Knouff Married

In a double ring ceremony performed at 2:00 Saturday afternoon, June 25, at the Warsaw Church of God, Miss Lois Ummel, daughter of Mrs. Edith Ummel, Claypool, and Arlo Knouff, son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Knouff, Warsaw, were married. The Reverend O. L. Johnson and Richard Ummel, brother of the bride, read the vows.

A prelude of piano music presented by Miss Denyse Bolt, Pierceton, included "I Love You Truly," "Oh, Promise Me," "Indian Love Call," and "Oh, Perfect Love." Jon Cullum, Mentone, sang "Because," "Always," and "Savior, Like A Shepherd Lead Us."

The altar was banked with red roses, greenery and candelabras.

The bride wore a floor length gown of white satin styled with a peter pan collar, three-quarter length sleeves, a fitted midriff, and a softly pleated skirt. Her fingertip veil, held in place by a soft crown, was bordered with pearl centered roses. She carried red and white carnations on a white Bible.

Miss Joan Ummel, sister of the bride, was maid of honor and wore a blue ballerina length gown. The bridesmaids were Miss Nila Klein, Gilead, and Miss Betty Kaim, Warsaw. They wore ballerina length gowns of pastel green and pink respectively.

Miss Maxine Hines, Fort Wayne niece of the bride and flower girl, scattered rose petals. She wore a yellow taffeta gown styled with a matching bolero.

Mr. Floyd Dorsey, Mentone, was the best man. Mr. Rollin Knouff, brother of the groom, and Mr. Stanley Ummel, brother of the bride, ushered the guests.

Mrs. Ummel wore a pink dress with white accessories for her daughter's wedding. Mrs. Knouff wore a navy blue dress with white accessories. They both wore corsages of white carnations.

Her fiancé is a graduate of Warsaw high school and served in the armed forces spending a year in Japan. He is now a student at Manchester college. An August wedding is planned.

Fine Day for Celebration Here

Those who selected the date for the Independence Day celebration at Mentone must have had a way with the weatherman as the weather was ideal for the event held last Saturday evening.

The crowd, due to the attraction of events in Akron, Rochester and North Webster, wasn't so large during the forepart of the evening, but a fine crowd gathered for the fireworks display.

The Browns beat the Dodgers 7 to 5 in a baseball game played earlier in the evening. The two teams play in the pony league at Warsaw.

The members of the Lions club and the business people of Mentone want to express their thanks and appreciation for the fine group of guests at the event.

TAKEN TO HOSPITAL

"Dobbs" Miller was taken to the Woodlawn hospital at Rochester, Wednesday afternoon, apparently suffering from a diabetic condition.

Mentone Men Report "Hotter Down Below"

Seven local men made a flying trip to northern Wisconsin for fishing purposes last weekend. Chick Herendeen and Dan Urschel provided the aerial transportation, other members of the party being Philip Blue, Hap Uter, Bob Riewoldt, Bob Hoover and Dale Sinclair. Their northern headquarters was Boyd's Mason Lake Lodge, near Park Lake.

The weather was benevolent, and the flights there and back were accomplished uneventfully. Dr. Urschel and his passengers had the biggest shock on Sunday when they landed at Warsaw in a temperature near 100 degrees, having taken off from Wisconsin with the thermometer reading 65.

Also, they made the entire trip at an altitude of 9000 feet where the temperature was low.

Float Places Second At Festival

A float bzzilt by Mrs. Lorin Tridle and Mrs. Robert Hooper, won second place in the parade of "Cuties" at the Mermaid Festival Friday evening. Kathy and Lorna Tridle were with the float. The float placed 4th in the big parade Thursday evening.

Your editor hopes to have a picture and a more complete description of the float in our next issue.

Dairy Cattle Need Comfort

Lafayette, Ind.—The dairy cow, the hardest working animal on the farm, is also the most comfort craving. And, according to G. A. Williams, Purdue extension dairyman, no animal is more deserving of a comfortable environment.

Twenty-four hours each day, seven days each week, the cow is at work converting roughages and concentrates into nature's most nearly perfect food—milk. Unfortunately, this service is often performed under conditions which are far from comfortable.

It has been estimated through research that 10 tons of blood must flow through the udder of a cow in order for her to produce 50 pounds of milk each day. Since this is not an uncommon level of production on many dairy farms, the heart of such a cow is subjected to heavy strain.

Large amounts of feed are required to meet the needs for these high-producing cows. In the mastication and digestion of feed, heat is generated. When temperatures are low, heat is utilized to maintain body temperatures but in the summer when atmospheric temperatures approach 90 degrees the cows must dispose of the surplus or she is uncomfortable.

Williams suggested the following points in order to keep cows comfortable and avoid the summer production slump.

Provide plenty of feed; a cow may consume 150 to 200 pounds of grass daily if it is available.

If more than one pasture is available, use the one with the greatest carrying power for day time grazing. Cows prefer to get their supply of grass during the morning before the sun is too hot.

Fields used for day time grazing should be provided with shade either natural or portable.

Provide plenty of fresh cool water which is easily accessible, especially during the day.

Use a fly repellent; cows cannot fight flies and keep cool at the same time.

Poultry School Set At Purdue

Lafayette, Ind.—More than 70 hatchery workers from Indiana are expected to arrive at Purdue University Monday, July 11, for an intensive five-day flock selection and blood testing school.

School participants will represent hatcheries from all sections of Indiana which are members of the National Poultry Improvement Association, according to Jack Long, assistant professor of poultry science at Purdue.

Upon successful completion of the course, the workers will be licensed to do official blood testing and selection for the hatcheries.

The school is sponsored by the Indiana Poultry Improvement Association in cooperation with the Purdue extension service. Courses which will be covered during the five days include testing and selection of birds for hatchery egg production, general management of laying flocks, and disease control in both young chicks and laying flocks.

Classes will consist of lecture sessions and laboratory practice and will be conducted at the Purdue livestock pavilion and poultry farm. The school will end Friday, July 15, with a comprehensive written examination.

An address by Doyle Free, executive secretary of the Nebraska Improvement Association, will be a feature of the school. He will speak on the National Poultry Improvement Plan. A barbecue for all persons enrolled in the school will be staged on the intramural athletic field, Wednesday evening, July 13.

Sand Field Day Planned July 19

Lafayette, Ind.—Sand farmers in Indiana will view exhibits and hear the latest research results during the annual Sand Field Day at Purdue University's 40-acre Sand Experimental Farm near Culver Tuesday afternoon, July 19.

A chalk talk on "Insect Problems in Northern Indiana" by Glen Lehker, extension entomologist at Purdue, will open the event at 1:30 p. m. (DST)

Three irrigation exhibits will be among nine demonstrations scheduled. C. G. Williams, irrigation specialist at Purdue, has announced that results of four years work with irrigation on corn will be summarized. Irrigation effects on different varieties of corn will be viewed by farmers.

The nine stop tour of the experimental farm will get underway at 2 p. m. In addition to irrigation exhibits, information on alfalfa varieties, leafhopper and field rodent control methods, and deep placement of fertilizer will be shown. Interaction of alfalfa varieties and leafhoppers will also be viewed.

Located in the corner of Marshall county, the experimental farm is five miles southwest of Culver.

Transportation will be furnished for farmers, who arrive by airplane, from the airport to the farm. Ralph Davis, Purdue agronomist, is in charge of the program.

Dick Boganwright, Devon Marshall and Mr. and Mrs. Jud Marshall enjoyed a ball game in Chicago, Sunday.

ADVERTISE! IT PAYS!

Farmers can lesson the danger of bloat in cattle by feeding some dry hay before turning the cows out on legume pasture, according to the veterinary department at Purdue University. Keep plenty of salt and fresh water available at all times.

Children on low sweet diets have been found to have fewer tooth decays than those who eat many sweets, says Miss Lois Oberhelman, extension foods and nutrition specialist at Purdue University.

Many Receiving S. S. Payments

In Kosciusko County at the end of last year 974 retired workers were receiving $51,429 in monthly social security payments, according to figures just released by Gearld Kelter, Social Security Administration district manager in Elkhart.

In addition to the retired workers themselves, 716 people were receiving $25,277 a month as dependents of aged workers or as survivors of those who had died.

These amounts represent an increase of 8 percent over the benefits being paid at the end of 1953, Kelter pointed out, due primarily to the 1954 Amendments to the social security law, which increased all benefits.

One of the changes in the law made it possible for the first time for the survivors of some workers who died after 1939 and before September 1950 to qualify for payments.

Beginning in September 1954 the amendments permit the "dropping out" of up to 5 years of lowest earnings in figuring the worker's average monthly wage. This has the effect of increasing the average earnings, from which the monthly payments are figured.

Other improvements in the law did not go into effect until the first day of 1955; although these changes had not affected the payments that were being made at the end of 1954, they will contribute to further increases in the total amount of benefits payable in Kosciusko County during this year. Among the amendments that went into effect on the first of the year, one changes the rules for receiving payments while the beneficiary is working; one extends coverage to many kinds of work that did not count toward social security benefits before 1955, and another increases the maximum amount of annual earnings creditable toward benefits from $3,600 to $4,200.

A major change made by the 1954 Amendments was provision of a method by which totally disabled workers can protect their future benefit right by "freezing" their social security wage records while they are disabled. This can increase the payments now being made to many people who are already 65 but were disabled for a considerable period before they reached 65.

Of the workers receiving old-age insurance benefits in Kosciusko County at the end of the year, 271 had wives or husbands who were entitled to payments as dependents. Benefits to wives and aged dependent husbands amounted to $8057 per month.

Children made up a large group of beneficiaries; 239 of them were receiving $8,492 in benefits at the end of the year. Most of these were children of younger workers who had died, but some were children of retired workers.

If their father has died and children receiving benefits are in the care of their mother, the mother also receives benefits. In Kosciusko County 56 mother received 2,284 per month at the end of 1954.

6,464 a month went to 151 aged widows and aged dependent widowers and parents of deceased workers.

These local figures for old-age and survivors insurance payments reflect a national trend, Kelter pointed out. In the county as a whole, there were 6,886,480 people receiving benefit payments at the end of 1954—nearly a million more than in December 1953.

Kelter stressed the importance of these benefits as the greatest or the only source of income to many of the families who received them. "Two out of three people now reaching age of 65 can qualify for old-age and survivors insurance benefits," he said, "and nine out of ten mothers and children in the country are assured of survivors benefits in case of the death of the family breadwinner."

Money to pay these benefits comes from the old-age and survivors Insurance Trust Fund, which is built up from social security tax contributions of workers, their employers, and self-employed people.

The Elkhart social security office is now in Room 531 of the Monger Bldg, Elkhart.

Malathion is excellent for killing flies in dairy barns and around farm buildings. To make an effective spray, use one-half pint of 57 percent malathion emulsion and one and one-half cups of sugar in three gallons of water, says entomologists at Purdue University.

GIANT MAN TELLS HOW TO EAT

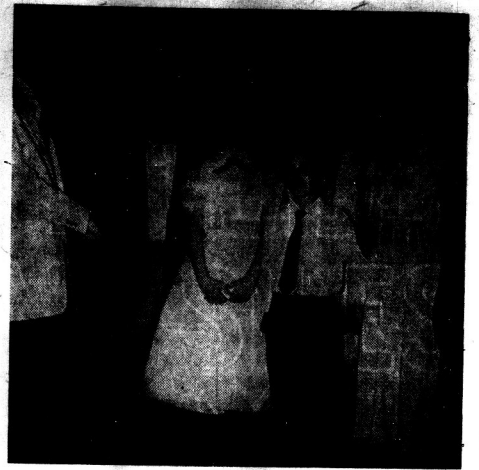

Chicago—
Want to learn quickly and easily how to live a longer and happier life through right eating?

