Ancient Coach Long in Use

Old railway coaches, like old soldiers, never seem to die; they merely fade away. The thought springs into being with the discovery of a sixty-one-year-old pullman sleeping car doing duty as a general storehouse on the western shore of Hudson bay. Records show that this hoary pullman was built in August, 1872 and it was named the "Conway." It ran on the old Eastern railroad of Massachusetts until 1880, when it was remodeled and renamed "Capitano." In its new state it boasted of a barber shop and a bathroom. In 1904, "Capitano" was sold privately, and at a later date was again renamed, this time "Marlborough." From then on its ways were devious until finally it got into the hands of a railroad contractor and through him to the Canadian National railways.

Japan Honors Edison

A society has been organized in Japan to collect funds for a stone monument to Thomas Edison. It will be at Yawata, in Yamashiro province, whence Mr. Edison obtained his first supply of bamboo carbonization which made possible the filament for electric bulbs. Japan celebrated, throughout the nation, Edison's eighty-fifth birthday, and also the fiftieth anniversary of the electric light.

Toothache Sufferer Is Killed by Cure

Boston.—A toothache resulted in the death of John J. Dowd, twenty-seven, of Worcester. He rubbed some medicine on his gums, to relieve a throbbing tooth. Shortly afterwards, he suffered severe pains and died. Medical Examiner Frederick H. Baker said a large quantity of a strong carbolic compound, designed to ease the pain, had been swallowed by the victim.

WOMAN GAVE HUGE SUMS TO SERVANTS

Rich Spinster's Prodigality Is Shown in Will Case.

Los Angeles, Calif.—Margaret Keith, daughter of a millionaire mining man, who committed suicide in her Beverly Hills mansion last April, once gave a nurse $10,000 for her thoughtfulness in bringing her a bunch of violets, a jury hearing evidence in the contest of her will was told.

Miss Keith, described as a woman of great physical charm, left the bulk of her fortune, estimated at more than $1,000,000, to a favorite nephew, Albert S. Allen, Jr., an Oregon rancher.

Contestants of the will, among them Miss Keith's sister, Mrs. Etta Keith Eskridge, contend the forty-nine-year-old reclus was mentally incompetent and unable to conserve her finances.

Their attorneys cited that she once gave a negro maid $1,000 and a motor car for bringing her dinner to her and that she discharged a Japanese gardener for looking at her, although she wrote him a check for $1,500.

She permitted no one to look upon her, the jury was told, went outside only at night, and had her meals delivered at the door of the room in which she lived—one room among scores that made up her palatial residence in the Palos Verde hills overlooking the Pacific ocean. In another mansion, unfurnished except for a cot, in Beverly Hills, she succumbed to a self-administered sedative.

Nicholas Burns, a contractor, told the jury he built the Palos Verde residence for Miss Keith, but said he never saw her and talked to her by telephone only once.

"Although I acted as Miss Keith's manager for a time and built the home for her, I never saw her," said Burns. "I received more than 100 letters from her. I talked to her only once, and that time about plans for the swimming pool in the residence."

Lawyers said Miss Keith turned against man even before the death of her father, the late David Keith of Salt Lake City, and that she once told him he was "not in accord with the rest of the universe."

Counsel for Allen contends the will is valid and represents the true desire of Miss Keith for the distribution of her estate.

BERYLLIUM METAL BEING DEVELOPED

X-rays, microscopes, and highly intricate processes are being used at the National physical laboratory, Teddington, to produce a steel alloy lighter, stronger, and more resilient than ever before, says London Tit-Bits Magazine.

If the search succeeds it is likely to start a revolution in the engineering world that will repeat the story of Bessemer steel, and mean millions of pounds of trade and industry to the nation which first exploits it, for it will certainly revolutionize ship and aircraft construction, bridge designing, building, and many other forms of engineering.

When airplanes, especially, created a demand for lightness and strength combined, scientists and metallurgists thought of beryllium, which responded by soaring to the prohibitive price of about £5,000 per pound! During the last ten years research into the possibilities of beryllium as an alloy to lighten steel without diminishing its qualities of strength and elasticity has been intensified, the two leading rivals being this country and Germany. The first essential step is to produce a specimen of pure beryllium, as in its impure state it is too brittle for use.

Some years ago the impurity was reduced to 0.5 per cent, but the X-ray has probed still deeper into the structure of the metal until an ingot of pure beryllium, smooth, polished, with a suggestion of silver, has been produced, and now the next step is to apply it to industry and commercialize it.

We have deposits of beryl in Cornwall, Aberdeenshire, and Ireland, and several of the Dominions have rich deposits. And the price has fallen to £15 a pound!

