Mentone Metal Works Adds Garage Building

The need for storage and assembly room induced H. E. Nottingham, proprietor of the Mentone Metal Works, last week, to rent part of the former "Welcome-In Garage." This part of the business will be run separately for the present, at least. Assuming the old name of the garage, a full line of gasoline, oil, and greases will be installed. This department will also store cars, wash and polish them, and eventually will do repair work. As soon as possible, it hopes to establish an all-night service to both the local trade and tourists traveling through town.

Clay Nottingham, son of the owner, is also associated with his father in the new project, and Marcine Nottingham, of Greenville, Pa., has been employed to handle the technical side of the work.

During the present week preceding the Fourth of July, the new plant is holding open house to everyone in the community and county.

A special sale of high quality auto seat covers is being offered for sale during this period, and a $7 set of them will be given free to the person who guesses nearest the correct number of sets sold during the official opening week.

From July 2 to July 6 a special "get acquainted price" for gasoline and oils will be featured as announced by an ad elsewhere in this issue.

The Mentone Metal Works, formerly the sheet metal shop of George Buchtel, specializes in chicken feeders and drinkers, and also does custom sheet metal jobs of all kinds.

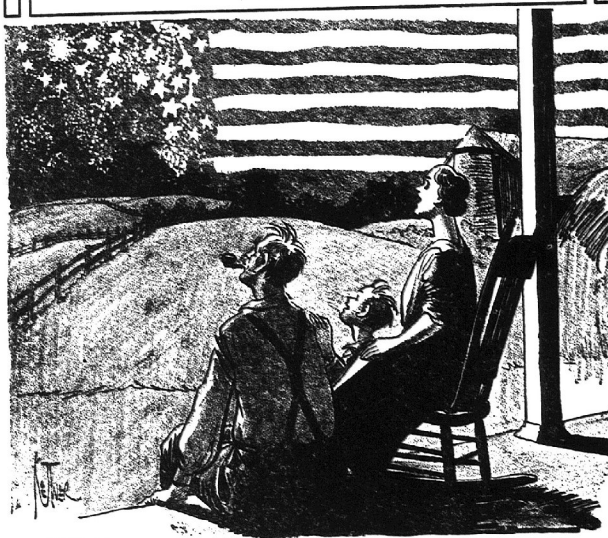

This business is being developed to boost Mentone. Give it your moral and business support and see what it does for the "biggest little town in the United States."

A NEWS BOX has been placed in the office of the CO-OP MILL.

Fire Department Answers Two Calls

Members of the local fire department answered an alarm early Friday morning at about 3:30 o'clock during a severe electrical storm when lightning struck and burned to the ground the barn on the farm of Lyle Tressler, two miles south of Sevastopol. Livestock in the barn were led to safety and local firemen prevented the spread of the flames to other buildings.

Earlier in the morning the firemen had been routed from their beds to extinguish a roof blaze on a garage at the residence of George Lyon on Broadway. The fire had been discovered by F. R. Burns who aroused a number of firemen. The fire was checked with but small damage. The local fire alarm could not be sounded because the storm had disrupted the electrical current.

MOVIE FEATURES PASTURE PROFITS

Hollywood gives us movies which star dogs, elephants, penguins, and even a pig like the one Will Rogers cherished in "State Fair." But "Green Acres," an all-color movie now making the rounds of farm meetings, is the first one to elevate "Bossy," the milk cow, to stardom. Included in her supporting cast are beef cattle, sheep, hogs, and horses. But "Bossy" gets all the fat lines—and that's no joke, as farmers will observe when they see the picture at one of their farm meetings.

The picture tells the story of pasture improvement which today is making its way into the front rank of up-to-date profitable farming practices. "Despite the fact that pasture is the cheapest feed that can be grown for any kind of livestock, pasture improvement is just beginning to receive the serious attention it deserves," said K. H. Lush, Pasture Specialist, The National Fertilizer Association and co-director of "Green Acres." "It is a crop that responds to plant food, lime, and good management. Results of hundreds of experiments and demonstrations conducted by State Experiment Stations have spot-lighted its value to every farmer."

"Every well-fed cow," said Mr. Lush, "eats the equivalent of 100 pounds of grass a day. The cost of producing 100 pounds of digestible nutrients from oats is $2.02; from corn silage $1.54; from corn grain $1.38, while pasture produces this amount for $.64."

