Fire Destroys Farm Tractor

Fire Thursday night about 8 o'clock destroyed a tractor belonging to Wilbert Utter, R. R. 1, Mentone. Utter's 16-year-old son, Ronnie, was operating the tractor at the time of the fire.

Young Utter told Mentone firemen, who were summoned to the Utter farm near Mentone, that he had filled the gas tank on the tractor and had just walked away when the fire broke out.

The tractor, a 1953 model, has an estimated value of $1,200.

Belle Beeber Buried Thursday

Cynthia Belle Beeber, 81, of 622 Madison St., Rochester, died at 5:45 a. m. Tuesday in the Woodlawn hospital where she has been a patient since March 21. Miss Beeber has resided in Rochester for over 50 years, coming to Rochester from Argos.

She was born September 7, 1873 on a farm near Tiosa, to George and Ann (Shere) Beeber. Miss Beeber was a dress maker and seamstress for Rochester clothing establishments.

A few distant relatives survive. Funeral services were held Thursday afternoon at 2 p. m. at the Zimmerman Brothers Funeral home at Rochester. Dr. Claude Young of the Grace Methodist Church officiated. Burial was made in the Rochester Mausoleum.

Parents of Daughter

Cpl. and Mrs. Ward Ladd, of Shreveport, La., are parents of an 8 lb. daughter born March 30. The new baby has been named Debra Lynn.

Mr. and Mrs. William Ladd, of Warsaw, are the paternal grandparents. Mr. and Mrs. Ed Meredith are the maternal grandparents.

DO YOU AGREE?

Mahlon Mentzer, one of the old timers of the Mentone area, has mentioned on various occasions that he would like to do something in memory of a man who did much to build the town of Mentone. He has said that this individual worked day after day, week after week, year after year making sewer tile, digging sewers, and other work, with very little pay in comparison with the labor involved, and he lies today in our cemetery without even a marker to indicate the place.

If you think it proper to erect a marker at the graves of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Mollenhour, then speak to Mr. Mentzer about it, and hand him a contribution.

Mrs. William
McFadden Dies

Mrs. William (Coral) McFadden, 54, of Route 1, Tippecanoe, died at 7:46 p. m. Thursday at the Woodlawn hospital, Rochester, of complications. She had been ill for six months and seriously ill since Tuesday.

Mrs. McFadden was born in Argos September 26, 1900, and had resided in the Argos-Tippecanoe community all her life. She was married February 1, 1926, to William McFadden and was a member of the Argos American Legion Auxiliary.

Survivors include her husband; one daughter, Mrs. Wilmer (Joyce) Harley, of Argos; three brothers, Ray Miller, of Koontz lake, Earl Miller, of Knox, and Harold Miller of Anderson; and one sister, Mrs. A. C. (Mary) Synder, of Argos.

Funeral services were held at 2 p. m. Saturday at the Robbins funeral home, Bourbon, with Rev. John Boase, pastor of the Argos Methodist church, officiating. Burial was in the Tippecanoe cemetery.

AWARD WATCHES

DAILY MEALS

An advertisement will be found elsewhere in this issue announcing that Mr. and Mrs. George Osman are serving meals at their home at the west edge of Mentone.

Free Ham and Egg
Supper Next Tuesday

Next Tuesday evening will be the big night for the farm families of the area when they are invited to a free ham and egg banquet at the Co-Op. mill. A large circus-type tent will be used to protect everyone in case of inclement weather.

The affair is sponsored jointly by the Co-Op. Mill and the feed department of Swift & Co., and a crowd of nearly three thousand people are expected to be present. Ninety Swift Premium hams have been ordered to feed the guests. Business people of Mentone, and their families, are also invited to be the guests of the feed dealers sponsoring the affair.

Fifteen charcoal furnaces will be used to cook the ham and the eggs and men and women of the community are helping in the cooking, cracking, slicing and serving.

Serving will start at 5:30 so all can be fed leisurely in time for the program that will follow. Come and join the crowd Tuesday evening, April 12th at Mentone.

Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Hatfield and grandson, Phil Hatfield, of Whiting, and Mrs. P. A. Hatfield of Star City, were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Hatfield and son Larry.

Special Issue for Bell Library Dedication

Our next issue will be a special one for the dedication of the new Lawrence D. Bell Library at the Mentone school. The library was made possible by a contribution of $5,000.00 by Mr. Bell, and the efforts of the Harrison township trustee, advisory board and local citizens who have worked so hard to get the library ready for use. It is located in one end of the high school assembly and is beautifully finished and furnished.

The special issue will go to many new readers, and it is very likely that we at the News office will either send two papers to a reader, or perhaps miss him entirely. We'll make every effort to not miss a person, but if it does happen that you fail to receive our next issue, we sincerely hope you will notify us and one will be sent to you.

Our New Style

The publishers, with the able help of their printers, are endeavoring to improve the appearance and service of your newspaper, and this is the first issue to include major changes. Another column has been added to each page, and the columns have been lengthened. Other changes are in the making, and with the revision of almost everything in its production, we cannot hope to have attained perfection on the first try.

We've certainly appreciated the many congratulatory expressions we have received, and we trust all the "best wishes" will all come true. We've also appreciated the fine response of the readers in sending or bringing in their subscription renewals.

and exceed the acreage planted to wheat and oats. Therefore, Purdue University agronomists warn Indiana farmers to check their soybeans for germination again this year to help maintain this high yield.

Soybeans are more variable this year than they were in 1954, according to current tests made at Purdue. While stands last spring were reduced in many fields by low germinating seed, seed growing conditions in June resulted in vigorous branching that soon filled the open spaces. Whether nature will be as kind again this year cannot be forecast, but farmers can help the situation by planting the highest germinating seed available.

Germinating power of seed testing around 60 per cent can be improved by seed treatment, but the use of high quality seed is preferable.

Since the annual value of the soy bean crop exceeds 100 million dollars, use of superior varieties and excellent farming practices are all important. Development of the soybean processing industry, the use of meal for livestock and the oil for human food have contributed to the rapid expansion of soybean production in Indiana.

Therefore, use of high quality seed, a well prepared seed bed, adequately limed soil, inoculation use of 100 pounds of starter fertilizer and weed control preceding planting help soybeans get a better start.

Most widely used varieties in Indiana are Hawkeye in the west central, Lincoln in east and south central, and Wabash in the southwestern section. Excessive multiplication of certified seed of Harosoy and Clark will enable interested farmers to use these two varieties this year. Clark out-yields all varieties grown in Indiana, according to Purdue tests. Since it is a week later than Lincoln, it is limited for extensive use to the southern half of the state.

The Harosoy variety of soybeans can be used wherever the Hawkeye variety is adapted and is slightly earlier and more disease resistant. In northwestern Indiana, Harosoy has out-yielded the Hawkeye. The earlier Blackhawk and very early Mandarin while lower yielding, can be used on muck or for delayed planting in northern Indiana.

Southern Indiana farmers still grow the black Kingwa for good quality soybean hay, but yellow varieties of satisfactory oil content for oil mill processing are now grown extensively in that section. While the Wabash and Clark lead all yellow varieties in popularity, small acreages of the Perry, and several later varieties are grown.

Names of growers of registered seed of all varieties mentioned in this article are available at the office of the county extension agent.

BUILDING OF FARM PONDS BECOMING MORE POPULAR

Lafayette, Ind.—Is your farm pond simply a recreational center or a source of water supply for home and farm? Because of increasing water consumption and occasional drought periods, more and more Hoosier farmers are building farm ponds which serve as emergency reservoirs, a source of water for irrigation and livestock, and domestic use.

However, there are certain conditions which govern the construction and usage of farm ponds.

First, anyone wishing to build a pond for irrigation purposes should keep in mind that the water supply of an average farm pond is limited. According to Donald Sisson, agricultural engineer at Purdue University, a one-acre pond with an average depth of four feet will irrigate only three or four acres.

Second, if a farm pond is to be the source of water for the farm home, the water must be properly purified. This will involve the use of filtration equipment and the addition of a purification chemical, such as chlorine.

Third, the pond must be located so as to take full advantage of the watershed area and built to minimize evaporation. Although it is more convenient to have the farm pond located near the buildings, it is sometimes necessary to construct it some distance from the farmstead. Deep water is desirable in the pond so that evaporation loss will not be too great. A water depth of at least ten feet in the deepest part of the pond is recommended. A one acre pond will usually lose three to four feet of water in a year from evaporation.

The pond watershed should range in size from eight to twenty acres per acre of pond area, and should be protected by woodland or good grass cover to reduce the hazard of siltation. Clear water is always desirable. There should be no possible sources of contamination such as drainage from septic tanks, cesspools or barnyards, adds Sisson.

A pond, to be used as the farm water supply, should be a permanent installation; therefore, it is extremely important that the pond be properly designed and constructed. On the water side of the dam the slope should be three feet horizontal to one foot vertical, but on the other side of the dam a slope ratio of 2 to 1 is permissible. If the watershed area totals more than ten acres, there should be both a pipe spillway and grass spillway.

With a sound and thorough job of planning completed, preparation should be started on the dam by removing stumps and boulders from the base area. Next construct a core trench or key along the center-line of the base of dam and backfill with good fill material. The dam should be built up in thin, even layers and packed. A new dam will usually settle five to ten per cent, so add that much additional height. To keep the dam from washing out after storms, consideration must be given to installation of the proper size and type spillways.

The Purdue engineer makes 2 final suggestions. First, seed the dam and disturbed area to grass; second, fence the pond to exclude livestock.

For further information concerning the building of a farm pond, ask your county agent for Purdue extension bulletin 369, entitled "Farm Ponds."

DAIRY RATIONS NEED ADDITIONAL ROUGHAGE

Lafayette, Ind.—Recent data released by the Bureau of Agricultural Economics estimates the average consumption of hay equivalent per cow fed in Indiana to be 2.6 tons or 5,200 pounds, which is less than the national average of 2.8 tons per cow. G. A. Williams, extension dairyman at Purdue University, suggests ways to overcome this roughage shortage, and cites examples of prove the value of feeding more roughage.

Williams' suggestions include construction of more silos for herds of 10 or more cows, ensile any surplus grass that may not be needed for grazing during the flush pasture season, fertilize hay crops liberally to increase yields per acre, reduce harvesting and shortage losses to a minimum, and rotate pastures, which usually increases carrying power, and use remaining acreage for hay.

A look at last year's records in the Grant County Dairy Herd Improvement Association will also prove the advantage of roughage, says Williams. The 19 highest producing dairy herds in that association consumed an average of 5,980 pounds of hay equivalent per cow. The next 19 highest producers were given only 5,497 lbs. of roughage per cow. The remaining 19 dairy herds were fed 4,876 pounds of roughage per cow, (one ton of hay equals 3 tons of silage).

Here are the results. Each of the 19 top herds exceeded 435 pounds of butterfat per cow, (350 pounds of butterfat per cow annually is considered necessary to return market prices for feed and labor.) In the 19 lowest producing herds only nine herds exceeded 350 pounds of butterfat per cow.

BULLETIN AVAILABLE ON FARMSTEAD IMPROVEMENT

Lafayette, Ind.—A good farm manager devotes a large share of time to developing his livestock and crop programs, but at the same time keeps a sharp eye on the rest of his operation. Strange as it may seem to some people, the alert farmer considers the continuous improvement of his farmstead a logical part of good farm management. He feels the same way about soil conservation.

However, when it comes to his own home and grounds, the farmer gets a slightly different return on his investment than he does from building a terrace or sod waterway. He improves his farmstead in order to give the family a healthier and more enjoyable place to live. He also plans the farmstead for maximum efficiency and best use.

A good farmstead plan should make supervision for traffic, proper location of buildings, protection for the water supply, and adequate sewage disposal. Hoosier farm families who are thinking about making changes in their present farmstead are urged to obtain a copy of Mimeo HO-35 on "Farmstead Improvement." This publication has been prepared by Purdue University horticulturalists.

It offers illustrations of well-planned farmsteads, and brief discussions on such things as how to plan an entrance driveway and how to solve the flat wet barnyard problem. Mimeo HO-35 is available from the county extension agent's office, (Indiana only) or by writing to agricultural publications office at Purdue University.

VACUUM CLEANERS NEED PROPER CARE

Lafayette, Ind.—Give the vacuum cleaner proper care and avoid trouble when it is needed most. When the housewife is busy, it can be annoying for the vacuum to fail to pick up dust.

A vacuum cleaner is one of the most used pieces of equipment in the home but often one of the most neglected. Miss Gertrude Monhaut, extension home management specialist at Purdue University, recommends that homemakers study the instruction booklet carefully and keep it in a convenient place for reference. With each cleaner, the manufacturer supplies a booklet giving detailed information on the use and care of the cleaner and its various attachments.

To insure good service at all times, Miss Monhaut offers the following suggestions on vacuum cleaner care: Empty the dirt-collecting container after each use. Otherwise, the vacuum will have less power for suction and will fail to pick-up dirt and dust. After using the vacuum for six to eight weeks, give special care to the dust bag, turn it inside out and brush it free of loose dust clinging to the fabric. Never wash a vacuum cleaner dust bag. If the cleaner has a paper lining inside the cloth bag, change the paper bag as soon as the quantity of pick-up dirt reaches the factory-marked line for refill. Wash attachment brushes and nozzles frequently to avoid smudging wallpaper, draperies or upholstery fabric with soiled attachments.

Nozzles of some cleaners adjust automatically to the rug but others require hand-or foot-adjustment. Make sure the nozzle clings to the rug when using the cleaner.

If the cleaner is the type which has a belt to turn the rotating brushes, check this belt for tightness and worn places. It may also be necessary to replace it.

Vacuum cleaners with brushes also should be checked at various intervals for needed replacement or adjustments. Bristles do wear off, and if they are not long enough to touch the rug, they will not do a thorough job of cleaning.

Miss Monhaut cautions homemakers to avoid running the cleaner over pins, tacks or other hard substances because they may damage the cleaner.

THREE WEEKS REMAIN ON MULTIPLE SCLEROSIS DRIVE

With only three weeks remaining in the first fund drive of the Indiana Multiple Sclerosis Society to fight crippling MS, officials have called for increased support to reach the $35,000 goal. The campaign ends April 30.

Although contributions in the preliminary stages of the drive have amounted to less than $10,000, a note of optimism was sounded by Irving Lemaux, Jr., and Mrs. David Lurvey, co-chairman of the state society at headquarters in Indianapolis.

"Some $7,000 received to date early this week gives every indication that the public will continue to do its part to provide the $35,000 we need to continue medical research into the cause of MS and to provide desperately needed services for patients," they said.

If the goal is reached, the society—which is only one year old—plans to expand the research now going on at the Indiana University Medical Center in Indianapolis. It also will provide financial assistance for patients.

Contributions are being received from individuals and groups in most every section of the state. Women's clubs have given the fund a big boost and business firms and civic leaders have made large gifts. MS patients, themselves, are contributing.

"We are anxious to have the help of everyone, regardless of how small the contribution," fund officials said. "The $1 contributions are as welcome as the $100 gifts."

The fund campaign is for the entire state because residents in every part of Indiana will benefit from the society's battle to find a cure for MS.

Multiple Sclerosis is a paralyzing disease of the central nervous system. It usually strikes young adults between 20 and 40 years old. Victims usually are confined to a wheel chair or to bed for life.

Contributions may be mailed to the Indiana Multiple Sclerosis Society, 322 English Foundation Building, 615 N. Alabama St., Indianapolis, or to MS, care of the local postmaster.

VACUUM CLEANERS NEED PROPER CARE

Lafayette, Ind.—Give the vacuum cleaner proper care and avoid trouble when it is needed most. When the housewife is busy, it can be annoying for the vacuum to fail to pick up dust.

A vacuum cleaner is one of the most used pieces of equipment in the home but often one of the most neglected. Miss Gertrude Monhaut, extension home management specialist at Purdue University, recommends that homemakers study the instruction booklet carefully and keep it in a convenient place for reference. With each cleaner, the manufacturer supplies a booklet giving detailed information on the use and care of the cleaner and its various attachments.

To insure good service at all times, Miss Monhaut offers the following suggestions on vacuum cleaner care: Empty the dirt-collecting container after each use. Otherwise, the vacuum will have less power for suction and will fail to pick-up dirt and dust. After using the vacuum for six to eight weeks, give special care to the dust bag, turn it inside out and brush it free of loose dust clinging to the fabric. Never wash a vacuum cleaner dust bag. If the cleaner has a paper lining inside the cloth bag, change the paper bag as soon as the quantity of pick-up dirt reaches the factory-marked line for re-fill. Wash attachment brushes and nozzles frequently to avoid smudging wallpaper, draperies or upholstery fabric with soiled attachments.

Nozzles of some cleaners adjust automatically to the rug but others require hand-or foot-adjustment. Make sure the nozzle clings to the rug when using the cleaner.

If the cleaner is the type which has a belt to turn the rotating brushes, check this belt for tightness and worn places. It may also be necessary to replace it.

Vacuum cleaners with brushes also should be checked at various intervals for needed replacement or adjustments. Bristles do wear off, and if they are not long enough to touch the rug, they will not do a thorough job of cleaning.

Miss Monhaut cautions homemakers to avoid running the cleaner over pins, tacks or other hard substances because they may damage the cleaner.

