Solicit Aid

The Mentone Chapter of the American Legion Auxiliary will make a house-to-house canvas in Mentone Friday evening, Aug. 3, to secure financial aid to the Walter Kelly family, pictured here.

Walter, aged 28 and a veteran of World War 2, is at the Veterans' hospital in Fort Wayne with a lung condition, and is currently expecting a transfer to the Hines hospital.

Michael, aged 3, had surgery at the Riley hospital in Indianapolis July 5 and will undergo another operation August 6.

IN THE NEWS

Miss Wreatha McFarren, former teacher in the Mentone schools who recently resigned to take a similar position in Elkhart, has apartments at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Thompson at Elkhart.

If you have been following the daily news, you will remember that Danny Thompson, aged 12, was a contestant in the soap box derby at Elkhart, and has a big brother in the Navy. Danny cannot speak or hear, but 37 members of a navy band came to Elkhart to help him win. He didn't win, but certainly enjoyed all the attention that brother Ennis and the 37 navy musicians gave him.

George Osman relates that last Saturday, after the dinner guests had gone, they noticed the signature of Hon. Orville E. Hodge, of Illinois, on his guest register.

Writes from France

22 JULY 1956
France

Hello Artley,

There isn't much to write about and the people and their customs are so much different here that it's hard to explain.

When we first arrived here we moved out next to the beach and have been here pulling Mordexes (discharge of cargo from ship to shore) ever since. And believe me there is plenty of work to do then.

Well Art, this letter is for the purpose of telling you to stop sending the Mentone paper. Next month I rotate back to the States. It's been wonderful receiving the paper for these last three years. It's been just like another letter from home. So once again I want to thank you and your staff for your cooperation in making it possible for me to receive the paper. See you soon.

Yours truly,
FRITZ VANDERMARK

In loving memory of our dear son, and brother, Curley, who left us a year ago, August 6th. Today our hearts are heavy And the tears bedine our eyes. For a year ago today, dear You left for your home in the skies.

We, who have known and loved you

How we miss your tender smile, But soon beyond the sunset

We will meet you after awhile. You are safe in the arms of Jesus.

Just across on the other shore, There by God's love protected Your soul will rest evermore.

Place Fourth
In Herd Tests

Announcement has been received from The Holstein-Friesian Association of America of the completion of a lactation average by the registered Holstein herd belonging to Edith and Robert D. Ummel of near Claypool, and their 22 cattle produced an average of 14,125 pounds of milk and 528 pounds of fat, for fourth place in a field of nine herds listed.

Testing for the herd was supervised by Purdue University and the record is a part of the Herd Improvement Registry Program of The Holstein-Friesian Association of America, Brattleboro, Vermont. The program provides individual lactation and lifetime production records on every registered Holstein cow in the herds enrolled. Such records are valuable tools in the constant selection of individuals, families and bloodlines which must accompany a successful dairy cattle breeding program.

TRUCKS COLLIDE

Tuesday afternoon at the Herb Dorsey corner, Lewis Chinworth, 77, of R. 5, Warsaw, driving a pickup truck, started to turn when he was hit from the rear by Jacob Kreft, 18, of Tippecanoe, who was driving a poultry truck. The pickup turned around and then tore down some of the Dorsey fence. There were no injuries but there was about $400 damage to the pickup and $2100 to the truck and poultry. Kreft stated the pickup swerved to the left and he assumed the driver planned a left turn and not one to the right.

Control Mosquitoes

The harried householder who battles mosquitoes around his home now has a new chemical helper says Glen Lehker, Purdue University entomologist. Dieldrin, a chlorinated compound related to DDT, is the chemical. It can be used for spraying shrubbery, tree trunks, porch ceilings screens and other mosquito resting places. It is likewise effective for spraying upon stagnant water to destroy mosquito larvae or "wrigglers."

Dieldrin is best purchased as a 15 percent liquid concentrate which must be diluted with water before it is used. "To make a mosquito spray add 7 tablespoonfuls of this concentrate to a gallon of water. This amount is enough for treating about 8000 square feet or an average sized city lot," Lehker reports.

Dieldrin can be harmful to humans if not properly used. It will also kill fish. It is important therefore to follow directions on the package.

Additional relief can be obtained by getting rid of receptacles containing water, such as tin cans and old tires. It is surprising how many mosquitoes can develop in a can full of water. Lehker says. He adds that the newer mosquito and insect repellents such as Rutgers 6-12 and Indalone for rubbing on the skin are surprisingly effective and should be given a trial.

Farm Work Custom Rates

"Custom Rates Charged for the Use of Power Operated Farm Machines" is the title of a new extension publication, EC-130, by A. M. Nichter, agricultural economist at Purdue University.

This publication is a compilation of custom rates as reported by nearly 700 Indiana farmers. Reports, from every section of the state, are from those farmers who have hired custom work done and from those who have done custom work for others.

The contents of the publication provide farmers with information concerning custom rates paid by Indiana farmers in 1955 for various power operated farm machines. Information concerning custom rates which farmers expect to pay in 1956 is also a part of the contents.

Custom rates are given by counties and averaged by areas—northern, central, and southern.

Rates in the publication include charge for plowing, discing, planting corn and soybeans, combining small grain, baling hay and straw, picking corn and many other operations which are commonly done on a custom basis.

Also included are rates for the spraying of corn, applying Anhydrous Ammonia, field harvesting ensilage and bulldozing.

Copies of this report may be secured at the county agricultural extension office or by writing to the agricultural publications office at Purdue.

SEDATIVE OR CURE

Permanent Economics Cures Possible For American Cities

Industrial News Review, Portland, Oregon.

Every now and then some American community finds itself in deep economic trouble—a possibility that is greatest in areas which are heavily dependent on one industrial company or one farm crop for their wherewithal. Then, as the Wall Street Journal points out, varied courses of community action are open. A common one is to turn to the government for assistance, and have the town named a "distressed area." But this, even if successful, usually turns out to be only a palliative. And, the paper says, "the palliative, by removing the sense of urgency, has too often deterred the people themselves from building their community better."

Another course of action is for the community to get down to work and solve its problems by its own efforts. An outstanding example of this is South Bend, Indiana. John D. Williams, also writing in the Wall Street Journal, tells what has been done there.

For a century, South Bend was pretty much a one-company town, and Studebaker (now Studebaker-Packard) was the company. If Studebaker was doing well, the town did well. If Studebaker suffered hard times and cut the payroll, the town felt that in its vitals.

Studebaker, together with some other motor companies, has been undergoing financial storms. According to Mr. Williams, it "is having the toughest time of its century." South Bend naturally hopes the company will come back and prosper. But, important as Studebaker is to South Bend, it is no longer the dominant factor. As an ex-mayor told Mr. Williams, "There's not that desperate feeling any more."

This change in attitude stems from the fact that South Bend is not now a one-company town. Some three years ago a committee was established and a delegation was sent to Birmingham, Alabama, to study that city's extremely successful booster group. Then $385,000 was raised to promote the South Bend area "as a good place for new business."

The going wasn't easy. In the first year, not even one new company was gained. A blow was suffered when the Singer Manufacturing Company moved elsewhere. The committee redoubled its efforts. Person-to-person sales talks were made to likely prospects. One factory came in. Then another. Mr. Williams writes, "And so the parade grew, each little bit adding up to a lot."

All in all, about 24 new companies have come to South Bend and the neighboring town of Mishawaka. Their products include doors, industrial displays, furniture, sun glasses, tools, plastic boats and so on. The committee is still hard at work, and ambitious plans are in being for new and modern industrial areas.

As a result, despite Studebaker's troubles and greatly reduced employment, South Bend savings deposits, retail sales, residential construction, and other standard barometers of economic conditions are holding up and in some cases showing gains. South Bend people, Mr. Williams reports, are "convinced they've weathered their worst economic storms; the town is shored up, battered down and determined to stay prosperous."

The moral is expressed in the last line of the Wall Street Journal's editorial: "It remains true that whatever people build for themselves is the best built."

REWARDS AND RISKS

"I wish I had an oil well!" You've heard that said a thousand times—probably you've said it yourself. For oil wells have become a popular symbol of wealth.

And there is no doubt that a big producing oil well would be a nice thing to have. At the same time, getting an oil well, and then making something valuable out of the crude, is a mighty expensive and risky business.

Livestock Hauling

LOCAL & LONG DISTANCE

Vernon (mumps) Meredith

ness.

For instance, last year oil producers spent more than $2.5 billion drilling some 55,000 wells in this country. A great many of them turned out dry and useless. The drillers just had to try again and hope for better luck next time.

One well, in Louisiana, was sunk to a record 22,570 feet—more than four miles—before traces of oil were found. The cost was $2.4 million.

Much oil now travels via pipeline—and it costs about $32 thousand to lay just one mile of 12-inch pipe.

Modern gas engines demand fuel of much higher octane content than used to be the case—the average octane rating of gasoline has risen from 74 to 84 in the past 26 years. It costs oil companies $500 million to improve gasoline quality by just one octane number.

The oil industry offers great rewards—and, with them, great risks.

RECORD EGG PRODUCTION

According to M. O. Bryan, of the Bryan Poultry Farm, Mentone, what is believed to be a world record egg production is being produced by a pen of strain cross laying birds in the Florida National Egg Laying Contests, which is one of several tests being run by college experimental stations across the country. At the end of May the Florida pen entered by Honegger Farms Co., of Forrest, Ill., had top place in the nation competing with 6,357 birds entered by 141 top breeding farms of the nation. The Honegger birds had an average production for the 8 months of the test period of 88.9%. They averaged 217.15 eggs each for the 244 days. Twelve months of lay on this basis would mean 325 eggs per bird, a new high in average egg production. Pictured here with the prize winning birds are from left to right: Mr. Sam R. Honegger, President of the Honegger firm; A. W. O'Steen, Florida Test Supervisor; and Dr. George F. Godfrey, Geneticist for Honeggers.

Washington—The "Eisenhower businessmen" in government—men drafted from business by President Eisenhower—are being congratulated on their role in achieving the fourth balanced federal budget in 25 years.

The praise unquestionably is deserved. These businessmen injected some business principles in government—fought to curb extravagance—aided in making policy.

The Treasury surplus at the end of the fiscal year June 30 was modest—only $1.754 billion—but it stood out in contrast to years of deficits. For Secretary of the Treasury George M. Humphrey it is a personal triumph. From the start he has declared that objective of the administration was to balance the budget—and he determined to do it.

Others of the "businessman team" include Secretary of Defense Charles Wilson, Secretary of Commerce Sinclair Weeks, Postmaster General Arthur Summerfield, former Secretary of the Interior Douglas McKay, former Budget Directors Joseph M. Dodge, and Rowland Hughes, and Budget Director Percival F. Brundage.

The first big step toward a balanced budget was cutting expenditures. Compared with the last year that the Truman budget operated (fiscal year 1954), the Eisenhower administration reduced actual spending by $6.5 billion in the first full year of fiscal control; by almost $10 billion in 1955.

Requests for new spending authority were cut from $72.2 billion in the last Truman budget (1954) to $58.6 billion in the 1956 Eisenhower budget.

No sooner had the budget been balanced, however, than conservatives in Congress emphasized that the economy movement has been reversed—spending is on the increase—many costly new projects have been authorized.

It is clear that cost of government must be held down—while the economy grows—in order to make possible not only future balanced budgets but necessary tax relief.

SOCIAL SECURITY—The net result of the fight made by business groups, physicians and other against the new social security bill was to cut a proposed payroll tax increase from $1.7 billion annually to $850 million.

