SPEAKS TO MARSHALL COUNTY MEDICS

Dr. Dan Urschel gave a talk at the regular meeting of the Marshall County Medical Society in Plymouth on Wednesday, discussing Cardiac Surgery. Improvement in medical diagnosis and surgical technique has been so rapid in the past 2 years that many cases which were previously considered unsafe for operation can now be safely corrected. In his talk, Dr. Urschel discussed each of the heart abnormalities which could be corrected by such procedures, and also described briefly the diagnostic procedures necessary for evaluation of these situations.

MENTONE LOSES IN TOURNEY FINALS

After an impressive win over Akron in the four-way tourney Friday night the Mentone Bulldogs were unable to outmaneuver the boys from Silver Lake in the final game Saturday night. The local boys had their opponents worried all the way, but their basket shooting was far from usual and they ended up four points behind, 44-48. It seems that Silver Lake has a habit of this as they gave us a similar setback at the tourney last spring.

The loss of this game ended a 11-game winning streak for the Mentone team. They are now determined to continue their winnings, and we believe they will be able to do it.

Sickness and injuries seem to be threatening the locals, but all are expected to be back in shape for the sectional next month. Larry McKinley is now on the sidelines with a fractured bone in his ankle.

DO YOU RECOGNIZE THIS SET OF FARM BUILDINGS?

WHOSE FARM IS THIS?

Can you identify the farm pictured above? This is another of the farm pictures to be printed in the Co-Op. News, and as no one knows whose farm it is, can you help identify it? There's no prize to the first to tell us whose farm it is, but it is interesting to know who will be first in reporting the information to this newspaper.

Call, phone or write us if you believe you know the farm.

WE MUST HAVE TRICKED ALL OF US LAST WEEK

The Zekan-Robbins aerial photographer rather fooled us all last week. To date we have had no replies from our readers and we still do not know whose farm was pictured in our Dec. 30 issue. Do you know?

We want each of the farms identified and we want the owner to call at our office and receive his free 5x7 mounted picture.

Soldier Recognizes Farm Printed In Our Nov. 18 Issue.

A letter dated Dec. 25th and received by the Co-Op. News this week identified the farm printed November 18th correctly. It was the Lee Thompson farm.

The soldier, Pfc. Harry D. Shriver is evidently in service out of the U. S. as his address is through the Postmaster at San Francisco.

We welcome these letters from the boys and girls serving in the armed forces, and it is encouraging to us to know that the Co-Op. News does get to them regardless of what part of the world they are serving in the protection of the freedom of the peoples of the world.

EDITORIAL

Your editor appreciated the many favorable comments received on the basketball article printed last week. Without exception, all were in accord with the views expressed. We did, however, hear "second-hand" reports that the article was responsible for the boys losing Saturday night. If that fact be true, then our boys have something more to learn before being overcomers.

Before commenting further, may we digress for a moment to determine the reason for the basketball program and what we gain from it.

Our first thought, perhaps, is that it provides physical exercise to develop our boys from a physical standpoint. This is all well and good, but basketball is just another way of preparing our students—players and fans alike—how to give and take and learn to be able to fight the battles of life when they become active citizens in the community life of the nation. They learn that they cannot always be on top and on the winning side, that the best preparation for all problems oftentimes is inadequate and a new approach must be used else we'll fail. Team work, unselfishness, honesty and clean living are paramount for one to succeed in every walk of life. We need the friendship and help that comes from friends that believe in us. In losing games, we must learn to control our thoughts and emotions else we'll find the poison of bitterness forcing us into hibernation from society's favors and benefits. And there are many other lifetime values to be gained from sports such as basketball. If we gain these and lose every game we will have succeeded; if we win every game and learn nothing then we will have failed miserably.

Every participant in any school sport must live the balance of his life amid the impressions he has fostered while engaged in such sports.

We're for the Mentone team, and will continue to be for them even if they should continue to lose games. Your editor sincerely hopes that our boys will be able to attain every benefit or position for which they are capable.

The championship game Saturday night proved to be exactly what was feared up and down our Main street that morning—a group of fast-moving Silver Lake boys ready to put everything they had into defeating at least once, the county's leading team. And they did.

Mentone has one of the best all-around team of potential basket shots to be found, and they have relied upon this ability to overpower opponents regardless of how often these opponents scored. But Saturday night their shooting accuracy was off yet they continued to shoot the submarginal shots while the opponents stole the ball and scored on conservative playing. We did what they hoped we'd do, and we never attempted to beat them at their own game. Time and again our boys would try a "border" shot when we didn't have a man near the basket to retrieve a miss—and many times the one that shot would fail to go in after the rebound.

Our team can win the county and the sectional titles, but they cannot expect to do it without practicing all the means applicable in basketball.

COUNTY TOURNEY NEXT WEEK

The county basketball tournament opens at Warsaw next Thursday evening at six o'clock when Claypool and North Webster play. Elna Green and Silver Lake play at 7:30 and at 9:00 Mentone tangles with Pierceton.

BOOKS OF 1953 YOU WILL

NOT WANT TO MISS

James Ramsey Ullman, author of 'The White Tower,' has written a new type of novel in his new book, 'The Sands of Karakorum.' It is a story of mood and emotion, tension, mounting terror and deep imaginative power.

The popular author of 'Nearby,' Elizabeth Yates, has written a new novel, 'Hue and Cry,' and Dryant Mayrant also has a new novel, 'The Red Doe.'

Frank Yearby's new historical novel 'The Devils Daughter' pictures the turbulent years of the French revolution, while Samuel Shellbarger pictures luxurious Venice of 1757 where lords and ladies played at life and love in an endless round of pleasure, Paris on the eve of the Revolution and America when Wolfe's armies were wrestling Quebec from the French, in his popular, 'Lord Vanity.'

Paul Wellman, author of 'The Iron Mistress,' has written a new historical romance of sixth century Constantinople and of Theodora who rose from child clown in the Hippodrome to triumph as the pitiless and magnificent Empress of the Roman world. He pictures one of the most colorful eras in all history in his 'The Female.'

Nevil Shute has written another story of Australia, 'In the Wet.' It is the story of a man and girl who in time of crisis put country first and love second in order to build a sound and enduring life together.

Jalna fans will enjoy the new book in that series, 'The Whiteoak Brothers'

There are many good non-fiction books among those purchased recently. 'Persian Adventure,' by Ann Sinclair Mehdiva, is the true story of a newspaper woman from Wichita, Kansas, who married a Persian, a member of the Iranian mission to the U. N., and went with her husband to a country torn by violent politics, to become a part of a feudal house-hold filled with unused Western gadgets and innumerable Mohammedan relatives with completely Oriental ideas about the proper conduct of women.

'The Horn and the Hunter,' by Robert Ruark, is the story of an African safari.

'Journey by Junk,' by Willard Price is a true account of the findings of the author, a former resident of Japan. Having heard MacArthur's boast of a 'spiritual revolution' in Japan, he went back to Japan to check up on the actual situation. He brings back striking stories of the reaction to MacArthur's Occupation.

For the young people, we have several new career stories. 'Doctor Ellen,' by Adele DeLeeuw, is the story of a young woman's training for a medical career. Martha Kiser's 'Gay Melody' is the story of a young lady of seventeen who longed to teach school at a time when it was considered not quite respectable for a woman to be a teacher. Other career stories are 'Clay Fingers,' by Adele DeLeeuw; 'Abbie Higgins, Young Group Work Executive'; and 'Student Dancer,' by Regina Woody.

'Bring on the Band,' by Lloyd and Juanita Jones will interest all band fans. It is the story of high school life and romance, especially in the band.

All of these books and many other new titles are in your library.

CAUSES HAIR BALLS

Insufficient roughage in a young calf's diet can indirectly cause hair and fiber balls. Calves will eat straw and shavings used as bedding, or lick hair. Then this indigestible material mats into balls in their stomachs, ex-plains Capper's Farmer.

FAITH

...backed by dollars

When you see telephone lines going up, you see proof your telephone company believes in the future of your community.

Your company backs that faith by investing millions of dollars to improve your service. Many of your neighbors share its faith, too. Some show it by investing their savings; others by investing their careers; some by doing both.

It's faith... and partnership like this... that keeps America great.

HEALTHFUL MEALS?

Are you sure your family gets enough milk, fruits and fresh vegetables in the daily diet to protect their health? These foods are the best insurance known for good health.

