* Robinson Crusoe Did Advertise

Robinson Crusoe wanted a ship, he tied his shirt to an elm snag in a conspicuous place on the coast, the lookout on the passing ship saw his ad and Crusoe got the ship he advertised for. Could you imagine Crusoe in business in this community and not advertising in the Co-Op News which goes into 1000 homes in this vicinity, homes of substantial people who are the type of buyers an advertiser wishes to reach, each family containing lookouts reading ads in one of the 4 county papers or one of the small town papers, 8 in all in all, of his territory covered by the Co-Op News.

My friend of the Co-Op News has been sending his copy to a friend in another state. In a recent letter from his out of state friend he said this paragraph. "The advertisements in a newspaper are said to be a mirror reflecting the business life of the town in which the paper is published, therefore since reading the Co-Op News Mentone, Indiana I infer their only business places are a Co-Op. Mill, a Chevrolet Garage, a Furniture Store, two Morticians and a man selling cemetery lots. Please let me know if Old Mentone has let other towns reduce her to that."

Advertisements in Mentone Papers built the Co-Op Mill business and now brings hundreds to their Mentone plant each week, also the egg cars draw people to Mentone in steady streams all day every Saturday and strange to say a large percent of these folks make a special trip elsewhere for their household supplies.

To the best of our ability we send all these folks the Co-Op News they read the ads and also the ads from some of the 4 county seat papers and buyers from towns North, East, South and West of Mentone and from these ads they select their supplies.

The Co-Op News believe these good roads leading out of Mentone are good roads leading into Mentone and anything advertising has drawn from here can be brought back in large volume by advertising.

One thousand families appreciate the Co-Op News and know its visits are made possible by its advertisers and they give them every possible preference and it is right they should as they make this paper possible.

Read the ads in this paper and don't overlook that big Hill & Lemler ad. That ad makes possible the placing of more names on our mailing list and that no family be missed we will place extra copies at the Hill & Lemler Store for your neighbors who have been borrowing yours. Tell them about it.

News items may be left for the paper at Hill & Lemler Store. Bring yours in. This paper started as a monthly and may be a weekly giving this community the church, school, business, social and sport news, a paper publishing all our worth while events, a true servant of the people in the community and you can speed the approach of that time by giving your business to the Co-Op News advertisers.

We appeal to you folks going to other towns to trade. Give our advertisers a chance. Many of you have expressed desires to buy quality merchandise in Mentone at county seat prices. Don't forget volume makes prices, price makes volume, they are inseparable. This community has an opportunity to lead in this other line, to once again be pioneers and show the rest of the State the way. All can play a part. Hill & Lemler however great their efforts, however good their merchandise, however low their prices can only do half, necessary customers must do the rest. We believe Hill & Lemler will do their part, we believe our readers will do their part. Together Lets Go.

PSI IOTA XI

The regular business meeting of Beta Epsilon Chapter of Psi Iota Xi Sorority was held Friday evening at the home of Miss Kathleen Anderson. Mrs. Helen Hoffer and Miss Annabel Mentzer the delegates to the convention at Potawatomi Inn Lake James gave a report on the convention. It was decided to have a picnic in two weeks with each member bringing a guest.

ANNUAL PICNIC

The Northern Indiana Co-operative Association held its second annual picnic in Beechwood Park, Hoffman Lake July 4. There was a very good attendance consisting of stockholders, customers and friends of the association. At the noon hour a co-operative dinner was enjoyed by all present. Needless to say it was really enjoyed. Immediately following the dinner free ice cream was served to all.

After the tables had been cleared of the dinner debris all were gathered together for a short program. A group of five men from a twelve piece orchestra who were camping on the grounds were kind enough to favor us with several selections after which a reading was given by Mrs. Lloyd Minor. The following co-operative song was sung by the Rush sisters which brought smiles to the faces of many in the crowd.

Show me the way to Mentone
And the good old Co-op mill
Where I can buy any kind of feed
And give my stock a fill I've shopped in other towns
Where prices make you moan
But I came back to the Co-op mill
In the good old town Mentone.

Show me another town
The size of old Mentone
That can boast an enterprise
Half as large and all their own
Now all you farmer friends
When you want to buy some feed
Will find we have some other things
That you might chance to need.

Show me the way to Mentone
And the good old Co-op Mill
Where prices don't blow off your hat While you are standing still
And they will treat you square
As everyone will own
So come to the mill and spend your dough

In the good old town; in the good old town;

In the good old town Mentone.