Visit the free Museum of Science and Industry on Chicago's south side, where there is a newly opened exhibit, "Food for Life."

This giant man tells the right eating story—how properly balanced meals can promote health and happiness and longer life.

The "Food for Life" exhibit, donated to the Museum as a public service by Swift & Company, contains information based on latest findings of nutrition research.

A feature of the exhibit is a live farm animal nursery where proper nutrition, as practiced in producing livestock, is illustrated. Baby pigs, lambs, chicks, and ducks are on display and there is a glass enclosed incubator where visitors can see chicks hatching.

The picture above was taken at a recent reception party for Rev. and Mrs. Persons, of the Methodist Church. Shown are Rev. and Mrs. Persons, children Gretchen and David, Mrs. Lois Davison and Raymond Cooper. (The printing plate failed to arrive in time to be placed with the complete story last week.)

Entertains Psi Iota Xi Sorority

The Beta Epsilon chapter of Psi Iota Xi sorority met at the home of Mrs. Kenneth Simcoe for a regular business meeting on Tuesday, July 5.

The roll call was taken as soon as the meeting was open and was followed by the secretary and treasurer's reports.

Louise Long presented a crested gavel to the chapter as a gift.

A report of the 1955 National Convention, held at the Congress Hotel in Chicago, June 17 and 18, was given by Louise Long, delegate. In the Philanthropic field our national organization spent $4,525 in the past year for such projects as the Hoosier Art Salon, the Speech and Hearing Kindergarten at Indianapolis and the Speech and Hearing Clinic at Ball State Teachers College. The sorority also awarded cash scholarships in the amount of $1,720 at Indiana University, Ohio State University and Indiana State Teachers College. Also attending the convention were Jean Pritchard, delegate; Mary Utter and Pauline Riner.

The petition of the new Warsaw chapter was received and plans were made for their coming installation. It will be held at 4:00 p.m. on Sunday, July 24, at the American Legion Home in Warsaw. Committees were named and invitations were sent to surrounding Psi Iota Xi chapters.

The program for the current year was read by the program

Married At Tippecanoe

In a double ring ceremony Miss Louise Drudge, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. DeWayne Drudge, of Akron, Indiana, became the bride of Wayne Swihart, son of Mr. and Mrs. Chancey Swihart, of Tippecanoe, Indiana. Rev. Harvey E. Swihart, of Elkhart, Indiana, uncle to the bridegroom, performed the ceremony at 2 p.m. Sunday before an altar banked with baskets of red roses and white hydrangea and palms in the Tippecanoe Community Church. Miss Sanna McGee, of Mishawaka, played a prelude of nuptial music and also accompanied her father, Rev. John McGee, of Mishawaka, as he sang solos.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a ballerina length gown fashioned with a fitted bodice of white lace with a double peter pan collar and long fitted sleeves which tapered to points over the hands.

Her skirt was of tiers of white nylon net ruffles. Her finger tip length veil draped from a halo of seed pearls and rhinestones. She carried red roses on a white Bible.

Mrs. Patricia Simons, of South Bend, was matron of honor and wore a ballerina length gown of aqua net over satin with a satin cap, fitted bodice and a full skirt. She carried red roses and wore a headpiece of red rose buds.

Bridesmaids were Miss Lucille Davis and Miss Judith Ann Davis, both of South Bend, cousins of the bridegroom. Lucille wore a gown of blue nylon net styled with a fitted bodice, full skirt and a matching stole and carried pink roses. She wore a headpiece of white apple blossoms. Judith Ann's gown was of lavender with a fitted bodice, full skirt and a short lace jacket. She carried yellow roses and her headpiece was of white apple blossoms. Albert Simons, of South Bend, served his nephew as best man. Ushers were Tom Rhodes and Melvin Fuller.

Immediately following the ceremony a reception was held in the church basement for eighty-five guests. The young couple is at home in the Tanner Apartment in Bourbon, Indiana. The bride attended Akron high school and the bridegroom was graduated from Tippecanoe high school.

Here is another picture in the second series of farm photos to be printed in the Co-Op. News.

The pictures were taken by the Zekan & Robbins photographers, Earlan, Iowa, and are all of farms in the Mentone trading area. The pictures are not identified and it will be up to the owners or neighbors to notify this newspaper office. The pictures were taken by airplane and not even the photographer knows one from the other. It will be interesting to see who is the first to identify the pictures each week. Phone Mentone 38. We will endeavor to publish the names of each person correctly identifying the pictures each week.

The farm owner will be given the original 5 x 7 mounted picture absolutely free of any cost. All we require is that the operator himself come to our office and give us a little information about the farm, its operation, etc. Additional prints, colored enlargements, etc. can be obtained by contacting this newspaper.

Did We Draw Another Blank?

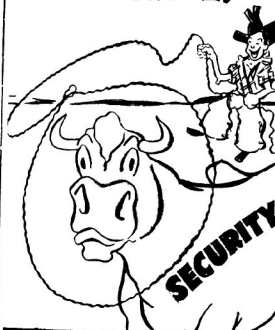

Indications are no one recognized the farm pictured in our last issue. At least we have no calls recorded.

Julia Kent is spending the week at the Lorin Tridle home.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Harman and son of Etna Green, and Mr. and Mrs. Artley Cullum and son of Mentone, spent the week end at Dunes State Park on Lake Michigan.

Mrs. Lawrence Boyer, who is in the Robert Long Hospital in Indianapolis, may undergo an operation for a brain tumor on Thursday, unless she continues to improve.

DID YOU EVER WONDER?

I did—so I wrote to the Elgin Watch Company, and received the following reply:

"We receive a great many inquiries as to why the hands on our watches that are displayed or illustrated, are set at 8:18. Many people believe that this is the time that Lincoln was assassinated or died. Neither are the facts.

"The reason that we set the hands at this time is because we feel it gives a better balance to the display of the dial and hands and at the same time affords the maximum of space for our name identification in the upper portion of the dial.

"We trust this gives you the information you desire."

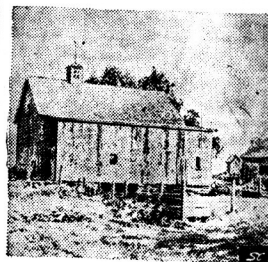

Sincerely,
GORDON HOWARD,
Adv. Mgr.

BORROWED $20 NOW $2½ BILLION FOOD BUSINESS

Chicago—On $20 borrowed from his father a 16-year-old New England lad began the business that now ranks eighth in the U. S. in sales.

Gustavus Franklin Swift bought his first livestock with the borrowed funds and sold the meat to his Cape Cod, Mass., neighbors, 100 years ago.

In 1954 the business which he founded—Swift & Company—distributed $2,510,000,000 worth of foods and other products. Swift is celebrating its Centennial this year.

Famous First—the First Swift Meat Packing Plant at Barnstable, Mass.

This livestock purchase was a bold investment in 1855 but young Swift knew exactly how to go about making it pay. He dressed the animal—a heifer—in a barn at home. His cuts were so good and his prices so economical that he had no trouble selling the beef to women of the neighborhood. He ended up with a small profit after selling the heifer's hide. From that time on he was in business for keeps. He became known to his neighbors as "G. F. Swift, dealer in meats."

This was the heifer deal, celebrated in meat packing lore, with which Swift began his career. To this deal can be traced also the modern meat industry, shaped by the methods he established in his own firm.

Ever think of sending your two-year-old child out to plow the south forty? Of course not! Nevertheless, children in the age group one to four are the chief victims of fatal accidents. In announcing National Farm Safety week, July 24 through 30, Dick Willsey, Purdue University farm safety specialist, warns that the only way to eliminate these accidents is to keep children away from tractors at all times. Don't give them rides or allow them to play in an area where a tractor is being operated. Your child's life and safety are in your hands.

Modern facilities for farrowing on the Mark and William Congleton farm, four and one half miles southeast of Frankfort, will be of interest to those who plan to go on the annual State Farm Management Tour July 27. William Congleton is shown here inspecting a litter of pigs that had just arrived before the cameraman caught the picture. The Congleton farm will be visited in the afternoon.

Robert Sullivan is proud of this broiler as he shows it to Carroll County agent H. R. Berry. The building in the rear is equipped to house and feed 7,500 broilers, and three broods are marketed each year. Hoosiers on the State Farm Management Tour will have an opportunity to witness this operation on the morning of July 27.

4-H Club Chatter

By Ruth Snellenberger

Dear 4-H Members and Friends,
Plans for 4-H Camp, July 17-20, are well under way. Members who completed at least one 4-H project last year have been mailed information regarding schedules, rules and classes offered.

To help with recreation this year, Mr. F. L. Reynolds from the State 4-H Club Office, will be with us. "Mac", as Mr. Reynolds is known by most 4-H'ers, is well known among young people for his directing large groups in folk games. In addition to working with 4-H and Rural Youth members in Indiana, Mac has directed groups during National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago. Thus boys and girls attending camp this year can look forward to a rollicking good time. Then too, I'm sure each will get some good ideas for recreation to use in their own club groups.

More time for crafts is planned this year too. In addition to the class periods for crafts opportunity to work on crafts during the swimming and free-time periods will be arranged. A new craft not heretofore offered at 4-H camp is that of basket weaving.

Swimming instruction will be offered during three class periods in the morning. Other classes not heretofore mentioned are nature study, newspaper, chorus, entomology, fishing, electricity, health, boating, and recreation and dramatics.

In addition to the fun at classes and new recreation learned, making new friends is one of the reasons some 4-H'ers like camp. For some it is a new experience of being away from Mother and Dad. With every one keeping busy though, there's little time for one to wish for home.

All for now.

Forced Air Grain Drying Advocated

Lafayette, Ind.—Hoosier farmers can avoid reduced prices for small grain harvested with excess moisture by forced air grain drying, according to G. W. Isaacs, a member of the agricultural engineering staff at Purdue University.

In the past, farmers have not had safe storage space for grain harvested with 15 to 20 percent moisture and have been forced to accept a lower price.

The harvest often cannot be delayed until the grain has dried satisfactorily in the field because of threatening weather or excessive green material growing taller than the grain.

Mechanical drying has proved to be a simple and practical solution to this problem. Fans are used to force air through the grain to evaporate the excess moisture. The dried grain can then be stored on the farm without mold damage or loss in germination and marketed without discounts for moisture.

With forced air grain drying, the harvest can safely begin from seven to ten days earlier than usual.

A delayed harvest increases danger of storm damage and increases cutterbar losses. Losses on the cutterbar account for most of the combine losses where grain is dry enough to store without forced air drying.

Farmers can safely store grain containing 20 percent moisture when forced air drying is used. For safe storage without forced air drying, grain must contain less than 13 percent moisture.

The operating costs of forced air equipment depends on the moisture of the grain and weather conditions but usually average from two to three cents per bushel.

Interested farmers can secure additional information by writing to the office of agricultural publications at Purdue University for Extension Leaflet 348, "Drying Small Grain in Storage Bins."

Identical Calves Needed At Purdue

Lafayette, Ind.—Cattle producers in Indiana are in a position to hasten the progress of several nutritional feeding studies at Purdue University.

Animal nutritionists at Purdue are searching for identical twin calves that have at least half beef breeding. The "twins" are needed urgently for feeding experiments.

"Identical" refers to calves born of the same sex, body size, shape and color patterns. They should also have the same temperament, feeding and nursing habits, and general behavior patterns. The sets of twins need not be purebred and may be of either sex.

