Bell Making Core

Buffalo, N. Y.—Bell Aircraft Corporation disclosed today that its Niagara Frontier Division is manufacturing the core barrel and structural parts for a reactor core like that used on the submarine NAUTILUS which arrived in New York earlier this week following its history-making voyage under the polar ice cap.

The name of the vessel to use the core and the amount of the contract were not disclosed.

The core is the heart of a nuclear reactor. It contains the fissionable material which furnishes the energy to propel a submarine.

Bell is also making various components and equipment for commercial nuclear reactors.

Jay Gould To Be Guest Speaker At The Mentone Egg Show Banquet

One of the best known agricultural broadcasters in the country, Mr. Gould has been an important source of farm information to hundreds of thousands of farmers in the Tri-State area for fifteen years. His association with scores of County Extension agents, Agricultural Leaders, Scientists, and with the Mid-Western universities and experiment stations, keep him in constant touch with the latest progress in research, farming methods, and general agricultural trends. Through the years he has become a recognized clearing house for this information to the people of one of the largest general-farming areas in the world.

Besides being on WOWO with twenty-one hours of programs each week, Jay Gould is in great demand as a lecturer, traveling many thousands of miles each year to talk to groups representing every facet of the American way of living.

TICKETS ON SALE SAT.

The Banquet Committee of the Mentone Egg Show have announced that the Tickets for the Banquet to be held Friday evening, September 19th, during the Show, will go on sale next Saturday in the following places:

Porky Jones' Barber Shop, Manwaring Leghorn Farm, The Farmers State Bank, Valentine Elevator, The Northern Indiana Cooperative Office, Nelson Poultry Farm, Eldon Horn, who is the Chairman, and Gene Sarber,

Jay Gould's versatility is almost unknown to his radio listeners who know him mostly as a friendly and thoughtful farm broadcaster with a wry sense of humor. But during, what he calls "the adventure of my life," he has been a lumber jack, iron miner, a farmer, an educator, composer and arranger, author, poet, playwright, musician, columnist, natural scientist, philosopher, and news commentator.

During the past several years, Mr. Gould has been investing more and more of his time and energy in an effort to influence the people of the United States toward a concept of "all America." In his words: "It is my prophecy that when the chips are down, it will be these proud and friendly nations of the Western Hemisphere—the cooperative, self-reliant, self-determined, self-sufficient nations of AMERICA—that will hold and rebuild the crumbling foundations of the world's civilization."

RETURN FROM TRIP

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Michaels and son of south of Mentone, returned Tuesday, August 26th from a 3800 mile trip west. They were gone 10 days, going first to Boystown, Nebraska, where they drove through the grounds of Boystown and visited the large cafeteria and hobby shop. They also visited the Pioneer Village at Minden, Nebraska where there are over 20,000 items in twenty buildings and covers 10 acres.

Leaving Nebraska they went to Cheyenne, Wyoming, crossing the mountain range south of Yellowstone National park, they spent some time at Yellowstone and then on to the Black Hills in South Dakota where they visited Trout Haven and the Hill City Zoo which is the world's largest privately owned zoo. They also went through the Rushmore Cave.

The Michaels also stopped at the new Cody Dam, and tunnel which is three-fourths of a mile in length, the tunnel is not yet open for traffic. They also attended a Rodeo at Cody, Wyo.
Coming home through Minnesota and Wisconsin their trip took them through eight states.

It is most important that all drivers know their traffic signs, says the Motor Club. Good drivers should know what a traffic sign says even before they are close enough to read the lettering. You should be able to recognize the sign's meaning by its standard shape. For instance, a stop sign is octagon shaped; a yield right of way sign is triangular; a hill warning is diamond shaped; and a railroad crossing is round.

Alfalfa fields ruined by high water in June and July may be reseeded in August to reestablish the stand or to permit keeping the whole field in the desired rotation, say Purdue University agronomists.

Traveling Companion

Dogs, can be excellent traveling companions in an automobile if they are properly trained, according to the Motor club.

Most dogs, particularly the smaller breeds such as terriers and spaniels, enjoy motoring.

With proper planning, there is no need to worry about your dog getting car sick. Frequent short jaunts in the neighborhood before the trip will condition any dog to motion.

You can even take along a suitcase just for the dog. Fido's traveling gear should include a couple of his favorite toys; two dishes for food and water; some cans of his favorite dog food; a spoon for food handling; a closed jar for carrying water; a supply of paper towels or newspapers and the blanket on which he's used to sleeping.

