MENTONE TOURNEY
EFFORTS LAUDED

Mentone has won the appreciation of many sportcasters, newspapermen and county fans after their regional tournament game at Elkhart last Saturday.

Although losing by only one point to South Bend Central in the afternoon game, the Mentone boys showed that they had a team to be reckoned with. The boys had a fighting spirit, a willingness to win, and showed superb sportmanship throughout the game.

It was a team effort all the way and it is hard to pick out the outstanding player. Mentone ended its season with a 24 and 2 record.

When the Mentone fans watch the games at Fort Wayne this Saturday, they could just as well be watching Mentone, because the Regional game could have gone either way.

Below is the box score of the Mentone-South Bend Central Regional game.

COUNTERPOINT

By The Editor's Wife

It was quite an experience to listen to the Mentone-South Bend Central basketball game Saturday while heading west through Indiana and Illinois. We listened to the game from WRSW until we could no longer hear it and then we switched to WSBT. We did manage to hear the finish of the game, although it was very faint. We are so proud of our Mentone team—and nearly won. Jim Wilson, the announcer I think, may have been typical of the South Bend fans—he was, at first, mildly surprised, then excitedly amazed, and toward the end, nearly to the point of hysterical disbelief when it dawned on him—full force—that Central was right at the point of losing the game.

We have a great team—we know it, and want them to know we appreciate them.

We are impressed by Colonel John Glenn's genuine humility. (Can't help but note the similarity in appearance of Ann Lindburgh and Ann Glen, too.

The first of March has been designated as National Weights and Measures Week. If you are one of the consumers who has objected to short weight in many packaged products, you will appreciate the work being done by officials to curb this practice, along with misleading terms and odd weights.

When our spokesman for the packaging industry said, "The consumers are too smart to be fooled twice," Senator Hart, of Michigan replied, "Consumer intelligence is not at stake in this inquiry, the right to essential information is."

VAN GILDER ATTENDS STAFF COURSE

Army Reserve Lt. Col. Donald J. Van Gilder, whose wife lives at 112 N. Broadway, completed the final two-week phase of the associate command and general staff course at The Command and General Staff College, Fort Leavenworth, Kansas, February 23. Phased over a five year period, the course parallels the resident course at the college. Approximately 42 regular Army, Reserve and National Guard officers attended this final session of the course. The college, the Army's senior tactical school, was established in 1881 as the school of Application of Infantry and Cavalry.

Colonel Van Gilder, who is assigned to the 5075 Logistical Command Reinforcement's headquarters company, an Army Reserve unit in Warsaw, entered the Army in May, 1941. The Colonel was graduated from Mentone high school in 1930, and from Indiana University's School of Dentistry, in Indianapolis, in 1935, with a Doctor of Dental Science degree. He has a private practice in dentistry in Mentone.

"Don't eat the cycad until you're grown up," Guam parents admonish their children. And not even then, University of Wisconsin biochemists would add. These researchers are trying to establish a link between the big starchy nut that grows wild in the jungle and the fatal disease ALS (amyotrophic lateral sclerosis). ALS, which struck down famous Yankee baseball player Lou Gehrig, is contracted by 50,000 Americans each year. On Guam the percentage is 100 times as high. Even animals that browse on leaves of the cycad tree develop a disease similar to ALS, the scientists have found. They hope that if cycad poisons are found to cause the malady, similar chemicals may be occurring in the American diet, and preventive steps taken.

Electronic heat is used to bond plywood, make laminates and perform many other tasks in industry. The materials are placed between electrodes, as bread is placed between grids of a toaster. But from that point on the process is quite different. Instead of first "toasting" the outside, dielectric heating units distribute heat to all parts of the material at the same time. This does the work faster and eliminates the possibility of scorching the surface before sufficient heat has reached the center of the material.

Science portrait: Archimedes (287-212 B.C.) was the greatest scientist of the ancient world. This intellectual giant lived in Syracuse, Greece. Though best known for his war devices (grappling hooks, catapults), he was primarily a mathematician. He discovered the principle of buoyancy and thoroughly examined the geometry of the circle. His discovery of the lever as a way to multiply man's strength led to his famous boast: "Give me a place to stand and I will move the earth."

Three-quarters of all biomedical research in the U. S. will depend on computers within 10 years, says the National Institute of Health. Today no more than five per cent of these projects involve automatic data processing.

America's astronauts will prepare and eat their meals when thousands of miles from earth in a space kitchen somewhat like its earth-bound counterpart. Displayed at Chicago's Museum of Science and Industry, the kitchen has cabinets, freezer, refrigerator and so on. But since there won't be any dishes to wash (food will stay in reusable containers), it turns out to be the kitchen with everything but the kitchen sink.

Up, up, up go American men and women as each succeeding generation gets taller and heavier. And the rate of increase is speeding up, says the Nutrition Research Division of the Department of Agriculture. Statistics taken from many sources show that men born in the late 1920's average a minimum of an inch taller than those born about 1900 who, in turn, are an inch higher than men born in the 1870's. Today's average man, the Department says, is 5 feet 10 inches tall compared with 5 feet 9 in 1925 and 5 feet 8 in 1900. Women are taller, too. Those 17 to 25 years of age average 5 feet 4½ inches, an inch above the girls of the '20's. The average weight of today's fully grown male is 158 pounds, compared with 134 in 1900.

Children who fear medical treatments are reassured by the appearance of a breathing apparatus called a pediatric Ventalung. Its control box is made to look like a clown's face! Each time a patient draws a breath through the candy-striped hose, the smiling clown rolls a friendly "eye" which is actually a pressure gauge. The red "nose" is an emergency button that starts artificial respiration. This design makes children more responsive to breathing treatments for cystic fibrosis, asthma, emphysema, bronchitis and other ailments.

Appearance is the thing with seed potatoes, says the Department of Agriculture. Some growers rejected whole shipments if a few were found to be frozen. Researchers now report that unfrozen potatoes from lots containing some that were frozen produce as well as any. So if you can't see actual freezing damage, go ahead and plant them.

Gizzard stones were for dinosaurs what grit is for chickens. Like the pebbles swallowed by barnyard fowl, good-size stones enabled the huge animals to grind food which their jaws or beaks could not chew. A collection of these stones is on display at the California Academy of Sciences in San Francisco. They were gathered in Nevada, Utah, Colorado, Montana and Wyoming.

It took the University of Michigan Medical Center 10 years to establish scientifically what everybody has known all along: it's tough to get rid of warts. The University's report comments, sadly, that "despite caustics, curetting, electro-surgery, and cryotherapy (freezing)," removed warts reappear.

Increase In Soil Tests

Purdue University's soil testing laboratory processed approximately 51,000 samples in 1961, about 5,000 more than the average for the last four years, reports Russell K. Stivers, agronomist in charge.

A few counties submitted fewer than 100 samples, while most of them ranged from 200 to 600.

The top ten counties and the number of samples: St. Joseph, 1825; Decatur, 1458; Cass, 1364; Shelby, 1218; Jasper, 1176; Randolph, 1150; Whitley, 1132; Hancock, 1018; Harrison, 989, and Pulaski, 929.

Agronomists generally agree that a fertility program has its basis in soil testing.

And, Stivers emphasizes, now is the time for farmers to start planning for testing this spring. Soil sample boxes and instructions can be obtained from county extension offices.

Don't wait until a week before you plant corn to send a soil sample to the laboratory, he stresses.

If farmers send the dry samples with properly filled out forms and the correct remittance, they can expect to receive the results from the test within 10 days.

Two major points—be sure that the field cropping history form is completed in detail; make certain the samples are dry before they are placed in the mail.

A Garden In Glass

Use simple plants and a clear glass bowl to create a "glass garden" inside your home, suggests Don Scheer, Purdue University horticulturist.

A "glass garden" or terrarium is appealing because it is completely enclosed. A piece of flat glass must cover the opening of the bowl to prevent moisture from escaping and permit the terrarium to water itself.

It may be difficult to determine the exact amount of water necessary for the particular terrarium. However, Scheer emphasizes, do not over-water.

A plain fish bowl can serve as the beginning of a glass garden. Cover the bowl with pebbles and then a layer of soil. Use your imagination to create a scene with plants. Decide on a tropical, desert or swampy woodland scene and select plants accordingly.

Popular choices for a tropical terrarium are croton, prayer plant, climbing fig, fittonia and peperomia. For balance, plant tall growing plants to the back and short ones in front, perhaps even terracing the soil for a dramatic effect.

For a desert garden, place a layer of sand on top of the soil and plant any of the cactus and succulent varieties.

A swampy area near your home may yield a number of small plants suitable for bringing indoors—pitcher plant, ferns and mosses, even rocks with moss on them. Perhaps a minature pond could be planned in this arrangement.

A variety of plants and the addition of small statuary or pieces of wood and rock will add to the charm of the garden.

It takes about 60,000 blue corduroy jackets each year to satisfy the demands of FFA members throughout the nation.

Cook eggs at moderate or low heat, advise Purdue University food specialists. High heat toughens the texture of eggs.

Selecting The Proper Mattress

If your new mattress is not as comfortable as you expected take a look at the springs—they can provide one to two-thirds of the total sleeping comfort.

Ezelle Johnson, Purdue University home furnishings specialist, says that of the many types of bed springs available, there are two major groupings—metal units and box springs.

If you belong to the school that likes a solid pad mattress, the metal open spring is the one for you. If you prefer an inner-spring mattress, choose a box springs.

Good coil springs have double deck construction; with the lower, tightly wound half stiffer for the support of weight, and the upper half providing the resilience. A good coil spring has at least two stabilizers or steel braces to prevent side sway and border sagging. All the better coil springs today are rustproof.

The metal open spring units may be constructed with open or closed top springs. The specialist cautions that using this type with an innerspring mattress may break down the mattress prematurely.