Cattlemen who believe they have such a pair of calves, under a year of age, and are willing to sell them, should write Dr. M. Plumlee, animal husbandry department, Purdue. Several sets are now needed for the 1955 project.

Plumlee calculates that 100 sets of identical twin beef calves are born each year in Indiana. Acquisition of these calves will be of great value to nutritionists in carrying out fundamental research studies at Purdue.

Agricultural engineers at Purdue University advise farmers to install a natural air fan in one-grain bin for use on high moisture grain. Plan to use it for grain combined in early morning or late evening.

4-H Club Chatter

By Ruth Snellenberger

Dear 4-H Members and Friends,

Fair time is coming! Yes, sooner than you may think. August 8 to 13 are the dates of this year's County Fair held at the fairgrounds at the southeast edge of Warsaw.

Fair catalogs will soon have been distributed to a leader of each 4-H home economics club in quantities so that each 4-H family may have a copy. I urge each of you 4-H members to read pages 31-34 for information about 4-H home economics project exhibiting.

The changes in the 4-H home economics department have been kept to a minimum. However, there are a few.

One particular change is that some exhibits are due on Saturday, August 6. These are clothing, crafts, electric, food preservation, and home improvement. Exhibitors are asked to bring to the south portion of the Women's Building between 9:00 a. m. and 1:00 p. m. (E. S. T.) that day (Saturday). The reason these projects need to be entered then is because they will be judged Monday, thereby the clothing will have been judged before the girl wears the garment for the public showing of the dress revue on Monday evening.

Another change is that every ribbon will receive a premium. Blue ribbon placings will receive $1, red ribbons—75 cents, and white ribbons—50 cents. The ribbons are not to be placed with the exhibit; instead a colored sticker corresponding to the color of ribbon will be placed on the label. The ribbon will be given when the project exhibit is removed. Do read the general rules in the fair catalog for these instructions.

Exhibits must be removed between 11:00 a. m. and 3:00 p. m. (E. S. T.) on Saturday, August 13. Premiums and ribbons may be picked up, when project exhibits are removed, for the project department superintendent or secretary upon presenting label with colored sticker indication grade received. If exhibit is not claimed, ribbons and premiums will be forfeited.

Parents as well as 4-H members are urged to suggest ways for improving our county 4-H program. So if you have some ideas about our fair exhibiting plans, may I hear them?

Hormone Research Will Be Discussed

Lafayette, Ind.—Specialists at Purdue University will report research findings on the relationship of progesterone, the hormone of pregnancy, and reproductive difficulties in cows at the fourth Purdue Dairy Day July 22.

The specialists removed ovaries of pregnant cows in order to conduct their research. Cows then received progesterone injections and gave birth to calves in shorter period of time than normal. In one case the process shortened the gestation period four weeks and in other cases the periods were even shorter.

Nine other topics concerning the latest developments in the dairy industry are scheduled during the morning program which opens at 10 a. m. (DST) at the university's dairy center on Cherry Lane, West Lafayette.

Dr. Herrell DeGaff, Babcock professor at Cornell University and internationally known economist, will present the featured address at the afternoon program.

Dr. Norman Lundquist, Purdue dairy specialist in charge of the annual event, will serve as moderator for a question and answer panel which will include Billy R. Baumgardt, B. J. Walker, Donald Hill and George Hindery, of the Purdue dairy department; Glen Lehker, Purdue extension entomologist; John Foley, agricultural engineer at Purdue; Charles French, Purdue agricultural economist; Dr. T. H. Phillips, of the state veterinary department, and Les Smith, extension agronomist at Purdue. Lunch will be served in the dairy pavilion by a church group from 10 a. m. to 1 p. m.

Farmers who pasture wooded areas during the summer months should check for the presence of poisonous white snakeroot, according to the botany and plant pathology department at Purdue University. White snakeroot is a white-flowered plant that thrives only in shaded areas. White snakeroot poisoning can be fatal to livestock.

Farm Safety Week Will open July 24

Lafayette, Ind.—Farmers often hear of a new way to save more pigs or of saving their crops from some impending disease or insect. During the week beginning July 24, however, they will be urged to save something else—their lives.

That's the week designated as National Farm Safety Week, reports Dick Wilsey, Purdue University farm safety specialist.

This year's drive for safety will come too late for some 14,000 farm people who lost their lives in farm accidents last year. For thousands of other farm families, however, the campaign against carelessness can well mean the difference between life and death, or one arm instead of two.

Figures compiled by the U. S. Department of Agriculture leaves no doubt that anyone can become the victim of a careless accident at just about any time or any place. Accidental deaths involved every age group from one to seventy-five and over. The causes: everything from falls to poisoning. Location of the fatalities: anywhere and everywhere on the farm.

What can Hoosier farmers do to protect themselves and their families from such an accident? Willsey urges everyone to become "safety conscious," not just during Safety Week, but fifty-two weeks a year. Nearly all of these accidents are the result of human thoughtlessness — thing you would never think of doing — if you had taken time to think.

Highest Air Force Award Goes To Larry Bell

Buffalo, N. Y., July 9—The Exceptional Service Award, highest honor the United States Air Force accords a civilian, was presented here today to Lawrence D. Bell, president of Bell Aircraft Corp. and one of the nation's aviation pioneers.

Presentation was made by Roger Lewis, assistant secretary of the Air Force, at a dinner marking Bell Aircraft Corporation's 20th anniversary (July 10, 1955).

Bell, who founded the company bearing his name, was a guest of honor at the dinner which also paid tribute to 21 other employees who have been with the aircraft builder since 1935.

The citation, which accompanied the award, reads as follows: "Lawrence D. Bell has distinguished himself by exceptionally outstanding service to the United States Air Force throughout an eminent career embracing more than 43 years of selfless dedication to military and peacetime aeronautical progress.

"As one of that small band of American pioneers who have conspicuously contributed to the development of air power, the name of Lawrence D. Bell is characterized by indefatigable efforts to assure America's continued air superiority.

"From 10 July 1935 to 10 July 1955, through the inspirational guidance of its founder, Bell Aircraft Corporation has strengthened our nation in peace and war by its notable achievements in producing the Airacuda; the P-39 Airacobra; the P-63 Kingcobra; the P-59 Aircomet, America's first jet propelled airplane; the X-1, the first supersonic airplane; the X-2 and the X-5; the HSL-1, the first helicopter specifically designed for anti-submarine warfare; the Model 47, the world's first commercial helicopter; the X-1A, the first airplane to exceed twice the speed of sound; the first jet powered vertical takeoff and landing airplane, and the GAM-63, the first long range air-launched, rocket-propelled guided missile.

"This country's leadership in the air is directly attributable to the genius of men who, like the founder of one of the world's foremost aircraft companies, have provided the aviation industry with such undisputed technical and executive ability.

"Our country is indebted to Lawrence D. Bell for his outstanding contribution to the development of the United States Airforce from its modest beginning to its present role as this nation's first line of defense."

The state fair association will pay the bus fares and hotel room charges for each member and the coach of the winning teams in the two divisions.

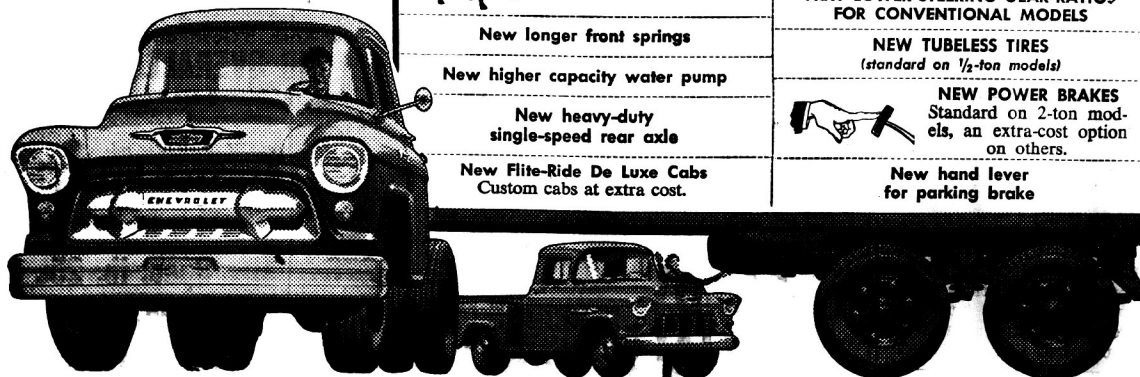

Members of the two teams will give the demonstrations at the National Vegetable contest held at the Junior Growers Convention.

Farm Near Delphi State Tour Stop

Lafayette, Ind. — A Carroll County farmer, Ralph Sullivan, and his son, Robert, who live three miles southeast of Delphi, have reorganized their farm business in recent years to maximize the use of their resources, according to Purdue University agricultural economists. In their reorganization, the cropping program has been changed to include a high percentage of corn and no small grain. The Sullivans now grow about 190 acres of corn on their 220 tillable acres each year. Their average corn yields have been about 85 bushels per acre. This year they have 215 acres in corn.

Farmers who attend the annual State Farm Management Tour, Wednesday morning, July 27, will be impressed with how the Sullivans have reorganized their business to take advantage of the most modern technology in crop and livestock production.

With specially designed equipment, 72 acres of the corn land are planted in 60-inch rows and the remaining 143 acres are planted in 40 inch rows. Also, with specially designed equipment, a mixture of orchard grass, ladino and alfalfa was seeded between the 60 inch rows, June 20 to 30. Their crop rotation is set-up for five years in corn to one year in meadow.

Fertilization consists of an analysis of 0-20-20 fertilizer applied at the rate of 200 pounds in the row and 200 pounds band seeded with the grass mixture seeding. In this program no nitrogen is used for corn the first year after meadow, 60 pounds of nitrogen is applied the second year, and 100 pounds in the 3rd, fourth and fifth year after sod.

What do Sullivan and his son do with the 17,000 bushels of corn they annually produce? To this question they have two answers. Twelve hundred feeder pigs are purchased and fed each year—900 each spring and 300 each fall. Also, three broods of broilers, totaling 22,500 are produced annually.

Sullivan was in the broiler business in Camden for 13 years before purchasing his present farm home in 1948. Building program included construction of a tenant house, remodeling the family home, and a complete arrangement of the barn into three floors for their broiler operation. Barn remodeling also included the installation of a dump-hopper for elevating feed to a third floor storage-bin with a gravity feed outlet for self-feeders on each of the three floors in the broiler building.

Corn storage is provided in a 6,000 bushel capacity double crib designed for drying and equipped with an elevator for filling and a dragline for removing the corn. A pole type 4,000 bushel capacity corn crib with an attached machinery shelter is another unit used for corn storage. Metal corn cribs are also used.

Special livestock equipment on the farm includes portable hog houses, arranged and constructed to provide ample shelter and shade, and portable shade in the feed lot apart from the hog houses.

The two day event will get underway at 7 o'clock Tuesday evening, July 26, with the annual kick-off dinner at the St. Joan of Arc church in Kokomo. Farmers should see their county agents for tickets. Overnight facilities are being arranged by the Howard County Farm Management Association.

Bell Says Aviation's Job Just Beginning

(Special to the NEWS)

Buffalo, N. Y., July 8—The nation's senior aircraft executive, Lawrence D. Bell, said here today that instead of being nearly finished, aviation's job has only begun.

On the 20th anniversary of Bell Aircraft Corporation, the company he founded July 10, 1935, Bell stated that the frontiers of aviation are greater now than they have ever been since the first flight of the Wright brothers.

"Every phase of aviation as we know it, is on the threshold of entirely new concepts," the veteran of 43 years of aviation pioneering declared.

