COUNTERPOINT

By The Editor's Wife

Received an interesting letter from Mrs. Leonard Salsbury of Fulton, New York. She is the former Eunice Bush, and spent her early years in Mentone. Eunice was a teenager when we first met her, and we remember her ready wit, charming smile, and bright hair.

We are printing a part of her letter so that you, too, may share in their pride.

Their son, Leonard D., has been accepted at the Air Force Academy at Colorado Springs. He graduated from Mexico Academy and Central School this June and received the Bosch and Lomb Scientific Award for outstanding academic achievement, good character, and superior intellectual promise in the field of science. He won a Regents Scholarship and was fourth highest in Oswego County. He was fourth highest in his class. During his senior year he was president of the Honor Society, and participated in sports and extra-curricular activities.

Congratulations! We're happy for you.

Eunice goes on to say that her husband has been in France since last November serving with the 138th Air Division, which gives her the full responsibility of caring for the five children.

Write again, Eunice. It was good to hear from you.

Mrs. Fowler wrote from Grand Rapids to say that her leg is getting stronger but she is still using the walker.

A card from Doc and Arleida Wilson at Anchorage, Alaska, says they had some bad weather on their flight which delayed them 2 days, but that they had a beautiful trip—30 hours flying time.

The temperature was 70 degrees during the day and down to 50 and 60 degrees at night, except it doesn't seem like night with the 24 hours of daylight.

Have enjoyed the splendid sight of the thriving well-kept garden of my neighbors, the Leslies, across the street.

Had my "once a year mess" of baby beets and greens from Tom and Jody's garden. (Yes, this is another item the editor doesn't care for.)

This rating is based on the all-day class activities, FFA activities, shop facilities, adult and young farmer classes. The township will be reimbursed approximately $2000 for this rating.

The local vocational agriculture instructor is Morris Bitzer.

NEW SON

Mr. and Mrs. John Ault are the parents of a son, Troy Lane, weighing 5 lbs. 12 oz., born June 27 at the Woodlawn Hospital. Mrs. Ault is the former Mary Golden.

MRS. MEREDITH
DIES TUESDAY

Mrs. Bertha L. Meredith, 84, of Route 1, Mentone, died Tuesday at 3:50 a. m. in her home.

Mrs. Meredith, who had resided in the Akron and Mentone communities most of her life, was born in Atwater, O., on April 22, 1878, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Levi Strong. She married Charles Meredith, who died on Jan. 3, 1961. Mrs. Meredith was a member of the Mentone Methodist Church.

Surviving are a foster daughter, Mrs. Ethel Blackburn, of Route 1, Mentone; and two sisters, Mrs. Louise Lehman, of Marion, and Mrs. Flo Lyle, of South Bend.

Services will be held Thursday at 2 p.m. in the Reed funeral home with Rev. Glenn Campton officiating. Burial will be in the Mentone cemetery.

(From The American Rifleman)

Independence Day is a day for celebration and a day for soul-searching. It is a time for present day American citizens to re-evaluate the fundamentals which dominated the minds of our forefathers when they gave the Declaration of Independence to the peoples of the world on July 4, 1776, in Philadelphia.

The American Declaration of Independence was a declaration of the principles of a form of government in which human dignity and freedom of the individual is recognized as the only foundation upon which the authority of sovereign power of the state properly can rest. It was a declaration that no proper government could exist except by the consent of the governed. The real heart of these principles was eloquently stated in two short sentences:

"We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable Rights, that among these are Life, Liberty, and the pursuit of Happiness. That to secure these rights, Governments are instituted among Men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed."

No document in modern history so stimulated the morale of the peoples of the world. It was this declaration of the independence of the citizen, backed by the displayed willingness to fight for that principle, which re-lit the long-extinguished torch beckoning men to freedom. It inspired and encouraged the whole revolutionary movement of the 19th Century.

GRANDDAUGHTER IS MARRIED

The marriage of Miss Bonnie Sue Cowen, granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Whetstone, Mentone, and Roger Sherk took place at 7:30 p.m., Saturday, June 23, in the Evangelical United Brethren Church, Teegarden. The Rev. Donald Ruhl officiated at the double ring ceremony.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Willis Cowen of R.R. 2, Plymouth, and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Dipert, of R.R. 1, Walkerton.

Entering on the arm of her father, Miss Cowen was attired in a floor length gown fashioned of Chantilly lace over white satin. The moded bodice ended in a slight downward point at the waistline with long sleeves having bridal points over the wrists and with a scalloped Sabrina neckline. Worn with her gown was a fingertip veil of silk illusion which was caught to a miniature crown of hearts accented with seed pearls and sequins which was made by her grandmother, Mrs. Dewey Whetstone. She carried a white Bible with a corsage of white carnations and pink sweetheart roses.

The ceremony was read in an atmosphere of candlelight, the altar was decorated with flowers and baskets of white gladioli, pink Majestic daisies, palms and candelabra with window candles. White satin bows accented with lillies of the valley marked the pews.

Music was provided by Les Grebe, Bremen, organist and Mrs. Donald Ruhl, vocalist. Mrs. Ruhl sang "Because", "Always", and as the couple knelt at the altar, she sang "The Wedding Prayer." Mrs. Les Grebe of Bremen, was the matron of honor and Miss Bea Walsh of Mentone, cousin of the bride, was bride-maid. They were attired in dresses of pastel pink. The matron of honor's dress was a street length dress of embroidered silk organza over taffeta with short scalloped sleeves and modified scalloped neckline accented by the moded bodice. The overskirt of organza formed an apron effect. The bridesmaid's dress was of silk organza and was street length. It had a jacket of lace. Each carried a colonial bouquet of pink and white carnations.

The flower girl was Gina Carbeiner of R.R. 2, Plymouth. She was dressed in a pink silk organza lace dress. She carried a basket of red rose petals. The ring bearer was Kim Grindle of Warsaw, cousin of the bride.

Best man was Richard Bake, cousin of the bridegroom, of Bremen. Groomsman was Dewey Cowen, Plymouth, brother of the bride. Ushers were Robert Ruff of Walkerton and Dewey Cowen.

For the wedding of her daughter, Mrs. Cowen chose a laven-dar lace ensemble with white accessories. The bridegroom's mother wore a brown and white check dress with white accessories. Corsages of pink and white carnations were worn by both mothers.

A reception for 150 guests was held in the lounge of the Farmer's State Bank, LaPaz.

Miss Becky Dipert, Walkerton, registered the guests at the church. The Misses Gloria Pogadinski, Dinah Lowry and Regina Dipert opened the gifts.

Upon their return home from a five-day wedding trip to southern Indiana and Kentucky, the newlyweds will reside at R.R. 3, Bremen. For traveling, the bride wore a white eyelet dress and the corsage from her bridal bouquet.

Mr. and Mrs. Sherk are both graduates of Tyner high school. The bridegroom is employed by Don Andrews, of R. R. 3, Bremen.

CANCER CURES CLIMB IN U.S.

Cancer will afflict one of every four Americans during his lifetime. In 1962 alone some 520,000 people in the U. S. will discover they have the disease, reports the American Cancer Society. The death rate during the year will climb to 300,000. But, these discouraging figures do not reflect the progress being made in the battle against cancer, the society says. Improved detection techniques, for example, have resulted in cures for 1.2 million Americans — people who are alive and well five years after the disease was diagnosed and treated. Doctors believe that another 800,000 to 900,000 will join this group in the next five years.

An antidote for overdoses of sleeping pills, alcohol or morphine has been reported by Dr. Carl D. Lunsford of the American Chemical Society. Lunsford says the drug—labeled "AHR-619"—has been tested successfully on animals and is ready for tryouts on humans. A firefighting suit made for the U. S. Army from aluminum and paper enables the wearer to stand within two feet of a 3,000-degree-F. heat without being burned. A missile whistle made up of five musical rods has been developed to play a swan song in space. Should a flight go awry, a special combination of tones transmitted from the ground would cause the rods to vibrate, triggering an explosive to destroy the missile.

Artificially enriching a greenhouse atmosphere with carbon dioxide stimulates plant growth, reports Cardox, a major producer of the versatile chemical. Tests indicate a further benefit from the practice. Since injecting CO₂ directly into the greenhouse atmosphere reduces the need for ventilation to draw it in from the outside, heating costs are cut substantially.

