, gives some pointers for landowners and contractors to assist in installing farm tile drainage systems.

In considering tile drainage for wet land, Sisson says to remember these facts:

"Be sure that you are ready for tile drainage.

"See to it that a deep enough and large enough outlet is available.

"And keep in mind that in some cases surface drainage or diversion ditches should be considered first, tiling later.

"Keep in mind that on some wet sandy soils and shallow muck soils tiling may not be the proper drainage method.

"Remember that the main purpose of tile drainage is to provide aeration of the soil by removing excess moisture within the soil."

Sisson warns landowners to make sure the drain tile is of high quality. Ask the manufacturer to show the latest laboratory test results. High quality drain tile is strong, dense, free of chips, checks and cracks that would weaken them, is not warped, is straight and is of uniform wall thickness. Either clay or concrete will give satisfactory results under most conditions, Sisson says. The exceptions being that ordinary concrete tile should not be used in muck soils nor in extremely acid mineral soils.

Joining of two tile lines at 90 degree angles is all right, Sisson says, since the amount of extra friction loss causing a reduction of flow is insignificant. Long slanting junctions require more work, more tile and work no better. Manufactured junctions are better than well built junctions made on the job.

Individual tile can be laid too close together, Sisson warns. Water must get into the tile through the gap left between tile, not through the tile walls. In most Indiana soils about an eighth of an inch is the proper joint width. Only in sandy and other unstable soils should a tight fit be used.

Vents or breathers, made by installing a tell in the line, are a good practice to use about every quarter mile on main lines and where there are sudden changes in grade.

A tile line will carry some water even if installed on a flat grade, Sisson says. However the line is more apt to clog with silt. The flattest grade recommended for five or six inch tile is about an inch per 100 feet.

Additional suggestions are given in Extension Circular 458, "Follow These Suggestions for Good Tile Drainage," and Mimeo AE 48, "Indiana Farm Drainage Guide." Both are free to Indiana residents who write to the Agricultural Publications office, A. E. S. Bldg., Purdue University, Lafayette. Or see your Co. agricultural agent.

Hold Class Reunion

Eight members of the 1938 graduating class of Mentone high school, and their families, met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Estep in Warsaw, on Sunday, July 12 for their annual picnic.

The meeting was called to order by the president, Lucille Besson. The minutes of the meeting held last year were reported by the secretary, Betty Goshert.

Dean Bowen, who died recently in Mendon, Michigan was the first member of the class to pass away.

The meeting next year will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Besson, of Fort Wayne. Officers elected for next year were: President, Robert Tucker and secretary, Louise Tucker.

Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Estep and son; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Smith and sons; Mr. and Mrs. Albert Tucker and children; Mr. and Mrs. Zanna Hammer and family; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Tucker and family; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Goshert and daughter and their guests from Pennsylvania, Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Bovard and children and Mrs. Nellie Ross.

Swimming and visiting was enjoyed in the afternoon. All hope to see many more of their school friends next year.

A combination of surface or overflow drainage and sub-surface or tile drainage will give the best and most economical drainage system on most Indiana farms, according to Purdue University agricultural engineers.

Before leaving for vacation, arrange for a neighbor to use your mower and mow at normal or higher height than usual, suggest Purdue University agronomists.

Clover and alfalfa stands can be seriously damaged by wheat straw masses from the combine. Clipping soon after combining and removing all residue material has proved in Purdue University trials to be the most effective management for saving full stands of the legumes.

July is vacation month for people, but not for your lawn.

Provide hogs with plenty of fresh water. Growing-finishing hogs will drink about two lbs. of water for each pound of feed consumed, say Purdue University animal scientists. A sow suckling a large litter of pigs will drink as much as five gallons of water daily.

RAPP LINECROSS LEGHORNS

RAPP LINECROSS LEGHORNS ARE GAINING POPULARITY FASTER THAN ANY OTHER LAYER.

Rapp Leghorn Farm started breeding high-producing White Leghorns in 1922, but 1952 saw the first commercial Linecross Leghorn. Only in 1956 were all Rapp breeding facilities devoted to this profit-building strain cross. Now, after only six years on the market, Rapp Linecross Leghorns are more popular in competitive New Jersey than any other strain of layer.

Five years of glowing reports from New Jersey's commercial producers attracted so much interest from other states that in 1957 Fagan-Rapp Foundation Breeders, Inc., was formed to sell Rapp breeding stock to hatcheries beyond the borders of New Jersey. Today producers throughout the Northeast, in the South-east, the Midwest, and Canada are housing Rapp Linecross Leghorns and glad of it — But before they bought they asked questions

WE ASKED QUESTIONS TOO — The answers to our questions, both from other hatcheries and commercial poultrymen who are using this Linecross, led us to accept distributorship of this rugged layer for Indiana.