AUDREY MILLER.

Junior Class Play April 15 and 16

Stephen Santry, an author, inherits a small farm in the Missouri Ozarks, from an eccentric old uncle. Since Stephen is at his wits' end to know what to do with his family (who, he fears, have lost their grasp on the fundamental values of life), he hits upon the bold plan to have them visit him on the newly-acquired farm, whence he has gone in an effort to woo the writing muse which his troubles in Chicago have frightened away.

The family arrives. There is no thought in their minds, of course, that the trip is to be more than a pleasure jaunt. Some time after their arrival, after Stephen has become exasperated with their reactions to his hospitality, he sweeps aside the barriers of many years, and in one stroke issues the ultimatum that he who wants food and raiment must work for it, consternation reigns. Be sure to see "New Fires," a comedy in three acts, to be presented by the Junior class of Mentone, April 15 and 16.

Minstrel Show A Big Success

It's very difficult to make just two little words, "Thank You," really express the gratitude that we, as a committee, feel toward every person that helped produce the Mentone minstrel show. Not only has it proven to us that the Mentone community has the talent within itself to produce good entertainment, but that the cooperation that is needed between the people and the school is what it should be to make it a progressive community.

The minstrel show cast gave much time and effort in practicing—and enjoyed it tremendously. They received their "thank you" when they saw the gym fill up two nights in a row. There is no feeling quite like it—being a member of a show, sacrificing other things to practice and make it a success, having a big crowd the first night, and the second night, standing unseen to the audience, watching and thinking—who is left to come again tonight? By curtain time the gym is full again! It doesn't seem possible, but it's true. That's the inspiration for another good performance and the "thank you" for the time and effort spent.

Our most sincere appreciation to the community, and for your cooperation in making the minstrel a success.

The money received amounted to $483.55. The expenses to put on a show are necessary, too, and were: Country Print Shop $15.25 for tickets, posters, signboard and paper for programs; Denton's Drug Store $3.43 and Coopers' $9.28 for gloves and supplies; Ferns and Avis, costumes, $36.40; Lake City Candy Co., candy $4.30; Times-Union, $6.00, advertising; 75c for blackface makeup; Omer Morrison, $5.00, janitor service; Mentone school for paper and supplies $2.77; Louis Breathing $30 for directing the show. This totalled $113.18, leaving a balance of $370.37.

There are a number who deserve special thanks: Rev. David Gosser, Dale Whitehead, and especially our pianist, Miss Jolaine Smyth; Orpha Kurtz for painting the backdrapery and drum cover, and all the committee chairmen. Our most sincere appreciation to Louis "Peanuts" Breathing, our director of the show.

Last, but surely not least, the Country Print Shop. All the publicity given us in the Co-Op. paper about the minstrel show. All that—for free! Thank you very much, Art!

Thanks also to Mr. Bunnell's classes for printing programs and show script, and Mr. Weiss and Mr. Bunnell for getting the stage ready for the show.

We've heard lots of rumors about a minstrel show next year. That's our thanks for a job we knew could be done well.

YOU EAT 410 POUNDS OF DAIRY FOODS ANNUALLY

Americans consumed almost 87 billion pounds of dairy foods (or about 410 pounds per capita) in 1954.

This represents, in spite of enormous population increases, a 7 per cent rise in per person consumption of milk and milk products since before World War II.

Nationally, the 7 per cent gain means Americans placed 4½ billion more pounds of dairy foods on the family table than they would have at the 1935-39 average annual rate of 382 pounds per capita.

What about the "surplus"? Milk production on the farm (123.5 billion pounds) exceeded human consumption in 1954 by only 28 quarts of milk per person. Statisticians say an extra gulp a day per person would have handled it.

Comparing 1954 with 1953, sales of fluid milk and cream, butter cheese and nonfat dry milk solids showed gains—with evaporated and condensed milks and ice cream only slightly down.

But over the long haul, all dairy foods except butter have made substantial gains in usage on the family table. And butter has reversed the downward trend that has persisted over the past several years, rising to 9 pounds per capita in 1954 after a record of 8.6 pounds in both 1952 and 1953.

DID YOU KNOW?

* There are 2.15 pounds of milk in a quart.

* 4.6 pounds of milk are used to make a gallon of ice cream.

* One pound of butter uses the fat from about 20 pounds of milk.

* One pound of cheese uses about 10 pounds of milk.

(some differences depending on varieties of cheese.)

* One pound of evaporated milk uses 2.2 pounds of milk.

* It takes 100 pounds of milk to make 12.5 pounds of dry whole milk.

* One hundred pounds of separated (nonfat) milk are need to make 9 pounds of nonfat dry milk solids.

By Ruth Snellenberger

Dear 4-H Members and Friends,

Today I'd like to CHAT about division II of the 4-H clothing project. Even though I've discussed this some in a previous column, additional information I'd like to give inasmuch as bad weather prevented many leaders from attending the last adult leader meeting.

First I'd like to review the requirements for division II. Every girl is required to make a skirt of cotton material and a choice of one of the following: a tea or hand towel hemmed by hand, or a pillow case, or a blouse. In addition each girl is to sew on six buttons (any garments where buttons have come off but are not to be exhibited), is to learn to buy ankle socks, and is to complete the record.

A question was asked recently, "If a girl makes a blouse, does she need to exhibit?" The answer could be "yes" or it could be "no." "Yes", if the blouse is the article the member has chosen to do and it is the only one of those choice articles made. If a girl should decide to do all of those articles, she could select any one of them to exhibit with skirt. The answer thereby sums up to this: One of the choice articles besides the skirt must be exhibited.

In order to help leaders and mothers know some recommended styles of skirts and blouses, I've looked in pattern books of our local stores and listed pattern numbers which are believed to be suitable. There may be others but here are the ones I particularly noticed. For simple blouses: Simplicity 4434 and 3874; Butterick 6886, McCall 9651, 9841, and 3085. For skirts: Simplicity 4657, 4850, 4083, and 4375; Butterick 7258, 6889, and 5884; McCall 3089. Perhaps I should explain that some of these skirts have more complicated versions; however the simpler styles are recommended.

Something else that is being done to help 4-H members and mothers as well as leaders is that skirts of three different styles and blouses of two different styles will be available for illustration and inspection in the local clubs by April 11 or thereafter. These are currently under construction to show some ways of doing things as well as to show styles. Local clubs may request them from the county extension office. Of course it will be necessary that they be returned immediately after the club meeting.

In regard to the Craft project it was decided the girls would follow the recommendations set up by the standards committee last fall, thereby using the requirements as set up in the blue craft record book. Any leaders having extra copies are asked to send or bring them to the county extension office. Likewise anyone needing craft record books should inform the home office of write me.

Also, the new clothing II project bulletins are available now at the county extension office.

Don't forget the Share-The-Fun Festival, Monday night, April 11, for any 4-H'er. If you do any type of good entertainment, send your entry to county extension office by April 9, and then be present by 8:00 p. m. at the Woman's Building on the Fairgrounds, Warsaw, to do your stuff.

The members and friends of the Summit Chapel Church would like to have you worship with them Easter Sunday at a Sunrise Service to be held at a spot that is closer to heaven than any other place in Marshall County; namely at the Summit Chapel on top of the hill.

Our Sunrise Services will start at 7:00 a. m. and last until around 8 a. m. Following that, we invite you to be our guests at a breakfast to be served in the basement of our church. This will give up an opportunity to meet one another and to become just a little more neighborly.

Hoping to see you Easter Sunday morning at 7:30 a. m. on top of the hill.

The pictures were taken by the Zekan & Robbins photographers, Harlan, Iowa, and are all of farms in the Mentone trading area. The pictures are not identified and it will be up to the owners or neighbors to notify this newspaper office. The pictures were taken by airplane and not even the photographer knows one from the other. It will be interesting to see who is the first to identify the pictures each week. Phone Mentone 38. We will endeavor to publish the names of each person correctly identifying the pictures each week.

The farm owner will be given the original 5 x 7 mounted picture absolutely free of any cost. All we require is that the operator himself come to our office and give us a little information about the farm, its operation, etc. Additional prints, colored enlargements, etc. can be obtained by contacting this newspaper.

Farm Picture Not Identified

No one called to identify the farm we pictured in our last issue. Did you recognize it? If so, we would appreciate hearing from you.

The farm pictures are printed as a special service of this newspaper, and we're sure each reader finds it interesting to see if he can recognize them. Many, perhaps do recognize them, but most of us do not take the time necessary to call the News office.

DOG TROUBLE HERE AGAIN

Spring invariably brings with it the problem of stray dogs, and indications are there will be little change from former years. As citizens start their gardens and decorative flowers and shrubbery then the dogs become more of a problem.

There have been a few dogs roaming about the town in recent months, but the situation was considerably relieved last year when a few of the dogs were placed on the "missing dog" list.

Death for an innocent dog is a rather cruel method, but the behavior of its owner is worse in that the owner shows no respect for the animal—or his neighbors—when he permits it to roam at large. No citizen has any basis for condemning any law enforcement official for disposing of a dog that roams about the town habitually. (It isn't the proper thing to penalize a dog that is properly kept at home all the time and then accidentally gets loose, but a "dog about town" is soon well known as such.)

Spring also brings with it the opportunity of our youngsters to get out in the open and try out the "shooting irons." All goes well until the boy forgets his training of respect and safety and starts shooting at song birds, windows, and other targets destined for destruction. The admonition of a parent "to be careful" is certainly a weak excuse for a parent. If a parent cannot give the boy more information than this, then he should certainly keep the gun out of the boy's hands until he can find an individual that will teach the boy the respect a gun deserves. Most boys, when they know what to do, will come pretty close to doing the proper thing.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Nelson and family were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Moore of Rochester, Sunday afternoon and evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Rickel returned home from Florida last Tuesday.

Reader Agrees

Dear Mr. Cullum:

In your paper last week there was an article headed, "Do you Agree?"

I most certainly do. I can well remember when Ed Mollenhour was marshal, when it snowed all cross walks were cleaned off, you didn't have to wade through slush to get across the street.

When the big sewer was put in he with the help of Ed Hickman and possibly another or two did it the hard way.

They would make those large cement tile and while they were curing would dig a few more rods then put them in, sometimes they had to curb the ditch to keep it from caving on them.

After the sewer was completed with catch basins attached, these were kept clean, you didn't see dirt and debris over the top for weeks at a time.

This man did a lot of hard work and was interested in the welfare of Mentone.

He never was paid a very large wage. I doubt if he ever got over 20 cents per hour.

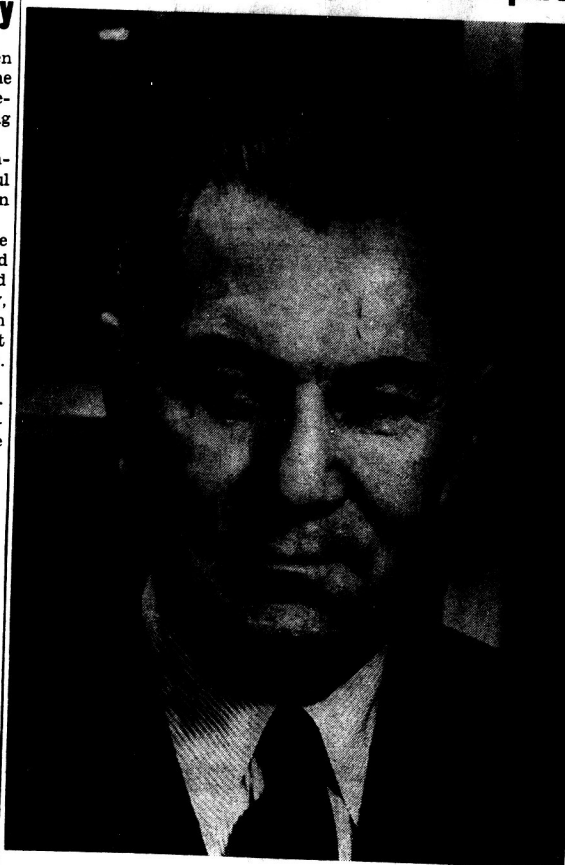

The citizens of Mentone should consider it a privilege to contribute to the fund for a marker for him and his wife.

It should not be necessary for anyone to have to ask for a contribution, and people should be proud of the fact that one who faithfully performed his task has at last received recognition.

I am enclosing a small contribution for this cause.

Sincerely,

ONE WHO KNOWS

Antibiotic Feeding For "Slow" Pigs

Lafayette, Ind.—"Don't give up hope on those 'tail-end' or runt pigs," says J. H. Conrad, Purdue University animal husbandry department. Results of a feeding trial conducted recently at Purdue by Conrad and W. M. Beeson, animal husbandry department, indicate that high-level feeding of antibiotics may stimulate rate of gain of "tail-enders."

Conrad says that the greatest advantage of high-level antibiotic feeding has been obtained during periods of stress. This stress may be due to undesirable microorganisms which impair the health of the animal, or it may be due to improper feeding and management practices during certain critical periods in the animal's life.

"Tail-end" pigs, in general, are animals which do not gain normally when fed according to generally accepted feeding practices. In the experiment conducted at Purdue, 40 "tail-end" pigs, averaging 30 pounds at 9-10 weeks of age as compared to 45 pounds for their littermates, were divided into 4 groups of 10 pigs each. Prior to the start of this 42 day trial all pigs had received a well-balanced ration containing 20 milligrams of antibiotics per pound of feed.

Lot one was fed a well-balanced ration containing no antibiotic. Lots two, three, and four received basically the same ration plus antibiotic. Lot two received 15 grams, lot three 50 grams, and lot four 100 grams aureomycin per ton of feed.

Results of this feeding trial indicate that levels of antibiotic feeding may be too low to produce a significant growth response when fed to "tail-end" pigs. However, when slow gaining pigs were fed high levels of antibiotic in this trial (50 or 100 grams per ton) they gained significantly faster than those fed no antibiotics or usual levels of antibiotics.

For more detailed information on high-level treatments with antibiotics, swine producers should write to the agricultural experiment station mailing room, Purdue University, and ask for A. H. Mimeo 141.

Twenty-four per cent of all drivers involved in fatal auto accidents in the U. S. last year were under 25 years old.

IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE

Plan Health Program With Farm Schedule

Lafayette, Ind.—Rural families need to plan their health programs as carefully as they do their farming schedules.

George Nuffer, rural health specialist at Purdue University says that developing a plan for maintaining and improving health is important because much of the responsibility for good health must be assumed by the family.

"Major credit for our progress in the prevention and control of diseases and in prolonging life must be given to our physicians and modern scientific developments," says Nuffer, "but there are many areas in which families must take the initiative. Some of these are the periodic medical and dental examinations, planning for a balanced program of nutrition, immunizations and vaccinations, farm sanitation, and relaxation through family recreation."

Nuffer says that for rural living at its best, proper attention must be given to developing food health habits.

Kenneth Kinsey and Mrs. Nannie Irvine spent Easter Sunday with her daughter and family near Claypool. There were five generations present.

Thirty-nine per cent of the deaths and 35 per cent of the injuries due to motor vehicle accidents last year occurred on Saturdays and Sundays.

Connie plans to enter the International Business College at Fort Wayne after graduation. Tied for second place were David Gosser, son of Rev. and Mrs. David Gosser of Mentone, and Larry McKinley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ora McKinley of Mentone. Both boys had a grade point average of 3.5. David plans to take a pre-ministerial course at DePauw University. Larry will enroll at Purdue University. Both students majored in the academic subjects in high school. Other students with high averages were Bill Nellans, Sue Lackey, Shiela Fitzgerald, Larry Boggs, Jalaine Smythe, Marita Tucker and Frank Manwaring.

Salk Polio Vaccine To be Offered To First and Second Graders

On Wednesday consent slips were sent home with 87 first and second grade students offering Salk polio vaccinations free of charge. Just recently the vaccine has been reported as effective against polio. Parents must request that the vaccinations be given before students will be vaccinated. Dr. Dan Urschel will administer the first of the shots at the school on April 20. There is little or no reaction or pain involved.

Manchester College Helps With Library

On Wednesday Miss Jean Holcombe, librarian at Manchester College, Miss Lucille Parker and Mr. Harold Norman, students, worked at the Lawrence D. Bell library helping with the card catalog. This service was provided by Manchester College free of charge.

Sophomores Select Class Rings

On Wednesday noon, Mr. Wayne Atkinson and Mrs. Arthur Brown showed class rings to members of the sophomore class. Three years ago the school adopted a distinctive Mentone School crest for all class rings. This year's class selected the style and design to use with this crest. In line with Mr. Kent's policy of purchasing locally, the class rings have been sold to the class by Brown's Jewelry Store for the last three years.

Mentone Wins Two Track Meets

Last Wednesday the Mentone Junior High defeated the Akron Junior High in a very close meet 51-50. The meet was held at Mentone in rather inclement weather.

On Thursday, the high school boys easily defeated the Burket team, 75 1/2-25 1/2. Burket was without the services of Lechrone who had injured himself in practice. This week, the high school teams will travel to Milford to participate in a three-way affair.

Achievement tests in grades 1-8 have been completed. After sufficient time for scoring has elapsed, parents are encouraged to inquire about the progress of their children as shown by these standardized tests.