Under the bill—as finally passed—the present old age payroll tax would be increased by one-fourth of one per cent on employer and employee next January 1. The House had voted for twice this amount.

The big social security fight was in the Senate. It voted 47 to 45 to provide disability benefits to social security eligibles above 50—a proposal protested by many experts. A switch of two Democratic votes—under pressure—deprived Senator Harry F. Byrd of Virginia of victory in his fight against the disability proposal.

The bill also provided retirement benefits for widows at 62 instead of 65, and provided old-age benefits at a reduced rate at 62 for other women.

Billy Clipp of Elkhart spent last week here visiting with relatives and friends.

Purdue University entomologists report that materials approved for fly control on dairy cattle are methoxychlor and pyrethrum. Methoxychlor is a residual type insecticide that will give control for two or three weeks. Pyrethrum is a space spray for use at milking time.

Egg Show To Be Big Affair

"The 1956 Mentone Egg Show Ovation will be the best ever," says Freeman Gruenewald, chairman of this year's event. And that's saying a lot since these successful shows honoring eggs have been held since 1936.

The committees have been working at full speed. A fine program of entertainment, queen selection, and egg judging has been arranged.

Homer and Jethro, comedy team of radio and TV renown, will provide the laughs. Professor L. W. "Skip" Cassel, from Whitmoyer Laboratories, will provide some stimulating ideas.

It is hoped that as many poultry people as possible will plan on attending the "Ovation."

Proposed Tax Levies Listed

Officials of local taxing units this week are publishing their anticipated levies for the coming year.

The Mentone Library proposes an increase of one cent per $100 of taxable property over last year's levy. The levy is distributed as follows: 11c in Mentone, 6c in Franklin and Harrison townships and 2c from Etna Township and Etna Green.

The town of Mentone levy is to be $1.25, an increase of 24c. This is attributed to increases of 11c in the light fund for proposed new street lights, 3c in the park fund and 10c to restore the cash working balance to proper level. Taxable valuation increased $58,000.00.

Harrison township proposes a decrease of 13c to $2.11. The civil township valuation increased $166,120 and the school township $181,770.

Franklin township proposes an increase of 94c to $2.82, due to a reduction in valuations. The civil township valuation dropped $3,580 and the school township $119,230.

Advertising Helps the Farmer

The best thing to do with a surplus of any commodity is to encourage people to buy it and to use it. That truism has been followed with outstanding success by the meat industry and other interested groups.

In 1955, livestock and meat production reached new high records. It was clear that all this meat couldn't be moved smoothly from the farms and ranches of the producers to the homes of the consumers unless something special was done. That was done.

The National Live Stock and Meat Board generated consumer interest with educational activities in and out of the schools.

The American Meat Institute representing the packers, and individual companies in the meat industry, further stimulated consumer interest through advertising and promotion.

The Department of Agriculture carried on a program in which public attention was drawn to the excellent values meat offered.

Retailers cooperated to the full in promoting increased meat sale.

The "mountain of meat" was moved—and moved into consumption, not storage.

YOU CAN'T CLIP A TV PROGRAM!

Dorothy Kilgallen, the columnist and television star, recently had something pleasant to say about newspapers as reading matter.

"You can read on a train crossing the desert or on a plane at 17,000 feet above the Atlantic—no static, no fading, no blips."

says Miss Kilgallen. "You can read in a bathtub or while hanging onto a pole in a crowded bus. You can read as much or as little as you want, as fast or as slow as you want.

"And if you read something you like, you can tear it out and save it to read again some day. I enjoy radio and television, and I am gainfully employed by both, but I must admit they have their drawbacks. Did you ever try to clip a television program and paste it in your scrapbook?"

Here's why the newspaper holds its dominant place in the homes and hearts of Americans. And here is why—to touch on the world of commerce from which all of us draw our livings—the newspaper remains unsurpassed as a means of advertising goods and services.

Better Meals

WITH LESS WORK AT LOWER COST WITH AN ELECTRIC FARM & HOME FREEZER

Enjoy Convenience and Economy with an Electric Farm and Home Freezer!

Better Quality

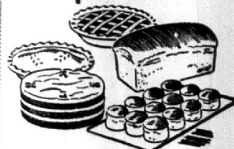

Buy the best of everything when available. Stock up on all kinds of commercial frozen foods when plentiful and prices low. Buy fresh foods at their peak of goodness, right when they're in season, freeze and store with all their quality and flavor locked in.

Save Time and Money

Shop once a week, or even every two weeks. Buy foods at quantity prices and really save. Fruits by the bushel, berries by the crate, vegetables by the hamper, ice cream by the gallon, a week's or month's supply of meat at one time.

Avoid Waste

Cook large, economical quantities of roasts, stews, beans, gravies, sauces, and freeze until needed. Have "planned-overs" instead of leftovers.

Freeze instead of Can

It's easier to freeze foods—and you enjoy fresh, peak-of-goodness flavor. You can easily prepare and freeze the fruits and vegetables you raise in your own garden, and save a lot of time and money, too!

Frozen Pantry

Imagine having all the food you need in the house at all times—from snack to complete meal! No concern then, about unexpected guests. You can even prepare quantities of pies, cakes or biscuits days ahead, freeze them ready to pop into the oven—or bake first, then freeze.

No 'Seasons'

With your own Electric Food Freezer you can enjoy strawberries at Christmas, or oysters in August. No need to depend upon "fresh" fruits or vegetables shipped long distances at premium prices. You are really the master of your menus!

Livestock Safety

Safe practices while handling livestock will prevent many injuries and deaths, F. R. Willsey, farm safety specialist at Purdue University, said on the third day of Farm Safety Week Tuesday.

Fewer horses and dairy bulls have helped decrease livestock accidents. However, Willsey said farm folks can help reduce the toll even further by observing these safe practices:

Don't surprise animals when approaching them.

Have cattle dehorned and boars' tusks cut short.

Keep small children away from pens and barns.

Take special care in handling animals with new-born young.

If there is a bull on the farm, keep him in a safe pen. Avoid entering while he is loose.

YOU RULE THE ECONOMY

"It isn't the businessman or the government or any other identifiable group which rules our economy," writes Sylvia Porter, the business and financial analyst. "It is 'you,' the consumer, who rules its ups and downs." She adds: "And if that still sounds elementary to you, I'll sign off with the reminder that it has taken a couple of centuries of basic research to produce the proof."

This is why more and more studies are being made of consumer hopes, plans and psychology in general. For it is the amount of money you spend, and how you spend it, that determines the economic climate in this vast country.

Electricity Can Save On Labor

Farmers who still handle grain with a scoop shovel may be working for as little as one-fifth of a cent per hour.

To prove this startling fact, Bruce McKenzie, Purdue University extension agricultural engineer, has made a comparison of manpower versus horsepower.

As a grain shoveler, a farmer can deliver about one-tenth horsepower per hour. Working 10 hours, he will deliver one horsepower-hour. A one horsepower electric motor, on the other hand, will do one horsepower-hour of work in one hour. The electric motor will consume one kilowatt-hour of power, which costs two cents in Indiana.

The electric motor will, thus, do in one hour what the farmer does in 10 hours. So, as a producer of horsepower, the farmer is worth one-fifth of a cent per hour. "All the farmer is worth above one-fifth of a cent per hour lives above his ears," the Purdue specialist declares.

McKenzie says an average Indiana farmer spends over 30 percent of his time "doing chores." For dairymen, the average may run to 80 percent. And worst of all, the percent of time spent on chores is increasing when compared to field jobs. "Use of chore equipment isn't keeping pace with field mechanization," the engineer asserts.

Cull Pullets With Care

"Do a careful job of selecting well matured, vigorous pullets at housing time and you'll probably have but little occasion to do much culling of your flock during the fall and winter."

That's the advice of Joe W. Sicer, Purdue University extension poultryman, who adds, "This will be particularly true if your pullets are from one of the well bred egg strains."

The poultry specialist urges the culling of pullets with these characteristics: Decidedly behind the rest of the flock in maturity and body development, retarded comb development when the bulk of the flock is nearly full combed, pinched backs and flat breasts, poor in flesh, pale shanks, irregularly shaped pupils or gray eyes, or any indication of disease or lack of vigor.

Sicer states that the combination of poor flesh and pale shanks is particularly serious. Experimental studies have shown that birds with this combination of faults are more likely to die or to lay fewer eggs during the year than are pullets in good flesh and with normal, deep yellow shanks at maturity.

Linda and Patty Smith are spending the week at Cromwell with their aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Adrian Archer.

When legume and grass seeds are harvested from standing plants green weed seeds and green plant material are commonly harvested with the seed. Biochemists at Purdue University report that this high moisture material can cause serious damage to the germination and appearance of the seed. The value of the seed will be decreased unless the green material is removed at once. Some lots have been ruined overnight by heating.

Pets on Parade

THE MEETING WILL COME TO ORDER—These pet aristocrats of dogdom got together recently to plan a series of dog shows in Phoenix, Ariz. Before reaching a decision, however, they took time out for this photograph. Pictured (l. to r.) are Kachina, a collie; Ripper, a pipe-smoking French poodle; Ace, a Basset; Sandy, a cocker spaniel, and Apache, a Bedlington terrier.

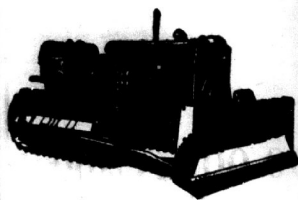

PLAYFUL PUMA—Most housewives might find it disconcerting to have a 350-lb. puma breathing on them when they wash dishes, but not Mrs. Melvin Koontz, of Thousand Oaks, Calif. This unusual pet, named Kimbo, is five years old and consumes 10 lbs. of horsemeat and a gallon of milk daily.

BIRD WATCHER—Boots, the boxer, looks as though he's afraid of an attack, but his parakeet friend, Pete, is just amazed at the water Boots slurps from the kitchen faucet. The two are great friends, according to owner Marty Groach, of Queens, N. Y. (AP Wirephotos)

Nothing takes to the road like a Chevy!

Once in a blue moon a car like this comes along—a design so advanced in performance, so beautifully balanced that it stands out above every other car on the highway.

It has a solid, sure-footed way of going that makes driving safer and more pleasant on any road.
 And you feel a very special sense of security in its rapid-fire responsiveness to your touch on the wheel, brakes and accelerator.

You can see that the '56 Chevy is a standout for style. But until you have driven one you're missing the best part of the news—the fact that Chevrolet is the smoothest, solidest, most wedded-to-the-road automobile you ever bossed. Try it and see.

America's largest selling car—
 2 million more owners than any

You get more car when you buy it... more dollars when you sell it! Chevy has the highest resale value of the leading low-priced models!

Poultrymen at Purdue University advise egg producers to keep a week's supply of empty egg cases, fillers and flats in a cool, moist place so they will be pre-cooled and moisturized before eggs are placed in them. Putting good eggs in hot, dry cases is a sure way to reduce egg quality in a hurry.

Associated With Kimber Farms

Manwaring Leghorn Farms, Mentone, Indiana, owned and operated by Charles, Miles and Richard and one of the oldest white leghorn breeding farms in Indiana, has just become associated with Kimber Farms,

Inc., Niles, California.

It has been generally felt by many of the prominent breeders that one of the best leghorns for egg production, were those produced by Kimber Farms.

The demand for Kimberchicks in California has been so great it has been a policy for fourteen years not to sell any chicks outside of California.

Manwaring's are fortunate in being selected to produce and distribute Kimberchicks K-137 in the Middlewest for the first time.
One out of every four light breed chickens purchased by California poultrymen is a Kimber Leghorn.