In a box spring, each coil is set into a slat of wood or steel and is held upright by being tied to another coil, to the border and to the foundation. The strongest frames are made of spruce, while the less expensive ones are usually pine. Since the top and sides of the box spring are well-upholstered, the coils cannot be felt through the padding.

Growing Plants Without Soil

If you're interested in growing plants without soil, Purdue University horticulturists offer some suggestions about starting this hobby. They recommend trying a tomato since this plant is relatively easy to grow.

Fill a container large enough to hold the roots of the plant with water and fertilizer. (A one-gallon container is sufficient for one tomato plant.) Purchase ready mixed soluble fertilizer and follow the directions for soilless culture on the package.

Perhaps the most satisfactory way to handle plant nutrients is to change the water completely and add new fertilizer every week. The plant will need air in the water too. A small aquarium motor designed to bubble air into water will do this job. It should be kept running all the time.

To support your plants in the water, fashion a collar from cardboard, place it on top of the container and "hang" your plants on it so their roots are in the water.

If you start with seeds, grow them in vermiculite and when the seedlings are large enough to handle transfer them to the water.

Sunlight and proper temperature are needed for plant growth either in soil or water.

And, caution the horticulturists, don't expect phenomenal yields or earlier plants than you would get by growing plants in soil.

The American Farmer degree is awarded to about 375 outstanding FFA members each year. Only one member in a thousand may receive it.

A first-year member of the Future Farmers of America is called a "Green Hand."

More Conservation Officers Needed

Conservation in the northern county of Kosciusko suffered a severe setback recently when the number of conservation officers was reduced in a reshuffling program ordered by the department from its Indianapolis offices. We would submit the following brief but important facts and simultaneously cordially invite anyone interested in Kosciusko county, so they may see, first hand why we think more officers, not less, are needed in this area.

The enforcement division of the Conservation department does a great reserve in the promotion and preservation of our natural resources, our fish and wildlife, than we sometimes give them credit. This contribution is the important factor as far as we are concerned. It logically follows that where natural resources are concentrated, where there are a greater number of lakes, where there is more fish and wildlife, there also the "beloved fish cop" should also be concentrated. In Kosciusko county we have such a concentration of these properties. Here are a few pertinent facts relating to Kosciusko county:

In 1961 over $52,000 was spent for hunting and fishing licenses. There are more than 90 lakes in Kosciusko county.

There are innumerable hunting locations both public as well as open farm areas.

There is a great number of public fishing sites and camp grounds.

These are just a few of the basic facts.

The conservation officer is a conservationist first and an enforcement officer second. These men do a very commendable job as consultants to private citizens as well as business, in such fields as sanitation, accident prevention and conservation education. One other fact which one cannot help but ponder with alarm, is the possibility of an increasing number of accidents in the fields, of hunting, fishing, boating and swimming with a reduced force of conservation officers in the areas where they are most needed.

One last point, and by far the most important, is the contribution our officer makes in his influence, both direct and indirect, on our young generation of embryonic conservationists.

Without the right man, in the right spot, and at the right time, the true principles of conservation may be seriously detained from reaching their ultimate abiding place, the hearts and minds of the coming generation. Our conservation officers help this progress immeasurably in their personal contacts with our boys and girls.

We feel that Kosciusko County has much to offer ALL sportsmen and conservationists.

This is why more officers are needed, not less. We will all benefit from it.

We solicit your support and cooperation in this most serious cause.

Palestine Homemakers Meet With Mrs. Perry

The March meeting of the Palestine Homemakers club was held at the home of Mrs. Wilbur Perry.

A pretty birthday cake baked and decorated by the hostess for her mother, Mrs. Mont Lohrer and Mrs. Albert Tucker, centered the dining room table where all enjoyed a delicious pot luck dinner.

Mrs. Albert Tucker opened the afternoon meeting and all repeated the club creed and the pledge to the flag. The secretary and treasurer's reports were read by Mrs. Jesse Jones. Mrs. Bill Hatfield read two poems for meditation and Mrs. Perry read the history of the song of the month, "Little Annie Rooney", which was then sung by the group. Mrs. Edwin Shirey had charge of the old and new business. The meeting was then closed by all repeating the club prayer song. The April meeting will be in the home of Mrs. Albert Tucker. It will also be a pot luck dinner.

SPECIAL MEETING FOR H.D. CLUB MEMBERS

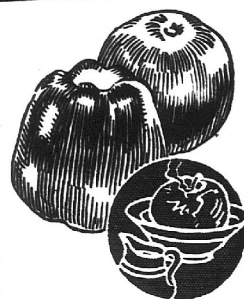

"How To Recognize Communism" is a subject of great interest that will be discussed by Mr. J. O. Dunbar, Agricultural Economics specialist from Purdue on Tuesday, March 13, 1:00 p.m. at the Women's Building, Warsaw Fairgrounds.

Many feel that our community should be more aware of this problem and the cooperative Extension Service and Purdue University have assisted Mrs. Herbert McCleary, Home Demonstration Agent, in arranging this program.

Clubs that are interested in this subject are invited to send representatives. The meeting is open to the public.

ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED

Mr. and Mrs. James Jackson and Mrs. Ruth Kochenderfer of Rochester announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Beverly Kochenderfer to Thomas A. Snipes, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Snipes. The bride-to-be graduated from Rochester high school and attended Manchester College. Mr. Snipes is a graduate of Talma high school and is a member of the National Guard stationed at Fort Chaffee, Arkansas. No date has been set for the wedding.

Farmers Object To Freeman Regimentation Measures

"Indiana farmers will never accept the food and farmer control plan now being proposed by the Secretary of Agriculture," said the Board of Directors of Indiana Farm Bureau, in special session at Indianapolis February 21.

The 13-member directing body of the Farm Bureau, representing farmers in all parts of the state, met in special session to map action against extreme farm measures now before Congress. The proposals under attack are housed in H. R. 10010 and S. 2786, which were drawn up by Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman.

Full text of the statement follows:

Statement adopted by Board of Directors, Indiana Farm Bureau, Inc., in special meeting at Indianapolis, February 21, 1962.

We view the U. S. Department of Agriculture's food and farmer control plan, which is contained in proposed legislation H. R. 10010 and S. 2786 now before Congress, as the blueprint for a tightly and completely controlled agriculture. If enacted, it would control feed-grains, wheat and dairy products to the point that farmers would lose most of the free and important decision-making on their farms. This, we think, is a direct violation of the farmer's rights to own and operate property for profit.

Referenda "choices" offered under the proposed control program are much too extreme. Producers of feed-grain and wheat could select air-tight government domination or no government program at all with the threat of huge supplies of government-held feed-grains and wheat dumped onto the open market by the Secretary of Agriculture, if they did not accept the controls. We know that farmers will not accept the controls. We know that farmers will not accept this kind of regimentation when there is a sensible, middle-ground solution to the surplus problem being offered by Farm Bureau. Farmers would be hurt by either extreme choice.

In view of clearly-stated Farm Bureau policy on surplus-management, we stand firmly opposed to this USDA program and urge Farm Bureau members to use their influence to defeat this ill-advised plan.

If such a program is adopted, we believe that American agriculture will be set back 40 years, and that it will take a generation to shake off the yoke of government-enforced peasantry.

Girl Scout Week March 11 - 17

The week of March 11-17 marks the Golden Jubilee Year of the Girl Scout organization in the United States. On March 12, 1912, Juliette Low met in Savannah, Georgia with the girls who made up the first Girl Scout troop in the United States.

The second half-century of Girl Scouting begins with March of 1962. It offers opportunities and challenges as great as any organization has ever faced. Perhaps the most important is the matter of preparing girls for the dual role of twentieth-century woman: motherhood and homemaking plus active citizenship outside the home. It is no accident that from Brownie age onward, Girl Scouts learn to govern themselves in the troop with increasing effectiveness, to take initiative in planning their own group activities, to evaluate the results of their planning, to share the work.

A Golden Day of Rededication will be observed for all Girl Scout troops in Kosciusko county on Sunday, March 11, at 3 p.m. This will be held in the Warsaw high school auditorium. Brownies, Girl Scouts, their families and friends are invited.

Purdue University horticulturists say to try a new vegetable in your garden every year. It's fun to try something new. And, you may end up planting it every year.

Price, spice and everything nice!

Who ever thought a car that saves like this could have so much sizzle? Chevrolet engineers, that's who! Liveliness and luxury for a low, low price were exactly what they had in mind to begin with. And they began from scratch with a whole carload of ingenious new ideas designed to give you more for your money. That spunky 6 with gas-sipping stinginess is just one example. Another: a new unitized Body by Fisher that's fit for a full-size family inside, easy to park outside. Still another: tough but gentle one-piece Mono-Plate rear springs that outdo many a bigger car for quiet comfort. Any wonder Chevy II won Car Life magazine's 1962 Engineering Excellence award hands down? (The wonder would be if you settled for anything less—once you get your hands on one at your Chevrolet dealer's!)

The modern trend in lawn seed mixtures is to use a combination of several different bluegrass strains, such as Merion, Delta, C-1 and Newport. Horticulturists at Purdue University say this means a better looking lawn all year. When conditions don't favor one strain the other may mask the trouble.

Jerry Hudson's "What-Is-It?"

That thing we pictured last week that looked like the chewing end of a hungry grasshopper. Did you guess it to be the safety end of a safety pin? That was what we meant when we said if you were stuck with this you were a man of experience. In my day it was also a toss-up whether the baby or I yelled first. These days, however, I suspect I am about as out of date in that department as Orville Wright would be with his flying machine.

If you don't get a few twinges when you realize what we're presenting this week, it will mean there are just some places you haven't been — and should be pleased that you haven't. It takes a lot of foot control to do a good job with this item.

Jerry Hudson would like to know how many of our readers are enjoying these little photographic gimmicks. If you think you know what this item is, drop him a postcard telling him what you think it is. His address is R. 1, Mentone.

Prune Fruit Trees Now

Pruning fruit trees will increase yield of quality fruit, say horticulturists at Purdue University.

