BARE TRIAL SCHEDULED TO START JUNE 21st

Counsel for Raymond S. Bare Saturday morning appeared in circuit court before Judge John A. Sloane, waived arraignment for the 34-year-old former treasurer of the Northern Indiana Cooperative Association at Mentone in two state cases of embezzlement against him and entered pleas of not guilty. Bare was in the courtroom but did not appear before the court.

PHOTOGRAPHERS TO TAKE
CHILDREN'S PICTURES AGAIN

Several months ago representatives of the Woltz Studios, of Des Moines, Iowa, were in Mentone at which time pictures were taken of quite a number of the children of this and surrounding communities. This newspaper had no financial interest in the venture, but printing plates for publication, were received free of charge from the studios. These pictures were printed in the Co-Op News without cost to anyone here.

It isn't necessary for anyone to purchase pictures just to have the pictures of your children printed in the newspaper under this special arrangement, but the studio is confident of its ability to take good pictures and knows that many will desire to purchase some for their own use. This is its only means of making the venture profitable to them.

At the former appearance of the photographers here, most people were well pleased with the pictures. Each and every parent is extended an invitation to have their children's pictures taken, and make a selection of the proofs which you would prefer to have printed in our newspaper. Whether or not you make any purchase of reprints of the pictures is entirely up to your preference, based upon the quality of the photos and the price asked for them.

The photographer will be at the City Hall in Mentone, on the afternoon of Thursday, June 29th, from one to nine p. m.

The past week Fred Lemler decided the flag flying over the honor roll board needed replacing, so he had one purchased and it now flies over the board daily. Contributions of this kind made this memorial possible and the continuance of such gifts will keep it up to date and attractive.

The invasion has just begun and the next few days will be the deciding days in the battle. The public is invited to come to the house of God and spend a few moments in meditation and prayer for our boys and girls and our country. Soft, beautiful and restful organ music will be played during the hour.

Leave when you must.
Come and leave quietly, please.

INDIANAPOLIS BUSINESSMAN SPEAKS ON WAR BOND SALES

Eber M. Spence, Indianapolis business man who is traveling in Indiana at his own expense, appeared before the Mentone Lions Club Wednesday evening in the interest of the Fifth War Loan Drive which starts officially next Monday.

Almost all the solicitors for Harrison and Franklin townships, and Mentone, were present at the club meeting to hear the address. The quota for the two townships has been increased about $25,000 from what it was in the last bond drive to a total of $150,000.

Eugene White, of Warsaw, county chairman, and Hobart Creighton, state representative were also present at the meeting and gave short talks.

K. A. Riner, local chairman, announces that with the invasion of Europe now in progress, the need for heavy bond purchases is greater than ever. Everyone is urged to buy all the bonds they possibly can and to be ready to give their decision when the solicitor calls.

The sale of bonds will be continued as usual at banks and post offices.

O. E. S. INITIATES

Mentone Chapter Order of the Eastern Stars No. 331, initiated two new members at the regular meeting Monday evening, June 5th.

The Masonic hall was decorated with baskets and vases of flowers.

The annual memorial, planned by the Worthy Matron, Mrs. Goldie Mollenhour, was an unusual and impressive ceremony. She was assisted by the officers, using flowers of the season. At intervals beautiful solos were sung by Miss Frances Clark and duets by Mrs. H. V. Johns and Miss Clark.

The refreshment committee proved their ability to make a fitting climax by serving lovely refreshments.

SEVERNS WILL PROBATED

The will of Oliver Severns, who died at his farm home three miles east of Mentone May 30, has been admitted to probate in circuit court. All personal property and a life estate in all real estate goes to the widow, Elnora Severns. At her death the real estate will go in equal shares to four children, Lee and Ralph, South Bend; Edward of near Mentone, and Mrs. Marie Barkman, Plymouth. The will was made Nov. 18, 1920.

Spies!

Beer and Flattery Uncover
Secret German Gas Shell

The gas shells were devastating. Sheep died instantly.

FAVORITE haunts for enemy spies are amusement spots around defense plants and military and naval posts. Dance halls, motion picture houses, and taprooms are their hunting grounds. Above all, taprooms. For it is here that caution is sometimes forgotten.

If you are in the armed forces, or in any sort of defense work, guard your conversation and be most suspicious of the overly patriotic stranger who buys you drinks and insists on talking about the war. It was this method that Charles Lucieto, French ace of espionage, used during the first World war to get information about a new German gas shell.

Toward the middle of 1915, disconcerting rumors flooded the Allied high command; rumors of a deadly new weapon being perfected in the giant Krupp munitions plant in Essen, northern Germany. So Lucieto, who spoke German like a native, hurried to Essen.

Posing as a patriotic salesman from Bavaria at the opposite end of Germany, the French spy frequented cafes near the Krupp plant. However, even lavish purchases of beer for the Krupp mechanics gained him little in the way of information, until Lucieto made the acquaintance of an aged Krupp watchman.

A combination of beer and vanity gave Lucieto the information so desperately needed by the Allies, for one night after too many steins of lager, the watchman hiccupped, then confided:

"My friend, the schwein English and the doubly schwein French are doomed. I know. Even now we load gas shells at Krupp."

Lucieto laughed: "It is too many beers talking. I wish it was true, but how could an old man like you know such things? Ah, no! If I was a betting man, I would give odds of ten, even twenty to one that you know nothing. Gas in shells? Absurd!"

Before long, the bet was made. To settle it, next day the watchman smuggled Lucieto into the Krupp plant, to witness a demonstration of the new weapon being staged for the Kaiser. The weapon was devastating. Sheep used in the demonstration died instantly.

Lucieto needed a sample of that new gas for analysis. A shell fragment would be enough. As he paid the bet, he said:

"Now, if only I could have a souvenir of this great day. A fragment of one of the shells, perhaps—?"

Three days later a fragment of shell, supplied Lucieto by the helpful watchman, was in Paris, in the hands of M. Bayle, one of France's greatest chemists. From minute particles of chemicals adhering to the shells, he was able to determine the shells were charged with phosgene and chloroformiat trichloromethyl.

Thus, when the new gas shells were used, the Allies had an improved mask which was as effective against the new gas as the old mask would have been useless.

Distrust strangers whose avowals of patriotism are too loud.

INVASION EXTRA

The Warsaw Times and Union, publishers of a daily newspaper at Warsaw, were one of the first newspapers to have an extra edition out announcing the allied invasion of western Europe.

The invasion came over the press wires at about 2:30 a. m. and the information, printed into the pages used for the previous day's issue, was ready for distribution at about four o'clock a. m.

SPECIAL PRAYER SERVICE

Over 40 local citizens met at the Baptist church Tuesday from 8:00 to 9:30 p. m. to pray for our boys and girls in the invasion of Europe. At 9:00 p. m. the broadcast of the President's prayer was heard by those present. CORN

The corn situation is very tight and we cannot get enough to keep our mills going. However, our supply of other ingredients has improved and we suggest that feed customers make every effort to bring their own corn to the mill. We would like to suggest that customers do not wait until Saturday to get their feeds if such feeds require grinding and mixing. If all customers wait until Saturday it becomes a physical impossibility for us to get out the feeds. We wish to help all customers all we can so please help us to help you.

The American Feed Manufacturers' Association has pointed out that the feed situation is such that all feeders of livestock and poultry should cull out all unprofitable animals and birds and save this feed for healthy and productive animals. We are of the same opinion.

MAX PHEBUS WRITES HOME

(The following letter was received by Mr. and Mrs. Howard Phebus, of Tippecanoe, from their son Max.)

April 26, 1944

Dear Mother, Dad and Sister:

Well, I'll drop you all a few lines
since I am thinking of you.

Well we made our first invasion and
I say it wasn't so funny.

We sleep in hammocks now with our mosquito bar over us. I told you it was tough. A lot of the things I would like to tell you but can't.

They say we get a silver star for making the invasion. I really hope we do but hope we don't get a Purple Heart, too.

I can't tell you where I am or what I am doing but don't worry I will take care of myself.

A nearby place is a Jap hut. Was fixed for eight Japs. Even when we landed the beds were still warm. Some of the boys got souvenirs like Jap flags and money. I would like to have a Jap flag. Well be good and don't worry.

Wit hall my love,

MAX.