Don't forget the junior play, 'Black Fires' this Friday and Saturday evenings in the gym. The Senior Class will serve a Penny Supper Saturday evening from 5:00 -7:00 in the cafeteria.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Jones and family were guests at the Richard Whitenberger home and celebrated Richard's birthday, Sunday.

Prepare Car For Summer Driving

Getting a car ready for warm weather driving is just as important as getting it ready for winter weather, the Chicago Motor Club said today.

Motorists should begin preparing for spring and summer temperatures. The following hints will help in the preparation.

1. Drain and flush your radiator, adding fresh water and rust inhibitor to the cooling system. Most anti-freeze solutions the formation of rust, but after contain chemicals which prevent the anti-freeze has been drained, rust inhibitor should be added.
2. Replace worn out radiator hoses and replace winter type thermostat with a summer type.
3. An engine tune-up is also advised. Ignition wires, coil, distributor points, spark plugs, battery and battery cables, fan belt and carburetor are some of the important items that should be checked, adjusted and worn parts replaced.

4. Change winter grade oil and grease to summer grade where necessary. However, the Club suggests consulting service station operator or a manufacturer's manual, to learn the correct products to use.

5. Winter slush and snow up under the car has had a deteriorating effect on all parts of the chassis. A lubricating job is a much needed service. The front wheel bearings should be repacked and chassis and body bolts should be checked and tightened.

Remember, a mechanically perfect car is a safe car.

An All Purpose Poultry House

Lafayette, Ind.—For a long time Indiana farmers have needed a flexible, all-purpose poultry house that can be used for broilers, layers, or chicks and can be easily and quickly cleaned.

In recent years A. C. Dale of the Purdue University agricultural engineering department has designed such a house. This house can be economically built and can be easily adapted for machinery storage, dairy cattle, or other farm uses. It can also be cleaned with a manure loader and spreader.

Another feature of this poultry house is that it is flexible and can be enlarged easily. The basic unit of the house is twenty-eight feet wide and can be built in any length that is a multiple of twelve. Twelve foot sheds can be constructed on one or both sides of the basic unit to make it forty or fifty-two feet wide.

Dale has planned this house for optimum ventilation and insulation in both winter and summer. In a house 27 or 40 feet wide, the front of the building can be opened during the hot summer months to allow maximum circulation of fresh air.

Hoosier poultrymen who want to know more about the all-purpose poultry house can get a copy of Mimeo AE-24, "An All-purpose Poultry House", from the county extension agent's office (Indiana only) or by writing to agricultural publications office at Purdue University. This publication contains complete construction plans and building instructions.

Psi Iota Xi Sorority Meet

Sixteen members of the Psi Iota Xi Sorority met with Mrs. Lyman Mollenhour at Peterson's Lunch Room on April 5th.

The meeting was opened by repeating the Sorority Opening. The secretary and the treasurer's reports were read and approved.

Several items of business were voted upon. A committee was chosen to begin working on a chapter in Warsaw.

Lovely refreshments were served by the hostess, Mrs. Curtis Riner received the door prize.

Farm Tractor Not A Plaything

Lafayette, Ind. — Children should not be permitted to be around anything so dangerous as the farm tractor.

F. R. Willsey, farm safety specialist at Purdue University says that many tractor accidents seem to occur when children are allowed to ride on tractors or are allowed to operate them before they are mature enough to do so safely.

Children in the 1-4 age bracket rank high on the list of tractor accident victims. Most of them are injured while riding as passengers. Although it seems harmless to let a pleading youngster ride along for company, the ride all too often ends in tragedy.

Operating a tractor is a job for a mature person. The power and speed of modern tractors require that they be under the operator's complete control at all times. A child must be old enough to have judgement and big enough to be able to reach all of the controls easily before it is safe for him to operate the tractor. Parents are in the best position to judge when their youngster has these qualifications. Some parents have failed to exercise good judgement in this matter because of either a boastful pride in their child, a shortage of help, or ignorance of the danger involved.

Before the season of heavy tractor work begins, Willsey urges farmers to talk this problem over with the family and make definite rules concerning children and the farm tractor.

Remember—a child's safety is his parents' responsibility.

No other low-priced car even comes close to matching these important Chevrolet advantages . . .

If you're planning to buy a new car, the one you just can't afford to miss seeing is Chevrolet—for 19 straight years America's best-selling car. The Motorama Chevrolet offers you so much more than the other low-priced cars that it's hardly fair to compare them. And even the high-priced cars don't have all the advantages that today's Chevrolet offers you.

The beauty's built in—not bolted on!

Chevrolet's beauty is inherent in the basic contours of metal and glass. There's no excessive bolted-on ornamentation to go out of style overnight.

The Body's by Fisher!

You see Body by Fisher on lots of the high-priced cars—and only Chevrolet has it in the low-price field!

Today's most modern engines!

That goes for Chevrolet's new V8 and two new sixes as well. All bring you a modern 12-volt electrical system—double the voltage of other low-priced cars. Then Chevrolet's new "Turbo-Fire V8" has the shortest piston stroke in the industry!

A drive to suit your driving!

There's silky, peppery Powerglide (even better this year!), new Overdrive (both extra-cost options), and a new Synchromesh transmission that's as smooth as they come.

All the power helps you want!

Windows, seat, steering, brakes—all are available with built-in "muscles" to make driving as effortless as you wish. They're optional at extra-cost—and worth it!

Come take the key!

There have never been so many good reasons why you should drive a Chevrolet!

Finest In Furnishings In New Bell Library

The new Lawrence D. Bell Mentone School Library (four views shown below) cannot be classified as spectacular as far as size is concerned, but for beauty of design, selection of furnishings and examples of expert craftsmanship, it will rank among the best. Finished and furnished in light oak, and beautifully decorated, every citizen of the area should make it a point to be present for the open house and dedication program to be held on the evening of April 20th, 1955.

The library was made possible by a $5,000 grant by the Bell Foundation, and through the efforts of a local committee and the assistance of Mrs. Royse Tucker, former Harrison township trustee; teachers and citizens, the library has been in use by the Mentone school students for some time.

Lawrence D. Bell, president of the Bell Aircraft Corporation of Buffalo, New York, was born in Mentone, attended school here, and since leaving to engage in various phases of the aircraft business, has never lost contact with the town and his many friends here. Inspired by the enthusiasm and accomplishments of the Mentone people while he was here as a special speaker for the dedication of the new high school gymnasium, Mr. Bell expressed his desire to do something more for the town. The grant for the new library is the result of that desire.

Other features to be unveiled at the dedication will be a large painting of Mr. Bell, done especially for the new library by Toni Sisti. It is reported this is the first painted portrait ever made of Mr. Bell.

Twelve large pictures have been received by the school from Mr. Bell and each of them is a fine photograph or drawing of some of Bell's famous airplanes. They show planes that are known in every corner of the world.

The local committee has been greatly assisted in the organization of the library by Miss Carolyn Whiteneck, state school librarian.

When all the present planned purchases are completed, there will be about 2,500 new books on the shelves of the new library.

A special invitation has been extended to pilots of the Civil Air Patrol, librarians and school officials of the area to attend the dedication services and open house.

In 1954, nearly two million casualties were recorded for motor vehicle accidents.

CLUB HAS 21st ANNIVERSARY

The 21st Anniversary of the Mentone Home Demonstration Club was observed Friday evening with a delicious meal at the Westminster Hotel.

Fried Chicken with all the trimmings, was the bill of fare, after which we retired to the rainbow room for the program.

We were led in group singing by Miss Mary Jane Miller, who was our guest.

Piano solo "Valse Caprice" was rendered by Mrs. Leroy Cox, a act comedy "The West Wind" by the committee.

Some high points of a recent trip to Florida were told by Mrs. Gertrude Hill. Another very interesting feature of the programs was color slides of the California trip the co-hostess took last August where they sang in the Hollywood bowl, these were taken and shown by Miss Miller.

A piano duet "Blush Rose Waltz" was rendered by Mrs. Cox and Mrs. Rans and the club prayer was sung in closing.

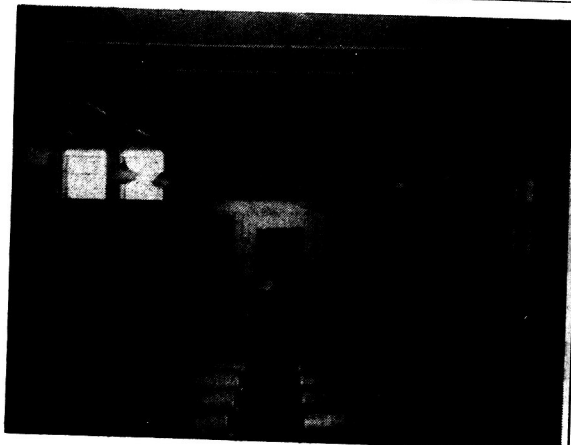

Thanks was extended to the committee: Mrs. Leroy Cox, Mrs. Agnes Rans, Mrs. Edith Darr, Mrs. Howard Horn and Mrs. Sherman Bybee for such a pleasant evening.

Speeding on U. S. streets and highways last year killed 12,380 men, women and children.

4-H Club Chatter

By Ruth Snellenberger

Dear 4-H Members and Friends,

The local club judging activity is the chief topic for my CHATTER today. Suggestions for classes of items to be judged and for ways to conduct the activity will be given.

What is the purpose of the local club judging activity? First, it is hoped that every member will become acquainted with the mechanics of judging similar to that used in a judging contest. Second, it is presumed that members will be learning about the products being judged. Third, it is hoped that the 4-H member will learn to think and weigh values—a practice which will carry over in everyday living now as well as in future adulthood.

How is a local club judging activity set up? Four products or articles make up a class. Junior leaders, or any member, or mothers, might bring to the club meeting articles to be judged. If drop cookies were going to be the class, five or six members could each bring half a dozen cookies. From these a competent person could select four to make up the class—one would be the best that was there (not necessarily perfectly made cookies), another plate would be second best, a third plate would be third best and a fourth plate would be the poorest (not completely awful cookies but the least desirable of those brought).

Having the four plates of cookies selected, they should be lettered A, B, C, and D, arranged in that order from left to right on a table. Actually there needs to be two plates of cookies of three each for each lettered group. The best three of each should be to look at for size, color, shape, etc., and the other three for tasting.

Above all, the taste is most important!

Now for the judging, four or six members would judge these four bakings of cookies trying to decide in 10 minutes or less which is best, second best, third and poorest. Write the correct lettered order—B, C, A, D or A, C, D, B, etc.—on a small piece of paper. Make notes as to why this order of placing has been decided upon.

After all members have judged the class then the person having previously arranged the class will discuss the correct placing so all will learn some points on what makes a good product or perhaps why difficulty was experienced with others.

Some suggestions for classes are:

For food preparation—simple deserts, place settings, salads, prepared fresh vegetables, meat loaf, floral centerpieces, sandwiches, menus for breakfast or for a day, work plans for preparing a breakfast.

For baking—plain butter cakes, cake pans, mixing bowls, utensils needed for making a certain cake, drop cookies, muffins, yeast rolls, chocolate cakes, angel food cakes.

For clothing—aprons, head scarfs, sewing boxes, ankle socks, accessories for a particular sweater and skirt, blouses for a certain skirt, slippers, school shoes.

For food preservation—canned tomatoes, vegetables such as green beans or carrots or corn, canned fruit such as peaches or raspberries.

For home improvement—lamp shades for a particular lamp, furniture arrangement of a living room or a bedroom, reading lamps, wallpaper for a bedroom, garment bags.

To help in the local club with this judging activity both Miss Reba Pyle, the home agent, and myself are available. Club leaders are urged to contact either of us as soon as possible to arrange a date convenient for your club members. It would be best if this judging activity could be held before the county judging contest, June 13 to 17. Mothers should be encouraged to attend this particular club meeting.

4-H Junior Leaders Attend Dist. Meeting

Thirty-five 4-H leaders from Kosciusko County attended a district 4-H Junior Leader Training Conference at Wabash recently. The event was sponsored cooperatively by the Farm Bureau and the State 4-H Club office. Paul Jackson, local county agricultural agent, was general chairman for the conference.

Delegates attending were: Rosalie Ryman and James McKibben of Atwood; Ronald Roberts and Nancy Baumgartner of Syracuse; Frank Tom, Alice Duncan, Norman Miller, and Nancy Miller of Milford; Jenine Trest-rail, of North Webster, Ellsworth Everest and Marilyn Paton of Leesburg; Richard Williamson and Phyllis Williamson of Pierceton; Sandra Brubaker and Charlotte Steiner of Monroe Township; Joyce Eller of Harrison Township; Vickie Sparrow and Nancy Williamson of Etna Green; Larry Long and Donna Lou Eaton of Mentone; Betty Doering and Phil Bucher of Beaver Dam; Peggy Tinkey and Perry Hathaway of Burket; Elizabeth Cook, Nancy Adams and Glen Deaton of Claypool; Sereta Jo Ring and Merl Montel of Silver Lake; Janet Pruitt and Leonard Pyle of Sidney; and Everett Vance and Martha Perry of near Warsaw.

Mrs. Ruth Snellenberger, 4-H Club agent for girl's work, served as instructor for the class on "What Do Junior Leaders Do." Phil Stansfield, local assistant agricultural agent, assisted with registration of delegates.

Drivers, members of Kosciusko County Farm Bureau, to help provide transportation were Mrs. Everett Tom, Mrs. Delbert Gallo-way, and Leander Yoder, all of Leesburg, Ralph Frantz and Mrs. R. G. Vanator of near Warsaw, in addition to County Extension Office personnel.

Over 3,000 Enjoy Free Ham and Egg Banquet by Feed Firm

One of the biggest affairs to be held in Mentone in recent years was the big ham and egg supper, Tuesday evening, sponsored jointly by the Northern Indiana Cooperative Association Mill and Swift & Co. Over three thousand people were on hand to enjoy the fine banquet dinner and the program that had been arranged. Ideal weather prevailed, and the officials in charge of the event were highly pleased in every respect.

Food Consumption Enormous

The food consumed by the visitors reached enormous proportions. Seven thousand eggs were consumed, a half ton of Swift's Premium ham, 175 gallons of coffee, 40 gallons of tea, 50 gallons of milk, 90 gallons of ice cream, 8,000 biscuits, 55 pounds of butter, and 26 pounds of sugar.

One of the unusual things about the affair was the help and cooperation extended by all the other men, women, boys and girls from the many businesses and organizations of the area. All the help was volunteer, and to say that it wasn't hard work would be very much in error. It was hard work and no one gave any indication of shirking his or her responsibility.

Kenneth Riner, vice president of the Farmers State Bank, was in charge of the egg cooking. Mr. Charles Manwaring was in charge of the barbecue pits. He was ably assisted by personnel from the Creighton Bros. and Beeson Hatcheries as well as others from the Manwaring Hatchery. Carroll Eller, chairman of the Kosciusko County Poultry Association, was in charge of serving the barbecued ham. Lyndes Latimer, prominent registered sheep breeder, was in charge of coffee and beverage serving. Mrs. Bill Slabaugh, South Bend, professional model, acted as hostess, and her husband, Swift & Co. feed representative, acted as the host.

Vern Weiger and Elery Nellans, Mill department managers, were in charge of maintenance operations personnel.

In the program that followed the fine banquet, Ed Ward, manager of the Northern Indiana Cooperative Association, gave a brief address of welcome, and Frank Nellans, president of the board of directors, spoke on "What Your Local Co-Op Means to You."

Gene C. Foster, of the Swift Feed Department, was master of ceremonies for the evening.

Other members of the board of directors who took an active part in the free banquet and entertainment were: Leroy Norris, Gerald Ballenger, Elmer Hoffman, Maurice Dunnuck, Everett Besson and Philip Lash.

Mrs. Pearl Gates, Mentone, won the chicken calling contest and Russell Antonides, R. R., Warsaw, was named champion hog caller.

Door prize winners were: Margaret Linn and James Teel, of Mentone; Doyle Eller, R. 5, Warsaw; Ward Sellers, R. 1, Bourbon; and Eva Judy Crull, Tippecanoe.

The public address and sound equipment was supplied by Gus Mollenhour.

Visiting Swift officials were: Huston Wedeman, general sales manager, Feed department; Dean Neal, advertising manager; Bill Williams, midwest district field supervisor, and Dr. Robert Gray, livestock and poultry nutritionist.

The Northern Indiana Cooperative Association was organized in 1930 as an independent co-op and is owned and operated by local area farmer-patrons. The firm does well over a million dollars in retail business annually. They sponsor egg marketing facilities for their patrons, and they handled over 278,000 cases of graded eggs last year, at an actual cost basis for participating producers.

The feed mill manufactures Banner Brand feeds using Swift base and Swift formulas. They handle over 10,000 tons annually.

Mentone Firemen Unjustly Accused

Mentone firemen were unjustly accused, for a time, following a fire which destroyed a barn, corn crib and chicken house on the Dale Warren place, about a half mile east of the Lawrence Butts farm in Franklin township, Friday evening.