Past studies reveal that calcium and vitamins A and C found in milk, fresh fruits. But there's no reason why they can't be provided, and economically, says Miss Lois Oberhelman, extension home nutritionist at Purdue University. The family cow and the home garden insures their abundance.

Farm families who do not have a cow can supplement the fluid milk they buy with dried milk. It contains all the proteins and minerals of fresh, whole milk. The only difference — the water has been removed from the dried form. One cup of dried milk powder when added to one quart of water will make a quart of skim milk at half the cost of fluid milk.

Foods high in vitamin A are those of natural yellow, green and red color such as carrots, tomatoes, green leafy vegetables, yellow corn, peaches, apricots, liver, egg yolk and dairy products.

Citrus fruits such as oranges, lemons, grapefruit and tangerines, canned, frozen or fresh; tomatoes, fresh or canned; and fresh raw vegetables and potatoes, cooked in the peelings, are high in vitamin C. Unfortunately, vitamin C is easily destroyed by improper handling and cooking.

Care must be taken to cook all vegetables in a small amount of boiling water until tender. Then serve immediately. Foods allowed to stand after they have been cooked lose their vitamin C quickly, specially if held in a warm room.

SKIN TROUBLE IN PIGS

A new skin disease, parakeratosis, makes a pig's skin rougher than dishpan hands. Minnesota workers found it in dry-lot porkers, 8 to 16 weeks old, reports Capper's Farmer. Their hard, horny skin became normal when they were turned out on pasture.

SOVIET GRAPE SPRAY

KILLS VINTNERS' CROP

No matter what vintners do in communist-run Hungary, they seem to get in trouble, says the Crusade for Freedom, sponsor of Radio Free Europe and the National Committee for a Free Europe.

A recent blast directed at wine-growers by Esti Budapest, a top Hungarian Red daily, accuses them of continuing to use the names of members of the Hungarian nobility and of Catholic bishops — "the most violent enemies of the people" — on their bottles. Ideologically correct names, such as those of "heroes of labor," "shock-workers" and other O.K.'d by the Red regime, should be substituted, the paper says.

Yet, even when the wine-growers are ideologically "correct," they get themselves in trouble, the Crusade reports. Ordered to use a new Soviet spray on their vines, the Hungarian vintners soon discovered that the sprayed grapes shriveled and died.

The Red regime investigated, looking for "sabotage," but soon called off its sleuths when it discovered that Soviet scientists, not "Western agents," were at fault.

Instead of containing the usual copper sulphate, the Soviet spray contained iron sulphate, the effect of which was deadly.

SELF-CLOSING DOORS

Self-closing doors in the dairy barn speed milking chores for some dairymen, states Capper's Farmer. A Nebraska farmer designed two of his sliding doors to operate on overhead tracks, with a weight, rope and pulleys for closing each door automatically. One of the doors has an inclined track and will close of its own weight.

COMMEMORATING FIFTEEN YEARS IN BUSINESS HERE

The Mentone Locker Plant is this week announcing that they have been in business in Mentone for 15 years. When the Earl Shinnis opened the locker plant at Mentone, the industry was very new. They were the first to open a locker plant in this county, and theirs was the first to be opened in any town other than a county seat. When they began there were only 14 other locker plants in operation in the state.

COPLEN SERVING AS MENTONE NIGHT MARSHAL

Eli Julian, night marshal at Mentone the past several years, suffered a diabetic stroke at his home last Thursday morning and is now confined to the Woodlawn hospital at Rochester. He suffered a similar attack several years ago but he isn't responding to treatment as rapidly as before.

The Mentone town board has appointed Myron (Tubby) Coplen night marshal, at least until Mr. Julian is able to return to work.

At the reorganization meeting held on Monday night, Harold (Macy) Nelson was named chairman of the board of trustees for 1954.

Mrs. Rhoda Jones called on Mr. and Mrs. Miner Mollenhour Friday.

DALE KELLEY HONORED IN CEREMONIES SATURDAY

Dale Kelley, teacher in the Mentone schools, was honored Saturday evening at the new Mentone gym when he was presented with a lifetime pass to all the Mentone high school basketball games. Dale Wallace, Jr., representing the alumni association, presented him with a travel kit. Mary VanDeWater, president of the student council, gave Mr. Kelley the basketball pass that was specially printed by the Country Print Shop.

The athletic boys promised Mr. Kelley the net from one of the baskets if they won the game over Sidney, so by virtue of the 43 to 51 win a group of the players picked him up and held him while he cut the net from the basket.

Mr. Kelley started his teaching career in 1911, took two years out for military service in World War I, and came to Mentone in 1931. He served as principal for 19 years. He now sponsors the eighth grade, teaches mathematics, physics and Latin, supervises the audio-visual instruction and handles the public address system at the school. He is always to be found at the Mentone games serving at the official bench.

Moles push up large mounds of dirt in the winter-time, disfiguring lawns. Not much can be done to kill them when they are in the deep runways. But in early spring, advises Purdue University entomologists, remove the mounds, level the old runways, and set traps in new surface runs.

First Semester Ends

The first semester closed with the examinations on Wednesday. Periods were lengthened on Wednesday to provide more time. The report cards will be distributed next Thursday evening. Several class changes have been made for the second semester. All English classes in high school will study literature; the seniors will study Bible. Instead of government, the senior class will study sociology which includes a consideration of such problems as crime, poverty, drunkenness, divorce, and other social ills. The sophomores will start the study of various occupations instead of health. This class also includes training in character traits, social skills, and information about college education. The business arithmetic class will turn to a study of business law. Several more classes will meet in the rooms in the new addition beginning on Thursday.

Mentone Defeats Sidney

On Saturday evening a large crowd turned out to see the Bulldogs play the Sidney Wildcats on even terms for three quarters and then defeat them 51-43. The second team also won by a safe margin. Mary Van de Water presented a gift certificate from the student body. The school ten-awarded Mr. Kelley a lifetime pass to all home basketball games. After winning the first team game, the boys lifted Mr. Kelley up to cut down the nets. It is estimated that there were about 1,150 people present for the occasion. The school band played at the half and sixteen young twirlers performed.

The freshmen played Chester Township School of North-Manchester. The final score was 38 to 20 in favor of Mentone.

17 YEARS OF SOCIAL SECURITY

At the end of 1953 — the 17th year of Federal social security — old-age and survivors insurance payments of about $181,000 in monthly benefits were going to 5,072 persons in Elkhart, Kosciusko and LaGrange Counties, according to Gerald O. Kelter, manager of the Elkhart social security office.

For the entire nation, including Alaska, Hawaii, Puerto Rico, and the Virgin Islands, estimates show an increase of approximately one million beneficiaries with the year ending December 31. The 5-millionth person was awarded payments just over a year ago, early in December 1952.

In September of 1950 the Congress enacted an amendment to the law which greatly expanded the scope of the program. At that time only three million people were getting benefits. The number has just about doubled in the last 3-year period, he pointed out, having reached 5,970,000 by year's end, according to preliminary estimates made in December.

Since the program was originally designed to give a measure of protection to the nation's aged people, Kelter says it is significant to note that about 40% of all aged persons who are without income from employment or self-employment are now getting old-age and survivors payments. The number of such beneficiaries nationwide shows an increase of almost 600,000 since the close of 1952.

DO YOU RECOGNIZE THIS SET OF FARM BUILDINGS?

WHOSE FARM IS THIS?

Can you identify the farm pictured above? This is another of the farm pictures to be printed in the Co-Op. News, and as no one knows whose farm it is, can you help identify it? There's no prize to the first to tell us whose farm it is, but it is interesting to know who will be first in reporting the information to this newspaper.

Call, phone or write us if you believe you know the farm.

We hit the jack pot last week when we printed the farm picture. We had more calls than for any previous picture. Perhaps the fact that Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hammer purchased the farm 38 years ago had something to do with it.

The Hammer farm is located about six and one-half miles northeast of Mentone and it is now being farmed by a son, Zanna, who was born there. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hammer moved to Atwood five years ago and he is now handling insurance. Zanna and wife have four children, Mary, Kip, Pam and Terry and they have about four to five thousand laying hens and raise about 160 hogs a year in addition to some other farming. Charles, Jr. and Zanna had been renting the farm together, but this partnership was dissolved the first of the year. Charles Jr. and his wife are now farming the original Hammer farm of 80 acres. This farm has been in the Hammer family for about 100 years.