The results of 34 experiments also showed that the cost of producing 100 pounds of beef on unfertilized pasture was $4.05, while the cost on fertilized pasture was only $2.71. The same experiment showed that unfertilized pasture produced only 12.6 cans of milk per acre, while the treated pasture made 44 cans.

Results of 7 years experiments at Tifton, Georgia, show unfertilized pastures produced only 65 pounds of beef cattle per acre, while carpet grass and legume pastures fertilized produced 291 pounds of beef per acre.

Two Minute Sermon

By

Thomas Hastwell

A MAN'S RELIGION TOO, MUST BE PRACTICAL: I am a believer in practical things. I believe this is a practical world in which we live. Things are of value as they are practical. This also applies to one's religion. I think a man's religion is of little value to himself, his family, his church or his community unless it is practical, unless it appeals to and impresses him as being practical. I have talked to many persons about their religion, what it is, and what it does for them. I have found many with no definite tangible ideas about their religion. From their youth up they have evaded the issue and refused to meet it realistically or think it through. This, I think, is a mistake. I think every man and every woman should think through the matter of their religion. They should have definite, positive, clear-cut convictions on it. Instead of being merely a beautiful, an idealistic philosophy and code of morals taught by a man named Christ who lived a long time ago, it should be a plan of life, the purpose of which is clear, and concerning the logic of which there is no question. It must be a part of a man's life instead of a thing apart from his life. Until a man's religion becomes this it is of little value to him. Christ has presented a perfect plan. It is man's obligation to discover for himself and make real in his own life that plan.

The cost of living is a variable factor in most families. The only feais that it runs close or a little more

The cost of living is in many cases a matter of management. A few ex-can keep the wage earners nose to

MILD WINTER OF 1816

Last Saturday Mrs. Florence Creakbaum brought to the News office an interesting clipping from the Danbury, Conn., News telling of the very mild winter and unusually cold summer of 1816. The article in part stated that January of 1816 was so mild that many people allowed their fires to go out. February was not much colder. March was windy. April came in warm, but as the days grew longer, they also became colder.

By the first of May, the buds on the trees were frozen dead and ice formed one-half inch thick on the ponds. Everything was killed by the frost. On June 17 there was a heavy fall of snow. July came in with snow and ice, while August was the worst month of all. Everything in this country and in Europe was blasted with frost and thousands would have perished had it not been for an abundance of fish and game.

Two Minute Sermon

By
Thomas Hastwell

I LIKE THE RELIGION OF GOOD NATURE AND HAPPINESS: I like the religion of a smile of good nature, of cheerfulness, and happiness, and optimism. I like them in the person I meet because they help me to be more cheerful, more good natured, more hopeful and more optimistic. When I am cheerful, and good natured, and optimistic, I feel better, my responsibilities seem less heavy, the solution of my problems less difficult. The work I have to do seems less of a burden. I like the religion of a smile and good nature because it seems to grow and grow. Like a pebble thrown in a placid pool that sends out ever widening circles in all directions until it reaches the farthest shore. Good nature and happiness and hope not only exalt their possessor, but like the waves caused by the pebble, they touch everyone within reach and awaken a like emotion. I like the religion of happiness. I believe it is God's plan that every person be happy. I believe He wants man to be happy. His whole program governing human conduct was created for this end.

We've never been able to figure out why it is that it is so difficult for a man to get enough of the right kind of vitamins in his system and so easy to get too many of the wrong kind of germs.

FOOD FOR THE FAMILY OR FOR GUESTS
(See Recipes Below)

It takes little imagination to evolve a good meal in summer. Whether you are planning a menu for the family or for guests, there's all the wealth of the world from which to choose!

There is fresh asparagus and home-grown berries, new potatoes, tiny green onions, and all the other tender green things from the garden.

Remember that sunshine and warm weather and foods with zesty flavor go together, and plan your menus around fresh-tasting fruits and vegetables, for they have winning ways with jaded appetites. There's the minted pineapple cup pictured above, that's a grand first course for a summer lunch or dinner; it's as refreshing as a cool breeze off the lake! There are fruit salads, too—cool and colorful as summer gardens; and vegetable plates, which, well arranged, have appetite-appeal galore. And, by the way, your calorie-conscious friends will bless you if you serve them, when you entertain the club, these refreshing, filling, but not too fattening combinations.