JACK DILLMAN AT GREAT LAKES

(Jack Dillman, son of Mr. and Mrs.
Walter E. Dillman, writes from the Great Lakes Naval Training Station.)

May 27, 1944

Hi Art:

Well, I'm here, believe it or not. My right arm's sore from saluting, my left is sore from inoculations, and my feet are sore from marching, but I'm here in spirit just the same. Those sore spots are just to remind you that you were lucky enough to feel well at one time.

I have enough duds to supply me
nicely all year round---and nothing but a little bag to put them in. I didn't think it was possible but it worked.

Those darn sea-bags weren't made any too big for their purpose.

I'm going to send you a copy of the Great Lakes Bulletin which may interest you.

Got 20 rounds on the rifle range yesterday. Made 81 of a possible 100 at 200 yards. It's easy when you get the hang of your rifle. Some guy in my company made a 99, so they say. Sounds possible if you've had practice.

Got the Co-Op News last week. Dick Hudson and Leonard Smith are here in Co. 1066.

See you in a few weeks,

JACK V. DILLMAN.

This poster "Fire Away" shows a scene aboard the U. S. Submarine, "Dorado." The artist, the celebrated American painter Georges Schreiber, has caught the action during the very tense moment before the passing craft is identified as friend or foe.

The painting is authentic in every detail for the artist was actually aboard the Submarine at sea. He ate and slept with the crew. He worked with the men and stood watch with the officers. A short time after leaving the Submarine, it was lost.

CARD OF THANKS

ting the corn planted and gardening done. We deeply appreciate all that

RICHARD MORRISON WRITES FROM "SPAGHETTI ISLE"

Italy, May 25, 1944

Dear George,

Was very glad to get your letter, telling where all the boys are stationed, and how they are getting along. I think the letter is very nice and tells one if there are any of the fellows from home over here, thus one can look them up.

It is now summer here in Italy at last and seems a lot like the weather did in Africa, last summer, only there isn't as much dust and dirt. The crops are doing very good here and the other day I saw some wheat that is starting to turn, so it won't be long until the people will be harvesting the wheat. We have been getting plenty of fresh vegetables and fruit to eat since we came to Italy. More than we ever did get in Africa. We have been buying fresh spring potatoes and having a nice little fry of potatoes every night. There is a lot of difference between the new potatoes and the dehydrated ones that they ship over here from the states, and we find that the army doesn't have fried potatoes very often, so we get the old frying pan out and go to work. I suppose by the time that we get out of the army that we will be pretty good cooks.

I am in a new company now and life
it just fine. There is sure a lot of difference between the Ordnance and the Infantry. We have a nice play to stay an da radio and electric lights. This was seldom had in the infantry. I am walking about just as good as new and haven't been having much trouble with my injury.

The mail is coming through in very good shape and that is very good for I think the soldier lives on the mail more than any other thing that they can give him. I have been getting the letters from the folks back home in eight and nine to twelve days at the most here lately. This is very good I think for having to travel so far over so much water.

I have been trying to look up Don-old Bayne and to try to see some of the other ones over here, but as to date I haven't seen anyone from about the old home town. I sure hope to do so soon.

This is about all that I can tell you about the things over here, but don't worry about the boys, for we are all getting plenty to eat and hope to be seeing you all very soon. Just keep up the good work and keep the letters coming and we will be satisfied. But there will never be another Indiana, nor Kosciusko county, nor Mentone. We still think of the place as we did before we came over here and I am sure that it hasn't changed beyond recognition. Hope to hear from you real soon.

Yours truly,

NEIGHBORS PLANT CORN AND GARDEN

Several neighbors and church friends gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Leininger last Monday to put out his corn and do some garden and yard work. The ten tractors, with other helpers, kept things humming.

The ladies served a bountiful dinner at the noon hour, which was enjoyed by all.

The men with the tractors finished plowing and planting 20 acres of corn.

Mr. Leininger has been ill the past three weeks or more with rheumatism.

As her husband is ready to sail, for overseas, Mrs. James Morehouse, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Whetstone of Mentone, has returned to stay with her parents for a while. Ensign Morehouse is with the Naval Reserve of the Merchant Marine and Mrs. Morehouse has been with him in New York City the past two months.

Robert Nottingham, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Nottingham, was recently promoted to the rank of First Lieutenant. He has been in Hawaii but we do not know just where he is now.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH Mentone, Ind.

You are ever welcome to this house of God

Some time ago friends received word of a loved one who was found dead in a western city. He was a young man who had sown his wild oats, had his fling, and gone from state to state as a tramp. He had rejected the prayers of loved ones, trampled the love of kindred under his feet, and had what he called a good time. But he came to the end of the road. There are nearly 300,000 such characters in our nation today. These friends had to pay "double fare" to get this man home. He had beaten his way on many railroad trains, and had gotten many "free rides." But this time loved ones had to pay "double fare" on his last trip to get him home to the family burial place.

Thousands of his kind are still tramping the highways of our nation, but somewhere down the way "double fare" will have to be paid. Sin takes its toll. The law of sowing and reaping is as sure as the law of day and night.

A young man had his fling a few years ago. A child was born into the home recently. The innocent babe is diseased, and must be treated for five years. Double fare is now being paid. God Himself cannot undo what has been done. He can forgive. But what a "double fare" has to be paid in this case! It is a heavy toll.

A young woman stepped aside from the path of virtue and right. She rejected Christ, the only hope of youth, and went her way. She is now taking a special medical treatment to keep the flesh from dropping off her bones. She is now paying "double fare." It is costly, but the bill has to be paid.

The Sunday schools help to save the youth of our nation before they sow seeds which produce an awful harvest. They help to save youth while they are in a saveable condition. They sow good seeds in the life of the boy and girl that will bring a happy harvest in the tomorrows. They make good citizens in days to come by making good youth today. They produce the church for the future by saving the child from sin and crime today.

Parents, what are you doing to help formulate the lives of your children? The responsibility is yours to see that they get the best training possible before it is too late. "Train up a child in the way he should go and when he is old he will not depart from it, but a child left to himself bringeth his mother to shame." Prov. 22:6 and 29:15.

Bring them to Sunday school this Sunday. Classes for all ages, including nursery for the babies.

A typical Pacific atoll stands only a few feet above sea level, encloses an oval lagoon up to 90 miles long. It has a rim from a few yards wide to several hundred yards wide, is broken in places with passes from the sea to the lagoon, haven for big or little ships. At high tide the sea may pound over the rim of the saucer, and wash into the calm lagoon. Sea wall of the atoll is rough, is strewn with chunks of dead coral dislodged by the constant battering of the sea.

BOY'S LIFE TAKEN IN FREAK ACCIDENT

Death struck savagely along "Tavern Row" on South Buffalo Street (in Warsaw) early Sunday morning when a freak accident claimed the life of 13-year-old Orva Lee Minnix, of near Claypool.

The freckled-faced farm lad was walking south on the west side of Buffalo street at 12:45 o'clock Sunday morning with his mother, Mrs. Georgia Minnix, and his brothers and sisters. An inexperienced woman driver, who had just left the nearby Buffalo Inn, backed an automobile virtually out of control, across the street, over the curb, and smashed the child between the car and the Kelly funeral home office. After striking the office, the car swerved south and knocked off a corner-post of the porch of the Kelly home. The vehicle was traveling backward all the while.

The battered and broken body of the fatally-injured youth was found lying on the sidewalk in the midst of other pedestrians who had rapidly scattered when the vehicle careened wildly backward into them.

The Minnix boy's father is dead. Surviving relatives are the mother, two brothers, Noel Reed, in the army; Artley of Claypool; six sisters, Jay Hazy Connely and Martha Connely, of Kentucky; Mary Cassler Minnix, of Claypool; Bertie May Carlson, Claypool; Liza and Lula May, at home.

The boy was born in Kentucky, moved to a farm south of Claypool three years ago, where he has resided with his mother.

Mrs. Minnix Also Hurt

His mother suffered cuts and bruises while the other Minnix children and bystander Fred Fifer, escaped unscathed.

Police arrested Lulu Belle Miller, 33, unlicensed driver of the car, and Robt. Windle, 32, car-owner, who was asleep in the front seat. Ralph "Ham" Barrett, another passenger in the auto, was not held.