Other children of the senior Mr.

Hammer and wife are Gloria Miller of Mentone and Betty Goshert of Burket.

Those who called to identify the farm were: Everett Long, Leroy Cox, Arlo Priesner, Frank Meredith, Jean Marshall, Mrs. Charles Feldman, Ann Creighton, Phyllis Boyer, Mrs. Isabella Lantz, Lester Blackburn, Turner Boggs, Mrs. Bert Holloway, Orven Helghway, Mrs. Carl Mahoney, Mrs. Marion Guy, Marilyn Sullivan, Joyce Eiler and Roy Koser.

We're still wondering whose farm was pictured in our Dec. 30th issue.

STATE TROOPERS WERE BUSY DURING 1953

Last year's crack-down on moving traffic violators is being continued this year by State Police troopers, Superintendent Frank A. Jessup announced today.

Violators will be arrested without exception, he asserted. No written warning tickets will be issued when moving infractions are observed.

Mr. Jessup reported that in 1953: 1. Speeding truck and bus arrests increased 130 per cent.

2. Total moving violation arrests were up 58 per cent.

Troopers handed tickets to 3,804 drivers who failed to observe the state speed limits governing trucks and buses. In 1952, total arrests of speeding trucks and buses reached 1,650.

Moving violation arrests totaled 49,087 last year, as compared with 30,974 the preceding year.

He explained that moving violations by motor vehicles include exceeding speed limits, disregarding stop signs, improper passing, driving on the wrong side of the road, following too closely, improper turns and failure to signal.

State troopers, he reported, countered the increased number of vehicles and heavier highway travel by stepping up traffic patrols. They patrolled 15,660,801 miles in 1953, an increase of more than 1,250,000 miles over the 14,402,042 patrol miles during 1952.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Nelson Stevie and Sandra were Sunday evening callers at the home of Mrs. Nelson's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Moore of Rochester.

GILBERT HILL ATENDS HONEGGER TRAINING SCHOOL

Gilbert Hill returned Friday from Fairbury, Illinois, where he attended a four-day farm service school sponsored by Honeggers and Co., Inc., feed manufacturers and operators of the nation's largest U. S. Certified hatchery. Mr. Hill is farm service representative for Bryan Poultry Farm, distributor of Honegger products in this area.

The training course, Hill reported, was attended by twenty-one students who put in four days of studying, listening to lectures and demonstrations on livestock and poultry nutrition, feeding plans, disease diagnosis and control, along with instruction on modern feed store management.

Much time was spent on the Honegger 400-Acre Practical Test Farm at Forrest, Ill., where the firm's "Egg Factory" plan is well illustrated in a new employee owned project with 3,600 layers housed in a new-type self-ventilating poultry house 326 feet long. Ten thousand other hens are housed throughout the farm, along with thousands of broilers and turkeys used in experiments each year. A highly interesting feature of the company farm, Mr. Hill said, was the "Pig Poppery," one of the first and largest pig hatcheries in the midwest. Here, sows and litters are provided with the benefits of ultra-modern housing which saves pigs and labor. The hundreds of baby pigs raised in the operation are fed a highly-fortified pelleted feed with sugar-coating which induces them to eat the very first week of their lives.

The Honegger company, according to Mr. Hill, has also developed a completely new type of dairy feeding program, using a supplement that promotes bacterial digestion of ruminated roughages. This new program enables milk producers to increase the feeding of cheap roughages and cut down on the amount of more expensive grains normally fed to cows.

As Honeggers representative for this area, Mr. Hill will spend much of his time helping Kosciusko, Marshall and Fulton County farmers with their problems and advising them on new and better feeding methods.

TAKE NO CHANCES WITH SILENT KILLER

Carbon monoxide can become a deadly hitch-hiker when driving in a closed car, warns Chas. M. Hayes, Chicago Motor Club president.

The gas gives no warning; it cannot be detected by the senses. It is doubly dangerous because of the small amount necessary to produce fatal results. Only a hatful of CO (carbon monoxide) in a closed sedan can kill an occupant in 30 minutes.

So potent is carbon monoxide, the Motor Club executive points out, that one part in 700 parts of air can be fatal, while only one part in 1700 parts of air can cause nausea. Many motorists have experienced headaches in heavy traffic due to CO—the engine and heater fans take in exhaust fumes from the vehicle ahead.

"Most drivers think of carbon monoxide dangers only in terms of closed garages or parked vehicles when the motor is idling," Hayes states. "But safety experts also blame carbon monoxide for many collisions with stationary objects. Most of these crashes with obstacles off the pavement surface have no other explanation."

"The most impressive warning concerning carbon monoxide comes from physicians. They point out that a person is overcome so rapidly and without realizing the danger, that there frequently is not enough time to get to fresh air."

The only one hundred per cent effective remedy is prevention: don't run the motor in an enclosure; don't park with the motor idling for long periods; check the exhaust system carefully for defects; keep at least one window slightly open when driving.

YOU MUST HAVE SAFE DRINKING WATER

America's homemakers have been asked to make plans to meet this problem: "What to do if an enemy attack or natural disaster cut off the water supply to your house?" 1954 might be the year when we in the midwest will be subjected to some such disaster.

Answers to the question by the Federal Civil Defense Administration are in a new official booklet, "What To Do Now About Emergency Sanitation at Home."

You and your family could get along for quite a while with very little food if necessary, but you must have safe water to drink.

Interruption of this vital service, as a result of enemy attack, is not the only thing that could happen to your home water supply. Leaking sewage, poisonous chemicals, radioactive materials or disease-carrying organisms from biological warfare attacks might get into the pipes and make your drinking water unsafe.

You might be told by your local warden to turn off the water service valve to prevent such contamination from entering your home. If household pipes were broken you would want to shut off the water yourself, to avoid flooding your shelter. Or, civil defense authorities might ask you to shut off the water supply to your home to maintain fire-fighting pressures in some other part of the city.

To insure a safe supply for emergency use, store enough drinking water for family right now. You should have available at least one gallon of water or other fluids for drinking for each member of your family. If you have children under 3 years of age, provide an extra gallon for each child to be sure of a three-day supply.

This may sound like a lot of fluid to store, but the chances are that you usually have on hand several quarts of various liquids that can be used for drinking purposes. Milk serves as a substitute for water when your family is thirsty. So do all other bottled beverages such as soft drinks, fruit drinks and liquids from water-packed fruits and vegetables. There are many emergency sources of drinking water in your home that you can use if you must, as you will read later. To be on the safe side, however, you should store some water for drinking purposes only.

Glass jugs with tight-fitting covers or stoppers make good storage containers, provided they have been washed clean with soap and water and rinsed thoroughly. Fruit jars, quart bottles, or other types of glass containers will do just as well. Metal containers are all right but some tend to give water an unpleasant taste. It is not necessary to boil drinking water before sealing it for storage. Water fresh from the tap is safe provided the containers are clean.

It is a good idea to pack your containers tightly against damage from blast or shock, especially if you are using glass bottles, jugs or jars. You can do this by wadding newspapers, excelsior, or other packing material between the jars to keep them from coming in contact with one another. Pack them as though for a long move. Then your containers will be less likely to break if there is an explosion near your home.

Water may not keep fresh over a long period of time, due to the growth of algae. Store drinking water in a dark place to help slow down the growth of these little plants. Empty the containers, rinse them and refill them with fresh water at least every 3 months, preferably oftener. This will keep your storage supply fresh and ready for use.

Water-packed fruit and vegetables are a good source of liquids for drinking purposes in an emergency, provided the containers are undamaged. Fresh fruits that have been under cover, especially citrus fruits, are also good sources of liquids. If they have been exposed to radioactive dust or mist, however, oranges should be wiped clean before being squeezed. Other fruits such as apples or peaches should be washed and peeled before being eaten.

Another source of good drinking water would be your refrigerator. Unless the refrigerator itself were damaged by blast, it would protect the contents against radioactive dust or mist. Even if the electricity or gas by which it operates were shut off, you could drink the water from the melted ice cubes in the trays.

The booklet, FCDA Publication H-11-1, "What To Do Now About Emergency Sanitation at Home," is for sale by the Superintendent of Documents, U. S. Government Printing Office, Washington 25, D. C., for 15 cents.