Plan your menus around some of the fresh and tempting recipes below, and when you serve a salad or vegetable for the main dish of the meal, serve with it some unusual bread, a beverage, and the simplest kind of dessert.

You'll find tested recipes for unusual bread and rolls to serve with summer meals, in my cook book, "Better Baking."

June Fruit Appetizer or Dessert.

Fresh strawberries
Confectioners' sugar

Cut pineapple in 1/2-inch slices, unpeeled. Then cut each slice in wedge-shaped pieces. Wash strawberries, leaving the stems on them. Chill the fruits thoroughly, then on individual dessert plates arrange the pineapple wedges and the strawberries, in a ring around the plate. Place a mound of confectioners' sugar in the center of each plate, and serve at once.

This Practical Cook Book Costs Only Ten Cents.

When you serve a salad or a vegetable plate as the main dish of your meal, serve with it delicious and unusual bread or rolls. You'll find tested recipes for different biscuits, muffins and bread in Eleanor Howe's inexpensive cook book, Better Baking. There are recipes for apricot rolls, blueberry muffins and honey drop biscuit; and recipes for crusty peanut butter bread or date and nut bread to complete your salad meals.

You'll find recipes for cookies, cakes and pastries, too, and this practical booklet is only 10 cents. To get your copy promptly send 10 cents in coin to "Better Baking," care Eleanor Howe, 919 North Michigan Avenue, Chicago, Illinois.

CONTRIBUTED

A tourist driving through hillbilly country accidentally dropped a mirror. A little later an old hillbilly came along. He picked it up and looked at it and said, "Wal, I'll be cussed. This is a pitcher of my grandfather." Not wanting his wife to see it, he hid it up in the attic and would go up and look at it often.

His wife, becoming suspicious, went up to see what he was doing. The old man heard her coming and jumped out of the window, but he forgot the mirror. The wife saw it and picked it up. After looking into it, she said, "Hm-m-m, so this is the old hag he's been running around with!"

Results of a one-year study of these roads by the National Cotton council show that cotton has no material value for such purposes. HOPE AND GODDARD AMUSE AND THRILL IN MERRY MYSTERY

A mirthful mystery picture featuring Bob Hope and Paulette Goddard arrives Sunday at the Rees Theatre. It is titled "The Ghost Breakers," which, for your information, are people who rid haunted houses of those pests. The co-stars had plenty to do in this respect.

George Marshall, the director, made it with a smile and goosepimples. One moment you're silently holding your breath not knowing what will happen next when, without warning, Bob Hope, or his colored man-servant, Willie Best, makes a remark that convulses the audience.

"The Ghost Breakers" suggests in treatment "The Cat and the Canary" that other eerie Paramount Picture that proved so popular a short time ago in which Bob and Paulette also co-starred.

The 35,000 ton battleship Washington, launched recently in the Philadelphia navy yard, is the first battleship built by this government since 1921. It is 750 feet long and 108 feet wide. It will cost when completed a year from now, $70,000,000. It is the navy's largest battleship.

HIGH-GRADE HAY SAVES FEED COST

Fertility Value of Legumes Is Also Beneficial.

By W. B. NEVENS

(Professor of Dairy Cattle Feeding, Illinois College of Agriculture.)

Producing and feeding high-quality hay is one of the best ways to lower live stock feeding costs.

To make the present conservation program of growing more acres of soil-building legumes and fewer acres of soil-depleting cash crops more effective, high-quality hay for live stock feed and the poorer grades for bedding, which can be returned to the soil in the form of manure, should be used. On most farms material savings in the cost of producing live stock and live stock products result from feeding more high-quality hay and less grain for each animal unit.

Then too only high-quality legume hay sells for more than the value of the phosphorus, nitrogen and potassium it contains. The fertility value of alfalfa, clover and soybean hay is $8 to $9 a ton. This means that a profit is possible only on the highest grades when one is raising hay for market.

Quality in hay really means feed value. The factors which affect quality include maturity or ripeness, percentage of leaves, color, foreign material such as weeds mixed with the hay, soundness or condition, size and pliability of the stems, and the aroma.

