Assigned to Pastorate Here

The Rev. Milton G. Pearsons has been assigned to serve the Mentone Methodist Church by the North Indiana Annual Conference. He comes to this church from the Central Methodist Church of Anderson. He is the father of two children: a daughter, Gretchen 14, and a son, David, 10.

In addition to serving Central Church, Rev. Pearsons has been serving the Muncie District as its Secretary of Missions, as a member of its Commission on Membership and Evangelism and Committee on Church Locations. He is also a member of the Taylor University Alumni Board.

Rev. Pearsons is a native of Minnesota. He received his early religious nurture in the Moravian Church, then transferred his membership to The Methodist Church in 1935. His wife was born in Dayton, Ohio; she moved to New Castle, Indiana, in her childhood, and there united with The First Methodist Church. Following her graduation from high school, she specialized in violin in the Arthur Jordan College of Music, Indianapolis, and the National Music Camp, Interlochen, Michigan.

The new minister will be in his pulpit here Sunday, but will not move to Mentone until some time next week.

Rev. and Mrs. Gosser and family will move to their new home at Ligonier Saturday.

Tuesday evening between one and two hundred friends of the Gossers gathered at the church in a friendly farewell. The Mentone people had gathered a fund

D. A. R. Meets

The Anthony Nigo Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution held their May meeting at the home of Mrs. Pauline Drudge with Mrs. Linda Igo as assisting hostess.

The meeting was called to order by the regent, Mrs. Pauline Drudge, who led the ritualistic service and prayer was offered by the chaplain, Mrs. Emma Gill. A short business meeting was conducted.

A very interesting article on the flag was given by Jean Clauss. During the social hour we held our auction after which the hostess served dainty refreshments.

The chapter adjourned to meet in June at the home of Mrs. Mary Smith with a pot luck supper.

of $500.00 which was given to the Gosser family. It was specifically intended for David, Jr., to apply towards his ministerial education.

The Gossers have made many friends at Mentone during the nearly seven years they labored among us, and all will wish them the best of everything as they move on into a new work.

The court has granted Mirabel Riewoldt a divorce from Robert Riewoldt and approved a property settlement. The plaintiff also received permission to resume her maiden name of Mirabel Tucker. Married June 30, 1945, the couple separated Jan. 14, 1955.

Auxiliary to Sponsor "The Magic Garden"

The Mentone American Legion Auxiliary will present the Students of Maude Snyder in a music revue called "The Magic Garden" on Friday night, June 3, in the school gymnasium at 8 o'clock. Tickets are available from any Auxiliary member, or at the door on Friday night.

The proceeds from the program will be used for various phases of the Auxiliary work such as purchase of hospital equipment for use in our own community and for aid to our veterans in hospitals and their families or dependents.

Mr. Basil O'Rielly of Warsaw, has put a new Conn electric organ in the gymnasium for use during the program.

Come, see and hear the young people of our community play and sing in "The Magic Garden."

Attend Convention

Mr. and Mrs. Ora McKinley were in French Lick last week attending the coal dealers' convention. The Mentone Lumber Co. was one of the firms honored by the association for having been a coal dealer for 46 years.

Mrs. McKinley, too, met with good fortune in that she was presented with the major door prize, a 17-jewel wrist watch with a rhinestone band and also a necklace and earrings set with rhinestones.

Mentone Church Progress Report

The final report of the Conference year made by the pastor to Annual Conference showed the membership of the local church to number 310 and the disbursements of the church and its organizations to total $13,906.00. Of this amount, $1,196 were paid on the Church Extension Crusade, and $2,071.00 to World Service and Benovolences. There is an increase of almost three hundred dollars in the last figure, over that of last year. Fourteen persons were baptised and eleven came into full membership of the church. These persons brought to a total 148 members who have come into full relationship with the church during the pastorate of Rev. Gosser. The persons baptised number 126 during the past six and a half years. Average attendance increased from 30 percent of membership to 50 percent of membership, most of it being the past two years. Rev. Gosser expresses gratitude for the response and cooperation which his ministry has effected in the community. Much of the labor, he says, comes from lay men and women who serve the Lord through the church.

It was reported that Albert Hatfield was seated only a short distance from where Bill Vukovich burned to death at the Indianapolis races, Monday.

4-H Club Chatter

By Ruth Snellenberger

Dear 4-H Members and Friends,

One of the easiest projects for a young girl to do, in my opinion, is first division food preservation. It is easy first, because the work requirements include only a few things to do, and second, because the canning and/or freezing is not difficult for a young girl to do.

So simple are the work requirements that a 4-H girl could help her mother, or some one else, prepare for freezing 12 packages or jars of strawberries and then do 12 packages or jars by herself. Now, isn't that simple and easy? Actually the work requirements state: "(a) Help can or freeze 12 jars or packages of fruit; (b) Can or freeze 12 jars or packages of fruit. Tomatoes or tomato juice may be included in both (a) or (b)."

On can readily reason why I mentioned strawberries, since they are coming into season.

As with any other project a member must keep a record of her work in the book provided and make an exhibit at the county fair.

No matter what type of container one may have to use, the chief qualification is that it be moisture-vapor-proof. Becoming more in use are glass containers.

If new glass jars are being purchased, read the labels carefully to learn if they may be used for either canning or freezing. Two well-known glass jar manufacturers produce wide-jars usable for either freezing or canning.

One is straight sided and the other is tapered smaller from top to bottom. Each is easy to stack in a freezer and relatively easy from which to remove the food.

A caution about using glass containers is that one should be sure to leave adequate head space when packing so that the jars won't break when food swells upon freezing.

Cool Storage Room Essential for Eggs

Lafayette, Ind.—A cool storage-room for eggs is a real essential on any poultry farm, and top profits will go to the egg producer who keeps the temperature in the egg storage-room between 50 and 60 degrees and the humidity above 85 per cent.

"Don't let warm temperatures melt your egg profits. Warm days are here and hot weather is just around the corner, so take steps to preserve the quality of your eggs," advises M. L. Wilson, extension poultryman at Purdue University.

Eggs gathered frequently will cool quicker. Therefore, wise poultrymen gather eggs at 8:00 a. m., 12:00 noon and late afternoon in summer.

After gathering the eggs in wire baskets, take immediately to egg storage-room for thorough cooling and pack in pre-cooled cases the following day. Eggs should be marketed frequently to a buyer who will pay for them on a graded basis.

"Keep the eggs cool and don't let the heat rob you of good egg dollars," Wilson said.

Country Neighbors Club Meets

Country Neighbors met at the home of Mrs. Joe Peterson.

The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. Peterson. The group sang "America The Beautiful" and repeated in unison "The Pledge to the Flag" and the club creed.

Meditation was given by Mrs. Arlean Walters reading, Prov. 31st chapter, also giving an interesting article about Mother, entitled "They Don't Forget Her."

The History of the song of the month was given by Mrs. Robert Hoover. The safety lesson on "Insecticides" was given by Mrs. Howard Chamberlain. Roll Call was "How I could be a better mother." Many interesting thoughts resulted from roll call.

A very interesting lesson on "Social Security" was given by Mrs. John Teel and Mrs. Arlean Walters.

Auction was held with high bidders being, Mrs. Walters, Mrs. Norris, Mrs. Zent and Mrs. Teel. The Door prize went to Mrs. Wilvin Long.

Delicious refreshments were served by the hostess, Mrs. Peterson. The next meeting will be guest day and will be held at the home of Mrs. Earl Zent.

Plan to rotate pastures to prevent stomach worms in sheep. Supplying phenothiazine in the salt—1 to 10—will also help prevent worm infestation, according to the veterinary department at Purdue University.

Second District Judging Contest, Field Day, Tour

The annual spring Junior Judging Contest for the Second District, conducted by the 4-H Club Department of Purdue University will be held Tuesday, June 14, at Knepp Springs, Rome City, Indiana, according to Joe Clark, of R. 2, Milford, Indiana, secretary of the Second District Guernsey Association. This judging contest is for 4-H and FFA teams in Indiana if they care to participate.

For the adults, the Noble County Breeders' Association has worked out a fine tour. At 9 a. m. the group will see the herd of Freeman Yoder and Sons, one and a half miles west of Ligonier and a half mile off US highway 6. At 10 a. m. they will see the herd of Frank Franks and Howard Berkes on US highway 6 west of Wawaka. The next stop will be at the Tom Franks farm a mile south of Wawaka. Here is another picture in the second series of farm photos to be printed in the Co-Op. News.

The pictures were taken by the Zekan & Robbins photographers, Harlan, Iowa, and are all of farms in the Mentone trading area. ## Agronomy Field Day Schedule Announced

Lafayette, Ind.—What are the 1955 releases of current and older wheat varieties? What will be the 1956 oat variety releases? What are the best fertilizer practices? Some answers to these questions will be offered by Purdue University agronomists—rain or shine—at Agronomy Field Day June 21, seven miles northwest of Lafayette on U. S. Highway 52, from 8:30 a. m. to 4:00 p. m. (DST).

Whether the 50 minute green tour is taken, Hoosier farmers will see some of the latest wheat and legume research being conducted by Purdue agronomists, pathologists, and entomologists at the annual field event.

Visitors will have an opportunity to view exhibits and demonstrations in methods of applying fertilizer, soil testing, control of small grain diseases, tile drainage, irrigation, deep fertilization and farm fire fighting.

Farmers are urged to attend and discuss their current problems with one of the many specialists.

Lunch and drinks, provided by local church groups, will be available on the grounds from 11:30 a. m. to 1:30 p. m.

Members of the agronomy, botany and plant pathology, entomology, agricultural engineering, and physical plant at Purdue University are cooperating in every phase of the 32 topics featured in the three tours, the demonstrations, discussions, and action exhibits.

Copies of the program showing details and schedule of the day's events are available. Requests should be directed to the agronomy department at Purdue University.

Sudan Grass Good Summer Pasture

Lafayette, Ind.—Indiana farmers who lost their legume-grass seedlings due to last year's drought should turn to Sudan grass for the best substitute summer pasture crop. That's the recommendation of M. O. Pence, agronomist at Purdue University, who says that Sudan grass is easy to grow, stands periods of drought well, and is relished by all classes of livestock.

Seed Sudan grass with the grain drill in late May or early June at the rate of 25-30 pounds per acre. With most drills this can be done by setting the wheat scale at about three pecks per acre. Drilling 250 to 350 pounds of 4-16-16 on dark colored soils or 300 to 400 pounds per acre of 10-10-10 on thin, light colored, or sandy soils greatly increases yields.

The crop is ready to graze when it reaches a height of about 14 inches. Usually this much growth will be made in five weeks after the date of seeding. In normal years fertilized Sudan grass will carry two or three cows per acre for most of the summer. Carrying capacity can be greatly increased by dividing the field and grazing the plots in rotation. New growth after the first frost next fall should not be grazed.

Farmers can choose from among three varieties of Sudan grass—common, Piper and sweet. Piper yields more than common, and shows more disease resistance and vigor. Sweet Sudan is more disease than common, but is slower starting. For this reason it is better suited to southern Indiana than it is farther north.

Budget Your Grass Crop

Many Hoosier dairymen have difficulty equalizing their pasture production throughout the year. Often too much is produced too early in the year and too little later on in the season. G. A. Williams, extension dairymen at Purdue University, says that now is the time for dairymen to sit down and make a "pasture budget." That is, estimate (using average temperature and rainfall conditions) when the weak points are likely to occur in the pasture program, and begin planning now to adjust production accordingly.

If there will be a probable surplus in May or June, plan to cut the excess for hay or silage. It may be helpful later on in the season.

Should the danger period fall in July or August, plan to provide an emergency crop such as Sudan grass or make part of the second alfalfa cutting available for pasture. The extra fencing involved will pay big dividends.

Make efficient use of the pasture available by culling out low producers, renting pasture on nearby farms for dry cows and young stock, if necessary, and providing separate pastures for different classes of livestock.

If ants are a problem in lawns or gardens, they can be controlled with chlordane, say the entomologists at Purdue University. A 10 percent chlordane dust applied to infested areas and watered in will give quick results. Get Purdue Mimeograph E-22 from your county agent for details.

Iris Blooming At Friendship Gardens

Michigan City, Ind.—Iris, the truly international flower with as many hues as there are people in the world, is a favorite of the June perennial exhibit at the International Friendship Gardens this year.

Visitors to the world-famous 100-acre Gardens the past few days have been lavish in their praise of the wide variety of iris blooming there. From the Chinese garden near the entrance the British, French, Scotch and Swiss gardens several hundred yards to the east, the iris season holds the spotlight.

Although there are more varieties of iris than any other bloom another perennial, the brilliant poppy, is hardly outshone. There are literally thousands of poppies at International Friendship Gardens. This flower, made famous on the grim battlefields of Flanders, is at its best in the lush green setting at the Michigan City exhibition.