Lotteries Help Aviation

Money for the development of aviation is being raised through lotteries in Turkey. They are conducted by the Aviation league, which succeeded the Navy league formed before the World war to raise funds for the improvement of the Turkish navy. The league has the exclusive right for conducting lotteries in Turkey, and has secured from the Turkish government authority to construct buildings and fields to be used for aviation. The total amount which may be spent for this purpose cannot exceed $350,000 and the credit is to be distributed during the fiscal years 1934, 1935 and 1936.

"Social Register" Losing Favor

Americans generally do not seem to be extremely enthusiastic about having their names in the "social register." Between 1925 and 1927, 21 cities had editions, but 9 were dropped due to lack of interest in them. Today, the 12 remaining editions, combined, have a circulation of 33,000 copies.—Collier's Weekly.

FRANCES RUSH, Secretary

SAVE WASHINGTON'S FIRST BATTLEFIELD

Patriotic Society Preserves Historic Scene.

Washington.—Deep in the forests of Laurel Ridge, a mountain of southwestern Pennsylvania, a young Virginia lieutenant-colonel and his troops, and a young French ensign and his patrol, exchanged the first volley in a war that changed the map of the world to almost as great an extent as the shots fired at Sarajevo, Servia, in 1914.

The Virginia lieutenant-colonel was George Washington, and the Frenchman, Coulon de Jumonville. The latter was killed in this, the first engagement of the French and Indian war, known abroad later as the Seven Years' war.

Recently title to four and a half acres of land where the battle took place was obtained by a Pennsylvania patriotic organization, which will preserve the ground and Jumonville's grave as a historic monument.

Begin Fort Duquesne.

In a communication to the National Geographic society Dr. William Joseph Showalter describes this earliest of all Washington's military campaigns, and the first conflict at arms between the French and the English for the possession of the Mississippi valley.

"Only ten weeks after Washington's first scouting trip into the Ohio valley region, during the winter of 1753-54, he was again headed for the district between the present cities of Cumberland and Pittsburgh," Doctor Showalter writes. "The French had occupied the forks of the Ohio and were engaged in building a fort (Fort Duquesne) there, in the identical spot he had observed several months before.

"Washington undertook to build a road from what is now Mount Braddock south of Connellsville, to Brownsville, on the Monongahela, and to widen the trail between Cumberland and Mount Braddock.

"He also explored the Youghiogheny for about thirty miles, in the hope of finding a waterway open down the river to the forks of the Ohio. But the Chippewa falls turned him back. He then concentrated his men at the Great Meadows to erect a fort there. Col. Joshua Fry, the commander of the regiment, having died of a fall from his horse on May 31, Washington assumed command.

"Things happened on this trip. The Indians who wanted to be loyal were alarmed at the weakness of the English and at the strength of the French. Jumonville leading a small party of French troops, was discovered trying to ambush the Virginia soldiers.

Washington Leads Attack.

"With the support of the Seneca Indian chief, Half-King, Washington attacked this force on top of Laurel Ridge, to the west of the Great Meadows. Here Jumonville was killed. The French afterward asserted he was carrying a message to the Virginia troops and not acting in a military capacity; which claim Washington, with unusual vigor, denounced.

"There followed now war councils, Indian powwows, wampum exchanges, and finally news of the approach of a strong French force. It seemed wise to retreat to the Great Meadows and occupy Fort Necessity.

"Supplies failed to arrive, and when the French opened fire it was plain that surrender was inevitable. The defense lasted until about eight o'clock in the evening, the attack having begun an hour before noon. Then a parley was held, and Washington was given his choice of surrendering as a prisoner of war, or marching out with flags flying and drums beating but leaving his artillery to be destroyed.

"As one stands by the old brick tavern near Farmington, on the Old National Trail east of Laurel Ridge, and looks down by the creek where the reconstructed log stockade, Fort Necessity, now stands, it is easy to imagine what his capitulation to the French on that third day of July, 1754, cost him.

"He returned to Williamsburg disheartened, but the house of burgesses passed a resolution of which he wrote, 'Nothing could give me and the officers under my command greater satisfaction than to receive the thanks of the house of burgesses, in so particular and public a manner, for our behavior in the late unsuccessful engagements with the French.'

"The scene of the Jumonville engagement can easily be reached today by U. S. Route 40 (the Old National Trail). About five miles east of Uniontown, Pa., on the summit of Laurel Ridge, a side road leads north from U. S. 40 to the battlefield, which is marked by several tablets and monuments. Reconstructed Fort Necessity stands a few miles farther east on U. S. Route 40. An old mansion standing near the rebuilt log stockade has been converted into a museum of Revolutionary relics."

SANCTUARY SET UP BY NEW YORK TOWN TO HELP ELOPERS

Ripley, N. Y., Bids Fair to Establish Record as New Gretna Green.

Ripley, N. Y.—Elkton, Md., must look to its laurels as the Gretna Green of the East, for Town Clerk Clarence E. Barden can now rightfully claim the record of issuing more marriage licenses than any marriage license clerk in a town the size of Ripley in the United States, and his "business" continues to grow.