YOU, TOO, WILL HAVE QUESTIONS — LET US ANSWER THESE QUESTIONS FOR YOU.

Rotational Grazing Has Merit

Lafayette, Ind.—Many Indiana dairymen are turning rotational grazing of their herds as a means of reducing the summer milk slump, according to G. A. Williams, Purdue University extension dairyman.

United States Department of Agriculture researches indicate that this method is the best of three systems compared. The three systems are conventional rotational grazing, strip grazing and "soiling," in which forage is mechanically harvested daily and fed green to cows in barns or drylots.

Rotational and strip grazing under proper management were equally efficient in forage utilization and significantly better than the soiling system because the grazing systems supported the same number of cows for more days per acre. None of the three methods used experimentally, however, caused a material change in milk production or the liveweight of the test animals.

Largely for these reasons, USDA scientists determined rotational grazing the best of the three methods under conditions of the experiment. They recognized, however, that poor management such as under-grazing of intensive stands of forage, or allowing forage to become too mature for maximum feed value, might give strip grazing and soiling advantages over rotational grazing.

Merits of the three methods were studied on an experimental area at Beltsville, Md., comprising 12 one-acre plots seeded to an orchard grass-Ladino clover mixture. The systems were randomly assigned to 3 plots within each of four blocks of the total pasture area. Manure was applied to the plots used for test of the soiling method to compensate for lack of manure from animals used in testing rotational and strip grazing on other plots.

HOLD TOUR

The Harrison Hustlers 4-H club held a tour of livestock projects Friday, July 10th. The projects visited were Johnny Wentzel, Sonny Nellans, Larry and Barry Greulich, Jim Eaton, Jim Keirn, Janet and Judy Benson, Linda and Diana Blackburn, Lowell and Dennis Gruenewald, Phil and Marty Nelson, Steve Shirey, Lloyd Bowerman, Gale Nellans and Eddie Tridle. Other members who went on the tour were Greg Witham, Stephen Hewlett, Bob Long and Mr. Robert Hewlett, the adult leader.

Swimming and a picnic lunch at Center Lake were enjoyed by the group at the noon hour.

FARMING AROUND

By Mark Welsh

Unborn animals grow at unbelievable rates a short time before birth. For example, a calf makes two-thirds of its growth in the last 60 days. This is a tremendous drain on the mother for materials for bone, muscles and organs. If she has been wisely fed, the bone and tissue-building materials will be stored in her body and given up as the young needs them. But the cow can get only what you feed her—so you have a lot to say about what kind of a calf she delivers.

Mark Welsh

Don't Pay This Tax

Dr. Bryon Shaw, head of USDA's Agricultural Research Service, estimates cost our farmers nearly $2 billion a year in actual death losses and reduced production efficiency. Much of this loss is unnecessary because vaccines can prevent or reduce such threats as anthrax, hog cholera, Newcastle and others while antibiotic feeding protects animals from many more diseases. Malathion and other new insecticides and pesticides from the chemical laboratories can cut millions of dollars from plant losses. Animal and plant diseases, insects, weeds and other pests levy the biggest tax of all—but the smart farmer doesn't have to pay it.

Ever stopped to think how important the weatherman is to modern farmers? In the days before accurate long-range forecasts and almost hourly radio reports, every man was his own weather prophet and a lot of farmers got in trouble by planting before a drouth or haying before a downpour. We moderns rely heavily on those forecasts so we shouldn't grumble when occasionally the elements cross up the weatherman. We'd be in a fine fix if we had to guess the weather ourselves.

WHEAT REFERENDUM THURSDAY, JULY 23

Farmers in Indiana and 38 other states will vote July 23 in a referendum which will determine marketing quotas for the 1960 wheat crop.

John O. Dunbar, Purdue University agricultural economist, says farmers will have these factors to consider in voting: Acreage allotments for 1960, marketing quotas and the announced 1960 support price of $1.81 a bushel.

The national wheat allotment for 1960 has been set at 55 million acres—same as for the 1959 crop and the minimum acreage fixed by law.

All growers who will harvest more than 15 acres of 1960 wheat as grain will be eligible to cast ballots — except those who come under the feed wheat quota exemption.

If two-thirds of the growers who vote approve the quotas, the marketing quotas will be in effect and farmers who exceed their wheat acreage allotments will be subject to penalties on the excess. Growers who comply with allotments will be eligible for price support at 50 percent of parity — about $1.18.