"As an indication of the revolution now going on in aeronautics, the industry is already working with such radical principles as vertical rising aircraft, completely automatic controls, nuclear fuels, electronic allweather guidances and other problems almost beyond the scope of imagination.

"We will conceive and build vehicles with speed ranges of between Mach 10 and Mach 20 (approximately 7,000 to 14,000 m. p. h.) and the ability to operate at altitudes up to 50 miles. And this we will do in the next two decades."

Bell said that supersonic flight is commonplace now but it took the aircraft industry until 1947 to pierce the sound barrier.

"We can't wait that long again for major developments," he declared. "And I don't think we will have to."

"The landing and takeoff procedures have been exactly the same since the Wrights. Planes have run along the ground before becoming airborne. But now, the new principle of VTOL (vertical takeoff and landing) will be applied to all types of airplanes and will make landings and takeoffs more efficient and much more economical.

"The aviation industry, which is of almost the same vintage as the automobile industry, has not been content to stay with the same type of fuel.

"There has been an increased development of rocket fuels, still more powerful chemical fuels are in the making and ultimately, we will have nuclear fuels.

"Further evidence of the aeronautical revolution is the philosophy that electronic and mechanical devices, which have been aids to pilots, will become the fundamental system for operating aircraft. The pilot eventually will be retained to monitor and compensate these devices, much like the engineer of a diesel locomotive."

The next decade or two is envisioned by Bell as a period of transition from aircraft to guided missiles until a point is reached where there is a balance of effectiveness between manned aircraft and missiles.

He foresees an increasingly more important role for guided missiles and believes that all improved new military aircraft will be armed with missiles such as the Bell-built Rascal for offense and the Hughes-built Falcon for defense.

"This trend is obvious now," the aircraft leader explained. "The defense of this country is being taken over more and more by missiles. Batteries of ground-to-air missiles are being installed throughout the nation to supplant anti-aircraft guns and our present interceptors are being armed with air-to-air missiles. "The partnership of aircraft and missiles should be an effective one."

Bell feels that speeds of 10 and 20 times the speed of sound will revolutionize our entire social pattern. The ability to travel to any point in the world in an hour or two will have a tremendous economic impact. Previously isolated countries will be brought into the high level of development that is now enjoyed by the Western Hemisphere.

Aviation embodies three big steps, Mr. Bell said, and only the first has been conquered.

"The Wrights proved that man need no longer be earthbound," he continued. "We have successfully demonstrated we can operate in the atmosphere. Our next step is to prove we can operate outside the atmosphere and the third step will follow when we can operate outside of the gravity field of the earth.

"Already much solid thinking has gone into these latter phases. Artificial satellites are now feasible, at least theoretically. Improved fuels, particularly rocket fuels, will contribute immeasurably. Space flight committees have been established by our authoritative technical societies and some universities and laboratories have formed departments of space medicine."

In summation, Bell, whose company designed and built the X-1, the world's first supersonic airplane as well as the X-1A, the world's fastest and highest airplane, said that aviation will never run out of problems to overcome.

"The sonic barrier has been pierced and we are operating every day with the knowledge which has accumulated since the first X-1 flew supersonically," he stated. "But we are faced with the thermal barrier now. And when that is licked, there probably will be a couple more to contend with, perhaps the radiation barrier and maybe even the time barrier. "Yes, after 53 years, aviation is just beginning."

Handley To Speak At Muck Crop Day

Lafayette, Ind.—Lt. Gov. Harold Handley, Indiana commissioner of agriculture, will be one of five speakers at the State Muck Crop Field Day Tuesday, July 21.

Roscoe Fraser, extension horticulturist at Purdue University, and Arthur Shideler, Stark county agent, program chairmen, have announced that the event will open at 10 a. m. (DST) on the Richard Gumz farm, four miles southwest of Nort Judson.

Participants will assemble at the potato storage house and will be transported to various plots in which they are interested. The Gumz farm involves several hundred acres of land on which almost every commercial muck crop is grown.

Demonstration plots which will be seen include potato varieties potato fertilizer trials, corn varieties, corn fertilizer trials, potato irrigation on sand, deep plowing of muck as it affects mint and other muck crops, hybrid mints and general farming.

In addition to Handley, four Purdue horticulturists will speak during the afternoon program. N. K. Ellis will discuss "Prospects for New Muck Potato Varieties" and G. F. Warren will speak on "Chemical Weeding of Muck Crops." Arthur Wolcott will explain "Internal Browning of Potatoes" and details of the State Muck Crop Show at Walkerton, October 25-28, will be listed by Fraser.

A fish lunch will be served by the Jonah Club under the supervision of Forrest Higgins, muck crop director from Silver Lake.

Slow growing pullets should be culled as soon as they begin to lag behind the rest of the flock, advises the poultry department at Purdue University. Removal of these pullets saves feed and gives more room for the other pullets to develop to best advantage.

The pictures were taken by the Zekan & Robbins photographers, Harlan, Iowa, and are all of farms in the Mentone trading area. The pictures are not identified and it will be up to the owners or neighbors to notify this newspaper office. The pictures were taken by airplane and not even the photographer knows one from the other. It will be interesting to see who is the first to identify the pictures each week. Phone Mentone 38. We will endeavor to publish the names of each person correctly identifying the pictures each week.

The farm owner will be given the original 5 x 7 mounted picture absolutely free of any cost. All we require is that the operator himself come to our office and give us a little information about the farm, its operation, etc. Additional prints, colored enlargements, etc. can be obtained by contacting this newspaper.

Farmer Calls for Free Farm Picture

Delbert Ogan, who lives on the first farm east of the Beaver Dam school on the south side of the road, called at this office recently and picked up his free farm picture. The picture was printed in our June 29th issue. Mr. and Mrs. Ogan have lived on the 85 acre dairy farm for four years. They have four children: Richard and Fay Ann who attend the Beaver Dam school; Betty who is a telephone operator in Warsaw, and Mrs. Lilly Holloway, at home, as her husband is in Bermuda.

Claude Gates and Ray Swick identified the farm correctly.

Mrs. Earl Zent, Herschel Fenstermaker and Harold Markley testify that the farm pictured in our last issue was the Milton Kesler farm, three and one-half miles west of Mentone on Road 25, presently occupied by the Kermit Zent family.

Market Hogs Need Cool Environment

Lafayette, Ind.—Hot weather is rough on hogs unless steps are taken to keep them cool, both on the farm and on the way to market, according to Dr. F. A. Hall, extension veterinarian at Purdue University.

Hogs are temperate animals and require adequate shade, cool water, fresh air and a cool place to lie down. Since hogs have been bred to reach market weight in a limited length of time, it is the owner's responsibility to help them to overcome unnatural handicaps such as excessive heat.

The hog was once a good forager, being lean of limb and fleet of foot. He was no stranger to the cool, dark recesses of the country's forest and his foot steps beat a path to the nearest water hole.

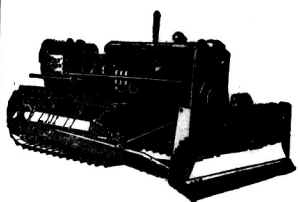

But this is no longer true. Today, feed awaits the hog in well filled selffeeders. But fresh water and a clean place to lie down in the shade are just as vital as the feed supply.

Hogs need first class accommodations when it comes time to go to market. A non-skid bedding, such as sand, should be provided. However, if sand is used, it should be wet down frequently in hot weather. Ventilation is needed since all market hogs have a small lung capacity for their weight. An occasional sprinkling with cool water is also good insurance for a safe arrival.

As one farmer once said, a hog with a wet belly is a live hog.

Heavy straw residues from wheat or oats can be detrimental to the stand of interseeded alfalfa or clovers, advise agronomists at Purdue University. To aid legume growth, stubble should be clipped after combining and all straw removed. However, stubble with a sweet clover stand should not be clipped or the legume may be killed. Farmers, who must leave straw in the field, will find that clipping the stubble followed by cultipacking the straw residue is the next best method of handling.

Jolly Janes Enjoy Picnic

On Wednesday evening, July 11th, a picnic supper was greatly enjoyed by guests and members of the Jolly Janes Home Economics Club. The picnic was held at the Warsaw City Park with 12 members and 3 guests answering roll call. An article entitled "Club Fever" was given by Mrs. Harold Markley for meditations.

The club voted to spend the evening of July 26th attending a summer play at the Syracuse Playhouse. Plans were made for exhibits at the county fair and all members are urged to enter as many articles as possible.

A highlight of the evening was an informative talk on the habits and customs of the people of Indonesia. Mrs. Sarwano, a native of Indonesia, who is a deputy mayor of a city of about 80, thousand was the speaker for the evening. She related that 65 per cent of all women were farm women, due to the fact that Indonesia is largely agricultural. The main crop is rice and a good field can yield 2 crops of rice in one year. The second main crop is soybeans. She said that they have fresh vegetables the year round but that they were very expensive because they were grown in the mountains and the cost to bring them down to the markets was great. The average family consists of 6 or 7 children and the religion is the Moslem faith.

Mrs. Kenneth Romine received a birthday gift from her secret pal. The door prize was won by Mrs. James Goshert. Hostesses for the evening were Mrs. Loren Tridle and Mrs. Robert Parker.

Guests for the evening were Mrs. Sarwano, Miss Reba Pyle, Home Demonstration Agent, and Mrs. Ora McKinley.

The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. James Goshert on August 8th.

The Stitch and Stir 4-H Club Meets

The Stitch and Stir 4-H club met at the home of Rita Olson on July 6.

Donna Eaton gave a demonstration on making "Dream Bars". Pam Hammer gave a demonstration on making "Butterscotch Chews".

Janet Beeson gave a talk on her demonstration for the County Demonstration Contest July 8.

For the next meeting bring your gifts for your secret sisters. Also bring your record books which must be completed.

We were pleased to have Ruth Snellenberger as our guest.

The next meeting will be at Plymouth Park for our yearly picnic. We are to meet at Janet Romine's on July 19 at 4:30 p. m. Mothers are welcome.

Warren See, Jr. Lavonne DeVaux Wed In Palestine

In a double ring ceremony performed recently in the Palestine Methodist church, Miss Lavonne DeVaux, daughter of Mrs. Joe Montel of Warsaw, and Ed. J. DeVaux of Fort Wayne, and Warren A. See Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Warren A. See Sr. of Palestine, were united in marriage.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. Ralph Hoffman, before an altar decorated with candelabra. White satin bows marked the pews, and a prelude of nuptial music was presented by Leah Nell Lemler of Mentone at the organ and soloist Bonnie Grubbs of Mentone. The selection included "Because," "The Lords Prayer," "Through The Years," "Indian Love Call," "Ave Maria," and the Traditional Wedding Marches.

The bride was attired in a ballerina length gown of nylon net over taffeta which featured an accoridian pleated skirt and a molded bodice of lace. Her two tiered fingertip veil of imported illusion was held in place by a cloche of matching lace. She carried a white Bible topped with a deep lavender orchid.

Miss Sue Lackey of Warsaw, attended the bride as maid of honor wearing a ballerina length gown of white lace over powder blue taffeta and a matching jacket of blue satin with three quarter length sleeves and a stand up collar. She wore a blue head-

Celebrates Birthday With Long Bike Ride

Saturday morning we noticed a rather elderly gent on a lightweight traveling bicycle circling around the main square and looking over our tall buildings, and I was interested to know more about the whole affair. Inquiry revealed the fact that Friday was his 58th birthday and so he was just doing a bit of celebrating—riding from his home in Plymouth to visit friends at Akron.