It is a good idea to prune the fruit trees now before the buds start to grow. Pruning now is easier on the tree, easier to see branch construction, when there are no leaves, and easier to do a better job. Also, there is more time to do the job—before lawn and garden work come on in full force.

Prune young trees by selecting a leader, or central stem, and by removing the branches that make a narrow angle with the leader. Branches that make a narrow angle are weak and are likely to break when there are storms or when they are heavily loaded with fruit.

Next, select and retain the best remaining branches. You'll want the branches to come out on different sides of the main trunk so they won't shade each other. Each of these branches should be spaced eight to twelve inches apart, say the horticulturists.

Also, trim broken branches, repair scars in the bark and remove rubbing and interfering branches on all fruit trees. The general rule with old fruit trees is to thin out the branches.

More Farm Capital Needed

Capital requirements for commercial farms in Indiana, which doubled during the 1950's, will continue to increase rapidly during the 1960's, Martin Underwood, Purdue University agricultural economist, told Kosciusko county farmers attending an advanced farm management meeting. Forty county farmers and lending officials have been enrolled in this series of meetings.

Mr. Underwood pointed out that there are several different ways farmers may go about acquiring use of the necessary capital required in modern agriculture. Rental of a farm or field rental of land and the borrowing of a considerable amount of operating capital are methods used by many farmers in gaining control of capital.

If one can not gain control of the necessary capital, farming is an uphill business. Indiana farmers cooperating in the Purdue farm record program with total investments averaging less than $40,000 made less than hired man's wages for their labor and management in 1960.

Many farmers are going into debt to expand and modernize their businesses. How much debt a farmer can stand depends to a considerable degree upon his managerial skill and ability and upon the economic outlook. Some "top notch" managers might safely borrow 100 per cent of needed capital during periods when the outlook is average or better. Other operators can't make a return on investment sufficient to pay interest.

Since most farmers borrow a considerable amount of capital, it will be extremely important for them to keep a good set of records, to pre-budget loans so as to determine repayment ability and to work out a fairly complete financial plan.

The meeting was the fourth and last of a series conducted jointly by the County Extension Service and Purdue University, according to Donald E. Frantz, County Agent.

Mechanization On The Farm

There is no general rule to cover the extent a farmer can afford to mechanize his enterprises. Just like farm organization, each farm presents an individual set of circumstances and requires an individual answer.

This observation was made by Martin Underwood, Purdue University agricultural economist, who spoke at the third in a series of advanced farm management meetings at Warsaw.

Looking ahead, the economist pointed out that more mechanization on Indiana commercial farms is almost inevitable. Thus, the question, where, how much, and what kind, arises.

Mr. Underwood illustrated his discussion with slides from Indiana farms now employing various kinds and amounts of mechanization.

Using this farmer experience as a guide, the economist said this could be expected:

"Cattle feeding operations of 40 head or fewer will be able to afford very little mechanization. The size range of 100 to 400 head will permit mechanization either in the form of a horizontal silo, feed wagon and fence line bunk or upright silo and auger system. For more than 400 feeders, the tendency is to return to the horizontal silo, feed wagon and fence line bunk.

"Extreme mechanization is not essential in remaining competitive in the hog enterprise. It is fairly easy to mechanize feed handling; but difficult to mechanize manure handling, particularly with year-round facilities. Mechanization has made it possible for a swine raiser to personally supervise larger numbers of hogs.

"Corn silage is gaining in popularity as the basic forage ingredient in the dairy enterprise. It adapts itself well to mechanical feeding."

The last of the series of advanced management meetings were held February 12, according to Donald E. Frantz, County Agent.

Clean No-Frost Refrigerator

No-frost and automatic defrosting refrigerators save the homemakers many hours of labor in a year, says Elkin Minter, Purdue University home management specialist.

To insure your refrigerator's having a long life of trouble free service, she suggests following a regular routine of good care.

Keep the refrigerator spotless and sweet smelling by wiping the interior walls with a solution of two tablespoons of baking soda to a quart of warm water. Wash shelves, butter, cheese and egg compartments in warm sudsy water, rinsing and drying well. Be careful of the cold glass shelves. They may break if put into hot water.

Ice trays benefit from a washing in warm soapy water, or the soda solution. Hot water, abrasives or scouring pads may damage the coating used on trays to keep them from sticking.

The gasket around the door needs a weekly washing with warm soapy water. Avoid touching the gasket when using the refrigerator, because natural oils from the hands may cause damage. Be sure to wipe off any grease as soon as possible. The grease warns that grease can cause deterioration of the rubber gasket and thus destroy the tight seal necessary for keeping the cold air in and the warm air out.

Condenser fins or coils which are mounted on the back of some models require periodic cleaning. The specialist recommends dusting with the brush or crevice tool of the vacuum cleaner.

Little Johnny was allowed to bring in the kittens when a shrill, protesting meowing and spitting was heard.

"Be careful, Johnny", cried his father, "so as not to hurt the kittens."

"But I'm not hurtin' 'em, Daddy," replied the boy. "I'm carryin' 'em real careful by the stems."

Then they watched the various unloading operations and toured the complete plant. In the office building, they observed the daily and futures market as it was being sent in from Chicago.

At the end of the tour, the farmers did some shopping in the wholesale market building, where you can buy almost anything you want.

Mentone Police Report

Billy Wayne Stanfill of Adamsville, Tennessee and Joseph V. Winborn of Decatur, Georgia were arrested by officer Norton Friday night for illegal parking of two trucks on Main Street for three hours. They were taken to the J.P. court of C. O. Eiler and paid a fine and costs of $18.75 each.

NOTICE

The police department is calling your attention to the fact that the speed laws on State Road 25 through Mentone are not being very well observed. This is a very dangerous practice and must be curbed. The speed limits are 20 m.p.h. in the business district and 30 m.p.h. in the residential district. These limits were set up and posted by the State as being safe and prudent speeds through all towns and cities in Indiana, and are there for our safety.

Here are a few facts about speed:

At a speed of 20 m.p.h., it takes 45 feet to stop an automobile, and this is with good brakes and tires on dry, level pavement. It takes 125 feet to stop at 40 m.p.h. The impact at 40 m.p.h. is 4 times greater than at 20 m.p.h. So you can see why it is dangerous to speed.

According to officer Norton, all speeding violators will be arrested in the future. No warnings will be issued.

Indiana Farm Prices Drop

Ending a two-month rise, Indiana farm prices dropped two per cent from mid-January to mid-February, according to Purdue University economists and state-federal statisticians. Lower livestock prices generally accounted for the decline.

Purchasing power of Hoosier farmers declined three per cent, while U.S. farm purchasing power remained unchanged. Prices paid by U.S. farmers rose one per cent and U.S. wholesale prices were unchanged.

Livestock prices slipped three per cent during the 30-day period, but grain prices remained unchanged.

Major commodity prices declining: Hogs, five per cent; cattle, two per cent; and whole milk, wheat and lambs, one per cent.

Commodity prices increasing: Broilers, eight per cent; eggs, three per cent; and corn and baled hay, one per cent.

The Indiana hog-corn feed ratio fell six per cent and whole milk-feed dropped two per cent. Broiler-feed rose eight per cent and egg-feed climbed three per cent. Butterfat-feed and turkey-feed ratios remained unchanged.

Spring Barrow Show

The Hoosier Spring Barrow Show plays an important part in acquainting Indiana hog raisers with the type, weight and finish that makes pork more attractive to homemakers.

In addition to live animal judging, points out Dick Hollandbeck, Purdue University extension swine specialist, the carcass contest stresses measurement of lean cuts, yield and back fat. The carcass contest also helps swine judges to judge more accurately on the hoof the approximate percentage of meat a hog will yield.

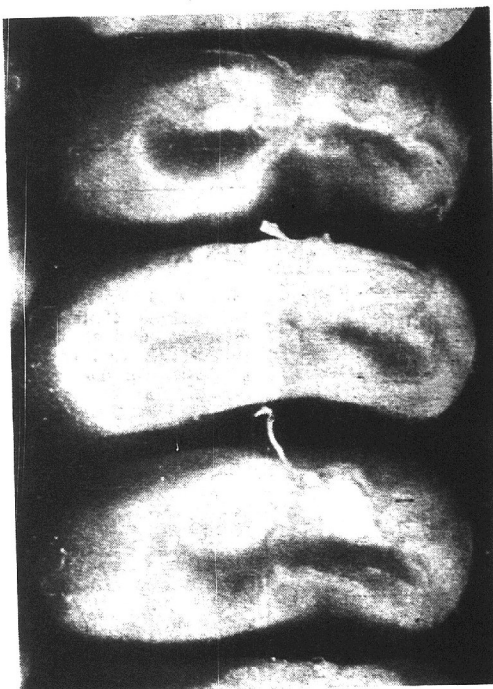

A 13-year summary of the top 40 to 60 barrows in the Hoosier Spring Barrow Show discloses that farmers are doing a better job of selecting hogs. For instance, the average weight of these animals in 1950 was 225 pounds; this figure had dropped to 207 pounds at the 1962 show.

While the weight declined to a more desirable figure from the standpoint of packers, the meat yield increased from 71.6 to 74.6 per cent during the 13-year period. During this time the length of the hogs increased from 29.4 to 30.2 inches.

Back fat of the winning barrows in the 1950 show measured 1.8 inches. Hogs this year had a back fat measurement of 1.33 inches, a decrease of almost a half-inch.

Even more striking is the per cent of lean cuts of the

Jerry Hudson's "What-Is-It?"

Last week we gave you a mean one. It was the boring end of a dentist's drill, and if you don't know how one feels, you have been fortunate.

This week we head back to the Indians. The redskins on Manhattan Island used a lot of fish with these things then. Today we use 10-10-10, or something similar in place of fish but the outdoor gentlemen got the same results. If everything went well the squaws were kept too busy for many bridge parties or bead-stringing bazaars.

However, so we don't confuse you too much, Jerry didn't head into the wilds with his little V-W to get this picture. He located it right in Mentone.