Attorney J. E. Headley of Warsaw was the speaker for the afternoon and Mr. Headley being the attorney for the association felt closely connected with his audience. He stressed the point of loyalty and that all persons who were members of any organization or association should always be loyal booster for that particular organization or association. Mr. Headleys talk closing the program the crowd departed to spend the remainder of the day as they chose. The picnic committee elected for the next year consisted of M. R. Rush, J. W. Swick and H. A. Weissert.

Ice Cream Supper

Friends and members of the Mentone Church of Christ gathered at Kelly's landing at Yellow Creek Lake Thursday evening June 28 for an ice cream supper. About 80 people were present and a very enjoyable social time was had by all present. The party was given in the honor of the following: Mrs. A. J. Bauchman and daughter, Emma Jean, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Fussell and son Clyde Jr. of Dickson, Tenn., Mr. and Mrs. Nicely and daughter Virginia, Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Craddock and Mrs. Albert Childers of Huntington, West Virginia.

Colored Team Defeats Mentone

At the base ball game on the local grounds, Sunday, the fast stepping Michigan City colored base ball team defeated Mentone by a score of 10 to 7.

From start to finish it was a game of thrills and both aggregations were at their best and played heads-up base ball—but it seems that every member of the visiting team had a rabbit foot in his pocket, and our boys were forced to accept the short end of the score.

The attendance was the best of the season, and the management will endeavor to bring other good clubs to Mentone in the near future.

For Sale:—Baled Wheat and Rye Straw. Also a McCormick Deering Binder. Mrs. Marie Busenburg, Telephone 6 on 27, Mentone, Indiana

C. M. Tucker Barn Damaged

Officers are investigating the bombing of the barn of C. M. Tucker, prominent farmer residing near Mentone which occurred at 2 o'clock last Wednesday morning. No person was injured.

The reason for the bombing is unknown as no agitators have been in Mentone and vicinity.

The bomb was a stick of dynamite encased in concrete and was placed at the south end of the barn.

All the windows were broken out and the siding was splintered. No person or stock was injured.

HOW--- AND ---WHY?

By "A Man About Town"

HOW

LETTER "C" OF ALPHABET
TOOK ON PRESENT FORM.

The letter C, which stands for two distinct sounds in our language, was in the beginning a symbol for a sound such as our "hard" g. This was the Semitic gimel and the Greek gamma. The form of the letter was developed from a round form of the early Corinthian and Chalcidic alphabets.

The g sound, or voiced velar stop, was changed by the Romans to the unvoiced stop, possibly as the result of Etruscan influence. The Etruscan alphabet, however, sprang from the same source as the Greek. Finally the new symbol G was used for the sound and the letter C replaced K as representing the unvoiced stop sound. Later influences caused the addition of the second sound, the unvoiced sibilant, which is identical with the letter S. This came as a development of the sound which had formerly been represented by ts. Other uses of the letter C, such as the redundant ck, are grammatical developments of early and modern English.—Chicago Tribune.

How the Ever Popular Broom Is Manufactured

The material used in manufacturing the ordinary and family household broom is broom corn, a variety of sorghum grown extensively in the Mississippi valley and particularly in Kansas and Oklahoma. The broom corn is graded, the rougher portions, called under-working, being tied (with wire) first around the foot of the handle; the medium quality, called self-working, next, and then the outer layer of the best quality, called hurl. The broom thus formed is conical. It is given its usual flattened shape by squeezing it in a vise and, while thus held, sewing it through and through with twine. A special broom for heavy use has a metal band placed around it while in the vise, and is sewn with wire through the band, the handle being brought down low enough to be circled with this wire stitching.

WHY

White Design in Printed Goods Drops Into Holes

What's the cause when the white design in a printed fabric drops into holes? "It is a 'discharge' print," say textile experts, "and the bleach used in making the white figures was too strong. If you want wearing quality, you have to know your prints when you are buying yard goods or ready-made dresses."

The woman who buys a cheap printed silk is just out of luck. For one thing she doesn't know that most dark fabrics with small white figures or dots are made by discharge printing. First the fabric is a plain dark color all over. Then great rollers apply a paste to the fabric to bleach out the dye in certain places and make the little white figures stand out against the dark background. On printed fabrics of this type the design is the result of chemical action, not of wearing together white and dark yarns.

If the bleach is not too strong or if it is properly neutralized, no harm is done to the fabric. But if the work is not expertly and honestly done, then the white places in the cloth are so tender that they become holes very soon after the fabric is put into use.