J. Virgil Stauffer, director of the Gardens, said today that the spectacular peony show should be ready easily by June 9-10, with the Festival of Roses opening the week of June 15.

Horticulturists at Purdue University say that a sawdust-corn-cob mulch used round the plants and between the rows on raspberries, roses, and grape vines will provide the best growing conditions with little or no cultivation. The mulch should be from three to four inches deep and supplemented with two or three pounds of a nitrate fertilizer for every 100 square feet of area.

Continued use of baby chick size feed troughs long after the chicks have outgrown them often results in feed wastage and hungry chicks, says the poultry department at Purdue University. Broiler size troughs should be used by the time the chicks are four or five weeks old, and even larger troughs are advantageous after chicks are about 12 weeks of age. Troughs should be raised on legs as the chicks grow so that the edge of the trough is at least as high as the chick's back. Less feed will be spilled over the edge and less dirt scratched into the higher trough.

2,4-D Aids Weed Control In Corn

Lafayette, Ind.—Hoosier farmers can strike back with a double punch at weeds in their corn crop, says O. C. Lee, Purdue University botanist.

Spraying with 2,4-D can be looked upon as an emergency measure as well as a general farm practice, reminds the specialist. If periods of wet weather occur later this spring, making cultivation impossible, farmers can come to the rescue of their corn crop by spraying with the chemical killer.

Lee cautions farmers not to replace cultivation with 2,4-D applications. Benefits will be derived from both practices.

Two types of 2,4-D (amine salts and esters) are available. Both are liquids, and either one will get the job done. However, there is greater danger of injury to corn from the ester type than from the amine. Therefore, when the ester is used, the dosage should not exceed one-third pint per acre.

Maximum safe dosage to apply to growing corn is one-half lb. of 2,4-D per acre, equal to one pint of the most common amine material. A similar dosage of one-half pint will be needed to destroy smartweed, Jimson weed, and morning glory.

Lee recommends that farmers apply either five or ten gallons of solution per acre. If attacking heavy weed growth, use 10 gallons. Spraying may be done anytime during the growing season.

except when corn is tasseling. Corn will not be seriously injured if the recommended 1 pint per acre is exceeded.

For more detailed information a copy of Weeding Corn With 2,4-D, extension leaflet 357, can be obtained at your county extension office.

Headwork That Wins

As a golfer in a tournament teed off on the 16th hole, he had a good chance of winning. It was a short hole, and his iron shot landed directly on the green. He strode down the fairway, happily weighing the possibilities of getting a birdie. But his heart sank when he reached the green and found that his ball had rolled into a small paper bag discarded by someone in the gallery. He couldn't hit the ball as it lay, and if he removed it from the bag it would cost him a penalty stroke he could ill afford. He studied for a moment, then reached into his pocket, took out a book of matches and lit the bag. When it had burned into ashes, he addressed his ball and sank the putt—amidst a deafening roar from the crowd.

You can side dress corn with low pressure nitrogen solutions using an inexpensive rig of your own design. According to the agricultural engineering department at Purdue University, a barrel of the liquid nitrogen connected to a hose run down behind a shovel in the row center will do the job.

Mentone Church Progress Report

The final report of the Conference year made by the pastor to Annual Conference showed the membership of the local church to number 310 and the disbursements of the church and its organizations to total $13,906.00. Of this amount, $1,196 were paid on the Church Extension Crusade, and $2,071.00 to World Service and Benevolences. There is an increase of almost three hundred dollars in the last figure, over that of last year. Fourteen persons were baptised and eleven came into full membership of the church. These persons brought to a total 148 members who have come into full relationship with the church during the pastorate of Rev. Gosser. The persons baptised number 126 during the past six and a half years. Average attendance increased from 30 percent of membership to 50 percent of membership, most of it being the past two years. Rev. Gosser expresses gratitude for the response and cooperation which his ministry has effected in the community. Much of the labor, he says, comes from lay men and women who serve the Lord through the church.

It was reported that Albert Hatfield was seated only a short distance from where Bill Vukovich burned to death at the Indianapolis races, Monday.

Possible Savings On Gas Storage

It pays to store farm gasoline the right way. Precious dollars are lost every year on Hoosier farms where poor types of fuel storage contribute to heavy evaporation losses and the poor quality of tractor gasoline.

C. L. Hill, Purdue University agricultural engineer, says a farmer should not put up with storage by vented drums in which losses by evaporation are known to be as much as thirty gallons per month for every two hundred stored. He urges that underground or pressurized storage can cut evaporation losses and maintain fuel quality.

A farmer can have pressurized storage by installing a pressure relief cap at the filler opening of the tank, says this specialist. This cap must have a vacuum release valve to equalize the pressure when the tank cools. Hill maintains that a pressure cap will reduce gum formation and crankcase oil dilution, as well as vaporization losses.

Underground storage tanks are just the thing for farms using large volumes of fuel. These tanks will serve in the same way as pressurized storage in maintaining the vapor pressure of gasoline at a high level. Result—evaporation is cut to a minimum.

For complete information on these improved methods of storing gasoline and other fuels, farmers should see their county agent or write to agricultural publications, Purdue University, for a copy of Purdue Extension Leaflet 367, on "Farm Fuel Storage." It contains important safety recommendations for gasoline as well as good fuel storage tips.

Bridal Shower

Gifts were also sent by Mrs. John Huff, Mrs. Willard Kuhn, Lois Ummel, Mrs. George Black, Mrs. Sadie Black, Mrs. John Bradway, Laura Adams, Judy Clinker, Karen Heighway, Dora Oliver, Mrs. Maynard Summe, Elener Norris, Mrs. Wayne Kelley, Mrs. Pat Walsh and Mrs. Max Nellans, all of whom were unable to attend.

To keep the finish looking new on your range give it a thorough washing frequently. Let it cool and then wash it with a mild detergent and soft water. Miss Gertrude Monhaut, extension home management specialist at Purdue University, warns that you should never use a damp cloth on a hot range or you may damage the enamel.

You can help with 4-H forestry and wildlife conservation projects in your home community, says the forestry department at Purdue University. Why not volunteer as a local leader so that you may help to instill in our rural youth the proper concepts concerning the wise use of our natural resources.

4-H Club Chatter

By Ruth Snellenberger

Dear 4-H Members and Friends,

One of the easiest projects for a young girl to do, in my opinion, is first division food preservation. It is easy first, because the work requirements include only a few things to do, and second, because the canning and/or freezing is not difficult for a young girl to do.

So simple are the work requirements that a 4-H girl could help her mother, or some one else, prepare for freezing 12 packages or jars of strawberries and then do 12 packages or jars by herself. Now, isn't that simple and easy? Actually the work requirements state: "(a) Help can or freeze 12 jars or packages of fruit; (b) Can or freeze 12 jars or packages of fruit. Tomatoes or tomato juice may be included in both (a) or (b)."

On can readily reason why I mentioned strawberries, since they are coming into season.

As with any other project a member must keep a record of her work in the book provided and make an exhibit at the county fair.

No matter what type of container one may have to use, the chief qualification is that it be moisture-vapor-proof. Becoming more in use are glass containers.

If new glass jars are being purchased, read the labels carefully to learn if they may be used for either canning or freezing. Two well-known glass jar manufacturers produce wide-jars usable for either freezing or canning.

One is straight sided and the other is tapered smaller from top to bottom. Each is easy to stack in a freezer and relatively easy from which to remove the food.

A caution about using glass containers is that one should be sure to leave adequate head space when packing so that the jars won't break when food swells upon freezing.

Cool Storage Room Essential for Eggs

Lafayette, Ind.—A cool storage-room for eggs is a real essential on any poultry farm, and top profits will go to the egg producer who keeps the temperature in the egg storage-room between 50 and 60 degrees and the humidity above 85 per cent.

"Don't let warm temperatures melt your egg profits. Warm days are here and hot weather is just around the corner, so take steps to preserve the quality of your eggs," advises M. L. Wilson, extension poultryman at Purdue University.

Eggs gathered frequently will cool quicker. Therefore, wise poultrymen gather eggs at 8:00 a. m., 12:00 noon and late afternoon in summer.

After gathering the eggs in wire baskets, take immediately to egg storage-room for thorough cooling and pack in pre-cooled cases the following day. Eggs should be marketed frequently to a buyer who will pay for them on a graded basis.

"Keep the eggs cool and don't let the heat rob you of good egg dollars," Wilson said.

Country Neighbors Club Meets

Country Neighbors met at the home of Mrs. Joe Peterson.

The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. Peterson. The group sang "America The Beautiful" and repeated in unison "The Pledge to the Flag" and the club creed.

Meditation was given by Mrs. Arlean Walters reading, Prov. 31st chapter, also giving an interesting article about Mother, entitled "They Don't Forget Her."

The History of the song of the month was given by Mrs. Robert Hoover. The safety lesson on "insecticides" was given by Mrs. Howard Chamberlain. Roll Call was "How I could be a better mother." Many interesting thoughts resulted from roll call.

A very interesting lesson on "Social Security" was given by Mrs. John Teel and Mrs. Arlean Walters.

Auction was held with high bidders being, Mrs. Walters, Mrs. Norris, Mrs. Zent and Mrs. Teel. The Door prize went to Mrs. Wilvin Long.

Delicious refreshments were served by the hostess, Mrs. Peterson. The next meeting will be guest day and will be held at the home of Mrs. Earl Zent.

Plan to rotate pastures to prevent stomach worms in sheep. Supplying phenothiazine in the salt—1 to 10—will also help prevent worm infestation, according to the veterinary department at Purdue University.

Second District Judging Contest, Field Day, Tour

The annual spring Junior Judging Contest for the Second District, conducted by the 4-H Club Department of Purdue University will be held Tuesday, June 14, at Knepp Springs, Rome City, Indiana, according to Joe Clark, of R. 2, Milford, Indiana, secretary of the Second District Guernsey Association. This judging contest is for 4-H and FFA teams in Indiana if they care to participate.

For the adults, the Noble County Breeders' Association has worked out a fine tour. At 9 a. m. the group will see the herd of Freeman Yoder and Sons, one and a half miles west of Ligioner and a half mile off US highway 6. At 10 a. m. they will see the herd of Frank Franks and Howard Berkes on US highway 6 west of Wawaka. The next stop will be at the Tom Franks farm a mile south of Wawaka. If time permits, the group will stop at the Warren Innes farm on US high-

Here is another picture in the second series of farm photos to be printed in the Co-Op. News.

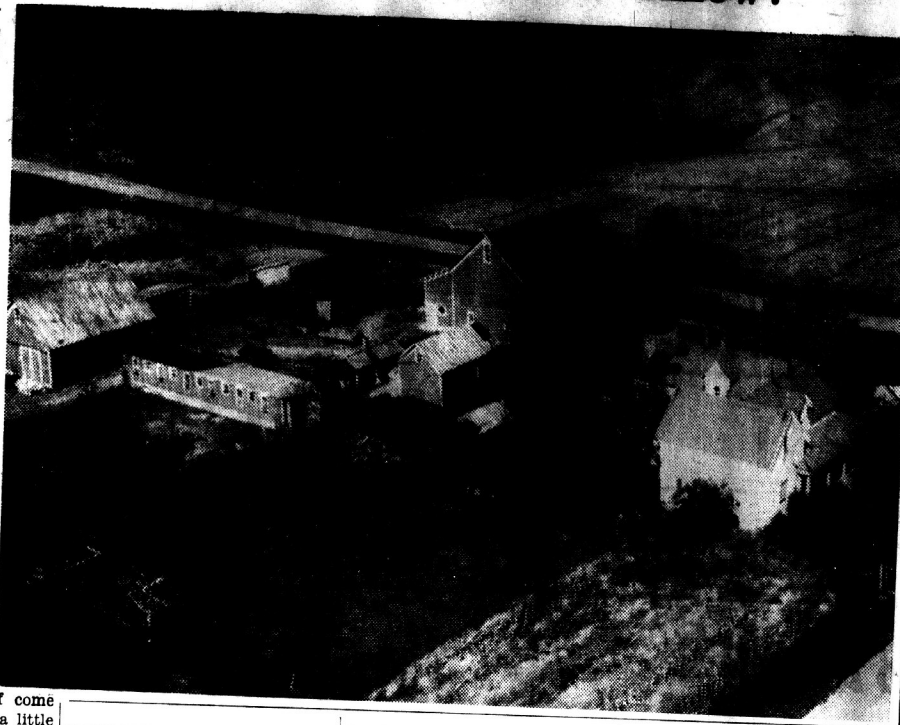

The pictures were taken by the Zekan & Robbins photographers, Harlan, Iowa, and are all of farms in the Mentone trading area. The pictures are not identified and it will be up to the owners or neighbors to notify this newspaper office. The pictures were taken by airplane and not even the photographer knows one from the other. It will be interesting to see who is the first to identify the pictures each week. Phone Mentone 38. We will endeavor to publish the names of each person correctly identifying the pictures each week.