To make auto trips more pleasant for you and your dog, the Motor Club also suggests the following:

Protect the dog from eye inflammation and other disorders by forbidding him to poke his head out open car windows; make every effort to have him lie quietly so as not to interfere with the car's operation; give the dog frequent chances to get out of the car, but don't let him run free at your stopping points; and do not feed him during the day—save his meals for evening.

ADVERTISE! IT PAYS!

Two to four pounds of 3-12-12 or 5-20-20 fertilizer to every 100 square feet of area could be broadcast over the strawberry plants in late August to benefit the next season's crop, says horticulturists at Purdue University. Brush the fertilizer off the foliage unless the pelleted form is used that will roll off the leaf.

Mr. Russell V. Eiler, of Mishawaka, Ind., a former resident of Mentone, was a visitor at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Eiler, on Wednesday of this week.

Passing Know How

The average driver has to pass slow-moving cars and trucks several times during the course of a day's driving. But even seasoned drivers may not know all they should about careful passing.

The Motor Club points out that careful passing is a tough job—not so simple as many motorists seem to think.

First, it's important to know when not to pass. You should not pass on hills or curves, at railroad crossings, or at road intersections. And you shouldn't pass if the car ahead is moving along at the legal speed limit.

When you are going to pass, it is essential that you know how to judge the distance and the speed you'll need to get safely around the car ahead. For instance, to pass an auto doing 45 miles per hour, you should do 60 mph. Also, you'll need about one quarter of a mile to make the passing maneuver.

Passing on a two-lane involves different approaches than passing on expressways. Here are some tips from the Motor Club for safe passing on two-lane highways.

1. Never follow the car you are going to pass too closely. This will block your view of the highway and will not give you enough stopping room if the car ahead brakes suddenly. Follow the car ahead by one car length for every 10 miles of speed.
2. Look ahead for cars coming from the opposite direction or anything on the road that might make the driver you're overtaking swerve into the passing lane. Check your rear-view mirror to make sure a car isn't passing you.
3. If a car is following you, switch on your turn signals to show you are going to change lanes. Blow your horn or at night flick your lights to let the driver ahead know you're passing him. Give your signals a chance to be observed before you start passing.
4. Turn smoothly into the other lane, accelerating rapidly to a speed 10 to 15 miles faster than that of the car you're passing.
5. Don't move back into the right lane until you're well be-around the car you've overtaken. Move back smoothly and guard against a tendency to slow down after passing.

In three lane expressway traffic, passing differs in that the passing driver does not return to the outside lane used by slow-moving vehicles. If you are driving at medium-high speeds, stay in the middle lane. Move to the inner lane if you are driving at the top legal speed. Don't switch from lane to lane.

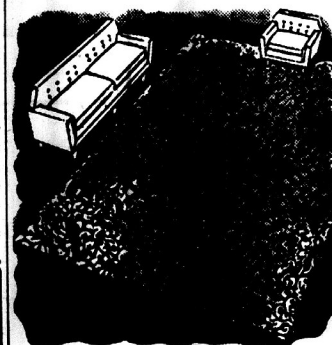

Whether on an expressway or a two-lane highway, safe passing requires patience, courtesy, and careful observation of these safety tips.

Plan for lawn improvement during August, say Purdue University agronomists. If water is available for irrigation, reseeding is best done in late August so that seedlings are well established before winter arrives.

Eggs Back On More Breakfast Tables

Chicago—The Poultry and Egg National Board has revealed the strategy behind a new public relations and promotion campaign designed to "restore the egg to its proper place as reigning queen of the breakfast table."

According to Dr. A. William Jasper, Director of the Division of Egg Production, PENB has selected six key targets for a concerted program which is already under way. He lists these targets as the urban housewife, teenagers, overweights, older persons, diners-out, and school age children.

The opening shot of the campaign was fired from PENB's Home Economics Division when Kathryn B. Niles, Director of the Division, delivered a strong denunciation of what she called "light-breakfastitis" and spelled out its hazards to personal health and nutrition. A two-page news release covering her statement was released to newspapers, syndicates, magazines, and radio and television stations throughout the country.

Mrs. Niles said that "One half of the American population today is suffering from 'light-breakfastitis', a condition resulting in mid-morning tiredness, nervousness and inefficiency... it is time we faced squarely how much the nation is losing in overall productivity, and how much the individual is losing in personal health due to pernicious morning eating habits."

As a remedy Mrs. Niles recommended a return to the "old-fashioned, common-sense" type of breakfast—which includes eggs—to give the staying-power to keep up energy and alertness throughout an entire morning of work, school or play.