This may happen on cotton or silk fabrics, with a discharge printed design. Consumers have sent silk dresses and even handkerchiefs with such defects to the home economics specialists in the Department of Agriculture.

Why North Pole Is Not as Cold as at Equator

If you were looking for a colder place than the North pole, you certainly would not go to the equator to find it, would you? As contrary to fact as the statement may seem to be, unless you did this very thing your quest would end in disappointment. Meteorologists have found that it is actually colder at the equator than it is at the North pole! For proof of this scientists journeyed to the tropics and from a position on the equator, they sent up sounding balloons equipped with meteorological instruments.

At heights six or seven miles above the equator the instruments registered a temperature that was 20 degrees lower than that of a similar altitude over the Arctic regions. As an explanation of this phenomenon it is suggested that the re-radiation of heat from the surface of the earth at the equator is retarded by humid air.—Montreal Herald.

Where Repentance Is Strong

Like other South Sea Islanders, the Maoris believe in the tapu, or tabu. They are taught not to touch the things that are forbidden, and if the tapu is broken the transgressor suffers great agony of mind. Some have died in agony after learning that they had eaten some food that was forbidden.

May Produce Sturdier Cattle

A sturdy breed of cattle, able to exist without grass, may be necessary in the future when the growing population encroaches upon the present great cattle ranges. The inhabitants of South Africa have a breed which came through the recent two-year drought in fine shape by being able to live on leaves of such desert bushes as could be found. These Afrikanders, as they are called, have now been introduced to Texas and their adaptation to the climate of the Southwest is being watched with great interest.

Employment of Prisoners

It is estimated that approximately 500,000 prisoners are confined each year in municipal and county jails and work houses in the United States. According to a warden in a New Jersey penitentiary, lack of employment for inmates is the most undesirable condition in any penal institution, opportunity, through lack of occupation, being given them to plan further crimes to be perpetrated when they shall be free. It also tends to make them economical failures through long habits of loitering about in cells. He advocates the development of idle lands, food growing and preparation and other industrial programs for all prisoners.

Stone Age Tools "Modern"

In the matter of efficiency, says the American Museum of Natural History, the tools of the Stone age were not far behind our own before the mechanical improvements of recent years. Doctor Nelson, curator of prehistoric archeology, as a test, felled a four-inch maple tree with a flint ax in six minutes. A further experiment was made some years ago in Denmark by a landowner who built from his own timber a block house involving the felling of 25 eight-inch trees with a flint ax, and his labors left the flint undulled. The entire building, made with Stone age tools throughout, was completed in 93 days.

Girl Scout News

Oh, at last! We have now won the right to receive our Home Nurse badges and listen, we are supposed to wear these badges on our left sleeve! Won't that look grand? Perhaps you would be interested to know a few of the things we must know and demonstrate to pass the requirements. Make an ordinary bed in hospital fashion, clean a room occupied by a sick person, make an occupied bed, change a night gown, place a backrest, help a patient to a chair, support patient while drinking, fill and apply a hot water bottle, show application of cold compresses to the head and eyes and show how to prepare a patient for meals. Supposing the doctor ordered the patient to drink eggnog, would you know how to prepare it? How about making junket? Milk toast or a fruit drink? These are a few of the things that our very capable examiner, Mrs. Oliver Teel taught us.

Let me whisper a secret—any Scout can assure you that Peanie Swick simply loves egg on toast! Also—can you imagine drinking jello? Well, that is exactly what these extraordinary Scouts did, they drank jello! We ask you, what next will they think of to do?

Our Captain, Rosalind Mentzer, described us for a few weeks to take a course in Home Ec. at Purdue, leaving us under the guiding direction of Lieutenant, Eileen Mullenhour. We received a very interesting letter from "Captain Rosie" telling about her adventures in the great University.

The Focahonters Patrol is working diligently on the Minstrel badges and we are all anxious to discover what sort of a program they are preparing.

It seems that the Sacajawea's are intent upon preparing for the future. They are going to pass their Housekeeper badge at the next meeting. Do you know how to store blankets or woolen clothing to safeguard against moths? Can you treat ink, berry, tar, grass or coffee stains? We must also learn how to clean an ice box or mechanical refrigerator.