Anyone from around Mentone coming this way, we would be glad to have you stop by.

It is so easy for one to forget about renewing a subscription to a newspaper, as it continues to arrive in a mailbox regularly each week. The News publishers endeavor to send reminders at the time of expiration, but often the work requirements in our printing department are such that this cannot be done.

The address label on your newspaper lists the date on which your subscription expires, and each reader can know this date by checking it occasionally. If the figures "6-1-59" appear on the line with your name, it indicates your subscription expired on June 1, 1959 (sixth month, first day, year 1959).

Your prompt renewal will do much to make our work easier.

RACE TRACK AT MENTONE

Indications are that Mentone is the possessor of a new auto race track. It is located just north of the ball diamond, and is a dirt track. It will be used by the drivers of the midget "midget" racers, commonly referred to as go-carts.

The racers, powered by a very small gasoline motor, usually operate on a one-tenth mile track.

HAS HEART ATTACK

Ike Jefferies, 69, who lives on Road 19 south of Mentone, was taken to the Woodlawn hospital at Rochester early last Sunday morning after suffering a heart attack at his home. He was reported improving today.

Pink Eye of Cattle

Summer and fall are the seasons for pink eye in cattle, reports Dr. F. A. Hall, extension veterinarian at Purdue University. Although principally a warm weather condition, it can occur at any time of the year.

A watery discharge from the corners of the affected eyes with inflammation of the eye lids is the first visible sign of pink eye, according to Dr. Hall. Severe attacks may result in cloudiness followed by ulceration of the eye ball. The pain associated with the condition causes the animal to squint and the fever results in a decreased appetite.

Pink eye is very contagious in cattle, Dr. Hall emphasizes. The germs of the disease can be spread by direct contact with infected animals or indirectly by way of flies, insects and dust. The disease usually appears on a farm after the introduction of feeder cattle or following newly purchased additions to the herd. The disease then spreads rapidly to any susceptible cattle.

Control depends upon the segregation of the newly acquired animals for 10 days or until the danger of infection is passed. If the disease does appear in a herd, the affected animals must be separated and placed in a darkened stable and allowed to graze only at night because light, dust, pollen and insects seem to aggravate the condition.

Chaff or beards of grain in an eye causes symptoms resembling pink eye; therefore, it is necessary to have an accurate diagnosis made to determine the exact condition, followed by proper local treatment under the supervision of a veterinarian.

A National Safety Council survey, according to F. R. Willsey, farm safety specialist at Purdue University, showed approximately 3,000 rural residents die in home accidents every year, and 430,000 others are injured.

ONE OF THE 7 BIG BESTS CHEVROLET GIVES YOU OVER ANY CAR IN ITS FIELD

Take it, not from us, but from official results of this year's Mobilgas Economy Run: Chevy's pennypinching 6 delivers the most miles per gallon in its field. For a pair of these Chevrolet sixes with Powerglide walked away with the first two places in their class, getting the best mpg figure—a whopping 22.38—of any full-size car. And here are more expert, impartial opinions and on-the-record facts backing us up on Chevy's other six bests:

BEST TRADE-IN

Check the figures in any N.A.D.A.* Guide Book. Chevrolet used car prices last year averaged up to $128 higher than comparable models of the "other two."

BEST STYLE

It's the only car of the leading low-priced 3 that's unmistakably modern in every line. "In its price class," says POPULAR SCIENCE magazine, "Chevrolet establishes a new high in daring styling."

BEST BRAKES

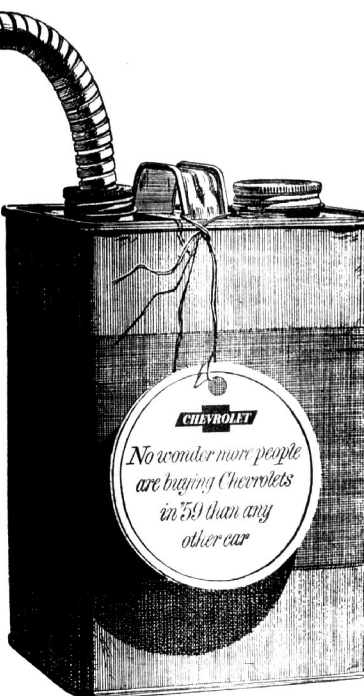

In direct competitive tests of repeated stops from highway speeds, conducted by NASCAR†, Chevrolet out-stopped both of the other leading low-priced cars—and why not: Chevy brakes are far larger, built with bonded linings, to help lengthen brake life by as much as 66%.

