CONSERVATION FISH FRY
A FINANCIAL SUCCESS

C. O. Mollenhour, president of the Council Council of Conservation Clubs, reports that the fish fry held recently at the McClure Lake Conservation Club Camp was a very successful affair. A total of $388.00 was received for the use of the camp. The auction of articles contributed by business people throughout the county, netted $433, and $175.00 was realized from the sale of tickets to the fish fry. In addition, contributions totalling $280.00 were received from individuals and organizations.

Mr. Mollenhour, and the members of every Conservation club in the county, wish to express their thanks and appreciation to every person who attend the big supper, to the contributors of cash or merchandise, and for the assistance of every individual.

The proceeds are to go for needed improvements at the camp where hundreds of boys and girls are camped each summer.

The body is expected to arrive at the Johns funeral home some time Saturday, and if it does, funeral services will be held Sunday. Rev. Irwin will officiate and there will be military rites at the cemetery.

TEARING UP OF WINONA
TRACK IN FULL PROGRESS

Salvage men are now working near the Main Street crossing in Mentone removing the rails from the old Winona railway right-of-way. In a day or two the tracks will be completely removed from Mentone, with the exception of some of the street crossings where it is customary to leave the rails. Salvage companies, evidently, consider it less expensive to leave the rails than to repair the crossing once the rails are removed.

(However, just because the rails are removed is no sign that Winona engine won't come galloping through town again. It didn't always stick too close to the rails anyway.)

LIONS ELECT OFFICERS

The annual election of officers was held at the Lions club meeting Wednesday evening, resulting in the following as the officers for the coming year:

President—Ora McKinley.
1st Vice President—Leo Valentine.
2nd Vice President—Delford Nelson.
3rd Vice President—Jack VanGilder.
Secretary—Philip Lash.
Treasurer—Don Emmons.
Lion Tamer—Milo Fawley.
Tail Twister—Eugene Marshall.
Board of Directors—M. O. Bryan, Roland Ferverda, Forrest Kesler and Raymond Cooper.

The club also voted to sponsor a 4th of July celebration at Mentone, which will include a big fireworks display. Committees have been named and the complete program will be announced in the near future.

ENTERS BOSTON HOSPITAL

Mrs. F. B. Davison has entered the Massachusetts Memorial Hospital for observation and surgery. She plans to be there for several weeks.

LEGION BOYS LOSE.

The Warsaw AA team defeated the Mentone Legion softball team 4 to 2 Wednesday evening at Veterans' Field.

MARJORIE MOORE IS DEMON-STRATION AGENT FOR COUNTY

Miss Marjorie Moore, home economics instructor at Warren during the past year, Monday began her duties as Kosciusko county home demonstration agent, succeeding Miss Janalyce Rouls, who will take a post with the state extension department at Purdue university.

Miss Rouls will work with Miss Moore for two weeks before taking the new position, it was understood.

The new home agent is a graduate of Ball State Teachers' college, where she received a degree of bachelor of arts in vocational home economics. She has taken graduate work at Purdue university and has taught in Benton and White county schools, as well as at Warren. Her mother, Mrs. C. H. Moore, and four brothers and two sisters reside at Maxton, N. C., where Miss Moore was born.

The new appointee was recommended for the home agent position by the state extension department and her appointment was approved by the county extension committee, members of which include representatives of the civic, rural and women's organizations in the county.

HART—KRAATZ WEDDING

As "The Sweetest Story Ever Told" was played by Mrs. Nelle Neal, organist, Mrs. John Ladd and Mrs. Devon Hibschan lighted the tapers in the candelabra at the altar of the First Methodist church at three o'clock Sunday afternoon preceding the ceremony in which Miss Genevieve Kraatz, daughter of Mrs. Louis Kraatz, of Palestine, and the late Mr. Kraatz, became the bride of Robert L. Hart, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jean Hart of Warsaw. "Because" was used by Mrs. Neal in addition to the traditional marches and "Always" provided a musical background as Rev. R. C. Plank, pastor of the church, read the vows for the double-ring service. "Always" was also included in the numbers given by Mrs. Herbert Shipley, of Winona Lake, soloist. Her other selections were "Indian Love Call" and "The Lord's Prayer."

Arrangements of peonies were used before the background of palms at the altar and bouquets of garden flowers marked the pews at the aisle.

The weatherman moved the opening day up to Tuesday, June 3rd, instead of Monday as we had planned it. The playing field was in fine shape Tuesday night, which fact was proved by several fine plays that were made.

The two games which were played Tuesday night, gave evidence of some mighty fine ball teams in this league. The results, while a little one sided, promised some thrilling games in the future.

In the first game, High School vs. Beeson Egg Farm, several players stood out. D. McGowen, Leffert, and Molebash played good ball for Beeson. Flenar and Grubbs looked good for the High School team.

In the second game, Drudge, Fore and Linn stood out for Lemler and De Luxe. Brockey, Weirick, and J. Westafer played mighty good ball for Tippecanoe.

It looks to me as though it's going to be a good season for the pitchers (if they are good).

SHADES CAMPAIGN BEING SET UP: GOAL IS $300,000

A public subscription campaign aimed at $300,000 is being planned by the Indiana Department of Conservation to purchase the Shades, John H. Nigh, Conservation director announced today.

Nigh said actual mechanics of the campaign are still to be worked out but added that the department definitely plans to purchase the historic western Indiana park which last week was saved from destruction by action of Arthur R. Baxter, Indianapolis manufacturer.

Nigh emphasized that Mr. Baxter's purchase of the Shades and his lease to the department constituted simply a "holding action".

The Baxter purchase followed breakdown of American Legion plans to save the century-old park. The owners immediately placed the 1452 acres on the auction block and began to accept bids from timber companies. The park includes more than 1,000 acres of semi-virgin timber.

"There was not enough time to get a public subscription campaign underway," Nigh said, "and Mr. Baxter and a group of associates purchased the area to hold it until we are able to raise the money."

"We have great plans for the Shades and we cannot over-emphasize our appreciation of Mr. Baxter's action," Nigh said.

"We must not however, consider the job over. Funds must be raised to repay Mr. Baxter and place the title to the area in the hands of the State."

The conservation director said the Shades, which has been operated as a park for almost a century, will be administered from Turkey Run State Park, only seven miles away, for the balance of the summer season.

Perfume Ingredient

The curious product ambergris, which has had a use in perfumery since ancient times, is a biliary deposit in the intestines of apparently diseased sperm whales. It has a high, though diminishing, value in the modern perfume trade.

African Paradise

Tanganyika, stretching from the Indian ocean deep into east-central Africa, is a third larger than Texas and has a population of between five and six million people. Its mountains tower nearly 20,000 feet, and the "bottom drops out" to form part of Africa's great Rift valley, of ancient volcanic creation. Resources include tin, diamonds, gold and silver, as well as fertile cotton and coffee lands, and forests of mahogany and ebony. Elephants, giraffes, buffaloes, lions, ostriches, and antelopes have made this region a happy hunting ground for big-game sportsmen.

Mrs. Mary Huffer has been on the sick list suffering with high blood pressure.

Food specialists tell us the shorter the cooking time—the more food values we save. Instead of long slow cooking it's better to keep vegetables at boiling and shorten the time.

Never use knives or rough scouring materials to clean glass cooking wear. You may scratch the protective surface and make the glass less resistant to breakage.

Four-fifths of the tung oil is used in top-grade paints and varnishes. Large amounts are used by linoleum and oilcloth manufacturers. The oil goes into printing inks, electric insulating compounds, automobile brake linings, lacquer linings for tin cans. Its wartime uses included weatherproofing cannon shells, rifle cartridges, tank guns, tents and vehicle covers, and a wide variety of military fabrics.

Mrs. Helen Chaffee Elwell, newly elected President of the Mother Church at its Annual Meeting urged both pulpit and press to unite in a crusade of righteousness.

MRS. HELEN C. ELWELL
Incoming President of The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Massachusetts.

To "the harrassed employer and the dissatisfied worker" and to the nations generally, the Directors and the President of the Church held out hope of harmony, not as a miracle, but rather as a simple witnessing to the fact that amity springs naturally from the application of spiritual power. Continuing Mrs. Elwell said: "... to the Christian Church has come the opportunity, unparalleled in Christian history, so to present the true concept of God in His relationship to man and the universe, that men will turn naturally to the teachings of Christ."

The Directors' and The Mother Church President's remarks highlighted one of the largest annual meetings in years, with members of the Church in session from various parts of the world. From California, England and Europe, Australia, New Zealand, and South Africa came reports of a growing resurgence in religious activities.

WHAT SAITH THE SCRIPTURES?

(Mr. Truth Lover has asked what God requires of us in worship.)

P. "Well, why not follow the Bible in the same way that we do in becoming a Christian? When the church was begun we learn that the disciples 'continued steadfastly in the apostles' doctrine and fellowship, in the breaking of bread and the prayers' (Acts 2:42). It is further said that they continued 'praising God, and having favor with all the people' (Acts 2:46). In Col. 3:16 Paul tells us specifically how to praise God. He says, 'Let the word of Christ dwell in you richly; in all wisdom teaching and admonishing one another with psalms and hymns and spiritual songs, singing with grace in your hearts unto God'. From these and other scriptures we learn that the early Christians observed five specific items of worship in their public assemblies, which were as follows: First, teaching the word of God, as set forth by the apostles; second, fellowship which included their financial contributions (II Cor. 8:4, 16:1 and 2); third, observance of the Lord's supper on the first day of the week (Acts 20:7); fourth, praying to God; and fifth, singing his praises." L. "You mean, these are the only items of Christian worship?" P. "Do you know of any other items enjoined on Christians by the New Testament?" L. "What about the use of a piano or organ?" P. "Just what does the New Testament say about using a piano or organ in Christian worship?" (Can you answer this question? See next week's article.)

With the appearance of six cases of Rocky Mountain spotted fever in Indiana and three deaths since May 17, Dr. J. W. Jackson, director, Division of Communicable Disease Control, Indiana State Board of Health, issued a warning today for Indian citizens to beware of ticks which cause the disease.

The cases have occurred in Vanderburgh, Jackson, Monroe, Marion, Davies and Johnson counties. One case was reported in January from Kosciusko county. The deaths occurred at Seymour, Evansville, and Washington.

"The Indiana State Board of Health has formerly carried Rocky Mountain spotted fever vaccine and serum for the convenience of physicians in the state out the supply has been exhausted. However, a small supply has been ordered and should be available within a few days.

"A new drug, para-aminobenzoic acid, is being recommended for the treatment of Rocky Mountain spotted fever," Dr. Jackson pointed out. "The State Board of Health is ordering a small supply of this new drug which will be distributed upon request to physicians. The drug has given excellent results when used early in the disease. One doctor used the drug on 10 cases and all recovered but one man over 40 years of age who had other complications.

"There seems to be an increased prevalence of ticks in Indiana this year. We have had a number of telephone calls from parents who were worried after finding ticks on their children," Dr. Jackson stated. "Children after playing in parks or with dogs which have been in the woods should be examined for ticks so that they may be removed before they have an opportunity to bite the child. Persons working in thickly wooded areas should be vaccinated against the disease and should wear close fitting clothing which prevents ticks from getting close to the skin.

"Rocky Mountain spotted fever victims should always be hospitalized. The mortality rate in Indiana from the disease is high, about 30 percent of all cases, and hospitalization increases the chances of recovery."

WEDDING—

A wedding gown of ivory satin was worn by the lovely bride. A design in seed pearls ornamented the marquise yoke which was edged with a wide ruffle of satin. Tiny buttons fastened the fitted bodice at the back and the fitted sleeves ended in points at the wrists. The full skirt ended in a circular train. Her finger-tip veil was caught to a tiara of orange blossoms. Streamers of white satin fell from her bouquet of white roses which was centered with red roses. Her only ornament was a strand of pearls which had been a gift to her from the bridegroom.

Mrs. Floyd Smith, sister of the bridegroom, who attended as matron of honor, was attired in a gown of blue eyelet. The fitted bodice was designed with a low neckline and puff sleeves. At the waistline at the back a large bow of the material gave a bustle effect to the full skirt. Her headdress of velvet ribbon matched her arm bouquet of American Beauty roses.

David West, of Bloomington, performed the duties of best man for the bridegroom and John Ladd, of Warsaw, and Devon Hibsichman, of Mentone, seated the guests.

Pink was the color worn by Mrs. Kraatz, mother of the bride, and Mrs. Hart, mother of the bridegroom, was in aqua. White accessories were worn by both Mrs. Kraatz and Mrs. Hart and each accented her costume with a corsage of white carnations and pink roses.

At the reception held in the Camel club immediately following the ceremony Mesdames David West of Bloomington, Forest Bouse, of Claypool, Devon Hibsichman, of Mentone, John Ladd, Max Weirick, and Francis Worsham, all of Warsaw, assisted in serving. Pink, white and silver set the color note for the appointments and the refreshments which were served with the three tiered wedding cake to the 75 guests.

When leaving for their wedding trip which is taking them through the eastern states, the bride changed to a gray suit to which she pinned the corsage of red roses from her bouquet. Her accessories were in matching gray and white. Upon their return they will

FUNERAL OF JAMES OSBURN SUNDAY

The body of twenty-two-year-old James Clarence Osborn, World War II son of Mr. and Mrs. Stanton Osborn, residents of three miles northwest of Mentone, arrived in Warsaw Saturday from Randolph Field, San Antonio, Tex., where he met death when struck by a train near the field.

Funeral services were held Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Methodist church, Mentone, with Rev. Paul Erwin officiating. Interment was made in the Mentone cemetery.

The young veteran of three years fighting in the South Pacific was killed instantly last Wednesday when struck near the field by a train. A brother, Richard, who preceded him in death was killed in an accident at New Albany, Ind. Military services were scheduled to be conducted at the grave by army personnel from Baer field, Fort Wayne. The Johns funeral home, of Mentone, was in charge of arrangements.