Jasper said that the PENB will next release a series of articles on teen-age eating habits, stressing the advantages to appearance and energy of a well balanced breakfast. He said that the Division of Egg Promotion will make periodic press reports of activities in "this vital eggs-for-breakfast field."

The dairy department at Purdue University says that many first calf heifers enter the dairy herd during September through November. For best results, these newcomers to the herd should be accustomed to the treatment given the dairy herd at milking time and be fed the same as a dry cow.

Leafhoppers cause yellowing of second and third cuttings of alfalfa. To prevent damage, Purdue University entomologists advise spraying alfalfa when it has about two or three inches of growth with one quart of methoxychlor in 10 gallons of water per acre.

If pastures are somewhat mature and not too palatable, Purdue University dairy scientists suggest increasing the protein in the grain ration. If grass silage is available, this is not necessary, however.

August is a good time to start the compost, remind Purdue University horticulturists. An area of 10 feet square will hold a lot of leaves and other waste vegetable material. A few hands full of fertilizer spread over each five or six inches of layer will hasten decomposition of the materials.

Seed Wheat

Lafayette, Ind. — Indiana farmers concerned about the germination of their seed wheat due to delayed harvest or sprouts in the field are urged by Purdue University agronomists to look around home for seed before considering out of State sources.

Northern Indiana has the bumper wheat crop of all time with less damage by heavy rains and high moisture than most sections of the state.

In some southern counties, Knox was combined before the rains. Local investigation may reveal supplies of dry wheat, some of which is doubtless under loan storage. Commercial or home drying has been widely practiced this year.

Moisture content of seed in the bin should be watched closely. K. E. Beeson, Purdue agronomist says, "If appreciably above 13 percent, hot or wet spots will lead to a mouldy condition that reduces germination. Wheat that was combined at under 14 percent or dried quickly and properly stored is a logical source of seed for consideration."

Wheat combined after the heavy rain may be very satisfactory. Beeson says. Swollen grains may still germinate satisfactorily although those from which the sprouts have emerged are usually dead. However, 10 percent sprouted grains cannot mean more than 10 percent reduction in the germination of the lot, and such seed may still germinate 75 percent or better and be satisfactory for planting.

Farmers are especially warned about going out of the state to obtain seed wheat. Dual, LaPorte, Vermillion and Knox lead all varieties in performance for Indiana conditions and are the superior soft red winter wheat varieties desired by the Indiana trade. Ohio also raises these soft wheat varieties, plus Seneca, but states to the west including Illinois raise a considerable acreage of Pawnee and other semi-hard to hard wheat varieties which should not be brought into Indiana for seed sources.

Certified seed of the soft varieties available in Indiana or any other state, however, is the strong recommendation of Purdue agronomists as well as members of the milling industry.

Local certified seed growers in the immediate area should be contacted first for seed supplies. Should these become exhausted then farmers and seed distributors should make a careful search locally, for wheat satisfactory for seed.

For germination testing, wheat requires a resting period for which a cold shock treatment may be a substitute.

Under conditions of 1958 it is highly important that farmers know whether their wheat can germinate. County agents, seed growers and dealers can all be helpful in assuring Indiana farmers an adequate supply of seed to plant the wheat acreage ordinarily grown in the state.

School Bus Safety

Lafayette, Ind. — Now that yellow school buses are rolling over Hoosier highways again, motorists should be thoroughly familiar with regulations covering their conduct, reminds F. R. Willsey, Purdue University safety specialist.

The buses are painted yellow in order that they will be more conspicuous on the thoroughfares.

Willsey points out that special precautions should be taken when there is a chance the school bus will be stopped out of view of the motorist because of a hill, curve, fog or rain.

Motorists are required, except on multiple-lane highways divided by a strip 20 feet or more wide, to come to a full stop at least 10 feet to the front or rear of the bus which is loading or unloading children, depending on the direction the motorist is traveling.

On such multiple-lane highways motorists need not stop if the school bus is halted on the opposite side, but should proceed with caution, Willsey says.

The safety specialist suggests that courtesy on the part of everyone will help prevent emergency situations involving school buses and motorists.

Parents can be helpful by having their children ready in plenty of time to board the bus. Bus drivers can aid by signaling intention to stop well in advance of the actual halt. And motorists should plan their travel schedules so that a slight delay because of school buses will not make them late.

Shoe Store In New Location

The Barnes Shoe Store has moved from its former location at the rear of the drug store building into a newly refurbished room just west of the Brown Jewelry Store, on Main street.

The new building affords Mr. Barnes much more room for his shoe repair equipment and the display of the large shoe stock he has on hand.

