It Was Bound To Come, Men

A news picture this week gave us a view of the newest in men's attire—a lounge suit, the creation of some Londoner that must have lost out in either "modernistic" art or writing Jules Verne literature.

It's a pair of pants and vest hitched together.

Style creators for many years have forgotten where a man is supposed to hang his pants and the only ones you could really buy in recent years made you feel as if you were wearing a brassiere. All you needed was a couple of holes instead of side pockets and you had a vest, also.

If you hung your pants where they should have been hung, you were hobbled by the unused portion of the tent seat. If you bent over or stooped down, things closed up on you from all sides. If you hauled them up with the belt under your armpits, a man with arthritis couldn't reach high enough to get into his pockets, and little bay windows seemed to find themselves where a window shouldn't be.

The only advantage was that at a dinner party, a man wearing a pair of the miserable creations couldn't get into his pocket soon enough to pay the dinner check.

If it keeps on, a man will have to unzip before he can tie his tie.

Men, we might as well get prepared. They've been taking off the bottom of our pants and adding it to the top, and before we know what's happening, about all we'll be wearing will be a pink ribbon around our neck.

To Construct New Garage

Construction work has already begun on a new 40 x 72 cement block building for Lewis Motors.

Raymond Lewis, who has operated the garage repair service, has planned the new building and it will include a number of pieces of needed garage equipment to be better able to serve the large number of repair customers he has been serving. The building will have a steel self-supporting roof, and is being constructed by Glen Secrist.

Recently Mr. Lewis purchased 35 feet from Mrs. Whetstone, and this is presently being used as a parking lot and for entrance into his present garage structure from the east. This is necessary while the new building is being constructed.

Mr. Lewis' future plans are to raze the present garage building after the new one is in operation.

June Is Dairy Month

"Use More Dairy Products" is the slogan of the Indiana branch of the American Dairy Association during June.

June is dairy month and throughout the state local dairymen and milk plants are to hold open houses, milking contests and dairy exhibits, reports E. A. Gannon, extension dairymen of Purdue University.

Branch McCracken, head basketball coach at Indiana University, is chairman of the dairy month campaign. McCracken, coach of the 1958 Big Ten championship team, says he accepted the chairmanship in the interest of promoting better eating habits among youngsters and would-be athletes. "An athlete's body is as good as the body-building foods he eats and drinks," Coach McCracken asserts.

When the team is on the road, add McCracken, "I pour extra milk into them to help build up their reserves of energy."

Milk is in plentiful supply right now, according to Gannon, for cows have been turned out to spring pasture and the abundant forage has boosted milk production. The dairy month campaign is aimed at reducing the seasonal surplus through greater consumption.

Actually milk products sell themselves, Gannon adds, and little promotion would be needed if the public realized how much food value they get for their money in milk. Considering its cost per pound, milk furnishes more food for the money than any other food material available. Consumer incomes have gone up 50 percent as an average in the last 10 years while the price of milk has gone up only 20 percent.

Strawberry Leaf Spot Control

A heavy carry over from last winter of fungi which cause leaf spot diseases has resulted in infestation of Indiana home strawberry patches again this spring.

Purdue University plant pathologists recommend spraying or dusting the patch with captan at 10-day intervals from the first sign of the disease until the end of July.

In May or early June, small reddish to purple spots may appear on scattered leaves throughout the planting. By mid-June the disease will have spread to other plants and will appear as very noticeable spots with ash grey centers and purple borders.

The leaf spot disease is often the cause of black areas on the berries, a condition sometimes referred to as "Black Seed." Another leaf spot may occur later in the season, causing extensive browning of the leaf edges and large, dead areas between the leaf veins. This usually is referred to as "Leaf Scorch."

The diseases are caused by fungi that attack the strawberry only. They survive the winter in old, dead, infected leaves, producing pores in the spring that infest young leaves and initiate the disease for another season.

Home gardeners should select a site for the strawberry patch where the plants will get sunshine and good drainage. Weeds and grass should be removed, since they provide shade and moist conditions that favor leaf spot development.

Some varieties, such as Fairfax, Premier, Blakemore, Midland and Mastodon, are especially susceptible to leaf spot and should not be planted where the diseases have been a problem in past years.

Suggestions to reduce the damage from the disease are contained in mimeo BP 4-3, mimeo ID 12 C and extension leaflet 334, all available without charge to Indiana residents at the county extension agent's office or from the agricultural publications office, Purdue University, Lafayette.

Brome grass and timothy pastures should be grazed with caution before the seed heads appear in May, according to Purdue University agronomists. These grasses joint, as does wheat. Close grazing before heading destroys the seed head and causes the plant to appear dormant while a new shoot grows from the plant base.

Flower gardens can be protected against many insects and diseases by using one of the new all-purpose rose and flower dusts, say Purdue University entomologists. These are on the market under numerous trade names and contain several pesticides combined in a single package for easy use.

Purdue University poultry specialists suggest automatic range waterers be connected to the main pipe line with a piece of hose 15 to 20 feet long. This permits moving them over a wide area and avoids killing grass or forming mud puddles around the waterers.

For the last two years my son Jerry has filled and operated my Farmall "M" tractor on propane gas and I consider it safer to fill and use than gasoline.

This is my third season since I overhauled the engine and it has good compression and runs and idles very smooth. I farm over 300 acres so I consider it has had plenty of hard use to test the propane, I find it to be about one third cheaper to operate than gasoline.

Red Spiders Easily Controlled

Red spiders and other plant-feeding mites that attack flowers, ornamental shrubs, fruits and other plants are now easily controlled, explains Glen Lehker, Purdue University entomologist.

A number of new chemicals called miticides have been developed for the control of these pests. They are tailor-made for mite control and much more effective than the sulphur sprays and dusts extensively used in the past. Among the miticides generally available are aramite, ovex, chlorobenzilate, keltthane and mitox. Complete directions are on the packages.

Lehker adds that several of the new phosphate insecticides also have mite killing properties but after a few years the mites may become resistant to them. This has already happened in orchards and greenhouses.

The most widely used of these phosphate compounds is malathion, a relatively safe chemical for use by the amateur gardener. It is a common ingredient in most one-package sprays and dusts and has a wide range of killing power against both insects and mites.

Other phosphate insecticides such as parathion, demeton and guthion are highly toxic to humans and are for use only by commercial growers who have respirators or other equipment to protect themselves from injury, Lehker warns.

Mites have sucking mouth parts and cause the plant needles to dry up, turn brown and die. Mites are so small that they are difficult to see with the naked eye, even though thousands may be present on a single plant. It is best to examine suspicious appearing foliage with a reading glass. The mites, if present, can sometimes be jarred onto a piece of white paper and are more easily seen as they crawl away.

Marketing Guides

Purdue University agricultural economists say they expect business activity "to slacken further, but at a decreasing rate."

After the bottom of the current down turn is reached, it likely will be followed by a leveling off period before any appreciable business up turn occurs, they add.

The up turn, according to the economists, "now seems likely by late 1958 or early 1959."

Corn prices for Indiana are expected to be steady to moderately higher in the next two months. Domestic selling by the CCC will probably be large enough to prevent substantial price increases.

Odds favor selling wheat at harvest if prices are within 15-18 cents of loan. Wheat prices at harvest are expected to average around 15 cents a bushel below the $1.78 loan rate.

