4H CLUB

The Loyal Workers held their meeting at the home of the Misses Maury Beth and Hope Deaton, Tuesday June 25, with sixteen members present. The drop in attendance was due to a Young Peoples Rally held at Lake Wawasee this past week.

There were no adult leaders present, but the meeting was capably managed by the older girls. Winifred Mollenhour and Doris Mathews took charge of the first year girls. Three judging contests were staged by this group, one held over panholders, one over seams and another over various seams.

The other groups in sewing carried their work, accompanied by several questions and exclamations. There was a lot of evidence of cutting and sewing and other work which goes with the art of making our own clothing.

The program committee entertained the girls with several delightful games. One interesting game was played by trying to carry a marble across the lawn on a shingle about an inch wide. While we were playing two deep one of the girls saw a snake! There was quite a bit of discussion about the fate of the snake. Some wanted it killed while others begged for its life to be spared, pleading its harmlessness, and value as a pest destroyer. It wasn't very large, but just the same it was a snake and that's enough to make most people desire a great distance between themselves and this particular kind of animals. So the snake was away and we continued our meeting until four o'clock, at which time we closed the meeting.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Dortha Decker. All are requested to bring bathing suits, for the play period will be spent in the lake.

AW, GO ON! TELL US!

Mr. Swear and Mr. Swanke were business enemies, but chance had placed them on the same board of directors.

One day after a meeting, Mr. Swear was holding forth.

"There are hundreds of ways of making money," he said, provocatively.

"Yes," put in Mr. Swanke, "but only one honest way."

"What way's that?" asked Mr. Swear, sharply.

"Ah!" retorted Mr. Swanke. "I thought you wouldn't know it."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

YEARS AND YEARS

"Clover married a man a good deal older than she is, so I hear."
"Older! Why, he's twice her real age and three times the age she says she is."

Why He Broke the Date

Linda had given her boy friend a calling down for breaking his date with her the night before.

"It was the fault of that old dog of yours," the boy friend protested. "When I came to the gate he was barking and growling. I was afraid to come in."

"Oh, but didn't you know that back of it all there was a friendly tail wagging," she said.

"Yes, but that wasn't the end I was afraid of," her young gallant replied. —Capper's Weekly.

Twitting on Facts

The exceedingly stout lady indignantly tackled a bus inspector at a busy stopping place.

"I want to report the conductor of that bus that's just gone," she shrieked. "He's been rude!"

"How?" asked the bored official.

"Why," went on the lady, "he was telling the people the bus was full up, and when I got off he said, 'Room for three inside!'" —Stray Stories Magazine.

Baby Food

Bill's mother is ultra-modern and the lad hears much talk of calories. When calling on a neighbor where a new baby recently arrived, the conversation drifted to health.

THE SAME COUNTRY

By ROBERT V. FLEMING
Vice President, American Bankers Association

There is a growing appreciation, both on the part of the people and the Government of the earnest and sincere efforts being made by bankers to aid in recovery. It is desirable that we miss no opportunity to foster public understanding of the bankers' problems. We are living in an age of complex and upset economic conditions. Our affairs are closely inter related not only within the confines of our own borders but extend to other countries throughout the world.

R. V. FLEMING

The Greatest Difficulty

I think the greatest difficulty we have to overcome in America today is due to our impatience with the progress we are making towards recovery. We must realize that while the Government can help by directing some measures for relief and recovery, we must help our selves by doing our share to give impetus to the Government's efforts. We have the same country and basically the same businesses, factories and people we had prior to the depression, and business initiative must step forward if real recovery is to be achieved.

The theory we often hear expressed that banks create business activity is wrong. Banking can only make a supplementary contribution to business activity. Bankers have the facilities and the desire to extend credit, but business must initiate activity by seeking the credit which is readily available to all worthy borrowers.

Let it be said for business, however, that business men are as eager as bankers to contribute towards recovery. I think some of the trouble lies in the fact that too many legislative measures have been proposed for reform which leave an uncertainty in the minds of business leaders as to their eventual outcome and effect. Consequently, they hesitate to expand until the probable effects of such legislation are known.

MAKING IT HARDER FOR BANK ROBBERS

Mechanical Devices That Impede the Work of Bandits Described by Bankers Association Official.

The impediments which the hard working bank robber now meets in plying his trade among small as well as large banks are described by James E. Baum, Deputy Manager American Bankers Association in charge of its Protective Department, in an article in "Banking" published by his organization.

"Protective equipment will minimize if not prevent loss," Mr. Baum says, "such as the silent automatic type of alarm, approved tear gas systems, several styles of bandit resisting enclosures and timelocks, or safes equipped with timelocks, which can be set for intervals of a few minutes."

Intervals of a few minutes.

"The silent automatic alarms operate in the beginning of a holdup and through actions carried out by the bank employees in obedience to the bandits' own commands. They are adaptable to the smaller banks which continue to be easiest targets for bank robbery."