Ripley's nearness to Pennsylvania and Ohio and the ease with which licenses may be obtained here, has made it a favored spot for runaway couples from those states.

"Business" on Boom.

Within the last two years 3,716 couples have applied to Town Clerk Barden in Ripley, population 2,500, for a marriage license and the 1933 total, falling slightly behind that of 1932, has passed the 1,000 mark. Of this number, many were refused licenses for one reason or another, but the majority departed as man and wife.

There is nothing secretive about the "Ripley Marriage Mill." The town clerk's office where the master and his mate apply for passage on the uncertain sea of matrimony is located on the ground floor of a brick front garage.

When the office is closed for the day, Clerk Barden picks up his official sealing device and a pad of marriage blanks and takes the marriage license bureau home with him.

It Never Closes.

The mill operates 24 hours a day, seven days a week. Midnight marriages are no longer a novelty in Ripley and electric signs advertise the homes of the marrying justices while porch lights illuminate the dignified names of Protestant clergymen.

Facts about Ripley romances show that Ohio couples usually arrive in the later afternoons or in the early hours of the morning. Couples from rural districts in western Pennsylvania apply for their license during the hours between 1 p. m. and 6, and that those from the cities prefer the early evening.

Those who marry in Ripley include couples from all walks of life. They arrive by train, bus and all manner of conveyances. They alight from smooth purring 16-cylinder cars and wheezing 4-cylinder flivvers. One recent couple came all the way from Tulsa, Okla.

Convict Pardoned Who Once Was Dressed to Die

Albany, N. Y.—After once being dressed in a black suit and his head shaved in readiness for the Sing Sing electric chair, Edward Larkman was granted a full pardon here recently by Governor Lehman.

Larkman was serving a life sentence for the murder of Ward J. Pierce during the holdup of the Art Metal works in Buffalo on August 12, 1925. He has been in prison eight years.

His pardon followed efforts by his wife, three young children and friends to obtain his freedom since May, 1929, when Anthony Kalkiewicz confessed that the Buffalo robbery was committed by the "Big Korney" gang.

"Larkman wasn't a member of the gang," Kalkiewicz said in a confession written in the death house at Sing Sing.

Nevertheless, mainly on the testimony of a woman witness, Larkman was found guilty of murder and sentenced to die.

Conviction of Indian Reveals Strange Cult

Globe, Ariz.—Silas John Edwards, stolid Apache brave, is serving life imprisonment at McNeil island for the murder of his twenty-year-old wife, Margaret.

His conviction disclosed that Edwards is the founder of a weird Apache religious cult that has spread throughout the Indian tribes of the Southwest, according to government agents.

The cult combines elements of the ancient rituals of medicine men of the Apache tribe and some teachings of the Christian religion, it was explained.

Edwards was known to his aboriginal devotees as "The Snake Man." Ceremonials of the cult are kept secret, no white men being allowed to witness them.

Autoist Walks Six Miles to Tell Police He Lied

Palmer, Mass.—Joseph A. Sinero of Monson walked six miles at midnight to the police station just to ease his conscience after he had lied to a policeman who stopped him for a traffic violation.

Sinero said he let the policeman assume that the license was his, but it belonged to his brother. When he arrived home he could not sleep, so dressed and walked to the police station to explain the situation.

Told to appear in court the next morning, Sinero pleaded guilty and was fined $5.

Life Story Written on Bill

Dallas.—A condensed life history written on the edge of a bill was found by a bank cashier here. The legend read: "This is the last of a $100,000 fortune spent on wine, women, and song. I am now in jail awaiting execution for murder."

Election Emblems

Laws of the states differ as to the use of election emblems. Some states still attempt to do without them on ballots and voting machines. Local election boards have to pass on the design and size, where the insignia are permitted. Versions of even a national party symbol may vary considerably.

Witches Were Weighed

As there were no state laws for such cases, women accused of witchcraft in early Ohio were tried by weighing them against the Bible, regardless of how plump she might be. If she was guilty, the Good Book would outweigh her, and if not, the Scriptures would descend.

Initiation Party Held at Argonne

An initiation party was held Tuesday evening, Feb. 13, at the Argonne by members of the Psi Iota Xi sorority of Mentone. A delightful dinner was served at 6:30 o'clock at three small tables. SENIOR CLASS

The Senior class wishes to announce that they will be glad to assist any person who is in doubt about the location of their farm. As we were also assured that we would most all own farms in the near future we were expected to be very efficient at this sort of thing. What! Do I hear some girls objecting?

Can You Imagine

The Senior Class not wanting a class meeting every Friday.

A certain seventh grade boy and blonde Senior girl not talking at noon in the hall.