"Large carry over stocks and an expected near record winter wheat crop . . . will probably keep wheat prices from working above the loan rate later in the season," the economists assert.

Hog prices are expected to weaken sometime before mid-July. This weakness is expected to be a little more than normal.

Larger supplies of fed cattle appear in prospect for the summer months. It will probably be unprofitable to try to "ride out" the price decline, which is expected to begin around mid-year. Modest declines in feeder cattle prices are expected by autumn.

Indiana milk prices are showing somewhat more strength than anticipated earlier despite lower price supports. Lower production is largely responsible for the strength.

Fewer turkey marketings are in prospect.

Ralph Blue called Friday evening at the Verl Halterman home.

The first crop of grass uses much of the nitrogen and potash in the soil. Purdue University agronomists recommend top-dressing with 50-75 pounds of nitrogen and potash per acre. This will give the second crop a push and may prevent alfalfa, a heavy user of potash, from starving.

Once a month the merchants of Mentone publish a special shopper publication, and as a consequence many of the advertisements normally found in the News are in the Shopper that week.

School Now Has Top Rating

Trustee H. Earl Boggs announced this week that he has received notification from the State Department of Public Instruction that the Mentone school is now on a first class rating. It had been on a continuous commission. The school was recently inspected by a representative of the state department and the high rating resulted from that examination, which covers subject matter taught, quality of the instructors, facilities, condition in which the school is kept, and many other points.

Only three other township schools in the county enjoy this rating. They are Pierceton, Syracuse and North Webster.

Summer Recreation

Clayton Myers, who will supervise the summer program for the youngsters, announces that there will be afternoon recreation for the boys from 1:00 to 3:30 Monday, Wednesday and Friday of each week, at the athletic field. There will be games, contests and other activities to train and entertain the youngsters.

Mrs. Frank Dickey of Akron, called on Myrtle Dickey Tuesday.

Interested In

The Mentone Boy's League Association is planning to run a bus to a Warsaw lake for swimming this summer. We would like to have all who are interested in this project to meet in Room 210 at the high school on June 13 at 7:30 p. m.

We would like to have all the youth and their parents who are interested to attend this meeting. The purpose of this meeting is to organize and set up rules, etc.

RAIN APLENTY

The past few days the Mentone vicinity has been the recipient of some much-needed rainfall. At times tornadoes have threatened but local damage from this has been slight.

To Hold Open House

Dr. and Mrs. Wymond Wilson invite their many friends and the people of the community to an open house to be held at their new medical building located across the street east from the Mentone Baptist church. From two until five o'clock on Sunday afternoon, June 15th, all are invited to make a personal tour of the new 11-room structure.

The 30 x 50 building, shown in the view below, is constructed of brick and all the floors are beautifully tiled. An entrance at the east end is an enclosed area for ambulance patients.

The reception and waiting room, shown below with Mrs. Wilson at the window, is finished in wood panelling. A hallway runs the entire length of the building, with rooms on either side. Dr. Wilson has his own private office in addition to a storage and medical room, two examining rooms, X-ray room, recovery and emergency room, drug room and two rest rooms.

Dr. and Mrs. Wilson have established a very busy practice in their short stay in our community, and our people do appreciate the services of a resident practitioner. Mentone is indeed fortunate to have the medical aid it does. The Urschel Clinic that specializes in clinical research, is visited by people from a wide area, also.

A big response to the open house invitation is expected from the citizens of our community.

Lions Entertain
4-H Youth

The Mentone Lions Club was host to a number of the agricultural students at their regular meeting held a week ago tonight. Leroy Norris, chairman of the Lions agricultural committee, presented the group after they had enjoyed a delicious fish supper.

Robert Hewlett, agricultural instructor in the school, turned the meeting over to Becky Keirn and Janice Davis who introduced the program that had been prepared by the youngsters. This included a piano solo by Miss Davis, Jim Keirn gave a talk on his recent trip to camp, Martha Nelson gave a fine reading, and Steve Hewlett played a piano solo.

Mr. Hewlett then gave a brief resume of the 4-H club work the past year. He said there were 40 members in the Harrison Hustlers club and their work involved a total of 90 projects. They had 11 new members, and the club had a number that have had a total of seven to nine years of 4-H participation. Doyle Eller placed first in the county poultry demonstration (and has since placed first in the district), and their judging teams came out third in all events.

Renamed to

Mrs. Pauline Riner, of Mentone, has been hired for her 12th year as county attendance officer, according to an announcement by Mr. Whitehead, county superintendent of schools.

Businessmen
Beware

The Better Business Bureau of Fort Wayne today warned businessmen to beware of the operations of a Dayton, Ohio, directory firm currently flooding the mails here with a solicitation type billing.

A BBB spokesman said many businessmen may think the solicitation is from R. L. Polk, producers of the City Directory, or General Telephone for its yellow classified sections. Such is not the case, the Bureau pointed out.

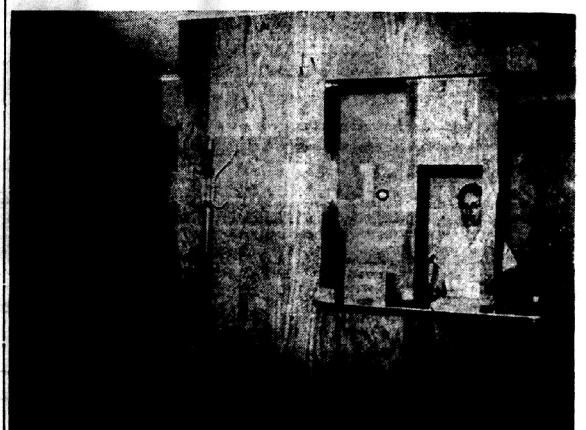

Investigation of the Dayton Firm, the spokesman said, shows this is its first venture in the listing business, despite its claim that businessmen signing up will be "placed in the Bourbon section of a new classified directory."

The Bureau urges businessmen contacted by the Dayton firm to check with the Bureau before taking any action.

Watch For Bagworms

Bagworms are among the most destructive pests of arbor vitae, evergreens and sometimes other trees and shrubs, Glen Lehker, Purdue University extension entomologist, asserts. The worms have been unusually abundant for the past two seasons and considerable damage can be expected in Indiana again this year.

The worms are difficult to see because they live inside of spindle-shaped bags embedded with foliage from the tree upon which they feed. These bags look so much like a part of the tree itself, that the insects are often overlooked, until defoliation becomes noticeable. The bags are nature's way of protecting the worms against birds and other enemies that would otherwise destroy them.

Bagworm eggs hatch around the first in central Indiana and earlier south. The tiny worms first construct a bag which may be no more than a quarter inch in length. This they will continue to enlarge as they feed and grow.

Control is best obtained by spraying with malathion, preferably about the middle of June after the egg hatch has been completed. The concentration is two teaspoonfuls of a 57 percent liquid concentrate in each gallon of water. For large scale spraying this amounts to one pint in 50 gallons.

Arbor vitae and other thick foliage trees and shrubs are difficult to wet thoroughly with a spray. Most failures to secure control result from incomplete coverage, Lehker says.

Lead arsenate is an old-time remedy and will work while the worms are small, but it is of little value late in the season.