We had to postpone our overnight hike because of bad weather and now we must wait patiently for the return of our Captain. Won't it be fun to camp out in the woods? Our enthusiasm has not been dampened by the dire predictions of our parents who tell us that we will get scared by an owl and run home before the night is over and that the bugs, snakes and mosquitos will not make our trip pleasant.

The American Legion Auxilliary entertained the Girl Scouts who sold poppies, to a picnic at Center Lake.

Authentic amber can be easily detected—its magnetic property appears after friction. The Greeks knew it as "electron," from which we derive our word "electricity."

PREHISTORIC BEAST WAS MANY YEARS OLD

A hitherto unknown South American prehistoric animal of large size and most unusual physical characteristics, which appears to have been one of the greatest killers of its time, some 2,000,000 years ago, has been introduced to the scientific world.

The animal was discovered in the Argentinian province of Catamarca by Prof. E. S. Riggs while leader of the Marshall Field Paleontological expedition to Argentina, and the skulls and parts of skeletons of the species brought by this expedition are the only specimens known in the world to date. Like the well-known sabertooth tiger which died out a few thousand years ago, the new animal had long pointed tusks that must have made it a formidable attacker, but its further peculiarity lies in the fact that it carried its young in a pouch like such marsupial animals as the opossum and kangaroo. It has therefore been named marsupial sabertooth. It was larger than a modern mountain lion of North America. Its head was massive.

The sabertooth marsupial lived in South America long before the sabertooth tiger which represented the cat family in most parts of the world, reached that continent. Among the contemporary creatures of the world inhabited by the newly discovered fossil animal were the giant sloths and the armored glyptodonts, upon which the sabertooth marsupial may have preyed.

Most Private Planes in U. S.

The United States leads the world in the number of private airplanes. Last year there were more than 1,200 machines in the country. France had 1,387, but this included many used for instruction and owned by clubs. France has the largest number of commercial planes, according to population, one to every 100,000 inhabitants. The United States has one for every 500,000, Italy one for every 400,000 and Germany one for every 150,000.

Girl Scout News

Scout Scribe

Or is it jungle news? We have a perfect jungle right here in this civilized community. Can you imagine it? Tuesday of this last week we divided the Scouts into parts. Those who stayed at home and those who went away? No, not quite because the stay-at-homes refused to do so. The more advanced group under Rosalind Mentzer was working on its first class test so they decided to pass their map making. The other group had not as yet passed their second class as they were sent over to work on their nature under the supervision of Thais Greulach.

Perhaps you remember what a lovely sun we had shining down upon us Tuesday. Well, under this awful sunlight (Don't think we're being sarcastic) we set out to examine the country side with "Miss Rosie". The gang, for there were plenty of us, set out for the west creek bridge but we stopped frequently to wipe off specks of moisture but it wasn't raining. Before we reached the bridge we interrupted our march to invade the peace and quiet of the Borton home to demand water. Perhaps you have heard the verse "Water, water everywhere but not a drop to drink" That's how we felt but a Scout never gives up hope and we found water. After we had frightened this peace loving family to death with our invading army we continued on our way.

Now let me explain, please. We were on an observation tour for our map. In making this map we must use a compass to determine our directions and we must also count our paces (steps) so that our map will be accurate. We walk a little way in a certain direction and when we get ready to turn we must stop to determine the next direction and then we must locate some definite object such as a tree to the right and left of us so that we can draw it on the map. Then we write on paper the direction, the number of paces, the object to right and left and from this slip of paper we will later draw our map to scale with gradations and rulers. Now that you understand our method I will continue this narrative.

We counted our paces down to the creek bridge. From there we crossed the bridge and turned north following the creek. Now if any of you have ever used a compass you will know that its hard work to keep asking that compass what direction we're going in and when you draw it down to such fine points as: Are we going northwest or north by northwest? Or are we going east by northeast or just northeast its not easy. Now the really difficult part of this hike was that we had to keep counting paces, you know this 1-2-3-4-55 etc. Well, you see there are a few of us that are rather talkative and we found it unusually hard to keep from commenting on different topics. We passed on down through Smiths pasture field and came to a fence so we climbed through. (Why not? That's what fences are for) Now came the jungle! How I could weep and moan when I think of it. First came poison ivy. That's a little plant with deep sting and perhaps you have sometime came in contact with it. We dreamed, upon seeing the ivy, of spending the rest of our lives scratching. Here Africa began and it will always haunt me. We scrambled over bushes and briars, over logs and down cliffs, through sand and past nettles. (Oh, for a life on the briny deep where there are no such things) We went through underbrush and overbrush and managed to survive scars and sprained ankles and don't forget that we were counting paces. We bent double to avoid passing limbs and when we came to a log across the path, over which we had to climb, we found the passage blocked, for Mary was sitting on the log. There was one pleasure we found on this excursion. Its funny but this was the first time we ever went to Africa that we didn't find the place flooded with snakes. I guess they saw our faces and got scared out. Now we know how an oasis looks to a weary and thirsty traveler for after a little more jungle we came to a road and how good it looked. Then we journeyed back to town.