This now gives Manwaring's Mr. John Kimber, in charge of production and assisted by Dr.

Lamoreux, Dr. Dickerson, Dr.
Farnsworth, Dr. Goodwin, and
Dr. Warren doing their breeding and study of new techniques for breeding better and more profitable chickens; also Dr. Hughes, Dr. Schaaf and Dr. Urban are doing the pathological research.

Random sample tests are evidence of the outstanding ability of Kimberchicks K-137 for livability, high production and wonderful early large egg size.

Self Feeding Brood Sows

Many farm chores have been eliminated by labor saving devices, but there are a few that are still difficult to adapt to automation. Hog farmers are confronted with one these in the management of their sows.

Sows have been hand-fed since the beginning of hog farming. Nowadays, some hog farmers are experimenting with self-feeding their sows. Research and experience have shown that sows can be self-fed, although there are problems in doing it.

The problems in feeding brood sows by any method usually involve getting them to eat the right balance of nutrients without eating too much. It's easy to control them by hand-feeding. Self-feeding requires some changes in the feeding program.

The good hog man usually wants his sows to eat a mixture of about four parts grain and one part good supplement. Each sow gets four to six pounds of this ration daily, depending on her condition. When pasture is not available, good legume hay is offered free choice.

In self-feeding, where the feed is kept in front of the sow in a self feeder at all times, there is a problem of limiting the feed intake. This can be accomplished pretty well by mixing chopped roughage with the grain and supplement.

Research at the Ralston Purina farm in Missouri indicates that when ground shelled corn is fed, four parts of corn, one part of supplement and three parts of ground legume hay make a good ration for self-feeding. Other adjustments are made when other grains are fed, so that the roughage factor limits consumption.

It will cost a little more to self-feed than to hand-feed. There is the added expense of chopping the roughage and mixing it in the ration. Also, sows may nose around in the feed and blow out some of the chopped roughage to get to the grain causing wastage. But self-feeding sows can be done as a labor saving device.

HERE COMES TOMORROW—Italian designers have come up with this sleek plastic bus creation which they claim will cruise over the roads at 125 mph. To be powered with a gas turbine engine, one of the planned models will carry up to 32 passengers.

LONGEST ROAD IN THE WORLD

—The Kansas Turnpike, terminating in this wheatfield on the Oklahoma-Kansas border is, at present, a road with no end, but not for long. ROADS FOR TRANSPORTATION—Earthmoving equipment such as these International Harvester giants are very necessary to most forms of transportation. Before sleek automobiles and streamlined busses can skim over the ribbons of concrete and asphalt, high-speed earthmovers and crawler-type tractors, must first make the roadbeds. Deep Litter For Layers

A deep built-up litter can save Hoosier poultrymen both labor and expense, according to Purdue University extension poultry specialist Joe W. Sicer.

What are the advantages of a deep built-in litter? There are several, Sicer says. The deep litter saves labor, reduces damp litter problems, provides better insulation against cold or damp floors, and prevents disturbing the hens and chilling the house floor during cleaning. And, Sicer points out, many pathologists claim that deep litter helps control certain diseases and parasites.

Start a deep litter in early fall, the Purdue poultryman advises. Thoroughly clean and disinfect the laying house, put in a covering of litter three to four inches deep, and add fresh litter as needed. The litter should be at least six inches deep by the first of December. Shaving or crushed corn cobs seem to work best for deep litters, Sicer reports, and a mixture of shaving or ground cobs with straw is better than straw alone. Sand is also frequently used as a litter or under other litter. Leaves, hay, alfalfa or clover stems, tobacco stems, soybean straw, and shredded corn fodder are not recommended by Sicer.

Be sure that the house has adequate ventilation. The rear and end walls should be tight and the front of the house should be kept open until water begins to freeze inside. Sicer believes that the house should never be completely closed even in severe weather.

Many laying houses are overcrowded, according to the Purdue specialist. He recommends that each hen be allotted at least three to four square feet of floor space. If water is spilled, blown, or tracked in, the wet litter should be removed and new litter added if necessary. Litter should also be removed if colds, chicken pox, or other disease epidemics occur; otherwise it can remain in the house until spring.

Additional information on deep built-in litters can be obtained from your county extension agent or by writing the poultry science department, Purdue University, for Mimeo P-56, "Deep Built-Up Litter for Laying Houses."

Animal husbandmen at Purdue University say that hog pastures should be clipped in August if there is enough moisture for regrowth. Results will be more palatable forage.

Market Review On Livestock

Hog prices have continued on a steady to strong basis during the first part of August, despite some earlier indications that a summer decline would be underway by this time, reports M. Paul Mitchell, Purdue University agricultural economist.

Top quotations for strictly meat-type hogs have remained near the $17.00 mark for practically three months, representing one of the most stable summer markets for several years. Although, at times, it appeared that conditions would permit top quotations to reach the $18.00 mark at Eastern Corn Belt terminals, expanding receipts showed up to send prices downward temporarily.

With the early spring pig crop flowing freely to market, there appears to be some likelihood of prices declining during the remainder of the month. However, with a much smaller crop of late spring pigs this year the price decline from now until midwinter is expected to be considerably less than that of a year ago.

In the cattle markets, different trends are in evidence, traceable largely to seasonal factors of supply. Smaller supplies of long grain-fed cattle have resulted in a much stronger price situation for choice and prime grades of steers and heifers, while increasing marketings of so-called grass cattle have sent prices in this class of cattle to lower levels. The price spread between grades has thus widened substantially during the past month, and can be expected to continue during the next several weeks. Top quotations on the Chicago market reached a top of $27.50 and $27.75 on prime steers this being a new top for prime cattle in more than a year.

Favorable pasture feed conditions in much of the Corn Belt have stimulated the demand for feeder and stocker cattle, and have been responsible for slightly stronger prices for these grades over those prevailing earlier this summer.

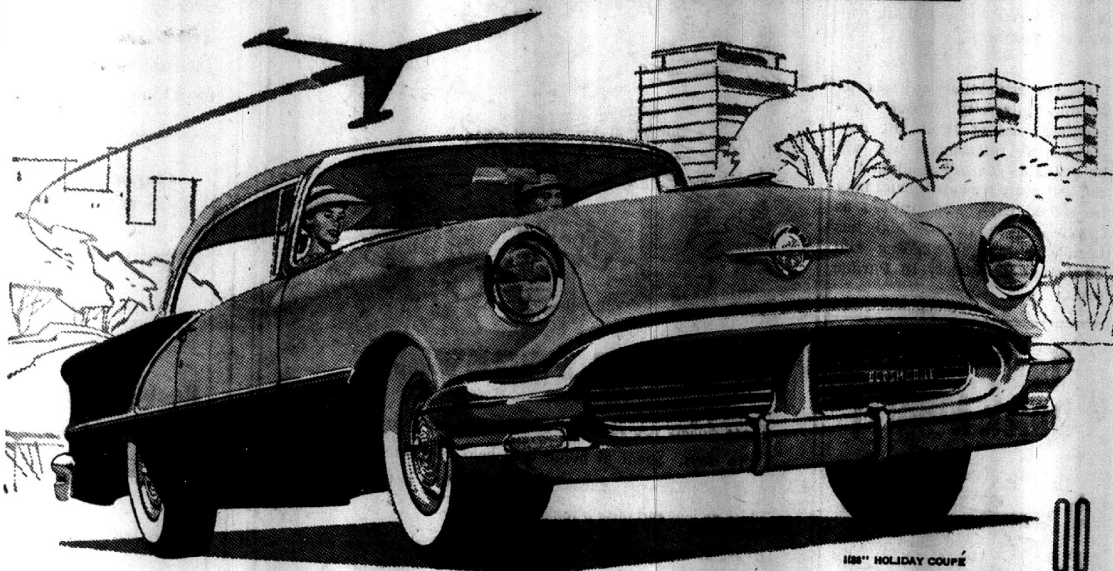

Proper management of the ewe flock before the breeding season is the key feature of an efficient lamb production program, according to sheep specialists at Purdue University. They suggest that sheep producers ask for Mimeo AH 176, "Sheep Management Before the Breeding Season," at the county extension office.

Methodist Church News

Two notable musical presentations by the North Indiana Conference Choir School, meeting this week at the Epworth Forest Institute Grounds, North Webster, are the Lions Club's widely publicized "SHOWBOAT" program Saturday evening at 8:00 o'clock. The choir of approximately 100 voices sings from aboard the popular sightseeing boat, "The Dixie." The program is presented from just off-shore at North Webster. This program was sponsored by the Lions Club for the first time last year, and at least 3,000 people from the northern half of Indiana were pleased with it. A huge crowd is anticipated this year.

This same choir will present a sacred concert in the Institute Auditorium Sunday afternoon at 3:00. This is only the second year for this program, but a filled auditorium is expected.

Records for the month of July showed that 106 more persons attended the service of Divine Worship than a year ago, and 262 more attended Sunday School. Offering for current expenses amounted to $872.06, which was $28.53 less than a year ago, but $261.40 was given to benevolences, or $159.84 more than last year.

The pastor's sermon-subject during the next two Sundays will be: "The Key to the Future—the Purpose of God." the last two of a series on the 8th and 7th century prophets.

Seed certification officials at Purdue University report that certified seed of Dual, the new Hessian fly resistant wheat, will be available for fall seeding. Because it is fly resistant, Dual may be seeded early and utilized as pasture. In addition, Dual has been the highest yielding and best standing variety in Purdue tests.

HANDWRITING ON THE WALL

Long ago, the law clamped down to prevent corporations from making contributions to political campaigns. The unions are not burdened with such restrictions.

Representative Walter Judd has canvassed his constituents in Minneapolis, asking if they favored legislation imposing the same restrictions on union political contributions as now apply to corporations. The replies were: Yes, 79 percent; No, 8 per cent; No Opinion, 13 percent.

Many union members probably object to being assessed to support candidates whom individually they may oppose for the same reason they would object to being assessed by the firm for which they work to support its candidate.

There is significant handwriting on the wall in this response.

"Our Business From Day to Day Depends On What Our Customers Say"

North on Road 15 at Warsaw City Limits Phone 1888

No Comment

By James W. Douthat

WASHINGTON—The record of the 84th Congress with respect to business can be described as neither good nor bad—the truth lies between.

Business can rightfully voice disappointment over the failure of Congress to cut expenditures and reduce wartime taxes which burden industry. Both were possible.

But conservatives in Congress find satisfaction in the failure of many radical measures extending the "welfare state" concept. They also point to some affirmative endorsements of private enterprise.

The congressional record includes:

FISCAL AFFAIRS—Congress held appropriations within the presidential budget. This budget indicated a $400 million surplus next June 30. Thus, growth of business-boosting revenues and a vigorous economy movement could make future tax cuts feasible.

The other side of the coin is that spending may reach a new high as a result of congressional commitments.

Instead of cutting taxes, the recently adjourned Congress continued discriminatory personal and corporation tax rates, and added new highway and social security levies.

BUSINESS AFFAIRS—Two important measures which would have done great harm to industry were defeated in the last hours of the session by the courageous opposition of some conservatives.

The first bill required prior notice of mergers under conditions which would have subjected business decisions to a few bureaucrats. The second would have substantially destroyed the good-faith defense in price discrimination cases.

STATES' RIGHTS—A major failure of Congress was in not carrying forward the original Eisenhower program of reducing the huge central government and transferring more responsibilities to states, local government and citizens.

Proposals to this end—embraced in both the Kestnbaum and Hoover Commission reports—were largely ignored.