Show Jerry you aren't being fooled, and drop him a postcard telling him what it is.

chilled carcass weight. Lean cuts are ham, loin, picnic and Boston butt. The 1950 percentage of lean cuts was 49.4; the 1962 figure totaled 56.4 per cent.

The decline of per cent of fat trimmed from the carcasses equalled the per cent increase in lean cuts. The fat trim per cent in 1950 stood at 21.5, while the figure dropped to 13.3 per cent this year.

F.F.A. 33rd. Convention

Approximately 1,500 members of the Indiana Association of Future Farmers of America will gather on Purdue University's campus, March 22-24, for the thirty-third annual convention of the organization.

Lt. Gov. Richard O. Ristine will address the group Friday morning, March 23, and James Prewitt, Kirbyville, Texas, FFA national regional vice-president, will speak Thursday night, March 22.

Some 200 FFA members will receive the Hoosier Farmer Degree, highest honor bestowed by the Indiana association, Saturday morning, March 24. This degree is given in recognition of farming proficiency and community leadership.

Indiana FFA membership totals about 9,600 in 312 chapters. A basic requirement is that a boy must be a student in vocational agriculture in high school. However, he may retain his membership for three years after he graduates.

Motorists who travel the same route day after day may take too much for granted, warns the Chicago Motor Club. Usually the tourist on a strange road is inclined to watch for road signs and markings. Frequently, however, motorists who drive more by habit than by direction ignore basic traffic safety. Even in familiar surroundings, it always pays to be alert.

The Future Farmers of America was organized nationally in November, 1928, during a meeting of students and leaders in Kansas City, Missouri.

New Feeder Pig Circular

Feeder pig production in Indiana is a profitable, growing enterprise, according to Purdue University extension swine specialists Richard Hollandbeck and James Foster. They add that the demand for top quality Indiana feeder pigs far exceeds the supply.

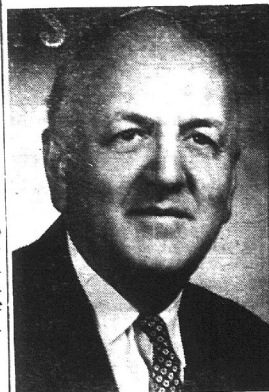

Much of Indiana is especially well adapted to feeder pig production, especially where the land is capable of growing good legume-grass pasture. Average to small-sized farms with minimum corn production can increase their volume of business with feeder pigs.

According to the specialists, efficiency, which affects profits in feeder pig production, depends upon good breeding, feeding, management, disease control and marketing.

In a new publication, Extension Circular 502, "Producing Feeder Pigs," they point out some of the proved practices that will help improve feeder pig production.

A copy of this circular may be obtained without charge by Indiana residents from county extension offices or by writing the Agricultural Publications Office, AES Building, Purdue University, Lafayette, Indiana. A post card is sufficient.

Simple Grass Seeds Best

Simple seeding mixtures make the best hay and pasture, points out Howell Wheaton, Purdue University extension agronomist.

For instance, one such mixture would contain eight to ten pounds of alfalfa and four to six pounds of orchard grass per acre. Another would be eight to ten pounds of alfalfa and five to seven pounds of timothy and one-fourth pound ladino per acre.

These mixtures generally can be seeded in all sections of the state.

As an additional southern mixture, Wheaton suggests fifteen pounds of lespedeza and ten pounds of tall fescue or fifteen pounds of lespedeza, six pounds of alfalfa and five pounds of orchard grass.

Farmers should avoid seeding grasses such as orchard grass, brome grass and timothy in the same mixture, he warns. He explains that these grasses mature at different times. If they are mixed in the seeding, part of the crop will always be over-mature or immature.

NEWCASTLE TOWNSHIP NEWS

The Newcastle township Happy Harvester 4-H club met recently in the Talma high school cafeteria.

The meeting was called to order by Bill Dawson. The roll call was answered by a favorite hobby. Rick Doud read the secretary's report and Virgil Ford gave the treasurer's report. During the business meeting the following ways to raise money were discussed: auction sale, scrap drive, bake sale, ice cream social, and the selling of garden seeds.

Mrs. Mickey Eaton was the recent guest of Mrs. Alta Mollenhour of Mentone.

Mr. and Mrs. Rolland Calvert of Macy were the Sunday guests of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Calvert.

Mrs. Charles Good was a visitor in Rochester Saturday afternoon.

Mrs. Dean Stockberger spent Friday afternoon in Logansport. Lavoy Montgomery spent Sunday afternoon visiting in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Alber of Macy.

Mr. and Mrs. Dale Wright of Goshen and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Miller and family of Tiosa were Sunday guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred R. Miller.

Robert A. Calvert has been confined to his home due to illness.

Dick Davidson spent Monday in Chicago.

Mrs. Dolly Miller of Rochester the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred R. Miller.

Mrs. Bert Leedy hasn't been feeling well lately.

Dry cows and spring heifers should receive excellent quality forage, say dairy scientists at Purdue University. Feeding low quality forages deficient in vitamin A may result in weak calves. If forage quality is low, feed two pounds of alfalfa meal per cow per day. This should be done for at least one month before calving.

Indiana's 1970 Population

Indiana's 1970 population likely will reach 5.6 million, almost 950 thousand more than the 1960 total, estimate L. T. Wallace and John O. Dunbar, Purdue University agricultural economists. Most of this will result from the state's natural rate of population increase (excess of births over deaths).

If the present trend continues, by 1970 two of every three Hoosiers probably will live in cities and towns of more than 2,500. In 1950 the population distribution was 60 per cent urban, 40 per cent rural. By 1960 this has shifted to 62 per cent urban and 38 per cent rural. The projection for 1970 is 65 per cent urban, 35 per cent rural.

About 20 of the state's 92 counties probably will lose population in the next eight years. Most of these lie in the southwestern part of Indiana, west of the line from Vermillion and Parke to Orange and Crawford counties.

On the other hand, population in nearly 30 counties will outstrip the natural rate of increase. Some of these may have increases as high as 40 to 50 per cent in the next eight years. For the most part, these counties lie in the state's metropolitan areas—Indianapolis, the Calumet, Fort Wayne, New Albany and Jeffersonville.

"A continued rapid population movement will result from continued differences in economic opportunity," the economists point out. "It will create problems of orderly community development for rapidly growing areas and problems of maintaining community facilities and economic growth in areas from which people are moving."

Jolly Janes Meet

Mrs. Albert Hatfield was hostess to the Jolly Janes Home Demonstration club on Monday evening.

The group met at the school to practice singing for the spring luncheon, after which the business meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Hatfield.

Mrs. George Mollenhour assisted with serving the tasty refreshments.

Hog Meeting Held Tuesday

Approximately fifty persons attended a buffet supper at Pete's restaurant on Tuesday evening, with the Valentine elevator acting as host for the Hubbard hog feed company.

Special guests at this meeting were Charles Howard of Plymouth; John McNeal, of Marion; and William Day, of Springfield, Illinois.

Farm Clean-Up Time

Rural residents can make the farm a better and safer place to live by a general clean-up this spring.

That's the word from farm safety specialists at Purdue University, who say a few hours spent in a spring clean up will give the farm a new look and make it a safer and better place to live and work.

Disorder ranks high as the cause of farm accidents, the specialists assert. A recent study of hospitalized home accident cases disclosed that one of every five was put there by disorder. And, accidents happen most often in cluttered, untidy surroundings.

Needless accidents can be eliminated by following these suggestions:

Pick up broken glass, tin cans and loose boards with nails in them.

Destroy trash that has accumulated all year and clean up old lumber piled back of the barn.

Give the farm shop a good cleaning. Make a place for each tool.

Inspect broken and worn steps and stairs and make needed repairs.

FREIGHT WRECKS
AT MENTONE

Mentone found itself in the focus of news early Friday morning when 20 cars of a fast Nickel Plate freight train piled up in the east part of the city at 2:30 a. m. None of the train crew were injured, as the derailed cars were in the center of the long train.

Of the 20 derailed cars, one contained cattle, two hogs, four oats and the balance of meat and other perishables.

Many of the animals were killed outright while many others had to be shot to relieve them of their misery. Some of the cattle were sold to local buyers and 114 of the hogs were sold, many of which had to be rounded up after straying around town.

Train service was resumed on the line about six o'clock Friday evening, although every unit moves slowly through here.

A broken journal (axle) on one of the cars was given as the cause of the accident. The train, going east, showed no evidence of a break-down until about the time the faulty car reached the depot. All cars stayed on the tracks until it reached the Co-Op. switch and then the cars left the rails, piling up on each side of the track.

Cleanup work is nearly completed at this time, with the exception of a few scattered bits of wreckage.

In April, 1956, a similar wreck took place just west of the town when a number of cars piled up. At that time, the first mark made by a broken-down car appeared at the Road 19 crossing.

One of the crewmen on that wreck was in Mentone Wednesday and he said he remembered it well.

WITH THE SICK

Mrs. Rex Yazel returned home Saturday evening from the Memorial hospital in South Bend.

Mrs. Ross Scott is slowly improving.

Mrs. William Schooley is in the Murphy Medical Center for observation.

Mrs. Bertha Stevens, who resides east of Harrison Center, was taken to the Murphy Medical Center in the Johns ambulance Friday evening.

COUNTERPOINT

By The Editor's Wife

Well, it's time to fold up the road maps and store the luggage for a little while. Really, one should discard all maps at the completion of a trip, as maps become obsolete so quickly.

Our weather the first week was cold and windy. We hit a real snowstorm in Deming, New Mexico. (The "natives" were stunned and much more surprised than we were.)

The second week, and on the trip home, the weather was warm and sunny. Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Hill, who have a winter home at Casa Grande, Arizona, took us to Phoenix where we saw acres and acres of flowers, and, (at the airport) big jet passenger planes land and depart. Truly, this was one of the "red letter days" of the entire trip.