Early Sunday, Chief of Police Milo Maloy signed a reckless homicide affidavit against the Miller woman with an amended charge of operating a motor vehicle without a license. Her bond was set at $2,500. Windle was to be released Monday with no charges filed against him.---Warsaw Daily Times.

Mrs. Mildred Preisch Dies

Mrs. Mildred E. Preisch, aged 40 years, passed away at the Melvin Goshert home in Warsaw Saturday at 1:20 a. m. Death followed failing health for the past several years and was due to complications. She had been seriously ill for the past three weeks.

The deceased was born in Roanoke, May 11, 1904, the daughter of Rev. John and Jennie (Neff) Goshert. She spent her life in Warsaw until her marriage to John Preisch, of Mentone, in September, 1932, at which time she moved to Mentone. At the death of her husband in October, 1940, she returned to Warsaw to make her home with her brother, Melvin. She was employed at the Zimmer Splint company until she became ill. She was a member of the United Brethren church.

Surviving relatives are two brothers, Melvin, at whose home she died, and Merl, of Fort Wayne; a sister, Mrs. Mamie Sattkamp, of Vineland, N. J.; three nieces, and two nephews.

Services were held at the United Brethren church at Warsaw Tuesday afternoon at two o'clock, with Rev. G. T. Rossetoff officiating. He was assisted by Rev. R. C. Hume. Burial was in the Oakwood cemetery.

NEW GAME WARDEN HERE SUNDAY EVENING

Lynn Oliver, of Disko, is the newly-appointed fish and game warden—Conservation Officer in official terms—named to succeed Lester Ball, who recently resigned to take a position with the Crystal Dairy at Warsaw. (I wonder if it'll be "Crystal Ball" now?)

Mr. Oliver, who was in town Sunday evening getting acquainted with a few of the Conservation club boys, is a veteran of the first World War and formerly operated a store at Disko. He has been engaged in conservation work for many years and appears to be taking a real interest in his new work.

To Lester Ball, I'm sure all members of the conservation groups will wish him all the luck in the world. He was very well liked and was capable of administering the duties of his position without prejudice or arousing enmity.

Kenneth Romine was acting corporal of the group of Selective Service boys who were inducted at Indianapolis on Monday.

BOB DUGLAY, BUD PAULUS GET TOGETHER IN ITALY

(Mr. and Mrs. Cloice Paulus received word the first of the week that their son, Bud, and Bob Duglay had a nice visit in Italy recently. Today George Clark received the following V-mail letter from Bob telling of the event.)

5 June, 1944

Dear Geo.

This has been one of my happiest days overseas. I found Bud Paulus today. We sure had a time talking over old times. I had supper with him and expect to see him soon again as we are not far apart. Same old Bud and he is big enough to carry that MP badge. Ha. It sure does one a lot of good to find someone from home.

I had a few days leave and sure had a swell time, then ending it all up by seeing Bud made everything about perfect.

The weather is nice here and I have been swimming the last few days. The water is a bit chilly yet but not bad after you are in awhile.

Don't have much time tonight but just thought I would drop you a line so you would know Bud and I have finally found each other. Thanks a million for the letter.

Sincerely,
BOB.

WAR MOTHERS MEET

The Mentone unit of Mothers of World War II met at the public library for their regular meeting Wednesday evening, June 14th. Thirty-four members responded to roll call.

The meeting was opened in the usual order and after the regular business meeting was over, we enjoyed a short talk by Staff Sgt. Kay Paulus. One thing Kay stressed was the importance of lots of letters to our boys.

Esta Vandermark read a very good article, "History of the Flag."

The meeting adjourned to meet again on Wednesday, July 12 at 8:00 p. m.

LIBRARY TO BE OPEN ON THURSDAY EVENINGS

The library will be open on Thursday evenings, from 8:00 to 9:00, for the convenience of the people whose employment makes it difficult for them to come to the library at other times.

NORMALENE FITES, GEORGE WAGNER MARRIED SUNDAY

Miss Normalene Fites, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Fites of Gilead, and George Elbert Wagner, son of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Wagner, of Macy, were united in marriage in a double-ring ceremony performed by Rev. Montgomery at the Ebenezer Methodist church, southeast of Macy, Sunday afternoon at two o'clock.

Junior Steman was best man and the sister of the bride was maid of honor. A niece was ring-bearer and her two brothers were ushers.

The bride was attired in a white satin wedding dress with a finger-tip veil and she carried a bouquet of white roses. The bridesmaid was attired in pink.

Immediately following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents. Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Kesler and two daughters of Mentone, were among the guests.

The couple left on a short wedding trip, destination unknown except to them. They will be at home at their newly furnished place near Macy.

Mrs. Wagner is employed in the offices of the Northern Indiana Cooperative Association at Mentone.

OVERMYER-BLACKWELL MARRIAGE JUNE FIRST

Miss Iris Blackwell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Blackwell, Warsaw rural route 5, and Cleon Overmyer, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Overmyer of Laketon, were united in marriage at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Overmyer on Thursday, June 1 at 8:30 o'clock. The double ring ceremony was read by the Rev. Champlin of the Baptist church there. Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Vorhis attended the couple. The bride wore a street length dress of powder blue and wore a corsage of white gardenias. Mrs. Vorhis was attired in a dark blue street length dress with a corsage of carnations.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Blackwell gave a dinner in honor of the couple on Friday evening, with the members of the immediate families in attendance.

The couple left Saturday morning for Baltimore, Maryland where the groom is stationed with the Coast Guard.

Mrs. Overmyer graduated from the Mentone High School with the class of 1941, and Mr. Overmyer graduated from the Laketon High School the same year. Both attended North Manchester College.

Coffee Shop Opens Saturday

Mentone is to have a new eating house, starting Saturday morning, June 17th. Two sisters, Mrs. Harry Gobble and Mrs. Darrel Coplen, with the support of many local citizens, have been working feverishly the past few weeks remodeling the old Cochran grocery building preparatory to the establishment of a cafe and lunch room.

The ladies promise Sunday dinners as well as regular meals throughout the week and lunches.

Co-Op Has a New "Dress"

The Country Print Shop, printers of the CO-OP NEWS, takes pride in producing printing that will not only give the best service but will also attract the attention of the judges in any printing style show. Our printing plant has seen constant changes in equipment the past forty months; and we shall attempt to continue our program of keeping abreast of the times.

This issue of the CO-OP NEWS is the first issue, composed entirely in a new style news type. The actual size of the type is a trifle smaller, permitting more news matter in the same amount of space, yet is designed especially to be easily read and less tiring to the eyes of the reader. The impression is a trifle stronger and all the openings in the letters are larger than the ordinary Roman texts.

We hope you like our "new dress" and that you will make us prove our assertion that we can get more news in the same space by sending in every bit of news you know of.

And to you boys in Service camps throughout the world: Write us letters or postcards telling us what you are doing, where you are, or anything of interest to the rest of the boys or us 4F-ers and home-front "colonels." We want to hear from you (and our primary purpose in securing new type and equipment was that we might give better service to Servicemen). May a kind and just God keep His protecting shield around each and every one of you and hasten the day when you can return to enjoy the freedom which was intended for every human being.

Gov. Schricker Proclaims "Zeke Day" Tuesday, June 20th

This is the family of Pfc. Philip I. Givan—"Zeke" to his marine corps buddies. It's a family that is going to invest every dollar that can be spared in war bonds during the Fifth War Loan "V" Drive during the farm canvass in their home township in Dearborn county, near Lawrenceburg, Ind., according to the statements of the state organization. Left to right, Larry, Zeke's younger brother, Mrs. Givan and Dad Givan, who is proud to be holding the photograph of his former basketball playing son, the sharpshooter whose bullets killed 35 Japs in the landing on Kwajalein Atoll.

Honoring a Hoosier farm son, Philip "Zeke" Givan, and all other "Zekes" embattled in the fight for freedom on invasion fronts, Indiana's rural families will have their own Fifth War Loan bond buying day on official "Zeke Day," Tuesday, June 20, William Baynes, executive manager of the war finance committee's agricultural division, announces.

With "Zeke Day" proclaimed statewide by Gov. Henry F. Schricker, and with the story of Marine Pfc. Givan dramatized on the opening day of the drive, the symbolic "back our boys" bond-buying day will be one of the highlights of the "V" loan drive.