During this great but hot adventure the other group was enjoying the refreshing Greulach shade and listening to lectures on the different kinds of flowers and plants and parts of a flower. Really that work is interesting and educational. How handy that knowledge will come in this fall when we keep Biology notebooks. Miss Greulach certainly knows her plants, too.

What mammoth plans we make. Let us assure you that we do use our heads. Its almost like a fish story. The huger the plan the better we like it.

By the way Scouting does come in handy for in our Scout work we learn first aid and on our way home from our map hike one of our Scouts found use for her knowledge in first aid and bandaging.

ATTENDS CONVENTION

Dale Kelly and Chester Manwaring returned Friday from the International Lions Convention held at Grand Rapids, Michigan. They report a very enthusiastic and profitable convention.

Delegates from five nations attended this gathering. The general atmosphere of the convention was one of international good-will and sympathy. One of the speakers stressed the fact that it is not so much the activity of ignorance that has caused all the strife and turmoil in the world today, as it is the laziness of intelligence.

The International Convention next year will be held at Mexico City.

HOW AND WHY?

HOW the present method of Standard Oil advertising benefits the large towns to the detriment of the small villages—

The Big Show put on at Warsaw recently was entirely at the expense of the Standard Oil Co., and brought people into that city for miles around. Warsaw business men were quick to take advantage of the situation and put on special sales etc., for the event, which of course was only a matter of good business on their part.

BUT on the other hand what was the effect of this advertising show on the business of the small towns surrounding Mentone? It is unnecessary for us to answer this question—our merchants all know.

WHY IS IT that the filling stations in the small towns do not protest against such methods and insist that they get their share of the advertising either in circulars or local newspaper advertising? Everyone of the large oil companies appropriate a certain amount of money each year for advertising, and this sum is spread evenly to cover every gallon which they sell. Hence every station pays its portion of the advertising bill, regardless of the fact of whether it receives any benefits from it or not.

HOW LONG will stations in the small towns submit to this discrimination? It looks to us that it is about time for the station owners in the small towns to insist that the advertising that they pay for be placed where it will do them some good—and not used for a show that benefits a few large towns only.

IF the station owner, when he starts handling the product of any oil company will insist that they do a reasonable amount of local advertising he will have no trouble in getting what he is paying for and entitled to.

WHY the Chevrolet Advertising. Dale Wallace the local agent realizing that every car paid its portion of the advertising bill, simply insisted that they do some local advertising and as a result this paper has carried several large advertisements of this company.

Naming Pennsylvania

Contrary to popular belief, Pennsylvania was not named for its Quaker founder, but in honor of his father, Admiral Sir William Penn. The elder Penn had loaned $30,000 to Charles II. King of England, claim to which unpaid loan was inherited by the son upon his father's death. In repayment the younger Penn asked for a "tract of land in America north of Maryland." The request was granted, writes G. R. Turner in the Kansas City Times, after which he wrote as follows to his friend, Robert Turner: "This day my country was confirmed to me under the great seal of England, with large powers and privileges, by the name of Pennsylvania, a name the king would give it in honor of my father."

A Real Hunger Strike

A big python at the St. Louis zoo has refused to eat a single meal since his arrival there some six years ago. This doesn't mean, however, that he hasn't had any food in that time. After the first two months refusal of food the curator decided to feed him by force and has continued to do so every six weeks since. On feeding day a crew of several men take the big snake from his cage and hold him while a length of fire hose is inserted in his throat through which 14 pounds of ground meat and bone is forced. Then the food is massaged along the body until it reaches the stomach where it is digested in about five days' time.—Pathfinder Magazine.

After lying helpless in his frozen clothing for 25 days, a blacksmith of Hildesheim, Germany, has recovered in a hospital. On his way home from Minden he fell into a stream and lost his bearings. Finding refuge in a shed he awoke the next morning to find his clothes frozen so hard he could not move. The shed was off the beaten path, and when he was found he weighed only 70 pounds, but still was breathing faintly. It was necessary to amputate one of his legs.