Mrs. Warren, in the excitement that followed when she found the barn afire, dialed "long distance" and as a consequence was connected with a Warsaw operator. The lady there evidently called the Akron department and as it was not in their township they suggested the Burket fire department, which was prompt to respond but much time had already been lost. People at the fire and residing in that area, had the impression the Mentone firemen had refused to heed the call, when, after much investigation by Fire Chief Arlo Friesner and General Telephone officials, it was learned the call had never reached the Mentone operators. (Mr. Friesner said today that the Mentone department had refrained from going to only one fire since 1927, and that was a brooder house about seven miles northwest of town, when there was heavy snow on the ground. The party that called assured Mr. Friesner that there were no other buildings near the brooder house and he knew that the small building would have been totally destroyed long before they could have gotten there anyway.)

The Mentone department did go to the farm, Friday, about eight that evening when another blaze developed under the pile of ear corn that had been in the burned crib.

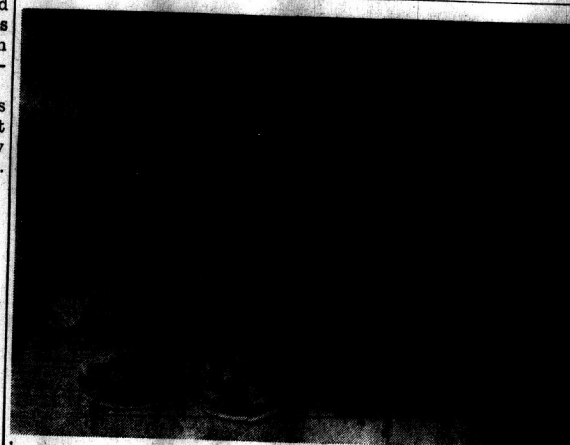

IN CASE OF FIRE dial or call the Mentone telephone operators giving your name and the location of the fire. Do not try to call the fire department. (Soon there may be additional instructions when a dial system is installed at Mentone. A meeting of officials is planned for April 30th to make proper arrangements.)

So far, the Mentone firemen have always gone to a fire within the shortest possible time, and the telephone operators have cooperated to the fullest extent.

Mr. and Mrs. Velamati Sreesuryanarayana Murthy, of India, were pictured after enjoying the fine banquet dinner. Before the evening was over they were seen cooking ham over the open fire. They came to Warsaw to get practical training in poultry farming at Creighton Bros. under an exchange visitors' program. They are to remain here four or five months. They left their village of Kovvali February 2 and arrived in San Francisco March 16th, after brief stops at Singapore, Penang, Hongkong, Japan and Honolulu. They carry many testimonials from some of the great dignitaries of India.

Betty Orcutt Wed in Wyoming

Miss Betty Louise Orcutt, the daughter of Mrs. W. L. Orcutt, Warsaw, and Theodore C. Wilson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl T. Wilson of Alva, Wyoming, were united in marriage at 2:30 p. m. April 8th at the Baptist church in Hulett.

Rev. C. W. Jervis, brother-in-law of the bride, performed the double-ring ceremony. Mrs. Jervis presented a prelude of nuptial music and Mark and Susan Jervis lighted the candles preceding the ceremony. Candelabra and bouquets of jonquills, carnations and lilies decorated the altar.

The bride wore a street-length dress of white gabardine made in the princess style. Her accessories were blue and she wore a corsage of white carnations and lilies.

Mrs. Malcolm Bucher, Hulett, was matron of honor and wore a gold princess-style dress with white accessories and a corsage of white carnations and jonquills. Malcolm Bucher, cousin of the groom, served as best man.

The mothers of the couple were the other guests attending the ceremony.

Following a wedding trip to Salt Lake City, Utah, the newlyweds are residing at Hulett until their new home on their ranch near Hulett is completed.

Proper Chemicals For Weed Control

Lafayette, Ind.—Use the right chemical material and apply it properly. Both are essential for best results when using chemicals to kill weeds, according to Oliver C. Lee, Purdue weed control specialist.

Chemicals may be used to control weeds in corn, small grains, pastures, asparagus, onions, carrots, tomatoes, strawberries, etc. Others are used to control patches of weeds and woody plants in fence rows, along ditch banks and in waste places.

Most chemicals are applied as a spray. The type necessary to do the job will vary with the size of the area to be sprayed. Small compressed air types of sprayers are adequate for spraying small areas, such as a patch of weeds or a lawn, to control dandelions or crabgrass. Power sprayers are needed for extensive areas. Most popular for applying herbicides on a field scale is the tractor mounted or trailer type with a gear type pump, driven with the power take-off.

When spraying for weed control, enough water should be used with the chemical to assure even distribution, and contact all weeds to be killed. Recent research has shown that generally 10 gallons or more of spray per acre is essential for best results. For most jobs 10 gallons of spray per acre nozzles are recommended. Most field sprayers should be driven at 4 miles per hour and operated at a pressure of 35 to 45 pounds. Since the output of the sprayer depends upon the rate of travel and the size of the nozzles used, the manufacturers' recommendations should be followed.

A recent mimeograph, ID-1, entitled "Recommended Chemicals for Weed control" lists and gives methods of using some 19 different chemicals. This mimeograph is available at your county agricultural extension office or from the agricultural publications office at Purdue University.

A tip from the agronomy department at Purdue University says that mid April is not too late to apply nitrogen as a top dressing on wheat from central Indiana on north. Use not more than 25 pounds of nitrogen per acre for wheat following drouth. In northern Indiana, raise this to 30 pounds of nitrogen per acre and on the sandy soils 35 to 40 pounds per acre.

The pictures were taken by the Zekan & Robbins photographers, Harlan, Iowa, and are all of farms in the Mentone trading area. The pictures are not identified and it will be up to the owners or neighbors to notify this newspaper office. The pictures were taken by airplane and not even the photographer knows one from the other. It will be interesting to see who is the first to identify the pictures each week. Phone Mentone 38. We will endeavor to publish the names of each person correctly identifying the pictures each week.

The farm owner will be given the original 5 x 7 mounted picture absolutely free of any cost. All we require is that the operator himself come to our office and give us a little information about the farm, its operation, etc. Additional prints, colored enlargements, etc. can be obtained by contacting this newspaper.

Farm Picture Not Identified

The farm pictured in our issue of March 30th was that of Harry and Myrtle Witham, of Route 5, Warsaw. The 151 acre farm is just east of the Harrison Center church, and was purchased from Tom Haimbaugh. The Withams have resided on the farm for 37 years, and they engage in general farming. They also raise hogs and Black Angus cattle, part of which are purebred.

There are six children: Arthur

Witham of Mentone, Thomas Witham of Atwood, Richard of Urbana, Mrs. Mary (Herschel) Teel of Mentone, Edith Haney of Silver Lake and Mrs. Charles Carter of Green Bay, Wis.

Ralph Tumbleson was the only reader to call at our office and correctly identify the farm. Others, as we met them elsewhere, commented that they recognized the farm.

So far, no one has told us who the owner is of the farm pictured in our April 6th issue. Did you recognize it?

Merry Molly's Meet

The regular meeting of the Merry Molly's Home Demonstration Club was held at the home of Mrs. Wymond Wilson on Monday evening. Mrs. Clayton Holloway was the co-hostess. The pledge to the flag opened the meeting, followed by singing the song of the month, "Drink To Me Only With Thine Eyes." Health and Safety remarks were presented by Mrs. Ed Smelser. Mrs. Holoway gave the lesson on Program Planning for the coming year.

During the business, presided over by the president, Mrs. Carl Whetstone, final plans for a trip to South Bend were made. The trip will be on Wednesday, April 20, and the members will tour the candy company and the newspaper. The time for the summer was changed to 8 o'clock.

A cheerio pal gift was presented to Mrs. Everett Welborn and the door prize was won by Mrs. Donald Horn. Prizes for games were won by Mrs. Charles Hunter, Mrs. Glen Puterbaugh, Mrs. Whetstone and Mrs. Horn. Refreshments were served by the hostesses to close the evening.

Seventy-eight per cent of vehicles involved in fatal accidents in 1954 were traveling straight ahead.

Area Producers on Swine Day Program

Peoria, Ill.—One of the features of the Swine Day to be held at the Fuller Farms, Shelbyville, Ind., on Saturday, May 7, will be a Type Conference and Judging Contest.

Four classes of live animals will be used in this conference. A Type Committee made up of leading packer representatives, educators and pork producers will make the official placings on the classes. The placings and reasons given by a member of the Type Committee.

Discussions will then be opened for spectator participation, giving those present a chance to voice their opinions on some of the vital points needed in producing a more profitable hog that will be desirable for both the producer and consumer. Joe Metzger, vocational agricultural instructor, from South Whitley, is the chairman of this Type Committee. Other members are Earl Martin, head hog buyer, Kingan Packing Co., Indianapolis; Prof. Hobart Jones, Purdue University, Lafayette, and C. J. Welsch, purebred Duroc breeder from Mooresville.

This Judging Contest will include divisions for every member of the family. Also included will be a Team Judging Contest for FFA and 4-H boys and girls. There will be four members to a team, and each County or FFA Chapter is limited to two teams.

Another program highlight will be the demonstration of the Lean Meter by Prof. Hobart Jones. This electronic device, designed by Dr. Andrews of Purdue University, measures the backfat thickness of the live hog. It has been agreed by experts that the amount of backfat tells nearly a complete story on the quality of a carcass of the animal.

The leading swine specialists of Indiana will be taking an active part in this Swine Day. Sponsored by Fuller Farms, United Duroc Breeders Association and Purdue University. Don Washburn, Director of Public relations for the United Duroc Record Association, is the Swine Day Chairman.

Fuller Farms is located 8 miles North of Shelbyville on state road 9, or 4 miles South of junction of highway 52 and route 9.

The program starts at 9:00 a. m. and there will be a full day of educational features of interest to the entire family of every swine raiser. Speakers will include Joe Metzger, Prof. Hobart Jones, Dr. Joe Green, State Veterinarian, Indianapolis, and C. J. Welsch.

The event will be held rain or shine, and all swine producers are cordially invited to attend.

Mrs. Devon Jones was dismissed from the McDonald hospital Sunday, and moved to the home of her son, Gaylord, in Syracuse.

Boys Steal Auto Keys

Friday evening someone, presumably some of the younger set looking for excitement, stole eight sets of car and truck keys in Mentone. One set was even taken from Mrs. Chester Miller's car while it was stored in her garage. The Co-Op. coal truck was also driven away and hidden behind the feed mill.

Tuesday evening several cars at the school were tampered with and one was so badly damaged that the owner was unable to start it even after putting some of the parts back in place.

Do you know where your children were on those evenings? Or what they were doing? It might be in order for a few parents to do a little checking up.

Mrs. Minnie Williamson of Burket, spent the week end at South Bend.

Highway Deaths Less in 1954

Hartford, Conn. (Special)—A moderate decrease in the nation's automobile accident toll in 1954 has been reported by The Travelers Insurance Companies. Traffic deaths totaled 35,500 last year compared with 38,500 in 1953. The injury count reached 1,960,000 compared with 2,140,000 in the previous year.

The totals are statistics from "Misguided Missiles," the twenty-first in an annual series of traffic accident data booklets published by the Travelers. Accident facts from every state in the country are collected and analyzed for the publication by Travelers statisticians.

Excessive speed was the most dangerous driving mistake in 1954, killing 12,380 persons. The total was 13,870. The injury resulting from excessive speed remained about the same as the preceding year—659,000.

Drivers under 25 years of age were involved in more than 24 per cent of 1954's fatal accidents although they constitute only about 14 per cent of the total of all drivers.

Week end crashes accounted for 13,980 killed and 678,000 injured. The 1953 week end record was 15,800 killed and 678,000 injured. "Misguided Missiles" also reports that 39 per cent of the injuries occurred on Saturdays and Sunday last year.

The pedestrian record reflected improvement for the fourth consecutive year. Pedestrian deaths reduced to 7,700 in 1954 compared with 8,600 in 1953. Crossing between intersections, "jay walking," remains the chief cause of pedestrian deaths and injuries.

The 32-page booklet in two colors features 14 cartoons by Chon Day. The booklet also reveals three out of four 1954 auto accidents happened to passenger cars driving in clear weather on dry roads.

Seventy-eight per cent of the vehicles involved in fatal accidents were traveling straight ahead.

Saturday was the most dangerous day of the week to drive.

1954 was the first year since 1949 to see a decrease in the death toll.

FOR MILITARY USE Phillips originated new super-power aviation fuel components—DI-Isopropyl (pronounced di-iso-pro-pull) and HF Alkylate. These made possible more powerful, higher anti-knock fuels for combat aircraft.

TODAY, DI-Isopropyl is available to motorists exclusively in a new gasoline called Phillips 66 Flite-Fuel. It gives increased power, greater fuel economy, higher anti-knock quality, freedom from stalling... and it's clean-burning!

RESTRICTED for use in high performance aviation gasoline, these powerful components have for years been on U.S. Government priority. But now restrictions have been released and Phillips is able to use them in automotive gasoline.

GET PHILLIPS 66 FLITE-FUEL at any station where you see the orange and black Phillips 66 Shield. Let your car's performance tell the story. You'll discover a new driving experience.

Proper Vegetable Preparation Important

Lafayette, Ind.—The fresher a vegetable when it is used, the better the taste, the less the waste and the more vitamins retained, according to Miss Ann Liggett, extension foods and nutrition specialist at Purdue University.

Leaf, root and stem vegetables an important part of the daily diet, supply minerals for bones, teeth and body tissues and vitamins for body protection and appetite. If you gather or select vegetables that are crisp, firm and good quality, and keep them in cold storage you can save much of the vitamins. Remove tops from carrots, beets and other root crops before putting them into the refrigerator. This will prevent moisture loss through the tops.

Many important vitamins and minerals may be lost down the drain, into the garbage or destroyed by heat if you do not take proper care with vegetable preparation. Vegetables should be eaten raw or cooked in skins or peeled very thinly, whenever possible. Use as little water as possible to cook vegetables in order to conserve minerals and vitamins.

Vegetables look better, taste better, and have more food value if you cook them quickly and only till tender. A common error is cooking vegetables too long. Do not add soda to vegetables; it destroys vitamins and may change the texture and flavor. Correct cooking methods of vegetables will accent the natural flavor, color and palatability.

Save Grain With Silage

Lafayette, Ind.—Feeding of more hay and silage to Indiana dairy cows will help reduce grain consumption and therefore increase income over cost of feed according to G. A. Williams, extension dairyman at Purdue University. Hoosier dairymen fed an average of 1,950 pounds of grain per cow during 1954, according to Agricultural Marketing service, which is 211 pounds higher than the national average.

One way to assist in the saving according to Williams, is the feeding of more roughage—especially grass silage. Interest in succulent roughage is rapidly increasing because, acreages and yields of soil conserving crops are increasing, higher production of milk per cow requires better grades of roughage, increase in the size of many herds calls for more roughage, unfavorable weather conditions during the hay-making season causes considerable losses in feeding value, and grass silage conserves any forage surplus that may occur early in the season and helps to supplement the pasture crop during periods of hot dry weather.

A large variety of grasses and legumes can be made into silage. Grasses will make the best silage when cut at the boot or head stage, but per acre yields may be low! Legumes make the best silage when cut at an early bloom stage.

The most favorable condition for desirable silage fermentation is provided by storing the crop with sufficient moisture present (65 to 75 per cent), by having storage temperatures between 80 and 100 degrees Fahrenheit and by exclusion of the air.

In actual feeding practices grass silage can be fed along with either corn silage or hay or it can be fed to replace either of these two feeds on an equal dry-matter basis. The amount which cows will eat and therefore the extent to which it can replace other feeds will vary with the moisture content of the grass silage. Dairy cows will eat more grass silage dry-matter when its moisture content is lowered by wilting or by the addition of dry concentrates than they will when it is stored with a high moisture content at the same stage of maturity.

Consumption of high quality grass silage often runs as high as four or five pounds daily for each 100 pounds of the cow's live weight in addition to limited amounts of hay. Such a feeding program should maintain a profitable level of milk production when one pound of concentrate is fed for every six pounds of milk production.

one put on by the South Bend Shrine Club.

This is certainly one of the outstanding events of the year in this vicinity. The Shriner's slogan, "An Evening of Fun So a Child Can Run."

Inspect all drainage ditches, says the agricultural engineering department at Purdue University. Promptly remove trash and obstructions. A few hours and a few dollars spent now repairing the drainage system may mean the difference between a good crop and one lost by poor drainage.

The pedestrian record reflected the 4th consecutive year of improvement for motor vehicle accidents in 1954.

SOUTH BEND SHRINERS PLAN CHARITY CIRCUS

The South Bend Shrine Club, and all local Shriners are presenting their annual show in the John Adams High School Auditorium on April 22nd and 23rd, 1955. All proceeds from this show are given to help support the Shriners Hospitals for Crippled Children. These hospitals provide free hospitalization and surgery for orthopedic crippled children, regardless of race, color or religion.

There are 17 Shrine Hospitals in the United States, the closest one being in Chicago, and serving this area. During the past few years there have been over 300 children from South Bend and surrounding towns accepted in the Oak Park hospital for treatment. Through the efforts of the Shriners in this area, the South Bend Shrine Club has raised over $60,000 for the Shrine Hospitals, with the citizens in this vicinity receiving some $265,000 worth of benefits from the Oak Park Hospital, and more cases being accepted for treatment all the time. While these children are hospitalized there is an approved educational program, under state supervision, at the expense of the hospital. All funds for these Shriners Hospitals for Crippled Children are raised by the Shriners through shows and circuses such as this, their annual dues, football games,

Smelt Everywhere

Mentone folks have been given a treat of fresh smelt this week, after Harold Utter, Allen Herendeen, Ned Igo, Herschel McGowen and Marvin Romine returned from a short smelt fishing trip into Michigan. They brought home four or five bushel of the little rascals, and they were mighty fine eating. The first three boys mentioned flew up to Michigan while the latter two went by auto.