From the standpoint of the chemist who analyzes hay samples, quality in hay refers mainly to its protein, carbohydrates, mineral and vitamin content. From the feeder's standpoint, the extent to which these nutritive elements are present is represented by the quality factors, such as maturity, leafiness, and green color, that can be judged by examining the hay.

New Cheap Treatment Preserves Fence Posts

Farmers in the past have been forced to shy away from pine, poplar and some of the common hardwoods when they selected trees for fence posts, but Parker O. Anderson, extension forester, Minnesota university farm, says that a new "tire tube" method of treatment is going to change all that.

It has been known for many years that if preservatives were used, posts would last much longer. Former methods of treatment were slow, awkward and expensive, however, and never received popular approval.

The new plan involves the use of a cheap preservative, zinc chloride, which is applied to green posts through inner tubes tightly stretched around the large ends of the posts. The preservative is measured and poured into the tubes while the posts lie at an inclined angle. Eight to 24 hours are needed for the chloride to seep into the wood and replace the sap.

Cheap, practical and efficient—the new method is bound to prove a big source of savings to farmers, says Anderson. By using it, abundant, fast-growing trees may be converted into posts that will last about as long as cedar. Cost of the materials used will vary with the variety of wood, also the size and condition that it is in, but for ordinary posts it averages about six cents each.

Wild Game on Farm Can Be a 'Pay' Crop

Farmers who support game on their farms are just as much justified in expecting some return from it as for their crops of oats, beef or corn, says Donald Hatfield of the University of Minnesota. He suggests farmer-sportsman cooperatives to protect the farmer against trespass abuse and to give the hunter more land to shoot over.

Michigan, Ohio and Iowa are some of the states where cooperatives have been set up. By this plan, the farmer furnishes the land and grain and the sportsman contributes cash either directly to the farmer or toward increasing the game supply.

The best plan, says Hatfield, is for several farmers to form an association aggregating not more than 4,000 acres in a solid block. Post the area and make rules regarding the number of hunters per unit of area. From one to three hunters for each 50 acres probably is the best number to start with. Keep the price low but high enough to support improvements.

Farm Notes

One ton of grain to each cow each year is a good general formula for dairy cattle.

Last year bankruptcies among farmers dropped to the lowest point in almost two decades.

If a cold chisel becomes mushroom-headed, reduce the turned edges with a grinder until the driving end is slightly smaller than the haft of the tool.

Convict-Made Goods Exchange

Wardens of the Utah, Wyoming, and Nebraska penitentiaries have worked out a project for exchange of convict-made goods. Utah will specialize in supplying the other prisons with canned goods and vegetables; Nebraska will go in for heavy clothing and mattresses while Wyoming will furnish bedding equipment.

Bombers Use 120 Gals. Of Gasoline Per Hour

A fleet of 2,400 bombers and 1,600 pursuit planes consumes more gasoline in five hours of flying than three thousand average American motorists use in the course of an entire year, according to a bulletin issued by the Chicago Motor club.

"While the typical American motorist burns 724 gallons of gasoline in a year, some bombers use as much as 120 gallons an hour," Charles M. Hayes, president of the motor club, pointed out. "Total consumption each five-hour period exceeds two and one-quarter million gallons for a balanced fleet of 4,000 ships."

Fuel consumption by tanks and other mechanized equipment is believed to be even greater than many planes which alone, if used in American cars and taxed at the present rate, would produce more than $120,000 each day in revenue.

Two Minute Sermon

By Thomas Hastwell

A CHRISTIAN SHOULDN'T BE A FROG: I listened the other evening to two frogs croaking in my lily pool. For more than an hour they answered each other, always with the same croak. Their croaking never varied, and finally became so monotonous that I moved out of hearing. I thought as I listened to them, how like human croakers they are. Always the same, always dull, always uninteresting, always monotonous. Always they inspire the listener to move out of hearing. No one really is interested in the monotonous croak of a human croaker. They would rather hear a livelier, a more helpful tune. To such a tune they are glad to sit and listen because it has a note of hope, of optimism, of life. I think this one of the things that the proper concept of Christ's teaching does for one. It takes defeat, and hopelessness, and pessimism out of life and puts into its place faith, and hope and optimism, and good cheer. Its presence attracts he knows no other form of expression, but man does not need to be a frog.