JINGLE REWARDED

If you have been following the advertising in the Co-op. News, you probably have read about the jingle contest which is being conducted by Schlusser and Waldman.

In the issue of May 28 Editor Cullum included a jingle of his own as a sample for others who wished to rhyme for money.

Imagine our surprise when a check for $10.00 arrived for the editor as a prize for his jingle.

If you haven't already tried your ability, why not do so?

JOE CLARK TO SPEAK ON RADIO

The Little Red Barn program will present Joseph Clark, Kosciusko county Agricultural Agent on its broadcast over WOWO Monday morning, June 16, at 6:00 CDT, according to Jay Gould, WOWO Farm Director. Mr. Clark will talk on "Care on Range." The Little Red Barn, a daily farm feature, each day presents a county agent from Indiana, Ohio or Michigan to discuss with Jay Gould subjects of value to Midwestern farmers. Also heard on the Little Red Barn are Nancy Lee and the Hilltoppers with songs and melodies.

NEW METHODIST MINISTER HERE

Rev. and Mrs. Paul Erwin, and daughter, Rebecca Ann, have moved to the Methodist parsonage here from their former pastorate at Shipewana.

Rev. Erwin is attending the Garrett Biblical Institute at Evanston, Ill., but will complete his studies for the summer this Friday.

FINE ATTENDANCE AT RECITAL

A large and appreciative audience enjoyed the program at the Methodist Church last Sunday afternoon when Mrs. Maude Snyder presented her pupils in a spring recital. The program consisted of both vocal and piano numbers and each student contributed an excellent performance.

Due to Mrs. Snyder's injured wrist, most of the accompanying was done by Marilyn Tucker, who deserves an extra note of praise for a job so well done on such short notice.

KIDS' CIRCUS PARADE

There will be a Kids' Circus parade at 7 o'clock on the 4th of July as a grand opening for the evening's entertainment. Prizes will be awarded for decorated bicycles, pets, ponies and kids in costume. We want plenty of clowns. We also want a kids band—any kind of instrument—drums and horns to lead the parade. Larry McKinley will have charge of the band. It isn't necessary to know a tune, just so we make a noise. Contact George McK or Nellie Reed for further information. Refreshments will be served for all participants.

FIRST ALL-STAR GAME

The Manchester All-Stars will appear in Mentone Friday, June 13th to oppose the Mentone All-Stars in the boys' first game of the season. Last year the Manchester team defeated the local boys and gave them only one hit while doing so. This year Manchester has played and lost one game. Warsaw A. A. edged them out by a couple of runs.

The game starts at eight o'clock. Come on out and back your team.

The last two weeks he spent traveling, having visited New Orleans, Tulane, and the University of Louisiana.

SORORITY INSTALLS OFFICERS

Mrs. Lyman Mollenhour presided at the meeting of the Psi Iota Xi sorority held Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. Howard Shoemaker, of Mentone. As installing officer, she conducted the ceremony for the incoming officers as follows: President, Mrs. Max C. Nellans; vice president, Mrs. Shoemaker; treasurer, Mrs. Harold Utter; recording secretary, Mrs. George Yehlick; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Ralph Mollenhour; conductress, Mrs. Glenn Weatherbee. During the business session a gift of $25 was made to the charity fund of national organization of the Psi Iota Xi sorority which is celebrating its 50th anniversary. An invitation was extended by Mrs. Maude Snyder for the members to attend the recital given Sunday at the Mentone Methodist church by her students of piano and vocal music. Mrs. Elery Nellans was the winner of the door prize. Mrs. Max Nellans high bidder for the chocolate cake contributed by Mrs. Earl Anderson for the auction. Miss LaVon Colbert was a guest. Dainty refreshments were served by Mrs. Shoemaker during the social hour. Mrs. Russell Henderson, of road 30 east, assisted by Mrs. Mott O. Bryan, will be the hostess at a party to be given Thursday, June 19, for the members of the sorority.

MORE MAGAZINE SALES

Yep, we know it's getting to be a repetition of the same old story, but here it comes.

It seems that Mentone had some more magazine salesmen and salesladies this week. One 'lady' stopped in the local news office Tuesday probably expecting to make a whirlwind of sales and then move on to her next victims. (Someone must have tipped her off that the mayor was out of town.) Very much to the poor lady's surprise she met with a bit of opposition. Why in the world would we want to read?—we take our vacations to get away from that sort of thing.

An inquisitive by-stander, noting her accent asked her where her home was. "Kokomo, Indiana," she says with a brogue that smells so much like the north east coast that you can taste the garlic. Well, could be.

Day Marshal, Ivo Wagner, persuaded the young lady that Mentone market was not too healthy—"nuff said."

THE MERRY, MERRY MONTH OF MAY—WET, WASN'T IT?

A Northern Indiana dirt farmer achieved local fame as a wit by remarking, "I don't have to read the papers to know it's raining."

During the month of May in Indiana even the fish looked limp and bedraggled, according to some reports. Rainfall was above normal in all sections except the Northeast, and the phenomenal downpour was spread over the month as well as over the state. In addition, temperatures were generally two or three degrees below normal, insuring disagreeable remarks from office workers as well as farmers still waiting to plow.

Total precipitation was 2.17 inches above normal at Shoals, where the average discharge of East Fork White River has more than 400 percent of normal. At Fort Wayne precipitation was slightly below normal, but the average discharge of St. Mary's River, near the city, was 795 percent of normal because of the carry-over from heavy rainfall at the end of April. The St. Mary's mean monthly runoff at Shoals was the fourth highest in the past 34 years.

Throughout May, levels remained high for Indiana lakes, most of which were more than a foot above last year. Water levels in observation wells unaffected by pumping were up proportionately, but the levels in acres of heavy groundwater pumpage generally declined in response to the increased use of water for cooling and air-conditioning.

CHOLERA SICK HOGS TREATED PROMPTLY

Cholera kills more hogs in Indiana than any other one disease, said Dr. C. R. Donham, head of the veterinary science department of Purdue University. When a herd of hogs is sick with cholera, the best plan is to vaccinate before sundown, he advised, as every hour counts.

Many of the hogs will die from cholera in spite of anything that can be done, and the losses are increased as vaccination is delayed. A veterinarian should always be called when the disease appears in a herd, as it is not safe to vaccinate hogs for cholera unless it is certain that they are sick with cholera and not some other ailment.

There are cases where the "single treatment", that is, the use of anti-hog cholera serum alone without virus is recommended. This treatment will produce an immunity to cholera, but such immunity can not be depended upon to last for more than two to three weeks. Dr. Donham advises that it is too expensive to use except under the following special conditions:

1. In those herds where it is impossible to be sure whether or not sick hogs have cholera. In such cases, the hogs should be revaccinated with an anti-serum and virus not more than three weeks later, providing that they have recovered from the previous ailment.
  2. In hogs that will be sent to market in less than two or three weeks after an outbreak of cholera in the herd.
  3. In herds where obscure but inactive diseases are present in the swine. In such cases it is usually necessary to change the sanitation and other management factors to insure that pigs may be successfully immunized against cholera without heavy losses.
- Dr. Donham suggests that farmers make arrangements ahead of time to have their herds vaccinated, since most veterinarians are working under full schedule.

DDT SPRAY KEEPS CATTLE FLY-FREE

Keep beef and dairy cattle fly-free by modern spraying with DDT, the Purdue University department of entomology advises. This present day technique which makes for contented animals in the summer is an improvement over the pioneer methods of permitting cattle to run through the farm woods. In summer cattle are in the woods mainly to escape the annoyance of flies.

The forester recognizes that cattle need shade and suggests that a few trees in the pasture or a fenced-in portion on the northern edge of a farm woods will provide summer coolness for a large number of animals. This will protect the remainder of the woods against injury by ranging cattle.

For spraying cattle the entomologist recommends the use of 50 percent DDT wettable powder mixed with water at the rate of two pounds in five gallons. It is applied at the rate of one quart per animal, and three or four applications each season at about three week intervals or as recommended. A three gallon compressed air sprayer or larger equipment depending on the number of animals to be treated is suggested for the job.

Lehker warns that under no circumstances should DDT oil solutions be used on cattle. These may cause injury but wettable DDT powders are safe for livestock.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Blackburn and family and Mr. and Mrs. George Blackburn and family of LaPorte spent Sunday at Michigan City.

NATURALISTS TAKE UP SUMMER WORK IN 7 STATE PARKS

Ten naturalists have been selected for duty in seven Indiana state parks this season, and one more remains to be named, Indiana Department of Conservation officials announced.

Most of these "nature guides" were scheduled to take up their work this week. Following a policy established in 1923, these men and women remain at the parks throughout the summer to conduct groups over park hiking trails, discussing, in an informal manner, the birds and wildlife found there. They are responsible for museum material, lectures, research projects, campfire programs, pet shows and information services.

Naturalists chosen for the 1947 season are Max Forsyth, Howard Weaver and Alvin B. Jose, McCormick's Creek Park; Mary Fritsche, Gayther L. Plummer and one unnamed, Turkey Run; John Wallace, Brown County; Tergo Amidei, Dunes; Robert W. Montgomery at Clifty Falls; Russell Mumford, Spring Mill, and Iva Spangler, Pokagon.

A majority of Indiana State Park naturalists are teachers and professors from Hoosier High schools and colleges. Chief Naturalist Sidney R. Esten, who set up the present system of Naturalist service, is a teacher of biology in Broad Ripple High School.

FISHING SEASON OPENS JUNE

16th: WATER STILL HIGH

Indiana's fishing season officially gets underway next Monday and Indiana Department of Conservation officials were hesitant to predict opening day results.

High water which has been general throughout the spring months has delayed spawning of most species. One hundred and sixty beds of bass were lost at state hatcheries alone as a result to rain.

Don R. Hughes, director of Fish and Game Division, hazarded the opinion that some reduction in spawning would be beneficial to Hoosier lakes, many of which are overstocked.

John H. Nigh, Conservation director, warned fisherman that 85 Conservation officers will be checking violations "beginning on opening day and continuing throughout the season."

Vaccine Checks Flu Epidemic

Wartime development of the effective influenza vaccine averted the possibility of a major influenza epidemic. The epidemic of 1918 struck five hundred million people, of whom about fifteen million died. There were half a million fatalities in the United States alone. The destruction of human life by influenza within a four-month period exceeded American losses during the four years of World War II.

Farm Meetings

More than 35 million persons in the United States attended meetings, demonstrations and tours held by county farm agents in 1946.

Mrs. Frank Warren was able to be up town in Mentone Wednesday riding in a wheel chair and greeting friends who are happy to see her out.

Floor Finish

An ideal floor finish is one that is non-porous, smooth, hard enough to resist dirt brought in by coarse work shoes and which remains attractive for several years under normal wear and care. An ideal finish protects the floor from dirt, moisture and discoloration.

Flu Vaccines

Four types of influenza vaccine now are on sale. Each vaccine is extracted in a slightly different way from the fluid surrounding infected chick embryos, although all depend for their effect on inactivated viruses of two different strains of influenza.

By Paul Rush

The softball league has settled down to a steady pace now, with two games being played on Monday night and two more on Tuesday night.

Lemler and Deluxe playing heads-up ball all the way defeated Bryan's chicks 7 to 11 in the ninth inning as Chicks came apart at the seams.

The second game was a free scoring affair between Utter and Tridle and the High School. The final score was 18 to 11 in favor of the High School boys.

Tippecanoe walked over the Co-ops in the first game Tuesday night by the score of 10 to 1.

Beeson's Egg Farm squeezed out an 8 to 6 victory over Burket due mainly to 5 errors by the Burket outfit.

Friday night, June 13, the Manchester All-Stars will come here for the Mentone All-Stars first game. This is practically the same team that defeated the local team last year, allowing them only one hit.

The game will start at 8 o'clock.

SANITATION PRACTICED
BY RABBIT BREEDERS

Indiana now ranks as one of the leading states in the production of rabbits for fur and meat. The industry receiving its impetus during the war has continued to be profitable for many urban raisers and hundreds of 4-H club members.

U.N. Holds Special Session on Palestine

View of the United Nations General Assembly Hall in Flushing Meadows, New York, where U.N.'s "world congress" is now meeting in the first special session in its short history. The meeting was called at the request of Great Britain to consider the complex problem of Palestine. This photo, showing press gallery in the foreground and radio and television booths at the sides, was taken at the Assembly's last regular fall session.

Success in raising rabbits as with all livestock depends upon efficient management and the provision of sanitary conditions. Dr. L. P. Doyle, Purdue University veterinarian, cautions that with the advent of warm weather particularly, manure, soiled bedding and unused feed should be removed daily. Water crocks and feed troughs need to be washed frequently in hot soapy water, rinsed in clear water, allowed to drain and placed in the direct rays of the sun to dry.

If sunning is impractical, a coal tar disinfectant should be used and the equipment rinsed in clear water. Hutches and nest boxes likewise need to be cleaned and disinfected.

Although good sanitation is a preventative measure for controlling disease, Dr. Doyle advises breeders to be on the alert for any symptoms of disease. Suspected cases should be isolated and quarantined for at least two weeks. Newly acquired rabbits and those returned from shows should be placed in quarantine for at least two weeks before being put with the breeding herd.

Coccidiosis is one of the principal diseases of young rabbits which may become serious. It is important that droppings do not get into feed and water as may happen under unsanitary conditions. The veterinarian suggests that floors of wire or hardware cloth be used.

As effective treatments are known at present for only a few of the diseases, it is simpler and safer to destroy the few animals that are sickly rather than attempt to treat them and run the chance of spreading infection. For further information on rabbit diseases and their treatment free copies of Farmers' Bulletin 1569, "Rabbit Parasites and Diseases" may be obtained from the Office of Information, U. S. D. A. ### TRUCK CONTEST ENTRIES

The search for the oldest Chevrolet truck still in active service is attracting entries from all parts of the country at the rate of several hundred a day. J. W. Burke, manager of the commercial and truck department, Chevrolet Motor Division, said today.