Mentone Wins County Basketball Championship

The above photo shows the Mentone Bulldogs in their dressing room soon after their championship victory Saturday night. Coach Abe Hoogenboom has the horseshoe tied onto his necktie, players Bob Boggs and Jerry Tinkey have the nets over their heads while Clarence Dickey holds the championship trophy. Standing, from left to right, are: Robert Boggs, Robert Holloway, Burdell Blackburn, Coach Hoogenboom, Francis Rickel, Jon Cullum, Clarence Dickey, Jerry Tinkey, Larry Boggs, Larry Linn and Charles Ross. Larry McKinley, a member of the squad who was out of the lineup because of a recent fracture in his ankle, is shown kneeling before his teammates.

The Mentone basketball team fought desperately through four basketball games at Warsaw last Thursday, Friday and Saturday to win the county basketball championship. This was the second such honor to be won by Mentone. They won a previous championship in 1935.

Pierceton, Silver Lake, Beaver Dam and Milford were the victims of the determined bunch of boys from Mentone.

The players and fans alike—after the final gun sounded—let loose of all their pent up emotions and did about everything imaginable to express themselves. The players soon found themselves lost in a mass of squirming humanity and it was several minutes before order could be restored sufficiently for the county superintendent to present the trophy and the boys could get around to the privilege of cutting down the nets.

The final game was a nerve-wracking affair for the Mentone fans as the Milford boys took an early lead and held it throughout three quarters of play. Mentone would no sooner make a basket to tie the score than Milford would come back with another and forge ahead again. Mentone, in the final quarter, finally took a 40 to 38 lead and the smell of victory drifted into the players' nostrils. After a brief time out they went on to hold a narrow lead, and played a stalling game that held. A field goal and two foul shots by Boggs and two foul shots by Cullum literally clinched the game. Milford scored just seconds before the final gun sounded, with a final score of 49 to 45.

Mentone's victory was all the more impressive because they were in the tougher lower bracket and had to play four games while Milford drew a bye in the five-team upper bracket and were also privileged to play the first afternoon game Saturday, giving them more time to recuperate for the evening battle.

Accurate shooting at the foul line gave Mentone the advantage in two of the tourney games. Clean playing, too, made the victory more remarkable. In one game they committed only eight personal fouls. Our boys averaged over 67 per cent in their foul shooting, far

OUR SPECIAL ISSUE

Production time on this special basketball issue was so short that we were unable to do as we would have liked. The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. Delford Nelson. The pledge of allegiance to the flag was given by the group.

Devotions were given by Leslie Grant, pastor of the Church of Christ.

Two vocal solos were sung by students, accompanied at the piano by Jalayne Smythe. Lavonne Montel sang "With A Song In My Heart," and Bonnie Grubbs sang, "With These Hands."

Following the business session Zanna Hammer, program chairman, introduced a panel of 5 parents and Mr. Ralph Hoffman, who served as moderator. Those on the panel were Mrs. Hap Utter, Mrs. Delford Nelson, Mrs. Miles Manwaring, Carroll Eller, and Artley Cullum.

The following questions were discussed by the panel: 1. "What are the best methods of explaining to the community what the school is trying to do?" 2. "What in our local community might be done by the school to keep or motivate the underprivileged child?" 3. "Is there a growing need to stress the responsibilities and duties as well as the rights of the child? If so, how can it better be done?" 4. "Are there any new courses that should be introduced that would better fit the young people for adult society?" The audience was asked to add their comments, and opinions, also. Many have stated that they felt that the program was very stimulating and hoped for another such type of program soon.

At the social hour following the following were on the hostess committee: Mrs. James Holloway, Mrs. Ralph Warren, Mrs. Delbert Drudge, Mrs. Albert Tucker, Mrs. Roy Cox, Mrs. Eldon Horn, and Mrs. Iris Fitzgerald.

FRACTURES LEG IN FALL ON THE ICE

Don Ernsberger suffered a femur fracture in his right leg below the hip when he fell on the icy sidewalk at the drug store corner Monday night. He was taken to the McDonald hospital Tuesday for X-ray examination when the fracture was discovered. Don was walking home and the drug store awning had the sidewalk protected from the freezing rain. As he stepped onto the unprotected walk the icy condition caught him unprepared.

Mrs. Ernsberger only recently returned home from the Woodlawn hospital after an attack of pneumonia. Mrs. Dow Walker, Don's sister, is staying with Mrs. Ernsberger.

SUFFER MINOR INJURIES

Mrs. Leslie Grant and small daughter, of Mentone, were injured slightly last Thursday morning when an auto in which they were riding collided with a truck on an icy street in Rochester. The car was driven by Mrs. Grant's husband, who escaped injury.

Mrs. Grant and her daughter were taken to the Woodlawn hospital in Rochester, where they were treated for facial cuts and bruises and later released.

The mishap occurred when a truck driven by Donald E. Hutchins, 29, of Rochester, hit a curb causing the rear of the truck to swing out into the street. Damage to the two vehicles was estimated at $1,100.

DO YOU RECOGNIZE THIS SET OF FARM BUILDINGS?

WHOSE FARM IS THIS?

Can you identify the farm pictured above? This is another of the farm pictures to be printed in the Co-Op. News, and as no one knows whose farm it is, can you help identify it? There's no prize to the first to tell us whose farm it is, but it is interesting to know who will be first in reporting the information to this newspaper.

Call, phone or write us if you believe you know the farm.

The farm pictured in our last issue is owned by Henry Hirsch of Logansport and William M. and Margaret Blackburn have been the tenants there the past eight years. The 320 acre farm was formerly owned by the Ora Tucker family and was purchased by Mr. Hirsch 12 years ago. It lies four miles south and one mile west of Mentone.

Mr. Blackburn has from a hundred to 125 acres of corn, 50 acres of oats and 50 of hay each year, with the balance in pasture. They raise from 200 to 400 hogs each year, have about 300 laying hens and milk from 20 to 25 cows.

The Blackburns have two children, Phillip 9, and Beverly Sue, aged seven, and they attend school at Beaver Dam.

Those who identified the farm as that tenanted by Mr. and Mrs. Blackburn were: Walter Quier, Lena Igo, Mars Tucker, Leroy Cox, Devon Marshall, C. O. Eiler, Mrs. Ora Tucker, Adam Bowen and Howard Kohr.

OLDER PEOPLE URGED

TO HAVE GOOD DIET

Poor food habits keep a good many older people from having better health and greater vitality. Frequently they develop a lowered resistance to flu, colds and other more serious troubles because of a poor selection of foods, says Miss Lois Oberhelman, Purdue University extension nutritionist.

For the sake of good health, she advises older persons to include the following in their daily diets:

One and one-half pints of milk, appreciable quantities of fruits and vegetables, easily digested meat, egg or fish, and moderate amounts of enriched cereals and breads. They should avoid rich desserts, gravies and starchy foods.

She stressed milk in the daily diet, for this may be the real reason behind a loss of pep and energy. Poor health in older years, she reminds people, may be the result of bad eating habits that were developed when they were younger.

If fertilizer needed for lawn and garden has not been purchased, do it now. Store fertilizer in a dry place, advise Purdue University extension horticulturists.

Animal By-Products; Their Use In Feeds

By Dr. O.H.M. Wilder
Biochemist

American Meat Institute Foundation
As long as the human population of this country likes meat on the table, as long as we have an animal agriculture and a consequent animal feed business, animal by-products will be available for use in feeds, and the animal population, as well as the human population, can have meat in its diet.

Meat by-product feeds, being of animal origin, contain many of the essential nutrients that must be supplied in every good feed. They contain essential amino acids to build up the protein component of the daily ration. They contain minerals and vitamins that helped balance animal and poultry diets long before we knew anything about the individual vitamins or the effect of common mineral elements that today are regarded as necessities.

Animal proteins, such as meat scrap and tankage, today are regarded as something more than just protein carriers; they are used successfully as sources of vitamin B12, minerals, unidentified vitamin-like factors, and fat.

In addition to these protein concentrates that are used to provide amino acids, vitamins, minerals, and fat, animal by-product is becoming widely used as a source of energy in the ration and also as a dresser to improve the appearance of a feed and to control dust. This product—tallow and animal grease—has so much to offer through improvement of feed utilization and improved physical characteristics of the feed that it now is used in many of the feeds that are destined for use by poultry, swine, dogs, cattle and sheep.

Meat scrap and tankage are giving good results in a variety of feeds. A recent report from the North Dakota Agricultural College (Journal of Animal Science 12, 623, 1953) indicates that the average daily gain of pigs was improved in every case where meat scrap was fed.

