Girl Scout News

By Amos Skeeta

A few weeks ago we had five patrols, now we have only four. Where, Oh Where is the missing patrol? It seems that the three youngest patrols decided that it was to their best advantage to combine (but not altogether)! The Pochantus, Popular, and Yaupon patrols are now enrolled as two patrols. The Pochantun and Yaupon.

The Pochantus Patrol under the leadership of Margaret Swick are: Jean Burns, Mary Ellen Myers, Lola Mollenhour, Lena Rush and Geraldine Nellans.

The Yaupon Patrol—but lets let them speak for themselves. Here comes the patrol leader and her assistant.

"Hello, Betty, Hi, Marge! How about giving us the dope on this patrol of yours? "Sure glad to. How shall we begin Marjorie?"

"How about that good old custom "Once upon a time?", quoted Marjorie. "No!" exclaimed Amos Skeeta. "This is a regular up-to-date report. We will not tolerate any such beginning."

"How's this?"

The Yaupon Patrol

We little "kids" have a patrol of our own. We are the youngest patrol in our troop. This patrol consists of Betty Ellsworth, Marjorie Long, Betty J. Janke, Loah J. Fleck, Lois Fife, Eunice Bush, Jaunita Nellans and Eleanor Wallace.

We are all working to get our first and second class badges. Signaling is the main subject for both classes at present. Also we are all striving for attendance stars.

In troop meeting we have been working on dancer badge. We enjoy it very much. You should see us for we are very awkward. We have just learned the different steps to the "Black Nag" but we are still working and progressing very rapidly.

Betty Ellsworth and Marjorie Long

Marjorie Long is working hard to complete the requirements for the musical badge. The entire troop is busy completing the signalling necessary for either the first or second class test. Those working on the second class are learning the dot and dash system and sending and receiving. The first class signalling team must send and receive the code at a tremendous speed.

The Scouts will present a play before the Daughters of the American Revolution on February 11.

The Farmers Institute gave a prize for the best Scout exhibit. Charlene Latham received first prize for the patrol flag which she made and Pauline Swick received second prize.

PSI IOTA XI CHAPTER INSTALLED AT GOSHEN

Misses Frances Clark, Thais Greulich, Annabel and Rosalind Mentzer, Mrs. Emory Huffer, Mrs. Joseph Pintzel, Mrs. George 2nd Myers of Mentone and Mrs. William Chinworth of Warsaw attended the installation of a Psi Iota Xi chapter at Goshen on January 18. The installation ceremony was preceeded by a dinner which was held at the Parish House of the Episcopal Church. The guests included Mrs. Mildred Brown Sebring Washington, Grand President, Miss Hazel Ilite, Greensburg, Grandvice President; Miss Virginia Guisinger, Peru, acting conductress, Mrs. Elizabeth Colvin, Princeton, Grand Advisor; Mrs. Ella Caylor, Bluffton, Northern Province Chairman, Representatives from Angola, Vincennes, Huntington and Garret were also present.

The grand officers of Psi Iota Xi, officers of the Goshen Chapter, Mrs. Fred Nessel and Mrs. Martin Basset were seated at one long table, charmingly centered with Johanna Hill roses and lighted with blue tapers carrying out the sorority flower and colors of old gold and turquoise blue.

Mrs. Mildred Brown Sebring, Grand President sang "The Prayer Perfect" as the invocation after which a three course dinner was served. Mrs. Harlen Robinson gave a short speech of welcome and introduced the Grand officers.

Following the dinner, formal initiation and installation was held at the home of Miss Ilah Abshire for the thirty eight charter members. Initiation services were in charge of the Grand Officers.

W. F. M. S.

Mrs. Clark was hostess to the M. E. missionary society Friday afternoon. Mrs. DeWitt very ably led the devotional. Mrs. Pearl Lackey discussed phases of education in Japan and brought many interesting facts. Mrs. Caylor read a very interesting paper on Japanese Art Appreciation.

Refreshments and a pleasant social hour closed a successful session.