Dick Greulach not answering the very important questions in Civics Class.

The Assembly is now adorned with a loud speaker which everyone thinks rather nice. It is to be used for special occasions. (And especially if the Bull Dogs happens to go to the State Tourney this year) We would like a little music during study periods. What's that. I should say not.

JUNIOR CLASS

The Junior Class had a party Wednesday February 14, in the Cafeteria room of the School Building. There were twenty one present. During the evening we played some old fashioned games that our parents used to play and enjoyed. A contest added variety to the events of the evening as we tried to discover who knows the most movie stars and Jean Manwaring won the prize (But we all ate it). As it was Saint Valentines Day a touch of romance was added by pinning hearts with girls names upon a piece of cardboard and producing a cupid's arrow with which the boys were supposed to shoot a heart. Some of the attempts were almost in vain because the arrow seemed to be in perverse mood and would insist on curving before striking the heart. This was hard on the person who had to pick up the arrows.

Upon hearing the clamorous call from the kitchen we all trooped out to begin pulling taffy. In some cases the taffy was too hot, in others too cold but never-the-less we succeeded in pulling and eating it. Also we popped and ate pop corn, which tasted very fine with taffy.

We had visitors at school Thursday and they unfortunately visited Geometry class. The main proposition we had to contend with then was "nervousness"

A few boys have accused we girls of not having our History lessons but we have noticed that we are still answering the majority of the questions.

Home Economics News

Two new families have come to live with the Home Economics girls of Mentone High School. They are "Mr. and Mrs. Brown Bread and Milk" and Mr. and Mrs. White Bread and Coffee." Most of you probably have either seen them or heard about them through the pupils of the school. But, if you haven't, we won't keep you in suspense any longer. They are baby white rats which the girls in Advanced Food are using for feeding experiments.

One family of rats is being fed on an adequate diet—milk and whole wheat bread and the other family is being fed on a diet similar to a diet eaten by many American people—white bread and coffee.

If any of you would like to see our rats, come up at any time; they will be on display. And if you can coax them away from the girls, you might even get to hold one for a little while.

Quilting Party

Several ladies spent the day with Mrs. Isaac Horn on Thursday. The day was spent quilting. At the noon hour a delicious pot luck dinner was enjoyed by all. In the afternoon Mrs. Horn served home made ice cream. Those present were Mrs. Ray Wilttrout, Mrs. Ada Brown, Mrs. Jesse Jones, Mrs. George Droun, Mrs. Willis East, Mrs. Russell Creighton and children of Atwood, Mrs. Lyman Dunnuck, Mrs. Edison Vandermark and Mrs. Wilson Horn and son of Warsaw.

CLASS PARTY

The young peoples class of the Palestine Christian Church gathered at the home of Miss Naomi Clark for their regular monthly meeting Wednesday evening. After the business meeting we selected our partners by finding someone whose heart corresponded with our own. With contests that made you wonder if old man Knowledge had his night off and games and tricks that tried your wits we had a very enjoyable time. Last but far from least, delicious refreshments were served by the hostesses. Those who enjoyed the evening were Grace Bulger, Helen Krauter, Marguerite Huffer, Geneva Horn, Frances Rush, Jesse Rush, Frances Cochran, Naomi Clark, Bernice Egolf, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Mahoney and family, Gail Morrison, Scott Horn, Richard Morrison, Harold Smythe, Eldon Horn, Miles Morrison, Walter Smythe, Dale Flew and Walter Barkman.

Washington Dog Is an Expert Mathematician

Edmonds, Wash.—This city claims to have one of the smartest dogs in the country.

Princess, a thoroughbred English setter, owned by Edwar L. Blake, can add, divide, subtract, read dates, tell time, read license numbers and answer almost any question. One bark means no and two means yes.

Here are typical bits of conversation Blake had with her:

"How old are you?" Twelve barks.
"What time is it?" Four barks.
(Correct.)

"What day is this?" She barks the correct date.

"What is a third of this number?" "A half?" "A fourth?" (All correct.)

Showing there is no trick to her answers, the owner turned his back and walked while reporters questioned the dog to their satisfaction.

Gar Weighed 147 Pounds

Brownsville, Texas.—C. Galbert believes he holds a record of some sort. After two years of angling for a huge fish in a lake near his home, Galbert landed a 7½-foot gar which weighed 147 pounds.

Sailor Must Prove That He Was Born

Chester, Pa.—Unless Michael Woodfield of Chester can prove shortly that he actually was born, he will be listed as a man without a country.

He has been in jail at Modelo prison, Barcelona, Spain, and is scheduled for deportation to France. American authorities said they were powerless to aid him because he can produce neither a passport nor a birth certificate.

Woodfield, a sailor, claims he was born in Delaware county, but search of the records failed to reveal a birth certificate.

