Local Boy Scouts
At Camporee

Scoutmaster Walter Kelley has given us the following information on the week end spent at the Scout Camporee.

Our area was fortunate in having this large outing so near to us. Our own troop, being newly organized, did quite well in making camp, competing with other scouts, many who had much more scouting experience than our boys, and Mr. Kelley was more than pleased with his boys, we are sure.

Following was his schedule of events: Friday night, arrived in camp at 6:00—put up tents—had a great time—had a snack at 9:00—retired at 10:00. Up at 6:00—ate at 7:00—inspection at 8:30—worked more on camp site—met other Boy Scouts—went to skills events at 9:00—didn't do much, but had a swell time. Boys enjoyed themselves—returned to camp site—rested up and planned dinner—started dinner at 11:30—ate at 12:00—returned to skills area at 2:00. Did real well in afternoon skills. Eagle patrol scored 44 out of 85 points—Beaver patrol scored 43 out of 85—returned to camp site at 4:30—watched Sky Divers at 5:00—returned to camp site and ate supper at 6:30—after dark went to headquarters tent and thoroughly enjoyed the Indian dances, magic tricks and received awards. Returned to camp site around 9:30—bed at 10:00—what a night! We all had a taste of real camping—rain, cold and wind. Two tents blew down during the night. Sunday morning, up at 6:30—ate at 8:00—cleaned up camp until 9:30, went to headquarters tent to receive awards for events participated in on Saturday afternoon — Beaver patrol received a blue ribbon for 2nd place and Eagle patrol a red ribbon for 3rd place—returned to camp sites and took down tents—loaded truck and cleaned up camp site. Left camp at 11:15 Sunday morning. A nice time was enjoyed by all even if it was cool at camp.—We are ready to tackle it again. We wish more of the parents could have come up to see their boys — Tom Harman came in Sunday morning early to take pictures of our boys—Sure was a nice day for them—Scoutmaster, Walter Kelley.

COUNTERPOINT

By The Editor's Wife

The coin shortage is so acute that the government is asking businessmen not to hoard coins (nothing has yet been said about pennies for baby's piggy-bank, or mother's dime collection).

Coin machines are the cause of the shortage. Stop and think a moment. Years ago one needed coins for fare boxes on street cars or buses, candy or peanut machines. Now one needs coins for the laundry, parking meter, soft drink machine, newspaper vending machine, etc., etc.—the list is endless.

Sales tax is another coin user (we are likely to learn more about this in the months ahead).

So is someone comes up to you and asks, "Mister, can you spare a dime?" is wasn't for a cup of coffee, it will be someone in need of change for a parking meter or the newspaper machine.

To add to the list of exotic foods—From India came these items—rice with saffran capsulls in each package; sajovit, a topping for rice; tandoori, blended spices for chicken; mango chutney; spiced onions, colored pink and yellow.

From England — a baby's teething bone, consisting of a hard biscuit on a ribbon, which can be fastened to the child's wrist; a golden pot for brewing Boston Harbour tea (The tea is packed by the English firm of Dairson and Newam, which lost the tea when our American patriots dumped the tea cargo into Boston Harbor—quite a sense of humor, what?).

LION'S HALLOWE'EN
CELEBRATION

Just to keep in back of your mind, is the annual Hallowe'en celebration sponsored by the Lion's Club. This event will be held on Saturday night, October 26th, and will feature a fish fry, followed by the Hallowe'en festivities, similar to those in years past. Lloyd Bowerman, Forest Miner and Darrell King are in charge of the parade.

Other committees have been appointed and are now functioning, to bring to our community a night of 'food 'n fun! We will have more information on this in a later issue of the News.

More Things Seen
In Our Town

The workmen who have been busy on the Post Office corner felt slighted last week when we failed to mention their job—and it is a big one, and is shaping up so nicely. Bob Bowen and his crew have come in and gotten busy in nothing flat, and the Post Office is beginning to look very new and up-to-date.—and right next door, Frank Mfg. is putting up glass brick, knocking out old windows, and really remodeling their building. Mentone's main corner is going to look all dressed up very soon.—

P.T.A. GET-ACQUAINTED NIGHT

The program committee of the P.T.A. has announced plans for a pot luck supper to be held October 9, Wednesday evening at 6:30 in the school cafeteria. School patrons and parents are urged to attend this second meeting of the P.T.A. Bring a well filled basket and your own table service. Come and enjoy a good, filling meal, and get acquainted with others from our school area.

TICKETS ON SALE

Mr. Gaylord Toll has announced again that the reserved tickets are on sale now. They will be a little more than season tickets, but offer the convenience of not having to rush at an early hour to claim seats for our home games. Call the school, EL 3-3665 and order your tickets.

UNITED FUND

Just another reminder that United Fund time is here again. Be thinking and planning about giving liberally to this fund, which enables many organizations to function better, gives assistance to those in need, and in general, benefits us all.

With The Sick

Mrs. Vern Cole is improved in an Indianapolis hospital. The blood clot has dissolved and she is better.

Mrs. Irvin Nelson was taken by ambulance to the Murphy Medical Center Tuesday evening. She was discovered lying on the floor by neighbors. She suffered a broken hip falling.

SPF Chow Plant Ready

New facilities have been completed at the Ralston Purina plant in Davenport, Iowa, for the manufacture of specific pathogen free rations for laboratory animals. Production will commence this fall.

The new facilities will serve the nationwide demand from hospitals, medical research laboratories, colleges and other research stations for laboratory animal foods which are more pure than human food. The Purina plant is one of the first commercial installations of its kind in the world. It was built as an addition to the existing Ralston Purina plant in Davenport.

"Specific pathogen free" rations, in laymen's terms, mean that the ration will be free of certain specific pathogens, or germs, which could disturb the laboratory animals' normal physical condition. Laboratory animals include, mice, rats, hamsters, guinea pigs, monkeys, rabbits and even dogs and cats used in medical research.

Medical research has moved to the point that researchers are requiring specific pathogen free food for laboratory animals so that the possibility of disrupting the research tests by disease is reduced. This has required the developing of new techniques to formulate, process and package these rations.

Ralston Purina has for many years been the world's largest manufacturer of rations for laboratory animals. This is the company's first facility for the manufacture of specific pathogen free rations.

Cub Scout Pack Night

Saturday evening at the Methodist Church, the Cub Scouts met for their monthly Pack meeting. Cubmaster Jim Miller called the roll, with each boy answering by naming a bird.

Lloyd Bowerman, who had visited the Boy Scout Camporee near Warsaw, gave a short resume of what was taking place there, and what the Cubs had to look forward to when they become Boy Scouts.

Several of the boys gave short demonstrations before the group of parents, which pertained to Science Fair Week. Also, the following boys received awards for various achievements: Jeff Shoemaker, Jay Robinson, Bill

Bowerman, Darrell Miller, Jimmy Bach and Bruce Leslie.

Mrs. Lloyd Bowerman has been appointed general chairman for the Cub Scout bake sale to be held October 12, on a Saturday, beginning at 9:00 a.m. Keep this date in mind, since the Cubs will be needing your support, and will appreciate your helping them out on their first money making venture. More will be given about this later.

CARD OF THANKS

A very special thank you to all for remembering me with calls, flowers, cards and prayers. They were appreciated very much. Thank you all again.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Sarber, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Sarber, Mrs. John Laird, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Vernet and Mr. Turner Boggs attended the funeral of Frank Bybee at Churubusco on Thursday.

Mrs. Lloyd Summe of Rochester, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Mahoney and Mrs. Goldie Kesler went to Indianapolis last Friday. After a look at the new elaborate shopping center, they went to Mrs. Verna Nelson's for dinner. In the afternoon, their trip took them through a section of Indiana's beautiful hills to Martinsville to visit Mrs. Orpha Blue and her son, Sam. Mrs. Blue, with the Post Office here for a number of years, is quite well and inquired about many home folks.

Mrs. Bob Brooks and Bill of Rochester visited Saturday with her mother, Mrs. Freda King, and her sister, Mrs. Jack Pritchard and family.

Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hunter and family were: Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Hunter, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Fivecoat and family, all of Mexico, Indiana, Mr. and Mrs. George Leibo of Elkhart, and Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Hunter, Jr. and family of St. Joe, Michigan.

Sunday evening dinner guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Hibschan and girls were: Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Hibschan of Little Chapman Lake, and Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Zeichiel and Jeff of Culver.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Bryant and her son, Marvyn Lee Whalen, will leave Monday for Ontario, California, where they will make their new home. Mrs. Bryant has owned and operated Peggy's Beauty Salon here in town for several months.

Merrill Peterson will begin his duties as office manager at Land 'O Goshen, near Milford, next Monday. He plans to commute for awhile. He has been in the restaurant business with his mother, Mrs. Virginia Peterson, for several years.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Manwaring returned last week from a trip east. In New Haven, Connecticut they met with some friends from Indianapolis, then into New York City. They then toured the United Nations Building, and in Boston also took a tour of the city and saw Sturbridge Village, which is an old town replica. In Vermont and New Hampshire the leaves were at their peak of fall color. They went on up to Quebec, Montreal, and back through Upper New York, and then home. The trip took 11 days and most of the time was spent driving, but Ellener said they thoroughly enjoyed the drive, especially seeing the leaves turning at their prettiest.

Home From Western Trip

Dr. and Mrs. F. B. Davison returned last week from a month's trip to the west coast.

When they left, the day after Labor Day, their destination was Crater Lake, Oregon. They enjoyed a boat ride on Crater Lake, which meant an hour and a half hike down mountain trails to the lake. While enjoying the boat trip, they saw a spectacular rock slide and a beautiful Golden Eagle.

They spent two days driving Golden Beach, Oregon, where Dr. Davison had the thrill of landing a Chinook salmon.

They spent two days driving and hiking in the Redwood country.

They took a 32 mile boat trip on the famous Rouge River, enjoying a family style meal at a lodge before making the return trip.

At Albuquerque, New Mexico, Lois visited two projects which are sponsored by the W.S.C.S. of the Methodist Church, the Harwood Girls School and the Baton Memorial Methodist Hospital, which has played an important part in the final testing of the astronauts.

They finished their vacation in Ohio, visiting with Lois' sister, May, and husband.

The weather was perfect, and the trip was perfect, and we only wish that, in the telling, so much of the excitement were not lost.

You can transplant many deciduous shrubs and trees after their leaves have dropped this fall, according to Purdue University horticulturists. However, wait until spring to transplant dogwood and magnolia.

COUNTERPOINT, Continued

Quote of the week — "The greatest disadvantage of retirement is a moral and spiritual one, not an economic one."

Dr. Robert Hairhurst, University of Chicago.

You may save yourself about time to put the equipment in A-1 shape (Remember how fast the grass started growing last spring?).

Yet, it takes quite a bit of money to replace the above items, so take care of them now.

One of the present trends in interior decoration is something called "The Accent Piece." This is a piece of furniture, object or accessory so unusual or distinctive that it stands out "like a sore thumb", but in harmony with the rest of the room. Some good accent pieces can be—clocks, carved chests, writing table of beautiful wood, marble-topped tables, secretary or breakfront, collector's cabinet, unusual chairs with beautiful upholstery, a rocking chair, porcelains, paintings, candelabra, urns, ornamental boxes, etc., etc.

An accent piece should never look pretentious, and, should look like you because it is a personal thing.

Last fall in the home where we stayed in Boston, the small library had a unique accent piece. It was a large "bouquet" of peacock feathers, set on a low lacquered table. The lovely blues and greens of the draperies, chairs and floor covering were in complete harmony with the accent piece. The result was a room so charming that it was pure joy to relax in its beauty.

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Fred Swick, who celebrated their 66th wedding anniversary on Wednesday.

School Board Hears From Taxpayers Assoc.

A regularly scheduled meeting of the Tippecanoe Valley School Board was held Monday evening in the office of Superintendent Forbes.

After routine opening, with roll taken and last month's minutes being read, president Bucher opened the floor to anyone in the audience who wanted to approach the board. A group of 15 people, all representing the newly formed Tippecanoe Valley Taxpayers Association, were present.

Friday evening at Burket, there was a large group of interested people who met to share ideas concerning T.V.S.C. Al Orcutt, who was elected chairman of this organization, spoke to the school board Monday evening, on behalf of the Taxpayers Association. Mr. Orcutt, in a mannerly and polite way, told of the purpose and intentions of the taxpayers—to keep the patrons and taxpayers informed on the school board's operations, and in turn to relay to the board, the wishes, desires and feelings of the taxpayers. They hope for three representatives from each township in the corporation to attend the school board meetings and to be go-between from the board to taxpayers.

A rumor, to the effect that the school board was seriously contemplating a two million dollar high school prompted the forming of this Taxpayers Association. Orcutt asked a direct question to the board, "Has the board decided on any future plans for building of a school?" President Bucher answered, "No, nothing like a two million dollar school."

Mr. Orcutt then asked, "Does the board contemplate making any decision before the Purdue Survey is completed?" Superintendent Forbes answered, "No decision will be made without the survey."

President Bucher, after hearing the presentation by chairman Orcutt, said he felt the organization could be a help to the board. Board member, Whitney Gast, also added, "Tippecanoe Valley Taxpayers Association, the way it has been presented, is sound."

Chairman Orcutt, in stating his personal feelings, said, "If this organization can work in a mannerly way, and be a help both to the school board and the taxpayers, then I'm all for it."

A few questions were asked of the board concerning this newly formed group. One, in particular, "As a taxpayer's group, are you not in favor of spending any money?"

This was readily answered to the effect that the taxpayers were not against spending money if careful consideration was given in the deciding of how this money was to be used.

The next meeting of the newly formed taxpayers association will be held next Monday evening, October 14 at the old cafe building in Burket. All interested folks are urged and invited to attend.

Mrs. Neil McKinney has been signed to teach the additional first grade at Akron.

Mrs. Rita Harker is to teach in our English department in Mentone, because of the overload.

The language laboratory or electronic learning station was also discussed again. Superintendent Forbes asked the board to be thinking seriously about having one in each high school. This won't be done in a hurry, as it takes a while to make the necessary arrangements and set it up, but the government will pay half on this equipment.

October 21 is the next board meeting.

By The Editor's Wife

In conversation with Esther Markley, learned that tulip bulbs do better if they are planted earlier in the fall—gives them time to "feel at home" in the soil before it freezes, it seems.

To get back to an article in last week's column (which suffered some "setbacks" in the composing room), was trying to show the homeowner how it is possible to save $100, or more, by taking care of tools and outdoor equipment now. The weatherman is giving us some extra time this fall for these chores, so get busy (Cullums).

Dale Kelly left for Florida on Tuesday. He said that he had two golfing companions who had been waiting for him there. He spends the winters in Bradenton.

One of the prettiest sights this summer has been the stone planter along the south side of Frank & Jerry's grocery. It held crimson petunias which have spilled their color in a profusion of cascading blossoms.

A small friend came in for a copy of the Mentone News last week. As he handed the coin to me he said "This was my tooth money," and as he grinned, I almost asked, "which one?"

Quote of the week: "I do not vote against the hope of peace, but only against the illusion of it. I do not vote for war but for the strength to prevent it. If it means political suicide to vote for my country and against the treaty, then I commit it gladly!"

Hon. Barry Goldwater in his Senate floor speech opposing the ratification of the test-ban treaty.

This article caused me to stop and think. Robert Peterson in his column was telling of older people and how some of them "licked" their problem of loneliness. One woman had written, "Why don't ministers, priests, and rabbis suggest to members that they bring a senior citizen along to church, or that they take an older person home with them after services?" — There comes a time when the pall of loneliness sneaks into one's existence and it is then that an invitation from another human would really brighten the soul.

"Older folks need more than lip service," says Mr. Peterson.