Busiest airports in the U. S. in 1961, reports the Federal Aviation Agency, were Los Angeles International Airport (324,993 lands and takeoffs), Chicago O'Hare (318,526), Miami International (310,526), Washington National (297,082) and New York International (290,134). Chicago's Midway Airport, formerly perennial leader, dropped to 12th among the 254 airports listed with 249,869 landings and takeoffs. Neutrons by the pound would be a bit steep. Euratom estimates the price at somewhere between $750,000 and $2.5 million a gram.

While defense budgets climb alarmingly in the rest of the world, Andorra has slashed her 1962 armaments outlay by 13 per cent — from $5.75 to $5.00. The tiny republic (pop. 5,664)

Feeding The Dairy Herd

Butterfat tests for most herds average somewhat lower during the summer than other seasons of the year. Sam Gregory, extension dairyman at Purdue University, says many factors contribute, such as hot, humid weather and flies as well as dietary factors, such as lush green chop or pasture, limited roughage and liberal grain feeding.

No individual can do much about the weather but dairymen can control the feed. If a cow is to maintain normal fat test during the summer, she must receive in her diet the "raw material" for making fat. This "raw material" is roughage or fiber but not all feeds we normally think of as fibrous will do this. A cow could receive all of the energy, protein, minerals, and vitamins she needs from pasture and grain or other concentrates. However, if she is on good pasture or green chop she may not receive enough of the right kind of fiber to maintain a "normal" fat test. It may take at least ten pounds of hay per cow per day to maintain fat tests under some conditions. In general, hay of average quality furnishes more fiber than good quality hay.

Gregory points out that average quality hay is low in energy. Unless more grain is fed with average hay than with good hay less milk will be produced. If you are having a serious fat test problem, don't blame the cows. Consider ways of getting cows to eat more hay and grain.

"Dairymen should always remember that good quality forage will always produce more milk per pound of dry matter than average quality forage in summer or winter," Gregory points out, and "forage plants bloom to produce seed not milk."

State Irrigation Tour July 26

An Indiana irrigation field day and tour will be held July 26 in Elkhart county. Four farms on which different crops are irrigated and various kinds of irrigation equipment are in use will be visited.

The 15-mile tour, starting at 9 a. m., will begin at the Max and Bob Kercher 180-acre orchard south of Goshen at the junction of State Road 15 and County Road 38.

Other farms on the tour include those of Ed. Swartzendruber, who irrigates 90 acres of corn; Bill Robinson, who has an intensified irrigated vegetable crop operation, and Richard Barler. Bob Lutes, operator of the Barler farm, irrigates 120 acres of corn with giant sprinklers. Corn variety and fertilizer demonstration plots also will be viewed at the Barler farm.

Lunch will be served at the Elkhart county fairgrounds at Goshen. Irrigation equipment will be displayed there.

At the afternoon program at the fairgrounds, James Newman, Purdue University agricultural climatologist, will discuss "Scheduling Farm Operations to Fit Rainfall Patterns."

Then the operators of the four farms visited in the morning will tell about their irrigation methods. Dan Wiersma, Purdue extension agronomist; Don Sisson, Purdue extension agricultural engineer, and other Purdue staff members will assist in the panel discussion. Clay Cundiff, assistant Elkhart county agent, is in charge of the field day.

CATS ALSO IN "NO ROAM" STATE LAW

Fort Wayne Humane Shelter officials confessed surprise recently on discovering that it is, after all, illegal to allow a cat to run at large.

The law against dogs running at large is well known, but Manager Edward K. Mayfield said shelter personnel for years had advised callers that there was no law covering cats.

Leafing through a legal summary for city officials, he discovered that the 1951 Legislature adopted a law prohibiting all domestic animals from being allowed to run at large.

A broad definition was given for "domestic animals" in the law, and includes not only cats but birds, poultry, and all farm animals.

The law also has teeth: Second offenders can be punished by as much as a $1,000 fine and six months imprisonment.

Marathon Driving A Deadly Enemy

Marathon driving is a deadly enemy of the vacationing motorist, cautioned J. J. Cavanagh, president of the Chicago Motor club.

"Many motorists, traveling on limited time and financial resources, try to pack the maximum amount of driving into their vacation," he said. "This greatly increases the chance for a traffic accident."

He pointed out that the driver who tries to set an endurance record on his vacation trip runs the risk of extreme fatigue which reduces alertness and reaction time.

He offered the following safety tips for those planning a motoring vacation:

Start your daily trip early in the morning so that you can stop early. It's a safe rule not to drive more than seven hours a day. Longer driving stints are dangerous.

During the trip, stop approximately every two hours for rest and refreshment. This helps you maintain your driving efficiency.

If more than one passenger in your car can drive, take regular turns behind the wheel.

To avoid drowsiness and highway hypnosis—constant threats on long trips—talk with others in the car or listen to snappy music on the car radio. Also, avoid heavy meals during your trip.

Always let moderation be your guide. Remember, it's better to cover a few miles on your trip and return home safe and sound.

Hog Farm On July 24 Tour

The Rabin Pullin swine farm, four miles north and one mile east of Rensselaer, will be viewed on the State Farm Management tour Tuesday, July 24, at 9:30 a.m., according to Purdue University agricultural economists and officials of the State Farm Management Association.

This 400-acre farm features a farrowing-finishing swine program that produced 173 litters of pigs in 1961 for a total of 1483 pigs weaned and 1334 head marketed. The 1962 pig crop is expected to exceed 1800 head. This pork producing farm program has increased its production more than 100 per cent since 1953 when 82 litters were farrowed, on a two litter system. Present schedule now includes eight farrowing a year; January, February, March, July, August, September, November and December.

Pullin raises his own breeding stock with white sows and gilts and york males.

The cropping program this year includes 177 acres for corn, 29 acres for soybeans and 25 acres for wheat. Corn crop yields average from 75 to 90 bushels per acre.

Rabin Pullin and his wife, Janet, have lived on the farm since 1947. They have four daughters, Lorene 16, Vicki 5, Linda 12, and Ann 3. Two hundred acres have been in the family for years, and 200 acres were acquired in 1952.

A building 31 x 56 is used for farrowing in addition to eight 2-acre lots located in the woods. Each lot in the woods is limited to 10 sows. Pullin states that farrowing in the open lots is less expensive, however, he says that death loss is greater—as high as 25 per cent.

Other swine equipment on the farm includes a nursery, 17 x 96, and an electric powered feed grinding-mixing system. The home made feed ration includes soybean meal, vitamins, antibiotics, minerals and ground corn. Feed is transported to feeding areas in an auger-wagon. Pigs are fed in small lots with a 70 head capacity. Pull together houses in these lots provide shade and shelter. Self feeders are used for limited time for sows before farrowing.

Weight of the hogs is the determining factor as to the time for marketing. Experience has proven that a weight of 210 pounds is the best time for marketing. Hogs are sold monthly direct to packers on a local basis.

The Fair Oaks farm, 11 miles southwest of DeMotte or 18 miles northwest of Rensselaer, will be visited on Monday afternoon, July 23, at 3:30 p.m. Then at 6:30 p.m. an outlook banquet will be held at the cafeteria at St. Joseph College in Rensselaer.

Tuesday's luncheon will be served at the Fair Oaks school at 11:30 a.m.

Overnight accommodations will be available for tour members at St. Joseph College.

Tickets for the banquet and luncheon are available at county extension offices or from F. V. Smith, agricultural economics department, Purdue University, Lafayette, Ind.

Tuesday afternoon two farms will be visited—the DeKock farm, six miles south and one mile west of DeMotte, and the Grow Farms and Feed Lots, four miles north and one mile west of Rensselaer.

Prune Shrubs

One of the most important steps toward having beautiful shrubs is proper pruning. Purdue University extension horticulturists say pruning can make a tremendous difference in the appearance of shrubs.

The horticulturists say pruning does several things. For example it renews shrubs, keeps them young and vigorous and increases bloom.

Shrubs to prune now are forsythia, lilacs, Highbush cranberry and the spireas. The general rule is to prune shrubs after they have finished blooming.

To prune shrubs properly, remove one-fifth to one-third of the old stems at ground level. Prune the tips back to side shoots, don't leave stubs, always preserve the natural growth of the shrub.