BEST ROOM

Official dimensions reported to A.M.A.‡ make this clear. For example, Chevy front seat hip room is up to 5.9 inches wider than comparable cars.

BEST ENGINE

Every motor magazine has given Chevrolet's standard and Corvette V8's unstinted praise. As SPORTS CARS ILLUSTRATED puts it: "Indeed this device is surely the most wonderfully responsive engine available today at any price."

BEST RIDE

MOTOR TREND magazine calls Chevy "... the smoothest, most quiet, softest riding car in its price class." You'll be able to tell this yourself, instantly. And your Chevrolet dealer can tell you about a long list of other advantages besides these 7 big ones!

VACATIONERS ARE ON THE MOVE

For the first time in history, more than 100 million Americans this year are expected to vacation by automobile, according to Curtis F. Proud, director of touring and travel for the Chicago Motor Club.

"Superhighways, record sales of new automobiles, and new travel destinations have sparked the greatest motor vacation travel season in U. S. history," said Proud.

He pointed out that longer vacation trips—in terms of both distance and time—definitely are in vogue this year. There has been a heavy increase in requests for routings to the mountain states and the Pacific Coast, he added.

Proud said that Florida seems on the way toward a record summer season, and that there has been increased interest in motor travel in Mexico, Alaska and the St. Lawrence Seaway area.

"Helping to spur the upswing in vacation travel by automobile is the tremendous popularity of visiting our national parks and the increasing growth of family camping vacations," he said.

Solution to many farm drainage problems depends on neighborhood cooperation, Purdue University agricultural engineers point out. So, be a good neighbor by cooperating on community farm drainage projects.

Purdue University agronomists report that July is too early to sow rye or Dual wheat for fall grazing because of danger of severe rust damage. Better wait until August, they advise.

SOIL MOISTURE LOW MOST PLACES

When does corn suffer most from drought?

Dan Wiersma, Purdue University agronomist, says that time is when corn is tasselling and silking. Research in Western states, where irrigation is used, indicates that for every day corn wilts during this critical period yields will decrease from six to eight bushels per acre.

However, he adds this decrease may not be as severe in Indiana. Wilting prior to tasselling is not as harmful, but it does affect the size of the corn plant and yield.

Mid-day wilting of corn and soybeans has been evident in west central Indiana for several weeks. This means soil moisture is low, Wiersma explains. Soil samples from the Purdue agronomy farm near Lafayette show that essentially all soil moisture has been extracted to a depth of two feet.

Most roots of corn plants extend into the first foot of soil layer, gradually decreasing with depth. The amount of roots in the third foot, where there is still moisture, is enough to keep the plants alive but not sufficient to prevent wilting at mid-day. There is enough water in the fourth and fifth feet of soil, but it is unavailable since the roots have not extended that far, Wiersma adds.

JULY 24 DAIRY DAY EXHIBITS

Exhibits ranging from calves weaned earlier than normal to a flexible plastic pipeline for milking in stall barns will be on display at Purdue University's seventh annual Dairy Day, July 24, at the Purdue Dairy Center, Cherry Lane, West Lafayette.

Some 10 exhibits will be seen at the morning program beginning at 10 o'clock.

NAMED FHA COMMITTEEMAN

Neal M. Carlson, Warsaw, is the new Farmers Home Administration committeeman for this county. He succeeds Emra G. Stookey who has served his full three year term.

The other two committeemen with unexpired terms are Glen E. Walther of Silver Lake and J. Stanley Weaver of Pierceton.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Harman, Tim and Lisa and Mr. and Mrs. Zanna Hammer and family are spending this week on Burt Lake, near Mackinac City, Mich. The Hammers went by auto while Mr. and Mrs. Harman and Lisa were taken up by plane by Artley Cullum Monday, Monday afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Cullum returned to Mentone.

Purdue University poultry specialists recommend clipping the poultry pasture to hold down weeds and encourage new growth of green sprouts.

Ward Farm on Tour

A well-managed stock and grain farm, three miles east and one mile south of Linden, will be visiting on the State Farm Management Tour Tuesday, July 28.

Richard H. Ward will tell the visiting farmers how he operates 646 acres and manages hog and beef cattle enterprises.

Ward, a 1943 graduate of Purdue University, is married to the former Jeanne Muller, a Purdue graduate and one-time home demonstration agent of Carroll county. They have two children, Nancy, four, and Richard, 10 months.