"Each family knows a 'Zeke' from their own community," said Mr. Baynes. "And because they want to keep America the kind of place where all the 'Zekes' that follow will grow up in the American way, these farm families will back the invasion with bonds and buy more than ever before on 'Zeke Day.'"

The 19-year-old Zeke mowed down 35 Japs in one battle. In the first assault wave, he was rushed as soon as he landed. He calmly took aim and fired. One Jap fell, but the others, shouting "Banzai," kept coming. After that there wasn't time to take careful aim. It was touch and go. So, of reminded Zeke of some of the hot basketball games during his high school days at Moores Hill when he didn't always have time to get set for a shot.

Zeke remembered that when the chips were down in an important game, you depended on reflexes and timing perfected by months of training to hit the basket. It was like that as Japs kept charging him from behind a pill box.

Zeke even misse da few shots as he did a couple of years ago in that last basketball game, but most of his bullets found their mark. Then just as suddenly as it started, it was all over, with the oil on the barrel of his automatic rifle—a rifle that somebody's war bonds bought—almost boiling hot. A lieutenant and corporal counted the lifeless Japs in Zeke's firing section—35 in all.

Tractor Riding "Grandma" Praises War Bond League

Mrs. K. C. Henkle of Kenton, Ohio, does more than her share of war work. She and her husband run two farms at maximum production and with almost no outside help. In addition, Mrs. Henkle is chairman in her township for War Bond sales, for the Red Cross and for the combined scrap paper and grease salvage campaign. She is also a writer and has composed poems for War Bond and Red Cross programs over Stations WMRN, Marion, and WLW, Cincinnati.

Mrs. Henkle, who has an Army son, a Navy son, and an Army son-in-law, enthusiastically endorses Mrs. George C. Marshall's appeal to grandmothers to buy Bonds for their grandchildren. She herself takes turns buying Bonds for her five grandchildren ranging in age from 4 months to 11 years. "Those Bonds," she says, "will help educate the children and set them up in businesses and farms ten happy years from now."

The Grandmothers League was founded by General Marshall's wife and has been widely accepted as a worthy and unselfish Bond-buying drive.

CO-OP NEWS WITH THE NAVY MEN

(A postcard from the Great Lakes Naval Training Station, under date of June 5, states:)

Dear Art,

Thanks a million for sending us the Co-Op. News. It's like a visit with someone from home. It was good to read of several old friends home on leave. Was surprised to hear that Dick Manwaring is piloting a fighter in England.

Yours,

FLIER MISSING FOR YEAR IS SAFE

Missing since August 27, 1943, 1st Lt. Louis E. Curdes, Fort Wayne pursuit pilot credited with six victories in the North African theater, was reported safe Saturday and expected to be home within a month, his parents revealed.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter L. Curdes said that they had received a letter from him in which he told of his experiences on the day he was shot down. He added, "I could come home presto but I have been asked to make a lecture . . . and I decided to stay."

FISHING SEASON OPENS FRIDAY

Harrel F. Mosbaugh, state division of fish and game director, announces that the season on game fish in Indiana opens Friday, June 16th.

Anglers will be permitted to take bass, bluegills and crappies for the first time since the season closed in April, and the trout season, which opened on April 30, will continue through Aug. 31, Mosbaugh said.

This is late news for the habitual fisherman (as most of them have had their tackle and bait ready for days), but it will give the rest of us an idea of why so many will be missing from their regular haunts in the next few days.

Synthetic Feed

Urea can effectively replace part of the protein supplements in the ration for ruminants or cud-chewing animals. Work in which urea was used as a substitute for protein concentrates in the ration for cattle has been reported from Hawaii, Kansas, Massachusetts, and Wisconsin Agricultural Experiment stations, and for sheep from Illinois and New York stations. In all cases, nitrogen supplied as urea was satisfactorily utilized by the animals.

The Strongest of Bonds—Your Dad and Your Country, Is the Slogan of Father's Day, June 18—Buy Bonds

WASHINGTON, D. C.—June 00—Father's Day which falls on June 18th, 1944, will be a different kind of celebration of this event than in days before the war. This year finds American father's Day with an underlying motivation. The battle cry for the Father Bond Drive and for the observance connected with Father's Day this year is "The Strongest of Bonds—Your Dad and Your Country."

Pictured here is Ted R. Gamble, National Director of the Treasury's War Finance Division, and his son, Ted R., Jr. The youngster is pinning a Father's Day rosette in his dad's coat lapel. The rosettes are made up of War Stamps. Girl Scouts and others will sell the rosettes on Father's Day, June 18.

thers away from home and family and by hundreds of thousands in uniforms of the Armed Services of our country. Many fathers are overseas.

So this year's Father's Day is America's "Salute to our Fighting Dads". The National Father's Day Committee, in conjunction with the United States Treasury, is conducting a gigantic Father Bond Drive. There is an earnest and all-abiding awareness to push on to victory in the observance of this year's Father's Day. And every move being planned for the event is keyed to that

Buy a Bond for Father's Day." Father, himself, needs no reminding and will take note of the holiday created in his honor by himself buying bonds for Father's Day. The family is being urged to remember Dad—with War Bonds. The nation is being asked to wear the Father Rosette, a floral decoration made of War Stamps—a gentle reminder to all that there is only one idea in anyone's mind for this year's Father's Day and that is the winning of the war as quickly as possible and that means War Bonds and more War Bonds.

TUCKER BOYS WRITE HOME

Mr. and Mrs. Royse Tucker, of near Mentone who have two sons in the armed forces—one in India and the other in submarine service—recently received the following communications from them:

May 27, 1944

Dear Folks:

I received a pleasant surprise this evening. Dean Nellans came down this evening. We have been spending the evening writing letters and talking about the days when we were still back in school. We can't go anywhere as I have the duty this week end, but we are having a pretty good time right here on the barge. We are writing to Dean's folks and you. I'm still hoping that Dad can make it for the commissioning (This was the commissioning of John's submarine—Ed.) Will close and let Dean finish up.

Love,

JOHN.

Hello to the Tucker Family:

I guess this is as much of a surprise to me as it is to John to be able to see each other in this big world. Well, your son sure is looking fine, and he seems to be making it just fine. We are having a good time even if we can't go ashore. Thanks a lot for giving John's address to my sister. She got it to me just in time for me to get an answer back from John. It was close, but everything turned out just fine. I suppose things are pretty much the same around good old Mentone these days. I hope this finds you all in fine health and happiness. I hope you get to come and see John and the commissioning Royse.

As always,

DEAN NELLANS.

17 May, 1944

Dear Mom, Dad and All:

Believe Sunday eve was the last day I have written you. However, not too much doing since that long letter. The past couple of days have been sunshiny and hot, so most of the mud has dried up but there is still plenty of water standing about.

Received three V-mails from John yesterday, written since his return to

I came to the conclusion today that we have a very excellent orchard surrounding our office. Therein can be found the following: peaches, plums, limes, lemons, grapefruit, bananas, coconuts, pears, mulberries, and two or three other fruits which I am unable to determine what they are. The peaches are almost ripe—they aren't so large but they appear to be very good.

Trust this finds everything well at home and farming in full swing. How are the little chickens doing, Mary Jane? Things here are OK and humming along.

Freezing of car-door locks can be prevented by forcing a small amount of alcohol into the keyhole with an eye dropper. Alcohol containing a rust inhibitor is preferable, and one application should last the entire winter. Be sure not to spill any on the finish of the car.

Clyde M. Reed, while Governor of Kansas, said: "The Sunday school is the teaching service of the church. No other agency in the world has accomplished so much in carrying the message of religion to the people, and applying its benefits and needs in the everyday walks of life. It is the forum where parents and children gather to teach and study the lessons most essential to mankind. In every community that has succeeded, a religious concept has been expressed in its Sunday school. It is a power that binds people together for right living; it holds human hearts in leash." Our Sunday schools are one of the strongest bulwarks against the enemies of man's soul and are a potent factor in national character building.

ATTENDANCE INCREASE SEEN IN STATE PARKS

(Indiana Dept. of Publicity)
A large increase in attendance at the state parks was noted in May with 41,102 people entering the gates as compared with the 24,364 in May 1943, Charles A. DeTurk, director of the Division of State Parks, Lands and Waters, said.