A word of caution, this pruning applies to old-type lilacs. The new hybrids need almost no pruning at all, except for removing dried flowers or seed pods.

Whatever pruning is done, the horticulturists advise, never cut shrubs off even at the top like a flat-top haircut. This makes them look worse, and they'll grow poorly.

During an electrical storm, avoid being too close to electric circuits, lightning conductors, fireplaces, screened doors and windows, and any other metal projection extending through a wall or roof, say farm safety specialists at Purdue University. If you are out of doors, keep away from lone trees and wire fences.

NEWS NOTES

from our

County Agent

DONALD E. FRANTZ

One of the newer trends in hay making is to make a low moisture hay silage. This practice has been growing rapidly in the past five or six years and those who use it, like it real well. There are some advantages in making it this way and one is that some of the risk of drying time is removed and losses are reduced. The bad odors of the old wet, grass silage are not present when it has been wilted down to a 40-60 percent moisture.

Several other things make this an attractive way to store hay and one is that livestock like it and do well on it. Also the problem of freezing is reduced and it permits better use of automation than does dry hay or wet silage.

This trend looks like it is here to stay and any type of good upright silo can be used. It doesn't work well in bunker or trench silos or in stacks because it is impossible to get all the air out.

This is not an entirely new idea in haymaking. It has been a common practice in Italy for hundreds of years. There was a bulletin published in 1892 in this country describing long-wilted timothy and alfalfa silage but we didn't have the power then.

Not everyone is going to be equally satisfied with low moisture silage. A lot of it will be made too late and the quality just won't be there. There are other things that can go wrong, too, but those who have done it say there are three things that are important.

They say to cut it early, wilt it and exclude the air when storing. In order to get the air out they recommend that we chop short, distribute evenly, fill the silo fast and cover the top.

When figuring your soil fertility program, keep this fact in mind. A big alfalfa crop will remove as much potash as five or six corn crops of 100 bushels per acre. Alfalfa is not a soil builder insofar as potash is concerned. It will add nitrogen and it will send roots through the plow sole and get potash from a wider range than corn will. The heavy drain in potash is probably one cause of disappointment in corn yields following alfalfa in some cases.

* * *

There are just two materials approved by the Pure Food and Drug Administration for use in spraying grain bins for wheat storage. They are Methoxychlor and Malathion. Methoxychlor, 25% emulsion, can be mixed with water at the rate of 1 part to 9 parts of water and Malathion, 57% emulsion, can be mixed with water at the rate of 3 ounces per gallon of water. Bins should be sprayed to the point of run-off.

* * *

There are 19 youth camps in this county with facilities for a total of about 3,600 youngsters. You might figure out how many people these camps bring into the county in the camping season.

* * *

The total amount of food produced in this country in 1952 would not be enough to go around in 1962. The amount we produced this year, if held at a steady rate for 10 more years, would be inadequate in 1972. It is the accumulation of these one and two percent surpluses a year that have caused all the trouble. It is a serious problem but suppose we had a two percent shortage each year for ten years. It sure would be nice if everything always worked out perfect, but in the case of food production, it seldom does.

Mastitis control depends more upon correct management procedures than upon treatment, advise Purdue University veterinarians. Dairymen should take every precaution to prevent the cause and spread of the disease; milking the clean cows first and any suspicious or known infected cows last.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of our Daughter and Sister, Audrey Miller, who left us four years ago on July 5th, 1958.

Do not ask us if we miss Audrey—there is such a vacant place. Oft we think we hear her calling and see her sweet gentle smiling face. Days of sadness still come over us and tears in silence flow. God gives us Grace and courage to meet each day, as these four long years have passed, but as long as life and memory last we will remember her beautiful life and faith in God.

Mr. and Mrs. Buddy Miller and Family.

THANK YOU

Heartfelt thanks to so many friends for their prayers, cards, letters and other thoughtful remembrances during my stay in the hospital.

NEWS? Ph. ELmwood 3-3985

COUNTERPOINT. Continued

A friend loaned us a copy of the speech "Losing Our Freedoms By Installments", by Ronald Reagan. This speech was broadcast on WMT Radio on Nov. 26, 1961 and again, by popular request, on Dec. 10, 1961.

We wish that everyone might read or hear the complete text. In honor of Independence Day, we wish to quote from the speech.

"James Russell Lowell, as Minister to England, was asked how long he thought our Republic would endure. He answered that our Republic would endure as long as the people kept the ideas of the men who founded it.

"And what were those ideas? The founding fathers—that little band of men so advanced beyond their time the world has never seen their like since—created a government based on the theory that you and I have the God-given right and ability to determine our own destiny. Here took place the only revolution in all history that didn't just exchange one set of rules for another. They shaped a government, bound it with a constitution, and said its only function was to be a watchdog over man's freedom. They never planned that it should become a cow to be milked.

"Here for the first time the individual genius of man—every man—was unleashed. Six per cent of the world's population on 7 per cent of the earth's land surface created and owns more than 50 per cent of the world's wealth, and that wealth has been distributed more widely among our people than in any other society since time began.

There were no fringe benefits at Valley Forge. The West was won without an area redevelopment program.

Now you and I must answer once again whether life is so dear and peace so sweet as to be purchased at the price of chains and slavery. If we are unwilling to pledge our lives, our efforts, and our sacred honor, then we must one day spend our sunset years telling our children what it was once like in America when men were free."

We enjoyed this—

A scoutmaster, noticing that his recruits were having difficulties organizing their first cook-out, asked whether they had forgotten anything.

"Yes," replied one. "My Mommy."

FUNDAMENTALS OF INDEPENDENCE, Cont'd.

During the Revolutionary period, the people of America did not have a cohesive political organism, but they did have mutual desires and mutual purposes to throw off arbitrary power and establish a government that would be responsive to the individual citizens—to the consent of the governed. Today, the people of America do have a cohesive political organism, but there is a growing tendency to ignore or to take for granted the fundamentals of independence. One of the great needs of the day is a knowledge and appreciation of the fundamental rights and responsibilities of American citizenship.

The "unalienable rights" of life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness are not tangible things. They are a creation of the mind and they exist only in the individual's determination to achieve them. The basic rights proclaimed by our forefathers and guaranteed to our people in the Constitution of the United States of America, if they are to be enjoyed, must be cherished and protected and they also must be earned.

It will take a new appreciation of the basic principles of freedom for our people to get back to pioneering individualism and to maintain the solidarity of our nation. To do this will require a courage which is the equivalent of the courage of America's pioneers. It will require sacrificial devotion, spiritual and intellectual conviction, and a genuine respect for the dignity of the individual. The individual, in turn, must recognize and accept his responsibility as a person, as a member of his family, as a part of his community and as a citizen of a prosperous and stable nation. People are the essential element of any nation and what the people are, that nation will be. These are the fundamentals of independence.

Refreshments of cake, ice cream, and coffee were served.

Movie pictures were taken during the evening for future viewing.

RETURN FROM ALASKAN FLIGHT

Dr. and Mrs. Wymond Wilson returned to Mentone Monday after 10,000 miles of flying to and from Alaska, where the attended a convention of the Flying Physicians Association held at Anchorage. Needless to say, the Wilsons experienced some unusual things during their three-week trip. The weather—almost everywhere they went—was not good for flying.

Some of the flying doctors assembled at Great Falls, Montana for the first leg of their flight to Edmonton, Canada where other planes joined the group, and the Canadian officials briefed all of them on wilderness flying. They left there June 20th and a 7-hour flight brought them to Whitehorse in the Yukon returned to Mentone Monday afternoon where they spent some time old gold oar boats.

On the next leg to Anchorage only 16 of the 40 airplanes reached Northway where there was housing for the ladies but the men took to the sleeping bags. The other 24 planes and their passengers were down in any possible landing area because of bad weather. Some of the places had no housing and in one instance the passengers in the plane doubled the population of the place. In another place nine people marooned by washed out bridges while on a motor trip, joined the group, and also two men who had been without food for 16 days walked in. Four in a plane had crashed in the mountains and the other two had taken the food and started out to find help.

