Picnic Of The Co-Op Association

A Very Large Attendance—All Enjoyed the Days Outing

On July 4th, the stockholders and customers of the Northern Indiana Co-Operative Association, met at Beechwood Park, Hoffman Lake and enjoyed a basket dinner.

The forenoon was spent in playing all kinds of ball, pitching horse shoe and other sports. At the noon hour a bountiful dinner was served which loaded over one hundred feet of table space to over-flowing. There certainly can be no doubt as to whether everyone had all they could possibly eat, and probably more than they should have had. At the close of the meal the Clover Leaf Ice Cream truck drove up and treated the crowd to their delicious ice cream. Mrs. H. V. Nellans being hostess to the picnic, all things were managed to perfection.

In the afternoon there was a short program. Several patriotic selections were rendered by the Atwood male quartet, consisting of C. O. Eiler, Leonard Eiler, Kermit Creighton and Evert Vandermark.

Mr. O. E. Beeson, chairman of the program committee, introduced Mr. Creighton who in turn introduced Senator Brandon of Auburn, Ind. Mr. Brandon delivered a wonderful address on the farm and farm problems, stressing the benefits of co-operation of which the majority of the crowd were very much interested. It was not lengthy but straight to the point. After the address some attended the Elms Green and Laketon ball game being played there that day others went swimming, boating and etc.

The weather was ideal and was a great asset in making the picnic a success. Noblesville Milling Co. presented the crowd with lead pencils as favors. The picnic was largely attended with 582 present.

Among those from a distance were Mr. and Mrs. Earl Rush and Mrs. Mary Sarber of Detroit, Michigan. There were also several from Warsaw.

All departed with a friendly word the happier for all they had seen and heard as homeward all these farmers went. They considered the day had been well spent. They have learned what it means to co-operate and work together in this old Hoosier State. For if anything we need in this old nation its a little more co-operation and we will help each other as on we go and our reward will be greater than any of us know.

BALL GAME INTERESTING

The ball game started at eleven o'clock. The first team coming to bat consisted of Pat Kehoe, Ora Beeson, Howard Horn, Dale Plew Clarence Horn, Frank Merkle, Frank Nellans, Russell Creighton, Roy Rush against Hobart Creighton, Leonard Eiler, Herschel Nellans, Forest Kesler Orton Zent, Edd Ward, Dean Nellans, Jack Preisch and Sam Norris.

The game was not without its bright spots as there were two home runs made. The first by Dale Plew and the second by Ora Beeson who shone quite bright in the light of stardom. Beesons team won by a score of 18-12. Frank Carls and Elva Jones were the umpires. Elias Smith proved to be the champion horse shoe pitcher of the day.

Indiana State Fair A Great Exposition

September 2nd to 8th—7 Big Days.

Russell G. East, Richmond, Indiana, President of the Indiana Board of Agriculture, makes the following statement in regard to the Indiana State Fair:

"The Indiana State Fair is one of the greatest expositions in the United States. Every interest and activity of the people is given consideration and the State Board of Agriculture is sparing no pains nor expense in making this exposition the best. Whether viewed from an industrial, agricultural or educational standpoint, it brings together and presents to the people who attend the fair the advancements that have been made during the past few years.

"Despite adverse economic conditions, agriculture in Indiana has gone forward until this state is one of the ranking states in agricultural activities. The 4-H Club work throughout the state has been an educational force whose value cannot be estimated.

"Every citizen who lives either on the farm or in the city should spend at least a day or two studying the fine exhibits that probably will be displayed from several different states. During the past couple years, twenty states and Canada have been represented and this year we hope to have as many states or more represented in this great exposition."

BURIAL OF BABY

Funeral services were held June 29, at Mentone for the little Delores Whetstone, nine-months-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cassel Whetstone of this place. Burial was made in the Mentone cemetery. The infant expired June 27, following a critical illness of several weeks. The baby had undergone medical treatment previously at the Emergency hospital, but was removed to her home at Mentone where her condition slowly grew worse. The parents, three sisters, two brothers, and four grandparents, all of Mentone survive.

HILL & LEMLER ADDS FRESH MEATS

The grocery firm of Hill & Lemler have placed in their store a complete meat market outfit and added a full line of fresh meats. They lately have re-arranged their grocery stock and the store now presents a great improvement in appearance. See their advertisement on the last page of this issue.

Rev. V. E. Squibb is assisting them in their new department in the capacity as meat cutter, and the way he can handle the cleaver, knife and saw is convincing proof that the Rev. has worked at the block in years gone by.

With Rev. Squibb at the meat block; Rev. Johns in the barber shop and Rev. DeWitt tending a very large garden, Mentone appears to have a very energetic lot of ministers

ONE MORE NEEDED

He had known Mary in his boyhood days, but had not seen her for a number of years.

One day they met at a dance. "Hallo, Mary," he said, "are you married yet?"

"Not yet," replied the girl. "But I thought a charming girl like you would have been married long before now," he smilingly returned.

"Of course, there's two waiting," said the girl a little sadly.