Pussy Stuck to Her Ship

When the drifter Cat's Eye sank after a collision with the Saltair near London recently, her crew of eight had to make a hurried climb for life to reach the Saltair's deck, but the Cat's Eye's mascot cat refused to desert the sinking vessel. After the ship went down the pussy was picked up by a tug.

Lenin's Body Well Preserved

The body of Lenin, lying in a glass-enclosed catafalque in Moskva, was pronounced in perfect condition after ten years by the two Soviet scientists who have been responsible for its preservation. No change has taken place in the facial expression or the natural color of the corpse.

Why We See Shooting Stars

Most meteors or "shooting stars" are 50 miles or more above the earth when we see them and are actually no larger than a rifle bullet. They become heated from the friction of the air and are burned out by the time they approach within 30 miles or so above the earth's surface. We do not see these small meteors, explains Dr. Ernest Opik, Harvard university astronomer, but really see the air atoms which are heated to the intensity of light along the path traveled by the meteor. This path is often many thousands of times wider than the meteor itself. Of course, it is but a matter of a second or so until the path has cooled and faded.—Pathfinder Magazine.

Why It Is "Portland" Cement

This has been the popular name of this kind of cement since 1824, when Joseph Aspdin, a bricklayer of Leeds, England, patented a process for its manufacture, explains G. R. Turner in the Kansas City Times. Aspdin mixed clay and lime in definite proportions, burned the mixture in a kiln, and pulverized the resulting hardened mass. He called the product "Portland cement," because it bore a resemblance to Portland stone, a famous building stone found on the Isle of Portland, off the coast of Dorsetshire in the south of England.

Why Ships Were Cut in Two

During our participation in the World war cargo ships were drawn from every possible source, even the Great Lakes, where there was a quantity of fresh water ships and men which were available after some preparation. Seamen, as well as ships, were brought from the lakes to the coast. Those ships which were too large to pass through the lock in the canals were cut in half, until they reached deep water, where they were joined together again.

Why Cards Are Faced Differently

The United States Playing Card Co gives the following explanation: Diamonds represented wealth; hearts, sentiment; clubs, power, and spades, death. King represented manhood; queen, womanhood, and Jack, youth. The kings desire wealth, sentiment and power, but turn their faces away from death; queens, the same; Jacks desire wealth and sentiment, but are too young to desire power, but turn their faces away from death.

Why Pillows Are Toward Engine

First, it drives the air currents toward the feet and this keeps the head and uncovered parts of the body out of the drafts. Second, the motion of the train is supposed to have some effect upon the circulation of the blood and by moving head foremost the blood is sent away from the head and toward the feet, which aids sleeping.

Why Spoon Saves Glass Breaking

When a metal knife or spoon is placed in a glass the metal conducts the heat away from the glass, often preventing it from expanding, so suddenly that it cracks.

 Reductions amounting to as much as $50—the most substantial price cuts announced in the low-price field this year—have dropped Chevrolet's base price to a new low figure of $465. Just compare this price—compare any Chevrolet price—with those of other cars. Then compare what you get for what you pay! There'll be no question in your mind which car to buy.

Chevrolet offers patented Knee-Action—and others do not! The same thing applies to Fisher body, cable-controlled brakes, Y-K frame, shock-proof steering, and 80-horsepower, valve-in-head six-cylinder engine. Yet the price of the Chevrolet Standard is lower than that of any other six or any eight in the world.

Aspen trees, once neglected by foresters and lumbermen are on the upward trend in the Lake States region, says the United States forest service. While aspens or "popple" as they are often collectively termed, are considered as rather soft, weak members of the forest family, they now are recognized as Nature's first gesture to quickly restock after a fire, and when the stand is not too dense, the popples become the nursery crop for growths of white and Norway pine.

Before the northwoods was cut and burned, aspens were inconspicuous, and all of the enormous area of aspens in the Lake states have followed the fires. In Michigan there are 5,000,000 acres alone of popple. While of prime value for game birds and deer, aspens do have commercial use as well. The wood is odorless and serves best for food containers, enters in match-making and is used for excelsior, while the better grades may be used for interior finishing of homes.

The seeds of the aspens are so light that it takes two or three million to make a pound. Consequently, they are carried long distances by the wind, and germinate almost immediately if they fall on moist ground. Aspens are rapid-growing and short-lived. Few reach the age of one hundred years.