Entries in the search represent a cross-section of the motor truck field, come from every state in the union, and cover every conceivable use to which trucks are put.

"The results of the contest are most gratifying," said Burke, "not only because of the large number of entries, but because of the revelation that so many old Chevrolet trucks are still in active use."

The first Chevrolet truck was built in 1918, but only a comparative handful of trucks were built before 1926 or 1927, Burke pointed out. Nevertheless, the contest is disclosing that a relatively high proportion of these early trucks are still being used every day.

"Many entrants send with their application blanks a voluntary testimonial letter, describing the faithful performance of their trucks over a long period of years," Burke said. "Most of the entrants report that their trucks have been licensed and used regularly since the day they were purchased."

The contest to find the oldest Chevrolet truck started May 10 and ends June 15. The owner of the oldest truck will be given as a prize one of the new "advance-design" trucks, to be announced to the public June 28. The contest rules provide that the owner of the old truck must drive it to his nearest Chevrolet dealer for official entry.

RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT

TO MRS. SARAH GASKILL

We, the members of the Foster Rebekah Lodge No. 546 of Tiptecanoe record with sorrow the passing of one of our members and do submit the following:

Whereas, on May 12, 1947, Our Heavenly Father, in His wise Providence, has seen fit to call from our midst one of our beloved sisters, Mrs. Sarah Gaskill, and whereas, she was a true Christian woman and in her quiet and unassuming way she lived a life of loyalty and devotion to her Master, her community and her home, and whereas, the members of this lodge hold her in loving remembrance and that her life be an inspiration to each of us.

That a copy of these resolutions be sent to her daughters, a copy to the News-Mirror and the Co-op papers for publication and a copy recorded in the minutes of our lodge.

She entered the gates afar,

The city bright and fair,

And when we're called to cross the bar

We'll find her waiting there.

HOUSEHOLD ARTICLES OF NON-WOVEN RAYON FABRICS

Homemakers will welcome the news of disposable rayon fabric, chiefly used for household articles says Miss Frieda Stoll, extension clothing specialist, Purdue University. This fabric is made of multiple webs of rayon which have been bonded together.

Generally speaking, towels and napkins from this have the appearance of paper. They are inexpensive and disposable, have an attractive sheen, and they do not crinkle. Being comparatively long lasting, they often can be used more than once.

Miss Stoll pointed out that the longer length and uniformity of rayon staple impart greater strength to the fabric, while its luster and freedom from naps contribute to both hand and appearance. The brilliance with which rayon takes color makes its use in non-woven fabrics especially attractive and makes possible table cloths, towels, and napkins in vivid and striking colors. Rayon staple fibers also have the advantage of being easy and cheap to process.

Besides the towels and napkins which have been on the market for about 6 weeks, many other household items are being made of non-woven fabrics and can be expected on the market in the future. Table cloths, wiping cloths, curtains and drapes are just a few of the household uses to which these fabrics have been turned. Among their industrial forms are ribbons, tapes, filters, lens wiping tissue, bindings and interlinings, insulation covering, tabs, and special wrappers, containers, and bags.

BEAVER DAM TEACHER TO BECOME INSTRUCTOR IN BIG TEXAS SCHOOL

Victor Johnson, vocational agricultural teacher at Beaver Dam, received a desk lamp as a going-away present from the Beaver Dam 4-H Agricultural club at its meeting at the home of Lee Norris Monday night. The gift was presented by the host.

Mr. and Mrs. Johnson and their daughter will soon move to Texas, where he will join the staff of the State Teachers' college as an agricultural instructor. He will seek means of growing corn, oats and other crops not being grown there successfully.

Sixty boys and girls and their parents attended the Monday night meeting. A few members of the Beaver Dam school band presented instrumental music and a weiner roast was enjoyed. Frances Swick, club president, was in charge of the session.

OWNS CHILD'S DREAM HOUSE

Sandra Barkman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Barkman, is the happy owner of a beautiful doll house, presented by her great uncle, I. W. Barkman, of Boston.

The doll house was hand-made by Mr. Barkman and took over a year for completion. There are a living room, dining room, and kitchen downstairs. An open stairway leads to a hallway upstairs, where there is a bathroom and bedroom.

The house has electric lights and each room has its own light switch.

A fireplace in the living room is finished in a brick-like texture, as is the chimney.

The windows will move up or down and have lead sinkers for weights.

The walls are double and the color scheme in each room was carried out in a very lovely manner by Mrs. Barkman, who was responsible also for the modern plastic furniture which is used so neatly in every room.

The house has a family of five, a group of lovely pliable plastic dolls, which can be bent into any shape or manner.

We saw this doll house and find that words don't begin to catch the appeal and beauty it really has.

At present it is at the Claude Barkman home, and all who care to are welcome to see it.

Forest Cull

The measured cull from the first clear cutting on the Upper Peninsula experimental forest at Dukes, Mich., was 33 per cent of the gross volume. This figure has run to as high as 45 or 50 per cent in very defective old-growth stands in which sugar maple has predominated. Cull varies considerably over relatively short distances in the forest.

On Sunday evening, Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Thomas, of Rochester, and Mr. and Mrs. I. W. Barkman were dinner guests.

On Monday evening, besides the guests of honor, those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Walter Barkman and daughter and Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Barkman and family.

ber of the State Fair Board, has announced.

arts and fine arts. Total premiums in whom the world is crucified unto me and I unto the world." —Galatians 6:14

WHAT SAITH THE SCRIPTURES?

Last week, Mr. Preacher asked Mr. Truth Lover: "Just what does the New Testament say about using a piano or organ in Christian worship?"

L. "Just now I do not recall that it says anything about them;
but everybody uses them."
P. "Oh, no they don't. There are millions today who do not use them in their worship. And no one used them or any musical instruments for six centuries after the church was begun. After all, what difference does it make about how many use musical instruments? If we are to follow the word of the Lord, it wouldn't change it if everybody used them. Can't you see that the New Testament is very simple if we follow it, just as it is? But if we decide to change it to suit our likes and dislikes, then we will be in trouble all the time. When all of us are ready to put everything else out of our minds and follow only what the Bible says, we will have no trouble. Only then can we walk together."
L. "Well, I must confess that this is the most plausible thing I have ever heard, yet it is so simple that I can hardly understand how it can be true, particularly when I stop to think of all the different religious bodies, and all the confusion that exists in the religious world."

P. "I can very well understand how you feel about it. I was once in the meshes of denominationalism, myself, and when I was made conscious of the simplicity of the gospel it was so startling and so wonderful that I could hardly believe it real."
L. "Well, I am certainly grateful to you for being so patient with me. I can see it all very plain now. I have been listening to the explanations of men rather than the word of God. I assure you that hereafter I expect to follow the Bible, just as I read it, regardless of what men say."

ON CROPS AND SOILS

Oats and wheat varieties, fertilization studies and improved varieties of legumes and grasses will receive major attention at the Soils and Crops Field Day to be held at Purdue University, Friday, June 20, at the crops experimental farm east of Lafayette on state roads 52 and 26.

New research projects of Professors Rodney Bertramson, E. G. Sharvelle and H. H. Kramer, who have recently joined the Purdue staff, will be some of the highlights of the forenoon demonstration work. Through the morning tours of the plots will be conducted by members of the staff and the various projects explained by those in charge of the studies.

Kramer is launching research work on relatively new or unused crops in Indiana. This work popularly known as chemurgy, is arousing wide-spread interest.

Bertramson is observing the results from using various amounts of nitrogen in oats. An extensive layout of seed oats treatment under the direction of Dr. Sharvelle is observed.

Other staff members will discuss the improved wheat and oat varieties and newer legumes and grasses. Ladino clover, birdsfoot trefoil, alta fescue and the brome grasses in particular have attracted attention of progressive farmers. Inspection of established stands of these crops will be a part of the morning tour of the field. Groups for the tours will be organized at frequent intervals between 8 and 10:30 (Daylight Saving Time). An afternoon program will be presented by the Purdue staff members in the grove.

Southern Indiana drivers, please take note. Hoosier deer are dangerous in more ways than one — and expensive, too.

Driving peacefully through Morgan County, in his new eight-cylinder Oldsmobile, Mitchell Carris-Bay collided with a one-year-old deer.

Replacing two lost fenders, the hood, grill, radiator and fan will amount to something like $400.00. Mr. Carris informed the Division of Fish and Game of the Indiana Department of Conservation. The deer, which weighed about 140 pounds, was killed.

CHARLES BLUE, 91, DIES
THURSDAY AT DAUGHTER'S
HOME AT BEAVER DAM

William Blue, aged 91, a retired farmer who lived for many years in the vicinity of Mentone, died at 6:30 a. m. Thursday at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Charles Leininger, of Beaver Dam. He had been confined to his bed since Christmas due to the infirmities of age.

Mr. Blue was born in Indiana October 31, 1855, the son of William and Amy Blue. He was a member of the Mentone Methodist church. His wife, who before her marriage was Jennie Lash, died a number of years ago. A son also preceded him in death.

Surviving relatives are his three daughters, Mrs. Charles (Bernice) Leininger, Beaver Dam, Mrs. Frank (Blanche) Welch, of Warsaw, and Mrs. Robert (Mabel) Eaton, of Elkhart; a sister, Mrs. Harriet Underhill, of Butler, nine grandchildren and nine great-grandchildren.

Funeral services were held at 2 p. m. Saturday at the Beaver Dam Evangelical United Brethren church with burial in the Mentone cemetery.

RECEIVE DEGREES

Sam Blue, son of Mrs. Orpha Blue, and Margaret Mentzer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. O. Mentzer, were among the Kosciusko county students who received degrees from Indiana University at the commencement exercises held Sunday afternoon.

MARRIAGE LICENSE

A marriage license has been issued by the county clerk to James R. Smith, 23, machinist, son of Mr. and Mrs. Rex E. Smith, of Warsaw and Mary Lou Eherenman, 17, telephone operator, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cloice B. Eherenman, also of Warsaw.

BLEACHERS ERECTED AT CAMP

The Kosciusko County Dairy Association has completed the installation of bleachers at the McClure Lake Camp. They are on the lake front and north of the clubhouse. These will be used for vesper services.

Both labor and cost of materials were donated by the County Dairy Association. This generosity, which has been expressed by various groups and individuals, is the outstanding reason for the progress and success of Camp McClure.

BIG PLANS
FOR JULY 4

Lions Club Sponsoring Evening Program of Fireworks, Circus and Softball

The subject of a Fourth of July celebration at Mentone came up for discussion at a recent Lions Club meeting and the members responded enthusiastically. They said, "No reason why Mentone can't put on a show as big as any other little town," and judging by the program that has been arranged they're going to do it in a big way.

The evening program will start off with a mammoth "kid" circus and a number of prizes are offered in the various events. All youngsters are urged to dress up and get out their "music machines" for the big parade. George Clark is the chairman of this event and he will answer any questions the youngsters may have about it.

The well known Marion Colored Giants softball team will be a big feature of the evening. They'll tangle with the Mentone All Stars. This bunch of entertaining ball players played here last year and really put on an interesting show. A good preliminary game, we are told, is to be arranged.

The climax of the evening will be an old fashioned fireworks display, which includes 213 aerial pieces and a final ear-splitting good-night salute. The display will be handled by a licensed fireworks operator with several years of experience to assure absolute safety to all visitors.

There will be a few concessions where one can get a cool drink or a bite to eat.

MUSIC RECITAL

Mrs. Raymond M. Dodson and Miss Ruth Johnson will present a vocal and piano recital, Friday, June 20 at 8:00 p.m. at the Mentone Methodist Church.

Mrs. Dodson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rea H. Ward, has been a vocal student of the Barbereux School in Evanston, Illinois, for four years. With the assistance of her instructor, Cordelia Pardee, she has prepared a program to please her home town folks. She has been very fortunate in obtaining an outstanding pianist, Miss Ruth Johnson as co-partner in giving this program.

Miss Johnson has just received her Masters Degree in piano from Northwestern University. Her home is in Superior, Wisconsin, where she taught piano both privately and in the public schools of Wisconsin, prior to her study at Northwestern. This will be her second recital this spring. It will be as sparkling and successful as the first.

Miss Rowena Haymond, of Warsaw will accompany Mrs. Dodson at the piano.

Everyone is cordially invited to this recital. Check again the time and place. A free will offering will be taken.

GOODMAN - BLACKFORD

On Saturday evening, June 7, Miss Pat Goodman, granddaughter of Mrs. Dora Goodman, was united in marriage to Charles Blackford, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Blackford, Tippecanoe.

The double ring ceremony was performed by Rev. Hill at his home here. The bride wore an aqua suit, and had a corsage of sweet peas. Her accessories were black. Miss Connie McChesney, as bridesmaid, wore a grey suit and also had a sweet-pea corsage. Harold Elkins was best man.

A reception for about 36 guests was held at the Blackford home following the ceremony. A lovely three tier wedding cake, topped by a miniature bride and groom was the main feature.

The newlyweds are residing with his parents for the time being.

OLD HOTEL BUILDING
SOLD TO FRANK SAEMANN

A deal was completed Friday in which Byron Peterson sold his 133-foot front lot on the south side of Main st. to Frank Saemann. The parcel, on which is located the old hotel building, is only 75 feet deep, but it is reported Mr. Saemann also secured the rear 75-foot strip upon which the American Legion had originally planned to build.

Present plans are to raze the old frame structures and construct a new modern 150 x 132 factory building on the site. Actual construction, we are told, is expected to take place this summer. Mr. Peterson reserved the building in which his store is located and it is thought this will be moved to a new location.

Mr. Saemann, who has a number of faceories in Mentone and vicinity, has purchased several thousand dollars worth of painting equipment, which includes special heat or violet ray lamps for quick baking of paints and enamels, and this equipment will be placed in the new building. Some of this is now being stored just south of the depot.