The increase is far below the general average, however, as compared with May of 1941, the most recent year with a normal attendance. In that month 113,445 people passed through the gates. The increase over last year is due largely to visitors using local transportation and planning more carefully the use of their automobiles.

The naturalist service is scheduled to start about June 15, with guides conducting bird and nature hikes, supervising recreational programs and giving lectures. This is the most popular service offered by the parks with approximately 100,000 people participating in these programs during normal years.

Howard Michaud, chief naturalist from Fort Wayne, and Misses Edna Banta of McCormick's Creek, and Carol Fall of Indianapolis, will conduct the naturalist program at McCormick's Creek State Park. Miss Phyllis Stallsmith of Richmond will be the naturalist at Spring Mill State Park and Miss Mary Henderson of Evansville will be at Turkey Run State Park. The naturalist at Clifty Falls State Park will be Miss Iva Spangler of Fort Wayne, and Miss Ruth Dutro of Muncie, will supervise the naturalist program at Pokagon State Park.

TRYING TO GET US JEEP-MINDED ALREADY

(The following "news" release, from Carl Byoir & Associates, 10 East 40th St., New York, N. Y., is evidently intended as a "sales talk" to convince us that after this war is over we won't be able to run our farms without a Jeep. In addition to supplying a little information about the "Paul Revere horse" of World War II, the article is an example of how to give the proper "build-up" to a future "sales talk.")

Farmers of Kosciusko county, many of whom have indicated through a national survey their desire to own a "Jeep" after the war, can save approximately $1,799,982 for post-war rehabilitation if they take advantage of the scout car's four-sided personality, a recent study reveals.

This figure is based on the difference between the estimated price of a post-war Jeep and the total cost of the four farm units which, according to extensive research and experimentation, it can replace.

Recent tests by accredited farm experts, including officials of the Department of Agriculture, reveal that the Jeep has "a great deal of farm blood in its mechanical veins," according to Ward M. Canaday, president of Willys-Overland Motors, who said his company's engineers have proven "on the soil" that the scout car can be used as an effective four-purpose substitute for the horse, the tractor, the independent power unit and the light truck. In the Department of Agriculture's report on its recent experiments with the vehicle, issued by R. B. Gray, head of the Farm Equipment and Research Division, the Jeep was described as "highly useful in plowing, harrowing and other field work."

First findings in the continuing Jeep studies being made by the agricultural engineering departments of Washington State College and Ohio State University demonstrate that the vehicle, in its present military form, serves many all-round purposes effectively, especially for the small farm.

The above part of the story is a bit unusual, but the part which caught the eye of your editor was some of the seemingly minor details. The groom, Cpl. DELAY GRANTED IN BARE TRIAL

Trial of Raymond S. Bare of Mentone, on embezzlement charges, scheduled to open in circuit court Wednesday morning, on Monday was put off until Oct. 2, when Judge John A. Sloane granted a defense motion for continuance over the protests of Prosecutor Allan S. Widaman and Attorney Walter Brubaker, special assistant for the state in the case.

Bare asked delay in bringing the case to trial on grounds that he had not had sufficient time to prepare his defense. He also set out that he lacked sufficient funds for proper action because, previous to the returning of nine indictments against him by a Kosciusko county grand jury and his arrest, he and his wife had turned over to Hobart Creighton, president of the Northern Indiana Cooperation Association board of directors at Mentone, all real estate, bonds, and life insurance policies owned by them in trust for making good any shortage which might be found chargeable to Bare which was contemplated at that time. Due to this assignment, he was forced to seek employment to take care of his family, he stated.

In his motion Bare cited his previous plea of not guilty to the embezzlement charges and stated that a great amount of work—including interviews with many witnesses, exhaustive examination of co-operative books and inquiry into company dealings and methods of doing business—would be necessary in preparing defense. He would be ready for trial if a continuance to the next term of court was granted, Bare told the court.

Prosecution Fights Continuance

The prosecution said that it had desired to push the case through on schedule and raised vigorous objections to the delay.

Among surviving relatives is a brother, Arthur, an army paratrooper now serving somewhere in the Pacific theater of war. The youthful flyer was reported as missing in action a month ago. No details of his death were given by Lt. Melick, who is now serving overseas.

TWO-DAY C.A.P. MANEUVER JUNE 24-25

Squadron 522-6 of the Civil Air Patrol, will hold a two-day maneuver at its home base at Rochester, Indiana on Saturday and Sunday, June 24 and 25. All Civil Air Patrol personnel are requested to arrive at the airport at 17:00 Saturday, bringing blankets. Meals and lodging will be supplied at the base.

A full program has been arranged for the two-day maneuver. Many other units will be in attendance.

TWO FIRE CALLS HERE ON MONDAY AFTERNOON

Shortly after noon Monday the Mentone fire department was called to the Co-Op truck storage room on Main street to put out a fire in several bales of straw in the northwest corner of the building. Little damage was done to the building or any of the other items of equipment there.

Manager Teel stated that the department really worked fast. As soon as the telephone operator put in the alarm she called Mr. Teel telling him the building was on fire. He grabbed a hand extinguisher and he had barely started "playing" the extinguisher liquid on the blaze when a stream of water started past him into the burning straw.

A short while later the department was called to the Carl Aldoffer farm, west of town, where a straw stack was burning near the barn.

It is not known how the first fire started, but youngsters playing with matches started the second.

Several citizens of Mentone recently received a large two-page mimeographed letter from Rev. C. C. Collins and family from Moultrie, Ga., where he is an army chaplain. The letter from the former Mentone Methodist minister, was necessitated in mimeograph form because they were unable to type a personal letter to all their friends from here who had written them.

Saturday afternoon a number of young ladies gathered at the Clem Teel home southwest of town, in honor of their granddaughter, Miss Judy Teel of Brookville, Indiana. Those present were Ramona Goodman, Elaine Goodman, Janet Reed, Jody Cullum and Judy Teel.

PREISCH ESTATE OPENED

The estate of Mildred B. Preisch, of Warsaw, who died at the Melvin Goshert home June 10, has been opened in circuit court with qualification of Melvin R. Goshert as administrator. Personal property is valued at $7,500 and there is no real estate. Heirs are Mamie E. Saatkamp of Vineland, N. J., a sister; Melvin R. Goshert, of Warsaw, and Merle J. Goshert of Fort Wayne, brothers.

LIONS CLUB ELECTS OFFICIALS

Each June all clubs in the International Association of Lions clubs hold their annual election of officers. The elected officials take their positions the first meeting in July. The following were elected to serve the coming year:

President, Arley D. Cullum.
1st vice president, Forrest Kesler.
2nd vice president, Ora McKinley.
3rd vice president, H. V. Johns.
Secretary, John Norman.
Treasurer, Leroy Cox.
Lion Tamer, Maurice Dudley.
Tail Twister, H. V. Johns.
New members of board of directors, George Black and Leo Valentine.
Oliver Teel, the retiring president, has had a very successful year and every member of the club has been well pleased with the splendid leadership given them by Mr. Teel.

Visitors at the meeting included Jack Shinn, who told some about his training as a glider pilot and commando. A young lad from Brazil, who is studying poultry raising at the Manwaring Leghorn farm, was present and gave a few remarks. Roy Cullum, of Cicero, Ill., was another guest.

CHILD DIES FROM BURNS

Charles Warren Black, 20-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Warren Black of near Warsaw, at 4:30 p. m. Monday was the victim of convulsions and shock resulting from burns suffered Saturday afternoon while playing in a bathtub of water. After giving the child a bath, the mother left him to play for a time in the water. He accidentally found and turned on the hot water faucet and sustained burns on the feet and a portion of his body.

Spies!

William Siebold Posing as Nazi
Rounds Up German Spy Ring

He was given $1,000 to build a secret radio station.

FACING facts, it is safe to say that there is probably no large plant making war materials without at least one spy or saboteur in it. If you are in such a plant, and believe you have spotted one, don't betray this by word or action. But, report it, at once, to the proper authorities. You may be doing your country a great service.

While the chances are you will not be in the position to do what William Siebold did for the United States, his story, so recently in the news, is a shining example for all Americans to follow.