Home Inspirations--in Redwood

For interior decoration California Redwood is unparalleled. Its natural color, soft and warm, its subdued but distinctive grain and satin-like texture, lend an air of distinction unobtainable in any other wood.

For home exteriors, Redwood knows no equal. Its beauty is here combined with the utmost in value. Roofs, walls and foundations of Redwood will serve without attention for generations. Its phenomenal durability is inherent, requiring no paint nor treatment in order to assure a useful life for decades.

NATIONAL SAVINGS MARK INCREASES

NEW YORK. The annual savings compilation of the American Bankers Association for the year ending June 30, 1934, shows that for the first time since 1930 total savings in all American banks recorded an annual increase.

A statement by W. Espey Albright, Deputy Manager of the association in charge of its Savings Division, in the organization's monthly magazine "Banking," says that savings deposited in banks as of June 30, 1934, gained 3.5 per cent as compared with a year earlier.

"The aggregate is an increase over last year of $742,132,000, the first since the year which closed June 30, 1930," he says. "This is a notable achievement for the decline since 1930 had been precipitate and all-embracing. In that year savings had reached the all-time high of $28,478,631,000. A year ago the amount was $21,125,531,000, a loss in three years of $7,353,097,000. This year the figure stands at $21,867,655,000."

"Depositors, too, have gained in number, going from 39,262,142 on June 30, 1933, to 39,562,174 on June 30 this year a gain of 299,732. Four years ago there were 52,729,432 depositors, or one depositor for each 2.3 persons in the country. Now there is one account for each 3.2 persons."

An Archeological Find

New light on the works of Callimachus, Greek poet, who lived about 250 B. C. in Alexandria, was obtained recently through the discovery of a commentary on his poems. The commentary was found by Italian archeologists excavating near the Temple of the Crocodile Delti in the ancient Greco-Roman city of Teb-Tunis, southwest of Cairo, Egypt. In addition, about 1,000 other Greek papyri were brought up, attributed to the Second century A. D. They include legal documents, letters, imperial decrees and literary manuscripts.

BANK DEPOSITS WERE SAFEST INVESTMENTS

High Government Official Says No Investments Except U. S. Bonds Suffered as Little Loss as Deposits in Closed Banks

WASHINGTON, D. C.—No form of investments except Government bonds suffered as little loss as deposits in closed banks during the years 1931-32-33, Jesse H. Jones, Chairman of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, declared in a recent address.

"A point generally overlooked in connection with bank failures in this period, is that upon the whole depositors in closed banks will get a somewhat larger percentage than has been true in bank failures over a period of say twenty-five years," Mr. Jones said. "Heretofore they have gotten about 55%, but in these wholesale bank closings, my estimate is that they will, upon the average, get about 65% of their deposits."

"Another point worthy of mention is that a depositor in a closed bank loses only a part of his deposit, while the bank stockholder loses all, plus a stock assessment."

"No form of investment, except Government bonds, has suffered as little loss as deposits in closed banks, and while I appreciate that there is little consolation in this fact, those who had their savings invested in stocks, bonds, mortgages, real estate, industrial investments, or in businesses of any kind, have had losses very much greater, and in a much larger percentage, than have depositors in closed banks."

"It is for these reasons, and others not necessary here to enumerate, that it is not possible to justify paying depositors in closed banks with the taxpayers' money."

NEW WEALTH FROM SOIL

New wealth which comes from the soil is of special interest to those to whom falls the responsibility of maintaining our credit structure.

Unless agriculture is successful farm borrowers cannot ultimately succeed, neither can the banks they serve. Foreclosure sales are not a sound basis for good farming or good banking. Bankers, therefore, are as much interested in the permanent success of the agricultural industry as are the farmers, whether the deposits come directly from farm patrons, or indirectly through the ordinary channels of business.—D. H. Otis, Director of Agriculture, American Bankers Association.

DEATH OF NANCY JONES

Rest from the toiling hand
Rest for the anxious brow
Rest for the weary way worn feet
Rest from all labor now
This Mothers love was so pure
So constant and so kind
No human passion doth endure
Like this Mother of mine.