We enjoyed this: Bride: "The two things I cook best are Swiss steak and apple pie." Groom: "And which is this?"

Indiana State Medical Convention

Thirty-eight physicians grouped in a series of 10 panels will cover all major aspects of heart and lung diseases in "fireside conferences" to be held at the Columbia Club, Indianapolis, on Tuesday, October 15, as one of the features of the 114th annual convention of the Indiana State Medical Association.

More than 2,500 Indiana physicians, their wives and guests are expected to attend the convalesce this year.

The fireside conferences will deal with such subjects as the heart in pulmonary disease, emphysema, management of esophageal disease, cardiac emergencies, thoracic emergencies, X-ray therapy of thoracic problems, diagnosis and management of pericarditis, impending myocardial infarction, differential diagnosis of chest pain and newer concepts of chemotherapy in pulmonary disease.

Honored guest participants will be Dr. David Littmann, assistant clinical professor in medicine, Harvard Medical School and Dr. Albert H. Andrews, Jr., clinical professor of bronchopneumology at the College of Medicine, University of Illinois, Chicago.

The fireside conferences are jointly sponsored by the medical association and the Indiana chapter of the American College of Chest Physicians.

These informal, unhearses conferences provide an opportunity for free discussion of many subjects of interest to the specialist and general practitioner alike.

News Office Moving To New Location

Arrangements have been made with Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Ward for the Mentone News and Country Post Shop offices to be located in their beautiful building on Main Street, just east from Coopers' Store.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Romine had provided plans in their new post office building for a small office towards the rear of the present building. However, a number of our reader friends thought we should be on Main Street, and we are at the News felt fortunate that Mr. and Mrs. Ward offered to provide us with the west portion of the front of their Paint and Wallpaper Store. A partition will be provided shortly, and our customers can be assured their visits with us will be in the strictest confidence.

This move will place the Mentone News office just one door from where it was located when your editor took over in 1941.

NEW PAPER SIZE THIS ISSUE

The editors, when it was decided to consolidate our printing plants, stated that we hoped we would be able to provide a better newspaper for Mentone under the new arrangement. This issue we are making another change in enlarging the size of the pages, and providing about one-third more column inches of advertising and reading area in each issue.

This is our first attempt to use the larger newspaper press purchased recently, and, even though we have not completely mastered the idiosyncracies of the thing, we trust we will eventually master it.

Purdue High School Day, Oct. 19

High School Day at Purdue University, an annual event designed to supplement the school guidance programs for students who plan to continue their education at colleges or universities, is scheduled for Saturday, October 19.

All such students, with their parents and high school teachers or counselors, are invited to attend. The all-day program is designed to provide college-aspiring high school students and their parents with general as well as specific information about requirements and opportunities in particular career areas, regardless of the institution they may plan to attend. High School Day also will provide first hand information on the opportunities available to them at Purdue, and will give answers to individual student questions from staff members of Purdue's various schools and curricula and will emphasize the importance of adequate preparation in high school for college study. The program is primarily for Juniors and Seniors.

Registration for the October 19 program will begin at 8:45 a.m. in the ground floor lobby of the Edward C. Elliott Hall of Music. The opening session is scheduled to begin promptly at 9:45 a.m. in the Hall of Music where professor Harland W. White, director of admissions, will discuss "Preparation for College."

Following this meeting, students will go to their "first choice" career area meetings, to be held throughout the campus. At noon, the students, their parents and teachers will be guests at lunch in the University's Residence Halls. Tours of the residence facilities will be conducted immediately following the meal.

From 2 p.m. to 3:30 p.m., the student guests and their parents and high school leaders will have a choice of activities.

They may return to their "first choice" career area meetings for additional, detailed information; they may attend a "second choice" career area meeting, or participate in conducted tours of the facilities of each of Purdue's schools—such as classrooms, laboratories, the Computer Sciences Center and several other interested Purdue instructional and research areas which are pertinent to the High School Day program.

High School Day is sponsored by the Purdue Office of Admissions in cooperation with all schools, divisions and departments of the University.

High School Day at Purdue was formerly held in the spring and has been shifted to the fall date to coincide with the counseling activities of the high schools.

Mentone Students To Attend
Purdue High School Day
This year Mentone students will have the opportunity to attend the Purdue High School Day activities on the Purdue Campus on October 19. Mentone school counselor, George Welch, reports that nine students are planning to attend the activities. Transportation will be furnished by the school. Students attending will be accompanied to Purdue by Mr. Welch and another faculty member. He states that he believes that it is very important for the students to visit college campuses and become familiar with various college offerings and facilities before making a college choice.

Students of Mentone school will have the opportunity to visit other colleges during the current school year. Mr. Welch reports that the High School Day is to be held at Indiana University on November 2. High school students in all grades will have the opportunity to attend this day.

EGGTOBER DRIVE OFF TO EARLY START

Egg breakfasts, TV and radio broadcasts, special store displays and other promotions are being utilized in many sections of the country to proclaim the message that eggs are delicious, appeal to all ages, and contain an abundance of "go-power." Such observances are taking place in state and local promotions being carried on across the country. They are part of the nationwide EGGTOBER campaign, sponsored by the Poultry and Egg National Board each year in cooperation with the egg industry to stimulate greater demand for eggs.

Preliminary reports received by PENB indicate that this year's observance of EGGTOBER got off to an early start. Already, an egg breakfast has been held in Alabama, an egg smorgasbord and a special hour long TV broadcast in Wisconsin, and a Miss EGGTOBER has been crowned. The lowa Poultry Association crowned Miss Robyn Henry, of Cedar Falls, Iowa, in a ceremony at the National Dairy Cattle Congress in Waterloo, with a burst of state pride in the girl who had been selected previously by PENB to symbolize the "go-power" of eggs during the national EGGTOBER campaign.

Many other states have also launched their state EGGTOBER drives and are aggressively carrying on the campaign to move more eggs to dining tables.

New merchandising aids produced by PENB have been distributed widely across the country. These items include wall posters and case displays with messages that reflect the 1963 EGGTOBER theme, "Eggs for Go-Power Around the Clock."

They emphasize the fact that eggs are low in calories, provide protein power, are tasty and are appealing for any meal or snack.

4-H Clubs Combine Fun and Leadership

Recreation is not just a leisure time activity for 4-H Club members, say recreation specialists. It has a practical side that develops leadership and useful hobbies.

Leading a group game or song can be the first step in community service. Benefit shows, safety campaigns and establishment of community recreational facilities are examples of projects undertaken by local clubs.

Through such sharing of ideas and the practice of leading, 4-H members are gaining confidence and social approval, local club leaders report.

Appreciation for cultural pastimes and traditional lore as well as acquiring skills in arts and crafts are prominent in the 4-H recreational awards program.

The young people are also finding that if something is worth doing it is worth doing well. As an incentive for good work, the state's top 4-H member in recreational leadership will be awarded a trip to the 1963 National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago, and will be eligible for one of six national $500 college scholarships.

All winners are named by the Cooperative Extension Service and recognition awards are provided by John Deere, of Moline, Illinois.

In view of what 4-H members report, youthful projects might well become life-long hobbies or even careers.

A high school graduate, who received a 1962 scholarship to start him in college, developed his talent for drawing. Besides helping to promote 4-H in his home town, his art work has benefited school and church. He completed over a thousand sketches and paintings.

Two other scholarship winners already in college plan to expand hobbies pursued in 4-H. One is a singer of local acclaim and the other a capable leader of games and group activities.

Latest recreation program enrollment figures total nearly 70,000 boys and girls between the ages of 10 and 21 years. This is an increase of 24,000 over the previous year, according to the extension service.

Produce Buying Pointers

The largest is not always the best when it comes to fresh produce.

Larger sized fruits and vegetables are not always the highest quality, nor are they necessarily the most economical. Points out Ken Brink, produce marketing specialist at Purdue University.

For greater satisfaction and economy, select fresh produce according to the way you intend to use it.

When shopping, avoid handling produce. Continuous handling causes spoilage, which you, the consumer, must ultimately pay for. If you must handle produce to judge its quality, avoid bruising it.

Learn to distinguish between external factors, such as blemishes, that affect appearance only and those that affect actual eating quality. Tomatoes with growth cracks and cabbages with wilted outer leaves are typical examples of surface disorders. You usually can remove such defects when preparing the food.

Locally grown fruits and vegetables are usually low in price when they are in season. To estimate market prices, know what is available near you and when it is in greatest supply. Availability and price should determine your plans for preserving fruits and vegetables at home.

Destroy Left-Over Insecticide

Destroy small amounts of insecticides that you have left over from this year's gardening, urge Purdue University extension entomologists.

Left over insecticides create a safety hazard, especially for small children. Some of the chemicals lose their strength during extended storage and may not be worth saving.

Bury any insecticide left in the container, or at least discard it where it will not endanger animals or humans. Burn empty paper cartons and bags. Rinse bottles before disposing of them.

If you have insecticides you wish to keep, they suggest the following storage rules: Always store insecticide in its original container, out of reach of children. Never leave a container unmarked—it may be confused with a non-toxic material. For example, a child may be injured by drinking an insecticide kept in a soda drink bottle.

Entomologists emphasize that the proper use of insecticides has increased our food supply, lessened the dangers of disease, and provided freedom from insect annoyances.

Is it time to renew the fire insurance on your house? If it is, you should check into the advantages of a "package" household policy. This is a relatively new idea in home insurance.

Usually, household insurance gives you coverage for fire, theft, personal property, personal liability and other important items. And the cost is seldom more than for the old-fashioned fire insurance.

Some people feel that a package policy of this type gives you "unnecessary" extra insurance. But remember, insurance of any kind is never unnecessary when misfortunes occur.

If you do feel that a household policy gives you protection you "don't really need," ask your fire insurance agent to quote prices on individual policies for the coverage you absolutely must have. Then compare the total cost with the price of a household policy—it's usually cheaper.

Your home and its contents are valuable—it pays to protect them.

D.A.R. Meets

The Anthony Nigo Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, held their October meeting at the home of Mrs. Ernest Igo.

Mrs. Paul Shireman, regent, opened the meeting with the ritual service and presided over the business session. Mrs. James Wells, secretary, read the minutes of the previous meeting and called the roll, with members answering by giving a saying of Will Rogers.

Mrs. Igo reported a carry out fish fry will be sponsored by the chapter on Friday, October 18, from 5 to 7 p.m. at the American Legion Home in Mentone. Home made pies will be sold, and customers are asked to bring their own containers for fish.

Miss Sandra Miller of Mentone and Mrs. Charles Irelan of Akron were voted into membership in the chapter.

Mrs. Walter Lackey, delegate to the recent state conference at Indianapolis, reported three main impressions she brought back. They were the atmosphere of friendliness which prevailed, the importance of the conference, and the sincerity of the state chairman's reports, and some of the highlights of the program which included remarks by Kenyon Cull, headmaster at St. Mary's School for Indian girls at Springfield, South Dakota.

Mr. Cull talked on "From the Blanket To The Electric Blanket," depicting the adjustments and education necessary to prepare their students for our modern way of life. Last year's budget at St. Mary's was $103,000, of which D.A.R. contributed $20,000. Following the Wednesday evening banquet, the Counterpoints, a choral group from North Central High School, presented an excellent musical program. Mr. Don Tabbert, appointed U.S. attorney by President Eisenhower in 1958, spoke on the recently signed test ban treaty.

Mrs. Wayne Smalley read an article about the State Department's attempt to discredit and oust Otto Otepka, a former national security officer, which is now being investigated by the Senate Internal Security subcommittee.

The president general's message for October was read by Mrs. Loren Groes. Mrs. Edna Carey read the D.A.R. resolution on "Disarmament and the Test Ban Treaty."

Mrs. Dale Cook, in presenting a program on National Defense, quoted from a statement made by the Soviet Union to Red China which said the limited nuclear test ban was a positive gain for communism because it would perpetuate the liquidation of the one-time American nuclear monopoly, and freeze each side's nuclear power. The Kremlin admitted it had followed a zig-zag policy on banning tests according to particular Soviet needs at any given moment. The statement said for years it would have been against Soviet interests to have a test ban unless the United States agreed to destroy all of its nuclear weapons, which the U.S. refused to do. But now, it added, "with the new balance of strength, the nuclear test ban would perpetuate not the American nuclear monopoly, but the fact if its liquidation; not the unilateral advantage of its imperialist camp, but the new balance of strength in the area of nuclear weapons."

The program was concluded with Mrs. Wm. Cox conducting a survey among chapter members as to their opinion of the most pressing specific problem in our national defense today. Mrs. Eldred Paulus closed the meeting with a poem and prayer.

Mrs. Igo was assisted by Mrs. Charles Tucker and Mrs. Smalley in serving refreshments.

The November meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Fred Sargy.

Indiana State Tourist Council

Lt. Governor Richard O. Ristine announced today a statewide quarterly meeting of the Indiana Tourist Assistance Council, to be held at the Airport Hotel at Weir Cook Field on Friday, October 4th. Delegates will register during a coffee hour at 9 a.m. and the program will commence at 10.

"This will be a working meeting," Governor Ristine commented. "We are going to start right now on getting Indiana's 1964 tourist program into high gear for the beginning of next spring's season. We Indiana folks have as much to offer the vacationing public as any mid-western state, in historic lore, scenery, natural beauty and hospitality. But we must develop more tourist accommodations to meet the standards demanded today. We need to plan and build more tourist attractions, and publicize more effectively those we have. Indiana can enjoy not only great economic benefit from the Tourist Industry, but social and cultural stimulation too."

All other departments and agencies of the state having related interests in the promotion of the tourist and travel business are instructed by the Act to cooperate with the council.

Agenda for Friday's meeting includes a brief statement of operations, methods and goals from each state agency concerned with tourism, as well as a representative of private tourist enterprises. A panel discussion will follow, moderated by Ristine. Topics planned for discussion include problems typical of the tourist industry.

Any persons having an investment in tourist enterprises are invited to participate in this meeting, as well as those interested from a commercial standpoint. Reservations for the meeting must be made prior to 4 p.m. on Thursday, October 3rd. Registration fee is $3.00, which includes luncheon and gratuities.

Millwood

Mrs. John Applegate

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Miller Earl and Ray, attended Sunday School and morning worship with Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Miller and Mary Ellen near Converse. There is a covered bridge and picnic area near the mill.

Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Davidhizar spent Sunday with Gerald Hartzell. Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hartzell and son were evening callers.

Fifty-eight attended Sunday School, with two additional at the worship service, at Hepton Union Church. Mary Miller read a poem, "Delinquent Parents." Mary Alice Hartzell read a poem, and Rev. and Mrs. Noah Knepp sang a duet Sunday evening.

Sunday afternoon callers at the Maynard Sparks' home were Mrs. Charles Dorimore and Mr. and Mrs. Jay Haslick, Uniondale, Mr. and Mrs. Loyal Sparks and family, Mr. and Mrs. Max Sparks and family and Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Yoder and family.

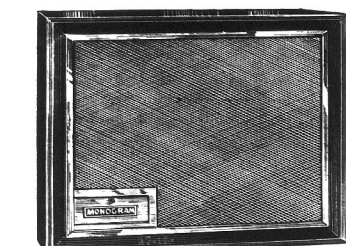

Mrs. Herman Blessing and Mrs. John Applegate attended the Nappanee Senior Citizens Club Thursday.

The tenth anniversary of the Church of God W.C.S.C. will be celebrated next Tuesday evening at Mt. Tabor Fellowship Hall. The Stewardship Department, of which Betty Anglin is chairman, will have the program, and the refreshment committee is Ethel Hanev and Leola Compton.