The farm owner will be given the original 5 x 7 mounted picture absolutely free of any cost. All we require is that the operator himself come to our office and give us a little information about the farm, its operation, etc. Additional prints, colored enlargements, etc. can be obtained by contacting this newspaper.

Farm Pictures Readers Call On

Mrs. Clarence Cotey, Dick Boganwright and Mrs. Jack Hudson have notified us that they believe the farm pictured in our last issue was the Lloyd Zent farm near the juncture of Roads 25 and 331.

Dick Boganwright and Orville Elzinger stated that the farm we pictured the previous week was the former Stant Osborn farm, two miles north and one mile west of Mentone, now owned by people by the name of Miller.

Agronomy Field Day Schedule Announced

Lafayette, Ind.—What are the 1955 releases of current and older wheat varieties? What will be the 1956 oat variety releases? What are the best fertilizer practices? Some answers to these questions will be offered by Purdue University agronomists—rain or shine—at Agronomy Field Day June 21, seven miles northwest of Lafayette on U. S. Highway 52, from 8:30 a. m. to 4:00 p. m. (DST).

Whether the 50 minute green tour is taken, Hoosier farmers will see some of the latest wheat and legume research being conducted by Purdue agronomists, pathologists, and entomologists at the annual field event.

Visitors will have an opportunity to view exhibits and demonstrations in methods of applying fertilizer, soil testing, control of small grain diseases, tile drainage, irrigation, deep fertilization and farm fire fighting.

Farmers are urged to attend and discuss their current problems with one of the many specialists.

Lunch and drinks, provided by local church groups, will be available on the grounds from 11:30 a. m. to 1:30 p. m.

Members of the agronomy, botany and plant pathology, entomology, agricultural engineering, and physical plant at Purdue University are cooperating in every phase of the 32 topics featured in the three tours, the demonstrations, discussions, and action exhibits.

Copies of the program showing details and schedule of the day's events are available. Requests should be directed to the agronomy department at Purdue University.

Sudan Grass Good Summer Pasture

Lafayette, Ind.—Indiana farmers who lost their legume-grass seedlings due to last year's drouth should turn to Sudan grass for the best substitute summer pasture crop. That's the recommendation of M. O. Pence, agronomist at Purdue University, who says that Sudan grass is easy to grow, stands periods of drought well, and is relished by all classes of livestock.

Seed Sudan grass with the grain drill in late May or early June at the rate of 25-30 pounds per acre. With most drills this can be done by setting the wheat scale at about three pecks per acre. Drilling 250 to 350 pounds of 4-16-16 on dark colored soils or 300 to 400 pounds per acre of 10-10-10 on thin, light colored, or sandy soils greatly increases yields.

The crop is ready to graze when it reaches a height of about 14 inches. Usually this much growth will be made in five weeks after the date of seeding. In normal years fertilized Sudan grass will carry two or three cows per acre for most of the summer. Carrying capacity can be greatly increased by dividing the field and grazing the plots in rotation. New growth after the first frost next fall should not be grazed.

Farmers can choose from among three varieties of Sudan grass—common, Piper and sweet. Piper yields more than common, and shows more disease resistance and vigor. Sweet Sudan is more disease than common, but is slower starting. For this reason it is better suited to southern Indiana than it is farther north.

Budget Your Grass Crop

Many Hoosier dairymen have difficulty equalizing their pasture production throughout the year. Often too much is produced too early in the year and too little later on in the season. G. A. Williams, extension dairymen at Purdue University, says that now is the time for dairymen to sit down and make a "pasture budget." That is, estimate (using average temperature and rainfall conditions) when the weak points are likely to occur in the pasture program, and begin planning now to adjust production accordingly.

If there will be a probable surplus in May or June, plan to cut the excess for hay or silage. It may be helpful later on in the season.

Should the danger period fall in July or August, plan to provide an emergency crop such as Sudan grass or make part of the second alfalfa cutting available for pasture. The extra fencing involved will pay big dividends.

Make efficient use of the pasture available by culling out low producers, renting pasture on nearby farms for dry cows and young stock, if necessary, and providing separate pastures for different classes of livestock.

If ants are a problem in lawns or gardens, they can be controlled with chlordane, say the entomologists at Purdue University. A 10 percent chlordane dust applied to infested areas and watered in will give quick results. Get Purdue Mimeograph E-22 from your county agent for details.

Iris Blooming At Friendship Gardens

Michigan City, Ind.—Iris, the truly international flower with as many hues as there are people in the world, is a favorite of the June perennial exhibit at the International Friendship Gardens this year.

Visitors to the world-famous 100-acre Gardens the past few days have been lavish in their praise of the wide variety of iris blooming there. From the Chinese garden near the entrance the British, French, Scotch and Swiss gardens several hundred yards to the east, the iris season holds the spotlight.

Although there are more varieties of iris than any other bloom another perennial, the brilliant poppy, is hardly outshone. There are literally thousands of poppies at International Friendship Gardens. This flower, made famous on the grim battlefields of Flanders, is at its best in the lush green setting at the Michigan City exhibition.

J. Virgil Stauffer, director of the Gardens, said today that the spectacular peony show should be ready easily by June 9-10, with the Festival of Roses opening the week of June 15.

Horticulturists at Purdue University say that a sawdust-corn-cob mulch used round the plants and between the rows on raspberries, roses, and grape vines will provide the best growing conditions with little or no cultivation. The mulch should be from three to four inches deep and supplemented with two or three pounds of a nitrate fertilizer for every 100 square feet of area.

Continued use of baby chick size feed troughs long after the chicks have outgrown them often results in feed wastage and hungry chicks, says the poultry department at Purdue University. Broiler size troughs should be used by the time the chicks are four or five weeks old, and even larger troughs are advantageous after chicks are about 12-weeks of age. Troughs should be raised on legs as the chicks grow so that the edge of the trough is at least as high as the chick's back. Less feed will be spilled over the edge and less dirt scratched into the higher trough.

In order to avoid conflict with other activities, the 4th of July celebration, sponsored by the Mentone Lions Club, will be held on Saturday, July 2, rather than on Monday. The annual celebration is being resumed after a two year interruption caused by the new school building and Warsaw Centennial.

Word has been received from the State Fire Marshal's department that the fireworks permit has been mailed to Fire Chief Arlo Friesner.

The various committees working on the celebration met last Friday night to organize. The following changes were made in committees from those announced in the last issue of this paper.

Refreshments—Jim Rodibaugh and Jack VanGilder.

Parking—Harry Smythe, Harold Smythe, Don Smythe, Jack Miller.

P. A. System—Dana Starr.

Collection—M. O. Mentzer.

As in the past, the Lions Club will operate an eat stand at the ball park serving hamburgers, hot dogs, pop, ice cream and coffee. The proceeds from the eat stand and free will collection will help finance the celebration.

The program is still in the planning stage. Present plans are to start the celebration at 5:00 p. m. at the ball park. The big fireworks display will be at 9:30; this is earlier than in the past (Continued on back page)

Karen Latimer gave a demonstration on "Jelly Roll." Linda Smalley led the group in singing. There were two specials. Betty Smith played her accordion, and Fay Ogan read a poem. Wilburta Latimer gave the Health and Safety Report on how to care for your hair. Refreshments were served to 13 members, 2 leaders, 3 mothers and one guest.

2,4-D Aids Weed Control In Corn

Lafayette, Ind.—Hooseier farmers can strike back with a double punch at weeds in their corn crop, says O. C. Lee, Purdue University botanist.

Spraying with 2,4-D can be looked upon as an emergency measure as well as a general farm practice, reminds the specialist. If periods of wet weather occur later this spring, making cultivation impossible, farmers can come to the rescue of their corn crop by spraying with the chemical killer.

Lee cautions farmers not to replace cultivation with 2,4-D applications. Benefits will be derived from both practices.

Two types of 2,4-D (amine salts and esters) are available. Both are liquids, and either one will get the job done. However, there is greater danger of injury to corn from the ester type than from the amine. Therefore, when the ester is used, the dosage should not exceed one-third pint per acre.

Maximum safe dosage to apply to growing corn is one-half lb. of 2,4-D per acre, equal to one pint of the most common amine material. A similar dosage of one-half pint will be needed to destroy smartweed, Jimson weed, and morning glory.

Lee recommends that farmers apply either five or ten gallons of solution per acre. If attacking heavy weed growth, use 10 gallons. Spraying may be done anytime during the growing season except when corn is tasseling. Corn will not be seriously injured if the recommended 1 pint per acre is exceeded.

For more detailed information a copy of Weeding Corn With 2,4-D, extension leaflet 357, can be obtained at your county extension office.

Headwork That Wins

As a golfer in a tournament teed off on the 16th hole, he had a good chance of winning. It was a short hole, and his iron shot landed directly on the green. He strode down the fairway, happily weighing the possibilities of getting a birdie. But his heart sank when he reached the green and found that his ball had rolled into a small paper bag discarded by someone in the gallery. He couldn't hit the ball as it lay, and if he removed it from the bag it would cost him a penalty stroke he could ill afford. He studied for a moment, then reached into his pocket, took out a book of matches and lit the bag. When it had burned into ashes, he addressed his ball and sank the putt—amidst a deafening roar from the crowd.

You can side dress corn with low pressure nitrogen solutions using an inexpensive rig of your own design. According to the agricultural engineering department at Purdue University, a barrel of the liquid nitrogen connected to a hose run down behind a shovel in the row center will do the job.

Don't argue with this baby!

All Chevrolet's competitors and most of the high-priced cars tried it recently in official NASCAR* trials—and took a licking!

Meet the champ! The new Chevrolet "Turbo-Fire V8"—the most modern V8 on the road today. Here's what happened—

Daytona Beach. NASCAR Acceleration Tests Over Measured Mile From Standing Start. Chevrolet captured the 4 top positions in its class! 8 of the first 11! And on a time basis Chevrolet beat every high-priced car, too—but one! But wait!—this is just the beginning!

Daytona Beach. NASCAR Straightaway Running. Open to cars delivered in Florida for $2,500 or less. Chevrolet captured the first two places, 7 out of the first 11 places!

Daytona Beach. NASCAR 2-Way Straightaway Running Over Measured Mile. Open to cars from 250 to 299 cu. in. displacement. Chevrolet captured 3 of the first 5 places!

Columbia, S. C. NASCAR 100-Mile Race on half-mile track. Very tight turns. Chevrolet finished first!

Fayetteville, N. C. NASCAR Late Model Event. Chevrolet again finished first. Because of even tighter turns the driver chose to run the entire 150 laps in second gear! Yet no overheating or pit stops!

These facts you can't laugh off. Sales leader. Road leader. A crowning achievement of Chevrolet and General Motors. Try a Chevrolet... and live in a land of going-away where you win all the arguments! Soon, maybe?

The Greatest Dangers

(Editorial: The American Rifleman, June, 1955)

We of the National Rifle Association of America believe in the right of the people to keep and to bear arms. We believe that firearms, lawfully owned and lawfully used, have a place as important as ever in our American way of life—for recreation, for the protection of our home, for the defense of our nation. We believe that the basic principles enunciated by our forefathers in support of the Second Amendment to our Constitution are as valid in this year 1955 as they were in 1789. We believe that only by eternal vigilance can those rights be protected and our nation remain free.

This year has seen the law-making bodies of 46 states, and the United States Congress, meet in regular session. Never has our vigilance been more needed nor more sorely tried. Since the first of January, 300 bills have been introduced and considered that, in some degree, affected the ownership and use of private firearms. Some were good; some were flagrant infringements of the rights of free and law-abiding citizens; while the vast majority were ill-conceived, poorly drawn, and often of questionable intent.

From whence comes this almost annual, pitched battle to preserve our American heritage? Who are those who would infringe these sacred rights, and what are they trying to do?

Ironically, most of these individuals are sincere, conscientious citizens like ourselves. Frequently they are dedicated people with an end in view that, to them, appears to mean better law enforcement, fewer crimes, fewer accidents, fewer illegal hunters. Those who have supported the 11 firearms registration bills this year, have in most cases done so under the impression that registration would do no harm and might possibly help catch a criminal. Those who have favored the more than 50 bills designed to ease the job of the law-enforcement officer have argued that the end justifies the means and that no sacrifice by the law-abiding citizen is too great if more criminals can be brought into court.

Those who earnestly favor the prohibition of this or that type of firearm who proposed the 73 measures that, little by little, would restrict the right to purchase, the right to use, the right to transport from place to place or the right to own a firearm, in many cases, consider themselves modern and progressive, under the circumstance or that—doing what is best for people in a modern society that doesn't really need guns any more.