Mr. Barnes is announcing an "official opening" Friday and Saturday and extends an invitation to all to come in and visit the new store. He will have treats for the adults and gifts for the children, in addition to special values in dress or work shoes for every member of the family.

Dale Cook Barn Burns

One of the major losses from the terrific electrical storm early Tuesday morning was the Dale Cook barn, just east of Mentone on Road 25.

Mr. Cook completed his chores about 5:30 and was in town for a cup of coffee when he heard the fire alarm. Something told him he'd better get back home, and when he arrived the barn was all afire.

Evidently lightning set the entire structure afire at once. He found one 2x4 over a hundred feet from the barn, and while in flight it hit the top of a corn crib.

The barn and one shed made a building about 46x42 and another 18x30 shed also burned. The only livestock loss was one hog. The barn was full of hay and one plow and miscellaneous items burned. The loss was only partially covered by insurance.

Egg Show
Next Week

Egg Show time is rapidly approaching again, and the committee in charge of this year's event met at the school house Tuesday evening to make final plans.

The show this year promises some splendid entertainment and educational features, and with the exception of the banquet of barbecued chicken Friday evening, all is free to the public.

On Thursday evening, in addition to the selecting of an egg show queen, there will be a variety show, including the Balabanos, accordion artists, and the Varju Bros.

There will also be beautiful organ music, and a 4-H demonstration.

Friday evening's festivities will start with the now-famous egg show banquet, after which there will be the presentation of the awards, crowning of the queen and an address by Jay Gould of radio station WOWO, entitled, "Sunrise in the West," which will be a first-hand report on a world trip.

Prizes are offered in eight classes in the egg exhibits.

OUR COMPLIMENTS

We again feel impressed to extend a word of thanks to Earl Tucker for the courtesy he has shown motorists that pass along his farm at the northwest edge of Mentone. Corn is planted in the field along Road 19, and so that visibility is not impaired at the corner, Mr. Tucker and his son have planted a triangular strip, at the corner, into potatoes. Motorists can enter into the curve and still see traffic that may be approaching.

ENTERS I. U.

Elenor Norris entered Indiana University Graduate School of Journalism this week. She received an AB degree from Grace College last June.

Agronomy Field Day, Sept. 11th

Lafayette, Ind.—Corn and soybeans, two of Indiana's major agricultural crops, will be emphasized at Purdue University's annual Agronomy Field Day, Thursday, September 11.

The program will be held at the university's Agronomy farm, seven miles northwest of Lafayette on U. S. 52.

Tours will highlight the morning session. The first of these will begin at 9 a. m. Visitors will view field plots of soybean varieties, soybean diseases, corn fertility, planting variations in soybeans, harvesting losses of soybeans, corn varieties, corn diseases, dwarf corn, weed control in corn and soybeans, grain and forage sorghums.

A general riding tour of the 470 acres Agronomy farm will start at 10:45 a. m. The farm is used as a laboratory for teaching fundamentals of crop and soil science. Controlled experiments which demonstrate basic principles of crop production, soil fertility, soil management, plant breeding, soil physics and other studies associated with soil and crop science are conducted on the farm.

For persons interested particularly in corn and soybean handling and storage a special demonstration will be held before noon. G. H. Foster agricultural engineer with the U. S. Department of Agriculture stationed at Purdue, and G. W. Isaacs, Purdue agricultural engineer, will discuss the problem.

Dr. Martin G. Weiss, associate director of the crops research division, Agricultural Research service, U. S. D. A., will tell about "The Importance of Continuing Basic Research in Times of plenty" after a noon luncheon at the farm.

In case of rain shelter in the buildings on the farm will be available and a special program will be held.

Russell K. Stivers, Purdue extension agronomist, is chairman for the event, which is expected to attract approximately 1,000 farmers, fertilizer and seed dealers and other interested persons.

Swine Tour September 17th

The second annual state swine management tour, a project of the Indiana Commercial Pork Producers' Association and Purdue University's animal science department, will be held Sept. 17 in Rush and Decatur counties.

The first stop will be at the 467-acre general crop and livestock farm of Lowell O. Norris and his son, Russell. A highly specialized hog producing unit, the farm is approximately four miles southwest of Rushville just off U. S. 52.

Lunch and a brief program will be held at noon at the Rush county fair grounds. The afternoon stop will be made at the 538-acre farm of Floyd Diewert and his three sons in adjacent Decatur county. Under a multiple farrowing system, the farm produced about 1,500 pigs annually. It is nine miles north of Greensburg.

The first tour, held last year in Montgomery county, attracted more than 500 commercial hog raisers from throughout the Corn Belt.