The Merry Mollys Meet

The Merry Molly's Home Demonstration Club met Monday evening at Pete's Lunch Room with Mrs. Dean Meyer as hostess and Mrs. Marion Smith, co-hostess.

The meeting was opened by giving Pledge to the Flag, the club creed and singing, "America the Beautiful". Meditation was given by Mrs. Glen Puterbaugh. Mrs. Don Bennett gave the Health & Safety report on "Sleeping Sickness." A very interesting lesson was given by Mrs. Herschel McGowen on "Salads for Various Occasions." Mrs. Marion Smith gave a report on the "Citizenship Lesson". Mrs. Robert Hibschan talked on various lessons for the coming year.

Mrs. Glen Mellott presided at a short business session. A family picnic was planned.

A pink and blue shower was given in honor of Mrs. Jerry Hudson.

Mrs. Carl Whetstone and Mrs. Harold Horn received Secret Pal gifts. Door prize was won by Mrs. David Cooper.

Delicious freshments were served to fifteen members.

The July meeting will be held at the City Park at Rochester.

The amount needed is nine teaspoonfuls per gallon of water. The details of these treatments are given in Purdue mimeo E-28, available from county extension offices.

Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Witham were Mrs. Howard Stutzman and children, Mrs. Robert Bernett and family of Etna Green.

Mrs. Lena Lgo called on Mrs. Alfred Teel Saturday afternoon.

Home Dem. Club Meets

The Friendly Neighbors Home Demonstration Club met June 5 at Pete's Social Room with Nellie Riner, hostess, assisted by Reatha Ballenger. The meeting was opened with the pledge to the flag, the club creed, and the singing of "America the Beautiful". Rhoda Jones read "An Open Letter to God" and "I'm Just An Old Dumb Country Woman." The Health and Safety report by Altha Harold was on "Fighting Farm Fires". The Song of the Month "Let Me Call You Sweetheart" was led by Maude Romine.

The lesson "The Family Market Basket" was presented by Jerry Nellans. The object of the lesson was to help Women become more aware of what they are buying and the costs. Farmers today are buying more food than ever before. An average of twenty-five percent of family income is spent for food. Members were urged to: Make grocery list at home, study labels, take advantage of sales and specials, and buy in quantity.

Response by 17 members to roll call was "Where We Were Married." Cheerio Gifts were received by Rhoda Jones, Altha Harold, Golda Mollenhour and Frances Olson.

Tasty refreshments were enjoyed at tables decorated with lovely roses, peonies, iris, and lilies.

"Act with Kindness, but do not expect gratitude."

THANK YOU!!!

"Thank you" are two small words but they come from the bottom of my heart as I strive to find some way to express my sincere appreciation to all you nice people who helped make the 5th Annual Audrey Miller Goodwill Clothing Drive a success. It was the biggest and best drive we have had and it is because YOU cooperated so well. May God richly bless all of you.

Remember—in case you didn't have your contributions ready for the drive you may bring them to my home at any time throughout the year. I will appreciate it so very much—thanks again.

Commercial Livestock Slaughter Up From Farming To Agribusiness

Commercial livestock slaughter in Indiana during April totaled 467,900 head, six percent above March and seven percent above April, 1957, according to state-federal agricultural statisticians at Purdue University.

Slaughter totals indicate the marketings of livestock by farmers and the availability of meat. Commercial slaughter includes that of packing plants and local butchers, but excludes farm slaughter.

The liveweight of all livestock slaughtered in April was 141,923,000 pounds, six percent above March and two percent above April a year ago.

Total liveweight of the 52,000 head of cattle slaughtered in April was 49,504,000 pounds, four percent above March, but six percent below April, 1957.

The 12,600 calves slaughtered had a total liveweight of 2,444,000 pounds. This was 14 percent above the previous month, but 26 percent below April, 1957, the statisticians said.

Liveweight of the 391,000 hogs was 88,757,000 pounds, eight percent above March and nine percent above April a year ago.

The 12,300 head of sheep and lambs slaughtered had a total liveweight of 1,218,000 pounds, 12 percent above the March figure, but 24 percent below April, 1957.

Output of red meat by commercial slaughter plants throughout the country totaled 1,987 million pounds in April. This was four percent above the March output, but three percent below the 2,041 million pound produced in April 1957.

Notes For Boat Hauling Autoists

More motorists than ever are expected to use their cars this summer to take pleasure boats to vacation areas. The Motor Club estimates that 750,000 motorists will be hauling boats by car and urges boat owners to observe safety rules on the highway.

The club points out that many boat owners will use trailers to transport their crafts over highways; some 150,000 such vehicles were sold during 1957. But the club says this increased load on the nation's highways will present no problem if owners exercise a sense of responsibility and caution in transporting their boats.

The motor club offers the following tips to boat-owning motorists:

1. When hauling a boat trailer, drive at a slower rate of speed. Large boats add considerable weight to a moving car and longer stopping distances are required.

2. Allow extra room for the trailer when turning corners. You should also take this into consideration when pulling out to pass and when returning to the proper lane after passing.

3. Sharp turns should be taken at slower than normal speeds as the trailer may tend to broadside.

4. Make certain the trailer hitch is tight. For all but the lightest rigs, the hitch should be attached to the car frame, not just the bumper.

5. Use a safety chain between the car and the trailer. This is required in most states.

6. Stop and tail lights on back of the trailer are also required in most states.

7. Use reflecting tape or reflectors as clearance markers on the back of the trailer or boat. They will give some protection if tail lights burn out or become disconnected. Reflectors are required by law in most states.

8. A large boat will obscure a car's turn signals. Either install signals on the trailer or be sure to give visible and accurate hand signals at all times.

9. A boat may be damaged seriously by bouncing in the trailer cradle. If you secure your boat to the trailer by rope or straps, check periodically for looseness.

Agribusiness is a new term used to describe the breadth and significance of modern agriculture in our growing economy. Farming as a business is replacing farming as a way of life.

Many off-farm businesses now handle jobs formerly done on the farm. Suppliers, processors and distributors, as well as producers, of farm products are integral parts of the total agricultural production, explains Paul Farris, Purdue University agricultural economist.

The concept of agribusiness was developed by John H. Davis and Ray A. Goldberg of the Harvard Business School. They point out that in 1910 the United States agri-business complex—farm supplies, farming, processing and distribution—produced an output valued at 8.9 billion dollars, of which farming accounted for 54 percent. In 1954 the output of agribusiness was valued at 75 billion dollars of which farming accounted for only 17 percent.

Retailing and wholesaling added to the total output of agribusiness raised consumer expenditures for agricultural products to an estimated 93 billion dollars in 1954—a little more than one-fourth of the total gross national product and about 40 percent of total United States consumer expenditures. Twenty-four million people were employed in agribusiness in 1954—about 37 percent of the nation's labor force.

Farris points out that Indiana is more agricultural than the United States as a whole. In 1954 cash receipts from sales of Indiana farm products were a little more than one billion dollars—11 percent of the estimated economic output of the state. For the nation, cash receipts from farm marketings accounted for eight percent of the nation's gross output in 1954.

If off-the-farm agricultural sectors are included, roughly one-third of Indiana's economic output comes from agricultural industry and more than 40 percent of the people of Indiana obtain their livelihood from employment in agribusiness.

Farris suggests that farmers with suitable storage space and a crop of storable quality may want to consider holding their wheat a few months to take advantage of expected price increases after harvest.