The eternal vigilance by which we earn our liberty must, therefore, also be a vigilance against complacency against the tendency to believe that harm cannot come from men of good will, and that honorable intentions are enough in themselves. Here lies the greatest danger. In the words of U. S. Supreme Court Justice, the late Louis D. Brandeis:

"Men born to freedom are naturally alert to repel invasion of their liberty by evil-minded rulers. The greatest dangers to liberty lurk in insidious encroachment by men of zeal, well-meaning, but without understanding."

The job of the National Rifle Association of America would be easier if all anti-gun laws were proposed by those who meant us harm. There would be thousands of allies ready to spring to our support, ready to bring to bear the overwhelming pressure of public opinion. Since this is not so, we must accept the fact that our danger lies not in men essentially different from ourselves but in ideas different from ours, in experience that lacks an understanding of us and our objectives, and in knowledge that is incomplete.

It is becoming a far greater challenge with the passage of the years, the growth of population, the rapid trend toward urbanization, the mounting crime rate, the problems of some of our youth.

We can expect more and more well-meaning "men of zeal" to seek means to cure the world's ills with poorly conceived legislation. We must prepare ourselves to counter bad ideas with good ideas. We must meet good intentions with proven results, incomplete knowledge with education. We must stand ready to advise when called upon—even to the extent of encouraging an invitation to do so.

It is not enough to fight anti-firearms laws when the legislatures meet, as we have just successfully done once again.

If we are to avoid "the greatest dangers" we must have understanding of the things our Association stands for. It must be the job of everyone of us to seek that understanding and to promote it in our communities, our recreation programs, our schools; to our legislators, our law-enforcement agencies, and our conservation departments.

Only by so doing will we preserve from infringement the right of a free and loyal people to keep and to bear arms.

Those who were guests at the Martha Welch home last Sunday were Mrs. Welch's sister, Mrs. Mary Johnson of Churubusco, who was 80 years young on Sunday, the 5th; Mr. and Mrs. J. V. Johnson and son Steve of Ft. Wayne, Mrs. Carl Johnson of Churubusco, Mr. and Mrs. Philip Blue and daughter Jackie, and Mr. and Mrs. Oral Welch of Mentone.

Ordinarily, anything that is whispered or shouted isn't worth listening to.

Farm Bureau Pays Many Taxes

The Indiana Farm Bureau Co-operative Association paid more than four million dollars in taxes for the year 1954, according to Marvin J. Briggs, general manager. Briggs made this statement in answer to the question, do farm cooperatives pay taxes?

"This corporation paid $4,313,524 in Federal, state and local taxes in 1954," said Briggs.

He listed the kinds of taxes and amounts paid by the cooperative as follows: Indiana gasoline tax $2,467,671; Federal gasoline tax $1,261,737; property and intangible taxes $252,730; gross income tax $157,149; social security and unemployment, state and Federal $95,698; Federal pipeline tax $19,828; Indiana fuel inspection $52,758; Indiana oil production tax $5,953.

All cooperative enterprises pay taxes, Briggs emphasized. The only kind of tax that some business corporations pay but cooperatives are not required to pay is Federal corporation income tax. Cooperatives do not pay Federal income tax, he said, because under the ruling of the U. S. Treasury Department, they are not deemed to have a net income.

A tip from the poultry department at Purdue University says to keep poultry drinking fountains in the shade during hot weather. Chickens don't expect ice cold drinks, but water exposed to the sun can get hot so rapidly that even a chicken will not touch it. Build a portable shade for the water pan. The waterer can rest on a wire covered platform to which the covering shade is permanently attached. The shade should be large enough to keep the water out of the sun all day.

Determining Forage Moisture Content

Lafayette, Ind. — One of the most common problems encountered in making grass silage of good quality is determining the percentage of moisture, says G. A. Williams, Purdue University extension dairyman. When the moisture content is above 65 percent, seepage flow usually starts, which reduces the feeding value and is undesirable in the feed lot.

The Bureau of Dairy Industry reports a simple method which can be used very effectively. The test consists of compressing chopped forage tightly into a small ball between the hands for 20-30 seconds and then releasing the pressure suddenly. Condition of the ball and the corresponding moisture levels are as follows:

When the ball holds its shape and there is considerable free juices—75 per cent moisture.

When the ball holds its shape but there is very little free juice—70-75 per cent.

When the ball falls apart slowly and there is no free juice—60-70 per cent.

When the ball falls apart rapidly—below 60 per cent.

A tip from the horticulture department at Purdue University says a corn cob or sawdust mulch between the rows of vegetables or flowers will conserve June moisture for July growth.

4-H Club Chatter

By Ruth Snellenberger

Dear 4-H Members and Friends,
Did you ever hear someone say "Let me show you how to do it?"

That is just another way of saying "Let me demonstrate to you how to do it."

With that thought in mind 4-H members might consider what they know how to do to show others how to do. Thus, too, when some member asks for a suggestion as to what to demonstrate, I often ask what she knows how to do well that she would like to show others how to do.

In local clubs, the demonstrations may be very informal and simple. For example a second division food preparation member might stand before her club members with whatever supplies she needs and tell the others that she likes sandwiches with enough filling in them so that it can be seen as well as tasted. While telling about this she might show how she prepares the bread before putting on the filling, how much filling she puts on, and perhaps how she cuts the sandwich for easy eating. Depending on how it's served she might tell some varieties of fillings as well as care needed to keep the sandwich from drying out before serving. She would tell how and show how as she does it. It is just that simple.

For the county contest a little more formal organization of a demonstration is expected.

A member should begin by giving her name, telling what club she's from, and perhaps how old she is as well as how many years she has been in 4-H club work.

Following this, the member gives the introduction to her demonstration, stating the title and explaining why she chose this topic to demonstrate. A clever title arouses interest in an audience and serves to get their attention.

The main body of the demonstration then, is the actual telling showing, and doing. Only one main idea should be stressed with three or four sub-points to be emphasized. Posters or charts might be used to further emphasize these. Because demonstrations are a method of teaching, approved practices should be shown and accurate information given.

For the summary, a brief but impressive review is given of this main idea shown along with the three or four (might even be only two) sub-points.

In addition to a well organized demonstration, the demonstrator should be neat, appear to enjoy "showing how," have a natural expression and use good English;

the demonstrator should have her equipment well arranged so what she was showing could be easily seen. Then, too, the reaction of the audience is noted: Could one go home and carry out the idea shown?

Next week, I plan to discuss the county junior and senior demonstration contests.

Summer Prune Bramble Bushes

Lafayette, Ind.—Brambles—including red, black, and purple raspberries and blackberries—should be summer pruned to give maximum growth and top performance, says W. B. Ward, Purdue extension horticulturist. Newly formed canes in all but the red varieties should be topped when they reach a height of 24-28 inches, and old canes should be removed immediately after harvest.

Topping—removal of the terminal bud—causes lateral of side growth for next year's crop. To top brambles properly, several prunings will be necessary during the months of May or early June.

Old canes must be removed after harvest and, according to Ward, the sooner the better for the plant. Cutting and burning the canes is also a preventive measure in the control of insects and diseases.

Fewer Cultivations Scheduled for Corn

Lafayette, Ind.—How many times should corn be cultivated? There's no rule of thumb to follow, according to M. O. Pence, Purdue University agronomist. He says the number of cultivations necessary will vary with soil type, kind of season, seed bed preparation, kind and number of weeds, pre-cultivation practices, and the timeliness of operations. In actual practice each farmer as often as he thinks profitable or until corn is too tall.

More than half of the 3,500 Indiana farmers who enter the Five Acre Corn Contest each year cultivate once or not more than twice. This is in sharp contrast to the practices of farmers 20 years ago, when 90 percent of farmers cultivated corn more than two times. These figures show that, one the average, farmers are cultivating corn about half as many times as they did 20 years ago. Despite fewer cultivations, yields have continued to increase.

Pence says that there are a number of reasons for fewer cultivations today: (1) Farmers have more power and equipment that can prepare better seed beds and destroy more weeds before planting. (2) More use is being made of the rotary hoe or spike tooth harrow when the corn is small. (3) Row-fertilized corn grows faster, giving less time for extra cultivations. (4) Weeds are being controlled by other practices, such as heavier corn population, better fertilization, and chemical spraying.

Although the main benefit of cultivation is weed control, cultivation also improves soil aeration and increases water intake on tight, heavy soils. Once weeds are under control and the soil is friable, further cultivation is of little value.

Tomato Disease Controls Given

Lafayette, Ind.—Tomato disease in the home garden can be controlled if home gardeners follow suggestions of R. W. Samson, Purdue University, plant pathologist. Some 20 or more distinct diseases can be found at one time or another on tomatoes in Indiana. Many are of minor importance while some cannot yet be satisfactorily controlled. However, some of the most destructive diseases can be prevented or controlled.

One of these is the soil-borne Fusarium wilt disease, which can be licked, Samson says, by planting highly wilt resistant varieties in the first place. Kokomo, Homestead No. 2, Jefferson and Sunray have developed to withstand onslaughts of the disease. The highly resistant varieties are equal if not superior in quality to other varieties, so should be used if wilt is thought to be present in a soil.

The pathologist says special chemicals must be used to control tomato leaf blights and fruit rots. Maneb, Zineb, Captan, and All-Purpose sprays or dusts are fungicides suggested for good control. All trade containers carry good directions for use of these materials.

Three tablespoonfuls of any of the above mentioned materials in concentrated form in a gallon of water makes sufficient spray mix for one application on 100 row-feet of almost full-grown tomatoes. A small one and a half or two gallon compressed air sprayer works nicely for applying the spray.

Best time to begin a preventive dusting or spraying campaign is six weeks after setting out the plants. Weather conditions will determine to a great extent how long to continue treatment. Fungicides should be present on the plants ahead of dew and rains to be most effective. Once-a-week application for five weeks

Sincere Thanks

The publishers wish to thank the many readers for the splendid response in subscribing to the newspaper.

As usual, one often thinks of something that should have been said long after it should have been said. We were aware that errors would creep in while working over a mailing list of over 1,500 names and addresses. If we have failed to give proper credit to any subscriber, we'd appreciate being so informed and the error will be corrected. If you should hear of anyone that has paid for a subscription yet failed to get placed on our mailing list, kindly advise them to get in touch with us.

Also, we will continue to print a number of extra copies each week, to give to those who may have been missed or slightly tardy in subscribing.

Scrub Our City "Map"

We have been informed that a group of individuals interested in locating a factory in Mentone are expected shortly, and our informant wondered if it might be a good idea to dress up our city in every way possible. One suggestion was to clean up a few of the stray weeds along our curbs, sidewalks, etc. And, of course, keep the lawn well manicured.

Mentone Reading Club Meets

The May meeting of the Mentone Reading Club was held at the home of Mrs. F. B. Davison. Assisting hostess was Mrs. Walter Kent.

A pot luck supper was enjoyed by the group.

Following the business session the programs were distributed. The retiring president, Mrs. Chester Miller, installed the new officers for the coming year.

Mrs. Dan Urschel had charge of the program which was Religious Education. She had set a fine mood for her program by playing religious recordings during the supper hour. She gave many fine thoughts for teaching a child about God and religion. Then to each member she gave a book which in some way could be used in teaching religion and the Bible to children. Each one was given a few minutes to examine the book and then tell in a few words how it could be used to teach a child. All of these books are available at our public library, and we were surprised at the wealth of material at hand.

Mrs. Orpha Blue, of Martinsville, was a guest. She had been a long time member of the reading club during the time she lived in Mentone.

Tuesday Meeting For Psi Iota Xi

Tuesday evening fifteen members of Psi Iota Xi Sorority met at Peterson's Lunch for our regular business meeting. Mrs. Cecil Long and Mrs. Forrest Miner were hostesses.

Also a membership and a cards and flowers committee was appointed.

The new officers are working on the installation program of the Warsaw chapter.

Our next meeting will be held at Mrs. Dale Cook's on June 21st. Mrs. Dale Cook received the door prize.

An accompanying letter signed by each of the district committeemen in Indiana will go along with the fishing license, as well as an invitation for the president to make use of the license.

Miss Blue's finances for the trip were made available through a benefit fish fry held at North Webster several months ago.

Mrs. Irene Gerard and Mrs. Mary Dickinson, of the "Queen of Lakes" committee, will accompany Miss Blue on the trip along with her friend, Miss Martha Creighton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hobart Creighton, of near Warsaw.

They will be accompanied as far as Indianapolis by J. Homer Shoop and Earl Himes, festival officials, arriving there at ap-

On Saturday, June 25, Miss Blue will preside over the annual Mermaid Ball at Tippecanoe Gardens, Tippecanoe Lake; and on Friday evening, July 1, she will ride through North Webster before the Mermaid Parade viewers in a silver and blue especially prepared "Queen of the Lakes" float. Bryan-Wilson Wedding

Mr. and Mrs. Elson Reid Wilson, following their marriage on Sunday at the Mentone Methodist church, are on a wedding trip to Paradise Valley lodge at Pocoma Mountain, Pa. They will reside at their farm west of Pierceton on Road 30.

