35 YEARS AFTER

In 1904 a small group of persons who were not inclined to run away from a hard job determined to do something about tuberculosis, even though there was no known cure or preventive vaccine for the disease. Only a few health departments were doing anything at all to combat tuberculosis. It was pretty generally accepted that if you had "consumption" you died, and that was all there was to it.

In the ty-five years this Association has gone far along the road that it could barely discern at the beginning. Today there are 200,000 persons alive in the United States who last year would have died of tuberculosis if that year had been 1904. In 1904, 201 out of every 100,000 persons died of tuberculosis, while in 1938, 49

TRUTH about ADVERTISING

By CHARLES B. ROTH

CAN YOU READ LATIN?

THE law used to recognize the doctrine of Caveat emptor.

That is Latin. It means "let the buyer beware." The doctrine for which it stood was simply this: Whenever you bought from another it was your responsibility to see that you got your money's worth, not his.

If he were a dishonest man and wanted to cheat you, you had to protect yourself. The law wouldn't help. "Let the buyer beware," Charles Roth said. Caveat emptor.

That doctrine, as unsound doctrines always must, has given way to a better one. The modern business man, if he expects to remain in business and warrant your patronage year after year, doesn't expect you to protect yourself.

He assumes the obligation of protecting you. He makes sure that his quality is high. He religiously subjects his product to tests. He introduces improvements. And he establishes a price which is the minimum on which he can remain in business.

For this change, which is one of the most important improvements in business, advertising has been largely responsible. Advertising has given a permanent quality to business. A man who advertises must be scrupulous in his integrity. He cannot write lies. He has to live up to all claims. This means that you, as a customer, can buy from such a man with absolute confidence.

Not long ago Owen D. Young, one of America's clearest thinkers and a great business executive, declared that:

"Dishonesty in various forms is becoming rarer in business. Whenever it occurs it is exploited in newspapers, because it is the unusual, not the common, thing.

"A store keeper may short-measure or short-weight his customer and make a little. He may even induce a clerk to short-measure or short-weight. But he cannot build a big business on that basis. Honesty and uprightness must exist in great business organizations."

And it must also exist in smaller business organizations, which expect to grow large.

Whenever a business man advertises, it is a sign that he wants to operate an honest business, one from which you can buy with confidence and trust.

Advertising is thus the guiding-light which you can follow in getting more for your money.

Daily it leads millions of American customers to better values, to greater satisfaction, to the serenity which comes from dealing with men and organizations they know they can trust.

Motorist's Chief

Mechanical Waterloo

QUESTION: What is the motorist's chief mechanical Waterloo?

ANSWER: Ignition trouble. Winter or summer, rain or snow, the electrical parts of the car are motorist's worst Jonah. Tire trouble is second and fuel system difficulties are third.

"Won't go" is a perfect explanation of what takes place when drivers experience the most common electrical bugaboo, battery trouble. The starter simply refuses to start the motor because the current is too feeble. If fortunate enough to obtain towing, the car will usually start even though the battery is down.

Moisture is also one of the greatest enemies to the automobile's electrical system. Melting snow, rain, or even condensation of moisture in the air can make a car stall. Around the wiring, spark plugs, and under the distributor cap are the most vulnerable points.

This type of distress accounts for some 40 per cent of the calls from members of the Chicago Motor Club for assistance each year.

Two Minute Sermon

WILL YOUR RELIGION WORK?

I talked recently with a man who was in the depths of despair because of a business reverse that had come to him. He was unable to eat or sleep or carry on his work. In an effort to discover something that might help him in his extremity I asked him if he had tried praying over it. "No," he replied, "I have never been able to derive much help from prayer." Because of the fact that he had been a regular attendant at his church for years his answer came in the nature of a surprise to me. Here was a man whose religion was merely a formal religion, as formal as the temple worship of the Old Testament. It served him no useful purpose when misfortune came or when he had exhausted his own resources he could not turn to it for help.