The Smith-McClellan bill, which prohibited courts from declaring state laws invalid because Congress had legislated in the same field—unless Congress so stated—was killed. This was a blow to believers in state rights.

Laws dealing with state control of subversives, violence in labor disputes and similar matters have either been nullified or placed in jeopardy by court decisions—but Congress failed to meet the issue.

PRIVATE ENTERPRISE—The session revealed that Congress is closely divided on many issues involving private enterprise vs. government ownership and operation.

Some examples:

The Senate passed a bill for a $400,000,000 government atomic energy program, but the House rejected it as an invasion of the field of private enterprise.

The Senate passed a bill authorizing the State of New York to develop expanded Niagara River power. The House failed to act, thus standing by private enterprise which offered to do the job.

In a third matter the Senate stood for private enterprise. It killed a bill to have the federal government spend hundreds of millions building Hell's Canyon Dam—when private capital already is doing the work.

Opponents of government-type business operations won another fight. A proposed "rider" on an appropriation bill—which would have made discontinuance of business-type operations of the Defense Department subject to congressional committee veto—was rejected. The Defense Department now is free to continue to turn many tasks over to private industry.

Agronomists at Purdue University say that spring seedings of alfalfa, red or ladino clover—alone or in grass mixtures—should be mowed to control weeds, preferably before weed seed forms. The mower should be set low so that the weeds will not recover. The agronomists say these legumes should not be clipped later than the first week in September in northern or central Indiana, and not later than September 15 in southern Indiana. Sweet clover should not be clipped before fall growth ceases—about mid-October. Close grazing of these legumes, especially sweet clover, into September and October may cause serious injury.

Reunion Held

The Miller and Creakbaum reunion was held Sunday, Aug. 12, at the Beaver Dam Conservation Club. Everyone brought well-filled baskets so a lovely dinner was enjoyed by all.

Watermelon and pop were served in the afternoon.

Games were played throughout the day.

Among the 54 relatives and three guests present were:

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Creakbaum of near Burket, Mr. and Mrs. John Miller, Argos; Mr. and Mrs. Jake Scher and family of Roberts, Ill.; Mrs. Lola Overholt and Violet of Warsaw; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Norris and family, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Miller and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Miller and son, and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Creakbaum and Donnie, all of or near Mentone; Mrs. Carl Renfro and family, New Lenox, Ill.; Don Sanders and Mrs. Raymond Crawford, Chicago, Ill.; Mrs. Robert Block and family, South Whitley; Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Miller and son, Warsaw; Mr. and Mrs. Everett Miller and family, Plymouth; Mr. and Mrs. George Smith, Akron, and Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Denney and family, Fort Wayne.

Crops and The Weather

The western part of the Corn Belt continued to show increasing crop deterioration in the last few days of July. Lack of rain coupled with low subsoil moisture hurt many fields of corn in Central, Northwest and Southeast Iowa and in much of Nebraska and part of South Dakota. In Nebraska except for a narrow strip along the Missouri river and in irrigated fields, corn was heading for failure for the third year in a row.

Rather heavy rains occurred in some dry areas in Iowa, particularly in the Northwest, but many fields were beyond much help, having already been stunted and blasted beyond redemption. In Illinois, Minnesota and Wisconsin, however, rains of one to two inches probably added five bushels per acre to an already bumper crop.

Soybeans promise to be a tremendous crop. Large acreages in Illinois and Minnesota have had plenty of moisture and yields will undoubtedly be high. Even in areas of short moisture, soybeans are able to thrive much better than corn. They will make a fair yield where corn may fail completely.

Continued dry seasons in Nebraska, Kansas, and Western Iowa have given a tremendous boost to irrigation equipment. When fields side by side can have a yield differential of 100 bushels of corn due to irrigation, more farmers will turn to irrigation even at a considerable investment. This added expense of farming under irrigation is another factor tending toward a larger farm size as an economical and efficient unit.

Some Miscellaneous items of crop interest: Red top harvest is in progress in Richland, Wayne and Clay counties in southern Illinois. Red top is used in grass mixtures particularly on less productive soils. The demand for this seed has been gradually decreasing due to increasing of fertilizer applications and development of newer grass and legume pasture crops. Mankato, Minnesota now boasts the largest soybean extraction plant in the world. This accords with an 18 percent soybean acreage increase in Minnesota this season.

The Red River Valley between Minnesota and North Dakota has excellent prospects for a big potato crop this season. This area has long been noted for its potato production.

THANK YOU

We want to thank our friends and neighbors for the cards, flowers, and kind deeds done at the loss of our mother, Mrs. Onada Crabb.

Library News

The library board recently drew up the budget for 1957, a copy of which will be found in this paper. As in the past, the budget was made just as low as it was possible to make it and still give good library service. In spite of rising book costs and higher operating expenses, the rate remains the same as last year in all supporting units except in one township, where because of low valuations there is a raise of one cent on the one hundred dollars of valuation.

Because of questions which have been asked about the library budget, the librarian has made a chart comparing the expenditures of this and nearby libraries using figures obtained either at the Auditor's office or, in some cases, directly from the library concerned, as follows:

	Warsaw	Mentone	Syracuse	Akron	Millard	Pierceton
Population served	10,540	4,072	3,125	2,370	2,328	1,909
Books loaned in year	75,345	27,972	22,331	13,893	12,186	5,445
Volumes in library	40,265	12,186	10,286	11,700	7,909	9,875
Cost of books, 1 yr.	$3,000	$1,700	$1,350	$ 900	$ 700	$ 700
Salary Lib. Staff	$17,500	$2,280	$4,000	$3,720	$1,780	$1,500
Total Library Expense	$38,754	$5,230	$12,655	$7,406	$4,235	$4,025
Open hours per week	60	36	32	31	30 1/2	30

(Budget figures are for 1956 for Warsaw and Syracuse and 1957 for the others listed.)

In comparing the libraries listed, we find that with the exception of Warsaw, the Mentone Library serves the largest population, loans the largest number of books in a year, is open the largest number of hours per week, and the average salary per employee is the lowest. The total expenditures of the Mentone Library are lower than all but two libraries listed and those two libraries serve only about one half as many people and loan less than one half as many books per year and are open fewer hours per week. The Mentone Library book budget is larger than that of the other libraries except Warsaw because the number of people served and the number of books loaned are larger and a larger book budget is necessary to keep up an adequate book collection. The Mentone Library serves three schools, placing and replacing at regular intervals seventeen grade and two High School collections. Last year over 10,600 books were delivered to the schools. Seventy-nine children are registered in the summer reading program and make oral book reports to the Library Staff on the many books they read. In addition the regular routine library work is carried on. The library is trying to give the community every possible service at the lowest cost possible. We will welcome all suggestions as to any way we can serve you better.

PEARL LACKEY

Modernize Hen Houses

The time to repair and modernize the poultry laying house is the period between the selling of old hens and the housing of the new pullets, states Joe W. Sicer, Purdue University extension poultryman.

With the house empty, the work can be done unhampered by the fear that the noises and movements may upset the chickens.

Sicer suggests that poultrymen consider improvements and repair jobs for an efficient, labor saving laying house as follows:

Provide running water in the house. Save the back breaking job of carrying 10 tons of water a year for every 100 hens.

Install feed storage bins in the house. Preferably built so bins can be filled from the outside off a truck, and the feed removed from bin as needed from inside the house.

Provide low roosting racks with welded wire beneath the perches so that the hens can not get to the accumulating droppings.

Have additional windows or other openings for more ventilation if in previous years there has been trouble from moisture condensing on the walls or ceiling, or trouble from damp litter.

Equip windows and other openings with baffles to permit ventilation without letting in rain.

Install fans if needed for adequate ventilation.

Cover all openings with three-quarter inch mesh wire netting to keep out birds.

Provide insulation of ceiling for winter and summer comfort, particularly in metal roofed houses.

Install electric lights over the feeders and waterers.

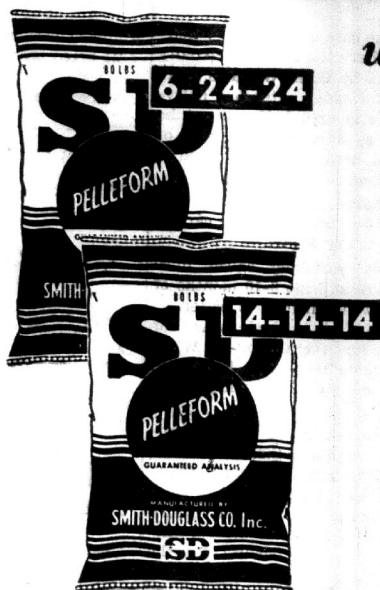

Repair roof, windows and equipment.

history of the song of the month "Annie Laurie" after which all joined in singing it. Mrs. Ellis Hill read "A Way Out of No Way" by Vance Havner as the meditation.

Health and Safety remarks were given by Mrs. Beatha Meredith, emphasizing safety in the kitchen by using suitable utensils, also placing handles of pans over the stove to prevent spilling and burns.

The Mystery prize went to Mrs. Raymond Welrick, a gift to Mrs. Masa Nelson and auction articles to Mrs. Claude Gates, Mrs. Bertha Meredith and Mrs. Emra Anderson.

Twenty-two members, one visitor and three children were present. Mrs. Ellis Hill acted as co-hostess.

Care For Dairy Heifers

"Take care of those dairy heifers." That's the advice given dairy farmers by G. A. Williams, Purdue University extension dairyman, who says heifers must be given good care if the size of milking herds is to be maintained or increased.

Williams suggests that these points be observed in the care of young dairy stock:

Avoid pasturing calves until they are at least 9-10 months of age; twelve months is better.

Provide individual pens for calves for several months. When several heifers are grouped in the same pen, avoid wide differences of age.

Some animals grow more rapidly than others. Size is more important than age in determining when a heifer should be bred. It is not a good practice to turn a group of young animals of different ages on pasture for the summer and allow them to be bred.

Provide plenty of good grazing during the summer months or supplement grass with hay or silage. Quality roughages are a better body builder than concentrates.

Supply a mineral mixture made up of 100 pounds of trace mineralized salt and 100 pounds of steamed bone meal.

Furnish a dependable supply of drinking water.

Guard against infection from adjoining pastures by maintaining well built fences.

Williams says that if good care is given dairy heifers, the animals will become good milkers. He cites a study made at Cornell University which reveals that size is important in the economical production of milk: The studies showed that Holstein cows weighing 1320 pounds averaged 11,690 pounds of milk per year. A second group of Holsteins averaged 1210 pounds and produced 10,530 lbs. of milk. The smallest group of the same breed averaged 1100 pounds and yielded only 9550 pounds of milk per year.

"CARE" Campaign Will Send Help To Free World's Neediest Refugees

For a 10-year-old, Peter P. has done a lot of traveling—but it's not the kind you read about in the vacation ads that are probably claiming your attention right now.

Peter was born in Roumania. After that country fell into the communist orbit, his parents fled to Greece with the youngster and his infant sister. For seven years their home was one room in an abandoned hotel that had been turned into a refugee center. Their "income" consisted of a 20c-a-day living allowance plus one free meal of soup, bread and olives. Sometimes, Peter's father was able to find a day's work. Sometimes, a CARE package brought the wonderful gift of extra food. Then, just a few months ago, refugee officials arranged for their migration to Brazil, where Peter's father was promised a job. And there Peter and his family are today, happily starting their lives anew.