MRS. NANCY JONES

Unto Rudolph and Hannah Hire on May 31, 1847 in Kosciusko County near Sevestopol was born a daughter Nancy. March 16, 1865 Nancy Hire was married to John Jones who had recently come from Ohio. Shortly after their marriage they settled on the present home site and Mrs. Nancy Jones has lived in the same yard for 70 years lacking but four months, a feat which few humans have attained. Mrs. Jones passed to her crowning on the afternoon of November 14, 1934, having been preceeded in death by her husband on February 26, 1918 and about ten years ago by a daughter.

Seven children survive: Clement A., Charles and Rudolph of Burket; Edward Jones and Mrs. Myrtle Dickey of Warsaw; Vernon of Mentone and Mrs. Neva Mattix of Claypool. Also by twenty grandchildren and eighteen great grandchildren.

Sixty years ago Mr. John Jones and his good wife Nancy were converted and joined the United Brethern Church of Burket. The country far and wide talk frequently of Sister Nancy Jones in very intimate terms. Her life has been an open book. Words will be futile.

The stars shall shine a thousand years

A thousand years and a day
But God and I will love to live
When the stars are passed away.
I was sown in weakness here
I will then be raised in power
That which was sown and earthly seed

Shall rise a heavenly flower.

MOVE 800-FT. BRIDGE 80 FEET DOWN STREAM

Engineering Feat Completed Without Halting Telephone Service Through Cables on Span

Not long ago in Washington, D. C., a bridge nearly 800 feet long and about 130 feet high was moved 80 feet down Rock Creek valley, and twenty-four hours later was ready for business at its new location.

The bridge is known as the Calvert Street Bridge, and spanned Rock Creek. It had done business at the old stand for some 43 years, but in order to make room for a new multiple arch masonry structure which will conform in appearance to the Taft Bridge nearby, it had to be moved down stream.

The transfer of the old steel structure introduced some difficult engineering problems. The task was accomplished by jacking the bridge onto steel rollers, attaching it by steel cables to windlasses, and moving it to the desired location.

The moving of the bridge presented a problem to telephone engineers also, as it involved the moving of two inter-office trunk cables and two exchange cables which crossed the bridge in a duct. These cables were moved with the bridge, but people in Washington who had occasion to make use of the telephone didn't even know it.

Temporary conduits containing new cables had been laid to the new bridge approaches, and from there wooden troughs had been built for a distance of 80 feet to the old location of the bridge. The new cables, running through these troughs were then connected to the cables crossing the bridge, while the cables to the old location were being disconnected. As the movement of the bridge progressed, the cables were looped back and the slack deposited on platforms attached under the bridge for that purpose and moving with it. Telephone service was not interrupted.

COLT RAISERS ARRANGE TOUR

County Gold Medal Colt Club
Holds All-Day Affair Feb. 22

The Kosciusko County Gold Medal Colt Club will hold an all-day tour and meeting on Friday, February 22, under the direction of P. T. Brown, Extension Animal Husbandryman from Purdue University.

In addition to the tour to view some of the colts enrolled in the club, two meetings will be held for the purpose of fitting demonstrations, hoof trimming, discussion of feeding problems and points to consider in judging young stock will be pointed out. The first meeting will be held at 9:30 a. m. on the S. A. Guy farm, which is located 2 miles north of Mentone. The afternoon meeting will be held on the Riner-Nelson farm or better known as the Ora Tucker farm located 4 miles south and 1 mile west of Mentone. This meeting is scheduled to begin at 1:30 p. m. A number of colts enrolled in the club will be assembled at the two farms and Mr. Brown will give demonstrations of hoof trimming and discuss feeding problems during both of the meetings. It is also planned to have a judging contest for the farmers attending the sessions. Taking part in the judging contest will be optional.