Rev. David Gosser, of Ligonier, former pastor of the Mentone church, officiated at the double-ring ceremony. White Gladioli sprays marked the pews at aisles leading to the altar which was decorated with baskets of gladioli, ferns, palms and candelabra.

Miss Sue Henderson, organist, and Miss Shirley McConnell, vocalist, presented a musicale. Selections included "I Love You Truly," "Through the Years," "Always," "With This Ring," and "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of imported lace. A calla lily collar joined a sheer yoke on the fitted bodice which was designed with long fitted sleeves. The floor-length skirt was adorned with tiers of lace. Her finger tip veil of imported silk illusion edged in lace was attached to a half-hat of matching lace and tulle embroidered with seed pearls. Lilies of the valley were knotted in the ribbons showering from her bouquet of pink roses. Pearl tear-drop earrings, a gift of the bridegroom, were her only jewels.

Miss Barbara Long, Mentone, the maid of honor, wore a gown of iridescent aqua taffeta, styled with fine tucks and scoop neckline in the long torso bodice over a waltz-length circular skirt. A bustle bow added interest to the waistline. A tiny hat of flowers and veiling completed her ensemble.

Gowns identical to that of the honor attendant were worn by the bridesmaids, Miss Dixie Linn, Mentone, Miss Cynthia Wilson, Pierceton; Miss Susan Houde, Bluffton; and Miss Christine Cappock, Converse.

The flower girls, Jennie and Sherry Bryan, sisters of the bride, wore frocks of white organdy over aqua taffeta and carried baskets of aqua daisies. Jimmy Bryan, brother of the bride who carried

Tips on Touring

By Carol Lane

Women's Travel Authority

What would you do if you suddenly got 15 days of extra vacation from business or homemaking? Chances are you'd motor to some enticing spot for a special holiday.

Well, you can start planning now, because in 1955 you'll get those 15 extra days — not in a single stretch, but in five three-day week-ends. The better you plan them, the better they'll be. I've found I get the greatest pleasure and the most valuable experience from a long week-end by taking a "Tourette." It's fun to plan and fun to do. It's just a well-planned, budgeted week-end trip within a 200 mile radius of your hometown. To plan a "Tourette," locate your hometown on a state or sectional road map. Then, using the mileage scale, measure off a piece of string representing 200 miles. Tack one end of the string to your hometown and, with a pencil on the other end, draw a circle on the map. Inside this circle is your "Tourette" exploration area. A 200 mile trip provides a comfortable driving distance and leaves plenty of time for sightseeing and motor meandering along the way.

Memorial Day on Monday, May 30, will offer you your first three-day week-end. Why not use it for a camping or fishing trip to some state or national park within that 200-mile radius? Monday, July 4, provides the next long week-end and a chance to recall the idea of freedom for all sorts and conditions of men by visiting communities that still retain the flavor of their origins—Amish settlements, or villages settled by Germans, Swedes and others.

Why not spend Labor Day on Monday, September 5, and the two preceding days getting a first-hand look at our nation's history by going to nearby historical shrines, landmarks or museums? You'll find it pleasant and quite worth while to spend part of your Armistice Day week-end dropping in on zoos, farms and fish hatcheries. Christmas falls on Sunday this year so you'll probably have the previous Friday or the following Monday off. There's no better way to avail yourself of this special season than to visit relatives or close friends.

'CALAMITY JANE,' the Federal Civil Defense Administration's rescue truck, packs a wallop from debris. The $9,000 truck contains 300 pieces more potent than its namesake's six-shooters of rescue equipment of 99 different types. (FCDA Photo)

Find Rescue Truck Helpful in Peacetime

"Calamity Jane" rides again—not galloping out of the West, but riding on rubber tires to disaster scenes throughout the United States.

Packing such "weapons" as portable generators, powerful pumps and portable cutting gear, the Federal Civil Defense Administration's "Calamity Jane" rescue truck also differs from its colorful namesake in rescuing casualties instead of creating them. Both, however, could take care of themselves.

In rural areas especially, beyond city water lines and with no electricity, the truck's built-in versatility has saved the lives of many victims in buildings razed by tornado or blast. Its equipment has also been found useful by fire departments in getting at persons trapped in burning buildings.

More than 350 of these remarkably self-contained vehicles have already been delivered to Civil Defense agencies in all parts of the country, and many more are being ordered.

They are used by the FCDA Rescue school at Olney, Md., and in local CD agencies in training eight-man crews to use the truck's 300 items of 99 different kinds of rescue equipment.

Among the major disasters where "Calamity Janes" played an important part were the tornado-struck cities of Flint, Mich. and Worcester, Mass., and in Chestertown, Md., following a disastrous explosion.

Equipment and training of the truck and its civil defense-trained crew were brought into effective action after an explosion in South Philadelphia last year.

The fire chief in charge reported that debris buckets, shovels, portable cutting gear, hydraulic jacks and the truck's 15,000-lb. capacity winch were immediately put in service as firemen and their CD auxiliaries cut and dug their way in rubble to free victims.

The 140-horsepower truck can race to a disaster scene at up to 60 miles per hour. Once on the scene, the body of the truck opens up on three sides for quick access to tools, and the interior can be used as a two-stretcher ambulance if necessary.

Bought through FCDA, the truck and all its equipment costs about $9,000, and may be purchased on a Federal matching fund basis by local Civil Defense organizations for half that price. Otherwise it would cost $13,500.

A partial listing of the tools includes:

Portable generator, chain and circular saws, blankets, stretchers, first aid belt, cooking stove, gas masks, helmets, goggles, pumps, cutters, pliers, hammers, wrenches, ladders, axes, oxygen-acetylene cutting outfit, picks, shovels, jacks, levers, block and tackle, rope, winch, rubber boots and raincoats.

The pictures were taken by the Zekan & Robbins photographers, Harlan, Iowa, and are all of farms in the Mentone trading area. The pictures are not identified and it will be up to the owners or neighbors to notify this newspaper office. The pictures were taken by airplane and not even the photographer knows one from the other. It will be interesting to see who is the first to identify the pictures each week. Phone Mentone 38. We will endeavor to publish the names of each person correctly identifying the pictures each week.

The farm owner will be given the original 5 x 7 mounted picture absolutely free of any cost. All we require is that the operator himself come to our office and give us a little information about the farm, its operation, etc. Additional prints, colored enlargements, etc. can be obtained by contacting this newspaper.

Owners Report Two Farm

Two farm owners, whose farms were pictured in recent issues, have called to pick up their free pictures and give us a little information about the farm and the family.

The picture printed in our June 1 issue was the 126-acre farm of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Kendall, located one mile west and one mile north of Mentone. The Kendalls have resided on the farm for the past six and one-half years.

The Kendalls have two children: Dorothy, 15, at home, and Jean Ann (Mrs. Raymond Rouch) of Indianapolis.

The Kendalls have two children, raising of swine in addition to doing general farming.

The farm pictured in our last issue is owned by Verl and Fawn Taylor and is located three miles southeast of Palestine. They have been on the farm for 14 years. General farming is in order on the 130-acre farm.

The Taylors have three children: Mrs. Clarabell Long of Mentone, Herschel Taylor of Disko and Dale Taylor who is in the Air Force at Dayton, Ohio. They also have five grandchildren.

Farm Operators Need Soc. Security Records

Now is the time for farm operators hiring farm workers to start setting up their social security records, according to the social security office in Elkhart.

Small farm operators, with a total yearly payroll of $2,500.00 or less will not need to make any social security reports until after the end of the year. However, their record keeping should begin with the day on which the first worker is hired.

For these records, the farmer should get each worker's name and number from the worker's social security card and should keep an accurate record of all cash wages paid to each worker and the amount of social security tax withheld. This year, a farm hand will be covered by social security as soon as he is paid $100.00 in cash by the same farmer.

Farm operators who have hired help and who do not have employer identification numbers should get in touch with the local internal revenue office or the social security office immediately.

New Grain Varieties At Purdue Field Day

Lafayette, Ind.—Four new small grain varieties developed by the Purdue University Agricultural Experiment Station and the U. S. Department of Agriculture will be named and shown in field plots at the Purdue Agronomy Farm field day, 7 miles northwest of Lafayette, Indiana, along U. S. highway 52 on June 21, 1955. Farmers and seedsmen will hear the breeders discuss the development of the new varieties and the merits and performance of the new varieties in Indiana.

Seed of the new soft red winter wheats will be distributed to Indiana Certified Seed Growers for seeding in the fall of 1955.

One new wheat is resistant to hessian fly and can serve as a dual purpose wheat. It produces well when grown for grain and may be seeded before the hessian fly free date in the fall for pastures or forage production. The other variety is a short, early maturing wheat with some characteristics which excell those of the Knox variety released in 1953.

The two new spring oat varieties are best adapted to central and northern Indiana. One is a Benton type oat with added crown rust resistance. The other is outstanding in straw strength, test weight and yielding ability and is resistant to race 7 and related races of stem rust to which Clintland, Clinton 59 and Benton are susceptible. Seed of the new varieties will be distributed to Indiana Certified seed growers for seeding in the spring of 1956.

The field day features 32 different topics in tours, demonstrations and discussions from 8:30 a. m. to 4:00 p. m. daylight saving time, June 21, 1955.

Warning Given For Leafhopper Damage

Lafayette, Ind.—"Leafhoppers are a serious threat to second and third cuttings of alfalfa hay," warns M. C. Wilson, Purdue University entomologist. "They usually cut yields by a fourth to a third ton per acre, and in dry years, as much as half a ton per acre will be destroyed. In addition, leafhopper-damaged alfalfa is lower in protein and carotene content, and is more likely to winter-kill."

Because they don't overwinter in the Midwest, leafhoppers are not a serious problem in the first cutting. Each spring they migrate north from the Gulf States becoming abundant in late May. They multiply rapidly and build up numbers that do serious damage to the second and third cuttings.

Fortunately, leafhoppers can be controlled. Spray the crop with three pints of 25 percent methoxychlor emulsion in 10 to 15 gallons of water per acre. Apply the insecticide when the new growth is two or three inches tall.

"If you plan to use your weed sprayer to apply the methoxychlor," cautions Wilson, "be sure to clean it thoroughly with ammonia solution. If any traces of weed killer remain, the alfalfa will be damaged severely."

4-H Girls to Appear on TV

on his Farms and Farming program. She will demonstrate "Milk in 3-D" as a feature for the theme of June as dairy month.

Sharon and Karen Helgway of Beaver Dam will be guests on the Farms and Farming program on Friday, June 17, at 12:15 p. m. They will sing, "Let The Sun Shine In," which was their participation number in the county Share-The-Fun Festival contest. Having been named alternate winner, they participated in the district contest.

4-H Club Chatter

By Ruth Snellenberger

Dear 4-H Members and Friends

Through individual, team, or group demonstrations 4-H members gain experience in talking and appearing before a group. Through several years of club work participating in this activity they gain poise in appearing before others, learn to organize their thinking for presenting the demonstration, and learn to arrange needed equipment wisely.

Each girl in club work gives a demonstration in her local club. Whether she does it alone or with others depends somewhat on her. For first year members leaders have found a group demonstration helpful, especially in clubs where there are several first year girls in the same project.

To do a group demonstration, the leader or a junior leader decides to show how to do something that would have several teaching steps. For example, in baking a plain butter cake, the leader might ask one little girl to show what to do to prepare the pan, another to show how to sift the flour and then measure it correctly and so forth. This group demonstration lessens the fear some have of getting up before a group as well as acquaints the members with an informal and a less time-consuming demonstration.

Participation in the county contest is limited to two per club in the junior contest to be held Friday, July 8, and three per club for the Senior contest to be held on Wednesday, July 6. Registration cards will be sent to the leaders for return to the county extension office by July 1.

The Junior Contest is a county event for 4-H girls 13 years of age anytime during the year and younger. Group ribbon placings are made and a champion and reserve champion are selected. There are no money prizes but the champion usually has an opportunity to repeat her demonstration at Woman's Camp and at the County Fair.

The Senior Contest is a state event for 4-H girls 14 years of age any time during the year who are enrolled in the third year or more of club work. Group ribbon placings are made and a champion and reserve champion represents Kosciusko County in the district contest at Wabash, on July 14. Should she win championship or reserve there she becomes eligible to participate in the state contest during the state fair. The state winner receives a trip to National 4-H Club Congress.

For girls whose demonstration rate a blue ribbon group placing in the county Senior Contest and whose subject falls into one of six categories, there is an opportunity to participate in a special district demonstration contest on Friday, July 15. Subsequently winners there may participate in the special state demonstration contest during the State fair.

