CHARLES SHOEMAKER DIES SATURDAY

Charles E. Shoemaker, aged 82, died at 1:50 a. m. Saturday at the McDonald hospital in Warsaw, due to a heart attack. He was admitted to the hospital a few hours previously. He had been in failing health since March due to a heart ailment.

Mr. Shoemaker was born at Roann April 18, 1867, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ivo Shoemaker. Before going to Warsaw 35 years ago, he had resided at Mentone for 22 years and was employed at the Val Brown & Son sawmill.

In 1881 he was married to Della Shoemaker, who died in 1930. In 1932 he was married to Orpha Huff.

Mr. Shoemaker had been employed as a teamster at the Miner Lumber company at Warsaw.

Surviving relatives include his wife; three sons, Ralph, of Mishawaka, Russell of Warsaw, and Ray of Kalamazoo, Michigan; a daughter, Mrs. Dulcie Shriver, Warsaw; a brother, James, of Wabash; a half-brother, Elmer Shoemaker, of Silver Lake; a half-sister, Mrs. Clyde Funnell, of Warsaw; 12 grandchildren, and 19 great-grandchildren.

Funeral services were held Sunday at the Bilby, funeral home in Warsaw, with burial in the Mentone cemetery.

WADE WHITTENBERGER DIES

Funeral services for Wade Whittenberger, 61, of Luray, Kansas, a former resident of Claypool, will be held at two p. m. Friday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Sanders, of Claypool, brother-in-law and sister of the deceased.

Mr. Whittenberger died Sunday evening at his home in Kansas, due to a heart attack.

LARGE CROWD PRESENT AT JULY 4TH CELEBRATION

Veterans' Park, at Mentone, was filled to capacity Monday evening for the annual celebration sponsored by the Mentone Lions Club. It would be difficult for one to estimate how many people were here, but the number would run into the thousands. All available parking space in Mentone for autos was taken, and the Dean Nellans road, east of town, we have been informed, had cars parked on both sides of it by people waiting to watch the fireworks display.

The Mentone Lions club is especially grateful for the fine response, and preliminary estimates indicate that the net proceeds from the lunch counter, stands, and softball contributions will be almost enough to pay the cost of putting on the free show. The Lions club never expects to make a profit on a venture of this kind, and they have a special reserve fund to underwrite the "losses" if any should occur. When each Lion member, and other individuals, donate all their time and energy working on the various committees and concessions, it is possible to underwrite the cost of the celebration from the net returns from the concession stands.

The Lions club, and the Fourth of July Chairman, Delford Nelson, extend thanks and appreciation to everyone.

The Mentone Merchants, under the capable pitching of Brockey, won over the South Bend American Legion boys five to nothing. The South Bend team has played some spectacular ball this season and even though they didn't win here, they were perfectly capable of doing so if given half a chance by luck or otherwise.

The South Bend colored team that was supposed to play here, canceled the game a few days ago, saying some of their players wanted to go to "Shekawgo to see thee ball game."

The kiddies parade wasn't as large this year as in former years, but was a colorful event just the same. Prizes were awarded as follows:

Bicycles—First, Madeline Anderson; second, Janet Sue Beeson, and third, Jay Clutter.

Tricycles—Alice Camplejohn (only entry).

Calling all outdoorsmen

By JIM MITCHELL

I happened to hear an argument the other day between two well-informed conservationists that struck a rather deep note in my own thinking.

First off, one of the fellows said: "Give me a few fellows who are willing to contribute heavily to any worthy conservation program and forget the dollar-a-head guys."

The other man favored the masses, including many, many contributors at a low fee.

Who's right? I'll side in with the fellow arguing for small fees and mass contributors.

Take Ducks Unlimited, for instance. This organization is supported solely by contributions and, for the most part, a few thousand men and women donate large amounts of money to the cause of looking after waterfowl in the northern breeding areas.

Wouldn't it be better if you had several hundred thousand contributors to Ducks Unlimited at a dollar a piece. I think so, for every contributor regardless of the amount he donated would feel that he or she had a part in protecting and raising waterfowl. That same contributor would be less inclined to go out on a lake or marsh with the devil-may-care attitude and kill more than the limit.

The old argument of the Masses vs. A Few, however, is typical of most sportsman' clubs. We know of many clubs boasting of memberships that range into the thousands, yet when there is work to be done only a few respond to the request. Sure, all the members pay their dues—and that helps in worthy causes. But if they'd all back up their dues with personal labor on projects it would be so much better all-round.

It is unfortunate, but the current outdoor look is anything but bright. Too many hunters and fishermen have the attitude, "to heck with next year, let's get our share today!" And it is just such thinking that's making it extremely tough to encourage and promote sound conservation practices.

Money, naturally, is important. But it's not nearly important as having millions of sportsmen schooled in sound conservation work who are willing to forget a day of shooting or fishing now and then to help restore our outdoors to a better and more productive place for all sportsmen—now and in the future.

So the next time you get a call from your sportsmen's club, think twice before declining to help out. If you don't, it's like cutting off your nose to spite your face!

Indiana now ranks eighth among the states for the number of artificial breeding associations as of January 1, 1949, according to information received at Purdue University. At present, there are 54 associations organized with a total of 9,068 herds and 43 bulls enrolled. A total of 63,098 cows are in the herds and of this number, 36,589 cows were bred in 1948.

The old method of grasshopper control is by the use of poisoned bran bait and it is still used where large areas need to be covered. It is most effective broadcasted early in the morning. Young or immature hoppers are most likely to be killed by the cryolite, the poison in the bait.

This poison has no long, residual effect, Purdue University entomologists advise.

THE COST OF HIGH LIVING

Several years ago, after a young man had settled down into a newly acquired married state and had noticed how his wife was buying furniture, etc., remarked: "She'll soon find out the cost of high living." The remark carried so much actual fact that one couldn't help but remember it.

The time has long since past when the American people have found the cost of government to be far too much for their own welfare. People in government circles, as we've stated before, are misinformed as to the purpose of a government. Government is for the people, but now the people are considered the servants of the government. By law, fiat or ultimatum, legal or otherwise, the ordinary citizen is held under threat of fine or imprisonment if he fails to provide lavishly for this government or abide by any of the dictates of the individuals that have found their way into the inner circle.

A decade or so ago—in times not considered as prosperous as today—the citizens of the United States had quite a sum of money left out of their earnings after taxes were paid. In one of our "most prosperous years" a couple of years ago, the nation's net earnings after taxes, was more than SIXTY times less—less than nine billion dollars, or one-fifth of the total 1949 budget for operating our federal government.

Benjamin Franklin once said: "A large standing army is the beginning of tyranny." We're not citing the military over any other department of government, but the Citizens Committee of the Hoover Report mentions this department as one where much saving could be done without impairing the amount or quality of our defense. It's lost because of pure waste, negligence and poor judgment. (One really can't blame a military officer for having poor judgment—in fact we should expect it if he has been in the service for any period of time. Our antiquated military "air" infers that no one of inferior rank has any ability whatsoever and there is no possible means of contradiction. Any decision, regardless of how ignorant, foolish, juvenile, assinine or absurd, cannot be questioned, and the poor cuss has no way of learning right from wrong.)

The army, navy and air force now spend, according to the Citizens Committee report, $15 billions a year. This is one-third of the federal budget. It is nearly twice the cost of the WHOLE government 10 years ago.

To us, as citizens, this is an expense as real as a grocery bill. Defense alone now costs us $100 per person per year (against $2.25 before World War I and $8 in 1938).

In its study of the present operation of the armed services the Commission found:

1. An "extravagant" attitude on the part of service chiefs.

2. Lack of teamwork among the three armed services.

3. Lack of civilian control and divided authority and responsibility at the top.

The defense budget cannot be cut to any great extent, but various economy measures could help a trifle.

FACTS ON METAL ROOFS

Demonstration metal roofs on farm buildings in many sections of the state are proving how durable this type of roof can be.

The life time of these roofs can be greatly increased by knowing how to select the roofing, how to put it on, and ways to preserve the metal. I. D. Mayer, extension agricultural engineer for Purdue University, who has assisted at a number of the roofing demonstrations, gives a few points in the appplying of the material.

Screw-type nails have proved preferable to smooth - shank nails for fastening metal sheets securely to roof sheathing. Sheet metal screws have been used satisfactorily to fasten the sheets together where the wood structure did not hold nails. A No. 12 half-inch galvanized screw-nail was also satisfactory as it fills old nail holes.

Asbestos wicking has been found to be a good material for gaskets in the sheet laps, but not more than two strands should be used or the sheets may be spread apart too far.

Galvanized roofing should be painted as soon as the galvanizing or zinc coating begins to break down. Painting at this stage takes less labor and much less paint than if one waits until the roof has begun to show a considerable number of rust spots.

For the paint to stick on well and for maximum coverage, it must be put on in warm weather. Sheets must be dry and free from dust and dirt. If rusted, the sheets can be cleaned with a wire brush to remove loose particles and scale. First, paint all rusted spots and allow to dry before applying a coat over the entire roof. Wire brushing is not necessary if the paint is applied with a spray gun, but the roof should be swept with a broom just before painting. Metallic zinc paint has given excellent service in many tests.

Rust Remover

Lemon juice can be used to remove rust from linoleum.

THANKS, JOHN Q.

"It's about time a good word is said for the law-abiding citizen. That was the gist of a letter which came to the superintendent's desk a few days ago. Well, there'll be no controversy over that point. Perhaps we policemen slight the ladies who make proper hand signals, the pedestrians who walk with the green light, and the fellows who stop at stop signs or who refrain from beating their wives. There are millions of men and women who observe the law because they know that the regulations were adopted for their own welfare.

"The truth of the matter is law enforcement agencies and officers would be helpless if it were not for the huge segment of the populace that believes in obedience to the law. It is the relatively small number of lawless persons that keeps the police officer on the run. Because police administrators and educators have to give so much attention to the problem of the bad citizen, the good citizen has been taken for granted.

"All of us owe sincere thanks to law-abiding John Q. Public. While he depends on us for enforcement service, we likewise depend on his continuing support. His example with regard to citizen responsibility to the law will help influence the other kind."

FARM TOUR IS ANNOUNCED

Participants in the Indiana Farm Management tour to be held Wednesday, July 27, in Whitley and Noble counties will have a close up view of "farm management that pays" on a diversified one-man farm, a larger, highly mechanized farm, and a poultry farm of 1500 laying hens.

The tour will begin at the Robert Pontzius farm six miles northeast of Columbia City at 9:00 a. m. (DST) under the direction of the department of Agricultural Economics. Mr. Pontzius combines dairy, hog and poultry enterprises with good land use and high profit cash crops on his 139 acre farm. A new modern 500-hen capacity laying house can be seen here. Pontzius is shifting to the milking parlor, tramp shed plan for his expanded dairy herd.

The second farm to be visited will be the Virgil and Thomas Rosentrader 200 acre dairy-hog farm at the south edge of Churubusco. At this stop, visitors will learn how 20 cows and 100 head of hogs are used to consume legume hay and corn raised or purchased by the Rosentraders. Sound cropping practices and profitable rotations have been followed on this farm.

Lunch will be served at the Kendallville fairgrounds. The afternoon program will be highlighted by a talk by Charles E. Snyder, editor of the Chicago Daily Drover's Journal.

The final stop of the day will be at the Clair Swogger farm, two miles north of Kendallville. The farm is operated as a one-man unit and includes crops, hogs and a 1500 hen laying flock. Farmers who visit this farm will see a big business in operation on 80 acres, the Purdue agricultural economists point out.