William Siebold was born in Germany. Leaving it in 1921, he worked in South America and the United States. He is a naturalized citizen and a great patriot. It was he who, virtually single handed, rounded up the Nazi spy ring in New York, and sent all 33 members to prison. The details of his exploit read like the plot for a motion picture thriller. For almost a year and a half, his life was in continual danger. It all began when, in 1939, Siebold returned to Germany to visit his mother.

Soon after his arrival, the Nazis, working on their principle of "once a German, always a German," attempted to enlist his services as a spy in the United States. But loyal, American Siebold had no sympathy for the Nazis or their cause, so declined their offer.

Then his passport disappeared and he was officially notified that it would remain lost until he joined a group of spies and agreed to send the Nazis information from and about the United States. Siebold had little choice except to agree. After a month's training in a spy school in Hamburg, his missing passport reappeared. He was given instructions, three micro-film messages for German agents in New York, $1,000 to build a secret short-wave radio station, and sent back to America.

Upon arrival, his first step was to contact the FBI. But the spy school in Hamburg had taught him well. Realizing he might well be watched, he made the contact through a friend. The FBI saw, as did Siebold, the opportunities posing as an enemy would give him. Following their instructions, Siebold opened a "draftsman's" office on West Forty-second street, New York. Meanwhile, the G-men, using the Nazis' $1,000, built the secret radio transmitter in a remote section of Long Island. From this a series of messages were sent to Hamburg—signed "Siebold." Many were deliberately garbled. However, enough contained authentic information about harmless matters to bolster Berlin's confidence in Siebold.

As both he and the FBI had hoped, Siebold's office became a clearing house for Nazi spies in New York. What the spies did not know was that the office was an ingenious spy trap. Hidden cameras took both still and motion picture photographs of the spies in conference with Siebold.

As a result of this evidence, every one of the 33 spies who reported are now serving prison terms. And all mainly because of the patriotic daring of one man, William Siebold, who knew enough to work quietly with the FBI.

If you believe you have found a spy, don't warn him by either action or word. Notify the proper authorities.

There are many urgent reasons for buying War Bonds. First, the invasion needs money. Bonds pay for planes and guns and munitions with which to beat the Axis. Our fighting men must have the best possible equipment and it is up to us to let our money provide this.

A second reason is this: There is a shortage of goods now. Later on there will be plenty for civilian desires. Money put into War Bonds now will be available then. Business opportunities will be open then, too, and the "nest egg" saved now may hatch out commercially then.

Money put into War Bonds now will be deprived of its current potentiality as a part of the causes of inflation. You will be doing your part toward stabilizing the money situation by buying Bonds instead of dwindling stocks. That is a third reason.

But the best reason from a selfish viewpoint is this: Right now there is no better investment than War Bonds. There is no safer repository for your money. By buying Bonds you become a stockholder in the strongest "going" concern in the world today, the United States of America.

Airplane Plant
Brazil's National Motor factory is going into production with precision tools and equipment obtained exclusively in the United States. The huge $9,000,000 plant will be the first in the other American republics to build complete airplane engines, using production methods patterned after United States assembly line production. Prior to the war, Brazil purchased most of her precision tools from England and Germany.

LOW, AND ON THE OUTSIDE CORNER

It takes control for a pitcher to toss that old apple in there just where he wants it; and it takes control for a batter to stand there and wait for a good one to come along.

It takes a good eye and plenty of footwork to play a good game of baseball—or fight a fire in a cow lot.

(Curtain. For the benefit of those who may not be familiar with the circumstances, may we have a brief pause for station identification, etc.)

Monday afternoon a stack of straw caught fire at a farm home west of Mentone, and the fire department made the usual hurried run. The burning stack remained a threat to the barn, yet no one had any time to wait around until it burned up.

Like two old maids seeing a man walk down an alley, everybody had a lot of ideas of their own on burning the stack at both ends.

A steel cable and a team of horses soon showed up and after looping the cable around the stack, the team would drag a little of the top off and scatter it for better burning. The horses got a bigger load than they could drag off a time or two and from one to a dozen men caught hold of the cable and helped pull. The cable usually broke, which is exactly what happened while your editor and Clayton Holloway were helping the horses in the next scene.

The base of operations had been visited by a herd of naturalized but promiscuous and unsanitary bovines, and "buffalo chips" in a still pliable state were encountered at frequent and inopportune times.

Cullum and Holloway were hitched at the pole position on the "four-horse" strung-out hitch, when the cable broke somewhere near the rear "axle."

Like P-47s crossed with homing pigeons, Art and Clayt, the latter holding down the tail-end-Charlie position in the formation, came in for a landing.

Cullum overshot the field a bit and hit a soft spot in the runway. He got his landing gear down just in time to prevent a belly landing.

This was our first mission into enemy territory.

A bumblebee was soon hovering near. I smelled—but it wasn't roses.

WHY WE FIGHT

(Taken from a recent issue of the Publishers Auxiliary)

D-day draws near. It might even come before these lines see print. When it comes, we shall find ourselves engaged in the bitterest, bloodiest struggle this nation has known in all its 155 years of history.

What are we really fighting for?

That is a question which millions of Americans have been asking ever since Pearl Harbor. The Four Freedoms and the Atlantic Charter are only partial answers, as are the high pronouncements of some of our statesmen.

But what they have failed to do—answer that question simply, clearly and directly—an average American, a "G.I. Joe," in fact, seems to have done. He is Cpl. Jack J. Zurofsky who, last week, was announced as the winner of an essay contest conducted by the United States war department among the fighting men in the Mediterranean theater of war on the subject of "Why I Fight." Here is Corporal Zurofsky's answer:

I fight because it's my fight.

I fight because my eyes are unafraid to look into other eyes; because they have seen happiness and because they have seen suffering; because they are curious and searching; because they are free.

I fight because my ears can listen to both sides of a question; because they can hear the groanings of a tormented people as well as the laughter of free people; because they are a channel for information, not a route for repetition; because, if I hear and do not think, I am deaf.

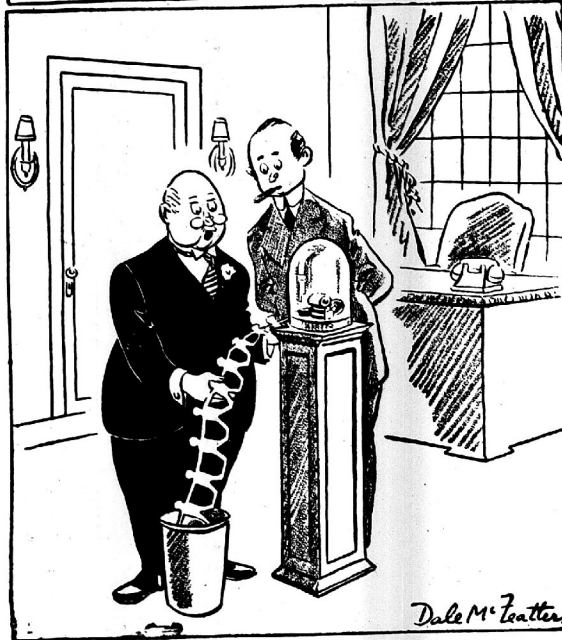

I fight because my mouth does not fear to utter my opinions; because, though I am only one, my voice helps forge my destiny because I can speak from a soapbox, or from a letter to the newspapers, or from a question that I may ask my representatives in congress; because when my mouth speaks and can only say what everyone is forced to say it is gagged.

I fight because my knees kneel only to God.

I fight because my feet can go where they please, because they need no passport to go from New York to New Jersey and back again; because if I want to leave my country I can go without being forced and without bribing and without the loss of my savings; because I can plant my feet in farm soil or city concrete without anybody's by-your-leave; because when my feet walk only

STRICTLY BUSINESS

by McFeatters

"Things must be going rather badly over at the Stock Exchange!"

the way they are forced to walk they are hobbled.

I fight because of all of these and because I have a mind, a mind which has been trained in a free school to accept or to reject, to ponder and to weigh—a mind which knows the flowing stream of thought, not the stagnant swamp of blind obedience; a mind schooled to think for itself, to be curious, skeptical, to analyze, to formulate and to express its opinions; a mind capable of digesting the intellectual food it receives from a free press—because if a mind does not think it is the brain of a slave.