The six special demonstration categories are: Baking, Dairy Foods, Raw or Frozen Vegetables, Canned Vegetables, Cherry Pie Baking, and Electric. It is hoped Kosciusko County will have entries in each of these categories. If there are any questions about these I'd be glad to try to answer them.

Bridal Shower for Miss Pat Starr

A miscellaneous bridal shower was given in honor of Miss Pat Starr on Friday evening, June 10, at the home of Miss Jackie Blue.

A "This Is Your Life" booklet was given to Pat after each guest had made a page for it. An apron autographed by each guest to be embroidered by her mother was also presented to her.

Delicious refreshments of fruit salad, individual cakes and coffee were served to the following ladies: Mrs. Dana Starr, Mrs. Philip Blue, Mrs. Rodney Gible, Mrs. Neil McKinney, Mrs. Floyd Nicodemus, Mrs. Quentin Lantz, Mrs. Burdell Blackburn, Velma Coplen, Barbara King, Donna Coplen, and Martha Creighton.

Pat received many lovely gifts. Those who sent gifts but were unable to attend were Mrs. Charles Waltz and Dixie Linn.

Now More Social Security Benefits

Families of individuals who died before September 1, 1950, may be eligible for monthly social security insurance payments now, according to Gerald Kelter, district social security manager. This provision of the 1954 amendments to the Social Security Act, Kelter said, applies if the worker died after July 1, 1940, and before September 1, 1950, even though the family's original claim for survivors benefits was denied.

Recent changes make it possible to provide an insured status under the law in such cases if the worker had at least six quarters of coverage at the time of his death. This special provision, however, will affect only monthly benefit claims, Kelter added. Survivors who might qualify for these monthly payments are widows who are 65 or older, children who are not yet 18, and, in case the worker left no widow or children, parents who were receiving at least one-half of their support from the deceased when he died.

Kelter urges anyone who feels this provision may affect him to get in touch with the district social security office at 222 Equity Bldg., in Elkhart.

New business: Demonstration contests will be held in July and we are going to go for a half day to watch them.

Ruth told us the requirements for the judging and demonstration contests.

Chevrolet's special hill-flatteners!

162 H.P. V8

180 H.P. V8

See that fine fat mountain yonder?

You can iron it out, flat as a flounder . . . and easy as whistling!

Just point one of Chevrolet's special hill-flatteners at it (either the 162-h.p. "Turbo-Fire V8" or the 180-h.p. "Super Turbo-Fire") . . . and pull the trigger!

Barr-r-r-r-o-o-o-OOM! Mister, you got you a flat mountain!

. . . At least it feels flat. For here are engines that sing as sweetly as a dynamo . . . built to pour out a torrent of pure, vibrationless power. Big-bore V8's with the shortest stroke in the industry.

So most of the time they loaf. Even at the speed limit they just dream along, purring out a fraction of their strength.

An engineer can understand why they are so hyper-efficient. But you don't have to be an engineer to know that these are the sweetest running V8's you ever piloted. Just come in and try one out!

*Optional at extra cost.

Recommendations for Better Grass Silage

Lafayette, Ind.—Now is a good time to consider ways and means of improving the quality of grass silage for the coming season, says G. A. Williams, Purdue extension dairyman.

Many Hoosier dairymen have fed grass silage during the last few months and have no doubt encountered conditions which have presented problems. To eliminate the most common difficulty, that of objectional odor, the crop should be wilted to remove some of the moisture or a conditioner such as sodium metabisulphite, ground grain, molasses or other suitable material may be added. If no conditioner is used and wilting is not practiced the moisture content should not be above 67 percent.

Four factors contributing to moldy silage include ensiling forage that is too dry and mature when cut, not cutting forage fine enough, poor packing in the silo, and an improperly constructed silo that does not allow uniform settling or is impervious to air.

Williams points out that ensiling only preserves what is ensiled, it does not improve it. Therefore, if forage is badly weathered, contains coarse stem weedy forage, or is too mature and dry when harvested, it will be impossible to produce high quality silage.

The Canada thistle law, which was revised by the legislature two years ago, requires that Canada thistles must be destroyed by cutting, plowing or cultivating, smothering, or by spraying with chemicals in the bud stage or earlier, so as to prevent any Canada thistles from maturing at any time. The botany and plant pathology department at Purdue University says, spraying with 2,4-D, to prevent seed formation, is considered in compliance with the law. 2,4-D will not produce a complete kill of thistles, but will retard their growth.

"Wolves" Always Are on the Move

Many motorists on the road everyday fall prey to hold-up men. In spite of warning news stories, the list of victims grows longer each day.

Main reason is carelessness. Chas. M. Hayes, president of the Chicago Motor Club pointed out as he warned drivers that it can happen to them unless certain precautions are taken to guard against it.

"Motorists should be aware that they can easily fall victim to robbery," Hayes said, "unless they keep a few rules in mind. Alertness may keep a driver not only from losing money in an auto, but may save his life."

Hayes offered motorists these suggestions:

1. Pace your driving so that you reach an intersection just about when the light turns green. This eliminates a stop and can easily be done at night when traffic is light.
2. Use your rear view mirror to decide if someone is following you too diligently. Call the police if you have cause for alarm.
3. Don't take short-cuts at night through unfamiliar areas—remain on well-traveled streets.
4. Keep doors locked and windows rolled high so that no one can leap into your car when you have to stop, especially at intersections.

5. Never pick up hitchhikers. Remember that two out of every five thumbs begging for a ride are on file with the Federal Bureau of Investigation. And remember you can't judge character by appearance.

6. Avoid traffic disputes for they can lead to assault as well as robbery.

More Seats Available For Celebration

Arrangements have been made with Earl Boggs, Harrison township trustee, to use the portable bleachers from the Mentone gym at the "Fourth of July" celebration. These bleachers will provide approximately 500 additional seats for spectators.

Persons planning to attend the celebration are reminded that it will be held on Saturday, July 2, rather than Monday, July 4th at the Mentone ball park. The program, which starts at 5:00 p. m., includes childrens' contests, a band concert, a baseball game, and a big display of fireworks. More details concerning the program appear in the ad contained in this issue.

The annual celebration, which resumes this year after a two year interruption, is sponsored by the Mentone Lions Club and is financed by the proceeds from the sales at the eats stand operated at the gala affair and a free will collection.

She told of the world health program, religious program, agriculture, technical assistance, Unicef and Unesco carried on by the United Nations. It is a fairly young organization as far as world organizations are concerned and it is much better to live in a world where problems can be settled by discussions rather than by war, according to Mrs. Rudduck.

Mrs. Milton Persons led in prayer at the opening of the meeting. Mrs. F. B. Davison, the president, made a few announcements and welcomed the guests. Mrs. Rosa Kinsey led in devotions.

The next meeting will be a picnic in the church basement, July 28 at 6:30.

Imagine That!

Averages and statistics not only present themselves in automobile accidents, baseball and income taxes, but now, even hotel guests are being compiled on what is called an "average" scale.

The Travel Bureau of the Chicago Motor Club today released these interesting facts concerning the "average" hotel guest for which it handles reservations. The "average" guest is a thirty-five-year-old businessman. Usually he travels 400 miles or more to reach the hotel and arrives on a Monday. In coming and outgoing telephone calls number around 10. Also during his stay, the average guest has his shoes shined, clothes and laundry done once.

Meals are a big item in a hotel guest's schedule. For breakfast, he'll probably have juice, bacon and eggs, toast and coffee; for lunch, a meat and potatoe course, a tossed green salad, ice cream and coffee. Roast beef—medium to rare—and apple pie round out his day's bill of fare.

The visiting guest usually checks out on Thursday or Friday, leaving the key, 9 out of 10 times, with the hotel. Ten per cent of the time he forgets his toilet articles, and once in every 20 times pajamas are left behind.

4-H Club Chatter

By Ruth Snellenberger

Dear 4-H Members and Friends,
How many ways to accurately measure shortening for baked products do you know? Three different ways were demonstrated at a 4-H club meeting which I attended recently.

The first method, called the "brick method" by this 4-H girl, was using a quarter pound wrapped portion of butter or margarine when recipes call for one-half cup shortening. It is an accurate measure, takes no time (except to unwrap), and no equipment is needed.

The second method which was called the "direct method" was measuring the fat, or shortening directly into a measuring cup of the size for quantity needed. For example if one-half cup were needed, use the one-half cup measure. For this the fat would need to be at room temperature in order to pack it well into the measuring cup to eliminate any air.

The third method was the water method. By this a measuring cup is filled with water and then the amount poured out that equals the quantity of fat desired. Fat is put into the remaining water until the water comes to the full mark of the measuring cup. Be sure all of the fat is under the water. By this method the fat equals the amount of water poured off. For example, if one-half cup of fat is desired, fill a cup full of water then pour out half of it (start with one-half cup if desired); put in fat until the water comes to the full mark. Pour off the water and the fat remaining is one-half cup.

This last method is described in the baking I project bulletin. The water method is helpful if the various sizes of measuring cups are not available.

Mothers attending this meeting stated they had learned right along with the girls. You may be sure, I was thrilled to see originality shown in organizing such a demonstration, the first of its kind that I had seen. So much for demonstrations right now.

The 4-H Public Speaking contest is another opportunity for boys and girls to speak before groups, collect and organize factual information, and to gain poise appearing before others. Members who have passed their fourteenth birthday on January 1, 1955, but have not reached their twenty-first birthday on that date are eligible. One boy and one girl may represent Kosciusko County in the state contest during the State Fair. Each will receive gold-filled medals of honor.

Any 4-H member who wishes to participate is requested to inform the County Extension Office by July 1st. If there are more than one boy and one girl to enter, a county contest will need to be scheduled.

A reminder is made to 4-H home economics adult and junior leaders of a joint meeting of both groups on Wednesday night, June 29, at the Woman's Building on the Fairgrounds at Warsaw. It is a very important meeting regarding fair plans, dress revue plans, and preparing 4-H achievement records.

A tip from the dairy department at Purdue University says that dairy calves less than six months of age will usually make better gains if kept in a clean well ventilated stall than if turned on pasture. Calves at this age have limited stomach capacities and can not utilize grass as well as they can hay and concentrates.

Breed Beef Cattle For Spring Calves

May, June and July are the best months of the year to breed beef cows, according to Henry Mayo, animal husbandryman at Purdue University.

Cows bred during those months will produce calves early in the year that are large and strong enough to utilize the extra milk and grass when the pastures are at their best. These calves can also be dehorned and castrated at less than two months of age and before fly time with only a minimum set back.

During 1954, a Lawrence county farmer, Ollie Hodges, produced 26 calves from 26 cows. The average calving date was February 4 and the 26 calves average 566 pounds by October 1. The cows had about 60 acres of improved pasture in a rolling area not adapted for row crop farming. The calves had no grain, only good pasture and their mother's milk in a very dry year.

According to Mayo, the efficient production and utilization of pastures and roughages is basic to the success of the beef cattle industry. Tests have shown that at least a 95 percent calf crop should be produced each year to assure the greatest net returns.

A beef bull that has the three following characteristics is of the utmost importance: can breed and settle 20 to 30 cows in a month's time, if necessary; will sire calves that gain rapidly; and will produce calves with the maximum amount of natural muscling and red meat.

Safeguards Against Poor Quality Lumber

A belief among many Midwestern farmers that a black fence post is synonymous with an effectively treated post is resulting in financial losses for many farmers.

Many of the black fence posts are legitimately treated and provide long life. But farmers' tremendous demands for fence posts during the past several years have opened up a new field for the unscrupulous operator who sells posts that resemble well-treated posts only in appearance, shape, and the fact that they, too, were cut from trees.

As an inspection for quality, many farmers insist on cutting the post in two to see the depth to which the dark colored treating solution has penetrated.

Even this is no sure-fire test of good treatment. Posts have been sold that were black clear through — but were treated by soaking in a dark oil that had little or no preservative value.

However, there are several safeguards by which a farmer can protect himself, especially since the new, light colored pentapressure treated posts are appearing in large quantities. Farmers are obtaining these pentapressure treated posts but want to be sure that they have been treated properly.

By buying from a local dealer and watching for the manufacturer's identification on posts, poles and lumber, the farmer is on much surer ground than when judging by color, odor, cut posts or price. He can safely take advantage of the clean, easy-to-handle posts and poles that are being pressure treated with modern preservatives.

The fire department was called to the Mrs. Elmore Fenstermaker home Wednesday, when a trash fire began threatening a utility pole.

Smut Disease Found In Wheat

Loose smut disease of wheat is occurring in considerable quantity in Indiana this season, according to botanists and plant pathologists at Purdue University.

This disease can be identified by the presence of powdery black spore masses in place of the normal heads. The loss to the crop caused by loose smut is directly proportional to the percent of smutted heads in a field. A number of fields in Indiana will have losses of their potential yield up to five percent with occasional fields higher as a result of loose smut infection.