On Tuesday evening, prior to the tour, an agricultural outlook session and banquet will be held in the Chamber of Commerce Building at Auburn, at 7:00 p. m. (DST). Dr. Earl Butz, head of the department of agricultural economics will give the Outlook and Dr. L. S. Robertson, farm management specialist, will speak on adjusting the farm business to the Outlook.

OUTDOOR INDIANA FREE

Outdoor Indiana is to be sent free of charge to those wishing to receive it.

Decision to dispense with a subscription fee was reached some time ago, however, announcement of a definite nature was withheld until a setup in the editorial offices of the magazine, Room 401B, State Library Building, 140 North Senate Avenue, could be completed.

Even yet, plans to print the magazine in quantities sufficient to take care of all those wishing to read it, are not complete. It is hoped that in the event some on the mailing list fail to receive their copy they will bear with the editorial division until it can dig its way from beneath the deluge of requests coming in.

The editorial division has had printed a huge quantity of cards to be used in applying to the mailing list. The easiest way in which to get on the list is to contact the officials of local conservation clubs, Isaac Walton League Chapters or whatever conservation body to which you may belong.

Field men of the Educational Division headed by Hal Farr, Director, will have these cards available within a few days. Fill them out correctly and mail to Outdoor Indiana. That you are not a member of any of the foregoing organizations, that makes no difference. Make application by means of a letter or government postal card. Print all details or typewrite them so that our circulation division will have no difficulty in cooperating with you. We also ask that you apply for one magazine to a family.

CELEBRATE BIRTHDAY

WHEAT STORAGE SHORTAGE

Indiana wheat growers, who expect to take advantage of the government support price, must be prepared to store the new crop on the farm, according to M. D. Guld, manager of the Indiana Grain Cooperative.

Because of early delivery of corn under loan and purchase agreement, commercial storage will be inadequate. Eighteen million bushels of 1948 corn under loan and purchase agreement must be resealed or delivered to the government by October 1. Because of damage being done by the angoumois moth and shortage of storage on the farm, Lee Patrick, also of the grain cooperative, is of the opinion that at least 14 million bushels of this corn will be delivered.

The 1949 Indiana crop of wheat is now estimated at 40 million bushels, an excess of two millions more than last year. If the farmer can provide his own storage space and is careful to harvest the wheat when it is fully ripe and dry, he may expect to get the support price of about $2. Country elevators are now offering about $1.70 to the farmer.

Wet wheat cannot be dried save by mechanical methods. If it is stored when the moisture content is more than 14 per cent, it is sure to become damaged, and may be reduced to feeding quality. Guld recommends that wheat be stored not deeper than six feet in the bin. It is also observed that grain harvested in the early forenoon may be from 1 to 2 per cent higher in moisture content than afternoon-harvested grain.

Farmers are again urged to provide their own storage and properly harvest their wheat if they expect to be able to take advantage of the support price.

FIVE POLIO PRECAUTIONS FOR PARENTS

Warning that the 1949 polio season is "just around the corner," the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis has issued a list of precautionary measures that should be observed by those in charge of children during the epidemic danger period, which usually runs from May through October, reaching its peak during the hot mid-summer months.

The five easy-to-follow health rules for children are:

1. Avoid crowds and places where close contact with other persons is likely.
2. Avoid over-fatigue caused by too active play or exercise, or irregular hours.
3. Avoid swimming in polluted water. Use only beaches or public pools declared safe by local health authorities.
4. Avoid sudden chilling. Remove wet shoes and clothing at once and keep extra blankets and heavier clothing handy for sudden weather changes.
5. Observe the golden rule of personal cleanliness. Keep food tightly covered and safe from flies or other

CHECKING JAP BEETLE

In cooperation with the United States Department of Agriculture, experts of the Division of Entomology, Indiana Department of Conservation, have begun a seven city entrapment of the devastating Japanese Beetle, an elusive insect that ravages crops, vegetation shrubbery and lawns.

More than 2,000 traps containing a scented lure which attracts the beetle, will be placed in Indianapolis, Gary, Richmond, Fort Wayne, Hammond, Lawrenceburg, and Elkhart by attaches of the two organizations.

The traps are suspended from a steel rod about four feet in length which is pushed into the ground. The trap proper is a box like device about six by ten inches.

They will be left at the more than two thousand locations for a period of about six weeks during which time government and state entomologists will make periodic visits to determine the infestation of the insect into localities suspected.

The Japanese beetle, feared by agriculturists and city residents alike because of its forays into vegetation, shrubbery and harvest fields, first was discovered in the United States in 1934, according to Paul T. Ulman, assistant State Entomologist. It is thought that it was carried to this country in the Japanese Iris.

In the event the thousands of traps yield a capture, the state Division of Entomology and the United States Department of Agriculture will immediately take steps to eradicate the pest by means of DDT in amounts of twenty-five pounds to an acre at no cost to the person concerned. Residential districts also will be treated in a similar fashion.

Last year only twenty-five acres in Indiana were found to be infested and the DDT method completely eliminated all vestiges of the beetle.

The beetle can fly at high speed and oftentime great swarms of them on the move make a sound equal to that of swarming bees. It makes its home slightly beneath the surface of the ground, lays its eggs and burrows about six inches into the ground in the winter for protection. June and July bring to the light the newly born beetle which immediately takes off for prevalent greenery and crops.

HEALTH FACTS FROM YOUR STATE BOARD OF HEALTH

Distress from summer complaint in hot weather may be avoided by observing two simple rules, Dr. J. W. Jackson, director, Division of Communicable Disease Control, Indiana State Board of Health, pointed out this week.

"The first rule is to cook thoroughly any perishable food that is not going to be put in refrigeration, and the second, is to keep food which is not to be cooked immediately properly refrigerated at all times. The care of these foods may make the difference between a feeling of contentment and a stomach-ache.

"Bacteria are like people in that fact that when passing a person on the street you cannot tell whether they are on their way to do somebody some good, or on their way to do some one harm. Those coconut cream pies and custards can look delicious but if they are not kept under proper refrigeration, a piece may cause nausea, vomiting, abdominal cramps and diarrhea from a few minutes to 72 hours later.

"Hot temperatures are favorable for the growth of harmful bacteria," Dr. Jackson pointed out. "Some foods contain bacteria which are kept dormant by proper refrigeration, but if these foods stay in the hot air for hours, the bacteria multiply and cause summer complaint."

An estimated 20,000 people attended the four grassland field days held in June by the Extension Service of Purdue University. The fifth and final field day will be held in Spencer county, August 24, and will be sponsored by the county extension agents and committeemen of the Evansville district.

Corn makes up 62 per cent of the total concentrate ration fed to the herds of Indiana dairy reporters. During 1948, these Hoosier dairymen fed 34 pounds of grain for each 100 pounds of milk produced, according to the Purdue University dairy department reports. This is the largest amount fed in any state in the northwest or northeast central regions.

WALL-EYES ARE GROWING

Do you know that not too long ago a wall-eyed pike weighing fourteen pounds was taken from a northern Indiana river? And do you know that a whopper weighing nine pounds was landed at Lake Pappakeeche in Kosciusko county.

Indeed they were.

Furthermore, Indiana waters, according to Melvin Scott, supervisor of state fisheries, are swarming with others just like the ones mentioned above—waiting to give battle.

Wall-eyed fry were planted in the early thirties as part of an experiment by the Indiana Department of Conservation. During world war two the department was unable to continue its functions to any great degree and in later years the survey of the wall-eye situation was not kept up.

Recently, attaches of the division of fisheries conducted a survey which it was learned that the experiment of the thirties had really paid off and that wall-eyed pike have multiplied in great numbers.

The original planting took place after several million wall-eye eggs had been transported to the Tri Lakes hatchery near Columbia City. The hatch produced a healthy tribe and these were in turn distributed heavily throughout northern Indiana waters to be on their own. The results, according to Supervisor Scott are astonishing.

Reports to Henry P. Cottingham, director of fish and game division show that wall-eyes are thriving and many have been taken in the Kankakee River, Lake Wawasee, the St. Joe River, the St. Mary's River, Oliver Lake, Lake James and the Iroquois River.

Mr. Cottingham and Ms. Scott disclosed this week that 5,000,000 wall-eye eggs have been transported to the Wawasee Lake State Hatchery from Minnesota, a task entailing much traveling and great pains in bringing the cargo of future fishing sport to Indiana waters. In all the cargo of eggs yielded more than 3,00,000 wall-eyed fry which have in turn been planted in Lake Wawasee, Lake Max-inkuckee, Oliver Lake, Lake James, Lake Pappakeeche and other Indiana waters.

ANOTHER NEW DAIRY PRODUCT—CANNED CREAM

Have you ever wished you could buy canned cream at your grocer? It's being manufactured and marketed by a Wisconsin dairy company and is being readily accepted by consumers, according to a front page story in the July 2 Prairie Farmer.

The process for canning sweet cream was developed by two French-Canadian scientists, Phillippe and Marcelle Pariseault, after 20 years of experimentation. This new product is being produced under their supervision in the Ligua-Dry Milk Company plant at Mauston, Wisconsin.

The cream, which is packed in 10-ounce cans, will keep indefinitely without refrigeration and stay sweet under refrigeration as long as 30 days after the can is opened. This 18 per cent butterfat (coffee cream) product was introduced in a Boston store recently and a record of 4,500 cans were sold over the counter in a single day.

THREE EGG FIRMS POST SHIPPERS BONDS

After the failure of a New York egg receiver last September, which caused the loss of several thousand dollars to the Indiana egg shippers, a committee was appointed by the shippers and egg car managers to secure bonds from the receivers in this market to prevent a loss of this nature from occurring again. This committee drew up an agreement to be bonded and mailed a copy to each active receiver in this market, requesting not less than a $5,000 bond to be deposited with the Northern Indiana Cooperative Association of Mentone, Indiana, as trustee, indemnifying the shippers from any loss resulting from:

(a) Failure to pay a fair market value for eggs. (Prices to be established by New York Mercantile Exchange on date of receipt of such eggs in New York.)

(b) Deferred remittances.

(c) Undergrading. (As it was determined by the committee that this clause is unfair to the receiver, it has now been deleted.)

(d) Failure to accept eggs upon arrival.

(e) Unfaithful performance of duty to the shippers.

Eggs from all established shipping points of Northern Indiana are covered by this agreement as of this date only three New York egg receivers have shown any desire to cooperate by purchasing satisfactory bonds.

The committee wishes to make it known that the three firms are:

Schonbrun Bros.,
333 Greenwich St.,
New York, N. Y.

Alex Epstein & Son,
310 Greenwich St.,
New York, N. Y.

S. Hackel & Co.,
318 Greenwich St.,
New York, N. Y.

These firms have secured bonds for your protection. If and when other firms secure satisfactory bonds, a notice will be issued so you may at all times be able to consign your eggs to companies which have protected your interests by securing satisfactory bonds.

The bonds cover one week's shipment of eggs only.

The committee has no intention of controlling the shipment of eggs to

HEALTH FACTS FROM YOUR STATE BOARD OF HEALTH

A fifty per cent reduction in the reporting of cases of primary and secondary syphilis has occurred in the past two years, according to Dr. Carl C. Kuehn, director, Division of Venereal Disease Control, Indiana State Board of Health.

Early latent syphilis cases show a three per cent decrease but the figure for congenital syphilis cases still remain high.

"The trend of the early infectious cases is the same throughout the country," Dr. Kuehn pointed out. "Penicillin has played a major role in influencing this disease by rendering the patient under treatment noninfectious. Penicillin enables a patient to receive a minimum adequate treatment in several days where it formerly took a year or longer to complete minimum adequate therapy. We also believe that education has effected this trend. We have tried to teach facts in an attempt to overcome the fear and disgrace that have always overshadowed the venereal diseases.