I fight because I think I am as good as anybody else; because of what other people have said better than ever I could, "certain inalienable rights,"

"right to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness," "government of the people, by the people, and for the people," "give me liberty or give me death."

I fight because of my memories—the laughter and play of my childhood, the ball games I was in and the better ones I watched, my mother telling me why my father and she came to America at the turn of the century, my sisters marrying, my high school graduation, the first time I saw a cow, the first year we could afford a vacation, the trip to Camp Surprise Lake after the crowded, polluted Coney Island waters, hikes in the fall, with the many-colored leaves falling, weenie and marshmallow roasts over a hot fire, the first time I voted, my first date and the slap in the face I got instead of the kiss I attempted, the way the nostrum quack would alternate with political orators on our street corner, seeing the changes for the better in my neighborhood—the el going down, the streets being widened to let the sun in, new tenements replacing the old slums—the crowd applauding the time I came through with the hit that won us the borough championship; the memories, which, if people like me do not fight, our children will never have.

I fight because I have something to fight for.

I fight because of the life I hope to live when the fighting is finished; because that life offers opportunity and security and the freedom to read and write and listen and think and talk; because, as before, my home will be my castle and the drawbridge down only to those I invite; because if I do not fight, life itself will be death.

I fight because some day I want to get married and I want my children to be born into a free world; because my forefathers left me a heritage of freedom which it is my duty to pass on; because if we lost it would be a crime to have children.

I fight because it is an obligation; because free people must fight to remain free; because when the freedom of one nation or one person is taken away the rights of all nations and all people are threatened; because, through our elected representatives, I had the choice: To fight or not to fight.

I fight not so much because of Pearl Harbor but because of what Pearl Harbor meant; because, finally after skirmishes with the Ethiopians, the Manchurians, the Chinese, the Austrians, the Czechoslovaks, the Danes, the Spaniards, and the Norwegians, Fascism was menacing us as we had never before been menaced; because only the craven will not defend themselves.

I fight because "it is better to die than live on one's knees."

I fight because only by fighting today will there be any peace tomorrow.

I fight because I am thankful that I am not on the other side; because, but for the grace of God or an accident of Nature, the brutalized Nazi could have been me, but for my fighting, will be my child.

I fight in the fervent hope that those who follow me will not have to fight again, but in the knowledge that if they have to they will not be found wanting in the crisis.

I fight to remain free.

You are ever welcome to this house of God

Former Governor Richards of South Carolina said, "I consider the Sunday school one of the most important parts of the church work; through the teaching of the Bible it has been instrumental in bringing many souls into the kingdom of God. I have been connected as pupil, teacher and superintendent of the Sunday school practically my entire life and cannot too strongly emphasize the importance of this organization in the development of the citizenship of the nation. I believe that the Sunday school should appeal to everyone who believes in the Christian religion and enlist their sincerest interest." There is absolutely no substitute for the Sunday school and every parent should make every effort to bring their children every Sunday.

ATTEND CONVENTION

Mrs. Lyman Mollenhour and Mrs. Harold Utter were in Indianapolis on Tuesday and Wednesday as delegates of Beta Epsilon chapter, to the Psi Iota Xi Sorority convention.

The convention opened with a dinner in the Roof Garden of the Hotel Severin. Mrs. Phyllis Wilcox Wieland, of "The Hour of Charm" entertained vocally. Mrs. Utter was presented with a lovely string of pearls given as a door prize by Sigma Chapter of Greensburg.

At the business meeting it was decided to continue the three very worthy projects already supported by Psi Iota Xi. One of these is the operation of the Speech and Hearing Clinic at Bloomington. Each year 27 Indiana children with defective speech or hearing are sent to the clinic for an eight-week course of treatment. The results of this treatment show it to be very effective in most cases.

The sorority also supports the Indianapolis Symphony and reports that tickets to concerts are very much in demand by servicemen and servicewomen. The individual chapters purchase tickets to be given to the servicemen.

One of the best known activities of Psi Iota Xi is the support of the Hoosier Art Salon. Several paintings from our community have been exhibited in the Hoosier Art Gallery. Three pictures from the salon were presented to the following chapters: Delta Chapter of Indianapolis, received "Indian Craft," Beta Gamma of Peru, received "Edge of Town," both prize pictures, and Sigma, of Greensburg, received the painting, "Winter."

One accomplishment of the last year, of which we are very proud, is the purchase of 40 rooms of porch furniture for the hospitals at Camp Atterbury.

In addition to these major projects, each chapter does local charity.

After a luncheon in the Roof Garden Wednesday, the convention was adjourned for another year.

Thank You!

We want to thank everyone for the splendid reception given us, and especially for the large number who came for Sunday dinner. We were sorry that we weren't able to give you the service and accomodation we wanted to . . . but we hadn't prepared for so many.

We would appreciate it greatly if those who plan to be here on Sundays, if they would notify us beforehand. It will help us to serve you quickly and completely.

DICK MANWARING WRITES FROM ENGLAND

June 12, 1944

Dear George,

Well at last I have come around to writing you at last. I have wanted to write you for a long time, and tell you what a fine job you are doing. The letters in the Co-Op. News, too, are very interesting and surely does help one keep track of everyone from the old home town.

I will try and tell you as much as I can of what I am doing over here. I am still flying the good old P-47 Thunderbolt fighter and I am in a Fighter-Bomber group in the 9th Air Force. As you probably know by now the big day has at last arrived and the invasion has started. I was fortunate enough to have, had a ringside seat so far during the opening days of the invasion. I have had several close calls and exciting experiences, since I have been in the E. T. O. and I might say life is never dull in a fighter squadron.

I have visited Miles twice now and have enjoyed being together so much, however, I haven't been able to see him lately.

We have been pretty busy of late, taking off on a mission as early as 3:30 in the morning and landing from the last mission of the day as late as 1:00 in the morning.

Well George, I had better close for now as there is some work I want to do on my ship before the next mission, so will close for now. Again, I want to thank you for the fine job you are doing.

Yours,
DICK.

PLANTED HIS FOOD AND GAME CROPS SIMULTANEOUSLY

Smithton, Ill.—Shrewd and lanky W. W. Moeser, who owns a 200-acre farm here, planted his food and game crops simultaneously this year.

Moeser is taking one of the simple steps to arrest soil erosion which any farmer can follow. Instead of plowing his fields to the fence posts or the field lines, as is common practice, Moeser left a wide hedge row on the margins of his fields.

This solid row of shrubs or other vegetation not only holds the soil in place, but also provides cover for game and nesting places for insect-eating birds. The fence extends from six to ten feet in width for the entire length of the fields.

Moeser's "fence" is one of the practical steps in the battle against soil erosion which already has cost the Nation fifty million acres of food-growing lands, and which Secretary of Agriculture Claude M. Wickard has called the country's No. 1 post-war problem.

Five years ago when Moeser saw that heavy rains were beginning to wash away fertile top soil on the farm that has been in his family 112 years, he also discovered that there were few birds left. Generations before, the forest had been cut down together with the undergrowth that provided nesting places for quail and pheasant, and robins, meadow larks and sparrows that lived on crop-destroying insects. This undergrowth provided protective cover for birds as well as rabbits that Moeser could eat.

Consulting with Morris E. Fonda, conservationist of the Shiloh-O'Fallon Soil Conservation District, and representatives of the game restoration department of Western Cartridge Company at nearby East Alton, Ill., Moeser adopted a new method of farming that already has converted 42 of his neighbors and turned their 6,000 acres into what is known as the High Prairie Game Preserve.

Moeser not only flanked his fences with heavy brush, such as bittersweet, blackberry, sumac, elderberries, wild roses and wild grape, but also ringed his ponds and bordered his creeks with these and red cedar and short leaf pine. Timber edges and ravines also were protected in this manner.

Standing water made it impossible to plant the base of a sloping field. This year Moeser is turning the low spot into another pond and soon will border it with vegetation which he hopes will attract ducks and provide additional cover for his quail. He'll have a small fish pond to boot.

Here and there about the farm where the soil was not fertile enough to justify human food crops, Moeser has planted patches of kaffir corn, sorgho, sudan grass and common field corn to attract birds.