This unfortunate man's situation, was, I think, not unlike the situation of many today. They have never made their religion a part of their lives. I do not pretend to know why this is true, but my observation and contact with men leads me to believe that it is too often the case. I believe that if one's religion is to be worth anything at all to him, if it is going to be a religion that works, it must be a religion that can be taken into every situation of life. It must be a religion to which one can turn when disaster strikes bringing at such time that inward strength and inward human resources fail and disward calm that every soul desires. If one discovers that his religion is one of the kind that will not thus work, it is his responsibility to discover the reason, if he can, and make it a religion that will work.

Wise Mothers Value Child's Individuality

● CHILDREN OFTEN
"conditioned" toward resentment and bitterness by unthoughtful parents. Childish initiative is often dulled by frequent and unnecessary interruptions while working.

By EDITH BRANDIS

STUDENTS of the human mind tell us that children may be and often are "conditioned" toward resentment and bitterness when they are very young, by—can you believe it?—their mothers. Later this conditioning which is an actual change in nerve structure is indicated by a bad disposition, an unpleasant personality. We say of such a person, "He has a chip on his shoulder."

There will be an almost infinite number of incidents in the early life of almost any child, which, if wrongly dealt with, will form fighting habits. Let us consider a simple, understandable, all too common example.

A little boy is making something he calls a boat. He is happy and intent on his piece of work. His mother speaks to him. When he does not respond instantly to her bid for his attention she snatches the toy away from his hands in a surge of anger. She is, she thinks, teaching her child instant obedience to and respect for his elders. If he is a child of spirit he, instinctively, will respond to anger with anger.

If he cannot give vent to his resentment at being interrupted—of course he must never fight back at Mother—he will have a thwarted feeling associated with the breaking of his concentration and the snatching away of his project.

Should similar incidents repeatedly occur, the resentment he will feel and the entire train of reactions which will follow can hardly fail to become deep-seated. They are now involuntary—a fixed habit. When this stage is reached, nothing but a careful arrangement of situations in which the child receives sympathetic consideration and makes desirable reactions as a natural consequence will bring him back to normal behavior.

Now there is a hopeful thing about habit formation. If it be true that the child may be and often is "conditioned" toward undesirable behavior, it is also true that he may be conditioned for peaceful, harmonious and productive living.

Home Is First School.

The mother, who is the child's first teacher, and his best if she be wise and resourceful, should understand the value of the early plans and activities he sets up for himself. They are his preparation for the larger plans, greater productivity and development of initiative when he is older. During his moments of intense concentration she must try never to interfere. She must see that a certain amount of his time is used by and for himself without interruption. Respect for his elders may be taught him in connection with other matters to which they are more properly related.

The child whose individuality is recognized and respected, whose initiative is encouraged, will form desirable habits of self-expression. He will enter the world with a self-confidence and an inner control that will enable him to meet his problems with courage and competence.

Deep within himself he will know, he will remember, that he has planned, he has wrought, he has achieved. To successful living there is no greater asset than to be able to say, "In the past I have planned things and made my plans come true." Following such a statement will always be this: "What I have done I can do again."

Spotless Guatemala City

At an altitude of about 5,000 feet above sea level, and with a 170,000 population, Guatemala City, capital of Guatemala, is an attractive spot in tropical America. The name, of Indian origin, means "permanency-place of ancestors." Of real interest are the palaces, temples, pottery, statues, monuments and burial places, mysteries of dead and gone ages. Broad streets and snowy houses are unusually attractive, for it is a spotless city. The market place attracts visitors who find most enjoyable the place where Indians of many tribes congregate. For many miles, these men and women have jogged along patiently, bringing their handicraft and pottery to be sold at very reasonable figures. One may determine, if educated in their tribal traditions, to distinguish which tribe they belong to by the aprons of the men and the blouses of the women, each having different weave and pattern.

PLANS FOR 1940

BOY SCOUT YEAR

Seventy-five percent of all scouts to attend summer camp in 1940 was the objective set by the camp and activities committee of the Pioneer Trails Council, Boy Scouts of America, at their annual planning meeting.