"Now, approximately 70% of the clinic patients come to the clinic voluntarily. Indiana has clinics located in the following cities: Anderson, Bedford, Boonville, Brazil, Columbus, East Chicago, Elkhart, Evansville, Fort Wayne, Franklin, Gary Hammond, Indianapolis, Kokoma, Madison, Marion, Muncie, New Albany, Princeton, Richmond, Seymour, South Bend, Terre Haute and Vincennes.

Deprived of Licenses

Nearly 430,000 motorists in the United States were shorn of their driving privileges last year because of traffic law offenses and practices detrimental to highway safety. The number exceeded the 1946 total by 112,000 or more than 25 per cent.

OFFICERS INSTALLED AT W. S. C. S. MEET

The Talma W. S. C. S. met Wednesday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Cora Bryant. The meeting opened by singing "Are Ye Able," after which the installation for new officers for this year was conducted by Mrs. A. M. Christie.

Roll call was answered by 23 members and three guests. Devotions entitled, "Peace To The Nation and Praise to the Lord," was given by Mrs. Harry Shriver.

The United Nations was the theme of the program for the evening and was presented by Mrs. Ada Bowman.

There will be a called meeting at the Church Friday afternoon, July 29. An invitation was given to attend a meeting of the Mentone W. S. C. S. of the Methodist Church on Thursday, July 14, at 7:30 (DS8) at the Church.

The next regular meeting will be held Friday, August 12. It was postponed because of the 4-H Fair. The meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Dale Peterson.

Mrs. Lester White closed the meeting with prayer.

TERRACE CONTEST RULES

Final regulations for the State Plow Terracing Contest to be held July 29 at the Albert Duggan Farm in Gibson County one mile west and one and a half miles south of Princeton have been announced by Gerald Karstens, extension agricultural engineer, Purdue University. The contest which will begin at 11 AM (CST) is sponsored by the State Soil Conservation Committee and the Evansville Courier with the active support of the Agricultural Extension Service of Purdue and the soil Conservation Service.

This year important changes have been made in the method of scoring plowing efficiency. This efficiency will count less than half the 1948 value and more emphasis will be placed on appearance, (alignment) stability and cross sectional area.

The extension engineer pointed out that only one entrant from each county will be permitted to compete in the contest and the contestant must be a bonafide farmer or farm employee. Contestants are eligible if they have been approved or if they have won the county plow terrace building contest for 1949. If there was no county contest, they must be approved by the Soil Conservation District supervisors and county agent or by the agent and district conservationist if the county is not in a soil conservation district.

In the contest, 300 linear feet of gradient terrace are constructed by each contestant who may use a mold board plow or one way disk.

The following cash prizes will be awarded: first, $100; second, $50; third, $30; and the fourth to the tenth place, each $10.

Complete details and entrance blanks were sent to county agent offices this week from the university. Contestants who do not plan to use their own equipment should make arrangements before July 19 with John H. Stewart, county agricultural extension office, Princeton, for a tractor, plow and fuel.

TIME-LY TALES

The story of time—and how men learned to keep track of it—dates back to antiquity. It was not until 1362 that the first mechanical clock was built. Hailed as a masterpiece, this clock still operates near its original location in Paris. Its builder, Henri de Vick, is a forebearer of the skilled French who helped establish the world-famous watch and clock industry in nearby Switzerland. Commissioned by Charles V of France to build the clock, de Vick spent eight years completing it. The original had only one hand.

THEY TOOK NO CHANCES— THE SECOND TIME

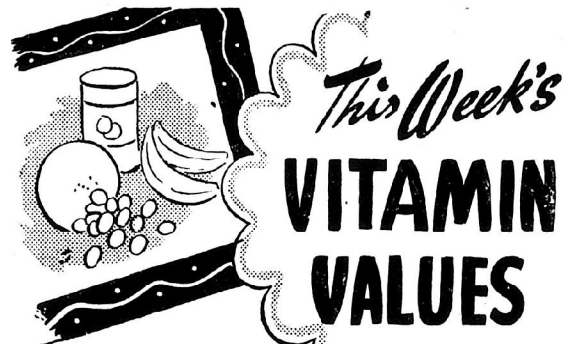

Standing alone out in the country was the Paradise Baptist Church of Perry County, Illinois. It stood for 36 years without harm and then something happened. It was struck by lightning, and because there was no lightning rod protection, the building caught fire and burned to the ground.

The congregation got busy and built a new church. This time they prepared for the hazards of lightning.

As one member of the congregation says, "We put the lightning rods up first and built the church up under them!"

That's not quite how lightning rod protection was installed, of course, but the church members who dug into their pockets for the new building made sure it was properly protected at the earliest possible time.

This illustration of how important it is to afford proper lightning protection to farm buildings and other edifices in the country is included in a story in the July 16 Prairie Farmer. A complete explanation of the proper methods for installing lightning rods is given.

BOTH ARE IMPORTANT

Does your town and the surrounding countryside plan and work together for community improvement?

Sometimes it's hard for the farmers to see how they fit into the town picture, and town businessmen often go ahead with their plans without considering the wishes of nearby farm families.

However, the business and social life of town and country is becoming more and more closely tied together, with community shopping, churches and schools all located in the town where both townspeople and farmers congregate.

The Illinois Rural Life Conference, meeting recently, has suggested a community council made up of people from the country as well as the town. Such a progressive step would help the town improve instead of slip backwards, and become a better community for everyone. The community council idea is advanced on the editorial page of the July 16 Prairie Farmer.

The editor of Prairie Farmer, Paul C. Johnson, presided over the meeting at which the community council idea was advanced.

FRIENDLY NEIGHBORS MEET

The Friendly Neighbors club met at the home of Alta Hudson July 7th with Emma Jones as hostess. Thelma Eaton, president, could not be present so the meeting was called to order by Emma Jones. Mary Welch gave a lesson on "Upholstering." Meditation and roll call was responded to with exhibit plans for the fair. Nineteen members and four children were present.

Plans were made for a family picnic July 30th. The actor sail went to Audry Boggs.

The next meeting Aug. 11 will be with Bess Manwaring.

Paprika

Paprika may be used to decorate lettuce by placing the lettuce in a bowl of water where it has been sprinkled. Tiny flecks will stick to the lettuce.

Plenty of Water

Water—a mineral—is the most plentiful compound substance known on earth. It is relatively a very stable substance. Little "new" water is ever formed and little "old" water is ever destroyed.

Automatic Merchandising

Origins of automatic vending have been traced back some 2,000 years to the Graeco-Roman era in Egypt, when Hero of Alexandria recorded the ideas of using a coin-actuated lustral vase in his Pneumatics. This device was a sealed vessel, placed at the entrance of a temple, from which worshippers could obtain a few drops of purifying holy water by dropping five drachma or more in coins into the slot at the top of the vase. Hero's writings are placed anywhere from 150 B. C. to 250 A. D. by historians.

Car Prices vs. Dairy Prices

Dairy and poultry farmers paid substantially less for their new 1948 automobiles than they did for their new 1940 models in terms of milk and eggs. This is true even though the price of automobiles in dollars and cents has increased. In terms of 100 pounds of milk, 522 were required to pay for a new car in 1940 and only 343 for a '48 model last year. Similarly, it took 176 crates of eggs to cover cost of a new 1940 model car compared with 96 for a 1948.

COPS CHASING PIGEONS, TOO

A "bureau of missing pigeons" at State Police headquarters here is finding favor among racing pigeon fanciers of Indiana and surrounding states.

The unofficial bureau was inaugurated in 1942 by Ray W. Shigley, Indianapolis, chief radio dispatcher at headquarters, and since has been credited with locating scores of wayward birds. It was started with World War II spy scare.

A pigeon was discovered in a war plant with a metal band, which bore mysterious letters, fastened to its leg. Fearing a sabotage plot, officials asked State Police to investigate. The feathered racer and its owner were subsequently cleared, but word of the unusual identification service spread.

"We've been in the business ever since," Dispatcher Shigley says, pointing to his file.

More than ordinary agility is required of troopers on missing pigeon details. An officers of Ligonier post was directed by radio to retrieve a grounded racer. He found the bird perched atop a large barn. After peeling off his boots and gun belt, he climbed to the roof and captured the "subject," which was returned to its owner.

Another trooper located an Army homing pigeon in flying condition on a farm near Angola. The A.W.O.L. flyer was feeding with the livestock and eluded attempts to return him to the Fifth Service Command at Ft. Hayes, Ohio. Dispatcher Shigley could do nothing but relay this information to the pigeon's commander.

Appreciation of the service has been expressed by pigeon owners in letters to the "bureau." Breeders, seeking to develop a bird that can climb like a P-80 and also have the endurance of a B-50, are interested in what happens to lost homers.

Shigley works closely with owners and breeders and maintains lists of birds registered with the two leading pigeon racing organizations—the International Federation of American Homing Pigeon Fanciers and the American Racing Pigeon Union. He also cooperates with local clubs in the mid-west.

Weather conditions and lack of experience can hinder a bird from keeping on course. However, some breeders believe that radio beams upset the pigeon's delicate directional apparatus, according to letters received by Shigley.

Identification is established by comparing the bird's leg band with the associations' registration files, according to Shigley. Pigeons are banded before they are 12 days old and are not eligible to race unless they carry a band.

Racing pigeons are as high strung as race horses, experts say. The birds are capable of flying 500 to 700 miles a day at 50 to 60 miles an hour. Races usually start under the 100-mile mark and the distance is increased with each race during the season.

State Police advise persons finding a grounded pigeon to rest and feed the bird. Homers eat cracked corn and water. If the stranded bird appears able to fly, it should be released. Otherwise, provide State Police with its serial number and an attempt will be made to notify the owner.

INCREASE IN FLUID DRIVERS

Drunken driving arrests made by State Police troopers in Indiana increased almost 43 per cent over last year during the first four months of 1949, Arthur M. Thurston, department superintendent, has announced.

Arrests through April totaled 879 this year as compared with 615 similar arrests in 1948. In April alone this year 272 arrests were made by troopers. The records of other departments were not available.

"There is no place for the intoxicated driver on the highways," Supt. Thurston asserted. "The drunken driver endangers his own life and other persons using the highways, and adds unnecessary hazards already increased by an unprecedented number of cars."

Supt. Thurston recalled that the state highway commission reported highway travel increased 8 per cent in May over the same month last year and 18 per cent over May, 1941, when the all-time peak for traffic deaths in Indiana was recorded. More vehicles on Hoosier roadways are indicated by 150,805 more motor vehicles in the state this year.

State-wide fatalities also are increasing. In the first five months of 1949 an 8 per cent jump was tallied, with 397 deaths, 28 more than occurred in the same period in 1948. However, provisional figures for June show improvement, with 58 fatalities reported against 79 persons killed in June, 1948.

"If the arrests for drunken driving continue to increase at the present rate, current figures will top the 2,209 arrests in 1948 by almost 1,000," the State Police chief estimated.