After two days at the convention in Anchorage, trips were made to Mount McKinley, McKinley Park, Fairbanks, and a real treat was a king crab dinner at Seldonia, a tiny fishing village. "Doc" said they flew back to Anchorage and landed at midnight, but that was no problem as the sun was only below the horizon about 30 minutes each night.

The planes began the home trip June 28th, but weather continued to be uncooperative.

Of the 40 planes, all made the trip without mishap or injury to plane or passenger.

CALENDAR

Special meeting of Merry 4-H'ers Tuesday, July 17, 7:00 to 8:00 p.m. in the Mentone Home Ec. room. Mothers are welcome.

COUNTERPOINT

By The Editor's Wife

Here is a word of appreciation for the driver of the Home Furniture Mart truck who brought his vehicle to a complete stop and tooted his horn to give a squirrel time to get off the highway (and up a tree in nothing flat).

While I'm on the topic of "appreciation," have another word to say. Many, many of us who live along the highways would so much appreciate it if those drivers who haul corn cobs would cover their loads. Corn husks can litter a yard in short time and are difficult to pick up.

I don't know, and don't want to know, who these drivers are—I am not complaining about them—just the thing they are doing, so drivers, if you want a big vote of appreciation, please cover those corn cobs.

It is a very heartening note to learn that hundreds of letters and telegrams have poured into the Supreme Court building since the recent ruling of official prayers in public schools. It is the largest in the Court's history.

Have you stopped to think that this Supreme Court decision may be the jolting influence to awaken people to the knowledge of what they believe, and of how much value it is to them?

From our dining area in the Rumpus Room we have been "spying" on a pair of song sparrows. We watched during those long hatching days. (We peeked in the nest and saw four eggs—two small tinted ones and two larger white ones, which were still in the nest after the baby birds hatched).

The feeding of the babies was a full time job. Once in a while the parent birds saw us watching, and they became very excited.

Too soon, it seemed, the nest was empty, and the "children" were perched in the branches, learning to balance with the swaying of the breeze. They looked like little bird cherubs with the soft downy fuzz forming a halo around their small heads.

They are gone now—all of them. No doubt the parents guided them around to the bird feeders and said, in their own

from our

County Agent

DONALD E. FRANTZ

Several people have asked about maple trees this year. The leaf growth has not been as good as it should have been. We do not know why many of these trees made so much seed this spring but this is apparently the reason for such slow leaf development.

A little fertilizer now might be all right. It is plenty late to be fertilizing trees in my opinion but if it is a case of extremely stunted leaf growth, then a light feeding could help. A 1-1-1 ratio fertilizer is good, any lawn fertilizer is satisfactory.

Surface feeding of large trees doesn't help much. The feeding should be done in holes about 18 inches deep with about a tablespoon of fertilizer per hole. Use about a pound for every three inches of diameter of the tree trunk and feed in the area from midway from the trunk to the end of the limb area outward to the edge of the limb area.

Remember the trees that have had difficulty this year and feed them good next April.

While we are on the subject of tree troubles. We have had a few requests for information as to why the twigs on some oak trees are breaking off. There is more than one thing that can do this but the cases that I have seen are caused by a borer called Twig Pruner and that is exactly what it does.

The twigs, usually about two feet long, are cut off cleanly. The cut is concave and if the wood is split you can find a worm, white in color and about a half inch long. He is glossy and the segments are clearly defined.

The best control is to pick up the twigs and burn them before they go into the moth stage and lays some eggs for next year.

Strawberries made a good leaf and plant growth and also yielded well this year. They should be fed now for a good harvest next year. The success of strawberries depend more on good fertility than almost any other crop of fruit. This is due to the fact that strawberries have a very limited root system. This means they have to live in a fertile feeding area.

My recommendation for beds to be used another year is to use about 300 pounds per acre of a 12-12-12 fertilizer. If a heavy straw or saw dust mulch is to be used, step this up about a third.

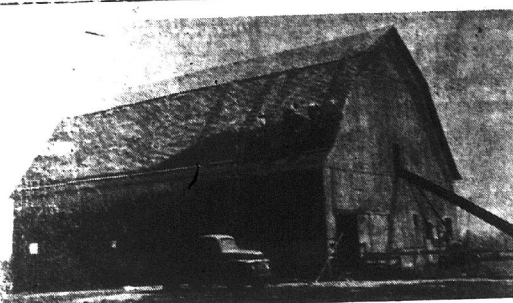

Cattle, especially young ones, are often shorted on minerals while on pasture. Mineral requirements are high at this time of greatest growth. As these cattle get a high amount of protein from pastures that is excellent for muscle development, they also need salt and mineral for bone growth. Blocks are good, but loose, free choice salt and minerals are better. They should be able to have all they want.

The annual county budget for the Agricultural and Home Economics Extension office was prepared last week. The procedure on the budget is that it is made by the executive committee of the County Extension Board. The recommended salary levels are set and these figures are presented to the County Council in September.

The Extension Board has no authority to mandate as do other boards of the county, such as the Boards of Education, Health and Welfare.

The hay crop will be short in some areas. The ice killed a lot of alfalfa and grass last winter. A good feeding following the first cutting will certainly give the second and possibly third cuttings a substantial boost.

WORKING ON HIGH BARN

The picture above shows workmen busy putting a new roof on the Ray Sponseller and Frank Nelans barn, southwest of Mentone. This is one of the biggest, if not the biggest, barn in Franklin township, and is 55 feet from the ground to the top of the roof. It is about 75 feet long and 60 feet wide. Mel Cain says he believes it will take from 75 to 80 squares of shingles to cover the roof.

The barn is located on the old Yocum place and the John Fens-termakers lived there for 32 years.

Married June 23 At Harrison Center

Miss Linda Lou Blackburn became the bride of Kenyon Keith Jones Saturday, June 23, at 8 p.m., in a candlelight ceremony held at the Harrison Center

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Blackburn, of R. 5, Warsaw, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Mervin Jones, of Mentone.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a dress of white organza fashioned with a scalloped neckline and bouffant skirt. She wore a short veil and carried a cascade arrangement of white mums and yellow pom poms.

Miss Diane Blackburn attended her sister as bridesmaid and wore a dress of yellow sheer and matching circular veil and carried a cascade bouquet of yellow mums and white pom poms.

Max Flenar attended the bridegroom as best man.

A reception was held at the bride's parents home following the ceremony.

The couple will reside on a farm southeast of Mentone.

County Big Egg Producer

Estimates show that egg production in Kosciusko county increased about two million dozen last year over the 1960 figures according to Donald E. Frantz, County Agricultural Agent.

The 1961 production is estimated at about 18.3 million dozen. The figures are based on the township assessors' reports compiled by the agricultural reporting service at Purdue.

Total egg production in Indiana has shown a slight decrease in each of the past two years with about a four percent reduction in 1961. Nearly 10 percent of the Indiana total egg production comes from Kosciusko county.

Agronomists at Purdue University say forage sorghum is an excellent silage crop to grow on land too droughty or low in fertility for corn. Sorghum will also survive on land that floods.

way, "You're on your own now, children."

We have read the following in at least three newspapers, but want you readers to enjoy it, too.

A fellow with a sewing machine for sale placed a classified ad in the newspaper. The ad came out the next day as follows:

"Monday: For Sale. R. D. Smith has one sewing machine for sale. Phone 958, Cal., after 7 p.m. and ask for Mrs. Kelly who lives with him cheap.

"Tuesday: We regret having erred in R. D. Smith's ad yesterday. It should have read: For Sale: R. D. Smith has one sewing machine for sale. Cheap. Phone 958 and ask for Mrs. Kelley who lives with him after 7 p.m.

"Wednesday: R. D. Smith has informed us that he has received several annoying telephone calls because of an error we made in his classified ad yesterday. His ad stands corrected: For Sale: R. D. Smith has one sewing machine for sale. Cheap. Phone 958 after 7 p.m. and ask for Mrs. Kelley who loves with him.

"Thursday: Notice: I, R. D. Smith, have no sewing machine for sale. I smashed it. Don't call 958, the phone has been taken out. I have not been carrying on with Mrs. Kelley. Until yesterday she was my housekeeper."

If a new injection treatment proves successful, there may be hope for our elm trees.

C. R. Freer, of Muscatine, Iowa, has developed the process. Holes are bored near the base of the ailing tree to relieve the pressure built up by fungus clots in the tree's circulatory system. Then a chemical is injected to arrest the disease. The chemical seems to work if no more than 20 per cent of the tree is affected.