We came home through the Salt River Canyon on highway 60 (Arizona). This was one of the most scenic and awe-inspiring areas we have ever seen. If you want sheer cliffs and rugged country, this spot is for you.

We didn't take the St. Louis by-pass coming home. (It took us about three hours to get around the city, via the by-pass, on the trip out.) We followed route 66 straight through the city coming home, and it took us less than an hour, but it took both of us—the editor drove and watched traffic signals, and I watched for the highway signs.

It's good to take a vacation from the push of business. No matter where you go, one learns that people there have the same problems, the same anxieties, and the same virus infections. It's encouraging to learn likewise, that there are many who have a firm unwavering faith in God and the truth of His word.

I enjoy seeing new places, but the pull of family ties is strong, and, after just so long, it's time to head the car home.

Food for thought.

* Pride is a diminishing characteristic of American life and many of us old-fashioned ones are starved for the inspiration of it.

"But, Dad," the boy protested, "those cars belong to the faculty."

Use Best Oat Varieties

Best recent all around performance records of oat varieties available to Indiana farmers have been established by Newton, Clintland 60, Goodfield and Putnam 61, according to Keller E. Beeson, Purdue University extension agronomist.

Farmers who like oats of the Clinton breeding should sow Clintland 60, the best Purdue-developed mid-season oats of this strain in yielding ability and disease resistance.

Newton is similar to Clintland 60 in yield and disease resistance and can stand high temperatures better during the finishing period than other varieties. In 1961 county demonstrations Newton outyielded other varieties which were hurt by a heat wave in July.

On highly fertile soils where lodging is a problem Goodfield is recommended because it has the best standing ability of any variety available.

Putnam 61, a new early high yielding Purdue-developed variety, should replace the older Putnam.

Bentland variety is best for oats silage or other forage use.

Minhafer has proved to be a good general purpose variety.

Certified seed of these varieties is extensively available. A recent three-year survey showed farmers who sowed quality certified seed rather than bin-run seed oats gained almost six bushels an acre in yield.

"Hardware Disease"

Prevention is the best defense against the "hardware disease" of cattle, reminds Dr. F. A. Hall, Purdue University extension veterinarian.

These animals often swallow their food without thorough chewing and thus fail to detect small metallic objects such as nails and pieces of wire. These objects, after entering a cow's stomach, may penetrate the lungs, heart or other vital organs. Death often results.

Cows affected with "hardware disease" may go off feed occasionally without apparent cause, show stiffness—especially in the front legs, decrease their milk flow and develop a swelling in the brisket. Symptoms most often appear during dry periods and become increasingly worse before or at calving time.

If symptoms are noticed, call a veterinarian immediately. Surgery can usually be successfully performed, especially if the trouble is spotted in time.

As preventive measures, keep the barn and barnyard free of loose metal, baling wire and nails. Baling wire should be placed in a receptacle as soon as it is removed from hay or straw. Brooms with wire bristles should not be used to sweep out mangers. And, it's a good idea to have a clean-up around the farm at regular intervals.

If repair work is done around the barn and nails are used, sweep up the area afterwards to eliminate loose nails, or use a canvas to cover any feed that might hide a fallen nail.

Livestock Slaughter Up

Liveweight of all commercially slaughtered livestock in Indiana during January totaled 164,450,000 pounds, 17 per cent more than the December, 1961, figure and one per cent larger than January, 1961, production. State and federal agricultural statisticians at Purdue University report the liveweight of the 61,500 cattle slaughtered during January amounted to 62,792,000 pounds. This was 17 per cent higher than the December output and 12 per cent larger than the January, 1961, figure.

The 10,300 calves slaughtered weighed 2,348,000 pounds on the hoof, four per cent larger than the December total and 26 per cent more than the January, 1961, veal production.

Liveweight of the 392,000 hogs slaughtered amounted to 98 million pounds—one per cent more than the December slaughter, but five per cent below the January, 1961, total.

The 13,500 sheep and lambs slaughtered weighed 1,310,000 pounds alive. This was seven per cent smaller than December and 33 per cent below the January, 1961, output.

Commercial slaughter includes that of packing plants and local butchers, but excludes farm slaughter. Totals indicate the marketings of livestock by farmers and the availability of red meat.

Proper Spring Lawn Care

Summer success with your lawn depends upon proper care this spring, remind Purdue University turf specialists.

Probably the first step is fertilization. Ten pounds of 10-6-4 analysis should be applied per 1,000 square feet. Apply it evenly by spreading half in a north-south direction and the other half in an east-west direction.

Many non-burning formulations are available. Pelleted and granular forms do not stick to turf leaves, unless the leaves are wet, thus avoiding fertilizer burn. If you use powdery fertilizer on green turf, rinse it off the leaves immediately.

You can control crabgrass by applying pre-emergent crabgrass killer before crabgrass germinates. For best results with any of these materials on the market, apply before forsythia blossoms fall. Follow directions on the container and use the recommended amount.

If you roll your lawn, do it before heavy rains occur or not at all. Rolling presses the grass crowns which may have been lifted by winter thawing and freezing back into the soil. A roller one-half full of water should be heavy enough.

New Hybrid Popcorn Variety

A new hybrid popcorn variety, P605, has been released by Purdue University's agricultural experiment station.

P605 is the second dent-sterile hybrid developed by Purdue popcorn breeders. (Dent-sterile popcorn can not be cross pollinated by pollen from field corn.)

Seed of the new hybrid is available in limited quantities for planting this spring from the Agricultural Alumni Seed Improvement Association, West Lafayette.

In Purdue field tests in various locations in Indiana, Illinois and Ohio, P605 outyielded the first Purdue-developed dent-sterile hybrid, P632, which was released in 1960.

R. B. Ashman of Purdue's botany and plant pathology department describes P605 as a full season hybrid which has medium large kernels and excellent popping expansion. P605 is recommended primarily for southern Indiana growing season.

Indiana is the largest commercial popcorn growing state with 37,000 acres grown in 1961.

Shock, called "the herald of death," kills thousands of Americans every year. In Los Angeles County General hospital alone more than 1,000 patients die annually after protracted shock. Statistics across the rest of the country are similar. To find out why shock occurs and to work out effective measures against it, the University of Southern California School of Medicine has begun a three-year study. A six-bed shock ward, staffed 24 hours a day, has been opened at County hospital. There, shock sufferers will receive optimum care. Physiological effects, now poorly understood, will be measured. The data will be recorded and later analyzed by electronic computers. The doctors believe their study will help blunt the threat of shock in whatever way it strikes.

Dendrochronology, the study of tree rings, is poised for a great leap forward, according to Prof. Harold C. Fritts of the University of Arizona. Fritts says tree rings hold accurate records of climate conditions that governed the tree's growth and that new statistical concepts make it possible to determine rainfall, temperatures, evaporation and other factors that occurred in any given year during the tree's span of life.

Freedom 7, first U. S. manned spacecraft, is now a part of the National Aeronautical and Space Collections of the Smithsonian Institution in Washington, D.C. The Project Mercury capsule was piloted by astronaut Alan B. Shepard on its historic flight, May 5, 1961.

For the first time, thermoplastic pipe and fittings capable of handling every kind of piping in and around the average home will be available on a commercial basis in 1962. So, dream houses can utilize new vinyl and other plastic piping that offers lower installed costs, lighter weight, exceptional corrosion resistance and virtual elimination of plumbing repairs. But many building codes will be changed so that home builders can take advantage of these materials.

Where there's smoke, there's a cigarette. In 1961, cigarette sales in the U.S. reached 503 billion, up 19 billion from 1960. Americans paid $7 billion for them.

A timid but poisonous South American spider, not previously known in the United States, has taken up residence in, of all places, Cambridge, Mass., home of Harvard University. To make the effrontery more complete, the creature—Loxosceles laeta—was found in the basement of the school's Museum of Comparative Zoology. Harvard zoologists, however, assure us that the spider is far from aggressive and will run when approached.

From the ground up, here are the major layers of the atmosphere: Troposphere—10 mile thick region of high density air containing moisture, dust, carbon dioxide, our "weather";

Stratosphere—10 to 20 miles up, containing thin, dry air, no clouds; Chemosphere—20 to 50 miles high, contains ozone produced by the action of the sun's ultraviolet rays striking oxygen; Ionosphere—50 to 200 miles up, filled with electrically conductive gas; Exosphere—beyond 200 miles, a little known area.

Parachuting frogs, says the Smithsonian Institution, use membranes between their toes to glide as far as 50 feet from treetop to treetop.

Radioactive mercury is sent coursing through the human brain in a new method of locating tumors which has been used successfully more than 150 times, report doctors at the University of Michigan. The radioactive matter, injected into the patient, gravitates to the brain tumor in about six hours. A photoscanner, sensitive to the material, then draws an exact picture of the tumor, showing its size and location in the brain.

Heartbeats are now translated into "heartbeeps" that can be heard throughout a room. A Detroit surgeon, Dr. William F. Veling, devised an electronic instrument, less than five inches long and weighing only six ounces, that audibly signals the electric wave activity of a human or animal heart. A visual attachment can be used to prevent confusion of "beeps" in a ward or recovery room. The Veling heart monitor thus alerts all operating room and recovery room personnel instantly to a possible need for administration of oxygen, injection of stimulants, heart massage or other lifesaving measures. It is simply strapped to a patient's arm.

Science portrait — Antoine Laurent Lavoisier (1743-1794), brilliant French chemist, discovered that water is made up of hydrogen and oxygen, and demonstrated that oxygen is vital to life. He showed that animal heat is produced by slow

We Salute You

A tip of the hat to the Indiana Conservation Council, Inc., or ICCI, as some call it, which currently is in the closing stages of a state sustaining membership campaign in Indiana District (Kosciusko, Marshall, Fulton, Stark, Palaski, and Jasper).

Some of the things ICCI has done and is doing for natural resource conservation—and for all Hoosiers—stand out brightly. It was ICCI which led the successful battle to take enforcement personnel of the state game and fish management agency out of politics.