COOL WEATHER CUT HONEY PRODUCTION

Indiana's 1940 honey crop was cut approximately a million pounds by the unusually cool weather during the past month, Virgil M. Simmons, commissioner of the Department of Conservation, reported today.

Reports from apiary inspectors, now engaged in checking for foul brood and other bee diseases, indicate that the cool weather kept most of the honey producers in the hives. With approximately a hundred thousand bee colonies in the state, honey and other bee products constitute an important source of income for several thousand Hoosiers.

Each million dollars spent on highway construction provides employment for approximately 1,000 persons for a year according to the Chicago Motor club.

Venus Flytrap

The only place in the world where this unique insect-destroying plant is known to grow is in the tidewater section of the Carolinas, and there, only in greatly restricted regions. It will not withstand soil and moisture changes, and is exceedingly hard to transplant. The plant attains a height of some 10 inches; its leaves, hinged in the center, are red on the inside, their unusual color constituting a lure for insects.

State Conservation Program Progresses

Progress of Indiana's conservation program has been demonstrated again in recent weeks with increased membership in conservation clubs, increased activity on the part of the clubs and increased interest in the state's natural resources, Virgil M.
Simmons, commissioner of the Department of Conservation, pointed out recently.

Formation of additional local conservation clubs has brought the number of active organizations to 1,021,

the greatest in the history of the state and an average of eleven to the county. More clubs are prepared to operate game bird brooders and fish rearing ponds than ever before,
a guarantee of still better fishing and hunting in Indiana. The number of violations of fish and game laws has decreased materially as a result of club activities and the educational program carried on by the Department in cooperation with the clubs,
schools and other organizations.

An appeal to farmers and land owners for cooperation in maintaining the greatest possible visibility for motorists at road intersections was made today by T. A. Dicus, chairman of the State Highway Commission.

At this season, Mr. Dicus pointed out, travel on the highways is reaching an annual peak and it is essential that every effort be made to safeguard the users of the highways. Thousands of "Stop" signs have been erected at intersections of state highways and the intersections of rural roads with state highways to designate the preferential routes and observance of these warning signs is the responsibility of each motorist.

Farmers and landowners can contribute to the accident prevention program by seeing that weeds, crops or other tall-growing vegetation are not allowed to block the vision of motorists approaching intersections even when these intersections are properly marked with warning signs. Maintaining visibility at road intersections and observance of the 'Stop' signs will prevent many accidents during the summer and fall months.

Two Minute Sermon

By

Thomas Hastwell

I BUY RICHES WITH A PENNY:
Yesterday on my way home I witnessed a most interesting incident. Three poorly clothed children, aged two, four and five, were standing looking hungrily into a store window in which were displayed an assortment of attractive all-day suckers. The two older girls held a brief consultation and then one of them went into the store, purchased a sucker and gave it to the baby sister who grasped it eagerly and began to eat it while the two older sisters looked on hungrily watching every move. From my position at the curb, I saw the whole scene through my car window. I called the two little girls to the curb and gave each of them a penny and told them each to get a sucker for themselves. They lost no time doing it. They returned to the sidewalk radiant, each claspng tightly in a chubby, dirty hand, a huge sucker. I have never seen a happier group. There was revealed in the incident themes for several sermons. One was the sermon of unselfishness on the part of the two little sisters. It was truly an inspiring thing when one senses the full measure of their cheerful and unhesitating childish sacrifice. The second was the amount of happiness that a little act may bring when done at the opportune time. The penny meant little to me. It might have bought a postal card, but, spent as it was, it brought happiness to two ragged, eager, play-soiled children and reward for their unselfishness, and I who had the least invested, received the largest reward of all.

Treat Your Family to Their Favorite OLD-FASHIONED SHORTCAKE

Make a luscious fruit shortcake for dinner tonight! It's the grand old-fashioned kind made from rich biscuit dough — and made the Spry way it's so tender and flaky it fairly melts in your mouth.