All of these steps, combined with contour farming, make Moeser's farm one of the 10 percent in the nation which are protected against erosion. But Moeser has added a bonus. Today he has a total of twelve coveys of quail and 20 pheasants with an outlook of four more coveys of quail this year, which will add an epicurean variety to his table. To make sure that his investment in birds will produce continuous returns, he and his 42 partners in the High Prairie Game Preserve limit themselves and their hunting friends to 60 percent of their annual game crop.

WE DEWEYED IT.

(With apologies to no one, including Red Skelton)

One of the greatest republican conventions in history, since the government started playing anagrams with our alphabet, has ended.

Like a rock pile in a poke on the high side of the Rockies, it's in the bag—on a downhill pull and in the over-drive.

After listening to all the speeches, every American was amazed to think that out of over a hundred million people Dewey and Bricker popped up just in time to save the world.

Like a party dress on its first night out, it's perfect, and Dewey and Bricker fit into America's needs of the hour slicker than a chorus girl's suspenders.

No need for any election. Just a waste of fat at two points a pound.

But the deck hasn't been shuffled, and we've been using the joker with all the deuces wild. The joker, like a holiday in November, is there but you don't know where.

The New Deal will throw a party of its own shortly, and then things will be different. The voter, like a piece of toast buttered on both sides, won't know which way is up.

Like a "military" wedding, the stalwarts astride Abraham's Model Ts, will gallop into one herd and cast a sly wink down the political gun barrel and somebody will be drafted.

Relatives from near and far will witness the affair, vouch for the sanctity of everyone and forestall any claims of illegitimate offspring.

The winnah! Again, and again, and again.

Attending a political convention, like visiting a rich relative, is where you buy a round trip ticket trying to get on the windward side of a shady mountain so you can live off the fat of the "hams."

The liquor always gets there first, and at times it's a heck of a job making the things last long enough to sober up so you can go home.

A half dozen snorts means at least one good tear.

When the United States flag is displayed on a church altar, if displayed in the chancel or on the platform, it should be placed on the clergyman's right as he faces the congregation; if displayed in the body of the church, it should have the position of honor at the right of the congregation as it faces the clergyman.

JUSTIN LONG IS MARRIED IN THE SOUTH

(The following letter, written by Justin Long under date of June 20th, produces the information that he has been recently married. He suggested printing the news in the Co-Op. News but asked for caution in that he didn't take much time "editing" the letter. Being an old married man of some twenty years, Justy, I'll take a crack at censoring for publication.—Ed.)

I just got married last week, and I figured that was an important enough event—to me, at least—that I had ought to tell you about it.

First, the bride was the former Lillian Crawford of Elberton, Georgia. She is a graduate of Rock Branch H. S. in Elbert County, Ga., and of Toccoa Falls Institute at Toccoa, Ga. For the past two years she has been working for the Navy Department in Washington, D. C., where she was secretary to a Commander in the Navy. I met her when I was stationed in Washington two years ago this summer.

We were married on June 11th in the chapel at Toccoa Falls Institute. The ceremony was performed by Dr. R. A. Forrest, president and founder of Toccoa Falls Institute. He is a Presbyterian preacher widely known throughout the South, and we felt honored to have him marry us. The bride wore a gown of sheer white organdy with fitted bodice, sweetheart neckline, and bouffant skirt. She carried a white Bible. She was attended by Miss Dorothy Lindsey of Dallas, Georgia, who wore a peach-colored floor-length dress. Oh yes, I forgot to say the bride wore a tiara veil with orange blossoms. Music was furnished by some of our friends at Toccoa Falls Institute. The best man was my brother, Malcolm. He did a good job too. The groom wore a khaki-colored uniform. It was a double ring ceremony.

We are living in Jacksonville now. We have a little house on the north side of town, near the air base. I can hardly wait until I can bring Lillian back to Mentone and show her the old home town.

It is very hot down here now. I was talking yesterday with a man who has a farm up north of town. He was complaining about the drouth ruining his pasture. I thought there had been plenty of rain here, but he said that if it didn't rain every other day down here that it was called a dry spell. The soil is so sandy that the rain runs right down and doesn't last at all. He says that it usually rains almost every day, but it hasn't rained now for over a week and the grass is almost killed. It was up to 100° in the shade last week, and I guess it was 115° or 120° out in the sun.

Yours,

FIFTEEN TO DIE THIS WEEK-END

Indianapolis, Ind., June 29.—At least fifteen people will die on Indiana's highways in accidents over this year's extended Fourth of July week end, was the conservative estimate today of Don F. Stiver, director of the state division of public safety.

The safety official's estimate was based on a thirty-one per cent increase in traffic fatalities the first five months of the year, and because the annual holiday, falling on Tuesday, will lengthen the week end to four days.

State police records, Mr. Stiver pointed out, show that 311 persons were killed in the first five months of 1944, as against 236 in the same period a year ago. Ten persons were killed from July 2 to July 5 last year, he said, with four fatalities being reported last July 4.

"This increase in fatalities is but a prelude to the highway slaughter that will follow the close of the war unless motorists learn to drive safely," asserted Mr. Stiver. He said that increasing traffic deaths at a time when traffic volume is decreasing is indicative of negligence on the part of drivers "who are driving faster and who have forgotten how to drive."

Hot weather and aging tires make for serious motor vehicle accidents, he said unless strict conservation measures are observed. He advised slow driving, proper tire inflation and no overloading to prevent tire failure.

Anticipating that curtailed war plant schedules and the long week-end result in longer motor trips this year, Mr. Stiver warned that state police troopers will be on the lookout for violators on all highways.

AUTO USE TAX STAMP NEEDED AFTER JULY 1

Will H. Smith, collector of internal revenue, reminds Hoosiers that there is very little time left to procure the auto-use tax stamps which must be displayed on vehicles by July 1.

Meredith for the purpose of disposing of an unliquidated asset, has been authorized in circuit court to sell a $1,000 bond of the South Minnesota Joint Stock Bank at private sale at the highest price obtainable. Editor William Allen White said, "The Commandments form our ideal of conduct. The aspirations of Christendom rise out of the Golden Rule. In that is the goal for which men aspire. In America, the study of the Ten Commandments and the Golden Rule may not be pursued in our public schools. The Sunday school supplies the need which the public school denies. The child who does not go to Sunday school who has no knowledge of the source out of which our civilization sprung, who is ignorant of the vast literature called the Bible, is not ready to do his part in our American democracy. He starts handicapped, a failure predestined. The Sunday school is the best preparation for peace and stability that the world can make."

REED FUNERAL HOME

Mentone, Ind.

To the People of this Community

There will be a feeling of shame in this community if we find ourselves short of the mark when the Fifth War Loan comes to an end July 8.

We will not permit that to happen here, especially if we look around in our homes and our places of employment and see the shadows of relatives and friends who today are in the midst of bloody battle for us.

We cannot emphasize too strongly that regardless of the size of the oversubscription of our community quota, the Fifth War Loan will be a flat failure for you if you do not exceed anything you have done in the past in War Bond buying.

In this invasion hour our fighting men have a right to demand that you make your record contribution to the success of a war loan.

The slogan, Back the Attack—Buy More Than Before, is not merely a catch phrase. It expresses the cold facts about invasion. Unless we make the supreme effort to do everything humanly possible either at our work benches or in our homes, with our sweat, our blood and our dollars we hand over our share of the burden to our fighting men.

HEDGE-HOPPING SMITH THEY CALL HIM NOW

Drags Toes on Barbed Wires on First Impromptu Landing

Max Smith, Mentone flying veteran of almost 200 hours in the air, experienced something new Sunday while flying at the Rochester airport when the plane motor quit when he was a mere 100 feet from the ground.

An airplane will fly only when its forward speed is maintained, and unlike a canoe when you lose the oar, you can't paddle one of the brutes with your hands when that old prop stretches out for the undertaker.

Max, it seems, was loitering around the country looking for field mice when the motor gave a couple of weak sputters and conked out. There was nothing to do except come down whether he wanted to or not. He managed to clear an orchard, a house or two but couldn't get the brute to wait while he opened the gate. Like a second-rate movie actress the T-Craft didn't have theumph, to get over the fence and the wheels hit the two top wires. The plane rolled to a gentle stop some 20 feet beyond. The only damage the plane received was a rip in one wing where it hit a fence post.

Max says he learned a lot about flying in a very short while.