"D. T." Snake Really Existed in Reptile

Kernville, Calif.—A snake such as is associated usually with bad dreams was killed near here recently by Bill Walker, Jr., of Keystone.

The reptile, a rattlesnake, was six feet 1 inch long, weighed 25½ pounds, had 14 rattles, and was an albino. Its eyes were pink and its body a mottled pink and red.

The snake's body was sent to the University of Southern California for study.

SHE SEEKS ROMANCE; BOSSES SEWER GANG

Broken Dreams Force Girl to Take Lowly Job.

Welson, Ill.—Her dream of teaching English in far-away Hawaii shattered. Miss Juanita Martin has now returned to her home here as a successful boss of a construction gang.

Since girlhood, Juanita had dreamed her dreams of sailing to far off isles in the western Pacific, there to enjoy gorgeous sunsets and hear dreamy music of the ukulele when not engaged in warning against split infinitives and verbosity.

While in high school, Juanita spent one summer vacation assisting her father, E. D. Martin, in building a sewage disposal line between North Aurora and Aurora, Ill. So employed, she gained valuable experience and after her graduation from the Nixon township school, her father obtained a contract for construction of a $112,000 sewage disposal plant at Geneva only to find himself unable to direct the work.

Juanita, however, jumped into the breach, signing contracts, hiring men, purchasing materials and taking over the job as active boss. She directed her men with the same vim and tact that she had used in dealing with bankers and government officials and when the job was done the federal inspector detailed to look over it declared that it compared favorably with the best concrete work in the state of Illinois.

On one occasion, when work was halted due to lack of dynamite needed to blast away an obstruction, Juanita leaped into a monster auto truck, raced 20 miles to Lemont, secured the needed explosive and hurried back in time for the work to proceed without a hitch.

Another time, she was forced to make a hurried trip to Washington to obtain a loan on securities to obtain funds to complete the job.

Although Juanita was forced to forget her dreams of the Hawaiian islands, she did have the satisfaction of seeing a pretty park with a rock garden and waterfall publicly dedicated and christened "Juanita Park" by the mayor of Aurora, Ill., in her honor.

Rattlesnake's Attack

Upsets Old Tradition

Porterville, Calif.—The old saying that a rattlesnake strikes only in self-defense and would rather run than fight, is just so much twaddle, in the opinion of State Ranger C. A. Mullen.

Mullen came across a rattler on a trail near here the other day. Keeping one eye on it, he walked by. The snake crawled after him, coiled, and struck, he said. Mullen continued to walk. The snake followed him, coiled again, and struck a second time. This was repeated several times, he said.

Mullen then seized a rock and killed the reptile. It has 12 rattles and a button.

Doctor's Pill Box Gives

Bank Robbery Solution

Chicago.—Through a doctor's pill box Chicago police say they have solved an $1,800 bank robbery.

The box, bearing the prescription label of Dr. F. E. Cunningham, was found in the rear of an automobile abandoned by the gunman who held up the bank. Police found the prescription was given to Peter Fellicetti, eighteen. They searched his room and found $245, which he said was his share of the loot.

Bantam Chicken Sings

Songs on Top of Piano

Ajo, Ariz.—A bantam hen that sings is the proud possession of Mrs. Rita Wallenstein.

The hen, Pibby, has performed many times, according to Mrs. Wallenstein, and her vocal talents apparently are unlimited.

When Mrs. Wallenstein plays her piano Pibby will walk back and forth on top of the instrument "singing" in perfect time with the music.

Girl Betrays Physician as Dr. Jekyll-Mr. Hyde

Bucharest.—By day a Doctor Jekyll, fashionable society physician. By night a Mr. Hyde. Such was the career of Dr. Rudolph Krulivovsky.

Now, with the band of "high-brow criminals" he led for three years, Krulivovsky sits in jail, betrayed by the jealous vengeance of a woman.

To the wealthy patients of his surgery in a fashionable section of Bucharest, Doctor Krulivovsky was a cultured, conscientious physician. But at night he was the chieftain of a band of professional criminals.

They robbed banks, jewelry stores, fashionable shops and the homes of noted actresses and society beauties.

They might not yet have been tracked down had Krulivovsky not quarreled with his sweetheart. She thought he was interested in another woman and began spying on her lover. He objected to her interference and they fought. But the girl already knew too much. She took her revenge by telling police.

And Every Silver Lining Has Its Cloud, It Seems

New York.—Mrs. Rose Volz of Floral Park, who collected a $5,000 reward by finding a pearl necklace in Central park, looked back today upon that windfall with nothing but ruffled anger.

So many friends called to congratulate her at the Park avenue apartment where she was employed as a nurse-maid that she lost her job.

That was much more important to her than the fact that she collected the reward. Five thousand dollars is just an accident, but a job is a job.

Mrs. Volz, a nurse for the children, was taking her charges through the park when she found the necklace.