Tear Gas Systems

"Tear gas systems have their advantages as self-contained protective units where outside aid is inconvenient or too remote from the bank to be effective. One objection to the use of tear gas in preventing holdup is the need of pressing a lever or button to discharge it. Although this necessary action seems too much to expect of the victims in a crisis where their lives are in jeopardy the fact remains that tear gas systems have defeated bank robbery. Its deterrent value is also important."

"Different styles of bandit resisting enclosures are available. The lock manufactory also produce timelocks which can be set to open at intervals of five minutes or longer. These locks are especially adapted for attachment to small safes or chests for safeguarding surplus funds while the bank is open for business."

Stolen Prayer Book Is Found in Another Car

Boston, Mass. — Miss Virginia Tobin's automobile was stolen and recovered in Jamaica Plain a year ago, but a prayer book left on the seat was missing.

Recently thieves stole Mrs. Mary S. Kane's car from the same neighborhood and when it was recovered police found Miss Tobin's prayer book. They returned it to Mrs. Virginia McGurk of Malden, who was Miss Tobin before she was married.

MARRIAGES IN JUNE ARE LOSING FAVOR

June, long considered the brides' month, isn't in the running with July, August and September, the registrar general's statistical review of England and Wales indicates, writes a correspondent, in the Washington Post. More people get married in the third quarter of the year than at any other time, the review shows. This has been the case ever since the beginning of the Twentieth century.

Even before the turn of the century June was not as great a favorite of brides as had been supposed. In the years preceding the dawn of 1900 the most popular months for weddings were October, November and December. At least this was true in England and Wales.

Although the number of marriages is gradually mounting, the birthrate is steadily dropping, according to the statistical review. In 1933 the birthrate was only 14.4 per thousand population, the lowest recorded for England and Wales.

BRAINS ELECTRICAL, DISCOVERY REVEALS

Brains are electrical, according to the recent discovery of a group of scientists who found that nerve impulses are electrical surges and that the largest travel to the brain in direct relation to outside stimuli, says a writer in the Montreal Herald. Besides these nerve impulses which flow into the brain there are regular surges flowing through the brain itself even in the absence of any stimulus. This was proved by a very delicate apparatus which is capable of amplifying electrical currents 1,000,000 times. When electrodes were attached to the skulls of the subjects the surges were transformed into audible clicks. Scientists have not yet found out what these brain surges indicate, but it is thought that they may be hooked up in some way with the brain's ability to receive and translate messages sent by the nerves.

Early Refrigerator Car

The reported ancestor of all refrigerator cars is the small wooden car standing in a barn near Cobden, Ill., says the New York Herald Tribune. This box, packed with ice, was first used in transporting fresh strawberries over 323 miles of the Illinois Central railroad, between Cobden and Chicago, in 1863. The originator of the ice box system of shipment was Parker Earle, a fruit grower of Cobden. He subsequently became interested in various other types of perishable freight transportation, eventually developing his idea into refrigerator cars somewhat similar to the type at present widely used.

Japanese Early Prohibitionists

Japan's first prohibition regulation was promulgated in the year 640 when the drinking of sake was forbidden except on certain occasions and none could be consumed following any national calamity such as an earthquake, drought or flood.

Teasing Animals Dangerous

Teasing wild animals is not a safe sport—even from an airplane in the air. Recently an aviator, flying over an African plain, discovered a number of sleeping lions and decided to "run them." Three times he swooped down close to the ground, but none even stood up. The fourth time, writes Louis Straus, New York city, in Collier's Weekly, one big fellow—then slightly annoyed—suddenly leaped in the air, caught one of the wings with both paws and damaged it badly.

Palace to Be Restored

Peterhoff palace, pet of Peter the Great and protected by the Bolsheviks during the revolution, is to be restored to its former splendor. The building, which is near Leningrad, Russia, has been a museum since the revolution. When it was constructed Peter the Great ordered it to be "the finest that money can build." In the days of royalty in Russia czars often spent their summers there.

Cows Go on Grass Spree

Farmers in the vicinity of East London, Cape Province, are greatly disturbed because their cows come home dazed and give less milk than formerly. Growers blame their bossies' condition to a mysterious species of grass, called "Buffalo Kweek," which has appeared on the border of grazing fields. The grass is sweet, but its effect is "dynamite" to cows, the farmers say.

"Whale" of a Shark Caught

The largest shark ever caught in South African waters was trapped in a fisherman's net at Hout bay, near Cape Town. It was 27 feet 6 inches long, 12 feet in girth, and weighed 5 tons. It fought madly for freedom for two hours before it was finally hauled into shallow water. Even then 14 bullets were needed to kill it.

Hickory

Hickory is a tree of wide range and was formerly found in every state east of the Mississippi and in several on the western side of the river. Now, after hundreds of years of use and abuse, about 80 per cent is obtained from 10 of the principal producing states. There are more than 30 species of this wood, made up of true hickories and pecan hickories, but only about five or six are known commercially.

"Gadgets"

You will not find the word "gadger" in many dictionaries; perhaps for the reason that most dictionary compilers consider the word to be slang. Yet, the word "gadger" is well known to everyone, and is used in every-day language in connection with some article that has a practical use, and, usually, can be bought at a low price, one that is of a mechanical nature and is supposed to do something that is more difficult without it.