Smelt is a small lake fish that travels up into the smaller streams to spawn. They are taken with dip nets—and if that gets too monotonous, just reach in and grab them up with your bare hands.

Merger — Or Not?

Elsewhere in this issue is an article contributed by an individual that evidently is in favor of merging the Burket school with Lake and Clay townships. This publication is not aware of all the facts and in fairness to all the citizens of the Burket area, wants to offer its columns to those who propose to bond or otherwise provide for improved facilities at Burket.

Mr. and Mrs. Everett Rookstool were Wednesday evening supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. Rex Yazel and daughters.

MORE CONTRIBUTIONS

Macy, Ind., April 16, 1955
Dear Mr. Mentzer:

I remember how Mr. Edd Mollenhour used to work in Mentone, and how his wife helped, too, by having a hat shop there so I am enclosing a small contribution to help get a marker for them, which I think they should have.

LIVE AT MENTONE.

(Ed. Note—Mr. Mentzer states that more contributions are being received from out of town people than from Mentone citizens who have been enjoying the conveniences provided by Mr. Mollenhour's labors. The fund is still not sufficient for a suitable grave marker for these people. Are you going to help? If so, see Mr. Mentzer right away.)

Regenos Rites Monday

Last rites for Dr. S. H. Regenos, 65, eminent biologist and son of Mrs. Mary Regenos, Claypool, were held Monday afternoon at the Phillippi funeral home in Zionsville. Burial was in Crown Hill cemetery.

A native of Warsaw, Dr. Regenos died at his home in Zionsville Saturday following an extended illness due to cancer. He was an official of the Pitman-Moore pharmaceutical firm in Indianapolis for 35 years, retiring last June.

Dr. Regenos, whose parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jefferson Regenos, resided in Warsaw for many years, studied agriculture and veterinary science at Michigan State college and received the doctor of veterinary medicine from Ohio State university in 1913.

He spent three years in veterinary practice at Warsaw and at Leslie, Mich., then was with the federal inspection service. He joined Parke-Davis and Co., Detroit pharmaceutical company shortly before enlisting in the army in World War I. In 1919 he became chief bacteriologist for Pitman-Moore and 10 years later was made director of the company's biological laboratories at Zionsville. In 1938 he was made business manager and took charge of diagnostic services. During his 35 years with Pitman-Moore he had an important part in the extensive expansion program of the biological laboratories.

A member of the Zionsville Christian church, he was past-master of the Masonic lodge in that city.

Surviving are the widow, Frances; two daughters, Mrs. Kaye B. Cook and Mrs. Clement Wood, Zionsville; his mother, who is 97 years old; a sister, Mrs. O. B. Valentine, and a brother, Harley Regenos, all of the Claypool vicinity, and six grandchildren.

Large Crowd at Library Dedication Program

Nearly eight hundred people gathered in the Mentone gymnasium this evening to hear the dedication ceremony for the new Lawrence D. Bell library. One of the firemen counted 320 on the main floor, 320 in the south bleacher section, plus those on the stage and the north bleacher section.

The dedication program, with Dr. Dan Urschel presiding, was carried out in a dignified and appropriate manner, and was very interesting from the opening prayer by Ralph Hoffman to the benediction by Leslie Grant.

Musical selections included two numbers by the 4th, 5th and 6th grade pupils, under the direction of Dale Whitehead; vocal solos by Marita Tucker and David Gosser, Jr., and a flute solo by Sarah Urschel. (The latter three each won the highest possible rating in the state music meet.)

Morrison Rockhill, Warsaw, a life-time "buddy" of Mr. Bell, very capably introduced the man of the hour. Mr. Bell responded briefly and his remarks were spoken with emotion and sincerity. Leston Faneuf, vice president and general manager of the Bell Aircraft Corporation, gave a very interesting but brief historical sketch of the Bell Aircraft achievements and the Bell Foundation, from which the $5,000 grant came for the new library. (A further commitment made to the committee this evening was that $500 would be given annually for the purchase of additional books and facilities.)

Earl Boggs, trustee of Harrison township, gave the acceptance response and then extended

Parents Responsible For Child's Safety

Lafayette, Ind.—"Everyone recognizes the advantages of country living for children," says F.
R. Willsey, farm safety specialist at Purdue University, "but few realize that the farm is a dangerous place to bring up children."

Children growing up in the country not only have to dodge the universal hazards of home and play, but those of the farm as well. Many farm children are killed each year on the farm by accidents involving machinery, livestock, and falls. Thousands of others who are injured less seriously go unreported.

Willsey says that the child's safety is his parents' responsibility. If children are taught a deep and lasting respect for farm machinery, livestock, and equipment from the time they are toddlers, many accidents could be prevented.

As the National Safety Council sees the problem, "Firm insistance upon carefully-explained safety rules, together with your adherence to the rules, will do more than anything else to keep your child safe from injury."

changed banter with Windy Breeze (Stubby of the Buccaneers) and talked with Jack Holden. The conversation was a part of the broadcast on the air.

Am I No Better?

I guess not!

The other day while engaged in some light conversation, and I do mean light, I caught myself reminiscing over the days way back when. I suddenly remembered how I used to get so annoyed with people who were always telling about the good old days. I now begin even in my still young stage of life, to understand why people like to recall those days. I hope I never see them again but they seem much nicer now than they did then. I wonder why?

Anyway, If you catch me going back to the good old days and you don't appreciate it don't be shy about letting us old folks know about it. Just please take it easy on our shins.

J. Wayne Green, eminent Trichologist, demonstrates causes of baldness and how it can be prevented.

How to Have Hair for a Lifetime To Be Demonstrated Here by Famous Trichologist

Offers Written Guarantee

An exclusive interview by Steven Bright

Wichita. (Special)—J. Wayne Green, Director of Rogers, Inc., Hair and Scalp Specialists, exploded the "myth of baldness" today in an exclusive interview.

"Baldness is unnecessary, costly and a plague to mankind," says Green. "No man need to be bald. No man need suffer the stigma of premature old age, forced upon him because he is losing his hair. The Rogers method of hair and scalp treatment can prevent baldness—can turn colorless fuzz into healthy, growing hair—can make you look youthful again."

Demonstration to Be held In Rochester, Indiana

This revolutionary method of home treatment for the hair and scalp will be demonstrated in Rochester, Indiana, Friday Only, April 29, at the Arlington Hotel. Trichologist Kenneth Harris will conduct the private individual interviews from 12 noon until 9 p. m. ONLY. There is no cost or obligation, and you need no appointment.

Reason for Baldness

"There is always a reason for baldness," continued this nationally known authority. "Hair cannot grow through a scalp that is afflicted with dandruff, excessive oiliness, or extreme dryness. A scalp that has never been exercised cannot be expected to produce healthy hair." Men, and yes, women, too, walk the streets today, completely devoid of nature's greatest ornament—hair. Simply because they were not taught the basic rules of hair and scalp hygiene while they were growing up. "The simple answer," emphasized this expert, "is that children should be taught the same simple basic rules of hair and scalp hygiene that they are taught for the proper care of their teeth. If this were the case, baldness would be a rarity today!"

Heredity Not Involved

Trichologist Green dodged no issues. He quickly took up the most widely spread theory of baldness—heredity. "Mankind's unrealistic belief that baldness is hereditary stems from a misinterpretation of the theory of genetics. Theory does not state that any person must be bald because baldness exists in the family. What it does say, is that in some families, a tendency exists towards an under-nourished scalp." The purpose of the Rogers Hair and Scalp Clinic is to teach the methods of strengthening the weak scalp and nourishing it to a healthy, vigorous condition. "A healthy scalp will grow hair if it is not already completely bald," assures Green.

Is There Hope for the Completely Bald
In his travels throughout the United States and Canada, Green has collected hundreds of testimonials of his abilities to develop weak fuzz into healthy, mature hair. All of his clients have started with private examination, hair and scalp analysis, and a diagnosis of the disorder. Green is quick, however, to tell a hopeless case that he cannot help. "We strongly advise," says Green, "that no person who is completely bald hold any hope whatsoever of regrowing hair. If there's any fuzz at all, we can restore a healthy scalp condition and the hair will grow normally again as nature intended."

Offers a Guarantee

"Rogers, Inc. America's Foremost Hair and Scalp Specialists, offer a guarantee to any client who enrolls for treatment. If he or she is not completely delighted with the results at the end of 30 days, the money invested will be graciously refunded," says Green. "We must have satisfied clients. We must grow hair. After all, it is our best advertising factor."

Is Your Hair Healthy?

If you have a scalp disorder, or if you are worried about your hair, call Trichologist Kenneth Harris at the Arlington Hotel in Rochester, Indiana, Friday ONLY from 12 noon to 9 p. m. The public is invited. The examination is private and open to men and women. You do not need an appointment, and you will not be embarrassed or obligated in any way.

Ways to Provide Water After Disaster

In the event of disaster you could get along for quite a while without food, if necessary, but you must have safe water or its equivalent, to drink.

Every family should have in their home a three-day emergency supply of drinking water. These instructions have been widely publicized by the Federal Civil Defense Administration and State and local civil defense agencies.

But in the event of a sudden sneak attack you might be caught without this all-important supply on hand. Normal water supplies might be abruptly disrupted. What happens then?

There are ways of obtaining substitute supplies of fluids, FCDA points out. Right in your home. And it isn't the least bit complicated. For example:

1. Water in the hot water heater can be used for drinking purposes.

2. You can allow the ice cubes in your refrigerator to melt.

Then there is milk. It serves as a substitute for water and provides required fluids for the body. Fresh fruits contain a large proportion of water. The same is true of other bottled and canned beverages, such as soft drinks, fruit drinks, and liquids from water-packed fruits and vegetables.

However, these are only substitute sources, the FCDA emphasizes. Every family should keep available at least one gallon of water for each member of the household. This would represent a three-day supply.

If an enemy attack should occur, there would be possible blast damage to water mains, as well as contamination of the supply through leaking sewage, poisonous chemicals, radioactive materials, or disease organisms from biological warfare attacks.

In storing water for emergency use, FCDA advises, only thoroughly cleaned containers should be used. Glass jugs used for storing liquids should be protected with wadded newspapers, excelsior or other packing materials against blast or shock.

Because of the growth of algae (tiny aquatic plants), water may develop objectionable tastes if stored over a long period of time, FCDA health officials state. Storage in a dark place will help slow the growth. Water storage containers should be rinsed and refilled every three months.

Bromegrass In Indiana

Hoosier farmers who are in need of a long-lived, perennial grass for pasture or hay, will find smooth bromegrass an excellent choice. Brome is a highly palatable pasture grass which starts growth early in the spring and continues into early winter.

Bromegrass continues to furnish new leafy, succulent grazing during the summer when blue grass, timothy and other grasses are usually dormant. It is not usually recommended for seeding alone since it will not survive unless generously supplied with nitrogen.

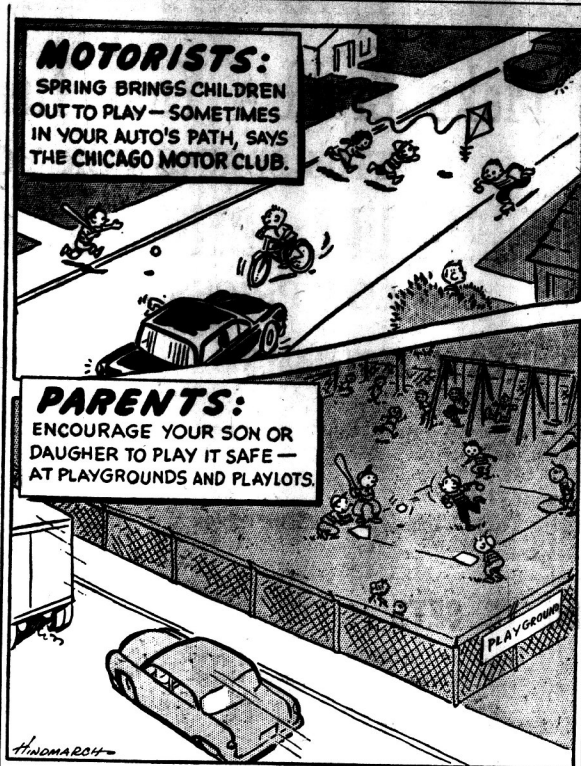

The top growth of brome is similar in height to timothy but bromegrass has a more fibrous root system. For this reason brome is helpful in reducing erosion. Brome grows slowly in the year of seeding. Thus, no pasture should be expected the first year. As a companion grass with alfalfa, brome reduces heaving damage in the winter, and danger of bloat in the summer.

Brome is adapted to a wide variety of soils from heavy types to sandy loams. It is not recommended on acid soils of low fertility. Southern strains are recommended for superior performance in Indiana. Achenbach, Lincoln, Fisher and Elsberry are adapted varieties.

Brome may be sown in the late winter on wheat, with oats in the spring or with wheat in the fall or in August. Sowing with wheat is risky if delayed beyond the fly-free date in the fall. It must be sown shallow and because of the light seed weight is usually mixed with oats or fertilizer when seeded. For grass silage bromegrass is about equal to corn silage.

General Fruit Spray Mixtures Available

Amateur gardeners who have but a few fruit trees, grapes, raspberries, and strawberries are confronted annually with the problem of controlling diseases and insects. A simple spray program that is easy to follow has been hard to find because most spray programs are designed for the professional fruit grower. Rather than worry with confusing chemical names and complicated spray schedules, many gardeners just neglect to spray at all. The result is less fruit and lower quality.

Recently, however, several companies have put on the market general fruit spray mixtures. Available at garden supply stores, drug stores, and some department stores, these mixtures contain the necessary insecticides and fungicides for fruit insect and disease control.

The department of botany and plant pathology at Purdue University has prepared a mimeograph for the home gardener which gives easy-to-follow directions and schedules for using these general purpose fruit sprays. Copies of this publication, "Disease Control in the Home Orchard," can be secured at local extension offices or by writing to the office of agricultural publications, Purdue University Lafayette, Indiana.

The pictures were taken by the Zekan & Robbins photographers, Harlan, Iowa, and are all of farms in the Mentone trading area. The pictures are not identified and it will be up to the owners or neighbors to notify this newspaper office. The pictures were taken by airplane and not even the photographer knows one from the other. It will be interesting to see who is the first to identify the pictures each week. Phone Mentone 38. We will endeavor to publish the names of each person correctly identifying the pictures each week.

The farm owner will be given the original 5 x 7 mounted picture absolutely free of any cost. All we require is that the operator himself come to our office and give us a little information about the farm, its operation, etc. Additional prints, colored enlargements, etc. can be obtained by contacting this newspaper.

Farms Are Identified

The farm pictured in our last issue was the 320-acre farm on which William and Margaret Blackburn reside. They have been on the place, four miles south and one mile west of Mentone, for the past nine years, where they do general farming, including the raising of hogs, and cattle and they also have about 300 laying hens. The two children, Phillip, aged 11, and Beverly Sue, 8, attend the Beaver Dam school.

The large farm was the former Ora Tucker place and is now owned by Henry Hirsch of Logansport.

Some of those who correctly identified the farm were: Mrs. Nora Tucker, Audrey Whetstone, Mrs. Paul Huff, C. O. Eiler, H. V. Johns, Orven Heighway and Mrs. Merl Swick.

The farm pictured the previous week has been identified as the Reuben Kamp farm, some seven miles south of Mentone. Harold Miller and Richard Whittenberger, at least, said they recognized it as this farm.

CRYSTAL LAKE 4-H CLUB

The Crystal Lake 4-H Club met recently at the Bradbury home. The meeting was called to order by the president, Sheila Binkley. The pledges were led by Sue Frederick and Nancy Bradbury. Roll call and minutes were read.

Old and new business items were:

We decided to go to the show, "On the Waterfront", when it comes—We asked Mrs. Eiler to give a talk on accessories at the next meeting—We will have a crazy band for the "Share the Fun Festival." We also decided to have 4-H Sunday on April 17, at the Christian Church in Palestine.

A talk was given by Mrs. Bradbury on "How to Care for the Sick."

We had two demonstrations: "Dutch Cherry Cake and Sauce" by Sheila Binkley, and "Tray for the Sick," by Nancy Bradbury. Nancy also had a "Health and Safety" report.

Ways To Prepare Broiled Chicken

Let's have something special—broiled chicken. For the tender-rest, juiciest broiled chicken, use one-and-one half to two-and-one half pound ready-to-cook broiler-fryers, suggests Miss Ann Liggett, extension foods and nutrition specialists at Purdue University.

Chicken is a valuable source of protein for body-building and tissue-repairing.

The broilers often are split down the back and broiled whole with, or without, the breast bone.
You may cut larger broilers into quarters. Before broiling, wipe the chicken as dry as possible. Conventionally, chicken is brushed with butter, but barbecue sauces can be a delicious variation.
You may add chives, parsley, minced garlic or onion to the butter. Always start cooking chicken with the skin side away from the heat and broil slowly with moderate heat. Turn the chicken several times as it browns and baste often until it is a golden brown, crisp and tender.