But for every Peter whose future is settled, there are thousands of homeless children and their parents still living a hopeless existence in crowded camps and hovels throughout the free world. To bring concentrated supplementary help to the neediest among them, CARE has launched a $1,000,000 spring-through-summer Refugee Campaign.

Victims of wars and oppression and political upheavals, the refugees for whom CARE seeks assistance stretch from Europe to Asia and the Middle East. The urgency of their plight is mirrored in reports compiled by refugee authorities:

Every month, West Berlin and Germany receive at least 20,000 new escapees from East Germany and nearby satellite countries. In Greece, 15,000 war and political refugees are unable to support themselves. In South Vietnam and South Korea the number of destitute refugees from the communist northern areas of those divided countries runs into the millions. Israel, the nation founded as a haven for refugees from religious persecution, has 350,000 persons—20 percent of the total population—on government-assistance rolls. Of 667,000 Red China refugees in Hong Kong, 10,000 are totally without earnings. Throughout Egypt, Lebanon, Syria and Jordan, over 900,000 Palestinian Arab refugees are in dire straits.

Through the CARE drive, contributions from American—as individuals or as members of professional, employee, business, civic and other groups—will provide relief and self-help packages to supplement existing aid programs for these and other refugee groups. Depending upon local refugee requirements, the packages include food, blankets, clothing fabrics, plows, farm and vocational tools and educational supplies, ranging in cost from $1 units of U. S. farm surplus to $90 sewing machines. Contributions in any amount, or requests for full information, should be sent to "Refugee Campaign," CARE, CHICAGO.

Study CWT Sale Of Grain

Farmers may be selling grain by the hundredweight instead of on a bushel basis as advantages of the change along with the problems of putting it into operation are being studied by the USDA.

W. S. Farris, Purdue University extension agricultural economist reports that both the farmer and the grain trade will be affected by the outcome of proposals to change the basis of trading.

Farris said the simplicity and economy claimed for the change to a hundredweight basis must be weighed against the problems of a transition to such a system.

Farmers should help answer the question, "Will the simplicity and economy of hundredweight trading be worth the inconvenience and cost of making the change?" by making their views known.

Density of grains of the same variety probably causes the greatest amount of trouble when farmers market their crops on a bushel basis. For example, a bushel of oats is supposed to weigh 32 pounds, but it may vary as much as eight pounds. Shelled corn legally weighs 56 pounds per bushel, but depending on the density, a "bushel" may occupy ten percent less to five percent more than the required volume of 2150 cubic inches.

When the farmer now sells grain, the price quotation is usually on a bushel basis, but the grain is weighed in pounds. The buyer must make a conversion to bushels for making payment to the farmer. Settlement of the trucking charges also calls for a conversion of pounds back to bushels. Moisture, weed seed, foreign matter, and damage are calculated in percent, but the discounts for these factors are on a bushel basis. Such conversions should be eliminated by using hundredweight as the basis for the sale of grain by the farmer.

To make comparisons between feed ingredients and feed mixes the farmer must make the conversion of bushel values to hundredweight values. With oats at $60 per bushel and corn at $1.40 per bushel, oats should be worth $1.875 and corn $2.50 per hundredweight. Feed values of grain, other feed ingredients, and mixed feeds are more readily compared when the hundredweight basis is used.

Farris believes one disadvantage to the proposed system would be the reluctance of many farmers and grain handlers to shift to "hundredweight thinking." Both farmers and grain handlers have become accustomed to thinking of yields, seeding rates, and inventories in terms of bushels.

Prevent Foreign Animal Diseases

A Purdue University extension veterinarian, Dr. F. A. Hall, has advised farmers to be on the lookout for foreign animal diseases.

Hall says foreign animal disease may gain an entrance into America in various ways and spread over a wide area before being controlled.

Contaminated feeds, raw garbage, animals imported in a carrier stage, smuggled animals and insect vectors all can spread disease. And, the deliberate introduction of disease as an act of sabotage could create a problem, the veterinarian cautions.

Many native animal diseases have symptoms similar to foreign animal diseases which might confuse and hinder prompt diagnosis and control.

A state and federal Emergency Disease Eradication Organization is in existence to function in the advent of an outbreak of a foreign disease. Owners should report to their veterinarian any animal disease problem that needs attention. If necessary, the veteran can report the problem to state and federal regulatory officials.

By cooperative efforts, Hall believes an effective defense can be formed against sweeping outbreaks of any foreign diseases among livestock.

Silver Lake Is Lair of big Catfish*SILVER LAKE—Look out Churubusco, here comes Silver Lake!

For the few Indiana residents who fail to recognize the significance of this battle cry, it might be well to point out that Churubusco received nationwide publicity for the "Beast of Busco," a giant turtle which was supposed to inhabit a lake near the town. The turtle was never caught but not because the effort wasn't made.

Well, Silver Lake now has a "Monster" it will probably try to capture the rest of the summer. Henry Han, 44-year-old resident of Wabash, went fishing Sunday at Silver Lake. He got a strike at 9 a. m.

He never landed the fish, if it was a fish. But he didn't give up very easily. Han and several others battled the fish until 11 p. m. when the three-pound test line finally broke.

When the battle was finally over, several hundred spectators were lining the shore and about 35 boats were spotted at various places around Han. Members of the State Conservation Department also joined in the battle but to no avail.

The "monster" never broke water but it is the opinion of Han and others on hand that his target was a gigantic catfish. It couldn't have been a turtle, they said, for it had too much fight.

Art Devers, who operates a resort on Silver Lake, and James Flynn and Earl Denny of Wabash took turns with Han playing the "thing."

The line broke once before, after the struggle had been going on for eight hours, but Han managed to grab the line before it slipped into the water. After a quick splicing job the battle continued.

It's a good bet Indiana hasn't heard the last of the "Scourge of Silver Lake."

The Tippecanoe Saddle Club will hold a very important meeting Sunday, August 26th, at 1 o'clock at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Anglin on Rt. 331 south of Tippecanoe. All members are urged to attend this business meeting. Plans will be made for a trail ride, also a trophy will be involved.

Students will return on the following Tuesday, September 4, since there will be no school on Labor Day.

Since the school does not sell used books, all students are urged to secure books from older students. All health books are new as well as 7th grade history and 7th grade home economics. The readers for the 5th and 6th grade have been revised.

Thieves entered the home, ransacked drawers, and made off with an estimated $225 worth of property—the bulk of the loss consisting of five guns owned by McSherry and his sons, Steven, 15, and Fred, 18, of 2104½ East Center street, Warsaw.

Also taken were four boxes of rifle shells, some shotgun shells, two pairs of leather gloves, and a bank containing a small amount of cash which belonged to Steven.

A neighbor, Ed Driesback, discovered the theft, and notified Fred McSherry at his Warsaw apartment.

That's the day 4-H exhibitors will be strutting their finest livestock in the show rings, vying for a share of the half-million dollars worth of prize money allocated for contestants in this year's big Hoosier show.

Special spotlight will be focused on the selection of the 4-H grand champion steer at 2 p. m. in the fairgrounds' coliseum.

Added attraction for the youngsters (and their parents too,) opening day will be the admission free all western horse show at 8 a. m. in the saddle horse barn.

The special free horse show will co-incide with the judging of garden exhibits in the agricultural-horticultural building and agricultural demonstration by the 4-H'ers in the fairgrounds' new farmers' building.

4-H exhibits in entomology, wildlife, forestry and home grounds improvement will start at 12:30 p. m. in the agricultural building.

Special attractions opening day will be a baton twirling contest, tractor pulling contest, and a style show presented by L. S. Ayres & Co., Indianapolis, in the women's building.

What's Ahead In Auto Engines

The first automobile manufacturer to produce a workable, powerful and economical successor to the present internal-combustion gasoline engine may put his competitors in the shade, say the editors of Changing Times.

Three types of engines may fill the bill: the gas-turbine engine, the free-piston engine and the fuel-injection engine. Only the latter type can claim any relationship to engines now in use. Luxury cars, such as Continentals and Cadillacs, may be equipped with it next year. A refinement of the motor in your present car, it has no carburetor; the fuel is sprayed directly into the cylinders. The result is fuel economy, improved acceleration and smoother operation.

Experimentation with the gas turbine has been extensive, but you won't see it in cars for at least another five years. It requires only one-fifth the number of parts in a piston engine and weighs a third as much, needs only one spark plug, gets along without a radiator or conventional cooling system and uses a cheap fuel. At present, the cost of producing the motors is prohibitive since fantastically expensive metals are needed to sustain the 1,600-degree heat created.

The free-piston engine has been successfully operated with cheap fuels, including peanut oil. It needs even fewer parts than a gas-turbine engine and is almost vibration-free. And it can be made of conventional metals, since it does not work up excessive heat. But it still has lots of bugs in it.

What about atomic-powered engines? Scientists brush off any suggestions that atomic-powered cars are just over the horizon. They are not even sure such cars are possible. It's hard enough, they say, to harness atoms for locomotives, airplanes and steamships.

Merry Mollys Meet

The Merry Mollys met August 13th at the home of Mrs. Harold Horn with Mrs. Charles Hunter as co-hostess.

The meeting was opened by singing "America, the Beautiful" and repeating the Club creed. The song of the month was "Annie Laurie" with Mrs. Glen Mellott giving the history and the whole group then singing it together.

Health and Safety remarks on Kitchen Safety was read by Mrs. Carl Whetstone.

The lesson on First Aid and Home Nursing was very well given by Mrs. Gene Sarber and Mrs.

Harold Horn. In the First Aid lesson Mrs. Horn stressed that some responsible person should take charge and see that the injured person receives prompt but temporary care until a doctor arrives. In the Home nursing lesson the sick person should be cared for so that the mental outlook improves as the physical condition gets better.

Roll call was answered by "What TV program I enjoy Most." The secretary and treasurer's report was read and approved.

Mrs. Lamar Leffert received a gift from her Cheerio Pal and also won the door prize.

The business meeting was closed by singing the Club prayer song.

Everyone enjoyed playing dirty bingo for the social part of the evening after which delicious re-

Baptist Church News

Twenty young people from First Baptist Church went to Chicago on Saturday, August 18th for their annual field day. Points of interest which were visited on the trip were: the Museum of Science and Industry, Riverview Amusement Park, and the production of the radio program, "Unshackled" at station W. G. N. Pastor and Mrs. Irwin Olson and Mr. and Mrs. Lee Edwin Norris accompanied the young people on the trip.

The Intermediate Youth Group have elected new officers to serve for the coming year. The officers are: Miss Barbara Unzicker, president; Miss Janice Davis, vice president; Mr. Barry Blalock, treasurer; Miss Sheryl Olson, secretary; and Miss Louise Zent, pianist. Pastor Olson is the counselor of this group.

Blister beetles frequently devour the foliage of astors, calendula, clematis and other flower garden plants. According to Purdue University entomologists, these beetles may be destroyed by dusting with cryolite. Granulated formulations of 3-5 percent dieldrin shaken over the plants are also effective. For further information ask for extension bulletin 239 at the local county agent's office.

Horticulturists at Purdue University say a radish seedling in late August will afford a bountiful supply of high quality radishes before cold weather stops the growth.

The Champ, one of the most remarkable exhibits in agriculture, is now touring the country, stopping at many of the major state fairs and livestock exhibitions. Produced by the Ralston Purina Company, it is dedicated to promoting a better understanding of the cattleman's business of producing beef for our nation's people. Visitors may walk through the giant steer's body and see realistic demonstrations of how feed and roughage are made into beef. People enter the animal by doors that open out of the neck. Inside, they see how the vital organs of a steer's body work in the production of beef. They also see demonstrations of how a cow makes milk and how an unborn calf develops from a 30-day to a 9-month embryo. So life-like is the exhibit that the body gives off the sound of the steer's breathing and heart-beat. The Champ stands 12 feet tall, 19 feet long, and nearly 8 feet wide. It weighs 4000 pounds without the tractor and trailer. The exterior was built in 29 different parts, then assembled out of doors. Leading veterinarians and animal nutritionists assisted in making the interior displays.