Prices levels later in the season are greatly influenced by the loan rate, he explains. Consequently, storage may not be attractive unless the price at harvest is substantially below loan.

Holding costs to March, 1959, would be approximately 14 cents a bushel, plus a risk factor of maintaining quality of the grain while it is in storage, Farris says. This cost applies even though a loan is taken out on the wheat.

Wheat Market Situation

Wheat prices at harvest are expected to average around 15 cents a bushel below the $1.78 loan rate, according to W. S. Farris, Purdue University agricultural economist.

Large carry over stocks and an expected winter wheat crop 43 percent larger than last year will probably keep wheat prices from working above the loan rate later in the season, he adds.

The 1958 wheat crop may be the fourth largest on record.

The annual disappearance of the crop approaches a billion bu. Marketing quotas have been proclaimed for the 1959 wheat crop, subject to approval by the growers voting in a referendum June 20. Quotas become effective only if approved by at least two-thirds of those voting.

Purdue University dairy scientists report these two key pasture management practices: Adjust grazing to the growing habits of grasses and legumes; rotational grazing stimulates fresh growth and removes excess growth.

AGRIBUSINESS OUTLOOK

REPORTING USEFUL TRENDS IN THE RELATION OF AGRICULTURE TO BUSINESS

Hog production in cycles

Hog production is moving in definite cycles, much as cattle production. This now is officially recognized for the first time by the U. S. Department of Agriculture. It's part of the swiftly changing farm pattern of extreme importance to agribusiness—not only to farmers, but to industry on both sides of the farmer, and to consumers.

The hog-corn ratio apparently is on the way out as a means of measuring the course of hog output and prices. Until now, the prevailing belief was that the ratio between prices of hogs and prices of corn—alternately favorable and unfavorable to hog production—was the mechanism which kept hog output in line with corn supply.

But hog crop fluctuations no longer are linked closely to the size of the corn production, more frequently go up and down regardless of corn crop.

These are the conclusions of Harold Breimyer, chief livestock economist of USDA's marketing service. Recognizing the existence of a hog cycle, USDA pig crop and price forecasts from now on will rely more on the cycle theory.

For example: In the spring of 1955, farrowings increased by more than the normal reaction to the ratio of 12.8 the preceding fall. In the spring of 1956, they decreased only a little despite a low 11.4 ratio. In the spring of 1957, the 3 percent reduction was about in line with the 12.3 ratio. In 1958, the 6 percent more spring pigs indicated is a much smaller gain than last fall's very favorable 16.9 ratio normally would have led to.

Since 1948, we've had 2 complete hog cycles, and the start of a third. The cycle apparently runs 5-6 years—2 to 3 years of increased production, 2 to 3 years decline. Starting in 1948, production went up 3 years from about 85 million head to 100 million, and down sharply in 2 years. Went up from about 78 million in 1953 in 2 years to 95 million, and down in 2 years. Started upward again in 1957, continuing this year, probably next.

Breimyer says: "On the basis of cyclical sequence, a fairly sharp expansion of hog production would be expected in 1959. The cycle pattern seems regular enough to bear watching. One of the goals of the hog industry, as of the cattle industry, should be to reduce the amplitude of cyclical swings."

Farm Prices Stabilizing

The upward spiral of farmland prices is slowing down, and may stabilize during the next 6 months, on a national basis.

During the 4 months ended Mar. 1, land values increased only one percent—but now stand 6 percent higher than last spring. USDA real estate reporters believe price of average farms would decline this summer, good quality farm prices are expected to decline in all Eastern Regions, except New England where little change is expected, and West North Central States where further increases are likely.

Average value per acre of farmland by production regions, as of March, 1958: Northeast, $233.80; Corn Belt, $206.47; Lake States, $137.75; Appalachian, $119.75; Southeast, $100.06; Delta States, $104.00; Southern Plains, $72.07; Northern Plains, $66.31; Mountain, $32.85; Pacific, $194.20. The U. S. average is $100.39.

Corn can be Over-heated

Our advice on corn-drying is now official. Two months ago, we cautioned farmers and elevator operators not to over-heat wet corn through artificial drying methods. The other day, the Agriculture Department put out an official release giving the same advice—in almost the same words.

In short, USDA says if corn is overheated during drying it becomes unfit for industrial and food processing. Keep drying temperatures below 140 degrees Fahrenheit. Corn dried at too high a temperature is "like trying to beat a hard-boiled egg." USDA scientists say, and most processors shy away from such corn.

There also is evidence that over-heating reduces the feed value of corn.

Antibiotics Proving Themselves

Antibiotics in dairy rations bring dramatic results. Late last fall we announced federal approval of one antibiotic, aureomycin, for lactating dairy cow rations. Half a year later what is dairyman experience? April 15 issue of Montana Farmer-Stockholm gives the answer of two Teton County dairymen—Harry and Lee Stott, who milk an average of 45 cows on their separate farms.

The answer, as Farmer-Stockholm sums it up: "You can bring old bossy through the winter as sick as a fat kitten, add an extra ten per cent to your milk or cream check and cut your medicine bill to virtually nothing."

Best news of all in the report of these two operators, is that the cost of this miracle addition to the feed ration was about 1 cent invested for every 10 cents returned in actual increased milk production." Also, no scours, no foot rot.

Beware of Cholera

Red flag is up on Hog Cholera. Are farmers invited a cholera epidemic? There's a growing apprehension among disease experts that they are.

A recent official survey shows that farmers are relaxing their guard against this most serious of all swine infections—by not vaccinating. The survey shows that during the past several years the number of pig given shots has declined seriously—from more than 50 percent of all pigs before 1952, down to less than 40 percent now. And the trend seems to be continuing.

While there's no evidence at present that the incidence of hog cholera is on the upswing—it could happen, quick. The more pigs left unprotected, the greater the danger of epidemic. Under "normal" conditions, farmers lose about $40 million a year to the disease. A big outbreak could make that look like peanuts.

Besides a greater number of unprotected pigs, disease officials fear that there may not be enough vaccine to fight an outbreak if it comes.

New Fly Killer

"Flychology" isn't in the dictionary, but farmers practicing it are crazy about the fly-kill they're getting. Flies like the color red... and they like to rest on suspended strings. Manufacturers put the two together, added parathion (a contact poison) and came up with red, impregnated cotton cord. Called Fly-cord, it's been one the market for a couple years and now is expected to boom since farmers, meat packers, other have seen what it can do.

Economical, treated cords give 24-hour, season-long, one-shot control. Impregnated cords have been farm-approved by USDA, most state colleges. Developed by U. S. Public Health Service, some before-after 3-week results look like this: 350-0, 1150-60, 315-30.

Used only inside buildings. Fly-cord kills flies through the feet. They can't build up resistance to parathion. Follow label instructions closely.

Stock Tranquilizers

Tranquilizers are finding an important place in livestock production. Food and Drug Administration has just cleared a new one to be used as an injection in cattle shipped to feedlots. It's the first tranquilizer for which these claims are made: Cuts weight loss and shrinkage of shipped stock by about 3 percent, helps reduce incidence of shipping fever, pneumonia and other diseases, and speeds animal adjustment to new environment and feed. Check your veterinarian.