Each troop is to attend camp as a unit under one of its own leaders for a period of at least three days. Troops will be allowed several options as to methods of camping, including eating at the central mess or cooking their own food, and using camp equipment or bringing their own. Each troop will camp as a unit somewhat separate from other units but, at the same time, they will benefit from association with other troops and from the leadership of the camp staff including experts in the fields of water activities, nature lore, craft-work and commissary.

Each troop shall remain in camp for three days or longer. Individual scouts shall have the privilege of remaining as much longer as they desire.

Camp will open on June 25. The week of July 2 is set aside for the Kociusko district.

A camp savings plan has been inaugurated to help boys save their camp fees. Each boy will be given a camp savings book and shall have the privilege of purchasing stamps in ten cent denominations.

Scout leaders hope that before next summer several small kitchens shall be built. These will be used by troops that desire to do their own cooking.

Tickets for "round-the-world tours by air" are offered by United Air Lines now that the transatlantic air service of Pan American airways has started. The 17,000-mile trip takes 14 days and costs $1,785, which is a rate of 10½ cents a mile.

'Dyvour' Means Bankrupt

The word "dyvour" means a bankrupt or a debtor. It is of Scotch derivation. In 1693 the English court of sessions enacted that the dyvour's habit be a coat or upper garment—whereof one-half to be of a yellow and the other of a brown color with uppermost hose on his legs half brown and half yellow. This act was reaffirmed in 1769 when "the magistrates ordained him to put on and wear the dyvour's habit." In 1836 a statute of William IV stated: "It shall not be lawful to ordain the debtor to wear the dyvour's habit."

Cost of Civil War

In the Civil war, the expense to the government reached an average of nearly $3,000,000 a day, and there was a public debt in August, 1865, of $2,845,000,000. These figures take no account of the separate expenditures of the states and cities, amounting to nearly $500,000,000, nor of the expense to the South, nor of the incalculable destruction of property. To this must be added the interest on the public debt and the pensions paid to the soldiers, to the widows and the orphans. The total cost of the war no doubt, exceeded $10,000,000,000.

U. S. Flag Pledge

The Pledge to the Flag is as follows: "I pledge allegiance to the Flag of the United States of America and to the Republic for which it stands; one Nation indivisible, with liberty and justice for all."

Lions Roar

The roaring of the lions in the zoo at night is not an indication of distress, but is a natural, sometimes almost continuous sound. In Africa they roar when roaming through the jungles.

Scholastic Record

Miss Eloise Hayes of Latta set a record when she took her bachelor of arts from Coker college at Hartsville, S. C. She had completed 15 consecutive years in school without missing a class.

Liberty Bell Inscription

Under the Biblical quotation inscribed on the Liberty Bell are listed the names of the men who recast the bell. Pass and Stow, the abbreviation Phila. and the date of its casting, 1753.

Fried Ice Cream

Fried ice cream became a reality at the Chicago World's fair in the Gay Nineties. It was dipped into thin batter, doused into hot fat that cooked the batter before the cream melted.

Size of Codfish

Some codfish grow to a length of nine feet, and a weight of 100 pounds.

England Tribute to Danes

England at one time paid tribute to the Danes to prevent the latter from ravaging its shores.

The theme of the New York Worlds Fair was "The World Of Tomorrow" and it closed with a deficit of $23, 482, 808.

Much has been said and written regarding the value of chickens on the farm. To them have been given the credit for paying the grocery bill, buying gasoline for the family car and sending the children to school. The chicken, especially in the fried state is also entitled to the credit for keeping many of the small churches open. Give the women of the church a few chickens to work with and they can put on a penny supper that will wipe out the deficit in the preachers salary and pay the winter fuel bill.

"I've had a lot of thrills in my life" a man told us yesterday, "but none of them quite compare with the thrill that comes to a man who owns his home, owes no one and has a few hundred dollars tucked away in the bank for a rainy day."

Speaking of operating the home on budget, we once knew a man who allotted himself a certain number of gallons of gasoline a month for use in his car. Such a stickler was he for maintaining a budget that if he had the gasoline used up by the fifteenth of the month he would lock the car in the garage until the first of the next month.