Saturday Mr. Peterson purchased the goodwill and merchandise of the C. & C. Hardware from Mr. and Mrs. Adam Carper. Inventory will start the first of next week and Mr. Peterson plans to have it open for business again about June 27th.

Subsequent moves include the moving of the machinery and equipment of the Lake City Machine Shop from the old hardware building, next to the printing office and then Mr. Peterson will move the hardware stock to this room, which he owns. When the C. & C. room is available, then Mr. and Mrs. Cooper expect to expand their variety store into the two business rooms.

CAR DAMAGE IN COLLISION

The car driven by Malcolm Long was damaged in a collision with a truck belonging to the Palumbo Distributing Co., of Logansport, last Friday evening.

The accident occurred on the bridge just west of town on road 25, at about 6 o'clock.

The Long car was damaged to the extent of around $75, Marshal Ivo Wagner reported, while the truck had very little damage.

NEW BOOKS

Aurora Dawn — Herman Wouk

The author of this book, Herman Wouk, is a young American writer who has boldly set at defiance the entire modern bare-bones school of writing derived from the early Hemingway. He uses the great English language in all its beautiful values, rather than regarding it as a device to be ashamed of, boiled down, or pared away.

This novel is concerned with radio. It is not only the Tweedledum-Tweedledee antics of the Aurora Dawn soap advertisers that make this the warm laughing tale it is. It is not only the richly gratifying original plot involving striking new characters.

It is Mr. Wouk's views on humanity and folly in general. And it is his humor, no less entertaining for being grave and subtle instead of feverish and vengeful.

You will be absorbed in the love triangle of naive Andrew Reale with the black-haired heiress and the luscious, golden-haired model. You will be astonished, moved, and overjoyed by the nation-wide turmoil known as the Aurora Dawn riot.

Read this and discover the modern comic classic.

Anna and the King—Margaret Landon

This is the new version especially for young people of the story told in "Anna and the King of Siam".

It is the story, fantastic but true, of the young woman who went to Siam to teach English and much else—to the large family of the King of Siam. He was a lively, wise but comical king, and he needed some teaching himself. And Anna, too, learned a great deal during her years in the palace. She learned about the mysteries and terrors of the harem, the pleasures and cruelties of the rulers, the romance, the longings, and the generosity of the women and girls who thronged the inner "City of Women". Some of the unhappy women she was able to save from terrible punishments, some she could not save, and some drew from teaching the spirit of democracy. Perhaps most important was her influence on the young prince, who later became king and made great reforms in his country. President Abraham Lincoln had to decline politely a gift of two elephants from the King of Siam, but Lincoln's own gift to Siam was that ideal of freedom which has inspired the little nation ever since.

This book is best suited to readers from the ages of 12 to 16.

U.N. Gets $8,500,000 for Headquarters

Shaking hands over the gift that paved the way for United Nations headquarters in New York, Secretary-General Trygve Lie (center), representing the United Nations, accepts an $8,500,000 check from John D. Rockefeller III (right), who acts for his father. Looking on is New York's Mayor William O'Dwyer. The $8,500,000 gift from John D. Rockefeller, Jr., will be used to purchase the U. Beets Are Good Appetizers

Small pickled beets add a colorful and appetizing note to meals the year 'round. Your home canning schedule should include them. Here is an excellent recipe taken from the famous Ball Blue Book on home canning:

- 1 gallon small beets
- 2 cups sugar, or 1 cup sugar and 1 cup corn sirup
- 1 long stick cinnamon
- 1 tablespoon allspice
- 3½ cups vinegar
- 1½ cups water

Cook and skin beets. Add sugar and spices to vinegar and water. Simmer 15 minutes. Add beets. Boil five minutes. Pack beets into hot jars. Cover with boiling sirup. If not enough sirup to cover, add more vinegar. Process five minutes in hot water bath.

Firm-ripe cherries, currants, red raspberries or strawberries may be used for sun-cooked preserves. Cherries should be washed and seeded; currants washed and stemmed; strawberries washed and capped. Drain and weight the fruit. Work with small batches, using equal amounts of sugar and fruit. Place fruit and sugar in alternate layers in a broad pan. Let stand overnight. Heat slowly to boiling and boil six minutes. Spread in shallow trays and cover with window glass. Allow air space on all sides. Let the mixture stand in the sun for three days, or until the sirup begins to jell and the fruit is plump. Stir gently two or three times daily. Do not keep the mixture out of doors overnight. Pack into hot Ball jars and process 15 minutes at simmering.

PEACE COULD START WITH YOU

Can you but admire the palm tree? A mere taste of wind and its branches nod happily. We use its lofty palms as a symbol of peace. Yet lofty as they wave they are not too high to reach if we go about it right. And neither is peace — of soul; of nations.

Have you wondered where the palm tree grows naturally? Yes, by an oasis in the desert. But what about its roots? The Arabs have a saying something like this, "A palm tree stands with its feet in salt water, but opens its arms to God."

This is very true for a desert traveler often cannot drink of the brackish water in an oasis. But he can break the palm limbs and drink a sweet nourishing sap.

Can we not draw a wonderful parable from this? It does not matter where our feet must needs be, we can store up in our inner-self, sweetness. Those who pass our way may be encouraged, may be nourished in an hour of despair by seeing one other who has not let go of goodness; because, while his feet may stand in brackish water, his arms, his eyes could rise to God.

When we will learn that there is not one thing, not any thing that can hurt our inner-self, but ourselves; then faces will reflect a happiness, a peace of soul and a peace of mind, that would be very contagious.

Yes, peace could start with you!

Mentone Girl.

BUSHMEN RETURN

Frank Molebash, Raymond Cooper and Artley Cullum of Mentone, and Glen Bradshaw, of Marion, returned to Mentone Sunday evening after a week's trip to northwestern Ontario fishing. Rain eliminated two days of fishing, but the gang managed to snare quite a number of the northern "minnows". Two of the boys saved a few of the larger ones the last afternoon and still brought home about 70 lbs. of dressed fish.

Richard Manwaring and Earl Shinn are leaving Saturday with another party to the same camp. Earl will probably want to fill the Locker Plant with fish when he finds out how easy it is to catch them.

CAMP TECUMSEH OPENS FOR 24th SEASON

Camp Tecumseh - the annual vacation grounds for hundreds of Indiana's boys and girls, will open its doors to normal boys and girls between the ages of 9 to 14, who come properly recommended, regardless of whether they come from a community having a local YMCA or not, it was announced by L. O. Denio, Camp Director, in special statement recently.

"While it is true that Camp Tecumseh is owned and operated by the State YMCA of Indiana, and that many of our campers do come from communities in which there is YMCA, we want the boys and girls of Northern Indiana to know that they are most welcome at Camp Tecumseh," said Mr. Denio. "Last year, several hundred boys enjoyed the camp who came from districts where there were no Y's, and the number promises to be larger this summer. Two ten-day periods have been set aside for boys: June 24 to July 4, and, July 5 to July 15. A boy may sign up for one or both periods. Two one week periods for girls come later in the summer, the first one starting July 27 and running thru August 3, the second, August 3rd to 10th. Insofar as it is possible, groups coming from given communities will be allowed to remain together."

CAMP TECUMSEH is situated on the banks of the Tippecanoe River, 8 miles west of Delphi, which is the camp post office. It has over 200 acres of play space for its campers - with a fine campus for athletics merging into plenty of woods, hills and valleys. "Outpost" camping is a popular part of camp life. The campers sleep well in well ventilated cabins which gives them plenty of fresh air, yet offers adequate protection against the elements. A spacious lodge provides fine recreational facilities. The kitchen and dining rooms are large and airy. Boating and swimming are always popular sports at camp, but all kinds of crafts, including nature study, leathercraft, photography and airplane making are included in the day's order. Archery and riflery are popular skill-crafts and each camper who wishes, gets a chance to improve his or her skill. A camp "Canteen" provides campers with materials for camp crafts as well as a prescribed amount of refreshments.

CAMP TECUMSEH is owned and operated by the State YMCA of Indiana, and as such is run entirely at cost. The fee pays only the current operating costs. Boys or girls interested in attending the camp this summer, should write Camp Tecumseh, Delphi, Indiana, for the camp folder and other information.

BASE LINES

By Paul Rush

The two ball games played Monday night presented an interesting contrast for the spectators. The people who were there witnessed probably the poorest and best softball games they will see this summer.

Burket trounced the High School 24 to 3 on 13 hits while committing only one error. The High School boys made 5 hits and received 4 errors. The final outcome can be explained by inexperience of the High School boys team. However, give them credit, they kept trying right down to the last out.

The second game was a brilliantly played ball game. Tippecanoe finally won out over Bryan's chicks 3 to 2 by scoring two runs in the last half of the seventh.

Stouder and Brockey both pitched beautiful ball all the way. Tippecanoe had three runs, three hits, and one error. Bryan's chicks made two runs, three hits and no errors.

Tuesday night games were rained out.

MOTORCYCLE THRILL SHOW

Sunday the Devil Drivers will take over the thrill arena in front of the grandstand at the Bourbon fair grounds and present their daring exhibitions for which they have become internationally famous.

Two score or more of these dare devils will put their motorcycles thru their paces, in a two hour program packed with chills, spills and thrills. Racing at neck breaking speeds, leaping through space and through dozens of intricate feats of speed and daring, are but a few of the many hazardous stunts. The Devil Drivers take this all in a day's work. Steel nerves, strong physique and fearless daring are required to perform these stunts.

Split second timing, precision response and expert handling are all required to perfect these feats without mishap or accident. These drivers have spent years perfecting these stunts. Even when miscalculation occurs, the Devil Drivers must be prepared to take all the abuse which might happen and they must be able to think and act fast to protect their own life and limbs.

Never before has such a complete Motorcycle Thrill Show been combined with the speed of Champion of Races.

FLAG DAY FORGOTTEN BY ALL BUT FLAG ON COURT HOUSE POLE

Only the court house flag flew over the city today.

It flew as a solitary reminder to the people of Rochester that Saturday appears in the American calendar of events as Flag Day. Apparently all save the custodians of the large flag forgot the day set aside to honor Old Glory.

The original Flag Day was proclaimed on June 14, 1777, when the American Congress proclaimed that day as the day of the Stars and Stripes and of the American nation. Usually flags are prominently displayed by the merchants and home owners.

Today a lone sentinel guarded the bulwarks of liberty.

Whatever the weatherman may say, indisputable proof that spring is truly here and summer is on the way comes from the ever-faithful circus, most reliable harbinger of fair weather to come. CONSERVATIONIST PREDICTS
RECORD FISHING SEASON

John H. Nigh, director of the Indiana Department of Conservation, recently predicted a record fishing year for Indiana sportsmen.

With approximately 750,000 persons holding licenses, nearly half of them free veterans' permits, Nigh said the department's enforcement branch expects record use of Hoosier lakes and streams . . . and, along with it, a corresponding record in law violations.

The Monday morning season opening turn-out was heavy, Nigh said, and good weather this week-end will result in a tremendous outpouring of waltonians. Streams and lakes cleared rapidly this month.

Bag limits in existence last year have not been changed, the Conservation director said. Limit on bluegill, red-eared sunfish, crappies and rock bass remains at 25 while the half-dozen limit still prevails for bass, pike, pickerel, and wall-eyes. There is no limit on yellow perch.

Limit on trout is 15, with the trout season closing August 31.

Nigh pointed out that the bag limits listed are aggregate limits. For example: six bluegills, three red-ears, 12 crappies and four rock bass make up a day's total and fisherman catching 25 of any single species is not entitled to hold any of the others. The same is true in regard to bass, wall-eyes, pike and pickerel. The aggregate limit is six.

Natural gas for home production is to be produced in Colombia, the gas being delivered to homes in 100 pound cylinders ready for use in stoves, water heaters and refrigerators.

It's smart to use the sturdy cotton fabric of many flour and feed bags for home uses. Shortages and high prices of textiles make the use of bagging a wise economy. This material is used by thrifty housewives for almost every fabric use. ## FAITH DEMANDS OBEDIENCE

FAITH

"For God so loved the world, that he gave his only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in him, should not perish, but have eternal life."

Jno. 3:16 A.R.V.

OBEDIENCE

"He that believeth on the Son hath eternal life; but he that obeyeth not the Son shall not see life, but the wrath of God
abideth on him."

Jno. 3:36 A.R.V.

The first quoted scripture is possibly the best known verse of the Bible. Almost every man or woman and many of the children can easily quote it from memory, and it is the sole basis for the religion of many. It is human to try to attain the desired result with the least amount of effort; and if all one has to do to be saved is just to believe in the Lord, then the acceptance of this passage of scripture to the exclusion of all else affords the proper basis.

The second passage quoted, though it is contained in the same chapter of the same gospel, and spoken by the same Lord, is relatively obscure in the knowledge of many who are professed Christians. Can it be so because its conditions are harder to comply with, in that it adds obedience to faith as a requisite to being saved? From this same Lord comes this saying: "Not every one that saith unto me Lord, Lord, shall enter into the kingdom of heaven; but he that doeth the will of my Father which is in heaven." Matt. 7:21.

He will continue to live in Bristol for the time being.

STATE OFFICIALS ASK 'MERCY' FOR BIRDS AND ANIMALS

Indiana Department of Conservation officials recently issued a plea to motorists asking for "mercy for our wildlife."

Hoosier nature lovers who travel by automobile for years have collected figures revealing an almost unbelievable loss of wild animals run over on main highways. Housewives and hungry persons throughout the state were particularly aroused during the war shortage eras.

Latest amateur statistician to report is Herman Rodgers of Knox, who sent his information to OUTDOOR INDIANA, official state conservation magazine. Clocking 25,000 miles in automobiles over the highways of North Central Indiana, Mr. Rodgers has counted lying dead on the road, 149 rabbits, 35

SPECIAL LAKE ISSUE PLANNED

The Mentone Merchants' Association is planning a special of the Co-op. News for next week for our two neighboring lakes—Yellow Creek and Beaver Dam. Several hundred extra copies of the issue will be printed and distributed to all the cottages at the two lakes, and it is expected that they will include historical sketches of the lakes.