Even more important than the current loss is the possibility of increased loss next year as a result of using seed from infected fields. Loose smut infection for next year's crop occurs at flowering time this year and the disease is then carried inside the seed. This diseased seed cannot be distinguished from normal seed.

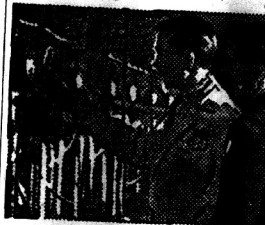

Because of internal infection, seed treating chemicals used for other diseases will not control loose smut. The only effective control measure is a hot water treatment which is difficult to apply successfully without damage to the seed with the facilities available on most farms.

The best control practice is to plant seed only from fields known to have been low in smut.

Flite-Fuel

FROM THE SKYWAYS TO THE HIGHWAYS

FOR MILITARY USE Phillips originated new super-power aviation fuel components—DI-isopropyl (pronounced di-to-pro-pull) and NF Alkylate. These made possible more powerful, higher anti-knock fuels for combat aircraft.

RESTRICTED for use in high performance aviation gasoline, these powerful components have for years been on U.S. Government priority. But now restrictions have been relaxed and Phillips is able to use them in automotive gasoline.

TODAY, DI-isopropyl is available to motorists exclusively in a new gasoline called Phillips 66 Flite-Fuel. It gives increased power, greater fuel economy, higher anti-knock quality, freedom from stalling... and it's clean-burning!

War Mothers Have Guest Night

Mothers of World War II, Unit 106, met at the school house on Monday evening, June 13, for their annual family and guest night, with a pot luck supper and entertainment. The meeting was called to order by the president, Mildred Fawley. Following the presentation of the flag, the pledging of allegiance and singing our National Anthem, prayer was given by the chaplain. Nineteen members and 31 guests were present. Each member introduced her guests. The secretary's report was read and approved and communications were read. The picnic for District Two is to be held Thursday, June 30th at the Star City Memorial Court. This is a basket dinner and white elephant sale. We discussed going to Fort Wayne to the Veterans' hospital in July. It was voted we help send a Rochester child (a polio victim) to camp. Blanch Paulus is in charge of this. Rhoda Jones gave her birthday offering, Jane Jefferies her 9-month donation, Maude Romine her 3 month donation; Bernice Rush her 3 month donation. She also sold one household hint book. The meeting was closed by giving the Mothers' Creed, singing one verse of "God Bless America" and prayer by the chaplain. The next meeting will be with Mary Barkman on July 11th. The entertainment given at the close of the meeting included an address of welcome by Doris Norris, Beverly Horn pantomimed two numbers, Maude Romine and Janet gave a skit; and Tid Bybee played several numbers on the piano. This was enjoyed by all.

Country Neighbors Club Meets

The Country Neighbors club observed Guest Day at the Earl Zent home with Mrs. George Craig as co-hostess. The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. Joe Peterson. "America the Beautiful" was sung by the ladies and the pledge to the flag and club creed were repeated.

The meditation was given by Mrs. Arlean Walters, reading John 17:1-5, also an article entitled "God the Father." The Scripture and article were in keeping with Fathers Day and proved very interesting.

The history of the Song of the Month was read by Mrs. Robert Hoover. The safety lesson, "Poison Around the Home" was presented by Mrs. Howard Chamberlin.

As it was Guest Day, the roll call was answered by each one introducing her guest and telling how they first met.

After a short business meeting the program was turned over to the program committee, Mrs. Allen Herendeen and Mrs. John Teel. Mrs. Herendeen then introduced Mr. Hoskins, manager of the Anderson green house, of Warsaw. Mr. Hoskins then gave a most interesting demonstration on flower arrangements and corsage making. Some of the flower arrangements and corsages were distributed among those present.

Secret Pal gifts were received by Mrs. Arlean Walters, Mrs. John Teel and Mrs. Howard Chamberlin. A contest prize went to Mrs. Roy Maxwell. The door prize was awarded to Mrs. Mildred Goodman.

In Baking—1st, Sandra Polk of Burket; 2nd, Judy Stouffer of Pierceton; 3rd, Dorothy Thompson of Claypool; and 4th, Charlotte Steiner of Monroe Township. Ribbons for group placings will be awarded at a joint meeting of 4-H home economics adult and junior leaders on Wednesday evening, June 29, at the Woman's Building on the fairgrounds at Warsaw. To be presented are 29 blue ribbons, 51 red ribbons and 12 white ribbons.

Cull Cows Increase Dairyman's Problems

Lafayette, Ind.—High production per cow is the dairyman's most effective tool to ease the ever-tightening group of the cost-price squeeze felt by so many dairy farmers today, according to G. A. Williams, Purdue extension dairyman.

In a comparison between the five highest producing herds with the five lowest producing herds in each of five different DHIA units, Williams found that production per cow averaged 12,478 pounds of milk for the better herds but only 7,391 lbs.

of milk for those of the low-producing herds.

Although feed cost per cow was $48 more in the high producing herds, the income above feed cost was $169 above that received from the low income herds. Thus, each additional dollar's worth of feed marketed through the 25 high-producing herds returned $3.50 in increased income over the cost of feed.

Williams declared that 10 to 25 percent of the "shy" or irregular breeders, cows infected with mastitis or those incapable of converting feeds into milk with a high degree of efficiency, should be culled.

If a rigid culling program had been carried out in the herds with low production, a considerable part of the difference in the two groups could have been eliminated.

Since milk prices are likely to be at the low point for the year and pastures at their peak of production, now is the time to eliminate the loafers, the dairyman said. Any cow that is not likely to produce at least 5,000 pounds of milk in ten months is a labor wasting unit on any dairy farm. Cull now! An empty stall may be a money maker.

Farmers who failed to get sod waterways established with a permanent type of grass, seeding such as timothy, redbud, fescue, bluegrass or other suitable grasses, can still shape them and make a temporary seeding that will hold until late, summer or early fall. Agricultural engineers at Purdue recommend that the farmers broadcast corn, sudan grass or sorghum as they would ordinary grasses.

The pictures were taken by the Zekan & Robbins photographers, Harlan, Iowa, and are all of farms in the Mentone trading area. The pictures are not identified and it will be up to the owners or neighbors to notify this newspaper office. The pictures were taken by airplane and not even the photographer knows one from the other. It will be interesting to see who is the first to identify the pictures each week. Phone Mentone 33. We will endeavor to publish the names of each person correctly identifying the pictures each week.

The farm owner will be given the original 5 x 7 mounted picture absolutely free of any cost. All we require is that the operator himself come to our office and give us a little information about the farm, its operation, etc. Additional prints, colored enlargements, etc. can be obtained by contacting this newspaper.

Stored Grain Insect Controls Are Listed

Weevils and other insect pests rob Hoosier farmers of nearly three million dollars in stored grain each year.

Purdue University Entomologists say that 1955 will be no exception to this insect problem in stored grain. Weevils, grain moths, bran beetles and other pests feed on the grain and quickly reduce the weight, milling quality, germination and feeding value of the grain.

The entomologists advise farmers to clean-up storage places for the wheat, oats and other grains which will be harvested and stored soon.

In Indiana, nearly all insect infestations of stored grain come from contaminated storages. Clean-up, therefore, is the key to successful control. Old grain should be removed and storage places should be swept out and sprayed with DDT, advise the entomologists. In addition to bins, all other parts of the buildings where grain residues collect, including spaces behind bin linings and between partitions, should be cleaned and sprayed.

For all necessary information on safeguarding stored grain against insects, farmers may obtain copies of Extension Leaflet 224 on "Control of Stored Grain Insects on the Farm" or Mimeo

E-66 on the same topic. Information in this publication and mimeograph tells farmers what to do about old grain, how much DDT to use in cleaning bins, and how to fumigate. For a free copy of one or both, see the county extension agent or write to the agricultural publications office at Purdue University.

Crop Tours On Tuesday, June 28

A tour of the oats, wheat, and barley demonstration plots in Kosciusko County will be held Tuesday, June 28, County Agent Paul Jackson announced today. The tour will start at the Roy Little farm on state road 15, two miles north of Silver Lake, at 9:30 A. M. At these plots eight varieties of wheat and thirteen fertilization applications will be studied. The varieties include Butler, Experimental 399, Fairfield, Knox, Saline, Seneca, Vigo, and a new fly resistant variety planted side by side and fertilized at the same rate. The fertilizer demonstration includes applications of 160, 310 and 410 pounds of 4-16-16 applied at planting time, nitrogen top dressed on October 8, and both ammonium nitrate and liquid nitrogen top dressed on March 15. Most of the top dressing was done at the rate of 25 pounds of actual nitrogen, but for comparative purposes one plot received 50 pounds of actual nitrogen as a spring top dressing.

The second stop on the tour will be made at the oats plots on the Horace Kimes farm two mi. north and one mile east of Claypool. Benton, Clinton 59, Clintland, Clintaft, Columbia, Jacksoh, Mo. 0-205, and Sauk will be seen in the variety comparison plots. These plots were seeded on April 7 with 300 pounds per acre of 10-10-10 fertilizer. In the oats fertilizer trials two strips received no fertilizer. Four strips received 0-20-20 at the rate of 350 lbs. per acre. One of the heavily fertilized strips received no nitrogen; one received nitrogen at the rate of 9 pounds per acre; another at the rate of 18 lbs. of nitrogen per acre; and a third at the rate of 36 pounds of nitrogen.

Third stop on the tour will be at Don Watkin's one mile east of Leesburg on the country club road. It is hoped that weather conditions will be such that the barley plots there can be combined. The barley plots include the Kenbar, Michigan Winter, Hudson, and Wong varieties. Because of its early maturity fly resistant wheat was also included with the barley plots.

Gilbert Walker, extension agronomist from Purdue, will be on the tour to discuss varieties and fertilization methods and answer questions.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Cromer, and their two children: Wanda and Randy of Saratoga, Indiana, stopped for a brief visit with Rev. Persons and his family on Sunday afternoon, June 12. The Cromer's were received into the Saratoga Methodist Church during Rev. Persons' ministry there several years ago.

Perennial Vegetables Need Excellent Care

Asparagus and rubarb, two early spring perennial vegetables should have the best of care after the harvest is over if a good yield is expected for another year, according to W. B. Ward, Purdue University extension horticulturist.

The spring harvest is the result of the plant foods stored in the roots and crown of the plant. Feeding the plant during June will stimulate leaf growth which in turn will manufacture the food balance necessary for a plentiful supply of large, tender stalks.

Many plantings are ruined because the harvest period is too long and not enough food is manufactured.

The use of fertilizer at the rate of six to eight pounds per 100 square feet of 10-10-10 or similar analysis will be of great benefit to the plant. The application should be worked into the soil, Ward said.

When rainfall is lacking, a good watering of the soil once each week during the balance of the season will work wonders.

The tops should not be cut back until the following spring and then either removed or worked into the soil.

Additional information on asparagus and rhubarb may be secured by writing to the agricultural publications office at Purdue University for mimeograph bulletin HO125, "Rhubarb

Wheat Farmers To Vote June 25

Indianapolis, June 20.—Every eligible wheat farmer in the state is urged by Hassil E. Schenck, president of the 123,000-member Indiana Farm Bureau, to go to the local polling place Saturday, June 25, and vote his sentiments on marketing quotas for the 1956 crop. Any producer who will have more than 15 acres of wheat in 1956 is eligible to vote. While the national total will determine the outcome, Indiana's vote will make its impact in direct proportion.

A two-thirds vote for quotas will put the program in force in next year's marketing, with allotments held at 55 million acres and the support price at 76 percent of parity of $1.81 per bushel. If two-thirds vote fails, it is probable that the total allotment will be about the minimum 55 million acres and supports at 50 percent of parity. Under marketing quotas, failure to comply invokes a penalty of $1.13 per bushel for excess production.

The local voting will be done in places to be designated by the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee. Notices have gone out to all those eligible to vote Saturday, naming the time and place for the polling. In counties where there are fewer than 100 voters eligible, the election can be county-wide. In areas where there are more, townships will hold elections.

In stressing the urgency of casting a vote on this issue, President Schenck said: "To make democracy work, there must be wide spread acceptance of the responsibility to vote on such vital issues as this."

Party for Rev.
Persons and Family

By Betty Kinzie

A grand time was had by one and all as the Methodist Church of Mentone held its "Welcome Party" for the Rev. Persons and family.

Reception was held in the church basement, Thursday, June 22 at 7:30 p. m.

Mr. Raymond Cooper, of our local establishment acted as host in introducing and welcoming the Persons' to the church and town.

Upon viewing the congregation while the program was being presented it is sincerely felt each person greatly enjoyed and appreciated the efforts of our committee in getting together material for so fine a reception.

Although gratitude and thanks be given each one taking part a special word of thanks should be given Mrs. F. B. Davison, President of the W. S. C. S. in making this such an interesting and enjoyable evening.