BIRTHDAY SURPRISE

The children and grandchildren of Lon Walters very pleasantly surprised him when they walked in on him on his birthday. Ice cream, cake, pie and coffee were served to all. The evening was spent visiting and having a general good time.

Planning That Summer Trip

Are the children going along with you on this year's motor trip?

If so, you had better plan ahead for their comfort and safety. Failure to do so can lead to an uncomfortable trip for all concerned.

The Motor Club suggests that you follow a simple program designed to keep the children contented and to make your trip more enjoyable.

To begin with, children should be told in advance where they are going. This will make them more interested in the trip and give them something to plan and look forward to.

Children should be outfitted with cool, easily-washed clothing. Shorts, jeans, T-shirts, and wrinkle-resistant blouses are ideal.

To keep healthy and comfortable, they should eat only in good, clean restaurants and drink only from approved water supplies.

Because of the lack of exercise due to traveling, it is often wise to cut down to two full meals a day. However, plenty of fresh fruit should be kept on hand for snacks. Of course, overindulgence in candy and sweets shouldn't be permitted. And a thermos jug of water, pasteurized milk, or hot chocolate will be appreciated by everyone.

The baby's formula, incidentally, should never be carried in a thermos jug. It can't be sterilized and therefore is an ideal place for bacteria to thrive.

If the trip is a short one, the formula can be poured into sterilized bottles and capped, then placed in the refrigerator until cold. For the car ride, pack the bottles in a bucket of ice.

Canned milk or formulas, along with sterilized and capped nursing bottles, can be obtained at many restaurants and each individual formula can be mixed in the bottle as needed. On longer trips, bottles will have to be boiled along the route each day.

should make them more contented riders, especially if they can do something active such as playing catch. Be sure that all such activity is in a safe place, away from traffic.

To help pass the time in the car, create automobile games for the youngsters. Children can become interested in such games as counting out-of-state licenses, looking for different makes of cars, and spotting birds and animals.

A piece of board can serve as an adequate drawing table and a small bag filled with miniature toys can keep the little ones happy.

For the slightly older child, word games can be both fun and educational. This can include spelling games, guessing games, or one of the many brain-teasers borrowed from television.

Remember this: Children who are not allowed to become bored seldom become mischievous and irritating.

The safest place for children to ride is in the back seat, and the car should be packed in such a way that the rear seat is not overcrowded.

Children riding in the back seat should be warned that door handles are not for play. If possible, an adult or older child should be in the back along with the younger ones. And it's a good idea to have pillows along for an occasional nap.

You'll find things much smoother if you limit your driving to 400 miles a day. Motor Club safety and touring experts advise an early start in the morning and a checking in time no later than 5 p. m.

Family motoring can be a rich and rewarding experience for members to share in the years ahead. But it takes careful planning to make the trip a memorable one for both children and adults.

CELEBRATE 25TH WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

Mr. and Mrs. Chester Ballenger were pleasantly surprised Saturday evening, June 14th on their 25th wedding Anniversary at the "Steer Inn."

A Silver Money Tree with 25 silver dollars was presented to the couple.

A delicious supper was served to Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Ballenger, Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Ballenger and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Deverl Jefferies and family, Mr. and Mrs. Ike Jefferies, Mr. and Mrs. Arkie Leckrone and Mr. and Mrs. Mickey Eaton and family of Rochester.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Dear Art:

The dedication of Dr. Wilson's office this past Sunday gives us all an opportunity to express our appreciation and thankfulness for our good fortune in having Dr. and Mrs. Wilson in our community. In this day of increasing specialization in medicine, the truly dedicated family doctor is becoming rare indeed. In past years, Mentone was very fortunate in having such doctors, but following the death or retirement of Drs. Yocum and Clutter, it appeared that we were never going to have a replacement of that caliber. When Dr. and Mrs. Wilson made their decision to settle in Mentone, it was based upon their liking for the community and the people whom they met on their first visit here, and upon their desire to live in a small town like ours. When a relationship between community and physician starts on that basis, and is immediately cemented by the acceptance and trust which people gave him, it was a foregone conclusion that "Doc" and Arleda would soon be a permanent part of our lives.

It is obvious that I have personal reasons for being thankful for Dr. Wilson's presence. His splendid care of general practice problems enables me to confine myself to my chosen specialty. Our personal friendship and professional relationships have been a source of constant enjoyment to me, but above everything else, I am thankful for his being here for what he means to us as residents in this community.

Yours sincerely,
Dan L. Urschel, M. D.

Verl Halterman is at his home where he is improving steadily.

Band In State
Fair Contest

Indianapolis, Ind.—Mentone's 50 piece marching band will participate in the Indiana State Fair Band contest set for Thursday, August 28 beginning at 8 a. m. in front of the Grandstand.

Some 15,000 spectators are expected to watch the contest which has been hailed as one of the most colorful and competitive band extravaganzas in the country. There will be no admission charge to the Grandstand for this special event.

The Mentone band is under the leadership of Kenneth Bush.

Five nationally known band directors, all from outside Indiana, will judge the contest. The bands will compete for $1,000 in cash prizes and trophies.

The winner of last year's contest was Anderson High School with Franklin High School taking top honors in 1956. Vincennes High School won in 1955.

This year the Indiana State Fair is scheduled from August 27 through September 4.

New County
Agent On Duty

Donald E. Frantz has assumed his duties as Kosciusko County agricultural agent. He replaces Paul Jackson who resigned April 25, to become Allen county agent.

Frantz is originally from Tippecanoe county. He is a graduate of Purdue university, having majored in agricultural economics.

He resides with his wife, Mildred, daughter Mary Alice, 8, and son Jim, age four at 903 E. Ft. Wayne St., in Warsaw.

Lions Club
Installs Officers

A father and son banquet was held last night as the final meeting of the Summer season.

Out-going president, Kenneth Romine thanked all the members for their fine cooperation during the year. There were 9 projects completed during the year.

The club also enjoyed a 75 percent attendance.

Raymond Cooper installed the following officers: Raymond Lewis, president; Forrest Miner, 1st vice; John Frederick, 2nd vice; Lewis Pulling, 3rd vice; Arthur Kendall, Secretary; Zanna Hammer, Treasurer; Noah Tinkey, Tail Twister; Edward Davis, Lion Tamer; Vern Wittkamper and Thomas Harman, Directors.

The next meeting will be held on September 3rd.

IT IS NOT TOO LATE:

There is still plenty of time to join the Vacation Reading Club at the Mentone Library. Any child who was in one of the first six grades at school last year may belong to the club and have fun, along with the seventy-two children who are now reading books and "Playing Indian." For reading a book of the grade he will be in next year, a child receives one point; for one grade higher two points and for books marked two grades above his grade he receives three points. With his first three points he earns an Indian head band and with each succeeding point he will receive a feather or emblem to make up his War Bonnet.

When the head dress is finished, the child continues reading and earning other Indian trophies. Ten children have earned thirty-nine points each and have their War Bonnets finished. Four have completed their Indian Wigwams and one has completed the canoe and paddle and received an Indian to paddle the canoe. Don't forget, second graders, that Mrs. Buck said she would be watching next fall to see your War Bonnet.

The poppy posters are now at the library and the owners may call for them there. The library will have on display this week and next the pictures which the Mentone Art Department entered in the Regional Art Contest winning two gold keys and four awards of Merit. After June 27 the owners of the pictures may call for them at the Library.