Making arrangements for the 1958 tour is a committee headed by Dick Hougham, past president of the association and a Johnson county hog raiser. Members of the committee include Don Childress, Crawfordsville; Stanley Hurst, Manilla; Richard Hollandbeck, Purdue extension swine specialist; C. L. Spuller, Rush County agricultural agent; A. B. Scaglia, assistant Rush county agricultural agent, and Lowell Norris.

Power Lawn Mower Data

Lafayette, Ind.—Because of late summer rains, many Hoosiers will be using their power lawn mowers later than usual this year. And operating a power lawn mower can be fun, if you don't get hurt.

A rash of power lawn mower accidents points up the need to remind homeowners that carelessness is a big factor in these mishaps, says F. R. Willsey, Purdue University extension safety specialist.

The safety specialist lists these suggestions:

Study carefully the instruction manual that came with the mower.

Before you start mowing, inspect the lawn, clearing off stones, wire and other debris.

Don't operate the mower inside a building since exhaust gases from mowers contain carbon monoxide, an odorless, colorless, lethal gas.

Don't refill when the engine is hot or still running.

Safety shoes will provide foot protection.

When starting the mower, your feet are in a safe position. Keep in step with the mower for good control.

Bystanders or pets should not be in the immediate area of mowing because rotary mowers can throw debris.

Mow sideways on hills and banks. This will prevent loss of control, slipping into mower or the mower's sliding into the operator.

Disconnect the spark plug wire or the electric plug when you want to work on the underside of the mower. Keep hands, feet, and clothing away from the moving parts.

Never attempt to remove an object from the mower until the rotor has been stopped completely.

Know how to disengage the clutch or stop the engine quickly.

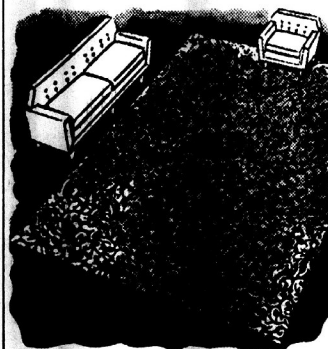

LIONS CLUB MEETING

Claude Jameson, Jr., president of the Newcastle township Lions club, has called for a special meeting Sept. 16 at 7:30 p. m. at the Hatfield Store in Talma. All members and the directors are asked to attend this called meeting in regards to making final planning for the tractor pulling contest to be held on Saturday, September 20 at the 4-H Fairgrounds at Rochester.

Fly-Free Seeding Dates

To avoid possible severe damage to their 1959 wheat crop from Hessian fly, farmers are urged by Gilbert P. Walker, Purdue University extension agronomist, to observe "fly-free" seeding dates.

These range from Sept. 22 in the northern tier of Indiana counties to September 27 in the latitude of Lafayette-Tipton-Portland; Sept. 30 in the Rockville-Indianapolis-Winchester latitude; Oct. 3 in the latitude of Sullivan-Bloomington-Greenburg and Oct. 8 in the Evansville-Rockport area.

These dates, which progress from north to south, apply to all wheat varieties but Dual. Because of its resistance to Hessian fly, Dual may be seeded from 3 to 4 weeks earlier than the dates indicated.

When well fertilized with fertilizer high in nitrogen, Dual is a heavy-stooling, leafy, fast-growing variety that can furnish very palatable and nutritious fall and winter pasture.

Experience in grazing and fall clipping trials did not reduce gain yields below the unclipped, according to Walker.

Agronomists believe that Dual may replace much of the rye used now for pasture and winter cover.

Local Youth Charged

Charges of resisting arrest and conducting himself in a rude and insolent and angry manner" were filed Saturday against Paul Blue, 18, of Mentone.

The affidavit was filed in Justice court in Warsaw. It was signed by Ed Davis, Mentone town marshal.

Marshals Davis and Clarence Brown said Saturday, after arresting Blue early that morning, that the young man made threats to kill them while they were attempting to take him into custody. However, they said he was intoxicated at the time and they did not press more serious charges.

Blue had knocked down some signs at a Mentone filling station and refused to stand them up when told to do so by Marshal Brown. He later struggled with Brown and Davis and knocked a window out of the Mentone police station.

Constitution Week

The Constitution of the United States of America was adopted September 17, 1787, was ratified June 21, 1788 and in effect March 4, 1789.

On January 5, 1956 Senator

William F. Knowland introduced the following Senate Joint Resolution 105.

"Resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That the President of the United States of America is authorized and requested to designate the period beginning September 17 and ending September 23 of each year as Constitution Week, and to issue annually a proclamation inviting the people of the United States to observe such week in schools, churches, and other suitable places with appropriate ceremonies and activities. As a patriotic organization we urge each and everyone to reread and study the Constitution of Our United States and celebrate the one hundred and seventy-first anniversary of its adoption.

We should do this in gratitude to its founders, our forefathers.

May each new generation realize its responsibility to our future citizens for the security and preservation of the United States that our Great Americans worked so hard to establish.

World's Fair Of Agriculture

More than 200,000 visitors are expected at the Warren North farm near Brookston, Indiana, Wednesday and Thursday, September 24 and 25. They will be attending the Farm Progress Show, an annual event sponsored by Prairie Farmer—WLS in cooperation with educational and civic groups and more than 200 commercial exhibitors.

The West Central Indiana

farm has been turned into a "World's Fair of Agriculture" to display and demonstrate the latest farm equipment and farming methods.

Roads leading to the show grounds have been marked and Indiana State troopers and White County police are cooperating to handle the flow of traffic to and from the farm. All roads leading to the North farm have been black-topped or oiled for safety and convenience.

A temporary air field has been opened to accommodate the more than 600 Flying Farmers' planes which are expected. The air field is located next to the show grounds and equipped to permit refueling. There is a 5,000 foot North-South runway, and Tie-down space for more than 350 planes at one time. This temporary air field has been approved by the Indiana Aeronautics Commission.

Special care has been taken to assure maximum comfort for the visitors to the show. Wells have been drilled to provide plenty of drinking water. There will be food tents which will be operated by the local churches. These churches will be allowed to keep all profits made from these food tents for use in the local community. In addition, four 1000 gallon tank trucks will provide ice water.

Demonstrations of the latest machinery, equipment, and methods will keep the visitors busy and interested all day. Entertainment will be provided by the stars of the WLS National Barn Dance and the broadcasts of the Martha Crane Show and Dinner-bell will come right from the Show Grounds.

There will be old fashioned threshing demonstrations using steam equipment and an outmoded separator which will thresh wheat that was bundled and shocked in the field this Spring.
The equipment is being provided by the Illiana Steam and Hobby Club made up of members from West Central Indiana and East Central Illinois. There will be a fire fighting demonstration conducted by firemen of the Brooks-ton area and other West Central Indiana communities. The latest in fire fighting equipment will be used in fighting fires common on farms. There will also be many demonstrations conducted in the 50 acre field of corn, including picking, grinding, shelling, shredding stalks, and plowing and discing the field.

To keep the women visitors busy there will be cooking and food demonstrations, and sewing demonstrations. There will be a style show featuring White County women as models wearing the newest outfits all made of washable fabrics. The "Prairie Lady" four level home, specially designed and completely furnished and landscaped for the show, will be of great interest to the visitors.

The show sponsors, Prairie Farmer—WLS, make no charge for entrance to the show, to any exhibit or demonstration, for parking, or for use of the air strip. The Farm Progress Show was designed to permit the visitor to see, study, and enjoy the newest developments in agricultural and homemaking equipment and products.

"Wet" Corn For Hogs

Ensiling of high moisture corn is an efficient method of handling and storing shelled corn for the swine. This fall may again bring to Indiana farmers the problem of what to do with high moisture corn.

W. M. Beeson, head of animal nutrition work at Purdue University, and J. H. Conrad, swine nutritionist, report that on the basis of three experiments there was no improvement in the nutritional value of the corn that was ensiled.

Eight percent or more of high moisture shelled corn (on the moisture equivalent basis) was required per 100 pounds of gain when compared to low moisture corn, the scientists found.

Less protein supplement was consumed when high moisture corn was compared to low moisture corn containing 11.5 percent moisture. Only small differences in the protein supplement consumption were found when the high moisture corn was compared to the low moisture corn containing more than 14 percent moisture.

Details of the experiments, conducted at Purdue's livestock experimental farm, are contained in Mimeo A. S. 244 available without charge to Indiana residents at county extension offices or by writing the agricultural publication office at Purdue University, Lafayette.

Total Patient Rehabilitation Is Kenny Foundation Objective

Minneapolis, Minn.—Teaching patients to develop to maximum use whatever muscular movement they have left, following injury or illness, is the aim of the total rehabilitation program of the Sister Elizabeth Kenny foundation, according to R. Bruce Reinecker, president.

Reinecker

Techniques originated by the late Sister Elizabeth Kenny for treatment of polio and perpetuated and developed further by the foundation bearing her name have been found effective in the care of many crippling and handicapping diseases, Reinecker pointed out.