With the aid of one full-time and two part-time men, Ward carries on an extensive crop operation. This year he has 340 acres of corn, 89 acres of oats, 76 acres of pasture and 60 acres of hay.

Ward's crop rotation is six years of corn, one year of small grain and two years of grass.

He picks and shells his corn with a self-propelled combine and uses a complete corn drying system.

A hundred sows farrow twice a year in groups of 50 at a time, making for four farrowings a year—January, February, July and November. The sows farrow 1,600 pigs per year in a new 18 x 76 foot central farrowing house which includes 26 farrowing crates. The house is heated with gas space heaters; it is equipped with home-made 2 x 4 feet concrete electric heat pads placed on each side of the sow to warm the pigs.

Hog equipment also includes a 24 x 96 foot nursery with eight bays 12 feet long with water and creep feeders inside the building. Pigs are with the sows for five weeks but remain in the nursery until they are eight to ten weeks old.

Ward has 177 cattle. He buys 400-pound feeder cattle in the fall, puts them on pasture for 40 to 60 days, follows with a dry lot feeding program of hay and oats, pastures again in the spring of the year and follows with a full feed program. The cattle go to market in August.

The Ward farm will be visited at 9 a. m. At noon, Dr. L. S. Hardin, head of Purdue's Agricultural economics department, will speak at the Fairgrounds in Frankfort. That afternoon the tour will move to the Rothen-berger farm three and one half miles northwest of Frankfort.

An economic outlook banquet will precede the tour at 6:30 p. m. Monday, July 27, at the 4-H Building in Crawfordsville at which J. Carroll Bottum, Purdue agricultural economist, and John Chamberlain, Urbana, Ind., farmer, will speak.

Tickets for the banquet and luncheon can be obtained from Indiana agricultural extension economists departs at Purdue.

Remove Heavy Combined Wheat Straw

Indiana farmers should clip and remove heavy combined wheat or rye straw from young clover and alfalfa stands.

Gilbert P. Walker, Purdue University extension agronomists, points out that leaving the young legumes under a blanket or bunches of combined wheat or rye straw severely damages them.

Early clipping and removing of straw is best for these hay-type legumes and has seldom doubled hay yields the following year, Purdue tests show.

Field mice sometimes damage the new seedlings under heavy mulch before or at the time of clipping for weed control.

Sweet clover is likely to be damaged by clipping, Walker adds. It withstands straw cover and competes with weeds better than the hay-type legumes.

F. R. Willsey, farm safety specialist at Purdue University, says fire losses on American farms have increased steadily since 1940. Figures show the present farm property loss due to fires is more than $152,000,000 yearly.

Farm safety specialist at Purdue University, F. R. Willsey, says more than 12,000 farm persons are killed in accidents each year. More than 5,000 of the fatal accidents involve motor vehicles.

It is human failure—not motor vehicles, machinery or equipment—that is the basic cause of farm accidents, according to F. R. Willsey, farm safety specialist at Purdue University.

Production in many dairy herds drops as much as 50 percent in July and August. If pastures are inadequate, feed silage and hay, say Purdue University dairy scientists. This is more economical than heavy grain feeding.

BANKS INCREASE CREDIT SERVICES TO FARMERS

Indiana banks were serving farmers with more credit than any other institutional group of lenders on January 1 of this year, according to K. A. Riner, Executive Vice President, Farmers State Bank, who represents the Indiana Bankers Association as Kosciusko County Agricultural Banker. During 1958, the state's banks maintained their leadership in agricultural credit

FARMING AROUND

By Mark Welsh

We all know how summer heat sometimes impairs our own efficiency and apparently poultry and livestock are no different.

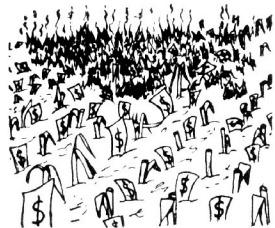

Mark Welsh

According to the University of Maryland, broilers utilize their feed and grow best in about 75 degree temperatures. Other studies indicate cattle and hogs prefer temperatures in the 60-70 degree range. In fact, in some hot areas, air conditioning for animals is paying off in feed savings and greater meat, milk and egg production.

Why Burn Money?

Agricultural bankers shudder when they see grain stubble being burned. They know money is going up in flames. For example, an acre of grain stubble often contains 20 to 40 pounds of nitrogen, 30 or more pounds of potash and 6 to 10 pounds of phosphorus, much of which is lost in the fire.

Moreover, if this stubble is plowed under instead of burned, it decays and forms a spongy mass. On an equal weight basis this decayed organic matter may increase the water-holding capacity of mineral soils more than 20 times. It's a good farmers' method of low-cost irrigation — and good bankers know it, too.