The Traveler's Tree

The Traveler's tree is a remarkable tree of Madagascar and Reunion, with a straight stem reaching 30 feet in height and bearing at the top a number of large long-stalked leaves which spread vertically like a fan. The leaf has a large sheath at the base in which water collects in such quantity as to yield a copious supply, hence the popular name. The plant is known botanically as Ravenala madagascariensis.

Valuable Monkey Nuts Are Always in Demand

The monkey nut is important. It yields oil for margarine and salads; winter feed for cattle, and it has appreciably contributed to the prosperity of India, says the Montreal Herald.

The Imperial economic committee has been investigating the problems of the monkey nut alias the ground nut (its official name) and the peanut of American crowds.

India alone produces monkey nuts worth about $130,000,000 a year, China comes next. The United States, although another important producer, is so fond of peanuts that it ranks as an importing country.

West Africa, Tanganyika, South Africa, and Australia are also producers.

The world's consumption has more than doubled since the war.

Alloys of Precious Metals

Some of the alloys of platinum, palladium, and other precious metals are stronger than steel, and, in certain uses, their special virtues offer a commercial future, it was revealed recently by E. M. Wise, research metallurgist, before the American Institute of Mining and Metallurgical Engineers.

An alloy composed of platinum and 20 per cent iridium, another metal of the platinum group, has a tensile strength of 140,500 pounds a square inch, he said.

Ordinary nickel-steel has a tensile strength of approximately 100,000 pounds a square inch.—Literary Digest.

Had Six Toes, Sold One

In Paris a plastic surgeon had a woman patient with a toe so badly infected it had to be amputated. Horrified at the thought of her pretty foot being disfigured, the woman had the surgeon graft on a new toe in place of the missing one on his patient's foot. Nine hundred women answered the doctor's advertisement offering their toes. The surgeon finally selected a woman who had six toes on one foot and who was glad to get rid of the extra one, besides being paid for it.

Plow to Become Monument

A relic of early farming in California, a big plow that was drawn by 16 horses, has been offered by its owner to the city of Turlock as a monument for the city park, says the Santa Fe Railroad Magazine. It is proposed to mount the plow in the same manner as a historic cannon or bronze plaque.

"Unsatisfactory" Voice

An "unsatisfactory" voice, according to a writer in the Woman's Home Companion, is one that is muffled, guttural, strident, rasping, shrill, raucous, monolithic, flat, nasal or in which articulation is so blurred that those listening must continually resort to that most monotonous phrase in American conversation, "What did you say?"

Home Economics

Mrs. Esther Long delightfully entertained the Harrison Center Home Economics Club Wednesday afternoon ably assisted by her daughters.

A discussion on prizes for 4H Club girls was held also a paper was read by Mrs. Clara Riggs on what a well organized Club rules are abided by. Further plans for their quilt were also discussed.

New Weeds Appear

Weeds have been sprouting up from every place and in many cases weeds seem to be new here. According to Mr. Cook, Agriculture instructor at Beaver Dam, most of these are not new but the growing season last summer, a mild winter and plenty of moisture this spring have spread weeds very rapidly from a few, which we did not notice, to many. This year as we notice these new weeds we should take care to pull or cut and burn them so as to destroy all seed.

A "new" weed which has been brought to Mr. Cook's attention this past week is the Downy Brome Grass a wild, erect, leafy annual with narrow hairy leaves. The seed is born in drooping open panicles slightly resembling Oats, in fact the plant is sometimes mistaken for "wild Oats". The grass has a purplish-red color when maturing, and is easily eradicated by preventing seed from forming.

Family Leaves Town to Save Dog's Life

Cellaire, Ohio.—Harry Nelder-meyer and his family think enough of their dog to move to another town just to save his life.

The family is living in "exile" just because "Rex," their German police dog, was sentenced to death at Benwood, W. Va., their former home.

To save Rex's life, the family came here to live, bringing their pet.

The execution order was issued by Mayor Henry C. Nealy for an alleged attack the dog had made on a small boy.

Several weeks ago, Rex awakened the Nelder-meyer family when their home at Benwood caught fire.

YOUTH'S LOVE FOR DOG DECIDES CASE

Lad's Fervent Appeal Wins a Reversal by Judge.

Chicago.—The way of a boy with a dog!

Judge Heller's Town Hall court was in session, and the first case called was "Carl Thellacker vs. Richard and William Owen."

The disputants stepped forward, one of them a boy, leading a fine young police dog by the collar.

Thellacker made his complaint.

"This man and his son, Billy, have stolen my dog."

The defendants began to protest, but were silenced by the court. Said Judge Heller:

"What is his name? . . . Prince, eh?"

Well, he looks like an intelligent animal, and we'll let him decide. You, Thellacker, step to the left side of the room. Owen, you and Bill go over to the other side. I'll hold Prince."

With the litigants arranged as directed, Judge Heller commanded:

"Prince, go to your master."