Automation On The Farm

Indiana farmers who spend 30 per cent of their time "doing chores" can now buy equipment to help them with such jobs as feed handling.

According to Bruce McKenzie, extension agricultural engineer at Purdue University, manufacturers have designed much new equipment to help with the chores. However, actual use of chore equipment on the farm isn't keeping pace with field mechanization.

Feed handling methods in livestock production are changing at a rapid pace, McKinzie says. Such equipment as picker-shellers, corn combines, mechanical feed bunks, self-unloading wagons, silo unloaders, bunker silos, self-fed hay storages and automatic grinder-mixers are a few of the devices that are making inroads into farm operations.

McKinzie says handling of grain and ground feed is one of the jobs that manufacturers are attacking with new equipment designs. For example, the idea of automatic feed grinding is relatively new. "Many farmers may feel such an idea isn't practical. But, just because feed grinding has never been an automatic operation, doesn't mean it can't be," the Purdue specialist comments.

A two horsepower grinder-mixer will grind one day's grain for a 30-day dairy herd in 20 minutes, allowing 10 pounds of feed per head each day. For a hog operation, the unit would grind and mix enough feed in one hour for about 150 head of shoats eating six pounds per head each day. A similar period of time would be required for grinding and mixing feed for a poultry flock of 3000-5000 birds.

McKenzie estimates only an eight cent power cost to grind one ton of feed with the automatic grinder-mixer.

Purdue University veterinarians remind farmers that the prevention of foot-rot in cattle depends on keeping the yards and pastures free of mud holes. Muddy areas around the overflow of the watering tanks should be filled with gravel to prevent the spread of the disease. Success of treatment for foot-rot depends on prompt diagnosis and early treatment.

According to veterinarians at Purdue University, the number of cases of rabies in Indiana is on the increase. To halt the spread of the disease, all dogs should be vaccinated once a year.

Entomologists at Purdue University say that elm trees should be sprayed with DDT in August to control the smaller European elm bark beetle and the elm leaf hopper—the insect carriers of Dutch elm disease and phloem necrosis respectively. Further information is contained in BP 2-5 available from county agents or the office of agricultural publications at Purdue.

State Youth Judging Contest

Hundreds of Indiana farm youth will compete for honors at 4-H and FFA judging contests during early sessions of the State Fair, 4-H club officials at Purdue University have announced.

State wide contests are being held at the fair again this year. Up until last year, participants vied for judging honors at the state 4-H Round-up at Purdue.

Elimination contests were conducted this past spring in the nine state districts. Teams which placed among the top 25 per cent will be eligible to compete at the state contests in the new Farmer's Building and the Coliseum.

W. R. Amick and John Banning, state 4-H club officials, report that crops, livestock, entomology and forestry identification teams will compete Tuesday, August 28.

Poultry and egg judging eliminations will be staged in the poultry building Wednesday, August 29, and Thursday, August 30.

Dairy judging will be held on Thursday, August 30.

All contests will be held on Central Standard Time.

The junior vegetable judging and identification contests, which have previously been held on Labor Day, will be held on Friday, August 31, in the agricultural building.

"Don't permit flies to annoy the dairy herd," say dairymen at Purdue University. Cows eat less feed, more energy is required, and less milk is produced if fly control is neglected. If a good fly spray is used, milking operations are likely to proceed more peacefully which is in favor of increase production and higher milk tests.

Rye Pasture For Cows

Hoosier dairymen who include rye in their pasture program may reduce the winter feed budget by as much as 10 to 15 percent per cow.

Rye is not used as extensively as it should be, according to G. A. Williams, Purdue University extension dairyman.

While good pastures are available, protein-rich feeds are not necessary in the dairy ration, Williams asserts. And one pound of grain should produce from two to four pounds more milk than a similar amount fed on winter rations.

Total digestible nutrients—the framework of an economical dairy ration—are supplied by pastures at a cost of $10.48 per ton. According to studies conducted at Cornell University, the same essentials provided in the form of hay cost $39.96. If the supply of hay runs low, as it did on many dairy farms last spring, concentrates must be used to carry the herd until the pasture season. The cost then rises to $45.42 for oats and $51.30 for corn.

Some dairymen hesitate to include rye in their pasture program, because if it is not needed for grazing, it does not yield grain in comparison with oats or other small grain crops. However, Williams believes that as the use of horizontal silos becomes more common, there is no reason why surplus rye cannot be ensiled and fed during the summer months.

The Purdue specialist says this would make rye a three-way pinch hitting crop. Thus, rye can be used in case of a pasture shortage, as a pasture in late fall and early spring, and as silage during July and August.

Williams believes many dairymen may well consider the use of rye in the economical production of an all year dairy feed program.

Grasshoppers Damage Alfalfa

Young grasshoppers are now abundant in alfalfa fields, according to M. Curtis Wilson, Purdue University entomologist. Heaviest infestations appear to be in the dry sandy soil areas of both northern and southern Indiana.

Wilson says the cool weather of July has slowed the development of the young "hoppers" so that they are much smaller than normally for this time of year. However, this makes them easier to control.

Grasshoppers are very fond of tender young alfalfa seedlings and will wipe out a new summer seeding within a few days. Wilson advises farmers who find grasshoppers abundant in fence rows and fields adjacent to new alfalfa seedlings to spray both seedlings and a border around the field with heptachlor. Use three-fourths pint of 25 per cent heptachlor in about 10 gallons of water per acre.

For further information about grasshoppers and their control ask your county extension agent for a copy of Purdue mimeo E-19.

Subsoil Fertilization

When late summer and early fall roll around in Indiana this year, some farmers will move into their fields with machinery to fertilize the subsoil.

Subsoil fertilization is no longer a new idea. For several years Purdue University agronomists have recommended supplying plant nutrients to acid, infertile, clay subsoils frequently found beneath the plow layer in many fields on Hoosier farms.

Why fertilize the subsoil? Purdue agronomists answer in this way. Plant roots need water, nutrients and air perform their life functions. To produce large yields the roots of crop plants must have plenty of each. Ordinarily air and plant nutrients will not be a problem, but in drouth periods the surface moisture may be exhausted. When this happens, it's an advantage to get the roots farther into the ground. Frequently the subsoil is tight, infertile and acid. If a farmer can open up such a soil with a chisel or deep plow, fertilize and apply lime, it's possible for the roots to go deeper and find water supply stored in the ground.

Agronomists say subsoil fertilization offers a year-around advantage to farmers. It serves to insure moisture to crop plants in dry seasons and helps drain the soil in wet seasons.

Hoosier farmers who have a real interest in subsoiling and subsoil fertilization won't want to miss Agronomy Day August 16 on the Purdue Agronomy Farm seven miles north of Lafayette on U. S. Highway 52. Helmut Kohnke, subsoil researcher, will be on hand to explain recent Purdue research with fertilization of the subsoil. The newer technique of vertical mulching will also be discussed by agronomists Jim Spain and Donald McCune. Starting time for the field day is 8:30 a. m.

Farmers who want current information on subsoiling should see their county extension agent for copies of Mimeo AY57A, "Subsoil Fertilization" and Extension Leaflet 370, "Subsoiling." These publications are also available from the agricultural publications office, Purdue University.

Purdue University entomologists reveal that red clover fields close to beekeepers' hives may produce a good crop of seed from the second crop. The presence of honeybees will increase the yield of seed and may make possible a more profitable harvest.

You will disturb your pullets less when you are ready to catch them to move to the laying house if the catching is done at night. That's a tip from Purdue University poultrymen who say that birds should be held in clean crates, with not more than 12 birds per crate, until morning. Then only the well developed vigorous pullets should be selected for housing.

Agronomists at Purdue University advise farmers interested in winter barley to use one of three varieties — Hudson, Kenbar or Kentucky No. 1. Hudson, the newest, was developed by the New York agricultural experiment station and has shown improved standing ability and winter hardiness. It may be used in all parts of Indiana. Kenbar continues to be an excellent standing variety with good yielding ability and is recommended south of U. S. 50. Kentucky No. 1 does not stand as well as the other two varieties but is somewhat more winter hardy than Kenbar.

Farmers To Discuss Issues

Ten district meetings will be held in the state during September and October to give farmers of the areas a chance to discuss issues that are likely to face the 1957 General Assembly. Sponsored by the Indiana Farm Bureau, the meetings will be directed by district Farm Bureau Officials and will be addressed by Anson Thomas, veteran legislative director of the organization, and George R. Harvey, research director.

They will open at 10 o'clock and close at 3 p. m. DST. Schedule of the events for the first three districts are: Sept. 12, Hamlet Methodist Church; Sept. 13, Ranch House, Fort Wayne;

Sept. 24, R. E. C. Auditorium, Delphi.

All interested persons are urged to attend these meetings to voice their opinions and help shape the organization's program for the oncoming legislative session.

THE COST OF CRIME

J. Edgar Hoover of the FBI states: "We complain about high taxes, but last year crime cost every man, woman and child in the United States $122.00, or a staggering estimated total of twenty billions of dollars. Perhaps this figure could become more meaningful if we realized that for every $1 spent on education, crime cost $1.46; and for every $1.00 which went to the churches of the nation, $13.00 went to crime."

Mr. Hoover said this in a speech urging improvement in crime control—especially as it affects the parole system and the problem of the repeater. And the challenge of this, he added, "is a challenge to all of us."

THE FIRST TO BE FIRED

Is a minimum wage law a sound way to help people in the bottom-earning brackets?

If you think so, an article by Bettina Bien, in The Freeman, may give you another slant on the problem. The article states: "If the minimum wage rate is set higher than the market rate, it hurts the very person it is designed to help—the lowest producers, and hence the lowest earners. The first to be fired, when a new minimum wage rate is set, are those who cannot contribute enough to the market to cover the cost of their wage."

The barometer of earning power must be productivity—which is the measure of the worker's value to the employer and to the public. No law, no matter how well intentioned, can cancel out that fact.

"Don't neglect pest control on vines of potatoes planted for the fall crop," advise horticulturists at Purdue University. Leafhoppers, flea beetles, and other insects or diseases may ruin the crop prospects in a few days time. Spray or dust once a week.

According to dairymen at Purdue University, dairy farmers can expect 10 to 20 percent more milk when plenty of fresh, clean water is available than if the cows are watered only twice daily during hot weather.

Now is a good time to clean and disinfect farrowing houses for fall litters, according to swine specialists at Purdue University. Watch sows close to farrowing for over-heating, the specialists advise. They also suggest that a fresh, clean supply of water and shade be kept available to the sows at all times.

"Then and Now" Cooperation, Theme Of Fair Exhibit

"Farmers have always worked together" will be the theme of the Indiana Farm Bureau's 60-foot exhibit to be seen in the foyer of the Farmers Building at the State Fair this year. Set against the east wall of the area, it will show a log cabin scene with authentic early American furnishings and with farm women working together over a quilting frame.

The next segment of the display will be occupied with photo-murals depicting the modern ways in which farmers cooperate, in purchasing, marketing and service organizations. Coordinating the efforts of these activities through a legislative and educational program is the membership organization.