"Two?" he exclaimed. "But you're surely not going to marry two, are you?"

"No, no," she informed him. "The two that's waiting is the parson and me."—Answers Magazine.

Warm Reception Waiting

"So you were going to a fire," said the speed cop sarcastically to the motorist he had stopped.

"Well, not exactly," said the motorist breathlessly, "but I'm trying to prevent one."

The speed cop nodded grimly.

"And how were you going to do that?" he asked.

"Well, the boss said that's what he'd do if I were late again, and I was hurrying to get to the office in time," explained the motorist.—Answers Magazine.

Restrike of Coins

A restrike is the stamping of a new design over the old design on a coin. This was often done in the early history of the country when Spanish coins were used, and the restrike simply indicated that the coin was an American rather than a Spanish coin.

Group Games Given Space in Bulletin

Ladies, Send For a Copy, it Will Assist You With All Your Entertainments.

Interesting games and contests for club and community groups are outlined in detail in the revised edition of Extension Bulletin No. 152 of the Purdue University Department of Agricultural Extension, which is now available for distribution over the state.

The authors of the bulletin, Helen Mary Reitemeier, of the division of Boy's and Girls' Clubs, and O. F. Hall in charge of rural life studies, point out that the value of play is becoming more and more evident. They declare that play properly directed adds to strength of mind as well as to strength of body, and that play in the form of group games does much to create friendships and promote the spirit and practice of cooperation.

The games presented are classified in four different groups; get acquainted games, planned to mix the crowd; active games; used to "pep up" the crowd; quiet games, to produce a "good time" and also "sharpen the wits", and trick games, to furnish amusement.

The games were chosen and recommended by the authors because they are recreative, simple, and can be played with very little equipment. They can also be played by persons assembled in the most casual and informal manner.

Copies of the publication which is issued as a part of the cooperative extension work in agriculture and home economics of the state of Indiana, with Purdue University and the United States Department of Agriculture cooperating, may be obtained by addressing the Purdue University Agricultural Extension Department, Lafayette, Indiana.

WHY

Color-Blindness Afflicts So Many People

All colors seen by human beings are mixtures of the three primary colors, red, yellow and blue, and color-blindness is the failure to respond to one or more of these color stimuli, points out an educational booklet of the Better Vision Institute, which is used by teachers in many sections of the United States in eyesight conservation instruction. Color blindness occurs in three principal forms, the most common being the inability to distinguish between red and green. A rarer form is that in which all colors are confused, and a still rarer form confuses blue with yellow.

The old test for color-blindness was a simple one, and consisted in requiring the person being tested to match colors in an assortment of variously colored yarns. A more modern method involves the use of cards on which a number is printed in green or yellow against a background of the color commonly confused with it. A color-blind person either cannot read it at all, or reads another number which is ingeniously outlined on the card.

Tests show that approximately 8 per cent of white people are color-blind, but that only 3 per cent of negroes are so handicapped, and less than 2 per cent of Indians. Since the colors commonly used for danger signals are red and green, it is very important for railroads and other organizations to ascertain if their employees can distinguish between these two colors. Ten states require tests for color vision before granting automobile driving licenses. Under present-day complex traffic conditions, with our lives depending upon accurate mental and muscular co-ordination, keen, clear, accurate vision and accurate color perception are essential to every one.

Why We Have It Colder in Winter Than Summer

Why is winter colder than summer? Many people erroneously think the reason it is colder in winter than in summer is that the sun is farther from the earth during the winter. But the sun is actually farthest from the earth in summer and closest in winter.

Our four seasons, spring, summer, fall and winter, are caused by the inclination of the earth's axis while the earth moves around the sun. They are produced mainly by the relative positions of the earth's axis in respect to the sun. The main reason for the difference in temperature between winter and summer is the angle at which the rays of the sun strike the earth.

While the sun is farther away in summer it is more directly overhead and we get the full force of the direct rays. This coupled with the longer duration of daylight in summer makes it warmer. In winter, although the sun is closer to the earth, it is lower in the sky and the rays strike the earth at a much greater slant than in summer. It is winter in the Northern hemisphere because it is tilted away from the sun, while the Southern hemisphere is tilted toward Old Sol and enjoying summer breezes.—Pathfinder Magazine.

First Carpet Sweepers

Carpet sweepers of a crude pattern were made in England hundreds of years ago, but not until 1876 was this device seriously considered as a time-saving, labor-saving household article. To M. R. Bissell is due the credit of producing the first carpet sweeper that did the work properly.

Keen Competition Makes Clean Eggs More Imperative

"Now, as never before," says S. M. Walford, of the Purdue University poultry extension staff, "there is keen competition between a wide variety of food products for the central position in the average American breakfast—a place long held by eggs, almost unchallenged. The rapid developments in merchandising during the last decade have brought about such neatness and attractiveness in the packaging of many food products, that only the cleanest, most uniform eggs can capture the consumers' attention. The net result is that clean eggs sell readily at a premium, while dirty, smeared or stained eggs give way to their more appetizing rivals, and their presence on the market has a depressing effect on egg prices in general."