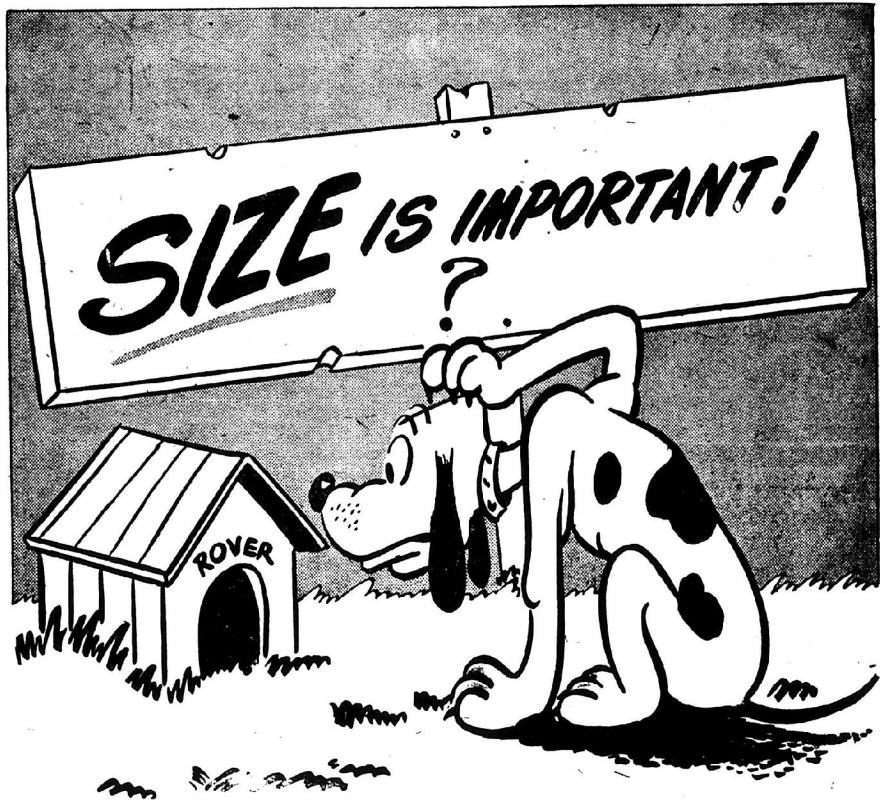

Conviction in these arrests carries a fine of $10 to $100 or imprisonment in the jail or state farm for ten days to six months or both for a first offense. It also includes mandatory suspension of a driver's license for 90 days which may be lengthened up to one year by the court. Second or subsequent convictions are punishable by fines of $100 to $500 and imprisonment of 1 to 3 years.

NORTHERN INDIANA Public Service COMPANY

Every so often something is developed for fishing or hunting that quickly meets with the public's fancy and, Bang, it's a success overnight.

For instance, the Firelure Corporation not long ago developed Gantron F for tying flies. Gantron is a substance that picks up ultra violet rays and then gives them off. Fabrics made of Gantron have a visibility six or seven times greater than any other materials known. Flies, too, have this great visibility—to humans, at least, and probably to fish as well.

But regardless of merit, the fishing public took a fancy to Gantron-tied flies, and many of the sporting goods stores I do business with would hardly more than unpack a shipment of these special lures until they'd be gone. Now the Firelure Corporation has added Fire Lacquer—a Gantron liquid for painting plugs, spoons and other bait casting lures. It's not yet on the market and, when available, will be sold only to manufacturers the same as Gantron F.

Two months ago I painted some sample lures with Gantron and went after largemouth bass in a southern lake. It's been proved that the Gantron lures work better early in the morning, late evening or on dull and cloudy days. Fortunately, for my first test, it rained and was cloudy during the two days of fishing—and Gantron-painted plugs out-fished any of my regular and favorite plugs.

"This is wonderful," I thought to myself. Two weeks later, I tried the same lures in different water and under different conditions and the Gantron-painted lures failed to produce as well as the old standbys from the tackle box.

Now I'm about ready for the annual trek into the wilderness of Canada after bass, muskellunge, northern pike, walleyes and lake trout. The tackle box is well-stocked with the old favorite and some newly painted Gantron lures. What the result will be in Gantron vs. Regulars is unpredictable. But, at least, it makes for good arguments—and arguments always enhance fishing.

Maine Woods

Maine is still a mighty timber country. Of its more than 19 million acres over 18 million were originally in forest. There is still 16 million acres in trees, and a lot more of impoverished farm land should be growing timber crops. In 1941 Maine was reported to have 27 billion board feet of sawtimber, aside from its thriving pulpwood crops on millions of acres—some of which have been harvested four times. Normal annual lumber cut is about 226 million board feet, with annual pulpwood production at around 1,200,000 cords. However, the recreation business is the biggest one of all in the Maine woods. That was why last year's fires were so costly, burning into such rich resort towns as Bar Harbor.

GARMENT CLEANING

"Dry Clean Only." Such a label on a garment may be misleading. It might be assumed this label means the fabric should be dry cleaned without the use of water which is not always the case. If a fibre is damaged by water when wearing or occasionally in the cleaning process, it would not be very serviceable and would be limited in its usefulness.

Not all dry cleaning is dry. This process of dry cleaning may be dry or wet dry cleaning. Miss Frieda C. Stoll, extension clothing specialist, Purdue University, says. For dry cleaning, a garment is put through a cleaning fluid. This primarily dissolves grease or oily soil.

Sometimes it is necessary for the commercial cleaner to use water to remove soil ground into the fabric or perspiration which dry cleaning would not remove. This process of wet dry cleaning is not washing as done in the home. The garment is given the least amount of handling and mechanical action. It is laid flat on a table and brushed by hand with a soft brush. Only cold or luke-warm water and a very mild soap or detergent are used. This process often is used on finer and more delicate fabrics. Wet dry cleaning is used to prevent damage to the garment, fading, shrinking and color "bleeding." It, also, is used on a spot which has stained a large area of the garment.

Labels on garment should give definite instructions.

Early Political Difficulties

Difficulties of travel in the early days had political repercussions. President Polk appointed Joseph Lane of Indiana as Oregon's first governor. After a six-month trip he reached Oregon City on March 2, 1849, in time to serve one day of his term—for on March 4 Zachary Taylor became president. However, Lane acted as governor until Taylor found a replacement.

BUSINESS ON THE FARM

Farms will be helped to make the right decisions in their business by attending the special sessions on the economic aspects of farming and prospects for the future in agriculture at the Purdue University Summer Agricultural conference to be held on the campus August 2-4.

A "problem" session on farming as a business will be held at 8:30 o'clock (CST) Tuesday morning, the opening day of the conference, when F. H. Demaree, extension agricultural economist at Purdue, will lead a panel on "What's Ahead in Farming."

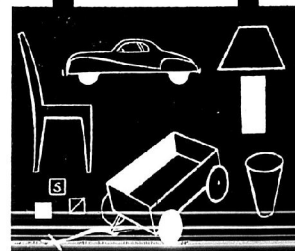

The general outlook in agriculture will be discussed on the panel by M. P. Mitchell, of the Purdue agricultural economics department, and the future in various specialized phases of farming will be presented by several Purdue "Ag" economists, including R. W. Schoeff, who will speak on cattle; J. O. Dunbar, on hogs; R. L. Kohls, poultry; A. M. Nichter, dairy, and G. S. Abshier, grain and feedstuffs. Summarizing the discussion will be Dr. L. S. Robertson, also of the Purdue agricultural economics department.

On Wednesday afternoon, August 3, further discussion on this general subject is scheduled. N. S. Hadley, Purdue agricultural economist, chairman, will lead the panel on "Adjusting the Farm Business to What's Ahead." Appearing on the panel in a discussion of the different farming interests will be Paul Morton, of Lebanon, who will talk on "Cattle Feeding;" L. L. Stewart, of Kirklint, on "Hog Business;" Rome Rinning, of Winona, on "Grain Production;" Howard Mills, of Indianapolis, "Dairy Business," and Clarence Collings, of West Lafayette, "Buildings and Equipment." All of the men on the panel are farm owners and operators and some also manage other farm lands.

Ball Gum

Ball gum, the candy-coated chewing gum, was first placed on the market in 1909. First flavors used were peppermint, spearmint, wintergreen and fruit, but the candy coating on all flavors was white. It was not until 1915 that color was used to give "eye appeal" to the gum in the machines, and to designate different flavors.

GORDON SHIRLEY BURIED WEDNESDAY

Gordon Shirley, 55, of route 2 Warsaw, died Sunday afternoon in the Huntington County hospital, at Huntington, of injuries suffered early Friday night when a horse fell backwards on him. The fatal accident happened at the Lester Smyser sales barn and yard, just south of Huntington. He had been in critical condition in the hospital since the mishap.

Authorities said that the saddle struck Shirley's abdomen, rupturing an intestine and the spleen. He was given blood transfusions Friday night at the hospital and an emergency operation was performed Saturday in an effort to save his life.

Mr. Shirley was attending a horse auction at the Smyser barn. He was there to display one of his horses, which had not been entered in the sale. Witnesses said that Mr. Shirley rode the horse against the wishes of several men present. When he fell from the saddle, dragging on the reins, witnesses said the horse reared and fell backwards.

The deceased was born in Kosciusko county on Oct. 8, 1893, and had lived in this county his entire life. He was the son of Charles and Julia (Messersmith) Shirley. In 1915 he married Sarah Beltz. They resided on route 2, Warsaw, five miles northeast of Mentone.

Survivors are the wife, Sarah; two sons, Calvin, of Lakeville, and Charles, of Milwaukee, Wis.; his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Shirley, of Lakeville; and three grandchildren. One son, Robert preceded him in death in 1946.

Funeral services were at two o'clock Wednesday afternoon at the Palestine Christian Church, with burial in the Palestine cemetery. The Reed funeral home of Mentone was in charge.

FARMER ESCAPES INJURY IN BARN CRASH

Carl Blackburn, who lives six miles south of Atwood near the Harrison Center Church, sustained only minor arm and knee injuries at 8 p.m. Sunday when the floor of a 40-year-old bank barn on his place gave away and he plunged, together with his tractor and a loaded grain wagon, to the hog pen underneath.

Blackburn said that the combined weight of the tractor and the wagon loaded with some 800 bushels of oats was too much for the timbers in the barn. He was assisted from the tangle of shattered floor joists, the tractor, and the wagon by members of the Mentone fire department, who were called by members of his family. The firemen shut off power from the damaged electrical system in the barn.

Max Smith's wrecker was brought in Monday to begin clearing up the tangle.

Even though the barn did not catch fire, Fire Chief Arlo Friesner complimented the Blackburn for their quick thinking in calling the fire department. The hot tractor and broken electric wires could have caused a disastrous blaze.

BOAT RACES AT CULVER

Plans for the fifth annual outboard motorboat races to be held Sunday, August 14, and sponsored by the Culver Lions Club, were announced here this week. Hampton Boswell, president, has named Morley Skinner as general chairman for the 1949 racing event, which annually attracts nationally known outboard drivers and fans to lake Maxinkuckee.

Chairman Skinner declared that advance indications are that this year's event should attract more interest than the 1948 race when 42 drivers competed for the lucrative awards in the eight events. He stated that two new features were to be added to this year's program with a competitive boy's rowboat race preceding the main event. There will also be a parade of high school bands preceding the event. For the best performance among the six bands expected to compete will be a prize of 50.00

Proceeds from the annual affair will be utilized, according to President Boswell, for community betterment. He specified that a portion of the 1949 funds will go for life saving equipment and boys and girls activities.

Skinner has announced the following chairmen: publicity, Sgt. Leland Ross and Sgt. J. P. Carter; finance, piers, Jesse Overmyer; ambulance, Bob Lindvall; safety, Dave Burns; W. R. Easterday; judges, Harold Sering; ticket sales, James Marshall and Hershell Strang; concessions, Cary Cummings; traffic, Don Mikesell.

Race course and buoys, Wilfred Craut; motor inspector and water traffic, Sam Woods; roping off the park, Ray Manis; bleachers, Mark Steinbergen; loud speaker system, Jim Talley; music, Richard Bowles; parade, Wilber Taylor; and boys rowboat race, Al Petersohn.

HOUSE ONLY BEST PULLETS

It's a mistake to expect every bird in a pullet flock to grow up into a good, healthy, full-bodied layer.