Water is vital to livestock, too. The average dairy cow drinks 12 to 15 gallons a day and a high producer may need as much as 40 gallons. Beef cattle need 5 to 10 gallons a day; a ewe will drink two or more gallons in hot weather; and a sow nursing pigs may need three gallons a day. The body weight of mature animals is near 60 per cent water while eggs are 75 per cent and milk about 87 per cent water. That's pretty dramatic proof of why animals need lots of water all the time... and especially in hot weather.

services.

Based on the eighteenth annual farm lending summary by the Agricultural Commission of the American Bankers Association, at the beginning of the year, Indiana bankers were helping farmers with $184,503,000 in loans—10% more than a year previous. The total included $116,733,000 in production loans and $67,770,000 in agricultural mortgages. On the same date, $129,215,000 in agricultural loans were held by insurance companies; $63,199,000 by Federal Land Banks; $55,609,000 by Production Credit Associations; and $8,638,000 in nonreal estate loans plus $10,566,000 in real estate loans by the Farmers Home Administration. About two-thirds of the production credit extended by leading institutions to Indiana farmers came from banks.

Mr. Riner said that "more and more, the banks in Indiana find that farmers need a new type of credit to help finance the rapid increase in capital requirements. To meet this changing need, banks in Indiana now make larger farm loans, and an increasing amount of agricultural credit is on an intermediate-term repayment basis.

BEAVER DAM 4-H AGRICULTURE CLUB

On July 14, the Beaver Dam 4-H Agr. Club had a meeting at the home of Roger Nellans. The meeting started by looking at Roger's swine and beef projects. Dick Sittler gave a demonstration on grooming a calf for the fair.

The pledges to the 4-H and American flags were led by Dick Harrold and Darrell Valentine. The secretary's report was read by Diana Ballenger and the treasurer's report was read by Jean Swick. Linda Smalley led the group in several songs. The business was discussed about the fair.

Reports were made by the captains of the Health and Safety Teams on "Preventing Accidents."

The meeting was adjourned after recreation and refreshments.

Many Farm Electrical Accidents

Electrical accidents are a major threat to the American farm.

With more and more of the nation's farms being electrified new problems are cropping up.

Improper installation of electrical equipment, careless use of electrical apparatus and defective power machines add up to make electricity on the farm a hazard—if it is abused.

F. R. Willsey, farm safety specialist at Purdue University says National Safety Council figures show that each year nearly 150 farm deaths are caused by electrical accident.

The Council estimates an additional 5,000 rural residents are injured by accidental contact with electricity.

Unsafe practices are the leading cause of these accidents, according to Willsey. Studies show defective equipment and working under hazardous conditions also contribute to the increasing number of accidents.

The Council, Willsey says, lists these suggestions for cutting down electrical accidents: Have extinguishers for electrical fires handy and in working condition at all times.

Be sure all electrical equipment is installed by a trained electrician and properly maintained.

Be adequately protected in case lightning strikes. And learn what precautions to take during an electrical storm.

Keep motors around the farm clean and in proper working order.

See that electrical appliances are properly grounded and that circuits are not overloaded.

Above all, don't take chances with electricity.

More Accidents On Tractors

Should a boy be allowed to drive a tractor?"

This is a problem which has been bothering farm safety experts for some time.

A report from the National Safety Council shows that each year more fatal tractor accidents occur in the 10-14 age group than any other age category.

"This seems to point up the fact that young people who do not know how to handle tractors are being allowed to operate them," says F. R. Willsey, farm safety specialist at Purdue University.

"If it is absolutely necessary for a youth to operate a tractor, he should be thorough in training in all phases of tractor safety before he takes over the controls," Willsey warns.

"A teenager, especially one who operates a tractor for the first time, should be aware of the need for regular safety inspections, should know the proper way to handle a tractor in any situation or on any type of road, and should use extreme caution at all times," Willsey adds.

Willsey says careless use and ignorance are responsible for most tractor accidents. "Too many chances are taken."

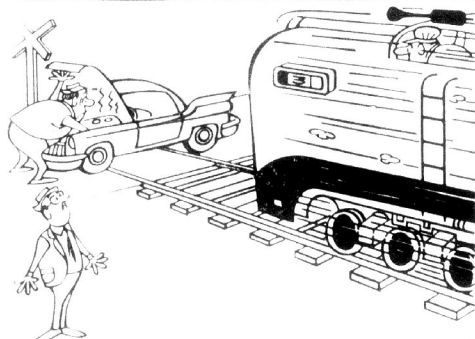

One of the biggest chances taken when more than one person rides a tractor is having just invited trouble.