To preserve the natural cleanliness of eggs, Walford suggests the following practices:

- 1 Provide one clean, well bedded nest for each five or six layers, and coop up broody hens that would cause crowding of the nests.
- 2 Keep the floor of the laying house dry and clean.
- 3 Equip the dropping boards with one and one-half inch or two inch mesh poultry netting so as to prevent tracking through the droppings.
- 4 Except during extremely hot dry weather confine the birds in the laying house until noon, when the bulk of the lay is over.
- 5 Collect eggs at least twice daily—when the birds are released at noon, and at feeding time in the evening.
- 6 Use a rigid collecting basket or bucket, and so place eggs that they will not roll or be crushed against each other.
- 7 Never touch eggs with dirty, sweaty or greasy hands, and make sure that the flats and fillers in the case are free from dust and dirt before placing eggs in them.

Walford declares that the extra time and care required by these practices is usually repaid if the eggs are being sold on a quality basis which takes cleanliness into consideration.

High Blood Pressure

High blood pressure, so common among people in the United States, is virtually unknown in China. Many theories for this have been advanced by scientists, but no satisfactory conclusion has been reached.

SHORT CHANGED

A restaurant keeper quietly helps to ease depression by supplying food to the hungry. An old man has been one of his patrons for several weeks, always arriving about noon to gather generously-given provender. A day or two ago the old man grew confidential with the dishwasher in the restaurant. He was sore about not having received as much that day as on previous occasions. He looked at his basket, mopped his brow with the left sleeve and remarked:

"Eddie kind o' fell down on me today!"—Indianapolis News.

Away From the Brickbats

"I want," said the house hunter, "a small place in an isolated position—somewhere at least five miles from any other house."

"I see, sir," said the agent, with an understanding smile, "you want to practice the simple life."

"Not at all. I want to practice the cornet."—Philadelphia Bulletin.

In the Interest of Harmony

"You disapprove of the custom of handshaking?"

"Not at all," replied Senator Sorghum. "I like it. But I don't quite admire the tendency of a crowd to pick on one man when they might be shaking hands among themselves."

Scrip, Not Script

It's "scrip," not "script." Dictionaries define scrip as a certificate, memorandum, schedule or list, usually applied to a paper issued in lieu of something of value. Script is defined as writing, especially in distinction to printing. Both come from the Latin "scribere," to write.

"Yes,"
said MRS. MOLLA PROPP,
"one can't be too particular about the circulation."

YES, my dear, I took the street car to town today instead of my own car. I thought I'd give my own car a rest for a few days...and besides it's being fixed.

It was all Henry's fault. You know, when we built the house he just INSISTED on a stone gatepost by the garden. Now, if I'd had my way, it would have been made of wood and all this wouldn't have happened.

There I was, backing out as usual and I stepped and yoo-hooed at Mrs. George and she yoo-hooed at me and the gear was in reverse and the engine was going. All at once the George's dog saw our cat and made for it and the poor cat jumped right into my lap and I took my foot off the differential and—my dear—the stone post that Henry just HAD to have took a fender right off. Then I realized what I'd done and I pushed the gear over THERE and the car shot ahead and stopped when it hit the house, and that wasn't so good for the right front fender and the cowcatcher.

I went into the house to think it over, and when I came out the thing you step on wouldn't start the engine. I had left the switch on and there wasn't enough electricity in the manifold to light a candle.

So I called the garage and they came and took the car and I can't have it for three days. I told Henry that, it being his fault, would he let me use HIS car, but he said "No." He needed it for his work and I needed a rest. He can be THAT way, my dear.

Effects of the X-ray

Exposure of the male coils of the tobacco plant to X-rays for various lengths of time produces wide variations in the product of the seed, causing in some instances the growth of giant plants.

Raccoon Tracks

Raccoon tracks can scarcely be confused with any others. The foot-marks resemble those which might be made by a small slender-fingered hand. The fingers and toes normally appear well spread, in contrast with those of woodchucks and skunks.

Might Grow Good Corn Crop

It requires from 50 to 60 acres to build a nine-hole golf course—depending somewhat on the shape of the property and on the topography. It takes about 125 pounds to the acre of a fairway grass mixture to seed the 25 to 30 acres of fairway.

Towns Without Rail Service

The Interstate Commerce commission says that out of 125,000 cities, towns and villages in the United States, 45,000 either have no rail service at all or lack a freight station. They are served by motor bus and truck lines.

The current of the Amazon river in South America is so great that it overflies the Atlantic ocean for a distance of more than 200 miles at the mouth.

Baker's Dozen

A "baker's dozen" is thirteen. The name is derived from a former custom among bakers in the Middle ages of giving an excess to make sure of avoiding the heavy penalties then exacted for short weight or measure.

Inaugural Date on Sunday

The first inaugural date to fall on Sunday was March 4, 1821, the date of Monroe's second inaugural. Chief Justice Marshall advised that the oath be postponed until Monday, and this course was followed, the Presidency being technically vacant for 24 hours.