It had been lost by Mrs. Alfred Ettlinger of Cary, Ill., daughter of John Hertz, founder of the Yellow Cab corporation. It was valued at $76,000 and insured for $50,000.

SMART POLICE DOG PROVES TO BE WOLF

Around the world has gone the fame of a wolf, probably the sole illustrious wolf on record, and it is in a Chinese magazine that one learns of him now, though he lives in Austria, where he serves as a police dog, and rates as Europe's smartest, says Literary Digest.

He was a cub in the Bosnian woods when a Vienna police clerk, out hunting, captured him six years ago, and began to train him with animals already in service. Last year the wolf took first prize at an international police dog show, making not a single mistake in tests for training, skill, and accuracy. He had won more than two hundred prizes before that.

Commenting on his brilliant career, the China Journal remarked, "We are not surprised to learn of this wolf's accomplishments, for it is the experience of every hunter who has matched his wits against wolves that they are possessed of an intelligence which is uncanny in its human qualities, and to it is added super-sharpened senses of hearing and smell as well as an unerring instinct in detecting danger from man. Unquestionably the so-called Alsatian owes its superior intelligence to the fact that it is little more than a domesticated wolf, notwithstanding that many lovers of this breed hold views to the contrary."

Dead Volcanoes in Lake Near Superior's Surface

Volcanoes, both active and defunct, are wide-spread throughout the world, but the last place we would have thought them to be probably would have been under the waters of Lake Superior, observes a writer in the New Orleans Times-Picayune. And yet a couple of such the dead variety, thank heaven—have been discovered in the bed of the world's largest fresh water body. At a point midway between Thunder bay and Michipicoten Island, in Canadian waters, a shoal has been found, thirty miles from any shelter. There has been discovered a peak 100 feet in diameter covered by only three and a half fathoms of water. A second nearly is smaller and deeper, but both, now to be marked by the Canadian department of marine, are asserted to be the cones of extinct fire mountains.

The question is, shall the peaks be cut down to a safe depth, or shall they be permanently marked and lighted? The first alternative is more costly, but the permanent upkeep of the second is most forbidding. Decision remains to be made.

Tricky Horse Released Others

A saddle horse of the Oregon National Guard had everyone puzzled until a special watchman found its secret. The horse nightly disappeared with about twenty of his stable mates. The watchman found that "Sam" slipped his halter with the aid of his manger boards and then made the rounds, pulling the halters from the heads of his mates with his teeth.

Man Loses in Desert Flight

After several days' search police patrols, mounted on camels and horses, captured in the Namib desert of South West Africa a prisoner who had escaped from the Swakopmund jail. Darkness and mist had given the man a start of 24 hours. Day after day the police scoured the desert until the exhausted prisoner was overtaken.

Horse Comes Back

The horse, it is said, is coming back, but nowhere has he been ushered in so impressively as at Hutchinson, Kan., where horseflesh displaced the motorized milk wagon. The dairy owner who, for reasons of economy, turned back the clock to the pre-motor age, made an occasion of it, and the towns people turned out several hundred strong, according to the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. The first wagon, shining white and rubber tired, was ceremoniously christened—with Grade A milk, of course. The wagon-maker, the harness man and the blacksmith made speeches acclaiming the equine renaissance. The cows were among those present, and looked on placidly as the barnyard resumed its old precedence over the garage.

Good "American" English

Cultivated people on both sides of the Atlantic speak the English tongue equally well, according to Dr. Walter Hervey, founder of the American Good Speech society. The best English, and what Doctor Hervey calls the best American are so nearly alike today that, in his opinion, according to the Irish Independent, they can not be distinguished the one from the other. When King George or President Roosevelt speaks, the spoken words are not marred, we are told, by any "local tang or distortion." As a result of education the same exquisite English is spoken, Doctor Hervey maintains, in both New York and London by the finest actors, the best preachers and the best orators.

Eccentric Weddings Hit

Freak weddings, in which the bride and groom leave the church under arches of golf clubs, meat choppers, bicycles and other articles, are being attacked in England. One leader of the crusade declares that soon rolls of wall paper, cans of paint, and possibly coffins will be utilized as decorations. He adds, dryly, that if the craze continues, bankers and clerks will use currency instead of confetti.

Dog Plays Hobo

Smith Center, Kan., reports the appearance of a hobo dog. Recently a freight train pulled in to the station for water. The dog leaped off a flat car and waited at the depot until the train started and then made a running jump for his old perch, wagging his tail when he lit safely.

Conscience Brings Back Money Lost Six Years Ago

Waycross, Ga.—Clarence McIntosh has recovered the value of the contents of a pocketbook he lost in 1927. The purse fell from his pocket on the porch of the Y. M. C. A. building and, failing to find it, he promptly forgot about it.