Earl Hattery, who found himself an orphan at the age of 16, said he had visited every state by auto and in 1949 decided he would do the same "without gas." He left California in April and on Thanksgiving day had crossed the Nation east and west and north and south on a bicycle.

He carries some camping equipment on his bike and said he would stop at motels as often as he felt the need of a bath and shave. Saturday, as he undertook to get a drink at our modern drinking fountain, he unhitched a private tin cup from the top of his pack and "poured" himself a drink. Perhaps he's allergic to too much water in his eyes and doesn't trust some of these big-squirt public drinking fountains.

Annabel Mentzer is back at her work at the Urschel Clinic although still recuperating from a broken wrist suffered some time ago.

General Adding Many New Phones

General Telephone Company of independent telephone company, this month passed the 135,000 telephone mark. The company Indiana, Inc., the state's largest has nearly tripled its size since 1940.

General of Indiana served only 49,000 telephones 15 years ago. By buying small companies and extending its own lines, General boosted its total to 91,000 in 1950. Since January 1 of this year, the utility has added more than 5,000 telephones to its network operating in 224 communities.

General has allocated large sums for improvement of service. Since the end of World War II, the company has spent more than 29 million dollars on equipment and construction this year alone.

H. E. Hussey, of Lafayette, president, says, "There is a great demand for telephones these days, particularly extension or extra-phones in the home. These extension telephones are readily available as are many other telephone accessories."

Formed February 5, 1930, General Telephone of Indiana was originally known as Indiana Commercial Telephone Company and began operations in 1932 with only 41,000 telephones. The present name was adopted in 1952. This is the 25th anniversary year for the company.

Banquet At Kokomo Start of Farm Tour

Lafayette, Ind.—Farmers attending the State Farm Management Tour this year should also plan to attend the kick-off dinner at the St. Joan of Arc church in Kokomo, Tuesday, July 26, at 7:00 p. m.

According to A. M. Nichter, Purdue University farm management specialist, the general outlook for agriculture will be presented at the dinner meeting by Dr. L. S. Hardin, acting head of the agricultural economics department at Purdue. Francis Kutish, agricultural extension economist at Iowa State College, will speak on the "Outlook for Farm Commodities." The market situation for hogs and cattle will be discussed by Commodore Edmondson, of the Indianapolis Stockyards.

From 9:00 a. m. to 11:00 a. m. Wednesday, July 27, farmers making the farm tour will have an opportunity to visit the Ralph Sullivan farm, three miles southwest of Delphi in Carroll County. The 235-acre Sullivan farm features a corn crop of 215 acres, a 1200 head purchased feeder pig operation, and a building handling 22,500 broilers annually.

Those on the tour will leave the Sullivan farm at 11:00 a. m. and travel 25 miles over paved state highway 39 to the Clinton County Fairgrounds where lunch will be served by the ladies of the Methodist church of Frankfort. The luncheon will feature a special "meat table" compliments of Stark-Wetzel Packing Company of Indianapolis and Frankfort.

Following the luncheon the tour will continue with a visit to the 316 acre Mark and William Congleton farm, four and a half miles southeast of Frankfort. Visiting farmers will be interested at this stop in the three litter hog system with farrowing beginning January 10, for spring; June 1, for summer, and July 25, for fall litters; early weaning of pigs; corn crib with the push button grain handling; quonset building for farrowing; and two 500 bushel self-feeders.

Farmers desiring tickets for the outlook banquet and the tour luncheon should see their county agent or write the Purdue University agriculture economics department. Overnight facilities will be available for both men and women in Kokomo.

Irrigation farmers are urged to watch the soil very closely during this part of the growing season. Purdue University agricultural engineers say to start irrigating in time to cover the entire field before crop damage by drought.

Gasoline Evaporation Losses High In Summer

Lafayette, Ind.—Summer evaporation losses from the vent of a gasoline tank may be as high as 10 percent each month, reports C. L. Hill, extension agricultural engineer at Purdue University.

In addition to the fuel loss from tanks in the hot sun, engines don't start as easily on the high-gum content fuel left in the tank. And sticky valves may also result.

To reduce fuel loss, storage tanks should be placed under trees or shelters. Tanks should be at least 15 feet from other buildings to reduce fire hazards, Hill says.

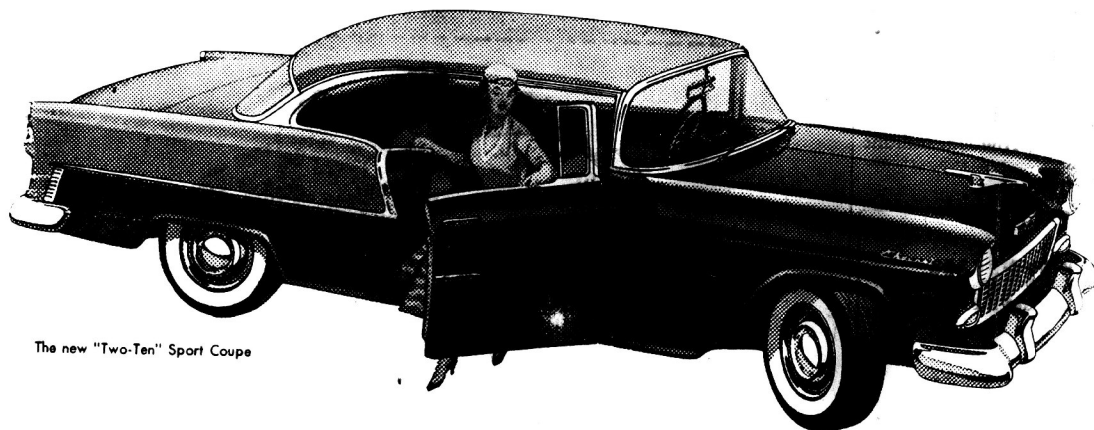

Underground storage is the surest way to prevent losses since ground temperature is fairly constant and eliminates excessive evaporation and condensation. Tanks placed underground should be coated with waterproofing to prevent leaks. Hill advises farmers to locate the underground tanks away from wells and sewer lines.

Motorized farm implements should be parked in the shade whenever possible to further cut down gasoline losses.

Farmers can obtain a copy of Purdue Extension Leaflet 367, "Farm Fuel Storage" from their county agent or the agricultural publications office at Purdue.

State Plowing Contest Is Set

Lafayette, Ind.—Contour and level land plowing contests have been scheduled for Hoosier farmers September 14 and 15, 7 miles northeast of Wabash, R. O. Cole, extension soil conservationist at Purdue University, has announced.

To enable plowmen from the entire state to compete, the State Association of Soil Conservation Supervisors is suggesting plowing contests at the county level with the top winners competing with other county winners in one of eight district contests. The district winner and runner-up in both level and contour contests will thus advance to the state event.

Rules governing the level land plowing contest call for the contestant to plow a rectangular area of about one-half acre. Participants must make a back furrow and a dead furrow. Equipment must meet certain regulations but in general the equipment on the farm will be suitable.

Rules for the contour plowing contest state that the contestant must set his own stakes following the contour to plow the back furrow. A grassed waterway is to be left through the land. Contestants must plow a backfurrow and a dead furrow and take care of point rows on his land. One-way and two-way plows can be used.

Safety operations will be scored by separate judges.

A complete copy of all the rules and diagram are available to interested plowmen and may be secured through the soil conservation office at Purdue University.

DeKalb Muck Crop Field Day July 28

Lafayette, Ind.—Farmers will have an opportunity to observe methods used by A. J. Custer, 1954 Indiana 5 acre corn champion, during the Agronomy and Horticultural Muck Crop Field Day in DeKalb county, Thursday July 28.

Ernest Lesiuk, DeKalb County agent, is general chairman of the event sponsored by the Purdue University extension service. M. O. Pence, extension agronomists, and Roscoe Fraser, extension horticulturist at Purdue, will assist in the direction of the field day.

Custer announced plans last winter to apply 3 tons of fertilizer and have a population of 30 to 40 thousand plants per acre on his 1955 5 acre corn plot.

In 1954, Custer's 5 acre entry yielded 241 bushels per acre for an all-time record. Ideal weather conditions prevailed and adequate rainfall fell when needed to produce the tremendous yield. Progress of the current crop under 1955 weather conditions will be of interest to 5 acre corn club members as well as other Hoosier farmers.

Farmers will convene at the court house in Auburn and will depart for the Custer farm at 9:15 a. m. In addition to the one acre and 5 acre corn plots, Custer's tomato field planted on mineral soil will be viewed.

At 10:15 a. m. the group will arrive at the Russell Housel farm route 1, Garrett, where a certified seed corn field and 5 acre corn plot will be seen. A high-population corn field, planted in various thicknesses for high yields, will be shown at the Lester Boger farm, route 3, Auburn, at 11 a. m. Participants will then leave for the John Graham farm, route 2, Auburn, to observe oat variety and corn fertilizer plots.

Dale Rakestraw, route 1, Waterloo, will show his potato varieties to the farmers at 1:15 p. m. The tour will end at the Emery Vestal farm, route 1, Auburn, where potato scab controls will be discussed. A peppermint field will also be shown at the Vestal farm.

Dr. R. W. Samson, extension pathologist at Purdue, will answer questions on muck crop diseases during the tour.

Fiber Rugs May Be Painted

When a summer fiber rug becomes faded or drab, you can make it look new again—so don't throw it away, suggests the county home demonstration agent.

Give that fiber rug a coat of awning paint—it is waterproof and dries with a dull surface. Since this type of paint penetrates the fiber, the finished product does not have a shiny "painted look." You may use other paints, such as a special fiber rug paint or a good grade flat alkylid paint. This paint has an oil base and may need thinning with turpentine so as to penetrate and coat the fibers.

Before you start to paint, place several layers of newspapers under the rug to protect the floor. Use a stiff brush and be sure that the paint gets in between the rug fibers. Paint about a foot of space at a time and then go on to the next area.

4-H Club Chatter
By Ruth Snellenberger

Dear 4-H Members and Friends,
A 4-H Night has been included in the County Fair program this year. For it the fair association has granted use of the grandstand for a free 4-H program to be presented the first night of the fair on Monday, August 8.
A parade of 4-H clubs of the county is planned for the first part of the program. Of course, it is hoped every club will plan to participate. Three clubs which I have visited recently have started plans for taking part in the parade. Clubs may have all or part of their members walk in the parade; ride on a float, or choose some other manner of appearance to represent their club. The only request of the 4-H Night steering committee is that each club have a large sign on which the name of the club and the number of members enrolled would be printed in large letters and figures.

Following the parade the 4-H tenure awards—gifts presented by the Kosciusko County Farm Bureau to 4-H members completing seven, eight, nine, and ten years of club work—will be made. Recognition is planned in judging and demonstration also of outstanding boys and girls activities.

The public showing of the county 4-H Dress Revue will conclude the evening's program.

Even though final details are yet to be completed, it might be well for 4-H clubs to start making plans to participate in the 4-H parade. It is hoped that many 4-H parents and friends will mark this date, August 8, on their calendars now with the thought "We don't want to miss the 4-H Night program!"

Will I see you all there?

The 100-acre farm of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Sullivan, located two miles east of Mentone on Road 25, was the one pictured in our last issue. The Sullivans moved to the farm eight years ago when they purchased it from Ellis Alexander. It is known as the Sevrens farm.

Mr. and Mrs. Sullivan usually have from 2500 to 3,000 laying hens, raise a few hogs and do general farming. Mr. Sullivan still finds time to do a little carpentering on the side.

The Sullivans have four children: Marilyn Sue, 12, and Larry, 8, at home; Martha Ann, 22, and Mrs. David Johns, both now of Hermosa Beach, California.