Prince hesitated for a moment, then ambled over to Thellacker and licked his hands. But the next minute he had bounded across the room to greet the Owens with a joyful bark. The court announced:

"Friendly to all of you, but he seems to favor Thellacker the most. I shall dismiss the charge and award the dog to Thellacker. Call the next case."

But as Thellacker walked out with his prize, Billy's lips began to quiver, and he burst into tears. His father's eyes were misty, too, as, regardless of court procedure, he advanced with his son to the bench. Billy stammered out:

"That isn't right, your honor, Prince is my dog. Prince and I . . ."

Further words were lost in sobs.

Judge Heller removed his glasses and polished them.

"The way of a boy with a dog, eh? Well, in view of such love as this, a love that is the best evidence in the world of ownership, I am going to reverse my decision. Bailiff, call that man with the dog back."

Billy smiled through his tears as he and his dad walked back to their home with Prince.

Wife Stealing Common Practice With Serbians

Belgrade.—The caveman still is a common figure in southern Serbia. The Musulmanes tribe still practices the centuries old habit of "stealing a bride."

The man with the assistance of several friends breaks into the house of his bride-to-be. If he finds the doors open he may postpone his raid until later since this is considered to mean bad luck or ugly women.

When he escapes with his girl his friends hold off his pursuers. After several days the couple appear again and the regular marriage ceremonies procedure is followed.

In most cases the parents of the stolen girl agree. But now numerous rich Musulmanes are protesting to police because poor men prefer to break into their houses and steal their daughters in order to get a rich wife. As a result several men have been sentenced to imprisonment.

Cotton Seed Meal Good Food for Farm Animals

Washington.—Farmers whose horses and mules have a healthy appetite for cottonseed meal shouldn't worry about overfeeding, according to J. O. Williams, in charge of horse investigation for the Agricultural department.

Williams said farmers in the South or other areas where cottonseed meal is available at low cost now may feed more to the animals than was thought advisable in the past.

Recent experimental work at the Texas agriculture experiment station revealed no necessity for limiting horses to small daily quantities of cottonseed meal, provided the meal was fed as a supplement to pasture and proper roughages.

Aids Blind 100 Years

New York.—A century of service to the blind was recently rounded out by the American Bible society. During this time 116,000 volumes of the Bible have been distributed among the sightless, at home and abroad, an annual output of 8,000 being reached for the second time in 1934.

Stock of Central Banks Usually Privately Owned

Of all the central banks at present existing there are only four whose stock is owned by the government. The new central bank is that of Canada which opened its doors only a few months ago after a most exhaustive study had been made of the experience of all nations with the result that the stock of the Bank of Canada is privately owned.

Agriculture and Industry

Returns for the first quarter of 1935 for industrial corporations publishing quarterly reports show net profits 21 per cent more than for the same in 1934. The total farm value of all important crops, exclusive of livestock, rose 1934 to $4,782,423,000, as compared with $4,114,265,000 in the previous year at $2,882,195,000 in 1932.

Letter Circles Globe Thrice

A letter sent from Rowno, a small township in eastern Poland, to Brazil in 1922 has been returned to its starting point. During these 12 years the letter went round the world three times. The sender is dead, but his son, to whom the letter was returned, has been offered some 5,000 zlotys, near £200, for the envelope.—London Sunday Observer.

Federal Agent Gets His Man After Nine Years

Salem, Ore.—It took Roy R. Norene, head of the federal immigration and naturalization service in Portland, nine years but he "got his man."

Since 1926 Norene has been looking for Lew Sen, Chinese who was smuggled into the United States. On a visit here Norene went into a Chinese restaurant and as mere routine asked the orientals there to show their papers. The certificate presented by one man bore the name Lew Sen and the federal agent's search was ended. Sen said he obtained the certificate in Seattle, Wash., where he attended school and declared he had been in Salem most of the time since coming to this country.

Wills Cash to Friends Who Lost on His Tips

Medina, Ohio.—Fearing his influence may have caused friends to lose money in unprofitable investments, William E. Griestinger, Medina business man, attempted to make reparations to his will.

The document, filed for probate, requested the following bequests, based upon that fear: Mark Hazen and S. H. Bralnard $1,000 each; Dan C. Pelton, Medina, and Ivan Ault, Ashland, Ohio, $800 each; Clarence Shumaker, Seville, Ohio, $1,000; John Kemp, now in Florida, $500; Jay Einhart, Leeland Einhart and John Crooks, all of Weymouth, Ohio, $400 each.

Life of House Fly

The average lifetime of a house fly in summer temperatures is one to three weeks; in the winter they hibernate and can live for many months during the cold weather, says the Detroit News. The average female house fly lays four batches of 150 eggs each during its lifetime. These hatch into larvae in one to four days; the larvae passes through three stages, taking about five days to become a pupa and five days more to become a full-grown fly. Flies do not grow in size after the pupa stage, and the small flies one sees around never grow into house flies.