ICCI, when it learned state funds were not available to equip field personnel of the same agency with short wave radio equipment, went out and raised the $25,000 necessary to acquire about 80 such units.

ICCI, and its predecessor organization, the Indiana State Conservation Advisory Committee, have been active in the legislative field to the degree that there is scarcely a worthwhile piece of conservation legislation on the books that either wasn't originated or supported by it.

It was the ICCI which led the drive to repeal the free permit for veterans system which all but bankrupted the Indiana Department of Conservation.

ICCI has long been in the forefront in fighting for clean streams.

It conducts annual youth camps for youngsters from all over the state.

It has helped finance scholarships for teacher training workshops, this with an assist from the National Wildlife Federation. Incidentally, it is the sole affiliate in Indiana of the National Federation, largest conservation organization in the world.

ICCI is not a government agency. It derives none of its support from tax monies, public funds or similar sources. It is a private organization, composed of your neighbors, supported by their modest contributions and dedicated to informing the public that Indiana's prosperity is a direct product of her great natural resource wealth.

You may not be a hunter, or a fisherman. Or a swimmer, a boater, a bird-watcher, a nature photographer, a hiker, a forester, or even a picknicker. But it is this fine organization of volunteer members which is safeguarding the purity of the air you breathe and the water you drink, the productivity of the soil which produces your food. In short the whole heritage of your natural resources.

And since you cannot exist without these resources, life in Indiana might conceivably be a mite tougher were it not for ICCI and others who practice and preach and insist upon conservation.

It takes a lot of muscle—and a little money—to run a conservation organization. The ICCI has the "lot of muscle" and it is finding, through its state sustaining membership campaigns, the modest funds required to do its job. A sustaining membership costs $10 to $25, depending upon the generosity of your mood.

By any estimate, it's worth it! —Kos. Co. Conservation Council

Labor Saving Devices Increase

Labor saving devices continue to increase on Hoosier farms and in farm homes, according to state and federal agricultural statisticians at Purdue University.

The 1961 enumeration of household appliances shows:

Home service water softeners in eight per cent of the homes. This is up one per cent from 1957 and three per cent from 1954. Commercial water softeners in five per cent of the homes, the same as in 1957, but two per cent more than in 1954.

Window air conditioners were enumerated for the first time in 1960 and placed in two per cent of the homes, the same as two years ago.

Built-in wall ovens in three per cent of the homes, the same as in 1960.

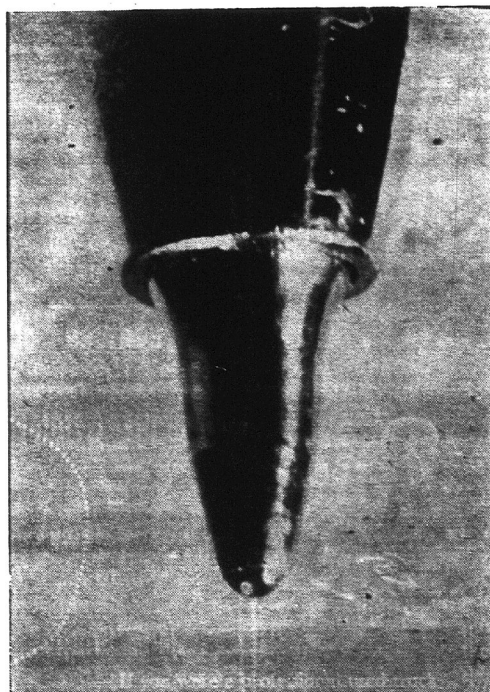

Here are the 1961 figures on newer farm equipment:

Electric arc welders, counted for the first time in 1961, reported on five per cent of the farms.

Field feed or hay choppers reported on four per cent of the farms, compared to three per cent in 1955 and one per cent in 1949.

Grain augers or screw conveyors reported on four per

Last week we went back to the Indians and gave you a view of a few kernels of Indian corn. Of course we couldn't show you the color, so otherwise you may have figured it to be just plain corn. (We try to use some of that in every issue!)

This week we aren't going to link this up with butter but it is a nice clue. A few years back some bird made a million in nothing flat with this invention. He really put his mark in the world. Today there are so many of the things you can find them everywhere—half of which have been thrown away in disgust.

cent of the farms for the last two years.

Hay conditioning machines, enumerated for the first time in 1961, were found on a little more than one per cent of the farms.

Field corn shelling equipment—corn combines, pickers with trailing shellers, picker shellers—reported on more than two per cent of the farms, compared to less than one per cent in 1957, first year of enumeration.

Nearly 15 per cent of the farms reported silos. This compares to 12 per cent in 1957 and fewer than ten per cent in 1937.

Of the silos enumerated 71 per cent were of the conventional upright type, 20 per cent of the trench or bunker type and nine per cent of the newer airtight or sealed type.

Squabbling, restless children in an automobile upset a driver's concentration and make him more accident prone. Children not properly seated can be injured if a sudden stop is necessary.

How To Grow Asparagus

Fresh asparagus makes good eating. And it's easy to grow in your garden, point out Purdue University horticulturists.

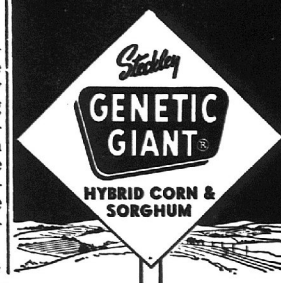

Select well-drained soil for your asparagus bed. Then spread three pounds of 12-12-12 fertilizer per 100 square feet before plowing or spading.

Be sure the crowns you plant are one year old and vigorous. Set them in rows five to six feet apart. This should be done between April 15 and May 15. The furrows should be six to eight inches deep, and it's wise to apply one and a half pounds of 11-48-0 fertilizer, or two pounds of 8-32-0 analysis, per 100 feet of row in the bottom of the furrow. The high phosphorus will help the plants off to a good start.

Latest research indicates that planting crowns six to nine inches apart is best. This close spacing will increase yield. The crowns should be placed buds up and covered with two to three inches of soil. As soon as the spears begin to emerge cultivate so you'll fill the furrows at the end of the first year.

The horticulturists advise against taking a crop this year. But by next spring and for a good many years to come you'll be able to harvest spears for two weeks.

Indiana Farm Values Better

Indiana farm real estate values, which began a decline in early 1960, strengthened in the autumn of 1961, report state and federal agricultural statisticians at Purdue University. The index on last November 1 stood at 315, down from 1912-14 as 100.

As of July 1, 1961, the index had dropped to 301, a point less than the March, 1961, level and six points under the 307 recorded in the fall of 1960. Until March 1, 1961, values had undergone a long uptrend which began in 1934 and peaked November 1, 1959, at 315.

Indiana's 1961 corn, wheat and soybean crops set record high yields, while most other crops produced above average yields. This, coupled with a limited supply of farm land offered for sale, appears a likely factor in stronger farm land values last fall.

Farm land values in the United States reached a record high, advancing one per cent in the four-month period ending last November 1. In the corn belt, where the 1960 downturn was most severe, most of the loss had been recovered by the end of 1961.

Take Good Soil Samples

Even soils which appear uniform may vary in past management, cropping, fertilizing and liming history.

Russell K. Stivers, Purdue University agronomist in charge of soil testing, says the aim of soil testing is to utilize fertilizer and lime with greater efficiency. Soil tests detect the areas where fertilizer and lime are most needed.

He emphasizes that one composite soil sample should not cover more than ten acres. When too large an area is represented by one sample, the result is often a mixture of soil which does not closely correspond to any part of the field. Therefore, it can not be truly representative. Lime and fertilizer treatments based on such soil samples will not fit the field because the sample does not tell the truth about the field.

Samples taken according to soil types on areas of ten acres or less will show location of fertility differences. With this type of specific information, the farmer can take steps to correct soil deficiencies.

Since the largest source of error in soil testing is in the sample, the extra time spent in taking samples from smaller areas is worthwhile. And, if there is a limitation because of time and weather, a farmer is farther ahead to do the detailed job of sampling on two or three fields than to try to cover the entire farm.

Peanut Pointers

It's no surprise to mothers of young children that peanut butter is the biggest single use for peanuts, states Marcile Allen, food specialist at Purdue University.

About 30 per cent of each year's crop is made into peanut butter, and this month supplies are especially good.

Peanuts are a concentrated food, high in calories and protein, and a good source of certain B vitamins. Miss Allen suggests using them as an excellent, low cost meat substitute and diet supplement.

No longer considered only snacks, peanuts can be used many ways at meal time to dress up favorite recipes. Try adding them to vegetable soup, Waldorf salad or candied yams. Make an unusual glaze for baked ham by blending one-half cup strained honey with one-half cup peanut butter—be careful, this glaze burns easily.

Combine peanut butter with bacon or honey for a tasty spread with crackers or bread. For the bacon treat, crumble four strips of crisp bacon, and mix one teaspoon minced onion and one-half cup peanut butter. Or, blend one-fourth cup honey, one-half cup peanut butter and one-fourth cup cream cheese. The specialist suggests adding a little cream for a softer spread.

DAR Meet With Mrs. Koenig

The Anthony Nigo chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, met at the Etna Green home of Mrs. Ferd Koenig, on March 13. The regent, Mrs. Fred Surguy, presided and conducted the ritualistic opening, followed by prayer and the pledge to the American flag. Mrs. Kenneth Leiter gave the secretary's report and Mrs. Paul Shireman the treasurer's report.

Members were urged to write letters as an organization interested in conservation, to the governor requesting that a needed number of Conservation officers be retained in Kosciusko county.

A silver collection was taken to help defray the expenses of an outstanding Indiana Press book being prepared for the forthcoming Continental Congress April 16-20, in Washington, D.C.