OLD-FASHIONED SHORTCAKE

- 2 cups sifted flour
- $\frac{1}{2}$ teaspoon salt
- 2 tablespoons sugar
- $\frac{1}{2}$ teaspoon baking powder
- $\frac{1}{2}$ cup Spry
- $\frac{1}{2}$ cup milk (about)
- Seasonal berries or fruit

SIFT flour with salt, sugar, and baking powder.

Cut in Spry until mixture is as fine as meal.

Add milk, mixing to a soft dough.

Knead lightly about 20 seconds. Roll $\frac{3}{4}$ -inch thick. Cut with 3-inch biscuit cutter and place on baking sheet greased with Spry.

Bake in very hot oven (450° F.) 10 to 12 minutes.

Split hot biscuits, butter each half, and put together with sweetened fresh fruit or berries. Top with sweetened whipped cream or serve with plain cream.

To make one large shortcake "family style," bake the dough in an 8-inch Spry-greased layer pan in hot oven (425° F.) 25 minutes and put together with sweetened fruit as directed above.

LIMING OF SOILS AIDS PRODUCTION

Process Is Necessary to Destroy Harmful Acidity.

By PROF. G. D. SCARSETH

(Soil Chemist, Purdue University Agricultural Experiment Station, Lafayette, Ind.)

Liming the soil is like lathering the face before shaving. Lathering simply paves the way for a smooth, clean shave; liming only prepares the soil for better crop production.

Just as shaving requires a razor in addition to soap and water, so the best crop production requires, in addition to liming, the use of fertilizers carrying nitrogen, phosphorus and potash.

Not all soils are acid, nor do all soils need lime. But where soil acidity occurs it is "Public Enemy No. 1" and lime is the G-man that destroys it.

To use fertilizers on acid soils without first employing lime to correct the acidity is like trying to run a race with lead weights in your pocket.

But if neither liming, adequate fertilization nor legumes are used, then agriculture must inevitably fall back on the White Man and Indian rotation. The recipe is this: Let the White Man have the soil 100 years to destroy its fertilization, and let the Indians have it 5,000 years to rebuild it with forests. The forest trees "limed" the soil naturally by pumping back to the surface, through their deep roots, the soluble plant foods which fertilized the earth as the leaves fell to the ground and decayed.

Soil acidity is due to the absence of calcium, magnesium and potassium. When the soil was virgin or very fertile, the clay particles in the earth were saturated with these soluble alkaline elements. But through continuous cropping and the prolonged movement of rainwater through the soil, these elements are loosened and washed out of the soil. Then hydrogen from the soil waters becomes attached to the spots on the clays where these food elements had been removed. Thus the soil becomes acidic and the clay particles themselves, are the source of the soil acids. And unless they are provided with alkaline elements, the soil will remain acid.

Since clays in the soils are the principal sources of acid, a heavy clay soil would have more acidity to be neutralized by lime than a sandy soil with only a small amount of clay.

To summarize the situation: If soils are acid, lime should be applied to correct this condition in order to secure best results from the fertilizer used.

Farmers Developing New Saving Methods

Agriculture has greater assurance of permanency if it can maintain its soil and raise better crops, according to Dr. George C. Moore of the soil conservation service, United States department of agriculture.

In one instance, he said, 1,200 New York farmers aided, for the fourth year, in completing methods for saving soil and water on sloping agricultural land. A wealth of information has accumulated.

Results have become evident in increased yields, for potatoes and silage corn alike, Dr. Moore reported. He suggested other better-farming practices to go along with contour tillage, strip-cropping, and diversion ditches, such as pasture improvement, better care of woodlands, and greater use of alfalfa and permanent hay. He said these help toward a better live stock balance on a cash crop farm.

Root Zones Are Needed For Good Plant Growth

Since air in the soil is essential for plant growth, a root zone 3½ to 4 feet should be provided for such common farm crop plants as wheat, corn, soy beans and alfalfa. This may be provided through an adequate system of underground drainage, in which the mains and laterals act as air ducts through which air circulates and from which it feeds out into the soil at the joints. Surface inlets aid in this matter of soil ventilation.

Root zones, which are above the water table, secure their moisture through capillary attraction. Capillarity simply lines the soil pores with a film of moisture, leaving air space so that the plant food is then available to the growing plant, both air and moisture being present.