The experiment is under strict control of the U.S. Agricultural Dept.

We enjoyed this:

"Mother," said little Johnny, today our teacher asked me whether or not I had any brothers or sisters, and I told her I was an only child."

"And what did she say?" asked the mother.

"She said 'Thank goodness.'"

WHEAT BEING HARVESTED

Wheat in the area is now being combined and loads are coming into the Mentone elevators. Some fields are averaging above 60 bushels per acre, with reports of one two and one-half acre plot going 67 bushels. Moisture content also is fair.

"Junior" Fore suffered a gash on his scalp requiring six stitches to close, Monday, while chopping a tile at the Manwaring Leghorn Farm. A piece of the tile flew up and hit him.

NOTICE

The Town Board would like to notify the people of Mentone to please trim their shrubbery or brush back away from their garbage can so that Mr. Sanders will not have so much difficulty in picking up their garbage.

FIREMEN TOUR
BUNKER HILL

Eleven Mentone firemen along with 46 firemen representing eleven Kosciusko County fire departments, spent nearly five hours at Bunker Hill Air Force base Sunday touring the base and learning plane crash fire fighting methods.

The trip was arranged by Kosciusko County Firemen's Association president, E. F. "Swede" Rydquist. He said all but three county fire units were represented.

At the base the men saw extensive demonstrations on how to fight fire developing from a plane crash. Base officials also showed the firemen how to remove a person from a crashed jet plane without setting off the ejection seat or causing some other device to spring which would cause injury to both the rescued and rescuer.

The group also saw an eight million dollar jet plane and a refueling tanker.

Those from Mentone were John Miller, Jim Gates, Bill Whetstone, Dave Ridenour, Lyman Mollenhour, Harry Smythe, Don Smythe, Marion Smith, Gilbert Griffis, Royal Baum, and Carrie Landis.

AT CONVENTION

Charles, Elener, and Jim Manwaring are attending the annual American Poultry and Hatchery Federation convention in St. Louis, Mo., this week.

STEVE LEWIS WINS SOAP BOX DERBY

Mentone continued to dominate the Soap Box Derby. For the third time in four years Mentone, in the person of Steve Lewis, came in first.

It was not an easy race, due to the fact that the finals ended in a dead heat and another race had to be run.

Steven is a very happy boy as can be seen in the picture shown here. He won a $500.00 bond and the right to participate in the championship race at Akron, Ohio. Steve outlasted six competitors in winning the race. Steve and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Lewis, will leave for Akron on July 31. There they will visit Derby Town, have a tea for derby mothers, visit the race track, and then a banquet after the race.

CELEBRATE 15th ANNIVERSARY

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Smith and employees shown above, are celebrating their 15th Anniversary in the grocery business here in Mentone. They extend their wishes for everybody to come to the store this weekend.

America Faces Water Shortage

A water shortage of gigantic proportions is in prospect for many sections of the country in the not too distant future, reports a U.S. Senate committee on national water resources. This country consumes 60 billion gallons of water each day compared with 4 billion in 1900. Need for water will double by 1980, they predict, and triple by the turn of the century—while the water supplied by nature will remain constant. Water-rich regions of the East and the Pacific Northwest face no problem other than construction of additional storage facilities. In other areas—particularly the arid and semi-arid states of the West—the situation is quite different. In these sections, the committee noted, consumption of water is already pressing resources. Desalting sea water and bringing fresh water from distant sources via expensive transportation systems are possible answers.

U.S. imports in 1961 added up to $14,400,000,000, reports the Census Bureau. That's $300,000,000 more than in 1960. Exports in 1961 were a record $20,900,000,000, also a $300,000,000 rise over 1960.

Enough margarine was eaten in the U.S. in 1961 to circle the earth six times with one pound packages. Consumption of margarine, says Votator, was five times greater during the year than in the 1930's, which was before the modern processing methods that have boosted production. Americans eat an average of two pounds per person more margarine than butter each year.

THANK YOU

In this way, I wish to express my heartfelt thanks, to so many friends for their prayers, cards, letters, and flowers tendered to me, at the passing on of my father.

If you take your truck for granted

...it's a good one!

A truck that doesn't call for a lot of attention, that just does its job every day, is a great asset. This is the thing most users tell us they like about Chevrolet trucks—their reliability. And this, of course, comes from quality.

Sound engines, strong frames, double-wall construction, insulated cabs, separated bodies and cabs, tight tailgates... are some of the features that help Chevrolet trucks work longer and bring back more of your investment at trade-in.

If you wish you had a truck that cost you less thought and attention, put your money on quality. Make your next buy a dependable Chevrolet truck.

NEW CHAPTER OFFICERS INSTALLED

The sorority held their annual picnic last night at the Claypool Conservation Club house with 32 members and guests present. Committees responsible for the fine meeting were Mrs. William Hudson, Mrs. Richard Dickerhoff, and Mrs. Wade Powell.

Planning For A Picnic

Picnics are fun for everyone. And to see that the chief cook and bottle washer has more fun on a picnic, Miriam Eads, food specialist at Purdue University, recommends some short cuts for preparing picnic meals.

Time-and-effort savers are prepared mixes, ready-to-use foods, bottled sauces, and canned or frozen foods. Using sturdy disposable dishes and containers cuts down on clean-up time. Shape aluminum foil into baking and cooking pans and discard them after use.

Hot dogs, hamburgers or grilled sandwiches "hot off the fire" are favorites of youngsters, but don't forget that ham, chops, chicken or fish, cooked at home or at the picnic site are good main dishes. Use fat meats for broiling on a spit, and barbecue sauces to baste meat, poultry and fish.

Appetizers from a serve-yourself tray keep hunger pangs down until the meal is ready. Especially good are fruit or vegetable juices, crisp raw vegetables, whole fruits, and

Show Steers Light On Fat

Average outside fat covering on steers at the recent Hoosier Beef Show—less than an inch—was the lowest in the four-year history of the competition, reports Henry Mayo, Purdue University extension animal scientist. This lack of outside fat makes beef more attractive to the homemaker.

The champion carcass of the show—a lightweight Angus shown by Donald Overpeck and Sons, Clinton—contained more than two square inches of loin eye per 100 pounds of carcass. And its fat covering was less than one-tenth of an inch per 100 pounds of carcass.

The steers, which first were sold, judged on foot and then slaughtered, averaged 968 lbs. on foot and dressed about 64 per cent of their liveweight in carcass beef. They had an average loin eye area of 10.4 inches and carried an average of .81 inches of outside fat.

Mayo points out these ratings are extremely valuable to farmers in helping them produce animals which will be

Look For Big Corn Crop

What's the story at the very center of the greatest corn growing state in the nation—Iowa—in Mid-June? A DeKalb reporter there gives these corn growing facts: "Temperature normal, hot, humid; plant size—up to 18 inches (that's a good knee-high); planting completed, very little replant and that due to ponds on level land; moisture plentiful, weeds—some fields weedy." On other crops, he adds "oats heading, looks good; haying underway with big yields; pastures—good."

As Iowa goes, so goes the nation. Reports are generally favorable—rainfall has been plentiful in May and first half of June. Nebraska, dry in early May finished with every section reporting above average rainfall. Most Nebraska counties reported rain of 5 to 6 inches in May. Portions of the Dakotas, Minnesota, and southern Iowa and Missouri report excessive rain. But as our reporter in southwestern Minnesota says, "Excess moisture is always better than drouth."

Some other comments—western Indiana and western Illinois both report "excellent" corn prospects; eastern Pennsylvania—"hottest spring in history has pushed corn to knee high levels;" Nebraska—"early May drouth hurt wheat prospects;" and from all over—more nitrogen, especially of the anhydrous type, being applied to corn, and more chemicals, particularly atrazine, being used for weed control.

Harder to believe than a wet Nebraska is a grasshopper infestation in Illinois! The last state insect survey bulletin devoted more space to grasshopper control than to all other insects combined. The corn borer has been relegated to a distant second place with house flies third. Corn borers are not expected to be much of a threat this season.

Spring Pig Crop Smaller

State-federal agricultural statisticians at Purdue University estimate Indiana's 1962 spring pig crop at 3,924,000 head, same as last year, but two per cent smaller.