Young Columbus Made Maps

During his boyhood, Christopher Columbus was a seaman and an expert map and chart-maker. The latter qualification made him popular among captains and eventually led him, Isabella and Ferdinand, the Spanish sovereigns, who financed his voyages of exploration.

Capetown to Buenos Aires

The distance between Cape Town and Buenos Aires by great circle sailing is 3,728 nautical miles, which is roughly 4,300 statute miles. This is the course taken going east. The course taken going west is by rhumb line and is 3,834 nautical miles, which is approximately 4,410 statute miles.

New School Busses

Dale Wallace proprietor of the Motor Inn Garage recently sold five Chevrolets to Harrison Township.

We are quite sure Dale believes in Co-Op News advertising. We have been happy to carry his ads and congratulate him on this sale. We are confident that the school children will appreciate these new busses and their parents will be glad to know that their children are being transported in a sure, safe and comfortable way.

FIELD MUSEUM HAS OLD PRINT BLOCKS

The oldest printing blocks in existence are on exhibition in a collection of bamboo, root and wood carvings from China at Chicago's Field Museum of Natural History, reports a museum bulletin.

The blocks are engraved with floral designs and must have been made before the year 1108 A. D. They were found in the ancient city of Ch'ui, in the southern part of the province of Ch'li. This city, excavated by archaeologists in recent years, was submerged by a flood in 1108.

The Chinese are the inventors of block-printing, and, in fact, of all the essentials for printing—paper, writing brush, ink and ink-pallet or ink-stone. They invented and perfected the entire from their own resources, unaided by any other nation. Paper was invented and manufactured in China as early as 105 A. D.

Long Distance Reader

A homemade telescope, recently completed by an amateur astronomer in Chicago, is so powerful that by its aid its builder can, he claims, read the time on a pocket watch at a distance of two miles, says the Popular Science Weekly. The builder, who is a printer, did the whole job himself, even to grinding the concave reflecting mirror. The barrel of the instrument consists of a framework of pipe, joined at half the length by union connections. When these unions are unscrewed, the top half of the barrel may be folded back, making it possible to store the telescope in a limited space. Although the instrument weighs 500 pounds, wheels attached to the stand permit it to be moved about with comparative ease.

PICNIC A SUCCESS

A Very Large Attendance. All
Enjoyed the Days Outing

On July 4th the stockholders, customers and friends of the Northern Indiana Co-Operative Association, met at the Saints Picnic Grounds at Yellow Creek Lake and enjoyed a basket dinner.

The Forenoon was spent in visiting and in partaking in a few sports. At the noon hour a bountiful dinner was served which loaded over one hundred feet of table space to overflowing. Mrs. Forrest Kessler, acting as hostess, managed everything to perfection. At the close of the meal the Co-Op's treated the crowd to delicious ice cream.

In the afternoon there was a short program held in the Tabernacle. Atwood Trio, Song, "Old Black Joe" Rush Sisters "Drifting" Carol Rose Weissert Reading Mrs. Vance Johns Reading Ray Ward Jr. Song "Nancy Lee" Mr. M. Roy Rush, chairman of the program committee, introduced Mr. Creighton who in turn introduced Elmer Ward Cole, Pastor of the First Christian Church in South Bend. Dr. Cole delivered a wonderful address on Current Events. His was a lecture that educated his hearts on many subjects, and was numerous enough to hold the crowd to solicitous attention.

The largest crowd in the history of the Northern Indiana Co-Operative Association attended this picnic. Everyone within the radius of twenty five miles must have been present from little Elanore Rush age four months to John Swick age eighty-six.

The Co-Op's wish to thank you for the splendid attention and co-operation shown throughout the day and invite each and everyone back next year.

Japanese Early Prohibitionists

Japan's first prohibition regulation was promulgated in the year 646 when the drinking of sake was forbidden except on certain occasions and none could be consumed following any national calamity such as an earthquake, drought or flood.

Indiana State Fair

Starting Sunday night, September 1st, at the Coliseum, on the Indiana State Fair Grounds, you will have the opportunity of seeing America's Finest and Largest Horse Show. People from all over the middle west will follow their favorite stables to the tanbark arena of the spacious Coliseum to see the best horses in the world compete for $18,750.00 in prize monies, the most ever offered in premiums at any horse show ever held. The Fair will be held from August 31st to September 6th. This money will be awarded without reductions which is a feature well appreciated by the horsemen of the country for the reason that at many fairs and exhibitions the advertised amount is reduced when the prizes are actually awarded.

John Bright Webb Indianapolis, Director in charge of the Horse Department states that there is also about $8,000.00 offered in premiums for Draft Horses and an additional amount to 4-H club workers. He says that the rules and regulations as they have been set forth make way for a system of smoothness and harmony the combination of which will be the keynote of the greatest horse show in America.

The Campbell Family from Warsaw gave the crowd some old time songs and instrumental music.

The Orcutt Sisters from Atwood who broadcast every Thursday from Elkhart sang several numbers in close harmony.

The Davis Sisters from Mentone also sang several numbers in harmony with guitar accompaniment.