"Important as this treatment is," he said, "it still is only one phase of the Kenny rehabilitation program for victims of neuromuscular disabilities and diseases, including polio."

"Along with treating patients to develop any remaining physical movements, our medical and other staffs seek to help them solve other problems stemming from their disabilities. Wage earners, for example, often are taught new occupations. Homemakers are instructed in household short-cuts. Children of school age attend classes while hospitalized, or are taught by a bedside teacher."

"An adaptive equipment engineer designs and creates mechanical aids for individual patients. A recreational director supervises children at play and assists adults in developing hobbies. A social worker is available to help patients and their families work out financial problems. Emotional problems are dealt with by a psychologist or psychiatrist."

The Kenny foundation's program of direct patient aid, medical research, grants to universities and individual doctors as well as support of the activities of the American Rehabilitation foundation, its subsidiary, is made possible through contributions of the public, Reinecker concluded.

Friendly Neighbors Elect

The Friendly Neighbors Home Demonstration club met Thursday, September 4, at the home of Dora Whetstone. The following new officers were elected: president, Otilie Walburn; vice-president, Myrtle Wentzel; secretary, Dora Whetstone; asst. secretary, Mary Welch; and treasurer, Golda Mollenhour.

The song of the month was "Shine on Harvest Moon." The safety lesson on Polio was given by Altha Harrold. A very interesting lesson on "Window Treatment" was ably presented by Golda Mollenhour and Maude Romine. We especially enjoyed examining samples of drapery loaned by a Warsaw store. Meditation was given by Myrtle Wentzel.

Secret Pal gifts were presented to Dora Whetstone, Helen McGinnis and Ellener Manwaring.

Cooling refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by Rhoda Jones.

Club members are urged to remember the next meeting at Otta Walburn's on October 2.

Soybeans — Sell or Store?

A Purdue University agricultural marketing specialist declares that "if the harvest time price of soybeans is more than 15 cents below the loan rate of $2.09 a bushel, storage probably will be advantageous."

W. S. Farris says that soybean prices at harvest are expected to average 15 to 25 cents below the loan rate. And, he adds, the anticipated bumper crop, coupled with a record carryover from 1957, probably will keep prices from "ranging much above the loan rate later in the season."

Prices will probably be lowest in October and then rise gradually until the spring or early summer of 1959, the economist asserts. Mid-month prices received by Indiana farmers in the past season moved from $2.05 a bushel in October to $2.18 in April.

For the record, Farris lists mid-month soybean prices in Indiana since 1950 for October and for the following April:

Crop year	1950, October	1951, October	1952, October	1953, October	1954, October	1955, October	1956, October	1957, October
Price	$2.03	$2.64	$2.72	$2.41	$2.57	$2.09	$2.07	$2.05

April $2.18.

Farris says storage costs will average 12 to 15 cents a bushel not including the cost of storage space. The cost includes extra handling, interest, insurance, taxes and losses.

WRITES FROM KOREA

15 Sept. 1958

Dear Sirs:

I would like to take this opportunity to tell you how very much I appreciate receiving the home town paper. It means a great deal to me to be able to read about the folks at home.

I certainly appreciate the bother you have gone to in order to send it to me by Air Mail. I am sure many parents and friends would be more than willing to pay for Air Mail postage if they realized it takes only 5 to 7 days to receive it by Air Mail as compared to from 4 to 6 weeks by ordinary mail. It means so much to get the News while it is still news.

Army duty in Korea has much to be desired, but I have found it quite interesting and educational. It certainly makes one appreciate their American citizenship.

Thanks again for the paper and your bother to send it Air Mail.

Sincerely,
BETTY G. FLORY

SHERIFF NORRIS WAS LIONS CLUB SPEAKER

Sheriff Lawrence Norris, of Fulton county, was the featured speaker at the Mentone Lions Club meeting last Wednesday evening. Sheriff Norris made a very fine talk regarding some of the serious, and sometimes humorous, situations a sheriff encounters in the performance of his duties. He also gave statistics which stated that 85 per cent of all crime in the nation is directly attributed to the use of alcoholic beverages, and as is usually the case, a law enforcement official that attempts to be impartial, is frequently viciously attacked by various and sundry unscrupulous persons and organizations.

The address was well received by the fine gathering. (In the News' report of the meeting in its last issue, mention of the speaker was "lost" in the brevity of time between the closing of the meeting and the printing of the paper.—Ed.)