London Minister Finds Hymns Sung Blindly

I have often wondered, writes Very Rev. Dr. C. A. Allington, dean of Durham, in the London Daily Telegraph, whether it is conservatism or sheer apathy which causes religious people to acquiesce so meekly in the curious words which are put into their mouths in church.

I am not thinking of hymns, for they are certainly improving, but of some of the Psalms which are occasionally quite meaningless. (Nor should it be forgotten that the semicolon after the sixth verse of the Benedictus causes us to demonstrate how little we think what we are singing.)

The prayer book version of the Psalms is a wonderful effort of genius, and it is difficult to be grateful enough to Coverdale for writing it, or to those who preferred it to the later version; but Coverdale was not infallible and his task was at times beyond him.

I will take only two instances from one of the best known Psalms, the sixty-eighth "Let God arise" and will first ask my readers what meanings they conceive to attach to the words, "Though ye have lien among the pots yet shall ye be as the wing of a dove?"

The verse is a reproach addressed to the Israelites who prefer peace to honor—"Will ye lie between the sheep-folds?"—and compares, apparently, their slothful ease with that of the dove, who basks in the sunshine, content with her own loveliness.

The other verse is that which catches the attention of every schoolboy—about "the company of the spearman and the multitude of the mighty, scattered abroad among the beasts of the people." Poor Coverdale must have frankly confessed that he was out of his depth.

Highway Called "Autostrade"

The building of roads reserved for motorists originated in Italy, and the word "Autostrade," coined for these concrete speedways, is being adopted by other countries. At present there are more than 153 miles of Italian autostrade used for heavy lorry traffic and also for speedy private cars. The first of these was completed in 1925 in the neighborhood of Milan, and there are now other "motor-only" highways near Rome, Naples and Florence, the latest being between Padua and Venice. The longest autostrade connects Genoa, Turin and Milan and is nearly 70 miles in length, says the Philadelphia Inquirer. High-speed motor roads have been frequently suggested for this country, but so far the government has been opposed to their construction.

Freight Cars to Buyer's Door

Freight may be carried from the main line of a German railroad to the purchaser's door in the same car in which it was shipped. This is accomplished by means of movable trucks weighing eight tons. The trucks are placed against the railway track so that the car may be shunted off of the main line and towed directly to the purchaser's door. Curves are taken by turning the car's 16 wheels mounted on movable axles.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

Everyone a Criminal

Mentone Club To Broadcast

Members Will Present Program Today From Station WTRC

Members and sponsors of the Mentone Steer Club had their first experience talking over the radio Monday morning at Elkhart. The call letters of this station are WTRC, wave length 1310 kilocycles. The broadcast began at 11:30 central standard time.

George Meyers, trustee of Harrison township, began the program with a discussion of why he instituted vocational agriculture as a course in the Mentone school. Following Mr. Myers Dale Kelley, principal, discussed what he thinks of agriculture. Then Mr. Burns, president of the local Lions' Club discussed "Why the Lions' Club is sponsoring the Steer Club at Mentone."

After these introductory talks, the following students were presented each giving a short talk: Harold Nelson, "Feeding of steers," Esther Kelley, "How a girl can benefit from belonging to a steer club"; Geraldine Nellans, "Preparation of a steer for show"; Lena Rush discussing "Trimming of feet of steers," and Donald Boggs concluded with a talk on "Judging steers."—Warsaw Times—Monday.

Dingo Destroys Others

The dingo is the only carnivorous animal found in Australia and exists on all other warm-blooded wild life. It is the one creature that assists the natives in keeping down the imported rabbit pest, but at the same time destroys many other forms of valuable animal life.

Slang Expressions

The slang expression "swell" first appeared in 1900, but was used in England much earlier than that, meaning a well-dressed man or a gentleman. Other slang phrases used in the period of the gay '30s expressing the same idea were bully, dandy and sometimes Jim-dandy.

INDUSTRY FEATURED AT STATE FAIR SEPT. 1-7

Indiana Board of Agriculture plans to make Industry a part of this year's State Fair.

Invitations have been extended to the 92 counties to organize State Fair industrial committees, whose duties will be to organize and prepare an exhibit representative of the County's industry.

"The average citizen has little conception of the many products that are made in Indiana, and I believe," said M. Clifford Townsend, Commissioner of Agriculture, "the bringing together of such a group of exhibits will not only prove of educational value to the public, but will be profitable to the industries represented and will stimulate an interest in their local community."