Donald Wallace proved to the crowd that he has earned his name as a harmonica wizard.

Phyllis Lemler sang "On The Good Ship Lollypop" in a manner that would have been a credit to Shirley Temple of movie fame.

Six Sea Lions Win Battle With Monster

Seaside Ore.—A 20-foot shark proved no match for six sea lions in a battle royal witnessed by two surf fishermen near here. A single sea lion was first seen to tackle some creature near shore. The water churned and soon a shark leaped from the waves. Five other sea lions joined in the fight, ripping large pieces of meat from the side of the shark as it surged at the attackers. The conflict continued for an hour. The shark finally succumbed, literally eaten alive.

ESCAPED PRISONER PETS BLOODHOUNDS

Fugitive Convict Proves He Has Way With Dogs.

Houston, Texas.—Eddie McHugh believes stone walls and iron bars were made for prison breaks and pursuing bloodhounds created for pets.

Eddie smashed a window at the city prison farm and escaped. Prison Manager George Mitchell set four fierce hounds on his trail.

But Mitchell did not think of Eddie's ways with animals. The dogs caught up with the fugitive. Eddie then "kept up with the dogs."

"I just stepped my fingers and pointed ahead of us," Eddie told police later, and said: "Chase him, boy."

"They quit hollering. One was behind, baying, and I had to stop and wait for him to catch up so he wouldn't give me away."

"I found that as long as I kept them with me they were all right. But if I moved a little too fast and got ahead, they began hollering again. Lonesome, I guess."

Police caught Eddie at the home of a friend.

Eddie said he learned about dogs when he escaped from a road gang in Alabama. Bloodhounds were put on his trail.

"When they caught up I took the bells off them so they wouldn't be heard, and got out on the highway."

"A man came along and gave me a ride. The dogs chased the car a way but gave up."

"Lonesome, I guess."

Fastidious Cannibals

Pass Up All Smokers

New York.—The inveterate smoker can reflect complacently that he is safe from at least one of life's little hazards—that of being converted into stew by the cannibals of the New Hebrides.

This reassuring word was brought to New York by Dr. Edgar Auberec de la Rue, French geologist, who said nicotine gives a certain tang to flesh that no fastidious cannibal can abide. Therefore they feast almost exclusively on their own kind.

Convict Escapes to Woo Wife, Then Surrenders

Seattle, Wash.—While Charles Manfre, twenty-nine, was serving time in a federal road camp here for counterfeiting, he received a letter informing him that his wife was preparing to file divorce proceedings in Los Angeles.

That night, he escaped, hitchhiked to his home near Los Angeles, and patched up the marital troubles.

A month later he walked into police headquarters here and surrendered. A federal grand jury has been requested to indict him for his escape, so he may be given an additional sentence. But his wife will be waiting for him whenever he gets out.

Ten-Year Trial Proves His Friends Were Wrong

Belmont, Mass.—Friends told John C. Fohn, Boston manufacturer, that flowers wouldn't grow if he built his conservatory on the north side of his home here.

That was ten years ago.

Today everything from lemon trees to cactus plants thrive in his "north side" conservatory, and he is famed in this section as a grower of fine flowers.

Though his golf score is usually in the lower 80s, he doesn't play much nowadays, preferring to devote his time to his other hobby.

High Cost of Living Is Hit by College Course

Amherst, Mass.—Massachusetts State college has undertaken a program to help people battle the high cost of living.

The college offers a one-week course in vegetable gardening, which will cover the more important fundamentals necessary to successful culture of common vegetable plants when such are grown on restricted areas, as in the home or subsistence garden.

Money Sweeper Successful

Millersburg, Ohio.—Add to the list of occupations a "money sweeper." Ben Johnson claims he makes handsome pin money searching the gutters for coins which are dropped by persons. Ben says he picked up $94.83 last year and his earnings so far this year are $7.

Raleigh N. C.—A correspondence course in plumbing has been added to courses made available by the extension department of North Carolina State college.

Kamakura, Japan

For three centuries, from 1180 to 1485, Kamakura was the capital of Japan and the seat of culture. The feudal system had its start in the Seventh century, when the population was divided into agriculturists and soldiers, but the shogun and samurai system received its greatest development when the class of Bushi, the warriors, rose and shaped that system of government to rule Japan until the middle of the Nineteenth century. Kamakura is a fashionable seaside resort, with pleasure seekers roaming over the ground where the bold samurai fought their battles for honor and for glory.

Fear'd Mount's Tiny Lake

In the Middle ages Mount Pilatus, Switzerland, was generally feared by the superstitious, for the tiny lake near its summit was believed to be the last resting place of the one-time governor of Judea. In 1307 six men were actually imprisoned for having attempted an ascent, defying the rules of the town.

Diversity of Foot Forms

Due to the mixed lineage of the average American, there is no such thing as a definite foot form. Some of our ancestors wore sabots, others moccasins, some went barefoot and others wore boots. The results of intermingling these acquired characteristics is a diversity of foot forms.