Eye Guard on Antlers

Eye guards on deer's antlers are generally counted as points. This type of antler development is most commonly seen in the caribou and the eye guard on one side is generally longer and better developed than the other. It is customary to count the points on one side of a buck's antlers only, calling attention to differences which may obtain between the two horns.

WORLD WAR BY * * * YARNS LIEUT. FRANK E. HAGAN

Happy to Salute You, Sir!

The hand salute, and its many regulations, caused more trouble to the American army. It is estimated that cooties or any other species of pest spawned by the World war. But here is the story of one salute that was given—oh, so gladly—on a main street of Le Havre. The man who figures in it is now a well-known member of the Chicago Board of Trade but at that time he had just been discharged from the French army, in which he had served almost two years before our troops arrived, had sewed a discharge chevron on his sleeve and, having a few hours before sailing time, spent them in a stroll through the streets of Le Havre. Here's what happened, as he tells it:

"The English are quite meticulous about saluting; quite! For one thing, their officers must never acknowledge a salute when holding anything in the saluting hand or in the mouth.

"So imagine my joy to see an English captain approaching. I wore a discharge chevron and didn't have to salute. But the captain had a swagger stick under one arm, a pipe was in his mouth, both hands were piled with packages. Oh, boy!

"The captain eased over to the other side of the rue when he saw me. I crossed over, too. Then he knew that a meeting was inevitable.

"Well, I'll hand it to the captain. By the time he reached me, where I was frozen to a salute, he'd managed to pile all his bundles, the swagger stick and pipe into one hand. With his free hand he acknowledged my 'courtesy' with a handsome salute. . . . But I'd hate to tell the words his lips were plainly forming as he passed by!"

Being a "Mrs. Malaprop"

The source of this name as a popular member of our lexicon for describing a woman who makes amusing blunders is in Sheridan's famous play, "The Rivals," in which Mrs. Malaprop is one of the leading characters. This has given us also a word in its own right, "malapropism" for "grotesque misuse of a word." The real source of the name, however, lies in the French, whence Sheridan took his inspiration for coining the name. That is from the French phrase "mal a propos" meaning "inappropriate."

A Physicist

A physicist is one versed in physics, a specialist in the field of physics, the science that treats of the phenomena associated with matter in general, especially in relation to energy and the laws governing these phenomena; the constitution and property of matter, mechanics, acoustics, heat, optics, electricity and magnetism. Psi Iota Xi Holds Convention

The annual convention of Psi Iota Xi Sorority was held in Kokomo on Wednesday and Thursday, June 21 and 22. Delegates from Mentone who attended were the president, Miss Rosalind Mentzer and the corresponding secretary, Mrs. George Clark.

A very favorable report was given by Mrs. Waneta Hughes, charity chairman, on the success of the Oxygenaires which have been placed in hospitals in ten different cities. She explained that oxygen therapy is a new field and that the results are not always as expected. The disease most commonly treated is pneumonia, but tuberculosis, asthma, cancer and in fact, almost any other disease may be treated. It was explained that this is not a cure, but only aids the patient in breathing and makes him more comfortable.

The Psi Ote ward at the Riley Hospital has been entirely reconditioned with new bedding, mattresses and fresh paint.

On Wednesday night the Kokomo Chapter entertained the convention at a Night Club Party at the Masonic Temple. Sophie Tucker was portrayed by a member of the hostess chapter, and many prominent personages were introduced during the evening. A chorus composed of Kokomo girls gave several clever numbers.

A beach party was enjoyed at the lovely country home of Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Fredericks on Thursday afternoon. Thursday night the anniversary dinner was celebrated at the Kokomo Country Club in honor of Kokomo's twenty-fifth anniversary. Two of the founders were present. After the dinner a short literary program was given by Mrs. Helen Stone, a prominent and well-known member of Kokomo Chapter. Her subject was "Anniversaries."

Initiation followed at the Elks Club. It was given by the retiring grand officers. The newly elected officers are: president, Mrs. Elizabeth Colvin, Princeton; vice president, Mrs. Mildred Siebrig, Washington; secretary, Miss Eloise Lewton, Decatur; treasurer, Miss Josephine Felig, Seymour; conductress, Miss Virginia Guisinger, Peru; Advisor, Mrs. Anne Duenling, Fort Wayne.

The next convention will be held at the Pottawotamie Inn with Rho chapter of Angola as hostess.

Former Minister Visits In Mentone

The members of the Church of Christ and friends in the vicinity of Mentone were much delighted to have Mr. and Mrs. Albert Backman and daughter Emma Jean among them once again. Mr. Backman acted as minister here several years ago and is now residing in Dickson, Tennessee.

In honor of Mrs. Backman's birthday an ice cream party was held at Clarence Leiningers home Thursday evening to which anyone was cordially invited to make their presence, bringing with them filled ice cream freezers or cakes. There proved to be a great number of friends who wished to welcome Mr. and Mrs. Backman and to wish Mrs. Backman many happy birthday greetings. The evening was enjoyed by all.