Mrs. Erb lived with her niece, Mrs. Ora Shoemaker. She had resided in Akron for the past 14 years.

Surviving are one sister, Mrs. Amanda Barber, of Akron, and three nieces. Two sisters and one brother preceded her in death.

Services will be held at the Sheetz funeral home in Akron at 2 p. m. Thursday. Rev. Victor Yeager will officiate. Burial will be in the Akron cemetery. Friends may call at the funeral home until the hour of service.

Open House Held

Open house was held at the newly constructed offices of Dr. Wilson last Sunday.

The day was well attended with a number of local people as well as some out of town guests attending.

The weather man was very cooperative and gave a very nice day for the folks to enjoy this event.

The new offices were full of floral pieces and Dr. Wilson directed the guests through and explained some of the equipment.

We of this community should feel fortunate that we have adequate medical services available.

Clayton Goodwin is still in the Woodlawn hospital and is about the same.

DIXIE BERGSTROM, Reporter

Drowned out, low areas of rotation pastures still can furnish summer grazing if the land can be disc and seeded to Greenleaf sudangrass, Purdue University agronomists point out. They suggest 25 pounds per acre after the field dries in June.

Cattle feeders can also make good use of pasture. Cattle that are thin and empty, weighing from 500 to 600 pounds, will make good use of pasture without being fed grain. Thin cattle should put on about 250 pounds during the summer. It is possible to produce as high as 400 pounds or more of beef per acre on good pasture, Mayo says.

Take inventory of repair parts required for a trouble-free hay harvest and order new parts now, suggest Purdue University agricultural engineers.

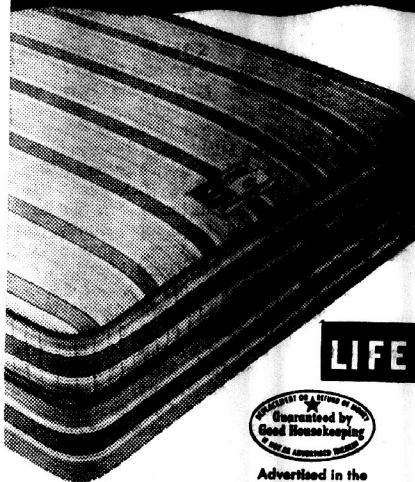

Purdue poultry specialists advise clipping the poultry pasture to hold down weeds and to encourage new growth of succulent forage.

It Pays To Read The Advertisements

For the last two years my son Jerry has filled and operated my Farmall "M" tractor on propane gas and I consider it safer to fill and use than gasoline.

This is my third season since I overhauled the engine and it has good compression and runs and idles very smooth. I farm over 300 acres so I consider it has had plenty of hard use to test the propane. I find it to be about one third cheaper to operate than gasoline.

2,4-D Weed Control In Corn

If ordinary cultivation fails to do an adequate job of weed eradication in corn fields, spraying with 2,4-D is practical and economical.

O. C. Lee, Purdue University extension botanist, points out that spraying should be used in conjunction with cultivation, not in place of it. Cultivation is needed to control grassy weeds and to condition the soil.

Spraying will often reduce the number of cultivations necessary, Lee asserts. It also will clean out the weeds in the row, where cultivation cannot reach.

The stage of weed growth rather than the size of corn should be the guide in timing applications of 2,4-D, according to Lee.

The chemical may be applied at any time after the corn emerges, but the best results are obtained when the weeds are small.

Until the corn is a foot high, a straight boom is the most practical for spraying. When larger corn is sprayed, drops should be attached to the boom in order to apply the spray at the base of the corn and directly on the weeds. Spraying the leaves of older corn not only may cause injury to the corn, but will not kill the weeds because they are protected by the broad corn leaves.

Two-thirds of a pint of a 40 percent 2,4-D in 10 gallons of water per acre is the recommended dosage. Either the amine or ester forms may be used. When ester forms are used the low volatile type is preferred. This is safer to use near susceptible crops, such as soybeans, tomatoes and clovers.

Lee cautions against overdosing with the chemical since damage to the corn may result.

D. A. R. Meets

The Anthony Nigo Chapter, D. A. R. held their June meeting, the last of the season, on Tuesday evening, June 10th, at the very beautiful Honeywell, Wabash. Upon arrival our hostesses, Mrs. Omer Drudge and Mrs. Paul Shireman, greeted us and presented each with a lovely corsage of roses. A delicious 3 course dinner was served in a lovely private dining room while the playing of soft music lent its charm. The long table was artistically decorated with low bowls of roses, peonies and honeysuckle. At each place was a dainty white nut cup encircled with rows of blue and red ribbon ending with a rosette on the side with a small U. S. Flag fastened in its folds.

The meeting was opened by our regent, Mrs. Eldred Paulus with the ritualistic service and singing of one verse of the Star Spangled Banner.

The President General's message was read by Mrs. Arthur Brown.

Mrs. Paulus appointed her program committee for the coming year as follows.

Mrs. Dale Cook, Chairman; Mrs. Ray Linn, Mrs. Ernest Igo and Mrs. Arthur Brown.

"Happy Birthday" was sung to Mrs. Brown, her birthday following on this Tuesday. Also it was reported that a son had been born to one of our members, Mrs. Marilyn Holt on this day.

A donation to the Cancer fund from The Anthony Nigo Chapter, D. A. R. in memory of Furell R. Burns was recorded and a grateful and sincere "Thank You" letter from Mrs. Burns was read.

Mrs. Paulus gave a fine report on our D. A. R. North District Group meeting held recently at Plymouth. A guest, Mrs. C. L. Vandergilt, State Chaplain from Wabash gave a very inspiring message in keeping with her work. She emphasized that, "As we serve God we serve our nation." Mrs. Lawrence L. Guenin State Chairman of Press Relations and her sister, Mrs. Glen Hyley, State Scrap Book chairman from LaFontaine, Rt. 1, were also guests and gave very interesting talks concerning different phases of their work.

Mrs. Paul Shireman told of our recent trip to Westville at which time she presented an Indiana Flag, a gift from The Anthony Nigo Chapter, to Dr. David P. Morton, Supt. of the Dr. Norman M. Beatty Memorial Hospital at Westville. A very gracious "Thank You" letter from Dr. Morton was read. Mrs. Ray Linn gave an account of the trip made by some chapter members to the reception for our State Regent, Mrs. John G. Biel, which was held at the Terre Haute Country Club recently. Mrs. Linn gave this in the form of an open letter, the incidents therein proving to be quite humorous.

An invitation from the Dr. Manasseh Cutler Chapter of No. Manchester was extended to The Anthony Nigo to join them on June 16 at their D. A. R. meeting to be held at Lake Tippecanoe at the Priser Cottage. Mrs. Frank Smith, Northern District Director from Mentone will show her colored slides taken at Washington, D. C. during the Continental Congress this spring. Mrs. C. L. Vandergilt, State Chaplain, installed our officers for the coming year in a very impressive ceremony.

Regent, Mrs. Eldred Paulus; Vice Regent, Mrs. Dale Cook; Chaplain, Mrs. Vera Kelly; Secretary, Mrs. Garwin Eaton; Treasurer, Mrs. Ernest Igo; Historian, Mrs. Sherman Bybee; Registrar, Mrs. Bernice Rush.