Merchants desiring to have their advertising messages in the issue should arrange to have their copy in the printing offices by Tuesday morning.

ATTEND MEDICAL MEETING

Dr. and Mrs. Dan L. Urschel and Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Abbey returned to Mentone on Sunday, after a two week trip to the east coast.

Mr. and Mrs. Abbey spent the entire period visiting relatives in Pennsylvania, their home state.

Dr. and Mrs. Urschel spent the first week in Philadelphia, Baltimore, and Washington. During this period Dr. Urschel took an examination in Cardiovascular Diseases at the Philadelphia General Hospital, and was certified as a specialist in this branch of Internal Medicine.

The second week was spent at the annual meeting of the American Medical Association, which was held in Atlantic City. This meeting was attended by approximately 15,000 physicians from all parts of the country, and was notable in the presentation of many wartime developments in the treatment of diseases and injuries. Dr. Urschel spent his time in the section for Cardiovascular Diseases, in which the most dramatic developments were as regards the surgical treatment of certain types of heart disease. Drs. Taussig and Blalock of Johns Hopkins University, the originators of the widely publicized operation for cyanotic congenital heart disease (blue babies), were present, as were Dr. Robert Gross of Boston, and Dr. Willis Potts of Chicago, who have also pioneered in the same work. Many other new developments in the diagnosis of heart disease were presented and discussed, but the surgical treatment of these hitherto hopeless cases has received so much attention that it was natural that interest was focused on this phase of the subject.

Dr. R. L. Sensenich, of South Bend was elected president of the American Medical Association for 1948.

MERCHANTS ASSOCIATION OFFERING FISH PRIZES

The Mentone Merchants' Association, at their regular meeting Monday evening at the city hall, voted to sponsor a fishing contest during the lake season. Four prizes are offered and every fisherman—and even those who aren't—are invited to try for the cash awards.

Display cards will be placed at all official weighing stations, and these these will be found in all nearby lake resort business places as well as at Mentone, where fisherman may officially enter their fish.

Ten dollars will be paid to the fisherman with the largest catch (by weight) of six bass. Five dollars will be paid to the one catching the largest single bass.

Bluegill fishermen can compete for a ten dollar prize for the biggest string of 25 or five dollars for the largest single bluegill.

K. A. Riner is chairman of the committee in charge.

ALL-STARs vs. STEVEN'S OILERS

We sincerely hope that Friday night, June 20, the All-Stars will finally be able to play their first game.

Steven's Oilers, of Plymouth will provide the competition. They have a season's record of four wins and one loss. At present they are leading the league at Plymouth. This should be a very good game.

Game time - 8:00 p. m.

MENTONE 4-H CLUB IN SESSION THURSDAY NIGHT

The Mentone 4-H club discussed the approaching 4-H club Round-up at Purdue university during a meeting held at the school building Thursday night.

Particular emphasis was placed on the poultry phase of the round-up, since the Mentone 4-H poultry judging team, which placed fifth in district competition, will take part in state round-up judging. Members of the team include Lloyd and Floyd Thomas and Forrest and Kenneth Dunnuck.

A film dealing with the beef cattle of the Evansville 4-H club fair was shown together with two comedy pictures.

Billy Reed, the club president, was in charge of the session, and Cliff Breeden, assistant county agent, was present. Refreshments were served.

DOG MANGLES GIRL AT
SOFTBALL GAME WEDNESDAY

Janet Ann, the three-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dale Tucker, was badly bitten over the eye, head and forehead Wednesday evening when she was attacked by a dog at the softball diamond. Evidently the dog became offended at the youngster's attention and the first thing bystanders knew the child was down on the ground and the dog was chewing at her head. One bite stripped a piece of skin about three-fourths of an inch wide and nearly two inches long from her eyelash up her forehead. Twelve stitches were required to put the skin back in place. Thursday other bites were found on the youngster's skull.

There is an ordinance (No. 74) on the town's records that requires that any dog left loose or on leash within the corporate limits of Mentone must be muzzled between June 1 and September 1 each year. The penalty for violation is that the animal can be disposed of by the town marshal or any other individual designated by the town trustees.

PLANS NEAR COMPLETION FOR FOURTH OF JULY

The Lions committee in charge of arrangements for the July Fourth celebration announce that plans are rapidly nearing completion for the big evening July 4th.

The club members will have concessions on the grounds where visitors may secure fish, hamburger or hot-dog sandwiches and pop and ice cream bars.

Due to the large attendance expected, no autos will be permitted inside the playground area, assuring all visitors a fine view for the evening's attractions.

A report on the kid circus will be found elsewhere in this issue.

AMERICAN LEGION SOFTBALL

The Mentone Post No. 425 of the American Legion is scheduled to play the American Coating Mills of Elkhart, on Wednesday evening, July 2. Game time is 8:00 p.m. at the Veteran's Field in Mentone.

Interesting games will be scheduled for each Wednesday night of this summer. Plan to attend regularly and join in the fun.

SPECIAL ISSUE FOR LAKE DISTRIBUTION

This issue of the Co-Op. News is being distributed to all the business places and cottages at Beaver Dam and Yellow Creek Lakes, and contains news stories about the two lakes. Distribution and cost of the venture is borne jointly by the Mentone Merchants' Association and the Co-Op. News. The editor herewith extends his thanks and appreciation to the business people at the lakes for their splendid cooperation in supplying the information for the news stories, and to the Mentone Merchants for the fine way in which they have assisted in the numerous details involved.

There is no intention on the part of Mentone citizens to impose upon the business interests of the lake merchants, but it is hoped that by close cooperation of everyone, the stay of visitors at the lake will be more pleasant and satisfying. Vacationists, especially, like to visit other nearby places while staying at the lakes, and Mentone Merchants extend a special invitation to them to visit their city at any time.

May your stay at the lake this summer be a pleasant one, and we trust that when vacation time arrives again that you will return.

DAUGHTER INJURED BY COW

On Sunday evening at about six o'clock, Patsy Lee, the 10-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Deibert Hunter, of near Mentone was attacked by a cow. She was knocked to the floor near a concrete manger. Fortunately Mr. Hunter was near enough to come to his daughter's aid, but not before the cow had inflicted some painful injuries.

Patsy's right arm was broken near the shoulder and she suffered painful bruises over her chest, back and hips. She was rushed to the Woodlawn hospital in the Johns ambulance where she remained for several days.

BURGLARS VISIT MAYER
GRAIN CO. ELEVATOR

Wednesday evening, of last week, burglars broke into the Mayer Grain Co. elevator and walked off with a 21-jewel watch. Mr. Greulich, manager of the elevator, has "entertained" similar visitors on six previous occasions and had been expecting them for some time. The safe was unlocked but the intruders hammered the combination off anyway, possibly not aware of the fact that it was unlocked.

The Etna Elevator was robbed the same evening, and the following two nights three break-ins were reported at North Webster.

ANIMAL HEALTH COLUMN ...

By R. A. MARRIOTT

(The following letter was received from C. A. Bottorf, D.V.M., director of Poultry Research, Lederle Laboratories, and because of the interest in this subject, is reprinted intact.)

"Sulmet, brand of Sulfamethazine, Lederle, is one of the new sulfonamides that has been found to have more activity against a wider range of bacterial infections than those previously used. This drug is highly effective in the treatment of pullorum disease, acute fowl cholera, and cecal coccidiosis in poultry. Preliminary studies indicate that it shows promise also in the treatment of diseases that affect other farm animals. Sulmet has the advantage of maintaining its activity for a period of approximately 24 hours following the initial dose, in comparison with other sulfonamides which lose their effectiveness in 6 to 12 hours because of rapid elimination from the body.

Pullorum disease is, primarily, a septicemic infection of baby chicks. The highest percentage of infection in contracted during the first 4 or five days of life. Then, there is an increase in the rate of mortality which reaches its peak between the 12th and 14th days. The losses from pullorum disease decrease after the 14th day, and by the end of the 21st day nearly all the losses have stopped. By controlled experimental work, Sulmet has been found effective in reducing mortality from pullorum disease. In large groups of chicks where untreated controls showed a loss of 64%, the treated groups ranged between 8% and 12% mortality. Field experiments on the use of different drugs in the control of pullorum diseases have shown that treatment should be started before the chicks reach 2 weeks of age. Little or no benefit is derived when treatment is started after that time, because, in most cases losses are on the decline. The best results were obtained when the drug was fed as a prophylactic, beginning treatment when the chicks were one day old. The use of Sulmet in day old chicks is suggested in those from U. S. Pullorum Tested or U. S. Pullorum controlled flocks. Sulmet has been found to be ineffective in the elimination of pullorum disease in infected adult birds. Its use is not recommended in attempting to eliminate the infection in adult breeding flocks. The accurate diagnosis of pullorum disease in chicks is dependent upon isolation of the organisms from the dead chicks, and it often requires from 4 to 10 days to complete the bacteriological examination. It is suggested that if losses from expected cases of pullorum disease occur in a flock of baby chicks 4 to 8 days of age, treatment should be started immediately with medicated mash containing  $\frac{1}{2}\%$  Sulmet.

It is very important that Sulmet be mixed thoroughly with the feed. To make a uniform mixture, the contents of the  $\frac{1}{4}$  lb. package are mixed in 10 quarts (10 pounds) of mash. This mixture is then incorporated in about half of the remaining amount of mash to be used. Following the second thorough mixing, the mixture is thoroughly combined with the remainder of the mash. Feed the Sulmet-mash mixture to the chicks for two days, then use regular feed for four days. On the fifth day, feed the chicks the  $\frac{1}{2}\%$  medicated mash mixture. Again use regular feed for four days. If infection recurs, give the third one day feeding of the  $\frac{1}{2}\%$  Sulmet mash mixture on the tenth day following the end of the first treatment.

Sulmet has been found to be effective in reducing mortality in flocks infected with the acute or septicemic form of fowl cholera. At the present time, Sulmet is not recommended for the treatment of the chronic type of the disease. For the treatment of acute fowl cholera, the same recommendations given for pullorum disease is suggested. Losses can generally be brought to a minimum within a period of 2 days although repeated treatments are sometimes necessary before the outbreak can be completely controlled."

Sulmet has been found to be effective in controlling outbreaks of cecal coccidiosis. In addition, Sulmet is effective in much lower dosages than the majority of sulfonamides studied. 4/10 of 1% of Sulmet is needed to control an outbreak of coccidiosis as compared with 1% Sulfaguanidine, which makes the treatment cost about equal at this time. The same methods of treatment for coccidiosis with Sulfaguanidine should be followed with the use of Sulmet.

CORN GROWERS ADVISE TWO CULTIVATIONS

"How many times should corn be cultivated?" Indiana corn growers frequently ask.

A study of the records of 2,110 corn growers in the Five-Acre Corn Club who reported on the number of corn cultivations in 1946 shows that almost half of them or 1030, cultivated their crop twice. The number of growers who cultivated twice was larger than the total of those that cultivated three four or more times.

Average yields of those who cultivated their corn twice were better than that of those who cultivated their corn more than twice. This was true not only in 1946 but also in the four years preceding. Three-fourths of these corn growers used either the rotary hoe or harrow one or more times ahead of row cultivation.

Unfortunately, there is no rule of thumb guide to follow as to the number of cultivations required. The number varies with the kind of soil, the season and the use of tools in seed bed preparation and precultivation, such as the rotary hoe. Sometimes early plowing is followed by wet weather and this leads to a thick growth of weeds. If weather conditions are favorable and these weeds can be disced and destroyed the need for cultivation is reduced.

It is well established that weed control is the main benefit that comes from corn cultivation, especially on soils, particularly after beating rains, well prepared seed beds. On very heavy cultivation functions to aid soil aeration. Cultivation, after the first time should be shallow in order to avoid injury to the surface feeding roots. The surface layer contains most of the valuable plant food and so is more valuable as a feeding ground for corn roots than as a mulch to reduce loss of moisture. Once weeds are under control and the soil is friable, further cultivation is of little use, until the soil again becomes crusted.

OUTLINES BEEF HERD SUMMER-FALL CARE

Maintaining the beef cattle herd on pasture will cost only about one-half as much as when the herd is in dry lot. P. T. Brown, Purdue University extension animal husbandryman, points out in outlining summer care of the beef herd.

Not only is ample pasture from early spring to late fall necessary, but special effort should be made to provide adequate pasture for midsummer when blue grass is usually dry and dormant. During this period most herds lose weight. Milk production also drops and nursing calves become thin and unthrifty. Also the seeding of special pastures such as Balboa rye, that can be used in late fall, early winter or in the very early spring, will save on winter maintenance.

During warm weather, the good husbandman should protect herds against flies, lice and other parasites. These pests retard gains, produce unthrifty cattle and often stunt the growth of young animals. DDT sprays have proved successful in controlling flies and lice.

Calves need special attention at this time. In commercial herds the bull calves should be castrated by the time they are one month old. If calves are to be fattened for market during the winter, it is advisable to provide a creep so that they can run to shelled corn or mixture of two-thirds shelled corn and one-third whole oats. Creep-fed calves usually weigh 75 to 100 lb. more at weaning time than calves not fed grain. The too common set back at weaning time is not experienced with calves that have been given grain previously. It is important that purebred calves be fed grain at as early an age as possible. It may even pay to keep the calves in a grassy lot adjacent to an open shed or box stall where grain is fed regularly. Following these practices, gives the calves a distinctive bloom that cannot be obtained by other means.

Pre-weaning, feeding of grain to calves will permit the cows likewise to build up before the cold weather, the Purdue animal husbandryman advises. Cows can be wintered on less feed that are in good condition, and good fall pastures will put them in shape.

HEALTH FACTS FROM YOUR STATE BOARD OF HEALTH

Twins, triplets and quadruplets—how often do they occur in the United States?