Grasshopper Threat

Destructive populations of grasshoppers are building up in localized areas of Indiana this summer, reports Dave Matthew, Purdue University extension entomologist. Hardest hit will be those where adult hoppers were present last fall.

Crop damaging grasshoppers over-winter in the soil at the egg stage. These eggs are laid in clumps of bunch grass and in roadsides, fence rows, creek banks and field margins. The newly hatched nymphs first feed in areas where they hatched. Unless an intense rain kills them, they develop into adults and move into crop fields.

Extent of damage depends on temperature and rainfall during nymphal development, the size of the population, the stage of growth of the plants at the time the grasshoppers move into the fields and what control methods are taken.

Matthew recommends that roadsides, fence rows and field margins be sprayed immediately in areas where the pests are developing. Less material is needed and better control is obtained. In those areas where residues would not be a problem, use aldrin, dieldrin, toxaphene or heptachlor. Apply according to the label on the package and follow directions for all harvest restrictions. These materials can not be used on pastures being used for dairy cattle.

For control in pastures for dairy cattle, use either malathion, sevin, diazinon or dibrom. Wait a week before pasturing or feeding cattle on malathion or diazinon sprayed fields; wait four days if dibrom has been applied. Sevin has no harvest restrictions. And be sure to follow label directions.

olives, whole fruits, tarts and crackers with cheese dip.

"Finger salads" of fruits or vegetables, and tossed salads of plentiful greens are easy to serve and eat. Carry the salad fixings to the picnic site and toss just before serving.

Quick-bread mixes and frozen or brown-and-serve rolls make tempting hot breads in a hurry. Split rolls or corn bread toasted over the embers are a special treat.

Simple desserts are best for outdoor eating. "Finger" fruits, berries with a powdered sugar dip, cheese and crackers, cupcakes, cookies, tarts and turnovers are all easy to handle.

males which will be meaty and which will result in the best marketable cuts.

Lighter weight steers, with less fat, are needed to meet consumer demand, the Purdue extension specialist adds. Tallows and fats are not easy to sell now and too much fat on steers hurts their sale values.

The Hoosier Beef Show is aimed at demonstrating more clearly the changing requirements for cattle breeding and feeding. Show sponsors are Purdue, the Indiana Beef Breeders Association, the Indianapolis Stock Yards and Hygrade Food Products Corporation.

COAL NOW BY PIPELINE

Vast coal reserves of 35 trillion tons will enable Indiana to supply a widespread area for many, many years. Present transportation costs now limit the distance coal can be economically delivered. But a recent major technological breakthrough—liquid coal pipelines—will facilitate the pumping of coal economically for long distances thus extending markets for Indiana coal.

Early in 1950, Consolidation Coal Company, traditionally a trail blazer in the field, set 12 crack scientists to work in its laboratories at Library, Pennsylvania to remake coal.

The scientists spent five years and $2,500,000 on research before they arrived at a practical answer.

They ground coal into tiny particles and added water. When the particles were exactly the right size and the ratio of water perfect, they had an inky black solution that had most of the qualities of fuel oil.

The question then was whether it would run through a pipeline or settle to the bottom and plug it up.

Consolidation gambled $13,000,000 to find out. In 1956, it built a 108-mile, ten-inch-diameter pipeline from Cadiz to the Eastlake generating station of the Cleveland Electric Illuminating Company and started pumping liquid coal through it.

It worked. Over the past five years, more than 5,000,000 tons of liquid coal have flowed through this pipeline without a hitch.

The Consolidated scientists were still not satisfied, however. Their original solution contained 50 percent water and required complicated equipment at the utility to dewater. They continued their research and, one day in 1959, they had a remarkable stroke of luck.

They discovered that a mixture of 60 percent coal and 40 percent water remained stable in solution and could be fed directly into boilers without the expensive dewatering treatment. It handled just as easily as oil.

Liquid coal pipelines, unlike other energy carriers which already possess the right of eminent domain, need federal legislation to assist them in obtaining rights-of-way. President Kennedy and the administration support twin bills, written to eliminate this roadblock. Once these bills are enacted, planning may be initiated on liquid coal pipelines, to make available vast fuel reserves to areas not favored with such resources as Indiana possesses.

The right of eminent domain can be defined very simply. It is the right to acquire private property for necessary public use upon payment of just compensation.

So, turn the faucet and get a stream of coal!

Official Indiana Maps Ready

The 1962 official Indiana State Highway Commission map is off the press and ready for distribution, according to David Cohen, Highway Commission chairman.

The new map, featuring an aerial view of the west leg of Interstate 465 in Indianapolis on the cover, incorporates latest changes in road construction in the 11,000 mile highway system of Indiana, particularly updating those portions of the Interstate System open to traffic and including bypass routes where they have been developed.

In a series of colored photos, the map supports Governor Matthew E. Welsh's program to attract greater numbers of tourists to Indiana by pictorially describing some of the major industrial, scenic and location features of the Hoosier state.

The 1962 map retains the many features which have made it so useful to Hoosiers as well as to out of state travelers. These include enlarged diagrams of metropolitan areas designating state routes through and around communities; a listing of Hoosier towns and cities with location designations; and a description of facilities at the many Indiana parks, forests, and recreation areas. A mileage chart between principal points is also provided.

Copies of the new Indiana map may be obtained by writing to the Indiana State Highway Commission, Department of Public Relations, State Office Building, Indianapolis, Indiana.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Warren and family of Elkhart spent Saturday evening with Mr. and Mrs. E. Wagner. Ed York of Indianapolis called Sunday evening.

Summer Feeding Of Dairy Cattle

Good summer feeding of dairy cattle requires more skill than winter feeding, says Sam Gregory, Purdue University extension dairyman.

Both pasture and green chop change very rapidly in the amount available and in feeding value. However, dairymen can anticipate these changes and provide adequate nutrients from additional sources to maintain high production during the summer. These required nutrients can come from any combination of hay, silage, grain and high energy supplements, in addition to the routine feeding of pasture or green chop.

If dairy cows have hay and silage available every day they will eat enough to make up for much of the variation in the summer feeding program. Dairymen cannot afford to wait for a decrease in milk production to begin supplemental feeding. Gregory recommends that feeding practices be established which will prevent a decrease in milk production.

In order to take advantage of increasing milk prices during the summer, cows must have enough to eat. The most important factor limiting production during the summer as well as other seasons of the year is hunger. Cows producing well must receive adequate energy. He advises dairymen to take the extra grain fed the low producers and feed it to the high producers; this will pay good dividends.

LITTLE LEAGUE
PICNIC FRIDAY

The Little League baseball season ends with games this week, and a big picnic for the players, their parents and fans will be held at the ball diamond Friday evening, July 27, starting at six o'clock.

The Little League games have been serious affairs for about 110 boys (not counting a couple hundred parents, plus a few "slightly prejudiced" grandparents and team managers).

One is amazed at the style and ability of these boys as they go through their duties as players on the various teams. The season has gone quickly—at least for the fans—but those who followed the games closely could see much improvement in the future big leaguers.

COUNTERPOINT

By The Editor's Wife

We were on vacation last week and didn't get a column written. No doubt, some of you thought that Counterpoint had gotten "too counter" and that the end had come, but here I am again.

Our trip took us to Boston—the editor, Jody, Lisa, Tim and I. (Tom had to keep the presses running)—to see Jon.

There was not enough time to visit the many historical places which are so meaningful. For me, the loveliest time of the whole trip was the misty Monday morning we went to Boston Commons and strolled, arm in arm, with our six foot son, down the paths, across the bridge, finally to stand thoughtfully by the statue of that great clergyman, writer, humanitarian, Edward Everett Hale.

Boston traffic defies description. One who travels east on the comparative ease and safety of the toll roads is in for a shock. We can only say that Bostonians, pedestrian and driver alike, have maintained that same spirit of daring and courage which motivated and carried their forefathers to victory in the American Revolution. It is the cautious out-of-state driver who brings problems to Boston traffic—"He who hesitates is lost!"

We hope to return to Boston one day and visit all those places which we read about in our history books so many years ago.

Taking a trip by car makes one aware of many things. Clifford Ward, in a recent Good Evening column, worded it very succinctly.