Mrs. Paul Shireman was in charge of the program which was in keeping with Flag Day. She gave a dramatic narration, "Old Glory to New" with piano accompaniment by Miss Marilyn Rathfon. This was much enjoyed by all. Marilyn, an excellent pianist, is attending Wheaton Conservatory where she is majoring in Music.

The meeting closed with the singing of "Blest Be The Tie That Binds."

War Mothers

Dora Whetstone was hostess to the Mothers of World War II, Monday, June 9. Dora Norris, president, opened the meeting with presenting of the flag by Sgt.-at-Arms Elnora Coplen, pledging of allegiance to the flag; singing one verse of the National anthem; prayer by the Chaplain, Bertha Meredith. Guests were introduced and welcomed: Mrs. M. D. Green, Mrs. Bertha Pence and Mrs. Edith Haney of the Sidney unit. 16 members answered roll call. The secretary's report was read and approved. Marie Coleman reported on her findings of our annual trip to the Veterans' Hospital in Fort Wayne. It was voted we go in July.

The District picnic at Winimac Park the 24th was announced and several expressed their desire to go.

The July meeting is to be held at Elnora Coplen's.

A report of the District meeting which was held at Star City on May 22 was given, this proved to be a very enjoyable and instructive meeting.

Closed with the usual closing ceremony. During the social hour a contest was held by the social committee, the hostesses assisted by Edith Young served refreshments.

Three or four inches of sawdust applied between the rows of the strawberry bed will keep down the weeds, conserve moisture and reduce the labor in keeping the bed clean, Purdue University horticulturists assert.

Summer Alfalfa Fertilization

Lafayette, Ind. Alfalfa and alfalfa-grass hay stands should have ample supplies of phosphorus and potash if good second and third cuttings are to be obtained, according to J. L. Morrow, Purdue University extension agronomist.

Many Indiana soils have enough of these elements to produce a good first cutting, but not enough to produce good yields in the later cuttings, he points out.

For each three tons of hay produced in the first cutting a top-dressing of from 175 to 225 lbs. of 60 percent muriate of potash should be applied. This is the amount needed to return to the soil the same quantity of potash that the first three-ton hay crop removed.

Morrow recommends that the muriate of potash be broadcast soon after the hay is removed from the field, and before much new top growth has occurred. If the soil tests below medium (200 pounds) in potash, the rate of application should be increased to insure an adequate supply the year round.

If the phosphate test is below 150 pounds, superphosphate should also be applied. The superphosphate and potash may be purchased separately as 60 percent muriate of potash and 45 percent superphosphate. The fertilizers then can be placed in an easy flow type spreader in the amounts of each that will give the desired units of each when spread. Morrow says that if the spreader is filled with alternate layers of the two materials it will do a good job of mixing.

Alfalfa is an expensive crop to establish. Lack of potash causes the stand to thin out. Lack of phosphorus results in short growth.

Topdressing now is the way to prevent both of these things from happening to the alfalfa crop, Morrow advises.

Trapline Will Pay Big Dividends

A paying trapline within the boundaries of the barnyard?

It's possible. All that's needed is a dozen traps and some time, a staff member of the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service said today.

"The farmer or farm youth running such a line on a year-round basis won't catch any mink or muskrats," William D. Fitzwater, Jr., assistant district agent, said. "But such a line will produce plenty of rats and every rat caught will bring savings equal to the price of a mink pelt."

He went on to explain that the average mink pelt may bring about $15 to $20, but a rat will eat 25 pounds of food a year and contaminate or spoil 10 pounds for each pound he eats, in addition to damaging buildings and carrying diseases to livestock and humans.

In short, Mr. Fitzwater said, even with the newer weapons against rats, in the form of anticoagulant type poisons, the old-time wooden base trap still is an effective rat-getter, and a valuable supplement to a baiting program.

Mr. Fitzwater's tips on running that barnyard trapline:

The trap can be made more sensitive by enlarging the bait pan with a piece of cardboard or wire screen. Traps modified in this fashion can be placed in runways where the rodents normally travel. A box should be placed along side the trap so that the rat or mouse has to squeeze across the trigger.

The bait pan can be left unbaited, but the rodents ARE attracted by a bit of peanut butter or a few oats. If rat or mice runs cross on wooden joists, traps can be nailed in place.

The traps need not be boiled or other efforts made to remove human odors or the scent of rats previously caught. Rats and mice are not repelled by these odors. Everything they touch usually is associated with human beings and the odor of a rat's dead kin only attracts him.

Fitzwater advised leaving the traps in place for several days, thus overcoming the instinctive shyness rats exhibit toward new objects. This trait is sometimes mistakenly thought to be cleverness on the part of these animals, Mr. Fitzwater said.

Finally, the expert advised, a number of traps, a dozen or so, should be used rather than relying on one or two to do the job.

Seward Twp.
Farm Bureau

The Seward Township Farm Bureau met at the Franklin School for its June meeting. The meeting opened with group singing led by Mrs. Murphy with Jackie Pfeiffer at the piano. Devotions were given by Margaret Clark who read, "Working in Faith," and led in the "Lord's Prayer." Philip Murphy played a cornet solo, "Faith of Our Fathers."

The secretary and treasurer's report was read and approved.

The chairman urged all to attend the county picnic and amateur contest at the women's building on July 6. The August meeting—a joint meeting with Franklin and Lake townships—will also be a picnic, perhaps at Dick and Hazel's.

Howard Silveus reminded people of the Field Day to be held at the Rhodes' farm, north of Piercetown. Conservation officers plan to be there, and machinery companies will have displays there. The date is July 24. The rain date—July 25.

Because of the absence of the speaker, the S & E leader gave pointers on safety and spoke of June being dairy month.

Howard Silveus explained the work of the Producers' Association. Its advisory committee consists of four men from Kosciusko county, two from Fulton county and two from Marshall county. He also spoke briefly on insurance available for hogs, lamb pools, and the new markets opened throughout the state.

The entire group then enjoyed the cartoons secured for the Pet and Hobby members.

Door prizes were won by Mrs. Murphy, Howard Silveus and Will Steller. The meeting adjourned and refreshments were served by the committee.

On Trip To Germany

Jon Cullum left Montreal, Canada Tuesday on a summer trip to Europe where he will spend the next few weeks working in a German youth camp near Berlin. He is with a group of four boys and three girls selected from various parts of the States, all of whom are of college age.

Mr. and Mrs. Artley Cullum and Jon drove to Montreal.

The ship, a Greek liner called the Arosa Star, left Montreal Tuesday, June 17th, and is scheduled to arrive at Plymouth, England Friday. After a brief tour in London they will go to Dover and cross the channel for two days at the World's Fair at Brussels before the overland journey to Berlin. The youngsters will have about 15 days of free time to travel over Europe before embarking in time to arrive back in the States September 3.

CLUB CALENDAR

Royal Neighbors will meet on Tuesday evening, July 1st at Della Dillingham's at 8:00.

Shopper
Next Week

The Mentone merchants have another issue of the Mentone Shopper scheduled for publication and distribution for a special pre-holiday sale July 1, 2 and 3.

Because of the Independence Day holiday, advertising copy will need to be in the publication office earlier than usual. It will be appreciated if all merchants who can do so, have their advertising copy in our hands on Friday and Saturday of this week.