Lots of people will sign any kind of petition presented to them. In California over 200,000 more persons signed the petition for the "Ham and Egg" pension plan than voted for it.

Near Hays, in Western Kansas, the drouth is reported the worst in 72 years, which is as far back as the records extend. Over 2,000,000 acres are entirely devoid of vegetation of any kind.

A local woman who is a great lover of birds, is annoyed by the fact that the family on one side of her has a cat that preys upon the birds constantly. The neighbor on the other side has a boy with an air rifle who gets such of the birds as the cat misses. "I think," she told us the other day, "that I could get the owner of the cat to drown it if my neighbor on the other side would make a similar disposition of her boy."

The blood of the martyrs is the seed of the church.—Jerome.

Pearls are formed in an oyster when a grain of sand accidentally enters the oyster shell. The oyster proceeds to coat the foreign particle with successive layers of a substance called nacre, thus forming a pearl. A Japanese about twenty-five years ago, conceived the idea of producing artificial pearls by inserting, by hand, small beads into the oyster shells and redepositing them in the ocean for several years until the pearl should be formed. This was the beginning of the artificial pearl industry. Many artificial pearls thus formed cannot be told from the genuine pearl except by the expert.

What a different world it would be if the Golden Rule were practiced in respect to one human fault especially—that of gossip. Tell only gossip about others that you would have others tell about you.

We often wonder who it is that eats all the carrots that are raised every year. We've heard a good many people express themselves about carrots but the most enthusiastic comment we have heard so far came from the fellow who said: "Oh, I don't mind carrots."

In The Lions Den—

By Victor Lane

The Mentone Lions Club marked a definite highlight in the activities of the winter season Wednesday evening, December sixth, when it celebrated Ladies Night and listened to Professor A. W. Cordier of Manchester College as the speaker of the evening.

The meeting was well attended by the members and their wives and many special guests. A pleasing dinner was served for the group in the dining room of the Methodist church after which everyone adjourned to the main auditorium of the church to hear Professor Cordier's address.

After hearing Professor Cordier's fine message the members of the club held a short business meeting to lay plans for the club's Christmas activities.

Two committees were appointed by Lion President, E. E. DeWitt, for the execution of the special Christmas program conducted each year by the club.

Those appointed on the "Toy and Treat" committee for the children's party to be held Saturday, December 3rd, were:

Elmore Fenstermaker, chairman; Wayne Tombaugh, H. V. Johns, Charles Manwaring, George Marshall Lindsay Huffer and Ray Riner.

The committee in charge of Christmas decorations is composed of: Chancev Mollenhour, chairman, Don Van Guilder, Morris Dudley, Ray Rush and Conde Walburn.

A directors meeting was held immediately after the business session to consider plans for the coming year.

Everyone attending Professor Cordier's lecture was greatly impressed with his thorough knowledge of the present European situation.

Having only recently returned from visiting many of the countries involved in the conflict now in progress he was able to paint a clear picture of the underlying causes of the complicated affairs of the old world. His remarks were entirely unbiased and colored with a ready wit which kept the complete attention of his audience every minute of his talk.

The club felt well repaid for the effort to obtain the Professor's services for the occasion.

The next meeting of the club will be held on the evening of Wednesday, December 20th, at which time moving pictures will be made of the meeting by Lion Dale Kelly and Lion Bob Kinsey.

JESSIE RUSH, Editor and Mgr.

Most everything seems to move in cycles, drouths and depressions and good times and wars. Even the birth rate seems to move in cycles. At the present time the birth rate all over the world is going down hill. There are many homes without children. Dire predictions are even made on this evidence that the race is dying out, that the fit who should rear children are shirking the job and leaving it to the less desirable group to produce all the children. We don't feel that there is any occasion for alarm. The time will come when children will again become popular and young couples will cease to shirk the responsibility and cease to live selfishly unto themselves and the birth rate will return again to normal.

Last year there were over 22 million turkeys raised in this country. This year it is reported that the crop is larger by 25 percent. Strange isn't it how such things work out? It seems almost that the turkey raisers knew months ago there would be two Thanksgiving days to celebrate this year.