Some day that may be possible when far more breeding work has been done with our poultry, but meanwhile, it will remain a sound policy for flock owners to start about 20 per cent more pullets than needed to fill their laying houses, Alexander Gordeuk, extension poultry specialist at Purdue University, says.

He points out that there will always be some loss in brooding and rearing. However, there should still be enough extra pullets at housing time to permit close selection. This Purdue specialist emphasizes that pullets with extremely small bodies, injuries, deformities, poor fleshing, and those showing any evidence of disease damage should not be housed. Such pullets never lay well and many lay hardly at all. They fall victims to the strong competition within the flock and soon become useless culls unless spotted and removed early enough.

The increase in the number of layers in the country combined with the deflationary trends all points to a tightening up of the poultry situation for the flockowner. One of the keys to better and more efficient flocks, says Gordeuk, will be strict selection at housing time. It's a good policy for any year and especially so this year.

TO REPRESENT LARGE CATTLE BREEDING FIRM

Glenn E. Long, of Warsaw, has been assigned to the Kosciusko county area as herd technician for the Curtiss Candy Company Farm's artificial breeding program. The program, recently inaugurated, is being hailed in livestock circles as one of the "really great developments in breeding history," wherein an outstanding breeding establishment makes its bulls available for general utilization.

In his work, Long will offer the services of the top Guernsey, Holstein, Brown Swiss and Ayrshire bulls in the Curtiss Farm's Improved Stud Service. High producing cows, many of them with National and Class leading records, are in back of each of the bulls. Many of the bulls, too, have been sired by National and State Grand Champions and are themselves Grand Champions.

Long recently completed an intensive training course at the Curtiss Candy Farm at Cary, Illinois. In addition to being taught the latest techniques of artificial breeding, he studied the farm's breeding program recognized for its work with Guernsey, Holstein, Brown Swiss and Ayrshire dairy cattle; Shorthorn and Aberdeen-Angus beef cattle; and Yorkshire and Hampshire swine. Long was also schooled in the care and management of dairy animals.

The Curtiss program is unique in that two types of services from its bulls are available—Selected Matings and Stud Pool Matings. In Selected Matings, a farmer or breeder can choose any one of the outstanding Curtiss bulls whose service he desires for a particular mating combination. Stud Pool Matings are those in which the service is from a number of top quality Curtiss bulls in the stud group, without a choice designated beforehand.

Long served 26 months overseas with the army in World War II. He had been farming for himself prior to joining the Curtiss Candy Farms organization.

The Everfaithful Club met with Vera Black at the Loon Lake cottage. There were 11 members present. A cooling thought was voiced when someone said, "Let's think of a trip to Indianapolis to see Sonja Henie's 1949 Ice Follies." The day was spent in playing bunco, with prizes going to Roselwyn Nellans, first; Frances Marshall, second; Georgia Nellans, most bunco's; Faun Tucker, low; Frances Marshall, travel prize.

The next meeting will be at the home of Georgia Nellans.

POWER ON THE FARM

Putting power to work for farm profits will be the general theme of the programs under the direction of the agricultural engineering department of Purdue University to be presented at the Summer Agricultural Conference August 2-4.

At the opening session in the agricultural engineering building, Tuesday morning, starting at 8:30 a.m. (CST), farmers will see "how machinery can work for you." D. M. Kinch and R. M. Lien, agricultural engineers, will demonstrate the use of a number of new types of equipment, including hydraulic touch controls and hydraulic power applications on the farm and power handling of grain and forage. Prof. R. H. Bauman, agricultural economist, will talk on "Profit of Loss in Highly Mechanized Farming."

Visitors to the program Tuesday afternoon will learn of advancements in the field of hay and grain drying. Speakers from the University staff and their topics will be as follows: G. S. Abshier, "Economics of Grain Drying;" G. H. Foster and A. W. Cooper, "Drying Corn and Small Grains;" and N. S. Lundquist and Mr. Cooper, "Hay Drying and Its Value to Dairyman." R. E. Heston, agricultural engineer of the National Association of Mutual Insurance Companies, Indianapolis, will discuss fire insurance for crop drying installations.

The highlight of the power demonstration will occur Thursday afternoon when a land clearing demonstration will take place at the new electric farm. The roar of bulldozers and tractors will be heard as the farm is cleared of trees, fence rows and rocks are buried or stumps dug up and removed. A demonstration on rock blasting will clear the way for the demonstrations. Following the clearing operations, the department of forestry will show proper means of treating posts and O. C. Lee, weed specialist, will direct the spraying of ditch banks and fence rows.

TREE BULLETIN NOW IN STOCK

Suitable trees for reforestation in Indiana are listed in a revised circular recently printed by Purdue University Extension Service.

Daniel DenUyl, Purdue forester and author of the circular, "Trees for Reforestation in Indiana," No. 306, suggests tree varieties for both open field planting foreroded and gullied lands. The planting of three varieties that will eventually become merchantable as lumber are urged.

Size and care of seedling stock and its protection are also discussed as are methods of planting. The novel Purdue tree planter is shown and described in the circular.

Copies of the reforestation circular are now available from Indiana county agents. You can also obtain copies by writing directly to the Purdue Agricultural Experiment Station, Lafayette, Indiana.

Accidents never happen to you!

You're a safe driver. You hardly ever try to pass another motorist on a curve. And even when you do, you can count on your car for that extra burst of speed that gives you a margin of safety. No, accidents never happen to you!

Or do they?

The driver of this car thought he was a safe driver, too. Of course, he wasn't as lucky as you. He didn't see the oncoming car as he pulled out to pass. It was too late to learn that an extra burst of speed isn't always a margin of safety. Don't pass on curves or hills. Always drive carefully. That's the only real margin of safety!

Be Careful - the life you save may be your own!

SWINE JUDGING SCHOOL PLANNED FOR AUGUST 1

The Indiana Association of Expert Swine Judges will again hold its judging school in connection with the 57th annual meeting at Purdue University Monday, Aug. 1, according to announcement made by J. A. Hoefer, acting secretary-treasurer of the association. Judging certificates will be issued to all those who qualify according to the rules of the association.

One of the chief objectives of the association is to make the judging of hogs relative to type, quality and breed standards uniform over the state. Persons who are engaged to judge hogs at 4-H Club shows, county fairs and even the Indiana State Fair are urged to attend this judging school as well as all hog breeders and other groups interested. In addition to the judging training, discussion periods that accompany the school bring out some interesting facts on judging standards as well as general improvement. Judging work will be started at 10 o'clock (central daylight saving time), continuing until noon, and will be resumed from 1:30 to 3 o'clock in the afternoon. The judging will be of sow, gilt and fat classes with five breeds of hogs — Duroc, Hampshire, Chester White, Poland China and Berkshire. A business meeting of the association will be held at 1 o'clock. All sessions will be in the Purdue Livestock Judging Pavilion. Arthur Tomson, Wabash, is president of the Indiana Association of Expert Swine judges, and J. W. Ralph Bishop, Atlanta, is vice-president.

The Woman's Society of Christian Service held "Guest Night" at the church on Thursday evening, July 14th.

As members and guests assembled, the organ was played by Frances Clark. Judy Clutter also favored us with an organ number during this period.

The meeting convened with Mrs. Pearl Lackey's welcome to all guests. Mrs. Lester White, Pres. of the Talma W. S. C. S. responded for her society.

At the conclusion of a short business meeting, the devotional period began with an organ prelude by Ruth Urschel. The group sang, "In Christ There is no East or West" and with this theme in mind, Mrs. Rea Ward gave reference from the Bible which dealt with race problems of that day. This period of worship was closed with a prayer, "For Love to God and Man."

A duet, with Frances Clark at the piano and Ruth Urschel at the organ was much enjoyed, as was a vocal solo by Frances and an organ number by Judy Clutter which followed.

Sally Gosser introduced Rosemary Smith by referring to the story of several (said-to-be) impossible students who attributed their success to their school teacher, Aunt Hanna.

Miss Smith's discussion was interesting, from the very beginning. She related everyday happenings and problems that confront her as she teaches in the sixth grade at East Chicago, Indiana. Several races and color of skin make up this class room and few outsiders know of the struggle within, thus she referred to the place as a "foreign country."

She had visited the steel mills and told of the intense atmosphere which parents work. In explaining their home life it was more clearly understood how such factors would contribute to the child's character. Years ago, living quarters for a few families were "set up" when these mills first opened and the place has grown more crowded as friends and relatives joined this group, yet, they're restricted to this same section.

The problem now in debate is whether social activities for the schools can be planned for ALL or must they be separate parties. In her closing remarks she read a questionnaire which was mailed to all clubs and organizations in the city, asking for suggestions as to the best method of planning future get-togethers. Until a decision is reached, all such activities have been discontinued, thus we learned, there is a "race prejudice problem" less than 100 miles away.

Refreshments were served at the close of the meeting by, Mrs. Trella Tombaugh, Mrs. Esther Sarber, Mrs. Mae Borton and Mrs. Babe Long.

FRESH BLACKBERRIES — 25c per quart. Big yellow pop corn, 8 lbs. for $1. M. O. Smith. Phone 2½ on 180. Mentone. 1p

REED — NELSON

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Reed are residing on route 5 since their pretty home wedding, which took place at eight o'clock Saturday evening at the residence of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Merl Nelson. Mr. Reed is the son of Mrs. Dorothy Reed of Warsaw and Clarence Reed of Syracuse. Rev. I. E. Longenbaugh, pastor of the Atwood Evangelical United Brethren church, read the marriage service.

Musical selections, presented preceded the ceremony, included "Oh, Promise Me," "I Love You Truly" and "The Lord's Prayer." Baskets of pink and white gladioli were placed before the palms arranged at the improvised altar. Bouquets of garden flowers decorated the rooms.

With her street length white satin dress the bride wore a shoulder-length veil. Her corsage was of white roses. Miss Anita Lear, of Warsaw, the maid of honor, was attired in a street-length dress of white silk with a pale green and brown floral print. Her flowers were also white roses. Janet Ann Tucker, of Mentone the ring bearer, wore a frock of pink organdy.

Arthur Bullock, of Warsaw, attended the bridegroom as best man.

A dress of sheer bemberg, with a floral print on a white background, was worn by Mrs. Nelson, mother of the bride. Her accessories were white. White accessories were also worn by Mrs. Reed, mother of the bridegroom, with her beige dress of lace and linen.

Others present were: Mr. and Mrs. Fred Decker and Mr. and Mrs. Dean Decker and daughters, Judy and Barbara, of Warsaw; Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Reed, of Syracuse; Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Method and daughter, Linda, of New Paris, Ind.; Mrs. I. E. Longenbaugh, of Atwood.

MENTONE MURMURS

Introducing a new column in the CO-OP NEWS, the Mentone Murmurs will endeavor to record for you the pulse beat of Mentone and the surrounding community.

CORN ON THE COB: It is not only the early bird that catches the worm, but the early corn that entices and lures the little devastating corn borer to nibble those succulent first ears of "beans on a stick," as one little cob enthusiast once termed roasting ears; but MURMURS wrestled a dozen early ears away from the worm and noisily munched their way down the rows of golden grains.

CONSERVATIONISTS CONSERVE: Visitors to the Chauncey Mollenhour Cottage on Yellow Creek Lake are reminded by the stand of reeds along the waterfront that the water plants provide shelter for the "small fry" which are constantly being pursued by the bigger fish in the pond.

C. O. Mollenhour, Maurice Fawley, F. Koenig, Howard Bockman, Directors of the Kosciusko County Conservation Camp, and fellow Conservationists believe in conserving more than wild life and game, for the Camp at McClure Lake promote not only conservation to youthful game and fish enthusiasts but also encourages sportsmanship and builds character and morale through directed recreation, sports, and camp life.