MARRIED SEPT. 12

Miss Nancy Ann Hatfield, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Hatfield of Bourbon, was married to Marvin Wayne Romine, son of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Romine, Mentone, Rev. D. E. The young couple is now residing in Bourbon.

The bride graduated from the Bourbon school in 1957, and attended Purdue university prior to being employed as a pay roll clerk at the Orthopedic Equipment Co. Mr. Romine graduated from Mentone in 1954, and served three years in the armed forces. He is now employed at the Northern Indiana Cooperative Association at Mentone.

DESCRIPTIVE WRITING IN LONG, LONG AGO

Harold Utter found the following clipping among many which his mother had been saving for many years. There is no indication of the date of publication of the following marriage announcement, but it must have been a long time ago. The article reads:

Last Sunday evening, August 19th, in the presence of a few friends, at the pleasant farm residence of the bride, miles southwest of Akron, Mr. William and Mrs. Nancy were united in the holy bonds of matrimony. The groom was a bachelor of pleasant address, is well known by everybody in this county as an honest and kindly man, while the bride was the widow of the late and has plenty of this world's goods to keep them both without much exertion on their part. She is a kindly old lady and is possessed of a host of friends and will do her part towards making life pleasant for the balance of their days as will also Mr. we have double assurances. They will occupy the farm on which they were married and Mr. will look after the farm of which she has three and attend to her other financial matters perfectly satisfactory. Though she is ten years his senior yet it is a most compatible marriage as their tastes are both simple and common and their wants are few and easily satisfied.

After the ceremony and the customary congratulations, the guests, consisting of were invited to the dining room where an elegant repast was in waiting and to which due homage was paid. The News extends long life and prosperity to the contracting parties.

Mr. and Mrs. Artley Cullum and son, Jon and Mr. and Mrs. Tom Harman and two children spent Sunday afternoon at the Fred Carey home at Tippecanoe lake at a family gathering. Others present were Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Lancaster and family of South Whitley, Mr. and Mrs. Milo Pearce and son Robert of Park Ridge, Ill., and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Cullum and son and Mrs. Dorothea Cullum of Franklin Park, Ill., and Mr. and Mrs. Verne Hedlund and family of Logansport.

Hogs Need Supplement

It will pay farmers to continue to feed protein supplement to hogs turned into corn fields this fall, according to Richard Holandbeck and George Thrasher, Purdue University extension swine specialists.

Most hogs turned in corn fields are fairly large, causing some producers to ask whether they should feed protein supplement to these animals. A summary of 13 experiments conducted throughout the Corn Belt indicates that supplement will pay dividends.

Here are some results obtained: Pigs receiving supplement gained one-half pound more per head each day. Each bushel of corn produced 4.5 pounds more pork when supplement was fed. Each pound of supplement saved 6.4 pounds of corn.

Seward Twp. Farm Bureau

The Seward Township Farm Bureau met at the Franklin School on September 16. The meeting was opened with group singing led by Mrs. Murphy and Mrs. Roy Goshert at the piano. Jackie Pfeiffer played a piano solo. Minutes of the last meeting were read and approved.

Chairman Murphy announced that he had tickets for the chicken-bar-b-cue to be held October 3rd starting at 5:45. This is to be a county wide meeting.

He then turned the meeting over to the resolutions committee consisting of Howard Silveus, as chairman, Delford Nelson, secretary, and Ray Hathaway. Six Resolutions were presented to the group for discussion and approval. They were: (1) More and better research on how to market our commodities; (2) Steady price support and maintain soil bank plan; (3) Develop firm policy to hold down assessments for taxes; (4) to have a year around season on raccoon, beaver, and deer, north of Indianapolis; (5) To have banks turn over inactive funds to local school funds; and (6) To have serial numbers and the distributor's names printed on carry out beer cans. The above resolutions were adopted and are to be sent to the county resolutions committee. Two other resolutions were made from the floor; one by Mr. Murphy for a hospital insurance policy covering all age groups alike and another by Mrs. Pfeiffer for a county bookmobile. Both were approved for county presentation. Mrs. Pfeiffer also stated she felt that unjust actions and favoritism were being shown by various A. S. C. offices. She endeavored to point out a few things that had been done to justify her opinion. Many times businesses, organizations, etc., get honorable members of a community to endorse them when that person is not cognizant of what actually goes on sometimes. The meeting was a worthwhile and important one. Mr. Nelson, Mr. Silveus, and Mr. Hathaway are to be commended on the fine work they did in presenting all this to the group.

The meeting adjourned and refreshments were served by the committee.

Pvt. Devon Davis arrived home Thursday from Camp Pendleton near Santiago, California for a twenty day furlough.