Those who called and properly identified the farm were: Marilyn Horn, Mrs. E. R. Cramblet, Carey Landis and Tid Bybee.

The farm pictured in our issue of the sixth, as announced last week, was the 240-acre farm of Milton Kesler's, which is tenanted by the Kermit Zent family. It is located two miles south on Road 19 and three and one-half miles west. Mr. Kesler has lived on or owned the farm for the past 60 years while the Zents have lived there three years.

The Zents have two daughters, Susan, aged three, and Sharon, who is one year old.

Dairy Herds Should Consume More Silage

Lafayette, Ind.—Many Indiana dairy herds now being tested in DHIA groups can profitably consume more silage, according to G. A. Williams, extension dairyman at Purdue University.

Although 73 percent of the herds included in a recent study received silage during the year, 11 percent were fed less than one ton per cow. Another 18 percent received more than one but less than two tons per cow during the year.

Feeding of larger amounts of silage daily to each cow, as well as increasing the number of days each year, will affect a substantial saving in other feeds, Williams says.

One of the easiest, quickest and least expensive ways to increase the 1955 silage supply is the construction of trench or stack silos. Much of the poor quality hay resulting from weathering would produce more milk if harvested and fed as silage.

A ten cow herd requires an 1800 cow-day feed supply budget in addition to the needs of calves and dairy heifers usually maintained on such farms for herd replacements, assuming a feeding period of six months each year.

Although consumption per cow varies with different conditions, a daily roughage allowance of 10 pounds of hay and 30 pounds of silage for the smaller breeds, and 12 to 15 pounds of hay and 40 to 50 pounds for the larger breeds, is none too much when grain is fed at the rate of one pound for each three to four pounds of milk produced.

Only 20 percent of the cows included in the study received two and one-half tons of silage per cow besides hay and grain. If weather conditions are unfavorable during the pasture season, silage is an excellent insurance stand-by to prevent a slump in summer milk production.

According to Mimeo, A. E. 23, published at Purdue University, a trench silo 28 feet long, 8 feet deep, with a width of 10 feet at the top and 7 feet at the bottom will contain 32 tons of corn silage, which weighs about 35 pounds per cubic foot.

Grass silage, because it usually is higher in moisture, weighs somewhat more. This bulletin may be obtained at county extension offices.

Dairymen who wish to increase their 1955-56 feed supply and are not equipped with enough storage space to meet their increased needs, may well consider the possibilities for constructing and filling one or more stack or trench silos. The cost of labor and material will be much less than waste which may result from the possible loss of crops during wet weather and the lower level of milk production.

Miss Loura Louise Curtis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Keesey of Akron, was united in marriage to Donald L. Butts, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Butts of Beaver Dam, Sunday evening at 7:30 p. m. in the Methodist church of Akron in the presence of 150 friends and relatives. The Rev. Claude M. Fawns, pastor of the Methodist church, performed the double ring ceremony at the altar made beautiful with tall vases of gladioli and palms with two gold candelabra holding the tall white lighted candles.

The organist, Mrs. Philip Parker, played a 15 minute program of bridal airs at the organ preceding the ceremony. Mrs. Richard Rader, soloist, sang "Wonderful One" after which the organist played "O Perfect Love" as the candles were lighted. Mrs. Rader also sang "I Love Thee" and closed the ceremony with "The Wedding Prayer." The organist played "I Love You Truly" softly during the ceremony.

Martha Drudge Bride of Paul Sherman

Martha Drudge, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Omer Drudge of Akron, and Paul Sherman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alton Shireman Macy, Indiana, were united in marriage in a double ring ceremony performed recently by Rev. Joe Bear in the Beaver Dam Evangelical United Brethren Church.

Greetings From The West

7-16-55

Howdy Cullums,

"Greetings from the Rockies". We are seeing for the first time what you and many of our friends around Mentone have seen before us.

Touring the mountains and the wide, open country of the west is a thrilling experience. We came through Colorado Springs, Denver, Rocky Mountain National Park and Central City, Colorado, where we attended the opera "Yeomen of The Guard."

This week end finds us at Jackson Lake Lodge here in Grand Teton National Park. We are planning to see Yellowstone National Park next week.

Best Wishes,

RAYMOND and MARJORIE COOPER

Mr. and Mrs. Miles Manwaring and family are vacationing at Spider Lake, Michigan.

Tuesday, Mr. and Mrs. Lou Walters and Mrs. Clymer entertained Mr. and Mrs. Charles Karn of Florida.

Mrs. Earl Davis is on the sick list unable to work at the switch board for a while.

This Area Sweltering Under Extreme Heat

This area has been sweltering under a terrific heat wave the past few days. Tuesday was extremely tortuous with the thermometers reading right at the 100 mark and high relative humidity. The worst part was that no relief came during the night. At midnight the temperature was still up above 80 degrees. Today unofficial figures were right at or above 100 degrees, and tonight with our office cooled down considerably, the red tube of mercury is still out of sight in the top of our heating unit thermometer. It is only calibrated for approximately 95 degrees and the tube then disappears into the metal box in which it is contained.

I've been out in the wide open spaces when it was over 115 degrees and below 50 below, but if you really want some real rough treatment—try Indiana.

Freddie Vandermark is home on a furlough from the ski troops and just came from the Idaho Mountains. When he was in today you couldn't tell whether he was sweating or had just fallen in a horse tank.

ATTENDED CONVENTION

Charles and Richard Manwaring were among those from this area who were in St. Louis last week attending a national poultry meeting.

Irrigation Increases Hay Crop Production

Lafayette, Ind.—Although Indiana is considered a state with plenty of rainfall, there is drouth enough in the state somewhere each year to damage hay and pasture crops. Three years of research at Purdue University have shown that irrigation will almost add profitably to hay crop production.

Increases have varied from 1,850 pounds of hay per acre to as much as 6,700 pounds per acre, in the tests by Purdue agronomists during the last three years. The agronomists reported that alfalfa under irrigation can be expected to yield five to six tons of hay to an acre.

Irrigation also greatly increased the carrying capacity of pastures for sheep and beef cattle during the 1953 and 1954 grazing seasons. In addition, it permitted good stands of legume-grass mixtures from late-summer seedlings, regardless of the length of drouth.

Reporting their irrigation tests in a new experiment station publication, the agronomists show that ladino-orchard grass mixtures produced half again more feed per acre under irrigation.

With ladino-fescue, ladino-bromegrass, and ladino-bluegrass the yield jumped even more.

Hay yields of alfalfa and grass in Southern Indiana increased from 6,000 pounds per acre to 10,377 pounds last year with irrigation.

About two million acres of naturally drouthy soils can be found in Indiana, the Purdue agronomists point out. Effects of the drouth will depend on soil type and the crop being grown. However, over a 10 year period, U. S. Weather Bureau records show that Indiana drouths will average one a year for 21 days or longer, two a year for 16 days or longer and four a year for 11 days or longer.

Other tests reported in Purdue mimeograph AY-129 show the effect of irrigation in getting legume-grass stands established with late summer or early fall seedlings. These varied from poor to complete failure for two years on the Purdue agronomy farm when no irrigation water was used. All stands were excellent under irrigated conditions.

The pictures were taken by the Zekan & Robbins photographers, Harlan, Iowa, and are all of farms in the Mentone trading area. The pictures are not identified and it will be up to the owners or neighbors to notify this newspaper office. The pictures were taken by airplane and not even the photographer knows one from the other. It will be interesting to see who is the first to identify the pictures each week. Phone Mentone 38. We will endeavor to publish the names of each person correctly identifying the pictures each week.

The farm owner will be given the original 5 x 7 mounted picture absolutely free of any cost. All we require is that the operator himself come to our office and give us a little information about the farm, its operation, etc. Additional prints, colored enlargements, etc. can be obtained by contacting this newspaper.

Hessian Fly Damage High

Lafayette, Ind.—"Follow the fly-free date this fall when sowing wheat," advises J. J. Davis, head of the entomology department at Purdue University.

Serious damage to wheat was caused by the Hessian fly in many parts of Indiana, especially in the southeastern quarter, this year. Hoosier farmers can aid in the prevention of the fly next year by seeding the crop after the established fly-free date.

According to Davis, the situation this season was unusual and not a direct result of failure of wheat growers to adopt the recommended date of sowing. All damage resulted from infestation in the spring. An abundance of volunteer wheat in some areas permitted the fly to build up to large numbers last fall and provide a high population to infest the wheat this spring. In other cases the dry weather prevented fly emergency last fall and permitted carry-over until this spring when the fly emerged and infested wheat.

Davis disclosed that the best date to avoid Hessian fly damage has also proved the best time to seed wheat for the highest yields.

Prior to 1920, the Hessian fly caused serious losses to wheat in Indiana on an average of every other year. Since the general adoption of the fly-free date, about 1930, very little damage occurred until this year.

Since the quantity of Hessian fly is now greater than usual it is highly important that wheat growers adhere to the fly-free date this fall, Davis warns.

In 1911, the Purdue entomologist inaugurated date of sowing experiments from Michigan into Tennessee and east and west from Ohio and Missouri. These tests were continued for ten years and from the 30-plus experiments, the fly-free date was established. These dates proved best for yields, according to agronomists, regardless of the fly.

Farmers can learn the fly-free date for their area by contacting the county agent.

Ventilation Aids Poultry Production

Lafayette, Ind.—Fan ventilation of poultry houses can assure higher egg production and greater broiler returns at reasonable costs, according to three Purdue University agricultural specialists.

W. L. Roller and A. C. Dale, agricultural engineers, and D. D. Jackson, extension poultryman, have compiled the latest information on this subject in an extension leaflet available to Hoosier egg producers and broiler growers.

Fan ventilation can insure drier litter with decreased disease, reduced egg soilage, and loss of fertility value of manure through nitrogen loss in ammonia form.

Ammonia, which in excess can cause blindness in chickens, and carbon dioxide concentrates in the air are reduced as is excess moisture and health hazards. Labor required for adjusting windows to control dampness and air movements is eliminated with fan ventilation.

Basic requirements for a fan ventilation system include sufficient fan capacity, enough inlets to give uniform distribution of incoming air, proper location and installation of fan, automatic shutters to prevent back drafts when fan is off, and proper controls for the fan.

Fan ventilation for both winter and summer conditions is covered in the leaflet which may be obtained by writing to the office of agricultural publications at Purdue.

Leafhoppers are doing serious damage to second cuttings of alfalfa, reports M. C. Wilson, research entomologist at Purdue University. He adds, however, that not all alfalfa yellowing is due to leaf hoppers. The presence of yellow alfalfa after spraying does not mean that spray was not effective. Wilson says a large amount of yellowing is due to the dry weather and leafspot diseases.

THE STORY OF PHILLIPS 66

Flite-Fuel

FROM THE SKYWAYS TO THE HIGHWAYS

FOR MILITARY USE Phillips originated new super-power aviation fuel components—Di-isopropyl (pronounced di-ee-pro-pull) and MF Alkylate. These made possible more powerful, higher anti-knock fuels for combat aircraft.

RESTRICTED for use in high performance aviation gasoline, these powerful components have for years been on U.S. Government priority. But new restrictions have been released and Phillips is able to use them in automotive gasoline.

TODAY, Di-isopropyl is available to motorists exclusively in a new gasoline called Phillips 66 Flite-Fuel. It gives increased power, greater fuel economy, higher anti-knock quality, freedom from stalling... and it's clean-burning!

GET PHILLIPS 66 FLITE-FUEL at any station where you see the orange and black Phillips 66 Shield. Let your car's performance tell the story. You'll discover a new driving experience.

"Be quiet. Mr. Pottleby is making an important decision!"