These workers used two types of basal rations to which meat scrap was added and, in addition, used five other treatments on each basal and each meat scrap ration. In every case, regardless of other treatment, a higher daily gain in weight was obtained on the pigs fed the meat scrap rations. Other treatments included vitamin and mineral supplementation, with the greatest increase in gains being noted in pigs which received a cobalt supplement in addition to the meat scrap.

This work at the North Dakota Agricultural College supports the view that a blend of ingredients does a better job than any one supplement alone. At the same time, when any ingredient is used, it must be included at a level sufficiently high to become effective. A vitamin B 12 supplement added at a low level in one of the treatments had no significant effect, although in other tests at other universities it has often stimulated growth. In this test, the vitamin B12 may not have been added at a high enough level, or the pigs may have received enough from other sources.

Similar results were obtained and reported this year at the University of Minnesota (31st Annual Swine Feeders Day, University of Minnesota, H 121), in an experiment in which dry-rendered tankage was fed. The dry-rendered tankage apparently contained enough vitamin B12 to satisfy the pigs' requirements, although previous experiments had indicated that additional vitamin B12 could be used to advantage.

The use of animal protein feeds is not limited to swine and poultry, but can be used to advantage in cattle feeding also, particularly when economic conditions are such that they are priced competitively on a protein basis.

Work done at the Ohio Agricultural Experiment Station over a period of years, and reported in their research Bulletin No. 732 (May, 1953), indicates that the relative cost per unit of protein supplied would be the major consideration in determining whether or not a cattle supplement would include some meat scrap.

Other, unpublished, reports from feeders who are using meat scrap in rations for fattening cattle indicate that they are obtaining excellent results in rapid, economical weight gains.

In cattle feeding, as with poultry or swine, the results obtained may be due to a number of different nutritive factors found in these animal proteins. In diets built primarily for growing and fattening, it is important to use ingredients that supply high levels of energy as well as the necessary protein, vitamins, and minerals. The fat in animal protein concentrates becomes an important item from this standpoint and, where even greater amounts of energy are required, additional animal fat may be used.

Animal fats protected with suitable antioxidants are being used by the feed industry in increasing quantities. These animal fats were first used as a source of energy, and served this purpose very well. Since a pound of fat contributes two and one-quarter times as much energy as a pound of carbohydrate or protein, animal fats can be used to build up the energy content without large changes in other components of the ration.

A short period of using animal fats in feeds has convinced many feed manufacturers that they offer many other advantages in addition to their energy contribution. They improve the physical characteristics of a feed by giving it a brighter color and by eliminating dust. Not only is the dust problem controlled, but added fat helps prevent sifting of the fines out of a burlap bag during handling.

Manufacturers further have discovered that the added fat acts as a lubricant and thus reduces power requirements of mixing and pelleting machinery and, lastly, because friction is reduced in mixing and pelleting equipment, there is less local heating and moisture content is more easily controlled.

Any one of these facts is enough to make the feed manufacturer pause to consider the use of fat in feeds and, when all factors are considered together, the advantages are so great that it is no wonder animal fats are finding their way into more and more feeds.

The problem of mixing animal fats into feeds is new to many feed manufacturers, since the fats are solid or semi-solid at ordinary temperatures. This problem is no greater than that of mixing other liquid or semi-solid ingredients into feeds, but some special equipment is necessary.

Such special equipment may be very simple or it may be elaborate, depending on the volume of feeds mixed and degree of automatic operation desired. The main consideration in mixing a liquid fat into feeds is to have the fat heated to a temperature sufficiently high that all feed particles are coated before the fat has cooled. A temperature of 120° F. to 160° F. depending upon the temperature of the feed itself, is enough to permit a good mixing job without formation of balls or lumps. The warm fat then is run into the feed at a point of greatest agitation in the mixer.

As little as one per cent animal fat will control dustiness in some feeds, and higher levels may be added if needed. A level of three to four percent added animal fat in rations for poultry often will result in an improved feed efficiency.

The solid, dry, free-flowing, beaded fats that are coming on the market will increase the energy content of the ration and offer advantages in mixing, but they may not control dust as do the liquid fats.

In any case, the fats used in feeds should be relatively stable to prevent development of oxidative rancidity, and this can be accomplished easily in liquid fats by the use of an antioxidant, such as BHA or some formulation containing BHA.

Animal fats protected by an antioxidant also are finding uses in other feedstuffs, as a dust control measure. Dehydrated alfalfa meal, for instance, is rendered practically dustless by the addition of a suitable level of animal fat.

Animal by-products have been used for many years in feeds and have supplied many of the nutrients that are essential in a ration. Meat and bone scrap, tankage, bone meal, and animal fats have characteristics that make them unique for feed use and they are admirably suited to many types of feeds.

What would you do if you had only one day to make your farm safer? That's what newsmen asked a group of young safety experts at the recent National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago. They were winners of awards presented by General Motors in the National 4-H Farm and Home Safety Program.

"I'd declare a 'safety day' and turn out the whole family to locate and mark all hazards on the farm," was the answer of Margie Sellers, 17, Whitesboro, Texas. Margie was one of eight national winners awarded $300 college scholarships by GM, which also presented expense-paid trips to the 4-H Congress to both national and state winners among the 425,000 4-H youths who took part in the safety program. All the youngsters agreed that although safety demands continuing, day-by-day attention, it might be good to set aside one day for eliminating hazards—and then go at the job as though there would be no more time for it.

"It would make you decide what safety improvements were most important, and then concentrate on them," said George N. Fleming, 18, Simms, Montana. "I would check the things that get most use, such as farm machinery and home appliances, and make sure that they were in safe operating condition."

Gayle Givens, 17, Frederick, Oklahoma, observed that a "safety day" would be a hard blow against one of safety's most dangerous enemies—procrastination. She and Erich Willen, 17, Westminster, Maryland, both national winners—said that if they had only one day for safety they would concentrate on the home.

"That's where most accidents happen," Erich explained. "I would check things like stairs, rugs, and medicines."

Hope E. Caswell, 17, Canton, New York, said she would concentrate on eliminating fire hazards.

"They are often the least obvious," she said. "And a bad fire is just about the most serious disaster that can hit a farm."

Other suggestions included proper storage of tools; building sturdy pens for livestock, and checking electrical equipment.

What would you do?

We join in your happiness

SCIENTISTS TOP 140 BUSHEL
CORN ON DEEP SAND

Even veteran corn growers, blessed by a year of good rainfall, do well to top 55 bushels of corn to the acre on the Plainfield sand of Northern Indiana. Average production on this deep sand runs closer to 35 bushels.

Lack of water is the big reason for such yields. Purdue University agronomists estimate that many sands hold only about one-fourth the water a good loam does.

So it's not hard for sand area farmers to understand why their corn yields suffer, particularly in a dry year. It's for this reason they've kept a watchful eye on the promise of recent irrigation trials conducted at the Purdue Sand Experimental Field near Culver. These trials are now entering their fourth year.

This week Agronomist G. G. Williams brought further encouragement to hopeful sand area growers when he announced some exceptionally good results from the 1953 corn tests at the Purdue farm.

His most startling find — supplemental irrigation skyrocketed corn yields to 144 bushels per acre, more than tripling yields eked out under rainfall only. All he could muster without irrigation was 40 bushels.

He made his top yield with the aid of heavy irrigation, calculated at eight inches, most of which was used in August, 300 lbs. of nitrogen and 24,000 plants of an early maturing variety per acre. Sufficient potash and phosphate were added to guarantee these nutrients were not limited.

Williams revealed his next high yield of 125 bushels was recorded under two treatments with heavy irrigation — both the 300 lb. nitrogen level with 18,000 plants per acre, and the 200 lb. level, with 24,000 stalks. Under 100 lbs. of nitrogen, and heaviest applications of water, the best yield he got was just shy of 100 bushels.

Medium irrigation, figured at about five inches, also failed to give 100 bushels, although the agronomist noted he came close in several plots.

A closer look at the results shows extra water made the biggest difference in yields all the way down the line, and not just in plots most heavily fertilized. For instance, under medium applications of water, plus 100 lbs. of nitrogen, corn yields shot up to 80 bushels, double those agronomists got in non-irrigated plots with twice as much nitrogen.

Corn ears prospered under irrigation, averaging a good half-pound, while ears that matured without extra water did well to weigh half that much.