Officers elected to serve in 1962-63 are as follows: regent, Mrs. Fred Surguy; vice-regent, Mrs. Charles Tucker; chaplain, Mrs. Bernice Rush; secretary, Mrs. Kenneth Leiter; treasurer, Mrs. Paul Shireman; registrar, Mrs. Edna Carey; historian, Mrs. Carl Metheny; librarian, Mrs. Merlyn Holt.

Mrs. Dale Cook, national defense chairman, urged every member to read the recent publication from the Congressional Record, "None Is So Blind As He Who Will Not See", pertaining to the revoking of the membership of the United States in the United Nations and the specialized agencies thereof. Mrs. Cook read an article entitled, "The Americans for Democratic Action Leans Toward Socialism", in which she stated that it is indeed unfortunate that many of those on whom our President leans for advice are primarily concerned with promoting unrealistic ideologies rather than the best interest of the United States. She urged members to write to Congressional representatives concerning the United Nations Bond Issue in which she stated that it is incredible that the leaders of this government would propose to submit American taxpayers to blackmail by paying for international delinquency of the Soviet Union, Cuba and other nations.

Mr. Giles Hoffer, of Warsaw, very ably gave to those present "A Summer In Europe", showing slides and giving commentary relative to a trip he and his wife took last year. They planned their own trip and successfully met their goal of meeting the people of Europe.

The hostess, assisted by her daughter, Mrs. Charles Tucker, served attractive refreshments from a table decorated in keeping with the St. Patrick's holiday, to members and guests, Miss Linda Davis and Miss LuAnn Long.

The chapter will meet April 10 at Pete's restaurant with Mrs. Miles Manwaring as hostess. The Good Citizen girls will be honored guests at this meeting.

Week after week carefully tabulated figures published in "Automotive Market Reports" show that Chevrolet trucks are worth more in resale value.

why?

If you were a professional used truck buyer, why would you pay more for one make than another?

There may be several reasons, but among them would be:

1. A greater demand for the product

2. A more desirable product for resale

So if used Chevrolet trucks consistently bring higher prices at auctions all over the country, it means that their quality features pay off for you not only as long as you own them but also when you are ready to trade them—double-wall cabs, doors and side panels, roof insulation, select wood floors, reliable and economical engines, real rugged tailgates, a suspension system that helps prolong truck life.

See your Chevrolet dealer for a quality '62 Chevrolet Jobmaster truck.

"Automotive Market Reports" is a weekly authoritative wholesale publication which reports the average prices paid for used trucks and cars by professional buyers at auctions all over the U.S.

Top Performance From Your Car

The best way to get top performance from your car is to drive it, according to John H. Struben, director of the Chicago Motor Club's emergency service department.

He pointed out that just as a person needs a certain amount of exercise to keep in good physical condition, a car should get more of a workout than the usual day-to-day driving.

He advised motorists to head for the open highway occasionally to exercise their cars. This doesn't mean, however, that you must drive at excessive speeds. It isn't speed your car needs—just a reasonable workout to keep it in good running condition.

A brisk run at highway speeds helps to improve battery efficiency, removes carbon from the spark plugs, and frees sticky valves.

Your car's operating performance won't be improved by leaving it in the garage, parked in front of the house, or driven only a few blocks in city traffic.

Calcium For Eggshells

About 94 per cent of the minerals in an egg are in the shell, mostly in the form of calcium carbonate, points out Roy Roberts, Purdue University extension poultryman. The shell of a two-ounce egg contains about 5.5 grams of calcium carbonate or 2.2 grams of calcium.

A hen laying 240 eggs a year uses about 1.2 pounds of calcium to package that many eggs. So, to make strong eggshells, a hen must receive plenty of calcium.

Because grains and vegetable protein supplements are very low in calcium, laying hens must be supplied with calcium from some other source. For many years this was done by feeding oyster shells free-choice with the laying ration. During the past few years more and more of the calcium supplement has been added directly to the mash part of the ration.

In many cases, all of the calcium is put in the ration. For this purpose an economical and readily available calcium supplement is a high calcium carbonate ground limestone containing 95 per cent or more calcium carbonate. Finely ground oyster shell, oyster shell flour, is also satisfactory.

The all-mash laying ration, containing 86 per cent of a combination of ground corn and soybean meal, recommended in Purdue Extension Mimeo P-70, contains three per cent of calcium. To provide this level of calcium in the ration, 140 lbs. of ground limestone, containing 95 per cent calcium carbonate, are added per ton of ration. This amount of ground limestone—seven per cent of the ration—is needed because 95 per cent calcium carbonate limestone contains only 38 per cent of calcium. The limestone supplies 87 per cent of the total calcium in this ration. The remainder comes from dicalcium phosphate, alfalfa meal, soybean meal and corn.

Considering Plans For New City Building

Members of the Mentone town council have been considering for some time the possibility of bringing our city a bit more up to date and in the up-and-coming class by securing a new city building and fire and police station. Everything is in the indefinite stage at the moment, and ways and means are being explored.

The old city water supply tank, around which the present town building was erected, was hauled away to the junk yard last week, which leaves a rather big cavity in part of the fire station floor. The giant tank had to be cut into pieces by cutting torches before it could be removed. One of the workmen on the project said the sticker was still on the tank that stated that it weighed 11,800 pounds when delivered there in 1912.

Facts On School
Reorganization

The next few weeks will be important ones to the voters of this area, as they will be expected to voice their opinions on the school reorganization plans in the May 8 primary election.

We will vote at this election on whether to accept or reject the reorganization plan presented by the Kosciusko County School Reorganization Committee.

We will vote only on the school district which concerns us individually.

An individual, if he plans to vote the school ballot only, can do so without declaring his political party, providing he or she is properly registered.

Watch this corner. We will have more facts each week.

It happened so quickly Mrs. Fowler cannot say how it took place. She was taken to the Lutheran hospital in Ft. Wayne where the fracture was reduced, and she was able to return to her home Tuesday.

COUNTERPOINT

By The Editor's Wife

Last week because of the dreary cold weather, I found myself wondering why we had not stayed down in the warm sunshine of the Southwest. Now, here in Indiana, the sun is shining, and the urge to get out and get busy is with me, so tomorrow may bring stiff muscles and sore hands, if I can find that rake.

Since so much matter is included in the Lawrence Bell Memorial material, we would like to suggest that an extra room be built at the library to house these valuable personal effects. Many tourists would drive miles out of their way to see these things, for Lawrence Bell was a pioneer in the Aeronautical field, and will go down in history as an outstanding leader.

The Chamber of Commerce and the Lions club will find enthusiastic backing in the community if they care to take the lead in this worthy project.

Years ago someone gave us a start of multiflora rose. We paid little attention to it, and suddenly we had a problem on our hands. It had grown in all directions and was a menace to clothing and person when one walked too close. So the editor is making an all-out effort to eradicate the hedge. He says, "That which you get for nothing, take very little of—especially multiflora rose hedge." (The birds are going to miss the safe cover of its thorny branches, however.)

Wish to pay tribute here to the courtesy of the NIPSCO linemen who work in our community. They have been taking out some old poles, no longer needed, and, in asking to see if we could use them, learned that we were going to need a pole for our Martin house. The man-in-charge offered to cut off one of the poles at the proper height (if it was in the right spot) or to cut it off below the ground so that there would be no problem with the lawn mower later. (We are going to use the pole, but will put it in an open spot away from the trees and down toward the creek.)

Something to think about: "Everyone needs a warm personal enemy or two to keep him

NOW IN MENTONE

Mentone can now feel distinguished in that they have a possession of trophies, mementoes, etc. that cannot be valued in dollars and cents. Saturday a semi-truck load of the personal sentimental possessions of the late Lawrence Bell arrived in Mentone, and citizens are working desperately to find space to display as much of it as possible until such time as additional display room becomes available.

For the present, much of it is being placed on display at the library and in the school.

The display contains many of the scale models of the planes, both fixed wing, rotary and experimental, which Mr. Bell and his engineers developed over the years. There are numbers of trophies and citations, including the Collier and Thompson trophies, jet motors, personal diary, the control wheel on his brother, Grover's pusher plane. Much of the display is enclosed in beautiful display cases, and the lot includes hundreds of enlarged pictures and oil paintings.

It is actually impossible to state what the contribution includes, and it will be many weeks, and possibly months, before we will know what is in it.

ATHLETIC AWARDS
ARE PRESENTED

The Mentone gym was well filled Friday evening for the annual athletic awards banquet, sponsored by the school officials and the Mentone Booster Club. The festivities began with a pot-luck dinner. Following the dinner, a fine program was presented, with Principal John Frederick presenting Harold Nelson, as MC.

Mr. Nelson then introduced a number of individuals representing various facets of our community. First was H. Earl Boggs, trustee, followed by Jack Newcomb as president of the Booster club, Gerald Romine of the Chamber of Commerce, Arthur Kendall of the Lions club, Raymond Cooper as a businessman, Dr. Dan Urschel as a professional man, Don Derry as a sports photographer, and Milo Clase as a sports announcer.

The mothers of the varsity basketball boys were introduced after which Bob Smith, coach of the Mishawaka high school gave a very humorous talk.

Paul Bateman, Mentone varsity coach, introduced his assistants who presented awards to athletic participants.

County Recreation Workshop Meeting

Mrs. Ruth McCleary, Home Demonstration Agent, announces that Dr. Harry D. Edgren, professor of recreation leadership at Purdue University, will have charge of a workshop on Thursday, April 5, from 9:30 to 3:00 p.m., at the Women's Building, Warsaw Fairgrounds.

Dr. Edgren is well experienced in all phases of recreation including academic, industrial, community and professional. He was National Program Director of U.S.O. during World War II. In 1954 he did group work in recreation in India, having accepted a Fulbright professorship. He joined the Purdue staff in 1956. He is the author of several books, two of which will be used at the workshop. He recently completed a very successful workshop for Senior Citizens in Allen county.

This workshop arranged by Mrs. Ruth McCleary and the County Extension Service with the cooperation of Purdue University, is intended to help all who are interested in family or group recreation.