Finest Quality Eggs Are Now Laid-to-Order

Controlled Feeding Makes Them
Look and Taste
Better

A revolutionary development resulting in vastly improved egg quality has been made possible in the past few years by two great factors in the poultry industry, according to Meade Summers of the poultry department of Purina Mills. One of these factors, he says, is the growing consumer demand for eggs that look better and taste better—eggs that are uniformly better than average in appearance, color, flavor, and keeping qualities. The other has been the willingness of the producer to recognize this inevitable consumer trend and to cooperate in the production of eggs that have all these quality features.

"It is this combination of circumstances," says Summers, "that has made absolute control of egg quality a definite achievement today and has brought laid-to-order eggs within easy reach of every producer and consumer. For today any poultry raiser, from the back yard flock owner to the big commercial operator can easily and economically get the finest of eggs, without variation, from his birds. Which means naturally that folks who use eggs can now purchase exactly the kind of eggs they prefer, anytime and anywhere—eggs which stand up well, with attractive light yellow yolks on thick firm whites, eggs which always have the same wholesome color and healthful flavor, eggs that always look and taste their best in every way they are prepared and served.

"The fascinating story of the successful development of quality egg control is all told in a bag of feed," Summers says. "It's a story that began 8 years ago in the research laboratory and experiment station. At that time Purina research men, observing the rapid growth of this quality egg market, began an intensive experimental program to make it easy to produce eggs made to order in all quality requirements. For six years, thousands of hens were used in a quality egg investigation which included a close study of breeding, feeding, care of eggs, housing, flock management, total egg production, cost of production, and the health and vigor of the birds—every factor that might effect egg quality.

Controlled feeding does this. Makes eggs that stand up well and always have the same appetizing color, flavor and appearance. Every egg looks better, tastes better, and is more wholesome and healthful. They do better in all egg recipes too!

"In the last analysis, feed is what makes eggs. The kind of feed used, the researchers decided, would undoubtedly have the most direct bearing on the kind of eggs produced. Accordingly, every practical combination of egg making ingredients was included in these feeding tests and results carefully observed. The eggs, produced, too, were checked in the laboratory as to size, shell texture, color of yolks, condition of whites, keeping qualities, taste, and food content.

"As a result of these years of experiments, we've found that a hen is almost 100% under the control of the feeder—that whatever is put into the beak comes out in the egg.

"Resulting from this experimental work is a single complete feed built from a proven egg making formula that never varies from bag to bag. It gives hens everything they need in feed for producing quality eggs. There is no chance for the hen to upset the formula. She can't pick and choose her feed to suit herself. Every bite she takes is the same—ever mouthful provides the same balanced quality egg making ingredients. Besides giving quality control, this feed has been found to promote higher sustained production, maintain body-weight and condition, and reduce hen mortality. Too, it has made feeding easier since there's nothing else needed but water.

"Controlled feeding has made quality eggs a household institution. There is no reason today for producer or consumer being satisfied with anything less than eggs which are uniformly the best in size, color, appearance, flavor, and food value, when such eggs are so easily produced and so available to every housewife."

Early Toll Roads in Ohio

Tolls on the old National road that ran through Ohio were determined by the wear and tear caused by vehicles and cattle passing over it. In view of their weight, cattle were taxed twice as heavily as sheep or hogs, and, according to the tariff of 1845, hogs were taxed twice as much as sheep. The toll on vehicles was determined, not by weight, but by the width of the tires used, for the narrower the tire the more the roadbed was cut up. Wide tires—those more than six inches and later eight—could pass over free, as they served practically as rollers.

First Humane Legislation

The first humane legislation was passed by the parliament of England. According to a report on the history of the prevention of cruelty to animals published by the Royal Society of England, a bill was introduced in the year 1809 but failed to pass. In 1822 a bill was introduced by Richard Marton, who was nicknamed "Humanity Dick," to relieve the suffering and to prevent cruelty and improper treatment of cattle. This bill after considerable discussion was passed. Later on bills were introduced and passed for the prevention of cruelty to all animals.