Now is a good time to make a survey of the farm to determine where grass waterways need to be established or rebuilt. Grass seed should be purchased for seeding later this summer, say agricultural engineers at Purdue University.

Dairymen can get 20 percent more feed per acre by following a system of rotational grazing and clipping instead of continuous grazing without clipping, dairy extension specialists at Purdue University report. Less forages are soiled and wasted in the fields and fewer pasture acres needed.

Turnip seed should be sown during late July, according to the Purdue University horticultural department. Row seeding produces better results than when the seed is broadcast.

4-H Club Chatter

By Ruth Snellenberger

Dear 4-H Members and Friends,

Today I'd like to talk about the 4-H dress revue—the judging of it which takes place Tuesday, August 2, and the public showing which is presented during the 4-H Night Program on Monday, August 8.

First, all clothing project members are urged to enter the dress revue. Even though participation is not necessary to complete the clothing project, it is an opportunity to show one of the garments you've made along with the accessories you've selected to make a complete costume.

Second, there are three divisions of the dress revue, senior, junior, and apron revues.

The senior dress revue is for girls 15 years of age or older anytime this year who are in their third year or above of 4-H club work and who are completing division four, five, and six, or seven in the clothing project this year. From this group a champion will be selected to represent Kosciusko County in the state contest held on Saturday at the State Fair.

For judging purposes those in the junior dress revue will be further divided according to types of garment made. Suits and coats will be judged together, dresses with or without pockets made of any material except cotton in another group; party dresses together; and cotton dresses in a fourth group.

The junior dress revue then includes all division two and three project members along with any in the divisions above these two who do not meet the senior revue requirements.

The apron revue is for division one project members who make an apron.

For both the judging on August 2 and the public showing on August 8, girls are reminded to consider the complete costume worn. This means accessories of any type—decorated bobby-pins, handkerchiefs, anklets or hose, billfolds or compacts, etc. Do be sure they are needed to make your costume complete. If in doubt, do without. Avoid rhinestone jewelry unless you are very sure that type jewelry is necessary.

Prior to the public showing there will be a rehearsal. Our home agent, Miss Pyle, is in charge of the public showing and plans to send out word soon regarding details.

Will I see you clothing members on August 2nd?

Plowing Contest Tuesday, August 2

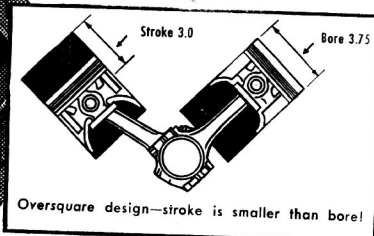

County Agent Paul Jackson has announced that a plowing contest will be held on Tuesday, August 2 for Kosciusko county farmers. Plows with fourteen or sixteen inch bottoms may be used in the contest and each participant will be required to plow one-half of an acre. Contestants using two fourteens will be given 66 minutes to complete their area. Those using two sixteens get 58 minutes, three fourteens 44 minutes and three sixteens 39 minutes.

The contest is scored on furrow straightness, furrow conformation and uniformity, quality of tillage surface, trash coverage, straightness of land ends, straightness and uniformity of dead furrow and head land, and safety. Trash is to be completely covered and the plowed area is to be uniform and rough to hold rain and snow.

Entries for the contest must be in the county agent's office by noon on Saturday, July 30. The winner of the county contest will participate in an area contest at LaGrange on August 23. The winner of the LaGrange contest will then participate in the national contest to be held in Wabash county on September 14, 15 and 16.

Horizontal Pole Type Silos Are Practical

Lafayette, Ind.—Hoosier farmers who are looking for an easier and cheaper method of storing silage should consider the new horizontal pole type silo. Unlike some types of horizontal silos, this silo is built entirely above the ground and does not require a bank or hillside.

Developed by John Foley, Purdue University agricultural engineer, the permanent structure uses concrete for a floor and creosoted poles and planks for side walls. No brace supports are required.

The pole-type silo passed its first big test last year. Farmers who tried it, reported favorably. They found it fairly easy to fill and liked its self feeding feature from both ends.

Foley believes that with proper handling in filling, his pole type silo can produce excellent livestock feed on any farm. It's a flexible structure, and can be built any length or width, for any size herd. And it's low in cost. Foley says that outlay for a 200-ton capacity silo is about $1,100 or one-third the cost of an upright silo.

The details of constructing this practical pole-type silo are discussed in a new publication on the subject just released at Purdue. Farmers should ask their county agent for a copy of extension leaflet 376, entitled "Horizontal Pole Type Silos." Foley, the silo's inventor, describes in this publication how to use this structure in self feeding cattle for the greatest return, dollar-wise.

During rainy and humid periods of July and August, muskmelon and cucumbers require weekly spraying to prevent foliage disease and fruit rots, according to botany and plant pathologists at Purdue University. Spraying should start as soon as the plants begin to vine.

Indiana tomato fieldmen have scheduled an extra good State Fair tomato exhibit, says Roscoe Fraser, Purdue University vegetable specialist. Many fieldmen have urged growers to have exhibits at the fair this year. August 10 is the deadline for entries in the 1955 show. Exhibitors must bring their displays to the horticulture building at the fairgrounds by noon, September 1.

Helicopter Flight Simulator Permits Realistic Hanger Flying

(Special to the News)

A device to help train helicopter pilots quickly, inexpensively and safely without leaving the ground has been developed by Bell Aircraft of Buffalo, N. Y., under contract with the Special Devices Center of the Office of Naval Research.

Bell's announcement of the Helicopter Flight Simulator was made today with the approval of the Office of Naval Research.

The flight simulator is scheduled for installation soon at the Navy's flight school in Pensacola, Fla., where it will provide the equivalent of four hours of primary flight instruction.

As the pilot moves the controls and flies the simulator, the scenery projected on a panoramic screen changes just as if he actually were in the air.

The equipment is so efficient and the effect so realistic that the student can collide with buildings on the ground and even get air sick.

Navy spokesmen said use of the simulator will shorten the time required for a student to solo and will contribute to the quality and efficiency of the Navy's helicopter training program.

The trainer, designated Model 2-FH-2, consists of three main components: a projector, a pilot's compartment and a computer.

The illusion of flight over, around and by terrain and objects has been accomplished by a technique called "point light source method."

This involves in simple terms, a small, extremely brilliant light projected through a colored landscape built entire in miniature in a six-foot square plastic transparency over the pilots head.

The light is so bright that models of trees, houses, walls and fences stand out in vivid and authentic detail against a wide-view panoramic screen.

As the student pilot operates the helicopter controls and the terrain and sky move on the screen, he unconsciously become convinced he and the helicopter actually are in flight.

The pilot's compartment, a replica of an actual Bell Model 47 helicopter, is equipped with dual controls. A standard instrument panel has the usual flight and engine instruments.

From a separate control panel, the instructor can simulate a variety of changes in flight conditions.

Fuselage vibration is built in, as are engine and rotor noise, rough air and actual control forces. The instructor can vary the extent of these conditions and can even cause engine failure.

This flexibility, combined with most other variables found in actual flight, makes for a trainer unsurpassed in realism.

A military pilot dramatically illustrated the authenticity of the trainer during tests at Bell when he could not bring himself to step out of the cabin while the altimeter registered an altitude of 50 feet.

The same pilot, new to helicopters, knocked over several miniature fenceposts and trees and narrowly missed flying into the side of a barn.

Navy authorities and Bell engineers are enthusiastic concerning the possibilities of the simulator. They feel it will lead to development of similar equipment to train pilots in carrier landings, instrument letdowns and landings, aerial combat and strafing and many other flight conditions in which time, cost and safety in training are factors.

Major Arthur (Kit) Murray of the U. S. Air Force, who piloted the supersonic X-1A to a record 90,000 feet altitude and who has at one time or another flown nearly every high-speed airplane in the Air Force, had this to say after a flight in Bell's new training device:

JULY 27, 1955

"I haven't been airsick since I was an air cadet, but after I had wrung the new Bell simulator out for an hour, I wasn't so sure I could maintain that record... and we didn't leave the hanger! That's real simulation!"

Keys Go Visiting

John Boggs, of Mentone, received a set of keys and the following letter Monday:

Kokomo, Indiana
July 23, 1955

Dear Sir:

My brother from Lebanon found these keys up by the dam at Peoria. We have a cabin up there at Peoria.

Suppose it's too late to do you any good by now, cause we don't know how long they have been lost. But for the novelty of it we are sending them to you.

Sincerely,

Mrs. Glen L. Howard,
1642 S. Ind. Ave.,

(Mr. Boggs says he has no idea how the keys made the trip to Peoria, but he believed it was a set his boy had been playing with. There were no ignition keys in the case.)

Christmas In July

"There will always be a Christmas," December or July our hearts are filled with rejoicing in our Savior and doing for others.

And so was the theme of Thursday, July 28th, W. S. C. S. meeting in the basement of the Mentone Methodist Church.

A Christmas tree was displayed for the purpose of gathering gifts for two of our youth centers. The Marcey Center in Chicago and the Campbell Friendship House in Gary, Indiana.

In order to learn more of the work and activities of our youth centers slides were shown of the Campbell Friendship House, founded by Mrs. May Campbell.

In following with the Christmas idea, Mrs. F. B. Davison read a poem "Old Rag Doll". Which carried a great message to all of us hearing it, because of new gifts and riches we should never lose our humility, and forget the "Old Rag Doll," signifying the base of our past and the power to make us advance.

A short business meeting followed and the announcement of our September meeting would be to celebrate the 15th anniversary of the founding of our organization as the W. S. C. S.

We were indeed most privileged and honored with the introduction, by Mrs. Cussans of her guest, Miss Myrtle Salaman, from India.

This young lady has made her name in our United States for the past four years while studying for her Master's Degree in Religious Education and Social work.

Miss Salaman was clad in a costume of her land. The dress was made of the most elaborate silk and cotton material. The outfit was draped loosely at the waist with a state effect which she wore over one shoulder and hung in loose folds down the back.

We listened to this learned young lady as she described the celebration of Christmas in India.

Except for our watch for "Old Santa Claus" they honor the birth of Christ in much the same way as we do.

With delight we thank Miss Salaman for her part in the program and wish her well in her return trip to India to further teach our Christianity to her own people.

Although the mercury did not cooperate with us we did enjoy our "Christmas in July."

Market Hog Grade Names Are Revised

Lafayette, Ind.—Recent revisions in the official grade names for market hogs have been announced by Paul Mitchell, extension agricultural economist at Purdue University.

"U. S. No. 1," "U. S. No. 2" and "U. S. No. 3" replace the former "Choice No. 1," "Choice No. 2" and "Choice No. 3" grades which have been in use since the grading system was instituted more than two years ago. The names of the two lowest grades, "Medium" and "Cull", were not changed.

Mitchell reported the USDA inaugurated the change to end confusion resulting in trying to differentiate among three kinds of "Choice" hogs.

As now used, the "U. S. No. 1" grade name applies to hogs definitely of the meat type with a high percentage of the carcass weight represented by the four lean cuts—ham, loins, picnics and Boston Butts.

Included in the "U. S. No. 2" grade are the more or less intermediate type of butcher hogs. Lardy, short bodied or overfinished hogs are classed as "U. S. No. 3."

Medium grade will continue to include market hogs lacking somewhat in finish and quality while "Cull" will apply to inferior type of slaughter hogs.

Soil Test Should Be Representative

Lafayette, Ind.—Farmers should take samples which best represent each field when conducting their soil testing program to decide fertilizer needs for fall planting.

R. D. Bronson, Purdue University soils specialist, cautions that inaccurate samples cause the greatest errors in soil testing. Farm operators should avoid mixing soils that are light and dark colored or those with different past treatments or cropping history.