Water—Not A Drop To Waste

A reassuring but caution-tempered report, has been issued by the Department of the Interior on U.S. water resources. Fears of a water shortage caused by multiplying human and industrial needs have been widely expressed but, says the Department, the country as a whole has ample water, including large reserves underground. This ground water now supplies about a fifth of all water withdrawn for use. The whole water question is clouded by a lack of specific knowledge, including knowledge of ways of recharging underground reservoirs.

You'll keep that seat belt fastened if your car is equipped with a new "electronic watchdog" device manufactured by a St. Paul, Minnesota firm. The control is electrically interlocked with the car's ignition so the engine cannot start unless the belt is in place around the driver.

Pipelines may be the nation's best transportation bet in the event of nuclear attack, according to a report from Louisville, Kentucky. Welded underground pipelines are virtually fallout proof and can survive the blast of practically anything but a direct nuclear bomb hit, according to piping components manufacturer Tube Turns.

The U.S. has passed Mexico as the world's top silver producer. Mexican production has dropped from 47,956,548 ounces in 1955 to 41,249,399 in 1962.

During the same period, U.S. production jumped 24 per cent, from 36,469,610 ounces to 45,167,000.

A Hyperbaric Chamber has been developed at the University of Rochester Medical Center to explore the potential use of high pressure oxygen in various surgical and medical problems. Under the experiment program, animals placed in the chamber will breathe pure oxygen at three times normal atmospheric pressure. This treatment, known as hyperoxygenation, is considered one of the most promising new fields of medical research.

Caps on baby food jars are a potential hazard, says the American Academy of Pediatrics committee on nutrition. Some people, unaware of or indifferent to the peril of bacterial contamination, open the screw caps in the store, sometimes taste the contents, and then return the jar to the shelf. The committee cautions mothers on importance of observing warning instructions on the caps.

4-H Models In National Fashion Show

If dreams came true, every 4-H girl who makes her own clothes would promenade before some 2,000 guests and delegates expected at the 42nd National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago the first week of December.

However, the dream will come true for 51 girls representing all 50 states and Puerto Rico. The 1963 state winner of the 4-H dress revue award will get an all-expense trip to Chicago and a part in the national revue to be presented in the Grand Ballroom of the Conrad Hilton Hotel.

When a girl enrolls in the dress revue program, she already knows how to sew. Scoring is as follows: finished garment 25 points; construction 25; suitability of attire and value for money spent 50 points.

Participation in the dress revue program is only "doing what comes naturally." There's scarcely a girl who passes up a chance to dress up and gain approval of friends.

Proof that the girls are really trying is that in 1962, from a total of 3,087 counties in the United States, 2,425 awarded 25,772 gold-filled medals to girls participating in county and state revues.

Local volunteer 4-H Club teachers and extension service workers show the girls how to model; why accessories must be right; the importance of color and design in making a garment. Helpful hints also are given on posture and grooming.

The national 4-H dress revue is a joint production of Simplicity Pattern Company, the Co-operative Extension Service and the National 4-H Service committee. Simplicity also pays for the girls' trips, provides funds for the county medals and entertains the 51 winners at a festive pre-Christmas party.

Girls interested in joining a dress revue group should contact a local 4-H Club leader or the county extension office.

Cost Of Orange Juice

Because of the big freeze in Florida last winter we pay more for frozen orange juice, says Jan Armstrong, Purdue University consumer marketing specialist.

U.S. Department of Agriculture economists traced price rises to growers and processors and made a week by week check of 24 retail stores in an eastern metropolitan area.

They found, first, that prices received by Florida growers for fresh oranges went up immediately after the freeze. Oranges for processing rose about two weeks later, after most of the salvaged fruit had been rushed to processors. By March, processing oranges that sold at $1 a box before the freeze were up to $2.94 a box.

Processors' prices to retailers also rose right after the freeze. The pre-freeze price of $1.25 for a dozen six-ounce cans of concentrate of unadversed brands climbed to $2.55 by March. Similarly, two leading advertised brands increased from $1.72 to $2.74.

Retail stores raised prices about a week after processors. By March their average price for a six-ounce can of advertised brands that sold for 21 cents before the freeze was up to 31 cents.

Created under authority of House Bill 1096, Chapter 241, by Act of the 1963 General Assembly, the Tourist Assistance Council has responsibility for the leadership and coordination of programs publicizing Indiana's tourist attractions.

Just a few more eggs may make a lot more profit!

Ever stop to figure out how much more "take home pay" you can earn with your flock with just a few more eggs per hen?

Feeding hens research-backed Purina laying rations helps your hens lay all the eggs their inheritance permits. And, in this day of lower profit margins, it's those EXTRA eggs that often make the difference between a handsome return for your labor . . . or a disappointing profit.

For you farmers with grain, we make Purina Check-R-Mix rations using ¾ your grain and only ¼ Purina Concentrate. The cost is low, but the results are good because our mixing formulas are Purina Research approved.

Brother and Sister Spark Dystrophy Drive

Karsh, Ottawa

Two story-book youngsters from Cincinnati, Ohio, Robbie and Kerrie Whitaker, have been chosen as national poster children by Muscular Dystrophy Associations of America, Inc. The first "duo" to be selected for this honor, they have a further distinction. Their beauty and charm made such an impression on famous photographer Yousuf Karsh that he invited them to his New York studio for a picture-taking session. His camera portrait of the children is being used to help publicize MDA's annual drive for funds, the March for Muscular Dystrophy.

The most extraordinary thing about Robbie and Kerrie Whitaker, national poster children for Muscular Dystrophy Associations of America, is that they behave as though they were unaware of their handicap. This in spite of the fact that seven-year-old Robbie is confined to a wheel chair and that his sister, a year younger, must wear heavy braces on her frail legs just to be able to stand.

The youngsters, children of Mr. and Mrs. C. Leigh Whitaker of Cincinnati, Ohio, have the delicate blond beauty of the cherubs one sees in early Renaissance paintings. Their personalities, however, are not nearly as ethereal as their appearance. Robbie is a down-to-earth American boy with an outside sense of humor and a keen interest in military matters. As for Kerrie, she is the kind of little girl who seems destined to be "the belle of the ball." Her devastating femininity reveals itself in a smile which, in the words of a Cincinnati reporter, "goes at least as far back as Cleopatra."

The children have a delightfully warm relationship with each other and with their parents. The whole family loves pets and the house swarms with them—two dogs, a cat, a couple of rabbits and a parakeet.

Robbie and Kerrie both enjoy going to school and they make excellent grades. Getting them back and forth, however, is a problem in logistics requiring the combined efforts of both parents and a driver trained in the difficult art of lifting children whose muscles are so weak that their small bodies tend to slip through all but the most skillful supporting hands.

Joyce and Leigh Whitaker take such problems in their stride. What shadows their lives is the knowledge that muscular dystrophy is a progressive disease, more rapidly progressive in children than in adults. For its young victims—and there are thousands upon thousands of them in this country alone—the future holds only increasing disability and a tragically premature death.

That is the present situation. But the Whitakers refuse to despair. Their hopes, like those of so many other parents, are centered on the research program sponsored by Muscular Dystrophy Associations of America. They know that the concentrated scientific activity initiated by MDA is beginning to pay off. Insight into dystrophy and related crippling disorders has advanced tremendously in the past decade. Within the next decade, perhaps, if the pace of new findings continues to accelerate, these diseases may be numbered among the conquests of medical science.

Robbie and Kerrie are too young to know that their very lives depend on the success of the vast scientific offensive which has been mounted by MDA. But they realize that, as poster children, they are the Association's ambassadors to the people of America. "We'll have to travel a lot," Robbie observes seriously. "We've got to tell everybody about the March for Muscular Dystrophy." Kerrie nods and smiles that devastating smile. "But we love it," she says, "we love airplanes and people and everything we do."

It is easy to see why this engaging brother and sister team is such an inspiration to MDA's hundreds of thousands of volunteers. There is no question that the public, whose generous contributions make the Association's work possible, will respond in equal measure to their appeal.

Borden Purcell
Guest Speaker

The Tippecanoe Valley Classroom Teachers will have their first meeting of the school year on Monday, October 14 at 6:30 p.m. There will be a smorgasbord dinner, a short business session, and then we will be privileged to hear Mr. Borden R. Purcell, who is the director of professional relations of the Indiana State Teachers Association. He is now serving on the National Commission on Teacher Education of the N.E.A. The topic of his address will be, "Can You Make A Difference?"

School board members and their wives will be guests of the association, and also wives and husbands of the members.

Officers serving this year are: president, Mrs. Frances Carter; secretary, Mrs. Mary Price, and treasurer, Mrs. Merdena Bechtol.

The Tippecanoe Valley Teachers Association has a membership of 83. There are 84 teachers in the corporation.

Purdue University animal scientists say newly arrived feeder cattle should be given access to low quality roughage and clean water and be observed closely for the first few weeks.

Bins to receive newly harvested corn and soybeans should be clean and insect free, point out Purdue University extension entomologists. Rodent and bird proofing are important, too.

COUNTERPOINT

By The Editor's Wife

The old roll-top desk is in "convalescence" following drastic "surgery" by the editor and helpers (Tom and Tim). Over the years this sturdy friend gradually had given way to this pressure and that pressure until it was quite unsteady.

At the moment it is in clamps following the application of glue to needy parts. Next will come the operation of putting together the pieces. The final job will be the use of sandpaper and shellac or varnish. Then our old friend will be moved to the new office on Main Street ready for many years of service (if that old desk could talk, what stories it would tell us!).

Harry Meredith is painting the sign on the window today. The words "Country Print Shop" and "Mentone News" will be in bright large letters, so we will not be hard to find.

If you have received a statement for a classified, card of thanks, etc., which you have paid, please come in and tell us. Two new helpers in the office does not mean that twice as much work is being done. It could mean that we marked your bill "paid" when it should have been "paid on account."

It was good to see Dobbs Miller walking uptown one day last week.

One almost feels guilty enjoying this beautiful weather when we know that rain is needed so badly.

Mrs. Harold Yazel left some luscious samples of strawberries in the office last Thursday. She had picked a quart from the patch, and the vines, which are not of the everbearing type, were full of blossoms.

Lisa, Tim, and Diane Hill planted some watermelon seeds in the flower bed early in the summer. They have been watching their tiny melons carefully. (For a long time the elders did not know what the strange plants were) On Sunday, October 13, the small melons were cut and a few bites of pale pink melons were "enjoyed" (?) by the small melon-growers.

George Clark was telling the editor that recently Pendleton, Indiana had had its first traffic fatality in 20 years. Can any of you remember when and if Mentone had a fatal accident?

Here are some interesting facts about yourself, if you are average. Last year you ate:

- 164 pounds of meat.
- 37 pounds of chicken and turkey.
- 324 eggs.
- 206 pounds of vegetables.
- 192 pounds of fruit.
- 111 pounds of potatoes.
- 98 pounds of sugar.
- 47 pounds of fats and oils.
- 235 quarts of milk.

Sounds like a lot of food, doesn't it?

Several terms have been coined to refer to older people. Some of them are "aged," "Golden Ager," "Oldster," "Elder," "Senior Citizen," and "Evergreen."

The newest term is "Agenauts" (Age-nots) which originated with Prof. Sidney L. Pressey, of the University of Arizona, and is right up to date.

Words from Hayden Pearson: "Ingathering is a special time of year. As the colors flame on the hills and then the bonfires of autumn burn out, as bare trees make etchings on the ridges and goldenrod becomes gray ghosts along the roadsides, the countryman works

Honored At Conference

She was honored as the outstanding Junior D.A.R. member from the 35 chapters in the North District and third place winner in the state. At her left is Lois Pinchley (Mrs. Paul P.) of Indianapolis, first place winner. Mrs. Ira Smyrl Jr., state chairman of junior membership, is at the far left. She is from LaPorte, Indiana.

The Anthony Nigo Chapter also voted Shirley as their contestant for the 1964 outstanding junior member contest. As a candidate she must have made a vital contribution to her community, in addition to D.A.R. activities along historic, educational and patriotic lines and in the promotion of the National Society's motto, "Home and Country."

United Fund Report

At the report meeting held in the Lake City Bank, the industrial, retail, construction and professional divisions of the 1964 fund drive turned in pledges totaling $673,003, which brings the total pledges so far to $20,419,003, or 24.2 per cent of the goal of $84,290,000. The implant solicitation of many of the industrial plants is not completed yet, so the above figures include a very small percentage of the industries.

The next report meeting will be held in Lake City Bank lobby on Tuesday, October 15 at 7 p.m. All captains are urged to attend this meeting and report the amount collected in their respective areas at that time.

RECEIVES HUNTING PERMIT

Lloyd D. Bowerman received word that his name was among 35 drawn from this area who are eligible to take part in the 1963 special deer hunts at Crane U.S. Naval Ammunition Depot and Camp Atterbury. Lloyd will go to Camp Atterbury. This year, because of the surplus of deer, hunters will be permitted two deer.

along at his harvesting and gets ready for the winter. Ingathering means a harvest of material things, but as the fall edges along toward colder weather, one also feels that he has harvested a crop for the heart."

We enjoyed this: "Fore!" shouted the golfer, ready to play, but the woman on the course ahead of him paid no attention. "Fore!" he repeated, a bit louder.

"Try her with three ninety-eight," suggested his partner, "and then watch her move."

Taxpayers Assoc.
Meets

The Tippecanoe Valley Taxpayers Association met for their second regular meeting Monday evening.

Chairman, Albert Orcutt, discussed the last board meeting briefly. The general opinion of the group was that they felt they could be of a great value to the school board, provided they remain an orderly group and not a mob, and should continue to attend the school board meetings.

Better organization of the association was discussed and the secretary was instructed to write the Board of Public Affairs of Indiana University for aid in the forming of such an association. Those in attendance Monday night felt the goal of the organization is to enlighten the public as to their rights and responsibilities in the ever-increasing problems of education. One of the statements that Orcutt made and elaborated on was that the taxpayers were going to have to forget some of the past experiences and start anew; to help in any way they can in a constructive, mannerly way, the school board, and by informing the citizens.

The association discussed the possibility of meeting with the school board to get better acquainted and to try and work out a concrete basis for a working area for both. The next meeting of the association will be Monday night, November 11 at the Mentone School.

School Undergoes
Grooming

This reporter was given a tour of our school this week, and as things were pointed out that had been done, we could see how much time and effort had been spent in beautifying the grounds outside and the building inside.

Much painting was done during the summer in preparation for the school year. The girls' restrooms, large full-length mirrors were installed. (And just what girl wouldn't love those?) Eight dead trees have been cut down, and just some general cleaning up done around the outside of the building and on the campus itself. New lights are in the ball field; new wire fence put up and an old shack torn down that really detracted from the ball field.

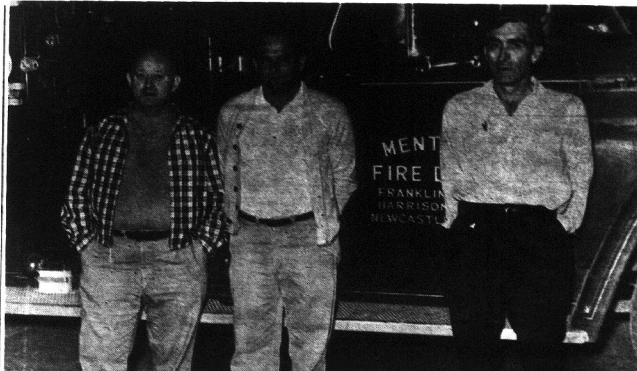

The main thing being done is the planting of new shrubbery on the east end of the building. This entrance is the one used most during the school year as far as evenings are concerned, with school plays, basketball, etc. With these new plantings, new curbing, and possibly some top soil leveled off nicely, plans call for now, a spotlight to accent this area. We believe when others see what has been done the general census of opinion will be that it is all good—We can fully appreciate the time and effort involved on these projects, and feel that they do very much add to the beauty of our already nice school building.