Camp Officers for this year's program of July 24-28 are: Director, Bill Johnson; Assistant Director, J. MacAllister; Registration and Bunk Assignment, Maurice Fawley; Commissary Department, C. O. Mollenhour and M. Fawley; Camp Manager, Paul Jackson.

Jack Prichard will spend the last days of his bachelorhood as Life Guard for the Conservation Camp, for on the Sunday following camp adjournment he will be united in marriage to Elma Jean King.

like New Kensington is without such cultural service.

CLATTER, clatter are the spiked footfalls along the Mentone streets after a rousing and close contested ball game.

MURMURS would like to give an applause to the young people who give so much of their time in rehearsals and presentations of the Saturday evening band concerts. Words of praise are in order for the direction of the band on the part of Mrs. Blickenstaff. At their next concert let us give them the applause that is worthy of the appreciation they deserve.

Until next week MURMURS murmurs "Pax Vobiscum."

4-H Safety Workers in All-Out Attempt to Reduce Accidents on Farms in 1949

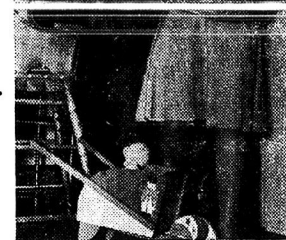

MR. FARMER, has the 4-H Club member in your family checked your farm and home for accident and fire hazards lately? If not, you can expect him to do so any day now. 4-H'ers are making an all-out attempt to reduce the annual cost of accidents affecting farm folk— including motor vehicle, fire and property damage — which totals more than one billion dollars, or about $35.00 per person! They are also trying to cut down the number of accidental deaths, which kill 51 farm residents in the U. S. every day in the year.

Your 4-H'er doubtless will caution you to drive carefully on highways, and use proper signals when turning or stopping (top right). More than 7,300 rural people are killed annually in motor vehicle accidents. In fact, more fatal automobile accidents occur in rural areas than in any other location.

Falls rank second in farm accident causes. So watch your step when carrying a clothes basket, like the girl shown in right photo. Your 4-H safety worker probably will suggest you tack down throw rugs or put them on non-slip matting, and keep stairways uncluttered.

Are your lightning rods properly grounded? The 4-H'ers shown at top left found the ground wires broken, and therefore worthless. Lightning, which is one of the greatest causes of farm fires, each year destroys 20 million dollars worth of farm property, kills 500 farm residents and injures 1,300 others.

National Farm Safety Week will be observed July 24-30. Rural boys and girls taking part in the National 4-H Farm Safety program want to make you, your family and neighbors safety minded so that accidents mentioned above won't happen.

For achievements in safety work, the 4-H boy or girl may receive a prized sterling silver medal of honor as county winner. General Motors also provides an educational trip to the National 4-H Club Congress, Chicago, next November, for the state winner, and $300.00 college scholarships for each of the eight national champions. By practicing safety from this time on, you'll not only help your 4-H'er in his safety work, but help save a life—which may be your own.

The National 4-H Farm Safety program is conducted under the direction of the Cooperative Extension Service.

CIRCUS DAYS ARE HERE AGAIN: The Boy Scouts of Troop 58 of Mentone are performing with all the antics of the Big Top and a Three Ringer at the Cullum Circus Lot on the south side of this city, this Thursday afternoon at three o'clock. There will be all the attractions of a genuine tent show; side shows, pop corn, soft drinks, clowns, and a "sure enough" menagerie.

GIGGLES from the Scout room at the Methodist Church convey the idea that the Girl Scouts are busy rehearsing for their Investiture Service.

IMPRESSIONS writer for the SOMERSET DAILY AMERICAN of Somerset, Pennsylvania and visitors from New Kensington, Pennsylvania commented laudably and favorably on the cleanliness and completeness of our community; and words of praise for the community spirit which maintains a Library so ably managed by Mrs. Walter Lackey are well worth mentioning when a city of 15,000 inhabitants

NEW CHEVROLET AGENCY TO OPEN HERE SATURDAY

John Boggs, in an advertisement elsewhere in this issue, announces the opening of his Chevrolet agency in the old Burns Bakery building, now owned by Mr. and Mrs. Earl Anderson. Read his announcement in another part of this issue.

Mrs. Dale Tucker was hostess on Tuesday evening at a bridal shower honoring Mrs. Clifford Reed, who was Jeanie Nelson before her recent wedding.

HOLD YOUR HAT ON THE TURNS;
SCIENCE IS MOVING SWIFTLY

Emmet Belger, a public relations man with the Bell Telephone company, appeared before the Mentone Lions Club Wednesday evening and gave a startling as well as interesting description of our present-day communications equipment. His disclosures were so phenomenal that, and I quote, "he didn't believe them himself."

Briefly he took his listeners from the first experiments and accomplishments of Alexander Graham Bell 73 years ago to some distance beyond where we are now; from the transmitting of the human voice 50 feet in one house then to the present when any two telephones in the world can be tied together to receive and transmit the human voice so it can be clearly understood.

We saw the accomplishments of scientific men as they labored to perfect a piece of equipment and then go on to make it yet more perfect and perform miracles far beyond the expectations of the original designers. We saw how micro-waves (oscillations up into the hundreds of millions times per second) transmit energy to light a small bulb, amplifying tubes reduced from the size of a light bulb to one the size of a .22 cal. rifle cartridge requiring one-tenth of the power of the tiniest flashlight cell. He explained how, by using quartz crystals of predetermined and established wave-lengths, one television program and 6,000 telephone communications could be transmitted over one single wire—the coaxial cable recently announced from New York to St. Louis. He further explained how the micro-waves—that travel only in a straight line—are now being reflected from station to station carrying 50 television programs and 10,000 private conversations at one time in our land. These stations, that reflect these tiny waves, act like mirrors from the hill tops, carrying a beam of light from one to the other, will eventually cover our land and bring rapid communication and satisfactory television programs to every point in the world regardless of the point of origin.

And for the most modern—if there be such a thing—two Indiana cities are now set up on a planned program to permit one telephone operator to dial any telephone in the world, so to speak, without bothering any other operator for a "connection" or assistance. Today, too, some railways and many business concerns have mobile telephone units that can telephone, if you please, any other such unit—without any wire connection—regardless of whether it is on the land, air or sea.

When they take a second and split it into 5,000 parts and then start dissecting that, taking the "heart" or liver out and then send it across the nation and put the pieces back together, man gets to be a rather awkward and helpless mortal.

We marvel at the accomplishments of man—yet it more marvelous to know that the Creator of it all knew what was needed when it was created. The Lions members who missed this meeting really missed something.

TO SOLICIT FUNDS FOR PHONE APPEAL

It is announced that the Mentone Merchants' Association will soon make a canvas of the town of Mentone, for funds to be used in preparing an appeal to the public service commission to preserve the free telephone service now existing between Mentone, Atwood, Millwood and Etna Green exchanges. The telephone companies involved have filed a petition with the commission to establish toll rates between these exchanges.

Mentone business people appreciate this free service for their friends and neighbors in the rural areas surrounding the town, and feel that this petition of the utilities is merely an opening wedge to eventually eliminate all free service between local exchanges.

Each Friday night some department in the county conducts one of these programs. Listen to them.

FARMERS ON WESTERN TOURS

Two train loads of Indiana farmers, one in August and a second in September, will cover 8,500 miles to the west coast on a return, stopping en route to study numerous farming projects. All the August and more than half the September reservations on the trains are now sold.

In Texas the Hoosiers will visit a large cattle ranch. After a brief visit in Old Mexico, they will pass through the irrigated valleys of California north to Portland. Returning through Idaho, they will view the harvesting of the potato crop. In Utah they will study successful irrigation of farms.

The two trips will be made over eight of the country's largest railroads, and the itineraries will be identical except for the elimination of a stop-over in Rocky Mountain National Park in September. This change was necessitated by the return of student help to their colleges. An adjustment of $25 and two days less time was made on the second tour, which extends from September 11 through 22.

The second group of travellers will be given free tickets to the International Dairy Exposition to be held in Indianapolis October 8 through 15. The tours, sponsored by the Indiana Farm Bureau, will be conducted by the Hoosier Travel Service.

SWEETS HELP TOOTH DECAY

Dental authorities agree that a major cause of tooth decay is too many sweets and carbonated or soft drinks in the child's diet, Miss Lois Oberhelman, food and nutrition specialist, Purdue University, says. The sugar in candy and soft drinks encourages the development of bacteria in the mouth which attack the enamel on the teeth.

Candy, if children must have it, should be eaten as dessert and not as a snack between meals," advises Dr. Eugene J. North of the University of Buffalo School of Dentistry. Dr. North predicts that 90% of dental decay could be eliminated by stopping the consumption of refined sugars, and he also went on record as favoring the complete elimination of soft drinks.

Much is said today about the use of flourine in preventing tooth decay. Dental research workers say that although flourine helps in preventing tooth decay, a good well-balanced diet is even more important. This diet should be rich in fruits, vegetable, meat, eggs and milk to furnish necessary minerals and vitamins. The diet should be low in sweets, and pastries and soft drinks. When sweets are eaten, they should be eaten at the end of the meal. Sweets in the mouth in contact with the teeth for long periods during the day are particularly harmful.

Research work at Howard University Medical School found that tooth decay could be decreased 65% with a good diet of health foods. Sweets, soft drinks and pastries are not health foods.

FORM NEW POULTRY ASS'N.

A cooperative association of Hoosier Poultry breeders has been formed by Indiana hatcherymen and breeders in order that research may be carried on in search of superior breeding stock to be supplied to association members.

The organization has been named Associated Hoosier Poultry Breeders. Approximately 60 hatchery and breeding farms in Indiana have purchased shares so that a farm which will serve as a testing station on breeds and strains can be set up, according to L. A. Wilhelm, of the State Poultry Association of Indiana, Lafayette. Present plans call for the cooperative breeding farm to be located near Lafayette.

The forming of the association stemmed from the concern of poultry breeders over the possibilities of in-breeds, hybrids, cross-breeds and strain crosses. The farm under consideration can serve as a testing station on breeds and strains, can carry on a program of inbreeding and hybridizing, and distribute superior genes to the members in the form of baby cockerels, hatching eggs and chicks.

The farm will be financed through the sale of common stock, and the operations will be financed by dues. Not more than 5 per cent of the stock can be owned by one firm or organization, Mr. Wilhelm says. The sale of stock will end on August 1, according to present plans. Directors of the association will be elected by the membership.

4-H YOUTH SAVE TRACTOR FUEL

Two million gallons of tractor fuel will be saved this year by 30,000 rural boys and girls as a direct result of putting into daily uses practices recommended in the National 4-H Tractor Maintenance program, according to a recent analysis. Potential value of the program was estimated by an oil company official when he stated that if some three million American farm tractor operators had a chance to learn the 4-H way of tractor care, 200 million gallons of tractor fuel could be saved annually.

It was pointed out that in these days of declining farm prices, reducing labor costs by means of efficient tractor operation could make the difference between profit and loss in the farm business. One 4-H boy summed up the object of the tractor maintenance program in a few words when he said, "A good-running tractor means more cash in the pocket."

Indiana 4-H Club members not only bring benefits to the farm through skillful tractor operation, but they also have an opportunity to compete for various individual awards. At the end of each year records are submitted to the Extension office where they are scored on the basis of accomplishment. The Standard Oil Company (Indiana), sponsor of the program in Indiana, provides sterling silver medals for county winners; a trip to the National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago for state champion, and $300 scholarships for 4-H'ers having the best records in the nation.