SNAKES IN MANHOLE GIVE TELEPHONE MAN A SCARE

Sixteen snakes, varying in length from 18 to 30 inches, were recently found wrapped around an underground cable of the Ohio Bell Telephone Company by Howard Hubbard, who was making a survey of the cable between Columbus and Circleville. Removing the cover from a manhole, Hubbard saw what appeared to be copper wire wrapped around the cable. When he lowered himself into the manhole, he discovered that the copper wire was in reality a mass of snakes wound around the cable and through the holes in the manhole racks. The snakes were speedily disposed of.

The Crescent

Among fundamental patterns in nature, which, by the law of correspondences, mean so much in our mental and spiritual life, is the crescent, sign of Diana, or Artemis, goddess of the chase, forests, streams—and of the moon under which dew falls to replenish the earth. Her emblem is on the breasts of birds, in many variations in the vegetable world, as in the seeds of the mystic moonseed, Menispermum canadense, the beautiful woodland vine that lovers and poets like to find because it brings happiness.

Officials of race tracks do not know the exact variation of the track from day to day. A fine, dry track is called fast and a wet, soggy track is called heavy. A track half-way between these conditions is called fair.

Attempted Suicide

Brings Four More

Tokyo.—Five people living in one house attempted to commit suicide in rapid succession. Two lads, aged seventeen and eighteen, seeing their mother, a Mrs. Sakan, take poison, decided they too would die. Their groans caused a woman boarder to rush into the room. "If you are all going to die, I may as well die, too," she declared, and swallowed some of the poison herself. Appalled by what he saw when he returned home shortly afterward, Mr. Sakan exclaimed: "What is the use of my living if every one else dies," and also took poison. The five were discovered in time to be saved.

ADOPT AN HEIRESS BUT DON'T KNOW IT

Penniless Orphan Baby Will Be Worth $20,000.

New York.—A childless English couple who recently adopted a baby girl orphan in a New York hospital will be surprised some day to learn that their foster-daughter is no mere foundling, but heiress to a modest fortune. Examination of records in the Surrogate's office disclosed the fact.

If stocks, bonds and mortgages weather what economic storms may supervene in the next two decades, "Baby Jane," as she is described in court papers, on her twenty-first birthday will inherit about $20,000. Moreover, her heart will be gladdened by a platinum and sapphire bangle, a white gold wrist-watch and other pieces of jewelry.

These facts were kept from the world at large during the period when the New York county administrator, dispenser of unwilling estates, was carefully scrutinizing all the assorted couples who found Jane's smile enchanting and contemplated adoption.

Since Jane's mother was an English girl, those interested in the baby's future were delighted when a pleasant English couple, personal friends of Sir Gerald Campbell, British consul general in New York, took a fancy to the little orphan and sought permission to adopt her. Their application was granted a few months ago, but since their income was adequate no one told them of the sums drawing interest in investments selected by the Corn Exchange Bank Trust company.

Legally, Jane's foster-parents could claim the child's estate if they knew about it. Surrogate James A. Foley and officials in the public administrator's office, however, felt that since the couple adopted the baby on her own merits, this pleasant surprise could wait until later. And so at present, so far as her foster-parents are concerned, Jane is no heiress but just a very charming baby girl.

GIVEN IMMERSION BY "SANDWICHMEN"

A stalwart man wearing waders picked up a youth in his arms and walking to the edge of the river, waded in.

There he ducked the young man, who submitted willingly to the immersion. A domestic servant, a farm laborer and several other young people were similarly treated.

This scene was enacted at a quiet spot in the heart of Hampshire not long ago, relates Pearson's Weekly. It took place under the auspices of a band of text carriers. Those baptised had been converted as a result of the members' preaching.

The text carrier's main job is parading streets and public places where crowds gather. They carry boards like sandwichmen. On them are boldly displayed texts calling passers-by to repentance.

In one seaside resort about a score of these men are kept busy throughout the year. They mingle with holiday crowds or stand with their texts at busy crossing places where all may read their messages.

They also hold meetings in public houses, on village greens and in market squares. Sometimes they travel long distances by motor coach, conducting mission meetings by the way-side in various parts of the countryside.