New Arrivals

Mr. and Mrs. Ervin D. Castle of Winona Lake, are the parents of a 7 lb. 10½ oz. daughter, born at 7:05 p.m. Sunday. The mother is the former Mary Quier. Mrs. Cleoria Quier of Mentone is the maternal grandmother.

NEW DEN ORGANIZES

Last week a new den of Cub Scouts was formed, with Mrs. Jim Miller, wife of the Cubmaster, as den mother. Boys who joined this new den group, which is the Den 2, are: Gary Peters, Ronnie Toll, Darrell Miller, Randy Yates, John Cole and Gary Sponseller.

Conduct Fire Drills

Four Volunteer Firemen conducted Fire Drills at the Mentone, Beaver Dam and Talma schools last week. Captain Harry Smythe lists the following times and comments.

Mentone: the building was emptied in 1½ minutes—two windows were found open in a rest room. Very good time. emptied in 1 minute 45 seconds. Beaver Dam: the building was Three windows were found open in the assembly.

Talma: the building was emptied in 1 minute 50 seconds. All windows were closed, but two doors were found open.

The firemen were well pleased with the orderly manner in which the drills were carried out.

Gib Griffis, assistant fire chief; Harry Smythe, captain; Ned Igo, lieutenant; Dean Myer, fireman, conducted the drills.

With The Sick

Mrs. Harold Lucht underwent surgery last Thursday morning at the Woodlawn Hospital in Rochester. She is now home and doing fine.

Mrs. Arlo Friesner, who was admitted to the Murphy Medical Center last week suffering with a severe bronchial condition, is much improved at this time. Mrs. Madeline Bybee, who underwent major surgery last Wednesday in the Murphy hospital, is recovering nicely.

Dean Myers is in traction in the Woodlawn Hospital in Rochester. He is having trouble again with a slipped disc.

John Fenstermaker is much worse, and growing weaker. Only the immediate family is allowed in to visit. He is in the Prairie View Nursing Home in Warsaw.

TAKE JURY EXAMS

James Feldman and Larry Clark, young men from our area, were among 36 other fellows who left last Thursday morning for the U.S. Army induction center in Indianapolis. They all reported for physicals.

No Apple Butter

It comes as a disappointment to several in our area to learn that the Spring Creek Church is not making apple butter this fall, due to the shortage of apples and pears.

Usually there are plenty of pears for the cider, and apples for the thickening process. In past years several hundred gallons were made and sold in all parts of the country as a fund raising project.

Injured In Early Morning Crash

Mrs. Floyd (Shirley) Nicodemus and son, Jimmy, of Etna Green were involved in a two vehicle accident early Tuesday morning. The wreck occurred just south of Etna Green on Road 19 as Mrs. Nicodemus was on her way to work in Mentone. Her little boy stays with her mother in Mentone during the day.

Mrs. Nicodemus was struck broadside by a truck who did not stop coming on a side road. Reports from the family Tuesday evening were that Shirley

Senior Class Play
Friday

The senior class is busy rehearsing for the play, "The Family Nobody Wanted," which will be presented Friday night, October 18 at 8 p.m. in the school gymnasium.

The three-act comedy, based on a book by Helen Doss, is being directed by Mrs. Paul Rush. The play concerns a high school student's unique problem of presenting his best girl to the family, which has an ancestry ranging from Burmese to American Indian. The girl friend is very charming and wealthy, but she is definitely on the stuffy side.

Included in the cast are Colleen Wise, Fred Hurd, Gene Hughes, Vivian Hurst, Dianne Roberts, Connie Newton, Ann Istok, Jill Newcomb, Russell Adams, John Zelman, Jim Bryan, Bill Kindig, Judy Besson, Becky Knepper, Renita Ring, Bob Nelson and Martha Van Gilder.

The play was treated as a "special" on television, featuring Nannette Fabray and Lew Ayres in the leading roles.

Shirley Zehner Wed To J. Fitzgerald

On Saturday, September 28,
Miss Shirley Zehner and James Fitzgerald exchanged wedding vows at 11 a.m. in St. Michael's Catholic Church, Plymouth.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Zehner, R. 4, Plymouth, and the bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Iris Fitzgerald of Mentone.

Rev. Casimir Moshwinski, pastor of the church, read the double ring ceremony before an altar decorated with bouquets of white gladioli and yellow Shasta mums. Mrs. Helen Shorter, organist, provided nuptial music.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a sheath gown of pale blue satin. The gown was fashioned with a scoop neckline, long fitted sleeves and a fitted midriff topped with a full length overskirt. Her circular veil was held in place by a matching braid and pearl crown.

She carried a colonial bouquet of white Shasta daisies and white mums.

Mrs. Helen Fitzgerald served as matron of honor and Miss Beverly Zehner was the bridesmaid. They wore identical street length dresses of candlelight satin with matching headpieces of beige net. They each carried a colonial bouquet of Shasta daisies, white and yellow mums.

George Fitzgerald, brother of the bridegroom, was the best man.

The mother of the bride wore a blue crepe dress and white accessories. The mother of the bridegroom wore a blue and white jersey dress with matching accessories. They each wore a corsage of yellow carnations.
Following the wedding cermony a bridal dinner was served at the home of the bride's parents. A reception was held at 7:30 p.m. in the Argos Community building with 100 guests attending.

A four-tier wedding cake centered the serving table. The cake was decorated with white and blue bells, white roses and blue birds. The table was also decorated with blue Shasta daisies and mums, which were placed around the candelabra on each side of the cake.

Miss Phyllis Murphy, of Akron, and Mrs. Jerry Marvin, of Plymouth, were in charge of the serving. Mrs. Lela Harner registered the guests and Miss Beverly Zehner, sister of the bride, and Miss Patty Lowry were in charge of the gifts.

The bride wore a pale blue satin sheath and a corsage of white carnations for their wedding trip. The newlyweds will reside in Warsaw.

The bride, a 1962 graduate of Plymouth High School, was employed at Hart, Schaffner and Marx, Rochester. The bridegroom completed 2½ years in the U.S. Army and is employed at Dick's Standard station in Warsaw.

What Size Can

Big cans. Tall cans. Small cans.
With the available sizes, which cans get the vegetable pack?

The answer is: More and more of the little cans—and the large institutional sizes, says Jan Armstrong, consumer marketing specialist at Purdue University.

More vegetables go into these sizes and less into the intermediate sizes that were used 20 years ago.

Around the end of World War II, the No. 2 can, which holds about two and one-half cups, took most of the space for canned vegetables on the grocer's shelves. About three-fourths of the processed snap beans, sweet corn, lima beans and green peas came packed in this size. By the mid-1950's, the amounts of these vegetables in
No. 2 cans were almost nil.

During the same period, the
No. 303 and No. 300 cans took over. Now, about 60 per cent of our canned snap beans, lima beans, sweet corn and peas are packed in two cup No. 300 and one and three quarter cup No.
303 cans compared to 10 per cent in the 1940's. Almost two-thirds of the canned beets we buy come in 303 cans; less than half of the asparagus, spinach and tomatoes is packed in 303 and 300 cans.

The large restaurant or hotel size No. 10 can that contains 12 to 13 cups has gained as a container of snap beans, sweet corn, lima beans and green peas.
More Pumpkin and squash and tomatoes are put in this size than before World War II. The No. 10 can has lost a little to the No. 2½ size as the most used size for tomato pulp and puree, but the bulk of the processed crop is still sold in the big cans.

Winterize Evergreens

Get the evergreens around your house ready for winter by watering them this fall.

Purdue University extension horticulturists say water can make the difference between having scrawny, sickly shrubs or vigorous, colorful evergreens all year.

Fall watering is necessary because evergreens lose moisture all year through their leaves.
If your evergreens dry up this fall and stay dry all winter, you will see "winter injury" next spring. And sections of your evergreens will look brown and skimpy next spring and summer.

Also, mulches help. Leaves or peat moss around the base of your shrubs will increase moisture retention during the winter months.

When winter injury occurs, you should remove dead areas as soon as they appear in the spring. Then apply a complete fertilizer in late March or April to help damaged shrubs renew their foliage.

The horticulturists caution not to add fertilizer in the fall when the evergreen foliage may grow. This growth may be weak and especially subject to winter injury.

Social Security Benefits

According to Cornelius R.
Schafer, social security district manager in South Bend, 24,278 residents of St. Joseph County are receiving $21,820,052 annually in social security benefits.
He pointed out that most of this money is spent right in the county for necessities such as food, rent and utilities.

Most of the beneficiaries are 62 years or older, but there are 2,922 children getting benefits on the account of deceased wage earners, many of whom may have never realized that the social security tax, which they paid as they worked, would one day help their own children.
Survivors benefits also go to widows, aged dependent widowers and aged dependent parents of deceased wage earners. In many instances the social security benefits to individual families are the equivalent of a large estate even though the deceased worker may have earned only a moderate income during his lifetime.

In addition to monthly benefits, a lump sum death payment is made to the surviving widow or widower, if the couple were living in the same household at the time of death. When no eligible spouse survives the wage earner, the lump sum benefit is paid to the person responsible for the burial expenses.

876 disabled workers under 65 in the county receive disability insurance benefits, not only for themselves, but also for their wives and minor children.

In summary he reported that the South Bend social security office issued 5,589 new social security cards during 1962. Thus, more persons from this county are beginning to pay and earn their share of social security.

Before storing your gladioli corms, dust them with five percent DDT to control thrips, say Purdue University entomologists.
Place corms in a paper bag, add a small amount of the insecticide and shake. About one-half ounce of dust will treat a bushel of bulbs.

get big litters of HUSKY PIGS

A sow is a pig factory, she has the big job of producing and nursing two litters of pigs every year.

Like any other factory, she has to have the raw ingredients to produce the product (pigs) and to maintain the factory (her own body).

If she fails to get proper nutrition to do both these jobs, she may actually resorb some pigs into her system, causing you to lose pigs you'll never even see;
or she may farrow weak, unthrifty litters.

Purina Sow Chow, a product of years of research, has what it takes to help the sow keep up her own body, farrow big litters and have plenty of milk to start 'em right. It comes as a supplement to your grain or as a complete sow ration. Ask for Purina Sow

On The Diagonal

A diagonal line is as good as a straight one if it is one of fall's diagonal fabrics stitched into a suit, coat or dress, notes Lois Folk, Purdue University clothing specialist.

Creating a rib or bias effect, the diagonal weave usually runs from the lower left corner of the fabric to the upper right hand corner.

According to Miss Folk, fabrics with prominent rib lines or twill weaves need special patterns and handling by the home seamstress. However, diagonal weaves that indistinguishable do not require special treatment.

Patterns best suited for diagonal fabrics have slim skirts and simple, set-in sleeves and classic lines. This styling permits cutting each pattern piece to keep the diagonal lines running in the desired direction.

Avoid patterns with ragnan or kimono sleeves, gores or flared skirts, intricate seaming, or bias seams and bands that show on the right side. These features are difficult to cut correctly and are often unsatisfactory when finished. Patterns with these features are usually marked "not suitable for diagonal fabrics."

Diagonal weaves are appearing in many fabrics—wool, cotton, silk and synthetic fibers.

Fall Garden Work Productive

Time devoted to garden work this fall can boost your yields next spring, says Don Scheer, Purdue University extension horticulturist. And next spring the garden soil will be in better condition too.

First, pull up corn stalks, to vines and other refuse and add them to your compost pile.

Next, spread compost that has already rotted for one summer to the garden and clean the area of weeds. Then, sow a cover crop—rye grass, wheat or oats. A cover crop will prevent erosion, make the garden green and add valuable organic matter to the soil when plowed next spring.

For cover crops the garden soil should be relatively loose before sowing. Mix two pounds of fertilizer per 100 square feet into the surface of the soil before sowing to encourage cover crop growth.

After sowing seed, rake lightly; then keep the surface moist for three weeks.

And before you forget all about the garden for the winter, make some notes on garden results this past season. They'll help you plan next year's garden.

Grape Market

Now is the time to buy grapes! Large crops in California, Michigan and other areas are coming to market now through November, notes Ken Brink, produce marketing specialist at Purdue University.

Any of the table grape varieties can be used for snacks, appetizers, salads, desserts, garnishes and in fruit arrangements.

Thompson Seedless grapes are greenish-white to light golden, medium sized elongated berries with firm, tender skins. They are very sweet when ripe.

Ribier grapes are jet black, very large and round, with seeds and tough skins.

Tokay or Flame Tokay are bright red and large, with seeds and thick, tough skins.

Almeria grapes are greenish-white and medium large. They are firm with seeds and thick, tough skins.

Emperors have large purple berries with seeds and thick skins. They are abundant at Thanksgiving and Christmas.

Grapes are available almost all year. Look for best buys of Thompson Seedless from June to November; Tokays, August to January; Almeria, October to April; Ribier, July to February; and Emperors, November to May.

Buy grapes in small quantities and use them quickly. They do not improve in color or quality after harvest.

If you must keep them a few days, sort carefully, spread them on trays and refrigerate.

Fall Farrowings Down

Hoosier hog raisers expect 215,000 sows to farrow during September through November, six per cent fewer than during the same quarter last year, reports state-federal agricultural statisticians at Purdue University.

Farmers' reports indicate an estimated 269,000 sows will farrow during the December-February, 1964, period. This number, if realized, would be five per cent smaller than in the same period a year earlier.

Three hundred thirty five thousand sows farrowed during the June-August period. This was the same number as in the corresponding quarter of 1962. Litters averaged 7.39 pigs.

An estimated 5,922,000 hogs were on Indiana farms as of September 1—one per cent more than at the same time last year.

Of this number, 829,000 were in breeding herds and 5,093,000 were for market. About 46 per cent of the market hogs weighed under 60 pounds.

Market hogs on farms September 1, by weight groups: 70 to 119 pounds, 1,014,000; 120 to 179 pounds, 968,000; 180-219 pounds, 662,000; and 220 pounds and heavier, 102,000.

Air Drying Corn

Does heated air drying damage corn? It can if you overdo it, answers Bruce McKenzie, Purdue University extension agricultural engineer.

What is "overdoing it?" Best research results available now is that kernel temperatures are keys to heat damage. Corn for the wet milling trade (starch, gluten, corn oils) should not be dried at kernel temperatures above 140 degrees F. No significant change in feed value of corn for livestock feed occurs up to 180 degrees F. kernel temperature.

McKenzie points out that input air temperature may be considered above these safe kernel temperatures. The kernel is cooled by evaporation as it dries, (like the wet canvas water bags) and the drying process may be completed before kernel temperature approaches input air temperature. This holds true so long as drying is uniform with no serious overdrying. Heat damage is apparently related to both temperatures and time. The longer the time at a given temperature, the more likely heat damage will occur. Heat damage in high temperature drying is therefore more likely at high moisture contents because of increased drying time required.

He suggests that farmers producing corn for cash sale, particularly for a special market, would do well to discuss drying procedure with the buyer. Maintaining corn quality is the responsibility of both the farmer and the elevator operator.

INSOMNIA

INSOMNIA is the inability to fall asleep or to maintain sleep adequately. Like a storage battery that needs recharging, the human nervous system requires interludes of sleep to survive. Although individuals vary in the amount of sleep they require nightly, the average adult need to spend about one-third of the 24 hours in sleep in order to live to the full extent the remaining two-thirds.

The causes of insomnia vary. Four main reasons are, insufficient fatigue, excessive rest, excessive tension and insufficient satisfaction. Physical causes, either inside or outside the person, can also cause insomnia. Noise, bright lights, unaccustomed surroundings, excessive heat or cold, pain, itching, thirst or indigestion can keep a person wakeful, as can the drinking of coffee, tea or alcohol.