Fighting Crickets Bred

Thoroughbred crickets are trained in Siam to fight to the death in the same manner as fighting cocks. The insects fight with gusto, and the fight ends only when the head of one of the contestants is severed. Their owners, who serve as seconds, urge them on with small lashes made from rat whiskers.

One day shortly after her recovery Don said:

Aluminum Mirrors

Mirrors are now made of aluminum, which is brightened by a newly discovered electrolytic process that gives the surface of the metal a reflectivity almost equal to that of silver. The usual reflectivity obtained with polished aluminum reflectors is about 63 to 75 per cent. The electrolytic brightening process is carried out by immersing the aluminum reflector in an electrolyte of novel composition and passing direct current through the solution to the reflector, which is made the anode. Impurities in the metal surface are dissolved out, leaving a bright surface.

CLASS ENTERTAINED

On June 21 the members of the Go-Forward Sunday School Class with their families spent a most delightful evening at the "Summerzone" cottage the summer home of the DeWitt family at Epworth Forest, Lake Webster. Rev. DeWitt escorted the guests over the park and explained the places of interest and the new projects that are being carried on for the good of the young people of the church. Lowell DeWitt was very liberal with the use of his motor boat. He took all who wished to go on trips around the lake. The younger set enjoyed the bathing very much.

Mrs. DeWitt proved her efficiency in the culinary art and as hostess to the guests with a pot luck dinner.

Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Ray Ward and Ray, Lois, and Margaret Ward, Mr. and Mrs. F. R. Burns and Jean, Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Find Old Hall of Pillars

Recent excavations at Delhi, India, have brought to light the remains of a building occupied by the sultans and mogul emperors. It was once known as the Hall of a Thousand Pillars and was erected during the cruel reign of the tyrant Mohammed bin Tughlak (1325-1351). Of this hall, which was two stories high, 210 feet wide and 300 feet in length, the bases of 170 pillars have been uncovered by the archeological department of the government of India. The site is within Jahanpanah, that "Refuge of the Universe" which the Tughlaks built in the form of a wall to connect the three neighboring cities of Delhi of their day.

Gas-Proof Cave

Mystery surrounds the origin of the famous Chislehurst caves, Kent, which were recently fitted up as a gas-proof shelter for civilians. The caves comprise a great labyrinth which honeycombs the chalk hill upon which Chislehurst stands. It is said that you can walk for 20 miles in this strange underworld. During the war the government commandeered the caves and stored great quantities of high explosives there.—Pearson's Weekly.

Decorated Frog

A giant frog at the London zoo from Brazil has golden eyelids and carries a pair of horns—one over each eye! What is more, it can bark, bite, and fight. GERMAN PURCHASES ZULU MAIDEN FOR 7 HEAD OF CATTLE

Africa Stirred by One of Most Unusual Marriages in History.

New York.—A neat cottage, shuttered against the hot and dusty winds which almost constantly blow across the rolling plains of Natal, in the Union of South Africa, was the locale for one of the most unusual marriages in modern history.

The legal mating of a white man and a tall and powerful Zulu maiden! A black bride born and reared in the kraal of one of Africa's most warlike nations. A girl embarking on a monogamous marriage when her brothers and sisters and fellow countrymen from time immemorial practiced polygamy.

Brief Message.

In Dundee, British settlement of Natal, Willie Frederick Leonhard Hedder has established his household in the corrugated, iron-roofed cottage. But only after one of the most difficult and expensive marriages in the records of the Union.

New York scientists learned with great interest of the strange marriage, news of which came out of Africa in a brief cable message. The cable revealed it was only the second such mixed marriage in all of Africa since the World war.

Hedder, a European of German parentage, is twenty-eight. He fell in love with the Zulu maiden, but found many difficulties beset his path, mixed marriages were permissible, but not encouraged.

Cattle Buys Bride.

He knew that his white friends and neighbors would frown on the union, but he was determined to go through with it. Hedder was proud of the Zulu maiden for she came of one of the proudest of African races. A race powerful in war, expert cattle-raisers and a race subdued by the British, but never conquered.

He was convinced she would make a good housewife and a fitting mother for his children.

The first and most difficult problem Hedder overcame was that of complying with the elaborate system of laws regulating inheritances and marriage existing among the Zulus.

This consisted chiefly of paying the bride-to-be's brother seven head of Afrikaander cattle.

Child Is Saved From Bad Accident by Quick Wit

New Britain, Conn.—Quick thinking on the part of a mother, and the interest of a child in the telephone, prevented recently what might have been a serious accident here.

The mother was in her back yard when she looked up, and to her dismay, saw her child making an effort to get out of an open second story window. Remembering the child's interest in the telephone and fearing to see her tumble to the ground at any moment, the mother called, "Will you answer the telephone for mother?" Anxiously she watched, and as she watched, her anxiety was relieved, for the child accepted the mother's suggestion, got down from the window and ran to the telephone. Meanwhile, the mother rushed upstairs.

Previously, the child had shown an interest in the telephone and occasionally had attempted to answer it. All the family thought it was a cute trick when the mother taught the child the proper procedure. It turned out to be a useful accomplishment, since it probably saved the child's life.