Perfumed Petrol

Fastidious motorists can now fill the tanks of their cars with scented petrol. A process has been developed whereby it is possible to perfume petrol, and it may soon be a delight to trail a motorist as the exhaust pipe of his car emits violet, lilac, or possibly attar of roses. A patent has been granted for a process which eliminates the unpleasant smells from the exhaust gases of internal-combustion engines. These gases can be given an agreeable odor by adding to each gallon of petrol four grammes of an artificial musk compound, which it is claimed has the property of resisting combustion in the engines of motor cars and converting the unpleasant smell of exhausted gas and half-burned oil into a delightful odor.—Tit-Bits Magazine.

City Found Under Lake

Drouth in China revealed what is believed to be the legendary city of Sanyar, which in ancient times was the commercial center of the Chekiang-Kiangsu border country until it was inundated by a flood. During the record low level of Lake Taihu Chinese fishermen found the city wall still intact, and the narrow streets with partially damaged houses. Reports from Shanghai say the ruins indicate a typical ancient Chinese city which once thrived there.

6-YEAR-OLD BOY IS MIND READER! AMAZES SKEPTICS

Child Puts Teacher on Spot; He Is Ambitious to Be a Parachute Jumper.

New York.—To look at he's just the usual happy-go-lucky boy. A mop of curly hair, a pink, chubby face. An overwhelming desire to jump over things, stand on his head and take alarm clocks apart.

But Jackie Merkle, aged six, is more than the average boy. He is one of the most amazing mind readers, "mental marvels," or whatever word you choose, who has ever visited skeptical New York.

Jackie reads minds—no one who has witnessed his work can doubt that. He slips up now and then, of course, when reading directly the mind of his "subject." But he rarely slips up when the "subject's" thought is first given to Jackie's papa, Jacques Merkle, former circus acrobat.

Too Much Truth.

"Code. Of course there's a code," said the skeptics when Jackie and papa visited a newspaper office. But the skeptics were convinced, often to their embarrassment, for Jackie has a way of blurring out the simple truth when a "subject" would much prefer a little white lie.

The reporter who brought Jackie to the office doesn't believe in anything. He was going to catch Jackie, all right, all right.

"Did I ever have an accident?"

"You were wounded in the World War at St. Pol," Jackie said promptly. That took the feet right from under the reporter, but he made another attempt.

"Shall I marry soon?"

"No," said Jackie, "you're married and you've got a child."

Whereupon the reporter, who is and has, admitted defeat.

From reporter Jackie skipped to managing editor, and wasn't a bit overawed. He told the editor his name, told him he had visited Germany last summer, even named the towns, what is more, pronounced them correctly, although he probably never heard of them before.

He "read" without seeing it an invitation to a banquet.

Professors hold that he has the vocabulary of a college graduate, and his IQ is that of a boy of twelve. He's always staggering his tutor, Miss Beula Anderson. He studies second grade lessons, and they are a snap.

Teacher on Spot.

It was suggested that, if Jacky felt lazy, he might read the answers in his teacher's mind.

"I'm afraid of that," said Miss Anderson, in a baffled way.

Now and then Jackie dabbles in the future, but they keep him away from that, unless it results in reading a person's thoughts as to future. One incident, as related by Papa Merkle, makes good reading, anyway.

Seems that Jackie was talking with Melvin Purvis, Department of Justice ace, who asked what Dillinger was doing that day.

"He's robbing a bank in Indiana," said Jackie.

"Well, what bank?"

"Oh, that's too personal. I don't want to get bumped off."

"And the papers carried a story that night," concluded Papa Merkle, "that Dillinger had robbed a South Bend bank."

Jackie likes movies and girls—pretty ones. He hates to read. He likes to eat, as his chubby form indicates. He likes mechanical toys best, and wouldn't bother with an interview until he had had a set-to with his toy airplane.

"I have a psychological impulse," he said. Honestly, that's what he said. "It's easy, the answers are flashed to me. I can always see clearly what is in other people's minds."