One other factor that can inhibit sleep is the fear of not sleeping.

Family Finances

Many people believe that it's unwise to borrow money. This is not always true. If done wisely, borrowing can be an effective method of keeping your family finances sound.

Of course, most of us are forced to borrow to finance home and automobile purchases. Furniture and appliances are also often financed. By financing these items, you can enjoy your purchases while you pay.

Of course, there are pitfalls to beware when borrowing. First, you should never borrow more than you can afford to pay back.

Second, you should never pay an excessive rate of interest on loans and financing.

In almost every case, you will find that a commercial bank will give you the most reasonable interest rate. Whenever you're considering borrowing money, it's wise to check with your bank before you try anywhere else.

When you borrow from a bank, you know you won't be victimized by a "loan shark."

Sets Production Record

Six registered Guernsey cows in the herd of Howard Metzger and sons of Claypool have recently completed top official DHIA actual production records, according to The American Guernsey Cattle Club. All cows were milked two times a day. The testing was supervised by Purdue University.

Guernsey milk is world famous for its high protein, delicious flavor and golden yellow color.

To Guard Against Food Poisoning

Food poisoning—botulism—is rare, but one does need to take proper precautions in handling food. Normal canning procedures are almost always sufficient to destroy all traces of volutinus bacteria and their poisons.

Botulus is the Latin word for sausage. In 1898 a German scientist was analyzing sausage for evidence of food poisoning and discovered the bacteria—hence the name. To date, five types of botulinus bacteria have been identified—A, B, C, D, and E. Types A, B, and E are unusually fatal to humans. Type E occurs only in seafood, while the more common types A and B are found in improperly processed home-canned vegetables.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture gives this advice to users of home-canned foods:

"Don't use canned food that shows any sign of spoilage. Look closely at each container before opening it. Bulging can-ends, jar lids, or rings, or a leak—these may mean food has spoiled. When you open a container, look for other signs—spurring liquid, an off odor, or mold. Unless you are absolutely sure of your canning methods, boil home-canned vegetables before testing. Heating usually makes any odor of spoilage more evident."

THE LAWN IN FALL: RECOVERY AND REFITTING

After the long days of glare and heat in summer, the lawn is likely to be showing signs of wear and tear. While this is true of well established turf, it is still more true of lawns made last fall or in spring, which will now be exhibiting any defects of construction, flaws in the soil or imperfections in the seedling. This is the best time for renovation and repairs, while the grasses can yet make weeks of growth before going into winter dormancy.

All plants need food, lawns need distribution is with a wheelbarrow spreader.

most others because their leaf blades are always being mowed off. If any bare places have developed, as soon as they make much growth, cause should be investigated. Even to the extent, if it was all added up, of 30 or 40 inches in a season. In this way the nitrogen, the great leaf-maker, which the roots get from the soil, is continually being used up and carried away, together with smaller amounts of other essential elements. Of all these elements, nitrogen is not only the most wanted and it is also the one that is most easily washed out of the soil by rain. Until recently this meant rather a troublesome condition in lawn care, with the grass too often in a state of feast or famine. But now, scientists have been at work on this matter and have developed a slow-release, long lasting nitrogen compound to encourage the steady, even growth that makes a good lawn.

It is prescribed by law that every bag of fertilizer three figures must be printed, showing the proportions it contains of the principal food elements — nitrogen, phosphorus and potash. In fertilizer blended for lawns, these figures will be 22-8-4, denoting a 22% content of nitrogen. A fraction of one part of the new organic formula for delayed action. The usual formula such as 5-10-5, is not the best for turf because the proportion of phosphorus is far beyond what dormant seeding. Any time between Thanksgiving and Christmas, application of insoluble compounds in the soil. Fall feeding should therefore mean this high-nitrogen fertilizer, at the rate of 25 pounds to the square foot, and the most efficient way to secure it is by a broadcast method. WASHINGTON AND

"SMALL BUSINESS"

By C. WILSON HARDER

It would seem logical that Congress should attach to whatever foreign aid bill is passed, a rider appropriating a billion dollars or so to furnish every 7-year-old American boy with a machine gun, and ammunition.

Thus, the American nation would be consistent. It would be encouraging domestic responsibility in the same reckless, feeble manner that C. W. Harder, the U.S. State Dept., pursues irresponsibility abroad.

But such a proposition is perhaps no more far fetched than policy of giving irresponsible leaders of immature people lethal toys to play with.

Vietnam is a perfect example where some 3½ billions of American tax dollars have been poured.

It is largely peopled with backward, ignorant people, to whom the meaning of democratic procedures are as much Greek as the Einstein theory.

Holding power over these people, is a small ruling clique. And apparently the degree of power held by President Diem is in direct ratio to the amount of military hardware the U.S. State Dept. has furnished him.

There is some doubt as to the strength of character this Diem person possesses.

This doubt is cast by widespread knowledge that he is let his sister-in-law, Ngo Nhu, run the show. From Asian standpoint.

dards she is quite a glamorous young femme.

No one seems to understand how without official position, she wields so much influence. So far, nothing has been brought to light as to any unofficial position she may occupy at times.

But she is clever. She has brought into the hassle for power and money the old bromide of a religious war. Religion has long been used as a cover-up for robbing the other fellow, while imparting to the whole nefarious process a spurious atmosphere of sanctity.

It is quite doubtful Hitler jumped on the German Jewish people because of any religious beliefs he held. But until he could gather strength to rob outside of Germany, he had to pick a domestic group to rob, and the Jewish people were it. It could have just as well been a substantial minority of Southern Baptists if such had existed in Germany.

In Vietnam, the Buddhists seem to be the biggest group, thus shaking them down can be quite profitable to Diem, or his sister-in-law.

As Winston Churchill portrays in his new history of the English speaking peoples, it took many centuries of warfare, of robbing the people to support kings and their mistresses, of barons robbing each other often under the guise of religion before law became effective.

Yet U.S. State Dept. seems to think that all it takes to bring a backward nation into the 20th Century is more U.S. tax dollars. And thus Americans find themselves aiding ambitious sisters-in-law.

He was a member of the Church of Christ, the American Legion post of Argos, and the Disabled War Veterans of South Bend. He served during World War II.

Surviving in addition to his wife are one son, David Lee Johnson, at home; one step-son, James Good, of Marcellus, Michigan; four sisters, Mrs. Dewey Gentry, of South Bend, Mrs. Robert Squire, of Bremen, Mrs. Delbert Blake, of Granger, and Mrs. Lewis Pavey, of Mishawaka; three brothers, Howard, of Galien, Michigan, Ralph, of Mishawaka, and Farmer, of Oshtemo; and four grandchildren.

Services were held at 2 p.m. Thursday at the Grossman funeral home in Argos with Rev. John Claypool officiating. Military rites were conducted by the American Legion post of Argos. Burial was in the Tippecanoe cemetery.

Harry Long Dies Friday

Private funeral services were held Sunday in the Reed Funeral Home for Harry Long, 59, a former resident of Mentone. Mr. Long, who died in Westville, Friday at 3:45 a.m., had been ill for some time. He was born in Kosciusko County July 14, 1904, to Elam and Lucinda Long.

Surviving are three brothers, Cecil, of Bourbon, Joe, of Etna Green, and Paul, of Jennings Lodge, Oregon; a sister, Mrs. Joe (Esther) Myers, of Indianapolis; two half-sisters, Mrs. Oral (Mary) Welch, of Mentone, and Mrs. Gilbert (Hope) Henderson, of Indianapolis. Rev. Luke Miller of Etna Green officiated. Burial was in Stoney Point cemetery, north of Atwood.

Honored On 42nd Wedding Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Whetstone were pleasantly surprised Sunday when their family came with a carry-in dinner to help them celebrate their 42nd wedding anniversary.

A special highlight of the meal was a three-tiered cake, baked and decorated by their daughter, Mrs. Willis Cowen, of LaPaz. Those who enjoyed the day were: Mr. and Mrs. Willis Cowen and boys of LaPaz, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Leslie and boys, Mr. and Mrs. Pat Walsh and girls of Mentone, Mr. and Mrs. Lowell Whetstone and family, Mr. and Mrs. Michael Summe and family of Akron, Mr. and Mrs. Alan Grindle and family of Warsaw, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Pounds and son of South Bend, Mrs. Roger Shirk of Bremen, Dewey and Ethel received lots of nice gifts.

Mentone School News

State Poetry Day was Tuesday, October 15. Governor Welch has urged that schools throughout the State of Indiana pay tribute to past and present "Hoosier Poets." His urging is to bring about more emphasis upon the more cultural things of life which are often overlooked.

Mentone High School students enjoyed a special assembly program planned to honor "Hoosier Poets." Bruce McDaniel served as master of ceremonies and Gene Hughes and Martha Van Gilder read some poetry. A guest speaker, Mr. Paul Scott, of Wilmont, Indiana, spoke to the student body and read some of his own fine poetry. Mr. Scott's works were inspiring to student and faculty alike.

Guidance Testing

Forty-five Junior and Senior students took the Preliminary Scholastic Aptitude tests October 15. This test is given to help determine the students' abilities to be successful in school work beyond the high school level, and has many other valuable uses.

Student Council Attends Work Shop

On Saturday, October 12, six members of the student council and Mr. Mason attended the state conference for student councils at Arnsel Technical High School in Indianapolis. The council members attending were Jim Whetstone, Melissa Bechtol, Bob Ryman, Sherry Bryan, Jerry Zolman, and Georgia Vires. There were two discussion periods in which a wide variety of topics were discussed. The Mentone representatives split into couples and attended as many of these sessions as possible. Mr. Mason attended the Sponsor's Clinic. Each member of the Mentone delegation feels that he or she is much better equipped to handle his responsibilities as a council member as the result of attending this conference.

Mr. Gerald VanPool, assistant secretary for student activities, National Association of Secondary School Principals, was the feature speaker of the day. His message was a challenge to all present to select a major project for the year and set out with determination to achieve that goal.

Mentone and citizens of the school community can justly be proud of their representatives. They were at all times fine examples of the student body.

In addition, Mr. Mason reported that he deemed it a high honor to have had the opportunity to attend this conference with such a dedicated and enthusiastic group of young people.

Legion Auxiliary Meets

The October meeting of the Mentone American Legion Auxiliary was called to order by the president, Opal Neilans. The chaplain offered prayer. The group pledged allegiance to the flag and sang the "Star Spangled Banner."

Plans were made for Veteran's Day supper. This will be a potluck held on Saturday, November 9. After the meeting, games and refreshments were provided by Jean Pritchard and Miriam Boardman. Alice Sechrist won the door prize.

P.T.A. Get-Aquainted Night

A fine crowd turned out for the second meeting of the P.T.A. which was a carry-in supper. Rev. Glenn Campton returned thanks for the meal. After a very filling and lovely supper, the group gathered in the music room for the remainder of the meeting.

Rev. Campton brought the devotions. Zanna Hammer, as Means committee, gave the word again that we would have a Penny Supper as a way of earning money. The date for this event will be Saturday evening, November 16. The menu will feature Mrs. Rans' famous chicken pie! The grade count resulted in a tie between the Freshmen and Senior classes. The program was presented by Dr. Elias Bazzini, who showed slides of Guatemala. He made a few introductory remarks concerning his native country, and then commented as he displayed the slides. The group enjoyed the very beautiful and informative slides, plus the humor interjected by Mr. Bazzini. Spanish teacher in our school. A short question and answer period followed the pictures.

Refreshments were served in the cafeteria after the meeting was adjourned. The next meeting will be Open House on November 13. Plan to attend this special occasion when your school will be expecting you.

During a short business session Mrs. Harold Horn presided. Plans were made for family night.

HOW TO BE A WASHDAY WIZARD

You can be a washday wizard by applying logic to the laundry. Think through what happens on washday, make a list and you're bound to come up with time-saving ideas. Here are some thought starters....

1. Sort. The major category here is the big one for most families - white and fast-color linens and cottons. Today's colored sheets, men's shirts and most solid-color good-quality cottons and linens can be washed right in with what used to be called the "white load." The best sorting suggestion after this one is to group together items needing the same treatment: for example, wash and wear, non-fast colored items, nylon or wooleens. Pushel baskets or plastic buckets are good for drop-in sorting.

2. Inspect and Treat. This step includes emptying and brushing pockets, zipping zippers, pre-treating stains and spots, collars, cuffs and play-clothes. A good trick for this step is to use a gentle household cleaning pad with soap or detergent paste and then let the garment stand for a few minutes before washing.

3. Load the Machine - or your laundry tub. Here the important bit of logic is don't overload and don't over-use or under-use soap or detergent. Follow the manufacturer's instructions very carefully. Another tip: save searching time and clogged machinery by washing small items like children's socks and ladies' hankies in a small mesh laundry bag. (Hint: Two extra mesh bags can be kept in your own closet - drop small machine washables in one - hand washables in the other. That way one can go right to machine and the other to the wash basin.)

4. Is the family wash really clean? The U. S. Department of Agriculture has been conducting a 3-year research program to find the answer to this one. As part of their project scientists washed the laundries of nine families for several months. The conclusion from USDA's research is that the family wash fresh from the machine may harbor many disease-causing germs and can actually be responsible for spreading germs among the neighbors, too. USDA came up with a recommendation, too. Certain types of disinfectants added to the laundry greatly reduce the germ count.

Among the disinfectants recently listed as testing favorably were high-concentration pine oil disinfectants. Test quantity used in the home laundering experiments was one-half cup per 10-gallon machine. This addition to your home laundry load along with your favorite soap or detergent will considerably lower the bacterial count. At the same time, without harming fabrics, a pine product will also add a cleaning booster, help remove stains and leave laundry fragrant. Be sure to read the label of the disinfectant and follow manufacturer's instructions carefully.

It's especially important to add a disinfecting agent to the laundry if there is sickness in the family or if you use a community washer.

By now, that wash should be clean and ready to emerge from tub or machine. Next step, of course, is drying - by machine or clothesline - then sorting again, those to be ironed and those to be folded and stored without ironing.

There are just about as many theories on washday plans and practices as there are women who wash. But these are "thought nudgers" to start you on your way to being the washday wizard in your house.

What's Your Method?

In preparing the family budget there are some items to which one can attach too much importance while slighting others that are of equal or greater consequence. It is possible that worry may cause allotment of too much for what are considered essentials, or a craving for pleasure may tempt the budget maker to set aside more than is necessary for relaxation. On the other hand, because of their intangible nature, certain very essential items may be slighted or even ignored.

It is most important that serious and prayerful attention be given the amount of income and time allotted to the church of one's faith. Giving liberally in this direction will insure the reaping of a host of blessings. For proof of this make it a point to note the dispositions of most people who tithe. Attending church regularly and giving generously of time and money is making an investment that will return rich dividends.

COUNTERPOINT

By The Editor's Wife

This happened in the school cafeteria.

Lisa had nearly finished eating her lunch and was reaching for her last swallow of milk, when the little boy sitting next to her picked up her milk (by design or accident isn't certain), and drank it. Turning to Lisa he asked, "Are you done?" With no hesitation, Lisa snapped, "Yes, thanks to you!"

Rumor has it that a large corporation is moving soon to our county seat town. One of its products will be a fiberglass car body. They will employ a large number of people when and if they get started.

Both Mother and Dad Cullum attended one room school at Charter Oak, and on Sundays went to church services at Charter Oak Methodist Church. This special spot is near Green Center in the Churubusco area. Last Sunday we had the privilege of taking Mother Cullum back to the old church for a "homecoming." Uncle Milo Pearce (Mother's brother) and his wife, Martha, drove down from Park Ridge, Illinois, and spent the night with us. Mother had come down on Wednesday. So, on Sunday morning we packed some food which was not too perishable, and, after church, drove to the spot we had so often heard about.