Thirty-five counties have already organized such communities and are now busy contemplating plans for an exhibit.

This will undoubtedly prove one of the interesting features of this year's Fair. The Manufacturers' Building has recently been repainted and redecorated. It is hoped at the opening of the Fair many of the counties will be represented.

E. Curtis White, Indianapolis, Ind., Director of the Indiana Board of Agriculture is in charge of the general plan.

Announcement Party Is Held

A delightful announcement party was held Friday evening by members and guests of the Psi Iota Xi sorority of Mentone at the city park in Warsaw. A delicious potluck supper was served at 6 o'clock. In the center of the table was a miniature lake, on which were several tiny boats. Each member and guest received a boat, which contained the announcement of the coming marriage of Miss Louise Black of Mentone and William J. Chinworth of Warsaw. At the close of the evening, ice cream was served.

NOTICE

We wish to express our sincere thanks and appreciation to our many neighbors and friends who presented us with a cow and calf to replace the cow we had killed by lightning. Mr. and Mrs. James Cheviron

The Head Hunters of Ohio
In view of the criminality of most of the early squatters on Ohio soil, and escaped criminals who would not stop on the frontier of Ohio but go to the savages and bring them back to murder and rob the legitimate settlers.
General Wilkinson in 1792 issued orders that if any soldier deserted in the direction of the Indians' scouts were to pursue him and bring back his head.
For such service the scouts received $40. With the general's order was this grim comment: "One head topped off in this way and set upon a pole in the parade might do lasting good in the way of deterring others."

First Use of Gas in War
The earliest recorded use of suffocating gases in military operations was at the siege of the cities of Plataea and Bellum in the war between the Athenians and the Spartans, about 431 B. C. Here sulphur was burned and the fumes were employed to harass the enemy.

How Horse Names Are Chosen

The owners submit names to the Jockey Club Register. All names are subject to the approval of the stewards of the jockey club. No name which has been used within the past fifteen years can be duplicated. No word can be used which might be construed as sacrilegious; all names of famous persons are barred, except with written permission. The primary idea in naming a thoroughbred is that the cognomen should be suitable for a noble animal and that, if possible, it should have some connection philologically, historically, or practically with sire and dam, or at least with one of them.

How Jacobins Received Name

Jacobins was the most famous of the clubs of the first French revolution.
When the states-general assembled at Versailles in 1789 it was formed and called the Club Breton. On the removal of the court and national assembly to Paris it acquired importance and rapidly increased. It adopted the name of Societe des Amis de la Constitution, but as it met in a hall of the former Jacobin (Dominican) convent in Paris it was called the Jacobin club.
After the fall of the monarchy in September, 1792, it called itself Societe des Jacobins, Amis de la Liberte et de l'Egalite.

How Eskimos Told Time

The Smithsonian Institution says that before influenced by the advent of white civilization the Eskimo had neither a systematized method of telling time nor a monetary system, or its equivalent. They were, of course, cognizant of the phases of the moon, as are almost all primitive peoples, and of the difference in the length of the day in summer and winter, but this was about as far as their knowledge of chronometry went. As for money, barter was the only method of exchange known to them.

How Possessions Are Ruled

The territories, and also the Virgin islands, are controlled by the Department of the Interior through the office of the chief clerk. The Philippine islands and Puerto Rico are governed by the bureau of insular affairs of the War department. American Samoa and Guam are governed by the Navy department, through the office of island governments. The Canal Zone is a military reservation and is administered by the War department, through the independent office of the Panama canal.

How to Break in Pipe

A mild tobacco should be smoked slowly in it. The pipe should not be lit with a lighter, as it has more tendency to burn the inside of the bowl than when lighted with a match. The tobacco should be taken out after each smoking and the pipe left dry. It is essential that the pipe be allowed to rest a day after being smoked. A person should have at least two pipes in order that he can allow the one to remain unused for a day.

To Egg Shippers

A number of the wives of egg shippers tried our suggestion to make out an order for the staple groceries needed and have the Mr. leave the same at our store when he brings the egg shipment in each Saturday, then after he gets the eggs loaded he can drop around at our store and the order will be ready for him, first class goods and the prices will be fully as low as can be had in Mentone or any neighboring towns.

This plan gives the lady of the family more time in which to do her other shopping. Remember we guarantee our prices to be right and the goods the very best.

To make it convenient to make out a order we print a list of leading staples below—just write amount wanted at the end of the item, and we will do the rest.