Williams found that large amounts of nitrogen did little good for corn grown without irrigation. But with heaviest irrigation, each 100 lbs. of nitrogen made an additional 20 to 55 bushels, depending on population used.

In a similar manner, plant population changes had little to no effect on corn that didn't have maximum irrigation. An increase of 6,000 plants per acre in some heavily irrigated plots jumped yields as much as 25 bushels.

WIN the coveted POULTRY TRIBUNE TROPHY!
Often titled the most coveted poultry award of the entire nation, the 1953 Poultry Tribune Trophy was awarded to Breeder Loomis. The Leghorn he has developed at home of the nation's largest U.S. Certified Hatchery won the highest average points per bird in all official egg-laying contests in which a total of 8,541 birds were competing.

HONEGGER LEGHORN WINS FIRST IN THE 1953-54 CALIFORNIA NET EARNINGS TEST. They made an egg profit of $7.90 per bird above feed costs in the 50 week period.

The California Random Sample Test just completed gave Honegger Leghorns a three year average of 3rd place with an income above feed costs of $4.38 per chick. Honegger also won 3rd place this year in the New York Random Sample Test just completed. These winnings show the high degree of uniformity which has been implanted into the Honegger Leghorn . . . proof that from year to year you can count on Honegger Leghorns to be consistently top producers. As an example the chicks in these Random Sample Tests represented a random selection taken from over 40,000 Honegger chicks.

NAME WANTED FOR NEW TYPE HOG; $200 IS OFFERED

As proof of the fact that farmers of Indiana are responsive to consumer demand for more lean meat in pork cuts, the farmer-owned Producers Associations of Indiana and Ohio are co-operating in a contest. Two hundred dollars will be awarded the person who submits the most suitable name for this newly developed meat-type hog and its pork products.

The contest rules have been announced by W. R. Cummins, manager of the Producers Marketing Association of Indianapolis, which has a number of branches throughout the state. Other contests sponsors are the Cincinnati and Columbus, O., Producer Associations.

This new type of hog has been developed after many years of scientific breeding experimentation. The demand for it came from the housewife who likes to buy lean pork with her grocery money. Packers are paying a premium for the new longer and leaner hog; however, pork cuts from it are not expected to cost more at retail. The packer has welcomed the new meat-type hog because it has less fat and waste than do over-fat animals.

Any citizen of the United States may enter the contest. All entries must be postmarked not later than midnight, January 31, and be sent to Contest Headquarters, Box B, Ft. Hayes Station, Columbus, Ohio. Each suggestion for a name must be accompanied by 25 words or less explaining why the contestant thinks the name most suitable.

Cummins reports that four Indiana Producers' markets are now handling these Number One meat-type hogs, which are bringing prices above regular market quotations.

Protein Substitutes

By Allen D. Tillman
Oklahoma A&M College

Searching for more protein, it has been found that microorganisms living in the rumen of the ruminant animal could convert non-protein nitrogen to protein, and then the animal could utilize it to build his own body. With this basic knowledge at hand, many practical experiments have shown that urea and other nitrogen-containing compounds can be used to replace some of the protein in ruminant rations.

Within recent years, our interest has been aroused by the discovery that certain carbohydrate feeds will combine with anhydrous ammonia to form a product that will supply some of the needed protein in ruminant rations. At the present time cane or blackstrap molasses is, perhaps, the most plentiful of these products. Many livestock producers know that when blackstrap molasses is mixed with other materials it induces the stock to eat roughages and other unpalatable ration ingredients with less waste of the latter than would be otherwise.

This industrial by-product contains about 55 per cent sugars and only about 0.44 per cent nitrogen, (calculated as 2.8 per cent protein); hence when large amounts are fed it is especially important that sufficient protein be furnished by the rest of the ration.

In the past, this need has been met by feeding an expensive protein supplement. By ammoniating regular cane molasses, the protein equivalent is increased to about sixteen per cent; however, if the sucrose contained in the molasses is inverted to its simple sugars, more ammonia will be combined and the protein equivalent is increased to about thirty-three per cent.

Experimental work with dairy calves fed regular ammoniated cane molasses (sixteen per cent protein equivalent) indicates that when the ration contains ten per cent of this product, normal growth is obtained. Dairy cows receiving a grain ration containing ten per cent by weight of this product produced as much milk and maintained their weight as well as control animals receiving only natural protein. The cows receiving the ammoniated molasses performed better than a similar group receiving the same amount of supplemental nitrogen in the form of urea.

Experimental work with fattening steers indicates that ammoniated molasses may be used to replace one-half of the protein supplement. In several experiments the replacement of one-half of the protein supplement with ammoniated molasses has increased the intake of corn, resulting in higher daily gains. Other molasses products such as beet molasses, wood molasses, hydrol syrup and condensed distillers molasses solubles (CDMS), citrus molasses and citrus pulp have been ammoniated and tested with generally satisfactory results; however, of these, only ammoniated cane molasses is available generally.

Using Furfural Residue

In the manufacture of furfural from corn cobs, there is a quantity of residue left over that is ordinarily a waste material. Recently it was found that this material would combine with anhydrous ammonia, and the resulting product contained a protein equivalent of about 35 per cent. The results of feeding tests with this product have been variable. In work at the Oklahoma and Indiana stations, poorer daily gains were obtained when this product replaced one-half of the protein supplement in the rations. In another test, with steers, excellent results were obtained when this product replaced twenty to forty per cent of the nitrogen of a twenty-four per cent protein supplement. Better results were obtained however, when twenty per cent of the nitrogen of the supplement was replaced by ammoniated furfural residue and twenty per cent by ammoniated cane molasses. The ration in the latter test contained dehydrated alfalfa meal which was not present in the Oklahoma and Indiana tests.

Digestibility studies with sheep indicate that the nitrogen of ammoniated cane molasses and CDMS are not digested as well as urea or soybean meal. This observation is not borne out with dairy cattle and steers. These latter animals seem to digest the nitrogen of the ammoniated products almost as well as natural protein.

January dreams will make easier planning and planting. It is a good time, say Purdue University horticulturists, to check back on the past garden season and plan for the future.

ORCHARD IDEAS HAVE*CHANGED WITH TIME

In the days of Johnnie Appleseed, any soil, especially one not suited for general farming, was considered good enough for an orchard. This idea has long since been exploded as an old myth.

In fact, the orchards which are producing a profitable crop today are limited to those that were planted on well selected soils, or where effective measures were taken to correct unfavorable soil conditions.

Also, many of the practices used by successful orchardists today were scarcely heard of when Johnnie passed from farm to farm, handing out apple-seeds to new settlers. One or two fruit trees back of the house were all early farmers usually had to worry about, and individual attention was an easy matter.

Giving each tree individual attention is still an important part of profitable orchard production but it is much more difficult today as many farmers have orchards covering five, 10, 20 or more acres.

Modern orchardists are concerned about the long time — 25 years or more — production of their orchards and have adopted many soil saving and fertility building practices, such as cover crops, grass waterways and much more. Also, drainage of wet soils, liming and effective use of manure and commercial fertilizers have proved essential in improving orchard soils.

Purdue University horticulturists have described many of the successful orchard management practices used by Indiana orchardists in a hort. illustrated booklet entitled, "Soil Management and Fertilizers for Indiana Orchards." This booklet, published by Purdue's Agricultural Extension Service, also contains pictures of various practices, showing their effectiveness in increasing soil fertility and fruit tree production.

For a free copy, see your local county agent and ask for Extension Bulletin 385, "Soil Management and Fertilizers for Indiana Orchards."

Aviation Story Greater Because Larry Bell Changed His Mind; Decided Not To Quit Industry

Larry Bell, of the Bell Aircraft Corporation fame, was born in Mentone and a recent issue of the Bell Aircraft News carried the following history which will be of interest to many Mentone citizens:

Lawrence D. Bell, president and general manager of Bell Aircraft Corporation and dean of the nation's aircraft executives, decided in 1913 to get out of the airplane business.

The pace of modern aviation is faster, surer and more imaginative today because he didn't stick to that decision.

His contributions and those of the company he founded rank high in the annals of aviation progress.

At 59, Larry is a veteran of more than 40 years in the industry and the only pre-1914 aviation pioneer still active.

His interest in airplanes dates back to 1907 when he was a farm boy in Mentone, Ind.