Names of McDuffy, Shannabarger, McGuire, Resler, Herron, Houtz, Ragan, Russell, Boggs, Gaff, and Geiger at last were matched to faces. (Manie Geiger, aged 90, and his wife, aged 85, recently celebrated their 67th wedding anniversary.)

There was little time for food as these energetic oldsters (aged 75 to 85) greeted each other and talked of many things which held little meaning for the rest of us.

Later, in the overflowing sanctuary, a young minister who had been a former pastor, spoke about Time. He said that the past is not dead, the proof being the children and grandchildren of these oldtimers now carrying on the church affairs at Charter Oak as a result of the influence of these parents and grandparents.

I was remembering that Grandfather Charles Pearce had led the singing here, and Grandmother Phidelia Pearce had played the organ, even before the turn of the century. (Grandfather Albert Cullum played the organ "by ear." He was quite offended when he was not elected church organist.)

We tarried in the churchyard, mostly listening, as these elder ones reminisced, ever more and more reluctant to leave this cherished spot of happy memories.

From the church we drove slowly past the farmhouse, as Mother recalled the names of former owners. We came, finally, to the house where she and Dad had gone to housekeeping, and where the editor was born. He remembers nothing of his early years, as he was around three when he went with his parents to a Montana homestead.

It was a memorable day, memories of which I will store away for future references.

My impression is that nobody has more fun than our older folks when they get together and start remembering out loud.

Have you noticed the new colors on the hydrants? If you haven't you are color blind or completely unaware.

I was curious about the colors, so called Waterworks Superintendent, Ed Davis, and learned some interesting facts.

Golden Wedding Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Jesse H. Molebash, of R. R. 2, Etna Green, will celebrate their 50th wedding anniversary on Sunday, November 3rd with an open house from 2:00 to 5:00 p.m. at their home. They were married west of Warsaw by Rev. Isaac Beebe, November 1, 1913. They have five children, Robert and Frank Molebash of Elkhart, Mrs. Wm. (Ruby) Walters of Mentone, Paul Molebash of Warsaw, and Dale Molebash of Etna Green. They have seven grandchildren.

INTER-SQUAD GAME OPEN TO PUBLIC

Coach Roger Bridge has announced that this Friday evening at 7:00, the public will get a chance to see the basketball team in action. An official will be on hand to go over the new rules and regulations with the public. Around 7:30 the boys will be in a game. All those interested are invited to this meeting.

The orange body with green bonnets and hose nozzle denote Class A hydrants. These have a water flow capacity of 1,000 gallons or more a minute. There are 18 of these and they are located in the higher value districts (business) and along the public highways. Their reflective color makes them easy to locate at night.

Class B hydrants, which have a per minute capacity of 500-1,000 gallons a minute, will have the same body color with yellow trim.

Class C hydrants with less than 500 gallons a minute capacity will have red trim.

The older hydrants were painted red three years ago, and do not yet need repainting.

CARE is asking for emergency help for the stricken area of Haiti, following the recent hurricane disaster. Four thousand are reported dead. One hundred thousand are homeless and without food. Many are injured; many children have been left orphans.

They need your help. Mail your emergency contribution to: Haiti Disaster Fund, CARE, 660 First Ave., New York, N. Y., 10016

Have you decided just how you are going to "dress up" for the Halloween parade?

We enjoyed this: A four-year-old was playing quietly while her father, asleep on the davenport, snored lustily. Suddenly he turned over on his side, and the snoring came to an abrupt end.

"Mommy," exclaimed the little girl, "you'd better see about Daddy. He's killed his engine."

Sam The Chimp In Town

Sam, the nationally known chimpanzee, was in Mentone Wednesday morning. He was accompanied by his owners, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Sprister of Rochester.

Born in Africa, Sam came to America at the age of three months to make his home with the Spristers.

His food consists of warm milk, about one-half gallon a day. He loves all kinds of fruit spaghetti.

Stopping at drive-ins, he loves root beer, beef barbecue and hot dogs. He has his own baby bed and plays with all types of toys. Things in the house he does not bother. Sam can get his own drink and take his own bath. Wearing clothes and shoes he also finds enjoyable. Now four years old, Sam performs numerous tricks to delight young and old alike. Some of these tricks include: roller skating, tight-wire act, tricycle and bicycle riding, playing the piano and guitar and smoking a pipe.

Wednesday morning, as folks would walk by the truck in which Sam was sitting, he would reach out with his long arm, wanting to shake their hand. He was more than friendly with everyone.

When this reporter went to the truck, Sam in a friendly gesture, grabbed her hand, and then was in her arms in a minute. He appeared as delightful as a small, cuddly child. His big, brown eyes seemed to be almost making fun of us humans!

The Sprister's take Sam to many places to perform, either in 15 minute or 30 minute programs. Several years ago, Sam met a man with a wooden leg, and he has never forgotten this. Now upon meeting men, he usually pulls up their trouser leg to investigate, hunting for another wooden leg! He has never been confined to a cage, so actually acts more like a child.

A small group of curious, surprised and interested people gathered around Sam, and he was thoroughly enjoying it all.

In closing we might add that Sam has had the measles and chicken pox. We wonder if he might have escaped these childhood (?) diseases had he remained in the jungles of Africa!

T.V.S.C. Board Meeting

Monday evening, October 21, the School Board met in the office of the school superintendent, Forbes. All the members were present.

An audience was given to those in attendance who had something to say. The Tippecanoe Taxpayers Association, with chairman, Al Orcutt, had met and outlined several questions they wanted the board to answer or consider. The questions asked were: "Does the board have a list of its operating policies?" "If so, could the taxpayers have a copy?" "Is there or has there been a job cost sheet on the repairs of Beaver Dam School?" "Does the board feel that in the event of there being a one unit consolidation school, that this decision will be put up for referendum before the taxpayers or will they (referring to the board) make the decision?" These questions were answered to the satisfaction of Orcutt, by the board members. November 11 is the next Taxpayers Association meeting, and the board was given a special invitation to meet with the group at that time. This will be at the Mentone School.

This reporter has on file the individual board member's answers to the above questions, but feels that, given out of the setting of the meeting and the proper background of information, would not really benefit anyone. Several school patrons were present Monday evening to sit in on the meeting. Again we want to urge and encourage more folks to do this. This school board is YOUR organization—you elected them and they need your support, and for the most part, they are desirous of your suggestions, helps and backing.

Norman Tinkey was elected to head the Seward and Franklin 4-H Club. Hiring a leader for Henry and Newcastle townships was shelved until later when more information would be available.

The next board meeting will be November 4th. The meeting dates are usually the 1st and 3rd Monday evening of each month.

Trick or Treat For UNICEF

Mrs. Bob Hill, chairman for this year's UNICEF drive in Mentone, brought in the following information.

The annual children's program, which consists of a soliciting program, will be held October 31 at 6:30. Children should meet at the Methodist Church. After the collecting is done, all the children will be treated to refreshments back at the church. UNICEF helps governments in programs that provide for the welfare of their children, particularly in health, nutrition, social service, education, and vocational training. All interested children are to come masked. An adult will drive the cars to take the boys and girls around to get contributions from the community.

REPORT ON UNITED FUND

With the United Fund drive now in full swing, we have our own area to report on. Franklin Township, which is nearly completed, has already doubled its quota in giving. Harrison Township has $1,000 now, and is not finished. If anyone in town has not yet been contacted, please see Darrell King. In another week or so, a complete list will be available of all the workers and solicitors who have donated their time and effort. We will, at that time, try and publish that list.

School Bus Route Changed

Last Thursday Town Marshal Gene Norton and a State Policeman talked with Superintendent Forbes about changing the route of one of the school buses.

This particular bus must cross the railroad and then stop for the intersection of 19 and 25. In stopping for the stop sign, part of the bus was on the railroad tracks, so it was decided to re-route the bus so it wouldn't have to cross the tracks there. This has been remedied.

We appreciate the concern of Marshal Norton in calling attention to this matter.

CELEBRATE 25th ANNIVERSARY

Mr. and Mrs. Herschel Teel, pictured above, celebrated their 25th wedding anniversary this week. They were married at Decatur in 1938 by Rev. Stacey Shaw. They are the parents of five boys, Larry, Jim, Dick, Tom and David, and just this week became the grandparents of a new granddaughter.

Sunday evening Mr. and Mrs. Teel were pleasantly surprised with an anniversary party at the home of Mrs. Veri Halterman. Those present to enjoy the evening were: Mr. and Mrs. Larry Teel of Warsaw, Dick, Dave and Tom Teel, Lucille Carlson, Jane Newton, Mr. and Mrs. John Teel and Gary, and Arica Witham.

Lions Fish Fry And Parade

Just a reminder about the Halloween Celebration the Lions Club always sponsors. It is to be held Saturday evening, October 26.

More prizes are being offered this year for the parade, so more folks can win.

The fish fry comes first, so plan to come for the supper meal and then watch or participate in the parade and masking party.

Businesses who have contributed to help out are: Farmers State Bank, Valentine Elevator, Hales and Hunter, Co-Op, and Reed Funeral Home.

DISCONTINUE YOUNG FARMER CLASSES

Mentone High School vocational agricultural teacher, A. A. Pylant, announced today that the Young Farmer Classes at the high school will be discontinued until further notice.

He said this was necessary because of limited attendance and the busy harvest season at hand. Those interested in enrolling for the program when it is resumed are to contact the vocational department, Pylant said.

CORRECTION

It was incorrectly stated in listing the cooks last week that there were three at Beaver Dam. The cooks are Louise Bucher and Margaret Butts.

Mrs. John Marazon had surgery last Thursday at the Osceola Hospital, South Bend, for a ruptured disc. She is doing fine and hopes to be able to go home this week.

Harold Smythe was taken to the Murphy Medical Center Monday evening. He was placed in oxygen, suffering from a heart condition.

Betty Hoffman of Ligonier, daughter of Mrs. John Bogawright, was injured in a one-car accident Sunday night close to Bremen. She suffered a fractured rib, plus some internal injuries. She was in the hospital, but has now been dismissed to her home.

Dean Meyer who was in the hospital last week for a slipped disc, is home now and much improved.

Mrs. Floyd Nicodemus of Etna Green, who was injured in an automobile accident, has been dismissed from the Woodlawn Hospital to her home. She is improving.

Sammy Nunn, son of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Nunn, fell from a porch at their home. He was taken to the hospital and kept several days for observation. He is now home and feeling much better.

Mrs. Ora Tucker fell at her home last week end and cracked her pelvic bone. She was taken to the hospital, where she later suffered a stroke. Her right side is paralyzed. She has been dismissed to her home, where the family is taking care of her.

Mrs. Agnes Rans, who underwent surgery last week, is home now and doing very nicely.

New Arrivals

Mr. and Mrs. James Teel, of R. R. 2, Warsaw, are the parents of a nine pound daughter, born at 1:00 Monday morning. She has been named Kirstin Lane. Maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Keith Doran. Paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Herschel Teel.

NEWS NOTES
from our County Agent
DONALD E. FRANTZ

The 43rd annual meeting of the Indiana Poultry Association was held October 22 and 23 at Indianapolis. John Frederick of Atwood is the current president of the association.

There was a good delegation from Kosciusko County in attendance at the Beef Cattle Feeders program at the Producers Stockyards at Briggs last week. Due to the disparity in price between feeder and stocker cattle and finished cattle, there is an unusually high interest in getting as much information as possible. At these meetings cattlemen are invited to make their own estimates on current market values on a number of different grades of cattle. These are scored and there are a few awards given.

None from this county were in the top three, but some came close.

Lawrence Butts of Franklin Township missed by only about five dollars a steer. R. G. Vanator of Clay Township missed only by about seven, as did Glen Morehouse of Van Buren Township. Others that did pretty well were Leon Tucker, Carl Duncen, Everett Tom Jr., Tim Shoemaker,
Bob Malone, Edison Tucker,
Carl Sands and Elmer Dickev.
Well over 300 cattle feeders were in attendance.

There was a good attendance at the annual agricultural Outlook meeting last week and the question of exports kept coming into the discussion. It sounded like a chamber of commerce meeting in which there was great interest in producing the commodities for a wide area.
There is real interest among farmers in broadening the sales area.

Our total exports of farm commodities amounted to 5.1 billion dollars last year, this is close to the all-time high. In return, we imported farm produced goods amounting to 3.7 billion dollars which is a favorable balance. However, of the things we purchased, only about half compete with things we produce here. The other half are not raised in this country at all and these are things like coffee, rubber, tea and bananas. So we export about two dollars and a half worth for every one dollar in imports that compete with own producers. Farmers are beginning to realize that there is one great advantage that we have and that is we know how to produce and in the long run it will be to our advantage to have the trade channels open.

The Extension office is now taking enrollment for the new group of families in the Better Farming - Better Living Program.
This is a large range management program and has been significantly successful in the three years it has been a part of the agricultural extension program here. We would expect 25 to be the limit of the new group which would make the total number of cooperators around 100.

The International Livestock Exposition will run from November 29th to December 7th at Chicago. Frank Miller of the Kosciusko County Extension office will assist with the beef cattle show and has been named to serve on the committee to select the ten best steers from Indiana to make up the state entry in the group class. He has had wide experience in beef cattle work.

The State Farm Bureau convention will be held November 11-12-13 at the Murat Temple, Indianapolis. Speakers will include Lt. Governor Ristine, Dr.
Nicholas Nyaradi of Bradley University, Father Sheedy of Notre Dame, Dr. Earl Butz of Purdue, Jack Lynn of the American Farm Bureau Federation and many others. Harold Gaw-throp of Elletts Green is county president and expects to have a large delegation from this county present at the state meeting.

The checking of Five Acre
Corn Plots is now under way.
We would appreciate cooperators in this project, calling us just as soon as their corn is ready, as it now looks like all fields will be matured at about the same time. Corn from 25 to 30 per cent moisture can be checked with accuracy, even though it is not ready to pick.

Twin Calves Needed

Purdue University's animal sciences department is again searching for identical twin calves to be used in nutritional feeding studies.

Hoosier cattlemen with identical twins of at least half beef breeding may find a market for them at the university. The calves should be less than a year old and weigh no more than 500 pounds.

"Identical" refers to calves of the same sex, body size, color patterns and shape. Their general behavior should be the same. They need not be purebred and may be of either sex.

Purchases of these calves are restricted to Indiana, points out W. H. Smith of Purdue's animal sciences department. Interested Indiana cattlemen should notify Smith, whose office is in the Life Sciences building at Purdue and whose telephone number is 92-4639.

Beef Cattle Performance

Beef cattle performance testing can improve the quality and producing ability of beef cattle, according to Purdue University animal scientists. Performance testing helps livestock farmers determine which cows to keep in their herds and which cows to sell.

These animal scientists have prepared a publication, "Beef Cattle Performance Testing Program." In this publication they discuss the testing procedure methods of identifying cattle, how to keep and use accurate records and cattle grading procedures.

A grading guide to help cattlemen evaluate their own animals as well as sample record sheets for use in a production testing program are included.

Indiana residents may obtain a free copy of this publication, Mimeo AS-218, "Beef Cattle Performance Testing Program," from their County Extension Office. Or, a copy may be secured by writing to Agricultural Publications, AES Building, Purdue University, Lafayette, Ind.

UP TO A TON MORE MILK PER COW

...with Purina Cow Chow D

If you feel that your cows have the bred-in capacity to produce more milk than they're making now... take a tip from leading Eastern dairymen and switch them to Purina Cow Chow D.