Tractors are not for one person to operate, he says.

and the only way farm persons can lick the rising tractor accident rate is to use every safety precaution available."

Willsey says the majority of those killed in tractor accidents last year was riding a tractor, not operating one—just along for the ride.

A farmer recently said, "I don't rather hear a child cry because he was refused a tractor ride, than to hear him cry because he got hurt riding one."

In general, accidents with farm machinery are decreasing, the National Safety Council reports, but tractor accidents are on the upswing.

"It is alarming," Willsey says

Purdue University's farm safety specialist F. R. Willsey, says that according to the National Farm Safety Council, there are more than 50,000 tractor accidents annually.

Purdue University animal scientists recommend cooling sows and finishing hogs with shade and a mist-type spraying system. Nozzles for the system should deliver a gallon of water an hour at about 40 pounds of pressure.

Indiana Classic Takes Honors

Back home in Indiana, W. A. Sudlow and his wife, Anna, of Syracuse, stand beside the 1937 Cord Model 812 that brought them highest honors at the recent Midwest Grand Classic of the Classic Car Club of America at Greenfield Village in Dearborn, Mich. Competing in the Club's Senior Division, the Indiana-built car scored 99.25 points and was bested for top national honors only by a perfect 100 points given at the Western Grand Classic to a 1930 duPont owned by Jack B. Nethercutt, Los Angeles, Calif. The Cord was made between 1929 and 1937 at Auburn. A Classic Car, according to club definition, represents the finest in craftsmanship during 1925-42, considered the golden era of automobile design. The Greenfield Village meet brought together nearly a hundred cars of that period.

FARMING AROUND

By Mark Welsh

Farming is dangerous. According to the National Safety Council, one out of every 21 farm residents suffered an accidental injury in 1957. The death rate among farm residents that year was 57.1 per 100,000, a figure which was topped only by the hazardous mining and construction industries. Certainly a high accident rate like that warrants having a well-stocked emergency medical supply cabinet on hand and enough first aid know-how to do the necessary things until the doctor arrives. It's also comforting to have a paid up insurance policy.

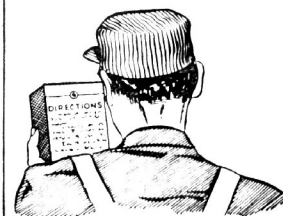

Mark Welsh

Speaking of medicine chests, researchers have come up with a handy gadget to take along on hunting trips. It's an aerosol spray which can be used on dogs to prevent infection from cuts and bruises suffered during hunting trips. Aureomycin chlorotetracycline is the active agent which protects against infection and the spray works just as well on all kinds of livestock which incur wire cuts, sores, fight wounds and other superficial injuries around the farm. The only instruction for use is the familiar "shake well before using."

Read the Label First

If you're like me, you probably have trouble pronouncing some of the jaw-busting technical names printed on the containers of various farm chemicals sold these days. But don't worry—pronouncing them is not nearly as important as knowing how to use them. By taking a few extra minutes to read the directions you'll obtain maximum benefit from the product and protect yourself against mistakes which could be costly.

Larger Flocks; More Profit

Cost of producing a dozen eggs declines sharply as flock size increases up to 800 birds, a recent Purdue University study reveals. Beyond this point, cost advantages from increasing size are considerably smaller.

Purdue agricultural economists and poultry scientists, in research into the relationship between laying flock size and production costs on 47 northeastern Indiana poultry farms, considered all costs, including depreciation and assumed $2 an hour labor cost.

They report that average costs decline from 57 cents per dozen eggs produced for flocks under 250 birds to 38 cents for flocks numbering about 800 birds. However, as flocks increase beyond this number, additional cost savings per dozen eggs become relatively small.

But don't neglect small cost advantages as flock size increases beyond 800 birds, the staff members warn poultrymen. Even small savings per dozen eggs amount to considerable savings when large volume is involved.

FLOWER EXHIBIT AT WABASH

Some 500 exhibits will be on display at the 29th annual exhibition of the Indiana Gladiolus Society and the Wabash Gladiolus Festival, Aug. 8-9, at Wabash, according to C. E. Hoxsie, Purdue University horticulturist and society president.

Approximately 100 growers are expected to display the exhibits in the air-conditioned Honeywell Memorial Center. Commercial and amateur growers, as well as juniors (under 18 years of age) will compete for awards.