Since the project was first inaugurated on a national scale in 1945, more than 110,000 Club members have learned how to keep a tractor in top-notch working order the year 'round. To do the job, 11,500 Club leaders in 41 states were trained in tractor clinics set up throughout the country especially for this program.

Clyde James of Wolcottville won the LaGrange county, state and national honors in 1948. Medals were awarded to 83 other county winners. The Cooperative Extension Service supervises the program.

Calling all outdoorsmen

By JIM MITCHELL

I know of no better way of getting a first class argument started than by selecting a certain species of fish or a certain fishing method and saying it is superior to all others. But since I enjoy a healthy argument occasionally, here goes on both scores.

A few days ago my guide and I happened on to a comparatively small lake two portages away from camp here on Delaney Lake that proved to be a paradise for smallmouth bass. Too, the smallmouths apparently preferred small popping bugs and dry flies, presented with a fly rod, to other types of lures.

And, brother, the two together added up to sport seldom equalled—and never excelled, at least in our book.

The smallmouths in this lake were actually greedy infighting over the artificial lures and they hit savagely morning, noon and night with apparently little difference as to the time of day they smacked a lure.

All you had to do was toss a floating fly or bug within a few feet of the rocky shore or near a fallen tree and let it rest motionless on the surface. Chances are within a few seconds a fighting bronzeback would shoot up from the bottom, take the artificial in its mouth, clear the surface in one mighty jump and then head for the depths, ready to do battle. And a battle it was before the finny gamblers, ranging from a pound up to over five pounds, were netted and then returned to the lake.

I know it is not logical to compare the fighting qualities of the various species of game fish for, actually, there is no common ground—except fisherman's opinions—for such a comparison. However, I believe these smallmouths could win a tug-a-war with any finny battlers without needing a second breath.

Catching smallmouths on surface fly-rod lures actually has been a second layer of frosting on my fishing cake in this country. I've taken limits almost daily of walleyes, northern pike and lake trout. But it definitely has been the bass fishing that has made this trip a memorable one to add to other interesting and fascinating experiences of fishing in 1949

Certain parts of the country have had rather slim going with fish; other parts of North America have hit the jackpot in grand angling sport. And I have been in both the good and bad waters on several occasions. Overall it has been a good year so far and certainly it is encouraging to report that fishing apparently is holding its own most places even in face of the tremendous increase in pressure.

CHURCH OBSERVES

25TH ANNIVERSARY

The Church of Christ at Etna Green observed the 25th anniversary of the dedication of their present house of worship on Sunday, July 24.

The congregation has met continuously since 1860 when it was first organized, in the home of Samuel Manley. For the first five years services were conducted in the old school building. The house of worship which the present brick structure superseded was built in 1865 by Wm. Bowman and used by all other communions of Etna Green for several years. In fact, title to the property was not conveyed to the Church of Christ until 1886, and up to that time the building was available for many purposes such as political rallies, shows and all sorts of entertainments.

The present structure was dedicated July 27, 1924 with an all day service, at which George L. Snively conducted the dedication service, assisted by the pastor, John D. Abel. In the afternoon the address was delivered by the late Judge L. W. Roysse of Warsaw, who took for his theme, "The Old Days, the Old Ways, the Old Friends."

On this silver anniversary the church again enjoyed an all day meeting. Bible school at 9:45 was in charge of Lewis Mason, superintendent. The morning sermon was delivered by Elwood Dunn, a former pastor. Following this session the new bulletin board, which has been erected on the church lawn, was dedicated.

At the noon hour a basket dinner was served in the basement. In the afternoon an address was given by Ephrim D. Lowe of Indianapolis, and special musical selections were given by sister congregations in the county. The afternoon offering was a special gift for the parsonage fund.

TRIPLETS BORN TO

PALESTINE COUPLE

Identical triplets were born to Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Faroute Saturday night at the McDonald hospital. One of the triplets, Jerry Wayne, died on Sunday morning, but the other two, Johnny and Jimmy, are doing fine.

NEW POULTRY NEWS SERVICE

A Poultry Market News Service is being initiated to aid Indiana poultry raisers through the cooperation of the poultry and agricultural economics departments at Purdue University and the United States Department of Agriculture. Indiana is one of the first states to introduce such a service.

Melvin L. Wilson, of the Purdue University Agricultural Extension Service, has been assigned to the poultry department to direct the project. Wilson has served as inspector for the State Egg Board for the past two and one-half years and prior to that, did inspection work on the National Poultry Improvement Plan. The News Service will start reporting broiler prices about August 1 and by October 1, turkey prices will be added to the releases. Market egg prices will be added later.

It will be the aim of this new program to report the market situation and the prices actually being paid to farmers. In addition, the prices will be reported according to areas or sections within the state. No attempt will be made to release bid or forecast prices. This market news information will be released by radio, direct wire and by mail.

Wilson has just returned from Iowa where he made a study of the methods used by Iowa in collecting and reporting poultry market prices. Iowa has one of the better reporting services in the country.

At the present time, Wilson is visiting various sections of the state to explain this news service to broiler growers and to learn specific needs of the growers.

The Poultry News Service in Indiana has long been needed. The Indiana State Poultry Association adopted resolutions at the last meeting requesting such a program, and similar requests have been received from several county groups, the Purdue poultry department reports.

HEALTH FACTS FROM YOUR STATE BOARD OF HEALTH

"Eating the right foods in the summer time may help overcome fatigue that is so generally accepted as an unavoidable part of hot weather," according to Miss Lella Ogle, chief nutritionist, Indiana State Board of Health. "The right foods include eating three good meals a day selected from "the Basic 7" with special emphasis on milk, fruits and vegetables. Generous amounts of thiamine (vitamin B) and protein help prevent fatigue. Whole grain cereals, milk, dried legumes such as dried beans and peas, liver and other lean meats are good sources of both thiamine and protein.

"Heat causes an excessive loss of moisture and salt from the body. Since the body loses more water and salt through perspiration in summer, every one should make a practice of drinking plenty of water. Physicians often recommend the taking of additional salt in order to maintain the proper degree of salt in body fluids. Attractive seasonal salads made up of a large variety of raw vegetables, seasoned with salt, may help the family to enjoy extra helpings of these refreshing foods. Favorites for the salad bowl are cabbage wedges, lettuce, tomatoes, unpeeled cucumber sticks or slices, carrot strips and celery sticks," Miss Ogle pointed out.

"On vacations, health precautions are often the first to be forgotten. Irregular meals and insufficient rest frequently adds up to holiday exhaustion rather than to building body reserve, so vacationers should watch their diet."

The 126 deaths due to Indiana farm accidents which have occurred within the past two years point up the need for safety precautions emphasized during the observance of Farm Safety Week, July 24-30, according to Robert Yoho, director, Bureau of Health Education, Records and Statistics, Indiana State Board of Health.

Last year, 65 deaths were attributed to farm accidents and by June 1, this year, there have been 27 deaths in Indiana because of farm mishaps. March tops all other months this year in farm accidents with ten deaths. Last year, January was the only month in which there were no accidents on an Indiana farm resulting in death; May headed the farm casualty list with 12 deaths; June and October were second with nine, and August and November each had eight.

"Most of the accidents are repeated accidents," Mr. Yoho said. "By that I mean the accidental deaths were caused again and again by runaway horses, lightning, heat strokes, and tractor, buzz saw and corn picker mishaps. Falls rank high on the casualty list—falls from the hay loft, barn roof, windmill, on the plow and from horses. Brush fires caused serious burns resulting in death. Several deaths were due to farm animals. One farmer while milking was struck by an automobile.

"These are only a few of the farm casualty hazards. Farm Safety Week reminds us that farm accidents do occur almost every month in the year and farm families should study these hazards associated with rural life so that the tasks may be performed in the safest possible manner."

TALMA LADIES AID ENTERTAINED

The Talma Congregational Christian church Ladies Aid met Thursday afternoon at the home of Stella Surguy for their regular meeting.

Mrs. Ada Bowman conducted the meeting, which opened by group singing of "What A Friend We Have In Jesus" and "More About Jesus," lead by Mrs. Ella Finney. Devotions were by Mrs. E. C. McGowan.

Following the regular business meeting more group singing was enjoyed and contests conducted with prizes going to Mrs. E. McGowan, Mrs. Bowman, Mrs. Allen, Mrs. T. Mathews, and Mrs. Surguy.

The hostess served lovely refreshments at the close of the meeting.

Indiana 4-H clubs stood high in the nation according to a report on enrollment and completion of projects made by state 4-H club leaders. Compared with 11 other midwestern states, Indiana had the top enrollment in 1949 of 63,510 members. Of this number 53,560 completed their projects. Indiana was second only to Michigan in the rate of completion with a total of 84.33 per cent of the projects completed.

MENTONE MURMURS

DAVID and SALLEY GOSSER

MURMURS may sound a bit faint this week, inasmuch as the "better half" is busy planning games and recreation for a hundred boys at McClure Lake. Mentone boys who are attending are Don Rush, Johnny Davis, Jon Cullum and Larry McKinley. Much as we envy the pep of this younger set who play baseball and volleyball in the hot July sun, we confess we would gladly settle for a hammock and iced lemonade at home for our vacation. Happy, though were the shouts of old campers, the gay chatter and scrambling for upper bunks. They received a hearty welcome from their director, Chauncey Mollenhour, and later in the evening were inspired by a welcoming address by Hobart Creighton.

A HUGE SUCCESS was the Boy Scout Circus—in fact, so successful that it will no doubt become an annual event—thanks to you, dear public. This Better-Than-Barnum-and-Bailey Circus (produced on Artley Cullum's lot) boasted of such colossal features as a midget track meet, the world's most civilized ape, a swimming match, side shows, a shooting gallery, a dart game, and of course, refreshment stands. Merrill Peterson, Jon Cullum and Jonnie Gosser were typical circus clowns. Very business-like and serious were the boys in giving you the best circus Mentone ever had, and they learned to put into practice many of the Scout laws of honesty and good deeds. MURMURS himself experienced the life-long ambition of being a circus barker and had such a good time that only the expediency of the next day made him hear his alarm clock the next morning.

BEAUTIFUL GARDENS in the south part of town are those of Mrs. Garrie Rose and Mrs. Mae Borton, with phlox of every type and hue, and rare and unusual roses. Many varieties of flowers at different seasons beautify these gardens. They are truly an inspiring sight. Lovely also are the flower arrangements of the Artley Cullums. Dr. and Mrs. F. B. Davison chose roses for their flower hobby, and also worthy of special mention is the rose garden of Jack and Arvilla VanGilder with trellises made by Jack himself. We are sure there are many other gardens just as lovely that MURMURS has not yet been able to investigate. MURMURS would also dedicate a bouquet to those who would like to have flowers but are sacrificing them in order to have a playground for their youngsters.

Adios, dear readers, until the "better half" can again "take his pen in hand," and give forth a smoother flow of rhetoric.

More Highway Construction

Construction of highways in rural areas—interrupted during the war—is resuming on a major scale. Nearly one-fifth of state costs were spent on roads in 1947-48. Highway purposes accounted for $1,500,000,000, or nearly 19 cents out of every dollar of state spending. Much of this total was for capital outlay, to which 666 million dollars was devoted. This compares with 500 million dollars in each of the three preceding years.

VARIETY IN WOMEN'S PROGRAM

Hundreds of busy rural Indiana homemakers plan to "leave the family on their own" while they attend the Second Annual Agricultural conference at Purdue University August 2-4.

Miss Eva Goble, state leader of home demonstration agents, announces that the three days of activities will start Tuesday morning, the 2nd, with demonstrations on fighting possible farm fires, constructing a septic tank and tile absorption bed. The demonstrations will take place in the field south of the agricultural engineering building beginning at 8:30 o'clock.