This method of cooking takes about 45 to 60 minutes.

Chicken is a very perishable food that must be kept cold when raw and quickly chilled after cooking if it is not to be eaten at once.

A WOMAN'S CLEVERNESS

A Chicago housewife got fed up with the voluminous correspondence in which she invariably found herself involved when a department store bill was wrong or when she found it necessary to write to a manufacturer about an unsatisfactory item. What, she pondered, happens to the woman who hasn't got a college degree and how on earth does she fill out those blanks and answer those questions?

She decided that she would find out the next time a suitable occasion arose. So when her iron went bad, she took the tag that had come on it and, across the back, printed crudely, "My Iron She No Get Hot."

Promptly, she received a new iron and no blank to fill out from the factory's service department.

Fire Chief Arlo Friesner was pleased with receiving the fine ratings for the two pumpers.

Cattle Feeders' Day, April 29

For years animal nutritionists have arbitrarily suggested that urea be used to replace only one-third of the soybean oil meal in protein supplements for cattle. After six years of research, Purdue nutritionists feel that the level of urea can be safely increased in protein supplements. This is just one of the many new developments in the field of cattle nutrition that will be released to more than 2000 cattle feeders expected to attend the annual Indiana Cattle Feeders' Day at Purdue, April 29.

The program will start with a tour of the experimental barns showing four groups of cattle. One group has been fed a silage supplement type fattening ration with antibiotics added. Another group will show the effects of three different female like hormones on calves. A third group will be two year old steers treated with male and female type hormones alone, and in combination, and the fourth group has been on modifications of supplement A. Also shown will be gilts following calves fed female like hormones.

Speakers will include M. T. Mohler, T. W. Perry, W. M. Beeson, Henry Mayo, and F. N. Andrews of the Purdue animal husbandry department. C. H. Nickol, manager, Lynnwood Farm, Carmel, and Albert K. Mitchell, Tequesquite Ranch, Albert, New Mexico, will also speak.

Topics will include effects of antibiotics on cattle fattened on corn silage or grass silage, feeding ground ear corn free choice, different levels of urea for fattening cattle, comparison of sodium metabisulphite, corn, and cobs for grass silage preservatives utilization of pasture in fattening cattle, use of hormones in livestock feeding, and raising feeder cattle for the corn belt.

Cattle feeders day is sponsored annually by Purdue University and the Indiana Cattle Feeders' Association.

PENNY SUPPER APRIL 29

Mr. Freeland, music director at the Tippecanoe school, has asked us to announce that a penny supper and carnival will be held on Friday, April 29th.

Spittlebugs In Clover And Alfalfa

Spittlebugs will soon show up in clover and alfalfa, says Glen Lehker, Purdue University extension entomologist.

The insects are among the first to appear in the spring and are usually present in southern Indiana by mid-April. The newly hatched bugs are easily overlooked but their presence may be indicated by wet spots on the stems of the plants. As the bugs grow they move upward into the leaf axils and make the typical spittle masses.

Damage caused by spittlebugs is well-known to most farmers, Lehker says. They cause stunting and reduced yields which often amount to losses of one-half the crop. Present also may be clover leaf weevils. These curved-bodied, green-colored worms eat holes in the leaves of clover and add to the damage. Both can be controlled with the same spray, the Purdue man says. He recommends BHC as one of the better materials, although such insecticides as toxaphene, methoxychlor, and heptachlor are also effective.

BHC should be used at 2 p.p.s. of the liquid emulsion per acre mixed with enough water to apply it. With most crop sprayers this will be 5 to 10 gallons per acre.

A good time to spray is the last week in April.

Treatments made during the first week in May are satisfactory throughout central and northern Indiana.

Excessive speed was the principal cause of traffic accidents in 1954.

Possible Township Merger?

APRIL 20, 1955

More than 200 citizens of Seward, Lake and Clay townships, Kosciusko county, met at the conservation club house on McClure Lake last night to enjoy a fish supper and discuss the possible merger of Seward township with the other two taxing units.

The meeting was called to order by Rex Parker, chairman of the Seward committee for better schools, which is seeking to dissolve the township and merge with the other two units, and he in turn introduced other speakers. Rev. D. L. Slaybaugh, of Akron, opened the meeting with prayer and then Forest Higgins introduced Judge Lowell Peffley, Columbia City, who acted as moderator for the affair.

Mr. Parker stated that the meeting had been called to discuss the possible merger of the three townships and stated that he was in favor of the proposal "because we think it is the natural plan."

Following some remarks by Judge Peffley about the changing situation in the school world today the meeting was thrown open to a discussion period and many questions were asked and answered. The judge stated: "I'm for consolidation because it cuts down costs and gives us better schools for our children."

Trustees Ray Wilson of Clay township and Maurice Walther of Lake were both present and manifested interest in the plan. Wilson stated that if the north half of the township, the part that lays adjacent to his township, wanted to unite with Clay township he would keep a grade school at Burket and bring the six upper grades into Claypool where they have just about completed a building program. Mr. Walther stated he would probably hold the first six grades at Franklin school and bring the other pupils to Silver Lake where a building program is anticipated.

It was pointed out that if the plan advanced by the group is acceptable to 51 per cent of the freeholders of each of the three townships it is mandatory on the part of the county commissioners to consummate the idea. It was further pointed out by Judge Peffley that legal descriptions of the properties in the townships would not be changed if the township is merged. Legal descriptions are now made on the old congressional township basis and would remain unchanged. Judge Peffley expressed an opinion that he could see no reason to expect an increase of tax rate in either of the localities in case of merger. In fact, it was pointed out, the more than 3 million dollar valuation of Seward, when divided and added to the other two townships, should make them enough extra valuation to keep the same or even lower the rates in future years.

Trustee Maurice Walthers of Lake township stated they were planning an addition to their school building whether a part of Seward comes to them or not, and the addition of the Seward property should make it possible for them to do a better job for the same or less tax rate.

It was announced that Trustee Fred Blackburn, who was not present, had been assured that the commission of the Burket school would be continued if the bonding program is underway this summer. Some question was made of the extent of improvement in school property planned by trustee Blackburn, but no one present was able to answer this.

Mr. Parker read some interesting figures which showed how much more it was costing the Seward township people to maintain their high school than it was costing Lake and Clay.

Although it was not made clear in the meeting, proponents of the plan stated later they want to abandon Seward by joining the southern half of the township with Lake, while they would want the northern half to go to Clay township. They pointed out that by splitting the township along the present precinct line the two townships created in this manner would be of normal size and that in each case the towns where schools are located would be near the exact geographical center of the new units. They claim that in most cases students will not be hauled any farther to school than is now being done in the present set up.

Judge Peffley stated that the state school board was frowning on high school units that were being maintained for less than 100 pupils, and stated that the proposed plan would make two high schools, Silver Lake and Claypool, that could be operated on an economical basis.

Petitions were present for those to sign who favored the plan, as well as petitions for those to sign who wanted to take their name off the petition circulated recently to bond Seward for a new building.

There were some signers for both petitions.

Saturday evening callers at the John Stiffler home in Elkhart, were Mr. and Mrs. Dale Stiffler and Mr. and Mrs. Hobart Stiffler. Ice cream and birthday cake were served in honor of Hobart Stiffler.

With the housewife now demanding leaner pork, the pork producing industry is now emphasizing the meat-type hog. One of the highlights of the Swine Day to be held at Fuller Farms, Shelbyville, Indiana, on Saturday, May 7, will be a demonstration of the Lean Meter.

This is an electronic device, designed by Dr. Fred Andrews of Purdue University, that measures the backfat thickness of the live hog. Swine and meat experts have agreed that the amount of backfat tells nearly a complete story on the carcass quality of the animal.

In the picture above Dr. Andrews is checking the backfat thickness of a Duroc at the Purdue University Farm with the new Lean Meter. Prof. Hobart Jones of Purdue University, who is holding the animal, will conduct the demonstration.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Filar-sky and son, Steven of Fort Wayne, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Blackwell Sunday.

Mrs. Curit Riner called on Mrs. Bert Rickel Monday-afternoon.

Mrs. Edison Vandermark entertained at her home Thursday in honor of Miss Etta Wallace of Clunette, who celebrated her birthday that date. Those present were Mrs. Avery Hall of Leesburg, Mrs. John Wallace of Clunette, Mrs. Goldie Powell of near Leesburg and the honored guest Miss Wallace. Mrs. Wallace baked the birthday cake.

Mr. and Mrs. Mirl Leek and daughters Crista and Merla, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. James Rose Sunday.

Sunday callers at the Bert Rickel home were Mr. and Mrs. Herb Riley of Muncie, Mr. and Mrs. Burdeen Sellers and sons of Silver Lake, Mrs. Ollie Sellers, of Silver Lake and Mrs. Freda Kay and son, Jerry of Warsaw.

Mr. and Mrs. Boice Underhill of South Bend visited the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Bruner, Sr., Sunday.

The M. Y. F. of the Methodist Church was well attended Sunday evening. The Young people give all of the young people a cordial invitation to come and meet with them. Next meeting May 1, at 6:30 p. m.

Zero Grazing For Dairy Herd

Lafayette, Ind.—Zero-grazing plan is a dairy sign post pointing to increased efficiency in milk production, believes G. A. Williams, Purdue University extension dairyman. Zero-grazing is a practice of summer management involving chopping forage and hauling it to the cattle.

A more general use of the practice will maintain more uniform production, reduce the acreage per cow required for the grazing season, and lessen the amount of concentrates fed per hundred pounds of milk produced, says Williams.

Records of one DHIA cooperator of Miami County show that by following the zero-grazing plan he produced an average of 11,515 pounds of milk per acre of forage. The feed supply was cut in the evening and replenished daily. Time required going to the field, operating the chopper, returning to the feed lots, and unloading the grass amounted to about an hour per day. The forage was cut in the evening to reduce heating as much as possible.

When the pasture reached a height of 7-8 inches, about May 1, he started to harvest the growth from a 6 acre field. The DHIA records for May showed 22 cows produced 22,747 pounds with a feed cost for the grass and 5,456 pounds of concentrates amounting to $224. This 6 acre area lasted the herd four weeks. In order to allow the crop to make sufficient growth to reharvest, a three acre tract was pastured for two weeks.

At the end of the two-week chopping was begun again on the 6 acre field and continued until August 20. Then the three acre field was chopped and fed which lasted the herd until the middle of September. At that time chopping was stopped and the herd harvested their own grass until the end of the grazing season.

More than 100 days of zero-grazing amounted to a total of 103,575 pounds of milk at a feed cost of $1,018.

Want To Make War On Pests?

Is it ants that pester you? Cheer up, soon it'll be crabgrass in the lawn. Then box elder bugs. Or—Heaven forbid—termites!

Whatever pest of household, garden or farm makes life miserable for you, what to do about it is told in a little green booklet, "1955 Pest Control Guide" just published by the Indiana Farm Bureau Cooperative Association.

For some the prescription is DDT. But bugs have a way of growing immune to DDT. When they do, the insect fighters concoct other lethal potions and the co-op will gladly supply them, in either dust or spray form.

Maybe you can't identify the enemy. Chances are you'll find his picture, big as life, in the book.

Is your lawn devastated by crabgrass? Don't let it happen again. Start using a thing called "PMA" in early May, the co-op advises.

Can you halt termites by spraying something on the sills of your house? They'll laugh at you, warns the co-op, and go right on tearing your house down. To undermine those babies you must dig down around the foundations and saturate the soil with chlordane or penta. The book says so on page 20.

For either mice in the basement or wasps in the attic, there's a specific remedy. So is there for every bug and blight of the garden, orchard, field and stable, not to mention the grain bin. They are all listed in the index.

To say that this is a useful book, for city folk and suburbanites as well as farmers, is to put it mildly. And the materials recommended can be bought at any farm and garden store. Many of them are at the nearest drug-store.

A free copy of the 1955 Pest Control guide is yours for the asking at any Farm Bureau Co-op store, or can be had by mail from Indiana Farm Bureau Co-op Association, 47 South Pennsylvania Street, Indianapolis.

Weekend crashes accounted for 13,980 killed and 678,00 hurt during 1954.

Polio Vaccine Administered to Local School Children This Week

When the long-hoped-for Salk vaccine became available this past week end, it was the signal for mass immunization of children throughout the entire country. In Kosciusko County, Dr. Ryland Roesch, the County Health Officer, administered the first shots at Claypool, and all other schools will follow in the program. The immunizations at Burket and Beaver Dam are being given by Dr. W. B. Wilson, those at Mentone by Dr. Urschel. These initial immunizations, being given to 1st and 2nd grade students, are being made with vaccine supplied without cost by the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis. Doctors and Nurses are contributing their time and work without charge as a part of the national fight against this dread disease. A second immunization injection will be given to the same children, also without cost, four weeks after the first. Dr. Salk, principal developer of the vaccine, has suggested that a third dose be given 7 months later, but this will not be supplied by the National organization.

Inasmuch as these initial shots are being given to a selected group of schoolchildren, and with vaccine supplied by an organization, many questions have arisen as to the availability of this for general use. Representative questions may be answered as follows:

1. All Doctors will have a certain amount available for general use within a few weeks. The Drug firms which are producing the vaccine have assured the physicians that there should be enough to immunize everyone who desires it, within approximately three or four months.

2. Most Doctors are planning to use their initial supplies for younger children, and for pregnant women, those groups most susceptible to the disease.

3. The shots will be given in the same manner they are being administered to the school-children, the first two being spaced a month apart, the third seven months later.

4. Most Doctors are handling this on a first-come, first-served basis, making lists of those who apply for the vaccine. In other words, call your Doctor, ask him to place your child's name on his list, and he will contact you as soon as the material is available. As is often true in scarcities, there will be temptation to get on several lists, in hopes that you will be taken care of earlier. Such an attitude will only cause confusion for everyone, and it will be much better to ask the Doctor where your child's name is on the list, and how much material he will have available. Then, if the wait seems too long, another Doctor should be consulted. In that manner, a much more equitable distribution of the vaccine will be possible.

5. Although there is no fixed price generally adopted for the vaccine, the cost will be moderate equal to or only a little more than that charged for other immunizations such as Diphtheria and Tetanus. If any family cannot afford this moderate cost, vaccine will be available through public sources so that no child need go unprotected.

Dear 4-H Members and Parents,

"Look, Mother, I got a red ribbon on my cookies. I can see some of the other exhibits are better shaped than mine."

"I agree, Janice. Do you know what to do so yours will be better shaped?"

"The judge said I may have been in a hurry and not measured the ingredients carefully. The ones I baked last week were better, I think."

This conversation might well have taken place at any 4-H exhibit. It may serve to introduce the topic of the philosophy of 4-H Club work.

Basically, 4-H aims to build better boys and girls—blue ribbon boys and girls irregardless of what color ribbon is received on an exhibit. Very often, however, emphasis is placed on the color ribbon received.

Exhibiting is a show of what the member can do. In some instances a product prepared, in baking for example, is exceptionally good, so the member gets a blue ribbon. On the other hand another member may have baked excellent products but, when trying real hard to do good for fair exhibit, the resulting product is not so good. Consequently, the exhibit receives only a red or perhaps a white ribbon. In either case each member may have learned as much about baking as the other. Also each may have achieved similarly in experiences in their local 4-H club. Then actually, each may have been a blue ribbon girl.

Another point in the philosophy of 4-H work is that there is more than one good way to do something. This gives the girl or boy an opportunity to think and choose. Effort is made to point out this matter of choice to leaders and parents. Judges are advised of this policy and, disregarding personal likes or dislikes, do try to be fair in making placings. I can say this very honestly having served as a 4-H judge in three nearby counties. Group placings as used in this county in girl's work gives everyone a chance for recognition.

This too relieves pressure on a judge who several years ago had to select a first thru fifth placing in a project division. Can you imagine having to do this from one hundred thirty butter cakes!!!!

So during this coming summer and throughout county fair week, let's think about the 4-H member. Will she be a blue ribbon girl?

When achievement record of a member is considered, it is the growth of the member in the number and difficulty of projects, in participation in club activities that count—not the number of blue ribbons received.

an invitation to all to visit the library after the meeting.

Bill Boles, public relations assistant of Bell Aircraft, was on hand to secure pictures and information for Bell Aircraft News and the Buffalo (N. Y.) newspapers.

Miss Carolyn Whitenack, from the office of the State Superintendent of Public Instruction, in the high school library division, who had much to do in assisting the local committee in establishing the library, was an interested guest. She stated that Mentone can now be used as an example of the finest in small school libraries.

The achievement of the new library, exemplified so admirably in the ceremonies this evening, has been due to the work of many people, and to name each of them would be a virtual impossibility. Permit us to say that every assistance is appreciated.

Prior to the dedication service, a chicken dinner, supplied and arranged by certain of the committee members, was enjoyed by Mr. Bell and his staff, and other guests and committeemen. It was served in the school cafeteria.

Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Grant and children, of Mentone, and Mr. and Mrs. Carey Looney and children, of Valparaiso, were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Kehoe. Mr. Looney is pastor of the Church of Christ in Valparaiso. He and his family plan to sail for Japan about June first where they will spend the next three years as missionaries.