"Did you ever take a good look at Americans touring the country at this time of year by automobile? Most of them look like fugitives from one of the undeveloped countries of the world, except for their high-priced automobiles.

"The old man in the family, who looks fairly presentable at home, thinks that on a trip he must look like a one-man opponent of neatness. He digs out an old fishing hat that he had bought 10 years ago at a fishing resort dime store and puts it on his head. And all the things he ought to have thrown out years ago, he dons to go places. "And the good wife and kids succeed in doing a masterful

SOUTH BEND

Rev. Russell A. Mikesell, 51, of South Bend, was dead on arrival at the South Bend Osteopathic hospital at 2 p.m. Monday after suffering a heart attack in his home.

Rev. Mikesell, who had resided in South Bend since 1936, was born in Mentone March 14, 1911. He married Rev. Vera Christ June 20, 1930. Rev. Mikesell was a member of the Fellowship of Spiritual Haven Church, South Bend Lodge 294 F&AM and Local 413 of the Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America. He was a veteran of World War II.

Surviving are his wife; a son, Rex, at home; three brothers, Harold of Fulton, Oliver of Rochester and Lloyd of Buchanan, Mich.; a sister, Mrs. Helen Riley of Fort Wayne; a half-sister, Mrs. Fawn Sowers of South Dakota, and his father, Phillip H. Mikesell of Osceola.

Services were held Wednesday at 3:30 p.m. in the Welsheimer funeral home in South Bend.

job of making themselves so hideously sloppy that even their guardian angels must stay away from them a distance of 15 feet. They are not just 'casual'. . . they are downright sloppy.

"And 'momma', who long ago developed in a profligate manner where she should have stayed thin, instead of wearing clothes of the right colors and in sufficient quantity to mask her acquired imperfections, chooses to be seen in public in the loudest and the least in the way of clothing."

The editor was using the weed cutter last evening in some fence corners, and ran into objections from an unexpected source. One of our young (6 years old) anglers carefully informed him, "This is where we catch our grasshoppers to go fishing." Hm-m. This will require some real diplomacy.

From what we've been hearing, one can run into some unique problems while golfing. Even Sam Snead would need to carry a Turkish towel or see that the golf clubs were waterproofed for this sort of problem.

Note on communism: "In the fight to preserve our Republic, it is not enough to be passively against crime, or

OLD 907's

STILL STANDS

Thirty-four old cows in the Purina Farm Dairy Center herd have lifetime production records of more than 100,000 lbs. of milk.

Cow number 907, pictured at right, had the best record of all. She produced 180,377 lbs. of milk in 11 lactations.

Through the years dairy animals, raised at the Farm the Purina Way from birth grow fast, freshen early and spend long, profitable years in the milking string.

Dairymen who follow the Purina Dairy Program get equally good results.

We urge you to try Purina, prove to yourself that Purina feeding costs you less.

Purina Chows Are

MICRO-MIXED

Micro-Mixing is Purina's exclusive method of evenly mixing minute amounts of essential ingredients so that animals and birds get properly mixed, "just-right" amounts of nutrition in every mouthful of Purina Chows.

Modern rations require the even mixing of a teaspoonful or less of ingredients through a ton of feed. Such problems are routine to Purina Research and milling personnel, thanks to 65 years of milling experience plus our Micro-Mixing techniques.

Purina is made right . . . mixed right. You can depend on Purina Chows in the Checkerboard Bag.

DAMAGE

OF
ACTIVITY

1. The presence of greyish or black winged swarmers around home.
2. Sagging Floors.
3. Mud tubes built on foundation and under porches.
4. Damaged sills, joists and other timbers underneath home.

There are many other evidences of termites that are not as apparent as these and can only be found by an experienced termite operator.

The Destructive
TERMITE

Today termites are found in practically every state of the union. There are two distinct classes of termites, the subterranean and the dry wood species. Sometimes erroneously called white ants, termites are social insects living in well organized colonies. They are divided into castes; the reproductives which propagate the colony, the workers that do the destructive work to property and the soldiers that guard the activities of the colony.

Worker

The two castes shown here are the worker termite and the reproductive adult. The worker's main object is to procure food consisting of cellulose found in wood. It does its destructive work under cover and therefore makes it dangerous to mankind since they cannot be readily detected.

Swarmer

The presence of the reproductive adults or swarmers as they are called, is sure evidence of termite infestation. These winged termites, with wings twice as long as their bodies, swarm in countless millions in the spring and summer months and establish new colonies. Thousands of these new colonies are found each year in buildings erected by man.

An Early Inspection

By a reliable TOX-EOL Termite Operator will prevent heavy damage by termites. This very moment termites are destroying valuable property in your town.

W.W. II Mothers Meet With Ann Romine

Mothers of World War II met at the home of Ann Romine on July 9 for their monthly meeting.

The president opened the meeting by preparing the altar, displaying the colors, and opening the Bible. Pledge to the flag was given, one verse of Star Spangled Banner was sung and a prayer was given by the chaplain.

Eleven members answered the roll call and the secretary's report was given. Communications were discussed and bills allowed. The unit has sold $138 worth of cards for the fund raising program. Marie Miller, state vice president, needs TV and S & H green stamps for state project, so any member having any get in touch with Bell Morrison. The meeting was closed by the usual ceremonies.

Homer McGinley of Burket and Mr. and Mrs. Marion Guy called Sunday at the Rosa Kinsey home.

NEWS NOTES

from our

County Agent

DONALD E. FRANTZ

The Power Day Program, August 1, at the Armory will be of interest to many people. Many new tractors will be on display and demonstrations on different tractor fuels will be made. It is sponsored by the Farm Bureau Co-op petroleum division and implement dealers throughout the county.

Feeding trials at several mid-west experiment stations indicate there may be a merit in adding high calcium limestone to corn silage for beef cattle. Reports are out that indicate there is an increase in daily gain and an improvement in carcass quality. They are reporting other benefits, too, and one is that there is less acid action on the sides of silos and less toxic gas formed. The silage was reported to have retained a better color.

This looks real good especially since the cost is low. Twenty pounds of finely ground limestone per ton is being recommended. Apparently the high magnesium stone that is common here is not being recommended, at least not right now.

Perhaps no field of agriculture has grown so rapidly as the chemical field. We are using chemicals as a source of power, for fertilizer, for weed control and particularly for insecticides. If it were not for chemicals, we wouldn't have it so good but at the same time, the wide-spread use of chemicals, especially insecticides, has caused its problems.

We produce about a million pounds of insecticide each year in this country. That's about six pounds for every man, woman and child. Not all of this goes into agriculture of course, but we use our share. These materials come out under about 5,000 brand trade names, each one with a big advertising program behind it. Most of these are formulated from one or more of about 70 basic compounds. These range from the perfectly harmless to the absolutely lethal.

To use these products safely and wisely is an important task. The record in agriculture is excellent and we hope it stays that way. These materials are poisons to some extent or another but if they were treated as poisons, the danger would be lessened. This is safety rule number one.

There are a few other basic safety precautions in using farm chemicals and here are a few of them.

Insecticides should always be stored in a place and in a way that they cannot be mistaken. Unmarked containers can be a real source of danger. Empty containers ought to be destroyed or cleaned.

Another precaution is to pre-determine the drift of sprays or dusts and try to avoid them and wash thoroughly after using them. Some drift is unavoidable and we can't always stay out of it but the kids can if we tell them what is going on.

Livestock and pets can be affected, too, from over dosages of insecticides so it is a good idea to cover the feed and water when we spray.

The most fundamental safety rule in using insecticides is probably that of specifically following the manufacturers recommendations. There is a lot of safety built into this. There is also a lot of legal implications in it too. The instructions will let you pass the regulations of the Pure Food and Drug Act whereas if you do not follow the directions, the crop or livestock is subject to impounding like the cranberry crops of a couple of years ago.

The safety record that farmers have made in using chemicals has been excellent. It is a tribute to their common sense and everyday judgement.

Palestine Homemakers
Enjoy Picnic

The July meeting of the Palestine Homemakers club was held recently at the home of Mrs. Edwin Shirey.

Everyone enjoyed the picnic lunch at noon. The afternoon meeting was opened by the president, Mrs. Shirey. The pledge to the flag and club creed was repeated by all. Songs were sung by the group. Health and safety was on safe driving, being given by Mrs. Mont Loder.