F. R. Willsey, farm safety specialist, will be in charge of the fire fighting demonstrations when actual fires will be started and controlled by approved equipment. Types of fires to be fought will include fires from lightning, oil or grease such as occur in a home, grass or barn fires. Homemakers will be encouraged to try out the various kinds of fire fighting equipment.

The tremendous increase in the number of water systems being installed on Indiana farms each year, (about 10,000 annually since the war) will create great interest in the field demonstration of the construction of a septic tank and tile field adequate for a growing family. M. A. Mason, rural health specialist, will direct the work. The community fire fighting and sanitation programs will continue in the afternoon at Eliza Fowler Hall. Dean H. J. Reed, director of agricultural activities, will talk on "Farm Life Can Be Healthier and Safer."

On Wednesday the county home economics choruses will be presented in individual programs during the day and that evening will be massed into a huge chorus of more than 1350 voices for a program in the Hall of Music under direction of Albert P. Stewart, extension music director.

A program on many phases of frozen foods will be given at Eliza Fowler Hall. In the afternoon the visitors will have a choice of attending a weaving demonstration, a master mix demonstration or demonstration on selection of china. A feature of the latter will be various ways of combining incomplete sets of china. C. E. Hoxsie, extension horticulturist, will talk on attractive arrangements of garden flowers.

Thursday will be Indiana Home Economics Association day. The annual business meeting will take place in the morning and in the afternoon more than 100 members from Vanderburgh county will bring an Old Family Album to life as the featured entertainment.

SWIM MEET AT STATE PARK

Shakamak State Park, near Jasonville, recognized by experts as having the best swimming facilities available, will be the scene again this year of three national swimming events, as well as the Shakamak Open Swimming and Diving Championships.

The meet is scheduled for August 6 and 7 and is being conducted by the Indiana Department of Conservation, under the auspices of the Jasonville Industrial Bureau. All events have been sanctioned by the Amateur Athletic Union and qualified judges will be on hand to judge contestants.

Persons wishing to compete should request entry blanks from Con Davis, director, Shakamak Championships, Shakamak State Park, Jasonville; Charles Letsinger, meet secretary, Swimming Championships, Jasonville, or write to the Division of State Park, Lands and Waters, Indiana Department Conservation, State Library Building, Indianapolis.

All entries must be filed with Mr. Letsinger, meet secretary, by midnight, August 2nd.

Park officials estimate that a approximately 20,000 persons will attend the two-day meet and probably 150 contestants will compete in the program. Admission fee to the park is the only charge for witnessing the meet.

Airplane Dusting

A ground duster traveling five miles an hour, applying 20 pounds of dust to the acre in a swath 28 feet wide, covers 1.28 acres a minute and so must distribute 5.60 pounds of dust a minute. If the airplane travels 60 miles an hour, covers a swath of 35 feet, and applies 20 pounds of dust an acre, its equipment must treat 4.24 acres a minute with 84.80 pounds of dust. Speeding up to 85 miles an hour, it must feed and disperse 120.2 pounds of dust over 6.01 acres in a minute, or the dust must be handled at two pounds every second—21.46 times as fast as in the ground machine.

Calling all outdoorsmen

By JIM MITCHELL

Often times sportsmen are inclined to consider only the game killed by hunters as the entire take from our wildlife supply. It would be wonderful if this were true, for, certainly, it would mean an abundant crop of birds and animals for the annual gunning harvest.

Unfortunately, however, the gunners' take is rather small in comparison to what Mother Nature harvests with floods, cold and heat, famine and the other harsh acts that sometimes lack an explanation.

Egg mortality, loss through predators, deaths from lack of cover and other similar things reap great chunks from the wildlife population: Then, too there is the tragic loss of wildlife through death on the nation's highways. And it is this annual loss that prompted Henry P. Davis of the Remington Arms Co. to coin the slogan "Let's Give Wildlife a Brake!"

Frankly, I couldn't even guess as to how many animals and birds are killed each year in traffic mishaps. But unquestionably it runs into many millions.

Last year highway department employees in Pennsylvania actually counted over 99,000 animals and birds killed by automobiles and trucks. On a recent drive near my home I counted 32 game birds and animals dead on the concrete slab in less than a hundred miles of highway.

It would be foolish indeed to suggest that a driver of an automobile endanger his life in protecting game, but certainly it would not be amiss to ask for the cooperation of all drivers in keeping a sharp lookout for wildlife.

And it is between now and the end of the heavy tourist season that the highway wildlife losses will be the heaviest, so let's all give wildlife a "break!"

BEEKEEPERS TO MEET AUG. 4

Beekeepers are almost always inclined to be gadgeteers, if not actually inventors, according to B. Elwood Montgomery, associate professor of entomology at Purdue University. Beekeepers from Indiana will have an opportunity both to exhibit their gadgets and to see the best in standard apiary equipment at Purdue University, August 4, during the second annual summer agricultural conference to be held on the campus August 2-4. A demonstration of "gadgets" and special equipment by beekeepers and a show of beekeeping supplies and equipment by manufacturers and dealers are planned for the meeting.

The beekeepers' meeting will be held on Thursday morning at the D. G. Rutherford apiary on the Grace Evans farm two miles northwest of Brookston. A picnic dinner will be served at noon for those who wish to bring their own lunch. The afternoon meetings will be held on the Purdue campus, with talks and discussions in Agriculture Hall and the equipment show in the Horticultural Building.

Methods of handling bees will be demonstrated at the morning meeting in the apiary by several Indiana deputy bee inspectors.

G. H. Cale will speak on "Getting the Most From Your Bees," and "Pollination — An Agricultural Practice" will be the topic of Roy A. Grout. Both men are on the editorial staff of the American Bee Journal. A discussion on the "Use of Honey Plants in Indiana Pasture Mixtures" will be led by G. O. Mott, of the Purdue agronomy staff.

Wonder Vending Device

A new vending machine, one which brews coffee and keeps it hot, and, at the same time, refrigerates the cream to be used and then dispenses both, plus sugar and a spoon, is described in "Die Castings". The new machine which presented many more mechanical complexities for its builder than the ordinary vending device, at last makes possible the traditional American cup of coffee in the factory, office, hotel lobby and transportation terminal at the drop of a coin.

LOCAL BREEDERS TO USE PROVED GUERNSEY

The Kosciusko County Dairy Association, Inc. has announced that semen from Elmood Farms Royal Favor, the recently purchased registered Guernsey bull of the Indiana Artificial Breeding Association, is now available to all of their customers and every dairyman who has cows to be bred with semen from cows proved great.

This fine Guernsey's record shows that he has an exceptional ability to transmit milk and butterfat production. His daughters showed an increase of 1200 lbs. milk and 31 lbs. butterfat over their dams, giving Favor an American Index of 11,414 lbs. milk, 4.48% test and 511 lbs. butterfat on a 5 pair daughter-dam comparison—another sire proved great.

Favor's 14 daughters in milk show that they are maintaining a good production level. As to size and form, all conform to good type and not a single udder is anything but unusually good.

Of all the proved sires of the Indiana Artificial Breeding Association that the Kosciusko County Dairy Association, Inc. is using, it is believed that Favor will raise the already fine average of the bulls in the stud, of which every sire is proved great.

The Indiana Artificial Breeding Association is supplying semen from high index proved sires to dairymen in Indiana, Illinois, Tennessee and also to the Southeastern Artificial Breeding Association at Asheville, North Carolina.

With semen from such desirably proved bulls being used by the Kosciusko County Dairy Association, Inc., the Indiana Artificial Breeding Association's objective to increase the efficiency of the production of human food and disseminate inheritance proved great through the wide use of high index proved dairy sires, is being achieved.

TO HEAR FEEDS-FEEDING TALKS AT "AG" CONFERENCE

Hosier farmers will find many of the answers to their pasture, livestock feeding and crop problems when they attend the second Summer Agricultural Conference to be held at Purdue University August 2 to 4.

These sessions, keyed to efficient production of feeds and livestock feeding, will open with the "Better Pasture" program Wednesday morning at 8:00 (CST) in the livestock pavilion. Discussions on problems of pastures for the various classes of stock will be given by the following Purdue staff members: G. O. Mott, pasture specialist; C. M. Vestal, in charge of the swine experimental farm; and N. S. Lundquist, of the dairy research staff. Tours of the dairy and swine farms will conclude the morning program.

On Wednesday afternoon, a session on "Efficient Feeding" will be held in Agricultural Hall, starting at 12:15 p. m. R. L. Whistler, of the department of agricultural chemistry, will preside. E. T. Mertz and S. M. Hauge, agricultural chemists, will give some fundamental information on use of feed by animals and the preservation of feed nutrients. Roy S. Roberts, of the department of poultry, will bring the poultrymen up to date on the most efficient feed for the flock. The Purdue studies concerning swine and beef cattle feeding will be discussed by Dr. W. M. Beeson, animal nutritionist and N. S. Lundquist will continue the general topic as it pertains to dairy cattle.

Developments in the drying and storing of crops will be a major feature of the Building Improvement section Thursday morning at the Agricultural Engineering building. The group will first assemble at the new dairy center where hay drying equipment will also be inspected.

New crop varieties for efficient present day farming will be discussed on Thursday afternoon at Eliza Fowler Hall, when Dr. R. M. Caldwell, head of the department of botany and plant pathology, will preside. Those who will appear on the program and their topics are: S. R. Miles, agronomist, "Corn Hybrids Tailormade for You;" G. H. Cutler, agronomist, "Wheat and Oats Varieties for Larger Yields and Better Quality;" A. H. Probst, agronomist, "Better Soybean Varieties for Indiana," and H. H. Kramer, plant breeder, "More Efficient Farming with New Forage Crop Varieties."

U. S. Department of Agriculture scientists present fresh proof in the recent circular 807 that there is "no justification for the combined use of serum and vaccine for prevention of hog cholera." Purdue University veterinarians explain that crystal violet vaccine has little effect for about two or three weeks, but the immunity lasts for at least the life of market hogs. Anti-hog-cholera serum takes immediate effect, but soon wears off. Many farmers have used vaccine and serum together in trying to get immediate and lasting results. The circular gives additional reasons why simultaneous use is not advisable.

INDIANA HAS OIL BOOM

Indiana is fast becoming one of the largest oil producing states of the mid-continent area, according to a statement issued by Elmer Hoehn, director of the Oil and Gas Division of the Indiana Department of Conservation.

In the departmental report for June

1949 there were 156 drilling permits issued. Wells drilled numbered 130 of which 59 were dry and 45 became producing wells.

The most promising well yet completed was brought in July 14, by the Gilliam Drilling Company, an independent outfit in section 20, Linton township, Vigo county. Experts estimate that the well will produce from two to three thousand barrels daily.

Drilling operations have started on a newly discovered oil pool near Fontanet, an abandoned coal mining area, which geologists pronounce the largest oil structure yet found in Indiana. It comprises approximately 10,000 acres. Petroleum Highlands, as it is referred to officially, is located about twelve miles northeast of Terre Haute and is believed to be the pool that fed the old Terre Haute Prox well, which produced for forty years in the heart of the downtown district. The rich oil structure, originally located by an aerial survey, has been radarized and seismographed by three different companies recently and is now declared by petroleum engineers to be large enough to accommodate more than 1,000 oil wells.

In 1926 Tommy Hitchcock, New York sportsman, discovered the Siosi pool of about 80 oil wells in south Vigo county and last August an Indianapolis realtor discovered the Martz pool which now has about 20 producing wells. That discovery kicked off the present oil boom.