Glamorous is another one of those words of which we know the meaning but are unable to define.

Unique is the German Evangelical church in Holton, Kansas. It has never given a church dinner, it has never held a bazaar, a fair, conducted a bingo game, or sold soap chips, jelly, perfume or groceries, yet the church building is the finest in the community. The congregation is made up largely of German farmers.

Since the advent of the old age pension the family Bibles have come into use again in a number of households in which in the past they have been more or less neglected. Their owners became interested in them as a source of information regarding date of their birth.

The business section of a town is a monument to the faith of the town's builders. If the business section is shabby and badly run down it indicates that the town builders have little faith in the future of the town. If the business section of the town shows a collection of modern fronts and modern store and office buildings it indicates a faith on the part of the town builders that the town has a future.

It often happens that the kind of man the office seeks doesn't seek the office.

"I owe my beauty operator a lot," a local woman told us yesterday, "and I don't mean service bills either," she added.

You may think that it is taking people a long time to heed the Golden Rule, but just consider how long it has taken people to learn so simple a warning as one that cautions against the danger of pouring kerosene from a can upon the fire.

For every liberty we, as a people, have, there is a corresponding responsibility.

A local business man remarked yesterday that Capone wouldn't have needed to worry about paying income tax if he had been in business the past eight years in lead of being in Alcatraz.

RABBIT IS NOT SOLE CARRIER OF TULEREMIA

Tuleremia, the highly publicized disease carried by rabbits, may also be communicated by opossums, muskrats, skunks, chipmunks and other rodent-type animals, Dr. William De Kleine, medical advisor of the American Red Cross, announced in a warning to hunters, housewives and market men.

Research on the infection—which has a high mortality rate among humans—has indicated to medical authorities that the disease may be carried by other forms of wild animal life, Dr. De Kleine said. He explained that the rabbit is the most frequent carrier, however. The tuleremia virus is picked up by animals from ticks.

Two rules have been laid down by Dr. De Kleine for those who may come in contact with the infection. He warns hunters to avoid the rabbit that appears listless and affords an easy target in the field.

Rule two—described as the most important by Dr. De Kline—stresses that cooks, housewives, market-men and hunters should wear rubber gloves in handling the potentially-infected animal.

Cooking, Dr. De Kleine pointed out kills the tuleremia virus, removing all possibilities of infection.

Virginia Glass Collections

Glass of varied types and age, excavated from historic areas in the Colonial National Historical park, Virginia, form a large part of the archeological collections displayed at Jamestown and Yorktown. Heavy wine and rum bottles, thin Dutch gin containers, delicate fashioned perfume vials and drinking goblets, and window panes are included in the exhibit. There may be traced the evolution of the wine bottle from the globular form with high tapering neck and disk-like collar, commonly used at Jamestown in the early Colonial period, to the final development of the moulded cylinder of the late Eighteenth century. Some of the pieces were manufactured at the early Jamestown glass works.

Origin of Swastika

The swastika is probably the most ancient and widely distributed symbol that ever existed. It is a Sanskrit word signifying happiness, pleasure and good luck. The symbol must have been in existence long before the Buddhist religion or the Sanskrit language. The sign has been found in Chaldean bricks and on painted pottery in Persia of the period 3000 B. C. In the State Historical museum at Kiev there are some black and white swastika flags which were used by the bandit leader Petura in his attack on the Jews of Ukraine in 1917. There is a possibility that he saw or heard of these flags and connected them with anti-Semitism.

Chain Store Taxes

End of the 1939 legislative season found three fewer states with chain store taxes, despite the fact that more than 60 chain store tax bills were considered in 34 state legislatures, a national survey of chain store taxes reveals. JESSIE RUSH, Editor and Mgr.

There is a fable to the effect that one day a sheep went down to the brook to drink. Soon a wolf appeared further up the stream and began to lap up the water. In a few minutes the wolf charged the sheep with muddying the water. How can that be, the sheep asked, the water flows from you down to me. Even though I were guilty of roiling the water it could not reach you because of the swiftness of the current. Because of his effrontery and aggression the sheep was attacked and eaten by the wolf. Reminds us of our European neighbors.