The welcome started with a procession sided by children holding candles while Mrs. R. Cooper followed Rev. Persons, his family and guest, Sharon Eastman walked through the arch to the front.

This was followed by hymn singing, devotions led by Mrs. Walter Lackey and prayer led by Mrs. Rosa Kinsey.

Miss Sarah Urschel read a very amusing short. After which Mr. Albert Henderson, Jr. presented his version of one of our more popular piano artists. Miss Rita Olson also played a piano selection.

A panel consisting of Gene Marshal, Bess Manwaring, Ralph Mollenhour, Elizabeth Blue and Bob Hoover were most amusing as they guessed secrets of Mary Tridle, Dr. F. B. Davison, Elener Manwaring and Denton Abbey.

A most delightful array of various cakes and ice cream was served by our hostesses; Mary Utter, Dorothy Herendeen, Jenny McGowen, and Alice Mollen-hour.

Jackie Blue Returns From White House Visit

Miss Jackie Blue, of Mentone, returned last Thursday from a trip to Washington, D. C. where she went as a representative of the North Webster Mermaid Festival and the resort interests of the area. While in Washington she was "shown the city" by Congressman Halleck and party, visited the White House where a string of 25 choice bluegills and a non-resident fishing license was given to President Eisenhower. One of his secretaries accepted the gifts and welcomed the party.

Miss Blue was given the honors of the good-will tour because she was chosen queen of the Mermaid Festival last year.

Miss Blue has the poise and personality to do a splendid job as a representative of the area, and there is no question but that she has focused the attention of thousands of people upon Mentone and Kosciusko county. She was interviewed on both the Fort Wayne and South Bend TV stations and her picture and the story of the journey appeared in many newspapers, including the Chicago Tribune in our area.

Jackie is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Blue, of Mentone.

To Tour Large Farm Units

Lafayette, Ind.—Top-notch hog operations and large scale crop units will be witnessed at two outstanding central Ind. farms on the State Farm Management Tour, Wednesday, July 27, says A. M. Nichter, Purdue University farm management specialist and secretary of the Indiana Farm Management Association.

First stop on the tour, which begins at 9 a. m. (DST), will be the 235-acre Ralph. Sullivan farm three miles south of Delphi in Carroll County, Sullivan and his son Robert confine their livestock activities to the raising of hogs and broilers. Their cropping program is limited to corn and meadow with 215 of the 235-acre farm planted to corn this year and most of this acreage seeded between the rows with orchard grass, ladino and alfalfa. Fertilizer is applied at the rate of 200 pounds in the row and 200 pounds of 0-20-20 band seeded. The first year no nitrogen was used, the second year 60 pounds to the acre of nitrogen was applied and application since has been 100 lbs. to the acre of nitrogen. The 1954 corn crop (185 acres) yielded 85 bushels per acre.

Before moving to his present farm Sullivan was in the hatchery business in Camden from 1935-1948. Therefore, he remodeled the barn for use in a 7,500 capacity broiler business. Up to and including 1963, Sullivan bred and raised his own pigs. In 1954 and again this year he bought feeder pigs instead of raising his own. Feeder pigs weighed 37 pounds each in 1954. In the spring of 1955 his 977 feeders pigs averaged 60 pounds each. Feeder pigs purchased in March will be ready for late June or early July market at about 220 pounds each. Sullivan plans his swine operation to include 900 feeder pigs each spring and 300 feeder pigs each fall for a total yearly operation of 1,200 which he feels his corn acreage is sufficient to handle. Sullivans wife Elizabeth and daughter Ann (a senior in Delphi high school) complete the family.

During a two-hour noon break, those on the tour will travel 25 miles over a paved highway (Ind. road 39) to the Clinton County Fairgrounds in Frankfort where lunch will be served. No speeches are scheduled for the noon program.

During the afternoon, farmers will have an opportunity to visit the farm of Mark and William Congleton, a father and son farm operation 4 and one half miles southwest of Frankfort.

The 316 acres of crop land is operated in a rotation of three to five years of corn, followed by oats and clover. Hogs comprise the chief livestock enterprise with 85 crossbred brood sows raising about 700 pigs twice a year. Other stock includes 10 cows are sold for breeding stock. ewes and 12 pure bred Pole-Shorthorn cows. Offsprings of the

Mark Congleton is a native of Champaign County Illinois, coming to his present farm with his parents in 1899. His wife, the former Lula Gray, his daughter-in-law, the former Erma Laughner, and his grandson Mike complete the family.

This year's crop operation includes 188 acres for corn, 50 acres of oats and 67 acres of clover for a total of 305 acres from the 316 acre farm.

Fertilization of the corn crop included the application of 150 pounds of 60 percent potash and 100 pounds of 45 percent phosphate plowed down, plus 100 pounds of 11-48-0 in the row. In addition, 80 to 120 pounds of nitrogen in the form of anhydrous ammonia was applied per acre.

Fertilization of the oats consisted of an application of an analysis of 200 pounds of 13-39-0 per acre.

Farmers will also have an opportunity to hear next year's economic outlook during an evening banquet at St. Joan of Arc church in Kokomo on July 26. The general outlook situation will be discussed by Dr. L. S. Hardin, acting head of the agricultural economics department at Purdue.

Farmers desiring tickets for the outlook banquet and the tour luncheon should see their county agent or write Purdue University agricultural economics department. Arrangements for the banquet and over night facilities are being made by the Howard County Farm Management Association.

Rate-Of-Gain Bull Project Announced

Lafayette, Ind.—Hoosier cattlemen put the final touches on plans for the 1955-56 "Rate-of-Gain" bull project at a recent session in Greencastle.

The project, introduced in Indiana in 1953, is sponsored to supply owners of commercial cow herds with better bulls that will sire faster-gaining and more profitable feeder calves.

The annual program is sponsored by various state cattle associations, such as the Springfield Feeder Auction Association, through the cooperation of the Purdue University agricultural extension service.

The different breeds, Hereford, Angus and Shorthorn, will be represented with approximately 13 bulls each consigned to the project.

All bulls must have been calved either in January or February this year and must either be polled or dehorned and vaccinated for blackleg before the project starts.

A health chart on each bull entered will be required for the first time in the 1955-56 project. The bulls must be tested for tuberculosis, Johnnes and bangs disease within thirty days prior to the start of the project.

The bulls will be weighed and started on the project September 24 at the Spaine Armstrong farm, southeast of Bedford. Armstrong will feed the bulls on rations of corn silage and Purdue Supplement "A" until March 31, 1956 when they will be sold at auction at Springfield.

Hoosier purebred breeders who desire to consign a bull to this year's project should contact either Henry Mayo, extension animal husbandman at Purdue University, John Armstrong, Lawrence county agent at Bedford, or various breed association officers, for additional information.

In addition to Mayo and Armstrong, the following men attended the session at Greencastle: Rush Armstrong, Springfield; Dick Kinsinger, Cambridge City; Tom Richardson, Danville; Gale Maurer, Connorsville; Carl Scott, Yorkstown; Dr. Joe Green, state veterinarian; and Dr. Fred Hall Purdue extension veterinarian.

High Dairy Levels Can Be Maintained

Lafayette, Ind.—High levels in dairy production during July, August and September can be maintained if better feeding and management practices are followed, according to G. A. Williams, extension dairyman at Purdue University.

Monthly reports of Indiana DHIA supervisors indicate that production per cow during May and June for each of the past five years was higher than any other 61 consecutive-day period, during that time. Income above feed per cow exceeded other periods of equal length since feed costs are at an all-year low in May and June.

The five year average of the cows tested in the DHIA units was 903 pounds in May and 843 pounds in June, or a decline of 6.6 percent in one month. The downward trend continued until November when production per cow stood at 625 pounds for the lowest monthly average of the year. Income per cow fell from from $25.73, the five year average in May, to $17.25, the November average.

Even though a part of this decrease resulted from an increase in the number of dry cows, production levels could have been maintained if better feeding and management practices had been followed, Williams said. He suggested the following points to maintain high milk production, the key to increased income, during the summer and early fall: Provide each cow with at least 150 pounds of grass or its equivalent in the form of hay or silage each day.

Provide pure fresh water at least twice daily. It should be easily accessible so cows will not be required to walk a long distance, especially during the hottest part of the day.

Either natural or artificially constructed shade should be available in fields used for daytime grazing.

Use a fly repellent. When protection from flies is not provided, cows are more restless and spend more time moving from place to place.

Allow each cow a dry period of six to eight weeks with plenty of good grass.

Allow free access to a mixture consisting of 100 pounds trace mineralized salt and 200 pounds of steamed bone meal. Also add three pounds of this mixture to every 100 pounds of grain.

Insect Controls Aid Garden Crops

Lafayette, Ind.—"How big a bite the insects will take from the home garden this year will depend on how well the gardener has controlled the pests," says W. B. Ward, extension horticulturist at Purdue University.

Entomologists at Purdue have kept a jump ahead of the bugs by recommending various available materials for either dusting or spraying. But it is up to the gardener to see that such materials are timely and thoroughly applied to prevent and damage to the plant.

Leaves that are full of holes cannot function properly and will result in reduced yields and a low quality product unless remedial measures are used.

A bugless and healthy garden should be the aim of all homemakers with no vegetables or fruits being planted and cultivated for the benefit of the pests.

4-H Club Chatter

By Ruth Snellenberger

Dear 4-H Members and Friends,
Some suggestions for Food Preparation project members I'd like to give today.

For centerpiece arrangements there are a variety of flowers now blooming. If, however, one has not wild daisies, red clover, wild baby's breath, or Queen Anne's lace could be used.

Beverages should be well appreciated by any family with summer now here. Members in division one should have no problem in finding an occasion to prepare lemonade, limeade, fruit punch, or milk drinks using a variety of flavorings.

With picnics popular for many division two members should find many opportunities for preparing salads and sandwiches which are a part of their requirements.

Members enrolled in division three should try new ways of preparing vegetables as well as different vegetables from those usually done. Instead of creamed peas try cabbage with cheese sauce in one suggestion. Both are "creamed" dishes.

For two different cooking methods in preparing poultry for division four, try at least one different one than your family usually uses. Try barbequed chicken or french fried chicken for a change.

Meals planned for both divisions four and five should show some thought. Plan and serve a variety of vegetables such as spinach, Swiss chard, broccoli, cauliflower scalloped cabbage, and so forth. These introduce a leafy vegetable which is so often lacking according to what I observed when grading record books last year.

For division five-B, members are encouraged to consult current magazines for ideas for cook-outs. Broiled or aluminum foil wrapped foods for cooking are popular for many families.

The party for division five-D a member should discuss with her leader for it should be more than a casual affair. Certainly to serve potato chips and coke would show no preparation!!!! They're good, but not for the occasion for which this requirement is intended. Serve dainty sandwiches and a party beverage to guests who are especially invited. Some form of entertainment will need to be arranged for the occasion probably. Let's have it be a real party

Married Recently

Miss Carol Ann Spurlock became the bride of Lyle Kent Vandermark in an impressive double ring ceremony Saturday, June 18, at the Church of Christ at Mentone.

Leslie Grant, pastor, read the wedding vows before an altar beautifully decorated with pink and white peonies, palms and candelabra and the pews were tied with white ribbons. There were 250 guests present.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ira Spurlock of R. 2, Rochester, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Elgie Vandermark of Talma.

The bridal music was sung by an all girl trio of North Manchester, and they sang, "Oh Promise Me," "I Love You Truly" and "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a gown made of crystaletta and tulle lace and styled with a sweetheart neckline, elbow length sleeves and waltz length skirt. She wore a white lace veil with a band of seed pearls holding it in place; also matching mitts and white slippers. She wore a corsage of red roses and wore a pearl necklace, a gift of the groom. Miss Janice Nickels, of Rochester, attended as maid of honor and she wore a blue crystaletta gown with a round neckline with white mitts and white slippers. She wore pink rosebuds in her hair and a pink rosebud corsage.

Don Dusenbury, Talma, served as best man and the ushers were: Jack Smalley, Mentone, and Ray Riley of Akron.

The bride's mother wore a yellow flowered silk dress with matching stole and white accessories and a pink rose corsage.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the Talma gym where a three-tiered wedding cake decorated with pink and white roses were served to the wedding guests and party by Mrs. Norma Shiver, Miss Marilyn Hoover and Miss Mary Jo Vandermark.

The bride is a 1955 graduate of the Akron high school and the groom is a 1955 graduate of the Talma high school.

Following a short honeymoon the young people are residing at the home of the bride's parents. For her going-away outfit the bride wore a pink taffeta dress with white accessories.

Out of town guests were from South Bend, Plymouth, Wolcottville, Lakeville, Bremen, Mishawaka, Leesburg, North Manchester, Warsaw and Kokomo.