Lard Can Hiding Place for Baby Bond Money

Muncy, Pa.—A local resident walked up to the clerk in the post office and said:

"I want to buy one of these baby bonds—a $500 one."

"That will me $375," the clerk told him.

"Here's your money," the man replied as he lifted up a lard can, appearing to be heavy, and placed it on the counter.

In the can were 750 half dollars. He said he had been saving them over a period of years.

Pets Stolen and Held for Ransom in Serbia

Belgrade.—Wealthy people of Zagreb are suffering from a wave of kidnapping—the objects of which are their pet cats and dogs. The criminals mark down spoiled pets of the richest people, and each day one or more of them vanishes and the bereaved owner receives a curt request for a large sum of money as ransom. Animals, valuable in themselves, sometimes are sold again. If the police are informed of the loss, the animals are usually killed and never seen again.

"Sins of Youth" Given as Course in College

Boston.—A new course in the "sins of youth" will be available next year at Boston university.

The course, called "Institute of Character Adjustment," will train those who deal with adolescent delinquents and be included in the university's school of religious and social work.

With only college graduates eligible the program is based on the results during the past two years at the school in techniques of psychological adjustments.

The Traveler's Tree

The Traveler's tree is a remarkable tree of Madagascar and Reunion, with a straight stem reaching 30 feet in height and bearing at the top a number of large long-stalked leaves which spread vertically like a fan. The leaf has a large sheath at the base in which water collects in such quantity as to yield a copious supply, hence the popular name. The plant is known botanically as Ravenala madagascariensis.

Plants Sunburn, Tan
Plants can sunburn and tan the same as human beings. But they don't blister. A source no less authoritative than the Smithsonian institution says so. In exhaustive researches recently completed it was found that plants or tree leaves, if subjected to an excess of ultra-violet rays, will sunburn and tan, the leaf cells turning brown.

The discoveries were incidental to experiments in the invisible region of ultra-violet radiation, beyond the spectrum range of visible light.

Largest Suspension Bridge

The Hudson river or George Washington bridge is the largest suspension bridge in the world. Each cable of this bridge is made up of 61 strands of 434 wires each. A 12-cylinder hydraulic jack traveled the length of the strands, squeezing them into mile-long ropes of hard drawn steel, capable of supporting 350,000 tons.

Man Two-Sided Inside

With his heart, stomach and spleen on the right side and his liver on the left, a man in Milan, Italy, apparently is enjoying good health in spite of his internal complications. This is the report submitted to the Lombard section of the Medical academy, which adds that the man never has suffered any inconvenience and served his term in the army without any sickness.

Famous Stone in Decay

Whittington Stone, where tradition says that Dick Whittington, the poor servant boy, heard the bells tell him to return to London and become its Lord Mayor, is now disintegrating. The inscriptions on it are mostly indecipherable, and funds for repairing it are needed.

WHAT WE THINK (By Polluted Pete)

I note by my daily that an effort is going to be made to share the wealth of this country by soaking the rich by the means of high taxes.

I do not think it will work. The only wealth that it will do the country any good to take away from the rich is that can be taken away through the medium of inheritance tax. I am for that strong.

Any tax we put upon the rich will be passed on and eventually the farmer and laborer will have it to pay in the increased cost of the things he has to buy. The inheritance tax cannot be passed on.

I am in favor of the inheritance tax to the degree that it will take all of the great fortunes from the children. These vast inheritances have done the children of wealthy men more harm than good. If the rich man has the right stuff in he can build his own fortune.

To me it is wrong, very wrong, to turn over to young people vast sums of money they have not earned. It makes of them, in many instances, spendthrifts and wasters. They have no appreciation of its value and no knowledge of how to go about earning it.

The inheritance tax will not be passed on to labor, and the farmer. All other types of taxes will. To distribute the wealth by taxing those forms of wealth that can pass the tax on is like trying to empty a cistern by pumping the water out on the ground and allowing it to run back into the cistern. It won't work.

I have never been... They overlooked me but... permanent relief in soaking...

The only plan that is going to work is one that will not allow such vast fortunes to accumulate in the hands of a few. This will be done by passing the profits on to all those engaged in the industry. If this is done buying power will be restored to the masses and prosperity will return, but if wealth is allowed to accumulate in the hands of a few, merely taking it away from them by taxes will not help as long as the system that enables them to get it remains in force.

One doesn't have to be a brain trust to figure that out.

If we attempt to work the problem the same way in the future that we have in the past we will get the same answer—we can't help it.

I will illustrate. The president of one of the large tobacco companies received a million dollars in salary last year.

In addition to this a lot of under executives received crashing salaries.

Yet at the same time the gro of the tobacco, many of them, are living in poverty in spite of the fact that they work their lives out trying to produce tobacco.

Something is wrong with a system like that. A wrong exists that any one can see. The answer does not lie taxing the industry. If this is done the tax will be passed on and the grower will get even less for his crop and the president will still net his million dollars after the tax is paid.