All entries must be staged and ready for judging not later than 11 a. m. CDT, Aug. 8, Hoxsie said.

Awards will be announced at the annual banquet, starting at 6:30 p. m., Aug. 8 in the Memorial Center. Top achievement awards are the perpetual awards by the Indiana Gladiolus Society for most points in the two-day show and the C. E. Troyer trophy for the most points. The Troyer trophy is an annual award.

The public is invited to the show, which will be managed by Arthur Goodman, Marion, society treasurer. Visiting hours will be 2 p. m. until 10:30 p. m., CDT, Saturday, Aug. 8, and 1 p. m. to 5 p. m. Sunday, Aug. 9.

Early Weaning Of Calves

Purdue University dairy calves fed rations containing chopped hay developed larger rumens (hay stomachs)—a desirable effect—than those receiving no hay. Hoosier dairymen heard today.

Carl Noller, Purdue dairy scientist, reporting on early weaning experiments at Purdue's Dairy Day, said that by including hay in starter rations calves became accustomed to eating roughages earlier and ate more hay than normal for a young calf.

Some 40 calves, many of which will go into the University's dairy herd as replacements, were used in the experiments.
Early weaning means discontinuing bucket feeding of milk earlier than usual. Generally, dairymen feed calves milk a minimum of 30 days.

The Purdue experiments showed that calves could be weaned satisfactorily at 21 and 28 days of age, Noller said.

Those weaned at 21 days received about 50 pounds of whole milk, and seven and one half pounds of dry milk replacer mixed with water. In addition, they had free choice access to a calf starter containing about one-third chopped hay.

Heifers weaned at 28 days were fed about 50 pounds whole milk, plus 12 pounds dry replacer.
A calf starter and hay, free choice, were also fed.

Calves fed under both systems gained an average of about 1.1 pounds a day, Noller said.
He added that this was satisfactory for Holstein calves.

The Purdue dairy scientist asserted that the ability of a calf to utilize hay is dependent on a well-developed rumen. Large amounts of milk interfere with rumen development and reduce forage consumption. Hay and grain, however, stimulate rumen development, he added.

Beef Cattle Outlook Steady

Indiana cattle feeders can look for about steady prices for the next two months, according to M. Paul Mitchell, Purdue University agricultural economist.

Heavy fed cattle are being discriminated against in the market place, he adds, concluding "it seems advisable to sell your cattle as soon as they are finished for their grade."

If marketings of cattle increase, prices of lower grades could weaken somewhat. Cattle feeders too will find increased competition for their product from cheaper pork.

Mitchell says there is no urgency to contract for purchase of feeder animals.

"The effect on prices of some anticipated increase in supplies of feeder cattle will be largely offset by the continued favorable feed ratio for cattle and the bumper feed crop in prospect," observes Mitchell. "Therefore, no price change of consequence is expected unless July and August weather conditions cause range feed conditions in the West to deteriorate sharply."

The number of cattle on feed is at a record level for July 1. Indiana has about three percent more than a year ago. Movement of feeder cattle this fall will not only be larger this year than last, but also somewhat earlier.

Edema Disease Threat In Pigs

Spring farrowed pigs are now at the age when edema disease is a serious threat. Dr. F. A. Hall, extension veterinarian at Purdue University, says pigs eight to 12 weeks old are the most apt to be affected by the disease. In the mid-West, edema disease is probably the foremost cause of death losses among weaned pigs.

Symptoms can appear suddenly and may include a staggering gait, swollen eyelids and paralysis. Often the affected pig stands on its knees, maintaining its balance on the hind legs. The trouble usually stops in about 10 days after the appearance of the disease in a herd.

Veterinarians can help to reduce death losses if treatment is started early. Dr. Hall cautions swine raisers to keep in mind that radical changes in feeding tends to increase the danger of edema disease. Any alterations in rations should be made gradually, he adds.

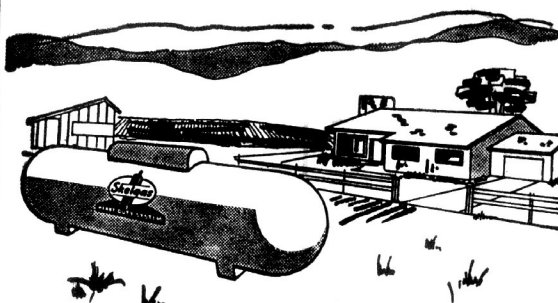

Mrs. Dewey O. Kesler and daughters Lorraine and Sharon of South Bend, are spending a few days at the home of her brother, Mr. and Mrs. Rea H. Ward.