This exciting "high efficiency" milking ration brings out the best; often lowers your feed cost per hundred pounds of milk. It works—not only in Purina's big Dairy Research Center, but on farms of every size here in this area.

Feed exactly as you would any other good milking ration—according to production of each individual cow. But it's what happens inside the cow that makes the big difference. Purina Cow Chow D is heavy with energy. It packs a milk-making punch that pays off in milk checks.

WHITE HAT OF THE YEAR

Leon Andrew Cotey, PNI, has been selected as "White Hat of the Year" while serving aboard the USS Fechteler, homeported in Long Beach, California.

Annually the Independent Business Men's Association of Greater Long Beach honors the outstanding enlisted man from each of the more than 100 Long Beach homeported ships, the major Navy shore activities, and Marine and Coast Guard units in the area.

Cotey and his fellow "White Hat of the Year" selectees were honored at a barbecue dinner on October 12, at the Veterans Park Clubhouse, 101 East 28th St., Long Beach. At the dinner a parchment scroll was presented to each "White Hat" by Mayor Edwin W. Wade of Long Beach. The scroll bears the mayor's signature as well as the signatures of Rear Admiral Kenneth L. Veth, U.S.N. Commander U.S. Naval Base, Los Angeles Commander Mine Force U.S. Pacific Fleet; Irving Solomon, President of the Independent Business Men's Association; and LCDR R. P. Inman, U.S.N., Commanding Officer.

The scroll is inscribed with Cotey's name in Old English script and states that he has been selected as the outstanding enlisted man from his command to receive this award in recognition of duty "well done."

Cotey was chosen by a board of senior enlisted men whose selection was approved by their commanding officer.

The names of the men selected as the Navy's finest "White Hats" become well known throughout the Fleet because of the extensive coverage given the event by Navy newspapers and magazines as well as the local press. The "White Hat Award" has become one of the most sought after honors by enlisted men stationed in Long Beach.

Clean and sharpen your garden tools now and save time and perhaps money next spring. Purdue University horticulturists recommend applying a rust preventive or oil and storing tools neatly.

Costume Safety Features

Clown, ghost, witch or whatever-you-dress all the trick or treaters in comfortable costumes that are safe to wear.

Needless accidents are often caused by the clothing children wear when Halloweening, observes Bonita Farmer, clothing specialist at Purdue University. But you can prevent accidents by planning a few safety features in your costumes.

Masks often create a hazard by obliterating a child's vision.

PICK-UP SERVICE IS AVAILABLE

Before buying one, try on a mask and be sure the eye holes are in the right place for the child. If the holes are not large enough to see through, cut them larger.

Very small children are usually safer if they do not wear a mask at all. Make up their faces instead. For easier cleaning up, cold cream their faces thoroughly before applying lipstick and brown pencil designs.

If your child is dressing up in clothes that are too large for him, be sure the skirt or trouser legs are shortened securely so that he won't trip or fall over his costume.

One point to remember about over-size clothes — baggy garments or costumes that trail and drag may catch on door knobs or bushes with unpleasant results.

Easy Hallowe'en Decorations

Let goblins and witches invade your home this month! As children dress themselves for Hallowe'en, let them decorate the house, too, suggest Ezelle Johnson, Purdue University home furnishings specialist.

Children may like to ornament windows and doorways with black cats, witches and ghosts made from construction paper. Or, if you prefer, let them choose some inexpensive decorations available in stores.

Of course a jack-o-lantern is indispensable to Hallowe'en decorating. Stretch your enjoyment and use of your pumpkin over several weeks with this simple trick. Choose your pumpkin early and transform it into a jack-o-lantern with felt. Cut felt into pieces shaped like eyes, mouth and nose. Glue these pieces on the outside of the pumpkin. A day or two before Hallowe'en, clean the pumpkin and cut the features.

Use Indian corn and gourds makes

A basket of Indian corn and gourds makes a pretty table centerpiece. Ears of brightly colored Indian corn fastened to the front door may not "drive evil spirits away" (according to superstition), but they will look festive.

Beautifully colored leaves, harvest vegetables, rich fall flowers dress the house for fall. A vase of bright autumn leaves makes a splash of color for the mantle or coffee table. Try a bouquet of yellow and orange marigolds in a black vase, or deep hued asters in a white pitcher.

Don't add fertilizer to your house plants this winter; wait until next spring. Purdue University horticulturists say late fall and winter fertilization will result in straggly plant appearance.

Place In Choral Competition

Word from Vance and Isabelle Johns, who live in Riverside, California, gives some interesting news about the Citrus Belters Chorus. Dave and Vance both sing with this group, which recently won first place in the Far Western District Chorus Competition at the Municipal Auditorium at Long Beach.

A clipping from the Riverside Enterprise has this to say: "Chorus from five western states took part in the competition, staged by the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Quartet Singing in America (SPBSQSA)."

The Citrus Belters, directed by Russ Hosier of Riverside, and Jerry Fairchild of Rialto, are members of SPBSQSA's Riverside-San Bernardino area chapter.

Their win last night entitles them to compete in the society's international competition in San Antonio, Texas, next June.

They will join the chapter's Sidewinders quartet, which earlier won the far western district's barbershop quartet title, in the international competition.

The Citrus Belters won the Southern California Division two weeks ago and recently competed against winning choruses of the four other divisions within the far western district.

They are talking of chartering a plane to take the chorus (and wives?) to San Antonio next June. We'll all be waiting to hear how our friends do then.

Flame-Resistant Treatment

Jack-o-lanterns, candles and costumes go together in the minds of youngsters when they start planning Hallowe'en celebrations. But it's up to mother to think of ways to celebrate safely.

One precaution mothers can take is to treat Hallowe'en costumes with a flame-resistant solution, says Elkin Minter, Purdue University home management specialist.

She says you can prepare a flame-resistant solution at home from seven ounces of borax, three ounces of boric acid, and two quarts of hot water.

Dissolve boric acid by making a paste with a small quantity ty of water. Add this and the borax to the water. Stir until the solution is clear.

Put this solution into a laundry sprinkler and thoroughly dampen your youngster's costume. (Do not use on rayon or resin-treated fabrics.) Allow the garment to nearly dry before ironing. Do not redampen with water. Press with moderately hot iron.

Remember, this treatment will not make the garment fire-proof, reminds Miss Minter. Treated materials will char and possibly glow, but they will not burst into flame.

Since this is only a temporary treatment, and may be removed by washing, you can use it on sheets, pillowcases and other washable articles used for costumes. You will have to retreat the costume if you plan to use it another year, or if you launder it.

Plant Peonies In Autumn

Autumn is the best time to plant peonies. They will become well established before winter and will grow vigorously next year, according to Purdue University horticulturists.

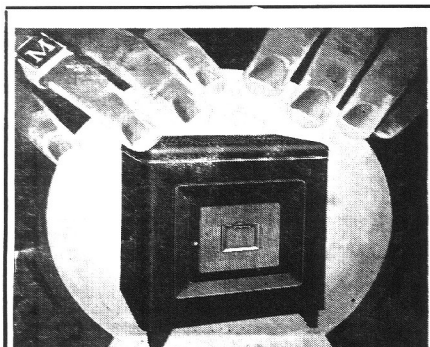

Peonies will bloom in the same location for many years; you don't need to divide them every few years like many other perennial flowers.

Planting location is extremely important in successful peony growing. Plant your peonies where they will receive full sun. Make sure the upper buds or "eyes" of the peonies are not more than two inches below the surface. However, the remaining roots should be well underground.

Avoid crowding peonies with other plants, since overcrowding is detrimental to good blooms. A peony plant needs three or four feet of growing diameter. They recommend planting newer varieties. These have longer lasting flowers and a longer blooming period. Check nursery catalogs for the latest.

35-Year Sales Skid Ended For Indiana Limestone Industry

The year 1963 will go down in history as a great year for Indiana limestone. This year the famous building stone industry reversed a 35-year downtrend in sales and stopped a shorter-term 8-year slide of about $1 million each year. Conservative estimates predict total sales of $36 million-plus, up a whopping $3 million from the 1962 estimate (accurate figures have never been available in the industry). More important to the fabricating mills over the nation, cut (to size) stone sales account for nearly all of this increase, totting up to nearly 20% over 1962 sales of about $10 million. Positive confirmation of this rise is the average price Indiana limestone demands, boosted this year to near $6 per cu. ft. from the badly-depressed 1962 average of $4.88 per cu. ft.

Industry leaders attribute the upward trend to a new awareness of architects of Indiana limestone insulated wall panels. Floor-to-floor in size, the panels save big money in original material cost, labor (erected with cranes, bolted in place in minutes) and maintenance, while retaining the stone's traditional masonry advantage of permanence (some buildings up to 150 years with no repair needed) and esthetic beauty of its textured, easily-carved surfaces. Only found in a small two-county district of So. Indiana, the industry produces 78% of all building limestone in the U. S.

More Jobs Open
"The cut stone mills are busy," commented Wm. E. Benckart, vice-president of Moon Freight Lines, Bloomington, Ind. He ought to know because Moon carries 60% of the long-haul shipments of the nation's stone of all kinds. Personnel managers are already worrying about next year because the long Indiana limestone "depression" has left this area short of the necessary highly-skilled labor force.

"This is only the beginning," said Hugh F. Kluesner, Jr., president of the fledgling National Association for Indiana Limestone (NAILI) and general salesmanager of the Indiana Limestone Co., Inc., Bedford, Ind. "1964 will show a big jump in sales and 1965 will be higher still, based on architects' drawings I have seen. It isn't going to quit this time. We're on our way back in limestone." One industry spokesman predicted 1970 sales of equal to 1928, the stone's biggest year. If true, and at realistic prices, Indiana limestone sales will top a wishful $137 million in seven years. On the negative side, some mills here and throughout the nation are not busy (traditionally an "occupational hazard" in the industry). Others are "booked through May," some are farming out work to contractors.

Promotion Program Works
There are those who discount the effect of the new NAILI association, saying "it was bound to come anyway." But building trends were skyrocketing while Indiana limestone sales were skidding. Even this year the chart lines were not parallel most of the year. And, according to one building materials magazine editor, architects were not thinking about limestone last year when the trend started to masonry panels. Much of the new panel business is in sizes publicized by the new association, NAILI officials point out.

Next week directors of the new association will fly into Indianapolis from all points of the compass to appraise the industry's condition and how much NAILI has affected it. The directors will vote on increased budgets to beef up its "Consult An Architect" national advertising campaign theme and to build up technical information services to architects and builders.

High School Day At Manchester College

Two outstanding high school bands will be featured in individual performances during the annual High School Day activities at Manchester College North Manchester, next Saturday.

The New Haven, Indiana band under the direction of Paul Millman, will present a pre-game show including a precision drill and concluding with the National Anthem. This band has been awarded ten superiors in the past 12 years at State Marching contests. Last year it received superior ratings from all four judges at the State Marching Contest and all the judges at the State Concert Contest.

A special half-time show will be given by the Dayton, Ohio Fairview High School band. This 150 member band is under the direction of Robert H. Griep. It has been televised on the CBS network for eight consecutive years in performances at the Cleveland Browns football games. It has always received I and II ratings at district and state music contests.

The Fairview half-time show will be followed by a massed band concert of ten high school bands totaling 600 players, in addition to the Manchester College band. This massed concert will feature music arranged by James McCleod of Minneapolis and will include marches and familiar classics. Thirty-two high school twirlers will also participate with Manchester college twirlers.

In addition to the two featured bands the following bands will participate: Cromwell High School, Ray Cole, director; Ida-ville High School, Harold Parks, director; Mentone High School, Kenneth F. Bush, director; Millersburg High School, Marvin Stevens, director; Oregon-David High School, Drake Olmstead and Ronald Murphy, directors; Shipshewana-Scott High School, Gayle Grove, director; Southern Wells High School in Liberty Center, Bill Hernandez, director.

The half-time concert is under the direction of C. Dwight Oltman, director of bands at Manchester College. He came to Manchester College this year after serving as assistant band director at Wichita University. Prior to that he had a highly successful high school band at Ravenna, Nebraska. This band represented the state of Nebraska at the Seattle World's Fair.

Art Class Helps Decorate

On Thursday of last week, Mrs. Fisher brought her 4th grade art class downtown to help decorate for Halloween. Mr. Cooper offered them his windows, so about 30 some pupils were busily painting and decorating. The boys and girls seemed to be enjoying the project very much, and we must add that the windows now look 'highly decorated' for Halloween. The children marched back to school in an orderly line, all outfitted in painter's smocks, made from old shirts of their Daddys. Mrs. Fisher said that if more windows were available, she would be bringing other grades downtown for similar work.

Back From Hunting Trip

Dr. and Mrs. Wymond Wilson arrived back home Monday evening from their hunting trip to Ten Sleep, Wyoming. They flew out, accompanied by Cardinal Wolf of Edon, Ohio. Two carloads who drove out included Joe Wolf of Edon, Ohio, and Wilbur Wilson of Huntington, brother of Dr. Wilson. Also, Frank Waltz of Edon, Ohio, Willie Lingle of Richmond, and Hap and Mary Uter from our town, who left earlier for Wyoming.

The hunters report lots of game, but as yet, there had been no frost, and it was real dry, so they had to work at hunting. All the hunting group got a deer and the three elk licenses were also filled. Dr. Wilson and his brother each got a spike elk and Arleta, a five point. The Wilsons reported the flying weather was fine.

NIPSCO Boosts Supply

Northern Indiana Public Service Company will soon receive an additional 5 million cubic feet of natural gas per day for customers served by its northwest gas transmission and distribution system, Dean H. Mitchell, NIPSCO chairman and vice president, announced recently.

The new supply of gas was made possible by the Federal Power Commission's approval of a NIPSCO request to the Trunkline Gas Company—one of the utility's five pipeline suppliers—for more gas to meet the growing needs of NIPSCO customers.

He said the additional gas, which will be available December 1, 1963, will also materially aid the utility's ability to maintain even better services during peak load conditions of the coming winter heating season.

NIPSCO had previously obtained more than 408 million cubic feet of gas per day from pipeline suppliers for its northwest system. This new supply of 5 million cubic feet per day will boost the utility's daily supply of gas for its northwest system to 413 million cubic feet. Only five years ago the company's total gas supply for this area was less than 100 million cubic feet per day.

The company's northwest system serves customers in Hammond, East Chicago, Whiting, Gary, Crown Point, Hobart, Valparaiso, Michigan City, Chesterton, La Porte, South Bend, Mishawaka, Elkhart, Goshen, Warsaw, Plymouth, Wabash, Peru, Logansport and Monticello.

COUNTERPOINT

By The Editor's Wife

I was about to make a remark about "gypsies and tea leaves," but think we have had enough of gypsies. However, a certain tea company (Salada), for some time, has been printing taglines to attach to each tea bag. They may not accurately predict your future, but they do express some humor.

Here are some samples:
"Time tells on a man, especially a good time."

"If you want to keep your friends, don't give them away."
"Plan for the future. That's where you'll spend the rest of your life."

"A diet is something to take the starch out of you."

"Everybody should learn to drive, especially those who sit behind the wheel."
"A kiss that speaks volumes is seldom a first edition."

"Stealing a kiss may be petty larceny, but sometimes it's also grand."

"Marriage is like a tourniquet—it stops your circulation."
"If you can't write it and sign it, don't say it."

"Always hold your head up, but keep your nose at a friendly level."

"Always put off until tomorrow the things you should not do today."
"The time to make friends is before you need them."

Our apologies to those who sent in news for last week's paper. Someone "buried" the mail and it wasn't discovered until too late. We appreciate all news "called in" or "mailed in."