His future? "I," announced Jackie, "am going to be a parachute jumper."

War-Blinded Disprove

Theory About Tobacco

London.—The belief that smoking holds little charm for the smoker in the dark—that a smoker doesn't enjoy his "weed" unless he can see the smoke—is disproved by a survey made at St. Dunstan's Home for the Blind, where nearly 2,000 war-blinded men are housed. Ninety-five per cent are ardent smokers of pipes and cigarettes.

Girl Scout News

The Girl Scouts presented a play of the American Revolution named "Be Prepared" for the D. A. R. The setting was in a modern American home. Two little girls were exploring the attic and examining the trunks as little girls have a habit of doing. Suddenly, after diving into the bottom of a trunk, they found an old fashioned doll. Being little girls they caught the doll up with delight and rushed down to tell their folks of this new discovery. Their grandmother told them that the doll had a very interesting history. These little ladies were just as interested in stories as every American girl and instantly demanded the story. Grandmother willing began the story.

Her grandmother, the children's great grandmother, had been a little girl during the Revolutionary war and she had been the proud owner of this doll. A message had been given the little girl to give to General Washington but the British had received word of this important message. The British soldiers came to search the house but before they arrived this little girl received word of their coming and hastened to hide the message. She found it impossible to find a suitable hiding place but finally she ripped open her doll and placed the message inside. The soldiers were unable to find it and left. This staunch little patriot had saved the message by her quick thinking and probably had thus helped her country win the war. The message was later taken to Washington.

Our two little girls were immensely thrilled with this story and wished they could be involved in their country's troubles so as to prove their worth. They hastened away to tell the other girls about this interesting event. Later while examining the precious doll they noticed that its side was coming open, and after scrutinizing it closely they saw a paper laying inside the doll. Drawing it out they found a report on the happenings of this exciting, historic day of so long ago written by their great grandmother herself.

Just then their playmate, who lived next door, came running in with her little sister. The little sister had cut her arm very badly and was bleeding to death. These girls were Scouts and they hastened to repair the damage with the use of a tourniquet and saved the little sister's life.

The actresses were: The Grandmother, Pauline Swick; the Mother, Charlene Latham; the Girls, Juanita Nellans and Jean Burns; the Other Scouts, Geraldine Nellans, Lola Mollenhour, Lena Rush, and Wiladean Junke, the Neighbor Girl, Margaret Swick; Her Sister, Norma Jean Nellans.

Charlene Latham and Pauline Swick are working hard to pass their Athlete's badge. Marjorie Long is working on the play which will be presented in Scout meeting and will have won her Minstrel's badge.

The Girl Scouts will attend the Baptist Church Tuesday evening Feb. 26.

The Raggle Taggle Gypsies are working on their Minstrel badge.

Belief in the Horseshoe

Belief in the horseshoe as an emblem or harbinger of good luck appears to be as old as metal horseshoes themselves which date back to about the Second century A. D. Expansions differ as to the origin of this superstition, but one of the common ones is that the horseshoe is supposed to owe its protective powers to its fancied resemblance to the nimbus or halo pictured about the heads of saints or angels.—Pathfinder Magazine.

HOME NURSING

Seeing that our community was greatly distressed by epidemics of both measles and influenza, the Home Nursing Class of the Mentone High School was given some practical training in the care of the sick.

After having studied the causes and results of sickness and the duties of the home nurse, our County Nurse Mrs. Ava Teel, demonstrated bathing a patient in bed for us. I don't believe anyone would dislike seeing the nurse coming at bathing time—and that alcohol rub, how refreshing!

Different members of our class, after much preparation, demonstrated the method of using various supports, a bed cradle, hot and cold applications and counter-irritants. A great deal of ingenuity was exhibited in the making of home devices which cost nothing except a little time and energy.

No, we are not going to forget that our patient still likes to eat for we are now able to prepare liquid, soft, and light diets. Our trays looked so attractive that we almost wished we were sick.

We learned that it is always better, however, to avoid sickness than to cure it, so beware!