Statistics released today from the Indiana State Board of Health show that over a five year period the National Office of Vital Statistics found out that among 1,000,000 confinements there were 9,800 pairs of twins, 86 sets of triplets and one set of quadruplets. That is about an average of .0009 pairs of twins for each confinement.

As to age — the chance of the mother bearing twins increased three times from 18 to 38 years. The probability of the parents having triplets reached a maximum at the same age and the chance for quadruplets also was greater at older ages.

There is no record of all-living quintuplets in the United States since births were first recorded in 1915. However, statisticians do know of quintuplets—born in 1896 in Kentucky but the babies lived only a few weeks.

The advantages of hospitalization to maternal health and to survival of twins during the first weeks of life are shown by statistics. When twins were born in hospitals both mates were born alive slightly more often than was the case with twins born outside of hospitals.

Syrup Minerals

The energy value of syrups is well known but only in recent years have we become interested in their mineral content. Sorghum and sugar cane syrup have a very high iron content. The farm-produced syrups evaporated in iron pans are especially high in iron, and research has shown that sorghum syrup is two and a half to five times richer in iron than cane syrup prepared by the same method. Both cane and sorghum syrups have a good deal of calcium, too.

CATTLE FEEDERS' DAY PLANNED FOR JULY 25

Hoosier cattle men will gather for the forty-second annual Indiana Cattle Feeders' Day to be held at the Miller-Purdue farm, located two miles east of Upland and five miles west Hartford City, Friday, July 25, it was announced by Prof. Claude Harper, head of the department of animal husbandry at Purdue University. The event is sponsored cooperatively by the Indiana Cattle Feeders Association and the university and is being held at the experimental farm rather than at the university.

An inspection tour of the steers on pasture will begin at 10 o'clock (DST) when results of studies of winter rations will be discussed by Dr. W. M. Beeson, who is in charge of this work at the Purdue Agricultural Experiment Station. Beeson will discuss the comparison of the nutritive value of various roughages, and combination of roughages with concentrates for wintering calves, the relation of the winter gains made by steer calves to later gains made on pasture and also comparison of the rate of growth and efficiency of beef produced by steers grazed on pasture with and without grain.

Discussion of grazing cattle on the Miller-Purdue farm will be continued by Dr. G. O. Mott, pasture specialist at Purdue. At this time visitors will observe the outstanding fields of permanent bluegrass-birds-foot trefoil mixture in comparison with four other pasture mixtures. These pastures are Ladino clover, brome grass, alfalfa and timothy which have been used alone or in combination.

The barbecue lunch at noon will be one of the highlights of the day. Guy Wilson, Kokomo, president of the Indiana Cattle Feeder's Association, will be in charge of the program and barbecue. Harper will accept reservations for the barbecue until July 10. Dr. N. J. Volk, associate director of the Agricultural Experiment Station at Purdue, will welcome the group and outline objectives of the research being carried on at the Miller-Purdue farm. J. W. Mitchell, Fort Worth, Texas, of the Texas Livestock Marketing Association, will discuss the cattle outlook and feeding situation.

10-MONTH PERIOD BRINGS $27,000 TO STATE FORESTS

State forests produced nearly $27,000 worth of marketable wood during ten months of 1946 and 1947, Indiana Department of Conservation officials said today.

Timber yielded $14,405 and fence posts brought $7,353. In the last few days before December 25 the Division of Forestry collected $4,563 for Christmas trees, and many others were given away to institutions and non-profit organizations.

Heaviest contributor to state coffers was the Morgan-Monroe state forest between Martinsville and Bloomington, where the revenue totaled $10,511. The Harrison forest ranked second with $4,956, and Clark produced $4,605.

State foresters explained they mark and sell all the timber standing and do not conduct actual logging operations, but fence posts are cut and sold at a standard price without bids being taken. Fuel-wood sold during the ten-month period amounted to only $76, and "greens" used by florists boosted the total by $96. A few poles and some charcoal was sold, and the Greene-Sullivan forest obtained $200 for pulpwood.

WHAT'LL YOU BE JULY 5TH?

What are you going to be doing on the day after the Fourth of July? Will you be planning to attend a funeral, or will you be the one for whom the bell tolls?

It's not a pleasant thought, but it is a very real possibility. Col. Robert Rossow, superintendent of Indiana State Police, points out that a common failing of us Americans is to try to cram our holiday fun into too short a time. Thagedy is, too often, the result.

He says, for example, that each July 4 several men, women, and children are killed in tragic accidents. Others are victims of boating, swimming and

THEY DO THEIR BEST, THEIR WAY TO PAY,
THEY WILL DO THAT AND MUCH MORE, TOO

MRS. ELVA RUSH, Warsaw

aying mishaps. Still others are injured or die in homemade fireworks blasts or of over-exertion. It seems that folks at play can find a variety of ways in which to do themselves harm.

Let's stop kidding ourselves that Independence day accidents cannot be prevented, or that each year the loss of life and injury is inevitable. Take Colonel Rossow's advice and use "common sense, extra care and courtesy." Prevent needless tragedy. Let's have fun this holiday, but let's have it safely.

Hot Water Facts and Figures

MATHEMATICALLY inclined? Take a look at some figures. If you are an average housewife you wash an acre of dishes, 5,000 feet of window glass and three miles of laundry every year. During the same period, your husband is busy shaving 38,000 square inches of face.

Regardless of the soap and elbow grease used in any of these jobs, it's hot water that does the greater share of the work. Today, with the accurate temperature selection of automatic gas water heaters, hot water at right temperatures in right quantities for every need has brought real luxury to the home-maker. She gets better results much more easily than was believed possible by yesterday's tea-kettle toters.

Gas provides a perfect water heating fuel because of its cleanliness, speed and economy. In suburban and farm homes, liquefied petroleum gas — the "tank" or "bottled" variety — gives the same service.

Exercise care when buying an automatic gas water heater. You'll find that operating expenses will be less and hot water worries will be forgotten if you buy for quality rather than for price. In many areas, your water heater should have a non-ferrous tank to prevent rust and control corrosion. Check with your gas company. Its recommendation will be a good one.

Source of Water

Almost all water is derived directly or indirectly from the ocean by evaporation, condensation in clouds and precipitation.

A Hunch for Brunch

By BETTY BARCLAY

Follow your hunch and prepare a bunch of muffins for your next "brunch". It's easy with a good muffin recipe in your file. Waffles and cookies are brunch foods too—thrifty, nutritious and tasteful. Here are your recipes:

Best-Ever Bran Muffins

- 1 cup sifted flour
- 3 teaspoons double-acting baking powder
- 2 tablespoons sugar
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 cup shortening
- 1 egg, well beaten
- 1/2 cup milk
- 1 1/4 cups 40% bran flakes

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder, sugar, salt, and sift again. Cut in shortening. Combine egg and milk and add all at once to flour mixture. To mix, draw spoon from side of bowl toward center (15 times) turning bowl gradually. Chop spoon through batter (10 times). Add flakes and mix (about 5 strokes). Turn into greased muffin pans, filling each about 3/4 full. Bake in hot oven (400° F.) 20 minutes, or until done. Makes 8 to 10 muffins.

Buttermilk Flakes Waffles

- 1 cup sifted flour
- 1/2 teaspoon soda
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1 cup wheat flakes
- 2 egg yolks, well beaten
- 1 cup buttermilk or sour milk
- 4 tablespoons melted butter or other shortening
- 2 egg whites

Sift flour once, measure, add soda and salt, and sift again. Add flakes and mix well. Combine egg yolks, milk and butter; add to flour mixture, beating only until smooth. Beat egg whites until they will hold up in moist peaks. Stir quickly but thoroughly into batter. Bake in hot waffle iron. Serve with maple-flavored syrup. Makes three 4-section waffles.

Raisin Bran Molasses Cookies

- 2 cups sifted flour
- 1/2 teaspoon double acting baking powder
- 1 teaspoon soda
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon cinnamon
- 1 1/2 teaspoons ginger
- 1/2 cup shortening
- 1/2 cup sugar
- 1 egg
- 1/2 cup molasses
- 1 1/2 tablespoons vinegar
- 2 tablespoons milk
- 1 cup raisin bran

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder, soda, salt, and spices, and sift again. Cream shortening, add sugar gradually, and cream together until light and fluffy. Add egg and beat well. Add molasses and vinegar; mix thoroughly. Add flour mixture, alternately with milk, mixing well after each addition. Add bran and blend. Drop from teaspoon on greased baking sheet. Bake in hot oven (400° F.) 8 minutes, or until done. Makes 15 dozen cookies.

RESTFUL VACATION SPOTS AT NEARBY LAKES

Yellow Creek and Beaver Dam Lakes Boast of Many Cottages, Good Fishing and Adequate Accomodations

Considerable effort was expended to gather information for this issue, but we are still rather disappointed in the results. We had hoped, through the cooperation of the State Department of Conservation and the State Department of Publicity, to have secured a number of full-view pictures of the lakes and definite histories. However, we are appreciative of the cooperation of the Indiana State Library for the brief sketches supplied from a state report issued in 1913-14.

Fishing, swimming and quiet surroundings make the two lakes ideal places for Indiana citizens to spend their brief but important vacation periods. They are far removed from the hectic hurry-and-rush urban areas—a spot where one can leisurely enjoy the warm summer sunshine, and cool, quiet evenings without the nerve-shattering blasts of nervous auto horns or screeching brakes. Telephone and door bells, too, are properly confined in the business sections.

The various bathing beaches are sand-covered and most of them are void of sudden, steep inclines into deep water, a fact which is appreciated by all parents.

The lakes contain a variety of fish and make interesting locations for every fisherman, whether he be a cane-pole, fly rod or bait-casting enthusiast. Many choice catches have been reported and numerous fine specimens have been proudly exhibited by "Tke" Waltons of the past.

We found, while interviewing the various business people at the two lakes, that everyone is thrilled and proud of their locations. They are very cooperative and have a definite interest in their visitors.

YELLOW CREEK LAKE

Yellow Creek Lake lies in the southeastern part of the county, and according to recent published statements contains some 225 acres. In shape the lake is almost oval, with here and there a slight irregularity in the shore line to form bays and points, the main axis extending east and west.

The water is clear and pure. Occasionally, however, when two or three days of high wind occur, the water over the shallows will be slightly colored from the marl deposits of the bottom. In the main, the formation of the bottom is gravel and sand. The lake does not attain a great depth, perhaps no place being more than twenty-five feet.

About one-fourth mile due west of Yellow Creek Lake is a basin of about 70 acres called Mud Lake. The two basins are connected by a dredged ditch, which does not carry sufficient water for the passage of a boat, except in the spring, when one can pass through by hard work. Mud Lake is deeper than Yellow Creek Lake; and it is fringed round its entire shore line with lily-pads and spatterdock. It is almost round, and the water is never clear, due to its muck bottom and its layer of decaying vegetation. There seems, however, to be good fishing in its small basin. At the eastern end of Mud Lake is an inlet. Yellow Creek, the stream draining the two basins, empties into the Tippecanoe a few miles to the northwest. The head of Yellow Creek is at the north shore of the lake.

The business establishments at the lake include:

Keller's Resort, operated by Mr. and Mrs. Delmon Keller, who came there in June, 1946. They have nine cottages for rental under their control and free movies are shown every Sunday night. There is a nice bathing beach and a large picnic area. In the store they handle a general line of merchandise for the lake trade—including, according to Mr. Keller, "everything but sugar." And they ordinarily have that.

The Beacon, operated by Mr. and Mrs. Russell Day, also has a complete line of groceries, meats, bait, ice, etc. They came to Yellow Creek in 1944 and operate an old established business near the hotel.

Mr. and Mrs. Hoover recently opened a small general store and have a number of cottages for rent.

The Yellow Creek Hotel, an imposing structure containing 11 sleeping rooms and a spacious dining room, also boasts of a nearby sand beach for bathing. Meals at the dining hall are now confined to reservations only but ordinarily have regular servings, at the height of the lake tourist season. Mr. and Mrs. Bill Huffine, who operate the hotel, came in 1945.

BEAVER DAM LAKE

Beaver Dam Lake, located to the southwest of Yellow Creek, comprises some 288 acres of water and is one of the few lakes that are supplied entirely by spring water. There is no inlet to the lake except from the flow of springs in its sand bottom. The lake is stocked annually with bass, bluegills, walleye, perch and crappies and was one of the model lakes selected a few years ago by the Conservation Department for experimental purposes. For two years there was no closed season on the lake, but fishermen were required to fish a certain distance from the stakes set to indicate spawning beds.

The outlet from Beaver Dam Lake empties into Loon Lake to the southeast.

Beaver Dam boasts of many more cottages than Yellow Creek.

The information supplied by the State Library states that "The name it received came from the fact that the lake was partially created by beavers throwing a dam across the path of a stream. Occasionally are found little mementos of the work in the way of a short bit of wood showing the teeth-marks of the beaver."

One of the newest business enterprises at Beaver Dam is the small grocery opened up by Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Thompson about two weeks ago.

They handles groceries, ice cream, cold drinks, meats, etc., and have two cottages to rent. The Thompsons have been residents at the lake since 1931. Mr. Thompson is an auto mechanic instructor and taught 15½ terms at Hammond Technical High School before moving to Beaver Dam.

Grant's Resort, operated by Mrs. Genth and son Richard, who came in 1946, handles a complete line of all services to be desired by vacationists. They have a complete line of fishing equipment, outboard motors, groceries, meats, magazines, fountain, lunch and dinner service, and outdoor movies are shown every Tuesday evening. Dancing is permitted and they have a fine bathing beach and bath house. They have seven cottages for which they handle the rentals.

Mr. and Mrs. Blythe Johnson have a fine little general store and are very enthusiastic about the lake and its fish. They are active in conservation club work and feel that their eight years spent in business there have been very enjoyable. (From some of the conversation heard while in the store, Mrs. Johnson isn't afraid of fish worms or night crawlers.)