Members and friends were given the pleasure of hearing Mr. Backman Saturday evening and Sunday morning and evening. After services Sunday morning all drove to Kellys' landing at Yellow Creek Lake for a basket dinner. A wonderful table was set. Everyone must have enjoyed it immense for people went home with empty baskets. Kellys were very generous with boats and cottages and the afternoon was spent in taking many boat trips and visiting with the backmans.

We wish to thank Mr. and Mrs. Kelly for the kindness they showed to us all. We also wish to encourage Mr. and Mrs. Backman and daughter to make their absence shorter in the future.

GIRL SCOUT NEWS

We had no Girl Scout meeting on June 21 as both the Captain and the assistant Captain were absent and no other leader was appointed. On June 28 we met at the School House. As the Captains were again absent Miss Eunice Reed took charge of the meeting. After business was taken care of we played some interesting and educational leaf games.

A surprise meeting is anticipated for the next time and we are all very curious concerning it. But it is a deep secret and we will have to wait.

Advertising in Co-Op. News Brings Results

Mr. Orvin Heighway made a special effort to tell the Co-Op News how well advertising in this paper has paid him. Mr. Heighway advertised some potatoes for sale and he says he received between fifteen and twenty calls for potatoes and that they were all sold some time ago.

Every appointment was perfect. Characteristic of Mrs. Guy.

Tariff Wall Kills Birds

Bird lovers of Europe are blaming the tariff for the death of 200 birds at the Czechoslovakian frontier. A consignment of thrushes, blackbirds and larks was being sent by rail through Austria to Prague. At the Czechoslovakian border customs officers held up the feathered songsters because they had no permit to cross the frontier. The birds were sickened and the consignors notified. When the proper papers arrived, six days later, the birds had starved to death.

Plenty of Water Possible

If all pumps in the New Orleans drainage system were operated to capacity at one time, they would handle three billion gallons, or thirteen million tons of water in four hours. That is enough water, say experts, to float 200 ships the size of the Leviathan.

Northern Indiana Co-Op. News, July 19, 1933

A Free Publication

Please Give Us Your Co-Operation

A Little Help From You Will Greatly Aid Us in Paying the Cost of this Publication.

During the past several months we have been printing and mailing the Co-Op. News to approximately 950 people absolutely free.

This of course we are very glad to do, but as there is considerable expense connected with the printing and mailing of the paper we feel that we are not asking anything unreasonable when we request our readers to cooperate with us in securing advertising for the publication and to give our advertisers the preference in their patronage.

A conservative estimate of the cost of publishing and mailing the Co-Op. news to 950 people for 24 issues, or one year is as follows:

|------------------------------------|----------|
| Postage for the year | $228.00 |
| Cost of printing and mailing | 552.00 |
| Amount paid for extra help .. | 102.00 |
| Incidentals at $2.00 per month .. | 24.00 |

Total cost for year $906.00

Now it should be born in mind that the only revenue to defray the above expense is derived from the money we receive for advertising patronage. Our friends and readers can materially assist us in securing more advertising and make the space more valuable to advertisers with little or no effort on their part by following the three following suggestions:

First—Prices and quality being equal, give our advertisers the preference when making purchases, and be sure to let the merchant know that you read his announcements in the Co-Op. News.

Second—If your merchant either at home or in outside towns does not advertise in this paper, call his attention to the fact that an advertisement in the Co-Op. News would be a paying investment.

Third—If you are a shipper in either of the Mentone Egg Cars and the firm receiving your eggs does not advertise in this paper, the first time that you have occasion to write the firm tell them that an advertisement in the Co-Op. News would please their shippers and probably get them more business and that they should co-operate in the matter.

With the proper amount of advertising we can afford to put on full time help in getting the news and issue the paper every week, thereby giving you a real newspaper at no cost whatever.

In conclusion we will say that if you wish to see the paper published every week with someone on the job every minute to get all the news and give you a real live newspaper at no cost to the readers, co-operation on your part as suggested above will turn the trick—it is simply up to our readers to determine what kind of a paper we have.

AUTO ACCIDENT

July 3, Dr. and Mrs. F. B. Davison and son Fenton and Mrs. Clara Gates left for Ohio to visit an uncle and aunt of Mrs. Davisons, Mr. and Mrs. Norford Gates. From there they all planned to motor into Pennsylvania and while enroute there a passing car pulled back into the road too soon causing the rear left bumper to catch onto the right front bumper of the other car throwing the car Davison's were driving in out of control and landing it on the top. Mr. Davison received cuts about the head and Finton received a cut on the arm. Mrs. Davison and Mrs. Clara Gates received no cuts but were badly shaken up. Mrs. Norford Gates was taken to the hospital as her injuries were the most serious and Dr. Davison has received word that she has been removed to her home.

Will Buy Used Bags

Many customers have asked the N. I. C. A. to locate a market for good used feed bags as huge stocks of them are accumulating on the farms. We cannot use these bags at the N. I. C. A. Mill and do not want them brought to the feed department of our plant.

We have located a mill in another section of Indiana making dairy feeds that is wanting used Banner Mash bags and Bran, Midds, Meat Scraps etc. providing they are clean and free from holes.