On the west wall of the area, the Indiana Farm Bureau will also have a public relations exhibit portraying the farmer's role in the 1956 State Fair theme of "Food from farm to family." With actual food and with posters, the exhibit will portray the producer as pledging plenty of food, more food per hour of city labor, and food of the best quality.

There will also be an information center which visitors are invited to use. The public is welcome to drop by to enjoy their friends and their neighbors.

Benson to Speak At Swine Day

Ezra Taft Benson, U. S. Secretary of Agriculture, will headline an impressive array of speakers at Purdue University's 36th annual Swine Day, Friday, September 14.

Benson will discuss the value of agricultural research during an afternoon program in Purdue's Hall of Music. A native of Idaho, Benson has been Secretary of Agriculture since 1953.

Dr. Frederick L. Hovde, president of Purdue, will introduce Secretary Benson, and Dean H. J. Reed, director of agricultural activities at Purdue, will preside during the afternoon session.

Other speakers will include two specialists in the hog business, W. H. Bruner, extension specialist in charge of swine evaluation at Ohio State University, and LaVerne Johnson, a swine farmer at Clare, Illinois. Bruner will discuss "Lessons We Have Learned in Evaluating Meat-Type Hogs," and Johnson will explain "Practices Used on Our Farm to Produce Meat-Type Hogs."

The afternoon program starting at 1 p. m. (DST) will be preceded by tours of experiments at the livestock experimental farm, three miles north of the Purdue campus on the county farm road, between 8 and 10:30 a. m. (DST).

According to J. H. Conrad and W. M. Beeson, Purdue animal husbandmen in charge, four experiments will be viewed by Hoosier swine producers.

Farmers can see experiments regarding the best weight to change hogs from a complete mixed ration to free choice rations, high levels of antibiotics in protein supplements both in drylot and don pasture, levels of calcium with and without added zinc for growing fattening swine, and keeping hogs cool with the sprinklers and wallows. A comparison of pasture and drylot for producing rapid and economical pork will be discussed.

Richard Hollandbeck, Purdue extension swine specialist, will have a stop and display on producing and evaluating meat-type hogs. Discussions on "Self-Feeding Bulky Rations During Gestation" and "The Amount of Protein Supplement Required For Sows Fed Corn Silage During Gestation" are also scheduled.

When housing the new flock of pullets, cull those which are decidedly behind the rest of the flock in maturity and body development. That's the advice of Purdue University poultrymen who say that slow maturity is indicated by a small, underdeveloped comb when most of the other birds in the flock are nearly full combed.

Scouts Take Trip

Last Thursday evening a group of Explorer Scouts from the Pioneer Trails Council and under the leadership of Wayne Tombaugh and Dale Kelley returned from a trip to the Philmont Scout Ranch in New Mexico.

The trip began Monday morning August 6th in the Scout Bus owned by the local council. Near Piper City, Illinois, a broken connecting rod abruptly ended the bus part of the journey. After being towed into Piper City, the bus was abandoned. A hurried telephone call to "Chick Herendeen" saved the day. He took off immediately in his trusty Stenson and in one hour and five minutes was picking up men from the stranded group to return them to the area for cars. The remainder of the journey was made in cars without incident.

Philmont Scout Ranch is an immense place, stretching miles in every direction. The entire ranch consists of canyons and mountain ranges dividing these canyons. The scouts are distributed around various stations where food rations, tents, cooking equipment, etc. are distributed. The boys spend their time exploring the trails, and hiking to various and remote stations. There were horseback trips, trips with burros as pack animals, hikes to the excavations now in progress which are uncovering the Taos Indian civilization and many, many other interesting and educational features.

The sixteen members of the party completed all the scheduled trips and were awarded the coveted plaque bearing the inscription, "We Made It!" To each individual was given a smaller version of the same showing a conspicuous "I Made It!"

This was an exceptionally well-trained and well-behaved group of boys. They showed great respect and consideration for the leaders and proved that not all the headlines playing up juvenile delinquency are deserved.

We would like to put in a final plug for "Chick" Herendeen. He saved the day! We hope the community realizes the possibilities of his flying service.

Daughter Is Born

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Shinn are the parents of a daughter born at 7:52 p. m. Thursday in the Murphy Medical Center.

Recovering From Polio

Sandra Kay Bollinger, seven-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dean Bollinger, Mentone, is convalescing at home following threatment for non-paralytic polio at Children's hospital in South Bend.

Sandra's illness was reported Tuesday to Dr. John J. Johnson, county health director.

The little girl had not received Salk vaccine. She first showed symptoms of polio on August 14, and entered the hospital August 17. She was there one week. At home she is having hot packs to relieve neck stiffness.

Dr. Johnson stated all young adults, up to the age of 40, should be immunized against polio. He pointed out that Salk vaccine is proving effective in reducing polio among children. Young adults are the next largest susceptible group.

The health director urged county residents to have their family physicians administer the shots.

Mrs. Paul Perkins Dies

Mrs. Paul (Reatha) Perkins, age 49, died August 29, at 12:30 p. m. of a Cerebral Embolism while a patient at the Woodlawn hospital at Rochester.

She had been seriously ill for two weeks. Mrs. Perkins was born in Newcastle township on July 22, 1907 the daughter of Delbert and Maude Busenburg. She has lived in Newcastle township for her entire life. On May 22, 1937 she became the wife of Paul Perkins. She was a member of the Talma Christian Church.

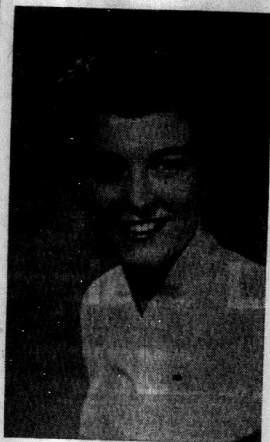

Surviving besides her husband are: one stepson, Alfred Lavan Perkins of South Bend; three brothers, Esco and Earnest Busenburg of Elkhart, Everett Busenburg of Mentone R. R.; four sisters, Mrs. Mary Blue, Mentone, Mrs. Mabel Igo and Mrs. Opal Kuncie, Elkhart, and Lois Busenburg of Mentone R. R. and three step-grandchildren.

Funeral service will be held at the Talma Christian Church, Saturday at 2:30 p. m. Rev. Delbert Ruberg will officiate and burial will take place in the Sycamore Cemetery south west of Mentone.

Friends will be received at the Johns funeral home from Thursday at 7:00 p. m. until Saturday noon.

Wins Scholarship

Directors of the Donald J. Dalton Memorial Foundation presented 10 new scholarships to the Kosciusko county high school graduates recently at a dinner meeting in Petro's restaurant.

Nine recipients will get four-year $1,000 scholarships.

Rita Olson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Olson who resides a mile northeast of Mentone, will major in music at Indiana University. An accomplished pianist, Rita has won numerous honors in 4-H work during the past seven years.

Barn Burns

Mentone, Etma Green and Atwood firemen, with the help of a tractor and crane, fought a blaze that virtually destroyed a large barn on the Max Kintzel farm, just east of Etma Green on U. S. 30 late Sunday morning. The fire apparently was caused by spontaneous combustion in the barn. Harry Slabaugh brought in a large crane, used to tear away burning upper timbers of the barn and to drag the smoldering hay away. Kintzel estimated the loss at $5,000. It was covered by insurance. Kintzel lost another barn at the same location in a 1951 fire.

Son Is Born

Mr. and Mrs. Rudy Petrosky, of Akron, are the parents of a son born at the Woodlawn hospital in Rochester.

Maternal grandparents of the new baby are Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lockridge of near Akron, former residents of Mentone.

Franklin Twp. Tax Raise

Several taxpayers have wondered why the raise in tax rates this year. We hope the following will show why.

The total valuations for 1957 is $2,535,370.00 compared with $2,654,000.00 in 1956. This is $119,230.00 less than in 1956

The township fund is $3,460.00 (or 10¢ per $100) for 1957 compared to $3,315.00 (or 9¢ per $100) in 1956.

The special school fund is $20,587.00 (or 94¢ per $100) for 1957 compared to $20,792.00 (or 70¢ per hundred) in 1956. This is $205 less than in 1956 but it takes 24¢ more on the levy to get the same money.

The tuition fund is $43,375.00 for 1957 (or $1.72 per $100) compared to $38,224.00 (or $1.04 per $100) in 1956. The reason for this increase is a vocational agriculture teacher and a full time music teacher was added.

The library fund is $1,521.00 (or 6¢ per $100) in 1957 compared to $1,300.00 (or 5¢ per $100) in 1956.

The poor relief fund is $1,000 in 1957 compared to $1,300 in 1956. This is $300 less than in 1956.

I hope this clears everyone's mind as to why the rates are higher than last year.

Plans for rebuilding the Fairview EUB church at Yellow Creek Lake have been discontinued, Rev. Joe F. Bear, pastor, reported today.

The church was destroyed last April by a tornado. Trustees of the church conference met recently and decided against a rebuilding project. They will meet later this year to decide what should be done in relation to using the $10,000 insurance policy which covered the church damage.

Rev. Bauer, said he would send notices to members of the church congregation asking them which church they would like to attend in the future.

Place In County Contest

In the County Tractor operator contest held recently at Warsaw, three of our local boys placed one-two-three. They are Philip Nelson, Burket; Doyle Eller, R. R. Warsaw, and Larry Greulich of Mentone.

The two top drivers were eligible to compete in the District contest held at Kendellville, on August 21st. Doyle Eller was unable to attend and Larry Greulich went in his place.

Phil Nelson placed with 150.0 points out of a possible 170 as 7th, and Larry Greulich placed 19th with 79.5. We should congratulate the young fellows for a job well done.

Doom For Canada Thistle

A new chemical spells doom for Canada thistle, worst weed pest of the Central States. A Chemical Company is releasing the product, called Amino Triazole Weedkiller, on the basis of extensive testing at agricultural colleges in states where Canada thistle is a serious problem.

In extensive research and field use, amino triazole has given 90 per cent or better control of the troublesome pest with one spray application. In addition to its accepted use in early season, agricultural experts recommend its use after harvest. Spot treatment in the spring will kill any plant which might survive the fall application.

Concerning the effectiveness of the new chemical, C. J. Willard, Professor of Agronomy at Ohio State University, reported recently in Crops and Soils magazine, "If amino triazole continues to live up to its early performance, farmers throughout the northern states and southern Canada are assured of a potent 'one-shot' weapon in their battle with one of the old sore spots of hayfields and meadows."

Amino triazole kills by interfering with the plant's manufacture of chlorophyll. Gradual action permits a complete kill of root systems as well as foliage. It is also effective against a number of hard-to-kill perennial weeds including quack grass, poison ivy, poison oak, cattails and tules.

Amino triazole should not be applied directly to crops. Spring applications are usually made to actively growing weeds about two weeks before plowing and planting. Summer and fall applications should be preceded by mowing or plowing under thistle plants. The plants should be allowed to regrow to a height of four to ten inches before spraying, since the chemical is most effective on actively growing plants. If cultural practices are necessary, they should be delayed at least two weeks before frost is expected.

Detailed information and recommendations on the use of the new product can be obtained from agricultural colleges, or the county agents.

A Family has More Fun than Anyone

A home that radiates a sense of contentment and well-being is invariably one in which both parents and children take genuine pleasure in doing things together, says Melvin Freud, President of Toy Guidance Council.

"By family teamwork," he says, "any project, whether it be serious or frivolous, work or entertainment, takes on new color and vigor in the planning, no less than in the execution. Toys can help families play together and stay together."