Find Big Mushroom

Mushroom stories haven't been too plentiful, yet, but Don Smythe came in this evening with a rather good sized sponge mushroom. It measured 11 and one-half inches in circumference and six and a half inches high. It weighed better than six ounces on our scale—and it was never used to weigh meat.

Don, with Ray Engle and Chas. Moore, of Warsaw, were going north on Highway 15 out of Warsaw, with a truck load of cement for Reliable Builders. Ray Engle said he thought that was a mushroom standing beside one of the telephone poles, so when they came back they stopped and picked the specimen referred to above.

(Donnie didn't say a thing about how he managed to end up with the delicacy.)

Mrs. Harold Utter will be the director of the Methodist Church Vacation Bible School to be held May 23 through June 3. Details and staff will be announced later. Ages included will be four years through junior class grades.

Greencastle, Ind. — (Special)—O

David Gosser, Mentone, has been awarded a four-year Rector Scholarship to DePauw University, Dr. John J. Wittich, director of the Rector Foundation, announced today.

Gosser was one of 177 young men from nine states to receive Rector grants for the 1955-56 academic year. The scholarships range in value up to $2,000.

This year's total is one of the largest in the history of the $2,500,000 Rector Scholarship Foundation, one of the largest single scholarship funds ever given to an educational institution.

More than 4000 DePauw students have held Rector Scholarships since the foundation was established in 1919 by the late Mr. and Mrs. Edward Rector of Chicago.

In addition to the new recipients, there will be several hundred upperclass Rector Scholars on the DePauw campus next year.

Winners are chosen on the basis of scholarship, personality, leadership and character.

Visitors at the A. O. (Dobbs) Miller home last Thursday afternoon, were Lawrence Bell, Anthony Sisti, Leston Faneuf, Bill Boles, all of Bell Aircraft, Buffalo, and Morrison Rockhill and Alvin Rockhill, of Warsaw. Mrs. Miller and Mrs. Bell are cousins.

49,000 4-H Awards In Four Programs

Four National 4-H programs are giving club members excellent opportunity to carry out their 1955 theme, "Improving Family and Community Living."

Beautifying the home inside and out, decreasing agricultural losses, and improving living conditions by adding to the convenience of the farm and home are the objectives of the National 4-H Home Improvement, Beautification of Home Grounds, Entomology and Electric programs.

There are 49,000 awards offered for those who do outstanding work. Incentives, valued at $66,000, include 20 college scholarships of $300 each, all-expenses trips to the National 4-H Club Congress, 19-jewel wrist watches, and gold-filled medals.

In the Home Improvement program, 4-H'ers learn to make the home more attractive and convenient at a minimum cost. In a recent year, members made 475,000 articles and decorated 150,000 Awards, provided by the Sears Roebuck, Foundation, include 4 medals for winners in each county, a trip for the state winner to the 4-H Club Congress in Chicago, November 27 - December 1, and eight $300 scholarships for national winners.

Improving the appearance of the outside of the home is popular with 4-H members too. About 150,000 4-H'ers take part in the Beautification of Home Grounds program each year. Paint-up, fix up and landscaping are all a part of their activities. In addition to making the home more attractive, property value is increased as a result of the 4-H'ers accomplishments. Medals for 4 county winners, a 19-jewel wrist watch for the state winner, and trips to the National 4-H Club Congress for eight national winners are made available by Mrs. Charles R. Walgreen of Chicago.

The electric program gives 4-H'ers an opportunity to add to the convenience around the farm and home. More than 100,000 members participated last year, learning to take care of, use, repair and build electrical equipment, perform demonstrations, and plan new or improved uses of electricity. Four medals are offered to county winners by the Westinghouse Educational Foundation, donor of awards. State winners will receive a trip to the Club Congress, where six national winners will be presented $300 scholarships.

Insects, age-old friends and foes of man, provide the subject for the 4-H Entomology program. By participating, members learn about insect life and its relation to man, learn to recognize major pests and beneficial insects, and learn about the use of chemicals and other control meaasures. 4-H'ers also collect insects, conduct life history studies, and make surveys.

Losses in agriculture due to insects, estimated by the U. S. Department of Agriculture at over $2 billion annually, make entomology potentially one of the most financially important 4-H programs. Awards for outstanding accomplishment are provided by the Hercules Powder Co. Medals are offered to four county winners, and the state winner receives a 19-jewel wrist watch. Twelve sectional winners receive trips to the Club Congress, and six of the sectional winners will be presented $300 scholarships as national winners.

All of the programs are conducted by the Cooperative Extension Service, and the National Committee on Boys and Girls Club work arranges the award programs. Full information is available at County Extension offices.

J. Wayne Green, eminent Trichologist, demonstrates causes of baldness and how it can be prevented.

How to Have Hair for a Lifetime To Be Demonstrated Here by Famous Trichologist

Offers Written Guarantee
An exclusive interview by Steven Bright

Wichita. (Special)—J. Wayne Green, Director of Rogers, Inc., Hair and Scalp Specialists, exploded the "myth of baldness" today in an exclusive interview.

"Baldness is unnecessary, costly and a plague to mankind," says Green. "No man need to be bald. No man need suffer the stigma of premature old age, forced upon him because he is losing his hair. The Rogers method of hair and scalp treatment can prevent baldness—can turn colorless fuzz into healthy, growing hair—can make you look youthful again."

Demonstration to Be held In Rochester, Indiana

This revolutionary method of home treatment for the hair and scalp will be demonstrated in Rochester, Indiana, Friday Only, April 29, at the Arlington Hotel. Trichologist Kenneth Harris will conduct the private individual interviews from 12 noon until 9 p. m. ONLY. There is no cost or obligation, and you need no appointment.

Reason for Baldness

"There is always a reason for baldness," continued this nationally known authority. "Hair cannot grow through a scalp that is afflicted with dandruff, excessive oiliness, or extreme dryness. A scalp that has never been exercised cannot be expected to produce healthy hair." Men, and yes, women, too, walk the streets

today, completely devoid of nature's greatest ornament—hair. Simply because they were not taught the basic rules of hair and scalp hygiene while they were growing up. "The simple answer," emphasized this expert, "is that children should be taught the same simple basic rules of hair and scalp hygiene that they are taught for the proper care of their teeth. If this were the case, baldness would be a rarity today!"

Heredity Not Involved

Trichologist Green dodged no issues. He quickly took up the most widely spread theory of baldness—heredity. "Mankind's unrealistic belief that baldness is hereditary stems from a misinterpretation of the theory of genetics. Theory does not state that any person must be bald because baldness exists in the family. What it does say, is that in some families, a tendency exists towards an under-nourished scalp." The purpose of the Rogers Hair and Scalp Clinic is to teach the methods of strengthening the weak scalp and nourishing it to a healthy, vigorous condition. "A healthy scalp will grow hair if it is not already completely bald," assures Green.

Is There Hope for the Completely Bald
In his travels throughout the United States and Canada, Green has collected hundreds of testimonials of his abilities to develop weak fuzz into healthy, mature hair. All of his clients have started with private examination, hair and scalp analysis, and a diagnosis of the disorder. Green is quick, however, to tell a hopeless case that he cannot help. "We strongly advise," says Green, "that no person who is completely bald hold any hope whatsoever of regrowing hair. If there's any fuzz at all, we can restore a healthy scalp condition and the hair will grow normally again as nature intended."

Offers a Guarantee

"Rogers, Inc. America's Foremost Hair and Scalp Specialists, offer a guarantee to any client who enrolls for treatment. If he or she is not completely delighted with the results at the end of 30 days, the money invested will be graciously refunded," says Green. "We must have satisfied clients. We must grow hair. After all, it is our best advertising factor."

Is Your Hair Healthy?

If you have a scalp disorder, or if you are worried about your hair, call Trichologist Kenneth Harris at the Arlington Hotel in Rochester, Indiana, Friday ONLY from 12 noon to 9 p. m. The public is invited. The examination is private and open to men and women. You do not need an appointment, and you will not be embarrassed or obligated in any way.

cleaned or graded? Is it a single variety free of contamination? Does it have superior performing ability?

Many varieties of crops are available so that it is often difficult to select the proper one. In order to guide farmers in the use of the correct small grain and soybean varieties, Purdue University conducts a testing program and from these tests determines which varieties are best adapted to Indiana conditions. To insure that pure seed of these recommended varieties are always available to farmers in adequate quantities at reasonable prices a program of seed certification is carried out. As a result, only small grain and soybean varieties that are recommended by Purdue are included in the seed certification program.

Only adapted varieties carry a blue Indiana shaped tag to indicate that they have been through the seed certification process. Not only does this tag verify that the variety is adapted and that it is true to the variety name listed on the tag, it also assures the farmer of getting good germination, properly cleaned or graded seed, and seed that has met all certification requirements. The presence of this tag takes the guess work out of seed buying.

Different classes of certified small grain and soybean seed being produced include Foundation, Registered, Registered 1, and Registered 2 or Certified seed. The class which one buys is not of major importance unless the producer plans to recertify his crop says Douglas. Seed moves from the Foundation through the Registered and finally to the Certified class before it is no longer eligible for re-certification.

The entire program of seed certification puts order into a system of seed multiplication and distribution, and helps the farmer obtain new varieties in the shortest possible time.

4-H Club Chatter

By Ruth Snellenberger

Dear 4-H Parents and Friends,

"We find the calendar a good place on which to mark things done for 4-H. But, then, I have to keep after Jane to be sure she writes it down."

"I trail along to club meetings because I feel it helps to see what other members do. It helps to keep order at the meeting when parents are there. Then, too, I learn right along with the kids."

"I just have to keep after Janice to get her work done for 4-H but then I had to keep at Sarah the first year or so too. Now, she enjoys club work and there's no problem at all to her getting her work done."

These remarks could well be those of any parent. This help and any other is deeply appreciated for 4-H club work could not progress without parent's support and cooperation.

Help of parents as leaders is necessary in this county, too. In some instances parents serve as project instruction leaders. In other ways parents help provide transportation to club meetings or events, serve as judges in local club demonstration contests. During exhibiting at fair time parents assist in many ways.

Now with a new venture this year—4-H Night at the County Fair—the cooperation of parents and friends of 4-H will be needed. A meeting of Adult Leaders and local club advisory committee members is being held on Friday night, April 29, to outline plans. Any ideas anyone has to make this event spectacular and outstanding will be welcomed.

Bye now,
R. R. S.

Word from the State Seed commissioner and chemist at Purdue University warns farmers who harvested high moisture soybeans that they may encounter germination trouble with seed they have saved. Samples from these high moisture lots have not germinated well in Purdue's State seed laboratory tests. There is still time to submit soybean samples to the State Seed Laboratory for official testing before planting time.

Merry Mollys Take Trip

Fifteen members of the Merry Molly's Home Demonstration Club took a trip to South Bend last week. Besides tours of the Claeys Candy Company and the South Bend Tribune, the club members found time for shopping and a leisurely lunch at Smith's Cafeteria. They are all looking forward to another trip together.

The following poem was written by the club president.

THE MERRY MOLLYS' TRIP
The Merry Mollys took a trip
And everything went well
Although the president was sick
Everyone else felt swell!!

To the Claeys Candy Co. we went
10:30 by the clock
They showed us how they meant
To make a well filled candy box.

Then we went to eat,
Smith's Cafeteria was the place
Their food can't be beat
It showed on every smiling face.

Everyone likes to shop
So we spent an hour or two
We walked until thought we'd drop
And wished another pay check was due.

Now it was time to meet
And take a South Bend Tribune tour
That was quite a treat
And shown to us by a very nice sir.

Then it was time to go—
Time to say good-bye
First we stopped to have a coke

But saw that eve was nigh.
So home we came
Until another time
When perhaps we'll go again
And make another rhyme.

AMATEURS AND PROFESSIONALS on the staff of the Federal Civil Defense Administration provide a variety of voices for one of the skits in a series of "spot" announcements on "Conelrad," the emergency Civil Defense radio system. Recorded by FCDA's audio-visual director, Chet Spurgeon, and radio-TV head Nat Linden (seated), the skits and an accompanying tune are designed to make the public conscious of Conelrad's 640 and 1240 emergency radio frequencies. More than $5,000 has been saved the Government by using mostly amateur voices instead of professional actors. A West Coast firm pressed the records and mailed them to radio stations.

Conelrad, Emergency Radio Net Topic Now

Spot announcements to make the public "Conelrad conscious" are being beamed at Americans over some 2,700 standard AM radio stations.

Unlike most commercials, these lively 30-second "spots" could be a life or death matter. For their purpose is to publicize the Federal Civil Defense Administration's Conelrad radio system for warning civilians of impending aerial attack, and how to survive it.

In rural areas especially, where people are scattered and fast communications are difficult, knowing the Conelrad frequencies of 640 and 1240 would be like being able to listen in on a high party line whose sole purpose was to keep the country folks informed of the situation in an H-bomb blasted city. At the same time, it would warn them to take cover or evacuate if necessary from areas threatened with heavy radioactive fall-out.

Nat S. Linden, director of FCDA's radio-television section, with Louis E. Aiken, a member of his staff, found that the cosmopolitan personnel at FCDA headquarters provided an ideal cross-section of voices and accents from all parts of the United States to dramatize the question "What is Conelrad?"

Conelrad, an abbreviation of "Control of Electromagnetic Radiation," is actually more technical than dramatic, however. It is a special system to make possible broadcasting of Civil Defense instructions over standard radio stations, even while enemy bombers are approaching, without allowing them to follow the radio beams into their target. During World War II all radio stations had to go off the air as enemy planes approached.

Since radio stations in the Conelrad cluster will broadcast only at 640 and 1240 kilocycles on the radio dial FCDA officials hope to make those numbers as familiar to citizens as their own telephone numbers. Already almost all new radios for the home and most of the new car radios have dials specially marked at 640 and 1240 to indicate the emergency Conelrad frequencies.

To fix these important numbers in people's minds, Aiken, one-time opera singer in Chicago, begins and ends each announcement with a unique tune, sung to the words "640-1240, Conelrad."

In one version, his singing is interrupted by a smooth, southern drawl. An FCDA secretary from Columbus, Georgia, wants to know: "Conelrad? What's Conelrad, mister—some kind of Yankee talk?" He replies with the message on Conelrad.

Other stylized voices vary the routine. The cheerful voice of a housewife in one of the "spots" offers variety from the gruff voice of the labor leader in the voice of a child (played by an FCDA secretary).

Other voices represented in the announcements are those of an "old timer," a "farmer" a teenage girl, a Brooklyn office girl (her home and accent are from nearby Staten Island, N. Y.) and the sharp, quick tones of a "businessman."

All the voices are deliberate stereotypes, for they are planned to be used later as the voices of cartoon characters in a series of Conelrad "spots" for television.

The pictures were taken by the Zekan & Robbins photographers, Harlan, Iowa, and are all of farms in the Mentone trading area. The pictures are not identified and it will be up to the owners or neighbors to notify this newspaper office. The pictures were taken by airplane and not even the photographer knows one from the other. It will be interesting to see who is the first to identify the pictures each week. Phone Mentone 38. We will endeavor to publish the names of each person correctly identifying the pictures each week.

The farm owner will be given the original 5 x 7 mounted picture absolutely free of any cost. All we require is that the operator himself come to our office and give us a little information about the farm, its operation, etc. Additional prints, colored enlargements, etc. can be obtained by contacting this newspaper.

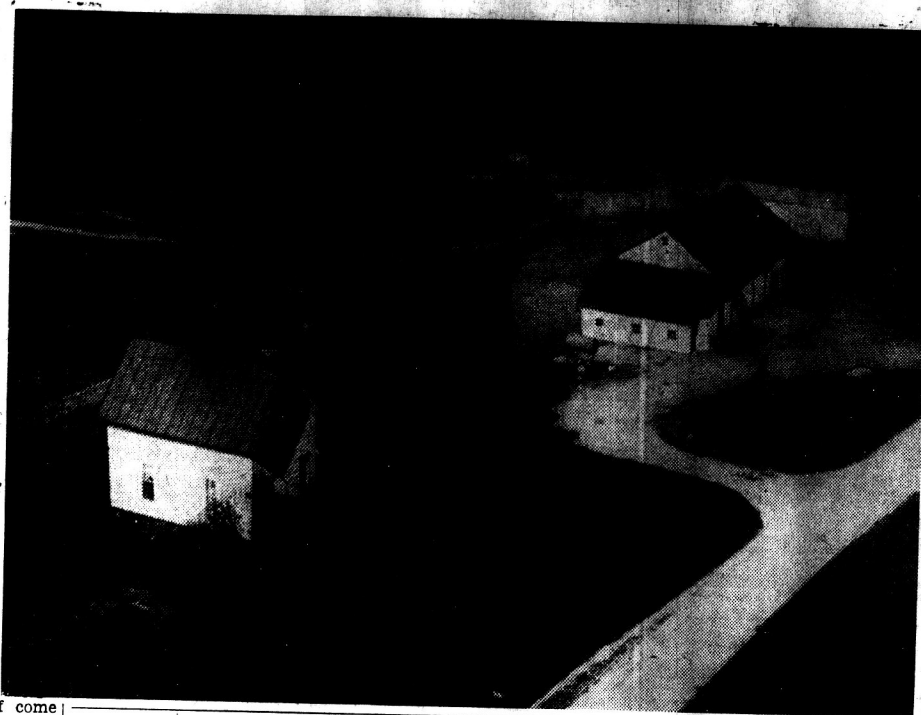

WAS HE CORRECT?