An area that is uniform in color and texture or soil and which has had similar cropping and fertilizer treatment should be selected.

A sampling tube, auger or shovel can be used to remove a small sample from surface to plow depth. Ten to 14 such samples should be taken over an area no larger than 10 acres, the specialist says.

"Stay away from fertilizer bands in row crops, farm lanes, field borders, feeding areas, sand ridges, low areas, and 100 feet from gravel roads," Bronson declares.

These samples should be mixed thoroughly in a clean pail and the final mixture, representing on soil condition, spread out to dry. Use enough of this mixture to fill one soil carton.

Shipping containers, field history, forms and directions for mailing are available from the local county agent. The history form should be filled out completely and sent with the samples to Purdue.

Bronson urges farmers to send their samples now to avoid the last minute rush late in August.

Tests results will be returned to the farmers within two to three weeks.

THE STORY OF PHILLIPS 66

Flite-Fuel

FROM THE SKYWAYS TO THE HIGHWAYS

FOR MILITARY USE Phillips originated new super-power aviation fuel components—Di-isopropyl (pronounced di-iso-pro-pull) and Tri-Alkylate. These made possible more powerful, higher anti-knock fuels for combat aircraft.

RESTRICTED for use in high performance aviation gasoline, these powerful components have for years been on U.S. Government priority. But now restrictions have been released and Phillips is able to use them in automotive gasoline.

TODAY, Di-isopropyl is available to motorists exclusively in a new gasoline called Phillips 66 Flite-Fuel. It gives increased power, greater fuel economy, higher anti-knock quality, freedom from stalling... and it's clean-burning!

GET PHILLIPS 66 FLITE-FUEL at any station where you see the orange and black Phillips 66 Shield. Let your car's performance tell the story. You'll discover a new driving experience.

4-H Club Chatter

By Ruth Smollenberger

Dear 4-H Members and Friends,

With exhibiting at the county fair and the closing activity of the 4-H project year, 4-H members show their best products along with others in the same division and project. Everyone tries to do his or her best. Competition is keen. Competent professionally trained persons judge them.

But not everyone can get a blue ribbon! Nor all others remaining receive red ribbons! An average exhibit in an over-all picture will probably have more red ribbon placings than either blue or white. Very likely too, there will be more blue than white ribbons.

In order to help some 4-H members—and parents understand some differences I want to relate an experience I had this last March when several leaders attended a food judging school arranged by the State 4-H Club office. In addition to leaders, home agents, and 4-H club agents, home economists who expected to do judging in various parts of northern Indiana also attended.

Several of us were asked to take a food preparation so that there would be food to judge. I prepared macaroni and cheese. The outcome of the judging among the group of women in which I participated was that some placed my macaroni and cheese in the white ribbon group, some placed it in the red ribbon group and some placed it in the blue ribbon group!

Now this judging result may be an extreme case. However, I hope this example will help some realize what can happen in Judging. Judges do try, I'm sure, not to let personal feeling and likes to enter. From my own experience it's difficult to make a decision when one article needs to be selected from a large group for a state fair entry.

Our county policies and standards sheets along with state fair recommendations have been provided both judges for the 4-H home economics exhibits. Both judges I'm sure will do an excellent job.

An error in the fair catalog I would like to correct. Regarding division II of the clothing project, the towel may be hemmed either by hand or by machine. I'm sorry I submitted that information wrong.

Do stop in and see our exhibits at the fair in the south portion of the Woman's Building.

AUG. 3, 1955

Here is another picture in the second series of farm photos to be printed in the Co-Op. News.

The pictures were taken by the Zekan & Robbins photographers, Marlan, Iowa, and are all of farms in the Mentone trading area. The pictures are not identified and it will be up to the owners or neighbors to notify this newspaper office. The pictures were taken by airplane and not even the photographer knows one from the other. It will be interesting to see who is the first to identify the pictures each week. Phone Mentone 38. We will endeavor to publish the names of each person correctly identifying the pictures each week.

The farm owner will be given the original 5 x 7 mounted picture absolutely free of any cost. All we require is that the operator himself come to our office and give us a little information about the farm, its operation, etc. Additional prints, colored enlargements, etc. can be obtained by contacting this newspaper.

Pest Spray Controls Increase Farm Profits

Lafayette, Ind.—Insects have cut themselves in on farm profits for thousands of years, but today's progressive farmer is doing his best to end the piracy. Many Hoosier farmers this year are turning to sprays and dusts as a logical means of increasing profits.

Purdue University extension entomologists say there are nearly 5000 trade name insecticides on the market today. Most of these are formulated by the use of one or more of some 70 basic compounds which possess desirable insect-killing properties. Some are comparatively non-toxic, but other are among the most poisonous substances known to man.

Entomologists warn farmers to read all directions carefully on insecticide labels and not to use stronger dilutions or greater quantities of an insecticide than directions demand.

Purdue specialists say there are 10 basic rules to safe usage of all insecticides. These rules are listed in Mimeo E-62 entitled "Safety With Insecticides," now available at the county extension office or the Purdue office of agricultural publications. Entomologist advise farmers to post the mimeograph as a reminder that all insecticides should be considered poisonous and dangerous and handled as such.

Boys' Fair Camp To Open August 31

Lafayette, Ind.—Six hundred Hoosier farm youth are expected to enroll for the 28th annual Boys' State Fair 4-H Club Camp, August 31 to September 9.

W. R. Amick, of the state 4-H office at Purdue University and of the Indiana State Fair, Indianapolis, on or before August 15. Amick, however, cautions that the capacity will probably be reached before that date.

Starting this year, the camp will be divided into two periods. Boys may register for either or both sections. The initial period will be held from Tuesday evening, August 30, to Monday noon, September 5. The second period will run from Monday evening, September 5 until Saturday morning, September 10.

Two scholarships to Purdue University are offered to boys attending the camp. One award has a value of $100 and the other $50. Winners will be based on record as a state fair exhibitor, achievement record, and record in camp.

The Dormitory accommodations, which include excellent dining and sleeping facilities, are available to campers in the building erected for this purpose in the northwest corner of the fairgrounds. Participants will have ample time to view exhibits, educational programs and other fair features.

Any 4-H boy who has an exhibit at the fair, is a member of a state fair judging team, or was awarded a trip for outstanding achievement in his county, is eligible to attend. Only two boys however, can attend under the latter provisions.

Application blanks are available from the manager of the state fair, the county extension office, or the state 4-H club office at Purdue.

Amick will be assisted by F. L. McReynolds, 4-H assistant, Roscoe Fraser, extension horticulturist, and Mary Frances Smith, dietitian, all of Purdue; and Harold Berry, Carroll county agent.

Veterinarians at Purdue University say to vaccinate the family dog against rabies. Vaccination will protect a dog for at least a year.

Fall Freshening Offers Increased Milk Profits

Lafayette, Ind. — Cows that freshen in the fall offer increased profits for Hoosier dairy herd owners.

A Purdue University extension dairyman, G. A. Williams, says seasonal variations in milk production are receiving more and more consideration. Fall freshening of cows is a definite advantage for dairymen who produce high quality milk for fluid use.

About 50 percent of a cow's total milk flow each year comes during the first four months after she freshens. If this period occurs during fall and early winter, hot weather, flies and poor pastures do not tend to reduce the daily milk flow.

Price levels also are in favor of fall freshening. Although feed costs are somewhat higher in winter than summer, better milk prices offset those costs.

High producing cows, especially first-calf heifers, should be milked three times daily for the first 60 to 120 days after calving, states Williams. Lact of time often does not permit an extra milking during the spring and summer months.

More favorable conditions exist for getting young calves off to a good start in the fall. If calves are born in the fall they are ready to utilize grass when the spring grazing season begins.

Milk-feed rations released by the Bureau of Agricultural Economics show that 100 pounds of milk produced during October, November and December for the last five years had a purchasing power equal to 135 pounds of concentrates. The ratio for the same years was only 112 pounds for April, May and June and 124 pounds for July, August and September.

Increased production, high market values and lower feed costs should induce dairymen to give serious consideration for having at least 50 percent of their dairy herds freshened between August 1 and December 31.

Purdue poultrymen warn farmers to check poultry perches to make certain no red mites have appeared. Cracks on the underneath side of the perches and the protected areas where perches rest on their supports are ideal hiding places for mites. Mites can be controlled by painting perches and their supports with anthracene oil.

Egg Act Rules Are Reviewed

Lafayette, Ind.—Retailers and farmers have swamped the office of the Indiana State Egg Board with letters seeking information regarding the status of farmers under the Indiana Egg Act of 1941. E. R. Menefee, executive secretary of the state egg board at Purdue University, has reported.

"Under the exemption section of the law, farmers can sell eggs from their farms at home without violating the law," according to Menefee.

"The same is true when eggs are sold to wholesalers or grocery store operators," he added. However if the farmer offers eggs to retail grocers as "fresh", a grade A permit is required and eggs must meet the minimum standards set by the state egg board. State egg board stamps must also be attached to the cases.

If farmers peddle eggs from door to door, the law requires the farmer to register with the state board as a retailer of eggs. All eggs must be edible at the time of delivery when retailed by the farmer. If such eggs are offered as "fresh" they also must be sold under a grade A permit. "All eggs are subject to state egg inspection," Menefee concluded. Questions on the egg law should be forwarded to Menefee at Purdue University.

Return From Trailer Trip

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Cotey and their daughter June returned Thursday evening from a 1700 mile vacation. They traveled with their trailer to the Iron Copper district in the upper peninsula around Calumet on Lake Superior. There attention was called to the many beautiful State Camping and Trailer Parks in Michigan. Almost all of these are situated on beautiful Bays on either Lake Michigan or Superior. Traveling with a trailer makes it a little difficult to find the right kind of accommodations at the end of the day. Everything is usually rather high priced and badly located and situated.

The State Parks provide hot and cold running water, a washing machine, modern toilets, shower baths, a library, beautiful shade trees, picnic tables, outdoor cooking grates with nicely chopped wood available, bath houses, beautiful sandy beaches, nice grass on which to pitch your tents or park your trailer, excellent drinking water fountains spaced throughout the large camping area so you don't have too far to walk to carry it back to your tent or trailer. For those who have outlets for electric lights, boxes on poles have been provided for hooking them up. All these facilities and many more are provided for just 50c a day without lights or 70c a day with them.

We were parked 150 feet away from the beach at three parks and 20 feet away at the other.

You are never more than two miles from the nearest small town where anything you may need can be purchased.

Fishing is excellent in these areas and boat livery is nearby so you can rent one by the day or longer if you wish. About 300 feet from some of the parks are private resort stores and cottages. These stores are reasonable and have many items for souvenirs that are very well made and lots cheaper in price than they are in the larger cities.

They also sell canned goods and ice cream, pop and packaged bakery goods.

The parks furnish a complete playground area for children, with swings, slides, teeter-totters, merry-go-rounds and sand boxes. At one of the parks we stayed at they had a shuffleboard game and archery court for the campers and in the evenings they all gathered around the big campfire area and sang songs and roasted marshmallows. Several nights a week movies were shown at the one park for those who wished to attend. There was no admission charge.

We thought this information might be useful to anyone planning on making a trip. We have made several and this was the first year we had ever heard of it. They are marked on your maps and are spaced so you really don't have too far to travel between them. You are allowed to stay there 30 days at a time.

These parks are sprayed every week for flies and mosquitoes.

There are 66 of these parks throughout the state of Michigan and they are open to fall hunters. They are situated (some of them) in wooded areas that are very plentiful with wild fowl and game.