The old idea that parents must run their families autocratically, excluding the children from any part in the thinking, planning and execution, or that parents must busy themselves with their own affairs while the children go their separate ways, no longer prevails, says Freud.

Modern-day parents have been educated to the idea that there can be no real bond of friendship between themselves and their children until they come to know each other by doing things together. They recognize that as parents they should be prepared to follow their children's ideas as readily as their own, if they have merit. They have come to recognize also the shortcomings of children, especially when there is some disparity in their ages. If Junior is slow and clumsy, no impatience should be manifested, but rather, the family should wait for him to catch up, and give him a hand. If Sis becomes tired, parents should use their more mature resourcefulness to rest her without spoiling anybody's fun. There is no need to strain in this good-humored pursuit of enjoyment, child psychologists on the Council's staff advise.

As a result, Freud continues, a whole new concept of toys as tools for play has grown up. "In addition to laying the groundwork for the coming years by providing concrete and satisfying experiences, certain toys have a definite social value because the joy of playing with them is enhanced when the whole family participates. Such activity stimulates curiosity, awakens an interest, or creates within the child an ability to find things out for himself. The give and take, the planning together, the variety of ideas and the need for cooperation, patience and kindness are contributing factors. It's the teamwork that counts, the existence of a sympathetic relationship that proves a family has more fun than anybody."

Many families, enjoying greater periods of leisure time, have turned their homes into the equivalent of community centers in which parents and children busy themselves together in a variety of ways: playing board games; hammering and sawing; running the electric train; painting, modeling and doing all kinds of craft-work; giving puppet plays; carrying on scientific experiments; participating in sports.

Some playtoys cannot be appreciated fully by a child unless he has his parents' guidance and cooperation. Such popular toy kits as the American Skyline Plastic Construction Set, with 723 parts to be built up into towering buildings; the Beverly Hills Plastic Block City Set, ideal for constructing modern-day buildings; Revell's models of ship, planes and cars, with working blueprints; and Remco's transistor and crystal radio kits, to name but a few, demand to be shared and are a wonderful impetus for Junior and his Dad to indulge as a team in the sense of accomplishment which creating something together inspires. Not only are these projects fun, but they may spark the beginning of a vocational interest or skill, as well.

Sis and Mom, too, can have a wonderful time together learning to model with clay or with the new modeling plastic, Pyrocon; or designing with the Bead-A-Basket, Boutique or Jr. Miss Rhinestone Setter kits, or preparing delicacies with the new cake mixes and cooking sets.

And the whole family can enjoy backyard play with Tether Tennis, Bat 'Em Catch 'Em, the Hen Target Game or the Duck Shoot.

It is through common activities such as these, Freud concludes, that parents and children can come to know real fulfillment and real satisfaction together.

Mr. and Mrs. Masa Nelson celebrated their golden wedding anniversary Wednesday, August 22. Their children and grandchildren were supper guests. Several from the Church of Christ called later and gave them a nice lamp.

John Grace from Lakeland, Florida, is visiting Mrs. Jane Johnson and other relatives and friends.

Alice In Taxland

There is an Alice-in-Wonderland quality about our federal income tax laws, with their extremely high upper-bracket rates. U. S. News and World Report gives an example.

The magazine says: "A baseball player's angry gesture, during a ball game, may cost the Federal Government $4,200 in income taxes. It also may bring the athlete a personal profit of $4,200."

Does that sound absurd? Well, here's the true story. The world's highest-salaried ballplayer ($100,000 a year) was fined $5,000 by his club for a display of temper toward the fans. This is considered a business expense, for the reason that the fine must be paid if the player is to keep on practicing his profession. Thus, his taxable income is reduced by the $5,000.

After deductions, the top tax rate on this player's income is 84 per cent. So they fine him a tax reduction of $4,200, leaving him only $800 out of pocket.

But that isn't all. Admirers of the player are reported to be making up a fund to pay the fine. U. S. News says: "If they give him $5,000, that amount is not taxable at all. In that case, the ballplayer would stand an $800 loss and a $5,000 gain, for a net profit of $4,200."

Very few of us have any personal experience with either $100,000 incomes or $5,000 fines. But this factual illustration indicates just how confused, inequitable, and generally unsound our tax laws are. Like Topsy, they just grew and grew into a crazy-quilt. That's why sentiment for a complete overhaul has been snowballing.

Boar selection tips

Lafayette, Ind.—Late summer is a good time for Indiana swine producers to select that new boar for the breeding herd, according to Vernon Bell, extension swine specialist at Purdue University.

Bell says that fairs are an ideal place for farmers to look over different boars and to decide on the type they wish to buy.

"Only a purebred boar should be selected," the specialist believes. He adds, however, that the breed of the boar is not as important as the individual qualities of the boar. Good boars may be located through county or state breed associations.

A fast-growing, well muscled, rugged and vigorous hog should be chosen. The boar should be from a production tested herd relative to litter size, feed efficiency and gaining ability. And, the boar should have sound feet and legs and come from a disease free herd.

If a young boar is selected, he should be at least eight to nine months old at breeding time and weigh 250 pounds or more.

Hand breeding is recommended when using a young boar by placing the sow with the boar for service. "Don't let the boar run with the sow herd," advises Bell. Young boars should be limited to one service per day and about 15-20 sows per season the first year. And, these young boars can be used on old sows with the use of a breeding crate.

After a new boar is brought to the farm, he should be isolated from the rest of the herd for 30 days. He should not be permitted to become overfat. However, his ration should be increased about two to three weeks before breeding time since he is apt to lose weight during the breeding season.

"Borrowing a boar is borrowing trouble, particularly from a disease standpoint," cautions Bell.

with two School Safety Patrol members to display one of 14,000 "Back to School" posters distributed by the Club throughout Illinois and Indiana. They are 13-year-old Karen Kelly and 11-year-old Harold Vanstan. Throughout the Motor Club's Illinois and Indiana territory, some 57,000 patrol members from nearly 3,000 schools will guard approximately one and one-quarter million school children at some 13,000 intersections during the school year. Not a single child was killed at a patrol-guarded intersection in 1955.

Mr. and Mrs. Leslie and children were dinner guests of Mrs. Bertha Meredith Friday, and Friday evening Mr. and Mrs. John Laird, Mrs. Minnie Anderson and daughter Bernice of Indianapolis, and Tessie Newton were guests at the home of Mrs. Meredith.

MEANTIME, FOLLOW THESE PRECAUTIONS:

THE NATIONAL FOUNDATION FOR INFANTILE PARALYSIS

Agronomists at Purdue University suggest that rye be seeded in late August or early September for late fall, winter and early spring pasture. Balbo variety is preferred because it causes less tainting of the milk than common rye when grazed by dairy cows. Sow about six pecks per acre and fertilize liberally with a complete fertilizer such as 4-16-16 or 10-10-10. It may be seeded following an early harvested crop. It may also be seeded by disking a meadow crop that is carried over for pasture or to be planted to corn next year. Rye is excellent pasture for brood sows, pigs, cattle and sheep.

A suggestion from poultrymen at Purdue University says you can take advantage of big savings in time and steps if a feed storage bin is built in the laying house before the new flock of pullets is housed. An excellent type of bin is one that can be filled from the outside from a truck and the feed removed as needed from inside the house.

Though hog cholera is now at a low ebb, veterinarians at Purdue University warn swine raisers to continue to vaccinate pigs to protect herds against a possible flare up of the disease. Serious losses might occur this fall if a great number of swine growers let down on cholera protection. Vaccination is the only safeguard against hog cholera, according to the veterinarians.

Schools Invited to Participate In Citizen Action

Indianapolis, Aug.—Rural and small town public schools of Indiana are being invited to participate in a Wake-Up-America campaign. The appeal to school leaders which is sponsored by the Hoosier Farmer, official magazine of the Indiana Farm Bureau, seeks a reexamination of the factors and characteristics that have made our nation great.

Speaking in behalf of the appeal the IFB president, Hassil E. Schenck, says: "The present battle for the minds of men makes it imperative that we look searchingly at every idea presented, and that we profit by the mistakes made by less successful nations. Each generation must transmit this habit of scrutiny to the youth of its day."

There will be a contest for senior high school pupils, with a $5 prize going to the author of one winning essay in each of the ten Farm Bureau districts. Three top state winners will be selected. Subject of the essay will be "I am proud to be an American because . . ." Details of the contest are contained in a folder which will be mailed to all high school principals early in the school year.

Elementary grade teachers are being urged to incorporate in their history or reading lessons stories of national heroes, interpretation of the Pledge of Allegiance, meaning of the Bill of Rights and other such significant information. High school history, English and government instructors have a golden opportunity to prove their application of their citizenship through such a program in the classroom.

gram in the classroom.

Schools in which the three top winning essayists are enrolled will each receive a set of Winston Churchill's History of the English Speaking Peoples, shipment to be made as the books are published. Farm Bureau leaders also suggest that Discovery Day, October 12, be observed as Re-Coverly Day as a climax to the schools' study campaign.

New Wheat Varieties

Lafayette, Ind.—Purdue University plant breeders have done it again. As a result of their work, Indiana farmers have an opportunity to use two new improved wheat varieties for seeding this fall.

Dual—one of the twin wheat sensations in 1956—has been the highest yielding named wheat variety in Purdue agricultural experiment station tests.

Voluntary reports from 80 Indiana certified seed producers who have multiplied the variety show an average yield of 49 bushels per acre on their multiplication fields of Dual seed. These 80 seed growers represent about half the seedsmen who have Dual seed, according to J. E. Douglas of the Seed Certification Service at Purdue.

Arnold Thiele, a certified seed producer near Fort Wayne, reported a yield of 54 bushels per acre and commented that Dual was six bushels higher yielding per acre than Knox under identical conditions.

Another big advantage of Dual is its resistance to Hessian fly. As a result of this resistance, Dual may be seeded early and used for pasture. Kenneth Walters, Francesville, comments, "It makes good pasture, I gave it a good test." And, Walters still harvested a 62 bushel yield per acre.

D. L. Martin, Pence, planted his Dual two weeks before the Hessian fly free date, did not pasture, and said the wheat did not go down. He reported a yield of 52 bushels per acre after a 16 per cent hail damage.

Dual may be seeded later, also. It has about the same winter hardiness as Knox and Vigo. Clarence Halter, Vincennes, another certified seed producer, says his wheat was sowed late, and didn't do or look too good all during the winter months. However, when spring came it passed all other varieties and outyielded Knox about 5 bushels per acre.

Vermillion, the other new wheat and a sister of Knox, also has much to offer. It is the most winter hardy of all the varieties certified in Indiana. Ernest E. Dyer, Washington, an Indiana certified seed producer, reports that he seeded Vermillion late and that it came through the winter better than Knox. Martin Brothers, Walton, with a 56 bushel yield also report Vermillion more winter hardy than Knox. They sowed only 50 pounds of seed per acre and conclude that Vermillion must also stool well.

Other reports on Vermillion are also good. Howard Silveus, Silver Lake, says, "Good winter hardiness, stools good, test weight and yield good." Cyril Gard, Brazil, summed it all up when he said,

AUG. 29, 1956

"Like it as well as any wheat I ever raised."

Even with terrific yields there is not enough certified seed of Dual and Vermillion to plant 10 per cent of the wheat acreage in Indiana in 1956. Farmers interested in using one of these varieties should place their requests early with local Indiana certified seed producers or seed dealers.

The new 1956 Indiana Certified Seed Directory which lists all growers of certified wheat, winter oats, barley, rye, and fescue is now available from county agricultural agents and the Seed Certification Service, Life Science Building, Purdue University.