There was only one reply regarding the owner of the farm pictured in our last issue. Leroy Cox said he thought it was the Raymond Weirick farm. Did you agree when you saw it?

Do you recognize the picture above? If so, how about letting us know whose farm is pictured.

Small Snout Beetle Kills Sweet Clover

"Now you see it—now you don't!"

That's what many Hoosier farmers are saying about their stands of sweet clover. Plants come up satisfactorily, but soon disappear. Glen Lehker, extension entomologist at Purdue University, says there's no magic involved here—the disappearing act is probably caused by a little, gray, small snout beetle called the sweet clover weevil. This pest is now found throughout the state.

Young sweet clover seedlings that are not completely destroyed will have moon-shaped areas eaten into the leaf margins. Mature plants are attacked, too, but usually outgrow the damage.

Control can be obtained by spraying new seedlings of sweet clover while the plants are still in the two leaf stage. Several insecticides will do the job, including dieldrin at the rate of one quart per acre. Complete details are given in Mimeo E-64, "Fertilizer-Insecticide Mixtures for Sweet Clover Weevil Control," which is available at your local extension office.

A moderate decrease in automobile accidents was reported in 1954.

Muskmelons in The Home Garden

Muskmelon, often called cantaloupe, is a garden delicacy that has no equal in season. Fortunately is the home gardener who has garden space for this quality vegetable. The demand for muskmelons during July, August, and September will be greater this year due to the expected shortage of the peach crop, damaged this spring by cold weather.

According to W. B. Ward, extension specialist at Purdue University, muskmelon seed should be placed in the hill by late April to early May as it requires from 80 to 95 days for maturing the first ripe melons. "You should use a scoopful of rotted manure or good rich composted material, plus a few ounces of 10-10-10 or similar analysis fertilizer, mixed with the soil to make a hill every five feet in the row," says Ward. "Three to five seeds should be pressed into the hill as soon as the danger of freezing weather is past, and if all the seeds germinate, thin to one or possibly two plant to each hill and start a spray or dust control program to keep the melon beetles off the plants," Ward said. Weekly application of the controls are recommended.

Purdue "44", Hale's Best No. 36, Honey Rock, and Pride of Wisconsin are good varieties for Indiana. The muskmelon should be removed from the vine when the stem starts to separate from the melon. A complete netting over the rind is an indication of top quality.

Use Care When Transplanting

Transferring of a plant from the plant bed to the garden should be accomplished quickly and with utmost care. Even when the best method is used, transplanting does cause some stoppage of the growth, says W. B. Ward, extension garden specialist at Purdue University. The bare-rooted plants, those lifted from the soil with or without a small amount of soil adhering to the roots, should be well protected from dying.

The root system and the top plant growth have developed an equal balance between the two which should be kept. Ward says, "you should lift the plants gently from the seed bed, keep them covered with a damp cloth and set the plant in moist soil. Transplanting in the late afternoon or evening is the best time."

A plant starter solution composed of one-half pound of 10-10-10, or a special plant starter mixture, in 15 gallons of water will give the plant a good start. Use from one half to one pint of this solution around the plant to settle and moisten the soil around the roots.

Transplants from flower pots or other plant boxes should be handled gently so that the soil around the roots is not disturbed.

Testament League Active In Africa

Returning from Africa after launching the great New Africa Campaign of Scripture distribution and mass evangelism, Alfred A. Kunz, International Director of The Pocket Testament League, reports that conditions among the Mau Mau in Kenya continue to be very serious—so serious, in fact, that The League has revised its plans and has begun its campaign in Kenya immediately.

States Mr. Kunz:

"The missionaries at Nairobi, Kenya, have pleaded with us to begin our Africa Campaign there, feeling that great urgency of the need. There seems to be a general feeling in this community that the only thing that can save the situation is a genuine spiritual awakening.

"On every hand we have found confirmation of the Lord's leading to this strategic field. Even the editor of the leading newspaper told us that widespread Christian teaching was the thing most desperately needed there at this time. Large editions of our Gospels in the Kikuyu, Kiswahili and Kikamba languages have already been printed especially for use in the Mau Mau prison and detention camps and all the surrounding areas.

"While in Kenya, we heard many gruesome tales of Mau Mau atrocities, some of them too terrible for repetition. But the Word of God has power to convict and convert even the vilest sinner!

"Authorities in Kenya frankly state that it was the Christian Kikuyas that prevented the situation from getting completely out of hand to date. Pray for these Christians—and for the Mau Mau terrorists who have never heard the Gospel of Jesus Christ. We urge your Christian prayer support in this campaign to take the Word of God to this seed bed of racial hatred and terrorism."

Copies of the illuminating "Report From Africa" by Mr. Kunz may be obtained free of charge by writing to The Pocket Testament League, 156 Fifth Avenue, New York 10, N. Y.

To get rid of red mites, paint perches in the brooder house or range shelter with anthracene oil, says the poultry department at Purdue University. This should be done at least a week before the perches are put to use. Thorough drying after painting removes any danger of skin irritation to chickens through contact with the wet oil.

1,000,000th Cow Bred Artificially

Frank Scott, representative of the Curtiss Candy Company Improved Stud Service in this area, announces that the 1,000,000th cow has recently been bred under the Curtiss program. The cow, a Holstein, is in the famous Mooseheart herd at Mooseheart, Illinois.

"This record points up the popularity and success of artificial breeding in dairy herd improvement," Frank said. "The influence of outstanding bulls can be felt over many cows and in any part of the nation."

As a candy company, Curtiss has great interest in dairy herd improvement because its plants use 60,000,000 pounds of dairy products annually in the manufacture of its various bars and confectionery items. The farms were started in 1942 by the late Otto Schnering, founder of the Curtiss Candy Company.

Seniors Plan Annual Trip

Members of the senior class with their sponsor, Mr. Bunnell, have completed arrangements for the annual senior class trip. This year the class will visit Washington, D. C., New York City, and Niagara Falls. The students will leave by train on Sunday, May 22 and return the following Friday. The Cleary Travel Agency of Fort Wayne is making arrangements for the trip. Since the students have selected a more extensive trip than in the past, it is necessary for each student to contribute a larger share of the expense. As in the past few years, the money earned in class enterprises amounts to a little over fifty dollars per student. Mr. and Mrs. Delmer Bunnell will accompany the students.

Attendance for the Fifth Period Announced

Attendance during the fifth period was not as high as it has been during the other grading periods due to an extensive number of colds and flu. The percentages were:

1st—91.61%, 2nd — (McFarren) —93.14%, 2nd (Folk) —91.96% 3rd —95.24%, 4th—95.01%, 5th—96.4%, 6th—97.05%, 7th—95.7%, 8th —96.1%, 9th—94.6%, 10th—99.8%, 11th—96.7%, and 12th—94.6%.

There has been very little tardiness in recent weeks, although during the winter months tardiness has been higher than in other years.

Mentone Loses in Track Meet

In a three-way meet held last Thursday at Manchester College, Sidney defeated Mentone 60-35½. Atwood finished third with 31½ points. On Friday of this week the Mentone teams—both junior high and high school—will participate in the Kosciusko County Track Meets to be held at Syracuse starting at 1:00. As will be true elsewhere in the county, school will be dismissed early to give the students a chance to see the meet. The local Junior High team is conceded a chance to win the meet. As yet the local team is undefeated. Last Friday the junior high boys defeated Claypool 80½ to 18½.

The Roller Skating party sponsored by the Junior Class at Rock Lake on Monday evening was well attended.

Pre-school round-up for those pupils entering Mentone School next fall for the first time will be held on Wednesday afternoon, May 4th in the school cafeteria.

The annual Dress Review sponsored by the home economics classes under the direction of Mrs. Ralph Hoffman will be held in the gymnasium on Thursday afternoon, May 5th. The Review is open to the public.

Eighty three of the eighty five students in the first and second grades were given the Salk vaccinations for polio last Wednesday. The second and last shot will be administered at the school on Tuesday, May 17th. Dr. Dan Urschel administered the vaccine.

Gosser Family Expects to Move

It was with apprehension that many members and friends of the church met for a Pot-luck Family Supper and Quarterly Conference in the Church Dining Room on Tuesday evening, April 19. And their fears were realized when the District Superintendent, Dr. Thurman Morris announced at the close of the business session that with the reading and fixing of Appointments at the Annual Conference on May 29, at Muncie, a successor to the Rev. David P. Gosser, Pastor, would be named for the Mentone Charge.

Although Dr. Morris and Rev. Gosser may know the church to which Mr. Gosser is to be appointed, it was not publicly announced, and the successor was not named. It is definite, however, that a replacement will be sent to Mentone for the week following Annual Conference, and the present parsonage family will not be moving until after Memorial Day.

Additional information will be made available as the days of Annual Conference draw nearer. Rev. Gosser stated that the visiting committee which entered the worship serve late on April 17 was from Ligonier.

Cows Need Less Protein Supplement

Dairymen can cheapen the cost of their dairy grain mixtures during the summer months by discontinuing the addition of protein supplement, says, G. A. Williams, Purdue University extension dairyman.

Results of feeding trials conducted by the Bureau of Dairy Industry indicate that cows do not require more protein than is contained in the roughage and grain supply.

Cows in this test weighed 1000 pounds and received three different grain mixtures containing 10.11 per cent total protein, 14.5-15.5 percent, and 18.5-19.5 percent total protein. None of the cows were on pasture and most of them were on the ration for three consecutive lactations. Averages for the first and second lactations for cows on the high protein ration was 7,154 pounds of milk per cow. Cows on the medium protein rations averaged 7,849 pounds of milk per cow, and those on the low protein ration produced 8,463 pounds of milk per cow.

Williams points out that when pastures, either grass or legume, are grazed before the bloom or boot stage, a grain mixture of ground corn and oats supplies as much protein as is needed. Later in the season when the growth is more mature it may be advisable to use a protein supplement to the extent of 10 per cent of the grain mixture.

Reports on many DHIA records indicate that a further saving can be made in feed costs. Some dairymen make the mistake of feeding the same grain mixture both winter and summer. Another mistake is to feed the same amount of grain for each pound of milk production. Williams says that if pastures are abundant, one pound of grain should be enough for the production of five to eight pounds of milk daily.

Saturday is the most dangerous day of the week to drive.

No Guarantee In New Wool Law

Lafayette, Ind. Bills of sale will be important this year for wool producers desiring to apply for shorn wool incentive payments and lamb and yearling payments provided for in the National Wool Act, of 1954, says Henry Mayo, Purdue University extension sheep specialist.

For incentive payments on shorn wool, the bill of sale showing the number of pounds of wool sold and the total price received should give information required in filing applications with the local Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Office.

To qualify for payments for pulled wool from slaughter lambs or yearlings, producers must present to the ASCB a bill of sale showing the number of head sold with their total live-weight, the date of sale, and a certification that the lambs were sold for slaughter and had full wool pelts. Lambs sold after April 1, 1955, will be eligible for wool subsidy payments.

Producers will not be guaranteed 62 cents a pound for wool under the new program, however, incentives for efficient production and marketing are offered. Farmers will sell wool on the open market and receive incentive payments based on the difference between national average farm price of wool in 1955, and the 62 cent incentive price.

If the average net price to growers is 50 cents a pound, for example, the incentive price at 62 cents per pound is 24 per cent higher. Each farmer would receive 24 percent of his sale price as an incentive payment. A farmer who receives 40 cents a pound for wool would receive 9.6 cents a pound, and a farmer getting 60 cents a pound for wool at the market would receive 14.4 cents a pound incentive payment.

Wool marketed on or after April 1, 1955, will be eligible for incentive payments under the new program. Mayo adds, that since the national average market price influences the incentive payments, it probably will be mid-1956 before farmers receive incentive payments on 1955 wool.

Indiana Autos Used More Now

Average Indiana families are putting 1,000 miles more a year on the family car than they used to do 15 years ago, according to a study made by the Business Research Department of The B. F. Goodrich Company. In that period, travel-happy Indiana families have upped their average road mileage from 8,800 to 9,800 miles. This is 300 miles more than the national average increase in the same period.

The study revealed that in terms of average family income, automobile tires are better buys now than ever before. While average Indiana family incomes increased 252 per cent since 1940, replacement tire costs rose only 32 per cent. Today, Indiana families pay less each year to replace worn out tires than they spend on annual purchases of tobacco.

In driving 9,800 miles today, according to B. F. Goodrich, 1.5 tires, valued at $43.64 are worn out. This is about three-quarters of one per cent of total average family annual income in Indiana.

In traveling 8,800 miles in 1940, about 1.8 tires, costing $33.04, were worn out. Fifteen years ago, the proportion of Indiana family income going for tires was 2.7 times larger than the present figure.

According to the B. F. Goodrich study, Indiana family incomes averaged $6,100 in 1954, $200 more than the national average.

School Official Moves Here

Mr. and Mrs. John S. Frederick have moved from Silver Lake to the Emma Clutter home in Mentone. Mr. Frederick, who has been school principal at Silver Lake, has been hired as principal of the Mentone school for the coming year, replacing Walter Kent who has been offered an assistantship at Indiana University at Bloomington. Mr. Kent states that if he accepts this position he will also complete his D.B. degree at the university.

Mr. Kent has been principal at the Mentone school for five years and during that period many improvements have been consummated that required much extra effort on his part.

Mr. Kent has always had the interests of our school at heart, and this newspaper is especially grateful for the loyalty Mr. Kent has given us. In all news releases he has made every effort to release them to us first. Announcement of his leaving has been purposely withheld by this publication until such time as Mr. Kent felt that it would not affect the well-being of the students.

Candidate For College Council

North Manchester—Jon Cullum a freshman at Manchester college and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Artley D. Cullum of Mentone, has been nominated by his class as a candidate for election to the Community Council. A total of sixteen students will be competing for seats on the Council with eight to be chosen as the result of an all-school election.

A 1954 graduate of Mentone high school, Cullum is currently taking a pre-medical course. He has been appointed as a member of the 1956 Aurora (College year-book) staff and is a member of Al Kima (chemistry club). While in high school, he served as president of the senior class and was editor of the annual.

Miss Bernice Anderson of Indianapolis, was a dinner guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wilvin Long. The occasion was in honor of Mrs. Long's birthday.

Bell Offers Two Teacher Scholarships

Colonel Wayne W. Ricks, Commanding officer of the Indiana Wing Civil Air Patrol, announced during a recent visit to Warsaw the granting of two scholarships by Lawrence D. Bell, president of Bell Aircraft Corp., for Indiana educators to attend the Great Lakes regional aviation education workshops.

In making the announcement, Col. Ricks said it is Bell's wish that one of these scholarships remain in Kosciusko county and be made available first to a teacher in the Mentone school. In the event that no teacher can accept this grant, the committee, appointed by Col. Ricks, will then make the scholarship available to a teacher in the Warsaw city schools. Bell is a native of Mentone.

Bell, president and general manager of Bell Aircraft Corp., and dean of the nation's aircraft executives feels that the furtherance of aviation lies with the young people of the nation today, and for this reason is making available these scholarships for teacher training. He feels that aviation can be taught in our schools as a social study or science subject to the young people between the ages of 14 and 19 as the basic fundamentals of aeronautics.

The Great Lakes regional aviation education workshops will be held June 20 to July 22, 1955, at Miami University, Oxford, O., and August 22 to September 1, 1955, at Ball State Teachers college, Muncie. The purpose of the aviation education workshops is to provide an introduction to several aspects of aviation, in order that teachers may use this knowledge as a means of enrichment and student motivation in their classrooms. The course context will be centered around types of aircraft, aircraft power plants, basic aerodynamics, weather and navigation.

These scholarships are available through the local Civil Air Patrol Squadron, 208½ South Buffalo street, Warsaw, who in turn will recommend the applicant to the committee.

POOR GUESSER

Contrary to all rules of good newspapering—and my own previous decision—I mentioned an estimated number that attended the Bell library dedication last Wednesday evening. I'd rather be conservative, at least, but it seems some of the guesses ran from a little under a thousand to about twelve hundred. Regardless of the exact number, there was a very fine turn-out for the splendid program.

Mr. and Mrs. Russel Norris and Mrs. Samantha Norris were Sunday dinner guests of Mrs. Arlene Walters.

Promoted

Promotion of Rev. John R. Knecht, who has served as pastor of the First Evangelical United Brethren Church, Fourteenth and Chestnut streets, for the past four years, to associate secretary of evangelism for the Evangelical United Brethren denomination was announced following services Sunday. The appointment becomes effective July 1, and Rev. Knecht, past president of the Terre Haute Council of Churches, will be succeeded temporarily by Rev. C. G. McCrocklin, associate pastor of the church.

Rev. Knecht, who came to the local church from Clay City, where he served as pastor of the Clay City Evangelical United Brethren Church for two years, received his A. B. degree from Indianapolis Central College in Indianapolis, was graduated with a B. D. degree from the United Theological Seminary in Dayton, Ohio, and also was graduated with an M. A. degree from Yale University, New Haven, Conn. He and his wife served as missionaries in Canton, China, where he taught at Lingnan University before serving at the Clay City church.