We have arranged for our customers with used feed bags to bring them to the west entrance of our building Material Building. Bags will be received from Saturday July 22 to Saturday July 29 inclusive and none will be received after that date.

Tie your bags in a bundle, place tags thereon showing your name and the number of bags brought to the Lumber Shed. Judging from present market conditions bags should net the farmers about three cents each. Money from the bags should reach Mentone two weeks after Bags are shipped and upon its arrival proper distribution will be made to the farmers. Bring on your feed bags and we will turn them into as much money for you as we possibly can.

POWERS CLOTHING STORE IN WARSAW CELEBRATING ITS 37TH ANNIVERSARY

In this issue of The Co-Op News
the Powers Clothing Store announces an anniversary sale, the store having been founded in Warsaw thirty-seven years ago.

This store was opened in 1896 by Charles F. Nye in the old State Bank building on S. Buffalo street. In 1910
Fred Powers bought the store from Mr. Nye and operated it until his death in 1915, after which Mrs.
Powers conducted the business until 1928, when the store was sold to H. P.
Fletcher of Fort Wayne and four of his associates. In July, 1931, the store was purchased by the present owner, Hugh B. Hiron, who had been associated with the Patterson-
Fletcher Company of Fort Wayne for twenty-three years before coming to Warsaw. It is one of Warsaw's old merchantile establishments.

Portraits in Profile

The history of portraits in profile would comprise large volumes, for it goes back many centuries and is traced to many countries. It existed in medieval Persia in the Sixteenth century; profile portraits have been found early in the Far East; in the Nile valley excavations; in old Italian burial grounds, and so on. In a notable collection there is a fine silhouette of Goethe, the poet.

OCEAN DEPTHS GIVE UP RARE CREATURES

Show Evolution Wrought by Struggle for Survival.

Washington, D. C.—Under the tossing surface of the southern seas is an infernal world of everlasting darkness inhabited by multitudes of curious creatures which exist almost altogether by the laws of claw and talon.

Such is the picture of conditions a few hundred fathoms below the surface of the Puerto Rico Deep, the deepest part of the Atlantic ocean, as they were found by Dr. Paul Bartsch, Smithsonian Institution biologist who led the Johnson-Smithsonian deep-sea expedition which has just returned to Washington. Some of the creatures brought back by Bartsch, many of them believed new to science, are grotesque beyond the reaches of a nightmare.

Many Strange Forms.

As the collection is unpacked more and more strange forms of fishes, crustaceans and mollusks are revealed which, while closely related to surface forms, differ weirdly because of their utterly different environment.

Countless generations ago their ancestors, driven by quest of food, abandoned the familiar sunlit world for the perpetual night of the abyssal depths, where the temperature never rises above freezing. Then, with each family, it was a case of survival of the fittest—variation of form and structure to fit the environment.

Consequently there have emerged from this fierce struggle for survival creatures mostly conspicuous for their defensive and offensive equipment.

Among the weirdest specimens brought back by Bartsch was a shrimp with long, razorlike claws which fold up after the fashion of a razor. Any small creature that came within striking distance of those "razors" probably would be an immediate victim. In the collection are strange mollusks with shells like corkscrews and eels like darning needles but with long, sharp beaks. One of the most curious creatures found was a shrimp which burrows far into the interior of sticks of water-soaked wood for protection.

Food in "Cold Storage."

The reason the great depths are inhabited, Bartsch explained, is because of the sinking of vast numbers of dead organisms from the surface which, once they are below the freezing point, are preserved in perpetual cold storage. They furnish an enormous supply of "fresh meat." It is possible that surface animals followed this surely downward and gradually became adapted to the depths.

With this strange environment and living without any mitigating circumstances by the law of "eat or be eaten," the creatures developed forms which might be suitable to fabulous animals of another planet.

Considerable new light on fundamental laws of life is expected to develop from this systematic study of animals living and dying under such stygian conditions so different from anything known at the surface.

Mussolini's "Balilla"

Plan Growing Rapidly

Rome.—The "Balilla" movement of Fascist children, between eight and twelve, now numbers 3,176,000. In 1928, it was 1,200,000. The movement is supposed to emphasize study, physical education and patriotism.

Fascists regard it as the keystone to the whole political and economic edifice laboriously built up. It is the school for the Fascist of tomorrow, the reservoir for soldiers, officials, politicians and the vast quantity of state servants required under a highly centralized system like Fascism.

The report of the growth of the movement shows that at the end of 1932 the balilla corps, which now includes girls as well as boys, while totaling 3,176,612 members of whom 3,149,125 were regularly inscribed and possessed membership cards contained 1,430,000 boy balillas, 1,186,569 piccole Italiane, or little Italian girls, 439,871 Vanguard lads and 119,769 young Italian girls (Giovani Italiane). The latter are girls of fourteen to sixteen.

The figures reveal the great growth of the movement among the girls of the country.

A Dog Bites the Man

So Man Bites the Owner

Washington.—Havert Lee Phifer, negro, didn't like it, he explained, when he went to Mike Deep's store, because Mike's dog was always biting him. He didn't have a dog of his own to sick on Mike, so he settled things his own way.