PARTICIPATES IN POULTRY CONGRESS PROGRAM

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Manwaring are at home after a trip to California, by air. Mrs. Manwaring was a bit skeptical of going by air, but we are told she is a flying enthusiast now.

While in California Mr. Manwaring attended the Western Poultry Congress at Santa Rosa, where he met a number of poultrymen from various parts of the world. He also found, after he arrived there, that he was listed as one of the impromptu speakers on the program. (An interesting sidelight was that the former Josephine Creighton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hobart Creighton, came to the poultry meeting just to see if she might see someone she knew and ran into Mr. Manwaring.)

The Manwarings also visited the KimberChick Farms along with other franchise dealers of the nation. The Mentone farm was listed in second place in sales volume among all franchise dealers.

Egg Show Meeting Held

Chester Ballenger, chairman of the 1958 Mentone Egg Show, had a meeting of several of his committee members at the Mentone School on Tuesday evening, to begin planning for the big event. Tentative dates have been set, but they are to be cleared with Purdue officials to insure against conflicts with the plans of the poultry officials there.

A complete listing of the committees and committeemen will likely be available for our next issue.

To Review New LaPorte Wheat

Purdue's new LaPorte wheat is included in the County variety demonstrations and is compared with the popular Knox, and the more recently released Dual and Vermillion and many others. The heavy epidemic of loose smut or Black Head of the last few years, prompted the release of the LaPorte which is resistant to the present race of loose smut. Consequently, farmers irritated by this disease, may be interested in having a look at this new variety to see whether they like it. In addition to excellent yielding ability and the strength of straw, it has resistance to powdery mildew. It is mid-season in maturity, but has more straw than Knox or Vermillion.

Yield results in variety tests and Experiment Station trials will be reviewed by K. E. Beeson, Extension Agronomist from Purdue who will be present for the meeting on the Howard Silveus farm in Seward Township on Tuesday evening, July 1, at 7:00 p. m. This is located 2 and one half miles northwest of Silver Lake or 1 mile north of Franklin School and west 1 mile.

County Agent Donald E. Frantz is continuing the fertilizer comparisons in which various quantities of nitrogen have been used. Of chief interest is an application of heavy nitrogen in the fall compared to a divided application between fall and spring. Farmers are interested in the time of application to obtain maximum results from the nitrogen applied.

When parking your car for a picnic, says the Motor Club, don't park too close to the edge of an incline or a cliffside scenic view. Your brakes may not hold if your car is bumped by another parker, or if the earth beneath the wheels gives way. Also avoid swampy areas when parking.

Never carry gasoline in improper receptacles or keep such containers in a closed car or trunk compartment, warns the Motor Club. Gasoline should be carried in a metal container, properly capped.

FARM FACTS

Grazing of hogs or cattle in excavated drainage ditches is a poor practice, say Purdue University agricultural engineers. State law prohibits grazing livestock in legally established drains because the ditches fill with silt.

Grasses make the best silage when cut at the boot or early head stage, but per acre yields may be low, according to Purdue University dairy scientists.

Traps, poisoned-peanut baits or ground sprays of chlordane can be used to stop moles from ruining the appearance of yards and lawns, remind Purdue University entomologists.

Don't neglect the chrysanthemums during June, say Purdue University horticulturists. For full, bushy plants, pinch off the terminal growths after four or five inches of new growth.

A small fan can be used to circulate the air in farm egg storage rooms during hot, humid weather, Purdue University extension poultrymen assert. A gentle movement of the air will prevent growth of mold on the eggs and egg cases.

Vaccination of swine with leptospirosis vaccine helps produce resistance against that disease, Purdue University veterinarians point out. Good management and sanitation are also necessary to insure control of the disease.

Milk production in many herds begins to decline about the middle of June largely as a result of hot weather and flies, say Purdue University dairy scientists. Improved pastures or supplemental feeding of silage and hay may reduce this slump.

Chinese elm trees should be sprayed in June with lead arsenate or DDT to prevent injury by the elm leaf beetle, according to Purdue entomologists. Heavily infested trees turn brown as a result of feeding by this insect.

Clip weeds frequently on newly seeded birdfoot trefoil during June and early July, advise Purdue University agronomists. Otherwise, weeds may smother the little seedlings.

Vaccinate spring pigs against hog cholera now, advise Purdue University veterinarians. Effective immunity is the cheapest and best cholera insurance available. Pigs that are cholera immune are also less susceptible to varients and some other infections.

A cow herd can be maintained economically only if plenty of good pasture is available for the entire grazing season. To better the cow herd Mayo suggests growing better pastures and maintaining sound pasture management, raising high quality calves by using high quality bulls and using pasture for as many months of the year as possible.

Through good management, cattlemen can realize a substantial profit from their pastures, according to Henry Mayo, Purdue University extension animal husbandman.

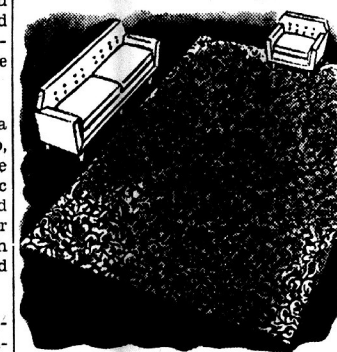

Cattle weighing 600 to 800 lbs. and carrying more finish can be fed limited grains along with the pasture. By feeding four or five pounds of grain a day, a good pasture will carry three to four steers per acre.

Summer time means vacation-time for most people. But the Motor Club reminds you that you can never afford to take a vacation from safe driving habits.

VACCINATE AGAINST HOG CHOLERA

Swine raisers shouldn't drop their guard on hog cholera.

That's the advice of Dr. F. A. Hall, Purdue University's extension veterinarian, who points out that the disease could wipe out an unvaccinated herd overnight.

"During a lull in the incidence of the disease hog raisers are apt to be hesitant to vaccinate," says Dr. Hall.

"It is natural to attempt to save the cost of vaccination," he goes on, "but that decision might prove to be an expensive one."

Indiana 9th In Poultry Income

Indiana ranked ninth in the nation in gross income from poultry during 1957, according to figures available from the U. S. Department of Agriculture. The Hoosier poultry industry, including turkeys, grossed $106 million last year.

J. Holmes Martin, head of the Purdue poultry science department, points out that, with the exception of New Jersey, states exceeding Indiana's poultry income were larger and had more farms.

Indiana overtook Ohio during 1957 to move up from tenth to ninth place. California topped the nation with an income of $250.6 million from the poultry industry.

The USDA placed Indiana first among the 48 states in chickens officially tested for pullorum disease for the 1956-57 hatching season. Figures released by the Agricultural Marketing Service indicate that 3,141,000 chickens were officially blood tested and banded for selection of breeding stock in Indiana during that period.

The national poultry improvement plan for which these birds were tested under the supervision of the Indiana State Poultry Association is a federal-state cooperative program to improve the quality of chicks and hatching eggs available to poultry producers.

Nearly three-fourths of the nation's total hatchery capacity is currently participating in the plan. More than 90 percent of the Hoosier hatching capacity is signed up with the official state agency, the Indiana State Poultry Association, Martin said.

Martin serves as official contact representing the USDA and the association in supervising the national plan's workings in Indiana. For the past 18 years he has represented Indiana and assisted in administration of the plan.