A few days ago a Waycross man, who has been living in another city, sought Mr. McIntosh and said he had picked up the pocketbook. "I was desperately in need of money," he said, "and your cash helped me to get out of town to find a job." Neither remembered what the amount was, so the loss was compromised for $10.

Los Angeles.—Seeking an annulment of his marriage to Ruth Cleo Stackelberg, Richard Stackelberg explained to the judge:

"I was riding with Glen Martin, a friend, one day when my wife passed us in another car and waved. Martin waved back, so I asked him: 'Do you know that woman?'"

"Sure, that's my wife," Martin told me.

Martin explained they had been married and never divorced. Stackelberg got the annulment.

"Go on, you can't land here. Get out, and get quick," one of the men told him. "It's against the rules."

Kelgher had landed inside the state prison grounds. He left as quickly as he could repair the motor.

Smallest Thing Having Life

Two types of diatoms, one-celled animals or plants, the smallest living things in the world, are magnified hundreds of times before it is possible to photograph them. By magnifying the smallest 2,400 times, it is brought so close to the eye that the "ribs" or vertical lines in the diatome are distinct. These ribs measure only one four-hundredths of the diameter of the human hair. Another diatome, when magnified 1,000 times, is used in testing the flatness of the field of a microscope. Diatoms are found in fresh and salt water.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

Wax Casts Are Help to

Cops in Shooting Cases

Milwaukee.—Milwaukee's police department has adopted a new method in criminal investigation whereby a person who has fired a gun can be detected by chemical analysis of a wax cast of their hands.

The idea was adopted following a visit made to the city by Teodoro Gonzales, assistant director of the bureau of criminal investigation, Mexico City.

The basis of the test is that the discharge of a shell leaves microscopic particles of powder on the skin of the hands. Melted paraffin is poured over the hand of the suspected person, removed when hard and subjected to chemical analysis. If the hand on which the mold is taken has fired a gun, traces of the nitrate base of powder will show up in the analysis.

Police Chief Jacob G. Laubenheller became interested and conducted a number of tests. Four officers were sent to the police target practice room, with instructions that one of them was to fire his gun. In each case the identity of the officer that fired the gun was established after casts taken of their hands had been analyzed.

The method is expected to prove particularly valuable in cases of questionable suicides.

CLAIMS METEOR IS WORLD'S LARGEST

Heavenly Visitor Tore Hole Mile Wide in Arizona.

Tucson, Ariz.—A huge fireball which hurtled through space at a speed of unknown thousands of miles an hour centuries ago to unearth near Winslow, Ariz., the largest crater of its kind in the world is believed to have been located, it was announced here by Robert E. Hinesman, research investigator for the Arizona bureau of mines at the University of Arizona.

In a report filed with Dr. G. M. Butler, bureau director, Hinesman said that two shafts which had been sunk into the vast basin of earth had struck fragments of a meteor which were so dense that further digging was impossible. He declared that this "seems to prove that the main body of the meteor is not far below."

After more than a quarter of a century of scientific controversy, in which many noted scholars figured, this is the first time that definite proof has been found that a meteor caused the great abyss which stretched almost a mile in diameter from rim to rim and sinks to a depth of 600 feet. Besides the meteor hypothesis, savants had held that the yawning pit might have been caused by a steam explosion or a volcanic eruption.

"A geographical survey, using modern instruments, was made some time ago," Hinesman said. This located a highly magnetic and conductive mass at a depth of approximately 700 feet below the crater floor.

"Since then, a drilling program has been carried on. One hole has hit meteoric fragments at 414 feet and continued in them until at a depth of 675 feet the material became so concentrated as to prevent further drilling. Another hole encountered fragments at 500 feet and continued to 630 feet."

This is the second largest meteor ball to have been found in the United States. Twelve years ago, scientists uncovered a mass of meteoric iron near Odessa, Texas.

The Winslow crater is the most extensive yet discovered on the globe, being rivaled only by one at Webar, Arabia, and Tanguska, Siberia.

Razorback Hogs Ate Aerial Bombers' Targets

Hamilton Field, Calif.—The boys of the Ninety-third Observation Air corps certainly were mystified recently. They set their targets in position, climbed into their ships and soared overhead. When they were ready to unload their bombs—the targets were gone. They repeated this procedure twice, then investigated. Fourteen razorback hogs with a taste for paste were eating the targets.

Early Fad for Antiques

In the first centuries before and after the Christian era a craze for antiques filled the royal court of China, and immediately, according to history, there was an active manufacture of forgeries.

Girl Scout News

The outstanding day for the Boy Scouts all over the world coincided with the one day dear to the Girl Scouts of Mentone. Saturday was the 24 Anniversary of the Boy Scouts and the Court of Awards for us girls.