First he bit Mike in the hand. When Patrolman H. A. Lord arrived, Phifer bit him, too.

Phifer explained it all in police court, but was sentenced to serve 60 days in jail, pay $10 for being drunk and $5 for disorderly conduct.

WORLD WAR

BY "YARNS"
LIEUT. FRANK E. HAGAN

Valiant Trenchermon All

The dense blackness of a night in northern France and a rapidly changing front line are credited with supplying a detachment of the Twenty-eighth Infantry with a delightful and unexpected meal in the fall of 1918.

From out of the darkness that night a German field kitchen, bearing food, coffee, cigars and cigarettes for 100 men, drove innocently to a battalion p. c. of the Twenty-eighth. It began to unload.

A roly-poly German cook was deeply chagrined when he learned the American front lines had been mistaken for his own. His only consolation was the knowledge that not even an enemy can hate you thoroughly if you bring him food.

The 25 Americans of the detachment prepared to set upon the food when a lieutenant popped from his nearby hole. He warned that this probably was a plot and that the German rations must be filled with poison for the Americans.

Among those disappointed at this alarm were the Germans. They were prepared to make the best of a bad situation by assisting in eating the food. As soon as the lieutenant popped into his hole again the fat German cook volunteered to taste the slum, coffee and other edibles he had brought along, as evidence of good faith.

This solved the difficulty. The Germans were permitted a taste only. Then the rations intended for 100 of the enemy disappeared before the determined onslaught of 25 Yanks.

New Publication Tells Story of Liming Soils

"Liming Indiana Soils" is the title of a new publication of the Agricultural Extension Department of Purdue University, prepared by M. O. Pence, in which the results of extensive experiments on liming are available.

That lime is not a fertilizer, but rather an acid neutralizer, is pointed out, and its use is becoming increasingly important due to Indiana soils becoming more acid each year.

Proper liming of acid soils should last from 7 to 15 years is pointed out, and soils that have produced good legumes in the past but are now failing to do so, need lime.

Information is contained in this leaflet on how to determine whether soil needs liming, and the proper kind and amount of lime to use. Copies can be procured free of charge by writing to Purdue University, Agricultural Extension Department, Lafayette, Indiana.

The Mill handles the Mid-West Agricultural lime, and there is none better to be had. Ask the manager for "Light Liming" folder.

HAS SITTING BULL'S OWN STORY OF LIFE

Museum Claims Hieroglyphs Bear His Signature.

Washington, D. C.—Curious documents relating to Sitting Bull, the celebrated chieftain who generally is held responsible for the so-called "Custer massacre," are being studied by the bureau of American ethnology of the Smithsonian Institution.

The story of this colorful Indian leader is now arousing exceptional interest in Europe. Numerous inquiries have lately been received from France, England, and Germany.

The bureau has one manuscript which bears strong internal evidence of being an original and hitherto unknown hieroglyph autobiography prepared by Sitting Bull himself. Matthew W. Stirling, chief of the bureau, is now investigating the authenticity of this manuscript which, if it actually was prepared by the chief, shows him to have been a skillful artist.

Autobiography in Pictures.

It is well known that the great Sioux leader wished to leave an authentic story of his life. Shortly after the Civil war he prepared his first "autobiography" in pictures. He could not write his name at this time but authenticated each drawing with his hieroglyph signature, a conventionalized picture of a sitting bull. He gave the original manuscript to his brother, Jumping Bull, who as the story reaches Mr. Stirling—allowed two copies to be made of it by an Indian named, Four Horns.

The bureau of American ethnology has one of these reputed copies. The other is believed to have been destroyed in the San Francisco fire. No trace ever has been found of the original. The copy owned by the Smithsonian is mounted on sheets of an 1868 muster roll of the Thirty-first Infantry regiment and evidently was made for one of its officers. It consists of 55 pictures, each illustrating some incident in Sitting Bull's life from his first fight to his leadership of the Band of Strong Hearts.

The bureau also has Sitting Bull's own interpretation of these pictures, given to Rev. J. C. Williamson, a missionary, in which he vouched that all but a few of them were copies of his originals. He believed at that time that Jumping Bull had interpolated a few incidents out of his own life.

Sitting Bull's "Coups."

The character of the man himself stands out in these pictures. Nearly all of them relate to personal combats with Crow or Gros Ventre Indians or white soldiers. Many of these fights ended with the scalp of his opponent hanging from Sitting Bull's saddle. But he was even prouder of his "coups" than of the scalps he had taken. His object was to touch the enemy with his "coup stick" and get away. In accord with the tradition of his people, this life of constant killing and scalping was a game for Sitting Bull and every "coup" added one to his score. He esteemed a "coup" about as much as a scalp.

It is as an object of comparison that the bureau's manuscript stands out. It bears the date of 1882. Instead of the hieroglyphic signature the pictures bear the written signature of Sitting Bull—a peculiar, child-like scrawl. It has been verified that before 1882 Sitting Bull had learned to write his name and was rather proud of the accomplishment.