The Sportsman's Club, or Beaver Dam Inn, is operated by Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Anderson and they operate a year-around dining room. They handle some groceries, candy, etc., and dancing is permitted in the spacious dining hall. They have a fine beach for swimming and have seven cottages for rent.

Engle Beach, operated by Margaret Engle since the death of her husband, is one of the most attractive bathing beaches for swimmers, it has both high and low diving boards and a fine sand bottom beach. There's also a float and a new pier, and a bath house is there for the convenience of swimmers. She has two cottages for rent, and handles candy and other refreshments.

Beaver Dam boasts of a fine Conservation club and trap shooting is enjoyed almost every Sunday. Ivan Warren is president and Trelba Pitton is secretary and treasurer. A trap shoot is to be held July 4th.

NEW BOOKS

American Oil Operations Abroad - by Leonard M. Fanning

This book provides the reader with new insight into the interesting oil situation. It tells how Americans ranged the earth, from neighboring lands to distant corners, in search of oil — reveals the scope of American interests and activities in each country — takes you behind the scenes of the never-ending quest for oil-rich areas. It depicts the significance and romance of oil field development — oil camps that grew into cities, the training of nationals to become drillers and technicians, the effect on living standards of the nations, etc. Entirely from the American point of view the book factually discusses the extent of our investments. The unique problems involved in oil deals with foreign lands, and the outlook for the future in world oil.

A Fast Man with a Dollar - by Robert Avery

When Luke Towers, former con man, met the artist, Austin Biers, in a Saugatuck tavern, and was offered five thousand dollars to find Christine Corbett, he thought he saw an easy way to repay Roy Lacklan, who had falsely accused Towers of defrauding him of that amount — and had threatened to prosecute.

But when Towers was suspected of murder, he revised his opinion about earning easy money. Towers had gone to Port Reading to see the Lawyer Whipple — upon hearing that Whipple had located Christine — and had found him murdered! Suspicion pointed to Towers; to Herndon, an automobile mechanic, on the premises at the time of the murder; and to a mysterious woman who had been seen in the vicinity.

Continuing his search for Christine, the case became even more puzzling for Towers when he found Christine Corbett playing a musical comedy on Broadway — for the girl bore not the slightest resemblance to the description he had been given of Christine Corbett.

When Towers accuses Herndon of the murder of Whipple, Robert Avery's spine-chilling story moves swiftly to its dramatic denouement.

White Shadows - by Winifred Wadell

The Brandon's had greeted Brad Brandon's wife, slender, blonde, level-headed Christine, with politeness, but underneath the politeness there had been a thinly veiled hostility. She was lonely, yes, but what of her family? Was she good enough for a Brandon? upon the suitable wife for Brad, when Long ago, the Brandons had decided the time came for him to marry. Sally Prue Sands, only daughter of the leading doctor in the small Alabama town, would be an ideal wife they had all agreed. And Brad, they felt, had spoiled everything by falling in love with a nobody — although, as Aunt Teenie said, Christine did have the "instincts of a lady."

To Christine, raised on a Colorado ranch, life in the lazy old Southern town was strange — and a little bewildering — and Brad's family relations to numerous to cope with. It was only when she went back to Colorado for a visit that Christine learned to appreciate the Brandons, and they, in turn, came to appreciate her honesty and sincerity.

But Christine had left the field open for Sally Prue, and Sally Prue was letting no grass grow under her feet. Would Brad be man enough to stand the test?

Rheumatic Fever

Next to painful joints, the most characteristic symptom of rheumatic fever is chorea, or, as it is more generally called, St. Vitus' dance. Approximately one half of the children with rheumatic fever have had chorea at some time or other. It begins as an unusual form of nervousness or awkwardness and is often first noticed at school. It usually becomes more pronounced later as purposeless jerking movements of the arms, the legs, and the face. It may even temporarily affect the speech.

Canned Berries Need Little or No Sugar

Many of the berry family will go into jars without sugar at all and keep perfectly for later use. If you want to be famous for delicious blueberry or huckleberry muffins, canning without sugar is preferred. To can blueberries or huckleberries for use in muffins, place two or three quarts of cleaned berries in a square of cheesecloth. Gather up the corners of the cloth and allow the berries to dip into boiling water until spots appear on the cloth. Then dip quickly in and out of cold water. Pack into hot Ball jars. Add neither sugar nor liquid. Process 20 minutes in hot water bath.

Other berries, except strawberries and red raspberries should be heated slowly until the juice runs free before being placed in jars for processing. If sugar is short in your household, can any berries by processing 10 minutes in hot water bath after cleaning, crushing, and stewing them in their own juice. If you have sugar, jams will, of course, use less of your supply than preserves. When you are using corn sirup as part of the sugar required, remember to cook the jam a little longer, in small batches, and stir often.

SUN SPOTS TO BLAME

The following clipping may throw some light on our cool, wet weather as this summer of 1947 comes in the 11 year cycle mentioned.

"Cold? Blame Spots on Sun
June 5, 1936 - Another meteorologist, H. H. Clayton, of Massachusetts, believes the sun spots which are now increasing in their 11-year cycle will bring colder weather. This prediction is made on the basis of studies of previous effects of sunspots. He says that in the next four years there will be one and perhaps two cold winters and springs, and one or two cool and wet summers. He sees another dry period for the eastern United States from 1944 to 1949.

Corn Yield Increases

In only five of the past 50 years has the harvested acreage of corn been smaller than in 1945. The harvested acreage was lower in 1898, 1939, 1940, 1941 and 1945. A record yield averaging 37.1 bushels to the acre on a relatively small acreage produced the nation's largest corn crop.

TESTS POINT OUT 'NATURAL CAUSES' TAKE GAME FISH

Fifty percent of legal-size game fish in the state die from natural causes, according to the July issue of Outdoor Indiana, The Indiana Department of Conservation's official magazine, which was received at the post office recently.

An article written by Dr. W. E. Ricker, director of the state Lake and Stream Survey, reveals the results of tests made at hatchery ponds — tests in which several kinds of fish were measured when planted in the spring, and again when the ponds were drained in the autumn. Figures show that bass survive the warm months better than other species.

Bass, the Hoosier angler's favorite quarry, increased in total weight, although some of them disappeared, while bluegills and red-ear sunfish "did not fare so well." Neither did perch and crappies.

Ricker's principal interest in the investigation was in establishing the causes of mortality. He discounts predation and disease, which leaves old age as the apparent reason for death. "It would seem," Ricker writes, "the fish died secretly and gradually . . . These seemed literally to have wasted away."

The writer is not certain whether mortality of this sort should be called "natural" but he reaches at least one definite conclusion; namely, if the large fish are going to die anyhow, they might as well be fished out by sportsmen. The title of the article is "They Die Anyhow."

THE COOPERATIVE CITY

The North Dakota wind may blow dry dust over the wheatfields again; but the farmers of Williams County believe they have found a lasting shield against starvation

By ALDEN STEVENS

The North Dakota wind may blow dry rust over the wheatfields again; but the farmers of Williams County believe they have found a lasting shield against starvation.

When brown snow fell in 1931 it set the dust bowl people thinking about the millenium, too. In Williston, N. D., their answer was to establish what is probably the most complete and best balanced group of cooperatives in any town in the United States.

Now the land is dry again and the wind is blowing. Another serious drought must be regarded as a possibility. I wanted to find out how the farmers in one of the hardest hit corners of the Great Plains, men who had seen the dry dust blot the sun before and seen prosperity again in years that followed it, felt about their outlook now. I wanted to know more about the co-ops they had established to protect themselves from another wheatless year.

This Thing Is Wheat

Driving under the cloudless sky of North Dakota gives one a rough idea of the magnitude and of the variety in America. Across the endless fields of waving wheat tall elevators mark a town's location. Like the lofty steeples in New England which show that a village lies beneath the mask of tall green trees, these towering iron storehouses are symbols of the region's life. By their invariable presence they emphasize that here is one all-absorbing thing, that the people's food and clothing and in fact their whole lives depend upon it, and that this thing is wheat.

Williston is the county seat of Williams County. It is a flat rather ordinary looking town on the Great Northern railway. Men and women, plainly dressed drive old cars in to shop and talk. The main street has the usual drug stores, chain stores, movie theatre and old hotel. It is a drab town, on the whole, the sort of town the average tourist would drive on through without even stopping for a coco-cola. The Missouri River flows past it, but you scarcely see it from the highway here.

Dull it may be as a town. But here men survived dry wind and dust when not even a turnip would sprout. Here they remember the years when each sun-licked acre dropped its yield from twenty-five to ten to five bushels, when finally a thousand acre tract bore no wheat at all. One family traveled regularly eleven miles to gather Russian thistle for their remaining bony cow—they had eaten their other stock or sold it for almost nothing because they could not feed it. For weeks they ate nothing but milk and beans. They were luckier than some of their neighbors whose cows had died and who had no beans.

Williston today is a far different place. The war brought higher prices, and crops were good. Its grim years have made it somewhat different from the average farm community; there is something now that makes it seem, when you spend a little time there, a happy, confident town.

The Years of the Hopeless Acres

To explain how this came about, let's go back for a moment to a drought year in the early thirties, when one day a banker scurried into the sheriff's office with a harried look on his face.

"There's going to be trouble," he said. "I want protection."

The tall man with the star looked at his visitor coolly.

"I was hoping you'd call it off. But I'll be there to keep the peace, and I don't think you'll get hurt."

Next morning the sheriff and a deputy drove along a dusty highway. The wind blew from a cloudless sky, and yet they could not see the sun. The bleak road, and the fields on either side, were powdery grey. They could see no grass, no growing crops, no trees but yellow skeletons. In these terrible, dry dust bowl years the few crops that grew were small and withered, and wheat died hot and parched on the hopeless acres.

The sheriff turned into a farmyard where a score of silent overalled men stood in motionless groups. The windmill creaked as it pumped a thin trickle of water into the great wooden tank supported man-high on a framework of cut tree trunks. There were neither chicken, pigs, nor cows on this homestead; the only life visible which belonged to the place was the white face of a small boy pressed against the front window. Gusts spiraled sand against the painless house.

The auctioneer pounded his gavel and sing-songed through the court order for a foreclosure sale. Now he asked for bids, first on the single section of land—640 acres. There was a silent moment, and the first bid came, clear and meaningful.

"One Dollar."

It stamped this as a Farm Holiday auction. The man with the gavel had been through one of these, and he didn't propose to go through another. He gathered up his papers and started for his car. Two unshaven wheat farmers advanced on him and said:

"It's mine for a dollar."

"We'll have to hold another auction," the auctioneer answered.

"There'll be no other auction," said the man. "You can call for higher bids if you want to."

"No! I won't!"

One of the men turned to the other and mused, "Wonder how long a man could live if we dumped him in that water tank."

The auctioneer looked at the banker, who like himself was flanked by two husky farmers clearly capable of keeping him silent, then appealed to the sheriff for help.

"I'm here to keep the peace," said that officer. "So far it hasn't been violated, and I hope it won't be."

The two big men were moving in, and there was only one thing to do.

The auctioneer cleared his throat:

"Do I hear two dollars?"

"A dollar fifty."

"A dollar seventy-five."

There were no further bids on the land. The house followed for a dollar and a quarter, a Case tractor for eighty cents, a binder for thirty-five cents and a cultivator for thirty.

When the auction was over, the entire place had been sold for $480. The bank got this and the original owner got his place back free of any encumbrance.

Alfred Solberg, who has lived in North Dakota since 1904, told me that story, and with a smile he said:

"We only had one of those foreclosures around here. It worked out so well we were kind of sorry there weren't more. Of course, it's different now. There's hardly any mortgaged land, and besides, we have the Credit Union and do most of our farm business through the co-ops. We own those, we built 'em up, and we know we'll get a square deal."

Williston, during the worst of the 1931 depression and drought, suffered perhaps more than any other town in the country. Now its financial underpinning is sound and firm.

With the help and advice of the Farmers Union, men in this stricken community banded together to establish their own business houses, financed these themselves, and now control and manage them, sharing the profits and losses in proportion to the amount of business each man does.

If in the past, wheat has failed in North Dakota and men have known starvation, they are determined never to starve again, and the badge of their resolution is the shieldlike trademark of the Farmers Union Co-ops.

"We've been through the mill, said Sig Forseth, "and we're not going thru it again."

"You can do anything cooperatively here," said another co-op member, "except go to the movies, buy a new car, or get drunk."

It is amazingly true. A Co-op health plan now being brought to completion will help finance the birth of a child. If he grows up to be a farmer (and what North Dakotan doesn't?) he can buy a co-op tractor and farm equipment. He can save on gas and oil at the Farmers Union Oil Co-op, the biggest gas station in Williston. He can build a house with material bought at the co-op lumber yard. He can insure his property and his life at the Williston Insurance Lodge.

He will get the best possible price for his wheat and rye by selling it through the Farmers Union Central Exchange, which does the biggest grain business in town. It has a 217,000 bushel elevator, the largest cooperatively owned primary grain warehouse in the U. S. If he has a dairy herd, he knows the co-op creamery, largest plant of its kind in North Dakota, will give him a square deal, for he owns part of it. If he has beef cattle, he can sell through the co-op stockyard. Chicks, seed, feed, and freezer-locker space, as well as other farm supplies and services, are obtained cheapest from his own Farmers Union Grain and Supply Company, and he can have his eggs processed here in the state's largest incubator (capacity 240,000 eggs). He can buy staple foods, work clothing, drugs and other oddments, at the co-op market, largest home-owned Williston store.

When in town he can eat at the co-op cafeteria where the best food in town is available in glistening surroundings. He can buy electric power through the REA Co-op. If he needs a loan he can get it at a low rate from the Williston Co-op Credit Union, and he can put any surplus cash he may have into the same institution to earn a good rate of interest. And when he dies he can be buried from the Cooperative Funeral Home.