The secretary and treasurer's reports were given by Mrs. Jesse Jones. The meeting was closed with the club prayer song. The social hour followed.

Guests for dinner were Mr. and Mrs. Tom Harman and Pam, Henry Pletcher, Dawn Perry, Mrs. Bill Hatfield and Ricky, of Akron.

EXPLODING STAR DWARFS H-BOMB

Exploding stars, called novae, are obscure stars which suddenly flash in the sky with a burst of light many millions of times as bright as the sun, reports Dr. Robert P. Kraft, of the Mt. Wilson Observatory in California. These phenomena, which have been observed for centuries, emit as much power in one burst as trillions of the most powerful hydrogen bombs. Most novae flash only once, but there are recurrent types which flare up periodically at intervals of from 10 to 100 years.

A microcalorimeter is awaited anxiously by chemists at the University of Colorado. The device, a 50 pound block of copper, measures tiny amounts of heat radiated over a long period. The chemists hope to import it from France duty free. If Congress waives the duty, the microcalorimeter will be put to work in the study of the heat effect of chemical interaction in large biological molecules.

A new supermarket cart serenades the shopper with music. But take it outside the store and a foghorn alarm sounds.

Wear and tear of constant city driving is provided for in the special construction methods that set taxicabs apart from ordinary pleasure cars, reports Northwest Chemical. Body steel is heavier and preparation of the metal more exacting. Before spray painting, the body is chemically cleaned in a four stage process, preparation which keeps the paint in place from the time the first passenger slams the door until the last.

Science and mathematics will not be required for graduation from high school in Minnesota in the future, the State Board of Education has ruled. The requirement was instituted in 1959. Opponents claimed it prevented counselors from devising study programs suited to the individual students.

Rising tide of home brew is a source of concern to Soviet officials, reports the Russian Academy of Sciences. Popular illegal liquors are samogon (distilled from grain, potatoes and bread), chachah (made from the remnants of wine grapes), akari (from rice and palm juice) and homemade beer and vodka.

Outdoor Furniture Prevent Tree Needs Protection Storm Damage

Outdoor furniture is designed to require a minimum of upkeep, but like anything else, it looks better and lasts longer if it does get attention when it needs it.

Ezelle Johnson, home furnishings specialist at Purdue University, advises that even weather-proof furniture, intended to be left out of doors, benefits from washing or an occasional painting. This removes the dull film formed by dust and rain.

If you polish and wax aluminum framed furniture occasionally, the luster lasts longer.

A coat of clear outdoor varnish once a year protects rattan furniture from the weather. Redwood can be coated with protective sealers to preserve or restore the finish. The sealers also protect against spilled liquids.

Wax, varnish or paint wooden furniture as needed, they suggest. Cushioned giders and chairs need a cover to protect them from the rain, if they are left outside all summer. Mildew and weather resistant materials are available in cushions, hammocks and umbrellas.

When you buy a sun umbrella, save the carton to store it for the winter. Before storing your outdoor furniture clean and dry it thoroughly. Stack the pieces in a clean dry place, and cover with a painter's plastic drop cloth for the winter.

Purdue University extension horticulturists say that most storm damage to trees can be prevented, since those storm damaged are almost always weak.

A principal cause of weak trees is improper pruning. Cutting off the top branches, or "beheading", is the culprit. You should never do this because it allows rot organisms to enter and travel down the trunk and weaken the entire tree structure. With beheading, your tree is likely to decay throughout the center, and develop a weak hollow trunk.

If you must remove major limbs, cutting back to a junction with another limb or the main trunk. They say to make a smooth cut close to the trunk and paint the wound with tree wound paint. Then keep the wound painted until it is completely healed.

They also recommend not planting soft, weak varieties. Some weak trees are the Silver maple, the Siberian elm, generally called the Chinese elm; the willows, Tree of Heaven, or Ailanthus, and the poplars.

National Farm Safety Week

A tractor requires skillful driving. Many accidents happen from tractors turning over and pinning the operator under the tractor.

This need not happen to you, says Morris Bitzer, advisor of Mentone FFA chapter. Spread wheels as far as is practical. Reduce speed BEFORE making a turn or applying brakes. Avoid sudden starts, excessive speeds or sudden stops on hillsides, rough ground and most off-the-road operations. Pull only from the drawbar, never hitch to the axle housing. Shift transmission to neutral and lock the brakes before dismounting to hitch implements. Respect your tractor. Never take chances with live power.

against subversion, or against any of the other elements which weaken our country from within. It is necessary for us to inspect the state of our own moral stamina. It is necessary for us to stand up for American ideals—to work constructively for the cause of liberty and justice—and to pray to God Almighty that He will aid us in our time of travail.”

—Life Lines, July 25, 1962

This could be you!

“A man was complaining bitterly the other day about the course our government has been taking in recent years.

“When I asked to whom he had complained in the government, he snapped back that this was useless—nobody in Washington paid any attention to one lone complaint from out in the sticks.

“Once I, too, believed that it was useless for one individual to try to affect the course of our federal government. But that was before I became involved in the inner workings of government at the highest levels. I found out that it is a mistake to believe letters from home go unnoticed. Thoughtful letters addressed to government agencies and congressmen almost always are answered. Moreover, they can and often do result in noticeable impact.

“A letter on tablet paper written from home to a government agency or congressman frequently brings greater response in Washington than a big corporation president's letter typewritten beneath his executive letterhead.

“Why should this be so?

“Congressmen have explained to me that they are most interested in what the ordinary or average citizen is thinking about back home.

“Obviously they find it impractical to conduct continuous opinion polls in their districts to keep abreast of voters' views at the grass-roots level. Therefore, congressmen have come to depend heavily on their mail for clues. And spontaneous letters from home, they believe, are the best indicators of constituents' current thinking.

“Congressmen are interested in reading about not only 'what' people back home are thinking, but more particularly 'why' they feel as they do. In wanting to evaluate issues on their merits rather than pressures, congressmen say letters from home that explain the 'why'—giving illustrations and facts, not just objections—are especially helpful when they weigh the worth of proposed new legislation.

“To be sure, one spontaneous letter will not always sway a congressman. But if he receives even a small number of letters on a current issue, it will cause him to review his position more carefully.”

—By Maurice H. Stans. Former Federal Budget Director.

Which opens the way for me to urge you to write to your senator or representative expressing your feelings about the Supreme Court decision banning prayer in public schools. They are concerned, too. Concerned enough that a Constitutional Amendment has been written by the Chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee to alleviate the “awesome consequences of the high court.” It is aimed also, at the “unbelievable decision that forbade the Postmaster General to throw out of the United States Mails homosexual magazines and those of obscenity and filth.”

Address your letters to:

Sen. Vance Hartke,

HANDWRITING ON THE WALL FOR INTERNAL REVENUEURS

Students from the University of Iowa picketed the Johnson county courthouse at Iowa City Wednesday protesting two impending executions and said they planned another demonstration.

The students were protesting the death sentences of two men convicted of murder in the killing of an Internal Revenue Service officer at Council Bluffs, last year.

As far as our knowledge of the case goes, the men may not have a cause for the killing, but any sensible individual knows that if the undemocratic and unscrupulous ways of Internal Revenue representatives continues, it can end in nothing else than murders upon our streets. Fifteen years ago your editor remarked that what he wanted was to prevent bloodshed on OUR Main Street. Many of the so-called government programs today can end no other way if some sensible changes aren't forthcoming in the very near future.

Display Red Flag Or Flasher

Farm safety specialists at Purdue University in cooperation with the Indiana Farm Safety Council urge operators of farm equipment to comply with the law requiring the display of a red flag or flashing light on slow moving equipment on state and federal highways.

They point out that use of the red flags or flashing lights is just as much a safety aid on county roads.

Albert E. Huber, executive director of the Indiana Traffic Safety Foundation, Inc., and chairman of the traffic committee of the Indiana Farm Safety Council, reported to council members recently that he had written to John Barton, superintendent of the Indiana State Police, requesting that special attention be given to any non-compliance to the so-called red flag law.

Farmers are also urged by farm safety specialists to eliminate tall weeds and brush which create a hazard at road intersections, turns and farm entrances.