He read everything on the subject he could get his hands on, but it wasn't until 1910, when his family moved to Santa Monica, Calif., that he saw his first airplane.

His first job was as a mechanic for two exhibition pilots, his brother, the late Grover E. Bell, and Lincoln Beachy, who gained early fame for flying under the Suspension Bridge at Niagara Falls.

It was when Grover was killed in the crash of his airplane that Larry decided to quit the business.

A short time later, however, he was persuaded to change his mind and took a job with Glenn L. Martin, who had an aircraft plant on the West Coast.

When Martin's superintendent quit, Larry, then only 20, suggested that he be appointed to the job and that the company hire an engineer.

An engineer in the aircraft business was a startling proposal then, but Martin agreed.

Larry soon found a graduate of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology's aviation course and hired him. His name was Donald W. Douglas, who later founded his own aircraft company.

Martin, Bell and Douglas worked together until 1917, when Douglas entered the Army and Martin opened another plant in Cleveland. Larry made the move with him and shortly became vice president and general manager.

In 1928 he left Martin to join Consolidated Aircraft Corporation in Buffalo and a year later again had the title of vice president and general manager.

When Consolidated moved to San Diego, Calif., in 1935, Larry remained in Buffalo with a group of his Consolidated associates to form his own company.

Among them were Ray Whitman, Bell's first vice president, and Bob Woods, airplane design consultant.

Bell Aircraft Corporation was founded in 1935 with the help of Buffalo businessmen, and the struggle to keep going began.

In recognition of his contributions to this country's aircraft progress, Hobart College conferred upon him an honorary Doctor of Science degree in 1943.

The following year he received the Daniel Guggenheim Medal for "achievement in the design and construction of military aircraft and for outstanding contributions to the methods of production."

The Chancellor's Medal of the University of Buffalo in 1947 recognized his "stellar contributions to both military and peacetime aeronautical progress."

Clarkson College of Technology conferred an honorary Doctor of Engineering Degree on him the same year.

Larry shared the Collier Trophy with Major Charles E. Yeager and John Stack, government research scientist, in 1948 in recognition of the contribution to aviation made by the Bell X-1. Yeager was the pilot who first flew it through the sonic barrier.

Foreign recognition for his industry leadership came in 1950 in the form of the French Legion of Honor.

better than any other team in the tourney.

In the Silver Lake game the starting five played the entire game without a substitution, and in the championship game the starting five remained throughout until one of the players left the game in the final seconds with five personals. Substitutions from the bench gave the starters a lot of relief in the Piercetown and Beaver Dam games, and they did a fine job while they were in the games.

Mentone's front end boys—Dickey, Boggs and Tinkey—did the major portion of the scoring, while Linn and Cullum registered in all four affairs.

The news of Mentone's victory was the signal for a big celebration at home. A giant bonfire was started at the main square in town and several tons of waste paper, boxes, boards, old Christmas trees, and other odds and ends went on the heap to keep the flames shooting into the sky for some time. Numerous firecrackers and bombs seemed to emerge from somewhere and sparks would fly high into the air as each let loose with a loud report. The fire truck and firemen were on hand for any emergency, and the fire truck met the returning victors at the east

ABE DISCOVERS VICTORIES ARE PAINFUL AFFAIRS

The picture above, taken just a few seconds after the final gun sounded, indicates that Coach Hoogenboom must have just realized that he had just emerged from the de-compression chamber. He had faith in his boys to win, but like many of us, there were times during the game we wondered how.

edge of town and escorted them into the city. Several hundred people were lined up on each side of Main street and presented an impressive welcome home committee.

A number of years ago Coach Raymond Bevington secured a plated horseshoe to go from victor to victor in county basketball. Mentone lost it about the first game and the locals had never been able to regain possession of it. Milford had the shoe in their possession Saturday night and it finally returned to Mentone.

The Mentone teams do not have regular captains, but game captains are named at the beginning of each encounter. Saturday night's co-captains were Robert Boggs and Clarence Dickey and one of the photos in this issue shows County Superintendent Whitehead presenting the trophy to the two point-makers on the Mentone squad.

A rather interesting sidelight into the championship victory was that the 1935 team had Leo Linn as one of its regulars and his son, Larry, is one of the regulars on the 1954 team. The Linn's moved back to Mentone last year.

PATRONS FETE BASKETBALL CHAMPS TO POT-LUCK DINNER

Well over five hundred people gathered at the new Mentone gym Wednesday evening of last week to enjoy a community pot-luck dinner and the fine program that followed. The food was placed on tables and six lines of patrons started down along the tables, making their selections as they went. There was enough for all and many took advantage of the privilege of returning for "seconds."

Following the dinner the high school band, under the direction of David Gosser, Jr., rendered four selections. H. V. Johns took over the duties of directing community singing, after which Kenneth Riner, master of ceremonies, introduced the guests of the evening. Coach Abe Hoogenboom introduced the county champion basketball team and Dale Kelley introduced the members of the 1935 county champ team who were present. Hardy Songer of Young America, coach of the 1935 team, was the speaker of the evening.

Guests introduced by Mr. Riner included Gabby Garber and Milo Clase of the Warsaw Times-Union, Artley Cullum of the Co-Op. News, Mrs. Opal Tucker, trustee; Walter Kent, principal, and Mr. Raymond Cooper who represented the Mentone Merchants' Association. Each of the boys were presented with a gold basketball on a tiny gold chain, which are being engraved with the wording: "County Champs, 1954." Gabby Garber presented the coach and each of the players with a large picture taken of the team just after they had won the championship at Warsaw.

Those privileged to be present who were on the 1935 county champion team were: Leo Linn, Hody Teel, Kay Paulus, Deed Shirley, Garth Underhill and Don Blue.

Your editor created considerable comment in our last issue when he printed a picture of the 1935 county champions. Other citizens came up with pictures of the 1935 state tournament team that showed other individuals. The explanation is this: that two of the boys had played in a second team tournament that year and high school players—they found—can only play in so many games or in so many tournaments. Two of the boys on the county championship team could not be taken to the state tournament at

FRED KLINGENHAGEN DIES

Fred J. Klingenhagen, aged 62 years, died at 12:15 Wednesday afternoon at the Woodlawn hospital at Rochester. Mr. Klingenhagen had been ill the past nine months and about five months of that time he had been hospitalized.

The deceased was born Sept. 11, 1891 at Akron, Ohio where he spent 30 years on the police force. At his retirement six years ago he and his wife moved to a farm home just south of town.

He was married to Letha Jenkins, of Mentone, in 1943, and she is the only near relative surviving.

Mr. Klingenhagen was a member of the German Reformed church of Akron, Ohio and also held membership in the Masonic Lodge, Yusuf-Khan Grotto and the National Police Foundation, Inc.

The Mentone Masonic Lodge will be in charge of the funeral services Saturday afternoon at two o'clock. Friends may call at the Johns funeral home after seven o'clock Thursday evening.

FORMER MENTONE BOY DIES IN GARY

Word has been received here of the death of Rev. Raymond Coon, 57, at Gary. Rev. Coon will be remembered by Mentone residents as the son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Coon former residents of this place. Rev. Coon was a nephew of Mrs. Helen Long. He had been in failing health for a number of years.

Funeral services and burial were held at Gary Wednesday.

HAS HAND INJURED

Vern Weiger, of the Co-Op. Mill, had the back of his right hand injured seriously last Thursday evening when a hammermill became clogged. In a hurry to complete their feed grinding schedule, the machine clogged and was shut off. The hammers were still turning when Vern lifted the hood from the machine. His hand slipped and the hammers hit it. Twenty-seven stitches were required to close the wounds on the back of his hand.

WHOSE FARM IS THIS?

Can you identify the farm pictured above? This is another of the farm pictures to be printed in the Co-Op. News, and as no one knows whose farm it is, can you help identify it? There's no prize to the first to tell us whose farm it is, but it is interesting to know who will be first in reporting the information to this newspaper.

Cecil Nelson Farm Pictured Last Week

The farm home pictured in our last issue of the Co-Op. News was that of Cecil E. Nelson, located one mile east of Burket. The 120 acre farm has been farmed by Lowell Leckrone the past several years. Mr. Nelson is now a real estate broker in Winona Lake, Ind. Mr. Nelson and wife Pearl were married at Plymouth in March, 1913 and they have two children. A son lives with his wife and five children in Iola, Kansas where he is a minister, and their daughter, husband and four children are in Mexico City, Mexico where they have charge of a child evangelism home.