Specimens of the old chief's signature have been preserved. Comparison with the signatures on the drawings shows that if the latter are forgeries they are very clever ones—reproducing minute mannerisms. But, asks Mr. Stirling, why should anybody have gone to such trouble to forge the name of Sitting Bull in 1882? At that time he was "just another Indian." It would have been a very far-sighted person who could have predicted that some day an authentic autobiography by him would constitute an almost priceless historical document. On the whole, it is believed, the evidence points to the authenticity of the newly discovered document.

Nuisance May Become

Source of New Industry

Minneapolis, Minn.—The aspen growth of the Northwest, hitherto regarded as a nuisance by farmers, may become the source of a new industry and give Minnesota a new source of income.

Experiments conducted at the University of Minnesota under the auspices of Ralph E. Montonna, associate professor of chemistry, show that a high grade of alpha cellulose can be made from the aspen. Alpha cellulose is used in the manufacture of cellophane and rayon fabric.

The research was conducted as part of the rehabilitation program instituted last summer by Lotus D. Coffman, president of the University of Minnesota.

U. S. GOVERNMENT GREATEST BANKER

Runs Fifty-two Financing Institutions With Investment of Two Billion Dollar—Thirty-nine Agricultural

AMERICA'S biggest banker today is the Federal Government, which is now operating fifty-two financing institutions, says Professor John Hanna of Columbia University in the American Bankers Association Journal.

"Forty of these are owned entirely by the Government," he says. "In twelve more the Government has already a two-thirds interest. Thirty-seven are intended to be permanent. Twenty-five of the permanent ones and fourteen of the temporary ones are agricultural.

"The capital stock held by the United States in these banks has a par value of $1,380,000,000. The Government's total investment is nearly $2,000,000,000. Resources of these institutions exceed $3,000,000,000. In addition the Government has detailed supervision over fifty-one mortgage banks, operating under Federal charter.

"The Government also supervises 4,600 local agricultural loan associations with Federal charters. All this takes no account of the relations of the Government to the twelve Federal Reserve banks, nor of the authority recently given to the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to buy preferred stock in national and state commercial banks."

The President has ordered the consolidation of the agricultural credit agencies into the new Farm Credit Administration, says Professor Hanna. He expresses the opinion that before the consolidation of the agricultural financing agencies too much machinery had been created to administer the financing institutions which the Government either owns or supervises.

"Existing institutions represent a considerable differentiation of function and any consolidations should be preceded by a careful survey of the actual activities of the various institutions," he continues. "The only consolidation the Administration has announced is that of the agricultural credit agencies in the Farm Credit Administration. As a permanent solution this arrangement is too closely bound up with politics.

"A better scheme would be to create a finance corporation under Federal charter to take over either the agricultural finance activities of the Government or all its lending agencies.

"The Government's financing and banking activities should be kept severely apart from subsidy and other schemes for raising the prices of farm products. One is business, the other is major political policy. The advantages of the corporation over bureau control for the business functions are real and significant."

GIRL SCOUT NEWS

The surprise! What was it? Oh that's right, Miss Mentzer promised the Girl Scouts a surprise and she fulfilled it on July 5. Upon our arrival at the schoolhouse we were told that it was a treasure hunt, and unprepared as we were we rallied our troops and our brains to meet the occasion. First we each found a slip of paper which read "Baa, baa, black sheep," some extremely brilliant young lady discovered that it intended for us to go to the sheep shed behind the schoolhouse. There we found other notes which read "Mary, Mary quite contrary how does your garden grow. So we treaded the path for Miss Greulach's flower garden. We had some trouble finding these notes which read "Hot cross buns" so we chased ourselves down to Burns.

Then after discovering their notes some of the girls conceived the idea of visiting "Old King Cole" thus they began the wild goose chase down to the home of Mrs. Cole the wife of that merry old soul in the nursery rhyme. Then upon finding more notes we meandered through the hot, dry and often spookey cemetery, shambled over the style, hopped over Little Crow River and made a dash for a tree which obligingly spread its branches to cover us with its shade. We then disturbed its peace and calm by singing songs. Upon being asked if we were superstitious we made various answers consisting of yes, no and mabee-so. We each made a wish and tried to sail a lighted candle on a cardboard down the creek, the object being for it to get out of our sight before it went under. Only two survived the danger so there are many of us who are worried. After this heartbreaking accident we ran over the hills and away forgetting our previous sorrows and the head to many lavens of rest.

A wreck! Honest to goodness! Two trains ran together at the schoolhouse July 12 killing Ruth Rush and Jean Burns also many received broken arms, sprained ankles, cinders into their eyes and some grew faint from loss of blood. Now please don't get nervous because we had the accident happen for a purpose. It was becoming necessary that the Girl Scouts learn first aid and anyone can tell you that someone has to be injured before first aid can be practiced upon them. Therefore these two trains were very obliging and furnished us with patients. I am very sorry to say though, that if it had been a real serious accident I fear there would have been more than two dead people before the injured were patched up in the correct way.