It's hard to believe, but Americans, today, spend $1 billion a year for useless drugs and foods, believing that they will improve their health. This happens, in spite of the fact that we have more information about health than ever before.

Here are a few cases the Federal Trade Commission has investigated in recent months:

Arthritis pills that were little more than aspirin.

Metal heel plates to be worn in shoes to cure arthritis.

Copper and zinc bracelets to be worn to eliminate arthritis.

Uranium mine cures in which gullible arthritics paid to sit in uranium mines so radioactive waves could penetrate their bodies and drive away the disease.

Uranium stuffed pillows claimed to end arthritis in head and shoulders.

Baldness cures that don't cure.

"The best thing to do to avoid baldness is to select one's ancestors more carefully."

Phony weight reducers.

We read of one teacher who sent the following note home with her pupils:

"Dear Parents: If you'll promise not to believe everything your child tells you about what happens in school, I'll promise not to believe everything I hear about what happens at home."

For example, a child told her teacher, "Mom says you must be crazy." How was she to know that the mother added, "after being cooped up in a classroom this rainy day with thirty-two kids."

Or, at East Lansing, Michigan a rumor was being circulated that a certain coach was losing his memory. "He has someone on the team open his locker for him after practice everyday," the boys told their parents.

When the coach heard this he started taking his glasses to the locker room with him so he could read the numbers on the combination lock.

Several folks have mentioned that their forsythia bushes are in bloom. The unusual feature is that both the leaves and blossoms are together on the branches, which doesn't happen in the spring blooming.

Already I am planning to "get in line" for the Senior Class Chicken Bar-B-Q a week from Saturday night.

We enjoyed this:
"I joked with the butcher and asked him for a yard of pork."

"What did he give you?"
"Three pig's feet."

Selecting Fertilizers

Which fertilizer to buy often puzzles homeowners. Each salesman or self-styled lawn expert recommends a different formula. To help you out of this quandary, the U.S. Department of Agriculture has published a leaflet offering all the information you need to make a selection from the many types of fertilizer available.

"Selecting Fertilizers for Lawns and Gardens" is the title of the leaflet prepared by scientists of the U.S.D.A.'s Agricultural Research Service. The leaflet explains how fertilizers differ in nutrient content, ingredients and form. It tells the advantages and disadvantages of combinations of fertilizer mixtures containing added materials such as trace elements, insecticides and weed killers.

Indiana residents may obtain a free copy of "Selecting Fertilizers for Lawns and Gardens," HG-89, from the Agricultural Publications Office, AES Building, Purdue University, Lafayette, Ind. 47907.

The leaflet may also be obtained from the Office of Information, U.S. Department of Agriculture, Washington 25, D. C.

Order Trees Now

Backyard orchardists and commercial growers should order their peach and dwarf apple trees as soon as possible, says Jerome Hull Jr., Purdue University extension pomologist.

Low temperatures last January killed many midwestern peach trees. The heavy replacement planting, plus the normal demand, has caused nurseries to run short.

There is also a shortage of dwarfed apple trees resulting from their increasing commercial use. Many nurseries are sold out of certain varieties for delivery in the spring of 1964.

STUDENT COUNCIL BEING FORMED

Faculty Advisor, Mr. Metzger, Terry Meredith, Rex Bowser, Julius Murcia, Lee Ritchey, and Marion Boggs. Seated: Kathy Boggs and Janis Hoffer.

A student council is being formed at Talma Junior High School to help establish and maintain higher standards of education to give students some experience in self-government, and to make Talma a better school by better cooperation between teachers and students.

The student council members are as follows: president, Rex Bowser; vice president, Marion

The members are presently working on a constitution.

Planning Your Grain Handling

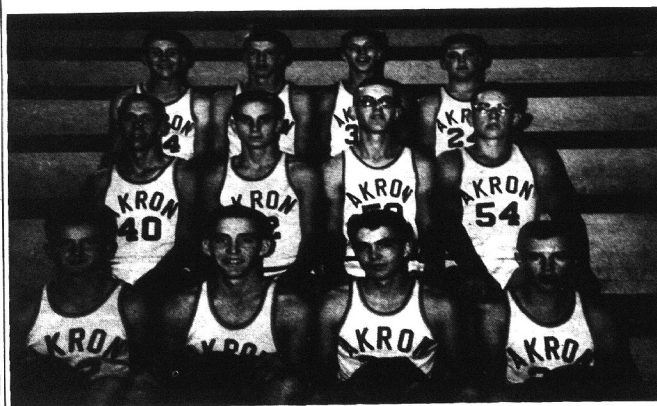

A handy grain handling system does not have to be costly. But it requires sound planning, points out Bruce McKenzie, Purdue University extension agricultural engineer.

Many farmers tend to rule out a particular handling method because it appears too expensive. Primary example is a vertical elevator. But you can plan a layout of storage bins you can use now with portable equipment and reconsider a vertical leg on the next equipment change.

A good, long range planning guide is a design for what McKenzie calls "closed cycle handling." This means you can move grain from any place to any other place in the storage layout. By locating storage bins around a central handling area, all unloading becomes the focal point of the layout. Installation of a grain dump and vertical lift at this point permits moving grain into each storage.

Storage filling may be by gravity or horizontal conveyor from the leg to the bin. Similar closed cycle arrangements for inclined conveyors can be developed.

What about handling capacity or rate? He suggests it depends on how much grain you are handling, and what you are doing with it. The 10,000 bushel corn-hog farm receives corn at harvest roughly 10 days a year, but making hog feed may be a 365 day per year job.

Three hundred and 500 bushels per hour elevators are small corn receiving units, but will deliver almost 9 tons and 15 tons of corn per hour—more than ample for hog feed making. Design as a feed preparation and handling center may take precedence over corn receiving in planning a facility and handling rate.

But the large operator with a batch dryer needs capacity to load and unload the dryer. In-storage drying systems require capacity only to receive corn, since no rehandling is necessary.

Rake leaves from your lawn often enough so they don't smother the grass, remind Purdue University horticulturists.

Don't bother to rake leaves out of your shrub bed. They act as a mulch during the winter, according to Purdue University horticulturists.

sales tax for vitamins for his pigs while he had to on vitamins for his children. Of course, both would have to pay the latter.

The sales tax law does give food producers certain exemptions on items that they buy in normal production. Such things as seed, feed, gasoline, fertilizer, chemicals and others. In order to get this exemption, they must file a blanket agricultural exemption certificate with the dealer. Other manufacturers have the same privilege and right.

The sales tax law states that the purchase must be tangible, it must be personal and it must be at retail. Items that you buy for the purpose of producing something else have been determined to not be purchased at retail. The retail sale comes later down the line when the final product is sold to its ultimate consumer or user. There are many more determinations that are going to be made on this law that is brand new to Indiana.

The checking of five acre corn plots is moving along pretty well. We hope to be completed within another week. It is evident that farmers are using hybrids that are longer seasons than we used to. With the popularity of the single cross, it looks as if we have now moved at least two weeks later in maturity dates and possibly even later on the average. Some fields that have been planted as early as mid-May still are 30 to 34 per cent moisture and in my opinion this is just simply too late.

The seed corn companies are obviously doing a lot of experimenting with farmer acceptance. In my opinion some are just plain "horsing around" with our time and money. We don't need to try somebody's single cross that takes 150 days to mature. Let them try it and then tell the truth about how long it takes.

Like so many other businesses, the small business man has been run flat. The big companies have pretty well eliminated the old farmer producer of Indiana certified corn. The certified varieties were open pedigrees, we could look at them and know what was there and what the maturity range was. This was the basis on which farmers accepted hybrid seed corn. It took about two decades for people to accept hybrid seed, but when they did, it was a hundred per cent acceptance. When this acceptance was completed the big producers took over.

Backyard orchardists and commercial growers should order their peach and dwarf apple trees as soon as possible, says Jerome Hull Jr., Purdue University extension pomologist.

Low temperatures last January killed many midwestern peach trees. The heavy replacement planting, plus the normal demand, has caused nurseries to run short.

There is a shortage of dwarfed apple trees resulting from their increasing commercial use. Many nurseries are sold out of certain varieties for delivery in the spring of 1964.

from our County Agent
DONALD E. FRANTZ

The sales tax is now the law of the state and it is a thing that we will get used to and live with for as long as most of us are here. The old saying is that "you can get used to anything short of hanging."

On the other hand, this could be a good thing for us, it could conceivably give Indiana one of the finest school systems in the country.

There are some who are already complaining that farmers are getting another tax break. One fellow asked me why a farmer did not have to pay a

Drought Causes Problems

Indiana's extended drought this autumn has raised questions about its effect on wheat stands. Cliff Spies, Purdue University extension agronomist, says three things can have happened to wheat that has not yet come up. Sufficient moisture resulted in swelling and germination, but the plants died before emergence; (Evidence of this can be found by digging in the drill row.)

Insufficient moisture did not cause germination, but the seed was close to a fertilizer granule and the germ died from salt injury; or

Seed is in dry ground waiting for moisture.

Fertilizer injury has been observed on experimental plots on the Pinney-Purdue Farm near Wanatah. Stands have been reduced where 50 pounds of nitrogen, plus potash, were applied in contact with the seed.

However, he says there is no need to replant. He points out that wheat yields this year were nearly as great where two pecks an acre were seeded as where higher seedings rates were used.

Since the average seeding rate in Indiana is about six pecks an acre, half the stand can be lost from fertilizer injury or dry weather and prospects remain for good yields without replanting.

Adequate supply of nitrogen will stimulate stooling of wheat plants when growth starts next spring.

The agronomist says there is a good chance that if wheat lies in dry ground all this fall it still will grow next spring and mature a seed head.

Should replanting be necessary, select Vermilion or Monon as top choices and seed at the rate of eight pecks an acre.

FLATFOOT

PRONATION, more often called flatfoot or fallen arch, is the most common abnormality of the foot — the foot rolls inward and the inner border of the sole approaches or touches the floor.

The weight of the body normally should fall on the apex of the arch of the foot. With flatfoot the apex has moved inward, with the result that the entire weight-bearing tripod is on a slant.

Flatfoot is common in children in varying degrees. Except in advanced cases corrective treatment is simple and effective. Unfortunately many cases are neglected because they are not recognized early.

Flatfoot left untreated in early childhood often produces serious consequences in later life as the improper balance of weight causes stress and strain in the foot and in the joints of the lower extremity. It can also be a contributing factor to low back pain in adult life. Early signs of flatfoot are obvious. When the child is standing barefoot on a hard surface the Achilles tendon, situated at the back of the foot, should be vertical in relation to the heel. When there is inward curvature of this tendon there is pronation of the arch and

Fatigue resulting from standing, walking and other footwork can be decreased by overcoming pronation.

WASHINGTON AND "SMALL BUSINESS"

By C. WILSON HARDER

Not too many years ago there was set up in government a new department with full cabinet rank known as "Department of Health, Education & Welfare." In a comparatively short space of time, this department has become a "catch-all" for a large share of the "weirdies" and fantastic ideas.

Before this department, whenever some bureaucrat, or employee of a bureau got too far out into left field in his thinking, there was always "C. W. Harder" to be called. C. W. Harder, ever the possibility of transferring him over to the National Labor Relations Board. Now, the Department of Health, Education & Welfare is able to absorb many.

The big trouble is nothing can be done about it.

Rep. H. R. Gross of Iowa the other day made a statement which indicates how costly these things can become to the taxpayer. The Public Health Service, which as an independent agency performed valuable public service, was put under control of this department.

The Congressman pointed out that in 1946 the Public Health Service received less than 1 million dollars for research. Now, reports Rep. Gross, the $1 million has grown to $400 million. Department of Health, Education and Welfare press agents trumpet this money is spent "only for research of highest merit."

Mentone Students Attend I. U.

Twenty-seven Mentone students are planning to attend High School Day activities at Indiana University. A full day of activity is planned with a tour of the campus, including dormitories, discussions with professors in the various schools of the university, a special invitation to the university by one of the administrators, and in addition, some very fine entertainment.

Such an event enables a student to see the campus of the school and to a certain degree get an idea of campus life. It is generally felt that this is beneficial to a student who is interested in attending college. Students who attend are not necessarily those planning to attend Indiana University, but are students who feel that they may be interested in attending a college.

Students attending will be traveling in automobiles driven by members of the Mentone faculty who will be accompanying the students. Mr. George Welch, school counselor, will be in charge.

LAST BILLFOLD RETURNED

Last summer in July when the Little League took a trip to see a White Sox game in Chicago, Bruce Leslie lost his billfold there. He really didn't expect to see it again, but just the other day, a package came in the mail and it contained his billfold—with everything intact. A name was on the return address, so Bruce decided right away to write a thank you note to the honest individual who sent him his billfold.

GETTING THE MOST... FROM YOUR GARDEN

by Dr. W. A. Liddell Director of Information, Asgrow Seed Company

PLAN AND PLANT NOW FOR COLOR IN SPRING

The sunny weeks of summer may be with us still, but the steadily shortening hours of daylight warn that the season is drawing to an end. The prudent gardener remembers that now is the time to be getting his bulbs into the ground if there is to be a good display of color in the coming spring.

First to appear, and for that reason well loved, are the snowdrops. They will grow almost anywhere, but are often planted among tulips, which they precede. There are large-flowered and double-flowered varieties, but these have not displaced the old single in popularity. Set the bulbs 3" deep, individually or massed.

Spring crocus, the next arrival, is often planted in lawns as it generally flowers before the first mowing, but it is also effective in the front of a perennial border or among ground covers, where it will produce progeny if the tops are left until they dry out. Several colors are available, from the favorite yellow to white and blue. Set the bulb-like corms deep in the soil, colored fall species is planted in July.

Tulips, as indispensable as they are lovely, provide decorative groupings for the border in almost any arrangement of colors that may be desired, since their many varieties and types range from white to near black, and some with variegated colors or odd shapes. It will be helpful if an area plan of the border is sketched and the colors and types chosen to form a harmonious and pleasing picture, usually with the different varieties in groups rather than a mixture of individuals. The bulbs should be planted 6" to 8" deep, down where the soil is cool and not too rich, the short single or double early types for first bloom, the taller and later flowering sorts to follow. If the tulips are to be succeeded by summer annuals, these should be marked on your plan and the seeds sown when finishing the bulb planting. This method gives happy results and the growing annuals will screen the foliage of the tulips, left after the flowers have gone, to help in making food for the bulb before it will bloom again next spring. A light mulch will protect the bed and prevent seeds from being washed away. Next to tulips, daffodils are prime favorites though they are very different in many ways, notably that tulips are sciotic and planted formally in the border, but daffodils nod in the breeze and are seen to better effect in small groups below trees or beside shrubs as if they had just chanced to grow there. Colors range from white to orange and there are many types, from large trumpets to the sweet-scented poet's narcissus with hardly any trumpet, and the jonquil with smaller blooms in clusters, also scented. There is a corresponding variation in the size of the bulbs, which should be set at three times their own depth. There would almost seem to be an antipathy between these two leaders of the spring bulbs, as it has been found that when both are cut and placed together in a vase, the daffodils diffuse in the water something that is toxic to tulips.

Hyacinths not only look well in the forefront of a perennial border but also add the charm of their very sweet fragrance. The flowers are in trusses which may be white or purple or an intermediate pastel tone, and stand rather formally. Bulbs should be set about 5" apart and 4" deep.

Their minor cousins, the charming little grape hyacinths, or muscari, stand about 6" high with tight spikes of small flowers, white or blue, growing best where they get shade. Another low-growing and pretty little plant is the blue squill, which is a scilla, as is the English bluebell, better known to us in song or story than in our gardens.

If you would like free information about how to grow vegetables in your back yard, send your name on a postcard to Asgrow Garden Guide, PO Box 406, New Haven 2, Conn.