The farm, named Maple Grove, was named by the former owner, Wm. Graff.

Clover, corn, oats and wheat are the main crops on the farm, and Mr. Nelson says they aim to rotate and plow down the clover with deep plowing. The pasture land is rented.

Few Phone Calls This Time

Only three persons notified the Co-Op. News that they recognized the farm. C. O. Eiler, who has been having difficulty getting to our office first, managed to get here first last week. Others who called were Chuck Feldman and Russell Huffer.

Can you identify the picture above?

METHODIST CHURCH NEWS

In the local church and community of Mentone the Church Extension Program is proceeding quite favorably. The members and friends of the church may well sense a feeling of accomplishment when the project is completed. In numerous communities of this Conference, Methodist congregations will join in hymns of praise to the Lord because the people of the Mentone Church helped make possible the building of churches, the providing of ministers, the organization of Bible classes and religious study groups, and the meeting of physical and spiritual needs in the rapidly-growing population areas.

The Christ Methodist Church of Fort Wayne is but one example of the many projects to be started in the near future. Beginning with prayers, an assured income for the pastor, the Rev. Donald LaSuer has, with the help of good Christian laymen, laid the foundation for this new church. Two years ago there was a vacant lot and no congregation. Last Easter Sunday he took into the membership of the proposed church over 130 persons. The congregation has now grown to a membership of over four hundred.

The first meetings were in homes, then in garages, and now in pre-fabricated units, two joined to make the sanctuary and another used as the educational unit. Plans are now being drawn by architects for the erection of a permanent structure.

At a national meeting of the Board of Church Extension which met recently at Buckhill Falls, Pennsylvania, Rev. LaSuer told of this out-standing example of the type of projects the Methodists of Mentone and other communities will be aiding through the Church Extension Program of the North Indiana Conference.

Dr. Thurman Morris reports that the Warsaw District has in contributions and pledges over $100,000 for the work, and the final reports from local churches are not to be in until next week.

GIRLS 4-H

A regular meeting of the Merry 4-Hers which was held in the school cafeteria January 25, was called to order by the president, Marilyn Horn.

Sandra Barkman read the secretary's report and it was then approved.

The discussion was on the Officer's Training School which is to be January 30th at Warsaw and the Enrollment Cards for the next year.

The pledges to the American and 4-H flags were led by Esther Quier.

Several songs were sang, then, Marilyn Horn was in care of the recreation.

Refreshments of pop and cup cakes were served by Sandra Barkman and Esther Quier.

Mrs. Latimer, a member of the advisory committee and Mrs. Clark attended also.

Corn Gluten Feeds

Corn gluten feeds have been staple protein feeds for dairy cattle and other livestock for more than 60 years. Originally thrown away as a waste product of the corn-refining plants, corn gluten feed and meal now find a market approximating one million tons a year.

Other feed by-products of the starch making process are corn oil meal, from the germ of the kernel, and corn sugar molasses, obtained in the process of converting corn starch into sugar.

Whole corn, corn meal and hominy feed are fed primarily for their carbohydrate content, all three having only about nine to ten per cent of protein. They are used chiefly for producing growth and energy rather than as the part of the ration which shows up in the milk pail or egg basket.

To produce milk or eggs, the cow or hen must have protein. In making corn glucose feed and meal, the corn refiners take the farmer's carbohydrate-rich whole corn and, by the process of separation, concentrate the protein of that corn in corn gluten feed and corn gluten meal, which carry, respectively, twenty-three per cent and forty-one per cent of protein. These amounts represent two and one-half times the original protein content of the farmer's whole grain.

In the corn-refining process, called "wet milling" because quantities of water are used throughout, the whole kernels are steeped in warm water for thirty to thirty-six hours before grinding. The ensuing milling process separates the germs first, then the bran or hulls, lastly the gluten—leaving the end-product starch.

The steepwater itself, after it is drawn off the kernels, contains the soluble proteins and minerals of corn, all valuable as feed constituents. This steepwater is partly dried by evaporation, added to the hulls and gluten, then further dried to become the corn gluten feed of commerce. Today, large quantities of concentrated steepwater are also used by drug manufacturers, as a food for the molds from which penicillin, aureomycin and other antibiotics are derived.

Corn gluten meal contains little or no corn bran, therefore its protein content is much higher than that of corn gluten feed. Gluten meal is included in dairy rations, too, but because of certain characteristics other than its protein, it is in large demand as an ingredient of poultry rations.

Among the grain by-product feeds corn gluten meal is rich in carotene or pro-vitamin A, which becomes true vitamin A through metabolism. Corn gluten meal, when made from yellow corn, contains xanthophyll also. Xanthophyll is the pigmentation factor in yellow corn, and as ninety-five per cent or more of all corn ground by the refiners is yellow, virtually all corn gluten meal contains xanthophyll.

This substance imparts a yellow color to the skin of poultry, a desirable factor in top-grade marketing of broilers and turkeys. Thus corn gluten meal is especially liked by poultrymen who raise birds for marketing.

Because of its high protein content, corn gluten meal is also a potent egg producing feed and is widely used as an ingredient in laying mashers.

Poultry rations commonly contain corn gluten meal to the extent of six to twelve per cent. Dairy rations and other formula feeds compounded for livestock often carry corn gluten feed as twenty per cent of the entire mixture, sometimes more.

Corn oil meal, which is made from the corn germ after extraction of most of the oil, may be marketed as a separate and distinct feed. Usually, however, it is added, in the refinery to gluten, bran and steepwater to form corn gluten feed. Corn oil meal contains twenty per cent of protein.

Corn sugar molasses, a by-product obtained in refining corn sugar, is used as a sweetener for livestock feeds. It is usually incorporated in the grain ration itself. Some corn-belt farmers feed it straight to beef cattle, pouring it from the drum into feed troughs, or sprinkling it on roughage. The palatability of poor quality hay can be greatly improved by adding corn sugar molasses.

Frigid January winds may make you wish you had planted windbreak protection for farm buildings. It's not too late to order trees for planting a farmstead windbreak this coming spring, suggest Purdue University foresters. Order blanks and copies of Extension leaflet No. 294, "Ten Pointers on Tree Windbreaks," from your county agent.

If you buy house plants or get them from a neighbor, be sure they are insect free. Infestations of mealy bugs and other pests usually start in this way. Purdue University extension entomologists say a 40 percent nicotine sulphate in soap suds is a good spray to kill insects on house plants. Follow directions on the bottle.

If the pitter-patter of little feet means mice in the house, you'll be interested in these recommendations from Purdue University rodent control specialist. They say house mice can be killed with warfarin bait placed at 10 to 12 foot intervals along walls. DDT is also very effective when dusted heavily along walls where mice run. It gets on their feet and fur and kills mice when they lick themselves. One word of caution — be careful about food contamination with DDT.

Efficient production of milk depends on high production per cow and large yields of milk-producing feeds per acre and per man hour. This may be accomplished, believe University dairymen, by breeding cows capable of producing high yields of milk, and by feeding animals liberally.

THE BIG 3 in Profit Making!

1 HONEGGER LEGHORNS

Nation's Largest U. S. Certified Hatchery

In both farm and commercial flocks, Honegger Leghorns are proven profit makers. The current New York Random Sample Test shows 9 out of the top 10 producers are Leghorns with the Honegger Leghorn holding 2nd place in net income. The California Net Earnings entry once again shows the Honegger Leghorn in first place and in only 7 months has made $5.03 per pullet. Complete facts prove the Honegger Leghorn is a national top producer!

2 HONEGGER POULTRY HOUSE

Designed By Honegger Poultry
Breeder A. P. Loomis

Twenty years in planning, the Honegger Poultry House solves the majority of problems that confront poultrymen. The 100% self-ventilating features of this specially designed building keep it dry and warm in the winter and cool in the summer. Proper housing means up to 4¢ to 6¢ per dozen eggs more net profit and the Honegger Poultry House does just that for you — actually paying for itself!

3 HONEGGER BIG "H" FEEDS

A Complete Feeding Program

Honegger feeds are scientifically compounded by expert nutritionists and then tested on the 400 acre practical test farm which has operated at a profit for 25 years and is the home of the Honegger Hatchery. Honegger poultry feeds are made in the new electronically-controlled push-button mill which means better feeds, better service and better prices — the essentials to good profits.