Topics of recreation, plans for various occasions and suitable games, materials and equipment, crafts and hobbies and resources for family fun are a few of the topics that will be covered.

Families are recognizing that they need something to keep them together and are turning to recreation. This workshop is open to all who are interested in this excellent program. 4-H, Girl Scout, Boy Scout, church, P.T.A., Senior Citizens groups, as well as leaders of clubs, are especially invited.

A freak showed up in a litter of pigs at the Gene Marshall farm Saturday morning. Out of a litter of nine normal pigs, one was found with three eyes and two complete noses, including tongues and teeth. As can be seen in the view above, the head was about normal size, with one eye in the center of the forehead and one on each side in a normal position. The animal was dead when found by Mr. Marshall.

If your clothes aren't coming out of the washer as sparkling white as you'd like, perhaps you didn't do a good job of sorting them. For best results, home management specialists at Purdue University recommend sorting clothes for colorfastness, degree of soil and fabric types.

STATE MEN CLEAN MENTONE STREETS

Tuesday morning members of the state highway crews were at work sweeping Main street in Mentone, and cleaning up the dirt and gravel that had accumulated during the winter. LEAN-TO SHELTER made of lumber would provide low-cost protection against fallout in homes with basements. The shelter, costing less than $75 on a self-built basis, would provide as much fallout protection as some of the seven other designs included with it in the Defense Department's booklet "Family Shelter Designs." It combines simplicity of construction with easy availability of materials, and could be disassembled easily. Civil defense offices have the free booklet available now to the public.

Jerry Hudson's "What-Is-It?"

Likely most of our readers recognized Jerry Hudson's trick picture as the business end of a ballpoint pen, and you may not have too much trouble with the string of "something or other" shown this week. Somewhere in piles of old junk (antiques to be exact) we've seen something that looked like this. I don't believe it was the leg irons seen at Tubac, nor a string of musket balls on a string that some of the old-timers wrote about saying it took a pretty good set of teeth to get a shot off. It's a bit more modern, we think, and if you guess one way you can be right—and then you can guess differently and almost still be right. Two chances on this one.

Hitching and Tillage Mimeos

Hoosier farmers soon will be tilling the soil in preparation for spring planting.

C. L. Hill, Purdue University agricultural engineer, suggests that farmers may find four Purdue publications dealing with tillage useful.

The publications are:

Mimeo AE-52, Dual Tractor

Control, which contains 20 illustrations showing how two tractors may be hitched together in tandem for added pulling power. It also lists advantages and disadvantages of such an arrangement.

Mimeo AE-56, Hitching a Plow. This publication shows how to hitch the plow to a tractor operating with both wheels on the level or "land".

Mimeo AE-58, Two-Machine Hitch, which contains two hitching methods—trailer and wide tool bar—and shows a commercially manufactured hitch and how to build one that will be equally satisfactory.

Mimeo AE-59, Offset Hitching—For Wheel Track Corn Planting, takes up this promising method of performing the plow and plant part of minimum tillage in wheel track planting.

Band Seeding
Proven Best

Band seeding helps small grass and legume plants compete with oats and weeds in spring seedings, says Lester H. Smith, Purdue University extension agronomist.

The seed is placed just above the band of fertilizer through this method. When the seed germinates, the fertilizer helps it develop an extensive root system necessary to withstand drouth and shade, he explains.

Too, band seeding saves time. One-half less grass seed and one-third less legume seed gives better stands than from broadcast methods. The saving in seed can easily offset the cost of converting a grain drill for band seeding.

Smith emphasizes that it's important to remove the drag chains from a drill that has been converted. The drag chains scatter the seeds away from the band of fertilizer.

Band seeding has been a popular practice of seeding for about 25 years, but many drills still need to be converted.

Safety Campaign By Rural Youth

The Indiana Rural Youth have opened a campaign to reduce drastically the death and accident rate of youthful drivers. During April, May and June, they will make a statewide effort to sell seat belts to each member with installation being done during National Safety Week in July.

"These young people recognize their age group, statistically, has more accidents than any other age group," said Estel Callahan, director of Indiana Farm Bureau's education department, co-sponsor of IRY. "By setting an example, they hope to sell other Hoosiers on the need for seat belts. This is a positive step toward auto safety," he said.

The club safety chairman will be in charge of the campaign in each county. The sales to members will be made during the next three months. Members of the local safety committee will install the belts.

Indiana Farm Bureau insurance companies will provide the belts to the clubs at a nominal cost. Belts will be ordered through the local FB insurance agent.

Along with the sales campaign and the installation, the Rural Youth, in cooperation with state police and the local insurance agent, will conduct an educational program to convince members to use the belts, once installed.

Meetings in April will launch the campaign in each of the ten Rural Youth districts.

Lions Entertain Seniors At Steer Inn

A very enjoyable evening was reported at the Lions Club meeting held at the Steer Inn last Wednesday evening, when the club entertained the seniors of the Beaver Dam and Mentone high schools. Seventy-nine were present at the affair.

Following the smorgasbord dinner, a choral group from the North Manchester Junior High School presented a musical program. The special speaker of the evening was a German foreign exchange student from Plymouth.

Working On Giant Space Power Plant

Mrs. Arlo Friesner sent us a copy of the "Rocketdyne Skywriter," house organ of the North American Aviation at Los Angeles, which tells of some of the giant motors the firm is working for space exploration. The one now being constructed is intended for a moon-landing some time next year. Seven electronic men are working on the unit, and Arlo's nephew and a son-in-law of John Oswalt of Constantine, Michigan, Bill Murray, is working on the motor.

The Rocketdyne motor which propelled Col. Glenn into orbit was of 360,000 pounds thrust. A year ago 1,640,000 pounds thrust was secured from a F-1 engine, and a cluster of five are expected to be used in the moon shot.

INFANT BURIED MARCH 28

Janise Michelle, born at the South Bend Memorial hospital Monday morning to Mr. and Mrs. Denton Abbey, was buried at the Mentone cemetery Wednesday morning at 9:00 a. m. with Rev. Roger Wrigley officiating. An Rh factor evidently influenced a two-month premature birth.

Honored for State Winning Essay

Mrs. Frank Smith of Anthony Nigo chapter DAR of Mentone, read her 5,441 word state winning essay, "The Constitution Versus World Government", at council meeting held at Sheraton Lincoln Hotel, Indianapolis on Wednesday, March 21.

She received a standing ovation, led by Mrs. Roscoe C. O'Byrne, an honorary president general and honorary state regent. This recognition is given only to dignitaries or others of high rank. This precedent which never had been broken before, gave Mrs. Smith this singular honor.

Accompanying Mrs. Smith were her sister, Mrs. Glenn Clauss of near Bourbon, Mrs. F. R. Burns of North Manchester and Mrs. Ray Linn of Mentone.

A WORD OF APPRECIATION

The Summit Chapel WSCS appreciated the attendance at their March 24 smorgasbord, and to all those who donated food and time. Apologies also to the latecomers who found the food selection a bit sparse.

NOTICE DOG OWNERS

There have been several dogs running at large in town lately and this cannot and will not be tolerated. There is an ordinance stating that dogs must be kept tied and must have a license. Also that all dogs must have rabies shots once a year.

Starting immediately, all dogs without tags will be destroyed and dogs with tags, the owners will be cited into court for letting the dog run loose. This means any and all dogs, day or night.

MISSIONARY RALLY SATURDAY EVENING

Dr. W. Wilbert Welch, president of Grand Rapids Baptist College and Seminary, will be the speaker at a missionary rally that will be held at the First Baptist church of Mentone on Saturday, March 31st. The services will begin at 7:30 p.m.

Twelve churches of the General Association of Regular Baptist churches are cooperating in the rally which is the climax to a week long Round-Robin Conference which has been conducted in the churches. Ten missionaries representing several independent Baptist missionary boards will be present for the service. A musical program, including a male quartet and a trumpet soloist, will be featured in the preliminary program.

All people of the Mentone area are invited to come and enjoy this challenging rally with the congregation of the church and their guests. Dr. Welch will also be the speaker for the services on Sunday, April 1st.

PROOF OF A COLDER WINTER

Spring has arrived—"officially"—but March's cold, wet and blustery weather still reminds residents of a long, icy winter which seems to be hanging on for dear life. "That was an old fashioned one, to be sure," says many a winter seasoned oldtimer.

Proof to back it up comes from weather conscious gas dispatchers at Northern Indiana Public Service Company who report that this January was about 13 per cent colder than the same month in 1961, and February was almost 28 per cent colder than February a year ago. Over all, the weather during the first two months of this year was almost 19 per cent colder than last year.

"No one has been more aware of the extremely low and severe periods of cold weather than we have," said Stanley W. Evans, Warsaw district manager for NIPSCO. "Our company's 310,000 gas customers used 514,000,000 cubic feet of natural gas on our 'peak' day this year—103 million more than last year's peak." Evans pointed out that prolonged periods of zero and sub-zero weather mean increased heating costs. "This is why northern Indiana residents have been noticing that their present NIPSCO service bills are higher than those of a year ago."

The NIPSCO manager also explained that other weather factors—such as wind velocity and direction, sunshine and snow—also affect heating fuel consumption. "No matter what kind of fuel has been used, the cost of heating this winter is bound to be considerably higher—dollars and cents proof of a long and hard winter," he added.

Note on communism:

There are numerous influential Americans who say they oppose one-world-government—and mean it. They realize that one-world-government would blot out freedom and opportunity for the individual; that it would reduce the United States to a weak, impoverished province in a world-wide tyranny; and that would strip us, as a nation, of that freedom which has been a beacon light of hope to oppressed people ever since our freedom was won in 1776.

Many people also object to over-centralization of Federal Government for the United States knowing that our best safeguard against the menace of one-world-government is the existence of our several state governments, going about their business of making local decisions, enforcing them unimpeded, as provided by the Federal Constitution. But do these same people know about the background of many decisions of the Supreme Court that