We were immensely pleased to find so many people interested in our services that they came to see us. The Mentone Boy Scouts after hearing the presidents address at noon and celebrating their birthday attended the Court of Awards in a body with their leader Maurice Greulach. Also the Akron Girl Scouts honored us with their presence.

The meeting was open with the presentation of "The Girl Scouts Hope Chest," a pagent dealing with the spiritual qualities a Scout should have. Then the Scouts filed in and taking their seats listened to a "Welcome" given by Rosalind Mentzer. She expressed her appreciation to all the people who had helped the Girl Scouts in the passing of the badges and also the troop committee which has stood back of us so faithfully all through the year. She also extended birthday greetings to the Boy Scouts. Maurice Greulach, leader of the Boy Scouts, responded. The troop committee then took their places and we formed a horseshoe around them. Miss Foxford, director of the Fort Wayne Girl Scouts, gave a short talk about what we had accomplished to become second class Scouts and the responsibilities which went along with our Tender-foot-days and what we had accomplished. Then Miss Foxford and Miss Mentzer presented our badges. Those receiving second class badges were: Jean Burns, Lova Bush, Alice Ellsworth, Betty Ellsworth, Willodean Janke, Charlene Latham, Marcella Leininger, Betty Lyon, Margaret Mentzer, Mary Mollenhour, Mary Ellen Myers, Louise Faulus, Lena Rush, Mary Rush, Ruth Rush, Evelyn Smith, Elaine Sullivan, Pauline Swick and Frances Tucker.

After returning to our seats the troop committee presented our Proficiency badges. They were: Housekeepers—Betty Lyon, Marcella Leininger. Cook—Pauline Swick, Jean Burns and Marcella Leininger. First Aid—Margaret Mentzer, Marcella Leininger and Pauline Swick. Child Nurse—Marcella Leininger, Margaret Mentzer, Jean Burns and Pauline Swick. Health Winner—Pauline Swick. Hostess—Margaret Mentzer. Needlewoman—Mary Rush, Lena Rush, Ruth Rush and Pauline Swick. Pioneer—Margaret Mentzer. Observer—Pauline Swick. Artist—Lova Bush. Musician—Jean Burns. Bird Finder—Jean Burns. Homemaker—Jean Burns. Scholarship—Jean Burns, Lova Bush, Marcella Leininger, Betty Lyon, Margaret Mentzer, Mary Ellen Myers, Lena Rush, Mary Rush, Ruth Rush, Evelyn Smith, Pauline Swick and Frances Tucker. Gold Stars for Perfect Attendance for one year were awarded Pauline Swick, Mary Rush, Evelyn Smith and Jean Burns. Silver Stars for attending all but one meeting were awarded to Charlene Latham, Lena Rush and Ruth Rush.

The meeting closed with the girls forming a good night circle.

Thursday evening at Scout meeting we practised measuring distances. Do you know how far it is from the top of your fingers to the end of your nose? How far it is from your thumb to the end of your index finger? Well, those are the things we are learning now. We also were taught a new fold dance.

Aristocratic Principles

It is said of revolutions such as the great French revolution which closed the Eighteenth century, that it was rather a violent and mechanical inversion of aristocratic principles than a new interpretation of life. Starting from large generalities, such as "the rights of man," "liberty, equality and fraternity," rather than from the facts of humanity as observed with an open mind, if all men were not equal, then the taller ones must be shortened accordingly, and the guillotine was a practical syllogism.

The Word "Mitigate"

This verb has been in literary usage for three centuries. It is defined, "To have weight or influence, as in determining a question." In that sense, the first literary use, noted so far, was found in the History of Episcopie, written by Peter Heylyn in 1642, in the sentence, "The discourse of Clemens . . . doth millitate as well against the one, as against the other." The older sense in which it was limited from its derivation, "to take part in warfare," was used 17 years earlier. —Literary Digest.

Houses of Gold

In recent years improved methods of gold mining have made it possible to extract the metal from ore which formerly was considered too poor to be profitable. Guanajuato, a Mexican town, was built with earth taken from the workings during an early gold rush. Years later a man was demolishing one of the houses and realized that the walls contained gold in sufficient quantities to be extracted with profit. The news spread, and before long every house in the town had been knocked down by eager owners for sale to a prospective company.

The Art of Canning

Canning is supposed to have originated with Appert, a Paris chef, about 1783. His method was to place sealed bottles containing the food in a water bath and bring the water to the boiling point. Present-day methods, though more scientific, vary but little from the original. Knowledge of canning was brought to America about 1818 but it did not become an industry until 1860. —Pathfinder Magazine.

Animals as Court Witnesses

Animals were used as court witnesses in Sardinia up to a few years ago. When a solitary householder killed an alleged burglar, he was brought to trial and made to swear that the homicide was justifiable before one of his dogs, cats or birds that witnessed it. If the animal did not manifest some contradictory sign, the prisoner was set free.