Fowl Paralysis

The outstanding symptom of fowl or range paralysis in poultry is disability of a bird's legs, wings or eyesight. This is because the disease affects the nervous system. An affected bird may gradually lose its ability to stand. Similarly, the wings may droop or drag and the head turn or twist unnaturally. If the nerve of the eye are affected, blindness sets in. As for treatment, about the only thing one can do is to kill all affected birds.

Tri-City Resident

Mitchell LaValley, 42, a WPA worker at South Berwick, Maine, has the distinction of living in three towns at once. His 16 by 20 foot house is situated on the town lines of South Berwick, Eliot and York. When he sleeps, his head is in Eliot and his feet in South Berwick and when he sits down to eat he reaches into York to get the butter.

Blessed is the man that walketh
not in the counsel of the ungodly,
nor standeth in the way of sinners,
nor sitteth in the seat of the scornful.—Psalms 1:1.

The scarcity of trained workers in the airplane industry and other fields of industry brings one step nearer the time when the school systems of the country will all include a vocational training course. The schools of the future are going to send young men and young women out into the world trained to work with their hands and heads instead of sending them out with their heads crammed full of historical dates, mathematical theorems, rules of grammar and chemical equations that in no wise correlate with anything they find to do later on in the world. The slavish devotion to the three "R's" as the beginning and the end of education in our schools is a monument of stupidity.

They take their elections seriously

The action of France in turning against England and attempting to deliver her fleet to Hitler is just another reason why this country does not want to become involved in Europe. They don't stay put.

The opposite of a sane driver is the driver who always insists that he is right, has the right of way and that it is up to the other fellow to look out.

There are three classes of people who never seem to learn anything:
the fellow who pours kerosene out of a can onto a burning fire, the jay-walker, and the fellow who lets a gypsy paw over him and then discovers after she is gone that his pocket has been picked.

If the depression lasts long enough to bring back into good repute the time honored virtue of thrift, it will not have been entirely without benefit. The young man or the young woman who embarks on life without having learned the rare virtue of thrift and self denial starts with a handicap. Most of the destitution of later years and the opportunities lost because one did not have the money at the opportune time to make an advantageous investment, can be traced to the fact that as a young man or a young woman the individual never learned the simple virtue of thrift, of saving, and self denial.

France, in most peoples' opinion, has sold her birthright for a mess of pottage. France thinks that Hitler has given her an honorable peace.
In the light of Hitler's past performances and his complete failure to keep any of his promises, we are predicting that Marshal Petain, old though he is, will live to see the time when France is stripped of every semblance of freedom and is but a vassal state of Germany. She talks about rebuilding and coming back, but with a German spy system in every village, with censored newspapers and Hitler propagandized and censored radio, with all her arms under the control of Hitler, with free speech, free press, free radio gone, she will be helpless to help herself.

LAMP POSTS PAINTED

Last week, the lamp posts on Main Street in Mentone were given two coats of aluminum paint and the light globes were washed by Junior Whetstone.

This adds a great deal of attractiveness to our streets. Also the new curbs which have been put in recently, have helped to make our town
more attractive.

FINDS INDIANA PARKS BEST VACATION PLACE

"... so we turned around and came back to Indiana where we could really enjoy the remainder of our vacation at one of the Indiana state parks," read a letter received recently by Virgil M. Simmons, commissioner of the Department of Conservation, from a Hoosier who had returned from a motor trip in several other states.

This comment is typical of many received during the year as more and more Hoosiers discover the vacation attractions of their own state and the facilities which the Indiana state parks afford for enjoying an economical family outing. Camping in a tent or trailer, housekeeping in a cabin, or relaxing from household duties at one of the park inns gives variety to the attractions of the parks. Already this season there have been approximately forty thousand over-night campers in the state park.

Prospector 'Worked'

John Oldag, old-time prospector, reached Marysville, Calif., with his pockets lined with gold nuggets ranging in value from $3.50 to $11.50. Lead Pencil Invention

The earliest mention of what are known today as lead pencils appears in records dating back to 1565—not long after the discovery of the noted graphite mine at Borrowdale, England, in 1554. This mine furnished the material for the first lead pencils. The graphite was sawed into strips and fastened into wooden casings. In 1795 the Frenchman Conte improved the process by grinding the graphite and mixing it with clay, in order to produce grades of hardness and blackness.