Every few days something happens in other parts of the world that causes us to feel a measure of thankfulness that we live in the United States. The U. S. can continue to be the greatest nation on earth only so long as the citizens of this country recognize the blessings that are theirs under this government and are loyal to it.

It is easy to spoil a good dinner by over-indulgence and by eating too much. Life can be spoiled in the same way by lack of restraint. No life has lived its best that has not exercised a measure of restraint and self-denial.

There ought to be a polite way to tell nuisances to mind their own business, but there isn't. If there was a polite way such nuisances wouldn't understand what one was trying to get across to them. It's one place subtlety and diplomacy just won't get the job done.

We all know there is such a thing as good times and bad times and prosperity and depression, but has any one figured out just what it is that makes a depression?

Most of us can remember when the first beauty shop opened up in Mentone. The beauty shop is one of the country's youngest business enterprises, yet last year the beauty shops of the nation rung up total receipts to the amount of $20,000,000.

The fellow who reported that absolute zero was to be found at a point four hundred degrees below zero should try stepping out of bed some crisp winter morning upon a linoleum rug.

Our daily notes that a young woman attending a home coming football game lost a $2400 fur coat. Somehow such a loss doesn't strike us as nearly so serious as the one reported by the young woman whose $7.98 winter coat was lost at the same time.

Unwillingness to face the truth is also evidenced by the woman who gives up keeping the family account book the second month.

The greatest man is he who chooses the right with invincible resolution; and whose reliance on truth, on virtue, and on God, is most unfaltering. Channing.

John C. Garand, inventor of the new automatic rifle which is replacing the Springfield in the United States army, turned down flattering offers for the patent from American arms manufacturers and foreign governments and gave the gun to the United States government.

After all a man's value in the world is measured by what he can do for the advancement and betterment of mankind. His value is in direct relation to his contribution.

SOUTH BEND CHAPTER O. E. S. OBSERVES VISITING MATRONS

AND PATRONS NIGHT DEC. 14
South Bend Chapter No. 2 O. E. S. observed visiting Matrons and Patrons night at the Masonic Temple Thursday night. Mrs. Walter Fenstermaker, Mrs. Cora VanGilder, and the Misses Mary and Lola Mollenhour of the Mentone chapter O. E. S. attended the lovely banquet and the service that followed.

During the initiatory work, Mrs. Fenstermaker gave the part of Martha in her usual capable manner. This is the third time she has served in the capacity of Martha during the past month.

Electric Kitty

A tiny kitten called Duke by his owner, Bill Ehinger, of Huntington, Ind., almost lost all of nine lives when he bit the electric wire on the radio. Ehinger found Duke with the wire in his mouth, unable to let go and being tossed about by the current. He pulled the plug and revived the frightened kitten with a saucer of milk.

Hollywood Dialect

If you hear a movie director say, "We're sneaking it in a tank tonight, but I don't like getting it out in 8150," you know he means his latest picture is going to be sneak-previewed that night in a town under 15,000 population, and that he is bothered because the picture is 8,150 feet long and he is afraid that it is too much footage for that type of film entertainment. In other words, the audience will get restless over its length and that will react against the picture itself.

Quebec Eliminates Ragweed

The Quebec provincial government's long-term program to eliminate ragweed in the lower St. Lawrence and Gaspé peninsula regions has been successful according to a recent survey. The offensive weed, which causes hay fever sufferers so much discomfort, has virtually disappeared. The plant protection service started this campaign three years ago. In addition to its own workers, this government agency has paid premiums to school children to aid in destroying the weed.

Substitutes Science

Differences between substitutes and the materials they were designed to replace often intrigue imaginative research men. Right now the fact that balls made of "Koroseal" look exactly like balls of rubber but don't bounce, has several researchers scratching their heads for some use to which this and other odd properties could be put.

Canadian Pilgrims

More than 1,000,000 pilgrims every year visit St. Joseph's oratory, the handsome white building on the northern slopes of Mt. Royal, Quebec, which was erected by the late Brother Andre, "Miracle Man" of Montreal.