I talked with Henry Williams, county Farmers Union president, with Alfred Solberg, with Sig Forseth, who resigned from the North Dakota legislature to take over the management of the REA (Rural Electrification Administration) Co-op, and with the managers of every Williston co-op, as well as to members and non-members around town. I found they all regarded the cooperative simply as an efficient, flexible way of doing business, not in the least a religion or a political ism. The enterprises are, in fact, strictly nonpolitical. I asked Solberg how they had happened to form such a complete network. He shrugged and said:

"When your stomach is empty your brain starts working. We know we'll never be able to count on rain in this country. We know there'll always be years of drought now and then when we'll only get two or three bushels of wheat to the acre instead of a normal twenty or thirty."

But in the last drought this was comparatively new country. People didn't really know how the climate worked. We know, now, and these co-ops are partly protection against the next dry spell. We've all worked for them because we know we'll all need them, come the next bad year.

And Sig Forseth came in to say: The credit union was formed mainly because the oil co-op had been giving too much credit — just because members had to have tractor fuel to get a crop in but didn't have any money.

THE COOPERATIVE CITY—

We couldn't watch it go under, so we formed the credit union, got the money and loaned it to save the oil station. Now we have a capital of $673,000.

"During the worst days," Anton Novak told me, "we had nothing to eat but potatoes, and not many of them." The Red Cross wasn't interested because there had been neither a flood nor a cyclone, and there was no federal relief in those days.

The Farmers Union Grain Terminal Association sent about 50,000 bushels of wheat and even set up a mill to grind it, giving the flour to needy families. Employees of the Farmers Union Central Exchange donated ten percent of their salaries for relief, and families in Minnesota adopted families in western North Dakota and saw them through the cold bleak winter. Alfred Solberg went on:

Things got so bad that we marched on the capitol with pitchforks and sat down in the legislative chamber. We sent a signed ultimatum to Congress saying we needed so much relief, and if we didn't get it within thirty days we were going to march into the stores and take food.

We got relief. Dry times will come again, lots of us expect them this year. We dread it, but we're better able to handle it now."

"We don't brag about it," Forseth added, "though we don't ever deny it either but six out of seven of us in this county were no relief at one time or another."

Now there's hardly a farmer in the area who hasn't got a year's supply of seed laid by, and some of them have two years' supply. More than one of these ex-relievers could write a check for $75,000, and while the memory of those dreadful years makes people restless and apprehensive when a dry spell drags on, it makes them that much more determined to maintain their co-ops. Not co-ops, but rain brought Williams County out of the shadow — but the co-ops will prevent collapse if catastrophe strikes again.

Cooperation Plus

All these astonishing enterprises have an interlocking relationship. The co-op creamery naturally buys the co-op gas and oil for its trucks and sells butter and milk to the co-op market, builds an addition — and all these When, the grain and supply co-op enterprises are in continuous turmoil of expansion — it gets lumber from the co-op lumber yard. If a co-op needs cash, there's the credit union. Thus the costs are cut and at the same time there is mutual strengthening.

Many local business men say the co-ops are bad for them, and the Williston Chamber of Commerce is less than enthusiastic about the title "The Cooperative City," bestowed by the Farmers Union. The cooperators retort that they keep the money in the county and thus increase the general level of prosperity and make possible more business for the movie theaters, the auto dealers, drug stores, dry goods merchants, hardware men, and even to trade almost exclusively with the the saloons. For while it is possible co-ops, few people do, and much of the co-op trade would be going to Montgomery Ward, J. C. Penney, the Standard Oil Company, or the Red Owl chain grocery. And profits from these places do not stay in Williston. They go to New York, Denver, Chicago, and Kansas City.

A bent, gray, old wheat farmer in patched overalls and a worn out straw hat eats roast beef, creamed potatoes, salad, and apple pie a la mode at the co-op cafeteria, signs his slip, and puts it into the box for accounting. There is a gleam of pride in his eye that says—"This place is mine, I own part of it. It's good and I like it."

His pride of ownership in the stricture that does a $13,000,000 annual business in a county of 16,000 people is shared by nearly every farm family and many non-farm families. It is more than owning equities in the market, the grain elevator, the creamery and the oil station, more than having money on deposit at the credit union or being a director of the lumber yard. He knows, and others know with him,

SHADES CAMPAIGN SET FOR
AUG. 29 TO SEPTEMBER 30

Indiana's campaign to "Save the Shades" gets underway with the opening of the Indiana State Fair on August 29 and will last throughout the month of September.

Announcement of campaign dates and preliminary plans was made by Governor Ralph F. Gates, who personally is spearheading the drive to create a new state park in the rugged scenic area which for almost a century has been one of the nation's outstanding attractions.

The 1452-acre area, located at the juncture of three northwestern Indiana counties — Fountain, Parke and Montgomery—is now being operated by the Indiana Department of Conservation under a lease arrangement with Arthur R. Baxter, Indianapolis industrialist who recently purchased the Shades to prevent its sale to timber interests.

Governor Gates announced that Lawrence R. Wheeler, director of the Indiana University Foundation, will supervise campaign plans, and that the Conservation Department will be the sponsoring agency.

Civic and fraternal organizations throughout the state will participate in the drive. Goal has been set at $300,000.

Avoids Cannibalism

Chicks are not likely to be cannibalistic, if they have plenty of brooder or range space, enough fresh air at the right temperature and the right kind of daily ration. Under these conditions, they ordinarily will be so busy they will not be disposed to pick at one another.

COUNTRY NEIGHBORS CLUB

Elnora Craig was hostess to the Country Neighbors' Club Thursday afternoon in her home. Three guests and twenty-two members were present at the meeting.

A beauty clinic conducted by Pauline Willman from Rochester, representing House of Stuart cosmetics, was the feature of the afternoon. Plans were made for an ice cream supper to be held the evening of July 20 at the home of Dora Norris.

Our club is keeping a scrap book that proves most interesting.

Gifts were won by Dora Norris, Arlene Walters and Lavera Utter. Four were auctioned off by Beulah Cook with lively bidding.

Refreshments of ice cream, wafers and coffee were served by the hostess assisted by Mary Konneck.

Mrs. Glen Powell and son Kenneth, of Argos, and Mrs. John Glendennin, of Lakeland, Florida, visited Lewis Foor Sunday evening. Mrs. Glendennin is a sister to Mr. Foor and is visiting at Argos.

So this is HOUSEKEEPING

BY SHIRLEY STUART

You could have bowled me over with an orange blossom; I was that surprised! Here I had always thought that down through the years, good old dependable bread, the staff of life, was still almost the same as it was when Noah was stocking the Ark.

But take it from the scientists, that just isn't true. On the contrary, it seems that today's bread is as tailor-made for the 20th century as television.

It all started when I noticed the words "enriched flour" on the wrapper of a fresh-smelling loaf of bread and stamped on a bag of my favorite flour. What really aroused my curiosity was that the enriched flour was said to contain a parade of technical terms: "thiamine, riboflavin, niacin and iron." All that may be well and good, I thought, but if my brand new husband is going to chew those things, I'm going to know what they are!

The next time I saw our family doctor I tried out my new vocabulary. He started at the beginning and explained that in these days of strain, nervous tension, and the fast pace of modern living, we needed a diet full of the B complex "nerve" vitamins to help keep us in step. At the same time, he pointed out that in the process of milling flour, the diet stable, to make it white and fine as most Americans prefer, certain vitamins present in the whole cereal were lost. For that reason enriched flour was developed. Enriched flour simply restores lost material and supplies added amounts of the B complex vitamins—thiamine, riboflavin and niacin plus iron. Those, explained our doctor, are the ingredients necessary for good digestion, strong nerves, healthy skin and just plain pep!

He added that nearly half the 48 States now have laws requiring that commercially-sold bread, flour, and rolls be enriched.

And a good thing, too, I say. All you have to do is to look for the label "enriched flour" and the vitamins will take care of themselves!

KEEP OLD HENS IN

SUMMER SHELTER

Who has the right to the laying house? This question faces every poultryman in the fall, Joe Sicer, Purdue University extension poultryman says. Old hens usually are still laying; their eggs are large and are bringing premium prices but the young pullets are coming into production and they, too, need the laying house.

The problem can be solved in early summer if the poultryman has a summer laying shelter. Such a shelter makes it possible to keep the old "biddy" until late next fall and at the same time hens are separated from growing pullets. There are too many disease hazards to mix the old hens and the pullets, Sicer warns.

For this summer, shelter a new building is not necessary, as an old one can be converted to hold the hens during the summer. It will need plenty of air, but windows and a concrete floor are not essential. Roosting racks can be made so that they can be used elsewhere later, if desired.

The Purdue poultryman advises farmers not to wait too long to move hens to the shelter, as waiting too long will throw them into a molt. The hens should be culled as they are moved and culling continued through the summer. As the days shorten in the fall, lights need to be turned on. Sicer recommends the feeding of condensed buttermilk, pellets, and wet mash, to keep them laying profitably as long as possible.

The regular laying house should be cleaned after the hens are moved to make ready for the pullets. This plan will have two flocks in production next fall at the peak of the egg prices.

FREE AIR

Just because the real estate people are willing to give you a lot for your money is no sign that it's dirt cheap.

"Are those your children or is it a picnic," said the conductor to a woman, who was followed by nine youngsters.

"Yes, they are my children, and it's no picnic," was her reply.

A wife is a woman who sticks with her husband through all the trouble he would not have if he had not married her in the first place.

Well, most of us like to avoid trouble. And hundreds of motorists have learned that about the best way to prevent car trouble is to come here regularly for thorough lubrication. It's just wonderful how our lubrication jobs help keep cars running longer and better. Try it for yourself.

VITAL QUESTIONS — BIBLE ANSWERS

What is the church?

"... for his (Christ's) body's sake, which is the church." Col. 1:24.
"... the church, which is his (Christ's) body ..." Eph. 1:22, 23

Could this body of Christ, which is the church, possibly refer to houses of worship?

"God that made the world and all things therein, seeing that he is Lord of heaven and earth, dwelleth not in temples made with hands." Acts 17:24.

Then what is the body of Christ?

"For as we have many members in one body, and all members have not the same office: so we (Christians), being many, are one body in Christ ..." Rom. 12:4, 5
"Ye also, as lively stones, are built up a spiritual house, an holy priesthood, to offer up spiritual sacrifices, acceptable to God by Jesus Christ." I Peter 2:5.

How many such churches or bodies are there according to the Bible?

"There is one body." Eph. 4:4.

May not this church be composed of many faiths?

"One faith." Eph. 4:5

How can we all be of one faith?

"So then faith cometh by hearing, and hearing by the word of God" Rom. 10:17
"Now I beseech you, brethren, by the name of our Lord Jesus Christ, that ye all speak the same thing, and that there be no divisions among you; but that ye be perfectly joined together in the same mind and in the same judgment." I Cor. 1:10.

POULTRY, EGGS AND CREAM*REGULAR ALLOWANCES FOR CHILDREN IS ADVISABLE

The desire of all parents is to give their children the best. No gift exceeds the benefit of learning to handle money intelligently. Regular allowances for children are a means of training the child says Miss Eva Goble, assistant state leader, home demonstration agents.

When a small child receives a stated amount each week he will be facing some of the same situations in regard to money management that he will meet throughout life. He will learn the importance of planning to provide for emergency, to make simple logical choices, and gain the valuable trait of cheerful giving. By keeping records of his spending, the child acquires insight into his own money management habits and he is taught to be systematic.

Effective lessons in money management are possible only if the parents are fully aware of their role. The parents must avoid the "I told you so" attitude when the child has mismanaged his allowance. They should help the child with his financial problems but they should not attempt to make all the decisions. The allowance is not for spending alone, but for saving as well. Avoid making the child's reports a justification of expenditures. Never set a bad example by borrowing from the child and forgetting to repay. Another trouble maker is using the allowance as a means of securing affection.

All this demands an extra amount of patience and understanding from the parents. However, the results will be worthwhile to children and parents alike when the child can plan and execute a good system of money management.

PREVENTION STILL BEST TREATMENT FOR MILDEW

Heavy rains and high humidity have brought an active season for mildew, reports Miss Frieda C. Stoll, extension clothing specialist, Purdue university. Not only does mildew leave ugly discolorations and a musty odor, but it eventually rots the fibers it attacks.

Miss Stoll pointed out that by preventing mildew, valuable clothing and household goods can be preserved for longer use.

One of the first steps in preventing mildew is to keep things dry and well aired. Remove the cause of dampness and then thoroughly dry out the room or article affected.

Windows and doors should be closed when it is warm and damp outside in order to help keep down the amount of moisture in the house.

Burning a small electric light continuously in a closet or storage space is a good way to dry the air. Unless the space is too large, the heat from the light will be sufficient to stop mildew.

Precautions should also be taken to keep fabrics in the house as dry as possible. For example, all articles should be dried before throwing them into the hamper for soiled clothes. Dish and wash cloths should be spread to dry before storing. Stretch out wet shower curtains left bunched together or sticking to the wall or tub after a bath. To further safeguard clothing, sprinkle for ironing only as many articles as can be finished in a day. Shake out those not ironed.

History of Paper

Paper was made by hand until 1798. In that year Louis Robert, a Frenchman, invented the endless wire screen which is today the heart of the paper making machine. It is on the bronze wire that the art of paper making depends. Robert sold his idea to Sealy Fourdrinier and his brother Henry, wealthy Englishmen, who went bankrupt developing it but today these great machines used wherever paper is made bear their name—the Fourdrinier paper machine.

MENTONE LEGION WINS.

The Mentone American Legion softball team defeated the Goshen Legion at Veterans' Field Wednesday evening, 12 to 13 in a hotly contested battle that required extra innings.

A visiting player, at one point, emphasized his disapproval of an umpire's decision by taking a couple of hefty swings with his fists. Playground manager McGowen quietly but firmly informed the visitor and his manager that no one was permitted to play at the field and act in such a manner. The visiting manager, too, appreciated and cooperated with the request of Mr. McGowen.
